Students Hurt As Bus Overtakes On Way To Game

No Warning Of Sharp Curve, Dust Blamed For Accident

Two Wellington High School girls were confined to a hospital and twelve others received medical treatment after the school bus which was carrying a part of the pep squad to the football game in Memphis Friday night, Nov. 3, left the road and turned upside down off the dirt road approximately eight miles east of Memphis. Most painfully injured were Helen Kelley, who received a fractured shoulder bone, and Ruth Brown, who received head and face injuries. They were taken immediately to a Memphis hospital, where they were kept overnight. Saturday they were returned to a Wellington hospital by Dewey Ellis. Miss Brown was released Tuesday, but Miss Kelley will likely remain in the hospital for most of this week.

The accident occurred on a right angle turn on the recently completed farm-to-market road extending from Midway to Memphis. Passengers in the bus and others arriving at the scene of the accident stated that there was no sign warning of a sharp turn and that dust raised by other cars en route to the game made it impossible for C. L. Blandford, driver of the bus, to see the turn. The bus, which was reported going at a slow rate of speed, went through the fence along the right-of-way, and into a canyon, approximately 30 feet in depth, where it turned upside down. The accident occurred at about 7 o'clock.

With the girls at the time were Miss Minnie Atchley, sponsor of the pep squad, and George Neal, science teacher in the high school. The bus was completely wrecked. Other girls receiving medical treatment, either at Wellington or Memphis, were Christine Boggs, Lola Mae Lindsey, Mary Lee Scarberry, Margaret Higdon, Elise Childress, Ola B. Killingsworth, Marguerite Loving, June Thomas, (Continued on Page Twelve)

Poppies will be sold throughout the day on the streets of the business section by junior members of the auxiliary. Proceeds from the sales will go for child welfare work, and will be divided for local use and to help children of disabled veterans. Chairman of the Poppy Committee is Mrs. Lee O'Neil. She is being assisted by Mrs. Rolla Fisher and Mrs. Ola Wall. In addition to the Poppy sales, this group is responsible for Armistice Day window displays in several local stores.

Bar Docket Called For Monday; Appearance Docket Tuesday

With 73 cases already on docket, the District Court of the 100th district will begin in Wellington on Monday, November 13, at 10 o'clock. Judge A. S. Moss of Memphis will preside. Immediately after the convening of court, the grand jury will be impaneled and charged by Judge Moss. During the remainder of the day, the bar docket will be called and the cases set. The appearance docket will be called Tuesday morning and the cases set, according to W. H. Goforth, district clerk. The remainder of this week will be devoted to the trial of non-jury cases.

Of the cases this year, seventeen are divorce cases, 24 civil cases and 28 are tax suits. The four criminal cases were held over from the last term of court. The number of cases on docket are seven less than for the November term of court last year, when 80 cases were listed at the opening of court. At the April term, however, only thirty-nine cases were on docket, one of the lightest lists in the history of the county. Called for grand jury service are Frank Coleman, G. T. Stephens, Pat O'Hair, J. A. Shields, Frank Gulley, Wilks Knoll, Charley Hill, Earl Brashear, Chester Fries, J. A. Keller, R. T. Jameson, W. S. White, E. M. Trew, Jett Roberts, W. D. Forbes, and J. E. Holland, Beasley Named Delegates To TAA Meeting

Cotton Loan, Parity Dispossessed Tenants And Insurance Discussed

Rob Holland of Dodson and Guy Beasley of Abra were named delegates from the County Agriculture Association to the Texas Agriculture Association meeting, which convenes December 1 and 2 at Waco. The selection was made in a meeting of the local unit Thursday.

Alternates were Charlie Roberts, Paul Starr and Deskins Wells.

Election of officers for the Collingsworth County Agriculture Association, also scheduled for this time, was postponed until the next meeting, which will be held Monday, December 4, in Wellington.

Instructions were given the delegates concerning the cotton loan, with the local unit approving an amendment to the loan where the basis drops below 8.30 cents per pound, which plus the freight, brings the price down to 8.05 here.

This unit, along with the other units over the state is to urge parity price for farm products and to make an effort toward the solving of the dispossessed tenant problem. In addition, members of the local unit were urged to write letters to the department of agriculture in an effort to get crop insurance for cotton in 1940, to be operated on a plan similar to the wheat insurance now in effect.

Landowners May Secure Shelterbelts For 1940

Land owners desiring to have shelterbelts planted on their farms this year may now make applications for the strips, W. J. Grigg, who is in charge of the local office, said late last week.

A quota of 40 miles of strips have been allotted this county, and already applications have been made to fill one-fourth this amount. The deadline for making applications is December 15.

"If there is any surplus stock, we will accept applications after that time, but all applications filed early will be given first consideration," Mr. Grigg said.

The most of the applications for shelterbelt strips have come from the Dodson and Quail areas, and from southwest of Wellington. Those shelterbelts are planted on cultivated land to protect the crops and to keep soil from blowing, to conserve moisture, and to protect livestock during winter months, and later, to provide for cover for insectivorous and game birds, to produce fuel, fence posts, and rough lumber.

