

TRANSFER TOLD Post Office Due To Be Library

Prospects for Howard County to obtain title to the old Post Office building at Fourth and Scurry Streets for use as a library brightened today.

The Herald was advised by Congressman Omar Burleson that the General Services Administration (federal agency which controls properties) will announce June 30 that the building and site are being assigned to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare "for transfer to Howard County, to be used for educational purposes."

This is taken to encompass use of the facility as a library building.

No date as to final transfer to the county was given, but no great delay was anticipated.

County Judge Lee Porter and members of the Commissioners' Court, along with other interests in the county, have been seeking the former post office for library uses. This will permit considerable expansion of the library and broadening of its service to the public.

Surprise, Surprise

Early morning shoppers found a change from angle parking to parallel parking on the east side of the 200 and 300 blocks of Rannels today.

Ernest Lillard, director of public works, said city workmen began painting out the angle parking stripes at 6:30 a.m. today. City commissioners okayed the change Tuesday night at the request of merchants.

Businessmen complained the angled cars created obstacles at the curbline causing run-off water to flood into buildings.

A few shoppers apparently did not notice the parking change and parked at an angle. Police Chief Jay Banks said warning notices would be given today and Saturday, but parking citations would be issued next week for cars illegally parked.

Blast Furnace Weather Woes

Blast furnace weather downstate threatened today to kill off a cool front trying to ease southward from the Panhandle-Plains sector in Northwest Texas.

By early morning the weakening and indistinct front lay along an east-west line near Lubbock and extending into New Mexico and Oklahoma.

Forecasters thought so little of its chances that they predicted continued hot weather nearly everywhere in the state. Prospects for a few showers were seen in Southeast Texas.

Comparative calm returned to all sections as the blustery thunderstorms or showers of the past several nights disappeared.

Presidio in the torrid Big Bend of far West Texas again was the nation's hottest spot with a top temperature of 107 degrees Thursday.

High marks elsewhere included Childress and San Angelo 103, Big Spring, Del Rio and Wink 101, and Cotulla, Lubbock and Wichita Falls 100.

Long range forecasts, covering the period through next Monday, held out hope for a little cooling in some northern areas of the state but no letup in the heat farther south. Temperatures were expected to average around normal up to four degrees above normal in the north and as much as eight degrees above normal in the southern half.

Bid Goodby To Judy

NEW YORK (AP) — The long lines which had filed past the casket of Judy Garland for two days were stopped today, after 21,000 people had paid their last respects.

The public viewing ceased before private funeral services, with a list of invited guests including some of Hollywood's biggest names.

In death as in life, Miss Garland's magnetism continued undiminished, drawing thousands of admirers through the night and into the morning to bid goodby.

'Good' News Story

SEATTLE (AP) — Three high school students who wanted to help the blind "see" the University of Washington arboretum spent hours making 100 braille copies of its "native plant walk" booklet.

The trio — Mark Johnson, Rhonda Nelson and Ann Grant — all are sightless.

The project was underwritten by the special education department of the Seattle public schools and a civic club.

President Takes Trip To Canada

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon headed toward Canada today to participate in border ceremonies marking the 10th anniversary of the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Nixon planned also to continue on to Montreal later in the day, marking his first trip north of the border as chief executive.

Ten years ago Thursday then Vice President Nixon accompanied President Dwight D. Eisenhower to Massena, N.Y., where they joined Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain in dedicating an international friendship monument.

After a handshake today with Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau at Massena, the two leaders rededicated a dam named for Eisenhower.

Next on the schedule at the Montreal Expo 67 site was the placing of a plaque commemorating the billion-dollar venture of the neighbor nations in seaway and power development.

The presidential party included Nixon's daughter, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, Secretary of State and Mrs. William P. Rogers, presidential assistant Henry A. Kissinger, and the Canadian ambassador to the United States and Mrs. A. Edgar Ritchie.

Others attending: The two New York senators, Jacob K. Javits and Charles E. Goodell, Rep. Robert C. Ewen of New York and the U.S. chief of protocol and his wife, Mrs. Emil Mossbacher Jr.

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, the master of ceremonies; Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe and David W. Oberlin, from Duluth, Minn. Oberlin, the White House announced Thursday is being nominated to be administrator of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. He has been director of the Seaway Port Authority of Duluth since 1967.

Tonight, Nixon flies to New York City for an appointment with his dentist Saturday morning. The White House said it was a regular checkup. He plans to get back in Washington early Saturday afternoon.

Might Share Settlement

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers who purchased certain antibiotics between 1954 and 1966 are going to get a chance to share in a $120 million settlement resulting from a damage suit against five drug manufacturers.

Advertisements to appear in newspapers across the country next Tuesday will inform the consumer that if he bought Aureomycin, Terramycin and Tetracycline during the specified period he can file a claim.

The settlement stems from a suit initiated by New York City — and later joined in by 43 states, other cities and concerns — charging the manufacturers illegally agreed to fix prices and overcharged purchasers.

The five companies are American Cyanamid Co., Chas. Pfizer & Co., Bristol-Myers Co., Upjohn Co. and Squibb Beech-Nut, Inc. They have denied liability while making the settlement offer.

Instructions for filing the claim will be contained in the advertisement. Claimants will receive a percentage of what they originally paid.

Drug wholesalers and retail pharmacists also will be eligible to recover.

Smith Names Liaison Boss

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith named Rep. Randy Pendleton of Andrews today to run the state's liaison office in Washington.

Pendleton will resign his House seat effective June 30. Smith said he expected to issue a proclamation in a few days for a special election to fill Pendleton's House seat.

Alton Lee, who now heads the liaison office, will return to Texas July 16 to become staff director of the Advisory Council on Vocational-Technical Education in State Government.

The official title of the liaison officer is administrative assistant in the governor's Washington office of state-federal relations.

Top Rodeo Pay Positions Change In 2nd Night Action

By TEX ROGERS

Cowboys went to work during the second performance Thursday night of the 36th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, and payoff positions were changed in the first go-round standings.

Another large crowd attended the second performance which featured more bulls and broncs being ridden, and faster times in the open girls barrel race. However, calf ropers and steer wrestlers had more trouble than the night before.

Danny Tatum, Prescott, Ariz., marked a 68 in bareback bronc riding to move into a split for first place in the initial go-round with Buddy Mayes, San Saba, who performed Wednesday night.

With the first go-round in the calf roping completed, Kenneth Kelly, of nearby Greenwood, looped and tied his calf in 12.8 seconds to hold the lead in the second round of competition. Sonny Phillips, Abilene, scored in 13.2 seconds Thursday for second, followed by Larry Guy, another Abilene cowboy, in 13.3, and Wesley Myers, Clovis, N.M., in 13.4 seconds.

Connie Wilkinson, New Castle, grabbed the first place time in the first round of the barrel race Thursday by running the cloverleaf in 18.45 seconds, and Mildred Farris, Addington, Okla., turned a 19.05 time for second.

With one more ride left in the first go-round of saddle bronc competition, Bob Walker, Carlsbad, N.M., rode to a 57 Thursday to move into second place behind Guy Weeks, Abilene, Sammy Groves, New Deal, took a strong lead in the second go-round by marking a 68, and brother Claude Groves is second with a 64.

In steer wrestling Thursday, Donnie Bowles, Burkburnett, was the only cowboy to shake up the first go-round standings. He threw his steer in 6.9 seconds for third place.

Bull riding positions shifted Thursday when Bobby Steiner, Austin, 17-year-old son of Tommy Steiner, the rodeo producer, marked 60 points for second place behind Gene Lyda, Somerset, who scored 72 Wednesday. Booger Bryant, Roswell, N.M., moved into third with a 57.

The rodeo will continue with its third performance at 8 p.m. today in the Rodeo Bowl west of Big Spring. Specialty acts at each performance include the trick riding of Rex and Wanda Rossi and Janette Bolling.

Clowns, during the shows, who provide laughs for the spectators and protection for bull riders, are T. O. Taylor and Dick Bolling.

Barry Burk, Duncan, Okla., leads in money earned with a fourth place in the first go-round calf roping and second in steer wrestling. Burk, fifth place in world calf roping standings with $8,619, picked up $98.98 in roping and $136.22 in steer wrestling.

Webb Command Changes In Base Ceremonies Today

Following open ranks inspection of more than 500 men and a fly-by of both types of aircraft that Webb uses to train pilots, Col. W. C. McGlothlin Jr. officially relinquished command this morning of the 356th Pilot Training Wing to Col. Harrison Lobdell Jr.

A parade of troops passed a reviewing stand which held several prominent Big Spring citizens and the top ranking officers on base during the ceremony. Invited guests and permanent party officers at Webb attended a reception at the Webb Officer's Open Mess to honor Col. Lobdell and Col. McGlothlin. Col. McGlothlin gave his farewell toast to the base personnel and Big Spring residents at the mid-day reception.

Col. Lobdell comes to Webb from Randolph Air Force Base, where he was the director of operations for the 351st Flying Training Wing. Col. McGlothlin leaves Webb to take command of that same wing at Randolph.

As the new wing commander, Col. Lobdell will direct all the aspects of flying training and support at the base. He served with the 3510th for one year, going there from the 355th Tactical Fighter Wing at Takhli Royal Thai Air Force Base, Thailand, where he was deputy commander for Operations for EB-66 Destroyer aircraft.

Col. Lobdell is a combat veteran of two air wars, the Korean and Vietnam wars. He has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross with one Oak Leaf Cluster and the Air Medal with 12 Oak Leaf Clusters.

Violence Flares In Omaha, Cairo

By The Associated Press

Twenty-two blocks of a predominantly Negro section of Kokomo, Ind., were sealed off by police today after snipers wounded 10 police, including Chief Raymond Kellar. Violence also broke out in Omaha, Neb., and Cairo, Ill.

None of the Kokomo policemen was hurt seriously, according to Chief Kellar who was treated on the scene for a shotgun pellet wound on his right shoulder.

Supt. Robert Konkle of the Indiana State Police ordered units of specially trained riot troopers sent to the city after he received reports that the officers had been fired on.

Kellar said that all the shots fired at policemen were from shotguns, some by persons concealed in houses and some by persons in crowds roaming the streets.

The disturbance broke out Thursday night when police cars sent to investigate youth smashing fruit from a stand were hit by bricks and bottles. Kellar said the fruit was being thrown in the heart of the Negro section where a cross was burned early Thursday.

He said 11 whites—nine men and two women—were arrested in the cross burning incident.

The chief said 200 to 300 persons gathered and some began throwing bricks and bottles at cars. Store windows were broken and six shops were looted, Kellar said.

The only fire damage was to a delivery van which was overturned and burned.

In Omaha, small bands firebombed some buildings and Negro Near North Side. Police said sporadic gunfire came from buildings but no serious injuries were reported during the city's third night of turmoil.

A dry goods store and a liquor store were destroyed Thursday night by firebombs and a branch post office damaged. Police said crowds were moving through the streets at several points. Officers told newsmen and others that white persons entered the Near North Side business district at their own risk.

A Negro patrolman, Arnold Daley, was hospitalized with severe leg cuts. Police were seen escorting firemen into the area.

Police Capt. Gene Scarpino said early today the disruption was "tapering off."

The violence started Tuesday night after a white policeman fatally shot a 14-year-old Negro girl. Firebombs destroyed six businesses Wednesday and police arrested 40 Negroes. Three persons had been arrested by midnight Thursday.

Patrolman James Loder, 30, was charged with manslaughter in connection with the girl's death. He is the adopted son of movie actress Hedy Lamarr. He pleaded innocent and was released in $500 bond.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann has ordered a task force of National Guardsmen placed on alert at a local armory.

But Mayor Eugene Leahy decided Thursday against calling in the guardsmen, imposing a curfew or prohibiting liquor and gasoline sales in the neighborhood.

