Shepperd Says He Is Not Candidate

AUSTIN (AP)—Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd said today he is not a candidate for re-election or for other office.

Shepperd's statement was in a letter to Gladewater newspaper publisher Harry Kates.

It apparently kills speculation that he might run for the U.S. Senate if a vacancy occurred.

"Because of the heavy work load of pending cases at this time, especially in the U.S. Supreme Court, I could not possibly find time to conduct a campaign for another office, and it would not be fair to resign and leave this tremendous burden of cases in someone else's lap," Shepperd wrote.

Shepperd, 39, has been attorney general since Jan. 1, 1953. He first came to state office as secretary of state by appointment from Gov. Shivers in early 1952.

"The program I have started can be finished by the end of my current term. This I had to be sure of, before making any announcement," he wrote Kates.

"I am not, therefore, a candidate for office."

Shepperd said he has been strongly urged to become a candidate for governor, "just as I was two years ago." He said his reason for not seeking that office at that time was the same reason as now—"because I had started a program as attorney general which I felt obligated to finish."

Shepperd told of the work of his office in trying to establish what he called clean government in Duval County, claiming that the "constitutional process has been restored to the people" of that county.

He said the end of the veterans land clean-up is in sight. He said "All of the irregular and fraudulent (insurance) companies will be put out of business within the next few months." He said he feels he has had considerable success in coordinating Texas law enforcement bodies, and he has "had the satisfaction of fighting Communism face to face and ejecting it bodily from the State of Texas."

Gun Duel Flares Again On Gaza Strip Frontier

Shelling Kills 59 Civilians

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—An Egyptian military spokesman said today 59 civilians were killed in the Israeli shelling of the Gaza Strip yesterday. He charged the Israelis with "a premeditated attack on the civilian population."

In disclosing new casualty figures the spokesman said one Egyptian soldier was killed in the latest outbreak of firing in the Gaza area today but that the sector was quiet now.

The spokesman made these statements of the action yesterday:

Israeli artillery hit English and Egyptian hospitals in Gaza. Shells dropped in the Gaza marketplace on a busy shopping day while military positions were virtually ignored.

In addition to the 59 civilians four Egyptian soldiers were killed. Of the civilin dead, 27 were women, 28 men and 4 children.

There were 93 wounded civilians including 32 women, 53 men and 8 children.

Ike, Dulles Meet Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles conferred 30 minutes today and the White House said it would be "fair to assume" they discussed the latest outbreak of fighting on the Palestine border.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, put it that way in talking to newsmen but declined to say whether the President and Dulles are "gravely concerned" about the shooting along the Gaza Strip.

In response to a question, Hagerty said "it would be fair to assume" that the conference dealth generally with the tense situation in the Mideast.

Eisenhower and Dulles conferred in advance of the regular Friday meeting of the President's Cabinet. Hagerty said that so far as he knew the Middle East situation was not discussed at the Cabinet session.

Law Change Suggested

AUSTIN (AP)—A change of laws to allow the wife to control and manage her own property was put forth yesterday by representatives from the League of Women Voters and several State Federated Women's Clubs.

The views were brought out before the study committee of the Legislative Council on legal status of women.

The women also said they would like to see the elimination of separate acknowledgement in legal transactions. Under present law a wife is required to have her husband's written authority.

Community property laws as they stand today were given the okay by the women. Another meeting of the group is scheduled May 21.

No Survivors Found In Plane Wreckage

TOKYO (AP)—The U. S. Air Force reported tonight parachutists dropped on a Shikoku Island mountain peak had "positively identified" a missing American Flying Box Car and found no survivors.

Five Americans were aboard the C119 four-engine plane when it disappeared last Tuesday on a flight from an air base near Tokyo to south Japan.

The Air Force has not identified those aboard the plane.

Gas Well Burns Out After Giant Blowup

HOUSTON (AP)—A gas well blew out "like a baby tornado" off Highway 90 near Oats Road today.

A geyser of gas, dirt and distillate sprayed the area.

Highway patrolmen rerouted traffic from U.S. 90.

The well blew itself out within an hour.

Cease-Fire Appeal Made

JERUSALEM (AP) — An artillery duel flared between Israeli and Egyptian forces on the Gaza Strip frontier today. The U. N. cease-fire appeal apparently halted the shooting.

The situation was considered serious enough to cause U. N. truce chief Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns to postpone his departure for Rome, where he is to meet U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold tomorrow. Hammarskjold had summoned Burns to a conference in Rome as a preliminary to his mission seeking a solution to the Middle East crisis.

Burns issued an urgent appeal for a cease-fire when the Gaza front blazed into action yesterday.

Today's new artillery exchange was reported from the Kissufim sector, where the Egyptians claimed Israeli troops killed 59 civilians and wounded 93 others yesterday. Israeli losses were put at four soldiers and two civilians wounded.

Both Egypt and Israel blamed the other for the new outbreak. The Israelis sent a message to the chairman of the Mixed Armistice Commission saying they had issued cease-fire orders "in compliance with your personal request."

"If Egypt again breaks the cease-fire arrangement, the fire will be returned," the message added.

At midmorning, a U .N. spokesman said "we know there was some exchange of fire at the northern part of the Gaza border this morning, but it is now quiet again."

A report from Cairo said official sources there were unable to confirm the firing had been halted, but reliable reports from Gaza said the exchange was not serious and there were no casualties.

"We cannot understand why the Israelis want to shell the Gaza Strip," an Egyptian official was quoted. "It is not a strongly fortified area. There is almost nothing there except 200,000 refugees."

He said today's firing "appears to have been a local operation involving no crossing of frontiers, but the facts still are not completely known."

Burns had set last midnight as the deadline for compliance with his cease-fire request.

But an Israeli spokesman said this morning an Egyptian position in the Gaza Strip opened up with heavy machinegun fire at an Israeli unit and that the fire was returned.

Drought Tour Is Completed

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A government official said today South Texas drought conditions were worse than Washington had pictured.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Kenneth Scott said so after an all-day tour of parts of 12 counties.

"We get reports all the time and I thought we were pretty well informed on the situation here. But it is worse than we thought," Scott said.

"We will make a thorough reappraisal to see how we can meet this situation.

"Secretary Benson expects us to make full use of our authority. But we have to have policies that make sense to taxpayers and are generally applicable. We have to do as much in one state as in another for the same kind of disaster.

"We are going to take a good, careful look at this one here."

The tour was preliminary to the meeting here today at which representatives from drouth-stricken counties told of conditions in their localities.

Dusty Cold Front Moves Into State

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A dry, dusty cold front rolled across the northwest quarter of Texas Friday, dropping temperatures about 15 degress. Gusty winds of 30 to 40 miles per hour were expected to propel the front into the Gulf of Mexico by day break Saturday.

The new dust storm, much milder than the one Monday, followed violent weather that Thursday brewed tornadoes in Central Texas and brought heavy rain and hail storms to a number of points.

The worst tornado was at Bryan where a major twister roared through the southern section of the city, destroying or damaging 200 homes and half a dozen business houses but injuring no one.

A smaller tornado damaged a farm house roof near Taylor while tornado-like winds damaged roofs near Hare in the same area.

Up to three inches of rain fell at Eastland. A light hail damaged roofs and fruit trees. Three inches of rain was reported at Gorman. Rising Star had 2 inches in about 40 minutes.

Violent thunderstorms knocked radio stations at Killeen and Big Spring off the air Thursday.

Three quarters of an inch of rain, the first appreciable amount since November, fell at Big Spring.

Rains up to 1.76 inches were reported around San Angelo, while in the city an official .66 was recorded. Rains and hail were reported in the Ballinger and Coleman areas.

Rains were also reported at Midland, Tyler, Dallas, Denton, Fort Worth, Longview, Abilene, Colorado City, Meridian, McGregor, Hearne, Ennis, Marlin, Cameron, Gatesville, College Station, Lufkin, Snyder, Mineral Wells, Stephenville, Victoria, Wichita Falls, Junction, Hillsboro, Belton, Clifton and Rusk.

