HARRELL FARM PROVES POWER OF IRRIGATION

Every Acre is Watered To 'nth Degree By Canals

EVERYTHING RAISED

All Vegetables And Fruits Cultivated on Big Farm

By FRED L. HASKETT, Assistant Manager Chamber of Commerce.

Black-eyed peas, roasting ears, four to the stalk, squash, golden wax beans and many other vegetables growing in profusion can be found on the irrigated farm of J. T. Harrell, vice president of the City National bank. The farm is just beyond the waterworks plant and within two miles of the postoffice building.

Much is said pro and con as to what can be grown in the wonderful Wichita Valley but proof that irrigation is being successfully carried on is to visit the Harrell farm. The farm is operated on a partnership basis and W. D. Hayman is the party of the second part. He has had years of experience in irrigated truck farming on the Western Slope of the Rocky Mountains, his farm being near Grand Junction. Mr. Hayman employs five people on the Harrell farm of 40 acres and it is being intensively cultivated, even the grass pasture being watered.

Farm on Paying Basis Now.

Not many farms in Northwest Texas are on a paying basis this early in the season but the Harrell farm is making money and will continue to show good profits until frost time. Upon entering the farm the first patch of vegetables to attract the visitor is one of black-eyed peas. There is about one-fourth of an acre devoted to this crop and the peas are just beginning to set on. Within two weeks peas will be marketed by the bushel.

From the pea patch one goes to a field of Indian corn, which is in tassel. The corn is more than a man's height and growing just like Iowa corn. There is another field of sweet corn that is reaching the roasting ear stage. In a few days this corn will be marketed and it is going to pro-

French Steamer Is Reported Afire At Sea; Help Is on Way

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The freight steamer Fenchurch, a ship of 7,335 gross tons, was reported afire tonight at sea. The Fenchurch left Philadelphia two days ago for Marseilles, France. The S. O. S. from the Fenchurch was picked up by only one station here, and that station also learned that assistance was on the way to the disabled vessel.

The steamer Chaldale was going to the assistance of the Fenchurch, according to reports received by the East Hampton station of the Independent Wireless corporation. The Chaldale reported she would reach the Fenchurch about midnight. The steamer San Blas also reported picking up the call.

BROTHERS KILLED IN PLANE.

Test Flights Ends Fatally in Crash From 3,000 Feet.

ERIE, Pa., May 29.—Two brothers were instantly killed here today when an airplane in which they were making a test flight fell 3,000 feet, burying them under the wreckage.

The men were W. F. Sullivan, 33, of Newport, R. I., a former captain in the British air service, who was operating the plane, and Fred A. Sullivan, 35, also of Newport, who was a passenger. The cause of the accident is not known.

RIO GRANDE STILL RISING.

Del Rio Reports 22-Foot Rise Friday Afternoon.

DEL RIO, May 29.—The Rio Grande had risen to 22 feet this afternoon and was slowly rising, following continued heavy rains. The whole lower Rio Grande valley is inundated and the river here is one mile wide. The highest known rise here was in 1919 when the river reached 25 feet.

KEMP FENCE OPPOSED BY C-C. COUNCIL

Opposition is Shown To Project For Toll Collections

W. T. Waggoner's action in building a five-wire fence around Lake Kemp with four toll gates, each presided over by a guard to collect the proper fee from those visiting or fishing at the great storage dam, was reported to the chamber of commerce business council at the regular Friday luncheon at the Kemp hotel by Fred Haskett, assistant manager of the chamber. Guards would be empowered to arrest all "trespassers," according to Waggoner's plan, and Haskett expressed the hope that the business men of Wichita Falls and Seymour take steps amicably to prevent the erection of the fence and the adoption of such tactics.

Houston Shriners Injured in Wreck

HOUSTON, May 29.—George Kepple, recorder of Arabia Temple Shrine, here received a fractured collar bone and rib, R. E. Branch, recorder of Alee Temple of Savanah, had his collar bone broken and Mrs. J. M. Clifton of Palm Beach, Fla., had her arm broken when the automobile in which the party was driving collided with a truck here today.

Mr. Kepple was entertaining the visiting members of the Shrine organizations who stopped off here on their way to the convention at Los Angeles.

DEPUTIES SUSTAIN PAINLEVE.

Vote of Confidence Is 537 to 29 for Administration.

PARIS, May 29.—The government of Premier Painleve was sustained in the chamber of deputies today by one of the biggest votes ever given to a French ministry—537 to 29. The vote came as a climax to three days of debats on the government's Moroccan policy which, in effect, as explained by Premier Painleve, is that the French government seeks not a single inch of additional Morrocan territory but is prepared to defend to the bitter end every inch which France holds under the treaties.

Harrison Addresses Commercial Meeting

MARLIN, May 29.—The interest and problems peculiar to the large and small towns were discussed separately in two large groups into which the afternoon session of the convention of Texas Commercian Executives association was divided today.

Among those addressing the delegates today were: Mrs. Daisy E. Burton of Quanah; Hubert H. Harrison, Wichita Falls.

PRO AGENTS TAKE OATH OF OFFICE THURSDAY.

FORT WORTH, May 29.—Oath of office after a federal prohibition agent was administered yesterday to Adolph R. Leutwyler, for the past 12 years a resident of Fort Worth. The new agent will be stationed in the Fort Worth office.

HUGE PARADE TO START AT 9:30 O'CLOCK

Everything is Ready For Big Procession Here This Morning

TO START ON TIME

County Officials Will Lead And Other Divisions To Follow

Wichita Falls Decoration day parade will start Saturday morning at 9:30 from the corner of Eleventh street and Indiana, according to announcement made yesterday by American Legion officials in charge of arrangements. First in line will come the city officials, then the national guard units, the veterans of the civil war, of the Spanish-American war, the American Legion, auxiliaries, the Boy Scouts and the Campfire girls bringing up the rear.

Plans for Parade.

All plans for the parade, the largest of its kind ever proposed in Wichita Falls were announced completed last night, and nothing to hinder or delay is contemplated this morning. The parade will start at the corner of Eleventh and Indiana, go north on Indiana to Sixth street, west on Sixth street to Scott street, south on Scott to Eighth street and west on Eighth street to Bellevue Park, where the services will be held.

A short program has been arranged with Leon H. Brown of Vernon and Blackwell, Okla., scheduled as the principal legion speaker. There will be two or three musical numbers and a short talk by a representative of the Spanish war veterans, name not announced as yet. Following this the guard unit will fire a 21-gun salute from guns mounted in the park, and those that wish will proceed to the cemeteries to decorate the graves.

Cars for Vets.

Cars have been provided for carrying the veterans of the civil war in the parade, and a large number of the veterans are expected both from Wichita Falls and from the surrounding country. The Community band has volunteered its services and will make music over the route. Major L. E. Van Vleck will be in charge.

All veterans of any of the wars of America's pest are especially requested to join in the parade. Much effort has been expended by committees of the Spanish war veterans and the American Legion to make it the largest of its kind ever staged in Wichita Falls. Indications last night pointed to a complete success.

New Freight Rates Over Denver Will Go in Effect Soon

With the entrance of the Fort Worth and Denver into Dallas new rates for Wichita Falls to Dallas consignments over that road will be put into effect according to announcement from the general offices of the road here.

The new rates are, first class, $1.01 per cwt, second class $.85 1-2 per cwt., third class, $.70 1-2 per cwt., and fourth class, $.61 per cwt. The old rates, as discontinued for the same mileage, via F. W. D. C. were first class, $1.11, second class, $.94, third class, $.78, fourth class, $.67.

"How Sleep the Brave"

CITY PROFITS BY REFUND OF SEWER BONDS

Unusual Stroke of City Finance Saves Much For Wichita

What is considered a master stroke in city finance was announced by Mayor R. E. Shepherd yesterday in the refunding a sale of sewer, street, incinerator, hospital and park bonds to the amount of $439,000.

The bonds had, at the time of their approval by the voters, been sold for par and accrude interest carrying six per cent for 25 years with a five-year option. Friday, under a refunding plan adopted by the city council, they were resold to C. G. McMahan of Oklahoma City and the C. W. Whitis and company of New York at par and accrued interest, drawing four and three-fourths per cent. Thus one and one-fourth per cent interest over a period of 17 years was saved, which city officials calculate will amount to a city financial saving of $93,279 or about $5,487.50 per year.

Contract was also entered into with the same companies to purchase the sewage bonds when voted in a sum not to exceed $300,000 for four and three-fourths per cent at par and accrude interest.

"Such a saving has never before been effected," stated Mayor Shepherd at close of the meeting, "nor have any Wichita Falls bonds ever been sold at so low a rate of interest. Previously none have gone for less than five per cent.