In securing a shelterbelt, Mr. Grigg pointed out that the landowner would furnish the land for the trees, prepare the land for planting, furnish the power to pull a special subsoiling tool where needed, furnish fence material to enclose the trees when this is necessary, cultivate the (Continued on Page Twelve)

Plans Ready For Intensive Red Cross Roll Call

Workers Named To Help In Covering Wellington During Drive

Plans are practically complete for the most intensive Red Cross Roll Call this county has seen since 1918, according to Dewey Ellis, general Red Cross Roll Call chairman.

Final instructions to all workers, which number approximately 120 persons in the entire county, have been mailed out, and all those participating in the drive were urged by Mr. Ellis to put forth their best efforts in this drive. "Although need is great throughout the entire country for aid given by the Red Cross, the Eu-

To Crown Dodson Football Queen

The winning contestant in the race for Dodson Football Queen will be revealed and crowned Friday afternoon, at the time the Dodson Mustangs meet the Patton Springs team in a six-man grid contest.

Each class has a candidate in the race. Miss Ruby Hodel represents the seniors, Miss Zelda Welch, the juniors, Miss Mayrene Wynn the sophomores, and Miss Erma Lee Hunt the freshmen.

As yet no returns have been made on the standing of the four girls, and no indication of who is leading the race will be given until the time the winner is announced. Appropriate ceremonies will be held at the crowning.

Various means have been used by the four classes in raising money to support their candidate, the two more recent ones being a rummage sale by the freshmen and a pie supper by the juniors.

Midway Is Host To Second Sunday Singers Nov. 12

Singers in the county were reminded this week of the Second Sunday singing convention, to be held at the Midway Church Sunday, November 12. This is expected to be one of the best singings of its kind to be held in the county this year.

Brilliance, Dash And Excitement To Characterize Grudge Battle

Grid foes of many years' standing will meet for their annual battle Friday night, November 10, when the Wellington Skyrockets invade Shamrock to meet the powerful Irishmen. The game will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Outstanding among the grid battles of the lower Panhandle, this game gives promise of having all the brilliance, dash and excitement that has characterized the two teams during recent years.

The Rockets are entering the game somewhat the underdogs, since the Irishmen are standing at the top of the district, while the local team stands third from the bottom, with Clarendon, McLean and Wheeler in between.

Shamrock's district position is somewhat unique in southwestern football. After the 7-7 tie with McLean last Friday, it was discovered that both had the same number of first downs, whereupon, officials awarded each team one-half game. This put the district standing as Shamrock one-half game lost; Clarendon one game lost, and McLean, one and one-half games lost.

Dr. Johnson Suggests Name Skyrockets 15 Years Old

For the fifteenth season, Wellington's football team is playing under the name, Skyrockets, the name suggested by Dr. J. Frank Johnson, Wellington dentist and football enthusiast.

A good many people have never heard how the Rockets got their name, and others have forgotten. The 1925 season was started without a name, when a call was made for suggestions. The suggested names were submitted to the players themselves and the name picked by popular vote. "Skyrockets," (it was spelled Sky Rockets in those days) won by an overwhelming majority.

Bargain Rates Bring Leader Subscriptions

New Readers Early In Campaign Termed Gratifying

A steady increase in subscription renewals marks the second week of the Wellington Leader annual subscription campaign—that period of weeks during the autumn when the price of The Leader is reduced to $1 for an entire year.

Although the peak of subscription expirations will not be reached until later in the year, a number of county residents are coming in for renewals before their time is up on The Leader.

Likewise, the number of new subscriptions received in the office has been unusually high for the early weeks of the campaign.

Deskins Wells, publisher of the paper, further stated that he, with the staff members of The Leader, wished to express his appreciation to the loyal subscribers who have taken the paper during the past years, and again The Leader promises continued coverage of local news in Collingsworth County. # WINTER DISARMED

90-hour threat balked by OIL-PLATING your engine today

You can probably agree that these are certainly conservative figures . . .

- 4 or 5 months of nasty weather right ahead of you now
- 8 or 10 daily cold starts for your car
- 6 to 8 minutes per start, till your engine's near-warm

And yet even that can run up your engine's cold-weather "starting-stretch" to right around 90 hours! . . . The foulest 90 hours that Gangster Winter could fire at your engine—your battery. And don't ever hope to halt him with motor oils whose biggest brag is "fast flow." That's not enough—and it's not your money's worth, considering that "fast flow" is mighty slow Winter lubrication compared to OIL-PLATING.

OIL-PLATING in your engine will lubricate before any oil can circulate. That's because right after you start up with patented Conoco Germ Processed oil it makes OIL-PLATING "magnetize" to inner engine surfaces, so that it can't all drain down again. It can't all retire to the crankcase as you park the car. Like any other good plating, OIL-PLATING stays right where it's plated by Germ Processed oil—all over the working parts. They've "got on" their OIL-PLATING all the while you're indoors. They don't "take off" their OIL-PLATING. When you come out to start then, your OIL-PLATING can't be delayed even 90 seconds—or one-ninth of a second! And away you go. The battery hardly knows it was working. And it's a good long while before the gauge-stick calls for an added quart of Germ Processed oil. Your Mileage Merchant has your right Winter grade. Change today—to that Conoco station of his. ## Eternal Memories

In spite of the increasing length of time since Armistice Day, 1918, we can never forget the deeds wrought by America's soldiers.
In paying tribute to the soldiers of '17 and '18, let's remember that they fought for peace. Their victory was and is even more impressive because of that fact!

