Band Number One In Marching

For the third year in a row and the fourth time in the last six years, the Lockney High School band has received a "I" or "superior" rating at UIL marching contest. The contest was Wednesday in Jones Stadium, Lubbock.

Winning a "I" in marching is the first step toward the coveted "sweepstakes" which the Longhorn Band has won the past two years. If the band gets first-division ratings in UIL concert and sightreading contests next March, it will bring home its third consecutive sweepstakes trophy.

The Lockney unit was one of seven Class-AA bands to receive the top rank Wednesday. Others were Denver City, Seminole, Floydada, Littlefield, Frenship, and Dimmitt.

Receiving second-division ratings were bands from Morton, Muleshoe, Idalou, Friona, Slaton, Olton and Abernathy.

Third-division ratings went to the Tahoka, Post, Cooper and Roosevelt bands.

Some of the critics' remarks about the LHS band's performance Wednesday:

"Playing carefully worked out-good job."

"Good spirited entrance."

"Nice circle drill, neat way to get into it."

"Fine band-well taught."

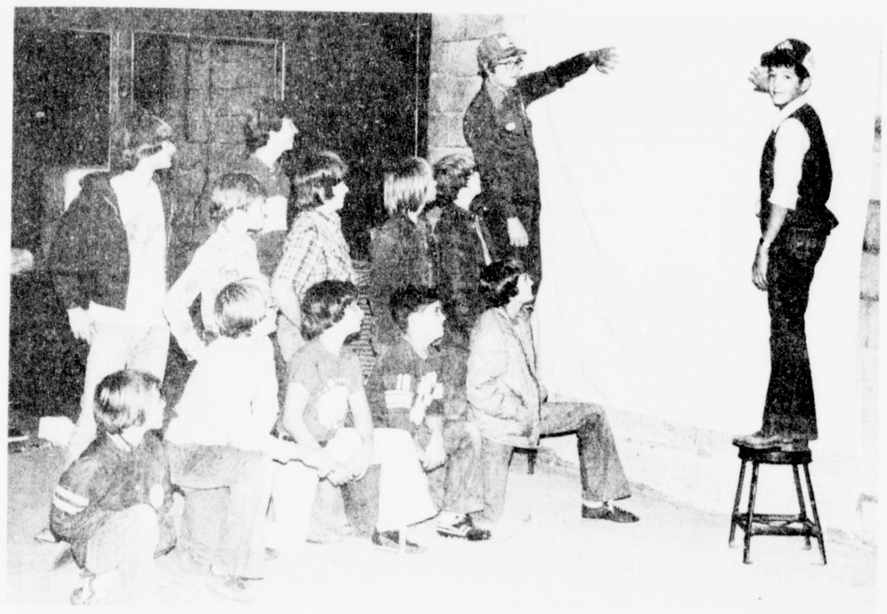

"A good band, obviously a well-taught, disciplined group."

"Over all a very nice job. Good work, band....congratulations."

Band director Raymond Lusk said a good group of parents went to the contest, and....."We appreciate their support."

"I" IN TWIRLING, TOO

Terri Kinard, the band's feature twirler, received a first-division rating in the twirling contest.

She will tell you that she made the large braided rugs on the floor and that she has enough material collected for another she plans to do soon. Other handwork includes a meticulously done bell pull hanging on the wall. And there are crocheted and knitted pieces here and there.

"After our son, Bob was killed, I woke at 2 o'clock every morning. Dee couldn't stand for me to get up so early, so I knitted. I did that for nearly a year. Knitting just relaxes you, I think."

Before the Copelands were married, Arla lived in Arkansas.

"I was born in Aurora, Arkansas, a small place where there was a blacksmith shop, a general store and a post office.

"My father, J.R. Wheeler farmed in the valley near Aurora. There was a river that went through near by. My father believed that there should always be a church. He read the Bible so much that we used to talk about how he periodically wore out a Bible.

"When I was about 12, he bought a fruit farm in Springdale. I was in the sixth grade then I finished high school there. It was my home until I married.

