Tariff Bill Is Finally Passed in House at Washington

LONG AND BITTER FIGHT ENDS MEASURE GOES TO PRESIDENT WHO IS EXPECTED TO APPROVE

WASHINGTON, June 14. (UP)—The Smoot-Hawley tariff bill with its increased duties on sugar, shoes, lumber, cement, bricks and nearly 2,000 other products, has been passed by congress.

It now awaits the action of President Hoover, who is confidently expected to sign it within a few days. The new law will become effective at midnight following its signature by the president.

Legislative action on the measure was completed late today when the house adopted the final form of the conference report. The vote was 222 to 153.

The senate finally approved the measure yesterday by the two-vote margin of 44 to 42.

As soon as the massive document of 536 pages is formally enrolled Monday, it will be forwarded to the president. He is expected to sign it by the end of next week, though he has 10 days in which to act.

In distinct contrast with the senate, where some of the Republican leaders were publicly dubious about the efficacy of the measure, the house Republicans rushed it through its concluding stages, jubilantly cheering. They allowed only three hours' debate.

Garner Leads Fight

Democrats, led by floor leader Representative John Garner of Texas, predicted the increased duties of the measure would wreak havoc with their Republican opponents at the polls next November.

But they were in a helpless minority, aligned against a cheerful majority, whose leaders proclaimed

SERIES OF TORNADOES DO EXTENSIVE DAMAGE

Guardsmen Are on Duty to Prevent Looting in Stricken Area

(By The Associated Press)

National guardsmen of Minnesota and Wisconsin Saturday patrolled storm wrecked areas in both states to prevent looting and aid in clearing away debris from the series of tornadoes that flicked eastern Minnesota and western Wisconsin late Friday, leaving six dead, scores injured and heavy property damage.

Near Menomonie, Wis., and at Randolph, Minn., where the storms wreaked havoc, the guardsmen were on duty. Thievery was report from both districts. It was the first time in nearly a half-century that the Monomonie guardsmen had been called on for civic duty in that vicinity.

Four communities in Minnesota, Randolph, St. Paul park, Austin vicinity and Oslo and two in Wisconsin, Eau Claire and the Menomonie vicinity, felt the storm's fury. One of the victims was killed at Randolph while the other five fatalities occurred near Menomonie.

CAPONE AGAIN IN TOILS LAW

Padlock Case Dismissed Held for Perjury

MIAMI, Fla., June 14. (AP)—Scarface Al Capone was arrested on perjury charges here today a few minutes after he won a fight against Dade county, which sought to padlock his beautiful home on Palm island as a nuisance.

County authorities, who promised to rid Miami of the Chicago gangster, charged he perjured himself in the warrants he had issued against H. D. MacReady, director of public safety, whom Capone charged with false arrest.

The gangster was held on bonds totaling $7,000 on two warrants issued on information furnished by George E. McCaskill, Dade county solicitor.

The court had ordered padlock proceedings against Capone dismissed for lack of evidence. Visibly happy, the gangster was en route to his island home when the perjury warrants were issued. They were served as soon as a deputy reached Capone at home, and the much harassed gangster returned to jail about noon and posted bond.

The warrants charge Capone swore falsely in accusing MacReady of ordering him to jail without food, water or blankets on May 8, when he was arrested. Capone's statement that MacReady told him he would arrest him or any member of his family on sight on Miami's streets, also was false, the warrants charge, as were statements that MacReady threw away the gangster's personal property and refused to allow him to telephone his attorney.

WITHHOLD DISCLOSURE OF DEMO BALLOT APPLICANTS

Decision Reached at Special Meeting of County Committee

The withdrawal of Fred K. Smith as a candidate for sheriff and the filing of his application for a place on the ballot as a candidate for constable of precinct No. 1 were the last minute developments disclosed Saturday as midnight's deadline approached for the filing of an application for a place on the Democratic primary ballot of July 26.

Names of those who had filed applications for places on the ballot were not disclosed Saturday by Judge Edgar Scurry, who said that members of the county executive committee had decided at a special meeting held early in the evening that it would be best to wait until the midnight deadline passed to give any information.

"Members of the committee deemed the action best for reasons which had best not be disclosed at present," Judge Scurry said.

Aged Man Marooned In Tree 14 Hours One Seymour Trio Rescued

BANDIT RETURNED CASH NOT NEEDED

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—He was a bandit who knew what he wanted, which was $700; and when the paying teller of the Superior State bank, at the urge of a pistol, pushed forward a package containing $5,000 yesterday, the robber objected.

"I don't need that much," he said, whereupon he carefully counted out $700, put it in his pocket, and walked out.

SEYMOUR, Texas, June 14.—Stories of the terror which the floods and head rise in Miller creek brought to the section around Goree, were retold here tonight by members of the searching party, who rescued three men from the flood waters after they had been marooned all night in the swollen stream. The three men brought in from the scene of the flood were suffering from exposure and exhaustion. All three were employes of the Douglas Oil company and were working on a rig on the Robertson ranch where the high water carried out the derrick. The men were George Sample, J. T. Klinger and Grady Hurley. Hurley and Klinger were found on the bull wheel in the middle of the flood waters about noon Saturday and Mr. Sample was located in a treetop where he had been marooned for more than 14 hours, late Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Sample, who is 74 years old, was suffering from exhaustion brought on by the continuous kicking of driftwood away from the tree, where he had taken refuge. Mr. Sample told his rescuers that

WELL FLOWING 2,000 BARRELS AT NEWCASTLE

NEWCASTLE, Texas, June 14.—Flowing a solid stream of oil at the rate of 2,000 barrels daily from the shallow sand at 690 feet, the Independent Oil and Gas company's No. 2 Larimore, located 150 feet from the east and 650 feet from the south lines of section 2246 in the "wonder pool" north of Newcastle in Young county, was brought in for a record well for this area. The well has been choked in, as the pipe line facilities will transport only 25 per cent of its output.

Expect Renewal Gann-Longworth Social Warfare

WASHINGTON, June 14. (UP)—Renewal of the social battle between Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, sister and official hostess of Vice President Curtis, and Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wife of the speaker of the house, was seen tonight in the absence of "Princess Alice," from the Brazilian ambassador's dinner to President-Elect Prestes of Brazil.

Mrs. Gann not only was present but she obtained the most coveted place in Washington society when she entered the banquet room on the arm of President Hoover.

Mrs. Longworth's name was conspicuously absent from the guest list. At her home it was said she had a previous engagement.

SEPARATE DRUG TRAFFIC FROM DRY ENFORCEMENT

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—The work of checking the drug traffic was definitely separated from prohibition enforcement today with the signing by President Hoover of a bill creating a separate bureau of narcotics under treasury jurisdiction.

The measure, passed unanimously by the house and senate, was in response to contentions that the work of preventing drug addiction and smuggling was so important it should be consolidated under a single head.

HEAVIEST RAINFALL AT HEAD IRRIGATION SYSTEM

Flood of June, 1915, Only One That Compares With Present High Water

Continuing to rise at an increasingly rapid rate, Lake Kemp, the Diversion lake, Lake Wichita, the Wichita river and Holliday creek had reached the highest points in 15 years late Saturday, covering hundreds of acres in and around Wichita Falls with their flood waters.

A drop of .2 of a foot in the depth of the Diversion lake was noted late Saturday afternoon. At the same time, however, Lake Kemp rose .1 of a foot, according to G. A. Remington, manager of irrigation districts Nos. 1 and 2. This indicates a lull in the river between the two lakes, and does not necessarily mean that the other parts of the system will begin to subside, Mr. Remington said.

Perhaps the most serious situation was to be found between Wichita Falls and Lake Wichita, where the swollen waters of Holliday creek had inundated the Municipal and Country club golf courses and

BODIES OF FOUR MEMBERS OF KNOX COUNTY FAMILY TAKEN FROM STREAM SOUTH OF GOREE

Flood waters that covered scattered parts of Texas Saturday caused extensive damage to crops and property and had taken at least six lives, in the past 24 hours. Search continued Saturday night for at least one other person missing in West Texas floods.

Surging water carried the most serious menace in Knox and Haskell counties, where approximately 10 inches of rain fell in a short time, Friday night. At Haskell 8.50 inches fell within less than five hours and at Goree more than 10 inches fell in an equally short period. At Oklaunion in Wichita county more than eight inches of rain fell Saturday within about two hours and the business section of the town was flooded.

At least four lives were lost when flood waters swept away the farm home of Oscar Tidwell, on the banks of Miller creek, 10 miles south of Goree. The rescue party abandoned hope of finding any of the five members of the Tidwell household alive, when the body of Edna Bell, 17-year-old daughter, was taken from the swollen stream late Saturday night. Previously the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Tidwell and their 8-year-old son, Oscar Jr., had been removed from the water. Mrs. W. M. Gilliland, 80-year-old mother of Mrs. Tidwell, who was also in the Tidwell home when the rise came, was still missing and the searchers continued their efforts by lantern light.

Many Aid in Search

Parties from Goree, Seymour, Throckmorton, Bomarton and other nearby towns joined in the search Saturday and late Saturday night were confronted with the problem of fording the raging stream to bring the four bodies to Goree

WHEAT CROPS YIELD RETURNS

Harvest in Full Blast Over Panhandle

AMARILLO, Texas, June 14. (UP)—Wheat which lured Hickman Price away from a $50,000-a-year position as assistant to Will Hays, motion picture commissioner, began this week to yield returns from his 15,040 acres.

Such a harvest layout as the Panhandle has never before seen was reaping the crop which was expected to exceed 200,000 bushels.

Ten caterpillar tractors draw the combines through the wheat day and night under crews working in 12-hour shifts.

All over the Panhandle the harvest is getting under way. Federal statisticians estimate the wheat crop will total 25,200,000 bushels, an average of 10½ bushels per acre for the entire state. This figure is slightly lower than the 1929 production.

Total Texas elevator capacity has been increased since last summer and is now placed around 30,000,000 bushels, with most elevators now having only small stocks on hand. This condition should preclude a repetition of last year's congestion at Texas ports when at one time 6,000 cars of grain were tied up, resulting in an embargo.

BROCK AND SCHLEE AT JACKSONVILLE, FLA., TO COMPLETE PREPARATIONS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 14. (AP)—After flying through rain squalls and bucking head winds, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, Detroit aviators, arrived here today from Atlanta in their monoplane to complete preparations for attempting a record breaking transcontinental flight.

Brock said the plane was in good condition for the flight and that he and Schlee planned to take off for San Diego, Calif., either Monday or Tuesday, depending on weather conditions.

Officers, elected at the Friday night session, were installed Saturday evening in a ceremony directed by Harold Singer at the First Presbyterian church, where the group convened following the banquet.

The federal judge completed all of his college work over 30 years ago with the exception of taking the final examination. He missed the examination because he enlisted in the Spanish-American war.

Judge Nevin received his degree in Nippert stadium along with 929 other graduates, which formed the largest senior class in the university's history.

Clamorous Demands for Cleanup Chicago Gangland Result Failure To Find Slayer Tribune Reporter

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Six days after an underworld gunman killed Alfred (Jake) Lingle in a downtown pedestrian tunnel, police tonight had announced no progress toward solving the reason for the murder or the identity of the slayer. There was no clue to indicate it might be filed alongside the cases of Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggin and the hundred other gangland mysteries.

But lack of progress in solving the assassination of the Tribune crime reporter tonight led to clamorous demands by press and public for a clean-up of gangland. Police Commissioner William Russell, friend of Lingle's and target of numerous assaults on the efficiency of the police department, today agreed to a conference Monday with the city council police committee which demanded that Russell get results or get out. Alderman Arthur Albert, who launched the attack against the police department, was named attorney for the council police committee to meet with the commissioner.

Col. Robert I. Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, called a meeting of the directors and officers of the association to consider new means of combatting gang outrages.

The newspapers were unrelenting in their sarcasm about the work of the authorities and had fresh new first page editorials calling on the citizens to force reforms by breaking up any alliance between crime and politics.

Former Bankers Fined

GUTHRIE, Okla., June 14. (UP)—C. A. Galloway and C. L. Nikkel, former Weatherford bankers, were fined $1,200 each today by Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught for violating the national banking act.

PARDON FOR THOMAS J. MOONEY AND WARREN BILLINGS ASSURED IF HIGHER COURT RECOMMENDS

LOS ANGELES, June 14. (US)—Pardon for Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings looms as a practical certainty if the California supreme court recommends executive clemency for Billings.

"A recommendation by the supreme court favorable to Billings would be extremely persuasive," was the significant statement made by Gov. C. C. Young today in an interview given to a representative of The Los Angeles Examiner and Universal Service. "It would be wonderfully conclusive."

"I shall act promptly when the supreme court submits its recommendation," was a further assertion by the governor.

Fate of Mooney and Billings, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for murder in connection with the bomb outrage of the preparedness day parade in San Francisco in 1916, are indissolubly linked in the mind of Governor Young.

"I cannot decide in the case of Mooney," the governor said, "until I am able to decide in the case of Billings. If one is innocent, both are innocent.

"I cannot decide in the case of Billings, under the law, without the recommendation of the supreme court. He is a second termer, and under the California law the governor of the state cannot pardon him unless the majority of the members of the supreme court, acting as a commission, not as a court, recommends that clemency."

Decline in Speculative Markets Extends to Principal Commodities Wheat, Cotton and Corn Affected

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Speculative markets declined broadly today. Stocks, which had weathered Friday, the 13th, bumped into an air pocket on Saturday, the 14th. Wheat broke below $1 a bushel in the Chicago grain pit and cotton lost $1.30 to $2.27 a bale on the New York cotton exchange.

Share prices were unsettled early in the two-hour session by the announcement of a reduction in the export price of copper to 12.55 cents a pound for 13 cents. Although the market's reaction to the tariff appeared to be somewhat secondary to the further easiness in commodities, professional operators for the decline used the success of the bill in the senate as capital.

The net result on the stock exchange, of the day's developments was a loss of $2 to $4 in such prominent shares as American Telephone, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, American Can, Radio, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas of New York, Bethlehem Steel, National Biscuit and Johns Manville.

The general situation in the copper market, especially recent price cuts, unsettled the shares, several of which made new lows for the year. Anaconda lost about $3, Phelps Dodge nearly $1 and American Smelting about $2.50.

The rails were also weak and several fell to new lows.

LOBBY PROBE SENATE ENDS 100 SESSIONS

Investigation One of Longest in History of Upper House

THREE THOUSAND WORDS OF TESTIMONY TAKEN

Committee Began Investigation October 15 of Last Year

WASHINGTON, June 14. (UP)—The senate investigation which has struck terror into the hearts of many Washington lobbyists is over.

The senate lobby committee has concluded its investigation, one of the longest in the history of the senate, after eight months, with nearly 3,000,000 words of testimony from almost 100 witnesses.

Reputations have been built up or damaged; expenditures of millions to influence legislation have been discovered; one man, Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, was made so famous that he became a senator; a senator, Bingham, republican, Connecticut, was censured; and the two high political leaders were attacked as a result of the testimony taken in more than 100 sessions of the committee.

The committee began its investigation Oct. 15 last year and held its last hearing Thursday. It directed its attention chiefly to legislative influences in the matters of prohibition, Muscle Shoals and the tariff.

Caraway Chairman

The investigation was authorized under a resolution by Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, who was made committee chairman, when it was learned that C. L. Eyanson, employe of the Connecticut Manufacturers association, had been hired as secretary by Senator Bingham, and taken into secret meetings of the senate finance committee. The inquiry resulted in the senate passing a resolution to censure Bingham.

The most sensational testimony of the Muscle Shoals inquiry was that Claudius Huston, chairman of the Republican national committee, used money collected for lobbying to bolster his marginal stock account. This testimony has resulted in demand's for Huston's resignation and it is expected in official circles shortly.

The prohibition inquiry brought testimony that John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is contributing thousands of dollars to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which supports wet candidates for office. This revelation has brought renewed demands from within the Democratic party for Raskob's retirement.

Perhaps the most sensational incident in the committee's whole inquiry was its argument with Bishop James Cannon Jr., which culminated with the bishop walking out of the committee room after refusing to answer questions about his political activities.

CONVENTION NEARS END OF ENDEAVOR

Mr. Singer and Clarence C. Hamilton, publication manager of International Christian Endeavor, were principal speakers Saturday evening.

Honors and awards were made Saturday by Miss Hallie B. Hutchinson of Dallas, to the following: Inventory contest, Panhandle district; flying squadron, Panhandle district; publicity—group one, Dallas district; group two, Wichita district; group three, Panhandle district; group four, Valley district.

The routine of the convention was broken for a few hours Saturday afternoon for a picnic at Lake Wichita, attended by most of the delegates. Frank Creighton was recreation chairman for the afternoon.

To Meet at Bellevue

At 7 o'clock Sunday morning, the delegates will meet at Bellevue park for an early morning outdoor devotional service, with Mrs. Pattye Horn Gilmer as leader and Clarence C. Hamilton as speaker. All delegates will attend their own churches Sunday morning.

Dr. A. E. Cory will be guest of honor at a dinner for the convention committee, state council and convention speakers to be held at the Y. W. C. A. cafeteria Sunday noon. Donald Bubar will preside.

Afternoon activities Sunday will include the finals of the oratorical contest, an address by Harold F. Lovitt and an afternoon tea for junior superintendents and sponsors. Special music will be furnished by Mary Elizabeth, Mathilde and William Donnell.

After Christian Endeavor meetings, with the delegates divided into junior, intermediate, senior and young people's groups, the entire assembly will again meet Sunday evening at 7:30 for the final service. Dr. A. E. Cory will speak on "The Supreme Task of a Christian" and W. Roy Breg will have charge of the decision service. Miss Harriet Bradley will be present as special soloist for the evening.

A total of 1,700 have registered, including local registrations, it was announced Saturday evening, making one of the largest state conventions in the history of the state association.

OIL COMPANY PERMITTTED TO PAY JUNE DIVIDENDS

GUTHRIE, Okla., June 14. (AP)—Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught today issued a permit to the Mammoth Royalty company to issue the regular dividends on June 15. The action modified an original order that all activities of the company should cease.

The hearing was in connection with the suit filed by Mrs. Jesse Fleming, Kansas City, for receivership of the company and for $10,000 damages against each of six defendants.

Other action in the case was delayed by Judge Vaught to June 28, when hearing will be held in Oklahoma City.

SMITH WILL SEEK CONSTABLE'S POST

bent, Perry Browning and George Hodgins as the candidates for sheriff.

Candidates for constable, additional to Mr. Smith, are Frank Morgan, the incumbent, Jack Berry, a candidate two years ago, and Luke Rowell.

Rumors to the effect that there would be another candidate in the race for county clerk, for which Miss Elizabeth Hall, the incumbent has been unopposed, had failed to materialize, it was said.

However, officials pointed out, legally proper applications filed by registered letter bearing postmark of before midnight Saturday would meet requirements for a place on the ticket.

Other races, according to unofficial reports, held the alignment which earlier announcements had indicated.

John P. Marrs, for county judge, Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger for district clerk, Tom McHam for county treasurer, Max Shumake for county assessor, and R. V. Gwinn, for justice of the peace, according to reports, had no opposition which had been officially filed.

The known alignment in other races, according to unofficial reports, was as follows:

Judge 30th district court—Allan D. Montgomery, the incumbent, and J. W. Akin.

District attorney—Sam B. Spence, unopposed.

County school superintendent—Burl Bryant (incumbent), J. A. Hood and Mrs. A. J. Newby.

G. O. P. County Ticket

No new names had been added late Saturday to the list of those who were drafted Thursday and Friday at meetings of the county Republican executive committee as candidates for the party nominations in Wichita county, according to information given by committeemen.

Saturday midnight, however, was the deadline for filing applications for places on the ballot and there was the possibility that such applications were in the mail awaiting delivery to O. R. Hartt, chairman of the Republican committee.

The only request that his name be withdrawn as candidate for nomination was that of Howard P. Bunch, who was "drafted" as a candidate for county school superintendent.

Declaring that he was a lifelong Democrat, Mr. Bunch "declined with thanks" to be drafted, asked that his name not be placed on the ballot and requested that the Daily Times make a correction of the article which appeared in Saturday's issue of the Record News and which included his name.

The Republican primary will be held at the same time as the Democratic, on July 26.

The list of names which had been filed for places on the ticket, up to late Saturday, follows:

DECLINE IN MARKET HITS COMMODITIES

wheat crop, and with the harvesting of the new crop already under way in the Southwest, the grain prices sagged under heavy selling by large holders today.

July wheat, after falling below the dollar a bushel mark in the morning, rallied and again sank to 99 cents. It then moved upward to close at 99½ cents. With the exception of last year when the United States produced the largest crop since the war, this was the first time that July wheat had gone under the dollar mark.

All grains on the exchange sold at new low figures for all months, under the general rush to sell and get out from under. Rye set a new mark at 50½ cents, the lowest since 1904.

Europe produced a bumper crop last year and during the past 12 months has consumed less wheat than normal. The two facts combined to severely lessen imports, with the United States suffering the most. Wheat grown in North America has a higher protein value, normally, than foreign wheat and sells at a higher price. Some traders claim to see a world combine to refuse United States wheat. While Canada's export trade dropped off more than America's, that country had an exceptionally poor crop year in 1929, suffering severely from drouth. The Canadian pool still has a surplus on hand but it is small compared to the surplus in this country. Other nations have very little surplus wheat and the European importing nations have let their socks run so low they must buy soon.

Drowns in Shallow Well

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 14. (AP)—Robert W. Shankland, 72, an employe of the M-K-T railroad, drowned in less than 12 inches of water in an abandoned well here this afternoon. He had been in poor health, and had just returned from a hospital in Parsons, Kan.

DEMAND HEAVY FOR PLACES AT BYRD'S PARTY AT CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, June 14. (US)—For a quarter of a century returning explorers have come to Washing explorers have come to eries before the National Geographic society, but no demand for seats has ever exceeded that which has deluged the society for the appearance of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd here next Friday evening.

With all of the 5,000 seats allotted 10,000 applications have been regretfully denied for the address of Admiral Byrd, and the presentation of the society's special gold medal of honor by President Hoover, it was announced today.

Arriving in Washington on a special train Friday morning will be the 42 men who spent 14 months on the ice and some 40 other men who played essential parts in the expedition, either in New Zealand or in manning the ships on their perilous trips through the pack ice.

On board this special train will be Admiral Byrd and Mrs. Byrd and their son, Richard Byrd Jr., Admiral Byrd's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Bolling Byrd, a party of her guests and former Governor and Mrs. Harry Flood Byrd, of Virginia, and Capt. Thomas Byrd.

President Hoover will receive the entire expedition party, of some 80 men, at the White House, at 12:30 o'clock. At 1:30 o'clock they will be guests of the trustees of the National Geographic society at luncheon.

PATROLLING STORM WRECKED AREAS

occurred on the farm of Charles Wolbert. Besides Wolbert and his wife, Louis Haines, Mrs. Karl Kaiser and Lorraine Roach, 15, were killed. William Drappe, section foreman, was killed at Randolph, when a box car was blown over him.

The number of injured was estimated at 150, but most suffered bruises or cuts from flying glass and splinters. About 25 persons were treated for hurts at Menomonie, but only five remained in hospitals there.

Estimates of the property damage were generally placed at $1,000,000. The greatest loss was believed to have been at Eau Claire and vicinity, where damage to homes and nearby farms was listed at $400,000. At Randolph, where only about a dozen places were unaffected, the loss was estimated at $100,000. Damage near Menomonie was set at $200,000.

Return to Homes

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, June 14. (UP)—Residents of northwestern Iowa began to return slowly to their homes tonight as flood waters which drove them away and caused damage estimated at $1,000,000 began to recede.

Farm crops, still under from two to six feet of water in some places along the banks of the Missouri river, were believed a total loss, while damage in Sioux City, where basements still were flooded today, was estimated at more than $500,000.

Floods were caused by cloudbursts which were accompanied by hailstorms.

CORPUS CHRISTI LEADS IN BUILDING PERMITS

DALLAS, June 14. The totals of these four cities were noticeably low for the week. San Antonio's weekly total was $57,138.

SIX KNOWN DEAD IN TEXAS FLOODS

where tentative plans provide for funeral services Sunday.

The bodies were brought to the bank on the far side of the stream and only one boat, that containing the Goree searching party, has crossed the stream since Friday night. Early Sunday morning relatives and friends were preparing to start a boat, carrying the bodies of the four victims, across the stream to the Goree side.

Search continued until late Saturday for the C. C. Palmer family of four in the Lake Creek community, five miles south of Munday. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer were found safe at the home of a neighbor, where they had sought refuge from the floods which submerged their home, early Saturday morning. They were located Saturday night after anxious friends had searched for several hours for their bodies in the belief that they had perished in the flood.

Three Rescued

Three others marooned by the high water in Miller creek, in the neighborhood of the Tidwell home, were rescued by a searching party from Seymour, Saturday afternoon. J. T. Klinger and Grady Hurley, employes on the Douglas Oil company lease, south of Goree, were located on a bull wheel in the middle of the stream about noon and were brought to safety.

The third member of the party, George Sample, 74, was brought to Seymour late Saturday afternoon after being marooned in a tree-top for more than 14 hours. He was suffering from exhaustion and exposure. The constant kicking at driftwood to prevent its tearing down the tree in which he had taken refuge, had exhausted the aged man.

Lindsey Phillips, 15, of Mexia, was drowned this morning when the car in which he was riding with Leonard Cherry, 15, also of Mexia, left the road between Streetmun and Fairfield, on federal highway No. 75, and submerged in a creek. The creek was bank full. Cherry saved himself by swimming ashore. He was unable to rescue his companion.

P. C. Lee of Luling was drowned in a similar manner last night when his car was swept off the road into raging waters.

Boats on Streets

Residents of the lower section of Haskel county were forced to flee their homes in row boats when the waters rose waist deep in their homes. Bales of cotton floated through the streets.

Damage was heavy at Oklaunion. Nearly a foot of water was standing in most business houses of the little village tonight. The cloudburst washed out hundreds of acres of crops and flooded dozens of residents. Traffic was blocked for several hours over state highway No. 5, near the town, and the underpass at the Denver railroad crossing was filled with water. Scores of motorists were marooned during the downpour.

In Munday, Olney, Haskell, Oklaunion and other scattered towns in West Texas water flowed into the business houses and lower floors of residences, forcing residents of the lower sections of those cities to abondon their homes. Damage to property and crops in the Munday vicinity of Haskell county county was estimated at more than $100,000.

Extensive damage was reported to highways in Haskell, Knox and Throckmorton counties. More than 100 yards of pavement was washed out on the Seymour-Goree highway where it crosses Miller creek. Damage was also reported to the Seymour-Throckmorton highway under construction. A construction camp housing 100 men was wiped out by the floods on Elm creek in Throckmorton county and 10 automobiles and a large quantity of construction and camp equipment was carried away by the high water.

Rail traffic over the Wichita Valley and Wichita Falls and Southern was at a standstill Saturday night and repair crews were busy mending great breaks in the tracks. More than 3,000 feet of track was reported out on the Wichita Valley between Stamford and Weinert. Breaks were also reported near Goree and at Haskell. The Wichita Falls and Southern reported breaks on either side of Olney.

Three miles of Orient railroad trackage were washed out in Coke county, where rainfall approximated eight inches in the past 24 hours.

Downpours were general over the state during the day and in most sections the damage was offset by the aid to growing crops.

Highest in 57 Years

NEWCASTLE, Texas, June 14.—The Brazos river near Newcastle reached the highest mark that has been made in 54 years according to old-timers who live on the banks of the river. Water backing up from the river to the pumping system used in supplying the city's water, put the system out of order and promises a drouth in a flood of water, unless engineers are able to restore the pumps in a few days.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 acres of farm land and 30,000 acres of pasture land was flooded by the river Saturday, causing the loss of some stock. Two bridges on highway No. 120 from Newcastle to Throckmorton, have been washed out and all traffic is shut off between the two towns. The Brazos river was continually rising until 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Since that time the flood has remained at the same mark.

Oklaunion Flooded

VERNON, Texas, June 14.—Rain continued to fall here today after starting late Friday night, and the total for the city was reported at 1.25 inches late this afternoon. The downpour covered the county generally. Late reports indicate that the damage to crops in the Oklaunion community, where an eight-inch rain fell in an hour and a half this morning, will run high. Fields were badly washed and hundreds of acres of cotton land will have to be replanted. Traffic was resumed on highway No. 5 this afternoon after being suspended most of the day because of the flooded condition at the Denver underpass near Oklaunion. The underpass was damaged by the torrential rain and trains are crossing it carefully.

Bridge Washes Out

GRAHAM, Texas, June 14.—A bridge across the Gooseneck creek four miles southeast of here on highway No. 24 was washed out Saturday morning by flooded conditions arising from a heavy rain during the night. Traffic on the highway has been shut off to Newcastle.

Highways Damaged

ALTUS, Okla., June 14.—A few culverts were washed out and highways were flooded by almost two inches of rain which fell in torrents in Jackson county Saturday morning. Slight loss of chickens and turkeys was reported. Growing cotton suffered.

BUSY SESSION CLUB WOMEN

Strenuous Work for Delegates at Denver

DENVER, Colo., June 14. (UP)—It was a strenuous week for delegates to the 20th biennial convention of the general federation of women's clubs—a week in which they endorsed prohibition, peace prison reform and cleaner motion pictures.

The women, representatives of 3,000,000 members of the club, were en route home tonight after expressions of gratification with the meeting which ended today.

Perhaps the most important act of the federation was the almost unanimous approval given of rigid enforcement of the prohibition laws.

A resolution stating there were "sinister influences" seeking to undermine the efficacy of the 18th amendment and asking the federation to pledge its continued support of the act was adopted.

The delegates also urged speedy ratification by the senate's London naval treaty and the pan-American treaty of arbitration.

The delegates decided to encourage all good citizens to cooperate with officials responsible for prison administration and other constructive agencies in their efforts to bring about a more earnest study of the causes of crime and its prevention and to develop adequate measures of reform.

Mrs. John F. Sippel of Baltimore, Md., was re-elected president by the delegates and will hold office until 1932 when the next convention will be held in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Sippel today announced the following appointments to the executive committee:

SMOOT-HAWLEY MEASURE PASSES

their bill would be a boon to suffering agriculture and industry.

Defending the bill of which he is co-author, Chairman Willis C. Hawley of the house ways and means committee, lauded the general protective principle.

Hawley spoke of the measure as an agricultural bill, although he said its protection would be nationwide, not sectional. The South, he said, received more protection than from any previous measure. Agriculture was generously treated, he said.

"The bill is the most scientific ever drawn," he contended to his colleagues—therein differing from Senator Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania, who declared the opposite in senate debate.

"I must condemn the propaganda in the press against the measure," Hawley said. "Such propaganda is fostered by interests which want foreign goods to get into this country."

Called Farm Bill

The Oregonian denied the argument of the Democrats that the bill would cost the farm five to ten times as much in increased duties on products he buys as he gets on products he sells. The average Iowa farmer, said Hawley, will get more than twice as much for his products as he will pay on the products he buys. When his figures were questioned he said they came from the department of agriculture.

In reply, the Democratic tariff leader, Representative Garner of Texas, charged Hawley with "double-crossing" his colleagues on the lumber schedule, because he failed to get the tariff on shingles. The Texan said that whenever a vote came before the house to be voted upon, the house fixed the lowest possible duty. The house and senate conferees, he said, always agreed on the highest possible duty.

The tariff commission also was denounced by Garner for issuing statistics favorable to the bill.

"They have been acting as the agents for Republican propaganda when they should be non-partisan," he asserted.

Garner relinquished the floor with the admission that he could not change any further votes by debate.

The bill was bitterly assailed by many Democrats, including O'Connor and Black, New York, and Crisp, Georgia. A number of Republicans defended it.

Highest Ever Passed

The bill is the highest tariff law ever proposed in the United States. Its sponsors say it will raise existing duties generally about six per cent while its opponents contend the actual figure is nearer 20 per cent.

In dollars, advocates of the measure deduce it will add $107,000,000 to the tariff duties and make the total around $630,000,000 on the basis of imports in 1928. Democrats assert the cost of the measure will ultimately be a billion dollars when the increased cost of domestic products are considered. They call the measure "the Grundy billion dollar tariff bill."

While there are no figures showing the increases which are accepted by both sides, the minimum statement of the boosts is contained in the following table, compiled by advocates of the bill, comparing existing law with the proposed law:

Chemicals, oils and paints	28.92	31.07
Earths, earthenware and glassware	45.52	53.45
Metals and manufacturers of	33.71	34.95
Wood and manufacturers of	15.84	15.65
Sugar, molasses and manufacturers of	67.85	77.21
Tobacco and manufacturers of	63.09	64.78
Agricultural products and provisions	22.29	34.99
Spirits, wines and other beverages	36.48	47.44
Manufacturers of cotton	40.27	46.42
Flax, hemp, jute and manufacturers of	18.16	19.14
Wool and manufacturers of	49.54	59.83
Manufacturers of silk	56.56	59.13
Manufacturers of Rayon	52.68	53.62
Papers and books	24.52	25.04
Sundries	20.98	26.54
Total average for all scheduled	34.59	40.97

The central points of dispute in the bill were the increases granted on sugar, shoes, hides, lumber, cement and bricks.

Boosts Sugar

The Cuban sugar duty is boosted from 1.76 cents a pound to 2 cents; shoes were taken from the free list and given a duty of 20 per cent, the relates hides duty being fixed at 10 per cent.

Lumber, cement and bricks also were removed from the free list and subjected to the following duties: Cement, 6 cents per 100 pounds; bricks, $1.25 per thousand; soft lumber, $1 per thousand feet.

The agricultural schedule carries the greatest percentage of increases, the measure was originally designed to benefit the farmer and little protest was offered, except by eastern congressmen, to the enlargement of tariffs on farm products.

Butter, now 8 cents per pound, would be 15 cents; cattle, now 1½ and 2 cents per pound, would be 2½ and 3 cents; wool, now 31 cents, would be 34 cents; hides, now free, would be 10 per cent.

The administrative changes of the measure are but little changed from the existing law. Nearly all of the tariff commission reforms advocated or adopted in the senate have been eliminated in the final draft.

The tariff commission will sit as now with three Republicans and three Democratic members. Instead of reporting the differences in cost of production to the president, it will be empowered to recommend to him rate changes within 50 per cent of existing duties. The president will be required to accept or veto this rate. He cannot himself fix a rate.

The debenture plan of farm relief, thrice voted by the senate, also has been eliminated.

Arrangements already are being made by customs officials for speedy proclamation of the new law. Drafts of the new rates have been sent to customs inspectors who will be required to collect the new duties as soon as the law is effective.

AGED MAN CAUGHT IN TREE 14 HOURS

he was down the creek some distance from the derrick attending to a water pump, when he noticed the heavy cloud, hanging low in the west. He saw the water rising and tried to warn his companions down the stream but was swept off his feet before he could reach the derrick. He caught to a tree which he climbed as the water rose and swung to it frantically for 14 hours until his rescue late Saturday.

Auto Stranded

The two younger men were in the automobile getting ready to leave when the rise caught them. The water rose so rapidly that it made it impossible for them to leave and they sought shelter in the derrick. The derrick was soon swept from its foundation and carried down the stream for several hundred yards. They managed to climb to the timbers and when rescued were still holding on to parts of the derrick.

The trio was rescued by a searching party headed by Seymour people after the alarm had been given by Clarence Herman and A. J. Jones, members of the day tower, who had gone to relieve the three men on the well. Otto Sample, in charge of the Douglas company operations here, organized the searching party and with motor boats went to the rescue of the marooned men as soon as they were located.

Tanks and other equipment on the lease have not been found. A Buick belonging to George Sample and a Ford belonging to Klinger, were also swept away by the flood waters and had not been located Saturday night.

LUCEY AND FARRELL TO ATTEND SHORT COURSE

Dr. L. I. Lucey, veterinary physician here, and Dr. J. M. Farrell of the city health department, have gone to College Station to attend the annual short course for veterinarians at the Agricultural and Mechanical college, sponsored by the State Veterinary Medical association, it was announced Saturday.

The course will begin Monday and will deal with all phases of veterinary science, with authorities on the various subjects from all parts of the nation conducting the lectures and discussions. The course will last four days, Dr. Lucey said.

ATLANTA HOT FOR ROBINS; EX-CRACKERS IN BIG PUSH

ATLANTA, Ga., June 14. (AP)—Flatbush isn't pulling any harder for Wilbert Robinson's Dodgers to win the National league crown than Atlanta.

Four of the Robin stars used to play with the Atlanta club of the Southern association and several others sprouted in the same league.

LAKES AND RIVERS AT RECORD LEVELS

At Lake Wichita itself, the depth had increased to 20 feet, three feet over the spillway and a foot and a half more than the depth of the lake four weeks ago when the same area was flooded by the creek overflow. The water had risen above the 30-inch screen at the spillway and was beginning to trickle over the bridge. Scores of small fish, thrown from the screen on the bridge, had been run over by automobiles crossing the bridge.

