Pretty weather has been dealing this part of the country a staggering blow, but there still is time for a complete transformation before summer. Up to this writing (Tuesday afternoon) there had been very little winter around here and 1971 still was looking for its first moisture production.

As for winter, a couple of years ago we had it late and in fact it continued into summer, virtually knocking out spring altogether. But there was no great amount of moisture at the time.

The situation this year is even more serious than in some previous dry spells, because the visible supply of drinking water for thousands of people is dwindling rapidly. The two lakes of the Colorado River Municipal Water District held less than 20,000 acre feet of water at the beginning of 1971. For lake J. B. Thomas, the year began with about 12,600 acre feet, or about six per cent of its capacity. Lake E. V. Spence at Robert Lee, the new lake, had about 5,700 acre feet, scarcely enough to campare with its capacity of 488,760 acre feet.

Those familiar with the history of the CRMWD recall that there were those who predicted that Lake J. B. Thomas would never be filled. Yet, it went over the spillway in its first decade of existence.

At the same time, there were those who predicted that the vast amount of water that Lake J. B. Thomas would impound would never really be needed and that the lake was being built mostly for boating and fishing.

And then there were those who scoffed in 1945 when J. B. Thomas first proposed that the Colorado River Municipal Water District be organized for the purpose of providing a water supply for area cities.

Now, we can look back on nearly two decades of plentiful water from Lake J. B. Thomas. And we can also recall that the region was in the midst of a tenacious drought when it was completed in the early fitties and that despite this and many other obstacles, it did fill up with water.

Also, we can recall that once the big drought of the early fifties was broken, the countryside sprang to life as if a magic wand had been waved over it. These are indeed fond memories, because they offer hope that it can happen again.–WACIL McNAIR.

Severe Winter Storm Paralyzes Eastern States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The winter's second great storm, belabored the eastern half of the nation today with furious and destructive winds, traffic-choking snows, below zero temperatures in around a dozen northern states and freezing temperatures in the Deep South.

In its second day; the storm frustrated snow removal in blizzard conditions in sections of Michigan, Ohio, western New York State and western Pennsylvania.

Snow squalls of 1 to 2 inches continued across the north from Wisconsin to Maine. Locally heavier falls were whipped into blinding clouds as gusts reached peak velocities of 80 miles an hour.

The storm struck the northwestern Midwest Tuesday, and as it moved eastward into New England, it pulled more arctic air into its wake. The thermometer registered 28 below zero this morning at International Falls, Minn.

North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin were solidly subzero territory. The National Weather Service said the Northeast was in line for similar cold tonight.

Adding to the discomfort were blustering winds that called forth gale warnings on all the Great Lakes and along the Atlantic Seaboard from Maine to Georgia.

The National Weather Service calculated the wind chill factor —the combination of temperature and wind velocity—at -40 degrees in Chicago this morning. The actual low there was -2.

In contrast, the weather was fair and mild most everywhere west of the Rocky Mountains. Morning low temperatures were above freezing in such unlikely places as Helena, Mont., and Casper, Wyo.

In the San Joaquin Valley north of Bakersfield, Calif., 70 cars were involved in two pileups in a blinding fog. Four persons were killed, but casualty reports were incomplete. A highway patrol dispatcher said, "We're still digging."

Some 50 persons were treated for storm-caused injuries at Cleveland, where wind gusts hit 75 m.p.h.

In New York State, the Thruway was closed from Schnectady to near Buffalo as wind-blown snow dropped visibility to near zero.

All roads in New York's three westernmost counties were blocked by deep and drifting snow Tuesday night. Troopers near Buffalo even withdrew highway patrols except for emergencies.

IN STOCK PROBE

New Lawsuit Filed Tuesday

DALLAS (AP) — Another lawsuit—this one seeking $12 million in damages from National Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Dallas and others—was filed Tuesday in the wake of a government probe into dealings in stock of that company.

Brought in behalf of NBL shareholders, the proceeding names the same 15 individuals and 13 corporations which the Securities and Exchange Commission sued Jan. 18, alleging fraud and misrepresentation.

This development shared attention with:

—Financial troubles for another firm figuring in the SEC's investigation and the anger of former Texas Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr over being forced out of the enterprise were disclosed.

—Demands broadened for removal from their posts, until the initial suit finally is settled, of some state officials who traded profitably in shares of National Bankers Life while legislation sought by men controlling NBL was pending.

Three examiners for the Texas Banking Commission have resigned at the commission's request because they accepted loans from an officer of the Sharpstown State Bank in Houston, which closed its doors Monday. The bank is another defendant in the SEC's civil suit, and its directors said it failed because that case caused depositors to withdraw $15 million within a week.

—Insurance experts began detailed study of the records of National Bankers Life of Dallas and Olympic Life Insurance Co. of Fort Worth, likewise a defendant in the SEC case. The state has taken over both companies, putting them into what is known as conservatorship.

—A statement from State Treasurer Jesse James that the state itself withdrew $4.5 million from the Sharpstown bank but this had nothing to do with its closing. He said the state funds were protected by more than $7 million in bonds held in his vault at Austin or other state depository banks.

The stockholders' suit was filed in Dallas by Richard A. Twedell, an international vice president of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union. It states that Twedell lost $885 on NBL stock he bought Feb. 9, 1969, because he mistakenly relied on the "honesty, integrity and fair dealing of defendants to disclose to him all pertinent information" about the price of those shares.

WPI Takes Sharp Jump

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wholesale prices took the sharpest jump in a year this month, largely because of a big boost in farm prices, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said the Wholesale Price Index rose six-tenths of one per cent in January, largest increase since a rise of seven-tenths in January of 1970.

The report is preliminary, subject to change when more detailed figures are available later.

The reported rise indicated unsettling news for President Nixon's hopes that the nation's worst inflation in two decades was abating.

However, the bulk of the increase was in wholesale food prices which are frequently subject to sharp fluctuations as the result of weather and production factors. And the over-all level of wholesale prices of food and a broad range of industrial raw materials was still only 2.2 per cent above a year ago, the smallest annual spread in about three years.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics also said that when seasonal factors were considered this month's rise figured out to only four-tenths of one per cent.

The report said prices of farm products rose 1.7 per cent in January and processed foods and feeds went up 1.1 per cent. The increases on a seasonally adjusted basis were lower, one per cent and six-tenths of one per cent respectively.

Industrial commodities, considered a more accurate indication of price changes, rose three-tenths of one per cent, about the average for the past six months in which increases have tapered off somewhat from the first half of 1970.

Senate Sets Up Committee Early

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators set up their general investigating committee four months earlier than usual today, with the possibility it will probe allegations growing out of a federal stock fraud suit.

All senators present signed the resolution. The committee generally is set up at the close of a regular legislative session, around May 31.

The action came about the same time as Houston Rep. Curtis Graves backed off—at least for the time being—from his proposal to remove House Speaker Gus Mutscher temporarily from office pending the outcome of the federal suit.

Graves said he wanted a few more days for a "groundswell" of public opinion to build before moving with his resolution.

The Senate action establishing the investigating committee came shortly after Republican Sen. Ike Harris, Dallas, asked Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes to appoint the committee immediately for a "full investigation of the State Department of Banking."

