Two African Goals

WASHINGTON, (AP)-The Carter administration has decided to work with the Marxist government of Angola "in more normal ways," Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said today.

In a speech prepared for a Jaycees convention in Atlantic City, N.J., Vance said the administration has two goals: Reconcile the dispute between Angola and western-leaning Zaire; and achieve a peaceful settlement in South West Africa, or Namibia, which is under South Africa's control.

Nazis Case Aired

CHICAGO (AP) - Under pressure of a Sunday deadline, a federal court began hearing arguments today that may determine whether American Nazis march in Skokie, a Chicago suburb that is home to thousands of Jewish survivors of Hitler's death camps.

Frank Collin, leader of the National Socialist Party of America, arrived in court about 10 minutes after the proceedings began. He has said repeatedly that he will call off the Skokie demonstration if his tiny group is allowed to demonstrate July 9 in Marquett Park about a mile from Nazi headquarters on Chicago's southwest side.

Egypt Envoy Fired

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Egypt's ambassador to Portugal has been fired and ordered home after publicly accusing President Anwar Sadat of destroying democracy in Egypt, letting the armed forces run down and pursuing a peace policy that has made Israel "more intransigent than ever."

Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said Foreign Minister Mohamed Ibrahim Kamel fired Ambassador Saad el Shazli and ordered him home "immediately" because he "gravely violated his duties."

Robbs Have Girl

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - It's another girl - the third - for Virginia Lt. Gov. Charles S. Robb and his wife, the former Lynda Bird Johnson.

The newest addition to the Robb family arrived at Fairfax County Hospital today at 12:12 a.m.

Unnamed as yet, she tipped the scales at 8 pounds, 2 ounces.

The SDN Column

It seems that the consumer is destined to get more "protection" these days than he needs, or really wants, and the more he is protected, the more he has to pay.

Take the case of Listerine, for example. We know that many of today's middle aged citizens grew up with a bottle of that liquid in the medicine cabinet alongside the aspirin, Mentholatum and Vicks.

The fact that it was known as a "germ killer" earned it a place in many households, but most folks we knew weren't taking any chances by putting all their faith in one type of home medication during the common cold season. Listerine was good to gargle and was thought to offer some protection against "cold germs."

Now, we are told that scientists and medical experts have concluded that Listerine does not really have any cold curing qualities and that the makers of Listerine must undo all of its advertising over a period of several decades which might have led people to believe that it was a proven cure, or deterrent, of the common cold.

The consumer who fell for the advertising—which was used in the days when nobody could dispute any such claims, remember—is cast in a role something like a computerized robot. The Listerine people, Uncle Sam says, must carry out a major advertising campaign to de-program those persons who may have it so inbedded in their minds that listerine cures colds that they cannot kick it without a $10 million-plus campaign.

Meanwhile, Listerine, a product that does have some value as a mouthwash and antiseptic, very likely will be priced higher to pay for the de-programming campaign decreed by the feds. A simple statement like, "Heck, boys and girls, Listerine doesn't really cure colds like we thought it did; It's just a good, practical mouthwash," won't do when millions can be injected into the picture.

Seismologists Checking Effects Of Local Quake

By JOHN LONG

If you're searching for earthquakes, Snyder is the place to be these days.

The search for earthquakes, aftershocks, and damage has brought a group of Colorado seismologists to Snyder. Although they missed the quake Friday, and they have found no damage, they said they have recorded aftershocks.

Here from the National Earthquake Information Service in Golden, Colo., are Sam Harding, Richard Dart, Dave Carver, and Ron Henrisey.

The group arrived Friday night. They have set up six seismographs, instruments for detecting earth movements, in and around Scurry County, and have set up a seventh one in their TraveLodge Motel room.

"There was no predicting the first one," Harding said of the Friday earthquake. It was, he noted, something of an anomaly because of the solid foundation on which Snyder and Scurry County rest.

Predicting the aftershocks is trickier, Harding said, but he believes they will come.

One, he said, has already come. Although it went unfelt by most if not all Snyderites, their instruments indicate it struck about 8 p.m. Saturday in the north part of the county.

That tremor, Harding said, may have measured a 2½ to 3 on the Richter scale, a device used to measure the magnitude of earth movement. Such a low reading in such a sparsely populated area would account for the tremor going unnoticed, he said.

Other tremors may follow, he said, but they will have lower readings than the Friday quake. The Friday quake, he said, registered about 4.7 to 5.

"That's why we got here as soon as we could, because the aftershock sequence dies out with time," Harding explained.

Their instruments, however can pick up an earth tremor of any appreciable size. They also register vibrations caused by cars. The vibes caused by fighting bulls, though, are the worst.

One of their seismographs, Harding wryly observed, was slightly damaged when it became the prize in a fight between two bulls. Picking up a seismographic chart, he pointed to the divergent lines and explained what had happened.

For Harding, coming to Snyder was something of a homecoming. The Buffalo, N.Y., native said he lived in Post in 1957, while he was working for an oil company.

When asked for his speculation on the cause of the Friday earthquake, Harding replied, "I don't know. It was just the stress of the earth."

That stress had apparently been building up for some time. Harding said he had been informed that a mild tremor had been picked up in this general area on seismographic instruments in 1977. It went unnoticed because it was so small.

Harding and his group are also searching for structural damage in buildings. So far they have found none. Such damage, he said, usually does not appear until a 5.5 to 6 Richter scale reading.

Although more aftershocks from the Friday quake may still be in the offing, Harding said it is nothing to be alarmed about.

Harding commented that he wouldn't be disappointed even if he didn't find any.

Flu Claims Clear Hurdle

WASHINGTON (AP)-The government said today that anyone who contracted a rare paralyzing disease after getting swine flu shots in 1976 will not have to prove negligence to collect federal compensation.

The action clears a major stumbling block in nearly one-third of the 1,483 claims that have been brought against the government for $775 million by persons or their survivors who claim they suffered injuries during the mass inoculation campaign.

Some 439 of these cases seeking $365 million in damages involve Guillain-Barre, a paralyzing disease that can be fatal. Some 535 of the estimated 45 million Americans who got swine flu shots contracted the disease, and 23 died, according to the U.S. Center for Disease Control.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., who announced the action on negligence, said, "we cannot estimate precisely how much the federal government will ultimately pay out in compensation. We expect, however, that the amounts awarded will be only a fraction of the amounts claimed."

Ask Us

Q—It is against the law for drivers of cars to honk their horns just for the fun of it?

