Ordinary bootleg liquor at one-tenth the cost and no worse in quality is available everywhere and is being used freely. When the liquor privilege is withdrawn, people will continue to get their drinks without involving druggists and doctors in the dirty business of bootlegging."

Tex Rickard's Friends Honor His Name With Memorial Auditorium; Henrietta, Texas To Be Site For Tribute To Man

(By Central Press) HENRIETTA, May 23.—Within the shadow of a tumble-down shack which once was Tex Rickard's home a $150,000 memorial auditorium to the memory of the late sports promoter is to be erected here by his former friends. Some of them, still living here, cherish fond memories of Rickard when he was a hard-riding cowboy and a straight-shooting city marshal in these parts.

Plans for the memorial are rapidly nearing completion. Behind the move is an organization known as the Tex Rickard Memorial association, formed recently with A. H. Bevering, pioneer Clay county resident, and said to be the oldest living friend of the late promoter, as president. Three active vice-presidents were named, the first of whom is Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, and successor to Rickard in the promoting field. The other two are C. G. McKinney, president of the Henrietta Chamber of Commerce, and Frank Holaday, an attorney.

Mrs. Rickard Treasurer. Mrs. Tex Rickard is treasurer of the association, and sole trustee of the funds to be used in building the

Frank and Jesse James. Visits of the latter to Henrietta are recalled today by oldtimers, who tell of the sudden desertion of the streets when the alarm went round that "the James boys are coming."

"Dink" Rickard, cowboy and farm hand, was made city marshal of Henrietta early in the nineties, resigning this position in 1897, when the coming fever got him and he set out with Will Slack, a comrade, for the Klondike. After three years in the Alaska gold fields, Rickard returned here, but only for a few months. He then left for other fields. His Henrietta friends saw him again during periodic visits to his Texas home.

"Her Friends Marvel At Change," Says Husband

"My Wife Certainly Looks And Feels Like A New Person, She Has Taken Two Bottles Of Orgatone"

It is not what the manufacturers claim for it, but the statements from the multiplied thousands, who have been benefited by it, that has made Orgatone the world-over famous medicine, today. T. K. Campbell, of 606 Alabama St., Amarillo, Tex., made the following remarkable statement in regard to his wife's case recently, said:
"My wife suffered from a severe case of indigestion, nervousness, and a general run-down condition," he continued, "she did not have any appetite and always looked puny. Every time she ate anything, it would hurt her, and she kept getting worse all the time. She was weak and fagged out all the time, and was hardly able to do her work. She was going fast down hill, and one day, we read about Orgatone, and she began taking it.
"We are both, indeed, thankful for what Orgatone has done for my wife. She eats anything she wants now, and has a large appetite. Her complexion was always sallow, but you can talk about the 'school girl complexion' now for she has it. Her looks are much better, and has some color in her face. She rests and sleeps well at night, and all of her friends marvel at the wonderful change in her in so short a time. We both are glad to recommend Orgatone, it will do what they say it will. It is a wonderful medicine."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other stimulating drugs and may be obtained in Lubbock, Texas, at the Dovens Drug Store under the personal direction of the special Organizer.

The Woman's Day

"Light" and "heavy" petting is a fine distinction made by the National Y. M. C. A. Commission on Relations Between College Men and Women.

And that's not the half of it. Miss Rose Marie Baur, 18 years old, can do all these trifles and then some. As Chicago's richest girl worth, it is estimated, more than $2,500,000, she can write her own ticket for almost anything from a trip to Europe to a husband.

Rose Marie, the daughter of Mrs. Bertha Baur, republican national committeewoman from Illinois, inherited two-thirds of her father's estate recently on reaching the age of 18. She made the trip from Bryn Mawr college in Pennsylvania, where she is attending school to assume formal charge of the fortune left her when her father, Jacob Baur, the liquid carbonic magnate, died intestate nearly 17 years ago.

A scratch or two of a pen and the money was hers to do with as she pleased. But Rose Marie didn't seem to think she was in any way different from any other 18-year-old girl.

Her mother, who was once a stenographer and later managed the affairs of her husband's business, gave a check for $1,000,000, girls' worth. It is estimated, more than $2,500,000, she can write her own ticket for almost anything from a trip to Europe to a husband.

ROSE MARIE BAUR

CHICAGO, May 23.—How would you like to be able to write a check for $1,000,000, girls' worth. Order your hose and gloves by the dozen pairs, get your hats direct from the Rue de la Paix and have a standing order for corsages with the florist.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MADAME RUBINSTEIN
There is no doubt about it—exercise of various sorts can influence the contour of the hands. The wrong sort of exercise can enlarge the joints and make them ugly and distorted, or marred and knobby.

Look at the hands of the person who does hard, manual labor and see what this rugged kind of exercise can do! For exercise is just another name for use and there is good use as well as bad, which is really abuse.

Driving a car and riding a horse are both good exercise for the hands. They strengthen them and give them character, and golf is splendid for the wrists. Typewriter and piano playing keep the hands limber and supple, and the wrists free, but they also tend to flatten the finger tips. Fingers that do these things should be massaged frequently and the finger tips pinched to make them tapered.

A good exercise to limber up the hands is this simple one. Clasp your hands as tightly as possible. Then stretch them out quickly their fullest extent, making each finger taut so that you feel its muscles pull. Relax, clench and stretch again. Keep doing it for a dozen times, stopping when your fingers ache.

Here is an exercise for your wrists and fingers. Grasp your hand with your right and bend back as if you were trying to to the finger tips to your arm. Release it and, grasping the first set of joints, at the second and the third, just far enough to limber without hurting.

A third good exercise for hands and wrists is this. Press your two palms together and push the hand against each other. Now separate your wrists and press your fingers firmly against each other. Slowly releasing the pressure, it slide up from the base of the fingertips toward the tips until the fingertips of your hands are meeting, and pushing together. Now go back and do the exercise for the beginning, using the whole hand.

Spring housecleaning hint for Husbands

RADFORD paused in the upstairs hall. "What!" he exclaimed, "not through yet—"

From amid the chaos of housecleaning, Mrs. Radford looked up in exasperation. "Get that coat off and help me put up this bed," she ordered, wearily shoving a stray lock of hair back beneath the towel about her head.

"How do you expect me to be through? I can't clean the upstairs, and spend the best part of the afternoon downstairs talking over the telephone, can I? I've been up and down those stairs forty times."