"As far back as I can remember, I wanted to be a teacher, even when I was a very small little girl."

Her father had always said if ever he had a child that wanted to go to school, he would send him.

"He borrowed money to send me. The university was about 9 miles from Springdale.

"I also went to Gunter, Texas to school. That is where I met Dee. The most important thing that happened while I was there."

She began her teaching career by teaching three years at country school. She had a letter from Dee each week of the three years while she was teaching.

Her first teaching experience in Lockney came because a home making teacher could not be found.

The superintendent promised a teacher to take her place in six weeks, but none could be found. At a home making teacher's meetings Arla boosted Lockney and Lockney schools thinking to attract a teacher to Lockney to take her place.

"I found myself still there four years later. I did not know at the time, but teaching was getting into my blood. I did not really want to teach because I like doing things at home. However, all the time I was teaching, I was becoming addicted to teaching.

Following this four years, she had her third child, Celia. When Celia was quite small, Arla was being called again to substitute teaching.

"I taught everything offered in the curriculum except football."

MRS. DEE COPELAND, home builder and teacher.

Once during this time, she substituted for Nora Ayers and "just fell in love with those eight-year olds."

"I remember after I had done lots of substituting that Mr. Irons called me in and said, You have taught all year without pay. Why not come in to regular teaching? You have enough credits to be a regular teacher.'

"Our second child, Frances, insisted I study for a masters. I went to Tech during the summer until I did get an M.A. in elementary education. I decided then for sure that teaching was in my blood. I taught and I loved it.

"However, during the 1976 T.S.T.A. luncheon at the end of school where retiring teachers are honored and presented a silver tray, I was given the silver tray with the years that I had taught along with 1976 as my retiring date engraved on the tray.

"I believe they are trying to tell me something," I said when I was handed the tray.

After the T.S.T.A. luncheon, all personal property including classroom helps were taken home. Summer passed as many other summer vacations had passed, but at school starting time, there was a difference.

"I smelled September--it was like blackboard chalk and erasers. I could hardly stand that day. I baked two apple cakes and promised Dee he would have no more peanut butter sandwiches and apples for his lunch.

"Until I smelled September, I had not missed being away from teaching.

I had told Frances once that I would stop when I was too tired to teach, but she had said, 'Mother, you should quit when you are still enjoying it. Now I had stopped through a message on a silver tray.

"After about two weeks, the telephone rang and Dee said, 'It's for you.' It was Mr. Hallmark. 'Yes, I'll be there!' Dee said he could tell by the sparkle in my eyes that I had been asked to substitute. I have been substituting since.

"I am not ready for the rocking chair, for I have things to do. Scientists have learned to prolong the length of life, but the quality of life is much more important and that is up to each individual. It is true that how long one lives is not nearly so important as how well one lives. I have not had time to rock this summer. I have painted the trim on our house, except the gables, canned frozen food for the freezer and have had the grandchildren with us for days of sheer joy.

"There is one thing that i have never had to worry about and that is getting old and losing my beauty for never was I accused of being beautiful.

"Several years ago, while I was still in the 50's, someone told me that when you approach the 60's, you should have a standing appointment with a beauty shop. I had a bit of difficulty in finding one that would tackle the job. I found one in her less guarded moments, and she gave me every Thursday.

"I just left it up to her and did my best to enjoy it. I read under the dryer (or I should say fryer). I thought the reward would be worth the sacrifice. All went well for a few months. But one day I had a pretty full day. I made it through the dryer and dashed to the grocery store.

"When I walked in carrving a big bag of groceries Celia Ann said, 'Mother, where have you been?'

' I have been to the grocery store.'

'With your hair like that!'

"That was a bit discouraging following having parboiled by brain while I graded math problems."

"When it comes to make-up, Phil Donohue said that when some women look down, it reminds him of closing a newly-painted garage door. Plucking the eyebrows is just plain painful even if mine do look like John L. Lewis.

"I have never had a face lift. I doubt whether a plastic surgeon would take the job. I am consoled by the fact that women my age who have no wrinkles have never laughed nor cried. I have done both."

