Maternal Aviators Make Final Stop In U. S. On Trip To Mexico City; To Hop Off Sometime Today

(By Associated Press)
BROWNVILLE, Aug. 8.—Col. Noel D. Granados and Liet. Merlen Guzman, good-bye to their country and paid their last call in the United States tonight and prepared to hop for Mexico City tomorrow. There was a hint of regret in Merlen's voice as he announced the flight would be continuing tomorrow and that they would leave the United States as soon as they receive a weather report tomorrow morning they plan to hop off.

The fliers were enthusiastic in their praise of President and Mrs. Hoover. We took Mrs. Hoover a present in the wife of the president of the country. Merlen said: "We also had messages of good will from president to President Machado Cuba, President Hoover and General Pershing of Mexico. Mrs. Hoover is one of the most popular women in the world."

Strike Ordered Of Eighty Thousand Workers In U.S. And Canadian Industries

"Sweat Shop" Conditions Are Charged By International Union; Nine Cities Are To Be Affected

By Associated Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The general executive board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union today authorized a strike of 80,000 workers in the women's dress industry in the United States and Canada. Nine cities are affected, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Baltimore, Kansas City, Toledo and Toronto. The strike is each case to go into effect at the discretion of the local union. Date set December 1.

David Dubinsky, acting president of the International union, said the strike in New York, involving 45,000 workers, was set for December 1, at the expiration of the present contract.

At the same time an immediate strike of 7,000 workers here, 90 per cent of them women, was ordered by the board for the embroidery workers, tuckers, pleaters and hemstitchers' unions. This will be a strike for a 40 hour week, Dubinsky said. A general strike of 1,800 cloak-makers in Toronto also was ordered immediately, Dubinsky said. Dubinsky said that the strike was called to fight "sweat shop" conditions in the garment industry, and that the present 50 hour week must be supplanted by a 40 hour week. He said that an increased wage scale would be worked out at conferences later.

"Keep Your Shirt On" Is Ordered
STANFORD, University, Calif., Aug. 8. (AP)—Sun tan or no sun tan, all Stanford male students must wear shirts out-of-doors in the future. Controller A. E. Roth, of the University so decreed today.

The ultimatum, characterized by some of the students as "provincial and a reversion to the mauve decade," was supposed to have been occasioned by the action of undergraduates who played tennis clad only in gymnasium trunks. Students employed about the campus as truck drivers also were said to have offended by removing their shirts while at work.

Second Collapse Victim Succumbs

Supports Said Inadequate After Houston Warehouse Building Crumples Thursday, Crushing Two Men
HOUSTON, Aug. 8.—With the toll in Thursday morning's warehouse collapse boosted to two by the death of an injured negro workman, a city engineering report stating that existing support methods were "entirely inadequate and unstable" was to be embodied in inquest verdicts.

Booker T. Walton, negro, died at a hospital Thursday afternoon a few hours after the collapse of a block long portion of the Damon Wells warehouse which was under construction. Charles Petty, 55, white, was crushed to death beneath falling brick and two others were injured.

Supports Inadequate
J. G. McKenzie, city building engineer, said the method of supporting awning brackets was "inadequate and unstable" due to the fact that the brick wall supporting the brackets could not take bending stresses introduced by a cantilever awning. ### 102-Year-Old "Chicken Eatin' Methodist" Visits Lubbock; Launches Attack Against Republicans

By CHARLIE WATSON
Morning Avalanche Staff
THOUGH 102 long winters have passed, lengthening years that have dimmed her eyes and deafened her hearing; work that has made of once dainty and beautiful hands, wrinkled and gnarled fingers; care that has lined her brow with the creasing mark of time; hair long ago turned to a lustrous silver, "Grandma" Alice Robertson, pioneer of the Texas frontier days, has not lost the spirit that has carried her through more than a century of life, and today she is in Lubbock en route to Marshall.

Zeppelin Soaring Onward In First Leg Of Proposed Air Trip Around World

Giant German Ship Averages Fifty-Five Miles For First Twelve Hours After Leaving Lakehurst

By Associated Press
FOR the first 12 hours on its world flight the Graf Zeppelin made an average speed of about 55 miles an hour, which it maintained without stops would take it around the globe in less than 17 days.

There are to be three stops before it gets back to Lakehurst, each of several days duration, and it is not likely the favorable conditions of the first few hours will continue throughout the long journey over two oceans and three continents.

Start Is Auspicious
There was an auspicious start, during which the passengers could accustom themselves to dirigible travel and harden themselves to whatever rigors of the air might be in store for them.

In the words of one of the 22 passengers, William Weber of New York, expressed in a wireless dispatch to his wife, the passengers were "enjoying the happiest moments of their lives."

Seen By Freighters
The Graf left Lakehurst at 11:40 o'clock, E. S. T. Wednesday night, heading seaward for the first scheduled stop at Friedrichshafen, Germany. Thursday it reported its position several times by wireless, and two ocean liners and two freighters sighted it.

At 11 A. M. Thursday, almost 11 hours after the takeoff, the dirigible reported to the navy it was 630 miles east of New York. The Graf confined navy messages to terse notations of position and time.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, expected to be in Friedrichshafen Sunday, his 61st birthday.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—Favorable winds that should add 20 or 25 miles an hour to the speed of the Graf Zeppelin during the next 12 hours to the speed of the Graf Zeppelin during the next 12 hours of her journey across the Atlantic were forecast tonight by the weather bureau.

The forecast issued at 9:30 P. M. E. S. T., follows:
"Relatively low pressure north of Belle Isle with high pressure south of Nova Scotia will cause fresh west winds and mostly fair weather over the Graf Zeppelin in the next twelve hours at least. Such conditions should add 20 or 25 miles per hour to her normal speed."

Traffic Warning Issued By Chief

Pedestrians and Motorists Must Suffer Consequences If Regulations Are Violated, Says Lemon
Chief of Police John Lemon last night issued a warning that motorists and pedestrians alike must heed or "suffer the consequences," in the observance of traffic regulations.

"All traffic officers and patrolmen in cases of failure to come to a halt when the red light is flashed," said Chief Lemon. "No one does this apply to red lights but to stop buttons all over the city. A stop sign means just what it says at all hours of the day and night."

Prohibit Alley Parking
"Cars must not be parked in alleys during the day or night and some strangers have fallen into the habit of parking their cars near hotels at the curb. Street sweepers cannot be run when this is done. Parking between the curb and walk also is becoming prevalent and this must be stopped or a tag will be attached."