Immediately beyond Lake Wichita, where the rains of Friday night and Saturday morning were said to be considerably heavier than in the city, acres of cotton stood in water ranging from a few inches to a foot deep. The drainage from this vast area will keep the lake rising at its present rate of an inch or more per hour for some time, city water department officials say.

At the head of the irrigation system was found the heaviest rainfall, the precipitation at Lake Kemp totaling six inches between midnight Friday and early Saturday morning. Lake Kemp was also rising at the rate of about a foot per hour.

New Records Set

The Diversion lake reached a new depth record, going 3.4 feet over the spillway late Saturday after having continued its steady rise throughout the day, and emptying thousands of gallons of water into the narrow stream of the Wichita river.

At a late hour Saturday, the river had risen to set a new record for at least the past few years. It was feared that the continuance of the rapid rises in Holliday creek and the Wichita river would result in disaster at the point where the two meet, southeast of the city.

Hundreds of cars were forced to turn back or were stalled on Lake Park drive, the water being several inches deeper than it was four weeks ago, when cars were barely able to travel through the water. From the Landon Cullum home in Country Club Estates, the road in front of the Weeks stables and Weeks park looked like a huge lake, the tops of trees dotting it.

The only record which compares with the present one in the matter of rising floodwaters is that established in June, 1915, when a hard rain up the Wichita valley and in the city sent the creek and river out of banks to such an extent that rowboats were seen on Scott avenue and other downtown streets. The disaster that year was said at that time to be the worst of its sort since 1899.

POPULATION OF WEWOKA REPORTED TO BE 10,388

WEWOKA, Okla., June 14. (UP)—Official and complete census returns reported today by C. C. Hawk, Shawnee, district supervisor, showed that Wewoka has a population of 10,388.

With Seminole having a population of 10,332, the two Seminole county cities rank 15th and 16th in the state. Figures for both cities have been revised from original announcements several weeks ago.

Population of Seminole county was not altered over the first announcement, the count being 78,469. Seminole county now ranks the third largest in the state, being exceeded by Oklahoma and Tulsa counties.

FORDS LEAD ALL OTHERS OKLAHOMA REGISTRATION

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP)—Fords led all other makes of automobiles in number of new cars registered in Oklahoma during May Secretary Ed McDonald of the state highway commission said today.

Of the 5,801 new cars registered, 2,452 were fords and 1,977 were Chevrolets.

Of the 549 new trucks registered, 220 were Chevrolets and 196 were Fords and 188 were Dodge trucks.

MILLER OPENS CAMPAIGN IN WOOD COUNTY

Lieutenant Governor Gives Views on State Problems at Mineola

CANDIDATE ADVOCATES READJUSTMENT OF TAXES

Opposes State Bonds for Building Highways Over Texas

MINEOLA, Texas, June 13. (UP)—Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller of Dallas opened his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor here Saturday afternoon and enunciated his views on taxation, public education, highways, prisons and law enforcement.

It was his first political address of the present campaign and was made in Wood county, he said, as an expression of gratitude for the large majorities given him here in past elections. Miller recalled that in the race for lieutenant governor in 1928 against a field of five candidates he carried every Wood county box except two.

"I am not making this race on the issues of the last national election or upon the issues of the next national election," he said at the outset of his address. "Texas is confronted with grave internal problems and I will devote my energies to these matters."

Declaring that many counties of the state are "absolutely bankrupt," Miller said the question of taxation was one of the fundamental problems now confronting the people. "The burdens resting upon the taxpayers," he added, "are as much as they can bear and the solution depends upon the economic administration of the state's affairs."

Tax Readjustment

He advocated a readjustment of the laws of the state so that taxes may be equitably distributed and fall lightest upon those who are least able to pay them.

Having always been a friend of labor, organized and unorganized, the candidate pointed to his official and political record as his platform pledge to them should he be elected governor.

In discussing his views on public education, Miller asserted that his only temptation to extravagance in the governor's office would be for the upbuilding of public schools from the "little red schoolhouse" to the highest educational institution in the state.

"I believe in highways as one of the greatest developers of the state, but," he said, "highways should be built on a cash basis." He opposed issuing state bonds and favored the present method of securing road money by a gasoline tax and other revenues now going into the department.

Miller pledged himself to a fearless enforcement of all laws.

In conclusion he said much money can be saved the people by cutting out unnecessary extra sessions of the legislature and putting "real farmers" at the head of prison farms. He opposed spending money in either rehabilitating the present prison system or building a new one and urged development of what is said to be a potential oil field on one of the prison farms and using the oil income to pay prison costs.

Must Have Special Permit

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP)—State Highway Engineer A. R. Losh said today that after July 1 truck operators must obtain a special permit before they can haul in excess of the 16,000-pound per axle maximum load as provided by law. Before the special permit is granted the truck owners must show they are making attempts to obtain new equipment.

It is expected that this rule will continue in force until a sufficient number of pilots are available to accommodate a 24-hour service.

AIMEE LANDS AT NEW YORK

Returns Alone From Trip to Points in Europe

NEW YORK, June 14. (INS)—Looking younger and blonder than when she went abroad three months ago, Aimee Semple McPherson returned alone today on the S. S. Europa, and while the giant North Lloyd liner lay fog-bound in the harbor the chic evangelist guarded her bottles of the Jordan's sacred water and talked enthusiastically of her trip to the Holy Land.

She was a study in brown—brown satin dress with a fashionable brown cape of the same material, caught at the neck with a coquettish bow; brown baku hat, with a large uniquely shaped brim and brown suede pumps.

Aimee was glad to be back, and she didn't want to talk about the problems or the sins of Europe. Conditions in Russia, which she had not visited, she said were "deplorable," but she had no solution to offer. Paris she had only seen for one day, so could not discuss its present state of wickedness.

She wanted to tell the world how marvelous the trip had been and how much she had been inspired by it all—especially the Easter service in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem, the sanctuary in which she had stood for hours on a high balcony watching the ceremony of the Holy Flame.

There was no dispension in the pilgrimage she led to Europe, Aimee stoutly maintained, and she did not disappear while they were in the Holy Land, as reported.

"We received that report over there and all laughed about it," she said.

After the trip to Egypt, where she spoke from a pyramid, and the Easter pilgrimage to the Holy Land the party had disbanded as originally planned, splitting really into three parts, she explained.

She and her daughter, Roberta, had gone on a more extended trip, and in Turkey Roberta had fallen while on a boat and severely injured herself. This had delayed them.

When Roberta recovered they had gone on to England, where they parted, Roberta going to Ireland, to remain a year with relatives, and her mother sailing for home.

She must hasten on to California, she said.

"I'd love to remain in New York a while, but they have cabled me that there are 157 students waiting for me to graduate them from my theological seminary and 32 June weddings waiting for me to perform the ceremony, so I must get back to my people."

ARMSTRONG TAKES OFF FOR NEW YORK CITY—TO RETURN WITH NEW PLANE

A Fokker Super Universal plane, belonging to the Fokker Aircraft company, operated by Pilot Robbins, landed at Staley field at 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning from Little Rock, Ark., and departed about 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon with Fulcher Armstrong, president of the Wichita Falls Air Transport company, as a passenger for New York. Mr. Armstrong will return within a few days by way of Detroit, Mich., and will bring a new Lycoming Stinson plane to be used by the company here.

A Lockheed-Vega, belonging to the Parks Air college of St. Louis, landed at Staley field at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning, en route to St. Louis from Los Angeles, Calif. Clyde E. Brayton was piloting the plane.

A Curtiss-Robin plane, owned by the Kennedy-Rousey company of Fort Worth, landed Friday noon, en route to Amarillo. The plane was piloted by Boyd Kennedy.

Rockefeller Theatrical Venture to Exploit Television, Talkies, and Plays Under Newly-Adopted Plans

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—The New York Times today says a huge theatrical venture which will exploit television, talking pictures and plays will be established on the mid-town site assembled by John D. Rockefeller Jr., for erection of an opera house.

The property, located between Fifth and Sixth avenues and 48th and 51st streets, had been rejected by the Metropolitan Opera company.

The projected plans call for erection of three skyscrapers, one of which will rise 60 stories. The real estate investment is estimated at $200,000,000 and the cost of the three skyscrapers and other buildings estimated at another $150,000,000.

The Times says that after collapse of the opera house plan, Mr. Rockefeller was persuaded that opera was an aristocratic enterprise and that real democratic benevolence would be to give the site to modern popular forms of entertainment.

The newspaper says the new plan is sponsored by Radio-Keith-Orpheum, the National Broadcasting company and the General Electric company and calls for the housing of four theaters.

Ryal Henderson and family will move here this week from Healdton, Okla., where they have lived for several years.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN JERUSALEM AS RESULT DEATH SENTENCE THREE

JERUSALEM, June 14. (AP)—Great excitement prevailed throughout Hebron today when it became established that the death sentence would be carried out Tuesday on three Arabs concerned in the recent disturbances.

The high commissioner had commuted the death sentences of 22 other Arabs and there had been much agitation since in favor of clemency to the remaining three.

A deputation waited on the district officer of Hebron today and handed him a telegram for transmission to the high commissioner to be forwarded to the crown appealing for commutation of the other sentences.

A general strike in Jerusalem protesting against the sentences has been called for tomorrow.

WATCHMAN INJURED IN BATTLE WITH BURGLARS FAIL TO GET PAY ROLL

FORT WORTH, June 14. (AP)—Three burglars who, after overpowering the night watchman and binding him with wire, worked for more than two hours Friday night and early Saturday ripping a hole in the safe of the City Packing company, failed to obtain the company's pay roll that was in the money compartment. The watchman, Frank Davis, 40, was injured slightly in the battle with the burglars.

Davis reported that 11:30 p. m. Friday he had gone out to the gate of the company to let a peddler, who makes a nightly visit to the company to purchase supplies, out of the gate with his horse and wagon. Davis said that after the peddler had gone he started to close the gate.

As he closed the gate three men appeared from inside the plant, one of whom thrust a pistol in Davis' side. Davis said that he was quickly overpowered and his hands tied behind with wire.

PETITIONS AND CROSS ACTIONS CITY DRILLING

Oklahoma Case Threatens To Swamp Courts With Litigation

THOUSANDS OF PROTESTS ON THREATENED DRILLING

Score of Injunction Suits Have Been Set for Hearing Next Week

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP)—Legal barriers which have checked the invasion of oil derricks into the city threatened tonight to swamp Oklahoma courts with a maze of litigation.

Petitions and cross petitions filed by city and state officials and owners of town lots on proved oil production already have resulted in an expense.

Owners of small lots demand the right to drill for oil. City officials and more recently state officials, protest the spread of city drilling on the grounds that oil field fire and wild well hazards imperil their homes, and that the noise of drilling would make rest impossible.

Spirited Fight

With the contest laid upon these grounds, the fight has been spirited from the time an oil company successfully contested the city's authority to prohibit drilling on small town lots until today when a similar but not identical case reached the supreme court.

The case argued before the supreme court was that of C. C. Julian and W. J. Wellman for appointment of a receiver of a boulevard on which the operators wish to drill in defiance of city orders. Julian recently entered the Oklahoma oil business after being involved in the Julian oil litigation in California, much of which still occupy the state's dockets.

Attempts to develop a boulevard into an oil field is only an instance of the freak development resulting from the intensive drilling campaign that followed the discovery of oil at the city's boundary. Other operators decided that a river will not deprive them of a chance to get their share of oil profits. So they drove piles in the Canadian river for the cellar of the well. The city dump has been staked for locations.

Thousands of Protests

Thousands of protests on threatened drilling in residential districts will be filed with the city council next week. These protests will form the basis for injunction suits as fast as operators drill, officials said.

Eighty volunteer workers from the exclusive Lincoln terrace addition, near the state capitol building, have started the task of getting 50,000 signatures protesting city drilling.

A score of injunction suits have been set for hearing next week. Suits and requests for investigation and regulation of certain types of drilling have been filed.

Meanwhile, production and drilling activities continued to increase in the south city field which has proved the potentialities of urban areas, oil men believe.

ONCE AGAIN SECRETARY SAVES 'THE OLD SOAK'

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Once again Secretary Stimson has rescued his pet Chinese speaking parrot "The Old Soak" from an uncertain fate.

When the secretary went to London as chief of the American delegation to the London naval conference "The Old Soak" was turned over to the Pan-American union for safe keeping along with several other of his kind, housed in the palm garden of the Pan-American building. The noisy chatter of the parrot, however, caused him to be exiled to a spot where he was his only listener.

Secretary Stimson has restored the bird to his old stand at his home, "Woodley."

When he came to Washington from the Philippines, Secretary Stimson left the parrot behind, but later had him shipped to this country when he was informed that the bird was pining for him.

Herman Continues To Set Fast Pace For Swat Honors

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Another week of the 1930 baseball season is history and still Babe Herman clings to his National league batting championship, according to figures including Wednesday's games. The slugging Brooklyn outfielder dropped four points in five games, but his .415 average tops his nearest rival by eight points.

Riggs Stephenson, back in the Cubs' lineup after a layoff, maintained his rank as runnerup to the Robbins' slugger, although losing five points in six games. His average at the end of Wednesday's game read .407, just one point more than Bill Terry, the Giants's powerful hitter. Chuck Klein moved into a threatening position as he clubbed out 15 hits in five games to move up into fourth place among the regulars with an average of .400.

While keeping his position at the head of the batting column, Herman was forced to relinquish a few of his other honors. Terry took the leadership in runs and hits, counting 53 of the former and cracking out 82 of the latter, two more than his Brooklyn rival.

Hack Wilson, who is showing the way in home runs with 18, was not so powerful in driving in runs during the week, Klein going out in front. The Phillies' clouter has driven in 59—14 during the week—to lead Wilson by five runs. Walter Berger of the Braves trails Hack by one home run.

Frankie Frisch failed to hit a double during the week's play, but held on to the leadership with 21 two-base blows. Kiki Cuyler added one triple to increase his advantage to two over his team mate, Woody English. Kiki has cracked out nine three base hits. He also holds the honor in base stealing with 15 thefts, two more than last week.

Behind the quartet of leading batters follow: Hogan, New York, .402; Heilman, Cincinnati, .395; P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .386; Bissonette, Brooklyn, .380; Frisch, St. Louis, .368; and Grantham, Pittsburgh, and O'Doul, Philadelphia, .365.

Adolfo Luque, the veteran Cuban, chalked up another victory to maintain his position at the head of the pitchers' column. He has won six games without a defeat while Bob Osborn of Chicago ranks second with four victories and no defeats. Brooklyn lost three points in club batting but still leads the league with an average of .324 while Cincinnati clung to its fielding leadership at .977.

PARALYSIS CLAIMS LIFE TEXARKANA U. S. JUDGE

TEXARKANA, Texas, June 14. (UP)—Paralysis resulting from an attack of acute indigestion claimed the life of Federal Judge William Lee Estes of the eastern Texas district at his home here today. He was 64 and had been on the federal bench 10 years.

Stricken while holding court in Beaumont Tuesday, he hurried home, but paralysis crept over him, he grew steadily worse, and succumbed today.

Death came at a time when he was being considered for judge of the United States court of circuit appeals at New Orleans. He had been recommended for the place by Senator Morris Sheppard.

His widow and two daughters, Mrs. John W. Mayo and Miss Evelyn Estes, all of Texarkana, survive.

After graduation from the University of Texas in 1893, Judge Estes moved here to practice law until his federal appointment was made. He was former president of the board of education here, a member of the American Bar association and the Texas bar, and was affiliated with the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

MOTHERS HEAR GEN. PERSHING

Addresses Gold Star Group At Memorial Service

PARIS, June 14. (US)—"Their added strength and courage provided the balance necessary to wrest the initiative from the enemy, and their presence soon brought glorious victory to the side of right."

Thus in his own words, their then commander in chief, General John J. Pershing today summarizes the part played by American camps in France in the winning of the World war 12 years ago.

Much has been said and written in the wordy debate on the subject of who won the war, and General Pershing has been one of those notably silent despite the pressure put upon him for his opinion.

Speaking in measured phrases before a group of American gold star mothers and others at a memorial service, the general said:

"Although more than a decade has passed, it seems but yesterday that these silent comrades left their homes to answer the call of civilization. On European battlefields, they found the worn and tired allies forced to give way before the powerful attacks of a numercially superior foe.

"In this great crisis of the war, our hastily trained American troops were hurried forward to aid the allies where the need was most urgent. Eager, resolute, thinking only of their task, each sought the privilege if need be of laying the precious gift of life itself upon the altar of freedom."

YOUNG HOOVER TO VISIT HIS MOTHER AT CAMP

WASHINGTON, June 14. (US)—Allan Hoover, son of the president, returned from Harvard today to be at the White House over Sunday and Monday. He will then go to the camp at Rapidan, where his mother is slowly recovering from an injury to her back, to be with her for one week.

After that the young man's vacation will be devoted to actual work with very little pay. He is taking a course in business administration. Part of it requires that during vacation he must work at his profession.

He is to go to work with the American Radiator company one of the corporations which offer practical instruction to the students. His pay will be nominal.

Mrs. Hoover will remain at the camp for at least two weeks more. Her condition is not regarded as serious, but she will require a long rest and relief from the exacting duties of a White House hostess, Capt. Joel T. Boone, her physician stated. He motored to the camp today to learn how his patient is progressing.

CHICAGO BREWERY BURNS VALUE MILLION DOLLARS

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—A $1,000,000 brewery through which Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, beer barons, were reputed to have made their fortunes was destroyed by fire today.

The plant, a five-story brick structure at Twenty-first street and Albany avenue on the Southwest side, occupied a full block. The blaze started on the second story from an undetermined cause. The entire fire fighting equipment of the west and southwest divisions was called out, but the flames had spread throughout the brewery before firemen arrived. Soon afterward, the roof caved in carrying a water tower with it. The flames shot hundreds of feet in the air and attracted a crowd estimated at 15,000.

The brewery, first of a string operated by Druggan and Lake, was padlocked in 1926. A year later they obtained permission to re-open it as the Troy Ice and Beverage company.

COMMISSION AND MOTOR BUS OWNERS TO CONFER AT AUSTIN ON JUNE 23

AUSTIN, June 14. (AP)—A conference between members of the railroad commission and motor bus operators in West and Northwest Texas in an effort to arrange better operating schedules will be held June 23 at Mineral Wells, Mark Marshall, director of the motor transportation division, stated today. Schedules in the district bounded by San Angelo, Amarillo and El Paso will be taken under consideration and revised to effect the most efficient transportation system, he said.

It also was announced that the commission would hold a hearing at Brownsville Monday to act on applications to operate a motor bus and freight lines. A similar meeting will be held Tuesday at McAllen.

The commission also said that a hearing on protests against the licensing of motor freight lines would be held at Mineral Wells June 21.

OKLAHOMA POTATO GROWERS HAVE SHIPPED 1,500 CARS

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP)—Oklahoma potato growers have shipped approximately 1,500 carloads of potatoes this year, state market commission officials said today. It is expected that state growers will dig approximately 2,300 carloads before the season closes.

Rains have retarded digging, especially in Muskogee county, the largest growing district in the state.

Ben and Babe Put On Real Show for Moviedom Capital

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., June 14. (US)—Bebe Daniels' and Ben Lyon's wedding tonight perhaps was not the only wedding in Hollywood but it was the most splendid and drew the biggest attendance.

The movie capital hadn't seen anything like it since the last world premiere.

The private ball room of the Beverly Wilshire hotel had been beautifully decorated for the wedding ceremony, and no less resplendent was the still larger public ball room for the reception which was to follow.

Louella O. Parsons was matron of honor.

Bebe came down the aisle, gowned in hand-woven Italian satin, her veil of Burano lace.

The ritual, read by the Rev. James H. Lash of the First Congregational church of Hollywood, was brief and simple.

And then followed the reception.

While only 150 of those closest and dearest to the bridal couple had been invited to witness the wedding ceremony itself, almost 1,000 had been bidden to the reception.

NEW BONDS PREPARED IN CASE S. E. J. COX

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (AP)—New bonds of $12,500 were prepared today by attorneys for S. E. J. Cox, a promoter of the Universal Oil and Gas company, following refusal of federal authorities at Guthrie to accept properties listed by bondsmen at the time Cox was arrested several weeks ago on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Fred Waggoner, assistant U. S. district attorney, said the bondsmen in all cases had filed mortgaged property. All three are professional bondsmen, he said, and Texas authorities have informed him that C. C. Peters, one of the bondsmen, is under federal investigation by Fort Worth officials for alleged fraudulent bonds.

D. Segrave, who was killed in his motorboat trials at Lake Windermere yesterday, Wales said:

"Please accept my deepest sympathy in yours and the country's great loss."

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP)—Oklahoma candidates closed a strenuous campaign week today after leveling an oral barrage along political battle fronts that have been drawn in all sections of the state.

Practically every aspirant to a major state office has visited the "creek folks" the past several days, speaking to large and small groups of voters who have gathered at cross roads and on street corners to hear the candidates prescribe remedies for state and national ills.

Probably the feature of the speaking activities this week was the campaign opening which former U. S. Senator Thomas P. Gore staged today in Pauls Valley and Purcell. Gore, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for senator, will be heard by thousands before the campaign closes because of his recognized oratorical ability.

Fomer Senator Gore, who spoke at the water carnival in Sulphur last night, was introduced by Tom Ferris, brother of Scott Ferris against whom Gore made the race for the senatorial nomination. Gore in his speech said that he and Ferris "had buried the hatchet so deep that only the demons in hell could reach it."

Johnston in Action

Henry Johnston, Perry, one of the former governors seeking the senatorial nomination, continued his vigorous speaking campaign. He announced the following itinerary: June 15, Durant; June 16, Bokchito, Bennington, Roswell, Hugo, June 17, Ft. Towson, Valliant, Wright City. June 18, Idabel, Broken Bow. June 19, Haworth, Antlers. June 20, Tuskahoma, Clayton, Darwin, Atoka. June 21, Lehigh, Centrahoma, Coalgate. June 22, Ada.

Former Gov. M. E. Trapp, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, announced the following itinerary: June 16, Bartlesville. June 17, Newkirk, Ponca City, Blackwell. June 18, Tonkawa, Medford, Enid. June 19, Cherokee, Alva. June 20, Fairview, Watonga, Kingfisher. June 21, Okarche, El Aeno.

Other gubernatorial candidates have kept busy, either delivering speeches or conferring with friends in state cities.

Bailey at Frederick

Large crowds have been hearing Judge Frank M. Bailey, another Democratic candidate for governor, the past week in Southwestern Oklahoma. He spoke at Frederick Friday and at Altus Saturday.

U. S. District Attorney Roy St. Lewis said today he would ask the state election board to withdraw his name as a Republican candidate for attorney general. Lewis name was filed late last Saturday without his authorization and while he was out of the city, it was understood.

Officials of the state election board prepared notices today to be mailed to both Democratic and Republican candidates who are unopposed in the primaries. Their names will not appear on the primary ballots.

Most of the unopposed candidates are those who filed for the legislature.

The only unopposed Democratic candidate for a major state office is Judge Thomas A. Edwards who is seeking re-election to the criminal court of appeals.

C. J. Wrightsman, Tulsa, Democratic senatorial candidate, spoke today at Pawnee where Pawnee county pioneers celebrated old settlers day. Wrightsman spoke at Sapulpa, Bristow and Chandler yesterday and appeared in Stillwater and Cushing before going to Pawnee.

Withdraws From Race

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP)—C. F. Hilburn, Red Oak, filed his withdrawal today with the state election board as a legislative candidate from Latimer county.

PAYMENT HERE OF DELINQUENT TAXES SOUGHT

An appeal urging the payment of delinquent taxes so as to avoid the filing of suits on behalf of the county was issued Saturday by Wayne Somerville, county attorney.

Many who have failed to pay taxes due for 1928 soon will face 1929 taxes as well, he pointed out, in urging that some arrangement be made to dispose of the matter.

His statement follows:

"On account of depressed business conditions in Wichita county during the past several months, the county attorney's office has delayed taking any action towards the collection of delinquent state and county taxes delinquent for the year 1928, which, under the law, should have been done a year ago. Now another year's delinquent taxes is subject to suit for collection, with the taxpayers owing these taxes making little or no effort to pay them.

"The county attorney's office has been doing everything possible to collect all taxes delinquent on what is known as the 1926 tax roll which contains all delinquent taxes for all years prior to 1927. This work has been carried about as far as possible without working undue hardship on the few remaining delinquents on that roll who are paying their taxes in installments and gradually getting out of debt. The experience of these citizens shows it to be a doubtful favor to allow delinquent taxes to become three or four years in arrears as two years are just twice as hard to pay as one, and three years' taxes three times as hard to pay, and the sacrifices necessary to pay them three times as great as one year's taxes. Taxes are the most disagreeable debt the citizen has to meet and he pays them last if he has the money, or lets them go until penalty accrues and suit is brought if any sacrifice is necessary in order to meet them.

"As the county's general fund is running low and the county in need of money, and as the taxpayer will be owing another year's taxes in some three months, those owing delinquent taxes are earnestly requested to make some arrangement as to the payment of their 1928 and 1929 delinquent taxes.

"There is no pleasure in filing tax suits, and which carry heavy costs to the taxpayer, but if the county tax rate is to be kept down it is mandatory that every citizen pay his or her taxes.

"Hence, appeal is here made that those owing taxes for 1928 or 1929 help the county as well as themselves by making arrangements in regard to their delinquent taxes within the next 60 or 90 days and save the county attorney the necessity of filing suit and the taxpayer the costs incident thereto."

TWENTY YEARS

Added to Span of Life

It is estimated that the average man of 40 of today may expect to live 20 years longer than he would have had he been born several decades ago.

This has been brought about through a better knowledge of the rules of hygiene and of life and to the fact that the man of average intelligence realizes that ill health not only deprives him of happiness but limits his earning powers.

Bad health is usually the result of neglect or ignorance.

Educators, publishers, corporations and the best men in all walks of life are stressing the value of health examinations and the importance of early treatment of diseased conditions before they reach the hospital or incurable stage.

The Health Service Institute has many endorsements from patients in Wichita Falls and vicinity, who have been restored to health or received benefit.

They offer every modern facility for the treatment of stomach and intestinal troubles, disease of the blood, nerves, rheumatism, diabetes, high or low blood pressure, diseases of the rectum and special diseases of men and women.

A thorough physical examination including blood pressure, urine, microscopic examinations of pathological secretions, etc., will be given free of charge until July 1. (This does not include Wasserman blood test, which will be only $3.00.)

They came alone and the young couple sat together as they answered the questions of the clerk. After paying the fee of two dollars they left without attracting any attention.

SLEMP DENIES HE CONFERRED WITH CANNON

Never Advised With Bishop Regarding Speculations, He Says

DENIES PARTICIPATING GOLDHURST CONFERENCE

Resolution Will Ask for Papers in Commutation of Sentence

WASHINGTON, June 14. (US)—C. Bascom Slemp, Republican national committeeman for Virginia stated emphatically today that he never advised with Bishop James Cannon Jr., regarding his bucket shop speculations.

In a brief statement Slemp denied participating in a conference with Cannon and Harry L. Goldhurst, one of the prime movers in Kable & Co., the firm with which Bishop Cannon dealt.

Goldhurst was sentenced to five years at the Atlanta penitentiary for using the mails to defraud in connection with the operation of Kable & Co.

On Monday, Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, will introduce a resolution asking the justice department to furnish the senate with all papers in the Goldhurst case. In this way it is hoped to trace the report that Goldhurst's sentence has been reduced from five years to two years.

Slemp's Statement

In his statement, Slemp said:

"Referring to statements in the press of Saturday morning that I participated in a conference with Bishop Cannon and Goldhurst at the Waldorf-Astoria concerning Kable & Co., or other matters, I wish to state that I have never met or had any communication directly or indirectly with H. L. Goldhurst on this or any other subject, nor did I have any conference at any time with Bishop Cannon regarding the affairs of Kable & Co."

The record of Bishop Cannon's refusal to answer questions propounded by the senate lobby committee will be placed before the senate next week. Vice President Curtis will be asked to rule whether it is mandatory to lay this record before the U. S. attorney for possible contempt action.

Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, a member of the lobby committee, today expressed the view that Curtis is under no obligation to take this step. In any event there is little likelihood of contempt proceedings being started.

After nearly nine months of continuous investigation, the lobby committee has ceased its labors for the present and perhaps for good. The committee will not be formally discharged by the senate, however, until next fall.

CHICAGOANS CHALLENGE BERLIN'S RIGHT TO TITLE OF THIRD LARGEST CITY

Joseph E. Vesely of the census advisory committee said the United States department of commerce would be asked to make an official check on Berlin's present population.

On the basis of the 1930 population figure of 3,373,753, Vesely said, he believed Chicago was superceded only by London and New York. Explaining that Berlin's population has been published as 4,024,000, he said it was found that this figure included densely populated sections in the metropolitan area.

LASKER WILL LEAVES LARGE SUM TO CHARITY

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—The will of Mrs. Nettie Davis Lasker, mother of Albert D. Lasker, former chairman of the shipping board, leaves $32,500 to charity and the balance of her estate amount of which is not stated, to descendants and other relatives.

Most of the $32,500 will be held in trust, the income to be given to benevolent causes, but $5,000 is left to the Lasker home for homeless children at Galveston, Texas, and $2,500 is to be held in trust by the Galveston Playground association for the Morris Lasker playground there.

Sol Davis of Shreveport, La., a brother of the descendant, receives the income from $15,000 for life. Mrs. Lasker died last May.

A recent estimate placed the distances covered by air routes in actual operation throughout the world at 76,000 miles, the United States having more than 12,000 miles.

NO DUST GATHERS ON OLD BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, June 14. (UP)—Farmers' bulletin 1075, one of the agriculture department series, isn't gathering any dust these days. This formerly obscure publication has leaped into national prominence almost over night, and constituents are besieging their congresssmen for it.

The little pamphlet gives precise and explicit instruction on how to make grape juice and what one must do to prevent it from fermenting.

200 Children in Treasure Quest At Kemp Library

Nearly 200 children, equipped with a gay "Treasure Map," and a list of clues in the form of a questionnaire, have joined the "Quest of the Golden Key," summer reading contest held in the children's room of the Kemp Public library.

Registration for the contest began with the close of school and will continue through June 16. The closing date of the contest is set for Aug. 15.

Genuine enthusiasm is being displayed and even the real work and research which the contest requires does not seem to discourage the young adventurers.

Each boy and girl seems to have caught the spirit of the contest and realizes that their earnest efforts may spell triumph for them in the form of a magic purse which will be invested in their favorite book or books and be given the cleverest boy or girl as first prize.

There will also be second prizes of tiny gold keys which may be worn as pins.

The work done in this contest covers from the fifth to ninth grades and is open to any boy or girl who is interested in doing some worthwhile summer reading.

FEDERAL DRY AGENT TO FACE TRIAL ON MONDAY ON CHARGE OF MURDER

GUTHRIE, Okla., June 14. (UP)—W. W. (Snake) Thomason, federal prohibition agent, will go on trial charged with murder in federal court here Monday in connection with the slaying of two farmers last July 4 during a liquor raid cleanup campaign in the Seminole oil area.

Thomason led officers who visited the farm of James Harris Harris and his brother-in-law, Oscar Lowery were shot and killed during the raid in which no liquor was found. Jeff Harris, peace officer of long standing in this area, was charged with murder along with Thomason in connection with the shootings.

Harris was tried in state courts and sentenced to 50 years in prison. He is in the state penitentiary. Thomason's case was transferred to federal docket. His case will be tried in Judge Edgar S. Vaught's court. More than 50 witnesses have been called.

GOVERNMENT WILL HAVE FIFTY MILLIONS SURPLUS

WASHINGTON, June 14. (US)—The government will wind up its fiscal year June 30 with a surplus of at least $50,000,000, despite the recent reduction of taxes and a shrinkage of incomes in the closing months of 1929, it appeared today.

Another $700,000,000 or so will have been clipped off the national debt.

The surplus appears certain to be the smallest since the war. But officials consider the showing good in view of the revenue reduction and increased governmental outlays. About $114,000,000 has been spent thus far to promote farm marketing cooperation, which, on its present scale, is entirely new.

SMALL URGES TEXAS DEMAND HIGH STANDARD

Candidate for Governor in Rockwall County Saturday

EFFICIENT PROFESSIONAL SERVICE IS STRESSED

Continues Criticism of His Opponents as Professional Politicians

ROCKWALL, June 14.—Passage of state laws requiring high standards of efficiency and moral character in members of all professions was advocated by Senator Clint C. Small, candidate for governor, in an address here Saturday.

Speaking before voters of Rockwall county he said that protection of the general public and members of various professions against unscrupulous or unethical charlatans made such measures necessary to the proper encouragement of experts who devote their lives to highly specialized vocations.

"As civilization becomes more complex the demand for efficient professional services increases," he said. "Society should be protected against the incompetent or unethical person in all fields. The entry into professional life should be safeguarded by adequate laws. This should apply not only to the doctors and lawyers but to the engineer, the architect and all other professional callings.

Doctors and Lawyers

"Doctors have some regulation because they have demanded it and their ethical standards are high. Lawyers, too, have raised themselves into high repute through their own efforts for state regulation. Those members of other professions who are looking to the best for their group would like to be sure that no one could practice until he is thoroughly fitted and I believe that we should give these men and women every aid possible.

Senator Small said also that he was in favor of protecting the laboring man with laws insuring reasonable hours, a safe place to work, and surroundings that will enable him to improve his status and keep abreast of the onward march of progress.

"The state must take cognizance of the menace of unemployment," he said. "We must make every effort to bring about conditions that will provide employment for all who desire to labor and insure compensation in keeping with American ideals."

In his address the candidate continued to criticize his opponents to whom he referred as "chronic seekers after office."

"It seems that the professional politician we shall have with us always," he said.

LAMESA, Texas, June 14.—Ira McKee will be arraigned before District Judge Gordon B. McGuire here Monday morning at 10 o'clock in his trial for the murder of W. R. Billingsley at Sparenberg on May 1. He is to answer charges of murder of Billingsley, who was shot three times when he attempted to interfere with the robbery of a filling station at Sparenberg. Billingsley died next day as result of bullet wounds in his left arm, abdomen and chest. McKee was captured in Athens recently following a 23-day chase over Texas. PRESIDENT-ELECT FROM BRAZIL ENJOYS RIDE IN SHORTEST ROAD IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Between a call on Vice President Curtis and a visit to the naval academy, President-Elect Julio Prestes of Brazil today enjoyed a ride on "the shortest railroad in the United States."

This is an electric line connecting the capitol with the nearby senate office building.

Senator Prestes evinced interest and amusement as the road's "train," about the size of a hand car, clattered over its track with surprising speed.

The visit to the academy was arranged partly for the benefit of Brazilian naval officers who are accompanying Senor Prestes.

Celebrate Their Elopement With Plane Elopement

CHICAGO, June 15. (US)—An airplane "elopement" was the means taken today by Mr. and Mrs. August Block, of St. Louis, to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their elopement on foot June 15, 1880.

Fifty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Block, now 77 and 70 years old, respectively, left their homes in St. Louis and walked 25 miles to Belleville, Ill., to get the wedding ceremony performed. The romantic hike took them eight hours.

Today, they again eluded their friends and boarded a plane of the Universal lines for Chicago. This trip took them only two hours.

"Flying is great," the aged couple said. "We only wish we were eloping again for the first time."

SENATOR LOVE FIRES OPENING GUN AT AUSTIN

Discusses Official Record As Basis of Platform Of Principles

DECLARES ONLY SMITH AND FERGUSON OPPOSED

Claims to Be Only Anti-Tammany Democrat in Race for Governor

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 14. (AP)—Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas, opening his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor here tonight, said he was an anti-Tammany Democrat, wanted to be governor for the good he could do, and declared his record would be the basis of his platform.

Speaking in the senate chamber, the senator recounted his record of service in the capitol building of Texas during a period of 27 years. That record, he said, is the touchstone by which he wanted the people to test his candidacy.

"I pledge the democracy of Texas now that in this campaign I shall tell them the truth," he declared, "saying nothing and withholding nothing for political or vote-making purposes."

Since becoming a voter in 1892, Mr. Love went on, "I have voted for the nominees of the Democratic party, all of them, at every election, except that in 1924 I voted to keep Fergusonism out of power in this capitol; in 1929 I voted to keep the Tammany tiger out of the White House; and in casting both those votes, I believed then, and I believe now, that I was rendering not only to my country, but to my party, the most helpful service within my power."

Only Anti-Tammany

Declaring his inflexible opposition to any compromise with Tammany hall or with the liquor traffic, the speaker said he was the only anti-Tammany Democrat in the race for governor," and upon that fact hangs a fundamental issue of this campaign.

"In the great campaign of 1928 all of the present candidates for governor except myself believed that the interest and welfare of the Democratic party and of the American people would best be subserved by the election of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, a Tammany sachem, who believed in returning to the legalized sale of beverage alcohol, as president of the United States. I believed, as a majority of the people of Texas believed and voted, that Al Smith's election would be disastrous to the country and would mean the degradation and destruction of the Democratic party.