Arla believes that clothes serve a function—and that is to cover the anatomy.

Weed District Ceases Operation

Floyd County landowners voted 583-311 Tuesday to dissolve the Floyd County Noxious Weed Control District. According to Kenneth Wofford, chairman of the weed control district's board of directors, the district ceased operation as of the vote to dissolve.

All debts owed the district are still due, and the district will pay all debts it has incurred. Any money left over after dissolution of the district goes into the county treasury.

Equipment owned by the district will be disposed of as prescribed by law. The board of directors will meet Tuesday morning to decide on procedures.

The weed control district building in Floydada is built on county-owned land, and the building will become property of the county in accordance with an agreement made when it was built.

City Council Hears From SPAG, Cable TV, Police Chief

The Lockney city council's regular monthly meeting was Thursday morning. The council took care of routine business ("paying the bills," approving the minutes of the October meeting), then talked with representatives of Television Signal Service, South Plains Association of Governments, and the Lockney Police Department.

Jerry Ford of TV Signal Service said the cable TV company is looking for property in Lockney on which to construct a small office building and a reception tower and "dish." Ford said transmission line poles are being delivered to Lockney now, but didn't say when Lockney residents could expect cable TV service. He did say that Lockney will have the same reception as Floydada, that eventually "the dial will be full," and that Home Box Office will be offered in Lockney.

Ken Leggett, community development planner for the South Plains Association of Governments, met with the council and proposed a "community improvement workshop" in Lockney. SPAG will conduct the workshops at no charge to the city, if the city government arranges a meeting place and advertises to get people to the meeting. The council decided to wait until after cotton harvest to hold a workshop.

Police Chief Bill McConnell reported to the council. He said few serious offenses had been committed recently, except for a burglary at Dan's Auto. He discussed with the council placing no-u-turn signs at the intersection of Main and Washington streets and making u-turns legal at the "T" intersection one block north. The council took no action on the u-turn problem, deciding to check with the city's attorney to see if an ordinance was needed.

Present at the meeting were Mayor Claude Brown; alderman Thurman Davis, J.D. Copeland, Bobby McCormick and Jerry Perry; city secretary Erma Lee Duckworth; Leggett, Ford and McConnell.

In Bladon, we visited St. Martins Church, where Winston Churchill was buried close to his father's grave. We then went on to Woodstock to see Blenheim Palace where Churchill was born November 30, 1874; then on to Oxford where we had lunch at a pub called the Nose Bag. Afterward, we went to London Airport to be transferred to Edinburgh, Scotland.

In Edinburgh, we stayed at the George Hotel, touring the countryside and Sterling Castle...Then for the golfers...it was off to the Glencayles, which is one of the most beautiful courses in the world. After Edinburgh, we went back to London and were coached to the Eastbourne Area District 113 Rotary Conference. We stayed at the Burlington in Eastbourne, which is one of England's famous seaside resorts. We made a tour of Beachy Head and then went on to Brighton to the Royal Pavilion.

We were guests at the London District conference committee luncheon at the Grand Hotel. The English planned a welcoming dance. In the program, they called it "Old Time Dancing, English style." Also, we toured Canterbury and attended a stage show at Eastbourne. Then is was back to Gatwich in London....then to Dall and finally it was home. We arrived in Lubbock Saturday October 21 from one of the most memorable trips of our lives.

FLOYD DATA

Mr. and Mrs. Q.D. Williams visited Mrs. William's relatives in Dumas Saturday and Sunday, November 4 and 5. Saturday they attended a buffet supper at the Roger Jones ranch, where Mrs. Williams had lived as a child. The evening was spent tape recording conversations of her father, Edgar Jones and his brother, Albert Jones, as they recalled growing up on a Panhandle ranch along the Palo Duro creek at the turn of the century. Twenty-two relatives of three generations attended the party.

A family brunch was served Sunday after church in the home of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Jones, with Mrs. Bobby Jones and Mrs. Louis Jones as co-hostess. All are Dumas residents. Relatives attended from Houston, Huntsville, Truscott and Floydada.