Hail fell at many of these points. Colorado City reported .76 inches. Overnight showers were reported at Lufkin, Houston, and Sherman.

WHERE SIX DIED—Firemen continue to battle against a multiple-alarm Bronx factory fire in New York after the collapse of a wall which killed six firemen and injured 13 others. Fire Commissioner Edward Cavanagh, Jr., was struck by a falling brick and Acting Chief Antonio Petonelli, standing with Cavanagh, received a broken leg.

Jury Here Brings In 13 Indictments

Thirteen bills of indictment were returned by the Scurry County grand jury yesterday afternoon when the panel completed its work after four days in session.

Three of those indicted were not yet located at last report, and their names are not given because the sheriff's department had not had a chance to reach them.

Indictments included those against Milton Merr Leinneweber for forgery and passing and on two counts of felony swindling by worthless check; Gerald Roberts, James Edward Wilson, and Willie Mae Wilson for forgery; S. M. Hicks for misdemeanor swindling by worthless check; Wanda Sue Hall, Johnny J. Self, and Billy Joe Wade for possessing a forged instrument with intent to pass.

Some of these are in jail here, while others are being held in other jails. Roberts, Wilson, and Willie Mae Wilson are reportedly in a New Mexico penitentiary, while Leinneweber is in jail at Ballinger, District Attorney Renal B. Rosson said.

A fourth girl who accompanied Roberts and the Wilsons in Snyder at the time of the alleged offenses was not indicted because she was a minor.

Some cases were passed for further consideration later. Arnold Board, who was charged with murder in the Feb. 21 death of his father-in-law, Robert Turner, was no-billed.

Members of the grand jury were Perry Echols, Hubert Robison, M. R. Estes, Billie Lee, Leo H. Beaver, Dean Cochran, Fred Trice, Arthur Townsend, Tom DeShazo, Ross Carroll, Giles Bowers, and W. J. Pitts.

A district court jury panel is to report at 9 a.m. Monday. Rosson said he has scheduled for trial next week the cases of Richard Crawford and Lonnie T. Crawford for theft from an automobile in 1952. Richard Crawford broke jail here last August, and he and his brother, Lonnie, were arrested recently and returned here. Lonnie Crawford also has a jailbreaking reputation.

Members of the panel called for Monday are F. M. Whitmire, H. O. Gill, J. L. Green, R. H. Parker C. V. McClatchy, James A. McColeb, E. L. Allen, A. J. Armstead, Bernard Bishop, Billy Joe Clifton, J. N. Glass, Albert J. Kuss, Jr., Frank Roemisch, E. J. Ball, Roy B. Campbell, Douglas G. Ballard Norma Sue Chapman, John R. Covey, E. N. Cummings, Mrs. Nona Key, W. M. Howard, L. T. Hill, James Hickman Hall, P. L. Price, Jack Norris, Ted Parks, Norman H. Phillips, Z. Z. Bowen, Mrs. Dillard Herrley, C. Ray Helms, Mrs. Johnnie Herod, Buster Lowery H. D. Holmes, Floyd Jones, M. E. Lee, Raymond Lloyd Walton McMillan, H. L. Browning, Bert Sellars, James L. Smith, E. A. Denning, I. A. Sapp, Paul Sawyer, Worth Saynor, and Sam Spikes.

Schools Fall Behind Badly, Committee Tells Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Committee for the White House conference on education told President Eisenhower today "the schools have fallen far behind both the aspirations of the American people and their capabilities."

Nevertheless, the committee said in its final report: "There is far more to be proud of in today's schools than there is to criticize. Their weaknesses usually stem from a lack of means rather than any defect in their goal."

Calling for action to arouse and maintain public interest, the report said schools "now affect the welfare of the United States more than ever before" and "have become the chief instrument for keeping this nation the fabled land of opportunity it started out to be."

The 50,000-word document contained only one surprise—A unanimous committee view that racial desegregation "must be worked out by each community . . . within the intent of the relevant Supreme Court decisions."

The segregation issue received only scant attention in reports issued during last winter's conference. It was not mentioned in summaries of preliminary state conferences, which formed part of today's report.

On another key issue—federal aid to schools—the committee split three ways, with a majority favoring emergency building grants.

Twenty-eight members of the 34-member committee, headed by Neil H. McElroy, president of the Procter & Gamble Co., held that:

"Federal aid for school construction should be made available on a limited basis to all states and territories and the District of Columbia to help overcome the present school building emergency under the philosophy of encouraging greater use of state and local funds."

A minority report signed by four members contended federal assistance should be through loans, not grants. Another, signed by two members, held that it should not be limited to building aid nor to emergency aid.

The majority reported it was making no recommendation regarding federal aid for school operation. It noted "great division of opinion on this subject" at the White House and state conferences.

Benson Takes Pot Shot At Price Props

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson stuck to his guns last night, taking pot shots at high, rigid farm price supports and calling for flexible supports and a soil bank program.

Then he flew to Washington, in an unplanned move, as House-Senate conferees announced that the election-year farm bill would probably be out of the committee today and ready for House debate Monday.

Benson had come to Salt Lake City to attend the annual conference of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church. He is a member of the church's Council of Twelve Apostles.

It's the first time he has missed the church conference since he became a member of the Cabinet in 1953. But he said he had to do it "in response to an official call to duty."

He left shortly after giving an address on farm policy, sponsored by farm group organization in Utah and Idaho.

In his talk he attacked "some political opportunists (who) have capitalized on the popularity of the soil bank (and) propose to tie to its coat tails a variety of unsound measures which, in calmer times, would never be enacted."

Some of these measures, he said, were mandatory 90 per cent of the parity supports, dual parity for wheat, corn, cotton and peanuts, multiple price plan for wheat, mandatory price support for feed grains and a boost in price supports for dairy products.

He strongly urged Congress to enact a flexible price support program along with the soil bank plan.

Flexible supports, he said, have been endorsed in the past by both Republicans and Democrats and "every secretary of agriculture for 20 years."

He said that in 1948, President Truman and the National Farmers Union both favored the "principles" of flexible supports and "modernized" parity.

"If President Truman and the Farmers Union thought that way in 1948," he said, "Why don't the feel that way today?

Jet Airplane Is Revealed

DALLAS (AP)—A new jet trainer, designed and produced in four months, was demonstrated to company stockholders yesterday as Temco Aircraft Corp. launched its bid for a larger share of military contracts.

Test pilot Martin Collis said he was delighted with the Model 51 jet. The plane is to be given more tests before it is shown to the armed forces.

It is a two-place, tandem mid-wing, all-metal monoplane with retractable tricycle landing gear. The plane is powered by a continental turbo-jet engine supplying 920 pounds of static thrust at sea level.

The wing span is 29.83 feet. The company claims it has low stall speed, supersonic dive speeds and top level flight speeds of 300 miles per hour at 15,000 feet.

White People Win Detroit Victory

DETROIT (AP)—The white people on Robson street won a battle against John W. Rouse, 70, and his family — a wife, a daughter and two small grandchildren.

Rouse agreed last night after a near race riot to sell his home and leave the pleasant, normally quiet, street in northwest Detroit and move elsewhere.

The rumor in the all-white neighborhood which set off the racial demonstration was that Rouse was a Negro.

Rouse, a retired private policeman, said the rumors were false. "We are not Negroes," he said."

Settlement was announced after a meeting between Rouse and members of the neighborhood association, known as the Belmont Subdivision Association.

Detective Sgt. Thomas Jickerson and Detective Ed Boggs of the Special Investigation Bureau, which handles all racial matters, said they had attempted to trace the rumor which set off the demonstration.

"As near as we can determine," said Boggs, "it started with the movers. One of the workmen moving furniture into the house told a boy, 'you ought to tell your folks there is a Negro moving in.' It apparently started from there."

The mob of some 500 people which assembled before the Rouse house Wednesday night hurled bricks through two windows. Police dispersed the crowd and posted a guard around the modest brick home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rouse and their daughter, Mrs. Merle Evelyn Hickman, who is separated from her husband, were buying the house jointly. The original price was $16,500. Rouse has two months in which to move.

