Burned Bodies Of Pair Found Laying On Bed

Young Negro Children Victims Of Blaze As One-Story Home Is Consumed Early Friday; Origin Is Unknown

Funeral Is Held

Fire Discovered By Neighbor; One Victim Two Years Old And Second Six Weeks; Left On Bed By Mother

(Special to the Avalanche)

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 29. — Two young negro children, burned to death when their home was destroyed by fire at about 9:30 o'clock this morning, were buried here this afternoon. Origin of the blaze is not known.

The children were Joe, 2, and James Wendell, six-weeks-old, sons of Joe Stapleton and his wife, Sadie. The boys were believed already burned to death when the fire was discovered.

One-Room House

The Stapleton resided in the one-room structure, a servant house, at the rear of the W. C. Smith home here. Mrs. Stapleton was in the Smith home cleaning house and her husband was at the barber shop where he shines shoes.

Mrs. Frank Ballard, a neighbor, reported the fire. When the Brownfield fire department put out the blaze, the two small bodies were found, burned to a crisp, on the bed where their mother had left them not more than 30 minutes before. The frame building virtually was destroyed.

Hear No Outcry

Flames were leaping from the door and windows when they were discovered by Mrs. Ballard. Neither Mrs. Smith nor Mrs. Ballard

Expect Rushes At Tax Office

Today Marks Deadline For Poll Tax Payments; Local Office To Remain Open; Exemptions Are Being Issued

At midnight Saturday the deadline falls on payment of poll taxes at the county tax collector's office, although payments placed in the mails and postmarked Sunday, Jan. 31, will be accepted.

The rush remained steady at the Lubbock office Friday and more than 400 poll taxes and exemptions were issued. William H. Carpenter, chief deputy, estimated that at least 4,000 Lubbock county residents had paid the tax here and at the Slaton sub-office. In addition, about 450 persons had secured exemptions, bringing the voting strength of the county last night to an estimated 8,450.

Rules Announced

Of the group making the payment yesterday, 247 had been assessed the tax and 90 made supplemental payments. About 60 exemptions were issued. Persons 20 years of age January 1, 1932, and 21 before the election in which they intend to vote, are entitled to exemption, as are persons 60 years of age and older. The exemptions are required for

Flood Victims Face New Threats With Cold Wave

Snow, Sleet And Falling Temperatures In Three States Bring On New Hardships

(By The Associated Press)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 29.—Flood victims in Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana encountered a new hardship tonight—cold weather.

Snow fell in Little Rock, Ark., this afternoon and sleet and cold rain were general in many other portions of the state. The weather bureau forecast freezing or near freezing temperatures in the flood zones of the three states.

A cloudburst in Kentucky today flooded streams and two persons drowned at Illisburg as the torrents swept through their home. The dead are John Russell, 60, and Alice Grubb, six.

Scores Are Marooned

Coast guard boat crews are directing their energies toward rescue of scores of marooned in the flooded Atchafalaya basin in Humphreys and Yazoo counties, Mississippi.

More than 1,500 refugees are being cared for by the Red Cross in a half dozen towns east of the Mississippi flood zone.

The Ouachita river at Camden, Ark., which reached a crest of 35.1 feet Saturday, was falling today, but was expected to rise again as a result of fresh rains. Felzenthan and Caraway and Lester, on the St. Francis river, all under water, received additional overflows.

Forces Are Doubled

The fight at Big Lake, where a levee break would flood additional land in Mississippi county, continued and west of Kennett, Mo., the levee sacking forces were doubled.

Levees in Poinsett county, Arkansas, are being raised around St. Francis lake and the floodway which carried water from this lake to a junction of the St. Francis river near the Cross county line.

The Red river has reached a stage of 31.6 feet at Fulton, Ark., four and one-half feet above flood mark, and is expected to continue rising for about two days.

One thousand men toiled in the rain at Monroe, La., to prevent breaks in leaking levees along the Ouachita river. The water stood at 49 feet there today, nine feet above flood stage.

Tech Students Mostly Demos In Vote Count

Results Of Straw Vote Held At College Are Announced; Strict Enforcement Of Pro Law Is Favored

The great majority of Texas Technological college government students are Democrats and supporters of Franklin D. Roosevelt for president, but they are more nearly divided equally on questions of party loyalty and prohibition. This information is revealed in a straw vote directed by Dr. W. A. Jackson, H. C. Fender, M. E. Ogdon and J. W. Jackson of the Tech government department.

Dr. Jackson reported that 623 students voted on these questions: Party membership, presidential preference, for repeal, modification or strict enforcement of national prohibition and party loyalty.

Roosevelt Leads

Franklin D. Roosevelt led the field, securing 284 votes. Speaker John N. Garner of Texas, with 54 votes, was second choice of the Democrats, but the Republicans, mustering 57 votes for President Hoover, placed him second among all candidates.

The students cast 290 votes for strict prohibition enforcement, 238 votes for modification and 75 for repeal of national prohibition. Twenty made no statement on this question. Of the group voting 312 were strong for party loyalty, 231 against party loyalty and 20 made no statement. A total of 514 were regular Democrats, five irregular Democrats, 65 regular Republicans, five irregular Republicans, 17 "Hoovercrats," 12 had no preference, five were socialists.

Divisions Given

The Democrat vote was divided as follows:

Governor Roosevelt 284; Garner 54; Newton D. Baker 46; Alfred E. Smith 38; William H. Murray 33; Will Rogers 17; Albert C. Ritchie 16; Owen D. Young 12; William Gibbs McAdoo and Jim Reed, seven each; Joe Robinson 6; Cordell Hull 3; Dan Moody 2, Melvin Traylor 2, and Richard Byrd 1.

Republicans voted:

Hoover 67; Theodore Roosevelt 8; Vice-President Curtis, Senator Borah and Valvin Coolidge, five each; Charles G. Dawes 4, and Senator LaFollette, three.

Texas Victory Dinner Staged By Democrats

Cullen F. Thomas In Keynote Address Appeals For Party Unity; Says Demos Should Be Liberal Party

Denounces Hoover

Extravagances In Government Are Decried; Says That The Only Threat To Victory Is Prohibition Split

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 29.—Democrats assembled from all sections of Texas for a "victory dinner" tonight heard speakers appeal for party unity, "to fight for the principles on which we are agreed."

Cullen F. Thomas of Dallas, veteran Democratic leader and keynote speaker at the dinner, pleaded that "conditions in our government now require that the Democratic party be a liberal party, to hear the heartbeats of humanity."

Slash Is Needed

"We need a meat-axe to chop off extravagances in government," he declared. "We need a return to simplicity, to see those in power who think less of fat dividends for corporations while out yonder are millions who do the rough work of the world; we need to think less of stock gamblers and more about toilers out on the farms, in the factories and down in the mines.

"The only threat to certain Democratic victory in the next presidential election," he warned, "is a possible division over prohibition, and that question should not intrude itself in this campaign.

Hoover Denounced

"All battles for prohibition heretofore have been fought on a non-partisan or bi-partisan basis. Let us remember that it was both Republican and Democratic members of congress who voted to adopt the eighteenth amendment."

He denounced President Hoover as "ungrateful to the Democratic party, which gave him his chance to public preferment, and to his

Grave Danger From Soviets Now Looming

Russo-Japanese Conflict Over Operation Of Railway Seen As Japs Stand Pat On Occupation Of Shanghai

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, Jan. 29.—Grave danger of conflict between Japan and Soviet Russia over the Chinese Eastern railway loomed tonight as the government stood pat on the occupation of Shanghai.

The Japanese government will hold officials of the Chinese Eastern railway, jointly owned by Russia and China, responsible for holding up the movement of reinforcements toward Harbin, Manchuria where two Chinese armies have been battling, official sources revealed.

Troops Forbidden

This ultimatum followed upon information from Consul-General Chashi at Harbin saying the Russian manger of the railway, acting on instructions from Moscow, had forbidden the sending of Japanese troops over the line from the northern terminus of the South Manchurian railway at Changchun to Harbin.

In the connection, a Rengo News agency dispatch from Chang-chun reported the Japanese themselves would begin operations on the Changchun-Harbin branch tomorrow to combat the passive resistance of Chinese and Russian trainmen.

A war office spokesman countered that by virtue of the Sino-Russian agreement of 1924 the railroad was purely a commercial concern and the refusal to move Japanese soldiers virtually amounted to lending assistance to the regular Chinese army which is reported to have looted Harbin for several days and to have inflicted numerous casualties on the Japanese and Korean populace.

International Settlement Now Faces Grim Danger; Fighting Increases; Japanese Retreat

Eight American Destroyers Prepare For Action At Manila As Situation Grows Darker; Refugees Arrive In Area To Tell Of Horrors Caused By Gunfire Of Jap Invasion

Crack Chinese Troops Arrive In City

Creeping Flames Spread Toward International Area; Jap Raid On American Methodist Mission Brings New Note Of Alarm; Death And Destruction Hover In Native Zone

(By the Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 30. (Saturday)—Six huge fires, virtually merged into one vast conflagration, crept slowly toward the international settlement this morning from the Chapei native section, where the rattle of machine gun and rifle fire foretold another day of battle.

At four a. m. there was a sharp increase in the tat-tat-tat of machine gun bursts. Chinese officials said this new activity came from the crack troops of former President Chiang Kai-Shek, once more raised to power in the Nanking government, who were reported to have been brought into the city and placed in line during the night.

