Parr Indicted On Complaint Of Conspiracy

SAN DIEGO, Tex., July 17 (AP)—Political boss George Parr and two other former officers of the Texas State Bank of Alice, former depository for Duval county funds, have been indicted on charges of conspiracy.

The indictments, returned yesterday but not made public until today, accused Parr, his brother, Givens Parr of Alice, and B.F. (Tom) Donald of Alice of conspiracy to convert funds of the Benavides Independent School District to their own use.

The indictments were for felony theft of over $50.

Parr himself was president of the bank, since reorganized. Givens Parr was vice president and Donald was cashier.

Indicted on the same charges was R.W. Milligan, superintendent of the school district, whose contract for that post has not been renewed.

Altogether there were six indictments naming 14 people, all on charges of conspiracy to convert school funds. Most of those indicted were former trustees.

Milligan has been in the Benavides school system 21 years and has been superintendent 16 years.

Others indicted:

Santiago (Red) Sanchez, Copita, Tex., rancher, whose wife is a trustee of the Copita common school district.

D.C. Chapa, former tax assessor-collector of the Benavides school district, already under indictment on other counts.

O. Carrillo Sr., son of D.C. Chapa, former deputy assessor-collector at Benavides.

Jesus Olivera, former Duval county sheriff, former director of the Texas State Bank, and the "Old Party" candidate for tax collector in the July 24 primaries.

C. G. Ramirez, former Benavides school trustee.

Jesus Garza, Santiago Garcia, and O. Sanez, all of whom resigned Feb. 15 from the Benavides School District Board of Trustees, Sanez had been board president.

Reyes Ramos, Benavides hardware store owner.

Parr already is under indictment on a charge of assault to murder in connection with an alleged physical attack on a member of the Freedom Party, his political opposition.

Machine Gun Kelly Dies In Federal Prison

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., July 17 Kidnaper George Kelly, nicknamed "Machine Gun Kelly" because he could write his name with tommy-gun bullets, died in prison today.

His death was due to heart disease and came on his 59th birthday, a few hours after he had been stricken.

Kelly was serving a life sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth for kidnaping Charles F. Urschel, wealthy oil man. Urschel was snatched from his palatial Oklahoma City home June 22, 1933, and held for $200,000 ransom. The money was paid and Urschel was released July 31.

Kelly was one of the most notorious of the hoodlums who terrorized the Midwest 20 years ago. It was the alertness of Urschel that brought Kelly's downfall.

After kidnaping Urschel at the point of a machine gun and pistol, Kelly and Albert L. Bates blindfolded the oil man and took him on a long drive to a hideout near Paradise, Texas.

Although he could not see, Urschel made careful note that the 14-hour ride was made over bumpy roads. And while in the hide-out shack he observed that twice daily an airplane flew over, but missed one day. This information helped FBI agents find the shack. There they arrested Harvey Bailey, an ex-convict, and found he was carrying some of the ransom.

In the subsequent roundup, the officers arrested Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, Bates, and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shannon, father-in-law and mother-in-law of Kelly. The Kellys, Bates and Bailey were given life sentences. The Shannons lesser terms. Bates died in Alcatraz federal penitentiary. Shannon has been released from custody. The others are still in prison. Their convictions were the first under the Lindbergh Law.

Kelly and his wife were the last of the gang to be captured, evading the police until Sept. 26, 1933. To divert suspicion from themselves, they "borrowed" a 12-year-old girl from an itinerant laborer and took her with them in their travels to and around Memphis, Tenn. But the FBI reports that messages from the little girl eventually led them to the Kelly's Memphis hideout.

The child received part of the reward paid for their capture.

With guns ready, federal agents burst in on Kelly and found him armed and waiting for them. But the boastful bad man lost his nerve as they confronted him he dropped his gun without firing a shot. Kelly, a dapper fellow, had gone to great lengths to hide his identity—dyeing his hair a lemon yellow.

Tiny Kidnap Victim Is Out Of Hospital

SEMINOLE, July 17 (AP)—Jackie Jo Davis, tiny victim of a kidnaping and rape Tuesday, was discharged today from the Gaines County Hospital.

Attendants said she will recover fully. The 5-months-old child was stolen from her house and raped while her parents were temporarily absent.

Husky, 6-foot, 2-inch Bill Hughes, 34, of Seminole is in jail at Lubbock, charged with kidnaping and rape.

Hughes says he can't remember doing anything to the child.

SAFETY AWARD PRESENTED

Ross Kemp of Abilene, district safety officer for the Texas Highway Patrol, awards a certificate of merit to Mayor Malven Stevenson from the National Safety Council. The award was made to Snyder for going through 1953 without a traffic death inside the city limits. It is already too late for such an award for 1954, since there have been six deaths this year inside the city limits. The award was made at the Rotary Club, where Kemp spoke on the growing traffic problem in Texas.

17 Indictments Are Returned By Jury

Seventeen indictments against 12 persons were reported yesterday afternoon by the July grand jury, which finished its work at about 4 o'clock.

Of the 17 indictments, 15 were for felony cases to be tried in district court and two for misdemeaners for county court. Included in the most serious charges were one for murder and one for attempted burglary with intent to rape.

Two men were no-billed by the jury. They were Charles R. Howell, charged with driving while intoxicated, second offense, and Marvin Lee Garden, charged with theft of money from the Sportman Drive-In.

The indictments:

George Morris, Jr., murder of Mabel Powell without malice, bond $2,500.

Marvin Vernon Hall, theft of automobile owned by Bobby Sanders, bond $1,000.

Roy Jimenez Tavarez, attempted burglary with intent to rape, bond $2,500.

William E. Cauble, three indictments of forgery and one of attempted forgery, using the names of E. E. Wallace twice and Weldon Johnson twice, bond $1,000 in each case.

David Henry Smedley, driving while intoxicated, second offense, bond $1,000.

John Roy Yates, two indictments of burglary, one of Caperton's Car Lot and one of the Snyder Cooperative Gin, bond $1,500 and $1,000.

Levi Wallum, Jr., two indictments of burglary of same firms for which Yates was indicted, bond $1,500 in each.

Joe Dell Matthews, burglary of Caperton's Car Lot, bond $1,500.

William H. Fincke, indicted on theft and theft by bailee of car from J. C. Cooper, bond $1,500.

J. T. Walton, swindling by worthless check in the amount of $72.72 to T. H. McCann of Big Spring, bond $1,000.

Frank L. Bean, misdemeanor theft, indicted for county court.

Larry Sells, misdemeanor theft, indicted for county court.

The grand jury also issued a written report dissolving any possible shadows of suspicion that might be thrown on the county government or any of its officials in connection with the death of Mabel Powell, who died in the county jail.

The report, in part, read: "We wish to report also that we have investigated the death of Mabel Powell on or about July 4 and also in regard to anything that might have happened to her at the hands of any official of Scurry County or while in the hands of any official of Scurry County or while in the Scurry County jail on said date and find, after such investigation, that Mabel Powell was not injured or molested or mistreated in any way whatsoever by any official of Scurry County or by any other person whomsoever from the time of her arrest to the time of her death."

No Difference On Tidelands, Says Daniel

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Sen. Daniel (D-Tex) said today he has "no knowledge" of any differences between President Eisenhower and Atty. Gen. Brownell over interpretation of the extent of Texas' title to offshore lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

He told a reporter he sent word to Brownell yesterday that he would like to discuss the question with him, but in replying through an intermediary, Brownell said it looked to him as though the President had sufficiently covered the matter during Daniels' visit to the White House Thursday.

After that visit, Daniel told reporters Eisenhower had authorized him to say that he had not changed the position he has always held that Texas is entitled to offshore lands reaching three leagues, rather than three miles, into the gulf.

Confirming this yesterday, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower always believed and still believes that the historical boundaries of Texas extend three leagues — about 10½ miles, into the Gulf.

After Daniels' statement Thursday, John Ben Shepperd, the Texas attorney general, said J. Lee Rankin, the U. S. assistant attorney general, has challenged Texas' claim to the lands beyond the three-mile limit. Neither Rankin nor Brownell would comment yesterday.

WEATHER

NORTH CENTRAL TEXAS: Partly cloudy and hot through Sunday.
WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy and warm through Sunday. Widely scattered thundershowers west of Pecos Valley.
EAST AND SOUTH CENTRAL TEXAS: Partly cloudy and warm through Sunday. A few isolated thundershowers. Gentle to moderate southerly winds on the coast.

Flanders Says Support Grows

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Sen. Flanders said today he is picking up support from both Republicans and Democrats on his demand for a "clear-cut vote on McCarthyism" and predicted a Senate majority would vote to censure the Wisconsin Republican.

Indications were lacking, however, that Flanders (R-Vt) would get any help at all from Republican leaders. Leaders on the other side of the aisle were keeping their own counsel.

Flanders, McCarthy's bitterest Senate critic, said his motion declaring McCarthy "condemned" for his conduct as chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee was attracting support of senators who had refused to back a previous Flanders effort. That was aimed at unseating McCarthy from all his committee chairmanships.

Flanders named only Sen. Cooper (R-Ky) as among a number of senators who, he said, have offered to speak in the Senate in behalf of the censure motion to be offered Tuesday.

Included among those who he said had given him expressions of support were "half a dozen" or more Democrats.

Wetbacks, Braceros Go Over Line In Opposite Directions

McALLEN, Tex., July 17 (AP)—Wetbacks were shunted south and Braceros headed north across the Rio Grande today at the rate of almost 5,000 persons per day in a stepped-up campaign to rid Texas of illegally-entered Mexican labor.

"Operation Wetback" leaders reported more than 10,000 aliens had been arrested and sent to the McAllen detention camp since the drive opened at 5 a.m. Thursday.

In addition, well over 25,000 aliens are estimated to have crossed the border voluntarily this week when word of the deportations got around.

To take their place, Texas Employment Commission offices are processing more than 2,000 braceros — legally contracted workers — through the Hidalgo station each day.

Another 22,000 have been requested by Rio Grande Valley farmers, whose cotton harvest will hit its peak in about two weeks.

The Valley's cotton crop already has passed the halfway point of last year's harvest, and is expected to go well over the 1953 total, agricultural officials said.

Harlan B. Carter, Washington, chief of the Border Patrol, said the wetback roundup was progressing without incident, although at a faster pace than had been anticipated.

He estimated it would take 30 days to clear all the wetbacks from the area.

The laborers who sneak across the Rio Grande are being sent by bus 700 miles upstream to El Paso for deportation. Many of them live in the Reynosa-Matamoros area across the border from the Lower Valley.

Fletcher Rawls, area Border Patrol head, said those people are potential returnees but "the second phase of our plan will handle that." The patrol hasn't disclosed what will be the second phase.

Since the roundup began, there has been a flood of applications for braceros, Mexican workers who come to this country on contracts.

Clifford Burr, manager of the Hidalgo county bracero center, said he received applications yesterday for 5,000 workers. The center has gone on a 7-day week. There now are 19,700 braceros at work in the Valley.

The wetbacks are being taken to El Paso in air-conditioned, 50-passenger buses obtained from private lines. They are given packages of sandwiches as food for the trip.

The Border Patrol said about 4,000 wetbacks were arrested yesterday. A total of 4,626 had been picked up the day before.

Indochina's Peace Hopes Reported Fading Rapidly

Quick Action Is Planned If Parley Fails

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The United States and Britain have agreed quick action must be taken to bolster the battered anti-Communist front in Southeast Asia if Indochina peace negotiations finally fall through at Geneva next Tuesday night.

Officials of the two governments said there is no agreement yet as to what the actions should be. But a basis for prompt decision has been laid in American - British studies of possible moves—ranging from outright intervention in the Indochina war to stepped-up reinforcement of free areas like Thailand.

These studies have been made in Washington during the last three weeks by representatives of the State Department and British Embassy.

London and Washington are also agreed that whatever is done must be done with the maximum cooperation and support of Asian countries but beyond this point they disagree on how high a price to pay for the potential support of neutral countries like India and Indonesia. Washington is not willing to delay decisions or modify plans to woo the Indians, but London considers Indian good will worth a high price.

Information from the highest quarters indicates the Indochina crisis, with war or peace hanging in the balance, is measured here as follows:

The chances are probably a little better than even that the Communists, led by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and Red China's Chou En-lai will make an eleventh-hour agreement to end the eight-year old war. But French Premier Mendes-France is negotiating with a gun at his head, due to his pledge to resign if he fails to make a peace deal by midnight Tuesday.

William Charles Stubbs, 22, Rochester, N.Y., is returned to Sullivan County jail in Blountville, Tenn., in the kidnap-slaying of Mrs. Axel Holm, Karnes City, Tex. The Holms were en route to a Swedish vacation and were abducted from a picnic table near Blountville June 11. Holm was wounded. Stubbs faces maximum 140-year sentence.

Three Drown During Squall

TEXAS CITY, July 17 (AP)—Four Houston residents drowned in the Texas City channel today when their rented skiff was swamped in a squall.

The dead were C. J. Caruso, Mrs. C. J. Caruso, Caruso's grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Mabin, and his brother, Frank Caruso.

The lone survivor was a daughter, Barbara Caruso, 12.

The boat sank just a few minutes after the group left for an old sunken boat in Galveston Bay, a popular fishing area.

Barbara said they were about half way there when strong winds struck the boat. She said they decided their best chance would be to try to reach the old boat but failed by less than 100 yards.

A Coast Guard vessel rescued the girl and recovered three bodies.

Another skiff also sank in the squall but the two occupants swam to safety. They were C. J. Domingue, 3118 20th St., Port Arthur, and an unidentified friend. Domingue is being treated for shock.

SEVEN TELL OF CZECH THREATS

By TOM STONE

FUERTH, Germany, July 17 (AP)—"After a year or so in prison you will probably give better answers."

With that grim threat, Czech Communists tried to pry military information from seven U.S. soldiers imprisoned 12 days in the Soviet satellite, the soldiers said today.

The seven, freed Thursday after being captured by a trigger-happy Czech patrol July 4, told a news conference here of their experience.

They said they had not been physically harmed, but all were questioned frequently and separately by an English-speaking Czech who accused them of being spies.

The seven are: Capt. Jack Davis, 31, Raytown, Mo.; Pvt. Richard J. Jumper, 21, Booneville, Miss.; Pfc. Leonard D. Tennis, 18, Alliance, Ohio; Cpl. John F. Glasson, 24, Oakdale, Calif.; Pfc. Jerry W. Griffith, 22, Springfield, Ohio; Pfc. George Switzer, 23, Milburn, Neb.; Pvt. Ross McGinnis, 21, Greensburg, Pa.

Describing the persistent Communist interrogation, Davis said:

"They questioned me on everything ranging from military subjects to American politics and Sen. McCarthy."

The chubby Missourian said they were captured when they went to the border to "take a look" near the bavarian town of Baernau. Suddenly about 20 armed Czech soldiers swooped down, firing warning shots.

Davis said he protested to his captors that the men had been merely on a holiday visit to the border, but his words were shrugged off.

Jumper, a 6-foot-2 Negro, said the Czechs tried to inject the racial issue into his questioning. McGinnis said he "told them something you could not print in a newspaper when they tried to sell us on communism."

Davis said their food during imprisonment was plain and high in protein, but "their best food is not as good as our worst."

The men were told that their government had forgotten all about them, despite U.S. military and State Department attempts to obtain their freedom.

Parr Loses In First Round

SAN ANTONIO July 17 (AP) — George Parr, political potentate of Duval County, lost a preliminary legal skirmish today in the battle over who will prosecute the upcoming indictments returned by the new Duval grand jury.

