Doublespeak

SEATTLE — The Defense Department has "won" the annual Doublespeak Award of the National Conference of Teachers of English for such euphemisms as "servicing the target" (bombing) and "force packages" (warplanes). Other government speakers including Rep. Newt Gringrich, R-Ga., and President Bush also were recognized Friday for "grossly deceptive" public remarks and "language with pernicious political and social consequences." However, the conference didn't overlook doublespeak in other countries. In England, a "deselected" member of Parliament is one who was voted out of office; and in Japan, bald men are "hair disadvantaged." Gulf War phrases the conference said put the Defense Department on top included "soft targets" for people and "hard targets" for buildings. "The misuse of public language by the Department of Defense merits some form of recognition," said William Lutz, chairman of the Doublespeak committee, a professor at Rutgers University and editor of the Quarterly Review of Doublespeak. Air Force Col. Rick Oborn, a Pentagon public information specialist, defended the agency's terminology. "Those aren't new words," he said. "'Force package' indicates you're going on a mission. 'Warplane' doesn't indicate you're doing anything."

Star for Jimi

LOS ANGELES — Rock innovator Jimi Hendrix was honored Thursday for his 1960s psychedelic guitar pyrotechnics with a posthumous star in the Hollywood Walk of Fame. His father, Al Hendrix, and brother, Leon Hendrix, joined more than 200 fans on Hollywood Boulevard for the unveiling of the star outside Book City Collectables, which has a shrine to Hendrix along an entire wall. Hendrix died of a drug overdose in 1970 at age 27. The star was imbedded in the coral and gray sidewalk between stars honoring actor Art Carney and director Fred Zinneman. The Hendrix star, the 1,943rd unveiled along the Walk of Fame, was sponsored by Warner Records, which is releasing a boxed set of four Hendrix compact discs.

Bush invites Arabs, Israelis to Washington

■ President sets Dec. 4 for a resumption of peace talks.

WASHINGTON (NYT) — In an effort to jump-start flagging Mideast peace talks, the Bush administration asked Arabs and Israelis to resume negotiations in Washington Dec. 4.

But Israeli Prime Minister Yitzak Shamir left the White House Friday without agreeing to rejoin peace talks here, and Syria and the Palestinians both held reservations about coming to the peace table in Washington.

Israeli officials were said to be surprised and angry that the invitation was cabled to Mideast governments before Shamir even met with President Bush to make a case for not holding the talks in Washington.

It was likely, however, that international pressure would bear on all the parties not to spoil an historic opportunity for peace simply because they protest the location of talks.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler, in announcing the American invitation to reconvene talks, indicated the U.S. administration and Soviet cosponsors to the talks will not be happy if any party chooses to turn it down.

"Obviously, it would be an unfortunate choice. It would obviously be very disappointing, not only to the cosponsors but, I think, to many countries and peoples around the world," she said.

Jordan did respond immediately Friday that it will come to Washington.

At the ceremonial opening of a peace conference in Madrid last month, the sides quickly sank into dispute over when to reconvene bilateral talks.

Israel wanted discussions to alternate between Israel and the Arab nations, which would grant the Jewish state a legitimacy never yet granted by the Arab negotiating partners. The Arabs, with the exception of Egypt, do not have diplomatic or trade relations with Israel, and they refused the proposal.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III gave the Arabs and Israelis two weeks to find a solution, then waited three weeks without getting results.

"It is important to give the parties the chance to work this out, but it is even more important to resume the direct talks," Tutwiler said.

White House, Sununu spar over remark

■ Bush is responsible for credit card comment, chief of staff says.

By Andrew Rosenthal
N.Y. Times News Service

White House Chief of Staff John H. Sununu said Friday that President Bush was responsible for the remark about credit card interest rates that started a chain of events and sent the stock market skidding last Friday.

Sununu's comments in a television interview to be broadcast this weekend seemed aimed at heading off the mounting pressure for his removal.

This latest development in the public drama over Sununu's survival at the White House came as many Republicans speculated that Bush had privately decided to replace his chief of staff and was waiting for the right moment.

There was also a general sense that Sununu had been caught up in one of those capital controversies that have proved fatal to other Washington figures. Sununu said Bush "ad-libbed" the remark about credit cards. The remark added to the impression that Bush is confused about how to handle the economy.

Late Friday, Marlin Fitzwater, the White House spokesman, rebutted a crucial part of Sununu's account. He said the credit card proposal, included in a political speech in New York last Tuesday, was "the president's idea." But he said the remarks were in the president's text, not ad-libbed as Sununu said.

This public back and forth between a president and his top aide has few parallels in recent Washington history, and it came at a time when most major newspapers have been publishing articles about the torrent of advice from top Republicans urging Bush to dismiss the combative former governor of New Hampshire.

Sununu's latest account, in an interview on "John McLaughlin's One on One" television program, to be broadcast this weekend, conflicted with earlier accounts from the administration.

Administration officials said the credit card notion had originally come from Kenneth M. Duberstein, a White House

Area cotton crop falls off

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Midland County cotton production may drop to almost half of projected yields due to an early freeze that damaged bolls before the cotton had fully matured.

That message comes from Herb Sorley, county executive director (CED) for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) for Midland County.

That early freeze came in the last few days in late October. On Oct. 30, the temperature dropped 3 degrees below freezing to 29 degrees.

"The freeze was about two weeks earlier than normal and will have a definite effect on our production," Sorley reported. "We are looking to harvest 23,000 to 26,000 bales, but the early freeze will

Ancient teeth suggest Asian origin for humans

NEW YORK (AP) — A study of more than a quarter-million prehistoric human teeth suggests that if modern humans evolved in a single place, it could well have been Southeast Asia, a researcher says.

Most scientists who advocate a single place of origin favor Africa, while others think anatomically modern humans arose out of several places.

"My data simply provide the basis for a plea to people to quit ignoring Asia," Christy Turner II said.

Turner, an anthropology professor at Arizona State University, was to present his analysis today in Chicago at the annual meeting of the American Anthropological Association. He spoke in a telephone interview.

The work is "extremely interesting and very important," said Chris Stringer, head of the human origins group at the Natural History Museum in London.

But "it is just teeth," and must be considered together with other fossil evidence and genetic work that point toward an African origin, he said. "Obviously there is a conflict, and this I think will call for more work to be done," he said.

Stringer, whose fossil work favors Africa, said he disagreed with Turner's conclusion. The dental data may simply mean that Asia was the main dispersal center for migration after an African origin, he said. Turner said he could not now rule that possibility out.

DEATHS

Victoria Aguilar

Funeral services for Victoria Aguilar, 74, of Big Spring, are set for today at 10:30 a.m. at Myers & Smith Chapel in Big Spring. Interment will follow at Mount Olive Memorial Park under the direction of Myers & Smith Funeral Home.

She died Thursday following a lengthy illness.

Born Aug. 10, 1917, in Kansas, she married Jose Aguilar in 1932 in Munday. He preceded her in death in 1986.

Mrs. Aguilar grew up in Munday, moving to Big Spring in 1950. She was a homemaker.

Survivors include three daughters, Rebecca Hinojos of Phoenix, Ariz., Maria Jara of Midland and Victoria Vance of Fort Worth; three sons, Raul Aguilar, Albert Aguilar and Louis Aguilar, all of Big Spring; a brother, Fidel Bonilla of Stanfield, Ariz.; a sister, Penia Espinosa of El Paso; 30 grandchildren; 40 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by one daughter and one son.

Katharine Stiles

Katharine L. Stiles of Midland died Friday at a local hospital.

No services are scheduled.

She was born Feb. 25, 1924, in Shoshoni, Wyo., where she was reared and educated. She then attended the University of Wyoming in Laramie.

She met Ed Stiles in Shoshoni, and they were married March 18, 1947, in Junction. The family lived in several West Texas communities before moving to Midland in 1955. Her husband died in 1963.

Mrs. Stiles was employed at the Midland Reporter-Telegram during the late 1970s.

Survivors include two daughters, Sherri Stiles Hoskins of Flower Mound and Tracy Stiles of Midland; one sister, Anice Bird of Riveton, Wyo.; three grandchildren; one niece and one nephew.

The family requests memorials be directed to a favorite charity.

Huelda Hester

Services for Huelda M. Hester of Midland have been set for 2 p.m. today at the Ellis Chapel with Dr. Richard Braun of First Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment will follow at Fairview Cemetery with Ellis Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

She died Wednesday at a local retirement center.

Pallbearers will be Van Folger, Billy Folger, Jeff Hayes, Jack Swallow and Richard Patterson.

Marie Jenkins

Services for Marie Jenkins of Midland will be at 11 a.m. today at Crestview Baptist Church with Larry Ashlock, pastor, and the Rev. Allen Williams, chaplain of Hospice, officiating. Interment will follow at Resthaven Memorial Park with Ellis Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

She died Thursday at a local hospital.

Pallbearers will be Charlie Priddy, Johnny Pylant, Ronny Watson, Brian Strickland, Bill Harless and Richard Davis.

Too-tight straitjacket draws punch

ALLEN PARK, Mich. (AP) — A comedian who punched a woman assisting him on stage claims it was a reflex when she overtightened his straitjacket, police said Friday.

The unidentified woman required six stitches to her head after Sunday's incident at Richie's Comedy Club, said Detective Sgt. Edward Flowers.

Comic Fred Anderson told police he struck out automatically when the woman, a volunteer from the audience, apparently hooked the wrong buckle on the straitjacket and yanked the strap between his legs too tightly.

Wright seeks to return to county post

Staff Report

Durward Wright, who cited the "conservative fiscal policy" which has been his benchmark in the 23 years he has served on the Midland County Commissioners' Court, has announced his bid for re-election to the Precinct 1 commissioner's post.

Wright

Wright, 59, represents people living in west-central Midland and southwest Midland County. He is seeking the Republican Party nomination for the Precinct 1 post.

Wright, who termed himself "the most logical candidate" for the post, pointed to his experience, his major accomplishments in office, his "conservative fiscal policy to which I have always adhered," his role in helping Midland County attain one of the "lowest county tax rates" in Texas at 22.75 cents per $100 valuation, his "strong support of adequate law enforcement and the criminal-justice system in our county," and his "willingness to continue to serve on a full-time basis."

"My decision to seek re-election is partially based on my desire to participate in the completion of two major projects in which I have played an integral part," Wright said. He cited the Midland County Public Library's $2-million expansion and renovation and the ongoing renovation of the Midland County Courthouse "to provide vastly improved conditions for the public and county employees."

Courthouse renovation is to include expansion of criminal-justice facilities, such as as additional courtrooms and expanded offices for district and county prosecutors.

In recent years, the county has built a new jail and law-enforcement building apart from the downtown courthouse.

The commissioner noted that county government has been "pretty well computerized" during his tenure in office and "brought us out of horse and buggy days."

"I respectfully and humbly request that I can count on the people's continued support to hire me to represent Midland County for another (four-year) term," Wright said. "I assure you your trust will not be misplaced."

The post pays about $28,000 in the 1992 fiscal year.

Wright was into his 17th year in office in 1985 when he switched his allegiance to the Republican Party from the Democratic Party in a predominantly Republican-oriented community.

"I have always considered myself a fiscal conservative and a supporter of free enterprise," Wright said in 1985 in explaining his party switch. He pointed to the "erosion of influence in the Democratic Party by the conservative Texas Democrats."

All the while, Wright said that his conservative political philosophy had not changed.

His co-campaign treasurers are his businessmen-sons, Gregory and Garth Wright.

Midland College anounces two days for registration

Staff Report

Only two days of early registration are scheduled for the coming week at Midland College because of the Thankgiving holidays.

Early registrations will be processed next Monday and Tuesday.

Persons wishing to register for spring semester credit courses may sign-up for classes and pay fees at this time.

During last week's opening of early registration more than 1,096 persons were processed. Final registration is expected to be near the 3,482 who signed up for 1991 spring semester classes.

"We were gratified by the turnout, but want to encourage prospective students to register as early as possible to avoid disappointment because of closed classes or meeting times which might be less desirable," said Dr. Don Cates, associate dean of students and registrar.

An alphabetic system of registration is used at Midland College. For the current early registration, those whose last names begin with S-Z should come Monday and those whose names start with M-R Tuesday.

Hours are 8 a.m.-5 p.m. in the Student Services area, located in the Student Center.

Final week of early registration is Dec. 2-6. The name sequence for that week is: A-E Dec. 2, S-Z Dec. 3, M-R Dec. 4, F-L Dec. 5, and A-E Dec. 6.

"If there are extenuating circumstances, we will attempt to accommodate students who might need to register on other days, but we are attempting to stay with this schedule so far as possible because of fairness," Cates said.

More information is available by calling 685-4501.

EPA adopts new offshore oil, gas drilling regulations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency announced new pollution controls Friday for offshore oil and gas drilling platforms, primarily off the California coast.

The pollution curbs were required by the clean air law enacted by Congress last year. The law exempted most Gulf of Mexico drilling platforms, which account for most of the country's offshore oil development.

The new regulations, which are expected to be made final early next year, give operators of 23 oil and gas platforms off California two years to meet the tougher emission-control standards, which will be similar to those already required by California for polluters on land.

The new controls also will apply to several exploratory platforms off the Alaska coast and to any new platforms that are erected in Atlantic or Pacific coastal waters and off Florida in the Gulf of Mexico.

"Air pollution from Outer Continental Shelf development is contributing to onshore violations of federal and stand (clean air) standards," said EPA Administrator William Reilly. "Today's proposal will ensure that offshore sources help reduce air pollution where people are more exposed to it."

By far the most offshore oil and gas platforms are in the Gulf of Mexico off Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. But lawmakers specifically left those waters exempt from the new pollution controls, although the Interior Department was directed to study the impact of pollution from such activities.

By far the most offshore oil and gas platforms are in the Gulf of Mexico off Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama. But lawmakers specifically left those waters exempt from the new pollution controls . . .

Nevertheless, Reilly said the new controls on the platforms off California will, within the next two years, "result in significant benefits to certain onshore areas currently violating smog standards."

He estimated that as a result of the offshore controls, emissions of nitrogen dioxide and organic compounds that contribute to smog will be cut a total of 540 tons in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties of southern California.

Bush faces challenge from right

By Dave Montgomery
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — President Bush's expectations of coasting to the Republican nomination are dissipating rapidly with the emergence of potential challengers from one of his perennial trouble-spots — the Republican right.

Conservative television commentator Pat Buchanan will announce in December whether he will run against Bush in the Republican primaries. And former Ku Kux Klan leader David Duke, looking beyond his loss in the Lousiana governor's race, says he too may become a national contender.

Republican leaders dismiss Duke as a fringe candidate with little chance of marshaling a following outside his home state. But they concede that Buchanan, former communications director for President Ronald Reagan, could cause Bush headaches in the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire primary Feb. 18.

Conservatives are rallying around Buchanan after unsuccessful attempts to search for an alternative candidate including Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot and Jack Kemp, secretary of housing and urban development.

"A Buchanan candidacy may not be a problem nationally for the Bush White House but it could be a problem in New Hampshire," said Stephen Merrill, a New Hampshire GOP official who served as legal counsel to former Gov. John Sununu, now the president's chief of staff.

Merrill and other party leaders say the president has been hurt politically in the New England state by an economic nosedive that has forced the closure of major New Hampshire banks and pushed the state's unemployment rate above 7 percent.

Buchanan, a co-host of CNN's "Crossfire," has high visibility among New Hampshire's conservative voters and presumably would tap into the anti-Bush dissent, which analysts measure at anywhere from less than 10 to more than 30 percent of the total Republican vote.

Although a conservative challenge is expected to constitute little more than a protest campaign — with no serious threat to Bush's renomination at the Republican National Convention next August in Houston — it presents Bush with another troubling turn in what once was perceived as an easy re-election.

Republican leaders dismiss Duke as a fringe candidate with little chance of marshaling a following outside his home state. But they concede that Buchanan, former communications director for President Ronald Reagan, could cause Bush headaches in the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire primary Feb. 18.

His approval rating has dropped amid growing fears over the economy while the six announced Democratic candidates hammer away at his domestic policies. A Republican opponent would force Bush to defend himself on a second front instead of waiting until next fall to take on the Democratic opponent in the general election.

"The biggest advantage of a president is he can sit on the sidelines while the opposition fights it out," said Democratic consultant Bob Beckel. "Now he has to fight it out himself.

"It may not be his worst nightmare," Beckel added, "but it's a very bad dream."

Republican strategist Charlie Black, an Alexandria, Va., political consultant, acknowledges that Bush has sustained "some vulnerability" over the economy but said the president would have little trouble brushing off an inter-party challenge.