Radford had weathered many spring housecleanings. Wisely, he pulled off his coat and began to roll up his sleeves.

"I think," he observed sympathetically, "that an extension telephone up here in the hall might save steps and—"

"Then suppose," interrupted his wife grimly, "that you order one for me tomorrow."

Telephones where you need them save time, patience, housewifely strength.

Princetonian Has Praise For Texas Tech And Campus
The Texas Technological college will come day by day more beautiful than that of Princeton University, is the opinion expressed here yesterday by E. Bubank, student of the Princeton seminary, who is in this city for several days visit with his brother-in-law, Dr. L. I. Patton, head of the department of geology at Texas Tech, and F. W. Sparks, also of the college.
"Texas Tech has something now that Princeton does not possess," Mr. Bubank declared, "and that is uniformity of architecture in its buildings. It has more room and will undoubtedly become a more beautiful college in every particular than Princeton, and the Princeton campus is looked upon one of the prettiest in the United States."
Mr. Bubank is a graduate of Texas A. and M. College, where he studied under Prof. W. L. Stangel when he was a faculty member of that college, and is renewing old friendships with both Stangel and Prof. Ray C. Mowery, of Tech faculty, who was a classmate of his. He returned from China about two years ago to resume studies at Princeton and is scheduled to return to that country upon completion of his course.

Two of the pigs are gilts, the other six being barrows.
The two gilts will be used as foundation females of this breed for the college herd of hogs and the barrows will be fed and fitted for the 1930 Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth, as well as being used for practice judging by students at the college.
Bigler is recognized as one of the largest breeders of Hampshire hogs in the southwest and is the largest in the entire Plains country. He raises hogs strictly for market purposes, but as his market hogs are of such a high quality, people are coming to him to buy them for their foundation stock.

The rentals aggregate about $4,000 monthly. Seventy-five lots on the Brackenridge tract of land along the banks of the Colorado river are leased to camp cottagers these returning another $1,000.
During the past two years, more than 25 of the "town houses" owned by the school have been moved or sold.

LIGHTNING DOES DAMAGE
ORANGE, May 22.—(AP)—Four window panes were broken; a telephone and radio put out of commission, a piece of weather boarding knocked away and the leg of a pet cat skinned when a bolt of lightning struck the home of W. A. Stedley, Jr., three miles from here recently.

Cardinals Beat Cubs To Take Lead In National League

Lubbock's semi-pro baseball club will meet its hardest opposition of the season at Merrill Park Sunday afternoon when the Omaha Harvesters come here for an exhibition with Gib Jackson's aggregation. The locals showed considerable improvement in their victory over Hale Center last Tuesday and if Jackson is able to get the players in the Lubbock lineup that he is planning on, the Harvesters will give the Panhandle outfit a stiff battle.

"Emmer" Goeber is manager of the Omaha nine this season and from all indications will send a veteran lineup against the Harvesters in the game Sunday. The Harvesters have made an impressive showing in their games thus far, losing their first of the season to the Tactiles. Texans of Amarillo last Sunday. Sled Allen, former manager of the Lubbock aggregation, is at the head of the Amarillo outfit. The Texans will likely be brought here in the near future to meet the Harvesters.

Kid Chocolate, the bantam-weight boxer from Cuba, was given the decision over Fidel Labarba in their alleged title bout Wednesday night in New York city, but the crowd failed to agree with the decision of the referee and one judge. The Associated Press tablet gave the Cuban four rounds and the Californian four with two rounds before the bout. The bantam limit is 118 pounds. Kid Chocolate weighed in at 121 pounds while Labarba scaled 120 1-2.

Nothing else could be done about it. Both fighters were overweight at 2 o'clock in the afternoon before the bout. The bantam limit is 118 pounds. Kid Chocolate weighed in at 121 pounds while Labarba scaled 120 1-2.

It was one of the best exhibitions that has been offered Gotham fight fans in many months. Both fighters mixed it from start to finish, but neither showed championship caliber and the bantam class is still without a champion.

Derrill Pratt's Waco Cubs proved to the skeptics Wednesday in the first "crucial" game with the Dallas Steers that they play their best brand of baseball under pressure. The Wacoans caught the Mavericks in a stampeding winning streak and turned them back as only great ball clubs are wont to do. Houston's loss to the Fort Worth Panthers was the eighth straight defeat for the Bisons.

Proxy Anderson in the Abilene Morning News has dubbed the Abilene Aces the Class A club of the West Texas League. Seems a shame that the Class D teams in the circuit should have to meet such superior competition. The San Angelo sheep herders must have not known they were playing a Class A club when they walloped Abilene 11 to 1 Wednesday at the Aces' home lot. Class A teams seldom have 14 base runners left on bases because of a lack of batting in the pinches. Carl Williams is a great manager but he is being done an injustice when a sport scribe puts his team in the A class.

The comeback of the Big Spring Cowboys during the past week has been one of the sensations in the West Texas loop. Under the leadership of a new pilot, the Cowhorns have come out of a nine game losing streak with impressive wins over some of the strongest teams in the league. Manager Payne started off strong with the club, but when the team began to slump, he threw in the sponge.

Helen Wills Goes Down Net Doubles

"Little Poker Face" and Edith Cross eliminated in Women's Doubles in French Championships

PARIS, May 23. (AP)—The vivacious Senorita Elia De Alvarez out-gamed the reliable Miss Helen Wills, sometimes known as "Little Poker Face" in a brilliant tennis doubles match today.

Largely as a result of the Spanish girls' play, Miss Wills and her fellow Californian, Edith Cross, first and third ranking players of the United States, were eliminated in the women's doubles quarter-finals of the French championships by the Senorita and her Dutch partner Mrs. Bouman, 8-6, 6-4.

The two defeats left Bill Hunter and Frank Hunter in the men's doubles and Miss Wills and Edith Cross in the mixed competition as the only purely American teams still in the running for doubles championships.

Robins Likely To Lose Namesake; Veteran Pilot Ready To Step Out

Wilbert Robinson, one of the oldest managers in major league baseball in point of service, is expected to relinquish his post in Brooklyn soon.

BY JAY VESSELS Associated Press Staff Writer BROOKLYN, May 23. (AP)—The sun is setting on the major league career of Wilbert Robinson, for 16 years director of Brooklyn's destinies.

This it seems, will be Robbie's last year at the head of his Robins. He may not last throughout the season. If the club directorate accepts his offer, the Dodgers' 59-year-old manager will step down but with his full annual salary of $25,000 in his pocket.