Fourth Relative Is Said to Have Hung Self in 12 Months

LAGRANGE, May 29.—Paul Quade of Round Top, was found dead today, hanging to a tree. Four of his relatives are said to have taken their lives during a period of little more than a year.

$17,000 CLAIM UPON REFINERY HERE FOR TAX

State Contends That Gasoline Sold to Government Is Taxable

Advices to The Record News from its Austin correspondent Friday were to the effect that one large refinery in Wichita Falls had been assessed a claim by the state of Texas for $17,000, arising from its failure to pay tax of one cent a gallon on gasoline sold to the United States government.

There is nothing in the claim made by the state to even intimate that the Wichita Falls refinery attempted an evasion of the gas tax payment, but it is set forth that the refinery officials have insisted all along that gasoline sold to the government is non-taxable under the Texas law.

It is understood at Austin that the refinery expects to go to court with the claim.

Recently the Grayburg Oil company at San Antonio was assessed a heavy claim by the state for gasoline it had delivered on government orders to Fort Sam Houston. The contention was immediately raised that the tax did not hold on gasoline sold the government. Later it developed that the Grayburg company in contesting the claim in court plans to set up the unique defense that shipments into Fort Sam Houston are interstate in that it is government property and not state property, hence not into Texas as intrastate and therefore nontaxable.

NO GERM JURORS ADDED

Only Four of Jury Is Obtained After Appximately Two Weeks.

CHICAGO, May 29.—After a week of patient examination of veniremen, the Shepherd trial went back to the exact status of Friday when the fourth juror was obtained late today.

To replace 22-year-old Harrold Pillar, who informed Judge Thomas J. Lynch he had an opinion was biased against the state, and would not vote to hang a man, Mark R. Sipkins, copy reader, was selected. He met all the state's requirements of willingness to vote the death penalty on the testimony of an accomplice and circumstantial evidence and was not questioned by the defense.

Three Arrested For Alleged Kidnapping

HOUSTON, May 29.—Police today were holding three men on complaint of Rex Ellisor, who claims that he was kidnaped by the three, taken to the woods and severely beaten and robbed. Ellisor said that the men lured him away from his confectionery stand Wednesday night and did not let him go until Thursday noon. Charges of burglary, kidnaping and aggravated assault were filed against the men later in the day. W. F. Kessler, chief of detectives said.

Ellisor said that the men demanded $1,500 and that when he refused he was beaten and abused. Once, he said, they tried to tie him to a tree with a chain, but the chain was too short.

Finally Ellisor said he promised to give them the money if they would release him. They did so, Ellisor said, and he reported the affair to police.

"I'm Vanderbilt," Said Cornelius, "I'm John D," Says Cop, Before Shock

MEREDIAN, Miss., May 29.—Three local policemen and Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., millionaire editor and publisher, were recovering from a shock today for the police who arrested young Vanderbilt last night thought they had the "king" of all the rum runners and Mr. Vanderbilt had the experience of being arrested as a suspected rum runner. He is on a cross-country trip from New York to California.

Police had a tip that a large automobile carrying liquor was headed toward Meredian so they lay in wait and about 10 o'clock along came a big car traveling at around 35 miles an hour. The police took up the chase, but failed to overhaul the touring car which they felt sure was a rum runner.

Finally the machine slowed down as it entered the city and the three policemen rushed up.

"I'm Cornelius Vanderbilt," said one of the occupants of the suspected car as he reached out and shook hands with L. C. Moffett, special officer who started questioning the suspects.

"I'm Rockefeller," replied the officer, not to be outdone and he and his companions, E. J. Culpepper and D. T. Rogers, cut off further talk by promptly taking the machine and its two occupants to police headquarters where their baggage was thoroughly searched.

There Mr. Vanderbilt established to the satisfaction of everyone that he really was the young millionaire and that the man with him was John W. Brodix, his secretary. Apologies followed and police said that on leaving Mr. Vanderbilt who had seen the humor of his situation, called out to Officer Moffett: "Well, so long Mr. Rockefeller."

FEAR IS HELD MILT GOOD IS TO BE LET OUT

Application Made to Ma Ferguson For 60 Day Furlough For Him

W. TEXAS KILLING

He and Tom Ross Were Convicted of Slaying Cattle Inspectors

FORT WORTH, May 29.—Cattlemen from various parts of Texas have registered strong protests against proposed clemency for Milt Good, now serving time in the state penitentiary on conviction for the murders of Horace L. Robertson and W. D. Allison, according to advices received in Fort Worth. Relatives and attorneys for Good have made applications to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to grant the prisoner a 60-day furlough, it is understood.

In the absence of Dayton Moses, general attorney and E. B. Spiller, secretary-general manager of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' association no attempt regarding the stand of that organization could be obtained. Robertson and Allison were inspectors for the cattle raisers' organization and had gone to Seminole to appear before the grand jury in connection with cattle theft cases when they were shot to death in a hotel on the night of April 1, 1923. Milt Good and Tom Ross were indicted on two charges of murder and two trials were held at Lubbock and Abilene in which both men were convicted in both instances. Good and Ross were assessed pen terms of 28 and 25 years respectively. The men were carried to the penitentiary a few months ago from the Dallas county jail after the sentences had been affirmed.

Forty-Two Bodies Taken From Mine

COAL GLEN, N. C., May 29.—Forty-two bodies had been moved from the inner recesses of the Carolina Coal company's mine here late today, victims of the fatal after-damp, caused by three explosions in the mine last Wednesday morning. Thirty-five have been identified, while the others were so badly burned that identification was found to be impossible.

FLOOD WARNING ISSUED.

Two Rises Reported in Rio Grande; Two Are Drowned.

SAN ANTONIO, May 29.—With the crest of the first rise in the Rio Grande making its way to Laredo after passing Eagle Pass at a maximum of 24 feet where it took the lives of a Mexican man and woman and swept away the international bridge, and a second rise immediately behind the first, flood warnings were issued to every city and town along the Rio Grande from Laredo to Brownsville.

Meteorologists in the local weather bureau office anticipate only a moderate overflow in the lower valley.

Report 50 Rebels Executed in Kabul

PESHAWAR, British India, May 29.—(AP)—Further details were received here today of the recent executions of 56 rebels near Kabul, Afghanistan.

The Emir of the Khost district of Afghanistan, where the rebellion occurred, held a full dunbar, or native celebration, for the occasion. The condemned men were led out and shot in the presence of a great crowd gathered from all the districts.

The rebel leader, known as the "Lame Mullah," reputedly a holy person, was among those executed. The natives are indicating much regret at the shooting of this leader and declare such executions are contrary to Moslem practice.

7 Burn to Death In Missouri Home

SULLIVAN, Mo., May 29.—(AP)—Seven persons were burned to death in their home here today. The dead are:

Mrs. William Allen, three granddaughters, a grandson, and two great-granddaughters.

The residence was believed to have been ignited by a fire in the kitchen stove.

Law Acquits; But Rhubarb Wins Anyway

KANSAS CITY, May 29.—(AP) Max Rope, former postal employe, was acquitted here today of a charge of stealing nine stalks of rhubarb from the United States mails. The jury was out 17 minutes.

Rope had worked in the postoffice department for 21 years when the charge was brought against him and he had but nine more years to work before being eligible for a pension. When the charge was brought he was discharged. The value of the rhubarb was estimated at 25 cents.

EX-STATE HEAD CHARGED WITH SEEKING BRIBE

Former Governor Hart Of Washington to Be Arrested

TACOMA, Wash., May 29.—(WAP)—A warrant for the arrest of former Governor Louis F. Hart, on a charge of soliciting a bribe in connection with the fixing of fees in the liquidation of the defunct Scandinavian-American bank here was issued late this afternoon. Bail of $3,00 was asked.

The warrant was issued upon information filed in the superior court by James W. Selden, prosecuting attorney of Pierce county. The sheriff's office stated that the former governor, who is at his home in Olympia, would be notified by telephone immediately that the warrant is in their possession and that Hart would be given opportunity to arrange bail through his attorneys here.

Arkansas Negro Is Mobbed for Alleged Attack on a Woman

CAMDEN, Ark., May 29.—An unidentified negro, charged with attempting to attack a white woman at Louann, about 17 miles south of here, was taken from officers by a mob of approximately 50 men and shot to death on the Camden-Louann road today.

The negro was being taken from Louann to Camden when the mob appeared from two directions about six miles from Camden, according to a statement from Bob Newton, a deputy sheriff of Ouichita county.

The officers were overpowered by the mob and the negro taken to the scene of the attack and riddled with bullets, he said.

Amundsen

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Fear for the safety of Captain Roald Amundsen and his five fellow explorers has been somewhat alleviated by the revelation that he allotted two weeks for completion of the flying expedition to the North Pole and return. Today marks the beginning of the second week since the two airplanes, one commanded by Amundsen and the other by the American, Lincoln Ellsworth, left Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, for the north.

