Railroad Commission Raises Texas Oil Proration Figure To 775,000 Barrels

ORDER REVISED UPWARD AFTER DAY'S HEARING

Operators Air Grievances At Schedules Under Original Plan

THREE OBJECTIONS

Gulf Coast Producers Register Loudest Plea For Full Output

AUSTIN, Aug. 25. (AP)—Revision of the state oil proration schedule to call for daily maximum production of approximately 775,000 barrels probably will be ordered by the state railroad commission at its hearing tomorrow, it was learned tonight.

The revision was necessitated by larger allotments to individual fields, particularly the Darst Creek field, where proration of approximately 44,000 barrels daily, instead of the former approximate 21,000 daily already has been allowed.

The new figure was 25,000 barrels more than the commission's former figures and will make production approximately equal to demand, rather than below demand. Present estimated production was 863,000 barrels.

L. D. Parker, chief supervisor for the oil and gas department of the railroad commission and R. R. Penn, chairman of the joint operators proration commission, were working on the revisions late tonight. A report will be made at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

AUSTIN, Aug. 25. (AP)—Grievances against the state-wide oil curtailment program ordered by the state railroad commission were aired by operators from all over Texas at a meeting of the commission today.

At the close of the session it appeared probable that the order would be put into effect Wednesday on schedule, placing the state maximum oil output at 750,000 barrels as compared to 863,000 barrels, the estimated output when the order was drawn up.

Pat M. Neff, chairman of the commission announced that any alterations in the general order made necessary by the hearings would be announced at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning when the hearing is resumed.

Three General Objections

Objections appeared to be grouped into these general classes: Those who believed that marginal wells—the small producers—should not be exempt from curtailment; those who have a market outlet for their oil and oppose any curtailment of present production, with the understanding that no expansion will be made; and finally those who oppose proration in any manner or form.

In the last classification only one protestant was registered—Elwood Fouts, attorney for J. S. Abercrombie and Harrison Oil company, gulf coast operators. Fouts denounced the entire proration program as an attempt to fix prices and told the commission it was "wasting time" in attempting to arrive at equitable production limits for each field.

Objectors to Wait

Fouts would not say, after the meeting, whether he planned to take the matter to the courts in the event the proration order hurt the wells of his client. He said they would wait until "we are stepped on."

The Gulf Production company, represented by Underwood Nazro, opposed all local committee reports which proposed that marginal wells be exempt, regardless of the methods by which it was to be determined when a well was marginal.

Coastal operators and the Laredo field representative, O. K. Killian, pictured their product as a unique oil which had a ready market, unaffected by or unaffecting the other oil produced in Texas, and contended that it should therefore be exempt from curtailment.

Pinching Ruinous

The Laredo and coastal operators also declared that their wells would

Texas And Pacific Files Application With I.C.C. To Build Panhandle Line

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. (AP)—The Texas & Pacific Northern Railway company, newly chartered and affiliated with the Texas & Pacific today applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to construct 333 miles of line from Big Spring north, far into the Panhandle.

The 232 miles of main line would run from Big Spring, on the Texas & Pacific, to Vega, directly west of Amarillo with branches of 46 and 55 miles respectively from the juncture of the sounth boundaries of Terry and Lynn counties to Lubbock and from Dimmitt to Amarillo.

The new road would traverse the plains country, one of the richest agricultural sections in the state. It would give residents of the Plains overnight service to El Paso, Fort Worth and Dallas without the necessity of a change.

Towns on Route

The proposed route touches Howard, Martin, Dawson, Lynn, Terry, Lubbock, Hockley, Lamb, Castro, Deaf Smith, Oldham, Potter and Randall counties. The main line would pass through Lamesa, Brownfield, Levelland, Littlefield, Dimmitt and Hereford.

Engineering parties already are locating the line and officials said they would be ready to start construction immediately after the Interstate Commerce commission gave its sanction. Action of the I. C. C. was expected in from 60 to 90 days.

Building of the road was estimated to take about two years. The application stated that the road expected to make traffic and financial arrangements with Texas & Pacific.

Need Pointed Out

The application contended the construction was required in order to enlarge and improve the transportation resources of "an important and growing section of the state of Texas; provide needed and competing carrier service in the area to be traversed and bring it

STERLING MUST BATTLE G. O. P.

Creager Promises Vigorous Campaign for Governor

DALLAS, Aug. 25. (AP)—Interest in Saturday's run-off Democratic primary had simmered down tonight to the questions of the total vote cast and the majorities of the several victorious candidates, particularly Ross S. Sterling of Houston, nominee for governor.

Sterling, wealthy publisher and chairman of Gov. Dan Moody's highway commission, defeated Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, former governor, and wife of former Gov. James E. Ferguson, Moody's arch enemy.

The vote already had exceeded the previous record of 834,442 and there was a probability it would pass 850,000. Sterling's majority may reach 100,000.

Republicans to Fight

R. B. Creager of Brownsville, Republican national committeeman, whose party selected its nominees in the first primary in July, today made his first comment on the result of Saturday's election. He said the Republicans would wage a vigorous campaign this fall and the results might be surprising.

"The Democratic party is so split its members cannot lie down in the same bed," Creager stated. The state has never elected a Republican governor since the reconstruction period but Creager and Dr. George C. Butte, G. O. P. gubernatorial nominee, had predicted a Republican victory in the event Mrs. Ferguson had been nominated.

"Farmer Jim" Ferguson remained silent and Democrats wondered whether the election had forever blasted his political chances and what were his plans for the future. They also looked ahead to the state convention at Galveston Sept. 9.

Other Races

James V. Allred, 31-year-old Wichita Falls attorney, was named attorney general, defeating the incumbent, Robert Lee Bobbitt. Pat M. Neff, chairman of the railroad commission and former governor, was renominated and Edgar E. Witt of Waco, state senate veteran, was named lieutenant governor.

Guinn Williams of Decatur was renominated to congress over B. D. Sartin of Wichita Falls, former Hoover Democrat leader.

The latest returns:

Governor, Sterling 468,341, Ferguson 376,975; lieutenant governor, Witt 415,647, Strong 352,289; attorney general, Allred 457,891; Bobbitt 331,116; railroad commissioner, Neff 446,539, Hatcher 328,178.

The tabulation accounted for 845,316 votes. Returns were from all counties but 95 of them had a few votes unreported.

J. E. McDonald of Waxahachie had a lead of more than 125,000 over his fellow member of the legislature, A. H. King of Throckmorton, in the contest for commissioner of agriculture. The vote was McDonald 430,893, King 300,220.

Charley Lockhart, formerly of Snyder, had 405,073 votes in the state treasurer's race to 348,271 for John E. Davis of Mesquite.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25. (AP)—The chamber of commerce of Nuevo Leon, asserting that the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill in the United States is threatening to ruin the cattle industry in northern Mexico, today requested President Ortiz Rubio to cancer Mexico's export tax on cattle.

MOODY GIVES PROGRAM FOR DROUTH RELIEF

Committee to Determine Policies at Meeting In Wichita

12 COUNTIES ASK AID

West Texans Predominate In Group Which Gathers Friday

Drouth relief measures for Texas farmers will be drafted at a meeting of the state's leading agriculturists, bankers and industrialists at a meeting in Wichita Falls Friday when a committee of 20 men will consider various plans to aid the stricken areas.

This announcement was made at Austin Monday afternoon by Gov. Dan Moody in discussing the call for the meeting here according to a special dispatch to The Record News. The conference probably will be held either at the chamber of commerce or at the courthouse. J. A. Kemp, named a member of the committee, probably will serve, although he is recovering from a recent illness.

The committee will work in cooperation with the national farm board, the American Red Cross and other relief organizations, The Associated Press said. Tentative plans call for lessening of the suffering through decreased rates of foodstuffs, livestock and feed and an increase in employment to care for farmers whose crops have been destroyed by the drouth.

Most of the drouth suffering is centered in the Panhandle plains and in West Texas.

Counties Asking Aid

Counties which have asked relief include Dickens, Jones, Cass, Callahan, Hall, Coleman, Brewster, Childress, Henderson, Cottle, Motley, and Foard.

Whether these counties, and others hit by the drouth, will need more than the emergency freight rates asked in communications to the governor's office will depend upon the findings of the committee.

An immediate survey of the stricken area will be started by the committee and work of outlining

Wichita Boy, National Gun Champ, Returns Today; C-C Plans Honors

Wichita Falls will greet its first national champion some time Tuesday, when Rufus A King Jr., winner of the grand American handicap at the national trapshooting meet at Dayton, Ohio, last Friday, returns here with his trophies. Young Mr. King is coming by automobile with his mother and father and brother, Charles.

Rufus, 14 years old and a graduate of Zundelowitz Junior high school last May, is the first boy ever to win the handicap in all the 31 years of its existence.

While a student in the junior high school here Rufus won the city singles tennis championship over a score of high school players, and placed in the district interscholastic meet.

Young King has only fired at 1,300 registered targets, beginning his trapshooting a little over a year ago at the Wichita Falls Gun club. The gun which he used in the contest was the same with which his father, oil operator, won the national singles and doubles trapshooting championship several years ago.

He is to be honor guest at the junior chamber of commerce luncheon Friday, Sept. 5, according to information given out by Wilburn Page, secretary of the chamber.

Rufus A. King Jr. of Wichita Falls, winner of the Grand American Handicap shooting title from a field of nearly 1,000 of the nation's crack shots, is shown above as he was borne from the traps by cheering throng which witnessed the match. Young King broke 24 of 25 targets in the shoot-off with three other contestants at Vandalia, Ohio. All of the men were more than 20 years older than the youngster. The picture above came to The Record News through the NEA service, which has broadcast the Wichita boy's picture to a great majority of the papers in the nation. He is wearing his Zundelowitz sweater.

FARMERS HEAR MARKET PLANS

Plans for Co-Op Branch In Wichita Launched

A crowd of about 200 persons, including farmers, chamber of commerce officials from this and other cities, and others interested in assisting in the profitable marketing of the cotton produced in this area met Monday night at the courthouse here with representatives of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association to take the first steps in establishing a branch office of the association here in order that farmers of the Wichita Falls area might have the advantages of the cooperatives close at hand.

J. L. Randel presided at the meeting, following which an initial membership was formed with 21 signing up to take part in the organization work in this district.

The principal speaker of the evening was B. S. Burgess, assistant to the director of organization work of the cotton cooperative association. Mr. Burgess gave an address in which he explained the work of the association, pointing out it was a non-profit organization intended solely for aid to the farmer in cutting down the costs of marketing his cotton. The speaker also outlined methods for forming a working unit of the association here, with the cooperation of farmers in all surrounding towns and farm communities.

Grady Shipp, secretary of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce, explained in an address the workings of the plan by which his organization guarantees $7,500, representing 3,000 bales of cotton at a maximum cost of $2.50 each for marketing, to the state cooperative offices in order to keep a district office at Ver-

POOL MEMBERS ELIGIBLE FOR BOARD'S HELP

Deplorable Conditions Due To Low Prices Brings About Plan

SLIDING SCALE MADE

Amount of Loans to Be Cut In Proportion to Gain Of Current Price

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. (AP)—The American Cotton Cooperative association moved today to aid the harassed farmer of the South by arranging through the federal farm board loans to state cooperatives of 90 per cent of the value of their cotton for the benefit of seasonal pool members.

With the explanation this step was taken in view of the "deplorable condition of the cotton farmer in the South because of the present low level of prices," E. F. Creekmore, general manager of the national cooperative, issued a statement through the board setting forth the details of the plan.

Pool Members Eligible

Seasonable pool members, who deposit their crop with a state cooperative under an agreement to take the average seasonal price for the grade and staple of their product, will be able to borrow 90 per cent of the current price, less actual operating costs of the loan system.

Optional pool members, whose cotton is handled by the state cooperatives under an agreement whereby the grower may order the sale of his product at a specified price, may borrow 80 per cent of the value of their cotton. If the price of cotton advances substantially the percentage of the loans will be scaled down on the theory that the amount the growers need for cash is lessened by the higher market.

Amount Unestimated

Discussing the plan, J. C. Stone, vice chairman of the federal farm board, said it was formulated on the assumption that cotton prices "could not go much lower," and probably would rise. It would be impossible at this time, he added, to estimate the money necessary to supply the demand for loans.

Creekmore's statement said "both the farm board and the management of the American Cotton Cooperative association feel that it is unwise to make a fixed advance on cotton regardless of market prices."

"It is believed," he added, "that on the present level of prices the amount which can now be advanced to Southern farmers on delivery of their cotton will enable a majority of them to take advantage of cooperative marketing and in that way receive the benefit of any future advance in price."

Kidnaper Captured After Two-Day Chase—Girl Returned Unharmed

ELKHORN, Wis., Aug. 25. (UP)—The demented farm hand who kidnaped 10-year-old Mary Jane Foster in Indiana, was captured near Lake Geneva, Wis., tonight. Mary Jane was with him, unharmed.

Claude Dellinger, 27, the farm hand whose unbalanced interest in psychology apparently caused him to believe that he loved the child, drove to the Southern Wisconsin lake resort region from the vicinity of Valparaiso in the dilapidated automobile into which he enticed the child Saturday night with offers of candy.

Deputy Al Exner brought Dellinger and Mary Jane to the jail here where the farm hand was held for Indiana authorities and Mary Jane was given food and clean clothing pending word from her father, Ernest Foster, wealthy Valparaiso farmer.

James Mulheran, Chicagoan driving through the resort region, noticed Dellinger and the girl in Dellinger's dilapidated automobile, remembered having read of the kidnaping, and called authorities in Lake Geneva.

Exner, a motorcycle traffic officer, came upon the car and tried to get Dellinger to surrender. Instead the latter attempted to flee. Exner chased him for 15 miles be-

Grand Jury Quizzes Stenographer Named in Payne's Confession

AMARILLO, Aug. 25. (AP)—After examining several witnesses, including Miss Verona Thompson, former secretary of A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney and confessed wife slayer, the Potter county grand jury recessed this afternoon without returning an indictment.

Subpoenas were issued for more than a dozen witnesses, and it was regarded likely that the investigation would continue until Wednesday or Thursday before an indictment would be returned. District Attorney E. W. Thomerson said the length of the investigation was a matter for the grand jury to decide.

The grand jury began its investigation about 1:30 p. m. after being instructed by Judge Henry S. Bishop that the Payne case should have first consideration. He referred to the case as "unusual" and said it should be disposed of as early as possible "for the benefit of all concerned."

Mrs. Payne was killed last June 12 when a bomb attached to the starter of her automobile exploded. A young son was crippled probably for life. After several weeks of investigation, Payne confessed the crime and gave as a motive his attachment for a young woman.

Moody Outlines Program Of Relief

relief measures will be started at once. Loans to farmers from private sources and from state and national agencies have been advanced as one of the means of relieving suffering.