It is a case of one of the best baseball points in the National League demanding a new deal. They wanted Robbie to quit last year, but being president of the club he managed to fight off the directors who sought his removal.

Robbie thought a new chance would bring a new deal, at it did not. His club was shot to pieces before the season opened when Glenn Wright, the very man he had bank-

Every Game Won By Grimes Makes Giant Fans Weep

By NEA Service PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 23.—As time goes on the Grimes-Aldridge trade stands out more and more as one of the worst deals that John McGraw ever engineered in his long baseball career.

It may be remembered that McGraw last year swapped Grimes even to Pittsburgh for Vic Aldridge. Aldridge never did get in condition and was released while Grimes proceeded to win 25 games while losing only 14 for the Pirates.

Not content with that showing in 1928, Grimes has started out this season as if he intends to better that mark. He won his first six games before May 20. And with the Pirates improving, it looks as if he will win many more for them this season, perhaps more than he did last year.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23. (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics defeated Washington, 9 to 8 in the second game of a double header today with Rube Walker, the star left hander in the box. The Mackmen also won the first game by the same score, 9 to 8, but it took four men to pitch them through it.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

C'Goofy just got back from the Kentucky Derby. He took it cross-country, instead of following the railroad, which is his usual custom after the races.

More than half a million bucks was bet on the derby, they told O'Goofy. Horse certainly is king.

O'Goofy rises to depose, however, that the guy who gave him Minotaur under the grandstand stand changed his opinion about horses. O'Goofy now thinks Bull is King.

Joe is glad he took along $14 any way. There were seven races on the cards. Next week he's going to Ringling Brothers' circus and see if he can pick out a clown.

After 20 years without being chased, Roger Peckinpugh was banned for five days, and immediately after his return to the game got into another argument that almost resulted in suspension. Roger must have enjoyed his vacation.

Next week, we will present in installment form that interesting novel by Art Shires, "What's Wrong With the White Sox."

New Yorker Paces Derby Runners Into Kent A Salo And Gavuzzi Battle For Leadership

KENT, Texas, May 23. (AP)—Sam Richman of New York won his first consecutive lap in C. C. Pyle's cross-country marathon today, running the 56 miles between Pecos and Kent in seven hours, two minutes and two seconds, in spite of broiling sun at one stage and severe electrical and hail storms another. Guisb Umek of Italy was second, 11 minutes and 48 seconds behind the New Yorker.

Johnny Salo of Passaic, N. J., who leads in elapsed time, and Fete Gavuzzi of England, striving to wrest first place from the New Jersey man, finished in a dead heat for the fifth consecutive day at Kent for fourth position in today's lap.

Modernism Is Sheer Lawlessness And Encourages Every Evil," Says Des Moines University Prexy

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer
BUFFALO, N. Y., May 23.—The recent student riots at Des Moines University were only the surface symptoms of a widespread disease which has afflicted all phases of American life, both in and outside the university world.

This disease is modernism—the attitude of the "liberal" section of Protestantism as opposed to the orthodox tenets of the fundamentalists.

Unless the country as a whole turns back to the old-time religion and restores the Bible as an unquestioned authority, this disease may bring consequences for the nation which will be disastrous.

This is the way Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the Baptist Bible Union of North America, and head of the board of trustees at the Des Moines institution, sums up the recent fray in which he was the chief target for missiles from a mob of 200 excited students.

Dr. Shields came to Buffalo immediately after the Des Moines riot to attend the convention of the Baptist Bible Union.

Upheld by Trustees
He and the members of the board of trustees described the trouble in detail, and Dr. Shields had the satisfaction of seeing his action overwhelmingly approved, while the convention was unanimous in accepting the trustees' verdict that the students' charges of impropriety, leveled at Dr. Shields and Miss Edith Rebmam, the board's secretary, were utterly without foundation.

One of North America's most militant champions of the fundamentalist program, Dr. Shields was zealous in his criticism of the modernism which, he contended, lay at the bottom of the trouble at Des Moines University.

"The fact is," he told this interviewer, "modernism is a corrupting and disintegrating principle wherever it is found. It works havoc in the homes, in the schools, in the church and in the state.

"Modernism in principle is a rejection of all objective authority, and makes every man a law unto himself. Everybody knows that the negation of authority, both in individual and social life, brings disorder and confusion.

"I met an eminent blood specialist from the Johns Hopkins University on the train recently, who said that influenza was a virus which never killed anybody, but which so enfeebled the whole constitution as to leave one defenseless before the attacks of the bacilli which even the healthiest person carries in his body.

"So the negation of modernism—the denial of the supernatural, the rejection of the authority of the Bible, the consequent ignoring of its precepts and its principles—reduce the whole moral nature to a negative state, which provides a natural culture bed for every positive evil."

In discussing the particulars of the Des Moines riot, Dr. Shields said the immediate cause of the trouble lay in such surface things as the abolition of the fraternity and sorority system. These undergraduate activities he characterized as "really alien to the spirit and ideals of an essentially Christian institution."

Back of them, however, he saw the specter of modernism.

"Modernism," he declared, "is sheer lawlessness.

"To those whose eyes are opened, the riot at Des Moines should teach a much-needed lesson.

"Unless there should come to this continent a real revival of religion that will restore the Bible to its place of supreme authority in the home, in the school and in the church, and its principles of righteousness to a pre-eminent position in the state, the riot at Des Moines may be repeated on a larger scale and with appalling results."

Fundamentalist Faculty
The Bible Union, Dr. Shields recounted, took over Des Moines University two years ago — "for the avowed purpose," he said, "of making it an essentially Christian and Baptist institution." As soon as the Union gained control, it made every effort to purge the institution of every trace of modernism. All of the faculty members subscribed their acceptance of the Bible Union's fundamentalist confession of faith.

"It would now appear," he added, "that not a few of them had said Amen to the inevitable."

The trustees' efforts to make the university a strictly fundamentalist institution, however, did not win the unanimous approval of the professors.

As a result, Dr. Shields requested the resignation of seven faculty members who he felt were out of harmony with the spirit of the university. Counter charges accusing him of improper conduct with Miss Rebmam were filed, and the board of trustees convened to hear them. It found them baseless, and after Dr. Shields and the secretary had been cleared the entire faculty was ousted. This provoked the riot, in which 200 students pelleted college buildings with eggs and made such violent demonstrations against Dr. Shields that he feared for his safety.