"The condition is under control," said Leahy after meeting with Negro and white leaders.

A curfew was reimposed in Cairo Thursday after whites and Negroes squared off on opposite sides of a street and hurled bricks, bottles, rocks and jeers at one another.

Police broke up the encounter quickly. Police Chief William Petersen ordered the 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew immediately after the standoff in front of Cairo's police station where some 400 whites had ended a 15-block trek called a mother's march "to demand equal rights for whites."

Judges Pick 'Astromonk' Winner Today

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The five finalists have been selected. Today the judges pick the winner.

The title is "astromonk" and the prize is a 30-day space trip. The five candidates are male pigtail monkeys. They were chosen last week from a field of more than 20 who started competition several months ago.

Late today, project scientists will pick the one most qualified to ride a rocket into space Saturday night on a flight intended to provide more medical information than all 20 U.S. man-in-space flights to date.

The mission will help determine if man can stay in space for extended periods in earth-orbit stations or on trips to the planets.

"We don't want to knock down the possibility of long space flights," commented Dr. W. Ross Adey, experiment coordinator of the Brain Research Institute at the University of California at Los Angeles. "We want to learn what environmental support man requires to remain in space for a year or more."

Does he, for example, need artificial gravity?

The monkey selected will be heavily instrumented with painless sensors to monitor brain waves, heart, blood circulation and respiration. The major goal of the test is to determine how he is affected by long exposure to weightlessness.

He will be called upon to perform certain button pushing tasks. If he does them correctly, he will be rewarded with food pellets.

Because of the sensors implanted in the brain, heart and other parts of the body, Adey said, "this experiment is going to yield more medical data than all the American manned flights combined. This animal will be very heavily instrumented in a way we could not instrument a man."

Launch is scheduled for 11:10 p.m. EDT Saturday. After 30 days the capsule is to be returned to earth and the monkey will undergo extensive postflight examination.

Cane Workers Call 'Walk-In'

HOUMA, La. (AP) — Representatives of sugar cane producers and processors say they cannot meet the demands of workers for higher pay until the 1970 acreage level is restored to the 1968 level.

At the same time Thursday, about 150 workers staged a "walk-in" to demand higher pay at a hearing of the Agriculture Department on price and wage rates for the sugar cane industry. Most were from Franklin area plantations.

H. L. Mitchell, agricultural representative of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers of North America, AFL-CIO, said the union seeks a pay increase for cane workers to a minimum of $2.50 an hour from the present rate of $1.40.

The pay rate proposal was reportedly based on a survey of field workers in Assumption, La. fourche, St. John, St. Mary and Terrebonne parishes.

Representatives of industry called for an early determination of price rates before the beginning of harvest and sugar cane deliveries.

Fire Bomb Tossed In Dallas School

DALLAS (AP) — A fire blamed on an incendiary bomb caused about $2,800 damage Thursday night at a school in northwest Dallas, scene of recent racial strife.

The fire bomb was tossed in the Arlington Park School. Firemen said they encountered no interference in fighting the blaze.

They were pelted with rocks and beer bottles as they attempted to put out three fires in the neighborhood Wednesday night.

Apollo 11 Astronauts Who Will Land On Moon

Neil A. Armstrong, right, has been chosen to be first man on the moon during the Apollo 11 mission in July. His colleague, Air Force

Col. Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., left, will serve as lunar module pilot on the mission.

'Commander's Prerogative' To Become First On Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston

(AP) — Neil A. Armstrong used his "commander's prerogative" to become the first man on the moon, a former space agency official says. But other officials say no firm plan ever was made to have anyone else make the first footprints on the moon.

Paul Haney, former public affairs officer at the Manned Spacecraft Center, said Thursday that for almost three years the lunar module pilot, not the commander, had been scheduled to be first on the moon, "regardless of personalities."

Asked if he thought Armstrong pulled rank to become the first on the moon, Haney said:

"It shouldn't be that he pulled rank, but I think he was not unaware of the importance of the first man who stepped onto the moon and looked at it very carefully and decided that perhaps it should be the commander's prerogative."

George M. Low, Apollo program manager, said that the selection of Armstrong as the first man represents no change, although preliminary studies had been made with the lunar module.

Minor Mishaps Are On Blotter

Police investigated three minor accidents Thursday.

Cars driven by Adrien R. Davenport, 2001 Main, and Fred H. Gray, 1102 E. 34th, collided at 1602 E. 4th. An accident occurred in the YMCA parking lot between cars driven by Caleb J. Sullivan, 100 NE 9th, and Gwendolyn P. Sackett, 1733 Purdue.

Joe F. Kropp, 4112 Parkway, had a mishap when his car struck a stop sign as he turned left onto Benton from Second.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This is not a good day to make radical changes or fly off to new places. Get busy in a constructive way on the duties of hand. The one you love so much has little time for you today.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Don't try to run away from any responsibilities, since they will only increase later on. Pay those bills, though you may have to suffer a little at the bank. It is important now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be most cooperative with your associates. Instead of trying to change matters of policy, forget those tensions that seem to be building up. Keep working and all goes fine.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have so many little duties to handle that it would be wise to get an early start. Then you will have the time to explore new and interesting outlets. Take those treatments that make you feel so alive.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your responsibilities toward your family are important today — do whatever will help cheer them up. Forget your own worries. You have much inner strength and can do a great deal.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Control your temper of home. Do whatever will bring more harmony and security there. Be very understanding instead of critical. Smile again, the way you used to.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you sympathize more instead of simply criticizing your associates, you will find they are friendlier toward you. Be sure you study statements for errors. Correct them quickly. Show others you have some.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy with whatever will improve your real estate and other assets. Fix your budget. Stop grouching over some account that you don't understand too well. Wait for a better time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Instead of getting so excited over many situations around you, even resorting to dramatics, try to smile and communicate better with others. Take care of your health, improve your appearance through the right treatments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do not let your nerves get the best of you. Release your anger to the background. Get out socially, but be sure to be with persons you know and trust.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do whatever will bring you in contact with good friends, but don't discuss your problems right now. Avoid arguments. Be tactful in getting rid of stumbling blocks to your path to success.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) This is not a good day to take risks of any sort, especially where your reputation is concerned. Keep busy at career matters. Be sure to do your work well. Don't be temperamental.

Running For Cover At Ben Het

U.S. artillerymen run for cover as Viet Cong mortar and artillery barrage hits camp at Ben Het. Men had been collecting supplies dropped from an Air Force cargo plane.

Civilians Replace War Weary Troops

SAIGON (AP) — A company of fresh South Vietnamese civilians working the area and wean irregulars has been flown in the air strikes into besieged Ben Het to replace just as fast as they arrive on battle weary troops and U.S. target.

Flying above the weather, 40 tons of supplies there in two U.S. B-52 bombers dropped 700 days' military supplies on the North Vietnamese positions on three sides of Ben Het. Spokesmen said the closest strikes were 2 1/2 miles from the camp.

BIG TEST
The U.S. Command views the Ben Het campaign as the first big test of the South Vietnamese army against the North Vietnamese. One officer called it "the first big crunch."

BAD WEATHER
Bad weather and what some American officers said was South Vietnamese reluctance to push the infantry war limited attempts to lift the siege. North Vietnamese gunners rained 125 shells on the Special Forces camp Thursday—the fourth day Ben Het withstood a barrage of more than 100 rounds. Another 88 mortar shells fell between midnight and 4 p.m. today.

Spokesmen said nine Americans and three South Vietnamese irregulars were wounded today, while casualties Thursday were formed light. The camp is manned by 700 irregulars, Green Berets, and American artillerymen.

TONS OF BOMBS
The government troops have been unable to keep open the 10-mile road from Dak To to Ben Het. No road convoy have tried to push through since Tuesday, spokesmen said, because they require deployment of hundreds of troops along the highway.

The supply road from Dak To to the camp has been cut in several places, said Air Force Lt. Col. Jack G. Cude Jr., 45, of San Antonio Tex. Ben Het has had enemy activity all around it. Despite the bad weather, the cargo planes and their fighter-bomber escorts kept flying, and the Air Force said the escort planes dropped 17 tons of bombs on enemy positions during these missions. Since last month, the Air Force claimed, its pilots have killed 203 North Vietnamese soldiers and destroyed 6,062 bunkers and gun emplacements.

The North Vietnamese army are dug in all around the area, said Capt. Donald C. Morrison Jr. of Cincinnati, Ohio, a forward air controller. Most of are several kinds of mean people other than golf cheats. Among them are those who dislike motherhood, apple pie, baseball, hot dogs, the flag, Old Gene Autry movies, homemade ice cream, and other things vital and dear to our way of life. But the meanest people of all (at least, as far as we're concerned) are those who purposely call our city "Big Springs."

"It is only fair to warn you that under consideration at this time is an ordinance making it unlawful to call Big Spring 'Big Springs,' and providing a penalty for second offenders of one week in February at their own expense in either Pittsburgh, Pa. or Helena, Mont."

Reports will continue to be sent and residents are urged to report offenses to the Chamber of Commerce.

Kiwanis Urged To Help In Clean-Up

An appeal to all citizens to join the "pride people" of Big Spring was sounded in an address to the Kiwanis Club Thursday by Tom Eastland, Chamber of Commerce manager. The "pride people" work for a more attractive city.

Beaches Closed By Shark Menace

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Beaches all along Natal Province's south coast were closed to bathers Thursday as South Africa's top coastal resort faced its greatest shark menace in 10 years.

Three days before the start of the July holiday season, when thousands of inland visitors flock to this 90-mile coastal strip, shark hunters were on dawn-to-dawn duty repairing nets ravaged by large schools of sharks. The man-eaters were feeding on pilchard.

In the past four days more than 100 sharks, some more than 10 feet long, were found trapped in the nets, installed to protect swimmers after a wave of fatal shark attacks in the 1950s.

Gas Works Gang

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 12th and Oxford Streets Gang went into business Thursday by opening a co-operated laundry with a help of a $40,000 loan from the Philadelphia Gas Works.

Forrest Outing, secretary of the 12th and Oxford corp., told a gathering of dignitaries: "I'd like to thank the gas works for giving us the chance to prove we're not hoodlums, and that we can do things right."

The chamber executive employed an effective display of scenes around the community projected on two screens contrasting the attractive features of the community and the more unsavory slum sections.

He told the Kiwanians that because they make their homes here, they are less likely to be impressed by the ramshackle structures which mar the scenery. He explained that familiarity with the objects diminishes their impact.

The need to eliminate these eyesores is twofold, he said. They are handicaps to the community's competitive drive for new residents and new industries, and they tend to depress values of adjacent properties.

He urged all residents to cooperatively work for a more attractive city.

Announcement was made that the annual rodeo barbecue, which was held Wednesday, would probably show a smaller profit than the one in 1968. The costs of the barbecue were much higher, and even though the number of tickets sold may run close to the total a year ago, the profit margin will be sharply less.

A Devotional For The Day

(The Lord) said to me, "My grace is sufficient for you."
(II Corinthians 12:9, RSV)
PRAYER: Dear God, show us how to have great faith, and to realize You are our sufficiency. Then show us how to witness to others of this blessing as we meet those in sorrow and distress. We pray in Jesus' name. Amen.

Fluid Foreign Policy Shifts

The general public will hardly hang on every word of the "great debate" this week in the United States Senate over the so-called national commitments resolution. That is not because the issue is unimportant but because it is so complex that volumes have been written on it. Also this resolution, passed or not, will not settle it.

The resolution which Sen. J. W. Fulbright's Foreign Relations Committee passed 11 to 1 says it is the sense of the Senate that a foreign commitment can be made by the United States only by the President in a treaty ratified by two-thirds of the Senate or equivalent affirmative legislative action on a presidential pledge.