"I am not asking that any citizen vote against any of these candidates on account of their position in 1928, but looking to the future, I call attention to the fact that I am the only candidate who has declared his purpose not to follow in the next presidential campaign, in 1932, the course which all of my opponents followed in 1928."

Hopes for Harmony

Asserting he hoped for the utmost harmony in the Democratic party, and that he would leave nothing undone that he could honorably do to attain harmony, Mr. Love said he would be compelled to oppose the nomination, and if nominated, the election of Governor Smith or any other wet-Tammany candidate for president in 1932.

Texas, he continued, needs constructive statesmanship. "I agree," he said, "that no man should be chosen governor this year who has not demonstrated his ability to perform the high and difficult service which all agree Texas so much needs. I am glad to submit the case to the jury upon that theory, and I urge the people to measure my claims by that standard."

Senator Love then launched into his legislative service which began in 1903.

He told how he had fought for the Terrel election law, which he said gave every Democrat the free and equal opportunity to express his choice at the polls. He began his fight for the laboring men and women of Texas in the 28th legislature, he declared. Among other laws enacted he cited one requiring railroad locomotives to be equipped with electric headlights for the safety of employes and the public. He mentioned other "wholesome labor measures."

Author Half Fare Bill

He was the author of the bill requiring street railroads to carry school children at half fare, he continued; helped draft the state banking laws, and wrote and helped in the passage of a resolution submitting the constitutional amendment now in force providing for state banks.

He said he began his fight with the liquor interests in Texas 27 years ago and aided in passage of a bill in the 30th legislature making it a felony to run a gambling house in Texas.

In 1905 he introduced and had passed a law providing that public funds of every county should be deposited at interest in the bonded depository bank which should bid the highest rate of interest to be paid on daily balances. Prior to that time, he said, counties received no revenue from that source.

"For 25 years," he said, "I have been the foe of ad valorem taxation in Texas, because ad valorem taxation is the deadly foe of equality and uniformity and fairness in the distribution of tax burdens of the people."

The speaker named numerous other legislative acts which he sponsored or supported, and then turned to present problems.

Law Enforcement

Law enforcement he placed first. A prime need he said was a general revamping and strengthening of the prohibition laws.

He said he stood for a complete, comprehensive and economical and humane reformation of the prison system. The state needs two prison plants, he declared, one on the Wynne farm now owned by the state and the other should be located in Central or West Texas.

Agriculture must be made profitable and rural life made comfortable, healthful and attractive.

Cattle, sheep and goat raisers are entitled to state aid in meeting their pests and problems, the candidate asserted. The state also should lend itself in an effective way to aid farmers and stockmen in obtaining the largest possible benefits from the federal farm marketing act.

For those who toil, Mr. Love promised a "square deal." "I have been helping to write and to promote enactment of labor legislatoin for 27 years and as governor I shall insist and fight if necessary, for a square deal for labor." Good wages, he added, is not alone indispensable to the welfare of workers, but it is indispensable to the general welfare.

High Spots of Platform

Other high spots of his platform included strict enforcement of child labor laws, reduction of unemployment, encourage business, fullest possible development of the educational system, maintenance of eleemosynary institutions on the highest plane, readjustment of the tax system to more nearly equalize the tax burdens among citizens, and more and better highways. He said he would oppose any road bond issue which would increase property taxes. Motor buses and trucks should be made to pay a fair contribution for their use of highways and should be regulated so as to interfere as little as possible with the convenience and safety of traffic, he declared.

Public utilities, he said, must be regulated and controled by the state. "They must not be allowed to elect a governor of Texas," he said, "or members of the Texas legislature or senators or representatives in congress."

He said he was for judicial reform and simplification of procedure of courts.

TWO SUITS START ON WAY TO HIGHER COURT OKLAHOMA

GUTHRIE, Okla., June 14. (UP)—Two suits concerning alleged "blue sky" royalty companies started their journey through federal court here today.

Evidence on the petition of Mrs. Jessie Fleming of Kansas City for an injunction to restrain the Mammoth Royalty company from further operation and for receivership for the company was to be introduced before Federal Judge Edgar S. Vaught. Mrs. Fleming asks $10,000 damages from each of the six officials including President S. A. Pace.

Preliminary report of Fred P. Branson, receiver for the Universal Oil & Gas company was filed today as hearing on a suit asking dissolution of receivership for the company was opened in court. Branson, former state supreme court chief justice, said that the company had potential properties which, if developed, might pay claims and reimburse investors. He asked to be relieved as receiver.

The company was thrown into receivership two months ago when federal authorities arrested nine officials on charges of using the mails with intent to defraud.

Although details of the company's condition will not be made public until the filing of the detailed report at some unannounced date, Branson said that with investment of some money continued development of the company's properties might become valuable.

DALLAS, June 14. (AP)—P. D. Burkett testified today that Nat Goldberg of the Sunset Products company, Chicago, hired J. Frank Norfleet, noted detective, and Dallas and Fort Worth attorneys and offered to spend $10,000 to put the Western Products company out of business.

Burkett was a defense witness in federal court here in the trial of liquor conspiracy charges against the Western Products company and the American Pharmaceutical company. The Sunset Products company is a competitor of the Western Products company.

Burkett admitted on cross-examination that he was a former employer of the chief witness for the government in the case and that he had sued for $15,000 by that witness. He also admitted differences with prohibition officers, saying that he had made affidavit of alleged corrupt practices on the part of federal enforcement agents in this section.

Apparent Reconciliation in Royal Household Being Hailed in Rumania As Diplomatic Victory for Marie

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 14. (UP)—A reconciliation between King Carol II and Princess Helene appeared accomplished tonight, ending the domestic difficulties marking the monarch's return and ascension to the throne.

PARIS, June 14. (UP)—Mme. Magda Lupescu, whom King Carol of Rumania deserted to gain his throne, said today she has no intention of returning to Bucharest at present, although she indicated today that she might return later.

She talked by telephone with a friend in Paris this morning. She is at Vieznau near Lucerne, and said she was slightly ill.

"I know that this is not a favorable moment for me to return," she said. "The king is occupied with matters of state and has no time to see me or think about me."

The reunion of the king and the princess he deserted during his exile with Madame Magda Lupescu, was seen as another diplomatic victory for dowager Queen Marie, whose influence has long been reckoned with in the Balkans.

Despite the indisposition of Princess Helene, which forced cancellation of the family reunion and dinner scheduled for last night, Queen Marie visited her sons' former wife this afternoon bent on making complete the return of Carol. Since the return of the dowager queen there had been increasing pressure on Helene to accept her former husband and immediately after Queen Marie's visit it was said on high authority that the reconciliation had been effected.

Right to Title

King Carol had already declared Helene's right to the title of queen and announced that he considered her divorce nullified by the amendment of the law enforcing his own exile. His decision had been supported by Rumanian officials and the leaders of the Orthodox church visited him today to inform him that the church considered Helene's divorce void. The clergy said they would do their utmost to secure legal approval of the decision.

There was no indication here that the king would authorize the return to Bucharest of Mme. Lupescu, whom he deserted in France to regain his throne. Court circles were silent on reports from London that she was returning immediately and another report from Paris that she probably would return later.

Although there was some talk of Carol's coronation being held in autumn, the recent understanding that it would be delayed probably a year, was not revoked in official circles.

Premier Dr. Julius Maniu caused a sensation in parliament this afternoon when he revealed that the regency which had acted for the boy king, Michael, had consented to the return of Carol. He said Carol would rigidly uphold the constitution and added that the king would not have been permitted to return without express consent of parliament or the regency in accordance with the decree of Jan. 14, 1926. The premier said the government would immediately start work on the economic problems with the exception of having aid from foreign capital.

SPUDDERS SCORE RUN IN NINTH TO BEAT SAN ANTONIO 1 TO 0

One of the most prolific home run splurges a Texas league club ever enjoyed, rivalling even the orgies that have made Waco's diminutive park famous, marked the Spudders' 12 games frome June 2 through June 12. While the pitchers have held up their end of it through the home stand and the fielders have contributed their shares, this distance clouting proved no small factor in the successful home stand. No less than 30 home runs, or an average of exactly two and one-half per game, were socked over the fences of Athletic park in the 12 games. The period includes all the games except the final Friday with Houston, against the South Texas invaders. In two of the 12 tour homers were clouted and at least one every game.

Every regular participated in the distance feast, with Bettencourt getting the greatest number and Burns delivering in the most games. The right fielder rang up two in one game twice for half his total of eight, while Burns averaged a homer every other game, getting six. Kloza was the only player besides Bettencourt to get more than one in a single game. Larry had by far the biggest day, when he socked four in last Sunday's double-header with Waco. Kloza tied Burns with an average of one every other game. Storti was next with four. Levey and Fitzgerald each sent two on long rides and Crouch and Euller on each.

Kloza, incidentally, provided one of the many bright spots of the home stand. It is no secret that the big fellow provided one of the Spudders' few worries in the early stages of the race. He hit fairly well, but in the field he was a complete loss in the wind that seldom fails to make batted balls do funny things at Athletic park. Right along with his steady climb in hitting, his defensive work has improved. Certainly none could ask for better all round play than the left fielder has delivered during the late home stand. One thing that has made it tough for this newcomer is the fact that Spudder fans have watched Tom Jenkins and Fred Bennett in that position for four years. Kloza had no easy task in succeeding these worthies, but if he continues the kind of game that he has played for the last two weeks, all worries concerning left field will cease.

The Spudders have finished the easy part of their schedule and the rest of the first half finds them on the road, finishing up with three games in two days with the Houston Buffs on June 23 and 24. Two tilts at San Antonio, three at Waco, four at Beaumont and three at Houston finish out the first half slate, if there is to be a split season. The team has proved itself to be just about as consistent winners on the road as at home, but nevertheless the long road lead looks mighty good in the face of having to play the final stretch in the other fellows' backyard. While Houston is at home during that period, the Buffaloes have no easy thing of it. Besides the double-header they must play the Spudders, they also have five games in three days with Shreveport. After they finish with the Steers Saturday, Sunday and Monday, they take on Fort Worth for three games, Shreveport for five games and Wichita Falls for three.

League President J. Alvin Gardner is ready to agree that this is the age of speed. He left Los Angeles by airplane for Wichita Falls Thursday morning at 5 o'clock and, after making four stops en route, was back at his desk here at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He drove his family to the coast, saw two Pacific Coast league games, spent a day at Catalina island and was gone on the entire trip exactly seven days.

The speed with which the trip can be made from Texas to the Pacific ocean has so impressed the league president that he has an ambitious idea he may put into effect this fall, if his Texas league champions (Did somebody say Spudders?) are winners of the Dixie championship. Gardner hopes to arrange a post season series with the Pacific Coast league champions, provided the Texas team whips the Southern entry in the Dixie series. The coast league will end its lengthy season just about the time the Dixie series will be finished, and if the journey can be made by air, it would be easy to land the Texas team on the coast without holding the double A leaguers too long after their season closes. Of course, there are many little details that would have to be worked out in putting on such a series. First of all, it is no cinch that all the players would consent to the airplane trip. It is even more likely that the Pacific Coast league would frown upon taking the risk of being beaten by a mere class A league outfit. At any rate, Gardner is doing some serious thinking toward staging such a series.

One of the prize comebacks of the major league season is being engineered by Bob Osborn, a Spudder flipper of renown a half-dozen years back. Bob was a mighty fine Texas league pitcher when he graduated to the Chicago Cubs, but after a year or two of unfilled promises his arm gave way entirely and for several years he has been shunted from one Cub farm to another. Early this season when the big guns of the Chicago staff couldn't win for losing, Osborn was shoved into a game. He won that one and three more before he was beaten for the first time last week. Osborn has not pitched great ball, but he has pitched well enough to win four games to offset a lone defeat, and coming at a time when the champs were hard pushed for any sort of pitching, he has been of much value to the McCarthy outfit.

Two youthful Spudder farm hands at Topeka in the Western league are coming through with some neat pitching these days. Jimmy Parker and Fabian Kowalik are the gents referred to, and there is particular interest in the former's case, for the reason that he is a Wichita Falls boy and one of the mighty few products of the local sandlots to climb even as high as the Western league in class A baseball. Jimmy turned in a 2 to 1 [two-]hit victory just a few days ago and one of Kowalik's recent starts was a defeat by the same score. Another of the Topeka youngsters, who didn't make the grade, is Carroll Burrows, first baseman, who was at Abilene last year. Burrows has been sent to Wray Query's Pine Bluff, Ark., team of the Cotton States league. Tony Defate, now a full fledged citizen of Wichita Falls, also has drifted to Query's club. Russell Cromer, another of the Abilene prodigies, was released a few days ago after being turned back by the Augusta club of the South Atlantic circuit.

Burns Delivers Pinch Blow to Count Victory

Lester White Turns in 10th Victory of Present Season

(Special to The Times)

SAN ANTONIO, June 14.—Burns' single with Fitzgerald on third base and two down in the ninth inning gave Wichita Falls a 1-0 classic today. Burns' blow was one of five which Chaplin yielded the league leaders, whereas the Indians got eight off Lester White, who bore down in the pinches and received bangup support when he needed it.

A double-header will be played Sunday, starting at 2:30 p. m., with an off-day for Monday. Levey opened the game propitiously for the Spudders with a double off the left field fence. He took third as Storti rolled to Riley, but stayed there as Dondero tossed out Fitzgerald and Kloza. An error put Ballew on to start the Indian's half but he was out stealing before Schinkel came through with a single.

Crouch's double in the second was wasted, coming after two outs. Riley opened the home half with a single. Dondero promptly lined to Burns and Riley was doubled off the base. Kott walked but Laveque lined to Euller.

White introduced the third with a clean hit but languished on first while the upper three in the batting order went out easily.

Hits by Flippen and Schinkel after two were away in the San Antonio third aroused the fans' hope but Moore flied high to Levey.

Crouch got as far as third in the Spudders' fifth on a single, Euller's sacrifice and White's grounder to Chaplin, but Chaplin also tossed out Levey to close the threat.

Schinkel's third hit with one away in the sixth broke the monotony of a string of putouts. Moore forced him. Riley singled. Dondero flied to Kloza.

Laveque's hard single through third and a walk to Ballew with two away put the tribe in a position to break the ice in the seventh but Flippen hoisted to Fitzgerald.

Shinkel's fourth hit, a rip-roaring two-bagger down the left field foul line, broke open the Indians' eighth. Moore bunted but Shinkel didn't make a move off third. Pitcher White picked up the ball but dropped it and Moore was safe. Riley bunted and Schinkel was thrown out at third. Crouch to Euller. Dondero forced Riley and Kott forced Dondero.

After Storti grounded out to Riley in the Spudders' ninth, Chaplin issued his first base on balls to Fitzgerald. Fitz advanced on a passed ball then moved to third as Dondero threw out Kloza. Burns, with the count three and two, looped a single into short right center, bringing Fitzgerald home. A great stop by Euller robbed Laveque of a hit in the home half. Manager Burns batted for Chaplin and grounded out to Storti. Levey pulled Burns off the bag and Ballew was safe but Flippen flied to Kloza to end the game.

Stumpy's Bear Goes Pro

ATLANTA, June 14. (AP)—When Stumpy Thomason, Georgia Tech's little giant of the backfield for three seasons, left here for Buffalo he took his pet bear with him. The beast was given Stumpy when Tech beat California New Year's day, 1929. Thomason has signed with the Buffalo pro eleven.

SPUDDERS CONTINUE TO SHOW WAY TO ALL LEAGUE RIVALS IN OFFENSIVE DEPARTMENTS

Continuing his terrific hitting clip, Oscar Eckhardt of Beaumont finished another week of Texas league play in the batting lead by driving his average up to .408. His closest rivals have not participated in anywhere near as many innings of play. Eckhardt begins to look like a good all-season bet. No Texas leaguer has yet reached the first century in base hits for 1930, but Joe Bonowitz, Fort Worth, was only four blows short of it Thursday, his closest rivals being Schinkel, San Antonio, with 91, and Hunt, Houston, 87. Other league leaders: Runs, Bettencourt, Wichita Falls, 57. Stuvengen, Waco, 53. Levey, Wichita Falls, Kloza, Wichita Falls, and Hock, Houston, 52; doubles, I. Burns, Wichita Falls, 24, Fitzgerald, Wichita Falls, 23, Bonowitz, Fort Worth, 23, Stapleton, Beaumont, 21; triples, Tavener, Fort Worth, eight, Cox, Fort Worth, Shiver, Beaumont, and Schinkel, San Antonio, five; home runs, Bettencourt, Wichita Falls, 21, Kelly, Fort Worth, and Stuvengen, Waco, 14, Storti, Wichita Falls, 13; stolen bases, Hunt, Houston, 21, Easterling, Beaumont, and Holley, Beaumont, 17; runs batted in, Bettencourt, Wichita Falls, 65, Hunt, Houston, 53, Stuvengen, Waco, 52.

Wichita Falls remains the offensive class of the loop, leading in batting, runs, hits, doubles, homers and runs driven in, while Fort Worth tops in triples and Shreveport in pilfers.

Below the small group of undefeated pitchers, the veteran Shreveporter, Tuero, continues to hold the best winning average, while Wiltse, Wichita Falls, and Thormahlen, Fort Worth, lead in games won with 10 each. Stout's 75 whiffs make him the leading strikeout pitcher.

Pitchers credited with victory or defeat, players hitting .200 or better and club batting through Thursday's games follow:

Rank Outsider Takes Race for Poor Owner

Former Grocer Puts Up $500 of Last $800 to Make Entry and Reveille Boy Responds With Victory in American Derby

By BERT DEMBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON PARK, June 14.—Reveille Boy, whose owner paid out $500 of his last $800 as an entry fee, won the 22nd renewal of the American Derby today and took something over $49,700 for his owner, J. A. Best, former Memphis grocer.

Gallant Knight, one of the favorites, was second, three and a half length behind Reveille Boy. Xenofol, a maiden, was third.

Reveille Boy paid $113.08 for a $2 mutuel ticket, the second highest price of American Derby history. Best was understood to have held most of the winning tickets on his horse, but he was too happy over his victory to confirm the report.

Reveille Boy is the only horse Best owns and he debated a long time whether to pay out $500 for an entry fee.

"I had $800 to my name," Best said. "Finally I decided that the purse was worth risking $500. It took just two minutes, four and four-fifths seconds to make a rich man of me. I guess maybe it pays to take a chance once in a while.

More than 25,000 persons stood in astonishment when Reveille boy won.

It was one of the most startling finishes ever seen in the Derby and so surprised was the crowd that there was hardly a sound for a few seconds after Reveille Boy flashed across the finish line. Wee Willie Fronk booted Reveille Boy to victory in the stretch.

The crowd finally burst into a wild cheer when the winner wheeled and trotted back to the judge's stand. Even though he cost the crowd a considerable sum in the betting, Fronk was cheered for several minutes.

Reveille Boy misbehaved so badly at the post that the starter finally was forced to put him in the wider space outside the starting gate. He broke away from the post in tenth position, pulled up to fourth on the first turn and remained there down the back stretch. Then Wee Willie moved into second position.

He took the lead coming into the stretch and thereafter was in front all the way.

Reveille Boy beat a good field of 3-year-olds, but a field which carried less class than in most American Derbies of the past. Gallant Knight, who previously won the Fairmount Derby, was second in the Kentucky Derby. He was heavily backed today.

Xenofel never had won a race, but her speed was known through workouts. Ned O and Tannery, two other horses which received goodly backing, were out of the money. Ned O was left at the post.

GALLANT FOX NOT TO RUN AMERICAN DERBY

NEW YORK, June 9. (UP)—Gallant Fox, unbeaten as a 3-year-old and winner of the Preakness, Kentucky Derby and Belmont stakes, will not run in the American Derby Saturday, William Woodward, owner of the colt, announced Monday.

Gallant Fox, with Earl Sande up, led almost from the start in the mile and a half Belmont stakes Saturday to defeat Wichone, the favorite, by more than three lengths. Gallant Fox added $66,040 to his earnings and now ranks eighth among the all-time winners of the American turf with $198,730.

NATIONAL BOXING BOARD RECOGNIZES SCHMELING CHAMPION

German Held Not Responsible for Ending of Battle

New York Commission May Follow Precedent Set At Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, June 14. (AP)—After three days deliberation, the National Boxing association announced today it definitely had decided to recognize Max Schmeling victor by a foul over Jack Sharkey as the world heavyweight boxing champion. The N. B. A. thus became the first organized boxing body to formally declare Schmeling the title holder.

The N. B. A. ruled that Schmeling was not responsible for the foul blow, that Sharkey unintentionally delivered the low blow, that both boxers were paid full purses and that the foreign invader was formally declared the winner in the ring.

Pendulum Swings

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—The pendulum swung further today toward Max Schmeling and his chances of winning recognition as the world's heavyweight champion following his victory over Jack Sharkey on a foul in four rounds at the Yankee stadium Thursday night.

Following upon the announcement in Cincinnati of Stanley Isaacs, president of the National Boxing association, that his organization would recognize the German youth as the world's title holder, Chairman James A. Farley of the New York State Athletic commission indicated the local rulers might do the same. Official decision on Schmeling's claim s scheduled for Tuesday.

The second member of the threemen commission, William Muldoon, announced yesterday he did not believe Schmeling would be considered the world title holder because of the unsatisfactory ending of the bout.

British Regain Wightman Trophy From Americans

English Doubles Team Victor in Deciding Match Of Classic

By FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England, June 14.—Great Britain's women's tennis team regained the Wightman cup, international tennis trophy, from America by winning four of seven matches during a two-day series which a gallery of 7,500 saw draw to a thrilling finish today.

The United States and Great Britain each have won the Wightman cup four times during the eight years it has been in competition.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody pounded Mrs. Phoebe Watson into a limp and languid opponent to win 7-5 and 6-1.

The defeat of Mrs. Watson gave America a 3 to 2 lead in matches and Miss Sarah Palfrey of Boston, making her debut on the famous center court at the tender age of 17, had the opportunity of clinching the international series and winning for her country such honor and glory as goes with these big sporting events. Miss Palfrey lost to Phyllis Mulford, 6-0, 6-2.

Mrs. Godfrey displayed all her old mastery and strategy and teamed with Mrs. Watson perfectly to conquer Miss Jacobs' power and Mrs. Moody's brilliance and win, 7-5, 1-6, 6-4. The Americans presented an almost impenetrable front when at the net, but with uncanny skill Mrs. Watson sent them scurrying to the back court for high lobs which she dropped precisely near the baseline. It was the deciding play which sent the cup to England.

OPTIMIST AND LIONS CLUBS POSTPONE TILT UNTIL NEXT TUESDAY

The baseball nines of the Optimist and Lions clubs, trained to the minute for the big occasion, Saturday were forced to postpone hostilities in their battle for the benefit of the Times and Record News milk and ice fund. The rival clubs were scheduled to scrap it out Saturday afternoon, but an inspection of the grounds at noon convinced those in charge there would be entirely too much mud slinging.

The struggle has been set for 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Athletic park.

QUANAH, Texas, June 14.—The first half of the 72-hole golf match between Frank Foxhall, winner of the Greenbelt Golf association turnament, and Dennis Lavender, champion of the West Texas association, which was tentatively scheduled to start here Sunday, has been indefinitely postponed on account of injuries received by Foxhall in an auto accident about 10 days ago.

The match will be played as soon as Foxhall's condition permits, as both players express an eagerness to meet under the banners of their respective golfing associations.

The Panhandle nine is setting the pace for the valley teams, with only one defeat, and while the Buffs' record thus far is considerably below that of their Sunday opponents, the Buffs have staged a great comeback the last few weeks and loom as a serious dark horse threat in the pennant scramble. Iowa Park has won three successive games.

Sam Rice Remains In Peak Position In American Loop

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Old Sam Rice, the Washington Senators' 38-year-old outfielder, clung grimly to the position of pace setter of the American league individual batting race during the eighth week of the championship campaign, but he could feel the breath of Al Simmons of the Athletics on his neck.

Unofficial figures which includes Wednesday's games gave the Washington veteran a mark of .394, 10 points down from last week, while Simmons with an increase of 10 points, was but five points behind. Rice's margin over Simmons a week ago was 18 points. The best gain of the week was produced by Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, who hiked his mark 36 points to enter the leading 10 circle for the first time this season.

Following Rice and Simmons among the leaders were Cochrane, Philadelphia, .379; Ruth, New York, .371; Hodapp, Cleveland, .367; Dickey, New York, .366; Jolley, Chicago, .357; Gehrig, New York, .351; McManus, Detroit, .348; Foxx, Philadelphia, .339.

The Cleveland Indians, cripples notwithstanding, banged the ball for an increase of seven points and went into the lead in team batting with an average of .306. The Yankees improved their collective efforts to the extent of four points and were second at .300. Washington, tied with Cleveland at .299 a week ago, sloughed three points and landed third at .296.

Philadelphia's fielding was not as good as a week ago by two points, but Connie Mack's team still topped the list with an average of .974. New York gained a point and moved out of a tie with Detroit, which lost one point during the period. Boston clicked off 10 double plays and led with 63, while Cleveland added an even dozen double killings to strengthen its hold on second honors at 54.

Robert Moses Grove, Athletics' tic's fireball thrower, ran into trouble, was charged with two defeats and relinqished the pitching leadership to Mel Harder of Cleveland. The Philadelphia southpaw had a record of seven victories and two defeats, while the Cleveland youngster was credited with seven straight, one more than last week.

Other leaders: Runs batted in, Ruth, New York, 55; stolen bases, Rice, Washington, 11; home runs, Ruth, New York, 19; triples, Combs, New York, 8; double, Cronin, Washington, 19; runs, Ruth, New York, 56; hits, Rice, Washington, 78; total bases, Ruth, New York, 134.

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, June 14.—Bruce Barnes, University of Texas tennis ace, added another title to his collection today when he defeated Jimmy Quick, Dallas, in the finals of the Texas district tournament here. The scores were 6-3, 6-2, 6-2.

A torrid battle in the doubles finals a few minutes before they took the court for their championship tussle was responsible for the wearied condition of the two stars. Quick, paired with his clubmate, John Barr, won from Barnes and Jake Hess, Fort Worth, 6-4, 6-2, 14-12.

Ruth Bailey, St. Louis, another University of Texas entry, ran true to form in defeating Mary Zita McHale, Dallas, 6-0, 6-1, in the finals of the women's singles. She now has held the title two years. Dropping not a single set in the last two tournaments. Paired with John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, Miss Bailey was victorious in the mixed doubles, downing Daniel "Dod" Barr, Dallas, and Miss McHale, 6-2, 6-4.

Lil Stoner's No-Hit Game Is Ninth In Texas League in Last Ten Years

DALLAS, June 14. (AP)—William B. Ruggles, Texas league statistician, delved into his records Saturday and revealed that the no-hit, no-run game pitched by Lil Stoner of Fort Worth Friday against the San Antonio Indians was the ninth similar performance in the league during the last decade.

Oscar Tuero, veteran spitballer, now with Shreveport, was the last hurler to turn the trick over the full nine-inning route. Pitching for Waco, he blanked Shreveport, 4 to 0, in 1925. Since that time there have been a pair of seven-inning no-hitters, but they are not counted.

The record since 1920:

1924—Wachtel, Fort Worth, vs. Shreveport, 6 to 0.

1924—Barfoot, Houston, vs. Wichita Falls, 2 to 1. (The game went 11 innings, two hits being allowed in the extra frames).

'WONDER SAND' YOUNG COUNTY HOLDS AREA'S OIL INTEREST

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Interest of the operators in the Wichita Falls district the past week was divided between the operations north of the town of Newcastle in Young county, where a number of remarkable shallow producers were completed from the "wonder" sand which is encountered at an approximate depth of 690 to 709 feet, and the development of the various tracts in the vicinity of the Nash & Windfohr well on the McCloud land in the Graham area.

In the latter field, where many deep tests are in different stages of completion, so far prospects for the bringing in of another gusher from the 3757-foot sand, the pay from which the gusher receives its output—is a remote possibility as several of the important tests have already passed the 3800-foot level.

Northwest of the producer about 3000 feet, T. B. Slick's No. 1 Graham estate in the Paul Prier survey is the lone test to pick up a show at the McCloud depth, the well making several flows from the saturated lime from 3753 to 3815 feet. Plans are under way to place a shot in the lime in an effort to increase the production.

To the northwest of this test, Pitzer & West's No. 1 Callahan drilled to 3925 feet, but will plug back to shoot a sand at 3804-15 feet, which had a small show of oil and gas.

Panhandle Refining company's No. 1 Morrison, in the Hammon survey, southeast of the Nash & Windfohr producer, has missed the expected pay and is drilling at 4000 feet.

The original Nash & Windfohr producer, which at one time produced 25,000 barrels per day, still continues to produce 1,600 barrels daily with a noticeable decrease in the water volume.

North of Newcastle in the Dr. Riggs area, activities during the week resulted in the bringing in of a number of good producers. The best of these, Dr. Riggs No. 7 Larimore in section 2247, T. E. & L. survey, is flowing 70 barrels per hour from the 690-foot pay. Other good wells were completed by W. B. Hamilton on the same section, No. 2 Larimore flowing 500 barrels per day. Brazelton and others also finished their No. 1 Larimore as another 500-barreler. The uncovering of this shallow pay, to which a well can be completed in a few days, has attracted considerable attention and in the neighborhood of three score spudders are in actual operation on the various tracts in the vicinity of the producers. With the bringing in of this great volume of flush production, pipeline facilities has been taxed to capacity and as a result a number of wells are shut down on the sand, not to complete until transportation of the oil is assured.

Many Deep Tests

In the section east of Herron City in southeast Young county, in the vicinity of the Shaw-Kissenger producers, many deep tests are under way, and during the week, another well was added to the field. Atlantic Oil Producing company's No. 2 Mrs. Jarnigan in the Wm Orrick survey drilled into the pay at 2513-53 feet and in the first 24 hours flowed 713 barrels.

Operations in the townsite of Olney went ahead as usual. New locations were staked out and a couple of wells were brought in. The pool also added two dry holes. Northwest of town about two miles, Rayzor & Adkin's No. 1 Winkler in the Keen & Pointevent survey, a semi-wildcat, was completed at 100 barrels from the sand at 1070-80 feet.

Archer county activities failed during the week to bring forth any happening of an interesting nature. A few small wells were completed, but these were offset to some extent by several failures. New locations staked out compared favorably with the number made in the previous week.

Hopes for another well in Archer City townsite from the 1100-foot sand fell below par in the past few days after three tests in the vicinity of the Eo. Mininch well missed the pay and they are drilling ahead in an effort to pick up a sand at about 1300 feet.

With exception of the bringing in of a few wells on the proved tracts south of Iowa Park and the drilling of several offset tests, the oil situation in Wichita county showed little change from the work done in the previous week.

South of Iowa Park, Trout & Lambert finished thier No. 3 Overby in the sand at 1752 feet and it is swabbing at the rate of 200 barrels. To the north of this production, Staley-Wynne and others' No. 2 Ueal in the Sharpe survey is rated as a 75-barreler from the same pay depth. To the east of Trout & Lambert the Prairie-Comac No. A-1 Neal is showing 90 barrels from the sand at 1757 feet.

The usual number of locations made, several test drilling, and the completion of a couple of small wells and an equal number of dry holes was the progress reported in the pools of Cooke and Montague counties.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

TULSA, Okla., June 14. (AP)—The number of tests started in Oklahoma since Jan. 1 reached 1,477 this week. The total for the week was 82, of which Oklahoma county had 34 to continue in the lead. Osage county was second with nine and Muskogee county third with six. Pottawatomie, Seminole, Cotton, Okmulgee and Pawnee counties had three each.

Kansas had 25 new starts this week, West Texas 20 and the Texas Panhandle 19. McPherson county led the Kansas areas with six first reports.

KONAWA, Okla., June 14. (UP)—Shell Petroleum's No. 1 Caesar, Konawa pool's greatest producer, threatened to break its own record of 14,000 barrels of oil a day. Opened for gauge yesterday, the well graduated in flow from 1,018 barrels the first hour to 650 barrels an hour.

TULSA, Okla., June 14. (UP)—Operators of each flush field in Oklahoma will hold individual conferences with the statewide proration committee next week to consider proposed proration percentages, it was announced today.

This method of discussion was favored over the scheduled mass meetting.

June 16—10 a. m., East Earlsboro operators meet; 2 p. m., South Earlsboro operators.

June 17—10 a. m., Konawa operators; 2 p. m., Wanette pool or West Asher sector operators.

June 19—10 a. m., general meeting of Greater Seminole field, Allen, Dome, St. Louis and Noble county operators.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP)—The state corporation commission will determine the distinction between an oil and a gas well.

The commission was asked to make this decision by Wirt Franklin, city field operator, who filed a petition for a hearing on citation procedure against operators charged with wasting gas. Franklin said there was widespread wastage of gas and gas pressure in the city field. Distinction in this classification is necessary to determine wastage.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP)—Hearings on three temporary injunctions filed by the city against operators drilling oil wells within the city limits were set for June 18 by Dstrict Judge T. G. Chambers today.

Two suits are against Hall & Briscoe, operators of the No. 1 Holmes well which started the city drilling campaign. Head Petroleum company was the other defendant.

City Counselor M. W. McKenzie prepared a fourth suit against operators in the drilling zone which borders the Hall-Briscoe producer.

C. C. Julian Petroleum company attorneys argued their right to open a boulevard to oil drilling before the state supreme court today.

DALLAS, Texas, June 14. (AP)—The Harris No 1 well of Odell, Lawton & Askew, in section 11-12-13, De Soto parish, five miles east of Grand Cane near Shreveport, which blew in early this week as a large gasser, continued to run wild yesterday. So great was the gas pressure that it blew 800 feet of drill stem from the hole while efforts, still under way, were made to control the well.

The Cosden Refining company plant, three miles east of Big Spring and the largest refinery in West Texas, will be enlarged to a rated capacity of 16,500 barrels. Excavation work has been started on a 6,500-barrel still especially designed to handle the West Texas crude. The refinery employs 315 men whose pay roll amounts to approximately $500,000.

Election Contest Report

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—A majority report of a house elections committee that the election board in the fourth precinct of the third ward in Baltimore had disregarded "every provision" of the Maryland election laws in the John Philip Hill-Vincent L. Palmisano contest in 1928 for the seat in the third congressional district was filed today with the house.

Pipe line runs from the pools of the district for the week ended Saturday, June 14, averaged 104,375 barrels a day, a loss of 145 barrels daily as compared with the preceeding week's runs which were 104,520 barrels.

Part of Plato's philosophy was to the effect that the mind was always superior to the body and should at all times control it.

NEW PRODUCING PEAK SET FOR PENN OIL POOL

Three New Wells Added During Week to Ector Field

ANDREWS COUNTY WELL GIVEN PUMPING TEST

Striking of Sulphur Water Brings One of Week's Disappointments

(Special to The Times)

SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 14.—Pumping of 425 barrels the first 24 hours by Deep Rock Oil company and others' No. 1 A. R. King, Andrews county's second producer, the addition of three wells in the Penn pool in Ector county increasing the total number to 36, and a further rise of more than 1,000 barrels in daily production to a new peak of 17,365 barrels for the field were among developments this week in the West Texas Permian basin.

Big Lake Oil company's No. 1-C University, sixth and latest producer from below 8200 feet in the world's deepest producing pool in Reagan county, continued to flow a daily average of around 450 barrels of high gravity oil from 8668 feet, while Texon's No. 2-B University, 8489 feet deep, had shown a gain from around 1625 to 1741 barrels daily. Big Lake's No. 2-C University had drilled Thursday to 8277 in lime and shale, and Big Lake's No. 3-C University was preparing to drill ahead from 8576 feet with cable tools. Daily average yield of around 2800 barrels by Texon's No. 1-B University, discovery deep well in the area, had swelled total recovery since Dec. 1, 1928, to approximately 1,390,000 barrels. Depth is 8525 feet.

One of the week's disappointments was the striking of sulphur water at 4390 feet in Deep Rock and others' No 1 Hayden Miles, in section 22, block A-46, public school land, one and one-half miles south of the same companies' No. 1 Ogden, the Andrews county discovery producer. The test shut down at 4400 feet for engine repairs with the hole full of water, and it was thought possible that 6 3-16-inch casing might be run to shut off the water and deepen. Cranfill Brothers' No. 1 J. B. Tubb, west central Crane county wildcat, in section 8, block B-27, 18 miles west of the Church-Fields pool, encountered gas increases at 2900-07 and 2930-35 feet to as high as an estimated 10,000,000 cubic feet and there was a small showing of oil at 2995. But in drilling Thursday to 3195 feet in brown lime the gas had declined back to its former level, around 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 cubic feet, and possibly lower, and there had been no further oil shows. At 3195 feet the test was 740 feet in the lime, if the first lime stringer at 2455 is used as the top.

