Wallace-Backed Candidate Wins Contest

Bronx Snubs Demos, GOP

(By The Associated Press)

LEO ISACSON, American Labor party nominee backed by Henry A. Wallace, won a smashing victory Tuesday night in a congressional election in New York's Bronx.

The race was billed in advance as a test of strength for Wallace, third party candidate for president.

Isacson ran almost two to one ahead of Karl Propper, Democrat, in the 24th New York district long regarded as a Democratic stronghold.

Politicians Study Effect

Dean Alfange, Liberal, and Joseph De Nigris, Republican, trailed far behind.

Politicians immediately started trying to gauge the effect on the presidential race.

Did it mean that the Wallace forces could cut so deeply into Democratic strength in New York City that President Truman might lose New York state's massive electoral vote?

Did it foretell an upsurge of protest votes by persons dissatisfied with both major parties?

Victory Overwhelming

Or was it just an isolated incident for which local factors were largely responsible?

No hard-and-fast answers to these questions could be obtained last night. But the unexpected results provided politicians with plenty of material for speculation.

On a percentage basis Isacson's victory was overwhelming—56 percent of the 40,597 ballots cast.

Total Vote Small

But the total vote, while larger than expected, was small for the district. It polled 89,000 in the 1946 regular congressional election and has gone over 200,000.

And Isacson's count of 22,697 was less than the ALP candidate got two years ago when the ALP's percentage share was only 27.2.

The Democratic percentage dropped drastically—from 42.2 in 1946 to 30.9 this year. Propper's actual count was 12,578.

The Republicans fell still farther back—from 19.1 to 3.6.

Wallace, in Tampa, Fla., for a campaign speech, called the result a "repudiation of the 'get tough'

LOANS FOR RURAL AID TALKED

Jester Says 'No' To Teachers' Request For Special Session

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 17 —Governor Beauford Jester today denied a request by a group from the Texas State Teachers association for a special session of the legislature on rural aid school funds.

He suggested that school trustees could get bank loans to carry through the rest of the year.

Rural aid schools are approximately $3,000,000 short of enough money to finish the nine-month school year unless superintendents: (1) Chose to go into debt on current operating expenses, or (2) Cut teachers' salaries to pay such expenses.

To Be Given Solons

The governor earlier had told the joint legislative committee he would submit the matter of the shortage as an emergency to the regular legislative session in January.

"The answer is not a special session," Jester said he told the teachers' representatives.

"The need for a special session is very obvious," said Charles H. Tennyson, director of public relations for the TSTA.

He said there was "remote possibility" that the governor's suggestion for bank loans could be worked out.

Had Urged Session

The joint legislative committee, which supervises the rural aid budget, had suggested in a resolution the question was sufficiently important to require a special session.

Jester said he believed banks would view his attitude and that of the joint legislative committee as an "evidence of good faith" on which to base the loans.

The attitude of individual bankers, the amount of schools' bonded indebtedness, and other economic factors will have an influence on whether a school can secure an adequate loan, Tennyson said.

He issued a statement quoting Joe Humphrey of Abilene, chairman of the Teachers association's legislative committee, as saying:

"There is no way for the state to discharge its contractual obligation to these schools except by an additional appropriation. Only the legislature has the power to make the appropriation. It is a matter which can not wait until the next regular session of the legislature.

Budgets Claimed Set

"We believe this matter is sufficiently vital to urge upon the governor his calling of a special session."

The joint legislative committee's resolution, adopted yester-

Lubbock Gets New Air Route

LUBBOCK was assured direct airline service to New Mexico's leading cities by a Civil Aeronautics board action Tuesday in Washington, the Associated Press reported Tuesday night.

Pioneer Airlines, Inc., was authorized to inaugurate a route from Lubbock to Albuquerque, N. M., by way of Clovis, Tucumcari, Las Vegas and Santa Fe, it was announced.

The board also authorized the airline to extend its present route from Amarillo to El Paso by way of Clovis, Roswell, Almogordo and Las Cruces, N. M., giving an additional route from Lubbock to El Paso by way of Clovis.

Robert Izzard, local Pioneer traffic manager, said the one-plane direct service to the New Mexico cities will begin shortly.

"Lubbock will be only 40 minutes from Clovis an hour and 20 minuts from Roswell, two hours from Albuquerque and two hours and 20 minutes from Santa Fe with the inauguration of the service," Izzard said. "El Paso will be only two hours and 40 minutes away."

Pioneer, which started operations in August, 1945, now gives Lubbock three daily-scheduled, round trip flights to Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Austin and San Angelo and other Texas points. The new routes announced Tuesday will be the line's first operations outside Texas.

A total of 700 new route miles will be added to the airline's schedule by the extensions.

The Civil Aeronautics board in Washington ordered an investigation to determine whether Continental Air Lines should be authorized to serve Socorro, Hot Springs and Las Cruces, N. M., on

Solons Drop Question Of Price Curbs

By MORGAN REYNOLDS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—Congress today turned the price problem over to a law it never enacted—the law of supply and demand.

That was the practical effect of a prediction by Senator Tobey (R-NH) that action on wage-price and rationing legislation will be delayed indefinitely by the market break.

"I think the peak of the high price range has passed. I think the edge is off the price problem," Tobey told a reporter.

Postponement Seen

Tobey said his Senate Banking committee probably will wait and see what happens before acting on anti-inflation measures.

The committee wound up months-long hearings on various control bills Feb. 5, the day after the markets went into a decline. No vote yet has been taken and Tobey's statement indicated a lengthy postponement.

Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich) of the House Banking committee last week proposed that Congress take a two-week recess on anti-inflation measures "to see where we are heading."

Action On Rents Urged

If at the end of the waiting and watching period the old economic law of supply and demand does not stabilize prices, they indicated, Congress may be asked to consider steps to curb the cost of living.

As one exception to the waiting policy, fast action was in prospect for rent controls which expire Feb. 29.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters Congress should act quickly on a long term extension. He said the Senate probably will go to work on a new rent bill Friday.

Margin Bill Opposed

A 14-month extension was voted by the Senate Banking committee yesterday which provided for controlled increases in some rents. Although the House Banking committee approved only a month's extension of the present law,

Fur Dealer Winds Up With Plenty Of Potatoes, No Coat

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—The radio announcer, finishing his commercial with a light touch, announced that a sheared beaver coat could be had "for 497 potatoes."

So a listener, Cecil Lineback, rushed to a market, bought two big sacks of spuds and delivered them to the furrier who paid for the radio plug.

"Here's the potatoes," he said. "Where's the coat?"

The furrier explained the price was in dollars, not potatoes. No deal.

The story got into the papers. The furrier got a lot of letters and phone calls from people who thought Lineback ought to get the coat.

He got it today and promptly presented it to his wife.

The furrier is wondering what to do with 497 potatoes.

Food Costs In Large Cities Reflect Trend

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 17—A wave of selling in wheat put most grains on the price toboggan again today and stocks slackened their recovery pull.

Nearly all commodity markets joined in the downturn near the close of the trading day.

The seesaw action of market prices the last few days left the future value of the housewife's shopping dollar still up in the air.

Uncertainty among traders over the future outlook kept prices bobbing in the markets.

Meat Items Reduced

However, the average householder still was cashing in on the general commodity market downturn of the last two weeks.

The New York division of Safeway Stores, Inc., reduced prices on 105 meat items from 2 to 10 cents and two large Philadelphia chains cut meat prices 2 to 10 cents a pound. Flour, margerine and soap chips also dropped slightly in Philadelphia.

After advancing Saturday and Monday, wheat closed 3½ to 4½ cents a bushel lower on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat for May delivery finished at $2.36-34¾ a bushel. Corn was 2⅛ higher to 3½ lower, May $2.06½-¾. Oats were ½ to 1¾ lower, May $1.05½-¾. Soybeans were 4 to 7 cents higher. March $3.40.

Stocks Bolstered

Wheat and oats dipped lower in all United States markets.

Grains showed some strength in early trading today and some brokers said there were indications selling had about run its course. When prices dipped near the close they were not so sure.

Timid buying on the heels of Monday's rally tended to bolster New York stocks. Many leaders, however, were stalled by light selling. The feeling that Monday's best advance in four months was only a technical correction tended to dampen enthusiasm of professional buyers.

The Associated Press wholesale index of 35 basic commodities reversed its two day advance, closing 1.15 points lower at 187.20. A week ago the index was 188.64, a month ago 206.07 and a year ago 170.70.

Most hog prices were 25 cents a hundred pounds lower at Chicago.

Proposal Seen As Boost For Tax Slash

Changes In Marshall Plan Gain Backing

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—A surprise move to alter Marshall plan bookkeeping and ease the way for a big tax cut was approved today by the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

The proposal involved a change in President Truman's plans for financing the program of European recovery.

Under the Truman plans, the bulk of the huge expenses would be paid, not out of this fiscal year's budget, but out of the budgets for the following fiscal years.

Less For Debt Proposed

Mr. Truman wants to use the estimated Treasury surplus of $7,482,610,000 for this fiscal year to reduce the national debt.

Under the senators' plan, which was proposed by Senator Millikin (R-Colo), $3,000,000,000 of the initial cost of the Marshall plan would come out of this year's Treasury surplus. This would reduce government spending for the next fiscal year, starting July 1, 1948, and would leave more leeway for tax cutting.

It also would cut into this year's book surplus, and hence into the amount which could be used this year to reduce the national debt.

The proposal gave a sudden spurt to GOP tax reduction plans —as was intended.

Senate To Debate Tax Cut

Senator Millikin, chairman of the Senate Finance committee, announced that the Senate will take up the tax cut right after debate on the Marshall plan. That debate begins March 1.

The House recently voted for a $5,600,000,000 reduction in income taxes.

Millikin's proposal was included in the final draft of the Marshall plan bill which the Senate Foreign Relations committee approved 43 to 0. It authorizes appropriations of $5,300,000,000 to cover the first year of a four-year European recovery program beginning April 1.

The administration had asked $6,800,000,000 for the first 15 months of the program. It proposed that this sum be split up this way: $500,000,000 out of the budget for the 1948 fiscal year, ending June 30, 1948; $4,000,000,000 in fiscal 1949; and the remainder later.

Man Renounces His Citizenship

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 17 (AP)—A 27-year-old former Harvard university student has become a man without a country because he wants to be a citizen of all the world.

He is Henry Noel of Princeton, N. J., who has renounced his American citizenship to take up life as an ordinary laborer in Germany's austere economy.

This was disclosed today by U. S. military government officials, who said Noel had left with them a statement saying he was "prepared for any and all consequences" of his action.

Nationalism Scored

The statement said his decision was not motivated by any "personal dislike" for the United States, its people or its policies. The statement added:

"We witness in these times a climax of nationalism, the spectacle of separate national political entities each thinking to realize its own private national ambition, each desperate to maintain or enlarge its own national powers or prestige, while in reality everyone harbors and cannot put in

Two Are Injured In Collision Near City

Two persons were injured about 8:30 o'clock last night in a collision of two automobiles on East Canyon hill, one mile east of Lubbock on U. S. highway 62.

Mrs. Mattie D. Williams, 39, of Lubbock, was in Lubbock Memorial hospital last night with a fractured pelvis. Robert H. Speakman, 34, of Avinger addition, was treated for minor cuts over the eye and released from the hospital. Speakman's wife, and R. D. Robnett, 30, of Littlefield, who was driver of the other car in the accident, were uninjured.

According to the Texas highway patrol, Robnett was driving west into the city in a 1933 Ford coach, when Speakman, who was driving east in a 1936 Ford coach, made a left turn. Robnett's car struck the right front door of Speakman's car injuring Mrs. Williams who was sititng next to the door.

New Tactics In Palestine Urged

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 17 (AP)—A peaceful settlement of the Palestine issue was advocated today in a personal statement by the Philippines member of the Palestine commission.

Senator Vicente Francisco, of the Philippines, told newsmen he favored this course even though it might change the partition time-table set up by the United Nations Assembly last Nov. 29.

Simultaneously, the Security Council decided without comment to open the Palestine debate next Tuesday so that delegates could consult their governments on the key question of an armed force.

Council Faces Question

These two developments came less than 24 hours after the five-member Palestine commission told the Security Council it could not carry out the partition plan without an adequate force. All five commission members signed that report.

Dr. Karel Lisicky, of Czechoslovakia, chairman of the Palestine commission, and three other commissioners met newsmen in a conference this afternoon at which Lisicky said it was up to the Security Council to decide all questions about the armed force.

Senator Francisco was not present at Lisicky's conference. He later said he was indisposed.

DE VALERA HIT

DUBLIN, Feb. 17 (AP)—The 16-year rule of Eamon De Valera as Eire's prime minister appeared tonight to be reaching its end. James Everett, leader of the national labor deputies holding the balance of power in the newly elected parliament, said he would support the anti-De Valera coalition government.

Man Critically Hurt In Car-Truck Wreck

A man identified from papers in his possession as R. E. Williamson, about 60, was in a semi-conscious condition in West Texas hospital at 2 o'clock this morning for treatment of injuries suffered when his car was in collision with a heavy oil tank truck about three miles east of Lubbock on the Lubbock-Idalou highway. His condition was said critical by hospital attendants.

The accident occurred about 1:15 a. m. Williamson was rushed to the hospital in a Sanders Funeral Home ambulance. He suffered a bad cut on the forehead, a possible fractured skull, an apparent serious injury to the left hip and possible internal injuries. No address was available but papers indicated he was a Lubbock resident.

Williamson's car, a Ford sedan, was believed to have struck the left front wheels of the tank portion of the truck-trailer, snapping the wheel off the truck and almost demolishing the sedan, reports said. The driver of the truck, identified as John Cunningham, driving for a Sweetwater company, was not injured. Both were going east.

Highway patrolmen were investigating the accident at 2 o'clock.

Gen. Meyers Is Indicted On Income Tax Evasion Charge

BALTIMORE, Feb. 17 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, already charged with perjury, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on a charge of evading $15,658 in 1941 income taxes.

The 52-year-old retired general, second ranking Army Air Forces procurement officer during the war, was accused of filing a "false and fraudulent" tax return giving his 1941 income as $3,808 while actually he made $36,301.

Meyers is under indictment in Washington on charges that he lied to a Senate investigating committee and induced a former business associate to do likewise.

PROGRESS MADE IN STUDIES

Whether Life Exists On Mars Still Problem For Scientists

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MCDONALD OBSERVATORY, Fort Davis, Feb. 17—Astronomers at McDonald observatory said tonight they are not yet able to answer the question of whether there is life on Mars.

But, as the planet came closer to the Earth tonight than it will again in two years, they reported progress in their study.

Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper, observatory director, and his assistants trained the observatory's 82-inch reflector telescope on Mars as the planet swung toward a point 63,000,000 miles from the Earth.

He said two things are definitely certain as a result of studies which started here on Mount Locke in October:

1—The green spots visible on Mars are not vegetation of the two higher categories—seed plants and ferns. The possibility is left that they may be mosses or lichens, a still lower order of life.

2—There is a virtual absence from Mars of sulphur dioxide, a gas which comes out of volcanos.

It would have been "nice" to have found sulphur dioxide in the atmosphere of Mars because it could act as a filter for fatal ultra-

Alec Templeton Wins Ovation In Opening Program In City

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

ALEC Templeton in his program Tuesday night won an ovation as spontaneous and warm-hearted as his own playing, and the performance of Lubbock Symphony orchestra formed an appropriate backdrop for the noted pianist's genius.