Large Scale Action Expected

Whether Marshal Chang had succeeded in getting in a force of imposing numbers was expected to be established some time after dawn. A large-scale action against the Japanese invaders might be expected then, said the Chinese, if a major reinforcing troop movement had been carried out.

The day brought a threat to the international settlement as well as to the Chapei district where unknown numbers of Chinese have been killed during the sanguinary fighting of the last few days.

The Chinese military command warned the settlement authorities that unless they used their influence to halt the rising tide of the invaders, Chinese guns would be trained on the international area, where United States marines, with the troops of other nations, have been walking guard over foreign interests worth millions of dollars.

City Brilliantly Lighted By Flames

At the same time it was authentically reported that, with the consent of British Consul General J. F. Brenan, the Japanese would take over the international area.

All Shanghai was brilliantly lighted early this morning by the flames of Chapei which leaped 75 to 100 feet in the air. The roar of the conflagration could be heard a great distance. It was estimated that already damage amounting to $5,000,000 had been caused.

Eight Destroyers Of Asiatic Fleet Geared For Dash

MANILA, Jan. 30. (Saturday) (AP)—Eight more destroyers of the American Asiatic fleet were geared here today to dash for Shanghai on short notice for possible service in the new area of conflict between China and Japan.

Four destroyers sailed hurriedly yesterday and the additional preparations were made as alarming reports of fighting in the Chinese city were received.

The new cruiser Houston, flagship of the fleet's commander, Rear Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, was undergoing minor repairs at Cavite, on Manila bay, but the admiral said it could be ready to sail on 24 hours notice. Three other destroyers, a dozen submarines and a small fleet of colliers, mine layers and tenders, were available for instant use.

Against the threat of Chiang Kai-Shek's troops the Japanese ordered new landing parties from their cruisers anchored in the Whangpo.

Beyond the lines of the international settlement thousands of terrified Chinese attempted to make their way toward the magic foreign area where they might find safety.

Here was a major danger, comparable to the threat of action by the armed forces of China, who, it was feared, might decide to enter the settlement in the belief that by sheer numbers they might overwhelm the comparative handful of men defending the area's long and tortuous borders.

American Mission Is Raided

The second day and night of Japanese occupation brought a series of dramatic developments. An attempt by civilian authorities to effect an armistice failed. Japanese marines, aided by air bombers, continued their advance in Chapei in the face of stubborn resistance by Chinese soldiers.

An American mission in the international settlement was invaded by the Japanese. The Shanghai wireless station was bombed out of commission. A shell fell in the settlement but no one was hurt.

Bombs, machine guns, and rifles spread death and destruction through the native districts. Illumination and communication facilities were blotted out. Flames devoured what the battling soldiers left. The casualties were listed in the thousands.

Chapei was a theater of war as the Japanese strove to consolidate positions already captured and extend their control over the entire area. At no point did the Chinese offer mass resistance, but they impeded the progress of the invaders by sniping at them from every conceivable vantage point. The issue still was in doubt long after midnight.

Hours Bring Terror

The hours brought terror to the civilian population as the flames, started by Japanese bombs, licked at the ancient, ramshackle structures and filled the tortuous streets and alleys with smoke and firebrands. The people became the targets of the bullets of both sides in the confusion of battle.

A dozen Japanese airplanes wheeled and circled above the beleaguered area, dropping carriers of death that sent up enormous eruptions. Japanese marines stoles through the streets in groups, picking off snipers with machine guns. The Chinese called on their knowledge of the city to harrass the enemy at every step with small arms fire. Over all the conflagration snapped and crackled, threatening to wipe out the area.

During the holocaust the Shanghai-Nanking railway station, captured and lost by the Japanese, burned to the ground. Japanese headquarters were besieged by the Chinese and they came dangerously near to taking it.

Casualties Enormous

Chinese refugees streaming into the settlement reported that the casualties among the 200,000 people were enormous and that the dead and dying would reach into the thousands. Eyewitnesses said sickening scenes were observed in first aid stations were the bodies of women, children and babies—riddled with bullets—were brought in.

Nor could anyone say that the end was in sight. In the early hours of today small bands of Chinese were retreating foot by foot as the Japanese pressed on.

One group of defenders pushed into the settlement and fired on Japanese defense troops, but were driven off. Another band attacked a Japanese club close to the boundary and also was thrown back. Reports that additional troops were on the way from Nanking spurred them to frenzied activity.

Declare General Strike

Commercial activity in the settlement and native cities came to a complete standstill. Banks and business houses closed their doors. The Chinese Chamber of Commerce declared a general strike in protest against Japanese operations. Foreign officials looked on the developments with growing anxiety and their nationals waited with apprehension for what nightfall might bring.

Published reports of an armistice grew out of the efforts of Japanese consular officials and Chinese civil authorities to bring an end to the hostilities. Their work was nullified by military chiefs on both sides who took the position that a truce could not settle the controversy.

Supporting this premise, the Chinese command issued a statement accusing the Japanese of "murdering our people, burning our homes and

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

SOME people have trouble and some people hunt it up. There was that letter I saw the other day in a love-lorn colyum. Some man wrote in to determine if "blondes really are a lot bigger flirts than brunettes," said he was married to a blond but trusted her and wanted to know if he had married the only good blond in the world!

* * *

Fortune tellers say that people want to be fooled and a lot of promoters and grafters make tidy sums because of this well-known human trait.

* * *

So it looks like the blonds will have another big year. No wonder this platinum hair grows in popularity. The women are pretty sorry sports if they don't keep the men thinking that a few yellow hairs make them so fascinating. And, of course, if the man must believe that he has married the only good blond then, I suppose, it is up to her to keep him thinking that and believing that since she is a blond she is likely to change sentiments any minute.

Isn't that the sort of thing we are always hearing about as the secret of charm? Of course, so far I haven't seen any women who were willing to admit that they had found the secret of charm—any who had it who were willing to say so—but there are supposed to be definite ways. And I've seen a lot of others who didn't seem to have followed any of the advice and managed to have charm and successful marriages and homes and such things just the same.

* * *

And, as one love-lorn expert to another, there is something wrong with the man when he has to write in to a columnist to discover whether or not blonds are bigger flirts than brunettes and if his wife is the only good blond. Seems like he is out looking for a little trouble.

SPRING AGAIN

SPRING is here! And in a few more weeks the countryside will be reposing down on the other side of the caprock. A few more centuries, we suppose, and the Blanco canyon breaks will be filled with what West Texas sends that way in the spring.

* * *

The calendar may not announce spring until March, but as far as we are concerned the season blows in on the wings of the first sand storm. This is being written on Thursday between periods of wiping grit from the typewriter keys.

* * *

However, I'm an optimist, a real Pollyanna. These sand storms aren't so bad. In fact, they are a lot better than what a lot of the country gets. By the time this is printed, more than likely, we shall be reading of tornados, cyclones and other destructive winds down in Texas, Louisiana, Alabama or some other place below here. The wind may not be so pleasant here, but it is not destructive. When the breeze comes rushing out across these Plains from the Rockies it is usually simply giving us a passing smack for the fun of the thing while bent on destruction further East.

* * *

Perhaps you have been reminded before, but had you realized how little we have here that destroys? No cyclones and the wind gets high enough to tear the roof off a building or topple a shed over about once in a dozen years or so; hail breaks unprotected glass in an occasional decade; floods are unknown and practically impossible; snow storms take life about once in a blue moon and the same holds for the sun. Even on the hottest day, that depressing humidity of lower climes does not hover about. The rattler is the only venomous reptile in the country and he is a "gentleman"—he warns before he strikes.

* * *

And now that I have press-agented awhile for the sand storm, it is only fair to admit that the things are very distasteful to me and I hate to work with grit between my teeth and under my fingernails and all over the desk. But, it would be just as unpleasant, I'm sure to have a tornado twisting the roof off and generally scrambling the buildings and people.

* * *

By the way, wouldn't this be a grand time of year for dust caps?

HILLS BROS' PATENTED PROCESS
PUTS THE FINISHING TOUCHES
ON THE JOB THAT NATURE BEGINS

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .
a little at a time
. . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting — the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . "a little at a time."

Controlled Roasting brings out the perfect flavor of Hills Bros' famous blend

Small quantities of coffee, automatically controlled, assure an ideal roast for each berry

No one of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum can keeps it FRESH ALWAYS!

When ripe coffee is picked, Nature's work is done. Man must finish the job, and develop the flavor by roasting. But if he roasts the coffee too long, or not enough, its true goodness is lost. And it is easy to lose the flavor by ordinary, bulk-roasting methods.

The chances for under-roasting and over-roasting aren't present in Hills Bros.' patented process! Hills Bros. roast a little at a time . . . evenly, continuously, by Controlled Roasting.

Small quantities, automatically controlled, assure an ideal roast for each berry! The real flavor of coffee—its true, refreshing smoothness—is in every pound of Hills Bros. Coffee. Never any variation!

Hills Bros. Coffee is vacuum-packed, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness — the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can — it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

Drink a cup of Hills Bros. Coffee, and see what a really fine flavor comes from Controlled Roasting! From your first sip, you'll be eager and hungry for more and more of that marvelous flavor! Order Hills Bros. today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: JESUS FEEDS THE MULTITUDE

Scripture Lesson: John 6-1-13, 48-51

1. After these things Jesus went away to the other side of the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Tiberias.