Fulbright says that without such a resolution we are on our way to being "an elective dictatorship," a sophism because only foreign relations are involved here. President Nixon opposes the resolution because he says the chief executive's hands should not be tied in emergency, which begs the question because the resolution is nonbinding and applies only to planned commitments.

The Constitution is little help. It makes the President commander-in-chief, who consequently can order forceful foreign action, while empowering Congress to raise and support the armed forces and declare war. The President has the power to make treaties only with Senate ratification, but he is not denied power to make other types of commitments. But whether he can keep the commitments depends on Congress' financial control. The Supreme Court has never ruled on any limitations on presidential foreign-policy power, and if it did the ruling could only be enforced by the President against himself, if he so chose.

And so it goes. The Constitution intentionally or not divided foreign-policy power between Congress and the President without clarifying the dividing line. Consequently this issue has been in constant tension between the two branches since the George Washington administration, and perhaps this is as it should be.

In this situation any foreign policy will ultimately be determined by whichever branch has both the stronger leadership and the stronger support in public opinion. And no Senate resolution, or presidential pronouncement, can change this.

Golda Meir Tries In Vain

Mrs. Golda Meir's voyage of reconnaissance to Great Britain apparently has been a failure. The Israeli premier failed either to persuade the British to supply Israel with Centurion tanks or to dissuade Britain from supporting the four-power talks on the Arab-Israeli crisis.

In time, Mrs. Meir may be able to persuade the British to relent and supply the Israeli army with the agile, well-armed Centurion. She has said that the tanks were essential to Israel in the early 70s.

But the four-power conference on the Middle East is a different matter. The United States, Great Britain, France and Russia have been trying for months to formulate an agreed proposal for dampening the Arab-Israeli crisis.

It is difficult to conceive of any agreement reached by the four powers that would be acceptable to Israel or to the Arab countries. But the negotiations in progress have a much larger purpose: To find some formula to prevent the great powers from being sucked into a Middle East war — Russia for the Arabs and the West for Israel.

Indeed, perhaps none of the great powers is concerned over the effect in the Middle East of an agreed proposal to reduce tension and violence there. It would be enough for them to find an area of agreement which would prevent them from being forced into a conflict by their client states.

Holmes Alexander Choosing The Wrong Company

WASHINGTON — Democrat Bill Proxmire of Wisconsin, after a rocky start in 1957, has become a useful and diligent Senator, and it would take a very good Republican to deserve replacing him in next year's election.

But Proxmire with what looks like a subconscious political death-wish, is building a trap in which the victim could very well be himself.

THIS TRAP is known as guilt-by-association. Wisconsin voters are particularly likely to recognize its hair-trigger spring and jagged iron-teeth, for its use is related to the memory of their pre-Proxmire Senator, Joe McCarthy. Joe's hunt for Reds in government was based on the idea that persons are judged by the company they keep.

My own opinion is that McCarthy was more right than wrong in what he did to expose the compromising connections of Owen Lattimore and others who were influencing the policies of a bygone day. But aside from the ethics of guilt-by-association, the trapper will look very foolish if he snares himself instead of his prey, and that is the developing story on Sen. Proxmire.

FOR INSTANCE, in the June 18 issue of the Washington Post, Proxmire is mentioned on Page A-23 as being the instigator of a seminar to study Defense Department spending under an outfit called Institute for Policy Studies. On Page C-1 of the same newspaper, there is an account of the arrest of the Institute's resident intellectual, Arthur Waskow, in a messy demonstration of pacifists at the Pentagon.

PROXMIRE NEEDS any association with Waskow, an adult hippie of the New Left, like he needs a hole in the head. A voter in Wisconsin might very well believe that his senior Senator is performing a needed service by investigating Defense Department spending and by producing one sensational expose after another of apparent waste and alleged corruption. But the same voter is going to wonder what's up when he finds that a seminar at the Institute for Policy Studies "under the aegis of Sen. William Proxmire" is also the work of Arthur Waskow who, this month, squatted obscenely in a Pentagon corridor until arrested, and who last January took part in the counter-inaugural which was meant to mock and obstruct the inaugural ceremonies of President Nixon.

THERE IS a great deal of derogatory information about Waskow, and all of it is available to Proxmire. As co-chairman in 1965 of the Institute for Policy Studies, Waskow helped train Stokely Carmichael in what Waskow calls the tactics of "creative violence." The Institute, where Waskow is a senior staff member, has been a meeting place for leaders of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), and for editorial conferences of the pornographic Washington "Free Press."

PROXMIRE'S association with Waskow doesn't rightly place the Senator in the New Left, nor tie the Senator into the notorious SDS, nor make him a smut-peddler. But for a man who will face midwest and relatively middle-road voters next year, he seems to have chosen some very compromising company.

Billy Graham

How do I know if I am eating and drinking unwhorly? Please interpret I Corinthians 11:29, E.R.

Many people approach the communion service without any self-examination. They are careless about their Christian conduct and as in the Corinthian church, some of them may even be guilty of immorality. Such people think that by taking communion they somehow eat and drink forgiveness for their sins. This cannot be done. The Bible does not say that we are forgiven by taking the communion supper. This is rather an expression of our faith in Christ and our relationship to other believers. The Bible says, "Whosoever shall eat the bread or drink the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord." The way one does this is to take the communion without having recognized Christ as the Saviour from sin and having confessed Him as personal Lord and Saviour. Having done this and having turned from your sin with a desire to serve Him, you would not be guilty of eating or drinking unwhorly. Above all, don't fail to examine yourself and make sure you are walking in all of the light He has given.

Shipping Plan

MELBOURNE (AP) — A fleet of more than 50 refrigerated ships has been assembled by the Australia to Europe Shipping Conference to transport this season's Australian apple and pear exports.

The ships have been drawn from West Germany, Norway, Denmark, the United Kingdom and Israel.

The season's crops are estimated at seven million bushels and will be moved in container ships for the first time.

'THINK HE LIKES 100,000 OF US LEAVIN'?'

John Cuniff Seeking 'Militarism' Opinions

NEW YORK (AP) — A newly formed "Businessmen's Education Fund" began mailings this week to 25,000 business executives soliciting their opinions on the so-called military-industrial complex.

The common concern of the wealthy and prominent businessmen so far aligned with the organization is the "militarization of American society," close to $500,000 is said to have been pledged so far.

THE GOAL of the group, which has shunned any publicity until now, is to seek different viewpoints on national security, redefine concepts of security and redirect national priorities.

A letter, and an article highly critical of "militarism," written by Gen. David M. Shoup, former Marine Corps commander, are being sent to each of 12,500 manufacturing company presidents and as many corporate directors.

"We want this Shoup article to be a Paul Revere type thing," said Harold Wilens of Los Angeles, founder of BEF.

Wilens said the purpose of the mailings is to survey businessmen's opinions on military spending and determine whether or not they are interested in the movement. Later, an attempt may be made to involve them actively.

SAID WINFIELD BEST, administrative director of the fund, "These are the guys with credibility in this country and with the government."

Wilens, president of Ectory Equipment Supply Corp. and a real estate developer, said he fears that huge military budgets are diminishing America's resources, weakening the currency, retarding productivity and denying the nation the funds and energies needed for domestic progress.

"We must legitimize a different point of view, another definition of national security," he said in an interview. "We must stress that the people who hold a new point of view are capitalists and fully practical Americans."

IN HIS opinion, Wilens said, one cause of military spending is the alleged threat from an aggressive, monolithic Communist world.

Because of dissension within Communist ranks, Wilens said he believes the concept no longer is valid.

Wilens, 54, a former Marine, made a fortune developing properties along Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles before becoming cofounder in 1967 of Business Executives Move for Vietnam Peace. Several of that group have joined BEF.

Among the trustees are J. Sinclair Armstrong, executive vice president of U.S. Trust Co.; Gordon Sherman, president of Midas International Corp.; Alfred Slater, president of Kayser-Roth Corp.; and Joseph McDowell, Servomation Corp. president.

Until permanent space can be found here, the fund is using the office of Stewart R. Mott at 515 Madison Ave. Mott, a son of C. S. Mott, reportedly the largest stockholder in General Motors, is also a fund trustee.

"MY SON STANLEY, then only 14, had written a song so I decided to sell it," she recalled. But she found the doors of Manhattan music publishers firmly closed.

"So I decided to go into business myself," said Mrs. Greenberg. All she had to start with was a $30,000 family inheritance and a determination to prove she could do more with her life than keep a house clean.

Today at 51, Mrs. Greenberg, a pleasant-faced woman with brown hair and soft brown eyes, is the only woman president of a major record company. Her firm, Scepter Records, has turned out some 100 million discs, will take in an estimated $8 million this year, and now has worldwide distribution.

SHE NEVER got around to recording the song written by her son, now an executive with her organization. Her first record was "I Met Him on a Sunday" made by the Chiffons, a young Negro rock 'n' roll group discovered by her teenage daughter, Mary Jane.

"That first record cost us only $400 to produce—but it got us off to a good start," said Mrs. Greenberg.

Although her musical background consisted chiefly of a few piano lessons taken in her youth, she found she had a shrewd ability to pick new talent and a natural skill at getting along with people.

She has helped foster the careers of Dionne Warwick, Chuck Jackson, the Isley Brothers, B.J. Thomas and many others.

Mrs. Greenberg says she has found it no handicap to be a woman in a business that has been traditionally dominated by men.

"IF YOU ARE a floozy, men laugh at you. But if you are a decent woman they will always show courtesy to you and try to give you a break."

This is her advice to other wives who aspire to an escape from household boredom.

"Be sincere in your own ambitions. It is pointless for a woman to stand by her kitchen sink and dream of how she'd like to be Miss America. She must try to do something that reflects her sincere goals."

MRS. GREENBERG was divorced from her accountant husband five years ago and feels that her own success may have been a factor in the breakup of their marriage.

"If a housewife wants to keep her husband happy," she said frankly, "she had better try a small challenge outside the home, not one so big that she becomes a financial competitor of her husband."

How can you pick up a man after work in a Rolls-Royce and still have him love you as a woman?

Around The Rim Creative Souls Arise! Others Resist!

Here is a brief essay on the ABC's of Communications — thanks to good old Bill Factor. It follows, without quotation marks.

There are two kinds of communications men, Creative People and Un-Creative People.

CREATIVE PEOPLE are responsible for creating the copy, the layouts, the photographs, the artwork, etc., and Un-Creative People are responsible for rejecting the copy, the layouts, the photographs, the artwork, etc.

Creative People are frustrated because they are not understood. Un-Creative People are frustrated because Creative People are.

Creative People are very insecure and let everybody know it. Un-Creative People are also insecure but keep it a secret.

CREATIVE PEOPLE drink Scotch but prefer cocoa. Un-Creative People drink martinis but prefer Scotch.

Creative People usually are not very tactful. They say things like, "I just got an extremely great idea," or "I quit."

Un-Creative People usually are very tactful. They say things like, "Frankly, I like it very much, but they will never approve it," or "OK, go ahead, but you're TOTALLY responsible."

Creative People despise what they are doing, but accept it. Un-Creative People love what they are doing but don't know it.

CREATIVE PEOPLE enjoy playing Scrabble, tennis and jacks. Un-Creative People enjoy playing Scrabble, tennis and the stock market.

Creative People write speeches about Creativity, which Un-Creative

People deliver at luncheons. (Creative People eat lunch in their offices, or don't eat lunch at all.)

CREATIVE PEOPLE have nothing to say to Un-Creative People. Conversely, Un-Creative People have lots to say to Creative People.

For example: "Now I don't want to tell you how to write the copy because I'm not 'Creative.' But I do think that you should say something about 'this' and make mention of 'that' and get in a plug about 'such,' with reference to 'so' . . . in your imitable way."