But Barnes indicated the mission of the committee would be broader than that.

"I urge any public citizen who has any knowledge whatsoever about any irregularity in this state agency or any other to please come bring those facts to attention of the committee or to my attention," Barnes told newsmen.

The Banking Department, which examines and regulates state-chartered banks, is now trying to reorganize the Sharpstown State Bank—a defendant in the federal suit—which closed its doors Monday.

Harris said it appeared to him the Banking Department had not met its responsibilities "and have not completely scrutinized the activities of certain chartered banks in Texas."

He said it was especially important for the Senate to have all the needed facts because of the pending confirmation of Dr. Elmer Baum as a member of the board.

Baum, state Democratic chairman and a close friend and business partner of Gov. Preston Smith, was named in federal depositions as having made a quick profit from buying stock with a loan from Sharpstown in 1969.

Mutscher gave Graves a chance today to bring up his resolution to temporarily remove the speaker, but Graves declined.

Graves said he would seek a vote on his resolution "if not the latter part of this week, at least the first part of next week" even if he finds he lacks the support to get it adopted.

He said his vote count is "in the ballpark" of about 40 members favoring the resolution.

Astronauts Put To Stern Test

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 14 astronauts climbed into spaceship trainers today for a stern test of how they would react to possible emergencies on the moon journey which starts Sunday.

Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell worked in the lunar module simulator and Stuart A. Roosa in the command ship trainer.

The plan for the lengthy exercise called for Mission Control center in Houston to advise them to run through a certain phase of the flight, such as lunar descent or liftoff. The controllers would then simulate a malfunction of a system aboard either or both craft and evaluate how well the astronauts take corrective action.

The controllers probably had trouble fooling Shepard, Mitchell and Roosa with emergency simulations. They have had more training than any previous Apollo crew, especially on trouble procedures.

"We've practiced reaction to many failures that previous crews did not have time for," Shepard said recently.

The astronauts gained the extra training time because of a real emergency—the oxygen tank explosion that aborted the Apollo 13 mission near the moon last April and forced the three pilots to wage a four-day fight for survival before they returned to earth.

The Apollo 14 liftoff has been delayed nearly four months while design changes were made to prevent a recurrence of the tank rupture.

At the launch pad today, the countdown was proceeding on schedule toward liftoff of the Saturn 5 rocket at 3:23 p.m. EST Sunday.

Major procedures today include loading gaseous helium used for pressurization aboard the command ship Kitty Hawk and pressurizing the propellant tanks in the lunar module Antares.

Shepard and Mitchell on Feb. 5 are to ride Antares to a landing in the Fra Mauro highlands to search for pristine lunar soil.

Police and civic officials meanwhile prepared to handle the half a million visitors Brevard County Sheriff Leigh Wilson predicts will converge on the area to watch the launching.

Heavy traffic is expected on all highways, but state, county and local officials are used to it.

"If we handled the Apollo 11 shot with a million people, then we can handle this one," Wilson said.

Former Local Minister To Be 'DID' Panelist

One of the visiting panelists for the Drug Information Day meeting here Feb. 1 is well known in Snyder.

The Rev. William N. Parkey served for theree years as minister of the First Christian Church here. He is now minister of Western Hills Christian Church in San Antonio, where he also is busy as counselor and in other social work, much of which is closely related to narcotics problems.

A graduate of Texas Christian University and of the Brite Divinity School, Rev. Parkey has done graduate work at TCU in the field of pastoral counseling, during which time he worked in the counseling program of the Harris Memorial Methodist Hospital and the U. S. Public Health Hospital at Fort Worth, working in the area of counseling patients with narcotics addictions.

In San Antonio, he serves on the board of the Inman Center, a neighborhood center and settlement house located in the Barrios on the west side of the city. He also is on the board of Ecumenical Center for Health and Religion in the Southwest Texas Medical Center, and is on a committee of the Bexar County Medical Society for health and religion. He is working now with a study group on Hispanic-American culture as well as the Bexar County Historical committee.

A major thrust of the settlement house work at this time is the establishment of facilities to aid narcotics addicts and in some way try to rehabilitate and settle them into the routine of community life.

The panel on which Rev. Parkey will serve will provide the information at the big mass meeting scheduled at the Scurrry County Coliseum. The "DID" community gathering is set for next Monday night. All adults of the Snyder area and school pupils from the 7th grade upward are being urged to attend.

The session will be devoted exclusively to factual information on drugs, their misuse and the rehabilitation of drug addicts. The session is expected to help in developing a drug education program for Snyder Public Schools, which they are required by law to put into operation next fall. Also, leaders who have worked to arrange the event hope that it may lead to organization of some type of community council which would be available to persons with drug problems, or who have questions on the subject from time to time.

Don't make issue of children's bodies

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are having a mild disagreement over a subject we have never seen discussed in your column. We agree to abide by your suggestions. [If you print this, please, no names.]

We have two children, an adopted daughter, 11, and a son of our own, 9. They have separate bedrooms but they frequently undress in front of each other, take baths together, etc. There is never anything that appears unhealthy; in other words from the standpoint of sex, they ignore it.

I think this is perfectly all right. My wife takes the opposite point of view and says we should insist that they not see each other undressed.

What is your feeling? If you agree with my wife, would your answer be different if the daughter were not adopted?

PRO AND CON

DEAR PRO: As long as children are not self-conscious about their bodies, don't make an issue of it; if you suggest that they "hide", they may become unduly curious, or get the idea that nudity is "wrong" or "dirty." As your daughter matures she will acquire modesty without being told. Whether they are "blood relatives" or not makes no difference.

DEAR ABBY: I wanted an engagement ring very much last year and my boy friend wasn't able to get it for me. So I took out a loan for the down payment with the understanding that he would make the payments.

So far he has never been late with the payments, but my problem is that around the time the payment is due, if we have a quarrel, he reminds me that the payment is due so I had better shape up.

Is there some way I can let him know that I love my ring, but I would rather do without it than have him holding it over my head the way he does? Please don't tell me I shouldn't have taken the loan out in the first place. I already know that.

NO MORE LOANS

DEAR NO MORE: Tell him in English, unless you can communicate better in another language.

DEAR ABBY: Now that the holiday season has come and gone I want to tell you about a barbaric custom which is considered very much "in" these days, and to which I am strongly opposed.

I am sick, sick, sick of the communal pot thrust upon holiday guests—both chip 'n' dip and fondue!

I have seen many otherwise well-mannered people dip into the tribal pot with a potato chip, bite off a portion, and redip into the pot again. Is it any wonder that flu and colds are rampant during holiday time? Also, I resent being handed a long fork and asked to cook my own meal at a fondue party. I can do that at home the other 364 days a year.

This custom of everyone slopping around in the same container remainds me of a tribe of natives sitting around a pot of boiled dog eating with their fingers. This is a plea for a more civilized form of entertaining.

NO DUNKER

DEAR NO: Okay, so decline all chip 'n' dips, and if you're invited to a fondue party, stay home. [P. S. And keep your eyes peeled for mistletoe!]

Parents Give Sons Kidneys

SAWYER, N.D. (AP) — Farmer Edward Klein has already given one of his kidneys to his son, Michael, 11. Mrs. Klein is about to do the same for their son Bruce, 10.