By CLYDE MILLER

Old Man "Jinx" was left behind Friday night when the flashy Skyrockets invaded the Cyclone Stadium to emerge victoriously with a decision of 32 to 6. According to the past records of Shamrock and McLean, the two remaining teams yet to meet the Rockets this year, the Rockets have a 13-point better team than the Irish and a 15-point better team than the Tigers. This calculation is from how these three teams compare in their games with the Memphis Cyclone. Shamrock won over them by a 13-point margin, McLean by 11-point margin while the Skyrockets gained a 26-point margin. The Shamrock Irishmen's only remaining game this year is with the Skyrockets and what a game that's going to be! The Irish now have a half game chalked up against them after tying a game with McLean last week, 7 to 7. One thing about this game coming up Friday is, the Irishmen are going to realize that they are playing the most underrated team they have met this year.

Bryan Williams was unable to play in the game Friday due to the fact that he had an injured leg, but pinch hitting for him was Jimmie Wayne Cook who turned in a swell game. Jimmie did fine blocking and was outstanding on tackles. Jimmie has had a hard time getting started this year, but believe me when he did start, it was Friday night. More power to you, Jimmie.

Pete Moulton and George Stafford were at it again Friday. Their cooperative work accounted for two touchdowns, one pass was good for 35 yards into pay dirt while the other accounted for 32 yards and six points. Pete is not only an outstanding player at right end, but occasionally steps into the backfield where he is very efficient. Pete carried the ball over the goal line from the 10-yard stripe on a power play for a touchdown in the fourth quarter and accounted for an extra point with his terrific power over the center of the line.

George Stafford leaped high into the air to take the pigskin, tossed to him by Pete Moulton, for the second tally of the game. In making such a spectacular play, George lost his balance and fell into the Cyclone end zone. One thing sure about George is, once he gets his hands on the ball it's a sure thing that he will hold on to it. He also showed great work at his respective position.

Robert Belew turned in sixty minutes of misery for the Cyclone. Consistency on his part in driving through the line and blocking gave the Rockets reason to be proud of his precise football playing. Robert has proven his ability in the line and is a real Skyrocket.

Boyd Williams gained 116 yards from the line of scrimmage during the 50 minutes he was in the game Friday. His 85-yard run, which would have accounted for a touchdown had there not been some infraction of the rules, would have made 201 yards credited to him from scrimmage. Boyd's powerful drives through the Cyclone line gave him an average of approximately eleven yards gain per try. He played his usual type of heads up ball and incidentally his injured wrist is healing rapidly.

Fred Cox was in tip top shape and battling on to victory Friday night. Fred joined with his team mates in their victorious march on the Cyclone, giving his best every second of the game and that is good enough to be classed as winning play for any high school eleven.

Clifton Brewer played up to the rating of his team mates as a "wicked critter" with his trickery in attack on the Cyclone. Clifton was seen issuing yard losing tackles on the Cyclone players when they least expected it. How he managed to bob up in the Cyclone's backfield with a handful of misery at irregular intervals is more than Sidelines can explain, but it is all right business.

Ed White had plenty of drive in his play, to be sure. Not once, but a number of times, Sidelines not only saw him making hard tackles on the Cyclone backs, but heard them. Ed is a lad that knows how the tackling business is conducted and applies it accordingly. His blocking was equally as good as was his tackling and that type of football playing is what it takes to make a winning team.

Little Pete Melton stabbed the Cyclone line for a number of nice gains throughout the game. Pete is fast and his size makes it hard for the opposition to stop him. Sidelines would like to see him get into the open, for he is indeed a fast back. Pete did a fine job of quarterbacking before Boyd Williams was summoned. As a matter of fact he piloted the Rockets through to their first tally of the game.

John Calvin Harper is another little Rocket that has speed and power. In spite of the fact that the hard hitting Cyclone was giving its best to overcome the threatening defeat that was confronting it early in the first quarter, John Calvin picked up needed yardage when he was called on to bear the leather.

Dressing Early For Christmas

Playing his best game of the year at right halfback, Keith Smith took his turn in showing well on the turf. Nothing looked too difficult for Keith as he raced through the Cyclone line, driving, sidestepping and going through every means within football rulings to gain an extra yard for the Rockets. Keith played a swell game.

Slingshot Joe Willoughby got his second wind early in the game and started off by carrying the ball, and found that he, too, could advance it on foot. Joe is a good runner and passer, he has power which is demonstrated when he carried the ball over on a power play for the third tally of the game.

Denzil Ingram placed himself among the outstanders in the Rocket-Cyclone game after he went into play in the first period. Denzil hit the line, which at times could be described at a brick wall, and then started "digging." He never let up until the sound of the whistle. He is a Rocket the Irish and Tigers had better keep tab on.

Ray Watson was called for duty in the fourth quarter, when big Pete Moulton was needed in the backfield to do a bit of line driving, and delivered an attractive display of football execution. Ray's time was cut short in the game but he made up for that with his "down to earth" football playing.