Phillips-Interstate's No. 1 J. A. Whitten, in section 35, block LL, T. C. Ry. Co. survey, Schleicher county, another important wildcat, had drilled Thursday to 6777 feet, logging sand with a little shale from 6775-77 fet. It apparently carried no oil, however. The test had around 300 feet of oil of more than 50 gravity in the hole from 6300-36 feet in sand, where about 750,000 cubic feet of gas also was encountered.

Sinclair Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Dodge estate in eastern Howard county, only about a mile and a half southwest of California company's producing Foster lease in Mitchell county, was shot with 230 quarts from 2452 to 2570 feet, cleaned itself and headed four times. There was 1700 feet of oil in the hole Thursday. The well is in the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of section 11, block 30, township 1 south, T. & P. Ry Co. survey, and was expected to make a small producer.

Well on Pump

Deep Rock and others' No. 1 A. R. King, south offset to the same companies' No. 1 Ogden, Andrews county discovery well, was completed at 4454 feet with the running of 2½-inch tubing and its going on the pump. Pay was topped at 4290 feet, 15 feet higher than in the Ogden, but there was little, if any, increase in oil below 4380. The discovery well showed water at 4428 feet, still making 160 to 175 barrels of cut oil daily, and the absence of water in No. 1 A. R. King in drilling to 4454 feet raised the questions of whether the depth on the discovery well was correct and whether the water might not be bottom hole. The Andrews field is scheduled to obtain an outlet early in July when Atlantic completes an eight-inch welded 80-mile pipe line from its Midland county through Andrews county to Hobbs, N. M.

When Deep Rock and others' No. 1 Hayden Miles (B. L. King) struck sulphur water at 4390 feet. It had had no oil or gas shows of any consequence since an estimated 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas was struck at 4163 feet, although the gas increased slightly at 4275 feet and there was a small oil show at 4305. Deep Rock and others' No. 1 Mathis, in section 4, block A-46, public school land, one and three-quarters miles east of No. 1 Ogden, encountered a small show of dead oil at 4281 feet and a slight oil show at 341 feet but at 4370 made only a bailer of oil hourly and 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas. It had drilled to 4428 feet, unchanged. Fuhrman Petroleum corporation's No. 1 W. T. Ford, in section 16, block A-43, public school land, reamed to straighten a crooked hole after recovering a bit and was scheduled to resume drilling at 4260 feet in anhydrite. R. R. Penn and others' No. 1 Wilson, in the center of section 20, block A-37, public school land, was underreaming 10-inch casing to 1665 feet in red rock.

One of the most encouraging developments of the week in Ector county was the topping of the grey lime in Skelly-Republic's No. 1 McKenzie approximately 100 feet higher than the top of the grey lime in Texas-Pacific's No. 1 McKenzie, which it offsets on the south. The tests are in section 28, block 45, about one and one-half miles northwest of Shell's No. 1 Jones, one of two farthest northern producers in the Penn pool. The Skelly-Republic test topped the grey lime at 3355 feet, 423 below sea level, while the T. & P. test topped the grey lime at 3455 feet, 520 feet below sea level. The T.-P. test has been shut down for sometime after plugging back from 3870 to 3775 feet, shooting and swabbing one and one-half barrels of oil hourly.

One of the week's new producers in the Penn pool was Gulf's No. 1-B Connell, north offset to Texas-Cosden's No. 7 Connell, which effected a mile western extension. It topped the pay at 3468 feet and flowed 70 barrels of oil in 11 hours. It had drilled Wednesday to 3495 feet. Location is in the southeast corner of the northeast quarter of section 1, block B-16, public school land. Gulf's No. 7 Connell continued to produce a daily average of around 250 barrels. Texas-Cosden made a location for No. 8 Connell, a half mile north of No. 7 Connell and 330 feet from the south line and 440 feet from the east line of section 2, block B-16, public school land.

Cosden's No. 3-B University, 2310 feet from the north line and 1320 feet from the east line of section 2, block 35, was completed for initial production of 331 barrels after a shot with 120 quarts from 3566 to 3650 feet. The well topped the pay at 3525 feet, had an increase at 3565 and drilled to 3654 feet. It is 880 feet west of Cosden's No. 2-B University. Landreth's No. 3-S University, south offset to Gulf's No. 3 University, 880 feet west of Landreth's No. 2-S University and 1320 feet from the east line and 330 feet from the north line of section 2, block 35, had a showing of oil at 3525 feet and produced 25 barrels of oil in drilling to 3642 feet.

Producer Completed

Humble and others' No. 7 York, which was shot the week before with 120 quarts from 3645 to 3710 feet and flowed 309 barrels of oil in 24 hours, was completed at 3710 feet, producing 67 barrels in 24 hours ending Tuesday morning and 247 barrels the next day. The well is 1650 feet from the south line and 440 feet from the west line of section 16, block 44, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, one location south of Humble and others' No. 6 York and an east offset to Gulf's No. 2-A University. Humble and others' No. 8-D Kloh, another recent producer, was shot with 150 quarts from 3640-82 feet, flowed 15 barrels oil the first hour and 139 barrels in 24 hours ending Wednesday. Pay was topped at 3620 feet and the well was drilled to 3704 feet.

Humble and others' No. 9-D Kloh also drilled to 3704 feet, was shot with 140 quarts from 3600 to 3700 feet and flowed 50 barrels the first hour and 990 barrels in 24 hours. It topped the pay at 3620 feet. Cosden's No. 1-C University, east offset to Gulf's No. 1-B Connell, topped the brown lime at 3055 feet and had drilled to 3125. Sunray-Llanb's No. 1 Jones, in section 6, half a mile north of Shell's No. 1 Jones, had drilled to 2945 feet in anhydrite.

Carl G. Cromwell's Nos. 1 and 2 Nutt, shallow producers of high gravity, sweet oil in Irion county, pumped a daily average of 74.805 barrels during a six-day period ending June 7. No. 7 Nutt pumps only 10 on 12 barrels daily. Cromwell shipped two more carloads of oil to the San Angelo refinery, bringing the total number marketed at $1.08 a barrel to seven. Cromwell No. 3 Nutt, 300 feet south of No. 2 Nutt, was underreaming 12½-inch casing to 410 feet in gray lime in midweek. The Nutt lease is the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of subdivision 6, Gonzales county school land. Cromwell's No. 1 Tankersley, about 1¾ miles south and slightly west of Cromwell No. 2 Nutt, was scheduled to spud during the week. It is 150 feet from the north line and 210 feet from the west line of the east half of section 1230.

Phillips Petroleum company's No. 6 Ramsey, a new producer recently completed on the southwestern edge of the Yaets pool in Pecos county, flowed 225 barrels in 24 hours on a proration test. It struck the first oil at 1540 feet, 40 feet in the lime, and drilled to 1624 feet, and was shot twice, from 1602-52 feet. Location is 2722 feet from the north line and 1540 feet from the west line of section 17, block 194, G. C. & S. F. Ry Co. survey. G. A. Henshaw Jr., Inc., No. 2 University, new producer on the southwest side of the Taylor-Link pool in Pecos county, flowed 125 barrels of oil the first 12 hours after cleaning out sand and erecting a gun barrel of 200 barrels capacity.

Fisher & Lowrie's No. 1 Webb, Pecos county wildcat in section 3, block 203, Tillman Walters survey, topped salt at 2455 feet, 460 feet above sea level, which was unexpected for the area, went out of the salt at 2555 feet and had drilled to 2610 feet in anhydrite with a trace of lime.

Several Good Wells Completed in Wilbarger County Fields During Week Despite Humble Withdrawal

VERNON, Texas, June 14.—Considerable gloom has been manifested in Wilbarger county oil circles following the announcement that the Humble company would discontinue the purchasing of oil from this section, effective July 1. Operators here are apprehensive of a price cut in this area as a result of the Humble company's action.

In spite of the pessimism, a number of tests have been completed here this week. One particularly discouraging completion marked the activities for the week. A wildcat drilled by W. B. Hamilton, located in section 4, H. & G. N. survey, failed to pick up paying production at 1200 feet. The well had a small showing of oil from a sand at 1220 to 1232 feet, but drilling was continued. The well is located a mile northwest of production in the Consolidated pool, in the direction of Vernon, and is still expected to pick up the Consolidated pay.

Phillips Petroleum company's No. V-1, in the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 44, block 4, H. & T. C. survey, swabbed 100 barrels in 12 hours after being shot three times in the pay from 1866 to 1886 feet.

Fain & McGaha's W-26, section 32, block 4, H. & T. C. survey, swabbed 185 barrels in 24 hours after picking up a paying formation at 2289 feet.

Phillips NN-23, section 42, block 4, H. & T. C. survey, is being cleaned out after picking up the sand at 2295 feet. It swabbed 50 barrels in 12 hours.

Phillips' V-1, section 44, block 4, H. & T. C. survey, has the pay from 1851 to 1886 feet. It swabbed 58 barrels in 12 hours and operators are making preparations to bring it in.

Atlantic's No. 14, section 50, block 2, H. & T. C. survey, flowed 20 barrels after picking up the sand at 2670 feet, and a pump is being installed.

Grayback Development corporation's A-4, section 35, block 2, H. & T. C. survey, swabbed 125 barrels in 24 hours after encountering the sand at 2665 feet.

Waggoner estate's P-12, section 35, block 2, H. & T. C. survey, is being cleaned out at 2671 feet and swabbed 111 barrels, with some water.

Golding & Cochran's H-7, section 32, block 4, H. & T. C. survey, is waiting on orders to be drilled in at 2524 feet.

Davis Oil corporation's No. A-9, section 35, block 2, H. & T. C. survey in the Zacaquiesta pool, is drilling at 2675 feet in a saturated lime picked up at 2663 feet.

Prairie Oil company's B-10 in the southeast quarter of section 40, block 4, H. & T. C. survey, is drilling in a sandy lime at 1861 feet after passing through a sand from 1855 to 1858 feet.

The line will extend from the Eagle Pass fields in Texas to the central electric power plant of the Central Power and Light company, 12 miles northwest of Del Rio, Texas.

Ask Your Grocer

LONDON. — Perhaps you'll be asking your grocer for some "Monosodium glutamate" in the near future. It is a preparation being made from soy beans in China and Japan, and is used as a flavoring for foods. It can be used in soups and other dishes, and as a meat flavoring.

BLACKOR . . .
THE SUPER HARD-FACING PRODUCT
Blackor covers the entire abrasion surface of a tool rather than just intermittent areas and forms a solid wall of the toughest abrasion-resistant armor known. It has the tensile strength of steel, and because it is applied in a solid mass, it offers the greatest area of resistance to abrasion, which, combined with its close-to-diamond hardness, results in a sharper cutting edge for a longer time. This assures fewer changes of tools, less labor and increased production.

A*cross the week* from SUNDAY

Last week is history. What we're looking at, this morning, is this week; and what we're to do with it before another Sunday comes. We're in an impression interval, this morning; and making some decisions today that will come to fulfillment in each, or several, of the six days just ahead.

There's so much more to Sunday, as we all know well, than just being Sunday; it's a plan day for the other six.

Especially—since all the family is together on Sunday, much more than on other days—especially are we apt to make decisions about things for the house, the family, ourselves. It may be an automobile or a radio or a washing machine; it may be a vacation or a building lot or a bond; it may be clothes or jewelry or books. Whatever it is, the purchase is apt to be foreshadowed in the plans that are made on Sunday.

The Wichita Times in thousands upon thousands, of homes this morning, is implanting suggestions about what direction such purchases shall take. People may or may not remember, when they make a purchase in a store, what paths led to this sale; but every Times reader can think of times when his Sunday plans for a later purchase have been given impetus and direction by a Sunday Times ad—though it do no more, in some cases, than remind him of his plans.

Advertisers, who watch for and count upon such selling influences, do well to remember that the Times Sunday circulation gives them handsome representation, influential representation, in Wichita Falls and in the rich surrounding territory.

BEARISH PRESSURE FEATURES TRADING CURB STOCKS LIST

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—The more active curb stocks were again subjected to bearish pressure today, and closed about 1 to 4 points lower. The market opened steady to firm, but shortly turned downward with a bear drive against Electric Bond & Share.

Continued heavy dealings in Cities Service rights carried total curb sales to 1,570,800 shares, in excess of the stock exchange turnover of 1,253,100 shares. The stock closed at 29⅛, off ⅛.

Bond and Share dropped 4⅝ points to 88⅝, only about 8 points above the year's low. American Superpower, American Light & Traction new, Brazilian Traction, American Gas & Electric, Middle West Utilities, United Gas and United Light A sagged 1 to 3 points.

Columbia pictures again were strong, closing about 2 points higher and Consolidated Aircraft made similar gain. Deere and Cooper Bessemer each lost more than 3 points, and Ford of Canada A, International Salt new, lost about 2. Technicolor slipped off a point.

Oils were largely under pressure. Ohio slipped back nearly a point. Humble and Gulf lost more than 2. Vacuum, however, closed fractionally higher.

Cash Grain

FORT WORTH, June 14. (AP)—Wheat prices on the cash grain market here today nominally followed the slump in contract values but no sales were reported as sellers' and buyers' views were far apart. Price committee of the Fort Worth grain and cotton exchange reported it impossible to quote accurate values in the unsettled condition of the market which may become worse as new crop grain floods terminals. Nominal prices of $1.02½@1.05 for ordinary No. 1 hard wheat on track at Fort Worth were said to represent the views of the trade here, these being the lowest prices since June, 1929, when $1.00@1.01 was quoted on actual sales.

Saturday afternoon exporters took hold, bidding 99¼c to 19.00½ for ordinary export wheat, basis delivered Texas gulf ports for June shipment.

Fair demand was found for corn, but sorghums and barely were very slow with the market showing no sales of oats or barley.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Wholesale Throwing Overboard of Holdings for Future Deliveries of All Grains Sends Prices Downward

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Wholesale throwing overboard of holdings of future deliveries of all grain sent values crashing downward today, with wheat reaching as low as 99c a bushel.

This was the first time during 1930 that wheat has sold at less than $1, and not only wheat but corn, rye and oats broke the season's previous bottom price record. Rye plumbed the lowest depth since 1904.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady at but little above the day's bottom prices and 1¼@2⅜c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 2½@3¼c down, oats ⅞@1⅜c off and provisions varying from 30c decline to a rise of 5c.

Other traders, who took little stock in talk about foreigners retaliating gave considerable heed to dispatches saying that the harvest of wheat in Kansas, the leading wheat state in this country, had already begun, and that the spread of the harvest northward should soon be adding to the surplus of last year's wheat that has long been awaiting an outlet.

At times wheat prices today snapped nervously back to above $1 a bushel, but such rallies proved transient, and at no time did the market recover to anywhere near yesterday's finish. The rallies were apparently due mostly to profit taking on the part of previous speculative sellers.

Throughout the greater part of the day, corn led in the general retreat toward lower prices for grain. Bears asserted that corn values have been too high as compared with other cereals, and especially out of line with feed stuffs. Besides, heavy closing cut of socalled spread transactions, between corn and rye left corn today minus a recent notable source of buying support.

Provisions were influenced by sympathy with grain weakness.

QUIET HALF DAY IN BOND MARKET CHANGES SLIGHT

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—A quiet half-day session brought little change in the price level of listed bonds today.

Southern Pacific 4½ per cent and bond issues were firm. Louisville & Nashville 4½s, Great Northern 4½s and Pere Marquette 4½ gained about a half point. New England 4s established a new high for the year. Other rails were steady.

Quiet improvement in utilities raised them to the highest point of the year according to the averages, with the best demand for International Telephone 5s, North American Hydro Electric 6s, Louisville Gas & Electric 5s, North American Edison 5s, Northern Ohio Traction and Light 6s.

Reports of a pending merger of Transcontinental oil with Ohio oil lent strength to its stock and was reflected in a rise of 1¾ points on its 6½ per cent bonds. Industrial issues were irregular. Shell Union Oil issues were in demand and firm. International Telephone 4½ dropped 2¼ to a new year's low and American Telephone 4½s sagged 2 points on a few sales.

Light trading took place in U. S. governments with prices unchanged, and liberty 4¼ per cent issues the only ones to attract any interest. Closing prices were irregular.

Cottonseed Oil

NEW ORLEANS, June 14. (AP)—Despite the weakness in cotton today, cottonseed oil ruled fairly steady early but was easier at the close. Prime summer yellow oil closed at 7.30 and prime crude closed at 6.62½ to 6.75c. Futures closed barely steady. June 7.30; July 7.40; Sept. 7.45; Oct. 7.50; Dec. 7.55.

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Cottonseed oil today was unusually active for a Saturday and generally easy under continued liquidation due to the weakness in cotton, lard, grains and stocks. Sales were 11,550 barrels, including 7,800 barrels of old and 3,750 new. Prime crude 6.87½; prime summer yellow old: Spot 8.30, July 8.27, Sept. 8.30, Oct. 8.34, Dec. 8.27; new: 7.93, Jan. 8.07, March 8.18.

Boston Wool Market

BOSTON, June 14. (AP)—Demand for 64s and finer wools was fairly heavy and prices showed an advancing tendency. Sales at 75 cents scoured basis were much more frequent than during the previous week and practically all offerings available were held at 72 cents or above. A few lines very short combing western similar to Arizona wools were available around 70 cents.

Fleeces of 64s and finer quality wools also were fairly strong at the same ranges of prices as prevailed during the previous week. Lower grades were fairly active with 56s preceding a somewhat better demand than for some time.

FURTHER SLUMP IN PRICES FOR STOCKS WITH SALES HEAVY

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Stock prices weakened again today, and the market thus slipped back into the trend that has persisted for a fortnight with only two or three ephemeral interruptions.

How much of the selling was prompted by the decline in commodity prices, especially wheat and copper, and how much by the legislative action on the tariff bill was problematical. It was noticeable, however, that the list turned downward after the opening of the Chicago grain market and after a reduction in the export price of copper metal had been announced.

Wheat broke below $1 a bushel. On the cotton exchange all months made new lows for the season. Copper Exporters, Inc., cut the export price from 13 cents to $12.55 a pound.

The rather disconcerting situation in the copper industry, in view of recent price movements, led to a selling movement in the copper shares, several of which dropped sharply. Anaconda lost about 2 points, touching the lowest level in nearly four years. American Smelting, Phelps Dodge and St. Joseph Lead made new lows for the year or longer.

The weakness of this group was accompanied by renewed selling of the rails, whose composite price touched a new 1930 minimum. Baltimore and Ohio, Atchison, Nickel Plate and Rock Island all sold into new low ground.

International Telephone was subjected to unusually severe pressure and broke to the new low of 48⅛. At the closing quotations of 48⅛ the stock was 5 points net lower. U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas, General Electric, Western Union, Radio and National Biscuit yielded 2 to 4 points and finished virtually at the bottom. American Tobacco "B" lost 7 points.

Wheat closed 1¾ to 2⅜ cents lower. The selling was attributed to a bearish Canadian crop estimate of 425,000,000 bushel minimum, a weak cash market and good rains in the Northwest, corn was 2½ to 3¼ cents lower on a favorable Kansas report, weak Southwest markets and beneficial rains in the Northwest. The net losses in cotton ran from $1.30 to $2.75 a bale.

Wool Trading Heavy

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Heavy trading in wool has been reported by a number of wool houses during the past week. The greater part of the demand was on 64s and finer original bag territory or other western grown wools, although similar quality fleeces have been strong. A fair business has been done on several of the lower grades of fleece and territory lines. A feature of the week has been a revival of interest in 58s quality domestic wools. Prices steady.

A fairly strong demand was received on the combing classes of 64s and finer Ohio and similar fleeces. Prices firm. Some 48s 50s, 56s, at steady prices. Strictly combing 48, 50s, salable at current quotations.

Drygoods Market

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Cotton goods markets were quiet and unchanged today. Easy prices on print cloths and sheetings were reported as cotton fell further, fine goods markets were quiet. Wool goods were selling better, with broader interest in the new season's requirements. Raw silk markets were moderately busy with considerable buying for later requirements at low prices reported for the week. Burlaps markets were unchanged here and in Calcutta with large stocks reported and steady prices current.

NEW LOW GROUND IN COTTON MARKET FOR SEASON 1930

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Further sharp declines in cotton here today were attributed to renewed liquidation of July and selling of large deliveries promoted by the continued favorable average of crop advices coned with reiterated reports of a slow demand for cotton goods, and weaknesses in grain.

All months made new low ground for the season with July contracts selling off to 13.85 or 55 points net lower while the new October broke to 13.15, with the general market closing easy at net declines of 25 to 55 points.

Weakness in wheat was doubtless a contributing factor in the nervous and unsettled ruling of cotton. Stop orders were uncovered on the decline which extended to 13.39 for the old October and 13.34 for the new December contract in the late trading when the new crop months showed net losses of about 26 to 33 points. Closing quotations were the lowest of the day on all positions and the July premium over the new October was reduced from 99 points at the close of Friday to 70 points at the close of today's market.

The census report showing domestic consumption of lint cotton of all growths for May of 473,917 bales compared with 668,650 in May last year, was a shade below expectations if anything, but was not generally mentioned as a factor on the decline. Owing to the holiday there were no cables from Liverpool to influence sentiment there either way.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, June 14. (AP)—Cotton worked into new low ground for the movement Saturday with further drastic liquidation in the July position. The decline was due to continued good weather, favorable crop reports, uneasiness over the tariff situation, further weakness in stocks, a fresh decline in silver to 15⅝ and rather bearish domestic consumption statistics from May. Liverpool was still closed.

In the absence of Liverpool first trades showed losses of 5 to 11 points and the market eased after the start. At the end of the first hour July traded at 13.85, down 20 points while October dropped to 13.32 and December to 13.49, down 12 to 13 points.

The market continued on the down grade for the rest of the session, the decline being helped by the rather bearish May domestic consumption statistics of 473,317 bales. The market closed at the lowest with July at 13.56, down 49 points net and October at 13.22, down 23 net.

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Cotton goods markets were quiet and unchanged today. Easy prices on print cloths and sheetings were reported as cotton fell further. Fine goods quiet. Which Girl?

"I've a letter from a fellow who says if I don't stop taking his girl out he'll take drastic action."

"Nothing."

RECENT RADIO DISCOVERY MAY TRANSFORM CONGESTED ETHER LANES INTO BROAD HIGHWAY

NEW YORK, June 14. (INS)—A radio discovery which may mean the transforming of the narrow congested ether cowpath into a broad highway was announced today.

Heralded as forecasting far-reaching results for the radio listener and the radio industry, successful trials of a means for operating two radio broadcasting stations on the same wave length have been accomplished by the Western Electric company.

"The system will eventually mean a great economic saving, an increased service with more varied programs to radio listeners, and a clearing of congestion in the air," said Nelson.

The tests were made at station WOC at Davenport, Iowa, and WHO at Des Moines, both owned by the Central Broadcasting company.

"This synchronization device will probably be increased to approximately 2,000 stations on the same number of wave lengths," J. A. Merquelin, Western Electric company engineer, told International News Service.

Many Advantages

"It will either increase the number of broadcasting stations or increase the availability of wave lengths for other purposes such as television.

"Besides furnishing better reception to the radio public it will give an opportunity for many millions of people to tune in on national broadcasting chain stations where before they were only able to have localized programs.

"National radio chains which have been working on approximately a total of 80 air channels will probably only need about five wave lengths."

Operation of the system involves as ingenious method of "monitoring" which is possible only by reason of frequency stability.

At Marengo, Iowa, a point about midway of the 190-mile distance between the two transmitters, a radio receiver was installed and tuned to both stations.

The program is picked up and sent over a telephone line to Davenport where it is put on a loud speaker in the control room of station WOC.

Before the inauguration of this system, WOC and who shared a cleared channel, each station using the channel on alternate periods.

Under the proposed arrangement, authorization for which is being sought from the federal radio commission, each station will operate during all broadcsating hours, transmitting a common program.

BLIND SENATOR TO FACE ELECTION HURDLE MONDAY

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 14. (AP)—Minnesota's blind United States senator, Thomas D. Schall, Republican, faces the hurdle Monday which has dropped three fellow senators by the wayside this spring—the primary election in his home state.

His challenge comes from two sources, the powerful Republican faction, which seeks to nominate Gov. Theodore Christianson, and John F. Selb, a late entry who has concentrated on one issue—the repeal of the 18th amendment. The latter's opponents have supported prohibition.

Today, the last of the formal campaign, still had failed to bring conflict between Schall and Christianson on national issues and to a large extent the race had been reduced to a bitter personal fight for leadership of the party in the state, for which they have been rivals since elected to their present posts in 1924.

The three senators beaten in spring primaries were Joseph R. Grundy, Republican, Pennsylvania; Charles S. Deneen, Republican, Illinois, and F. M. Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina.

Motorists Fined or Go to School

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Motorists here may attend a drivers' school in lieu of paying fines. The method has been found effective in preventing traffic accidents, according to the police department. Classes for careless drivers are held once a week.

POPULATION LOUISVILLE SHOWS GAIN OF 72,917

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 14. (AP)—The 1930 population of Louisville was announced as 307,808, an increase of 72,917, or 31.12 per cent.

The city had a population of 234,891 10 years ago and its growth enabled it to pass Columbus and Toledo, Ohio, Providence, R. I., and Portland, Ore. Extension of the city limits added about 35,000.

STILL HOPEFUL CONGRESS WILL END THIS WEEK

Two Controversial Measures Have Place on Senate Calendar

HOUSE IMPATIENT AND WANTS SENATE TO ACT

Weary Legislators Already Leaving Washington For Their Homes

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Two controversial measures were given a place on the senate calendar today but congressional leaders were still hopeful the impatient house would prod the senate to an adjournment by the end of next week.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader, placed the house bill regulating motor bus transportation on the calendar behind the rivers and harbors bill and the veterans' relief measures. Controversies are in prospect on the motor bus and rivers and harbors bill.

House leaders with their principal work done, demanded adjournment by next Saturday, and suggested sending to the senate the adjournment resolution early in the week.

Legislators Leaving

The weary legislators already were beginning to leave the city tonight, with the tariff bill finally on its way to the White House. In view of the exodus from the capitol there were grave doubts that quorum could be mustered in the senate to thrash out the disputes on the rivers and harbors bill and on the motor bus measure. Agreements looking to early passage of the controverted measures with understandings that they would be left in conference over the summer and taken up again next session for settlement of disputes between the senate and house were sought.

Once adjournment is taken, the senate will be called back by President Hoover immediately for the special session to consider the London treaty. It is believed a showdown will come on the treaty within 10 days.

OKLAHOMA POPULATION GAINS 12.75 PER CENT

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 13 (UP)—Oklahoma's population registered a 12.75 per cent gain during the past 10 years, the 1930 census figures released tonight showed.

The state's 1930 population was announced as 2,388,955, a gain of 360,702 over the 1920 total of 2,028,283.

Oklahoma county retained its place at the head of county populations with 219,081 persons. Tulsa county was second with 187,405.

The greatest gain was shown by Seminole county, with a 1930 population of 78,469, a gain of 229.6 per cent over the 1920 census.

It was believed Oklahoma may gain one congressman as a result of its census gain. It has eight representatives in the house now.

REBELS DEFEAT CHINESE ARMY

Nationalist Troops Retreat On Two Battlefields

SHANGHAI, June 14 (AP)—Nationalist government armies were reported defeated and in retreat today on two battlefields in the civil war that threatens its existence.

The Kwangsi province rebel armies smashed the government forces 40 miles south of Wuchang in Hupeh province, said dispatches from the battlefield, and hurled them back toward the tri-cities Wuchang, Hankow and Hanyang on the Yangtse river.

Simultaneously 50,000 northern alliance rebels forced their way across the yellow river in Shantung province and began marching upon Tsinan, 50 miles southwest. It was said by Japanese dispatches that "only a miracle will enable the Nationalists to retain Tsinan."

In a third area, the Nationalists met with some success, according to a dispatch from their Hankow headquarters. Government forces 100 miles south of Chengchow in Honan province, crippled the northern offensive when Nationalist aviators bombed rebel military trains, destroying five supply trains and two armored cars.

Personally commanding his 70,000 troops, President Chiang Kiashek was defeated and forced to fall back toward the Yangtse, where he may be supported by Nationalist gunboats.

WILL BEGIN NEW SANTA FE LINE TO COLORADO JULY 1

TOPEKA, June 14 (UP)—Work on the first unit of the Santa Fe's new railroad from Amarillo, Texas, to Las Animas, Colo., a 220-mile construction job undertaken to shorten the distance between Denver and the gulf, will begin July 1, it was announced today at the Santa Fe's general offices here. Approximately 1,000 men will be employed on the construction.

Surveying crews have been working for some time in the vicinity of Amarillo, Springfield, Colo., and Boise City, Okla.

President W. B. Storey of the Santa Fe said $14,300,000 would be spent in 381 miles of new track. It is estimated that the cost of the 220-mile first unit will be more than $8,000,000. The first unit will be pushed as rapidly as possible.

The work on a stretch of 110 miles from Felt, Okla., to Polma, Mexico, to connect with Dodge City and skirt the Raton mountains will also be done as rapidly as possible, Storey said.

TWO LOSE LIVES WHEN FORMER WHISKY ROW IN CALIFORNIA TOWN BURNS

COALINGA, Calif., June 14 (AP)—Whisky row, where men made "whoopee" under another name in other days in an unbroken line of saloons was destroyed by fire today, taking two lives. Firemen found in the ashes the charred bodies of Tom Kinney, a waiter, and Edward Fredericks, an oil worker.

Damage was estimated by authorities at $100,000. Since prohibition the row consisted of soft drink parlors and rooming houses.

A bit of melodrama in the predawn blaze was provided by City Marshal S. T. Hayes, who climbed to a wooden balcony and carried Jean McDonald, proprietress of a rooming house, down a ladder to safety.

SEEK INTERNATIONAL HONORS

STILLWATER, Okla., June 14.—Champions of the United States, three Oklahoma farm youths are going abroad this summer to seek international honors in dairy cattle judging.

The three boys, James Childers of Garfield county, and Halley Kennedy and Felix King of Carter county, will represent their country against a team of young English farmers and three youthful Canadians.

The winners of the contest will be named world champions and will be awarded the $1,000 loving cup presented by the London Daily Mail.

The trophy is now in keeping of the Oklahoma 4-H club department as a result of a victory in the 1929 international contest.

American teams have won four times in the world title competition, and the English teams have won three times.

This is the first time, however, that one state has represented the United States in two successive contests.

The three Oklahoma youths sailed from Quebec June 6. They were accompanied by John W. Boehr, dairy specialist of Oklahoma.

American and British agricultural leaders will entertain them before and after the leave America.

President Hoover, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and C. W. Warburton, director of the United States department of agriculture, received the boys before they sailed.

While in England they will be guests of the lord mayor of London, and will be entertained at the American embassy.

In addition to England, the youths will visit Ireland, Scotland, Wales, Isles of Guernsey and Jersey, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, France and the Scandinavian countries.

They will return home July 18.

Childers has made $6,850 profit in his work, and has won 97 ribbons in contests.

Kennedy has been president of his local club for five years and his herd of dairy cows paid his way through high school.

Childers won the individual judging championship in the St. Louis contest, and Kennedy tied for second place.

ROAD ASKED TO WITHDRAW APPLICATION TO CONTROL

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Attorneys for the Wabash railroad asked interstate commerce commission permission today to withdraw the pending application by which that system seeks authority to control the Wheeling and Lake Erie, which line is now in possession of the Nickle Plate.

The petition said the action did not mean the Wabash intended to cease its program for gaining control of the Wheeling, but it was legally advisable to proceed in a slightly different direction.

France is estimated to have 100,000,000 acres of valuable forest reserves in its colonies in Africa.

THOUSAND TROOPS READY TO ENGAGE INDIAN REVOLTERS

BOMBAY, India, June 14 (AP)—One thousand fully armed troops tonight invested this city as the government's threat to deal summarily with violators of Viceroy Lord Irwin's ordinance against picketing by followers of Mahatma Ghandi.

Picketing today earnestly became a criminal offense punishable by six months' imprisonment, with violence certain to provoke immediate activity by the soldiery.

The climax of the civil resistance situation was expected to mark Sunday's activities of congress volunteers detailed to stations in front of cloth and liquor shops.

With the fourth and fifth Mahrattas from Poona already encamped here, the Manchester regiment from Secund Erabad was held in readiness to entrain for Bombay at the moment the authorities should prove unable to cope with the situation. Other troop detachments likewise were held in readiness.

SEAMAN TESTIFIES CREW WAS SLOW IN FIGHTING FLAMES

BOSTON, June 14 (AP)—Tom Farrington, seaman, told federal investigators today that as far as he could see, no water was placed on the fire aboard the blazing steamship Fairfax last Tuesday night for at least 15 minutes after the flaming gasoline from the rammed tanker Pinthis had enveloped the passenger liner.

Farrington who admitted he had been too engrossed in a romance magazine to see the collision which cost 47 lives, said he himself had turned on the after pump.

The testimony directly contradicted that of ship's officers who reported finding ample pressure in the ship's hoses almost immediately after the collision. It also was at variance with those who preceded him on the stand in other important particulars.

Farrington said he saw the radio antennae fall a considerable time after he had returned to deck from the "glory hole," where the pump mechanism is situated. He was fighting fire in a life boat alongside the radio shack when the antennae came down he said and he estimated the time of this at anywhere from 20 to 30 minutes after the impact.

Earlier testimony by J. W. Gewekin, chief radio man and Eugene Neff, his assistant, told of their having sent an SOS approximately six minutes after the crash which occurred at 7:04 p. m.

SENTENCE TWO MURDER TRIAL

Death Verdict in Case New Jersey Slaying

TOM'S RIVER, N. J., June 14 (AP)—Mrs. Hattie Evans and Lester Underdown, a United States marine were convicted today and sentenced to die for the murder of Robert Evans, the woman's sailor husband, and Albert Duffy a former shipmate of Evans.

Although one woman of the jury of four women and eight men had said she could not vote for a verdict of guilty if it meant capital punishment, the verdict was returned without a recommendation for mercy, which would have permitted a sentence of life imprisonment, and so the pair automatically were sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Two women have been hanged in the criminal history of New Jersey, one in 1868 and the other in 1878, but there have been no executions of women since the gallows was replaced by the electric chair 29 years ago. No date has been set for the electrocution of Underdown and Mrs. Evans.

The trial ended today will be followed by another, the defendants in the second being two other marines from the Lakehurst naval air station, where Underdown was also on duty. They are Claude Carmichael and Madison Chappel, whose trial was severed from that of the two convicted today so that they might serve as state witnesses.

They testified that Underdown, who they said had been intimate with Mrs. Evans while her husband was at sea, had offered them $100 to help him "bump a couple of guys off." They said they went with him to the Evans home, where Evans and Duffy were celebrating the former's discharge from the navy, and that he shot the men and then clubbed them with his rifle. After the crime was done, they said, Mrs. Evans kissed Underdown and told him it was a "good job."

Anson Moore, St. Louis, treasurer.

The Okmulgee, Okla., Chamber of Commerce, seeking to have every person in the city counted in the census, offered free theater tickets to persons turning in an unenumerated name.

POLITICAL BATTLE NEW JERSEY ENDS PRIMARY TUESDAY

NEWARK, N. J., June 14 (AP)—New Jersey's nominees for the United States senate, for both a short and a long term, will be selected at primaries Tuesday without opposition in the Democratic ranks, but with plenty of competition among the republicans.

There are four Republican candidates, two for the long term only and two for both the long term and the short.

The candidates are Dwight W. Morrow, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Franklin W. Fort and John A. Kelly. Morrow and Kelly are seeking the nomination for both terms. David Baird Jr., of Camden, who took temporarily the seat of Walter E. Edge when the latter resigned to become ambassador to France, is not a candidate.

The Democratic nominee for the short term will be Miss Thelma Parkinson of Vineland, who entered politics soon after graduating from Smith college, and Alexander Simpson, who has been in the state senate and who was the special prosecutor in the Halls-Mills murder trial, will be given the nomination for the full term.

With Adjournment of Congress Now Near, Washington Society Preparing for Summer Vacation

By GEORGINA WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, June 14.—With adjournment of congress now near, the forces of Washington society are turning to plans for vacations, the diplomatic corps arranging for the establishment of "summer embassies" in the North, and the members of the official set heaving a sigh of relief at the prospect of a change.

For a considerable period, all these plans were held in abeyance, while the tariff and similar problems of national import held congressional noses to the grindstone.

Now, however, comes a rift in the clouds, and there is a glimpse of the end. The army is preparing to disperse.

For the adjournment of congress, aside from meaning the departure of the actual members of that body, entails many far reaching effects in the social life of the national capital. When the congress adjourns, the cabinet is free of leave. Further, the diplomatic corps feels safe to depart for pleasanter summer climes and social life is transferred from the District of Columbia to Bar Harbor, or Newport, or any number of other coastal reports.

Later in the summer there are those of prominence who will probably return to the capital for a day or two when the University of Virginia holds its annual institute of private affairs. To this conference some of the most distinguished figures of the political and economic structure of the country are invited, and to the Washington colony in "the Albermarle"—which they call the Charlottesville section of Virginia—it is an event of unprecedented importance.

