Odd Bits Salvaged

We have a feeling of sympathy for the man who has never worn knee breeches, nor slept in a wagon yard.

k-k

He has missed the thrill of transition from boyhood to manhood by not experiencing the time when he grew out of knee breeches into long trousers. And a man has never really lived unless he has spent at least one night in a wagon yard!

There, in most instances, the horse had better living facilities than at home—a roof over his head, feed and water both right handy in his own stall. While man cooked his meals by open flame beside the wagon in the "open arena" of the wagon yard, then spread his pallet, maybe in an empty feed room, to get his night's rest. The pungent smell of the surroundings was not like that of roses in full bloom, but it was living in the pioneers days.

Which events can be recalled by real pioneers—which brings to mind the celebration and pageant which will soon celebrate the 50th anniversary of the incorporation of Munday.

k-k

This event will take place on the night of July 20 at the athletic field, and people are busy putting on the final fixings for this event.

k-k

The pageant, "My Home Town," which will be presented in connection with the annual watermelon feed sponsored by the Munday Chamber of Commerce, is an original show with nine brief episodes—each one featuring some phase of life in Munday's past.

k-k

The entire show is the "brain child" of Mrs. Travis Lee, who has written the script, the words and music to the several songs which will be used and who has worked untiringly with youngsters and grownups in bringing the various acts into perfection.

With a narrator reading the script giving detailed accounts in the history of our town, various local people will act out the events in pantomime. Another added feature of the show, too, it that it is "for free" to all who care to attend.

k-k

It's the story of Munday, of and for Munday people, and many are those who are expected to come out and see this unusual performance.

k-k

In view of lean years, continued drouth, etc., it was deemed wise by officials of our town and clubs to dispense with the elaborate celebration that had been planned earlier, with professional people coming in and staging the show over a period of several nights.

k-k

They hit upon the idea of "Why not a local show, conceived by home talent and staged by home talent? One that would require cooperation and work—a show of cooperation and work—a show of Munday and for Munday people, one that would serve to link the community closer together.

k-k

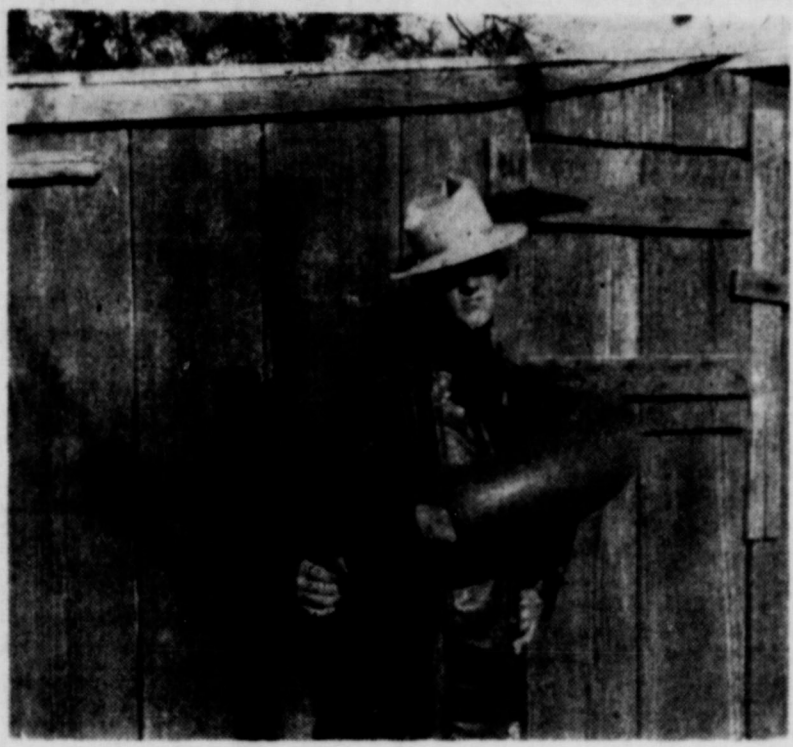

Little has been said about the event up to now, except to those people who have been asked to take part in the show. But many have been working and co-operating. In addition to those in the show and the author-director, members of the fire department have agreed to keep the grounds watered down prior to the show so there will be a minimum of dust, local farmers are to furnish the watermelons "for free," others are building the stage settings, props, etc., necessary to give the show the color of pioneer days, and others are pitching in to do their part.

It will be an evening of good entertainment, one that will bring back memories of pioneer days and other events in the 50 years of our town. You will really miss something if you are not among those present.

k-k

Seems kinda funny to be running "tornado safety rules" when we have so much trouble getting a thunder shower, but we kinda promised H. T. Melton we'd run them. They appear on page four.

MAD MAN OR FARMER?

In a way he is both. Dickie Morrow sings a bass song written especially for his portrayal of the flood-stricken farmer in the Golden Jubilee Show, "My Home Town," sponsored by the Munday Chamber of Commerce, on July 20th.

FARMER'S LAMENT

Part of the flood-stricken farmer's lament is this part of the bass song rendered by Dickie Morrow:

"Oh, Noah had nothing on me! The south forty has turned to a sea. High water has ever reached our pig sty . . . we know 'cause we saw our prize pig floating by!"

Yes, Noah had nothing on me. He knew what his trouble would be, but when my crop washed I planted again.

And what did I get but two whole months of rain? . . . And rain . . . and rain . . . and RAIN!!!

Oh, Noah saw what was to be. He built the ark to go to sea, but all that we have was made for dry land.

We always thought we would be battling sand.

Young men, when you choose what your life is to be, Just remember this farmer "at sea!"

ELVIS PRESLEY'S REPLACEMENT

Some girls say so. His name is Gwin Morris, and he sings the role of "The Lonesome Cowboy" in the Golden Jubilee Show, "My Home Town," which will be staged at the athletic field in Munday on Friday evening, July 20th.

BASHFUL COWBOY

Handsome but too bashful to talk to the girls is the lonesome cowboy played by Gwin Morris. His song of distress includes an apt description of his timidity and problems such as the chorus lines:

"Some cowboys chase gals . . .

me? . . . I just have pals and my horse don't need a kiss.

When I'm feeling lonesome I begin to roam some. I can't even name the gals I miss.

They say that some day one girl in some way may ask me to be her beau. But where would that get me?

Females sure upset me . . . even if it's grandmas that I know.

When pretty young things ask me to windmills my face gets red, my hands and feet act strange.

Since ruffles and ribbons skeer me, and I've no gal to cheer me, I guess that I'll go back and ride the range.

Siamese Twins Born To Former Goree Couple

Birth of Siamese twin boys, believed to be the first such birth in San Diego County, Calif., history, was reported Tuesday, according to an Associated Press item. The infant twins are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hutchens of El Cajon, Calif., formerly of Goree. Both infants and the mother are reported doing well.