I want to tell you how I coaxed him to eat—

"Once I was worried—mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'mined' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy, I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

Loss of appetite only a symptom
It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful man.

Brownsville High Gridders Looming Formidable

BROWNSVILLE, May 23.—(P)—The Brownsville High school Eagles, undefeated in last year's football race but deprived of an opportunity to play for the state championship because of their Class B status, are confident they will be in the running for the 1923 title now that they have been admitted to Class A circles.

Coach Douglas Fessenden will lose only three men from last year's great team and he has several new men capable of filling their positions without loss of strength. The Eagles are in District 8, along with Corpus Christi, Laredo, Austin and the four San Antonio high schools.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

HAPPINESS Who is the happiest person in Lubbock? There have been beauty, popularity, Venus, movie, ear and eye contests, so why not a happiness contest? Succumbing to the long-distance fad, why not a happiness marathon with the dance, piano, pie and other marathonic successors to the all-Greek sport?

Inspired by such provisos as "the pursuit of happiness is the first law of nature" and "happiness is the ultimate aim of life," a reporter of the Avalanche set forth to seek out Lubbock's happiest individual or class.

At the start of his mission of merriment he looked for joy at its best among the youth of the mayor's domain. Crossed by rains, by lost pennies, razor straps, school books, baths and music lessons Youth sent him on to Old Age.

Old age he found in a rage over bobbed hair, flappers, rheumatism, the weather and the chickens on the front lawn and the seker after the blue bird of happiness turned away, whither he knew not.

Changing to meet a bachelor he learned that the happiest of men are those married and managed but he turned away in dismay when he overheard a benedict envy the emancipated ones.

Wives told him widows were the most blessed of all mortals, but widows lamented that their songs, Psychologists cautioned him that the weed-filled life of some care-free races and classes was not happiness, long sought, but a noisy habit of shiftless people.

On the guidance of each the reporter hastened from bench warmers to idlers, to business men and following the old nursery rhyme he interviewed in vain "the rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief, doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief."

Emulating Sir Launfal and his Holy Grail, the reporter returned home, worn out and frail, and as he passed the editor he heard, "the happiest man in Lubbock is the other fellow."

FACTS It is a common trait to resent a fact when it conflicts with a preconceived notion. We cherish old ideas as we keep old clothes that ought to be thrown away, and we do not thank the one who takes them from us. Yet in time we come to cherish what we once resented and make believe that it was our own way from the beginning.

In politics or religion it is common to find belief a matter of inheritance rather than conviction. We receive our affiliation with a church or party as a family legacy. If we find among our juniors a tendency to go off at a tangent and do their own thinking, that challenges the foundations we received and conserved, we are likely to denounce it as a symptom of a mental and a dangerous age.

But it is healthy to ask questions and it is a necessary preliminary to real progress. The architect to the social order is the person or the institution that is unquestionable. In every intellectual master the absolute dictatorship is impossible if the truth is to be ascertained.

That facts may take effect the mind must be prepared, as land is plowed and harrowed for the sowing of seed. The capacity of the mind to receive truth often seems to exceed its capacity for receiving instruction, as many an exasperated teacher of "stupid" children is aware. But a thing is not true merely because some one says it. The teacher may be wrong. And the most inspiring teacher, most willingly followed, is not the one who insists that all he says is the word of final authority. He leads his pupils in quest of truth, whatever turn the way may take, whatever the journey's end.

In the modern world we need more science, less sentimental rhapsodizing that deals large, poetic generalities instead of accurate and definite information. It will not do to assume that the reader or hearer represents the average of intelligence; he may know unconformably more of the subject in hand than the one who essays to inform him.

MAN'S LITTLE INTERESTS Things in miniature hold an unaccountable fascination for both young and old. From the cradle to the coffin man's first interest is in littleness.

The largest elephant on earth draws a smaller crowd than a herd of baby pachyderms. The museum giant isn't nearly as interesting as the pygmy people in the same tent. As a work of juvenile literature Swift's "Gulliver's Travels" owes much of its popularity to the Lilliputians.

Dogs, cats, horses, cows, and all other dumb animals are universally loved before reaching mature stature. Hear the ejaculations of pleasure from old and young upon sight of a baby creature of the woods or barnyard. They are all man's pets and playthings.

Psychologists have long been explaining this peculiar trait in humanity and offer many and diverse explanations. Perhaps the most logical theory is that the young represent dependence and helplessness. Man is awed by the powerful appeal of the little creatures for protection.

The war taught the world economy in the use of everything. A British scientist says the average person uses only about one-half of his brain.

It is said that 400 out of every 1,000 Americans weigh too much, but those folks don't cause half the disturbance of that other, large proportion which weighs too much in its own imagination.

A physician attributes the fact that today a woman of 40 "looks 20" to her habit of "casting away superfluous clothes." If the process is progressive it may not be long until she'll look like a mere child.

August, a month in the latter part of the summer. An epithet applied to the United States senate, often in irony.

A further question we should like to put to the Washington diplomatic corps is as follows: Which is the head of the table, in case of a round table?

ELECTION VOTES NOT PRO-HOOVER ACCOUNT FOR SENATE'S FAILURE TO BACK PRESIDENT, SAYS TEXAN

BY CHARLES F. STEWART Staff Writer For Central Press

WASHINGTON, May 23—After the overwhelming fashion in which President Hoover was swept into office on the G. O. P. ticket—Apparently so devastating a Hoover victory that certain alarmed public men said it paved the way for a dictatorship, if Mr. Hoover chose to make an American Mussolini of himself—which, of course, nobody actually expected—How in the dickens does it happen that the United States senate—with a clear G. O. P. majority of 15, which everyone had supposed was equivalent to a Hoover majority—turned down Mr. Hoover's strongly expressed wishes concerning the farm bill—the very first time that self-same senate took a vote, only just 65 days after his inauguration.

"The explanation," says Senator Tom Connally of Texas, "unquestionably is that huge numbers of ballots cast last November for Mr. Hoover were not, in reality, pro-Hoover votes, but simply anti-Smith votes."

Senator Connally doubtless knows what he is talking about. His state was one of those which cast its electoral vote for Mr. Hoover, though it sent him (Connally) to the senate, as a democrat.

"Now that Mr. Hoover is president," continued the Lone Star senator, "very little of that anti-Smith sentiment, which he got the benefit of on election day, is back of him."

