

For nuclear waste repository

Hereford area a finalist?

Deaf Smith County has apparently "won out" over Swisher County as one of the finalists under consideration for location of a nuclear waste depository.

A Department of Energy project engineer for Utah, quoted in a wire service story out of Salt Lake City, said Utah's Gibbon Done, Hansford, Wash., the Nevada test site near Las Vegas, Richton, Miss., and Deaf Smith County would be named as finalists next week by Energy Secretary Donald Hodel.

The Amarillo Daily News reported the premature list of finalists Saturday morning, quoting the sources in Utah. A DOE project engineer said official nominations will be made in August, adding there was a possibility that the five sites may not necessarily be the same at that time.

The Amarillo report quoted Thomas Baillieu, DOE engineer, as saying that engineers this week announced their preference for the site in northeastern Deaf Smith County over one in Swisher County.

Environmental assessments must be prepared on all of the favored sites and public hearings held at each area. Several Hereford citizens had sponsored a meeting here last week and brought in speakers who urged "obnoxious concern" about placing a depository here.

City and county officials, however, have been quoted as saying it is difficult to read public opinion on the issue because few people have spoken out on the matter.

One who has spoken out strongly is Frank Ford of Arrowhead Mills. He has put the DOE "on notice" that they will face an all-out struggle in placing the depository in this county.

Janice Kleuskens of Dawn, one of the leaders in the meeting here last week, said a group may soon be organized here to protest the nuclear waste site. She claims the group is getting support from a good cross section of people.

County Judge Glen Nelson says it is hard to know what most people think because they are not talking about the proposal. Both he and Mayor Bartley Dowell noted that some people have the attitude that the depository has to go somewhere, and you have to trust the government to make it safe.

Tornadoes sweep across Central, NE Texas

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes cut a swath through Central and Northeast Texas Friday, demolishing barns near Boerne, knocking down two brick walls and knocking down a church steeple in Tyler, destroying a mobile home in DeKalb, and uprooting trees, downing power lines and causing roof damage in numerous communities.

No serious injuries were reported, however, from the storms which cut their path through Texas in the heart of the day.

Heavy thunderstorms lingered in Southeast Texas early today, and a severe thunderstorm warning was in effect for more than an hour for Jefferson and Orange counties. The storm system was headed northeast toward Louisiana and out of the state.

A large part of Central Texas and East Texas was under a tornado watch from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

In Tyler, a tornado cut a path through an area about eight blocks from downtown late in the morning, knocking down two brick walls at a warehouse, nipping the steeple off a church and downing trees in a cemetery, Tyler Police Capt. Henry Ford said.

"I would say we were lucky," Ford said. "You go out our back door (of the police station), go across a parking lot and you're in that cemetery."

At 11:10 a.m. a tornado was reported about 50 miles to the northeast — five miles north of Longview, where several trees were uprooted and power lines were down.

Less than 30 minutes later, several trees were uprooted and power lines damaged west of Kildare, about 10 miles north of Jefferson, in Marion and Cass counties.

Shortly later, the high winds battered the communities of Avery and DeKalb in the northeast corner of the state. Several barns were toppled near Avery, and one man was reported injured. At DeKalb, 12 miles to the east, power lines were down, the mobile home destroyed, and extensive roof damage was reported.

The Red River Army Arsenal, in the same vicinity, also was hit, with the same kind of damage.

"Most of the roof damage reported with the storms was from falling trees," the National Weather Service said in a statement issued today.

Yantis, about 50 miles northwest of Tyler, also reported a twister. Officials said the tornado caused roof damage to a post office and bent the flag pole.

The twister at Boerne, northwest of San Antonio, struck early in the morning and knocked down power lines, demolished barns and uprooted trees.

"It touched down at least four times, but mostly in rural areas," Kendall County Sheriff Lee D'Spain said.

"We've got some power and telephones out."

"We were lucky," he said. "There aren't even any livestock injuries that I know about. Just lots of damage to barns, trees and fences."

City to hold budget hearing

The public hearing on the proposed city budget and the revenue sharing budget will be Monday night at the City Commissioners' regular meeting in city hall at 7:30 p.m.

An ordinance on taxes and the budget will be made at the meeting.

Other agenda items include two zoning changes and a request for use of city land by the Senior Citizens and YM-CA.

Bill would give cities help in keeping streets repaired

The Texas Municipal League today released a list showing the amounts that area cities would receive upon passage of a bill, now pending before the state legislature, to establish a state-funded program to help repair local streets.

The city "pothole control program" is part of a broad legislative package which calls for a $1.2 billion biennial increase in state spending on roads and bridges.

With the passage of the bill the city of Hereford would receive $213,200 to help with street repairs. Castro County cities Dimmitt and Hart would receive $74,400 and $26,600 respectively, while Vega in Oldham County would get $13,200.

The three main towns in Parmer County, Farwell, Bovina, and Friona, would get $66,200, $46,600, and $53,200 respectively.

One component of the measure would provide an additional $1.2 billion per biennium for repairing and improving the state highway system. According to the Texas Highway Commission, this is the minimum amount of additional annual spending needed to bring the state's deteriorating highways and bridges up to standard, as

Manufacturer pulls drug from market

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — An "apparent increase" in allergic reactions to a prescription pain reliever called ZOMAX, including five deaths, has prompted the manufacturer to recall the drug.

Johnson & Johnson Inc. said Friday that its subsidiary, McNeil Pharmaceutical of Spring House, Pa., is "temporarily withdrawing ZOMAX" until a new label spelling out possible side effects can be issued in consultation with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

The drug, introduced in October 1980 and since used by an estimated 15 million people, will not have to be taken from the market permanently, FDA spokesman Chris Smith said in Washington.

The company said it noticed an "apparent increase in the number of allergic reactions" to ZOMAX last month. It did not indicate how long the product might be off the market.

"The latest number of total allergic reactions we have had reported to us is about 1,001. The severity of these reactions have ranged from mild rash" to extreme hypersensitivity, a Johnson & Johnson statement said.

The company did not reveal the identities of the five ZOMAX victims or exactly when they died. Two deaths occurred in Massachusetts, and one each in New York, North Dakota and Kansas, said company spokesman James Murray.

ZOMAX often is prescribed to arthritis sufferers.

"We request that any consumer having ZOMAX return the drug to the drugstore" for a refund, said the statement.

The product also is sold overseas, but no action on foreign distribution has been taken pending "discussion with the appropriate

Old Well Discovered

Workers clearing a lot behind the new city barn on New York Street stirred up a lot of curiosity when they peeled off the top of an old hand dug well believed to have been one of Hereford's first water supplies. Donnie Rhyne, city water superintendent, right, ventured down the 60-foot concrete shaft and discovered a tunnel which probably connected the well to another water hole. City Manager Dudley Bayne speculated that the well was dug about 1910. Mayor Bartley Dowell threw in his bit of history, too. He was married nearly 40 years ago in the former water pumper's house on that lot. Rhyne found a bit of history in the tunnel — "Boyd loves Doris" painted on the walls. (Brand Photos by Jeri Curtis)

Bucketeers will visit local schools

A group of Meadowlark Lemons' Bucketeers will visit several local schools Monday in conjunction with the team's appearance at the La Plata gym Tuesday night. According to Hereford & Vicinity YMCA director Weldon Knabe the cagers will be making stops at the schools to conduct informal clinics on basketball fundamentals.

Lemons' brother, George, and three of the Bucketeers will be on hand for the day-long tour of the schools. The group will begin at La Plata Jr. High at 8:30 a.m., and conclude with a two-hour stop at Northwest School.

The complete schedule is as follows: 8:30-8:55, La Plata; 9:00-9:30, West Central; 9:45-10:15 Shirley; 10:30-11:00, Blue Bonnet; 1:00-1:30, Alkman; and 1:45-2:45, Northwest.

Knabe said that the players may also visit Stanton Jr. High and St. Anthony's School on Tuesday if details can be worked out.

The Bucketeers will be appearing at the La Plata gym beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Founder Meadowlark Lemon will be the featured performer.

Pari-mutuel betting bill passes House

SANTA FE (AP) — The New Mexico House has approved horse racing-related legislation, which some state representatives contend is a forerunner to an off-track betting law.

The bill (HB381) was approved Friday on a vote of 41-25 and sent to the Senate for consideration.

Under the bill, individuals placing pari-mutuel bets at one state-licensed racetrack would be allowed to place wagers on races being run at other New Mexico-licensed tracks at the same time.

Sponsored by Rep. Richard Kloeppel, D-Sandoval, the measure stipulates that the dual-betting system only can be used if the racetracks allow it and only can be used at tracks that are more than 100 miles away from each other.

Rep. Boyd Scott, R-San Juan, said passage of the bill opened the door to introduction of off-track betting legislation.

"I think the bill is a camouflage to make off-track betting in the state legal," Scott said.

Kloeppel said the measure has the support of the horse racing industry.

There are four horse racetracks in New Mexico, excluding the state-owned New Mexico State Fair track, which operates only when the fair is in progress.

The four are La Mesa Park in Raton, The Downs at Santa Fe, Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park.

Death threats prompt security increase

RICHMOND, Texas (AP) — Three Salvadoran witnesses were warned they would be killed if they continued to testify in the trial of a man accused of murdering an illegal alien, a prosecutor says.

The witnesses, testifying at the trial of Juan Ortiz, received threatening telephone calls Wednesday night at their motel rooms in nearby Rosenberg, said prosecutor Don Bankston.

The threats against Victor Turcios, Cruz Ventura and Gerardo Perez prompted increased security, Bankston said, and three sheriff's deputies accompanied the witnesses to court Friday.

Ortiz, a 26-year-old Mexican, is charged with the murder of Roman Turcios, one of four Salvadorans found bound and shot to death on the banks of the Brazos River in Fort Bend County.

The four were slain to avenge the death of a member of an illegal alien smuggling ring, prosecutors allege.

Bankston said the three witnesses have been moved from the hotel, but he refused to disclose where they had been taken.

The motel switchboard operator said the threatening calls about 11 p.m. Wednesday must have been placed from inside the motel, because they did not come through the switchboard, Bankston said.

ing to the West Coast to confer with the secretary of state on the outlook for Mideast peace talks.

Habib decided at the last minute to accept an invitation from the San Francisco World Affairs Council, where Secretary of State George P. Shultz was already scheduled to speak tonight.

The official, who spoke only on condition his name be withheld, gave an optimistic assessment of talks aimed at getting Israeli, Syrian, and Palestinian troops to withdraw from Lebanon.

The presence of those troops has stymied negotiations on an overall Mideast peace settlement.

But the U.S. official, reporting "lots of progress" in the talks about Lebanon, said there was even a chance that King Hussein of Jordan may drop his demand for an Israeli withdrawal as a precondition for deciding whether to go to the peace table.

Israel's expansion of West Bank settlements and a mutual desire to prevent another war are "incentives" driving Hussein to a decision before the Lebanon negotiations are concluded, said the official.

Nurse tells San Antonio jury she feels unfairly accused, never saw babes die

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A key witness in an investigation into unexplained infant deaths at a San Antonio hospital intensive care unit says she observed "inadequate care" in the unit but "never saw children die or suffer needlessly."

Gene Jones, 32, a former nurse at Medical Center Hospital, told the San Angelo Standard-Times in a copyright story in today's editions that she believes her reports of problems in the unit has caused her to be "unfairly accused" of wrongdoing.

Ms. Jones testified before a special Bexar County grand jury investigating the deaths last week.

"If I have done anything wrong, it's in fighting so hard for the welfare of those children," she told the newspaper Friday.

"I find it ironic that they're coming after me for any alleged wrongdoings. I am very, very hurt by all the allegations."

Hospital officials have denied any wrongdoing.

Ms. Jones said that she and other nurses voiced concerns about problems in the hospital to superiors, but "they started blaming us as some kind of protective mechanism."

Ms. Jones said the hospital's pediatric intensive care unit was inadequately supervised.

"I did see some things in the unit that, in my opinion, were inadequate care for patients, but there was not enough of a situation in the pediatric ICU that directly caused harm."

"I never saw children die or suffer needlessly," she said.

Ms. Jones was employed as a licensed vocational nurse from October 1978 until March 1982 at the San Antonio hospital. Officials term at least 12 deaths in late 1981 and early 1982 were "suspicious."

Ms. Jones also is named as co-defendant with her former employer, Dr. Kathleen Holland, a Kerrville pediatrician, in a wrongful death lawsuit arising from the death of a 15-month-old child last Sept. 17.

Meanwhile, the hospital has announced plans to expand its pediatric intensive care unit.

The improvement plans began in spring 1982, before the panel began looking into suspicious baby deaths at Medical Center Hospital, according to hospital district spokesman Jeff Duffield.

The hospital made the expansion announcement in a statement for release Friday.

The unit will be expanded from six beds to eight beds in the next 90 days, with plans to turn it into a regional care center capable of delivering extremely sophisticated care to critically ill children by 1985, the statement said.

The expansion is aimed "to help accommodate rising demands for service," it said.

Duffield said the announcement, which did not mention the grand jury investigation, was "coincidental" to the probe.

Preview of Cinemax coming March 10-13

Hereford Cablevision subscribers will be receiving a preview of Cinemax, a new 24-hour movie service, March 10-13 on Channel 5.

According to general manager Lloyd Ames, the Cinemax service is optional and will not replace HBO. After the preview period, Cinemax will be received on Channel 12-B. Subscribers will not need different converters. Cable viewers may subscribe to either HBO or Cinemax, both or neither. Cinemax is exclusively movies and will feature about 55 films each month. Cinemax will not duplicate HBO movies.

No X-rated films are shown on Cinemax and R-rated films are shown only after 8 p.m.

March films on Cinemax feature Frank Sinatra, director John Huston, and Don Sutherland. Top foreign films and several children's features are slated, also.

Ames said current customers will receive letters outlining subscription costs.

Bullock to visit

AUSTIN, Tex. -- A representative of State Comptroller Bob Bullock will be in Hereford on March 17 to assist area taxpayers and answer tax questions.

According to Claudia Stravato, manager of the Comptroller's Amarillo office, Forrest Skinner, Enforcement Officer, will meet with Deaf Smith and Oldham County taxpayers in Hereford at the County Court House from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m.

Questions about taxes, the filing of tax returns or assistance on returns can be answered quickly and efficiently in these face-to-face meetings, Bullock said.

Taxpayers who are not able to meet with the Comptroller's representative on March 16, can still get their tax questions answered quickly by calling, from anywhere in Texas toll-free 1-800-252-5555.

well as finance the new facilities necessary to assure the mobility of Texas motorists over the next two decades.

The second component of the bill -- the so-called "pothole program" -- would appropriate $200 million from the state treasury over a 2-year period, to finance a new "City Street Improvement Fund." Under the measure, each city in the state would receive a biennial payment of $33,200 from the fund; one with 50 miles of street would receive $166,000; and so on.

To demonstrate that good-faith efforts are being made by the city to solve its own local pothole problems, the city would be required to match the state allocation on a 30-70 basis. Additionally, the entire amount of the city's allocation must be spent for street and bridge repairs; expenditures for new construction are not permitted.

According to Texas Municipal League president Luther Jones, passage of the state-local road funding measure is the league's "highest priority" during the current session of the state legislature.

Jones, who is mayor of Corpus Christi, said the membership of TML was alarmed by the rapid decay of Texas's state-local road systems.

"The League considers it imperative that remedial action be taken before the legislature adjourns in early June," Jones said.

"If the 1983 legislature fails to appropriate the additional funds necessary to arrest the further deterioration of our state and local roadways," Jones said, "what is now a serious problem will soon balloon into a major crisis."

Former mayor charged in fur theft

HOUSTON (AP) — A 74-year-old former Pasadena mayor who masterminded the 1964 robbery of a wealthy tobacco and candy merchant has been charged with stealing a $60,000 Russian sable coat.

The former mayor, Sam Hoover, and Edward William Quilice were held without bond after being charged with theft by receiving in connection with the robbery of the coat, authorities said Friday.

Investigators said Hoover was arrested after accepting $15,000 for the coat, taken in a Jan. 11 robbery.

A private investigator contacted the robbery victim on Wednesday and said he could recover the coat for a $15,000 finder's fee, authorities said.

"Three of the deaths occurred during the last two months," said Robert Andrews, another Johnson & Johnson spokesman. The deaths were attributed to "allergic and anaphylactoid reactions" to ZOMAX, known generically as zomepirac sodium.

An anaphylactic reaction occurs when the body's defense overreacts drastically to a foreign substance.

Two of the people who died were sensitive to aspirin, and a package insert warned such people not to use the product, Molloy said. The other three deaths still are under investigation, Andrews said.

Nursing home residents' lives enriched

DUNCAN, Okla. (AP) — It's a poignant scene: A wheelchair-bound woman is surprised with an exuberant kiss from a golden retriever. Drying her cheek with a tissue, she leans down for another.

The animal's visit to Kanakuk Nursing Home in Duncan is an experiment by a group of dog-lovers in a new field: pet therapy.