Mrs. Hutchens and her husband, a construction worker, have two other children, Ronald Dean, 5, and Floyd Don, 12. They went to California from Goree about four years ago. Hutchens said there was no record of multiple births in either his family or his wife's family.

The twins are joined back-to-back in the region of the sacrum in the lower part of the spine. The connecting neck of tissue is one inch in diameter.

Dr. Leroy E. McDowell, who delivered the babies, said there was no bone connection. He said he believed the twins can be separated surgically without danger to either. Any operation must wait until the boys gained weight.

The babies weighed between 5½ and 6 pounds at birth.

Mr. Hutchens was a member of a farming family in Goree. His late parents owned a farm north of town for many years, and a brother, Elmer Hutchens, still lives in Goree.

Mrs. Hutchens was a Seymour resident before her marriage.

AWARDS OFFERED IN LIVESTOCK PROGRAMS

A variety of awards are offered to 4-H Clubs members for their achievements in livestock projects and activities through two National 4-H Award Programs.

In the Meat Animal Program, Thomas E. Wilson is providing two gold-filled medals of honors for winners in each county, a 19-jewel watch for the state winner, eight all-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for sectional winners, and $300 scholarships for the six top-ranking winners in the nation. Any 4-H Club member enrolled in a 4-H meat animal project may participate in the program.

Three $300 college scholarships are offered as awards in the 4-H Livestock Judging Contest at the International Live Stock Exposition by Armour and Company.

The winning judges in each of the three divisions, beef cattle, sheep and swine, will each receive a scholarship.

Complete information on the programs may be obtained from county Extension offices. 4-H Club work is conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, and the awards coordinated by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

Information On Acreage Reserve Under Soil Bank

The following information on 1956 cotton acreage reserve was handed out Monday by County Agent Roy England:

Agreements must be filed with your county ASC by July 20. You may qualify by any one of the following ways: (A) By underplanting your cotton allotment because of adverse weather or because you planned to place that acreage in the soil bank; (b) by having your crop destroyed by drouth, rain, hail or other natural causes; (c) by plowing under or mowing, etc., an acreage of your crop after May 27 and before a date that has been set for your county (either July 2, 16 or 31).

Fifty percent of your allotment or 10 acres, whichever is larger, may be placed in the acreage reserve. Ten percent, or 2 acres, whichever is larger, is the smallest acreage that can be placed in the reserve.

You will be paid: (a) for underplanting—your normal yield multiplied by 15 cents; (b) for destruction by drouth, flood or natural causes or for plowing under—your normal yield or the appraised yield, whichever is smaller, multiplied by 15 cents, but not less than $6 per acre.

Requirements: (1) must not be grazed after June 22; (2) must not harvest any crop from the reserve during 1956; (3) must control noxious weeds, and (4) must comply with acreage allotments.

Division of payments between landlords and tenants must be fair and equitable. Generally, it will be approved by county ASC committees if based on the contribution the landlord and tenant would have each made in producing the crop and on the basis they would have shared the crop.

How to sign: Go to your county ASC office. They will have your yield record and can compute the amount per acre which you will receive if you sign an acreage reserve agreement. In many cases, they will be able to sign the agreement, if you wish, on your first visit.

Cantaloupe Harvest Started On Monday

Funeral For Rado Hutchens Held June 25th

Funeral services were held in the New Home Baptist Church at 2 p. m. Sunday, June 25, for Rado Hutchens, who passed away at 7:20 a. m. Saturday, June 24, in the Tahoka hospital. He had been admitted to the hospital for treatment a week earlier.

Mr. Hutchens, who was 62 years of age at the time of his death, was a ginners and farmer at New Home. He went to Lynn County from Knox County in 1944.

He was born April 1, 1894, in Woolsey, Ark., and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hutchens. In 1927 he became a member of the Baptist Church at Goree, and was a member of the New Home Church. He was married to the former Miss Jewel Gass at Goree on January 16, 1920.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Robert Clements, pastor of the New Home Baptist Church, who was assisted by Rev. Hugh Daniel, pastor of the Methodist Church there. Burial was in Tahoka cemetery.

Mr. Hutchens is survived by his wife, of route one, Wilson; two daughters, Mrs. Thena Mae Clark of Fort Worth and Mrs. Radene Turner of route one, Wilson; two sisters, Mrs. Bell Gunn of Fort Worth and Mrs. Marie grandchildren and several half brothers and sisters.

Wheat Referendum July 20 To Decide Vital Questions

How wheat farmers vote in the July 20 referendum on wheat marketing quotas will actually affect only two parts of the 1957 wheat program, according to R. G. Shrauner, Chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Whether or not quotas are approved, acreage allotments will remain in effect for the crop, the chairman declared.

The two points at issue in the vote are (1) whether marketing quotas shall be in effect, with penalties on "excess" wheat from farms (with more than 15 acres of wheat harvested as grain) not in compliance with the acreage allotment; and (2) the level of price support available to those who comply with their farm acreage allotments.

If quotas are approved by at least two-thirds of those who vote in the referendum, the quotas and penalties for excess production will be in effect, and price support on the crop bill will be available at a level between 75 and 90 percent of parity to those who comply with the farm wheat allotments.

If more than one-third of the voters disapprove the quotas, there will be no marketing quotas and no penalties for excess production, and the available price support will drop to 50 percent of parity, as provided by law.

Whether or not quotas are in effect, acreage allotments will remain in effect for the 1957 wheat crop.

Chairman Shrauner explained that wheat marketing quotas and acreage allotments operate only in commercial wheat States, including Texas. Since the quotas affect only those growers in the commercial area who will have more than 15 acres of wheat for harvest as grain on a farm in 1957, these growers are the only ones eligible to vote in the referendum.

Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Bradford of San Antonio were week end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Coy Tuggle and all were business visitors in Vernon on Saturday. Sunday guests in the Tuggle home were Mrs. J. B. Cornett and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Boone and baby of Hale Center and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Gully of Munday.

The cantaloupe harvest for the Munday area got under way the first of this week, as Jack Colyer, local processor and shipper, received the first load Monday morning. These were delivered to the Combs and Colyer shed which had just been completed.

The first load was primarily for adjusting packing machinery and getting it ready for the rush which will soon be under way.

The first load came from the crop grown by Clyde Yost, just northeast of town, and the crop was grading good. Processing crews began arriving last week to be ready for the harvest, which is expected to get into full swing the latter part of this week.

Shed Inspected

Mr. M. K. Orman, agricultural agent for the Fort Worth and Denver Railway, was here last Monday and inspected the new shed which had been erected by Don Combs. He reported to M. H. Dean, local depot agent, that new shed was the "best on the Burlington lines anywhere in Texas." The shed is constructed on ground level with a ramp built car height for loading into freight cars.