Mr. Templeton's second appearance will be at the Senior High school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight. The audience is expected to be, as it was Tuesday night, a near capacity one of 1,400 persons.

The program opened with well-rehearsed numbers by the orchestra—Overture from "Rosamunde", Symphony No. 8 in B Minor (The Unfinished Symphony) Schubert; "Moldau", Smetana; and three "Selections for Brass and Woodwind Choir."

Mr. Templeton then appeared and played Grieg's "Concerto in A Minor", as Bill Harrod directed the orchestra in accompaniment.

The second half of the program was the spontaneous portion—it began with "The Minuet in G", progressed through "Corelli in the Old Corral", a Texas-like treat-

Slash In Oil Exports Seen

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 — The Commerce department tonight halted the issuance of all export licenses for gasoline and fuel oil for 48 hours.

Before Friday a new cut in export quotas probably will be announced, a department spokesman said, to save oil for chilly American homes.

The decision was announced after two false starts. Shortly after 4 p. m. CST the department told reporters of the temporary license suspension.

Cut Believed Possible

Within half an hour an information official notified reporters that the suspension "has been called off." Instead, he said, an announcement of a cut in quotas was being prepared. Then—in another half-hour—the department officially announced that the suspension was in force.

The cut-off of licensing will permit officials to scan foreign oil needs. American embassies abroad have been queried and a good many replies have been received.

They indicate, a spokesman said, that foreign governments can stand another cut in oil deliveries. Shipments to 30 or more countries were slashed by 3,700,000 barrels on Jan. 30.

The new order will not halt oil which is at shipside or already in transit.

Before the Commerce department had made up its mind, Rep. Heselton (R-Mass) announced on the House floor that the foregin countries had agreed to take less oil.

Later, he told reporters that cables so far received from the embassies indicated a saving of 21,500,000 gallons of fuel oil and kerosene alone for American consumers, or about 500,000 barrels. Gasoline savings also may be possible, he said.

Embargo Continues In East

Heselton asked an outright embargo on all shipments, rather than the suspension of licenses.

The license cut-off was a cli-

Eight Men Lost In Boat Mishap

HYERES, France, Feb. 17 (AP)—The French coast guard said tonight one officer and seven men from the U. S. aircraft carrier Midway were missing after a naval launch capsized about midnight last night.

Navy boats operating in the glare of the Midway's searchlights rescued 29 other men clinging to the overturned launch or swimming nearby.

The launch overturned while taking officers and men to the carrier after a farewell shore party given by French officials. The party was held at a casino at the small island of Hyeres off the French Riviera.

Search Continues

Survivors were segregated on the Midway until the full story could be heard from them. The hunt for the missing men continued tonight with French naval ships and small fishing boats aiding.

The French coast guard set the figure at eight missing in an official report after denying rumors that 40 had disappeared. French police said American ship officers had asked them to check on the possibilty that some of the missing men had merely failed to report back from shore leave and were not on the launch.

The launch was one of several returning personnel to the ship. There was a strong offshore wind but the sea was not regarded as dangerous by Navy men.

All available small boats joined the search when news of the accident reached the carrier. The

Dispute Continues Over Effort To Boost Cotton Import Quota

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (U.P.) — A department of Agriculture spokesman told the Tariff commission today the present import quota on foreign long-staple cotton should be retained. If it is junked, he said, the country will be "flooded" with foreign cotton.

J. H. Dean, head of the cotton section in the department's production and marketing administration, told a Tariff commission hearing that even the prewar quota of 45,565,420 pounds of long-staple cotton was "larger than necessary."

Factories Seek More Cotton

The hearing was called at the request of cotton manufacturers. They contend they can't get enough of the long-staple cotton to meet their needs.

The current annual quota is the same as the prewar quota.

Last year, however, an additional 23,094,000 pounds were allowed to enter this country.

Dean told the commission this year's supply of both American and Egyptian cotton 1⅛ inches and longer is adequate to meet mill requirements and leave a "comfortable" reserve.

Said Blow At U. S.

"Flooding this country with imports of foreign cotton would be a disastrous blow to our national farm program and to the nation's cotton producers," he said.

But representatives of the textile industry argued that there is not enough of the long-staple cotton and said that the mills would turn in synthetic fibers such as rayon if they can't get more.

P. S. Howe, Jr., of the Cotton-Textile Institute of New York City, said it is "only fair" that the extra long staple cottons be entirely free from quota restrictions" to eliminate the risks the mills now face in purchasing the material.

But he added that the industry hopes the government and cotton growers will get together and develop the long staple variety in the United States.

H. S. Newcombe, of the Berkshire Fine Spinning Associates, Inc., Providence, R. I., said the mills face an "acute" problem, and will use synthetics if they can't get the kind of cotton they need.

A group of 12 cotton state senators, headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D., Miss., put into the record a statement charging that the request for the change in the quota was the result of "agitation" by a small group of importers. The statement was made public Saturday by Eastland.

Government Aid Urged To Help Overcome Shortage Of Doctors

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Oscar R. Ewing, federal security administrator, today urged government aid to medical schools and students to help overcome a serious shortage of doctors.

The doctor shortage is "nearing crisis proportions, and is the bottleneck on almost every line of advance toward better national health," he told the annual meeting of the National Health Council.

Three proposals for government aid, he said, are:

"Grants of about $50,000,000 annually for operating expenses for schools of medicine, dentistry, nursing, and public health.

Grants for construction of medical schools, or addition of new buildings.

Scholarship, of two kinds. State scholarships for doctors, nurses, dentists, and public health personnel who could practice anywhere they wanted. National scholarships, not more than 600 of them a year, for doctors who agreed to serve for a time in special shortage areas.

One condition in such federal aid, he said, would be that the medical schools agree not to bar qualified students on racial or religious grounds.

Rev. Bolton Boone Appointed Head Of Methodist Hospital

DALLAS, Feb. 17 (AP)—Rev. Bolton Boone, district superintendent of the Wichita Falls district of the North Texas Methodist conference, has been appointed administrator of the Dallas Methodist hospital, Bishop C. C. Selecman, presiding officer of the conference, said today.

The Rev. Boone succeeds Rev. Cicero Fielder, who resigned to re-enter the ministry, Bishop Selecman said.

F. B. Germany, Dallas oil man, was elected chairman of the board of trustees, succeeding the late John J. Simmons.

The offices were filled at the annual meeting of the board of trustees in Dallas yesterday, Bishop Selecman said.

N. J. Norrell of Dallas was named vice chairman of the board and Rev. Fielder was elected a trustee. All other trustees were re-elected.

The Rev. Boone served four years as pastor of Grace Methodist church, Dallas, prior to his appointment at Wichita Falls in 1946. Most of his ministry was in south Texas before 1942.

Athletic Program Is Launched Here

A coordinated program of athletics has been launched in the Lubbock Public school system, with various age groups of boys competing against each other and with teams of Class A and Class B schools over the area before getting into Class AA competition, C. R. (Pat) Pattison, head coach, said Tuesday in a talk at the Optimist club luncheon in Hotel Lubbock.

Pattison said each boy would be encouraged to participate in as many branches of sport as he desires with each sport dovetailing the other as the seasons came along. He said he was now conducting a physical education class in football with 55 boys enrolled and that when track season opened each boy would be encouraged to participate in track.

Boys Are Receptive

"I couldn't ask for a group of boys more receptive to good athletic training," Pattison said. "The desire has got to be there first and then the ability is second, so far as I am concerned."

Fred Taylor, assistant coach, also spoke briefly. They were introduced by Ben Williams, program chairman.

Prior to the coaches' talks, the club voted to sponsor the showing of Clyde Bros. 2-ring indoor circus here on March 12, 13, 15 and 16. A committee composed of W. C. Rutledge, chairman; B. H. Bird, Noble James, Winston Clark, Sloan Fortenberry and Jerry Holleman, was appointed to arrange for the show.

In a report of the nominations committee, Charles Cobb was nominated for president; G. C. Stewart, first vice president; Jerry Sandlin, second vice president; and A. G. Oberg and John E. Speer, members of the board of directors. The election will be held late next month.

J. Warren Day of Fort Worth and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Dahl and Miss Maxine Luckey of Deadwood, S. D., were out-of-town guests at the luncheon.

Higher Pay To Vets In School Will Be On Full-Time Basis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Higher living allowances for veterans in school will be granted only to full time students, the Veterans administration said today.

Part-time students, on-the-job-trainees and others, are not entitled to raises provided in a bill signed by President Truman last Saturday, VA attorneys said.

The new subsistence payments are $75 a month for a veteran without dependents, $105 with one dependent, and $120 with more than one dependent.

The rates become effective April 1, and will be paid for the first time in checks mailed on or after May 1.

WANTED HEARING AID REPRESENTATIVES

OPPORTUNITY TO OWN YOUR OWN BUSINESS

The hearing aid business is one of the fastest growing semi-professional activities in the country today. It not only offers a substantial income to above average men and women, but its humanitarian aspect provides a deeply satisfactory type of occupation in a field where age is an asset rather than a handicap.

Dictograph Products, Inc., manufacturer of ACOUSTICON, the first electrical hearing aid, has been a leader in this field for over 45 years. The rapid growth of business has made it necessary to more than double our staff of representatives in the past two years. Still more are needed to handle the business available today, a condition brought about by an almost sensational public acceptance and demand for better hearing on the part of those who are hard of hearing.

We need dealers and acousticians today. This may be the very work you have wanted to place you in a position of economic security and vocational happiness. We are interested only in men and women who want to earn in excess of $5000.00 a year. For further information . . . .

Progress In Soil Conservation By Texas Farmers Is Praised

ANGLETON, Tex., Feb. 17 (AP)—R. M. Boswell of Kenedy, a Texan with a national reputation in soil conservation work, thinks farmers and ranchers are making good progress in improving their lands.

In a speech at a meeting here today of the Gulf Coast Soil and Water Conservation association, Boswell spoke against several proposals of giving the federal government more authority in directing this work.

Boswell is vice president of the National Association of Soil Conservation districts. He also is vice president of the Texas Association of Soil Conservation districts.

Progress Cited

"The idea farmers and ranchers could or would not organize themselves into bodies for their own benefit has been refuted in the last ten years by the very successful and effective organization of soil conservation districts," the Kenedy farmer-rancher said.

"Many times as much soil conservation has been put into effect on the farms and ranches of our land in the last seven years than all the 40 years previous when soil conservation was advocated by the various agencies of our state and national government."

He described the origin and purpose of the national and state organizations of conservation districts, and then commented:

"It is beginning to look as if we have done a little bit too good a job, as some of the agencies are beginning to want to take over the work in order to get credit for the accomplishments.

Cooley Bill Opposed

"It is being advocated now that soil conservation work should be taken out of the hands of the landowners and the districts assisted by the Soil Conservation service, and placed under the direction of the director of the extension service.

"The Cooley bill, if passed, would in effect destroy the usefulness of the soil conservation districts by placing the entire direction of the soil conservation movement under the director of extension in each of the 48 states.

"If the Cooley bill should pass we would have 48 separate and distinct soil conservation set-ups in our nation which would give very little recognition to the organized, landowner-controlled soil conservation districts."

Legislation Favored

Boswell also spoke against a proposal that direction of the work be taken over by the production and marketing administration of the Agricultural department.

"The summation of this whole program," he said, "is that it puts soil conservation in politics."

He said his national organization favors the Jensen bill.

"Until something better is offered, we are wholeheartedly for the Jensen bill because it provides for a national land policy and recognizes and strengthens the landowner controlled districts."

Further, he said, it provides technical assistance to the districts and in addition provides material and machinery for the placing of soil conservation measures on the land.

Three More Cities Will Get Rat Control Demonstration

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (U.P.)—Three more cities—Baltimore, Md., Shreveport, La., and Jackson, Miss.—have been selected to follow Corpus Christi, Tex., as demonstration centers for the national urban rat control program in March.

Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug said Mayor Clyde E. Fant asked that Shreveport be selected because the city has set aside $12,000 for rat control.

Krug said Mayor Thomas Dalesandro of Baltimore pledged his full support in the program in connection with his campaign to make Baltimore the "cleanest city in the nation."

Mayor Leland Speed of Jackson also gave his assurance of cooperation, Krug said.

Twenty-three other cities will be named for demonstration programs in the rat control campaign which ultimately will invade all towns of 10,000 population or more in an effort to save food for Europe.

In 1947 the people of Texas increased their insurance in force with Southwestern Life Insurance Company to $640,867,018.00, a gain of $60,820,014.00 over 1946. The assets were increased to $160,362,128.16, enabling the Company to close the year in the strongest financial position in its history.

Several years ago, recognizing that interest rates were falling and that more than normal fluctuations of economic conditions might be expected, the Company began setting aside a portion of earnings to provide a fund to preserve the integrity of Southwestern Life's obligations under all conditions. Even though interest rates may rise somewhat in the future and economic conditions become less likely to produce adverse fluctuations, contingency funds will still be maintained to add a comforting measure of strength to the policy reserves required by law. During the year $531,293.88 was added to the contingency funds, bringing the total to $6,098,999.60.

The year 1947 marked the completion of the new, modern, four-story annex to the Home Office Building. The Home Office property fronts 177 feet on Main Street at the corner of Akard Street in the center of the business district of Dallas.

Southwestern Life employs a trained force of more than 800 citizens of Texas to serve you. The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

THE main trouble with Communists seems to be that they don't get about and see how other people live.

We certainly are smothered by convention. When a man sings in the street he is presumed to be either drunk or slightly touched. He might be neither, but merely pleased with life. Maybe he got a raise, or a good letter.

HUH, MOMMY, HUH?

HERE'S some hot-off-the-griddle information for expectant parents and those whose offspring have not reached the question asking stage. Scores of mothers in Philadelphia, together with nursery and elementary school teachers, have combined to prepare a list of the 39 puzzlers most frequently posed by the kids who really know how to think them up. All were asked by children under eight.

The questions can be put into four main categories.

UNDER the first—human inventions—we find the following:

How do airplanes stay up in the air?

What makes airplanes lift off the ground?

Why don't heavy boats sink?

How do they make atom bombs?

Can atom bombs blow up the whole world?

How does the man's voice get inside the radio?

Is that a real man on the record and where is he hiding?

Why is the fire at the bottom and the chimney at the top?

How does the man write in the sky (airplane)?

PEOPLE themselves give rise to these queries:

Where do babies come from?

If food makes us grow, why don't adults grow, too?

Where do I keep my soul? Couldn't you show me where it is? What happens to my soul when I go to sleep?

Do people have to be poor?

Why do we have to have money?

UNDER the classification of natural science we get the following:

What makes it rain?

Why is the moon broken?

How can the sun be bigger than the earth?

Where do bees get wax?

How can a little seed hold so much?

Why does the cow give white milk when she eats green grass?

Where does the sun go at night?

How can birds make nests when they don't have hands?

Why don't elephants lay eggs?

Why can't we have the moon shining in the daytime?

How does the plant drink water when it hasn't any mouth?

What is time?

Why don't fish ever drown?

FINALLY, under the category of religion, parents have to cope with numbers like this:

Where is God?

Why can't I see God?