Last week, Roger and Betty Moore, owners of a local kennel, brought their four golden retrievers, Caleb, age 7; Rebecca, 5; Bonnie, 18 months and Abbie, 6 months, for a second visit to the nursing home residents.

As the dogs were being unloaded from a van, residents of the nursing home ringed the dayroom on chairs, couches, wheelchairs and beds. They seemed eager to meet the dogs as the dogs were to meet them.

Each led by a handler, the dogs made their rounds, laying a furry head on one person's lap or sitting still to be stroked by another. By special request, one of the animals jumped in bed with one of the patients.

Presence of the animals works a subtle change in the room. "Look at the faces," said Carmen Lynn, director of the home. "Their faces just light up."

Two of the patients who usually never leave their rooms are there. One woman is grinning and playing with one of the dogs. "Usually, she's just kind of out of it," said Lynn.

Another, who usually doesn't speak, talks excitedly.

Lynn estimates that about half of the home's 77 residents came out of their rooms for the visit, followed by a brief exhibit of the dogs' obedience skills.

The visits are the early steps toward forming a local chapter of Therapy Dogs International, or TDI. The local chapter will be named Pets As Loyal Servants, or PALS, says Gerry Rawlings, who hopes to help form the chapter.

Ms. Rawlings became interested in bringing dogs to visit institutionalized people after the death of her grandmother last year, she said. Her Kansas nursing home prohibited pets indoors, so Ms. Rawlings would stand outside her grandmother's window and let her see her dog.

The group hopes other local agencies and homes will request visits from the dogs when they learn of the program's existence.

With the gradual acceptance of short visits by animals, Ms. Rawlings and other members of the group hope to encourage passage of legislation which would permit resident pets in nursing homes. The group got permission from the State Board of Health to make the periodic nursing home visits after an inquiry by state Sen. Kenneth Landis, said Mrs. Moore.

Ms. Rawlings views the quest for legislation as some what of a crusade. "If I don't do it for somebody's grandpa and grandpa, no one's going to do it for me," she said.

In some out-of-state nursing homes with resident dogs, the pets seem to sense which patients need them the most. It's as though the dog has decided "This room needs attention. Then they go in and just stay right there," Mrs. Moore said.

Heritage Through Folk Song

Keith and Rusty McNeil are the featured artists at the final concert sponsored by the Hereford Community Concert Association. They will perform "A Celebration of American Heritage in Folk Song" at 8 p.m.

Tuesday in the Hereford High School Auditorium. The McNeils, in addition to singing traditional folk songs and ballads, play over 30 different folk instruments.

Season finale features folk music

The Hereford Community Concert Association will close its 1982-83 season with a performance by Keith and Rusty McNeil, folk music singers, performers, and historians.

The program, "A Celebration of American Folk Song," will begin at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Hereford High School Auditorium. Concert-goers are reminded to bring their membership cards and present them at the door.

While singing a wide variety of folk songs and ballads, the McNeils will play over 30 different folk instruments including the 5-string banjo, guitar, Highland bagpipes, African drums, Appalachian dulcimer, clarinet, harmonica, and an exotic collection of rhythm instruments from around the world.

Their areas of expertise include folk music from Colonial America, the American Revolution, the War Between the States, the late 19th century, the turn of the century, the "Roaring Twenties," the Great Depression and the contemporary period.

In addition to the scores of folk songs inherited from generations of their own family tradition, the McNeils have carefully researched the folk music of the many immigrant groups which enrich the American cultural "Salad Bowl," the songs which reflect America's major social movements during the past 200 years, and America's religious history through folk song.

For the past 15 years, the couple has been bringing America's rich historical and multi-cultural heritage to life through folk music. Their more than 2,000 concerts, recordings, and work on Public Broadcasting Television have reached audiences throughout the United States and Canada.

Between concert appearances they teach five graduate level courses on American history through folk song at universities across the United States and Britain, and they continue their extensive research on American history and lifestyles as expressed through traditional and contemporary folk music.

A graduate of Stanford University, Keith McNeil worked as an administrator for the Pacific Telephone Company for 15 years until steadily increasing demands for public performances required he and Rusty to devote full time to pioneer their approach to folk music and history.

The couple has five children ranging in age from 12 to 28 who often join them as they tour in their 35-foot bus-home. When not on tour the McNeils reside in Riverside, Calif.

During intermission at the Tuesday night concert, the Concert Teens, daughters of Community Concert Association members who assist with local concert performances, will be presented on stage with their fathers.

Members of the group are Bethany Jane Boyd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Boyd;

Michele Marie Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Clarke; Jeanette Agnes Grotegut, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Grotegut; Paula Lynn Meyer, daughter of Mr. and

Mrs. Donald J. Meyer; Teresa Phibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Phibbs;

A word about pre-arrangements and pre-financing

The funeral serves a wide range of purposes, with religious, psychological and physical significances. There are many aspects and details to the meaningful funeral that are arranged with the assistance of the professional funeral director, usually at the time of need. However, some people prefer counseling prior to need.

We offer complete information on pre-arrangements and pre-financing, available without cost or obligation of any kind. Feel free to contact us at your convenience.

DWI laws come tough

It appears the drunken-driving laws in Texas will be toughened, but the Texas Legislature has a record of burying such proposals in committee and hurrying off to "happy hour."

State Sen. Bill Sarpalius, now of Canyon, and other lawmakers are pushing hard for passage of tougher DWI laws, but some state officials have said that Sarpalius' bill is thought out poorly.

It will be interesting to see what happens. With 25,000 U.S. Deaths a year directly chargeable to drunk drivers, it is understandable that some folks have a "lock-em-all-up" attitude.

When you read about the Uvalde County man who was charged with DWI after an accident caused the death of a 3-year-old, you see what is wrong with current laws. An investigation of the man's driving record showed five previous DWI charges against him since 1972.

However, three of the charges were reduced to public intoxication in plea bargaining and he got deferred adjudication in the other two. Nothing about drunk driving on his record until he killed someone.

Prosecutors and judges don't like the mandatory jail sentences that the Sarpalius bill and others would make law. This provision means that a person convicted of DWI would get an automatic jail sentence, that the discretion of a judge to mitigate punishment would be removed.

There is no way the Legislature can frame a law that will meet all circumstances. Judges and juries will have compassion, in some cases, when a first offender would suffer special harm from going to jail.

The answer to punishment may be somewhere between the present lenient laws and the automatic-jail sentence. Some highway officers think that one time driving while intoxicated, with no injury to anyone, might be put down as a mistake.

But a second time (or more) is one too many and the record should show that it is for a second time. Texas law makes a second DWI offense a felony, punishable by prison time.

There are many ideas on what should go into DWI laws, some from specialized views. Some judges have said they are working with too many laws that were sloppily drawn by the Legislature. We hope they take the time and do it right.

Getting tough

Ochiltree General Hospital has announced a new credit policy, one that has been brought about by the unpleasant fact that more and more people are using hospital facilities without paying for them.

After years of relatively stable levels of uncollectible bills, OGH woke up in 1982 to face a problem.

The board of directors has had to wrestle with the growing problem and when the situation got so bad in 1982 that 20.1 per cent of patient revenue had to be written off as bad debts, something had to be done.

In the final three months of 1982, the hospital had to write off $120,000 as uncollectible.

This indicates that far too many people are taking advantage of the situation. Because Ochiltree General Hospital is a public institution, supported by local tax revenues, some feel that this should entitle them to free hospital care.

Most people these days have some form of hospitalization insurance. Many of those who don't have it could buy policies if they really wanted to do so, policies that would pay at least part of the expense of hospital care.

The hospital will now require a deposit of $500 for hospital care and $750 for surgical care for those without insurance coverage. This sounds tough, but it is necessary.

The hospital is not all that hard hearted, of course. It will continue to provide medical care for emergencies, for victims of wrecks or other accidents. But the day of taking the hospital for a free ride is over.

The hospital administration is riding herd much more closely on slow pay accounts and vigorous collection efforts will be made.

The majority of people who pay taxes and also pay their hospital bills promptly deserve consideration as well as those who have been taking a free ride.

The Penultimate Word

A GOOD DEAL

The latest mess in Washington is the Environmental Protection Agency. It seems these folks have not been efficient in protecting our environment. They have been efficient in hobnobbing with the industries they are suppose to protect us from.

I am glad they aren't too efficient. If they were, none of us would be allowed to exhale. Bad breath would be against the law.

In the middle of all of the investigation the E.P.A. had to buy a whole town. Times Beach, Missouri was somehow polluted by a chemical sprayed on the roads. If being too dangerous is the criteria for buying towns they should look into purchasing Houston, New York, and the state of California. Road chemicals are nothing compared to muggers, rapists, earthquakes, mud slides, or California drivers.

All of this should be of great interest to those of us who live on the High Plains of Texas. The government is interested in building a nuclear waste facility in our backyard. The dump is to be a massive undertaking (pun intended) which will take 20 years to complete. Everyone knows any government project that takes more than two years to build is bound to be obsolete before it is finished.

There has been a great deal of discussion and fear about this waste dump. Most of us don't want to glow in the dark.

Washington is about to get hornsogged by some smart Texans. Texans act dumb but they play hard ball. They tell us we are going to run out of water in 20 years. If we run out of water we have problems. What we will do is let the government spend 20 years digging their dump while we use up the water. When the dump is built we will punch a hole in a tank truck hauling waste. Then we will declare ourselves polluted and sell them the whole country.

Father of our country warned of 'irresponsible action' of government

BY RICHARD L. LESHNER
President

WASHINGTON — George Washington looked at the newly created federal government and gave future generations this warning: "Government is not reason, it is not eloquence — it is force! Like fire it is a dangerous servant and a fearful master, never for a moment should it be left to irresponsible action."

I repeat, "never for a moment should it be left to irresponsible action."

A moment? Irresponsible action has been the hallmark of Congress for the past 20 years! While Congress fiddled, the fire George Washington spoke of exploded into a conflagration as federal spending and the national debt tripled in the last decade alone.

And yet the politicians look up at us with large cow eyes and tell us that they certainly mean well, but — so sorry — much of the federal budget is "uncontrollable." By this they mean that the pay of pensions of government bureaucrats and now more than 30 percent of the entire federal budget is automatically indexed to increase with inflation.

These "entitlement" programs — funny how bureaucrats and welfare recipients are "entitled" to money you earned — grow like Topsy without any vote by Congress.

But Congress is hardly the innocent bystander here. Congress itself created this problem when it indexed federal pensions to the Consumer Price Index in 1962. The bureaucrats and recipients of federal give-away programs knew a good thing when they saw it and the objects went to work. Soon, all federal pay and many government programs received annual automatic cost-of-living adjustments (COLAs). Congress put federal spending on automatic pilot and walked away.

The costs to taxpayers have been staggering.

Between 1970 and 1982, the

As the years turn

75 YEARS AGO

The warm sunshine days which Hereford people have been enjoying the last week has given everybody the spring fever. Not the kind that drives people mad or puts them to sleep, but that good kind that makes them want to get out and stir old Mother Earth.

For the benefit of out-of-state subscribers, The Brand has taken the trouble to secure the data which reference to the annual rainfall as reported by the local weather station Hereford. The all for 1905 was 26.59 inches, for 1906, 25.54 inches, for 1907, 22.01 inches, making the general average for those three years 24.70 inches.

50 YEARS AGO

The called meeting of farmers and property owners to effect a permanent organization to prevent unjust foreclosure sales of property has been set at 2 p.m. Saturday at the county courtroom.

Slight precipitation has fallen over the Hereford territory during the past week, not enough to do any material good except to lay the dust and bring about climatic conditions to keep high winds from blowing.

25 YEARS AGO

City attorney Earnest Langley Monday night was given the green light to start proceedings for collection of delinquent personal taxes, even to the point of filing suits against some 560 persons.

Deaf Smith County sugar beet growers wound up with 59.8 fewer acres allocated for beet production than they had for 1957, according to a report from Walter Hodges, chairman of the Deaf Smith Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee.

10 YEARS AGO

The Veterans of Foreign Wars organization here voted Thursday night to give some 55 acres of land to the City of Hereford to be used in the development of the rapidly expanding city park facilities in south Hereford.

Ground-breaking work on a possible YMCA for Hereford was done Thursday when some 25 local citizens met with the executive director of the Amarillo YMCA to learn what steps need to be taken here.

1 YEAR AGO

Grocery bills dropped by more than 1 per cent last month, according to an Associated Press market-basket survey which found prices lower for hamburger, hot dogs and eggs.

President Reagan, trying to bury proposals to cut defense spending, says the alternative to a big Pentagon buildup is a "larger and increased possibility of war."

Hindsight is better

During the 1960s the Beatles were reshaping music and young people were seeking a substitute religion.

The Beatles turned them onto Transcendental Meditation by their endorsement of TM's founder, the Maharishi Mahesh Yogi.

Today that pint-sized guru speaks of that time two decades ago as "the passing days of ignorance."

apologize 20 years from now? When we look back upon 1983 from the year 2000 what will embarrass us?

That we persisted, despite the law, to pay women workers less than men....

That we taught children electronically to calculate without teaching them why....

Taught them the language of the computer to the neglect of spelling....

And we will remember "busing" and blush.

And with chagrin we will remember that—in violation of the law—we allowed a continuing avalanche of illegal immigration resulting in higher taxes, fewer jobs, more crime and new-to-us diseases.

Hopefully more civilized by then, we will reflect with shame on the hypocrisy of waging war on "human" suffering while contributing to the unspeakable agony of animals.

We will remember that in our proper preoccupation with remedying white-black discrimination we allowed black-white discrimination.

For civilization at its swiftest is two steps forward, one step back.

Hindsight is clearer. But will we be able to look back—if we have talked ourselves out of nuclear peacekeeping and left ourselves helplessly outnumbered.

In the from-here-on future the nation that endures may be the one that can learn from its mistakes—before making them.

Hindsight is better.

George Leonard was in the vanguard of the so-called "sexual revolution" of the '60s. As editor of LOOK magazine he wrote articles and books on the changing attitude toward sex and generally approved it, helped it along.

He's sorry now. He says the glorification of recreational sex had Americans keeping score on what would have remained unique and sacred.

Now he has written another book called "The End of Sex."

Now he says it was a mistake to separate sex from love and marriage.

He says all that freedom led to trivialization, that the powerful act of love became just something mechanical, casual, obligatory as a good-night kiss.

And he sees that the philosophy of the hedonists: "If it feels good, do it..." also resulted in the emaciation of a whole generation with sex-related disease.

"Hindsight is better.

What are we doing now for which we will have to

Bootleg Philosopher

Many states copy Congress

Editor's Note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Deaf Smith County grass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek contemplates a worrisome subject this week.

Dear Editor: Candidates out over the country are always saying: "Let's send a message to Washington."

Well, it has finally worked. According to an article I read last night, 22 states have developed huge deficits of 1983 and 13 more are bordering on it.

Washington has got the message: if deficits are what the people want, we'll show them what a real deficit looks like.

This explains the Federal government's 200 billion dollar deficit this year and no telling what the year after that.

The states have got to be more careful about the kind of message they send to Washington.

I got to wondering, if three-fourths of the states are faced with big deficits, two-thirds of the cities and about 90 percent of the countries of the world, what happens if the whole world declares bankruptcy? Who'd be the receiver?

One explanation of the world's financial plight is that it's caused by the colossal military expenditures of about 400 billion dollars a year, although this won't cover the plight of states and cities, as few of them maintain standing armies and guided missiles.

For a while I thought perhaps the world could cover its deficits by putting up its armaments as collateral, but I've been told that most of the armaments have been bought with borrowed money and are already heavily mortgaged. Banks that have already loaned money to countries to buy armaments aren't going to be interested in taking a second mortgage on the stuff, and if they did and then had to foreclose, what would they do with it?

A banker could maybe beat a sword into a plowshare or hire it done but what could he beat a nuclear bomb into?

And as for more plows, farmers already have so many they're going broke over-producing.

I turn the problem over to you and will wash my hands of the whole matter if I can buy a bar of soap on credit.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Texas surrounded by horse racing states

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — A new racetrack in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, will shorten the road to horse and dog racing for many Texas gamblers who leave the state to catch the action.

The coming of Nuevo Laredo Downs March 12 means Texas horse racing fans now have their choice of heading to Nuevo Laredo or Juarez, Mexico, New Mexico, Arkansas or Louisiana to satisfy their gambling urges.

Oklahoma, which recently legalized racetrack gambling on a local option basis, also will compete one day for Texas bettors.

Texas lawmakers once again are debating a bill to allow pari-mutuel wagering on a county local option basis. Should the controversial measure pass, however, it would be some time before a track would open for business in the state.