2. And a great multitude followed him, because they beheld the signs which he did on them that were sick.

3 And Jesus went up into the mountain, and there he sat with his disciples.

4. Now the passover, the feast of the Jews, was at hand.

5. Jesus therefore lifting up his eyes, and seeing that a great multitude cometh unto him, saith unto Philip, Whence are we to buy bread, that these may eat?

6. And this he said to prove him: for he himself knew what he would do.

7. Philip answered him, Two hundred shillings' worth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one may take a little.

8. One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him,

9. There is a lad here, who hath five barley loaves, and two fishes: but what are these among so many?

10. Jesus said, Make the people sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

11. Jesus therefore took the loaves; and having given thanks, he distributed to them that were set down; likewise also of the fishes as much as they would.

12. And when they were filled, he saith unto his disciples, Gather up the broken pieces which remain over, that nothing be lost.

13. So they gathered them up, and filled twelve baskets with broken pieces from the five barley loaves, which remain over unto them that had eaten.

48. I am the bread of life.

49. Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died.

50. This is the bread which cometh down out of heaven, that a man may eat thereof and not die.

51. I am the living bread which came down out of heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live forever: yea and the bread which I will give is my flesh, for the life of the world.

Golden Text: Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to us shall not hunger, and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.—John 6:35.

Time: April, A. D. 29, in the third year of Christ's public ministry.

Place: The Plain of Butaiha, southeast of Bethsaida, on the northeast shore of the Sea of Galilee.

Parallel Passages: Matt. 14:13-21; Mark 6:30-46; Luke 9:10-17.

Lesson Connection

John records only the beginning of the year A. D. 28, the Second year of Christ's ministry, mentioning our Lord's attendance on a feats at Jerusalem, describing the healing at the Pool of Bethesda, and reporting a wonderful discourse made at that time. All of the remaining events of that year are related in the synoptic Gospels and so are omitted by John. These include the definite calling of the twelve disciples, the Sermon on the Mount, and many miracles and parables. The early events of A. D. 29 are also omitted by John for the same reason,—the second rejection at Nazareth, the sending forth of the Twelve, and the death of John the Baptist. This brings us to the great miracle of the feeding of the five thousand. Though all the other Gospels report it fully (see Parallel Passages, Matt. 14:13-21; Mark 6:30-46; Luke 9:10-17), John breaks through his rule and also relates it, in order to set down the important discourse on the Bread of life which Jesus gave in connection with it, and which John alone reports.

See of Galilee. v. 1.

"Jesus went away to the other side of the Sea of Galilee." "The other side" from the western side on which he had been at work, i. e., the eastern side. "Which is the sea of Tiberias." The city of Tiberias, on the western shore of the lake, was built in Christ's lifetime by Herod Antipas, the ruler of Galilee, in honor of the Roman Emperor Tiberius, after whom it was named, the name being also transferred to the Sea of Galilee. This sea was called in the Old Testament the Sea of Chinnereth, and also in New Testament times it was called the Lake of Gennesaret, after a plain of that name to the west of the lake. It is thought that Christ withdrew with his disciples to the east of the lake because they had just returned from an evangelistic tour and he wanted to confer with them quietly, and also because they were all in need of rest. Also, the news of the execution of John the Baptist had just come, and Jesus and his disciples may have sought safety in retirement.

Jesus, The Great Teacher. v. 3

"And there he sat with his disciples." As we read the Gospels thoughtfully, we come into a clearer idea of the school which the Master conducted for the benefit of his disciples during the three years of his companionship with them. Never had men such a teacher and such a wonderful opportunity. It is not strange that, crude as they were at the start, they became powerful leaders of men, and some of them developed marvellous mental and spiritual powers. Nor are we to forget that the great Teacher is still conducting this matchless school for his followers, and still invites them often, as he invited the Twelve, "Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place and rest a while" (Mark 6:31). The chief of our instruction periods in teh school of Christ is the daily reading of the Bible, followed by earnest private prayer.

A MULTITUDE FOLLOWED JESUS

"And seeing that a great multitude cometh unto him." Thus for the second time that day his privacy was invaded. Vast numbers of Jews assembled in Jerusalem every year at the passover, coming from the most distant regions. The pilgrims usually travelled in huge companies, for the sake of protection and good fellowship, and one of these bands, hearing of the presence near by of the famous teacher and miracle-worker, hastened by a common impulse to seek him out. "Saith unto Philip, whence are we to buy bread, that these may eat?" Matthew, Mark and Luke complete the beautiful picture. Our Lord was moved with compassion toward them. He saw the great, seeking crowd as sheep without a shepherd.

JESUS SAW THE NEED

The pitying Christ saw the need. It was the time of the Passover, about the middle of April in the year 29, and many persons were on the way, or preparing soon to go to Jerusalem to observe it. So it was that late in the afternoon the great multitude around Jesus was yet increasing, and among the disciples alarm was felt as to what would become of this foodless, shelterless crowd at nightfall. Jesus demanded that they should be fed and asked Philip, a native of the neighborhood, where food could be found. The object of the inquiry was not information: for Jesus had already determined upon the course he would pursue. Philip responded that hardly a mouthful of bread for every one could be secured with two hundred shillings.

THE SMALL BOY AND HIS LUNCH, v. 9

Inquiry was made by the disciples as to the amount of food that was available and the meager quantity was reported to Jesus by Andrew. A small boy had a very small amount of provisions; five barley loaves and two small fishes. Barley bread was cheap and coarse, and the loaves made of it were small. Broadus says that they resembled the "hoe-cakes" of this country, and Deems says they were about the size of ordinary griddle-cakes or buckwheat cakes. The fishes were also small. Edersheim informs us that they were generally dried or pickled fish eaten with bread, like our sardines or the pickled herring of Holland or Germany. So the boy had only a boy's meal; yet here were more than five thousand people to be fed.

AN AMAZING MIRACLE, vs. 11, 12

At the bidding of Christ the first thing done was the orderly arrangement of the multitude. They were divided by the disciples into companies of fifty and a hundred and commanded to sit down on the abundant grass in that locality. About five thousand men thus seated themselves; the women and children, far less numerous no doubt, were placed separately. And now before them stood Jesus with that scanty stock of food in his hands. After giving thanks, he distributed with the aid of the disciples to all as much as they wanted. As to the precise moment the miracle was wrought, Hovey supposes that Jesus broke the bread partially and that the disciples carried on the process as they gave to each one his portion, the bread meanwhile increasing as they continued to break and distribute it. So the hunger of every one was satisfied.

JESUS TEACHES ECONOMY, v 12

Christ looked after the fragments. The liberality that abundantly supplied the need of a hungry multitude was linked with an economy which took care of the fragments. These, according to Broadus, were not crumbs made by the eaters, but a surplus of the pieces into which Jesus and the disciples had broken the food. Mark informs us that pieces of fish were included in the fragments, but since John mentions only the remnants of the barley bread, we conclude that the surplus of bread was greater than that of fish. Each of the Twelve may have supplied himself with a basket, and all of these were filled and doubtless kept for use. A basket was "the ordinary furniture of the traveling Jew, to carry his food, lest he should be polluted by that of the people through whose territory he passed."

THE LESSON OF THE MIRACLE

Christ taught the lesson of the miracle. First, he declared that he is the Bread of Life which means that he is the true and only sustenance and nourishment of the soul. In the next place, he drew a sharp contrast between the physical and the spiritual: On the one hand, the manna in the wilderess though recognized by wandering Israel as bread from heaven, was yet unable to keep them from dying; and on the other, the Bread of Life, the Living Bread which in the person of Christ came down from heaven and can be appropriated through faith.

"We feed on Christ whenever in anyway, by any experience, we draw near to him and he to us. The vigorous metaphor of eating flesh and drinking blood was the symbol of the most intimate relationship."—Dean George Hodges.

School Work In Pep District Resumed After Building Fire

(By Staff Correspondent)

LEVELLAND, Jan. 29. — School work in the Pep district, which was stopped during the Christmas holiday season with the destruction by fire of the school building, has been resumed, according to W. F. Fry, county superintendent of schools.

A temporary building, that is later to be used as a teacherage, has been completed and class work starts Monday, January 26. The school has four rooms and in the spring a permanent building for class work is to be built.

"When this is done, the temporary building is to be used for a teacherage," Mr. Fry said. Miss Elizabeth Linton of Shallowater is the superintendent and there are four teachers.

PERENNIAL MATT

From New York comes the news that the Olympic urge has stirred the blood of Matt McGrath, hero of four Olympics and a deputy inspector now. That suggests at once that one of the Olympic events should be a brick-tossing contest. McGrath surely would win.

A couple of years back, McGrath gave pursuit to an Italian who had just killed a man. The fugitive had leaped onto a barge. McGrath jumped to another barge which happened to be loaded with bricks.

The famous Olympic weight and hammer tosser started moving the brick pile, one by one, in the direction of the culprit. As the missiles rained down about the Italian's ears, he surrendered, tossing his revolver into the water. McGrath's name was placed upon the roll of honor for that adventure.

One cold November night, Matt dived 30 feet off a bridge to save a tipsy sailor bent on suicide. For that he received the Congressional Medal.

McGrath relates as his greatest thrill watching the Stars and Stripes being raised at London to show that John Flanagan and he had won their weight events in the 1908 Olympic games.