"We'll take it seriously if somebody like a Buchanan files in New Hampshire," Black said. "But there is no constituency outside the beltway for a challenge to the president."

Black said the White House regards Duke as a "bad guy" who "we don't need trying to shoot his way into the political system." Buchanan, he said, is considered a respected conservative but would have trouble raising money and broad-based support.

Hard-core conservatives, who have lost strength in recent years, began vigorously scouting for an anti-Bush candidate after sensing that the president may be weakened over the economy. The so-called New Right has never fully accepted Bush and lashed out against him last year when he abandoned his "read-my-lips" opposition to a tax increase.

"I disagree with him from A to Z," said Howard Phillips, chairman of the 17-year-old Conservative Caucus and a leading booster of Buchanan's candidacy. Phillips also said he talked to Perot about challenging Bush but the Dallas billionaire told the conservative leader he wasn't interested.

Speculation has also surfaced that Kemp, a former congressman from New York and New Right stalwart, may leave his Cabinet post to run against his boss, but the administration has dismissed the rumors.

Buchanan has taken a two-week leave of absence from CNN to weigh his decision and is believed to be strongly leaning toward running. Duke, who lost to Democrat Edwin Edwards in last Saturday's election in Louisiana, told reporters afterward that he is exploring a possible presidential bid to present his themes on a national level.

During the governor's race, Duke sought to put his past record as a neo-Nazi and a Ku Kux Klan leader behind him by focusing on public disillusionment with big government and mounting unemployment.

If he and Buchanan enter the New Hampshire primary, they would compete for the same bloc of voters — Republican conservatives disenchanted with the Bush administration. But according to strategists in New Hampshire and Washington, Buchanan would be the dominant conservative challenger while Duke would have trouble establishing his credibility.

"He won't be considered a serious contender," Stephen Merrill, the state's GOP finance chairman, said of Duke.

Weekend looms cool, clear

Staff Report

Midland's weekend weather is to be clear and cool.

The high temperature today is to be in the upper 40s, and winds are to be northerly to northeasterly at 10 to 20 miles per hour, according to the weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland International Airport.

For tonight, the temperature is to be in the lower 20s. The peak temperature on Sunday is to be in the lower 50s.

The high temperature on Friday was 60 degrees, and the overnight low was 38 degrees.

The record high temperature for Nov. 22 is 84 degrees in 1965. The record low for Nov. 23 is 10 degrees in 1938.

STATE

Texas was sunny, windy and cooler Friday in the wake of a cold front that pushed clouds out of the state.

A few clouds had formed along the coastline as moisture from the Gulf began to move inland. High clouds were present over the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Winds were mostly from the north at 15 to 25 miles an hour with some gusts to 30 mph. Ahead of the front, southerly winds continued at speeds of 10 to 15 mph with higher gusts.

Temperatures at 3 p.m. ranged from 41 degrees at Dalhart in the Panhandle to 57 degrees at Wichita Falls in North Texas, 70 in Galveston along the upper coast, 77 at Waco in Central Texas and 83 in Cotulla in South Texas.

The forecast for North Texas was for continued windy and cold conditions with mostly fair skies. Highs in the lower 50s and lows tonight in the upper 20s.

West Texas was expected to be partly cloudy with a chance for snow in the Panhandle. Otherwise mostly fair and colder. Highs today from the low 40s in the north to the upper 50s in the Big Bend. Lows tonight were predicted to be in the teens in the Panhandle and mountains to the 20s elsewhere. Highs Sunday were expected to reach the 40s.

Forecasters said South Texas would be windy and colder with highs in the 60s and 70s and lows ranging from the 30s in the Hill Country to near 60 on the lower coast.

Midland statistics

Clear today with a high temperature in the upper 40s. Winds northerly to northeasterly at 10 to 20 miles per hour. Clear tonight with a low temperature in the lower 20s. Clear Sunday with a high temperature in the low 50s.

TEETH: Study suggests humans evolved in Asia

(From 1A)

Research indicates that anatomically modern humans were living about 100,000 years ago in Africa and Israel, Stringer said.

Turner estimated that over the past 20 years he has analyzed the physical features of about 300,000 teeth from 20,000 people. Some 95 percent of the teeth were at least 1,000 years old, with ages ranging up to 50,000 years, he said.

He compared different populations for the frequency of each of 29 dental characteristics.

Teeth from Southeast Asia, including eastern India and southern China, scored consistently in the middle ranges for frequency of the various characteristics, while other populations tended to show more extreme frequencies, he said.

That suggests "it would be easier to evolve all modern humans out of this Southeast Asian dental pattern than it would be from any other of the major world populations," he said.

One dental characteristic Turner studied was having three roots on the lower first molar rather than two. He found that occurred 30 percent of the time among northeast Asian teeth, almost never in African and European teeth, and about 15 percent of the time in Southeast Asian teeth.

Extra-strong ridges along the edges of the upper incisors showed up very frequently in northeast Asians and Native Americans, with frequency approaching 99 percent in some groups. Southeast Asians showed it in 25 percent to 40 percent of samples, with Australians about 10 percent and Africans and Europeans each about 5 percent.

Similarly, the occurence of an extra bump toward the rear of the lower second molar showed up most frequently among northeast Asians and Native Americans, at a rate exceeding 60 percent. The rate was about 20 percent for Southeast Asians and 10 percent for Europeans. The frequency for Africans is still being worked on, but it will probably be about 20 percent to 30 percent or more, Turner said.

The 29 dental characteristics tested tend not to be inherited together, he said. Overall, the Southeast Asian teeth fell in the middle range for frequency some 80 percent to 90 percent of the time, Turner said.

SUNUNU: Critics say position may be on the line

(From 1A)

chief of staff under President Ronald Reagan, and that Sununu had talked to Bush about it before he delivered the speech. They said Sununu wrote the lines about credit cards.

Even if Sununu did not write Bush's specific words, his comments Friday represented an extraordinary attempt by an aide under fire to shift the political heat to his boss.

Publicly, the White House and Sununu himself said Friday that his job was secure and that Bush had no plans to replace him.

But administration officials and Republican Party strategists said Bush was under increasing pressure to move Sununu aside as he nears the time when he would have to announce the formation of his re-election campaign team.

Although Bush had been widely expected to name his campaign team in January, there is increasing evidence that he will move the date up to December, when the process begins for choosing delegates that will be on the ballot in the New Hampshire primary.

Bush, who thought just a few weeks ago that he would be unopposed in New Hampshire, now faces the possibility of two challenges from the far right, from Patrick J. Buchanan, the conservative commentator, and state Rep. David Duke, a former Ku Klux Klan leader and neo-Nazi who lost last Saturday's race for governor in Louisiana.

The problem Bush is facing, Republican strategists said Friday, is that it is becoming increasingly difficult to build a campaign structure around Sununu, especially at a time when the president's political ground seems so shaky.

"If Sununu's the problem, the solution cannot be a new campaign structure or other bright people doing things outside the White House," said one Republican. "The solution has to be to make a change inside the White House.

At the White House, aides said Sununu's political difficulties had cast a pall over the president's efforts to deal with criticism that he was not paying enough attention to domestic issues. One official described the attention to Sununu as "very frustrating" and said the atmosphere at the White House was "like the weather" Friday: dark and rainy.

At a campaign fund-raiser in New York last week, Bush said in a speech that he had been talking to business people recently and thought that it would spur the economy if banks lowered the interest they charge on credit cards.

That remark prompted Sen. Alfonse M. D'Amato, R-N.Y., to introduce legislation, which was swiftly passed by the Senate, to put a legal limit on those rates.

Last Friday, the Dow Jones industrial average, which tracks 30 of the nation's leading companies, fell 120.31 points, closing at 2,943.20, the largest plunge in more than two years. The credit card issue was blamed by many analysts for the plunge.

In his interview with McLaughlin, Sununu said the idea was "never in" any text of Bush's speech. "The president ad-libbed," Sununu said.

In the interview, Sununu also said his relationship with the Bush family was warm and that after The New York Times reported that Barbara Bush was souring on him, the president's wife made a point of seeking him out and made him "very, very comfortable."

But White House advisers Friday questioned Sununu's account and there have been several published reports about the poor state of the chief of staff's relations with the Bush family as well as the president's Cabinet.

The Wall Street Journal said in a front-page article Friday that "even Barbara Bush is said to be convinced that the former New Hampshire governor's 'flaws are fatal.' "

Although Bush has a record of resisting outside pressure of this kind, in the high-stakes world of White House politics, it is an article of faith that a senior official like Sununu can stand only so many political body blows before his downfall becomes inevitable.

In his television interview, Sununu also denied that he had called Ann Devroy, the White House correspondent for The Washington Post, a "liar" in a widely reported confrontation on the lawn of the Rose Garden after Bush signed the 1991 Civil Rights Act on Thursday.

Ms. Devroy said on Thursday and again Friday after hearing of Sununu's comments that he shouted at her: "You're a liar! Your stories are all lies! Everything you write is a lie!"

Asked by McLaughlin about the exchange, Sununu said, "Well, I told her that everything she had written recently was dead wrong. There's a difference."

Asked again, he said, "I said, 'Dead wrong.' "

PEACE: Bush proposes peace talks in U.S.

(From 1A)

ing with President Bush "very friendly," he said "discussion will go on" concerning the proposal to resume negotiations in Washington.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said almost the entire meeting focused on the venue for talks, but that Shamir had not formally responded whether Israel would negotiate here.

"He will be discussing that with other members of his government and they'll give us a response as soon as they can," Fitzwater said.

The invitations were sent by cable Thursday night, after Baker and Shamir held two hours of discussions but before the Israeli leader had a chance to present his case to Bush.

Israeli officials are reported to be worried this will become a pattern for the talks — th United States stepping in to impose a decision whenever there seems to be an impasse in what is expected to be a very long, difficult process filled with disagreements.

One positive comment Shamir gave as he left the White House meeting was that Jewish settlements in the Israeli-occupied Arab lands will be on the negotiating agenda, because they are an integral part of the territorial issue. Israel so far has refused to suspend settlement-building.

In Jerusalem, Palestinian spokeswoman Hanan Ashrawi said her delegation needs some clarification of how the Washington meetings would work.

She referred to concerns the Palestinians are known to have over communicating with the Palestine Liberation Organization from Washington. The PLO is not an open party to the talks, but has provided behind-the-scenes advice and approval since Baker began the peace process last spring.

In Madrid, the Palestinian delegation had support from the PLO embassy there, could make easy contact with PLO headquarters in Tunis, and could communicate with PLO officials who traveled to Spain for the conference.

The PLO does not have an embassy here, and PLO leaders normally are denied visas to enter the United States. The State Department reportedly has been considering granting entry to a small PLO advisory group for the December talks, but Tutwiler said Friday that will not happen.

The Syrians also have criticized Washington as a difficult site for the Palestinians, and additionally have complained that it is not appropriate to attend peace talks in the capital of a nation that keeps Syria on its list of countries which sponsor terrorism.

At the State Department, Tutwiler said there is no deadline for responding to the invitation, but that the administration hopes for early answers. She said the site or sites have not yet been selected for the talks, which are to be held between Israel and Syria, Israel and Lebanon, and Israel and a joint Jordanian-Palestinian delegation.

Oswald had help, KGB officials believe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet intelligence officials concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald couldn't have acted alone in the Kennedy assassination, ABC News reports.

Oswald's 10-inch-thick KGB file shows that Soviet authorities thought he was a U.S. agent during the years he spent in their country, ABC says in a "Nightline" program to be broadcast tonight. Friday was the 28th anniversary of President Kennedy's assassination in Dallas.

ABC correspondent Forrest Sawyer spent a day reviewing Oswald's KGB file in Moscow with assistance from a Soviet translator and a KGB case officer. The KGB had second thoughts and withdrew its access. The network wasn't allowed to make copies of the file.

But during the two months ABC spent on the story, KGB officials who were thoroughly familiar with the Oswald file said it was their view that the American defector wasn't sophisticated enough to have carried out the assassination by himself.

ABC does not name the officials who offered that view.

Oswald was an ex-Marine who defected to the Soviet Union in September 1959. While there, he married and returned to the United States in June 1962 with permission from the Soviets and the U.S. State Department.

Almost the entire contents of the Oswald KGB file are the result of constant surveillance during his Soviet stay.

"This is the most detailed profile you could possibly have and it could only be gathered in a police state," ABC News executive producer Tom Bettag said in an interview Thursday.

It shows that the KGB inserted informants at Oswald's factory job and that there was electronic eavesdropping of his conversations with his future wife, Marina, Bettag said.

"They were trying to figure out what he was all about," Bettag said.

The KGB file shows that the Soviets even allowed Oswald to buy a rifle and monitored his target practice.

After the attempted Soviet coup this past August, an ABC team talked with the new head of the KGB, Vadim Bakatin, and with the KGB case officer in charge of the files. ABC also went to Minsk, where Oswald lived.

Some conspiracy theorists on the Kennedy assassination have suggested that Oswald was an American agent working for the CIA or the FBI.

Correction

Due to incorrect information, provided to the newspaper, former Midlander Ronnie D. Clemmer was erroneously identified in a story on the cover of the Arts & Entertainment section Nov. 17 as Student Council president at Lee High School in 1965-1966.

R. B. Fields was Student Council president at LHS in 1965-66, and Ira Bates held that office in 1966-67.

Clemmer, now a California-based movie producer and a managing partner of Longbow Productions, producers of "A Mother's Justice" airing at 8 p.m. Monday on NBC, was Senior Class president in 1967 and Student Council president while in junior high in Snyder.

The Reporter-Telegram regrets the error.

SCHOOL: Rumors hit junior high

(From 1A)

class to another," MISD spokesman Ted Miller said Friday. "The fight blocked the hallway and scared some of the kids."

Miller said security officers were called in to prevent any fights from ensuing after school.

"We starting dismissing students by floors and wings to make the flow of students easy to monitor at the end of the day," he said.

Friday, a few pocket knives were confiscated on campus, officials said.

"We found a couple of pocket knives, similar to a Swiss knife," Miller said. "They are not classified as legal weapons, but they are still a violation of district policy to have at school."

Ricardo Torres, MISD executive of secondary education, said, "I spent one hour this morning (Friday) at the school from the time they opened the doors. The kids were really hyped up. I went back to the school at noon, and talk was real heavy among kids, but nobody could verify anything."

"The rumor mill is so damaging," Torres said, "because it is scaring kids. The kids were highly agitated. It's unfortunate. When was the last time we heard in Midland, Texas, somebody pulled a knife in school? I'm not saying it will never happen; it could, but it is highly unlikely," he said.

Torres said teachers "were getting names of students who had the pocket knives and followed them up."

"We brought kids into the office and involved parents," he said. "It probably was a very difficult day for teachers to teach."

"If kids were scared, they would be more willing to talk about what they are scared about," he said. "I spent a lot of time working with kids this age when I was a junior high school principal. They will come forth — privately with a teacher — when they are truly threatend."

"If there had been any major incident, if anyone was injured, the police would have been involved," Torres added.

A spokesperson for the Midland Police Department said they were not involved with the incident. "Plenty of students were scared to go to Goddard today," he said. "We do know that, but the school district has their own police department and we weren't involved."

CROP: Midland County cotton production down

(From 1A)

probably reduce that production to 12,000 to 15,000 bales of cotton."

In 1991, Midland County farmers planted 32,706 acres of Upland cotton.

"We were in great hopes that we would have a normal freeze date, and crops would be a little better than normal," Sorley said.

The early freeze was "devastating productive-wise and financially" from Big Spring to Stanton to Midland and on northward to Lamesa and Lubbock and westward to Seminole.

"This whole West Texas area has been hit by the freeze," Sorley said. "I imagine the freeze has reduced expected production by 50 percent. It took a 50 percent whack."

He expects production to drop to a quarter to a half bale per acre from three-quarters to a bale per acre on dryland cotton.

A standard bale weighs about 480 pounds.

Charlie Wright, general manager of the Midland Farmers Cooperative and Cotton Gin, agreed with Sorley's projection for a low-yield crop.

"We had lots of cotton planted in June, because that's when we got enough rain to plant," Wright said. May 10 is "ideal cotton-planting time."

However, even though much of West Texas's 1991 cotton was planted late, "It should have been all right," Wright said.

But rain and cool weather in September, when cotton craves for hot weather to mature properly, decimated healthy cotton bolls.

"It started raining and messing around," said Wright who, nevertheless, appreciated the moisture. "We've got to have rain sooner or later."

September's wet coolness was damage enough.