Chief Justice W. O. Murray of the 4th Court of Civil Appeals denied a motion seeking to restrain John May from acting as prosecutor in Duval.

May was named district attorney pro tem when Judge A. S. Broadfoot, North Texas jurist called out of retirement to assume judicial control of Parr's empire, disqualified Dist. Atty. Raeburn Norris and Asst. Dist Atty. J. G. Gonzales.

Norris, the judge said, shouldn't have described the indictments as void because they came from the new grand jury, and added that Gonzales was apt to be influenced by Norris. So the assistant was removed from the prosecution also.

French Warned Of Dim Prospect

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

GENEVA, July 17 (AP)—The prospects for an Indochina peace dimmed sharply tonight.

Another East-West meeting was inconclusive and a Western informant said it tipped the scales against a settlement, at least temporarily.

French Premier Pierre Mendes-France, who has made Tuesday night his deadline for an "honorable" cease fire or his resignation, warned his countrymen in a recorded broadcast they must be prepared for a possible continuation of bloody warfare.

The premier said it may be necessary to draft Frenchmen for the Indochina front.

Tonight, at the demand of Eastern delegations, the full nine-country conference was summoned for an extraordinary session at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

This will be the first conference session in two weeks and the first held on Sunday. Western sources said it will be a "restricted" meeting, with each delegation limited to two representatives.

This indicated the Sunday meeting is intended as a brass-tacks bargaining session just two days ahead of the Mendes-France time limit.

A high Western informant said no progress was made in tonight's two-hour meeting of the French premier, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Mendes-France and Eden went into the meeting with their hands strengthened by the return of U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith to the leadership of the American delegation in Geneva.

One source speculated the Sunday meeting was called to get Smith into a face-to-face bargaining session with Red China's Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai. The United States has not recognized Red China and there have been no personal dealings between the top American and Red Chinese delegates here.

The Communist bloc was reported by a Red Chinese informant today to be demanding that the United States join in an agreement to guarantee the partition and to neutralize the whole country.

The informant, who reflects the views of Red China's Premier, Chou En-lai, said the Communists are hopeful of a cease-fire agreement by next Tuesday's deadline if the Western powers agree to "bar all foreign military bases from Indochina and keep the three member states out of any military bloc."

The informant said the Communists are pressing for the stamp of American approval of the armistice agreement—already okayed in principle by Britain and France—which would divide Viet Nam between Minh's Vietminh and Bao Dai's pro-Western regime.

"We believe that the United States as a member of the conference should and is obligated to subscribe to and guarantee any settlement," the informant said. "Morally, there is no reason for the United States to avoid this obligation."

But the informant did not rule out the chance of an Indochina cease-fire even if the United States refuses to okay the armistice agreement.

The Eisenhower administration has told France and Britain they can go ahead with their plan for an Indochina settlement based on partition of Viet Nam. But Washington has made it clear it is not ready to associate itself formally with the plan, which would sanction putting millions of Vietnamese under Red rule.

The Communist informant said the "crucial issue" now in the Geneva peace negotiations revolves around whether the Western powers will agree effectively to neutralize Indochina.

"Refusal to join in such a guarantee," the informant said, "could seriously deter a final settlement. On the other important points in the negotiations we are in agreement or close to it. We are hopeful and we believe that there is time to reach a settlement by July 20."

Johnson Asks Hold-Up For FPC Gas Rule

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Sen. Johnson (D-Tex) appealed to the Federal Power Comission today to hold up or revise its order freezing wholesale natural gas prices. He called it "hasty and ill advised."

Johnson, Democratic Senate leader, made public a letter sent to Chairman J. K. Kuykendall of the commission, protesting the freeze order as "one that will create disorder and consternation in the industry."

"At the very least, it will mean confusion and red tape which will place a severe strain upon products," Johnson said.

The FPC order, issued yesterday, was the first step toward federal regulation of rates of independent natural gas producers in accordance with a recent Supreme Court decision. Protests against it indicated there may be a new drive in Congress to bar such regulation.

"It seems to me," Johnson wrote, "that this decision would well have been deferred as:

"1. I have requested the President to establish a commission to consider all the problems raised in the Phillips decision by the Supreme Court.

"2. The state of Texas has requested a re-hearing on the Supreme Court's decision.

"3. The industry has had no opportunity to discuss with the commission the new problems that have been raised and to adjust its operations to the changed set of circumstances."

Solons Claim 'Giveaway' On Atomic Plans

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP) — Cries of "giveaway" and "monopoly" resounded on Capitol Hill today as a pair of senators broadened the attack on President Eisenhower's plan to revamp the atomic energy law.

With the Senate in its fourth day of argument over the administration's atomic act revision bill, Sens. Lehman (D-Lib-NY) and Morse (Ind-Ore) took the floor to charge in separate speeches that:

1. The Eisenhower program amounts to federal abandonment of one of the nation's greatest resources, hitherto developed at government expense.

2. Peacetime atomic power would be handed over to a few giant, monpolistic private companies.

3. GOP leaders are trying to rush through a far-reaching bill that deserves much closer attention at congressional hands.

Backers of the bill were expected to speak later.

The measure as okayed by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee is a proposed overhaul of the original 1946 atomic energy law. It would, among other things, okay a limited sharing of atomic secrets with America's allies and allow private industry to take part in the development of peacetime atomic power.

Most Senate criticism until today was directed against a side feature—an Eisenhower directive that the Atomic Energy Commission contract for private power to be used in the Tennessee Valley area. Majority Leader Knowland of California, driving for adjournment Aug. 1, has sought in vain so far for an agreement to limit debate.

French Spar With Rebels

HANOI, Indochina, July 17 (AP)—French Union forces and Communist-led Vietminh rebels sparred bloodily but without any decision north and west of Hanoi today as they began what could be the last weekend of the Indochina War.

Two French mobile infantry columns, clamping an east-west vise on Vietminh infiltrators, drove rebel troops to the northern fringe of the Red River delta in the important Luc Nam sector 35 miles northeast of Hanoi. French units pushed back Red forces near Son Tay, 25 miles west of the delta capital.

But the rebels moved back into both areas scant hours after they had melted away in front of the French drives. Divebombers, artillery, and tanks backed up 5,000 French and Vietnamese infantrymen at Luc Nam and another 7,000 near Son Tay.

The Vietminh maintained a steady pressure against the encircled Red River delta as the time neared for a Geneva decision on whether it is to be war or a ceasefire in Northern Viet Nam.

Compensation For Iran Firm

TEHRAN, Iran, July 17 (AP)—Finance Minister Ali Amini told newsmen today the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. will receive $204,400,000 compensation for the Abadan refinery and installations which were nationalized by Iran in 1951.

The refinery and other assets in Iran have been generally rated as worth about a billion dollars. The question of compensation has been one of the biggest stumbling blocks to a settlement of the oil question.

Amini said Iran will pay one-eighth of the total compensation, and the remainder will be paid by eight oil companies, dominated by American and British capital, which have formed a consortium to operate the long-idled property.

Yarborough Claims His Stand Is Clear

By The Associated Press

Ralph Yarborough said Saturday he has made his stand on school segregation perfectly clear—he's for it.

Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, the only woman governor of Texas, came out for Gov. Shivers and said he has the "cool, deliberate and courageous leadership" needed to solve the segregation problem.

Shivers told West Texans he would devote "a major portion of his time and energy" to solving "Texas No. 1 problem"—water conservation.

Yarborough, trying to beat Shivers, spoke at Center in deep East Texas.

He accused the governor of "preaching a hymn of hate, stirring up trouble between the races for political advantage."

Shivers has said in campaign speeches that Yarborough has dodged a stand on the Supreme Court ruling that school segregation must be ended. The governor has said he intends to do all he can to keep segregation in force and that continued segregation might depend on whether he is elected to his third full term.

Yarborough said he made his stand clear in a speech at Wichita Falls and wanted to repeat it.

"I took my stand behind the Board of Education, and the Board of Education is for segregation," he said. "I was general counsel for the Texas Teachers Assn., and I know that both white and colored teachers want separate schools."

School facilities for the white and Negro races are not now equal, Yarborough said, although the state constitution "promises the colored people just as good schools as our own."

"Without adequate, equal school facilities," he said, "segregation is doomed."

Yarborough added: "I pledge you I'll work for just as good school facilities for the colored as for the white students."

Mrs. Ferguson's statement endorsing Shivers was issued from the governor's campaign headquarters in Austin. She said a "below-the-belt" campaign is being waged against the governor and should not divert voters from the main issue. She described the main issue as "which of these men would make the better governor."

Her statement did not mention any of Shivers' three opponents—Yarborough, J. J. Holmes of Austin or Cyclone Davis of Dallas—by name.

Johnson Sticks On Job While Opponent Conducts Campaign

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Some 23 years ago, Texas' Cactus Jack Garner lifted his shaggy eyebrows and gave this advice to a strapping 6 foot 3 young Texan who recently had come on the Washington scene:

"Son, when Congress is in session, the place for a representative or senator to be is in Congress."

Garner, then speaker, was addressing Lyndon Baines Johnson. It was a chance remark during a ceremony in which Johnson was being installed as "speaker" of the little Congress, an organization of congressional secretaries.

Garner couldn't have known then that in a few years that same young man would be Texas' senior senator. Nor that this observation would make such an impression. But it's why Johnson hasn't been down in Texas these past few weeks campaigning for reelection as senator.

"I thought that was good advice," said Johnson in an interview, "and I've tried to follow it."

That was all Johnson would say when asked about campaigning in the Texas primary, a race in which an opponent is stumping busily.

The record supports Johnson's statement of being here: From the convening of the present session of Congress Jan. 3, 1954 up to July 15 there were 147 quorum calls in the Senate; he missed 3. There were 98 roll call votes; he missed three.

No senator has a perfect attendance record.

These days there is little unscheduled time on Johnson's calendar. As floor leader of the Democrats and with Congress hurrying to meet a July 31 adjournment from about 8:30 a.m. to midnight deadline, Johnson is on the go daily.

Some Senate sessions are running from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Johnson must be on the Senate floor almost every minute and be familiar with every bill. That's been his responsibility since January of last year when at 44 he became the youngest man ever to head a major party in the Senate.

While backing away from further campaign discussion and without having once even referred to his opponent, Dudley Dougherty, Johnson in the interview did go over the things which are most on his mind during these days in world affairs.

He is drawn continually into conferences that shape American domestic and foreign policy. Secretary of State Dulles, for instance, called the Texan down for a 45-minute talk just before flying back to the Geneva conference on Indochina.

Dulles told Johnson President Eisenhower was grateful for the bi-partisan leadership of the Texan, especially for his sponsorship of the swiftly adopted Guatemala resolution warning the Communists to stay out of the Western Hemisphere.

"We may soon be faced with the necessity of re-examining our entire foreign policy," Johnson said.

"None of the alternates is pleasant. But we will find our salvation if we face the problems as Americans and not as partisans.

"Re-examination will serve no purpose if the sole objective is to prove that some policies of the past were right—or some policies were wrong. No truly American interest is guarded by that attitude."

One thing about Johnson that has amazed old timers is how he manages to keep intimate contact with his own state problems while burdened with many major national and international matters.

His daily schedule reminds one of the late Texas Sen. Morris Sheppard. Even though deeply occupied as chairman of the old Senate Military Affairs Committee in the days leading up to this country's entry into World War II, Sheppard found time to go with visiting Texas delegations before committees and agencies, go help plead their cause for a project or program that might affect only a small part of the state.

"I don't believe I remember any session of Congress, during my service in the House and the Senate, when so many matters of particular importance to Texas were up for action," Johnson remarked.

He hastened to add that he was not complaining, even though it keeps him on the jump, from early to late.

"I asked the people of Texas for this job," he added, "and I love it. When I was elected Democratic leader, I resolved very strongly that I was not going to allow the duties of that post to cause me to neglect any part of my duties as senator from Texas."

During the interview Johnson was interrupted frequently by phone calls—and only those of an urgent nature were put through to him.

Despite these distractions, he rattled off nearly a score of Texas projects and programs which have had his close personal attention this year...Ferrell's Bridge Dam in Northeast Texas, construction money...Rio Grande flood relief... livestock feed for cattle in drought-stricken Central Texas counties... blocking planned shutdown of Texas City tin smelter...retention of 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance...transfer federal lands to Texas for state park at new Lake Texarkana.

While he was talking the bells rang for convening of the Senate at 10 a.m., and even then four visiting Texas constituents sat out in his reception room waiting to see him. Two of the men, R. D. Collins of Mineral Wells and John McCall of Dallas, officials of the Brazos River Authority, were there to discuss new dams.

The senator couldn't see any prospects of getting back to his 260-acre Pedernales ranch, where his grandfather settled a century ago, before Congress adjourns. He looks forward to spending most of the rest of the year there.

And, although the decisive July 24 primary election will then be over, he plans to make quite a few speeches over the state this fall.

At right is Mrs. Davis' son, Johnny, 5 years old. Seminole police are holding a 34-year-old metal worker, Billy Hughes, on a charge of committing the crime.

State Candidates In Old-Style Drive

By DAVE CHEAVENS

MARSHALL, July 17 (AP)—The old fashioned political rally may be seriously threatened by radio and TV, but two candidates for governor showed this week it isn't dead yet.

Gov. Shivers and Ralph Yarborough got down on the street and public square level with the voters all over East Texas.

They were out for a critical block of votes in an area where managers for both sides privately admit there is still considerable indecision.

This correspondent's observations of crowds at rallies for both in about the same territory would bear this out.

There is almost none of the howling, whoop-it-up spirit seen years ago in the Ferguson campaigns or more recently in the bitter Lester-Rainey battle for the governorship.

The folks turned out surprisingly well, often to stand patiently and soberly in the sun to listen but withhold any sign of approval or disapproval. This was especially true of the Negroes who listened as the rivals told of segregation in the schools.

It was hard work for the candidates.

Both often had to speak under the full glare of the sun in 110 degree heat. Shivers shucks his coat usually and speaks in a brown sport shirt, but with a tie as a concession to dignity.

Yarborough, a former district judge, worked indoors and out wearing his coat and showing little evidence that the heat was bothering him.

This reporter has seen some candidates sweat so profusely that they gave off a squishy sound as they walked.

Both of these candidates seemed more convincing when they spoke without notes. Some of the campaign's most vivid talk came on these occasions.

Both got in as much handshaking as their heavy schedules permitted on the auto tours. Shivers passed out no literature, but Yarborough used the old technique of the handshake plus a card or folder.

As modern, high powered political campaigns go, both Shivers and Yarborough traveled with minimum field parties.

Shivers took along a press agent, an advance man, a sound truck driver and a driver who is also his secretary.

Reds Asked To Move 'Memorial' Tank

BERLIN, July 17 (AP)—A controversial Soviet memorial—the first Red tank to blast its way into Nazi Berlin in 1945—may soon be pulled back behind the Iron Curtain. The Russians apparently feel the defaced, wire-shrouded tank has outlived its usefulness as a symbol in the American sector of Berlin.

Soviet army headquarters asked the Americans today for permission to haul the tank memorial out of the U.S. sector, where it has stood as a constant reminder of the Red shadow. Negotiations will be conducted here to effect the removal.

Russian willingness to discard the symbol came as a surprise to Allied quarters. West Berliners were pleased.

The tank, atop a marble base, has been an eyesore since irate Germans defaced it during the Soviet blockade of 1948-49. To protect it from further abuse, the Americans surrounded it with a wire cage two years ago. Work on restoring the memorial was interrupted by the June 17, 1953, workers' rebellion in East Germany. Thereafter, U.S. authorities forbade further work on a tank which represented the same armored forces used to quell the anti-Communist uprising.