A hero then, he went back to Tipperary to see his folks (his mother and father are still living.) Matt was the oldest of a family of 11.

"I was received heartily," says he, "at great estates where they would have chased me a few years before. I threw the hammer on their fine lawns. And when I got back I was the guest of President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay."

REJUVENATION

McGrath is 53 now, but his chances for coming back are not any worse than some others half his age who are training to return to the Olympic wars. One of these is Willie Ritola, who competed for Finland in the 1924 and 1928 Olympics. He wants to run in the 26-mile marathon, an event that Nurmi already has adopted for his own. Nurmi broke Ritola's heart in match races a few years ago, but sometimes they get over those broken hearts.

MURCHISON, HUSSEY

After being on the shelf for five years, Loren Murchison declared the other day that Olympic sprint candidates would have to reckon with him. And some of those candidates had not even donned a spiked shoe in the days when Murch was flashing to brilliant victories.

Ben Hedges, former Princeton all-around star, is high-jumping again, after two years out of training.

Frank Hussey, who made the 1924 Olympic team while still in high school, is another hopeful. He ran as a member of the 400-meter relay team that won at Paris, setting a world record. In 1925, before entering college, he won a 100-yard championship at San Francisco, making 9 4-5. But, after that performance, he seemed to fade, and missed qualifying for the sprint squad selected for the 1928 Olympics.

They say of Hussey that he was burned out by too much competition in high school. Yet he is said to be more physically fit now than he was in his high school days. Could it have been lack of incentive?

Dickens Prepares For Boys Basketball Tourney Feb. 5

DICKENS, Jan. 29 (Special) — The second annual boys basketball tournament will be held in Dickens February 5 and 6, coming as a climax to the exceptional record of the Dickens team during the present season. Dickens boasts of a coaching staff of four and six basketball teams which have played seventy-six games this season, winning 49 of them. The best record has been made by the team known as the "Owlets" which is made of senior boys small in size. They have played 26 games and won 14 of them.

The Dickens school also held the first basketball tournament for girls that was ever held in West Texas the first week of the basketball season. It had twenty-two entries and has been made an annual affair the first week in December of each year.

Last year 26 teams entered the boys tournament which was won by the fast team from Meadow. Only 20 teams will be accepted this year. Gold lettered charms will be awarded the members of the winning team, silver lettered charms the runner-up team, and bronze basketballs to the winning team of the consolation games. "Chig" Harrison of Denton an outstanding referee of North Texas will call the tournament.

Final Quarter Earns Lubbock 32-27 Victory

Both Teams Start Sluggishly And Weakened Westerners Do Little Until Late In Game, Play Tonight At 7:30

BY COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

After a sluggish start in which members of both teams hit everything in the gymnasium except the backboard and the brass band's piccolo, the while Westerners and Harvesters alike tumbled all over the floor and into each other trying to dodge the course of the basketball, the Lubbock High school Westerners came alive in the final eight minutes of play to snatch a 32 to 27 victory over Coach Odus Mitchell's Pampa Harvesters.

The teams meet tonight in the second and final game of the series. The contest is due to start at 7:30, but if it is no better game than the one last night fans might find something more lively to assasinate their time until about 8:15 when the final quarter rolls around.

The Harvesters began to play basketball in the second half, or the third quarter, as high school games go by quarters. For a time it appeared that the boys in what once might have been white uniforms would sneak away with the winning honors, especially if the Westerners continued their sluggish playing. But as the final period rolled around and the band quit blowing long enough for a bit of organized rooting which seemed to inspire the boys to greater things, the basket in the east end of the court began suddenly to fill with basketballs. The Westerners overcame a several point lead and managed to hold it the rest of the way. Toward the closing moments they flashed passable form.

Not In Condition

May it be said here in respect to the Westerners that many of them took the court too soon after more or less minor attacks of bad colds and influenza. It was long before two of the regulars, Gene Brown and Possom Blackwell, found that basketball and Harvesters and 'flu did not mix, and they left the court, the former via the personal foul outlet and the latter when he began to turn pale. The other members of the team were not in prime physical condition.

The playing of Hollis Payne, acting captain after Brown and Quinlan left the court, was a feature of the game. He whipped those tired spirits and unwilling basketeers into action and himself took second high scoring honors with four field goals and one gratis pitch. He was good on the defensive, held the ball, perhaps sometimes when he should have passed it, and was generally a power in the victory. His coming on the court, it is hereby maintained, was the turning point of a very bad game, especially from a Westerner standpoint.

For the Harvesters it may be said that they played good basketball after a pitiful start. They, too, were clearly off form. The work of one Enloe, the recognized hot spark of the club, was almost fascinating at times, if anything about the game could be fascinating. He came very near fouling himself out in the first quarter, during which time Referee Hambright called a dozen personals, but came back in after a temporary withdrawal and fouled nary a time during the second half.

High scoring honors went to Enloe, who chucked in four from scrimmage and a pair from the free line, after failing to tally a point in his first debut. Woodward was the early hotshot for Pampa, doing four field goals. Marcaugh, center, and B. Kelley, substitute forward, tallied one field goal apiece and W. Kelley, guard, sunk four free shots.

A maximum of penalties were called, it seemed, on both sides, but there was no fault finding with the work of the official in charge, who whistled no less than 31 times for free shots.

Perhaps the boys will be in better condition tonight. With the exercise gained last night, and the knowledge that that particular style of basketball is not considered top style they should be able to put on a good performance tonight.

Max Baer Wins!

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—Max Baer of California was given the decision over King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, at the end of ten rounds of uninteresting milling here tonight. There was nothing resembling a knockdown.

Baer weighed 202; Levinsky, 193 1-2.

Horned Frogs To Meet Buffs Next

FORT WORTH, Jan. 29.—Coach Francis Schmidt of Texas Christian will be fed a little of his own medicine Saturday night at 8 o'clock when the West Texas Buffaloes meet his team in the Frog gym.

It has always been the good fortune of the Frog coach to have a tall center who gave the ball to his mate on the tip-off nine out of ten times. He has one now, Adolph Dietzel, 6' 5" in height. The Horned Frog center will pit his jumping ability against the 6' 7" center of the Buffalos. So what appears to be Coach Schmidt's most deadly weapon will spring up on the other side of the fence. It may be that Dietzel will be able to out-jump the enemy "Too-Tall," this is doubtful. The Canyon boys are all well over six feet, a type of team which the Toads have never before met.

Limiting Of Liabilities Is Argued Friday Before Court

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (AP)—A case involving a question whether a city may limit liabilities for personal injuries by charter provisions was argued before the supreme court today. It was styled city of Wichita Falls vs. H. L. Robinson.

Two other cases also were submitted. They were O. G. Claxton et al vs. John R. Brandon et al and M. E. Anderson et al vs. John R. Brandon et al. They concerned litigation over charter power of the city of Dallas in taking liens for street paving.

Feasibility of laying a water pipeline from Jaffa, on the Mediterranean, to Jerusalem is being considered to augment the Palestine city's water supply.

Trick Artist Shoots 70 To Lead Round 1

Kirkwood Shoots Six Birdies Over San Antonio Layout To Take Early Lead; Sarazen On Heels With 71

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 29. — Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia professional, neglected his celebrated trick shots today long enough to shoot six birdies for a 34-36—70. It was good enough to lead the $2,500 Texas Open field at the end of the first 18 of the 72-hole trek.

In 1924 Kirkwood won the Texas open. Today he moved to the front again, but only one stroke ahead of the redoubtable Gene Sarazen, New York professional, who toured the Breckenridge park course in 34-37—71. Sarazen carried a gallery estimated at 1,500 persons.

Jap Sets Record

Tomekichi Miyamoto, open champion of Japan who tied the course record with a 66 and with his partner, Tom Rue of San Antonio, won the amateur-pro event with a 64 for a new course record yesterday was slightly off line with his approach shots today and was seven strokes behind Kirkwood with 39-38—77. He still retained his smooth putting touch and long tee shots.

Competition was in chilly weather. Early starters especially felt the temperature. Sarazen and Kirkwood were late starters along with Harry Cooper of Chicago, who finished in a tie for third place with Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles and Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J.

Blazing around the course in par figures, Cooper suffered a couple of penalty strokes on the back nine to ruin his chance for a tie with Kirkwood. After the penalty, he finished with two birdies, taking a two on the 18th hole.

Gus Moreland of Dallas, Texas amateur champion, was an early starter when a stiff gale was blowing across the course. His tee shots strayed and he finished the front nine in 40. On the back nine he shot 35 for a 75.

Hugh Carpenter, Dallas professional, shot the only 73. Carpenter had a chance to tie Kirkwood until the last two holes, but his two fives gave him a 37-36—73.

At the finish of the initial 18 holes, 59 out of the starting field shot 79 or better. Ralph Guldahl, Detroit professional, who last week won the Arizona open, played with a high fever and against doctors' orders but he made home with a 38-36—74.

Tomorrow the second 18 of the 72 holes will be played and the sixty four low shooters will play 36 holes Sunday for first prize money of $600 and seventeen smaller money prizes.

Today's 18 hole scores included:

G. W. Shine, Harlingen, 38-36—74.

Pat O'Brien, Alamo, Tex., 37-37—74.

Tony Butler, Corpus Christi, 37-38—75.

Dick Metz, Corpus Christi, 41-36—77.

Joe Ezar, Waco, 39-40—79.

Bud McKinney, Del Rio, 44-36—80.