Following is a synopsis of the horse racing situation in the states surrounding Texas:

—Louisiana: state fairgrounds racetrack more than 100 years old, but pari-mutuel horse racing was established under the state Racing Commission in 1940; five tracks with 700 racing days per year; Louisiana

Downs in Bossier City; Fairgrounds track in New Orleans, the third oldest in the United State; Jefferson Downs in Kenner; Evangeline; Downs in Lafayette; Delta Downs at Vinton. About 25,000 people are licensed to work at state tracks at one time or another each year; this includes jockeys, trainers, stablehands, cooks, tellers, waiters. Industry paid $19.6 million to state in pari-mutuel taxes in the 1981-82 fiscal year; state Racing Commission estimates the racing industry pumps more than $100 million each year into state's economy.

In Texas, 16 percent of the children under age 18 are living in a single parent household.

USFL launches regular season

By The Associated Press
"The scariest moment in football for the coaches and the players is when you line up for that first kickoff," says Red Miller, coach of the United States Football League. "Despite all the work you've done, you don't know what you're really got."

Making Sunday's kickoff against the Philadelphia Stars at Denver's Mile High Stadium even more nerve-racking is the fact that it's a new league and Miller — like other coaches in the USFL — has had only five weeks to build a team from ground zero.

"I think we're as ready as we could be considering the limited time we've been together," said Miller, once coach of the Denver Broncos of the National Football League. "I don't think it will happen, but as a coach, you always have a gnawing fear that a newly assembled team will lose its poise under fire."

Along with the Denver-Philadelphia contest, four other games will be played Sunday — Boston at Tampa Bay, Chicago at Washington, New Jersey at Los Angeles and Oakland at Arizona. Monday night's game will feature Michigan at Birmingham.

The USFL wrapped up final preparations for the season Friday by establishing the rosters for its opening weekend.

As the 12 teams pared their rosters to 40 active and 10 inactive players, some former NFL players, hoping for another chance, found themselves without a job.

Among them, quarterback Mike Livingston, a longtime Kansas City Chief, and safety Dick Jauron, who played for Detroit and Cincinnati, were cut by the Boston Breakers. Quarterback Joe Gilliam, who never unseated Terry Bradshaw in Pittsburgh and who later dropped out of football because of a drug problem, was released by the Denver Gold.

SPORTS

Page 6A—The Hereford Brand—Sunday, March 6, 1983

Other former NFL players cut included running back Leon McQuay (New York Giants), by the Tampa Bay Bandits; place-kicker John Roveto (Chicago Bears), by the Chicago Blitz; running back Don Hardeman (Houston), by the Los Angeles Express; linebacker Sammy Green (Seattle), by the New Jersey Generals; tackle Jeff Sevy (Chicago), by the Oakland Invaders and punter Herman Weaver (Detroit), by the Michigan Panthers.

Each of the USFL teams has about a half-dozen former NFL players remaining, but George Allen, the boss of the Blitz, has 16 ex-NFLers on his active roster. Among them are linebacker Stan White (Detroit), quarterback Greg Landry (Detroit, Baltimore), kicker Frank Corral (Los Angeles Rams), kick returner and safety Eddie Ehrmann (Baltimore) and Virgil Livers (Chicago) defensive tackle Joe Ehrmann (Baltimore) and running back Kevin Long (New York Jets).

Tabb, Gretzky honored

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Mary Decker Tabb dominates female distance running as no other woman has ever done. But her burning desire to become an Olympic champion has not been fulfilled.

"It's hard for me to believe that I've never been in the Olympics," Tabb said Friday before accepting The Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year award at the annual Tampa Sports Club Banquet.

"The next Games are in my plans, though, if I can stay healthy," added Tabb. "I could turn professional and go out and make a lot of money, but I've always loved track and field and want to be in Los Angeles in 1984."

The Jesse Owens Memorial Award, presented to the AP Male Athlete of the Year, went to hockey superstar

Wayne Gretzky of the Edmonton Oilers of the National Hockey League.

NHL President John Ziegler accepted the award for Gretzky, who plays tonight in Toronto.

Ziegler called the 22-year-old Canadian "one of the finest young men I know," and added the honor as athlete of the year was well deserved.

Gretzky, a sixth-year pro, scored 92 goals and had 120 assists last season. He owns 28 NHL records.

Tabb said she coveted the AP award because it shows that women in track and field are finally being noticed. The honor, the Babe Zaharias Memorial Award, has gone to a tennis player eight of the past 12 years.

Coronado wins meet

Coronado, which established a five shot lead Thursday during ideal conditions, withstood high winds, cool temperatures and a closing rush by Amarillo High to win the varsity division of the Deaf Smith County High School Boys' Golf Tournament at the John Pitman course Friday.

The Mustangs, who have won each tournament they've entered this spring, fell victim to poorer playing conditions Friday. They shot 36 strokes higher than they did the first day, but held on to win the two-day, 36-hole event by a scant two shots over the Sandies, who posted the best team total (333) on the final day.

Pampa, second after the first day of play, dropped to third in the final standings, four strokes behind Coronado. Plainview was fourth, 17 strokes off the pace, while Monterey garnered fifth place. Coronado also held on to win the team low ball competition, edging AHS by two shots (133 to 135).

Medalist honors went to Plainview's Randy Mickey, who won in a playoff against Carl McIntire of Pampa. Mickey parred the first extra hole to win.

McIntire, who started the day off three strokes behind first-round leader Greg Gandy of Coronado, had the only sub-80 round Friday (a 78).

He and Mickey tied at 153 after 36 holes. Gandy slipped to an 82 and wound up third with a 154 total.

Hereford improved from 12th (after the first day of play) to a final standing at 10th. The Herd was led by Matt Albracht, who was 168 for two rounds (85-83). Other Hereford individuals included Stacey Evans (89-88-177); Michael Drake (92-99-191); Bobby Valdez (91-100-191) and Beto Valdez (96-95-191).

The boys' golf team is scheduled to be off the next two weekends, before traveling to Clovis March 24.

Los Colinas Sports Club

New course offers stern test

AP Sports Analysis With Laserphoto By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

Golf architect Robert Trent Jones designed The Las Colinas Sports Club course with spectators, 18-handicappers, and professionals all in mind.

The new home of the Byron Nelson Classic can be a stern test of patience as well as skill but the emphasis is more on accuracy than brute strength.

If you are a brash bogey shooter or professional with a paucity of patience then you'd best leave this little tiger track alone.

Jones has a simple message with this course: Just don't try to get too cute and keep the ball in play.

The 6,963-yard course has so much sand (74 bunkers at last count), so much water, so many sidehill lies, and such fast greens that there may not be as many low scores in the April 28-May 2 tournament as its shortness suggests.

"The pros may be surprised," said head professional Rives McBee, who moved over from nearby Las Colinas Country Club. "You can post some low numbers here. But some bad things can happen, quick, which makes it very interesting for the spectators."

Like hitting the ball in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Gulf of What?

Perhaps the most intriguing hole on this course is the first one which can range from 400 to 465 yards depending on where the PGA wants to put the tees. A prevailing south wind into the face of the golfer can lengthen the hole even farther.

The huge No. 1 green is shaped in the form of the State of Texas.

There's a big lake (the Gulf of Mexico) right where it should be—south of Galveston and Houston.

Knock the ball over the green, north of Sherman, and it comes down in Oklahoma-sand.

If you hit the ball to Lubbock and the pin is in Longview, you have a slick, downhill, sidwinding putt that would test Ben Crenshaw's stroke.

Hit a ball to Marshall and the pin is in El Paso, forget your putter and bring a driver.

"I think if we have good weather there will be a lot of low scores," admitted McBee, who has shot six-under par 65 on the course himself three times. "The excellent condition of it (the course) will be conducive to good scoring."

The course has been maturing since 1972 and has undergone very little play.

McBee said Preston Trail (where the Nelson was played for over a decade) had numerous holes where potential double bogeys lurked but Las Colinas Sports Club doesn't have as many except for the monstrous No. 1.

"The first hole was Mr. Jones' idea and it is definitely unique and there will be a lot of controversy if we play it (the tees) all the way back," McBee said.

Ailing Bird keys win

Celtics outlast 76ers, 115-110

By The Associated Press
The Boston Celtics must feel like they're on a treadmill.

Despite a 115-110 triumph over runaway Philadelphia Friday night and a glittering 43-15 record, the Celtics still trail the 76ers by seven games in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division with time running out on the regular season.

Larry Bird wasn't feeling particularly well — he played with a painful infection in his right foot that kept him out of practice for three days — but still led the Celtics with 32 points as they tied the season series with Philadelphia at 2-2. Kevin McHale, who was 10-of-11 from the field, added 21 points as the Celtics, playing at home, snapped the Sixers' 10-game winning streak and handed them only their eighth setback in 58 games.

Elsewhere, the Washington Bullets stunned the Los Angeles Lakers 96-93, the Atlanta Hawks trounced the Houston Rockets 115-87, the Milwaukee Bucks downed the Dallas Mavericks 108-102, the Chicago Bulls upended the New Jersey Nets 124-119, the Kansas City Kings trimmed the Indiana Pacers 120-103, the Phoenix Suns defeated the Golden State Warriors 109-102, the San Antonio Spurs beat the San Diego Clippers 107-99 and the Denver Nuggets outlasted the Portland Trail Blazers 142-138.

Bullets 96, Lakers 93

At Landover, Md., Ricky Sobers' jump shot put Washington ahead with nine seconds remaining and later added two free throws as the Bullets overcame a 19-point deficit.

Hawks 115, Rockets 87

In Atlanta, Tom McMillen, Rickey Brown and Keith Edmonson came off the bench to lead the Hawks to their sixth straight victory. Atlanta reeled off 12 straight points in the last three minutes of the first half to take a 60-46 lead and went on a 32-17 tear in the fourth quarter. McMillen scored 19 points, Brown 16 and Edmonson 14.

Bucks 108, Mavericks 102

At Dallas, Sidney Moncrief scored 31 points, including four free throws in the last 1:08, to pace Milwaukee to its fourth consecutive road victory. Marques Johnson added 27 for the Bucks, who held the Mavericks scoreless for the last 3:23. Dallas, paced by Mark Aguirre's 35 points, led 98-91 with 6:16 to go, but Moncrief and Johnson combined for 13 of the Bucks' final 17 points as Milwaukee outscored Dallas 17-4 down the stretch.

Bulls 124, Nets 119

At Chicago, rookie Quintin Dailey scored a career-high 29 points and Reggie Theus added 27 to lead the Bulls, who also got a career-high 25 points from rookie Rod Higgins.

Kings 120, Pacers 103

At Kansas City, Mo., Larry Drew scored 22 points and fueled a balanced attack to power Kansas City. The Kings had five other players in double figures in handing Indiana its eighth straight defeat.

Suns 109, Warriors 102

At Phoenix, Larry Nance scored 10 of his game-high 29 points in the third period as the Suns sent Golden State to its sixth straight loss.

Spurs 107, Clippers 99

At San Diego, George Gerwin scored 24 points and Gene Banks and Artis Gilmore added 19 apiece as San Antonio won for the eighth time in its last 11 games. The Clippers were led by rookie Terry Cummings' 24 points.

Nuggets 142, Blazers 138

At Portland, Ore., Dan Issel sank four free throws in the last 36 seconds to cap a Denver rally and give the Nuggets their sixth straight victory. Denver trailed 114-104 late in the third quarter, but caught up at 126-all with 4:38 remaining on two free throws by Mike Evans. Alex English led the Nuggets with 35 points and doled out 10 assists.

Longhorns' worst team ever?

UT's Weltlich only wants patience

AUSTIN (AP) — Bob Weltlich, coach of what is possibly the worst basketball team the University of Texas has ever had, is stumped and disappointed, but he does not want your tears or your sympathy.

All he's asking for is patience.

"This program will be as good as it wants to be. There's no limitation as to how good the basketball program can be," Weltlich said in an interview.

The following night, Baylor, seventh in the Southwest Conference, whipped last-place Texas by 29 points on the Longhorns' home court, and Weltlich commented, "I'm totally disappointed."

"I haven't ever seen a season like this," said Weltlich in a statement that would qualify him for a Ph.D. in understatement.

Weltlich was hired from Mississippi last March to replace Abe Lemons. In May star center LaSalle Thompson chose to turn pro, part-time starter James Tandy failed to make his grades and transferred, and Weltlich kicked starter Denard Holmes — "a guy who was always creating problems" — off the team. In August, sub guard Tom Douglas quit to concentrate on his studies, and part-time starter Ray Harper transferred.

Weltlich already had enough problems for one year, and the season had not even begun. Texas fans hadn't seen anything yet.

Brett Smith, perhaps the best of several walk-ons, became academically ineligible in December. In January, Weltlich dismissed part-time starter Robert Hughes from the squad, saying merely that it was best for Hughes and the team. Starters Don Ellis and Karl Willock and sub James Booker suffered season-ending injuries, and starter Jack Worthington transferred, commenting that the Lord "didn't want me here (at UT)."

Minor injuries hit virtually every remaining scholarship starter, and a call for walk-ons attracted, among others, cheerleader Lance Watson.

But then, many of the walk-ons walked off, some apparently unhappy they were not getting to play enough.

"We have no true point guard, no bench, no height. If we were doing this bad, and I weren't on the team, I don't know if I'd come to see us," said Moe.

Wendlandt said, "Our (attitude) problem is not before a game. But during a game, the other team will make a little run on us and instead of getting tougher and tightening up on defense, we tend to go 'Uh-oh, here it comes again.'"

"It's been hard to find a bright spot this year," said Wendlandt, a junior. "But I'm saving press clippings. I'll be having some paybacks next year."

prevented us from becoming a much better basketball team. I've never seen anything like it. I've never seen the disabling injuries. Those kinds of injuries have really been hard on me."

Some suggested Weltlich's aggressive man-to-man defense might result in more injuries, and he said, "That's so ludicrous it's beyond belief. If that would be the case, all the teams in the Top 20, as hard as they play, would sustain injuries."

"We're not the most talented team in the world," said walk-on guard Doug Moe, a starter averaging under four points a game.

Forward-center Bill Wendlandt, the team's scoring leader, missed 13 consecutive free throws. One SWC player said playing Texas was like playing an intramural game, and another said "we could do pretty much what we wanted."

Season-ticket holders stayed home by the thousands. Coach Eddie Sutton of Arkansas glanced at 12,000 empty seats in Texas' Erwin Center and said, "It looks like the YMCA on a Saturday morning."

Weltlich said school officials decided to report paid attendance, rather than actual attendance, which would reflect a larger crowd. "My feeling is if you have people who buy season tickets and pay to see the game, that's part of the crowd," said Weltlich.

A basketball program that as recently as 1978 had won the National Invitation Tournament championship had hit rock bottom.

"I have no problems with the defections, so to speak," said Weltlich. "The thing that has really been disheartening to me has been the injuries, because the injuries have prevented us from becoming a much better basketball team. I've never seen anything like it. I've never seen the disabling injuries. Those kinds of injuries have really been hard on me."

Some suggested Weltlich's aggressive man-to-man defense might result in more injuries, and he said, "That's so ludicrous it's beyond belief. If that would be the case, all the teams in the Top 20, as hard as they play, would sustain injuries."

"We're not the most talented team in the world," said walk-on guard Doug Moe, a starter averaging under four points a game.

"We have no true point guard, no bench, no height. If we were doing this bad, and I weren't on the team, I don't know if I'd come to see us," said Moe.

Wendlandt said, "Our (attitude) problem is not before a game. But during a game, the other team will make a little run on us and instead of getting tougher and tightening up on defense, we tend to go 'Uh-oh, here it comes again.'"

"It's been hard to find a bright spot this year," said Wendlandt, a junior. "But I'm saving press clippings. I'll be having some paybacks next year."

He has eight scholarships to offer for 1983-84, and two high school stars — a California guard and a Texas forward — already have said they will enroll at Texas in the fall. Weltlich, however, says he may not use all eight scholarships.

"I don't have any interest in kids coming here who don't have a chance, because I really am concerned about their future," said Weltlich.

"I don't have any interest in wholesale recruiting — bringing them in, roll the ball out, 'You three have made it; you two, we're going to have to get rid of,'" he said.

AHS girls lead 3-5A golf chase

LUBBOCK — Amarillo High, with co-medalist Nancy Avery leading the way, grabbed a solid 21-stroke lead after the opening round of the District 3-5A Girls' Golf Meet at Meadowbrook Golf Course here Friday.

Only two players managed to break 100 on a cool, windy day. Miss Avery and Hereford's Tiffany Dirks each carded rounds of 96.

While AHS lead with a 408 total, following the first of four 18-hole rounds, Tascosa is next at 492.

Hereford, which is fielding a complete girls' team for the first time, is third at 448. "At this point, I feel we're still in the hunt," coach Stacy Bixler noted.

"But, we'll have to play very well to overtake the two leaders."

While Miss Dirks led the way for Hereford with 96, other individual scores included; Kelly Williams, 107; Jeri Ann Beach, 118; Cindy McCracken, 131 and Debra Schroeter, 137.

The second round of district play is scheduled for Plainview next Friday.