The "host" of the conference will be former Governor Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, and among the diplomatic corps representatives who will attend the sessions this year are Senor Don Ricard J. Alfaro, minister from Panama, and Senor Don Arian Recinos, minister from Guatemala.

Around Senor Alfaro particularly, will center considerable social activity during the Charlottesville affair, inasmuch as the affable minister from the Central American canal republic is an old fixture in Washington, and is particularly well known to the Charlottesville summer colony of Washingtonians. Indeed his son, Victor, married Nancy Hamilton, daughter of one of the oldest families in the capital, and the Hamiltons have an extensive estate near Monticello.

In the schedule of June weddings in the capital, perhaps the outstanding one of importance is that of Miss Mary Lee Phillips, of the Virginia Lees, to Francis C. Jameson of this city next Saturday.

Mary Lee is a descendant of the old Montague line of Virginia, and is a niece of Mrs. George Barnett, whose distinguished husband was commandant of the marine corps during the world war. Because of the recent death of the general the wedding will be small, and quiet, but the guest line will be none the less aristocratic.

The piece de resistance of the following week will be nuptials of Miss Marjorie Mondell, daughter of the former house of representatives Republican leader, to Alphons Beaumont Landa. The two will take an eight-month wedding tour through Europe.

BELIEVES METHOD OF DELAYING OLD AGE TO SOON BE OPEN SECRET

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Dr. Irving S. Cutter, dean of Northwestern university medical school, believes a method of delaying old age soon may be an open secret.

Describing laboratory experiments conducted in the school and in wards of the Passavant hospital of which he is superintendent, Dr. Cutter said:

"It has been shown that retention of fluids in the body may be controlled almost at will, increased or decreased by careful management based upon a biochemistry blood analysis. This study bids fair to be of utmost importance in prolonging the lives of patients suffering oedema."

Oedema, he described, as an accumulation of excess fluid in the body tissue, caused by factors closely paralleling those influencing the rapid onslaught of old age.

"Scientists have reason to believe that, succeeding in a treatment of oedema, they may defy old age," he said.

Dean Cutter told of the experiments in connection with the celebration of the first anniversary of the Passavant hospital on the McKinlock campus last night.

CAMP FIRE SPARKS

About 35 Camp Fire Girls went out for the early swim at Westmoreland park Friday morning between 7 and 8 o'clock. Tom Beatty, life guard and instructor at the pool, gave instruction to the beginners, teaching the dead man's float and flutter kick. Mr. Lazzenby complimented the girls on their ability to pick up the work and predicts a splendid group of swimmers among the Camp Fire Girls. After the swim breakfast was cooked and enjoyed.

On each Friday morning from 8 to 9 o'clock, the class for Camp Fire Girls will be held with special instruction. Part of the period will be devoted to the non-swimmers and part to the more advanced ones, with emphasis on strokes and dives to be used in the events for the state-wide swimming meet in San Antonio.

A Camp Fire swimming meet will be held especially for Camp Fire Girls the latter part of August or early part of September.

Executive Board

The executive board of local council will meet on Wednesday, June 18th, for the month luncheon. The Mankilo Camp Fire group will be on hand to sing some Camp Fire songs. All council members are invited to attend.

Receives Letter

Mrs. Chas. Kennedy has received a letter from Charlotte Kennedy from Camp Civitan, where she is serving as assistant handicraft counselor. She is very enthusiastic over the camp and is enjoying her work there. Her letter makes us anticipate our own camp there all the more.

Mrs. Kennedy showed us a letter from E. V. White, dean of the College of Industrial Arts, complimenting Charlotte on her splendid record in school as follows:

"The records of the college for the second semester of the session of 1929-30 show that all of your grades were A's and B's. Such a high standard of scholarship was met by only six per cent of our student body. This is indeed an enviable record of scholastic attainment, and I am writing this letter to congratulate you and to take official cognizance of your merited success."

Charlotte made A plus on her portfolio in art work. A glimpse into the contents of the work which was not retained for exhibition makes us interested to see her best work. Wichita Falls is glad to claim Charlotte as one of its hometown girls and Camp Fire is proud of her as its first torch bearer scholarship girls. We hope there will be many more Camp Fire Girls to keep up the splendid standards which Charlotte has started.

Son Recuperating

Friends of Mrs. Maude Bartholomew will be interested to know that she is very happily located in Denver, Colo. She is rooming with Edith Crump, one of our torch bearers from Wichita Falls who is with the recreation department in Denver, where she is in charge of a playground, as she was last summer. Their address is 1369 East Colfax avenue. Mrs. Bartholomew has secured a position as city-wide handicraft instructor in the playground work for the summer. Her son, Billie, is recuperating in the National Jewish hospital. He is reacting very favorable to the sanitarium life. The doctors believe he will get strong and well with the treatment and care of the hospital.

Picnic for Children

The weekly city-wide summer activity for this week will be a picnic for the day nursery children at Boone's park. All Camp Fire Girls are to meet at Boone's park at 10 o'clock and bring a picnic lunch and 5c. Each group will be given some definite responsibility in the planning of games and entertainment for the children. Mrs. Datson thinks there will be about 40 children for the picnic.

Adi-Iwah

Due to the fact that so many of the girls were out of town, Adi-Iwah group did not meet last week.

This coming Wednesday evening the group will meet at Sand Beach swimming pool at 7 o'clock after which they will go to the home of Frances Hyland for a picnic treat. An overnight will follow. Thursday morning the girls will fill their treasure chest.

Each girl is requested to bring her bathing suit, etc., bed roll, and one article, tissue wrapping paper, etc., for the treasure chest. No picnic lunch is required. Any girl who is in doubt as to what article she shall bring for the chest may call headquarters for information.

Ahsonzong Group

Ahsonzong group met at the home of Irene and Pauline West, 1631 Pearl street, on Thursday afternoon. Some of the girls reported on projects started for their treasure chest. Mrs. Arthur Kirby gave a number of readings.

The group plans to meet at the home of Gladys Young, 1410 Seventeenth street, next Thursday afternoon. They will work on handicraft honor No. 820. Hem 12 tea towels, by hand.

Those attending the meeting were Irene and Pauline West, Loucille Willis, Lucile Murchison, Mrs. Willis, Gladys Young, Mrs. Arthur Kirby, Lois Kay, Dorothy Eubanks, Mildred Walker and Leara Crowder.

Mankilo Group

The Mankilo group held their meeting on Wednesday afternoon instead of Thursday last week on account of Christian Endeavor parade on Thursday. The group met at the home of Elizabeth Gay, 1708 Fillmore. Miss McIlheran taught the girls smoke printing before the business session. Louise Rhoads, the new president, had charge of the business session which was opened with a Camp Fire song. The fire lighting ritual was repeated in unison, after which the pledge of allegiance was given and another song sung. Clarice Clark, torch bearer of Adi-Iwah group, taught the girls several songs to be sung at council luncheon Wednesday at noon.

The group will meet at the home of Dorothy McGown, 1604 Garfield, on Thursday of this week at 2 o'clock. Miss McIlheran and Clarice Clark will give instruction in soap carving. One or more of the best models will be chosen for the treasure chest.

Those attending the meeting were Louise Rhoads, Dorothy McGown, Jane Marie Elliott, Elizabeth Gay, Madilane Hokett, Ruth Loughridge, and Mesdames C. E. Rhoads and G. O. Loughridge.

Oawakiya Group

The Oawakiya group met at the home of Ina Jo Ogle, 1208 Taylor street, Tuesday morning. The plans for the council fire to be held on the lawn of the Brandeberry home, 1207 Buchanan street, on Friday evening, June 20, at 7:30, were discussed as well as the outing to Lake Kemp for the week-end of the 27th and 28th.

The members made attractive felt comb cases with Indian bead stitch in the pastel colors.

The next meeting will be at the home of Margaret Hutchison, 1212 Kemp boulevard on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to practice on songs for council fire.

Those attending were Doris Matthews, Margaret Hutchison, Alpha Lee Gambell, Roberta Guest, Gladys Brandeberry, Dorothea Whitehead, Catherine Uttz, Mrs. T. H. Lawson, president of the local council; Miss McIlheran, Ina Jo Ogle, the hostess, and her mother, Mrs. J. R. Ogle.

DENVER BUSINESS MEN CONVICTED CONSPIRACY

DENVER, June 14. (INS)—Richard M. Crane and C. T. Flynn, two prominent Denver business men, were convicted today of conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses, after a jury in district court had deliberated more than 80 hours.

Nearly 3,000 Colorado residents lost approximately $2,000,000 in an alleged fraudulent stock selling scheme in the defunct Associated Industries, Inc., the collapse of which brought about the charges against the two defendants.

Crane and Flynn are liable to a sentence of from one to ten years imprisonment.

RADIO LICENSE DENIED MILFORD, KAN., STATION

WASHINGTON, June 14. (INS)—The Federal Radio commission today voted, 3 to 2, to deny Station KFKC, at Milford, Kan., its application for a renewal of license.

It was understood operators of the station planned to file an appeal with the District of Columbia court of appeals and should the court grant an order staying the commission's decision, the broadcasts can continue until the case is settled. Today's order bars the station from the air after June 20.

The commission held the station is not operating to the "convenience of the public" because its owner, Dr. John R. Brinkley, it was disclosed at the hearing solicited patients for his hospital and broadcast prescriptions. The American Medical association was the chief complainant.

Commissioners Robinson and Sykes dissented, the former holding that several other stations operate to boost the business of their owners.

The commission said the matter of censorship was not considered as it is not empowered to censor programs.

EVERYTHING UP TO THE MINUTE

BY JAMES J. MONTAGUE

"Aleck," said the Producer to his general director, "I got to thinkin' last night about these fellers that puts on plays in modern dress, an' the way they get away with it. I never thought they would, but they have. An' the reason is easy to see, if you use your bean on it. Folks don't like to see things that don't look familiar to them. You take this 'Hamlet' for instance. As soon as a lot of people come on dressed in circus costumes people get to thinkin' how funny they look, and they don't hear enough of what's said to get interested. That's why Shakespeare in modern dress goes over big. Now listen an' I'll give you an idea.

This Paris shoots up to the house in the snappiest modernest lookin' car you can get, grabs the gal an' beats it with her.

"There's a lot of stuff in history, which I been readin' lately that's good material for our business. It's all been done, but it ain't never been done right. What we gotta do is to modernize the best of it, not alone in clothes, but in everything that's up to date, like houses, an' motor cars, an' airplanes — everything we got today them ancient fellers never heard of. See what I mean?"

"Not exactly," said Aleck. "But of course I will when you get into it a little deeper."

"Sure you will. I'll make it simple as I can. Take this Troy story, about the gal that was carried off to Persia or someplace out of Greece, an' her husband and relation started a war to get her back. Now suppose you do that in the old fashioned way with funny lookin' armor an' spears, and them trick things that throw big stones. Your crowd won't think much of old time war like that. They'll be thinkin' about the way it would be done now.

"We gotta put this gal, Helen, in a modern house out in the suburbs or in a duplex apartment with thirty-eight rooms an' twelve baths. That'll show right away that she's got the coin, and get people interested. This Paris comes over the sea in a great big modern speed boat, shoots up to the house in the snappiest modernest lookin' car you can get built for you, grabs the gal an' beats it with her.

"All right. You got to escape not though a lot of strange buildings that look like big gas stations, but through regular city streets, with sky scrapers on both sides, and with cinema palaces with electric signs, each one of 'em advertisin' some show that our company's got a piece of. You gotta have the flight headed off by a bunch of strictly modern gunmen who have been hired by the gal's husband, an' a big runnin' street battle an' another by machine gun's when Helen is took off the obat.

"So there you got right away heart interest, an' war interest an' swell modern scenery that people know all about, so lookin' at it an' wonderin' what it's all about won't take their mind off the story.

"I was talkin' a little about this yesterday to a little song writer friend of mine, and he was all pepped up by the idea. He come back in about an hour with a theme song. I got it right here just as it came off the typewriter.

"She lives in a palace Ionic
But her heart never knew any peace,
Her loves were not ever Platonic
She had three or four sweeties in Greece,
But when Paris came cooing and billing,
She happily murmured: "Oh Boy."
And life became suddenly thrilling
For the beautiful Helen of Troy.

"There's more to the song, of course, a coupla verses that tell practically the whole story, and we gotta have it sung at the start an' the end, an' played by the orchestra soft or low according to the action of the piece as it goes along.

"Now you got already love an' war, an' there ain't nothing else interesting except money, an' the atmosphere of that is in the big houses that everybody lives in an' the number of servants they have, an' the swell cars and boats that they go travelin' in.

"Of course, I know that they they didn't have apartment houses an' cars an' fast boats in them days. You an' I know that, an' a lot of educated people, but what difference does that make? Half the public don't know it, an' the other half would rather see things they are used to than a lot of stuff that puzzles them to make out what it is.

"Look up this Trojan war history that was written by a feller named Homer somebody or other, an' get all the incidents you can, but take your local color right off the streets of this man's town, where there is more of it than there ever was in Troy an' Egypt an' Rome put together.

"Play up the love stuff all the time, an' hold back any tip as to how it's comin' out to the last. An' speakin' of that I read that Helen went back to her husband at the last, but we can't have nothing like that in this piece. You got to make her husband a mean guy who ain't on the level with his wife or anybody else, an' who practically bought her from her parents with his money. An' you got to get just enough in of her other little love affairs to show that she had an affectionate heart, but not to put any stain on her character

"Then, when Paris comes along an' she discovers that she never knew real soul enthralling love, an' that she'd better starve in some strange country than be a Queen on a throne that is surrounded with misery, you got 'em hoping that Paris will get her.

"An' remember don't have too much tragedy. Georgie Cohan is a smart guy an' he had a big idea in all his shows which he wrote about in that song of his: "Always leave 'em laughing when you say 'Good bye'."

IOWA EXPECTED TO LOSE ONE MEMBER CONGRESS WITH REAPPORTIONMENT

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Iowa, tentatively set down for a loss of one member of the house through the 1930 reapportionment, has reported a 2,468,747 population, a 2.1 per cent increase.

This topped by more than 24,000 the estimated population which the tentative reapportionment figures were based, a hypothetical 2,434,000 on Jan. 1 of this year.

However, the gain, though larger than anticipated, very likely will not be strong enough to hold for Iowa her 11 representatives in the continued total of 435, for other states have been showing greater gains over the estimates.

California, whose present representation in congress exactly equals Iowa's—11 representatives — now has more people living in cities of more than 10,000 population than she had in the entire state 10 years ago. The 1920 California census was 3,426,861. The combine 1930 population of 46 California cities of more than 10,000 population thus far reporting is 3,535,388.

In 1920, slightly more than half of the Pacific coast population, 52.1 per cent, lived in cities of more than 10,000. While a trend toward city living in the past decade may have increased this proportion, it would appear certain from the urban showing that California will far outstrip the 4,794,000 estimated 1930 population used in the tentative reapportionment tables.

Representative E. Hart Fenn of Connecticut, chairman of the house census committee, cautioned against considering any reapportionment estimates as conclusive until all returns are in.

The SECOND STEP is TONING

Lesson No. 3 will appear Sunday, June 22

LESSON NUMBER TWO—In the first lesson of this series Miss Arden told you how to cleanse your skin scientifically. Here she explains the second step in her famous Beauty Treatments—TONING.

A SALLOW skin is a sleepy skin. It indicates that a tired or lazy circulation is making mischief for you—dull eyes, muddy color, coarse pores. My Skin Tonic and Special Astringent act as definite stimulants. The gently bracing effects of Skin Tonic make it desirable for all types of skin, while Special Astringent is indispensable for the skin which requires more vigorous treatment.

✖ After the skin has been completely cleansed, following the directions I gave you last month, it is ready for Toning. This may be done by means of a pad of absorbent cotton shaped conveniently for patting and squeezed out in cold water. It is better, however, to use the special Patter which I have designed, so that you may secure for yourself at home the same brisk, effective strokes given in my Salon Treatments by the deft fingers of my trained Assistants.

✖ Cover the head of the patter with cotton held in place by an elastic band. Moisten this pad either with cold water or by direct contact with ice. (The toning and tightening effects are greatly increased by chilling.) Next, saturate the cotton either with Skin Tonic or Astringent and you are ready for a most revivifying experience. Beginning at the base of the throat, work upward toward the back of the neck. Pat confidently, with a definite upward stroke.

THE PREPARATIONS REQUIRED IN THIS LESSON ARE:

VENETIAN SPECIAL ASTRINGENT
For flaccid cheeks and neck. Lifts and strengthens the tissues, tightens the skin and restores the contours . $2.25, $4.

VENETIAN ARDEN A SKIN TONIC
Tones, firms, and whitens the skin and keeps tissues healthy. Use with and after Cleansing Cream . 85c, $2, $3.75, $9.

VENETIAN MUSCLE OIL
A penetrating oil rich in the elements which restores sunken tissues or flabby muscles, removing wrinkles. $1, $2.50, $4.

VENETIAN PORE CREAM

ARDEN VENETIAN PATTER
Round and flat, with unique flexibility of handle which gives accurate patting strokes without effort . . . $5.

✖ Next pat away every suspicion of a jowl . . . pat at the side of the chin to discourage heaviness . . . pat the throat to keep it young and firm . . . pat over the whole surface of the face, being sure that your motion is always up, and that you keep away from the tender tissues around the eyes. You will feel your face commence to tingle in less than a minute and if you will continue faithfully for five to ten minutes, you will develop a fine fresh glow. Do this at least once every day . . . twice if you can manage the time, and you will soon have your napping circulation thoroughly waked up.

✖ At night when you have awakened your face into a state of vivid responsiveness, pat on a little Muscle Oil. This rich penetrating preparation will assist in the toning process, and do quite marvelous things for your droopy spots . . . around the mouth . . . under the chin . . . under the eyes. If you have any open pores apply a little Pore Cream which may be mixed with Muscle Oil, with excellent effect. Toning your skin this way is just as important as exercising your body, and should be made part of your daily routine.

OKLAHOMA COURT OPINION CONDEMNS USE THIRD DEGREE

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 14. (UP)—Practices of Oklahoma City police in using "third degree" methods in obtaining confessions from prisoners were condemned in an opinion today by the criminal court of appeals.

The opinion reversed the five-year sentence given Arthur Ross and Charlie Heath in the Oklahoma county district when they were convicted of larceny of an automobile.

The court instructed the district court to dismiss the case and exonerate the bonds of Ross and Heath.

Evidence introduced in the district court trial, the opinion said, showed that Oklahoma City police officers used threats to obtain confessions from the youths. One officer testified in the preliminary hearing that C. C. York of the police department struck the prisoners in the face while the confessions were being obtained.

York, the opinion said, testified on cross-examination at the trial that he caught one of the youths by the hair and started to hit him because one of them called him a "damned liar."

"We take this occasion to condemn such practices in unmeasured terms," the opinion said. "We are not living in the dark ages. All of our constitutional rights were denied the defendant in this case and by means of intimidation, the confessions were obtained from these youths. Oklahoma does not sanction such methods of obtaining evidence. County attorneys should refuse to prosecute cases where the evidence was produced as this evidence was."

PLEAS OF NOT GUILTY ENTERED BY DEFENDANTS KIOWA COUNTY SLAYING

HOBART, Okla., June 14. (AP)—Pleas of not guilty of murder charges have been entered here by Sam Allen and his wife in connection with the fatal shooting of W. H. Humble, Kiowa county deputy sheriff at Roosevelt, earlier in the week.

Preliminary hearing was set for June 26.

Humble was killed when he went to Allen's filling station to search for liquor. The two men's wives engaged in a fight while the shooting was taking place.

"Humble came to my place without apparent reason," Allen testified at the hearing, "and shoved my wife aside when she attempted to intercept him." He called to Humble not to touch his wife, he related, and the deputy told him to "shut up."

Allen had procured his revolver when he heard the commotion aroused by Humble and Mrs. Allen, he said. Humble started to draw his weapon and Allen shot in self-defense, he testified.

Mrs. Humble has been released from the Hobart hospital where she was treated for a broken leg and other injuries received in the altercation with Mrs. Allen. Humble was buried here Thursday.

PRESIDENT HOOVER INVITED TO ATTEND FAIR AT DALLAS

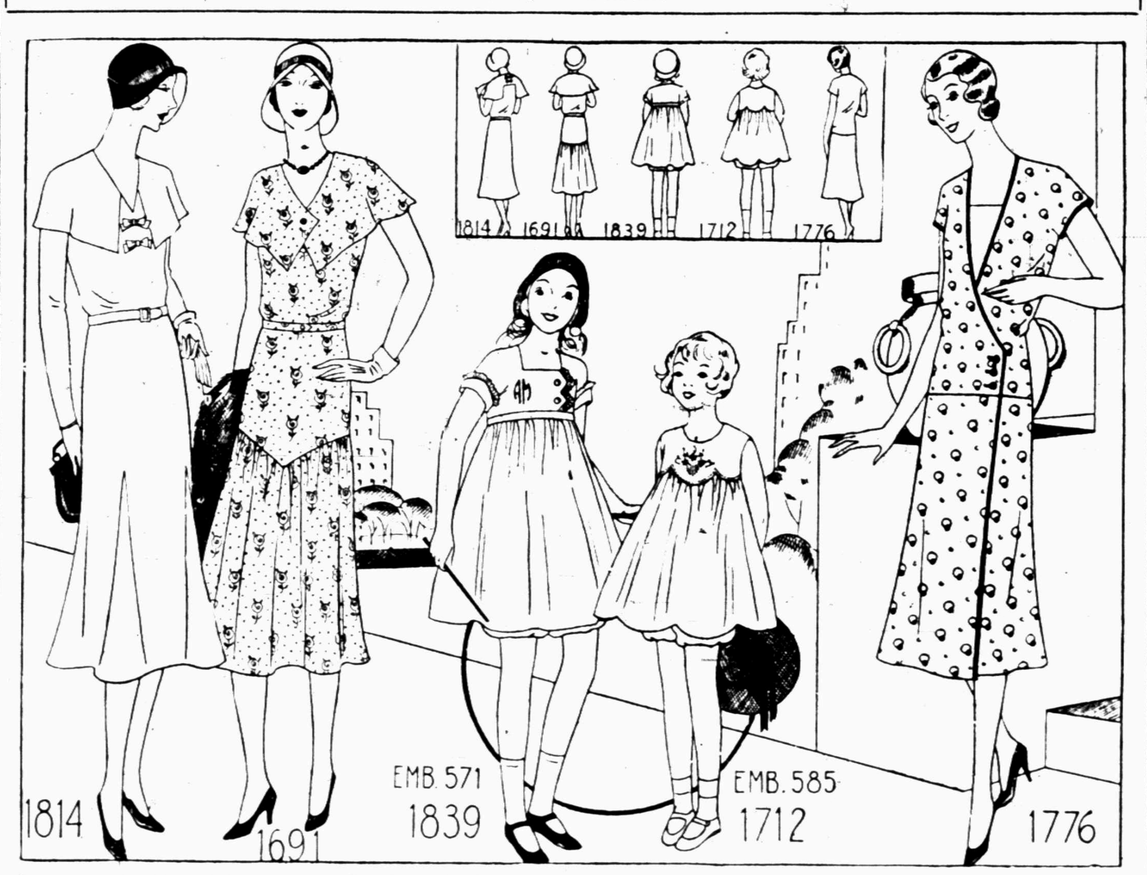

WASHINGTON, June 14. (INS)—Former Gov. O. B. Colquitt, of Texas, today invited President Hoover to attend the state fair in Dallas during October. Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, also invited him to stop off at Vancouver, Wash., during his trip to the national parks this summer. The inducement was to fish in White Salmon creek, just beyond Vancouver, which Jones said is "full of salmon." The president appeared interested but took both invitations under advisement.

It Pays to Mix

LONDON.—Unpopular students at Loughborough college were recently warned to get out and mix with the rest of the students through an object lesson delivered to one of their crowd. The unpopular one was tied to a cart and dragged and after that he was stood up while 150 students pelted him with rotten tomatoes and soot.

CAPELETS MOST IMPORTANT NOTE IN SUMMER MODE

By ANNE ADAMS

So enormously chic and becoming has the cape mode proven, that summer frocks have borrowed this fashion note from spring collections and it seems even more gracious than ever when developed in the gayly printed chiffons, and lovely pastel sheer fabrics. Although every adaptation of the cape mode is shown, one of the most successful is the very short cape, which is really nothing more than a deep collar. This is ideal for summer frocks since it is just long enough to give a soft, graceful shoulder line to cool sleeveless dresses. These capelets are used, too, with great success, to give a "dressy" touch to long-sleeved frocks for wear when a fur neckpiece is no longer comfortable.

PATTERN 1814

This charming afternoon frock features one of the most interesting variations of the cape collar. Falling gracefully over the shoulders from a vastly becoming "V" neckline, the collar is interrupted at the center back to repeat practically the same effect that appears on the front of the dress. The two godets which grace the front skirt are not only extremely smart but also allow ample fullness. Two bows, front and back, add a delightful touch. This frock is typical of the smartest models of the summer mode. In piqué, in any of the pastel shades or white, this frock would be stunning.

Pattern 1814 may be ordered in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 requires 2¾ yards of 54-inch material.

It would be hard to imagine anything more satisfactory for warm summer afternoons than this delightful, cool looking frock that combines all the best features of the current mode. The cape collar crosses at the front in an unusual manner and falls to a most flattering length over the arms. The gathered skirt is joined to a yoke that reverses the point formed by the collar crossing. Developed in a printed crepe or georgette, this frock would be suitable for any afternoon occasion. For more informal wear, any of the cotton fabrics would be delightful. Shantung or dimity would be particularly good.

Pattern 1691 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 40-inch material.

This little miss is proud as she can be of her cunning high-waisted frock that is so reminiscent of the picturesque "Empire" mode. The two front points, like the cuffs, are finished adorably with ruffling. A straight narrow band covers the joining of the skirt to the yoke and the shirred skirt creates a fullness that is not only cute as can be, but practical as well for an active youngster. Of course a pattern for the bloomers is included. Pattern 1839 may be ordered only in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8. Size 4 requires 2¼ yards of 36-inch material and 1½ yards ruffling.

So tastefully simple and cool and comfortable is this bloomer model that it will probably become a youngster's most adored frock. The little round neck and scalloped yoke, outlined by stitching, and the full, gathered, scalloped skirt are really all this frock needs to make it as sweet as one could wish, but if one would like it to be a little dressier, one may use a bit of embroidery on the yoke.

Pattern 1712 may be ordered only in sizes 2, 4 and 6. Size 4 requires 2½ yards of 36-inch material.

Transfer pattern 585, which may be used for embroidering the yoke has designs for four baskets, eight corners and eight sprays and is 15 cents additional.

PATTERN 1776

A "service frock" like the one illustrated above is really almost indispensable in the morning, in a jiffy, one is dressed and looks fresh and crisp. This is a becoming wrap-around model, with a set-in vestee and short kimono sleeves. It fastens at the side and has excellent lines for almost every type of figure. Fashioned of a gay printed cotton, with binding and buttons the same color as the predominating color in the print, and the vestee of contrasting material, this model is charming.

Pattern 1776 may be had only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 18 requires 2⅝ yards of 40-inch material and ½ yard of contrasting material.

These models are very easy to make as each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. You will be delighted with the fit of the patterns.

Patterns will be sent to you upon receipt of 15 cents in U. S. coins or stamps . . . coins preferred. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern ordered.

Our style book shows delightful spring and summer models, the patterns of which are 15 cents each, and many beautiful transfer and embroidery patterns. The book is 15 cents when ordered alone, but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern.

Address all mail and orders to the Wichita Daily Times Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Hoover Finds Fortunes Ringed With Persistent Swarm of Touchy Public Issues at Half-Way Mark in Term

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—Just at the political half-way mark of his four-year term, President Hoover finds his fortunes ranged about with a persistent swarm of touchy public issues.

As if by pre-arrangement, the whole brook—tariff, farm relief, prohibition, foreign relations, internal party troubles—has come buzzing about the head of the man who, by virtue of being president, is also the leader of the Republican party.

Two years ago tonight, amid the gay bunting and triumphant band music at Kansas City, he was elevated to that leadership by a single, one-sided roll call.

Already the straws are bending to the passing breeze, and Washington is full of talk of 1932. What Mr. Hoover himself may be thinking—and what first term president ever has failed to think of that subject—no one is undertaking to say. His friends, however, are getting ready; and so are his enemies within the party.

Popular Appeal

Those who look to another term for him rely heavily on the appeal they claim for him among the rank and file of voters. They declare this hold is stronger, rather than weaker, by virtue of such defeats as he has suffered in congress, and such open breaks as he has arrived at with party politicians. They see in the great number of major projects he has planted in the national fabric a promise of bountiful fruition in the two years to come.

Those within the party who have attacked him—for instance, Senator Borah, Senator Norris and the whole senatorial fraternity of discontent with his policies—are not talking for republication on the subject of 1932. They are talking among themselves, however, and the third party gossip which has been a part of every Republican preconvention campaign for a generation, persists. It persists, but no one is willing to sign his name to a prediction.

Two years is a moderately long time in presidential politics. Many a political wind will blow before June, 1932, and no man knows what sails will be filled, or what high ventures will break on the rocks. Yet both friend and foe of the president's fortune understand that a great deal of real import may be found later to have had its source in this very cave of the winds which envelops Mr. Hoover in the month of June, 1930.

Many Advisers

Almost immediately he must decide, for better or for worse, whether to sign or veto a tariff bill which has divided opinion in his party and kept political weather vanes whirling.

The whole Hoover farm relief program, with its multitude of intraparty complications, has become suddenly exposed to another senate debate—than which is none deadlier—through renomination of the head of the farm board.

If it can be said with no derogation of the presidential dignity, his coattails are being pulled this way and that by advisers who think they know what he should do and what he should refrain from doing about unemployment and the situation in the stock market.

A group of senators, led by Republicans who show an increasing willingness to talk back to the White House, has steered the Hoover naval treaty into the doldrums, and heroic relief measures may be required.

As the off year elections approach, the president finds not only Republicans, but Hoover Republicans, quarreling all about him over prohibition.

Finally, his own Republican national organization is debating whether to drop its pilot, under attack, and select a new national party chairman, and if so, whom, and also, how.

All of which are but a few of the things that silver the hair and furrow the faces of presidents, and often spell re-election or defeat. And opinions differ whether the first two years are the hardest.

Clipping Describes Record of Uncle Of Wichita Falls Resident in Texas Fight for Independence From Mexico

A newspaper clipping dealing with the record of Richardson Scurry in the war for Texas' independence has been received by Judge Edgar Scurry, nephew of the soldier. The sketch is one of a number compiled and published by the Daughters of the Republic of Texas, dealing particularly with the men who took part in the battle of San Jacinto.

Richardson Scurry was a brother of Gen. W. R. Scurry, father of Judge Scurry. The clipping follows:

"Scurry, Richardson; first sergeant in the artillery commanded by Capt. Isaac N. Moreland at San Jacinto; secretary of the senate of the first congress; district attorney of the first judicial district, his appointment being confirmed by the senate Dec. 19, 1836. Congress elected him judge of the sixth judicial district Jan. 30, 1840, from which position he resigned to become on Feb. 5, 1841, district attorney of the fifth judicial district. At that time he was a law partner of his brother, William R., at San Augustine. He served in the house of the seventh and eighth congresses, Nov. 14, 1842, to Feb. 5, 1844, being sent from San Augustine county. Scurry was elected a member of the thirty-second congress (March 4, 1851, to March 3, 1855, succeeding David Spangler Kaufman, who died Jan. 21, 1851). He was wounded by the accidental discharge of a gun, necessitating the amputation of a leg, and he never thereafter regained his health. His grave in the Hempstead cemetery is marked."

ONE OF WORLD'S SEVEN WONDERS

CHICAGO, June 14. (INS)—Police searched today for one of the world's seven wonders—a soft-spoken bandit who spurned $4,300 while holding up the Superior State bank late yesterday because $700 was all he had need for.

Showing Teller Fred Smoler a revolver and demanding cash, the gunman was handed a package containing $5,000. The bandit carefully counted out $700 from the package and passed the rest back through the grill.

"I don't need all that money. You keep it," he told the astonished teller as he put his gun back in his pocket and walked out.

FIVE IN SHERIFF'S RACE IN HARDEMAN COUNTY

QUANAH, Texas, June 14.—Starting his campaign in Hardeman county as a candidate for constable, precinct one, W. H. (Bill) Goodner invoked a "woman's prerogative" and changed his mind by Friday announcing his candidacy for sheriff of Hardeman county. This brings the number of candidates for sheriff up to five, others being Garrett Hawkins, for re-election; W. G. (Bill) Lanier, Tom L. Peddy and H. H. Edwards.

MANY SUGGESTIONS FOR RELIEF HICCOUGH CASE

WASHINGTON, June 14. (INS)—Thousands of letters from sympathizers all over the country have deluged physicians at Casualty hospital suggesting methods of relieving Charles Reid, blacksmith, who has been suffering since Sunday from continuous hiccoughs.

His condition was reported somewhat better today and doctors said he enjoyed the first night's sleep since the spell began. Strengthened by this rest he may be able to overcome the attacks, the hospital said.

Many and varied remedies have been suggested. While some of them are considered "ridiculous" physicians said Reid derived temporary relief from the suggestion of Mrs. L. R. Keepers of Dallas, Texas, to administer hyoscyamus or belbane.

The wedding cake is Roman in origin. A cake made of flour, salt and water is always eaten by Roman couples in the presence of the priest.

More than 85 have signed up for this first period, and adult leaders have been provided. Frank B. Creighton, scout executive, will be camp director and will be assisted by Kenneth Erwin, scoutmaster of troop 16; Russell Cunningham of Burkburnett, Albert Fitts and Bob Tinley, two scoutmasters of Wichita Falls, also six scoutmasters of Burkburnett will spend a day in camp. Mr. Parker, who is teaching handicraft at Burkburnett, will be in camp all week to assist in all branches of this art. Special branches of handicraft that will be taught at camp are as follows: Tooling leather, James Smith; bows, arrows and boomerangs, Bill Mewry; totem poles, whittling carving and bead work, Marshal Wharton, leather thong, plaiting, Eddie Silk; bird houses, Cooper Jones, aeroplanes and gliders, Levi Prig. In addition to this, Mr. Erwin will have a special class in plaster paris, trackmaking, and Al Fitts will have a class in butterfly and bug collection and mounting. Several camp projects will be completed.

Swimming tournaments, archery tournaments, battle of flowers and treasure hunts will feature the entertainment. Two swim periods, one at 10:30 and one at 4:45 o'clock, will be held. The water front will be guarded by life guards under the leadership of Raynard Creighton, who is at present at Kerrville, taking the leader's course in American Red Cross life saving. He will be in camp after Tuesday and will be there for the balance of the camp. Every boy attending camp will be given the opportunity to make the honor camper trip to the Rocky mountains. No one can go on the trip that has not been in camp this year, and the trip will cover 1,600 miles. It will be 14 days and stops will be made at Amarillo and Trinidad, Colo. An attempt will be made to see the asphalt deposits while in Trinidad. The third night will be spent at Colorado Springs, where efforts are being made to secure reduced rates to Pikes Peak, Garden of the Gods and Cave of the Winds. Two nights will be spent in Denver and the entire day will be spent in sightseeing. The next five nights will be spent on the Great Divide, where an excursion will be made each day to points of interest around that camp, 10 miles west of Silver Plume, will be used as camp headquarters. The return trip will be made by way of Leadville, Salida, Alamoose and Santa Fe, N. M. The latter place will give the boys an opportunity to see real Indian life.

The next board of review will be held Monday, June 30, at scout headquarters at 5:30 p. m. Several merit badges will be awarded and many scouts will be up for advancement to a higher rank.

The $60,000 camp of the Fort Worth council, which is located on Worth ranch, near Palo Pinto will be dedicated Sunday, June 15. This is a wonderful camp. The buildings are built of Rock and before the camp is completed over $75,000 will be spent.

Word has been received that Mr. Jolly, scout executive at Memphis, Texas, will spend a day and night in camp. Permission from Dallas office has been received by the local council to invite the scouts from Quanah Parker council to attend the camp at Diversion dam and favorable reports have been received from Benjamin and Childress, the latter coming the second period.

The Boy Scouts have been very helpful this week and have been on the job helping the Christian Endeavor with their state convension. Troop 10, under the leadership of Paul Woodward, acted as reception committee and took care of the delegates. Jim Ross of troop 12 operated the moving picture machine for a banquet of young folks at First Christian church, and the scout executive conducted the get-together play period Monday night and was chairman of the parade committee that was given Thursday. He conducted a play institute for recreational leaders on Saturday morning.

Troop 23, a new group, was registered Thursday and is located at Pleasant Valley schoolhouse on the Iowa Park road. The troop is starting with 11 scouts and many others are getting ready to join. They have five boys who have been scouts in troops located in the city. This troop will be eligible for entry in jamborees and all other activities of the city scouts.