The other shed, being constructed by a co-operate group, wasn't completed Monday, but construction was well under way.

Most of the farmers who are growing cantaloupes report prospects for a good yield. Between 800 and 1,100 acres will be harvested.

County Girl Tells Of 4-H Camp Trip

The following is a report of Sherry Cook after she returned from the district 4-H conservation camp at Buffalo Gap. Sherry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cook, is a member of the Gilliland 4-H Girls Club.

My Trip to the 4-H Conservation Camp

My participation in the 4-H Conservation Camp has given me a new knowledge of wild life and the need for conservation. My family and friends' interest has been aroused to the extent that we notice and discuss some phase of nature daily. The recent arrival of some small, dark birds called mud martins, building their nests of mud under a porch has aroused our curiosity as to their food habits, origin, and value.

I believe that "First Aid for Snake Bite" as demonstrated by Mr. Cooper would be of interest and value to other boys and girls and adult leaders, particularly at this time of year.

Next month I plan to exhibit at County Camp, nests of the mocking bird, scissor-tailed fly-catcher, and perhaps the oriole, that I have collected and point out the birds general description, nest and eggs, distribution, interesting facts, and economic value. I also will give a local 4-H report on my trip to Buffalo Gap, and will discuss briefly snakes, deer, birds, predatory animals, traps, and pond life.

My part in conservation has been limited chiefly to wild life but in the future I hope to study plant life, soil and water conservation, and entomology, and find out, as a junior, what I can do.

The District 3 4-H Conservation Camp was a new and enjoyable experience for me. I learned many things which I believe will be useful to me and my community.

RECEIVES WORD OF RELATIVE'S DEATH

Mrs. Irene Meers received a telegram last Tuesday morning that her brother-in-law, Jessie Young, had passed away at 9:20 a. m. Monday. He lived in San Bernardino, Calif.

Skip and Mike Lane spent last week with their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Hunter, in Iowa Park.

Mrs. Gladys Leggett of Abilene spent several days last week in the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. F. Michael.

Jack Barker and Ernest Aileen of Benjamin attended a meeting of the Masonic Lodge here last Monday night.

Workshop Held For Delta Kappa Gamma Officers

Mrs. John P. Ward of Aspermont, outgoing president of Beta Chi chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma, international society for outstanding women educators, and Mrs. Luther Burkett of Haskell, incoming president, have just returned from a meeting in Wichita Falls where they attended an area workshop conducted by Dr. Madge Davis, Alpha state program chairman.

The purpose of the meeting, held in the student center of Midwestern University, was to further inform presidents, program and yearbook chairman and other interested members of the nationwide theme for all chapter study during the coming season. Various aspects of this theme, "Uniting Women Educators of the World in a Spiritual Fellowship" were explored and aids for making the yearbook were given by various members of the state program committee.

It was also announced that the regional meeting of chapters represented at this meeting will be held at Olney in October.

PEDDY FAMILY MOVES TO DUMAS

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Paddy and children left last Tuesday for Dumas where Mr. and Mrs. Paddy have accepted employment in an upholstery and shoe repair shop and plan to make their home in Dumas.

Vera Improves School Property; Faculty Incomplete

The Vera Consolidated Schools has a vacancy in Junior High School which has not been filled yet. Any one whom is interested should contact Supt. M. J. Kirby at Vera. All other faculty places are full. Present members are Mrs. Edith Russell, Mrs. T. M. Bowdoin, Mr. E. M. Hughes, Mrs. Braden McWhorter, Miss Jessie Myers, and Mrs. Anna Lee Benham.

The Vera School Board has purchased new High School furniture for all the rooms and library. This gives the High School and Grade school completely modern equipment through out the building.

The Vera football field has been grassed and a water well placed beside it for watering. A pretty green turf is now in the process of covering the field and play ground.

UNCLE SAM AS A COMPETITOR

If you're in business, there's a good chance Uncle Sam is one of your competitors. And if you're not in business, you still must help to pay through your taxes—for the government's business-type activities.

That observation comes from the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. It is solidly backed up by a set of facts.

According to the Bureau of the Budget, the government actually is operating 19,771 commercial-industrial undertakings, with 266 thousand employees and close to $12 billion of capital assets. These fall into more than 200 categories, including mining, manufacturing, wholesale and retail trade, farming, transportation, communication, services such as electric power, insurance, and so on and so on.

The Chamber also points out that when Uncle Sam runs a business that private citizens could run just as well he is adding unnecessarily to the cost of government. Further, he is losing revenue—for private business pays taxes while government business-type activities do not. Instead, they usually run at deficits.

On the bright side, it is clear that more and more people are awakening to the menace of government in business—and that more and more men in government are interested in doing something about it. In the last year, a start has been made toward getting government out of business, and a substantial saving has resulted. But the surface has only been scratched.

RAIN MAKER!

The following advertisement, "WANTED—GENERAL SOAKING RAIN. PLEASE RUSH, CLIFF PERKINS", appeared in the West Branch, Iowa Times—Herbert Hoover's birthplace—on April 26. The paper went into the mail about 3:00 in the morning. By suppertime the rain came and brought an end to an 8-month dry spell.

It is estimated this advertisement was worth millions to the residents of Cedar County and the state of Iowa. You don't have to argue with Cliff Perkins and his friends on the power of the country press.

OLD INDUSTRY WITH YOUNG IDEAS

Research is the key to industrial progress. It shows us how to do jobs more efficiently and economically. It leads to new products and better products. It opens up frontiers of knowledge—and creates higher living standards for the millions.

Coal—an old industry with young ideas—devotes much of its resources to research and plans to devote more. A coal spokesman, who testified before a House subcommittee, told why. He estimated that at least another $1 billion must be invested in expanding the coal plant to the production capacity that will be required to meet the country's normal needs by 1956. In the event of a national emergency, he added, the figure would have to be revised upward, as coal could be expected to assume at least 75 per cent of the nation's increased energy demands, as was the case in the case in the last world war.

This spokesman supported a proposal for establishing, for coal, a research program of the same magnitude as those now being conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission, the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, and other such groups.

Research has already produced miracles from coal—in the form of medicines, fabrics, and many other articles now in general use. It will produce many more.

VOICES FROM THE GRASS ROOTS

Voices from the grass roots are listened to with respect and interest in Congress.

During the first three months of this year, The American Press reports, editorials and articles from 69 weekly and semi-weekly newspapers were quoted in the Congressional Record. Papers from 28 states were thus represented. The quotations covered a great gamut of topics and problems—racial integration, the future of solar energy, flood control, the farm situation, government spending, foreign policy, and so on.

The men and women of Congress want to know what local people are thinking—and the country paper tells them.

ANTIGO, WISC., DAILY JOURNAL: "Husbands and fathers who used to find it relatively easy to duck their responsibilities by fleeing to another state no longer have that opportunity, the states having entered into mutual agreements for return of such offenders."