And the freeze in late October further crippled production by hurting boll maturation.

Ayatollah urges Muslims to kill U.S. diplomats

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The former leader of Iran's Supreme Court urged Muslims on Friday to kill diplomats and other Americans abroad in a guerrilla war against the United States.

When the Americans "see that their advisers are being killed in Asia, Europe, Africa and the Arab countries ... they will be unable to deal with it," Ayatollah Musavi Ardebili said in a sermon at Tehran University that was quoted by Tehran radio.

Ardebili, a teacher of theology in the holy city of Qom, said one could "not go into action against the United States in a classic manner," saying the futility of conventional warfare against America was shown in the U.S. attack on Libya in 1986 and the U.S.-led Gulf War against Iraq.

Ardebili's comments, monitored in Nicosia, reflected the thinking of radicals in the Tehran hierarchy who oppose President Hashemi Rafsanjani's efforts to end hostility with the West.

Comments such as Ardebili's are tolerated by Rafsanjani, and are meant mainly for domestic consumption. They do not reflect Iran's official foreign policy.

Prime minister, Cabinet desert Walesa

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's political floundering continued Friday as the Cabinet announced its imminent resignation and the prime minister refused to stay on to lead a new government.

The developments put increasing pressure on President Lech Walesa, who had asked Jan Krzysztof Bielecki, whom he named prime minister in January, to stay on.

"The country cannot remain without a government," Walesa said. "The Cabinet's immediate resignation could cause a welter of unpredictable consequences."

But Walesa's inflexibility has been a major factor in the political crisis that has arisen since the Oct. 27 parliamentary elections, which gave 29 parties seats in the 460-seat Sejm, or lower house.

Officials recover 35 drowned Haitians

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The bodies of 35 drowned Haitian refugees have now been recovered, Cuban officials said Friday. Another 100 people aboard a sailboat that capsized off eastern Cuba are missing and feared dead.

Sixty survivors of Tuesday's shipwreck have been found, according to Cuba's official Prensa Latina news agency, monitored here. It said Red Cross and Interior Ministry teams are conducting the search.

The Haitians' sailboat, packed with about 200 people, foundered in bad weather about 300 yards off Punta Maisi, which overlooks the Windward Passage between Haiti and Cuba.

The boat was part of a new wave of refugees fleeing Haiti in the wake of the Sept. 30 military coup that drove populist President Jean-Bertrand Aristide into exile. Conditions in Haiti have worsened as the result of an international embargo to protest Aristide's ouster.

Rescue efforts have been hampered by rough seas, craggy coastline in the area and the remote location. Authorities late Thursday said 23 bodies had been recovered, and on Friday said a total of 35 had been found.

Hundreds, if not thousands, of Haitians have died at sea in recent years trying to reach Florida aboard overcrowded and ill-equipped vessels.

On Thursday in Miami, U.S. District Judge C. Clyde Atkins denied a government motion to cancel a restraining order against the forcible return of Haitians who fled to the United States. He scheduled a hearing for next week on a motion for a permanent injunction against the repatriations.

Atkins on Friday also ordered the U.S. government to allow refugee advocates to interview Haitians held aboard the Coast Guard cutters. That ruling was blocked by the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta.

About 1,800 Haitians intercepted at sea recently were taken on cutters to the U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo Bay, near Punta Maisi on the southeastern tip of Cuba.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said 858 Haitians were transferred to a Navy vessel and 572 were on the base. Another 380 were apparently still on the cutters.

The Haitians are being offered temporary safe haven in Honduras, Venezuela, Belize and Trinidad. On Wednesday, 250 were flown to Honduras and 100 to Venezuela. Another 100 were flown to Venezuela on Friday.

The Jamaican government said it was providing temporary haven for 35 refugees whose boat landed Wednesday on the east coast of Jamaica. The Jamaican Foreign Ministry said the decision was in keeping with its desire for the restoration of democracy in Haiti.

Reynaldo Llaudys, a senior Guantanamo province official, said survivors of Tuesday's accident were taken to a Cuban government camp set up 10 years ago at Punta Maisi to help Haitian refugees fleeing to the United States.

Teen took thousands in bets, police say

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A 16-year-old is accused of taking thousands of dollars in sports bets from his classmates and warning them an imaginary muscle man would hunt them down if they didn't pay up on their losses.

The high school junior, whose name was withheld because of his age, was allowed to return to school Friday, two days after his bookmaking arrest.

He was using his winnings to add to his baseball card collection, now valued at about $10,000, said Lt. Dave Green of the Broward County sheriff's office's organized crime division.

The teen-ager handled bets of from $20 to $3,000 from at least 10 other students on professional football and baseball games, sheriff's spokesman Al Gordon said.

"He convinced other teens that he had an adult partner in order to intimidate them into paying their debts when they lost," Gordon said Friday.

"He said 'who's going to pay off a high school kid?'" Green explained.

The investigation started after a father discovered his son owed thousands of dollars in gambling debts and went to police.

In a meeting that was videotaped, an undercover officer posing as the debtor student's father offered the youth $1,700 in marked bills on a $3,000 debt.

The youth was arrested Wednesday at his home in Coral Springs, an upscale suburb of Fort Lauderdale.

"He had in his possession the marked money that was given to him by an undercover detective Wednesday," Gordon said.

The student was allowed to return to Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in the neighboring suburb of Parkland because his alleged activities took place off school property, school officials said.

"The student has not been suspended because there is no evidence the student has done anything to violate school policy," said Merrie Meyers, a spokeswoman for the Broward County School Department.

He is charged with two felony counts of bookmaking and misdemeanor counts of gambling and conspiracy, police said. None of the students who placed bets are going to be charged, authorities said.

The youth submitted a written statement Friday to assistant principals Gerald Cook and Marian Jenkins admitting he took bets.

Green said the youth's betting activities may have run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

He cautioned that the investigation is only beginning and police are uncertain how widespread the practice is.

"He may have taken in thousands a month. Two bettors at two different times bet a total of about $6,000. The whole thing since May could go into hundreds of thousands," Green said.

Senate passes Christmas tree spending bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate defied a presidential veto threat Friday and passed a $7.5 billion emergency spending bill after adding a provision allowing military women and dependents to have abortions on overseas bases.

Adding the abortion measure further jeopardized the already threatened bill which was originally intended to help pay off the costs of the Persion Gulf war and provide $150 million in disaster aid to victims of last spring's tornadoes and Hurricanes Bob and Hugo. The measure was approved 75-17.

Rushing toward a pre-Thanksgiving adjournment, lawmakers turned the bill into a Christmas tree of politically attractive ornaments costing some $4 billion that nobody expects to remain intact next week.

"This horse isn't going very far," said Senate Appropriations Chairman Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., shortly before cutting off 60 more amendments that lawmakers had intended to offer as what one of them called "baubles."

Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., called the bill a "sham," saying that only about $150 million that Bush requested for victims of tornadoes last spring and Hurricanes Hugo and Bob represented a true emergency.

Byrd said he planned to knock most of the new big spending items out of the bill in negotiations with key House and White House officials next week. "The president is going to veto it anyway," he predicted.

The House last month saddled the bill with $3.6 billion in more spending than Bush sought. The Senate weighted it down further on Friday by attaching the abortion measure on a 57-40 vote.

Senators earlier rejected, 51-47, an effort to load the bill with higher price supports for hard-pressed dairy farmers, which would have increased milk prices for consumers by up to 18 cents a gallon.

Many of the emergency bill features, including a $1.4 billion increase in Head Start and other children's programs added by the House, have prompted veto threats from the White House and are not expected to become law.

Most of the major year-end items left unresolved were negotiated off the House and Senate floors. Bargainers for the two houses were struggling to sort out their differences on a crime bill, possibly including a waiting period for handguns, and on a $151 billion highway measure.

Also unresolved were rival versions of banking legislation designed to shore up the fund that insures bank deposits. The Senate measure called for allowing interstate banking, as well, and a cap on credit card interest rates that seemed unlikely to survive.

With weekend sessions a near certainty in the rush toward a hoped-for adjournment by Wednesday, lawmakers in both chambers struggled to finish work on essential legislation. Among key developments Friday were these:

■ The House overwhelmingly approved legislation giving 11 percent boosts to government health research and to federal aid for school districts with large numbers of low-income students. The action came as the House reworked a $205 billion spending bill that President Bush vetoed in an earlier version because of language lifting restrictions on abortion counseling at federally funded clinics.

■ Congress gave final approval to a $291 billion military budget that would stall the B-2 stealth bomber program but keep money flowing for nuclear missiles, submarines and other arms designed for Cold War threats.

■ The House was poised to give final approval to legislation ensuring that people who have exhausted their unemployment benefits get no fewer than 13 weeks of additional unemployment checks beyond their basic benefit package.

The abortion measure was aimed at reversing a 1988 decision by the Pentagon that began disallowing abortions at hospitals on U.S. bases overseas. It added one more obstacle to passage of the omnibus spending bill.

Murder plot involves 11 teen boys

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Outside the lunch room at Walter Colton Junior High, a sign warns against committing the small sins of childhood: "No pushing or shoving! No yelling! Do not cut in line!"

It doesn't say anything about what police say unfolded last month on campus: a murder plot involving 11 boys aged 11 to 14 who wanted to stop a bully.

But they passed their .22-caliber handgun amongst themselves like a baseball trading card, and it finally ended up in the hands of their intended target, police say.

School officials called police after hearing rumors of a gun on campus, which sits on a tree-covered hill next to million-dollar homes. Some frightened students had taken to carrying baseball bats to protect themselves.

Three boys are in custody and scheduled to go on trial Monday on charges of conspiracy to commit murder. Most of the boys were released after their arrests and face lesser charges of possession of a stolen gun.

Prosecutors say they have a strong case thanks to statements from the boys, who told police a group laid in wait for the intended victim on Oct. 21. But he was in detention that day.

Defense attorneys and parents of the accused children contend the tough-talking youths — who blamed each another for the plot — never seriously intended to kill. Instead, they sought to protect themselves from a boy they called a bully, a 15-year-old eighth-grader.

More national news/2C

"This kid was just terrorizing them and they felt they had to do something to stop it," said the father of an accused 13-year-old.

Frank Dice, public defender for one of the 13-year-olds, said the gun changed hands at least eight times and wasn't loaded most of the time.

"Obviously, nobody was going to pull the trigger," he said.

The boys, who had filed the serial number off the stolen gun, hid the weapon and retrieved it several times as it passed hand-to-hand for three days.

Then it was thrown into a gully, where the eighth-grader found it.

"He knew they were going to get him, so he went looking for the gun. ... He kept it for his own protection," said Assistant District Attorney Klar Wennerholm.

He insisted prosecutors "wouldn't go after little boys unless the murder plot was serious."

A court order prevents release of the names of the parents or youths in the case, including the two 13-year-olds and one 14-year-old charged with conspiracy to commit murder.

Flu outbreak will be severe, experts say

N.Y. Times News Service

A nationwide flu outbreak, mostly among school-age children, has closed schools in six states and has confirmed warnings that this will be an unusually grim flu season, experts say. They said this was the earliest start of the flu season in memory.

Doctors in Middle Atlantic, Central and Mountain states are reporting that 4 to 9 percent of the patients they see are complaining of flu-like symptoms; usually the rate in November is 1 to 4 percent, said Dr. Walter Gunn, an epidemiologist and flu specialist at the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Tennessee, Texas and Ohio have been the hardest hit states, according to the disease centers. Schools have closed in these states and also in New York, Missouri and Mississippi.

It is impossible to determine the exact number of flu cases in the country, Gunn said. Epidemiologists generally rely on "sentinel" doctors to report how many of their patients are complaining of flu symptoms and on labs to report the results of any throat cultures.

Judge cuts Gorman's award by $400,000

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Beleaguered television minister Jimmy Swaggart has won a victory in court, albeit a small one.

A judge slashed $400,000 from the jury award another fallen televangelist, Marvin Gorman, won in September in a lawsuit against Swaggart and others.

Retired State District Judge Julian Bailes on Wednesday cut Gorman's defamation award from $600,000 to $360,000 and his award for suffering and emotional distress from $400,000 to $240,000.

Bailes' however left intact the $9 million award Swaggart and some of his codefendants must pay to Gorman's defunct ministry.

Bailes reduced the other awards to bring them more in line with out-of-court settlements two other defendants reached before the trial.

After a trial lasting more than two months, the jury found that Swaggart and close associates plotted to ruin Gorman's budding TV ministry with false accusations of multiple adulterous affairs.

Gorman, his ministry and his wife, Virginia, filed for bankruptcy protection in late 1987. Trial testimony indicated the ministry owed creditors roughly $3.5 million, while the Gormans owed creditors some $750,000.

Gorman said after his trial that he was no longer under jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court, but that the award to his ministry would all go to creditors and attorneys.

Swaggart's ministry has suffered serious financial reversals since Gorman provided pictures of Swaggart with a prostitute outside a New Orleans-area motel in 1987. Last month, police found a self-professed prostitute in Swaggart's car during a traffic stop in Indio, Calif. Swaggart has since taken a leave from the pulpit.

Regulators take free trips

HOUSTON (AP) — State and federal regulators have accepted free hunting trips from Temple-Inland, but investigators said most were not influenced by the Diboll-based company.

The Texas Air Control Board found that since 1981 five supervisors and inspectors went on the trips to the forest products company's East Texas hunting lodge.

In separate investigations, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration also reported agents had accepted the hunting trips from Temple-Inland.

Carolyn Elmore, spokeswoman for Temple-Inland, said the company will not comment on any of the allegations.

OSHA has proposed firing three Houston safety inspectors who accepted free weekend hunting trips as recently as December to Temple-Inland's resort.

■ More state news/6C

OSHA has recommended a 60-day suspension and reassignment for a fourth employee who accepted a trip, while a fifth who went on similar hunting trips retired during an investigation by the U.S. Labor Department's inspector general in Dallas.

Jim Braddock, general counsel for the TACB, said he believed none of the five employees — four from Beaumont and one from Austin — was influenced by the trips in 1981, 1982 and 1985 through 1990.

Three of the employees no longer work for the agency. A fourth worker left the first day of the hunting excursion.

Bird watchers spot arctic bird in south

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A new sort of winter Texan has taken up residence at Braunig Lake south of the city, and bird watchers are flocking to the pond to get a glimpse of the rarity.

A Sabine's gull from the high Arctic Circle has been spotted several times since Halloween. The species normally spends winters at sea off the West Coast, but experts say harsh weather may have forced it to move south.

San Antonio Express-News staff members searched for the bird Thursday but were unable to locate it among thousands of pelicans, cormorants, egrets and seagulls feeding on fish in the 1,700-acre lake.

The San Antonio Audubon Society expects the sighting of the Sabine's gull, believed to be the first in this area, to be validated officially.

Willie Sekula, a past president of the Audubon Society and a recognized bird watcher, reported the sighting Oct. 31, a society spokesman said. Sekula said he saw the gull again Nov. 6, and a friend saw it Nov. 7.

Ernest Roney, chairman of the society's bird records committee and assistant director of the San Antonio Zoo, said other reputable bird watchers also have seen the distinctly marked gull.

The State

Gov. Richards encourages free trade agreement

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards said Friday Texans must strive to reap benefits from a free trade agreement with Mexico and work toward marketing products generated by Texas research.

Too often, Richards said, high-technology and bio-technology research in Texas leads to development of new products that are sold by companies in other states.

Most analysts agree bio-technology will become a $100 billion industry by the year 2000 and will change Americans' lives more than computers did, Richards told a Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

Once a North American free trade agreement exists, Richards said, Texas will be at the center of the world's largest free trade zone and San Antonio will be "in the catbird's seat." She added the future of the Texas economy lies in international commerce.

"This state cannot survive by cooking each other's hamburgers and washing each other's hair," she said.

Texas has become more susceptible to national economic swings as the state has diversified and become less reliant on oil and real estate, she said.

In the past 10 years, the United States has bought $1.3 trillion more in foreign goods than it has sold abroad, which has led to tough economic times, Richards said.

"So it's no wonder that we have found ourselves in what is generously called a recession," she said. "Usually the federal government spends its way out of a recession, but this time we spent our way into it."

Richards later said while the Texas economy has improved, she doesn't believe that is the case for the national economy.

"I see us declining. I don't see us improving," she said. "We keep getting told that all the indicators — quote, unquote — are showing us on our way out (of recession). I see Texas on its way out, but I see the Northeast on its way in," she said.