The chief also warned against delivery trucks making delivery in front doors stating that they must go to the alley. Patrolmen are stationed on Broadway, Main and Thirteenth streets, all of them authorized to correct any traffic violations.

Zep Stowaway Is Sent Back Home
NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (AP)—Albert Buschko, 18, German baker's apprentice who stowed away on the Graf Zeppelin when it left Friedrichshafen last week, today was sent back to Germany on the liner Thuringia.

Buschko will have the dubious distinction of having probably traveled farther and seen less than any other adventurer in history. He will have crossed the Atlantic twice—without having seen the ocean.

Aboard the Thuringia today they locked him in a detention cell. He made the trip over in the Zeppelin shut up in a tiny, box-like compartment high up in the ship's tall, without any view at all.

Thousands of Men Continue To Fight Forest Fires In Northwest As Property Damage Mounts Higher

(By Associated Press)
SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 8.—More than 50,000 acres had been burned, with one death and immense property damage reported, as thousands of men continued to fight forest fires in Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana today.

Severe brush fires also were reported burning in several California counties.

Frank Franz, of Seattle, was crushed by a large boulder while fighting a forest fire near Chapparral Hot Springs, Wash., and died.

While the fire fighters strove to keep the old fires in control, new blazes broke out in many places.

Sprindale, Wash., was cut off from stage communication by a forest fire which was whipped by a strong wind and threatened to burn into a large peat field. Power lines of the Public Utilities Consolidated Corporation were burned down.

New Fire Starts
A new fire broke out at Sullivan Lake, Wash., and the forest service sent men to combat it.

In eastern Washington the Loon Lake fire raged out of control and endangered a summer resort colony.

Hundreds of fires dotted eastern Washington and western Montana, two of the blazes being serious.

BUSES NOT READY

Lines Unfavorable To Set Passenger Rate
DALLAS, Aug. 8. (AP)—Bus lines in Texas are not yet "ready" for the establishment of a standard passenger rate of 3.5 cents per mile, plus five per cent, as is charged by railroads, Chairman Clarence E. Gilmore of the state railroad commission said here today at the close of a two-day hearing in which several bus applications were considered.

Sam Goodstein, manager of the transportation division of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce, had urged the commission to get up such a rate and the Southwestern Transportation company also sought it. Should the Southwestern's individual application be granted, the commission would be acting only in that case and not forming a state-wide policy, Gilmore declared.

The Woman's Day

By Allice Sumner

A chain of alcohol cure sanitariums which has been famous as the last resort for drink victims ever since "The Face-on-the-Bar-Room-Floor" and "Father-dear-father-some-home-for-us-now" days, announces that for the first time in its history it is taking in as patients women inebriates.

In fact, sanitarium officials quite frankly say that women patients are now forming a large part of their business. Many comments and many reactions will be based upon this revelation.

The rabid anti-Volsteadian will flaunt it as full proof that this present era of gin-on-the-hip is infinitely worse than the old saloon era. He will ask if we need any other fact before deciding that someone or other the dry era must vanish if we are to be saved.

He will prattle about the good old wet days when "pure and holy womanhood was on her pedestal" even if the saloon was around the corner, and contrast it with the iniquitous present with woman off her pedestal and taking the cure.

There is much more food for thought here than this. Just what it means is hard to say. It means so many things. It means, for one, that woman is at last really experimenting with life, much as men always have, and that she is learning about the same things, sometimes to her joy, sometimes to her sorrow.

It means that she has money of her own. The old-time woman couldn't imbibe enough to land in a sanitarium because she had no money of her own to spend. Men always drugging for some man to have time or energy to keep attractive enough to be asked to drink by somebody else, and she lived in an age when "good women" could not do certain things which "good men" could do and still be accepted by their communities as "good men."

And I am not ready to say that even an age which has women who "take the cure" is any worse than an age which permitted only men to really live, in the sense of experimenting with all that life offered, and from her own experience building the best life for herself.

AND THEY SMOKE. It is the age permitting women to experiment which is responsible for the fact that the cigaret consumption of this country has doubled within the last ten years. The more than fifty billion yearly cigarets which are smoked now which weren't smoked a decade ago are attributed to women's use. "Smokes for women" is intelligent.

gently reviewed by Allan Benson in current "Good Housekeeping." He tells us that more girls in their teens are now smoking than boys did twenty years ago. He tells us of girls who smoke at their desks in business offices as well as in restaurants and even on the street and bus tops and in taxis.

The author presents an imposing array of physicians who testify that cigaret smoking is especially injurious to women.

A plea is made that girls be kept from the commercial wiles of the day in the form of radio, billboard, magazine, movie, et al, urging them to smoke.

He points out that the youth of yesterday was not so commercially besieged as is today's youth. All very true. But how stop the efficiency of a money-is-all-age?

How to Achieve Beauty

Baby must be taught early in life the lessons that will build his character and shape it beautifully at the same time that his little body is growing strong and fine. Habits are formed very early—they must be good habits or there will be much trouble later for both mother and baby.

Little children, from young babyhood on, learn easily by imitation. The actions of their parents influence them immeasurably. That is why every phase of the baby's environment must be kept helpful and beneficial. Smile at your baby often—let him hear you laugh and speak musically. His ears are sensitive and his vocal cords will learn to make the sound he hears.

A nervous mother usually means a nervous baby. Keep your child free from all contact with tension and disharmony. Don't encourage him to perform little stunts, if he is a precocious child who learns these tricks easily. Keep him quiet and let him develop his abilities normally. Carefully regulated habits, exercise, baths and massage are necessary, but many a baby has grown healthy and strong without any elaborate program of care along these lines. A simple, natural, quiet life is what a baby must have above everything.

Proper food and plenty of sleep are two sources of baby's beauty. He must eat the right food in the right amount and get plenty of rest and sleep. The younger he is the more sleep he needs. Keep a regular hour for his nap and see that his room is dark, reasonably quiet and well ventilated, without drafts. Sleeping outdoors in a carriage or on a sleeping porch is excellent for a baby. He should have plenty of fresh air and sunlight.

