Department Store, Hospital Close $2,250,000 Deal

Dunlap's To Build $1,000,000 Store On Broadway, Avenue L

DUNLAP'S Department store has completed a transaction with Lubbock General Hospital, Inc., whereby it will erect a $1,000,000 new home—consisting of three floors, mezzanine and basement—on the southwest corner of Broadway and Avenue L, Retha R. Martin, president of the mercantile firm, announced yesterday.

Under the terms of the agreement, Dunlap's has a 35-year lease on the quarter block space with an option to extend it by 20 additional years. The building, to be erected by Dunlap's, will become the property of Lubbock General, its heirs and assigns, at the conclusion of the first 35 years of occupancy.

Mr. Martin said the transaction, covering construction of the new building, ground rentals over the first 35 years and building rental for the additional 20 years, represents a total financial outlay of at least $2,250,000.

Start Plans Immediately

Work on the building plans will begin immediately, Mr. Martin said, even though construction contracts cannot be let until the property, now occupied by the east wing of the hospital, is turned over to Dunlap's. The hospital ownership, currently completing plans for its skyscraper type home on West Nineteenth street, is expected to be able to make the Broadway and Avenue L site available to the department store early in 1952.

Lubbock General Hospital, Inc., owns the building and real estate occupied by Lubbock Memorial hospital. When the move to the Nineteenth street location is made, however, the entire new hospital organization will be known as Lubbock Memorial.

DOWNTOWN EXPANSION INVOLVED

Purchase Of First Methodist Church Property Sought Here

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

SEEKING the westward development of the downtown business district along Broadway and Thirteenth street, a group of Lubbock men and women have begun preliminary efforts to purchase the city block owned by First Methodist church, it was revealed Saturday.

The downtown block, described as block 129, original town of Lubbock, is between Aves. M and N, Broadway and Thirteenth.

The purchase, if consummated, could be expected to have far-reaching significance in the pattern of Lubbock's future downtown growth. It also indicates that the church would select another site, not more than a few blocks away, on which to build a proposed $1,250,000 edifice.

At Delicate Stage

Saturday the negotiations were in a tentative stage, giving the appearance of delicate "fencing" on both sides.

No offer has been made for the church property, and no price has been set by the church. In fact, neither the board of stewards nor the finance committee has yet taken any official cognizance of the prospective sale.

However, a group of interested persons, nearly all of them owners of nearby valuable Broadway property, has already met twice to take preliminary steps toward bidding for the property, and a third meeting is scheduled for next Thursday night at Lubbock hotel.

Among those taking part in the preliminary planning are A. B. Brown, R. L. Durham, A. S. Meinecke, J. H. Felton, Dr. Ben B. Hutchinson, Dr. Frank W. Hudgins, George S. Berry, Mrs. Fern Cone and Monroe Abernathy. Abernathy has not attended the two

Three Persons Hurt As Truck Overturns

HALE CENTER, Nov. 26. (Special)—Three Latin-Americans were injured, one seriously, at 9:45 p. m. today when a pickup truck with seven passengers went out of control two miles north of here and overturned in a wheat field.

(Five persons suffered minor injuries in a wreck in the north part of Lubbock late Saturday night).

Aurora Figura, 16, was in Hale County Co-operative hospital here with a broken leg, chest injuries and possible internal injuries. Her condition was reported as serious.

Others hospitalized were Jesus Sedino, 45, leg injury, and his daughter, Esperanza Sedino, 19, cuts and bruises. All are of San Angelo.

Driver of the truck, Lupe Espinosa, and three other passengers were not injured.

Espinosa is a permanent employe on the T. J. Lee farm six miles north of Hale Center. The others in the truck also work at the Lee farm. The group had been in Hale Center and were returning to the Lee farm, driving north on the Lubbock-Amarillo highway.

Espinosa told investigating officers that he lost control of the 1934 pickup when he came up behind a vehicle without lights. Deputy Sheriff Cleatus Dyer of Hale county assisted Texas Highway patrolmen from Plainview in the investigation. The injured were brought to Hale Center by an ambulance from the Roy Woods Funeral home of Plainview.

'SUPER A-BOMB' REVELATION HIT

Solon Claims Lilienthal Group Planned To Share Atom Secrets

BY WILLIAM THEIS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — Sen. Johnson (D.-Colo.), charged tonight that certain Americans headed by retiring Atomic Chairman David E. Lilienthal are "actively engaged in a conspiracy" to give Britain the secrets of how to build a "super" atomic bomb.

Johnson's accusation was made in defending himself against criticism that he had overstepped security bounds in a television broadcast Nov. 1 when he referred to progress on a super A-bomb and a defense against enemy atomic attacks.

His reply as a member of the Joint Atomic Energy committee followed a White House conference reported to have concerned itself primarily with security leaks emanating from Congress.

President Truman instructed Attorney General McGrath at the White House meeting to crack down on members of Congress or anyone else who discloses atomic secrets or defense information.

Johnson's wrath was directed at the Washington Post, which criticized him for his television statements. In an open letter to that newspaper, he cited 25 prior in-

'Showdown' On City Limits Set Tuesday

By M. I. KIEFER
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

ARRANGEMENTS were completed Saturday for "showdown" hearings before the City commission Tuesday afternoon on 10 proposed extensions of the city limits before Jan. 1, 1950.

The annexations must be completed by that date if the city is to be given credit for the populations of those areas when the federal census is taken next year. House counts indicate the annexations would add 10,000 to 15,000 inhabitants to the city's official population.

Mayor W. H. Rodgers said the meeting will be called to order promptly at 1:30 p. m. in the council chamber in City Hall. The proceedings will be transferred to the auditorium of the adjoining American Legion home if attendance necessitates.

Separate Considerations Planned

The mayor said the commission plans to consider the proposed annexations one by one. This will give those wishing to appear for, or against, each proposition full opportunity to be heard.

The ordinances providing for the various annexations then will be acted upon separately. Those approved will require two readings to complete passage. The city charter provides that 10 days then must elapse before the ordinance goes into effect.

This means, in gist, that the City commission must finish its part of the job not later than Dec. 21 if the annexations are to be completed in time to give the city the benefit of the populations of the annexed areas in the 1950 federal census.

City officials said that surprisingly little interest has been apparent on the annexation proposals. This, ordinarily, would be interpreted as favorable to the prospects for the extensions.

But officials are expecting opposition to several of the proposed annexations—most vigorously

Second American Diplomat Seized

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—Chinese Communists have suddenly seized another American diplomat at Mukden—Angus Ward's top aide. A Republican congressman immediately proposed that the United States Navy blockade the China coast until he is released.

The Communists' arrest of Vice Consul William N. Stokes in connection with "spying charges" was made known today by the State department. It ordered "the strongest protest" to the Red commanders in the Manchurian city.

That was not enough for Rep. Judd (R-Minn), a member of the House Foreign Affairs committee. He suggested the blockade.

"We should have begun this naval blockade a year ago when they first started this line of action," said Judd, a former medical missionary in China. "Failing this, we should have mobilized the forces of world opinion—something we didn't try until a few days ago."

The State department last week asked 30 nations to bring pressure on the Chinese Reds before they freed Angus Ward, Mukden

Large Part Of Lubbock Hit By Electric Power Failure

An electrical power failure hit a large part of Lubbock Saturday afternoon, with current off in some areas from 15 to 30 minutes.

Truman Green, city electrical superintendent, said the outage came about 1:15 p. m. when an automatic relay went out at the new city power plant on North Ave. H.

He said residential areas in southwest and northwest Lubbock were without current for a longer period than the portion of the downtown area affected.

Standby generators were switched on at the new plant and at the plant at 417 Ave. J until the automatic relay could be adjusted, Green said. He said there was no damage at the plant and that the relay adjustment was made within an hour and a half.

Military Chiefs Fly To Paris

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26. — Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and Gen. Omar Bradley flew to Paris tonight to urge quick final agreement by the Atlantic treaty powers on a strategic plan for defense of the western world against Russia.

Johnson and Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, left International airport aboard an Air Force Constellation plane immediately after attending the Army-Navy football game here.

The two were whisked to the airport under a police escort. Memebrs of their staffs accompanied them.

Five Tasks To Be Set

The plan due to be adopted, officials said, will cover at least five types of defense tasks to be undertaken by one or more of the 12 nations in the Atlantic alliance.

The primary task of the United States will be to maintain and develop its A-bomb Air Force for

Texas Tech Players Reject Sun Bowl Bid

Texas Tech's Red Raiders, only minutes after chalking up a 23 to 13 victory over Hardin-Simmons university Saturday afternoon, voted overwhelmingly against accepting a bid to play in El Paso's annual Sun Bowl game Jan. 2.

The vote among the players was 38 to 3 against the post-season game. The vote was taken in a closed meeting.

Coach Dell Morgan said that he had left the matter entirely up to the players.

"It's been a long season with 11 games," Coach Morgan said. "If the Border conference had accepted an agreement with the Sun Bowl to send the conference champion, there would have been no question about our going. But since that agreement was not made by the conference, there is no moral reason to go."

Three Others Hurt In Crash Near Lueders

(By The Associated Press)

STAMFORD, Nov. 26 — A father and three of his children from Whiteface died in flames near Lueders today when the family car and an attached house trailer crashed into a moving train.

The mother and two daughters received severe burns. The mother was not expected to live.

The family had lived in the house trailer in Whiteface for the past three months, and was moving to Laird Hill near Kilgore.

Dead Are Listed

Dead were:

H. H. Kilpatrick, 35, an oil field worker who was driving the 1942 model sedan.

Jerry Kilpatrick, 13-year-old boy.

Elsie, age 10.

Silvia, age 7.

Four Trapped In Car

The four bodies, two in the front seat and two in the rear, could not be removed from the smoking wreckages until almost two hours later.

The mother, Mrs. Alla May Kilpatrick, 33, was reported in "a very critical" condition at a Stamford hospital. She was burned over much of her body.

The other two daughters, Christine, 14, and Joyce, 8, were burned, but doctors said they would recover.

Joyce first was taken by a passing motorist to Albany, which has no hospital, and then brought to Stamford. Until she was received at the Stamford hospital, it was believed there were only six members of the family.

Girl Gives Few Details

Christine could tell only brief rational details of the accident. She said she was asleep in the back seat. Doctors would not allow Joyce to be questioned.

The accident happened at the crossing of the Anson-Albany highway and the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad four miles southeast of Lueders, near the Jones-Shackleford county line.

Twenty-five persons, including four members of one family burned to death in an auto-train crash, died by violence in Texas during the long Thanksgiving weekend.

The toll—including Thanksgiving day—was 15 dead in traffic; six persons shot; a child burned to death in its box-car home; another child burned fatally when her dress caught fire; one man stabbed, another injured fatally, apparently from a fall from a bridge at Austin.

H. H. Kilpatrick, 35, a Whiteface oil field worker, and three of his children died in flaming wreckage when their auto and an attached house trailer crashed broadside Saturday into a moving train near Lueders. Dead were Jerry Kilpatrick, 13; Elsie, 10, and Silvia, 7, his sisters.

TRIO OF JAILBREAKERS HELD

Three Desperadoes Are Caught At Amarillo After New Holdup

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Nov. 26.—Three desperadoes who escaped jail here were captured today—two of them shortly after a holdup and the third after an intensive search.

Captured were Edward Lee Rader, 23, James Farris, 28, and Leo Earl Rader, twin brother of Edward.

Edward Rader and Farris were arrested about 2 p. m., not long after the three had staged a holdup at radio station KYLN's transmitter station near Amarillo.

Leo Rader and a man described as an Amarillo police character were found hiding some five hours later in a clump of weeds on a lot near Amarillo railroad tracks.

In each case the men were captured without resistance.

The Rader twins, Farris, and Dwight Hoskins, 24, escaped from the Potter county jail here early Wednesday. Hoskins, under indictment for murder, was recaptured 15 minutes after the 3:30 a. m. break.

The radio station transmitter holdup occurred shortly after 1 p. m. (CST) today. Before 2 p. m. Edward Rader and Farris were arrested in downtown Amarillo. Police said Farris was armed with

Crosby Store Owner Kidnapped And Shot

A. W. Wallace Wounded As Trio Takes $300 In Holdup; Idalou Man Robbed

By HANK McKEE AND TOM DAVIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writers

ARMED bandits struck at Crosbyton and Idalou late Saturday night as three men kidnapped and shot the owner of a Crosbyton drygoods store and escaped with $300 to $400 in a daring holdup of the firm, and two men attacked an Idalou resident and robbed him of approximately $100.

A. W. Wallace, 45, the store owner, was slugged in the store about 10 p. m., by three men who forced him to accompany them on a wild ride during which they constantly beat him with a gun, then shot him in the left arm and in the back of the head as he walked away from their car at their orders on a rural road 15 miles southeast of Crosbyton.

He later made his way to a farmhouse and was taken to Crosbyton General Hospital where his condition was described as satisfactory at 2 a. m. today. His condition was not considered critical.

Widespread Search Is Underway

Police, Highway patrolmen, sheriff's officers and Texas Rangers early today were combing the area in search of the men, believed to be driving a 1950 Studebaker.

At Idalou, E. J. Osgood, 28, a journey lineman for Southwestern Public Service Co., was robbed of approximately $100 by two men who attacked him in the yard of his home about 11:30 p.m. Saturday. He was struck on the head and knocked unconscious for more than 20 minutes.

It was not known whether there was any connection between the two robberies, fourth in the Lubbock area since last Saturday night.

Approximately 17 persons were in the Wallace store in downtown Crosbyton when the daring holdup occurred there.

Store Filled With Customers

Mrs. Wallace said the trio entered the store, still filled with customers, about 10 p. m.

Following a pattern almost identical to that described by witnesses to the holdup of the Economy department store in downtown Lubbock last Saturday night, the men deployed, one taking a station at the rear of the store, a second at the middle near the cash register, the third remaining at the front door.

One bandit approached a son of the owner, Alton, 17, and demanded the money in the cash register. The youth gave him the money, totaling between $300 and $400, which was placed in a leather suitcase.

Two of the men then told Wallace to open the safe.

Owner Struck With Gun

When Wallace told them he did not have the combination to the safe, a walk-in type vault, one of the gunmen pistol-whipped him about the head. A moment later one of the men fired a shot into the ceiling, apparently intending to frighten Wallace into opening the safe. A typewriter, a stove and a quantity of merchandise were knocked over as Wallace struggled with the gunmen.

One of the bandits turned a gun on Alton who had run to the back of the store to investigate the shooting.

As the trio left, they turned to warn those in the store "if you

Jewelry Store Here, Snyder Grocery Hit

$4,168 Loot Taken In Area Burglaries

CRIME activity early Saturday heralded a busy weekend for major burglaries here and in Snymapor burglaries here and in Snyder were added to complaints of numerous car thefts and minor offenses reported from scattered points.

Cash totaling over $3,300 was taken by intruders who "blew" a safe of the Cash Food market at Snyder, and police here said $819.95 worth of merchandise was stolen from the H. and D. Jewelry store at 1110 Ave. J.

Both burglaries occurred in the early morning hours Saturday, officials said.

Loot taken in the burglaries here and at Snyder totaled more than $4,168, with losses from petty thefts bringing losses to an even higher figure.

Malvern K. Stevenson, manager of the Snyder store, said $3,349.33 in cash was removed from the safe. A number of endorsed checks were left behind by the intruders.

Sheriff Lloyd Merritt said late last night that no trace of the burglars had been found. Evidence indicated the men were familiar with their work, he said.

Entry was gained by opening two rear doors, store officials said. The building was closed Friday night at 10 p.m., and the burglary evidently occurred between that time and 7 a.m. Saturday when the store was opened.

Management of the firm is to be taken over sometime in the near future by Sunbeam enterprises, it was reported.

Officials of the jewelry store burglarized here told officers that whoever broke out the plate glass window in the front of the building reached in and took five women's watches, three men's watches, 11 cigaret lighters, two bracelets, two wedding ring sets, three watch expansion bands, and two men's rings.

Prowlers who entered the house of O. P. Thorn, of Shallowater route 1, carried off property valued at $134, Thorn told Sheriff's officers. The intruders apparently entered the house through an unlocked rear door.

Taken were a portable radio, wedding ring, a gold cross, a pair of cowboy boots, and a gold pendant necklace.

Cars reported stolen, descriptions and owners:

WEAKER MOMENTS EXHIBITED

'Monty Of Alemein' Touring In U. S., Famed As Disciplinarian

By GEORGE DURNO
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, currently on these shores to make a few speeches—and incidentally talk about North Atlantic defenses—is known as the strictest of disciplinarians, but he has his weaker moments.

Following the disastrous evacuation of Dunkirk, in which he participated, "Monty of Alamein" took over training in Britain with the threat of a Hitler invasion imminent. He ordered:

"There is only one standard of physical fitness—the standard of total war."

Seven Miles Ordered

Upon which he ordered that all under his command up to the rank of brigadier run seven miles once a week.

The threat of invasion diminished. Monty relaxed.

Thereafter, his command would have to run only six miles once a week.

This short, wiry military man, whose piercing grey eyes, hawk nose and ruddy complexion are set off by a beret, has only one trouble in his travels—protection of his trademark, the self-same beret.

At the National Press club in Washington, Montgomery confided that he had particular trouble when ladies were in the audience or party.

Ladies Snitch Beret

"It's been snitched quite a few times," he reported, "but always by the ladies. Now I make it the first order of my aide to protect my beret."

This son of an Episcopal bishop was born in the Ulster county of Donegal, Ireland, and celebrated his 62nd birthday only this past Nov. 17. He entered his majesty's service as an infantry officer in the Royal Warwickshire regiment in 1908, was twice wounded and well decorated in World War I before going on to his present eminence.

Millions of British Tommies, American GIs, Aussies and New Zealanders remember him as the man who drove Rommel, the "Desert Fox," and his Nazi Afrika corps out of North Africa.

European Drive Made

Thereafter, he returned to Europe to lead his men through Belgium, France and Germany up to the Elbe river before World War II ended in the European theater.

Monty is noted for his self-confidence, self-control, absolute calmness and his stern disciplinary manners. Perhaps his early years in a rectory made him a teetotaler and non-smoker.

At one wartime military conference, he announced:

"I do not approve of smoking or coughing. There will be no smoking. For two minutes you may cough; thereafter, coughing will cease for twenty minutes, when I will allow another sixty seconds for coughing."

Montgomery trained and fought his men under this credo:

"Every man in the army must have the light of battle in his eye."

Admiration, Respect Won

Despite this rigid discipline, Monty won the admiration and respect of his men.

"I couldn't always tell them the whole truth, for security reasons," he told the National Press club. "What I did tell them was the truth. I think they appreciated it."

The doughty field marshal has one complex, perhaps shared by a lot of Americans—to wit, that in a U. S. drugstore you can purchase anything but drugs.

He was told here that a good navigator might get him to the drug counter, but he was unconvinced. He was asked whether he had ever been in an American drugstore—"chemist shop" to him.

"No," he replied, looking out of the 13th floor of the National Press building, "I'm saving that for New York. And say, aren't you rather high up here?"

The much-honored Montgomery is now chairman of the West European Defense committee, which is an integral part of the North Atlantic alliance.

He promises to discuss "western union's" defense capabilities in New York on Nov. 29, When he addresses the English-speaking union.

That was the official purpose of his visit to the United States—the New York speech—although he managed to get in a few Washington conferences at the Pentagon building, and to say that if anybody attacked western Europe from any direction:

"It would be a grand time; a real good party. We'd kill a lot of people."

Allan Shivers Will Meet With Governors Of Mexican States

AUSTIN, Nov. 26. (U.P.)—Gov. Allan Shivers will meet with the governors of four Mexican border states Dec. 4 at Fort Worth, raising the curtain on the December meeting of the Texas Good Neighbor commission, Tom Sutherland, executive secretary, announced today.

The formal meeting of the commission will be held Dec. 5. However, on the day before that Shivers will meet with Ing. Fernando Foglio Miramontes, governor of Chihuahua; Lic. Raul Lopez Sanchez, governor of Coahuila; Dr. Ignacio Morones Prieto, governor of Nuevo Leon, and Gen. Raul Garate, governor of Tamaulipas.

Sutherland said that one of the new topics for commission discussion will be what Mexican newspapers say about Texans and what the Texas press is saying about Mexicans.

The plan, initiated by Neville Penrose, commission chairman, was identified as "one more effort to get through the language barrier that isolates Texas and Mexico, sometimes as effectively as an 'iron curtain'."

Hip Pockets At Fault In South Carolina Slayings, Judge Says

GREENWOOD, S. C., Nov. 26 (U.P.)—Hip pockets are the root of most homicides in South Carolina, according to Circuit Judge J. Henry Johnson.

In nearly every homicide case, the judge said, it seems the defendant killed the other person because the latter started moving his hand toward his hip pocket.

The defendant then claims he thought the other party was going to shoot, so he shot first, Johnson said.

"More people have been killed in South Carolina with hip pockets that didn't contain weapons than any other one thing," he said. "It is remarkable that the man who goes for his gun first is never able to reach it."

DISEASE CAN BE STOPPED

Alcoholism Treatment Center To Be Dedicated In City Today

By KENNETH MAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

"Alcoholism can not be cured." But it can be stopped.

You're shocked for a minute, because the man who is talking is director of the newly-established Southwest Clinic and Commission on Alcoholism at 1502 Main. The clinic is to be formally dedicated at 3 p. m. today to the purpose of helping alcoholics.

"Alcoholism is a disease, like tuberculosis," says the director, S. R. Whaley, "and like tuberculosis there is no 'cure.' People do recover from TB, however, and persons can be rehabilitated who are seemingly hopeless drunks."

Alcoholism Explained

Alcoholism is a psychic allergy, Whaley explains. An alcoholic finds himself unable to control his drinking—he can not stop at one or two drinks but must keep on until he is utterly drunk. Only proper patience, counseling and understanding can rehabilitate such a man, he said.

The new clinic, first of its kind west of the Mississippi river, opened two weeks ago and has already treated 20 patients. Minimum length of time for admittance is five days and the percentage of recovery in similar clinics is 75 out of every 100.

Formal dedication of the SCCA this afternoon will find leaders in the field of alcoholic rehabilitation from thrpughout Texas, New Mexico and Arizona present. Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the Lubbock First Methodist church, will be the speaker. A permanent staff of six persons will be employed under the $65,000 annual budget.

Requirements Listed

"Alcoholics—contrary to public opinion—come largely from the middle and upper-income bracket groups," Whaley asserts. "The clinic here will treat anyone admitted to it, whether he is in the final stages of the disease, just on its doorstep, or has a fear of becoming an alcoholic. Only the advice of a doctor, minister, judge, welfare organization or other responsible person is needed for acceptance.

The SCCA is a joint project of the National Committee for Education on Alcoholism, Yale university, the laboratory of applied psychology at Texas Christian university, and educational and scientific institutions throughout West Texas

Associated with Alcoholics Anonymous, the local clinic has a capacity for 20 "in-patients" at one time, including 10 private rooms and one ward. Additional facilities are available, according to Whaley, should the clinic become overcrowded.

Services Explained

A hospitalization fee is ordinarily charged those admitted to the clinic, but arrangements can be made for those unable to pay, the director stated. After the five-day minimum "in" period, the commission also maintains an outpatient service to aid the individual on his road to complete recovery from the disease.

Overhead and operating expenses as well as salaries of permanent employes will be met by individual contributions from interested persons throughout this region, Whaley asserted. Besides the direct work with alcoholics, experimentation with new drugs and methods will be conducted by the SCCA.

The director pointed out that the steady, moderate drinker or the one who can stop at one or two drinks is not an alcoholic. Such a person, or the one who takes solitary drinks, may be on the road to becoming one, however, he said. He declared, also, that many alcoholics still manage to maintain respectable standings in the community and church and hold down good jobs. It is the purpose of the SCCA to help such persons before they have gone too far, he said.

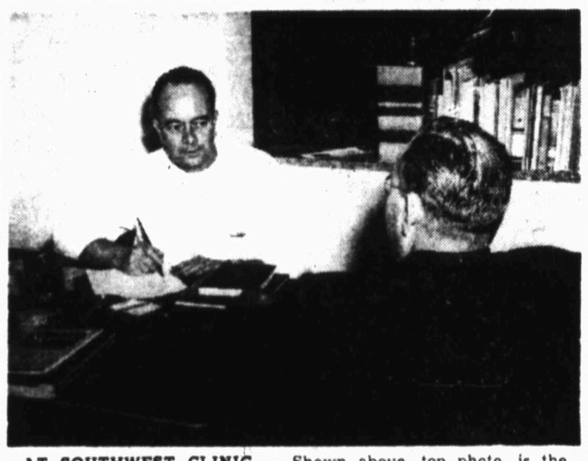

To Protect Anonymity

"The anonymity of all persons admitted to the clinic or receiving counseling from it will be protected," Whaley asserted. Persons will be treated without reference to race, sex or religion, he said.

An "open house" for public inspection will be maintained at the clinic all day today, both before and after the formal dedication. Most of the 51 directors of the commission are expected to be on hand for the ceremonies.

Members of the permanent staff at the SCCA other than Whaley include Mrs. Mary Lorimer, R. N., Mrs. Jane West, R. N., Mrs. William Penney, R. N., Miss Ina Heath, nurses' aide and dietitian, and Fred Hill, nurses' aide. A psychiatrist familiar with alcoholism is yet to be added to the permanent staff and all medical doctors in this area are on the so-called "open staff" of the commission, according to Whaley.

NO TIME

If the earth kept the same side always toward the sun, had no moon, and had its polar axis perpendicular to its orbit, we would have no days, months, or seasons. In other words, we would be unconscious of the passing of time.

Planned Fight On Alcoholism Discussed

Methods of organizing community and area resources to combat the disease of alcoholism were discussed last night by R. M. Henderson of Connecticut in a program held in the auditorium of Lubbock High school.

Last night's program was a preliminary of today's opening of the Southwest Clinic and Commission on alcoholism at 1502 Main.

Henderson, who is assistant to the director of the National Committee for Education on alcoholism (a division of the Yale Plan on alcoholism) pointed out that one of the main purposes of the Yale studies has been to give scientific knowledge on alcoholism as a disease.

Since alcoholism is a disease, it should be treated as such, he added. He also said that the psychiatrist, sociologist, and psychologist need to cooperate to the utmost in helping persons afflicted with the disease of alcoholism.

Rev. Travis A. White, pastor of First Christian church, was master of ceremonies for last night's program. Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of First Methodist church, gave the invocation.

R. S. Whaley, executive director of the Southwest Clinic and Commission on alcoholism, introduced special guests attending the program.

Showdown On Plans To Extend City Limits Is Seen Tuesday

perhaps, to extensions in southeasterly and westward directions.

The City Limits Extension committee of the chamber of commerce, which recommended the annexations to be considered, therefore is urging citizens who favor them to be present. J. Ray Dickey is chairman of the group.

The program provides for extensions of the city boundaries in all directions. If all are approved, they will more than double the city's present territorial area, increasing it from about 10.5 to slightly more than 21 square miles. Nearly 2,500 residences are in the areas—many of them multiple-unit dwellings. Vacancies are few.

The additions would increase the extreme east-west distance across the city to about seven miles, as compared with about four miles now, and the north-south distance to somewhat more than five miles as compared with the present three and one-half.

No New Testimony Expected

Discussions have produced no arguments for, or against, the annexations which have not already been re-hashed repeatedly.

The chief objection of those who oppose annexation has been that it would require them to pay city taxes before receiving full city services in return.

Supporters of the extensions dispute this and contend that benefits to residents of annexed areas would be numerous from the start. Cited as immediate benefits are reduced fire insurance premiums, police and fire protection, garbage collection, many types of health protection, street and alley maintenance and zoning and building protection. The residents of such areas also will be in better position to get water, sewage, paving and other conveniences sooner if they are inside the city than if they remain outside.

Business men also point out that it is to Lubbock's interests that the 1950 federal census shall credit this city with its true population. That will not be done if many of the populous suburbs remain outside the city limits.

Would Help City Grow

The larger the population as shown by the census, the better will be Lubbock's chances of obtaining assets and payrolls of many kinds — industries, distributing houses and government agencies, to mention three.

Here, briefly described, are the extensions to be considered:

NO. 1 — Northward from the present city limits about three-quarters of a mile and between College avenue and Avenue H from west to east; includes Country club addition; limited opposition to the annexation indicated from property owners south of Country Club addition.

NO. 2—Eastward from the present city limits, which cross the fairgrounds, and between Fourth and Nineteenth streets. The segment of this addition north of East Broadway follows that thoroughfare about two miles. The extension south of East Broadway would be about one mile. Little opposition anticipated.

NO. 3—A small area adjoining the east city limits and including Seiber addition; no opposition indicated.

NO. 4—The largest of the proposed annexations, embracing about three square miles of territory east of Avenue A to a point beyond the Slaton highway and southward from the present city limits, in the vicinity of Thirty-fourth street, to about Sixtieth street. Vigorous opposition indicated to the annexation of most of this area.

NO. 4-A—This is a small area included in No. 4. If No. 4 is approved, no action will be required to bring 4-A inside the city limits. If No. 4 is rejected, No. 4-A still can be annexed. It is an area east of Avenue A and one-half a mile wide. Opposition negligible.

NO. 5—A long strip between Avenues A and H extending about three miles southward from the present city limits beyond the Traffic circle to about Sixty-fifth street. Some opposition expected.

NO. 6—Another long strip between Avenues H and Q and from the present city limits beyond the Traffic circle. Included is a quarter-section of land west of the circle belonging to J. C. Davis. Some opposition anticipated.

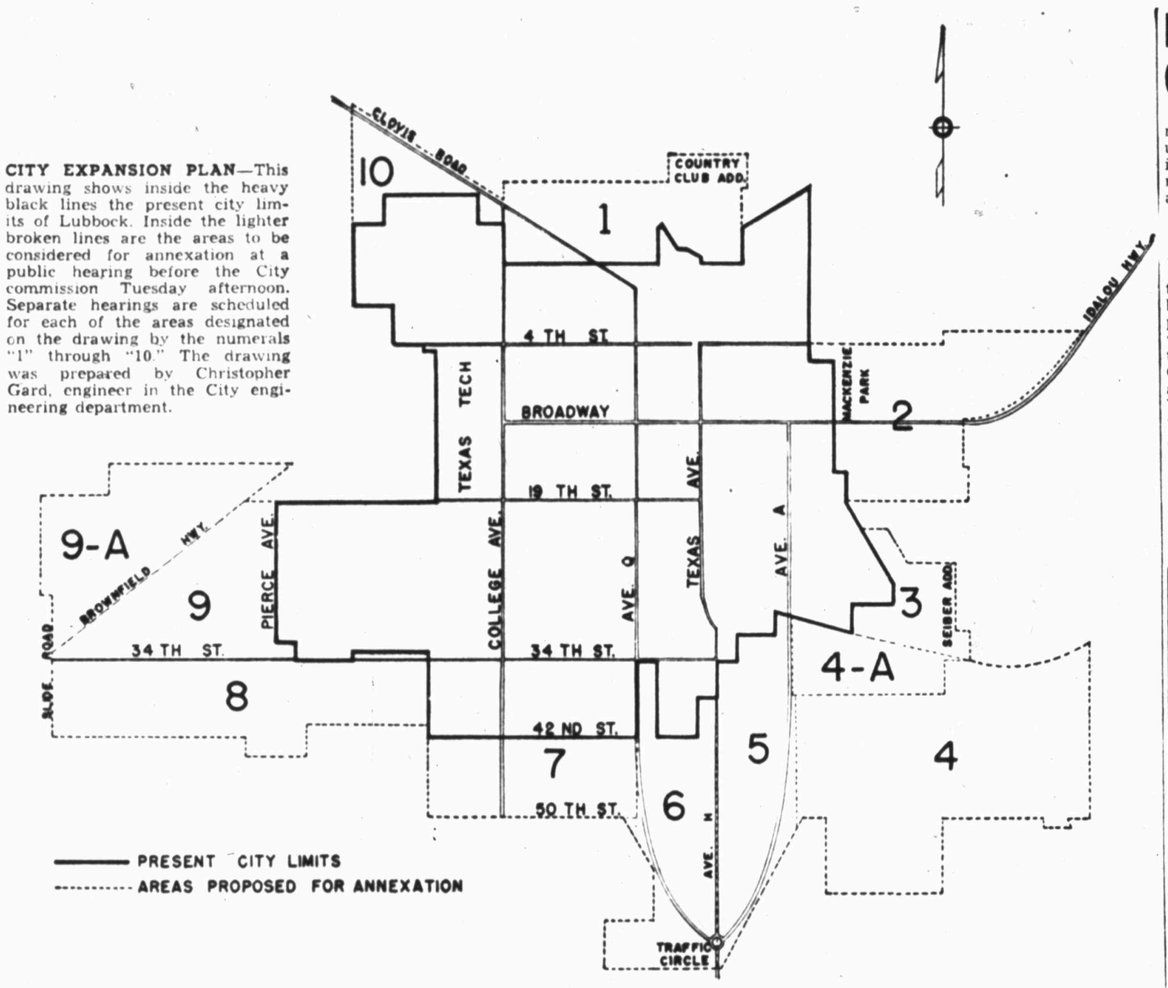

NO. 7—The area bounded by Avenue Q, Monroe avenue, Forty-second and fiftieth. No opposition expected.

NO. 8—A narrow strip between Thirty-fourth and about Forty-second streets from Monroe avenue to the Slide road, about three miles. Opposition negligible.

NO. 9-A—Includes all the area west of the present city limits at Pierce avenue to the Slide road and from points north of Nineteenth street southward to Thirty-fourth. Cutting diagonally across this area is the Brownfield highway which divides it almost in half. The area northwest of the highway comprises the "Westchester" district.

NO. 9—Includes only the area southeast of the Brownfield highway between Nineteenth and Thirty-fourth. If 9-A is approved, it automatically will include No. 9. If 9-A is rejected, No. 9 still can be annexed. Little opposition anticipated.

NO. 10—A roughly triangular area beyond the northwest city limits which already is in process of annexation, the ordinance having been approved on first reading. Those wishing to be heard concerning this extension, however, will have that opportunity until the ordinance is approved on final reading, probably on Dec. 8.

CITY EXPANSION PLAN—This drawing shows inside the heavy black lines the present city limits of Lubbock. Inside the lighter broken lines are the areas to be considered for annexation at a public hearing before the City commission Tuesday afternoon. Separate hearings are scheduled for each of the areas designated on the drawing by the numerals "1" through "10." The drawing was prepared by Christopher Gard, engineer in the City engineering department.

More than 75 members of the association from Amarillo, El Paso, Abilene, Lubbock and surrounding territories are expected to attend the meeting, Woods said. It is one of four to be held throughout the state during the first week of December.

Five Hurt In Crash Of Truck, Car Here

Five Latin-Americans received minor injuries about 7:10 p.m. Saturday when their automobile was in collision with a heavy truck near the intersection of Fourth and Ave. P.

Driver of the truck, Ruth Johnson, 47, of 424 Ave. E, was not injured.

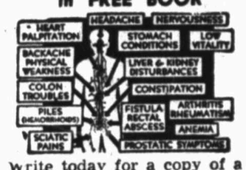

The Latin-Americans were treated for scratches and minor bruises at Lubbock Memorial hospital and later released. They were Ignacio Vega, 26, driver of the 1938 Chevrolet sedan; Edward Garcia, 24; Mrs. Julia Vega, 25; and two small children, Johnnie Vega and Aden Vega, six and three years of age respectively. All are of Beeville.

Members of the police department who investigated said the truck was going west on Fourth while the Vega automobile was traveling east on that thoroughfare. The two vehicles collided at a point where Fourth makes a slight curve and crosses a railroad track. Both vehicles were damaged.

The Latin-Americans were taken to the hospital by ambulances from Rix and McDonald Funeral homes.

UNIFICATION ROW NOT ISSUE

Speedy Senate Confirmation Of Adm. Sherman Is Forecast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—A key senator predicted today that the Senate will approve Adm. Forrest P. Sherman as chief of naval operations without reviving the bitter unification scrap among the armed forces.