The kidney ailments which threatened the lives of the boys are not hereditary, the family's physician says, but are coincidence. Extensive tests on the other five Klein children have disclosed no evidence of diseased or damaged kidneys.

Michael had both kidneys and his spleen removed last May. About five weeks later a kidney was taken from his father and transplanted. Michael is now back in school.

Bruce had both his kidneys and spleen removed last week in a hospital at Minneapolis. A transplant of a kidney that will be taken from Mrs. Klein is scheduled Thursday.

The medical treatment and hospitalization costs for the two boys have put the Kleins $30,000 in debt.

Firemen Called

City Firemen answered a call to the Doris McKinnis residence, 510 Thirty-fourth Street, at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday. A smoking skillet on the stove prompted the call.

POW Tells Of Torture

NEW YORK (AP) — A former American prisoner of war in North Vietnam says Hanoi-released films depicting life in POW camps bear no relation to the torture treatment he had to undergo.

Maj. James Low, who was shot down over North Vietnam in December 1967 and released the following August, commented Tuesday in a television interview on the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkhite.

He described a torture in which his captors used a metal bar about 18 inches long and one inch in diameter.

"They put this in my mouth and a guy ... put his knee in my back and pulled this thing back against ... as far back as he could and the pain is excruciating. I never felt a pain worse than that," he said.

"They kept asking me questions and then all of a sudden they got up and pushed me down and took the bar out. They left for maybe another hour or so ... two hours. And then they came back again and the same treatment started again.

"Asking me what target, what target ... they had a big map out on the table and they went through the handcuff and twine routine and this time they really pulled this bar back inside. Blood gushed out from my ear ... ruptures something in there.

"This treatment went on and off for about well, six or seven days. Of course, whenever they were torturing me with this bar and what have you, I screamed because it really was excruciating. It seemed like when they'd leave me they'd go somewhere else and I could hear a person next door screaming, too. The same treatment, I presume it was my partner but I don't know for sure," he said.

Low, now operations officer at McCoy Air Force Base, Fla., was asked if there was any similarity between his treatment at the hands of the North Vietnamese and that shown in Christmas films of American POWs released by Hanoi.

"None at all," he said. "We had no group activity whatsoever. It was a camp regulation that you would not communicate with anyone else and if you did you were punished. And their punishment is not like ours. It's closer to torture when they punish you."

Cigarettes Taken From Store Here

Thieves forced entry into Carey's Drive-In Grocery, 2704 Twenty-fifth Street Tuesday night and stole several packages of cigarettes, according to a City Police report.

Officers also are investigating the theft of a bicycle from the Maria Corrales residence, 2809 Thirty-eighth Street. The theft occurred Monday.

Vandals have been shooting out street lights at Twenty-seventh Street and Avenue J, Avenue I and the Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific Railway Company tracks, and at Forty-fifth Street and Avenue V. Anyone witnessing such acts of vandalism are asked to contact the police department.

Rape Charge Is Filed Here

Sheriff's authorities have been busy lately.

Camilio Jasso was charged with statutuory rape Monday and remanded to county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Sheriff's authorities, who are investigating the case, said Jasso is accused of raping a 17-year-old girl in a field near his residence north of town last Saturday night.

A $5,000 bond also has been set for Chris Huber, 21, of Colorado City, who allegedly embezzled Munden's Discount Center out of $1,000 worth of firearms during the past month and a half. Huber formerly was assistant manager at the Munden's store. He also was remanded to county jail in lieu of bond.

Sheriff's authorities also are seeking a swindler who bilked an elderly Snyder man out of $4,000 last Friday. The swindler represented himself as being an employe of a bank. He told the victim that money was being taken out of his account and that all of the money should be withdrawn until he and officers apprehended the person taking the money. The swindler then switched envelopes with the victim and took the cash.

Sheriff's authorities said that local bank officials are not contacting individuals in the community and that they should be notified if anyone is contacted by anyone passing himself off as a bank employe.

Executions Continue In Guinea

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — Guinea's official radio reported today the execution of another person convicted of involvement in the invasion of the West African country in November.

The broadcast by Radio Conakry said the hanging of "an element of the fifth column" took place at Kindia, about 60 miles northeast of the capital. The identity of the person was not given.

Informants in Conakry reported four persons were hanged from a bridge on a main street in the capital on Monday.

The hangings were condemned earlier in the day by Pope Paul VI. The French government voiced its concern in Paris.

Pope Paul, in his sharpest attack to date on the actions of any one nation, deplored the hangings as "a blind and wicked vendetta in a collective explosion of hate and cruelty."

The pontiff told a general audience in St. Peter's Basilica that reports of the public hanging of persons convicted of plotting against the Guinean regime filled him with "profound sadness and grave disillusion."

He appealed to other African nations "not to fall into the irresponsibility of the arrogance of barbarism."

Guinea's national assembly on Sunday sentenced 92 persons to death—including 34 in absentia—and 66 others to life imprisonment for having a part in the abortive invasion by anti-Toure forces last November.

Gosdin Testifies On Park

AUSTIN (AP) — Federal officials who recommended purchase of park acreage on Mustang Island in 1967 looked at no other islands, a State Parks and Wildlife official testified today.

Mark Gosdin, director of parks services for the department, agreed that the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation urged purchase of 3,500 acres of Mustang for a state park.

"But they did not look at other islands up and down the coast. They looked at Mustang Island and Mustang Island alone, and despite their recommendation, we feel park land is needed more in other areas of the state," Gosdin said.

Gosdin testified in a suit by P&W Chairman Pearce Johnson seeking to block a matching $2.1 million federal grant for purchase of 3,800 acres on Mustang from Mrs. Sam Wilson of Corpus Christi.

Johnson was outvoted by the other two members of the P&W commission, L. P Gilvin and Harry Jersig, on a proposal to use $2.1 million in state park bonds to buy the land.

Johnson said this is all the money the state has left to buy park land for the next four years and that areas like Houston critically need new parks.

Gilvin and Jersig say the Mustang offer is the kind that comes along once in a lifetime and must be accepted.

Satellite In Stationary Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Intelsat 4, the world's largest communications satellite, was fired into stationary orbit high above the earth today. Launch preparations for another communications payload ran into trouble and the shot was postponed until Tuesday.

A radio signal from the ground jolted the 3,094-pound Intelsat 4 out of an elliptical orbit and locked it in a stationary position about 22,500 miles above the equator. Ground controllers planned to guide it slowly westward for several days to a precise position about halfway between Africa and South America.

The payload was launched from Cape Kennedy Monday night.

After about two weeks of checkout, Intelsat 4 will be ready for commercial service. It will be capable of handling up to 9,000 simultaneous telephone calls to and from North and South America, Europe and Africa.

A Delta rocket was to have been launched Thursday night to hurl a 535-pound communications satellite into orbit as a military and political communications link for the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Four May Testify At Penalty Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With their lives hanging in the balance, Charles Manson and three women followers may testify in the penalty phase of the Sharon Tate murder trial without opposition from their lawyers, the defense legal team says.

The jury that convicted the four begins hearing testimony Thursday on the penalty. Jurors must decide between life imprisonment and death in the gas chamber.