The Wellington Skyrockets feel that they are ready for the supposedly hard teams, Shamrock and McLean. The Rockets have an exceptionally good team, and if they play the type of football against the Tigers and Irish as they did in the Cyclone game, I will hereby declare defeat for both.

If the Skyrockets had not been fortunate enough to have the coach they now have, we would probably be preparing to meet Lakeview for last place in this conference. Too much cannot be said for Coach John Williams' splendid work with the Skyrockets. John has had no assistance as have the other coaches in this conference, but single-handed he has produced a team that is as good as the best they have met this year, regardless of the scores. Although the Rockets have been defeated twice in conference play this year, it was due to bad breaks, not inefficiency of the boys or the coach.

This week the Skyrockets will keep their annual date with the Shamrock Irishmen, at Shamrock. The Clarendon Broncs will visit with the Memphis Cyclone, while Wheeler Mustangs dock in McLean. Here's how Sidelines sees it:

Wellington 12, Shamrock 7.
McLean 18, Wheeler 6.
Clarendon 19, Memphis 0.

Armistice Day November 11

This year marks the twenty-first birthday of peace. This thing we fought to get — this Peace — is growing up. The 11th of November, it will be twenty-one years old. Not old enough to have acquired wisdom, to be sure, but — certainly — old enough to begin to have a mind of its own.

Peace, you see, is a very real thing. And — thank Heaven — it lives at our house. It sits down at the table with us and it sleeps with us at night. And when we lay our paper down or turn off the radio, we constantly realize that it is good to know that Peace is in the room.

Life would not be the same without this silent partner to our living. We know this. We know, too, that — while It is our strongest support — Its very existence depends upon us.

As It reaches Its twenty-first birthday, this Armistice Day, let us resolve to turn our backs upon that which is foreign to Peace and to us and set about the most monumental and glorious task ever undertaken in the history of humanity . . . the task of keeping and protecting Peace long enough — for once in the history of Man — to give It a chance to demonstrate to all humanity what Peace can do for the world.

Deck's DIDACTICS

By H. D. W.

Next Saturday is the day of the veterans. It is the most significant Armistice day since it was first observed in 1918. The American Legion says that peace has come of age and they are resolved that another generation shall not be sent to European battlefields. This is true patriotism.

So much has been said of the broad picture that I intend to devote this space to personal incidents. I distinctly remember the sunny afternoon when my troop of Boy Scouts suited out. We were going to lead a parade, and the town turned out to send a group of young men off to war. Some of those who were going away were: Roy Horn, Vertrees Langford, Elmer Strong, Joe Luce, U. N. Davis and many others. The band played and the crowd cheered. On the whole it was very gay, but I had a sinking feeling in the pit of my stomach when the train pulled out of sight.

The next incident that concerns my own kin did not begin to dawn on me in its full import until years after the war was over. I had a first cousin on my mother's side who graduated at the head of his class from Baylor. His name was Carroll Thomas. He intended to go to another University and study law. But he was called to the colors, and like Frank King, he was one of the boys who never came back. His mother at first was unable to rationalize the fact that her only son was never coming home. My uncle spent the remaining years of his life taking her from place to place. He died a few years ago after depleting his modest savings from a lifetime of thrift. His wife is living and is healthy and happy, but none of us ever mention the war in her presence, for to her the war has never ended.

Consider a homecoming. Guy Clay went off in much the same setting as Roy and Vertrees and Elmer. He served at Verdun, St. Mihiel, Chateau Thierry, Muese-Argonne, and on the defensive sector. For his heroic work he was later decorated by the French Government. He went off while the bands were playing, but when he came back no crowd was there. And in all of the years between only two men have been thoughtful enough to stop and thank him for offering his life in the service of his country. There is no bitterness in him and he is forging ahead in life by working hard, but he is one of the many who knows of the glory of war.

Another instance concerns Potts Fulton who also saw service with the first American troops in France. He knows what it is to face death and to live amid mud and slime and blood, but more terrible than any of these he learned what it is to face the choice of either killing a man you have never seen before or else die yourself. Potts came back sound mentally and physically, but there are scars on his heart. He worked hard and he tried to find a secure place for himself but it eluded him. At long last he has found it, and today as he enjoys it he thinks of his fine, tall young son. When the present European war started, he told me that he would willingly go back if they would leave his son here, but he made this remark: "I believe that I would rather take him over to the cemetery and bury him than send him off to war."

Here is evidence that brings out the need for tolerance and sanity when you consider race and blood. The Boveries and the Stalls were part and parcel of the creation of Collingsworth County. They were neighbors and friends. People thought of them not as Frenchmen or Germans, for they were Americans. And here is the story as it relates to Armistice day: When President Wilson addressed Congress, Adolph Boverie immediately volunteered for service. He went in April. But of the boys who went from Collingsworth do you know who it was that served the next longest term in the American army in Europe? That was Carey Stall. He served 25 months loyally and faithfully and well. By race one was a full blooded Frenchman. By race the other was a full blooded German. Actually they were sons of Collingsworth. They were true Americans. In the critical days ahead, remember Carey and Adolph.

