HARROLD AND ELECTRA ARE PLACERS FOR TRACK FINAL

Abilene, Central High and Beaumont appear Outstanding Contenders

FINALS SATURDAY

Fort Worth Pins Its Hopes In the Main On Draper, Fast Dash Man

AUSTIN, May 8—(AP) As a result of the preliminaries of today's meet in the University of Texas Interscholastic League track and field competition Central high of Fort Worth, Abilene and Beaumont rule as the favorites to capture the state championship Saturday.

Fast times were registered in the running events, despite the muddy track.

Particularly noteworthy was the running of Stevens of Abilene, Naylor, Clarendon and Balliew, Beaumont, in the 220-yard low hurdles. Each better the state record for this event set for four years ago.

Fort Worth Central partisians pin their hopes in the main on Draper, fast dash man, who qualified in the 100 and 220-yard dashes; Abilene supporters on Stevens, who qualified in the low and high hurdles, in the broad jump, and 100-yard dash; while Beaumont supporters believe that Balliew, versatile athlete who qualified in the low and high hurdles, the javelin throw and the broad jump, will win for the South Texas city.

Of the 667 athletes who entered the preliminaries, approximately 125 qualified for competition Saturday. The summary follows:

Selects Wichita Over All Others

Prominent Bridge Contractor Names This City As Base For Extensive Operations

THAT Wichita Falls is coming to be a more satisfactory working base than Dallas or Fort Worth for activities in northwest Texas is the opinion of J. H. Murphy, one of the most prominent bridge construction contractors in the southwest, who is moving here from Dallas. Mr. Murphy and R. B. Moran, his chief engineer, were in Wichita Falls Friday on busniess.

* * *

Mr. Murphy has done more bridge work in Wichita Falls tertory, probably, than any other individual contractor; and he now has contracts for a large number of additional jobs in this section. He is to build all the bridges on the new Denver and South Plains railroad to cut through the panhandle and will make this city the base for his operations. He has just completed several large jobs for the Wichita Falls and Southern railway in the vicinity of Graham and has also finished driving all the piling at Garza on the huge Lake Dallas water impounding project in Denton county.

* * *

He drove all the piling for the main dam at Lake Kemp and the diversion dam of the Wichita county irrigation system and is now engaged in what is said to be the largest pile driving job in inland Texas—the setting of 5,000 30-foot piles for a 4,000-kilowatt power plant of the Texas Power and Light company at Trinidad. When the Wichita Falls Traction company built its Scotland line a few years ago Mr. Murphy built the Wichita river bridge at Austin street for them.

* * *

He declares that Wichita Falls is the logical business and distribution point for northwest Texas and the Panhandle territory and for that reason he is transferring his extensive operations here from Dallas.

AUSTIN, May 8.—Naomi Lowell of Quanah was declared state champion of girls and Eli Goldstein of Main Avenue high school of San Antonio, won state boys' championship honors in the senior high school declamation final contest held here by the University Interscholastic league tonight. Mary Grace Lott, Fairfield, placed second and Helen Reagan, Big Spring, took third place in the girls' contest.

Robert Aycock, Wortham, won second and Eugene Brady, Celesta, won third places in the senior boys' contest.

Blain Hollimon, Ennis, won the state championship in extemporaneous speaking on the same program, followed by Maxine Evans, Yorktown, second, and Frank Wilson, Waco, third.

Amarillo Woman Is Given Liquor Term

AMARILLO, May 8.—Miss Eleanor Knight today was sentenced to serve one year in prison, following her conviction in district court on a charge of selling intoxicating liquor. The jury which brought in the verdict, was out 16 hours. She gave notice of appeal.

It was the first conviction of a woman in Potter county on a liquor charge, since the Volstead act became a law.

WARMER WEATHER FRIDAY.

Weather Man Relents and Dispells Cold and Dampness.

Warmer weather with an accompaniment of clouds was the climatic portion dealt out for Wichita Falls Friday. The day was not as chilly nor raw as have been the last three or four but it was still a temperature below average.

Late in the afternoon the cloud blanket, after thickening up with a threat of additional rain, broke away and the sun peeked through for a time.

FARMERS COST OF ARSENIC IS SET BY COUNTY

5 1-2 Cents a Pound To Be Charged For Poison

A charge of five and one-half cents a pound is to be made in the future for all arsenic distributed by Wichita county to farmers for use in poisoning grasshappers, it was decided Friday afternoon by the county commissioners court in a discussion of how to dispose of the carload of poison the county recently purchased. All the poison now on hand will be turned over to County Agricultural Agent Guy R. Jones, who will put it on sale to the public at the price quoted.

Change Necessary.

This change has been necessitated by a ruling from the attorney general to the effect that counties have no legal right to spend money for poison for free distribution as a means of exterminating grasshoppers.

A meeting was called as soon as the ruling was received and was held yesterday with the county court and various business men and farmers from all parts of the county. Several methods were proposed for providing the arsenic to farmers and still keep within the statute. After considerable discussion, however, the sales at cost was decided on.

Sell to Clay County.

In addition to this decision, the court authorized county auditor E. P. Walsh to sell 5,000 pounds of arsenic to Clay county at the same price charged Wichita county farmers, five and one-half cents a pound. The poison is wanted to combat hoppers on Clay county farms, also.

Previously, a large quantity had been sold Archer county officials for distribution to farmers in that section.

Quanah Youth Badly Burned in Accident

QUANAH, May 8.—John Middleton was severely burned about the right shoulder and hands in an accident at the plant of the Quanah Light & Ice company. His injuries are confine dto his shoulder and hands it was stated, and he will recover.

Just how the accident happened is not known, but Mr. Middleton received 2300 volts. He was standing on the wire when he received the volts, and had he been on the ground where the electricity could have had the full effect he would have been killed instantly. He was unconscious for several hours.

The accident caused a break in the service, and motors and lights were dead in Quanah for a couple of hours

AUTO DISPLAY DRAWS BIGGER CROWD FRIDAY

Building Is Filled During Entire Second Day of Spring Show

ROADSTERS POPULAR

Studebaker, Marmon and Chrysler Roadsters Draw Attention

Crowds that kept the aisles of the W. J. Nolen garage filled to capacity were the best indication of the interest being taken by Wichitans in the annual spring automobile show. From the time the show opened its doors yesterday morning for the second day of the three-day exhibition, the building became full of people. At a late hour last night it was still full and more were coming.

It is by far the most successful show ever held here, according to local dealers, as well as having the most representative display. Over sixty cars, representing the different models of twenty-eight different makes of autos, are on display, all of them shined to mirrorlike brilliancy. By the side of each immaculate car stands an eager salesman ready to open up the hood and expound the merits of his own particular car.

Contrasted Display.

A contrasted display is seen in the Ford-Lincoln exhibit. In between two huge Lincolns there stands a Ford coupe. Smaller, shorter, having four cylinders to the other's six, the baby car stands up well under the test and its highly polished body serves as a mirror ni which may be seen the reflections of other displays. The Lincolns were the center of admiring groups through the day, one a touring car and the other a blueblack sedan furnished two of the highlights of the exhibition. The sedan offers the latest thing from the Ford factory. Langford Motor company, 600 Indiana avenue, are local dealers.

Alongside the Lincolns and Fords is the Studebaker display. Two specials, one a sedan and the other a touring car, offer the latest thing in spring auto styles, but the new spring model roadster attracts most of the

SHOOTS WOMAN, ENDS HIS LIFE

DALLAS, May 8.—Albert Davis, 40, shot and killed Mrs. Virginia Thompson, and then ended his own life in a rooming house here tonight.

The couple had been quarreling for some time, other roomers said. She was preparing to leave the house in company with a woman friend when the killing occurred, it was said. Both had been married. Davis was a steel worker and Mrs. Thompson was a waitress. Her home was said to be at Whitney, Texas.

Shep May Get Out Today After Illness

Mayor R. E. Shepherd, who has been confined to his home the past three weeks with a severe attack of mumps, has recovered to such an extent that he hopes to be at his desk either Saturday or Monday. It is possible he will be able to attend a special session of the city council meeting to be held Saturday afternoon in which several matters concerning the city's business will be taken up.

M'CLURE GOES TO CISCO.

Fire Chief Will Attend Convention of Executives Next Week.

Fire Chief J. L. McClure will leave for Cisco Monday to attend a state fire marshal's convention to be held there. Fire department executives from all over Texas will be in attendance to discuss fire fighting methods and, more particularly fire prevention. The chief will be gone about three days.

SPANIARDS ROUTE RIFFS.

MADRID, May 8.—(AP)—It was officially announced here this evening that the Spaniards had inflicted a severe defeat upon the Riffians, tribesmen in a battle near Sidi Meaud, in the Melilla sector. The Riffians are said to have suffered heavy casualties.

FIRE THREATENS THREE BUILDINGS

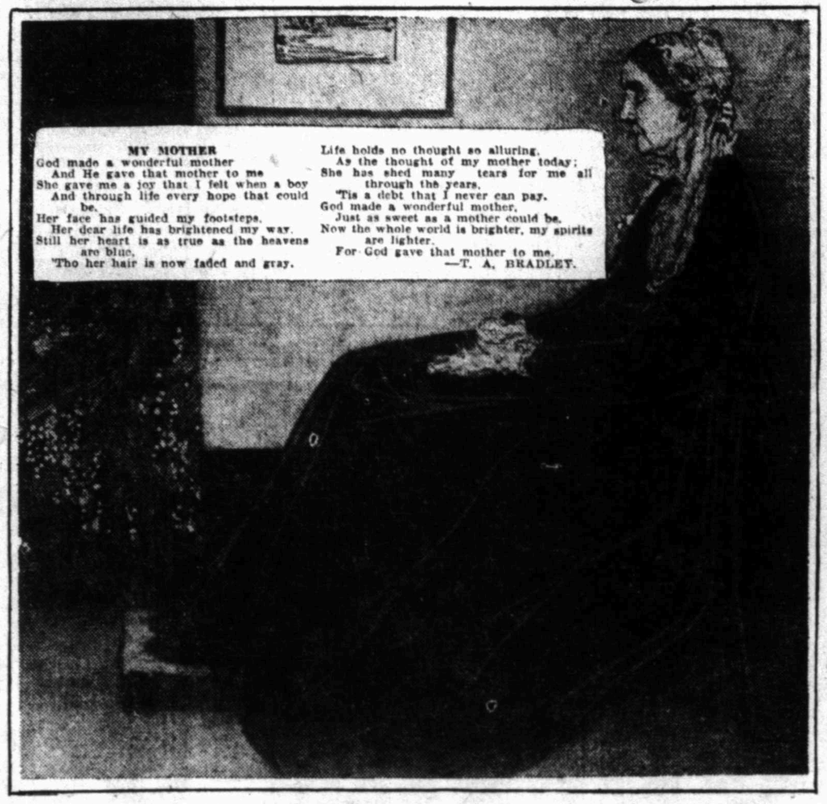

Fire starting at 2 o'clock Saturday morning completely destroyed a negro shoe shop and a negro cold drink stand, damaged a residence and for a time threatened to spread to other buildings in the vicinity of Brick and Humphries streets. Firemen were unable to obtain water for five or six minutes after they arrived and the flames, fanned by a stiff wind, were assuming dangerous proportions.

A number of closely packed buildings in the heart of the negro district were directly in the path of the blaze. These were saved, however, when water was finally obtained.

At 2:15 the fire was not under control.

Heavy Loss of Life Results In Mississippi River Capsize

Wichitan Reminds of Mother's Day

T. A. Bradley, advertising manager for Perkins-Timberlake, is the author of the above beautiful sentiment reflecting the worship of mother-love and the ideals we hold for our mothers. He submits it to The Record News to be passed on to thousands in Wichita Falls and Northwest Texas this morning to remind that Sunday is "Mother's Day." Have you written your mother so that she will get that letter tomorrow. If not, there's the telegraph. Don't forget her. The painting reproduced above is by Whistler.

Cats Best Horse Feed Known, Says Dept. Of Agriculture; Good for Human Dieting

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The department of agriculture has prepared a printed bulleting saying:

"The cat crop ranks third in importance. Cats traditionally constitute the banner horse feed of the world and three per cent is used for human consumption. The cat crop is subject to several diseases, chief of which are loose and covered smuts, stem rust and crown rust."

Then follows a discourse on wild cats, tame cats, broken cats and wilted cats. The main varieties in the United States are given as Swedish select, silver mines and white tarter.

The trouble was that the linotype operator consistently hit the letter "c" instead of the letter "o" and had turned a treatiese on oats into one on cats.

The bulletin will not be distributed.

Legion Auxiliary Makes Poppies For Sale on City Streets

More than 1,000 poppies were made by members of the American Legion auxiliary at the all-day meeting held Friday at the home of Mrs. H. F. Weldon. The flowers will be sold the last week in May on the streets probably in booths arranged for the purpose, and one-half of the proceeds from the sale will be donated to the state legion organization to be used in caring for the ex-soldiers who are ill in the state hospitals. The balance will be kept in the local auxiliary treasury for work among the ex-soldiers here.

A picnic luncheon was served to Mesdames G. O. Howery, C. R. Taylor, O. W. Wilson, A. H. Carrigan, J. B. Hatchett, Marvin Smith, R. A. Walker, Hornbeck, Grubbs, Carter McGregor, O. T. Ailes, H. F. Weldon and Miss Minnie Cook.

SMACKOVER OIL GETS BOOST OF TWENTY CENTS

Standard Raises From Forty To Sixty Cents a Barrel

SHREVEPORT, La., May 8.—Further strengthening of the local crude market noted Tuesday in creation of a new grade of Smackover oil appeared today in an advance of 20 cents per barrel on Smackover 24 gravity and below posted by the Standard Oil company, making the price 60 cents a barrel.

One sale of 300,000 barrels to Southern Pipeline company and the Standard of Indiana at 60 cents or better was reported today, the exact price not being revealed.

Louisiana oil refining corporations cut of 10 cents in Smackover 28 and above and its new grade of 23 to 2923.9 at 60 cents was met by Atlantic Oil Producing company and Shreveport-Eldorado pipeline companies. Their action following the Standard's new posting was not announced late today.

Babe Ruth Allowed To Leave His Bed

NEW YORK, May 8.—Babe Ruth was permitted to go out doors today for the first time since he entered the hospital a month ago to recover from influenza and indigestion.

Warmly bundled in a wheel chair, the champion American league batter was taken to the roof of the institution for a short period. Although still showing the effects of his long illness, Ruth was steadily improving, his physicians stated and he expected to return to the New York Yankees lineup next month.

EXCURSIONISTS MEET DEATH IN MEMPHIS BEND

News of Disaster To Tennessee City Is Slow To Come In

MANY PERISHED

Casualty List Will Include Names of Prominent Mississippians

BULLETIN.

MEMPHIS, May 8.—(AP)—Four persons are known to be dead and fourteen are missing as a result of the capsizing of the United States government steamer Norman, 16 miles south of Memphis on the Mississippi river late today a recheck of the survivors showed shortly before midnight tonight. The survivors arrived here at 11:30 p. m., on board the steamer Mississippi.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 8.—(AP)—Two persons are known to have been drowned and eleven others are missing as a result of the capsizing late today of the United States government steamer Norman in the Mississippi river about 16 miles south of Memphis.

The Norman sank as she was returning from Cow Island with a party of engineers here attending the convention of the Mid-South Association of Engineers. She was moving along smoothly, according to survivors, when she suddenly began rocking from side to side. This continued for perhaps five minutes when she careened far over and failed to recover. Three minutes later she had virtually gone from sight. The scene of the disaster is 16 miles south of Memphis opposite Coahoma Landing and 300 feet from the Tennessee shore.

The known dead:

Professor Walter Kirkpatrick, University of Mississippi.

Major W. M. Gardner, Memphis.

The boiler of the boat is supposed to have blown up, according to meager information received here tonight. The location is just opposite Coahoma Landing, Miss., and not far distant from the head of Josie Harris Island. The river current here is swift and treacherous old river men say.

Just how many passengers escaped could not be learned as everyone reached by telephone had only second hand information. The gist of this, however, was that only two or three

'La Paloma' Sung As It Should Be First Time in Five Years

Leonardo Andrade heard "La Paloma" sung as it should be sung for the first time in his five year's residence in Wichita Falls, when unbeknown to himself and the pretty serenader he heard Miss Josephine Fisk play and sing in front of her grandmother's home on Austin avenue last night.

According to Senor Andrade, a native of Spain and employed by a local business house to handle its Spanish correspondence, Miss Fisk is the only person he has heard sing La Paloma and other Spanish songs with the proper accent since he came to Wichita Falls and told her so with high praise for her voice.

The Record News blushes with pride in the accomplishments of one of its staff as it sends this item to press, for Miss Fisk is a headliner in its editoral department.

Oklahoma Veteran Gets Cash Award

ALTUS, Okla., May 8.—An award of $2,000 in back pay and a monthly allowance of $38 was granted Friday to Frank B. Nightswonger, veteran of the world war, whose service overseas cost him the loss of a foot, by the Oklahoma veterans' bureau in session at Altus.

The Oklahoma bureau is trying out the experiment of going to the veterans instead of having him come to the central office in Oklahoma City.

Seniors In High School And Junior College To Know Fate This Morning

This morning at 9:30 o'clock seniors in the high school and college are due to know the worst. Many of them will have their fate decided by a single glance at their grades. Many of them will search frantically back through credits of past years, hoping that they can still graduate.

At that time all candidates for graduation in both the high school and college will report at the school, there to learn their grades made in examinations during the past week. Those who passed in sufficient work to make 16 credits for the four years' work will secure their caps and gowns, the others, there are several each year who fail to make the last hurdle in the way of graduation, will go back home, ready to start over next year.

Baccalaureate services for both classes will be held in the college auditorium Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. Leslie Miller, pastor of the Grace Methodist church, will deliver the annual sermon.