Rouse said he was part Cherokee Indian and that his wife was of Scotch Irish and French-Canadian ancestry. They moved into the neighborhood from a white-Negro neighborhood some distance away.

Big Barbecue Planned For Senator Aiken

PARIS (AP)—A big Texas style barbecue tonight will provide the setting for Sen. A. M. Aikin's formal announcement that he wants to be Texas' next lieutenant governor.

The dinner climaxes a week of events planned by Aikin's home town to give him a good sendoff.

Motorcades fanned out all of this week to neighboring communities inviting them to come hear Aikin make his bid.

Some 4,000 are expected at the barbecue and political rally.

Aikin, who accompanied the caravans making short talks at all towns, will speak at the barbecue.

Other speakers will include Grover Sellers of Sulphur Springs, former attorney general; Claude Gilmer of Rockspring, former speaker of the Texas House; and Henry Stilwell, president of Texarkana Junior College.

A veteran campaigner, Aikin was elected to the Legislature. After two terms in the House, he was elected to the state Senate in 1936. He has been reelected regularly since.

He is co-sponsor of the Gilmer-Aikin school bills and has been chairman of the Senate Education Committee for several years.

Two other candidates are in the race for lieutenant governor. They are Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey of St. Augustine, seeking his fourth term; and C. T. Johnson of Austin, who was defeated by Ramsey in 1954.

Mahon Says Grain Plan Is Improved

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. George Mahon said here today that the grain sorghum amendment tentatively adopted in a new farm bill "has a number of drawbacks," although it seems to be an improvement over the present program.

Mahon said he was "very anxious" to have the reaction of farmers and farm groups to the amendment before the farm bill comes to the house floor for an expected vote early next week.

Mahon was allowed to sit in on the conference at which the amendment was adopted through the special courtesy of Sen. Allen J. Ellender, chairman of the conference, and Rep. Bob Poage, one of the conferees.

He outlined the provisions of the amendment briefly as follows: Milo and other feed grains will be supported in 1956 and thereafter at 85 per cent of parity provided farmers reduce their basic feed grain acreage by putting 15 per cent of their feed grain land in a soil bank. Basic acreage would be the average planted to feed grain during the last three years.

Feed grain producers not desiring to make reduction could plant unlimited feed grain acreage and receive 70 per cent of parity support as previously announced by the Secretary of Agriculture in 1956, but in 1957 unlimited feed grain planting would throw farmers out of compliance for soil bank payments.

"Those are basic points of the proposal," Mahon said. "In actual practice I don't know how this plan will work out, or how satisfactory it will be. It seems to be an improvement over last year's program, and I would like to have reactions of West Texas farmers and farm groups before the house votes on the farm bill next week."

Water Development

POINT COMFORT (AP) — About 1,000 members of the Texas Mid-Coast Water Development Assn. are expected here for the organization's annual meeting.

I Announced . . .

. . . for a place on the School Board after requested to do so by friends and after much consideration as to my qualifications and time to give the office.

We have one of the best school systems in the south, I believe we should have at all times the best interest of our children in mind, with adequate facilities in each area for children there. I would attempt to assist in getting value received for all money spent and if at all possible to pay as we go and not become to heavily obligated for the future. I believe the school business should be passed around to as many patrons and taxpayers as possible.

If I am elected as trustee I will make it my business to know what is going on and always act as I see it, to the best interest of all concerned.

Sen. Johnson Calls For End To Dispute By Texas Demos

JOHNSON CITY (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson called on Texas Democrats yesterday to quit squabbling and send a united delegation—which he might be willing to head—to the national convention at Chicago.

The senator made a fervent plea for party unity, brushing off questions about the feud between Texas Democrats and asserting he would not even admit there are two factions.

He said he will tell Texans Tuesday night what he will do about Speaker Sam Rayburn's proposal that he lead the Texas delegation to Chicago and also go as a favorite-son candidate for the presidential nomination.

Johnson told reporters at his Pedernales River ranch that he has no quarrel with Gov. Shivers, but he made some comments about party loyalty that might be taken as aimed at Shivers.

Shivers bolted the party in 1952 to back Dwight Eisenhower. He hasn't said yet whether he would support the Democratic nominee this year. On that general subject, Johnson said:

"The Republicans have disappointed our farmers and ranchers, our oil and gas producers, our business men and our working men. The time will not soon come again when Texas will want to be led into their party."

Johnson said Texas people are "tired of factionalism."

"They want reasonable men to take a united delegation to the convention, speak the voice of the great majority of Texas, fight to nominate the best candidate, and come back and do everything we can to elect him in November."

Shivers has said only that he hopes the Democratic convention will name a candidate he can support and adopt a platform he can back. He has voiced unyielding opposition to Adlai Stevenson.

Nearly everything else Johnson had to say was apparently designed to bring long-battling Texas Democratic factions into accord. They haven't been since 1940.

Johnson asserted he has received "thousands" of letters indicating Texas Democrats want peace among themselves, and that the evidence that they can get together is "overwhelming."

Johnson has said he has no interest in leading a Texas Democratic faction to Chicago. He insists he would go only as the leader of all Democrats despite shades of difference in their political philosophies.

While Johnson was talking about unity, there was no other outward sign of a let-up in the long running battle between the liberals led by Rayburn and the conservatives led by Shivers for control of the May conventions. The May 22 state convention names Texas' 54-member delegation to Chicago.

Badly Mutilated Body Discovered

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The badly mutilated body of Jerry Sparks, 14, of Houston was found late yesterday near the railroad tracks east of Harwood in Gonzales County.

A youth taken into custody by juvenile officers said that he and Sparks had decided to run away from home and had boarded a freight train at Houston. He said Jerry "disappeared" during the trip.

The youth was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sparks.

Part Of U.S. Is Hit Hard By Showers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wet weather hit sections of the South and Rocky Mountain region today but it was fairly dry and mild in most other parts of the country.

A storm in the Lower Mississippi Valley brought moderate to heavy falls of rain over most of the Gulf Coast states and as far northward as Arkansas and Tennessee. Heaviest amounts, measuring more than 2 inches, were in Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi.

A tornado struck Bryan, a city of 20,000 in central Texas, yesterday, causing extensive property damage but no deaths or injuries.

A radio warning 15 minutes before the twister struck alerted residents and possibly prevented injuries to hundreds. Other twisters struck near Taylor and Hare, Tex., about 65 miles west of Bryan, causing minor damage.

A spring snow storm struck areas in the central Rockies. Showers and snow flurries were reported from the northern Rockies eastward across the Northern Plains to the Upper Great Lakes.

Skies were clear over most areas west of the Rockies and it was generally fair from the Southern Plains northeastward to New England. Mild weather prevailed over the eastern half of the nation yesterday.

It was a little chilly in the northwestern part of the country today. Temperatures were from 15 to 20 degrees lower than 24 hours earlier, dropping to below freezing in many areas. Readings also were a little lower in the Gulf Coast

Homing Pigeon Goes On Three-Mile Walk

VISTA, Calif. (AP) — A homing pigeon that couldn't fly walked home, says a boy who had traded him off.

Rickie Hill, 13, traded the bird to Dale Auvil, 13, for a parakeet, a week ago.

Dale clipped the bird's wing, to keep him around until he adjusted.

He arrived back at Rickie's three days later, footsore and bedraggled from the three-mile hike.

HELP FOR THE BLIND

Dog Starts To Pay Back Debt

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Spats, a Labrador retriever, started today to repay a four-year-old debt.

Back in June 1952, Spats was a hungry, whimpering puppy, abandoned by his mother in a pasture near Pittsburgh. Today he's the proud pilot dog for his blind mistress the same woman who had 20-20 vision when she found the stranded pup.

Today Mrs. Christine McMaster of Pittsburgh, and Spats strolled through downtown Columbus as part of their "graduation" from Pilot Dogs, Inc.

A pretty brunette, Mrs. McMaster said:

"You don't know how much it means just to be able to walk around the block."

Mrs. McMaster told the following tale of her dog:

Four years ago she was in the unlikely profession of dog-trimmer, with French poodles a specialty. She liked to swim, play golf and ride horseback. One day her horse became ill, and she turned him out to pasture.