And here is an item in a lighter vein that concerns men who could tell something much more serious. One day in France Marvin Somerville and Coon Coker were getting ready to start to the front. They met Roger Collins who was coming back from the front and who had a leave of absence. They discovered that he had no money and each of them began shelling out their pockets. The obvious answer to that action is that they did not know whether or not they were ever coming back. They did know that Roger was going to the bright lights where he could spend it. Money did not mean anything to them. It might mean something to Roger. Back in Wellington years later, Roger kept trying to find out how much they gave him that day in France, but none of them knew. After all, just how would you count it in dollars and cents?

There are deeper and more significant facts that could be told if someone were able to prize them out of such men as Frank Price and Bob Tension and the others who know what they know. However isn't this enough to give us a clear picture? Isn't this enough to convince you fathers and mothers who have fine young sons? It can be amplified without end, but it should be enough to convince all of us that as a nation we have a destiny that is all our own. In our minds we know the futility of intervention by this country. I have written the paragraphs above in the hope that we may know it in our hearts.

City Extends Water Connections Into Wellington "Flats"

City water has been extended into the colored section of Wellington, commonly known as the "flats." Heretofore, the entire section, in which approximately 1200 persons live, has been served by two hydrants, one of which was at the colored school.

Although water mains have been laid in the north part of town for a number of years, no meters were installed and it was not until recent weeks that the additional piping necessary for the water connections were laid.

Thirteen meters have been installed, and some ten or fifteen more are expected in that section, according to Joe Thompson, city secretary.

"Although this will by no means give every family individual water connections, it will be a great improvement over the former condition," Mr. Thompson said.

Seventh Grade Has Field Trip

Under the direction of Mrs. W. W. Henderson, members of the seventh grade of the Wellington school made a field trip to the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum at Canyon and to several commercial firms in Amarillo Saturday. Assisting Mrs. Henderson in sponsoring the trip were the class mothers of the seventh grade.

In Amarillo, the first stop was at the Pinkney Packing Co., where the children were taken through the plant and shown the various steps in the curing of meat. Following their lunch in Elwood Park, the children visited the Kress Store.

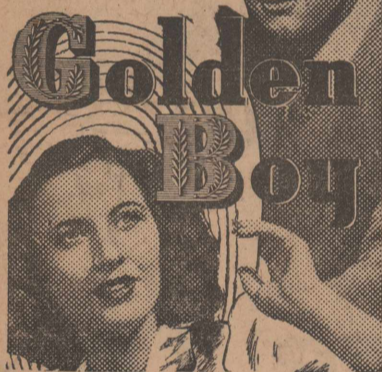

Although their lunch was taken by the children, the Pinkney Packing Company gave them as a surprise enough wieners for a wiener roast in the evening.

The entire time in Canyon was devoted to the Historical Museum. "Two hours were spent seeing and discussing the historical exhibits,"

Skyrockets Take Victory From Cyclone By 32 To 6

In one of the most spectacular series of plays the Rockets have displayed this year, they emerged victors over the Memphis Cyclone 32 to 6 on Cyclone Field Friday night, November 3.

Long passes and even longer runs accounted for the scoring during the first part of the game, while during the latter half, the Rockets resorted to power drives to add up their tallies.

The Rockets scored first in the opening period, when Moulton passed to Stafford 35 yards for a touchdown. Then, still in the first quarter, L. F. Jones, right halfback for the Cyclone, intercepted a pass from Pete Melton and raced a long 90 yards to pay dirt.

In the second quarter Moulton again passed to Stafford for 33 yards and a touchdown, and Boyd Williams carried the ball over for the extra point. Again in the second the Rockets scored when Joe Willoughby carried the ball over from the Cyclone one-yard line. The ball was brought to this position by power drives.

Again in the third, power drives brought the ball down to the Cyclone one-yard line and Keith Smith pushed over the stripe for the third tally of the game. Moulton carried the ball over for the extra point.

The final score was made in the fourth quarter when Moulton crashed through the Cyclone defense for ten yards and a touchdown.

In one burst of speed, Boyd Williams made a beautiful 85-yard run which would have accounted for a touchdown had there not been an infraction of rules. Although there was nothing gained from this run, the thrill for the fans was still there.

From start to finish, the Rockets put on a brand of football playing which fans have seen only at infrequent intervals so far this year. At one time in the fourth quarter, the Cyclone completed a pass which actually cost the team a five-yard loss, so air-tight was the Rockets' play. Again in the fourth, the Rockets carried their opponents for fifteen yards loss on three consecutive attempts on rushing plays.

Wilks, of Hollis, Oklahoma, a brother, Merit Wilks, of Arlie, and two sisters, Mrs. Jack Carroll, of Amarillo, and Mrs. Creed Hill, of Wellington. His mother and a brother, Efton Wilks, preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held from the Church of Christ in Lingo Saturday, Nov. 4, when a large crowd of friends and acquaintances gathered to pay tribute to Mr. Wilks. Attending from this section were Mrs. Hill, Mr. Willis and his son, Don Wilks of Arlie, and Mrs. Efton Wilks of Childress.

Significance Of Armistice Is Vivid To Ex-Service Men

By ROLLA FISHER

To some people, the word Armistice only means the end of the late World War. Some may think very little of it and others only remember it when they hear the whistles at 11 a. m., Nov. 11.

But to the ex-soldier, sailor and marine, who were in service during the war, it has a different meaning than to anyone else.

