Tennis Tourney July 27-Aug. 1

The Fred Whittle Memorial trophy, which will be awarded winners in Division A, is on display in the lobby of First National Bank. It will be displayed later at other local business establishments.

The tournament, largest and most popular on the local scene, will be played on tennis courts throughout the community, with final matches scheduled for Sunday, August 1, on the courts of Key Allegro Tennis Club which will be official host for the meet.

Rockport Tennis Association is sponsoring the tournament this year, relieving Dewey Lingo, originator of the tournament and the Fred Whittle trophy who managed the affair for the first three years of its existence. Dewey asked to be relieved of the responsibility this year.

An innovation this year is a junior division with three classifications of players depending on varying levels of skill, in addition to the usual three senior classifications. Because the late Col. Whittle, retired Air Force officer, devoted the last years of his life to promoting tennis among local young people, especially high school students, the association thought it appropriate that the tournament be opened to younger players.

Joe Hugenberg, president of the association, is tournament director. Tournament advisors are Dr. Jim Wideman, Lingo, John Gutze, Rockport Racquet Club professional, Willie Rinche, Key Allegro Tennis Club professional, and Jim Langham, dean of local tennis professionals.

An added feature at this year's tournament will be a barbecue supper served at courtyard in Key Allegro Sunday at 6:30 p.m. following final matches. Tickets will be $2.50 per person but tournament players will be given a free ticket. Entry fees are $7.50 for seniors and $4 for juniors. Entry blanks are available at both local tennis clubs.

Shrimp Tags Are Completed

Investigators from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department and the Department of Commerce National Marine Fisheries Service have completed their shrimp tagging operations in the program dubbed "Shrimp Migration '76". Roy Johnson, Jr., Biologist for Texas Parks and Wildlife Department states that the purpose of the program is to trace the migrational patterns of shrimp in the bays and the Gulf of Mexico.

The tagging operations commenced on June 1. During the first week of operations, approximately 1,947 shrimp were captured, tagged and released in the upper Laguna Madre. On June 7 the operation moved to Aransas Bay where approximately 9,500 shrimp were tagged and released at the mouth of the Lydia Ann Channel on the southern end of the bay.

Participation of commercial shrimpers in this program is essential. The researchers involved in Shrimp Migration '76 are requesting that when a tagged shrimp is captured, the tag number, species of shrimp, time of capture and location of capture be reported. In addition to this, the name and address of the individual catching the shrimp is also requested. Finally, the investigators prefer to have the entire shrimp with attached tag returned to one of the contact points listed below.

Shrimp Migration '76 points of contact for passing information are:

Historical Marker Dedication Is Scheduled Here for June 30

An official Texas historical marker designating the site of the Marion Packing Co., at Fulton Beach Road and Chaparral Street, Fulton, will be dedicated June 30 at 10:30 a.m. by county and city officials, it has been announced by Mrs. Charles Gibson, chairman of Aransas County Historical Survey committee.

The historical marker project in one of the Woman's Club of Aransas County Bicentennial projects. Officers and members of the club will participate in the dedication ceremonies. The public also is invited.

Active in the dedication ceremonies will be County Judge John Wendell, Rockport's mayor Walter S. Falk, Jr., Dr. Jerry Shaw, city councilman who also is Rockport's Bicentennial Commission chairman, and Charles L. Hale, county commissioner.

The marker is of cast aluminum and measures 18 by 28 inches. The inscription reads:

"Site of Marion Packing Co."

"The ruins of this rendering vat mark the location of the Marion Packing Co. (spelled 'Meriam' in some records), one of the dozen or more meat packing plants built in the Rockport-Fulton area in the 1860's and 1870's to process the huge herds of range cattle that roamed Texas after the Civil War. Here beef was dried, salted or pickled before shipping. The by-products, such as tallow, hides, horns and bones were sent to eastern factories. Like most of the coastal plants, Marion Packing Co., flourished until about 1880, when shipping cattle to northern markets proved more profitable. (1976)"

"Marker sponsor: Woman's Club of Aransas County"

Marking of historic sites and landmarks is a part of the Texas Historical Commission's program. It also includes archaeological investigations, museum consultations and administering the National Historic Preservation Act in Texas.

The name and location of the local marker will appear in the next edition of the "Guide to Official Texas Historical Markers, providing a stimulus to tourist travel in this area, to arouse interest in historical tours and to acquaint people of this area with their unique heritage.

Members of the local Woman's Club who have been especially active in the marker project include Mrs. H.C. Bristol, 1975 president of the club under whose leadership it was initiated, Mrs. Roy Burke and Mrs. W.R. Schock. handled extensive research to develop background necessary before the Texas Historical Commission could act favorably on the club's application for a marker. Both researchers credited Emory M. Spencer and his files with providing most of the supporting data. Mrs. Gibson is the Texas Historical Commission representative in Rockport.

The new historical marker is located on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Warren, who were credited with being most cooperative in working with Woman's Club representatives.

Two Killed In Accident

Two 16 year old Louisiana youths were killed near here in an industrial accident June 15. Fatally injured were Jerome Mire and Michael Thomas, both of Abbeville, La.

The accident happened at a construction project at Cove Harbor, according to Justice of the Peace Lawrence Miller.

Miller said the two were working on a steel oil storage tank. He said steel beams were resting on the edge of the tank. "The edge of the tank collapsed causing the workers to fall to the floor. Ten sheets of metal fell on them crushing them to death," Miller said.

Defendants Sentenced

The following sentences were handed out by 36th District Judge John H. Miller last week:

Ronald Dale Harrison, charged with burglary, was given a five-year probated sentence.

Jill R. Hulsey, charged with arson, received a five-year probated sentence.