Chief defense attorney Paul Fitzgerald, who opposed efforts by the women defendants to take the stand during the seven-month trial, says he and other lawyers won't block them any longer.

"The defendants can take the stand if they want to," he said. "It's their lives, and if they want to testify, how can we in good conscience stop them?"

The prosecution seeks the death penalty for Manson, 36, leader of a roving hippie-style tribe, and the three women, who lived in his commune. They were convicted Monday of murder-conspiracy in the bloody slayings of Miss Tate and six others.

Coprosecutor Stephen Kay told a newsman the state would seek to show at the penalty trial that Manson and defendant Susan Atkins committed other crimes.

"The jury is entitled to know the background of the defendants to help them make the very hard decision on whether to send them to the gas chamber," he said.

No new evidence is expected against Leslie Van Houten, 21, and Patricia Krenwinkel, 23.

Kay said the state would offer evidence that Miss Atkins, 22, helped Manson kill Gary Hinman, a musician, a few weeks before the August 1969 Tate slayings. The two have been charged with Hinman's murder.

The prosecutor said he also would introduce testimony that Manson shot and wounded another musician early that month with a gun later used in the Tate killings.

Kay said the state probably would call about 10 witnesses and estimated the penalty phase could last "from two weeks to two months."

The defense, which called no witnesses and presented no evidence at the trial, plans to put on a full defense case with about 20 witnesses, Fitzgerald said. In the trial, the defense rested abruptly when the women insisted they wanted to testify. Defense attorneys refused to question them, saying the women intended to incriminate themselves in an attempt to clear Manson.

Mothers Fret Over Tall Girls

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Tall girls would have few social and emotional problems if their mothers wouldn't fret over them so much, a University of Southern California pediatrician says.

Dr. Douglas Frasier, associate professor of pediatrics and physiology, says the tall girl's problems is her mother's anxiety about the daughter's stature.

The mother is worried that her daughter won't get dancing partners and won't marry, he told a symposium here.

Critics Question FRS's Policy Regarding Credit

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — For 57 years the Federal Reserve System has guarded what it considers its birthright, the operation of an efficient monetary system carefully maintaining its independence even of the President.

During this time it sometimes scorned critics who questioned the wisdom of its operations or the scope of its vision, feeling that it had a sacred duty to maintain monetary discipline, even at the expense of short-term political and social considerations.

"The function of the Federal Reserve System is to foster a flow of credit and money that will facilitate orderly economic growth, a stable dollar, and long-run balance in our international payments."

That is how the FRS describes its role. It isn't the way some critics would like to see the nation's central bank operated. Where, they ask, are the specific social and humane goals the bank might have in mind?

In particular, they ask if FRS policy regarding credit has contributed to the drain of mortgage money from housing, made funds unavailable for urban rehabilitation and contributed to the financial plight of local governments.

Among the chief critics has been Rep. Wright Patman, the Texas Democrat who heads the House Committee on Banking and Currency.

"They have contended that their job is to administer monetary policy with a broad brush without concern for special sectors of the economy and without regard to economic and social goals," he states.

"However, in the actual application of this policy, the credit of the nation has been allocated unevenly, with the larger and more affluent elements of society willing and able to outbid the more need sectors..."

Now Patman has for ammunition a staff report by five researchers at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who examined the practices of 11 foreign central banks.

It is called "Activities by Various Central Banks to Promote Economic and Social Welfare Programs.

"Central banks in most countries," the report states, "designate certain sectors of the economy that are to receive favorable treatment from the central bank...In some cases this is done to aid preferentially particular sectors and in some cases this is done to offset the uneven impacts of private money markets."

In other words, such banks to one extent or another are used to promote social and economic goals. "This report clears up the mass of misconceptions about the utilization of monetary policy to meet basic economic needs," Patman said.

"For years," he continued, "we have heard officials of the Federal Reserve System claim that allocation of credit by a central bank is both impractical and unworkable."

Other central banks, said Patman in releasing the report, successfully allocate credit and are an integral part of economic planning. But to the FRS, he suggested, this only means that all the others are out of step.

Prof. Lester Thurow, who headed the study, declines to make any judgments based on the strictly factual report, but he does agree that all 11 central banks studied involve themselves more directly in socioeconomic issues.

"Our purpose was not to make a judgment as to what the Federal Reserve should do," he said. "It was to open up the issues to discussions, to make legitimate those questions the Federal Reserve has felt were not legitimate."

Junior Editors Quiz on SIDEBURNS

QUESTION: Where did sideburns originate?

ANSWER: Beards, mustaches and sideburns at first seemed somewhat strange to us, because we had just come out of a long period when it was fashionable for men to shave their faces and keep their hair clipped short. In ancient days, Alexander the Great made his soldiers cut off their beards so the enemy might not grab them in battle, and this helped to bring in the custom of shaving. But hair naturally grows on a man's face and men have worn hair there in many historical periods, especially in the 1800's. Franz Josef, ruler of Austria, wore long side whiskers, making them famous. When trimmed and worn with the rest of the face bare, they became the English "mutton chop" side whiskers. Then the Union General, A.E. Burnside, adopted "mutton chops" connecting them with a heavy mustache. This became a "Burnside" and then people, reversing the word, began calling it a "sideburn." The name became famous and was revived in the 1900s, meaning a length of hair grown down the cheek; now every other man seems to be wearing them.

Things We Could Do Without

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Some things we could do without:

Haircuts that make girls look like sheepdogs.

People who do the planning for planned obsolescence.

Commuter railroads who issue timetables when what they should put out is a calendar.

Anybody who buys a sauna bath with the idea it will serve him as a conversation piece the rest of his life.

Street cart peddlers who charge 35 cents for a hot dog so skinny you'd think it had been on a three-week starvation diet itself.

Decaying snow.

Steak tartar, artichokes and tapioca pudding.

All reminiscences of gall bladder operations. Memoirs of people who adopted strange pets, such as octopuses or aardvarks.

Anything which you don't need but which you can get two of if you fork up another penny.

Girls who try to practice on you the charms they learned at a charm school.

Young mothers with nicotine-yellowed fingers.

Teen-age boys who carry not one but two pocket combs.

Motorists who drive with their horn instead of their head.

Receding hairlines, gumlines and hemlines.

Anything you can see through but isn't worth looking at.

Invitations at $50 a plate to testimonial dinners for someone you never heard of.

Pickets who don't believe in anything but who, for pay, will carry placards supporting or denouncing any cause.

Tricky little babies you can pick up dry but always have to put down wet.

Anonymous letters from spiteful people who say they are only writing you for you own good.

People who actually relish picking from a tank of live fish or lobsters at an expensive restaurant the very one they will be consuming within the hour.

Listening to a golfer describe the weather and the condition of the green the day in 1939 when he missed making a hole in one by a mere inch and a half.

From these and other vexations, deliver us. Amen.

Weed Removal Aids Fishing

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist says that control of unwanted aquatic vegetation is the key to good fishing.

There has been a program under way which has resulted in thousands of acres of water weeds eliminated from lakes and ponds, said L. B. Guerra of San Antonio.

Guerra said in a research paper the management of recreational waters has become a speciality of fisheries biologists, requiring proper planning from the layout of a fish pond through stocking of fish.