A—There are state and municipal laws limiting use of motor vehicle horns to situations where they are needed to try to avoid a collision. Enforcement, at best, is very difficult unless the horns create a nuisance that disturbs a number of people and they are able to establish identity of the violator, sign a complaint and be willing to testify.

U.S. Economy Holds Its Own

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-The nation's economy showed virtually no growth in the first three months this year but did not decline as economists thought it would, the Commerce Department said today.

It usually takes a growth in the Gross National Product of about 4 percent per year to keep the economy growing rapidly enough to create jobs and keep business active, economists say.

After adjustment for inflation, the nation's output of goods and services grew by less than one-tenth of one percent in the first quarter, the department said.

The department had estimated in April that first quarter growth declined 0.6 percent at an annual rate and in May it revised the decline to 0.4 percent. An annual rate means the growth for a period within a year is extrapolated to determine what the increase for the entire year would be if the growth continued at the same rate for 12 months.

Most forecasters say the economy is growing at an annual rate of about 8 percent to 10 percent in the second quarter, enough to make up for the sluggish winter.

Economic indicators show the economy should grow more slowly than that in the second half of the year, closer to the 4 percent to 4.5 percent predictions by the Carter administration.

However, Barry Bosworth, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, and others say the economy could go into a recession if inflation is not brought under control.

The report indicated prices rose at an annual rate of 7.1 percent in the first quarter.

Weevil Crop Is Delayed This Season

The County's Pest Management Program is showing results, according mid-month reports compiled from checks on area cropland.

It was noted that the next cycle of boll weevils is expected to emerge about two weeks later than last year, due to rains and winds in May. Traps were distributed in fields in May and these show weevil counts of 16 per acre in Scurry County and 29 per acre in Mitchell County, which indicates the diapause program in Scurry County last fall was beneficial.

Monitoring of traps will continue and as the next generation of boll weevils appears, hot spots will be identified and treatment procedures will be recommended.

Mondale Reveals 'Urbank' Plan

ATLANTA (AP)-Vice President Walter F. Mondale announced a $2 billion National Development Bank program today to encourage business investment in nearly 12,000 American communities large and small.

The "Urbank," the keystone to President Carter's national urban policy, is the last major piece of legislation in the package. Mondale said it was being submitted to Congress today.

"The development bank is crucial to our joint efforts to bring jobs and private investment to cities, counties and communities," Mondale told the annual convention of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

Mondale said 1,800 large communities throughout the country will be eligible for assistance automatically under the program and 10,000 smaller communities will be eligible "if they meet the test of need, and work together to create an economic and employment base large enough to support the bank's projects."

The vice president said the administration hopes the program will bring at least $16 billion in private investment to decaying communities at a cost of less than $2 billion in federal outlays.

Budget Up Slightly

Reed, Genuchi To Head United Way Campaign

Directors of the Scurry County United Way Tuesday appointed two campaign co-chairmen and set the 1978 goal at $51,340.

Mike Reed, vice president of Southern Electric, and Larry Genuchi, sales representative for KSNY Radio, were elected to chair the 1978 fund-raising campaign.

The United Way board also approved the budget recommendations of a committee headed by Dr. Ed Barkowsky. The United Way will include the same 14 agencies as last year and the $51,340 goal represents a 5.8 percent increase over last year's budget. The figure, however, is below the more than $52,000 actually collected during the 1977 drive.

Agencies of the United Way include the Salvation Army, Snyder Child Day Care Center, Scurry County Commission on Alcohol & Drug Abuse, West Texas Rehabilitation Center, Girl Scouts, USO, Red Cross, Southwest Diabetic Foundation, Boys Club, Boy Scouts, Mental Health Association, Texas Rehab Foundation in Gonzalez, Cerebral Palsy, and Texas Community Services.

United Way directors also approved division goals for the six-week campaign which will begin Oct. 2.

suicidal course

Now that "all the president's men" and ex-President Nixon have milked about all there is to get out of their various publications, perhaps interest might turn to more important matters. Regardless of who was worse or who was better than the rest, there are larger problems where Americans are being hurt quite within legal processes.

Compared to the every-day ramifications of bureaucracy-growth gone wild, the Watergate costs to citizenry pales to insignificance. All the books now published about it will have little lasting benefit to any of us.

There is a book, just now released, which if read by a majority of Americans might overcome inertia and get our economic problems off dead center. It could bring about a correct view of the basic causes of economic malfunction.

Written by William Simon, former secretary of the Treasury, the book is titled Time for Truth. Simon names the "monstrous growth of government" which is devouring the nation's wealth (and capacity to produce it) and destroying its unique economic liberty as the real problem.

Nobel Prize-winning economist Milton Friedman says that Simon's book, "is a profound analysis of the suicidal course on which our country is proceeding. It is so clearly and so simply written, with such a broad base of recorded fact and personal experience, that it is hard to see how any reasonable man who wishes his fellow citizens well can fail to be persuaded by it."

Simon hopes to re-awaken Americans to something that was a basic understanding of the founding fathers: the idea that personal freedom is absolutely intertwined with economic freedom, and that human rights cannot long survive without property rights.

"America has slipped her moorings; she has abused, indeed repudiated, her free enterprise heritage and moved ever-closer to the alleged security of a controlled economy," Simon says.

"Government borrowing now absorbs more than 80 percent of the money in private markets, money that could otherwise be invested privately to produce jobs, build houses, buy goods and services.

"Interest on the federal debt costs taxpayers more than $936 million a week" the ex-Treasury secretary says.

It is almost beyond belief that the freedom-loving people of this nation would allow politicians to bring the national debt to a point where it is costing almost a billion dollars a week in interest alone.

And, the terrible truth is that, rather than doing anything to reduce the burden, the president and nearly all of the members of Congress are daily adding to the load on taxpayers' backs.

We hope that Simon's book outsells all the preoccupation with the Watergate. It is not illegalities that are killing us. It is the "nice" guys being strictly legal as they rip this nation's economic base; they're doing us in.

up hill all the way

Political pundits are busy predicting outcome of off-year general elections. For the first time in recent years they have some basis for predicting Republican gains. There are so few Republicans in Congress and serving as chief executives in statehouses around the country, there is really only one direction to go for the party that had things pretty much its own way three-quarters of a century following the War Between the States. That direction is up.

This year Governors will be chosen in 36 states. These places are now held by 26 Democrats, nine Republicans and one Independent. This is the largest number of state executives to be elected in a single year in a long time. Explanation for this situation is that several states, Texas among the number, changed terms from two to four years.