The tank is one of three memorials in Berlin proper. The giant, bronze figure of a Red army soldier stands in the British sector, two hundred yards from the Russian frontier. In the Soviet sector, a huge memorial park contains the bodies of six generals and 1,500 enlisted men who fell in the storming of the city. Both of these memorials are under constant guard.

There were no sentries on duty at the American sector monument. Anti-Reds erected a wooden cross and a stone slab in front of the tank to "Victims of Stalinism" and to Red Army men who refused to fire on the German population, and paid with their lives, during last year's revolt.

Foreign quarters viewed the Russian request to remove the tank as something more than a mere incident. They said the Russians have never before put anything in reverse gear here. None felt qualified however to interpret how the action might figure in future Soviet policy.

LUBBOCK, July 17 (AP)—Two airmen on a training plane flight escaped uninjured today when they bailed out after their plane caught fire near here.

The Reese Air Force Base T28 caught fire just west of the base, exploded and crashed in a cotton field. The airmen are Lt. Michael Tanzillo, 23, of Brooklyn and Cadet James Riley, 25, of Las Vegas.

Montana Is Facing A Quiet Primary

HELENA, Mont., July 17 (AP)—A Montana primary campaign so quiet that United States senator hasn't even returned to his home state to campaign for re-election is drawing to a close.

Republicans and Democrats Tuesday will nominate candidates for the United States Senate, for the two seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and for railroad commissioner and lesser state offices.

James E. Murray of Butte, 78-year-old Democrat who has been in the Senate for 20 years, is seeking nomination for his fourth full term.

Murray, sixth in seniority of the Democratic senators, has relied mostly on campaigning by his friends and his son Charles and has not come out from Washington.

Murray has pitched his appeal in recorded television shows on his record in the Senate and his ranking membership on the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, which handles many matters important to the Treasure State.

His two opponents, Sam G. Feezell, 47, of Great Falls, and Ray E. Gulick, wheat and mustard seed grower from north central Montana, both have been campaigning actively, but on a personal basis, with no sharp attacks on Murray.

On the Republican side, Rep. Wesley D'Ewart, a five-term House member, is seeking the nomination for the Senate seat Murray now holds.

D'Ewart, traditionally a strong candidate in the eastern 1st District, is making his first statewide race and has put on an active, personal campaign in an effort particularly to strengthen himself in the Democratic strongholds in the western part of the state. He has pledged full support of Eisenhower.

Running against D'Ewart is an Indian, Bob Yellowtail, former chairman of the Crow Indian tribal council. Yellowtail has been defeated twice in his race for the House seat which D'Ewart holds.

Lee Metcalf, freshman Democratic congressman from the 2nd District, is facing an opponent whom he defeated by only 55 votes two years ago. His opponent, Paul Cannon, former lieutenant governor, has been busy with his women's wear store in Butte until campaigning started. However, he has made sufficient progress that Metcalf, who said he believed he should stay in Washington, returned to campaign.

Winfield E. Page, 50, Missoula landscape architect, has no opposition for the Republican nomination in the western district. This is his third bid for the post.

'Learning' Is Put To Work By Marshal

Ivan Gatlin, fire marshal, and E. E. Shuler and Dale Blakely, firemen, returned Friday night from a school on safety and fire prevention at College Station.

One thing emphasized at the school was the fact that a fireman never knows what kind of an emergency situation he will be called on to face next, nor when.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Gatlin was called on to put a bit of his safety learning to use.

David Lawhon, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lawhon, who live eight miles west of here, was brought to the fire station with his finger tightly wedged into the top of an insect spray can.

Gatlin, Warren Boyd, another fireman, and Jack Inman, policeman, removed the can with a pair of tin snips. The finger was blue and swollen but was not injured so badly as to require medical attention.

When asked why the boy was brought to the station instead of to a physician, his sister replied that she and other school students who visited the fire station in a group this year were given a lecture on safety by Gatlin. "So I knew you'd know what to do."

Ex-Banker Is Dead At 63

HUNTER, N.Y., July 17 (AP)—Bernard Marcus, 63, who headed the Bank of United States, which was involved in one of the spectacular bank failures of the depression, died yesterday.

He was stricken while horseback riding at this catskill resort, and fell from his horse. Greene County Coroner Edwin G. Mulbury attributed death to a heart ailment.

Marcus served a prison term from 1933 to 1935 after being convicted of misapplying funds of the Municipal Safe Deposit Co., a subsidiary of the Bank of United States.

He and another official, Saul Singer, convicted with him, were paroled.

Marcus' family said Gov. Herbert H. Lehman later granted a full pardon.

Some Insects Are A Help To Crops

"If we could eliminate injurious insects, swap our depleted land for virgin soil, get all the rain we need, and open a world market for cotton and other products at a fair price, we would have some hope of future security," says Bently Baize, local seed breeder.

That's quite a mouthful. Baize, however, does not propose to change the world. He only offers some ideas on control of injurious insects.

In this control, Baize says, the majority of beneficial insects have been destroyed along with the others. Nature must have a hand in bringing the soil back to the state of virgin productivity, and it needs a sufficient supply of beneficial insects for controlling those which injure the crops. So the beneficial insects must be protected, and others should be produced commercially, the seed breeder said.

The four insects most beneficial to cotton, grain sorghums, and other crops in Baize's opinion, are the flower bug, lace-winged fly, hooded beetle, and convergent ladybug. These feed on injurious insects like aphids, thrip, and red spider, and if they are supplied in sufficient numbers they will control those insects. They will also eat the eggs and larvae of cutworms, bollworms, army worms, leaf worms, cotton square borers, and the nymp of the cotton fleahopper, lygus, and rapid plant bug.

None of these four beneficial insects, Baize said, will control all of those injurious insects; neither can all four be secured in commercial quantities. Only the ladybug can be found on the market, and this is true because of the bug's having a very different nature from the other three. These bugs hibernate in the mountains of California like swarms of Bees. They are gathered there, put into containers with pine cones for their protection, and kept in cold storage so they will be dormant until they are placed in the fields. There is now a storage house in Plainview where farmers here can secure the bugs. They can be delivered here in air conditioned cars, put into the fields at night so they will not fly away, and they are ready to go to work.

The ladybugs multiply very rapidly if they are not destroyed by poison, and they can consume many injurious insects, along with eggs and larvae. It is important, the seed breeder said, that the bugs be released in the fields during the early growing season so they can get an even start with the bad insects.

The use of the ladybug bettle, Baize said, has been successful in many parts of Texas, where cotton and vegetable growers have used them. They are sold by the gallon, and a gallon contains thousands of bugs. Baize said he has heard the Department of Agriculture has made plans to test the use of the ladybug at some time this year. Baize is manager and part owner of the Von Roeder Seed Farms here.

The ladybug is common to most persons here, but most never think of it as beneficial to plants. At top are eggs of the bug deposited on a cotton leaf. At bottom, left, is the larvae of the bug and, right, the mature ladybug.

Russian Kids Appreciate Old Tarzan Films

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—Russian kids want the romanticism of Tarzan pictures and pirate films, just as Russian young folks want more films about love—and the Soviet movie industry should try to satisfy these "natural wants and desires."

While they're about it, Soviet movie makers should also throw in some scientific fantasies — like films about space ships and interplanetary adventure.

These are demands made by M. Andreev, chief of the Students Department on the Central Committee of Komsomol, the Soviet Communist Youth League.

Tarzan is "unideological" by Communist standards, says Andreev, but what's the harm in giving the kids a little fun. Tarzan as played by Johnny Weismuller was introduced to Soviet moviegoers in old films the Russians captured in Germany. They drew big crowds in Moscow and other major cities and some are still playing in the remote regions of Central Asia, where Western visitors to ancient cities sometimes find kids doing the Tarzan yell.

Andreev, writing in the magazine Art of the Cinema, says:

"The Soviet cinema has a great role in the upbringing of the nation's youth within demands of the party. We have had some films and novels which exerted very good influence on our youth. ...

"But the young moviegoer is still dissatisfied with the fact there are produced only a few films which are able to stir and arouse youth deeply. ... For instance, we produce few film comedies, scientific fantasies or adventure films. ..

"Now in recent years our Soviet movie industry produced such films as 'Brave Men' and 'Frontier Post in the Mountains.' Yet a large part of our youth has been impatiently waiting for the new screen appearance of Tarzan, and for some pirate films."

Kelly Started G-Man Term

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—George (Machine Gun) Kelly, the kidnaper who died today at Leavenworth prison, is credited with coining the "G-man" label for federal agents.

He did it while "cowering in a corner" at the point of his captors' guns in Memphis, Tenn., a Federal Bureau of Investigation spokesman recalled today.

The spokesman said a small group of FBI agents and local police caught Kelly by surprise in a hideout house about dawn, Sept. 26, 1933.

"He was cowering in a corner, with no gun handy," the FBI man said. "His face twitched and got white. He was whimpering. He lost his bravado. He reached up his hands toward the ceiling, trembled and said, "Don't shoot, G-men, don't shoot."

That was the first time anyone had ever heard the "G-men" expression Kelly told reporters who asked about it that he meant "government men."

"By the time he was convicted and sentenced the abbreviation had spread through the underworld," the FBI spokesman said.

Absentee Vote Drive Is Made In Washington

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—An absentee vote campaign has been carried on by Rep. Jack Brooks of Beaumont among Texans here in the capital.

He is secretary of the 24 man Texas congressional delegation. His staff has gone through the 1,000 names on the roster of the Texas State Society and called up the homes or offices of all those with telephone numbers listed.

"We're not campaigning for any candidate," said Brooks. "We're just reminding them to vote, and offering to be of any help in getting ballots. It's really just a courtesy gesture."

Brooks has no opponent. He said his staff found far too many people had not paid their poll tax.

Texas congressional folk almost to a person sent in for absentee ballots if they knew they would not be able to get back home to vote. More than half of the congressmen will vote in person at home.

With the Senate running long daily sessions in order to adjourn July 31, there appeared little chance that Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Democratic leader, would get away. Sen. Price Daniel sent off for his absentee ballot.

The secretary to one of the Texas representatives said she had written her boss' name in on the ballot as her choice for governor.

The vivacious, dark-eyed Lady Bird Johnson, wife of the senator, tells this story about entertainment of the Longview High School band when it stopped over here en route to the New York Lions convention:

Her husband, with Sen. Daniel and Rep. Brady Gentry, decided to treat the band to a breakfast of milk, rolls, coffee in an ornate committee room just off the Senate chamber. The hungry youngsters had just launched into the food, served standing, when a photographer asked them all to come out on the Capitol steps to pose for a picture. When they left waiters carted off all the food. Some youngsters came back in, but the group as a whole hurried on elsewhere to keep a fast schedule.

"As exasperating as fixing up a good hot meal for your husband and having him kept late at work," she sighed.

With the adjournment rush on, Johnson is kept busy from early morning to near midnight attending sessions and conferring with other Senate leaders on the legislative program.

Lightning Destroys Historic Church

ATLANTA (AP) — Lightning tolled the bell of historic Bethsaida Baptist Church, set the structure on fire and neighbors who rushed to the scene were unable to save the 93-year-old building.

Violent ringing of the bell summoned the pastor, the Rev. A. C. Williams Jr., who called the suburban College Park Fire Department. Lack of water hampered firemen's efforts. Neighbors saved the pulpit, a piano, church records and some other furniture.

Built of pegged, hand-hewn timbers, the church dated back to 1861 and served as barracks for Sherman's troops during the Civil War.

Bikini Folks Still Unhappy

By A. I. GOLDBERG

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States is going to try for one more year to make the 200 fugitives from Bikini Atoll happy on their temporary home on Kili Island.

The promise has been given the U.N. Trusteeship Council by Frank Midkiff, U.S. high commissioner for the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands.

The Bikinians, taken from their own atoll and lagoon by the super bomb tests, have been shifted around in the islands and are unhappy [illegible] landing place.

Midkiff did not say what the United States planned next if the new attempt—to build up farming on Kili and to provide a fishing lagoon on Jaluit Atoll 30 miles away—fails to make the Bikinians happy.

But he did tell the council, "It is evident that it will be impossible for the Bikinians to return to their original Bikini Atoll in the near future." More bomb tests there and at Eniwetok are intended, U.S. officials have hinted.

Kili was a rich island, formerly a German copra plantation, but it had been allowed to run down in recent years. And it does not have a quiet lagoon for fishing.

The U.S. officials are trying to build up the production of taro or bread fruit, copra, papaya and other fruits and vegetables. A native islander, James Milne, heads this project.

The Americans plan also to build a fish pond on the island, start the manufacture of fiber rope and charcoal for export, and the bottling of syrup made from the boiled stem of the coconut blossom.

Thirty miles away, on Jaluit, the administrators plan to make two islands available for the Bikinians. There they can fish in the lagoon, raise pork and trade in copra.

Grantley was born heir to nearly $2,800,000 but the family fortunes dwindled. In his memoirs, he said as a young man he often borrowed pocket money from his own butler to help finance dinners for Windsor, then Prince of Wales, and other leading figures in London society.

JOSE "JOE" TELLO
. . . transient laborer

Better Pay Lures Braceros To Texas

What does a Mexican national do when he goes back to Mexico after working in Texas?

Some persons have wondered about the laborers who come here for hoeing or harvest seasons and then go back home . . . what kind of work they do when they get back.

Jose Cesar Tello, one of the nationals working in Scurry County, was asked that question. Tello, known as "Joe" here, comes from Merida, the capital of Yucatan, which is a state some 1,500 miles south of El Paso by land. Yucatan is only about 150 miles from Guatemala, which has lately had so much disturbance among Communists and anti-Communists.

Joe comes to Texas each year to work in the fields, both in the summer during the weed killing and cotton thinning time and during the fall in the cotton harvest. After the cotton has been harvested, he takes the long trip back to Merida, where he works at two jobs. He is a factory worker in the hemp-raising country, and he is a tourist guide. He can hold his job as a tourist guide easily because he speaks fluent English, and he is now working on learning French and German.

Working as a tourist guide brings in money, but it is an uncertain amount. As a factory worker, Joe can draw the equivalent of about $1.50 per day. That is the reason he comes to Texas each year. Here he can make 50 cents an hour chopping cotton, besides having his shelter, bed, and cooking facilities furnished, as well as having health insurance partly paid by his employer.

Joe, like many another Mexican national, comes here on a six-weeks contract. At the end of the six weeks, if there is still work to be done and he wants to stay here, his contract is renewable. Some Mexicans stay from late spring through the fall, while some go back to Mexico after hoeing and wait until the cotton harvest to return here. Joe came here through contact with the Scurry County Farm Labor Bureau, a co-operative of farmers which handles all contract work and delivers the workers to the employers.

Joe has been working in Texas for several years, since he met Robert Poteet, who has managed several labor bureaus and is now local manager. He had worked in the U.S. earlier but farther north and west of here. He worked mostly thinning beets in Northwest states. Last week he was working in this county on the farm of Howard Sterling in the Knapp community.

The majority of the Mexican nationals who come here to work cannot speak English. Joe at times serves as an interpreter between the Mexicans and employers. He worked at learning English, he said, through his association with Poteet and study by record. Like all foreigners, he has had trouble with slang used here. He cited one instance when another man was trying to persuade him to attend a movie. "You'll ge a kick out of it," the man told Joe. "I couldn't understand why he would want to do it if he was going to get kicked for it."

At 24, Joe is married and has a daughter he has never seen. The daughter was born in May on the same day Joe was crossing the border into Texas. Joe's wife remains home at Merida, where he owns an estate handed down through his family. His grandfather's father built the house in which Joe's family now lives. One reason he came to Texas to work, he said, is to make enough money to improve the aged house.