Sunday afternoon the descendants of the late Charley and Florence Jones, Mrs. Williams paternal grandparents, were honored at a reception hosted by the Moore County Historical Museum, from 2 until 5 p.m. Each month a pioneer family is honored by the museum, with a display of family pictures, mementoes, and the Sunday reception. The display is presented for the entire month. The Jones family brand was one of the historical cattle brands put on permanent display recently at Texas A&M University.

FLOYD DATA

Eight young people from Floydada attended the Tech-TCU football game in Fort Worth over the weekend. Accompanying the group on the trip were Sarah and Brent Sanders. The trip was part of a state wide youth day sponsored by TCU.

"I read the other day that we are old when we quit learning. This was an encouraging thought for me. Only last year, I enrolled in a typing class where nobody else in the class was within 20 years of my age.

"After several lessons, the teacher asked, 'How many got all three paragraphs?'.

"You never asked how many got two lines,' I said looking at my two completed lines of script.

"It has been said that could not teach an old dog new tricks. Dee says the main trouble is that the old dog doesn't want to learn a new trick.

"Now at my age, I have not broken any speed records in typing, but I have learned to type and I'm enjoying it. I think it is great to learn something new---anything so long as it is not immoral."

First Baptist Church Plans Youth-Led Revival

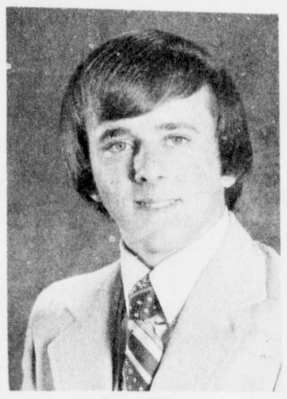

The Rev. John C. Jenkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Lockney, extends an invitation to everyone to attend the Youth-Led Revival this Sunday morning through Wednesday evening. The revival is under the leadership of Delvin Bybee, Youth Director.

Lance Witt, ministerial student at Wayland Baptist College, will be the evangelist. Lance grew up in Albuquerque, N.M. After his senior year in high school, Lance was involved in leading revivals throughout the Southwest. In June of 1976 he surrendered his life to full time ministry. A DAY TO STOP SMOKING
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16

Cigarette smoking causes at least 80 percent of lung cancers.

Through women used to feel safe from lung cancer because the death rate was low for women compared with that for men, this picture is beginning to change alarmingly.

The cost of that smoking habit is a two-pack-a-day smoker will burn his way through $365 each year; $3650 in ten years; and $11,000 in 30 years.

Listed above are some of the motivating factors which are responsible for the "Smokeout" which will be on November 16, at which time all smokers are urged to leave off the habit for one day. As Ed Asner says, "let's put out cigarette butts from coast to coast."

The French Connection

The glamorous French cradlephone has been reborn in America, where it's known as Antique Gold*. Its carved gold-colored figures and rich ivory trim make it the last word in period-style decor.

And, because it's genuine Bell, you know you're getting top quality. You never have to worry about repairs, either, because the Bell System retains ownership of your phone's working components and repairs them without additional charge anytime there's a problem.

Make your French Connection at your nearest PhoneCenter Store, where you can also choose from a variety of other colorful and attractive styles. Or call your local Southwestern Bell business office. Choose a phone that's genuinely you and genuine Bell.

The Antique Gold. $24 a month for five months or a one-time charge of $120.
Prices do not include taxes or, if applicable, installation and recurring charges. If necessary, hearing aid adapters are available from your telephone company.

"1977 Agricultural Production" Book Available

LUBBOCK--The value of the major commodities and livestock produced on the High Plains of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico in 1977 exceeded $3.1 billion, according to information compiled by Water, Inc.

Included in that figure is the market value of cotton, corn, grain sorghum, wheat and fed cattle raised in the 56 Texas and six New Mexico counties on the High Plains.

This information and more is included in the Water, Inc., publication "1977 Agricultural Production," which is available upon request from Water, Inc., P.O. Box 367, Lubbock, Tex., 79408.