Don Edward Berry, charged with driving while intoxicated (second offense), was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

REDUCING COSTS ON SHRIMP BOATS

One of the better possibilities to reduce operating cost on shrimp boats as well as other watercraft will be discussed at a Sea Grant program on July 1. The subject of the program is vessel propulsion with primary emphasis on the Kort Nozzle and associated propellers. Long used on work boats to provide maximum power with minimum fuel consumption, the Kort Nozzle is only recently making its debut on the commercial fishing scene.

The county Sea Grant Advisory planners have arranged for Walter Zimmerman of Marine Mart, a boat building firm in Port Isabel, to explain the concepts and adaptations of the Kort Nozzle. Zimmerman has installed a nozzle on some of his shrimp boats and reports a fuel economy of approximately 20% while maintaining the same towing capabilities. A representative from the headquarters of Michigan Propeller Corporation will join Zimmerman on the program. George Hydrick of Marine Propeller Works Inc. of Aransas Pass is making arrangements with Michigan Propellers for the sending of their representative.

With the probability of continued rising fuel costs, the Aransas-San Patricio Sea Grant Advisory Committee feels it is essential for every boat operator to learn as much as possible about methods of fuel economy. The Kort Nozzle might be a solution in the fight to keep operating cost down.

This program will begin at 7:30 on Thursday, July 1 in the conference room of the First State Bank in Aransas Pass.

The program is free and open to the public. For more information, contact Ralph Rayburn, County Extension Marine Agent, Rockport. 729-1211.

LULAC QUEEN CONTEST SET

At the last meeting of Rockport L.U.L.A.C. Council it was voted to have a L.U.L.A.C. Queen Contest and coronation dance in late September. Date will be announced later. Any girl between the ages of 14 and 21 who wishes to participate, call 729-5245 or 729-5851 or get in contact with Nino Garcia or Frank Covarubias.

Plan Greater 1976 SeaFair Than Event Held Last Year

Addressing itself to specific problems uncovered during the 1975 SeaFair, the planning committee for Rockport's second annual SeaFair community celebration October 9 and 10 in Navigation Park met June 16 at United Savings Association.

It was pointed out that the crowd at last year's festival -- 15,000, 20,000 or even more -- was far larger than anyone had anticipated. In fact, it was the largest ever assembled in the history of this community.

As a result, a number of shortages and inconveniences developed and the committee is determined to avoid them this year, Bill Janeczek, fairgrounds chairman, declared.

It was decided at last week's meeting to order eleven 15 by 60-foot tents, each of which will accommodate 12 booths, as well as one 50 by 60-foot tent, two 20 by 20, probably for ticket sales, two large tents for dispensing beer and one 50 by 60 tent to accommodate eaters. Total tents will be four to six more than last year.

Twenty booths have been designated for art exhibits, 48 for crafts, about 36 for commercial exhibits and the remainder to accommodate food stands sponsored by local organizations. It was reported that deposits already have been paid for 23 craft booths.

There will be more space this year for dispensing food and a number of new items probably will be added, including tea and lemonade. All food booths were reported to have been reserved, largely by the same organizations that operated them last year.

Space allotted for ticket sales will be four times, possibly eight times, as large as for the 1975 SeaFair when this phase of the operation proved to be a serious bottleneck.

An added convenience for those interested in participating in SeaFair or merely attending it will be an information desk to be set up in the Chamber of Commerce office several weeks in advance of the festival. It will be manned by volunteers who will be qualified to answer questions, identify sources of help for participants and distribute descriptive material and colorful bumper stickers. The committee has asked prospective volunteers who are willing to man the information desk to telephone the Chamber of Commerce office. Many volunteers also are needed for other phases of the SeaFair operation according to Janeczek.

Members of the SeaFair committee pointed out that participation of hundreds of volunteers in last year's event made it a truly community affair and helped insure its success.

Bill Christian, general chairman and father of the SeaFair idea, stressed that community participation is what Rockport SeaFair is all about. "The most inspiring and most important aspect of last year's festival was the enthusiastic participation of so many people," he added.

Last week's committee meeting was largely devoted to planning mechanics of operations at the Navigation Park fairgrounds. Planning for other aspects of the SeaFair festival, such as the street parade and entertainment program, also is underway and will be discussed and details resolved at later meetings of appropriate committees.

SeaFair bumper stickers already are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, as are colorful brochures describing the event. These are being distributed free and local residents have been urged to help get widespread distribution on them, especially to residents of nearby communities. The Chamber of Commerce office also is distributing them to Chamber of Commerce offices throughout the state, and is including brochures in all its mailings.

Committee members attending last week's meeting included Bill Christian, Janeczek, Dennis & Iris Jenkins, Pat & Linda Daly, Roy Jr., & Kathy Rogers, Linda Smith, Joe Lister, Peggy Bloch, Lois Landrum and Dave Crooks.

County Hires Dog Catcher

On June 14 there was a regular meeting of the County Commissioners Court with the following members present: John D. Wendell, County Judge; Eric Eller, Commissioner Precinct No. 1; Ray Longino, Commissioner Precinct No. 2; Raymond Owens, Commissioner Precinct No. 3; C.L. Hale, Commissioner Precinct No. 4; and Ruby Hart, County Clerk.

The Court unanimously agreed to hire Fidel Guerrero as dog catcher provided the City of Rockport approves same.

Robert Hewes, Sheriff, appeared before the Court to request improvements to the dispatcher's office. Bids were opened as follows: Rockport Home & Improvement-$588.00; and H&S Construction-$421.50. Motion was made by Commissioner Owens to accept low bid by H&S Construction to construct an enclosure with glass window in front of dispatcher's desk and to amend the budget according. Motion was seconded by Commissioner Eller. Motion carried unanimously.

The Court approved an application for underground cable by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. to be located in Palmetto Park Subdivision.

Report for May 1976 on Council of Aging was read to the Court.

Blood Pressure Service Set

At a meeting of the Aransas County Heart Association, plans for a free blood pressure service were made.

Facilities to take the blood pressures of all who apply will be made available on July 3 and 4 at the Art Festival grounds.