While doctoring the horse she heard a whimper. She had heard of a stray, half-wild mother dog which had fled with a litter of pups after an encounter with a piece of machinery.

"I couldn't find the noise, and sat down under an apple tree to rest", she said. "Then I saw a little ball of black fur peeking at me around the tree trunk. His mother had abandoned him, I guess."

It was Spats, and she took him home.

Two months after she found Spats her eyes began to fail because of a diabetic condition. Spats was still growing when the dim-out became total. Her last moments of sight came five days after her marriage to Joseph McMaster.

"When I realized my sight would never return, I began to think of getting a guide dog," Mrs. McMaster said. "They told me they'd never trained a Labrador Retriever, which was what Spats turned out to be."

But the Columbus guide-dog school decided to give it a try and five months ago Spats came here to start training. Mrs. McMaster came a month ago, and together they began the intricate business of traveling together.

Today they graduated.

INSPIRATION OF THE BIBLE

THE BIBLE IS INSPIRED OF GOD (2 Tim. 3:16, 17). If this claim is untrue, the Bible cannot make one wise unto salvation (2 Tim. 3:15). If the Bible is not inspired of God, man is left in sin without a ray of light to guide him home to Heaven. Since the Bible is inspired, man's faith can be strong in it.

THE HOLY SPIRIT INSPIRED MEN TO KNOW GOD'S WILL (1 Cor. 2:9-13). God's power and godhead (divinity) are revealed to man in nature—creation (Rom. 1:20); His will is revealed to man in the Bible by inspiration (1 Cor. 2:9-13). Of course, there is no inspiration in paper, ink, type, or translation. The Holy Spirit illuminated the mind of man with His thoughts and enabled man to express those thoughts in words. The Bible is thus the product of inspiration; it is the final authority (2 Tim. 3:16,17). The Bible presents three epochs of divine revelation, sometimes called "dispensations."

THE FIRST EPOCH IS CALLED, "PRIMITIVE REVELATION" or patriarchal dispensation. In this period, God revealed Himself to Adam in the garden of Eden as Creator of all things; later He revealed Himself as Lord God-Ruler of all things. To Noah, God revealed Himself as One who punishes wickedness; to Abraham, God revealed Himself as God Almighty; to Isaac, God revealed Himself as One who keeps His promises; to Jacob, God is revealed as One who protects; and, to Joseph, God is revealed as One who is interested in human affairs.

THE SECOND EPOCH IS THE "COVENANT REVELATION" OF GOD TO ISRAEL, or Jewish dispensation. The Holy Spirit spoke through Moses to Israel, giving them God's laws, the constitution of which is the Ten Commandments. This covenant included Israel's land inheritance in Palestine as promised to Abraham. During this period, nearly all of the prophecies were given and recorded as we have them in the Old Testament.

THE THIRD EPOCH IS "GOD REVEALED IN CHRIST", or the Christian dispensation (Heb. 1: 1, 2; 2 Cor. 5:19). In Christ, God is revealed as Father. The love, mercy, justice, and wisdom of God are revealed through Christ. Every message that came through an angel, prophet, or Christ was later written by inspiration. Hence, a permanent and complete record of God's revelation "to" man and "for" man was made "through" man; this permanent record for future generations is called, the Bible. It is inspired of God (2 Tim. 3:16, 17).

Name A Committee

We Americans have a famous way of passing the buck and burying vexatious problems under a pile of statistics, surmises and conclusions: name a committee. More good movements, ambitions, dreams and aspirations have been committee-ed to death than have been translated into action.

Nevertheless, it's a familiar and convienient "solution," and so it is that President Eisenhower has approached the problem of providing the nation with more scientists by naming a committee.

Unfortunately the AP dispatch from Washington telling of this action did not say what the committee's title will be, merely that Dr. Howard L. Bevis, president of Ohio State University, will be its chairman, and Dr. Eric A. Walker, dean of Pennsylvania State University's College of Engineering Architecture, its vice chairman.

The problem handed this 19-man committee is this: Russia has 890,000 engineers and scientists, each at the beck and call of the Soviet government, and each probably heavily subsidized; the United States has only 760,000, of whom a relative few work for the government because private industry pays them better wages and provides better retirement benefits.

Last year Russia's education mill ground out 104,000 new engineers and scientists; we produced only 54,000. That means the gap is widening, and we could lose the next war in our universities and special schools.

The problem goes pretty deep. Scientists in this country have been poorly paid in government jobs, after long and costly courses in universities and technical schools. Industry stands waiting to thrust contracts at good pay into their hands, and very few of them deliberately immolate themselves on the altar of government service.

The problem goes as deep as prep school, and its solution involves a revolution in American education. We should have been working on it in 1945 when the first A-bomb went off. Now at long last we are tackling it—by naming a committee.

Results In Wisconsin

As of this writing the results of the presidential primaries in Wisconsin Tuesay stood: For the GOP candidate, Dwight D. Eisenhower, 55 percent; for his GOP opponent, Charles Chapple, 3 percent; for the Democratic candidate, Estes Kefauver, 42 per cent.

All of the more than 3,300 precincts had not reported when these percentages were run, but 3,100 of them had, so the final percentages won't vary much from those quoted on incomplete returns.

That is not an impressive showing for Mr. Eisenhower in a state where in 1952 he received 979,744 votes to Adlai Stevenson's 622,175.

It was a leg up for the folksy Estes Kefauver, unopposed on the Democratic ticket in that state, but less a compliment to him than a manifestation of the farm sentiment in a farming state against the Republican farm policies.

It confronts the Republican campaign managers with a sticky question: is the popularity of the President sufficient to overcome the way people in the farm belt fail to enthuse over the GOP farm policies?

In 1952 Kefauver received 207,000 votes in the Wisconsin primary. With something over 200 precincts missing from this week's returns, his vote stood at 315,602 to Eisenhower's 417,954. The other GOP aspirant, described as a man who is chronically running for something had 20,000 votes.

Of course, there may be several more or less valid alibis for this relatively poor showing of the Eisenhower forces in a key farm state, and no doubt many of them will be trotted out. But the hard-headed politicians who manage Mr. Eisenhower's campaign, even while indulging in these comforting alibis publicily, nevertheless will be deeply concerned over it in their private councils.

The Wisconsin results, on top of those in Minnesota earlier, make it less likely than ever that Mr. Eisenhower will veto the farm bill, however, much he may be displeased with it.

Dulles Indirectly Give Some Credit To Foreign Policy Mapped By Truman

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Secretary of State Dulles, in talking about the Russians' switch to a softer line, sometimes sounds as if he had just been reading George Kennan, it is an oblique tribute to former President Truman.

Dulles seldom pays any direct tribute to Truman. He almost never mentions him. But he says the Russians have been forced to change their tactics by the U.S. policy of foreign aid and military alliances..

This policy was laid down by Truman. It is largely followed by the Eisenhower administration. This is flattering to Truman, as he acknowledged this week, and it might seem enough to make him content.

But it doesn't. What he prefers, he said, is for the Eisenhower administration to come up with some new program to meet changing conditions because the times call for it.

Kennan was the State Department's top expert on Russia and director of its policy planning staff when the cold war was starting in 1947. That was the year Truman began the foreign aid program which President Eisenhower continues.

Kennan has been credited with thinking up the idea which became U.S. policy. It's been called "containment." The idea was simple enough: stop Russian expansion by building a ring of military alliances around the Soviets. Eisenhower and Dulles have continued and increased the military alliances begun by Truman.

Writing in the magazine Foreign Affairs in 1947, Kennan stated the policy:

"The main element of any United States policy toward the Soviet Union must be that of a long-term, patient but firm and vigilant containment . . ."

Although in the 1952 presidential campaign Dulles criticized mere "containment" as futile, the day after election he reassured "our friends abroad who will fear lest our foreign policies change."

Dulles not only didn't change those policies, he pursued them.