Fed cattle was the leading 1977 money maker, accounting for $1.54 billion in sales. Last year the High Plains produced enough fed cattle to feed 19 million Americans for a year.

Among the major crops grown in the region, cotton was the leading commodity in terms of market value as sales surpassed $957 million. Corn was next in line with a value of $311 million, followed by grain sorghum at $167 million and wheat at $155 million.

"Since the productive capacity of the High Plains is directly tied to the availability of water, these figures show the significance of adequate irrigation water," according to Water, Inc., Executive Director Duncan Ellison.

In Texas 66 percent of the state's irrigated acreage is on the High Plains. Without that irrigated production, Ellison noted, Texas could not rank third among the states in agricultural commodity sales as it did in 1977.

"The High Plains, which depends on a depleting groundwater source for its irrigation, must have a supplemental water supply to maintain its proven capacity for producing food and fiber," Ellison concluded.

Now Is The Time To Treat Peach Tree

For homeowners with peach trees, fall is the best time to treat for one of the most destructive of all peach tree pests, the peach tree borer. A sure sign of the pest says county Extension entomologist Paul Treptow, is the gum oozing down the trunk or branches of the tree. "This insect is mostly a pest of peach but is also found infesting plum, cherry and apricot trees," Treptow explains.

Actually, two borers commonly attack peach trees, he adds. The larval state of the peach tree borer feeds just beneath the tree's bark in an area approximately six inches above the soil line to six inches below. The lesser peach tree borer attacks the upper portion of the tree's trunk and larger branches. The approach to controlling these pests is basically the same, but the method of application differs.

Two fumigants generally used for peach tree borer control are paradichlorobenzene (PDB) crystals or ethylene dichloride in the liquid form.

Using fumigants around peach trees is a delicate operation and should be done with great care and precision. Over-treatment can damage the tree. The crystals, when applied to warm soil, quickly volatilize into a heavy gas which penetrates through soil crevices into burrows of overwintering borers and kills them. Crystals should only be applied when the soil is dry and the temperature is 55 degrees or above.

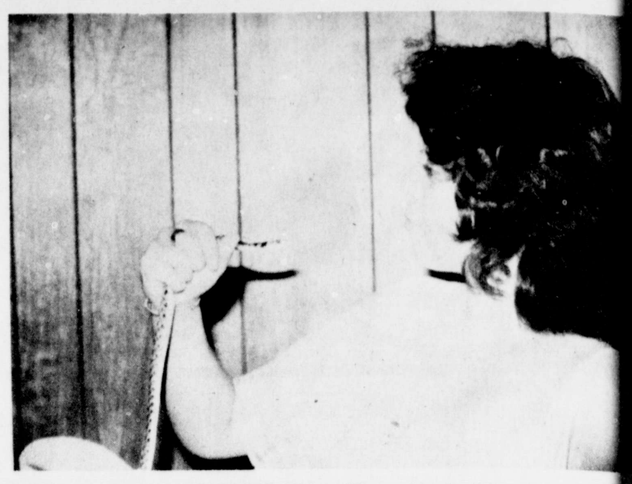

"When using PDB for peach tree borer control," Treptow recommends, "weeds should be removed from around the base of the tree and the soil leveled one foot from the tree trunk. PDB crystals should be placed in a narrow groove encircling the tree about two inches from the tree trunk. Care should be taken to keep crystals from directly contacting the tree. Clean soil should be placed over the crystals to form a cone-shaped pile about six inches high around the base of the tree. This soil should be removed from the base of the tree in late March or early April."

Entomologist Treptow adds that the amount of PDB to use is determined by age and size of the tree. In general, one-half ounce of crystals should be used for two- to three-year old trees, three-fourths ounce for four- to five-year old trees, and one ounce for mature trees.

