Pilands honored at luncheon

Eddie and Joy Piland, owners of Eddie's Pharmacy, were honored Friday as the Small Business Persons of the Year in Colorado City and as an alternate in a 40-county area served by the Lubbock District office of the Small Business Administration.

The Pilands were paid tribute during a luncheon in their honor at the Civic Center. However, the Pilands in turn, paid tribute to their friends, customers, employees, associates and God for helping them achieve the success they have.

"Without Mitchell County, there would be no Eddie's Pharmacy," said Mrs. Piland at the Second Annual Small Business Luncheon sponsored by the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce.

"We are very honored and very humbled to receive this award," she said. "Each of you have contributed to our lives and you have stood by us. We thank you for 22 years of friendship."

She said it was by divine guidance, not chance, that she and her husband came to Mitchell County in 1965.

Piland echoed his wife's sentiments, adding that the recognition they received is a tribute to the "liberty and freedoms which we have in this country."

Piland said that without these freedoms, it would be imposble to participate in the business climate of this country. He noted that Russia is looking at small business as a means to strengthen its economy.

"God has protected and allowed us as a nation to carry forward," said Piland.

He also stressed the importance of family and friends and employees, many of whom were in attendance at the luncheon.

Bob Prock, a member of the advisory council of the SBA, was on hand to present the SBA award to the Pilands. He said that small businesses have been responsible for innovation, growth and stability of the United States.

He said that the Pilands were in competition for the SBA award with some of the best businesses in a 40-county area, noting that Eddie's Pharmacy "is an equal with any business in West Texas."

Ben Lancaster, president of the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce, presented the chamber's Small Business Person of the Year award. He thanked the Pilands for their investment in the future of Colorado City.

Dr. Don Altman, director of the Small Business Development Center at Abilene Christian University, was featured

Dakan restraining order denied

32nd District Judge Weldon Kirk Friday denied a restraining order sought by Colorado High School senior Wylie Dakan who lost an appeal to the Colorado Independent School District board of trustees Monday night.

Dakan, 18, had been sent to in-school suspension for 20 days following an incident at school in which he was accused of sniffing a bottle of air freshener.

On Friday, however, Kirk said in reading the school's discipline management policy, that Dakan could still participate in extra-curricular activities after May SANDI SMITH, center, holds the medal she received for placing third in state competition in informative speaking. With her are her Colorado High School sponsors Kitten Arthur, left, and Carl Moore. Sandi, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Smith, is a sophomore at CHS. She placed second in the first round competition at Austin last weekend to advance her to the finals where she placed third.

THE SIXTH grade beginner band at Colorado middle School, under the direction of Bob Newman, took first place ratings in concert and sightreading during the Snyder Band Festival this past weekend. In addition, 85 first place medals were earned in solo and ensemble events.

CHS project draws interest

Over 165 Colorado High School students have pledged to attend Project Celebration, the alcohol-free, drug-free after-graduation party planned May 29 at the county ag barns.

In addition, organizers have $3,814 in money and pledges out of the $5,000 they are seeking to hold the giant party.

Organizers are still in need of sponsors for Project Celebration Shift No. 1 from 10 p.m.-1 a.m. and shift No. 2 from 1-4 a.m.

Others are needed to:

- make sandwiches
- cook hamburgers from 10 p.m.-1 a.m.

- organize a mini-rodeo (perhaps a civic group)
- organize a mini-olympics (perhaps another civic group).

A big screen TV to use at the party is also needed as well as any prizes that businesses would like to donate for the various games.

Anyone wishing to contribute money to the cause can do so by sending a check to Projection Celebration, P.O. Box 1268, Colorado City, Texas 79612, in care of Leanne Beights, sponsor.

Those students who have pledged to attend the party include 71 of the 78 seniors, 61 of the 98 juniors, 18 of the 87 sophomores and 19 of the 128 freshmen.

Some of the recent donors to the celebration include:

- Crime Stoppers of Mitchell County, Mitchell County Law Enforcement Association and Crime Prevention Unit of the Colorado City Police Department, disc jockey for dance; Ice House Package Store, 10 bags of ice; Television Center of Colorado, use of VCR and movies; Dairy Queen, 160 meat patties and 100 weiners, Blizzard mugs; Rex and Gayle Beights, Six Flags discount

Cotton market improves

COLLEGE STATION—A long-awaited adjustment in China's cotton use and a drop in its stocks has caused the market to move upward, says Dr. Carl G. Anderson, economist-cotton marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Continuing with the optimistic outlook, Anderson points out that world use is up to 81 million bales. The 1986 crop trails with 70 million and carryover is dropping.