A registered nurse must be in charge at all times.

The Heart Association hopes to provide this service every few months in the area, offered without charge and conducted in easily accessible locations.

There was some discussion of a change in meeting plans. Members present agreed to hold their "second Tuesday" meetings in the evenings at 7:30 for the convenience of a greater number of concerned people.

Mrs. Connie Garcia, Association president, stressed the need for more volunteers.

FHA Officers Workshop Held

Future Homemakers of America Melissa Ramirez, President, Pam Batemen, Vice-President, Virginia Rossman and Brenda Valdez, fourth Vice-Presidents; Emma Ortiz, Secretary; Mary Ann Kelly, Treasurer; Karen Olenick, Historian; and Maria Gonzalez, council member met during the past week in the homemaking department to learn leadership principles and to determine goals for the organization for next school term.

The group viewed slides and filmstrips from the National FHA headquarters entitled, "This Is FHA", and "Trip Out-Try Education". Filmstrips on Parliamentary Procedure based on the Parliamentary Guide by Jarrell D. Gray, Ed. D. of East Texas State University, Commerce, Texas, were also viewed and discussed.

The group became aware of IMPACT and how it is used. IMPACT is a series of steps which gives logical order to the planning of programs and projects.

CORRECTION

In last week's Pilot, a number of business establishments were listed and thanked by the Rockport Firemen's Auxiliary for contributing door prizes for the Auxiliary's annual dance which was held May 29.

Inadvertently the following names were left out: Shep's Package Store, S&R Waterhole, Johnson's Drug, Roaten's Drug and Winn's. The Pilot regrets the omission.

PLAY SCHOOL — Under the watchful eye of Diana Gilliam are Laurie Lasswell, Billy Barker, Tara Barganski Beth Barker, Kristi Puster, and Russell Crawford, participants in the homemaking playschool.

Homemaking Play School

Thirteen young children enjoyed the activities of the playschool held June 7-11 at the high school homemaking department. Songs, stories, games, and various crafts such as clay, finger painting, coloring, and making flower paper-weights, all combined to help give the children an eventful five days of fun.

The boys and girls attending were Sherry Naquin, Bianca Perla, Laurie and Jaime Lasswell, Angela Huffmeyer, Tara Barganski, Hollie and Devon Tiner, Billy and Beth Barker, Claudia Rocha, Kristi Puster, and Russell Crawford.

Leading the activities was Diana Gilliam who was assisted by Karen Olenick, Patsi Kelly, Julie Hiller, and others. Overseeing the playschool was Miss Mary Strange, high school homemaking teacher.

SEN. SCHWARTZ FAVORS ENERGY BILLS

Austin-Seadock and Loop (Louisiana Offshore Oil Port) are not competitive with each other. This was a major point made by Bill Reed, president of LOOP, at a meeting of the Coastal States Organization in New Orleans on June 9-10. Reed also explained how LOOP will use underground salt domes for storage instead of conventional above ground storage tanks.

Texas State Senator A.R. "Babe" Schwartz is the current chairman of the Coastal States Organization. He noted, "I believe it is important to realize that these two facilities are not directly competitive with each other, and in fact, complement each other. Together they will serve about 50% of the U.S. refining capacity. SEADOCK will serve 25% located principally along the upper Texas coast. LOOP will serve another 25%, some in Louisiana and the rest in the Midwest, where the oil will be moved up the existing CAPLINE pipeline from St. James to the Chicago area."

Pending federal legislation that promises to provide aid to local governments to help cover the costs incurred as a result of energy development along the Texas coast was also discussed. The legislation was initially formulated to deal with Outer Continental Shelf oil and gas production, but in its present form, it could be used to help cover costs associated with offshore ports-like SEADOCK and LOOP. The money could be used to pay for public facilities and services, such as roads, hospitals, fire protection, etc., if it can be shown that these are a result of such new facilities. For example, SEADOCK will certainly generate some increased traffic on Brazoria County's roads and highways. Some of this money might be obtained to help with improving the county's road system.

"I am urging everyone along the Texas coast to write their congressman in support of this measure," Senator Schwartz said. This legislation was just reported out of a conference committee on June 9th. It should be voted on by both Houses of Congress within two weeks. Originally the measures passed the Senate by a vote of 86-6, and the House 370-14. However, the White House is opposing the measure and smaller margins are anticipated. It may also be necessary to override a presidential veto.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Texas Coastal and Marine Council in Austin, (512)475-3015.

FIRE RIPS EXPO SITE

MONTREAL—A flash fire ripped through the former United States pavilion at the Expo 67 World's Fair site leaving the famed geodesic dome a blackened metal skeleton.

Toys For Tots

College Station—"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" isn't just an old folk saying, Dorothy Taylor, a family life education specialist, contends.

She added that researchers have found that the time a child spends at play is not aimless or wasted-but is an important part of his development into mature adulthood.

Miss Taylor is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Between infancy and age 2, it is play that does the most to bring out a child's natural interest in the world about him. With properly chosen toys as his 'tools,' a child is encouraged to imagine, create and most of all—to have fun," she said.

Toys offer a variety of experiences. They give a child an opportunity to express his very own creativity and ideas. Toys foster imagination and invite a child to pretend.

"When a child dramatizes and imitates an adult, it helps him understand the world about him—it is sort of a trial or instant replay for children."

"But toys need not be costly nor numerous to provide constructive play. Probably the only useless toy is the one a child is no longer interested in or one that is too advanced for his young age. It's important to select toys on the basis of interest and the ability of the child," she explained.

Parents often find it easy to buy toys for older children and grandchildren, but they are sometimes puzzled about buying for the small child of 1-3.

"What kind of toys are suited for the young child? The 1-2-year-old youngster enjoys creative toys such as a lacing board, simple puzzles, building toys such as a house, a boat or building blocks.

"Toddlers need simple toys to work out problems at very slow speeds. Pull toys help toddlers continue to develop the large muscles in their bodies and develop coordination."