Treptow says that both PDB and ethylene dichloride can also be used to treat peach trees infested by the lesser peach tree borer. Affected areas, recognized by masses of gum mixed with frass and sawdust running down the surface of the trunk and branches, should be treated after the leaves fall from the peach trees. A mixture of four ounces PDB in one pint of miscible oil diluted in two pints of water or a smaller amount at the same proportions should be prepared. The mixture should be painted on the wounds and damaged areas, without encircling the trunk or limb. When using ethylene dichloride for either peach tree borer or lesser peach tree borer control, proper rates and application instructions will be found on the product label.

For the homeowner with peach tree infested with either the peach tree borer or the lesser peach tree borer, Treptow concludes, "control measures can greatly lengthen the life of the trees."

Further information on control of the peach tree borer is available at the county Extension office.

Chinese Buy 150,000 Bales Of Cotton

MEMPHIS, Oct, 27, (Special)–Trade sources have indicated the People's Republic of China bought about 150,000 bales of U.S. cotton while on a special orientation tour of the Cotton Belt during the past two weeks.

The tour, which brought representatives of the China National Textiles Import and Export Corporation (Chinatex) from Peking to this country, was initiated by Cotton Council International during a trade mission to the PRC earlier this year. Cotton Council International is the overseas arm of the National Cotton Council.

Co-sponsors of the tour were American Cotton Shippers Association, AMCOT, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Council President Lon Mann said the cooperation of cotton industry firms and allied groups was a key factor in the tour's success.

"Cooperation among cotton companies and organizations involved couldn't have been better," he said. "Our Chinese guests were obviously impressed, and the relationships established as a result of the tour will be of great benefit to our industry for years to come."

The tour opened in Memphis Oct. 15 and included stops in Dallas, Lubbock, Phoenix, Los Angeles, Bakersfield, Corcoran, and Fresno.

The ancient Egyptians included books on how to reach the other world when they entombed their mummies.

It is 33rd year since their death. In Buddhism, people have special ceremony in 33rd year after someone's death. Also September 23rd is a special day to think of and worship the dead.

The Sakais think being able to have the flags back again has some strange coincidence with these dates. They said that they couldn't express their appreciation good enough and that they appreciate so much you had kept the flags in such a good and neat condition. Shotaro Sakai is supposed to write you a letter and I am going to translate it into English and send it to you right after he send me the letter for you.

I'll try to translate it as precisely and correctly as I can.

Japanese people tend to use awfully difficult words and very formal words in these cases. But I promise you to do my best.

Dr. McIntosh, I also appreciate you to have asked me to take flags back with me. I really enjoyed meeting the Sakai who are very very sincere and nice people. I could make a lot of new friends in helping this.

I apologize you that I can't write good. I hope you will be able to understand my English.

I'll close by now and I'm sure you will hear from the Sakai pretty soon. I wish you good luck and health.

Sincerely yours,
Noriko Ono

NEWS STORY

This story appeared with pictures of the family in a Japanese newspaper:

The flags of young Japanese soldiers who were killed in World War II were returned to their family in Hamoaka-cho, Ogasa-gun, Shizuoka. As the family are planning to have the 33rd memorial ceremony next year, this news made them so happy.

On the 8th of September, Shotaro Sakai, the assistant manager of Hamaoka lunch service center, got a telephone call from Ministry of Welfare telling him that a lady in Yokohama brought his brother's flags back all the way from America. He was told that his brother's names were signed on the flags. Shotaro recognized that these names were Chuyu Sakai who was four-year-older brother and Kazuo who was the eldest brother.

Shotaro visited Mr. and Mrs. Ono in Yokohama with eight relatives including Mr. Ono, vice mayor of Hamaoka, on the 22nd of September. He received the flags there. Mr. and Mrs. Ono and their two boys visited Mr. and Mrs. T.O. Thornton, in Lockney, Texas who were Mrs. Ono's host parents when she stayed in Lockney as an A.F.S. exchange student for a year fifteen years ago.

Dr. McIntosh, the eye doctor in Floydada, next town of Lockney, asked Mrs. Ono to take the flags back with her and to find the family in Japan. Dr. McIntosh went to the battlefield when he was about the age of twenty. He landed on Leite around the beginning of Dec. 8, 1944 and stayed there till January, 1945. He found the Japanese soldier's sack on the seashore of Leite and picked two flags up out of the sack.