Texas and A. & M. Track Stars Injured In Auto Crash; Reese Hurts Leg

BRYAN, May 8.—Jack Taylor, manager of the University of Texas track team here for the southwest conference track meet, was seriously injured here tonight when an automobile in which he was riding and one driven by C. R. Gardner of Bryan were in collision.

Taylor suffered a broken jaw, an injury to his eye, a severe cut about the mouth, and internal injuries, the gravity of which have not yet been determined.

The three-year-old daughter of Mr. Gardner suffered both bones broken in the right leg.

Jim Reese, Longhorn distance man, received a bruised leg, which if it does not keep him out of the meet tomorrow entirely, is at least expected to hamper his running. Reese was in the car and Taylor was riding on the running board.

Shortly after the accident J. V. Franklin, Aggie javeline man, tripped while walking over some planks and sprained his ank-

No. Louisiana-Arkansas Sector Shows 610 Operations

More Than Half Are Credited To Smackover Area

That Area Booming Beyond All Expectation a Month Ago

NEW PIPELINES

17 Wells Make Flush of 277,815 Barrels, Smack over.

By D. H. BANCROFT.

SHREVEPORT, La., May 8.—One hundred thirty-eight wells completed and 423 under way at the end of the month in Smackover shows the extent to which activities in the Shreveport oil district have increased through the Smackover boom. In the Shreveport district as a whole there were 610 operations in various stages from locations to wells waiting on standard rig or temporarily abandoned, divided 45 waiting on standard rig (to pump) 15 temporarily abandoned, 396 drilling, 51 rigging up, 89 derricks and 14 locations. This was an increase of 58 over April 1 and meantime 197 wells had been completed. Approximately half of all operations under way May 1 in the district belong to Smackover.

Smackover's jump from 88 new producers with 26,207 barrels initial and daily average runs from the field of 99,441 barrels in March to 117 new wells with 277,815 initial production and daily runs of 208,927 barrels in April in practically three weeks' time has made oil history but meanwhile things have taken place elsewhere in the district that are almost as interesting though not, for the moment, so important. It may be said in passing, however, that 93 deep sand producers in Smackover are responsible for the sudden leap into the limelight, they bringing the total of new deep sand wells to well over 100 with 110 more due for completion within the next two weeks.

Among the other interesting developments during the month, in Arkansas, was announcement of Humble O. & R. company's plans for a wildcat campaign on a big scale in Lafayette and Miller counties, and similar campaigns in the making by other major operators, the Humble's being already under way with wells drilling in both counties.

In Louisiana.

Louisiana's chief developments were a slight extension west in Cotton Valley and completion on April 29 of the second well, George Zeigen's No. 1 Urania in 18-10-2E La Salle parish in the Urania district as a twin of the discovery well to which it is a direct offset. It later developed salt water but at last reports had improved to the extent that it was making more oil and less water after replacing perforated liner with screen and packer. Completed at the same depth, 1,500 feet, with the same amount of sand, four feet, it had the advantage of having more gas.

The north end of Cotton Valley was stretched a half mile west by Ohio Oil company's No. 3 Sidney estate. The south end also got a second and west edge well in M. J. Derryberry et al No. 1 Smith, making 150 barrels 40 per cent salt water while the Ohio well made 100 barrels of pipeline oil. Between the latter and the main body of the original districts is a failure.

Prices Readjusted.

Smackover deep sand development with the largest flush production the Mid-Continent has ever known from one pool, produced the inevitable readjustment in local price schedules and a wild scramble for storage. Salt watre encroachment due to previous faulty completions and three crater wells has had no material effect, an analysis of 62 wells showing water amounting to only 11 per cent or about 21,000 barrels in 196,015 barrels of production. Construction of new earthen storage had relieved the emergency in that direction to some extent by the end of the month and construction of additional trunk pipelines and gathering system facilities assured further relief within the next few weeks.

Standard Pipeline company's 100-mile 10-inch line to the Mississippi river and barge service to Baton Rouge is under way and Shreveport-Eldorado Pipeline company announces preparations to extend its six-inch line into the heavy oil district. Root refineries is looping its four-inch line extending from three miles east of Eldorado into the Norphlet district with a six-inch line, and other big buyers are arranging for larger shipments by tank car.

Biggest Well Completed.

The star well of 20 years of oil in this territory, Roxana Petroleum company No. 1 Hardy and Murphy in 9-16-15, was an April completion, the climax of a series of big wells in that section and 4-16-15 which added over 100,000 barrels initial production. It was making 48,000 barrels when pinched in to 8,000 barrels and on a three-hour guage two weeks later flowed at the rate of 88,000 barrels while blowing off the head of accumulated pressure. Coming in from 2,385 feet it was duplicated a short while later by Gulf Refining company's 14 Hardy and Murphy in 4-16-15 at 2,351 feet. Two 10,000-barrel wells, one 15,000 and another of 20,000 initial in the same week completed the series, and later in the month there were several other wells of between 10,000 and 15,000 barrels initial.

Between them and the "small fry" of 5,000 barrels and less, Smackover daily runs increased 107,627 barrels by the end of the month an average initial production doubled several times, going from 298 barrels in March to 2,375 in April. The reaction in the market was prompt, heavy oil below 25 gravity going to 40 cents.

M-S-Waite Phillips

Maer-Staniforth and Waite Phillips were drilling again yesterday after being shut down at 1,375 feet in their No. 1, Keys, located in the J. Wisher survey, section 17, abstract 396, southwest Archer county, after apparently missing the sand from which the Wolfe well is producing.

News of the Fields

Petroleum Producers

Petroleum Producers were drilling yesterday morning at a depth of 1,407 feet in their No. 1, Burnett, a mile and one-half southeast of the Texhoma-Fawlkes Station production in the northwest corner of the southeast quarter of the SA&MGRRCO survey, section 3, Wichita county.

Consolidated, Waggoner

Consolidated Oil company and Staley and Wynne have rigged up and expected yesterday to spud today on their No. 2, Waggoner, 385 feet west of the No. 1, producer, which is located 250 feet west of the center of the east line of the west forty of the east 120 acres of the H&GNRRCO survey, abstract 907, eastern Wilbarger county.

Daniels-Rutis, Salmon

Daniels and Rutis have skidded 291 feet east and have spudded and are drilling on their No. 2, Salmon, Chambliss survey, north Montague county, Nocona district, north Montague county. The No. 1, a 15,000,000 cubic foot gasser is located in the northwest corner of the Panhandle 77 acres in the Chambliss survey. The No. 2, will pass up the gas sand entirely.

Texhoma, Jackson

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company is down 1,425 feet in gray shale with the ten-inch set at 1,380 feet in its No. 1, Jackson, near the Whittington wells, Wheeler county. The No. A-1 is rigging up cable tools.

Wells, Waggoner

W. D. Wells et al are down 1,407 feet and drilling in their No. 1, Waggoner, southeast of the northwest quarter of section 21, block 14, H&TCRRCO survey, eastern Wilbarger county.

United Central, Smackover

The United Central Oil company has completed a good well at Smackover, Ark., in its No. 2, Murphy, southeast of the southeast of section 8-16-15 for about 5,000 barrel potential although it has been pinched into about 3,000 barrels a day.

Lytton Springs

Gulf's F. A. Gommilion No. 1, northeast of the Lytton Springs discovery well is a salt water well at 1,700 feet, the first in the field. It will be drilled deeper.

Grayburg Oil company's No. 1, Beatty is dry and drilling at 1,800 feet west of the field. It will be drilled to the Edwards lime.

Los Angeles Gets 1926 A. P. I. Meet

Advices from New York state that the directors of the American Petroleum institute have decided to hold the next annual meeting of the organization in Los Angeles, Cal., the first four days of the week of January 18, 1926.

Some time ago a survey of the hotel facilities of Los Angeles was made by representatives of the institute and after consideration by the directorate, this city and the dates named were tentatively chosen.

In former years the institute's annual meetings have been held in December but the date has always been found to cause some difficulty because of the nearness of the close of the calendar year as well as the holiday season.

The Los Angeles meeting, coming after the first of the year, is expected to obviate these difficulties as well as give those who desire ample opportunity to make a more extended visit to the California fields.

Consolidated, Smythe

Consolidated Oil company's No. 1, Smythe, 150 feet each way in the northwest corner of block 4, Smythe sub-division, ETRRCO survey, west and a bit south of Iowa Park is pudded and drilling, Wichita county.

Only Small Change In Oklahoma Shows During Past Week

Activity in Oklahoma oil fields showed little change for the week ended May 2 as compared with the previous week, according to the current issue of the Oil Weekly. There was a total of 1,538 operations in Oklahoma fields, a decrease of 14 from the previous week.

The Wewoka-Cromwell district led in fied activity with a total of 320 operations. The Tulsa-Okmulgee district was second with a total of 266 operations. Sixty-four new rigs appeared in the Tulsa-Okmulgee area.

The report of field operations, as compiled by the Oil Weekly, follows:

Refiners Get Bullish

Standard Buys More Gasoline In Mid-Cont't

Total Purchases Exceed 600 Car Loads Motor Fuel.

A very bullish tone has developed in the Mid-Continent refinery market, where less than four days ago the opposite viewpoint existed. The change is due to the second appearance of the year of the Carter Oil company for U. S. motor grade of gasoline for export. The motor fuel being bought is for the Standard Oil company of New Jersey and is to be shipped to Gulf coast ports for movement abroad.

On Monday the Carter bought a little gasoline, quite a lot on Tuesday and 300 cars on Wednesday and Thursday its purchases had exceeded 600 cars. The first goal set—3,000,000 gallons—was so easily filled that the Mid-Continent representatives went after more.

The first purchases were made at the spot market of 10 1-4 cents, and as the market stiffened were at 10 1-2 and Thursday it was offering 10 3-4 cents freely with the spot market from one-half to three-fourths of a cent ahead of the Carter's offer. Indications were that the Standard will pay 10 7-8 and 11 cents to fill its full requirements and its willingness to accompany the market's is regarded by some refiners as an indication that the Standard actually needs the gasoline.

On April 14 when the Standard bought 1,800 cars at 9 3-4 cents a gallon and thus boosted the spot market to 1 0and 11 cents, it was said to have done so because the price was right. The idea that it did so to help the market was advanced by some.

In North Texas Thursday and Friday the U. S. motor prices were 10 1-2 to 10 3-4 cents and 11 1-4 cents in South Arkansas and 11 to 11 1-4 cents at Shreveport.

TEXHOMA, GAMBRELL.

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company has placed its No. 9, Gambrell, BBB&CCRRCO survey, abstract 31, northwest of Olney on the pump for an initial production of 38 barrels in the first 24 hours, sand at 1,221-30 feet.

SILKWOOD-BRASHEAR.

Silkwood and Brashear were drilling yesterday below 1,900 feet in their No. 1, Fasset and Tuttle, in the northwest corner of the west 80 acres of the Fasset and Tuttle farm southwest of Iowa Park, Wichita county, after coring a dry sand at 1,896-99 feet.

Reiter-Foster Get $1,500,000 Backing

TULSA, May 8.—T. M. Pettigrew, president of the banking house of Pettigrew and Meyer of New York, has announced that his concern had underwritten the Reiter-Foster Oil corporation of Tulsa and Dallas, to the extent of $1,500,000. The money is to be used in developing the Reiter-Foster holdings along the Balcones fault trend in East and South Central Texas, including the Popes Bend structure, 20 miles east of Austin, in Bastrop county, Texas.

The Reiter-Foster Oil corporation, with Donald Clark of Tulsa, owns six miles of leases running north and south in Bastrop county and have a test down below 1,200 feet. Mr. Clark has been in Austin for three months buying acreage and supervising the test in Bastrop.

CLEVELAND ON THE MAP.

Cleveland is the largest city in the state of Ohio. Cleveland is one of the most progressive and fast growing cities of America. A year ago Cleveland changed from the old plan of municipal government to the business manager plan of municipal government.

Fort Worth is a large and fast growing Texas city. Fort Worth, in April, decided to adopt the business manager plan of municipal government. Nine commissioners were elected. These commissioners elected a mayor. He is one of the leading business men of that city. Next the nine commissioners elected a city manager. They voted to pay him a salary of $15,000 a year.

They could not find one in Texas with all the qualifications they deemed necessary. They took the bull by the horns and drafted an expert who is a resident of a distant state. They found that he had the necessary qualifications as well as vast deal of experience as city manager in handling the problems of municipal government. Now Fort Worth will give the city manager plan a trial with an expert as their guide. He is to have almost absolute control, and a year hence his report will show what has been accomplished by an expert unhampered by political methods or the domination of a machine.

Now back to Cleveland. William R. Hopkins is the city manager for Cleveland. A review of his work has appeared in an important magazine. Manager Hopkins is business from top to toe. He has extensive powers. He is an expert in many kinds of business. He would not accept the office until he had been promised a free hand. He is a college man and a college bred business man drafted the charter of the city of Cleveland which was adopted in 1924. Cleveland has twenty-five commissioners. There are 15 republicans, 6 democrats and 4 independents.

All four independents are among the foremost intellectuals of their city. One is a very noted traction expert. All the political organizations, the chamber of commerce, the federation of labor and two of the three leading newspapers of Cleveland fought the adoption of the city charter and the city manager plan.

According to the New York Times in the year 1924 Manager Hopkins directed the spending of $40,000,000 and the work of 7,500 city employes. His salary is $25,000 a year. He is removable only on charges preferred against him and proved to the satisfcation of the council. He is a non-partisan and the city government is supposed to be non-partisan.

Now the Review of Review applauds the work of the first year of Manager Hopkins and the New York Times editorially enumerates and commends some of his achievements. The latter newspaper says that at the end of the first year of Manager Hopkins, Cleveland had a balance of $870,000 in the treasury. At the end of the first year more paving had been done and at a lower cost than ever before in a twelve month. At the end of the first year the parks were in better condition. At the end of the first year a plan was in operation to develop an efficient traffic and transportation system for Cleveland and its fast growing suburbs.

At the end of the first year a fine aviation field has been acquired with the view of making Cleveland an aeronautical center. At the end of the first year in the police and fire departments promotions had been for merit only and gamblers have been driven beyond the city limits. At the end of the first year the politicians admitted that a better council of commission Cleveland has never had.

Of course the politicians of the machine type say that the success of the city manager plan is all due to Manager Hopkins, but they continue to denounce the charter and system of government as they did eighteen months ago when the friends of honest and efficient municipal methods waged the battle and won it by the adoption of the charter.

Another commission will be elected by the voters this fall. If the political machines and their followers capture the commission they may provide handicaps for Manager Hopkins to carry next year. He was given a free hand by the commission now in power. He showed what could be done. He has given Cleveland the best administration in its history.

In the long run the people are responsible. They are given a government just as strong or just as weak as those who make it. Fort Worth has made an excellent start. Its commissioners sent to a distant state for an expert and they are willing to pay him an adequate salary. Now if the commissioners will give the new city manager a free hand, he may make a showing at the end of the year that will at least equal that made by Manager Hopkins of Cleveland.

AN ACHIEVEMENT OF AMERICAN BUSINESS

Federal tax receipts have again exceeded expectations. On March payments of income taxes an excess of $8,000,000 has been noted over treasury estimates prepared last summer. There was an excess of $5,000,000 over estimated customs receipts, while the predicted fall in miscellaneous taxes, on account of last year's program of general reduction, fell short of expectations by some $20,000,000. Because of the unusual productivity of the taxes, treasury officials are now confident that a cut of 12 per cent can be made in taxes payable during 1926.

When congress convenes in December there should be no question of its ability to afford the country another welcome relief from the burden of taxation. It is more than possible, however, that there will be no great stir about the matter. Treasury officials have intimated that Secretary Mellon will not repeat his mistake of presenting a program worked out in detail, but will content himself with giving the facts to the nation's lawmakers, leaving to them the task of framing an appropriate revenue measure.

Credit for tax reduction should be given where it is justly due, to American business, not to politics or politicians. Struggling ahead under difficulties, American business produced the revenue surpluses which have permitted, and indeed forced, lower tax schedules. Each lightening of the tax burden has aided business in its upward march and so made possible a repetition of the process.

By Dr. Frank Crane

PARTY POLITICS.

There has been a recent movement by prominent men of both parties to increase interest in party government.

Its object as stated is: "To aid in checking the growing indifference of our citizens to the value and necessity of party government. Also to impress upon them the vital need and constant need of their duty as citizens if the principles underlying our institutions are to be maintained and progress gained toward better and more efficient government."

According to the figures given, party government seems to be rather a failure if we can test it by the number of votes it gets.

In the election of 1924, it is stated that thirty million qualified American voters did not vote, and the theory expressed is that this may destroy party government in the United States. It may result in the substitution of the group and thereby imperil the party system of American government.

Leading men of both parties, including the ex-presidential candidate, John W. Davis, Elihu Root, also ex-Candidate Alton B. Parker are taking part in this movement.

It is a curious thing that they all seem to be united in the opinion that parties are unnecessary for American government. Where they get the notion, it is hard to say.

The American government was not formed by parties and did not, under George Washington, contemplate parties. Indeed parties were looked upon as the greatest danger to the republic.

The facts have worked out just this way. Party government has excited the lively interest of a few, the profound indifference of the many.

Party government has succeeded in selecting a very inferior quality of officials for the government. It would seem that it is about time for thinking people to cast about for some other way in running the affairs of the nation.

A book recently published by Justice Clark indicates how this can be done. It is very simple. It is to revert to the original method of voting which has nothing to do with parties.

From a long record of failure, party government has proved itself incompetent. It is strange how many men who otherwise seem very intelligent can continue to believe in it. It only shows the terrific hold of re-actionism and tradition.

PRIVATE CAPITAL WINS.