FALLS SIX FLOORS; LIVES.

Water in Elevator Shaft Saves Life Of Man.

FORT WORTH, May 29.—Four feet of water in the bottom of the elevator shaft may have saved the life of Hunter H. Davis, iron worker, who fell six stories to the basement of the new Sanger building today.

Nine of his ribs were broken and he was internally hurt. Hospital attendants hope that he will recover.

PROMINENT MEMBER OF VICTORIAN SOCIETY DIES.

LONDON, May 29.—(AP)—Miss Elizabeth Lisel, a prominent member of society during the Victorian era, died yesterday in London at the age of 104. She was presented at Queen Victoria's court in 1845 and in her later years was fond of telling how Victoria, on the eve of ascending the throne, slid down stairs on a tray.

GARY FIREMAN IS KILLED WHEN WALL COLLAPSES.

GARY, Ind., May 29.—(AP)—James Pappas, a fireman, was killed and four other firemen were injured today when the rear wall of the burning Boston store collapsed. The loss was estimated at $350,000 of which $200,000 was on the stock of the store. The origin of the blaze has not been determined.

CONDEMNED NEGRO TO BE TAKEN TO HUNTSVILLE

DALLAS, May 29.—Frank and Lorenzo Noel, negro brothers, sentenced to be electrocuted at Huntsville June 28, convicted with criminal assault on Mrs. Mary Steer, will be taken to Huntsville probably next Tuesday, Sheriff Schuyler Marshall announced today.

WOMAN HAD TO SPEND NIGHT BEHIND BARS

Efforts Will be Made Today To Secure Bond Pending an Appeal

ASK FOR FAVOR

Request to Spend Night At Hotel With Special Guard Refused

HASKELL, May 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Frank Collier was found guilty here today on a charge of murder of Elzie Robertson, her son-in-law, and sentenced to the penitentiary for ten years. The jury reported at 6:50 o'clock. The jury deliberated three hours.

Frank Collier, husband of Mrs. Collier and former Wichita Falls mayor, was convicted in Wichita Falls on the same charge and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. His case is on appeal.

Collier was the only witness the defense offered but he was not allowed to testify.

Taken Into Custody.

The sheriff was directed to immediately take Mrs. Collier into custody.

No attempt would be made to provide bond for Mrs. Collier until tomorrow, when a motion for bail and for a new trial would be made, B. Y. Cummings, defense attorney, said.

Mrs. Collier heard the verdict with apparent composure. Mary Frances, her daughter, whom Robertson had married secretly, was not in the court room.

A number of persons were in the court room when the verdict was rendered.

Mr. and Mrs. Collier were summoned to the court room from their automobile near the court house in which they were sitting. A bell in the steeple of the court house clarioned that a verdict was imminent.

Jury Is Discharged.

Judge Bruce Bryant and Sheriff Turnblow were in front of the court house when they received word that the jury was ready to report. The jury filed into the court room at 6:57 o'clock and within two minutes Mrs. Collier received the verdict.

Judge Bryant thanked the jury and discharged it.

After conferring with Mrs. Collier for more than half an hour, her attorneys approached Sheriff Turnblow with an offer to provide and pay for a special guard if the sheriff would permit Mrs. Collier to remain in a private home tonight. The offer was refused, Sheriff Turnblow declaring Mrs. Collier must go to jail.

At 7:40 o'clock Mrs. Collier, accompanied by her husband and attorneys, filed out of the court room to the court room to the Collier automobile stationed nearby, and after stopping at their apartment, proceeded to the jail. The sheriff announced that one of the cells on the second floor would be fitted up for Mrs. Collier and that a bed instead of a bunk would be placed in it.

To Treat Her "Nicely."

"I'll treat her as nicely as I can and as well as the jail facilities will permit," Sheriff Turnblow said to the Associated Press corerspondent.

Mrs. Collier had no comment to make on the verdict. Charles I. Francis, defense attorney, considered it a "very unjust verdict," he said.

Motion for a new trial will be made tomorrow afternoon when the court will also be asked to fix bail for Mrs. Collier. Motion for a new trial, Attorney Cummings said, based among other things, on the theory that the indictment against Mrs. Collier was defective. Tentative arrangements were made tonight to obtain bondsmen. Joe Lee Ferguson, brother of former Governor James E. Ferguson, was suggested by Attorney W. H. Murchison of Haskell, defense attorney, as a possible bondsman.

Even if a new trial is refused, defense attorneys declared, the offense for which Mrs. Collier was convicted is a bailable one and confidence is expressed she would be at liberty before tomorrow night.

Okla. Negro Slayer Sent to Death Chair

M'ALESTER, Okla., May 29.—(AP)—Leroy Scott, negro, convicted of the murder of Frank Daniels, M'Alester white taxicab driver, was electrocuted in the state penitentiary here shortly after midnight. He walked to the chair with steady steps and a forced smile. Daniels was killed July 29, 1924, near Canadian, and his body thrown into Canadian river, weighted down with a stone.

PARENTS SHOOT SELVES.

Boy Says Mother Kills Self and Then Father Takes Life.

LUFKIN, May 29.—W. F. Seal, Jr., 26, was found dead, his wife, Mrs. W. F. Seal, 23, was found in a dying condition in their home here this afternoon, after their six-year-old son had run from the house and informed neighbors that his parents had shot themselves.

The child, who was the only witness, declared his mother first shot herself and then the father sent a bullet into his own head. The couple were alleged to have had frequent quarrels.

HARRELL FARM

duce a big return. A dwarf variety was planted and nearly every stalk has from four to six ears. It is very productive and uses little sap to maintain the blade. This corn is the kind that goes into the finest quality of packed or canned corn.

Before leaving the patch of Indian corn Manager Hayman took time to show a bed where young plants are propagated. The bed is about 20x30 feet in size and heated with stoves. The plants grow rapidly as water and heat are applied when needed. This season 150,000 sweet potato, pepper and tomato slips have been grown and planted on the farm.

Beans Are Very Prolific.

Irrigated beans not only make rapid growth but produce in amazing quantities. There is a small patch of wax beans that are loaded down with big clusters of as fine beans as can be grown anywhere in America. Manager Hayman says Colorado cannot beat them and most folks think the best vegetables are grown in the irrigated districts of that state. Near the bean patch are patches of cucumbers, which are now being marketed, young onions, cantaloupes and squash. Wax beans have been marketed daily for the past two weeks.

Squash are a real money crop and pay handsome returns. There is no vegetable that grows better in the Wichita Valley. On the Harrell farm squash are producing at the rate of 200 pounds daily from a space of about one-tenth acre. The price received is 7 cents per pound or a daily revenue of $14 for one-tenth of an acre. An acre would yield $140 a day or at the rate of $4,200 a month. It takes a real oil well to produce that much wealth. Manager Hayman gives the squash patch close attention and replants whenever there is space for another vine.

Big Acreage Sweet Potatoes.

The farm this year will devote 10 acres to sweet potatoes. The ground is being put in the very best of condition and fertilized. Not only are sweet potatoes to be grown but white potatoes are proving successful and being marketed daily. There is a large patch of white potatoes and every hill contains from six to ten large spuds, as delicious in flavor and as smooth and perfect in form as can be grown in the irrigated potato sections of Idaho.

Greens of all kinds are growing excellently and producing splendid yields. Turnips, beets, spinach and mustard are just as good as can be raised in any land.

Melons are going to prove profitable this year, believes Manager Hayman. He has the sweet corn patch planted in water melons and the vines are making rapid growth. The cantaloupe crop could not be more promising.

Tomatoes are receiving attention and there is quite a patch of them. The plants are being set out between rows of corn and other vegetables that will provide shade. Manager Hayman plans to shade one row for a short distance to see what effect this method will have on production.

Cows and Forage Crops.

Mr. Harrell is not forgetting the all-year-round feature of farming. He has purchased two of the finest Holstein cows to be found in Northwest Texas. He has two big patches of oats that will soon be ready to cut. The oats will yield not less than 75 bushels per acre and are nearly shoulder high. Another proof that irrigation pays and the Lake Kemp water is the finest in the world for irrigation. Not only is it proving good for truck and grain but a young pecan orchard of 150 native trees are doing excellent.

Manager Hayman says he has been surprised with some things he has discovered in irrigation in the Wichita Valley. In Colorado they have trouble with the soil becoming packed but that does not occur in the Wichita Valley. When asked what kind of water is used in Colorado he said it was from melting snow and as soft as could be. When told that soft water hardens the land and hard water softens land then he understood why his farm was unlike the action or irrigated soils in Colorado. Water from Lake Kemp is hard, containing much lime and gypsum, which serves to soften the soil. The lime is carried into the ground by the water and causes the clay to form into grains, thus rendering the ground more porous, affording better penetration for water and air, thus promoting both root and plant growth.