"He is nothing like as strong as he seemed to be in November—nothing like as strong as he probably thought he was."

"Many conflicting elements combine, for the time being, on Hoover, because they were alike in fearing Smith. The Smith danger being over, they are falling away and resuming hostilities among themselves."

"The members of the house of representatives," went on the Texan, "appeared altogether too much united on farm legislation to be natural."

"In fact, they were split into a number of groups, each with very decided views of its own—views opposed to each other's, and all opposed to the administration's plan of farm relief, which they nevertheless accepted with a surprising show of satisfaction."

"They were still fooled by the big Hoover vote at the last election—that is, afraid of President Hoover. So they swallowed what he offered and tried to like it."

"The senate, however," proceeded the Texas lawmaker, "is a little more independent. It can afford to be. Senators only have to go to the polls once in six years; not every year, like the representatives, which naturally makes the latter timid."

"Accordingly, the senate voted about as its members saw fit. The result immediately revealed how much weaker the president was than most folk had imagined. Instead of having a majority of 15 in his favor, he had a majority of 3 against him."

"This will teach the house of representatives a lesson. Henceforward the president will not be so strong there, either."

"There are other signs," observed the senator, "of a breakdown in the present White House tenant's influence."

"When President Coolidge denounced the equalization fee, as an important feature of the agricultural relief proposals, the national reaction was strong, widespread and favorable to Mr. Coolidge. I sense little, if any, popular reaction to President Hoover's denunciation of the debenture plan. It seems to pass almost unnoticed."

"Why? I don't know. A difference in presidential personalities, perhaps."

"President Hoover also could very properly have objected to the debenture plan while being urged to express his farm views. Evidently unwilling to accept any responsibility, he refused them. Later—seeing himself, I suppose, in danger of being lost in the woods—he expressed his objections in a style to anger the debenture's supporters."

"The truth is," commented the southwesterner, "President Hoover is in the difficult position of having tremendous promises to live up to—not necessarily promises made by himself, but assumed by others."

"This makes it hard for him to escape disappointing the country. Glowing promises, made in advance, are perilous."

"Besides, the White House is a place for an extremely able politician—not a thin-skinned one, either. After a great politician is dead, we call him a statesman. While alive, it is highly important for him to understand politics."

SOME BELIEVE SMALLPOX CAN BE TRANSMITTED BY TELEPHONE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In the middle ages the most dread disease for mankind in general was smallpox. So common was the condition, that the unusual person in the community was the one without the pits and marks of smallpox upon his face.

Today the person who carries about such scars is a monument to the ignorance and stupidity of his parents who refused to permit him to be vaccinated. Smallpox is a preventable disease. Since the work of Edward Jenner, it has been definitely established that vaccination confers protection in the vast majority of cases.

Essentially, vaccination is a means of giving the person a mild attack of the disorder. An observation made by a dairymaid to Edward Jenner, namely, that she could not get smallpox because she had had cowpox, was the reason for his undertaking to develop inoculation against the disease.

Because many of the early middle ages did not have any idea as to how this disease might be spread from one person to another, and because he feared the disease so greatly, he developed strange notions as to the power of the disease to strike in an unusual manner; hence the notion developed that smallpox might come through the air.

RICH GIRL & POOR GIRL & RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED MILDRED LAWRENCE meets STEPHEN ARMITAGE when he rescues her fox fur from a thief. Their friendship grows until PAMELA JUDSON, daughter of Mildred's employer, tries to lure him away from her. HUCK CONNOR becomes infatuated with Pamela and she plays both men. Her brother, HOWARD, is in love with Mildred, who tries to keep him from gambling with Huck's crowd.

When Stephen continues seeing Mildred, Pamela cables her father to discharge her. Harold tries to prevent this but fails. Pamela succeeds in poisoning Stephen's mind against Mildred and the latter faces dreary days in search of work. Then Pamela tries to break with Huck and when he objects tells him she and Stephen are engaged. She tells Stephen that is the only way she can get rid of Huck and pleads with him to confirm the engagement.

Huck commands Harold to prevent Pamela's marriage to Stephen under fear of exposure concerning a forged check. Harold says he can't force Pamela so Huck plans to dispose of Stephen. He has one of his pals ask for a demonstration of a car by Stephen and they set a trap to steal it from him. He goes back to his office expecting to be discharged but nothing is to be done until after a full investigation.

Pamela insists on Stephen attending a dinner that night in honor of their engagement. Harold confesses enough to Mildred to reveal to her that Stephen is in danger of Huck's scheming. Heartbroken and out of a job, she tries to think of some way to save him, but in vain for Stephen is arrested when a run, roll of bills and the auto keys are found in his room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX Harold came to Stephen as soon as he received that trouble-swamped young man's message. He didn't need any words from Stephen to convince him that his future brother-in-law was innocent. The handwork of Huck Connor was plainly visible to him.

But he listened without comment while Stephen told about the incriminating evidence that had been found in his room. Stephen was too much taken up with the mystery to notice Harold's extreme nervousness, his evasive, shifting glances.

"That evidence was planted there," Stephen declared excitedly stopping in the restricted pacing he had set up again as his agitation increased. "Someone was out to hang the theft of the car on me."

"Perhaps," Harold gulped, "he planned to throw suspicion on you so the fellow from the insurance company wouldn't look any farther."

Stephen regarded him with a new thought. "You don't seem to suspect me," he said quietly. "Why?"

"Harold started. 'Why?' he repeated in conspicuous confusion: 'Why it never occurred to me,' he added lamely."

"I wonder if it will ever occur to Pamela," Stephen said, and there was a doubt in his voice. "That's what I wanted to see you about, Harold. You've got to tell me that I'm here. Tell her I want to see her."

Harold seemed to shrink. "You don't want me to ask Pam to come here—to a police station?" he asked incredulously.

Stephen stared down at him where he sat, uneasily on the cot, rested when a run, roll of bills and the auto keys are found in his room.

Stephen regarded him with a new thought. "You don't seem to suspect me," he said quietly. "Why?"

"Harold started. 'Why?' he repeated in conspicuous confusion: 'Why it never occurred to me,' he added lamely."

Harold seemed to shrink. "You don't want me to ask Pam to come here—to a police station?" he asked incredulously.

Stephen stared down at him where he sat, uneasily on the cot, rested when a run, roll of bills and the auto keys are found in his room.