Party lineup in Congress is similarly slanted in favor of Democrats. Party affiliation in the House of Representatives is 293 to 143 in favor of Democrats. Of 100 Senators 61 are Democrats, 38 are Republicans and one is listed as Independent.

It is more or less routine for the party which controls both Congress and the Presidency to lose ground in elections midway between Presidential campaigns. This year, low rating of President Carter in public opinion polls is regarded as a plus factor for Republicans.

At present students of voting trends give Republicans better than an even chance to gain four governorships held by Democrats and some chance of winning in six other races. Even if Republicans should make a clean sweep of these races and retain all of the nine seats now occupied by Republicans they would still have only about one-third of state governorships.

Particular interest will attach to these gubernatorial contests this year, due to the fact that a former Governor won the Presidency in 1976. Prior to that for many years it was almost 100 percent Senatorial.

Since Franklin D. Roosevelt our Presidents, except Eisenhower and Ford, reached the top by way of the United States Senate. Prior to the Governors had claim on the Presidency.

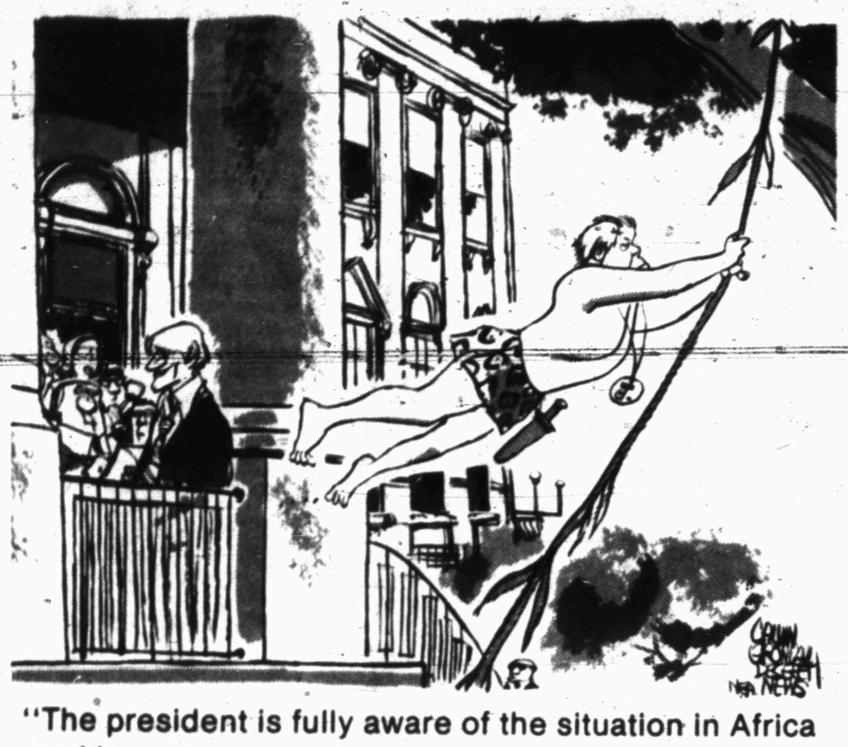

No matter how the situation appears on paper, however, Republicans have a steep hill to climb in order to improve their starting position in the 1980 Presidential contest.

servants again

Some of California's "civil servants" can't get used to the idea of being "servants" again.

They are so accustomed to throwing their weight around, demonstrating their arrogant authority, that they'd forgotten: in this country they are not the government, we are!

What I'm about to say must be prefaced with some word of appreciation for the selfless employees of federal, state and local government who have worked hard, earned their salaries, performed their jobs well.

But they--the hard-working ones--must be more embarrassed than most of us when they see California's public service employees' unions pleading with that state's Supreme Court to outlaw Proposition 13 as "unconstitutional."

Soon, therefore, we can expect a court verdict on whether this really is a government "of, by and for the people."

Or whether it has become something less which some entrenched bureaucrats think they would prefer.

Only part of the public outrage is directed toward the size of recent property tax increases. Perhaps the larger part is directed toward the dictatorial tin gods often encountered by taxpayers when visiting City Hall or the County Building.

Farmers have seen "public servants" who don't know beans about farming intrude on their barns, barnlots and bookkeeping with arbitrary edicts: "Do it this way or else!"

Taxpayers are fed up with picketing schoolteachers demanding higher and higher wages while delivering less and less education.

And the inexcusable waste and danger of cross-town school busing.

And with road repair crews growling at motorists as they tie up two lanes of traffic for half a day to put a shovelful of asphalt in a pothole.

That as their employers, we the taxpayers have earned more resentment than respect.

Taxpayers have seen featherbedding civil service employees daring anybody to fire them; government worker wages and pensions increasing higher and faster than anybody's; bureaucrats in HEW also collecting welfare checks on the side.

Government inspectors on the take.

Food stamp recipients purchasing fancy foods that the rest of us can't afford.

This nationwide regurgitation which was triggered June 6 in California is more than just resistance to high taxes--it includes resentment of the indignities and intimidation that taxpayers have had to take from public officials and employees who have tended to turn our representative republic into a bureaucratic dictatorship.

And the very idea that California's government workers and schoolteachers are not court-fighting for their right to continue riding the gravy train is the most certain evidence that mass firings are long overdue.

my turn

by wanda rushing

Have you ever run out of gas?

Most people have at one time or another. It makes a person furious to say the least and of course what makes it worse is that you have no one but yourself to blame. Any one knows that a car will not run without gas.

I recently ran out of gas on College Avenue and managed to get the car pulled over to the curb before it gasped the last time. It was a good thing too, because I had to sit there for about 20 or 30 minutes before Avon could get there with some gas. (Husbands sure do come in handy during an emergency.) During that time I dare say a thousand cars (more or less) passed me without even slowing up. I sat in the car a while then decided it might be safer if I got out as the cars were narrowly missing my parked car as they whizzed by.

One good Samaritan did finally stop, but since I had already called Avon I just thanked him and he went on his way. But it was comforting to know at least my preacher stopped and offered aid to a damsel in distress.

But luckily, aggravation and maybe humilitation was the most I suffered. Others might not be so lucky.

Recently I heard of a mother rushing her child to the hospital where a matter of minutes could possible mean the difference between the life and death of her child. She also was out or almost out of gas, and had to stop at a station where she was befriended, and the child got to the hospital without any delay, but maybe the next time it wouldn't work out that way.

So I've decided to start a new club. It will be known as "The Half-Tank Club." There will be no membership fees and there won't be any club meetings. Interested in joining? All you have to do is keep your gas tank full or over the half full mark. That's simple isn't it. When your car gets to the half-way mark simply go in and have it filled up. Use your half full marker like you do the empty marker now.