There are many pretty irrigated farms in the Wichita Valley and this year is going to do much to prove the worth and profits of irrigated farming and truck growing.

KEMP FENCE

appointment by President Jack Barnard of a committee to investigate the matter, to confer with the proper person on the subject and to report their findings to the business council.

Wide discussion of the matter followed its announcement, and preceded the unanimous passage of Mr. Curlee's motion.

"Lake Kemp is one of Wichita Falls' biggest assets," Mr. Curlee declared. "We have spent several million dollars on the project, and I think nothing should be left undone by Wichita Falls business men to see that sufficient land is set aside for park purposes."

G. Clint Wood opposed direct action and publicity of the matter, urging the public sentiment would handle the situation. Waggoner, he declared, wanted revenue from the land as long as he could possibly get it, and suggested that the affair be arranged in other ways. Fred T. Couper favored the appointment of an investigating committee, and Dr J. W. Cantwell urged that the committee be given full authority to deal with Waggoner direct.

Handle Matter Well.

Dan Carrithers brought up the contract between Waggoner and the water district, and C. H. Clark declared that directors of the Wichita county water improvement district No. 1 was wide awake to developments and would handle the matter capably. The directors, he said, were at work on the problem, and had bought the land and paid for it. Leslie Humphrey suggested a public road to be built around the lake, the land being condemned for this purpose by county commissioners working together in the counties interested.

President J. T. Harrell of the chamber of commerce presided at the council meeting in the absence of Chairman Jack Barnard, who is in New York on business. The committee, Mr. Harrell declared, would be appointed by Mr. Barnard upon his return to the city. Mr. Haskett reported the week's activities for the chamber. Douglas Malloch, poet, appeared with stories and poems for a brief but enjoyable address.

Panhandle Up In Arms Against Woman Writer Who Slandered Country

AMARILLO, May 29.—The men of the Panhandle in widespread revolt today against a woman magazine writer, who, they declare slandered them. Mrs. Laura Kirkwood Plumb, writing in a national magazine, under the title of "My Personal Experiences with a Texas Twister," said this in reference to the Panhandle:

"The writers still sing of the great open spaces where a mans a man without mentioning the lonesomeness of these places and the crudeness of the men therein."

Now is a storm raging on the staked plains. All the civic organizations composed of men, the city commission, the board of city development, the lawyers, the judges and the newspaper editors, are out looking for Mrs. Plumb's scalp. One of the editors is Gene Howe, son of Ed Howe of Atchison, Kan., fame. In an editorial in the Amarillo Globe he challenges Mrs. Plumb to prove it. He suggests that the magazine writer left the country after "a little gust of wind blew over a shack of a house."

"The men are not crude," he writes, "they're real men. They're thorough sports; they're not quitters."

The board of city development has been requested by male citizens of Amarillo to write the magazine to tell its editors of the error of their ways.

Denver Road Builds Teaming Track Here

The Fort Worth and Denver is building a 15 to 20 car teaming track at the intersection of their line and the Grant street pavement in West Wichita Falls for the accommodation of contractors and businesses located in that section of the city. The track is in anticipation, according to Fort Worth and Denver officials, of further development in that section of Wichita Falls. It will save builders, and owners of freight intended for that area a truck haul of several miles from town. Cost is estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000. Actual construction work will be finished in a few days.

BRANCH BANK ESTABLISHED IN HUGO, FRI.

Boswell Bank Opens New Institution in The Bankless Town

HUGO, Okla., May 29.—Partial alleviation of Hugo's bankless condition was obtained today when a branch of the Boswell National bank, one of the two financial institutions remaining in Choctaw county, was established here. Three Hugo banks, two national and one state, have closed their doors since May 7.

The branch bank, however, will be limited in its activities, confining its disbursements of cash to the payment of railroad checks and checks on out of town banks. Hugo is a division point of the St. Louis-San Francisco railroad and pay checks of employes will be honored at the bank.

The fate of the Hugo National bank, which closed May 7, probably will be determined at a conference of bankers and federal banking officials at Dallas today and tomorrow, it was said by officers of the bank.

J. W. McIntosh, comptroller of currency of the United States, who has been in Oklahoma attending the annual convention of the Oklahoma Bankers' association at Tulsa, probably will attend the conference, bankers said. Officers of the Hugo National bank and members of the federal reserve board will confer on the situation.

Greenville Cashier Gets Two-Year Term

DALLAS, May 29.—William Camp, former cashier of the Commercial National bank of Greenville, was today found guilty in federal court here on charges of embezzlement and misapplication of approximately $80,000 of the bank's funds and sentenced to two years in Leavenworth penitentiary. He declared he would go to the penitentiary with a clear conscience, never having taken a penny of anybody's money, but had impoverished himself in an effort to keep the bank solvent.

Camp entered a plea of guilty to all counts in the indictment.

Judge William H. Atwell hesitated several minutes before passing sentence, but told him that while he knew he was honest and that he could be put back into any man's bank without fear, yet, Judge Atwell declared, "you must pay for your acts in order that other young men working in banks will know that they can not follow your example."

Oil Gossip

W. C. Campbell, district superintendent for the Prairie Pipeline company, is away from Wichita Falls for two or three weeks on a vacation to Buffalo, N. Y., and other points east. Mr. Campbell is being relieved by C. H. Wright, erstwhile superintendent at Ranger. In commenting on renewed activity at Ranger, yesteh-day, Mr. Wright said: "It looks like old times to see the maps outspread in every group of men again. Indications point to an entirely new play being given the district, with the possibility that some will be diverted down 'Hogtown' way. Ranger is a different town today to what she was a month ago."

W. B. Hamilton, president of the Texhoma Oil and Refining company, returned yesterday from a two-day trip to Dallas.

Harry Hines, Consolidated Oil company, is spending a few days in Kansas City. He is expected back in Wichita Falls about Monday.

C. R. Boling, Marland Oil company of Texas, has been away from the city for the past two days on an extended field trip. He is expected back to Wichita Falls today.

Atlantic Oil Producing company is boasting of J. R. McCready's carrying a string of twelve-inch casing to a depth of 1,010 feet and setting it there in its No. 1, Sigler-Waggoner, north of the old Sigler well, south Wilbarger county. The average seat for the 12-inch in Wilbarger is about 865 feet. C. R. Robinson, working the Whitburt Oil company, recently took a string down to 1,100 feet.

McCready has been with the Atlantic in charge of tools for six or seven years.

HIGH WAGES FOR WORKERS.

One effect of restricted immigration already felt by American industry according to Magnus W. Alexander, a high authority, was the sustained high wage level similar to the effect of a high tariff on manufactured goods.

Actual money wages in the industries in the United States, he said, were now a hundred and sixteen per cent above what they were before the war, and even allowing for the decline in the purchasing power of the dollar assuming that the same standard of living prevailed as existed in 1924, the wage earner today is now about 30 per cent better off than he was even at the peak of the wage level in 1920.

Manufacturers demand a high tariff on their manufactures. They demanded, they say, because they would be ruined if forced into competition with foreign manufacturers. That which is sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander. Foreign made goods are kept out by high tariffs.

Why not foreign made wage workers. If protection is a blessing it should be enjoyed by the wage worker as well as the man who pays him his wage. For more than 40 years organized labor demanded restricted immigration. They were wise, even if they were selfish. Self-preservation is the first law of nature.

Every year an army of aliens, all wage workers, came to these shores. They cut the wage schedule to tatters and they were beginning to force upon the American wage workers the same standard of living that exists today in foreign nations.

THE MOROCCAN SITUATION.

On the eve of a drive to dislodge the Riffian inraders from French Morocco, reports which were anything but reassuring, reached Paris from the new zone of strife. According to these advices, the tribesmen are expert with the rifle, thoroughly with all modern equipment. Only in handling artillery are they deficient. But if they do not know how to find ranges by the scientific method of geometrical calculation and must point their guns at visible objects, they seem aware of their inefficiency. They use their artillery but little, conceal it well, and especially keep it under cover when French airplanes are flying over.

The Riffian tactics and abilities are such as are demanded for successful fighting in their situation. By gaining sudden and easy initial victories, followed by elaborate preparations to resist counter-attacks, the wild tribesmen, aided by the wild nature of their country, can wear out European armies, trained to move and fight in masses. They have demonstrated their efficiency against the Spaniards and in a few skirmishes with the French. Of course, the French can clear their zone of Riffs, if willing to make the necessary sacrifice of men and money. But the Riffs can come back. Like the Parthians of old, they can be defeated without being conquered.

France has pledged herself not to invade the Spanish zone, thus assuring the Riffs a refuge in case they are driven out of the French zone. The prospect of Spanish-French co-operation against the tribesmen has faded away. The Spaniards are weary of the Moroccan war and will not pledge themselves to any kind of concerted action. Recently the state of siege established in Spain under the military directorate was lifted and constitutional guarantees restored by royal proclamation. This indicates that the Spanish government is through in Morocco, and will rest content with holding a narrow strip of the coast.