A cablegram from Moscow carries the news that soviet Russia has capitulated to private capital to the extent that foreigners with money will be encouraged to do what the co-operative state cannot accomplish. There are rich pickings in Russia for foreigners. Natural resources of Russia, including its mineral wealth, are something staggering.

Lenine and Trotzky and their associates warred upon private capital. They succeeded in destroying the industries of Russia. They could not negotiate a loan in London or Paris or New York. They were blackflaggers with all the world arrayed against them.

Lenine is dead; Trotsky has been driven from powere; their successors are ready to do business. Big business rules the world, with the exception of Russia. Russia is without business. There is no way for Russia to get business unless it permits the gold of foreigners to flow in.

IN THE LONG AGO.

In the long ago the Northern Pacific Railway company received $136,000,000 from the sale of government lands granted to it to cover the cost of constructing the railroad. This amount was exclusive of the value of lands still claimed by the company. Cost of building the railroad has been placed by a witness at approximately $70,000,000. Well, what's the odds? If there had been no railroad constructed there would have been no developing civilization where the government owned the lands. In other words, there are no birds in last year's nest.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Struggle or Straggle.

At the end of the industrial procession is a pathetic collection of stragglers.

Always behind, yet never giving up hope, they trail along, downhearted, unhappy, and wondering why they keep falling farther and farther behind.

Some of these are the unfortunates, who through no fault of their own are where they are.

They have been held back by disease, or by others whom they must carry along.

But the greater part are those who have not struggled in the beginning, and who must therefore straggle in the end.

Life is a pretty serious business.

There is a great deal of injustice, a great deal of cruelty in it.

The good are not always rewarded, nor do the righteous always prevail.

But one thing is sure. Those who do not put everything that they have into the struggle are almost certain to fall behind at the finish.

Leave out the fortunate who inherit fortunes, who stumble into good things, who happen by chance to attack themselves to those who were willing to carry them along.

Their number is not great enough to be worth considering.

For the most part those who fight the hardest win the most battles.

That fighting must be done by the brain as well as by the body.

One can dig ditches till his shovel falls from his hands without ever being anything but a ditch digger.

But there are many former ditch diggers who have used their minds as they plied their shovels, and have found means to get out of the ditches and into paying industries.

There is a young Italian in the town where I lived who used to dig ditches. He saved his money, worked hard till he got to be a boss, and saved the higher pay he got in that capacity.

By and by he took a contract to dig a ditch, and laid aside his shovel for all time.

Today he builds houses, and has made a comfortable fortune, although he is still under forty-five.

That man was a struggler, and he will never be a straggler.

Gaining a competence is not easy. It means thought and planning and saving and self-sacrifice.

It means going without luxuries for a long time, in order to be independent by and by.

But it does not require genius, or very great talent.

It only requires determination, and grit, and a consistent purpose to get ahead, never mind how hard and unpleasant the struggle may be at times.

However hard it may be for ten or fifteen or thirty years, it is not so hard as to end one's days straggling along at the tail of the parade.

Nothing in the world is so hard as that, or so pathetic. For old age is the time of life when care should be far away.

Irrigation

WEED SEED DISTRIBUTION BY IRRIGATION WATER

At intervals some one asks whether or not weed seed will be spread over their farm by the irrigation water. This is something that many of the farmers have not given much thought to so far.

It is a fact that irrigation water does carry weed seeds and does distribute them over the farmers fields.

There is no sure way to avoid this. If the weeds along the canal banks are cut before they seed or kept from growing at all it will help. In fact certain kinds of weeds can be practically eliminated.

Where weeds themselves are blown from the fields into the canals as is the case with tumble weeds and others of that type then no amount of cutting of weeds on the ditch banks can do any good.

Some weeds spread their seeds by the action of the wind. The dandelion and some of the milk weeds are representative. Such seeds can hardly be prevented from getting into the canals.

This is not meant as an argument against keeping ditch banks clear of weeds because seeding of weeds by irrigation water on a field can be greatly minimized in that way.

There is another way of looking at the weed nuisance in irrigation. Almost every farmer knows he must kill weeds if he is to have a good crop. Very few farmers understand the need of cultivation and the creation of a dust mulch after every irrigation. But if they have to cultivate to kill weeds they will also be cultivating to conserve moisture. So in some ways the growth of weeds caused by irrigating is a good thing.

"The evidence against me is no stronger than its weakest drink"—as the bootlegger said.

Overcrowding and the lack of proper ventilation are the great contributing factors in the spread of measles, scarlet fever, diphtheria, mumps, whooping cough, chicken pox and smallpox.

This man I saw this morning
Was a boy of seventy-eight.

And a host of good people
Don't understand why
There's such opposition

It's the first law of nature
That makes a man stoop
To cursing this creature
That falls in his soup.

POEMS THAT LIVE

FAIRIES' SONG

We the fairies blithe and antic,
Of dimensions no gigantic,
Though the moonshine mostly keeps us,
Oft in orchards frisk and peep us.

Stolen kisses are always sweeter;
Stolen kisses much completer;
Stolen looks are nice in chapels;
Stolen, stolen be your apples.

When to bed the world is bobbing,
Then's the time for orchard-robbing,
Yet the fruit were scarce worth peeling
Were it not stealing, stealing.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE

May 9th

Today's planetary aspects are slightly adverse during the early hours of the morning, but show a steady improvement just before noon, and this is maintained through the remainder of the day, until, after dark, the aspects are exceptionally favorable, and the vibrations are both stimulating and exhilarating. No decisions of importance should be taken during the morning, as the indications denote that your vision will not be keen and your judgement, as a natural consequence, is liable to suffer. Later on in the day, aggressive and forceful action may be taken with every prospect of ultimate success. It is also propitious occasion for all social activities and for sports and pastimes.

The child that is brought into the world today will experience a considerable amount of sickness in its early infancy. All untoward results, however, can be avoided by careful nutrition and unremitting vigilance. Temperamentally, it will be self-willed and dominating. Its personality will be sufficently magnetic to deprive these outstanding characteristics of any repellant nature. It will be truthful and forceful, and its attainments will only be limited by its ambitions, as once this child deliberately sets out to accomplish something, no matter how far fetched and difficult it may seem, it will not rest until the goal is reached.

Is your birthday on May 9th? If so, you will only invite failure and court disaster if you are satisfied to run along in a rut created by others, or are content to imitate, instead of "initiate". Your originality is very marked, and you have an inventive turn in mind. You are too apt to pigeon hole some of your ideas, all of which are eminently practical, and listen to and heed the advice of others. If you trust your own judgment and give latitude to your natural originality and inherent inventive faculties, your success will be assured.

Your humorous sense is keenly developed. You enjoy great popularity among your friends and associates, in spite of the fact that you are a trifle too positive in your likes and dislikes.

Successful people born on this date are:

John Brown, abolitionist.
John Brougham, actor.
George Davidson, geologist and astronomer.
Charles H. Cramp, shipbuilder.
William W. Goodwin, scholar, former professor of Greek at Harvard university.
Edward Weston, electrician and inventor of arc and incandescent lights.

HOW IT STARTED

"Foolscap."

A curious name to indicate the size of a sheet of paper. And in it is hidden an interesting tale.

As a measure to increase his ever needy revenues, Charles I of England made patronage of the privilege to manufacture paper. And as proof of the fact that the paper was made under the auspices of the crown it bore as its water mark the royal coat of arms.

Under Cromwell, parliament decreed that the old royal heraldry should be replaced by a fool's cap and bells. And though this was later repealed, the change was made and the paper used for governmental records, was called "foolscap."

And the title has remained, being applied now to legal sheets, though the cap and bells have been supplanted by other water marks.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE WAY OF THE WORLD

The honest crow
Through sleet and snow
His weary way
Wings to and fro,
With sturdy zest
He does his best
To fight against starvation.
A hero he,
Who scorns to flee
When winter freezes
Land and sea!
But don't forget
He never yet
Has won our admiration.

The robin stays
Through summer days,
But in the fall
He goes his ways
To where, beside
The tropic tide,
The fronded palms are springing.
But people yearn
For his return
Their eager praises
Does he earn
When far and near
They pause to hear
The little coward singing.

Poor honest crow
We scorn him, though
He's wise, and brave and clever.
The gift of song
The world has long
Preferred to high endeavor!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

MUST A MARRIED COUPLE ENJOY ONLY EACH OTHER'S SOCIETY?—DOES THE BUSINESS GIRL OR THE HOME GIRL MAKE THE BETTER WIFE?—CAN A JEW-GENTILE MARRIAGE BE A SUCCESS?

Dear Miss Dix—I am a married man and have a wife that I would not trade with any man living. She is just the kind of a woman she should be, but I find myself at time anxious for the society of some other woman, not any particular woman at any particular time, but just the wholesome society of other women occasionally. Do you think a man should be allowed the privilege of going out with other women, provided he allows his wife the same liberty? K. M. B.

Answer—I think that the greatest mistake that any young married couple can make is to believe that they can be all-in-all to each other, and to try to live a sort of hermit life in their own home. No two persons, no matter how much in love they are with each other, are all sufficient to each other. They are bound to talk out. They are bound to get fed up if they see too much of each other and not enough of other persons.

Therefore, a wise wife draws about her a pleasant circle of men and women, in which she gets the society of other men, and her husband gets the society of other women, in a wholesome way, and instead of this alienating husbands and wives it draws them closer together because they take their pleasures together instead of finding them separately.

Nor does it lead to flirtatiousness. Many a woman never appreciates her husband so much as she does after contrasting him with the husbands of her friends, and many a man admires his wife the more, the more he sees of other women.

But while plenty of general society is good for husbands and wives, it is a dangerous experiment for either a married man or a married woman to have dates as they did before they were married. It isn't in human nature for a woman not to be jealous if she knows her husband is stepping out with some young and attractive woman, nor can any man sit at home with a quiet mind, knowing that his wife is having a hectic evening, dining and dancing with some other man.

Cupid is the great monopolist. Those we love we want to possess entirely, and it takes more philosophy than most of us can muster to be willing for our husbands and wives to leave us and go to others for their good times!

So my advice to you, Mr. K. M. B., is for you and your wife to join some clubs, and give some little dinner parties, where you will get some feminine society besides your wife's, but to cut out all thoughts of running around with women as you did in your bachelor days. Your wife would not take kindly to the plan of your having dates with flappers, and you would be green-eyed the first time she put on her best evening gown and went out with some jazz hound. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—You say the business girl makes the best sort of a wife. I married one, and here is my experience:

First. She is suspicious. Says she knows men. That she has seen her boss as lively as a cricket trying to act like a youngster, and when his wife walks in he appears as if he had had an awfully trying day. She says it sickens and disgusts a fair-minded girl to see such stuff put over on an innocent wife, and she doesn't trust me any more than she does these men. Consequently when I come home I have to mind the baby and keep busy, as she thinks my day has been a lark.

Second. As to money, she is always throwing it up to me that she used to have $75 a month to spend on herself before she married.

Third. She is jealous, as she always imagines you are trying to make an old fool of yourself, trying to act gay with the girls in your office.

Fourth. She is no chum. Says she has heard enough about business to last her her lifetime.

Now my brother is married to a girl who has never worked, and she makes him an ideal wife, waiting on him when he comes in from the office, listening to him tell of his work, and never once thinking of the girl in the office as having any connection with her home. She has never had an allowance and is satisfied with whatever my brother gives her. This girl will never be suspicious of her husband, while the business girls are all suspicions, as they judge their husbands by the molloycoddles they worked for. R. S. T.

Answer—You can't judge all business girls by the one you married, any more than you can judge all home girls by the one your brother married. Doubtless their experience with men make many business girls cynical, but, on the other hand, it broadens the mental horizon of many more.

Business teaches them the value of money, to be prompt and accurate, and it gives them a discipline that stands them in good stead when they embark on the career of matrimony.

Nor is the domestic girl invariably such a person as you seem to think your brother has got. There are women who never saw the inside of a business office who are jealous, who are extravagant just because they do not know how hard money comes, and who make slaves of their husbands.

Nor are all business men philanderers. The proportion of them that are is very small. I have worked for many years in offices, and the most precious experience that I have brought out of it is the respect—I might almost say the reverence—for the American business man. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred he spends his life slaving to support his family, and the sacrifices he makes for it, the fidelity he shows to it, make him worthy of being canonized.

Love-making and flirtations with the girls in his office have no part in his life. He is kind and courteous to them, but that is all. They are just cogs in the wheel that grinds out money for wife and children, and that's that, and so far as her employer is concerned, a girl in an office is generally as safe as in her mother's parlor.

I am not contending that all business women make perfect wives, but neither do all business men make perfect husbands. And whatever type of woman you would have married, R. S. T., you would probably have wished you had married the other. DOROTHY DIX.

Tax Renditions To City Urgently Asked By Mayor Shepherd

Another urgent plea has been made fore renditions of city tax property, this one coming from Mayor Shepherd who has emphasized the need of turning in needed information on property values to avoid placing of the unassessed properties on the unrendered roll.

Ordinarily the tax rolls are closed April 30 and assessments are not accepted after that date. In view of the change made in the tax system this year, with property owners asked to come in to the tax office to make their renditions rather than wait for assessors to comb the city individually, the time limit has been extended by the city council.

It will be necessary to close the rolls in a short time now, Mayor Shepherd has indicated, and final warnings are being issued that the unrendered roll will catch a large amount on Wichita Falls property.

Only about 60 per cent of the normal numberof renditions have been made.

Rings and Pins For J. C. Expected Soon

Junior college rings and pins for the graduates are expected in the first of the week, according to a wire received by Miss Helen Knotts, president of the senior class. The rings are of gold and white gold, bearing an Indian, the symbol of the college, and the inscription, "Wichita Falls Junior College." No date is designated, however, as it is probable that the ring will be officially adopted as the Junior college ring for all time, it was stated.

The boys' rings differ from the girls' rings in that the shang is heavier and more masculine looking. The girls' rings are described as similar in appearance to a dinner ring, with the portion on either side of the seal dainty and decorative. Students are anxiously awaiting their arrival.

Sub Rosa—Mimi

GETTING IN WITH MOTHER

Alice writes to me: "Mimi, I'm simply a wreck. I've been going with the cutest boy in the world for about three months, now, and he's made an awful hit with my family—but I've never even met his. His father's dead, and the whole family worships his mother. He talks about his mother as much as most boys talk about the weather. I know that if I don't impress her favorably, I'll never see him again. And I care for him very deeply. Can you give me any ideas on how to make a hit with her so he'll like me better than ever?"

Alice is a very lucky girl to have attracted a boy so extremely fond of his mother.

She may be sure that he'll play pretty square with her all his life, if his devotion for his mother is so beautiful and lasting.

Now there's no mother on earth who doesn't feel just the least bit antagonistic toward the girl her son introduces to her —whether as wife, or just sweetheart.

But on the other hand, every mother experiences a sense of satisfaction in seeing that her son has picked out a charming, refined girl with excellent manners and a pleasing personality.

How to go about impressing his mother with that idea? Well, for one thing be sure to show a decided deference to her opinions.

Give the impression that your ideas aren't too decided—they subject to change if she thinks best.

Rather leave her with the impression that you think she knows 20 times more than you do. That will please her. They all like to be flattered.

Don't act too old for your age.

Don't try to meet the older woman on her own ground.

Most mothers like that air of girlish timidity which the majority of modern girls lack.

You may not feel the least bit timid, Alice, but give the impression that you're a bit uncertain of yourself. It won't do to seem too sophisticated and self-confident.

Don't talk of him with a proprietary air.

Let her assume the air of proprietorship.

You just sort of sit back and rest content in the knowledge that you'll probably get him some day.

Be sweet, be girlish and be deferentail. You're sure to make a hit, then.

Shrine Circus To Have Special Show For School Pupils

There will be a special matinee at the Shrine circus this afternoon when all school children of Wichita Falls will be admitted to the big circus and get reserved seats for ten cents. A number of special features will be introduced to entertain the kiddies.

The performance tonight will close the most successful circus ever staged by Maskat temple. Last nights crowd was the biggest of the week and much praise is heard for the high calibre of circus acts as well as the bazaar features.

The executive committee of the circus through their general chairman, Dr. J. H. Fletcher, wishes to thank the geenral public for their cooperation in helping make this event the success that it has enjoyed.

M.-P. HEARING IS POSTPONED

AUSTIN, May 8.—(AP)—Hearing on the petition of the several Texas branches of the Missouri-Pacific railroad system to be treated as under one management and control in application of freight rates has been postponed from May 12 to July 14, it was ordered today by the Texas railroad commission.

The lines included in the application are the International and Great Northern, the Gulf Coast lines, the Houston and Brazos Valley, and the Texas and Pacific railroad companies. The postponement has been agreed to by all interested parties, it was said.

PLAN DENVER ATTENDANCE.

At least three and possibly four or five social workers of Wichita Falls will attend the 52nd annual convention of the national conference of social workers to be held May 10 to 17 in Denver. Exact plans have not as yet been completed for theose who will go from here but it is planned that as many as possible shall make the trip.

An invitation is extended any one interested in social welfare work to attend the meetings.

Vaughn-Fisher Tots Feature at Recital

Voice pupils of Mrs. Hermoine Stewart aughn, and expression pupils of Miss Marguerite Fisher appeared Friday evening before relatives and friends in a lovely recital at the First Methodist church, south.

The soloists did remarkably well for pupils of their age and gave an entertaining program of songs between the groups of readings. Miss Lorraine Russell assisted with piano accompaniments. The performers were Misses Rosaline Joseph, Lora Arbuckle, Maurice Abbe, Evelyn Brown and Mr. Fred Owens.

The readers, some of them tiny ones, showed by their offerings that their training had been thorough and pleasingly natural in effect. Enunciation was good and pantomime was cleverly done by the young artists. Miss Fisher's program was divided into four groups: studies in pantomime, studies in readings, studies in plays and dialogues, and studies in dialect. Swedish, Irish, Italian and Jewish were interpreted in the latter group with ability by the students.