Kennan, predicting in his 1947 magazine piece what containment would accomplish, said: ". . . The United States has it in its power to increase enormously the strains under which Soviet policy must operate, to force upon the Kremlin a far greater degree of moderation and circumspection. . ."

Last Feb. 26 Dulles said there had been a "notable" shift in Soviet foreign policy because the Russians "have been thwarted by the free world." He called the military alliances heavy pressure on the Soviets.

On Feb. 24 he said Russian policies of intolerance and violence "have gradually ceased to produce results. . . The free nations have banded together. . . The result is that they (the Russians) have got to revamp their whole creed from A to Z."

At times Dulles doesn't seem sure whether the Russians are revamping "their whole creed from A to Z" or whether they are just shifting their tactics because they think they can catch more flies with molasses than with Stalin's vinegar.

On April 3 Dulles said: ". . . Insofar as I am aware, the Soviets, while they have attempted to disavow much of Stalin's program and many of his acts, have not themselves come up with any substitute . . .

"The downgrading of Stalin does not of itself demonstrate that the Soviet regime has basically changed its foreign or domestic policies."

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

AT HOME IN INDIA by Cynthia Bowles (Harcourt, Brace)

Cynthia Bowles was 15, and had just started her sophomore year at Essex, Conn., when her father, Chester Bowles, was appointed U.S. ambassador to India in 1951. She left Essex unwillingly and she says in the preface to her book "anxious not so much for knowledge as for the happiness and security which I was reluctantly leaving behind me in Connecticut.

India was to her, as it probably is to most of us, a land of poverty, snakes and snake-charmers, holy men and maharajas, heat and grime.

What she found, was quite different. There was as she expected, poverty, disease, ignorance, and the die-hard tradition of caste, but her shock soon developed into compassion and hope as she discovered the spirit of New India working for a better future.

This is not a travel book in any conventional sense, for she did not seek the tourists India. It is a fascinating personal account of how she learned to understand and love India. She records candidly her impressions as a student in a New Delhi public school, and later at college as a nurse in a city childrens hospital and in a poor village community, and as a reverent visitor to Sevagram, Mahatma Gandhis village.

Her own summing up is sufficient reason for the book — even if it were not extremely entertaining and readable in its own right:

"A knowledge and awareness share the same dreams would do much to further sympathy and understanding in the world. From understanding will come frientdship. Our great hope is that from friendship will come peace."

Morman President Devoted To Church For 53 Years

SALT LAKE CITY, April 6 (AP)—One summer day in 1888, a 14-year-old boy dismounted from his horse on a farm near Huntsville, Utah. He knelt beside a creek and asked God for a revelation that would guide his spiritual thoughts.

"I waited 10 years for an answer," David Oman McKay, president of the Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) Church, recalls. "And when it came I knew I would devote the rest of my life to God.

"I received the answer when I was serving as a young missionary of the church in Scotland. During a spiritual meeting, I received a confirmation of my assurance of the divinity of the Gospel. And then a church official rose and said to me:

"'If you are faithful, you will yet stand in the leading councils of the church.'"

Fifty-three years later—on April 9, 1951—McKay became president of the Mormon Church. Today he is revered by the world's 1½ million Mormons not only as their leader but also as a "prophet, seer and revelator."

McKay looks the part of a religious leader. He is a rugged six-footer with silver hair and massive shoulders. At 82 he has an abundance of energy and enthusiasm.

In his position as church president, he also heads a vast business empire valued at more than 500 million dollars. The church has sizable property holdings and is a major stockholder in Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. and such church concerns as Zion's Cooperative Mercantile Institution Department Store, the Hotel Utah the Deseret News newspaper, Brigham Young University, several hospitals, three banks, an insurance company and a radio and television station.

In discussing the church's holdings, McKay emphasizes that "in my mind these material things come second.

"The greatest need in the world is spirituality," he says. "Men must turn their hearts from selfishness and they must be more willing to render service to others.

What Kind Of A Parent Are You? This Test May Help You Find The Answer

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What kind of a parent are you?

The following questions may help you to answer that. Drawn up by a recognized specialist in child psychology, they reflect current professional thinking on the knott subject of relationships between parents and children under 10. Answer yes or no.

1. Do you ever spank your child?

2. When junior brings home a bad report card, do you become upset?

3. Do you think you like (not love) your child?

4. Do you and your spouse argue over the management of the children?

5. Do you attempt to influence your child's decision on what he will do when he grows up?

6. Do you insist that your child take music, ballet or art lessons?

7. Do you regularly attend PTA meetings?

8. Do you interfere in your child's quarrels?

9. Do you always try to be "reasonable"?

10. Do you encourage tale-telling?

ANSWERS:

Few parents will be able to achieve honestly a perfect score in this quiz: it would, as a matter of fact, alarm the psychiatrist to meet a parent who did. Some parents will undoubtedly score under 50, which may be a signal, warning that you are overprotective, overconcerned, overambitious for your child. Take 10 for each correct answer and figure anything over 70 as dandy.

1 Yes. If you don't, you may be causing him a lot of trouble and agony at not being able to get something out of his system. Maybe a spanking is what he wants. Just be sure you're spanking him or something he—not somebody else including you—did.

2. No. If he gets bad grades because he can't do any better, you cause him pain and humiliation. If it isn't that, it's your job to find out what's bothering him.

3. Yes. Almost every parent loves his child. But life is very much easier and more comfortable if your child is a person you like—your kind of person. But don't be scared if he isn't.

4. No. It frightens a child, and it is an indication that the parents are more interested in proving a point of view than in the welfare of the child. The winner merely proves which parent is stronger.

5. No. The wise parent rides the many waves of a child's enthusiasms, encouraging, showing interest but never shoving.

6. No. Let him ask for these things himself — or offer them. Never impose them on him.

7. Yes. You may not enjoy the meetings, but it will show your child your interest in his school and his life away from home.

8. No. That is, not unless someone involved shows signs of being damaged severely. Generally, let the children work out their own problems—unless there is danger of losing teeth or more.

9. No. Nothing can be more depressing to a child than to be faced with a person who never raises his voice, who faces all a child's aggressive impulse with bland reserve. After all, it is better for him to learn that he's going to deal with human beings who react to situation. If you scream once in a while, he'll learn that he's entitled to a good healthy scream occasionally too.

10. No—not unless you want to turn your home into a combination FBI and secret intelligence system. Let everyone stand on his own feet, and never reward disloyalty or toadying.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Young Girl Tells Of Clearing Slum Section

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON —Adelaide Dinwoodie, a lithe young lady, came to the capital to tell a success story—how a thriving, city made an attractive, enduring neighborhood out of a slum area.

"Dinnie," as her friends call her, since 1951 has been with the Grosse Point Woods Community Club, one of the 21 agencies belonging to the Detroit - area Federation of Settlements, which conducted a city-wide survey on possible slum areas and got to work showing how preventive rehabilitation measures could save them before they got so bad the bulldozers had to move in.

Miss Dinwoodie, chairman of the Committee of Voluntary Organizers helping with the project, told the results to representatives attending a legislative seminar here of the National Federation of Settlements and Neighborhood Centers.

The project was carried out in Detroit under a federal housing law. The program, in which the government puts up two-thirds of the money to match the city's one-third is on a voluntary basis. It is started only if the people in an area wish to save it from being slum-condemned.

"People mostly want to preserve their homes and make a decent neighborhood for their kids to play in," Dinnie said, "and here's a brand new opportunity to save the good of the old and bring in the best of the new."

The Detroit project covered a square - mile area. In order to meet the requirement of citizens participation, some 12,000 people living in the community had to be organized. That's where Dinnie's group took over.

"Just as mothers volunteer to be Girl Scout leaders," she explained, "representatives from our settlement agencies agreed to be volunteer organizers, talking to people, sending out letters, arranging meetings, helping each of 38 blocks in the area organize a block club which sent representatives to a neighborhood council that became a citizen's voice. It's been a smashing success."

Community centers were planned, as well as tot-lots and recreation centers. Alley lighting was introduced. Traffic on certain streets were redirected to make them safe play areas for children. And, Miss Dinwoodie added, what was formerly a racial-tension area is now an area of little tension. "because each group found they had something in common."