The removal of weeds also prevents establishment of insect breeding grounds, reduces loss of water through evaporation from leaf surfaces and removes acquatic barriers which young forage fish use to escape the game fish which feed upon them, Guerra said,

Cutting Pollution

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Air Pollution Control Commission is holding classes throughout the state to instruct coal users on how to cut both costs and air pollution through effective use of the coal.

Texas Colleges Awarded Grant

AUSTIN (AP) — The Sid W. Richardson Foundation has awarded a $10,000 grant to the Association of Texas College and Universities to support the 1971 summer seminar on academic administration.

The two-week seminar is composed of 30 beginning academic administrators from the colleges and universities in the state.

This year's session will be July 12-23 at Texas A&M for one week and then move to the University of Texas at Austin for the second.

The seminar has been sponsored in former years by the Moody Foundation and the Houston Endowment, Inc. This year it will be under the direction of Dr. J. Stewart Allen, executive director of the ATCU.

The three-year-old program has been attended by more than 90 persons now in administrative posts at some 60 colleges and universities over the state.

Smashed Watch Is Replaced

PETERBOROUGH, England (AP) — For his next trick, the magician told the Sunday school party, he would smash 9-year-old Mark Jones' watch. The trouble was—he did. Two girls backstage had switched real and imitation watches and the embarrassed magician dashed the wrong one. He bought young Mark a new watch.

Tigers Triumph 57-53

Snyder's Tigers cleared a major hurdle in their quest for the District 3-AAA basketball crown last night by pinning a 57-53 setback on Lubbock Dunbar in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The game was the first one in the second round of the double round robin district schedule. if Snyder can win the second round, then the Tigers will meet Lamesa for the district title. The win also boosted the Bengal season record to a respectable 18-4 mark.

It was a close contest from start to finish with the lead changing hands five times in the first half. Snyder led 15-10 after one period, but Dunbar went ahead again later in the second frame. The Tigers finally went ahead 25-24 with 1:20 remaining in the first half. Two free throws by Kevin Jones had put the Bengals in a 26-24 lead.

However, Dunbar tied it up on a basket by Edward Davis. Then Kent Horsley, who played perhaps his finest game of the season for Snyder, scored from the inside to put the Bengals ahead again at 28-26. And Dubby Preston drove in for another two points as the halftime margin went to 30-26 in favor of Snyder.

The second half was a see-saw battle. The Tigers took as much as a six point lead in the third quarter, but Dunbar tied it up at 37-37 on two gratis tosses by Ray Tillman. Then Snyder went ahead 38-37 on a free throw by Bid Cooper. But Dunbar grabbed the lead again, at 39-38, on a two-pointer by Edward Davis. Kent Horsley then hit a free throw, Tommy Washington meshed a long shot, Dubby Preston connected on two shots from the field and Jerry Brooks put in two points to give the Bengals their 47-39 edge after three periods.

Snyder went as much as 13 points ahead of the Panthers in the last period, but a momentary lapse in the last minute enabled Dunbar to pull within four points.

Horsley led Tiger shooters with 18 points. Dubby Preston was just one point behind with 17, and Washington netted 12. For Dunbar, Ray Tillman was high point man with 15 points. Don McGraw contributed 11 points, and Glenn Davis collected 10.

The Bengals hit only nine of 26 from the field for 34 per cent in the first half and 11 of 25 for 44 per cent in the second half. At the line, they put in seven of 15 for 48 per cent in the first half and eight of 12 for 66 per cent in the second half.

Dunbar sank 11 of 23 for 48 per cent from the field in the first half and 13 of 33 for 36 per cent in the second half. At the line, they zeroed in five of seven for 71 per cent in the first half and two of five for 40 per cent in the second half.

Snyder's 15-7 edge in total free throws enabled the Bengals to win since Dunbar led 23-21 in field goals.

Horsley also had a good night under the boards, grabbing 12 rebounds. Jerry Brooks collected 11 as the Bengals led the Panthers 41-36 in total rebounds.

In the B team game, the Kittens overcame a 12-9 first period deficit to take a 56-54 victory. The hosts led 28-21 at halftime and 43-34 after three frames. Charles Anderson roped 20 points and Jackie Hartsfield canned 10 for the Kittens. For Dunbar JV, Thomas Howard put in 20 points and Donnell Bailey meshed 17.

Elsewhere in District 3-AAA last night, Lamesa defeated Colorado City 74-55, Sweetwater beat Brownfield 64-46, and Estacado tripped Lake View 76-49.

Carlen To Speak At Tiger Grid Banquet

Jim Carlen, head football coach at Texas Tech, will be the featured speaker at the football banquet sponsored by the Snyder Booster Club. It will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the high school cafeteria.

High School football players, their dates, cheer leaders and their dates, and some administrators and school board members will be guests. Everyone else must have a ticket. They cost $3 and can be purchased at the door tomorrow night.

Carlen, who came to Tech from West Virginia, posted an 8-4 won-lost record during his first year at the Red Raider helm. Tech also appeared in the Sun Bowl against Georgia Tech. Carlen has played or coached in 11 bowl games.

The Tech coach was named Southwest Conference Coach of the Year by the Dallas Morning News. He has been in demand as a speaker at banquets similar to the one in which he will appear in Snyder.

His career coaching record is 55-18-4, and it includes a 14-3 Peach Bowl victory over South Carolina in his last year at Virginia. He played and coached under Bobby Dodd at Georgia Tech. He was a linebacker and a punter.

Carlen was assistant coach for one year in his home town of Cookville, Tenn after graduation. He spent two years coaching an Air Force team at Weisbaden, Germany, where his teams posted a 22-2-10 record. After military service, he was assistant freshman coach at Georgia Tech, and then he became head of the Georgia Tech defense.

He is married to the former Sharon Garner of Alcoa, Tenn., and they have three daughters.

Horned Frogs Are In First Place

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Wports Writer

Texas Christian holds sole possession of first place in the Southwest Conference basketball chase today and Coach Johnny Swaim is going to give his Horned Frogs exactly 24 hours to celebrate.

TCU's 93-85 victory over Southern Methodist coupled with Texas A&M's stunning 74-73 upset of defending champion Rice Tuesday night left the Horned Frogs as the only undefeated team in the young SWC race.

"I've been here before and I know there's still mountains and valleys and chugholes ahead," said Swaim. "There are a lot of obstacles before we get to the championship, but we're going to celebrate one day anyway.

"In fact, I told the kids I didn't even want to see them today. Just take the day off..."

TCU is 3-0 while Rice, Baylor and Texas Tech own 2-1 records in second place.

Swaim said, "We have a heckuva test ahead of us with Texas and Arkansas on the road. We haven't won down at Austin since 1959 and play there Saturday. If we win one of the two road games we'll still be ahead of the game."

TCU's victory was fashioned on Simpson Degrate's 28 points, including 20 in the second half, and Eugene Goo Kennedy's 17 rebounds. Kennedy played only 24 minutes because of foul trouble.

High for SMU, now 1-2, was Gene Phillips who poured in 27 points. Larry Delzell added 22.

The Texas Aggies fought from 14 points behind to nail the Owls in Houston and remain in the SWC race.