"Global cotton use has leaped by a third, or 20 million bales, in 10 years. The 15 percent drop in world stocks from a supply-demand report issued a month earlier is very significant. The world cotton price as reflected in the "A" Index, in two weeks, moved up 4 cents; December futures, 6 cents; and the U.S. adjusted world price in two weeks rose from 50.57 cents to 55.50 on April 23," Anderson says.

"The market continues to be nervous because of the uncertain events of world acreage, yields, political actions and consumption of cotton. Pricing strategies that protect against a possible price decrease, with the opportunity to benefit from a price increase, should be evaluated carefully," Anderson recommends.

25 even though he will be in ISS through the end of school.

Kirk noted that the school discipline plan reads that a student found to be guilty of a level III offense will be sent to ISS for 20 school days. But the policy states that the student will be barred from extra-curricular activities for 20 days, not 20 school days.

Carol Sue Dakan, mother of the student, said that their attorney, Lance Hall of Sweetwater, called Friday's action a victory in that it will allow Wylie to walk across the stage to receive his diploma with his classmates on Friday, May 29, as well as to participate in any other activities after May 25.

Mrs. Dakan said she still intends to appeal to the Texas Education Agency the school board's decision upholding the in-school suspension.

speaker and stressed the importance of small business.

He said small businesses employ one-half of the nation's work force and are responsible for 42 percent of all sales and 40 percent of the gross national product.

He said, however, that on the dark side, thousands of small businesses fail each year, mainly due to lack of expertise in business management.

He said his office is able to provide small business owners with such assistance, free of charge.

JODY WEBB, center, will be drum major, and Sunnye Biggs, left, and Amy Chitsey twirlers for the Colorado High School Wolf Band this next school year. They were selected during recent try-outs.

Rural health care considered

Washington, D.C.—Senator Lloyd Bentsen said he is considering several initiatives to help Texans in rural areas have immediate access, via satellite, to modern medical care.

"The legislation would set aside some of the money in the Medicare medical education fund and, perhaps, change some of the Medicare reimbursement arrangements so we can push development of this modern technology for the benefit of rural Texas," Bentsen said.

It would spur the use of satellites and computers in making the latest medical services available to doctors and patients in rural areas, as well as to different areas within cities. It could also help resolve some of the problems associated with Peer Review Organizations.

Bentsen said that when Congress considers a budget reconciliation bill later this year, he hopes to attach amendments that would aid projects such as this. A related initiative would allow the Secretary of Health and Human Services to determine whether, during the PRO appeal process, a doctor may continue treating patients or have those privileges terminated immediately.

Art Lawler

He was a Little Leaguer who had a tendency to think with his heart when I met him. He still does.

It made Mike a good baseball player, if a bit too impulsive. He was pitching pennies one day in the boys room at his grade school when the bell rang. All the fifth graders jumped up to run to class.

Mike was a step tardy - probably from picking up all the loot. At any rate, he got to the heavy metal door just in time to have it slammed against the top portion of one of his fingers.

That portion is no longer a part of Mike. I wrote a short story on the sports page about it and got to know his family.

Mike recovered quickly and resumed his career, still confident he'd someday play in the big leagues.

Time passes and soon he was taking phone calls in the sports department - his Little League days a fading memory. He was only a junior in high school, but he was growing up fast.

Like most kids, his major league dreams never came true. He was quick enough. His heart was big enough. His body just wasn't big league.

So it was off to the University of Texas, where he tried to play a little ball for the Longhorns. In the end, he got married and learned how to write sports in the school's journalism department. Eventually he got on with the sports department at the Austin "American Statesman," and now he's employed by an Austin suburban paper.

He's still just a kid, but he's a high mileage kid; one with a five-year-old boy, a four-year-old girl, and maybe a monthly child support payment.

He read something I wrote recently, and afterwards sent me a note - along with one of his columns.

It's one of those beautiful, if painfully, written pieces which centers around his four-year-old daughter - a little girl with catsup all over her face and shirt. A little girl telling her Dad how strong her big brother is, and how she'll soon be old enough to go to school, just like him.

It ends with Mike trying to figure out a fatherly way of saying goodbye after his weekend visit. His daughter winds up providing the appropriate words for him saying simply, "Daddy, I love you."