Creative People then write what the Un-Creative People are trying to say, and go home and have a cup of cocoa over the rocks.

I PICKED UP my chunky uncle's wrist watch after it had been repaired and put it on so I wouldn't drop or lose it.

This is the first time I've worn a fancy calendar watch, but as near as I can tell it's half past Jan. 10.

A MEMBER of our advertising staff had a son and daughter in the office with him for a while last night.

It was obvious he and his wife are bringing them up to respect the rights of others, be polite and mind their own business.

I was delighted.

I know I should stop there. That covers it. But I'm going to belabor the point long enough to say it and look around you at both adults and kids, you will be able to see whose parents thought enough of others to instill those traits in their offspring.

AND BELIEVE me it isn't easy. Now that the sermon is over, will the ushers please pass the collection plates?

David Lawrence A 'Constructionist' On The Court

WASHINGTON — The dramatic emphasis given this week to the ceremony at which a new chief justice was sworn in may tend to leave the impression that whoever presides over the Supreme Court has more power than the other eight justices.

When decisions are made, however, the chief justice has only one vote and he can be outvoted by eight-to-one. The chief justice does coordinate the work of the court and arranges the administrative details of its operation, but the rulings are the responsibilities of all the justices voting as individuals.

IT HAS BEEN natural perhaps to use the phrase "Warren Court" to characterize the trend in the majority opinions handed down while Chief Justice Warren headed the court. Over the years a majority of minority has also been described as "conservative" or "liberal" or even "radical."

For in the 16 years during which Chief Justice Warren was on the court, there was an inclination on the part of a majority to "interpret" the Constitution to such an extent that the rulings were widely regarded as virtual amendments to the Constitution itself.

BECAUSE SO many of the decisions of the high court are of a technical nature, the public is usually familiar only with the results rather than the reasoning by which the majority reaches its conclusions.

THE BIG CHANGE in the court's position in history started in 1957 when President Franklin D. Roosevelt severely criticized its rulings and asked Congress to pass a law enlarging the court from nine to possibly 15 justices. This would have given him a chance to make as many as six new appointments and thus obtain a majority to his liking. This proposal was called "court-packing" and Congress did not approve because public opinion reacted against it. By fortuitous circumstances, vacancies occurred on the court and Mr. Roosevelt, in the next four years, had the opportunity to appoint enough new justices to provide a majority whose views were in line with his own thinking on current questions.

THE SHIFT came soon as a majority of the justices abandoned the long-standing principle that, once the Supreme Court makes a decision, the only way it can be reversed is by an amendment to the Constitution. Mr. Roosevelt had in his speeches expressed the belief that this method was "difficult" and "time-consuming" and that the court should fit its decisions to any changing era. As a consequence, the new justices tended to let their own concepts on sociological problems and questions of national policy dominate their rulings. From that time on, an oligarchy of five men has been able, in many instances, to proclaim rulings which amount to alterations of the Constitution itself.

WHEN JUDGE Warren E. Burger of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was nominated by the President recently to be chief justice, Mr. Nixon referred to him as a "strict constructionist." This perhaps conveyed the idea that the new chief justice would favor the upholding of long-established precedents and would not approve of arbitrary interpretation, which, though meritorious in objective, had the effect of amending the Constitution.

Marquis Childs Silence On The Banks Of The Pedernales

WASHINGTON — The deafening silence out of Texas is an example of Johnsonian restraint that even his fondest admirers had believed was beyond the reach of the former President. Nearly six months have gone by since he stepped off the center of the stage, and not a word has come from one of the most articulate and volatile men ever to occupy the White House.

OPPORTUNITIES galore could have enticed Lyndon Baines Johnson — the Fortas affair, the ballooning controversy over the huge defense budget inherited by the Nixon administration, assaults on the Johnson record in the Vietnam war. Yet the silence on the banks of the Pedernales has been unbroken. Not a statement, not an interview, no television talk, has come from one who for more than four years was front and center on the world stage.

THIS DOES NOT mean that the former President is rocking quietly in that rocking chair on the front porch of the ranch house. If he had no other link with events, the close ties the Nixon White House is maintaining with the former President would keep him ahead of the news. Nixon has given the most careful instructions that his predecessor is to be informed in advance of every important foreign-policy move. And the President himself has been twice on the phone with the silent Texan.

This happened before the meeting at Midway when the withdrawal of 25,000 American troops was in the planning stage. Johnson was alerted to the conference with South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu and the prospective move intended to start the de-escalation of the war.

A DEMONSTRATION of unity is contemplated by the White House as a show-down nears on the closed, contested anti-ballistic missile issue. A Johnson statement or, better still, a joint Nixon-Johnson declaration that the ABM is essential to national security would be helpful with Senate waverers.

Some form of joint television appearance is not ruled out. Nixon said at his press conference he expected Johnson to be more helpful in the future.

PRIOR TO THE token de-escalation agreed to at Midway, this would hardly have been conceivable, since it would have seemed to ally Nixon's Vietnam policy with that of his predecessor. The word from the ranch is that no such statement is contemplated and that, so far as anyone in the immediate vicinity can tell, the former President has every intention of preserving his silence.

With preparations for an intensive three- or four-week drive preceding the ABM vote expected at the end of July, Nixon's aides are increasingly confident of approval for funds to deploy two Safeguard missiles. Full-page ads showing an Opinion Research poll with an overwhelming majority for ABM are being run in newspapers across the country. This is the warm-up for a final blitz by the White House and the Department of Defense.

HOW MUCH weight a Johnson endorsement would carry can be only a guess. The assumption is that such a nonpartisan demonstration might sway a few Democrats torn between a pro and an anti stand. On the other hand, in light of the deep-seated hostility toward the Johnson Vietnam policies, it could, as it is put in bureaucratic, be counterproductive.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Folks:

If you have your broom in your hand while you're reading this, it means you're plain tired. Your conscience makes you hold on to the broom, but you'd really like to forget it for now.

Why are we tired sometimes? WHY don't we ever get it ALL done? Just where does our energy go?

We use it unnecessarily! THAT'S why.

Is there any need to stoop over for something when we don't have to? Absolutely not. We certainly wouldn't put our telephone on the floor because we have to answer it too many times a day. Right? Now, where do you spend most of your time doing chores? In the kitchen. And the biggest percentage of THAT time is at the sink.

Ever thought of rearranging some of that stuff you keep UNDER your sink and use frequently?

About ten times a day we reach for scouring powder, bleach, detergents, soap, etc.

Only about once a week do we reach for window cleaners, toilet bowl cleaners, starch, bug juice, oven cleaners, rust removers and disinfectants.

Let's divide it. Honey Bears. Take everything out and put the things used the most on an upper shelf somewhere along about eye level. Preferably above the sink. Know how much less energy it takes to reach UP than it does to reach DOWN?

And now that you've got it all out of your cabinet, take your sponge and completely wash that "hidden sanctuary" thoroughly. Put in some fresh paper and replace ONLY what is essential. That's the secret. What you don't use but once a year, put in the garage.

This little job shouldn't take over ten minutes of your time.

Of course, your neighbor won't see it, but you and I will know it's clean and, oh, how nice it's gonna make you feel when you go to bed tonight!

The secret is: Don't put anything back unless you really need it.

In a few weeks, when I clean out my closets, I'm going to talk on that too. But I learned one thing for certain... to NEVER clean until I get really MAD! Then I throw away things that I have kept and let clutter up the place for years. It's proven fact that if you haven't used it in a year... you probably NEVER will!... Love 'til tomorrow Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Although I am a man, I read your advice every day and it is very practical in all respects. Helpful household hints like yours are really a prime factor in running a well-adjusted household.

Did you know that a quarter (a 25-cent piece) will open any size paint can, whether it be a half-pint or a gallon?

There will be no screw driver marks or gouges on the rim and the rim will fit back into its groove without leaking air. There are no bruised knuckles, no flare-up on the lid.

I suggest people try this the next time they open a can of paint... Earl W. Neely

Fashion World Applies Geometry

In New York showings this week models wear, from left: classic cut-away in white chiffon by designer George Stavropoulos with broad bands of blue velvet under swirling chiffon drape attached at front; mandarin pants by Gayle

Kirkpatrick with cross-over tunic trimmed with amber fur; a purple sequined evening gown by Kirkpatrick with plunging neckline.

Here's All About Eve Nelson, The 'Man's World' Woman

NEW YORK (AP) — During the course of the nine hour and longer days she spends in her executive suite, Eve Nelson, idea-woman Eve Amigone Nelson makes decisions involving tens of thousands of dollars.

Yet when she returns home to her plush East Side apartment and to Warren, her husband of more than 15 years, she says, "I can't even turn on the air-conditioner."

It's not that Eve is one of those helpless females who need any mechanical device they come in contact with (like a litter). Nor does Eve play the role of a helpless female for the role's sake alone. It's just a natural part of her philosophy which, summed up, says: "It's a man's world; a man comes first and a smart woman plays up her femininity for all it's worth. If God wanted a woman to have top billing, he'd have made Eve first."

Eve Nelson may not have top billing at home... but in the merchandizing world, she's second to few. As corporate vice president of Spartan Industries (the parent company of E. J. Korvette) she may be the only female corporate vice-president of a publicly owned billion-dollar company in the United States.

Being around men all her 45 years — she was the youngest of 17 children, 11 of whom were boys, born into a wealthy Italian family in Buffalo, N.Y. — has taught her, she says, that the woman's way to success lies in complementing men, not in competing with them. "When I was interviewed for the job of advertising and sales promotion director at Korvette, there wasn't a woman executive in the entire company. I had a lot of sound ideas based on the woman's approach to advertising and a lot of experience under my belt."

After graduating as a journalism major from the University of Buffalo, she got a job as a junior copywriter for a local department store. At the time she went for the interview with her present company, she had worked her way up to the position of vice president in charge of sales of a 10-unit chain of department stores in Houston, Tex., where she had been named Most Outstanding Business Woman and met and married her oil-executive husband.

"I had all this experience and I had all these ideas for changing the company's promotion policies," continues the green-eyed blonde dynamo. "But I certainly didn't tell them my ideas right away. Just because you're a woman, you don't need to prove that you're brighter or better than the men. Instead I acted just as I did with my 11 brothers when I was a kid. I knew the heads of the company were emotional and were proud of what they had done and I let them be proud. I told them what a good job they had done. If you give the men the credit, you'll get it all back. After I got the job I instituted the changes I wanted."

She was instrumental also in having the company hire more women executives at all levels. "And they weren't unattractive women either, as some women might mistakenly do," she explains. "Of course, talent is the most important factor in hiring either a man or a woman. But why not be surrounded by the most attractive personnel possible? Neglecting your looks is a crime against nature."

Eve's formula for success — "never stop being a woman" — naturally is the theme of her new book, "Take it from Eve," which contains beauty secrets and personality hints for women of all ages on how to make the most of their femininity. But she is quick to point out that being feminine in business doesn't mean that you can cry, carry on and use all the womanly appeals to emotion.

"Acting like a woman in business means that if a man's around you let him light your cigarette and that you keep him informed of how a woman would handle a particular problem. But you can't cry or resort to emotion, because a man can't do that. You have to learn to take the knocks the way men do."

Too many women, she claims, have no idea of what a man goes through in business — the fact that on occasion, like it or not, he has to be a yes man because he has a wife and child to support. "Every woman should work at least one year out of her life so that she learns that work isn't all self-glory and fulfillment," she says.

HUSBAND FIRST
Regardless of whether or not a wife works — and Eve believes that this is an individual decision each woman must take — she believes that it's a wife's primary duty to listen to her husband, encourage him and build him up.

"Let him be proud of you as his woman — the woman to

San Angelo Reception Fetes Pair

WESTBROOK (SC) — The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Shahan of San Angelo observed their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception Sunday in the Immanuel Baptist Church in San Angelo.