WHAT DOES THE BIBLE SAY?

God's Power To Keep His Children

There are two prominent religious ideas relative to God's power to keep His children. (1) That God has power enough to keep His children, but this power is only extended to those who keep His commandments. (2) That God has power enough to keep His children and He exercises this power regardless of their conduct, even though they steal, commit adultery, murder, or any other crime in the catalogue of sin.

To contend that a child of God can so conduct himself that he will be eternally lost on account of sin, is not to question God's power in the least. The real issue between the two ideas is not the amount of power God has, but to what extent does God exercise His keeping power toward His children.

No question about God having enough power to keep His children, as the following quotations will show. "For the which cause I also suffer many things; nevertheless I am not ashamed; for I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day" (2 Tim. 1:12). "Who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time" (1 Pet. 1:5). "Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy" (Jude 24).

The above quotations show beyond question that God has power enough to keep His children; otherwise one would be miserable trying to serve Him, and at the same time question His ability or power to save him at the last day.

God's Children Are Keepers

"Keep yourselves in the love of God" (Jude 21). "Little children, keep yourselves from idols" (1 Jn. 5:21). "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their afflictions and to keep himself unspotted from the world" (Jn. 1:27). "Lay hands suddenly on no man, neither be partakers of other men's sins; keep thyself pure" (1 Tim. 5:22). "If thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments" (Matt. 19:17).

We learn from the above that there are two keepers, one is God, and the other is man. God keeps those who keep His commandments and there will not be one single soul who keeps the commandments of God lost, but God only extends His keeping power to those who keep themselves by keeping God's commandments.

Engineers here in Washington have indicated that they will proceed as rapidly as possible with the survey; however, indications are that it will be sometime after January First of next year before any specific action can be taken on account of their large backlog of work.

Final approval has now been given by Congress to the new Federal Highway Bill. This Bill provides for the development of a forty-one thousand mile interstate Federal highway system which will consist largely of four and six lane limited access highways and should mean that our highway system at long last will begin to catch up with the volume of our traffic.

One of the most important pieces of legislation that will be considered before Congress adjourns is the bill that would provide that the Federal law on any subject would not repeal State laws dealing with the same matters unless specifically provided by Congress. This type of legislation is necessary if the integrity of the States is to be maintained. The Committee on Judiciary in the House reported a bill this week which provides that Federal laws on sedition would not prevent enforcement of State laws on that subject. As reported, this proposal of the Committee does not go far enough and I hope that it may be broadened by amendments that may be adopted when the matter comes to the Floor for consideration.

Any hope to adjourn by the middle of July seems to be completely gone. It now appears reasonably certain that the earliest possible date for adjournment will be the last week of this month. Visitors this week were Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Howe and daughters, Mary Lois and Linda Jean, of Roanoke.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Should Lawyers Represent Criminal Defendants?

One of the cardinal principles of American law is that a man is considered innocent until proven guilty by proper legal proceedings. Practically everyone pays lip service to this ideal, but many fail to realize that the right to be represented by counsel is a logical and essential corollary of that theory of justice. There is a good deal of criticism of attorneys representing defendants in criminal cases. Much of this criticism is unjust.

Should lawyers defend in court persons whom they know or have good reason to believe are guilty of the crimes charged against them? A recent scientific sampling of the attitude of the public in Texas toward lawyers and law problems shows that more than half of all persons interviewed thought it was wrong for a lawyer to defend such a person.

Such an attitude is rather startling to thinking citizens and members of the Bar. Surely the guiltiest criminal has a right to a fair trial by the law of the land. Such a trial he cannot have without a competent attorney to see that a fair jury is selected and that only lawful evidence is introduced against him.

With reference to this feeling on the part of a sizeable portion of the public, a certain District Judge who tries many criminal cases, and who served eighteen years as a prosecuting attorney before his election to the Bench, recently offered the following comments:

"The result of this survey is no surprise to me, in that during my eighteen years of prosecuting, this feeling has been made known to me by hundreds of persons."

"The feelings on the part of the general public in this regard is brought about to a great extent by the sincere efforts on the part of the defense counsel to see that his client receives the benefit of every legal safeguard to which he is entitled. These legal maneuvers are often misunderstood by the layman as an unethical effort to defeat justice, by delay of the trial, and by taking advantage of certain defenses that to the layman appear to be trivial technicalities."

"Attorneys are the only ones who can correct the erroneous feeling of the general public regarding the defense of one who appears to be guilty as charged. We attorneys should emphatically state to the inquiring person that it is one of the cardinal rights of the individual in a democratic society to be considered innocent until his guilt is established beyond a reasonable doubt by legal and competent evidence.

"The public must be brought to the realization that all who are charged with crime are entitled to the expert counsel and aid of an attorney, and that the sworn duty of such attorney, is to see that each protective legal right, to which the accused is afforded him."

Now and then a lawyer will overstep the bounds of his duty in defending those charged with crime. When that happens, the legal profession is even more indignant than the public generally, and appropriate disciplinary proceedings are instituted where warranted.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by Henry A. Holte,
M. D., State Health Officer of Texas

AUSTIN—Fox rabies epidemics in several West Texas Counties have apparently been controlled for the rest of the summer, State Health Commissioner Henry A. Holte reported today.

Dr. Holte said his optimistic estimate of the worrisome situation in Presidio, Kinney, Brewster and Schleicher Counties was based on a decrease in the number of fox heads coming into the State Health Department laboratory for diagnosis, and the fact that local health authorities in the counties have all reported "excellent" cooperation in countywide rabies control campaigns.

Meanwhile, two South Texas counties—Starr and Hidalgo—are meeting dog rabies outbreaks head on.

Increasing incidence of fox rabies in the wide open spaces of West Texas began early this spring. Prior to that time the area had been practically free of the infection.

Human exposures to mad foxes have occurred, and livestock losses have been reported.

Local health officials in the counties involved, acting under terms of the state rabies control law, declared emergencies as the threats to human health became acute. Each county invoked dog vaccination program, stray dog pickups, and fox population reduction campaigns.

Dr. W. H. Stover, Presidio County health officer, in a report to the State Department of Health, said 350 dogs had been vaccinated in the county, and additional strays had been impounded.

"We have noted tremendous reductions in the number of foxes sighted," Dr. Stover said.

Brewster County officials, in cooperation with local veterinarians, vaccinated 40 dogs, and a tentative report from Schleicher County indicates about 250 dogs vaccinated there.

Kinney County reported 515 dogs and cats vaccinated in a three-day period "with very good coverage" of ranches. Seven thousand poison baits were distributed to ranches for use against foxes with "excellent killing results."

Meanwhile, a May outbreak of dog rabies in Starr County appears to be abating, said Dr. K. D. Quist, a State Health Department veterinarian. Quist said the county had treated 1725 dogs against the infection.