Several Mexican nationals are now being used on farms here. Poteet said the association will provide the workers when local labor is not available, as well as provide local laborers. Joe, he said, along with many others, is a good worker and can be trusted.

The labor association was formed by several farmers this spring so they could get more laborers at less cost. It's office is at the Snyder Co-operative Gin.

Hybrids May Boost Yield Of Sorghums

LUBBOCK (AP)—Something new and big is developing in producing grain sorghums.

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientists are working on hybrid grain sorghums that will boost yields the same as hybrids kicked up corn yields.

Look for sorghum yield increases of 20 to 40 per cent with these hybrids, and that may be conservative.

This is still in the testing stage. You may be able to get seed in a couple of years, say the scientists.

The men doing this research work with hybrids have been at the job for years. It's a team project, composed of R. E. Karper and N. W. Kramer, plant breeders at the Lubbock Experiment Station, and J. R. Quinby and J. C. Stephens at the Chillicothe station.

The final problem, now nearing solution, is the actual development testing of the lines of practical hybrids.

Hybrid sorghums offer some new possibilities in seed production. As an example, they will make possible economical production of seed of tall forage hybrids on combine type grain sorghum seed parents.

A more significant angle is that this team of scientists is developing some yellow endorsperm grain sorghums like yellow corn. In Texas we have all white sorghums, but yellow sorghums are definitely in the picture for the years ahead. The carotene content of yellow sorghum is important, especially where livestock feeding on sorghum do not have supplies of green feed available.

This whole business of plant breeding with grain sorghums concerns a crop that means millions to Texas farmers. When the agricultural scientists shortened the grain sorghums stalks down to dwarf combine varieties, sorghum production just about doubled in Texas in the past decade. As late as 1940, only about 5 per cent of the sorghum in Texas was in combine varieties. Five years later, in 1945, it was practically all in the dwarf varieties so that combines could harvest the crop quickly and efficiently.

Experiment station tests show that an experimental hybrid grown for 6 years at Chillicothe exceeded the other highest variety by 10 per cent in grain yield, the average of all varieties by 27 per cent. In an 8-year period of June plantings, the hybrid yielded 20 per cent more than the best variety and 44 per cent more than the average of all varieties.

The same impressive yield story can be found at the Lubbock station, where the same experimental hybrid produced 27 per cent more grain than the average of a group of the best strains and commercial varieties, and 36 per cent more than Martin, the most widely grown variety at present.

FARM AND RANCH

Research workers of the state agriculture experiment station have found that two gallons of spray per acre containing the recommended amount of insecticide controlled boll weavils and bollworms as well as six and 14 gallons when it is measured in terms of yield and infestation.

Use of the smaller amount gives the farmer a saving of time and labor.

WHEAT REFERENDUM

Ezra Taft Benson, the secretary of agriculture, has set July 23 as the date for a national referendum among growers of marketing quotas for the 1955 wheat crop, and the state Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation committee is urging producers to participate.

The committee points out that Benson, under present supply conditions, has no choice but to proclaim wheat quotas and call for a vote. Legislation requires the secretary to call the quotas when the supply exceeds 20 per cent of normal. The available supply for 1954-55 is about 79 per cent above normal.

If the quotas are approved, producers who comply with their acreage allotments may market all the wheat they produce in any way they choose, and they will be eligible for the full level of price support authorized for the 1955 crop. If they are disapproved, there will be no marketing quotas and no marketing penalties. Price supports would be 50 per cent of parity for those who comply.

HELD 3 INCHES

Terraces held a three-inch rain which fell suddenly this spring on the farm of Leonard Brumley, who lives about 10 miles northwest of Snyder. He said the rain stopped just when the water was about to run around his terrace end closures.

The closures are set up to hold the water until it rises about two-thirds of the height of the terrace, then the water will run around the end of the terrace. This protects the terrace system from flash rains falling in such short periods the water cannot soak in, according to Jake Hodges, local Soil Conservation Service chief. The end closures insure the maximum benefit from the rain by storing as much water as the terrace proper can safely hold. This works well, Hodges said, whether the rainfall is of the flash type or slower. Brumley built 4.3 miles of terraces this year under specifications recommended by the Upper Colorado SCD.

GOOD TO KNOW

Ranchers should learn to identify 15 to 20 key grass species because a knowledge of grasses is important in an efficient range conservation program, Hodges says. Some grasses, he explains, are shallow rooted and others deep, and the two are adapted to different types of soil. Some grasses are heavier forage producers than others.

Stocking rates should be varied according to the types of vegetation present. The good grasses are always fighting for survival with other vegetation, including the less desirable grasses, and it is always a one-sided fight regardless of moisture conditions. That is especially true where overgrazing is practiced.

Most pastures and ranges are making a remarkable recovery from the drouth here, Hodges, said, but the key grasses still should be given a chance to build root systems and produce seed crops. The roots are even more important to the plant than top growth. Hodges points out that without a deep, well-rooted system the key plants have a reduced chance of survival.

Native grasses are the best for ranges. Introduced grasses are good but are usually hard to establish. Grazing practices must be adjusted to the range site and type of vegetation growing on it. "No two ranges can be managed the same," Hodges said. "Here is where a knowledge of the grasses present and knowledge of the best handling enters the picture."

It is easy to learn the key grass species, he said, adding that probably the best way to learn them is having someone who knows grasses to point them out, along with identification characteristics of each. Hodges said the local SCS technicians are available to go with anyone on a grass identification tour.

After the cattleman becomes familiar with the grasses present on his range, he can learn when they begin to make seed, deferring grazing during that period. A good seed crop is needed now to hasten the range rebuilding program, Hodges said.

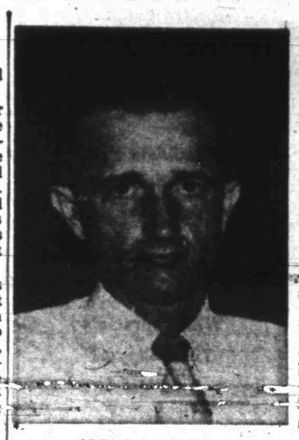

The Rev. Roy O. Womble has assumed the pastorate of the Union Baptist Church. Rev. Womble attended Oklahoma Baptist University and received his bachelor's degree from Southeastern State College in Durant, Okla. For the past three years he has served as pastor of the Five Mile Baptist Church of Lamesa.

Finley Takes Dimmitt Post

Irelan Finley, manager for the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation office here for about two and one-half years, has resigned his post to become ASC manager at the Castro County office in Dimmitt.

Finley replaces Horace Blagg, who resigned there July 1 after seven years as manager.

Coming here from Seminole, Finley became office manager here in February, 1952. He had been head of the Gaines County office about nine months before coming here and had been in the agency since 1946.

A graduate of Goodlett, Tex., high school, he served two years in the Army during World War II. He has a wife and two daughters.

No successor to Finley had been named here by the end of the week.

He'll Get His Old Job Back

NEW YORK (AP) — John Perry Walker takes pride in his family history — his ancestors number some illustrious U.S. military men.

His greatgrandfather, for instance, was Union Gen. Langdon Easton of the Civil War. His grandfather was a captain who fought in the Indian Wars.

Walker himself attended the U.S. Military Academy and fought in World War II as a Navy dive bomber.

Imagine, then, his surprise when he lost his city job of four years because of doubts as to his citizenship.

The 34-year-old Walker had been a temporary appointee as a $4,700 a year junior architect. However, when he received a permanent appointment this year, authorities held that his personnel record lacked sufficient evidence of citizenship.

Walker was born in Canada while his father briefly held a job there, and his mother died while Walker was a baby.

When Walker sought to prove that his father was a U.S. citizen, born at Ft. McPherson, Neb., in 1874, he wasn't immediately able to do so. Few birth records were kept in those days.

So Walker was dismissed from his job, and even denied vacation pay.

But things have taken a brighter turn since then. Walker finally was able to obtain evidence relating to his father's birth. And when Mayor Robert F. Wagner heard about the case, he ordered an immediate investigation.

Walker feels sure he'll get his job back.

Political Interest Beginning To Mount

After a slow start, there was some indication at the end of the week that political interest was beginning to stir a bit in Scurry County.

For the most part, Scurry candidates have been conducting their campaigns strictly on an individual basis, with no organized rallies to bring them together in groups.

And most of them were stepping up the pace Saturday as all redoubled their efforts to contact a maximum number of county voters before the first primary election scheduled for next Saturday.

Absentee voting, which got off to a rather slow start, picked up some during the latter half of the past week. A tabulation late in the week showed that the number of absentee ballots cast was approaching the 100 mark.

Tuesday is the deadline for absentee voting in the first primary, and demands for absentee ballots are expected to increase during the last two days of the absentee voting period.

Any qualified voter who will be unable to appear at the polls in person next Saturday may cast an absentee ballot by making proper application at the County Clerk's office in the courthouse.

Harold Bennett, county Democratic Chairman, said all preparations had been made for the primary. He announced the list of primary election judges for the various voting precincts during the past week.

Although no records are expected to fall, local candidates were hopeful that interest in state races would help bring a good turnout to the polls next Saturday. The early lack of interest in county and precinct races is attributed largely to the fact that several candidates are unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

However, some local candidates reported that they had noted mounting interest during the past few days, especially in the state races, in the areas where they had campaigned during the past week.

If interest continues to increase during the final week of the campaign, they indicated that a substantial turnout of Scurry County voters might be expected on Saturday.

All local candidates also indicated that they planned a heavy week of campaigning.

Prize Book On Civil War Reproduced

The prized diary of W. W. Heartsil, which has become one of the most eargery sought Confederate items, has now been made available in book form.

Title "Fourteen Hundred and 91 Days In The Confederate Army," the original was printed on a $10 hand press in a barn at Marshall, Texas. Only 100 copies were printed at that time, and there is no original copy for sale.

All photographs, many of which were simply pasted in have been faithfully reproduced in the facsimile volume.

The author, admittedly not a master of literary style, grammar and spelling, nevertheless has presented a straightforward account of the daily activities of a soldier, and his production has become the most prized possession of many collectors of Texas history.

The book centers on the activities of the W. P. Lane Rangers. It contains perhaps the most accurate description on record of actual living conditions in the war-torn south.

Bell Irvin Wiley edited the facsimile edition, which was published by the McCowat-Mercer Press in Tennessee. It is being distributed by the Marshall News-Messenger, which is now accepting orders at $6 per copy.

Enforcement Agencies Establish Committee

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—Formation of a legislative committee from Texas law enforcement agencies to seek legislation that will improve law enforcement was announced today by Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd.

The committee was authorized by delegates to the attorney general's conference on law enforcement in April.

Shepperd said the committee will investigate the possibility of securing "a modern and practical code of criminal procedure and fair and effcient criminal laws."

The group includes District Judge Penn Jackson, Cleburne; and Sheriff Charley Meyer of Beaumont.

Aquatic Camp Is Set For Area Boy Scouts

An aquatic camp for Boy Scouts and Explorer Scouts of the Buffalo Trail Council will be held at Lake Sweetwater August 2-7.

The camp is to feature fishing, swimming and boating, and will also include skeet shooting, marksmanship, archery and scoutcraft. Each troop will do its own cooking and furnish its own camping equipment. The camping fee will be $1.50 per person to cover insurance, ice, program material, boat rental and other overhead.

Bob Eastus of Snyder, executive director, will direct the program. William T. McRee of Big Spring will direct the camp.

Good Hunting Season Looms

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—Texas hunters can look forward to a good shooting this fall despite the closing of seasons on antelope and whitewing doves, Game Commission Executive Secretary Howard Dodgen said today.

Dodgen reported good prospects for both mourning doves and water fowl and a satisfactory outlook for big game. Even quail reports are favorable for the first time in several years.

Dodgen defended the commission's recent action in voting against a season on antelope in the Panhandle or west of the Pecos and in closing the season on whitewing doves.

"It is not always sound conservation to forbid hunting just because some species are in low population, but the Big Bend antelope herds are in hard straits from the drought, and the whitewings in the valley almost got the coup de grace from the recent hurricane which caught the birds at the peak of their nesting and wrecked nests by the wholesale," said Dodgen.

He said the commission judged the small harvestable surplus of Panhandle antelope not worth the trouble of opening the season.

Deer prospects are somewhat blighted by the drought but adequate to yield "a pretty good harvest of venison," said Dodgen.

Standings Static In Little League

All teams remained in the same places in standings of the Little League Friday night as the American Legion Yankees downed the Kiwanis Braves 5-1 and the Rotary Cardinals edged the Lions Cubs 6-4.

Norman Gladson of the Yankees, top pitcher in the league, took his eleventh win against no losses. He pitched the whole game against the Braves to give up four hits, walk only two, and strike out 12. The loser, Phillip Johnson, allowed six hits, fanned three, and walked three.

The game went scoreless for four innings before the Yanks broke loose with runs. Richard Samuelson had slammed a double in the second for the Yanks, but none was on base, and the side was retired before he could get around. The same thing had happened to Bubba Fleming of the Braves in the first when he got a double. In the fifth, two singles were followed by a base on an error. Richard Mahan then doubled to bring in the last two of three runs. It was almost the same in the sixth when there were two singles and a walk before Don Martin doubled to bring in two.

The one run for the Braves came in the bottom of the sixth. Fleming, after already getting double, tripled this time and was brought in on a double by his brother, Jerry Fleming.

The Cubs jumped ahead in the first inning of their loss to the Cards, getting three runs right away. Two errors by Card shortstop David Kee let two get on base, then pitcher Foy Dennis hit another to send him to first and load the bases. One run came in when Billy Busbee missed a fly in left field, then two more came in on a fielder's choice and a single.

The Cards did not score until the third, when they put across one run on a walk and an error. They got ahead 4-3 in the fifth with three runs on three walks, a hit batter, and a single, followed by a two-run fifth inning on two walks and an error. Walks and stolen bases got the Cubs one more run in the bottom of that frame. Pat Gibson got one double for the Cubs in the game.

Winning the game was Foy Dennis, who pitched throughout the game to strike out two, walk four, and allow four hits. The loser was Gene Witherspoon, who went four innings to walk six, give up one hit, and strike out five. His relief, Weldon Ware, allowed no hits, walked four, and fanned two.

Dallas Places Most Men On All-Star Team

By The Associated Press

Dallas is in the Texas League cellar but it has the most individual baseball stars, say writers, telecasters and club managers in picking the all-star teams that play in the annual game at Fort Worth Friday night.

Dallas landed seven players on the North squad. Fort Worth, Oklahoma City and Tulsa got four each.

Houston dominated the South squad, managed by Don Heffner of San Antonio, with six players. Shreveport got five, San Antonio four and Beaumont four.

On the North team managed by Tommy Tatum of Oklahoma City is the league's leading hitter, Les Fleming, Dallas first baseman. Buzz Clarkson of Dallas, fourth among the batters, also made the all-star squad at third.

Joe Durham of San Antonio, batting just back of Fleming, was a heavy choice for the South all-star squad.

Vicente Amor of Oklahoma City tops the pitchers with 14 victories and is the ace of the North staff. John Andre of Shreveport, leading pitcher of the South squad, has won 13.