Plainview star player of the year

Wright heads boys' 3-5A all-district team

Gil Wright, who became Plainview's all-time leading scorer this season en route to a third straight district championship, headed the 1982-83 3-5A Boys' All-District Basketball Team, selected by a vote of loop head coaches. Wright also was chosen the league's player of the year. He led the district in scoring, averaging more than 25 points per game.

While no team had more than one first-team selection, four schools had players representing the first two teams picked.

Joining Wright on the first team were James Dawn of Tascosa; Keenan Roberts of Lubbock High; Troy Fry of district runner-up Caprock, a loser in the area round of the state playoffs and Palo Duro's William Freeman.

The second team consisted of Palo Duro's Doug Butler; LeRoy Mitchell of Lubbock High; Kenneth Hallman of Plainview; Colin Dunavin of Caprock and Amarillo High's Lance Simpson.

Hereford's Gary Long, Terry Shelton and Steve Welch gained honorable mention notice.

While Wright gained player of the year honors, Lubbock's Larry Christian was selected the loop's coach of the year. The Westerners were the district's winningest team this past season, fashioning a 18-12 overall mark (including a 9-7 record in league play).

That record came following a 10-20 mark the season before in Christian's first as LHS' head coach.

Four of the five players selected to the first team are seniors. Only Fry is a junior.

Two juniors — Mitchell and Dunavin — were named to the second team.

Hallman and Dunavin also were all-district selections in football — Hallman a first-team defensive back and Dunavin a second-team running back.

J.R. encounters comeback snag

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros pitcher J.R. Richard has hit a detour in his comeback from a near fatal stroke, but should recover from surgery in time to join the team this season, his doctor says.

The latest problem developed with the start of spring training when the former strikeout artist developed fatigue in his left leg during running drills.

Richard was a long shot at best at making the Astros roster this season, and the odds have increased with his latest setback.

But his physician, Dr. William Fields, says the upcoming surgery is only a temporary setback.

"I look at this as just a detour in J.R.'s comeback," Fields said. "If he can get to the point that he was at the start of spring training, I think before the season is over, you will see J.R. back in the major leagues."

Astros Manager Bob Lillis, however, says Richard is a long way from regaining his major league proficiency.

"J.R. has come a long way and he's got a long way to go," Lillis said.

"When you talk about J.R.'s progress, it has been tremendous. But you have to judge that from where he started."

Richard overcame long odds last season when he returned to pitch at the Class A level, but he was disappointing when the Astros promoted him to their Class AAA team in Tuscon.

Nevertheless, Richard reported to spring training last month in his best condition since the stroke and was continuing to show improvement.

But he had trouble running and faces surgery to improve circulation in his left leg. He will be sidelined for at least six weeks.

In Richard's 1980 surgery, doctors used a portion of artery from the pitcher's left leg to repair a clogged artery, that caused the stroke, in his neck. The latest surgery will repair an artificial artery placed in the leg, Fields said.

WILL GLASSES WEAKEN YOUR EYES?

QUESTION: I've gotten along without glasses pretty well and I'd like to put it off as long as I can. Glasses do weaken the eyes, don't they?

ANSWER: Glasses will not weaken your eyes. Nor will they make them stronger. But they will make it possible for you to see clearly when your eyes need help. People who are farsighted or nearsighted need glasses. So do people with astigmatism (blurred vision) and people past their prime whose near-focusing muscles are not functioning as well as they used to. Glasses are prescribed to correct errors that already exist in the eyes and create vision problems. They can't change the structure of the eye or the normal process of aging; but they can correct errors.

Despite rise, farm index still trails last year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the sharpest one-month increase in 2½ years, the government's farm price index in February still trailed its year ago level.

The Agriculture Department reported Monday that prices farmers get for raw products rose 3.1 percent in February, according to preliminary figures.

Even so, the index was 0.8 percent below a year ago, officials said.

Further, the February increase still left the historic "parity" ratio, a measure of purchasing power, at one of its lowest readings since the Depression years of the early 1930s.

In February, the department's Crop Reporting Board said, the overall parity ratio for commodity prices at the farm averaged 56 percent, up from 54 percent in January. That means commodities as a group were worth only 56 percent of the buying power they had in 1910-14.

Last year, the parity ratio over the entire 12 months averaged an all-time annual low of 57 percent. The previous all-time annual low was 58 percent in 1932.

Actual prices of commodities are much higher than they were in the early 1930s, but so are production and living expenses. It is that crunch which has produced the record low parity ratios. According to USDA records, the monthly price index has been below year-earlier levels in 18 of the last 19 months.

But the records also showed the 3.1 percent increase in the price index from January to February was the biggest single-month gain since it went up 3.7 percent in the summer of 1980.

Even so, department economists say there may be little improvement, if any, in this year's farm income.

Looking at the current situation, report said that higher prices for cattle, corn, tomatoes, hogs and broilers were mostly responsible for the February increase in the price index.

Prices paid by farmers to meet expenses, meanwhile, rose 0.6 percent during the month and averaged 2.6 percent more than a year ago.

Weaker commodity prices have helped dampen consumer food prices, which rose 4 percent in 1982, the smallest annual increase in six years. Department economists say the 1983 gain may also be held to about 4 percent.

According to the preliminary figures for February, which are based mostly on mid-month averages, the index for meat animals was up 4.6 percent from January, averaging 6.7

percent above a year earlier.

The poultry and egg index rose 5.9 percent during the month but still averaged 7.8 percent less than a year ago.

Vegetable prices jumped 15 percent from a month earlier, including higher prices for tomatoes, sweet corn, celery and onions. Lettuce and carrots were lower. The index was 24 percent below a year ago.

Fruit prices were down 3 percent from January, with lower prices for oranges, grapefruit and lemons causing the decline. Higher prices were reported for strawberries, apples and pears. The index was down 12 percent from February 1982.

The report also said:

—Cattle averaged $56.90 per 100 pounds of live weight nationally compared to $54.30 in January and $56.30 a year earlier. These are averages for all types of cattle sold as beef.

—Hogs averaged $57.60 per 100 pounds compared to $55.30 in January and $48.30 a year ago.

—Corn, at $2.55 a bushel, compared to $2.36 in January and $2.44 a bushel a year ago.

—Wheat prices at the farm, according to the preliminary figures, averaged $3.59 a bushel, compared to $3.57 in January and $3.70 year ago.

—Rice averaged $8.41 per 100 pounds, compared to $8.05 in January and $9.46 in February last year.

—Soybeans were $5.65 a bushel against $5.56 a bushel in January and $6.04 a bushel a year ago.

—Upland cotton was 53.7 cents a pound on a national average compared to 56 cents in January and 49.1 cents a year ago.

—Eggs were 54.7 cents a dozen compared to 52.6 in January and 66.3 a year ago.

Warm weather aids downstate planting

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Farmers in South, Southwest Texas and the Coastal Bend hastened to take advantage of warm, open weather this week to move ahead with corn and grain sorghum planting, says Dr. Zerle Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Elsewhere, additional recent moisture has put field operations and land preparation activities "on hold" until fields dry sufficiently. In South Central Texas, planting is moving ahead as fields air out, and some "spot planting" of corn is under way in Central Texas, Carpenter said in his weekly report on Texas agriculture.

In West Central Texas, sorghum planting is expected to start about April 1. Some farmers in Far West Texas — along with those in southern areas — also are busy preparing land for cotton planting.

About 10 percent of the corn has been planted in South Texas, but cold night temperatures are slowing its growth. While planting of grain sorghum and corn are under way in some Southwest Texas counties, many other farmers are still making final plans for participation in the "payment-in-kind" (PIK) program before major planting begins, he said.

Minimum soil temperatures for planting, as recommended by the Extension Service, are 50 degrees for corn, 55 for grain sorghum and 65 for cotton. During the past week, soil temperatures from Corpus Christi westward and southward warmed up to an average in the low 60s at the 4-inch soil depth, according to the Agricultural Weather Service at Texas A&M University. The Weather Service also reported these weekly soil temperature averages: Dilley, 63; Beeville, 61; Austin, 54; Eagle Lake, Beaumont and Uvalde, all 58; and Weslaco, 65.

The warmer, open weather in the Panhandle, South Plains and Rolling Plains areas permitted cotton farmers to wrap up the harvest, long delayed by continuing moisture in the form of snow, sleet and rain. "Scrapping up" operations for cotton continued in the South Plains, as the harvest moved there into final stages. Some cotton remains in modules on gin yards, however. Rolling Plains cotton farmers completed their harvest between showers. The guar harvest also was completed there.

As temperatures warmed up, so did interest in home vegetable gardens. Planting of beets, spinach, turnips, mustard, green onions, cabbage and potatoes is under way in North Central Texas, and vegetable planting is increasing in Central counties and other areas.

The harvest of cabbage, citrus and sugarcane is continuing in the Rio Grande Valley, with the cabbage harvest "fair" despite a dull market. Some 50 percent of the late oranges and 5 percent of the early oranges are still to be harvested, however.

Wheat and oat fields have perked up considerably during the past week, and are providing more substantial grazing in many areas.

Nevertheless, supplemental feeding is continuing for most livestock on native pastures and ranges, as the calving and lambing seasons move ahead.

District Extension directors report these conditions at mid-week:

PANHANDLE: As fields dried, cotton harvesting resumed and is now virtually complete. Wheat is beginning to grow, and pastures and ranges are improving, boosting the condition of cattle. A few areas are still short on soil moisture.

SOUTH PLAINS: The cotton harvest moved into the final stages as "scrapping up" operations progressed, aided by warmer, open weather. Some cotton remains in modules on gin yards, however. Wheat is making good progress. Range and stocker cattle look good, but supplemental feeding continues to be necessary.

ROLLING PLAINS: Livestock on small grain pastures are making excellent gains as favorable weather continues to boost growth of wheat and other grazing crops. Cattle and native ranges still require supplemental feeding. Cotton producers were able to wind up their harvest between showers, and the guar harvest also was completed. Land preparation for home gardens is continuing, with some planting of cold-tolerant crops under way.

NORTH CENTRAL: Wheat and oat crops are growing well, and planting of beets, spinach, turnips, mustard, green onions, cabbage and potatoes is under way. Most pastures and ranges are growing well and considered to be above average.

NORTHEAST: Most counties have surplus soil moisture. Wheat fields are looking good, although greenbug activity is increasing. Cattle are in good condition, as ranges and pastures improve. Vegetable planting is increasing as weather permits.

FAR WEST: Some farmers are busy preparing cotton land for the 1983 crop. Wheat, barley and other small grains are making good progress, but additional moisture will be needed for sustained growth. Cattle are beginning to suffer from lack of grazing on dry ranges. Some cattlemen are spraying their herds to control lice infestations. Apple trees are blooming and other trees are beginning to bud.

WEST CENTRAL: Warm, sunny weather has enhanced plant growth and range conditions, as most counties have adequate moisture. Oat crops are making good growth, but greenbug activity is still reported in some wheat fields. Land preparation continues for spring planting, with sorghum seeding expected to start about April 1. Ranges and pastures are in good condition, but supplemental feeding of livestock is still in progress. The lambing season is in full swing, and the lamb crop appears to be "normal" for this time period.

CENTRAL: Some "spot planting" of corn is under way in Bell County as fields dry. Oat stands have improved slightly, but clear weather is needed for all growing crops. Some red spider and greenbug activity is showing up in oat and wheat fields. Heavy supplemental feeding of livestock continues in most counties, as the calving season continues. Spring gardens are being prepared, with planting under way in some counties.

EAST: Drier weather is needed for growth of oats, as most areas have surplus soil moisture and some fields are water-logged. The wet fields are delaying corn planting. Ranges and pastures are responding well to warmer temperatures. Most livestock continue in good condition. Land preparation is progressing for vegetable planting, with some cabbage, potato and onions being planted. Some peach trees are in full bloom.

UPPER COAST: General rains have resulted in many fields being too wet to work, but have boosted ranges and pastures. Wheat has responded well to warmer weather. Most cattle are in fair condition. Land preparation is under way for spring vegetable planting.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Crops are being planted as fields dry sufficiently and weather permits. Good growth is reported for wheat and oat crops. Pastures are improving but livestock feeding continues to be necessary.

SOUTHWEST: Heavy preplant irrigation activities continue, as the weather remains dry. In southern parts

Pasture-ized

Cattle out on pasture are oblivious to economic conditions. A USDA report out this week said stock producers' returns improved in 1982, a change that normally would suggest general expansion of livestock output this year. The report added that red meat production for 1983 is forecast to show little recovery from last year's decline. It also said many farmers are liquidating livestock to meet cash demands for debts. (Brand Photo)

Farm outlook dim in third depressed year

WASHINGTON (AP) — One way to sum up the nation's farm economy is to point out that net income is depressed for the third straight year, the market outlook continues dim for at least the near future, and many farmers are struggling just to survive.

A new outlook report issued Wednesday by the Agriculture Department didn't put it that bluntly — but the meaning was there.

"Livestock producers' returns improved during 1982 — a change that normally payments and spring planting, or else go deeper into debt. The economists explained:

"As the farm sector has grown more integrated into national money markets and the overall economy, farmers have had to consider ways to enhance their cash-flow position and improve their ability to secure operating funds for future production. At times, these decisions seem to run counter to cash-price signals."

The monthly outlook report — actually a summary of one to be issued in a couple of weeks — skirted the entire question of 1983 farm income in its written text. A chart, however, indicated no change in an earlier projection showing that 1983 will be little better, if any, than 1982.

Part of the greater-than-usual uncertainty among USDA economists is because of the crop programs aimed at cutting 1983 production of wheat, corn, sorghum, rice and cotton.

The payment-in-kind program or PIK is the major building block of the government's effort to reduce crop production and the record supply of grain in U.S. warehouses.

Exports, as the report noted, have also weakened the past couple of years.

Although U.S. farm prices are low, shipments of U.S. farm products continue to be hurt by record global supplies, the economic recession, the high-valued U.S. dollar, foreign exchange constraints, and debt problems in many importing countries," it said.

The gloomy outlook came as the Senate Agriculture Committee worked on legislation that would set up a farm export subsidy program to counter those used by foreign competitors.

Tax seminars slated

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is planning three two-day seminars to help farmers and ranchers learn how to reduce taxable estates and learn new methods for passing their operations to the next generation.

The seminars on lowering estate taxes are slated for the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center, Dallas, March 10-11; Holiday Inn Airport, San Antonio, May 3-4; and Nueces County Extension Office, Robstown, May 24-25. Special emphasis will be given to recent changes in estate tax law as they affect farm estates.

On irrigated alfalfa

Manure cuts fertilizer costs in half

BUSHLAND — At present prices, fertilizing irrigated alfalfa with feedlot manure will cut fertilizer cost in half. So says Dr. Harold Eck, Soil Scientist at the USDA Conservation and Production Research Laboratory at Bushland. The scientist concluded this after a three-year study on the Les Darsey Farm, 5 miles north of Alanreed, Texas.

The soil on the experimental site was a fine sandy loam that was low in available phosphorous (P). The Victor variety of alfalfa was sprinkler irrigated once or twice between each of four or five annual cuttings.

In his experiment, Dr. Eck compared single applications of manure at 10, 20 or 30 tons per acre to an untreated area and 10 tons per acre applied for three consecutive years. Ten tons of manure contained about 93 pounds of elemental Phosphorous (P). The researcher said P205, the usual designation for phosphate fertilizer, contains 43 percent P. The manure applications were also compared to superphosphate applications of either 132 pounds per acre of P applied once or 44 pounds per acre of P applied annually for three years.

According to Eck all of the fertilizer treatments yielded about 7 tons of air dry alfalfa hay annually. A single application of 10 tons of manure per acre yielded as much the next three years as higher rates of manure or superphosphate treatments. Unfertilized areas produced about 4.5 tons of hay annually.

Analyses of the alfalfa for the three years showed that as much P had been harvested in the hay as applied in 10 tons of manure.

Because of this information, the researcher concluded that 10 tons of manure would have to be applied every three years to maintain top yields. Phosphorous concentration in alfalfa treated with superphosphate was higher than alfalfa treated with manure. Unfortunately, the higher P level did not increase yield. This indicates a luxury consumption of the P. Eck says manure releases P slowly, keeping plants from overindulging.

The concentration of nitrogen in alfalfa forage was the same from all fertilizer or manure applications. This indicated that alfalfa did not benefit from nitrogen in the manure. "On the other hand, the extra nitrogen did not decrease yield of alfalfa and the nitrogen in the soil could benefit 'nurse' crops planted with seedings of alfalfa or crops grown in rotation with alfalfa," Eck said.

Eck compared the cost of superphosphate and manure and found that 100 percent of P from superphosphate applied to the field would cost about $50 per acre. On the other hand, 10 tons of manure can be spread for about $25.00 per acre. "That makes manure a real bargain," Eck said. "Using manure helps feedlots get rid of this by-product. At the same time, fertilizer cost to a farmer is cut in half."

Cotton classing seminar set

LUBBOCK — The merits of cotton evaluation and classing by high volume instruments will be discussed by all segments of the cotton industry at a special conference March 21 in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

The afternoon session will include talks by producers, marketing executives, textile industry representatives and U.S. Department of Agriculture officials.