The couple's children and church members hosted the celebration. The children are Mrs. Glenn Easley, Gig Harbor, Wash.; Mrs. Kenneth Browning of Puyallup, Wash.; Robert J. Shahan, San Diego, Calif.; and Herbert H. Shahan of Tacoma, Wash.

Mrs. Shahan is the former Miss Floris Hughey of Leslie, Ark. The couple was married there, and in 1920, moved to Cisco where he was employed by West Texas Utilities until 1928.

Mr. Shahan was ordained as a minister in Sept. 1927, by the East Cisco Baptist Church. He attended Hardin-Simmons University from 1928 to 1932. He has served as pastor at Moran, Rule, Littlefield, Snyder, Memphis, Post and Immanuel Baptist Church at San Angelo. He was interim pastor in Westbrook from January to April of this year. He is presently semi-retired serving as an evangelist.

The couple has nine grand children.

A LOVELIER YOU Strive For Ageless Maturity In Makeup

By MARY SUE MILLER

A mature lovely writes: My married daughter accuses me of not being with it when it comes to makeup. Our differences of opinion center around lipstick and rouge. She says that my lipstick is much too dark and that the cream rouge I've used for years looks like a big painted polka dot.

"Aging," says she. But I think I look silly with pale lipstick. And I tried a powder blusher — brush and all. It didn't work. Anyway, how kiddish should a grandmother get? Albeit the youngsters are under four years.

The Answer: If a woman can manage to make no age impression at all, she's got it made. The idea is to strike a happy medium between teen fads and lavender-and-old-lace. Deep, dark lipsticks are in the latter category.

But it will interest you to know that the makeup pendulum is swinging as it always does. New lipstick shades have more intensity, even when they are in the pastel range. Why not try a strong pink or coral over a film of clear, colorless lip gloss? Effect? No-age!

As regards blushers... The term has become a euphemism for rouge. Blushers now take to cream and fluid, as well as powder forms. There is no reason not to use a cream cheek color if you prefer. But do be sure the shade and your application of it is altogether natural — a mere blush from within. Polka dots of rouge went out with your grandmother.

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, "The Eyes of Youth." To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Conoco Honors Two Retiring Vets Tonight

Continental Oil Co. will honor two veteran members of its working staff today with a dinner at Furr's Cafeteria. The dinner is at 7:45 p.m.

The two pioneers, with the company who are to retire on July 1, are both Big Spring residents.

George (Bud) Pickett, a production foreman for Continental at Ackerly, will have served 42 years with the company in October. He lives at 3002 Navajo.

D. W. Roberson Sr., a maintenance man with the company in the Forsan area, will have served 36 years at the time of his retirement. He lives at 4200 Connally.

About 100 Continental officials and workers from the Midland district are to attend the dinner for the two men. Principal speaker will be Frank Elliott, Midland.

Bryan, College Station Narcotics Raid Staged

BRYAN, Tex. (AP) — What authorities said were enough Allen Glasgow, 18, of Bryan, drugs to make everyone in the county "happy" were seized in a raid Thursday in Bryan and nearby College Station.

The raids were touched off by the work of undercover agents who spent three months in the area. Nine persons were arrested and Texas Liquor Control Board agents James Bunden said a laboratory was found in a ramshackle house in College Station near Texas A&M.

Arrested in the cluttered cottage were James S. Moore, 22, of San Antonio and Barbara M. Wells, 22, of San Antonio.

Charges of possession of narcotics paraphernalia were filed against the pair. Both are Texas A&M students.

The cottage was equipped with scores of bottles of chemicals, chemical laboratory equipment, empty gelatin capsules and a book which Bunden said contains formulas for manufacturing of mind-expanding drugs.

Bunden and law enforcement officers suspected that artificial mescaline and LSD were being manufactured.

Officers said as many as four undercover men had been in and out of Bryan and College Station working on the case.

Sheriff J.W. Hamilton reported the raiding parties searched several other houses, but found nothing.

Finch Gives Up Fight To Get Knowles OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Robert H. Finch today gave up his fight to get Dr. John H. Knowles nominated as the nation's top health officer over objections from the American Medical Association and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

"I have reluctantly and regretfully decided and today advised Dr. John Knowles that the protracted and distorted discussion regarding his appointment as assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs has resulted in a situation in which he would not be able to function effectively," Finch said.

Finch said he would soon ask President Nixon to nominate someone else, but he did not name a candidate.

Finch's simple nine-line statement was handed out by a Welfare Department information officer in a tiny, crowded press room down the hall from Finch's office.

The statement came after a week of bitter behind-the-scenes maneuvering.

There were reports only a day earlier that Finch had said he would quit if the President did not end a six-month political stalemate and nominate Knowles, director of Massachusetts General Hospital and a long time backer of causes popular to elements of organized medicine.

Both Finch and the White House denied these resignation reports.

There was no immediate comment by Knowles or at the White House on Finch's statement today.

Knowles called a 1 p.m. EDT news conference in Boston. President Nixon was off on a visit to the St. Lawrence Seaway.

A Finch spokesman said the secretary would hold a news conference Saturday at a time to be announced.

"I deeply regret this situation and the fact that this department will be deprived of the services of this outstanding leader in the field of health care," the Finch statement said. "Obviously, I assume full responsibility for the delay in this appointment," he added.

Informed of Finch's decision, Dirksen said he would have no comment.

But Los Angeles Times reporter Tom Foley insisted in an interview that Finch told him less than 24 hours earlier President Nixon would "have to find another secretary" if he refused to nominate Dr. John H. Knowles as an assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs.

Finch and the White House vigorously denied the Foley report.

Knowles, 43-year-old director of the Massachusetts General Hospital, six months ago accepted Finch's offer to be assistant secretary.

The formal nomination by President Nixon has languished. Powerful elements in the American Medical Association (AMA) oppose Knowles as being too hospital-oriented and because he has backed causes unpopular with organized medicine.

AMA sources also say some influential members fear Finch has designs on a Senate seat from California where he served as lieutenant governor and that he plans to quit soon anyway, turning over the HEW leadership to Knowles.

Finch has repeatedly denied any immediate aspirations beyond making a success of managing the 107,000-employee department which spends more than a quarter of the government's annual budget.

The six months of wrangling appeared at the first of the week to be building toward a climax that would see the administration take on Dirksen in an open power struggle.

The President told a nationally televised news conference last week that Finch—who was on vacation at the time—would make his recommendation this week and that whomever the

50 'Squares' Demonstrate

CHICAGO (AP) — About 50 self-styled "squares" massed in front of the national headquarters of Students for a Democratic Society Thursday to peacefully demonstrate.

The contingent, part of about 75 students from high schools and colleges around the nation attending a National Student Conference on Revolution at Lake Forest College, said it had challenged SDS to a debate.

Some of the signs carried by the demonstrators read: "SDS fascist pigs," "Stop burning our campuses" and "What have you got to hide?"

A list of demands recited aloud in front of the headquarters included one that SDS "lift the iron curtain on the inner workings of SDS, publish the proceedings (of its recent convention) and let people know what really goes on in the so-called 'people's revolution'."

"We are here to peacefully demonstrate," said Mike Connelly, 21, of New Orleans, one of the "squares." He also said, "we are going to look for SDS' legitimate grievances and try to beat them in presenting them through legitimate channels."

Legion Officials Discuss Welcoming Home Vets

Thursday local and national officials of the American Legion met for luncheon and informal discussion at the Cosden Country Club about the Legion program for helping veterans, especially in returning to civilian life.

George Zachariah, Americanism committee member, organized the meeting.

Primary reason for the visit of J. Lloyd Wignall, national membership director, and Garland De Lamar, department field representative, was to acquaint themselves with Big Spring's program of welcoming returning servicemen.

The question each city has to ask itself, Wignall said, is how it can best help each veteran. Veterans make up ten per cent of a city's population; the community has a responsibility to see they are integrated into community activities, he said.

Legislation To Continue Income Tax Withholding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress completed action today on an emergency bill to continue through July present tax withholding rates pending a decision on extending the 10 per cent income surtax.

The House sent the measure to the President by voice vote. The Senate passed it Wednesday.

Supporters of the withholding extension emphasized that the bill did not commit anyone to support the surtax continuance. "This is a matter of housekeeping," said Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., of the Rules Committee. Without it, Colmer added, there would be "a lot of confusion" later if the surtax was continued but withholding had ceased.

The surtax, imposed last year, expires at midnight next Monday. Legislation to extend it is pending but has not been acted on by either branch of Congress. The House has scheduled a vote on the controversial proposal for next Monday.

Without the withholding extension, the government and employers would have to stop withholding at present rates starting next Tuesday, and then change the system later if the surtax was continued.

Should the surtax be allowed to expire, the most taxpayers would get a refund of the money withheld. Meanwhile, Rep. Richard Fulton, D-Tenn., a member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, served notice he would vote against an extension of the surtax.

The temporary bill drew much less opposition in Congress than original proposals to extend the surtax through Dec. 31, then cut it by half through the first half of next year, as President Nixon asked.

Democratic House leaders decided on Monday they didn't have the votes to grant Nixon's request.

The next day, the Senate passed the temporary measure and House Republican Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford said after a GOP caucus that he counted an additional 40 Republican votes—or 170.

There are 188 Republicans in the House. If Ford's count was correct, Nixon's proposal needs only about 50 of the House's 245 Democratic votes to gain passage.

Many of the surtax extension opponents are holding the measure hostage for more sweeping tax reform than was drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The committee wrote in a provision providing a tax break to an estimated 13 million low-income wage earners.

But even added to a repeal of the 7 per cent investment tax credit for corporations and the continuation of excise taxes on automobiles and other items, the committee bill failed to placate many tax reform advocates.

The House leadership decided in putting off the surtax showdown to resume work on Nixon's plan after the four-day Independence Day recess.

It's A Safe Airplane Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force announced today it is lifting operating restrictions on the F111 fighter and will start next month on a $15 million program of strengthening the plane's wings.

The restrictions on the amount of stress to which the plane might be subjected in flight were imposed last October after indications that an F111 had crashed because of wing cracks.

"It's a safe airplane now," Maj. Gen. Otto J. Glasser, an Air Force research and development official, told newsmen.

The Air Force said that "as a result of extensive fatigue testing of F111 aircraft since last October, the Air Force has gained added confidence in the structural soundness of the aircraft."

Starting in July, Glasser said, 140 to 150 planes will be strengthened at a cost of about $100,000 each; the over-all job will be completed early next year, officials said.

SA Board Studies New Construction

Meeting in their final meeting of the summer, the Salvation Army advisory board members, together with their wives, had the pleasant task of considering how to add a clothing room to the present facilities.

This is being financed out of a $9,700 grant by the Dora Roberts Foundation. The extra room will be used for the receipt, storage and distribution of clothing in the Army's welfare program. Part of the grant will go to wipe out a deficit in operations during the past year because of heavy demands upon the Salvation Army.

The youth groups of the church staged a Parade of Youth for the members and wives. This included demonstrations by the Sunbeams, Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, Teen Times, and the young people's musical group, The Girl Guides.

Incidentally, the group which recently won the state championship in competition at Midlothian. Another program feature was in use of timbrels.

OIL REPORT

Conoco Test Indicating As A Prolific Producer

Drilling activity reached a peak in the area with the announcement of locations of one northeast of Big Spring, wildcat, two other units, and Location is 660 feet from the north and 1,500 feet from the west lines of section 31, block 1, Township 1, North, T&P 1 Sellers, a direct north offset survey, and one-half mile south to the discovery well in the production.

Albaugh-Cole field, indicated. The No. 1 Clay has been staked to 12,200 feet as a producer in the field in north-Fusselman venture in the Patricia field by Southwestern Natural Gas, Inc., Midland, 15 miles southwest of Lamesa.