Matadors Come Home To Scrap University Of New Mexico Lobos In 2 Games

Tech Cagers Meet Durant Teachers There Tonight

The Texas Tech Matadors wind up their ten-day basketball tour with the final game tonight at Durant, Oklahoma, where they meet the Southeastern State Teachers college Savages of the Oklahoma Collegiate Conference, and are due to arrive in Lubbock tomorrow.

Once at home, the Matadors hardly will have time to breathe deeply before starting a home campaign, the first series scheduled for Monday and Tuesday nights against the University of New Mexico Lobos.

The Lobos tonight wind up a series with the New Mexico Military Institute and will leave Albuquerque early Sunday for Lubbock, arriving here tomorrow night.

Up to tonight, the luckless Matadors have lost all but one game on their present trip. They opened the tour by dropping a pair to Simmons University's Cowboys, continued to Fort Worth to lose a single contest to the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, and moved into Oklahoma to continue the losing streak. The Southwestern State Teachers college Bulldogs at Weatherford took the Matadors for a two-game ride. The Matadors were able to split a series with the Cameron Aggies at Lawton before coming to Ada where they lost a single stand to the league leading East Central State Teachers college Tigers Thursday night.

Rested Last Night

A rest last night and today favored the Matadors in tonight's game, though the Savages are up in the running for Collegiate Conference honors.

Communication yesterday from Coach Dell Morgan decried the fact that in nearly all games the Matadors have been able to take a substantial lead, only to "quit hustling" as the game proceeded, thinking victory was all theirs. As the scores grew closer together after such let downs, the Matadors found it difficult to come to life long enough to rally for a victory.

The Lobos of New Mexico, coached by Tom Churchill, former nationally known athlete from the University of Oklahoma, have been training with ambitious regard since the holidays. They have defeated the Silver City Teachers team, one of the strongest teams of the state, 45 to 35, and trounced the New Mexico School of Mines, 51 to 15. Two weeks ago they split a series with the Flagstaff Lumberjacks, losing 40 to 32 and winning 38 to 33. Mid-term examinations prevented serious training last week but the Lobos have been going hard this week in preparation for the N. M. M. I. Cadets and the Texas Tech Matadors.

Reclamation of public lands has added only about three-fourths of one per cent to the national crop area of this country, says the department of interior.

Army Meets Engineers At Two O'Clock; Liberal Artists And Aggies Clash At Four In Tech's Intramural Play

A football double-header appears on Lubbock's athletic program for this afternoon. Continuing the intramural grid season, two games of college football will be played on the Texas Tech practice field, beginning at 2 o'clock today.

In the game time the Army will clash with the Engineers, and the Aggies and Liberal Artists will follow up in the nightcap.

Last Saturday afternoon in the opening games of the intramural season, the Liberal Artists, made up largely of members of the 1931 Lubbock High school bi-district championship team, defeated the Army 12 to 0. The Aggies and Engineers played to a scoreless tie.

More than a hundred youngsters reported for intramural grid work two weeks ago and four squads were equipped. Varsity squadmen and freshmen letter men are not eligible to play, but varsity letter men are coaching the intramural teams. The Aggies are coached by George Langford, Speedy Moffett and Matt Hitchcock, regular tackle, quarterback and end on the 1931 varsity, Shorty France, halfback, Yancy Price end and Elva Baker, guard on last year's team, are coaching the Engineers, Captain Jack Durham of the 1930 and 1931 varsity is head coach of the Liberal Arts team. Whacker Barton was acting coach for the Army squad last week.

A. C. C. Track Star Named On 1931 Collegiate Honor Roll

ABILENE, Jan. 29. (AP) — Jimmy Lawrence, track star of Abilene Christian college here, is listed this year on the 1931 collegiate track honor roll, in which the ten best men in each event in the United States are listed.

Lawrence won the honor by running the 220-yard low hurdles at the T. I. A. A. meet last May in 24 seconds flat. He will compete again this spring under Wildcat colors, but has made no plans for a tryout at the Olympic races.

Tulsa Gets Western League Franchise For This Spring

Captains Lobos

Visitors at Texas Tech Field one day last November may remember a fighting, slashing, running quarterback who played with the University of New Mexico grid team. Tech won the game, by a nice margin, but if all the Lobos had been playing like Poe Corn, above, the story might have been different. Corn is a guard on the Lobo team which comes here to engage the Texas Tech Matadors in a two-game series Monday and Tuesday nights. The games are to start at 8 o'clock.

Texas League Fathers Talk Of Shreveport

Louisiana Club Reported For Sale; May Not Operate As Texas League Team; Cards For Season Discussed

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Jan. 29.—The question of operation of the Shreveport baseball club will come in the attention of Texas League club owners in their annual schedule meeting here tomorrow, it was learned today. An announcement of plans for the conduct of the club will be made, an assurance was expected that the club would continue to operate in Shreveport.

President J. Alvin Gardner of the Texas League, has been cooperating with Tom Hickman, president of the Shreveport, club, in an attempt to unravel the financial problems of the Louisiana member.

At the annual mid-winter meeting in Dallas, Hickman announced the Shreveport club was in financial difficulty and offered it for sale. There have been no purchasers, it was said, although Gardner and Hickman have been striving to insure the operation of the team in Shreveport this year. In any event, the franchise will not be moved from Louisiana, for Shreveport has been one of the league's strongholds during its term of membership.

Other matters to come before the magnates will be adoption of the 1932 schedule, discussion of league sponsorship of Class D League in East Texas, letting a new contract for baseball and uniforms, and the award of opening day attendance prizes. The league already has voted to open the schedule on Wednesday, April 13, but the complete program of games has not been adopted. William Ruggles, league statistician, will offer alternative schedule drafts for adoption.

(AP)—Gus Copulos, Eugene, Ore., shot his way into the running for the world three-cushion billiards championship today, racking up his fifth straight victory, while Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo., ten-time holder of the title, definitely was eliminated from championship consideration.

Copulos, who lost his first two matches, maintained his sensational pace by outlasting Tiff Denton, Kansas City, to win today's opening match, 50 to 45, in 56 innings.

One of Layton's pupils, Allen Hall, Chicago, accounted for the Sedalia redhead's chances in the tournament, by winning the second day game, 50, 59, 38, in 52 inn'ngs.

El Pasoan To Head Farmers

Economic, Social And Political Reforms Are Demanded In Resolutions Offered At Last Bureau Session

DALLAS, Jan. 29. (AP)—The Texas Farm Bureau federation elected F. P. Friat of El Paso president and John T. Orr of Dallas vice-president today at the closing session of the twelfth annual convention.

Delegates then turned to resolutions demanding economic, social and political reforms.

Abolition of the fee system and substitution of a straight salary basis for all county and state officials was demanded in one of the resolutions.

Establishment of eight per cent as the maximum legal interest rate was asked in another resolution.

A third favored adoption of a constitutional amendment providing a tax exemption of $3,000 on all Texas homes.

Taxing incomes, inheritances, intangible assets, severences and evidences of indebtedness, the latter to be paid by holder of the evidences, was urged in another recommendation.

This step was explained "as one means of affording some relief to oppressed agriculture and to encourage farm home ownership."

Submission of a constitutional amendment authorizing graduated income taxes in Texas was asked.

It was charged that appointments to the board of regents of Texas agricultural colleges and other boards having to do with agricultural matters were regarded as political spoils. Consideration to farmers was asked in these appointments.

Policies of the American Farm Bureau federation were endorsed in full, with special commendation for the stand on the federal marketing act, the taxation tariff and water users problems.

The interstate commerce commission was called upon to establish equal domestic rates for articles of similar classification.

The convention also voted to act upon requests of East Texas tomato growers and Rio Grande citrus growers to organize cooperative marketing organizations for these commodities.

More collective thinking, planning and action was advocated by F. P Burdick, speaking for the Texas Livestock Marketing association of Fort Worth.

Reading Habits Of Men And Women In City Are Observed

Men read many of their books in the county library, but women take most of their books home to read. Miss Rutillia Eubank, county librarian, Friday said observation had revealed.

Although considerably more women than men draw books from the Lubbock county library here, twice as many men as women read in the library, Miss Eubank said. The library does not have a separate juvenile reading table. The librarian believes girls and boys are represented about equally in library patrons.

The library staff, preparing for Washington bicentennial programs, is listing works on Washington and will assemble them and material supplied by the Washington Bicentennial commission in one group.

Home Cured Meats To Be Sold After Show In March; Farmers Cooperate

By Staff Correspondent

AMHERST, Jan. 29. — Lamb county butchers will have for sale once a week, following the annual cured meat show late in March, home cured ham, bacon and other pork products, if plans of D. A. Adam, county agent, are carried out.

"We are going to have a cured meat show for the county about March 21 or 22," Mr. Adams said. "At that show I hope that we can have more hams than the Lubbock show last March had.

"I have talked with most of the butchers and market men in the county and I think they will sell meats cured right here in the county once a week.

Snyder To Judge

"At the meat shop Roy Snyder, meat specialist from A. and M. will judge the exhibits. He also has promised to have a meat cutting demonstration and to show farmers and butchers how to grade meat. The meat grading school will be well worth the time."

The county agent estimates that around 5,000 hogs will be butchered by farmers of the county this year. From all reports to his office he finds, he said, that the average family would have two hogs for butchering.