Who made God?

Is there really a devil, or is he like the boogie man?

What would happen to the world if God went on vacation?

Where is heaven?

When my dog died, did he go to heaven? And is it the same heaven people go to?

Be prepared to answer those and you're qualified for parenthood. At least that's what the people said.

MINIMUM

THE experience of others may be different, but ours is that we are best off when we keep personal possessions at a minimum. We like to own one fountain pen, one pencil, one pair of glasses, one typewriter, and life would be simplified if we owned only one purse, one vanity, one radio.

If you own two or more of these articles, which are aids to gracious living and expression, you usually find, or at least we do, that you become careless about the upkeep or whereabouts of them. For instance we have four radios but every one of them has something wrong with them. We know men who have a desk filled with lighters but instead of keeping one in working order they used each until it was out of fluid and now the men are back to packet matches.

Plenitude begets indifference. We dare say that a man who traveled with an extra set of teeth would be without teeth before he got to Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Aaron of Rotan are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Aaron, to Frank K. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mitchell of Roby, which took place Saturday in the Rotan First Methodist church with Rev. R. S. Watkins, pastor, officiating. Mrs. Mitchell is a former graduate student of Texas Technological college.

Altar decorations were in white. Wedding music was offered by Mrs. Mark Strickland who played traditional wedding selections and accompanied James H. Honest, I Didn't Know USED FATS WERE STILL BADLY NEEDED!
Lady, where have you been? Used fats are needed now more than ever, because the shortage of fats and oils today is the greatest in the world's history. Our government warns us that the supply simply cannot meet today's industrial needs. You can help prevent this supply from getting too low by continuing to turn in your used fats.

You say you re-use them for cooking! Fine! But even the drops left after that are worth salvaging. Then how about melting down fat trimmings, skimming gravies? Those tricks yield plenty!
And come to think of it, what other kitchen waste can you convert into good hard cash? It's a point to remember, these days of high food costs! You know, prices butchers pay for used fats are up, on the average. So please... don't throw your fats away. Save 'em, and turn 'em in!

Britain Speeding Warship To Islands To Enforce Claims

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 17—Admiralty quarters said today that the cruiser Nigeria is en route to the Falkland islands and the press speculated that the possible presence of uranium in the Antarctic may lie behind the three-power contest for Antarctic lands.

It was estimated that the cruiser would take about a week to get to the Falklands. This will put it a little behind the arrival of Argentine and Chilean warships which already are enroute there.

To Make Fight For Claims

The Nigeria is being sent to the Falklands as a demonstration of British naval strength. The sending of the Nigeria and the statement of Hector McNeil in the House of Commons yesterday made plain that Britain is determined to make a strong fight for Antarctic claims.

While newspapers like the News-Chronicle and the Daily Mail worked on the imagination of their readers by discussing the possibilities of uranium and gold which might lie under the Antarctic ice-cap the Communist newspaper, the Daily Worker, gave scant heed to the problem.

The Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party, usually devotes little space to foreign affairs. However, it published something resembling an Antarctic edition, devoting an entire column to the government's position.

Said Challenge To Britain

The more serious British newspapers such as The London Times, The Daily Telegraph and The Manchester Guardian paid only slight attention to the Antarctic situation.

The London Daily Express suggested that the dispute over the Falkland island dependencies was a symbol of British weakness.

The News Chronicle said this was "believed to be one of the reasons for the challenge to British sovereignty on Antarctic territory."

The Daily Express, however, speculated that maybe the Latin nations challenge sprang from the decrease in British armed strength in the postwar world.

"Because of this, an impudent gesture like that of Argentina in the Antarctic becomes possible," the Express said. "The world is deprived of its oldest established police force, the British Navy."

All newspapers bannered the sailing of the 8,000-ton British cruiser Nigeria from South Africa to an "undisclosed destination" which everyone agreed was the trouble zone in the Falkland island area.

Expeditions In Area

The Nigeria sailed early yesterday morning from the British naval base of Simonstown, near Capetown, carrying a full complement of 700 sailors and marines.

Dispatches from Capetown said the warship set off at a forced speed of 24 knots in a southwesterly direction.

The colonial office took occasion to announce that two British expeditions, one with American scientists attached, had recently explored some 3,500 miles of the Hope bay and Marguerite bay areas of Grahamland in the Falkland island dependencies.

The announcement said the scientists at times had to fight blizzards of 80 miles an hour.

The controversy developed when Argentina announced it was sending a naval task force to the Argentinian area of the Antarctic on maneuvers.

Shortly thereafter Chile announced that a transport had sailed for the same area with Chilean President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla aboard. The president intended to look over Chilean claims in the same area, the Chilean announcement said.

Proposed Legislation Would Put Texas Rubber Industry On Permanent Basis

By TEX EASLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 — The war-built synthetic rubber industry in Texas, employing thousands, would be put on a permanent basis by a bill before Congress.

There are 10 plants in the country in which butadiene and styrene are mixed to make rubber. Four with a total output of 195,000 tons yearly are in Texas—at Borger, Port Neches, Houston and Baytown.

Other plants are at Baton Rouge and Lake Charles, La., Akron, O., Naugatuck, Conn., and Los Angeles. The capacity of all 10 is 600,000 tons a year.

Besides these, there are others owned by Uncle which turn out the main ingredients for the "copolymer" plants. Butadiene plants are operated at Port Neches, Baytown and Borger. Total cost to the government of the entire synthetic rubber plant setup was $700,000,000.

The legislation dealing with this enterprise was approved by a House Armed Services committee after extensive hearings in which Reps Lyndon B. Johnson of the Austin district and Paul Shafer (R-Mich) took active parts.

Shafer succeeded in getting his bill rather than Johnson's approved . . . but only after the committee had adopted a vital amendment offered by Johnson.

That amendment, says the Texan, in effect makes the bill do exactly what he had sought in his own measure—set up almost iron clad arrangement for continued ownership of the plants by the government.

Johnson's amendment makes it necessary to show that the national security will be "facilitated and advanced" by the sale of a plant before the government can sell. Shafer's bill provided originally for their sale if such disposal was not detrimental to the national defense. There's a difference.

Rep. Gene Worley of Shamrock wonders if there may be a tax refund racket.

When Uncle Sam decides you paid too much income tax, he pays you back the difference later, plus six per cent interest for the time he had your money. The bureau of internal revenue recently announced it made refunds of approximately $2,882,000,000 in the year ended last June 30.

'Investment' Possible

The Panhandle congressman got out his pencil and figured that the interest alone on this amount for one year—assuming the average sum was held by the government that long—was $173,000,000.

Three corpoartions alone, U. S. Steel, Westinghouse Electric and N. Y. Central railroad, received refunds totaling $163,000,000. A year's interest would have netted them approximately $10,000,000 Worley estimated.

"I do not make a charge that anyone has deliberately overpaid his income tax for the express purpose of securing a guaranteed return of 6 per cent," he said.

"As you know, the interest rate on most government bonds is only about 2 per cent, so the opportunities are broad that this situation could be exploited."

SPORTS Spotlight

By Bob Cone

Some folks get all the breaks. . . . Others get none. . . .

It's beginning to look like a Kirkpatrick will never get a break, especially in the state Golden Gloves tournament. . . .

J. D. Kirkpatrick, the kind of fighter who puts everything he has into a fight, has had the lady of luck to frown on him most severely in both his appearances in the state meet. . . .

Last year a punch over a kidney, although he won his fight, brought him a disqualification. . . .

This year a very slight cut over his left eye, flowing blood, and another disqualification. . . .

We have it that J. D. was holding the upper hand. . . . His opponent was getting woozy. . . . And then—the chance blow which eliminated a fighter who should have gone on to meet Tom Adams for the state championship.

And last year Howard Kirkpatrick was going great only to get a cut over an eye. . . .

Personal note to Kenneth Kirkpatrick, next in line to win his way to Fort Worth:

Someone who gave you a gold watch band, and this sports scribe, believe you'll get more than a TKO over that jinx. . . .

Curtis Barrett, director of the, annual TAAF cage tourney, which is to be held at Abernathy this year, is giving all those teams which didn't get in under the wire on the original Tuesday midnight deadline date a break. . . . Independent teams now have through Friday to post the $20 entry fee, and get into Barrett's hands all the facts and figures necessary for entry. . . .

We have, from time to time, marveled at the ability of Roy Morris to produce great boy teams at Central Junior high school. . . . He gets that get-up-and-go-to-it'y ness into his teams which has apparently been totally missing, in eclipse, among some other teams we know about. . . .

And speaking of coaching and coaching. . . . C. R. (Pat) Pattison, Lubbock High school mentor, let fly with some pungent words during Tuesday's Optimist club luncheon. . . .

Pattison contended that there's no difference in boys in Lubbock or Amarillo or Plainview or Odessa. . . .

Speaking of bringing Fred Taylor here as his assistant, and addressing his words to Taylor, Coach Pattison said:

"I'll be better to you than a lot of coaches. You'll do all the work, and I'll take only half of the credit. When we lose you'll get the credit. When we win I'll take it."

National Football league releases show Walter Schlinkman, great ex-Texas Tech star, now with Green Bay, fifth in yardage gained among backs carrying the ball 100 or more times last season, and eighth in average gains per play. . . . His total yards gained stood at 439. . . . His average 3.8.

Local baseballdom has started wishing for good weather here April 9 when the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians come to town for an exhibition game in Hubber Park. . . . It won't mean anything financially for the Hubber management, but a packed park on that date could mean even more big league ball games here in 1949. . . .

Lubbock, through Dallas, will have a firm working agreement with the Odessa club this season. . . . Contracts probably will go out this week to probable Hubbers. . . . And if there are any holdouts it should be known around March 1. . . .

Texas Looking To Bill In Chicago

Henderson Gets Set For Chicago Fights

State Golden Gloves Featherweight Champion Bill Henderson of Levelland, the only winner on the team of six men from Lubbock appearing in Ft. Worth, is back in town preparing to make the trip to Chicago with the Texas boxing team.

Henderson, first to defend successfully the title he won a year ago, is one of the standouts on the Lone Star state's squad that is said to be the strongest team ever to represent this state. The stylish little Texas Tech boxer display all the attributes of a good fighter in winning five bouts in Ft. Worth and made a strong impression on the promoters of the tournament.

The Lubbock team returned from Cowtown yesterday afternoon by private car, relieved to be departing a city that had again proved to be a jinx. Although the state team trophy eluded their grasp Friday night, Henderson virtually was certain of an individual title, as was J. D. Kirkpatrick in the light heavyweight division.

Then disaster, in the form of a lucky punch, fell Monday night and the Levelland Larruper was the only one to come through with victory. And he left no doubt in anyone's mind that when the Texas team leaves Saturday, Bill Henderson will be one of the kingpins in the group.

Others to be counted on heavily will be Heavyweight Charles Simmons of Dallas, who defended his title again; Light Heavyweight Tom Adams of Brownfield, another successful title defender; and Lightweight George Easterling of Port Arthur, who made an impressive showing throughout the long tourney.

The final night of glove competition Monday in Will Rogers Coliseum attracted the largest crowd in Ft. Worth's history, with a gross of $42,000 resulting. Director Flem Hall said that approximately $20,000 of this will go to charity, with other expenses including cost of sending the state team to Chicago, government tax and actual tournament expenses.

In addition to the four men named, others eligible to go to Chicago by virtue of winning titles are Flyweight Fred Morales of Temple; Bantamweight Leon Palacio of Amarillo; Welterweight Eugene Cooper of Amarillo; and Middleweight Morris Milburn of Ft. Worth.

However, some changes may be made in the Texas team before it leaves Ft. Worth Saturday.

TAAF Cage Tourney Deadline Extended

Deadline for entering the TAAF Men's Basketball tournament, scheduled to open Feb. 24 at the Abernathy High school gym, has been extended through Friday, city recreation department officials announced last night.

The entry fee of $20 per team should be brought or mailed to Curtis Barrett at the City Hall in Lubbock, and must be accompanied by the name of the team, name of the team's manager and the telephone number where team officials can be contacted.

Seventeen quints have already entered the meet, including Primm drug of Brownfield, Spade Ramblers, Leftwich Lumberjacks, Furr Food, Thomas Tinkers, Plainview Jaycees, Hoyt Furniture, Derrick Gulf Service of Idalou, Anton American Legion, Yellow Cab, Ropesville, Levelland, Ray's grocery, Plains Gassers of Shallowater, Johnson grocery, Crawford Electric and Earth Lions club. Officials expect at least 24 cage groups to enter the meet before the deadline.

Trophies will be awarded to the first three place winners and other trophies are slated for the all-tournament selections and members of the top two fives. The championship team will be sent to the state TAAF tournament at Port Arthur March 12-13.

Each team is allowed only 10 players in the single elimination tourney, Barrett reported, and the complete roster must be handed to the tournament director when the team plays its first game.

Sundown Wins Play-Off From Abernathy, 48-44

Roughnecks Annex Second Place In South Zone; Go To District Meet

The Ethridge brothers, John and Doug, teamed up again Tuesday night, and with a lot of help from their three Sundown teammates, turned back the Antelopes of Abernathy high, 48-44, in the "sugar" game of their District 4-A south zone series.

The triumph gave the Sundown Roughnecks second place in the south one, and a trip to the District 4-A tournament.

The defeat automatically picked Abernathy as the site of the district tournament this weekend.

1,500 See Game

Sundown and Abernathy finished their zone schedule deadlocked for second place with three losses each.

The game, played in Texas Tech gym before approximately 1,500 rabid fans, was fast, and furious in spots, from the outset.

Both John and Doug Ethridge were particularly uncanny in their floor play, and were very damaging, indeed, to the Antelope attack under the baskets in their rebound work.

Sharpshooting, mesh-swishing, Billy Preston of the Antelopes was the high point man, and the shooting stylist, of the game with 19 points, but his teammate, Shuey, and John Ethridge were close behind with 17 each.

That seemed to be the trouble with Abernathy's attack—two men carried all the scoring load. The three other starters actually scored but six points between them. A substitute sank the other field goal.

But with Sundown it was different. They all shot, and they all scored. Doug Ethridge wasn't so idle in the goaling, either. He swished the meshes for four from the field, and tossed in four more from the foul line.

Sundown Opens Up

Abernathy got away to an early lead with Preston and Shuey sinking quick field goals. Midway of the first period Sundown tied it at 7-7, and Preston sacked one from far out to make it 9-7 as the period ended.

Sundown got its offensive clicking in the second period, and held a 24-16 advantage at the half.

The Roughnecks kept their eight point lead pretty well intact throughout the third quarter, and the score was 40-32 with the close of the period.

In the fourth period the Antelopes whittled the Roughneck lead at one time as low as four points, or 44-40, but Sundown turned on a little more steam and widened the gap.

Roosevelt Girls Win Cage Title

NEW DEAL SCHOOL, Feb. 17 (Special)—Roosevelt High school's sharpshooting girl cagers are the 1948 champions of Lubbock county.

The Roosevelt sextet proved just a bit more adept here tonight in making their gratis tosses from the foul line count, and as a result they edged the New Deal girls, 23-21, to take the county basketball title.