Open free to the public, the conference will begin at 1:50 p.m. March 21. Sponsors are the USDA Agriculture Marketing Service (AMS) and the Texas Tech University Textile Research Center.

USDA program participants from Washington will be Jesse Moore, director, AMS Cotton Division, on current and future USDA use of

PIK may boost soybean market

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new analysis by the Agriculture Department says the payment-in-kind program to reduce grain and cotton acreages this year could help soybean producers.

"In particular, smaller stocks and stronger prices for corn would help soybean prices recover from this season's low level," the report said.

instruments and Vern Highley, AMS administrator, with an overall conference review.

Altus, Okla., producer Murray Williams will discuss the farmer's reaction to instrument classing. Marketing representative Dan Davis, president, Commodity Exchange Services, Lubbock, will talk about using instrument evaluation data on the Telcot System and Howard Cotton Co. President Herman Riddle of Germantown, Tenn., will discuss buyer reaction to high volume instruments.

Southeastern textile industry reaction to instrument evaluation will be given by John B. Martin, manager of Operations Research, Burlington Industries, Greensboro, N.C., and Chessley B. Howard, assistant vice president, Graniteville Co., Augusta, Ga.

Robert Hale, vice president of American Cotton Growers and general manager of the ACT Textile Division, Littlefield, will speak of his organization's use of instrument data.

Change proposed for cattle bonding

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department has adopted several proposed changes in federal bonding requirements for livestock dealers and others covered by the Packers and Stockyards Act.

be effective on April 1, will allow dealers, market agencies and meat packers to file letters of credit in lieu of a bond.

Jones said farmers and ranchers who buy livestock for their own purposes are not required to file bonds.

B.H. Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration said Wednesday that the minimum bond required of livestock dealers and order buyers will be increased to $10,000 from $5,000.

Also, he said, the maximum bond required of dealers and market agencies will be based on an average of two days' purchases of livestock, plus 10 percent of purchases exceeding $75,000. The present level is $50,000.

Both of those changes, proposed last August, will take effect on July 1.

A third change, which will

Cut support can cut surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maybe the way to curb the nation's costly dairy surplus is to simply put a limit on how much money the government will spend to support milk prices, says Agriculture Secretary John R. Block.

"I just throw that out as a suggestion, not as the administration's position," Block told the Senate Appropriations agriculture subcommittee on Thursday.

But he said a plan where the government would simply stop supporting milk prices after spending a certain amount "would put pressure on prices. It would put pressure on the industry to cut production."

Block said, however, that the administration still supports a flat reduction in dairy price support levels as the easiest, quickest, fairest way to rein in the dairy program, that's been costing taxpayers more than $2 billion a year and filling government warehouses with billions of pounds of surplus milk products.

"It's my opinion that the vast majority of dairymen support a reduction in the price support," Block said. His plan to cut the support level $1 a hundred pounds to $12.10, however, was rejected by Congress last year.

Instead, Congress approved a program under which farmers pay the government an assessment of 50 cents for every hundred pounds of milk they produce to defray price support costs. That plan, imposed in December, was halted by a federal judge in South Carolina on technical grounds and seven other court challenges have been filed against it since.

Block has urged dairy interests and the Congress to come up with an alternative to the assessment, but he acknowledged that the prospects for a consensus are slim "since there is such a diversion of opinion across the country, region by region, on how to solve the dairy problem."

He said a program offered by the Wisconsin congressional delegation last week, which would pay dairymen for not producing milk, is unacceptable.

Sew Fair to feature programs, exhibits

Expert quilters, from left, Gertrude Evins, Earline Dorn, and Juanita Hershey, all members of the Hereford Senior Citizens Center, give Louise Walker, county extension agent, some tips on quilting. According to Margie Daniels, director of the center, the group will have a quilting demonstration going on all day Tuesday at the Sew Fair. Louise Packard, chairman of the family living committee, will serve as moderator for the day. Assisting with publicity for the fair are Debbie Gonzales and Gayle Carter, also members of the family living committee.

Louise Walker, Deaf Smith County extension agent, measures her daughter, Allison, as she prepares a program, "Sewing for Children," to be presented at 11 a.m. at the Sew Fair, sponsored by the Deaf Smith County family living committee and the Deaf Smith County Extension Service.

Jan Metcalf, right, owner of Monograms by Jan, discusses with Gayle Carter, a member of the Deaf Smith County family living committee, what she'll be exhibiting at the Sew Fair. Other exhibitors include McKnight Home Center and Ann's Knit Shop, Bernina Sewing Center, and Senior Citizens.

Program Schedule

- 9:30 a.m. - Registration; Gayle Carter, chairman
  - 10 a.m. - "Use and Care of Your Sewing Machine" by C.L. Morgan, Bernina Sewing Studio
  - 11 a.m. - "Sewing for Children" by Louise Walker, Deaf Smith CEA
  - 12 noon - "Wardrobe Planning" by Maria Day, Randall County CEA
  - 1 p.m. - "Making Your Own Designer Jeans" by Kay Wells, Oldham CEA
  - 2 p.m. - "Fashion Trends for Spring '83" by Becky Saunders extension clothing specialist
- Exhibits open 9:30 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Hereford Community Center
Free of Charge

La Jean Henry, right, owner of the Pants Cage, discusses spring fashions with Jewell Hargrave, a member of the family living committee. Becky Saunders, extension clothing specialist, will give a program at 2 p.m. at the Sew Fair on "Fashion Trends for Spring '83" using clothes from the Pants Cage. Ms. Hargrave reports that the county council will serve pimento cheese and chicken salad sandwiches, chips, brownies, crispy cereal bars, and beverages at their concession at the fair.

Bryan Walker, son of Louise Walker, watches as Sue Fanning, manager of the Bernina Sewing Center, explains the technique of taking apart a sewing machine. During the Sew Fair, C.L.

Morgan, store owner, will give a demonstration on the use and care of the sewing machine. His talk will begin at 10 a.m.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters Week

During a special observance beginning today and continuing through Saturday, March 12, Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Hereford will honor its volunteers and supporters. Mayor Bartley Dowell has signed a proclamation designating this week as Big Brothers-Big Sisters Appreciation Week in Hereford. At left is Deane Jones, executive director of BB-BS of Hereford. Also looking on is Francie Farr, president of the BB-BS board of directors.

Fair will have something for everyone

By LOUISE WALKER
County Extension Agent
These days, all my mind is running on the Sew Fair. I'll be looking for you there on Tuesday, March 8, at the Community Center. There'll be lots of good programs. Something for everyone, whether you sew or not.

For non-sewers, come and hear Marla Day, Randall County Extension Agent, at noon as she does a program on "Wardrobe Planning." The grand finale, at 2 p.m., will feature "Fashion Trends for Spring '83" using fashions from The Pants Cage. Becky Saunders, Extension Clothing Specialist, will do the presentation.

Then for you home sewers - ever have trouble with a cranky sewing machine? Be there at 10 a.m. to hear C.L. Morgan, owner of the Bernina Sewing Studio, Amarillo and Hereford, speak on "Use of Care of Your Sewing Machine." Yours truly will give a program at 11 a.m. on "Sewing for Children." The third sewing program will be at 1 p.m. on "Making Your Own Designer Jeans" by Kay Wells, County Extension Agent, Oldham County.

If the programs do not appeal to you, maybe you would enjoy viewing the exhibits. They'll be open from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Senior Citizens will have a quilt in a frame and show you how hand quilting is done. Sue Fanning, Bernina Sewing, will demonstrate machine embroidery. Monograms by Jan, McKnight Home Center, and Ann's Knit Shop will also have exhibits.

And there's food! Food always makes me feel good. Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council will have a concession open all day. There'll be homemade pimento cheese and chicken salad sandwiches, brownies, and crispy cereal bars, plus chips and drinks. Makes my mouth water. And their prices are so cheap. See you at the concession.

The fair is free. Everyone is invited. Invite a friend and have a refreshing day.

Watch for me Monday, March 7, at noon on Bedford Forrests' Farm and Ranch program on Channel 7. I'll be promoting the health fair.

Here's hoping for a beautiful weekend. Last Sunday was a perfect day and I played. Allison, Bryan, and I rode our bicycles two and one-half miles to the airport. There we went flying with husband, David, and son, Stuart, for an hour.

Then for the return trip home by bicycle. It was uphill - well slightly - but it was fun. Hope I get to do the same thing this Sunday. Today, Wednesday would be a perfect day for such a trip.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters honors its adult volunteers this week

Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Hereford will be paying special tribute to its volunteers and supporters during Big Brothers-Big Sisters Appreciation Week, March 6-12.

Activities planned for the week will also be directed toward recruiting new volunteers, to bring needed adult friendship to the 30 girls and boys now on the Agency's waiting lists.

"We're proud of our volunteers," says executive director Deane Jones. "By enriching the lives of many Hereford children, their gifts of friendship and support have had a positive impact on the entire community. We welcome the opportunity to thank them publicly."

This year, BB-BS appreciation is especially significant, as it marks the 80th anniversary of the national BB-BS movement.

This unique one-to-one service to children dates back to 1903, when a Cincinnati businessman, Irvin F. Westheimer, befriended a hungry boy who was foraging through garbage cans for food. Westheimer persuaded his friends to aid other boys in need and later founded Big Brothers of Cincinnati.

Today, 100,000 children are served nationally through 440

BB-BS agencies. Big Brothers and Big Sisters are matched with their young friends on the basis of common interests and personalities, and make a commitment to spend 2-3 hours a week together, for at least a year.

"Many matches continue their friendship long after the Little Brother or Sister has grown up," says Mrs. Jones. "And most volunteers report that the rewards of the friendship more than equal their contribution to a child's happiness."

Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Hereford are in need of adults to serve in a volunteer capacity. Anyone who is interested in learning more about the program, is invited and encouraged to go by the office at 108 E. 3rd St., or call 364-6171 for information.

Brownlow, Howard wed here Saturday afternoon

Wesley United Methodist Church was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding uniting Patricia Lois Brownlow and Robert David Howard of Wheeler. The Rev. Jesse Hodge, pastor, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eugene Brownlow of Route 3 and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Howard of Miami, Texas.

Pink potted azaleas with cranberry centers were placed on each side of the altar, centered by three branch brass candelabra holding pink candles. The unity candle was set in a candle ring of pink and cranberry silk flowers. The altar table was centered with a white basket holding pink and cranberry silk flowers, flanked by white candles in brass candlesticks.

Mrs. Ricky Tennant of Miami, Texas, the groom's sister, served as matron of honor and her husband, Ricky Tennant, was best man.

Guests were escorted to their seats by the bride's brother, Charles Brownlow of Denver, Colo. Mrs. Jesse Hodge and Mrs. Andy Wilks vocalized wedding selections including "Top of the World," "Tie Your Dream to Mine," and "Take Our Lives and Let Them Be," accompanied by Mrs. Jimmy Bell.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a pink and cranberry floral nylon crepe street length dress which complemented the groom's cranberry suit. It was designed with self flounces at the off-the-shoulder neckline and at the hemline and was fully lined with a full gored skirt gathered to the bodice at a fitted waistband.

The bride wore a pink wide-brimmed rippled hat with wide cranberry ribbon band, bow and streamers, and burgundy dress sandals. She wore her mother's pearl necklace and earrings, and carried her great-grandmother Brownlow's watch and a silk bouquet of cranberry camellias and mauve and white with pink tipped silk flowers accented with a pink ribbon.

Her attendant wore an antique white polyester crepe street length sun dress with gathered waist and bodice accented with a lace edged vest. She carried one long-stemmed cranberry silk camellia trimmed with pink ribbon streamers.

The bride's sister, Barbara Williams of Denver and Mrs. Bill (Vicki) Kuykendall, served wedding cake and punch at a reception following the ceremony. The bride's niece, Michelle Kuykendall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kuykendall, registered guests.

The three-tiered petal shaped cherry chip cake iced in light pink and accented with pink and cranberry bouquets was topped with Kissum's bride and groom sitting on a bench under a brandy sniffer topped with two white doves and a bell. The serving table was covered with white lace over a pink tablecloth.

After a wedding trip to surrounding towns, the couple will be at home in Wheeler.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Hereford High School and attended West Texas State University. She has been employed at Thames Pharmacy, McMorries & Co., and Gibson Real Estate and Insurance.

The bridegroom graduated from Miami High School in 1972 and served in the U.S. Army. He graduated from Texas State Technical Institute in 1977 with a major in auto mechanics, was employed as a mechanic for three years in Amarillo, and is currently working for Colorado Interstate Gas Co.

Out of town relatives attending included Brian Williams, the bride's nephew of Denver; Ken, Christy and Matt Tennant of Miami, the groom's nephews and niece; Mr. and Mrs. Don Howard and Michael of Canadian, the groom's brother and family; Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Stoner, Tracy and Chad, the groom's sister from Amarillo; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lafin of Wheeler, the groom's grandparents.

Red Cross Update

By BETTY HENSON
Executive Director

March has been proclaimed Red Cross month by President Reagan. The proclamation, assigned by the President, reads as follows:

"American Red Cross volunteers are among the millions of citizens who quietly serve their fellow man. Since the first settlement on our shores, a volunteer spirit has characterized the American way. This spirit has been reflected in the actions of the neighbor who is always ready to lend a hand."

"The services performed by the Red Cross provide us with benefits that would otherwise cost billions of dollars. Last year, it was the volunteer who - giving freely of his or her time, energy and talent - made it possible for the Red Cross to collect and provide the ill and injured with nearly six million units of blood."

"Volunteers established shelters to feed and attend to disaster victims, and conducted thousands of courses to improve the quality of life by teaching nutrition, first aid, water safety, home nursing, and preparation for parenthood. The volunteer reached out to our young people, to members of the military, to veterans, and to the elderly, and through personal contact eased their loneliness and fears."

"For 102 years, the American Red Cross has been an essential ingredient of American life, helping us to learn, to grow, and to prosper. In accordance with this year's theme: 'The Red Cross. We'll Help. Will You?' I urge all Americans to donate their time and financial resources in support of Red Cross activities. By giving of ourselves, we give the greatest gift one human being can give another - the gift of love."

The Board of Directors will meet Tuesday, March 15, at 12 noon at the Red Cross office. The Uniformed Volunteers will host the Westgate Nursing Home birthday party Thursday, March 10.

The Disaster Committee will meet Monday, March 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Red Cross office. Anyone wishing to help victims of the California storms can mail a check to our local office. The check should be made out to California Disaster Relief and mailed to our local address, P.O. Box 1371, and we will forward the funds to the California Red Cross disaster headquarters.

Red Cross volunteers are working in shelters and mass feeding stations and will be doing all of the mass care operations.

Program slated Wednesday noon

Louise Walker, County Extension Agent, will give a "Lunch and Learn" program on "Sewing for Children" on Wednesday at 12 noon in the Heritage Room, Library.

If you're interested in the topic, bring your lunch. Invite a friend. It is free of charge.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Committee to consider WTSU homecoming theme

Students, faculty and staff members, alumni and community residents have been invited to submit theme ideas for the 1983 Homecoming celebration at West Texas State University.

Homecoming activities will culminate on Saturday, Oct. 8 with a parade through Canyon and campus, a barbecue and the traditional football game.

A committee of WTSU students, faculty and staff members has planned the parade to begin at 11 a.m. with a barbecue served beginning at noon. The football game has been set to begin at 6 p.m. at Frank Kimbrough Memorial Stadium featuring the WTSU Buffaloes and Illinois State University.

Committee members, chaired by Dr. Allen Early, assistant professor of economics, will meet at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, March 22, in the Student Life Conference Room in the Administration Building to review theme suggestions.

Themes of Homecoming activities for the past several years have been "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," "The Spirit of West Texas," "West Texas-Heart of America," "Happy 70th Birthday," "The Sound of WT," "Pride of the Panhandle," "Look Into the Future" and "Panhandle Centennial."

Theme ideas may be submitted to Early or to Maureen Holmes, secretary of the Homecoming Committee, in the Office of Student Affairs in the Administration Building.

Surveys indicate that about 85 percent of human beings are right-handed.

March proclaimed Mental Retardation Month in Texas

Declaring that all persons, including more than 400,000 Texans, who are mentally retarded are entitled to dignity and respect and have fundamental rights to equal opportunity and full participation in the mainstream of society, Governor Mark White recently proclaimed March 1983 Mental Retardation Month in Texas.

Governor White also cited the work of the more than 70 local chapters of the Association for Retarded Citizens-Texas and their efforts to educate the general public about the realities of mental retardation.

According to the Governor's proclamation, more than 80 percent of persons with mental retardation can become productive, tax paying members of their communities if provided with proper training and instruction.

Mental retardation is a condition - not an illness - that affects approximately three of every ten persons, according to Michael Wolf, public information director of ARC-Texas. It is the largest permanent handicapping condition affecting children and is nine times more common than Cerebral Palsy, 15 times more common than total blindness, and 30 times more common than Muscular Dystrophy.