The prediction came from Senator Tydings (D-Md), chairman of the Senate armed services committee which will be the first congressional group to act on Sherman's appointment.

Sherman was named to be the navy's top uniformed leader after Adm. Louis E. Denfeld was fired from the job as an aftermath of the sharp Navy flare-up against defense policies which admirals said favored the Air Force.

May Ask Inquiry

Two Republican senators, Bridges (NH) and McCarthy (Wis), have said they plan to ask a full inquiry into both the Denfeld removal and the Navy's criticism of Pentagon defense planning.

But Tydings told a reporter he doubts that Senate action on Sherman will be delayed or involved with the Denfeld case.

"I have learned of no single objection to the confirmation of Admiral Sherman," Tydings said. "I look for his speedy confirmation when Congress convenes."

That will be in January.

Tydings said Sherman is well thought of by many senators because he was one o fthe few Navy people to give active support to unification of the armed services during the long congressional battle over the act in 1947.

Sherman Is Praised

"Admiral Sherman also is held in very high regard by all members of the committee because of his fine war record and recurring contribution to the efficiency of the Navy," the senator added.

"In my opinion he is one of the finest and most able officers in the armed services."

Defense officials have denied that Denfeld's removal was directly connected with the hearings held last month by the House Armed Services committee, at which a long parade of admirals said the Navy's power was being trimmed dangerously in the Pentagon.

Denfeld was one of the Navy officers who testified, but Secretary of the Navy Matthews said he made clear to the admiral even before the hearings that he could expect to be removed as chief of naval operations.

Several congressmen have protested that Denfeld's removal violated a pledge by Secretary of Defense Johnson that there would be no reprisals for testimony in the House hearings.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) said the Denfeld case is a closed book as far as the House committee is concerned.

A man in Ely, England, was fined $4 for stealing two cigarettes.

U.S. General Protests Red Killing Of Airman In Berlin

BERLIN, Nov. 26. (AP)— Maj. Gen. Maxwell Taylor personally protested to Russian headquarters today against the shooting of a U. S. Air Force sergeant, denouncing the killing as an act of "senseless brutality" by a Soviet sentry.

The U. S. commandant in Berlin demanded that the killer be punished immediately, and that steps be taken to assure that henceforth "Russian sentries will be controlled in the irresponsible use of their weapons."

The slain soldier was Staff Sgt. John E. Staff of Ramsey, Ill. He was shot through the head last night at a Russian checkpoint on the zonal border in Berlin. Two other American soldiers and a German girl in the car with him were uninjured.

Taylor said Staff was killed by a Soviet sentry while riding in a plainly marked official car of the U. S. Air Force. The soldier drove up to the checkpoint to ask directions. Witnesses said he was directed to drive into the Soviet sector, but instead turned around and started back into the British sector. Four shots were fired, and Staff slumped dead over the wheel.

Jeweler Foils Armed Robbers; One Caught, Other Believed Shot

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 26. (AP)— One man is in jail today on armed robbery charges and police are looking for his confederate, who may be wounded—thanks to the quick thinking and shooting of a Pittsburgh jeweler.

The two gunmen walked into the home of jeweler Irving Schiffman, 39, last night and asked him and his wife to hand over $170 in cash and $150 from a safe.

While they were collecting the money the Schiffman's two daughters, Shirley, 17, and Barbara, 12, came home. One man held the women and their maid, Caroline Dragich, at gun point while his companion forced Schiffman outside.

Became Panicky

Schiffman told this story:

His two cars were parked in the driveway and the bandit headed for one of them. Schiffman protested that it was out of gasoline and he would have to drive the other.

"I carry a loaded revolver in my business car," he explained to a reporter.

The gunman directed Schiffman to drive to his jewelry store.

"I told him 'you'll never get away with this, there's a night watchman on duty there and we have protective service."

He quoted the gunman as saying: "I'll take care of the watchman—I'll kill him if necessary."

"That's when I got panicky and when he pulled up to the curb near my store I kicked him out of the car, pulled my gun out of the compartment and fired one shot at him. He ran and I ran after him and fired three more bullets. I think I hit him.'

Police Alerted

Patrolman Martin Lappe, who was off duty, came to Schiffman's aid. He alerted police who sent a swarm of squad cars to the Schiffman home.

Meanwhile Lappe telephoned Schiffman's home and posed as a friend of the family.

The alleged robber talked to the patrolman but apparently became frightened and hung up.

As he rushed from the house police captured him without a struggle.

Police identified him as Phillip Garner, 22, of South Greensburg, Pa., and charged him with armed robbery.

Schiffman said a third man may have been involved in the attempted burglary. He said he saw a man standing beside a car parked near his home when he was forced to drive downtown. He said the car followed him but disappeared when he started shooting.

RUN ON CCOFFEE—While waves of panicky buying have cut deep into coffee stocks, U. S. roasters are hustling to keep supply channels filled. Here, William Redman and John Nee, coffee blenders at a Boston, Mass., plant load bags of green coffee beans on a carrier to go to the roasters. Industry spokesmen say there would be plenty of coffee if customers would only buy normally.

Philippine Forces Continue Fighting

MANILA, Nov. 26. (AP)—Fighting continued today between Philippine government forces and a rebel band of 600 men entrenched on a mountain top 60 miles south of Manila.

The government clamped a tight news blackout on the operation, but Manila newspaper correspondents in the area reported they still could hear firing and could see government planes dropping bombs.

The scene is six miles southeast of the city of Batangas. Gov. Deliciano Leviste of Batangas province has described the rebels as people dissatisfied with the Nov. 8 presidential election, in which President Elpidio Quirino defeated Jose Laurel.

Leviste himself is a leader in Laurel's Nacionalista party, and Laurel is a native of Batangas province.

The constablulary last night searched Laurel's Manila home in vain quest of two rebel leaders they had heard were visiting him.

Governor Leviste came to Manila and urged a truce, saying a more lenient attitude by the government could settle the conflict.

FEAR THREAT TO SELF RELIANCE

Brannan's Farm Price Support Plan Hit By National Grange

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 26. (AP)—The National Grange has rejected the Brannan farm price support program as "an internal cancer that would ultimately destroy our free enterprise system."

The resolution condemning the farm program proposed by Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan was a highlight of the closing session of the 12-day National Grange convention last night.

Delegates from 37 states took part in installing Master Albert S. Goss for his fifth two-year term just before passing the resolution which said of the Brannan plan:

"The proposal has totally undesirable political implications. Clearly, under such a system, that party which would promise to farmers the largest bonus out of the treasury would garner many votes not obtainable on the basis of an honest, sound platform.

Provides Parity Supports

"It would then become a race to see which party would promise most."

The resolution said that Brannan type of subsidy would make farmers "public beggars for a fair income" and destroy their character and self reliance.

(The Brannan plan, shelved at the recent Congress, calls for full parity supports through purchases and loans, as at present, for corn, cotton, wheat, rice, peanuts and tobacco. For perishable products the price would be permitted to seek its natural level in the market place. The government would determine a "fair price" in advance and then pay the producers the difference between that price and the natural price, if it were lower.)

Unsound Methods Hit

The resolution suggested that today's farm problem results largely from unsound methods. "The output of farms and of industry have not been kept in proper balance," it said. "Farm products have not reached the right markets and our nation has not given enough consideration to a better diet for our entire population."

The subsidy method of solving the difficulties was assailed as "at best a temporary device which will only serve to postpone the time when a sound solution must be reached."

The resolution maintains there are other means than the Brannan plan to help the farmer obtain a fair income. It specifically recommends more advertising, strengthened cooperative marketing and the use of a dual or multiple price system.

Benefits To Consumer

"Subsidies are in reality for the benefit of the consumer, but the stigma of drawing money out of the treasury attaches to the farmers. Moreover, subsidies operate to increase the proportions of our colossal national debt and are in themselves inflationary."

Other officers formally installed for two-year terms include: Henry D. Sherwood, Pine Plains, N. Y., overseer; Edward F. Holter, Middletown, Md., lecturer; Bryan V. Holmes, Millburn, Neb., steward; Franklin C. Bixon, Vincentown, N. J., chaplain; W. G. Armstrong, Niles, Mich., treasurer; Harry A. Caton, Coshocton, Ohio, secretary.

The Brannan plan held center stage during the entire convention. It opened with Master Goss recommended rejection of any such program. Brannan, himself, addressed the delegates last Saturday and requested consideration.

Other Speakers Heard

Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas (D-Calif) also advised the grange to try the Brannan program to help prevent boom and bust on the farm.

Goss stood for re-election on an anti-Brannan plan plank. The man he defeated, Ohio Grange Master Joseph W. Fichter, Oxford, is for the Brannan program. After his set-back by Goss he also lost his job as grange chaplain.

The convention heard other guest speakers, including Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman and North Carolina Governor Kerr Scott.

The grangers voted to hold next year's convention in Minnesota. The date and the city were left undesignated.

A MEMORY BOOK OF PROGRESS OF LUBBOCK AND THE SOUTH PLAINS 1873 - 1949

Do you know why Avenue Q is one of the broadest and finest thoroughfares in Lubbock?

The reason supplies one of the interesting early-day sidelights of the city's history.

In about 1908 to 1910, during a great national era of railroad building, a new rail line was projected from Hereford through Lubbock to some indefinite point on the Texas and Pacific. Midland and Abilene were prominently considered as terminal points there.

The project aroused a great deal of enthusiasm in Lubbock and along the entire route. One of the requirements for Lubbock was the provision of a right-of-way 100 feet wide. Citizens of the city promptly met that condition. The right-of-way forms the present Avenue Q between Fourth and Nineteenth street.

The railroad project eventually fell through for a combination of reasons. The far-sighted pioneers of those days decided, in effect: "If the right-of-way isn't used for a railroad, we'll use it for a street."

So that was done, and proved a step which stimulated the westward development of the city, providing a broad thoroughfare in which the community has been obviously justified in taking pride.

Majority Of U. S. Voters Oppose Recognition Of Reds In China

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute Of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 26. — Should the United States recognize the Communist government of China?

Voters questioned in a national opinion survey answer that with a resounding NO. Among all those who are aware of the recent civil war in China the vote against recognition is 2-to-1. The best educated, those who have been to college, oppose recognition by a substantial margin.

The Angus Ward case has focused fresh attention on the Chinese situation. Calling for a State Department ultimatum to the Chinese Communists to free the captive American consul, George N. Craig, head of the American Legion, has declared that recognition of the Red regime would be an even worse blunder than recognition of Russia in 1933. Meanwhile the State Department has sought the opinions and advice of some thirty prominent American citizens, including Harold E. Stassen, George C. Marshall and John D. Rockefeller 3rd, as to what American policy toward the Chinese Communisis should be.

While the average voter, the "man-in-the-street," has no first-hand knowledge of the Chinese situation, if the State Department were to sound his views in order to determine what general impression the country has formed about the issue of recognition, here is what it would find:

Three out of every four voters (76 per cent) have heard or read about the civil war in China, which has resulted in Communist control of most of the country. The attitude of these voters toward recognition is as follows in a survey conducted by the Institute:

"Do you think the U. S. should recognize the new government in China being set up by the Chinese Communist Party—that is, do you think we should send an ambassador and have dealings with this government in China?"

Favor recognition	20%
Oppose recognition	42
No opinion	14
	76%
Not familiar with China events	24
	100%

The vote is almost identical with that in a similar survey conducted by the Institute last July, indicating little or no change of sentiment in recent months. Most of the interviewing in today's survey was completed before the Angus Ward case began to stir up interest.

Vote By Education

As might be expected, persons with college training are more aware of the Chinese situation than those who had less formal education.

Here is the way opinion on recognition divides by education:

	College	High Sch'l	Grade Sch'l
Favor recognition	33%	25%	12%
Oppose recognition	52	44	37
No opinion	10	14	15
	95%	83%	64%
Not familiar with China events	5	17	36
	100%	100%	100%

The Question Of Trade

For a good many years past the general public has been reluctant to sanction trade and commerce with Communist nations. In the case of China this attitude is also found, although opinion is fairly closely divided.

The issue was put to voters as follows:

"If China is taken over completely by the Communists, do you think the United States should continue to carry on trade with China—or do you think the U. S. should refuse to have any trade with China?"

The vote:

Continue trade	29%
Do not continue	33
No opinion	14
	76%

There are persistent reports that Britain and some of the member nations of the British empire are getting ready to recognize the Chinese Communists around the first of the year. Such action would serve to bring the China recognition issue to a head in the United States.

PONDEROUS PORKER—There's 500 pounds of sausage—nearly a third of a mile of links—wrapped up in this high hog brought to the Chicago market by Robert Hawley of Argyle, Wis. The four-year-old Duroc boar is four feet high, six feet long and weighs 1080 pounds. Packers paid Hawley $124.20 for the hog and sharpened up their sausage grinders. The normal-size Hampshire hog in foreground points up the monster's size.

Girlstown Given Charter To Safeguard Future As Home For Dependent Girls

A charter has been granted to Girlstown, U. S. A., near Whiteface, Miss Amelia Anthony, founder and director, said in Lubbock Saturday.

Incorporators are Miss Anthony, president; Judge A. K. Doss of Abilene, vice-president, and Owen McWhorter of Lubbock; secretary and treasurer.

Purpose of the charter is "to insure and safeguard Girlstown, U. S. A., as a home for homeless and neglected young girls as long as there is a need of our home," said the director.

Own Funds Used

On March 13, 1949, Miss Anthony opened Girlstown at Buffalo Gap, using her own funds.

From the first mental forming and actuality of Girlstown, she has had "an earnest desire to share it with every individual in the United States" and the incorporation is another step in making it possible for Girlstown to be shared with the public, she said.

Assets of Girlstown are estimated in the charter at $50,000, consisting of 1,425.6 acres of land, buildings, furniture and equipment, livestock, automotive equipment and other assets.

Girlstown was incorporated without capital stock for benevolent, charitable and educational purposes.

Ranch Given Project

The first contributor to Girlstown other than the founder was T. B. Duggan, sr., of Lubbock, who on June 13 gave a ranch near Whiteface and $20,000 to Girlstown.

Numerous individuals and organizations have since aided with contributions of money and services.

The figure "13" has been significant for Girlstown since it opened on March 13. The move to Girlstown's new site near Whiteface was made on July 13. Construction of the first residence, which will provide 32 bedrooms for 64 girls, opened on Aug. 13. Dedication is scheduled on Dec. 13.

Girlstown has attracted considerable attention throughout the United States, receiving letters and applications for admission of girls from various parts of the country.

The young director of Girlstown has been asked, "what will happen to Girlstown if you were to die?"

Incorporation of Girlstown is a move to perpetuate it.

Elliott went down and brought up logs and old tree limbs. He reported that until debris is removed it is useless to look for the treasure.

Many interests have looked for gold in the springs. It was supposed to have been hidden there by Spanish settlers after an Indian attack.

NEW PEOPLE IN SOUTHERN U.S.

Leading Educators Of South Will Meet For 54th Session

HOUSTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—Some 400 of the south's leading educators will be here next week for the fifty-fourth annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools.

The United States commissioner of education and the presidents of the University of Pennsylvania and Harvard university will be among the convention speakers.

The meeting opens tomorrow and continues through Thursday. Ten other educational groups are to meet in conjunction with the convention.

Harold E. Stassen, head of the Pennsylvania school, is to speak Monday night on "Education of Free Men." Stassen, a prominent Republican presidential hopeful, is a former Minnesota governor.

Earl J. McGrath, commissioner of education speaks Wednesday morning on "Do We Need a New Type of Advanced Education?"

The Harvard president, Dr. James B. Conant, will be the principal speaker at the conventions annual banquet Wednesday night. He is to speak on "Science and Common Sense."

Removal Report Due

Various commissions of the association are to make reports Thursday morning.

Among those expected is a report by the commission on institutions of higher learning which has been investigating the removal of Dr. Claybrook Cottingham as president of Louisiana Polytechnic institute, Ruston, La.

The Louisiana board of education, with several members changed as a result of the 1948 state election, did not reelect Cottingham to the Ruston presidency last May.

Cottingham died August 17 in Mexico City while visiting relatives but investigation of the board's action has continued.

President L. H. Hubbard of Texas State College for Women, Denton, and chairman of the commission, last month said Cottingham's removal would be considered at the Houston meeting.

Speaker Listed

Recommendations for accrediation, blacklisting and curricular standards will be considered at the Thursday meeting.

The association is the accrediting agency which determines whether colleges' degrees and credits are accepted automatically by other institutions.

It investigates alleged breaches of academic freedom and once put the University of Texas on its black list after Dr. Homer P. Rainey was dismissed there as president.

Other speakers at the convention will include Dr. W. T. Edwards, president of Florida State university, Dr. H. L. Donova, president of the University of Kentucky, Dr. Hubbard, E. A. October Air Express Shipments Increased

The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported 10,008 shipments from Dallas. Houston was next with 4,892, followed by San Antonio 2,612; Fort Worth 2,022; and El Paso 1,499.

Big Spring turned in the largest increase from September to October—66 per cent. Other large gains in air express shipments were registered in Plainview 33 per cent; Bryan and Lufkin 22 per cent; and Rel Rio 11 per cent.

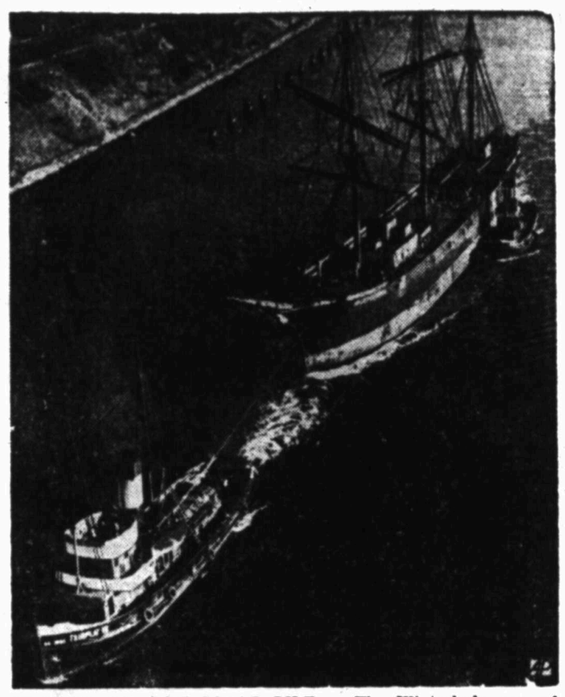

The largest monthly declines in air express shipments was recorded by Fort Stockton 108 per cent; followed by Harlingen 45 per cent; Longview 43 per cent; Odessa 21 per cent; Palestine and Brownsville 19 per cent; and Austin and McAllen 15 per cent.

In comparison with October 1948, increases ranged from 85 per cent in Lufkin to 2 per cent in Plainview.

During the 12-month period, declines varied from 484 per cent in Texarkana to a fractional dip in El Paso.

Amateur Operators Find "Bugs" In Radio, Television Business

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 26 (U.P.) H. W. Crowe, jr., is just one of more than 100 amateur radio operators throughout the country working on a semi-secret project which they hope will benefit mankind some day.

Crowe says the hams often find out, through hit-and-miss experimentation, a new way to do something. Then they let the experts figure out the phenomenon, and perhaps apply it.

Crowe and the other amateurs hope to turn up these things:

More accurate weather prediction through radio.

Improved navigation methods for pilots.

Woman's Intuition Spots Negro Intruder Hiding Under Her Bed

MONCLAIR, Fla., Nov. 26 (U.P.)—Woman's vaunted intuition has been vindicated once again.

Mrs. R. A. Mallory told her husband on entering her home at night that a man was in the house.

A search revealed nothing. But after retiring, Mrs. Mallory told her husband she couldn't sleep knowing that a man was in the house.

This time Mallory looked under the bed. A negro scrambled from the other side of the bed and fled from the house.

A French Cabinet crisis developed so suddenly, the other day, that President Vincent Auriol, suffering from toothache, had to postpone going to a clinic to have a root removed.

$22,000 In Checks, Money Orders May Be Too Old To Cash

Widow Dies In Dilapidated Old House, Leaving Diamond Treasure In A Trunk

CHICAGO, Nov. 26 (U.P.)—The creaky old mansion where an aged widow died early this month has yielded a treasure in diamonds concealed in the false bottom of a trunk, it was revealed today.

Attorney Ralph Berkowitz of a trust firm said the diamonds, weighing over 1,000 carats, were set in 300 pieces of jewelry stuffed into medicine bottles and match boxes or wrapped in old newspapers.

The gems, together with a huge store of uncrated antiques that jammed many of the rooms from floor to ceiling, are expected to bring the estate of Mrs. Linda Bell Titus Knox to more than $500,000.

Mrs. Knox died Nov. 9 at the age of 94 in a small third floor room of the dilapidated house on Chicago's west side.

A search of desk and bureau drawers turned up $5,000 in cash and $22,000 in uncashed checks and money orders. Berkowitz said that many of the checks and money orders were so old they could not be cashed because of the statute of limitations.

In addition to large real estate holdings, Mrs. Knox also had a 20-room mansion in suburban River Forest crammed with valuable art objects and antiques.

Mrs. Knox's second husband, Sidney, a real estate dealer died last year leaving an estate of $160,000, half of which was to go to his widow. A suit contesting his will is pending.

TAX EXEMPT EARNINGS CITED

Solon Claims U. S. Losing Cash Through 'Lax' Treasury Rules

By FELIX COTTEN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Rep. Mason (R-Ill), charged today that $50 billion of business a year is now escaping taxation legally under "loose" treasury rules and that the volume is growing rapidly.

Mason's statement signaled the beginning of a drive to pass legislation at the 1950 session of Congress taxing the business earnings of cooperatives, colleges, foundations and other tax-exempt organizations.

Treasury Figure Hiked

The congressman, a member of the tax-writing ways and means committee, declared that the volume of tax-exempt business is five times the $9,852,752,000 which the treasury recently said is now collected annually by 99,467 tax-exempt groups.

He included Father Divine among the tax-escapers and said that passage of the Mason bill to tax the tax-exempts would yield $1 billion of new revenue a year.

This, he insisted, would make it possible to repeal wartime excise taxes, for which there is now strong demand in Congress.

Legal Exemption Grows

Mason said the amount of legal tax exemption—which is outside the field of illegal tax avoidance—"is growing bigger and bigger each year as more and more concerns find how easy it is to slip out of tax liability under the treasury's loose and liberal regulations."

He asserted:

"Recently, the United States Wheat corporation bought Tom Campbell's famous 65,000-acre wheat ranch in Montana for the benefit of a tax-exempt foundation;

"Father Divine has bought the third largest hotel in Newark, N. J., and given it tax-exemption;

Legal Loopholes Used

"Textron has discovered how to finance operations through non-taxpaying charitable trusts; 50-odd concerns, including Ed Gardner's radio comedy, Duffy's Tavern, have moved to Puerto Rico to dodge payment of income tax, and tax evaders have learned to use other legal loopholes in the tax laws."

Mason said that colleges and other tax-exempts have gone into business on a multi-billion dollar scale since 1943.

He declared that the treasury admits the inadequacy of its "measly" total, but "tries to excuse" it on the ground that many organizations are not required to file business reports under present law and an undetermined number required to file have not done so.

Tax-exempt farm cooperatives Mason declared, last year did three times the $5,620,127,000 of business shown in the treasury announcement. He said city consumer cooperatives "are required to make no return whatever, because the treasury calls them income taxpayers."

Campaign Buttons Appear In New Mexico Race For Office

ALBUQUERQUE, Nov. 26. (INS) The race for governor is now on in earnest in New Mexico.

Campaign buttons appeared in Albuquerque today to give the 1951 gubernatorial race the look of the real thing.

The buttons carry the legend: "For governor. John E. Miles."

Political observers in the state capitol have declared that Miles, now on a trip to the Pacific islands with other members of the U. S. Congress, is an almost certain candidate for governor next year.

Texas Building Contracts Show Sharp Drop From Past Week

AUSTIN, Nov. 26. (AP)— Texas building contracts slumped from $27,000,000 last week to less than $10,000,000 this week.

The exact total was $9,937,127, The Texas Contractor, building trade journal, reported.

The big drop was in residential construction, awards totaling only $2,448,988. Lettings on 247 low-cost homes accounted for $1,688,200. Sixty-one houses in the above $7,000 class added $744,788. An apartment house providing four one-family units was let for $16,000. No duplexes were contracted.

Non-residential awards totaled $5,717,666. School contracts contributed $1,839,364; churches and theaters, $1,111,185; hospitals and hotels, $298,493; public buildings, $247,965; and business buildings, $2,220,659.

Engineering work totaled $1,770,473.

The year's accumulative total reached $860,181,224.

Korea's railroads raised passenger fares 250 per cent this year.

Dancer With Sally Rand Show Dies After Being Hit By Bus

REFUGIO, Nov. 26. (AP)— Miss Kurt Orban died today as she was returning home for Christmas holidays—one year after her husband died while the couple was en route home for Thanksgiving.

Miss Obran, 26-year-old dancer with the Sally Rand show appearing in Harlingen, died in a hospital here shortly after being hit by a bus five miles north of Refugio. The bus backed over the shapely dancer after the driver stopped his vehicle on seeing a car parked alongside the highway.

She had told acquaintances that she was going home to Nowata, Okla., for the coming Christmas vacation.

A year ago, Roy Dean, the dancer's husband of six days, died in an Oklahoma City hotel room. She said he had swallowed a sleeping pill with brandy. The death was listed as accidental. At the time, the couple was on a Thanksgiving holiday trip to Nowata.

Dunlap's Will Build New Store On Present Hospital Location

the 3600 block, and construction of the new Dunlap home on Broadway and Avenue L, assure a continuation of the retail section westward on Broadway. Lubbock General Hospital corporation, of which Dr. J. T. Kruger is president, will lease the balance of its Broadway frontage to another business concern and is known already to have had some negotiations along that line. The Dunlap building, and whatever other construction is done on the present hospital location, will be entirely new, with the present hospital building being razed.

Mr. Martin said that in addition to local architects Dunlap's also will employ experts in the department store building field. "As a matter of fact," he said, "we are negotiating now with one of the two foremost department store designers in New York. We have every reason to believe we can close with him in the very near future." Mr. Martin said that he and his brother, Executive Vice President and Treasurer Ruel C. Martin, plan to travel much of the country in coming months, viewing the latest construction and design in the department store field. "The new store here," he said, "will be as fine and as modern as any in the nation. It will have all the latest developments, and also will have both escalator and elevator service."

Lubbock has been operating headquarters since 1943 of the 23-unit Dunlap company which has retail stores in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Associated with this 23-unit concern is the Dunlap company of California, which operates eight retail stores in the West Coast state.

The company entered the Lubbock field on Jan. 1, 1943, with 75 feet on Broadway between Texas avenue and Avenue H, the original stand of I. A. Stephens' store. The following year it spread 25 feet eastward to take in the corner of Broadway and Avenue H. In 1945, it took in the two-story 25-foot building bordering the alley on Broadway between Texas and H, giving the company a quarter block frontage on Broadway and another quarter block on Avenue H. In 1946-47, an additional 100 feet was taken over on Avenue H and a 125x125 foot warehouse was erected at Thirteenth street and Avenue D.

The Dunlap company owns 50 feet of its present frontage on Broadway and will continue to operate a store there even after moving to its new home on Broadway and Avenue L. Until the new building is occupied, the company will continue in all its present space, since it has leases extending for six more years.

The Dunlap company had its beginning in Oklahoma in 1904, being organized by the late Carl Dunlap and his brothers, Ira, sr., and Clyde, sr. The latter two Messrs. Dunlap are members of the board, Ira Dunlap, sr., being board chairman. His son, Ira, jr., who lives in Lubbock, is secretary of the corporation. Another board member is Clyde Dunlap, jr., of California.

The company's stores are located in Eufaula, Okemah, Seminole, Idabel and Holdenville, Oklahoma; Las Cruces, Portales, Hobbs and Clovis, in New Mexico; Lubbock, Pecos, Borger, Levelland, Littlefield, Spur, Henderson, Kermit, Odessa, Midland, Terrell, Victoria, Monahans and Snyder, in Texas. The Snyder unit, set up in recent weeks, is not yet in operation but is expected to be open for business by March 15, 1950.

California associated stores are located in Los Angeles, Inglewood, Redondo, Westwood, Compton, San Fernando, Stockton and San Pedro.

Four Die In Crash

train, which consisted of a diesel locomotive and a single coach, said the car struck the rail coach about 20 feet from the rear end of the train. He said the car and trailer burst into flames immediately.

Lum McGlather of Lueders, who was working near the scene, said he heard the crash, saw a cloud of dust, and "then everything went up in flames."

The motion of the train caused the left hand side of the car to swerve against the rail coach. It was believed the four who died were seated on the left side of the car.

Christine told hospital attendants that the family was on its way from Whiteface, in Cochran county, to Kilgore to visit her grandparents.

By telephone the Avalanche-Journad learned Saturday night that Kilpatrick had been employed by the McCutchin Oil company of Whiteface as a roustabout since August 25.)

(J. B. Cogburn, production foreman for the oil company, said Kilpatrick quit his job at 3:30 p.m. Friday, saying that he was moving to the Kilgore area in search of work to be near his mother, reported to be seriously ill at Laird Hill.)

(The family left Whiteface Friday night, moving their 28-foot house trailer from its parking place adjacent to a laundry on the main street of town. The Kilpatrick children had been attending the Whiteface school.

(Cogburn said Kilpatrick had indicated he planned to return to Whiteface after his mother's illness had run its course.)

Highway patrolmen at Stamford said that Christine told them that Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Secrest of Levelland were an uncle and aunt.

(Cogburn said Robert Ray Secrest of Levelland, a brother-in-law of Kilpatrick, also was employed by the McCutchin Oil company at Whiteface. He said Secrest took a leave of absence from his job Saturday morning and also said he was going to Laird Hill.)

Church Purchase

meetings but has been consulted by the others.

Walter S. Posey, president of the First National bank, has agreed to act as treasurer and a trustee for the group when needed.

The method of purchase, it now appears, would be this: The property owners interested in development of the block for business purposes would choose a trustee who, with Posey, would be empowered to enter into a contract of sale with the church.

Corporation Planned

At the time of the sale, a corporation would be formed to dispose of the property to firms or individuals who would develop it.

The corporation would make no effort, according to present plans, to develop the property itself. Members of the planning group speculated that the block would be ideal for a hotel, an office building, a department store or several other large projects.

Berry, Brown and Durham issued the following statement Saturday afternoon:

Westward Move Seen

"The logical way in which the principal business district of Lubbock should develop is west on Broadway and Thirteenth streets. We have heard that it is the intention of Lubbock Memorial Hospital to move.

"This being true, we then began to consider if ways and means can be arranged to purchase the block between Broadway and Thirteenth streets from the First Methodist church. Present heavy traffic conditions on these streets will not lessen but on the other hand will increase in the future, making the attendance of church services at the First Methodist church by children and elderly people in this location continually more hazardous.

Sale Is Urged

"Further believing that another site, in which we have no financial interest, with more available parking space and with a less hazardous traffic situation for this church can be secured near the downtown area, we felt that it would be beneficial to the Methodist people and to the city as a whole for them to sell to us or to someone else the present location of their church and to locate it on another site in a less noisy area where parking can be better arranged and traffic would be less dangerous.

"It is not the desire of our group to do other than that which is beneficial to the whole of our community and to allow the continued growth of the retail business district of our city in the way and in the direction it naturally desires to go."

Church Awaits Move

The church apparently had assumed a position of watchful waiting.

The attitude expressed by L. E. Davis, chairman of the board of stewards, Ruel Martin, chairman of the finance committee and Walter Alderson, chairman of the building committee, was that the church is not placing itself in a bargaining position.

"We realize that with the downtown churches moving out, First Methodist has the responsibility and the opportunity of being the city's downtown church," a written statement said.

Requirements Given

Any final action, the statement continued, would have to go before the official board of the church, and the three men said they would not consider submitting any proposition to the church that did not include the purchase of another site within a few blocks of the present site and derive enough cash from the sale of the present property plus what they now have in cash and subscriptions to enable them to build the structure that was accepted by the congregation as its goal in 1945.

While negotiations remained in an indefinite stage, it was readily apparent that the transaction might well be one of the largest, if not the largest sale of city property from the standpoint of money involved in the city's history.

One observer commented that as soon as the church relinquished title to the property, taxes and insurance costs would cost the new owners at least $12,000 to $15,000 a year. The church, of course, is tax-exempt.

Escapees Arrested

a loaded gun of Belgian make. He also was carrying a box of shells.

A house-to-house, alley-by-alley search began for Leo Rader. About 6 p. m. he and the Amarillo man were found.

Edward Rader told reporters the three had been holed up in a vacant farm house near the transmitter station most of the time since their break—and had not left the Amarillo area.

A. B. Clopton, engineer at the KLYN transmitter, broke into the Columbia network "County Fair" program to broadcast that the men held him up and fled in his auto.

Within a few minutes officers were hot on the trail. Police said Edward Rader and Farris were captured near the Greyhound bus station after they had bought tickets to the Paramount theater here, entered, and gone out a rear door.

Amarillo's four radio stations made repeated broadcasts as the search grew hot for Leo Rader, asking any resident who saw him to report it.

Men Are Unarmed

Texas Ranger Frank Probst and City Patrolmen Eli Leflar and W. S. Alexander found Leo Rader. Officers said neither Leo Rader nor the Amarillo man with him was armed.

Edward Rader had said in an interview that his brother left an auto on the edge of town as the three headed to Amarillo to see a show.

Rader said that about noon today the three escapees were seen at the abandoned house by three hunters. They got uneasy and left the place believing they had been reported.

Police said the Rader twins and Farris held up Clopton at the transmitter; took his car, and that shortly afterwards Patrolman G. W. Roden found the car in the downtown area. They said a few minutes later Roden spotted the two men on a corner and arrested them without incident.

Brother Is Sought

Then the big scale search continued—for Leo Rader. While road blocks were thrown up on all highways leading out of Amarillo, patrolmen began a door-to-door, alley-to-alley search.

The Rader twins are charged with armed robbery of two Amarillo supermarkets and are wanted in connection with supermarket robberies in Los Angeles and Oklahoma City. They were arrested in Lubbock a month ago. Farris was awaiting the outcome of an appeal on a burglary conviction.

The four men escaped from jail Wednesday by intimidating a guard with a butcher knife.

Breaks Into Program

Clopton broke into the radio program to say:

"I have just been robbed and my car has been taken.

"Call the police and tell them."

He said the men ripped out the interphone to the station, and it took him about ten minutes to rig up things so he could make his broadcast. He said the men held a gun on him during the robbery.

"I wired the telephone instrument into the transmitter and gave it battery power," Clopton said.

Clopton repeated his message several times, giving his name and where he was. The appeal could be heard by radio listeners, but not at the radio station downtown.

Old Farm House Found

Officers from the sheriff's department, sent to the transmitter area, found an abandoned farm house within two or three miles of the transmitter. In it was a man's coat they identified as belonging to one of the Rader twins.

There also was a pocket knife, apparently used as a can opener.

Edward Lee Rader told reporters the three "got a big laugh" out of a report they may have been the ones in a robbery attempt at El Paso early Thursday.

He told this story: The three had been at the abandoned house except for going to town once to buy food. He said that he and Farris bought tickets to the theater today, went in and sat down, but the tension built up. They went to the wash room, washed their faces, then went out another entrance.

instant emergency use wherever needed.

Agreement on a grand strategy will clear the way for full delivery of a billion dollars worth of arms from the United States to Western Europe pending some technical agreements.

It is expected that the first arms shipments will cross the Atlantic around Jan. 1.

Meeting Set Tuesday

The military committee is scheduled to meet in Paris Tuesday.

President Truman this week released the first few million dollars of arms program funds to be spent in readying equipment for quick shipment to Europe.

Many diplomats and military men alike are convinced that eventually the western powers will have to decide whether an effective military system can be completed in Western Europe without Spain and whether Western Europe, including Western Germany, can be defended without the Germans themselves contributing armed forces.