To these men, the word Armistice, or "the 11th" brings a flow of memories that the civilian seldom understands, and in some instances ex-service men are condemned for things they may do on Armistice Day. This would not happen if every one knew or could realize what was on the minds of the men in service on November 11, 1918—from the raw recruit in the training camp at home to the seasoned veteran in the front line trenches.

To some it has just the true meaning of the word, the temporary cessation of hostilities, for they would come home and begin life's struggle again where they had left off. Others, especially the younger men, did not think of it in this way, for they were full of life, energy and an eagerness to get back home, not realizing the difficulty they would have in getting back into the scheme of things. There had been changes at home and they had become changed themselves, owing to a different mode of living and discipline.

To some it meant little, for they were crippled for life and cared very little about anything except getting home and for that reason they were glad the Armistice was signed and others would miss the fate that had befallen them.

Altogether they were happy because the war had ended and every year as the 11th of November draws near, every ex-service man will begin to think of what he will do on Armistice Day (except work, for they just won't work unless they have to) and they will generally congregate somewhere and talk the war all over again.

Every ex-service man has a deep feeling of friendship for every other ex-service man that has grown stronger through the years since the war, and they just have to get together at times and as Armistice was something of a let-down to them in 1918, they look to November 11 as a time to stop everything and celebrate the signing of the Armistice which they do in various ways.

During the last few years Armistice has come to mean to most everyone, and especially to ex-service men, a holiday, a time for retrospection, a kind of thanksgiving. They are all thankful that they are living and that they live in a FREE COUNTRY, the ones who are especially thankful that they are still able to fight the battles for their disabled Buddies.

PEACE COMES OF AGE

In America Peace comes of age on Saturday.

The twenty-one years have seemed so short a time. Just as a child grows quickly into maturity and even its parents are left a little breathless, so the years of peace have slipped quickly by.

Those men who were "somewhere in France" twenty-one years ago will remember the buddies who didn't come back and will pay a tangible tribute to them. All of us will remember and pay a mental tribute to them—the men who might have been farm leaders and merchants and professional men in Collingsworth County.

To those men over there the first Armistice, as well as those that have followed, had a meaning which none of the rest of us can ever experience. To those of us over here, it was church bells ringing in the crisp, cold November sunshine, and in the houses, warmth and the closeness of family.

Peace is a precious thing, but it is a complex thing and its path is perilous. Already it has been destroyed in Europe and in Asia. Nothing can be said here that has not already been said, except to add one more plea that our gift to Peace upon its coming of age shall be a renewed resolve that we shall not go to war.

RED CROSS IS BUSY

The American Red Cross is calling on women to aid again in bringing comfort to victims of the war by knitting sweaters and making clothing for the thousands now destitute and homeless.

Norman H. Davis, national chairman, has announced that the organization hopes to send 137,000 sweaters and 83,000 winter dresses to Polish refugees by January 1, the garments to be made by American women in Red Cross chapters all over the country.

A special delegation went to Europe last month to survey the most urgent needs, which they found greatest among the Poles, driven from their homes and country by Hitler. Already purchases of 30,000 suits of heavy underwear, 10,000 pairs of shoes and 5,000 blankets for these sufferers have been made, but these will supply only a small percentage of those in dire need.

The most dynamic force in the direction of the American Red Cross is Miss Mabel Boardman, its general secretary, who has devoted 40 years to this humanitarian work without ever receiving a dollar of salary. Under her direction the organization's 3,700 local chapters have been set up, and the splendid work done during the World War and since was largely due to her leadership.

There is no doubt that a generous response will be made to the present appeal in behalf of the unfortunate Polish people.

NEW LAW'S PROVISIONS

Essential points of the new neutrality law now in effect are the following:

Sale of arms, ammunition and implements of war generally to belligerent nations is permitted, provided they pay cash and transport the goods in foreign ships.

Bars American vessels from belligerent ports. Exceptions are made with respect to ports in the South Atlantic, and generally to those not in an actual war zone. These exceptions may be modified by the President as circumstances make desirable.

Americans are forbidden to travel on belligerent ships, with certain minor exceptions.

The President is authorized to restrict the use of American ports by belligerent submarines or armed merchant vessels. The arming of American merchant ships, except with small arms, is forbidden.

Dealing in bonds or other obligations of belligerent nations is forbidden, and no credit may be extended to them by the United States or its citizens. No funds for belligerents may be solicited in the United States, except for medical aid, foods and clothing to relieve suffering.

Designation of which are considered belligerent nations is left to the President.

A STORY-TELLER DIES

Millions of fiction lovers whose tastes run to tales of the old West were saddened a few days ago by the sudden death from heart disease of Zane Grey, one of the most popular and prolific novelists of his generation.

Grey was 64 years old, and began his literary career 35 years ago, after about six years in the practice of dentistry. His earlier novels were not very successful, and it is said that only two persons—a brother and Lina Elise Both, whom he married—gave him an encouragement to continue writing.

His most spectacularly successful novel, "Riders of the Purple Sage," was produced in 1912, eight years after his first book was accounted a dismal failure. He wrote in all about 50 novels, which made him a handsome fortune.

Several years ago Grey became an enthusiastic deep sea fisherman, and indulged in the sport from his palatial yacht, on which he spent much time. Several of his later books dealt with the sea and fishing.