Mothers, fond as they are, must be indifferent to baby's eating whims. To force him or to coax him to eat is bad. But whatever diet has been determined upon as suited to a baby's needs at a given period of his development, should be adhered to strictly. Let him have his food at the proper intervals and take it away if he does not eat. Sooner or later he will accustom himself to the proper program. Regularity and routine are absolutely essential to baby's health and happiness. For his own good, as well as yours, you must insist upon them.

Honesty Of Youth Exposes Ring For Coup In Lottery

Associated Press Messenger Boy Says Two Men Tried To Bribe Him To Falsify Posted Figures

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (AP)—Two men, admitted agents of a ring attempting a coup in the number lotteries played on bank clearings and balances and whose scheme was defeated because of the honesty of an Associated Press messenger boy, today was arraigned in magistrate court, pleaded not guilty and were held in $5,000 bail each for a hearing August 13.

Nathan Felington and Lawrence Sackman, were arrested yesterday on the charge of Harold Harris, 19-year-old Associated Press office boy, that they had tried to bribe him to falsify figures posted for publication at the New York clearing house and which are used by gamblers in their so-called "number pool."

Harold's refusal to change the figures—even when he had been offered $75 and had been told that "all the other messengers" sent on the same daily errand by the New York newspapers and other press agencies, had agreed to do so—uncovered and defeated the attempt at a gigantic coup.

He and the other boys go every day to the clearing house to copy from a slip, posted on a board, the exchanges and balances and telephone them to their offices.

As he was leaving the clearing house Tuesday, two men stopped him and offered to pay him for figures he had just copied.

When Harold refused, they told him the other boys had all been "fixed."

"You'll get in wrong anyway," they said, "for your figures won't tally with theirs."

On his return to the Wall Street bureau of the Associated Press, the boy reported what had happened. Two detectives and an Associated Press representative were waiting in the office when Harold came out of the clearing house yesterday, as he came out, a man stepped up to him and said:

"The guy with the money is right across the street."

The detectives thereupon arrested Felington and Sackman.

Harold's figures Tuesday failed to tally with those of others of the messengers, just as he had been threatened. The result was that the Associated Press was practically alone Tuesday in sending out the correct figures.

HITCH HIKING POPULAR

DIJON, France, Aug. 8. (AP)—"Hitch hikers" who get free rides in automobiles receive no sympathy from French law in case of injury. The Court of Appeal here has decided that any person who is transported in an automobile tacitly accepts all risks, and even if the driver be guilty of manslaughter he can not be indicted in a civic action.

WASN'T ABLE TO DO HOUSEWORK

Fakes Orgatone And Now Feels Like A New Person—Can Do Her Own Housework.

The remarkable merits being obtained by the use of Orgatone is further evidenced in the case of Mrs. Alice Welch, of 1618 Ninth street, Lubbock, Texas, who is telling the story of her recovery from a serious complication of troubles.

"A little over two years ago I began having trouble with my stomach and would get so tired and fagged out, I couldn't get through with my housework, without having to stop and lie down to rest. Everything I ate disagreed with me and what I did eat would be in my stomach undigested and formed gas and my heart would palpitate like it would jump out of my body. I had liver trouble, too, and had severe pains in my back and side, and I felt tired and sluggish and the least excitement would upset me. I was badly constipated and was so nervous I could hardly sleep and many times lay awake all night long suffering and worrying about my condition. I was getting so pale and thin, all of my neighbors was nothing to me and I was tired and worn out the time, the past year have moved back to Slaton and say the Plains look better to them than ever.

Orgatone had helped so many people I decided to try it, and I honestly feel like a new woman, and can do all my housework without the slightest trouble. I noticed an improvement right after I began taking it. I eat anything I want, and have been relieved of that burning sensation in my stomach, gas has stopped forming and the pressure has been relieved as it did. My nerves are quiet and I sleep peacefully and am so much better and stronger that I can do all my housework, without getting tired and fagged out, and don't have to stop and rest as I did. I am now enjoying all my troubles were caused from a disordered stomach. Orgatone has done me more good than anything I have ever taken and my relief is due to Orgatone.

Orgatone is not a secret remedy but a scientific bile treatment free from alcohol and other stimulating drugs and is sold exclusively by the Texas Drug Store, who are the laboratory agents. Adv.

Volcano Causes Ocean Upheaval

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—Upheavals in the ocean bed off the coast of Nicaragua, which are believed to be of volcanic origin, have been reported to the navy department by the cruiser Cleveland, now on duty in Latin American waters.

About 13 miles off the coast in the Caribbean sea, the Cleveland found bottom at 4-1-2 fathoms at a spot where the bottom should have been 37 fathoms down. Later the same ship took soundings of 1-1-2 fathoms near the entrance of Nicoya Gulf, Costa Rica, at a spot where the depth should have been 288 fathoms.

The commander of the special service squadron suggested that shipping should be warned of these hazards, which are to be investigated further.

Republican Head Takes Exception Mrs. Willebrandt

Writings Of Former Assistant Attorney General In Charge Of Prohibition Criticized By Burke

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—Current News Features, sponsors of a series of articles by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, today issued a statement referring to an announcement by James Francis Burke, of the republican national committee, taking exception to a part of Mrs. Willebrandt's writings. The statement read:

"It was stated on behalf of Mrs. Willebrandt that the remark 'go back to your pupils and preach the doctrine' referred to in the statement by James Francis Burke last night, was not in the prepared manuscript of the speech delivered nor did she deliver any such remark extemporaneously, nor did any press association which covered the meeting report any such remark."

Differ Over Speech Mrs. Willebrandt in one of her articles wrote that Burke edited the speech in question, which was delivered at Springfield, Ohio, in the last campaign. Burke said the manuscript of the speech received at republican headquarters did not contain the sentence and that he never had inserted or attempted to insert "any religious comment" in Mrs. Willebrandt's speeches.

Mrs. Willebrandt's speech attracted considerable attention at the time. It was delivered at a meeting of Methodist ministers and later she was accused by Alfred E. Smith, the democratic presidential nominee, of raising the religious issue.

Prohibition Gets Place By Itself

Pro Laws Given Most Attention In Program Of 11 Investigations Of National Enforcement Body

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—Prohibition has been assigned a place by itself in a program of 11 investigations worked out by the national law enforcement commission after four months of preliminary study of its general problem.

No other single body of laws was singled out for such concentrated study, and the commission further indicated the importance it attaches to prohibition by designating its own chairman, George W. Wickersham, as head of the committee which will conduct this investigation.