France has good reason for waging a purely defensive war against the Riffs, in effective as purely defensive measures may prove. Great Britain, desiring no powerful rival across the straits of Gibraltar, would be alarmed if French forces should follow the Riffs out of the French zone in Morocco. Hence, France can only defend her own zone, driving off invaders who may return again and again. And if the Riffians score any striking success in their operations, they will undoubtedly gain adherents in French Morocco. Strong as she is, France faces a difficult situation in her North African "sphere of influence."

AN EDITOR AND AN EDUCATOR.

Glenn Frank editor of the Century Magazine, has been called to the presidency of the University of Wisconsin. His call came from the board of regents and was unanimous on the part of that body.

He is a man of the west, and one of the famous educators and writers of America. He has lectured extensively in the United States and in Canada and is the author of many books. He enjoyed the confidence of Woodrow Wilson, and he was appointed by President Wilson to membership of a group headed by former President William H. Taft, that drafted a covenant for the league of nations which was considered by the peace conference at Paris.

Wisconsin is a LaFollette state. LaFollette is the political boss of the state, but the politicians of Wisconsin do not run the University of Wisconsin. It is a people's university and the politicians are wise enough to keep hands off.

Also the people are wise enough to see to it that their university is never crippled for the lack of funds. They know the value of the university and other higher institutions of learning.

FARMERS AND FREIGHT RATES.

Now the officials of the national grange demand a freight rate cut all along the line. They say that depression in agriculture continues, part of it being due to an increase of freight rates while the price of farm products is on the decline.

Senator Capper of Kansas, backs up the demand. Senator Capper is the owner of a chain of weekly newspapers, which are patronized by the farmers. He is the owner of the leading daily newspaper of Kansas. His daily newspaper speaks for the Coolidge administration and its policies; his weekly newspapers voice the demands of the tillers of the soil.

Senator Capper is always consistent. He speaks for the farmer; he votes for the caucus demands of the administration. There are two Cappers; one is a politician while the other is a publisher.

By Dr. Frank Crane

YOUR AUDIENCE.

A man must be his own audience. Our most valued approval and our severest criticism ought to come from ourselves.

If we are honest, are not blinded by egotism and are unafraid, we can hear a great deal of truth from ourselves.

Mr. Coolidge has not only to please the hunderd million og so people of the United States, but first of all he must please Calvin Coolidge, and he will not please the former without pleasing the latter.

The approbation of the mob is fickle. It comes and goes and depends a great deal upon luck. The approbation of one's self, if he is honest, is sure when he does a good deed, and his condemnation is just as sure if he does a bad one.

There is a good deal said about living one's own life, and there is a truth contained in this gospel. What you do must first of all satisfy yourself.

I knew a man that loved trees and outdoors. They wanted him to be a bond salesman, and he was a pretty good one, but he had to live in the city and tramp sidewalks. He loved the open spaces and the woods. So he gave up a large income as a bond salesman and took a small one as a forester, but he was happy because he pleased himself, and in the long run he did better work.

The outer audience and the inner audience are checks on each other. They are like the three departments of the United States—the supreme court, the congress, and the president.

So a man's mind is composed, according to the old anthropologists, of the intellect, the sensibilities and the will.

All of these are necessary, but none of them can be trusted in the extreme without being checked by the others.

If a man governs his life entirely by his intellect without ever yielding to passion, he becomes cold and hard.

If a man follows only his feelings, he will speedily run into folly, for those feelings need to be checked by the judgment and one's common sense.

So if one is governed entirely by his will and that will is not held in check by the passions and the intellect he will become known as a stubborn man.

The problem of life seems to be maintaining the balance between all these three things.

When a man does not please his inner audience of himself, he is seen to be insincere. We will not follow a man who will not follow himself. Example is better than precept, because example shows that a man thinks enough of his advice to follow it himself.

It will not do to despise the outer audience any more than the inner. The outer is a constant check upon the inner. It enables you to tell whether the judgment of the inner audience is correct or not.

CARRY OVER SUPPLY OF WHEAT.

Indications of a smaller world wheat carry over on July 1st have been published by the federal department of agriculture. According to the survey, the carry over will be a 125 million bushels as compared with 283,000,000 bushels on July 1st last year.

A famine crop of wheat this year in the thirty-place big money in the pockets of the American seven producing wheat countries of the world may wheat grower and his Canadian brother.

Canada is becoming one of the great wheat producing countries of the world, and the Canadian farmer is shipping his wheat direct to the ports of the mother country.

BUSINESS WAS BRISK.

Foreign trade was brisk in April and American exports totaled $400,000,000 compared with imports of $349,000,000. Americans are patriotic but they buy where they please. Business is business, just as it was before the world war.

Uncommon Sense

TWO KINDS OF PROGRESS.

In

"The days of old,
The days of gold
The days of forty-nine"

the desire to gain sudden wealth sent men from all parts of the world to California. Some of them sailed from England around the horn or to the eastern shores of America and then across the plains.

Some came from the eastern and central states of America, riding on horseback or driving the prairie schooners that the movies have made famous to moderns in the play called "The Covered Wagon."

It was a long, arduous and dangerous journey.

Wild and savage Indians lurked along the trail. Prairie storms overturned caravans and destroyed goods and wagons.

The lack of understanding of new conditions and how to meet them brought on starvation or disease.

But as long as the gold held out on the western slopes of the Sierras the westward stream flowed on unabated.

Perhaps one in every hundred who crossed the plains found enough gold to pay for the expense he was put to in making the journey.

Not more than one in a thousand, if that many, realized the dream of becoming rich.

Only those who remained in California, and farmed its rich lands were the gainers by the adventure.

Yet the greed of gold kept people coming, as it afterward sent them to the Klondike and to Nome, and to every other country where gold is to be found.

Now these has been another reported gold find in British Columbia.

But the first arrivals there will not travel by prairie schooners and horse or mule back. They are going in airplanes!

Science has done that for them. It has found ways to overcome the great difficulties of overland journeys, beginning with the stage coach and pony express and ending, for the present at least, with the flying machine which will in a few hours take a man on a journey that once required weeks.

The race has progressed in means of locomotion, and in other departments which are controlled by physical science.

If these new argonauts do not find any gold, which they probably will not, they can sit around their camp fires and hear music and lectures from distant cities over the radio.

They can communicate by the wireless telegraph to those they left at home. They will never be in danger because of isolation, for isolation exists no longer.

But somewhere in their souls is still that demon of greed-of desire for something for nothing, which sent their great grandfathers on the journey over the plains.

Not all the scientists or all the preachers can eradicate that, until some better way than we know about at present has been found to teach men the folly of avarice, and the advantage of knowing that work is the only real basis of substantial fortune.

Irrigation

Water Supply for City a Small Part of Irrigation System.

You will some times hear it said that it was a lucky thing for Wichita Falls that there were lands convenient so that surplus water could be sold for irrigation purposes. The idea back of such statements is that Wichita Falls had to spend money anyhow to secure water for city use and that selling water for irrigation is all clear profit.

This is a mistaken idea. The principal function of the two reservoirs is to impound and supply water for irrigation. City water supply is merely an incident.

Wichita Falls could have easily secured all the water she need, and in fact now has, for approximately a million dollars instead of the $4,500,000 which was spent.

This is proven in the contract which exists between the two districts. The only water that is recity is 50,000 acre feet which is served to the exclusive use of the about the amount held in the diversion reservoir or about one-twelfth of the amount which can be impounded in Lake Kemp.

It was not necessary for Wichita Falls to spend all the money she did to secure a reserve supply of 50,000 acre feet. About a million would have done the job nicely.

The bonds were voted and the money spent to build an irrigation project. That was the primary motive. Wichita Falls wanted to make the Valley lands produce abundant crops each year instead of one crop in five years. That is why the dams were built an dthe project constructed.

Wichita Falls was not lucky. It was the land owners who were lucky enough to get a city to spend money to irrigate their lands.

POEMS THAT LIVE

THE KING ON THE TOWER.

From Uhland.

The cold grey hills they bind me around,
The darksome valleys lie, sleeping below,
But the winds as they pass o'er all this ground,
Bring me never a sound of woe.

Oh! for all I have suffered and striven
Care has embittered my cup and my feast;
But here is the night and the dark blue heaven,
And my soul shall be at rest.

O golden legends writ in the skies,
I turn toward you with longing soul,
And list to the awful harmonies
Of the spheres as o they roll.

My hair is grey and my sight nigh gone;
My sword is rusteth upon the wall;
Right have I spoken, and right have I done;
When shall I rest me once for all?