That way if an emergency should arise at an early or late hour, club members will be ready to head out quickly without having to stop and fill up their gas tanks or wonder if they are going to have enough gas to get to a station. And who knows when an emergency will arise in any household, whether there are young or old people residing there.

A "half-tank" could be the difference between life and death. And at least it could save you a lot of aggravation and time.

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) - President Carter's first attempt to mobilize a broad-based citizen's coalition to promote a major administration program is on the verge of ending in failure.

The issue around which Carter sought to muster grassroots support was his well-intentioned but ill-executed tax reform program.

While the White House was responsible for the poor timing, lack of coordination and inept staff work that contributed to the emasculation of the president's program, the blame must be shared by two other groups:

The coalition of business, labor, civic and public interest organizations that initially rallied under the banner of "Citizens for Tax Reform in 1978" but never delivered the expected - and required - support of their members.

The millions of middle-income taxpayers whose notoriously lethargic attitude toward public affairs resulted in little backing for a White Hosue proposal that would have shifted at least some of the federal tax burden from them to wealthier individuals and corporations.

Carter sounded the call for citizen participation in mid-April, when he noted that "the voices we hear in Washington when tax reform is proposed are the voices of those special interest groups."

Added the president: "They are powerful, rich and influential. They are present here through lobbyists, spokesmen, lawyers and accountants, trying to protect the selfish special privilege that has been carved out for them in the past."

The administration's effort to activate a counterforce began with an April 6 White House breakfast for more than 50 potential allies. "It was a top-drawer group, and the State Room was jammed," recalls one participant.

After brief speeches from Carter, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and senior members of the White house staff, those invited by the president were asked if they would be willing to commit themselves and their organizations to the grassroots organizing campaign.

Those who expressed an interest were invited back to the White House on April 17, when Carter invoked his florid rhetoric in an appeal for backing from "average Americans (who) foot the bill for the rich."

Formation of Citizens for Tax Reform in 1978 was announced the same day. The unusually broad coalition included officials of trade associations, officers of major corporations, leaders of labor unions and representatives of senior citizens, black, hispanic, consumer and tax reform groups.

In an unprecedented move, the citizens' committee sought to publicize the votes of representatives on amendments proposed in the House Ways and Means Committee - the seldom-noticed process that shapes all tax legislation.

Formation of the citizens' group and plans to generate constituent pressure on members of Congress for true tax reform were bold, innovative steps - but that effort proved to be too little, too late.

The national organizations that promised to carry the tax reform message to their membership generally failed to fulfill that commitment. "People just don't take to the streets to protect the DISC system," says one committee leader, referring to a special interest tax provision Carter sought to eliminate.

The bill now likely to emerge from the Ways and Means Committee will contain little of what Carter proposed and a major reduction that he opposes in the capital gains tax. As a result, the president may veto the legislation.

"The administration's bungling of this operation went well beyond the White House's normal lack of political agility," concludes one participant in the ill-fated effort. "It's unfortunately another case of Carter giving good government a bad name."

downturn forecast

NEW YORK (AP) - In its fourth year, old age for an expansion, the economy is getting puffy with high prices and interest rates that, say those who claim to know, means the onset of tougher times.

And that means its time again to wonder what will happen to housing, which in past years always has been hit the first, the hardest and the longest by inflation and the downturns that follow.

Will it happen again? Maybe not. But a little background first.

The economic debate now is not whether a downturn will occur but when, and whether it will be a "rolling adjustment," as the economists call a spell of uneasiness, or something more like a fall on the face.

Samplings so far show an inclination toward the former, although some have dared use "recession," but like a doctor uncertain of his prognosis, prefacing their verdict with "brief" and "mild."

When? Nothing precise yet; maybe 1979, or perhaps not until 1981. The former seems to be nearer the consensus, but one very large bank maintains the odds favor a decline no earlier than 1980.

As usual, the housing markets need not wait. An economy that refuses to acknowledge its weakness always produces a temperature change, measured by the thermometer of interest rates. They are headed up now.

Home mortgage rates have risen in every month this year, and those for conventional loans - not backed by government - reached 9.37 percent in May, matching the highest ever recorded by the Federal Home Loan Bank.

Since mortgage expense often is the biggest factor in homebuying, sometimes doubling the basic cost, it is no surprise that housing starts fell 4.9 percent in May, though remaining at a relatively high level.

But this first symptom could be portentious. In the multifamily market, for example, Advance Mortgage Corp., a Citibank affiliate, forecasts a sharp decline in unsubsidized activity late this year.

Housing's sensitivity is not just with rates themselves, but with the drain on funds such rates produce, because money that in other times would be available for mortgages seeks higher rates elsewhere.

That process has not yet produced an outflow from the traditional mortgage lenders, the savings banks and savings and loan associations, but already it has restricted the funds available for housing.

The nation's mutual savings banks have just learned, for example, that they took in only $100 million over withdrawals last month, the worst May since an outflow of $182 million in May 1974.

The reason is obvious: savings institutions are by law limited in the interest rates they can offer depositors. Simply by transferring funds elsewhere, their depositors might be able to earn more.

However, the pattern of past years may be muted because, effective June 1, government regulations were eased, permitting thrift institutions to offer more competitive 8-year, 8 percent accounts.

Morgan Guaranty also suggests the possibility that housing may fare better than in other economic cycles because, it says potential buyers have a heightened recognition of homeownership as an inflation hedge.

And, says the National Association of Realtors, "Neither the shrinkage of mortgage credit nor the corresponding boost in interest rates has shown any sign of dampening the existing home market."

Again, the question: Will housing be dumped off its foundation again this year or next, as it has been during other inflation-downturn economic cycles?

It could be, yes, but this time there is a fighting chance it can maintain balance in relation to other sectors of the economy. The public seems eager, and the thrifts seem better able to hold onto cash.

But there is no question at all about costs:

-You will pay more for houses for months to come, and most likely for years and perhaps forever if serious recessions do not result in price deflation.

-You will pay higher and higher rates for mortgage loans - and may not get them at all where usury rates forbid higher rates - until inflation is brought under more control.

South led dummy's three of spades at trick two. It was up to East to figure out his problem. It wasn't too tough for Spanish expert Rafael Munoz. South was trying to score a spade trick to add to three hearts and five diamonds. So Munoz went right up with his ace of spades.

It was now up to him to go after the club suit and he selected the right club. He planked the king!