Stephen regarded him with a new thought. "You don't seem to suspect me," he said quietly. "Why?"

"Harold started. 'Why?' he repeated in conspicuous confusion: 'Why it never occurred to me,' he added lamely."

Harold did not disobey. Neither did he see Pamela that day, though he waited and watched for her with feverish expectancy.

Harold had gone straight to her with a plea that she have nothing further to do with him. "Dad will cut you off without a cent, Pam," he told her. "You were foolish to become engaged without his consent. Wait until he gets back then you can fix it up with Stephen if you want to."

Pamela looked at him from under haughtily lifted eyebrows. "Don't get so fussed, dear," she said quietly. "I have no intention of fixing up anything with a man who's been arrested."

Harold was taken aback. Even he, who knew her so well had not been prepared for this display of callous heartlessness.

"You mean," he stammered, "that you aren't going to see him?"

"Certainly not. Who wants to see the inside of a jail?"

Harold almost sobbed with relief. "God, I'm glad to hear you say that," he told her. "I was afraid you would do it to spite me if I told you to stay away. But I had to warn you Pam. I know Dad wouldn't stand for it. And you would be a grand flop as a poor man's wife."

"Oh, get out," Pamela exclaimed impatiently. "I've got to get Marjorie and some of the crowd together and tell them about this. I'd rather have them laugh in my face than behind my back."

Harold left her and went to his own room. He felt like a hound but he told himself that anything he did to protect Pamela was justified. And if she didn't care any more about Armitage than she seemed to, the fellow was lucky not to marry her.

Stephen did not feel that way about it. He couldn't see any luck behind the disappointment that Pamela's indifference caused him. He took it pretty hard, though he tried to convince himself that Harold had not given her his message.

But whatever comfort he derived out of that possibility faded the next day when the newspapers carried the story of his arrest and all she did not come to him.

"Perhaps she had not seen the brief item, buried as it was among the advertisements on a back page," he told himself. Well, she was certain to hear of it from some source. He would not send for her again. He would pass well into the afternoon and Stephen had not decided on a way to free himself.

He was loathe to appeal to his family, though he'd learned already that it was possible for a crook with underworld connections to cure bail, while a man without a curriculum vitae would not be taken seriously. He decided to speak in a matter-of-fact tone. "You know I'm going to marry her, don't you?" he went on without giving Harold time to answer. "I'm not a thief. I want to tell Pamela that. I can tell her if she has any doubts about it," Harold offered.

Stephen shook his head. "No," he said stubbornly. "If Pamela doesn't care enough for me to come and tell me she doesn't believe I'm guilty, I'll not need anyone carrying messages between us."

"But Pamela never..."

"I know," Stephen interrupted brusquely. "She's never seen anything of the seamy side of life. Well, if she really loves me she won't require any urging to get acquainted with it when I need her."

Suddenly a thought that carried a ray of hope came to Harold. He was deathly afraid that Huck would move swiftly to make Pamela his own now that Stephen was out of the way. But if their engagement could be broken up it might act as a stay to Huck's plans.

He looked at Stephen in a guilty way as he said, "Aren't you pretty skeptical about the girl you're engaged to marry?"

Stephen nodded before he realized it. Then having betrayed himself, he decided to speak frankly. "I am," he said tersely. "I agree with what you said just now. Pamela may not be able to stand up to this sort of thing. I won't blame her. Harold, if she doesn't, but I've got to know. It's a damnable doubt to have on my mind when I do, even know how I'm going to get out of this mess."

Harold's reply, though serving his own private purpose, was truthful enough. "I don't believe she'll come," he said. "And I don't think you should ask her to. Pam's not the sort of girl to be mixed up in this kind of trouble."

Stephen began to pace the floor again, his hands thrust deep in his trousers' pockets.

"Another thing, Armitage," Harold continued. "You ought to wait until you have a talk with Dad before you think of holding Pamela to her word. You know, there's always the possibility when a chap of... well, your limited means, becomes engaged to a wealthy girl that he's..." Here he paused and rested on insinuation.

"Marrying for money," Stephen supplied the words for him. "Pamela knows better."

"But my dad may need to be convinced," Harold told him. "And your letting Pamela announce the engagement last night looks as if you were rather keen on rushing things."

"Is that the way it looks to you?" Stephen spoke caustically.

Harold squirmed. "I'm thinking of how it will look to dad," he answered uneasily. Stephen noted his evasion.

"I don't give a damn what you or your dad think," he retorted loudly. "I wouldn't care if Pamela hadn't a cent."

"You can bet she would," Harold told him. "And I'm warning you—she may not have it if dad takes an unfavorable view of the way you became engaged to her. And there's this," he added, waving his hand to indicate the cell.

"Tell Pamela that," Stephen said, "and then tell her I'm waiting for her. We'll both find out what she thinks."

Harold got up to go. Stephen had given him a good idea. "Well," he said vaguely, "anything I can do..."

"There isn't a thing," Stephen said curtly and turned away. He did not see Harold again, for that night Huck warned the boy to keep away from him and Harold

Stock Prices Have Rebound Making A Slight Recovery

More Than Half Of Wednesday's Losses Regained In Selling; Funds Supply Is Found To Be Liberal

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

NEW YORK, May 23. (AP)—Stock prices rebounded sharply today from the bottom struck in yesterday's violent collapse, but trading was moderate and the upturn was regarded as a readjustment of technical conditions rather than a revival of speculative confidence.

The Associated Press indices indicated that more than half of yesterday's losses were regained, but total sales of $314,320 shares were about 1,500,000 less than yesterday's turnover. The rise was facilitated by the liberation of a large supply of funds in the shakeout. Call money renewed at 10 per cent and held at that rate all day, and funds were available in the outside market at 3 1/2 per cent during most of the day. Time money, however, still held around 9 per cent.

Although it was the publication of the federal reserve's advisory council's recommendation for higher discount rates that prompted traders to dump their holdings on the market yesterday, the New York bank announced no change in its 5 per cent rate after the weekly directors' meeting.

Wall street now believes that a 6 per cent discount rate within the near future is a certainty, and is only waiting to have it done and over with.

The weekly federal reserve broker's loan compilation showed a reduction of $45,000,000, but yesterday's transactions were not completed until today, the additional reduction resulting from the severe break will not appear until next week's figures are published.

The day's business news continued generally favorable. The utilities were prominent in the upturn, making up most of their losses.