"Toddlers and little children enjoy imitating mother in ironing, washing, dressing a baby, and make-believe household toys that are large enough to handle easily and big baby dolls are favorites of toddlers," she explained.

The infant enjoys a different kind of toy. He is learning everything. Toys of bright colors, shapes, textures should appeal to the infant and help him discover colors, lines, forms, textures, shadows, space and sound. Care should be taken to eliminate the noises that are too harsh for young ears, she reminded.

The preschool child who is 3-6 years old has different needs in toys. A playhouse or telephones, that are life size and sturdy, and other creative toys are favorites for preschool children.

When selecting toys, be sure to check these points:

—Is the toy strong, durable, safe, sanitary and attractive?

—Can the child manage the toy by himself?

—Is the toy suited to the child's age and development?

—Do you have space to store the toys?

—Does the toy require a minimum of adult supervision?

Danger In Water

Many summer accidents are the result of carelessness in the water. The surf attracts millions, with inevitable drownings, as venturesome individuals go out too far.

Inland lakes, ponds and rivers claim their victims, especially among non-swimmers who occasionally are stranded in deep water with fatal consequences.

It is appropriate, therefore, to caution readers about the dangers that lurk in water.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ACTIONS

At the Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting, it was voted to erect signs at various locations throughout the area to direct people to the Rockport-Fulton community and publicize the attractions.

Mrs. Charles Roe, Sr., reported that progress was being made on the boat race project and that a meeting of the tourist promotion committee probably would complete preliminary arrangements.

The problem of attracting more high school senior trips by out-of-town schools was discussed and a committee was named to look into this matter.

The Rev. A. Arnett Ward called attention to the need for a baseball diamond for larger boys and young men of the community.

Need for beach improvements at Rockport Harbor was considered and a committee headed by Grady West was named to contact the Navigation District to see what could be done.

Consumer Food News

College Station—Several good values will appear on dairy products—including milk, yogurt, cheese slices and cottage cheese—during June, Dairy Month, one forecaster says.

"Dairymen are producing more milk as a result of lower feed costs, higher support prices and higher market prices—and dairy prices continue at reasonable levels for the consumer, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt explained.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

At poultry counters, turkeys have "very attractive prices," but fryer chicken prices will swing upward, so consumers should take advantage of any specials offered currently, Mrs. Clyatt advised.

Along grocery store aisles, the supply of commercially canned vegetables is larger—with lower prices on concentrated tomato products, in particular.

These include catsup, tomato sauce, puree and paste.

Fresh vegetables at the most economical prices are carrots, cabbage, yellow squash, green beans and broccoli—along with corn, cucumbers, dry yellow onions, radishes and green onions.

Fruit choices on the economy side are a variety of melons, bananas and oranges.

"Strawberry quality is outstanding, and prices are about the same as last week. However, peaches, cherries and plums are available only in limited supply—and prices are high," Mrs. Clyatt added.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Since snacks are important, choose snack items that are good for the body and the budget: they include fresh fruits, crisp raw vegetables, cheese, dried fruit, fruit juices—along with milk and ice cream drinks, and hard-cooked eggs.

NURSING HOME NEWS JUNE 14-20

The Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center is always a very busy place. We try to make our residents' home life as happy both physically as well as the other ways.

Our men got their hair cut by our friendly and much respected Arturo Perez of City Barber Shop in Ingleside Monday evening. Again, "Thanks, Arthur."

Yours truly went to Alice, Texas, for the Coastal Bend Activities Director's Association and we have already begun formulating plans for the Shrine Circus which is held in August.

Tuesday morning was exercise time and we began the week with a good many of our residents taking part.

Tuesday afternoon we were given a musical treat by our own Alfred Zabel on the accordion. Al sure missed Pat Baker, but he is quite a wonderful person as well as a fine musician all by himself.

Wednesday morning was time for Bonnie Fletcher and Jean Windham to have their paint class. They are both very faithful and we love them very much.

Tuesday afternoon the "Life Savers" and the Friendship Club from Mobile Inn Trailer Park in Fulton were out for their game day.

Thursday the Social Director took a four-day vacation and my residents took care of our scheduled programs. Josephine Barber and Irma Owens even held the morning exercise classes and I want the whole world to know how proud I am of them and all of my people who really do make their home a happy one.

Thursday morning was the Aransas Pass Pentecostal Church of God Hour with Bro. Alton and his ladies.

Thursday evening was Bible study time.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday was, as usual, as far as

I know, everything went along very well. I am glad to be back home and we are looking into another busy week here at the Center.

SON VISITS

Mr. & Mrs. Paul Morrison were happy to see their son Dick who lives in California and drives a big truck all over the U.S. He happened to have a load to deliver to Corpus Christi so spent two nights and a day with them, leaving Sunday P.M. for Ft. Hood.

SHOWER HONORS MISS CASTERLINE

Miss Cheryl Casterline, bride-elect of Wesley Purdy, was honored on June 18 with a bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Leslie Casterline.

The serving table was covered with a lace cloth over pale green and was centered with an arrangement of peach gladiola, white carnations, daisy mums and fern. The cake, decorated with a cupid standing on a bed of peach roses, and the fruit punch were at either end of the table.

The bride-elect was assisted in opening the gifts by Miss Natalie McCabe, Mrs. Frank Casterline and Little Miss Stephanie Casterline. Other members of the house party were the hostesses, Mrs. Del McLain, Mrs. Norman McLead, Mrs. Randy Ramey and Mrs. Leslie Casterline.

Miss Casterline is the daughter of Mrs. Curtis Dotson of Rockport and Cecil Casterline of Dallas. Mr. Purdy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Purdy of Weatherford, Okla.

The couple will exchange their wedding vows on July 24 at First Presbyterian Church, Rockport.