West signalled by dropping his eight. It was a come-on signal, but it also was an essential play. Munoz continued with the five. West took the ace and led back the deuce, whereupon East was able to cash his jack and seven of clubs.

This hand was reported by Victor Mollo in his book "How Good Is Your Defense?" We take the ace of spades play as authentic, but wonder if someone didn't do something with the club suit to set up a standard but very difficult book position. East must lead the king. West must drop the eight.

A Washington, D.C. reader asks if we ever open one notrump with a worthless doubleton.

The answer is that we don't recommend it unless the doubleton includes the jack or a higher card, but we do violate our recommendation on occasion and bid that worthless doubleton notrump.

Vegetarian Ranks Grow

NEW YORK (AP)-Both young people and the elderly have been swelling the number of vegetarians from 3 million to 10 million in the last five years, but for different reasons, says the author of a vegetarian cookbook.

"Peer pressure as well as moral considerations are turning young people to vegetariansim," says William Manners, author with his sister-in-law, Ruth Ann Manners, of "The Quick and Easy Vegetarian Cookbook." "Environmental concerns, increased interest in Eastern religions and natural living are also factors.

"The principal reasons for older people going vegetarian are health and economics," he adds. "Protein that costs $2.50 as beef, or $1.25 as fish, costs only 50 cents in vegetable form."

Platform Mattresses

COLLEGE STATION--Specially designed mattress or platforms will give the quality performance consumers desire for the pedistal-type look.

A regular mattress put on a platform will have about half the life of one used with box springs because they get much more ware and tare, explains a housing and home furnishings specialist.

To get the full life from a mattress and still have the platform look, include the use of a box spring foundation, she suggests.

Glenda Moore is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Mattress manufacturers are meeting consumer needs for the sleek platform by designing special mattresses.

For example, one company conceals a box spring-type foundation in the platform frame.

Another is making a mattress with an extra turn in its coils--it's one inch higher than a conventional mattress, the specialist continues.

So, to create the popular platform or pedistal look, either buy a specially designed mattress or use a box spring foundation, she adds.

Regular maintenance around your house can stop energy leaks.

A dripping hot water faucet can waste 200 gallons a month–plus the energy it took to heat it. But not if you do something about it.

Texas Electric's free booklet on maintenance is one of a series we're offering to energy-conscious homeowners who want to make their homes energy efficient. It tells you just what to look for to keep your house in top shape through hot weather, cold weather, year-round. Even unhandy people can follow the checklists to keep their homes comfortable and minimize energy bills.

US Unprepared For Sneak Nuclear Attack

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-A sneak enemy nuclear attack on the areas U.S. defense planners consider the most likely targets could kill eight of 10 residents, according to a recent federal report.

"We have no civil defense program, merely the apparatus to start one," said Bardyl Tirana, head of the Pentagon's Defense Civil Preparedness Agency. He supervised President Carter's inauguration before moving to his latest job.

Dr. William K. Chipmen, deputy assistant director of the agency, put it this way:

"Assuming people take shelter roughly where they are and assuming people got, say, 15 minutes of warning...something like 110 million people would survive, give or take a million."

And the nation's vulnerability is not likely to diminish quickly.

America's civil defense program would need about a year of advance warning to provide actual shelter against the initial nuclear blast for half the nation's 230 million people, Chinman said.

A senate governmental affairs committee is set to open hearings today on a plan that President Carter unveiled Monday to reorganize into a single office federal agencies which deal with natural and man-made disasters.

While "there is a strong interest in civil defense... there has been no decision to increase the emphasis on civil defense," Tirana said of the plan.

Among responsibilities of the new office would be the job of providing federal aid after a terrorist attack, which is not now assigned to any one agency.

The task force that devised the reorganization plan said in its report that "national security capabilities of civilian government at all levels have eroded considerably in the past decade."

Should an international crisis develop now, the Russians would be able to toss "the big chip" onto the table of the highstakes poker game between two nations brandishing the world's most fearful nuclear stockpiles. The "big chip"- in the vocabulary of preparedness agency officials - is the Soviets' ability to quickly evacuate their cities.

The United States, with no up-to-date evacuation plan, has no such chip.

That gives the Soviets two options, according to Dr. Leon Goure, a University of Miami expert on Soviet civil defense.

They can shelter their population in place and give little or no warning to the enemy. Or, he says, they can evacuate their cities, which "could give Moscow major leverage in a crisis situation, especially if the U.S. were unable to disperse, or effectively shelter, its own urban population."

Remembering the Berlin crisis of 1961 and the Cuban missile crises one year later, Americans can appreciate the Soviet desire for "major leverage."

During a March speech to the Institute of American Relations, Paul Nitze, the chief U.S. negotiator for SALT I, recalled the factors surrounding Berlin and Cuba. He concluded that the Soviets gave in to American demands because "there was nothing they Soviets could do about it."

"We also had sufficient strategic nuclear superiority so there was no chance that they would go on alert and threaten us in the situation," he said.

A 1973 Dodge driven by Walter Littlefield of 2900 Ave. E was in collision with a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Eula Williams of 703 27th Street. ## Oil Allowable Hearings Changed

AUSTIN (AP)-The Texas Railroad Commission today routinely set the statewide oil allowable for July at 100 percent and decided to switch next year from monthly to quarterly allowable hearings.

A commission staff member said the oil and gas regulatory agency has held monthly allowable hearings since proration was started in the early 1930s.

Under law, the commission can hold as many oil allowable hearings a year as it desires. A hearing examiner can hold the required monthly hearing.

Major purchasers of Texas crude oil asked the commission for 3,521,607 barrels a day in July., a decrease of 23,780 barrels daily from June nominations.

Chairman Mack Wallace noted in announcing the allowable that crude and petroleum product imports into the United States totaled 7,743,000 barrels a day for the four-week average of June 2. He said this represents approximately 42 percent of the nation's demand.

As usual, the commission restricted the East Texas field to an 86 percent allowable to avoid possible waste.

The quarterly hearings next year will be held in January, April, July and October. All the hearings will be in Austin with the annual state-of-the-industry hearing scheduled for April.

Here are the nominations by major purchasers of Texas crude oil, in barrels per day, with any changes from June in parentheses:

Amoca, 316,000 (down 1,500); Atlantic Richfield, 17,000; Chevron, 66,435; Cities Services, 100,000; Continental 56,000 (up 400); Diamond Shamrock, 36,000; Exxon, 649,000 (down 3,000); Gulf, 138,000 (down 2,000); Marathon, 49,070; Mobile 345,000 Phillips, 115,000; Shell, 241,000; Sun, 125,000 (down 6,000); Texaco, 125,000 (down 2,000); Union of California, 95,000.