Committees Named. Each of the 11 lines of investigation mapped out will be pursued under the direction of a similar committee, with Chairman Wickersham as an ex-officio member of all. Besides prohibition, they will deal with causes of crime; statistics of crime and criminal justice; police prosecution; courts; penal institutions, probation and parole; juvenile delinquency; criminal justice and the foreign born; lawlessness by government law enforcing officers, and the cost of crime.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 8. (AP) The Yankees defeated the Athletics by 6 to 4 here today in the odd engagement of the three-game series and so reduced the margin of the Mackian leaders to a mere 16 and one-half games. The Nut Cracker By Joe Williams

Miller Huggins intimates that Babe Ruth has seen his best days, and that the injury the Babe recently suffered may be the beginning of the end for the Bambino. Hugg should have been playing first base for Cleveland the other day when the Babe, Charlie Horse and all almost made First Baseman Lou Posenca's children fatherless.

HUGG'S OPINION THAT THE BARE IS STARTING TO FAIL IS INTERESTING IN VIEW OF THE FACT THAT THE BARE SIGNS ANOTHER CONTRACT AT THE END OF THIS YEAR AND $75,000 A YEAR IS A LOT OF MONEY TO PAY A BALL PLAYER.

If the 1923 contract for Mr. Ruth's services were left to Business Manager Barrow of the Yanks, there probably would be a clause in there calling for $134 rebate from Herman for every baseball knocked over the fence in the home park.

Babe's drawing power should be greater than ever during the rest of the season. He was to hit it over the wall now to get to first.

You can't blame Dan Howley for making up his mind to quit the Browns at the end of the season. He wanted a man to hunt the other day and it is said he had to send a telegram to the office to ask if it would be O. K.

The Browns don't need a manager. The officials of the club will be satisfied if there is just enough baseball brains in the dugout to make sure that the bats are lined up and none of the balls is lost.

Eleven Terrapins Entered In Race
H. A. Johnson, in charge of arrangements of the Labor Day celebration to be held at the Bud Johnston ranch, 16 miles southeast of Lubbock, announced Thursday that eleven citizens of the South Plains have entered terrapins for the big derby which will be a feature of the affair.

Those who have placed terrapins for the race are Will Jones, Floydada; Charles Lowe, Post; Adolph King, Lamesa; George Turner, Brownfield; Henry Reed, Tahoka; George Smith, Levelland; Albert Sargent, Plainview; Block Drug Store, Lubbock; R. E. Swain, Lubbock; Claude Tatum, Lubbock; and O. W. Jolly, Lubbock.

"I want 100 more terrapins," said Mr. Johnston. "We expect at least 125 in the derby."

Refusal To Honor Drafts Criticised

Attorney General Claude Pollard Makes Statement In Letter To State Treasurer W. G. Hatcher

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (AP) — Attorney General Claude Pollard today said that State Treasurer W. G. Hatcher's refusal to honor drafts drawn on him by Banking Commissioner James Shaw to pay state banks over-assessments for the guaranty fund is "so arbitrary" that he is "probably creating a liability against the state" of his official bond.

Pollard made the statement in a letter to Hatcher, in reply to one from the treasurer, addressed jointly to Pollard and Shaw as members of the banking board, notifying them of his refusal to pay drafts presented yesterday.

Drafts in Conformity. "Every draft that is being presented to you in favor of the banks is in strict conformity to the action of the banking board, meets every requirement of the law, and should be by your promptly honored and paid and it occurs to me that your conduct in the matter is so arbitrary that you are probably creating a liability against the state on your official bond in favor of those banks whose drafts you refuse to pay when presented," Pollard wrote.

Drafts issued on Hatcher in favor of state banks were for their pro rata of $304,439 held by Hatcher of the approximately $900,000 due them by the banking department in refunds for over-assessments. Shaw having about $600,000 in his possession.

Contempt Claimed. After referring to Hatcher's letter as "contemptuous," Pollard said he had "too much respect for the dignity and responsibility of the office I hold, and my obligations to the public interest to respond in kind."

Marriage Rule In Italy Is Changed

New Regulations Of Laterin Ties Between Italy And Holy See, Come Into Force On Thursday

ROME, Aug. 8. (AP) — Today throughout all Italy the new marriage rules and regulations, called for by the Lateran treaties between Italy and the Holy See, came into force.

"Wherever young couples went to the altar to be bound in matrimony they listened to the priest's explanation that now and henceforth, marriage by the church is sufficient and marriage by the state is not necessary.

Couples Make Rush. There was a great rush of young couples to avail themselves of the new simplified procedure, many having put off their marriage date until the new accord went into effect. Virtually every parish priest had several marriages to perform this morning. The congestion in the month of June.

Fundamentally, the new regulations do not make radical changes. They simply bring marriage by the church, which several generations of anti-clerical politicians in Italy had lowered in standing, back to equal status with the church ceremony in America. Previously to the Lateran accord persons had to be married also by the state.

Lubbock Morning Avalanche

NOTICE-It is the intention of The Avalanche to cast reflection upon the character of anyone knowingly and through error or omission, the management will appreciate having an opportunity to correct any such reflection by way of a correction.

The Avalanche is an independent Democratic newspaper, supporting its editorial columns the principles which it believes to be right and opposing those questions which it believes to be wrong.

ONE MINUTE PLUIT I rejoice at thy word, as one that findeth great spoil.

I hate and abhor lying, but thy law do I love.—Psalm cxix, 142, 143.

A LITTLE MORE ABOUT MOISTURE THE other day The Morning Avalanche offered a few remarks on rain—or rather the scarcity of it—throughout West Texas and repeated a conversation between gentlemen who were comparing the coming season with the disastrous drought of 1919, and who saw no hopes of ever seeing any moisture on South Plains fields again.

The Avalanche chose to take another view of the proposition, if you remember, pointing out that "it always has rained and it probably always will. The rain came on Wednesday night—not a rip-roaring, belly-aching, to be sure, but according to County Agent D. W. Eaton the 27-hundredths of an inch in Lubbock county "will help," while other sections reported a harder fall.

On Wednesday, about noon, the skies as viewed from here were practically cloudless. An oldtimer was heard to say, "I don't look like rain any time soon. Of course if the east winds hold up for four or five days we may get some." But ten hours after his statement rain fell—proving again the old adage about weather prophets in this country.