While he could hardly be classed as a great literary figure, Zane Grey was an author whose books had a wide popular appeal, and the world is poorer because of his passing.

Those who borrow trouble have no difficulty in obtaining a renewal of the loan.

Revised Bill Lists Rules To Keep America Neutral

To stay at peace, the United States will operate under a newly adopted neutrality code. This revised Neutrality Bill includes the following provisions:

The embargo against shipments of arms, munitions and implements of war to belligerent nations is repealed.

American vessels are prohibited from carrying passengers and goods to ports of countries at war. This ban does not include possessions of belligerents in specified areas of the Western Hemisphere, South Atlantic, Pacific and Indian oceans, to which actual warfare does not extend.

The President is empowered to designate by proclamation combat areas into which and through which American ships and citizens may not go.

Cash and carry provision in the Neutrality Bill provides that all title to and interest in goods shipped to belligerents must be transferred before the products leave American shores. This does not apply to materials, other than arms and munitions, that American ships may carry to ports of outlying territories and possessions of countries at war.

Granting of credits to a belligerent nation or its agents is prohibited.

American citizens are prohibited from traveling on ships of belligerent registry except in accordance with rules issued by the President.

American merchant vessel can carry no more small arms and ammunition than is ordinarily necessary for preservation of discipline.

It is unlawful for any person within the United States to purchase or sell bonds or securities of belligerent nations. Solicitation of contributions in behalf of countries at war is prohibited except for funds collected by non-governmental nations for the relief of human suffering.

The President is empowered to regulate the use of American ports and territorial waters by foreign submarines or armed merchant vessels.

Use of the American flag by any belligerent vessel to escape capture is prohibited. Any ship violating this provision will be barred from U. S. ports for three months.

The Neutrality Bill continues the life of the Munitions Control Board as an agency for licensing and regulating the exports of arms, ammunition and implements of war. All makers, exporters and importers of these products are required to register with the secretary of state, who is the board's executive chairman.

IT MAY BE FRICASSEE OF TENDERLOIN TIPS AT YOUR COOKING SCHOOL, YOUNG LADY!! BUT TO ME, IT'S JUST PLAIN OLD FASHIONED SLUMGULLION LIKE WE HAD IN THE ARMY!!!

I SAW

By V. A. R.

Armistice is bringing the traditional flurry of football excitement to Wellington, with all the speculation on whether the defeated Rockets can outscore the undefeated Irishmen. With this climax of the sports year at hand, I SAW

Mrs. T. B. Sledge leisurely walking downtown on a crisp, sunshiny day greeting friends of many years standing as she passed them.

A local father vigorously wiping his son's neck as the youngster was on his way to school. Although making no verbal protest, the boy didn't look any too well pleased.

I. T. Goodnight pulling his coat collar up tight around his neck and saying this was blanket-hunting weather—and that's where he had started.

E. L. Winn dropping in local business houses just like old times, but saying that even though he liked to live in Stephenville, he'd like to hear more news of his old friends.

A nigger going down the street with a couple of big slim hound dogs—the kind you see lying around the porch of farm homes down east Texas way.

Margaret Ellen Cleveland and Thava Wood on their way home from Sunday school. Thava, who used to live out near Lutie, is visiting here this month from Clay County.

Mrs. W. O. Moring telling an Abra friend proudly about her new grandson.

Grover Young, hurrying to pay utilities bills.

W. H. Allen renewing his paper—says he couldn't do without the Leader this year.

J. C. Rogers wearing the uniform of the company he formerly worked for in Oklahoma City as he went about building up trade for his own business here.

Duward Scott and Jack Davis stopping on the street for a short but earnest conversation. Must have been about school.

Overheard—Mrs. Dee Coleman saying that she got Mr. Coleman away from their farm a few days this year and nothing so drastic as the barn falling down happened, now maybe she could get him away on a vacation next year.

ODD BITS OF NEWS

When her baby carriage was caught in the rear bumper of an automobile, 18-month-old Eileen Lainsbury of Brimpton, Eng., was hauled six miles before police stopped the driver. The child was unhurt.

Judge William Hall of Tucson, Ariz., will hold no court on Nov. 30, Thanksgiving or not, he announces. He plans to attend a football game.

Mrs. Edna Elliott of New York, who died recently at the age of 80, left more than $100,000 to a head usher and a stage dancer, both of whom had been especially kind to her when she visited the theater.

Miss Eva Hardy, learning to drive, crashed her car through a window in Huntington Beach, Calif., which bore the sign "Visitors Always Welcome."

Anthony Ogsodfchik of Albany, N. Y., had his surname tattooed on his arm, which he shows to anyone who asks him how to spell it.

Louis Flores Lopez, who is 116 years old, recently married Agripino Tover Ramirez, 85, in Mexico City. They had been sweethearts since 1908.

When Henri Caron of Montreal went walking after being laid up for two months with a fractured leg, a friend called to him: "Hello, how's your leg?" Caron turned quickly and broke the leg again.

Charles Wattis of Columbus, O., arrested for clubbing and attempting to steal a duck in Franklin Park, claimed that the bird had attacked him and the club was wielded in self-defense.