Rick Duplantis came up with the big play for the Aggies, blocking a Rice shot in the dying seconds of the game.

A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf said, "You have to be happy when you come back from 14 points behind against the two best guards in the conference (Gary Myer and Gary Reist)."

In an intersectional clash, Texas did the conference proud with an 89-81 victory over the Southern Illinois Saluki, now 5-7 for the year.

Texas, paced by Mike Dukes who had 24 points, is now 7-6 for the year.

In conference games Saturday other than the Texas-TCU clash, Rice is at Baylor, Arkansas at Southern Methodist and Texas Tech is at Texas A&M.

Craig Could Be Great

NEW YORK (AP) — Chuck Howley thinks Craig Morton has the tools to lead a Dallas stampede back to the Super Bowl—if the struggling quarterback puts his mind to it.

Morton's erratic performances, up to and including the Cowboys' 16-13 loss to the Baltimore Colts in Super Bowl V, came up for discussion Tuesday after Howley was honored by Sport Magazine as the Most Valuable Player in pro football's world championship game.

Howley, an All-Pro linebacker who has seen Morton perform at his best and worst for six NFL seasons, refused to rap the quarterback, as teammate Lee Roy Jordan did recently at an awards dinner in Alabama. But he conceded that the strong-armed Californian wasn't the quarterback he should be in 1970.

"I feel that the level at which Craig has been playing is not the level he's capable of," said Howley, first player on a losing team to win MVP honors in the title game.

"What his problems are, I don't know. He's had a lot of injuries, but it's more than that ... something within himself. Possibly, its a mental picture. Something is handicapping him from being the great quarterback he could be."

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — People have been saying unkind things about Florida's Parker Hall basketball court.

Dave Hunter of the Gainesville Sun called the 3,100-seat Parker Agricultural Hall where games are played "the world's biggest garage."

"It's so small," said Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp, "it would take only five gallons of gas to burn it down."

New Orleans Is No. 1 Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If there was ever a prime example that practice makes perfect, it's LSU-New Orleans. That's all the Tigers did last week, and today they find themselves on top of The Associated Press College Division basketball poll.

LSU-New Orleans vaulted from third to first, with Louisiana Tech dropping from first to fourth, Southwest Louisiana remaining second and Kentucky State moving from fourth to third.

The nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters give LSU-New Orleans, 13-0, six first-place votes and 254 points. Southwestern Louisiana got three first place votes and 249 points, Kentucky State two firsts and 217 points and Louisiana Tech three first and 195 points.

While LSU-New Orleans was practicing, not playing, Louisiana Tech was losing two of three games and Southwestern Louisiana and Kentucky State both were winning single starts.

Ashland moved from seventh to fifth; Fairmont State, 14-0, the only other unbeaten team in the Top Ten and the receiver of the only other first-place vote, advanced from eighth to sixth; Tennessee State fell from fifth to seventh; Kentucky Wesleyan fell from sixth to eighth; Stephen F. Austin remained ninth and Eau Claire remained 10th.

The Second Twenty is Puget Sound, Howard Payne, Indiana State of Indiana, Moorhead of Minnesota, Old Dominion, Oral Roberts, Central State of Ohio, Central Washington, Assumption and North Carolina A&T.

Assumption and North Carolina A&T are newcomers to the Top Twenty. Elon, 17th the previous week, and Sam Houston State, which had been 19th, dropped from the rankings.

National Culture Found In New Old San Juan

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Don't tell Ricardo Alegria that Puerto Rico lacks culture, at least not within the 15-foot thick walls of the Spanish-built city of Old San Juan, which is 450 years old this year.

As executive director of the Institute of Puerto Rican Culture, Alegria has presided for 15 years over what is regarded as the institute's greatest cultural achievement, the restoration of the "Old City," as it is called.

While most people admire the achievement, there is fear expressed by some that Old San Juan may become one big museum, where only the affluent could afford to live and where only tourists would want to visit.

They cite a decline in population during the 1960s from nearly 8,000 to about 3,500. This was also the most active period of the restoration.

Founded in 1521, San Juan is the oldest city under the U.S. flag—although it was in Spanish hands the first 377 years. Only Santo Domingo, founded in 1496, is older in the Western Hemisphere.

The rest of metropolitan San Juan, and its 700,000 people, sprawls for miles to the south and east of the old city and resembles any American metropolis.

It is only within the walls of Old San Juan, in its cathedrals, fortresses, museums and restored homes that one can still capture the flavor of the Spanish tradition.

In the old city, there is the seldom-rivalled beauty of the white and beige Spanish buildings silhouetted against the blue sea and the blue sky. A steady ocean breeze cools the narrow, blue brick streets, even on the hottest days.

It is true there are slum buildings, homosexual bars, houses of prostitution, drunks, stray dogs and an occasional drug addict nodding down the street. But to those who enjoy living in the old city, this is part of the over-all atmosphere that makes the city attractive.

"Old San Juan is a complete living unit," says Francisco Javier Blanco, an architect who has lived in the city nearly 10 years.

"You can't find this in the suburbs. Those are places to sleep, not places to live. San Juan is a place to live."

After the city had lapsed into disrepair and slums at the beginning of this century, the island legislature created the Institute of Puerto Rican Culture in 1955 to preside over the city's restoration. About 160 of the city's 600 buildings have been renovated to date.

Besides the restoration of Old San Juan, the institute also presides over 15 island museums, many of which it has established itself, and also sponsors concerts, symposiums, plays and art exhibits of all kinds which feature local and foreign talent.

"To be in favor of Puerto Rican culture now is something elegant," he continued. "We have found we have a national culture. Examples are our architecture, literature, folk arts and music. The work of the Institute has been in rediscovering this culture."

The restoration projects include the Casa Blanca mansion, which was started in 1523 and was the home of the sons and descendants of Juan Ponce de Leon, the Spanish conqueror of Puerto Rico and the island's first governor.

San Juan dominates a small islet that is connected to the main island of Puerto Rico by two bridges. Surrounded on three sides by thick defensive walls which are more than 100 feet high in places, the city is made further spectacular by two enormous Spanish forts.

El Morro Fortress, started in 1539, commands the entrance to San Juan Bay on the west, and San Cristobal, started in 1772, overlooks the land approach to the east.

No building alterations, demolitions or structural changes are permitted without institute approval. An advisory group of architects engineers, historians and others advises on all restorations projects.

One of those who feels the restoration program may be going too far is Javier Blanco, the architect who is a former member of the island planning board and who currently is executive director of the Conservation Trust of Puerto Rico.

He said the city's value as a living unit is threatened when there are homes valued at $100,000.

"The man who owns such a home begins to look suspiciously at the corner tavern and feels it isn't helping his investment," he said. "Also, as the cost of real estate goes up, the man who owns the corner tavern or who fixes your plumbing, but who can only afford $30 month rent, has to leave the city."

IRS Director Has Resigned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Randolph W. Thrower, director of the Internal Revenue Service, has resigned his position and will return to private law practice in Atlanta, Ga., the White House has announced.

Thrower, in a letter to Nixon, said it was "timely and appropriate for me to submit my resignation with the expectation of returning to the practice of law in Atlanta" at the halfway point in Nixon's four-year term.