LESLIES ENTERTAIN

The John D. Leslie home on Key Allegro has been a "jumping place" all week. Last Saturday their daughter Jennifer from Lexington, Kentucky arrived. At the same time Bernie Rosenthal, also of Lexington and his mother and two small children--Johnathan and Julie of Hollywood and Miami, Fla. arrived and stayed in the house next door.

The Leslies served a light supper to them and also Mr. & Mrs. John L. Leslie. On Sunday, some other friends from Lexington, Ky., Dr. & Mrs. Jim Orr and children--Katie & Jim arrived and are staying at the Ventura Apts. on Key Allegro.

Sunday night the Leslies entertained for all the above plus his uncle and wife Frank and Helen Leslie. The Frank Leslies entertained all on Wednesday night with cocktails and a light supper and showed movies of their Mexico trips.

On Friday the Rosenthals, assisted by Jennifer, served a supper to this group. On Saturday night the John L. Leslies entertained them with a sloppy Joe supper in Peninsula Oaks. The Rosenthals and Jennifer left Sunday night. The Orrs are going to stay another week. They brought their boat and are really enjoying Rockport and vicinity.

Do trees tend to grow to the right--that is, does their grain lean to the right, so to speak?

We already know that there is a right "force" in this hemisphere, which makes rivers cut more sharply into their right banks, which makes projectiles veer right and which makes ocean currents swirl to the right. Weather is affected by it. These tendencies are reversed in the southern hemisphere, where things veer to the left. As for trees, this claim has never been proven. Many believe the grain leans right in this hemisphere.

But the answer to the question above must be qualified: maybe. Study the grain in trees you cut, or see, which have been cut, and see what you think.

The Kinsey Report

Father's Day has come and gone and happy thoughts remain for most dads after being remembered by their children, their wives and (if the fathers are old enough) their grandchildren.

One can't generalize and be accurate but it seems to me that most dads are treated every day as though it was Father's Day. Most children, when they acquire maturity, realize that their fathers (and mothers) really try hard to help their sons and daughters "have things nice" and grow up to lead happy, worthwhile lives.

In my own case, I regret that I didn't do a better job of letting my parents know how much I loved them and how much I appreciated the many things they did for me. It's too late now, unfortunately.

If you'll forgive one more personal comment, my wife and I are grateful for the fact that both of our children for years have gone out of their way to let us know that they love us and appreciate the help and guidance we offered when they were growing up.

A.A.R.P. CARD PARTY

The weekly A.A.R.P. card party was held at Recreation Building on Airport Road June 17th. Host and hostess for bridge was Doris & "Red" Lamberton. Kap Snapp was hostess for canasta.

In ladies' bridge La Rue Nolan took high and Irene Hooper, second prize. In men's bridge, Casey Edmiston was winner and Doug Duncan, runner-up. In canasta, Leta Posey won high prize and Mazie Dunn got second.

Another party will be held on June 24th—same place and same time (1:30 P.M.). Visitors are welcome. Refreshments are on tap all afternoon. The new drapes are up and it is hoped the air conditioning problem will be solved soon. With the fans, however, most people are comfortable.

When politicians forget principles of government in order to gain votes, representative government inevitably loses ground.

There're very few young men, starting out in life, who don't believe that, within a few years, they'll be rich.

Richter-Henderson Wed

Patricia Henderson of Rockport became the bride of Daniel T. Richter, Corpus Christi, in a double-ring ceremony at the Parkway Presbyterian Church in Corpus Christi on June 19.

Patricia is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Weldon Donald Henderson of Rockport. Daniel is the son of Mrs. Edward Seibold of Corpus Christi and Mr. James Richter of Houston. The Rev. A.F. Swearingen, pastor of the Parkway Presbyterian Church, performed the traditional rites. Shasta daisies decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white wedding gown of embroidered gauze with lace inserts and a picture hat decorated with eyelet ribbon and shasta daisies.

Mrs. Linda Campbell of Corpus Christi (sister of the bride) was matron-of-honor. Serving as her bridesmaids were Miss Teresa Guerrero of Austin and Mrs. Denise Scanlan of Houston. Miss Heather Campbell of Corpus Christi niece of the bride was a junior bridesmaid.

Richter's best man was his brother, Dr. James M. Richter of Boston. The groomsmen (brothers of the groom) were David and Brian Richter of Corpus Christi. Dan Seibold of Austin (brother of the groom) served as usher.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Church Parlor. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and shasta daisies. A large ring coffee cake centered the table.

Mrs. Richter is a graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School and the University of Texas at Austin.

Richter is a graduate of King High School in Corpus Christi and is a senior at the University of Texas at Austin.

After a short sailing trip they will make their home in Austin. In July they will take their wedding trip to Michigan and Canada.

Shower Honors Kathy Hayden

Miss Kathy Hayden, bride-elect of Ronald Hickman was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower at the home of Mrs. H.A. Brundrett on June 17.

Co-hostess for the occasion was Mrs. James A. Jones of Houston.

The bride-elect's colors of yellow, white and green were used on the serving table. An arrangement of daisies, fern and baby's breath was used as the centerpiece.

Miss Lisa Jones served the cake, and Miss Rhonda Jones presided at the punch bowl; both are cousins of the bride-elect.

One of the gifts presented the bride-elect was a quilt which her grandmother, Mrs. Reese Morris, had received as her wedding present forty-two years ago.

Approximately thirty-five guests attended.

VISITS DAUGHTER

Mrs. Clifford Zeisler returned home from a visit with her daughter and family, Mr. & Mrs. Virgil Howarter of Lewis-town, Ill., getting acquainted with great-granddaughter Jennifer Marie McBride, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Terry McBride, formerly Laura Smith.

It has been found that the gray fox is about the prime rabies carrier of all our wildlife. Several scientists learned this when they carried out a five year study of this fox in South Carolina, Florida and Georgia.

They found that over three percent of all the foxes they trapped were infected with rabies. This does not, however, present much of a problem to man. Only about one or two persons per state per year are bitten by rabid foxes and the Pasteur treatment, though not a real bundle of fun, is effective.