The scout office will be open all summer with the following office hours: 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. on week days, and until 3 p. m. on Saturdays. Miss Phyllis Phyllis Creighton will act as office secretary.

Troop 16, the Straight Shooters, held their regular meeting Friday night at the First Baptist church, with Kenneth Erwin, the scoutmaster, in charge. The meeting opened with the scout oath and a tenderfoot investiture service was held for four new members, after which 20-minute patrol meetings were held. Several concluding events were held for the inter-patrol contest. The standing is as follows: Gorilla patrol, 3,903; Black Bass patrol, 3,743; Cuckoo patrol, 3,693; Roaming Buffaloes, 2,050. Ice cream was served to celebrate the victory of the field meet.

Troop 15 met at the Highland Heights Christian church under the leadership of the chairman of the troop committee, P. B. Curd. Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Bryant Creighton conducted the business meeting. Jack Rudy, the scoutmaster, was out of the city and conflicting information caused quite a few boys to stay away.

Troop 12 met at Grace Methodist church with Don Ross as the scoutmaster. The meeting opened with scout oath and laws. Two Eagle scouts were visiting the troop and both gave interesting talks. Every scout was urged to attend the training camp. Four of the members of this troop who are acting as instructors include Levi Price, Marshall Wharton, Cooper Jones and Eddie Silk. Following games, the meeting adjourned.

A lake approximately 110 miles long will be formed by waters of the Colorado river when the Boulder dam is completed.

TURKEY AND QUITAQUE GET ELECTRIC POWER FROM QUANAH PLANT

QUANAH, Texas, June 14.—Turkey and Quitaque are now receiving electric current from the super power plant of the West Texas Utility company plant located at Lake Quanah, four miles east of Quanah. These two towns were tied on to this plant during the past week.

The utility company had owned the properties in these towns for some time, but had been generating power within the local plants.

The Lake Quanah plant is now supplying electric current for lights and power to practically every town in this section, and to the oil fields located south and east from Quanah.

ENGLAND'S PROBLEMS IN INDIA ALMOST TOO HARD TO SOLVE

If Revolt Becomes General Strain On British Finances Will Be Almost Unendurable—Compromise Possible

By FRANK H. SIMONDS

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Rarely has any event of the importance of the present disorder in India been more difficult to grasp or to appraise. Part of the difficulty arises from the very effective censorship which both suppresses and minimizes, but quite as much of the obscurity flows from the almost universal absence of any impartial and expert opinion. India is so vast and contains amongst its 320,000,000 of inhabitants peoples of so many different races and religions, that anything like a clear view is next to impossible.

Nevertheless, it is hard to escape the conviction that the disturbance which began when Gandhi opened his campaign of passive resistance against the salt tax has already passed the limits which the British government itself foresaw and is rapidly taking on the appearance of a general demonstration. The day's news which reports trouble at Peshawur, near Khyber Pass, at Bombay, Madras, Calcutta and Rangoon discloses a situation which would only be paralleled geographically in the United States by disorders in Boston, Los Angeles, New Orleans and Chicago.

Again, the uproar which greeted the king's birthday was particularly noteworthy because the Moslems were the most conspicuous of those demonstrators who celebrated the natal day of the emperor with black flags and stone throwing. Moslem and Hindu are, it would seem, able to agree at least in a common hostility to their British sovereign.

It is, too, becoming fairly clear that the prospects of a reasonable compromise are growing dimmer as the disorder spreads. Gandhi has said, in the past, that he would be satisfied with dominion status of the Canadian variety. But now that the cry for independence is being taken up on all sides, even Gandhi is reported to have yielded to the more extreme views among his followers.

But while the British are prepared to concede a measure of home rule, not only are they not now ready to grant complete independence but they have set their faces against the Canadian form of dominion status. In both cases the reason is the same, the conviction that the mass of the Indian people, or peoples, are as yet unprepared for such great responsibilities.

Simple justice demands that one recognize first that the British have already made relatively enormous concessions in the matter of turning over power and offices to the natives and that they are giving India what must be perceived to be efficient and just government, far better government than any informed person believes would be possible were independence achieved.

To understand the Indian situation at all it is essential to dismiss all notion that the British are oppressive masters, that the plight of the Indian peoples in any sense suggests the abuses of Hapsburg rule in Austria or Turkish rule in the Balkans. British brought order and organization to India, the very educated leaders who are now preaching revolt are the product in the main of British schools and teachings.

Independence for India, today, would unquestionably mean a long period of political disorder and economic prostration. It might lead to a repetition of the events which have reduced China to its present unlucky state. Every material consideration would seem to be on the side of the British association.

And yet something of the same appeal to material considerations has been made in many of the cases where peoples or nations have sought liberty. The dislocation of the Austro-Hungarian empire was an economic disaster for practically all the fractions which were created into separate nations. Yet the material considerations did not weigh against the moral and one may doubt if any considerable number of Czechs, Poles, Rumanians or Italians would be willing to return to the more prosperous pre-war status.

For Britons, the whole history of the 19th century must today be disturbing reading. During the full century which separates the fall of Napoleon from the outbreak of the world war the spirit of nationality had been sweeping across Europe and the rights of peoples and tribes to misgovern themselves in accordance with their own conceptions and desires had been established as the result of many wars and innumerable revolts. Turkey and Austria before 1914, Germany and Russia as a consequence of the world war, were obliged to release the millions of subject races under their control. Even England was compelled in Ireland to admit defeat and permit the creation of the Irish Free State.

Chances of Compromise Lessen

Moreover this latest disorder is beginning to shake British belief in the existing program, the program of orderly and progressive transfer of power as India, by stages, acquires the capacity for self-government. When blood begins to flow and mobs shout the war cries of independence, the chances of compromise rapidly lessen. After Easter Monday, 1916, in Dublin, the possibility of settlement of the Irish dispute by home rule of the older sort vanished.

Again, the worst phase of the present unrest lies in the fact that the men who are subjected to the penalties of British law are precisely the men whose character and qualities make them leaders and give to their present punishment the color of martyrdom. It is the best of the older generation and the most promising of the new who are in the forefront of the battle. The very men who should serve as leaders in the great task of training the Indian people for dominion status are now being swept into jail or falling under rifle fire.

It is difficult to see what, short of complete withdrawal—and that is obviously impossible—is left for British statesmen. All the fruits of more than two centuries of patient and on the whole enlightened activity would be swept away. Britain's vast invesement in India might be destroyed. The finest imperial achivement since the Roman might be condemned to the fate which overtook the earlier empire when the legions at last left the Rhine and the Danube. If British troops no longer held the gate of Khyber, how long would it be before the red army arrived by the road along which the troops of the czar were expected in the now forgotten days when Kipling wrote of the "bear that walks like a man?"

For Britain the loss of India would be a blow of almost incalculable proportions. Then the part of the British empire actually administered from London would be reduced to a broad band of naval bases extending right around the globe and to certain colonies in Africa hardly more extensive or more valuable than the French.

Strain on Finances

Yet if to go at once and utterly is patently impossible, even with a labor government in power; to stay may easily put a strain of intolerable severity upon British finances. Today there are but 60,000 British troops in India, but if revolt became general it would require five or ten times as many troops to hold a country which is continental in its dimensions.

With two millions unemployed with last year's budget yielding a deficit, with taxation at well nigh astronomical proportions how could Britain carry on a great colonial war? Of course anything like a general and concerted revolt, extending to military operations, is not now on the horizon and is contrary to the whole Gandhi conception. Moreover, machine guns, tanks and airplanes have given the occupying power far better chance than in the earlier days of less efficacious weapons.

Yet in the long run passive resistance might prove an unbeatable policy. Passive resistance to all taxation would soon bring administration to a halt, while imprisonment for the millions would be out of the question.

Manifestly events in India have not yet reached this supreme crisis. Compromise may yet be possible, the round table conference later in the year may bring adjustment, but already on all sides one hears the ominous threat that the leaders of the various Indian parties will not participate. And as blood flows passions are inevitably mounting.

At bottom British rule in India can, in the light of modern conceptions, only be justified upon the ground that the peoples of India are as yet incapable of ruling themselves, that they have still to serve long apprenticeship and acquire power in their own home only by degrees. But will "young India" accept any such contention? Will it admit that the British are a "superior people?" Will it confess inferiority, even temporary inferiority? Or will it press forward, following the examples of all other national movements?

In any event it must be clear that Britain is facing in India the gravest problem of an imperial order since the American revolution. She is meeting the present acute crisis in a spirit of moderation and of compromise, but unhappily liberty like chastity is not a question of fractions and limited dominion status is harly an acceptable substitute for independence in the eyes of peoples who are equally sure of their right and to their capacity for self-government.

Sen. Nye's Committee on Senatorial Campaign Expenses Will Succeed Lobby Committee in the Headlines

By MARK SULLIVAN

(Copyright, 1930, by New York Herald Tribune)

We have with us, and will continue to have until November or later, the matter of money used in senatorial primaries. The committee for investigating that subject, headed by Senator Gerald W. Nye, of North Dakota, will succeed the lobby investigating committee and Senator Thaddeus Caraway, of Arkansas, as providers of material for headlines.

SULLIVAN

Senator Nye and his committee are already at work; already they have paid some attention to the amount of money spent—in vain—by Senator Grundy in Pennsylvania, and the amount spent by Mrs. Medill McCormick in Illinois.

The Nye committee's work is not confined to investigating charges made by defeated candidates or others; they do not need to wait for charges—they can make their own accusations. And they decidedly do not limit themselves to investigations after the events have occurred—no mere grand jury they. The committee construes its function to include the averting of expenditures (or other practices) deemed by them to be improper; they look into expenditures before they are made, and at all stages of the process.

The Nye committee is a combination of detective and censor as well as grand jury, prosecuting attorney and, to a very large extent, court. In the Pennsylvania primary, the committee, in the person of the chairman, and through announcements given out by him, and through investigators employed by the committee, was on hand before the primary day and during it. Afterward they summoned the two candidates, Mr. Grundy and Mr. Davis, as well as others, before the committee and examined them.

The Pennsylvania primary, in which the senate committee thus functioned, was the first important one after the committee was created. If the committee maintains that pace and quantity of vigilance, investigation, exhortation and condemnation, it will follow that we are going to hear a good deal about money in senatorial primaries. It will be the subject of much argument, and the argument, probably will fail to include some aspects of the subject that deserve to be noticed.

Sooner or later the senate, if it keeps on this course (which for certain reasons it may not) will be obliged to set up some standards on this point, will be obliged to say just how much money in a given state is safely on the side of virtue and how much is too much. They will be obliged to say, also, sooner or later, whether quantity of money standing alone is a bar to the senate—that is what they say now. Or whether, as used to be the case, the real question is not the quantity of money, but the way it is used, with weight, perhaps, to be given, in some cases, to the source from which it comes.

The present phase of the senate's attitude toward money in primaries (rather startling when fully understood) is, like most practices and institutions in government, an advanced stage of a long evolution. To understand it, a very brief summary will be useful.

In the old days, some 17 years or more ago, before there were any direct primaries, and before the direct election of senators; in the old days when candidates for senator in both parties were named by conventions, and when they were elected by state legislatures—at that time, preceding about 1913, there was a question about money, but it was a question, not of amount but of the way it was used.

When a senator was nominated not by half a million or a million voters in a direct primary, but by 200 or 300 or 400 men in a state convention, and when senators were elected, not by one or two million votes more or less in a direct election, but by 200 or 300 men in a state legislature—under that set of conditions there was no occasion for the use of much money. That is, there was no apparent legitimate occasion. If money was used it almost had to be for a purpose not good and was promptly so recognized. At that time, and under that method of choosing senators, if any money at all was used, it at once gave out a smell. The only direct use for money would be to procure the individual vote of an additional member or a legislature or of an individual delegate to a state convention. Money used that way fitted reasonably close, as a rule, to the definition of corruption, and was so regarded.

Scandal did not occur often. There were two historic examples. In the year 1898 a wealthy owner of mines in Montana, William A. Clark, desired a seat in the United States senate and went after it with great directness. The success of Mr. Clark in the Montana legislature coincided with a marked increase of affluence on the part of certain members of the legislature—rural members paying off mortgages on their farms, other members indulging themselves in the satisfaction of a new house, or other elevation in the standard of living; yet other members displaying quantities of money which they explained by saying they had had extracrdinarily good judgment in betting on horse races.

The other case was that of William Lorimer of Illinois. Lorimer was one of the last men who came to the senate via the old route of election by state legislature. The choice of Lorimer by the Illinois legislature gave rise to charges of which the senate took notice and in due course, by a vote of 55 to 28, on July 13, 1912, the senate ejected Lorimer on a charge described as "corruption on the part of his political managers."

That ended that chapter. Up to that time, and under the old condition of election by legislators and nomination by conventions, the use of any money in any considerable amount was almost necessarily associated with the charge of corruption—and the question of money under those conditions was freed from the complexities that we now have to consider.

Beginning with the passage of the 17th amendment to the constitution, on May 31, 1913, senators are elected directly by the people. A few years previous, the direct primary had come into general use, and since then senators are almost universally nominated in both parties, by popular vote. That is to say, a senator now must get his nomination by persuading some hundreds of thousands of people to vote for him in a primary, and he must then get his election by persuading some more hundreds of thousands of people to vote for him in a general election.

That takes money. To get people to go to the polls and vote for you; to get them, in the first place, to take notice of you; then to get them interested in your views, and finally, to get them to go to the polls; calls for expenditures as a rule in some amount or other. Anybody who questions this shuts his eyes to plain fact. It takes money in the most legitimate sense. The amount of money varies. It varies with the number of voters in a state, and it varies with the degree to which the candidate is already known to the people. But as a rule it takes money.

Not many years after the coming of direct primaries and direct elections, the senate began to observe that a good deal of money was being used. The first case that gave rise to any great commotion was that of an old gentleman named Isaac Stephenson, who ran for the senate in Wisconsin in 1909 and was elected. Wisconsin was a pioneer in adopting the direct primary, and Stephenson was one of the first senators nominated under that system. Stephenson was wealthy and he spent a good deal of money. The senate looked into it and discovered the amount was $107,000. There was argument and debate about it, but Stephenson was not disturbed in his seat. The idea that quantity of money, disassociated from any charge of corruption in the use of it, had not yet taken hold.

The second case that came up is the one that really started the commotion of which we are now in an advanced and acute stage. In Michigan, in 1918, Henry Ford was a candidate for the nomination for senator. He was a candidate in both parties. It was his candidacy for the Republican nomination that was associated with some events that later became sensational.

Not that Ford spent money improperly. No charge was made against him. He didn't need to spend money. He was already so well known that no amount of money could have made him better known. Ford, during many years previous, in the ordinary course of his business, had spent literally millions in advertising, in employing agents and in other ways designed to make him well known.

(This condition is pertinent to the whole of the present article. One man having already become well known, runs for the senate; another man, desiring to compete, must make himself equally well known. Let the reader ask himself: If you were running against Henry Ford, or against William R. Hearst, for example, how much money would you need to spend before you could catch up with your rival? What limitation would be fair for the senate to put upon you?)

Ford's rival for the Republican nomination for senator in Michigan was a man with a rather conspicuous record for public and war service. Truman Newberry, who, with his friends, felt, let us say, that the Democratic nomination was quite enough for Mr. Ford. In the primary, roughly $195,000 spent on behalf of Newberry. While Newberry was wealthy, the investigation did not show that any great amount of money came from him; the bulk of it was contributed by relatives and friends.

When Newberry arrived in the senate, the senate took notice of the expenditure of $195,000 in his primary. There was much argument and debate and in the end Newberry was permitted to keep his seat—though by the narrow majority of only one vote.

After Newberry was seated, some senators got cold feet. The Democrats, and some newspapers, kept up a clamor about what they called the "Newberry case." The senate, as a means of placating criticism, and in a spirit of serving notice on other rich men who might enter in primaries for senatorial nominations, or men having rich friends—the senate, by a vote of 46 to 41, passed a remarkable resolution:

"That whether the amount expended in this (Michigan) primary was $195,000, as was fully reported or openly acknowledged, or whether there were some few thousand dollars in excess, the amount expended was in either case too large, much larger than ought to have been expended. The expenditure of such excessive sums in behalf of a candidate, either with or without his knowledge and consent, being contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the honor and dignity of the senate and dangerous to the perpetuity of a free government, such excessive expenditures are hereby severely condemned and disapproved."

That was a remarkable resolution. It said nothing about corruption, nothing about the uses to which money was put, nothing about the sources from which the money came. The resolution concerned itself solely with the quantity of money.

That resolution has been the senate's charter of policy—self-granted—ever since it was passed in 1922. The identical words and phrases of that resolution have been carefully repeated in every subsequent case in which the senate has taken action against a senator on the ground of expenditures.

In the meantime, the Democrats and some newspapers, not by any means contented with the senate's passage of a mere resolution, and insisting that the senate ought to have gone the whole way and expelled Newberry—made the "Newberry case" an issue in senatorial elections in 1922, 1924 and 1926. The Democrats, and some newspapers, insisted that the action of Republican senators who had voted to seat Newberry was a political sin. When such senators came up for re-nomination or re-election the Democrats in the various states denounced them for having voted for Newberry, with the result that four years after Newberry was seated, the Democrats were able to boast that nineteen Republican senators who had voted to seat him had been defeated in their respective states. It was claimed that the whole nineteen were defeated solely because they had voted for Newberry: doubtless an accurate evaluation of issues and conditions might show that in some cases, at least, there were other reasons.

In any event, the senate's policy, that quantity of money standing alone is a bar, took root through the feeling that the public would take, or could be led to take, adverse action upon any senator failing to vote against the seating of a senator charged with spending much money.

There is not space to tell here the circumstances of the two senators, Smith, of Illinois, and Vare, of Pennsylvania, whom the senate prevented from taking their seats. In Smith's case, at least, the source of the money was of a sort to have weight—the bulk of it came from public utility magnates, under circumstances likely to create suspicion of an interested motive. But the now settled policy of the senate is that quantity of money, apart from other considerations, is a bar to the senate. Both the Smith case and the Vare case were decided on the question of quantity of money.

The senate does not say what quantity. And that is but the first of several disturbing aspects of the senate's policy. To convict and execute a man in the absence of plain laws and rules about which he can know in advance, partakes unpleasantly of the nature of informal lynching.

The senate, neither in the original Newberry case, nor in the subsequent cases, did not make any distinction between the quantity of money that might, in the senate's judgment, be justified in a state the size of Michigan, and the amount that might be justified in the much smaller state, for example, of Nevada, or the much larger state, for example, of Pennsylvania.

The senate has never laid down a rule. It has never put the permitted limit on a per capita basis. It has never said that a candidate might spend a fixed sum—ten cents, or fifty cents, or a dollar, for each registered voter. The senate has not said that—and one feels it hesitates to say so because it would look a little ridiculous.

Among other considerations, provocative of reflection, consider the difference between a senator already in office, who can use his franking privilege, who can insert his campaign literature in the Congressional Record and have reprints made at little or no cost, who can put his campaign manager on the government payroll as his secretary and have his clerical work and correspondence done by government paid clerks—and, on the other hand, a candidate outside the senate and trying to get in, who must have his campaign literature printed at his own expense in a private plant, who must put a two-cent stamp on every letter he writes. To print, mail and stamp one letter to each voter in the state is likely to cost, all told, as much as five cents a letter. In a state as large as Pennsylvania, to send one letter to each registered voter would cost at five cents each, something like $156,000. (In Pennsylvania in the 1928 Presidential election, 3,122,968 votes were cast.) And who can say that ten letters during a campaign, or the quivalent of ten letters, in the shape of advertising, for example, is an improper expense.

"The fish was so big," said the angler, "that the others would not let me haul it into the boat for fear it would swamp us."

"The same thing happened to me once," said his friend, "in the Mauretania."—Tit-Bits.

The Story of Sue

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

And down in the battered old brown building which houses the settlement house where Sarah had gone to work, the dark-haired heiress was making a decision exactly like Sue's.

She would be independent! She had given Theodore Merryman her heart, let him know that she liked him very, very well, and he had tossed it up in the air as though it were a rubber ball and then handed it back. She wondered if she had merely imagined that he was holding off because of her money. Barbara had spoiled her plan to pretend that she had lost it.

Perhaps Ted really wanted only friendship and would withhold that if he thought she wanted more. She would show him. She checked over the possibilities among her masculine acquaintances. There was the red-headed newspaper reporter, Donald Payne. He was an entertaining, happy-go-lucky scribbler who would drop around when he felt like it. Otherwise he would not. Besides, he would probably have a murder or raid to cover just when she wanted him. She could not center her interest on him.

Miles . . . but he was nice to every girl. He had a heart with as many rooms as King Solomon's harem. If some of the rooms were nicer than others, it didn't matter. He wouldn't do. But Dr. William Burton . . . at this thought, she cupped her firm white chin in her slender palms and thought a while. He had been in to see her again. He was new in town and was lonesome. In addition there was something disturbingly likable about him. Could a girl love one man and like another quite well at the same time? She decided that she would find out.

She reflected that now if she pretended her money had disappeared Ted might propose merely out of pity. There were too many complications to puzzle the thing through. She would just be independent and wait.

With money, she had an insurmountable barrier. She couldn't tell whether wealth had anything to do with Ted's actions or not. Without it, there was the same barrier. For pity would be mistaken for love.

While she was puzzling about it all, the telephone rang and the director told her someone wanted to see her in the office. She found Jean Brady, the strange violinist, waiting, with a thin white face and profuse apologies.

"The prodigal son is going home. He's broken the strings of his fiddle and he isn't going to mend them. The Pipes of Pan are cracked, in other words."

His voice was slightly husky, very ironical, yet a little ashamed as though it made light of misfortune in order to avoid sympathy. "I had to apologize first. I don't quite know what happened to me that night at the school. Becker got in touch with my own family. The carriage awaits without."

He swept her an exaggerated bow. Then he grew more serious. "I'd like to do something to show my appreciation of your kindness. Can you suggest anything? My father helps manufacture automobiles. Want a car?" he ended, jokingly.

"Manufactures automobiles?" Sarah knew what she was going to ask.

Next: Sarah's request.

ON REDUCING THE EMBONPOINT—By P. G. Wodehouse

The fair guest announces that all she is allowed to take is a cracker and a glass of water.

Nothing is pleasanter for a conscientious author, who for years has been turning out stuff that nobody reads, than to hit on a subject which must infallibly rivet the attention of one and all from the opening sentence. It is with gusto, not unmixed with vim, that I embark on this little effort, for I know that the title alone is enough to make you read what I have written.

Nobody can ignore an article on How To Reduce, for nowadays everybody is reducing. In a thousand restaurants a thousand lunchers are refusing potatoes with every evidence of horror, and many a prudent spender, who, in a mad moment, has invited one of the personnel of the chorus to sup with him, is breathing freely once more as the fair guest announces that all she is allowed to take is a cracker and a glass of water.

The first thing every reducer must realize is the deadliness of proteids. Or is it phosphates? That is the worst of writing this sort of article without a doctor at one's elbow. I am absolutely solid on the point that there is something which the patient must avoid, but I can't remember what it is. I seem to recollect someone saying something about carbohydrates. Perhaps that was it. At any rate, it is best to be on the safe side, so when the waiter sidles to your chair and murmurs that the carbohydrates are very nice today, better refuse them.

As regards proteids, I am not so certain. It is essential either to take them or not to take them—I cannot recall which. A simple method of solving the difficulty would be to invite to dinner some relative of little value—some uncle or aunt who would not be missed, if anything went wrong—give him some proteids and watch the result. If he seems to thrive on them, all right: go ahead. If, however, he turns blue and expires in his tracks, you will know that they are to be avoided. As in nearly every other crisis in life, common sense will pull you through.

There is one point, in connection with this matter of reducing, which the young reader would do well to consider. Too many people nowadays, on finding themselves a trifle overweight, start without a second thought to rid themselves of the superabundance of tissue. The prudent man, however, will pause and weigh the matter in all its aspects. The question which every young man must solve is whether he would rather take off a few pounds and be slim, or whether it would not be better to feed up a bit and get stout enough to get slapsticked in the movies.

We will assume—or else it will be impossible to continue this article—that, after pondering earnestly, you have decided to abandon the hope of an artistic career with the movies and to be slim. Very well, every article on the subject which I have ever read has opened with a series of specimen menus for reducers. I cannot do better than to follow the same method. Breakfast menu: Don't take any breakfast. Lunch menu: Avoid lunch. Dinner menu: Cut out dinner. Supper menu: Same as lunch. (Note: Should you become hungry during the night, go to sleep again).

The question of exercise is inseparably connected with the subject of reducing. I append a few simple hints. Morning: Wind your watch. Afternoon: Read the baseball bulletins. Evening: Whistle for a taxi. Night: Undress. (Note: Should you be too fatigued by nightfall to do this, put your pajamas on over your clothes).

Most experts on the subject of reducing insist on plenty of air. The mistake they make, in my opinion, is in recommending only one brand of air, the well-known "fresh." A moment's reflection will tell you that this cannot be right. If you are going to stick to the same kind of air, why not to the same kind of food? At all costs monotony must be avoided in these cures, or the patient becomes peeved and bored and abandons the course. We must have variety. I append a few simple airs which are within the reach of the humblest purse.

Subway or street-car: This fine bracing atmosphere may be obtained all over the city at the very reasonable cost of five cents a breath. It is best to take it during the rush hour, as it then has a solidity of punch which it lacks at less congested periods.

Office: There are few more sustaining airs than that of a good stuffy over-heated office. This atmosphere has the additional advantage in these days of the high cost of living that you are paid to breathe it.

Apartment: Cost, nil, being included in rent. If the smallest member of a midget troupe inhaled these airs resolutely for a day or two, you would not be able to see him at all.

Most experts on the subject of reducing insist on plenty of air

The broad principle of reducing, as any doctor will tell you, is to adopt a system which will alter as little as possible your normal method of living. There is where most systems fail. They start off in a genial, spacious way by saying, "Eat and drink all that you want," and then, just as you are reaching out for the menu, they add, "except—" and reel off a long list of all the things which you would rather be dead than do without. It occurs to me that I have been a little severe on the patient in my selection of menus. I accordingly append an alternative list, which will be found more appetizing.

Breakfast: Steak, chops, boiled eggs, fried eggs, shirred eggs, scrambled eggs, oatmeal muffins. Lunch: All kinds of soups, all kinds of fish, all kinds of meat, all kinds of dessert. Dinner: Start at top of bill-of-fare and go as long as you can. Supper: Lobster, crabmeat, strawberry shortcake, and a nut sundae. During the night: Welsh rarebit.

But what's the use of taking this reducing business too seriously? As nobody ever continues any system of reducing for more than a day, it makes no earthly difference what you take or don't take.

Fowl Predicament

LONDON.—A boy recently found 71 eggs hidden near Bo'ness Paris and took them to the local police station. Regulations provide that the police keep the eggs for six months awaiting a claimant. "If no one claims them during this time, our station will become uninhabitable," the local chief sighed.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation.—Matthew 26:41

THE REPORT ON INDIA

That India should, some day, be given dominion status like Canada and Australia appears to be the belief of the joint statutory commission, headed by Sir John Simon. The first installment of the commission's report, covering its fact finding work, has been made public. The second installment, to contain definite recommendations, will be made public late this month. It is generally believed that the recommendation will be that India be allowed, eventually, a liberal measure of autonomy.

Much depends, in so far as the present troublesome situation in India is concerned, on when it is proposed to let India take charge of its own affairs. The Nationalists are insisting on immediate steps in that direction. Great Britain will likely decide that the time is not yet ripe.

The problems in India has many phases and ramifications. If Great Britain should say to the Hindu population, "All right, go ahead and have a dominion government," the problem of how to deal with the 70,000,000 Mohammendans and with the subjects and properties of the 600 native princes would be as far from solution as ever. The caste system, the illiterary of the masses of the people—these are also elements in the problem.

The commission has been at work for two and a half years, making an exhaustive and comprehensive study of affairs in India. It may be expected that its report will bring about material changes in the relations between London and the East Indian subjects. Probably it is too much to expect that the report will really compose the situation in India for any length of time.

IF THE PRESIDENT SIGNS

President Hoover, we are told, will sign the tariff bill promptly after it is placed on his desk. Perhaps by the time this appears in print, his signature will have been affixed.

He cannot be expected to veto it, and yet we doubt if his approval will be given as readily and perfunctorily as the Washington dispatches indicate. Such approval on his part would involve forgetting too many things. It would involve forgetting his party's platform pledges on the subject, and his own campaign utterances; it would involve forgetting what he himself said, in his message to congress. He must forget the chicanery, the conscienceless trading, the lobbying scandals, that attended its passage; the bill's disregard of the interests of the people as a whole, and of agriculture in particular; the effect it must have on this country's commercial relations abroad. He must forget, in a word, that it is by far the worst tariff measure ever enacted by congress.

He must be disloyal to his own sense of economic justice, to his own understanding of American business problems, before he can give the bill his approval. It is difficult to believe, in the light of all that has taken place, that his approval of the bill must be taken as a matter of course.

TEXAS' URBAN POPULATION

Belief that the 1930 census will take Texas definitely out of the list of predominantly rural states is expressed by the Texas Weekly. That publication points out that practically all of the increase in population since 1920 is represented by the growth of cities of 20,000 and over. There are 18 such cities in Texas—Houston, Dallas, San Antonio, Fort Worth, El Paso, Beaumont, Waco, Austin, Galveston, Port Arthur, Wichita Falls, Amarillo, Laredo, Corpus Christi, San Angelo, Abilene, Brownsville and Lubbock—and their total population increase over 1920 is 626,085. That figure will not lack much of representing the increase in Texas as a whole.

The total 1930 population of these cities is 1,574,424. When to that urban population is added that of the communities of 2,500 or over—the government makes 2,500 the dividing line between urban and rural communities—it will probably be found that most of Texas' inhabitants are urbanites. In 1920, Texas was 67.6 per cent rural and 32.4 per cent urban, in population. When it is kept in mind that many communities under 2,500 contain all the essential ingredients of urban life, the ratio of city dwellers is made still larger.

If the trend that has manifested itself during the past 10 yearrs continues during the next 10, Texas will be decidedly urban in its make-up. And that probability is fraught with possibilities, both political and economic, that are interesting to consider.

THE RIGHT KIND OF CAMPAIGN

We like the way in which Senator Small is conducting his campaign for governor. He does not try to invent issues for his own benefit. He does not undertake to capitalize the demerits of his opponents. He makes his appeal to the more thoughtful voters without any fire-eating, flag-waving or tilting at windmills. He is cautious about making promises, being apparently an individual who believes that a campaign promise is a pledge to be kept and not a mere vote-getting device.

Time will tell whether that sort of campaigning is effective. Texas' experience does not encourage the hope that it will be. Too often the votes have gone to the candidate who was adept at manufacturing his own issues, and who could appeal to sentiment and prejudice rather than to calm thinking. But even if the senator does not profit, politically, by the sort of campaign he is waging, he will have done Texas a service by endeavoring to pitch the contest on the right key. For the more the voters can be induced to really think, the better is the chance for getting the sort of governor that Texas needs.

Courage, sincerity and gumption—these are the attributes for which the voter should look in making his choice in the primary. By so doing, he must at once eliminate all but two or three of the candidates. The prospect would become much more cheerful if we could believe that the great body of voters would disregard past differences, personalities, insincere promises and artificial issues, and make his selection on the basis of the ability to serve Texas. We hope that Senator Small will persist in his effort to keep the campaign on that basis, regardless of who is the direct beneficiary of it.

$115,000,000 IN THREE YEARS

Texas has spent $115,000,000 for highways in the past three years. Gasoline taxes, license fees, bond issues and federal aid make up that tidy total, according to the Houston Press.

It costs about $30,000 a mile to build the best type of permanently paved roads. On that basis, Texas would have added about 3,800 miles of first-class pavement, in the three years. It hasn't, of course, done nearly that well. Much of the money went for administrative and engineering services, a considerable part went for bridges which, while very necessary, don't add anything to paved mileage; another big lump of the money went for maintenance.

We wish the highway commission would tell just where the money went. Figures on receipts and expenditures since the Sterling commission took office should make interesting reading. An enormous amount of money has been collected and spent, in three years, and still there are very few parts of Texas where one may travel as much as 100 miles continuously on real good roads. Assuming that all of the money was spent wisely and efficiently, which we don't doubt, we still believe the figures would help much in shaping a permanent, constructive, sensible highway policy for Texas.

THE NEW CHAMPION

The heavyweight championship of the world, now held by Mr. Schmeling of the German republic, cannot be expected to remain in his possession. It will remain so, we venture to predict, only until the champion gets into the prize ring with somebody. The accounts of Thursday night's affair made it very plain indeed that Schmeling is not the best heavyweight boxer in the world. Gene Tunney sidestepped and dodged into the championship. Schmeling was knocked into it. Under the rules, no other decision was possible, but the laurels that the German wears were bedraggled as soon as he donned them.

It seems to us that the fight game has fallen on parlous days when the title is at stake between combatants such as the two who were in the ring Thursday night. Neither was of real championship caliber. And the pediculous outcome of the scrap emphasizes the state of affairs in the pugilistic world. To think of Schmeling holding a title that a Corbett, a Jeffries and a Dempsey have held is to realize that the game is very far indeed from being what it was.

The American Voice

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

Distinguished Americans and distinguished Britons were at dinner under the auspices of the English speaking union in London.

"We are one people," he said. "We are of the same blood. We drink at the springs of the same literature. We speak the same language."

"Yes," said Bernard Shaw, "we speak the same language, but through a different organ."

She finds some of the causes in the nervous tension caused by American haste and hurry and in the climate of the northern states.

The sudden changes and extremes of our climate contract the throat muscles and rob our voices of mellowness and loveliness.

The negro voice of the South is notoriosly mellow, the loveliest voice in America. Why?

First, as the negro is born in the South, his throat is not assaulted by the sudden extremes of cold he knew in the North. His throat is open under southern warmth.

Third, his nasal passages are broad and open, enabling him to breathe freely and have resonance of tone.

If Americans could contrive to defeat the climate, shielding their throats from contractions by cold, if they could live easily in the midst of their hurry, and if they would pay more attention to breathing and enunciation, Bernard Shaw would have less reason to jibe at the nasality of their voices.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—With congress out of the way, say Mr. Hoover's friends, things are going to be different.

The president will now have a chance to do his real stuff. He will lose little time in convicing the country that the name "One-Term Herbert," which has become somewhat popular in Washington, must be forgotten. His fine administrative mind will be brought into play and he may even succeed in convincing everyone that we would be better off with no congress at all. Or, at least, no senate. And by the time congress convenes again in December the Hoover administration will be hailed as a success.

He Works Best Alone

All that may sound rather optimistic, but there is little doubt that Mr. Hoover functions best when the two houses are not in session. In the first month of his administration, before the special session convened, he looked stronger than he has looked at any time since.

In the meantime nothing has happened, say the Hoover partisans, to prevent the chief from giving the country the "business administration" which he promised. The rejection of Judge Parker, the construction of the Grundy tariff act after Hoover called for limited revision, the exposure and continued tenure of National Chairman Huston, the passage of pensions legislation over his veto, the outcome of the London naval conference—none of these little things can leave any permanent scar after Mr. Hoover begins to carry out his program of big, constructive measures unhampered by the sharpshooters in the senate.

The thing to remember, one hears, is that during the summer and fall no Hoover vetoes can be overridden, no Hoover appointees rejected, no unpleasant legislation passed, not nasty wisecracks about the administration made from the floor, no embarrassing senate investigations begun—nothing, in fact, of the type calculated to make life miserable for sensitive presidents.

During the hot summer months Mr. Hoover has every intention, it is said, of devoting his active attention to such major problems as business conditions, prohibition enforcement, tariff and agriculture.

The presidential plans for action are not being divulged. But he is said to have been formulating them all along as he waited for congress to get the heck out of here.

For instance, it is pointed out, the final form of the tariff bill fits his purposes perfectly. It carries a flexibility provision under which he can rewrite the whole thing if he wants to—and dares. Before the tariff wrecks Mr. Hoover—in case it threatens to do that—Mr. Hoover will be able to wreck the tariff. He will be able to reorganize the tariff commission as well as the rate structure. In fact, Mr. Hoover's friends say that he faces the issue created by the new tariff act with the most unbounded confidence.

Then there's the farm problem. Well, Mr. Hoover got his farm legislation passed by the special session, didn't he? It's his federal farm board, isn't it? And if the farm board isn't carrying on satisfactorily Mr. Hoover can dictate to it and change its policies so that everything will be lovely, can't he? Once congress is out of the way there will be no one to hinder him when he sets out to solve the farm problem with the board as his weapon.

He'll Fix Prohibition, Too

Congress has given the president desired legislation to improve prohibition enforcement. Enforcement has been turned over to the department of justice at last, new prisons will be provided and reforms in court procedure are assured.