The Avalanche would like to see a long, slow rain on the South Plains again today. In other words, we do not take the stand that Wednesday night's precipitation provided enough moisture for the year. But The Avalanche maintains its former stand—that "it always has rained and will probably continue to do so."

One of the greatest weaknesses of the people of this section is that a few days of dry weather turns them into a bunch of "nervous Nellies." Of course, there's a reason for it. Most of us are poor folks betting the limit on good crops and good crop prices and if anything goes wrong with either we're apt to be pretty badly hurt. But on the other hand, all the worrying, all the "looking-down-the-nose" we don't help matters half after all most of us prosper more in West Texas than we ever have anywhere else.

This may be a long and tiresome editorial but it speaks the feeling of this newspaper on a matter of prime importance to everybody. Public weeping and wailing never better any condition and sometimes works a poor psychology upon everything as a whole.

UNBEAUTIFUL MONEY Now that one has had a look at all the more reasonable denominations of the currency we will handle for the next few years, and has purchased one of the new-size billfolds with which a number of opportunists have rushed to the market, there's a reason for it. Most of us are poor folks betting the limit on good crops and good crop prices and if anything goes wrong with either we're apt to be pretty badly hurt. But on the other hand, all the worrying, all the "looking-down-the-nose" we don't help matters half after all most of us prosper more in West Texas than we ever have anywhere else.

There is a little to be said for the unfortunate who, in one instance, accepted a cigar coupon for a new bill, and in another, a $5 piece of small stage money labeled in plain American "phony" language. Many of these coupons are going to be a great gulf between the government and the people. It did not make the new bills more attractive.

Finishes With Fish On the eighteenth day he gets one broiled fish, plain spinach and a half grapefruit for dinner. Then he tells him to eat chocolate.

The 18-day diet is safer than most routine diets because it attempts to take into account some of the fundamental needs of the body. Dr. Flora Rose, director of the New York State College of Home Economics of Cornell University, and Mary Henry, professor of nutrition in the same institution, list some time ago a foundation diet which will ensure the most desirable amounts of building materials and regulators in the diets of adults.

A certain foundation diet should include one and one-half cups of milk a day, but not more than one quart. A small amount of potato may be taken once each day. Two generous servings of succulent vegetables a day are necessary and one of them should be a leafy vegetable.

Several times a week raw vegetables must be taken to insure vitamins, because far too frequently vitamins are lost in cooking. Two servings of fruit a day are desirable, and one of them should be oranges or grapefruit. Tomatoes may be substituted for these fruits because the tomato provides few calories and is rich in vitamins.

One serving of meat a day and one egg a day will provide proteins of body building material, some vitamins, mineral salts, and together about three hundred calories. Cereals and bread help to bring up the quota of body building substances.

In addition to these things one should drink from six to eight glasses of water each day and he will find himself carrying on rather satisfactorily. On this diet, if the proper limited amounts of food are taken one can reduce about two pounds per week.

Not Enough Food For Extra Work A reducing diet is one in which the daily amount of food or fuel taken into the body is reduced so that it is enough to keep the body running but not enough to support extra work. When the person works the body uses up its own fat to supply the extra demand for energy.

The 18-day diet that has been cited is well under one thousand calories a day which are too few for the proper maintenance of your health, except possibly in very rare instances.

Its only safety over the faddish diets of the past like hard-boiled egg and lettuce diet, jamb chop diet, pineapple diet, and similar notions, is its attempt to provide vitamins and salts and roughage.

The chief weakness of reformers is their disposition to think everything enjoyable is a little wicked.

Modesty is a virtue, doubtless, but the man who blows his own horn usually is able to raise the wind.

By way of proving their faith in the Kellogg treat, modern nations continue to experiment with poison gas.

The woman who married a man to reform him finds solace in the thought that even legislation cannot do it.

HOOVER VIEWS CAVALRY AS OBSOLETE; HENCE IT IS DOOMED, STATES STEWART

BY CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—The cavalry undoubtedly is doomed, President Hoover has decided that it is obsolete, and that ends it.

Nominally its fate remains open. The army general staff is supposed to be still considering what branches of the military service can be dispensed with, as an economy move.

The president has permitted it to leak out, however, that he already has tentatively jotted down the cavalry arm as superfluous, in the present generation. When Mr. Hoover has progressed so far as to do anything tentatively, that means it is final. Nothing at all would have leaked out otherwise.

It must have occurred to a good many people that cavalrymen are out of date, in this day of the airplane and the automobile. Nevertheless, there are army officers who do not think so—especially of course, cavalry officers; but they are not the only ones.

What they think will not matter. It is safe to assume that President Hoover listened to them before arriving at his conclusion that the army can do without them—as cavalrymen; they will be given other jobs, presumably.

No kicks will be heard from them, either. If they make a fuss, something considerably worse will be likely to befall them. Mr. Hoover lays great emphasis on loyalty. That is his subordinate must do as he says, and at least pretend to like it.

Consequently there is no use in asking questions in army circles now, with a view to getting together a consensus of professional opinion in opposition to the presidential program.

Military men who dislike it most bitterly are the very ones who are most afraid to say so.

Any defense that cavalry may be entitled to, therefore, must be a defense which ante-dates President Hoover's decision to put that arm of the service out of business.

Now it happens that I had occasion, three or four years ago, to investigate this very problem in the light of the war conflict lessons, and the argument I obtained from the war department then was in quite pronounced contrast to the same department's meek acquiescence today in Mr. Hoover's decision that the mounted soldier has completely lost his usefulness.

The west front in the World war, according to expert authority, was a very peculiar front in that one extremity of it rested on a mountain chain and the other on the ocean so that it was impossible to get around either end—which would have been cavalry's function—if it had been practicable.

Who can guarantee, ask the experts, that the next war will be like that? Marshall Von Hindenburg's use of cavalry was decisive among the East Prussian lakes and marshes—and that cavalry was almost the whole thing on the sands of Mesopotamia.

Even on the west front it is of record that horsemen struck a fearful telling blow, while there were other instances in which vital advantages were lost because none were available—the military experts testify.

TREATY WITH ENGLAND Eighty-seven years ago today on August 9, 1842, the famous Webster-Ashburton treaty with England was signed in Washington.

The chief features of this pact, negotiated by Daniel Webster and Lord Ashburton, were settlement of the boundary between Great Britain and the United States on the northeast, extending westward beyond the Great Lakes, and a cruising convention for the mutual suppression of the slave trade.