Charging that her husband "pinched her almost constantly when he was home," Mrs. Edna Morris of Defiance, O., recently filed suit for divorce.

Elmond Hargrove, 15, and Josephine Messer, 13, of Oakdale, La., announced their marriage "with full consent of their parents."

A TRIBUTE To Their Courage

Skepticism is abroad in this world . . . idealism has become the object of much ridicule. So as our tribute for Armistice Day, we're not going into the question of motives — of ideals — of right or wrong — we're simply going to pay tribute to the men that did their duty. The tribute is deserving — great deeds were performed, deeds that required courage and fortitude and a dogged stick-to-itiveness. The men who made those efforts cannot be praised too highly — the magnitude of their accomplishments is difficult to realize, but certainly, they were tremendous. Our hats off to the men who saw their duty and did it — regardless of the personal sacrifices it entailed!

NOVEMBER

On the battlefields of France during the World War, great sacrifices were made to attain the peace we celebrate each Armistice Day. Let us not forget the terrific cost of war nor underrate the blessings of peace. For twenty-one years—approximately 11,045,160 minutes we have enjoyed peace. May each minute grow into a year—may peace be eternal in our land.

Cotton Loan And Drouth Relief Are Announced

Base Loan Same As 1938; Date To Begin Applications Not Revealed

In auguration of a new loan program on cotton Tuesday, and the announcement of a comprehensive program of drouth aid highlighted Wednesday's news for farmers in Collingsworth County.

The base rate on the cotton loans, which are of prime importance to growers of this section, was set at 8.3 cents for those in compliance with the government farm program, a news release from Washington Wednesday morning said.

In dollars and cents, Collingsworth county farmers will receive about the same as last year, S. K. Parsons, cotton buyer, said Wednesday morning. The base rate, he continued, is the same as last year.

One difference, however, will be made, as this year, all classing will be done at Dallas, Altus, or Lubbock by government cotton classers, whereas the classing was done here last year. Government classing was used, however, in 1937.

As to when farmers may start making applications for the loans, Mr. Parsons stated that no word had been received locally, and he indicated that it may be a week or ten days before this can be started.

Concerning the drouth relief, the plan for which was drafted at the request of President Roosevelt, details have not been released, but are expected within a few days. Collingsworth and surrounding counties are included in the drouth area and will be eligible for aid, information received here, indicated.

Co-operation in these plans are the farm security administration, the farm credit administration, the disaster loan corporation, and the federal surplus commodities corporation.

French, Germans Veteran Speaks Are Compared

(Vernon Atkinson, who served for two years in the World War without being wounded and who was with the Army of Occupation in Germany in 1918, gives herein his opinion of French and German ideals. He also gives his views of part of the present war problems).

The German people are more progressive and industrious than the French but the French are the freest. The French know the war game better than any other people. Considering the difference in the ideals of the two peoples it will be quite a hard matter for them ever to patch up their differences. French ideals are largely based on religion. German ideals are largely based on traditions concerning the Fatherland.

The French people would like to let well enough alone and be let alone. The German people feel as if they had been imposed upon by some power, and they don't know what. They don't have much confidence in their leaders. It is mostly a case of pressure on the inside. They would not particularly object if some enlightened people other than the French would take them over and give them room to grow. They are more concerned about business and raising their families than with politics. They are a hardy race and possess qualities that, if they were assisted to develop, might play an important part in a higher civilization. They (Germans) have not entirely gone back on religion; it is just a question of being disgusted with the kind that has been imposed upon them.

The German people knew more about this country before 1918 than we knew about their country. But now it would take the German people quite a long time to understand democracy according to Western standards.

this year, the Irishmen will be out to avenge the losses to the Rockets for the past two years, 26-0 in 1937 and 40-6 in 1938.

As to this year's Irishmen, reports reaching here indicate that there are no stars, but a well balanced team that plays together and puts co-operation above all else. Their linemen are veterans; their backfield of a type similar to that of Wellington.

Out of the Rocket line-up, however, will be Bryan Williams, stellar guard, who for more than a week has been suffering injuries to both legs. In his place will be Jimmie Wayne Cook, who turned in an outstanding performance for the Rockets at Memphis.

outfit always had a good looking gal?

Why you were always on K. P. when your girl friend called at camp on Sunday?

Do you remember— The time you went through the delouser? The gob of soap they smacked on your head as you entered the shower? The way your overcoat looked when it came out of the steam treatment? And the haircut some teamster gave you as the crowning insult?

So now as we pay tribute to our departed comrades on the morning of November 11, we go on record as demanding peace. Who can better realize the horrors of war? For we have seen war stripped of its glamour and applause. We know that Democracy cannot flourish under war, for war means a surrender of rights and a seizing of authority by the strong and privileged.

We hope that the Armistice signed 21 years ago on November 11 may last eternally, at least as far as this nation is concerned, and that our youth may never again be called upon to follow the beat of war drums to the fray.

My comrades, you have not died in vain. Your sacrifice has made us mindful that the peace and security of our United States depends on friendly relations with all nations, but no entangling alliance with any.

As we stand in silent respect to our comrades, passed on, we pray God to grant them eternal rest, and may their sacrifice be, for us, an everlasting inspiration to carry on for God and country.