It's smash-mouth time

■ Two teams that have formed an intense rivalry — the Midland Lee Rebels and El Paso Andress Eagles — meet again this afternoon in the Class 5A area playoffs.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

Let's see now — follow the recipe exactly. Toss in a revenge motive for both teams, mix throughly with the area round of the Class 5A Small School playoffs, stir in a pair of 10-1 records, add in a 2 p.m. home game at Memorial Stadium and cover with Sudden Death.

Hopefully, that mixture makes for a Midland Lee vs. El Paso Andress taste explosion for local fans. It looks to be a real treat.

■ El Paso Andress Eagles vs. Midland Lee Rebels, 2 p.m., Memorial Stadium. RADIO: KCRS (103.3 FM).

Andress is the team that eliminated Lee from the state playoffs a year ago when the two teams tied 21-21 with the Eagles advancing 5-3 on penetrations. Andress, on the other hand, lost its season opener to Lee by a 13-3 margin back in September, so there is a revenge factor present for both teams. Will that have a bearing on today's game?

Permian alive and kicking — again

■ After a scare last week in the first round of the Class 5A playoffs, the Permian Panthers return to demolition-crew form with a 56-6 win over El Paso Austin.

By Bill Price
Staff Writer

ODESSA — While last week's 22-9 bi-district win over Amarillo Tascosa may have had some Odessa Permian fans worried, Friday night proved that the Panther faithful had little to be concerned about.

The Mojo patient is doing fine without major surgery, thank you, as the No. 2-ranked Panthers demolished the El Paso Austin Panthers 56-6 in the area round of the Class 5A Small School football playoffs at Ratliff Stadium.

Just how bad was it? Permian running backs Malcolm Hamilton and John Williams each had a 100-yard first half, and by the intermission the Panthers were ahead 35-0 and held a 15-2 edge in first downs.

By all accounts, Permian's top two runners were superb, as they combined for five touchdowns. Hamilton ran for 128 yards on nine first half carries, including a 58-yard touchdown that opened the game's scoring, while Williams was passing hash marks like highway reflectors to the tune of 103 yards on 11 carries

Hamilton had two more carries in the game to finish with 142 yards, while Williams was afforded but one more chance to give him a 118-yard total.

■ San Angelo Central silences Socorro, 34-11/5B

But given the blocking they were provided, the Panther mascot probably could have run for 100 yards.

"After the Tascosa game, that's what we tried to impress on our offensive line. Tonight the line gained some momentum and got back to playing the way Odessa Permian wants to play," said Permian head coach Tam Hollingshead after his team moved to a 12-0 record.

While the Mojo offense was able to do virtually anything it wanted against Austin (5-6-1), the Permian defense was just as dominant. After Dorian Williams ran for nine yards on Austin's first offensive play, Permian bowed its collective neck to deny the El Paso Panthers a first down. As a matter of fact, Austin's first first down came well into the second quarter after Mojo had gone on top 28-0.

Austin's only score came with 5:57 left in the game against a defense that was a mixture of Permian's third team and junior varsity. After Permian fumbled the ball at its own 14, Austin was finally able to push the goose egg out from under the "Visitors" portion of scoreboard.

But Austin tackle Alex Castro was able to be introspective about the state of affairs.

Braden TDs clutch for Red Devils

By Joe Wyatt
Staff Writer

SEMINOLE — For three quarters, nine minutes and 56 seconds here Friday night, Rankin fullback and linebacker Kevin Braden was over-worked and under-paid.

Two monstrous plays later he was rich beyond belief.

Braden scored on a 72-yard run from scrimmage and later on a 41-yard interception return as the Red Devils posted 29 fourth-quarter points — 22 of them with under three minutes remaining — to stun the Sudan Hornets 36-7 in a Class A area football playoff game.

The win puts Rankin (10-1) into the regional round of the playoffs against Wheeler (11-1) next Friday at 8 p.m. in Abilene's Shotwell Stadium. Wheeler trounced Motley County 50-0 in area action Friday.

"I think Kevin Braden played a super game, both on offense and on defense," said Rankin head coach Troy Kennedy,

Both Midland Lee and Midland High suffered through cold spells in the opening round of the Tall City girls tournament Friday at the Chaparral Center.

But while Midland High couldn't overcome eight minutes without a field goal in a 41-36 loss to El Paso Bowie, Lee posted its first win under new head coach Elise Kail in a 44-42 come-from-behind effort over Pecos.

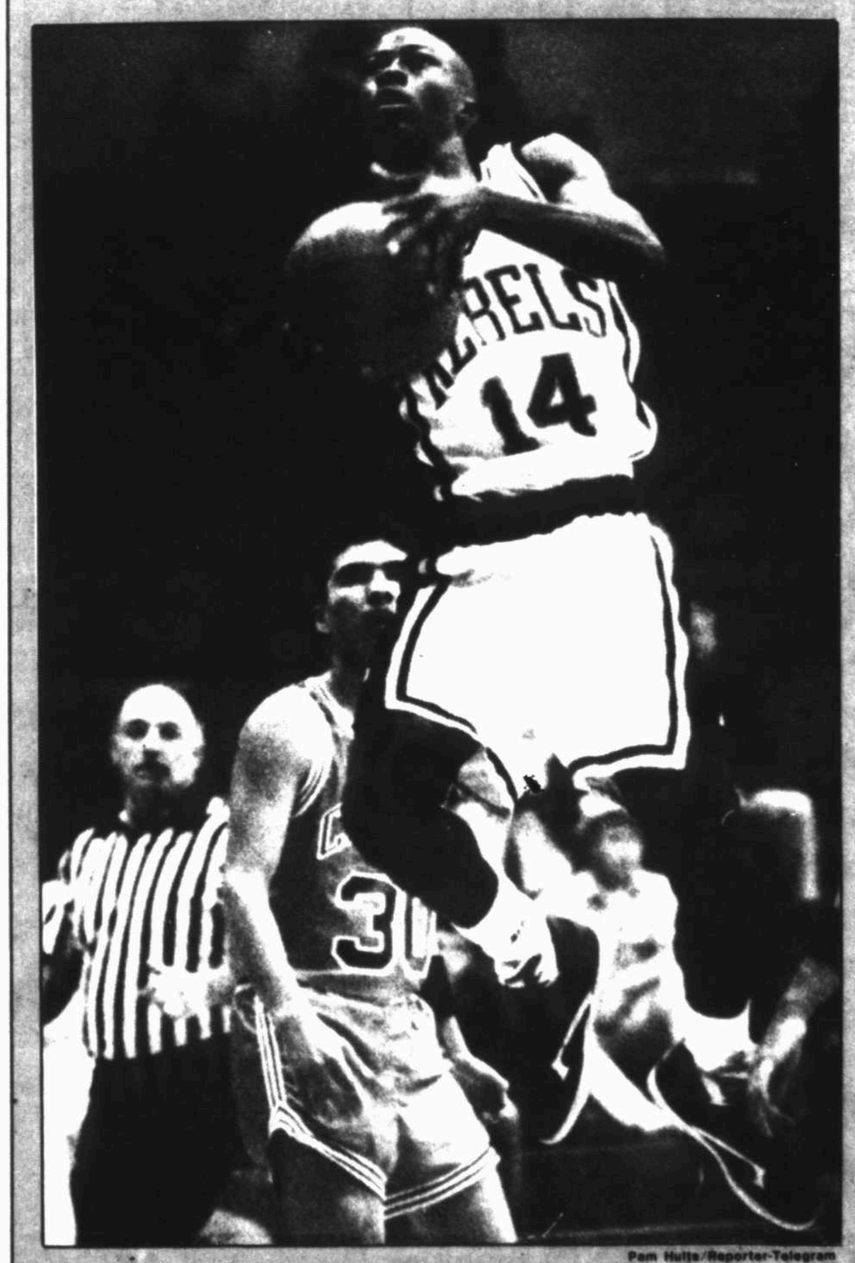
MHS shooting goes cold



Pam Hutts/Reporter-Telegram
Midland Lee junior guard Martin Lattibeaudiere, right, scored 26 points Friday against Amarillo Caprock.

■ Midland High falls to Amarillo High while Midland Lee defeats Caprock as Tall City teams take three of four games in a two-day Permian Basin-Panhandle series.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

Midland High lost its shooting touch at the Midland High gym Friday afternoon and fell 65-55 to Amarillo High while Midland Lee blew a 21-point lead in the second half, but held on to beat Amarillo Caprock 78-75, completing the weekend swap out with the Amarillo squads.

Lee ends opening week with a 2-0 mark while MHS fell to 1-1.

Amarillo High 65, MHS 55

This wasn't the same Midland High team that threw in 92 points in a win against Caprock Thursday at Chaparral Center. Thursday, everything but the kitchen sink went in the hole. Friday, they looked much like brick layers.

"I was afraid something like this might happen," said MHS basketball coach Jack Stephenson. "Everything that went up went in against Caprock, but we were four-for-21 in the first half against Amarillo and the kids got a little frustrated.

"I was still proud of the way we battled back in the game. We got down by 13 points and came back to within two, but it was just a case of nothing falling."

With four minutes left in the game, the Bulldogs climbed into the hunt by narrowing the margin to 56-54. But the Golden Sandies got 11 fourth quarter points from sophomore guard Jeff Hunt down the stretch, hitting seven of eight from the charity stripe.

"That's why he's on our varsity," said Amarillo coach Allan Simpson. "He did a good job for us under pressure. I'm tickled to death with this

GIRLS: Kail gets first career win

(From 1C)

56-28 behind

Marlee Webb's 19 points and Nikki Harley's 11 tallies. Also, 6-1 senior Nytasha Brooks poured in 27 points to pace Lubbock Estacado in a 50-42 win over El Paso Coronado.

MHS and Dunbar kick off today's action with a consolation round game at 8:30 a.m., while Coronado and Pecos square off at 10:15 in the other consolation semifinal.

Hanks faces El Paso rival Bowie at noon in the first championship semifinal, while Lee and Estacado play at 1:45.

The seventh-place game will be at 3:15, followed by the consolation championship at 5, the third-place game at 6:45, and the championship game at 8:30 p.m.

Lee 44, Pecos 42

The Lady Rebels, 1-1, trailed nearly the whole game before scoring six unanswered points in the fourth quarter to take the lead in what would become the first win posted by any Lee girls basketball coach other than Shirley Stephenson, who retired after last season after 14 seasons.

Lee lost to Hobbs, N.M., Tuesday in Kail's debut as head basketball coach, but Friday's game was saved by a transition game spearheaded by senior Lachette Crisp, who led Lee with 13 points and provided several key passes in the Lady Rebs' fourth-quarter run.

Crisp, who led the team in scoring during last season's 10-19 run, said Kail has the team in better condition this season.

"The practices are about the same (length), but all we do is run, run, run," Crisp said. "The coaching is much different. I'm in much better condition this season."

Pecos jumped out to a 9-2 lead in the first 2½ minutes of the game, but the teams traded leads at the beginning of the second half before Pecos took over again — sort of.

The Lady Eagles led by as much as seven in the third quarter, but could never deliver a crowning blow. Kail credits her players for that.

"This shows a lot about our kids," Kail said. "They were behind the whole game.

"But we see a lot of hope. This is what the kids have been waiting for," Kail added.

After Tanya Gardner's layup gave Pecos a 37-34 lead with 3:04 left, the Lady Rebels reeled off their six-point spurt in the next 50 seconds on a bank shot by Crisp and layups by Lisa Cochran and Tekeira Strambler.

The Lady Rebs got late baskets by Strambler and Ranee Franklin to keep Pecos at bay, despite a three-pointer by Lady Eagle Lisa Williams at the buzzer.

Williams led all scorers with 17 points.

Bowie 41, MHS 36

The Lady Bulldogs dropped to 1-1 with the help of a run in which Coach Jim Raughton's team went scoreless from the field for nearly eight minutes in the second half.

MHS led 25-19 after Ashley Chase's long jumper with 2:45 left in the third quarter. But the Lady Dawgs wouldn't score again from the field until Mich Neatherlin's layup with 2:56 left in the game and Bowie rode the aggressive play of Norma Carrasco and Veronica Martinez to a 35-28 lead in the interim.

Three Lady Bears fouled out, as did two for Midland High. But Bowie was 17-of-25 from the line, while MHS could manage only 12-of-23.

Midland High did make a game of it in the final minute. Chase's only three-pointer of the night cut the Bowie lead to 38-36 with 48 seconds left. Claudia Cabrera put Bowie up by three with a free throw three seconds later, however.

MHS missed a chance to tie when Chase's three-point effort missed the mark with 25 seconds left. The senior then committed her fifth foul in the Bowie backcourt with 22 seconds left, and Martinez iced the game with two free throws.

"We didn't do what we needed to," Raughton said. "We have to be a little more aggressive on the offensive boards.

"I'm not giving up, and I don't think these girls are giving up."

Chase led all scorers with 14 points, while Carrasco and Martinez had 12 and 10, respectively, for Bowie.

win. We looked like a different team than the one we had on the floor against Lee Thursday."

Clint Reed led Amarillo with 15 points while Hunt and Judd Burkett each ended the game with 13 points. Guard Mike Melzer led the Bulldogs with 15 points, but Antwan Goodley was the only other player in double figures with 11. MHS hit only two of 17 shots from three-point range.

Midland Lee 78
Amarillo Caprock 75

Injured junior Martin Lattibeaudiere scored 26 points and senior post Wayne Wilson added 24 points as Lee outlasted the Longhorns, trying to make a good impersonation of Midland College.

"We had a 21-point lead and blew it," said Lee coach Jon House. "We got a little tired, but we hung on to win. A win is a win.

"I can't wait for Lattibeaudiere's leg to heal. He scored 26 points and he still can't penetrate. He could really be something to watch."

Lee outscored the Longhorns by a 28-9 margin in the second period to take control of the game, but had fourth quarter woes as Caprock outscored the Rebels by a 28-13 margin, but still couldn't climb out of the hole it had built.

David Wilson had nine points for Lee while Pat Kimball had eight, but Lattibeaudiere, who hit four three-point shots, and Wayne Wilson from inside the paint was too much for the Longhorns.

Lee travels to Snyder Tuesday while MHS is open until next weekend when the Bulldogs meet Del Rio at 5:30 p.m. Friday in the first round of the Uvalde tournament.

Pitt upsets No. 4 'Cats

Associated Press

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Senior center Darren Morningstar scored a career-high 27 points and Pitt held No. 4 Kentucky to only 27 percent shooting in posting an 85-67 upset Friday night in the second round of the preseason NIT.

Kentucky, which its 22-game home winning streak stopped, made only 21 of 77 shots and just seven of 36 from 3-point range. Two nights earlier, Kentucky hit 16 of 32 3-pointers in a 106-80 victory over West Virginia.

No. 6 LSU 77
NE Louisiana 76

BATON ROUGE, La. — Paul Marshall scored five points in the final 1:22 to tie it, and Clarence Ceasar hit a free throw with five seconds left to give sixth-ranked Louisiana State a victory over Northeast Louisiana.

LSU trailed 76-68 with 1:59 to go before rallying to win the season opener for both teams. Shaquille O'Neal, college basketball's Player of the Year last season, had 15 points and 15 rebounds and blocked five shots for LSU, but also made several bad passes.

No. 9 Seton Hall 99
St. Francis, NY 78

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. — Bryan Caver came off the bench early and sparked an 18-5 run and No. 9 Seton Hall shot 59 percent from the field in the opening half and defeated outmanned St. Francis, N.Y.

Caver and fellow gaurd Terry Dehere each finished with 20 points as Seton Hall posted its 19th straight victory in a season opener and spoiled the debut of former UNLV assistant Ron Ganulin as the Terriers' coach.

No. 15 Connecticut 76
Hartford 46

HARTFORD, Conn. — Rod Sellers scored 12 points during Connecticut's 13-0 run to end the first half and the No. 15 Huskies continued to pull away en route to a victory over Hartford.

Sellers, who struggled through preseason and almost lost his starting position, started the run with 6:06 left in the half with an inside basket that gave Connecticut a 23-19 lead. He scored three similar baskets during the burst and added four free throws.

No. 23 Georgia Tech 84
Colorado St. 67

ATLANTA — Jon Barry scored 29 points and made two 3-pointers during a decisive burst in the second half that led No. 23 Georgia Tech past Colorado State in the second round of the preseason National Invitation Tournament.

The game was tied at 43 when Malcolm Mackey scored from the inside, freshman James Forrest followed with a three-point play and Barry sank two 3-pointers for a 51-46 lead with 13:49 remaining.

Smith's 34 leads TCU

Associated Press

SHREVEPORT, La. — Reggie Smith scored 34 points and grabbed 15 rebounds as Texas Christian routed cold-shooting Southeastern Louisiana 90-58 in Friday's opening game of the Century Cellunet Classic.