Others on the squads:

NORTH: Pitchers Karl Spooner (12-6), Fort Worth; Ralph Butler (10-3), Fort Worth; John Murff (8-8), Dallas; Pat Scantlebury (11-10), Dallas; Norman Camp (9-4), Tulsa; Dick Bokelmann, Tulsa (6-3); catchers Dan Baich, Dallas (.272); Al Ronning, Fort Worth (.253); Philip Tomkinson, Oklahoma City (.263); second Frank Murray, Oklahoma City (.318); short Al Stringer, Dallas (.265); utility infielder Dan Lynch, Tulsa (.355); left field Glen Gorbous, Fort Worth (.311); center Jim Bolger, Tulsa (.317); right Willie Brown, Dallas (.312); utility outfielder Russ Burns, Oklahoma City (.307).

SOUTH: Pitchers Bob Smith, Shreveport (6-3); Rinold Duren, San Antonio (10-6); John Jansce, San Antonio (10-1); Willard Schmidt, Houston (11-2); Hugh Sooter, Houston (11-9); Dave Hillman, Beaumont (10-6); catchers Jim Fanning, Beaumont (.312); Don Masterson, San Antonio (.265); Dick Rand, Houston (.251); first base Ed Mickelson, Shreveport (.319); second Howie Phillips, Houston (.318); third Ed Kazak, Beaumont (.327); short Don Blasingame, Houston (.340); utility infielder Ken Boyer, Houston (.302); center field Ed Knoblauch, Beaumont (.290); right Harry Heslet, Shreveport (.276); utility outfielder Ev Joyner, Shreveport (.307).

Sens Bump Sox By 3-1

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Bob Porterfield bumped Chicago five games off the pace of league-leading Cleveland today when he pitched the Washington Senators to a 3-1 victory over the White Sox. Porterfield captured his 10th decision while scattering eight hits.

The Senators scored twice in the first inning to end loser Billy Pierce's string of 18 scoreless innings. Eddie Yost walked and Wayne Terwilliger beat out a trickler down the third base line, both runners advancing when Cass Michaels threw past first base.

Mickey Vernon's grounder got Yost across and Roy Sievers' single to left scored Terwilliger.

Chicago sliced the Senators' lead to 2-1 in the eighth when Chico Carrasquel walked and came around on Minnie Minoso's double to left.

The Senators scored their final run in the eighth when Sievers and Jim Busby beat out bunts and Jerry Snyder singled to score Sievers.

Shut-Out By Feller Holds Tribe's Lead

PHILADELPHIA, July 17 (AP) — Cleveland's canny veteran, Bob Feller, tossed a two-hitter at the Philadelphia Athletics today to win 6-0 and maintain the Indians' slim American League lead.

Feller was near perfect as he recorded his seventh victory against only one defeat. He faced only 29 batters, fanned six, walked none. His control was so near perfect he tossed only 21 balls the entire game. It was Feller's first shutout since July 10, 1953.

The Indians by winning stayed one-half game ahead of the New York Yankees who won their 12th straight victory today, routing Baltimore 9-3.

The A's Don Bollweg was the only player to reach first base, and that was as far as he could get. He singled into right in the first inning, but was caught trying to stretch the hit into a double.

In the fourth Bollweg singled again into right but was stranded as Jim Finigan fanned and Bill Renna flied deep to left.

In the seventh, Bollweg reached first base when Feller couldn't handle Bill Glynn's bad throw.

Meantime, the Indians pecked away at the offerings of two Philadelphia hurlers—Al Sima and Marion Fricano—getting single runs in the first, third, fourth and fifth and capping their 10-hit attack with two runs in the ninth.

District Title Match Set In Pony League

District playoffs of the Pony League will be held here starting Thursday, Forrest Beavers, president of the local league, has announced.

The playoffs will be made up of a best-two-out-of-three series, to be played Thursday, Friday, and, if needed, Saturday nights.

Playing will be all-star teams from Snyder and Midland. Snyder gained the district finals by defeating Lubbock 6-1 here last Tuesday night. It had beaten Colorado City 17-0 the night before while Lubbock was downing Sweetwater 12-2.

Midland Friday night beat Big Spring 9-8 to take the other half of the district. Midland had downed Crane earlier while Big Spring was beating McCamey. The Snyder all-star tryout team, which was made up of the all-stars plus a few other players out of the league, had beaten the Big Spring all-stars 5-4 more than a week ago in a practice game.

Pony League officials are to meet at the courthouse at 3 o'clock this afternoon to make plans for the playoffs. Eddie Hight and Justin Corbell, who are heading up the all-star team, will hold workouts during this week.

Hamner's Blow Wins

CINCINNATI, July 17 (AP)—Granny Hamner's ninth-inning home run with Stan Lopata on base gave the Philadelphia Phils a 5-3 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs today and their first triumph under their new manager, Terry Moore.

Borger's Baseball Team Is Disbanded

PLAINVIEW, Tex., July 17 (AP)—The Borger franchise in the West Texas-New Mexico League was disbanded today, and the Class C league will operate with seven teams for the rest of the season.

League directors decided this at an emergency meeting today, called to consider the financial woes of Borger.

The franchise had been returned to the league Friday by the Borger group which had operated the club since last July when the team had similar trouble.

The club's long-standing financial problem reached a head earlier in the week when the club was forced to sell shortstop Gil Valentin for $2,000 to meet its July 15 payroll.

The league will continue with Abilene, Albuquerque, Amarillo, Clovis, Lubbock, Pampa and Plainview. They will follow the present schedule with open dates against Borger.

Also brought up for a test vote was the controversial veteran limit, which allows only three veterans per team. Only two clubs voted for raising the limit to five—the number carried last season. The rule was originally installed as an economy measure.

There was some discussion about making Borger a road club for the remainder of the season. But Clovis Business Manager Eddie Jones moved that the franchise be disbanded and four other clubs voted with Vlocis.

Albuquerque and Lubbock voted against the motion.

Players belonging to the Borger club were put on auction by the league with four being sold. Players on option from clubs in other leagues will be returned and the other players will be disposed of by Sunday.

Albuquerque purchased Bob Westfall, veteran infielder, and Luis Villodas. Abilene bought Al Belinsky, rookie outfielder-pitcher, and Clovis got rookie outfielder George Petrovich.

Francis X. Reagan, assistant coach of the pro Philadelphia Eagles football team and former Penn star, has been named football coach at Villanova. Art Raimo, who was coach, resigned suddenly to take an assistant coaching job at Yale.

Painter Gets Right Nnmber, Wrong Street

ALBERT LEA, Minn., July 17 (AP)—A painter got the right house number but the wrong street. So Mrs. Mary Steele found the roof of her house freshly painted green when she returned home.

The painter was supposed to have done the roof of Ray Ackland's house—on the next block.

Ackland sympathetically declined to identify the painter. "He feels pretty bad," said Ackland.

The double failed despite the war dance by second baseman Reno Bertoia. Umpire is Ed Runge.

Andrews Wins Publinx Meet

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, July 17 (AP)—Imperturable Gene Andrews of Pacific Palisades, Calif., was strongest in the stretch today to win a ding-dong battle from young Jack Zimmerman of Dayton, Ohio, and take the National Public Links golf championship 1-up over 36 holes.

There was never more than two holes difference in the two as they struggled through 107-degree temperature in a glittering finale of the big tournament.

Andrews, the 40-year-old life insurance salesman playing in his first Publinx, took the lead to stay over Zimmerman, 26-year-old bespectacled mechanical engineer, on the 34th hole when Zimmerman was short of the green and chipped 10 feet past the hole while Andrews was on the edge, laid up and sank a 6-footer for a par.

They halved the 35th and 36th. On the last hole Zimmerman was 25 feet away with his second shot. He went for the hole in a desperate effort to even the match but was to the right. Andrews got down in two for a par.

Andrews was three over par for the 36 holes over the par 71, 6,296-yard Cedar Crest course. Thus for the entire tournament, during which he played 180 holes, he was even par. Which is top golf when conditions are considered—temperature that never was below 102 degrees and reached as high as 110. Four players during the tournament fell out because of the extreme heat.

Six times during the final round the lead changed hands as Zimmerman fought silently but doggedly. He had trouble with his tee shots and his approaches often faltered but he battled to the bitter end.

Dodgers Edge Braves, 3-1

MILWAUKEE, July 17 (AP)—Gil Hodges rapped a high bouncer over third base to score Pee Wee Reese in the 11th inning today and give Brooklyn a 2-1 triumph over Milwaukee, snapping a three-game Dodger losing streak and maintaining their 6½ game lag on the league-leading New York Giants.

Hodges' single came off Lew Burdette, who had taken over for starter Dave Jolly in the 11th. Burdette, beaten by the Dodgers in the 12-inning opener of the five-game series, was charged with his 11th defeat.

Jim Hughes, who relieved Don Newcombe in the 10th, was the winner.

A crowd of 39,250 watched the game, bringing to 160,131 the total for the four days.

Red Sox Triumph

BOSTON, July 17 (AP)—Ellis Kinder, Boston Red Sox relief specialist, survived a four-run ninth inning Detroit rally today to save a 7-6 for Tom Brewer. It was Boston's sixth victory in its last seven games.

Michigan State's intramural athletic program includes 22 sports ranging from archery to weight lifting.

Pro Gridders To Start Grind

PHILADELPHIA, July 17 (AP) — America's top professional football players start earning their pay the hard way next week as summer training for the 1954 campaign gets underway.

Despite temperatures ranging in the 80's and 90's (and even higher in some places)—weather just perfect for a baseball season that is only half finished—the pro gridders must get into condition for a rough schedule that starts Sept. 26. Before that, however, they will tune up in exhibition contests.

Bert Bell, the gravel-voiced, portly commissioner of the National Football League, can't wait for the tackling, passing and running to start "because I think this is going to be the best year we've ever had."

Bell, who well earns the big chunk of salary he gets each year as the NFL's judge, boss and No. 1 salesman, predicts "a tight race right down the wire."

Customarily he has no favorites: "Any of the 12 clubs have a chance to win and the championship won't be a runaway for any club."

The commissioner, with tongue in cheek, predicted that the club that can win 9 of its 12 games "will win the division title"—but—

"I don't know whether any team can do it," he added, smiling.

"If economic conditions stand up we will have the best year we've ever had, and more than 2,100,000 paying fans—the record set last year—will watch our boys."

The NFL has a 72-game schedule that runs through Dec. 12, with the championship game set for Dec. 26 in the home city of the Eastern Conference winners.

Besides that, the play-for-pay gridders participate in 39 pre-season exhibitions—games in which the quest for victory is just as serious as in the official contests for the title now held by the Detroit Lions.

The Los Angeles Rams started practice sessions first, giving tryouts to rookies this past week who have yet to have their NFL baptism. The veterans report Monday at the University of Redlands, in Redlands, Calif.

Monday, too, is the camp opening for the New York Giants at Williamette University, Salem, Ore.; the San Francisco 49ers at Menlo (Calif.) Junior College; the Washington Redskins at Occidental College, Los Angeles, Calif.; the Chicago Bears at St. Joseph's College, Collegeville, Ind., and the Chicago Cardinals at Lake Forest (Ill.) College.

On Tuesday, the Baltimore Colts open their camp at Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md., and a day later the champion Lions—who play the College All-Stars in the annual Chicago Tribune charities contest Aug. 13—start drills at Michigan State Normal, Ypsilanti, Mich.

The Green Bay Packers begin the important grind to get into proper football shape on Saturday at Stevens Point, Wis.

Then the Cleveland Browns, Eastern Division champs, open practice on July 25 at Hiram (Ohio) College, followed by the Philadelphia Eagles on July 26 at Hershey, Pa.

Last, but not least are the Pittsburgh Steelers who won't launch the summer training until Aug. 1 at St. Bonaventure College, Olean, N. Y.

The first exhibition game will be played July 31 with the Rams opposing Fort Ord, Calif., at Long Beach. The last pre-season contest involves Detroit and Pittsburgh at Buffalo, N. Y., on Sept. 19.

Bell said that a total of more than 600 players will be vieing for positions on the clubs which can carry a maximum of 33 when the official schedule starts.

Yankees Take 12th In Row

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP) — The New York Yankees won their 12th straight today, a new season high for the majors, thumping Baltimore 9-3 despite 14 hits by the last-place Orioles to remain one-half game behind the league-leading Cleveland Indians.

Eddie Lopat gave up nine of the Baltimore hits in his five-inning stay and the veteran Marlin Stuart, making his second appearance as a Yankee, yielded the others in the last four innings. Lopat received credit for his eighth victory.

Three Yank double plays helped nullify the Orioles' steady attack. Twelve Baltimore base runners were stranded.

Giants Swat Cards, 10-9

ST. LOUIS, July 17 (AP) — Don Mueller's sacrifice fly in the 11th inning brought in the winning run today as the league-leading New York Giants, bouncing back after blowing a nine-run lead, defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-9.

The Giants scored their decisive run off Harvey Haddix, St. Louis southpaw star, as a result of singles by pinch hitter Bobby Hofman and Alvin Dark followed by Mueller's sacrifice fly.

Mueller earlier had driven in two runs as New York surged to a 9-0 lead by knocking out starter Royce Lint with two runs in the first inning and then tallying seven times in the third off Cot Deal, a victim of four unearned runs when Ray Jablonski erred twice at third base.

St. Louis, shut out for five innings, kayoed lefty ace Johnny Antonelli with five runs in the sixth, scored three more off Hoyt Wilhelm in the seventh, then tied in the eighth against Don Liddle and Marv Grissom when Whitey Lockman dropped a double-play throw at first base. Jablonski started the Cards' sixth and seventh-inning rallies with base hits.

WT-NM Loop Proves Hitters' Paradise

By The Associated Press

Speaking of hitters' leagues consider the West Texas-New Mexico circuit.

Some 52 players are batting above .300. Pampa and Clovis are above that mark, too, Pampa with .312 and Clovis with .302.

The hardest hitter is Don Stokes of Plainview at .435, one of the highest averages in pro baseball. He is 53 points better than the next batter.

Stokes leads in hits with 144 and in total bases with 236. Curt Hardaway tops in runs with 99, Doug Lewis of Pampa in doubles with 35, Gil Valentin of Borger in triples with 13 and Francis Green of Plainview in home runs with 29.

Glenn Burns of Abilene is the runs-batted-in leader with 90.

Andy Alonso of Abilene leads the pitchers with 18 victories.

Eagles Make Long Ball Talk

By The Associated Press

Les Fleming and two Dallas teammates are making the long ball the talk of the Texas League.

Fleming is running away with the circuit hitting lead, pounding .377. Buzz Clarkson and Willie Brown have the hottest home run race in quite a while. Brown has 26 to Clarkson's 25.

Clarkson leads in runs-batted-in with 89. Beaumont's Eddie Kazak is the doubles leader with 28 and in runs with 74.

Howie Phillips of Houston leads with 134 hits.

John Andre of Shreveport is the winningest pitcher, with 13 victories. In percentage, John Jansce of San Antonio is the top man with 10-1.

Outfielders Leading Big State's Hitters

By The Associated Press

Tyler third baseman Oran Davis is the doubles leader with 26.

Wilkinson has the most runs scored, 86.

The Corpus Clippers have eight players hitting above .300 and a team average of .309.

Helicopter Helping To Solve Deep Water Exploration Woes

By MAC ROY RASOR

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—The gawky but versatile helicopter is now helping to lick one of the big problems of deep-water oilmen and is beckoning the industry even farther from shore in the eternal search for oil.

No longer must crewmen spend hours on rough boat trips to and from many of the drilling platforms far out in Texas and Louisiana tideland waters.

The big whirlybirds pick the crewmen up on shore and windmill them to their seaward jobs, then home again, a lot more quickly than many an office worker can battle through downtown traffic between office and home.

It is one of oil industry's newest ideas and has caught on quickly. Even the new portable-type drilling platforms include landing areas.