Hidalgo County, preparing to fight a current epidemic, has laid plans for a vaccination drive, Dr. Quist said. The local health department reported 15 persons were exposed to a single rabid dog earlier this month.

State Health Department animal morbidity reports indicates that more counties are involved in fox rabies outbreaks this year than last. The disease is endemic in East Texas.

HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS MOUNT WITH INCREASE IN SUMMER TRAVEL

Take safety with you and enjoy your vacation. Take caution to the winds and there may never be another vacation trip, warns the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. For they point out as motor travel booms, traffic accidents, especially in rural areas, also zoom upward.

The Council offers a few suggestions for cutting the summer accident toll. Give the car a thorough checkup before starting on the trip and watch for signs of trouble along the way. Don't block vision by improperly loading the car for good vision is a must for safe driving.

Be prepared for emergencies. A first aid kit, maps, permits if needed, identification, a flashlight, a tool kit and maybe a few spare parts should be carried along.

Much of the responsibility for a safe trip rests with the driver. Fatigue greatly reduces his efficiency. Plan the trip, urges the Council, to allow for rest stops during the day and a good night's sleep each night. Don't, they caution, try to drive and take in the sights at the same time.

Knows the laws of the states in which you expect to travel for ignorance of the law is only an excuse. Use traffic signs as a guide for safe driving. They are for your protection.

Traffic will be a problem during the vacation season in all parts of the country. Don't get in a hurry nor drive faster than conditions justify, warns the experts. Be adaptable and fit your driving to the peculiarities and conditions that exist in the areas where you drive. Respect the rights of others and remember, if safety rides with you, you and your family can look forward to next year's vacation.

Happy vacations begin in a Chevy

You'll love to travel in it, because it loves to travel! When you get this Chevrolet out on the road, you'll want to keep going—and so will the whole family.

Of course, even in a Chevrolet the happiest vacations may involve one or two minor problems. Like fidgety small fry who want gallons of water and keep asking if you're almost there. The big things, though, are beautifully taken care of by this roomy Chevrolet's smooth and easy way of going. That's for sure.

The fact is, few cars at any price hold the road with Chevy's grace, with its solid feeling of stability. And with horsepower up to 225, Chevrolet moves out like a whiplash, for safer passing. It's no wonder that so many people who used to buy higher priced cars are changing to Chevrolet! Stop by soon for a ride.

Stevens Family Reunion Held At MacKenzie Park

An enjoyable reunion was held at MacKenzie State Park in Lubbock on Sunday, June 24, for the Stevens family.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Wade Spiller and Guy Wade, Mr. and Mrs. Dolphus Dawson, Judy and Robert, Roy Stevens and Mrs. Maggie Elam all of Tulla; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Elam, Robert Elam, Don and Rex, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Taylor, Sandra, Nancy and Terry Sue, Mrs. Bill Taylor, Charles and Joe Wade all of Lubbock; Mrs. Annie Taylor of Haskell and Mrs. Sam Taylor of Munday.

back. She has been helping her husband campaign since they were married on June 28, 1940, when he was in the midst of a race for re-election to the Texas House of Representatives.

This summer she has been with the Senator on many of his campaign tours, and on some occasions has had their four children along to meet the people and help pass out literature. The oldest son, Price Jr., 15, has an eye on a political future himself. The other Daniel children are Jean, 13, Houston Lee, 10, and John Baldwin, 8.

The Senator's sister, Ellen Daniel, is a volunteer worker at State Campaign headquarters in Austin. She has also traveled with the family.

Their brother, former State Rep. Bill Daniel of Liberty, is chairman of the Senator's statewide Speaker's Bureau and has made scores of speeches and personal appearances in behalf of Price Daniel's candidacy.

Mrs. J. F. Lowrance and Jeanene returned home Monday from a 10-day visit with Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Gray and children in San Antonio. They also went to New Braunfels and visited the textile mills and saw the cotton from the bale being made into finished materials.

Amino Triazole Provides Better Cotton Defoliant

The promising cotton defoliant, amino triazole, should become more extensively used among growers this year, say agricultural scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in a report to Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist.

Studies of defoliant mixtures incorporating amino triazole are indicating that the amount of other defoliant in the mixture can be considerably reduced when incorporated with 0.75 pounds per acre of amino triazole.

This continues to be the recommended treatment for 1956. However, trials last summer showed that 3 gallons amino triazole per acre would increase the percent of defoliation achieved over that from amino triazole alone. Scientists believe economical, effective dosage lies somewhere between 3 gallons and 3 1/2 to 4 gallons.

Amino triazole as a defoliant, removes the leaves for easier boll picking and less trashy harvests, and as a regrowth inhibitor, prevents new plant growth after defoliation and before harvest is completed. When used in combination with other defoliants, addition of amino triazole at the rate of .75 pound per acre allows reduction of the other defoliant by half the dosage normally required when used alone.

In cooperative studies between USDA's agricultural research service and the state experiment stations serving the Mid-South Cotton Belt, scientists found that amino triazole, used alone as a defoliant at a 1-pound-per-acre rate, caused only about 70 percent defoliation. When the dosage in Cinemascope at the Roxy theatre Sunday and Monday.

"The First Texan," a rousing action spectacle depicting the lengthy struggle of Texans for freedom from Mexico, was produced on an elaborate scale by Walter Mirisch and directed by Byron Haskin from a screen play by Daniel B. Ullman.

McCrea, who recently chose "Wyatta" as one of his three favorite pictures of those he has filmed (the others were "The More the Merrier" and "Stars in My Crown"), liked the Sam Houston characterization equally well, he stated during the filming of "The First Texan."

was tripled, about 80 percent defoliation resulted. Thus, a rather small defoliation response was obtained with a large increase in the amount of chemical used. Scientists, therefore, recommend no less than the three-pound-per-acre rate, to obtain adequate defoliation.

Tests of the ability of amino triazole to prevent cotton plant regrowth during the harvest season have shown wide variation in results during the past three years. Generally, the higher the rate of application, the better regrowth control achieved. Scientists conclude that growers should apply at least one pound per acre to take care of possible variations in control.

TORNADO SAFETY RULES

TO KNOW WHAT TO DO WHEN A WARNING IS RECEIVED, OR A TORNADO IS OBSERVED, MAY MEAN THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH!!