5,000 Conservative

"There are 2,381 families in the county according to the census," Mr. Adam explained. "That means nearly 4,800 hogs butchered. Of course there will be many families who will have more than that. I think 5,000 is a conservative number.

"Besides the hogs, not less than 3,500 calves will be butchered. I have never seen the like of hog and calf butchering during the four years I have been here."

China's imports of American raw cotton during 1931 were the greatest in history.

A Good Idea For Us, Too

QUITE often we Americans take time out to chuckle at Mexico over our neighboring country's methods of government and usually there's plenty of room for merriment.

Without suggesting that we drop our own methods of government and substitute those of Mexico, The Morning Avalanche, however, has run across an item from The El Paso Times concerning a plan which might well be put into effect in Texas—and every other state in the Union.

"Governor Roberto Fierro, (new and distinctly modern young governor of the State of Chihuahua) is determined to bring antiquated Chihuahua laws up-to-date," The Times reports. "He is especially interested in remodeling laws controlling revenue sources, to make them meet existing conditions."

Every city and every state in our country has upon its statute books laws which are useless because of their antiquity. To be sure, few of them are considered, yet never-the-less they remain as laws and occasionally one is dragged out from its musty corner to cause confusion and unnecessary difficulty.

Governor Fierro, we think, is on the right track when he begins doing away with useless laws.

Similar action in our own country should be greeted with cheers on every hand.

MORE ACTIVITY NEEDED

Announcement that two of the most promising of District One's high school football players will enter Oklahoma City university offers food for thought when one stops to consider that Texas Tech is the logical school to attract those youngsters.

To be sure, Tech gets the cream of the Lubbock high gridsters as well as those from a number of Class B schools nearby.

But in the matter of drawing its share of the aces from Amarillo and Pampa the college here hasn't been doing so well—and we all know that both those schools produce a good football player.

Everyone who keeps up with football at all knows how Oklahoma City university manages to get its football players; they know how the otherwise obscure little college manages to marshal athletes capable of competing with larger, older and altogether superior institutions. They have a recruiting system at Oklahoma City that is hard to beat—and, on top of that, football players "work" their way through Oklahoma City university by belonging to the fire department!

The Morning Avalanche does not suggest professionalizing football at Texas Tech. First man to refuse to countenance such a procedure would be Head Coach P. W. Cawthon, who has his own keen ideas of right and wrong in football—and sticks to them. But we do suggest more activity on the part of Tech students and alumni and on the part of West Texans interested in seeing Tech succeed in athletics.

Friendship with high school football players on the part of Tech graduates and under-graduates will go a long way toward swinging more promising players this way and from a standpoint of scholastic offering Tech needs take a back seat from no rival in the Southwest.

We're not claiming that those who have been working to secure more and better athletic talent at Tech have been shrinking their jobs. Not at all. We're merely suggesting that more individuals enter into the effort thus affording the needed increase in activity.

Practical Health Problems

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, And of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

BRIGHT'S disease refers to chronic inflammation of the kidney without the infection producing pus. It is seriously damaging to the ability of the kidney to carry on its functions. One of the first signs of importance in diagnosing this disease is the occurrence of albumin in the excretions from the kidney.

When the term "albumin" is used, it refers to any protein material, but the word albumin has been used so long that it now comes to include all of the protein material that may develop. The tests for the presence of albumin are relatively simple and can be carried out by any physician in his office. The albumin that appears is due to the material which comes from destruction of the kidney itself and that which may come from other parts of the tract through which the fluid is passed out.

* * *

IF THE physician finds albumin, it is customary for him to examine the material under the microscope. If he finds cells in the material coming directly from the kidney, he makes the diagnosis of kidney damage. Sometimes the kidney tissue is so damaged that it permits material from the blood to get into the excreted fluid and then albumin is found in the process of the examination.

The amount of albumin found varies a great deal—in some cases it is very slight in amount, in others it is so large as to indicate a condition of absolutely serious nature. There are a few cases in which albumin appears while the individual is in an upright position, but which disappears when he lies down. This may occur in people whose kidneys are normal. Such cases demand more than the average amount of study to make certain that there is no real destructive process going on.

* * *

AN occasional red blood cell in the material from the kidney examined under the microscope is not serious, but a large number of red blood cells indicates some active disturbance and demands special study.

One of the greatest discoveries of modern medical science has been the development of methods of testing the ability of the kidneys to act. These are called renal function tests. Special dye substances, that pass out of the body by way of the kidney, are injected and then the fluid is examined regularly to find out how long a time may be required for the material to pass out and the total amount that passes out during that period. These tests are of the greatest importance in determining the extent of the damage.

Objections To Roosevelt

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—But for the rule which requires a two-thirds' majority to effect a Democratic presidential nomination, it would be easy enough now to name the man who will lead the major opposition to President Hoover's re-election next November.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, of course.

The two-thirds rule, however, does have to be reckoned with. It may be changed, to apply to the 1936 convention of the Democrats, but it certainly will not be changed in its application to this year's.

Gov. Franklin Roosevelt

Such being the case, there is plenty of room for speculation concerning the outcome of the June meeting of the Jeffersonians to pick a standard bearer.

* * *

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT'S supporters expect to arrive in Chicago a day or two prior to the opening of the convention, probably without the necessary two-thirds' vote pledged to the New Yorker, but with a sizeable majority. Maybe by the time the first ballot is taken, anyway by the second or third, they think they will have gained sufficient strength to nominate him—after which, presumably, the convention's choice will be made unanimous.

Perhaps this program will go through as per schedule.

Perhaps, on the other hand, Governor Roosevelt never will succeed in attaining a two-thirds' majority, and, in the end, someone else will have to be agreed on instead.

* * *

TWO MAIN objections to him are raised by opponents of the Empire State candidate.

One is that he has treated former friends with ingratitude—"double-crossed" them, in the political vernacular.

The second has been clearly and compactly put by the devastatingly outspoken Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma—thus:

"The president next time, of all times, must not blow with the wind. . . . Franklin Roosevelt doesn't quite stand up to this test."

* * *

THE CHARGE of ingratitude is a professional complaint. It weighs heavily with politicians, but does not signify much to the rank and file of voters, who are not deeply concerned in quarrels among their party leaders.

It is hotly denied, to be sure, by Rooseveltites, but denials do not prevent its repetition.

Sometimes the hostility of a group of bosses militates seriously to a candidate's disadvantage at a national convention. If there is a popular landslide in his favor, it does not greatly matter to him.

* * *

ANYONE who ever tried to interview Governor Roosevelt on national issues knows what "Alfalfa Bill" Murray meant by his criticism.

The governor may have, as he says, "very strong convictions" on all questions of prime importance to folk the country over, but as to what they are, except for one or two of them, one man's guess is as good as another's.

As a state executive, Governor Roosevelt explains, it is not for him to solve federal problems—and that ends all attempts to sound him out presidentially.

* * *

UPON TWO highly controversial subjects the governor does appear to be definitely committed—

1. He has given it unmistakably as his opinion that prohibition has failed nationally, and has declared for a return to some form of local option in the matter of drink control.

2. His position toward the power industry apparently is that of a decided economic liberal.

* * *

YET, EVEN as to prohibition, it is noticeable that his principal strength is in the dry south and west; not in wet New York, Illinois and Massachusetts. On the contrary, wets openly speak of him as luke-warm. To all but the most radical of drys he evidently is fairly acceptable.

And, indeed, nationally considered, his attitude toward power is not so certain. Seemingly he is for strict state regulation; federally it is difficult to determine what views he holds.

Relative to the League of Nations, foreign indebtedness, the navy, the cause of the depression, the best means of restoring a measure of prosperity, federal responsibility for relief of unemployment meanwhile?—on all these subjects his opinions are a matter of surmise pure and simple.

* * *

AT THE last moment perhaps the governor will declare himself on every pending national problem—and do it so tellingly as to insure his presidential nomination as his friends hope, on the first ballot at the Chicago convention.

Perhaps not—and the uncertainty as to his ideas will make him adequately acceptable to both sides on all problems to bring him up to the necessary two-thirds, with a little jockeying.

Or perhaps, if he relies too long upon a middle policy, he will prove insufficiently satisfactory to any side on anything—and the nomination will go to another.

Whose prospects are best, upon the third and last of these three suppositions?

BUSY BENITO

A lot of Americans may think they'd like to be a Mussolini but we wonder if they'd really enjoy the job.

Consider the manifold duties of the position! Just think what Mr. Mussolini must do along the line of every day duty!

He not only must decide all affairs of state as premier of Italy and as the holder of a half-dozen cabinet portfolios, but he must also run the fascist party, the king and his royal family and must decide on all of the policies of the various newspapers in his country.

He must dictate styles in men's hats. He must ponder all the other economic problems. He must urge each Italian to eat two pounds more rice per year and must harrangue the medical fraternity against birth control. And even now Il Duce is telling the ladies to quit dieting; he is embroiled in an effort to make Italians believe that the "well rounded, maternal figure" is the most beautiful and intriguing!

Mr. Mussolini is a howling success as a dictator. His dictating covers the field in a great big way.

But how many of us Americans would like to swap places with him and take care of the thousands and thousands of details which he has chosen as his own?

No wonder they call him "Il Duce"! His job would make most of us sick as the dickens!

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE HUMAN ROCK:

When Andy Felkins was a child he became a sufferer of ossification, and gradually his entire body turned to stone—bones, muscles, and ligaments. His tragic life did not affect his mind. One of his accomplishments was committing the Bible to memory.