Dr. McIntosh told me that to bring the flags back home was popular among the American soldiers at that time and that only flags were allowed to be taken back," said Mrs. Ono. Dr. McIntosh read the article in one of the American magazine, Legion, and found out that there was some way to have the flags returned to Japan. So he asked Mrs. Ono who happened to be visiting Lockney in August. "Dr. McIntosh told me that he could have done this much earlier only if he had known how to do it before," said Mrs. Ono.

According to the Sakais, Chuyu went to the war at the age of 18 in 1944. It was reported that Chuyu died on the way to the Philippine Islands from Northern China. "Now it is clear that my brother Chuyu died after landing on Leite," said Shotaro.

One of the two flags was Chuyu's and the other was Kazuo's who was the first son and also died in the war in China. "We have no idea how come Chuyu had Kazuo's flag with him. Never did we dream of having two brother's flags back at the same time," said Shatato. All the Sakais got together and prayed for two brothers at their tomb on the 22nd of September. "We will be able to have the 33rd memorial ceremony with much happier feeling than ever since we have the flags," said Shotaro.

LETTER FROM FAMILY

This past week Dr. McIntosh received this letter from Noriko translating a letter from the family to Dr. McIntosh. He also received pictures of the family in Japan.

October 31, 1978

Dear Dr. McIntosh,

It is hard to believe two months have already passed since I met you. Finally I received a letter from Shotaro Sakai on 28th of October. Since I had a bad cold, I could not write a letter for a few days.

I translated Shotaro's letter as precisely as I could. I hope you will be able to understand how happy they are.

I am not going to explain all about flags again in this letter since I have already written you before. If you have anything to ask me, please let me know. I'll be glad to do anything for you.

I hope you will enjoy Shotaro's letter and all the pictures he took. I wish that you and the Sakais will be able to meet each other some day in the future.

Yours truely,
Noriko Ono

"I am writing this letter to you full of thankfulness"

Oct. 31, 1978

Dear Dr. McIntosh,

It is getting rather chilly and it is the season for maple trees to change their color into beautiful red. We can enjoy the beautiful color around specially in autumn in Japan.

Since this is my first time to write a letter to a foreigner, I am at a loss how to start with.

First of all, I would like to express my appreciation from the bottom of my heart. In the middle of September when I heard from Ministry of Welfare about the news that a lady in Yokohama brought my brothers' flags back all the way from America, I was so thrilled to death that I wondered if it was a dream for a while.

On hearing the news, I got in touch with all my brother and sisters and relatives. Nine of us visited Mr. and Mrs. Ono's home in Yokohama and we felt like having two brothers back home again.

During the World War II, a lot of people from both our countries went to the battlefield and lost their lives there. Japan has improved and has been peaceful since then. The families have still been sorry for losing their sons for these 33 years after the war was over. I believe it's the same way in your country, too.

I appreciate you had kept those flags so well for these 33 years. Thank you so very much for letting us have them again in our hands. Looking at those flags, all my folks talked a lot about two brothers, Kazuo and Chuyu. I am sure that both my mother who died a little after the war and my father who passed away last March, would be happy and appreciate you in heaven.

I am going to keep those flags at my house with good care. A lot of people who read the article on the newspaper told us they were as happy as we were.

I surely hope the peaceful and warmful relationships among the people in the world will last forever.

I am writing this letter to you with full of thankfulness. I wish you good health and much happiness in the future. Thank you, again.

Yours truely;
Shotaro Sakai

South Plains News

By Mrs. Murray Julian

South Plains, Nov. 10th: Cold, rainy weather kept farmers out of the fields last week, and our area had varying amounts, ranging from one half inch to more in other places. This week, the cotton strippers are back in most of the fields, cotton stalks are being cut, and the ground plowed, getting the land laid by for the winter, which is not far away. Frost hit the South Plains community last Monday night, and defoliation has taken place since then.