Business? Well, things can't go on like this forever, say the Hoover partisans. By the time congress meets again, the White House boys seem confident, the present depression will be over and the country will be more than ever sold on the Hoover administration.

Hail to the chief!

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper and some man with a little bit of a mustash stopped going pass saying, How do you do, Mr. Potts do you remember me?

Why yes, its young Palmer, how do you do, pop sed shaking hands. Youre attending a medical skool, I bleeve, arent you? he sed, and the man sed, Ive just graduated, as a matter of fack, Im a full fledged osteopath, Im Dr. Palmer now, my sine will be out next week.

Thats fine, your name will be on it, I sippose? pop sed, and Mr. Palmer sed, Certeny, naturelly.

I never had an osteopath, although I imagine thats largely due to the fact that Ive never called a doctor in for myself, theyve always been called in for me when I was too weak with the flu or something to be consulted.

Well, I advize you to insist on having an osteopah the next time, Dr. Palmer sed. And why? Ill tell you why. Because the old fashion medical doctors are nuthing but a buntch of old fossils going around stuffing pills in peeps mouths to keep them from asking intelligent questions that they dont know how to anser. While us osteopaths have been puzzeling out the secrets of the human anatomy, what have the old fashion medical docters been doing? he sed.

Ah, what indeed? pop sed, and Dr. Palmer sed, Ill tell you what, theyve been trying to put salt on microbes tales. Did you ever see a microbe? he sed.

Not in my waking hours, pop sed, and Dr. Palmer sed, No, and you never will. When something goes wrong with your furnace, what do you attend to? The grate and the flues, dont you? he sed.

Yes, if I cant get anybody elts to, pop sed, and Dr. Palmer sed,

Well then when something goes wrong with your body is it naturel to attend to the mussels and the nerves or is it naturel to attend to a buntch of wild geese microbes?

I see your point, pop sed. Its a good point and Im glad to see it, and the next time anything goes wrong with my flues, I meen my flu, I bleeve Ill consult an osteopath about my grates and what not, he sed.

And him and Dr. Palmer shook hands again and we kepp on going, and pritty scon who did we meet but Dr. Rorer. Being our docter when we haff to have one, and him and pop shook hands, pop saying, I just ran across young Palmer, how time flies, it seems ony ycstiday he was a kid in short pants, and now he's an osteopath.

Another osteopath, whats the werld coming to? Dr. Rorer sed. These young up starts with their so called modern ideers are enough to give you a pane in the neck, and theres more truth than poetry in that, because weather you have a stummick ake or a pane in the big toe their favorite treatment is to twist your neck as if you were a chickin. If your body was full of tvfoid germs you would go to a medical man with his specific tyfoid serum, wouldent you? You wouldent go to an osteopath and ask him to unscrew the bones in your neck, would you? he sed.

And we kepp on going, and pritty soon we started to go pass a house and pop took out his little red note book and started to write the address down, saying, Heres the chap for me, I wonder if he's got a telefone.

Reducing An Aneurysm

When the wall of an artery becomes weakened either from disease or from accident there is danger that the weakest point may become stretched into a pouch or sack by the great pressure of the arterial blood. This type of sack, called an aneurysm, usually forms in one of the larger arteries, most commonly the aorta, and sometimes in the legs and arms, but rarely lower than the knees or elbows.

The blood is always under great pressure in the arteries and especially so during the heartbeat. This pressure would damage the arteries if they were not elastic, but when the elasticity becomes lessened there is danger of an aneurysm developing during some great physical strain. This is the reason the greatest number of aneurysms occur among men performing hard muscular work. Nevertheless, an aneurysm would not be likely to develop if the arterial walls were not first weakened in some way. This usually occurs because of a disease of the artery walls, although it may occur from some constant pressure from without, such as wearing tight garters or belts. Wounds may also damage the arterial walls so that an aneurysm may form.

Sometimes patients are unaware that they have aneurysms, as there may not be any severe pain unless there is pressure upon some adjacent part, such as nerves, bones, or air passages. The symptoms may vary greatly according to the size and position of the aneurysm which generally appears as a round swelling which pulsates. If it is close to the surface of the skin it has a natural color, thus distinguishing it from an abscess.

Aneurysms are very dangerous because there is a possibility that they may become ruptured by the constant pressure and pulsation of the blood. A rupture of this sort would, of course, be likely to cause death.

The dilations of the artery's wall tend to become larger because of the constant pressure of blood against the weakened walls. We can help nature greatly by understanding this process. In order to avoid additional strain it is better to have the patient rest and it is also a good plan to begin the treatment with a short fruit juice fast. This lowers the blood pressure and reduces the toxins which may be irritating the arterial walls, making them softer and more pliable. The patient should be encouraged to develop mental calmness and avoid the use of stimulants. After the fast, when we begin to feed the patient, it is a good plan to assist the blood to coagulate. This element is abundant in such vegetables as watercress, lettuce, spinach, cabbage, swiss-chard, turnips, lemons, oranges, milk, cottage cheese, asparagus and strawberries. It is also a good plan to see that the patient obtains some gelatin once or twice a day.

It should be remembered that in most cases the real causes of an aneurysm are hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure. If these causes can be removed it is possible to bring about a complete recovery, but such a cure can be accomplished only through the most rigid dietary measures. I have seen many patients restored to health under this treatment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Arthritis

Question—L. P. R. writes: "Kindly let me know through your column the cause and cure, if any, of a person's fingers contracting. The little finger of my left hand is almost closed—all knotted at the third joint and in the palm of the hand, also the third finger of my right hand. Can't open my hand properly. They have been going this way for years and seem to be getting worse all the time."

Answer—You have probably the beginning of arthritis. It is impossible for me to give you full instructions for this disease in this column but I will be glad to send you an article on this subject if you will send me your name and address on a large stamped envelope.

Answer—The use of sodium bicarbonate for breaking up a cold is based upon the idea of making the body more alkaline, and this treatment is often highly recommended by physicians who believe that it gets good results. I have always found the fruit fast to be more effective. The acid fruits all have an alkaline reaction upon the blood and also tend to stimulate the elimination of toxic wastes.

Electrolysis

Question—C. T. asks "What are the dangers of electrolysis for removing superfluous hair from the face? Does it require more than one treatment? Can it harm the nerves of the face?"

Answer—There is no danger in removing superfluous hair through electrolysis if the treatment is given by a trained operator. If a large amount of hair is to be removed it will take more than one treatment. The galvanic electrical current which is used is so reduced that it cannot harm the facial nerves.

IN New York

Not so many months ago, a young man driven prematurely gray by the necessity of daily columnings was writing pieces for the United Press about the romantic and comic goings on in this great city.

Sam Love was, and still is, his name—and around Huntington, W. Va., there are lots of people who will tell you that "they knew him when."

But such is the infection of association that the tables are now turned and Sam has had his moment in the spotlight, with photographers clicking cameras and reporters writing notes on each other's cuffs. For he has taken to himself a trim little cruiserette, and casting dreamy eyes on far horizons from under his white starched skipper's hat has himself turned explorer. Thus the young man who interviewed 100 nomadic adventurers becomes one himself. He's off for the Guavas river, somewhere in Ecuador, with notebooks in his pockets and sharpened pencils over his right ear.

Of course he will one day write a book about all this and, heaven forbid, will go about making lectures. And someone else on his old job will write stories about him.

Ruth Etting, who croons the scorchingest of sophisticated tunes, comes from David City, Neb., which, unless the last census changed things, has some 2,500 residents.

And Anne Morgan, that other scorch singer from Danville, Ill., may have to walk back from Monte Carlo unless her luck changes.

And far be it from me to get anyone steamed up over the stock market after all that's happened . . . but, just between you and me, the big brokerage houses have been advising their help to take their vacations before the first of July. . . . Which means, that they expect them to be busy. . . . And for the first time since the terrible event branch offices of big houses are reopening . . . All of which you can take for what it's worth, if anything.

Speaking of which reminds me that they do say that a certain Colonel Lindbergh has netted a quarter of a million in the "street," thanks to tips from his wife's daddy, Dwight Morrow, who was a Morgan partner once upon a time.

Anita Loos, who used to do acrobatic dances, got back from Europe just in time to grab a train for Hollywood, where she's going in for serious drama, having all but stopped a show earlier in the Broadway season. . . . And they all thought she was just a dancer. . . . Her first role will be in "Up the River," a prison opus.

And since the name of Morrow has been in the papers a lot lately, thanks to that dear old prohibition argument, the Wall street gents never tire retelling old tales about Morrow's now-legendary absentmindedness.

Around the house of Morgan, however, they'll tell you that he wasn't really absent-minded; rather, that Morrow was such a profound student of history, mathematics and what-not that his mind cast off the minor matters. Still the tale sticks of how he started for a lecture in Philadelphia only to be reminded by his secretary that he was scheduled to talk in quite another town.

So long a time men take to learn,
So swiftly pass the years,
That we are ready to return
Before the truth appears.

The merchant Life displays his wares
For all who buy to choose,
He takes his price and little cares
Do patrons gain or lose.

Man thinks in gold or glory lies
The joy he hopes to find,
And vain is it to advertise
The peace of being kind.

Sad hearts, sick lives are strewn about

And pomp and pride have written out
Their grief in tragedy.

Yet this they tell, who in the shade

Amusements

Polly Moran and Marie Dressler in Eddie Cantor's famous comedy, "Caught Short," starting at the Majestic Wednesday.

Warner Baxter has accomplished the seemingly impossible. He has surpassed the marvelous performance he gave in "In Old Arizona" with another and even finer impersonation of a gay bandit in "The Arizona Kid," a great outdoor romance which delighted large audiences at the Majestic when it opened Saturday.

Here is genuine spirit of the old West, that elusive thing which so few Western productions manage to transfer to the screen. Perhaps the fact that all its scenes, including the interiors, were made right on the actual scene of the story—a little village in southwestern Utah—has something to do with the note of unquestioned realism that prevades "The Arizona Kid." Anyway, it is there and together with the gorgeous scenic backgrounds and the remarkable work of the cast, makes the picture one of the most entertaining talking films of the year.

The comedy "All Stuck Up" proved very entertaining and caused many real laughs. The talking news contained some very interesting subjects and formed an important part of the program.

"Caught Short"

"Caught Short," Eddie Cantor's collection of witticisms anent the recent stock market crash is said to have furnished the inspiration for the new all talking comedy of the same title which will open at the Majestic Wednesday with Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in co-starring roles and Anita Page, Charles Morton, T. Roy Barnes, Edward Dillon, Alice Moe, Gwen Lee, Kohlmar and Greta Grandstedt supporting.

Two songs will be heard in "Caught Short," a burlesque number sung by Marie Dressler, and what a dance she does when she sings "I'm Spanish Now." Charles Morton sings "Somebody" to Anita Page.

The entire program for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday is one laugh after another, as short subjects include a Christie Comedy "The Duke of Dublin" featuring Charley Murray. There also will be seen "Galloping Gaucho" and the world's latest news events in Paramount talking news.

"Shadow of the Law"

William Powell has never had such a powerful and thoroughly sympathetic character to portray on the screen as in "Shadow of the Law." The young engineer of this story is a believable character caught in a net of circumstances which might happen to any one. Even "Street of Chance," Powell's first starring picture, lacked the dramatic force of "Shadow of the Law."

A great cast supports Powell, including Natalie Moorhead, the blond beauty, seen opposite the star in "The Benson Murder Case," and Marion Shilling, young, beautiful American stage actress. Regis Toomey is in the cast, and a group of well-known and effective character actors add vitality to the story.

In addition to the above feature there will be shown one of those popular screen novelties, "Yes, We Have No Bananas," and a hilarious comedy "He Loved the Ladies", featuring Taylor Holmes, Helen Millard and Albert Conti.

'REVENGE' IS TRIUMPH FOR DOLORES DEL RIO COMES TO GEM SUNDAY

A gypsy romance of fire and passion, barbaric in its surging emotions, colorful as a Romany costume, lilting as a Rumanian rhapsody, glamorous with romantic charm, dynamic in its dramatic sweep—that is "Revenge," to be presented Sunday and Monday at the Gem theater.

"Revenge" is one of the finest works of screen art that Hollywood has yet produced. It is another triumph for Dolores Del Rio, the star, for Edwin Carewe, the director, and for Finis Fox, the scenarist.

Beautiful in costumes of barbaric splendor, imperious in exercising her will over man and beast, tender in her romantic moments, Miss Del Rio's histrionic skill and gift of character delineation find opportunity for full expression as a gypsy girl who tames wild bears and men for the sheer joy of taming them.

In "Resurrection" and "Ramona," she played a tragic role. In "Revenge" she is the essence of charm and fire as the adorable gypsy beartamer and even in her most dramatic nuances accentuates her performance with delightful humorous touches.

Nick de Ruiz, appearing in support of Armida and Rex Lease in "So This Is Mexico," was a member of the original Metropolitan Opera company in New York, having sung several roles while that organization was appearing at the old Academy of Music at Fourteenth street and Fourth avenue, during the interior decorating of the then new Metropolitan opera house at Broadway and Thirty-ninth street.

Natalie Moorhead, who appears in support of Benny Rubin in "Hot Curves," was christened "Nathalian," but later on she found that "Natalie" would look better in electric lights.

Alice Day, appearing with Benny Rubin in "Hot Curves," got her early screen experience in that environment which has given so many stars to the screen—the Mack Sennett comedy lot.

Mary Carr, famous "mother" of the screen, who appears in support of Benny Rubin in "Hot Curves," made her stage debut in an ingenue role with Henrietta Crossman at the old Girard Avenue theater in Philadelphia. 'Journey's End' Featured at Strand Picturization of Magnificent Play 'High Society Blues' Comes Friday

In the history of the drama few, if any, plays created the sensation throughout the world that greeted "Journey's End," now showing at the Strand, when first produced. Critics outdid themselves in attempts to convey by means of a word picture the heartbreak and the humor that are so movingly contrasted in "Journey's End." For here is a play that dared to say that war is not adventure, not glorious, not inspiring . . . but that it is grim, ghastly and more than anything else, futile, hopeless, needless. Human character, instead of battle, is glorified.

"Journey's End" reveals that men fight because they think they must, that their training, environment, spirit of adventure make them respond to what they unquestioningly accept as duty. That is why heroism and glory are not present in this play, at least not in the conventional sense. For the heroes of "Journey's End" are not fighters but private citizens taken from their widely different daily pursuits and herded together in damp, uncomfortable and shell-ridden trenches. They long not for war but for peace and quiet, for the gardens of their childhood, for England's countryside in May, for love and friendship. They seek solace just before the zero hour in the nonsensical rhymes of "Alice in Wonderland." They are heroes because they are afraid; heroes because they must be brave.

Following "Journey's End" premier at the Gaiety theater in New York, Richard Watts Jr., wrote in the Herald-Tribune, "'Journey's End' is just what it should have been . . . a loyal picturization of a magnificient play . . . All of us should be grateful for a genuinely brilliant motion picture."

"High Society Blues"

To the lilting melodies of four new song hits which they both sing from time to time, these delightful players romp merrily through one of the gayest pictures of the season, falling in love with each other while their respective families engage in a mild but amusing social war. But as you may imagine when Janet and Charlie fall in love, it takes more than a family quarrel to keep them apart.

The songs featured in this picture which Miss Gaynor and Charles Farrell sing delightfully are "Just Like a Story Book," a hit number if there ever was one, "High Society Blues," "I'm In the Market for You," and "Eleanor."

The supporting cast is a good one and features Hedda Hopper and William Collie Sr., as the high toned, socially prominent parents of Janet, and Lucien Littlefield and Louise Fazenda, as the newly rich, well meaning parents of Farrell. Two other excellent roles are contributed by Joyce Compton as Farrell's romantic sister, and by Gregory Gaye as the count who forgets to come to his own engagement reception.

Harry Todd, who recently gave an excellent performance in "Under Montana Skies," and Dorothea Wolbert, who likewise appeared in a previous story, "The Medicine Man," have been added to the cast of "Why Marry?" a feature now in production.

What Does Father's Day Mean to You? - - - - By Kathleen Norris

MRS. NORRIS

Dad's stock has been steadily running down, for a hundred years, and now we have men of the eminence of Bertrand Russell writing books that suggest that we could manage very nicely without bothering him at all.

In a "matriarchy," a word and an idea of which Mr. Russell seems very fond—fathers would have little to do with their children. They would still be husbands, still be members of the family, but their relationship to the rising generation would be merely nominal.

Dad is being kindly but firmly squeezed to the wall; he is being kindly but firmly done out of all his old rights and dignities and privileges.

He used to build the cabin and fell the trees and hunt game for dinner and protect the women and children from attack. But we don't need him for that any more.

Later, he used to split wood and bring in pails of water, sell the calves and buy tea and gingham for the womenfolk. We don't need him for that now, either.

Still later he tended the furnace, walked the floor, according to the old comic pictures, with the crying babies, and did the marketing on the way to business. My southern great-grandfather always walked, with attendant colored boys carrying empty baskets, to market, and the womenkind waited at home wondering what the day's work would be, shelling peas, preparing game, or perhaps killing live terrapin or lobsters. We get pictures of those leisurely early American days in occasional books, like Hergesheimer's "Java Head" or the delicious old classic "Auton House."

Men used to be supreme in the household. Not many generations ago a man could whip his wife, could leave his entire prpoerty to his oldest son, could will away his children, even his unborn child. Women, 200 years ago, could not own property, sign checks—did not even own themselves, in many countries. Girl children were regarded slightingly, often deliberately destroyed.

At home, the men alone were important. In books written only a hundred years ago, more than once I have found reference to a woman as "childless," because she had only daughters. Sons inherited, sons traveled, sons got all the education. There were no women in politics, in colleges, in the professions, in business. The wistful clever sisters had to watch their dull brother being coached and pampered into a position of authority over themselves and their mother.

But now everything is different, in America especially. The modern home is equipped with conveniences that make tremendous physical exertion unnecessary. The modern family is small, it consists of a man who has a job, a woman who has had one child, and may some day have another, and who meanwhile is contented enough with maternal experiments and club work, a daughter who will presently emerge brilliantly from college to establish herself in some profession or business, and a son who is going to have a hard time keeping up with his sister.

Father is no longer a sultan in his adoring harem. He is merely one of a household of four individual human beings, each one standing on his own feet, and rising or falling according to his own desserts. The enormous family that used to keep mother a prisoner at home for the first 15 years of her marriage, is no more; family limitation is an established fact and it is only among the foreign-born, who bring with them some of the ideas of the old world, that you find the family of 10 or 12 that was once entirely commonplace.

Divorce has hurt dad terribly, too, for by the unwritten law small children belong with their mother, even though she be entirely indifferent to them, and he bound up in them heart and soul.

And most of all he has been defrauded by the extravagances of our ideals today, by the constantly increasing household expenditure that more than keeps pace with what he can earn, by the moving to better houses, buying of larger cars, by the demand that mother and the girls make, for servants, clocks, clubs, spending money. Our American father knows little of that modern leisure and comfort that European men begin to enjoy in the late forties and early fifties, that pleasant sitting about in the sunshine with a pipe and a neighbor, digesting the sweets of the years of work. We keep our men at the grindstone until they drop in their tracks, and then have to adjust ourselves, on the life insurance, to the thrifty comfort they might have loved to share.

So we have established "Father's day"—a good day on which to think about some of the precious things—the real things of life, that in our moth-flight to the candle, happiness we are apt to pass over."

Friendship with, intimacy with her father, is a beautiful thing in a girl's life, from babyhood up. Most girls will find him more than ready for it, if they will take a little trouble to find it.

Love for a fine father infinitely enriches a boy's life, and it is a short-sighted and selfish mother indeed who tries to cut that relationship away from her sons.

Boys need their fathers, more than their mothers, and every father ought to try, while the son is still a little fellow, to establish between himself and his boy a really easy friendship, without criticism, without boredom on the father's part. Too often the father shows his fatigue, his lack of interest in the little boy's doings and plans, in grammar school years, and when the older man would really love the companionship and confidence of the younger, he finds that he has destroyed it.

Three are years in all youngsters' lives when home ties weaken, and complete independence seems to them the admirable thing. But these years are followed by others, when they need the guidance—the love that only home can give, again, and are just that much poorer if they must go on into their own marriages, their own parenthood, without the dignity and beauty of a loving home background behind them.

For when the last of the night clubs is closed, and the last saxophone whines out its last jazz, they must turn, as we all did in our day, to the fundamentals. They must think, as we did, of a mate, a hearthstone, a garden. They must agonize and exult, as we did, over the new baby, and begin to reconstruct the old schedules and the old laws; bottles and naps, obedience, first teeth, first staggering walks, first words.

They must make, in a word, a home, and if the new husband and wife have in their hearts the memory of two other good homes, all the richer they. There is no pride in the world like the pride a young man feels in his father; like his pleasure in walking down with dad to the office, in the morning, or in finding the older man visiting an uproarious grandchild, when the anxious, proud new daddy gets home at night.

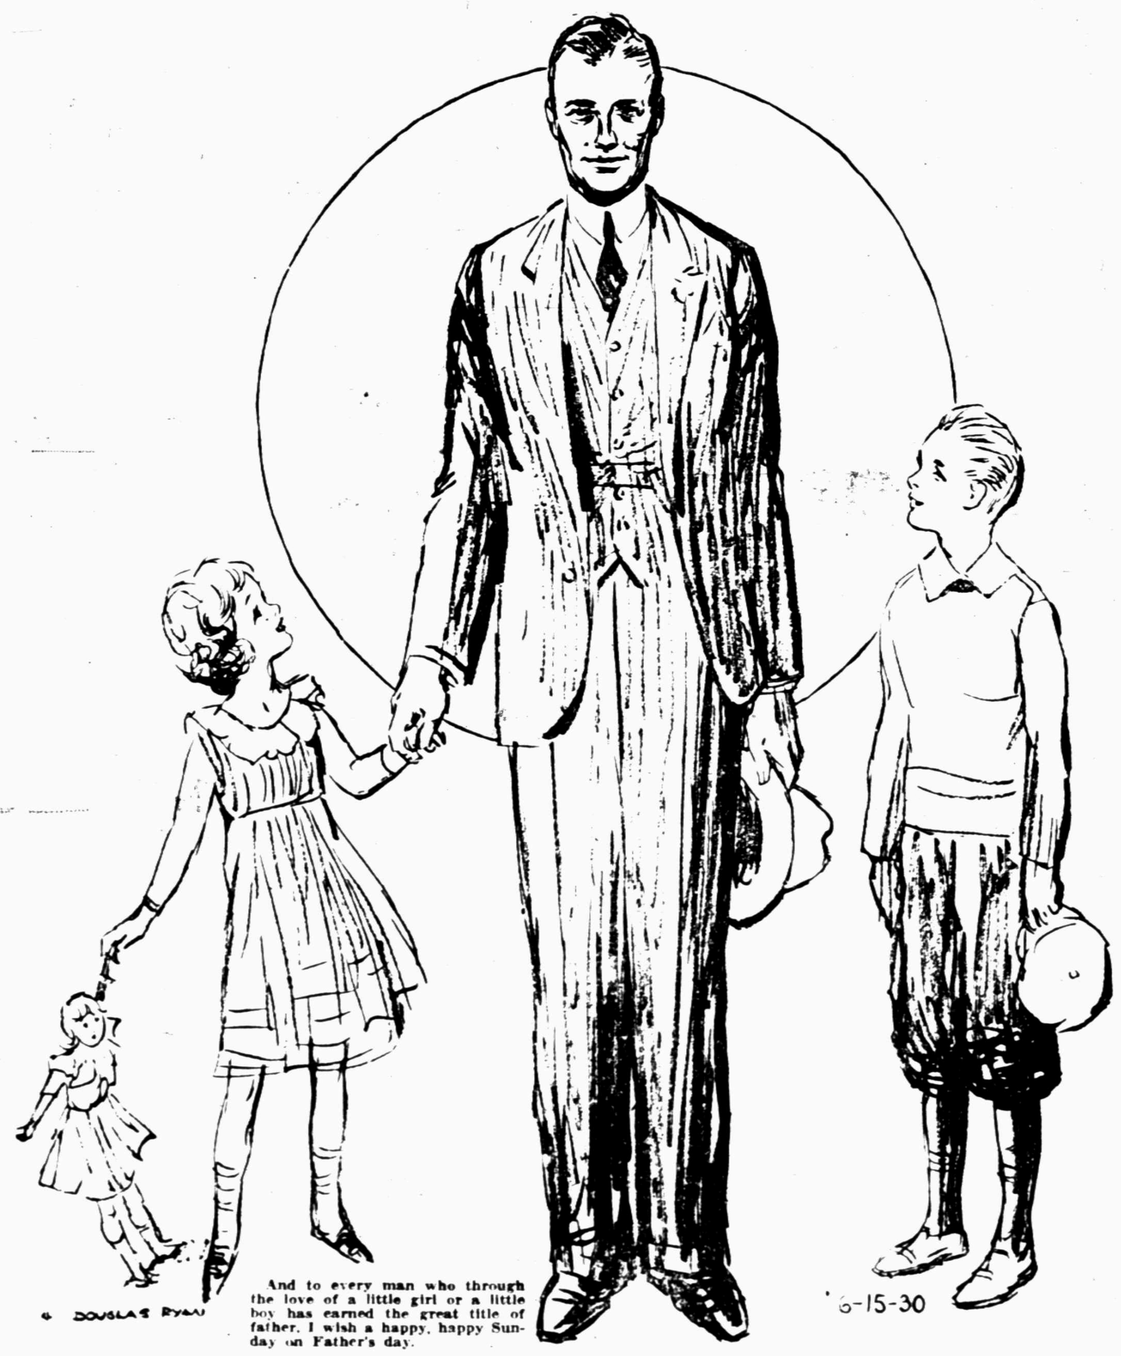

As for a daughter, she robs her whole life of a certain definite and beautiful thing if she does not use her little-girl years to study, and spoil, and become confidentially friendly with the quiet head of the house. To go places with dad, to laugh with him, to scold him, to be proud of his triumphs and furiously indignant with his enemies, is a delicious privilege. No lover in the world is ever more delighted and appreciative than he, when his Mary comes into the office to take him—or be taken by him, to lunch, to nobody are her secrets more sacred, to nobody is her happiness so important.

Mother's share is to see that he isn't too burdened, too worried about work and money, to be free for his little girl, at night. Mary's share is to realize that dad, being only a grown-up boy, is a little shy with her sometimes and needs encouraging like the other boys. Dad's share is to begin to be her friend when she is little, to establish little household customs with her—their ten minutes before dinner, their Sunday walk, their Friday nights at the movies. His share is to make her know by what he does more than by what he says, that her dad is the best friend she has in the world, and that he is going to stand between her and all the troubles that ever come her way.

Remembering a wonderful father, remembering Sunday walks and Macauley's "History" beside winter fires, remembering the thrills of a first theater experience, the wisdom of fatherly advice in difficulties, the sweetness of fatherly praise in any small success—and remembering the hour when the loving eyes were closed—remembering this, I ask you luckier women who still may make this a great day for dad, not to forget how rich in power you are.

And to every man who through the love of a little boy has earned the great title that we give sometimes to God Himself, I wish a happy, happy Sunday on Father's day.

(Copyright, 1930, by Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

And to every man who through the love of a little girl or a little boy has earned the great title of father, I wish a happy, happy Sunday on Father's day.

Miss Southern Democracy Asks Alimony

By WILL ROGERS

Every once in awhile something shows up in the way of real humor, and it's generally by somebody that most everybody else never heard of. In the case I am presenting to you it says in there that it was presented by a Mr. A Berkowitz. But anyhow, whoever it is let's get him some credit, and maby spoil his life by making a writer out of him. A Mr. F. W. Kuhn of Troy, Alabama, sent it to me as a clipping from the Birmingham Age-Herald. The case is that it's a bear and I want you to read it. Course they use Tom as the example but its really hitting at all the Hoovercrats.

I havent heard much from Toms race lately, but I bet they have a tough time cleaning him. Those town boys might be against him but when he pulls off his old alpaca, and gets to illustrating the weakness of his opponents with those Negro stories (which he can tell like nobody else) why he will give em a tough battle. But let me repeat you this just as is. The petition follows:

"Miss Southern Democracy complantant, vs. Thomas J. Heflin alias 'Cotton Tom' Heflin alias 'Admiral Tom' Heflin, respondent, in the Circuit Court of Jefferson County, Alabama, tenth Judicial Circuit of Alabama, in equity. To the honorable William M. Walker, judge of said court. Humbly complaining your complaint Miss Southern Democracy shows unto your honor the following facts as a basis of complaint.

First, that your complaintant is over the age of 21 and has been a boni-fide resident of the Sovereign State of Alabama since the year 1865. Your Complaintant retains her maiden name in this bill, for reasons well known to this court and the world at large.

"Second—That the respondent, Thomas J. Heflin, is over the age of 21, and though absent from the state a boni fide resident of the state.

"Three—That your complaintant and respondent were married to each other in the fall of the year 1894, at Lafayette, Alabama, where the respondent was a lowly Cotton grower, and where your complaintant through her aid and influence, first aided the respondent to the rank of public officer of this great state. Your complainant will in all fairness aver that until the time of the acts herein complained of the respondent was a model husband. That his courtship at Lafayette was swift and ardent, that down through the years respondent was loyal and true, and appreciative of helping hand of complaintant, which in love bestowed upon him many high offices, finally the Toga of United States Senator, in November of the year 1920.

"Four—Your Complaintant avers that she and the respondent lived together in holy blissful union until the first Tuesday after the first Monday of November of the year 1928, at which time they separated and have not lived together since. Your Complaintant charges that in the spring of that year she first noticed changes in her erstwhile model Spouse. He began to stay out late at nights, with dissreputable Characters known as Republicans. That he would come home in a bad mood and mutter 'Raskobite.' That he no longer fed and cared for the pet Donkey, that had been their comfort during their married life, but brought into their happy home an ungainly Elephant. Your Complaintant further charges that he was cruel to her, and threatened to break her up and destroy her forever, that he shamed her in the presence of her Enemies, by speeches so threatening n tone that your complaintant was made to blush and hang her head in shame. That he failed to support her, and furnish her with those necessities of life, and that on said November day he utterly abandoned her, leaving her broken and destitute, and beset by many, many foes, and he charges that at the time he abandoned her, she was wrong, unchaste and defiled.

"Your complaintant avers that she was ever faithful and true and brought to respondent blessings never before reaped by any man. That she gave to him the best years of her life, and now she has grown frail and weak and cannot support herself, and that but for friends would have long ago been forced to spend her years in want and poverty. Furthermore complaintant avers that respondent is in good health, strong, and well able to work, and Complaintant being without relief except in a Court of Equity, and prays that your Honor will cause him to plead answer, to this bill, within the time and manner required, and shall pay to Complaintant such a sum as will be necessary for her support and maintainance, in accordance with her future support.

"Complainant further prays that upon final hearing of this case, your honor will render a decree forever dissolving the bonds of matrimony existing between these two. And that your complaintant again be permitted to plunge her adventurous prow once more into the bevexed waters of the seas of connubiality and cast her fortunes with any man who gains her affections in the contest, for her favor provided for by the law of her Fathers home.

Signed: A. Berkowitz, solicitor for the complaintant.

Footnote.—The respondent is required to answer each and every paragraph of the foregoing bill of complaint. But not under oath, answer under oath hereby being expressly waived.—A. Berkowitz.

Twenty-ninth Annual Convention of American Automobile Association to Be Held at Asheville, North Carolina

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The 29th annual convention of the American Automobile association, composed of more than a thousand motor clubs in the United States and Canada, will be held in Asheville, N. C., June 20 and 21.

With this announcement from A. A. A. national headquarters today was coupled the prediction that because of changes in the election machinery of the national motoring body, whereby each member club is entitled to one counsellor at the convention and an additional counsellor for every 1,000 members, this would be the largest and the most representative gathering in the history of organized motordom in America.

In addition to the formulation of motoring and travel policies, the convention will elect national officers and directors and an executive committee for the years 1930 and 1931. The officers to be elected are president, seven vice presidents, secretary and treasurer. The entire membership of the board of directors will be voted on, which in turn will elect the executive committee, the governing authority of the organization in the intervals between board meetings.

Thomas P. Henry of Detroit, Mich., who has piloted the A. A. A. for many years, asserted today that while the agenda of the conference has not as yet been completed, he felt confident that national highways, safety and motor vehicle taxation would loom large in the program of motoring policies on which the convention would act. He said:

"At our last annual convention we made a strong declaration in favor of free express highways. In view of the increasing congestion on our highways, the development of a national program to make this commitment effective is urgently necessary.

"It was at our 1929 convention that the movement started to increase federal aid appropriations from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 a year. In giving effect to this motoring policy, congress has given great impetus to the effort of the states to complete the federal aid system. As a road matter and as an economic matter, this policy should be continued.

"The question of toll highways and toll bridges continues to attract national attention. We have every reason to believe that the country is solidly with us in our determination to keep the highways 'free' and to throw such safeguards around toll bridges as will, at least, prevent over-capitalization and assure their eventual return to free public use.

"Our highway widening committee, of which Charles M. Hayes of Chicago is chairman, has made an intensive study of the problem of congestion, particularly as it affects the bottle neck approaches to our metropolitan areas. I expect important recommendations from this committee to come before the convention.

"One of the difficult phases of road policy pertains to conditions in the Far West. There are now pending before congress several important measures affecting this vast area. I refer to such measures as the bill providing that the federal government assume responsibility for the building of main highways through unappropriated land in the public land states; the bill providing for the construction of forest roads; and the bill authorizing the department of interior to maintain roads approaching the national parks. All these measures are long overdue."

DREAM WALTZ

WHEN Leonard was twenty-one, he composed a Dream Waltz. It was published, caught on, and for a considerable while the entire land was dancing to it and humming.

Incidentally, it made quite a pile of money for Leonard, enabling him to plan a trip to Greece there to satisfy some sort of a congenital hunger in his middle west soul, to say nothing of the fact that, for at least a six-month, he was quite a celebrity. His home town honored him; even New York bowed to him upon his arrival there to take ship, and for one brief second in his scheme of things, the gods took notice of a lean gangling fellow with a shock of blonde hair, who hailed from a town called Granite City, and through whose commonplace looking cranium had wafted the haunting melody of a dream.

Everywhere he went for those few months, the melody went with him, following him like a wisp of lovely smoke. In restaurants, when he entered, the orchestra played him his Dream Waltz; on dance floors, youth, with drugged looking eyes, moved rhythmically to it. Even on street corners, barrel organs sent his Dream Waltz tumbling into the street din. They were short, excited melodius months, dominated by the subtle aura of success.

It was in New York, while waiting to take the ship for the Ægean Islands, that he met a slip of a girl from Brooklyn endowed with the absurdly incongruous and beautiful name of Hesper. She was a flat-voiced, satin-skinned, colloquial, quick-minded, city-turned little piece, one of hordes who milled through the daily scene, but to Leonard, from the moment he clapped eyes on her seated on a high stool beside him at an ice cream counter, a nymph who must have slipped out of the surf of the ocean surrounding Manhattan.

THEIR courtship was quick, citified and ended in marriage. The trip to the Ægean, of course, was shelved, first because Hesper preferred to purchase Grand Rapids Furniture with the money and secondly, because any spot she chose to be, became the Ægean Isles to Leonard.

They were married on a Monday, had fitted up a pert little filing-cabinet of a flat by the following Monday, and in another week were neatly adjusted into the well-oiled routine of the butcher, the baker, the frigidaire de-froster; the dumb waiter, the subway, the vermin exterminator.

Nor was the transition of hopes and plans difficult for Leonard. Hesper was more delectable, if possible, in marriage than she had been in courtship. Built like a doll, her quick pink tongue, her darting adorably wayward eye, her flashing little temper, her irresistable remorse were as elusive, as maddening, as appetizing to him, as had been the elusive strains of his waltz before he captured them all.

For a twelve month they lived, these two children, captured into the cave of their Manhattan flat, the deliciously irresponsible, uninhibited lives of playboy and playgirl.

Then the funds gave out, the vogue of the Dream Waltz began to go the way of all vogues, and life began to become the serious business it can manage to be upon occasion.

WHAT subsequently happened, came much more gradually than it seems in the telling. The first dimming of the lustre of the vivaciousness that was Hesper's did not come until those first strangely solemn days when it became necessary for the little household, builded on the Dream Waltz, to sit solemnly down and take note of its budget. And then, almost before they could catch their breath over the narrow margin of their resources, Hesper's twin girls were born and ten months thereafter, a boy, and ten months after that, another.

Thereupon, this story takes its all too usual course. The gradual conflict of wear and tear, worry and financial strain upon beauty, youth and hope. For almost a year, battling with the haunting desires for melody that still lay tormented in the hinterlands of his mind, Leonard, borrowing, devising, scheming to meet his budget, strove to recapture some of the quality that had poured into the Dream Waltz.

For months he had shut himself up evenings to strum for melody on a battered guitar, that woke the babies

At the end of fourteen months, he was clerking in a haberdashery. At the end of five years, he was clerking in a haberdashery.