The picture from which my drawing was made was taken at the Fayette (Alabama) County Fair in 1929. He died in 1930 at the age of forty-eight.

THE ROLLICKING RACONTEUR:

Dr. A. Leinwand, of Vienna, who curiously enough is a member of a family long associated with the fabrication of yarns (Zwirnfabrikation), told an interested audience at the Alunisten Club in Vienna a series of 600 pointed stories in 6 3-4 hours, on Sunday, November 6, 1927. The rollicking doctor's goal was narration at the rate of 90 stories within an hour, an attainment with which he is credited in 1923. He excluded this time by a few minutes only. None of his stories had ever been heard by his audience before.

MAD MARRIAGE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY McBRIDE, 19-year-old typist in a New York office, meets JIM WALLACE at the home of her wealthy cousin, ANNE TROWBRIDGE. Gypsy is miserable because she has learned ALAN CROSBY, back from a year and a half in Paris studying art, no longer cares for her. Wallace tells Gypsy that he has been jilted by his fiancee. To spite the girl he cares for he asks Gypsy to marry him. She first refuses but later accepts. They are married next morning and depart for Forest City, his home town.

At Jim's home they are greeted by his aunt, MISS ELLEN WALLACE, who immediately becomes hostile to the girl. After a few days Miss Wallace moves to a cottage down the street. She arranges a family dinner party where Gypsy is snubbed by other relatives. This enrages Jim and they leave. Next day Gypsy receives a letter from Alan Crosby. While she is hesitating about opening it callers arrive and she drops the letter into a desk drawer. It is still there when Jim comes home and inquires about some papers he has given her. Gypsy says they are in the desk and he goes to get them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV

Would Jim see the letter from Alan? If he should ask questions what could she say? Gypsy waited in an agony of suspense. In less than five minutes she heard him coming down the stairs again. He was whistling.

"Well," Jim announced, "I found it."

"You mean—?"

"That estimate of Bradley's. About putting a new roof on the garage. The price is low enough and I don't want the job put off any longer. Spring rains will be setting in any day, I think I'll tell them to get to work next week."

Jim did not notice the warm color slowly surging back into the girl's cheeks.

"Abbie was here this afternoon," she told him.

"What did she have to say?"

"She wants us to come to her house to dinner next Wednesday. She said we could make it some other evening if we'd rather."

"Wednesday's all right so far as I know. Do you want to go?"

"I think we should. She was awfully friendly. I guess she really came to apologize about what happened at your aunt's."

Jim scowled. "It's a nuisance," he said, "but I guess we'd better go. Remind me of it next week, will you? I've got a lot of work ahead of me. Mills turned over that Roberts case to me today. His wife's sick and he's going to take her south. They indicted the girl this afternoon."

"Who?" Gypsy asked.

"Nina Roberts. You've seen her pictures in the papers, haven't you? I must have told you about the case. She's the one who's accused of shooting Dr. Fowler."

Gypsy shook her head. "I guess I haven't been reading the papers the last day or two."

"Oh, this happened two weeks ago. Here—look at this!" He picked up the newspaper he had dropped on the table and spread it open before her. On the front page was the photograph of a pretty girl and above it, in type stretching across the columns, was the caption, "Girl Faces Trial for Shooting Physician."

"How dreadful!" exclaimed Gypsy. In glaring black letters slightly smaller she read, "Nina Roberts, Pretty Assistant, Indicted by Grand Jury for Shooting Dr. Frank R. Flower."

"Everything they've got on her is circumstantial," Jim went on, "but it's going to be a hard fight. I think Mills was glad to get rid of it. It's the most sensational thing I've ever tackled—"

"But she's such a pretty girl," Gypsy interrupted, "and she looks so young!

"She didn't look so pretty when I was talking to her two hours ago. Poor kid's a wreck! I wish the reporters would lay off a while. Look at this blah, 'Love Notes Tell of Tragic Romance!' That will help her a lot, won't it? I've given her strict orders not to talk but it's too late now to do much good."

"Why do they think she did it?"

Jim leaned forward, elbows on the arms of his chair. "It's like this," he said. "Fowler was found dead in his office at six o'clock in the evening by a policeman who heard the shot fired. When the cop got there Nina Roberts was on her knees beside the body. There was a gun on the floor and no finger prints. Nina was crying and hysterical. She claims she was out of the office making a telephone call at a public phone booth on the next floor—a personal message she didn't want Fowler to hear. When she came back she found Fowler lying on the floor with blood on his clothing. She ran to him and, she says, he tried to say something but she couldn't understand the words.

"When the policeman got there

College Students Are Reported Ill

BOSTON, Jan. 29. (AP)—About 50 students and physicians living in Vanderbilt hall of the Harvard medical school have experienced recently mild cases of what apparently was paratyphoid, it was learned today.

The first 30 of the group fell ill two weeks ago after a fraternity dinner at which Dr. George H. Bigelow, state health commissioner, discussed "food poisoning." A few days later 20 more men reported themselves ill.

The food was preared at the hall and today state health officers planned an examination of kitchen help in the belief that one of the employees may be a typhoid carrier.

All of the students have recovered.

Relieve Headache And Quiet Nerves In Three Minutes

When you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes you can get soothing relief in three minutes with "B.C." a reliable, pleasant acting remedy.

"B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most reliefgiving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time.

"B. C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia; for reducing fever and quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. Get "B. C." wherever drugs are sold in 10c and 25c packages. (Adv.)

Surprisingly Low Bids Are Received On School Program

AUSTIN, Jan. 29. (AP)—Surprisingly low bids were received today by the board of regents of the University of Texas on a building program originally estimated to cost between $3,500,000 and $4,000,000.

The average of the bids was slightly less than two-thirds the estimated cost. On the library building, estimated to cost $800,000, bids as low as $500,000 were received. A bid of $312,000 on the student union building, which, with the auditorium, was estimated to cost $800,000, was received. The Auditorium contract will be awarded separately.

Approximately 400 contractors were present with an average of more than 100 bids received on each of the nine buildings in the program.

Like a fool, she t his letters. Nina swears there s nothing to the flirtation except ew dinner dates. Of course the secution is going to try to make it was jealousy."

"And you said the man was mar- d?"

Jim nodded. "They had his wife court today. Cried all the time."

"Did they have any children?"

"No. There's an adopted boy two rs old. The Fowlers took him a r ago."

"Jim, do you think this girl real- killed the man?"

"I'm her lawyer. I've got to prove s innocent if I can." Jim looked n at the floor and then glanced again. "You know, it's a funny g," he went on. na Roberts' picture and col- umns about the girl appeared in Forest City newspapers throughout the coming week. There were pictures and feature stories in metropolitan dailies. In some of these the name of James Wallace, defense attorney, was mentioned. A famous woman novelist chose the Fowler affair as the text of a fullpage indictment of "Salaried Sirens" which appeared in thousands of Sunday supplements.

There were evenings when Jim arrived home at 6:30 instead of five o'clock and there were nights when his desk lamp in the library was burning until long after midnight. Gypsy asked eagerly for new developments in the case but there was little to be learned. There was no way of estabishing when Nina left Fowler's office, or how long she had been gone. There was no proof the girl had even stirred from the room. Nina was going to be a poor witness, Wallace feared. The girl was becoming sullen.

"It was Fowler's own gun that killed him," Jim announced one evening as he threw down his coat and hat in the lamp-lighted living room. "He bought it three months ago on a trip to Cincinnati. Report came in this morning."

"Did Nina have anything to say about the gun?"

"She told me she'd never seen it until the policeman pointed to it lying on the floor. Nina isn't looking very well. I don't believe the food they're giving her in jail agrees with her."

"Doesn't have to eat it? Couldn't you have a restaurant send meals in to her?"

"Who's going to pay for it? There isn't going to be any money in this case, you know."

"Jim, you wouldn't let that girl starve or make herself ill just because of a few dollars! Why, there's enough cooked here to feed another person every day. I can pack a basket and take it down to her myself. I'd be glad to!"

Jim smiled, shaking his head. "That's fine of you to think of doing such a thing, Gypsy, but I can't let you. I've asked Dr. Bainbridge to drop around and see the girl tomorrow morning. If he says her diet's wrong I'll see to it that it's improved."

"But aren't you going to take me to see her sometime, Jim?" It must be horrible to be alone all day long. You're so sure she's innocent and I can't stand to think of a person being punished that way."

"Nina doesn't want to see anyone. I've told you that before. She'd rather be alone."

"I'm sure she'd be glad to see someone who didn't want to ask her a lot of questions and frighten her."

"Now, Gypsy, you'll have to take my word for it. She wouldn't understand. She's a queer girl but she's proud. Doesn't want sympathy."

It was the same answer he had given before. Gypsy gave up the attempt.

"Jim," she said, "have you ever had a talk with the doctor's wife?"

"You mean the widow? Why, yes. I went out to the house the day after the indictment. She was broken up and cried some but was decent about the whole thing. She's a good witness for the prosecution. Makes the case blacker for Nina, though."

"I was just wondering—" Gypsy said, but did not finish.