Each team made six field goals apiece, and while New Deal was sinking nine from the free throw line, Roosevelt was meshing 11. All those gratis points were put away by Jones, the Roosevelt forward, who was high scorer of the evening. SOUTH PLAINS SPORTS FRONT

31 Area High Schools To Place Ball Nines Afield This Spring

South Plains baseball fans soon will be hearing the plop of the horse hide into catchers' mitts, and the sharp crack as bats meet spheroids as over 30 area high school teams turn to the diamond to continue Interscholastic league competition.

For South Plains schools this spring are going back into baseball with a bang.

Baseball, under the University Interscholastic league, this year goes only to a district play-off, but the League is hopeful the program will be expanded so that a state championship can be determined in Big City, Class AA, A and B.

March 1 has been set as the deadline for high schools to enter the baseball campaign in their respective classes and districts.

The League reports to date that 31 South Plains Class A and Class B schools have filed intentions of entering nines in their district play.

Organized baseball always welcomes sharp high school baseball play because it uncovers schoolboy stars and gives them the opportunity to start the climb toward big time ball.

In Districts 3-A and 4-A, roughly embracing the South Plains area, 15 teams have signed for baseball.

In 3-A Crosbyton, Floydada, Lockney, Matador, Paducah, Ralls and Spur will have teams.

District 4-A teams grooming baseball nines are: Levelland, Morton, Meadeshoe, Post, Slaton, Sudan, Sundown and Tahoka.

Anton, Bovina, Hale Center, Kress, Nazareth, Smyer, Petersburg, Union and Whitharral of District 5-B will have baseball on the sports calendar this spring.

Cooper, Frenship, Lorenzo, New Deal, Roosevelt, Ropesville and Shallowater are also scheduled to compete in District 6-B.

The Interscholastic league reported from Austin that 556 schools in the state had announced intentions of puttingl baseball teams afield. Of that number there are 19 City Conference schools; 75 AA; 160 A and 302 B schools.

The two of three falls semi-final event pairs Salvador Flores of Mexico City and Karl Gray, Milwaukee veteran. Flores has defeated his last two opponents and will bid for a main event spot at the local arena. Gray, a tough veteran, should provide a major test for Flores.

The Mad Russian, Leon Kirilenko, will return to the Lubbock arena in the preliminary go against another well-known grappler, rowdy Pat O'Dowdy. The wrestlers are two of the most colorful figures in the grunt-and-groan circuits and are rated as tops in the crowd-pleasing department. The bout promises plenty of excitement for local mat fans.

Louis Is Taking 350 Pounds Of Steak On England Fight Tour

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—A bulging 225-pound Joe Louis sails Thursday for a 26-bout exhibition series in London. Just to be on the safe side, his party of seven will stuff 350 pounds of steak into the Queen Mary's refrigerator.

This tour is not expected to pare any excess weight off the heavyweight champ's carcass. As soon as he returns in April he'll be off to West Baden, Ind., to start light training for his 25th defense.

The Louis routine will call for a three-a-day turn at the Earls Court which Manager Marshall Miles describes as "a sort of Madison Square garden."

Louis will make 78 appearances but will box only 26 times. What will he do the rest of the time? Just shadow box, jump rope and punch the bag.

Miles and Louis do not know who his ring opponents will be. Could be most anybody except Jersey Joe Walcott. The champ hopes Jersey Joe will sign on the dotted line while he's away, making possible a $2,000,000 return bout in June.

RALLS, Feb. 17 (Special)—Ralls' speedy Jackrabbits combined a smooth-working offense with a stout second half defense to drub Matador, 46-21, here tonight to clinch the cage championship of District 3-A.

Ralls jumped into the lead early in the game and, despite the accurate set shots of the Matadors' S. Giesecke, was never overtaken. The Ralls quint held a slender 23-17 margin at halftime, but used a stout man-to-man defense to hold the visitors to four free shots in the second half.

Carter Page and Ernest Gilbert of the Ralls five grabbed individual scoring honors for the tussle, tallying 14 points, while Giesecke topped the losers with 10 points.

Attempted Arson Charge Is Filed

A negro woman, Jackie Leola Carroll, 34, has been charged with attempted arson, the district attorney's office announced Tuesday, in connection with a fire at a residence owned by Calvin Quigley, negro.

In the complaint Quigley accused the woman of setting fire Sunday to papers in his house located at 1819 East Ave. B. Firemen extinguished the fire about 6:30 p. m., they said.

The complaint was prepared by assistant district attorney E. G. Pharr.

The woman is being held in city jail on another charge, vagrancy by prostitution. She is charged in connection with police arrests of three white men who were charged with associating with prostitutes.

Held In Jail

Another negro woman, Lucille Lee, 20, was charged Tuesday with aggravated assault on April Daniel, negro, who was the complaintant. She was being held in county jail in lieu of bond which was set at $500 by Judge Walter Davies.

Man Is Treated

Police said they were investigating further the case of O. B. Brown, who was rushed to Lubbock Memorial hospital at 10:20 p. m. Monday after he had been beaten.

A doctor at the hospital found that one eye had been injured. He did not remain in the hospital.

Police reports did not disclose immediately who the assailant was, but quoted Brown as saying he did not wish to prosecute.

Another man was treated at the hospital in connection with the case, hospital official said. The alleged altercation was on Temple Ave.

In another altercation, a negro woman suffered cuts and bruises after her husband had allegedly beat her and dragged her a half block down a street. She was also treated at Lubbock Memorial hospital.

She Emma Jean Williams, filed an aggravated assault complaint against the man, Jesse Williams, County Attorney John Steele said.

Judgments Are Filed

Several judgments were filed by County Judge Walter Davies. B. T. Glenn, 28, of Roaring Springs, was fined $75 and court costs on a drunk driving charge. Charles W. Graves pleaded innocent of aggravated assault on Elza N. Holding, and bond of $500 returnable March 9 was set. Mrs. J. L. Ward pleaded guilty of check law violation, and a fine of $1 and court costs were assessed. Richard V. Crow was fined $1 and costs on a similar complaint, as was W. V. McCown, officials said.

The sheriff's department said Basilio Jaramillo, a Mexican of 226 Ave. K, charged that someone stole a barrel of kerosene from his residence.

Theft of an $85 radio from the car of L. C. Tipton of Doak hall, Texas Tech, was reported to police.

A $65 suit was stolen from J. D. Massie of 1220 Tenth.

A bike valued at $35 was reported stolen from Charles Lackey of 2316 Twenty-ninth.

A lady's gray suede purse containing a small amount of money and personal papers was stolen from Mrs. C. E. McClarty of Anton last night, police records showed. The purse was taken from a car parked in front of a residence at 2017 Fourteenth street.

Motivated by Idealism

"I can no longer remain a citizen of the U. S. A. or of any nation."

Military government officials said Noel is now employed by a German construction firm at Kassel and is living on German rations.

Noel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Martyn Noel of Baltusrol Road, Summit, N. J. His father is a chemical engineer with Standard Oil company's Bayway refineries at Elizabeth, N. J.

In Stoneham, Mass., Mrs. Noel said tonight that her son wrote his intention in a recent letter. She said:

"His action is motivated by intense idealism and not by any particular affection for Germany or its people. In fact he is much more attached to France where he lived for a time as a child."

Price Control

Chairman Wolcott predicted rent controls will be continued eventually for "at least a year in some form."

These were other developments on the economic front: 1. The Senate Banking committee voted to continue government controls through June, 1949, on tin, fats, oils and certain other scarce commodities. The House Banking committee voted only a month's extension — to provide a waiting period to study recent price changes. 2. Two grain exchange officials oposed a bill to permit the government to fix the amount of down payment required for commodity markets trading. But a spokesman for the National Grange urged Congress to curb "excessive gambling in grain and other food commodities."

They appeared before the Senate Agriculture committee whose hearings are part of a broad congressional inquiry into market operations and speculation.

Bronx Election

double standard foreign policy." He told his audience it "proves that the so-called third party can become the first party in 1948."

First reaction came from Rep. Kirwan of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee. Kirwan conceded that the showing of the Wallace candidate was "surprising," but he bore down heavily on the small Republican vote. He said he was "astonished" by the "absolute disappearance of the Republican party in the district."

Divided Vote Seen

Other Democrats said they were "puzzled" over the New York result.

They expressed concern privately lest it give a push to Wallace efforts in November in other New York City districts. A sharply divided vote there could easily lose New York's 47 electoral votes for the Truman ticket, in the opinion of some party leaders.

The anti-Wallace Democrats, first of all, will be watching to see if the American Labor party's victory in the Bronx has any psychological repercussions Thursday in Minnesota where the Wallace-Truman forces came to grips in a meeting of the state central committee of the Democratic-Farmer Labor party.

Strength Is Question

This group, composed of 287 members, meets to discuss plans for the party's state convention, which names delegates to the Democratic national convention.

Pro-Truman strength in the committee has been estimated by Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis at 85 per cent, with the remainder lining up with Elmer Benson, a Wallace leader.

But private reports reaching Democratic party leaders in Washington placed the division at only around 55 per cent for the President and 45 per cent for Wallace.

Demo Wins In Virginia

Another congressional election Tuesday, in Virginia, was won by Watkins M. Abbitt, Democrat. Abbitt was formerly commonwealth's attorney of Appomattox county, State Senator Morton G. Goode, another Democrat, ran second.

Robert W. Arnold, a third Democrat, and Robert Cocks, Republican were far back.

The election, in the fourth district, was to name a successor for the late veteran Democrat, Pat Drewry.

Nebraska Republicans and Democrats gave a further trial to their pre-primary convention system. They met in separate conventions to endorse candidates for the Senate, House, and major state officers who will run in an April 13 primary.

The New York balloting was in a normally Democratic district to elect a successor to Rep. Benjamin Rabin (D), who resigned to become a state supreme court justice.

Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Democratic leader and national committeeman, campaigned for Propper, as did Mayor William O'Dwyer and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Parties Attacked

Nebraska's pre-primary conventions determine the order in which candidates' names appear on the primary ballot. This gives those allotted first and second place on the ballot an advantage.

The system was tried out first in 1946. All candidates who won first place endorsement won in the primary.

In Washington, Rep. Brown (R-Ohio), campaign manager for Senator Taft (R-Ohio), issued a statement saying reports from the field show increasing sentiment for Taft "as the strongest contender for the (Republican presidential) nomination."

South Carolina's six Democratic congressmen adopted a resolution asserting that Democratic and Republican party leaders are urging "civil rights" proposals now in a "brazen appeal for votes from certain minority groups in the north."

They said they will "oppose with every legitimate means at our command all such unsound, unwarranted, and unconstitutional legislation." They mentioned specifically "so-called anti-lynching, anti-poll tax, anti-segregation, and fair employment practices laws."

White-Haired Lady From Virginia Is Busy Labor 'Boss'

DALLAS, Feb. 17 (AP)—A labor union troubleshooter, a white-haired little lady from one of the first families of Virginia, arrived here today for conferences with Texas CIO organizers.

Lucy Randolph Mason, 65, CIO Southern public relations representative, pulled into Dallas in her dusty coupe which has carried her over 60,000 miles in the South during the past 10 years.

Since 1937, "Miss Lucy" has plunged into many of the CIO's toughest organizational struggles.

And she admits that she can cool down rabid anti-labor factions.

"If I had been a man," she said in an interview here, "I would have become a minister."

Presence Pacifying

Instead, she devotes her attention to the cause of the working people, "helping organizers organize."

"In many instances," she said, "our organizers run into real trouble. Hot-headed authorities and armed mobs have, on many occasions, threatened to injure or kill our organizers.

"Headquarters immediately sends me to the scene. I then march right up to the enemy's camp, face them in person and ask for their leaders."

When asked if her presence cools down hot tempers, she smiled and said:

"After all, who would hurt a little, white-haired old woman."

Templeton Concert

ment of one of the Italian violinist's works. It continued with such widely varied numbers as "Tea for Two" with the verse and chorus played simultaneously, "Mary Had a Little Lamb" in both the hill-billy and Havana manner.

Presents Vocal Numbers

The blind artist then contributed some vocal numbers—one of the most amusing being his rendition of "Evening Star" from "Tannhauser", as Al Jolson would probably do it.

His improvising was heard after members of the audience called out five notes on which he based his number.

Four widely varied numbers, including "St. Louis Blues", "The Blue Danube", "Begin the Beguine" and the overture from "William Tell" were combined by Templeton and under his facile fingers attained a semblance of unity and harmony, adequately intermingled with humor.

Symphony Also Praised

After the performance Templeton had high praise for the symphony orchestra. He said, "I am very happy about it. They do a very nice job. It was a pleasure to play with them."

Members of the Lubbock Civic Music association expressed gratitude for the artist's graciousness in consenting to appear this week after a near-blizzard and natural gas shortage postponed it from last week.

Bill Harrod, director of the orchestra, called Templeton's performance one of the most outstanding ever presented here and expressed gratitude to members of the orchestra for the great amount of time they spent in rehearsing for the concert.

Tuesday night he recognized Mrs. James Vickers and Miss Carolyn Cole, who during rehearsals had played Mr. Templeton's part in the piano concerto.

Stanley North, Mr. Templeton's business manager, accompanied the pianist as he entered and left the stage. North's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. North of Friona, were among the audience.

Life On Mars

violet rays from the sun, Dr. Kuiper said.

"But we didn't find it except in infinitesmal quantities."

In a lecture tonight to University of Texas officials and other visitors Dr. Kuiper gave a qualified answer to the important question of what makes up the polar cap of Mars.

Mars Is Cold

He said the indications are at present that the polar cap is water and not dry ice.

Dr. Kuiper explained the importance of this by noting that some quantity of water would have to be present in the atmosphere of Mars if plant life existed.

He commented that while Mars is a "desperately cold place" the temperatures are not so extreme as to prohibit plant life.

Studies To Continue

Studies of Mars will continue at a peak for about two weeks, Dr. Kuiper said.

He said he hoped he might be able to make further comment on Mars about March 1.

Those present for Dr. Kuiper's lecture included Dudley K. Woodward, jr., chairman of the University of Texas board of regents, and President T. S. Painter of the university. They also viewed Saturn and the moon through the telescope.

The observatory, operated jointly by the University of Texas and the University of Chicago, is located in mountains of far West Texas.

Dr. Kuiper said that scientists can make definite pronouncements only after very careful work, and that the present phase of the Mars program is just one-half complete.

He said the observatory had collected hundreds of photographs and infra-red records which must be properly worked out.

Interesting Things Learned

A "good telescope in a good climate" shows some interesting things about Mars," says Dr. Kuiper. Some of them are:

White clouds float occasionally in its atmosphere, storms of yellow dust blow over wide areas.

Mars has polar caps that grow during its very cold winter and shrink in the summer. Green areas show up on the surface of the planet. They grow in size and become greener after the polar cap melts.

The green areas are surrounded by what are probably wide, reddish desert wastes.

There are no oceans or lakes.

Here are some things about Mars learned by other techniques:

Such poison gases as methane and ammonia, found in the atmosphere of other planets, are absent on Mars.

The oxygen content of its atmosphere is too slight to show on photographic plates, but carbon dioxide is found in about the same amount the Earth has.

The daytime temperature at the equator is just above freezing, the night temperature is probably around 80 below.

Missing Seamen

first rescue boat reached the scene 30 minutes after the accident.

A French submarine chaser towed to the Midway today the overturned launch and a rescue boat that got entangled with it. Neither boat was damaged extensively.