- I There is no universal protection against tornadoes except caves or underground excavations. When time permits, go to a tornado cellar, cave, or underground excavation which should have an air outlet to help equalize the air pressure. It should be kept fit for use, free from water, gas, or debris; and preferably equipped with pick and shovel.
- II If you are in open country :
1. Move at right angles to the tornado's path. Tornadoes usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 miles per hour.
2. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.
- III If in a city or town :
1. Seek inside shelter, preferably in a strongly reinforced building. STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS!
2. In homes: The southwest corner of the basement usually offers greatest safety, particularly in frame houses. People in houses without basements should find other shelter, preferably in a storm cellar, although a depression, such as a ditch or ravine, can offer some protection. If time permits, electricity and fuel lines should be shut off. Doors and windows on the north and east sides of the house may be opened to help reduce damage to the building.
3. Standing against the inside wall on a lower floor of an office building offers some protection.
- IV If in schools :
1. In city areas: If school building is of strongly reinforced construction, stay inside, away from windows, remain near an inside wall on the lower floors when possible. AVOID AUDITORIUMS AND GYMNASIUMS with large, poorly-supported roofs!
2. In rural schools that do not have strongly reinforced construction, remove children and teachers to a ravine or ditch if storm shelter is not available.
- V If in factories and industrial plants :
On receiving a tornado warning, a lookout should be posted to keep safety officials advised of the tornado's approach. Advance preparation should be made for shutting off electrical circuits and fuel lines if the tornado approaches the plant. Workers should be moved to sections of the plant offering the greatest protection.
- VI Keep calm! It will not help to get excited. People have been killed by running out into streets and by turning back into the path of a tornado. Even though a warning is issued, chances of a tornado striking one's home or location are very slight. Tornadoes cover such a small zone, as a rule, that relatively only a few places in a warned area are directly affected. You should know about tornadoes though, "just in case".
- VII Keep tuned to your radio or television station for latest tornado advisory information. Do not call the Weather Bureau, except to report a tornado, as your individual request may tie up telephone lines urgently needed to receive special reports or to relay dissemination to thousands in the critical area.

New Hope For Cancer Stricken

One of the most common diseases among older men is also one of the most baffling to the medical profession. It is cancer of the prostate gland.

This insidious form of cancer alone accounts for approximately 20,000 deaths in this country each year. Furthermore, between 3 and 8 million men living now may have cancer of the prostate. Few know it.

Dr. J. Kenneth Sokol, Northwestern University Medical School, reported in the Medical Clinics of North America, that "less than one of twenty prostate cancer cases are suitable candidates for complete removal of cancer." For this reason, new techniques are particularly important.

One of the successful approaches to the palliation of prostate cancer has been through new medicines. Among these is a new type estrogenic compound which is bringing relief and hope to many prostate cancer patients. This new drug, Tace, has been used successfully by several doctors in the treatment of this disease.

Drs. Grayson Carroll and Robert V. Brennan of St. Louis University School of Medicine and St. John's Hospital, St. Louis, Missouri, reported studies covering a period of 32 months with 42 patients suffering from this disease of the prostate.

"In many patients in whom the disease had made other synthetic drugs ineffective, the administration of Tace resulted in clinical improvement," they reported through an article in The Journal of Urology.

The effectiveness of this new estrogen was characterized by increased weight, less cancer pain, and improvement in blood pressure. Furthermore, it seemed to stop growth of cancer in other parts of the body.

However, they pointed out "sufficient time has not elapsed for us to compare the survival time in Tace-treated patients to that observed in patients treated with other synthetic or natural estrogens." Nevertheless, it is encouraging to know that all hope is not gone when a patient discovers that he has cancer of the prostate.

Tace, available only on prescription, was developed by the research laboratories of the Wm. S. Merrell company, Cincinnati, Ohio.

TIMBERLAKE-BALLEW WEDDING IN LEVELLAND

Miss Jackie Lois Timberlake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Timberlake, became the bride of Guy Ballew, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ballew at the Wallace Theatre in Levelland recently. Rev. Bob Robbins officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

An archway, entwined with greenery and daisies, flanked by tall baskets of pink and white candelabras and potted palms, provided the setting for the wedding vows. Spencer Ellis, at the organ, played "September Song" and "Meody of Love" for the prelude, and accompanied Miss Marilyn Barton as she sang, "My Own True Love", "Band Of Gold" and "My Little Angel". At the close of the ceremony she sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Exhorting the bride down the aisle to the scene of the wedding, was her father. She was wearing a wedding gown in an original model of white imported Chantilly-type lace and nylon tulle over net and satin. Designed with high neck line framed with small ac-collar. The fitted lace-over-satin bodice had long sleeves ending in points over the hands and terminated with a point at center-front waistline. From this, stemmed a voluminous skirt, made of tulle, fully shirred, to which a yoke of lace was applied in elaborate pattern at lower hipline. The immense fullness of tulle, net and satin was emphasized by hoops and crinoline, worn underneath.

She carried out the tradition of wearing something old, something new something borrowed and something blue. Her finger-tip veil of net was borrowed, the hoops for her skirt were old, the dress was new and her garter was blue. She carried her "Rain-bow" Bible overlaid with white

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Glenda Robison of Levelland, who wore a blue dress of crystal-net. The bodice, cut low, was attached to a full flared skirt with pleated satin. Miss Janella Westmoreland, Sharon Kirk and Jo Nell Kendrick, cousin of the bride of Lubbock, were bridesmaids. They wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor, except in pink and carried arm bouquets of tinted carnations. Sue and Brenda, sisters of the bridegroom, were flower girls. They were attired in pink. All attendants wore ear pieces of tinted daisies, matching their dresses.

Best man was bridegroom's brother, Jesse Ballew, and ushers were Jerry Timberlake, brother of the bride, H. A. Cowan and Joe Brown.

A reception at San Andres Hotel followed the ceremony. The table was laid with a white cloth and the central attraction was the three-tiered wedding cake, ornate with white confections and miniature bride couple. The bride's bouquet of white carnations served as the centerpiece. Mrs. Dewayne Johnson and Miss Jo Helen Lawson poured and Mrs. Lester Kinnibrugh of Lubbock served the cake. Miss Tinky McKenzie registered the guests.

Mrs. Ballew was wearing a white nubby linen sheath dress, fashioned with a flair at the bottom as the couple departed for a wedding trip to Dallas. The dress was complimented by an aqua cape, hat and shoes of the same material. She carried a large white straw bag.

Following their return the couple will establish residence at 403 12th Street, Levelland.

The bride is attending summer school at Levelland High School and the bridegroom is employed by Mid-Continent Supply Company.

Mrs. Ballew formerly lived in Vera and is the granddaughter of Mrs. J. M. Roberson.

When there is a sick person in the house, an ordinary cotton shoe bag can prove helpful to the "nurse" and to the patient. Tuck the top of the bag between the mattress and the bedspring. The bottom rows of pockets that are left hanging out can hold magazines, tissues, and other items within easy reach of the patient.

Before scalding milk, wipe the bottom of the pan with a piece of margarine to keep the milk from scorching.

The Farmer's Best Market—Land

During recent years agriculture has been a notoriously bad business to get into. Crop prices have dropped steadily and net farm income is now the lowest in our national economy.