Fuqua in Washington

W. H. Fuqua, Amarillo banker, who was named as the banker member of the committee, now is in Washington conferring with President Hoover and leading financiers of the country on relief measures.

Other members of the committee appointed today by Governor Moody are: L. M. Hogsett of Fort Worth, general freight agent of the Fort Worth & Denver railway; Dick McCarty of Albany; D. A. Bandeen of Stamford; J. M. Crews, of Childress; J. S. Silberg of the American Red Cross at Wichita Falls; L. M. Thompson of Throckmorton; C. A. Phillips of Paducah; E. B. Smith of Quanah; H. F. Fletcher of Alpine; A. M. Cooper of Baird; Andy Bourland of Vernon; Judge Edgar Gutchins of Crosbyton; Sim Oneal of Coleman; L. L. Harier of Linden; Fred Rennels of Crowell; J. K. Crews of Matador and J. A. Lacy of Turkey.

Governor Moody expressed satisfaction that President Hoover so promptly responded to his request that a portion of West Texas needing consideration should be included in the drouth relief program. Texas originally, he said, was not included in the states listed in Hoover's call for the Tuesday conference. After Moody requested consideration of West Texas, he was asked to name the state committee. This committee was completed by the Tuesday appointments, and it will have full charge of formulating recommendations and in working with the federal government, Governor Moody said.

Kiwanis Club To Sponsor Carnival

Announcement that the Kiwanis club here will bring a carnival to Wichita Falls, sponsoring the show in order to obtain means of meeting pressing obligations connected with the financing of Cannon park, recently donated to the city by the club, was made Monday night at the regular weekly meeting of the city council when Walter H. Caldwell, representing the service club, appeared before the council with a request that the city grant a permit for the carnival and remit the city tax on such amusements in view of the purpose for which the show is being brought.

The aldermen voted unanimously to omit the amusement tax. Mr. Caldwell said tentative plans call for the carnival to open here Sept. 8, with the probability that it will remain here a week. Several expense accounts incurred by the club for improvements at the park have fallen due, he said, and the carnival was selected as the best means of satisfying the obligations.

The aldermen passed on final reading the amendment to the ordinance recently enacted to govern miniature golf courses in the city, marking the last action of the council on these amusement games.

Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., Aldermen E. H. Eddleman, J. N. Prothro and J. M. Spoonts, City Manager George D. Fairtrace, City Clerk W. E. McBroom and City Attorney Thelbert Martin were present Monday night.

fore the machine stopped and Dellinger submitted to arrest.

Exner took Dellinger and the child then to Elkhorn. At the jail Dellinger begged to be allowed to kiss Mary Jane goodbye.

Officers shoved him into a cell without any goodbyes while motherly Mrs. James Mason, wife of the sheriff, took Mary Jane to her home and gave her the first substantial food she had eaten since Saturday.

When Mary Jane had consumed several hot biscuits and some meat along with two large glasses of milk, she told the sheriff's wife what had happened since she drove with Dellinger to an Indiana candy store to get some sweets and instead found herself kidnaped in Wisconsin.

"Claude was awful nice to me only he wouldn't let me talk to people and said he was sorry he could not go buy me any food. And I got so hungry," said Mary Jane.

"At night I slept in the car and Claude slept on the ground outside. In the day time we wandered around Lake Como watching the waves sparkle and things."

Dellinger and the child apparently had been in the lake region for two days and nights subsisting on berries and occasional candy bars Dellinger dared to purchase from isolated roadside stands.

to make a clean breast of the slaying and go to the electric chair. Repeatedly he has refused to accept legal assistance unless the attorneys will permit him to manage his own case and plead guilty. He has maintained he is sane.

Nevertheless, defense plans apparently have been set in motion by Payne's family. Homer Callaway, attorney employed by Sidney Payne, the slayer's brother, obtained a writ of habeas corpus to enable him to see Payne in the Hutchinson county jail at Stinnett and remove him to Amarillo. It has been indicated an insanity defense will be offered for Payne.

Payne was in the Potter county jail here tonight where he was brought after the habeas corpus writ was granted. Having had three weeks' seclusion in the Hutchinson county jail in which to think over his plight, Payne has not changed his mind about pleading guilty and accepting a death sentence.

"I have not changed my mind, and I'm not going to," he told a reporter for The Daily News in the only interview granted the press today.

"I know what I am doing," he said, "and nothing else has entered my mind. My only thought is to rush the indictment and trial as much as possible, and then the execution in order that my relatives may soon forget about it."

Payne talked in the presence of his brother, Sid Payne, Tulia dairy farmer, and Callaway. They offered no comment on the accused man's plans.

Payne was nervous and restless. He said he did not sleep well in the Potter county jail, which was filled to overflowing Sunday night. He shared his cell with 14 others, and there were only 12 bunks.

"One of the men offered me his bunk during the night sometime," Payne said, "but I could not rest."

"Loss of sleep has upset me. I am nervous, and worried for fear I may get sick or something and delay the trial. I certainly don't want to have a nervous breakdown now."

OIL PRORATION HEARING HELD

Operators Register Complaints at Plan

not stand pinching. Coastal representatives proposed as an alternative to pinching present producers, the plan of limiting development, on the theory that the natural decline of the fields without new wells would in 30 days place production on the coast at the figures desired, about 150,000 barrels daily.

Oil from these two fields, it was said, has a high content of ethyl of lead, the anti-knock element, and hence is in great demand. It was stated that should the coast area be cut to a point where the demand was not equaled, purchasers would go to California or Venezuela for oil of the same quality and that the end wished by other Texas operators, of forcing the buyers into Texas fields which are now neglected, would not be reached.

Two Oils Mixed

Enlarging this argument, they declared that to lower the output of coastal crude would actually lessen the demand for oil from other Texas fields, since the coastal crude is mixed with other Texas crude to obtain an oil with the ethyl content demanded by purchasers.

Just before the session was adjourned, W. S. Farrish of the Humble company made a plea for cooperation that brought a round of applause from the operators at the meeting. His talk was tinctured with shafts at the coastal operators as he declared he believed the gulf should make some contribution to the state-wide movement.

"The position of Humble," he said, "is that the only safe measure of operation is along the lines of restricted and orderly and scientific production. It is a theory which has been adopted over the world. Oklahoma has gone further than Texas. California has reduced to 100,000 barrels under demand, while Texas production has just about equaled consumption.

"The problem here seems to be whether the commission has authority to issue this order."

Eliminate Waste

"The question is not whether we are attempting to fix the price, it's whether we are going to let price fix production and lead us into indiscriminate, wasteful production. The gulf coast, which it has been said is operated so efficiently, was at one time the scene of the greatest waste in the United States, and that waste will come again if we allow price to govern production, and every operator here can sell all the oil he can get if he will sell below the market."

Although it was not taken up orally, a report was presented the commission from the Big Lake field on University of Texas land in Reagan county in West Texas. Hearing on this report has been postponed to an unannounced date.

Deep Well Problem

The report was made by Dave Donoghue, technical adviser for the operators proration committee, who had been sent there to investigate the feasibility of pinching in the deep wells.

Donoghue reported that the wells from the 2,400 and 3,000 feet levels were operated efficiently "but the great waste of gas from the 8,500 feet wells, (deepest in the world) call for immediate introduction of engineering principles so that this great natural resource will be preserved."

The great depth of the wells, although perhaps making abnormal conditions, "does not justify the continued production of oil with a gas-oil ratio of 10,000 to 15,000 cubic feet per barrel when a lower ratio might be obtained without harmful effects to the wells." Donoghue recommended that well 1-B be killed and the 125-pound control taken out and replaced with proper fitting "in order that the well might be efficiently operated." This was the only well, of the deep ones, which might be damaged, he said.

Doctors Save Man's Life When Forced to Choose Between Sexes

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25. (UP)—A sick young man's prior claim to a respiration machine in a local hospital and the subsequent death of a young woman whom doctors refused to substitute for the male patient aroused a heated controversy here today over "a double standard of death."

While many claimed that on account of her sex, the woman should have been saved, others contended the fact that he was five years younger and had been offered the advantages of the apparatus first entitled the man to the consideration, which meant life.

The tragic situation arose last Thursday when Irving S. Johnson, 25, and an athlete, was placed under the Drinker respirator in the Childrens hospital to force artificial air into a chest tortured by restrictions caused by infantile paralysis. A short time later Miss May McCulough, 30, suffering from respiratory paralysis, was also brought in critically ill.

The doctors faced the decision of removing Johnson, married and the father of a 14-month-old baby, and substituting Miss McCulough, unmarried.

The medical men hesitated, debated and finally reached the decision of keeping Johnson, whose life was felt to be assured under the "artificial lung."

Miss McCulough died a short time later in extreme agony.

To counteract the wave of criticism that arose in certain parts, the doctors declared they had taken into full consideration their belief that Johnson's recovery, under the machine, was a practical certainty, while it was not known whether the woman would live or not.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk by Judge Kay

"Set about some cultural improvement now, because the more you know, the more company you are to yourself," Judge John C. Kay told the members of the Kiwanis club at their regular luncheon Monday in an address in which he urged study of subjects foreign to the regular routine of business interests. To illustrate his point, Judge Kay discussed his own hobby, astronomy, pointing out the startling facts concerning our own world and the vast universe about it, to which men in the ordinary walks of life seldom give thought.

Dr. R. H. Peterson, president, introduced the speaker. Two musical numbers were presented by Miss Daisy Wharton of the violin faculty of the University of Wyoming. She was accompanied by Mrs. F. R. Collard. Tom Medders gave a report on the Kiwanis district convention to be held in Lubbock, Sept. 1 and 2. Guests at the luncheon were introduced by Dr. J. B. Nall.

Marlow to Spin Yarns Of Old Days in Wichita

J. B. Marlow will take members of the Ad club back to the days when Wichita Falls was just the end of the railroad at the regular weekly meeting Tuesday noon when he spins cowboy yarns. Maurice Cheek, who will be the other principal speaker, will talk on the present day and the future.

Mrs. R. E. Davis is in charge of the program, representing P. B. M. company and announces appropriate musical numbers, typical of the periods of the times mentioned.

The program will be broadcast by remote control over radio station KGKO.

A statement thanking Sterling leaders for their work in this district in the second primary, and F. W. Fischer, chairman of the Ferguson forces, for his pledge of support to the party's nominee, was issued here Monday by Judge R. E. Huff, chairman of the Sterling for Governor club.

Mr. Fischer issued a statement Sunday in which he thanked the voters for their support, and called on all support the party's nominee in the general election.

The statement from Judge Huff follows:

"I consider the nomination of Ross Sterling as a victory for those who believe in clean and honest government and the women of Texas were even a greater factor in his success than the business men who rallied to his standard.

"To Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, manager of the women's department of our club and her able assistants I tender my hearty thanks for their untiring efforts.

"I also thank the speakers who so unselfishly volunteered their services and spoke over so much of Western Texas from Montague county to Howard, and many counties in the Panhandle, and now that the campaign is over, I thank the leader of the Ferguson forces, F. W. Fischer, for his prompt assurance of the support of himself and friends in working for a great Democratic victory in November."

Biliousness Dangerous In Hot Weather

Don't take any chances with biliousness during this hot weather. For now is the time when it may lead to fever and chills. Folks who try to rely on candy, chewing gum, or syrup laxatives are just wasting time and running grave risks. What you need is Calotabs, the remedy that you know will remove the cause and stop the trouble before serious complications arise.

Calotabs never fail to purify the stomach and intestines. They are your best insurance against chills, fevers and other serious illness. Grace Methodist Foreign W. M. S. Opens Fall Season

Members of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Grace Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. I. W. Karrenbrock, 2204 Ninth street, Monday afternoon for the first fall meeting following a recess during the summer.

Mrs. Lank Thornberry, president, had charge of the meeting. Following an opening song and prayer, Mrs. J. E. Handy conducted the devotional service and Mrs. Karrenbrock sang a solo using a familiar and beloved hymn. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hal Shirey.

In the business session reports of committees and officers were heard. The secretary, Mrs. D. A. Allen, reported that there are now 35 paid up members of the organization, and read the minutes of the previous meeting. Mrs. Hal Shirey as chairman of the nominating committee presented the following names as officers for the new year to take office in October and a vote by acclamation approved them: President, Mrs. I. W. Karrenbrock; vice president, Mrs. C. B. Earl; treasurer, Mrs. D. C. Copelin; recording secretary, Mrs. D. A. Allen; corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. W. Lobaugh; mite box secretary, Mrs. O. W. Ross, and Light Bearer sponsor, Mrs. R. W. Lowe.

Mrs. Thornberry read a letter from Mrs. Pittenger of El Reno, Okla., who is district president of the organization requesting a number of reports to be prepared before the district convention and suggesting aims to be accomplished during the coming year.

In a preliminary talk before the annual opening of the mite boxes, Mrs. O. W. Ross mentioned that an amount of $100,000 is gathered each year from the entire Woman's Foreign Missionary society from the small amount each member gives in this way.

The first part of an alphabetical listing of the different departments and the work done by the society was discussed with each member present reading a number of clippings concerning them.

Announcements were made concerning meetings of the Women's Home Missionary society for the second Monday in September and for the first fall meeting of the Aid society, an all day gathering to be held in the parlors of the church, Friday, Sept. 5.

Additional hostesses for the day who were unable to be present were Mrs. Anna Friberg and Mrs. L. A. Rodenhiser. Dainty refreshments were followed by an enjoyable social hour.

Members present were Mesdames A. L. Thornberry, G. W. Lobaugh, D. A. Allen, J. E. Handy, O. W. Ross, H. L. Hunter, H. L. Alderson, Hal Shirey, Don Ross, J. W. Corkhill, C. O. Johnson, D. C. Copelin, J. A. Evans and R. W. Lowe. Mrs. W. M. Huckabee was an additional guest.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

It was hard luck for the youngster, who about a month ago did caddying at one of the local miniature golf courses, and when he accumulated 15 cents, was hijacked on his way home by a boy of about 16 who took his fortune from him.

But, according to J. A. McDonald, county probation officer, the way of the transgressor is hard; retribution came in time to the offender. The lad, whether he had more than 15 cents accumulated by taking it from helpless travelers or not, slipped away on a passing freight and got as far as Arizona. He tried some of the same tactics there but did not get away, and spent a time in jail.

Maybe he decided that home keeping hearts are happiest. At any rate, when he got out of jail he hiked for home, where there was some one to help on the grocery bill.

Then Sunday night, he started out to enjoy "high life" again and was caught in a crap game and is resting now in juvenile jail.

From the bread line that besieges Mrs. Effie McHam each morning, it looks as if many people were really needing work—not trying to beat their way through life. They go to her to ask that she will try to find them work. And children by the score come begging for a loaf of bread. Mrs. McHam hands out the loaves as long as they last and worries her sympathetic heart constantly because she can do no more.