It is to livestock that the most damage is done. One rabid fox has been known to infect 20 cows in one rampage.

Although this five year study was primarily concerned with rabies in foxes, many interesting facts about the life of a fox were brought to light. They found that foxes mated for life and that 90 percent of the mature females produced litters in their first breeding season. These litters averaged more than four pups per litter.

They found that pups were usually born in March and that the family stayed together, as a family, all summer long. This is an awfully long time for a small mammal. Long after most young wild animals are out on their own the fox puppies are still very much a part of the family.

Because they stay in the family so long the young fox is probably the best trained of all wild youngsters. When he is ready to go out on his own he has very little left to learn by trial and error. Both parents, but especially the vixen, teach the young pups in great detail how to catch grasshoppers, mice and other preferred foods. She has been observed going through repeated and patient demonstrations in her instructing.

Contrary to popular belief the fox is far from being a dedicated killer of poultry. They take whatever food is easiest to come by and the preferred animal staple is field mice. These studies showed that they ate mice, birds, rabbits, insects (mainly grasshoppers), peanuts, persimmons and other fruit and chickens when some farmer is careless enough to expose his fowl to attacks.

Many people will say that the fox should be eliminated if he is such a carrier of rabies. Well, he is also an important link in the balance of nature.

One of their favorite foods is cotton rats. One of the favorite foods of cotton rats is quail eggs. Kill all the fox -- raise the population of cotton rats and you might make serious inroads into your quail production. This is just one example where you might upset that delicate balance.

In spite of the quick panic aroused by an occasional rabid fox, this five year study showed the gray fox was an interesting, ecologically necessary member of our North American animal family.

Landrum-Rowan Unite

Miss Pamela Ann Rowan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.A. Rowan, Jr., and Warren Glyn Landrum, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Landrum, were united in marriage in an impressive double ring ceremony in The First United Methodist Church, May 22nd at 7 P.M. Reverend Tom O. McClung officiated.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mike Morgan, organist. Gerry Kleypas sang "Color My World" and "The Wedding Song" accompanied by Mike Morgan. Pat McLead, accompanied by Mike and Gerry, sang "Annie's Song". Reverend Charles Fake sang "The Lord's Prayer".

The altar was decorated with an arch of lemon leaf entwined with spring flowers. It was flanked by heart shaped candelabra holding white and apricot carnations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length dress of candlelight organza over satin. The fitted bodice with sweetheart neck line and cap sleeves was alencon lace over satin reembroidered with seed pearls. The full flared skirt was tapered to form a cathedral train. The skirt and train were trimmed with appliques of lace reembroidered with seed pearls. A narrow ruffle of organza edged the skirt and train. Her finger tip veil of illusion fell from a head piece of lace and seed pearls over satin. The bride wore her mother's locket. She carried a colonial bouquet of tropicana roses, white daisies and babies' breath.

Miss Marla Rowan, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mellinee Landrum, sister of the groom, Laurie Little and Barbara Orme. They wore identical dresses of apricot organza and carried colonial style spring bouquets and wore head wreaths of spring flowers.

The groom wore a candlelight tuxedo with matching shirt and his boutonniere was a tropicana rose. Linny Landrum, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Clay Gillis, Larry Clay, and Frank Casterline. Ushers were Charles Cruser, Carroll Borden, Clifford Mixon, and Robbie Thomas. All wore candlelight tuxedos with brown collars and lapels, apricot shirts and matching carnation boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore a floor length dress of green crepe. Her corsage was a white Juliet orchid with yellow trim. The groom's mother wore a floor length dress of blue crepe and chiffon and her wrist corsage was a white Juliet orchid with silver trim.

A reception, following the ceremony, was given by the bride's parents at the Colony Room of the Sandollar Restaurant. The bride's table was laid in white sheer with an overcloth of lace. An arrangement of apricot carnations, white daisies, and baby's breath centered the table, flanked by

Summer Rose Care Important

College Station-Roses are red, violets are blue; if you take care of them, they'll look good for you.

This is the philosophy of Everett Janne, a landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. He suggests taking good care of your roses in the summer so they will look good in the fall.

"One important requirement of roses in the summer is adequate water," Janne says. "If there is no rain, water them thoroughly at least twice a week. Try to keep the water off the leaves, and if possible, water roses in the morning."

It's also a good idea to fertilize roses with a 10-15-5 fertilizer. Spread the fertilizer evenly around the base of the plants and work it lightly into the soil, advised the Texas A&M University System horticulturist.

"If you want a lot of blooms in October, prune rose bushes in August by cutting them back about one-third," suggests Janne. He recommends practicing a preventive spray program to control blackspot and mildew. Benomyl is a good spray for controlling both these diseases.

On June 17th the Confederate Army camped at Shepherdstown and then crossed the Potomac into Maryland and moved on to Hagerstown. A few miles further along a Marylander named John Bloom barred the Confederate Army at a toll gate at Tilghmanton, demanding to know who would pay him!

The army crossed into Pennsylvania and at Chambersburg General Lee issued his famous order to his troops to respect all private property, stating that the army sought battle only with armed forces. On to Shippensburg and to Carlisle--and then Gettysburg, and disaster for the Confederates, and retreat from the highwater mark of the last Confederate invasion.

Fish Counting Device Tested

Austin — How do you count millions of fish fry, some of which are no longer than the lead on a sharpened pencil? If you ask fisheries personnel at the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, they will tell you it's not very easy.

Coming to their rescue is a University of Houston electrical engineering professor who is in the final stages of developing an electronic fish-counting device that can accurately count fry as small as one-fourth inch.

Once it is perfected, the device will aid fish culturists in determining how many fry are in a given brood. The precise data then available to biologists practically will eliminate the estimate method now used by fisheries workers.