Expression pupils on the program were Will and Jack Gant, Mildred Vaughn, Jane Ann Fisher, Juanita Cook, Clarence Vaughn, Charles Chenault, Jr., Jessie Lucile Raley, Mildred Fox, Katie Lee Hardwick, Marjorie Smith, Mary Sue Gilbert, Roberta Shaw, Virginia Boyd and Hermoine Hern Vaughn.

REPAIRING RAIN DAMAGE

Workmen were busy Friday repairing wood block streets that have been warped and swollen by the recent rains. The usual ridges, peaks and valleys that follow after every down pour made their appearance and the street department was forced to get busy at once to make the streets servicable.

Rum Blockade Hurts U. S. Bootleggers And Not Foreign Shippers

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP)—American bootleggers ashore — the higher ups in the international whiskey chess game—are the big losers as a result of Uncle Sam's blockade of rum row, coast guard officials said today.

It is not the foreign liquor traders who ship the liquor here in the floating whiskey warehouses off the mid-Atlantic coast who lose, for they're playing almost a sure thing, according to the government officials, who today ended the fourth day of the country's most effective rum blockade since the prohibition law was passed.

Investigation based on their rum chasing experiences of the past few years, has proved that when a deal is arranged with foreign rum sellers for the shipment of a cargo of liquor to this country the purchase price is first deposited in banks abroad, the coast guardsmen said. The contract signed before the liquor starts its trans-Atlantic trip states that the contraband must be taken off the ship within a fixed period.

If by any chance by virtue of government blockade or otherwise, the consignee cannot get "the stuff" ashore, that's his look out, for the shipper has lived up to his end of the contraband carrier on rum row for the stipulated period.

Members of the local fleet on the blockade returned to their Staten Island base today to announce that it had been erroneously reported the rum armada was breaking up. All the boats that there were "on the line," when blockade opened Tuesday were there today, they said, in addition to four new ones which arrived yesterday unaware of the net they had sailed into.

Thirteen of the rum chasers, 75-footers of the patrol type, which have been placed like watch dogs about each of the contraband boats, returned to Staten Island today for overhauling. They had been on the job ever since the blockade opened. They were replaced by other boats that had been held in readiness.

MUNICIPAL ALTERATION

Alterations are being made in the quarters occupied by the city health department in the basement of the courthouse so that the office of the city physisian can also be accommodated there. Private rooms and offices for Dr. J. M. Whitworth are being partitioned off and will be ready for occupancy in a day or two.

Signed Contract He Didn't Understand

EL PASO, May 8.—C. G. Cromwell did not know what his contract with the Texon Oil and Land company for 1,400,000 shares of stock was when he signed it, Judge R. L. Batts charged at a hearing of the suit to have the shares cancelled and to force the officers to let stockholder examine the company's books was resumed here today.

"He didn't even know the nature of the contract and I can prove it," Judge Batts, attorney for H. C. Hansen and J. P. Scranton, plaintiffs and stockholders in the company, said.

It was charged that the shares were issued "fraudulently and without consideration for the purpose of controlling the meeting of stockholders on May 5."

An order restraining the officials of the company from transacting any business while the suit is pending has been issued by Judge P. R. Price of the Forty-first district.

Sam Bashara, In a Lace Petticoat, and Eleanor Fleming, At 3, In a Washtub Feature "Coyote"

THE 1925 Coyote, year book for the Wichita Falls high school made its appearance at the Junior college Friday afternoon, a handsome 180 page volume bound in blue leather and gold. The dedication on page seven to Miss Chella Hendrick, B. A., teacher of English, reads:

"To one who has held aloft ideals for Wichita high school; to one who has ever had the interest of the student body at heart; to one who has been faithful in her criticism, loyal and true in her relations to the school, and fair and square in her dealings with every individual, to our loved friend and teacher is dedicated the Coyote of 1925."

Miss Hendrick served as sponsor for the senior class this year and is mentioned many times in the volume.

Truly a "Memory Book."

The 1925 Coyote is indeed a "memory book," beside the record of class life and pictures of the students, the volume contains an excellent selection of features widely representative of school life. Work, play, stunts, activities, organizations, athletics, the arts, beauties and favorites, some good original poetry, attractive cartoons, snapshots, jokes, stories and pictures are well presented in the six books of administration, classes, organizations, favorites, athletics and the school year. According to the editors, the aim of the volume was to present as wide a scope as possible of school life, and to include in the material selected for use the doings of the greatest possible number of students.

Blue page borders and interleaves engraved in blue give the book a striking appearance. Portraits of the beauty and the favorites are full page bust pictures in soft brown tones, as are the four pages of college campus and building scenes. Other pictures are in black and white, the more attractive for the blue page borders throughout.

Color Scheme of Blue.

The color scheme of blue has been observed with striking effect. The cover lining is dull blue, all page borders are blue with a coyote's head at the bottom and interleaves between books are beautifully engraved in blue with shadings of blue and blue-gray, making one of the most handsome year books in the history of the institution.

Contrasted in a rich brown-tone are the full page portraits of Miss Mary Meredith, school beauty; Miss Mary Tancred, popular girl; Miss Marjorie Bright, all round girl; Sam Bashara, popuuar boy; and Welch (Rowdy) Curtain, all around boy. A special section of brown tone pictures of the college campus and buildings occupies a place of honor in the front of the book, significant of the fact that the class of 1925 is the first senior high school class to pass out of the portals of the new building.

Cartoons are original, and from the plates between class pictures. Poetry by the students covers many phases of school life and is unusually good. Class pictures are clear and lifelike. They were taken by Nossett in a specially constructed studio at the college and consequently are strictly "as is." Snapshots are clear cut, cleverly taken and arranged. "Stunts," "Luv," "Famous Poses," "Boys," "Prize Products," "Faculty," "Topics of the Day," "Pals," "Vacation,' and "Too Thick To Stir," titles some of the best pages.

Short Story Included.

A short story, "The Unexpected Passenger," by Kingsley Davis vies with a skit, "Miss 1850 vs. Miss 1925" by Miss Mary Moore for cleverness, and a bit of nonsense titled "The Bolonyfarm Bubble," by Wutsit Tooya mentions prominent seniors humorously. A pathetic little story entitled "The Tryst" has its climax in halitosis. A crossword puzzle composed of the names of senior students, by a senior boy is there, and a special page has been devoted to the class song by Eleanor Fleming, to be sung to the tune of "Blue Eyed Sally."

The school year is well covered with short and accurate writeups of all important events. Organizations give pictures of officers and a short history. The administration book opens with a poem to the new building by Eleanor Fleming, followed by full page portraits of Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools, S. H. Rider, principal of the high school, and A. K. Presson, vice principal of the high school. A group picture of the board of education members precedes the picture section devoted to the faculty.

The athletic book is complete in every detail. A general view of the year is well written, and pictures appear of A. Y. McCallum, athletic director, with all his assistants, the gym instructors, track, tennis, and baseball coaches and Dr. Allen P. Terrell medical trainer for the Coyotes. Pictures of team men with writeups are fine, and good action pictures of games accompany the game writeups. A special page has been devoted to Leo Baldwin's picture, individual high point man in the state meet in track, with the loving cup he won in 1924.

An "In Memoriam" page bears the names of Don Wiley and Harry Lovett, in the sophomore section. Several pages have been left blank within the blue borders in the back of the book for the autographs of classmates.

The funeral of Mrs. W. L. Abbott age 26, who died at her home at Bradley's Corner, northwest of this city, will be conducted at the Collier funeral home, Saturday morning, burial following in the local cemetery.

Deceased is survived by her husband and three small children. The family has lived in this vicinity for the past four years.

Railroad Squabble In West Texas Not Causing Worry Here

It was with no undue worry that those close in touch with railroad developments in West Texas, so pertinent to the interest of Wichita Falls, read dispatches yesterday that the Texas Panhandle and Gulf Railroad company had intervened before the interstate commerce commission at Austin in protest against the Santa Fe and Burlington systems occupying the territory it has surveyed for a line from Fort Worth to Tucumcari, N. M., and the Texas commission had been served with copies of the interventions and protests. The projected line would cross the Texas plains, which also are being intersected by the Santa Fe and Burlington lines.

Intervention Filed.

Specific intervention and protest is made against the application of the Santa Fe for certificate to build from Childress to Silverton under the name of the Pecos & Northern Texas and also from near Plainview to Dimmitt. The same objection is made to the application of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains Railway company, to construct a line from Carey, in Childress county, to the center of Briscoe county, and also a north and south line from Silverton, Briscoe county to Lubbock.

The Texas Panhandle & Gulf sets out that it holds a charter to build across the counties of Tarrant, Parker, Jack, Young, Archer, Baylor, Throckmorton, Knox, Foard, Cottle, Motley, Hall, Floyd, Briscoe, Swisher, Castro and Palmer. Furthermore, that it filed in the summer of 1923 an application for certificate to build this line and that hearing thereon was regularly held and that briefs are to be filed with the commission on Oct. 1, 1925, in behalf of said application. After pointing out where the lines would conflict or the same territory be invaded, the protest reads:

Claim Is Made.

"Intervenor further says that its application to construct a line of railroad in the territory sought to be traversed by applicant is prior in point of time to that of the applicant, and that if said proposed railroad of the applicant is constructed, the same will result very injuriously to intervenor and create and cast upon the public a charge not demanded by or required for the convenience or necessity of the public." As a result, the petition asks that the other applications be dismissed.

This is part of the contest to occupy the traffic territory in the West plains country. The Santa Fe, Burlington & Frisco are already driving for the advantage in that section, and the interventions filed make it appear that the projected line is being badly crowded in the territory it claims to have first covered and applied for.

Few Improvements In Prospect at Tourist Camp Say Officials

Few improvements will be made this year on the Municipal tourist camj in Scotland park, city officials have indicated, although it is expected the park will be called on to provide accommodations this summer for far more transient motorists than it did last year—the first it was in use.

Drives around and through the grounds will probably be graveled, but an increase in the facilities offered by the park cannot be made. Gas cooking stoves, bath and other facilities are now offered to motor tourists who are charged the nominal fee of 50 cents for each 24 hours' stay in the park.

Last year the camp grounds were used by thousands of tourists who registered from every state in the union.

AUTO DISPLAY

Attention from the larger cars. The roadser, in light blue-gray sport paint, attractively trimmed with gold lines offers something unusual in the way of exterior beauty. Inside, the car also boasts many departures from the old Studebakers. There are of course the pulldown curtains, balloon tires and all other standard Studebaker parts. A feature is the new style emergency brake, installed in the cars for the first time. Instead of the lever model the brake is thrown by grasping a handle protruding from under the dash board. The brake is more efficient than the old ones, agents claim, and should prove both practical and popular. Another feature of the new roadster is the new lever-key burglar proof lock. A small lever serves to effectively lock the steering wheel and the ignitian at the same time, and is, according to experts, absolutely burglar proof. Keim Motor company is responsible for the spring exhibit.

Leather Covered Body.

Something new in cars was seen on the floor yesterday morning in the 1926 model Hudson coupe. It is said to be the only make of car in the world with a leather covering on the outside. The entire exterior of the body, with the exception of the hood, is covered with light brown roughly finished leather. Contrary to the general belief, salesmen say the car will wear as good as metal. In the afternoon the coupe was moved to make room for the new style Hudson blueblack coach. With the standard square cut tops, the coach contains all the latest Hudson fixtures. The hood looks longer and the new balloon tires and lights make the exhibit one of the most attractive on the entire floor. Alongside the dark Hudsons was a light green Essex. Here again is the square cut top. The two cars are similar in construction, both containing many new features in the late models. The local dealers are the Wichita Hudson-Essex company.

Another display that served as an attraction throughout the day was that of Packard, Chrysler and Maxwell cars by the Lloyd Weaver company, corner Ninth and Travis. The biggest drawing card of the lot was the new Chrysler roadster. The light gray body, with its special added features, that have served to make it so popular in the past year, make it one of the prettiest cars on the entire floor. The hood of the engine was opened throughout the day Friday that those interested might view the powerful six-cylinder engine inside. The Packard touring car on display proved its popularity by the number of people who stopped to view the long blue car during the day. The blueblack Maxwell touring car likewise added to its growing popularity among four-cylinder cars. The many new features to the late Maxwells, that so improve it over the old and unsatisfactory models, are all embodied in the new models now on exhibition.

New Marmon Roadster.

Then there is the Marmon, Reo and Rollin display. The new Reo, always popular, drew many halts from the long moving stream of people. New lights, new interior features, and new top fixtures serve to make the big black car a landmark among the other models. The light gray sport model roadster is easily the most attractive of the three cars, however. The new style roadster is painted in the new Marmon colors, dark and light gray. The trimmings are in gilt. A new feature of the car is the extra seating capacity provided by a lift seat in the back. The Rollin and Marmon sedans also provide attractive exhibitions. Fritz Motor company is local dealers for the three cars and maintains two garages, one at Eighth and Austin and the other at 908 Ohio.

The Victory Motor company, 517 Indiana avenue, have another pretty display in the three big Rickenbacker cars, one in dark red, one in blue and the other in black. Tht flat top hoods and the wide bodies offer something unusual nl car bodies. Here again are many new added features, the models being exhibited in the city for the first time. The interior decorations have all been changed and the car is due for another popular year if the interest attracted at the show is any indication.

Franklins and Moons.

The big Franklins and the only slightly smaller Moons catch the eye immediately, though they are on exhibition toward the back of the garage. The Moon in a light green, with its sharply pointed hood, big top, sharply defined out line, with its new motor additions is only outshone by the entirely new Franklins. The new spring models excited much attention due to the radical change in body and engine. The hood has been remodeled so that it looks like the ordinary car covering with the exception that it is slightly flatter across the top. This is a departure from the slanting front hoods always used on Franklins before. The engine has been remodeled to fit into the new hood and offers more power, according to critics. The body, too, has been enlarged and the entire car presents a beautiful aspect from all angles. Franklon Sales company have the local agency for both cars.

There, too, are the new Overlands and Willys-Knights. The Overland six, a new auto entirely from the old model four, is on display. It is much larger than the lighter car, and about the same size as the Willys-Knights. Both cars are painted in attractive colors and caused much favorable comment. In the new six, salesmen claim, the company has found another car that will prove popular in that it is powerful far beyond its size would suggest and is attractive in both body and wheels. Overland Motor company, corner Ninth and Travis, have the agency for the three cars.

COMPLETE SEMI-FINALS IN SPEAKING EVENTS.

AUSTIN, May 8.—(AP)—Semi-finals were completed in the extemporaneous speaking, rural boys and girls high school senior and rural boys' junior declamation contests of the interscholastic league literary division contests today.

Editors and staff members of high school papers held a news gathering and news writing contest, the young people being assigned to the state capitol, with instructions to "Go and get it." Ace Evans and Polk Wells, representing Miami high school, defeated Paul Hawk and James Payne of Breckenridge, in the semi-final high school boys debating and will meet Ladger Nau and Harold Brantley of Yorktown in the final contest. Yorktown defeated Henrne, represented by John Rodell and Raymond Seel in the semi-final.

In the high school girls' debating Mary Roberts and Everette Love of Desdemona defeated Central high of Fort Worth, represented by Mary Groft and Mary Connor in the semi-final, and will meet Main Avenue of San Antonio, represented by Mary Louise Murray and Mary Nell Haddon in the final. Main Avenue defeated Edinburg in the semi-finals.

Elizabeth Langford Is Elected President Of Junior High Girls' Club

Miss Elizabeth Langford will head the Girl's club of the Junior high school, according to announcement received Friday afternoon.

Other officers elected were Misses Joline Wood, first vice president and chairman of the program committee; Miss Nathaline Lebenson, second vice president and chairman of the social committee; Miss Ruth Druce, third vice president; Miss Martha Johnson, fourth vice president and chairman of the welfare committee; Miss Dell Hatchitt, secretary;; Miss Clara Elizabeth Howell, treasurer; Miss Dorothy Smart, press reporter; Miss Elva Herndon, captain of room leaders; Miss Johnnie Morgan, re-elected sponsor, and Mrs. R. E. Southers, assistant sponsor.

Miss Jean Fiek, the outgoing president, made a short speech thanking the girls for their loyal support and wonderful fellowship that they had given her during the time she had served as their president. The other outgoing officers made short talks and the new officers made speeches, pledging themselves to do all they possibly can to help the club. This was the last meeting of the year.

Boilers Exploded On Boat, Belief

MEMPHIS, May 8.—George Foster, a Memphis engineer, gave the first word to the outside world of the sinking of the government steamer Normand with a possible loss of more than 25 lives in the Mississippi river south of here. Appearing at the home of K. R. Armistead, on the river near Lake Cormorant, Miss., he told of the disaster.

Foster told members of the Armistead family that he swam to the bank of the river with a nine-year-old boy, one or two women and another man or two after the boat turned over in mid-stream without warning. He said that only six or seven out of the supposed 40 or 50 persons on board swam out.

Uses a Skiff.

To get to the Armistead home four miles from the scene, Foster had to cross an island and a chute on which he used a skiff.

Foster told Miss Mary O'Donnell, at the Armistead home that the boat turned over suddenly without warning. He was so excited Miss O'Donnell said he could not give details except to say he could not ascribe a cause for the boat turning over.

Negro laborers on the Armistead plantation who were eye-witnesses to the accident said that the boat apparently was running smoothly when it stopped suddenly and careened and completely turned over disappearing quickly. When the water reached the boilers, it sounded like "an automobile running," one of the negroes said.

Accident a Mystery.

None was able to say whether the boilers exploded at this juncture or not but they were positive there was no explosion before the boat turned over.