There was no more discussion of the Roberts case that evening. Gypsy, at breakfast next morning, folded Jim's newspaper and laid it beside her plate. A headline caught her eye. She bent forward, smothering an exclamation.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 29. (AP)—The cotton market after opening steady and fairly active on overnight buying orders and gaining 1 to 3 points, soon turned quiet and easier in sympathy with stocks and declined 3 to 5 points from the opening highs. The market was quieter as the end had passed off 2 to 3 points on realizing, closing quiet and steady at net gains for the day of 4 to 6 points.

March closed at 6.68, up 6 points net for the day. May at 6.84 up 4 points net and July at 7.00 also up 4 points net.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP)—After a slight early decline cotton turned steadier today on continued trade buying and covering stimulated by strength in wheat and a comparative scarcity of contracts after the early offerings had been absorbed.

Partial rallies in the stock market as well as the firmness of wheat were contributing factors in the afternoon which carried March up to 6.70 and July to 7.02 or about 4 to 8 points net higher. The close was a few points off from the best under realizing.

Market Reduces Extreme Losses But Delays Cause Heavy Sag At Closing

BY JOHN I. COOLEY

Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. (AP) — Although able to reduce its extreme losses, the stock market closed heavy today, doubtless discouraged by delays at the Chicago rail conference.

Far eastern affairs found their reflection in offerings of Japanese bonds, a sagging yen and finally, during the final hour, in a bidding up of copper and steel stocks, a move which could easily be attributed to speculative quarters which were anticipating a possible demand for such materials should the Chinese situation take a more serious turn. However, rails had a weak closing and the market generally was inclined to follow them. Net changes averaged into a decline of seven-tenths of a point.

At their lows prominent issues showed losses of 1 to 3 points. These were reduced or cancelled in the fifth trading hour coincident with a two cent rally by wheat and the firmer appearance of the metals.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 29. (AP)—Rapid onset of a sub-zero wave, with millions of acres of domestic winter wheat unprotected by snow, startled grain traders today, and prices jumped quickly.

Anxiety about hostilities in Shanghai did much also to hoist grain. Big buying on the part of houses with eastern connections was a feature of wheat trade at the last.

Wheat closed strong at the day's top level, 2 to 2 1-4 cents above yesterday's finish, corn 7-8 to 1 1-4 up, oats 3-8 to 3-4 advanced, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents down.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 29. (AP)—Receipts of cattle at eleven markets totaled around 14,000 which was about 6,000 greater than last Friday. The decrease in arrivals for the week together with a fairly broad outside demand has aided materially in bringing about a gradual 25 to 50 price advance since Monday on steers and yearlings. Central bulk of steers and yearlings sold at 4.50@7.00 with a few loads of mostly good kinds at 7.50@8.75. Supplies of stockers and feeders were practically lacking with prices quoted steady. Most replacement steers sell at 4.00@5.50.

Hogs were considered as steady to 10 lower with most of the decline coming on heavy weight offerings. Chicago and St Louis scored the day's top of 4.10.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

Business Men Are Scored For Lack Of Knowledge Of Farm Board; Colorado Man Named Association Head

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 29. (AP) — Charles E. Collins of Kit Carson, Colo., was elected president of the American National Livestock association and Ogden, Utah, was selected as the convention city for 1933 today.

Henry G. Boice of Phoenix, Ariz., retiring president, was added to the list of honorary vice-presidents, all of whom were re-elected to their honorary offices.

James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, the only speaker at the final day's meeting, scored big business men for their "ignorance of the work of the federal farm board."

Stone declared that just recently he was asked to address the United States Chamber of Commerce. They propounded to him a list of six questions which, Stone said, revealed their lack of knowledge of the functioning of the farm board.

"One of their questions asked when a certain movement was to get started. "As a matter of fact the movement had already been accomplished.

"After the government has finally recognized the most important industry, agriculture, it is extremely bad taste to criticize movements to help farmers after the business men have been receiving this same help by the government for many years," Stone said.

"The object of the federal farm board is to place agriculture in a position where the law of supply and demand can act normally."

Other officers named follow:

Charles D. Carey of Cheyenne, Wyo., first vice-president, re-elected; George Russell, jr., Elko, Nev.; Hubbard Russell, Los Angeles; J. M. West, Houston, and A. R. Modisett of Rushville, Neb., all re-elected second vice-presidents, and T. E. Mitchell of Albert, N. M., elected a vice-president, to succeed Collins.

Oppose To Last

"We intend to defend our territory and as long as we have a single man or a single round of ammunition we will oppose these invaders until they are expelled."

American Consul-General Edwin S. Cunningham kept a close watch on the strife throughout the day and night but would not commit himself as to the possible effects on American lives and interests. The U. S. S. Borie arrived from Manila, bringing the number of American fighting vessels in Shanghai waters to ten, and more were on the way.

In spite of the heavy loss in life and property and the danger of grave international complications, the Japanese naval command showed no more disposition than the Chinese to arbitrate the issue, but were intent on pushing matters to a conclusion.

After more than 36 hours had passed since 3,000 Japanese marines landed from a battle fleet in the Whangpo river, the Japanese naval command clung tenaciously to their contention that the Chinese civil authorities must disband all anti-Japanese societies, terminate the boycott against Japanese goods and pay reparations for Japanese produce destroyed.

It was estimated the fire already had caused damage amounting to $5,000,000.

Expert Stage Craftsmen Sharing In Success Of "The House Beautiful"

A quartette of expert stage craftsmen share honors in the success of "The House Beautiful," the new romantic drama which will be staged Monday evening at 8:20 o'clock at the Senior High school auditorium.

First, credit for making this splendid production goes to Crosby Gaige, an outstanding figure among Broadway showmen who in past years has personally sponsored such successes as "The Enemy," "Silence," "The Butter and Egg Man," "The Shannons of Broadway," and "Beware of Widows." He was associated with Selwyn and Company in the presentations of "Lilac Time," "Under Cover," "Why Marry," "Tea For Three," "The Circle," "Smiling Through," "Buddies," "The Fool," and "The Crowded Hour;" and was co-producer with Jed Harris of Broadway" and "Coquette."

Second honors go to Channing Pollock, the author, for his well written play, which critics have acclaimed the best representative drama since O'Neill's "Strange Interlude." "The House Beautiful" is but another link in the chain of success of Channing Pollock's great record as a dramatist, for it was he who wrote "The Fool," "The Enemy" "The Sign on the Door," "Roads of Destiny," "Little Grey Lady" and "Such a Little Queen."

The third deserving compliment is none other than Worthington Miner, who directed the production. Mr. Miner was the master hand who staged "Up Pops the Devil" and "Five Star Final," two of last season's biggest hits, and he also had a hand in the direction of "Front Page" and "Uncle Vanya."

Last but not least, special mention is due Jo Mielziner, scenic designer, for his perfect stage settings and his mechanical solution of quick changes of full stage sets in total darkness, without the use of the revolving stage. Twenty complete scenes are shown during the play, all changes made in darkness, noiselessly and with the speed of a motion picture fadeout. Mr. Mielziner originated the sets for "Strange Interlude," "Street Scene," "Uncle Vanya," and the current Katherine Cornell vehicle, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" and also designed the period costumes and gowns worn in the early acts of the play.

Crosby Rural Schools Are Revealing Good Attendance

By Staff Correspondent

CROSBYTON, Jan. 29.—All of the rural schools of Crosby county are having a good attendance this winter, probably a little better than a year ago, in the opinion of B. F. Hicks, county superintendent of schools.

The schools will attempt to operate the full term. This will depend upon the payment of taxes during the remainder of January. Collections are slow in several districts, but the month is expected to show a better record the second half of the month.

Terracing Work In Hockley County Is Drawing Intense Interest Of Farmers

(By Staff Correspondent)

LEVELLAND, Jan. 29.—More than 2,000 acres of land in Hockley county were terraced and 9,000 acres of land contoured during 1931, according to W. T. Magee, county agent. Besides this area, at least 4,000 more acres were contoured by men who owned levels and who worked independent of the county agent's office.

"I consider terracing and contouring the most important work a farmer can do," said Mr. Magee. "It adds to the productivity of a man's land. A good many farmers have told me that after they have contoured the hills on their farms they have had as much production from this land as from the land in the lakes and valleys."

Mr. Magee the last year has asked each farmer who sought to have his land contoured or terraced, to get at least four of his neighbors to come in with him and see the work done. As a result, from two to five and six men have received instruction in operating a level.

Joe Mears, a cotton farmer near Levelland, is cited as an example of what terracing will do. He has three 40 acre tracts of cotton. Last year a 40 acre hill top, contoured, he received 32 bales of cotton, while from two other 40 acre tracts, on the flats and not contoured, the average was 24 bushels per tract.

Sheriff's Fees Being Demanded

DALLAS, Jan. 29. (AP)—Auditors reported today that Sheriff Allen Seale, who died in office May 16, 1928, retained fees amounting to $15,782.49 which should have been turned back to Dallas county.

The report, which covered the first year of Seale's administration beginning Jan. 1, 1927, ascribed $3,000 of the total amount to a clerical error which was not discovered until the present audit of Dallas county records.

The balance represented fees that were held unallowable by legal advisors of the auditors.

Immediately after the report was filed, District Attorney William McCraw began preparing a civil suit seeking recovery from heirs of the Seale estate of the fees allegedly due the county.

The report was compiled at the order of the Dallas county commissioners' court which last Monday, after receiving the 1930 report on the finances of Sheriff Hal Hood, instructed District Attorney McCraw to take whatever steps were necessary to recover fees due the county.