It was the season-opening game for both teams. The victory advanced Texas Christian to Saturday night's championship game against the winner of a game later Friday night between Grambling State and host Centenary.

SMU 63, SW Texas St. 59

SAN MARCOS — Chad Allen keyed a 10-0 second half run with a pair of 3-pointers and Southern Methodist overcame George Conner's career-high 35 points, squeaking past Southwest Texas State 63-59 Friday night.

Tim Mason led SMU (1-0) with 17 points. Greg Kinzer added 14 points and a game-high 11 rebounds for the Mustangs, who trailed 29-27 at halftime.

Texas 57, Princeton 46

AUSTIN — Dexter Cambridge scored 18 points and Texas showed off its own brand of defense in beating Princeton in the second round of the preseason National Invitation Tournament.

Despite scoring 47 points fewer than it had in the first round, Texas (2-0) advanced to the semifinals of the NIT to New York on Wednesday against No. 23 Georgia Tech.

Heat still hot, Kings still not

Associated Press

MIAMI — The Miami Heat is no longer the best opponent for a team trying to snap a losing streak.

Glen Rice and Steve Smith each scored 23 points Friday night, helping surprising Miami hand the Sacramento Kings their 43rd consecutive road loss, 118-112.

The Heat, an NBA doormat in its first three seasons, improved its record to 7-3. Last year Miami notched its seventh victory in its 27th game.

Smith, who enjoyed a one-foot height advantage during the frequent stretches when 5-foot-7 Spud Webb guarded him, scored from both inside and outside and handed out seven assists. Webb answered by hitting eight of 12 shots for 16 points.

Knicks 99, Pistons 90

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — John Starks and Patrick Ewing scored 20 points apiece, leading the New York Knicks over the slumping Detroit Pistons.

Ewing, who signed a 2-year, $18.8 million contract extension earlier in the day, had 15 points in the second half, while Starks scored 14 in the second quarter. Ewing had eight in the fourth quarter when the Knicks took control of what had been a close contest.

Hornets 112, Pacers 110

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Larry Johnson, the No. 1 pick in the 1991 NBA draft, had 25 points and 15 rebounds and Muggsy Bogues hit a 17-foot jumper with 15 seconds left, giving the Charlotte Hornets a victory over the Indiana Pacers.

The Pacers failed in a bid to tie the game when Vern Fleming missed a layup and the Hornets recovered the ball and ran out the clock, ending Indiana's six-game winning streak against Charlotte, which won back-to-back games for the first time this season.

The fourth quarter was tight throughout, with neither team gaining more than a four-point advantage.

Hawks 99, 76ers 92

PHILADELPHIA — Kevin Willis had 27 points and a career-high 23 rebounds as the Atlanta Hawks held off a late rally to beat the Philadelphia 76ers.

Rumeal Robinson had 16 points and a career-high 15 assists for the Hawks, who knocked the 76ers out of first place in the Atlantic Division. The Miami Heat now leads the division after beating Sacramento.

Charles Barkley had 35 points, 14 rebounds and five steals in a losing cause for Philadelphia.

The Hawks led 82-75 with 9:50 left in the game, but the 76ers closed to 90-87 on two free throws each by Barkley and Armon Gilliam.

NBA Roundup

Suns 105, Clippers 97

PHOENIX — Dan Majerle scored 21 points and fired up Phoenix with a pair of dunks in the fourth quarter as the Suns beat the Los Angeles Clippers.

The loss was the sixth straight for the Clippers, 5-2 when the skid began.

The Suns, who broke their own six-game losing string on Wednesday night, got 19 points from Tim Perry, a fourth-year player who made his first start this season as coach Cotton Fitzsimmons followed through on a promise to shake up his team for more production.

Jazz 121, Nuggets 96

SALT LAKE CITY — Jeff Malone scored 31 points, including 11 during a 16-2 run in the first quarter, leading the Utah Jazz over the Denver Nuggets.

The Jazz trailed 19-10 midway through the first period before Malone got hot, putting Utah in front to stay. He was 4-for-6 from the field and 3-for-3 from the line in the period.

Utah led 30-27 at the end of the quarter, then started the second period with a 17-6 spurt for a 47-33 advantage. Rookie reserves Corey Crowder and David Benoit combined for nine points in that run, and the Jazz went on to record Jerry Sloan's 250th pro coaching victory.

Warriors 116, Trail Blazers 112

PORTLAND, Ore. — Chris Mullin sank a 15-footer for the go-ahead basket with 1.2 seconds remaining as the Golden State Warriors beat the Portland Trail Blazers.

The Blazers were called for two 24-second violations in the final 3½ minutes, including one with 14 seconds remaining, setting up Mullin's wide-open winning shot that enabled the Warriors to run their road record to 6-1.

After Buck Williams' inbounds pass sailed out of bounds over Clyde Drexler's head, Mario Elie was fouled and sank two free throws with no time remaining for the final margin.

Bulls 112
SuperSonics 109, OT

SEATTLE — Michael Jordan scored 10 of his 31 points in overtime as the Chicago Bulls edged the Seattle SuperSonics before a crowd of 34,231 in the Kingdome.

Jordan took over the game in the five-minute overtime after Derrick McKey tied the score at 97-97 with a pair of free throws with 9.1 seconds left in regulation.

The Bulls won their eighth straight and broke a four-game Seattle winning streak as Horace Grant and Stacey King hit critical free throws in the final six seconds.

MOJO: Permian returns to dominant form

(From 1C)

the first couple of plays, then pffft. We knew they were going to be good and it did feel good to score, even though it was against like their third team," he said.

And if anybody thought the outcome of the game was going to be different after Permian was unable to gain a first down on the game's opening possession, that all changed scant minutes later. After holding Austin the first time it had the ball, Mojo went to work.

Hamilton ended a five-play drive that lasted 2:07 with his 58-yarder, then 3:07 later Williams carried a 23-yard score home. Quarterback Stormy Case also got in on the act on Permian's next possession, capping an eight-play drive with a 15-yard TD pass to Gerrod Bergen. By the end of the first period the game was essentially over with Mojo on top 21-0.

In the second quarter Williams scored on a three-yard run and Hamilton a two-yard effort. Case got another TD pass, a 16-yarder to Kendrick Parrett, and Williams earned his third TD in the third quarter before Hollingshead began substituting like a Las Vegas gambler on a roll.

Permian's last TD was a three-yard run by Damond Love and Austin's Terrence Burton ended the game's scoring on a one-yard run.

NOTES — Permian did its part in setting up the No. 1 vs. No. 2 battle next week in the region round. The second-ranked Panthers will face the winner of today's Arlington Lamar-Irving MacArthur game. Lamar is unbeaten and ranked No. 1 in the state ... The blowout came as no surprise to anybody, even the Permian coaches. Permian suited up about 75 players for the game.

Bobcats claw Socorro

Staff Report

SAN ANGELO — The San Angelo Bobcats kept District 4-5A's 1991 football playoff record perfect here Friday night with a 34-11 Class 5A Big School region victory over El Paso Socorro.

The Bobcats lost running back David Hamilton to grades this week, so quarterback Shea Morenz took up the slack by throwing five touchdown passes to four different receivers.

Morenz hit Charles Vogel for two five-yard TD tosses and also had TD throws of 39 yards to Ryan King, 14 to Damon Carroll and 36 to Marcus Bibbs. Morenz completed 19 of 32 passes for 266 yards.

The Bobcats led only 9-3 at the half, but scored 25 points in the third quarter. San Angelo had a 22-point third period against Midland Lee two weeks ago.

DEVILS: Rankin meets stout Wheeler team Friday

(From 1C)

whose fourth-ranked Red Devils held a puny 7-0 lead entering the fourth quarter.

But that changed when quarterback Kirk Kennedy scored on a one-yard plunge midway through the final period, putting Sudan (8-3) in a must-score situation. The Hornets responded with a 12-play, 55-yard drive capped by Gabe Narramore's one-yard touchdown burst which narrowed the score to 14-7 with 2:44 showing on the game clock.

Then Rankin simply exploded.

The Red Devils called Braden's number on their next play from scrimmage and the senior workhorse, who had just 53 yards on his first 17 hauls, made his 18th carry a game-breaker.

Braden plowed through a gapping hole at the Rankin 28-yard line, aimed for the right sideline and sprinted down it untouched for 72 yards and a 22-7 Red Devil advantage.

"I didn't know if I would break it or not. I just tried to run my hardest," said Braden, who became the game's leading rusher with 125 yards on the play.

"Our line came through by blocking a defense we hadn't seen yet, and I just gave it my all."

Rankin's offensive line proved too mighty for Sudan. The Red Devils' front wall of center Baylor Walker, guards Keith Braden and Ramon Garcia, tackles Justin Seabolt and Clint Templeton and tight end Robert Guadarrama led Rankin to a 283-100 advantage in rushing yardage.

"It's the best line I've ever played behind," said Kirk Kennedy, who completed just 1-of-6 passes, but rushed for 63 yards and scored the game's first two TDs.

His first scoring run came on a nifty 21-yard jaunt made possible by an evasive spin move just beyond the line of scrimmage. Kennedy fumbled the ball away twice in the first quarter, but his initial TD run was the first 20-yard-line penetration for either team, and it put Rankin up 7-0.

"The first half we killed ourselves when I fumbled twice deep in their territory," Kennedy said, "but in the second half we came out and played some good ball. Our line picked up great on their defense and did what it needed to do."

Braden's huge TD run was just the tip of the iceberg that struck the Sudan ship. Hornet quarterback Shannon Fisher tried to hurl Sudan back into the game with a two-minute offense, but four straight passes fell harmlessly incomplete and Rankin took over with 2:07 to play at the Sudan 21-yard line.

The Red Devils upped the margin to 29-7 in just three plays as Roy Abalos — who finished the game with 97 yards on only nine carries — took an option pitch from Kennedy at the seven-yard line and carried it into the right corner of the end zone with 1:07 left.

A kickoff and one Fisher aerial later and Braden was streaming over the end line with a 41-yard TD return and a solitary minute left to play.

"I think our offensive line there in the last part of the game really got after it and gave our offense the opportunity to move the ball and score," Coach Kennedy said.

"We got off to a slow start in the game because we had an open date last week and we had some injuries, but we had some great individual efforts and our defense played a super game."

The Rankin defense held 1,600-yard running back Tim Williams to minus four yards and Braden, Jo Jo Guerra and Clint Templeton each had interceptions.

And the Red Devils did not punt in the game.

"We had to adjust to their defense, and that took us a while," said Garcia, the 220-pound senior guard, "but when we made our adjustments it helped us play tough on offense and tough on defense, too.

"Now we're going to go over there (Abilene) and play a good game, also."

Sabatini, Seles advance to semis

NEW YORK — With a crowd-pleasing mix display of flair and firepower, Gabriela Sabatini routed Jennifer Capriati on Friday night and joined top-seeded Monica Seles in the semifinals of the Virginia Slims Championships.

Sabatini beat Capriati 6-1, 6-4 after Seles beat Mary Joe Fernandez 6-3, 6-2 in the 16-player, season-ending tennis tournament.

Sabatini and Seles will play in one of Saturday's semifinals at Madison Square Garden. In the other semifinal, No. 4 Martina Navratilova plays No. 8 Jana Novotna.

Sabatini's best showings have come in New York, and the Argentine right-hander appeared ready to claim another title. Her first major tournament victory came in the 1988 Virginia Slims Championships, and she won the U.S. Open at Flushing Meadows last year.

Volleyball finals set

AUSTIN (AP) — After trailing 10-1 in the third set, San Antonio Jay defeated Houston Cypress Creek 15-3, 5-15, 15-12 in Friday's Class 5A semifinals of the 26th annual University Interscholastic League Volleyball Tournament.

Saturday's finals will pit Jay (33-3) against Humble Kingwood (37-4), which breezed past Arlington Sam Houston 15-8, 15-6 in the other 5A semifinal.

Both 5A finalists are among six schools vying for their first UIL volleyball crown. The other schools are Windthorst in Class 1A, Springtown in 3A and Austin Westlake and Katy Taylor in 4A.

Four other schools, Bronte in 1A, Wallis Brazos and Jewett Leon in 2A, and Bellville in 3A are trying for another championship.

Westlake (31-7) got by Red Oak (34-5) in three sets, 15-5, 12-15, 15-11 while Katy Taylor (31-7) beat defending state champion Dumas (33-3) 15-9, 17-15. In Class 3A, Bellville and Springtown will meet in Saturday's finals in a rematch from last year's title match.

Bellville (28-11) will be seeking its fourth state championship and second straight after beating Edna (29-6) 15-11, 15-6 in one semifinal match Friday.

Springtown (32-1) got by Seminole (28-6) 15-7, 13-15, 15-11.

Jewett Leon will try to cap its season with a perfect mark after advancing to the finals with a 15-6, 15-8 win over Ingram Moore (19-8) in Class 2A.

Purtzer-Wadkins lead Shootout

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The team of Tom Purtzer and Lanny Wadkins shot an opening-round 61 Friday to take a three-stroke lead in the $1 million Greg Norman Shark Shootout.

Mark O'Meara and Steve Elkington of Australia combined for an 8-under-par 64 over the 7,025-yard Sherwood Country Club course.

Purtzer is a newcomer to the tournament, originated by Norman as a fund-raising event.

AREA: Lee QB starter not decided

(From 1C)

"Well, I don't know about our kids, but it has a bearing for me," Midland Lee coach Earl Miller said. "I still have a strong memory. I hope our kids do."

Andress coach Allan Sepkowitz responded, "We're going to show up. I assure you of that. It will be like always with Lee — it's smash-mouth time."

And "smash-mouth" could be a good description of what will take place when the kickoff whistle sounds. Defense was the key word when the two teams met in September with Andress gaining only 54 yards of total offense, scoring only on a long distance 49-yard field goal by Steve Guardado. Lee had only 147 yards, all rushing, against Andress. This is close-to-the-vest football.

"I expect much of the same type of game as what we saw in the first game," Sepkowitz said. "Lee isn't going to change much. They are a running team and they are going to live or die with it. Our offense hasn't been very productive the last three weeks, not even good enough to win, but we have played defense good enough to win."

Miller also expects a running game from Andress.

"They will try to run the ball with Isiah Lee. They moved him from quarterback to running back late in the game against us and have left him there," Miller said. "We've got to take the running game away because they don't throw the ball much, and that could be our strong suit.

"Our defense has been pretty consistent this year. In seven of eleven games, we've had a shutout or allowed only one touchdown. We're healthy on defense and really have no excuses."

Andress' Lee was the state's leading rusher in Class 5A this year with 1,880 yards through 11 games. He had a minus-17 yards rushing against Lee. However, he had only 76 yards in a 7-0 bi-district win over El Paso Bel Air last week.

"The move of Lee to running back was good for us until the last three weeks," Sepkowitz said. "We just haven't had a lot of offense, but the most points we've given up in one game is 14 points against (El Paso) Jefferson. We've lived with the defense and the kicking game."

Sepkowitz brought his Eagles into town Friday, hoping to take the edge off of a long 300-mile trip.

"We did just the opposite after we beat Lee last year. We took our kids into Texas Stadium on the same day and got kicked by Arlington Lamar," Sepkowitz said. "So, we'll try this."

Miller has not indicated if senior Jimmy Patton or sophomore Courtney Turner will start at quarterback. Starter Patton was injured in the 35-0 Lee win over Palo Duro last week and Turner came in to guide Lee to 26 second half points.

"Patton couldn't even lift his arm earlier this week. We don't know if he can go or not. We might have to go with the sophomore," Miller said.

Sepkowitz, who watched Lee's game with Palo Duro last week, said it won't change much for his team no matter which quarterback plays for Lee.

"They may throw a little better with Turner, but like I said, Lee is going to run the football. It won't make much difference to us," Sepkowitz said.

Patton led Lee in the first game with 35 yards rushing and one touchdown.

The winner of today's game will advance to the region playoffs against today's 2 p.m. winner against Sherman (9-2) and Arlington High (8-2-1). That game is in Lewisville.

The game is not a sellout. There are plenty of tickets available. All tickets at the gate today will be $7.

Aggies go for title clinch against SMU

Associated Press

SWC Roundup

The Texas Aggies are looking for more respect and Southern Methodist coach Tom Rossley is just looking for a break.

The No. 12-ranked Aggies (8-1, 6-0) can wrap up their 16th SWC title Saturday with a victory over the Mustangs (1-8, 0-7) and the temptation could be to look ahead to the bright lights of the Cotton Bowl.