With a finality that struck terror to his soul, his house had settled, his Hesper had settled, his routine had settled.

A bitter, slatternly, violently maternal Hesper ruled his household now.

IT mattered not that when she met him, Hesper, at ten dollars a week, had been salesgirl in the basement of a department store. The years, piling up their woes and disappointments, also piled up in the wife of Leonard, festering hallucinations of having sacrificed herself.

Strangely, there was no repudiation in Leonard. What Hesper said of him in vituperative moods, was true. He had brought no fulfillment to his marriage. His promise, his inspiration, his melody of spirit, had petered out. Hesper, who thought she had married success, had married a clerk.

It hurt Leonard to see her beauty fade out beneath the lines of bitterness, and to know that the lugging of her heavy children was dragging her figure into sway-back lines.

Even the old struggle for composition was gone. With the enforced sale of his upright piano, he had for a few months locked himself up evenings to try and strum for melody on a battered guitar. That woke the babies. The slow corroding processes of frustration began to eat into the heart of Leonard.

At forty, gray and with a stoop, he was any morning the strap-hanger caught in the obscene shambles of the subway eight o'clock rush; he was any flat dweller, turning his pasty face homeward at six o'clock, once more a wedged sardine in the evening subway rush; a qualified member of the routinized world of the flat, the shop, the daily grind.

SUNDAY mornings he wheeled out his babies, cleaned out his pipes, tinkered with a homemade radio, buried his face under sheets of the Sunday papers to escape the perpetual wanglings of Hesper, who wore dust caps and her skirts pulled up around her hips while she did housework.

Sunday afternoons, particularly as his boys began to grow up, he walked with them to the zoos of the public parks or occasionally took them skiff-riding on the small lakes. His neck had grown thin, his arms had grown more gangling, his eyes had grown to look like glass that had been breathed on.

Yet withal, the man out of whom had flowered the mystic sweetness of the Dream Waltz, moved ahead in the trance of his life. Husband of a wife. Father of children. Head of a household. Incumbent of a clerk's position. Tax payer on a tiny scale. Subscriber to a morning newspaper. Tinkerer with his radio. Absorber of the ready-made propaganda of the political and social world in which he lived.

His twins grew older and more demanding and more critical of the parent who had thus thrust them into ways of mediocrity, when at school there were children who came from larger flats, and wore better frocks. His boys grew older, and in many respects, terrifyingly wise in city ways. His wife grew dimmer and more the scold.

And yet, to all intents and purposes, the little family in the usual little flat, in the usual mediocrity of its middle class routine, was fulfilling its destiny. Hesper, the mother, who had given of her body and her vitality that there might be life. Leonard, the provider, who sought to instill within his family, right doing and living. Yearlings, growing into their maturity under the family roof.

Straw-foot, hay-foot! Routine. Mediocrity. Standardization.

AT fifty, Leonard, with the unfinished melodies dormant within him, was reconciled to all this. So, in her way, was the querulous Hesper.

And then one night something happened which changed the complexion of life for Leonard to such an extent, that he could never again feel drab and hopeless and trapped by the machinery of his life. A small, almost infinitesimal thing happened, filling his cup to overflowing; making the future something to care about; something to dream about.

His eldest boy, a slender, rather sensitive-faced youngster brought him a drawing he had made on a sheet of paper. A precocious, really extraordinary portrait of a young girl, executed with vitality, imagination and beauty.

Captured into that face on the paper, laid in cunning gifted stroke, line by line, was all the quality that eighteen years before Leonard in another way had poured into the Dream Waltz. Life was not done!

Spinner of Tall Tales Fools Big Men With Story

(By NEA Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., June 14.—Lester Green, whose tall tales in the country's press have rivaled those of Ananias and Baron Munchausen and Paul Bunyan, is on the air. He can be heard every Sunday night at 8:30, E. S. T., from WTIC, of this city.

Lester is purely an air character, created by Louis Mortison, until recently a newspaper cartoonist. Through his mouthpiece, Mortison tells unique stories with just enough realism that some listeners can't help but believe them.

Among the bizarre fabrications which brought him renown through the newspapers is the glutinous serum which he announced he had invented. He claimed that this serum, when injected into apple trees, would keep the fruit from falling.

Fooled the Clue Men

Barnum must have been right for within a short time a glue manufacturer in Montreal, after reading about the serum, wired Lester for exclusive rights to the manufacture of the glue and a representative from a leading glue manufacturer in New York made a hurried trip to Prospect to see Lester personally.

Another of his interesting experiments consisted of crossing some of the algae in the Prospect reservoir with grubs from the mint bed on his farm. This produced a strain of marine growth which imparted a mint flavor to the town's drinking water and did away with a "cucumber taste."

Butter From Milkweed

Then Lester hooked up his wife's vibrating machine to sheaves of milkweed stems to churn out a new product called milkweed butter. He followed this by incasing eggs in a coat of ice and hatching fur-bearing chickens.

Possibly one of the tallest tales which Mortison has put his character through is the invention of self-turning flapjacks. Taking some Mexican jumping beans and pop corn, Lester mixed up a fine batter and put it on a griddle. When the flapjacks were done on one side the natural reaction of the pop corn, assisted by the jumping bean, caused the cake to turn over.

Mortison's series will run weekly throughout the summer months.

Wins Police Radio

Columbus, Ohio, has been granted authority by the federal radio commission, to install a police radio service. A similar license had been granted Richmond, Ind., and St. Paul, Minn.

Park Broadcast

KSTP, St. Paul, broadcasts the ballyhooing and frivolities of a nearby amusement park to late hour listeners every night. The comedians, stunt artists and guest performers appear before the microphone at the park, which is about 20 miles from the station.

Radio Listeners Rap Advertising By Broadcasting

CHICAGO, June 14.—A second, and perhaps a third pair of ears for the radio listener is the crying need of the broadcasting industry from the public's standpoint, according to a report made recently by McMurdo Silver, radio engineer, of the results of a questionnaire sent to 10,000 radio owners throughout the country.

Three-fourths of them had found there were usually two or three different stations broadcasting their favorite kind of program simultaneously, and the following hour no program of this type was available. Some method of evening things up is the only alternative, Silver says, since science has not yet learned to create additional ears for the radio public.

Answers to Silver's questionnaire, which was an attempt to get a cross section of the listener attitude about broadcasting, revealed two other major complaints against the present system of program making. Too much repetition of well-known musical selections, and too lengthy advertising announcements were found to be annoying 65 per cent of those who answered.

Some Satisfied

"To state the results fairly we must not overlook the answers which said they were entirely satisfied with broadcasting as is, that they were willing to turn the dial back and forth continually to get what they want and that they simply tuned out annoying sales talks," says Silver.

"But it does not seem to be a situation any too healthy when three-fourths of any group of people chosen at random have serious difficulties in getting anything like a program continually pleasing for two or three hours.

Need Program Adjustment

"If the air were always full of two or three programs of the kind a certain person delighted in, we might well overlook their dissatisfaction with having to give up one program of their choice in order to hear another of the same type since no one can enjoy all the good things in this world. But the situation is entirely different when a certain kind of program seems to be grouped about one particular day, and the rest of the listening time it is absent.

"The public has a right to feel that this is wasteful overlapping. Some efforts bent toward an amelioration of this condition could not help resulting in a boon for the whole radio industry, since it would mean more complete satisfaction to three-fourths of the listeners."

Space Ships to Ply in Future

BERLIN.—Through rocket propulsion, man will some time in the future make trips through space to Mars, Venus, and even out of the solar system, according to Max Valier, famed inventor of the rocket automobile. "As a matter of fact, intensely feverish work is being done in connection with this project, and theoretically the construction of the 'Universal Space Ship,' which is to carry us to mysterious world's, is already settled," Valier says. "This ship will be of huge dimensions, and the problem of lack of air will be overcome by artificial oxygen supply and air-tight chambers. "The ship will be driven at terrific speed by rocket drive. This speed will increase until it reaches thousands of miles per hour, thereby overcoming even the enormous force of gravity and the earth's attraction."

'TO GIGGLE OR NOT TO GIGGLE,' THE STARS WILL HAVE TO DECIDE

Gentle Julia Sanderson's radio laugh is natural—she really laughs that way in private. Recently a fan wrote that he thought her "giggle" in the Blackstone hour on the Columbia Broadcasting system spoiled the effect of Frank Crumit's jokes. Miss Sanderson took this to heart and left the giggle out. Immediately there was an avalanche of mail from fans who said the giggle was the best thing on the program, so Julia began giggling again.

The same is true of Lucille Black's giggle on the Nit Wit hour. Studio visitors often are startled by Lucille's mirthful trill, which is absolutely her own little laugh.

POET OF THE ORGAN TESTS HIS PERFORMANCES WHILE BROADCASTING PROGRAMS

Jesse Crawford, Columbia's "Poet of the Organ," wears earphones when broadcasting to check his performance for balance and volume. The earphones are connected with the microphone amplifier in the organ studios of the Paramount theater, New York.

"This is the best way I know to check your program," Mr. Crawford says. "Every radio entertainer should listen to himself. There would be less errors in broadcasting if they all did so."

"The 'Poet' spends from five to six hours in rehearsal before every half-hour broadcast . . . always with the earphones clamped on his head.

Even Stars Have Difficulties in Their Business

Life is mostly water and mud for Buster Keaton these days. In his army comedy "Forward March," at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, he has to march in mud, fall in it, wallow in it, and almost eat it. "The funny part," comments Sally Eilers, his leading lady, "is that the fellow seems to actually like it!"

William Haines, to play a cowboy, had to roll a cigaret with one hand in "Way Out West." He says it took him 20 days, a hundred sacks of tobacco, and two books of cigaret papers to do the trick. "And the hardest part was smoking the cigaret after I'd rolled it," William rises to remark.

Sam Wood is busy looking for sweethearts for Jack Gilbert to have in every port in "Way for a Sailor." In the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talkie, Jack will have lady friends in Swansea, Lisbon, Shanghai, Liverpool, Saloniski and way stations. Wood is to direct from the Albert Richard Wetjen novel.

Radio Fight Series

Some Phone Bill!

It is said that the NBC has the biggest telephone bill in the world. Last year it totaled nearly $3,000,000.

Restaurant for Deaf

BERLIN.—A restaurant for the deaf and dumb has been set up here. Even the waiters are deaf and dumb and all orders are given and carried out through the aid of sign language. Two complete bars are provided for those who want only a sip and a bite, and a card room is provided for the silent guests to play in after their meals.

Light Motorcycle on Sale

LONDON (AP).—A motorcycle weighing only 167 pounds now is being sold in England. It is described as the missing link between bicycle and motorcycle.

Equitable Distribution of Expense Of Drainage Measures Discussed in Letter From Officials to Landowners

The question of how the cost of drainage measures should be distributed is discussed in a letter from irrigation district officials to district landowners. The letter is one of a series from the officials on the drainage problem.

The letter makes it plain that the owner whose land is not included in the water-logged area, or in the area threatened with water-logging, is none the less responsible for the condition and should bear a part of the drainage expense. The letter follows:

Dear Sir: In last week's letter we discussed the plan of financing drainage costs as recommended by the board of directors of Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 2, from the standpoint of the general responsibility of all lands within the district toward the area now affected by seepage. In this letter the problem will be discussed from the standpoint of the general contribution to the water table from the higher lands within the district to the affected area.

Whether the organization for drainage construction covers the entire irrigation district or whether the organization covers only a limited portion, including the areas actually seeped, some attention must be given to the liability of the areas contributing to the saturated condition on account of the use of irrigation water. It is the water that finds its way through the surface of the soil into the sand, gravel or other porous materials underlying the irrigated fields of the higher lands that helps raise the water table underneath the best lands of a project. Seepage on all irrigated areas in the western states has most generally appeared on the low lands first and then spreads to the higher lands as the water table rises and this is the manner in which seepage is developing on most of the lands of this irrigated section.

It is the irrigation of the lands of the entire irrigation project that has caused this condition. If irrigation had never been practiced here there would, of course, be no seepage or drainage problems. Rainfall in itself would never have produced seepage to any alarming extent on any of the lands of this project. The water rights and the canal system necessary to convey these water rights from the Diversion reservoir to the lands irrigated are all owned collectively by the irrigation district and the lands receiving the benefit of the water rights. If the canal system is the cause that makes drainage necessary, or if the seepage comes from the actual application of irrigation water to the lands of the district matters little so far as the responsibility is concerned. It is a problem that should be met in a practical way. Whether a water right is conveyed to lands in Clay county, 46.2 miles from Diversion reservoir, or whether that water right is conveyed to the first farm only one mile down the canal, the responsibility of the two owners and every other owner with a water right from the district is identical.

It is necessary in a discussion of a subject of this kind to refer to the water table lying underneath the irrigated lands for the reason that no harm results from water logging or seepage until this water table rises to the point where it is approximately four or five feet from the surface of the soil. Engineers and irrigation men understand this ground water table and take it for granted that everyone even in a new irrigated section like this understands it and its action upon plant life equally as well as they do. The ground water table is in reality the water that is obtained when a water well is dug. In an irrigated section its depth from the surface follows to a considerable extent the topography of the soil under which it lies; that is to say, if the slope of an irrigated field is south toward a creek or other natural depression, the ground water table is almost certain to follow this same slope but on a lesser grade. The movement of ground water in any particular direction is very slow. Ground water under the higher portions of the field is almost sure to be found at a higher elevation than the ground water under the low lands. In other words, there is a movement to ground water. Any contribution from rainfall, from irrigation or from canal losses under the higher lying lands reaches the ground water at a much higher elevation than the surface of the low lying productive lands on the project. This being true, the element of contribution from one section of the project to another or from one farm to another enters into the problem.

In fixing the benefits or in arriving at an equitable manner of distributing the cost the matter of contribution must always be considered on an irrigation project. It is not equitable that the organization should include only the lands directly benefited and at the same time exclude lands that are apparently high and dry but from the irrigation of which a large portion of the excess water flows. We have cases on our own project and every irrigation project has had similar experiences, that some lands become seeped and nonproductive before they are cultivated or irrigated, entirely from the effects of the over-irrigation of the surrounding higher lands.

A number of the irrigators on our project who have seeped lands on their farm blame the waste water or surface run-off from their neighbor's farm as the sole and only reason for their condition. While it is true that waste water allowed to run unrestricted down a natural depression in an irrigated field contributes to a considerable extent to the ground water table, it is also true that if waste water is confined to a ditch, especially through our tighter soils, that it has very little to do with the rise of the ground water. It is only after the water table has reached a dangerous elevation underneath a field that losses from canals, community and farm ditches become of any damaging consequence. You can readily understand that a loss from a canal or lateral with a ground water surface 20 feet deep would be of no danger to growing crops, while the same loss might prove serious with a ground water table four feet from the surface. In the latter case all losses into the soil from the surface have no where to go.

Other angles of this problem will be presented next week.

Yours very truly,
G. A. REMINGTON,
General Manager.
C. H. CLARK, president.

POSSIBILITIES OF POULTRY BUSINESS SHOWN BY RECORD

SAN ANTONIO.—A profit of $2.13 per hen for the five months ending April 1 has been made by Mrs. S. W. Ridgway of Bexar county in a farm flock record contest, according to G. P. McCarthy, assistant county agent. In the 4-H club boys' and girls' class, Herbert Rittiman was leading with a profit of $2.15 per hen. His demonstration for three years has so established his reputation as a poultryman he was able to sell 42 settings of hatching eggs for $1 per setting during March. In the entire contest 13 flocks show profits for five months well above $1 per hen, which is considered excellent in view of the fact that a $2 profit per year per bird is counted meritorius in the poultry business.

SKIM MILK LOWERS EGG COST IN SHACKELFORD COUNTY

ALBANY.—Skim milk in the poultry ration has reduced the cost of producing eggs nearly 5 cents per dozen for five Shackelford county poultry demonstrators. The milk permitted a cheaper grain ration and resulted in a feed cost of 7.7 cents per dozen for eggs from these flocks as compared to an average cost of 12 cents per dozen in five other demonstration flocks where no milk was used.

It is pointed out by A. C. Magee, county agent, that 100 hens will consume with profit about three gallons of skim milk daily, and that when this amount is available the expensive protein feeds in the mash may largely be omitted. If cows are good, 100 hens to each dairy cow is a good balance to maintain between the dairy and poultry branches of the farm business, he says.

Lespedza and Oats

MT. PLEASANT.—Manure, lespedeza and oats is the combination used to convert an unproductive eight-acre patch into a rich pasture by T. A. Perkins of Panthers Chapel community, Titus county. For his work in providing good pasturage for six hogs, seven calves, four yearlings and 14 mules he has been awarded first prize in the local pasture improvement contest. His total cost for seed and labor amounts to $23.60. Mr. Perkins explains that six acres of this was sodded to Bermuda grass 20 years ago and that the remainder was very poor, rough land growing a few weeds and trees. Last winter he fed ribbon cane fodder to about 25 head of cows and calves on this land and the manure was spread uniformly all over the field. Late in February five acres were broken six inches deep and oats sowed, followed by 40 pounds of lespedeza seed the next month. All crops, including the Bermuda grass, have done well and Mr. Perkins plans to sow other legumes and grasses there next fall, winter and spring.

ASPARAGUS AND RHUBARB POPULAR FOR CANNING

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, June 14.—Asparagus and rhubarb figure prominently among the new vegetables which are being grown by Texas home demonstration club women this year in an effort to add greater variety to the average family menu. West Texas is going particularly strong on these two vegetables, reports of home demonstration agents show. Lamb county women have put out 3,000 plants; Stephens county reports 16,000 asparagus roots set out; and every club woman in Hockley county is growing one or both varieties. Among other West Texas counties figuring prominently in the home growing of rhubarb and asparagus are Potter, Floyd, Hardeman, Lubbock, Brown, Swisher, Lynn, Dawson and Clay counties. Most of the 33,00 girl and women home demonstration club members in Texas are gardening and canning this year and using home grown fruits and vegetables to help in balancing family diet with health and economy.

MORE FRUIT IN DIET AIM FANNIN COUNTY WOMEN

BONHAM, Texas, June 14.—The use of raw and cooked fruit in the family diet is the object of 371 Fannin county home demonstration club women who have made at least six plantings of grapes, figs, berries and nut or fruit trees this season in continuation of last year's planting program which resulted in the introduction of more than 20,000 such plants on local farms. This drive toward complete home orchards is centered about 16 special demonstrations which serve as an inspiration and guide to all families in those communities. This year's plantings total 12,248 in the following order of preference: strawberries, peaches, grapes, blackberries, plums, figs, pears, cherries, apples and apricots.

Hints for Rabbit Breeders

By WM. L. SMITH

By WILLIAM L. SMITH

A Hobby or Spare-Time Industry For All

Thousands of people have, during the past two years, taken up the breeding of rabbits, and thousands more are weighing up the possibilities attached to this easily-followed hobby or spare-time industry. That it can be made a source of unlimited pleasure and much profit has been proved time and again, a great many people now enjoying the pleasures attached to breeding, rearing, exhibiting, etc., and at the same time adding materially to their bank balance, many even making it a means of livelihood.

The reason for all this is not far to seek. There is today an unlimited demand for Angora wool, a product of the Angora rabbit, while the demand for furs made from the pelts of rabbits of many varieties is a growing one, and likely to be very much greater in the future than in the past, owing to the ever-increasing scarity of natural wild furs. Then there is the great factor that rabbits are so easy to keep and breed that successful participation in the hobby or industry, which everyone decides to make it, is within reach of the man or woman in the most humble circumstances. A start can be made on sound lines at comparatively small cost, while the maintenance of quite a nice stud is such a small matter that it will not cripple the finances of those whose income is very limited. This is largely accounted for by the fact that a large portion of the food required can be obtained free of charge during the greater part of the year.

Rabbits are vegetarians, and the wild herbs which grow so plentifully in this country, also garden refuse of many kinds, all go to help keep down the food bill, yet give the most satisfactory results. The breeding of rabbits for wool or pelt production alone has been proved to be a paying proposition, but there are other avenues open to the intelligent breeder. Livestock shows in all parts of the country provide classes for rabbits, and valuable prizes, challenge cups, etc., are offered, all of which adds to the value of stock and tends to make the industry even more profitable.

There is also a big market for reliable breeding stock, which can be disposed of at good prices, the breeder having thus another string to his bow. This does not by any means cover the whole scope of rabbit breeding. Apart from the varieties bred for wool or fur, there is a wide choice of varieties which are bred and kept by men and women whose sole object is providing for themselves a sporting hobby that shall give them an untainted and continuous round of pleasure. This they secure by exhibiting the best specimens they produce, their object being the winning of prizes at shows. Thousands of people follow this branch of rabbit-keeping, and they get from it just that pleasure and recreation that the mind weighed down by the cares of business or everyday work, requires to keep it fresh and in good working order. It is amazing how worries fly away when the fancier spends a few hours with his flock. He forgets for the moment all his worries and cares, the result being that after his brief respite he returns to work with renewed energy and quickened interest.

An Industry With a Stable Foundation

Despite what many would have us believe when rabbit breeding came to be recognized as a valuable industry in this country, progress continues to be the order of the day. From very small beginnings an expansive industrial avenue has been opened up, and today thousands of men and women in all parts of the United States are taking an active part in the industry, and proving it to be a safe investment. Rabbit breeding for fur and wool has certainly come to stay; in fact, we are among those who are firmly convinced that it is but in its infancy. Never were there such great opportunities for those with a love for livestock and a desire to turn that love to profitable account.

The world shortage of wild furs has become most acute, and the fur trade is obliged to find a substitute, owing to the fact that the general public cannot afford the high prices now being demanded for wild furs. Many things have been tried, but nothing has given satisfaction except the rabbit. It is not, however, the fur of the wild rabbit that will fill the breach, but the fur of the hutch-bred rabbit. Already many new varieties have been created to meet the ever-growing demand, and others are in the making. That there is room for all is proved by the increasing demand for the pelts at remunerative prices.

As to the wool production side of rabbit keeping, here a vast opportunity presents itself to thousands of people to take up rabbits. Already we have a big army of breeders aiming to increase the supply of wool, but that supply is not yet one quarter of the demand. What is more, the demand is gradually growing, and there is no excuse for anyone who takes up the breeding of Angoras on right lines and does not make a success of it. Certain it is that today there are few things the lover of livestock can take up which offer such great returns as does rabbit keeping, and we have no hesitation in recommending it as a safe money-maker if tackled in the right manner.

ROBY.—Harold Neves has made a pig pay good prices for feed and $3.98 besides in a 99-day feeding demonstration which resulted in a gain of 251 pounds made at a feed cost of 8.2 cents per pound. Harold is a 4-H club boy of Barenview community, Fisher county. He found that 3.2 pounds of dry feed and .4 gallons of skim milk were required to produce a pound of pork when feeding corn meal and protein supplement mixed into a milk slop.

ABE MARTIN ON MISS FIFTEEN

"I'm unhappy. I don't like housework, an' the boy who hangs around me hain't got a car, an' I don't want to work downtown, an' I don't know what to git into," writes some poor forlorn girl to Miss Fawn Lippincut, housekeepin' an' human passions edituress o' the Weekly Slip Horn. It strikes me that this is the golden age fer girls, an' I'll bet many a poor, ole tired out grandmother looks about her today an' then reflects on her colorless girlhood, dusty buggy rides, slow, wide apart dancin', heavy underwear, coarse high top shoes, string garters, wealth of oily hair, an' endless, uneventful evenin's. Doubtless she recalls her weddin', her marriage to some good ploddin' feller with a rough neck an' soggy mustache. Even the modern mother o' fifty, no matter how nifty she may dress, can't enjoy the thousan' an' one thrills that fill the air today. While the girl o' today is interestin', she's not the sweet, shrinkin' violet her mother wuz. She's militant, an' snappy, an' confident, an' capable, but she's not girlie. We no longer see the meekness that used to lurk under the long lashes an' full heavy eyebrows o' Miss Fifteen. The natural sweetness, too, has been replaced by somethin' enticin' but counterfeit. The candy pear, flush that used to sweep the face o' the ole-time girl at the slightest slip o' the tongue no longer waits fer the slip. As Art Smiley says, "ther's somethin' about the foxy, smart lookin' girl o' today that scares us out. We like to see 'em an' be with 'em, but we'd be afraid to try to live with 'em." The upkeep of a girl o' today is many times greater'n it used to be, that is, if she quits work when she marries. "Then," says Art, "ther's allus that feelin' that she's liable to flare up an' go back to work." But where the proper discretion is used, an' the right system adherred to, matches o' today are jest as liable to hold as the matches o' any other age. We've allus had good women, an' we've allus had divorces an' hatchet murders, an' there's no more excuse fer any marriage not holdin' out than ther is fer any sort o' partnership to flunk. But husbands can't put the ole stuff over like they used to, lodges, clubs, sick friends, an' business at the office. I think the principal difference in married life today an' married life in the past is that husbands have to play squarer an' make more money. Personally I like the girl o' today. I like to see her stop at a show window an' doll her lips up an' powder her nose an' hustle on to her place o' business.

STEERS GOOD HEGARI MARKET, SOUTH TEXAS LEARNS

BISHOP.—Surplus hegari bundles brought five cents per bundle or $112.50 per ton to J. B. Butts, Nueces county farmer living near Bishop, who fed 124 tons of this feed last season to 89 head of 3-year-old steers. He intends to feed 200 head of cattle next winter if his feed crop makes. As reported by the county agent, Mr. Butts' expenses included $6,452.50 initial cost of steers; $200.75 interest; $325 molasses feed; $200 corn meal; $700 cotton seed meal; $62 cotton seed; and $225.96 for grinding the hegari bundles. The receipts were $9,656.21 leaving $1,490 for the hegari crop. The labor was balanced by gain of hogs following the cattle and by the fertilizer value of the manure.

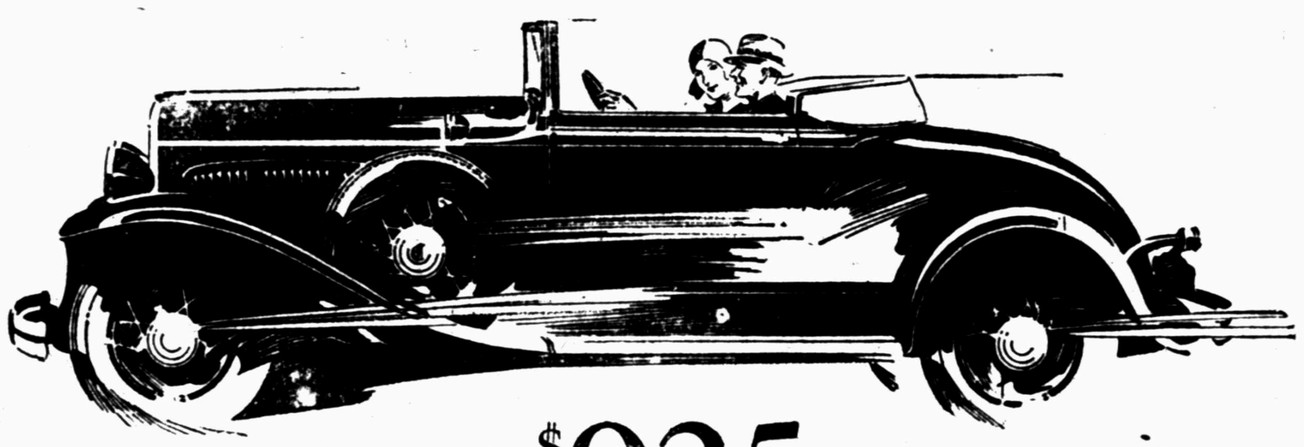

Girls Brighten Up Their Rooms

LUBBOCK, Texas, June 14.—A little paint, a few nails, bruised fingers, torn dresses and broken saws represent the cost of 67 Lubbock county 4-H club girls of re-arranging and redecorating their bedrooms in a recent contest directed by the home demonstration agent and sponsored by the Sorosis club of Lubbock. Fay Middleton of Hardy club was first place winner with Helen Jones of the Becton club second. The most common improvement made was the addition of book shelves made out of everything from apple boxes to bedsteads. Other common improvements made were the refinishing of floors, the making of rugs from waster materials and the hanging of curtains and draperies.

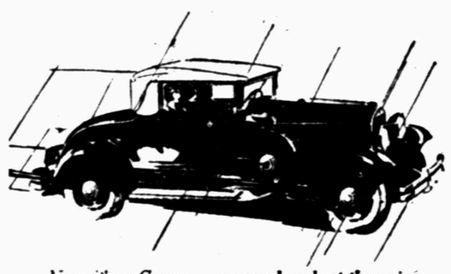

A Penny Saved—

WORCESTER, Mass.—John Boyden, now 67, bought a home when he was a lot younger and times were better. He took out a $1,000 mortgage on it. Came a time when the interest couldn't be met through his earnings. So he went up in his attic and with three men carried down a trunk. It contained exactly 100,000 pennies, and weighed 700 pounds. With his $1,000 in coppers, John lifted the mortgage.

436 Towns in Regional Plan

NEW YORK (AP)—The regional planning commission of New York city supervises an area of 5,528 square miles, including 22 counties and 436 cities and villages.

ZOE BECKLEY'S CORNER

Gnawing Loneliness

"Dear Zoe: I am 25 and so lonely. I have spent my life with a widowed mother who has lost interest in things. I have few friends and haven't money enough to compete with those with a fine family background. I have so much time on my hands and I spend it alone. Can you help me please? —SUE."

When a girl is only 25, practically the whole of life is ahead of her. You must and can set about intelligently and energetically to fill it. Sitting home gets you nowhere. Wishing gets you nowhere unless you follow it up by hustling. Effort is necessary, whether you succeed socially or in business. You have to advertise, and there are plenty of legitimate ways to do it besides through print.

ZOE BECKLEY

Any business girl can make one congenial girlfriend. If this girl has a brother, cousin or boyfriend, the next step is easy. In pairs, two girls can go places and do things. They can take vacation trips, travel a bit by boat or motor bus, spend week-ends here and there. If you have neat appearance and friendly manners you can hardly help making acquaintances. If you have common sense these, or some of them, can develop into friendships.

Then there are things to join—clubs, societies, dance and card groups, social organizations and evening classes. Or start them yourself, which is even more fun. But you must have some initiative and energy to begin with. Your circle then gradually enlarges and you gather friends, admirers and sweethearts as you go. No average girl of 25 need be solitary.

Singing in the Rain

"Dear Zoe: In writing lyrics for songs must they be accompanied by the music when sent to publishers? I have won several minor prizes. —WIFE AND MOTHER."

Most music publishers use only the lyrics and music composed by regular staff contributors now-a-days, but no rule holds completely good. I have a hunch you couldn't get very far writing lyrics only. Write to the Feist Music Publishing Co., West 39th street, New York, or to any other large house listed in any classified business directory in your city or elsewhere.

In magazines published for authors and journalists firms are listed which use verse for greeting cards, calendars, etc. Such a one is Author & Journalist, Champa street, Denver, Colo., and costs (I think) $2 a year.

"Twenty Kisses"

"Dear Zoe: He was my ideal, almost too good to be true, a dream come true. I'm not a silly child but 20 and somewhat serious. I gave him one kiss. It was right in his case to do it. He was sincere and appreciative. He said he'd see me often and soon. I've waited patiently . . . Would it be proper to call him up. Was it the kiss do you suppose? Please advise me—TWENTY S."

No; it wasn't the kiss. And probably before I had a chance to answer your letter he came again and all's well. I answer the letters as fast as I can, but I'm always behind and cannot make them fit dates. But just a word about ideals.

A girl cannot meet a man and have him call or take her out a few times and safely call him her ideal. You come to know your real mate only after many experiments, disappointments, hopes and failures. Love at first sight is physical attraction. It is the snare and pitfall of many a marriage. Almost any normal boy is attracted by every girl he meets. It takes long acquaintance to prove that any two persons are suited and likely to be happy together for a long stretch. Let every girl who loses a newfound friend remember that and be comforted.

Needs Steaming Up

"Dear Zoe: I'm 20, he is 26, loves me and has a good paying business. He talks of when we are married but never suggests a date. I don't want to wait a thousand years for the man I love. What to do?—LOU."

I don't blame you for objecting to a thousand-year engagement. When a man settles into a comfortable jog-trot of love, he has to be spurred into a run. Choose a moment of unusual ardor on his part and say with a touch of seeming fun: "Which reminds me, Alphonse, let's be married!"

Pride Interferes

"Dear Zoe: He is going to marry a girl he doesn't love. He loves me and I him. We quarreled and I was slow to forgive and slow to understand the true situation. So after six months he took up with the other girl who is not his equal in any way. What can I do about it without injuring my pride too much? —CURLIE."

Unless you fling your pride to the winds and get up steam enough to startle and convince him, there's nothing to do. If you felt deeply about it you'd need no advice but would sail in and raise such a wind of love and determination that nothing could resist it. True love sweeps all before it. One doesn't stand by and wish. One acts.

P. S.: This answer also applies to K. K. R.

The Love That Kills

"Dear Zoe: I am insanely jealous of the young man I am engaged to. When I see him talking to women I want to cry but I only smile when he looks at me and do not show my feelings. He never flirts or goes with anyone else and I love him with all my heart. He is 14 years older than I. Will that make any difference when we are married? —A READER."

No; but the jealousy will. This sort of unreasonable jealousy brings about the very thing it fears, by the power of suggestion. Hold in your mind the thought that your man is going to desert you for some other woman, and sooner or later it will come to pass. So stop being silly. Trust your sweetheart and don't act like a policeman. Love and liberty must be your watchwords.

Look Before Leaping

"Dear Zoe: I want to thank you for warning a correspondent calling herself 'Skippy' not to marry the man her mother objects to on the ground that his father is no account and an idler. May I add a few words of advice to such girls, based on bitter experience? BROKEN-HEARTED."

You may, my dear. What teacher so good as experience! I print part of your letter, as follows:

"Nine times in ten it is like father, like son. That girl does not realize how fortunate she is in having someone to warn her. I didn't have. I was her age when I married a man who was mean, selfish and lazy, just his father over again. And now our boy, ten, shows every sign of repeating the weaknesses he has inherited.

"If I am alive when my son begins to take up some girl's time I'll see her first and not let her be the victim I have been, even if he is my own child. If every girl would look well into her intended husband's home, note his father's habits and treatment of his mother, many a one would prefer to stay single. Had my mother-in-law told me the life she was leading with my father-in-law I might have been spared the wrecking of my life.

"Girls, girls, look, I beg of you, before you leap. Work, work, for an independent living. For if you cannot marry a kind and thrifty man, die an old maid. There are many worse things than lonelessness."

LARGEST TIRE IN WORLD TO VISIT WICHITA TUESDAY

Tuesday the largest tire in the world will be on exhibition in Wichita Falls, being brought here by the Rio Tire company, Goodyear dealer, which will have the giant casing at its place of business, Eighth and Travis street, at 1:30 o'clock.

The intensely interesting tire was built by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of Akron, Ohio, and is on a tour of several states in this section of the country. It has been in many sections of the United States, and has been exhibited in Canada, causing no end of amazement at the Toronto exposition last fall.

The rubber giant, which is 12 feet high and four feet wide, was built under the combined supervision of the chemical, tire design and research divisions of Goodyear's development department. It takes about three-quarters of an hour to inflate the mammoth casing to a pressure of only three pounds. Its value is placed conservatively at $5,000.

World's Largest Tire

Twelve feet high.
Four feet wide.
Tread, sidewall and bead weigh 877 pounds.
Frictional fabric weighs 289 pounds.
Tube weighs 125 pounds.
Wheel weighs 600 pounds.
Yoke weighs 2,000 pounds.
Total weight of tire and yoke is 3,900 pounds.
Value of the tire is $5,000.

It might be interesting to note that the valve is the only item of standard size in the entire tire, which is a replica of the Goodyear all-weather tread supertwist cord tire, the measurements being in exact ratio to measurements of the regular size tire.

Goodyear is the largest rubber concern in the world. Early this year it finished the largest airship dock in the world—in fact the largest building without interior supports. It is now constructing for the United States navy two of the largest airships in the world, being nearly twice the size of the Graf Zeppelin and about three times the size of the Los Angeles. It was quite natural that Goodyear should build the largest tire in the world. It was necessary to construct around this huge casing a special vulcanizer to cure the rubber. Otherwise the giant pneumatic was built under normal operations.

Will there ever be occasion for the use of a tire the size of the giant to be seen in our city Tuesday? A prominent manufacturer of airplanes, when he saw the tire on exhibition in his city, stated that the day was coming when huge airplanes would require tires of just much dimensions.

Goodyear originally planned to construct the giant tire even larger, but the engineers in charge of the work were restricted in their program by the fact that some of the bridges over which this tire would pass on its tours of America, Canada, Mexico and Cuba have a clearance of only 12 feet.

The tire is mounted as a trailer to a bus of special design and has a load carrying capacity of approximately 50,000 pounds. Three months' time was required in building it.