Things are quiet about the Memorial auditorium. With some of the workers away on their vacations and others with nothing to say, it is hard for a reporter covering that run to get a bit of news.

But it is a blessing to know that Wichita Falls, in spite of the long hot summer days has no serious illness. Sickness, according to the Red Cross nurse, is at a minimum. No typhoid and no epidemic of any kind.

The most serious question facing a few offices is the community chest drive. Everyone needs money. Being an officer in a charitable organization is 100 per cent harder when funds are short. But so far as that goes, every housekeeper and every bread maker knows that being the one to provide is harder when funds are short.

But, though news at the auditorium is short; information was given us. We saw a tree with five main trunks and two Christmas tree shaped tops as we passed the courthouse grounds and we didn't know its name. It was so lovely in shape and color that we pinched a leaf and carried it to Mr. Bunnenberg, knowing he knew trees. And he answered our question with a twinkle in his eye, "Why it's an arbor-vitae." Well, we are ignorant —much as we love trees.

Miss Beatrice Frankrich of Fort Worth, the house guest of Miss Gertrude Elias, was charmingly entertained Sunday afternoon when Miss Sadie Shain was hostess at a pretty bridge party in her honor.

In the games, Miss Margaret Pease won high score prize which was a pretty piece of costume jewelry and the consolation, a gold pen, went to Miss Reba Weinsten. A silver love bracelet was the gift for the honoree.

The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Shain, in serving refreshments to Misses Frankrich, Bertha Mae Kruger, Rosaline Joseph, Charlene Elliot, Evelyn Lippard, Bernice Persky, Mollie Svidlow, Margaret Pease, Aeba Weinstein, Babetta Joseph, and Mrs. Bill Svidlow.

Dorothy Dix Tells Young Folk How To Stay in Love

When young couples ask me, as they often do, how to keep their husbands and wives in love with them, I always feel like replying: "Give 'em plenty of hot air. Feed 'em on soft talk. Spread the salve. Keep 'em jollied up and you can't lose 'em if you try. They will never cast a roving eye to the windward, or find out that there is anybody else in the world but you."

For almost always the real reason behind the philandering of any married man or woman is starved vanity that tries to steal abroad the food that it is denied at home. Just that and nothing more.

There is nothing the matter with the great majority of husbands and wives except that they are dumb. They are not such brutes and shrews that their mates cannot endure them. They don't mistreat those to whom they are united in the holy bonds of matrimony. They merely take each other for granted. Nor is one unfaithful husband or wife in a million the helpless victim of a great passion that sweeps him or her away from his or her duty and obligations.

No. Far from it. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred a side-stepping husband or wife is just a plain ordinary man or woman who is just hungry for a few attentions and a little flattery and who starts out in a very human way to gratify a natural appetite.

As a girl, a woman was much admired. The boys flocked about her wherever she went. She had many dates and young men vied in showing her good times. They praised her beauty and vivacity and charm. They noticed what she wore and how she did her hair, and called attention to her every pretty little trick. She could have married many men and she chose the one who sang her praises the loudest and who seemed to admire her the most.

But after marriage he smote no more upon the lyre so far as she was concerned. And there was a dull, sickening silence as to her charms. He paid her no more compliments. Apparently he never even noticed how she looked and it would have been all one to him, except for the bills, whether she wore Paris confections or went about in rags.

Many and many a woman from the time the honeymoon wanes never gets anything but knocks from her husband. He seems to think that angel food is too expensive a diet for home consumption and that it is a waste to feed a wife upon it. Such a man may give his wife the material proofs of his affection for her. He may lavish houses and cars and trips and good clothes upon her, but that doesn't satisfy her soul.

What she craves is something personal. What she wants is to be told that she is beautiful and wonderful and fascinating and that there is something different about her from all other women. All the old gooey sweet talk that she feasted upon as a young girl.

Of course, if she is one of those noble women who can suffer and be strong, she takes up another notch in the hunger belt around her heart and tries to satisfy her yearning for appreciation and love with devotion to her children. But if she is just plain woman, and especially if she is just plain modern woman, she is likely to brood over the matter for a space, and then buy her a new hat and have a facial and a permanent wave at the beauty shop, and then fare forth to see if she has really lost her bait and to ascertain if other men find her so little attractive as her husband appears to do.

It is neglectful husbands who make flirtatious wives, for if a married woman is at all good-looking and even youngish, there are plenty of men who are ready and willing to play with her and lavish upon her the flatteries her husband withholds. Nor need we blame her too much, for when we are perishing of thirst we grab at the cup of water, no matter what hand offers it.

And it is vanity that is at the bottom of men's unfaithfulness to their wives. When a man is unfaithful to his wife, it is not often, as she supposes, because she has got middle-aged and lost her looks and her figure, or because he has discovered his true affinity. It is almost invariably because his wife has ceased to flatter him, and he has run across some woman who plasters it on with a shovel and who tells him how young and handsome he is and how that little touch of gray at his temples makes him look exactly like the fascinating villain in a play and that no woman could resist him.

The middle-aged man whose wife is always reminding him that he is getting along in years and acquiring a bay window and who addresses him as "papa," and thinks he should have no interests except in the children and the home, is simply the preordained victim of any blond female who will call him Laddie Boy and make him feel that he is a devil of a fellow with the women.

The middle-aged women who lose their husbands to flappers always tell about what good wives they have been. Yeah, good but stupid. Or else they would have manufactured a homebrew of flattery that would have made that of the bootlegger women seem weak and insipid.

For the real cure for philandering is to satisfy that gnawing craving of vanity for praise at home.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have one of the best husbands in the world. We are happy, but there is one thing that we cannot agree on and that is that we should save a little money as we go along. We both work and make good salaries, but he spends it all and we haven't a penny in the bank. I am willing to do without some things I want in order to save a little for the days we may be out of work or sick, but he says that with as many friends as we have there is no use in worrying about the future. He often says that he will be glad when I quit work and keep house for him. I, too, long for that time, but there isn't any hope of its ever coming as long as it takes all that we both make to live on. What can I do? —DOT.

Answer—Perhaps if you stopped work and threw the whole burden of the support of the family on your husband it would wake him up and make him realize the value of money. A lot of men need responsibility to steady them and the necessity of providing for some one besides themselves to make them put forth their best efforts.

As long as you are working and able to support yourself your husband feels that he doesn't have to save because you are able to look out for yourself. The one argument against the wage-earning wife is that often she slows her husband down. Perhaps that is the case with yours. At any rate you might give him a jolt by giving up your job and turning the bread winning over to him and see what he makes of it.

But one of the hardest things in the world for a woman to do is to sew up the pockets of a spendthrift husband. He is always so sure that it is unnecessary to save and that he will always be well and healthy and able to make money and that there will never be any rainy day in his life.

And he always thinks his wife is such a spoil sport and such a tightwad when she wants to lay up something for the future, and when she points out that they are just as likely to have bad luck as the balance of the human race and that if they live nothing can save them from growing old, and no other fate on earth is so terrible as that of old and dependent people. I cannot hold out much hope to you that you will ever be able to reform a waster and a spender. They are hopeless because they are weak and self-indulgent and lack the backbone to say "no" to deadbeat borrowers or to deny themselves any pleasure that they crave.

All that you can do is to keep preaching to him the gospel of thrift, to which he will probably not listen, and point out to him that if he doesn't save and get a start now when he is young he is doomed to be one of those men who live from hand to mouth as long as he lives and who have nothing to show but a few receipts for bills as a result of their years of labor. Sometimes a man of this type, whose money burns in his hand until he spends it, can be gotten interested in buying a house or paying for a bond on the installment plan. And once they do this they are pleased as Punch with themselves and sometimes become actually penurious.

As for your husband's saying that he doesn't need to save his money because his friends would help him out if he lost his job or got sick, that is the talk of a fool. The spender is popular only as long as he spends, and when his money is gone so are his friends.

Nor need one blame them, for what right has the borrower to the money that other people have saved by denying themselves. Nothing is more dishonest than for a man to spend everything that he makes as he goes along on his own pleasure and then expect people who have gone without the things they wanted to support him.

'Our Indian Work' Topic at Meeting Of Presbyterians

In the inspirational meeting of the First Southern Presbyterian auxiliary members who met at the residence of Mrs. J. E. Hall Monday afternoon, "Our Indian Work" was the topic handled in a most interesting manner.

Circle two was hostess during the afternoon and held a short social meeting following the program. The meeting was opened with a devotional by Mrs. H. B. Finch after which Mrs. H. S. Barnes talked on "Blazing New Trails." Mrs. N. E. Moore gave an interesting talk on "Meeting Christ on the Indian Trail."

A round table discussion concluded the program, stressing manners in which the Indian girls' school at Durant, Okla., might be helped. A delightful refreshment plate was served at the end of the short social session to Mesdames C. McFayden, Stanley Rugely, F. L. Rugely, R. C. Anderson, J. A. Little, W. L. Whitlow, H. S. Barnes, H. Texas Club Of Arkansas Enjoys Election Party

Special to The Record News.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 24.—Texans in Hot Springs had a great time Saturday night at the Como roof garden, where they gathered to hear the returns of the run-off primary and to enjoy a program provided by the Texas State Tourist club of which Mrs. E. O. Wheat, of Wichita Falls, is president, and Charles Haynes, of Fort Worth, vice president.

One of the principal speakers of the evening was Judge Whit Boyd, of Houston, who made every Texan present feel proud of the fact that he or she was from the "Lone Star" state.

Inez Johnson, of Fort Worth, gave several "uke" numbers, and did fancy dances.

Miss Ida Belle Disheroon, recited the poem, "Texas Prairie," written and dedicated to the Texas club by Mrs. Waldron Draughan, a former resident of Houston, who was the program chairman of the evening.

Misses Evely Parks and Verla Maynard, attired in an attractive black and white dancing costume, executed a tap dance. Miss Parks formerly lived in Galveston.

One of the big features of entertainment was M. Maynard's Lithox Spring Fiddling band and old-time song quartet, who have made a national reputation for themselves over radio station KTHS. The string band in addition to playing old-time melodies rendered "Dixie" "Going Back to Texas" and the "Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," all of which brought forth a rousing applause. While the returns were coming in many of the Texans joined in the square dance which was called by one of the band.

Roll call revealed that over 100 Texans from 37 different Texas cities and towns were present. Mrs. Lillian Seale, formerly of Dallas, was in charge of roll call. The Ewald "Coincidence"
Clean Saratoga
The Busy Breweries
Victory for Religion

By EMILE GAUVREAU

This writer evidently was pumping at conclusions when he assumed that a sum of $10,000 or more had been paid for the appointment of George F. Ewald to a New York magistracy. On the eve of Mr. Ewald's appointment his wife turned over a small fortune to a Tammany leader. This, apparently, was just a "loan" so that the Tammany leader could buy a house. Mrs. Ewald "lost" the promissory note. A Tammany district attorney "investigated" the transaction, presented the matter to a Tammany grand jury which, after 20 minutes, decided that the "loan" and the appointment, made simultaneously were part of an interesting coincidence. These matters should really be referred to the society for psychical research.

All good people will be interested to read that Saratoga city and county officials have informed Governor Roosevelt there is no gambling there. He is told the racing resort is "free of gaming" and a "clean city" morally. Everybody who has been there knows that gambling is wide open and that one house is operated by a notorious racketeer who figured prominently in the Rothstein case. However, when the "boss" orders the governor to accept a report that there is no gambling, he has to swallow it.

That a huge brewery in New York on West 26th street with a capacity of 155,000 gallons, could operate uninterruptedly for years without raids, inspections or threats of close-downs is a fairly good argument against continuing the farce of prohibition enforcement. A sudden raid on the brewery is doubtless the result of a disgruntled gentleman in high places "skipping and telling." A straight, honest-to-goodness raid in New York would be as astonishing as a Tammany district without a racket.

There is something significant in the lifting of the ban on birth control by the Anglicans. It means that the layman is no longer without support of religious ministrants on a question which has, for many years, been anathema to the church. A more liberal attitude towards contraceptions indicates a saner view of all phases of marriage and divorce.

The Lambeth bishops decide that "we cannot condemn the use of scientific methods to prevent conception which are thoughtfully and conscientiously adopted." This is progress on the part of mankind. It is a real victory for religion as well as science.

Mr. J. H. McNally, one-time bricklayer, buys Bill Kenny's share in the New York Giants. When he was laying bricks he rooted for the Giants. Now he achieves the ambition of being a part owner of the club. He will find the baseball business a pleasant way of making money. It is one business which feeds on daily columns of free advertising given away by philanthropic publishers. If Mr. McNally had to pay for that advertising he wouldn't be a part owner of the Giants.

Perhaps the great drouth may open the eyes of the government to the fact that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. The drouth proved one thing: In an emergency, relief can be not only intelligent and promptly devised, but also provided. The unemployment crisis, with 5,000,000 people out of work in this country, is just as much of an emergency. But lackadaisical office holders do not think so. Unless one brings a national calamity right to the steps of the capitol, legislators will not seemingly believe it exists.

"Bless your sole," said the chiropodist, as the wealthy flat-footed patient walked in for treatment.

No one will object to the proposal of eating food in pill form—providing they are taken after meals.

A Trifle Too Enduring

POSSIBLY it's just the summer heat, which always makes things seem hard to bear; but it does seem to grow increasingly certain, every day, that life would flow along a little bit more smoothly and happily if all of these endurance-contest gentlemen would quietly and speedily remove themselves from circulation.

It wasn't so bad, at first. There was, originally, quite a thrill in seeing just how much punishment human bodies would stand. When two men can sit in an airplane continuously for three weeks or more the feat is bound to have a certain amount of interest; and for a while, at least, there was a weird sort of fascination in watching people stay out of contact with the earth for a longer period of time than anybody had done since the world began.

But we're getting case-hardened now. Someone really should take all of these ambitious young people aside and explain to them that it isn't funny any more.

After all, it isn't the length of time you can do a thing without stopping that counts so much as it is the way you do it. The latest endurance fliers set a record of upwards of 600 hours in the air; yet, on the whole, their flight was not quite as significant as the 40-second affair contrived by Orville Wright over the sands of Kitty Hawk a quarter of a century ago. Quantity is still a trifle less important than quality.

Probably there is something to be said for the dogged quality of determination that stirs in the breasts of these endurance-record seekers. Yet determination, after all, isn't the highest virtue attainable. The beaten path that the world is supposed to tread through the wilderness to the door of the manufacturer of superior mousetraps is never made because of the mousetrap-maker's long-windedness.