With the quick success for the idea, many an oil man is already convinced the helicopter is launched on a promising future in offshore oil operations.

Ben Belt, Gulf Oil Corp. vice president in charge of production for the Houston division, said recently the "best informed geologists" believe that 85 per cent of the valuable prospective land on the continental shelf is beyond the 10.35-mile mark.

Perhaps the quickest and easiest way so far of getting men there and back is by helicopter.

J. C. Craig, Continental Oil Co. official of Houston, noted in an industry convention speech earlier this year that helicopters claim advantages over amphibian planes by ability to operate safely under weather conditions of 300-foot ceilings and one-mile visibility. Winds up to 50 or 60 miles are claimed not to hinder operations.

Future helicopters, Craig said, may permit changing offshore crews three times a day and may carry 14 to 40 passengers.

In its current issue of its publication, the Humble Way, Humble Oil Co. tells how it is already saving many man hours and helping to prevent sea-sickness of crewmen traveling over the choppy waters off the Louisiana coast.

Five LST's being used by Humble in its offshore drilling activities in the past were converted into baby "flattops" early this year. Flight decks, resembling huge wooden canopies, were fastened atop the stern deck of each of the vessels.

The 'copter carries two pilots and six passengers. Each morning and again in mid-afternoon, it takes on a load of passengers at district headquarters at Grand Isle. It windmills its way at a 65-knot clip to tidewater operations off Timbalier Island.

The 15-mile trip takes about half an hour—replacing a four-to-five hour rough and rolling boat ride that almost always left workers a little green around the gills.

Officials figure the helicopter is a valuable safety factor, too. It replaces a standby boat to rush to shore anyone who might get hurt.

So successful has been the venture, officials claim, they are now considering inaugurating the same service to drilling operations off Pelican Island and in Caminada Pass.

Drilling Rate Holds Steady In West Texas

Rotary drilling activity held to a steady pace in West Texas and Southeast New Mexico during the two-week period ended July 10. There were 519 units in operation on that day, compared to 521 on June 25.

Scurry County drilling showed an increase, with 12 rigs running on July 10 and eight on June 25. Andrews and Lea Counties were still the two most active in the Permian Basin. Lea County held first place with 79 operations and Andrews had gained three for a total of 77. One year ago there were 516 rigs in operation in the Basin.

Basin counties with 20 or more rotary rigs in operation on July 10, according to the Reed Roller Bit Co. survey, were Andrews with 77, Coke with 23, Crane with 20, Ector with 26, Howard with 23, Lea with 79 and Tom Green with 20. A partial list of counties covered by the survey follows:

County	July 10	June 25
Borden	10	11
Dawson	3	3
Garza	8	9
Kent	6	8

Wildcats Set In Tom Green

Two new Ellenburger wildcats have been announced for drilling in Tom Green County.

Chambers & Kennedy and White Eagle Oil Co., both of Midland are to drill No. 1-B J. Willis Johnson, a slated 6,100-foot wildcat, in South Tom Green County.

The project is seven miles east of Christoval and at the center of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 43-25-H&TC. It is on acreage secured in a farmout deal with Stanolind Pete. Lomax Drilling Co. of Midland has the contract to dig the wildcat.

Woodward & Company of Dallas will drill No. 1 J. Willis Johnson, Jr., as an Ellenburger wildcat in South Tom Green County.

Drillsite is 660 feet from northerly south line and 1,635.4 feet from the most northerly west lines of section 2, Joseph Jackson survey and five miles northeast of Christoval.

That makes it three miles southeast of the Pecan Station field and one and one-half miles northeast of a 6,510-foot Ellenburger dry hole.

Wildcat Failure In Lynn Is Abandoned

Hancock Oil Co. has abandoned its No. 1 Sibyl Payne, shallow wildcat failure in Northeast Lynn County. It drilled to total depth of 3,919 feet in barren Permian lime.

It is Ralph Lowe No. 1 Sloan, which was drillstem tested one and a half hours from 12,267 - 300 feet. Gas surfaced in 12 minutes and oil in 28 minutes.

It flowed 61 barrels of oil in one hour. Operator reversed out 72 barrels of oil and no water. Flowing pressure was from 775 to 4,005 pounds and 30-minute shutin pressure was 5,150 pounds.

Location is one mile south of Lowe No. 1 Southland Royalty, one and three-quarters mile south extender to the Deep Rock-Ellenburger discovery and five miles west of Andrews.

Andrews Field Gets New Pay

Flowing Ellenburger discovery has been completed to open a new pay in the Block 5 Devonian field of Northeast Andrews County.

It is Texaco No. 1 State of Texas, completed for a calculated 24-hour potential of 397.68 barrels of oil and 136.80 barrels of water.

Potential is based on an actual 17-hour flow of 282 barrels of 44.3-gravity oil and 97 barrels of water through a 20-64-inch choke and perforations in casing from 13,800-805 feet. Total depth is 13,870 feet, plugged back to 13,840 feet.

Wellsite is in section 22-5-University lands survey and one location northeast of the discovery and lone Devonian producer in the field. It is 15 miles northeast of Andrews.

Nolan County Wildcat Drills In Ellenburger

Choya Drilling Co. No. 1 Wimberly, West Nolan County wildcat, is drilling in Ellenburger below 7,440 feet and anticipating the top of the Cambrian by 7,700 feet.

A drillstem test was run in the Ellenburger from 7,066-150 feet. The tool was open one hour, recovering 750 feet of drilling mud and 700 feet of mud and salty sulphur water with 4,300 feet of salty sulphur water. There were no shows of oil or gas.

Also in West Nolan County, Union Oil & Gas No. 2-74 Young is preparing to perforate casing for tests of the Strawn sand pay.

The No. 2-74 Young, an offset to Union's Strawn sand discovery at the No. 1-74 Young, is due to make a producer. It is bottomed at 6,586 feet in the Strawn with five and one-half-inch casing on bottom.

Wildcat Location Is Set For Schleicher

H. R. Mock of Ozona has announced location for a 1,000-foot wildcat in South Schleicher County, eight miles south of Eldorado.

It will be drilled as No. 1 Thompson Heirs.

Site is 990 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 71-A-HE&WT. It is a northeast offset to a 602-foot dry hole and four miles northeast of the Ed Willoughby 700 field.

Pancho Mag Field Has New Completion

Russell Maguire of Wichita Falls has completed his No. 1-A Beal as a new producer in the Pancho Mag field of Borden County.

The well flowed 24 hours on the completion test for a potential of 155 barrels of oil. Gravity of the oil was 44.5 degrees, and no water was present. The flow was through a 15-64th-inch choke and from perforations in five and one-half-inch casing from 7,500-560 feet. The pay had been washed with 4,000 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio on the test was 654-1, with tubing pressure 250 pounds. Total depth is 7,607 feet.

Site Is Staked For New Venture In Kent

Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. No. 2-B S. Neustadt has been staked for drilling in the SMS Canyon sand field of Northwest Kent County.

Drillsite is 660 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 3-2-H&GN, 18 miles northwest of Clairemont. Contract depth is 6,500 feet.

Garza, Kent Completions Are Reported

The completion of two field wells, one in Kent County and one in Garza County, has been reported to the Railroad Commission.

In the Dorward pool of Garza County, C. T. McLaughlin No. 6-SB Dorward pumped 24 hours for an initial potential of 88 barrels of 37.8-gravity oil plus 10 per cent water. Gas-oil ratio was too small to measure.

Top of the pay was at 2,472 feet. Five and one-half-inch casing is cemented at 2,470 feet, with total depth 2,492 feet. The pay was acidized with 3,000 gallons.

Drillsite is 330 feet from north and west lines of section 137-5-H&GN.

Blanco Oil Co. and Newman Brothers Drilling Co. No. 1-B Neustadt, SMS Canyon sand field project, flowed 24 hours for a potential of 181 barrels of 37-gravity oil with no water.

Gas-oil ratio on the final gauge was 400-1. Tubing pressure was 75 pounds. Production is from open hole at 6,075-090 feet.

Application Made To Deepen Garza Venture

Honolulu Oil Co. has filed application to deepen the No. 1 Percy E. Trintz in the Garza field of two miles northwest of Post.

The well now produces from pay above 3,200 feet in the San Andres. Honolulu plans to deepen is to about 4,200 feet to test the Glorieta. This deepening will make the project a wildcat because there is no Glorieta production in that vicinity.

The project is 330 feet from north and east lines of section 1235,AB&M survey.

Completion Rate Has 101 Gain For Week

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—Completion of 264 oil wells this week, 101 more than last week, was reported by the Railroad Commission today.

All drillings totaled 416, including 14 gas wells and 138 dry holes.

The year's total for completed oil wells was 6,474 compared with 5,567 a year ago; for gas wells, 681 to 490.

The gas came from the open hole section from 5,535 to 5,648 feet after pay had been fractured with 8,000 gallons.

Operator shut the project in to move off rig.

Southeast Stonewall Wildcat Scheduled

Bluebonnet Oil and Gas Co. of San Angelo and associates have filed application to drill a 6,500-foot wildcat in Southeast Stonewall County.

The well will be the No. 1 Frank Antilley, located 660 feet from north and east lines of section 3-A-AB&M. That is one and one-half miles west of Old Glory. The well is intended to test the Pennsylvanian, and will begin operations at once.

Southeast Pecos Gas Well Is Completed

Gas-oil ratio was 579-1. Flowing tubing pressure was 230 pounds. Total depth is 9,878 feet. The seven-inch casing is cemented at 9,877 feet. Production is through perforations in the casing at 9,830-865 feet. That zone had been treated with 500 gallons of acid.

Location is in section 22-21-McCullouch County school land survey. The project is one - location west of Stanolind Oil & Gas No. 1 Thompson, discovery and lone producer in the field. It is six and one-half miles northwest of Ropesville.

Borden Well Testing Again After Shows

The tool was open two and one-half hours on the first test, with gas at the surface in 30 minutes. There was no gauge or estimate on the gas volume. Recovery was 475 feet of oil-cut and heavily gas-cut mud and five feet of free oil. Flowing pressure was 150 pounds, with 30-minute shutin pressure 450 pounds. The project was deepened to 7,705 feet from the second test.

TIPPY IS FOUND

Alice Ann Gould, 6, warmly hugs Sable Prince Tippy, found by chance 100 miles from Alice's old home at Mill City, Ore. He had vanished three years ago and was found last Sunday "bumming" a meal while the Goulds were visiting in Depoe Bay, Ore. Apparently he has been living a nomad's life.

Mothers And Children Get Assistance

Mothers and children in Scurry County were getting 33 per cent of the $8,844 monthly total in social security insurance benefits being paid in the county at the end of 1953, Ralph T. Fisher, Manager of the Abilene social security office, has reported. Total payments to children in this county were $2,299 for the month of December. In the nation as a whole, over one million children were getting a total of about $32½ million in monthly payments at the end of 1953. Nationwide, over a quarter of a million widowed mothers were paid a total of over $9½ million in December.

The largest group of beneficiaries under the social security insurance program, however, continues to be retired workers, Fisher said. In December 121 such beneficiaries in Scurry County were paid a total of $4866. This was an increase of $1,998 over December, 1952. Nation-wide, the increase in retired-worker beneficiaries was 578,416, and the monthly payments to them increased from $130,217,439 to $164,659,061 in the same period.

Fisher said that many of us are inclined to think of old-age and survivors insurance under the social security system as a program for retired workers and their dependents exclusively. As the figure relating to mothers and children indicate, however, survivors benefits are an important part of the program, too.

Other beneficiaries on the rolls in Scurry County are wives and aged dependent husbands of retired insured workers, aged widows and dependent widowers of deceased workers, and dependent parents who are receiving survivors benefits. The total of all beneficiaries in Scurry County receiving monthly benefit payments at the end of 1953 was 244, Fisher said. The total amount being paid in the county as of December, 1953, was 57 per cent more than a year before, and 150 per cent more than two years before. For the sixteen-county area served by the Abilene Social Security office, the increase was 40 per cent over a year before and 90 per cent over two years before. Payments of $269,107 were sent out in December 1953 to 7,055 persons in the sixteen counties. This represents an annual total of about three million dollars in the sixteen-county area.

Jail Term Assessed On Swindling Count

Lewis Minica, 49, construction company employe who resides near the city limits on the Big Spring highway, was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail and assessed court cost of $23.50 when he pleaded guilty Friday afternoon to a county court charge of swindling.

Minica was charged of passing a worthless check to Harold C. Denson.

The sheriff's department here reported Minica had waived extradition through the department for transfer to custody of officers at Tucumcari, N.M., when his sentence here is completed.

Frank Bernson's New Home Of Modern Design

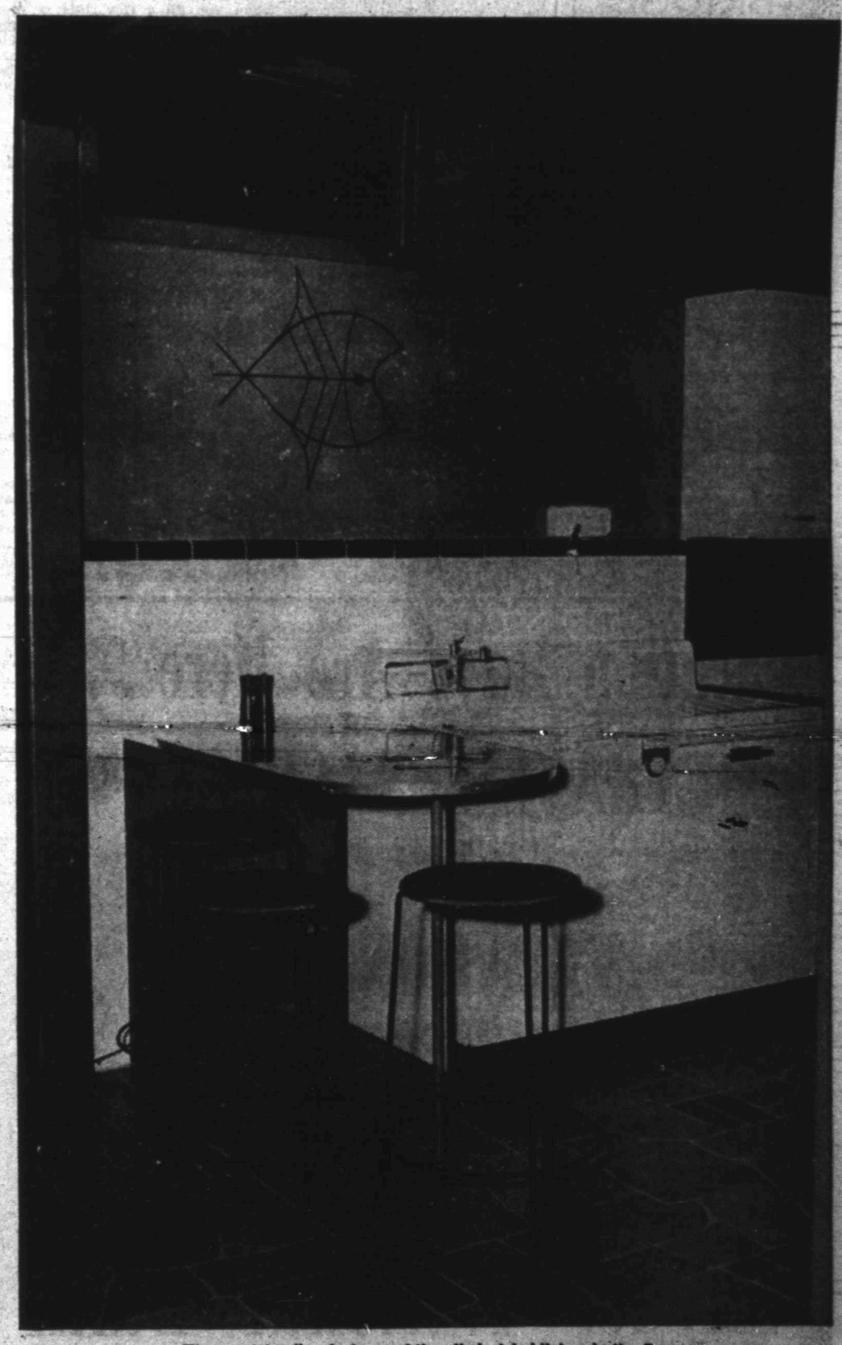

The guest bedroom of the Bernson home is shown above. A dominant color scheme is used throughout the house with the exception of one bath, which is decorated in yellow, and the kitchen done in white. Terracotta and decorator green are the predominant colors, with sandle wood for variety. The house has three bedrooms, two tile baths, the living room, kitchen, and family room. The family room, located in the middle of the house, provides the most popular living space, and serves as a buffer zone between the living room and main bedroom, and the more noisy children's room in the rear.