The fish counter, developed by Dr. Hark S. Hayre, will be ready for field testing by P&WD personnel within the next several weeks, according to Lonnie Peters, P&WD inland fisheries chief.

A demonstration of the fish counter was recently given at P&WD's San Marcos Fish Hatchery and personnel are convinced the machine has the potential to accurately count newborn fish fry, and, hopefully with further refinement, even fish eggs.

The device works on a high-frequency sound principle. As presently set up, sound waves are passed between two power-transmitting probes (transducers) and, as fish pass between them, a "sound wall" created by the probes is broken and the fish are counted on a digital read-out display.

Currently refining the device, Dr. Hayre hopes to modify the machine to enable to count accurately fish smaller than a quarter of an inch.

"There is little doubt but that the technology to count such small organisms is there. All that's needed is to calibrate the device to count the tiny larvae and fry," said Peters.

"Currently, we rely on estimates and extrapolation methods," said Clell Guest, Heart-of-the-Hills Research Station biologist. Guest has been working with the Houston professor throughout the device's developmental stages.

Now, biologists draw out an ounce of water containing larvae or fry, count the fry, and extrapolate over the total water volume.

Guest said the device will operate not only to count the fish but also could be designed to record only fish within a certain length range. All measurements will be done quickly and accurately.

By making the transmitting probes portable, it could be possible to count the number of fish in a raceway.

The accuracy of the counter would eliminate the guesswork and estimation factor that biologists now rely on in dealing with large numbers of newly hatched fry or fish eggs.

"Up to now, we have had no practical method of determining how many fry are in a brood, or how many eggs individual females have hatched, unless we sit down and count them," Peters said.

He cited the problems that arise with the handling of President Teddy Roosevelt is credited with originating the phrase, "Speak softly and carry a big stick." He might be proud to know that his approach is embodied in an unusual partnership between the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration, better known as OSHA, and the Texas Department of Health Resources.

In this partnership, state occupational safety and health engineers are the ones who speak softly, and the federal OSHA inspectors carry the big stick. Under federal law, every private employer in the United States is required to comply with a massive set of OSHA regulations, designed to protect the health and safety of workers. The rules cover almost every conceivable aspect of the physical facilities and the environment of the workplace.

To ensure compliance with the regulations, OSHA personnel conduct intensive inspections of several thousand places of business each year. When inspectors find violations of the OSHA rules, the employer is assessed a citation & possible penalties if the violations are of a serious routine and given a certain period of time in which to correct the problem. At the end of that period of time, another inspection may be made. If the violations have not been corrected, the employer can be fined again—as much as $1,000, for each day from the time of the original inspection until the correction is made to OSHA's satisfaction.

Enforcing the highly detailed and complex regulations is OSHA's only function. Under the law, federal inspections are not permitted to provide consultation and advice to employers on ways to improve the health and safety aspects of their businesses.

That's where the Texas Department of Health Resources comes in. Through the Occupational Safety Division and the Occupational Health and Radiation Control Division, state engineers are available to provide consultative assistance to all employers in Texas. The consultation program, funded under a contract between OSHA and the Department of Health Resources, allows employers to request a penalty-free inspection.

When an employer asks for an inspection, one of the state engineers—who has been trained by OSHA—visits the workplace and conducts the same kind of inspection that an OSHA inspector would perform. At the end of the inspection, the employer is given a list of any violations of OSHA regulations that the inspector has found.

But the state inspection doesn't result in penalties. Instead, the state engineer offers advice and suggestions on how to correct the problem, and points out other ways to improve the workers' safety and health. The employer is free to act on the advice or disregard it as he wishes. Except in rare cases where a substantial and immediate threat to the life or safety of the workers might exist, the state engineers do not report their findings to the federal OSHA inspectors.

Since the state consultation program began last November, the number of requests for consultative inspections has steadily increased. According to Walter Martin, Director of the Division of Occupational Safety, "At first, many employers were afraid that this would trigger an OSHA inspection." Now, however, Martin reports that his engineers are swamped with requests; there is now a ten to twelve week backlog, with more requests arriving every day. "We'll make all of the inspections," Martin says, "but it'll take a little while."

In fact, a number of requests for inspections have come from employers that aren't even subject to OSHA regulations—such as city governments, state agencies, hospitals, and even federal military installations. Obviously, the employers know a good thing when they see it, and their concern for the health and safety of their employees is demonstrated by their interest in the consultative inspections.

The key question, however, is whether health and safety problems are corrected following the penalty-free inspections. As evidence, Martin cites a letter from one of the state's largest county hospitals. The letter was written two months after the state inspection report, and it lists seven violations that have been corrected. It closes, "Thank you and your engineer for your help in maintaining a safe environment for our patients, their visitors, and our employees."

The president of an oil drilling company wrote, "It is through inspections like this that we are able to train our people in the proper safety methods in work areas. Please convey my thanks to your engineer for his inspection and hope that sometime in the future he will be able to again pay us a visit."

The executive secretary of one of the state's largest labor unions wrote, "Our organization supports this state program and we feel it should be continued and expanded to reach every place of employment in Texas."

The evidence shows that the Texas Department of Health Resources can, indeed, get a lot done by speaking softly—and only in part because of OSHA's big stick."

4.8 MILLION DOVES HARVESTED IN '75

Austin—Results of a statewide postcard survey of Texas mourning dove hunters are completed and figures show some 4.8 million doves were taken in the 1975-76 seasons.

Parks and Wildlife Department dove program leader Jim Dunks said the season was a rather poor one, something which should surprise few hunters who remember the scant number of doves available last fall.

"We estimate 203,278 doves hunters spent 916,800 days in the field during mourning dove seasons last year," said Dunks. "Hunter success was the poorest ever recorded since the department started its harvest survey in 1971."

Average daily bag of doves statewide was 5.4 birds; 5.5 by North Zone hunters and 5.2 by South Zone hunters. Across the state, hunters went dove shooting an average of 4.5 times, a record high even if they had only marginal success.