Guayule Rubber To Boost Area

WASHINGTON (AP)-Development of a commercial rubber industry using a desert shrub which grows wild in the southwest and in Mexico could have a major economic impact on the region's agriculture as well as on the U.S. rubber industry, according to a Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. official.

J.J. Riedl, general manager of Goodyear's plantation operations, told Congress Monday that it should support legislation which would aid in the commercial development of guayule rubber.

The ancient Aztecs extracted crude rubber from guayule long before the appearance of Europeans in America.

Riedl said that tests by Goodyear so far indicate that guayule rubber "shows no significant structural differences" from so-called "Hevea rubber" derived from plantation trees.

"Goodyear has produced experimental passenger tires with guayule replacing Hevea rubber in all components where natural rubber was required," he told the House's Agriculture and Science and Technology committees.

"There is little doubt that if guayule was available today at a competitive price that it would find its place in the rubber market," Riedl said. "At this time, however, the economics of guayule are not as clear as the technical qualities."

Riedl said that with a domestic source of guayule, "we would not have to stockpile as much Hevea rubber" and that "a domestic industry would also stimulate the economy in the southwest, particularly among Indian tribes."

A guayule program was proposed in the 1930s by then Maj. Dwight D. Eisenhower. However, the project was shelved when cheap synthetic rubber from petroleum was developed, he said.

Statistics show married people live several years longer than individuals without mates, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

Gas Rate Hike Is Suspended

AUSTIN (AP)-The railroad commission Monday directed that a gas rate increase sought by Lone Star Gas Co. for customers near Palestine be suspended for another 30 days.

A 120-day suspension pending acceptance by Palestine of Lone Star's proposed rate increase had expired.

Commission policy is to delay increases in outlying areas until the city has acted on rate proposals within the city limits.

Palestine approved the rate increase Feb. 23.

The reason for the further delay is that a customer in the environs of Palestine had complained, and a public hearing had to be held March 29, which set back the timetable for the new rates outside the city.

In other action Monday, the commission suspended a proposed rate increase by Lone Star for the unincorporated areas of Lewisville, Denton County, because Lewisville has not accepted the increase.

Public View Sought On Conservation Program

Public views on the future of the conservation, protection and enhancement of Texas' soil, water, and related natural resources will be sought at a meeting to be held in the council room at Snyder City Hall, 1925 24th Street, at 1:30 p.m. Monday June 26, W.L. Wilson, Jr., chairman of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District, said.

The meeting is in response to President Carter's signing of the Resources Conservation Act last November which requires an appraisal and evaluation of the state and nations' soil and water conservation program.

"The RCA act authorizes and directs the Secretary of Agriculture to develop a national soil and water conservation program in cooperation with the public, our local soil and water conservation Service," said Wilson.

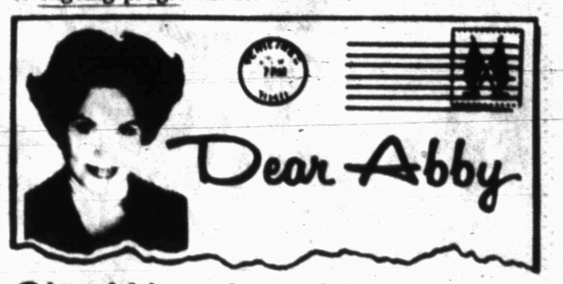

"This program will establish new direction for future soil and water conservation efforts in Texas based on current soil, water, and related resource appraisals," Wilson continued. "One point I want to make clear is that districts in their 40-year history have always assisted landowners with voluntary conservation programs on their farms and ranches. We do not advocate any other approach since farm and ranch land is privately owned and that the interests and welfare of the owners must be served and that programs must be acceptable to them," Wilson added.

Actions required by the RCA act include gathering data to appraise the condition and quality of Texas and the nations' soil and water resources by 1979.

The act also outlines a 5-year plan for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's conservation assistance to districts and requires an evaluation of the effectiveness and progress of ongoing programs. Reports will be made to the public and Congress.

"Our first meeting will primarily deal with discussions on soil and water resources in the district and how to conserve them," Wilson said. "The public will also have the opportunity to learn more about the RCA act and the mission, relationship, and responsibilities of the district and Soil Conservation Service.

"I want to emphasise that a grass roots, bottom-up approach is the key to this act. Our district and Soil Conservation Service will need to identify specific resource concerns and associated problems, if any, in addition to determining the extent and severity of these problems. We urge anyone with an interest in natural resource conservation to attend and air their views," Wilson concluded.

She Wonders How Boyfriend Got It

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: Can a person get poison oak through his clothes? My boyfriend got the most terrible case you ever saw. (I don't even want to mention where he got it the worst.)

Answer right away, Abby, because if he couldn't have gotten it through his pants, it is all over between him and me. Thank you.

MISSY

DEAR MISSY: My medical experts tell me it's not easy to get poison oak through one's clothing, but it's possible. Don't scratch him off your list.

DEAR ABBY: I am married and have two small children. I also have a loving and devoted husband. What more could a wife want, right?

Well, for the last year I have had a secret desire for another man. I never dreamed that such thoughts would ever enter my head, and my husband would die if he knew it.

The other man doesn't know how I feel about him. I see him often (he's a butcher at the supermarket where I trade), and the thrill I get out of just looking at him makes me ashamed. I know he's married and has a family, so nothing could ever come of this, but I can't help how I feel.

The Good Book says that to lust after someone is the same as committing adultery. I feel so ashamed and guilty. What's wrong with me?

LUSTING IN MY HEART

DEAR LUSTING: There is nothing "wrong" with you that isn't wrong with the rest of humanity. You are indulging in fantasy, which is normal—and harmless. The guilt feelings over your daydreams are doing you more harm than the daydreams. Don't dwell on them.

Now, go scrub the kitchen floor and take a cold shower—you'll feel better.

DEAR ABBY: I have preschool children and a large home to care for, but I schedule my time so that everything gets done. When the children nap, I read, write letters, watch TV or just relax.

However, lately nearly every afternoon a certain neighbor barges in on me. She helps herself to refreshments, then settles down for an endless outpouring of gossip, unasked-for advice and a monologue of opinions on various subjects. She is tiresome, boring and a vicious gossip.

I would pretend not to be home, but she can see my car in the carport. At first I found her entertaining, but she comes so often, I've taken a dislike to her. What should I do? No names or location, please. She has a sharp tongue and would make a better friend than an enemy.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: People who open their doors to bores and tolerate their company day after day have only themselves to blame. By your failure to discourage her, you encourage her.