Yet, in spite of this farm depression, the farmer's chief investment—the farm itself—has risen in cost to about the same extent that prices for commodities have dropped.

There are several reasons for the rapid rise in land prices. The most important has been the need of farmers for additional land to offset lower acreage allotments. Other farmers need more land to take full advantage of increased mechanical equipment and keep income up, despite falling prices, with added production.

Then too, business and professional men with plenty of money to spend have been investing in land. Some want a farm as a place to retire, and others buy small farms for homes and hobbies—and tax write-offs. Farm land prices in suburban areas have gone up most.

But despite this strong demand and prices up nearly 30% since 1950, farm sales have continued at a very low level. Those who could have held onto their land, either because of stubbornness and determination to stay up or else for higher stakes.

However, for those who are buying land or for those who are holding out for all-time-high prices on that land they have for sale, a word of caution is advised.

Of course, it is sometimes hard to evaluate good land in terms of cash, considering what natural and human resources have gone into "making" a farm. But, practical matters considered, most current land prices are above levels that can be justified by present or prospective earning.

Farm operating costs are almost certain to go higher. Labor wages are on the upward trend, and so are transportation, machinery and other supplies. The cost-price squeeze shows little or no signs of easing. Refinancing credit is less plentiful, and interest rates are higher.

Also, there is no land shortage in sight, probably not for two generations, and even then per-acre farm output will have increased to such a level as to be more than plentiful for our population.

In short, unless there is a more rapid rise in farm commodity prices than now appears likely, it will take longer to pay out a farm on the present market than at any time in 40 years if the farmer relies solely on the sale of farm products. And that's about all they grow.

Mrs. H. F. Jungman, Mrs. W. C. Hertel and Miss Henrietta Hertel were visitors in Wichita Falls last Saturday.

CONCENTRATED FURY of a tornado is unmatched among all natural disasters. Here civil defense rescue workers search among the debris of Udall, Kan., for some of the 74 dead and hundreds injured by the twister on the night of May 25, 1955. Special cutting and lifting equipment of the civil defense "Calamity Jane" rescue truck at left enabled them to reach many victims trapped by rubble who might otherwise have died in the first hours. (Winfield, Kan., Courier Photo)

A business man advertised for an office boy and nearly 50 lads applied. He made them a little talk:

"When I was just about your age, I lived on a farm. One morning, when all the folks were gone, I saw a big bird on top of the barn. I ran into the house and got the muzzle-loading rifle down from the wall. My great grandfather had carried the gun in the War with Mexico and it hadn't been fired for years.

"I had always wanted to shoot that gun so I loaded it with powder, shot and paper wadding, then carried it out and rested it on the barnyard fence, took careful aim and fired.

"Well, sir, that gun knocked me down and the barrel burst and the load had been so heavy that it set the barn on fire. The barn burned down, along with about a hundred bales of hay and, if some neighbors hadn't come along, our house would have burned down, too."

He stopped and there was silence, then one boy asked, "Did you hit the bird?"

He got the job. Many years ago, a member of a state legislature was elected by the margin of one vote. The legislature met and elected a United States Senator (this was before Senators were elected by direct vote of the people) and this Senator was elected by one vote, which was cast by the member who had himself so narrowly escaped losing.

The United States Senate, by one vote, rejected the impeachment of President Andrew Johnson—and the vote which saved Johnson from being the only president to be impeached was cast by the Senator who had been elected by so narrow a margin.

Had one vote let the weather, or indifference, or anything else keep him from going to the polls on a bleak November day, how different would have been history.

SOIL BANK AGREEMENT NOW AVAILABLE AT COUNTY ASC OFFICE

The County ASC Office now has copies of the Soil Bank Acreage Reserve agreements available for signature by farmers wishing to participate in the program, according to R. C. Shrauner, Chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. A short visit to the county office will provide interested farmers with full information on terms and conditions of participation in the Acreage Reserve, which is the first part of the program to get underway this year.

"Growers interested in taking part in the Acreage Reserve have until July 20 to sign the Soil Bank agreements, designing the acreage of wheat (or other "basic" crop) which they wish to include under the Reserve," Chairman Shrauner states.

A wheat grower who wishes to participate in the Acreage Reserve this year, the Chairman explained, first must have compiled all allotments set for his farm. However, any farm may produce one acre of peanuts without becoming ineligible for Acreage Reserve. If he can meet this condition, he then has three or four opportunities for earning payments on 1956 crops.

Such a farmer may earn payments either by underplanting, by crop loss through weather conditions or other natural causes, or by plowing or cutting a portion of the crop to reduce the acreage below the allotments. Certain conditions for eligibility are attached to all methods of qualifying for the Acreage Reserve. Payments per bushel vary with counties but will be based on county rate times the normal or the appraised yield, according to the method of qualifying.

Payments for underplanting winter wheat, seeded last fall for harvest in 1956, may be made only if the farmer underplanted his farm wheat allotment because of adverse weather conditions. The rate for this practice is $4 per acre.

A Brazoria county ranchman, Bascom Munson, caught 132 buzzards in his demonstration trap at one time. Buzzards polute drinking water and grass, peck the eyes of baby calves sometimes killing and eating them and may even attack a weak mother cow.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hargrove and Virginia of Aiken are spending their vacation with relatives in Munday and Goree this week and also plan to visit in Dallas.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Runnels of Lubbock visited her mother, Mrs. E. N. Wilson, the first of this week. Mrs. Runnels is assistant manager of Luby's suburban cafeteria near Texas Tech College.

When you get your next prescription do not be blind to its true value. The price you pay for it, not only includes the charge for the ingredients, but also your proportionate share of the millions of dollars that has been spent on scientific research to perfect it.

Part of your cost is for the time necessary to check it, select the ingredients, record it, label it properly, and when necessary, to compound it. Despite all this, your prescription is the biggest bargain ever.

If shopping in town, pick up your Prescription, or let us deliver without extra charge.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Wants The Right Of His Being Misquoted Extended On Down To All The Levels

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek will get nowhere with his idea this week, but does he ever?

Dear editor:

I never have worried about the privileges other people have so long as mine are holding up, but when a privilege comes along that doesn't cost anything and other people are entitled to it, I'm in favor of scattering it around.

What I'm leading up to is the privilege Congressmen and other Washington officials have of being misquoted.

You take a bigshot Washington official, he can rear back and make a statement to the newspaper reporters, and they can notify their papers, and when it comes out in print and sounds a whole lot different and worse in the light of sober afterthought, the bigshot can correct himself by saying he was misquoted.

Some people criticize them for this, saying they're trying to crawl out, but I don't hold to that at all. What I'd like to see is a more universal use of this idea.