The editor of the New Mexico State Tribune, of Albuquerque, recently hit upon an idea that seems to have possibilities in this connection. The boys of his city were indulging in an orgy of tree-sitting—surely one of the most harmless but, at the same time, dizzy, of all competitions possible—and this editor decided it had gone far enough. So, through his paper, he offered prizes consisting of movie tickets—not to the successful sitters, but to such lads as would recover their senses, come down out of their trees and return to a normal life on the ground. It worked and Albuquerque has not been bothered with tree-sitters since.

Something like that might be worked out for these adult endurance folk. When a couple of young men prepare to take an airplane aloft for a month or so, we might tell them: "Here—we know you have a good plane and we know you're good pilots. Let's take it all for granted. Here are two seats for the Follies. Stay down, enjoy yourselves, and give us all a rest."

It might work. Who knows? If there's no other way out it ought at least to be worth a trial.

An Arctic Adventure

IF a finer tale of high adventure than the story of Captain Andree and his companions has hit the front pages in the last 10 years it is hard to say just what it was.

When a band of hunters stumbled over three frozen corpses in the wastes of Franz Josef Land they brought to a conclusion one of the great mysteries of the age. Nothing had been heard of Andree's expedition for 33 years. The man had become one of those bizarre, appealing figures that take on an added covering of romance because they simply vanish. He had drifted north into the arctic silence and the silence had swallowed him. Every new polar flight, every new polar tragedy served to recall his disappearance. He became a sort of legend, with the primitive balloon in which he dared 2,300 miles of utter desolation.

Now the mystery is over. When Andree's diary—preserved, most fortunately, for the world to read—is printed the last haze of uncertainty will go away. We shall know just what happened to him, to Frankel and to Strindberg. We shall know just how they met their deaths, what they said and thought and did as they finally realized that their adventure was doomed to disaster; and it will be a knowledge that we would not miss having.

It is easy enough to say that Andree was only a dare-devil who accomplished nothing. Certainly his venture was a tremendous gamble. To try to drift across the top of the world in a free balloon is risky enough in all conscience—especially when you remember that even today a flight of 600 or 700 miles is usually long enough to win first prize in an international balloon race.

Yet one imagines that even if Andree and his men could have known in advance just what was going to happen to them, they would have gone ahead anyway. True adventurers and explorers are like that; which, probably, is why mankind always has an unquenchable admiration for them.

For it is always worth something to see a man over whom the fear of death has no power at all. Most of us never escape from the shadow of that fear. "Safety first" was our motto long before it became a printed slogan. So when a man sets off for arctic fastness or tropic jungles or man-killing desert wastes and gambles with his life for the slenderest of reasons, we cannot help applauding. He is rising above the oldest, strongest fear of the race. He is proving that there are things that he values infinitely above his own life.

There is nothing much for us to say when a man like Andree comes to his appointed end. It is idle to wish that it could have been otherwise; the Andrees, the Amundsens and the Scotts died as they would have wished. We can, indeed, only repeat that epitaph for another explorer who went to the polar loneliness to die—"Here died a very gallant gentleman."

Democrats are lucky. If ther's any prosperity they git in on it, an' if ther's an industrial set-back they hain't to blame. A fine, big, electrical storm would be a dandy thing fer the tree sittin nonsense.

Why People Are Skeptical

IT is highly amusing to watch Chicago's political and official bigwigs come scurrying forward to explain how it was that they had received money from Jack Zuta, murdered gangster.

The glibeness of their explanations is really praiseworthy. Whatever else you can say about them, these Chicagoans with itching palms certainly have a presence of mind.

Unfortunately, none of these explanations is any too convincing. A man high in politics or in some position of public trust can hardly be surprised if people are ready to believe the worst when they find he has taken money—no matter for what reason—from an underworld chieftain.

I thought I'd drop you just a tiny note,
And let you know I'm still around the town;
I've kept the final letter that you wrote—
The one in which you gently let me down.

I didn't even know you moved away
Until I happened by a week ago;
Gee, honey, but your little street looked gray—
I never dreamed a place could alter so.

There's no one living in your cozy flat,
No roses in your window any more;
Remember all those evenings that we sat
And watched the lights upon the other shore?

Well, lights and love flame up and disappear,
And all things end—good-bye—my very dear!

—BROOKE EDISON.

Did I Die???

It happened in front of the National Vaudeville Artists club on 46th St. That is, it happened in front of what is left of that club. Major Donovan, an official of that place, left the club about 2:30 a. m., walking straight into the pistols of two stick-up guys.

As the Major stood there with his arms lifted high, William Southard of the club witnessed the scene from an office window. Southard frantically blew on a whistle—a whistle he usually blows to summon his dog.

So what happened?

Sixteen taxicabs drove up!

Epitaph

They were reminiscing about one of the Unsolved Crimes again last night, and someone recalled the time that a murder was committed in the Park Central Hotel here. So have a shudder.

The night after the killing, the huge electric sign atop the hostelry blew a fuse, and the only letters in Park Central that remain lighted were the second and third letters in Park—the initials of the victim—Arnold Rothstein.

Reasons Enough

"You're always so indifferent to him. Why don't you treat him decently?" "Oh, he's all right, I guess, but he dances on crowded night club floors with his elbows away out to here. . . . When he feels coy he pulls the tie out of your vest. . . . When he accidentally tips over a bottle of ginger ale, or your drink, he tries to make comical cracks, yet! . . . When he is confronted by the people he knocks, he hopes t'die if he did, and he is the type of pill who lets four subway trains pass by trying to get back his penny out of the slot machine. Now do you understand?"

After All Those Years!

One of Manhattan's more popular dramatic critics has a very young daughter who never witnessed an opening night. Her daddy promised many times that some day he would take her along with him—when she was "old enough to stay up until 11 P. M."

The other night he decided to take her to see the premiere performance of "Suspense," a new war play played by an all male troupe.

Imagine his feelings when throughout the piece the actor-soldiers kept cussing in the "What Price Glory" manner.

And to make matters worse he had no alternative in plays for her to see, everything in town being more or less highly seasoned.

Newspaperman Stuff

The veteran Park Rogues tell the most engaging stories. Frixample: The time a noted cartoonist belittled Frank Munsey and drew a cartoon showing an unmistakable likeness of Munsey paying newspaper men small salaries.

It burned Mr. Munsey up and knocked him cold, so he bought the paper employing the cartoonist and then fired him! And he managed to keep him out of work for many years. After Munsey's death the cartoonist connected again and is now among the rages.

Just for the Records

The very odd McIntyre has from time to time belittled his contemporaries who deal in gossip, as he calls it. Not so many columns ago, Mr. McIntyre said something that went like this: "There are in New York some frightful gossips who poison the pages of newspapers with their detestable peep-hole stuff."

That isn't exactly what he wrote, but it will do.

Considering that Oscar detests gossip, one wonders why on Sunday, April 17, he announced all over the country: "Beatrice Lillie and Charles Winninger are rumored engaged again."

When, as a matter of reportorial accuracy, Beatrice Lillie isn't engaged to Charles Winninger, as she still is the wife of Lord Peel.

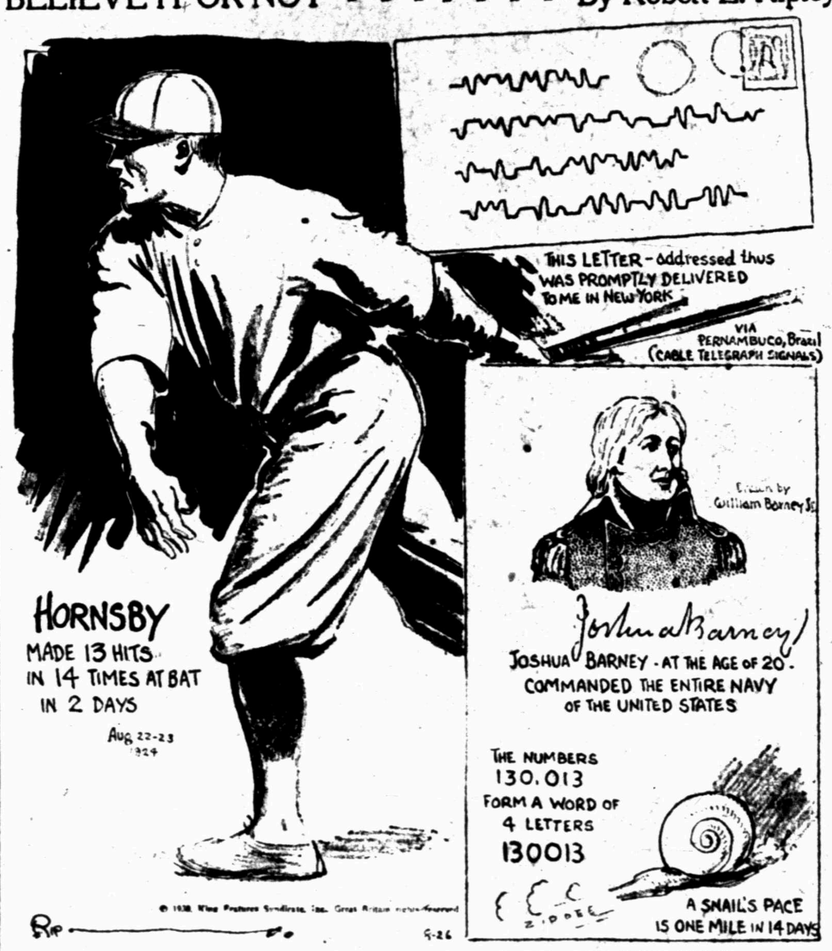

So, as one gossip to another, we urge our esteemed critic to first get acquainted with the libel laws.

Oop!

Julius Tannen, one of the better squelchers, won another decision over a heckler at a Long Island party the other eve'g. Lester Allen, the pint-sized belittler, began picking on Julius by reminding listeners that during the war Tannen was a "Dollar-a Year Man." "And," added Allen, "he was overpaid, at that!"

"Maybe so," indifferently responded Tannen, "but in case you all didn't know it, Lester Allen began his career as a jockey in Havana—riding mice!"

"STEP-CHILD"

BY ROB EDEN

Kay Smith is unable to remember anything of her past, not even her name. She loves Dane Talbot, but his fiancee, Julie Drew, refuses to break their engagement. Discouraged, Kay decides to go away, but Dane insists that they be married at once. While waiting for Dane at the office, Kay is told by Dr. Raleigh that a man is waiting to see her—Kay's husband!

CHAPTER XL

Kay's gaze did not flinch as it met Dr. Raleigh's. Her eyes were vacant at first, then horror crept into them gradually. She had risen when the physician had uttered his ominous words, now she sank slowly, mechanically back in her chair, her hands groping for the desk for support.

"Will you—will you tell me again—" her lips were numb. They hardly formed the words she wanted to say. A darting pain shot through her head, leaving her almost paralyzed for an instant.

Dr. Raleigh went quickly to the cooler, and brought back a glass of water. Kay waved it aside weakly.

Your Husband

"Will you—" she tried to repeat the sentence.

"I said, Kay, that the man in my office is your husband." The doctor was very sorry for the girl. He had meant to break the news gently, decently, but he hadn't. A shock to him too. But he wanted Kay to know before she met the man—recognition if it came might be too swift, too horrible for her.

"You're sure?"

"I'm quite—sure. Will you come in with me, now, or do you want to wait until you feel stronger?"

"Just a minute. I'll have hold of myself—it is a surprise." The numbness was leaving her lips. She was feeling more herself, except for the dull throbbing in her head. Her nostrils were conscious of the scent of her heliotrope perfume. She couldn't understand why she should be thinking about that odor—smelling it, after what Doctor Raleigh had said. But the room seemed full of it, sweet, fresh . . .

What was it Dane had said? Oh, yes. He was going for a marriage license. They were to be married. And here Doctor Raleigh was telling her she was already married.

A little moan escaped her lips, and Doctor Raleigh took hold of her arm.

"Please, I'm all right—"

The doctor didn't think so. His hand remained on her arm. She was so pale, so frail, as she sat there, her golden hair curled around her face, her brown eyes more tragic, deeper than ever. There were no tears in them. It would be better the doctor thought, if there were. If she would weep, give way to her feelings. Even hysterics would be better than this—silence, this brave endurance.

Plucky, she was. Never before had Raleigh admired her more than now. He had expected—well, he had expected anything.

The telephone buzzed annoyingly, and he took it quickly off the hook disconnecting it. Kay reached automatically to answer it, but he pushed it out of her reach.

"I'm ready now," she said calmly. "We'll wait a minute."

She sat back and tried to relax, but didn't succeed. Every nerve in her body was taut, although the pain in her head was beginning to leave. Was Doctor Raleigh right? He said he was—sure. Positive. She had been positive herself—twice. First when she thought she was Kitty Banning, dreading the girl, hating to be her. Then Katherine Ford. The trip to San Francisco, building up the character as she traveled on. Two disappointments. Was this to be one, too.

When she thought she was Kitty Banning—she had prayed, had hoped she wouldn't be. Different with Katherine Ford. She had wanted to be Katherine Ford.

And now—there must be something wrong. It couldn't be true—what Doctor Raleigh had said. That she was married. That her husband was in his office waiting for her!

Goodness! Don't let it be true . . . not with Dane waiting for me, loving me, and I, loving him as I do. Don't let it be . . .

Her husband. Married.

Why, when she was, trying to remember, trying so hard, hadn't she thought of this? That she might be married, might have a husband? Because no one had suggested the possibility, of course. And she had never asked.

Why, now, was it so repellent to her? Dane—that was why. Because she loved Dane so much. Because she wanted him so much.

Who was this man, who was waiting? What did he look like? Would she know him?

"Don't Worry"

She rose to her feet, and started for Dr. Raleigh's office. He was behind her, trying to detain her. "Don't you want a little more time—"

"No, don't worry—"

"Kay, do you remember—" he dared not complete his words.

"No, I don't. Perhaps I shall—when I see him. I have no recollection of being married."

"Can't you place this man?"

"I have no idea what he looks like. You said he was young?"

"Yes."

"It can't be true! It's just another mistake!" She spoke desperately, a last chance.

"It is true. There's no mistake. If you'd rather, you need not meet him now. You may go home, and I'll make an appointment for tomorrow. I'll tell him you're not well—however, I want to be with you when you talk to him."

"No, I'll see him now. I may as well get it over with." Her hand was on the knob of the door. She had to know—now, whatever the news would be. A husband. Her husband.

Any moment Dane might come in—

The door into the reception room flew ajar, and a messenger boy entered with a large green box in his arms. Kay's hand fell away from the knob. She would wait until he had gone.

"Miss Kay Smith," the boy announced, consulting a card on the box.

"Where'll I find her?"

"This is Miss Smith," Raleigh went forward and claimed the box. The girl looked at it with disinterested eyes, as he placed it in her hands. A florist box, green, tied with paler green ribbons. She hardly knew she was holding it.