If I had to make a choice between having a vicious, gossipy, gutsy pest for a friend or an enemy, I'd opt for the latter.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MEL TORME: I seldom read novels, but I picked up "WYNNER"—written by you—and I couldn't put it down until I finished it. What a fascinating experience; I was truly sorry when it ended. You are a gifted writer as well as a talented musician, and your "Wynner" deserves to be a winner.

Texas Falls To 2½ Games Out ...

Oakland's Renko Exits Rangers

ARLINGTON (AP) - Oakland's Steve Renko had a two-hitter going against the Texas Rangers and would have preferred to pitch a while longer when manager Jack McKeon gave the signal in the eighth inning.

"You want to go nine innings, but Jack made the right move. Lacey came on, and then Sosa did a heck of a job in the ninth," said Renko, who evened his record at 2-2 with the A's 2-1 victory Monday night.

Catcher Jeff Newman delivered the game-winning blow, an eighth-inning home run into the left field bleachers, and Oakland ended its losing string at 11 games. Texas got just the two hits from Renko and one hit the last two innings off Bob Lacey and Elias Sosa.

Renko had retired seven batters in a row going into the eighth, but manager Jack McKeon called for Lacey when second baseman Mike Edwards bobbled a ground ball and let a runner on first. Mike Hargrove bunted to Lacey for a double play, and Bert Campaneris grounded out to end the inning.

With one out in the ninth, Richie Zisk walked for Texas and McKeon made another change, bringing Sosa in to face Bobby Bonds. Bonds singled, and both runners advanced on a ground out. Sosa walked Jim Sundberg to load the bases and then got Toby Harrah On a grounder to end the game.

It was Sosa's 10th save of the year.

Royals 6, Indians 5

Clint Hurdle drove in one run and scored two more to pace Kansas City over Cleveland. Hurdle helped the Royals overcome a 2-0 deficit with a runscoring double in the third inning and came home moments later on George Brett's single as the Royals scored four runs.

The performance improved Hurdle's current hitting streak to eight games, something he attributed to "being more comfortable at the plate."

"He's swinging now," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, "just letting it all hang out and swinging."

Mariners 7, White Sox 4

Designated hitter Bob Robertson's three-run homer capped a five-run third inning and paced Seattle over Chicago. Mike Parrott allowed only three hits and worked the first five innings to gain his first major league victory, while Jack Kucek took the loss.

Dan Meyer launched the third inning with a one-out single off Kucek. After a pair of walks loaded the bases, Bill Stein singled in two runs. Robertson, former Pittsburgh slugger who sat out the 1977 season because of back surgery, then followed with his second homer of the year.

"There's some question if I can play first base consistently," said Robertson, "but I believe I can DH forever."

Cubs 6, Pirates 4

Manny Trillo's, two-run double capped a three-run rally in the 10th inning and led Chicago over Pittsburgh. Two Pirate errors opened the door for the Cubs' rally. Pinch-hitter Mike Vail reached first when third baseman Mario Mendoza misplayed his grounder. Pinch-runner Rudy Meoli moved to second as first baseman John Milner made an error on a sacrifice play and eventually came around to score the tie-breaking run on Larry Biittner's double.

After Dave Kingman was walked to fill the bases, Trillo doubled to score Gene Clines and Biittner.

Polish Soccer Team Protests Evening World Cup Play

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) - The Polish soccer team, claiming to speak in the interest of fair play, wants Argentina to play a vital World Cup game Wednesday in the afternoon instead of at night.

If the request is granted it could cause revolution. The national team plays its matches at night, unlike the other competing squads, so that the whole nation can watch on television without closing down shops and factories.

While Argentina's games are in progress, the streets of Buenos Aires are empty. You don't see a car, or anyone on the sidewalks. Everyone is at home in front of their screens.

There is some logic behind the Polish protest, which has been sent to the International Soccer Federation (FIFA). Argentina and Brazil are racing neck and neck for top place in Group B, and Wednesday's games will decide which team wins the group and gets a place in the final.

Brazil is set to play Poland Wednesday afternoon, and Argentina faces Peru in the evening. If Brazil and Argentina are still even on points, the team with the better goals record goes into the final.

The argument is that Argentina will go on the field knowing the result of Brazil's game and knowing exactly how many goals it must score.

Brazil was the first to object. But Poland is involved too because theoretically it could still reach the final or more likely, the play-off for third place.

"Both games should start at the same time," said Cludio Coutinho, coach of Brazil, "otherwise it will give a decided advantage to Argentina."

Lopez Boosting Women's Tour

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) - Nancy Lopez, the hottest item in professional golf in the last 33 years, is trailing sparks with her meteoric success this year.

The entire Ladies Professional Golf Association is benefitting from the 21-year-old record shattering rookie, already the richest rookie player - male or female - to use a set of golf clubs.

Lopez, fresh off her fifth triumph in a row, a two-stroke victory over Jane Blalock and Debbie Massey at Rochester's Locust Hill Country Club, leads the field for this week's LPGA event.

"It's given us a superstar, a real celebrity," said Betsy Rawls, a Hall of Famer and nor the LPGA tournament director who is setting up this week's Lady Keystone Open.

"The women's tour had been growing by leaps and bounds without her. But she's really given us a boost. People come out just to see her. She's got a quality that attracts people. They like to watch her play," said Rawls, winner of 54 tournaments in her 25 years as a touring pro.

$200 Error Is Costly

NEW YORK (AP) - Hall of Famer Yogi Berra, who played all his baseball for the New York Yankees, is a native of St. Louis and could have been signed by the Cardinals in the early 1940s.

A matter of $200 cost the Cards the invaluable services of the hard-hitting Yogi. The Cards signed Yogi's boyhood pal, Joe Garagiola, for $500 and offered Berra $300. No way, said Yogi. He wanted what Joe had got. When the Cardinals refused to raise the anti, the Yankees stepped in and signed Berra for the $500 bonus he wanted.

Tourist Border Survey Continues

BROWNSVILLE (AP) - A Mexican official predicts a current survey will show that American tourists want Mexico to provide attractions not available in Texas - such as legalized gambling.

International travelers from both sides of the Rio Grande are being asked why they cross the border, according to Luis Rendon of the Mexican Tourism Department.

"The intention is to know what are the reasons for the Mexican people to cross into American towns and what are the reasons for American people to cross into Mexican towns," Rendon said Monday in a telephone interview from his Matamoros office.