As to the northeast territory in dispute, embracing 12,900 square miles, seven-twelfths were set off to the United States, Great Britain taking the residue and obtaining the highlands she desired which fringed upon the Canadian Gibraltar, and a clear through circuitous route between Quebec and Halifax.

The United States government was permitted to carry timber down the St. John's river, and through being bound to pay Maine and Massachusetts $300,000 for the strip of land relinquished to England, gained in return Rouse's Point on Lake Champlain, of which it would have been deprived by an exact survey.

By the cruising convention clause, which the president himself had as a conspicuous part in arranging, the delicate point of "right of search" was avoided and each nation bound itself to do its full duty by keeping up a sufficient squadron on the African coast for suppression of the slave trade.

RACKET CHANGED PARIS, Aug. 8. (AP)—The ancient press agent yarn about the actress who lost a string of pearls has been worked on Paris newspapers under a slightly new guise. The story had it that the gems were lost while the owner was visiting a cosmetic factory, and it was intimated that some of them might have fallen into jars of cold cream.

CITIZENSHIP RESTORED New Terry, Convicted Of Theft, Given Break AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (AP)—Full restoration of citizenship was granted today by Governor Moody to New Terry, convicted of felonious theft in Burnet county in 1927 and sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary.

Rain Halts Plans At Camp Palacios CAMP PALACIOS, Aug. 8. (AP)—Heavy rains today caused officers of the 36th division, Texas National guard, in camp here to abandon their plans of taking the field in their annual summer encampment and to remain at camp for the next three days.

Commanding officers and staffs will remain at Camp Palacios and carry out the problem there. Six hundred officers and men had expected to move to Blessing to complete the maneuvers.

Having acquitted themselves creditably at the first review yesterday, units of the division attending the annual summer encampment were preparing for more serious work on the target ranges the rest of the week.

ESTABLISH NEW RATE Federal Reserve Board Announces Changes WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—The Federal Reserve board announced today that the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has established a discount rate of six per cent on all classes of paper of all maturities effective August 9.

Youth Charged In Death Of Grocer DALLAS, Aug. 8. (AP)—Bert McLemore, 25, member of a prominent Dallas county family, was formally charged with murder today in connection with the death last night of Austin E. Ferguson, 53, grocer of Irving, 10 miles west of here.

McLemore surrendered shortly after Ferguson had been almost instantly killed by charges from a shot gun fired while he was seated in his store. Officers said McLemore made a statement to them.

Differences had existed between the two men for several months, residents of Irving said.

TREATY WITH ENGLAND Eighty-seven years ago today on August 9, 1842, the famous Webster-Ashburton treaty with England was signed in Washington.

The chief features of this pact, negotiated by Daniel Webster and Lord Ashburton, were settlement of the boundary between Great Britain and the United States on the northeast, extending westward beyond the Great Lakes, and a cruising convention for the mutual suppression of the slave trade.

As to the northeast territory in dispute, embracing 12,900 square miles, seven-twelfths were set off to the United States, Great Britain taking the residue and obtaining the highlands she desired which fringed upon the Canadian Gibraltar, and a clear through circuitous route between Quebec and Halifax.

The United States government was permitted to carry timber down the St. John's river, and through being bound to pay Maine and Massachusetts $300,000 for the strip of land relinquished to England, gained in return Rouse's Point on Lake Champlain, of which it would have been deprived by an exact survey.

By the cruising convention clause, which the president himself had as a conspicuous part in arranging, the delicate point of "right of search" was avoided and each nation bound itself to do its full duty by keeping up a sufficient squadron on the African coast for suppression of the slave trade.

RACKET CHANGED PARIS, Aug. 8. (AP)—The ancient press agent yarn about the actress who lost a string of pearls has been worked on Paris newspapers under a slightly new guise. The story had it that the gems were lost while the owner was visiting a cosmetic factory, and it was intimated that some of them might have fallen into jars of cold cream.

CITIZENSHIP RESTORED New Terry, Convicted Of Theft, Given Break AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (AP)—Full restoration of citizenship was granted today by Governor Moody to New Terry, convicted of felonious theft in Burnet county in 1927 and sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary.

Rain Halts Plans At Camp Palacios CAMP PALACIOS, Aug. 8. (AP)—Heavy rains today caused officers of the 36th division, Texas National guard, in camp here to abandon their plans of taking the field in their annual summer encampment and to remain at camp for the next three days.

Commanding officers and staffs will remain at Camp Palacios and carry out the problem there. Six hundred officers and men had expected to move to Blessing to complete the maneuvers.

Having acquitted themselves creditably at the first review yesterday, units of the division attending the annual summer encampment were preparing for more serious work on the target ranges the rest of the week.

Youth Charged In Death Of Grocer DALLAS, Aug. 8. (AP)—Bert McLemore, 25, member of a prominent Dallas county family, was formally charged with murder today in connection with the death last night of Austin E. Ferguson, 53, grocer of Irving, 10 miles west of here.

McLemore surrendered shortly after Ferguson had been almost instantly killed by charges from a shot gun fired while he was seated in his store. Officers said McLemore made a statement to them.

Differences had existed between the two men for several months, residents of Irving said.

Today's Poem

"FAME IS A FOOD THAT DEAD MEN EAT" Fame is a food that dead men eat. I have no stomach for such meat. In little light and narrow room, They eat it in the silent tomb. With no kind voice of comrade near To bid the feaver be of cheer. But friendship is a nobler thing— Of friendship it is good to sing. For truly, when a man shall end, He lives in memory of his friend. Who doth his better part recall And of his fault make funeral. Austin Dobson (1840-1921)

Quotations of Real Merit

"The troubles that face all amateur sport bodies today lie in the attempt to find out what happens when the irresistible force of commercialism of modern civilization meets the immovable body of class tradition of amateur sport yesterday." — William T. Tilden II, (Liberty)

"The death rate still is higher and the expectation of life is less in the city than in the country." — Haven Emerson, M. D. and Earle B. Phillips, (Survey Graphic)

"Within a few generations the American people will be a conspicuously monogamic, domestic and child bearing population." — Albert Russell Erskine (The North American Review)

"The defects of human nature cannot be corrected by the strong arm of the policeman, nor can virtue and self denial be brought about by force." — Frederic R. Couderc Jr., (Forum)

"The automobile industry has to some extent made its rapid strides in past years by a process of systematically turning to new devices and designs tending to increase its market." — Col. Leonard P. Ayres, Cleveland banker

"I know, Molly. I know. Mother's a mile set in her ideas. She'll come round all right after while."