"We won't be taking them lightly," A&M Coach R.C. Slocum said. "Anytime you have someone throwing the ball around the way they do, anything can happen."

With the aggressive Aggie defense on the field, sacks and interceptions are possibilities. A&M has 44 sacks for 334 yards in losses this season. The school record is 49 set by the 1986 SWC champions.

The Aggies are a 35-point favorite over the Mustangs, whose offense has declined since the loss of quarterback Mike Romo.

Baylor (7-3, 4-3), a Copper Bowl invitation in hand, will play at Texas (5-4, 4-2); Houston (4-5, 3-3) plays at Texas Christian (6-4, 3-4) and Rice (4-6, 2-5) plays the final SWC game at Arkansas (5-5, 4-3).

Texas Tech (5-5, 4-3) has the week off to prepare for its season finale at Houston.

Texas is favored by four points, Houston is a 20-point favorite and Arkansas gets a 4½ point nod over Rice.

Slocum said A&M's 35-34 loss to Tulsa (7-2) in the second game may be costing the Aggies a higher ranking.

"A lot of people saw that and it impressed them and they haven't kept up with Tulsa since then," Slocum said. "Tulsa is a good football team and we lost to them by one point with our quarterback and fullback out of the game.

"We are one point away from being undefeated."

Rossley is hoping the Aggies will get caught up in thinking about bowl games and rankings.

"We're going to need a few breaks, that's something we haven't had all year," Rossley said. "Something good has to happen to us."

Texas Christian is down to its sixth quarterback of the season and the Cougars' David Klingler has been slowed by injuries and illness this season.

Houston won last year's game 56-35 in a record-breaking passing show in the Astrodome.

Russia takes control of nation's major banks

MOSCOW — Russia dealt another emasculating blow to the idea of a "Soviet Union" Friday by taking control of the last strongholds of Soviet economic power.

The Russian Parliament voted overwhelmingly to put the nation's two most important banks under its control. The move means that only the Russian parliament controls monetary, credit and currency policy within Russia.

Although it doesn't apply anywhere else except Russia, it will have enormous impact. Russia has more than half the population, two-thirds the territory of the Soviet Union and the most essential and dearest resources.

Just a week ago, Russia took control of the gold, diamonds and oil on its territory.

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev was touring Siberia when the Russian parliament made the decision on the banks Friday. He seemed a ceremonial leader removed from the frenzied reshaping of what used to be his country and the world's other superpower.

The Russian parliament made its decision just one day after the world's richest countries, grouped in what is called the Group of Seven (G-7), agreed to defer Soviet principal debt payments for one year and loan th Soviet states $1 billion if they would individually agree to repay the country's foreign debt, whicl some estimates put at more thai $80 billion.

Western governments and creditors have emphasized that it was crucial to have financial stability. They specifically warned that any attempt by individual republics to encroach on the central Soviet banking system, which guarantee their loans, would hurt the nation's chances of getting further loans, which it is clear it will need.

Gorbachev was involved in those G-7 discussions, too, but only in a ceremonial way, which was seen by many analysts as another reflection of his diminishing influence.

China plans to free some dissidents, U.S. man says

BEIJING (NYT) — China says it plans to release a jailed student leader and to drop charges against a labor militant, a move that would allow him to apply for travel overseas, says a businessman who has successfully lobbied for releases before.

The businessman, John Kamm, a former vice president of Occidental Chemical Far East in Hong Kong, said officials from at least two Chinese ministries also indicated to him that the government planned to release other dissidents before the end of the year.

He was not told specifically how many might be freed.

Kamm said he believed that the visit here a week ago by Secretary of State James A. Baker III was influential in obtaining the releases.

Sign of the times

Pope John Paul II stands near a crucifix that some Croatian refugees, one with his leg in a cast in the background, presented to him Wednesday during the weekly general audience at the Vatican. The damage to the crucifix, four holes and a broken right arm, were suffered during the fighting for Vukovar.

EC, Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia sign deal

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The European Community initialed agreements of association with Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia on Friday which offer trade concessions to ease their transition to market economies.

It is the first step for the former communist nations toward becoming members of the 12-nation EC, the world's biggest trade bloc.

"The associations constitute a way to turn their back on the past and reintegrate into Europe," the EC said in a statement.

The agreements, which cover commercial and economic cooperation, are to be signed Dec. 16.

The EC will give preferential access to industrial products from the three countries while allowing them time to liberalize their markets, the EC Commission said.

Trade in sensitive areas such as textiles, agriculture and fisheries will be liberalized gradually on both sides, it added.

Talks opened a year ago, but were galvanized by the Soviet coup attempt in August, spurring fears that east European nations could be threatened by authoritarian rule unless helped out by the West.

EC Commission President Jacques Delors, who had earlier opposed making commitments on future community membership in the accords, said the signing ceremony Friday marked the start of the process.

"It's a beginning," Delors said.

Apart from Hungary, Poland had threatened last month to call off the trade talks because it was not offered generous enough terms for its farm and textile exports.

The accords come after months of difficult negotiations, which sometimes came to a standstill over EC insistence on trade barriers to protect EC steel and coal, textile and farm industries.

Under the terms of the accords, the three countries will have 10 years to open up their markets. In the meantime, the EC will give preferential access to industrial products from the three countries.

Trade in sensitive products like textiles, agriculture and fisheries will be liberalized gradually on both sides, the EC said.

Verdict was product of nerve-racking process

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the gloomiest moment of the deadlocked Senate Ethics Committee deliberations on punishing Alan Cranston, David Pryor, D-Ark., proposed an unprecedented solution for the final chapter in the Keating Five case.

Write tough language that would severely reprimand the California Democrat but not censure him, Pryor argued. He also counseled to forget the traditional news conference, read the report on the Senate floor and make sure all senators are seated to create a solemn atmosphere.

Pryor's hybrid proposal was something between the censure demanded by Republicans and the milder committee rebuke favored by Democrats. It was played out with high drama and a tumultuous ending on the Senate floor Wednesday as Cranston was severely reprimanded for his ties to a major contributor, Charles H. Keating Jr.

The last, tortuous weeks of the Cranston investigation were recounted to The Associated Press by committee members and a Senate source, speaking on grounds of anonymity.

It was a time, recalled Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., when "we got very unhappy with each other."

Another member remembered, "We wore out the thesaurus" to find just the right words before the committee decided that it "does hereby strongly and severely reprimand Sen. Alan Cranston."

The mood on the committee was glum as October turned into November and the panel's six members were almost quaking in fear at a horrible thought: the Senate might soon adjourn for the year without their decision.

They would leave town without resolving an investigation that began two years before, leaving them open to ridicule from constituents, editorial writers and newspaper cartoonists. Lott was publicly pushing to declare the committee hopelessly deadlocked.

The case, according to Pryor, "was complex beyond the imagination. It was long; it was tortuous; it was expensive, and it was clumsy."

There were no specific Senate rules that governed the decisions of Cranston and four other senators who intervened with thrift regulators on behalf of Keating's collapsing Lincoln Savings and Loan.

The committee had decided that Cranston went too far in linking his help for Keating with his solicitation of the savings-and-loan executive for political donations. But its members couldn't agree on the punishment, and worse, the 3-3 split was along partisan lines.

When Pryor threw his idea on the table late one afternoon, "Someone said, 'Maybe it could work,'" according to one account. "Nothing else was working. Every idea seemed like it was being trashed."

When the committee reconvened a few days later, a member said, "somehow that proposal seemed to be the acceptable vehicle if we could find the right words for the sanction. It was like trying on seven pair of shoes. We tried on a lot of pairs."

Other forces were at work, however, which also helped break the logjam. There was Cranston's continuing battle with prostate cancer. There was the low public esteem for the Senate after the recently completed, steamy hearings on allegations of sexual harassment against Clarence Thomas, now a Supreme Court justice.

Another committee Democrat, outgoing Chairman Howell Heflin, D-Ala., began pushing hard for some kind of a solution.

"The world had changed," Lott said.

The committee arguments, Lott recalled, "boiled down to (a choice between) going without a vote and having harsher language and having a vote with weaker language. We concluded we needed to get it to the floor and make it severe as possible."

The plan did not call for a vote. But one committee member, Jesse Helms, R-N.C., had already publicly demanded a vote to censure Cranston. The other five committee members wrenched an agreement from him not to seek a vote.

The panel then crafted a parliamentary maneuver that made it difficult for anyone to introduce a censure motion while the report was being read on the floor. Nobody did.

Cranston's designated go-between, Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., sent back word to the committee that the California senator would accept the findings.

Things were falling into place, but not going smoothly. The committee's special counsel, Robert Bennett, was upset. In a final meeting with the panel, he told its members he felt like an outsider during deliberations. He said he realized that some committee members thought he was too tough, but added that someone had to ask the uncomfortable questions.

With that sendoff, the committee took its findings to the floor and held its breath.

A quorum call had filled the chamber with senators.

"Right up to the time we began, I was checking what the mood was," Lott said. "Everything appeared to be in place."

But it wasn't.

Cranston said he accepted the findings, and then went on to deny every allegation against him. He said his fund-raising practices were no different from other senators.

"Here, but for the grace of God, stand you," Cranston told his increasingly squeamish colleagues.

State adopts world's toughest gas rules

LOS ANGELES (NYT) — California air quality regulators adopted the world's stiffest gasoline rules, brushing aside oil industry warnings that it will damage the state's economy.

By a 6-to-1 vote on Friday, the California Air Resources Board approved a new recipe for gasoline that is expected to cut smog-forming emissions by one-third and add 12 to 17 cents to the price of every gallon sold starting Jan. 1, 1996.

The new formula will cost the motorist who drives 15,000 miles a year about $90 annually, fuel experts say.

After hearing 16 hours of testimony over two days, board members concluded that the health benefits of improved air outweighed any negative economic effect.

"Air pollution is not one of those environmental problems that should be put on the back burner in tough economic times," said San Diego County Supervisor Brian Bilbray, a member of the air board.

"Every member of society — and to a disproportionate extent, young people — are exposed. There is no way we can cut loose on this and keep a moral environmental program."

The new fuel regulations change eight specifications in gasoline content, vapor pressure and distillation temperature. The controls are expected to remove 1,500 tons a day of pollutants and lower the cancer risk from benzene and other compounds by about 25 percent.

Adoption of the rules marked a major defeat for most of the oil industry, which argued that the plan would cost as many as 80,000 California jobs by the year 2000 because of increased costs of doing business.

The industry had offered an alternative plan that it said would provide 80 percent of the benefit for 50 percent of the cost.

■ Organ recital to be presented

An organ recital will be presented at 4 p.m. Sunday at First Presbyterian Church, 800 W. Texas Ave.

Ackerman

Lester Ackerman, director of music at First Presbyterian Church, will be the recitalist. The program will include Stanley's "Trumpet Voluntary," Bach's Toccata and Fugue in d minor, Ives' "Variations on America," Vierne's "Carrillon de Westminster," Spong's "Partita on At the River," Alkan's "Bombardo-Carillon for Four Feet," Chapman's "Two Carol Setting" and Widor's Fifth Symphony.

Ackerman is a native of south central Pennsylvania and has served churches of various denominations throughout his high school and college years. Prior to his moving to Midland, he was organist and interim director of music at the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church, Menlo, Calif.

A graduate of Westminster Choir Choir College, Princeton, N.J., Ackerman received a master of music in organ performance from Southern Methodist University and a master of sacred music from Perkins School of Theology, both in Dallas.

Organ instruction has included such teachers as Peggy Staub and the late Harold Hunt of York, Pa.; George Markey, Princeton; Guy Bovet, Switzerland; and Robert Anderson, Dallas.

Ackerman is a frequent recitalist with scheduled appearances to include eight performances in December with the El Paso Pro Musica and as featured soloist in January with the Midland-Odessa Symphony.

He is a member of the faculty at Midland College, where he is instructor of organ and piano.

■ Churches celebrate holiday

"Worshiping with Thanksgiving" is the theme for the activities at Wilshire Park Baptist Church, 801 Bentwood St., this week.

The Worship Choir, directed by Jerry Lewis, will present an arrangement of "We Worship Together" for the 11 a.m. Sunday service with the Rev. A.E. Burns, interim pastor, delivering the sermon "Thanks, an Added Blessing."

The Men's Choir will perform at the 7 p.m. Sunday service.

The church will assemble for the annual Thanksgiving dinner at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The "Brothers in Christ" quartet will provide the entertainment.

Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 5023 W. Princetom Ave. No. 2, is planning a special Thanksgiving service at 11 a.m. Thursday.

Organist Robert Dally will lead the congregation in a singing celebration of thanks to God for blessings.

The public is invited to attend.

The Chancel Choir of First United Methodist Church, Midland, and the Sanctuary Choir of First United Methodist church, Odessa, are presenting a Thanksgiving concert at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Midland sanctuary, Main Street at Ohio Avenue.

Included in the program will be two Thanksgiving-oriented choral works. These include "O Sing Unto the Lord" by Handel and a contemporary setting of the "Te Deum" by John Rutter. Also on the program will be the anthem by Canadian composer Healey Willan entitled "Sing to the Lord of Harvest" and Rutter's setting of "Now Thank We All Our God."

The public is invited to attend.

An area-wide interdenominational prayer and Thanksgiving service for women is being held at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The services are being hosted by Calvary Assembly of God, 908 S. Johnston. Those attending are asked to bring their favorite dish. A covered dish luncheon follows the service.

Those planning to attend are asked to call 682-8473 by Monday. No admission or offering will be received at the service.

Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan Ave., will hold its Thanksgiving Eve Communion at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The public is invited to attend. For more information on the service call the Rev. Ronald E. Meyer, the church's pastor, or the church office, 694-1373.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1001 W. Tennessee Ave., will hold its Thanksgiving Day service at 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

The community is invited to attend. No collection will be taken. Child care will be provided.

With roots dating back to harvest festivals in England and other nations, Thanksgiving's religious significance began with the Pilgrims holding their first formal Thanksgiving Nov. 20, 1621.

Christian Scientists continue this tradition of expressing gratitude to God as the basis of their Thanksgiving Day service, said a release from the church.

The special service will include readings from the King James Version of the Bible and from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. there also will be spontaneous sharing of the spiritual healing that has come to individual Christian Scientists from their practice of this religion.

Christian Science was founded by Mrs. Eddy in Boston, Mass., in 1879. Its proclaimed purpose is to return to Christian practice the importance of healing in daily licing as evidence of God's love for man.

This selected Bible lesson for Thanksgiving will be aired on KMID-TV, Channel 2, at midnight Wednesday on Thanksgiving Eve.

Also, in observance of Thanksgiving, a special program, "The Grace of Gratitude," will be broadcast at 8 a.m. Sunday on KCRS, 550AM. This is one of a continuing series called "The Herald of Christian Science" which are broadcast throughout the world. These programs generally focus on a specific topic of concert to people everywhere and include testimonies of healings of human problems and illnesses.

The Herald is a product of the Christian Science Publishing Society, the publishing arm of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., and is sponsored by the churches in Midland and Odessa.

Calvary Baptist Church, 1001 S. Main St., is hosting its annual Area-Wide Thanksgiving Service at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Various area churches will participate in the program including Ranchland Heights Baptist Church, which is providing the song service; and South Memorial Baptist Church, whose pastor Jimmy Stovall will deliver the sermon. Other Baptist churches on the program are Cottonflat, Travis, Valley View and Calvary.

Donations will be accepted for the Midland Baptist Crisis Center. Those attending are encouraged to bring a canned food item for the center to help with the increasing food needs for the holidays.

The public is invited to attend.

■ Church to host program

The Unitarian-Universalist Church, Midkiff Street at Neely Avenue, is presenting a program entitled "Carpe Diem: A Philosophy for Living" at 9:45 a.m. Sunday.

This simple statement, "Seize the day," will be explored as to how it can be realized in lives full of responsibility and long term goals.

The public is invited to attend.

■ Interim minister announced

R. Byron Crozier will be the new senior interim minister at First Presbyterian church beginning Dec. 1.

Crozier

He was honorably retired June 30, 1990, and given the title of Pastor Emeritus of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, Indianapolis, Ind., where he served as senior pastor from 1975-1990.

Recently, he has served as senior interim minister of The Presbyterian Church, Seevickley, Pa.

Crozier is a graduate of Wheaton College and Pittsburgh Xenia Seminary. He has an honorary doctor of divinity degree from Hanover College.

His wife, Elizabeth, teaches at Indiana University, Indianapolis, and will join him here Dec. 20. The Croziers have two sons and two grandsons.

■ Family has two missionaries

Lloyd A. Hales and Barbara J. Hales, parents of five children, welcomed home one missionary son and said farewell to another this fall.