The official said he is confident pari-mutuel wagering facilities will be among the American tourists' most-suggeested border town additions. But Rendon is also confident that despite the anticipated response, additional dog or horse race tracks will not be built in the near-future.

Matamoros is an oft-mentioned site for a pari-mutuel wagering facility.

Rendon said the survey, which will continue at the border through June, is another effort at improving the border towns.

"We want to know if the tourists have been treated correctly by the authorities and merchants. We have not had a very good image. We are trying to change it," he said.

Mexicans crossing the river are also being asked why they make the trip. Rendon said most Mexicans who cross the river do so to shop.

He added that the survey should help Mexican businessmen to know "what items should be available in our border towns."

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

June 21, 1978

This coming year an interesting new acquaintance will form a strong attachment for you. She will introduce you to fresh interests and a happier way of life.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In partnership arrangements today you're likely to find yourself in the giver role, with your associates as the takers. Strive for a fairer balance. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone will be looking to dump their woes on your broad shoulders today. It could be far more straws than any camel could carry.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This may be one of those days where it may appear everyone is ganging up against you. You'll suspect even your close buddy-buddies.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Give credit where credit is due today, but also appraise the opposition realistically. Don't concede them strengths they don't possess.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Normally you're not very gullible and it's difficult to pull the wool over your eyes. Today, however, you may take what you hear verbatim.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) For someone who takes pride in his or her independence, you could be cast in the unfamiliar role of leaning too heavily on others today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Poor judgment today could lead you into involvements where the odds are against you. Size situations up carefully before you leap in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) True humility is a noble virtue, but today you could humble yourself unbecomingly. Let at least a portion of your ego shine through.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There are times when it is absolutely necessary to be assertive. Today you might be so with the wrong people, under the wrong circumstances.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful today lest you enter the fray feeling you have strong forces behind you. The ranks following your banner may be quite thin.

TAURUS (April 20-May 10) There is a danger today that you might formulate plans based upon exaggerated information. Make no moves till you're absolutely certain of the facts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone with financial problems may be looking to you to bail them out today. Unfortunately, you may not have enough buckets aboard to do the job.

Older Teachers Lose Benefits In Summer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Summer is near and that means no more pencils, no more books for school children. For some of their older teachers, it means no more Social Security checks, too.

In the past, a quirk in the law allowed active teachers aged 62 or older to obtain Social Security checks for July and August even though they worked the rest of the year.

But a recent change in the law ends the payment, and also forces some teachers and others who retire this year to wait until January to draw benefits. An estimated 250,000 persons are losing $159 million in benefits this year.

The government reduces Social Security benefits by $1 for every $2 a retired person earns over an exempt amount, which is $4,000 this year. Benefits are not reduced during a person's first year of retirement, or after age 72.

The 250,000 teachers, farmers, seasonal workers and some self-employed persons used up their grace period either by receiving Social Security checks on a part-time basis previously or simply by signing up for Medicare when they turned 65.

The government now considers that a person's retirement year begins with any month in which he earned less than $334 one-twelfth of $4,000, even if he did not seek retirement benefits.

"Teachers who decide to retire this year at age 67 or 68 are getting shafted out of six months of benefits," charged Byron Spice, a retirement expert with the National Education Association.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. in April decided that the stricter retirement test would be applied to the 250,000 who had received part-time benefits previously, as well as to those signing up for the first time.

"That's a lot of people on whom to change the rules of the game at the last minute. I think it's an outrage," said James Hacking, a lobbyist for the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association.

He said his groups are considering challenging the agency's interpretation of the retirement test in court.

Gary Thorn, a Social Security research analyst, said the change in the monthly retirement test "shocked the teachers, because they didn't realize it was coming."

Thorn said the teachers' groups would like a grandfather clause to protect those who had taken advantage of the system's old rules.

Lecithin facts

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I found your columns on high blood pressure helpful and I reduced some 15 pounds and got off high blood pressure medicine. With my normal blood pressure I suspect I wouldn't have needed to take medication in the first place if I had done this earlier.

I have a different opinion about your remarks about lecithin. You state that lecithin is a combination of triglycerides and choline. That is all. I believe lecithin also contains inositol and other B vitamins. Although I realize that the lecithin is digested before it can be absorbed in the blood stream, meaning it is broken down into the fatty acids and choline, I think we probably need the choline and the inositol.

It is true that choline is found in meat, eggs and livers but many doctors advise us not to eat too many eggs or liver because of their cholesterol content, so how about using lecithin as a good source of choline and inositol?

DEAR READER — I'm glad you benefited from your weight reduction and wish more people would do the same. I can't say that I'm so pleased about your lack of knowledge about lecithin. Lecithin does not contain inositol and it does not contain any B vitamins whatsoever. Wherever you got that information, you should discard it. Lecithin is lecithin just as I have described it in the past.

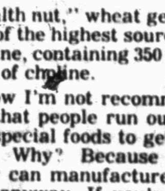

It's true we do need choline but I suspect that you do not realize that choline is present in many other foods. There is an abundant amount of choline in lean meat. And it's perfectly all right for people to eat a moderate amount of lean meat from which all the fat has been removed even if they're on a low-fat diet. Also cereals contain a reasonable amount of choline, 50 to 100 mgs in a three-and-one-half ounce portion. And if you want to be a real "health nut," wheat germ is one of the highest sources of choline, containing 350 to 400 mgs of choline.

Now I'm not recommending that people run out and eat special foods to get choline. Why? Because your body can manufacture choline anyway. If you're getting an adequate amount of protein in your diet all your body has to do is use two amino acids, glycine and methionine, to make all the choline your own body needs. Since your body can make the choline you need if you're on a sensible diet, paying good money for additional amounts of it that won't be used is really a rather useless exercise.

So, in summary, you don't need to eat eggs or liver or take lecithin to get your choline and you're not getting one single blessed vitamin or inositol from lecithin tablets. Facts are facts.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 1-2, Cholesterol, Triglycerides, Blood Fats, Atherosclerosis, to give you a better understanding of blood fats involved in fatty-cholesterol blockage. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Prince 'Snubs'

LONDON (AP)-Prince Charles has turned down an invitation to the wedding of Princess Caroline of Monaco because the prince has "a very full work load and could not find the time to go," says a spokesman at Buckingham Palace.

The palace announcement followed press inquiries after early editions of the tabloid Daily Mirror said the heir to the British throne had "snubbed" Caroline's wedding.

The 21-year-old daughter of Prince Rainer and Princess Grace is to marry French businessman Philippe Junot, 38.