SHE PREACHES TO FRIENDS THE GOOD SARGON HAS DONE

"Since taking Sargon I have felt in better health than in the last five years."

"My stomach was in such an upset condition that most everything I ate soured instead of digesting properly. I would have such bloating pains after each meal that I hated to eat. About twelve years ago I had a fall, injuring my hip and knee, and I have been troubled with rheumatism in my joints ever since."

MRS. LULU E. PETERSON

"An inactive liver caused me to be constipated and I was continually taking laxatives. I had many a restless night from all this suffering and would be as tired in the mornings as though I had never gone to bed. Nothing I took helped me."

"Sargon made me feel like a different woman. My appetite has come back and I enjoy my meals. My stomach is soothed and my digestion improved so I don't suffer bad effects after eating. The rheumatism disappeared, and I feel much better at night. I get up in the morning feeling refreshed and full of life and energy."

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills toned up my liver and rid me of constipation in a natural manner. My whole system is reconditioned and filled with new health."

"Sargon has helped me so remarkably that I am preaching to all my friends about its benefits and will continue to praise this wonderful medicine every chance I get."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Lulu E. Peterson, highly respected resident of 7814 Sherman St., Houston. Mrs. Peterson is a member of the Royal Neighbors society and also belongs to the Baptist church.

Sargon may be obtained in Lubbock at the City Drug Stores and in Slaton at the City Drug. Adv.

Weather Reports Result In Early Cotton Declines

NEW YORK, May 23. (AP)—Early declines influenced by better weather reports and relatively easy cables were followed by rallies in cotton here today on trade buying and covering supposed to include some price fixing in May. While buying of later months may have been influenced by some uncertainty as to weather developments later in the week, July contracts sold up from 19.47 to 18.66 and closed at 18.55.

The opening was easy at a decline of 1-0 to 17 points with active months selling 15 to 18 points net lower during early trading under liquidation combined with some local and commission house selling.

Offerings were light, and prices firmed up in late trading with May advancing to 19.45 and December to 18.67, or about 17 to 19 points above the low levels of the morning.

Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the best on most positions. There was considerable further switching from near to late months but without much change in the differentials.

At the close May was about 79 points above July compared with a premium of 81 points at the close of the previous day.

Private cables reported liquidation in Liverpool on more favorable weather reports from the south. The Liverpool market will be closed on Friday and Saturday. Exports today 1,021 making 7,595,402 so far this season. Port receipts 4,454. U. S. port stocks 1,166,794.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were irregular at 1-4c net decline to an equal advance. Corn finished 1-4 to 3-4c up, oats showing 1-8 to 1-4c gain, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7c.

Recoveries Echo Cotton Declines In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 23. (AP)—Early declines were followed by recoveries in the cotton market today when shorts covered and the trade bought on the improved technical position of the market, strength in stocks and easier call money. The market opened easy in sympathy with disappointing Liverpool cables and first trades showed declines of 7 to 11 points.

Aggregate receipts of cattle were estimated at 22,500, a decrease of more than 1,900 from a week ago killing classes firm with spot slightly higher on the better grades of fed steers. Chicago received 14,750 for choice 1125 lb. steers and 14,635 for 1,400 lb. heaves.

Only a few scattered loads of South Texas grass cattle and calves were received at northern markets.

Would Have Won Billy Bowlegs Gets 10-Year Sentence

DALLAS, May 23. (AP)—William Huckabay, otherwise Billy Bowlegs, would have won a bet today. But no one would bet with him.

Officers in several other cities want "Bowlegs." He already is under sentences aggregating more than 20 years because of his activity with nitroglycerine on the doors. So, nonchalantly, he walked guilty to a hotel burglary here today.

"I'll lay you a fiver that the jury gives me 10 years. It's got a 10-year look in its eye," he told a court attaché as the jury filed out.

He was right. Within 15 minutes the jury's verdict was read. Ten years.

What bothered Bowlegs most seemed to be that he was convicted of a "measly hotel burglary."

AP MAKES PROTEST Ruling Against Newspaper Men Draws Fire Thursday

WASHINGTON, May 23. (AP)—The Associated Press protested to Vice-President Curtis today against his ruling barring all press association representatives from the senate floor.

Yesterday, when the rules committee decided to withdraw access to the floor from the United Press, because the latter published a secret senate roll call described as inaccurate, the vice president announced he would so enforce the rules as to bar all newspaper men from the floor. This action does not, however, affect admission to the press gallery.

Bourland Pleased Over Selection Of Dates For W.T.C.C. Convention; Two Presidents To Be Present At Meeting

Classes Continuing Through Today In Lubbock Baptist Institute In Session For Two Days

(Special To The Avalanche) VERNON, May 23.—The action of the advisory committee in setting the dates of October 24, 25 and 26, for the eleventh annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was the very best thing the committee could have done according to a statement of President A. M. Bourland.

Mr. Bourland declared that he would have preferred holding the meeting in May or June and that Manager Homer D. Wade held the same viewpoint. However the unusual situation in El Paso caused by the war in Mexico made it absolutely impossible to have held the convention in the month of May and the revolution was not ended early enough to permit making plans to hold the meeting in June. The Seymour district convention recommended the dates for the first week in July. This date is about the earliest which could have been set and permitted time for making the necessary arrangements and about the latest which could have been set without going into the fall. Climatic conditions on the Mexican border are not the best for holding a mid-summer convention. When the July dates met with many protests from local chambers of commerce the committee felt that they should be abandoned and the dates of October 24, 25 and 26, are now final and will not be changed unless it develops that President Hoover desires an earlier date.

Bourland Optimistic Mr. Bourland expressed optimism over the chances of having the president at the convention. The United States Army maneuvers originally planned for May were postponed because of the Mexican revolution and will be held on the same dates in October as those set for the West Texas Convention. In addition the Tri-State celebration of the Seventy-fifth anniversary of the Gadsden Purchase and the proposed meeting of Hoover with President Gil of Mexico offers an appeal which is unusual.

The Treasury department of the United States government deems the Gadsden Purchase celebration of sufficient importance to issue a special coin commemorating the event and the sale of this coin is expected to yield considerable revenue to help bear the expenses of the convention. Already hundreds of orders have been received for these coins from all over the world.