Orchids

Who could be sending her flowers? The man in Doctor Raleigh's office? Her husband.

She laid it on the desk, and untied the bow. Her fingers usually so sensitive could hardly feel the ribbon, the top, as she drew it off. They might have been wood . . .

Green waxed paper, flecked with drops of water. Water like dew on the fresh, soft green. The purplish, lavender sheen of petals . . . Then she was lifting a bouquet from the box, a bouquet of orchids surrounded by a fragile lacework of maidenhair fern. A white card fell to the floor, and the doctor picked it up. The envelope was bare of writing, except for the florists' name in one corner.

Orchids, Kay was thinking. Orchids—now. Six of them. The ribbon that tied them was broad gleaming silver, and the stems were wound in the same.

She took the card that Raleigh offered, and opened it slowly. The man who was her husband? He would hardly have time to send flowers—he had been in the doctor's office . . .

She stood looking at the writing on the card—Dane's card. "To my love." The letters were dancing on the small bit of cardboard. Dane had sent the orchids—

Wearily she dropped the flowers and the card back in the box, as if they were too heavy for her to hold. Dane's orchids—now—

"Come." Except for a slight twist to her lower lip, and the pain shadowed in her eyes, Kay's face was imperturbable. Doctor Raleigh gave a glance at the flowers before he followed her. He wished that he had not permitted her to open them.

A man was sitting near Raleigh's desk, when they went into the office. He hadn't heard them enter. He was reading a magazine, and lazily dipping his cigaret ashes in a brass tray. Kay saw the back of his head, a dark blue, well tailored coat, his hand holding his cigaret. His hari was brown, and smoothly combed.

The door that Raleigh closed made a slight noise, and he got to his feet, hurriedly. His face was rather sallow, thin, and his lower jaw a little prominent. Small eyes, set close together gave him an intent, inquiring look, just bordering on a frown. A thin ascetic nose, the nostrils sensitive. His lips under his small dark mustace, were full and sensuous. He was perhaps 30 years old, and his frame was that of an athlete. Tall, well proportioned, he towered over Kay as he came to her.

The girl was looking at him with wide, frightened eyes. Now she saw him. Now three of him, a dozen, a hundred men like him in Raleigh's pleasant office. They were smiling, beckoning, holding out their arms to her. She stumbled and would have fallen if Doctor Raleigh hadn't caught her, and carried her to a chair.

"Wait!" she heard his sharp quick voice warn the man, and as in a dream she saw the man step back, still holding out his arms. A hand brushed her eyes. Her own. The hundred faces were gone. There was only one. And he was—

"Larry!" She cried, half strangled with pain, and the memories that flooded over her.

"Larry—" It did not seem to be her voice speaking. A hoarse, dull voice, deep.

She knew—now—

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J HASKIN

Thousands of government experts are working constantly for the benefit of all citizens of the United States. They will work directly for you if you will call for the fruits of their labors through our Washington bureau. State your inquiry briefly, write clearly, and enclosing two-cent stamp for a personal letter in reply, address The Record News Information bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, directors, Washington, D. C.

Q.—Did the shepherds or the Wise Men visit the Christ Child first?—B. R. C.

A.—The shepherds came first; the Wise Men did not appear until three days later, according to the Bible.

Q.—Who paid the cost of bringing the obelisk in Central park to the United States?—A. B.

A.—The obelisk was the gift of Ismail Pasha, and the cost of transportation—about $150,000—was defrayed by William K. Vanderbilt.

Q.—Are other suns surrounded by systems of planets?—A. E.

A.—It would not be possible for astronomers to detect them even if they exist. It is probable that double stars are the rule and planetary systems the exception.

Q.—What is the English equivalent for the name of the opera, La Traviata?—B. A. E.

A.—In English it is the lost one. The original story is entitled La Dame aux Camelias. It was dramatized as Camille.

Q.—Does the navy use butter substitutes?—H. S. S.

A.—It does not. It uses only the best butter—92 score butter, in fact—as it is necessary to consider that the butter may be subjected to extreme temperature and to rapid changes in temperature.

Q.—Please describe the Confederate flag.—P. H.

A.—It was a red flag with a blue stripe extending from the upper left-hand corner to the lower right-hand corner, and from the upper right to lower left corner. On the crossed bars were white stars.

Q.—What was the population of Pompeii at the time of its destruction?—D. K.

A.—It had about 35,000 inhabitants. It was a city of wealth and refinement, situated on the Bay of Naples, at the foot of Mount Vesuvius. It, together with Herculaneum and Stablae, was destroyed by a volcanic eruption Aug. 24, A. D. 79.

Q.—Please give a short biography of Will Rogers.—H. C. D.

A.—He was born at Oolagah, Indian Territory, Nov. 4, 1879; son of Clem Vann and Mary (Schrimpsher) Rogers; educated at the Willie Hassell school, Neosho, Mo., and the Kemper Military academy, Boonville, Mo.; married Betty Blake Nov. 25, 1908. Began his stage career in vaudeville at Hammerstein's Roof garden, New York, 1905.

Q.—Where can American Legion posts buy equipment for officers?—L. B.

A.—The chief of ordnance, United States war department, says that only commissioned officers of the regular service, reserve officers, warrant officers, or national guard officers may buy the regular equipment of the bureau of ordnance. The bureau allows American Legion posts to buy equipment for ceremonial or military purposes, but there must be a strict agreement with each lot purchased that the equipment is not intended for individual men, since it is reserved for the officers named above.

Q.—What is forage painting used in bookbinding?—A. G.

A.—This is a corruption of the word fore edge used to describe the delicate painting or decoration applied to the extreme front edges of the book. When the book was closed only blotches or masses of colors showed but when the leaves of the book were partially spread delicate tracery, artistic designs, and sometimes elaborate pictures were revealed. Samuel Mearne, bookbinder to King Charles III, of England, is credited with originating this form of decoration.

Q.—Why is the Chinese and Japanese dragon such an unusual looking creature?—V. S.

A.—Maud Rex Allen says: "As known in Japan, the conception is undoubtedly derived from the products of the imagination of the early Chinese who were especially fond of evolving supernatural forms by combining parts of various animals. It is essentially a serpent, with horns of a deer, the head of a horse, eyes like a devil, neck like a snake, belly like that of a red worm, scales like those of a carp, ears like a cow, paws like a tiger, and claws like an eagle. It has flame-like appendages on shoulders and hips. On either foot are three, four, or five claws—the imperial dragon of China has five, that of Japan three."

The Record News Offers A Booklet on the School Child's Health

Children may not like to think of it, but vacation is almost over and school time is at hand. Parents must give thought to it and one of the first questions that confronts them is, "Is my child fit to attend school?" The answer to this question is one of the gravest of parental responsibilities. Clothes, shoes, books, bags and lunch boxes are the usual considerations, but the routine of going to school has a new and more important side to which parents have previously paid too little attention—the health of the child. Children should be prepared for school as carefully and completely as soldiers are got ready for war.

The booklet, The School Child's Health, prepared by the American School Hygiene association, with the cooperation of the American Red Cross, should be in the hands of every mother.

Use this coupon in ordering a copy.

That Body Of Yours

The Heart and the Thyroid Gland

In examining recruits for the army, the condition of the heart was of course carefully noted.

Very often we came across recruits with very rapid hearts—beating 100 to 120 to the minute—and yet with apparently no symptom of any real heart ailment.

That this rapid heart might really be due to thyroid trouble—goitre—enlargement of the gland in front part of neck, was always the first thought, and so the other three symptoms were sought.

These are, first a trembling of the fingers when the hands are stretched forward at arm's length with the shoulders. This trembling is easily detected.

Second, a bulging of the eyeballs which can be noted if patient stands sideways.

Third, the enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck.

Where these four symptoms—rapid heart, tremor, bulging eyeballs, and enlarged thyroid gland—were noted, the recruit was rejected and advised to see his doctor.

Now a number of these cases, by seeing their physician and undergoing treatment—iodine, rest, X-ray and so forth, were cured of this condition.

However, there are some cases that undergo all this treatment and yet the condition persists. They are advised that surgery is their only chance, but naturally they hesitate.

In former days it was the skill of the surgeon that meant so much to the patient, but now this operation has become so common that it is not necessary to travel thousands of miles to have it performed. In every city or town of fair size, there are surgeons capable of doing this work safely and skillfully.

And so today it is the condition of the patient, not the skill of the surgeon, that is most important.

Dr. K. E. Bach, Berlin, has analyzed 60 of these cases which underwent operation, of which number seven terminated fatally. And in all these seven cases the heart was the cause of death, having just about reached the stage of failure, or had gone beyond it.

In other words, the heart is the big factor, which means that the rest cure should be first tried to give the heart a chance to gain strength, and then if the other methods—iodine, X-ray and so forth—are of no avail, the operation should be undergone, before the heart muscle gets too weak.

Delay is dangerous.

SPUDDERS LOSE BOTH ENDS OF NIGHT DOUBLE-HEADER TO CUBS

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

Some of the reasons why Texas league officials look forward to night baseball in every city in the league next season are seen in a comparative report of attendance at Waco for the last 20 day and night games, released Monday by Milton Price, secretary to President J. Alvin Gardner.

The statistics, boiled down, show an average increase of 1,425 persons per game, when the boys are playing under the arcs. The average attendance at the last 20 day games, the report showed, was 687 daily, including ladies admitted free. The average attendance at each of the last 20 night games was given as 2,112, also including free passes to ladies.

The attendance at night, excluding the ladies' passes, still shows a substantial gain. Subtracting the free admissions, the average paid admissions for the last 20 games was 1,350, as compared to the daytime average attendance of 687, which included both paid admissions and passes to the ladies.

Total attendance at the last 20 daylight games in Waco was given as 13,750, including free passes; while the attendance at the last 20 night games totaled 42,250. Without counting the number of free admissions, the total night attendance for the last 20 games at Waco was about 27,000, the report said.

The figures show an amazing spurt in attendance at Waco, induced by the night pastime. Figures are not available on Houston's attendance, but the increase should be proportionately the same. Houston's attendance should show even larger gains the next few days, especially since the Spudders are booked there. Great crowds have turned out at Houston to watch the Buffs in their final home stand, and even greater crowds are expected as the season draws nearer its close. President Gardner believes 75,000 people will watch the Buffs perform in the course of the home stay, due principally to the fact that people can find time to watch baseball at night when they can't in the daytime.

So Dizzy Lost One

Dizzy Dean got whipped Sunday, when the Cats mauled the Buffs. Wichitans learned of his first defeat in the Texas league with pleasure. So he's not invincible, after all.

The youthful right-hander is still far ahead of his peers in games won this season, however, even if the majority of them were won in another loop. Dizzy won 17 and last 8 for St. Joseph of the Western league before coming to the Buffs. He has won 6 and lost one for the Buffs in the few weeks he's been in this loop. Twenty-three victories and nine defeats, so far. An excellent record for a lad 19 years old.

For Particular People

The American Mercury for September, placed on sale Monday, contains Mrs. Winifred Sandford's short story, "Luck."

The Question Eternal

Well, are we going to win that pennant or aint' we?

The old Rambler agrees with League Prexy J. Alvin Gardner, that there won't be a play-off, and that Carl's gang will sweep right on through to the championship.

On the other hand, there are lots of merchants in town who, though they hope the Spudders will win the pennant, would give a lot to see a playoff with Fort Worth. Fort Worth would invade Wichita Falls should a play-off between the two teams be necessary. Five thousand fans at least would come here. And the hotels would prosper, the restaurants would sell more beans, the bootblacks would make a few more nickels. And in case rivalry should extend into the stands, there's a pretty good chance that the undertakers would profit by the series.

As we said, the Rambler is pretty confident that there will be no play-off. But should one be necessary, we would prefer it with the Houston team. For the same reason the merchants want it with Fort Worth, to-wit, that we would gain by it. In the first place, we've got a debt to collect down in Houston, from Andy Anderson, Houston Press sports editor, and the only way you can ever collect anything from a sports editor is go to him and say "stick 'em up."

Andy bet me a $10 hat the first of the season that the Spudders wouldn't finish above fifth place. Now I'd like to accompany the team down there and, before a gathering of about 500 Spudder fans right in front of the Houston baseball club office, make him present me that hat with a long and appropriate speech, in which he would publicly admit that:

(a) The Buffs aren't worth a darn;

(b) The Spudders are the best on earth;

(c) That the Rambler was right in the first place, and that he (Andy) was as far-fetched as a keg of nails imported from sunny France.

Also, we would like to clinch mitts with Lloyd Gregory, Houston Post-Dispatch sports editor, and William S. White, Houston correspondent of the Associated Press. The Rambler knew Gregory when he wrote politics down at Austin. Rumors have filtered across the frontier that Gregory has somewhat degenerated, going so far as to wear a dress suit to cover basket ball games in the winter, but we'd like to see him just the same. You know down in Houston, where everything is sterling, the folks make great social events out of their games, and the Best People have reserved sections in the stands, where their dress suits won't get spoiled. Well, Gregory, the rumor hath it, prefers to sit with the Best People. But anyway it sure would be good to see him again.

As for White, he's the greatest among us. He's written everything from executions to football and he pours fire and life into his writings. We used to sit together on the shores of Lake Austin long ago and figger how we could get this country to go to war again so we would have something good to write about.

So I'd like to go to Houston, fling a little dust on Gregory's dress suit, and collaborate with Bill on plans for another war.

All Quiet on the Western Front

Like sand it is. Scotty Mullen, whose good Scotch story we printed herein a few days back, attended a Sterling rally at the Memorial auditorium the other night, and while he was being told how to vote someone stole a battery out of his car. About 90,000 more stolen batteries at Sterling rallies and we'd have had two governors for the price of one. Ask Scotty.

And while we're on politics, here's a letter which came unsigned, the author apparently having read some of our outbursts about "people who annoy me."

"Dear Rambler," it reads, "we have met 'people who annoy me.' That same fellow is hollering his head off for Ma . . ."

Well, many and many are the persons who annoy me, but we have to disagree with our unknown correspondent. The different political opinions of people seem to the Rambler to be very amusing.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 25. (AP)—John W. Orton today pleaded guilty in superior court to charges of bigamy and embezzlement and was sentenced to 15 years in state prison. He was arrested here a month ago on charges preferred by Mrs. Addie Grewett, of Pellston, Mich., since dead.

Orton, who is 58 years old, told Judge Leonard D. Verdier that in the last six years he had acquired $18,900 by marrying six women bigamously and then deserting them after getting possession of their money.

Coyotes Start Grind Wednesday With Horde of New Men Seeking Berths

With only one letter man of the 1929 eleven returning to the fold, Coach Barry Holton, mentor of the Wichita Falls High school Coyotes, Wednesday will begin the task of selecting the gridiron machine he will push forward this fall as contenders for the district title.