Naval and police authorities said no bodies were found.

The Midway was scheduled to leave today for Naples. The accident caused a 24-hour delay in its departure. The carrier is on a Mediterranean cruise.

The Navy announced tonight the names of seven of the eight men missing. The eighth man, a Marine, will be identified after notification of next of kin, Navy officials said.

None of those identified were from either Texas, New Mexico or Louisiana.

Oil Export Slash

mactic step in the department's effort to cope with vast oil demands growing out of an almost nationwide cold spell.

A week ago all shipments were halted from the east coast, the worst shortage area. That order did not block shipments from west coast and gulf ports, however.

The new action bars licenses for shipment from any port. When it is lifted Friday morning, the spokesman said, the east coast embargo will remain in force. It is due to run to March 31.

Lions Initiate 25 Persons Into Club At Annual Dinner

Twenty-five new members were initiated into the Lions club at an annual stag dinner at the Ford Implement company, 1902 Ave. C, Tuesday night.

A chicken barbecue was served, with Raymond Burford in charge of food arrangements.

Dr. Fred Harbaugh was in charge of the initiation ceremony, during which new members were put through a series of stunts climaxed by meeting the "queen" of the Lions club.

Attendance at the event was 150.

To Present Show

At a noon luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Hilton hotel, a group of Lions club members from Ruidoso, N. M., including Lloyd P. Bloodworth, who was introduced as "the next governor of New Mexico," were guests.

The group, representing the Ruidoso club, worked out a schedule for the local club to present its minstrel show in the New Mexico city on April 3.

In the party besides Bloodworth were Carmon Phillips, Lions president; Harry Cornelius, W. D. Crosby, and Albert Vaughn.

Bloodworth spoke briefly on club objectives, Phillips sang and was accompanied by Roy Bass.

Detective Capt. Pat Davidson of the Lubbock police department spoke after having been introduced by Waggoner Carr as part of observance of national crime prevention week.

Club President J. W. Davis presided, and invocation was by Bob Garner.

Spur Suspect To Go Before Dickens Grand Jury Thursday

SPUR, Feb. 17 (AP)—Sheriff C. C. Kimmell said here tonight that Clarence Weldon Green, 25, charged with armed robbery, would go before the Dickens county grand jury at Dickens Thursday.

Green, held in the county jail there without bond, is accused in the $25 robbery Sunday of a Sweetwater taxicab driver, Virgil Heath.

Sheriff Kimmell said Green, a Spur day laborer, was arrested early Monday at Fort Worth after police were notified Sunday night that H. P. Berry, 57, a Spur contractor, was reported abducted from his home by an armed man.

The sheriff said that Berry was let out of his own car late Sunday night at Wichita Falls. "No kidnapping charges have been filed yet," Kimmell said. Berry reported he was abducted and robbed of between $14 and $18. (At El Paso, it was reported Green would be questioned tomorrow at Dickens by Texas Rangers enroute to El Paso to investigate the robbery-slaying there last week of two advertising men).

Market Slump

But wholesale pork prices were slightly higher in New York and as much as $1 a hundred pounds higher in Chicago. Cattle prices were generally somewhat higher, but wholesale beef was as much as $1 a hundred pounds lower in New York and $1 to $2 lower in Chicago.

Cotton for future delivery closed $1.55 to $2.30 a bale lower in New York. Cotton also sagged $2 to $2.25 a bale lower in New Orleans.

Whole butter prices jumped 3 to 4 cents a pound at New York and 1½ to 4 cents a pound in Chicago.

In Washington, Senator Tobey (R-NH) said the market price break probably will put off indefinitely action on bills to control high living costs. He expressed the view the peak of high prices has passed.

J. T. Sanders, legislative counsel of the National Grange, urged Congress to halt "excessive gambling in grain and other food commodities." He made the recommendation while appearing before the Senate Agriculture committee to endorse a bill giving the government the power to fix margins or down payments on commodity market dealings.

Opposition to government-fixed margins was voiced by Richard F. Uhlmann, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, and R. H. Sturtevant, speaking for the Kansas City Board of Trade. Uhlmann said the present 33 1/3 per cent margin requirements on grain transactions will have to be lowered "in the public interest." The margins were imposed last October at the request of the administration. Sturtevant said speculation was not responsible for high grain prices last fall.

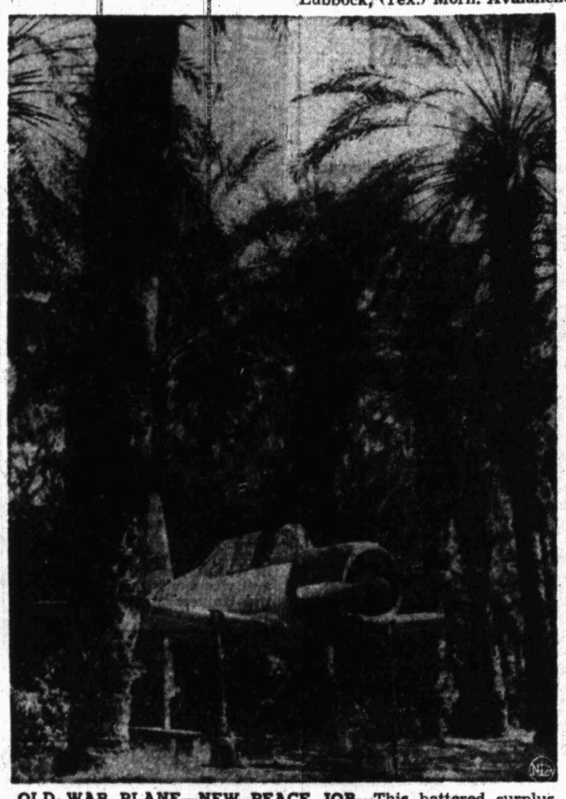

Business Failures Increase

Trade analysts, meanwhile, studied a New York Federal Reserve bank survey on dollar volume of sales in stores in the New York metropolitan area. For the week ended Feb. 14 the dollar volume was only 1 per cent above the same week a yea rearlier Unfavorable weather took part of the blame, but some observers held that consumer resistance to high prices was a factor.

Dun & Bradstreet reported that business failures for the week ended Feb. 12 were 128, highest for any week since January, 1943. This comoared with 97 the previous week, 62 in the like week a year ago, but only about half those in the corresponding 1939 week.

Coincident with the break in commodity prices, buyers for many industrial concerns were reported asking that new contracts carry two-way escalator clauses.

John C. Virden, director of the office of industry cooperation said in Washington that a further slump in food prices might remove farm machinery from the list of industries to be placed under voluntary steel rationing. Some farm equipment makers believe that shaky grain prices may discourage farmers from buying new equipment.

Josiah W. Preston, Former Dallas Newsman, Death Victim

DALLAS, Feb. 17 (AP)—Josiah W. Preston, retired former telegraph editor of The Dallas News, plunged to his death tonight from the eighth floor of the Dallas Athletic Club. He was 79 years old.

Justice of the Peace W. L. Sterrett returned an inquest verdict of suicide.

Preston had lived at the athletic club many years.

A native of Chicago, Preston was one of those newspapermen whose zest for the strange and new had carried him over most of the United States and much of the world.

In 1925 Preston walked into the Dallas News city room, asked for a tryout, and did such a creditable job of editing that he remained there until his retirement.

He filled practically every editorial chair on the Dallas News copy desk, ill health forced him to retire about five years ago.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Robert McHugh, and two grandchildren, all of Altadena, Calif.

Special Session

day, did not demand a special session.

Legislative accountant Preston E. Hutchinson is direct administrator for the committee of the rural-aid budget. Records of his office show schools receiving equalization (rural) aid number nearly 3,900. There are about 21,000 rural aid teachers affected.

Rural aid schools are operating upon budgets set up last fall "after they had been assured they would receive definite amounts of assistance from the state," Tennyson said the delegation told the governor.

A liberalization of the equalization bill by the last legislature resulted in an additional 259 schools qualifying as rural-aid schools for the current school year. This was a far greater number than anticipated by the legislature. Hence the present shortage of funds.

Deficit Is Seen

Miss Emma Mae Brotze, Marshall, president of the 40,000-member state teachers association, said if Jester would call a special session any time before Aug. 31 it would assure equalization schools of completing their full terms. (Aug. 31 is the end of the state's fiscal year. An emergency appropriation before Sept. 1 could be applied to current school expenses).

Tennyson said the deficit for the next school year, 1948-49, will be $6,000,000. That, coupled with the current shortage, would require a total emergency appropriation of at least $9,000,000 to carry the schools through the biennium.

Dallas Officials Assail CAB For Action On Midway Airport

DALLAS, Feb. 17 (AP)—The Dallas City council today adopted a resolution which charged that the Civil Aeronautics administration had ignored the interests of the majority of air service users in this area.

The council authorized City Manager Roderic B. Thomas to ask a full hearing before the CAA.

It also authorized him to seek a congressional investigation into the proposed expenditure of federal funds for development of the Midway airport between Fort Worth and Dallas.

Under the CAA plan, Midway airport, near Arlington, would become the terminal for Dallas-Fort Worth air service.

The city manager also was empowered to seek a congrressional probe of expenditures which already have been made at Midway.

Thomas said he would seek action immediately.

The legislator had suffered from a cold since coming from Washington to attend a Lincoln day dinner in Louisville, but he had not been seriously sick. He had decided to visit his home here before returning to the capital.

Thompson Says State Will Boost Oil Production If Possible

AUSTIN, Feb. 17 (U.P.)—Chairman Ernest O. Thompson of the railroad commission said today that if Texas fields can produce more oil without injury their production will be stepped up.

"Texas is furnishing the oil and is doing it without causing harm to the wells," said Thompson. He reported Texas production now totals 2,432,825 barrels a day of crude oil.

Meeting Set Today

Oilmen will come to Austin tomorrow for a state-wide oil proration hearing, before the commission sets the March allowable.

Thompson pointed out that present production is 72,825 barrels per day above the U. S. Bureau of Mines' official estimate of market demand for Texas oil, which was pegged at 2,360,000 barrels.

And Texas oilmen will have a chance in April at hearings before the commission to prove that they can produce more oil without harm to the fields.

The Railroad commission at its inquiry will take engineering testimony on the most efficient rate of production for each field, and boost the MER of those which can produce more without harm.

More Fields Opened

"That is the law," Thompson said. "It has worked well; every demand for oil has been met to date. More oil fields are being discovered all the time and more wells are being drilled in the old fields as fast as pipe is available."

Thompson reported that the weighted average bottomhole pressure for the East Texas field as of Feb. 1 was 1,014 pounds per square inch, compared to the pressure on Jan. 1 of 1,011 pounds.

Consolidation Of Schools At Idalou, Liberty Approved

Unanimous approval of formal consolidation of grade schools of Idalou and Liberty was given by voters in the two districts Saturday, Roy Boyd, county superintendent, announced after check of ballots.

The vote was light, only three marking ballots at Idalou and 13 at Liberty, all favoring the consolidation. The two high schools had been consolidated since 1936.

The Saturday election involved only grade schools, which by mutual agreement had been jointly operated at Idalou for some time, and the election actually was only a formality to confirm to legal requirements, Boyd said.

MEXICAN FIRM PLANS PROBE

Four Persons Are Charged In Smuggling Of Racing Tickets

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 17 (AP) — Four persons have been charged here with smuggling 768,000 Mexican sweepstake tickets valued at $1,285,000 into the United States.

Charged before U. S. Commissioner P. A. Lockhart were Earl Majors of San Antonio; Charles E. Mueller of Hollywood, Calif.; Octiviano Luna and Trinidad Benavides.

Bonds Are Set

Luna and Benavides were described as drivers of the two trucks which hauled the 64,000 books of tickets into the United States. They were held under $250 bond each. Mueller was placed under a $5,000 bond and Majors under $2,500 bond.

The tickets were for a race scheduled to be run in Mexico City May 9, officials said.

In Mexico City, Publicidad Organizada said today it would begin an "immediate investigation" into the smuggling of sweepstakes tickets into the United States.

Connection Is Denied

This firm which handles publicity for Mexico City's Hipodromo de La Americas race frack said it is preparing tickets for the first sweepstakes to be held in connection with the 125,000-peso ($25,000) "Handicap de Las Americas," May 9.

Officials of the Hipodromo de Las Americas said the track had nothing to do with the sweepstakes.

The firm said it had no immediate information on the reported sale of 768,000 Mexican sweepstake tickets valued at $1,285,000 to Earl Majors of San Antonio, Tex., and Charles E. Mueller of Hollywood, Calif. The two men were arrested Sunday by U. S. customs agents on charges of smuggling the books into the U. S.

Local Men Honored For Work With Boys

Highlight of the annual meeting and banquet of the South Plains council of Boy Scouts, held Monday evening at Hilton hotel, was the presentation to Dr. C. C. Schmidt and W. A. Hood of Silver Beaver awards for outstanding service to boyhood, the highest awards in scout work.

Council Commissioner K. N. Clapp, in presenting the awards, cited the excellent work which both men have done in scouting during the ten years they have been active in such work in Lubbock.

Hood, who has served as scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop No. 5 of the First Christian church during the last decade, has not only built up an impressive record of scouting in the troop but has rendered great service to South Plains scouting through his teaching of first aid.

Dr. Schmidt, who has worked in the field of Cub scouting during the ten year period, was also congratulated by Clapp on his work with the Junior Optimist Boys through his connections with the Lubbock Optimist club.

The wives of the two honored men were presented with boquets of American Beauty roses as the entire council joined in congratulating Schmidt and Hood for their outstanding service to scouting on the South Plains.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 17 (U.P.)—A check for $204 from enlisted men at Kindley air base in Berumda today assured room and board for some time to come for the two daughters of disabled veteran Thomas F. Ward.

The money was cabled to Judge Drew Clifton, American Legion service officer, by members of the 373rd Weather Reconnaisance squadron who saw a newspaper picture and story describing how Ward offered to give his daughters for adoption because he could not support them.

Public Support For Changes In Taft-Hartley Law Shows Decline

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 17—Voters today are considerably less sympathetic with organized labor's campaign to repeal or revise the Taft-Hartley Labor Relations Act than they were when the controversial law took effect a half-year ago.

Actually, Institute surveys conducted from time to time in the last six months show a steady decline in the number of voters supporting the official stand of labor union leaders on the act.

GALLUP

Today less than 40 per cent of voters who have heard or read about the act favor revision or outright repeal, contrasted with 53 per cent just after Congress overrode President Truman's veto last summer.

Representative voters from coast to coast were questioned as follows:

"Have you read or heard about the Taft-Hartley Labor Law which deals with labor unions?"

A total of 72 per cent in the latest survey said they had heard or read about the act, while 28 per cent said they had not. These are exactly the same proportions revealed in a September poll.

Those who had heard or read about it were then asked:

"Do you think the Taft-Hartley law should be revised, repealed, or left unchanged?"

The vote today, compared to previous polls in September and August of last year, follows:

	Today	Sept. 1947	Aug. 1947
Revised	25%	27%	32%
Repealed	13	18	21
	38%	45%	53%
Left unchanged	36	28	22
No opinion	26	27	25

Public support for organized labor's viewpoint appears even less strong than these figures indicate, when the ideas of those who favor revision are analyzed. Those who suggest pro-labor revisions only slightly outnumber those who suggest tighter restrictions on unions. In the current survey those voting for revision of the Act were asked:

"How should it be revised?"