"Well, I don't care whether she does or not. As long as you and Jack don't think I've disgraced the proud old family name—by the way, Daddy, what did you think of Jack?"

"A mighty fine boy, Molly. A mighty fine boy. There's nothing I'd like better than to see you married and settled down with a nice young man like him."

Molly laughed happily. "You and me both, Dad," she declared. "I wish you'd come up, and let me tell you about him."

Mr. Burnham looked sadly up the elevator shaft, and his thoughts presumably were with his slumbering wife.

"I'd like to, he sighed, "but I don't know as I'd better. You run along, and your mother and me, we will see you by and by."

He patted her hair with his big awful pretty, Molly."

"That little cap you had on tonight was real cute. And your dress is beautiful. I don't know what they would say in Snodgrass, if they could get a look at you."

"Do you miss me, Dad?" she asked.

"Now, Molly," he declared, "what I want is that you should do just as you think best. Your mother and me, we had you when you were a little one, and we're not going to let you go now you're our own wings. And if you're strong enough to let you go, Molly, we'll be right proud of our little girl."

"Aren't you proud of me now, Daddy?"

Mr. Burnham hesitated. "You must have written an awful good play," he answered, "because all the papers that write for the papers say so. And I guess they ought to know, it being their business. I guess I'm just old-fashioned, Molly."

"Then you didn't like it?" she demanded.

The TRAINING TALENT

By ELEANOR EARLY. NEA Service Inc.

"THIS HAS HAPPENED MOLLY BURNHAM, little reporter from Boston, has become the pet and darling of Broadway because of her play, GEORGE DUBOIS, the famous theatrical producer, made her guest of honor at one of his smart and sophisticated parties. The evening was not a success for Molly, however. Her mother, disgusted with the play, refused to attend the party, and her father had to remain with his angry, fuming spouse. JACK WELLS, Molly's sweetheart, was not there, either. Jack spent the evening pacifying Molly's perturbed family.

After supper, Mr. Durbin sent out for the morning papers, to see what the critics had to say. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXII

The reviewers were unanimously enthusiastic. The most critical of them opined that "There is more dramatic life in Molly Burnham's 'Death of Delphine Darrows' than in nine-tenths of the so-called dramas of realism. It has the pungent odor of actuality. It has a pulse that gallops."

"Hard-boiled relief from all the sweetie-pie stuff in town, announced another. "A melodrama of blood and sex. Raw emotions and naked truth. It may offend your sensibilities, but it will give you a great kick."

And so they went. Not a line of adverse criticism. "Molly Burnham writes like a veteran," declared a conservative sheet, commenting editorially. "It is almost inconceivable to imagine a girl of her age dealing with sin as served in 'The Death of Delphine Darrows.' Last and chicanery, intrigue and murder—and the Seven Deadly Sins. Miss Burnham is in her early twenties, and a model of propriety. She does not drink or smoke."

There was more to the same effect. Every paper in New York had reviewed the play, and many of them had references to it in their news sections. Molly's picture was in five papers, and the story of Dopey Day, but one.

After the party, the Durbins took her in their car to her hotel. It was 3 o'clock, and Molly knew that she must be up early to see her father and mother. But she felt that it would be a mistake to disturb her mother at that hour. She sent a boy messenger to get the papers, in order that she might read again and again the words that were more precious to her than rubies or diamonds.

"I'll clip the most dignified ones, and give them to Mother," she decided, "and trust to luck that she doesn't see those that lack that a spade—a spade—and worse."

She was about to step into the elevator when she saw her father, enthroned on a damask divan, consuming newspaper like a glutton.

"Dad," she exclaimed, "Whatever are you doing?"

"Reading my favorite authors," he told her. "All those smart-alecks that have been writing nice things about my little girl."

"Wouldn't Mother let you look at them upstairs?"

"Your Mother's all upset, child. She's got to read now, and I didn't want to disturb her."

"Let's come up to my room," she suggested, "and talk."

But her father shook his head. "I'd better go sit with Mother," he said. "She'd be real worried if you woke up and found me gone. You got to be patient with your mother, Molly. She's like a hen that's hatched an swan, and she don't know what it's all about."

"But anybody'd think, Dad, that I'd done the most dreadful thing! Goodness, most mothers would be glad if their daughters—"

"I know, Molly. I know. Mother's a mile set in her ideas. She'll come round all right after while."

"Well, I don't care whether she does or not. As long as you and Jack don't think I've disgraced the proud old family name—by the way, Daddy, what did you think of Jack?"

"A mighty fine boy, Molly. A mighty fine boy. There's nothing I'd like better than to see you married and settled down with a nice young man like him."

"I'd like to, he sighed, "but I don't know as I'd better. You run along, and your mother and me, we will see you by and by."

He patted her hair with his big awful pretty, Molly."

"That little cap you had on tonight was real cute. And your dress is beautiful. I don't know what they would say in Snodgrass, if they could get a look at you."

"Do you miss me, Dad?" she asked.

"Now, Molly," he declared, "what I want is that you should do just as you think best. Your mother and me, we had you when you were a little one, and we're not going to let you go now you're our own wings. And if you're strong enough to let you go, Molly, we'll be right proud of our little girl."

"Then you didn't like it?" she demanded.

"Oh, I liked it," he insisted. "I

"Why, Daddy, of course I could!" she cried. "If it would please you, I know I could."

"It would please your mother too," he declared placatingly. "And your young man too."

"Then, Jack didn't like it either?"

"Now, Molly," he protested, "I did not say that. I only sort of guessed that maybe he wasn't on of your slick city boys. I thought maybe he was a little mite old-fashioned."

"I guess you're right, Dad. I guess perhaps I'm old-fashioned, too."

"Underneath, I mean," she told him. "Underneath my chatter, and my make-up, and all my smart new city tricks—"

Her father looked at her adoringly. "Don't you stay up any longer now," he scolded. "You're white as a sheet, and your eyes got big black circles round them. It's been a great night for you. I thought you were proud for us all. What you need now is a good night's sleep. Will you stay in bed in the morning, to please your old father?"

"I think it would be a pious notion," she agreed. "I am just about dead. I'll try to get up in the morning. I'll be material for interviews for a few days. . . . What time are you and Mother going, Dad?"