To Charles "Chick" Holden will go the title of "nucelus" of the team. Holden, star tackle of last year, being the only veteran to return. For the remaining vacancies there are scores of candidates, 33 of whom have been invited to report Wednesday for preliminary instructions, verification of eligibility, issuance of uniforms, and probably a brief workout on the field in the rear of the school.

Stiff Workouts Planned

Thereafter, hard work is planned daily, the menu being skull practice in the morning and field workouts in the afternoon. The candidates will be bunked in the Junior college building.

The first games of the season will be practice tilts with the Polytechnic High school eleven of Fort Worth here Sept. 20, and, a week later, with the Temple Okla. Tigers. The season's official schedule will start Oct. 4, when the Coyotes meet the Lubbock Westerners here in the first conference game of the season.

The Coyotes this year will start off exactly as their professional brother-athletes in another sport, to-wit, the Spudders, new faces and new blood being the order of the day. And Coach Holton has hopes of turning out a winning machine with his fresh bunch of youngsters, even as Skipper Carl Williams took an imported group of strangers and turned out a winning baseball club.

Good Team Work Expected

Holton doesn't count on his youthful charges loading the heavens with an array of new stars. His winning card this year, he said, will be more in team-work than in the spectacular performance of the individual. From the three teams of youngsters that reported for spring training early this year he expects to find steady ground-gainers in such prospects as Withrow, Cox, Smith, Holton, White, Janeway and Ray, while Allen, Mauldin, Daniels, Kelley, Sepkovitch, Stanfield, King and Goodman from the group from which line material will be selected. Holden, of course, will be the mainstay of the line.

The 33 men who have been invited to report to Coach Holton Wednesday are:

Hamlin Rugely, Bennett Withrow, Earl Harkes, Jack Gentry, Harlan Ray, Ogden Kelly, Elvis Goodman, Willard Wilkins, Max Sepkovitch, Raymond Allen, J. R. Holton, Robert Brandon, Leland Richards, Dan Cox, Dick Warren, Orion Smith, William Reynolds, C. L. King, Malcolm Mauldin, Clois Keys, Joe Howell, Lester Daniel, R. W. Parrish, R. J. Byrd, Wesley Ferguson, Charles Holden, Frank Stanfield, Ed Greenwood, Merwyn Hudgens, Allen Gough, John White, Orren Janeway and Bob Daugherty and Managers Dick Morison, Neville Howell and Billy Jenkins.

CATS WIN IN 14TH INNING

Row With Ump Features Great Duel

HOUSTON, Aug. 25. (AP)—Lil Stoner pitched Fort Worth to a 3 to 1 win in 14 bitterly fought rounds here tonight.

The contest developed into a great pitching duel. Stoner fanned 13 and Kaufmann 9. In the first nine innings, Kaufmann permitted only one man to reach first, Stoner getting a Texas leaguer to center in the sixth. During the same period, Stoner gave up two hits, one a scratch.

Kaufmann cracked in the 14th, when four hits produced 3 runs. Kaufmann's single and Holm's double scored Houston's tally in the 14th.

In the 12th Umpire Kroh chased Mallon and Bonowitz for disputing a strike called on Mallon. It was necessary for Mallon's teammates to drag him from the field to prevent an assault on the umpire. Score:

Indian Is New Decathlon Champ

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 25. (AP)—Loping along with the free and tireless stride of his Indian forebears, Wilson Charles, steel-muscled Onedia from Haskell institute, Lawrence, Kan., won the national decathlon championship this afternoon by running Big Jim Stewart of the Los Angeles A. C. into the ground in the final event, the gruelling 1,500-meter race.

Trailing Stewart with nine of the 10 events completed as the sun sank over the rim of the big Pitt stadium, the lithe, 180-pound Indian athlete sped along like a brave on the warpath to cover the distance in four minutes, 55 seconds, and beat his rival by more than an eighth of a mile.

Turning in the best performances of the day in the running broad jump and 1,500-meter run, Charles is the latest of an illustrious line of Indian athletes that included such names as Jim Thorpe and Fait Stewart. A sturdy newcomer from the University of Florida, Joe Hall, nosed out Harlow Rothert of Stanford university football fame for third place. Fifth also went to an unheralded representative of the Florida institution, Forest Munger, the lightest man in the entire starting field of 13 as he weighed but 140 pounds.

Thirteen athletes from all parts of the country began the exhausting 10 event test at 10 o'clock this morning and 11 of them stuck to the finish more than eight hours later.

Here is how they stood in points at the end of the program which consisted of the 100 meter run, broad jump, shot put, high jump, 400-meter run, 110-meter hurdle, discus throw, pole vault, javelin throw and 1,500-meter run in that order:

Charles, first, 7312.343; Stewart, second, 7119.605; Hall, third, 7075.071; Rothert, fourth, 7073.13; Munger, fifth, 6460.005; Howard Jones, New York A. C., sixth, 5917.755; Ivan Dyckman, Denver A. C., seventh, 5812.09; Walter Hutchison, Rice, N. Y., School of Physical Education, eighth, 5706.667; Edward Wiedyna, Boston A. A., ninth, 5645.57; Fred Pusch, Groce City college, 10th, 5600.463; Louis Peresenyi, Union A. C., Pittsburgh, 11th, 5253.30 and Jim Deering, Yale, 12th, 4594.005.

WESTERN GOLF MEET STARTS

100 Women Enter First Round Matches

HILLCREST COUNTRY CLUB, Kansas City, Aug. 25. (UP)—The long fairways, sloping hills and deep-set traps of the Hillcrest country club course today took their toll of strokes from a field of more than 100 women, playing qualifying rounds in the 1930 women's western golf tournament.

Kansan Is Medalist

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, the defending champion, won medalist honors with a record-breaking 75 over the 6,537-yard, par 82 course. The final match of the 1929 tournament at Cleveland, when Mrs. Hill defeated Mrs. Gregg Lifur, of Los Angeles for the title, was recalled today when Mrs. Lifur carded a sparkling 76 to win runner-up honors.

Mrs. Hill, every club in her bag working to perfection, reeled off birdie after birdie as she shot the first nine in 38 and came in on the second nine with a triumphant 37. Mrs. Lifur shot a 39-37—76.

Although Miss Dorothy Page, Madison, Wis., star clipped three strokes off womens' par, she was in third place with a 79. Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, a member of the international team, carded a par 82 for fourth.

Match Play Today

The 32 low scorers were placed in the championship flight. Match play will start tomorrow with Mrs. Hill a 5 to 1 favorite to retain the title she won over the Cleveland course last year. For the players who fell victims to the tricky Hillcrest links, four other flights have been scheduled.

Girl Breaks Record

WINNIPEG—An English girl, Katherine Trevelyan, broke the record for climbing Mount Cavel, near Jasper, Alberta this year. She is the first this season to reach the summit, a distance of more than 11,000 feet. Once on the way up she fell over a cliff and was only saved by the actions of her guide, who grabbed her anchor rope.

Seeded Teams Win In Doubles Tourney

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 25. (AP)—Tennis' return to normalcy appeared in sight here today when 32 strong teams engaged in the opening round of the national doubles championship play on the Longwood courts without registering anything resembling an upset.

Nine of the 10 seeded teams, led by George Lott and Johnny Doeg, the defending champions, won. The other team did not play because Sydney Wood, New York youngster, paired with Frank X. Shields, arrived too late to take the courts against Richard Lusch and Keith Werner of Los Angeles. They will play tomorrow.

The defending champions defeated Albert and Robert Turner of Newton, 6-4, 6-3, 7-5. Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, the Davis cup doubles team, drew another pair of brothers, Leo and Charlie Lejeck, the western title-holders, and made even shorter work of them, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2.

Big Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter, fresh from their Newport victory, had an easy time getting a winning start at the expense of the middle Atlantic champions, Dooley and Mitchell and Robert Consodine, of Washington, by scores of 6-1, 6-3, 6-4.

Berkley Bell and Gregory Mangin defeated G. Littleton Rogers, of Ireland, and Watson Washburn, the veteran New Yorker taller rivals, 14-12, 7-5, 8-6. Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange overcame the Californians, Harry Plymire and Jack Cosgrove, 6-1, 10-8, 6-0.

Wilbur Coen Jr., Kansas City, and Harrison Coggeshall, Des Moines, the Newport finalist, seeded sixth, eliminated Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, sturdy Canadian Davis cup player, and Fred Baggs, the hard-fighting New York veteran, 0-6, 6-8, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4. The other seeded American team—Keith Gledhill and Ellsworth-Vines—subdued W. F. Widen and Robert Shay, the St. Paul holders of the northwestern title, 10-8, 6-1, 7-5.

Bronko Nagurski, Minnesota's all-American football star, is playing baseball at International Falls, Minn., to keep in condition for professional football next fall.

All-Round Athlete Stars on Diamond

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25. (AP)—Jess Hill, all-around athlete from the University of Southern California, is the talk of the Pacific Coast baseball league.

The Trojan whose speed gave him a reputation as the fastest halfback on the west coast, and sent him hurtling through the air to a new I. C. A. A. A. A. broad jump record of 25 feet 7-8 inches, preferred football and track to baseball.

He had no time to fritter away at the national pastime until this spring.

Then he joined the Trojan nine and hit .384 while his team annexed the California Intercollegiate title. Bill Essick, veteran New York Yankee scout, lost no time in signing him for Hollywood.

From the start Hill's play in class AA ball was sensational. He made his first trip to the plate as a pinch hitter, and broke up the game with a home run off the first ball.

In the first twenty games he played he got 33 safeties in 84 chances, stole four bases and hit two home runs. His batting average was .393.

Despite his inexperience as a base runner, Hill's speed has enabled him more than once to stretch singles into doubles, and doubles into triples.

He needs to learn the art of sliding, and he is guilty of over-running fly balls from his position at left field. Still he had only one error in 20 games, and there was a question about that one.

Naturally offers have rolled in. Bill Lane, president of the Hollywood club, turned down a $30,000 offer, although it is generally understood that the Yankees have an agreement concerning the young star.

Hill is under contract to take up coaching tasks at Riverside Cal., junior college, near his home town.

TEXANS FAIL AT POLO JOBS

Hopping to Be No. 2 On International Squad

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (AP)—The two hard-riding Texans, Rube Williams and Cecil Smith, having been tried and apparently found somewhat wanting, youthful Earle A. S. Hopping will return this week to the much discussed No. 2 position on the American polo "big four," undergoing final tests for the international cup matches with England starting Sept. 6.

Hopping, after a week's absence, is slated to return to Captain Tommy Hitchcock's varsity "Whites" this Wednesday at the Piping Rock club in the eleventh test match. He will ride No. 2, with Eric Pedley, Captain Hitchcock and Winst Huest retaining their usual positions at No. 1, No. 3 and back.

Williams was given a tryout at No. 2 last Wednesday and Smith tested for the second time in this position yesterday, when the varsity side was held to a tie scored by the "Reds." Neither Texan appeared to satisfy the exacting demands of the team leader, Hitchcock, who has had Hopping as a playing companion since youth. Both Smith and Williams, however, have had little chance to adapt themselves to playing up forward. On the red-jersied reserves they have done defensive duty at No. 3 or back, for the most part.

Their previous competitive experience also has been confined largely to the backfield, where Hitchcock and Huest have the positions on the "big four" apparently clinched.

Dolly Sisters to Abandon Casino

PARIS, Aug. 25. (UP)—Jennie Dolly of the Dolly sisters, has announced she and her sister, Rosie, are through with gambling. At the same time she denied reports that they had won huge sums in continental gambling houses, even breaking the bank several times.

"There is no tip on breaking the bank," Jennie told the United Press, "the only way to prevent the bank breaking you is to break the habit of going to the tables. It is only occasionally that I go to the casinos and then only for a little adventure.

"All the stories that Rosie and I having to hire motor cars to remove our winnings are just stories which naughty children are discouraged from telling."

Simmons Fails To Fatten Average

With only two games played in the major leagues yesterday, Al Simmons was the only member of the big six to get into action and he failed to do much in the way of upholding the honor of the "select." The Philadelphia slugger faced Sam Jones of Washington three times but got only one hit with the result that his batting average remained stationary at .391.

Firemen Agree to Serve 'Broke' City as Police

LIMA, Ohio, Aug. 25. (AP)—Lima city firemen became policemen today. The 39 members of the fire department, in a petition to City Manager Fred C. Becker, agreed with Becker that they would perform police duties as well as their fire fighting work. They will be subject to call at any time for police duty.

The action was taken when it became known that city finances would not permit engaging of extra police help.

SENATORS BEAT CHAMPS, 3 TO 2

Rookie Tiger Hurler Beats Browns, 7 to 5

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25. (AP)—Joe Cronin's timely hitting in support of Sad Sam Jones's brilliant pitching gave the Washington Senators a 3 to 2 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics today and at the same time cut the first place lead of the world champions to six and one-half games.

Lefty Grove, seeking his ninth straight and 22nd mound victory of the season for the Mackmen, also was in rare form, but he caught Jones on a day when the 38-year-old Washington ace had the Athletics swinging wildly at his curve ball while Cronin was connecting with hits when hits meant runs.

In everything but hitting Grove had the better of Jones. The Philadelphia speed ball king struck out five to Jones' two while issuing only two free tickets to the Washington hurler's five. Grove, however, was touched for eight hits as Jones held the champions to six safeties. Score:

TIGERS 7, BROWNS 5

DETROIT, Aug. 25. (AP)—Tom Bridges, rookie right-hander making his first major league start today, held the St. Louis Browns in check for eight and two-third innings to give the Detroit Tigers a 7 to 5 victory, although Waite Hoyt had to come to the rescue of the former three-league ace. Hoyt pitched to the last batter after the Browns had rallied to score four runs in the ninth.

Bridges was in trouble most of the time because of 12 bases on balls, but tightened in the pinches, holding the Browns to seven hits. Hoyt went to the mound after Ferrell had cleaned the loaded sacks with a triple. Score:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (AP)—Some early selling on relatively easy Liverpool cables and reports of showers or rains in the Southwest over Sunday appeared to be quite readily absorbed in cotton here today and prices later were firmer on covering and trade buying. The new October contract after selling off to 10.80 at the start advanced to 11.19 in the late trading or 23 points net higher and closed at 11.15 with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 13 to 20 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 6 to 11 points in response to the lower Liverpool cables and the Southwestern rain reports.

Offerings continued light but there was enough realizing to cause slight reactions during the middle of the day. Private reports that about 50 per cent of present receipts were being held off the market in some sections of the Southwest and that the basis was about 25 points higher on Saturday, were regarded as contributing to the advance, while some buying was also reported on a report that the cooperatives have arranged to advance farmers 90 per cent of the market value of their cotton. Some traders were inclined to question whether the rains reported in the Southwest would materially benefit the crop and there were private reports, that Texas crop prospects had deteriorated the past week.