The Texas Modern home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bernson, and their two children, 3765 Sunset Avenue, is shown above. It is distinctive because it has no attic, and its exterior is of red brick and stained wood. The home was designed for the Bernsons by Hershel Fisher, architect, of Dallas. It follows the general pattern of the General Electric Wonder Home, designed for young moderns with children. (Lee Watson photographs)

The patio at the side and rear of the Bernson's home forms a perfect playground both for Diane Lea, three, and William Beale, two, as well as a favorite entertainment spot for grownups. The children are shown in a wading pool giving their dog, Fisher, a bath. A portable barbeque stand and redwood lawn furniture supplement the bat-wing lounging chairs for the back-yard playground.

Three outstanding features of the all-electric kitchen in the Bernson home are shown above. The bar-like breakfast table, the effective wrought-iron fish about to feast on a minnow, and a small window leading from the kitchen to the living room. The service window permits passing trays of hors d'ourves or other foods to the living room without taking all the steps necessary in most houses.

The Bernson family is shown above in the living room of the spacious house in which Swedish modern furniture is used throughout. They are shown setting on a sectional corner couch which forms a half circle around the round coffee table. The slanted lines of the house is shown in the upper portion of the picture. The house has no attic, and is exceptionally easy to keep cool on hot days and nights.

american designer's pattern

Toni Owen

Toni Owen is a firm believer in the "separate" way of life, but thinks mainly of separates that live as a unit. Today's pattern by this designer is typical of her youthful approach, in cut and in silhouette. All three pieces were shown by her in a warm, orangy velveteen, so smooth it looked a little like suede. The wide flared skirt has a bix box pleat in front which is followed around to the back with smaller pleats. The shorter-than-ankle length of the trousers is particularly notable, as is their closefitting, tapered line. Mrs. Owen used silk soutache cord to outline the tiny Chinese standup collar, but any such cord will answer. She prefers it, however, to match in color. Sheer wool, denim, linen or faille are all adaptable to this model. Sizes 10 to 18 are available. Give bust, waist and hip measurements when ordering. Size 12 requires 5½ yards of 36-inch material for jacket and skirt, 2¼ yards for the pants. To order Pattern No. 1164, address Spadea Syndicate, Inc., P.O. Box 535, Dept. S-13, G.P.O., New York 1, N.Y. Send $1.00. Add four cents, for handling, if paid by check or money order. Airmail handling twenty-five cents extra.

Wolf Park is the center of attraction with the 4-H Club boys coming in for their first camp. The boys are coming from all parts of Scurry County and have a good program that is full of fun and some work. The program will be changed according to the pleasure of the boys, as County Agent W. G. Logan says this camp is for the boys rest and outing and not work. County agents from Taylor and Garza Counties will assist in the camp and J. B. Dennerson of Abilene will be here to discuss poultry diseases.

"Pat" Bullock jumped all over the Times-Signal editor recently for "pouring it on" him in connection with a baseball game that he pitched at Hermleigh in which Maryneal was his opponent. But Pat sure had a comeback Tuesday at Hermleigh when he let the Roscoe team down without a single hit in six innings, and won the game 5-4, in which he secured a hit that brought in the tieing and winning runs. So the Times-Signal gently but firmly steps down from its officious and apparently rugged post and apoligized deeply, sincerely and sublimely to Pat for the original "bawling out" we gave him. . .

Scurry County will be honored Tuesday when State Supt. S. M. N. Marrs will come here for the annual meeting of county and district school trustees. The morning session commencing at 10 o'clock will be made up principally by a talk by Mr. Marrs, with the annual business session in the afternoon.

Erroneous reports have been spread as to traffic conditions on Highway 83, or what is better known as the Dal-Paso Cavern Highway.

The report is to the effect that the highway west of Lamesa in New Mexico is impassable and as a result of this report to tourist bureaus and chambers of commerce east of here, tourists have been routed over other highways at considerable distance further than this route offers for the cavern. . .

Snyder and Scurry County will get their first glimpse of an electric magnetic nail lifter now being operated on the state highways, either the latter part of this week or the first of next, according to Section Foreman G. R. Austin, Snyder resident and representing the State Highway Department. Punctureless roads are in prospect in Scurry County with the coming of this wonderful machine. As much as 100 pounds of nails, bolts and other articles are taken in a mile of highway by this machine.

Six or eight men have signed to have their herds accredited. If you think more of your children than you do a cow, this is your time to insure your children and yourself. Scurry County should have every cow tested. One case of T.B. prevented is worth the cost and trouble, says Matt Bavousett. See County Agent Logan at once if interested.

TEXAS LOOK . . . Casual and understated are the words for Texas clothes which, according to fashion experts, are approved by women all over the country. At left is a moss-green jersey coat dress with new Queen Anne collar; at right, three-piece outfit with gray jersey blouse, darker gray flannel skirt and hound's tooth checked cardigan. Both are designed for fall by Justin McCarty of Dallas.

'Free And Easy' Describes Top New Fashions For Fall

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — With aching feet and bulging notebooks, members of the international fashion press Friday wound up a hectic week of style showings which promises that American women can breathe easy next fall.

From the welter of collections by New York's top designers, visiting editors formed a picture of the shape of things to come, the gist of which is that women can loosen their belts a notch next fall, take off their waist cinchers and enjoy life.

The "free-and-easy" silhouette is the big news of the fall collections, underwritten by such trend setters as Vincent Monte-Sano, Hattie Carnegie, Christian Dior, Adele Simpson, Pauline Trigere, Nettie Rosenstein, Claire McCardell, Vera Maxwell, Ben Zuckerman and others.

The bloused silhouette is the newest thing on the fashion horizon; it is seen in suits, dresses and coats in practically every collection. This is the casual, easy line of the beloved chemise dress, which conceals waistline bulges, gives room for action, and allows the wearer to breathe without fear of splitting a seam.

Fashion editors are taking home an exciting story of new and colorful tweeds in every weight and tone, shown in everything from suits and coats to cocktail gowns, combined dramatically with satins for dress-up wear. Tweed suits have satin linings and weskits, are worn with matching satin hats.

Tweed coats sometimes have detachable satin lapels or scarfs. And satin touches are found on wool daytime dresses of every variety.

The costume story takes top headlines for fall. American women have taken to their hearts the versatile outfit of dress-up dress and cover-up jacket or coat, which looks like a suit during business hours, "peels" to become a cocktail or dinner dress after 5. This outfit is done in every conceivable fabric and color for fall, sometimes with fur-trimmed or reversible fur-lined jacket, sometimes with full-length coat, sometimes with skirt, jacket and matching dressy blouse. In any case the head-to-toe costume look is all important, accessories are carefully keyed to the total effect and a woman can dress in the morning for a busy day which might include shopping, office work, cocktails, dinner and the theater.

Big collars are a third identification mark of fall fashions. They are seen in many versions, from buttoned-on cape collars to outsize sailor collars on suits, coats and dresses. Some stand up and away from the neck, some are wide and open, some are cut in one with the sleeve.

Skirt lengths in some cases are slightly shorter than at present, in most cases unchanged. Skirts are slim for daytime, with new ease achieved through straight-hanging unpressed pleats in soft fabrics, sleek pleats and low-placed, inconspicuous fullness.

Hats follow the new casual feeling of fashion, with slouch-brim felts and flapper cloches much in evidence, usually worn flat, straight and forward on the head.

It's a season to bring joy to the hearts of the hard-to-fit, relief to tortured waistlines and new ease to the feminine population.

Several teen-agers entered the Snyder rodeo this year and among these is Sittie Harrell, a sixteen year old high school junior. Sittie lived on a ranch the first twelve years of her life, and she has ridden a horse ever since she can remember. She entered in the Senior Sponsor contest and she also rode in the grand entry. This is the first time she has entered a Snyder rodeo, although she has had previous experience in the Post Junior Rodeo. Sittie trained her own horse. She was second in the rodeo queen race and holds the title of lady-in-waiting.

• • •

Sidney Johnson, who was born and reared on a ranch, is another teenager who entered in the Snyder rodeo. Sidney entered roping, bareback bronc riding, and bullriding. He has entered in quite a few rodeos this season and has placed in the money in all but the Lamesa rodeo where he was injured by a bull. Sidney is not only interested in the money, but he is working on points for the finals which will be awarded in Fort Worth during the stock show. Sidney is seventeen and will be a senior in high school next fall.

• • •

Betty and Connie Connell are two sisters who entered the Senior Sponsor contest in the Snyder rodeo. Betty is sixteen and Connie is fourteen. Both girls have been riding for years. Betty has ridden English style when she attended school in Virginia, but she prefers western style. Betty will be a junior in high school this fall while Connie will be a freshman. Betty was also a candidate for rodeo queen. This was the second year for both girls to enter the Snyder rodeo.

• • •

Jim Sealy, who lived on a farm six of his eighteen years, was champion cowboy of the junior rodeo at Rotan. Jim will be a high school senior next fall and has placed in nearly every rodeo he has entered. Jim entered bullriding in the Snyder rodeo. He was also champion bullrider of the Brownfield rodeo. He has a horse which he trained, but he has little time to ride, since he works during the day and goes to rodeos at night.

• • •

The Junior Rodeo Association will have the first junior rodeo ever to take place in Snyder August 18, 19, 20, 21. The rodeo will be for high school boys and girls and it will be the American Junior Rodeo Association finals. The winners in the rodeo are the championship performers of 1954. The president of the Junior Association is Sidney Johnson. Other officers are Ralph Price, vice-president; Sittie Harrell, secretary-treasurer; Sonny Harrell, arena director; and Betty and Connie Connell, sponsor hostesses.

Other members of the Association are Billy Joe Hattaway, Billy Roberson, Jim Sealy, Dixie Brown, Elwyn Weathers, Buddy Townsend, and Don Stewart.

Delores Burnett of Haskell, who was Sue's roommate, Jo Ann Addison of Denver City, who was Jenny's roommate and Joy Flint, who was a suite mate, are spending the week end in Snyder. ONE IS COMPANY

Traveling Alone Means More Fun on Vacations

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
A. P. Newsfeatures Writer

That once-forlorn creature, the solitary bird of passage, today is the pet pigeon of the travel people. At the moment everybody is being urged to head for distant places, in groups and teams if they must, but preferably alone.

Perhaps this development stems from the increasing popularity of plane travel, for obviously it's far [illegible] no passenger than, say, a jolly party of 15. Or perhaps the makers of itineraries and the sellers of tickets figure that those who prefer traveling in packs will do it that way anyway, whereas the one wolves need a little encouragement, particularly if they are women.

However, I prefer to believe that the present emphasis on the pleasures of small-unit travel comes from the tourists themselves, rediscovering the hard way what Thoreau — the philosophical gentleman who "traveled widely in Concord" — told them exactly 100 years ago, to wit:

"The man who goes alone can start today, but he who travels with another must wait till that other is ready."

This can in no way be construed as an advocacy of separate vacations for married folk. By law and by popular opinion, husband and wife constitutes a single unit, together with children, if any. The sage of Walden, and wise travelers who have followed him, merely were urging extreme caution in the selection of companions in tourism.

The most unhappy couple I've seen in a long time recently returned from a six-week spin along the Grand Tour route in the company of their dearest friends, the young couple next door with whom they have every reason to believe they got along.

Not only were they on the verge of cutting each other dead after their enforced intimacy, but they quite frankly had a wretched time. Joe and Jane were funloving and gregarious; Harry and Alice were in deadly earnest about missing not a single cathedral, museum and historic sight.

Presumably, Harry and Alice found Joe and Jane's hangovers as unpleasant as Joe and Jane found Harry's eternal picture-snapping. Anyway, NEXT time, they'll go it alone.

Choice of a traveling companion or companions [illegible] happy for unattached females, however youthful and attractive. I've never heard a girl, traveling alone, complain about the perilous dangers with which she was beset, but I've heard plenty of others moan about being stuck with a chum who turned out to be moody, disorderly or a hypochondriac.

And everyone knows that while a woman, traveling alone, can be an appealing, attractive figure who can easily achieve a hand with her luggage or advice on anything from the current exchange to good restaurants, a flock of female tourists constitutes nothing more than a hazard to be avoided at all costs by any footloose male. Not, of course, that all single women are husband-hunting while sightseeing, but there's no point in closing the door deliberately on opportunities.

Most experienced travelers thus wind up preferring the freedom and independence that comes from touring on their own. And in this day of seeing the world on a two-week vacation, another quote — this time from Kipling—is apropos: "He travels fastest who travels alone." So does she.

SOCIETY SCRIBBLINGS

Assembly Line Production At Jaycees' Hot Dog Stand

By JANE GILMORE

Rodeo time in Snyder brought parties for some, visitors for others. For a group of Junior Chamber of Commerce wives, it meant operating a hot dog stand.

Concessions at the rodeo are traditionally run by the Jaycees. It's the one big project which adds to the organization's Youth Center fund, according to EDDY MILLER, president.

By long custom, the hot dog production line is made up of Jaycee wives. Mrs. R. T. ROBERTS said this was her fourth season to work in the stand.

Mrs. SONNY GREENFIELD was the newest recruit for the job. In Snyder since she arrived as a bride early this spring, Mrs. Greenfield has wasted no time getting into the swing of local activities.

"We have a regular assembly line," Mrs. Greenfield explained. "Somebody spreads on mustard, the next one slaps on the wiener, somebody else adds chili and the last in line wraps up the hot dog."

Enthusiasm for this year's record success makes the work a lot more fun.

"The first night we topped all our previous records," said Mrs. ERNEST SEARS, wife of the Jaycee who's in charge of the stand. "We sold 1,400 hot dogs the first time and around 1,000 the second night out."

Other women who helped out with the job were Mrs. Doug McGlaun, Mrs. Johnny Boren, Mrs. Steve Birdwell, Mrs. Bob McAllister, Mrs. Eddy Miller, Mrs. Bill Wise, Mrs. James McClure, Mrs. Bill Williams, Mrs. Dan Warren and Mrs. Bill Ballard.

Mr. and Mrs. AUBRY STOKES, 2207 Twenty-eighth Street, gave a rodeo - inspired party Thursday night. A group of fans ate supper in the Stokes backyard before heading for the rodeo grounds. While Mrs. Stokes took to the kitchen for last-minute preparations, Mrs. NOVIS RODGERS, entertained the guests with an impromptu organ concert.

TURN-ABOUT PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. MARVIN JORDAN planned a supper Thursday night that was to be a surprise party for Mr. and Mrs. ALVIS A. LOCKHART on their wedding anniversary and a birthday party for BILL LOCKE.