It was learned today that the strategic plan closely follows an outline of strategic tasks for the Atlantic treaty nations which Bradley described to Congress last session.

stances in which he said government officials, scientists and others had made public "over and over" the same facts about the atomic bomb.

To newsmen he also cited current American negotiations with Great Britain and Canada regarding atomic matters.

He said:

"These conversations in themselves prove that we do have knowledge of an improved atomic bomb. Obviously there is virtue in releasing secrets to foreigners but it is criminal to give the American people a few facts with respect to the destructive potential of the new atomic bomb."

Johnson accused the newspaper of having a "malicious motive." He asserted in his letter:

"Probably the Post is nettled by my statements that certain politicians and scientists and publications in this country headed by David E. Lilienthal, are actively engaged in a conspiracy to disclose to England the secret process relating to the manufacture of the so-called super bomb.

"Apparently the Post and its associates in this unwise scheme are bitter because I have exposed and criticized this nefarious plot."

Johnson said the charge that he had revealed top secret information was utterly false and ridiculous. He said that as an atomic committeemen he had been entrusted with much top secret information but added:

"Never have I violated that trust and I resent anyone asserting that I do not know and respect my duty and responsibility in the field of security."

Yeager's car was recovered after police had chased it from Nineteenth and Ave. Q. A. R. Mason and V. H. Greenlee, police patrolmen, saw the car pass that intersection at a high rate of speed and followed it. The driver suddenly stopped, leaped out and disappeared in the early-morning darkness.

A variety of other property was reported stolen.

Colorado City police department informed officials here that approximately $1,300 in payroll checks of an engineering company had been stolen from the Snyder post office and that a suspect had cashed some at Lamesa, attempted to pass others at Colorado City.

Both departments warned that business men should be cautious about accepting such checks. A bank has been advised to stop payment on them.

The suspect was described as about 40, a white male, about 5 feet 11 inches tall and 180 pounds in weight. He was said to have light hair, red complexion and to be neatly dressed. One source believed the suspect drove a 1935 Chevrolet car.

The sheriff's office at Post said a five horsepower electric motor had been stolen in Garza county.

Prizes Announced For City's Best Yule Decorations

partment, The Avalanche-Journal; Telephone 4343.

Listings are necessary so that the judges will know which decorations to inspect. The inspections will be made on or after the night of Dec. 17 and results will be announced about Christmas.

Only homes within the city limits will be eligible to compete. Entries will be accepted, however, from homes in suburban areas which may be in process of annexation to the city while the contest is in progress.

No contestant will be eligible for more than one prize, but there is no limit as to the number of divisions in which an entry may compete. Those competing for the grand prizes also may enter the doorway, window and outdoor tree contests.

Judges' Decisions Final

The decisions of the judges will, of course, be final and the liability of The Avalanche-Journal will be limited to the payment of the cash awards.

The cost of the decorations will not be a consideration in the judging. Originality will be a more important factor in determining the prize winners than the expense represented by the decorations. One of the prize winners last year spent only 15 cents for decorating materials.

The prize winners last year were:

Grand prizes (most beautifully decorated exterior of home)—first, Sammy Ribble, 2220 18th St.; second, Mrs. L. R. Harrison, 3409 Ave. S; third, Dr. J. M. Reynolds, 2706 28th.

Window—First, Mrs. W. L. Combs, 2412 27th; second, Craig McDonald, 2221 18th.

Door—First, Mrs. S. A. Foote, 1917 Broadway; second, Joe Ferrell, 1919 21st.

Outdoor tree—First, S. S. Forrest, jr., 3117 19th; second, John T. O'Neal, 1924 29th.

Twenty-five persons, including day—was 15 dead in traffic; L. C. Johniken, jr., 23, white resident of Overton, route three, and Lee Ward, 15, negro youth from the Oman community near Tyler, were killed in an auto collision on highway 64, four miles east of Tyler, Saturday night. Three negroes were hurt.

Dancer Is Killed

Miss Kurt Orban of Nowata, Okla., dancer in Sally Rand's show, suffered fatal injuries on a highway five miles north of Refugio early Saturday.

Among the latest deaths reported were:

Billy Marion Jackson, 11, of Prosper near Sherman, injured fatally Friday by accidental gunshots at his home.

Augustine Cavillo Artiz, Monterrey, Mexico, and Francisco Hernandez Guzman of Sombrerette, Mexico. The two were contract workers from Mexico, killed when a truck overturned near Hearne, Texas, Friday. Twenty-seven others were injured in the accident.

know what's best for him, you'll all stay in here."

Alton told officers later he ran to the front of the store after the gunmen left and saw the men turn down an alley. He then ran to a back door and looked out to see a car pulling away. The car appeared to be a 1950 Studebaker, he said.

Car Parked Near Store

A number of witnesses later reported a car of that description had been parked near the rear of the store for approximately a half hour before the holdup.

A woman, said by witnesses to have been in the parked car, was not present when the bandits took him from the store, Wallace said.

Wallace, shoved from the gunmen's car about 15 miles east of Crosbyton, made his way to the farm home of E. G. Rich, who returned him to town.

Ordered To Walk Away

Wallace told officers he had been ordered to walk away from the car, and had moved only a few feet when he was shot twice.

The men earlier had threatened to kill him because he had refused to open the safe, he said.

Two of the bandits, who rode in the back seat with Wallace pistol-whipped him constantly from the time they entered the car until he was pushed from the vehicle, he told officers. He did not lose consciousness, he said.

Miss $4,000 In Vault

W. H. Curry, editor of The Crosbyton Review, told Lubbock newsmen the vault contained approximately $4,000 in cash, the day's receipts. Mrs. Curry said the money had been placed in the vault at intervals during the day.

Mrs. Wallace said in a telephone interview with an Avalanche-Journal reporter:

"I had a feeling this would happen tonight."

"Just a week ago they did the same thing at Lubbock and I've worried all day that the same thing would happen here."

In the Lubbock robbery a trio of well-dressed, apparently well-rehearsed gunmen kidnapped Archie Skibell, store official, and escaped with approximately $1,000 in cash.

Skibell was later released unharmed about seven miles east of Lubbock.

Descriptions Are Similar

Descriptions of the men in last night's robbery tallied closely with those supplied by witnesses to the Lubbock holdup.

At Crosbyton, witnesses said ages of the three men ranged between 21 and 23. One was described as over six feet tall, the other two about five feet eight inches. One, it was reported, wore a plaid sportcoat, the others topcoats. All wore light-colored hats.

Investigating officers, comparing physical descriptions and methods of operations, said they believed both robberies were by the same men.

In the store besides the Wallaces and their son at the time of the holdup were Orval, 22, another son, his wife and two-year-old daughter, Jan; Mrs. E. P. Humphries, mother of Mrs. Wallace; and possibly ten customers, all reportedly Latin-American.

Wound Not Serious

Attendants at Crosbyton General hospital said Wallace's head wound was not serious, the bullet apparently having struck the back of his skull a glancing blow as he walked away from the gunmen's car. His left arm, however, was badly shattered where it was struck by a bullet below the elbow.

Robberies Close Together

The Idalou robbery came approximately an hour and one-half after the Crosbyton holdup.

Osgood, the man robbed at Idalou, told newsmen early this morning that he and his wife had just returned from an evening in Lubbock, and that he had gone back outside to look for an ashtray which had been given them earlier in the day.

As he returned from the automobile he said he heard a disturbance out behind the garage and went to investigate. The two men attacked him there, a spot approximately 30 feet from the entrance to the residence.

Osgood said one of the two men caught his arms and was attempting to pin them behind Osgood's back. Osgood broke away and was attempting to strike his attacker when the other man struck him on the head.

Osgood did not know what object might have been used in striking him. Officers theorized it might have been a rubber hose or the butt of a gun.

The blow stunned Osgood and knocked him out for a period of between 20 and 30 minutes.

"The next think I knew Constable Harris (Idalou town constable) was trying to wake me up," Mrs. Osgood said her husband called to her. Thus the blow evidently did not completely stun his senses, or else he partially recovered consciousness. The constable was called to the scene after Osgood was found.

Osgood could not say with what weapon his attackers had armed themselves. "It was so dark outside I could scarcely see the man at all," he said.

When found, Osgood's trousers pockets had been ripped out, and his billfold containing $100 or more and important papers was missing.

Neither of the two men spoke He could not describe the appearance of the man who struck him.

The couple resided in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joss Kelsey in Idalou.

Rep. Mansfield (D-Mont), who also is a member of the foreign affairs unit, suggested that the State department immediately lay the case before the United Nations and ask prompt action to get Stokes freed.

Stokes was the chief lieutenant of Ward, who was released only this week after a month's imprisonment by the Communists on charges which the State department declared were entirely trumped up.

GINS RUNNING 24 HOURS A DAY

South Plains Cotton Ginnings Almost To Million-Bale Mark

South Plains cotton ginnings are nearing the million-bale mark, although the official government census count on Nov. 1 showed less than one-third of that figure. Ginnings on Nov. 1 totaled 331,737 bales in 16 counties.

During the past month, the gins have been running 24 hours a day and prior to Nov. 1, due to the shortage of laborers, there was no demand for gins to run around the clock.

The government classing office here has classed more than 700,000 bales from samples received from South Plains gins, indicating that approximately seven out of ten bales are going into the government loan.

Behind Schedule

Lubbock county climbed into the lead in ginnings but was still behind last year's total on the same date. Ginnings this year totaled 58,225 on Nov. 1 while last year they had reached 65,321 bales. Dawson county's 51,142 bales was second in the area this season. It was practically double last year's ginnings at that date.

Ginnings by counties on Nov. 1, 1949 and 1948 were as follows:

County	1949	1948
Bailey	5,412	8,264
Cochran	6,448	5,382

The young physicist claims the ash-can-type apparatus can produce radioactive isotopes as good as those made in a huge, full-size atomic pile.

Delicate Surgery Assures Sight For 'Last Eye' Girl

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 26 (INS)—Little Mary Hope Hodgdon, Portland's "last eye" girl, has her eye sight for keeps.

This definite assurance was given to the 12-year-old girl and her blind parents today after the chief surgeon at the Elk's Eye clinic made the first instrument examination of surgery work done 10 days ago on her good right eye. He determined that the cystic condition on the retina which caused blindness in her left eye, has been controlled.

The operating surgeon said:

"All cysts were outlined. There are no complications. Mary Hope can see quite well.

"We are going to keep her quiet and bandaged for another week as adhesions of surgery are not yet firm on the retina, that is they have not completely healed. While the patient will have to remain quiet, she will be allowed a little more freedom moving her head from side to side.

There appeared to be no need for further surgery.

Two Honolulu Students Die In Arizona Auto Accident

The auto, driven by Yee, overturned on Highway 66 a mile west of Houck, Ariz. Yee is hospitalized in Gallup.

Last Saturday, at the same place, Harry Ernest Dean of Los Angeles was killed in a wreck.

Politics Lampooned In Broadway Show, 'Texas, Li'l Darlin'

By MARK BARRON
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The sometimes bizarre political campaigns which take place in certain sections of the United States — a few of those in Texas, in particular — are the background for Broadway's newest hit musical comedy, "Texas, Li'l Darlin'," which was cheered for twenty curtain calls at its premiere last night in the Mark Hellinger theater.

With Kenny Delmar, the "That's a joke, son" Senator Claghorn of radio, making his Broadway stage debut in the leading role, it is tasteful burlesque of the national political scene. And with its brash, brave humor it promises to be as successful a political commentary as was "Of Thee I Sing" in 1931. Not only does it sketch a comic cartoon picture of politics in Texas, but it also casts some humorous barbs at such Washington figures as President Truman and Major Harry Vaughan.

Authors John Whedon and Sam Moore have written into the libretto a character who is State Senator Hominy Smith who is running for one of his many terms in Texas. Smith's platform is the one he has used for years, "promise everything, and then forget you promised it after election."

This year the only new thing he has added is "remember the Alamo — and Mary Martin." He is capitalizing upon the current Broadway success of Texas-born Mary Martin in the musical "South Pacific."

But, Smith, for the first time in his career is meeting stern opposition from World War II veterans because he has fallen down not only on veterans housing, but also on other projects needed by all the people as a whole. And the veterans win despite Hominy Smith's support by the New York publisher of a national picture magazine.

Other than Delmar, producer Anthony Farrell has given this musical an unstinted, colorful production and an exciting cast, most of whom are little known on Broadway. But, "Texas, Li'l Darlin'," should make them extremely well known and liked, especially Mary Hatcher, an enchanting singer from Florida, and ten-year-old Betty Lou Keim, most versatile youngster from Malden, Mass.

Costa Rica seeks a $19,000,000 World Bank loan for agricultural development.

THIS ONE, THAT ONE — WHICH ONE? — Mother Helen Phipps holds 10-month-old twin girls, Merilee and Carolee, which the family can't tell apart. After taking the babies from the hospital last December and from the identifying bassinettes the parents became confused. So, after months of saying "this one" and "that one" they called on hospital authorities for proper identification. The hospital prints were smudged and of no help, so they'll take new prints and name the youngsters, who are identical in looks and habits, again. (AP Wirephoto.)

State Of Emergency Declared In Nigeria, 19 Killed In Riots

LONDON, Nov. 26. (U.P.)—The colonial office reported today that a state of emergency had been proclaimed throughout the West African colony of Nigeria after a series of strike riots in which 19 persons had been killed.

The rioting began Nov. 18 at Enugu, a mining town in East Nigeria, when wives of coal miners striking for a daily basic wage of about 75 cents set fire to the home of the pit manager.

In another outbreak of Enugu on Nov. 21, th eoffice said, 18 strikers were killed and 31 were injured by police gunfire.

Reprisal riots broke out at two other towns and spread yesterday to Port Harcourt, a seaport with a population of 45,000 some 300 miles from Lagos, the Nigerian capital.

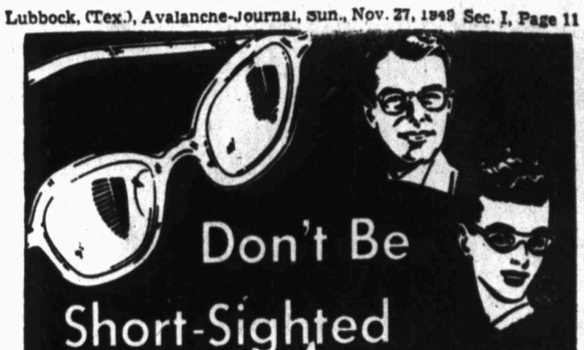

In a clash with police yesterday at Port Harcourt, the office reported, one rioter was killed and two others were wounded. The police, mainly Africans, made repeated charges with clubs, and fired 13 rounds before order was restored.

Mexico may renew the death penalty.

SPECTACULAR TOUCHDOWN RUN—Texas Tech fans were thrilled by this brilliant 95-yard touchdown run by Halfback Herman Bailey, who took a Hardin-Simmons kickoff yesterday and, behind perfect blocking, raced all the way from his five yard line to score. The play occurred after two-thirds of the second quarter had been used up and right after the Cowboys had scored to cut Tech's lead to 13-7. Bailey had some of the most beautiful blocking of the day on his run. He took the ball on the five, cut straight upfield to the 25, where there was a 20-yard opening, zigged to his left and simply outran the last two Cowboy players with a chance to get him. Quarterback Ernest Hawkins bulldogged the only Cowboy defender between Bailey and the goal, doing an outstanding job of giving the touchdown-bound Bailey a clear path. In the picture at the right, Bailey is shown on the Hardin-Simmons side of the 50-yard line with back Cliff Swain (46) and Guard Bubba Wilson (65) on his heels. Immediately ahead of Bailey is Hawkins, while Halfback Harold Taylor (8) is shown about to turn his back on the play. This was the deciding maneuver. Hawkins kept pushing Taylor, never giving him a chance to get between him and the runner. Hawkins never left his feet and Bailey helped his own cause with clever feinting to throw Taylor off balance. In the picture at left, Taylor is still on his feet but way off the pace, thanks to Hawkins' effective blocking. Bailey is well on his way to the touchdown with Taylor frantically chasing him. Left far behind are Swain and Wilson. The Red Raiders scored all of their touchdowns in the first half and managed only a field goal in the fourth quarter in the last stanza, but the Cowboys didn't produce a scoring punch of their own to threaten Tech seriously. The victory gave Texas Tech its third straight Border Conference title and its eighth in 15 years of Border Loop competition. (Staff Telephoto By Bill Hams).

Coaching School Set Today

Pattison Will Address Clinic

The Fourth Annual Clarence Fox Basketball Coaching school gets underway at 9:30 a.m. today at Hilton hotel and will continue through Monday night.

Opening the school will be Athletic Director C. R. (Pat) Pattison of Lubbock High school, and immediately following his welcome address will be the official rules and interpretation meeting for the Border Conference, conducted by E. L. Larson, commissioner of Border Conference basketball.

The afternoon session and all other meetings will be held at Chapman Fieldhouse, with approximately 100 coaches and 300 high school players from the North and South Plains expected to attend.

Demonstrations will be made by both the Texas Tech and West Texas State college basketball teams, and a basketball game at 8 p. m. Monday between Tech and West Texas will close out the school.

Gus Miller, coach at West Texas State, and Polk Robison, Texas Tech, will lecture on different phases of basketball during Sunday afternoon and Monday afternoon meetings.

Miller is president of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball and is athletic director as well as basketball coach and professor of physical education at West Texas State.

His coaching career began at Slaton High school, and from that beginning he went on to coach at Trinidad, Colo., and Texas Wesleyan in Fort Worth before going to Canyon.

Miller began coaching football and basketball at West Texas State in 1942. During the lean war years his football teams won 18 games and lost 13. Over his full coaching career, which began in 1923, his grid teams have won 159 games, lost 43 and tied 2. West Texas State basketball teams have won 89 games and lost 56 under his tutelage. His lifetime record is 352 wins and 103 defeats.

Robison joined the staff at Texas Tech in 1941 after seven years at Burkburnett High school. Rated as one of the top football scouts of the nation, Robison is also assistant football coach under Dell Morgan, serving as Morgan's only assistant during the war. Robison's basketball teams have finished high in the Border Conference the past few years, finishing higher than any other Texas teams in the conference.

The calendar of events for this afternoon shows a lecture by Miller at 2 o'clock, one by Robison at 3 and a demonstration by the Tech basketball squad at 4 o'clock.

Monday morning's session gets underway at 10 o'clock at Chapman field with a demonstration by the West Texas State team. Lectures will be given at 2 and 3 o'clock, and at 4 the delegates may "sit in" on the Lubbock High school football practice.

The game at 8 p.m. is the last item on the program. Tickets for the basketball game may be purchased at Sports Center, sponsor of the clinic, for $1.20 and 75 cents each.

All phases of the school, with the exception of the game, are free to the public, which is invited to attend the meetings.

Lubbock's Westerners are about to embark on the journey which should answer that much-discussed question, "Just how good is this 1949 Lubbock team?"

Through the regular season, Coach Pat Pattison's team did just about everything asked of it. Admittedly, the 7-6 victory over Odessa was on the shaky side, but there were a number of extenuating circumstances in that one. Aside from a defensive lapse against Pampa, the Westerners blew through all other opposition with startling ease.

But the forthcoming playoff will offer a much sterner test. It's already generally agreed that this year's Lubbock team is a fine one. If it survives the rocky road ahead, it will be fully entitled to the stamp of greatness.

I sincerely hope that the Westerner players don't regard their first-round opponent too lightly.

Austin of El Paso, while not ranked among the state's leaders, is a dangerous club that deserves full-fledged respect. In fact, this goes for ANY playoff opponent—because one slip-up and you're out of business.

So from here on in, it's a matter of four ball games to be won—and I hope the Westerners will view their opponents as "No. 1," "No. 2," "No. 3," and "No. 4," rather than by name. And, while in a 'hoping" mood, I'll reiterate the hope that the Lubbock team concerns itself with taking care of "No. 1" first. It so happens that this "No. 1" team (Austin) is the type of club which, if ever given a lead, will make it exceedingly difficult for Lubbock to reach "No. 2."

The state Class A race, barely begun, already has turned into a slamb-bang scoring bee. In the bi-district round, two teams scored four touchdowns each — and lost! Of 16 games, only one (Uvalde over San Antonio Edison) was a shut-out.

One of the most interesting situations is shaping up in the top playoff bracket, where Lefors, Littlefield, Wink and Ballinger remain in the running. The team that emerges from this scramble will be favored to advance to the state finals against the winner of the southern division, in which New Braunfels is the current favorite.

Of prime interest at next month's Border conference winter meeting will be the case of Julius (Slats) Stagner, the Hardin - Simmons basketball ace.

At present, it seems, there is a move underway to have Stagner declared ineligible for competition this season because of some special training he received as an aviation pre-flight cadet in the Navy several years ago.

After leaving the Navy, Stagner attended Tyler Junior college two years, then enrolled at H-SU as a junior. As such, he played on the Cowboy cage team last winter—and thought he had another year of eligibility remaining.

But now a question as to Stagner's status has arisen. Someone (apparently on the University of Arizona campus, according to Sports Editor Collier Parris of the Abilene Reporter-News) has claimed that Stagner's war-time training, added to his three years of collegiate work, has exhausted his eligibility.

Regardless of the technical aspects of the case, the simple facts are that Stagner has attended college, and has competed in varsity athletics, for only three years. In view of this, I believe the youth is rightfully entitled to his fourth year of competition — and that the Border conference bosses will be doing the just thing by giving it to him.

The pro Indianapolis basketball team, composed chiefly of last year's Kentucky stars, is doing only so-so in the National Basketball association. To date, the team has won six while losing seven. Alex Groza and Wah-Wah Jones, however, are living up to all advance billing . . . The touring Olson's Redheads girls basketball team will appear Dec. 5 at Petersburg, against the Petersburg All-Stars, a men's team . . . Paul Walther, Minneapolis forward, is the thinnest man in pro basketball. He's six-two, but weighs only 150 pounds . . . Here's what Dick Snider, of the Odessa American, wrote this week in reviewing the Lubbock-Odessa game: "This was the only game of the season the Broncs should have won and didn't . . . the game most fans will consider the best Odessa effort of the season . . . mighty Lubbock played to a standstill, but winning on a 70-yard dash by Charlie Williams . . . the Broncs losing a scoring chance on a fumble . . . being hurt by a quick whistle on Lubbock fumbles and a quick clock on Lubbock stalling . . . but the Broncs lost to a good team, one which will probably see the state finals — and from the field . . . we had picked Lubbock, and would have to do the same thing if the two teams played again today."

North Carolina Tops Virginia Team, 14-7

CHAPEL HILL, N.C., Nov. 26. (INS)— Charlie Justice and Art Weiner sparked the University of North Carolina Tarheels to a 14-7 win over stubborn Virginia and a Cotton Bowl bid today.

Some 48,000 fans — a record crowd for North Carolina — saw the Tarheels' graduating greats each score once in the first half and then join to hold off the Cavaliers' final great offensive threat.

Virginia tallied—and very nearly scored a second time — in the last three minutes of the contest.

At the conclusion of the game, Carolina athletic publicity director Jake Wade announced that the thrice-beaten Tarheels would play Rice in the Cotton Bowl.

Carolina took its final game with nothing to spare. Despite the halftime 14-0 count, the hard-driving Cavaliers, working heatedly for a Bowl invitation of their own, actually outplayed their opposition on the ground but weren't able to get an aerial game into gear.

The Tarheels had the ball only three times in the entire first half. But two of these times, they scored — in the first quarter on a sustained drive from their own 28 which included only a single pass. Justice scooted over tackle from the Virginia 14 and Eggy Williams converted.

Weiner added another TD in the waning minutes of the second period when he took Justice's 27-yard pass on the Cavalier 36 and went all the way standing up. Again, Williams kicked the point.

Virginia's Johnny Papit and Ralph Shoaf led ground assaults which in the opening half got the boys from Charlottesville within the Carolina 20 and later the eight-yard line. But both times the Virginians switched to the air and were undone.

With two minutes to go, Virginia quarterback Whitey Michels plunged over from the one foot line.

Lefors Will Play Wildcats

PHILLIPS, Nov. 26. (Special)—The Lefors Pirates of District 2-A won the right to play the Littlefield Wildcats bi-district 3-AA winners, in the second round of the state Class A playoffs with a sizzling 42-28 victory over Phillips before 5,000 fans here this afternoon.

Lefors stormed to a 21-7 lead in the first quarter today, then matched touchdowns with the spectacular Blackhawks to post their tenth victory in an unbeaten season.

Joe Combs, a 160-pound tailback of the Pirates, raced six, 24 and 50 yards for three touchdowns, added two extra points in a 20-point scoring jag. But it was the heavy duty plunging of Friday Todd, a 135-pound fullback, who led the Pirate forces.

Todd scored once on a 14-yard sprint, ran four extra points and picked up 177 yards in 27 rushes to personally account for more than half of his team's gains. He set up one touchdown with a gallop of 47 yards.

James McEntire, fleet wingback, ran a nifty reverse for two of the touchdowns that gave Lefors that jump. He speeded 23 and 36 yards on those scoring gallops.

Phillips matched the first Lefors touchdown when Tommy Moore returned a kickoff 88 yards to score. Trailing 7-28, the Blackhawks struck again when James Reddick fired a pass to Arthur Cantrell that netted 56 yards and a score. It was 28-14 at halftime.

Moore's interception of a Lefors aerial and a 78-yard runback narrowed it to 21-28, then Combs pulled in a Phillips heave and carried it back 50 yards for his second score.

Moore closed the point making for the losers with a 56-yard touchdown sweep, but Lefors had time enough left to surge 56 yards. Todd gained 38 of it in five thrusts with Combs going the final six.

The statistics show how clearly Lefors outplayed the losers. The Pirates had 16 first downs to seven, 326 yards rushing to 151, completed four of five passes for 46 yards, compared to two completions in 12 attempts for 71 yards and generally held an edge throughout.

Backs To Spark Austin's Hopes

Special To The Avalanche-Journal

EL PASO, Nov. 26. — Austin High's hopes for an upset victory over Lubbock in the bi-district tilt here Saturday afternoon depend upon the flying cleats of a trio of speedy backs and the passing arms of two sharp-shooting quarterbacks.

Noel McCormick, Ted Veidner and Jerry Baker, the speedy mighty mites of the Panther backfield will bear the brunt of Austin's assault by land. Jim Agee and Richard Thurman, both nifty ball handlers and very capable passers, will alternate at the man under slot in Coach Red Harris' T-formation.

Fiedner, McCormick and Baker are members of Austin's speedy quarter-mile relay team McCormick paces the Panther scoring with seven touchdowns for 42 points. Feidner has tallied 35 and Baker, who missed four games because of an injury, has counted 18 points. At quarterback Agee holds a slight edge over Thurman in ball-handling and signal calling. But Thurman's running is better and his passing is just as sharp. Both players are seeking their first numeral. Agee is playing his final year, but Thurman is a junior.

Harris employs a two-platoon system, and his offensive line is light but fast and aggressive. Olin Ragland, 155, and Jerry Robinett, 162, team at guards. Barry Webber, 165, and Ronald Gubis, 175, hold down the tackle slots, Rene Roses, 160, and Rudy Barrola, 155, operate from the wings and each plays a good bit defensively. Center Bobby Dirmeyer, 155, plays both on offense and defense and is the top defensive man in the district.

Adding heft to the defensive lineup are Guards Bill Reese and Al Woods, both 200 pounders. Tommy Jackman, 170, and Gerald Goerges, 160, operate from the tackle spots on defense.

Gary Sides, another speedster who is a little slow to make the offensive backfield, is an ace safety man. He has tallied three times, all on punt runbacks and pass interceptions. Fred Kriss, a 160-pound freshman, is a defensive end and the extra point booter. He has split the uprights 23 times this season—his first on the varsity.

District 4-A Meet Planned Thursday

LEVELLAND, Nov. 26. (Spl.)—A meeting of officials from District 4-A will meet at 7:30 p. m. here Thursday to discuss plans for the forthcoming year.

It is expected that the admittance of Sudan, Sundown and Seagraves back into the district will be asked, and a vote will probably be taken on this matter. Seagraves Principal Charlie Lawrence has said that he intends to ask for readmittance to the district. It will be necessary to get a unanimous vote from all nine schools in the district.

The schools were dropped because their high school enrollment did not reach that required for Class A competition.

Also slated to come up on the docket are the selection of the all-district team.

School representatives are expected from Brownfield, Levelland, Littlefield, Morton, Muleshoe, O'Donnell, Post, Slaton and Tahoka.

Florida Romps Over Alabama, 35 To 13

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 26. (INS)—The Florida 'Gators were tossed for their fifth and final defeat of the season today in Gainesville as Alabama's surging Crimson Tide rolled to a 35-13 victory.

Playing before some 15,000 fans, Florida rushed to an early first period lead on an 88-yard scoring drive, with Hal Griffin shooting across the goal line from the 11.

'Bama came right back, rushing over for two touchdowns in the opening frame, another in the second, along with a safety, and one in each the third and fourth stanzas.

Florida's second score was set up by a 15-yard penalty following Alex Gardiner's 30-yard punt return in the final quarter.

Underdog South Carolina Drops Wake Forest Deacons, 27 To 20

COLUMBIA, S.C., Nov. 26. (INS). Underdog South Carolina hustled 13 points in the first half and stood ground against Wake Forest to defeat the Deacons, 27-20, today in Columbia.

Wake Forest's three second-half touchdowns were more than offset by two final period tallies by Carolina.

Walter Pasky of South Carolina intercepted a pass one yard behind his own goal line in the first period and didn't stop running until he completed a cross-field journey of 101 yards for a touchdown.

Cowboys Win Six Tussles

Leader in "B" team play in District 3-AA this season, the Lubbock Cowhands finished the season with six wins and one loss, having three games cancelled.

In the seven contests played, the team under Coaches Freddy Brown and Pat Farris rolled to 287 points while allowing the opposition but 43 points. The most decisive margin was a 57-0 decision over Lamesa, and the loss was by a 31-19 margin to Odessa. In a return match with the Odessans, however, the Cowhands rolled to a 39-0 victory.

Other triumphs were over Plainview, 31-0 and 50-0; another game with Lamesa, 32-0; and Midland 59-12.

Raiders Glad; Cowboys Sad

Morgan Players Happy Over Win

BY AL WILLIAMS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

After the first few minutes of whooping and yelling, the noise in the Texas Tech dressing room settled down quickly Saturday following the victory over Hardin-Simmons university, but the congratulation and hand-shaking continued until the last players had showered and gone.

Some of the Raiders hurriedly undressed and showered, but others were too busy making the rounds and praising the standouts in the game. The backs gave credit to the linemen for their terrific job of blocking and tackling, and the linemen in turn were booming the backfield.

Everyone Happy

Everyone was happy over the outcome of the contest, which gave the Raiders their third straight Border conference title, and Center Bobby Williams' remark that "that's the way they should be played" keynoted the comments of others who thought that the game was almost perfect.

One of the first to dress was Guard Dick Cavazos, who played a a large part of the game in the Cowboy backfield on defense, tackling hard all afternoon. Taking his time was Tackle John Andrews as he got the best out of a "coke" between visits to the lockers of other players.

Following the game, Coach Dell Morgan rushed into the locker room shouting, "that's the one we wanted." Morgan stayed only a short time before leaving to attend to other business.

Jackson Scores Twice

Man with the biggest smile was End Dick Jackson, who caught a touchdown pass from Cal Steveson and ran 53-yards for the first Tech touchdown on the opening play of the game. "I was just wishing that ball would hurry and get to me," Jackson commented, adding that H-SU's passing almost "ate us up." Jackson also made the second touchdown.

Quarterback Ernest Hawkins credited the victory to the fast start by Tech. "We got the jump on them and then hung on. That certainly was a pretty pass by Steveson," he remarked.

Herman Bailey, who made a 95-yard kickoff return for the third Tech score, said that anyone could have run through the hole that opened up for him.

Tackle Marshall Gettys noted that the Raiders had lost only one Border conference game in the four years he has played. The reason he gave for his ability to break in and throw ball-carriers for losses was that the Cowboys were blocking high.

One of the most outstanding plays of the game was by Robert Hix, who stopped one serious threat by downing one H-SU runner on the two-yard line when it seemed that a touchdown would be made. "I knew I had him," was boys held the passing edge of 214 yards to 128. Tech ran back all kicks 168 yards to 126 and their total yardage, kicks, rushing and passing, was 515 yards to 411.

Fans had hardly settled in their seats before the Raiders uncorked a spectacular pass that caught the Cowboys asleep completely Hatch had taken the kickoff in the end zone and run it back 15 yards to open the game. On the first play, Quarterback Ernest Hawkins, who again performed brilliantly on offense and defense, handed off to Hatch, who started toward the left side of the line.

Steveson Hits Jackson

Steveson, on a delayed reverse, took the ball from him and headed toward the left end. Suddenly he stopped, planted his feet and pitched to Jackson, who was standing all alone on the Tech 48 Halfback Charley Williams cut over quickly, but Jackson out legged him to cross the double stripe standing up.

Both teams were offside on the first extra point attempt, which was good, but Hatch's next effort was wide.

Late in the first quarter Tackle Jerrell Price, another Brownfield boy, recovered a fumble by Halfback Harold Taylor on the Cowboy 27. Conley made two yards around Hardin-Simmons' left end and bulled his way over right tackle on the next play to the Cowboy 22. Again Hawkins pulled the double reverse pass out of the bag and again it worked, Jackson taking the ball just as he stepped over the end zone line. Hatch converted with 10:30 of the canto gone.

Raiders Stall Pokes

The Cowboys came out of their lethargy in the second quarter and knocked three times on Tech's double stripe before it finally opened. Hook Davis set up the first effort with a 25-yard punt return and a pass from Ford to End Elmer Biddy carried to the Raider 28. A line play and a pass put the ball on the Tech eight.

Then the Raiders tightened. Fullback Ray Troutman plunged for four yards and Taylor made two. But Troutman was stopped without gain on third down and Ford was smeared by End Dick Cavazos, Center Bobby Hix and Tackle Marshall Gettys for a half yard loss on fourth down.

But the Cowboys, after Tech kicked out, came pounding back down. With first down on the three, following a Ford to Biddy pass, another aerial was incomplete and an offside penalty moved the Pokes back to the eight. Ford sneaked for one yard, Hix broke up a third down pass and Guard Milburn Haydon knifed in to cut-down Davis's fourth down run Tech's left end.

Cowboys Finally Score

That only stalled matters. Bailey's booming kick was runback to the Raider 47 and the Cowboys drove for a touchdown on six plays, with Ford passing to Bailey on the far edge of the end zone. Bailey barely stayed in fair territory, sliding out a split second after he caught the ball.

On the ensuing kickoff, Tech's Bailey took the ball on the five and headed upfield. By the time he had reached the 25, a path almost 20 yards wide had been cleared for him. He headed through it, cut to his left and outdistanced two pursuers.

Only Taylor stood between him and the goal. Hawkins took care of Taylor. He bumped him, chased him back and finally made him turn his back. When that happened, Bailey put on a burst of steam to leave Taylor offstride far behind.

That was the turning point in the game, the play that broke Hardin-Simmons' back. They didn't have the punch after that, although they scored once late in the game.

Neither team could score in the third quarter, although a pass interception broke up a Tech drive on the 20 and the Raiders held the Cowboys on the 27.

Early in the fourth period, Tech staged a drive that carried from its own 23 to the Cowboy 10, all on the ground. Bailey ripped off carries of 20 and 12 yards, Fullback J. W. Thompson picked up two, 15, seven and four yards and Hawkins, on a sneak, went six. But two passes failed and Hatch dropped back on third down to boot a 27-yard field goal.

Those were the clinching points that ended whatever hopes the Cowboys had of winning their fourth conference title. They made a spurt after the kickoff when Taylor made one of the better Cowboy gains of the day, going 19 yards, but Ford, on two pass attempts, was thrown back to the Cowboy nine by the charging Tech forwards.

H-SU's Davis Says 'Surprises' Hurt

BY CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

Hardin-Simmons' footballers weren't in a talkative mood as they reached their dressing room Saturday, minutes after dropping a 23-13 decision to Texas Tech.