S. Hales

Stephen Lloyd Hales, 21, returned home Oct. 15 after serving a 25-month voluntary mission for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the San Bernardino, Calif. area.

"It all seems like a dream to me," Stephen Hales said. "I can't believe how fast the time went. It was definitely well worth the money and time. I learned a great deal from my experiences."

During his mission, Stephen served as a trainer, district leader, zone leader and mission secretary.

Before his mission, Stephen attended Brigham Young University and worked to earn money for his mission. He now plans to work in Midland until January then return to BYU to continue studies in computer science and business.

Jeffrey Wade Hales, 19, left Midland Nov. 13 to serve a two-year mission for The Church of Jesus Chirst of Latter-day Saints in the London, England South Mission.

J. Hales

Jeffrey, an Eagle Scout, attended Midland High School, where he was involved in National Honor Society and Latin Club, and was co-captain of the varsity swim team. He also was Outstanding Latin Student, Outstanding calculus Student and received a Academic Letter for four years.

He was awarded a four-year Trustee Scholarship to BYU, where he attended before his mission started. He plans to return following his two-years of mission service.

Jeffrey will be trained for his service at BYU in Provo, Utah, before traveling to his new home.

■ Church sells pecans

St. Mark's United Methodist women are selling award winning pecans again this year for $4.50 per pound.

Delivery is available for 25 pounds or more. Those interested are asked to call 684-4303 or St. Mark's UMC office, 683-3339.

■ Special service held

Members of Greater St. Luke's AME Church celebrated the church's 63rd anniversary this November.

Preacher for the anniversary service sermon was the Rev. O.A. Epps, pastor of Greater St. Paul AME Church, San Angelo. The choir from St. Paul AME Church along with the youth choir from greater St. Luke AME Church provided the music for the occasion.

The church traces its history back to the Rev. H.Y. Tyler, an African Methodist Episcopal minister, who came to Midland before Christians in 1927. In 1928, Greater St. Luke was organized in the home of Mrs. Lillie Anderson and her three children.

In 1929, after worshiping under a brush harbor, the church purchased a lot at the corner of Lee and Texas streets and built an adobe structure for worship.

The first secretary of the Sunday School was Buddy Simmons.

The first musicians were Mrs. Odessa Jordan, Walter Jones and Fannie Burnett.

In 1936, the church was remodeled under the leadership of the Rev. H.J. Johnson.

In 1943, the church was enlarged under the leadership of the Rev. L.E. Browning.

The Rev. G.A. Lowe became minister in 1950. In 1955, lots at Adams and Kentucky were purchased. In 1956, the present structure at 401 S. Adams St. was started.

Educational facilities were added under the leadership of the Rev. James Grant.

Pastors of Greater St. Luke have included, in addition to those already named, the Rev. Punchard, the Rev. J.B. Benjamin, the Rev. V.S. Washington, the Rev. A.S.B. Jones, the Rev. James E. Grant, the Rev. L.E. Ausbie, the Rev. V.T. Herron, the Rev. S.L. Green, the Rev. W.O. Johnson, the Rev. C.L. Boyd, the Rev. L.L. Chenault and the Rev. S.V. Ferguson.

■ Singles workshop held

A workshop for singles titled "Holiday Blahs Workshop" is set for 2 to 3 p.m. today at Midland Lutheran Church, 2705 W. Michigan Ave. The Rev. Ron Meyer of Midland Lutheran will lead the workshop.

The workshop, being presented by five Midland congregations, is designed to provide participants with tools to help themselves and others deal with the feelings of depression and isolation that the holidays often bring.

The churches are Midland Lutheran Church, Memorial Christian Church, St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, St. Luke's United Methodist Church and Trinity Presbyterian Church.

Other events planned include a theater night, a summer retreat, single parent's family events and helping with the Habitat for Humanity Houseraising in the spring.

Singles Ministry Cooperative events are open to all members of the community, not just members of the five congregations. For more information or to get on the mailing list call St. Luke's UMC, 694-2571.

■ Church hosts tea

The Episcopal Church Women of The Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois Ave., are hosting "A Bit of Britain Tea" today.

The tea has sessions from 2 to 3:30 p.m. and 4 to 5:30 p.m. Music will be provided by Darryl Knapp. The event includes a bake sale, a table top fashion show and modeling by the Canopy. Cost is $10 per person with children under 12 being admitted for $7.50.

For more information call the church.

■ Brunch dates set

A brunch honoring new and prospective members of All Women of the Church at St. Mark's United Methodist Church is set for 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 14.

The executive committee is in charge of this event. The meeting place will be announced later.

Inmate enters second week of hunger strike

SAN MARCOS (AP) — A man protesting the state's drug laws is in the second week of a hunger strike and has been moved to the Hays County Jail infirmary to be monitored, officials said.

Sheriff Paul Hastings said Thursday he would seek a court order to feed Joe Gaddy, 30, if his condition deteriorates. Gaddy has lost two pounds since being moved to the infirmary Tuesday, authorities said.

Gaddy began serving a 120-day sentence for possession of marijuana on Nov. 14. He was arrested after walking into the San Marcos police station and lighting a marijuana cigarette.

Seven people have been arrested here for similar violations, but Gaddy is the only one to be sentenced.

Gaddy has refused all food, but is drinking plenty of water, said John Hansen, chief medical officer at the Hays County Law Enforcement Center. Gaddy, a musician and construction worker, remains alert, Hansen said.

"We're not going to let him die of hunger," Hastings said. "We've explained that to him, and he understands that."

Teen gets 20 years for beating

WHARTON (AP) — An 18-year-old convicted of beating a classmate with an aluminum baseball bat has been sentenced to a maximum 20 years in prison.

Alfred Quinones was convicted Thursday in the April 12 attempted murder of Joel Banda, 18. Banda was ambushed and beaten on the head at El Campo High School as students watched, according to testimony during the three-day trial.

State District Judge Daniel Sklar imposed the prison term and assessed a $5,000 fine, as recommended by the jury. Quinones could have faced a $10,000 fine.

Houston defense attorney Steven Swenson maintained Quinones was provoked into the attack.

Banda survived the beating but was in a coma for four months.

Dr. Lawrence Horn of Houston testified Banda suffered brain damage to one-fifth of the right side of his brain. He described the damage as an "oppressed skull fracture and bruised temporal lobe." In addition, the physician said Banda has no memory from before the moment he was struck.

Congressman wants Fort Worth as site of international drug summit

N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Cities trying to lure conventions don't normally mention the local crime rate, but it's another matter if the convention is an international drug summit.

Reps. Pete Geren, D-Fort Worth, and Joe Barton, R-Ennis, are urging President Bush to consider Fort Worth as the site of a seven-nation drug summit early next year by highlighting the city's problems as well as its attributes.

In a letter to the president, the two Tarrant County lawmakers noted that Fortune magazine ranks Fort Worth among the top 10 cities in which to live.

"In the shadows of that ranking, however, is another fact about our city; Fort Worth also ranks among the top 10 American cities in violent crime, and our area ranks very highly among cities in its incidence of drug-related crimes."

Bush has invited the leaders of six Latin American nations to a summit in the United States to accelerate international efforts to block drug trafficking from South and Central America.

Although the date and site for the international conclave has not been determined, administration officials say the president wants to hold the meeting in his adopted home state of Texas, possibly in late February.

Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio are among the Texas cities asking to be considered. Administration officials on Friday said they do not know when a decision will be made and declined to speculate on potential front-runners.

"I presume Fort Worth has as good a chance as anybody else who has submitted its name," said Fred McClure, a Fort Worth native who heads the president's congressional liaison unit. Geren and Barton have been working through McClure's office since submitting their request.

Geren said he and Barton are trying to land the summit because of the potential international exposure in the media and to demonstrate the city's commitment to fighting drugs and crime.

"It's comparable to a significant convention and certainly the exposure would be very beneficial for the community," said the Fort Worth Democrat.

He said Texas, along with Florida, is "one of the two large states through which drugs flow."

In their letter to the president, Barton and Geren said that Fort Worth residents "rank among the nation's highest in their commitment and determination to win this war on drugs."

"Poll after poll show that drugs and crime are two of the issues of the greatest concern to the people of Fort Worth," the two lawmakers said.

They also noted that Fort Worth was the first city in the country to host a meeting between local law enforcement officials and the Defense Department to coordinate anti-drug efforts. A 100-plane Drug Enforcement Agency task force has its headquarters at Alliance Airport in Fort Worth.

Hosting the drug summit, the lawmakers said, would display the city's drug problem as well as its efforts to control it.

The 1992 anti-drug summit is the second since Bush took office.

Judge grounds Southwest Airlines appeal

AUSTIN (AP) — Southwest Airlines lost a round Friday in its fight against a proposed Texas bullet train.

State District Judge Peter Lowry dismissed Southwest's appeal of the Texas High-Speed Rail Authority's decision to award a multi-billion dollar franchise for Texas TGV to build a 200-mph train that would connect major cities in the state.

Southwest attorney Bob Heath of Austin said the airline would appeal the decision to the 3rd Court of Appeals. Officials said the case will likely be decided by the Texas Supreme Court.

The High-Speed Rail Authority praised the decision. "This removes one of the impediments to implementing this project," said Allan Rutter, director of administration for the authority.

Southwest argued that the authority's awarding of the franchise was improperly handled, and that the airline had a right to appeal that decision because it would unfairly affect the airline's business.

Lowry ruled against Southwest on both counts.

The statute governing the franchise award does not say that the authority's decisions can be appealed in court.

"There's a longstanding line of cases that in an administrative decision, people are not entitled to appeal that decision unless the Legislature gives them the right to do so," TGV attorney Ace Pickens said.

"The Legislature did not give them the right to appeal," he said.

But Heath said the franchise award would give the railroad an unfair competitive edge because its construction will be subsidized by the government.

"We've always indicated that we don't have any problem competing," Heath said. "We have a problem when the people we're competing with being the government."

But Pickens said the airline industry is subsidized by the government.

San Antonio schools take closer look at sports logos

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — School administrators say youths are wearing sports insignia to denote gang membership, and some Bexar County educators are banning the emblems from campus.

Law officers have investigated possible gang involvement in several recent crimes, including homicide, because victims or suspects wore sports-team clothing.

Some stores are refusing to sell the sports logos most popular with gangs to suspected members, the San Antonio Light reported in Friday's editions. The insignia of the Los Angeles Kings and Raiders, the Chicago Bulls and even the black and silver logo of the San Antonio Spurs are among the most popular, observers say.

"We just ask the students not to wear any sports-teams clothing to school because they're gang-related, and that's what they use to identify themselves," said Johnny Taylor, principal of Brackenridge High School.

His school banned such sports insignia this year, said Taylor, who has been principal at Brackenridge for eight years.

Carrollton Newman Smith High School principal Charles Blanton in March forbade wearing the logo of the Los Angeles Raiders, hoping to discourage gang activity at the suburban Dallas school.

Taylor acknowledged banning the emblems won't stop gangs.

"They just can't identify themselves as easily," he said. "It crimps their style a little bit."

High school administrators said gang membership "uniforms" constantly change as adults learn what the emblems mean.

"If we ban Raiders caps, then they'll change to something else," said Bill Fish, principal of Lee High School.

Because the "gangwear" is in constant flux, officials at most school districts leave it up to the individual principals to determine what, if any, clothing to ban.

One local sports store stopped stocking Los Angeles Kings caps after gang members threatened violence against a store clerk who refused to sell them one, The Light reported.

The craze for sports insignia among gang members is a mixed blessing for many merchants.

"In one way, they're really hurting our business. They want us to sell them our goods, but they're misusing it so that soon we won't be able to sell it to anyone (who's not a gang member)," said an unidentified manager at a mall store. "But to be honest and truthful, I mean, they are keeping us in business."

Houston citizens unite to catch bank robbers

HOUSTON (AP) — A would-be bank robber was killed and another man arrested Friday after the two were thwarted in an apparently well-planned getaway, Houston police said.

A customer saw the men get out of a van at a Texas Commerce Bank branch in Southeast Houston between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m., police spokeswoman Sharon Thornton said. The men allegedly were wearing ski masks ready to pull over their faces and carrying machine guns, she said.

The woman entered the bank and "yelled out, 'Y'all are about to be robbed,'" giving workers time to activate a silent alarm before the two men entered, Ms. Thornton said.

The suspects methodically robbed each teller and returned to their van, she said. But another man followed the van and used his portable telephone to give a description to police, who were only a short way behind.

When authorities caught up with the van after a short pursuit, one suspect surrendered and the other fatally shot himself in the head, Ms. Thornton said.

Emory Gadd, the church youth minister who followed the suspects, said the gunmen kicked open the back door of the van, threw out several boxes of nails and shot at him as he chased them.

"I don't think he knew I had a phone," Gadd said, adding he also had a police scanner.

No one except the one suspect was injured, Ms. Thornton said.

"I think everyone in the bank probably acted the best they could under the circumstances. And the citizens were a great aid," she said.

Officials would not release the names of the two suspects. The arrested man had not been charged with a crime late Friday, and relatives of the deceased man had not yet been notified, Ms. Thornton said.

Panel finds serious A&M Corps harassment problem

N.Y. Times News Service

A panel investigating claims of sexual harassment in the Texas A&M Corps of Cadets has tentatively concluded that the problem is more widespread than corps leaders have previously acknowledged.

The panel of university and community leaders said in a preliminary report issued Thursday that it does not want to see the corps disbanded, but there are problems that need immediate attention, and that it might be better to have adults, rather than undergraduates, run the corps.

"Acts of harassment and discrimination against female cadets have taken place," the panel wrote in its report. "Indeed, this point has not been denied by corps leaders. In our view, these acts are much more pervasive than statements by corps leaders would indicate.

"There appear to be more than just a 'few bad apples' and the excuse that 'boys will be boys' is not acceptable."

The panel was formed in October by Texas A&M President William H. Mobley to investigate a series of allegations made by current and former female members of the corps. Those charges ranged from sexual assault to name calling.

Earlier this week, a male cadet was charged with misdemeanor assault after one of the young women who complained of harassment alleged she was kicked in the back.

The group said it was "very disturbing" to see "what appears to be the encouragement of the most vulgar and obnoxious language" directed at women within the corps.

So far, the panel has interviewed 21 people, including university administrators, corps officials and current and former cadets of both genders. It has not issued any statement on whether it has determined the specific charges to be true.

Instead, its preliminary report outlines the need for better education and training as well as the possible need for putting adults instead of students in charge.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Exciting professional and social developments make the months just ahead a real delight! Resolving a relationship problem is your top priority early in 1992. Although job opportunities open up in the spring, you must go after them. Do not lose sight of your long-range career goals. The end of summer could bring a long-overdue decision. You want to purchase a new home before this time next year. A sizzling romance could lead to marriage

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Boris Karloff, comedian Harpo Marx, outlaw Billy The Kid, President Franklin Pierce.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Performing more services for yourself will reduce the high cost of living. Heed the voice of prophecy that comes to you today. A conversation with a newcomer touches on romance and marriage.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The urge to say more than is required could be strong today. When considering a family matter, be sure to get your loved ones' input. Do not hog the decision-making process!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You may yearn for a loved one's approval now. With luck, you will get it! In any event, do what you know is right. Remain true to your ideals when the chips are down.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Do not remain chained to the ideas of your ancestors. A romantic attachment that seems unwise to some people could bring great happiness. Follow your heart when dealing with a young person.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You may find yourself betwixt and between fulfillment and frustration. Do not permit someone's insinuations to torpedo an important venture. You are the best judge of what you should do next.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Working around your home brings a special satisfaction today. Make an important purchase before a sale ends. An out-of-town visitor energizes and inspires you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A reunion or reconciliation changes your weekend plans. Choose one specific goal and pursue it with zeal. Share secrets with loved ones. Tenderness is advised tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your past efforts bring new prestige and power. Use an intermediary when dealing with an adversary. You deserve to be protected. A large sum of money could soon be yours. Build savings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Delegate routine tasks so that you can concentrate on the really important things. Careful financial planning saves you big money. Investigate a prospective business partner very thoroughly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Keep a smile on your face and good things will happen. The future looks brighter. Do not allow disagreements with a child or parent to be blown out of proportion. Remain loving.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The time is ripe for fulfilling certain dreams and desires. Marriage and a more orderly lifestyle occupy your thoughts. Be candid about your financial plans. The right partner will understand.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You have a better understanding of a feud between rival factions now. Compromise and diplomacy are your strongest allies. Candid communication is essential for happy romance.