Liverpool cables said there had been hedging and liquidation in that market. Port receipts today 40,436. U. S. port stocks 1,769,604. Exports today 13,876, making 208,008 so far this season.

Futures closed steady, 13 to 20 points higher; spot steady; middling 11.45.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 25. (AP)—The cotton market was but moderately active today and prices developed no particular trend. With Liverpool considerably lower than due the market opened 9 points down and soon increased this loss to 10 points compared with Saturday's close with early decline being helped by rains in Texas and Oklahoma. The market later rallied 19 to 20 points on the posting of a hurricane warning for a disturbance northeast of Porto Rico. The market was firmer after midsession on reports the farm board was buying cotton outright in Texas through the cooperatives. Prices made new highs, 27 to 29 points above the lows. The close was at the top showing net gains for the day of 11 to 18 points.

Liverpool came in 4 points worse than due and first sales here showed losses of 9 points. The market continued soft after the start and October traded at 10.86 and December to 11.03 or 10 points below Saturday's close.

The market soon rallied and advanced during the balance of the morning on the hurricane warning which induced covering. October advanced to 11.06 and December to 11.22 or 19 to 20 points above the early lows but eased off 4 points around midsession on the theory that storm would bring rains to the drouth section.

The market advanced during the afternoon on the buying of cotton outright by the farm loan board. Active months made new highs with October at 11.15 and December at 11.30 or 27 to 28 points above the early lows. Close was steady virtually at the top and 16 to 18 points above the points net higher on the active months.

Port receipts 41,900, for week 68,901, for season 452,638, last season 270,499. Exports 17,449, for week 18,521, for season 201,709, last season 157,323. Port stock 1,770,138, last year 581,727, combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 39,723, last year 38,628. Spot sales at southern markets 24,596, last year 30,797.

Futures closed steady at net advances of 11 to 18 points:

Steady Selling of Oil Shares Big Factor of Break of Stock Prices

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (US)—Prices on the stock exchange were influenced today by a sharp break in a former speculative favorite and by steady selling in the oil shares which had the appearance of more than professional raiding. Early moderate improvement gave way to softness in the general list which, however, was confined to relatively modest proportions in most of the leading issues. The more speculative stocks were most affected by the break in Vanadium since its performance emphasized that various issues showing unusual strength of late have been reflecting primarily aggressive manipulation. Volume, however, failed to expand as prices slipped, and this gave cheer to the constructive forces. For the day sales totalled 1,600,000 shares. Money remained easy at 2 per cent, and cotton rallied sharply.

Vanadium, which this column has frequently characterized as the most violently manipulated stock of recent months, broke over 8 points during the day as the pool removed support. Analysis of its six-months' statement, confirming the statement made here that speculative profits contributed almost half of the earnings for the period, discouraged buying of the stock. With only short covering to provide buying power the stock naturally slumped badly. A slight rally was succeeded by renewed selling on knowledge that July operations resulted in a deficit. Vanadium's weakness affected the entire list, but the heaviness in the oil shares probably disturbed the market much more than did the speculative issue's break. Standard Oil of New Jersey dropped almost two points net, Sinclair dropped to the year's low of 20, Royal Dutch touched its previous low, and other Oils also were in supply. The Standard of New Jersey's official publication emphasized the dangers which exist if the industry continues its enormous gasoline output during the seasons when consumption is declining. The statement makes it clear to the market that selling of the oil shares may be in good part liquidation rather than bear raiding.

However, despite the weakness in vulnerable spots, the leading stocks reacted only moderately. Thus Steel common, in which demand appears on all setbacks, sold off only a point. General Motors was also off a point, Westinghouse ¾. The market's action in the face of the break in Vanadium and the weakness in the oil group gave rise to hope that more encouraging developments in the general industrial situation may be close at hand. At least the market seems to be expecting more cheerful news with the passing of the week-end holiday.

Several stocks stood out during the market recession. Foster-Wheeler, in which buying is reported for interests close to the management, attained a new high for the present recovery. This stock has been an outstanding performer throughout this year. The company is maintaining an upward trend in its earnings despite the depression.

Motion Picture shares closed lower, but Fox attained a new high before joining the reaction. Buying of Fox was for the account of investors attracted by its high dividend yield and the indications that the industry has definitely emerged from its depression. United Aircraft sold off with the market but buying was reported to be of high-grade character. Coppers and Motors were lower. The Utilities were also inclined to softness, but National Power & Light, which has proven an exception to the general utility list, continued in demand and closed higher on the day. National is the favored utility of one of the strongest speculative groups in the market. The fact that during the morning firmness various pivotal stocks attained new highs on the present recovery encouraged traders inclined to an optimistic view.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Aug. 25. (AP)—Demand for wheat was weak here today with most of the light offerings being taken by feed mills and shippers. Exporters were making bids of 93½@94c, basis ordinary wheat delivered Texas gulf ports, but these figures were so far under mill bids of 96@97c, basis ordinary No. 1 hard delivered Texas common points, that little was going to the gulf. Dealers reported some sales made for feed to far distant points, the price being below both corn and grain sorghums, value considered.

Fair demand was reported for corn; better inquiry for oats though actual demand was light; little going on in the barley and grain sorghum end of the business.

Estimated receipts for the two days: Wheat 44 cars; corn 17; oats 5; barley 3; and grain sorghums 3 cars.

Bids and offers on coarse grains, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid, ranged as follows:

Corn—No. 2 mixed $1.01@1.02; No. 2 white $1.03@1.04; No. 2 95 per cent white $1.02@1.03; No. 2 yellow $1.08@1.10.

Oats—No. 2 red not quoted; No. 3 white delivered Texas group 1 points 51½@52½c to which add 1 cent for delivery group three.

Barley—No. 2 nominally 72@73c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally $1.85@1.90; No. 2 kaffir $1.75@1.75.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (AP)—A bigger increase of the United States wheat visible supply than generally was expected gave an advantage today to believers in lower prices for grain. Buying demand waned, with the amount of wheat on ocean passage much larger than either last week or a year ago, and Liverpool quotations failing to respond well to price advances on this side of the Atlantic. Moreover, an increase of 4 per cent in 1930 wheat yields of 22 countries was reported, compared with 1929.

Chicago wheat values closed unsettled, ¼@⅝c lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to ⅜c down, oats unchanged to ⅛c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 7c.

With domestic supplies of wheat piling up 8,255,000 bushels more than was the case a week ago, the total was shown to be 182,275,000 bushels against 176,827,000 bushels at this time last year.

Corn and oats prices sagged, owing a good deal to sympathy with wheat weakness. Provisions rallied somewhat toward the last, after averaging lower most of the day with grain and hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Sept. 88c, 90⅛c, Dec. 92⅞c, 94⅝@95c; March 97⅛c, 99⅛c; May $1.00, $1.02⅛@1.02⅝. Corn—Sept. 97c, 99⅝c; December 92c, 94⅛c; March 94⅝c, 96⅞c; May 96⅛c, 98⅝c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (US)—Feeding of wheat and the Canadian pool situation has diverted attention of the trade from the Canadian crop. There has been little news, which is taken as an indication that conditions are favorable. However, the coming two weeks are the critical period for much of the northern section of Canada's wheat belt and the possibilities of damage from frost in this critical period are always present in that section of the country.

The corn market seemed to show plainly that bull news is becoming stale. Many with bullish sympathies look for the next news of importance to come when harvesting gets under way.

Uhlmann Grain company says: "Look for continuation of small fluctuations. Supplies of wheat too large to permit sharp advances and feeding demand too good to permit declines at present. Corn also requires new incentives to change."

Rumsey and company say: "There is a large open interest in the September wheat delivery, which is only seven days away. Most of the contract stocks in Chicago are supposed to be controlled by a private interest and are not for sale. Elevator interest having cash wheat in public houses have been changing their September hedges to December and May, which would lead to believe that they do not want to let this wonderful quality cash wheat get out of their hands."

WIFE FOILED IN DEATH PLOT

Patrolman Poses as Gunman to Kill Husband

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25. (AP)—Admitting she agreed to pay $750 to have her husband killed, Mrs Ella Bartel, 41, today at police headquarters related a story of alleged cruelties since her marriage in 1911. Her plot fell though when a "Chicago gunman" she thought she had hired to kill her husband, Albert, a blacksmith, 45, turned out to be a patrolman who had trapped her.

Mrs. Bartel is charged with conspiracy to murder as is Robert Hahn, 32, who resides with his parents above the Bartel flat. They were arrested after she made an offer to kill her husband to Probationary Patrolman Charles Calcaterra.

She exonerated Hahn, but he was ordered held.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (AP)—Cotton closed 1 to 14 points net higher today. The market opened 5 to 11 points down on poor cables and early easiness in outside markets. Prices rallied soon after posting of the weather map and around noon were 2 to 5 points net higher. The market was steady in the afternoon and closed at or near the top for the day.

The monthly crop review of the Memphis Commercial Appeal says that the cotton crop as a whole has lost in balage prospect since Aug. 1.

Rotten Goose Egg Incident of 12 Years Ago Blamed for Slaying

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, Aug. 25. (AP)—An old feud, originating in Louisiana 12 years ago, was believed responsible today for the death early Sunday morning of Moise Boudreaux, 40-year-old innocent bystander and father of six children.

Boudreax died as a result of two 38 caliber revolver wounds received when he attempted to separate two participants in a fight at the home of J. R. Guldry, in Port Acres Saturday night.

Charges of murder were filed this morning against Joseph Mier, barber, before Justice J. D. Trusty by O. J. Boudreaux, brother of the slain man.

According to Avena Miller, of Port Acres, who witnessed the shooting, a fight was started in the Guidry home between Mier and a man named Mennard. Friends of Mier say the fight was a result of an old feud which originated in Louisiana 12 years ago when Mennard is alleged to have struck Mier with a rotten goose egg. The two are said to have had many fist fights since. During the fight both Mier and Mennard are said to have pulled guns. The pair were quieted and taken from the house. Later, in the back yard they renewed the quarrel and when Boudreaux attempted to separate them he was shot. Boudreaux was a truck farmer and resides in Orange Grove. He came to Port Arthur three years ago from Louisiana.

SENATE VOTE IS COMPLETED

Less Than 200 Votes Out In Congress Race

Complete returns from all counties in the 23rd senatorial district and practically complete returns from all counties in the 13th congressional district were received Monday in reports made to The Record News.

The final Clay county vote was reported in both races, while the totals from Young and Archer counties remained unchanged, Democratic officials said. In Archer county no election was held at the one box reported missing, it was stated. In Young county, all precincts had reported, although the disposition of 12 votes was in dispute. The official canvass of the Young county vote may or may not make a change in the unofficial totals, election workers said. The change, if any is made, is not expected to be material.

Vote for Senate

The final totals gave Ben G. Oneal of Wichita Falls 16,142 votes to 13,672 for Ruben Loftin of Henrietta, a majority of 2,470 for Mr. Oneal. The vote by counties follows:

	Loftin	Oneal
Archer	1036	877
Baylor	596	906
Clay	2120	1036
Foard	834	616
Hardeman	1876	1389
Knox	1266	1029
Wichita	2712	6712
Wilbarger	1643	1843
Young	1589	1734

A statement thanking the voters of the district for their support was issued at Henrietta Monday by Mr. Loftin, defeated in the senatorial race. Mr. Oneal issued a similar statement Sunday, in which he promised a business-like administration of the office.

Mr. Loftin's statement follows:

"It is a source of pleasure to me that I carried five of the nine counties of the district. However, it was impossible for me to overcome the big majority given Mr. Oneal in his home county of Wichita.

"The end of the campaign finds me without ill feeling toward any person who chose to vote against me. I never question the right of a citizen to exercise his prerogative by voting for whom he chooses. I have the further satisfaction of knowing that I kept my campaign on a high plane."

In the congressional race, complete returns were also received Monday from Montague county, in addition to those mentioned previously. Little change was made in the totals, however, and the vote now uncounted is believed to be less than 200. One box was missing in Throckmorton county and about 150 votes in Wise county.

In the retabulation, Guinn Williams of Decatur had a majority of 2,375 over B. D. Sartin of Wichita Falls. Williams' total vote was 23,227 and Sartin's vote was 20,852. Williams carried Archer, Clay, Denton, Cooke, Montague, Wise and Young counties, while Sartin carried Baylor, Jack, Throckmorton, Wichita and Wilbarger counties.

Vote for Congress

A typographical error in the Daily Times Monday afternoon in the tabulation of the vote credited Sartin with only 86 votes in Archer county. Mr. Sartin's vote in Archer county was 861, and he was credited with that number in the totals, although in the county reports it appeared that he had received only 86 votes.

The vote by counties in the race follows:

	Sartin	Williams
Archer	861	1076
Baylor	767	734
Clay	1445	1731
Cooke	2370	2399
Denton	2550	3270
Jack	1121	1016
Montague	1585	2007
Throckmorton	729	526
Wichita	4923	4706
Wise	1080	2265
Wilbarger	1870	1661
Young	1551	1836

Boots, shoes, cement, agricultural hand tools and straw hats were included but not sugar. The commission instituted the investigations on request of the senate.

Gold Star Mother Tells of Trip Through Battlefields of France

Mrs. Mary Yancey Travels 'Sacred Road' to Verdun; Company Buried Upright With Bayonets Fixed

Imagine following the road from Paris to Verdun, known to the French as the "Sacred road," spending the night at Verdun and then going out early in the morning to the Meuse-Argonne cemetery. Following a road uphill until, on reaching the summit, there bursts on the eyes in splendid beauty the vision of 14,200 green graves laid out in eight blocks with white marble crosses marking each grave.

This is the experience of Mrs. Mary Yancey of Elliasville, Texas, who with 247 other gold star mothers sailed on July 23 on the George Washington and came back Aug. 22 on the Republican, after visiting in that Meuse-Argonne cemetery, the grave of her son, Carl Decator Yancey, a private in Company C, 110th Infantry, 28th division, who met death in the Argonne battle, Oct. 5, 1918, "that awful battle," she said, where the dead were piled up like cordwood.

"My son was a manly boy," she declared proudly.

Mrs. Yancey is a brighteyed, far visioned Texan, who talks in a manner showing her appreciation of the condition of France and the generosity of the government that sent her with other mothers to visit her boy's grave. In France, she said, whenever a bus of gold star mothers went by, people in the streets of the towns, or in the fields at work, stopped and stood at attention.