The Little Leaguer has matured greatly since we first met, but I still worry about him. He's losing parts of himself more critical than his fingers of late.

Growing up has never been easy, but it seems especially tough these days.

Too many young daddies with long faces are sitting in doughnut shops on Saturday mornings, talking to small children with messy faces. Too many daddies are saying goodbye on Sundays, half trying to apologize, half trying to instruct.

Too many moms are raising too many kids by themselves. I suppose this says something terrible about our society, but saying it does nothing to lessen the pain of the all-too familiar scenes.

The traditional idea was to grow up, get married and live happily ever after. Most of us recite the vows, grow up toward the end of a marriage, or after the marriage, and then find happiness a good piece down the road.

There's an upside to all this. One day Mike should be able to cherish his happiness with more intensity than those who never seem to run into life's slamming doors.

When it happens for Mike - and it will - he'll love the feeling. It'll be just like playing in the big leagues.

Letter to the Editor

To the editor:

I am writing out of a deep concern for the future of Lake Champion. Lake Champion is the only lake anywhere in the near vicinity where one can go for peace and quiet. Young and old alike enjoy escaping to Champion where they can fish and camp peacefully, away from the noise and waterskiers of the other lakes. They enjoy the relaxation and solitude. This would no longer be possible if the proposed drag boat races are approved. Some of the apparent problems are the increase in risk of injury due to the type of boats that would be used as well as the risk created by increased auto traffic, and the irreversible harm that would be done to fish and wildlife. The proposed boat races have much farther-reaching implications than those that readily appear on the surface.

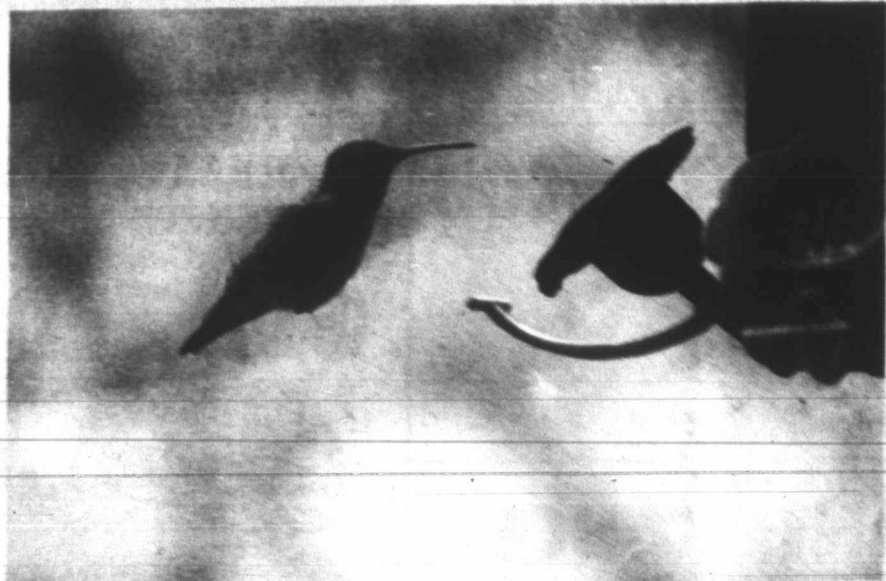

The problem does not lie with the races themselves, but rather with the intended location. Besides, isn't this what the state park was created for? Thank you for your time. Please give this matter serious consideration.

Sincerely,
L. M. Newby, Jr.

Brooks Wallis & Marie Schaefer

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schaefer of Ballinger announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, LaVerne Marie Schaefer of San Angelo, to Brooks Elliott Wallis of Colorado City, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wallis of Big Spring.

The wedding will take place July 18 at 3 p.m. in Sacred Heart Cathedral in San Angelo.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Angelo State University with a bachelor of science degree in physical education-health and English.

Texas approved as Class B state

On April 1, Texas was approved for a Class B brucellosis classification by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said Mike Mauldin, Mitchell County agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Since 1980, Texas had been classified as both a Class C and Class B state. With the Class B status, the B-C line will be eliminated. The new B designation also means less restriction on interstate movement of cattle for Texas producers.

The change to Class B status has resulted from a dramatically reduced herd infection rate, along with an increasing number of certified free herds across the state and an aggressive continuation of the calfhood vaccination program, Mauldin notes.