Streisand thought Wallace was 'mean' 30 years ago

NEW YORK — Entertainer Barbra Streisand and "60 Minutes" reporter Mike Wallace didn't hit it off at first — but that was 30 years ago, when she was a struggling singer and a regular guest on his TV talk show.

"I thought you were mean, very mean," Streisand tells Wallace in an interview for Sunday's edition of "60 Minutes."

Streisand

"I didn't think you paid much attention to me, because you were totally self-absorbed, back 30 years ago," Wallace replies.

Streisand, who directs and stars in her latest film, "Prince of Tides," was moved to tears in telling "60 Minutes" about her unhappy childhood, her mother and her uncaring stepfather.

"In order to feel joy, you have to be able to feel the pain," Streisand said. "I just don't want to do it in front of 40 million people. It's kind of a private issue. You know."

SALT LAKE CITY — An upcoming television movie has actor Ed Begley Jr., of "St. Elsewhere" fame, cast in the role of a lawman who was killed in a 1988 shootout with a polygamist and his family.

"Stand-Off at Marion" is scheduled to air on NBC in mid-February. It is one of a series of movies with the theme, "In The Line of Duty."

Begley

Begley plays the role of state Department of Corrections Lt. Fred House, who was killed in a shootout that ended a 13-day police siege with Addam Swapp and his clan. The stand-off began after Swapp blew up a Mormon chapel near the family farm in the northern Utah town of Marion.

House was a police dog handler called in to assist.

Swapp and his brother-in-law, John Timothy Singer, were convicted of manslaughter.

The actor who will play Adam Swapp has not been announced.

Tess Harper, star of "Tender Mercies," will play Swapp's mother-in-law, Vickie Singer; Dennis Franz of "Hill Street Blues" will play an FBI agent; and Paul Le Mat of "American Graffiti" will play Doug Bodrero, former state public safety commissioner.

Filming is scheduled to begin next week.

HAMILTON, Mont. — Singer-actor Hoyt Axton has given six semiautomatic rifles to the sheriff's office — one for each patrol car.

Axton became friends with Ravalli County Sheriff Jay Printz three years ago when he played the role of a sheriff in "Disorganized Crime," a film shot in this western Montana valley.

He said he donated the rifles because of his friendship with Printz.

"It put a grin on his face, and I like that," Axton said.

Axton wouldn't say how much he paid for the AR-15s, the civilian version of the military's assault rifle. A local dealer's price, with a law enforcement discount, would be about $3,500 for the six rifles.

"I'm just glad I'm in a position to do it," said Axton, who moved to the valley four weeks ago. "It's cheap at the price."

BRANSON, Mo. — This booming Ozarks tourist town, home to about 25 country music theaters, is no threat to Nashville, according to two of Branson's newest stars, Glen Campbell and Louise Mandrell.

The two were introduced Thursday as guest hosts of the Grand Palace, a $13 million, 4,000-seat theater set to open in May.

Earlier this week, Missouri's singing governor, John Ashcroft, told a tourism conference in Jefferson City that Branson was outpacing Nashville in the growth of country music.

"Nashville no longer ignores Branson — it fears Branson," said Ashcroft, who has performed on the Grand Ole Opry.

But Campbell said talk of a Branson-Nashville rivalry is "much ado about nothing."

Mandrell, a Nashville resident who performed regularly at the Opryland USA entertainment park in Nashville last year, said there are enough country music lovers to support both Nashville and Branson.

This year, more than 4 million people visited country theaters at Branson, where Roy Clark, Mel Tillis, Ray Stevens, Boxcar Willie and Mickey Gilley perform. Willie Nelson, Johnny Cash, the Gatlin Brothers and Andy Williams plan to open theaters in 1992.

MEXICO CITY — President Carlos Salinas de Gortari has given a document of citizenship to singer Luis Miguel, a pop icon in much of the Spanish-speaking world.

The government's Notimex news agency Friday reported the brief Thursday night ceremony at the presidential residence, Los Pinos.

Quayle gathers enemies, power from council role

By Julia Malone
N. Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — If attaining power means earning a growing number of foes, then Vice President Dan Quayle may finally have arrived.

The vice president, who for three years has struggled with his own image as a political lightweight, has managed to make a lot of folks angry on some heavy issues.

Critics are accusing him of snuffing out regulations that would clean the air and conspiring to open up millions of acres of wetlands to development. Recently, they charged him with easing standards for medical drugs to please big business.

The target of the charges is Quayle's obscure but far-reaching panel called the Council on Competitiveness. President Bush set up the panel in 1989 with Quayle as chair, and in June 1990 authorized it to begin reviewing rules and regulations of federal agencies.

Operating largely out of the public eye, the council has Cabinet members and other top officials on its roster. But the real work is done from the vice president's office by a staff zealously devoted to a mission of clipping federal red tape that entangles business.

In a mark of their success, two committees called separate hearings on Capitol Hill last week to protest the activities of the Quayle council. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, chairman of the Committee on Governmental Affairs, charged the administration with "back-door rule making" that has "weakened federal protection of the environment, public health and worker safety."

Rep. Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., called a hearing of his subcommittee on the environment to attack the Bush administration — and Quayle's council in particular — for thwarting enforcement of the Clean Air Act.

Besides Democratic lawmakers, other objectors to the vice president's expansive outreach into federal agencies include environmentalists, Ralph Nader's consumer watchdog group, and the American Bar Association.

Even some Republicans inside the administration are not overjoyed at the Quayle council, since often their proposed regulations are overturned. William K. Reilly, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, regularly finds his decisions reversed by the vice president's panel.

In his most visible defeat, Reilly was forced last August to accept a new, far more limited definition of wetlands, the swampy environmentally sensitive areas that are off-limits to bulldozers and developers. Critics say the new definition would end federal protections on as much as half the nation's wetlands. But landowners argued strenuously for the new rules and won.

The Competitiveness Council's deliberations on such issues and its contact with interested parties were closed from public view.

The target of the charges is Quayle's obscure but far-reaching panel called the Council on Competitiveness. President Bush set up the panel in 1989 with Quayle as chair, and in June 1990 authorized it to begin reviewing rules and regulations of federal agencies.

For example, the panel spent a year working on major changes, unveiled recently, to speed up approval for new medications at the Federal Drug Administration.

As Quayle unveiled the reforms at a press briefing, he predicted they would "save millions of lives and billions of dollars" by putting new drugs on the market sooner. Among the changes, the federal government would ease its backlog by contracting with private experts to review applications and testing on some drugs, and it would consider approving drugs already accepted by other industrialized nations.

Drug industry officials were delighted. "The overall reaction is extremely positive," said Dr. John Petricciani, a vice president for the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association who said that his group had proposed a number of the reforms.

Other groups that worked with the Competitiveness Council task force included Eli Lilly & Co. and the UpJohn Co. as well as the American Medical Association and the American Cancer Society.

Input from such groups is off the public record, and Quayle's office is not required even to identify those invited to participate. Even so, his staff bristles at suggestions that theirs is a secret, backdoor channel for business.

Allan B. Hubbard, an Indiana entrepreneur and arch-foe of government interference with business, is executive director of the Quayle council as well as Quayle's deputy chief of staff. He wrote Glenn last month that the staff "welcomes representatives of all sides of the debate to come in and present their arguments."

"We will talk to anybody," echoed Quayle's spokesman David Beckwith.

However, in the drug approval case, at least one interested group was not invited to express its views — Public Citizen's Health Research Group. Dr. Sidney Wolfe, director of the Nader-associated group, lambasted the Quayle reforms, charging they would "put the drug industry's wish list before Americans' health." Dozens of drugs have been accepted in Europe but found dangerous later, he said.

A major complaint from Public Citizen is that outside groups cannot see records for the Quayle council, which claims immunity from public disclosure laws.

Robert Coakley, who heads the Business Council on the Reduction of Paperwork, defended the secrecy. Consumer groups that urge openness really want to "kill the president's ability to review the regulatory action of the agencies," he said.

Coakley, whose lobbying effort is financed by an array of major companies and industries, added, "They do press releases."

That is not enough for Glenn, however. He introduced legislation last week to force some of the records of the Council on Competitiveness into the sunshine of public viewing.

The vice president's staff has few complaints about the controversy the council is stirring up. Beckwith almost reveled in the switch from skeptics of Quayle's abilities to "those who think he's too effective in running things."

Hubbard added that Quayle's role at the council demonstrates to the public that he's "someone who's very proactive, who sees problems and analyzes them and tries to solve them — someone who's a big believer in free markets and minimal government bureaucracy and red tape."

Proposals to alter court system still simmer

By Julia Malone
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — The shouting has subsided. But the simmering debate continues long after Vice President Dan Quayle marched into the national convention of the American Bar Association in Atlanta last August and announced that lawyers and their costly lawsuits were causing American businesses to lose out to foreign competitors.

The vice president, himself a lawyer, unloaded on lawyers for generating too many lawsuits — 18 million a year. The heavy cost of litigation puts U.S. businesses at a disadvantage, he said, pointing out that there is a lawyer for every 355 Americans compared with 1 in 9,000 people in Japan.

Quayle has outlined a 50-point reform plan for the nation's legal system that includes measures that make lawyers uncomfortable.

Quayle has outlined a 50-point reform plan for the nation's legal system that includes measures that make lawyers uncomfortable. The most controversial is a rule, already used in England, that requires the party that loses a lawsuit to pay the winner's legal fees.

The most controversial is a rule, already used in England, that requires the party that loses a lawsuit to pay the winner's legal fees.

J. Michael McWilliams, a Baltimore attorney who is president-elect of the ABA, countered, "In our system, everybody who has a legitimate cause ought to be able to get into court," Fear of having to pay the other side's legal fees would be a great inhibitor, he said.

Even so, President Bush adopted the Quayle recommendation in late October by issuing an executive order that requires the federal government to offer a "loser pays" agreement whenever it brings a non-criminal lawsuit.

Although that order applies only to federal government civil suits, opponents fear the same principle will be adopted in other jurisdictions. Consumer activist Ralph Nader, through his Public Citizen group, has attacked the loser-pays scheme as threatening the little guy's right to sue big corporations.

However, liability law expert Victor E. Schwartz defended the loser-pays rule, saying it would create "incentives to bring good cases and disincentives to bring bad ones."

"The courts are filled with junk," he said. "I feel it's in the public interest to get junk cases out of the courts." He added that the loser-pays idea could be modified to allow for an individual to challenge a mega-corporation without having to pay the company's legal fees.

"Maybe one day we will not be the only nation in the world where the cost of lawyering exceeds the amount of money going to victims," continued Schwartz.

"I think the vice president hit upon an issue of domestic policy that's important to everyone."

McWilliams insisted that the ABA is no longer at war with Quayle, who traveled to Chicago recently for a civil exchange of views with ABA officials. But the lawyer group is still quarreling with Quayle's basic premise.

People aren't superstitious, but need charms

By Enid Nemy
York Times News Service

NEW YORK — Superstitious? Me? You? Don't be ridiculous. Well . . . maybe just a little. It depends on how you look at it. It makes no sense to walk under a ladder, and three on a match, even in the puffing-away days, was always a health hazard, an open sesame to singed fingers. And why be a spoil-sport and break a chain letter, or take a chance on tripping over that black cat?

As for lucky charms, it could be said, in fact it is said, that they are part and parcel of superstition. The logical mind rejects their power to ward off the evil eye but logic doesn't always triumph; most people have varying sized logic-free niches in the mind.

So there we are, not really superstitious but not completely free of it, knowing full well that a talisman is scant protection against fate but recognizing that although a charm may not help, it certainly won't hurt.

Otherwise, why would David Liederman, the man who founded David's Cookies, be wearing a skinny and strange bracelet made of six strands of heavy thread of varied colors? Why? Because when his 11-year-old daughter, Katherine, tied it on his wrist some months ago while he was sleeping, he decided it was good luck.

"Now I can't take it off or it will break the relationship," he said. "It will probably still be on when she graduates from medical school."

Justice Maxine Duberstein of the Superior Court of New York State never thinks about whether she is or isn't superstitious. She just knows that she always carries a small silver rosary and a medal blessed by Pope Paul, given to her by friends, and a small gold Hebrew 'Chai.' The Chai came from her mother and a pin for it was added by her husband, Daniel Cohen.

"I'd feel lost if I didn't carry those things," she said. "I even transfer them to my evening bag."

Suitor pops question in crossword puzzle

By Cynthia Robins
Hearst News Service

SAN FRANCISCO — A simple "will you marry me" wouldn't suffice for Neil Nathanson.

Neither would the old ring-in-the-champagne glass or chocolate-covered-diamond gambit. Nathanson wanted something original, unique and memorable with which to pop the question.

His solution: turning courting words into crosswords. Literally.

Nathanson, 31, a Stanford law student and a purveyor of buttons (the kind with pithy sayings, not holes), and Leslie Hamilton, 24, a San Jose city planner, had been living together for two years. A good part of their Sunday mornings involved cuddling up with a pot of coffee and The San Francisco Examiner's Image magazine crossword puzzle, created every week by Merl Reagle.

"Wouldn't it be neat," Nathanson thought, "if we could have the proposal message right in the puzzle?" In midsummer, he tried to call Reagle, but was stonewalled on the puzzle-meister's home phone number. So he wrote a letter to Image, which forwarded the missive. Reagle gave him a call.

The two conspirators set about creating a theme-specific puzzle with Leslie at its center that other people could work and enjoy. Reagle created a puzzle called "Terms of Engagement." Hidden within it were references not only to wedding — items like the ring, the caterer, the cake, the band, the champagne and the chapel — but to Leslie's biography.

When advance copies of the magazine arrived last week, Reagle prepared a special edition for Hamilton's individual perusal. The clues in her home copy were color coded to ensure that she would get the message.

When the paper arrived Sunday, he substituted the Image version with the doctored puzzle. Then he made breakfast while Hamilton started going through the paper, reading the front page first and then the Sports section.

It was an agonizingly slow process, which an increasingly anxious Nathanson hustled along by suggesting that they do the puzzle.

"I think I did one answer up in the lefthand corner and then told her, 'I'm kinda tired; why don't you do it?'" he recalled.

Hamilton worked her way through two of the Leslie clues, cello and Montana, and remarked about the coincidence in her own life. Halfway through, she began to suspect what was happening, especially when her last name showed up as the answer to the clue, "Face on a ten."

Finally, Hamilton turned to her roommate and said: "What's going on here?"

"I don't think we ever did finish the puzzle," he laughs.

Incidentally, she said yes.

Woman finds pearl in oyster

DOVER, N.J. (AP) — Lisa Gallo didn't consider herself lucky. Then she went to dinner and found something wrong with her oyster. Just her luck — it was a pearl.

"I was on my second one when bingo, there was something strange in there, and I didn't want to eat it," she said. She thought her dining partner had put the pearl in her oyster. Then she figured she was on "Candid Camera."

Gallo said she ordinarily eats clams. But she ordered Oysters Rockefeller instead Saturday night at Fred's Fish Market and Restaurant.

"It's definitely a real pearl," jeweler Carl Braunschweiger said Tuesday. "It was slightly off-color, sort of a silver-gray, not something you'd normally see in a jewelry store."

The pearl was not perfectly round and measured between 8.5 and 9.5 millimeters in diameter. Braunschweiger said it was worth at least $500.

"ONE OF THE MOST SENSATIONAL SUSPENSE MOVIES EVER MADE."
– Gene Shalit, THE TODAY SHOW
"An Essential Work By One Of Our Masters.
as well as two of the year's most accomplished performances, those of Robert De Niro and Juliette Lewis. Fiendishly funny 'Cape Fear' is pure make-believe. Scorsese brings it to the same intensity and innovative techniques evident in his more solemn work."

140 Card Of Thanks

The families of Brenda Branch want to say Thank You with grateful hearts to a loving, giving community.

The only other place we find such compassion is recorded in Luke 10:30-37. You certainly have done likewise.

Our hearts ache over the loss of our beloved Brenda but you, as our neighbors and friends, have made this time a little easier.

On behalf of the entire family and her one-year-old daughter, we say Thank You.

MOONLIGHTING!
The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with responsible individuals.
OFTEN ASKED QUESTIONS:
Is it worthwhile for adults also?
Yes! Our current distributor force is already 90% adult and 10% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
• ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
• MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a distributor, you do not need daycare!
• COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
• SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.
How much money can I make as a distributor?
Depending on the size of the distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly! Some make even more!
How long does it take?
The actual delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!
When do papers have to be delivered by?
6 a.m. Monday - Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.
Do I ever get a day off?
The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, distributors do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!
RESERVE YOUR DISTRIBUTORSHIP NOW!