Tells of Harvest

"It was pitiful," she continued, "to see the harvest where the crops were so bountiful and only old men and old women and little children in the fields. They were reaping with cradles; just twice I saw reapers at work, and a man drove two horses, one in front of the other pulling these while women followed picking up the grain and tying it in bundles by hand. More often the grain was cut with the scythe. The gleaners," she went on, "made me think so often of Ruth and Boaz as they picked up the scattered grains. Nothing was wasted." The beautiful countryside where even on the sides of the hill a harvest is made impressed her deeply. She spoke with enthusiasm of the crops of sugar beets, clover, wheat, oats and barley. "And everywhere there were red poppies," she said.

Though she liked the country's beauty and the manner in which they used the land to best ends with a constant rotation of crops, Mrs. Yancey did not particularly like the food. The bread in long twisted loaves did not seem quite sanitary to an American who was used to seeing bread in sealed wrappers and she wasn't exactly enthused over sauces, which she said were served with fish and meats. Fish, steamed and served with white sauce, and sardines, fried with heads and tails still on them, were mentioned as articles of diet. Mrs. Yancey, however, thought the visitors were well treated.

At the cemetery, the mothers were given a card with the number of their son's graves written plainly with the block in which they slept. Great wreaths of flowers were handed them and they were shown the grave where each dear one lay, marked for the occasion by a flag. With tears in her eyes, Mrs. Yancey reiterated her gratitude for the sympathy of a nation that gave each mother the privilege of going alone to her son's grave and putting the flowers upon it. They were in Verdun four days and the rain that fell each day kept the great purple, pink and white asters as fresh as when they were handed the mothers.

Visits Paris

Mrs. Yancey brought home with her pictures of the lovely cemetery, the charming little hostess houses where mothers may rest on these trips and of the fountains that play at the foot of the white marble steps leading up to where the Americans lie. "Every day," she said, "they are finding new bodies and making more graves."

Even with her own interests, she did not fail to see the sad things that faced the people of France, and one trench in which a group of French boys died standing with their bayonets about a foot out of the earth—shelled while they waited the order to charge, seemed to her a most pitiful thing. The French people filled the trench and left their boys standing in the long grave.

In Paris, the Louvre and Notre Dame were of particular joy to this mother. Her eyes shone as she spoke of the Venus de Milo and the Winged Victory, particularly the latter. "Though the head is gone," she said, "you can feel that a soul has felt victory." The exquisite windows in Notre Dame and the magnificent jewels were the two outstanding features there for her.

Yet with all its beauty, the memory of the road from Paris to Verdun will always have a grip on her memory. The shell holes, the torn trees, the landscape rebuilt and the statues marking tragic eras, haunted her even when she spoke of the flowers and the art galleries with a quick introductory "Talk about your pretty things."

One mother in her party died in France—a general nervous breakdown; one is still ill in Paris and one was left recuperating in New York City, she a 75 year old mother. But Mrs. Yancey, armed with pictures and memories is going home to tell the others all about it.

Safeway Bids On Mail Contract

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. (AP)—Bids for two new transcontinental air mail routes showed two competitors for the New York to Los Angeles contract while the Atlanta to Los Angeles line had but one bid—that of the Robertson Aircraft company of St. Louis, combined with Southwest Air Fast Express.

For the New York route, Western Air Express, combined with Transcontinental Air Transport, submitted a bid of 97½ per cent of the maximum rates, while United Aviation company of Pittsburgh, submitted a low bid of 64 per cent of maximum. The Robertson bid was 100 per cent of the maximum rate of $1.25 a mile.

WOUNDED BOY SUES SHERIFF

Locke Asks $55,000 For Loss of Hand

Claiming that Sheriff W. G. Bralley entered into a "conspiracy" with Drs. T. H. Parmley and W. H. Ogden at Electra to amputate his hand rather than incur the expense of an attempt to save the hand, alleged to have been struck by a bullet from the officer's gun during a liquor raid, William T. Locke, 18, through his mother, Mrs. Ruth Locke, as next friend, filed suit for $55,000 damages here Monday in district court against the sheriff, the two physicians and the Globe Indemnity company.

According to the petition filed Monday, Locke and Dan Norwood had gone to a ranch belonging to a Mr. Ansill, 18 miles south of Electra, on Oct. 17, 1929. Informed that Mr. Ansill, whom they were seeking, was in a pasture on the ranch, Locke claims that he and Norwood started out to look for the rancher and came upon a water tank which appeared to be part of a whisky still. The petition states Locke climbed to the top of the tank to look for Mr. Ansill, but saw a group of men carrying guns about 200 yards away.

He ran away, the petition states, thinking the men were bootleggers who did not want him around their still. Locke claims 20 shots were fired at him while he ran, one striking him in the left hand. When the group which fired the shots reached his side, he claims, he recognized Sheriff Bralley, a deputy and two men from the Archer county sheriff's office.

Later at the Parmley-Ogden clinic at Electra, Locke alleges, a nurse refused in the presence of Dr. Ogden to call his mother, although they assented when he asked them to call his employer, James R. Noble, who came immediately and at the wounded boy's request telephoned Mrs. Locke. The mother, according to the petition, ordered the hospital to do nothing to the boy until she arrived, not giving her consent to an amputation. The hand was amputated shortly before her arrival, the petition claims, and Sheriff Bralley, knowing the youth to be a minor, permitted the operation without attempting to notify the boy's mother. Locke alleges the sheriff "conspired" with the physicians to amputate the hand because such an operation would cost far less than treatment and saving of the wounded member.

The Globe Indemnity company, also named a defendant in the suit, was included as having executed Sheriff Bralley's bond of office.

J. A. Hood Thanks Voters for Support

J. A. Hood, successful candidate in the run-off primary for the Democratic nomination, to Wichita county school superintendent, Monday issued a statement in which he pledged himself to faithful attendance to the duties of his office and thanked the persons over the county who voted for and supported him.

His statement in full follows:

"I thank my friends for their support of my candidacy in the recent primaries. I am grateful to the young people who worked so hard for my election. I hope to make Wichita county a good school superintendent.

"Again, I thank you,
J. A. HOOD."

FARMERS HEAR MARKET PLANS

Plans for Co-Op Branch In Wichita Launched

tion with sufficient activity to justify its existence with a working force. Mr. Shipp explained that if 6,000 bales were marketed, the cost on each would be reduced to $1.25, and so on in proportion to the number of bales marketed.

Speaking for the district office, Mr. Shipp said a receiving agent would arrive here within the next few days to assist the farmers of the Wichita Falls district in marketing their cotton, although the lack of a district organization here will make it necessary that the cotton samples be sent to Vernon for grading. This procedure will be eliminated, he said, when the organization here is perfected.

C. L. Geesy, of Greer & Geesy at Wellington, who participates in cotton marketing work in his district, was a visitor at the meeting to assist the farmers of this area. It was announced that the first of a series of organization meetings in surrounding towns would be held in Kemp City Tuesday evening, Sept. 2, when Mr. Shipp will address the meeting and lead the organization work, as a representative of the Vernon district office. Other meetings will be held over this district until a definite working organization has been perfected, with offices in Wichta Falls, operating under the same plan as that in Vernon.

The following signed up Monday night to take part in the organization work in this area: H. B. Everett, Electra; C. P. Dillard, Iowa Park; K. W. Foster, Charlie; L. H. Kiel, C. R. Woods, J. P. McIntyre, Clyde O. Jones, J. C. Burks, F. L. Spainhauer, C. C. Kuykendall, W. D. Birdsong, N. G. Entreken, J. L. Zihlman, W. T. Johnson, O. F. Ashbrook, J. B. Hart, G. W. Garlington, Rufus Marshall, C. C. Bailey, J. B. Birdsong and E. E. Williams, of Wichita Falls.

Sibley-Taylor Church To Resume Construction

According to Rev. Ben Bell, pastor of the Sibley-Taylor Methodist church, work on the basement of the new church to be erected at Twenty-third street and Grace avnue will be resumed Tuesday morning after having been suspended since last winter.

Services will be held in the basement as soon as it is completed, but work on the remainder of the building will continue until it is finished, according to present plans. The cost of the structure is estimated at approximately $10,000.

As soon as the basement of the new home is completed, the name will be changed to the Wilson Memorial Methodist church in honor of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wilson, who donated the site for the structure on which the building is being erected.

DRAINAGE MEET SET THURSDAY

Property Owners of Area Asked to Attend

The county commissioners court will meet in special session at 10 o'clock Thursday morning to hold a public hearing on the question of installing a proposed drainage plan in the area between Lake Wichita and the city limits on the south, through which the canal bringing the city's water from the lake runs, according to an announcement made Monday at the regular weekly court session.

The report of the engineer who has been investigating the advisability of installing the drainage system will be made at the hearing Thursday and property owners in the district involved will be present to present their views on the plan. In the event the result of the hearing is favorable toward the proposed system, steps will be taken immediately to call an election on the plan, officials of the court said.

The only action taken by the court Monday outside routine procedure was to instruct County Treasurer T. W. McHam to pay off $1,233.07 for 82 jail bond coupons due Sept. 1.

G. Bralley. The accused men were arrested by police and held for investigation in the city jail until Monday, when they were transferred to county officials. The complaints were taken by Sam B. Spence, district attorney. Police reported that the two men came here from Oklahoma City and were apparently seeking a way to return at the time they were arrested.

By ELEANOR FLEMING

MAJESTIC: "Let's Go Native," with Jack Oakie, Jeanette MacDonald, Kay Francis, Skeets Gallagher and Eugene Palette. Harry Langdon in "Skirt Shy," and a Terrytoon sound novelty.

STRAND: Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery in "Our Blushing Brides." Fable and sound news.

STATE: "Wild Company," with Frank Albertson and H. B. Warner. Comedy and sound news.

GEM: Will Rogers in "They Had to See Paris," and screen song.

A deep-voiced, grumpy-looking old judge gives one of the best lectures ever spoken on the subject of the younger generation, and the audience not only listens, but likes it! The lecture is in a tense courtroom scene which features "Wild Company," now showing at the State theater.

The judge says just about the same thing as does Judge William H. Atwell in the federal court sessions here, but there will be more people who go to the picture show than those who attend Atwell's court. There is no way of telling how many will heed it, of course.

"Wild Company" is a success for several reasons—First, the superb H. B. Warner, who is one of the best on the speaking screen; second, rapid action; and third, unusual directing and staging. With those elements, any picture would be a success, regardless of plot.

Frank Albertson is much more at home in "Wild Company" than he was in "So This Is London." As the rather inane lover of pretty little Maureen Sullivan, he got boresome in the latter. As the weakling who is easily influenced by the company he keeps, he turns in a remarkable performance.

To H. B. Warner, however, go the high honors. Not a word is lost. Not a gesture is overdone. Not a tear is forced. He is as eloquent an actor as can be seen on the screen today.

Those who were fortunate enough to see the private midnight preview of "All Quiet on the Western Front" Saturday night while the rest of us tabulated election returns report that it is probably the best of all the war pictures. The picture returns for its regular week's run here beginning Friday at the Strand.

Gun Dealer Accessory In Death of Reporter

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (AP)—Peter Von Frantzius, sporting goods dealer, today was named as an accessory before the fact in the slaying June 9 of Alfred Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, in a warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle.

Through a checkup of numbers on a pistol left beside the body of the slain reporter, Von Frantzius was identified as the seller of the weapon. Police said he told of selling it with four others to Frank Foster, Moran-Zuta-Aiello hoodlum who has been identified as the man who dashed from the subway under Michigan avenue, where Lingle was slain, eluded a policeman and escaped.

Hopi Medicine Men Pray Vainly For Heavy Rain

HOTEVILLE, Ariz., Aug. 25 (UP)—The rain gods have turned a deaf ear to the weird pleas for rain from Hopi Indian medicine men.

At sundown last night, paint-streaked Indian braves offered their final pagan ceremony to the heavens, but through the night only cloudless skies answered their prayers.

The medicine men emerged from their kivas with solemn faces to greet the assembled antelope and snake clans of the Hopi family, gathered on this high mesa pueblo to perform the ancient rain rites. They danced around huge bonfires until they fell from exhaustion, and snakes carried in their mouths glided away beneath the stones of their rude altars.

The Indians believed their prayers will be answered when the consecrated reptiles reach the gods' quarter in the depths of the earth. Near-drouth conditions in this region have retarded Indian crops.

Everybody Happy as Baby Mixup Closes

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (INS)—A happy ending was written today to the Watkins-Bamberger baby mixup.

Appearing in superior court, the parents decided that the trade of infants made last week was satisfactory to all concerned. The trade was in accordance with the findings of a scientific jury headed by Health Commissioner Arnold H. Kegel.

A writ of habeas corpus filed by Mrs. Margaret Watkins threw the case into court. Expecting a long fight, Superior Judge Joseph Sabath had postponed his vacation.

"I'm satisfied," Papa Watkins told the court. "I wouldn't sell my baby for $5,000,000."

THEATERS ASK LOWER PRICES

Injunction to Halt Raise Of Rates Sought

HOUSTON, Aug. 25. (AP)—An injunction petition asking restraint of an alleged attempt to force admission price raises at the Texan, Iris and Ritz theaters here was filed in district court today by the Preston Amusement company and the Horwitz-Texan Theaters, Inc., which control the three movie houses.

The petition was directed against the Paramount-Publix corporation, Publix Theaters corporation, R. K. O. Distributing corporation, Metro-Goldwyn-Maer Distributing corporation of Texas, First National Pictures Distributing corporation, Columbia Pictures corporation, United Artists corporation, Universal Film Exchange, Inc., and Vitagraph, Inc.

The petition alleged that the companies controlling the Texas, Iris, and Ritz are, in effect, given the choice of raising their admission price from 15 to 25 cents or suffering a penalty of being unable to obtain second run pictures until the pictures largely have lost their value.

Hearing was set for Sept. 10.

Court Writ Halts Building of Fence

Claiming that a fence constructed by J. H. Logue across a block of land owned by Jack Humphrey cuts off the two tracts belonging to Humphrey and in effect destroys the value of his farm crops by preventing irrigation, attorneys for Humphrey Monday filed a petition for an injunction against Logue in the 78th district court. Judge W. W. Cook granted a temporary restraining order and set a hearing on the injunction for Aug. 30.

Humphrey owns block 1 of the Tyson subdivision on a part of the David Welch survey, with the exception of a 1.93-acre tract owned by Logue, the petition states. Humphrey, it is claimed, rented two-thirds of Logue's tract and his lease will not expire until Jan. 1, 1931. The petition states that in spite of this lease Logue has built a fence across the land, cutting off Humphrey from his cultivated lands, preventing his irrigation of the two tracts thus separated and causing damage to the crops. A permanent injunction is asked.

More garden seeds, Mr. Maricle said, were sold Monday than any day for approximately four years, the bigger percentage of them being turnip and mustard seeds and onion plants.

In spite of the prolonged heat and drouth Mr. Maricle expects this fall to be one of the best in several years for gardens, he said. Other seed dealers in the city also reported heavy sales.