After supper, a siege of 42 playing, and birthday and anniversary gifts, the tables were turned and the Jordans found themselves on the receiving end. More guests started arriving, bringing housewarming gifts for the Jordans, who have just moved into a new home.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mears, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Griffith and Jane, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Smith and children, Joann and Alfred, Mrs. Maron Clement, Mrs. Wayne Clement, the Locks, the Lockharts, with Judy and Alvin, and the Jordans' children, Bobby and Judy.

Neighbors in the 500 and 600 block on Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Streets got together last night for a barbecue supper and visiting session. The adjoining back yards of the TED ZECK and J. W. ROBERTS families formed the scene of the party.

Scurry County old-timers were reminiscing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. JOE STRAYHORN, 2111 Thirtieth Street, Friday night and renewing old acquaintance with W. C. FULLILOVE, long-time county resident, Mr. Fullilove, who now lives near Shreveport, La., showed colored pictures of his azalea garden, strong contrast with the West Texas ranch he called home when he lived on a ranch near Snyder. He is staying with the JOE YORKS while visiting here.

Present at the Strayhorns' were Mrs. R. L. McMullen, Mrs. Zona McMullen, Mrs. D. P. Strayhorn, Mrs. E. L. Kubala, Mrs. J. A. Farmer, Mrs. H. P. Brown Sr., Mrs. H. G. Towle, D. K. McMullen, J. C. Lockhart, Mrs. Walter Cork of San Angelo and Betty Templeton of Houston. Paul Nelson operated the projector in showing the pictures.

Election Day Carnival Set

Election Day in Snyder will bring added activity around the square this year, with Cosmorama Club's second major project of the summer giving a carnival air to the political scene.

Fourteen clubs have indicated that they will set up booths on the courthouse square Saturday in co-operation with Cosmorama's fund-raising drive for a women's clubhouse. These booths will offer various kinds of refreshments, as well as carnival style games and fortune-telling.

Booths may be open as early and as late as the individual club desires, said Mrs. J. T. Lunch, Jr., chairman of arrangements. Mrs. Lunch said that most of the food booths will open before noon and remain open until Election Day activity is over.

A free informative movie, will be shown by Snyder doctors' wives in a tent on the north side of the square during the day.

Organizations which plan to take part in the project are Lucky 13, DeMolay, Acacia, Lions, Business and Professional Women, West Elementary Parent-Teachers, Snyder Home Demonstration Clubs, Beta Sigma Phi, Junior Chamber of Commerce, Plainview Home Demonstration Clubs, Art Guild, Altrurian, Gay 20's and Cosmorama.

A&M Changes Military Rule

AUSTIN, July 17 (AP)—Military training will become optional for all Texas A&M students after Sept. 1.

College directors changed the rule last night.

Immediately after the war the student body was civilian. As the number of veterans dwindled the percentage of military students rose until last year, the corps of cadets included about two-thirds of the student body.

The board said all students who choose membership in the cadet corps will be housed by companies in a special area. The corps is to function strictly along military lines, under rules to be established by the college staff and approved by the academic council.

The board also provided that the college president, on recommendation of the academic council and approval of the chancellor, is authorized to provide a third option. This would allow students to enroll for military training without living with the corps of cadets. This would place these students on the same basis as ROTC cadets in other colleges.

The board said the new regulations were designed to improve student life. They were recommended by the academic council, the president and the chancellor.

Baking Contest on Schedule For County 4-H Club Girls

County 4-H Club girls will enter all kinds of baked goods, from pie to cornbread, in a baking contest scheduled for next Saturday in the office of the home demonstration agent.

All entries must be in the office by 10 o'clock Saturday morning, according to Ruby Butts, agent. There will be two divisions in the contest — for juniors, girls under 12, and seniors, or girls over 12. A blue ribbon will be given to each girl whose entry scores above [illegible] as to flavor and appearance.

The committee for registering entries is made up of girls from the Ira 4-H Club. They are Barbara Martin, Lorita Stirling, Dianne Kerley, Darla Bryant and Peggy Brown.

Following the contest each girl may enter her product in a bake sale if she wishes. Sales will be held in two down-town grocery stores.

The eight classes of products which may be entered include cookies, cakes, yeast rolls, yeast loaves, quick loaves, cornbread, brownies and pies.

Along with the baking contest, there will be other contests in public speaking, electric team demonstrations, safety demonstrations and share-the-fun demonstrations.

FOR OUTDOOR COOKS
. . . Advance Preparation

Helps For Homemakers

Send your questions to "Helps for Homemakers," Snyder Daily News, or call 3-5488.

If you are the beforehand type of outdoor cook, you should be enthusiastic about Barbecued Porkies.

In the quiet and convenience of your own kitchen, you simmer a thrifty boneless pork shoulder butt until tender, and make up a quick and spicy tomato barbecue sauce. Then you pack your picnic basket with ham, sauce, sliced cooked potatoes and fat for frying, rolls, skillets, coffee and coffee pot, long-handled fork and spoon, toasting rack, and the necessary eating utensils. You also take along something for outdoor nibbling: celery and radishes with cheese, for instance. For dessert you supply watermelon or some other refreshing fruit.

When the coals are glowing, ham and sauce are put together in one skillet and heated, potatoes fried golden-brown in the other skillet, rolls toasted, coffee made. It's a neat and orderly cookout — but mighty good eating! You may decide you like the barbecue dish so much you'll prepare it for indoor suppers too.

BARBECUED PORKIES

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup finely diced onion
¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup chili sauce
1 cup tomato juice
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
6 tablespoons cider or other salad vinegar
2 to 2¼ pounds boneless smoked pork shoulder butt (cooked)
10 sandwich buns.

Melt butter in large skillet; add onion and cook over low heat until it begins to get tender. Add sugar, salt, chili sauce, tomato juice, Worcestershire and vinegar; simmer, stirring occasionally, until sauce has thickened somewhat—about ½ hour. Store in covered jar in refrigerator. At serving time quickly heat ham (cut in about ¼-inch thick slices) in sauce. Serve ham and sauce over split toasted buns. Makes 10 servings.

Note: To cook the pork butt, cover it with boiling water in a kettle; add a slightly crushed garlic clove, 6 whole cloves, 6 peppercorns, a bay leave; cover and simmer until tender — 1½ to 2 hours.

Legislation Status At Close Of Week

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The status of major legislation at the end of this week:

APPROPRIATIONS—All regular departmental appropriation bills have been passed. They provide for new appropriations of $42,600,000,000, a reduction of about 1½ billion from presidential requests, to finance the government during the present fiscal year. Still to be considered are bills to finance the foreign aid program and miscellaneous emergency programs.

TAXES—Congress has enacted a law cutting some excise taxes and continuing the excise tax program generally for another year. A separate bill making general revisions in the tax laws is in a Senate-House conference.

LABOR—Senate has sidetracked a bill amending the Taft-Hartley Labor Law. The House Labor Committee has shelved a companion measure.

RECIPROCAL TRADE — The President has signed a bill extending one year his authority to make trade agreements with other nations; the bill does not contain the authority, requested by the president, for additional cuts in tariffs.

FOREIGN AID AND DEFENSE—The House has passed a bill authorizing continuation of the foreign aid program substantially in line with the President's recommendations. The Senate has not yet acted. A bill establishing a cadet academy for the Air Force has become law.

SOCIAL SECURITY—The House has passed and [illegible] Senate bills increasing social security taxes and benefits and broadening unemployment compensation coverage. The House has defeated a bill providing for government underwriting of expanded health insurance programs of commercial companies. Both branches have passed bills broadening the federal-state program to rehabilitate physically handicapped persons.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS—The Senate has defeated proposed amendments to limit the President's treaty powers and lower the voting age to 18. It has sent to the House amendments limiting membership on the Supreme Court and making retirement mandatory at age 75, and permitting governors to appoint house members under emergency conditions. The House has acted on none of the proposals.

POSTAL RATES—The House Post Office Committee has recommended general increases in postal rates, but the Rules Committee has failed to clear the bill for a House vote.

PAY RAISES—Bills to raise the pay of members of Congress, federal judges, and federal employes generally are pending in the House Judiciary and Post Office Committees. A bill boosting congressional pensions has become law. A bill raising the pay of postal employes is awaiting House action.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY—The President has signed a law providing for U.S. participation with Canada in development of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

TREATIES—The Senate has ratified a mutual defense pact with South Korea; no House action is required.

STATEHOOD—The House has passed a bill to increase the national debt limit from 275 billion dollars to 290 billion but the Senate has not acted.

Treasury Stands To Gain By Business

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The Treasury stands to gain more additional revenue out of business this fiscal year than it will be losing through the congressional shakeup of the federal tax system.

What business counts as its chief gain in the easing of tax provisions both for corporations and for individuals is incentive — incentive for business to expand and grow, incentive for individuals to invest.

The Treasury will gain money wise in the months just ahead because the measure now working its way toward the White House puts back, for another year's ride, the old 52 per cent corporate income tax rate which automatically dropped to 47 per cent last April.

As a result, the Treasury will be collecting better than one billion more dollars from business in its current fiscal year than it would under the 47 per cent rate.

That's more than corporations in the coming year will be gaining from the liberalization of rules for figuring depreciation, and losses for tax purposes, and other provisions — although the depreciation liberalization alone will affect some 10 million tax returns.

The Treasury's chief loss of revenue will come from the revision of rules for making out individual tax returns — including the hotly fought-over plans for cutting taxes on income from corporate dividends.

Business, however, has a stake in this and most of the [illegible] individual tax changes. It hopes that whatever saving is finally set for dividend income the result will be greater incentive to buy corporate stock. It hopes that savings made on other individual tax provisions will also provide funds to be tapped for investment in business.

The liberalized depreciation regulations, agreed upon both by the Senate and the House, should stimulate outlays of capital, businessmen feel, because the new rules will aid manufacturers, storekeepers, apartment house owners and farmers. The new rules would allow business to write off for tax-figuring purposes two thirds of the cost of plant expansion and modernization in the first half of the useful life of the property — instead of over the entire period as now. The tax-saving incentive of this provision, observers predict, should lead many firms to go ahead now with plans to build or to buy new machinery — plans held up while they waited to see what the provisions of the tax law would be.

Funds for at least part of such expansion may also be found in the new rules that would allow firms to keep up to $60,000 of earnings without incurring the old penalty tax for deliberately holding back dividends. And the new rules hold that such a penalty should apply only to the part of earnings that the government can prove are unreasonable.

The importance of this to business is that many a young and growing concern wants to plow back its earnings into expansion. That's rough on stockholders for the time being. The theory is they gain through the increased asset value of their shares.

Business will also be getting greater leeway in carrying back losses to offset profits for tax purposes, and in deducting much of the cost of research.

Heuss Given Big Majority

BERLIN, July 17 (AP)—Theodor Heuss, anti-Nazi and anti-Communist, was re-elected president of West Germany today by an overwhelming majority.

The Federal Parliament and delegates from the states, assembled in Berlin, chose to retain the Free Democratic leader who has the confidence of all major elements, including Christian Democratic Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Ten Communists among the 1,018 delegates provided the only genuine note of friction. Sliver-maned Max Reimann assailed Heuss as a "disaster" for Germany's future because of his espousal of European defense. He was shouted down.

The final results were:
Total votes, 987.
Invalid ballots, 3.
Abstentions, 95.
Heuss, 871.
Prof. Alfred Weber, a philosopher backed by the Communists, 12.

Collision Between Talmadge, Supreme Court Is Inevitable

ATLANTA, July 17 (AP) — Sometime this fall the Supreme Court of the United States probably will run head-on into Herman Eugene Talmadge, advocate supreme of "White supremacy."

The court will be seeking ways of putting into practice its decision outlawing segregation in the schools. In Georgia, it will have to deal with Talmadge, who has [illegible] sion.

Negroes and Whites will never go to the same schools as long as he is governor, says the square-jawed, cigar-smoking "Hummon," who is winding up his sixth year in office, a record tenure in this state.

"Never" is a long time, and Talmadge will be retiring from office at the end of the year. But before then — and probably for some time after since his political organization is strong — he is expected to put up quite a fight.

Talmadge first came into temporary office in a spectacular fight, in which, for 63 days, two men claimed to be governor of Georgia.

"Georgia," he has said, "will resist (the decision) even if we stand alone."

He has indicated some doubt about the court's ability to enforce its rulings. He recalled a statement once made by President Andrew Jackson in another court fight more than 100 years ago. Re[illegible] to the [illegible] Jackson said, "John Marshall made his decision, now let him enforce it."

Talmadge, who alternately speaks in the dignified tones of a governor and the rustic vernacular of his "wool hat" followers on the farms, also points out that the Georgia Constitution makes separation of races mandatory here. He says:

"Whether any Southern state continues to maintain separate schools and colleges will depend to a great degree on the personal courage and integrity of the state's chief executive and his will to resist. I believe that 95 per cent of our people, both white and colored, want segregation continued in their schools.

"Under our Georgia law, the governor is director of the budget and as such has broad powers over state expenditures. I shall never [illegible] state funds for any mixed schools or colleges."

Like the red suspenders he dons for rural campaigns, Talmadge inherited his devotion to "White supremacy" and his stubbornness in a fight from his father, the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge. Shortly after his first election as governor —the first office he ever held — Herman said:

"My name is spelled T-a-l-m-a-d-g-e. People criticized my father for being stubborn. They said he was so stubborn he wouldn't take advice from anyone.

"Now I notice that if you breed a white-faced bull to a white-faced cow, you get a white-faced calf."

The "White-faced" has so consistently opposed any mixture of the races he was even aroused by the integration of electronic images on television.

In 1952, writing in his political newspaper, The Statesman, the governor complained about certain TV shows from New York or Hollywood where Negro and white singers and dancers performed together.

He said that while these shows were beamed to the South they violated the South's segregation laws. "Good taste alone should prevent such a situation," he said, and suggested that action be taken to arouse the resentment of Southern members of Congress.

Talmadge denies he is anti-Negro or is practicing racial discrimination, however.

"Negroes," he said, "have benefitted more in my administration than under any other. I equalized white and Negro teachers' salaries. We have built schools and hospitals. They receive the increased health services, welfare benefits and agricultural services."

Among his detractors, Talmadge has been called a "demogogue." He has been charged with trying to set up a "dictatorship" and a political dynasty in Georgia along the lines of the late Huey Long's regime in Louisiana.

Two Streams Stop Suddenly

GRAND VIEW, N.Y. (AP)—Roland A. Wood bought a house here about two years ago but before he moved in a full-fledged stream began flowing right through the cellar.

A landscape architect diverted the stream south of the house, through the garden. Soon after that, Wood decided that little bridges, stepping stones and other aquatic embellishments would help his enjoyment of the tree-shaded brook. So, he had them built.

Life and the brook flowed gently onward, until one day, about six months ago, Wood discovered another spring erupting in the middle of his lawn.

[illegible] called the architect back and had the second brook diverted, this time to the north of the house.

And so, the "House With Two Brooks" became a landmark and even a pride of this suburban community northwest of New York City.

However, while Wood, an actor, was on a summer theater tour, men working on a New York thruway bridge nearby broke a water main Wednesday and the Spring Valley Water and Supply Co. rushed in repair apparatus.

While they were at it, they discovered a heretofore unknown leak. So they shut off the water for a few hours to repair it.

Just then, astonished neighbors saw the two brooks on Wood's property disappear. Soon they were completely dry. All that was left were bridges, stepping stones and all these things that used to help Wood enjoy the brooks.