On a two-hour 10-minute drill-stem test in the Wolfcamp from 6,901-7,011, gas surfaced in 12 Drillsite is 2,118 feet from the east cubic feet per day. There was no water. The venture unloaded Moore County school land, and several times while operator one-half mile north of production was pulling the drillstem.

Recovery was 1,899 feet of 42 gravity oil. The initial shut-in pressure was 3,096 pounds, the final flowing pressure 140-148 County. The unit is at 6,630 feet depth. A drillstem test was taken in the Pennsylvania Reef horizon from 6,624-6,637 feet, with the tool open 40 minutes.

Gas surfaced in three minutes and oil came to the top in 15 minutes. The top choke plugged for 15 minutes and oil flowed to the pits in 10 minutes and at estimated rate of 25-29 barrels per hour. Oil was unloaded from the derrick for 1 1/2 hours and the unit reversed out 1,800 feet of 44-gravity oil with no water. Thirty-minute initial shut-in pressure was 2,288, flow pressure was 749-1,916, and one-hour final shut-in pressure was 2,288.

The No. 1 R E Stringfellow Unit of Amerasia Petroleum Corp. drilling east of Big Spring to the Wolfcamp zone, showed favorable results in perforations of 7,614-7,632 feet.

DEATHS

Paul D. Sledge, Funeral Today

Services for Paul David Sledge, 56, were to be held at 4 p.m. today in the Nalley-Pickle Chapel with his pastor, the Rev. R. F. Polk, minister of the First Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Byron Orand. Burial was to be in the Trinity Memorial Park.

Mr. Sledge died in a hospital here Thursday morning. He had been a resident of Big Spring for 31 years, serving as a rig builder, carpenter and contractor. He was a faithful lay worker in the First Baptist Church.

Surviving him are his wife, Oneta Sledge; two daughters, Mrs. Jere Sink, Tulsa, and Mrs. Carey King, Richardson; and four grandchildren, three brothers and four sisters.

Funeral services were to be held at 4 p.m. Saturday in the Buffalo Gap Baptist Church, under the direction of the Fry Funeral Home, Tuscola.

Mr. Williams was born Jan. 4, 1931, in Buffalo Gap, attended schools there, and was a Baptist. For the past 11 years, he was a guard in the State Reform School at Gatesville.

In addition to the brother here, he is survived by a daughter, a son, his mother, a sister, and several nieces and nephews.

Very Selective Vote In Paris

PARIS (AP) — President Georges Pompidou and about 5,000 other anonymous Frenchmen were asked to vote today in a very selective referendum — whether to limit access to motorists who do not live on Ile St. Louis.

Pompidou has an apartment on the Seine island in the heart of Paris, an idyllic tourist resort. Its residents complain is attracting too much traffic, nightclubs, expensive restaurants and loud night people.

Cig Tax At Last

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina, the last state without a cigarette tax, will have one next fall.

The legislature enacted Thursday a bill which enforces a tax of two cents a pack on cigarettes and one cent on soft drinks effective Oct. 1.

Nixonites Remain Quiet About Rising Beef Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is in a quandary on what to say about rising beef prices without offending cattlemen who are enjoying the best markets since the Korean War.

The average weights of cattle being shipped to slaughter have risen lately. Such news usually alarms stockmen who fear the added beef may depress market prices.

A year ago, then Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman noted a similar weight rise and urgently warned that "this trend could hurt fed cattle prices" which had gained from 1967 levels.

But Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin, Freeman's successor, has been quiet on the subject.

Consumer beef prices from January to March averaged 90 cents a pound, the highest on record, and have been continuing upward.

At the same time, market prices for fed cattle—those headed for packing houses—have risen to the highest levels since 1951.

A year ago, the average price for all cattle was $23.80 a hundredweight, compared with the Agriculture Department's mid-May average of $28.60.

At that time Freeman said: "I hope that cattle feeders will not succumb to the temptation to hold back cattle in the feedlots and carry them to heavier weights."

He also noted that the average weights of cattle had risen six to 16 pounds from June a year earlier.

According to the Agriculture Department, cattle weights this year have gained again at about the same rate Freeman warned about.

Asked to comment, a spokesman for Hardin said "the department is keeping a very close watch on weights of fed cattle going to market in order to see if there is any appreciable holding back of market animals."

"The demand for beef is great," the spokesman said. "This is brought on by inflationary trends, high level of employment, and high personal income."

The official added that thus far stockmen have been keeping the industry "on a fairly even keel" and noted that average cattle weights rose about 10 pounds since mid-March.

There is a temptation among farm cattle feeders to hold their stock "a few more days" or even weeks when market prices begin to drop in hopes it will rise again.

This adds weight to the cattle and increases costs to the feeder. And if the market price continues to decline, the producers' expected profits will be wiped out.

A department marketing official said that though prices have continued strong, feed costs have been low enough in relation to the cattle market so that producers have been tempted to fatten their stock a bit longer.

This is particularly true among some operators in the Corn Belt, the official said, while in the big commercial feedlot areas of the plains and west cattle are moved to slaughter more regularly when they reach optimum "finish" or weight.

Another factor has been the close attention paid by professional stockmen's groups such as the American National Cattlemen's Association of Denver

Tanker Aground In Japan

'Pailface'

Skipper, a Golden Labrador, is a "pailface." He earned the nickname after his owner, Miss Trish Jarrett of Melbourne, Australia, put a plastic bucket over his head to stop him from pawing at his eyes. Skipper had surgery to prevent his eyelashes from growing inward and resulting stitches were annoying to him. At left, Skipper receives titbit from Trish; at right, he looks out of protective bucket.

Metal Unions Plan Session

ANGLETON, Tex. (AP) — Negotiations between Dow Chemical Co. and Ethyl Dow Co. and nine metal trade unions are expected to be resumed next week.

Officials met for four hours Thursday but neither side would comment.

The session was the first since some unions rejected contract proposals from the Freeport companies. Neither side has made public the contract proposals. Federal mediators James Chandler and Willis Ray were in the talks.

The unions are working with-out new contracts pending the outcome of further negotiations. The old contracts expired June 16.

We also sell some superior domestic used cars.

May sound funny coming from a Volkswagen dealer, but it's not. It's a fact. Because we get all kinds of cars as trade-ins. And as they come in, whether they're Chevs, Fords, Caddies, or VWs, our mechanics put them through a rigid 16-point safety and performance test. The ones that pass get the complete treatment.

They're tuned up, tightened, completely reconditioned. And then we guarantee them 100% for the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles. We simply can't afford to sell an unsatisfactory used car. Because every used car we sell carries the Volkswagen reputation with it. No matter what make it is.

Damaging Winds Stagger In Plains

By The Associated Press

Torrential rains and damaging winds staggered portions of the Plains and Midwest today continuing a wave of weather violence that began with summer's arrival six days ago.

Downpours of 9 to 10 inches of rain late Thursday in Chase County, Kan., northeast of Wichita, drove lowland residents to higher ground. Serious flooding developed in other sections of eastern Kansas and Western Missouri.

Wind gusts up to 100 miles an hour ripped some parts of the Kansas City-St. Joseph, Mo., area. The Weather Bureau at Kansas City Municipal Airport clocked winds of 85 miles an hour before a power failure occurred.

The winds tore 17 private planes from their moorings at the St. Joseph Airport, destroying 10 of them.

The weather wildness extended along a line from Oklahoma to Michigan and gave countless midcontinent residents an uneasy night of waiting out one severe storm warning after another.

Tornadoes dipped out of the thunderclouds at numerous points in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma—but heaviest damage appeared to come from ordinary strong winds, rather than twisters.

Eight mobile homes were overturned, several houses were destroyed and many others were unroofed in the Platte and Clay areas between Leavenworth, Kan., and St. Joseph, Mo. Two women suffered minor injuries.

The winds peaked at 60 and 70 miles an hour as the storms rumbled across Iowa and into Wisconsin and Michigan.

Hail also accompanied the storms in many communities. Plattsburg, in northwest Missouri northeast of Kansas City, was rattled by hailstones the size of golfballs.

Outside the storm belt, rain in lesser amounts dampened the northern tier of states from the Pacific Northwest to the Dakotas.

Hot and humid weather blanketed much of the East. Chicago steamed up to a record-equaling 96 Thursday.

Generally, cool temperatures prevailed in most of the West outside the Southwest.

Car Hits Bridge, Two Teens Killed

ALICE, TEX. (AP) — Milton Rennert Jr. and Michael Carlisle, both 19 and from Alice, were killed about 1:20 a.m. today when a car hit a bridge on the north side of town. A third occupant of the vehicle, Sandra Miller, 18, suffered serious injuries.

Parking Lot Readied

City workmen this week began grading the downtown parking lot on the site of the old Crawford Hotel in preparation for paving. The lot will have 55 parking spaces and a pavilion, and should be available to the public

July 8. Public Works Director Ernest Lillard said curbing was poured in April but heavy rains have delayed the paving by keeping city crews busy with routine maintenance work.

Goldberg Goes TO Bar For Sirhan

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg has written Gov. Ronald Reagan of California asking commutation of the death sentence on Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, assassin of Robert F. Kennedy.

Noting that he himself had been listed in Sirhan's diary as an assassination prospect, Goldberg said:

"The evolving standards of decency that mark the progress of our society now condemn as barbaric and inhuman the deliberate institutionalized taking of human life by the state."

In Sacramento, a Reagan aide said Thursday the governor was expected to make no decision on the Sirhan sentence until, "as in other cases, it comes up for executive clemency or review."

Laird Plans To Crack Down On Deserters

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird will seek changes in military law to make one month's unauthorized absence by a serviceman evidence of intent to desert.

This, it was learned, is the Pentagon's major approach in plans to crack down on deserters and answer congressional criticism of being too lenient on them.

The question of intent is vital in getting desertion convictions against men accused of leaving their military posts without permission for prolonged periods. It is difficult to prove that most men get off with the lesser charge of AWOL—away without leave.

NOT ENOUGH
As the Uniform Code of Military Justice now stands, no matter how long a serviceman is AWOL, that in itself is not enough to support a desertion conviction. It must be shown that he intended to stay away from his post or shirk hazardous duty permanently.

Laird's move responds to an earlier Special Senate subcommittee report. It accused the Pentagon of a lack of concern and failure to deal sternly with the thousands of uniformed men going AWOL each year, many to such places as Sweden and Canada.

Subcommittee figures showed the military services "administratively classified" 53,357 men as deserters in the year ending

June 30, 1968. Based on past experiences fewer than 1 per cent of these individuals are ever actually convicted of desertion.

Laird, in a June 5 letter to Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, subcommittee chairman, said the Pentagon is drawing up a legislative proposal to make absence evidence a serviceman is trying to desert.

NO WAR
Maximum sentence for desertion when there has been no declaration of war, as in the case of Vietnam, is dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and other benefits and five years hard labor. During an official war the offense can be punishable by death.

The lesser AWOL offense carries maximum punishment of dishonorable discharge, loss of pay and one year's hard labor in prison.

Laird's letter, provided to the Associated Press, outlined measures the Pentagon is taking or planning in response to the subcommittee's recommendations on the desertion problem.

Laird said the Pentagon and the State Department are working toward "improved reporting procedures" to keep military authorities posted on what deserters do while they remain in such havens as Sweden.

The subcommittee observed unless the military justice people are fully informed of a deserter's activities, he will escape punishment for such additional offenses as engaging in anti-U.S. propaganda and other acts condemning U.S. government policy.

Laird denied, as the subcommittee contended, the Pentagon has a policy of being lenient toward deserters to entice them to return to U.S. military control.