Mr. Foster spread the news into Memphis and as the Choctaw, the other vessel docked at Memphis, aid was ready to leave for the scene. Dr. Louis Leroy put off in one of his speed boats carrying local newspaper reporters and ambulances carrying other newspaper men and doctors went by land. The Choctaw turned about immediately, and carrying 14 doctors, left for the scene.

STEAMER GOES ON ROCKS.

NEW YORK, May 8.—(AP)—The Danish steamer Hans Jensen went on the rocks four miles west of Whitehead, Nova Scotia, tonight according to radio reports received by the East Hampton station of the Independent Wireless corporation. Distress signals were broadcast by the steamer.

Loses Mother And Wife in Four Days

Called to Wichita Falls by the death of his mother, Mrs. M. C. White who was buried here Thursday, F. M. Avis of Imperial, Calif., received a telegram early Friday morning stating that his wife had died suddenly Thursday night at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Williams of Uvalde.

Mrs. Avis was formerly Miss Annie Rambo of Archer county. She was well known in this section of the state and news of her death came as a distinct shock to her many friends here. She had been in ill health for some time but was thought to have recovered entirely.

The remains are being brought to Montague for burial.

Boy, Age 12, Is Gone, Parents Ask Return

Lost, one boy, age 12, wearing white shirt and blue overalls, no shoes, goes by the name of Milton Furr. Such is the decription telephone into The Record News last night by a frantic mother who has been searching all day for her son.

He set out from his home, 1405 Smarsh street, early yesterday morning, presumably for school. En route he is said to have told some of his friends that he was going to leave home. He did not come to school, but nothing was known of his absence at home until he failed to return in the afternoon. Inquiries revealed that he had not been seen since early morning.

Police were notified but report no progress. Anyone seeing a runaway youth is requested to phone 9411.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Rosilyn Page, hard-worked daughter of a Long Island inkeeper, finds herself on his death, heiress of a huge fortune. In her hour of need she turns to Landis Ridgway, a charming young society man who in his visits to the inn had always been kind to her. His mother,

Florence Ridgeway, who sees poverty staring her and her son in the face, induces Landis to propose to Rosilyn, although he loathes himself for so doing. Rosilyn is radiant at the wedding, but as she prepares to go on the wedding journey, she overhears gossip that Landis is marrying her for her money; she hears herself referred to as the Gilded Rose. Landis is still in love with

Lydia Harbrook, a heartless beauty who is now in Paris, preparing to marry

Stevie VanVorst, a wealthy old roue. Lydia is really fond of Landis, and highly incensed when she hears of his marriage, from Rupert Briscoe, an old friend of Landis' who was present at the wedding.

One the night of the wedding, Rosilyn, her eyes opened now to the fact that she has been married for her money, tells Landis that theirs will be a marriage in name only. He is secretly relieved at her "common sense" attitude.

Rosilyn comes upon Landis suddenly and finds him gazing forlornly at a picture of Lydia—whom he loves more than ever.

"Would the other be so singular?" She laughed again.

"Your own conscience can best answer that."

Ensued a pause, while the train rattled and roared across the green spring landscape.

Briscoe, an odd expression on his handsome rather weary face, turned from the contemplation of enchanting little orchards and small red-roofed farms, to the companion at his side.

She was a pretty woman, chic and "bien soignee." Most people thought her beautiful. Ten or fifteen years ago, before life had made him what he was today, Lydia's type would have attracted him tremendously.

Odd that, sitting by the acknowledged charmer's side, his thoughts should be on the unsophisticated, ignorant and possibly unhappy little bride of Landis Ridgeway!

"So you think I'm untrustworthy?" he volunteered, in quizical tone.

"More of a Don Juan than a Don Quixote!" she flung at him.

"You have a pretty wit, Miss Lydia!"

"I'd sooner have a pretty income!"

"That ought to be easy, with all the wealthy swains that sigh around you."

"But what about romance? Can one control one's feelings?"

"Need one?"

She frowned a little.

"Much better to, if you're a woman."

"Controlling a fortune and a rich old man is what I hear you're going to do!"

A faint flush rose to the cleverly "assisted" cheeks.

"What of it As the good old bromide has it—better be an old man's darling than a young man's slave!"

"If rumor tells the truth—" Briscoe narrowed his eyes again—"the young man is still your slave, even though he's bagged an heiress!"

"Dear me, how very subtle! We're quite witty!" Lydia moved uneasily, flicking the ash from her cigarette. "I suppose you mean Landis—and Steve Van Vorst? They dislike each other."

"Can you blame them, when a beautiful woman is the bone of contention?"

"You flatter me." She gave him a pleased look, none the less, then added:

"Now that Landis is tied up, Steve can't possibly be jealous."

"And why not?"

"He's married."

"Well, what of it? We all know Landis has been in love with you for years. He's yours, even if—" and he broke off.

Lydia's brain was working rapidly. What did Briscoe's innuendoes mean? If he intended to amuse himself with Landis' wife—(it hurt to think of Rosilyn as that—even though she herself had refused to marry him!)—

"Was Briscoe, for his own idle the field with her quondam sweetheart would be freer, wouldn't it?

CHAPTER XIII.

The Pilot.

The trip across the Atlantic was an unsuccessful one. Lydia was lazy, and spent the long days in a deck chair, and the nights at bridge.

She gleaned from a fellow-passenger, who was a distant relative of Landis Ridgeway's, that the latter and his young wife were sojourning at present in a smart New York hotel.

It would be too blatant, thought she shrewdly, to engage a room there for herself, even had she been able to afford it.

But there was a smaller place, nearby, much cheaper, yet of excellent standing and clientele. The "lobby" held lots of cozy corners where she and Landis could enjoy a tete-a-tete.

Bored as indubitably he was with his ill-assorted marriage, he would relent towards Lydia, and the pair would "make it up" again. Beyond that, she did not care at the moment to let her thoughts wander. Who knows what the future might contain?

Arrived at the end of the journey, she got through the customs—always a ticklish job because of the Paris gowns, the nigrettes and the contraband that Lydia had a mania for smuggling into the United States—and found Rupert Briscoe at her side in the big dock-sheds toward 7 o'clock.

"Gad! It's great to be back home, isn't it? quoth he, as the myriad noises of New York rose to greet them. "What about dining with me?" It was too late to get anyone else, and he hated his own company.

Lydia replied:

"I've a bright idea. Why not get in touch with the honeymoon couple, and let's make a night of it? If you call up from here, you might catch them in, and there would be time enough for all of us to dress."

Briscoe grasped at the suggestion. He had had enough of Lydia's tete-a-tete.

They went over to the telephone booths at the dock.

"Don't say that I'm the other woman," Lydia adjured him. "I want Landis to get a surprise."

(She was afraid he would not come, if he knew the identity of the fourth member of the party).

A few minutes later, emerging from the box, Briscoe told her that he had talked to Landis on the telephone.

Expect the poor fellow's bored stiff, for he simply jumped at the invitation," he remarked, with a grin. "His wife's out, and won't be in till eight o'clock, but he says he'll leave a note for her to follow on. I told him Claridge's, at eight. Is that O. K."

"Perfectly," cooed Lydia. Then, with another brain wave;

"Oh, Rupert, let me go there alone to meet him, and you go around later to the hotel and get the girl! I do so want to have the chance of a talk with him, uninterrupted—"

"Why not, my dear? 'Smatter of fact, it would be much more fun if the party split into pairs!" Briscoe was all complaisance.

"You mean you'd be willing to take her off and dine in another restaurant? Landis and I at Claridge's, and you and she elsewhere?" Lydia was all excitement at the very idea of this fortuitous chance.

"I think it could be fixed. Putting one over on them, eh? Landis hasn't an earthly idea that he's meeting you, of course. You'd have to rush up to him in Claridge's and claim him."

"I'd do that, all right enough," smiled Lydia. (Who but her own fair self had a better right to claim him?) "I'll tell him you've gone around to the hotel to get his wife—" she forced the distasteful words out somehow—"and then we'll wait a bit, and of course neither of you will show up, and so we'll call the hotel and get a message that you've gone elsewhere—only don't specify which place or Landis would be sure to drag me there, to join you."

"Would he, indeed!" drawled Briscoe, his insolent eyes on Lydia's lovely face. "Im not so sure he would! He's only human!"

A Stumbling Block

Pastry is one of the simplest of mixtures, consisting essentially of but three ingredients—flour, shortening, and water. But pastry making, paradoxical as it may sound, is an undertaking that strikes terror to the heart of many a cook. It is one of the instances in which skill and judgment are quite as important as the recipe.

Of course the proportion of ingredients must be right in the first place. It is impossible to make tender pastry with too little shortening and yet it is possible to use so much that the result is unsatisfastory. A third of a cup of shortening to each cup of flour will make a rich pastry. A quarter of a cup will be satisfactory if the paste is deftly handled.

Any one of the many cooking fats and oils may be used successfully for pastry making. When you use butter or margarine remember that these contain a lower percentage of fat than the others and add two extra tablespoons to every cup used.

The most critical step in pastry making is the addition of the water. Just enough should be used to hold the paste together and make it of a consistency to roll out easily. No matter how generous you have been with the shortening, the pastry will be hard if it contains too much moisture. A crust in which too little water has been used will crumble. If you use one of the facts which are very hard and almost crumbly when cold, let it stand at room temperature a few minutes before miving it with the flour. A very hard shortening makes a very dry mixture and too much water is likely to be used in working it into a paste. The more lightly pastry is handled the more successful it will be. Use the hands, if you like, to gather it together and pat it out on the board, but remember that too vigorous treatment is fatal. And the less rolling the better.

Practice will indicate just how much paste will be required to cover the pie plate. It is the mark of a good cook to be able to roll out, with a few dexterous strokes, a crust that will fit the plate and leave few trimmings to be rolled over. When the making of pastry is thoroughly mastered it is not so much of a trick to turn out a good pie. The fillings themselves are simple. There are a few points, however, that are perplexing to a beginner.

Pastry is best baked in a hot oven—425 degrees is right for an unfilled shell. But when you want to bake in the shell a filling which calls for a low temperature, a custard for example, a problem is presented. The best solution is to put the pie into a hot oven. The pastry will begin to bake before the filling has become heated through. Then a lowered temperature will cook the filling properly and at the same time be adequate to finish the crust.

Then there is the problem of the soggy under-crust. An under-crust can never be as crisp as the upper, but it need not be unpleasantly spongy. Proper baking, a hot oven for at least the first part of the period, has much to do with it. Chilling the crust and cooking the filling before the two are put together is a help.

PLAIN PASTRY

1 1-2 cups flour
1-4 tsp. salt
1-2 tsp. Calumet Baking Powder
1-2 cup shortening
Cold water

Mix the flour, baking powder and salt and work in the shortening. Add water gradually using just enough to make a stiff paste. Turn on to a lightly floured board and roll out.

Recipes for the Electric Grill

CHILALY CHEESE

1 cup cream cheese
1 tablespoon cooking-fat
1 cup tomato sauce
1 pimiento or green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 egg

Place the cooking-fat in the grill pan, add first the minced onion and pimiento and cook three or four minutes, stirring constantly: then the tomato sauce seasoned well. Add the cheese cut into small pieces, and stir until the cheese is melted and blended with other ingredients; then stir in the beaten egg. Serve on toast.

SHRIMP SAVORY

1 cup canned shrimps
2 hard-boiled eggs
1-4 cup tomato sauce
1 cup cooked rice
1 cup rich cream
1 tbsp. mined olives

Combine the shrimps, rice and cream, place in the pan and heat; then add salt, paprika and the minced olives. Turn into a hot dish and garnish with olives, parsley and the eggs.

A Moy Sundy Dinner

Pineapple-Strawberry Cocktail
Roast Lamb, Mint Sause
Currant Jelly
Turnips Peas Mashed Potatoes
White Salad
Ice Cream Marshmallow Cake
Coffee

Recipes

COCKTAIL.—Four slices of canned pineapple, one pint of strawberries, diced; three tablespoons powdered sugar, and four tablespoons of juice from the pineapples. Mix and keep cold till serving time.

ROAST LEG OF LAMB.—Have the bone removed from a small leg of lamb, and the fat taken off without breaking the skin if possible. Stuff the cavity with a dressing made of one pint of moistened toast crumbs, squeezed dry, one egg, beaten, one tablespoon melted butter, salt and pepper and a small onion, minced. Sew up the leg, tie in a neat shape, and roast, allowing 20 minutes to a pound. Season the meat with salt and pepper, after it has been partly cooked. When tender, skim off the fat from the gravy and add water, thickening with flour and milk. Garnish meat using small turnips, boiling until tender; pour off excess water, season and add a sauce of melted butter.

WHITE SALAD. — Allow seven large, white cherries (canned) for each person to be served. In the cavities made by removing the pit put a blanched filbert. Serve on heart of lettuce leaves with a dressing made of mayonnaise and whipped cream.

MARSHMALLOW CAKE. — Make a layer cake of any plain white cake. Between the layers place marshmallows, which have been slightly heated to soften. Cover with an icing made of one cup of powdered sugar, into which butter the size of a walnut has been rubbed, and enough thick cream added to make it the right consistency. Flavor with vanilla.

Electric Cookery

Today there is nothing novel or extraordinary about electric cookery to those of us who have used either an electric stove, percolator, grill or vacuum cleaner. But to our grandmothers, these modern conveniences would have been most astounding. These modern labor-saving devices have gradually proved so thoroughly practical and been demonstrated to us so convincingly in our homes that we are now used to them without realizing the wonder of ti all.

Though these are no longer novel there are some points in connection with the care and operation of these devices not so familiar, which may prove helpful and saving of money and time, and the first of these is absolute cleanliness. Keeping the top of the range or the bowl of the percolator or frame is fine—but sometimes we fail to keep the vital parts of the devices clean because we don't realize they need it.

The short projecting studs over which the plug at the lower end of the flexible cord fits if not cared for may rust and cause short circuits and other trouble. Rub these until bright. Remove burned crumbs and dust collected in the toaster, using a dry cloth or small brush, of course only after the device has been disconnected and the elements are cold. Such devices generally have reflectors under or behind them and these reflectors on becoming even slightly dull will decrease the effectiveness of the device to an astonishing degree. Never wet an electric cooking device, but if it does get wet always dry thoroughly before current is turned into it again.

When turning on or off electricity from the smaller devices, such as toasters or percolators—never disconnect the plug joined to the device. Use the switch if one is provided or the plug at the outlet end of the cord. Using the pjlug at the device end causes short circuits, burns out the device and often causes other serious trouble.

There was a time when waffles or griddle cakes were identified particularly with Sunday morning breakfast, for only at that time did mother have time to bake them for us, standing in the kitchen while the rest of us feasted with gusto and merriment. Nowadays the electric waffle iron, to be used right on the table, has come to be as indispensable a fixture as the electric toaster, and father can cook them just as well as mother. A pitcher full of waffle batter, a bowl of creamed chicken or mushrooms and a pot of hot coffee have served many a Sunday night supper guest in homes where the larder supplies dwindle out over the week end. From its position as the exceptional dish the waffle has become, via electrical cookery, the hostess' lifesaver, something to fall back on for most any occasion.

Box Luncheс for Men

Most men who carry lunch boxes need a substantial as well as an appetite appealing combination of foods for their noon-day meal. The women who have to put up a lunch every day often find it difficult to plan these menus which are sufficiently hearty to supply the necessary energy and varied enough to keep up the interest.

There are many sizes and styles of boxes on the market and of course they should be purchased with the idea of holding enough food for a substantial lunch. A wide-mouthed vacuum bottle, a spoon and fork are added conveniences, and plenty of half-pint glass jars and wax paper should be available.

Meat sandwiches, cooked frankfurters with mustard, plenty of vegetables, raw or cooked, a dessert of cake, individual pies, fruit, and a bottle of coffee, hot chocolate, tea or milk will satisfy most appetites.

Cooked vegetables may be packed into wide mouthed glass jars — the half-pint size preferably—and don't forget to pack in a spoon. The same kind of glass jar can be used for salads, such as potato, or any other vegetable, fish or fruit salads and this will take away the unpleasant dryness of a plain sandwich lunch. Potato chips, whole fresh tomatoes, sliced cucumbers, pickled beets, all lend variety to the lunch box menu. Fruit berries, preserved or fresh — packed into a glass jar are always popular as a dessert—with a nice piece of home-made cake carefully wrapped in wax paper to keep it fresh.

Pies are favorites with men and these are most satisfactory if baked in individual pie tins. This elimnates the danger of the fruit juices running into other foods.

Fill in the corners of the box or package by tucking in a few salted nuts, raisins, dates or figs and perhaps a little candy occasionally. The men will enjoy the little surprises.

Generous slices of meat loaf between slices of graham, rye, whole wheat or bran bread. Garnish with lettuce and moisten with chili sauce or mayonnaise.

Cold roasts of all kinds. Place slices of meat on buttered bread — then spread chili sauce, mustard, or any desired relish on the meat and cover with leaf of lettuce and second slice of bread.

Dutch Cheese and Bacon Sandwich.—Between thin slices of buttered graham or brown bread, put Dutch cheese that has had a little diced cooked bacon added to it and moistened with salad dressing. Sweet pickles or olives go well with this kind of sandwich.

Chopped Ham and Egg Sandwich.—This is a combination of chopped ham and scrambled eggs to which a bit of minced onion may be added.

Ham and Pickle Sandwich.—Mix chopped cooked ham with creamed butter and liquid from mustard pickle. Spear on buttered bread. Cover one slice with thin slices of pickle, a lettuce leaf and the second slice of bread.

Celery and Peanut Butter Sandwich.—Spread bread with equal parts of butter and peanut butter creamed together, sprinkle half the slices with finely chopped celery and cover with remaining bread.

Questions and Answers

Question 1.—Why does my Angel Cake curl up or roll at the sides, and why is its texture coarse?