CIUDAD BOLIVAR, Venezuela, April 6 (AP) — For the first time on record a man has climbed the jagged crags and precipices of the mysterious plateau the Indians call Devil Mountain to reach the source of the highest waterfalls in the world.

The man is Alejandro Laime, a 44-year-old Latvian by birth, a Venezulean and explorer by choice.

Laime told about his tortuous climb to the heights of Angel Falls in the Gran Sabana (Great Plain) of southeastern Venezuela as he was preparing for another trek into the wild country to look for some of the valuable minerals he thinks lies beneath the thin sandstone surface of the cliffs.

He not only conquered the peaks and crevasses but he was the first to reach the 18-year-old hulk of the airplane in which Jimmy Angel crash-landed in 1937. Angel, American aviator and explorer, was hunting the treasures he was convinced existed in this unchartered region.

Angel and his flying party of three landed about five miles from the brink of the great cascade. They managed to make their way down to civilization after several harrowing days. The 3,212-foot falls were later named for him.

Laime had tried to climb the heights of the falls before; this time he made it.

Weak, bearded, barefoot, and with legs bleeding, he returned last December in tattered clothing from the 30-day climb.

Laime said he and his companion, a Guayana Indian named Manuel, saw beautiful tropical birds, friendly animals who apparently had never seen a man before, strange rocks with molten streaks of ore which shine in a black light.

He believes there may be tungsten, manganese, maybe even uranium in the perilous buttes and gorges, as well as the known riches in gold and diamonds shown by the alluvial deposits of the adjacent rivers.

Anniversary Present Can Get To Be A Big Problem

By HAL BOYLE

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP)—Have you been putting off buying an island for one reason or another?

Like a lot of other people, I have.

But on a vacation visit to these "Isles of June" I decided to look into the matter.

There was a kind of urgency about it. Next year comes my 20th wedding anniversary, and I have been racking my brain over what kind of present to give my wife.

But what can you give a woman who already has a vacuum cleaner, an air-conditioning machine, a TV set and an electric dish washer? Obviously the only things left to give her are a kind word—or an island.

"If you buy me an island," said Frances "just be sure it has a big tree on it—so I can tie you to it and know where you are."

I went into the H. G. Christie Real Estate office here and a man named Ed Brownrigg filled me in on the situation—but fast.

Of the nearly 3,000 islands and rocky cays in the Bahamas he had some two score on the market at the moment. Unfortunately, my first choice, San Salvador—the first spot of land sighted by Christopher Columbus in 1492—wasn't for sale.

"There has been a greatly increased interest in island buying since the war, particularly among Americans," said Brownrigg. "What do you have in mind?"

"Oh, just something adequate—nothing ostentatious,' I told him.

"Well, there's Darby Island," he said. "About 400 acres, good house, a coconut grove, fine harbor facilities. A really splendid buy—only $200,000.

"How about Pigeon Cay or Vigilant Cay? They're about three acres each, and priced around $1 500.'

"Wonderful!" I murmered. "I could settle on an island like that and live off the fat of the land forever."

"Of course, you'd have to build a house first," said Brownrigg.

"I would?"

"And of course you'd have to have a yacht."

"What is the very cheapest island you have?" I asked desperately.

"Let me see, there's Cane Cay —it's a mere $1,800.'

"Well, well, how big is it?'

"It's about 200 by 300 feet. It isi't too remote. You can have television."

That gave me the out I was looking for.

"My whole purpose in wanting an island was to get away from it all," I said, with great dignity. "I'm afraid you don't have quite what I had in mind."

If I have to live on an island that can be reached by television —well, make mine Manhattan.

Scentific Church

Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology, a scientific research organization, undergoes an unusual change each Sunday morning — for two hours it becomes a church. The Trinity Episcopal Church, whose congregation was organized 18 months ago, could find no room to hold services. The Foundation offered the use of its administration building and since then three services have been held every Sunday.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—There's something wrong with the Sunday afternoon news roundups on NBC-TV and CBS-TV. They're just good enough that they hold out the hope of being much better. But they're just bad enough that they irritate the perfectionists.

The idea of a Sunday afternoon news program seems to be excellent. CBS entered the field first a few weeks ago with a half-hour program guided and edited by the able and urbane Eric Sevareid. Last Sunday NBC made its entry, a half-hour entitled Outlook moderated by Chet Huntley, whose manner and voice are equally impressive.

The NBC program has a slicker format than the CBS show. The technical quality of film shown last Sunday was superior to what generally has been appearing on the CBS program. Both programs appear to be aiming at doing two things: cover weekend spot news and offer some background features.

Both have run up against a fact that nearly everybody must recognize by this time: except for violence and sudden death big news usually is not made over a weekend. Yet, in straining to be timely, they tend to play up trivia when anything bigger is lacking.

The NBC program nearly dashed its brains out when it ran into the stone wall of no news on its debut last Sunday. Suffering perhaps from a Wide Wide World complex, somebody decided it would be a clever idea to have various reporters in various cities do regional roundups of their areas. Two stood on streets, one looked out a window, another perched on a wall and reported what they'd read on the Teletype. It was embarrassing for there simply wasn't any news.

A television news program should be flexible enough that it could skip a report from a reporter who has little more than the fact that Julius La Rosa was arrested in Wisconsin for driving 65 miles an hour in a 55-mile zone.

Both programs would command wider audiences if they confined themselves to two things: (1) front page news — when there is any, and (2), a form which has become known as the news feature — or study of a subject that is timely.

Woman Takes Over Big Job Of Promoting Large Circus

By DORQTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Lorella Val Mery figures she has the most stupendous, sensational, spectaculor, startling, superlative, supercolosal job on earth.

Right now she's busily looking up new adjectives to describe her terrific, tantalizing, tingling thrills at being appointed the world's first female advance "man" for the circus—pardon me — I mean that prodigious production, the greatest show on earth.

Although a circus press agent in petticoats is new to the big top, Lorella feels she is well qualified for the job, having employed essentially the same tactics in drumming up trade for many Broadway productions both in New York and on the road. Irish, blue-eye, pink-cheeked, dainty and fond of French hats and perfume, she is a somewhat startling departure from her cigar-smoking prototypes of yore. Val, as she is known, says she thinks she will make out all right, because:

"I'm crazy about the circus. I love the sound of it and the smell of it and the excitement of it and all the spangles and tights and elephants and tigers. It — it's simply, superlatively stupendous!"

Born in England and raised principally in New York, Val has been stagestruck ever since she gave up her teething ring. She has not yearned to act, mind you—just to be around those glamorous show people. So she chose theatrical press agentry for her career.

Junior High Play Gets Good Reception

The Junior High School production of "Mrs. McThing" which has been called a comedy for children of all ages met last night with an enthusiastic reception from the audience.

Before the performance the speech teacher and drama coach, Joe Craft, came on stage and welcomed the audience. He then introduced members of the back-stage crew and was presented with a gift.

'Mrs. McThing" is a play by Mary Chase, the well known author of "Harvey," and has to do with a 12-year-old boy's view of the world.

Party Given Here For Lowell Martin

Three pounds of hot dogs, 28 bottles of pop, plus a miscellaneous assortment of potato chips were consumed Thursday afternoon at the eighth birthday party or Lowell Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ray Martin's son, of 3726 Dalton Drive, had 13 friends from Snyder and six from Ira attending the "hot dog" party. Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Barnett accompanied the Ira children.

Mrs. George J. Webb assisted Mrs. Martin. Favors of comic magazines and horns were given the children.

Like your fried eggs with a film formed over the yolks? Then heat a little butter in a skillet and add the eggs. Keep the heat low and cover the skillet tightly; leave the heat on for a minute or so, then turn it off. Leave the cover on the skillet until the eggs are set and the film forms over the yolks about five minutes.

Easy Carpet Cleaning Discovery Hailed

What is said to be the easiest and "cleaningnest" home rug cleaner, known as Blue Lustre, is now available after years of research.

Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid resoiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out like magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing shuffleboard) and is safe for all types of carpets.

Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical to use as ½ gallon of concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

TEXAS TECH MAY OR may not have TCU on its side for gaining admission to the Southwest Conference.

In talking with TCU coach, Abe Martin, and assistant Allie White here the other night, we got the impression that the Cowtown school doesn't particularly want the Red Raiders in.

When queried on the matter, Martin said:

"Well, I don't have anything against Tech personally but I'm not jumping up and down over them joining the Southwest Conference."

"To me the conference is big enough and to take in any more it would make it more difficult to schedule big inter-sectional games such as Ohio State, etc," Abe continued.

"We like to take trips to the east and west coasts for the benefit of the boys but if the conference expands we may not be able to do this," Martin added.

"For my own sake I'd just as soon play all games at home but guess that's because I'm getting old. The kids, however, like to make a couple of long trips each year as it gives them a chance to see the other parts of the country."

Well, Abe never did come out and say whether or not TCU was going to cast an affirmative vote for Tech's admission when the conference holds its annual spring meeting next month but just reading between the lines, Tech officials better do some "politicking" on the TCU campus between now and the spring confab.

Tech Couldn't Play For Title Within 5 Years

Abe said it would be five years before Tech could play for the football championship, anyway, since the Raiders wouldn't be able to schedule all other SWC teams the same year until 1961.

The Raiders could, however, start playing for the basketball title by as early as next year. Football schedules at most SWC schools are drawn up several years in advance whereas the cage schedules are made up one year at a time.

Tiger footballer Jack Spikes, who has gone on record as saying he will attend TCU next fall, will perhaps be playing against Garland's "King of Kings," Bobby Boyd, once again.

Boyd, in all likelihood, will choose SMU for his college football days. TCU and SMU, of course, have long been heated rivals.

Spikes and Boyd, however, will be team mates for at least one game. They've both been chosen to play for the North team in this summer's schoolboy all-star football game at Lubbock.

Boyd is continuing to steal the show in Garland sports circles. Only Tuesday of this week he pitched a shutout for the Owl Baseball team, blanking Denton 2-0 on two hits.

5-A Meet Set Tomorrow

The District 5-A track and field meet will be held tomorrow at Tiger Stadium with Colorado City serving as the meet hosts.

Members of District 5-A are Colorado City, Stamford, Anson, Rotan and Hamlin.

Preliminary events will start at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow with the finals in the field events to commence at 1:30 and in the running events at 2:00.

Colorado City and Stamford are expected to battle it out for the title.

There will be no admission charge for the 5-A meet.

Bragan Impressed With 2 Aging Vets

HOUSTON, Texas (AP)— Manager Bobby Bragan is impressed with the way his two veteran pitchers. Max Surkont and Red Munger, have handled themselves in Pittsburgh Pirate exhibition games.

Munger, a 38-year-old righthander, is trying to make a comeback in the majors. He had a 23-8 record for Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League last year. Surkont, at 35, still can be counted on for two or three good innings in relief.

Heavyweight boxer Bob Baker was discovered by his trainer, Lou Leadbetter, in a Pittsburgh YMCA where he was working out as a weight lifter.

Bucky Walters, new pitching coach for the New York Giants, won 27 games for the Cincinnati Redlegs in 1939.

Snyder Track, Golf, Tennis, Volleyballers In 3AA Meet

Four Snyder High School athletic organizations are taking part in the District 3-AA meet that started today in Abilene.

The golf portion of the meet kicked off festivities today with track, tennis and girls volleyball to follow tomorrow.

Tennis and volley ball gets underway tomorrow morning with preliminaries in track and field due to start at 10 a.m.

Finals in the track meet will start at 1:30 in the field events and 2:00 in the running events.

The track meet will be held on the McMurry College cinder path.

Other members of District 3-AA are Abilene, San Angelo, Brownwood and Sweetwater.

San Angelo and Abilene are due to battle it out for the track title with Brownwood favored in golf, San Angelo in tennis and Sweetwater in girls volleyball.

Two individual winners loom in track and tennis for the Tigers. Powell Berry ranks among the best in the high hurdles while netter Ronnie Smith stands a good chance of emerging with the singles crown in the 3-AA tennis meet. Smith has won six of seven matches this season. Berry has reached the finals in the high hurdles in every meet the Tigers have participated in this year and won this event at the Canyon Reef Relays here.

Several records are in danger in the 3-AA track meet. One of the records is held by a Tiger, Reagan White, who turned in a 51.7 time in the 440-yard dash in 1954.

The Tigers will be represented by 13 tracksters in the 3-AA meet.

The Tiger track entries for tomorrow's district meet are:

100-yard dash — Bobby Pollard, Jack Spikes and Israel Hinojos.

THE SAINT

GRANDMA

LEADERS in the Fluvanna Methodist Church include the pastor, the Rev. John W. Hawkins, and a charter member, Mrs. J. G. Landrum. They are shown here at a table which holds a coin bank of a miniature church building, used by children for their donations to the church's building fund. (Lee Watson photograph)

THE FLUVANNA METHODIST Church is one of the oldest in the county, organized in 1894. The church is now making plans for a new building.

Fluvanna Methodist Church One Of County's Oldest

(Thirty-fifth of a series on Snyder and area churches.)

Among the oldest of church organizations in Scurry County is the Fluvanna Methodist Church, which was organized in 1894.

Organization of the church was at Light, the former community of the Fluvanna area, which was located about a mile east of Fluvanna. At that time, all church organizations held services in a school building at Light, and they had a union Sunday school. One denomination would use the building for services one Sunday, another the next, and so on.

Mrs. J. G. Landrum, the only remaining charter member living in Fluvanna, said that Fluvanna was being put on the map in 1908, and the Methodist became the first to construct a church building there. A Rev. Childress was the first pastor at Light, and he was pastor when the church put up its building.

Immediately after the church constructed its building, built a parsonage. In the fall of 1908, the Rev. W. C. Hines became pastor, and while he was there a pastor's study was added to the church. In 1914 the men and women of the church made and gathered a cotton crop to pay the church out of debt. Cotton was bringing about five cents per pounds at the time, and the Methodist board of church extension allowed the church 10 cents per pound on its debt. The Women's Missionary Society bought seats by holding box suppers, pie suppers, chili suppers, and other events. While the Rev. Sam Young was pastor, all indebtedness against the church was paid. The building was dedicated by Dr. H. A. Boaz, later bishop.

In 1912, while the church was having a district conference, a tornado struck Fluvanna just before time for church. "It seemed to make the Methodist Church its main target," Mrs. Landrum said. Simeon Shaw, presiding elder, and several preachers were in the building at the time, but no one was injured. The roof was taken off the building, and the building was twisted.

In 1938 the church decided to buy a lot across the street west of its property and move the parsonage there. The old parsonage was torn down, and another was built.

The church is now making plans for a new building, larger with more classrooms. The present building has two classrooms and an auditorium. A building fund has been started.

As far as is known, there are only two of the church's charter members living. Mrs. Landrum is one, while the other is Mrs. L. J. McCarroll of Dallas.

Pastors in the past have included W. C. Hinds, Robert McSwain, J. D. May, three years, Sam H. Young, two years, S. T. Cherry, two years, S. B. Cox and a Rev. Caperton during the same year, G. H. Reed and Thomas Bandy during the same year, Thomas Bandy and K. M. Bowker during the same year, a Rev. Bokar and Gerald Sharp during the same year, Wayand Dowden, two years, and J. W. Hawkins, present pastor.

Rev. Hawkins, who first began as a minister in Johnson County in 1909, will retire in May, in accordance with the by - laws of the church. He will live at Westbrook.

Minister Honored

A family social and dinner was held at the Central Primary cafeteria Wednesday evening by members of the United Lutheran Church here.

Demos Trying For Votes In Three States

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democratic presidential aspirants were beating the bushes today to flush out votes in the Illinois, New Jersey and Florida primaries, coming up in that order.

Republicans were mostly on the sidelines except for a part in the endless dispute over farm problems and the meaning of recent Midwest votes in that regard.