PRISON TERMS
The subcommittee cited one example where an Army private who went to Sweden for more than one year agreed to return on the condition that he get not more than a six-month sentence for AWOL. He drew a four-month sentence.

The panel also singled out other AWOL cases involving less time away in which the men were assessed two and three year prison terms.

Laird responded that "no two cases are alike, no two accused are alike and no two courts are alike." And he added that there are no lawful means of preventing apparent disparity in sentences handed down by military courts.

On another point, the defense chief said the U.S. government has decided it cannot negotiate agreements with such countries as Sweden to provide for extradition of deserters-deserters, as Inouye's panel urged.

Laird said the State Department takes the position such action is not possible and that Swedish law prohibits extradition of deserters.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

Section B Big Spring, Texas, Friday, June 27, 1969

DEAR ABBY: The lady signed "TRAPPED," who discovered that her husband had been unfaithful after 25 years, could have been written by my mother, only she and Dad have been married only 19 years.

About three months ago she caught Daddy in a situation like that. She says there will be no divorce because of our religion, but she has locked him out of their bedroom, and now Daddy sleeps with my little brother.

Dad has begged Mom to give him another chance, but she won't. I am the eldest (48) but I am mature enough to know that any woman who is "TRAPPED" because she can't forgive, has trapped herself.

JACKSONVILLE: DEAR JACKSONVILLE: You may be young, but you are very wise.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Trapped" that she is not alone. After 18 years of marriage, my husband had his fling. The next six months were torture. (The only good part of it was I lost 25 pounds, which gave me back the figure I had when we were married.)

I didn't run to a lawyer. I went to a doctor for my nerves, and we had a long talk. I found out that part of the fault was mine. In raising our children, I was so busy being a good mother, I had forgotten how to be a good wife. I also let the children get me down, yelled a lot and was irritable and grumpy much of the time.

I made up my mind to change. I learned to make up my face like a movie star got a new hair-style, and bought some sharp clothes. I really concentrated on pleasing my husband, and I made a play for him all over again. It worked!

We will be married 22 years next month, and I thank God for the other woman. She opened my eyes.

"NOT TRAPPED" DEAR ABBY: I am still laughing about something that happened this morning. The character who gave me that laugh sounds like someone who'd write to you.

I am a switchboard operator for the telephone company. When I answered a call this

Gov. Smith Will Submit Vetoed Bills

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Gov. Preston Smith said Thursday he will submit some previously vetoed bills to the special legislative session if Texas lawmakers complete work on a two-year appropriation bill.

Gov. Smith said the most important bill among those he vetoed last week was the one creating 27 new district courts.

"Maintaining law and order is the greatest problem we need to solve," Smith said of the bill. He said in an interview the previously vetoed bills could be submitted to the legislature if the legislature completes work on the appropriation and revenue bills within 15 to 18 days after the session gets underway.

Smith vetoed a one-year appropriation bill, saying it should have been for the traditional two years while he was vetoing 38 other bills and 12 concurrent resolutions because he said they reached his desk too late and were not properly prepared.

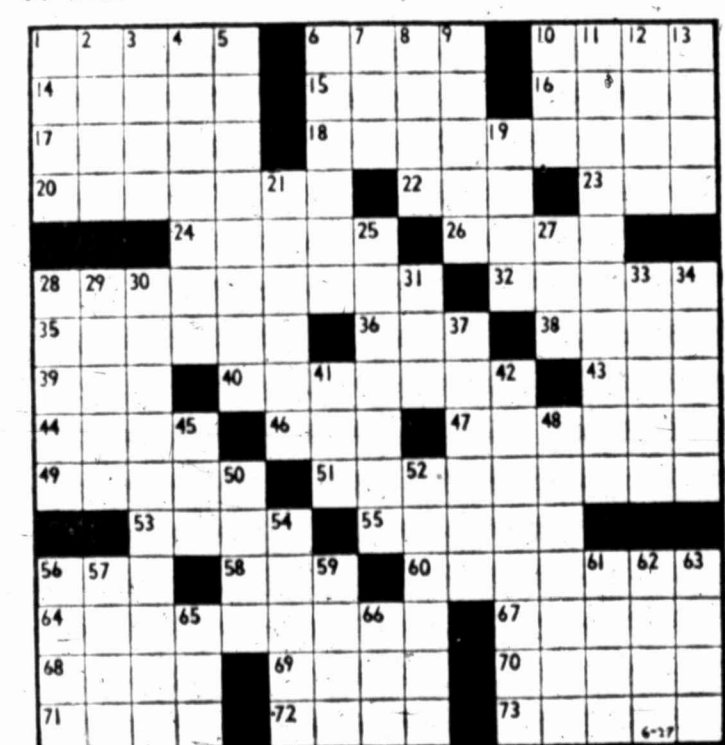

He has said he will call a special session to begin July 21 or July 28.

Religious Schools Reporting Friction

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Friction is running high today in several sectors of the religious academic scene as a result of personnel shakeups, stirring sparks among students, administrators and professors.

Faculty ousters, in some cases, have touched off student protests and calls for outside inquiries.

At Jesuit-run Boston College, about 2,500 students signed a petition challenging the administration's action denying tenure to a noted Catholic theologian, Dr. Mary Daly, and several other faculty members.

Students also staged a mass protest march.

Although voicing respect for the student concern, the college president, the Very Rev. Seavey Joyce, has stuck to the decision, with the backing of the academic senate, and declined to make public the reasons for it.

Says Dr. Daly: "I can only conclude that the Jesuits here don't like my ideas and want only one point of view expressed. So they've proceeded to eliminate the opposition."

What they did, in effect, was to fire me. Diversity of opinion is not appreciated around here."

The holder of seven degrees, including three doctorates in religion, philosophy and theology, Dr. Daly last year authored a controversial book, "The Church and the Second Sex," contending that a male-dominated Church has traditionally restricted women to a secondary place in it.

"Some of the ideas she expressed were considered pretty radical by the theology faculty," Charles Barry, editor of the tenure and promotion procedures.

In Arkadelphia, Ark., the campus newspaper, said. He said the undergraduate congress was now working to achieve a greater voice in faculty

Dr. Ralph A. Phelps, resigned after heading the institution for 16 years, claiming an "ultraconservative group" in the state Baptist convention insisted on curbing academic freedom, open inquiry and quality education.

"They're not my kind of cats," he commented. "Baptists claim to be great believers in freedom, but they really only seem to believe in the freedom to agree with their traditional position."

At New Orleans Baptist Seminary, where the three members of the theology department have resigned, one in open protest, the American Association of Theological Schools has scheduled a check-up this spring.

It is a regular, periodic evaluation, says the association's president, Dr. Jesse H. Ziegler, of Dayton, Ohio, but it will examine "all aspects of the life and operation of the school."

In Atlanta, a meeting of the Association of Baptist Professors of Religion adopted a resolution saying more than a score of professors have left Baptist campuses in the last decade under "the stifling effects of a restrictive atmosphere."

"This must cease," they declared. They cited no specific case. But they protested denominational promotion given a book, "Why I Preach that the Bible is Literally True," by the Southern Baptist president, Dr. W.A. Criswell, of Dallas.

Youth Evangelism Meet Set July 3-4

DALLAS — The second annual Youth Evangelism Conference will be held July 3-4, in Dallas at Moody College on the SMU campus.

The meetings, which are expected to attract thousands of young men and women from across the state, are sponsored by the Evangelism Division of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The convocation begins at 7 p.m. July 3 with testimony from Tom Lester, television personality from the "Green Acres" show.

Others scheduled to participate in the two-day program are B. Gray Allison, Louisiana evangelist, Linda Barnett, popular and operatic singer, a native of Fort Worth; Newman McLarry, Oklahoma pastor; Craig Baynham, Dallas Cowboys football star; John Wheeler, Texas seminary student; Barry Wood, California pastor; Gerald B. Ray, Fort Worth minister of music; and Jon Enloe, Houston soloist.

On Friday afternoon, a 98 member troupe from First Baptist Church, Spartanburg, S.C., will present a new Christian musical, "I Wonder."

In addition to the youth, pastors, parents and friends are also invited to the program, according to BGCT Evangelism Director C. Wade Freeman.

"The idealism of the young heart, the desire for a better tomorrow, is the background for the Youth Evangelism Conference. Christ offers true peace, pure love, genuine liberty. His cause is the crusade for a new world. During the sessions of this conference, the finest young people in the state of Texas will be challenged to give their best to Him — the builder of that desired better tomorrow," Freeman said.

He will spend four weeks specializing in historical and theological fields, complementing the work he did last summer in Biblical and practical areas. He also will be putting the finishing touches on his thesis, "Some Preaching Values in Today's Theology."

He received his bachelor of arts degree at Baylor University in 1955 and his bachelor of divinity at Southern Seminary in 1958.

The Rev. Bryan Ross of San Angelo will be guest speaker Sunday and on July 13 and 20. The Rev. Ernest Hollis of Wickett will speak July 6.

Must Rise Above Tangle

WASHINGTON, D.C. — be prophetic," Brown asserts. Realistically the church can't fully extricate itself from the "Establishment," but it can and must rise above the entanglement, writes an evangelical scholar in a recent issue of Christianity Today. This is a necessary if the church is to be a witness "to God and His reality," rather than what a sick world prescribes for its cure.

The Rev. Dr. Harold O. J. Brown says that when the establishment — the circle of those who control secular power — moves, church leaders, "at least those who do not want to lose their membership," move with it. His article says the church must operate from its true "radical" or root, "which is the eternal and authoritative Word of God."

To operate from any other basis is to subvert the church's mission and be used as a playground and a tool by the powers of the International Fellowship of Evangelical Students in Switzerland, holds four degrees from Harvard.

Solutions to world problems coming "from the branches of the human contemporary situation, the entanglements, the symptoms, can never be genuinely radical and can never board. Even in Communist countries, he says, the church has a "stake" in the establishment and a certain influence on it. "They pay for these favors by keeping religious opposition to Communism quiet at home and by promoting their government's policies on the international and diplomatic fronts."

Speaks Out On Funerals

Lots of persons, including some ministers, are frightfully mixed up over funerals.

This is the gist of a trenchant article by a denominational editor in commenting on the dwindling attendance at funerals and the growing trend to simpler, "nonreligious" rites.

"Many ministers have retreated from the true function of the Christian funeral," states Dr. Robert J. Hastings in a recent church magazine. He exhorts pastors to get clear in their own minds what funerals ought to be, and then to enlighten their congregations.

Too often, Dr. Hastings notes, the concentration is on comforting the mourners and providing an atmosphere of bland sweetness through eulogies and the singing of "sentimental ditties."

The true purpose of a Christian funeral is "worship," he states. The aim, he contends, "is to focus attention on the greatness and goodness and everlasting nature of God." The minister therefore ought to "involve the congregation and the family in the worship," urges Dr. Hastings, editor of "The Illinois Baptist" and author of several books.

"Why should the family be shielded?" he asks. "The family that shares in Christian worship is far better strengthened than a family that sits passively," he states. Furthermore, Dr. Hastings insists that sentimental songs be discarded. The music ought to focus attention on God.

"If there ever is a time for a Christian to sing," he points out, "it is in the face of death."

"If there ever is a time for a Christian to sing," he points out, "it is in the face of death."