Answer 1.—Angel cake curls up at the sides, that is, the outside edges, when too great heat is applied at first, so that the outsides rise too fast for the inside part, and then, finding themselves without support, they fall or curl over. Angel cake is coarse textured, sometimes, from too high temperature in baking, but more frequently from the kind of beater used to whip the whites. A Dover beater, making, as it does, a close, fine grain, is better than some of the other beaters, which make a loose, light, fluffy grain that swells up the whites to a much greater volume.

Question 2.—What is Stuffed Celery, and when is it served?

Answer 2.—Choose the hollowed stalks of celery, and fill these hollows with any kind of smooth, savory, pastelike mixture, such as caviar, or a highly season cottage cheese, or sharp cheese, grated and made into a paste with cream, or highly spiced hard-cooked egg-yolks, or even a rich and savory forcemeat—anything that can be pressed into the hollow of the stalks and will stay put. Smooth the surface level with a knife, or make it slightly rounded, as you prefer. Cut the stalks into two-inch lengths or shorter, and serve as a hors d'oeuvre, or place a stalk or two on the plate with the individual serving of sandwiches, or cold meat, etc.

Use of Grasshopper Poison Demonstrated

QUANAH, May 7.—County Agent R. E. L. Patillo, assisted by County Agent L. T. Hunter of Childress, visited Chillicothe Tuesday and demonstrated the use of the poison in killing grasshoppers.

Hardeman county, through County Agent Patillo and the chamber of commerce, is making a systematic effart to assist the farmers this year to kill grasshoppers, and the demonstration at Chillicothe is one of several that will be given to show the proper use of the poison. Large quantities of molasses and arsenic have been ordered for distribution among the farmers, and good results are anticipated.

Famous Texas Treaty Tree to Be Cut Down

AUSTIN, May 8.—Treaty Oak, one of the most famous trees in Texas history, will soon be destroyed unless the city or some historical organization will pay for the upkeep of the lots occupied by the tree, Mrs. Walter H. Caldwell, owner, said yesterday. The tree, measuring over 100 feet in breadth stands on two lots owned by Mrs. Caldwell.

Stephen F. Austin in the first days of this city, signed a treaty with an Indian tribe under the shadows of the trees. Under the treaty no Indians should come nearer the settlement than the tree and no white man should go beyond the tree into Indian territory.

Hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name."
Benediction—Dr. E. B. Atwood.

Mussolini Hears His Government Berated

ROME, May 8.—(AP)—Stinging criticism was directed against the Mussolini government at today's sitting of the senate to which the premier himself listened with surprising calm. The invectives were pronounced principally by Senator Luigi Albertini, owner of the Milan Corriere Della Sera, the most influential of the opposition newspapers. He asserted that if the Italian people were free to express their wishes at the polls without humiliation or intimidation the days of the fascist regime would be numbered.

Senator Albertini denounced the fascist government's repressive measures asserting that liberty of the press had come to be a joke under the fascist administration.

Greenville Judge Sentences 46 Men

GREENVILLE, Texas, May 8.—Forty-six men, ranging in ages from 15 to 50 years, were sentenced by Judge J. M. Nelson in the 80th district court here today. Their sentences range from one to 15 years.

This is the largest number of men ever sentenced to the penitentiary at one time in a local court.

The men were closely guarded by officers when they were marched to the court room from the Hunt county jail. Hundreds of persons, men, women and children, crowded the line of march and the court room.

Mississippi Doomed To Be Without Fords

JACKSON, Miss., May 8.—A scarcity of Ford automobiles in Mississippi was seen today by automobile agents as the result of a suit by W. J. Miller, state revenue agent, to collect $12,000,000 in penalties from the Ford Motor company on a charge of criminal conspiracy to violate the state anti-trust laws.

W. E. Pate, automobile dealer, and other business men expressed doubt that any more Ford cars would be shipped into Mississippi until the case is decided, and stocks of automobiles were said to be low. Miller seeks to attach all Ford machines now in transit on the common carriers of the state.

Eighty Certificates To Graduation In Methodist Training School Awarded

Rev. C. W. Meorner of Dallas presented over 80 certificates to graduates of the Standard Training School for Sunday School Workers Friday evening in the commencement exercises of the school which was held nightly the past week at the Floral Heights Methodist church.

Southern Methodists from eleven towns over the Wichita Falls district attended the classes with local workers, reading the texts as taught in the five courses offered, handing in written work, and giving class recitations. Those who completed the work satisfactorily received a certificate which entitles them to one full credit toward the gold seal diploma offered by the Standard Training school system. The graduates who received certificates were:

No Verdict Arrived At in Forrest Case

WALTERS, Okla., May 8.—After nine hours of deliberations the jury in the trial of A. B. Forrest, indicted for the murder of George Hicks, 19-year-old son-in-law, last February, had failed to report at 7 o'clock Friday evening. No indication of how the jury stands has been made as the jury door was not open during the entire afternoon. The case went to the jury at 10:35 Friday morning.

The state is seeking either life imprisonment or the death penalty. The defense pleads not guilty and asks for acquittal. The prosecution based its argument and proof upon evidence of the daughter of Forrest and a neighbor. Neither, however, saw the fatal shot fired and it is upon this that the defense hopes to free their client, claiming that there is no evidence of his having killed the youth.

Mrs. Forrest, indicted with her husband for the killing, is now in a Walters jail awaiting disposition. She was remanded to the state insane asylum the first day of the trial by District Judge Wells, who sustained a motion of the defense to that effect and overruled a like motion for Forrest.

The Friday court opened at 9 o'clock, at which time the state finished the last argument. In his charge to the jury, Judge Wells brought out four possible verdicts, first degree murder, with death or life imprisonment as punishment; manslaughter with or without a suspended sentence; and acquittal.

Howat Held in Case Of Assault on Girl

GIRARD, Kan., May 8.—Alexander Howat, former president of the Kansas Miners' Union, was arrested today on a charge of assault on a 16-year-old girl of Arma, Kan. The girl had been living at the home of Howat and his wife at Pittsburg while attending school there. Howat gave bond of $1,000 for appearance in court May 26.

The alleged assault occurred April 3 last. The girl was a student in a business college at Pittsburg.

Howat made a brief statement after his arraignment.

"There is absolutely no foundation for the charge as will be shown when the matter comes to trial," he said. "I will have no further statement to make."

10,000 BABIES IN CONTEST.

After Fifth Have Been Examined But None Are Perfect.

CHICAGO — More than 10,000 babies have been entered in the national baby congress and health exposition and nearly 2,000 have been examined but no perfect baby has bee found and the nationally known doctors conducting the examinations said today none probably would be found.

The point is, they pointed out, a perfect baby never has been found, 99.9 per cent being the highest grade ever attained by an infant.

PACIFIC EARTHQUAKES.

MANILA, May 8.—A new series of earthquakes, having their origin "far out in the Pacific ocean" shook Albay, Sarmar and Camarines provinces this morning.

Dispatches received from Bais, Occidental Negros Island, report the wharf there was badly damaged by the tremors, preventing ships from landing. A flood tide during the day was also caused by the shocks, it was believed.

BALLINGER JAIL EMPTY.

First Time in Seven Years Both Count yand City Bastiles Empty.

BALLINGER, Texas, May 8.—This county has an empty jail for the first time in more than seven years. The doors are standing wide open. Concho county also uses the Ballinger jail and this indicates that the county also is without prisoners.

Runnels county is building a $50,000 jail.

Des Moines Police Plan a Weekly Parade of Bootleggers In Stocks

DES MOINES, Ia., May 8.—A weekly automobile parade of captured bootleggers confined in stocks reminiscent of old Puritan days, is planned by Chief of Police James Cavender "to inform the public of the bootleggers' true standing in society."

Announcement to this effect followed a parade through the streets of a wrecked automobile containing a police officer disguised to represent "death" and holding aloft a bottle labeled "hooch." Police say the driver of the motor car was intoxicated at the time of the accident.

NEW YORK, May 8.—A great thirst ashore and at sea seems to have developed from Uncle Sam's blockade of rum row off the north and mid-Atlantic coast.

On land the supply of liquor is rapidly diminishing, newspaper investigators say, and prices are going up.

Chief Cavender said today he was making arrangements for the building of large stocks such as were used in Puritan days. He plans to place "all bootleggers arrested in future police drives in stocks with placards and parade them through the downtown business section as an example of what the bootlegging business produces."

Police cars also will be equipped with signs warning the public "of the evil of illicit liquor" while carrying persons arrested on liquor charges to the police station, he said.

Indian Real Estate Agents Lack Necessary Technique And Land In Waurika Jail

WAURIKA, Okla., May 8.—Three Indians are languishing in Jefferson county jail. Their master mind who planned their various nefarious land deal schemes of Stigler, also Indian, also languishes in a like place at Paul's Valley. When Sheriff Frank Driskill went for him it was explained that Driskill was just four warrants late, he would have to take his turn with him.

All their trouble came from their get rich quick schemes, and the Indian idea that anything is fair in an Indian land deal. They operated in Jefferson and Grady counties extensively before getting caught. Their plan was to locate some Indian land, find a buyer who could put up considerable money on the purchase price, then one would leave to come back within a few days accompanied by either of three more who would obligingly swear that he was the sole owner of the land and the deal would be immediately consummated.

All seemed to go well with the Indian quartette until they sold some land to A. McCrory, at Ringling. When McCrory found he was cheated he started out seeking vengance. He got it. So did several others who had been beaten and who joined forces with McCrory. And another page of Indian real estate dealings is closed, at least for the present.

Wanderer Held At Waurika for Theft

WAURIKA, Okla., May 8—Luther Moody, hailing from everywhere and anywhere is in the toils of the law, over a car that he is alleged to have stolen from Floyd Allen at Ringling last fall. The car has long since been recovered but Moody was taken into custody at Wichita Falls this week, from which place Sheriff Frank Driskill brought him to Waurika. His bond has been placed at $1,000 and he can not make it. It looks like jail for Moody until the September term of court.

"I Aint Blamin' You" Cry Of Dead Girl, In Poem An Exhibit In Waco Slaying

The following verse was found scribbled on the back of a picture of Billy Boy, 7-year-old son of Mrs. Edna Alexander Fuqua, who was slain last night on the doorstep of her former husband's present home. The picture was on the dresser in her room. Perhaps it has some bearing on the visit which proved fatal to her:

Kinda tired tonight I guess
Makes my heart sorta ache.
Thinkin' God made a mistake
Somehow with me wantin' you.
Running when the doorbell rings.
Feelin' tho I know 'tain't true.
Like you should be standin' there.
Sorry, Pal, you couldn't care.
I ain't blamin' you.

Daytime don't seem so hard.
Kinda work it off, you know.
Though the days move awfully slow.
I can always see 'em thru.
But it's nights I can't hold out.
Gotta cry, Oh Pal, it's true
And somehow it dont seem fair.
Sorry, Pal, you couldn't care.
And I ain't blamin' you.

WACO, May 8.—Charge of murder has been filed against Mrs. Bennie Fuqua, 16-year-old girl-wife of M. M Fuqua, engineer at a local laundry.

Mrs. Fuqua is charged with the murder of Mrs. Edna Alexander, 24 divorced wife of her husband.

The shooting occurred at the home of Fuqua at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. Mrs. Fuqua's bond was fixed at $1,500 which she gave and her hearing set for May 12.

"I'm sorry I shot her. I wish it had been myself," Mrs. Fuqua is alleged to have screamed when she surrendered a smoking revolver to the first neighbor that arrived following the shooting.

Fuqua and his wife made statements to the county attorney's department, saying that on several occasions the dead woman had come to their home and annoyed them.

The wounded woman was rushed to a hospital, dying 20 minutes following the shooting. The bullets passed through the body.

Airplane Falls And Kills Sheep But The Pilot Is Uninjured

BALLINGER, May 8.—Falling in an airplane from a height of 3,000 feet and landing in a bunch of sheep, killing a number of them, was the experience of Roy Reeder, a prominent young merchant of this city, late Wednesday.

Reeder was returning from the West Texas chamber of ocmmerce convention at Mineral Wells when a broken radiator caused water to leak on the engine, killing the motor. By keeping the plane "right-side up" with care, Reeder made the landing safely. Aside from a shaking up when the plane hit the ground, he escaped uninjured. The accident happened near Talpa, eight miles east of here.

Williams Pitches Against Buffs, So Spudders Can't Help But Win Out

CARL GIVES UP 2 SAFE BLOWS IN NINE ROUNDS

Veteran Conquers Youthful Southpaw In Warm Box Duel

FITZ LEADS ADVANCE

Barnes Proves Tough Nut For Tannermen To Crack

By BLONDY CROSS

Mr. Carl Williams, the young old man of the Spudder mound corps, took his regular turn on the hurling eminence Friday. The game was with Houston's Buffs.

To the average Wichita Falls fan that statement is a complete story in itself. But for the benefit of the uninitiated we shall delve further into details viz. Carl, as usual, chunked a great brand of ball, held the swinging herd to a brace of clouts, and the Tanner outfit absconded with the contest, 3 to 1, awarding the heady starboarder his sixth straight victory of the season.

The veteran was opposed by young Frank Barnes, port wing curving prodigy discovered by Manager Goodwin on the sandlots of the Bayou City. The youthful southpaw served up an assortment of slants that were bent more ways than a pretzel, the delivery proving somewhat of a dark and enigmatic nature to our walloping Tanner crew. But a two-base biff to starboard by Howard Fitzgerald, rollicking Spud outer gardner, in the fourth stripped some of the mystery from the left hander's offerings. Bodie bounde dout to third, and Howard advanced a base. With Turgeon at bat, the Houston youngster heaved one into the turf. The sphere eluded the catcher and bumped the bottom of the grandstand. Fitz displayed a wild outburst of speed, and broke the 90-foot sprint record by tearing home from third in less than nothing. So much for that. Turge grounded out to short.

Buffs Score in Fifth.

Now Carlos walked two men during the nine innings of encounter, and as observed above, was nicked for a pair of safeties. Well, fortunately for the South Texans, exactly half of those hits and walks came in one couplet, the fifth. Williams gave Compton a coupon to start the inning off. Peter Sebastian (that's Comp's Christian names, first and second) went to the keystone on Peel's infield out. Then McCurdy came through for a bingle through short. Peter Sebastian didn't tarry until he had beat it safely across the platter and then into the Buff dugout. Mac took second on the throw in, but Fuller and Barnes rolled out to Turgeon. That comprised almost the sum and total of the Houston attack for the afternoon. Peel peeled a double to port in the seventh with two away. The menace was mild for Bodie chased back and pulled down ever so gracefully a whopping rocket to port by McCurdy. The pill seemed destined for a voyage to the barren regions, but the drive proved a few feet short of the rampart, and by extreme dexterity and agility the rotund one made the catch for the third out.

Fitz Bobs Up Again.

Somehow or other this Fitzgerald fellow, a left handed batter, was exceedingly right yesterday against the southpaw slabster. He belted three to virgin territory out of four attempts. In the sixth after two were gone, and it seemed, the way Williams and Barnes were traveling, the affair was slipping into extra innings, Distel laced the southpaw for a beauty to left center. The pill went as far as the boards, and Gorgeous scampered as far as the midway terminal. That was enough. Fitz deposited a stinging bingle in left, and George burned up the runways to the pan. Fitz, later, was cut down attempting to purloin second.

The game was put in cold storage by that last tally, but the gang jumped Frank again in the eighth by way of sealing her up. Jonnard led off with a bombastic bust to port for a base. Carl laid it down, going out pitcher to first, Fuller covering the bag, and advancing Bubber to second. Silent Cal breezed into the limelight with the pinch poke, a larruping single to right. Jonnard tabulated. The next two Spudders went down clawing, and the game was over, all except the first half of the ninth which doesn't count anyhow with Carlos on the hill. Three men faced him. Two of them were killed off by the inner works, and the third expired at the plate.

A Sprightly Affair.

She was a sprightly affair, that game was. Played her in one hour and 20 minutes. Both clubs fielded perfectly, but there was little sensational work, because the boys just didn't hit 'em that way off the two pitchers used. Fitz pulled in a couple of nice catches in center field. Both infer machines rocked along in great form. Fuller slipped back in the fourth to rob Turge of a bingle, and the Buffs made a pair of double plays. Barnes, Kane and Gainer handled the first one. It cut down a heavy Spudder threat in the third. The other twin killing was snapped off in the seventh after there was one out and Turgeon was crossing the pan. Kane, Fuller and Gainer enacting the life-saving deed.

Thirty-one batters faced Williams during the nine stanzas. Not bad, what? Thirty toed the medallion before Barnes in eight frames. Four Spudders were cut down on the paths, two via the double play route, and the other duo while attempting to steal second. Houston left three on base, so did Wichita Falls. It was a real ball game.

EX-TEXAS PITCHER

BOSTON WINS GALA GAME

BOSTON, May 8.—The Boston Braves defeated Chicago, 5 to 2 here today in the Golden Jubilee game of the National League celebrating 50 years of baseball history. Prominent citizens — state, city, military and naval officials, high baseball dignitaries and about 50 gray-haired "old timers," some of whom played in the first game of organized baseball half a century ago, saw the contest.

When the jubilee pennant was run up the flag pole field today the National League officially observed the completion of half a century. The competing clubs, Chicago and Boston, charter members of the original league formed in 1876, are the only clubs which can boast an unbroken history in the organization. All season the jubilee pennant will fly from the Braves' flagpole below the Stars and Stripes. The score:

Fast Trials Over Short Distances Derby Workouts

Son of John Now Latest Lexington Track Hot Tip

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8.—(AP)—Fast trials over short distances, featured the activities of the Kentucky derby candidates here today. Son of John, who also is entered in the Clark Handicap tomorrow, showed one of the fastest breezes of the day when stepped half a mile in :47 3-8 with ease in hand. His time for the quarter was :23 and for the three-eighths :35.