The agent emphasizes that increased efforts will be needed in the future to reach the state's goal of meeting the Class A status as mandated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The target date for this accomplishment is Oct. 1, 1990. In the meantime, other states are putting more pressure on Texas producers to increase efforts to control and eradicate brucellosis.

Presently, Texas is one of six states having the Class B status. Nineteen others have Class A status, and 23 have a designated Free status. Additionally, one has a joint B-C status and one carries a C status, Mauldin said.

Outgoing seniors were honored at the annual Colorado High School Spring Sports Banquet held at the middle school cafeteria Tuesday night.

Larry Mayes and Marty Clecckler were co-recipients of the Chamber of Commerce Outstanding Senior Athlete Award. To be eligible for the award an athlete must have played in three sports. Mayes participated in football, basketball and track for the Wolves while Clecckler played football, basketball and golf.

Taking top awards for the girls were Holly Tarter, Robin Edwards and Sally Mendoza.

Tarter was presented the "C" Award as a top basketball and volleyball player for the Lady Wolves. Edwards and Mendoza were co-recipients of the Spirit Award.

All athletes in every sport other than football were recognized at the banquet following a hearty meal and a speech by guest speaker Don Hood, men's track coach at Abilene Christian University.

Hood, a very successful mentor for the Wildcats, stressed the importance of mental strength needed in addition to physical abilities.

"I think we ought to make a rule against quitting," said Hood. "You're successful if you're happy. You've got to out work the other guy if you want to beat him. It takes determination and commitment."

Stressing the power of positive thinking Hood said "Keep that dream going. Outwork your opponent and make God the center of your life."

Gridiron players were honored earlier in the year at a football banquet. Tuesday's ceremony recognized participants in volleyball, boys and girls basketball, boys and girls track, golf and girls tennis. District 5AAA champions for varsity and junior varsity boys tennis were also honored.

Boys track and basketball had their own awards. Named as the Most Dedicated Wolf for track was Danny Salazar while Michael Swann and Mayes were named track's Most Contributive Seniors.

In basketball, Ismael Silva was named Most Consistent; Darwin Jackson was awarded the Sixth Man award; and Coley Ramage was named Most Improved.

Minor League Lions take wins

Little League hardball began this past week with the Minor League Lions taking an early lead in the standings with wins Tuesday and Thursday nights.

The Lions defeated the Mets 15-11 in the late game Tuesday night and followed that win by edging the Cubs 16-15 in Thursday's late contest.

After the 2-0 Lions the rest of the Minor League standings have the Blue Sox, Mustangs and Colts with 1-0 marks and the Mets with a 1-1 record. Other records through Thursday are the 0-1 Steers and the 0-2 Wildcats and Cubs.

The blue Sox kicked off the 1987 Little League season with a 17-6 whipping of the Wildcats Monday night. Following that contest was a 10-3 Colts win over the Steers.

Patrick Cumby went the distance in pitching for the Colts win. Centerfielder Josh Holstein scored three times in three at-bats for the Colts while catcher Dusty Robinson hit two doubles and scored two runs.

Cumby helped his cause with two triples. The Steers tied the game at 2-2 in the bottom of the second inning but didn't get their third run until the fifth and final inning. Cumby struck out twelve Steers in the win.

The Mustangs got their 1-0 start by blanking the Cubs 9-0 in the first game Tuesday night. The Mets bounced back from their Tuesday night loss to the Lions by beating the Wildcats 16-15 in the first game Thursday. Wildcats pitchers gave up eleven bases on balls.

WHAT DO YOU EXPECT FROM A PHARMACY?

It is our opinion that you should expect a lot from the pharmacy you choose for your family. For, it concerns your most precious possession—good health.

WE SHOULD HAVE WHAT YOU NEED

When your physician wants you to take a medicine he wants you to have it as quickly as possible. Your pharmacy should be very well stocked with drugs, medicines and other health aids.

WE SHOULD KNOW YOUR DOCTOR

Your pharmacist should make every effort to cooperate with the physicians in the community. If there is ever a question about a prescription he must unhesitatingly call and discuss it with your doctor.

WE SHOULD BE DEPENDABLE

You should expect your prescriptions and other needs to be handled carefully, closely checked, accurately recorded and potent. Information must be readily available to you or your physician.

WE TRY TO BE ALL THIS AND MORE

Our pharmacy is based on these principles. We know what you should expect from us and we are prepared to live up to your expectations.