Dunks said hunters in North, Central and South Texas experienced a decline in success. Hunting success changed little from past years in the Pineywoods, Coastal Prairies and High Plains. Edwards Plateau hunters had slightly better luck, and those in the Trans-Pecos posted a sizeable improvement.

"There was a general pattern of more doves killed farther west in the state," said Dunks. "Average doves bagged per hunt in the Pineywoods was 3.6 compared to 7.5 in the Trans-Pecos."

As is the case in past years, some 75 percent of the doves was taken in the North Zone season. All-day hunting was permitted in the brief January segment of the South Zone season, but with no detectable change in the harvest.

Dunks speculated that declining harvest of mourning doves probably was due to a broad shift in agricultural practices.

"Farmers and ranchers in the western half of Texas are planting more dry-land grain and seed crops," said Dunks. "This probably accounts for a larger kill in western Texas; however, hunters from major urban areas such as Dallas and Houston are reluctant to travel great distances to hunt doves and the overall harvest declines as a result."

Dunks said nearly half of the doves killed in Texas are migrants from northern states and unharvested grain fields help to hold them in Texas.

"Early harvest of grain crops forces both migrant and some resident birds out of the state," said Dunks. "That and an increase in improved pastureland (pastures planted in grass) in East and South Texas disperses doves and lowers the harvest."

APPLIANCE ENERGY LABELING POSTPONED

College Station—Energy labeling requirements for several major appliances will be delayed for a year or more, reports Mrs. Janice Carberry, a family resource management specialist.

"Since the means for determining energy use has not yet been worked out, the Energy Act of 1975, making efficiency labeling mandatory, has proven difficult to administer," she explained.

Mrs. Carberry is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Appliances due for energy labeling by September 30, 1976, have a year's delay. These appliances include color and black and white televisions, gas and electric ranges, microwave ovens, gas fireplace inserts and electric room heaters.

"Energy labeling for washers, humidifiers and central heating and air conditioning originally scheduled for June 30, 1977, will have until September 30, 1977," she reported.

Red Dye No. 2

The recent ban on the use of Red Dye No. 2 has produced cries of anguish from some spokesmen in the food processing industry.

Some food products will disappear from market shelves, others will lose popularity, etc., it's said. That's because Red Dye No. 2 is such an effective coloring agent—making so many food products an attractive color.

But the Food-Drug Administration ban was ordered in the public interest, because many think the dye adds to the risk of incurring cancer. Until industry proves this assumption false, the dye will remain banned.

Actually, few food products are likely to disappear from shelves. If they do—if all that was enticing the public was red coloring—then not much has been lost. Substitute dyes, meanwhile, such as 4 and 40, can somewhat replace No. 2.

Library News

Young readers at Aransas County Public Library are participating this summer in the Summer Reading Club, cosponsored by the library and the Texas State Library.

They are among more than 100,000 youngsters from throughout the state who will be spending part of their summer vacations reading for fun this year. They will be keeping records of what they have read in red, white, and blue reading logs.

"Movin' On...Then and Now" is the theme for 1976. Children dressed in appropriate costumes are shown in a canoe, horse-drawn trolley, balloon, early train, stagecoach, early automobile, steamboat, biplane, helicopter, and moon rover. These pictures appear on the posters as well as on the reading log/activity books that each participant will receive. Each reading log also includes a cut-out figure that may be used to move across a time line that shows vehicles in their proper place in history.

Public library summer reading programs focus upon reading for enjoyment. Public library collections include a wide range of both informational materials and fiction. In addition to the books they read as participants in the Reading Club, youngsters will also see films, puppet shows, and other programs that will be carried on in the libraries.

Project coordinator is Mrs. Eunice E. Hamon, librarian.

Those students who planned the menu were Jennifer Stafford, Emma Ortiz, Patti Beard, Barbara Allen, Lisa Casterline and Barbara Green. When selecting the foods to be served, the students considered color, size, shape, temperature, flavor and texture of the foods so as to have a variety.

Following detailed planning the students then went shopping for the foods needed to prepare the meals.

The third evening of the class the students prepared their menu and were hostesses to Mr. and Mrs. Ramiro Ortiz and Betsy Gorton.

SPECIALI ADAPTED HOUSING FOR VETERANS

Certain seriously disabled veterans may be eligible for a little known Veterans Administration grant of up to $25,000 for specially adapted "wheelchair homes", Paul F. Barnett, Acting Director, Houston Veterans Administration Regional Office, announced today.

The grant can be applied toward a new home or used to remodel an existing dwelling, Barnett said, or it can be used to help pay off the balance owing on a home the veteran has modified at his own expense.

Under the law, eligible veterans may receive a VA grant of not more than 50 per cent of the cost of a specially adapted home up to the maximum of $25,000.

Only those veterans are eligible who have suffered permanent and total service-connected disability due to the loss (or loss of use) of both legs; blindness, plus loss of use of one leg; or other injury which prevents them from moving from place to place without the aid of a wheelchair, braces, crutches or canes.

Disabled veterans should consult their nearest VA office for more detailed eligibility requirements, Barnett cautioned.

The law governing the wheelchair homes specifies that the veterans must be able to afford purchase of the housing unit, with the grant assistance, and it must be medically feasible for the veteran to reside there.

To qualify for the grant, the housing unit must have at least two wheelchair ramps located so as to avoid fire hazards, doorways at least 36 inches wide, hallways of at least 48 inches width, specially equipped bathrooms, specially located electric switches and outlets, an automatic smoke detector, and other features.

VA specialists in the field are available to assist eligible veterans in such steps as choosing a suitable lot for the housing unit, obtaining the services of an architect, obtaining construction bids and arranging necessary financing. Barnett reminded interested veterans that some states provide special tax relief for owners of the so-called wheelchair home and that up to $30,000 life insurance is available to most veterans who receive the special housing grant to pay off the mortgage on such a home if the veteran died.