One by one, the Cowboy gridders trudged in. Words were few as they prepared for the showers, and about the only noise was the "clunk" of helmets hitting the cement floor.

It was obvious that the Abilenians were unhappy — not with anyone else, but simply with themselves. They left the impression that they felt they had lost a ball game which they should have won.

'Surprises' Count

Hook Davis, H-SU breakaway ace who had seen limited action because of a tightly-taped knee, was asked what he considered the big factor in Tech's triumph.

"Surprises," he answered, without hesitation. "They fooled us and kept us off balance all the way. Hawkins (Tech quarterback) called a fine game, picking plays that we just didn't expect. Tech had a pretty good club, but I think we should have beaten them."

Was Tech the best all-round team H-SU had faced this year?

"Well, no, I believe Cincinnati was the best," Davis replied. Then he added, "But Tech's line certainly charged well."

Little John Ford, whose tricky passing was one of the game's highlights, said he considered Tech "one of the best clubs we've met, although their pass defense wasn't too good."

"That kickoff return for Tech's third touchdown hurt us just when we were beginning to click," Ford commented. "I guess that was the real turning point of the game."

Dunny Goode, the well-built sophomore halfback from Midland who scored the Cowboys' second touchdown, complimented Tech's clean play.

"They had a good, clean, hard-playing team," Goode said. "In fact, I think they're the best we've played. That first play that went for a touchdown hurt us, and then later Tech's plays up the middle tore us up.

Howard McChesney, balding Cowboy center who was ejected — along with Tech's Dan Pursel — in the second half, still was trying to figure out just what happened on the play in which he was tossed out of the game.

"I talked with that Tech boy (Pursel) after the game," McChesney laughed, "and he said that I didn't hit him. And I know for certain that he didn't hit me. I was just trying to put a block on him, and all of a sudden both of us were being put of the game. I really don't think the game got as rough as the officials seemed to think."

Regarding Tech's win, McChesney offered only the crisp comment, "They just outhustled us."

Tom Adams, ex-Brownfield High star now playing guard for H-SU, paid tribute to Tech's defensive play, then added, "We played hard, but things just didn't seem to go right."

Adams then put in a plug for Bob McChesney, the brilliant Cowboy end, stating, "I think McChesney is one of the most under-rated players in the Southwest. I've seen him even better than he was today — and I thought he was pretty good today."

Coach Warren Woodson never came to his team's dressing room after the game. When I found him, he was sitting in one of the squad's charter buses, discussing the game with an assistant, Murray Evans.

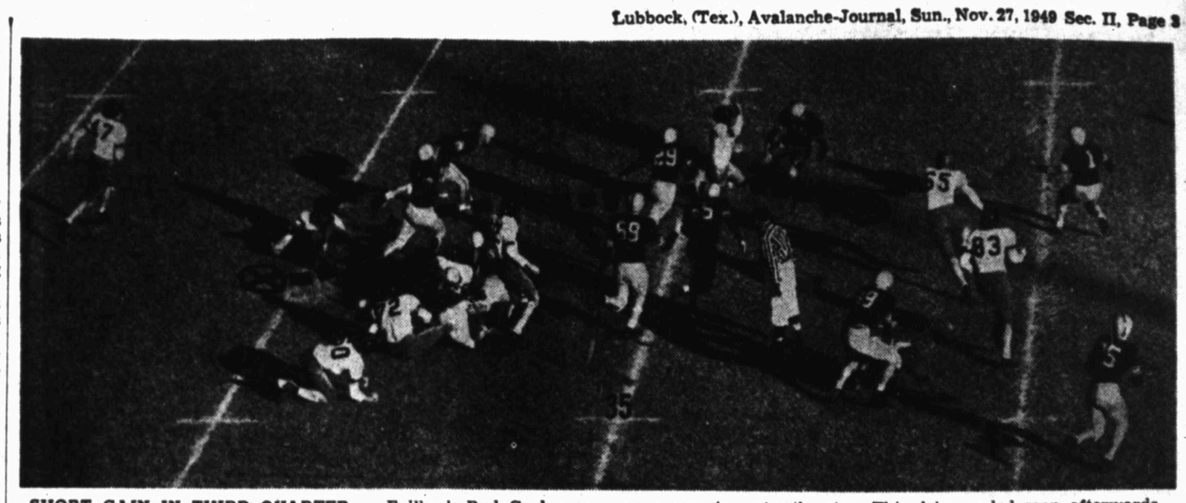

Asked for his views on the game, Woodson answered, "I thought it was the poorest-executed offense we've had this season.

"Tech made its plays count, and we didn't. That first play was the tip-off. They caught us asleep, and when we woke up, they had a touchdown."

Evans, who had scouted Tech for the Cowboys, praised the defensive play of the Raider tackles, Marshall Gettys and Jerrell Price, and of Raider End Dick Cavazos.

"Those boys were the backbone of Tech's defense, as I saw it," he said.

By this time, the Cowboy players were coming out of the dressing room and loading onto the buses for the long trip back home, where they'll wait a year for another shot at the Border conference crown which Tech has knocked from their grasp for the last three years.

SHORT GAIN IN THIRD QUARTER — Fullback Bud Conley, a smashing, line-plunging terror for Texas Tech yesterday, is shown picking up eight yards midway through the third quarter yesterday. Conley apparently is hemmed in by four Hardin-Simmons tacklers, but busted through for additional yardage. Guard Walt Edrington (65) and End Dick Jackson (83) moved over to help Conley, but Cowboy players, from left to right, Guard Bob Surratt (69), Halfback Gene Offield (29), Guard Bubba Wilson (65) and Halfback Charley Williams (42), move over to make the stop. This drive ended soon afterwards when a fumble on the Cowboy 42 yard line was recovered by the visitors. Quarterback Ernest Hawkins (17) is shown at the extreme left following through with his fake on the play, while Halfback Brooks Allen (25) and Pat Bailey are too far out of the action to stop Conley's onslaught. Texas Tech won the game 23-13 to sew up its third straight Border Conference title and its eighth in 15 years of conference competition. (Staff Telephoto by Bill Hams.)

INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Leon Hart, the monster end from Notre Dame, won his mighty way to a unique honor today by placing on both the offensive and defensive side of the International News Service All-America football team for 1949.

Once again the much-discussed much-used platoon system characterized the makeup of the INS team, dividing the dream squad the way football is played today—eleven men on offense, eleven on defense.

But not even the impersonal machinery of the platoon setup could affect the standing of the kid from Turtle Creek, Pa.—the 20-year-old, six-foot-four, 245 pound Hart—who was the greatest player in a season of great players.

Martin, Sitko On Team

Hart was one of three Notre Dame stars to win places in the INS lineup, joining Defensive Tackle Jim Martin, co-captain of the Fighting Irish, and Emil "Six-Yard" Sitko, who landed one of the four spots in the offensive backfield.

Oklahoma, with End Jim Owens and Back Darrell Royal; California, with Tackle Jim Turner and Guard Rod Franz; and North Carolina, with End Art Weiner and Back Charlie Justice, nailed two positions each.

One position each went to Michigan, Colorado A & M, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Texas, Rice, Nebraska, Southern Methodist, Tulane, College of the Pacific, Army and Michigan State.

Offensive Terrors

It should be pointed out, as a matter of course, that all eight backs on the INS team are sheer terrors on offense—Justice, Doak Walker of SMU, Eddie Price of Tulane, College of the Pacific's Eddie Le Baron, Army's Arnold Galiffa, Royal, Sitko, and Lynn Chandnois of Michigan State.

Four of these, however, saw considerable and brilliant action on defense as well as offense, so the quartet of Walker, Le Baron, Royal and Chandnois forms the All-America defensive backfield.

Similarly, whereas Art Weiner, North Carolina's famous end, was matchless as a pass-catcher, he was so singularly impressive on defense that he was placed on the latter side of the mythical "split."

In the main, however, this year's All-America players are distinguished products of the platoon system.

Watson Great Center

Joe Watson of Rice, for example, is known simply as the greatest offensive center in college football today, over and above the talent he has shown when used as a linebacker.

Rod Franz of California is an offensive guard—but a beauty.

Thirty-three year old Alvin Wistert, third in a progression of great Wisterts at Michigan, is unstoppable as a tackle on defense, as is Pitt's Bernie Barkouski as a guard.

The Midwest, with five All-America players, leads the way on the INS team. The Midland-Rocky Mountain area nailed four spots, and the East, South, Southwest and Far West three each.

All-Conquering Notre Dame Is 32-0 Winner Over Southern Cal

Bob Williams Is Star For Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 26. (INS)—Notre Dame's all-conquering football team clicked with the precision movements of a Swiss watch and struck with the finality of an old grandfather's clock to ring up a 32-to-0 victory over Southern California today.

The triumph in South Bend before 57,214 chilled but thrilled fans extended the unbeaten streak of the Irish to 37 games. It also signified the ninth consecutive win for Coach Frank Leahy's squad since Notre Dame was tied, 14-14, by the men from Sunny Southern California in last year's final game.

Williams Opens Scoring

Quarterback Bob Williams detonated the time-clock charge which started the pigskin parade across the Trojans' goal. The first two touchdowns came quickly and dramatically three minutes before the first quarter ended. The next three produced in the 29-degree weather and on the snow-fringed field were works of methodical gridiron skill.

Notre Dame's famed Four Horsemen and 18 other members of the late Knute Rockne's undefeated 1924 team were among the shivering crowd that saw the Fighting Irish explode for two touchdowns in the first quarter, another in the second and then steadily pound their way to one in each of the two periods.

The Irish victory was in every way a team triumph.

Five different men scored the five brilliant touchdowns and Notre Dame's mighty line held Coach Jeff Cravath's aggregation to just 17 yards rushing while the Irish backs rolled up 316. The Trojans however, didn't come to run. They arrived with the intention of passing again. This they did.

Jim (Mystic) Powers and Dean Schneider threw 34 aerials and probably would have completed more than their 16 successful attempts had their receivers not been hampered by the freezing temperatures.

At that, Southern California outgained Notre Dame 148 yards to 112 in the air.

First Half Close

The statistics also showed Notre Dame with 17 first downs to 9 but they no way explained the closeness of the first half. Notre Dame led 19 to 0 at the intermission but the inspired Trojans were performing brilliantly.

SIX WHITE HORSES PERFORM

Cowboys, Cowgirls, Tech Band In Colorful Halftime Picture

By KENNETH MAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Purple and gold mingled with the crimson and black of Texas Tech Saturday as the Cowboy and Cowgirl musical organizations of Hardin-Simmons university joined with the Texas Tech band to present a halftime performance during the championship football battle between the two schools in Jones stadium.

Opening activities with a salute to Texas Tech, followed by their famous "drunken cowboy" marching step, the nationally-known Cowboy band appeared in their third out-of-town football game performance this fall.

Their march downfield was followed by the Tech band, under direction of D. O. Wiley, which presented a musical history of H-SU. The history traced development of the Abilene school from its founding in 1892 to the present. Fight songs of the college through the years and popular songs during the years of important progress were played by the local band.

Emphasis was laid on the years 1925, when the name of the school was changed from Simmons college to Simmons university, and 1934, when the present name was adopted. Members of the Tech band moved into formations signifying the dates and monogram of the college while a narrator read the history of the school.

Final salute to H-SU came as the Techsans moved into the familiar cowboy boot formation and the Cowboys formed the letters "H-SU" inside. The Cowgirls executed a march in the pattern of a spur on the boot, with a moving rowell formation while the Hardin-Simmons loyalty song was played.

Breaking ranks, the three organizations then moved into the traditional double T of Texas Tech while playing the Matador song. The Tech band formed the larger T and the Cowboys the smaller in a double-line formation as the Cowgirls filled in with a single line through the entire monogram.

Standouts in the joint Cowboy-Cowgirl show which preceded the musical history by the Tech band were Norma Kniffen, national Veterans of Foreign Wars baton twirling champion, and Lloyd Mitchell, roper. Miss Kniffen went through several difficult routines, including simultaneous manipulation of three batons. Mitchell executed several twirling numbers, topped off by a double jump-through by both him and Miss Kniffen.

Horses Perform

The Cowboy band, currently directed by Marion B. McClure, has gained national recognition through its music and marching ability. The now-famous six white horses of Hardin-Simmons, ridden by "Sheriff" Wilson and five co-eds, flanked all the halftime performances Saturday.

Prof. D. O. Wiley, now head of the Tech band, directed the Cowboys from 1923-33 and was conductor when the present name was adopted. In recent years the group has given performances throughout the United States, including New York City, Hollywood, and Washington, D. C.

Raiders Happy

the reply to the question as to whether there was doubt in his mind that he would be able to stop the runner.

Complement Cowboys

"That was the first field goal I've attempted all year," was Tim Hatch's comment on the kick that gave Tech its last three points, adding that he was surprised that Hardin-Simmons running attack did not click.

Sporting a "shiner" under his left eye was Guard Milburn Haydon, the result of hard-playing in the line.

All complimented the fine playing of Hardin-Simmons, especially the passing of Quarterback John Ford and the receiving of End Bob McChesney.

But Saturday was Tech's day, and the Raiders made the most of it by playing hard and coming up with a well-deserved victory to end a season that started off with a dim outlook.

Army Crushes Middies, 38 To 0

Galiffa Sets Pace For Black Knights

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26. (AP). A great Army team rose to the height of its awesome power this frigid day to crush Navy, 38 to 0, in the most one-sided beating ever administered in the 50 games played between the rivals.

A shivering crowd of 102,443, including President Truman, packed in Municipal Stadium, saw the rugged Black Knights drive to a touchdown from the first kickoff and then, under the brilliant direction of Arnold Galiffa, rip and tear the Middies into abject submission.

Only once before did a team take a mauling to compare with that absorbed by the Middies today. That was in 1903, in the infancy of the series, when another Army eleven smashed Navy by 40 to 6.

Completely Outclassed

So completely outclassed were the boys from Annapolis that they penetrated Army territory only once, late in the third quarter, and then they were halted 47 yards and short of a score by the fierce-tackling Cadets.

It was in every respect a complete route for the Middies, just as it was a sublime triumph for West Point as the huskies completed their 20th game without defeat. Army scored in every period, and toward the end her reserves were batting the Tars around with happy abandon.

The victory was the sixth straight for Army over its favorite rival and brought the overall standing to 27-19 in the Cadet's favor. This one today, though, will be long remembered.

The names which will be remembered longest, probably, are those of Galiffa, the team's great field general, and Gil Stephenson, a darting, wicked running fullback. Between them, they wrecked a Navy team which went into the contest thinking it had a chance to win.

Stephenson gained a full measure of satisfaction as he sifted through the Middies for three touchdowns today. He, more than any other Army runner, knocked the breath out of the Tars in in Army's 67-yard march to its first touchdown when the game was only minutes old.

Galiffa, finishing his football span at the point, was complete field general. He passed destructively and carried the mail. When the befuddled Middies fell back to guard against his whistling passes, Galiffa ran with terrible efficiency. He, Stephenson, Jim Cain and Frank Fischl of the main Army battery simply turned the Navy defense inside out.

Galiffa, with some little help toward the end from Bob Blaik, son of Army's coach, Earl, completed 12 passes for 149 yards. Navy's Bob Zastrow hit only five receivers for 41 yards.

Army's driving backs dug for a total of 310 yards with the ball underneath their arms. Navy's carriers picked up only 66 yards all afternoon. Had it not been for Art Landry, backing up the line for Navy, the score undoubtedly would have mounted much higher.

The game's most spectacular play was turned in by Vinson, of Nederland, Texas, a member of Army's defensive platoon. Bobby gathered in the kickoff to start the second half on his own seven-yard line, bolted down the middle, hurdled one Navy tackler and went all the way, 93 yards.

That made the count 19-0 and made it certain that Navy was not going to pull the thing out of the fire with a dramatic comeback in the latter stages.

Strangely enough, when the nation's president and his 102,442 fellow Americans sat down, there was a feeling it might be a close game. The Middies, though they had won only three games, were suposed to be "up" for this one.

KONTZ, HEDGES PACE TIGERS

Vengeful Louisiana State Rolls Over Tulane's Green Wave, 21-0

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 26 (INS)— An inspired, vengeful and aggressive Louisiana State university Tiger eleven stopped supposedly Bowl-bound Tulane cold this afternoon, 21-0, in New Orleans before the largest football crowd in the history of the South.

It was long runs by Tigers Kenny Konz and Lee Hedges which paid off in the first two Tiger scores, and a 45-yard march which gave them their third marker.

But it was the stellar work of the LSU line—the same line which bottled up North Carolina's Charlie Justice and Vandy's Lee Nalley—which proved itself to the Greenie's Eddie Price.

Price could not get started. Today he picked up 80 yards. In almost every other game this season, he'd outgained all opposing backfieldmen.

Thus, the Tigers—at the moment technically denied eligibility for a Bowl game—find themselves in a position of having beaten the champions of the Southern Conference, the Southeastern Conference, plus a win over the Southwest Conference team which beat that circuit's champion.

The 82,000-fans who crowded the Sugar Bowl stadium for the traditional contest were hardly settled when the first excitement came. Konz, defensive halfback, grabbed a Tulane punt on his own eight yard line.

Before the Greenies could come up to meet him, he had churned up full speed on the sixth play of the game and was away for 92 yards and a score.

In the third period, Tiger halfback Hedges broke away on a 65-yard jaunt for the second LSU score.

In the final stanza, Konz reached up to intercept a Tulane pass on the Greenie 45. LSU marched from there for its third marker, with Billy Baggett scoring from the two-yard stripe.

Quarterback Carroll Griffith converted all three extra points.

Georgia Bows To Georgia Tech, 7-6

ATLANTA, Nov. 26. (INS).— Red Patton's kick, silhouetted against the chilled gray Atlanta sky, sailed through the center of the goal posts late in the third quarter today to give Georgia Tech a hard-fought 7-6 victory over its traditional rivals, the Georgia Bulldogs.

Meeting for the 44th time before a capacity crowd of 40,000, Tech trailed the Big Red from midway in the second period to 13 minutes in the third frame.

Sticking to the ground route the Yellow Jackets completely dominated the play through the second half, threatening constantly and, for the most part, keeping Georgia within the shadow of its own goal posts.

Tech spurted ahead on a 39-yard drive after little Jimmy Jordan returned Pat Field's punt 11 yards from the midfield stripe and Jimmy Southhard slipped over from the 6 inch line on a quarterback sneak.

Georgia's lone score came midway in the second quarter, just one play after Bobby North's fumble was recovered on the Bulldog 54, from which sophomore Quarterback Mal Cook passed to Gene Lorendo for the score.

Officials, Coaches Will Meet Tuesday

The regular weekly meeting of the South Plains Officials and Coaches association has been postponed from 7:30 p. m. Monday until 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Yancy Price, president of the association, said the meeting is being postponed one day in order to allow members to attend the basketball clinic here Sunday and Monday.

Members will vote Tuesday night on the adoption of a new constitution and by-laws, which includes the incorporation of basketball officiating with that of football officiating within the scope of the organization.

The meeting will take place at KCBD.

Tarheels Accept Cotton Bowl Bid

FORT WORTH, Nov. 26. (AP)— Thrice-beaten North Carolina was invited to play in the Cotton Bowl Jan. 2 and the bid was promptly accepted.

Jake Wade, sports publicity director for North Carolina, announced the Tar Heels said "yes" to the Dallas offer nearly an hour before Dan Rogers, chairman of the Cotton Bowl selection committee, would make the official announcement.

North Carolina defeated Virginia, 14-7, today and the Cotton Bowl bid was generally conceded to be riding on the result of this game.

The Tar Heels finished the 1949 season with seven victories and three defeats.

They were beaten by Louisiana State, 13-7, by Tennessee, 6-0, and Notre Dame, 42-6. They defeated North Carolina State 26-6, Georgia 21-14, South Carolina, 28-13, William and Mary, 20-14, Duke, 21-20, and Virginia.

Tennessee's Vols Defeat Vanderbilt Eleven, 26 To 20

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 26. (INS).— The Tennessee Vols rushed to a quick 19-point lead today in Knoxville, lost it even more quickly, but finally came out on top of Vanderbilt, 26-20.

It was Hank Lauricella's 28-yard toss to Charlie Cummins in the third period that gave the Vols ther hard-won victory after trailing 19-20 at the half.

Wofford Terriers Roll Over Newberry Indians, 40 To 0

SPARTANBURG, S.C., Nov. 26. (INS).— The undefeated Wofford Terriers sewed up a bid to the Cigar Bowl today by rolling up a 40-0 victory over the Newberry Indians in Spartanburg.

Playing before some 9,000 homecoming fans, the Terriers clinched the small-college state championship with their 11th win of the season. They will meet Florida State Jan. 2 in the Tampa, Fla., Bowl.

Arkansas Tops Tulsa, 40-7

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 26. (AP).— Settling down after a shaky start, the Arkansas Razorbacks wore down a smaller University of Tulsa eleven, 40 to 7, here this afternoon.

A crowd of 12,000 — the smallest to see Arkansas play in several years — saw the underdog Hurricane score first, cling to a 7-7 halftime deadlock and then wilt under a five-touchdown onslaught by the Southwest Conference team in the last two periods.

Geno Mazzanti, Arkansas' big fullback and top ground gainer, led the touchdown parade with two.

Tulsa moved 78 yards on three plays to start the scoring midway of the first quarter. A spectacular 50-yard pass and run play, Pete Annex to Fred Smith, produced the score.

After having one drive stopped at the Tulsa 12 and another at the one, Arkansas finally got its offense rolling in the second period. Fullback Louis Schaufele drove for the touchdown from inches out and Duvall Thornton kicked the first of four extra points to knot the count at the intermission.

Little Don Logue made his first appearance at quarterback for Arkansas early in the third quarter and quickly guided the Razorbacks to a safe lead.

By finishing last but once (1905) the Brooklyn Dodgers hold the league record for fewest cellar finishes.

Parks, Overhull In Semi-Final

Tremain, Kasaboski Tangle Wednesday

Andy Tremain advanced to the finals of Sled Allen's wrestling program this week, and his opponent will be the mad Russian, Alex Kasaboski Wednesday night.

Kasaboski has been one of the hardest men to defeat at the arena in recent weeks and usually wins by any method he can—fair or foul. Last week George Overhull, who was defeated in the main show by Kasaboski, claims he was fouled by the Russian and therefore lost. But the referee did not see the foul and gave the match to the Russian anyway.

A challenge was issued by Tremain for the top spot this week, and he thinks he has the speed, experience and science to pin Kasaboski. Tremain is smart and aggressive and should give the Russian a good match.

The semi-final bout between Herb Parks and Overhull should be more scientific. Parks, who is big and rugged, prefers science to other forms and will be trying to keep the match clean. Overhull wants another shot at Kasaboski and hopes to get it by decisioning Parks.

Meeting in the preliminary are Salvador Flores and Jack Pappenheim, the Oregon lumber jack. He will meet one of the smoothest and well-liked wrestlers to come from Mexico when he tangles with Flores. Both men are clean wrestlers who work by the rules and depend on their know how and ring skill to win matches.

Referee for the matches will be Ed (Strangler) Lewis, one of the terrors of the mat wars. Lewis, who has relatives and friends in this area, has appeared here before in the capacity of an official and is well-liked and respected as a capable official.

Matches start at 8 p. m. Wednesday, and advance ticket sales will be made at the arena from 9 to 5 that day.

Holy Cross Bows To Boston College, 76-0

BOSTON, Nov. 26. (INS)— An unheralded junior halfback led Boston College to a 76-to-0 rout of Holy Cross today, the worst trouncing in the long history of the rivalry between the two colleges.

A chilled crowd of 38,751 saw the Eagles score almost at will in the first three periods. Four touchdowns were registered in both the first and third periods, three in the second. Only the fourth quarter was scoreless.

The star of the day was Eddie Petela, who scored four touchdowns—one on a 62-yard run—and missed only one extra point attempt after the 11 Boston College TDs.

Sandies Win Golf Match

Amarillo golfers got the better of Lubbock High school and junior high linksters here Saturday at Lubbock Country club, the high school team winning, 14½ to 3½ and the juniors tying with three points each.

Jimmy Stewart and Chuck Wilson were the only senior high golfers to win their matches. Stewart dropped Don Hill, 1-up, and Wilson won over Bill Colvin, 2 and 1.

Jimmy Baker, Amarillo, defeated Fred Currie, 5 and 4, for three points, and Sam Mitchell, Amarillo, turned back Jerry Jackson, 4 and 3 to gain three points.

Six points went to Amarillo in the third foursome when George Aulback, jr., Amarillo defeated Milton Beech, 6 and 5, and Charles Holt, Amarillo, dropped Earl Dietering, 6 and 5.

Lubbock's Teddy Black picked up two points for the juniors by defeating Rex Baxter, 6 and 5, Don Gatlin, Amarillo, defeated Frank Mitchell, 4 and 3, in the other match.

DISPERSAL SALE HIGH PRODUCING DAIRY CATTLE AT AUCTION

Friday, December 2nd, 12 o'Clock Noon, regardless of weather. Sale under tent at SAM HAND DAIRY FARM. Five miles south of Fort Worth, Texas, on New Crowley Road, or two miles north of Crowley, Texas. WATCH FOR SIGNS. 206 head Base Builders. Without doubt this is one of the best herds for production sold in this milk shed. Inspection invited before sale. Come to the sale and convince yourself. You'll see the best kind of production that are being developed right. Regardless of where you live or what you may be doing on this sale day, you cannot afford to miss this sale of real young producers if you need milk and want this kind.

119 HOLSTEINS that have been selected by me for my own use. 65 milking 40 lbs. average daily. 34 heavy springers. 30 first-call springers.

26 HOLSTEIN HEIFERS—One week to sixty days old.

10 BROWN SWISS HEIFERS — eight to nine months old.

48 JERSEY AND DURHAM that are tops. 30 fresh in past 40 days. Balance to freshen in next 30 days.

2 REGISTERED HOLSTEIN BULLS —Eighteen months old.

1 GRADE HOLSTEIN BULL—Two years old.

MR. DAIRYMAN: I want to tell you the fact about my cows, and will represent them exactly as they are. Every cow offered in this sale is my own cow. Absolutely no outside cattle. Your inspection invited.

The reason I am selling my cattle is that my dairy barn has been condemned by inspection and will take some time to remodel to pass the inspection.

The fact that it is affirmatively found by the City Commission of the City of Lubbock, Texas that there is urgent need to proceed with the matters of construction, improvement, enlargement and extension of the sewer system of the City of Lubbock and public streets and highway improvements of said City in order to make the same more convenient for the public at large and to preserve and protect the health and welfare of the citizens of Lubbock, creates an emergency and public necessity demanding that the rule requiring the reading of this Ordinance on more than one day before final passage be suspended, and such rule is hereby suspended, and it is ordained that this Ordinance shall take effect and be in force immediately upon its passage and adoption.

PASSED, APPROVED AND ADOPTED this the 23rd day of November, 1949.

MARKET LEVELS OFF

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP) — The stock market levelled off today after Friday's slide.

For a while it appeared likely that an advance was shaping up but there was no follow-through to demand. Fractional gains, though, were in the majority.

Business started off at a smart rate, then slowed to a walk after overnight orders had been taken care of. Turnover totaled around 400,000 shares for the two-hour session.

Magnavox was again a soft spot following Friday's ⅛-point loss. The stock dropped another point or so. Stockholders are scheduled to vote on a new financial program for the company on Dec. 13.

Higher prices were paid for Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, Packard, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Kennecott Copper, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Philip Morris, Westinghouse Electric, Union Pacific, Standard Oil (N.J.), and U. S. Gypsum.

Lower were United Aircraft, Schenley, Admiral Corp., Homestake Mining, Gulf Oil, and Johns-Manville.

Corporate bonds moved narrowly.

Higher in the curb were Canadian Marconi, National Bellas Hess, Hugo Stinnes, Technicolor, and United Light & Railways. Pushed back a bit were standard Power & Light, Pancoastal Oil, Creole Petroleum, Cities Service, and Babcock & Wilcox.

Holiday Preparations

1. Mrs. Warlick Carr of 2111-A Thirteenth is "getting the Christmas spirit" early and makes out her Christmas card list. The attractive young woman designs and makes her own cards. She was an art major in Texas Tech and Denver university, and has always made her own Christmas greetings.

2. Arthur Edwin Niell, 7, and his little sister, Cynthia Sue, 5, children of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Niell of 2424 Twenty-third, concentrate on that all-important letter to Mr. Santa Claus. Arthur Edwin writes the letter with the helpful suggestions of Cynthia Sue. Wishing that "Christmas was tonight," the friendly little girl wants a fairy doll, while her brother hopes for everything from train accessories to a drum.

3. Mrs. Ray Livesay of 2423 Thirtieth finds an enormous satisfaction in getting her Christmas shopping done early, knowing that there are mysterious, beribboned packages hidden away while others search frantically for gifts. Mrs. Livesay happily looks at a toy zebra suitable for her baby son, Mark, 2. The Livesay's other son, Lynn, 6, wants an Indian suit and, as all little boys, a bright, shiny truck.

5. Christmas comes early to the kitchen, and the spicy, appetite-tingling smells that float through the house are the first signs of holiday preparation. Mrs. W. L. Bradshaw, 2514 Twentieth, enjoys making a fruit cake, a "must" for this festive season. Mrs. "Brad" has a favorite recipe for a holiday cake which makes a "hit" with her family and many friends.

4. Mrs. Yancey Price, 1921 Twenty-fifth, finds that one of the nicest things about Christmas is making your gifts. Friends are always pleased to receive one of the talented woman's works. In the picture, Mrs. Price adds the finishing touches to a cowboy she made from copper screen wire and copper sheeting. It took her about five hours to make the clever cowboy, complete with chaps and lasso. Having done this type of work as a hobby as well as commercially, Mrs. Price helps instruct Camp Fire girl leaders in craftwork. (Staff Photos by Peggy McClatchy).

Sullivan-Black Vows Are Read In Church

THE marriage of Miss Ellen Routh Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Black of Sudan, and William T. Sullivan jr., of Lubbock, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Sullivan of Holyoke, Mass., was solemnized Thursday at 8 a. m. in St. Elizabeth's church. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Blakeslee in front of the altar banked with white chrysanthemums and greenery; baby white chrysanthemums decorated the side altars.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Jack Henry, organist, played "Traumerei" (Schumann) and "Serenade" (Schubert). Mrs. Robert Farrier sang "Ave Maria" (Gounod) and "Panis Angelicus." "Lithany" (Schubert) was heard during the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Richard Black, and wore an ivory satin wedding gown made and fashioned by her sister Mrs. John T. Ashford. The circular skirt with gathered fullness in the back joined the bodice at the waistline. The bertha type collar at the front of the low, round neckline extended to below the armhole at the back, forming cap sleeves. The bertha was embroidered in a pearlized bead medallion, matching the tiara from which a veil of imported illusion fell. She wore satin mits and carried a white orchid with stephonitis on a white prayer book.

In Wedding Party

Miss Alice Gibson of Lubbock was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Black of Sudan, and Miss Eleanore Hammond of Lubbock. The bridal attendants were gowned in taffeta in shades of blue and wore black hats and black accessories. Their dresses were designed with a rolled bertha collar and with full, ballerina-length skirts. They carried baby white chrysanthemums on black prayer books. Flower girl, Princess Quinlivan of Idalou, wore a dress of ice blue taffeta designed similar to the bridesmaids and she carried a basket of rose petals. Hubert Bezner, of Colorado City, served as best man. The ushers were Guillermo Perea, of Peru, and Bert Moore, of Lubbock. After the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Ashford, 1912 Twenty-first. The bridal table, covered a grass linen cloth, was centered with a grass linen cloth, was garlanded with huckleberry and baby white chrysanthemums and was topped with confection yellow mallow roses, lily-of-the-valley, and candy-bow ribbon. Autumn flowers and leaves banked the mantel and decorated the receiving rooms. Mrs. Bryant Lassiter presided at the silver coffee service; Mrs. G. A. Sammons poured punch. Mrs. Lon Mullican cut the cake and Mrs. Art Templeton registered guests.

On Wedding Trip

For traveling, the bride chose a taupe worsted suit with black accessories and wore a white orchid corsage. After a short trip to New Mexico via plane, the couple will be at home at 1608 Broadway.

The bride is a member of the Newman Club and the American Society of X-ray Technicians. She was graduated from Sudan High school and attended Weatherford Junior college and Texas Technological college. She is employed at Lubbock Memorial hospital as X-ray technician.

The bridegroom is a member of the Newman Club and is an officer in the Knights of Columbus. He is a student at Tech and is employed at the Daniel's Furniture Company. He attended New York University.

Through The Coral Doors

Howdy folks,

With Turkey Day coming during the week and Christmas at our heels, the bustle at my favorite corner, Broadway and N, was really something to see. The Decorators Studio seems to be bursting at the seams with smart gift buys that end up in those lushious gift wrappings for which the girls are justly famous. Two huge identical packages on the porch had my curosity aroused. Josie told me that they were a perfectly marvelous pair of lamps which a young man had bought for his wife's Christmas present. Speaking of lamps, there are a pair at the Studio just suited for the really modern home. Very tall and with a combination of caladon and yellow, the lamps are based on two life-size Roman heads. If you desire the truly modern and unusual, better whisper in Santa's ear soon.

That's the traveliest bunch behind that Coral Door! Anne and Josie were off to Abilene and Snyder early in the week with bundles of blueprints, fabrics and carpet swatches. James has been dashing to and from Slaton with paint sticks and wallpaper, while Fredda and Durwood took off with a complete houseful of draperies and accessories in the station wagon. Looks like someone in Amarillo had a beautiful new home for Mr. Tom Turkey's visit. I found Bee showing a client a complete set-up planned for her new home. From the squeals of ohs and ahs, I gather the lady found everything in accord with her fondest dreams.

The girls tell Fredda they've become clock-watchers! You won't wonder when you see the handsome new octogan-shaped timepiece that has them spellbound. It's too unusual for a mere man to describe, but I will tell you it is in tortoise shell with gilt trim.

Better snoop around with me this week at Decorators Studio. You are sure to solve all your Christmas problems there.

See you next week,

Grandpa Nosey—Adv.

Metropolitan Opera Opening Shows Trend

Short Formals, Jewels And Low Necklines Fashionable

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
INS Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. — Short formals, diamonds and sex are here to stay—for another season at least.

The Metropolitan opera held its always-fashionable and trend-setting opening this week and the chief items were men's eyes and ladies' necklines.

Judging from a cross-section of New York's most style conscious socialites, these will be in the formal-wear goodies for the coming club year:

1) Full-skirted formals.

2) Either mid-calf or floor-length gowns.

3) A minimum of material from the waist up.

4) A maximum of jewels from the head down.

Shoulders Bare

From debutantes t omatrons, the style preference shied away from the allegedly high-fashion "back to the 1920's" look.

Only a few daring ladies ventured out in tight-skirted flapper dresses. And none of the big-name guests showed up in the supposedly popular back-dripping-hemline skirts.

Easily, the majority of gowns were bare from top-shoulder to the closest feasible distance above the bustline, which cancels out, at least for this season, the notion that strapless frocks are passe.

White mink was the select luxury fur among opera first-nighters, though broadtails, ermines and old-hat ranch minks mixed in without too much embarrassment by wearers.

Evening wraps were generally short, either in jacket or stole form, and celebrities having their pictures snapped almost without exception slipping them casually back to reveal bare shoulders framed in fur.

Despite the supposed trend toward evening hats, headdresses of any kind were almost non-existent. Claudia Pinza, 21-year-old daughter of the matinee idol Ezio, wore the only elaborate one: a gold, diamond and sapphire headband, styled by Salvador Dali.

In evening bags, the socialites preferred small envelope bags that fit into one hand and held, maybe, three cigarettes and a flat lipstick.

Shoes were slender - looking and open, with satin sandals dyed to match dresses the overwhelming choice.

Most popular colors for opening night at the opera weer the pinkish-to-reddish shades, although black, as always, had its lion's share of volume.

And most of the smartest women sported all-white ensembles, from white mink stole to bead-encrusted white satin pumps.

But it was the jewels, as usual, that marked a woman's elegance at the Metropolitan.