Persons with retardation are described as being "developmentally delayed," which means that they learn more slowly than others, have difficulty responding correctly to new social situations and are usually late in developing self-help skills such as walking, dressing and feeding.

According to Mr. Wolf, approximately 90 percent of all mentally retarded persons are only mildly or moderately retarded and, in many cases, are assimilated into their communities and are indistinguishable from their neighbors.

"The Association of Retarded Citizens-Texas is particularly concerned that the general public understand that most persons with retardation have accepted their handicaps, but have no intention of living as wards of the state," said Mr. Wolf. "They want to live in their own homes or apartments, earn their own living, have access to transportation necessary to get them to their jobs, and to participate as full-fledged members of their communities. "Most importantly, I think, they want to be recognized as people who happen to have a handicap," continued Mr. Wolf. "Many recognize that their greatest handicap is the general public's misunderstanding."

Dr. Bob Weathers to preach here

Dr. Bob F. Weathers of Brownwood will begin a four day revival meeting Sunday morning at First Methodist Church.

Dr. Weathers surrendered to the call of the ministry in July 1949 and has served pastorates in Evant, Jonesboro, Strawn, Santa Anna, DeLeon, Stephenville, Brownwood, Killeen, and Meadowbrook in Fort Worth. In June 1980 he was assigned as the District Superintendent of the Brownwood District of the Methodist Church.

He is a graduate of Texas Wesleyan College where he received the BS Degree and he attained a Master of Theology Degree in 1961 from Perkins School of Theology at SMU. He has conducted approximately 225 revivals and some of his greatest experiences have come through this type of ministry.

Dr. Weathers is a member of the Masonic Lodge, the Scottish Rite, the York Rite, and the Shrine. He is the father of two children, Lawana Joyce of Brownwood and Johnny Bob of Bedford.

Services will be held Sunday at 10:55 a.m. and 7 p.m. and Monday through Wednesday 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Breakfast will be served at the 7 a.m. meeting in Fellowship Hall.

Ann Landers Act to fund job training

DEAR READERS: When I goof I admit it. This gaffe was especially embarrassing because it was Nancy Reagan who caught it and hauled me up short.

On "Morning Break," a popular TV show in the nation's capital, Carol Randolph asked, "What are people worried about most these days?" I replied, "Unemployment — and it's crucial because it creates OTHER problems — depression, alcoholism, child abuse, battered wives, divorce and crime." I then added, "Unfortunately, job-training funds have been slashed, along with funding for many other social service programs. Unless people are retrained for high-tech positions, they will remain unemployable forever."

That same evening, in a receiving line, I encountered Nancy Reagan. To my amazement she said, "I saw you on TV this morning." She pleasantly but emphatically let me know I was "not up on things." The first lady asked if I had heard about the President's Job Training Partnership Act. I said I had not. At that point the president joined the conversation. Apparently he had been listening. "This administration IS doing something about retraining people. Legislation has been passed and the funds have been appropriated." I confessed I had heard nothing about it and that such good news should not be kept a secret. "Please send me some information, Mr. President," I said. "I'd like to see it."

I soon realized I had been holding up the receiving line and the Secret Service was becoming uneasy about the lengthy exchange between Ann Landers and the first couple. I moved on.

Within 48 hours I received from the president, a condensed version of his Job Training Partnership Act.

"Our chief goal," he wrote, "is to provide training and opportunities for economically disadvantaged jobless and underemployed persons. This newly enacted effort is in transition with a target date of Oct. 1, 1983."

I noted the President didn't say "how much." So I phoned Sen. Mark Hatfield, chairman of the Appropriations Committee. He told me at once — $3.6 billion. This, my friends, isn't exactly chopped liver. The president's public relations department certainly missed an opportunity.

My next call was to Ilano Rovner, Gov. Jim Thompson's deputy and legal counsel. Ilano advised me to get a complete briefing on the bill from Martin Jensen in Springfield. Jensen is with the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community affairs.

Jensen said, "Under the president's new program, a larger share of the funds will be used for job training rather than income support and administration." (That was good news!) Jensen continued, "The trainees will have a better chance of getting jobs because the private sector, which is where most jobs exist today is committed to pushing the program. Also, a new program is being put in place for dislocated workers. It will retrain thousands of experienced people whose jobs have evaporated because their skills have become obsolete."

Beautiful, Mr. President, but this is March. What are the unemployed going to do until October?

Anna Messer discusses effects of television

Anna Messer gave a Texas Extension Homemakers Association program entitled "Turn off the T.V. and Turn on Family Activities" for members of the Wyche Extension Homemakers Club at their Thursday meeting. She discussed what effect television has on our families. Members met in the home of Beverly Jesko, with Gene Olden as co-hostess. The meeting was presided over by Carol Odom. For opening exercise, Ms. Holden read the poem, "Home."

Jim Bob and John Wayne Messer, and Louise Packard's granddaughter, Kari Reinart, were visitors. Other members present were Ms. Packard, Esther Thuet, Louise Axe, Camelia Jones, Hattie Sassaman, Argen Draper, Dee Wiseman, Clara Trowbridge, Wynama Wheeler, Pet Ott, and Beverly Brooke.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Ethel Logan.

Jean Lyles gives oil painting demonstration

Members of the Garden Beautiful Club met at the Texas Gallery Friday morning. The program was presented by Jean Lyles, who demonstrated a beautiful snow scene in oil paints.

President Bessie Story presided at the business meeting, during which members voted to place a living rose in the rose garden at the First Baptist Church in memory of Tiny Lee Robertson. Membership was paid to the Friends of the Library.

Camelia Jones reported that the annual homes tour will be May 1. Homes were discussed and will be announced at a later date.

A nominating committee consisting of Louise Axe, Dorothy Noland and Lillian Lookingbill was appointed by the president.

Hostess for the meeting were Margaret Young and Bruce Carter. Others present were Helen Spinks, Inez Witherspoon, Ms. Lookingbill, Dorothy Noland, Frances Hennon, Louella Cowser, and one guest, Ethel Braxton.

The next meeting will be April 1, with Ms. Gilbreath serving as hostess in her home at 240 Ranger.

Q. Our son will soon be eligible for driver education and he wants to participate in the course. We'll benefit from lower insurance rates, but will he be a better driver?

A. The answer lies with your son in terms of what he will put into the course and puts into practice. A recent study indicated drivers who have completed driver education courses averaged 12.5% less personal liability claims than those who did not take the course. Additionally, liability loss for those not taking the course was 11% higher per car. Collision claims also came under scrutiny, with the average collision loss estimated to be 25% higher for teens driving without benefit of a formal driver education course. The study was conducted throughout the 50 states, and included 150,000 young drivers.

MODERATION HELPS

By Bob Wear
WE CAN condition our mind and order our life so that we are not victimized by circumstances. Of course, we are affected by circumstances; but, generally, we can manage ourselves to the central portion of our life is not affected significantly.

Thus, we can maintain the essential integrity; the inner strength of our being. In the accomplishment of this, one of the most helpful life qualities is "moderation."

MODERATION IS "that considerateness which looks humanely and reasonably at the facts of a case." Its wise application has an important place in our view of and management of self, because it aids us in "dealing with our pressing personal needs and problems."

SELF-POSSESSION requires a working knowledge of "moderation", and self-possession is a much needed and an admirable accomplishment. It is of great practical value, also. We never function at the level of our possible best, if we permit ourselves to become unduly excited, easily upset, overly concerned, greatly disturbed, frequently embittered, or often alarmed. In these conditions of thought and action, we make unnecessary difficulties for ourselves and we cause trouble for everybody around us.

"TO LEARN "moderation" is the essence of sound sense and real wisdom." - J. Bossuet.

IF WE PERMIT our responses and reactions to be too intense, we compound all problems and difficulties and actually create additional ones. "Moderation" is response and interaction will prevent these complicated conditions and unpleasant associations. WE CAN COPE successfully, in the living experience; when we permit "moderation" to be a guiding principal in our thoughts and in our life style.

The first baby show, on Oct. 14, 1854, included 127 exhibits, including a child of 5 months who weighed 27 pounds.

Today In History

Today is Sunday, March 6, the 65th day of 1983. There are 300 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On March 6, 1836, the Alamo mission in San Antonio, Texas, fell to the Mexican army after a 13-day siege.

On this date: In 1857, the Supreme Court ruled that a slave, Dred Scott, could not sue for freedom in a federal court.

In 1946, France recognized Vietnam as a free state within the Indochina Federation.

In 1965, the U.S. announced it was sending the first contingent of combat troops to fight Vietcong guerrillas in Vietnam.

And, in 1974, in a televised news conference, President Nixon denied ever having approved hush money or clemency for the Watergate defendants.

Ten years ago: The Nixon Administration reimposed mandatory price controls on the country's biggest oil companies.

Five years ago: President Carter invoked the Taft-Hartley Act in an effort to get striking miners back to work.

One year ago: Five of the 24 Moslem fundamentalists accused of involvement in the assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat were sentenced to death.

Today's birthdays: TV personality Ed McMahon is 60 years old.

Junior Music Festival scheduled here Monday

The Junior Music Festival, Section 1, First District, sponsored by Texas and National Federation of Music Clubs, will be held in Hereford on Monday. The event is set to begin at 8:50 a.m. at the First Baptist Church, 500 North Main.

Local coordinators are the Hereford Music Study Club and the Dawn Music Club. Mrs. Joe Reinauer, Sr. is chairman of the festival and Mrs. Ruby Wimberly is co-chairman. Others assisting are Mary Thomas, Sue Sims, Ann Meyer, and Cheryl Betzen from the Hereford Club and Helen Caraway and Corene Smith from the Dawn Club.

Arrangements have been made with the superintendent of the Hereford schools for students to be excused from class for the time required to participate in the festival. Parents of entrants are reminded to send a note to their child's teacher.

Seventy-nine piano and vocal students are scheduled to participate in both solo and ensemble numbers. The Junior Music Festival is non-competitive. Each participant will receive a state certificate with his or her rating.

Studios represented include the Cansler Studio, Mrs. Jo Ella Cansler; Hacker Studio, Mrs. Evelyn Hacker; Susan Shaw Studio, Mrs. Susan Shaw; Junior Harmony Club, Mrs. Kathlee Palmer; Melodic Lines, Miss Thelma McMinn; and the Dawn Musettes, Mrs. Ruby Wimberly of Dawn.

Judges for the festival include Mrs. Eva Miller and Mrs. Linda Kay Murphree, both of Friona, and Dr. Sylvia Curry Coats of Amarillo.

A dutch treat luncheon to honor the judges will be held immediately following the festival at the Caison House Restaurant. All teachers, parents, and other interested adults are invited.

Displayer of the Month

Olga Harris has been chosen as the displayer of the month at Deaf Smith County Library. Ms. Harris has owl necklaces on exhibit. She began her hobby five years ago and has necklaces from all parts of the United States as well as Guam, Scotland, England, Alaska, Spain, Hawaii, Mexico, the Philippines and Italy.

Wayne Thomas presents program to study club

"Trial of Jesus" was the presentation given by local attorney, Wayne Thomas, when members of L'Allegra Study Club met Thursday morning at the Hereford Country Club. Thomas had a most appropriate program for the approaching season. His message, based on the four Biblical texts, is created from a lawyer's point of view. He pointed out that improper handlings of the trial's legal procedure according to the Jewish and Roman laws. Also, during the meeting, publicity photos were taken for the club's upcoming plant sale.

Glenda Keenan, Mary Kay McQuigg, Betty Martin, Selsey Metz. Others, Karen Payne, Susan Perrin, Brenda Reinauer, Naomi Schroeter, Jody Skiles, Ella Marie Veigel, Beverly Ward, Judy Wall and Kay Lynn Caviness.

The killer whale, also called orca from its Latin name, is like man in being one of the few animals that seemingly kills for sport.

Oldham County Sew, Craft Fair scheduled Thursday

The public is invited to join the Oldham County Extension Homemakers at their annual Sew and Craft Fair on Thursday in the Oldham County Barn in Vega. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a $1 fee for the salad luncheon. Door prizes will be furnished by homemaker clubs. The 45-minute programs will last until 5 p.m. with one being presented during the noon luncheon so that employed homemakers may participate. Men may also be interested in the program.

The schedule of events is as follows: 9:30-10 a.m. registration; 10:10-45 a.m. wood carving by Jimmie Walker, Oldham County Agent; 11-11:45 a.m. ceramics by Karen Wagner; 12 noon to 1 p.m. - salad luncheon and sewing for children by Louise Walker, Deaf Smith County Agent. And in the afternoon, 1-1:45 p.m. - borders and monogramming by Teresa Morgan, Bernina Sewing Center; 2-2:45 p.m. - needlework simple secrets to success by Susan Couch, Creative Circle; 3-4:45 p.m. - sewing your own designer jeans by E. Kay Wells, Oldham County Agent; and 4-4:45 p.m. - painting on glass by Joan Cresap.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Beauty pageant slated April 16-17 in Dallas

Festival of Beauty Inc. of Hollywood, Calif. announces its search for charming and talented girls in the Interstate Texas Charisma Girl of the Year Pageant which will be held April 16 and 17 at the Northpark Hotel Convention Center in Dallas.

Contestants will be judged on poise, personality and talent (except ages 1 thru 4). There are seven age divisions of competition; 1-2, 3-4, 5-7, 8-10, 11-13, 14-16 and 17-22. An overall queen, a talent princess, a beauty princess and a modeling princess will be chosen from each division. Winners will be awarded crowns, banners, trophies and other prizes, plus paid entry fees to the national finals to be held in Dallas, June 16-18.

Interested young girls should write to the Texas Interstate Director, Charisma Girl Pageant, P.O. Box 1766, Seminole, Okla. 74868, or call (405) 382-7805.

Program focuses on family life, guidance

Nell Hodges presented a program on family life and child guidance techniques at the Thursday meeting of the North Hereford Extension Homemakers Club. Members met in the home of Hazel Ledbetter.

Ms. Hodges said that parents should try to involve the family in something besides watching television. They should show their children the great outdoors, flowers and trees, and introduce them to good music.

Roll call was answered by "the chore I like or dislike most to do around the house." During a business meeting conducted by Edith Higgins, members agreed to send a donation to the cancer fund. Other members present were Mmes. Bob Campbell, John Reed, Roger Williams, Peg Hoff, J.A. Crofford, Martha Lueb, T.E. Brisendine, George Kemerer, Tony Hoffman, and Miss Roberta Campbell.

One visitor, Candice Campbell, was welcomed. In 1980, 19.8 percent of the nation's children were living in single parent households. Up from 11.8 percent in 1970.

Auxiliary donates money

Members of the Deaf Smith General Hospital Auxiliary donated money to the hospital Monday morning to help purchase lounge chairs for patients' rooms.

Lupe Cerda, auxiliary treasurer - presented a check in the amount of $800 to hospital administrator, Jim Bullard.

Approximately $1000 has been given to the hospital since the auxiliary opened its gift shop in December of 1979. The money has been used to buy a sonogram machine, a Dopler and lounge chairs.

Items available at the shop include baby clothes, house shoes, flowers, jewelry, cigars and many other items.

Volunteers assisting in the shop include Olga Harris, Anna Stendt, Helen Brown, Juanita Bennett, Grace Covington, Mary Williamson, Dorris Cherry, Lupe Cerda, Baxter and Gwen London and Irene Reinart.

More volunteers are needed and may contact any of the auxiliary members for additional information.

Services provided by the auxiliary include furnishing coffee pots, coffee and other items for the intensive care unit and surgery waiting rooms.

They also serve refreshments once a month at the Better Breathing, Better Living Club.

Study Club, guests attend salad supper

Members of Toujours Amis Study Club and their guests enjoyed a salad supper Tuesday evening at the Community Center. Highlighting the evening was a style show of new spring fashions presented by LaJean Jenry of Pants Cage, Pat Lawson of Ecetera and Betty Martin of Louise's.

Various styles were modeled including sportswear, casual and dressy attire. Vibrant colors and "Back to the Fifties" was the prominent theme used throughout the show.

The club's next regular meeting will be March 22.

Members attending included Nanette Ashby, Marilyn Leasure, Susan Perrin, Rhonda Nieman, Rhonda Long, Pam Perrin, Sharon Hodges, Nena Veazey, Charlotte Tyler, Lauri Owens, Lisa Lewis, Robbi Ames, Marsha Winget, Marcia Boyer, Teri Morgan, Susan Sublett.

Also, Katy Timmens, Jan Petree, Diana White, Shannon Hagar, Debbie Donaldson and Beverley Lambert.

Guests present were Daphne Sowers, Lesley Woodard, Lynette Leasure, Jackie Murphy, Jan Perrin, Sandy Arrellano, Donna West, Jane Guley.

Others were Cathy Carthel, Marie Stringer, Clovis Seago, Virginia Winget, Tonya Gilliam, Helen Lee, Diane Day, Diana Cavin, Connie Urbanczyk and Susan Shaw.