Thrower was appointed commissioner on March 28, 1969. His letter of resignation was dated Monday and the White House reply was made Tuesday.

Nixon, saying he accepted the resignation "with particular regret," praised Thrower for his "exceptionally dedicated service." He asked him to delay his departure "until the end of February in order to take maximum advantage of your experience in arranging for an orderly transfer of responsibilities."

Thrower said his resignation should not be related to the arrival of John B. Connally, who is the new Secretary of the Treasury "except that it's just a part of the total change."

Mrs. Kennedy was accompanied on a weekend tour of community action projects at the Pala and Rincon reservations by two Robert F. Kennedy Foundation fellowship winners.

After visiting an Indian dental clinic in Pauma Valley, Mrs. Kennedy attended a conference here of the California Rural Indian Health Program.

FOR SOCALLED CATASTROPHIC ILLNESSES

Federal Assistance Bill Is Pushed In Congress

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal assistance to Americans faced with spiraling medical costs, particularly for the so-called catastrophic illnesses, is being pushed in Congress with three bills being introduced so far.

The latest move was introduction Tuesday of a bill to provide middle-income Americans financial protection against very expensive illnesses.

Sen. J. Caleb Boggs, R-Del., one of three Senate sponsors, said the measure provides for creation of "pools" by existing private insurance companies.

Their cumulative resources would make them rich enough to offer reasonably priced medical insurance previously too expensive for middle-income families.

"The federal role," Boggs said, "would be limited to re-insuring, where necessary, private insurance companies or insurance pools against loss."

An aide to the chief sponsor of a similar House measure, Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., explained that situation would come about only if there were so many very expensive illnesses among policyholders at one time that the pool could not pay all the bills.

Hogan's office said a family with an annual adjusted income of $10,000 would have to buy its first $8,500 worth of medical insurance a year under existing programs. Only medical costs over $8,500 would be covered by the legislation.

"It's not an all-encompassing health-care proposal," Hogan said. "It's aimed at that middle section in the middle-income level.

Hogan's proposal drew quick criticism from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who Monday joined with more than 20 other senators in introducing a far broader hospital insurance proposal.

"Ours certainly goes beyond this," an aide to Kennedy said. "Eighty-five hundred dollars is out of sight. It's not that much less than what most middle-income families are making a year."

He said Kennedy supports the concept of catastrophic insurance, but said any minimum level should be well below $8,500.

President Nixon, in his state of the Union Address Friday, said he too will propose new hospital insurance legislation.

But the President said his program will "ensure that no American family will be prevented from obtaining basic medical care by inability to pay."

In another action Tuesday, Rep. Nick Galifianakis, D-N.C., proposed the federal government repay the educational debt of doctors and other health professionals who agree to practice for three years in areas short of medical facilities and personnel.

Galifianakis has introduced the same proposal in the past and seen it die.

Experts To Probe Silt For Ships

BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — Scientists spurred by an Old Testament story will use electronic devices to probe the silt beneath the Gulf of Aqaba for the ships of King Solomon, who ruled Israel a thousand years before Christ.

"The Book of Kings tells over and over again of a fabulous trading center called Ezion Geber. No one knows where it was exactly, but the Bible tells of a fleet of ships going down there in a great storm," says Robert Rines, one of the men making the expedition.

Rines, president of the American Academy of Applied Science, and scientists from Britain, the United States and Israel will explore an area in the gulf off Israel.

They will use mud-penetrating sonar devices and metal detecting gear to try to locate the remains of ships which once brought Solomon the profits and luxuries of commerce from India, southern Arabia and Ethiopia.

"If the fleet was covered quickly by silt, then we hope it should be pretty well preserved," Rines said. "If we find evidence of anything, then divers will go down.

"History shows the area also was used by the Crusaders, so even if we don't go as far back as Solomon we are hopeful of finding something," he said.

Rines declined to reveal the exact site of the probe because "we want to discourage publicity-sightseers who would clutter up our work."

Panel Says Museum To Get Treasures

AUSTIN (AP) — The Corpus Christi Museum should get the treasures recovered from a sunken Spanish galleon off Padre Island, a House committee has recommended.

Ownership of the treasures still is being disputed in court. The firm that recovered them, Platoro Inc. of Gary, Ind., won the last round in the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals on its claim that it had a contract with the state for a 50-50 split.

The House Interim Committee on the Housing of the Artifacts found off Padre Island released a report Tuesday calling for the treasure to become the property of the permanent school fund.

It should be moved in a mobile unit from time to time so that all Texas school children have a chance to see it, the committee said.

The city of Corpus Christi should furnish the insurance, security, personnel and facilities for restoration, preservation, and display of the artifacts, the committee said.

The treasure was recovered in 1967. The Spanish galleon was part of a fleet en route to Spain from Mexico that was driven into the Texas coast by a hurricane in 1553.

Truman In GoodCondition

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman's physician says a moderate amount of diverticulitis in the intestinal tract is the apparent cause of the former president's abdominal difficulty.

The disorder is one in which material from the intestinal tract collects in sac-like appendages to the large intestine, causing irritation.

Dr. Wallace Graham said Tuesday that Truman also has some hardening of the arteries but in no greater amount than is commonly found in a person Truman's age. Truman will be 87 May 8.

Tuesday night, John Dreves, hospital information director, said Truman continued in good condition and his appetite showed steady improvement.

Graham gave no indication of how long Truman will be hospitalized. He has been in Research Hospital since last Thursday.

Thief Complains

BECKENHAM, England (AP) — Philip Goodhart, a conservative Member of Parliament, got himself re-elected to the House of Commons in 1970, but the year had its downs too, he tells constituents. In a New Year's message he reported:

"As far as I was concerned, the most surprising single event was the telephone call I received in the early hours of an autumn morning, when the man who had broken into our house a few days before rang up and complained about the quality of the objects he had stolen ..."

College Grad Job Prospects

(Second of two parts)

Career Corner
by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

"Occupational Outlook Quarterly," an excellent professional journal published by the Federal Labor Department, reports that manpower requirements (about 10.4 million) will roughly equal the supply (about 10.5 million) of college-educated personnel during the period between 1968 and 1980.

However, the Quarterly also points out, all career fields won't be in balance, and the large number of highly educated workers expected may end many long-time occupational shortages. For instance ...

"SURPLUSES of elementary and secondary teachers, mathematicians and life scientists may result if students continue to elect these fields in the same proportion as in the past." The Quarterly notes there are other potentially sharp differences in the demand-supply situation among occupations, but first, as background, it is useful to understand how manpower requirements are calculated:

"NEED FOR WORKERS stems generally from 2 sources: employment growth in occupations ... and the need to replace workers who die, retire, or otherwise leave the labor force. But another factor is relevant in considering the need for college-educated manpower: rising job entry requirements that make a college degree necessary for jobs once performed by workers with lower educational attainment."

Considering these 3 factors – growth, replacement, and rising entry requirements – it is estimated that of the new college graduates needed by 1980, 6.1 million stem from occupational growth and rising entry requirements, while 4.3 million will be needed to replace other workers.