Take a man who's stood an in-law's visit about as long as he can and makes a remark to his wife along this line, and peace and harmony are destroyed. The next day, especially if it had the desired result and the in-law took off for home, he could write him saying he was misquoted, that his statement had been taken out of context.

as they say in Washington.

Or say I get a letter from the bank saying my note is due. If I could get around the situation by saying I'd been misquoted on the due date, when I was quoted as saying July 1, I meant to say I'd pay it back October 1, and the bank would correct the error, I'd feel like I was getting treatment equal to a Congressman and his boners.

The man who has never put his foot in his mouth hasn't shown up around here yet, and this misquoting angle is handiest answer I've ever seen to the problem.

Any time you don't agree with anything I write in The Times blame yourself for misquoting me.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

BAPTISTS BELIEVE...

FREEDOM OF THE INDIVIDUAL

J. A.

More men have sacrificed their lives for freedom than for any other cause.

Courageous spirits everywhere are ready to join Patrick Henry in saying, "Give me liberty or give me death."

Our most cherished freedom is religious freedom. This includes the right of every person to choose for himself whether he shall follow God's way. To seek to prevent or compel such a choice by use of force is contrary to the spirit and will of Christ. This way of thinking Baptists call "the competency of the soul in all matters of religion" and it is a way clearly taught in the Bible.

To a lowly woman drawing water from a well Jesus spoke great truths about the nature of God, how to worship him. This face-to-face encounter demonstrates the emphasis Jesus puts on the individual (John 4:1-26).

Jesus also told of a good shepherd who was not satisfied until the last lost sheep was found. Though the rest of the world should live in safety, as long as even one person is outside God's kingdom, the yearning, loving heart of God cannot be satisfied. To him the individual is of supreme importance.

The Bible points the way to this truth. "There is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus" (1 Timothy 2:5). "Every one of us shall give account of himself to God" (Romans 14:12). "But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name" (John 1:12).

To agree that the individual has a right—and ought to have freedom—to make his own religious choice raises a serious question about infant baptism because the infant can make no choice.

For a child to receive baptism without his knowledge and consent seems to Baptists to be contrary to the spirit and letter of the New Testament. It means that one of life's most sacred ceremonies is imposed upon him without his will. Baptist churches baptize only those who have believed in Christ for themselves. They believe that parents, pastors and priests may do many things for the individual, but they cannot take his place before God.

During the 1955 meeting of the Baptist World Alliance in London, England, a world-wide statement on religious freedom was adopted. Among other things, the statement said: "A person is not physically born into a religious faith, but must of his own free will enter upon his inheritance as a child of God. A man's right to choose or change his faith must be preserved, as well as his liberty to dissent or to make objection because of conscience's sake."

It is more important to let freedom prevail today than ever before, beginning in the life of the individual.

Program For Soil Bank Under Way For Farmers

Soil Bank Acreage Reserve agreements are now available for signature in county ASC offices. R. G. Shrauner, Chairman of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. Farmers may obtain full information there on how they may participate in the Acreage Reserve part of the Soil Bank this year.

"The Acreage Reserve is the first part of the program to get into operation for 1956", the Chairman explained. "While farmers may sign an agreement any time before July 20, those who want to participate in the program should call at the office soon. Ask about the last date for plowing or disking a cotton crop in order to reduce the acreage below the farm allotment."

Besides permitting farmers to incorporate into the soil, by plowing or disking an acreage of cotton within the allotment, the 1956 Acreage Reserve contains several other special provisions which enable farmers to take part in the program this year.

Thus, a farmer may earn a payment for underplanting cotton if he can certify that he underplanted either in anticipation of complying with the program or because of adverse weather conditions and if he designates an equivalent acreage in the Acreage Reserve; or the farmer may comply with his farm allotment for cotton and earn a payment if he does not harvest an acreage of the crop because of destruction by natural causes. Land placed in the Acreage Reserve must not be cropped, cut for hay, or grazed during 1956. Noxious weeds must also be controlled.

Payments on cotton acreage designated for participation in the Acreage Reserve will be based on 15 cents per pound on either the normal or appraised yield—depending on how the land qualifies under the program, but not less than $6 per acre for destruction due to natural causes or for plowing or cutting the cotton crop.

In order to participate in the Acreage Reserve of the Soil Bank, a farmer must generally comply with all allotments established for his farm.

Clyde Williams of Knox City was a business visitor here last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Little were visitors with relatives in Binger, Okla., last week end. Mrs. Little's mother, Mrs. Bessie Marrisette, returned to her home in Binger after a week's visit here.

Shipping losses can be cut by giving fat hogs a cool, comfortable ride to market. Using sand for bedding and wetting it down before loading will help make such a ride possible, says E. M. Regenbrecht, extension swine specialist.

Judge Williams Back On The Job

Judge Lewis Williams, "feeling fine" after recuperating from injuries received in an automobile accident several weeks ago, returned to the bench in 50th judicial district court Tuesday and is busy clearing a heavy court docket.

The judge, who is a candidate for re-election, was slightly injured June 5 when his car was involved in a collision with a truck on the Knox City-Benjamin highway. His full recovery has been faster than anticipated, and he has been at work at his Knox City office the past week.

Judge Williams said Tuesday, however, that his forced inactivity caused court work to pile up, and he will be busy the next two weeks trying several criminal cases and civil suits over the district, which includes Knox, King, Baylor, and Cottle counties.

"I hope to find time between court sessions," he added, "to do some active campaigning, and as soon as the court docket is cleared I will get over the district as much as possible before the primary July 28th."

Among cases tried in Knox County this week were:

Cause No. 2728, Styled The State of Texas Vs. Frank Sanchez, Burglary, sentenced to five years in the Pen. Defendant was represented by Bill Brookreson of Seymour.

Cause No. 5136, Styled Rosa Lee Barnes Vs. W. C. Barnes, Suit for Divorce, and Custody of four minor children. Divorce Granted. The Plaintiff was represented by Bill Brookreson, of Seymour.

Cause No. 5142, Styled Mary Sue Sego, Vs. Olen Sego; Suit was dismissed on motion of Plaintiff. Plaintiff was represented by Watson & Weston, of Stamford, Texas.

Cause No. 2728, Styled The State of Texas, Vs. Frank Sanchez, Charged with Burglary, sentenced to Five years in the Pen. Earl Garrison, attorney-at-law, of Seymour, Texas, represented the Defendant.

The Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention has suggested a goal of 175 new churches as the number to be started by Texas Baptists during 1956, leaders said recently in Dallas.

The SBC as a whole will seek to organize, revive, or reactivate a total of 2,666 new churches during the year. The Texas congregations would include more than 100 new churches, other reactivated churches. Some of the new mission groups, of course, will not have grown into full-size churches by the end of the year.

The SBC goal of "2,666 in '56" was set by state superintendents of missions, executive secretaries of state conventions and the Home Mission Board.