Visits Assured Definite assurance has been received from the White House that Hoover is going to visit Texas this year. Assurance has also been received that he will visit the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention if the dates are such that he can do so. Assurance has also been received from Mexico City that President Gil will meet Hoover at the border. Hence the international aspects of a meeting between the two presidents will focus the news spotlight of the world upon West Texas and the publicity value of such a meeting is limitless. In addition West Texas has a number of projects which will be helped by a visit of the president.

Mr. Bourland declares that the Eleventh Annual Convention has every prospect of proving a record breaker. Never before has a convention been held with so many big attractions. The army maneuvers will bring about the greatest concentration of troops since the world war. Military attaches and officials from all over the world will attend these maneuvers. The latest developments in aviation will be shown, and the world's greatest flyers will attend. The visitors will be treated to a spectacle which could not have been produced otherwise even though thousands of dollars might have been expended. They will see the military power of the United States on display and will view the newest inventions of warfare of the entire world. Artillery from France, Germany, Italy, Great Britain and other nations will be displayed and in fact the maneuvers will constitute a great show within itself.

years will elapse before the plan for a huge program of road improvement will be brought before the legislature, he explained. Senator Parrish replied with an emphatic "no" when asked if he thinks the democratic party of Texas will have two factions in the next election. "There is as much cohesion in the party ranks as ever," he said. "If Governor Moody had approved the Wier bill, a proposal for ousting those who supported Hoover in the last election from the democratic party, then I believe the party would have been split in two.

"The democratic party has nothing to fear of R. B. Creager's boast that the republicans will disrupt the party by a coalition of the Hoover democrats with the G. O. P. forces."

Hendrix Buys Old "Flying H" Ranch

Local Men Purchase Romantic Old Property In New Mexico; Was Haven Of Billy The Kid

Purchase of the "Flying H" ranch, located at the headwaters of the Rio Felix in New Mexico, by A. V. Hendrix and associates of Lubbock was announced in this city Thursday.

Local purchases will take possession of the ranch at the end of twelve months time, which has been allowed the Felix Land and Cattle company to gather their cattle from the range.

With the sale of the ranch there is written another chapter in the history of one of the old spots of romance in the Southwest. The ranch was started by an English settler named Tomsett, events surrounding whose tragic death are related in the saga of Billy the Kid and the "History of the Lincoln County War". About thirty years ago S. S. Ward, who now lives in Artesia, N. M., purchased the ranch and there established what has come to be known as one of the most prosperous as well as the most picturesque ranches in the Southwest.

Being more than fifty miles from the nearest outpost of settlement, reached by mountain roads, it stands firmly entrenched against the inroads of dense population and will long remain one of the preserved remnants of the Old West of Saga and romance.

Hager, a witness testified that he had told him he shot his playmate because the Van Hoose youngster had struck him and that he meant to kill Van Hoose. Neighbors Hues Quarrel Mrs. Manuel Fitzpatrick, a neighbor, testified she heard a quarrel from her kitchen but that the sounds ceased and she decided matters had been patched up. The quarrel, she said, was over a piece of scrap iron which the youngsters planned to sell to a junk dealer.

After the quarrel, testimony was that the boy, of average size for his age, ran into the house, climbed on a chair and took his father's shot gun from the wall, went out on the porch, leveled the gun at his playmate and pulled the trigger. The charge struck Cecil in the chest. It was indicated that the defense will contend there is no law in Kentucky by which a child under ten years old can be sent to reform school.

Airmen

Crowds At Field During the day crowds constantly were on hand at the airport to see the plane but it was not necessary for the populace to go to the airport the craft circled over the city, over Lake Worth and other centers while necks craned. Tonight the steady roar of the motor was heard over the city and in residences. "Fan" letters have been written to Robbins and Kelly and all such mail has been delivered to them, along with newspapers, chewing tobacco chewing gum, aspirin and grease for the engine rocker arms. Messages from their wives also are lowered from the supply plane.

Special Services Held A special religious service for the fliers was held tonight by the Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist church at a tabernacle where a revival is being conducted. The special service followed the scheduled revival sermon by Dr. E. J. Bulgin. Dr. Norris declared that "if America had 1,000 airmen of this type it would forever be free from the attack of a foreign nation."

Texans Fighting Off Fatigue; Motor Purrs On

FIGHTING fatigue, two civilian aviators had flown their single-motored monoplane well past the 100-hour mark early tonight in their effort to set a new world's record for endurance flying.

The Graf Zeppelin's record was only a few hours away. The fliers still had, though, many hours ahead of them before they surpass the army plane Question Mark's time of 150 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds, and the 118 hour record of the ill fated French dirigible Du-monde also was ahead.

The single motor in the rebuilt Ryan continued to purr smoothly as it had since the grind began at 11:33 a. m. Sunday. Reginald L. Robbins, pilot, indicated he and his co-pilot, James Kelly, were fatigued when a note he dropped said: "The motor and the ship are in good shape and we are a little tired, but don't let it bother us."

Eleven times since it took off the endurance plane has been refueled in the air. On each occasion the "Fort Worth" and the refueling plane flew to within 30 feet of one another.

New York Plane To Make Third Attempt Friday

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 23.—Four ribs in the fabric covering fuselage by the refueling hook caused the stange-motored monoplane Three Musketeers to abandon its second attempt at a refueling endurance record at 6:19 Eastern daylight saving time tonight.

Lieutenant H. B. Clarke, financial backer of the flight, brought the ship to a perfect landing after 22 hours and 26 minutes aloft. The landing revealed a disagreement between Clarke and Martin Jensen, holder of the unofficial solo endurance record, who with William Ulrich comprised the remainder of the crew.

Later they announced they would be ready for a third attempt tomorrow morning.

Two Trans-Atlantic Planes Await Good Weather

OLD ORCHARD BEACH, Me., May 23.—(P)—Two trans-Atlantic planes, one bound for Rome and the other for Paris, tonight await word from the weather man to hop off from the beach here.

The French fliers, Jean Asolant and Rene Lefevre, Paris bound, late today brought their big B-nard to rest within eye-shot of the Mono-plane Green Flash, here several days waiting favorable weather for a hop to Rome.

The new arrivals were greeted warmly by Roger Williams and Lewis Yancey, pilot and navigator, respectively, of the Green Flash. Although the proximity of the two ships at once revived speculation of a trans-Atlantic race, it gained no support from those connected with either flight, the French crew tonight was waiting arrival of Arm-eno Lotti, sponsor of their hop, and Williams was waiting more definite weather reports.