Money Donated

Once again members of the Deaf Smith General Hospital Auxiliary donated money to the hospital to buy lounge chairs for patients' rooms. Lupe Cerda, auxiliary treasurer, gives Jim Bullard, hospital administrator, a check for $800.

Members hear program on ranches

Mrs. Thurman Atchley hosted the members of Summerfield Study Club Thursday afternoon at a meeting in her home. Mrs. Guy Walsler served as co-hostess.

Following the invocation, given by Mrs. Jerry Lance, and the pledge to the Texas flag, led by Mrs. L.B. Lookingbill, Mrs. Walsler began the program on "Historic Ranches of Texas," by giving the history of the JA Ranch, established in 1877 by Col. Charles Goodnight and John Adair.

Mrs. J.R. Euler then presented histories of the Diamond Trail, 6666, XIT, and YO Ranches taken from "The Cowman's Country" by Pauline Durrett Robertson and R.L. Robertson.

Mrs. Clayton Sanders presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Atchley read the minutes, Mrs. Euler gave the treasurer's report, and Mrs. Lookingbill read correspondence. The club voted to donate to the Deaf Smith County Library and to the kitchen fund at King's Manor.

Others present were Mmes. Annie DeLozier and L.H. Lookingbill Sr.

Children under the age of 18 in Texas are least likely to be living with both legal parents if they are in a female headed, food stamp household; in a current AFDC household; or in a former AFDC household.

Between the Covers

'Floating Dragon' bestseller

BY DIANNE PIERSON
County Librarian

Fiction bestsellers head the list of new books available this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. "Floating Dragon" by Peter Straub is currently number five on the New York Times bestseller list. In a stunning tour de force, Peter Straub harnesses his unquestioned literary skills to a story that soars and stretches to new reaches of the human experience.

The four principal characters are led through escalating tensions and terrors to a world thoroughly penetrated by mystery - a world that can be horribly experienced but never really understood. Richard Allbee, Patsy McCloud, Graham Williams, and young Tabby Smithfield discover the malignancy growing in their town and must escape it before they become victims.

With every book Peter Straub has grown in ambition, daring and audacity, but has kept constant faith with the reader who wished above all to be entertained as well as dazzled. Straub is also the author of "Ghost Story" and "Shadowland."

"Ellis Island" by Fred Mustard Stewart also is available this week at the library. "Ellis Island" is a brilliant new saga by the author of the best-selling "Century." It is the story of five young immigrants who fled their homelands for America at the turn of the century.

Jacob Rubenstein, who escaped a pogrom by killing a Cossack, embarks for the New World. Aboard ship he meets his fellow passengers: Marco Santorelli, Tom Banicek, Bridget and Georgianna O'Donnell. This riveting story travels from the lights and glitter of Broadway to the farms and mines of Appalachia. Stewart recreates Ellis Island which is bright, energetic and fresh.

Also available this week at the library is "The Mists of Avalon" by Marion Zimmer Bradley and "Stand a Calder Man" by Janet Dailey, which continues the Calder saga.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I don't know about you, but I never buy a cookbook written by a skinny person. It's pure fiction.

Same with foods I buy in the supermarket. I eat to enjoy, not to have a fiber experience. Show me a fat Gerber baby on a jar of strained bananas and I'll show you a woman who has strained bananas over French ice cream for lunch!

Now it seems all that is about to change. Remember those chubby little Campbell kids with the dimples in their fat knees scarfing down all that hot soup? In keeping with the nation's preoccupation with physical fitness, the "kids" are going to shed a few pounds. Experts are now saying fat babies are not necessarily healthy babies and they're going to update their image.

Okay, I didn't say anything when they lightened up Aunt Jemima a few years ago. I even kept silent when they gave Betty Crocker a new hairstyle, but now they've gone too far.

The faces on my cupboard shelves are like old friends. How do you think I'm going to feel picking up Mrs. Butterworth and discovering a Barbie doll in my hand?

Or poking around the freezer case and coming up with Mama Caleste with a facelift, blonde hair and a jogging suit? It won't be the same.

I suppose the Blue Nun will go modern and exchange her traditional habit and bicycle for a three-piece suit and a Corvette. Or worse, some ad agency will put Orville Redenbacher in contact lenses, dye his hair and have him shorten his name.

Sometimes I think advertisers don't understand people at all. Eating should be a pleasurable experience.

I know by looking at the Hershey kids that they eat chocolate until their faces have to be retouched. I know that Mrs. Smith drags into the kitchen every morning and bakes every one of those pies and has never counted a calorie in her life.

And I know that when the Quaker appears on the oatmeal box wearing Foster Grant glasses and a chain around his neck, it'll be all over for me.

If I were the advertisers, I'd go the other way. I'd try to restore some of the warmth and pleasure that comes with good food. I'd have a fold-out page of Orson Welles eating avocado and sour cream dip and saying, "Would this body lie to you?"

'Panhandle Murals' presented to airport

Two "Panhandle Murals" were formally presented to the Amarillo International Airport Saturday afternoon by the Association of Panhandle Travel Agents (APTA).

Taking part in the dedication was the Hereford Travel Center, one of APTA members. The murals were painted by free-lance artist Bud McCauley of Amarillo.

Joan Coupe, Hereford Travel Center, noted the murals were presented to the airport not only for the enjoyment of the airline and travel-related employees at the airport, but also for all the Panhandle area travelers who use the airport.

APTA is an organization composed of most of the travel agencies in the Panhandle area. The group's main purpose is to unite all the area travel agencies in educating the public on the services and uses of an agency, and to promote better relations between the general public, the travel agencies and the business community.

APTA stresses that it costs nothing extra to use the services of a travel agency. The traveler pays the same no matter if he makes arrangements with all segments of the travel industry.

Establishing and enforcing court-ordered child support from AFDC clients can reduce welfare rolls and offset AFDC costs.

To Perform This Afternoon

Quintessence, a jazz ensemble from West Texas State University, will present a concert at 3 p.m. today in the Heritage Room of the Deaf Smith County Library. The performance, sponsored by the Hereford Music Study Club and the WTSU Foundation of Fine Arts, is free of charge and the public is invited. Members of the quintet, left to right, are Ray Dillard, graduate music student from Dalhart, percussion; Dr. George Eason, WTSU professor of music, piano; Greg Williams, senior computer information systems major from Pampa, bass; Carlos Casso, senior music business major from San Juan, saxophone; and Marvin Perry, senior music education major from Axle, trombone.

Jazz ensemble to perform here

A special free concert is scheduled this afternoon in the Heritage Room of the Deaf Smith County Library. Quintessence, a musical quintet from West Texas State University, will perform at 3 p.m.

Directed by Dr. George Eason, professor of music at WTSU, the group will present a variety of jazz including rag, blues, boogie, Dixie, African, ballad, swing, bebop, cool Latin, soul, gospel influence, fusion and avant-garde.

The concert is being sponsored by the Hereford Music Study Club, whose members are currently studying American music and who will attend this concert as their March meeting, and the WTSU Foundation of Fine Arts. Two Hereford residents are members of the board of directors of the Foundation - Mrs. Jo Ella Cansler and Dr. Duffy McBrayer.

Members of Quintessence will intersperse their musical numbers with short explanations of the history of jazz in America. Those in attendance will have a chance to visit with members of the group during an informal reception following the concert.

The total construction cost of building the Eiffel Tower in Paris was recovered from sight-seers' fees within the first year of its completion.

Orchestra concert set

A combined concert featuring the orchestras of Hereford High School, La Plata Junior High and Stanton Junior High will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in the Hereford High School auditorium. The concert is free and the public is invited. All three orchestras will be going to U.I.L. Contest in Amarillo on Wednesday.

Local clubs plan spring convention

Members of Hereford Garden Club and Bud to Blossom Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Clinton Jackson recently to finalize plans for the upcoming District 1 Spring Convention. The event will be held at the Hereford Community Center March 14-15.

This will be the first time that a district convention has been held in Hereford.

Garden club members from a 54 county area are expected to attend, with a total of 51 garden clubs involved.

On the agenda are a design program by Mrs. June Wood of Albuquerque, N.M., a judge's flower show, meetings, awards, and three meals.

Mrs. Jackson is chairman of the committee preparing for the convention and Mrs.

Bob White is co-chairman.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jackson to the club members attending. They included Mmes. O.G. Hill Sr.,

Ursalee Jacobsen, Patricia Robinson, Corene Smith, Wilma Bryan, Betty Hughes, Lois Lemons, Virginia Garner, and Paula Hamby.

Texas travel trail folders available

AUSTIN — Just in time to explore the springtime landscapes of Texas, interpretive folders for the series of pleasure-driving routes called the Texas Travel Trails are being reissued by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, after a lapse of several years when the popular folders were unavailable.

The Hill County and Mountain Trails, which sample some of the state's most spectacular scenery, are the first of the new folders now available, according to Tom H. Taylor, director of the highway department's Travel and Information Division.

"The highway routes as previously established remain the same," he said, "but Trail drivers should find these new folders even more rewarding trip companions."

Taylor explained that greater emphasis is devoted to actual driving landscapes—how the hills and mountains came to be, the flora that Trail travelers will be seeing, and the wildlife that inhabits the varied terrain.

The Hill County Trail ambles through the most dramatic landscapes of the Edwards Plateau west of Austin and north of San Antonio. It bisects Texas' most popular dude ranch and summer camp areas, finds the Lost Maples of Sabinal Canyon, and winds past the scenic chain of Highland Lakes.

The Mountain Trail explores the mile-high rooftops of Texas in the Trans-Pecos region from El Paso to Big Bend National Park. Mountain Trail drivers will discover the largest volcanic region in Texas, hidden pools of water in the vast desert, and crumbling ruins of frontier cavalry posts.

Taylor said the free Hill County and Mountain Trail folders are available now at any of the state's dozen tourist bureaus or by mail from TRAILS, Box 5064, Austin 78763. The other renewed Trail folders, exploring eight other distinctive regions of the state, are expected to be available soon.

Of the 90,070 families currently receiving AFDC benefits in Texas, 95 percent have become eligible due to divorce, separation, or abandonment. However, only 5 percent receive financial assistance from the non-custodial parent.

AFDC grants in Texas average $104.00 per month per family. The average payment per recipient is $33.80.

Child Support Collections for AFDC clients average $106.00 per family.

Statewide telephone line answers questions

It's new. It's free. It's easy—to remember 1-800-4-CANCER.

The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute's Cancer Information Service (CIS), the statewide telephone line that answers Texans' questions about cancer, now has a phone number that spells its purpose.

This easily recalled number will help make the CIS more accessible to the general public, according to Jo Ann Ward, director of the M.D. Anderson CIS.

"The CIS will still be providing the same kind of current, factual cancer information, but it is our hope that now we will be able to serve even more people who have questions about cancer—a disease which in some way affects two of every three families," said Ward.

"The M.D. Anderson CIS will share this phone number with 20 other CIS offices across the country, allowing Texans to pass it on to out-of-state friends and relatives who automatically will be connected to the CIS office serving their area."

Only people calling 1-800-4-CANCER from within Texas will be connected directly to the M.D. Anderson office. Established in 1975 as a public education program of UT M.D. Anderson Hospital, The CIS's goal is to enable people to have immediate access to the latest information about cancer. In addition to providing assistance over the telephone, the CIS also mails free, printed materials about cancer to callers who request it, serves as a source of referral to community services for cancer patients and their families and is a contact point for the latest information about cancer research.

Over the years, the CIS staff of trained volunteers has assisted more than 50,000 Texans with their cancer concerns.

The M.D. Anderson CIS is just one part of a nationwide network of offices, based at major cancer centers and funded by the National Cancer Institute. Included in this network are 21 regional offices serving 65 percent of the nation's population. The rest of the nation is served by an office operated at the National Cancer Institute, which also handles late-night calls until midnight (Eastern time), and weekend calls. Since the program began these offices have fielded more than a million calls.

Child kept in cubicle four school days

HOUSTON (AP) — A 7-year-old pupil disciplined by being kept in a 2½-by-3-foot cubicle for four days will be allowed to transfer to another school, officials say.

The boy's mother, Deborah Crutch, said her son's desk had been placed in a cubicle in a corner of a second-grade classroom. The cubicle was formed by a wall, window, a large map and an artist's easel covered with red construction paper.

Arthur Gaines, deputy superintendent for the Houston Independent School District, said the teacher went a little too far in disciplining the boy. He said no disciplinary action was planned against the teacher, Elaine Browder.

Ms. Crutch said she found out about the cubicle Tuesday when her daughter went to the classroom to find out why her brother, Grover, had been coming home late.

She didn't see her brother until children in the classroom pointed to the corner "and shouted, 'Grover's corner, Grover's corner,' like he was on exhibit in the town square," Ms. Crutch said.

Ms. Crutch said her son had been confined in the cubicle for two months, but school officials said he had been kept there only for four days and then never for the full day.

Gaines said Friday that he has ordered the principal of Windsor Village Elementary School to make sure that kind of discipline is not repeated. The cubicle was dismantled Thursday.

"It's OK to put a child in the back of a classroom, but it's not OK to completely isolate him," Gaines said. "This was an unusual form of discipline."

Gaines said Grover was a serious discipline problem. But Ms. Crutch said she received only two notes from the teacher about the boy's behavior and that the offenses listed in his official records were flying a toy airplane, sliding in the hall, going into the girls' bathroom and talking in the cafeteria.

"The counselor told me they weren't out of the ordinary," she said.

For Mandrell it's God first, then family and career

By ROBERT MACY
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A line of showgoers in evening finery snaked through the lobby of the plush hotel on the Las Vegas Strip, as Barbara Mandrell relaxed on a couch in her dressing room upstairs.

She talked wistfully of life on the road — one nighters from Minot, N.D., to Dallas, from Hutchinson, Kan., to Chicago. And amid the elegant trappings of the MGM Grand Hotel, she said she longed for her bus where she could slip into her pajamas, pop popcorn, watch a movie and wake up in the next town in the morning.

Midway through her second week-long MGM sellout engagement in three months, she admitted she favors a different city, a different showplace, a different showplace each night.

"I'm not used to staying in one place this long," she said of the week's stay. "Fortunately, I've been blessed with big, enthusiastic crowds. I have to keep telling myself, 'These are different people.' I keep playing these little head games. I just tell myself the audience moves instead of me."

Her love for the road filled a void last year when she quit her lucrative television show with sisters Louise and Irlene.

"I just humanly, physically couldn't do it anymore," she said of the popular show. "It turned out to be 14, sometimes 16 hours a day, every day. I was told by my doctor that if I continued at that pace, I would damage my throat. So there was really no choice. The decision was very simple."

But she traded one frenetic pace for another. The new one was vintage Mandrell — a 90-day summer-fall tour, performing before a million fans at 105 shows ranging from dusty fairgrounds to elegant concert halls.

There's a ton of energy packed into Miss Mandrell's her 5-foot-2, 100-pound frame, bringing a pizzazz to the Las Vegas stage that is exciting and unique. While most performers are content to spend an hour on stage, she runs almost non-stop for two hours per show, two shows per night — singing, dancing and clowning with her 20-member troupe.

Still, her thoughts do not remain on the stage for long; they invariably gravitate to her family.

"Our son (Matthew, 12) had traveled over 600,000 miles with me before he entered grade school. And our daughter, Jaime (age 7), went for years thinking everybody's Mommy lived on a bus," she says.

Her husband and her father and mother, Irby and Mary Mandrell, are all involved in the business empire she has built, which includes not only music, but also real estate, cattle and Barbara Mandrell One Hour Photo Centers.

Her priorities? "First of all, God," she says. "He's the whole reason we're here, to see how we go through this life and how we touch others and how they touch us."

"The next would be my family and then my career."

Larry, Steve and Rudy Gatlin were chosen as this year's only country artists for a national Dr. Pepper radio campaign. The Brothers recorded 30-second and 60-second versions in Nashville for the soft drink featuring friendly banter and the Gatlins' trademark harmony. The spots began airing in January and will be heard throughout the year.

Country music's No. 1 male vocalist doing his own laundry? It's true. On a recent Ralph Emery Show, Ricky Skaggs admitted that he does most of his own ironing — at least his jeans, which is what he wears on stage most of the time.

Ricky says it's not because he's especially fond of ironing clothes, but the fact is that laundries and dry cleaners just don't do them the way he likes. That's what you call — definitely — not 'gettin' above your raisin' ...

Barbara Mandrell's NBC-TV special planned for airing in January did not make the tube, because Barbara and the network failed to agree on terms. There is no official word.

if negotiations will continue for another air date for the special.

George "Goobar" Lindsey was the opening act for the recent Gatlin Brothers engagement at the Las Vegas Riviera Hotel. This was the Gatlins' second engagement there.