Protecting Faith

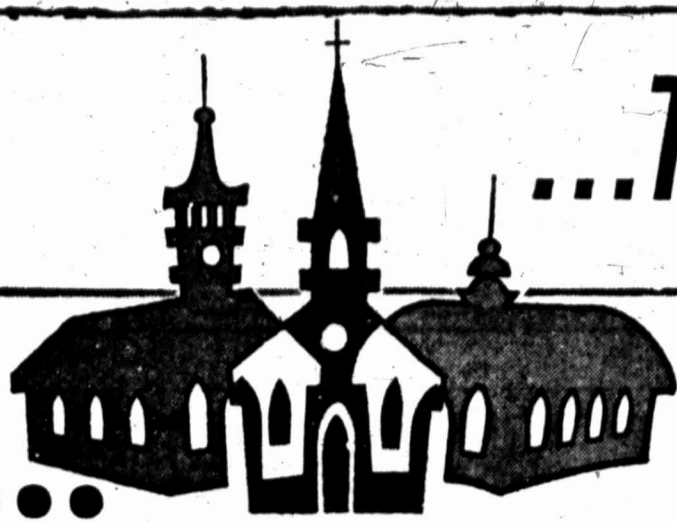

LONDON (AP) — Unitas, the English Roman Catholic lay organization which backs orthodoxy in teaching and the return to such practices as the public rosary and Latin mass, is organizing itself into parish cells "to defend the Pope and the faith."

A spokesman said Unitas sought, by underground tactics, to counter false doctrine and practices which he claimed had found their way, often with clergy support, into parish routine.

It's your privilege ...

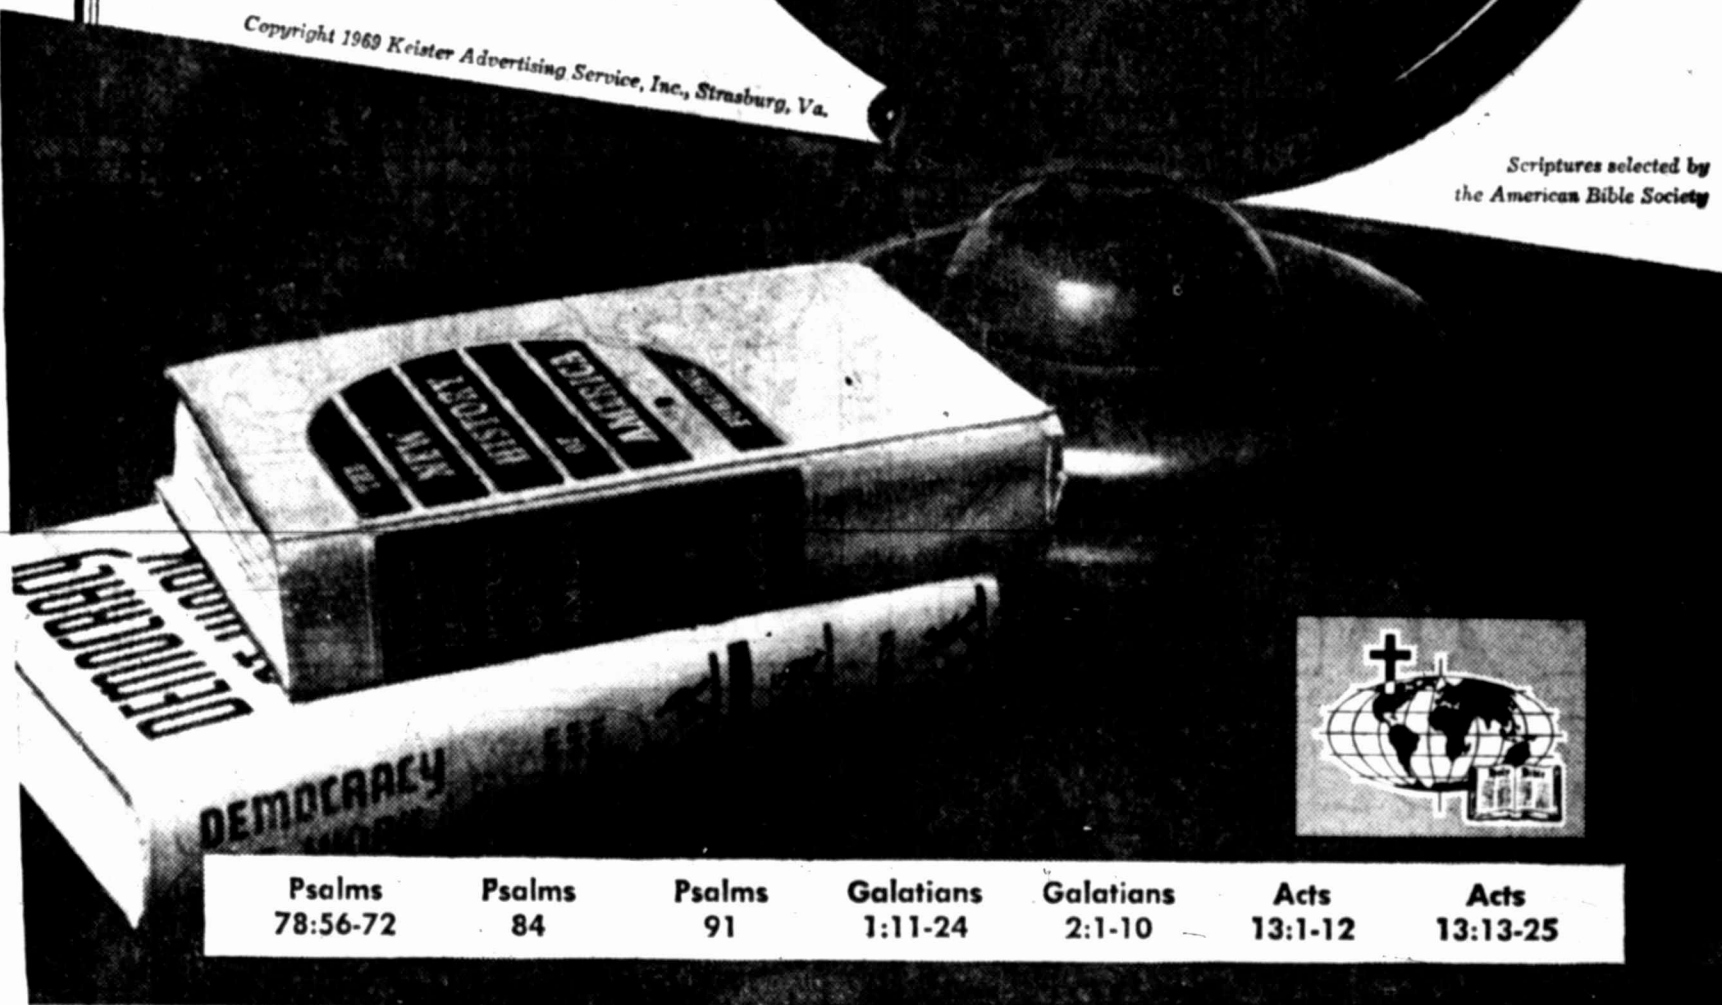

Here in America no one tells you that you have to work. Of course, when you do, you and your family enjoy self-respect as well as material benefits.

No one tells you, either, when or how you must play. But, when you take time for occasional recreation, you become refreshed, alert and ready for more work.

And no one tells you that you must worship the Lord, your God, regularly. But, when you do, you and your family are immeasurably blessed.

His mercy and loving-kindness will embrace your life. Knowledge of His infinite goodness and confidence in His eternal vigilance and love will sustain you at all times.

These blessings, and more, are yours so long as you keep alive the glorious American privileges of freedom to work, play and worship as you choose.

Moon Sample Chance Slim

HOUSTON (AP) — The director of medical research for the Manned Spacecraft Center says there is virtually no chance of the Apollo 11 astronauts bringing back to earth a moon organism.

Dr. Charles Berry said Wednesday if there is one it would be recognizable on earth. "Most experts agree there are certain building blocks present that we would be bound to recognize," Berry said.

Dr. Craig L. Discher, head of the clinical pathology department of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration agreed with Dr. Berry.

"I think it will be as the physicians have found, that wherever you go in the universe there are just a certain number of elements to be found," Discher said.

Berry and Fischer spoke at the 33rd annual educational conference of the national association of sanitarians.

They outlined meticulous preparations made to isolate returning moon samples and astronauts after the moon landing scheduled next month.

Mini-Skirt Must Go

Mary Ann Royer, 18, of Camp Hill, Pa., employed at the State Capitol in Harrisburg, Pa., during the summer months as a Capitol guide, has been advised by her superior that the mini-skirted dress must go and longer skirts substituted. Barbara said complaints have been lodged against the shortness of the skirts on her and three other part-time guides.

Nutria May Be Just Thing To Clean Your Stock Tank

Editor's Note: Want to hire a harmless-looking little rodent to clear out that river or stock tank? Nutria may be just what you're looking for—but don't leave your lawn furniture lying around unprotected.

By The Associated Press
Right now, an undetermined number of coyotes, incorrectly but more popularly called nutria, are eating their way around Texas.

The little rodents draw considerable attention because of their somewhat bizarre appearance, but they pay no attention to curiosity.

All they are concerned with is the fulltime job of keeping their teeth down to a reasonable length so they can swallow (their teeth never stop growing). To do this they must gnaw. They aren't fussy about what they gnaw on, either. Boats, trees or lawn furniture are equal game.

Of course, nutria like to eat, too. That's what started the problem.

They were originally brought to this country from South America by a Louisiana biologist who put them in a water pen to study. A hurricane did away the pen, and the rodents scattered. Some ended up in Texas.

Since they eat plants in water, agriculturists looked at them as potential friends in clearing vegetation from long-choked streams.

Some ranchers put a herd (gaggle?) but into the San Saba River about 10 years ago, but they didn't believe.

At first they performed the task admirably, eating away the water-choking vegetation they started eating the vegetation along the banks.

The ranchers discovered that nutria burrow into banks to live. They did this, caving in the banks.

Since the rodents didn't have a convenient South American jungle to gnaw their way through, they found a more indigenous substitute — pecan trees.

Today, the San Saba area is a myriad of pock-marked river banks and chewed pecan trees.

Farmers blast them with shotguns, but don't even dent the population.

On Lake Brownwood, lawn furniture and young shade trees are targets for the little chompers.

Besides all that, people who live near the water have found that nutria understandably, pre-fer turnip greens, carrots and other garden items to water-choking vegetation like moss.

Since they don't destroy entire crops or infect stock or slaugh-

ATTENTION: FARMERS, RANCHERS AND RURAL PROPERTY OWNERS OF HOWARD COUNTY

If your principal source of income is from farming or ranching it is very important that you sign an affidavit to that effect at once, both husband and wife must sign if property is jointly owned.

This affidavit should include the net income for 1966, 1967, and 1968 on a per acre basis also it should include a legal description of property owned. This will show what farm and ranch property is worth for agricultural purposes. The affidavit must be signed before a Notary Public.

For this affidavit form and additional information, contact Howard County Rural Taxpayers Assn. 117½ Runnels, Big Spring, Texas. Phone 267-5612.

A well delivered performance in both bidding and play led to a tidy profit for North and South in today's deal.

The South hand is worth 25 points including high cards and distribution, and tho he is perhaps a shade shy in playing strength of the requirements for a demand bid, his holding contains too many high cards to risk a mere one bid which may easily be passed out.

North raised South to three hearts in order to fix the trump suit. When South showed a second suit by bidding four clubs, North cue bid the ace of diamonds—implying an interest in slam. Observe that if he were content to settle for a mere game, he would have returned to four hearts.

South was obliged to sign off since he had already told his full story. However, when North made another try by overbidding the game, South reconsidered and proceeded to slam. His points were all gilt-edged and the hands appeared to fit well.

West opened the jack of diamonds which was permitted to hold the trick as East signaled encouragement with the eight. The ace was put up from dummy on the continuation and a small diamond was then ruffed with the nine of hearts.

The ace and king of trumps were cashed as both opponents followed suit. The North hand was reentered next with the queen of clubs to ruff out the remaining diamond with the queen of hearts.

A club was ruffed in dummy and the jack of hearts pulled the last trump as South discarded the jack of spades. Declarer's ace-king of spades and ace-king of clubs took the last four tricks.