This strapping Son of Sir John Johnson is one of the latest "hot tips," as a result of his sensational trial at Lexington Wednesday when he went a mile and an eighth in 1:51 4-5 or 1 3-5 seconds slower than the track record.

GIANT HOMER WINS.

NEW YORK, May 8.—Billy Southworth, outfielder of the New York Giants, was the hero in one of baseball's greatest situations today—ninth inning, three men on, two out and two runs needed to win. He drove a home run into the right field stands giving his team a 5 to 2 victory over St. Louis. Previously Southworth had hit a triple which scored the only Giant run obtained in 8 innings off excellent pitching by Lee Dickerman. Score:

DICK MORGAN ON HILL TODAY

Dick Morgan is Skipper Tanner's selection for mound duty this afternoon in the second and final tilt of the series with the Buffs.

Manager Goodwin will send either Littlejohn or Burns to the hillock, he announced last night.

Morgan, it was who stopped Beaumont Tuesday with five bingles and not a run. Verily, South Texas' bludgeoners are developing lean batting averages indeed while facing Spudder hurling.

JOCKEY BREAKS LEG.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8.—Jockey Frank McGuire, 17 years old, of Louisville, who was to have had the mount on Russell Cave, Dr. D. B. Borgman's derby entrant, May 16, suffered a broken right leg at Churchill Downs today. The horse shied into a picket fence, breaking the jockey's leg below the knee.

Quanah High Takes Game From Eldorado

Coventry Wins Preakness With Back Bone 2nd

Cochran's Racer Covers Mile and 3-16 In 1:59

BALTIMORE, May 8.—(AP)—The eighteenth renewal of Maryland's turf classic, the Preakness, for three-year-olds, colts and fillies was won by G. A. Cochran's Coventry, running on a fast track at Pimlico this afternoon in the presence of approximately 35,000 persons. Back Bone was second and Almadel third.

Time for the mile and 3-16, 1:59. Twelve horses contested for the rich prize, worth $52,725 to the winner. Two dollar mutuels on Coventry paid $45.90 first; $10.40 place; $10.95 show.

Back Bone $2.60 and $3.00.

Almadel $10.90.

Coventry stepped the distance just two-fifths of a second back of the track record to win by three lengths. Fourth money went to Greentree stable's Chanty, coupled in the betting with Back Bone. Starter Milton sent the bunch off to a perfect start.

In the run down the stretch, Back Bone was leading by a length and a half but Kummer had circled the field with Coventry and dropped his mount into the runner-up position.

Turning out of the back stretch Kummer furned Coventry loose, and he soon drew up on even terms with Back Bone, but the latter refused to quit and it was not until well into the home stretch that Coventry got the top.

Once on top, Coventry merely galloped the rest of the distance.

FIGHTERS WELL PAID IN CHARITY BOUTS

The fighter is never quite so good a business man as when there is something to be done for charity. The mere fact that the profits of a show are to be invested in humanitarian interests seems merely to sharpen his business acumen. Every year the fighters reap small fortunes while posing as "willing workers for charity." One cannot blame the fighter, who is first, last and always a business man. But why the phony pose as a minister of alms to the needy?

Humbert Fugazy, who is promoting the Italian hospital fund bouts in New York, featuring Greb and Walker and Wills and Weinert has some interesting things to say on charity fights and fighters.

It might be recalled in passing, that Jim Jeffries received less than $10,000 for the hardest fight of his career—the second scrap with Bob Fitzsimmons. And that Mike McTigue, the third rate lightheavy champion, will gouge the Milk fund bout for a modest $50,000.

* * *

Wills vs. Weinert, Outcome Doubtful.

Fugazy believes he has made a great match in the Weinert-Wills thing. Naturally, being the promoter, he would think so. But Fugazy, who has felt the pulse of the public about town, tells me that opinion is pretty well divided on the outcome of the thing.

"Why, I hear any number of folks say they believe this bout will result in the grand show-down on this fellow Wills. You know, some think Harry is a really great fighter, while others take no stock whatsoever in this contention after every mediocre showing of the big fellow that he is ever 'under wraps.' They think he is a badly overrated scrapper, not at all in Dempsey's class.

"Well," continued Humbert, "I won't tell you what I think, except this. The bout will definitely prove whether Wills is first class or something else. Weinert is going great now. He's faster and cleverer than Wills, even if he isn't quite as big and strong. Anyhow, Weinert is plenty big enough. You know a man who scales 185 is powerful enough to whip any man—if he has the goods. And Charlie tells me he will weigh near to 200. I saw him only the other day, and take it from me, Weinert sincerely believes he's going to whip Harry. His mental attitude is wonderful. You're going to see a great bout, I'm thinking.

"At any rate, you never can tell what is going to happen between ropes. Some people will count it an unbelievable accident should Weinert outpoint the big colored fellow, which reminds me of a talk I once had with Jess Willard. It was shortly after Jess' battle with Jack Johnson in which he won the title at Havana. He was talking of fighters and methods of scrapping in general, and he certainly had some interesting theories.

"Willard actually thought that the winning of practically all titles was based on accident. 'I never could find,' explained Jess, 'the fighter who doped out a blow in advance and got away with it.' He laughed at the mere idea of a fighter planning a campaign in advance and working it out to a successful conclusion. 'It's all a matter of chance,' continued Jess. 'About all the blows I landed on Johnson were of the instinctive sort. I certainly didn't have any particular plan of action, except to do the very best I could under every circumstance that arose'."

* * *

Johnny Between Two Fires.

"Speaking of Wills having the hobbles on reminds me of a predicament in which Johnny Kilbane found himself over in Jersey some years back. It was a political rally of some sort, as I remember it, a 'Teddy Edwards night.' The promoters had engaged Frankie Burns, the local pride, to fight Kilbane. Johnny had given the impression to the political bunch that he would permit Burns to stay the eight rounds. Frankie had never been knocked out, and none of the politicians, nor Kilbane himself wanted to see Burns, a very fine fellow and a corking boxer, get laid out.

"Kilbane promised a hard enough fight without the knockout deuce wild, and every one was satisfied.

"But you can't fool a fight crowd, nor a referee who doesn't understand the conditions under which a match is made. The mob began to boo Kilbane for not trying, and the referee took up the cudgels in their behalf. At the end of the first round he galloped over to Kilbanes' corner and said:

"'Johnny, you're not trying. Now you get on the job and fight or I'll throw you both out of the ring.' Kilbane's face was a picture. He looked at the referee as much as to say, 'What's the matter? Aren't you wise to conditions?' And evidently Johnny concluded that he was not; that he meant what he had said.

* * *

"Well, Kilbane was surely up against it. If he didn't try to put over the k. o. on poor Frankie the referee would throw him out. And if he did step out and flatten Burns, then it was simply a case of a double cross on the influential citizens who had made the match. Can you imagine a chap in a quandary like that?

"It was a tough one for Johnny to decide, but he made his decision and executed it a few rounds later. When the proper opening arrived Kilbane drove a right to Frankie's chin and Burns took the long count for the first time in his long and honorable career—something like 18 years, I believe, the career, not the count."

* * *

Both Wills and Greb Want First Bout.

Mr. Fugazy hasn't as yet decided whether the Greb-Walker or the Wills-Weinert will be the final bout for the Italian hospital card. It seems that Greb and Wills are both displaying a bit of temperament in the matter. Wills maintains he is the star attraction, while Greb holds he is, being a champion, while Wills is not.

At any rate, it develops that Wills at least is the highest paid performer on the card. He is to receive twenty per cent of the gate, according to Fugazy, while Greb has consented to accept fifteen.

* * *

Speaking of the Greb-Walker thing prompts us to air an early opinion as to the result. We believe that Greb will give the welterweight champion a licking. This belief was strengthened after a talk with Johnny Wilson up in Philadelphia, Jack O'Brien's gym on Broadway, the other day. Wilson took a licking from Greb a few nights ago which may have colored his views slightly. However, they are interesting.

"Greb," declared Wilson, "will surely beat Walker. I fought him the other night and I fought him two years ago. Take it from me Harry was better in the last fight than in the first one. He hit harder and oftener and he was just as fast and as tireless as ever. That's how much he has gone back. I can't see any one but Greb in that bout. I just can't."

GLIDWELL AND SKEEN WALLOP ROUND-TRIPPERS

Andree Allows But Quintet of Safeties In Seven Frames

MUNDY LOSERS' STAR

Victors Clout Out 14 Base Knocks Off Brace of Hurlers

The Grace Methodist nine romped off with the long end of a 17 to 1 game over the First Christian club Friday afternoon on the Twilight diamond. Bill Andree allowed but five scattered bingles through the seven innings he toiled. Hicks played a great game from the catching position. He held the Christians well to their bases and nipped three men while on the paths.

Ronie Glidewell led the hitting for the winners by collecting a single, triple and a home run in three trips to the plate. He sacrificed the first time up. Dudley Skeen was next in line for the Methodists with two singles and a home run in four times at bat.

Lester "Big Boy" Mundy led the losers with two singles and a hit batsman in three trips to the plate. Mundy was also the only man to cross the rubber for the Christians.

The Christian club scored in the fourth. Riggs went out Neel to Skeen. Mundy beat out a slow hit to short. Crouch stopped one with his ribs. Bailey crashed a double to right that sent Mundy over the pan. Crouch took third. Mitchell hit to Skeen, who headed Couch off at the plate and he was run down. Mitchell was held at first. McConnell popped to Andree.

Rufus Neel was the only one to get on in the first for the Methodist and wild heaves by Bailey and Crouch let him romp home.

Skeen's single, Glidewell's sacrifice, a triple by Red Hicks, and a single by Brooks put over two more in the second for the Methodists.

The Methodists went wild in the third canto. Guy Taylor fanned. Neel walked. Andree lined one to the box that glanced off Umpire Mosley's right shin and went for a single. Neel took third. Andree went to second on the throw to third. Windham was safe on an infield bobble that sent Neel over the pan. Andree scored when Mundy heaved wild to catch him at the plate. Windham took second and third on a wild pitch. Woodson singled to left scoring Windham. Skeen fanned. Glidewell smashed a home run to deep center. Woodson ambled in ahead of him. Hicks took second when Mitchell dropped his fly ball in center. Hicks stole third and scored on Brooks' infield bingle. Brooks was thrown out stealing.

Two errors and an infield out let in another marker in the fourth.

The fifth frame also brought forth a wild deluge of miscues and hits. Woodson grounded out, short to first. Skeen singled to center, and scored on Glidewell's three bagger to left. Hicks singled to center, scoring Glidewell. Hicks stole second. In an attempt to nail Hicks off second the catcher threw wild and Hicks ambled home. Brooks was safe when Mitchell dropped his fly ball in center. Guy Taylor singled to left and Brooks was thrown out trying to make third. Taylor scored when Mitchell spilled Neel's fly ball. Andree grounded out to first unassisted.

Dudley Skeen's home run with Windham and Woodson on the paths netted the final three.

MOORE BRINGS IN 36-POUND CAT

Allen Moore brought in one of the best fish catches of the year from Lake Wichita Friday afternoon and placed it on the scales at the Spangler hardware at 820 Scott avenue.

About eleven o'clock Thursday morning Moore and some of his friends were fishing about 500 feet from the dam at the lake when the trot line revealed a large willow cat, measuring about 40 inches in length and weighing 36 pounds and one ounce.

CHURCHILL DOWNS SPRING INAUGURAL RACE TODAY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8.—Beginning its second half century with a record of fifty thrilling races behind it, the Clark Handicap with $10,000 added purse, will be the feature of the spring inaugural at Churchill Downs tomorrow afternoon. One week later the Kentucky derby also will be run over the historic track for the fifty-first time. The handicap, for three-year-olds and up, at a mile and a sixteenth, attracted twenty-two entries, among them being nine derby candidates.

The latest bedside photo of Babe Ruth, home run king, shows the condition in which his illness has left him. The bambino, who has been in St. Vincent's hospital, New York, since he broke down on the spring training trip, expects to be back in uniform within a month.

MILLION AND HALF LOSSES

AUSTIN, May 8.—Fire losses of $1,685,956 were caused in 408 fires reported to the state fire insurance commission, a report issued today by State Fire Marshal J. J. Timmons shows. Eighty fires caused by explosives and 122 of unknown origin, cause over $1,000,000 of the damage.

LEN SIGNS UP, SO FIRST METHODISTS ARE ALL SET NOW

The First Methodist Baseball club of the Sunday School league is ready now to meet any one. With the signing of Len Smith, Ludlam and Riggs, manager and pitching ace in the twilight loop.

Ward behind the bat, Smith on the hill, Allen and McDuffy as relief pitchers, will form about as good a battery as can be found in the league. Walker at first, Freddie Boone at second, Gordon at short, and Gerard Boone at third will make a nice infield. McMahon, Highfill, Rawls have been going great all year and will be greatly counted on by Skipper Boone.

PHILS GET TO PIRATES

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—Philadelphia buried the Pittsburgh Pirates under a 15 to 7 scored today. Lee Meadows was hammered from the mound before he could retire the side in the first inning. All the Pirate relief hurlers except Colloton were hit hard. Earl Smith, Sand and Harper had credit drives. The score:

McGEE TO MAKE ADDRESS

Adjutant General Will Speak to Disabled Vets at Kerrville

AUSTIN, May 8—(AP)—Adjutant General Mark McGee has accepted an invitation from disabled former service men at the Kerrville memorial sanitarium at Kerrville to deliver an address there Tuesday in observance of National Hospital Day. General McGee will speak in his official capacity as commander of the state department of the American Legion.

Starks at Orange Entertain Ma And Party for Carnival

BEAUMONT, May 8.—When Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson rips a silken barrier from across the Jefferson county side of the new Neches river bridge tomorrow afternoon, a modern avenue of commerce and highway traffic will replace antiquated ferries which have long been a handicap to southeast Texas.

And not only will Beaumont revel in bridging the Neches, but it will also do its first honor to the first woman governor of the state for "Ma" Ferguson pays her first visit to the queen city of the Neches, arriving early tomorrow morning. A week of festivities, the annual spring deep water festival, will officially close with Governor Ferguson's address following ceremonies at the bridge which will attract thousands of guests.

Large delegations from Hardin, Newton, Orange, Jasper, Tyler and other adjacent counties are coming. Many of them began arriving tonight and a throng of thousands will greet the governor when she steps from her special car.

Governor Ferguson, with her daughter, Miss Dorrace Ferguson, has spent the last two days as guests of H. K. Lutcher Stark in Orange with a side trip to Port Arthur Thursday, interrupting a salt water fishing trip aboard the Stark houseboat.

The state's chief executive will be occupied every minute of the day Saturday. A breakfast, with more than 200 reservations at Hotel Beaumont will open activities. Judge Steve M. King will welcome the distinguished guest. He will be followed by a number of other prominent citizens. A response is anticipated from the honor guest. A musical program has also been arranged for the occasion.

NURMI AND HIS MATES SUSPENDED

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—(AP)—Paavo Nurmi, Willie Ritola, Ilmar Prim, Gunnar Nilsson and Juno Fager were indefinitely suspended tonight by the Philadelphia district A. A. U. on charges of having accepted "excessive" expenses for their participation in the Colleg of Osteopathy track meet in this city last February 17. They have been notified to appear before the local board of the A. A. U. next Monday to answer the charges.

200,000 Hear Of City Prosperity

Assistant C-C. Secretary Spreads Tidings of Wichita Falls at Ft. Worth

It is an established fact that there are an average of five readers to every newspaper. Thus, with a circulation of not less than 40,000 copies, 200,000 people Thursday read the following interview in the Fort Worth Record by Fred Haskett, assistant secretary of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, indicating that this city is the exact center of 1925's prosperity zone:

"Splendid rains over the Wichita Falls territory and the Panhandle-Plains section assures those sections of good crops this year," stated Fred L. Hasket, assistant manager of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, who was a Fort Worth visitor yesterday.

"The success of crops in Northwestern Texas depends upon early rains in the spring," said Haskett. "This spring the rains began early and the farmers were well advanced with their work. As a result the fields are soaked and there is a deep season. Small grain crops have been damaged by the excessive cold weather of the past winter, also by a lack of moisture during January and February. Land that has been devoted to small grain will be planted in cotton and feed crops.

Large Feed Crop.

"The farmers have carried over a large feed crop raised last year. During the past ten days much old maize and kaffir has been marketed. The ranching interests are pleased over present conditions, as there is plenty of water and good grass. The cattle business is on the upgrade and better prices are expected.

"Wichita Falls is enjoying real prosperity. There is more building going on now than at any time in the city's history. At present two six-story office buildings are under construction as well as a number of other business buildings from one to four stories in height. There are more than 500 residences under construction.

"The dry weather that prevailed during January and February was a Godsend to th eWichita irrigated valley. Last year there were less than 1,000 acres under the dich. This season the acreage has been increased to 15,000 acres. The Wichita Valley project has 54,000 acres below the canals. It is being rapidly settled and the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce is just beginning an intensive campaign for settlers. A pamphlet advertising the valley is being issued at a cost of $6,000. The organization will spend its efforts in the States of Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and other states through the middle west.

Tells of Railroads.

"Wichita Falls is very much interested in the construction of the new railroad from Childress to Plainview, Lubbock, Silverton and Dimmitt. This line offers a short way into the south Plains section and gives Wichita Falls jobbers quite an advantage over jobbers of Denver, Kansas City and Oklahoma City. New industries and wholesale houses are seeking locations in Wichita Falls and the belief is general among the citizenship that by 1930 Wichita Falls can boast of a population of 100,000. The latest census estimate by the federal government pjlaces the present population at 58,400.