"I'll tell Mother," he promised. "Now you go to bed, Molly."

"They went up in the elevator together. And as Molly's father kissed her. Awkwardly. Tenderly.

"Until morning, Dad," she said. "But in the morning, when Molly woke, her father and mother were on their way home. They had left her a note, saying that they thought it still unwise, but a good name, was best to return to Snodgrass immediately. It was a polite, distant note, written in her mother's firm hand. They hoped she would come to see them soon. She would always be welcome. Might success crown all her efforts. "But a good name," reminded her mother sentimentally, "is rather to be chosen than great riches. And 'the that maketh haste to be rich shall not be innocent.'"

Kiwanis Club To Have Special To Tulsa Convention

Local Delegations To Ask Next Year's Session Of Organization; Rotary and Lions Cooperate

Following plans announced at the regular weekly luncheon of the Lubbock Kiwanis club Thursday noon, a special train probably will be run from this city carrying members of the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs, together with delegates from the other nine Kiwanis clubs of this division to Tulsa in September.

Kiwanians of Lubbock will make a strong bid for the 1930 convention of the Texas-Oklahoma district of Kiwanis International, which meets this year at Tulsa, on September 1, 2 and 3. B. Sherrod, chairman of the inter-club relations committee, said Thursday that he has secured support of Lubbock's Rotary and Lions business men and individuals has been promised.

Support Promised

Talks were made by Mayor Harley D. Woods, A. C. Jackson and W. C. Rylander, lieutenant-governor for this division of Kiwanis. A telegram from Garland Woodward, of Big Spring, promises that he will support of Lubbock's efforts to get the next convention, and Rylander declared all other nine clubs in this division would send delegates and lend their support.

Two new members were inducted into the club, these being Charles W. Ratliff, of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, and Ralph Stroup, of the Fort Worth and Denver railway.

Offer Protection To Texas Citrus

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (P)—Having moved to protect Texas citrus fruit growers by banning importation of Florida oranges, lemons and grapefruit, Agricultural Commissioner George B. Terrell now has taken steps to stamp out cotton wilt.

A regulatory quarantine against cotton seed from Alabama, Georgia, Arkansas and Oklahoma has been imposed, and under its provisions no seed can be shipped into the state unless the consignment bears a certificate that it comes from a non-wilt zone.

"We can depend only on the integrity of inspectors of the neighbor states," Commissioner Terrell said, "but I believe that the quarantine will be of distinct benefit in ridding the state of impure seed." Cotton wilt cut the Texas output

MOODY TAKES TIME Governor May Take Limit On Appropriations

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (P)—Indications were today that Governor Moody would use all the time allowed him under the constitution before acting on the appropriation bills aggregating $47,000,000 to pay costs of maintaining the government for the biennium beginning Sept. 1.

He has until Friday midnight to file the bills. He has worked on them two weeks while he attempts to whittle the total down to about $45,000,000.

Impetus Given To Vet Hospital Plan

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (P)—The plan of Texas former service men to get action soon on a promise from the United States Veterans Bureau to establish a general hospital in Texas was given impetus by R. B. Walshall, chairman of the board of control, when he brought to the bureau's attention the need for room in Texas insane asylums to take care of all those seeking admittance.

Founding Of Fort Davis To Be Feted

PECOS, Aug. 7. (P)—Plans are being made for the celebration of the anniversary of the founding of Fort Davis in the Davis mountains south of Pecos.

It was on Oct. 7, 1854 that troops of the Eighth United States Infantry, fighting Apache Indians, made their way to what is now Fort Davis in the center of the Davis range and established a camp under orders of Jefferson Davis, then Secretary of War, to protect the immigrant trains and the overland mail from St. Louis to California. After being abandoned and recaptured several times the old stone and adobe fort finally was abandoned in 1891.

Many walls and buildings of the pioneer outpost still stand. Last year and when the disease made its appearance in the field again this season the ban was decided upon.

San Antonio Most Expensive River

(Special To The Avalanche) SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 8. (P)—The most expensive river in the world is the phrase that has been used by Mayor C. M. Chambers to describe the San Antonio river that winds its way through the city.

"It is the only river in the world that costs so much to keep water in it, and out of it, I believe," Mayor Chambers said.

Figures from the city auditor's offices showed the amount being spent for flood prevention work on the river is nearing the $5,000,000 mark. On the other hand, the city has paid a monthly bill of approximately $420 for water pumped into the river to keep water flowing through the channel. Several hundred dollars was spent this spring to reopen an old spring near the head of the river and $250 or more will be spent this fall to open another spring in the business district.

The river winds from the north to the southern city limits, six miles, but the river channel flows such a course of curves that its length within the city is 12 miles.

TEN ARE INJURED One Seriously Hurt When Airplane Crashes

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8. (P)—One passenger was seriously injured and seven other passengers and two pilots escaped with minor injuries as a tri-motored airplane was forced down by motor trouble and wrecked here today.

Failure of the ignition in two engines of the plane shortly after its takeoff from the Grand Central Air terminal for San Diego, was the cause.

Reprieve For P. W. Howard Promised

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (P)—P. W. Howard, condemned to die in the electric chair Friday for the murder of L. V. Nixon of El Paso in 1920, will be reprieved, Governor Moody announced today. He said he had not decided what length of stay he would give. The proclamation was not issued.

Howard's sister came here from San Antonio to plead for either commutation or a reprieve.

Governor Moody stated he had returned the Howard record to the board of pardons for further review.

At his first trial, Howard was given life imprisonment. The court of criminal appeals reversed the verdict and ordered a new trial. The second time the jury ordered the death penalty inflicted.

CANT FOOL ROBOTS

LONDON, Aug. 8. (P)—A Sheffield steel firm has secured patent rights on a new kind of mechanical vending machine which delivers anything from needles to fish. It is fool-proof, and is made that way by means of little arms which "feel" both sides of the coin inserted, the outer rim and the milling. If the coin is a fake, no goods are delivered.

DIVORCE ALL WRONG

LONDON, Aug. 8. (P)—The law which provides for sexual equality in divorce is all wrong, according to Justice Hill, divorce lawyer. "The law which gives a wife the right to divorce her husband for a single act is a great temptation to a husband who wants his wife to divorce him," the lawyer says. Such a law in England now is making it easier for divorce, Hill claims.