O blessed rest! O royal night!
Wherefore seemeth the time so long.
Till I see yon stars in their fullest light,
And list to their loudest song?

—William Makepeace Thackeray.

HOW IT STARTED

"GUIDE ME, O THOU GREAT JEHOVAH."

When we sing the words of this powerful hymn we have a consciousness of life's trials, of battles and of strife. And it was in a heart torn with trials and a mind fired against opposition, that the lyric which has been sung wherever English is spoken had its inspiration.

The author, William Williams, was born in Wales in 1717. Though first a doctor, he studied for the ministry of the Church of England. Independent and liberty loving, however, his disposition was against the rulings of the "Successors" who were at that time the bone of contention within the church. The English bishops were stern in repression of such sentiments, and Williams became a Methodist or Wesleyan, preaching in this denomination for forty years. He is said to have done for liberalism in Wales what Wesley did for England and Luther for Germany.

It was during the time of his difficulties with the bishops, while he was putting himself against the "powers that be," nature frowned and thundered in accord with his inner turmoil, that Williams penned with his goose-quill the words which have brought his name down through the centuries as none of his sermons, powerful as they were, would have done:

"Guide me, O thou Great Jehovah,
Pilgrim through this barren land;
I am weak, but Thou art mighty,
Hold me with Thy powerful hand."

MATTERS OF HEALTH

We drive for this,
We drive for that,
We wonder what
We're driving at.
A friend drops in
And says: "Yea, Bo,
We've got to raise
Some hefty dough;
The polar bears,
Says he, you know,
Are starring now
In polar snow.
They're needing shoes,
They're needing socks—
We've gotta raise
A lotta rocks.
A polar bear
Has got to thrive—
Just sign it there
And—make it five."

Blood will tell—have it tested.

No clerk can watch the clock and punch it—long.

The finished after dinner speaker—should be.

Childish mischief is untutored "pep" with which time and education will move mountains.

Seeking the gang for illicit amusement is but a perverted desire for healthful recreation.

The careless consumptive is a public menace, the careful consumptive endangers the health of no one.

TOOL DRESSER INJURED.

Ranger Man Seriously Burned in Oil Well Fire.

RANGER, Texas, May 29.—H. F. Chriswell, tool dresser, was seriously burned about the face and arms and the rig of the Pritchard number two of Barkley and others was destroyed by fire originating from an adjoining well about 10 o'clock last night.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

GEMINI.

The adverse planetary aspects of yesterday have vanished, and are replaced today by conditions, both benign and favorable. They do not counsel, however, the initiation of any new enterprise, but rather presage success for efforts along well-tried lines, and persistency in something already attempted. They will foster and promote feelings of harmony and good fellowship, and, if you feel personal resentment towards anyone, there will be a tendency to forgive and forget; and this policy should be followed. In the evening, the signs are particularly auspicious for social or family amenities, and the prevailing conditions will engender a sense of contentment and tranquility.

The child born today is, according to the signs, fated to be not only healthy, but successful. While it will not suffer from any serious illness, either in infancy or childhood, it will, at the same time, display those qualities of intelligence and ability that, later on in life, will ensure for it material development. Its temperament will be tractable, but its character will be masterful, dominating, and self-sufficient. It will possess both quick and good judgment, have unabating perseverance, and by will power accomplish those things that would be impossible to one of a weaker "make-up."

If you were born on May 30, the general analysis of your character is dictatorial, quick to anger, but always faithful and quixotically loyal. You make a great error in imagining that all people can be driven, and could attain much greater success if you were willing to lead. It would also be well for you to remember that, with many people, an ounce of kindly encouragement is worth more than a ton of fault-finding and criticism, and you would lose none of your prestige by being a little less assertive.

You are very easily aroused to anger, and you, apparently, forget that the one who loses temper is seriously and severely handicapped. It does not do much good to regret afterwards; once the action has been taken and the words spoken, the effect remains, and, whilst it is easy to forgive, it is harder to forget.

Successful people born on this date are: James Woodrow, clergyman and educator; William M. Springer, statesman and jurist; Edward L. Mark, zoologist; Edward L. Burlingame, journalist; Gustav H. Schwab, merchant; Mrs. Spencer Trask, author.

RIO GRANDE UP 20 FEET.

River Reported Still Rising at Del Rio.

DEL RIO, Texas, May 29.—The Rio Grande had risen 20 feet here this morning and was still rising, following two inches more of rain here today and continued heavy rains in West Texas. Total rainfall here during the past 48 hours was seven inches. One of the biggest rises in the Rio Grande on record is predicted.

The biggest flood in the history of Devil's river this morning took away a portion of Tallmadge inn, near the causeway, and water is forcing occupants to the hills and high ground.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE WISE PRETENDER

When certain kings in other days
Have from their thrones been pried,
They've hung around the place to raise
An army true and tried;
And then have fought through thick and thin
With these devoted men—
But commonly in vain, to win
Their kingdoms back again.

I never could commend the sense
Of such a curious course,
For these unhappy royal gents
And all their loyal force—
In running into danger zones,
As history will tell,
Not only did not gain their thrones
But lost their heads as well.

But Grand Duke Cyril, so I learn,
Is cannier by far;
Although he seeks, with much concern
To be a Russian czar,
He'd fain be unconfined and free,
For death he has no thirst,
Or, in more simple language, he
Believes in safety first.

In Paris, therefore, he abides,
Sees shows, and shuffles cards,
Dines out in cabarets or rides
About the boulevards,
In trying to regain his throne
He runs no risk of jail,
But makes the fight by telephone,
By radio and mail!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

WHY MEN'S MOTHERS AND WIVES ARE NATURAL ENEMIES.
WHY DO YOUNG GIRLS PREFER OLDER MEN TO BOYS?
HOW CAN A GIRL MAKE HERSELF FALL IN LOVE?

Dear Miss Dix—I am 25, and I am soon to be married to a young man to whom I have been engaged for four years. We get along perfectly together, are devoted to each other, and have every chance for happiness, except that I must live with his mother.

She has had her life blighted by an interfering mother-in-law, but it doesn't seem to have made her any more tolerant of men. Our ideas are diametrically opposite, and in four years' acquaintance and honestly trying to be friends. I cannot understand her, or like her, and I am sure she does not like me. She's not old, or financially dependent.

I cannot bear the thought of going into their home and causing trouble. Am I making a mountain out of a mole hill? Should I try to make the best of it? APRIL.

Answer: If you do not like your husband's mother before marriage, there is small chance of your coming to care for her when you are brought into daily and hourly contact in the home, and you are headed for trouble if you undertake to live with her.

Any man who asks his wife to live with his mother does both of them a cruel injustice, because he makes a situation that would try the virtues of two femals angels, and which no two merely human women should be expected to cope with successfully.

Men don't understand what a home means to a woman. It is literally a woman's kingdom. It is the one tiny spot in all the big world where she is monarch of all she surveys; where she is the head, the authority; where she can exercise her taste and carry out her own ideas, and any stranger interferes with this at her peril. From the time a little girl child begins playing with toys and has her dollhouse, with its miniature tables, and chairs and beds, and cooking stove, she dreams of the real home she will have one day, and plans just how she will furnish it and run it.

The joy of having her own home is one of the main things that girls marry for. It is the love of home that makes working girls set up light housekeeping, instead of living comfortably in boarding houses.

It is this instinctive, not-to-be-suppressed yearning for her own home that makes it impossible for two women to live together in peace, especially when they are daughter-in-law and mother-in-law. The mother-in-law cannot give up the running of her home to another and get down in silence while she sees her daughter-in-law incompetently doing things that she did expertly. The daughter-in-law cannot be happy doing things her mother-in-law's way instead of her own. So they quarrel and make themselves miserable, and make the poor man who loves them both more wretched still.

In cases of poverty, mother-in-laws and daughter-in-laws are often forced to live together, but why they ever undertake such a foolish experiment when it is not a financial necessity nobody knows. But no mother who has an independent income should ever risk her own or her son's happiness by living in the house with his wife, for if she lives apart she has a thousand times better chance of keeping on amiable and affectionate terms with daughter-in-law than she does if they live under the same roof.

Possibly the mother may feel that she cannot be separated from her darling boy even by a few blocks, but the physical separation is as nothing compared to the soul separation there would be if she and his wife are at enmity with each other, and he is torn between them.

Don't go to live with your mother-in-law, April. Make your sweetheart see that he is doing both of you a wrong by not setting up his own home. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Why do girls seem to prefer older men to boys of their own generation? I am in love with a girl 18 years old, intelligent and holding a good position. I will not be in a position to marry until I complete my education and build up a good practice, say, five years from now. I have a rival who is about 35 years old and who is doing a good business, and I am afraid that he will win the girl away from me. Sock.

Answer: I think you have answered your own question. The man of 35 is ready to marry and has something definite to offer the girl. A schoolboy has nothing, not even the certainty that he will still want to marry the girl after he has finished his education and studied his profession.