"Austin City Limits Encore," a half-hour weekly series created from past segments of "Austin City Limits," has been introduced by Multimedia Program Productions Inc. Artists to be seen in the first round of the new shows include Willie Nelson, the Charlie Daniels Band, Earl Scruggs, Larry Gatlin, Merle Haggard, Bobby Bare, Asleep at the Wheel, Jimmy Buffett and Roy Clark.

Proceeds from a recent Jerry Reed concert at Memphis' Dixie Myers Auditorium were donated to Memphis State University to establish a scholarship in Reed's name.

Thomas: breaking away from John Boy image

By JERRY BUCK AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When actor Richard Thomas was asked to play country-western singer Hank Williams Jr., he wondered: "Why me?"

"It was a great story but at first glance it seemed so inappropriate for me," said Thomas, best known as John-Boy on "The Waltons."

But the more he thought about the project, the more convinced he became to become involved.

His role in "Living Proof: The Hank Williams Jr. Story," which NBC will telecast on Monday, is a departure from John-Boy. The movie tells of the struggle of the young singer to escape the shadow of his folk-hero father, Hank Williams Sr., and become a star in his own right. Along the way, he has bouts with liquor, drugs and an attempted suicide.

"I think it's a picture with a lot of surprises," Thomas says. "People may know Hank Williams Jr.'s music, but they don't know the man. You're left with a feeling he's not a perfect guy and he hasn't solved all his problems. Hank's only 33 and it's still up to him what he's going to do with his success."

The role is a new direction for Thomas and he handles it well. He shows, as he has in other roles since "The Waltons," that he has outgrown his image as the idealistic youth.

Thomas said that Williams was "freaked out" when he heard he was playing him. "John-Boy! He couldn't believe it. He wanted Jeff Bridges or Kris Kristofferson. I went to see him and won him over. I said, 'Hank, you've been trying to get out of the shadow of your father and here you're telling me what I can or can't do. I'm trying to get out of the shadow of John-Boy.'"

It's also Thomas' first singing role. For scenes early in Williams' career he sings such Hank Williams standards as "Honky Tonkin," "Your Cheatin' Heart" and "Jambalaya."

"It was very scary," Thomas said. "I'd never sung before or played the guitar. I was with all professional musicians. That was one of the things that bothered me about the role in the beginning. You don't want to look like a jerk."

Thomas served as co-executive producer with Michael Lepiner and involved himself in every aspect of the production, from getting the final script written to the editing.

"I'm now pitching three projects of my own to the networks," he said. "They say you should be able to wallpaper a room with rejection slips before you know what you're doing. I'm writing my own ideas, for better or worse."

Cobwebs yield Holly treasure

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — In a cobwebby corner of a gymnasium-sized vault in California, a record company executive discovered a musical treasure.

Steve Hoffman, the catalog research and development coordinator for MCA Records in Los Angeles, stumbled onto tapes of 10 previously unreleased versions of songs by the late rock 'n' roll trailblazer, Buddy Holly.

"The world should hear these," Hoffman thought, when he realized what he had found last August.

The world can. The songs are on a new album, "Buddy Holly — For the First Time Anywhere."

Holly and his band, the Crickets, were best known for their "rockabilly" sound — a hybrid of early rock 'n' roll and "hillbilly" music, as country music was then known. It was the style of the late Elvis Presley when he cut his first record in 1954 and Jerry Lee Lewis.

The group was at the top of its career when, at the age of 22, Holly was killed in a plane crash in 1959 at Clear Lake, Iowa. Two other performers — J.P. "The Big Bopper" Richardson and Ritchie Valens — were killed in the crash with him.

Holly and the Crickets had leaped to fame in 1957 when the group came out with "That'll Be the Day" and "Peggy Sue," a song which created the first heroine of rock 'n' roll. Other Holly hits followed rapidly during the two years he and the Crickets were together: "It's So Easy," "Rave On," "That'll Be the Day," "Maybe Baby," "Oh Boy" and "Not Fade Away."

"Maybe Baby" is one of the songs on the new album, but it's not the version that hit the charts in 1958. This one was recorded six months before, and for some reason, was not as well regarded as the cut used.

Most of the songs on the album were recorded in Clovis, N.M., where Holly had cut most of his recordings with producer Norman Petty. They include "Rock-A-Bye-Rock," "Because I Love You," "I'm Gonna Set My Foot Down," "Changing All Those Changes," "That's My Desire," "Baby Won't You Come Out Tonight," "It's Not My Fault," "Brown-Eyed Handsome Man" and "Bo Diddley."

MCA files showed that the 10-songs should be stored somewhere, but Hoffman was not able to find them until he accidentally stumbled onto them one day six months after his search began.

Brushing away cobwebs, he found them in a corner of an annex room of the vault. They were unmarked, except for the phrase, "Do not use." The 10 tapes, each in a box, were stacked in one larger box.

Hoffman immediately played the tapes. "I broke into a cold sweat," he recalled. "They were exquisite — like they were made yesterday. They certainly were well preserved."

Voight good in 'Table for Five'

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Photographs as large as posters paper the walls of actor Jon Voight's office at the Burbank Studios. They show his two fresh-faced children.

The actor-producer is a divorced father, whose children, Jamie, 9, and Angelica, 7, live with their mother, Marcheline, Voight's second wife.

In his new film, "Table for Five," he plays a divorced father who becomes responsible for his children only after a family tragedy.

"Table for Five," which co-stars Richard Crenna, Millie Perkins, Marie Christine Barrault and three talented youngsters, was made by Voight and partner Robert Schaffel for the new CBS Theatrical Films. Voight plays a former golf pro and errant father who takes his children on a Mediterranean cruise, then finds he must assume the important role in their lives.

Voight's own performance as a divorced father has been different. When his former wife lived in California, the actor moved nearby so he could spend time with Jamie and Angelica. They are now in New York, and Voight spends as much time as possible in the East.

"Naturally, I was deeply frightened that the divorce would injure the kids," he says. "There is a tendency to become overly watchful, but that can be destructive, too ... The bottom line is what's best for the kids."

"I'm scared about it, but they're not," he said. "They have strong personalities, and they have reacted well, though I'm sure they can't escape the sadness of having their parents separate. When Jamie and Angie are 18 or 19, then I'll know whether I was a good father. Maybe."

INSTALL Gas Air Conditioning NOW...

AND GET A

free gas grill

Arkla GRB40-EU $373 value installed

It's not every day that you can get a deal like this: a free gas grill* for your backyard when you install the best in air conditioning for your home! You'd be smart to jump at the chance.

Only gas air conditioning has a ten year warranty... that's twice as long as any other! And, that warranty is backed by Energas, so you can be sure it means what it says. Gas air conditioning lasts longer because there is no compressor to wear out and break down. Hand-crafted stainless steel construction adds to its performance and longevity.

Order your gas air conditioning before June 1, 1983, and get the free gas grill.

Act now... it'll be hot before you know it!

*Includes free installation at same address where air conditioner is installed.

10-Year Warranty

Manufacturer's limited warranty covers all defects in materials and workmanship on the sealed refrigeration unit for 10 years from date of installation of the air conditioner when it is installed in a single family residence. All other parts are warranted for one year from date of installation.

Reclusive artist uses medieval techniques

By SCOTT M. BUSHNELL, Associated Press Writer

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The artist clips off the top of an egg shell, carefully pouring out the white and then gently placing the yellow yolk in his hands.

The egg yolk, its sac unbroken, creeps back and forth across the hands of Paul Cadmus while he talks about a medieval painting technique.

He was once known as "the bad boy" of American art because of his satirical paintings that often depicted the vulgar, cruel, overindulgent and brutal nature of men and women. He appears in a film by David Sutherland, one which offers a rare view of the reclusive artist and an equally rare presentation on film of the egg tempera painting technique.

Cadmus crushes the pigment, mixes it with water and then puts the creamy emulsion in a small tin. Patience is needed, he says, to know when the consistency is right.

Learning how to use the 15th century technique — which produces more vivid and long-lasting colors — comes only with years of experience, Cadmus explains in the film. And the brush strokes, he says, "are like heart beats."

Egg tempera is an early Renaissance technique in which the yolk acts as a binding medium. Pigments are ground in water and a diluted mixture of egg yolk and paint is applied to an absorbent canvas.

"This is a very unique film," says Sutherland, a Boston filmmaker who has spent 2½ years on the project. "Here is an American master showing an Old Masters' technique. I don't think egg yolk tempera has ever been shown before on film."

The film features the 78-year-old Cadmus discussing his life, art and some of the controversy surrounding his paintings.

"Paul Cadmus is an articulate, intelligent man," Sutherland said. "After I met him, I realized you didn't need a bunch of art historians passing judgment on his work. Cadmus is quite capable of speaking for himself, quite capable of putting his work into perspective."

He is one of what is formally called the "American Scene" painters, which include Thomas Hart Benton

Is there life in St. Elsewhere?

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC has done everything to resuscitate "St. Elsewhere." They tried more romance, more muggings and even scheduled the network's most popular programs as lead-ins, hoping that viewers would happen by the hospital.

Nothing worked. NBC's worst fears are being realized. Viewers are actively turning away from "St. Elsewhere," the most humane and intelligent new program this season.

At last, NBC has a popular show opening its Tuesday night lineup. The intimidating Mr. T, barking that Fonzie's "Happy Days" are over, has helped make the wacky "A Team" a hit. But there has been little viewer carryover to "Bare Essence" at 9 p.m. EDT, and even less for "St. Elsewhere" at 10.

"One week in December we finished in 75th place out of 75 shows," says Bruce Paltrow, the executive producer of "St. Elsewhere." "We were thinking of taking out ads. 'Just watch us now. PLEASE.'"

Paltrow still has a sense of humor, a rare commodity in the failed ratings business. What keeps him sane is the conviction that he's making the best show he can, and "St. Elsewhere" certainly is the and Edward Hopper. The human body is seen as large, rawboned.

A prominent American artist in the 1930s and '40s, Cadmus is best known for his works of social satire. He received national attention in 1934 when he painted a bawdy scene of sailors on leave, called "The Fleet's In!" He again encountered criticism in 1938 with his "Sailors and Floosies."

most realistic and involving show to ever own a stethoscope.

In fact, it may be too life-like; there may be too much death in "St. Elsewhere." Viewers evidently prefer the magical medicine and 60-minute cures in "Trapper John, M.D." and its ancestor programs.

"I loved 'Ben Casey' and 'Dr. Kildare,' but I get off on doing things that have a high level of reality," Paltrow says. "I wouldn't want to stay on the air if I had to make a show I didn't want to do."

"St. Elsewhere" also suffers because it's not "Hill Street Blues."

"If people expected 'Hill Street Blues' in a hospital, they were bound to be disappointed," says Paltrow. "The similarities are that we both have ensemble casts and multiple stories. But we're more like 'M-A-S-H' and 'Lou Grant.'"

"St. Elsewhere" isn't the first Paltrow show with humor, interesting characters and an urban setting. His "White Shadow" was never a big hit, either. "Maybe my lot in life is that I do good shows with low ratings."

If so, he'll go down challenging the audience.

Which Angel was Tanya?

By Kate Woods

Can you tell me if Tanya Roberts was in "Charlie's Angels" as Julie? I say she joined the show after Shelley Hack, but my mother disagrees. — J.B.

Tanya Roberts played Julie Rogers during the 1980-'81 season, replacing Miss Hack (as Tiffany Welles), who had replaced Kate Jackson (Sabrina Duncan) during the 1979-'80 season. Cheryl Ladd (Kris Munroe) had previously replaced Farrah Fawcett (Jill Munroe) playing her younger sister.

Tanya Roberts

"St. Elsewhere" is Mandel's first network series, and first serious role. On the personal side, he's married and lives with his wife in Sherman Oaks.

NOTE TO READERS: An item in a previous column stating that photos of Roy Rogers were available from Art Rush Inc., 10221 Riverside Drive, No. Hollywood, CA 91612 was incorrect. The company no longer sends out photos of Rogers.

Legal Notices

PUBLIC NOTICE OF INTENT TO CHANGE RATE

Notice is hereby given that DEAF SMITH ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE, INC. (the "Utility") intends to change the power cost adjustment applicable to Large Power loads over 200 KW effective March 23, 1983 or as soon as permitted by law. The change is applicable to all areas to which the Utility provides electric utility service. The Utility expects that the proposed schedule of rates will furnish the Utility .17 percent less in revenues than are furnished by the existing schedule of rates.
A Statement of Intent specifying in detail the proposed change is available for public inspection at the general office of the Utility located at Hereford, Texas.

LEGAL NOTICE
The Texas Corn Producers Board will hold its biennial election on May 2, 1983. The terms of three present Board members will expire at that time. Any person within the following counties who is engaged in the business of producing, or causing to be produced, corn for commercial purposes, is eligible to vote, including owners of farms and their tenants and share croppers, if such person is required to pay the assessment that is collected on corn within the following counties.
The counties involved are Bailey, Castro, Deaf Smith, Hale, Lamb, Parmer & Swisher.
Any person qualifying to vote in the election may place his name in nomination for membership on the Texas Corn Producers Board by application to the above organization, signed by himself and at least ten other persons eligible to vote in the election. Such applications must be filed by mail ballot, which will be provided to all eligible voters not later than 15 days prior to the election. Ballots must be mailed to the polling place at 112A West Bedford, Dimmitt, Texas 79027, before midnight on the date of the election.
Any person qualified to vote who does not receive a ballot prior to April 11, 1983, may obtain one at his local County Extension Agent's Office. S-168-3c

PETITES...MISSES...TO

DAKRON

OUR STORY: THE SECOND DAY'S COMPETITION BEGINS AT NOON. IN THE MORNING KAREN THROWS SQUADME WITH ALP ARSLAN. THEY SAVOR THE SWEET OF HOT CIGARETTES AND OF A HIRSD GUIDES. LIES. "THIS IS THE POOL IN WHICH MARGARET'S APPROVED" HE EXPLAINS AS KAREN ROOMS WITH RATHER TOO MUCH LAUGHTER. WHEN ALP STEADIES HER...

SHE STEALTHILY SLIPS THE LADY'S KNIFE FROM ITS SHEATH, CASTING IT BEHIND. "THAT WILL COST HIM," SHE THINKS.

ONLY AS THE KNIFE-THROWING EVENT APPROACHES DOES ALP NOTICE THE LOSS. HIS PARTNER PRINCE VALIANT HAS EARNED HIGH POINTS. BUT FORGOTTEN TO BORROW AN UNFAMILIAR BLADE. ALP SEIZES UPON A HAIR'S BREADTH OF CHANCE. HE AND VAL SLIP INTO SECOND PLACE.

THEY RECOUP WITH SMOORPLAY. THE MASKED OLD MAN IS AGILE BUT HIS ARMS ARE WEAK. VAL TRUMPHS. BUT THE MASKED YOUNGESTER FIGHTS LONG AND HARD, RETIRING ONLY WITH A BLADE AT HIS THROAT. BY NIGHTFALL, VAL AND ALP ALONG WITH THE STRANGERS, ARE FAR IN THE LEAD.

YET ALP IS STILL TROUBLED ABOUT THE MISSING KNIFE. "KAREN? ARE YOU THERE?" HE CALLS INTO THE DARKENED ROOM AT THE INN.

BUT IT IS VALETA WHO SITS BY THE FIRE AS ALP SPLITS OUT HIS TALE. "VALETA TOOK YOUR KNIFE IN SOURCE. SHE SAID, 'PRETENDING TO BE KAREN, SHE IS VERY SILENT AND EAGER.' AS ALP REPORTS TO POKER, THIS NEWS VALETA SITS BY THE FIRE, ENJOYING WHAT 'FELICIOUS' HAS MADE HER DO. (1983) King Features Syndicate, Inc. World rights reserved. N.E. WIKI: Turning the Tables 3-6

Differences: 1. Cloud is smaller. 2. Street line is missing. 3. Letter is different. 4. Fence is shorter. 5. Puddle is smaller. 6. Arm is moved.

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with these below.

● GROWING PAINS! A gardener, poring over a new seed catalog noticed one letter wrong in the name of each of these vegetables: 1. Peas. 2. Parsnips. 3. Cord. 4. Jaans. 5. Hams. 6. Squasim. How quickly can you correct the mistakes?

Answers: 1. Peas. 2. Parsnips. 3. Cord. 4. Jaans. 5. Hams. 6. Squasim.

● Crazy Fingers! Hold a book in front of a mirror. Try to walk your fingers from one corner to an opposite corner while viewing the book in the mirror.

● Sum Split! Split 40 into two parts so that the smaller part plus half the larger will equal 1/6th the larger plus twice the smaller. What parts?

● Duck Soup! At what hour do ducks rise? At the quack of dawn. What do you call a barrelful of ducks? A quackerbarrel.

Challenge: Place a dry water glass upside down on the table. Now, as shown above, grasp the glass with thumb and forefinger, and try to pick it up. Secret: Prepare for this stunt by rubbing your fingers dry thoroughly on a handkerchief or napkin. Then, squeeze the glass as you attempt to lift it.

If your fingers are not completely dry, they will slip, as others attempting the trick unknowingly soon will discover.