Their answer:

27%—make it less hard on labor, return rights to labor
4%—restore closed shops
2%—restore political campaign privileges of unions
1%—remove non-Communist certification
3%—labor should have right to refuse work, right to strike (which the act does not prohibit)

37%—Total pro-labor revisions
34%—make act stricter, put teeth in it
9%—miscellaneous
22%—don't know

102%

(*Adds to more than 100% since some gave more than one answer).

Even among voters unfamiliar with the Taft-Hartley Act the prevailing sentiment is that the nation's present labor regulations do not restrict unions too harshly.

Voters in today's study who had not heard about the act were asked:

"As things stand today, do you think the laws governing labor unions are too strict, or not strict enough?"

Their answers:

Too strict	14%
About right	26
Not strict enough	31
No opinion	29

With labor unions themselves injecting the Taft-Hartley act into the political arena, the legislation will most likely be an important presidential campaign issue. Only last week President Truman declared he has not changed his mind about the act which he vigorously vetoed.

A turnabout among Democratic voters since September gives a new twist to major party attitudes on the issue. Whereas Republicans vote almost the same way they did last fall, Democrats favoring repeal or revision have declined markedly so there now is little difference between them and GOP voters.

This is shown in the following table:

TODAY	Democratic voters	Republican voters
Revised	22%	23%
Repealed	12	10
	34%	33%
Left unchanged	41	38
No opinion	25	29

SEPTEMBER, 1947	Democratic voters	Republican voters
Revised	29%	24%
Repealed	26	9
	55%	33%
No opinion	28	25

However, political strategists must also consider the views of independent voters who not necessarily endorse the platforms of any organized party. These people, comprising roughly twenty per cent of the voting population, favor repeal or revision of the act by almost two-to-one.

INDEPENDENT VOTERS TODAY
Revise	31%
Repeal	18

Lad's Hair Clipped By Wheel Of Train

HOUSTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—A 10-year-old Houston boy is without part of his hair today following his last-second rescue from the path of a moving Southern Pacific switch engine.

The top of Valentine Coronado's hair was clipped from his head by a wheel of the engine as Herman H. Ward, 42, electrical repair shop operator, completed the rescue.

Ward told police he had seen the journal box of the backing engine hit the boy and knock him under the locomotive, his head falling on a rail between the front and the driving wheels.

Ward, who had been standing at the side of the track waiting for the engine to pass, said "I knew I had a split second or the boy would be dead. I reached over and grabbed him by the heels."

Part of the locomotive struck Ward and knocked him down but he held his grasp on the boy's heel and completed the rescue.

Valentine was treated at a local hospital for a cut behind the left ear.

Old Age Pensions To Be Hiked One Dollar In March Payments

AUSTIN, Feb. 17 (U.P.)—Old age pensions and needy blind grants will be boosted $1 in March payments, the Texas department of public welfare announced today.

The increase will show on checks of all except those already receiving the maximum of $45, the department said.

Department officials said the raise was made available because $15,000,000 has been spent in the first six months of the fiscal year from the total annual appropriation of $31,000,000.

This leaves $16,000,000 for the remainder of the year, some $500,000 above normal after the first half of the fiscal year. With federal matching the surplus amounts to about $1,000,000.

A department spokesman said he hoped the $1 boost could be maintained for "the next few months." Some 200,000 persons are listed on old age pension rolls.

However, grants for needy children have been cut 12 per cent, the department said, because of a shortage of funds. The Legislature specifies the amount available for needy children and a surplus cannot be transferred to it, the department said.

Supply Of Water On High Plains Is Sufficient

Expert Says Reports Of Water Shortages In Area Unfounded

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

Recent rumors of "serious" water shortages on the High Plains were branded as being without basis of fact at a meeting in the Lubbock hotel Tuesday.

About 50 Lubbock civic leaders were assured that neither this city nor any other community of this region has reason to fear that wells will fail to produce adequate water supplies in the "foreseeable future."

This assurance came from W. L. Broadhurst, of Austin, chief of the ground water division in Texas of the U. S. Geological Survey and one of the nation's foremost authorities on underground water resources.

Wells Show Increase

He was less encouraging as to the outlook for irrigation wells. In response to questions, he said that depletion of underground supplies may become apparent within about five years if developments continue at the pace of the past two years.

In Lubbock county, he said, available records show only 100 irrigation wells existed in 1937, compared with 590 in 1945 and 1,234 in November, 1947.

But he also said that, despite the increase of 644 wells in Lubbock county in two years water levels in certain wells selected for tests did not show much change from measurements of 10 years previously. In some, the levels actually were higher than in 1937.

In the High Plains as a whole, which are bounded on the north by the Canadian river, on the west by the Pecos river and the east and south by the edge of the Caprock, the number of irrigation wells increased from about 4,300 in 1945 to 7,500 in 1947, he said.

Suggests Partial Answer

A partial answer to the irrigation problem, he suggested, may be a better spacing of wells and more efficient use of the water produced.

The problem for towns and cities was described as different from that of irrigation because communities seeking domestic water supplies can reach out, when necessary, to underground water sands in areas not susceptible to irrigated farming.

Broadhurst's report both as to prospects for domestic and irrigation uses was declared by S. L. Forrest, chairman of the city water resources board, who presided, to be a complete refutation of misinformation about High Plains water supplies which has been circulated recently.

Was Limited To City

It was because of this misinformation, he said, that Broadhurst was invited to Lubbock for the conference with members of the water resources board, the city commission, other city officials, directors of the chamber

Disease Killing Ducks In Area

A disease which has reached epidemic proportions is taking a heavy toll of migratory water fowl in the Muleshoe National Wildlife refuge of southern Bailey county and in Bull lake in southwestern Lamb county, L. J. Dugger, United States game management agent for the West Texas district, announced Tuesday night.

An estimated 2,000 ducks which had died from the disease were collected for disposal Tuesday by attendants at the Muleshoe refuge. Dugger and volunteers from the Army, Navy and Marine Corps recruiting offices expect to find about the same number or more dead ducks at Bull lake today, where they are collecting the bodies of the birds to prevent further contamination.

Co-Operation Is Asked

The disease, scientifically known as pasturellosis and commonly called fowl cholera, is the same disease which kills large numbers of domestic chickens every year. Like influenza in humans, pasturellosis is a virus disease which flourishes in cold weather, warmth and sunshine doing a great deal to kill the organisms which cause it. The recent cold weather on the South Plains may have been indirectly responsible for the present epidemic among the water fowl, the disease appearing about two weeks ago.

Direct cause of the disease among the ducks, Dugger believes, is the bodies of domestic fowls which have died from the virus and been thrown into bar ditches and gullies which feed water into Bull lake and the lakes in the Muleshoe refuge. He strongly urged the co-operation of farmers and others in disposing of diseased chickens in such a way that the wild fowl will not be contaminated further.

SMALL DOG RIDES WITH MEN WHEN FIRE ALARM SOUNDS

Mascot Keeps Firemen On Beam

Penny, the mascot of Central Fire station and envy of all the kids who see her running to fires, is a rat terrier about seven inches tall and weighing somewhat more than a bag of popcorn—but don't discount her ability.

Penny is a rat terrier about seven inches tall and weighing somewhat more than a bag of popcorn. But don't discount her ability.

When the horn goes off in the fire station, indicating there is a fire run to be made, she comes alive.

Hurries Them Along

Barking furiously, she rushes from one fireman to another, nipping at them and pulling at their clothing—hurrying them to their trucks.

Once the last man is on his piece of rolling equipment, Penny rushes to the chief's car or into the cab of one of the Mack pumpers where she can see all that goes on, and away she goes—just like a regular member of the department.

Matter of fact, she's come to be quite a "nuisance," the firemen say.

They're All Important

She's bitten several members of the department because they didn't get out of bed and go to fires.

She can't understand that a fence or a trash fire is not important enough to run to with every fireman and ever piece of Central's equipment.

And it's come to the point where the last fireman down the pole on fire runs is more than likely to get his skin creased.

Last Man Gets Bit

"It's a case of last man into the porthole gets bit," said Arthur Damron, who exhibited a bite between the shoulders suffered two nights ago.

"They all beat me to the pole," he said, "and just as I jumped into the porthole and started down she bit blood out of me just as my shoulders came down to floor level!"

The little dog has preempted a place in any bed she chooses in the firemen's dormitory on the second floor.

All the firemen feed her candy—too much candy—or "pick on her." Those she favors, she has a habit of sleeping with. Her favors change from one to another, just as she runs to fires in one piece of equipment one time and another the next.

Curls Up On Coat

She usually curls up on a bunker coat Chief W. E. Twitty spreads for her on an easy chair in his separate bedroom-office suite.

If it gets cold, however, she'll jump up on the foot of someone's bed. Recently, when there was a gas holiday and the thermometer slumped far into the low register, the chief felt a tug at his covers. Penny, deciding it was too chilly on the chief's bed, slipped in beside him—under the blankets.

She may be able to make the firemen hop around and carry her in their arms when they slide down the shiny brass poles, but she has proven totally ineffective against stray cats that wander into the station.

Never Put One Out

She bows up and takes after them, but she has never put one out of the station yet.

Rather, one of them—a smirking old tomcat who was so gaunt he couldn't walk without staggering—"put her up stairs, instead."

And, apparently not liking the idea of another cat's watching a new Mack pumper being tested Monday afternoon, she tied into her with virtually the same result.

"We had to pull her off," assistant Chief Glenn Smith said.

At that. Capt. Mark Long said, she apparently has "passed on a strong heritage" to her only litter, born about a year ago.

Eats Nuts And Bolts

A son of hers, at Nineteenth street station, began eating nuts and bolts.

Two of the firemen were working on a piece of equipment. A half-inch nut fell on the floor. They couldn't find it, high or low.

"You don't suppose . . .?" one of them asked.

"Of course not—that pup couldn't swallow it," the other said.

The other thoughtfully dropped

U.S. Mayors Urged To Plan Defense Against Atom War

Methods To Cope With Bombings In Possible New Conflict Suggested

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 17—How American cities should prepare to cope with atomic bombing was outlined today by Maj. Gen. Harold R. Bull, chairman of the Army's civil defense board.

Bull emphasized to the U. S. Conference of Mayors that he did not necessarily believe another war was "inevitable." However, he asserted that in the event of a new war there must be more than the "gentlemen's agreement" on civilian defense between city, state and federal governments that prevailed in World War II.

Defense Director Asked

This is what he urged each mayor to do:

Designate a civil defense director.

Assign the control of order to police and fire-fighting to "a greatly augmented fire department."

Local departments of public works should be schooled in debris clearance, demolition and "heavy" rescue work, and repairing of utilities and communications.

Organized medical care units in handling wounded. New "radiological safety" units might be formed.

Control Center Urged

Municipal welfare units should be prepared for the task of effective evacuation and care and feeding of the homeless.

Use open areas and parks and establish "a well organized, well-equipped and secure control center from which control may be exercised under any circumstances."

Bull said that "it appears most logical to me that all large communities should now create or augment and perfect their disaster relief organizations in order to protect their people against the well-known peacetime enemies, such as fire, flood, earthquake, storm, explosion.

CHANGE IN THINKING URGED TO MEET ATOMIC PROBLEMS

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17 (AP)—Atomic Energy commissioner Sumner T. Pike said today human thinking "has been left in the lurch" by atomic energy.

The result, he said, is a big job for the nation's teachers.

"There exists today a condition of international distrust in time of peace that is almost without parallel," Pike told a group of members of the National Education association.

"The need for clear thinking and steady judgment is obvious.

"Those of you who are in educational work know probably better than any other group of com-

FBI Probes GI Housing Record

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—FBI agents are working on complaints from thousands of ex-GI's that they were cheated on veterans housing.

A Justice department official who disclosed this today said reports of chiseling by builders have come in from nearly every part of the country.

The largest number, he said, are from Los Angeles, Baltimore, New York, New Orleans, Miami, Dallas and Chicago.

Morris Verner, compliance officer for the housing expediter, said 26,000 former soldiers have appealed to his division alone.

Violation Cited

Verner said some contractors left a full room out of the houses they built. One man, he said, cut the width of each house in a row by one foot so he could get more houses in a block.

The compliance division is supposed to see that the home builders and sellers live up to regulations in the housing law. Verner said his staff has been swamped.

The Justice department official, who would not permit use of his name, said Attorney General Clark has placed one of his assistants in charge of the investigation. If wilful violations of the rules are turned up, they will be handed to U. S. district attorneys for action.

In some cases, injunction suits may be filed instead of criminal proceedings.

No indictments have been asked so far, the official said.

GAINS SHOWN BY ANIMALS

Results Of Lamb Feeding Setup At Texas Tech Is Announced

The third year of an extensive lamb feeding project being carried on by the animal husbandry department at Texas Technological college has been completed and tentative results announced by R. C. Mowery, professor and head of the department.

The project had a three-fold objective, to determine the relative values of Plainsman and Martin milo for fattening lambs, finding the value of shed shelter during the fattening period and the value of allowing lambs to harvest or "lamb down" Plainsman milo.

The current project was started Oct. 31 with 110 grade Rambouillet lambs and concluded Feb. 14.

Results Are Given

The results, by lot, are as follows: Lot 1 of 20 lambs under shelter, with an initial weight of 75.6 pounds per lamb, maintained an average daily gain of .305 pounds per lamb and attained an average final weight of 102.65 pounds. This lot was fed on Martin milo supplemented with alfalfa and cotton seed meal. Average daily consumption of feed was 1.22 pounds of milo, 1.36 pounds of cottonseed meal, 1.36 pounds of alfalfa and .23 ounces of salt. The consumption of all types of feed was 891.28 pounds per 100 pound gain in weight at an average cost of $21.76 per 100 pounds.

Lot 2, 20 lambs under shelter. The initial average weight was 69.8 pounds and the final weight was 102.89 pounds, with an average daily gain of .312 pounds per lamb. This lot consumed 1.22 pounds of Plainsman milo, 1.36 pounds of cotton seed meal, 1.36 pounds of alfalfa and .24 ounces of salt per lamb per day, for a total of 869.29 pounds of feed for each 100 pounds gain in weight. Cost per 100 pounds gain in weight was $21.27.

On a percentage basis the Plainsman milo excelled Martin milo in rate and economy of gain by 2½ percent.

Gain In Weight

Lot 3, 20 lambs without shelter. Initial weight was 70.68 pounds and the final weight was 103.5 pounds, for an average gain per day of .312 pounds for each lamb. They consumed 1.22 pounds of Plainsman milo, 1.35 pounds of cottonseed meal, 1.35 pounds of alfalfa and .42 ounces of salt per day per lamb for a total of 867.1 pounds of feed for each 100 pounds gain in weight. Cost per 100 pounds gain in weight was $21.21.

The difference in the gains and the feed required for lambs in the open and for lambs under shelter was insignificant.

Lot 4, 50 lambs in a field feed lot on five acres of Plainsman milo with an estimated yield of 1500 pounds of feed per acre. Initial average weight was 69.96 pounds and the final average weight was 98.36 pounds, for an average gain per day of .27 pounds for each lamb. Two lambs died during the first 30 days from over eating. The field was consumed in 105 days. This lot received an average of .86 pounds of alfalfa per head daily in addition to the Plainsman milo. The cost for each 100 pounds gain in weight was estimated at $20.70 with 35 cents per hundred weight being charged off the grain to allow for the cost of harvesting and hauling, had it been fed in the same manner as the other lots.