For those who contemplate investing a fortune, here is the way the gem picture stacks up:

Diamonds are top-rank, followed by emeralds, some rubies, a few sapphires and cultured pearls. Jeweled necklaces are worn either high around the base of the throat, or dangled low on the bosom, pendant fashion.

Paintings To Be Viewed Here By Art Institute

A collection of 75 paintings and drawings will be shown and displayed to Tech Art Institute members Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Tech Engineering auditorium by Mr. and Mrs. Allan Walter of New York City, recently of Europe.

The collection consists of works of moderns and old masters, and represents approximately one-fifth of a large private collection from France, accumulated over a period of 25 years. Some of Mr. Walter's own paintings are to be shown.

Among the many canvases are Chagall's oil, "Surrealistic Head"; a Renoir "Landscape" in oil and a pencil drawing of the artist's daughter; Felicien Rops "Bonne Hollandaise" in pastel and watercolor; Meurs' oil, "Sheep"; Monsted's "Ponte Campovasto"; a Valaminck "Landscape" in oil. There will also be three signed lithographs by Kokoscha, Bonnard's color lithograph, "Boulevarde Italienne," 18 original etchings by Kathe Kollwitz, seven signed woodcuts by Barlach, four lithographs and two etchings by Max Liebermann, and eight oils by the American painter, Fioranvaniti.

F. A. Kleinschmidt, director of the Institute, explains, "Rarely will the opportunity be presented where 18 etchings of Kathe Kollwitz, one of the greatest moderns of Europe, may be seen at one showing. Very few museums in the United States have been able to acquire more than two or three of her works."

Double Ring Service Read

Asbury Methodist church was scene of the marriage of Miss Anna Mae Smith to Dan M. Burkhalter Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Smith of Bonham and the bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Burkhalter of Rt. 4, Lubbock. Dr. C. A. Bickley read a double ring service before an altar decked with white chrysanthemums and autumn leaves.

Wyatt Burkhalter and Mrs. F. G. Hefner played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Beth Burkhalter, sister of the bridegroom, as she sang "O Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a soft toast brown suit with white accessories. She carried a white Bible topped with white carnations, showered with white satin streamers.

Attending the bride was her sister, Mrs. Cleo Dennis, who was dressed in a dark brown gabardine suit with white accessories and a white carnation corsage. Harold B. Burkhalter, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were Wyatt Burkhalter, another brother, and Gilbert H. Blake.

At the reception given at the church following the ceremony, Mrs. Gilbert H. Blake, sister of the bridegroom, cut the wedding cake and Mrs. Lawrence Alexander, assisted by Mrs. C. A. Bickley, presided at the coffee service. Mrs. Doyle Lookadoo of Bonham, sister of the bride, registered guests.

After a brief wedding trip, the newlyweds will make their home at 2017 Fourteenth.

Mrs. Burkhalter is a graduate of Bonham High school and has attended Draughons Business college. Mr. Burkhalter is a former student of Lubbock High school and a Navy veteran. He is employed by the KT Machine shop.

Jacque Mercer Visits With Parents

Oklahoma Gets Quiet Visit From Latest Miss America

TULSA, Nov. 26. (U.P.)—Jacque Mercer continued her "just folks" visit in Oklahoma today while on vacation from her role as "Miss America."

The 18-year-old Phoenix, Ariz., beauty was accompanied here yesterday by her hometown beau, Doug Cook, 20.

She said she and Cook have no immediate marriage plans. They've been going steady for five years but even a formal engagement, she said "is something to be announced later."

The petite beauty queen will meet her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mercer, in Oklahoma City late today and then fly to Chicago. She has a personal appearance scheduled in Chicago Monday.

Visited With Parents

Miss Mercer's tour of Oklahoma as just Miss Mercer began in Hobart, where she spent Thanksgiving day with her parents, other relatives, and Cook, in the home of her great-grandmother, Mrs. Martha Cantrell.

Miss Mercer and Cook drove to Tulsa yesterday to visit relatives and friends. They were houseguests here of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood, Doug's aunt and uncle.

Jacque has tried to make the whole visit as quiet as possible. Her itinerary was not publicized beforehand.

Miss Mercer likes to think about how she entered the Miss America contest loaded with advice that she couldn't win. She told a local reporter:

"I entered the contest to get experience appearing before large audiences. The folks in Phoenix didn't believe I had a chance to win and neither did I. After all, who ever heard of a Miss America that was only 5 feet, four inches tall."

Even Doug advised her against entering.

Now that she's won America's number one glamor title, Jacque says, "everywhere I go people don t believe I'm Miss America.

"They just take one unbelieving look at me and then say their wife is prettier."

IT'S THEIR PROBLEM

HALIFAX, N. S. (U.P.)—Police are finding it difficult to recover a 700-pound headless plaster model of a soldier, stolen from the Keddy Memorial Works. "We can't even figure out the motive, and without a motive where do we start?" they explained.

IDLE TIME USED

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (U.P.) — Striking coal miners at suburban Mineral Springs spent their idle time clearing four acres of ground for a school and community playground. They built streets, barbecue pits, swings, tables, benches, sand piles and horseshoe pitching court.

Spell "Chic" By Spotless Toggery

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

There are good grooming routines which will put a million-dollar stamp on a girl's appearance no matter how budget-priced or how many seasons old her clothes are.

By the same token, the most expensive, well-tailored outfit will miss its mark if basic grooming is neglected.

Starting at the top, a girl will be ahead on looks if her hairline is concise. A flyaway mop of hair, straggling ends and a bushy brow all give a half-combed look. Keep hair slick and under control by having it shaped and thinned regularly; brush it for a shiny, smooth crown and clip off at bangs and neckline when stray whisps grow out.

An immaculate blouse, ironed to perfection, though it comes directly from the budget basement, will flatter any girl. Watch out for smudges, make-up stains, and under-arm moisture. No girl, except a dummy in a show window, can look fresh and appealing in a white cotton blouse that gets more than one wearing before it's washed.

T-shirts and pastel sweaters require washings, too, if a girl is to be sure of personal daintiness.

Hemlines can heckle good grooming. One that comes "untacked" of just droops down front or back will kill that well-put-together look. Pleats on a skirt must be pressed in vertical line and no emergency pins should mar the neat zipper closing of a placket.

Petticoat ruffles and bra straps are likely to peep out sometimes. That's why a girl can't afford to take a chance on undies being less than spotless. Besides, it's these fastidiously fresh garments which give a girl her sense of well-being and breed a feeling of self assurance.

The Woman's Angle

By Margaret Turner

WE were asked by Pageant magzine to help nominate the five women who exert the greatest influence on American life today. After Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's name—she certainly would be among anyone's first five—we were stuck. What would be your choice.

We thought a long time and finally decided on Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Dorothy Thompson the writer, Margaret Sanger, the birth control advocate and Helena Rubinstein, beauty culturist who brought Michel over from Paris to influence American women to wear the short bob again.

What do you think?

WINNING POEM

THIS poem, "Frederics, Knox, Luke, and John," was written by Valine Hobbs, a teacher in the Nacogdoches public schools, and won a prize offered by the Poetry Society of Texas:

Although I did not listen
As closely as I should,
Sunday morning service
Really did me good.
For I saw the style show offered
By the town's aristocrats
And I mentally remodeled
All my antiquated hats.

FAVORITE STORIES

OUR favorite news stories of last week gave incidents in the lives of two boys thousands of miles apart.

The one concerns one Robert Rosch of Bemidji, Minn., who disappeared from home shortly before sand filled a street excavation. His parents fearing their son had fallen into the ditch, sent in an emergency call to the police and men, women and children armed themselves with shovels and dug through the sand for an hour and a half, calling out encouragement.

Suddenly someone who knew Robert noticed he, too, had a shovel and was hard at work. He said he had been visiting neighbors down the street and had left and en route home joined the digging, although he had no idea what for.

THE other story is of Peter Litchfield, 11-year-old Darwin, Australia boy, who threw his school room into a panic when he carried in a live python nine feet long. The teacher has asked the pupils to bring specimens of wild life for a nature study.

The boy was sent home, still holding the snake by the throat, the rest of it coiled around his neck and the upper part of his body. The commotion had upset the whole school.

A photographer in search of a news story called at the boy's home and found he had gone to bed, the snake alongside. He said he was going to keep the python for a pet; that he liked to study nature in his own way.

SCATTERINGS

BREATHES there the woman who won't say sometime between now and Dec. 25: "I'll be glad when Christmas is over!" . . . A French gentleman by name of Marcel Rochas is introducing a perfume for men which he claims is "symbol of the eternal male." It is called "Moustache" and is said to have a fragrance like a "soft overtone of lavender which mellows to a warm, woody and lasting scent." Ah, me! . . . Remember how each year you unpack the box in which your stored last year's Christmas decorations and also how each year you discover three or four of your choicest Christmas ornaments smashed into a thousand fragments? That day is past. Tree decorations are now made in plastic which is nonbreakable and the new material gives the same shining effect as the crackable glittering items.

THE one and only love is a myth, says a prominent sociologist. Another romantic myth, says he, is that a person is lucky or unlucky in love. The tendency of men and women to think of themselves as passive pawns controlled by mysterious forces called luck is due, says this expert, to prevailing ignorance of the processes of falling in love.

It's a time, he continues, to explode the romantic illusion there's a single soul mate to whom one is attracted by a cosmic affinity that is powerful and not to be denied. Often there are multiple arrangements.

There now! Do you feel better?

Stocking Stuffers Available For Girl Living On Budget

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newfeatures Beauty Editor

IT SEEMS to happen every Yuletide—people who are acquainted or who have been nice to us in some little way are put on our gift lists. When we go shopping, however, to find some small stocking stuffer for them, we are appalled that we can find nothing quite suitable within our price range. We have a choice of either crossing them off our list or paying more than we had anticipated.

This year there is a surprise in store for the girl who must shop on a budget. Besides little token gifts for acquaintances quite within her price range, she can find inexpensive items at cosmetics counters for good friends and members of the family.

It is not just the fact that she will get more for her money this year, but the gifts look important, are packaged attractively, and many of them are double-duty items. She can find them priced from $1 to $3.

Any young girl would be pleased with a gift that will keep her lipstick from smearing. A small bottle of liquid charmingly packaged in green foil, complete with a tab of cherry red velvet ribbon ready to hang on the tree, is perfect for keeping lipstick intact when under the mistletoe.

A smart little snowman made of white plastic with a black topper and a bright red muffler around his neck is the container for a wind and weather lotion, perfect for stormy weather to come.

Two cologne fragrances, one a crisp Holly Berry and the other spicy-sweet in one-ounce screw-capped flasks are in a colorful box that displays a group of carolers in glistening snow against a background of snow-roofed red houses.

A box of powder and a lipstick never seems like a glamorous gift, but when it is packaged with a string of pearls, it looks like a luxury item. The girl and the pearl become a duet because the pearls are creamy-toned to match the shade of powder exactly. Shades of powder and pearls run from a pinky "rosayer" to a golden tan with pale coppery powder and pearl accents.

For that man in her life for whom she plans just a tiny gift, there is a miniature aluminum ice bucket, complete with handle and shave soap. It is re-usable for cigarettes, candies and cuff links.

There are many double-duty items to be found at her favorite shopping counter that are smart and utilitarian. A handsome gold lipstick has a ball-point pen on the other end; a smart gold-plated bracelet has a perfume vial dangling from it or a compact containing solid perfume; a lipstick comes in a little plastic angel that can be used later as a decoration; powder is packaged in unusual containers which can be used again for jewelry, hairpins or other things.

December Concert To Feature Two Soloists

Lubbock Symphony orchestra will present its second subscription concert of the season Dec. 5 at Senior High school auditorium. Featured artists will be Miss Mary Lou Colvin, pianist, and Robert Pipkin, violinist.

In addition to the scheduled program, directed by William A. Harrod, George Morey, orchestra conductor at North Texas State college, Denton, will direct the symphony in two movements from an original composition. This will be the Chorale and Fanfare from "Music for Brass Choir and Tympani."

To Play Concerto

Miss Colvin, young and talented pianist, is a native of Tulsa. She has been a scholarship student the past four years at North Texas State college's School of Music, where she made two appearances with the college orchestra. The musician, a student of Silvio Sconti, will appear with the Lubbock Symphony in Rachmaninoff's "Concerto No. 2 in C Minor," a melodic selection popularized several years ago by Artur Rubinstein.

The other featured artist, Mr. Pipkin, is violinist and concert master of the Lubbock Symphony, conductor of orchestra for secondary schools in the Lubbock Public school system and is an accredited violin instructor on the music staff of Texas Technological college. His study of the violin began at the age of five. While at NTSC, Mr. Pipkin was soloist with the Sinfonietta on tour and with the College Symphony. As a graduate student at North Texas, the violinist was assistant concert master for the Wichita Falls Symphony, under the direction of Frederick Balazs, conductor. During the time he served with the United States Navy, Mr. Pipkin played concerts for Navy personnel at the San Diego Naval base.

Tickets will go on sale Monday at 8 o'clock at Adair's Music store and the Varsity Book store at $2.40 for reserved seats and $1.80 fro general admission. Music club members are selling season tickets to the symphony concerts for $4.80. The season tickets also will be available at the door the night of the concert.

PLANTS GET OLD, TOO

BERKELEY, Calif., (AP) — When plants get old they seem to get something like hardening of the arteries. This is reported by Dr. Flora Murray Scott, University of California botanist who says that as plant cells age their walls become coated with a varnish-like substance called suberin. Suberin slows up circulation.

TV TRENDS. . . . The quilted white jersey gown at left has gold belt and braid trim. At right is a tricolor outfit with satin bodice and sash and flared taffeta skirt.

Atomic Era Brings Television Styles

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

One of the byproducts of the current age of scientific marvels is the "television gown."

This is a costume designed for —you guessed it—looking at TV. And since all owners of television sets still are beset by frequent visitations of invited or uninvited guests, this outfit must be just slightly less bedroomy than the usual lacy, trailing negligee. It's a cross between a house coat and a dinner dress, informal but decorative, gay but discreet.

It seems there's a special look that should be associated with a TV fan. A modern, festive look, strictly streamlined, in tune with our fast-stepping age.

The TV gown may be a simple hostess dress or even lounging pajamas. Some manufacturers are putting out television coats and capes, designed to be tossed on over lounging pajamas when guests drop in to teleview the prize fight or Milton Berle.

All of the outfits are flattering and gay, made of such fabrics as tissue faille, jersey, plain and quilted satins, wool, velvet or taffeta. Combinations of velvet and satin or taffeta are in high favor, as are leopard prints. The latter, in velvet lounging trousers are strictly sensational.

A boon to the hostess who wants an outfit simple enough not to be in the way when she makes sandwiches or mixes drinks is a white quilted jersey ankle-length gown with a scoop neckline trimmed in gold braid to match the gold leather belt.

Then there is a "television cape" in quilted taffeta with contrasting lining which extends into a long tuxedo front with pockets just right for holding cigarets and matches.

Oysters To Be Used For Atom Experiment

BEAUFORT, N. C., Nov. 26 (U.P.) —The Atomic Energy Commission and the Fish and Wildfire Service will try to radioactivate oysters here. The AEC hopes to learn more from the experiment than it did in the A-bomb test at Bikini.

The FWS's part in the project will be determining what an oyster likes to eat. In a huge building used before the war as a biological laboratory, the oysters will be fed artifically.

Tiny amounts of radioactive chemical substances from the AEC's isotope division at Oak Ridge, Tenn., will be shot into the tanks along with organisms which scientists believe appeal to an oyster's appetite.

As the organisms grow, they absorb the radioisotopes and the oysters will eat "hot" food.

Isotopes can be traced. Thus, said Dr. Clarence Cottam of the FWS, the food take nin by the oysters, digested and incorporated in their tissues may be determined chemically and by radiation measurement.

International Clearing House On Surplus Crops Recommended

Norris E. Dodd, director-general of the United Nations food and agricultural organization, explains in the following exclusive article how the projected international commodity clearing house would operate to the benefit of both "have" and "have not" nations.

Dodd warns that "this may be the world's last chance for thoughtful and anticipatory" action toward solving the age-old problem of getting surplus crops to needy areas.

By NORRIS E. DODD
Director-General
UN Food and Agricultural Organization
Written Expressly for INS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—Farm surpluses are a major problem for food exporting countries today, yet in countries where diets were at a near-starvation level before the war, the food situation is now much worse.

In theory, these two pictures—one of over-production and the other of chronic hunger—should cancel each other out. But in practice, something the economists call "currency inconvertibility" is rapidly worsening the problem for both the producing countries and for those which import foods.

Crop Restrictions Slated

In general, it is the dollar or hard-currency countries which have the food products (as well as other necessities) to sell. But the countries which need to buy these things are soft-currency countries which don't have enough dollars at present.

In the United States, crop restrictions are being discussed. In the case of wheat, one of this country's major exports, acreage restrictions are already in effect.

From the producer's point of view, this signifies that all the effective demand for wheat in the world's market places has been satisfied at a price level fair to the growers of wheat. But millions of people, many of them only one meal away from hunger, can testify that the world's total demand for wheat has not been satisfied.

This problem is currently a major topic for consideration by the fifth annual session of the conference of the Food and Agriculture organization of the United Nations (FAO). The conference, meeting in Washington, has finished its first week of deliberations and is scheduled to end its work about Dec. 7.

Situation Is Studied

The FAO conference of a year ago, in reviewing the world food situation, foresaw the possibility of surpluses accumulating in the high-producing agricultural countries during the fourth year of postwar harvests.

The conference asked that the FAO council study the situation, and last June the council asked me to assemble an international committee of experts to make recommendations for action. This I did, and it is the report of these experts, the top economists of the four quarters of the globe, which I submitted to the conference this week.

The report of the experts that five measures must be taken to restore international equilibrium and make any progress toward higher world living standards and income.

These measures are:

1. High levels of production and the employment must be maintained in the major producing countries, especilly in the United States as its economy is so critically important to the world.

2. Trade restrictions everywhere must be reduced.

3. Standards of production efficiency must be increased, especially in western European countries.

Investments Are Needed

4. There must be a large and continuing flow of capital investment from the advanced to the underdeveloped areas.

5. Convertible currencies and multilateral transactions must be restored as the basis of world trade.

The experts agreed that these measures cannot be brought about quickly, so they proposed that an international commodity clearing house be set up as an action arm of FAO.

The ICCH would be open to countries which are members of FAO or the United Nations. Each country's subscription to its capital would be national currency (dollars, rupees, francs, etc.), and would be determined by its national income, as are its contributions to FAO and the United Nations.

Suppose now that we see how ICCH would solve the problem of unsalable surpluses for producing, countries and the problem of the consuming countries being unable to buy the foods they need.

Methods Are Suggested

Two types of sales are possible. By the first method, the producing country offers to sell its surplus products (over and above those it can sell through normal trade channels) at a reduced price in dollars. The importer, likewise, agrees to buy this amount in addition to its normal purchases.

By the second method, the producing county agrees to sell its surplus products at full market price, but the payment by the consuming country will be in its own currency, which may be "soft"—inconvertible at the moment.

The sale must again be in addition to the receiving country's usual imports. Instead of giving the foreign currency to the surplus country, ICCH holds this money on its books at the account of the surplus nation.

The producing country with this credit to its account can buy additional goods and services with this foreign currency or it can hold the amount for eventual conversion into dollars.

As I told the conference when I asked them to consider the proposals for ICCH, the plans are capable of improvement and adaptation, and many details are yet to be worked out.

I hope the conference will improve on these suggestions, and that we can begin at once to attack this problem constructively.

Failure to act will not banish this or any problem. The committee of experts warned that this may be the world's last chance for thoughful and anticipatory, as distinct from crisis, action. There must never be a repetition of the catastrophic depression we experienced in the 1930's.

API Chapter Chooses Lubbock Man Officer

ODESSA, Nov. 26. (AP)—C. R. Smith of Odessa was elected chairman of the Permian basin chapter of the American Petroleum Institute last night.

Some 1400 West Texas oil men jammed the barbecue barns and auditorium for the annual membership meeting.

Smith is district superintendent for Cities Service Oil Co. He succeeds W. D. Lane, Plymouth Oil Co., Midland.

E. N. Spiars, Spiars and Wells Equipment Co., Odessa, was retained as first vice chairman.

Other new officers are Roy E. Carter, Amon G. Carter foundation, Kermit, second vice chairman, and Jay E. Wooten, Stanolind Oil and Gas Co., Lubbock, third vice president.

DRUG TRIED ON PLANTS

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 26 (AP)—The same Streptomycin that kills germs in people works—to an extent—on plant seeds. In experiments conducted by Dr. Peter A. Ark, plant pathologist at the University of California, the drug kept cucumbers free of bacteria causing leaf spot and prevented bacterial canker in tomatoes.

Range From Ducks To Portable Radios

Articles Found Abandoned In Lockers Pose Problems

By DAVID A. STEIN
AP Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—Frederick G. Smith doesn't like mysteries, especially when they're wrapped in packages.

In two big, shelf-lined rooms off Times Square, he has hundreds of mysteries to solve. Each of them is from a public locker.

Smith is district manager of the firm (American Locker Co.,) which operates thousands of the dime-in-a-slot parcel bins in New York's railroad, bus and subway stations. Just how many are in use is a trade secret. Nationally, public lockers garner an estimated 40,000,000 dimes a year.

At first Smith worried about boxes of bones that turned up in the bins. Now he knows that the little skulls and skeletons do not mean murder. Usually they are cat bones, which he dutifully returns to universities from which they were borrowed by absent-minded students.

Don't Tip Police

Police, secret service men and FBI agents frequently call on Smith for information. "We help as much as we can, but we never give tips to the police," he emphasizes. "If we did, we might as well sign the death warrants of people who work for us."

About 5,000 locks are changed every day. If a locker isn't emptied after 24 hours of use, its contents are removed, the bin is sealed for three days, and the lock is changed before it is put back into service. Locks are switched from railroad to subway to bus stations, then out of the district.

One conspicuous unclaimed item is a typewriter with an extra-large carriage. Smith called the maker of the machine, and learned who bought it by tracing the serial number. The typewriter had been traded in, and there the trail grew cold. In almost a year, no one has claimed it. With other forgotten packages, it will be auctioned off at the end of twelve months.

Almost any day, you can find at least a half dozen forgotten portable radios in the storeroom. There are clothes racks lined with apparel of every description. End of the straw hat season brings an avalanche of men's summer skimmers.

The shelves of unclaimed goods hold work clothes, old shoes, library books, toys, miscellaneous suitcases, boxes, beach bags, and tools. Sometimes expensive luggage with costly contents are abandoned. Sometimes Smith never finds out why.

When sums of money are turned in by maintenance men, three company officials count the cash. Then Smith ships it, fast, to the company's main office in Boston. He wants no part of it.

The worst day in Smith's 13 years as district manager was caused by a duck breeder's association, which released 2,000 ducks on lagoons at the New York World's fair, then announced that any youngster who caught one could keep it. Soon the ASPCA called Smith. He dashed out with a service crew. They removed hundreds of ducks from public lockers and spent hours cleaning house.

The maintenance men sometimes get to know customers without ever seeing them. A surprising number of people keep house in public lockers, says Smith, using them for everything except sleep. Their personal belongings usually are scattered loosely, without benefit of suitcases. Dozens of "businessmen" maintain their offices and storage lofts in lockers.

The permanent tenants pick the best locations, where the company might expect to get several dimes instead of the one with which the steady patron ties up a bin. A mechanical dispossessor discourages them. This is an ingenious device which permits the tenant to open his locker, but prevents him from putting another dime in the slot.

Grand Jury Indicts Carpenter For Slaying Wife With Poison

HAMILTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—J. M. Horsley, 63-year-old Hico carpenter, was held without bond today after a Hamilton county grand jury indicted him in the death of his wife.

Horsley was accused of putting poison in a cup of coffee she drank Nov. 9. She died Nov. 14.

The jury returned its indictment late yesterday afternoon.

POSTMAN'S WORRIES PAY OFF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP) — A postman noticed a car parked along his route. Thinking it might contain a postal inspector, he kept a close eye on it. Later he heard of a robbery in the area. Remembering the car, and its license number, he told police about it. The clue resulted in the arrest of the robber.

Former Sunday School Teacher Keeps Promise To His Pupils

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 26 (U.P.)—Some years ago Ewald Chalberg of Minneapolis said that should any of his Sunday school pupils become foreign missionaries he would visit them in the field, no matter where.

Chalberg kept his word. He has completed a 30,000-mile trip to India and Burma, where he spent 15 months as a physical therapy technician ,teaching and speaking in various locales where his former pupils now are representatives of Christianity.

The Mexican laborers were returning from Missouri when the accident occurred. They were en route to McAllen to be sent back to Mexico.

Rare Fossil Deposit Found In Colombia

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 26. (U.P.)—A 250-square-mile area of desolate Colombia badlands is one of the most important regions of the earth to paleontologists today.

Recent discoveries in the Upper Magdalena Valley of the South American republic have been described as the richest fossile find in the past 20 years. The valley, which 50,000,000 years ago was mostly a big mudflat along a major river, yielded four huge crates of fossils weighing a ton and a half to a University of California expedition.

The specimens, most of which are well preserved, represent 10 orders of mammals.

Dr. Ruebin A. Stirton, University of California professor, said the find is important for several reasons:

1. It supplies the first important fossil record of South American mammals outside Argentina and is in many ways superior to that of the Argentine.

2. The record is prolific and varied, which is unusual in paleontology.

3. It provides the first abundant record of fossil veterbrate animals in the tropical region of South America.

4. These remains, being taken from the migratory doorway to South America, will permit scientist to elucidate much about the age of mammals in the continent.

Second Natural Gas Pipeline To St. Louis Near Completion

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 26. (U.P.)—The $36,000,000 second natural gas pipeline from Monroe, La., to here will be completed next week when the final sections are welded together in a ceremony just north of Fredericktown, Mo.

The second line of the local Mississippi River Fuel Corp. has been in partial operation for some time.

When the second pipeline is completed, the combined capacity of the two lines will be increased from 185,000,000 cubic feet daily, last winter's total, to 266,000,000 feet.

Each line will have a 133,000,000 cubic feet capacity, but the company has pending before the federal Power commission an application to increase the second line by 62,000,000 feet.

The company plans to increase the line's capacity by installing additional pumps at an estimated cost of $3,000,000.

Three Florida Men "Adopt" Baby Whale Born On Beach And Deserted By Mother

ST PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 26 (AP)—A baby whale, beached by fate and abandoned by its mother was swimming forlornly in an unfamiliar tank today.

The calf was born yesterday, high on the sands of St. Petersburg beach.

Its 1,500 pound blackfish mother, a specie of whale, apparently had come into shallow water seeking safety for the birth of her offspring when high winds and receeding tides left her stranded.

Feeding Is Problem

The mother and calf were discovered by three beach residents, John Fierber, Chuck Rethburg, and Bill Bell.

They carried the three foot calf to the gulf, then with the aid of a truck they slowly towed the mother to the sea.

The mother whale regained her strength and swam out to sea. The baby whale kept returning to the beach until its rescuers took charge and put it into a tank.

Now, the problem of feeding the whale is the puzzler.

Highest-Ranking Girl In U. S. Uniform

Assistant Surgeon General First Woman To Hold Post

By MARTHA KEARNEY
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 — Even with a scholarship she couldn't afford to pay her way through nurse's training—but now Lucile Petry is the assistant surgeon general of the United States.

The blue-eyed, trim halfpint is the highest-ranking girl in uniform in the service of the United States. Her rank in the Public Health service corresponds with that of a brigadier general of the army.

At any official or formal gathering she outranks even the chiefs of the women's branches of the armed forces.

Miss Petry has demonstrated a ferocious capacity for hard work and gruelling travel since her appointment five months ago. This comes as a shock to no one who knows her.

She has worked hard all her life—and the results speak for themselves.

Worked Through School

Born in Lewisburg, Ohio, she moved with her family to Selbyville, Del., when she was a small girl. Her father was a high school teacher.

As a girl she went to work in the Selbyville general store to help out with her expenses. Later she worked her way through the University of Delaware and was graduated from there in 1924.

With her bachelor of arts degree, Miss Petry received a welcome scholarship which she planned to use to pay for her nurse's training.

She had to postpone taking advantage of it, however, for lack of funds for living expenses.

Finally, after taking time out to earn enough to see her through her training, she went back to school and was graduated from the Johns Hopkins hospital school of nursing in Baltimore.

After that she won her master's degree at Teacher's college in New York.

First Woman In Post

Subsequently Miss Petry served as assistant director of the University of Minnesota school of nursing and as an instructor both at Johns Hopkins and the Yale university school of nursing.

In 1943 she was named director of the wartime U. S. cadet nurse corps and entered the Public Health service.

Two years later, in 1945, she was appointed nurse director of the regular commissioned corps of the Public Health service — a rank corresponding with that of an army colonel.

Last June she was appointed assistant surgeon general of the United States—the first woman ever to hold that high post.

Just a week or so ago Miss Petry was named to the expert committee of nursing of the World Health organization. She will go to Geneva, Switzerland in February for the committee's first meeting.

Five Feet Tall

Quiet and reticent about herself, Lucile Petry barely measures five feet in height. She has a glowing complexion and shining, prematurely white hair.

Her main ambition now is to persuade gifted girls of high school and college age that nursing is one of the most dignified and worthwhile of all possible careers.

She is also conferring with state officials all over the United States to find out which branches of medicine are hardest hit by the shortage of nurses and which ones will be even harder hit in the future.

Lucile Petry is working just a little harder now than even in the past—because she feels she has an even bigger job to do.

Oxygen Is Used In Hatching Turkeys

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 26 (U.P.)—A heavier diet of oxygen will produce more and stronger turkeys.

That's the apparent result of a series of experiments conducted by a hatchery in the high altitude of Salt Lake City.

W. H. Warner, manager of the Poehlmann hatchery, began experimenting two years ago with supplemental oxygen on batches of turkey eggs. He had noted that eggs hatched in lower levels always produced better birds.

In 1948, Warner maintained an oxygen concentration of 22 per cent in some of the hatchery's incubators. The normal concentration af oxygen at Salt Lake City's altitude is about 19.5 per cent. At sealevel, it's approximately 21.5 per cent.

The slight increase in concentration didn't produce marked results, Warner says.

But when he boosted the supply of pure air to 25.5 per cent, the results were highly favorable. Warner recorded 14 to 15 per cent higher hatches.

Margaret Truman Denies Rumor Of Engagement To News Editor

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP) — Margaret Truman says she wishes the people who start rumors of her engagement would "at least pick someone I know."

The President's daughter told newswomen yesterday that she has "never laid eyes" on Ed Wall, an AFL newspaper editor from Albany, N. Y., who was the rumormongers' chief candidate not long ago.

THEY'RE VERSATILE

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (U.P.)—R. J. Tyler, assistant to the dean of students, estimates that one third of Alabama's 6,000 men students work to help finance their way through college. Tyler said their work ranges from window washing to baby sitting.

Completion Of 190 Oil Wells Last Week Hikes 1949 Total

AUSTIN, Nov. 26. Completion of 190 oil wells boosted the year's total above the 8,000 mark this week, the railroad commission reported today.

The 1949 total to date is 8,012 compared with 7,081 a year ago.

Fifteen gas well completions left this year's figure of 634 still lagging behind that for the comparable period last year, 654.

There were 68 dry holes.

Wildcat drillings resulted in 13 oil wells, one gas well and 35 dry holes.

Seventy-one dry wells, two gassers and 29 oil wells were plugged.

The total average calendar dry crude oil allowable as of today was 2,335,063 barrels, an increase of 9,873 barrels from last Saturday.

HARBOR CITIES CLAIMED ON LIST

Retired General Speculates On Russian Targets In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—Russia's first atomic blow in event of war would be aimed at Boston, New York, Baltimore, Norfolk, Seattle, San Francisco and the Panama canal a retired air force general says.

Next on the list, said Maj. Gen. Hugh J. Knerr, ret., would be Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago.

In an article in the current issue of Nation's Business a magazine published by the U. S. chamber of commerce, Knerr called America's harbor cities perfect atomic targets.

Three atomic bombs, he said would "kill" New York harbor and every ship in it. Less than a score more bombs, he added, would deprive this country of its principal ports for "the initial, perhaps the decisive, phase of the war."

Arthur Godfrey, Now Making $1,000,000 A Year, Admits Fame Has Its Problems

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (INS) — Arthur Godfrey is the highest paid man in radio and television, to the tune of a million dollars annually, but he says he was happier when he was making $75 a week.

Since television brought his carrot-topped phiz into thousands of living rooms and advertising posters spread his likeness across the countryside, he can't walk down the street without being recognized. He is mobbed by admirers everywhere he goes.

Not that Godfrey doesn't like being admired. The trouble, he says is that he can no longer move around freely in public and keep in touch with the common man. And the common touch is essential to his success.

Worker As Waiter

A hitherto unpublished secret is that up until four or five years ago Godfrey would frequently get a job as a waiter in some restaurant, work for an afternoon or evening, and then quit, just to listen to what people talk about. This was when he had an early-morning show in New York and was not yet on a network.

Other days, he would wander around the city where he used to drive a taxi and trucks and down by Brooklyn bridge where he once sold newspapers as a boy.

Since he became rich and famous, he can no longer do it, and it worries him.

"It's difficult," he says, "to keep my finger on the pulse of the kind of life I used to live—where my people are."

Just how much does Godfrey make?

Well, out of approximately $1,000,000 gross income for 1949 he will spend half for expenses. This includes paying a staff of 24 people—writers, producers and secretaries—and a great many other things. For example, it costs him $1,000 per week for broadcast lines between his Virginia farm and CBS studios in New York.

The remaining half million gets a thorough going-over by Uncle Sam's tax collectors. When they get through, Godfrey has about $150,000 left, or roughly $3,000 a week.

Godfrey is paid entirely on a commission basis. As far as he knows, he is the only major star in radio to work this way. He gets 25 per cent of the amount paid by a sponsor to the network for broadcast time. If the time is not sold, he doesn't get a cent.

"I've always worked that way," says Godfrey, "from the time I first started in Washington. They said I couldn't do it in New York, but I did. Then they said I couldn't do it nationally, but I did. It's unorthodox, but it works."

No Figures Given

Although CBS won't give any figures, it's estimated on good authority that Godfrey is responsible for $7,000,000 in time sales annually.

Godfrey is unique in other ways, too. He has no agent, but handles all his business affairs personally. His comment:

"I haven't had an agent since 1937, and I have no intention of getting one. Those guys never come near you when you need them, but once you start making money they start pestering you. I think I can handle my own affairs much better."

Godfrey Kept Busy

He's not going into the movies, either—yet. He hasn't time. But he hopes to later, perhaps when the coaxial cable reaches the west coast and he can do his radio and TV shows form there.

At the moment, he can't figure out how he would have time, even if he were in Hollywood. Broadcasts, telecasts and rehearsals take up Sunday night, all day Monday and Monday night, all day Tuesday and Tuesday night, all day Wednesday and Wednesday night and half of Thursday. Then he flies to his Virginia farm, where he does his Friday broadcast. Saturday and Sunday morning he has to himself ,until he has to fly back to New York for Sunday night rehearsal.

"When I got married," says Godfrey, "I was making $92.50 per month. I was a much happier man."

If he really believes that, he manages to conceal it pretty well when he gets on the air. To the listeners, it appears that Godfrey is having more fun than anybody else in the show.

Study Of Eskimo Language In Alaska Is Being Urged

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 26. (U.P.)—The Smithsonian Institute of Washington and the Arctic Institute of North America have been negotiating with the Danish linguist, Prof. L. L. Hammerich, about a one-man expedition to Alaska to study the Eskimo language.

Prof. Hammerich said Alaska is the best place for studies of this kind, because the Eskimo language is the most primitive of the northern languages. He would probably visit the island of Numivak, southwest of Alaska. He said that as the old primitive Eskimos have become almost extinct and the younger generation is living in close contact with the outer world, it is of great importance to carry out the investigation of the language now.

The Danish museum inspector Helge Larsen also will undertake a one-man expedition to Alaska, to study the life of the last inland Eskimos there.