THE POINT IS: Although growth is a key indicator of future job outlook, you should not stop evaluating when you spot a high growth rate – concluding that a particular occupation offers the best prospects for you; millions of jobs will result from replacement needs and rising entry requirements, as well. Replacement needs, for instance, will be considerable in occupations which are loaded with older workers and women. And, large occupations that have little growth may offer more openings than a fast growing smaller one. In short, you need to find out the WHOLE story about an occupation which interests you – not go into a career merely because it has a high growth rate. Getting down to supply-demand occupational specifics ...

SHORTAGES in the professional health occupations should continue to exist, according to Labor Department authorities. The supply of physicians and dentists, for example, is expected to fall short of requirements because of the limited capacity of medical and dental schools. Several other areas and occupations for which potential shortages are in prospect include counseling, social work, urban planning, dietitians, optometrists, and a variety of jobs related to the planning and administration of local governments. Two professions in which supply-demand should be about equal are architecture and law. The number of pharmacists is expected to slightly exceed the requirements. But, again, remember that conditions change constantly as people react to expected situations, which is why manpower research is conducted on a continuing basis. Which is why it is to your advantage to stay abreast of developing trends.

SEVERAL CAREERS about which peer authorities currently differ concerning the future outlook include engineering, chemistry and physics. This is not to say that qualified professionals in these fields have dim prospects – merely that prospects are uncertain at this time. One of the reasons is that much of the outlook in science and technology depends on national social and political decisions.

Sister Is Jailed For Refusing To Testify

By PAT KEITH
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A 52-year-old nun named as a co-conspirator in an alleged bomb-kidnap plot spent the night in jail for refusing to testify before a federal grand jury even though granted immunity.

Erect, white-haired Sister Jogues Egan was judged in contempt Tuesday when she declined to answer most of about 60 questions put to her by the jury.

"I nave a duty to obey my conscience and my principles," Sister Jogues said after Judge R. Dixon Herman of U.S. District Court ordered her placed in the custody of a U.S. marshal. She was held overnight in the York County Prison.

The nun's attorney, Jack Levine, said he would appeal Herman's ruling to the 3rd Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia as soon as possible, "perhaps today."

Judge Herman told Sister Jogues she could get out of jail as soon as she agreed to testify "within the life of the grand jury." The jury could sit up to 18 months.

The New York nun told the court:

"I have no desire to stand in contempt of this court, but I must obey my conscience and I have no desire to stand in contempt of a court which I believe is higher than any court of the United States."

She had asserted earlier, first in a statement to newsmen, then repeatedly before the grand jury, that her appearance was prompted by illegal wiretapping evidence and that the government had bugged the telephone calls of the Roman Catholic Church in both this country and Rome.

Sister Jogues did not say how she knew a wiretap of Church telephones existed. However, Levine said the phone tap on Rome calls, if there was one, was a continuing one at the headquarters of the religious order to which the nun belonged. Levine said it was not a Vatican phone.

In Rome, a spokesman for the Vatican said, "We are unaware of such tapped phone calls." A spokesman for the headquarters of the Sacred Heart of Mary Order, to which Sister Jogues belongs, declined to comment in the absence of the mother superior, now on a six-month visit to Africa.

Herman scheduled further argument today on whether to grant immunity to three aditional witnesses.

The six persons named as defendants in the bomb-kidnap indictment are accused of planning to blow up heating tunnels in Washington buildings and kidnap Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's foreign affairs adviser. Sister Jogues is not a defendant.

Accused of masterminding the alleged plot is the Rev. Philip Berrigan, 47. He now is in a federal prison at Danbury, Conn., for destroying draft records.

In Baltimore Tuesday, three of those indicted declared the government action is an attempt to "paralyze the peace movement in general."

"We are being used as a political lever by the government," said Father Neil McLaughlin.

Father McLaughlin, 30, the Rev. Joseph Wenderoth, 35; and former priest Anthony Scoblick, 30, all of Baltimore, met with newsmen Tuesday for the first time since their indictment Jan. 12 by the federal grand jury in Harrisburg.

"Nonviolence is the most viable way to relate to the peace movement," declared Father McLaughlin.

"We have chosen not to engage in any way in violent activity," he said. He said he and others had considered but rejected tactics such as bombing and Kidnaping.

H. L. Tennison Recommended For Panel

AUSTIN (AP) — Harry L. Tennison of Fort Worth has been recommended by Sen. Ronald Bridges of Corpus Christi for the Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Bridges urged Gov. Preston Smith in a letter dated Monday to appoint Tennison to succeed L. P. Gilvin, whose term expires at the end of this month.

It has been speculated that Smith would name someone likely to team with chairman Pearce Johnson to give Smith a majority on the three-man commission.

Gilvin and Harry Jersig, both appointed by former Gov. John Connally, outvoted Johnson on a proposal to buy 3,800 acres of Mustang Island.

The Mustang Island controversy is being tried in Austin's U.S. district court.

Bridges said Tennison is "an acknowledged sportsman, renowned for his interest in conservation and the building of better parks in the making of more available game and wildlife for Texans."

Bridges opposed Johnson—and therefore Smith—in the Mustang Island dispute.

DESPITE TREATMENT

Oil-Coated Birds Dying

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More than 1,700 birds reseued from the oily waters around San Francisco have died, and most of the 800 remaining in shelters will not survive much longer, experts say.

"It's nearly impossible to keep them alive," San Francisco Zoo Director Ron Reuther said Tuesday. He estimated that only 2 or 3 per cent of the waterfowl picked up after an oil tanker spill would recover.

The zoo set up a holding and treatment center last Thursday night and has handled 1,551 besmirched birds. Only 378 survive, Reuther said.

A volunteer-operated center across the bay in Richmond said Tuesday it had received 988 birds, some dead on arrival, and 420 were still alive.

Species involved include ducks, grebes, scoters, murres and loons.

The birds were trapped in an estimated 840,000 gallons of thick bunker oil that spewed into the bay Jan. 18 after two tankers of Standard Oil Co. of California collided near fog shrouded Golden Gate Bridge.

Standard Oil said about two-thirds of the spilled oil had been recovered and that remaining accumulations in the bay and along the Pacific coastline were light.

Reuther said the oil-coated birds "just have everything going against them."

"First, the oil gets into their systems and poisons them. Then, the oil coating breaks up the body insulation, and the bird dies from exposure," he added.

Reuther said, "Some won't eat, and we force feed them if necessary, but some haven't eaten for four days."

The mineral oil and cornmeal used in cleaning removes the birds' natural waterproofing. Experiments were started with new compounds designed to overcome this problem.

At the Richmond treatment center, a former paper warehouse, a new step in therapy for the nervous, ailing sea birds was tried Tuesday.

"We played them sea sounds on stereo—the noise of waves and that sort of thing," said Greg Voelm of Ecology Action, coordinator of the rescue effort.

Judge Declines

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Prospective juror Charles A. Loring declined to serve, and told the presiding judge he wished him well but "if you don't get on the ball, you can be replaced by a machine."

In a letter to the presiding judge, Loring said he couldn't be a juror because he is the presiding judge. The judge's name, like other prospective jurors, was chosen at random from lists of registered voters. The summons was a form letter over his own signature.

"I hope you have a successful year as presiding judge," prospective juror Loring said to Judge Loring in his letter Wednesday. "I am rooting for you, but if the foregoing is a sample of your work, you're not getting off to a very good start."