Through the first 84 days the lambs in the field made the same daily gain as the lambs under shelter but during the last 21 days there were two severe cold spells, with some snow, and the remaining stalks with heads lodged badly. During this period, they failed to gain as rapidly.

The lamb feeding experiments were begun in 1941 and have been carried on during two years prior to the current project. They had been discontinued during the past several years because of feed shortage caused by drouth, Mowery stated.

Solon Will Attempt To Get Medal For Stratford Rancher

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—Rep. Worley (D-Tex) said he would help get a Carnegie medal for a rancher who saved several lives in a Texas Panhandle blizzard last week.

Stories in Texas newspapers telling how Sam Wohlford of Stratford, Texas, bucked a raging snowstorm to rescue four people from a stranded automobile, prompted Worley to write the directors of the Carnegie hero fund commission in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Amarillo Globe-News, Fort Worth Star Telegram and Stratford Star already had informed the Carnegie agency of Wohlford's deed. After referring to this action by the press, Worley added:

"I feel sure . . . that you must agree that this was bravery and heroism far 'beyond the line of duty.'"

WHY THE NOISE?

Trading In Stocks

UNTIL such time as "trading on the boards" becomes illegal, all the hullabaloo about this, that or the other citizen "making a killing" in stock and commodity market transactions is just so much froth and foam.

Worst part about the whole business is that making stock and commodity speculations illegal would weaken the entire business structure of the nation, as we know it.

Definitely, there should be legal bars to government officials and employes trading in the markets. The law should go further, and penalize any trader found guilty of using "inside information" from government sources in his market transactions. But when it comes to making all board transactions illegal, that is something else.

We never heard of E. T. Maynard, of Chicago, until his name bobbed up in the news the other day. But if he made $200,000 trading on the board—or, for that matter, $2,000,000—his transactions were permitted under the law and he did nothing that thousands of other big and little speculators do every day.

If our stock and commodity exchange practices are bad, let them be revamped until they are sound and good. Meanwhile, politicians should stop pilloring private citizens, at least until they are found guilty of illegal operations.

Well-Suited Pair

ANNOUNCEMENT that Mrs. Pauline Kibbe, of Austin, has been named Texas director of the CIO Political Action committee will not be surprising to Lubbockites who heard this young woman speak here while she was secretary of the state Good Neighbor committee. Her appointment to a position with the CIO is a "natural."

Her ideas, as expressed here at least, are much more in line with those of the CIO than they possibly could be with the ideas of any official body in the State of Texas. Her philosophies, as expressed here, would not be embraced by many Texans, although they doubtless are "right down the alley" of the CIO.

Mrs. Kibbe and the CIO should be happy together. We hope they are. And her new connection with the CIO offers all the testimony needed that members of the Texas Good Neighbor commission were right in their feeling that Mrs. Kibbe was not suited to the work of their agency.

No Cheers -- Yet

MANY people doubtless read with the hope that springs eternal the recent prediction of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, of Wisconsin, that Congress will enact a long-range housing bill this year.

He expects, said the senator, the program will call for about 1,500,000 new houses a year until the present critical shortage is relieved. At that pace, the situation undoubtedly would be improved before too long.

But Senator McCarthy should not be disappointed if his forecast fails to touch off hysterical cheering. House-hungry people certainly are interested. Certainly they are hopeful.

But they also are skeptical because of bitter experience. They have been disappointed by optimistic promises and forecasts before. This time, and henceforth, they doubtless will manage to restrain their enthusiasm until they actually can see enough houses to provide real relief.

Down Memory Lane

(From the files of The Lubbock Morning Avalanche of Feb. 25, 1928.)

About 50 old-timers of this area gathered in the Community club room of the Double U building at Post in the annual Old-Timers reunion sponsored by the Post Rotary club. Talks by several old-timers featured the meeting, and music was by the Post Junior Cowboy band. Ollie Weakley made the welcome address. Among old-timers attending, many of them here before counties were organized, were Andy Long of Fort Worth, former Post president; John Slaughter, brother of the late C. C. Slaughter; R. C. Burns, George Boles, Neil Wright, and F. E. Wheelock, all of Lubbock.

Mrs. C. M. Ballenger entertained as a farewell courtesy to Mrs. W. A. Bowen, inviting members of the Wednesday Needle club as guests, along with Mrs. Claude Smith of Chicago, Mrs. M. H. Duncan and Mrs. Hattie O'Hair. Others present included Mesdames O. F. Sensabaugh, C. J. Wagner, A. W. McKee, H. A. Davidson, L. C. Ellis, S. C. Wilson, Jot Smyth, Gus L. Ford, F. M. Maddox, John F. Bacon, M. B. Hilburn, T. B. Duggan, E. L. Klett, E. L. Robertson, L. B. Wright, and James H. Goodman.

Murder At My House

By Rene Ryerson Mart
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: Madge Narney calls on me the morning after the accident. She asks if anyone else had been at my house besides those mentioned in the newspaper accounts. When I tell her that Jimmy Peters came by later—but no one else—she seems relieved. After she leaves, Lieutenant Leiphan of the police department turns up. He questions me further about last night's doings, says that the accident was not an accident. It was murder.)

"MURDER! You—you must be mistaken." Something was wrong with my voice. It came out as a thin squeak. I cleared my throat and tried again. "Why? . . . who . . . who . . ."

The detective gave me a direct look from his gray eyes. "It's no mistake," he said flatly. "We have proof that they didn't die accidentally. As to who killed them and why . . . You're a mystery writer, I hear. You ought to be able to figure out a few angles on that." Sarcastic he was and not at all friendly.

I sat there completely befuddled and knew that he wasn't going to tell me anything more and my brain began to jump like a Mexican bean trying to figure things out. Murder, he had said. Murder! I still couldn't believe it.

"Well—" Leiphan prompted.

So I went over the entire evening again. I even went back to the afternoon before and gave him a resume of the events at the studio which had led to my having Avis and Art at my house. I tried to be concise and thorough and I told him everything I remembered. There was one small incident in the evening's events which I forgot to mention. But the oversight was unintentional. I didn't think of it myself until later.

Leiphan kept hammering for details. He wanted to know about the drinks specifically. How many we had had. And how strong they had been. I told him he'd have to ask Liz Leyden—Liz had mixed them. All except the last one, I said, remembering suddenly that it was Jeff who had fixed the last drink for Avis. The one she had had while the rest of us drank coffee.

"All I made," I said, "was the coffee and the cheese snacks."

He put it all down carefully in a little black-backed notebook.

I COULD be sarcastic too. "I suppose you have all the answers now."

"Yes," he answered with sudden mildness and his mouth quirked into a likable grin. "But I don't know what to do with them." His eyes met mine with seemingly friendly candor.

I felt my own tight face relaxing and an answering smile tugged at my reluctant lips. Then I remembered that he hadn't actually told me anything. I was still completely in the dark as to what had really happened, and terribly mixed up. I killed the smile.

"Is that all?" I asked sulkily.

"No." He was blunt and direct. "I have some men here. We'd like to look around inside your house."

He had made me forget for a moment that he was investigating what he said was murder. Shock came back. And a sense of outrage.

"I don't suppose I could stop you," I said acidly.

"I don't suppose you could," he agreed.

I stayed in the patio and sulked while Leiphan and his men went into the house. They stayed there a long time.

I began to wonder if Jeff knew that the police thought it was murder. I'd telephone him as soon as the police were gone. No . . . I'd go to see him. It would be better to talk this over face to face.

I waited until Leiphan and his men came out the kitchen door and loaded some things into their cruiser in the driveway. I was too concerned about seeing Jeff to wonder what it was they put into the police car.

I waited until they drove away and then I ran into the house, dressed, and hurried down to my own car in the garage.

JEFF wasn't in his office at the studio, but Liz Leyden was. Sitting in Jeff's big leather chair behind Jeff's big mahogany desk with newspapers strewn all over the place, Liz had a gloating look in his near-sighted eyes.

The look intensified when he saw me.

"Well, aren't you the lucky girl?" He swept a thick white hand toward the newspapers: "All this nice free publicity for your first picture."

He was like that. He always had to give everything a sardonic, perverted twist. Even the final tragedy of death.

I picked up the papers and looked at them. There were pictures of the death car at the bottom of the canyon. There were pictures of Avis from the time she was six months old up to the present, each one showing more and more of Avis. There were pictures of Art.

The write-up said the party had been a business conference. And there wasn't a hint about the police thinking the accident was anything more than just that.

That was what I had been looking for.

I looked back at Liz. "Do you know where Jeff is? I'd like to see him."

"Probably celebrating his new freedom in some bar," Liz cracked. "By the way," he leered at me through his glasses, "this certainly works out nice for you all around, doesn't it? Jeff's free now."

I walked out without answering him.

I'd changed my mind about going to see Jeff. Leyden's words had stopped me. With the police off on the tack they were, it might be better if Jeff and I didn't seem too chummy. They might decide there was a motive there for Jeff to have killed Avis. Or for me to have killed her.

But I had no reason to worry about that then.

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

A very interesting controversy has just come to my attention. At least it is very interesting to me.

For several days in "The Round Table" department on the editorial page of the Johnstown, Pa., Democrat letters have been published defending one Erich Brandeis who displeased one Anthony Pingatore with one of his columns.

BRANDEIS

Mr. Pingatore took violent exception to my article in which I called the Italian government to task for questioning our right to send our Marines into their waters.

(In the meantime, by the way, we have signed a friendship agreement with Italy and have been told that whatever we did was all right with the Italian government.)

Mr. Pingatore wrote to the Johnstown Democrat that my column was "a gross waste of newspace" and should be discontinued. He criticized me for printing nothing but "accounts of my own domestic joys and triumphs, pains and misfortunes." He called me testy, self-righteous and "an insult to the intelligence of those who deign to give this column a glance."

The editor of the Democrat invited his readers to tell him what they thought of Erich Brandeis.

I am happy to say that I was overwhelmingly sustained and that it was the readers' general agreement that my stories about myself were in reality the stories of everybody's home and everybody's life. I thank my defenders for their loyalty.

Now let me tell you something.

Every columnist has been vilified and condemned for writing something for which he has also been praised and congratulated by many others.

"De gustibus non est disputandum" is an old Latin proverb — "One cannot argue about tastes."

Thousands love Bob Hope, Red Skelton, Eddie Cantor, Jimmy Durante. Thousands can't swallow them.

Only the other day a woman wrote me that I was her favorite columnist while Westbrook Pegler should be given castor oil to get the meanness out of his system.

In the same mail came a letter telling me that I was so sweet I was nauseating. "Why don't you be like Westbrook Pegler and have some guts?" asked the writer.

WHAT do we agree on anyway?

Politics?

Then why are the Republicans and Democrats fighting each other and why are both of them against the Communists?

Religion?

Do you know that there are 256 different religious bodies in this country alone—each of them with its own ideas about the best approach to God?

Food?

Why then must butchers carry veal and pork and lamb and poultry and a lot of other things to please all the different tastes?

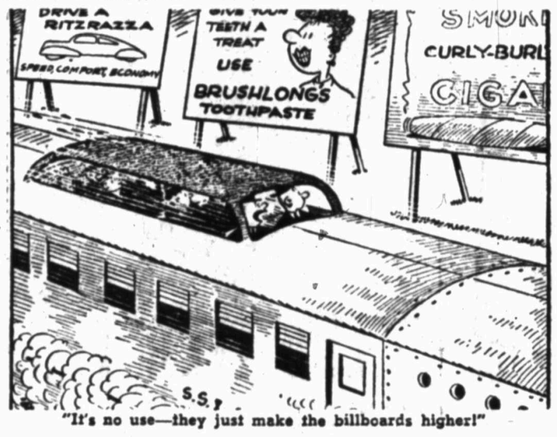

Styles?

Well, ask any woman about that.

What a monotonous life this would be if all of us liked or disliked the same things!

So long, Mr. Pingatore.

TO HOLD INFLUENCE

Aid Official Needed

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Gradual realization of the enormous power which will be vested in the administrator of the European Recovery Plan has won growing support for the Martin-Taft demand that the top operating agency be divorced from the White House and State department to the fullest degree. Closer study of the proposed setup has produced a change of sentiment even among many members originally committed to rigid and detailed control by State.

TUCKER

The general manager of the foreign aid program will have almost unlimited economic power, if Congress finally grants the amount estimated by the Administration to be necessary for immediate rehabilitation and long-term recovery.

When experts here and abroad ascertain the amount and kind of goods required for the participating nations, they will funnel their orders through him. He will become a large-scale buyer of everything from cigarets to heavy machinery.

Any man in such a position will be able to wield tremendous political and economic influence if he be so minded. He will be under pressure at all times to channel his purchases to friendly individuals and factions or to route the so that certain shippers will be benefited.

Local politicians, if Jesse H. Jones's experience as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is any guide, will be "on his neck" from the start.

CONTINUITY: The task of attracting able men as economic aides in this country and overseas, also strengthens sentiment for divorce of the ERP from too many official and bureaucratic ties.

Business and industrial leaders of the caliber required put up with red tape and government handicaps during the war out of a sense of patriotism, although they suffered from it. Few would want to give their services again under the same conditions.

Still a third reason for separation is the need for continuity of management at the top. It is pointed out that, should the Administration lose the election next November, there might be a period of chaos and uncertainty, if the operation were allied too closely to the State Department or any other government agencies.

RACIAL: President Truman's political advisers have been shocked and surprised by the southern Democrats' revolt over official advocacy of anti-segregation legislation. They had anticipated a certain amount of grumbling from the John Rankin type of legislator, but they never dreamed that the reaction would assume such threatening proportions.

In their discussion of the question, White House confidants took the position that Mr. Truman was merely carrying to their logical conclusion the very racial policies which had been advocated and advanced throughout the government by F.D.R. and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. Although the late Chief Executive handled the problem rather wairly, he permitted his wife and highly placed federal officials to set a pace akin to President Truman's.

In view of the excitement already caused by the White House attitude, worried Democratic bosses are looking forward to the Supreme Court's decision on the question of segregation as it affects real estate covenants. The case was argued several weeks ago, and a ruling should normally be handed down before the end of the current session in June.

DILEMMA: Although it is unwise to speculate on the high tribunal's action, political lawyers are engaging in theories. It is their general belief— and fear—that the court will hold against segregation, although some profess to believe that it may rule otherwise because of contracts involved.

Anti-segregationists feel that their cause would have a better chance, if three jurists had not decided to retire from the case. They are Associate Justices Stanley F. Reed of Kentucky, Robert H. Jackson of New York and Wiley Rutledge of Iowa. As practicing "liberals," the latter two men had been counted on to vote against segregation.

Even if President Truman could afford to reverse himself openly, he is in too deep a dilemma, politically, to pursue that course. It would cost him the vote of the colored people in northern cities, in the opinion of his advisers, especially as this element of the electorate has shown signs of drifting back to the Republican Party since F.D.R.'s death.

CANDIDATE: General Eisenhower's friends report him to be exasperated by continued discussion of him as a presidential candidate in 1952, if not in 1948. He figures that he has said the last word on the subject and he would like an end to rumors lest their persistence handicap his career as an educator.