More Than 7,000 Residences Sold During U. S. Home Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (U.P.) — Builders in 17 metropolitan areas report selling more than 7,000 homes valued at more than $63,000,000 during National Home Week, which was observed from Sept. 11 to 17.

The spot check made by American Builder Magazine also showed the average selling price was about $11,000.

In the metropolitan area of New York, Long Island builders report that 250,000 people inspected the 300 houses on display and bought more than 2,000.

In the Chicago area, 1,200,000 visited the 79 houses opened for the occasion and bought 3,300 homes.

In 15 other cities, builders report selling 1,267 houses valued at more than $13,000,000.

CHILD CUSTODY CASE RAISES RACIAL QUESTION

Five-Year-Old Girl Will Soon Learn Whether She Is To Live As A White Person Or Negro

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 26 (INS) A five-year-old Buffalo girl will learn early in December whether she is to lead the life of a Caucasian or be returned to the custody of her all-white mother and a mulatto father.

The child is pretty and vivacious Mary E. Marshall, now being reared by her maternal grandmother and grandfather.

The grandmother, Mrs. Ella R. Freitus, 52, and her husband, Arthur E. Freitus, 54, a $500 monthly railroad engineer, have had custody of the girl since she was about six months old.

At that time, according to hearings held in New York's supreme court before Justice Alger A. Williams, the child's parents, Mrs. Marguerite A. Marshall, 24, and her husband, Emerson Marshall, 32, gave Mary into the grandparents' custody because of a strained financial condition.

Better Off Financially

Now, however, the mother and father are fighting to regain custody of Mary on the ground they are financially able to support her and rear her as well as the grandparents are doing. The parents also assured Justice Williams that Mary will be reared in the Christian faith if she is returned to them.

Justice Williams, in reserving decision on the matter at the conclusion of a lengthy hearing on a writ of habeas corpus, said that he would have to study the case for sometime "because of the grave social problems it involves."

"This case," the court told the grandfather, "raises the question of whether the child is to be raised as a white or colored child."

Justice Williams asked Freitus if he was prepared to face possible neighborhood dissension in future years if a negro youth came to his home to pay court to Mary.

Studying Case

"I haven't thought that far ahead," the grandfather said. "All I know is that my wife and I want to bring up the child and give her the best in life.

Justice Williams ,one of the best known civil trial lawyers in New York state before assuming the supreme court bench several years ago, has been studying the case for the last four weeks in order to arrive at a decision.

The child's white mother was a cashier in a large credit clothing establishment in Buffalo and her mulatto father is a butcher.

The romance between the couple flourished after she met Marshall in the clothing place where she worked.

Mary, who practically devoid of negro characteristics, proved too much of a financial burden for her parents after her birth and the grandparents took her at the request of the father and mother. Mary still is with the grandparents pending the ruling by Justice Williams.

Family Loves Child

Mrs. Freitus, who was the mother of 10 children, said that five of her offspring are living.

"Are you going to bring up this child and pass her off as a white girl?" Justice Williams asked Mrs. Freitus.

"I am going to bring her up as she is," came the reply. "My husband and all my children love her and are devoted to Mary. I don't think that either of the parents should have custody of her. She's mine; I brought her up. I gave Mary all the love and affection that the parents didn't give her for four and one half years."

During the court hearings, the father told the jurist that his home was in what could be regarded as a negro section.

On the other hand, the grandparents were emphatic that their home was in a "white" neghborhood.

"The neighbors know all about Mary," he said.

The grandfather insisted to the court that Mary was afraid of her father, whose ancestry was described by himself as negro, Irish and Cherokee Indian, and that she ran from him on his approach on numerous occasions.

Marshall, before his Buffalo marriage, was wed in Texas and fathered three children before he obtained a divorce from his first wife.

MORE SHINERS AHEAD

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 26 (U.P.)—When Katherine Nelleson, 10, won second prize in a soap drawing contest, she showed up for the judging with a black eye. She'd picked up the shiner in a football game with neighborhood kids. Her prize—a football.

Air Force Men Say Clipping Of Power Lines Minor Mishap

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP) — Two Air Force pilots described as a "minor accident" the clipping of two 4,000-volt power lines which last night darkened a large section of Washington for two hours.

The pilots, Lt. Col. William H. Campbell, 32, of Chicago, and Maj. Van R. Parker, 33, of Oakland, Ill., said they regretted the inconvenience the mishap caused householders at the supper hour.

Talking with newsmen about their otherwise safe landing of a B-17 plane at Bolling Air Force base, the officers said they believed the line break was caused by the rush of air from the craft's propellers.

The 40-foot utility pole nearest the broken lines was split virtually its entire length and had to be reinforced with bolts before linemen could complete repairs.

Plane Not Marked

The plane was flown here on a non-stop flight from Offut field, Omaha, Nebr. Besides the pilots, it carried Capt. Albert H. Grindstead, jr., 32, of Lincoln, Nebr., navigator; Technical Sgt. John C. Caputo, 31, of Washington, flight engineer; Lt. Col. Harvey Rivkins (hometown unavailable) and First Lt. Donald Matthews, of Tampa, Fla.

The pilots and the navigator said the craft cleared the power lines "by from three to four feet."

"We felt nothing in the plane. The lines were probably blown together and short circuited," said Campbell. He said he saw "a bluish light flash in the sky" at the time.

Campbell and Parker said the plane showed no marks.

Texas Cotton Farmer Operates Combine As Two-Crop Machine

SINTON, Tex., Nov. 26 (U.P.) — Ollie Barrier, cotton farmer says "it's simple," when people ask him how he operates a double-duty combine which serves as a two-crop machine.

Barrier invented the dual-purpose, four-row vehicle to harvest grain in the spring and strip cotton in the fall.

When he wants to harvest cotton he adds stripper teeth and a picker roller to the front of the machine. Barrier estimates the combine stripper can cover an acre of cotton and remove 90 per cent of the bolls from the stalks in 20 minutes.

Without the attachments, the combine serves as an ordinary wheat harvester.

Unusual Chicken Looks Like Rooster And Lays Like Hen

SALEM, Ill., Nov. 26. (U.P.)—Mrs. Ada Van Ness says that her "rooster" lays bigger eggs than any of the hens in her flock.

The chicken prodigy, a cross between a Leghorn and an Austrialope, was sold to Mrs. Van Ness as a hen, but soon showed characteristics of a rooster. It developed spurs on the feet, for example, and herded the flock like a rooster.

In fact, it looks more like a rooster than a hen, Mrs. Van Ness says, but it lays an egg every day to set an example for the others, which average about one every two days.

Revolts Raging In Philippines

MANILA, Nov. 26 (AP) — The Philippines government, already trying to quell a small rebellion south of Manila, was plagued today by outbreaks of Moros and the red-tinged Hukbalahaps or armed peasants.

Delayed reports from Jolo in the southern Philippines said Moro dissidents killed 17 members of the constabulary in a fight Wednesday Another constabularyman was killed and four others were wounded from ambush yesterday when they went to recover the bodies.

Huk raids broke out again just north of Manila. Large concentrations of Huks were reported in the swamps, apparently getting ready for forays on the ripening rice crop, the constabulary said.

It was not known whether these outbreaks had any connection with dissatisfaction with the recent presidential elections, as is said to be the case in the rebellion 60 miles south of Manila.

Peace Plan Proposed

There was little news of the fighting to the south in the Batangas area. Army planes and artillery joined yesterday in the attack on an estimated 600 rebels who are entrenched in the mountains.

Gov. Felipino Leviste of Batangas, a member of the Nacionailsta party which opposed President Elpidio Quirino in the election, arrived in Manila last night with a peace plan.

His plan calls for "a more lenient attitude" by the government, with a truce party to enter the mountain stronghold and order a ceasefire while negotiations are under way.

The government has not yet replied to Leviste. Some are known to oppose the plan because they fear the dissident might escape during negotiatons.

Springfield Motorists Await Retirement Of Eager Officer

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 26 (U.P.)—A lot of Springfield motorists scarcely can wait until next year.

Two years ago Aspall issued 30,000 parking tickets.

Last year he did even better—35,000.

Now he's trying for a new record.

Engineers Creating Free Piston Engine

STANFORD, Calif., Nov. 26. (U.P.) Stanlord University Engineers believe they can create a new type of automobile engine out of a German-developed Junkers "free piston" diesel compressor.

Professor A. L. London, who is directing tests, said the crankless engine would use hot gases to turn a turbine and would run well on low grade oil. He said it could be built in any size from that of an automobile engine up to the size of the largest diesel.

The advantage of the engine over others is that it is light, almost free of vibration, and is inexpensive to build, operate and maintain. It is so smooth in operation that a coin can be balanced on edge along parts of the engine while it is running, London said.

The particular engine tested in the Standord mechanical engineering department was taken from a German submarine and turned over to Stanford for research sponsored by the office of naval research.

London said the design of the engine, which is characterized by extreme mechanical simplicity, makes it suitaole for use either as an air compressor or as an all-purpose prime mover.

FINDINGS TO BE CONFIDENTIAL

Army Of Enumerators To Start Work On 1950 Census In April

By CHARLES HASLET
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—Uncle Sam is going to ask you a lot of questions next April, but what you say will be confidential.

Beginning April 1 an army of 140,000 census enumerators will start calling on people in every city, town and farm community to find out the nation's 1950 population and obtain housing and agricultural information.

The Census bureau already has prepared the basic questions for the 17th 10-year census. Agricultural census forms will be mailed to farmers in most states in advance of the population enumerators, and the completed forms will be picked up when the enumerators come around.

Hundreds of high speed tabulation machines will sum up the millions of facts collected by the census field forces.

School Information

Basic population questions which will be asked each person include name, relation to head of household, race, sex, age, marital status, state or country of birth, citizenship status, and employment status the preceding week of every person over 14 years old, and the occupation, industry and class of worker.

Every fifth person the government will ask what state and county he lived in a year earlier and whether he lived on a farm. It will ask country of birth of father and mother, highest grade of school attended and school attendance.

Every fifth person 14 or over will be asked the duration of employment and number of weeks worked in 1949, income received in 1949 from various sources, income received by relatives in the same household and whether men are war veterans.

Queries On Dwelling

Every 30th person 14 or over Uncle Sam will ask occupation, industry and class of work of pesons who worked the previous year but were not working or looking for work the previous week. It will also ask whether he was ever married or married more than once, years in present marital status and number of children born.

For every dwelling unit the enumerators will ask type of structure, condition, number of persons in unit, number of rooms, water supply, toilet facilities, bathing equipment and whether it is occupied by owner or tenant. They will note if the house or apartment is vacant.

Value of non-farm owner - occupied units will be asked, number of dwelling units in the property and whether mortagaged. Non-farm renters will be asked their monthly rent, any amount paid in addition for electricity, fuel and water and whether the rented unit is furnished.

Questions To Farmers

For every fifth dwelling unit the enumerators will get information on the year it was built, heating equipment, heating fuel, cooking fuel, refrigeration equipment, kitchen sink and whether there is electric lighting, radio and television set.

The basic questions to be answered by farmers will include name, address, race, age, acres in farm, acres owned, acres rented by farmer, acres rented to others, name and address of landloads and acres operated by hired managers.

Farmers also will be asked the number of acres irrigated, when the farmer began to operate the farm, number of days worked off the farm, whether farmer has other income, value of sale from nursery and greenhouse products, production and sales of each field vegetable and berry crop, receipts from grazing privileges, number of fruit and nut trees and income from sales of fruit and nuts.

Economic Factors

Farmers will be asked the value of forest products cut or obtained, number of livestock and poultry, number and value of livestock sold, production and value of wool, number of cows and milk produced, number of sows and gilts farrowing . . .

Number of livestock butchered on farm, quantity sold and amounts received from milk, eggs and poultry, whether bees are kept and honey produced, whether the farm has electricity, telephone and running water, type of farm equipment, number of persons employed, farm expenditures . . .

Distance to trading center, kind of road on which farm is located, value of farm, mortgage on farm and amount of real estate and personal property tax paid by farmer

Byrnes' Attacks On Federal Spending Assailed By Pepper

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP) — Senator Pepper (D-Fla) lashed out at former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes yesterday, charging he is trying to take the south back to the "magnolia days" of the Civil war period.

Those days, Pepper told newsmen after a White House visit, were "wonderful for the guys who owned plantations," but not so wonderful for other people.

Byrnes Is Assailed

Pepper, who frequently differs with his southern colleagues in the Senate, aimed his criticism of Byrnes at remarks the former government official and senator has made about administration spending programs. Byrnes, like many Republicans, has said these programs would make the nation a "welfare state."

"Byrnes wants to be the great shining knight leading the people back to the glorious past," Pepper said. "I don't know if he wants to go as far back as the golden age of Pericles or just the magnolia days of the south.

"Big Government" Favored

"He always had some reservations about the new deal when he was in the Senate.

"The south is going forward. It is progressing politically. So-called southern statesmen who believe they are going to lead the people back to the glorious dead days of the past are thinking like wrongway Corrigan—they've lost their sense of direction."

Pepper said Byrnes is more afraid of big government than big business, adding that if it comes to a choice "I'm for big government because we can vote out a big government."

Odd Fellows At Brownfield To Attend Seagraves Open House

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 26 — A number of Brownfield Odd Fellows will attend open house at 8 p. m. Dec. 2 in the new Seagraves I. O. O. F. lodge hall.

Grand Lodge officers will be present from both Texas and New Mexico, and the program will include entertainment and a banquet.

The Seagraves lodge's committee handling arrangements for the open house is composed of Clyde Raynes, Pat Garrett and T. G Thomason.

JIM FOLSOM STOPS KISSIN' ANTICS

Alabama Governor Is Learning Lessons Of Political Office

By THOMAS J. FOLEY
INS Staff Correspondent

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 26—Kissin' Jim Folsom, Alabama's contribution to the art of "grass roots politics, is stumping the state again—but without benefit of music, mops and kissing. What's more, he's wearing shoes.

The six-foot, eight-inch behemoth, whose ability to get into the headlines is exceeded only by his political energy, is, to use his own words, "taking the government to the people."

It consists of taking his cabinet officers to a different part of the state for their regular Monday meetings.

Although he can't succeed himself in office, the Cullman insurance man is insuring himself a say in the election next year—whether it is to get his supporters in the legislature, as most people think, or actually to elect a slate to the state offices.

Demands Ignored

Whatever the reason, there is less and less doubt that the colorful Folsom will run again in 1954.

Two months ago, you couldn't have gotten a plug nickel for his chances of success, either next year or in '52.

A hostile, economy-minded legislature—mostly States' Righters had just spent a hot summer ignoring the governor's huge program for mail box roads, old age pensions, teacher salary hikes and a new constitution.

Most of his one-time supporters figured his backing in the future would mean "the kiss of death."

But today the tune is different. His opponents — generally big business and newspapers—aren't laughing but are back to condemning him. This is nothing new, as Folsom openly boasted he'd be elected in spite of "them lyin' newspapers" and the "Wall street boys."

The magazine, Alabama, published in Birmingham, calls the meetings "simply another gusty barnstorming junket for the political benefit of Jim Folsom—with the taxpayers again paying the freight."

The Alabama Journal recently referred to Folsom as a "galling millstone" to his supporters. It also has strongly criticized the out-state meetings.

Two high-ranking state employes, both driving forces in the anti-States' rights wing in Alabama, told International News service they thought Folsom could win again without trouble in 1954 if for no other reason than his stumping ability. They asked that their names not be used because of their positions with the state.

On the current junkets, Folsom has left his old arry of showy antics at home. There's no kissing of women and babies, no five-piece band, no mop and pail "to clean up your government." No longer does he have his picture taken with his shoes off. No longer does he drop into the corner restaurant for a bottle of beer with whoever might be there.

These mistakes are in the past. Alabama figures Folsom has learned enough by them not to make them again. And the political leaders fear what he can do when he goes to the people.

House Minority Leader Martin Says Tax Hike To Be Refused

HOUSTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—House minority leader Joseph W. Martin, jr., (R.-Mass) says Congress will make no tax increase next year.

"There will be no increase in taxation," he said yesterday. "Any increase in taxation would cause a lot of people to go out of business. We just can't have it.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) a week ago told Houston reporters that Congress next year will reinstate some $4,500,000,000 in taxes which the Republican eightieth congress slashed from the country's tax bill.

Martin, who said any tax increase would cripple the nation's economy, predicted the Republicans will gain control of Congress again next year.

He is in Texas on a week's visit.

Prizes Announced In Terry County Essay And Poster Contests

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 26—Prizes for the essay and poster contests being sponsored in Terry county schools by the Terry County Tuberculosis association have been announced by Ruth Huckabee, executive secretary.

In the two essay contests, first place prizes of $10 each will be awarded winners in the county's four high schools. A grand prize of $25 will be awarded the writer of the best essay submitted in the entire group.

In the poster contest, first place prizes of $5 will be awarded winners in the four schools, and medals will be given winners of other places.

Association To Judge

One of the essay contests is for students of the four high school classes in each school and is on the subject, "The High School's Part in Tuberculosis Control." The other essay contest is for students of the seventh and eighth grades on the subject, "How We Can Prevent Tuberculosis."

The poster contest is for fifth and sixth grade pupils. The posters are to be made on subjects pertaining to tuberculosis prevention and control.

Except for the grand prize of $25, students in each of the county's four schools will compete only among themselves and not with students of the other schools, it was explained.

Contest judges will be members of the Terry County Tuberculosis association.

Man Charged With Slaying At Borger Free On $2,500 Bond

BORGER, Nov. 26. (AP)—O. F. Swaffar, 48, was free on $2,500 bond, today after he was charged with murder in the fatal Thanksgiving day shooting of Frank S. Bullard, 32.

Bullard, Borger truck driver, was shot and killed as he sat in his home.

District Attorney Bob Gallaway said Swaffar declined to make a formal statement. Swaffar told officers the shooting was the result of about three years of "family trouble."

Clay Resigns New Position

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Nov. 26 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay has resigned as president of the Ecusta Paper corporation mere weeks after taking over the post.

Clay announced his resignation here yesterday, effective as soon as a successor can be named. He said he had no immediate plans and declined to specify his reasons for resigning.

Asked by reporters if it was because of an announced tie-up between his company and a munitions-making firm, Clay said that he would not deny it.

Olin Industries, Inc., of Alton, Ill., manufacturer of munitions, firearms and other products, disclosed yesterday that it was going into the cellophane making business at the Ecusta plant near Brevard, N. C.

Speculations Made

There was some speculation here that the transaction between Ecusta and Olin industries precipitated, at least in part, Clay's resignation. During the war Clay was connected with army procurement of munitions.

Clay, who retired from the army some months ago after serving as commander of U. S. forces in Germany, took over the Ecusta presidency Oct. 1.

The speculation here was that Clay did not want to be identified, even remotely, with a munitions making firm in view of his wartime job.

There was no immediate clarification yesterday on the transaction between Olin industries and Ecusta, other than that Olin had acquired existing facilities of Ecusta "necessary" to get into the cellophane industry.

Ecusta manufactures a high quality paper used mainly in cigaret manufacture. Its process is similar to that used in the production of cellophane. An Ecusta spokesman said his company would continue to produce paper while Olin industries will handle the production of cellophane.

BIDS TO BE ASKED

STERLING CITY, Nov. 26 (AP)—Bids for construction of a $150,000 15-bed hospital are expected to be asked within a month.

TUNES PLAYED FROM A PRISON

Music Rehabilitating Felons In Oklahoma's Penitentiary

By WILLIAM PEART
Associated Press Staff Writer

McALESTER, Okla., Nov. 26—Folks who like their music to come from fiddles and guitars get an hour of good listening on a Sunday night radio program here.

The show—station KTMC officials say it's their most popular—features western tunes from a ten-man band crew aptly named "The Outlaws."

"Prisoners On Parade" is unusual for one big reason. The show is written, produced and directed by an all-prisoner staff and it comes by remote control from within the high, white walls of the Oklahoma state penitentiary. O. E. Kepplinger, civilian supervisor, is the only person connected with the program who isn't a prisoner of the state.

"These men," says Warden Clarence P. Burford, "are being rehabilitated through their music."

MC Murderer

Take Jim Easley, the 31-year-old master of ceremonies. He's serving a life term imposed when he was convicted of murdering his wife in Tulsa eight years ago.

The state pardon and parole board is considering his case this month. Easley plans his own band if he's released.

And there's Harry "Cicero" Clark, who was born in Memphis 37 years ago. Harry—the salty fiddler, he's called—will complete his three-year sentence for second degree robbery next year. Then he hopes to become a musical supply and record dealer.

Jimmie Hamm, born in Nashville and reared in Houston, is just 22 and was only three when he started playing a violin. But in July he started playing with forgery. Oklahoma law put him away until next year.

Learned In Prison

Ralph Guist, born in Lady Smith, Wis., is a four-instrument man—fiddle, electric mandolin, banjo and guitar. He was with several bands until he arrived in Oklahoma in 1944. A year later, a car theft conviction netted him 15 years.

Most of others have similar band employment backgrounds—but not all of them. There's 30-year-old Eddie Pruitt of Ardmore, Okla., who learned to use his instrument—the steel guitar—since he was admitted last year for forgery.

The guitar came from his stepfather, who plans a musical career for Pruitt when he's released in 1951.

The germ for the program came from four members of the original band back in June 1947. KTMC approved the audition.

Response Good

Leslie Cameron, another life termer, directed construction of the studio. Prison help was on the blister-producing end of hammers and saws.

"During the first year of broadcasting," KTMC Manager J. Stanley O'Neil says, "several different musical aggregations were presented—like the military band, the negro male quartet, and the negro orchestra.

"But," he adds, "the tremendous volume of mail from the "The Outlaws" soon convinced us that Oklahoma is typically western. Then we knew the people of Oklahoma wanted good down to earth western music."

During last year's "March of Dimes" campaign the band played for a nearby dance which counted $450 in profits. "The Outlaws" are considerably proud of that.

Once they did some tunes for Gov. Roy J. Turner. And Turner, who's composed several western songs himself, let down his gubernatorial hair and did the vocals.

Easley, as master of ceremonies, closes each program with his "thought for the day."

"Every day is a little life—and our whole life is but a day repeated."

Name Selected For Expected Child Of Actress Hayworth

LASUANNE, Nov. 26. (INS)—Rita Hayworth's brother-in-law said tonight that when the stork arrives he will bring either a Princess "Jasmin" (Jasmine) or a Prince "Alaudin" (Aladdin.)

Sadri Khan told this correspondent in Lausanne, where the screen star is awaiting the birth of a child, that "I can hardly wait to be an uncle."

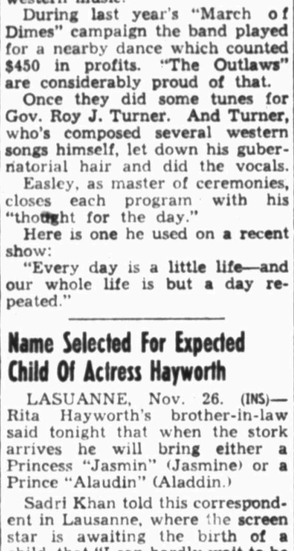

Sadri gave no hint on just when the baby is expected. Reports have varied from December to February.

Sadri, a half-brother of Rita's husband, Aly Khan, and son of the multi-millionaire Moslem spiritual leader Aga Khan by his second wife, said:

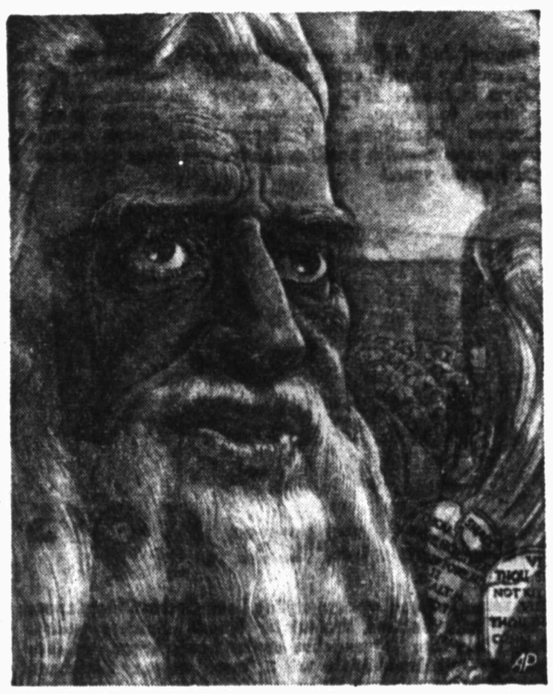

"Aga Khan already has chosen the names for his grandchild.

"If a girl she is to be called Jasmin. If a boy he will be named Aludin, which is Arabic for Aladdin of magic lantern fame.

"Aga is very proud that he found names with a happy connotation in both the Arabic and European languages. Jasmin is an Arabic word that passed into the European tongues.

KILLINGS NOT ISOLATED CASES

Recent Sex Murders Stress Growing Problem In Society

Three little girls, the youngest 17 months, have died at the hands of sex-crazed killers in the past two weeks. Suspects have been arrested in all three cases — but society cannot ease the anguish of bereaved parents nor give back lives. The three cases were not isolated examples of depravity but a smal lpart of a growing problem for which no solution has been found. A survey in a single state may give some indication of the alarming potential.

BY JAMES A. CALDWELL
INS Staff Correspondent

DENVER, Nov. 26 — Day by day, a parade of sex offenders passed through the nation's courts, and the parade is growing steadily larger.

Capt. Norman Miller, of the Colorado Child and Animal Protection bureau, cited the increase in this state alone. He said records of his office show the number of sex offenses reported has climbed 33 per cent in the past two years.

Authorities decline to make an estimate, but admit that literally "hundreds" of other cases are never reported.

Miller noted that there has been a particular increase in the past six months in cases involving female children—girls as young as six.

Hard To Convict

In comparatively rare instances, sex crimes are forcibly brought to public attention. This happened in Fresno, Calif., a week ago when 17-month-old Josephine Yanez was raped and killed; in Burley, Ida., where Joyce Brisbois, 7, was attacked and left dying in a ditch, and in Los Angeles, where Linda Joyce Glucoft, 6, was brutally slain.

Newspapers are sometimes accused of "sensationalism." The fact is that any metropolitan paper could fill its pages with stories of sex crimes — stories usually left out entirely or hidden away in condensed form.

Some of the offenses are so outrageous that even hardened investigators are sickened. A member of District Attorney Bert Keating's staff in Denver pointed out:

"We have great difficulty in securing a conviction where charges of various sexual violations are involved. The reason — the people on the jury just don't believe such things really happen.

Witnesses May Not Appear

Capt. Vern McCoy of the police morals bureau in Denver said it is often difficult even to bring charges. "When offenses are reported, parents won't sign a complaint. Witnesses often refuse to appear."

Joseph Bray, 52, of 3411 Blake St., was jailed Thursday night for molesting four girls, all under eight in a movie theater.

Bray resisted arrest and was committed for psychiatric observation. He can be sent to a state hospital, but only if found "legally insane." Otherwise, he faces a fine, and possibly a short jail sentence.

There are no special characteristics to mark a sex offender. One man recently convicted in Denver, now free on bond pending an appeal, is a reputable family man with no previous record.

In Colorado Springs, police are holding John Hale, 27, on an open charge. Hale, an ex-convict, who was arrested as long as ten years ago for "indecent conduct," has a lengthy police record.

Little Progress Made

This time he is accused of molesting three girls — all 14 or younger. He allegedly attempted to lure them into his automobile.

He said he would "leave town forever if released," and may draw a fine and a short jail sentence. If he had touched one of the girls, or had succeeded in enticing one into his car, the penalty would be more severe.

A psychiatrist at Denver general hospital, where Bray was sent, said: "Ordinarily, we don't get these people (such as Bray). Most of them are not legally insane.

"Psychiatry has made little progress in curing sexually abnormal persons. They are mentally sick, but there appears to be little we can do, we just don't have the facilities. . . ."

Denver police said they process an average of three cases a week of "indecent exposure," a misdemeanor punishable only by a fine.

Said one morals bureau officer: "Of course these people aren't normal, but what can we do?"

He added: "If we do get a conviction, the offender is sent to prison. And Roy Best (the Colorado penitentiary warden) doesn't want 'em down there.

"Jail is no cure."

Brownfield Sets Up Concert Association

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 26 — The Brownfield Concert association, whose purpose is to bring a series of artists under direction of the Lucius Pryor Concert service here at intervals during 1950, was organized at a meeting in the studios of radio station KTFY.

The program was explained by a representative of the concert service, who said that the group is now staging concerts in Perryton, Pampa, Hereford, Littlefield and Levelland.

Crawford Taylor was elected president of the local concert association. Other officers, elected at the meeting here, are Richard Young, vice president; R. C. Norris, treasurer, and Mrs. Bob Tobey, secretary.

The board of directors, which has set Jan. 9 as its first meeting date, is composed of Mrs. R. C. Norris, Mrs. Grady Goodpasture, Mrs. C. E. Lackey, Mrs. N. L. Mason, Mrs. John H. Portwood, Mrs. Sam Privitt, Mrs. John F. Luckie, Mrs. Grace Wood, Mrs. Richard Young, Mrs. Roy Herod, Mrs. L. M. Wingerd, Mrs. Jack Ruark, Mrs. Wayne C. Hill, Mrs. Dusty Rhodes, Mrs. Mark Allen of Seagraves, Mrs. Mae Dallas, Mrs. Jimmie Moore, Ruth Huckabee, Russell Nelson, Jack Shirley, Alton O. Webb, Dr. W. A. Roberson, William W. Glick.

Prisoner In Canada Hits Guard With Pie To Make Brief Escape

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 26. (U.P.)—Edwin Tancowny, 19-year-old prisoner, hurled a lemon pie in the face of a guard in best slapstick comedy fashion yesterday in an attempt to escape from a patrol wagon which was taking him to Oakalla prison.

Tancowny gained freedom for a few minutes by grabbing the pie from a passing bakery truck and pasting a surprised guard with it, but he was recaptured shortly after.

Bill Robinson Is Death Victim

By JOHN RANDOLPH
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Bojangles danced his way upstairs again last night . . . for the last time.

Death came to America's great tap dancer—the smiling negro with the twinkling feet—while he slept under an oxygen tent with a failing heart.

Once before, when asleep, Bill Robinson had dreamed his famous upstairs-tap routine—and woke to make a fortune with it.

"I was being made a lord by the King of England," he explained, "and he was standing at the head of a flight of stairs. Rather than walk, I danced up to get it."

Started As Stable Boy

Robinson, 71, had been a public entertainer from the age of eight. He carried his nickname, "Bojangles," for almost 40 years. It meant happy-go-lucky.

He began as a little stable boy dancing for pennies in Washington beer halls, reached the top of his world on Broadway and in Hollywood, and made anywhere from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000.

But he was almost broke when he went to the hospital two weeks ago, and his friends were arranging a benefit when he died.

Robinson never really retired. He kept on dancing until his eyes failed him three months ago and he could no longer see the steps of the old routine. He kept in top-notch training until the end. To celebrate his 60th birthday, he danced 60 blocks down Broadway.

Relatives Are Present

With him when he died was his second wife, Elaine. Also present were his sister, Mrs. Dorothy Smalls, and Marty Forkins, his manager since the early 1900s.

Although he made up to $2,000 a week in show business and $6,000 a week in the movies, cash never stayed with him very long. He gave lavishly to charity—both in money and benefit performances—and he liked to gamble. He was also a crackerjack pool player.

Probably his most famous movie appearance was in "The Little Colonel" in 1933 with Shirley Temple—who called him "Uncle Bill" from then on.

Robinson will lie in state in the Abyssinian church from 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Services will be at noon Monday, with burial in the actor's section of the evergreen cemetery in Brooklyn.

Former Ballinger Man Faces New Trial In Death Of Wife

SAN ANGELO, Nov. 26. (AP)—T. Clifton Clary, 50, goes on trial Feb. 27 in Colorado City for a second time on a charge of murder in the death of his wife.

The former Ballinger ranch worker was sentenced to 99 years in his first trial in Ballinger in June, 1948. His wife's body was found in the ruins of their burned home in January of that year.

The case was transferred to Colorado City from Ballinger by Judge O. L. Parrish of Ballinger.

WAR'S OVER FOR ROOMERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP) — The District of Columbia Zoning commission has decided the war is over. It has rescinded a wartime order permitting homeowners outside designated rooming house areas to take in more than two roomers to help relieve the housing pinch.

First Aid Course To Be Offered Dec. 5-9

A first-aid instructor course will be offered Dec. 5-9 by Robert H. Lucey, field representative of the American Red Cross first aid, accident prevention and water safety service, Lubbock county chapter of the Red Cross announced.

The course will be offered at 7 p. m. nightly at Rix Funeral home.

It will be open to all persons who have completed standard and advanced first aid courses and wish training as first aid instructors. Thirty-six senior physical education students at Texas Technological college plan to attend.

Lucey assists in promotion and expansion of first aid, accident prevention and water safety services in the Panhandle and South Plains, visiting Red Cross chapters in advisory capacity and as an instructor.

YOUTH IS CHARGED

DALLAS, Nov. 26 (AP)—Burglary charges have been filed against Tommy Eugene Pace, 21, accused of breaking into a safe at the Central Christian church and taking $9 in children's Sunday School contributions.

Jesse Jones Interests Plan For New Building In Houston

HOUSTON, Nov. 26 (U.P.)—A new office building will be erected here next year by the Jesse H. Jones interests, it was revealed today.

Plans for the structure were made known in a letter to the city council by the National Bank of Commerce, asking for a readjustment of property lines.

Left as question marks were the height and the estimated construction date of the building. It was presumed the structure would be in keeping with adjacent buildings—10 or 12 stories.

Drilling Continues At Dawson Wildcat

Reagan J. Carraway of Dallas No. 1 T. A. Loe, wildcat seven miles northwest of Lamesa in Northwest Dawson county, which has shown for commercial production, was making further hole below 8,105 feet in shale. The show was in the Spraberry sand, the pay in the Spraberry field of southeast Dawson county.

No. 1 Loe is 660 feet from north and west lines of labor 12, league 3, Taylor county school land survey. It is to drill to around 10,500 feet to test the Pennsylvanian lime.

Well Plugged Back

Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 1 Mart Barrow, wildcat three and one-half miles northeast of Lamesa, took a drillstem test in the San Andres above the total plugged back depth of 4,500 feet. The venture logged no signs of oil or gas, but operator bailed out water with a sulphur odor.

The wildcat was drilled to the Ellenburger, but failed to find any indications in that horizon.

Possibilities of the development making a commercial oil well are very slight.

It is 1,980 feet from east and 660 feet from south lines of section 8, block 15, T-6-N, TP survey. It is 11 miles northwest of the Spraberry field.

Drilling In Sand

In the Spraberry field, Seaboard No. 8-D-A Robinson, was drilling at 6,572 feet in lime and sand and was making more hole.

This venture is 660 feet from north and 1,747.5 feet from west lines of section 37, block 34, T-5-S, TP survey. It is an east offset to the field.

Seaboard No. 9-D-A Robinson, 1,980 feet from south and 1,748.2 feet from west lines of section 37, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey, was running 7 5/8 inch casing at 3,335 feet.

As soon as the plug is cured, operator will drill out the cement and continue to the exploration to around 7,000 feet to the Spraberry sand.

Drillstem Test Run

Another Spraberry exploration, Seaboard No. 3-D C. W. Shafter, had reached 4,301 feet in lime and was boring ahead toward its proposed depth of 7,000 feet to test the Spraberry sand.

The drillsite of the operation is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 48, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

A south offset to the discovery well in the Spraberry field, Seaboard No. 3-O S. E. Lee, took a drillstem test in the Spraberry sand from 6,685-6,715 feet. The tester was open two hours.

Recovery was 617 feet of pipe line oil and 59 feet of drilling fluid.

Deepening is planned.

No. 3-D Lee is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 47, block 34, T-5-N, TP survey.