The most immediate concern for the Democrats — and, somewhat incidentally, for the Republicans too — is the Illinois vote next Tuesday.

It is mainly a test of strength for Adlai Stevenson. Officially unopposed on the Democratic ticket in a state where he served a term as governor, he will wind up with a black eye unless he manages to equal or better the showing Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) made Tuesday in Wisconsin.

The Tennessee senator got 42 per cent of the total Wisconsin vote, a better primary showing than any Democrat has made there in years. A relatively poor run by Stevenson in Illinois would put Kefauver backers in position to argue their man has more voter appeal.

There is a write-in drive in Illinois for Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio. Kefauver backers are also urging write-ins.

Stevenson, vacationing in Georgia and planning a speech in Jacksonville, Fla., Friday will hurry back to Illinois for a last campaign swing through the southern part of the state, a handshaking tour in Chicago and Monday night television talk.

The name of Sen. William F. Knowland of California is on the Illinois Republican ballot along with Eisenhower's but only because Knowland did not have time to withdraw after the President announced for renomination.

Kefauver, campaigning in Florida for the May 29 vote, called at a Miami rally for a top-level conference of Arab and Israeli leaders, the United States, Britain and France to seek a peaceful Middle East solution. He urged that this country and others in the West sell arms to Israel to restore the balance upset by Communist sales of arms to Egypt.

Stevenson, at Kingsland, Ga., got into the racial segregation issue again with a statement that "the fate of the world depends today on unity among Americans."

"To have that unity we must settle the segregation problem peaceably, honorably and according to our law, our conscience and our religion," Stevenson said in a copyrighted interview with M. L. St. John, political editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

The immediate maneuvering in New Jersey whose primary comes April 17, centered around a weekly television program by Democratic Gov. Robert Meyner.

Meyner has invited New York's Gov. Averell Harriman, who says he is "not an active candidate" for the presidential nomination, to appear with him this Sunday.

Kefauver backers contended the appearance would be political and demanded equal time in the Meyner program. A Meyner aide said the demand had been turned down on the ground the affair is for discussion of interstate problems and not political.

More Than 200 Bryan Homes Destroyed By Major Twister

BRYAN, Tex. (AP)—Residents of this central Texas city of 20,000, alerted by a radar tornado-spotter, escaped without a single cut or scratch yesterday as a major twister destroyed or damaged more than 200 homes and half a dozen commercial buildings.

A 15-minute warning from the Texas A&M college radar tornado-spotter, gave citizens a chance to take safety measures. A&M was a pioneer in development of tornado warnings by radar.

The college itself escaped. The tornado passed between this city and the institution.

The warning possibly prevented mass injuries at the Stephen F. Austin high school, only a short distance from the main path of the tornado.

School authorities kept the children in the building although it was time for school to end for the day. They ordered all windows in the building to be opened — to prevent the suction of the tornado from blasting shattered glass around the building. Children were herded into halls.

Another set of tornadoes skipped around the area near Taylor, Tex. about 65 miles to the west, damaging the roof of the Walter Blaha farm home. Tornado-like winds also damaged some roofs near Hare, Tex., in the same vicinity.

The Bryan tornado was a story of near-misses. It missed the school. It first dipped down near Bryan Air Force Base but missed it, and missed A&M College with its 7,000 students.

Some observers even said it completely missed the ground — passing over at roof-top height.

Damage was estimated as high as a million dollars by Vick Lindley of the Bryan Daily Eagle and as low as a half million by City Manager Case Fannin.

All electric power and communication lines were knocked out and full restoration is not expected until some time this afternoon. Natural gas supplies were shut off for a time because of the danger of fire but were restored last night.

The tornado cut a path six miles long and up to three-quarters of a mile wide.

Some commercial buildings simply exploded from the vacuum the tornado created and their merchandise was blown over an area of several blocks.

Some damage to homes resulted because residents were away at work and had left their homes tightly closed. The vacuum of the twisters exploded the houses.

The A&M radar tornado spotter, one of many in the Southwest, was established with radar sets donated by the Weather Bureau.

Radar operators often can give a play-by-play account of a tornado's performance. Naval and Air Force radar installations also help keep tab on the funnels.

Despite the widespread damage, only a dozen families whose houses still were standing were unable to spend last night at home. The homes will be habitable until they can be repaired unless more rains fall.

A great deal of damage was caused by flying debris. One newsman counted six residences with their roofs caved in by beams, garages and the like.

Some said they saw two funnels. Many who had not been warned thought the noise of the funnel was a flight of jet planes from Bryan Air Force Base.

Jess Cloud said he ran out the door of his floor-covering shop and "there was this black wall coming down over me with a noise like a bunch of planes." Mrs. G. W. Smith of the Bryan Police said the tornado looked like "a big pot of something boiling."

There were many freak incidents.

John Dougherty, Shine Williams and Mrs. Curtis Cobb were in a double garage that was blown away. An axe, flying through the air, was imbedded between two of them, but none of the three was hurt.

At the home of Johnny Johnson, timbers were driven through the house into the kitchen. Three little girls and a maid were in the kitchen moments before, but had taken refuge in a bedroom clothes closet.

A dog house, with two badly frightened canines inside, was blown into the next yard, but neither was hurt.

A chicken coop blew away but only one of 35 chickens was killed.

A garage was lifted up, smashed into a house and splintered for several yards. A car sitting inside the garage was not touched.

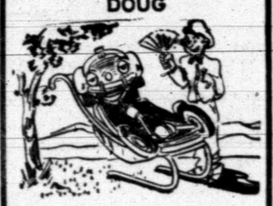

In the W. E. Kutzschbach Electric Co. plant, workers in the office and shops were not disturbed although the tornado lifted the heavy metal roof.

Five Killed Near Roscoe

SWEETWATER (AP)—A California Navy man and three members of his family died when their car and a truck collided on a rain-slick highway two miles west of Roscoe yesterday.

Killed were Fred Waldrop, 30, of San Diego; his wife, Ruby 24; her mother, Mrs. H. L. Duncan, 53, of Duncan, S.C.; and the Waldrop's small daughter, Sandra.

Officers said the wreck occurred when the car crashed into a big moving van on a sharp curve. The Waldrops were going west on Highway 80. The highway was slick from rain that had been falling most of the day.

The truck driver, John Jennings, suffered a minor leg injury.

Damages Awarded For Broken Tooth

WACO, Tex. (AP)—The occupational hazards of the civic club and banquet circuit had some compensations yesterday for Franklin Pierce (Chris) Whitcraft III, business editor of the Waco News-Tribune.

Whitcraft broke a tooth biting into the drumstick of a chicken at a Chamber of Commerce dinner last Feb. 7. Yesterday, an insurance company paid his $65 dentist bill.

Missing Airplane Found In Houston

BRYAN (AP)—A single-engine private plane from Arizona, reported missing on a flight from Bryan to Mineral Wells yesterday, was located today on the ramp of a Houston airport.

The Civil Air Patrol said the plane, believed piloted by A. Clarkson of Paul Spur, Ariz., was landed at Houston after the pilot apparently changed his plans.

The ship had taken off from Bryan after filing a flight plan a short while before a major tornado.

Since 1928 about two billion people have entered the United States, most for temporary stays or returning from foreign visits.

Increase In School Enrollment Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—There were seven million more boys and girls enrolled in the nation's schools last year than in 1950, the Census Bureau says.

The increases ranged from kindergarten through high school, the bureau said in a report yesterday, with only colleges remaining about the same for the two years.

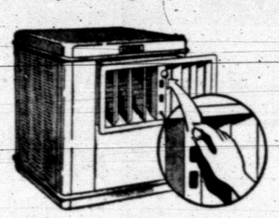

Total enrollment last year was given as 37,200,000, a gain of 23 per cent over the 30,200,000 of 1050.

Jury Is Deadlocked

HOUSTON (AP)—Judge Langston King dismissed yesterday a jury trying Mrs. Ethel Adams on a charge of murdering her husband. The jury was hopelessly deadlocked. Mrs. Adams, 39, is charged with shooting her husband, John Adams, 44 to death in the yard of their home June 13.