The chances are that five years from now you will smile when you think of the calf love that you had for this girl, and that you will have entirely outgrown her. If your education really educates you, you will see life from a very much broader standpoint than you do now, your eastes will have been cultivated and improved and you will desire a very different type of wife from the one that you would pick out today.

Chief among the women who help men are those who refuse to marry them when they are 20 years old, and in time to come you will look upon the man who is your rival today as the one who saved your life.

Young girls are always flattered by the attention of older men because it makes them feel grown-up and sophisticated, and that can compete with older women. A man of 35 also has an allure for a girl of 18 because she thinks he is worldly wise. She looks up to him as she does not to a boy of her own age, who, she knows, is just as foolish and kiddish as she is. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—A man who is a very fine gentleman and who would make me a good husband wishes to marry me. But while I like him and respect him, I cannot fall in love with him. Can you tell me how I can make myself love this man? Dixie.

Answer: No. The human heart is an unruly organ, and nobody knows how to make it behave itself and love where it could love with profit, and refrain from loving where love is disastrous.

Indeed, Cupid seems to take a malicious pleasure in making his victims love the wrong ones, so that girls set their affections on poor young chaps, who can only give them bread and water and kisses to live upon, instead of on the fat, bald-headed, rich widowers who could feed them on lobster a la Newburg and give them limousines to ride in. And poor and ambitious young men pick out for wives fluffy-headed little girls without a second dress to their backs, instead of marrying the sensible girls with dowries that their mothers have selected for them.

You can say that a man is good, and kind and moral, and upright, and that every day in every way he will make you a perfect husband, but you can't Coue yourself in love with him. You can admit all of his virtues, but that won't make you thrill at the touch of his hand. You can think how well off and comfortable you would be if you were married to him, and then you will shiver when you think about having to kiss him. There is no recipe for falling in love. You just do it, or you won't and that's that.

Respect isn't such a bad thing to marry on, however, if you haven't a romantic temperament. If you are sentimentally inclined, it is a dangerous proposition. DOROTHY DIX.

Old Home Thoughts

Clover blossoms swaying
Breezes gently playing
And the perfume of the meadow scents the air.
Birds are sweetly singing
Back to memory bringing
Thoughts of home and longing to be there.

Grapevine swings
And strings and things
Which only a boy can know their real pleasures.
Swimming holes
And fishing poles
Were in our minds as highly valued treasures.

Boyhood days were sweetest
And their charm completest
Climbing high the chestnut tree, or fishing in the brook.
Back our thoughts are turning
And our souls are yearning
For the old home and each cool and shady nook.

In our hearts
A feeling starts
Takes us back o'er memory's sacred ways.
Hearts are lighter
Visions brighter
With the recollection of the old home days.

HIGH WAGES FOR WORKERS.

One effect of restricted immigration already felt by American industry according to Magnus W. Alexander, a high authority, was the sustained high wage level similar to the effect of a high tariff on manufactured goods.

Actual money wages in the industries in the United States, he said, were now a hundred and sixteen per cent above what they were before the war, and even allowing for the decline in the purchasing power of the dollar assuming that the same standard of living prevailed as existed in 1924, the wage earner today is now about 30 per cent better off than he was even at the peak of the wage level in 1920.

Manufacturers demand a high tariff on their manufactures. They demanded, they say, because they would be ruined if forced into competition with foreign manufacturers. That which is sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander. Foreign made goods are kept out by high tariffs.

Why not foreign made wage workers. If protection is a blessing it should be enjoyed by the wage worker as well as the man who pays him his wage. For more than 40 years organized labor demanded restricted immigration. They were wise, even if they were selfish. Self-preservation is the first law of nature.

Every year an army of aliens, all wage workers, came to these shores. They cut the wage schedule to tatters and they were beginning to force upon the American wage workers the same standard of living that exists today in foreign nations.

THE MOROCCAN SITUATION.

On the eve of a drive to dislodge the Riffian inraders from French Morocco, reports which were anything but reassuring, reached Paris from the new zone of strife. According to these advices, the tribesmen are expert with the rifle, thoroughly with all modern equipment. Only in handling artillery are they deficient. But if they do not know how to find ranges by the scientific method of geometrical calculation and must point their guns at visible objects, they seem aware of their inefficiency. They use their artillery but little, conceal it well, and especially keep it under cover when French airplanes are flying over.

The Riffian tactics and abilities are such as are demanded for successful fighting in their situation. By gaining sudden and easy initial victories, followed by elaborate preparations to resist counter-attacks, the wild tribesmen, aided by the wild nature of their country, can wear out European armies, trained to move and fight in masses. They have demonstrated their efficiency against the Spaniards and in a few skirmishes with the French. Of course, the French can clear their zone of Riffs, if willing to make the necessary sacrifice of men and money. But the Riffs can come back. Like the Parthians of old, they can be defeated without being conquered.

France has pledged herself not to invade the Spanish zone, thus assuring the Riffs a refuge in case they are driven out of the French zone. The prospect of Spanish-French co-operation against the tribesmen has faded away. The Spaniards are weary of the Moroccan war and will not pledge themselves to any kind of concerted action. Recently the state of siege established in Spain under the military directorate was lifted and constitutional guarantees restored by royal proclamation. This indicates that the Spanish government is through in Morocco, and will rest content with holding a narrow strip of the coast.

France has good reason for waging a purely defensive war against the Riffs, in effective as purely defensive measures may prove. Great Britain, desiring no powerful rival across the straits of Gibraltar, would be alarmed if French forces should follow the Riffs out of the French zone in Morocco. Hence, France can only defend her own zone, driving off invaders who may return again and again. And if the Riffians score any striking success in their operations, they will undoubtedly gain adherents in French Morocco. Strong as she is, France faces a difficult situation in her North African "sphere of influence."

AN EDITOR AND AN EDUCATOR.

Glenn Frank editor of the Century Magazine, has been called to the presidency of the University of Wisconsin. His call came from the board of regents and was unanimous on the part of that body.

He is a man of the west, and one of the famous educators and writers of America. He has lectured extensively in the United States and in Canada and is the author of many books. He enjoyed the confidence of Woodrow Wilson, and he was appointed by President Wilson to membership of a group headed by former President William H. Taft, that drafted a covenant for the league of nations which was considered by the peace conference at Paris.

Wisconsin is a LaFollette state. LaFollette is the political boss of the state, but the politicians of Wisconsin do not run the University of Wisconsin. It is a people's university and the politicians are wise enough to keep hands off.

Also the people are wise enough to see to it that their university is never crippled for the lack of funds. They know the value of the university and other higher institutions of learning.

FARMERS AND FREIGHT RATES.

Now the officials of the national grange demand a freight rate cut all along the line. They say that depression in agriculture continues, part of it being due to an increase of freight rates while the price of farm products is on the decline.

Senator Capper of Kansas, backs up the demand. Senator Capper is the owner of a chain of weekly newspapers, which are patronized by the farmers. He is the owner of the leading daily newspaper of Kansas. His daily newspaper speaks for the Coolidge administration and its policies; his weekly newspapers voice the demands of the tillers of the soil.

Senator Capper is always consistent. He speaks for the farmer; he votes for the caucus demands of the administration. There are two Cappers; one is a politician while the other is a publisher.

YOUR AUDIENCE.

A man must be his own audience. Our most valued approval and our severest criticism ought to come from ourselves.

If we are honest, are not blinded by egotism and are unafraid, we can hear a great deal of truth from ourselves.

Mr. Coolidge has not only to please the hunderd million or so people of the United States, but first of all he must please Calvin Coolidge, and he will not please the former without pleasing the latter.

The approbation of the mob is fickle. It comes and goes and depends a great deal upon luck. The approbation of one's self, if he is honest, is sure when he does a good deed, and his condemnation is just as sure if he does a bad one.

There is a good deal said about living one's own life, and there is a truth contained in this gospel. What you do must first of all satisfy yourself.

I knew a man that loved trees and outdoors. They wanted him to be a bond salesman, and he was a pretty good one, but he had to live in the city and tramp sidewalks. He loved the open spaces and the woods. So he gave up a large income as a bond salesman and took a small one as a forester, but he was happy because he pleased himself, and in the long run he did better work.

The outer audience and the inner audience are checks on each other. They are like the three departments of the United States—the supreme court, the congress, and the president.

So a man's mind is composed, according to the old anthropologists, of the intellect, the sensibilities and the will.

All of these are necessary, but none of them can be trusted in the extreme without being checked by the others.

If a man governs his life entirely by his intellect without ever yielding to passion, he becomes cold and hard.

If a man follows only his feelings, he will speedily run into folly, for those feelings need to be checked by the judgment and one's common sense.