"Irrigation is going to mean much to Wichita Falls' future. The valley is watered from Lake Kemp, which has a shore line of 125 miles and is the seventh largest artificial body of water on the American continent. Water is delivered to the fields by gravity and the cost per year per acre is only $1.50, being one of the cheapest projects in America. The amount of water available is 13 feet per acre while the engineers claim only 1.5 feet per acre will ever be needed to produce a crop. The project can be increased to cover 100,000 acres at an investment of less than a million dollars."

LEGAL NOTICE

CITATION BY PUBLICATION.

The State of Texas.

To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, greeting:

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once each week for a period of ten days before the return day hereof, in a newspaper of general circulation, which has been continuously and regularly published for a period of not less than one year in said Wichita county, a copy of the following notice:

The State of Texas.

To all persons interested in the welfare of Newbern Norris Durrett, a boy 8 years old, minor. Know ye that Mrs. N. N. Durrett has filed in the county court of Wichita county, an application for letters of guardianship upon the person and estate of said minor, which said application will be heard at the next term of said court, commencing on the first Monday in June, A. D. 1925, the same being first day of June A. D., 1925 at the court house thereof, in Wichita Falls, Texas, at which time all persons interested in the welfare of said minor, may appear and contest said application, if they see proper to do so.

Herein fail not, but have you before said court, on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 8th day of May, A. D., 1925.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 8. — The upward movement of stock prices which had been under way for about a week was checked temporarily today by a heavy volume of profit taking sales. Net recessions as a rule were limited to fractions. Trading was in reduced volume, today's sales falling below one and three-quarter million shares.

Revival of public interest in the motor issues based on reports of high current earnings was one of the features of the day. Willys-Overland common moved up more than 2 points to a new high record for the year at 21¼ and the preferred touched a new top at 97½. Packard, Hudson and Continental Motors also attained new peak prices while the Pierce-Arrow issues and Jordan sold 2 to 5 points higher. Bullish demonstrations in the public utilities were on a smaller scale, although Montana Power, West Penn Power, Columbus Gas and Electric, Brooklyn Union Gas, American Water Works and Pittsburgh Utilities preferred all established new 1925 high prices, the extreme gains running as high as 5 points.

Further accumulation of the low priced rails resulted in new maximum prices being recorded in Ann Arbor common and preferred, Seaboard Air Line and Gulf, Mobile and Northern. Rock Island showed a net gain of more than 2 points at 48¾ and Union Pacific closed a point higher at 138. Southern Railway turned slightly reactionary on President Harrison's statement that the question of increasing the dividend had not bee considered and would not be until the preferred stockholders' suit was disposed of.

Oils displayed a firm undertone on the announcement of an increase in Smackover crude prices. Revival of speculative interest in Transcontinental Oil, which closed nearly a point higher at 5¼ in apparent reflection of a marked improvement in the company's financial position was one of the features of that group.

Steels turned reactionary in anticipation of the poor April tonnage report of the U. S. Steel corporation which will be issued at noon tomorrow.

Call money renewed at 3¾ per cent and then dropped to 3½. The time money and commercial paper markets were unchanged.

The feature of the foreign exchange market was a jump of 15 points to 16.90 cents in Norwegian kroner. Other European rates were irregular, demand sterling ruling slightly lower around $4.84½, while French francs were about 2 points higher around 5.21½ cents.

No. 1 prairie, Kansas City, $10.50; Omaha, $10.50; Chicago, $16; St. Louis, $15; Minneapolis, $15.50.

No. 1 timothy, Boston $25; New York, $26; Philadelphia, $20; Pittsburgh, $20; Cincinnati, $18.50; Chicago, $21; St. Louis, $20.50; Kansas City, $14.50; Memphis, $21.50; Atlanta, $20.

BRADSTREETS

NEW YORK, May 8.—Bradstreets' tomorrow will say:

"Numerous cross currents still rob the general trade situation of uniformity. Beneficial effects of the breaking of the southwestern drought tend to offset retardation due to colder weather overspreading the country at the close of last week hence retail trade reports are as a whole better. Wholesale trade is hardly as active, but is still fair for an ordinarily quiet season.

"Industry is irregular demonstrated gains in several important lines being partially offset by reactions to dullness in others. On the favorable side as affecting sentiment in the continuance of the strength manifested toward the close of last week in the securities and grain markets; the more uniform favorable reports from the surplus crop areas some winter wheat areas excepted; the demonstrated vitality of the automobile and allied trades exhibited by the setting up of a new high record of production in April and signs of a recurrence of activity in building with a gain in permit valuatons not equaled for two years past.

"Weekly bank clearings $11,232,496,000."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 8.—The cotton market was erratic but fairly active today and prices fluctuated frequently but within a very moderate range and developed no well-defined trend. Starting out 7 points higher, October advanced to 22.58, or 20 points above the previous close only to react 26 points late in the morning to 22.32, the day's low.

In the afternoon October made a new high at 22.60 but eased off at the end on week-end realizing. The close showed a net gain of 6 points on October and 4 to 5 on other active months.

At the start Liverpool was decidedly better than due and spot sales there were increased to 10,000 bales for the day, a comparatively large business. Cables reported a good demand for spots, covering by shorts and trade calling. The early gain was due largely to the strength of cables and the fear that Texas was receiving too much rain. The reaction which carried prices down to the lows of the day was due to week-end evening up and to hope created by the weather map that the western rains might extend shortly to the belt east of he Mississippi river.

The rally after mid-session which made new highs was due to rather liberal mill takings for the week, 241,000 bales against 192,000 last year and to the substantial decrease of 154,000 bales in the visible supply of American for the week. Dry news in many portions of the central and eastern sections of the belt helped. Some of the net gain was sacrificed in the final trading on week-end realizing. Fall River reported sales of print cloths for the week at 4,000 pieces. A prominent private authority estimated the increase in acreage at 4.7 per cent and claimed that 58 per cent of the crop has been planted. The same authority estimated April domestic mill consumption at 531,000 bales against 479,000 last year.

Exports today totaled 4,000 bales, and for the week 48,207.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, May 8.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The downward trend in wool values appears to have been stopped, temporarily at least, and with the wool auctions at London being curtailed and a suspension of sales in Australia until July, it would seem as if a stable basis might now be found upon which to do business. Prices have changed only slightly here during the past week and it is evident that the decline at London of 10 to 15 per cent Merinos was fully discounted.

SOLD OUT

—The demand for the New TULIP ICE CREAM cups has been so great as to completely sell us out of our first shipment. A new shipment is being rushed to us by Express from New York and as soon as these arrive we will be able to meet the greatest demand that ever greeted a Frozen Dainty.

Travelers Close Convention Here

J. H. Leech of Dallas Is Elected President for 1925-26

MAY VICE-PRESIDENT

Austin Is Chosen as Next Meeting Place For Association

J. H. Leech of Dallas was elected president of the Texas Protective Travelers' association at the final business session of the convention being held here late yesterday. George Tingle of San Antonio was named first vice-president, H. A. Bradow of San Antonio second vice-president, and Harry May of Wichita Falls third vice-president. L. R. Wilson of Dallas and M. C. Eidson of San Antonio were re-elected to the offices of secretary and treasurer and state chaplain, respectively. Austin was chosen as the next meeting place for the convention over Texarkana by a vote of about 75 to 10.

Banquet at Wichita Club.

The banquet at the Wichita club last night closed the convention, adjournment being voted when it was finally decided that dirt roads between Lake Kemp and Wichita Falls made the program arranged for Saturday impossible.

About 200 attended the banquet at the Wichita club last night. In the principal address of the evening Judge J. S. Dickey told the visitors, "You are engaged in a mission far more important than selling goods. You are evangels of a new era, forerunners of an age that is to come, when the furthermost portions of a nation will be welded together through just such expeditions as come within the daily routine of your lives.

"The almost unbelievable growth of the south and west would be incomprehensible if it could not be explained by the net of trade with you and your association have welded the rural and urban, and one city with its sister community thousands of miles away."

Bright Is Toastmaster.

J. D. Bright was toastmaster for the occasion. A. R. Wilgus led the conclave in a series of songs and a running line of patter was kept up by Pope Poole in the role of a negro entertainer. Mrs. J. S. Pittman accompanied at the piano by her husband gave a number of readings. Invocation was by M. C. Eisop, chaplain of the association.

A silver service was presented to Perry Robertson, attorney for the association, at yesterday afternoon's meeting in token of appreciation of more than ten years' active work in its service. The retiring president, J. M. Duggan, was presented a gold watch. Dallas post was awarded a silver loving cup for gaining more new memberships during the year than any other post, while C. W. Lemm of Brenham, Texas, received a loving cup for writing up more applications for membership than any other one man.

Parade Abandoned.

Yesterday morning's meeting was opened at 9:30 by retiring President J. M. Duggan after the street parade planned for the morning had been abandoned in favor of an early start to the business session. Rev. Melvin C. Eidson of San Antonio addressed the convention then, explaining its creed, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Proposed resolutions were then heard and referred to the committee appointed yesterday on resolutions.

The president's report of the year's activities of the convention contained especial praise for the work of C. W. Lemm of Brenham, who secured 120 applications for membership in the association during the past 12 months. The Brenham post shows the largest gain in membership of any post during the past twelve months. Two new posts were established during the year, one at Lufkin and one at Waxahachie. The report also contained a plea for greater work in the securing of memberships to the organization.

8,300 Memberships.

The secretary and treasurer, R. L. Wilson of Dallas, in his report stated that the 24 Texas posts of the T. P. A. have a combined membership of 8,300. An estimate of next year's membership based on the gain made in the last year or so by Mr. Wilson credited the association with 10,000 members by them.

Reports of the committees on memberships, press activity and others were heard. The chairman of the committees on hotel accommodations reported that considerably fewer complaints had been heard during the past year on service at hotels than in the years before. In this connection the Jefferson hotel at Dallas was praised, and a short talk made by its owner, Charles Mangold.

Perry S. Robertson and George Mendell Jr. reported on the legislative and legal activities of the association during the past year and F. R. Pool of Sherman reported for the committee on railroads.

College Juniors Banquet Seniors

The junior class of the college entertained Friday evening with a banquet at the college cafeteria, honoring the college seniors and the faculty.

The banquet table was prettily decorated in the colors, yellow and pink. A large basket of Dorothy Perkins roses was used as a center piece for the table. Yellow and pink streamers were tied from the large basket to the smaller baskets of flowers which were used at the corners of the table. The place cards and favors were used to further the decoration scheme.

Eddie Kadane, the junior class president presided over the banquet. He gave a welcome to the senior class from the junior class as a whole. Miss Verna Sells in the absence of Miss Helen Knotts, senior president, responded to the welcome. Floyd Ard was a delightful addition to the program, giving several piano numbers. Misses Elizabeth Couper and Jeanette Scott, popular members of the senior class of the high school delighted the audience with several ukulele numbers. John Robinson played a saxophone solo, accompanied by Miss Vivian Ross at the piano; Eddie Kadane sang a solo and Miss Lucile Smith gave a piano number.

Following the dinner Roy Daniels made a short speech and all members of the faculty who were present were called on for short impromptu speeches.

The guest list including members of the senior class and the faculty consists of Misses Margaret Akin, Maurine Apple, Zon Baucham, Thelma Cain, Margaret Coleman, Anna Crews, Audra Faye Darby, Isabel Delph, Eleanor Gribble, Marie Johnson, Helen Knotts, Macie McClure, Dorothy Ruggly, Elizabeth Peters, Loreign Russell, Judith Sherrod, Eleanor Spaulding, Ellen Wright, Ruth Marie Yates, Stella Winters and Stanfill Bailey, Wade Bartlett, Preston Beck, Al Brothers, Joe Johnston, John Kervil and Henry Skaggs; Messrs and Mesdames J. W. Cantwell, H. S. Rider, Roy Daniel, Jonas; Misses Eva Weber, Elisabeth Brown, Jobe McCulloch and Verna Sellars, McClain and Messrs Edward and Johnson.

Members of the freshman class present were Misses Fern Sides, Lucille Smith, Edna Rundell, Alta Saye, Marie Thorne, Ellen Hooker, Edna Preckle, Gladys Faye Johnson, Donna Mitcham, Lillian Herschi, Maude Smith, Leota Tucker, Margaret Brown, Nell Fisher, Janice Maloney, Marietta Hunt, Ora Fennington; Eddie Kadane, Alfred Bennett, Squibb Parish, Vernon McGee, Theadore Allen, Charles Weeth, W. D. Nelson, Conan Cantwell, Tally Simmons, Jack Thurman and Lowery Crites.

Stockholders Seek Order Against The Nickel Plate Merger

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—Counsel for minority stockholders who are contesting the Van Sweringen Nickel Plate consolidation project, petitioned the Interstate Commerce commission today for an order divesting the O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen and their associates of control of the Chesapeake & Ohio and Hocking Valley railroads.

The request was based on detailed allegations of fraud and of conduct tending to "despoil Chesapeake & Ohio stockholders" of their rights and property which Thomas R. Gay, attorney for a minority committee read into the record but which Commissioner Meyer told him would not be received under the commission's rules of procedure.

Britain Sees Big C-C Meet for '27

Wichitan, Director of West Texas Body Thinks Convention Coming Here

"Wichita Falls stands in a happy position to secure the 1927 convention" declared Judge A. H. Britain, reporting on the annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce at Mineral Wells which was attended by more than 135 Wichitans, before the business council of the chamber of commerce Friday noon at the regular Kemp luncheon. "The people of West Texas want to keep the convention in West Texas instead of the larger cities in other parts of the state, and they like Wichita Falls. Our delegation was said to be the largest at the convention."

Judge Britain, a director in the West Texas chamber, at the request of President Jack Bernard, gave a complete report of the meeting and told of the election of Walter Cline to the vice presidency, and P. A. Rogers as a director at the meet. Judge B. D. Sartin, Harry Gray, F. W. Fisher and others spoke also of the trip. Fred L. Haskett, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce, announced that the first meeting of the new board of directors of the West Texas chamber would be held in this city within the coming two weeks.

The Rev. Melvin C. Eidson, of San

JUDGE A. H. BRITAIN.

Antonio, chaplain of the state Travelers Protective association, was introduced by Harry May, and spoke briefly on the growth and progress of Wichita Falls since he left here eight years ago. State officials and ex-officials of the T. P. A. attending the convention now in session here, were guests of the council, and were introduced.

R. D. Kennedy, W. E. George, J. A. Richolt, Walter S. Curlee and L. L. Dixon were appointed by President Barnard as a traffic committee and instructed to meet and confer with the Safety Council and the city council to study traffic problems.

Lynch Davidson To Argue Road Finance At Highway Meeting

Following an announcement made here by Lynch Davidson of Houston, that he would speak at the annual membership meeting of the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway association, scheduled to be held June 8 and 9 in Dalhart, word was received Friday that he will discuss state aid in road building, supporting it as the logical means of outside assistance in highway construction. Divergent views will be submitted by John Morrow of Raton, N. M., a national congressman, who will support federal aid as a means of promoting road building.

The two addresses will in effect be a debate, since the two speakers will treat entirely different angles of highway financing. Mr. Davidson has never been enthusiastic over the federal government paving roads through separate states. On the other hand, Mr. Morrow is preparing a bill for submission to congress, calling for it to construct important intra-state highways as well as national trails.

Kilander Recital a Semi-Climax to The Season's Musicals

Miss Katherine Kilander appeared Friday evening in one of the most successful musical recitals of the season when she was presented by her teacher, Ernest Katz, at the Junior college auditorium before a large crowd of friends and music lovers.

The young pianist, in a program displaying great technical skill, established herself in the city as an artist of the first rank as she played with able interpretation. The program, in the order of numbers, illustrated the development of music from the time of Bach in the seventeenth century to the present day, and the selections as chosen displayed the complete field of musical style.

Plays Bach Numbers

Playing first four Bach numbers, two preludes and two figures, Miss Kilander developed the clear accurate style so characteristic of "the father of music," as Bach is known. Passing then to romantic music, she played Mendelsshon's "Variations Serieuses," deftly weaving the short theme through many variations, with technic so perfect that the original theme could always be heard by her audience.

The young performer's star number, however, was Beethoven's famous Sonata, Op. 57 (Apassionata.) The audience sat in silence as her gifted fingers developed the beautiful melody of the allegro in the first movement. The andante followed, slow and sweet with the simple melody plainly marked and swung into the lovely allegro movement that so resembles the rondo of Sonata Op. 53. Then with nerve and brilliance she swept her listeners through the speeding whirl of the presto movement, rapid beyond belief, that brings the famous number to a climax and close. Her technic was notable for its smoothness and speed.

Three of Chopin

Three of the most famous Chopin numbers followed, the "Black Key Etude," "Butterfly Etude" and "Revolutionary Etude," played with a skill that portrayed clearly their message. Chopin's Nocturne, Op. 25, No. 2, the number played by Miss Kilander at last years' recital so enjoyably, was given, sedately and beautifully with rich tone work. Chopin's "Scherzo in C Sharp Minor," one of the most beautiful numbers of the evening closed the group with a dash of speed and color.

Further displaying the various types of music was a miscellaneous group of four numbers. The first was a lovely serenade by Rachmaninoff, Op. 3, No. 5, which reminded one of a moonlit balcony and the soft strumming of guitars. Miss Kilander's versatility in this group was clearly displayed as she played each selection truly in its own style and "atmosphere." The birliant "Valse de Concert" by La Forge, one of the present day American composers and pianists was enjoyable. "Impsi" by Strukow Rider, an extremely modernistic selection required a great deal of technical skill, and in sharp contrast was "Shepherd's Hey," a typical old English country dance as artistically transcribed by Percy Grainger for the piano.

Closing the interesting program was Liszt's celebrated "Rhapsodie Hongroies No. 2," a number that many pianists attempt, but "butcher" sadly for lack of technical skill and pianistic ability. The young pianist's clear and beautiful rendition of the difficult number brought her unstinted praise from local musicians present, and rounds of applause.