First Texas Farm Home Loan Goes To Couple Near Bonham

BONHAM, Nov. 26. (AP)—A 41-year-old farmer at Windom, near Bonham, today rectived the first Texas farm home loan.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn handed a $5,000 check to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Winchester. The couple will use the money from the Farmers Home administration to modernize the home and barn on their 60-acre farm.

Soil conservation is America's greatest domestic problem, Rayburn told the 200 persons gathered for the ceremony. He warned that continued wasteful use of the soil will leave farmers looking for fertile land instead of a market for surplus.

"A high degree of prosperity is necessary for the American farmer," he said, "if the government is to meet its obligations. If the farmer is without purchasing power, all business suffers."

Prospector In Terry Deepened

Deepening was in progress at a Terry county prospector. The venture, Tide Water Associated Oil company No. 1 Nystel, was drilling below 11,381 feet in lime and chert.

The exploration is contracted to drill to 12,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

N. 1 Nystel is four miles east of the shallow Adair field and 14 miles south of Brownfield. The drillsite is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 9, block C-38, psl survey.

Well Is Deepened

Another wildcat in Terry county, Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 Brownfield, located 660 feet from south and east lines of section 26, block 1-A EL&RR survey, had progressed below 7,745 feet in lime and sand and was boring deeper.

The venture is to drill to at least 10,000 feet to explore the Pennsylvanian.

The operation is ten miles southeast of Brownfield.

Location For Wildcat In Gaines County Staked By Texas Company

In Gaines county the Texas company has staked location for a 6,000-foot wildcat to test the Glorieta.

It is to be Texaco's No 1 J. Tetens, and will be 660 feet from north and east lines of section 16, block A-22, psl survey. That makes it one mile west of the company's No. 1 Harris, discovery from the Glorieta.

A possible discovery from a deep lime in Southeast Gaines county, Forest Oil corporation and Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation No. 1-A Parmer, was trying to regain circulation to drill ahead. It was bottomed at 12,206 feet.

Project Is Delayed

After getting shows of production in a drillstem test at 12,045-156 feet, the project lost circulation and has been delayed.

In efforts to seal off cavities, operators set plugs at 11,916-12,-016 and from 7,900-8,000 feet. The plug from 7,900-8,000 feet was drilled out, but the project lost circulation again. Operators may run a string of pipe to the present bottom in order to seal off the cavities so deepening can continue.

The possible new field opener is 860 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of labor 12, league 317, Parmer county school land survey. It is 15 miles southeast of Seminole. It is projected to 15,000 feet.

Another Gaines county prospect, Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation No. 1 Nichols, in the central-west part of the county, was bottomed at 7,515 feet in lower Permian lime where 7-inch casing had been set at 6,570 feet.

As soon as the plug is cured, production tests are expected to begin. The tests will cover the section from 6,570-7,510 feet.

Acid Treatment Slated

This exploration is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block A-10, psl survey. It is 23 miles west of Seminole.

A prospective Ellenburger discovery in Central-South Gaines county, Samedan Oil corporation and Anderson Brothers No. 1-E-A Andrews, was preparing to treat perforations at 11,900-960 feet with 8,000 gallons of acid.

Operators treated those perforations with 1,500 gallons of acid and the project swabbed at the rate of seven and one-half barrels of oil per hour. After the swabbing the project was shutin for 24 hours to pressure up and re-treat. So far no formation water has been reported.

The development is 660 feet from north and west lines of the northwest quarter of section 19, block A-24, psl survey.

Well Plugged Back

A slated deep wildcat in the North Riley field of West Central Gaines county, The Los Nietos company No. 2-B Doss, has been plugged back to 7,200 feet in the Clear Fork and will set casing to test.

Operator will run the casing and test the Clear Fork through perforations.

The venture drilled to the Devonian, but that formation made only water.

It is 660 feet from west and 760 feet from south lines of the southeast quarter of section 360, block G, CCSD&RGNG survey.

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Wolfe, outpost to the Flanagan Clear Fork field of Central-South Gaines county, had set 7-inch casing on bottom at 7,493 feet and was waiting on cement to cure.

As soon as the cement plug cures, operator will drill out the cement and begin production tests.

No. 1 Wolf is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 7, block A-23, psl survey.

Oil Is Swabbed

Another Flanagan field outpost, Magnolina No. 1 Williamson, 660 feet from north and west lines of the south 480 acres in section 12, block A-23, psl survey, was swabbing to clean out and test.

In the last 19 hours of testing, operator swabbed 44 barrels of oil and five and one-half barrels of acid water. The total depth is at 7,113 feet. A packer was set at 6,994 feet.

Amerada Petroleum corporation No. 1 W. M. Breckon, contracted 6,500-foot wildcat in Southwest Gaines county, five miles east of Jal, N. M., had reached 2,720 feet in anhydrite and salt and was making more hole.

No. 1 Breckon is 467 feet from south and 1,113 feet from east lines of section 25, block A-9, psl survey. The venture may be carried on down to at least 7,500 feet.

Lynn County Wildcat To Test San Andres

H. E. Chiles, jr., of Midland and E. C. Lawson of Tulsa, Okla., was making new hole at their No. 1 McPherson, wildcat in Lynn county three miles north of New Moore.

It had reached 4,150 feet in anhydrite and shale and was boring ahead toward its proposed depth Andres.

Location is 520 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of the northwest quarter of section 14, block 0, H&OB survey.

Honolulu Oil Company Making New Hole At Well In Yoakum

Honolulu Oil corporation No. 1 Paul Cobb, indicated discovery from the Glorieta-Permian in East Yoakum county, was making new hole. The venture was drilling below 6,934 feet in lime toward its contracted depth of 8,000 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 381, block D, John H, Gibson survey, and 12 miles east of Plains.

The show for production came in a drillstem test from 6,031-144 feet. Recovery was 800 feet oil oil and gas-cut drilling mud and 2,050 feet of clean oil.

California Artist Is Fined For Biting Woman At Party

SAUSALITO, Calif., Nov. 26. (AP)—Artist Rodney J. Roth was jailed today for biting the back of pretty Mrs. Valerie Humphries at a fancy dress Hallowe'en party.

"She seemed ecstatic about it," the artist argued in his own defense in justice court. But the 32-year-old housewife interrupted:

"I was screaming in pain."

"I thought you were screaming with joy," Roth murmured.

"The marks stayed there for 10 days and it was terrible," insisted Mrs. Humphries, who had complained in person and showed Justice Walter Derr. "I couldn't go horseback riding and I was too uncomfortable for job hunting, even."

Justice Derr fined Roth $50. The artist elected to serve 30 days in lieu of paying it.

Brownfield VFW Post Sponsors Drive To Secure Wheel Chairs

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 26—Hand Bros. Post 6794 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has a campaign under way to obtain three wheel chairs for use at no charge by Terry county residents needing them.

Two years ago the local VFW post sponsored a successful drive to obtain three hospital beds, which have been in constant use.

James H. Dallas is commander of the local VFW post.

Oil, Gas Shown In Cochran Test

Some possibilities of production from the Mississippian lime have been indicated at Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company No. 5-F Landon, stepout from wells which are producing from the Devonian in the Landon-Deep field of central-south Cochran county.

Up to now there is no production from the Mississippian in the Landon area.

This project is located 1,650 feet from north and 1,579 feet from west lines of section 13, block L, psl survey.

Oil Signs Reported

Despite the fact that it is 335 feet low on the top of the Mississippian to the nearest explorations which have drilled into that formation, it has had some signs of oil and gas,, while the higher projects did not.

Texas Pacific No. 5-F Landon ran a four-hour drillstem test in the top of the Mississippian at 10,-450-518 feet. Gas s howed at the surface in two hours and 25 minutes. The gas volume was too small to measure.

Recovery was 570 feet of heavily gas and slightly oil cut drilling fluid. There were no signs of formation water. Operator drilled ahead to 10,570 feet and encountered a soft section in the limestone rock.

A core was started at that point.

It is expected that if more signs of oil and gas are shown in the cores that another drillstem test will be undertaken.

Location For Central-East Motley Wildcat Is Revealed

Location for a wildcat in Central-East Motley county was reported during the past seven days.

The Motley prospector is to be Humble Oil & Refining company No. 2-H Matador Land & Cattle company. It is contracted to drill to 9,000 feet to find and explore the Ellenburger.

The drillsite will be 558 feet from south and 830 feet from east lines of section 131, block M, Matador Land & Cattle Company survey. That makes it 16 miles east of Matador. Drilling is to begin in the near future.

Borden Wildcat Is Below 7,142 Feet

Don Ameche of Hollywood, Calif., No. 1 Clayton & Johnson, West-Central Borden county wildcat to test the Ellenburger, was drilling below 7,142 feet in lime and shale.

Projected depth of the venture is 10,500 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 30, block 31, T-5-N, TP survey. It is five miles west of Gail.

Drilling In Lime

In Southeast Borden county, Amerada No. 1 Von Roeder, Canyon lime exploration eight miles southwest of the nearest production from the Pennsylvania in the Sharon Ridge field of Southwest Scurry county, was drilling below 6,365 feet in lime and shale.

It is at the center of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 103, block 25, H &TC survey.

Six miles northeast of the Good Canyon field in Southwest Borden county, Seaboard Oil company of Delaware No. 1-A Jerry Clayton, had reached 1,805 feet in lime and shale and was making more hole.

It is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 14, block 32, T-4-N, TP survey, and is to drill to around 8,000 feet.

Production in the Good field is from 7,900-8,000 feet.

In Central - Northeast Borden county, another Ellenburger wildcat was being drilled deeper.

This prospector, N. G. Penrose, Inc., No. 1 Matthew Baird estate, was making new hole below 3,820 feet in shale.

To Test Ellenburger

No. 1 Baird is slated to drill to at least 8,750 feet to try to find and test the Ellenburger. Drillsite is nine and one-half miles northeast of Gail, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 37, block 30, T-6-N, John H. Gibson survey.

A one and three-quarter mile outpost to the Good field of Southwest Borden county, Nelson Bunker Hunt No. 1 Jerry Clayton, 660 feet from north lines of the east half of section 42, block 32, T-4-N, TP survey, was drilling new hole below 7,781 feet. It is projected to 8,500 feet. The development is 10 miles southwest of Gail.

MORE HOLE MADE

Drilling & Exploration company, Inc., No. 1 Wilson Connell, Canyon lime wildcat in Southwest Kent county, had progressed to 3,835 feet in lime and was making more hole. It is to drill to at least 7,-200 feet. Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 19, block 5, H&GN survey. That puts it two miles southwest of Polar.

Southwest Dickens Test Is Drilling Below 6,932 Feet

Union Oil company of California No. 1 Elliott, Southwest Dickens county wildcat five and one-half miles southwest of Spur, was drilling lime and sand below 6,-923 feet on its way to a contracted depth of 8,500 feet to test the Ellenburger.

BRAZILIAN TOWN LIKE GOLD RUSH COMMUNITY

Competing Demands For Coffee Cause Boom In Brazil, "Green Gold's Largest Producer

By RICHARD DYER
INS Staff Correspondent

BARRANCA, Goiaz, Brazil, Nov. 26.—Fantastic fortunes are being made and doubled overnight in this little town of Barranca on the edge of the great jungle—the impenetrable tangle that covers one-third of the South American continent.

The fortunes are being made in speculation on Brazil's green gold—coffee.

Five years ago the beans, upon which Brazil's financial structure has been built for almost a century, were a drug on the market. Today the world is clamoring for coffee, and there isn't enough now, nor in sight for the next few years, to meet the demand.

The shortages have driven coffee export prices to all-time highs, and led languishing coffee growers to feverishly push back jungle barriers in a mad planting race to reap the golden profits.

Like Gold Rush Times

And, like old gold rushes, the race has extended into the wilderness and brought with it the wild west characteristics of easy money made and lost beyond the effective control of the law.

This town, center of one of the newest coffee booms, was a sleepy frontier settlement of a few hundred souls two years ago. Today it has an estimated 10,000 within its hastily-erected and chaotic "city limits," and twice that number scattered around the countryside.

Everyone is working coffee by day and manipulating the profits by night.

Every other building on the muddy, bumpy, unpaved main street is either a bar or a dance hall. One of the most popular is the "Puxa Faca" (knife in hand); another is the "Furna da Onca" (den of the tiger), where only cane-distilled alcohol is served.

Self-protection, and occasionally vigilante law, are supreme in this region, where a handful of federal police must patrol an area larger than the American state of Pennsylvania.

Many People Armed

Men, women and even children go armed, and the six-shooter is the judge for most arguments.

Barranca lies 95 miles northeast of the narrow-gauge railhead at Annapolis, and faces out on the great jungle that still shelters half of Brazil within its mysterious embrace.

The town lies on rolling plateau land, nearly 1,000 miles from the ocean. A few miles to the east starts the forest into which the British explorer Colonel Fawcett vanished forever. Farther to the north is the wilderness that holds the secret of the American flier Paul Redfern, who disappeared two decades ago while trying a New York-Buenos Aires flight.

To the northeast is the Serra Do Roncador, the rugged plateau which is guarded by the savage Chavante Indians, a region from where no white man has ever returned alive.

For half a century the Brazilian government has been trying unsuccessfully to divert settlers away from the heavily-populated seacoast into these backlands. It looks like the coffee boom may have succeeded where the government failed.

During the great coffee surpluses of the last 15 years, wealthy Sao Paulo and Parana plantations had been abandoned, and no new plantings were started.

When the world ran out of coffee, (the shortages started to appear in 1946), there was rush for these plateau backlands, where crops of the rich mocha-type beans may be brought in for shipment in as little as three years after planting.

Germaes Lunadelli, Brazil's biggest coffee grower, came here first in 1947, and started with 1,000 experimental acres. He planted 5,000 more last year, and plans an additional 10,000 acres next year, if he can get the jungle pushed back fast enough.

Lunadelli, 60 years old, who came to Brazil 45 years ago as an Italian immigrant and made his fortune from the coffee beans, is only one of many wealthy Sao Paulo growers who have moved into the hinterland as a result of the boom. The governor of the state of Goiaz is one of the biggest growers here.

Prices Highest

By day all is feverish activity in clearing, planting, harvesting and sacking, and by night the local gin mills, gambling saloons and dance halls run full blast—all night.

As background music is the steady rumble of the big trucks, carrying their sacked loads of the green gold down to shipping points in Sao Paulo, where it brings five dollars or more per sack higher than present Sao Paulo coffee prices—and these are the highest in history.

One of these trucks repreesnts a sizeable fortune for any Brazilian backlander, and they are not trusted without proper armed escort.

As the trucks leave Barranca, they carry a driver and assistant, both armed with .45 pistols and knives, and two riders, both armed with rifles. Many of the growers have a private militia larger than the local police forces, but still hijackings and robberies occur.

Runs In Cycles

Nor is it an uncommon sight for one of the trucks to roll into a Sao Paulo shipping point with a couple of wounded men and a tale of a bitter night battle on a lonely road. If it is not a battle, it might be a story of a nocturnal encounter with an "onca," the big Brazilian backlands tigers, which weigh up to 500 pounds. And the truck crew will have the spotted body of the tiger slung atop their load to prove it.

One local grower, strapping Durval Perreira, paused to look over his rolling lands, which last year had been reclaimed from the jungle and this year already were sprouting their coffee plants.

"They say Brazil runs in cycels," he observed. "First there was the diamond cycle, and then the gold cycle, and the rubber cycle, and then the coffee cycle.

"Everyone said the coffee cycle was dying out in the thirties, and that Brazil needed a fresh product.

"This proves they were wrong. Coffee is like wheat; when you have it growing on your land, you can get anything you want."

Girl's Attempt To Talk To Colorado Governor Failure

DENVER, Nov. 26. (INS)—An attractive 16-year-old Denver girl knelt on the steps of the Colorado capital building today and prayed to be allowed to see Governor Lee Knous.

The girl, Ellen Tafoya, had placed a bundle of clothing under her knees and held a Bible in each arm as she prayed.

A crowd of passersby gathered quickly and statehouse guards sent for L. J. Manley, messenger for the governor.

The girl told Manley she was praying to see the governor, but declined to answer when Manley asked her if she wished to make an appointment.

Police Called

Police were called and the girl refused to comment, except to say the matter pertained to her parents. She was taken to police headquarters for examination by the police surgeon.

Miss Tafoya refused to return to her parents' home and was later released to her grandfather, Santiago Lucero of Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tafoya said their daughter had been treated recently for a nervous condition, and that she had dropped out of high school because of ill health. The couple could offer no reason why the girl wished to see the governor.

Brownfield Soldier Member Of Army Of Occupation In Japan

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 26 — Pvt. Joseph E. Smith, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Smith, 1001 North Third street, is serving with Company "A" 71st Heavy Tank Battalion, which is the famous First Cavalry Division, in Chigasaki, Japan. This organization is stationed about 25 miles southeast of Yokohama on the shores of Sugami Bay, which is a part of the Pacific Ocean.

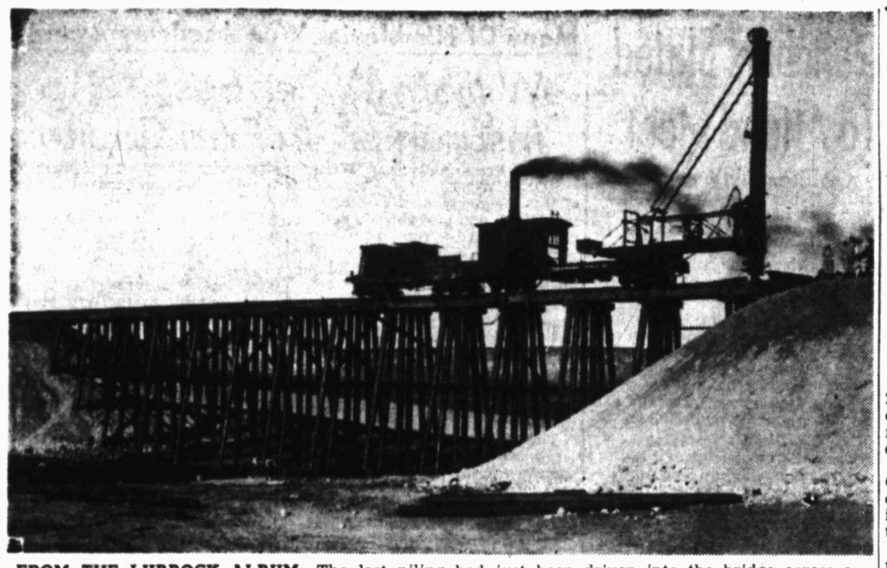

Private Smith first enlisted in May, 1946, and took his basic training with the Navy, where he spent his first enlistment. After completion of his tour of duty in the Navy, he enlisted in the U. S. Army, and volunteered for the occupation of Japan, arriving to take up his occupational duties on Sept. 30, 1949.

Private Smith's duty assignment is that of half-track driver, and he is responsible for the maintenance of his vehicle, as well as driving it on all maneuvers in the unit's schedule.

Before entering the service, Private Smith worked as an assistant on the staff of Southern Geopolitic company at Fort Worth.

SPLIT HAIR OPINION

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Nov. 26 (AP)—Beards grew thick and bristly in the county jail while legal chins wagged. The sheriff had submitted a bill for $10.50 covering razor blades for prisoners. The county commissioners said that was a sharp question which the county attorney would have to answer. He split no hairs in his opinion—said the bill was all right.

FROM THE LUBBOCK ALBUM—The last piling had just been driven into the bridge across a canyon north of Lubbock on the Santa Fe line from Lubbock to Plainview on Sept. 21, 1909 when the above photograph was made. Laying of a railway line to Lubbock attracted considerable interest and was heralded as a leading progressive step for the town. (Photo lent by J. A. Wilson).

THE QUESTION

Assuming that a responsible person is in charge, do you think that judges should be appointed or elected?

THE ANSWERS

BUCK McNEIL, 2413 Twenty-fourth, lawyer: "I think that they should be appointed. Few people are familiar enough with the judiciary to know what the qualifications of a judge should be. A judge must have a good basic knowledge of the technical matters of law."

GEORGE R. BEAN, 1917 Twenty-second, lawyer: "I think that they should be elected. This is a democratic country, and the people have the right to elect all public officials from the President on down."

R. E. UNDERWOOD, Amarillo, lawyer: "I think that they should be appointed, because we will get a better type of judge when selected by a single responsible authority. This authority could better measure the qualities of a judge than the general public who have less opportunity to study and learn the essentials of a good judge."

GORDON TREADAWAY, 3208 Twenty-second, lawyer: "I think that they should be appointed. I feel it would give a better qualified man to the bench. I refer to the standing of the federal judiciary as compared with the standing of the state judiciary. People have much more respect for federal courts than for state courts."

T. B. DUGGAN, JR., 2223 Seventeenth, lawyer: "I think that they should be appointed for the simple reason that some of the best qualified men for the office refuse to get out and work to get elected. The man who is best qualified is usually a person with little vote appeal."

ROY BASS, 905-B Ave. R, lawyer: "I feel that they should be appointed, because although there are some disadvantages and some advantages to this, I feel that they will be removed from the necessity of being in favor of a certain group in order to be elected. Their decisions will be nearly free from bias. This will apply more to appellate judges than to trial judges. However, it would be hard to find a responsible person to everyone's satisfaction."

Amarillo Vets Will Debate Bonus Issue

AMARILLO, Nov. 26 (U.P.)—Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold a mass meeting in Amarillo's biggest park tomorrow to decide whether to stage a bonus march on the state capital.

Ray Reeves, department store employe leading the movement, said the meeting is not sponsored by any VFW post but by individual veterans who want the bonus. He added that if the march materializes, the group will camp in Austin until the state bonus is obtained.

Infantrymen in the Australian Army have asked to be called "diggers," not "privates."

MINOR CLASHES ARE REPORTED

France's 24-Hour Strike For Higher Wages Ends Quietly

PARIS, Nov. 26. (AP)—France's 24-hour general strike ended today as quietly as it began, with relatively little effect on everyday life.

At four spots—St. Nazaire, Cherbourg and Brest on the west coast, and Dijon southeast of Paris—there were minor clashes between strikers and police.

Leaders of the nation's two largest labor unions conceded privately there was scant chance of carrying the strike through Saturday as the Communist-dominated General Labor Federation (CGT) had advocated.

Pay Hikes Sought

Officially the strike ended at 4 a. m. today (10 p. m. EST Friday).

The CGT and the non-Communist workers' force called the 24-hour walk-out to back up demands for more pay, cost-of-living bonuses and a return to collective bargaining free of government controls.

The unions succeeded in tying up most of the railroads, mines, and ports, and many mills and factories. Union leaders said 90 per cent of the pit miners had stayed away from their jobs. It claimed the support from railroad workers was "almost total."

However, complete success was claimed in only three limited fields—transport, newspapers and radio—in the Paris region.

Union claims were disputed by sources close to the employer's association. One source said only 50 per cent of the miners walked out and claimed that many business offices were 95 per cent manned.

Civil Workers Show Up

A government spokesman estimated 75 per cent of the factory workers were absent from their jobs. He said there was no way of knowing how many had really heeded the strike call and how many simply had been stranded for lack of transportation from home to work.

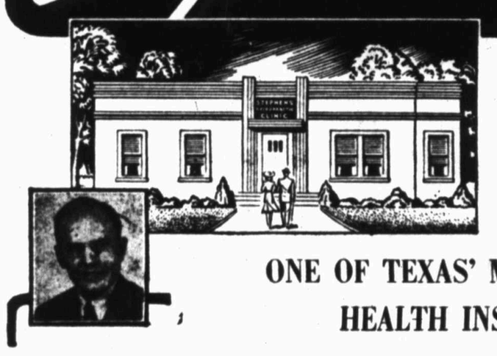

The spokesman said at least three-fourths of the nation's civil servants responded to Premier George Bidault's nationwide appeal to ignore the strike order and show up for work.

Shortly after the scheduled end of the strike, trains began moving. In Paris bus and subway systems were again in operation.

MOVE TO BROWNFIELD

BROWNFIELD, Nov. 26 — Mr. and Harold Jones have moved to Brownfield to make their home following his graduation from North Texas State college at Denton. The son of E. D. Jones, city utilities superintendent, Jones will be employed here by the Crede Gore Grain Co. Mrs. Jones will be employed at the Terry County Production and Marketing Administration office.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26 — Exclusively Yours: Stars frequently become "difficult" in order to win new contracts or bigger salaries. But Bette Davis is the first star I ever heard of willing to admit it.

Bette now says she "acted up" during filming of "Beyond the Forest" in order to break her Warner contract. She says she never wanted to make the picture, predicting that the book, because of censorship, could never be transferred honestly to the screen and that its entertainment value would suffer.

"Great for a dark alley," said Ethel, "but not for the screen."

"Harvey" Is On The Way

DON'T be surprised if Mervyn LeRoy turns up as the director of "Harvey" at UI. The film rolls in January with Jimmy Stewart as the big rabbit's pal. There will be no major changes in the play — authoress Mary Chase's contract forbids them. She also has complete script approval.

Ranchers Slated To Attend Meet

Approximately 100 ranchers and cattle feeders are expected to attend a ranchers and cattle feeders day Tuesday on the Edwin Forrest ranch seven miles north of Slaton in Yellowhouse canyon, it was announced Saturday by David W. Sherrill, county agent.

Dinner will be served by courtesy of Ray C. Ayers and Son and Slaton Cotton Oil Mill, both of Slaton. County agents from South Plains counties have been urged to bring leading ranchers and cattle feeders to the conference.

To Discuss Spraying

The program begins at 10 a. m., Sherrill said. Edwin Forrest, Slaton rancher, will discuss "Spraying Cattle." Dr. N. A. Cox of Lubbock will discuss "Dehorning Cattle." George (Scotty) Samson of Post will speak on identification of grasses. Jack Carothers, assistant Lubbock county agent, will talk about grazing value of grasses.

Marshall Howard, area Soil Conservationist, of Lubbock, will have for his topic "Water Conservation," and O. L. Kay, SCS range specialist of Lubbock, will discuss "New Grasses."

Following showing of movies about grass and cattle during the afternoon, C. E. Fisher, agronomist at the Spur experiment station will summarize mesquite eradication and feeding experiments at the station. Jess Robinson, Texas Technological college graduate, will speak on plans for feeding at Tech, and B. T. Hill of Stanton will comment on "My Experience In Feeding."

Many Of His Movies Won Academy Awards

William Wyler Best "Oscar Insurance" In Film Capital

United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26. — It's almost Academy award season in movieland and everybody's getting nervous—except the stars who worked for William Wyler. He's the best "Oscar insurance" in the business.

Movies directed by Wyler nearly always wind up on the nominations somewhere. Since 1936 he's only made three epics that didn't snag an Academy prize.

And his last attempt, "The Best Years Of Our Lives" walked off with eight.

There's a reason for this. Wyler doesn't care whose money he spends as long as he gets perfection. Schedules, budgets, stars' temperaments—he ignores 'em all.

Fueds With Goldwyn

He'll shoot a scene 70 times if he has to. And the list of big-wigs he's battled with start with John Barrymore and work up to Greer Garson, Bettye Davis, Sam Goldwyn, Louis B. Mayer, etc. . . .

After "The Little Foxes" he swore he'd never make another picture with Miss Davis. She reciprocated with a vow she'd "crawl to Laguna beach on my belly before I'll work with that man again."

His battles with Goldwyn made headlines; Walter Pidgeon, (who's since changed his mind) once refused to make a picture because he was "too tired to fight with Wyler;" he had Teresa Wright fleeing to her dressing room in tears; and Miss Garson sent him a pair of black velvet boxing gloves to commemorate their work on "Mrs. Miniver."

Temperament Exaggerated

He fights with practically everybody he works with. And practically everybody he works with fights to get him on their next picture. They call him a "hair shirt," "a slave driver," and that —&( ) $"&"00 man!" But they scramble quick when he calls.

"My temperament has been exaggerated,' he says. "I listen to other peoples' suggestions. But in a fight with an actor or an actress somebody has to win. And on my pictures that somebody has to be me."

"Willie" started on his "Oscar jag" back in 1938, when his "Jezebel' brought awards to Bette Davis and Fay Bainter for best actress and best supporting actress, and nominations for best production, musical scoring, and cinematography.

Has "Golden Touch"

The next year he was nominated himself for "Wuthering Heights," and the next for "The Letter," and the next for "Little Foxes."

"Every time I went to the Academy shindigs I took a valise along to carry my 'Oscar' home in," Wyler chuckled. "And every year I took it home—empty."

When he finally did get the thing he wasn't there to tote it home. He read about his "Mrs. Miniver" honor in London where he was stationed during the war.

Now it looks as if he'll be up again, along with three or four of his stars, for "The Heiress." Wyler has what Hollywood calls the "golden touch"—and it pays off in those gold-plated doorstops.

GMC Dealers Are To Meet Here Tuesday

New models and new selling plans for 1950 will be the main topics of discussion when GMC dealers in this area meet with field and factory officials of GMC Truck & Coach division at the Hilton hotel on Tuesday.

J. A. McDaniel, Dallas zone manager, will be chairman of the meeting, one of 110 such sessions scheduled for key cities across the nation. It will start with a luncheon at 12 o'clock, followed by film presentations on product, sales promotion, distribution, used trucks, business management, parts and accessories and service.

Dealers will have their first photographic preview of the new models that are being added to the line for next year. These include a new series of models in both the 1½ and 2½-ton ranges, two new six-wheelers in the medium and heavy-duty lines and two new Diesel-powered tractors designed for maximum legal pay-loads in the 45,000 to 55,000-pound weight range.

BIRD REPORT PLANNED

CINCINNATI, Ohio, . . . (AP)—Chances are the Kemsies report never will become as familiar to the general public as the Kinsey report, probably because the former deals with birds, not humans. Emerson Kemsies, local ornithologist and biology teacher in the Cincinnati public schools, for several years has been carrying on field work on the distribution of migrating and breeding birds in southwestern Ohio.

Admitted Sex Slayer Of Six-Year-Old California Child May Plead Insanity

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26 (AP)—Fred Stroble, who faces trial on a charge of murdering six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucoft, now complains of "buzzing in the head."

With Dec. 2 set for the 66-year-old grandfather to enter a plea, he told reporters yesterday "I think so" when asked if he will plead insanity.

"I'm so dizzy I can hardly see," he said.

If Stroble makes this plea, the court must appoint three psychiatrists to make an examination. This usually requires two weeks and would delay the speedy trial which the district attorney is seeking. His office had hoped to bring the case to trial no later than Jan. 2.

Subpoenas Issued

Meanwhile, subpoenas were issued to make sure that Stroble's daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. and Mr. Ruben Hausman, and their son, Freddie, 12, will appear Dec. 2. Dep. District Attorney Adolph Alexander said he had information that the family was planning to move and leave the jurisdiction of the superior court.

Little Linda's strangled and battered body was found in the back-yard of the Hausman home Nov. 15. Stroble, in a statement to the district attorney, admitted killing the girl after she resisted his attempts to "play with her" in a bedroom.

Rites Are Scheduled For Former Governor

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 26. (U.P.)—Oklahomans will pay respects tomorrow to a man who once was impeached as governor.

The body of Jack Walton will lie in state in the rotunda of the state capitol from 2 to 5 p. m.

The colorful political figure died yesterday after suffering a relapse from a paralytic stroke Nov. 4. He was 68.

Walton climaxed his political career in 1922 when he was elected governor by the greatest margin in the state's history up to that time.

Ten months later he was impeached.

Sentiment against him spread when he declared war on the Ku Klux Klan and clamped martial law over the state during a wave of lawlessness. At the same time, he freed prisoners at the rate of one a day.

When the legislature sought to meet to start impeachment proceedings, he dispersed the lawmakers with troops. He trained guns on the Oklahoma county courthouse to prevent a grand jury session.

But the legislature finally met and the Senate unanimously found Walton guilty of corruption.

During several attempts at a comeback in politics, Walton made a futile race for governor in 1938. He polled only 45,000 votes for fourth place in the primary election.

Later, he lost races for sheriff of Oklahoma county and corporation commissioner. Since 1944 he has been out of politics, practicing law here.

Cominform Plan To Purge Tito Claimed

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. (AP) — Secret reports reaching diplomatic quarters here say the Soviet-led Cominform has a plan on paper to destroy Premier Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia some time between Christmas and Easter.

The reports have been submitted by intelligence and diplomatic agents representing the West, and are known to have become available to the U. S. Departments of state and defense.

Ales Bebler, deputy foreign minister of Yugoslavia, said his government was aware of such a plot and has "the situation well in hand."

On the other side, Julius Katz-Suchy of Poland, a Cominform country, denounced the reports as a "deliberate plant by the United States secret service" to keep the attention of the world focused on Soviet-Yugoslav relations and try to foment a third world war.

Sweden reported that 500,000 United States tourists visited there recently.

Admitted Sex Slayer Of Six-Year-Old California Child May Plead Insanity

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26 (AP)—Fred Stroble, who faces trial on a charge of murdering six-year-old Linda Joyce Glucoft, now complains of "buzzing in the head."

With Dec. 2 set for the 66-year-old grandfather to enter a plea, he told reporters yesterday "I think so" when asked if he will plead insanity.

"I'm so dizzy I can hardly see," he said.

If Stroble makes this plea, the court must appoint three psychiatrists to make an examination. This usually requires two weeks and would delay the speedy trial which the district attorney is seeking. His office had hoped to bring the case to trial no later than Jan. 2.

Subpoenas Issued

Meanwhile, subpoenas were issued to make sure that Stroble's daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. and Mr. Ruben Hausman, and their son, Freddie, 12, will appear Dec. 2. Dep. District Attorney Adolph Alexander said he had information that the family was planning to move and leave the jurisdiction of the superior court.

Little Linda's strangled and battered body was found in the back-yard of the Hausman home Nov. 15. Stroble, in a statement to the district attorney, admitted killing the girl after she resisted his attempts to "play with her" in a bedroom.

BY NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The Art Of Living

HOW TO KEEP FROM BEING IRRITATED

ONE DAY, as I was walking on Fifth Avenue in New York, a man I knew slightly pushed through the crowd, stopped me, and said, "You believe in religion as a practical technique, don't you?" When I said that I did, he continued, "You also teach do you not, that there is a healing power in Faith?" Again, I agreed. "Well," he said, "my big problem is irritation. Sometimes I feel that I'm just going to blow up. Can you tell me how to keep from being irritated?"

PEALE

Evidently this problem of irritation is a widespread one because, recently, I have been hearing about it from many sources. The head of a large department store told me the other day that never in all his years of merchandising experience had he seen so many irritated customers and irritated sales people as now. "I would be willing to close down for two days," he said, "if someone would come in and give my sales clerks a course in how to keep their tempers and curb their tongues in the presence of customers, no matter how annoying they may me."

Even Politicians Affected

The governor of one of our most important states once told me, "One of my big problems is to know how to conquer irritation. I always liked people until I got this job. Now they drive me to distraction."

There is a therapy, a healing technique, which can be used to overcome and conquer irritation. Like many other such therapies for the emotional problems of modern living, it can be found in the pages of the Bible. In the book of Colossians, we get the secret of overcoming irritation where it says, "Let the peace of God rule in your heart." That is a great phrase and it will help you if you make it your dominating emotion, your supreme attitude, your habitual spirit. Let it rule in your heart and it can control your basic self.

A PERSON who has the peace of God ruling in his heart is always under control. He is therefore able to take an objective and scientific attitude toward his irritation. And no one has ever learned to live effectively until he has become scientific and objective toward emotion.

Take anger, for example. How do you control anger? Simply by being scientific and objective toward anger. If you begin to get angry, your face becomes red, your voice rises, your fists clench. This is the result of adrenalin being shot suddenly into your system. Instead of allowing the voice to rise when anger begins to well up within you, deliberately force it down and control it until you are speaking quietly, almost in a whisper. You can never carry on an argument in a whisper! If your hands begin to clench, deliberately extend your fingers. You cannot continue to be angry with your fingers held out extended. Try it sometime.

Try Lying Down

I was present at a religious conference when tempers began to flare. Even at religious meetings, people are human. Those present began to get peppery and irritated. Then a man took off his coat, went over and lay down on a couch in the room.

Everybody was astonished. Anxiously we asked, "What's the matter? Are you sick?"