Rev. and Mrs. Fred Blake, accompanied by Mrs. Ruby Higginbotham, left Monday for Austin, where the Blakes spent the week, from Oct. 31, to Nov. 2nd, and the 93rd annual meeting of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, where they met at the Austin Municipal Auditorium and Convention Center. Mrs. Higginbotham went on to Giddings, where she spent the week with her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Cypert, and she returned Sunday night with her son, Alton Higginnbotham, when he was in that area for a meeting. The Blakes returned Thursday night.

Rev. Nathan Mulder was the speaker at the Wednesday evening prayer services, while Rev. & Mrs. Blake were gone to Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvin Kinnibrugh and their daughter, Mrs. Ted Horne Melissa of Plainview left this Friday to be gone until Sunday night at Ruidoso, New Mexico, on a short vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamm spent last week down in San Antonio with their daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Tom Aufdemorte, returning home on Monday.

Children at the South Plains Elementary School enjoyed the Hallowe'en Carnival which was held on Thursday night, Oct. 26th, with games and fun for everyone. In the judges seats were Mr. and Mrs. Brad Smith & Mr. and Mrs. Deral Young, and winners with the best costumes in the adult section was Miss Carol Arnold; Eric Wilburn of Plainview took the prize for the best high school costume. Penny Mulder won the prize in the 5-6th grade room, Magdalene Salas won in the 3-4th grade room, Holly McNeece won the prize for best costume in the 1-2nd grades, and in the pre-school, little Weston Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Evans got the prize. There was a good crowd for the carnival, and lots of good food and entertainment.

Rev. and Mrs. Fred Blake were hosts at a dinner party in their home Tuesday night for their daughter Atha and a group of friends from Wayland College at Plainview. Those who shared in the delicious supper were Torie Adams of Abernathy, Naomi Goodwin of Hatch, New Mexico, Sharla Peterson from Steamboat Springs, Colorado, Atha Blake from Wayland, and other present for the supper was Mrs. Murray Julian, with Rev. and Mrs. Blake.

Mrs. Grigsby Milton Jr. in home at this time, after spending several days in the St. Marys Hospital in Lubbock. She came home Thursday of last week. We all wish for her the best of health, and hope that she can soon be up and doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Little ofOdessa, Texas, were the South Plains Baptist Church on Sunday, Oct. 29th, and Mr. Little spoke at the morning worship hour for the Gideons, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Julian and Dickie of Roscoe were among the visitors for the worship hour.

A bridal shower, honoring Miss Katie Taylor, bride-elect of Dale Pierce, will be held at the home of Mrs. Harold Hamm, on Saturday, November 11, from 2-4 p.m.

Monday, November 6th was World Day of Prayer, and those from the South Plains Baptist Church who went to Crosbyton for the meeting were Mrs. Fletcher Powell, Mrs. Fred Blake, Mrs. L.T. Wood & Mrs. Tillman Powell. After the morning services they went through the Crosbyton Museum.

Tuesday, Nov. 14th the WMU of the Baptist Church will go to Silverton to the First Baptist Church where there will be a review of the book, Brazilian Obession. Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Tillman Powell will take part in presenting the book. Each one going will take a covered dish for the luncheon hour.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Murray Julian on Saturday and Sunday of Oct. 28-29th were Mr. and Mrs. Terry Julian and Dickie of Roscoe, and Mrs. Julian's nephew, Ray Hulick, from Alexandria, Virginia, who was visiting his folks in Albuquerque, New Mexico that week. Mrs. Murray Julian went home with the Terry Julians Sunday night Oct. 29 and spent the past week until Tuesday of this week with them, and that day they met Mr. and Mrs. Kendis Julian in Lubbock, and they brought her home. They only had light showers and cold temperatures durin the cold spell last week there in Roscoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Powell and Heather of Floydada visited a week ago Tuesday afternoon here with Mrs. Murray Julian.

Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Konslow left a week ago Friday and spent the weekend in Carrolton with their son and family, the Barry Kinslows, Jennifer and Grant, then they went on to Houston and visited another son, Phil.