The men who know him best, including such prominent boosters as Ray Roberts of the Kansas City Star and Alf Landon, take him with deadly seriousness. Indeed, some maintain that his rejection was more definite than General William Tecumseh Sherman's, who said flatly that he would "not accept if nominated, and would not serve if elected." Until now, that had been considered the ultimate in political effacement.

Political historians, however, say there was a personal factor to Sherman's action. In 1880, his famous brother, Senator John Sherman, was an active candidate for the nomination, and his convention opponents, so this version goes, had tossed in William Tecumseh's name solely to embarrass John's candidacy! So, the Civil War General was really protecting the family interest.

Moreover, unlike General Eisenhower, he did not go to the length of expressing the basic philosophy that it is unadvisable for a military man to sit in the White House in normal times.

WARS: "How large would the yearly national budget be," writes A.F. of Columbus, Ohio, "if all expenditures for wars were eliminated?"

Answer: Roughly, about $19,000,000,000. I figure it this way:

President Truman has asked Congress for $39,669,000,000 for the 1949 fiscal year. The sum of $11,025,000,000 is for national defense, and $6,102,000,00 for veterans' services and benefits. It will cost $5,250,000,000 to pay the interest on the public debt, most of which was incurred in World Wars I and II.

Those three items total $22,377,000,000. Deduct $1,800,000,000, which was the approximate cost of carrying the national mortgage at the time of Pearl Harbor and should not be included as a war charge, and the military bill as of the moment is about $20,577,000,000.

Subtract that from the Truman budget total and the balance is $19,092,000,000.

"If some one gave you $1,000, what would you do?" is asked in a survey, and strangely enough no one replied, "Drop dead."

A Los Angeles woman shined her husband's shoes, whereupon he put them on and walked out on her. There are some husbands a wife can't afford to be nice to.

CONSERVATIVES GAIN GROUND

Taft Tour May Change Policy

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The course of Republican party policy in Congress and in the election campaign may be influenced more than immediately appears likely by the eight-day, midwinter trip of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio into the Midwest.

This is due to the power in Congress of the vigorous and persistent Senate leader; to the weight of the Midwest which he symbolizes in many ways in Republican party councils, in Congress and outside, and because of the currently critical stage of national and international policy.

STOKES

While it is easy for the close observer to magnify the significance of an event, it is ventured that what was on the surface a routine trip to make a few Lincoln Day speeches and to try to pick up delegates for the Taft campaign for the Republican presidential nomination may turn out to be something quite different in effect and perhaps more important in the long run.

Isolationism Feared Again

Senator Taft seems to have accomplished two things on his tour.

First, he aroused and gave voice to the latent isolationism in the great midlands between the coasts at a particularly strategic time, with the Marshall plan now getting right under the gun, so to speak, in Congress. The next few weeks will be decisive in that great undertaking.

What is often overlooked in such an event as the Taft tour is that while to the newspaper reader far away it is just another item of telegram news that he may skip over or note casually, it is the big event of the day in the community where it occurs. Everywhere Senator Taft stopped and spoke—and he stopped and made speeches at nine points in five states—it was a big event.

His appearances and addresses were elaborately covered in local newspapers and widely detailed over the radio. The publicity was enhanced by the presence on the trip of his wife, Martha Taft, who herself made two full-length speeches with radio hook-up, spoke briefly when introduced a few other times, was always at her husband's side, and was interviewed in news and feature stories wherever the party went. And Martha Taft never misses an opportunity to put in a good word for her Bob and what he stands for.

All of this stirred up interest and started little waves that undoubtedly will wash into Washington to help solidify opposition of Midwest congressmen to an effective Marshall Plan, and may eventually have an influence on formulation of long-time Republican foreign policy at the Philadelphia convention in June.

Assails New Deal

In the second place, Senator Taft preached day after day a no-compromise policy for his party with New Dealism and all of its works. That may strengthen the hard-boiled conservatives of the party against its progressive and less potent wing. This is important, both in Congress and in the convention and the campaign to follow.

Senator Taft became a crusader, nay almost a martyr. He sees himself leading a great crusade to save what he regards as "the American system." He is the true liberal, as he said in many more words in his Omaha speech. He depicts the New Deal and its "imitation" by the Truman administration as the suppressors of American liberty and the beginning of totalitarianism. He was vehement about it, with an almost fanatic vigor of tone and language.

The martyr note crept in, as:

"The heritage of liberty and the principles of liberalism come down to the same thing. You and I may not think of ourselves as heroic, but if we remain firm in our purpose it is possible that the future will consider us heroes."

At Colorado Springs, in an impromptu speech, he started by saying that the election this year will determine the course of the country for the next 50 to 100 years, went on to declare that "when we get down to brass tacks the choice is between a free system and a regimented system," and reached his finale by pronouncing flatly, without qualification, that "if the Democratic party takes over control in the next election, you'll have every detail of your life regulated."

A modern Savanarola has come out of Ohio.

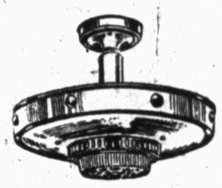

CAVERNS DRAW CROWDS

CARLSBAD, N. M. (U.P.)—Visitors to the famed Carlsbad Caverns in 1947 set an all-time high, with more than 400,000 persons seeing the caves. The peak month was August, when 7,000 persons saw the caverns.

Water Supply In Area Adequate

of commerce, presidents of banks and luncheon clubs and officers of the High Plains Water Use and Conservation association.

Immediately leading to the decision to hold the meeting, as reported by A. B. Davis, manager of the chamber of commerce, was an incident involving an official of an insurance company not identified by name.

Davis said the official was asked how much his company would be willing to lend toward the erection of an office building in Lubbock.

Water Given As Reason

The official, as quoted by Davis, said he doubted whether the company would be interested in making any loan at all for such a purpose, and "certainly not more than 50 per cent." A loan of about 70 per cent had been anticipated, the chamber manager related.

The reason given by the insurance official, Davis' report continued, was his understanding that the water problem on the South Plains, based on information from "government engineers," "was "serious."

Broadhurst, who investigated at Davis' request, said practically all the reports the insurance official had received were incorrect and apparently were based on gossip, and not on information from any official source.

Information Not Complete

Broadhurst emphasized that information pertaining to ground water resources in the area is far from complete. The geological survey, the state board of water engineers and others, he continued, are remedying that deficiency as fast as they can.

The problem on the High Plains, he continued, varies sharply with individual localities due to many factors. Available information on numerous test wells in Lubbock county, he said, show that their levels on the whole are not greatly different from 10 years ago. Some are a little higher and some a little lower.

But Lubbock county, he continued, is more fortunate than most localities for which measurements are available. In most areas, water levels in tested wells are lower than 10 years ago, some greatly so, he said.

Wet Year Is Cited

The main reason why levels aren't even lower, he reported, was the 42 inches of precipitation which fell in 1941—more than twice the normal 19 inches annually. In reply to a question, he said the wet year of 1941 put enough water back underground to supply irrigation needs for about five years. He added that wet years can be expected at intervals, although the 1941 precipitation was the heaviest on record.

Broadhurst left for Plainview soon after the meeting here to inspect a field office of the geological survey and the board of water engineers which was opened several months ago. From Plainview he was to go to Amarillo for a conference with city officials today.

Station Mascot

a screw on the floor and, before it could stop rolling, the pup had grabbed and swallowed it.

Pretty Sick Dog

He was a "pretty sick" dog for several days.

Penny "just seems to take up where she goes." Appearing slightly more than a year ago at the Idalou residence of Mrs. W. F. Pruitt, she wouldn't leave after she had been fed.

Mrs. Pruitt's son, J. W., a member of Central station, brought the dog here, planning to give her to some child. He unloaded her outside Central station, and she's been there since.

"She ain't worth anything," one of the firemen said.

"Aw, maybe worth about a penny," another answered.

And from those remarks, a name for the dog was coined, and a mascot for the station was adopted.

All the firemen's kids know her, and bring candy down for her. And raise cain with their dads if they, too, don't carry candy for Penny.

Most animals, birds and fish can see colors, although not as perfectly as human beings.

MARKET TRADING SLOWED

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP)—Individual stocks continued to edge forward today while many market leaders stumbled over light selling.

Monday's sharpest upswing in four months, in addition to another retreat by major commodities, inspired some profit cashing by quick-turn professionals. The feeling was the the preceding day's bulge was mainly of a technical nature and that offerings would be encountered on any further advance.

Unanimous approval of the European relief program by the Senate Foreign Relations committee propped sentiment.

Prices hardened after midday but failed to hold in the final hour. While plus signs maintained a majority at the close, many pivotals finished in the minus ranks. Transfers of 730,000 shares compared with 830,000 yesterday.

Due to the presence of a number of key losers, The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .1 of a point at 61.2. Of 952 issues registering, 425 rose, 279 fell and 248 were unchanged.

Republic Steel was up ⅞ at 24⅜ in the wake of an increased extra dividend. International Business Machines added 4 points at 137 on a few sales. United Fruit was up 1⅝ at 50¼, Santa Fe 1 at 88¼ and Pacific Western Oil 1 at 43. Elsewhere advances were mostly in fractions.

American Can yielded 1⅜ at 77¼ and Union Pacific 1⅜ at 157. Easier were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Westinghouse Electric, International Harvester, Sears Roebuck, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Boeing and American Woolen.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (AP) — Cotton futures were lower in moderately active dealings today. Scattered Commission house and New Orleans selling was influenced partly by renewed easiness in grains. There was also a tendency to take profit following Monday's sharp advance.

Germany was reported in the market for some 58,000 bales of American cotton.

Mill buying developed mostly on the scale down, with the situation in textiles quiet.

Texas advises said that planting was already underway in some southern parts of the state and that soil conditions were generally excellent in Texas.

Cotton closed steady.

Ducks Dying

he explained, not only decreases the duck population but can also cause heavy damage to poultry flocks. Ducks which become unable to fly due to the ravages of the disease may be forced down and die in the vicinity of farms and ranches. Dogs or other animals may carry the dead carcasses into the range of domestic fowls, contaminating whole flocks.

Ducks, he pointed out, cannot harbor pasturellosis over a long period of time, the sunshine and warm weather during the summer killing the virus which causes the disease. However, the virus can remain alive in a dormant state during the summer in chicken houses and other dark places where the sunlight does not reach.

Dugger expressed the hope that early discovery of the disease among the ducks and methods now being used to fight it may prevent extinction of the entire population of about 300,000 ducks now wintering in the Muleshoe refuge and Bull lake areas.

A new type of machine offers a quick method of removing leaves from streets. This vacuum loader draws up the leaves, packs them in the truck and pulverizes them so they can be used as fertilizer.

Britains Taking In 1,200 DPs Each Week

LAKE SUCCESS, Feb. 17 (AP) — Britain informed the United Nations tonight that 1,200 displaced persons are being admitted to the United Kingdom each week.

This was stated in a memorandum complying with a U. N. Assembly measure asking all members to report what they are doing for refugees.

Britain also reported she is placing in civilian employment 1,000 former members of the Polish Army each week.

Christopher Mayhew, Parliament undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, said about 250,000 displaced persons are in Britain now.

Education Is Urged

"It is dangerous to a Democracy for its people to feel fear, for it is a producer of panic or, even worse on a wide scale, of escape or fantasy."

The cure, Pike said in his prepared address, is to teach the public "the potentialities of this great new resource."

When they understand it, he said, the American people will appreciate the "three great benefits of the atomic age." He listed these as:

New ways and materials to treat disease.

New sources of energy to help man "lift his load of drudgery and free him to develop further the mind and the spirit."

New methods to increase world food production so that it will not be outrun by increases in population.

HST Urges Women To Combat Inflation With Spending Power

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17 (AP)—President Truman advised American women today to use their spending power to beat down the high cost of living.

Addressing a conference of women leaders at the Labor department, the President said:

"Women's organizations have at hand a ready weapon which they have not yet used to its full capacity—the power of the consumer.

"It has been said over and over again that women control the bulk of the nation's wealth; they certainly channel its day-to-day spending for food, for clothing, for education, for all the things that make for better living."

The conference was arranged by the Labor department to commemorate the 100th anniversary of a convention at Seneca Falls, N. Y., which launched the movement for women's rights and women's social freedom.

Mr. Truman told the delegates that although they can count successes such as suffrage, social legislation and greater economic opportunities for women, there still are "many unfinished tasks." Among these, he said, are equal pay for equal work, and the right to serve on federal juries.

MISS SNOW WELL NAMED

ASHLAND, Wis. (U.P.) — Donna Snow was named 1948 "Snow Queen" for the city of Ashland.

CAUSE FOR WORRY

MILWAUKEE (U.P.) — Art Ehrmann began to worry about his pocketbook after his wife went to two parties in as many weeks, wore a different new dress each time, and encountered another woman in identical attire at each affair.

Thanks to Army and Navy photo-reconnaissance planes during the war, a standard map of the world is now ready for flyers.

Soviet Arguments On War Stand Weakened By Present Policies

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

The Russians, trying to justify their prewar deals with Adolf Hitler, have finally put their best foot forward in outlining the defense position they occupied at the time.

If it were not for a lot of pettifogging they would have made a nice case, up to a point. They claim the urgency of self-defense in establishing themselves in Finland, Poland and the Baltic states before Germany attacked. The moral question, up to that point, is much the same as the one involved in Anglo-American destruction of French, Arab, Belgian and other towns in order to get at the Germans later.

Seek More Land

But the Russians don't explain away their treatment of these areas since the Germans were beaten. That's just plain imperialism.

The Russian contention that they were just exploring the German position in discussing things like "spheres of influence" would hold more water, too, if they were not at this moment trying to incorporate a great deal more than they ever discussed with Hitler.

The fact is, of course, that the various divisions of the spoils of war between Russia and Germany were actually incorporated into formal agreements.

Peace Talks Denied

As for the charge that Britain and the United States sought to negotiate a separate peace with Germany, there are ample records to show it downright silly.

Every section of the German underground tried to learn how the Allies might treat a Germany which had liquidated Hitler. They got no replies, much less encouragement, except from a few low-level individuals. One of the big facts of the war, which will be the subject of controversy in all history, is that the word at the top was always military defeat and unconditional surrender. That was the way the hand was played out, and the Russians know it.

It looks as though the Russian propagandists, even when they could stand on perfectly solid ground and tell the truth, would prefer to climb a tree and get out on a limb.

Train Collides With Engine In Dense Fog

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 17 (U.P.)—An inbound passenger train from Laredo and an outbound locomotive collided today at the city's edge in dense fog.

No one was killed. The fireman and a passenger on the train were injured. All the equipment involved was property of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

R. L. Keeton, 34, fireman on the train, suffered a broken arm and internal injuries. Ellen Kienberger of Wilmington, Del., a passenger, suffered leg bruises. She was treated at the Kelly field hospital. Keeton was removed to a San Antonio city hospital.

Both locomotives and the express-mail car of the train left the tracks, which were torn up for about 50 yards. The cars leaned at crazy angles, but did not overturn.

Railroad officials were investigating, but declined to venture a tentative opinion on the cause of the accident. Deputy Sheriffs Bob Beckman and Tony Wiatt believed that the heavy fog was responsible.