"No," he said, "I'm not sick. I was just getting mad and I've found that I cannot get mad lying down!"

THOSE of us who practice faith need not be swept my emotion or carried into anger and irritability by it. We should be able to control emotion rather than have it control us. If you have the power to control your emotions, you will not be left defeated and sick by the irritations to which all of us are prey.

Acquire such control. Pray for guidance. Seek the peace of God actively and affirmatively. If you have the peace of God ruling your heart, you can master the skill of objectively examining irritation and anger and so reducing their power over you.

World Children's Foundation Is Aided By Contributions From Servicemen On Guam

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 — There's a mayonnaise jar in Guam which is worth its weight in sentiment and noble American intentions.

Servicemen there are going without chocolate bars and beer on a volunteer basis to do their bit for a worthy cause.

The "cause" is the World Children's foundation. It's a nonprofit outfit established by a tiny, black-haired woman in Washington. The objective is to help care for the half million or so tots who were left without legal fathers when romances overseas were ended.

Woman Is Shocked

The pleasant little woman is Mary Rizzotto, who was a Red Cross worker in Oran, North Africa, in 1944. She was shocked by what she saw over there.

"Miss Mary," as she now is known almost the world around, told her story to American newsmen abroad. Instead of getting the help she needed, the poor lady was flooded with appeals for help from near and far. Soldiers, who saw the error of their ways and wanted to make things right and find their sweethearts. Young mothers who wanted to locate the fathers of their young.

Miss Mary did the best she could, with what little money she had. It was a situation the governments of the world thought "too hot to handle."

"Miss Mary first took her problem to an American naval officer at Oran.

The officer admitted that the thing was beyond him but said to her:

"You are a woman, why don't you do something about it."

The little woman, with no backing from anywhere, started bucking heavy odds. The odds are still against her, but she is no quitter.

She told me today that it's been tough. She pays the rent for her modest hotel room out of her rapidly shrinking savings. Sometimes for dinner it's crackers and sardines.

But the letter she gets from those she has helped makes it worth while, she says.

The small group of GI's on Guam comprise world chapter No. 1 of the World Children's foundation, inc.

It was organized by a man named by George F. Vesper. In his first letter to Miss Mary he confessed that he was drinking a little too much beer, anyhow, and that everytime he did without a mug of foam he put a dime into the mayonnaise jar. He encouraged his friends to do the same.

Every time the jar gets full, the boys get a money order and send it on for "the cause." It never adds up to a fortune, but "Miss Mary" likes the sentiment.

In his last letter, Vesper, without naming names, gave a hint a the international complexion of his outfit.

There are Scotch-Irish, Welsh-French-Canadian, Norwegian-Swedish-Danish-English, English, Irish-American-Indian, Chinese-Hawaiian, English-Hawaiian, Portuguese-Hawaiian, Syrian, Mexican-Hindu, plain Irish, Scotch-Irish-Indian, and plain Americans.

Vesper not only needles the boys in his outfit but also has signs up to attract the natives of Guam, enlisted personnel, officers, and civilians. He even wangled a feature item by Hal Rollins of the Guam News. A bundle of letters about hardship cases did the trick.

HOW TO EAT MILK

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 26 (AP) —Some people need milk for nutrition but for various reasons can't or won't drink it. A University of California research project found that powdered milk mixed into the dough of whole-wheat bread, makes the bread more nourishing, stay fresh longer, less crumbly, and better for toast.

Pact Seen As Step Forward

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

The new pact between the West German republic and America, Britain and France looks like a mighty stride toward peace and rehabilitation in western Europe.

This agreement is as close as the western powers could come to making a formal peace treaty so long as Germany is divided between east and west. It makes the Bonn republic an integral part of the new economic system which is being inauguarted in western Europe; it eases the terms of dismantlement of essential German industries, and in return the republic promises to cooperate in keeping down Germany's war potential.

Concessions Given

Naturally the pact wasn't achieved without heart burnings on both sides. Unhappy France has had to thrust aside some of her fears that the new Germany may revert to aggression. Britain and other countries see reduced trade revenues for themselves in Germany's rehabilitation. And the Germans are clamoring for easement of their terms.

Just in passing it may be remarked that in this agreement we have an example of what some commentators refer to as the new morality of the western nations. Having beaten a country to its knees militarily we forthwith set about to put it on its feet so that it may play its part in the rebuilding of a better world. Not only Germany but Japan—ringleaders in the awful crime of waging world war—are being rehabilitated and at the expense of the conquerors.

Motives Not All Altruistic

Obviously rehabilitation of Germany and its integration in the western European set-up isn't an altogether altruistic project on the part of the western powers. It is a common-sense recognition of the fact that German welfare is essential to the welfare of the rest of western Europe. That being so, the western allies have to take the chance—and it may be a long one—that Germany won't revert to militarism as she did after the first world war.

It's safe bet that sooner or later—by hook or by crook—the divisions of the Reich will coalesce. Western Germany surely will do everything in its power to get back the eastern portion which Russia now occupies and is communizing as fast as possible. Unless this question can be settled between Russia and the western allies so that eastern Germany can be reunited with the rest of the country, there will be grave danger of another war.

That is one of the major problems for the big four to settle, and it calls for horse-sense compromising.

Los Angeles Janitor Accused Of Defaming City By Postcards

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26 (AP)—The man who sent out all those postcards branding Los Angeles as a wild and wicked city, says Police Chief William Worton, is a 56-year-old janitor, Charles Janson.

Janson was charged with sending defamatory matter through the mail after police compared his writing with that on the postcards.

Said Janson at his arraignment yesterday:

"I don't know what it's all about."

Hollywood Resident Reports Dog Is Attacked By Coyotes

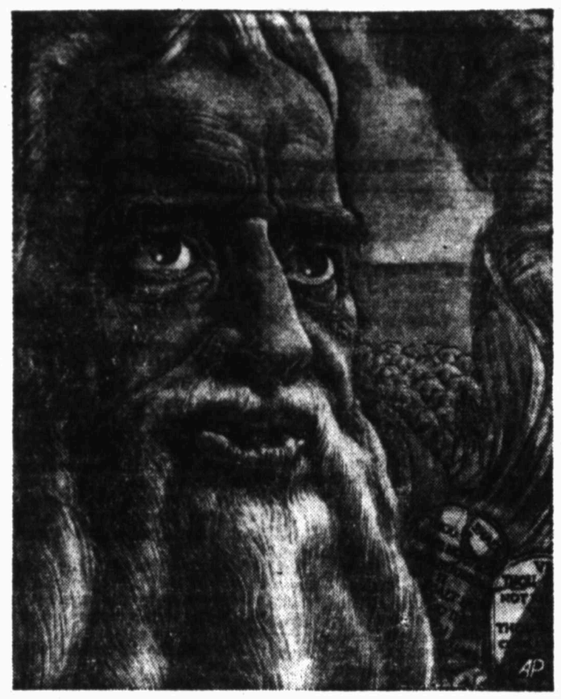

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26 (INS) — Hollywood, long known for its wolves, now has been invaded by coyotes.

Mrs. Laura Harper, who lives in the Hollywood hills just a block off Hollywood boulevard, reported today that a pack of coyotes attacked her Belgian griffin dog during the night and almost killed the animal.

The coyotes apparently migrated into the Hollywood hills because of recent brush fires in other areas. Authorities promised immediate control measures.

TALKED TOO LONG

INDIANAPOLIS, (U.P.)—Harry Prive, 21, stepped out of a drug store telephone booth to find he had talked too long. The store was closed for the night. Prive attracted the attention of a passerby. Police called the store manager, who came down and let Prive out.

BIBLE STORY FROM "IN OUR IMAGE"

Moses

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the seventh of a series of studies from the Old Testament. The text is condensed from selections by Houston Harte for the new book, "In Our Image." Illustration by Guy Rowe is also from the book.

IN the third month, when the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day came they into the wilderness of Sinai . . . and there Israel camped before the mount. And Moses went up unto God, and the Lord called unto him, saying, Thus shalt thou tell the children of Israel: If ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine: And ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests, and an holy nation.

And Moses came and called for the elders of the people, and laid before their faces all these words which the Lord commanded him. And Moses told the words of the people unto the Lord.

And the Lord said unto Moses, Go unto the people, and sanctify them to day and to morrow, and let them wash their clothes, and be ready against the third day: for the third day the Lord will come down in the sight of all the people upon Mount Sinai. . .

And on the third day in the morning there were thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud; so that all the people in the camp trembled. And Moses brought forth the people to meet with God; and they stood at the nether part of the mount. And mount Sinia was altogether on a smoke, because the Lord descended upon it in fire. And God spake all these words, saying:

I AM the Lord thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt have no other gods before me.

Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth: Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the feathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me; and shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work: But the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God; in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates: For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

Thou shalt not kill.

Thou shalt not commit adultery.

Thou shalt not steal.

Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.

Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

AND all the people saw the thundering, and the lightning, and the noise of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking: and when the people saw it, they removed, and stood afar off. And they said unto Moses, Speak thou with us, and we will hear: but let not God speak with us, lest we die. And Moses said unto the people, Fear not: for God is come to prove you, and that his fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not. And the people stood afar off, and Moses drew near unto the thick darkness where God was . . .

And the Lord gave unto Moses, when he had made an end of communing, two tables of testimony, tables of stone, written with the finger of God.

ATTITUDE OF CONGRESS DISPUTED

Only Severe Winter Could Put Stop To Fight On Oil Imports

By MAX B. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, Nov. 26.—Only a severe winter probably can stop renewal of the bitter battle over foreign crude oil imports next year.

Winter so far has given no signs of cooperating.

As soon as Texas whacked 218,000 barrels daily off its December crude production allowables, imports opponents began mapping imports strategy once again.

The Texas cutback, reversing a three-month upward swing in production, also was accompanied by new rumors of possible cuts in crude oil prices.

Texas Solons Disagree

A severe winter in heating oil consuming areas probably would cause imports opponents to reduce emphasis on their campaign for congressional action designed to limit foreign crude being brought into the United States.

Heavy consumption would cut into zooming stocks, permit idle refinery equipment to return to operation, and lead to domestic crude allowable increases.

Two Texas congressmen do not agree on what Congress will do—if anything—about imports.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Texas) last week told reporters he does not think Congress will act, that the solution lies outside the legislative field.

Amendment Defeated

Rep. Ed Gossett (D-Texas) predicted Congress will react favorably to limitation legislation if imports continue to climb.

Testimony before the House Small Business oil subcommittee left little doubt that imports can be expected to continue upward through the first quarter of 1950.

Department of Commerce figures indicate September imports averaged about 656,000 barrels daily, compared to 591,000 in August. September crude imports were placed at 411,000, up 21,000.

The Senate this year defeated, 41 to 40, a Reciplocal Trade Agreebents act amendment which would have limited imports to 5 per cent of domestic production.

Independent oilmen leading the fight for curtailment are confident a separate bill would have been approved.

Bills Are Pending

Several such separate bills, proposing the same limitation, were pending when Congress broke up Oct. 19, including one in the Senate and several in the House.

One was introduced by Gossett, who now indicates he may change his strategy and seek a tax increase on foreign oil.

He said the tax might be as much as $1 a barrel, compared to the current 10½ cents.

"Revenue, restaint and protection would be the several-fold objective," he said.

Testimony before the House committee last week indicated major importing companies are not in complete agreement as to the logical course to follow in the future.

Dr. R. E. Wilson, Standard Oil company (Indiana) board chairman, advised the committee his company believes imports are "at the present time in part supplanting domestic production."

Cities Service company officials called for a "proper balance" between imports and domestic production, warning that cutbacks in the United States and increased imports offer imminent danger to the nation's economy.

Opposite views included:

W. S. S. Rodgers, chairman of the board of Texas company, said restrictions on imports would be contrary to free enterprise and would have adverse effects on international trade.

B. Brewster Jennings, Socony-Vacuum Oil company president, saw no likelihood of a flood of middle East imports unless domestic production proves to be inadequate.

Crude oil stocks increased another 190,000 barrels in the week ending Nov. 19, rising to 254,311,000 barrels. Domestic stocks jumped 619,000 barrels, while imported stocks declined 424,000.

Domestic crude production, as yet unaffected by the new Texas cutback, climbed 25,900 barrels daily in the week ending Nov. 19. Output averaged 5,211,050 barrels daily, compared to 5,707,950 a year earlier.

Refinery operations continued to fluctuate, climbing back to 82.1 per cent of capacity, after dropping to 79.5 the previous week.

Report Is Made On Work By Gideons

The retirement of L. C. Ellis, treasurer of the Lubbock Gideon camp, was made recently in a report of that group's activities during the past 12 months.

Ellis has held the office since the Gideons were organized here in April, 1943.

Gideon officers announced that during the 12 months period, about 500 Bibles have been distributed by the organization. Copies of the New Testament, with Proverbs and Psalms included, have been given to more than 2,000 school children.

The Gideons have conducted approximately 40 services in as many churches in this area during the same time.

Announcement of a special service by the Gideons at today's morning worship in the Petersburg Presbyterian church, was made. J. C. Leech will tell of the history and workings of the Gideons, and Earl Burnett will bring the laymen's gospel message.

Wanted: An Able Atomic Energy Boss; A-Bombs To Be More Powerful

IT'S A BIG JOB

A Sound Man Needed

AS President Truman begins looking around for a successor to David Lilienthal as chairman of the U. S. Atomic Energy committee it is to be hoped that he will try to find someone whose record of ability, experience and complete accord with American principles mark him as a logical choice.

The President demonstrated his celebrated—but often questionable—policy of "standing by his friends" in the Lilienthal matter. It will not be necessary for him to set any more new highs—or lows—in that department in choosing the new AEC chairman. Since there are scores of possibilities—if not thousands of them—it will occur to most people that Mr. Truman can, if he wishes, name an AEC head who has something else to recommend him aside from political fealty to Mr. Truman; complete subjection to theories of paternalism in government and his need for a job on the public payrolls.

The position to be filled is one of tremendous importance — so tremendous, in fact, that it is to be hoped that the U. S. Senate, which must confirm any Presidential nomination, will be as careful and as staunch as it recently was when it turned down another Truman pal, Leland Olds, for the Power commission.

In short, if Mr. Truman comes up with another of his leftwing friends for the AEC, the Senate should refuse confirmation, and quickly. The nation wants no David Lilienthal or Leland Olds in that spot.

City Planning

THE current difference of opinion between members of the Lubbock City commission and the City Planning commission regarding the eventual zoning of Thirty-fourth street is, in itself, of less than major import. There frequently are honest differences between individuals and official boards on public questions and that is fortunate. It is fortunate, because honest differences, thoroughly studied and discussed, frequently result in improvements which otherwise would not come if all were agreed.

But there is a most important side to the impasse regarding Thirty-fourth street. That important side is that if the City commission over-riding the Planning commission becomes a set practice every time pressure is put on the City commission to over-ride, then the City Planning commission may just as well fold up its tents and quite business.

Whether the City commisison, or the Planning commission, is right about Thirty-fourth street is a matter of opinion. Each group has its supporters and each has opposition to its view. So if the City commission over-rides the Planning commission on Thirty-fourth, its action eventually may prove to be the proper one. This is something no one, at this time, can safely gainsay.

However, if the City commission over-rides the Planning commission on Thirty-fourth street, it should make public, at the time of its decision, that the over-riding does not constitute a set policy; that just because the City commission has acted against the judgment of the Planning commission on Thirty-fourth does not mean it shall continue to over-ride the Planning commission every time it is asked to do so. In addition to stating the policy, the City commission should stick to it in action, as well as in words.

No municipality can be well served by a Planning commission which bends and breaks under every pressure applied to it; nor can it be well served by a Planning commission constantly overridden by the City commission under which it serves. This is a truism which the City commission must either accept —or else expect its program of city planing to blow higher than the proverbial kite.

Whatever the final disposition of the Thirty-fourth street zoning case, thinking citizens will hope for a continuation of orderly planning of growth and expansion in Lubbock. We have already in Lubbock enough unsightly hodgepodges, made possible by a lack of earlier planning and control. We don't need anymore eyesores and the injuries to adjacent property owners which go with them.

"On the average you'll encounter a service station every time you drive 12 miles along a road in the country." That is, unless you have given out of gas.

"YOUNG AMERICA: 1830-1840"—ROBERT RIEGEL

Book Gives Familiar And Understandable Picture

"YOUNG AMERICA: 1830-1840," by Robert E. Riegel; (University of Oklahoma Press).

TWENTIETH CENTURY Americans are firm believers that the United States of today has never had its equal in institutions, social and cultural standards, and everyday enjoyment of living. But they would have a difficult time convincing great, great grandfather, who might have been a carpenter in Boston, a printer in Washington, or a stevedore in New York, of these claims.

For in 1830, according to Robert E. Riegel, author of "Young America: 1830-1840," the United States was a noisy, somewhat blatant, aggressive, rapidly changing, and hopeful nation which felt sure that its institutions—political, social, economic, religious, and cultural—were the finest on earth. And it felt, too, an obligation to acquaint the rest of the world with them.

Labor In The News Then

These carpenters in Boston, the Washington printers, and New York stevedors, corresponded to the steelworkers, coal miners, and auto workers of today, and they staged ineffective "turn outs" in fruitless efforts to obtain certain employe benefits—in sharp contrast to the paraly ing strikes by American labor in 1949.

But labor did not make all the news in the United States in 1830. Farmers were just beginning to look for cash crops in order to buy ready-made goods; their wives and children were no longer content with homespun. And New York City and its Wall Street, although squealing pigs often interrupted both traffic and business as they were being driven to the slaughter house. Cities in New England, the South, and Midwest began to feel in this decade the first throbs of civic pride, forecasting the boosterism of a later period.

Women Had Several Careers

At home, Riegel says, young women had their choice of several possibilities — becoming a housewife if they were fortunate enough to be asked, a housekeeper, or the counterpart of today's "party girl." While there were a few jobs for women in the textile industry, professional and managerial opportunities had definite limitations.

Reform groups had their place in society, and doctors learned the "trade" as apprentices, while scientists and engineers made excellent progress in an age of inventors. And passengers on the horse-drawn railroad cars marveled at the luxury and comfort of pullman accommodations.

It was not all work and no play, even a hundred years ago. "Dinners, dancing, and the theater attracted many while other groups were content to conduct quilting bees among the women, marksmanship contests for the men, and house raisings, harvestings and 'kissing games' for mixed groups," the author points out.

It was the age of Jackson, of a new and exciting democracy, of "manifest destiny." It was the age in which twentieth-century America, in reality, was born, and of it Riegel makes a familiar and understandable picture.

"TEACH THE ANGRY SPIRIT," by Cornelia Jessey; (Crown).

DOWN on the other side of the railroad tracks, in "Mexican-town," lives the merry Garcia family . . . Papa who writes plays for the Spanish club, Mama who minds her church and tends to her bubbling brood of children, among them pretty Mercy, ambitious Angel, and little Chonita, so fond of Pancho that she sleeps with him, though Mercy, with whom she also sleeps, can get furious at having a dog in bed.

As a family unit it is self-contained, independent, individual, poor but just the same a fine, upstanding honorable Amarican family. But it stretches feelers out into the larger world on the other side of the track. While Papa is proudly unable to speak Spanish, Mercy begins to realize there are serious disadvantages in being known as one who speaks Spanish, and Angel eagerly wants to

BRANDEIS

You would have swooned!

If the exhibitors had their way we poor, drab males would not have to wear the same old kind of clothes designed for us by "Walk-a-flight-and-save-ten-dollars" firms.

No longer would we wear the same old filthy hat for ten years —that faithful hat which is so used to us and we to it that it almost walks over to us when we call it.

No, from now on Elsa Schiaparelli, of Paris, and Hattie Carnegie will tell us what to wear, and Mr. John or Florell will design our hats for us.

Am I exaggerating? Not at all. I saw it with my own eyes.

There was a "cartwheel hat" with a three-inch plaid band. There was a taupe color chapeau with a big green feather sticking out of it.

There were models wearing pink sheer dotted Swiss sports shirts; and dinner jackets of nylon cord, faille and linen with brilliant plaid cummerbunds.

And, dearie, do you know what he men are going to wear next summer (if the designers have their way)?

Short tight slacks, reaching just to the calf, with a loose "Riviera shirt" of glaring colors, pulled over the head, with the tail out!

That's what we men are going to wear from now on. No longer will we be the drab, uninteresting, mechanized drudges we have been for nigh on to a century.

Peacocks, that's what we are going to be, with gay plumage and in dazzling colors.

BUT, wait a minute, my friends. How about us who are a little too fat to pull the shirt over our heads?

How about us who are a bit bow-legged or knock-kneed? How are we going to look in those calf-length tight-fitting slacks?

AWESOME RACE ON

Devastation Assured

By DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Now that loquacious Senator Ed Johnson of Colorado has discussed various atomic matters on television, it is possible to speak frankly about the awesome race to develop death by the atom.

1. Although the United States now has an A-bomb many times more powerful than that dropped on Hiroshima, nevertheless it is true, as Senator Johnson says, that scientists are working on a bomb more devastating than anything so far conceived by the mind of man.

PEARSON

This is a hydrogen bomb. The present A-bombs are of plutonium. But hydrogen is what makes the sun burn, and a hydrogen bomb would literally burn up large portions of the earth's surface.

One difficulty in making a hydrogen bomb is producing the detonation instrument to make it explode. This will require unheard of heat, and it looks as if about the only thing that could make a hydrogen A-bomb explode is the present plutoninm A-bomb we have today.

Another important chapter in death-dealing which scientists are working on feverishly is the nature of the nucleus of the atom. Today, only a small portion of the potential energy in the atom is used in the current atomic bomb.

However, scientists now expect to achieve sufficient understanding of the nature of the atom to enable them to double and triple the explosive power of the bomb without increasing the amount of plutonium required.

Finally, American scientists have developed instruments to detect radiation which are so sensitive they can pick up traces of an atomic explosion at a distance up to 10,000 miles. In fact, following the test explosions at Bikini, physicists at Cornell universiay, Ithaca, N. Y., were able to detect radiation from the explosion in the clouds above Ithaca.

Truman's Cat-Naps

Insiders say that the secret of Truman's good health and amazing vitality for a man of his age is not only the prescribed diet of White House Physician Brig. Gen. "Wally" Graham, but Truman's cat-naps. In the middle of the afternoon, the President invariably breaks his official duties with a 20-minute cat-nap. White House attendants say that Truman goes to sleep almost as soon as his head hits the pillow. Everyone around the White House marvels at his ability to do this, but say that it's because Truman follows his own advice about "not taking your troubles to bed."

IT IS NO secret that the Kremlin has been engaged in a mad scramble to claim all the noteworthy inventions of the past 200 years. But it is not generally known that Communist leaders consider this phase of their internal propaganda is so important they have made it compulsory for college students to memorize the ever-growing list of "great contributions" made by Russian and Soviet scientists. All these inventions, Moscow points out, were the products of the great "ideological struggle" which is being waged by Soviet scientists.

The inventions, largely produced in the propaganda offices, not scientific laboratories, now number in the thousands. But here is a summary of some "Russian inventions" recently claimed by Moscow:

Mechanical weaving—Developed not by Arkwright of Great Britain but Glinkov of Moscow;

Jet propulsion—The Russians "invented" this in 1680;

Theory of relativity—Discovered not by Einstein but Lobachevsky;

Steel girders—An unknown Russian in the Ural mountains invented them in 1725;

Diesel engines—Invented not by the German engineer Rudolf Diesel but by Comrade Grinefetsky in 1889;

Vitamins—In 1880;

Sulphuric acid—"Years earlier" than in Germany;

Television—An inventor from Kiev named Stoletov.

The above list is in addition to the Red's earlier claims for the invention of radar, the telephone, AC and DC electricity, the parachute, and the propeller.

Italian-Americans will be fascinated by Russia's latest "discovery." Not content with having "invented" all the above, the Russians now claim that they discovered America. But—they say they accomplished this amazing feat in 1684, exactly 150 years after a chap named Columbus had completed his hazardous journey.

This remarkable revision of history, Russian style, recently appeared in an article in the Czech newspaper, Svobodne Slovo, September 11. According to the article, "The Russians long ago knew of the existence of the great land. Everything bears witness to the fact that one of Deznev's (Russian explorer) groups was driven by a storm to the coast of America, where the group settled. It may thus be assumer," the article continues, "that the Russians discovered northern America in the year 1648."

MEMBERS of John Foster Dulles' famed law firm, Sullivan and Cromwell, are not all happy over their partner's defeat for re-election to the U. S. Senate. Their sorrow, however, is not based entirely on their desire to see Dulles advance in the great game of politics.

For—if Dulles had been re-elected to the Senate it automatically meant that his partners would get a larger share of the firm's profits. Now that he is defeated, however, not only will Dulles return to the firm but it looks as if his good friend, the present governor of New York, would join him.

As one partner remarked recently: "Instead of getting rid of Dulles, we'll have to move over a notch to make room for Dewey."

Modern Parables

Dear Friends
and Gentle Hearts:

ONE SPRING midnight, not many years ago, I got into an argument with a friend of mine. He was a famous man and occupied a position of responsibility and power. Over sandwiches and milk, as we sat late at his desk, I ventured to criticize him for what I presume to call his naive trust in human nature.

OURSLER

"Time and time again your friends have sold you down the river," I remonstrated. "You ought to be more suspicious of people."

He smiled, spread wide his hands as if asking forgiveness, and declared:

"I just can't do it; I have to believe in people! While some friends will betray you, sooner or later, the percentage is all on the side of loyalty. After all, the Master had twelve friends and one was Judas. I believe the modern political average of loyalty is higher than one in twelve. I think it was one extra-ordinary think which, happening to me in my college days, fixed in me the habit of persistent faith in my fellow man the rest of my life."

HE THEN told me this story:

My friend—whom I shall call Frank—entered an Eastern university before the turn of the century. His room-mate turned out to be a moody youth named Paul, son of a stern father with whom he was on hostile terms. It seems that the old gentleman, a manufacturer of bustles and girdles in Baltimore, had started with nothing and made himself a fortune. Never having been to college, he scorned the higher education. Only his wife's social ambitions had induced him to send Paul to the university.

Even in those days, a dollar a week spending money wasn't much for a college boy and that was all the income Paul was allowed; it wasn't strange that he ran into debt. One day he revealed to Frank that, in small bills here and there, he owed over a hundred dollars; would Frank lend him that much money? Frank did, at some inconvenience to himself, and by midwinter Paul paid it all back. When the freshman year ended, the room-mates parted, still good friends; but in September, when Paul did not return to college and no one heard from him, tongues began to wag.

GRADUALLY the sophomores, exchanging experiences, and totaling up their loans to the absent Paul, found that he had disappeared leaving debts behind him to the sum of twelve hundred dollars. Amidst general indignation, it was decided to write Paul's father and demand the money. Then Frank spoke up:

"If you do that," he argued, "you know what will happen: the old man will throw Paul out forever; he is just that kind of curmudgeon. Let's wait and give Paul a chance. I still believe he is an honest man and I still believe you will get your money back—just as I did."

Such was his eloquence—one of the most persuasive men who ever lived—that he carried the day.

The years passed; the boys were graduated and still no one heard from Paul. In all, fifteen years went by, until the night came when Frank found himself sitting on a dais, toastmaster at a class club reunion dinner. He had introduced the first speaker and settled himself back to listen, when an unseen hand tapped him on the shoulder. Turning quickly, he found himself face to face with a stranger; a short man with mustache and beard and double-lens spectacles.

"DON'T YOU know me, Frank? I am Paul! Don't be worried; I will not make any trouble. I am entirely sober. But I want you to do me a favor: I want you to make a speech. Will you introduce me when your speaker finishes? I will take only five minutes—cross my heart and hope to die."

Now Frank was the kind of man who loved a drama, especially off the stage. Not for worlds would he have refused, even though he had not the slightest idea what Paul was going to say. When the opportunity came, he announced:

"Our next speaker is an extra added attraction. He is an old friend from our freshman days. None of us can possibly have forgotten him. We have often talked about him! Now after many years he is here to speak for himself." And, pronouncing his name, he led the unbidden guest to the rectern.

SMILING at his former classmates, Paul began:

"Gentlemen, I realize that we are not all here. Some of us have died. Some of us just could not get here. I am sure you will agree, however, that to those present and to those absent, I mean but one thing—I am merely the man who ran away leaving a lot of debts behind him. Tonight I came here to tell you why I acted that way. When I borrowed the money, I believed that I saw a way to repay it; but was disappointed. By the middle of Summer I knew that I couldn't make good. Coward that I was, I didn't dare go to my father. All I could think of was escape. So I shipped on a tramp freighter and sailed half-way round the world. But in Canton I lost my job and so I found myself stranded.

"It may sound like a tall story to you, gentlemen, but it is nevertheless, true, that before I got out of China, I was [illegible] by river bandits on the [illegible]e. They took everything I [illegible] down to my breeches. The on[illegible] thing they left me was a piece of paper which had no value to them but which meant everything to me. I held on to that paper through many adventures. Eventually I reached Switzerland.

"In the University of Lausanne, I finished my formal education, earning my way by becoming an instructor in English. Later, I became an assistant professor. Now I am a full professor. I married a Swiss teacher and we have four children.

"YOU REALIZE, gentlemen, that no college professor is paid a large salary anywhere in the world, but Europe pays even less than here. Nevertheless, in all these years, and in spite of my growing family, I have saved a little something out of every week's pay—a little today, sometimes a little more tomorrow — always in my soul waiting for this occasion—for this night of nights that I have dreamed of all these years—and here it is, at last.

"The money to pay you back is in my pocket! And in my hand, where you can all see it is that piece of paper. It bears the names of the students and the amounts they loaned me, the list of my debts and my debtors, which now I am ready to pay back, and for which I thank God."

IN THE deep hush, Frank rose and stood beside Paul, put his arms around him and began the singing in which soon all were joining — "For he is a jolly good fellow."

"You see," my friend told me, "that I figure it is worth-while being done in the eye now and then, because, more often than not, you find your trust in human nature pays off."

MOST OF TEXAS GAINS ADVANTAGE UNDER PROGRAM

Government Cotton Allotment Plan Faces Opposition In Some Areas; Coastal Bend Farmers Hit Formula

BY SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche-Journal
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 — The National administration is going to get almost as many complaints of injustices from individuals in the new cotton acreage curtailment program as it did during the days of price controls.

Some sad instances have already been reported to congressional offices here—individuals who feel that their capacity to grow cotton and get more income is being seriously and unjustly narrowed. Those who grew war crops rather than cotton, defense plant workers returning to farming, small farmers, veterans have their problems.

All of this goes to show how an overall law is hard to fit to an individual's pattern.

The overall allotment formula for Texas gives Texas an advantage in cotton states, Agriculture department officials believe. But some Texas farmers, particularly those in coastal bend states feel as if they have lost by application of this formula. Already, they have taken the matter up with Senator Tom Connally and Senator Lyndon Johnson in an effort to get the Agriculture department to compute different allotments for the state.

The Texas allotment will be between 7,600,000 acres and 7,700,000 acres.

Methods Are Explained

The Agriculture department had three alternatives according to law in figuring this state total. The alternatives are: first method, entire average acreage planted to cotton for the period from 1945 to 1948; second method, 95 percent of actual average acreage planted in 1947 and 1948; or third method, 85 percent of the 1948 actual acreage. The one which gives the state the greatest advantage must be taken. The Department said Texas should follow the second method.

The breakdown on counties shall be on the same formula as that for the states.

Thus Texas farmers may not get credit for their war crops. A telegram like this which came to Senator Johnson's office is typical: "We understood we would get credit for our war crops and we are not." It is to be regretted that those who switched from cotton to war crops when asked to do so by their country in wartime, now are to be penalized.

Coastal Areas Protest Plan

COASTAL Bend Production Credit Association members are challenging the accuracy of the Agriculture Department's computation.

Such challenges as these may be the real reason why the Agriculture department does not want to say what state or county acreage totals will be until they have written all their regulations and published these in the Congressional Record. However, there is no necessity for this delay and considerable confusion has resulted from the fact that state Production and Marketing committeemen were given computed state totals and told not to divulge them to newsmen. They gave them instead to county committeemen who gave them out to a few farmers or not at all depending upon their will or ability to keep a secret. Thus some were told and some were not.

Charles L. Hankins, secretary-treasurer of the board of directors of the Coastal Bend association, wrote Senator Connally that if the above formula was adhered to by the Agriculture department of Texas that "many Texas farmers would face disaster and possible bankruptcy and the general economy of the entire state might be drastically affected."

Many Farmers Affected

"Our interest is in the financing of our own 760 farmer members as well as the production credit system throughout the state involving some 33,000 members," wrote Hankins.

Then he added this dart: "We will appreciate your best efforts to see that the Act is administered according to the law."

One of the most interesting questions raised in the House when the cotton acreage allotments were being considered was by Rep. Lindley Beckworth, Gladewater. He demanded to know when acreage is allotted what is going to be done about the veteran who may be returning to the cotton farm, or the war plant worker. So many farmers in East Texas went to the Gulf coast to work during the war, that this is a serious problem. Beckworth asked if they are to be termed new farmers?

He also asked in computing cotton acreage allotments by counties and individual farms that some consideration be given to the fertility of the soil. He pointed out that five acres may produce one bale of cotton at one point, and five bales at another.

Defends Small Farmer

Beckworth on last Aug. 3 introduced some 20 letters in the Congressional Record from Secretary Brannan of Agriculture, Undersecretary A. J. Loveland, State PMA Committee Chairman H. F. Vance, and others on these questions.

Always a champion of the small farmer, Beckworth posed the question of whether cotton quotas would put many small farmers out of business.

However, Rep. Steve Pace, D., Georgia, cotton expert of the House Agriculture committee, said the bill as written took care of such cases. This week, now down to the work of writing administration prodcedure, Agriculture officials maintained definitely that many of these factors which worried Beckworth and his colleagues could be satisfied under the present law. Most of these problems will be ironed out at county level as the county committeemen seek to decide on each farmer's cotton allotment.

This will be done through alloting a 10 per cent reserve portion of the state total and in counties through adjustments of 15 per cent of the county total to meet particular situations. Whether a county has abnormal growing weather conditions will be considered, also whether there is an unusually large number of so called new farms or small farms. Inside a county, after a farmer gets his acreage allotment on a formula basis, then adjustments will be made from the 15 per cent county reserve on the basis of his farm machinery, form labor, ability to grow cotton, past history, and comparison of one farm to another. Some big fellews may bet more than the minimum of allotment, but then some small farmers may get this reserve. Such factors as the size of a man's family and size of his crop land, together with the probability of the income he will receive and his ability to provide for family will be considered.

Although Secretary Brannan has said it is departmental policy to try to help small farmers, even Brannan has admitted in letters to Beckworth that "all units do not lend themselves equally well to adjustments through pro rata allotments." Therefore, some small farms may have to go out of business. And in the competitive cotton business where now all costs must be cut, this may be sound economy, some Agriculture department officials point out. Already, both they and Mr. Vance are urging that farmers go into rural industries and non-agricultural pursuits.

speak some of the most stirring English he has read, for he is trying out for a part in the high school production of "Our Town."

Mercy's boss, in the office where she is a file clerk, has no objections to hiring a girl of Mexican parentage; and another employee there, Henry Bruder, likes her so much he can forget, for a time, that she's Mexican, though he slips up occasionally with sharp remarks about "kikes" and Negroes. The boy in school meets Mr. Warren, who thinks he might become a real actor, but also other teachers who know, they remind him, that Mexicantowners are bad at lessons, unreliable, apt to steal, and fit mostly for reform school.

The pressures which are exerted on these young people, and the pull-and-haul which they must endure in the tender years when their futures are being shaped, form the subject of a meaningful, worthwhile and ably written novel. Is democracy, the author asks pointedly and poignantly, the inspiring picture drawn in textbooks, or must there be added to it the eager boy rebuffed, the girl deceived and the family broken just because it speaks an alien tongue? Are there some things the melting pot won't melt?

The author threads Wilder's play ingeniously through her novel, but her town and "Our Town" hardly seem to be in the same country.