So if one is governed entirely by his will and that will is not held in check by the passions and the intellect he will become known as a stubborn man.

The problem of life seems to be maintaining the balance between all these three things.

When a man does not please his inner audience of himself, he is seen to be insincere. We will not follow a man who will not follow himself. Example is better than precept, because example shows that a man thinks enough of his advice to follow it himself.

It will not do to despise the outer audience any more than the inner. The outer is a constant check upon the inner. It enables you to tell whether the judgment of the inner audience is correct or not.

CARRY OVER SUPPLY OF WHEAT.

Indications of a smaller world wheat carry over on July 1st have been published by the federal department of agriculture. According to the survey, the carry over will be a 125 million bushels as compared with 283,000,000 bushels on July 1st last year.

A famine crop of wheat this year in the thirty-place big money in the pockets of the American seven producing wheat countries of the world may wheat grower and his Canadian brother.

Canada is becoming one of the great wheat producing countries of the world, and the Canadian farmer is shipping his wheat direct to the ports of the mother country.

BUSINESS WAS BRISK.

Foreign trade was brisk in April and American exports totaled $400,000,000 compared with imports of $349,000,000. Americans are patriotic but they buy where they please. Business is business, just as it was before the world war.

Uncommon Sense

TWO KINDS OF PROGRESS.

In

"The days of old,
The days of gold
The days of forty-nine"

the desire to gain sudden wealth sent men from all parts of the world to California. Some of them sailed from England around the horn or to the eastern shores of America and then across the plains.

Some came from the eastern and central states of America, riding on horseback or driving the prairie schooners that the movies have made famous to moderns in the play called "The Covered Wagon."

It was a long, arduous and dangerous journey.

Wild and savage Indians lurked along the trail. Prairie storms overturned caravans and destroyed goods and wagons.

The lack of understanding of new conditions and how to meet them brought on starvation or disease.

But as long as the gold held out on the western slopes of the Sierras the westward stream flowed on unabated.

Perhaps one in every hundred who crossed the plains found enough gold to pay for the expense he was put to in making the journey.

Not more than one in a thousand, if that many, realized the dream of becoming rich.

Only those who remained in California, and farmed its rich lands were the gainers by the adventure.

Yet the greed of gold kept people coming, as it afterward sent them to the Klondike and to Nome, and to every other country where gold is to be found.

Now these has been another reported gold find in British Columbia.

But the first arrivals there will not travel by prairie schooners and horse or mule back. They are going in airplanes!

Science has done that for them. It has found ways to overcome the great difficulties of overland journeys, beginning with the stage coach and pony express and ending, for the present at least, with the flying machine which will in a few hours take a man on a journey that once required weeks.

The race has progressed in means of locomotion, and in other departments which are controlled by physical science.

If these new argonauts do not find any gold, which they probably will not, they can sit around their camp fires and hear music and lectures from distant cities over the radio.

They can communicate by the wireless telegraph to those they left at home. They will never be in danger because of isolation, for isolation exists no longer.

But somewhere in their souls is still that demon of greed-of desire for something for nothing, which sent their great grandfathers on the journey over the plains.

Not all the scientists or all the preachers can eradicate that, until some better way than we know about at present has been found to teach men the folly of avarice, and the advantage of knowing that work is the only real basis of substantial fortune.

Irrigation

Water Supply for City a Small Part of Irrigation System.

You will some times hear it said that it was a lucky thing for Wichita Falls that there were lands convenient so that surplus water could be sold for irrigation purposes. The idea back of such statements is that Wichita Falls had to spend money anyhow to secure water for city use and that selling water for irrigation is all clear profit.

This is a mistaken idea. The principal function of the two reservoirs is to impound and supply water for irrigation. City water supply is merely an incident.

Wichita Falls could have easily secured all the water she need, and in fact now has, for approximately a million dollars instead of the $4,500,000 which was spent.

This is proven in the contract which exists between the two districts. The only water that is recity is 50,000 acre feet which is served to the exclusive use of the about the amount held in the diversion reservoir or about one-twelfth of the amount which can be impounded in Lake Kemp.

It was not necessary for Wichita Falls to spend all the money she did to secure a reserve supply of 50,000 acre feet. About a million would have done the job nicely.

The bonds were voted and the money spent to build an irrigation project. That was the primary motive. Wichita Falls wanted to make the Valley lands produce abundant crops each year instead of one crop in five years. That is why the dams were built an dthe project constructed.

Wichita Falls was not lucky. It was the land owners who were lucky enough to get a city to spend money to irrigate their lands.

POEMS THAT LIVE

THE KING ON THE TOWER.

From Uhland.

The cold grey hills they bind me around,
The darksome valleys lie, sleeping below,
But the winds as they pass o'er all this ground,
Bring me never a sound of woe.

Oh! for all I have suffered and striven
Care has embittered my cup and my feast;
But here is the night and the dark blue heaven,
And my soul shall be at rest.

O golden legends writ in the skies,
I turn toward you with longing soul,
And list to the awful harmonies
Of the spheres as o they roll.

My hair is grey and my sight nigh gone;
My sword is rusteth upon the wall;
Right have I spoken, and right have I done;
When shall I rest me once for all?

O blessed rest! O royal night!
Wherefore seemeth the time so long.
Till I see yon stars in their fullest light,
And list to their loudest song?

—William Makepeace Thackeray.

HOW IT STARTED

"GUIDE ME, O THOU GREAT JEHOVAH."

When we sing the words of this powerful hymn we have a consciousness of life's trials, of battles and of strife. And it was in a heart torn with trials and a mind fired against opposition, that the lyric which has been sung wherever English is spoken had its inspiration.

The author, William Williams, was born in Wales in 1717. Though first a doctor, he studied for the ministry of the Church of England. Independent and liberty loving, however, his disposition was against the rulings of the "Successors" who were at that time the bone of contention within the church. The English bishops were stern in repression of such sentiments, and Williams became a Methodist or Wesleyan, preaching in this denomination for forty years. He is said to have done for liberalism in Wales what Wesley did for England and Luther for Germany.

It was during the time of his difficulties with the bishops, while he was putting himself against the "powers that be," nature frowned and thundered in accord with his inner turmoil, that Williams penned with his goose-quill the words which have brought his name down through the centuries as none of his sermons, powerful as they were, would have done:

"Guide me, O thou Great Jehovah,
Pilgrim through this barren land;
I am weak, but Thou art mighty,
Hold me with Thy powerful hand."

MATTERS OF HEALTH

We drive for this,
We drive for that,
We wonder what
We're driving at.
A friend drops in
And says: "Yea, Bo,
We've got to raise
Some hefty dough;
The polar bears,
Says he, you know,
Are starving now
In polar snow.
They're needing shoes,
They're needing socks—
We've gotta raise
A lotta rocks.
A polar bear
Has got to thrive—
Just sign it there
And—make it five."

Blood will tell—have it tested.

No clerk can watch the clock and punch it—long.

The finished after dinner speaker—should be.

Childish mischief is untutored "pep" with which time and education will move mountains.

Seeking the gang for illicit amusement is but a perverted desire for healthful recreation.

The careless consumptive is a public menace, the careful consumptive endangers the health of no one.

TOOL DRESSER INJURED.

Ranger Man Seriously Burned in Oil Well Fire.

RANGER, Texas, May 29.—H. F. Chriswell, tool dresser, was seriously burned about the face and arms and the rig of the Pritchard number two of Barkley and others was destroyed by fire originating from an adjoining well about 10 o'clock last night.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

GEMINI.

The adverse planetary aspects of yesterday have vanished, and are replaced today by conditions, both benign and favorable. They do not counsel, however, the initiation of any new enterprise, but rather presage success for efforts along well-tried lines, and persistency in something already attempted. They will foster and promote feelings of harmony and good fellowship, and, if you feel personal resentment towards anyone, there will be a tendency to forgive and forget; and this policy should be followed. In the evening, the signs are particularly auspicious for social or family amenities, and the prevailing conditions will engender a sense of contentment and tranquility.

The child born today is, according to the signs, fated to be not only healthy, but successful. While it will not suffer from any serious illness, either in infancy or childhood, it will, at the same time, display those qualities of intelligence and ability that, later on in life, will ensure for it material development. Its temperament will be tractable, but its character will be masterful, dominating, and self-sufficient. It will possess both quick and good judgment, have unabating perseverance, and by will power accomplish those things that would be impossible to one of a weaker "make-up."

If you were born on May 30, the general analysis of your character is dictatorial, quick to anger, but always faithful and quixotically loyal. You make a great error in imagining that all people can be driven, and could attain much greater success if you were willing to lead. It would also be well for you to remember that, with many people, an ounce of kindly encouragement is worth more than a ton of fault-finding and criticism, and you would lose none of your prestige by being a little less assertive.

You are very easily aroused to anger, and you, apparently, forget that the one who loses temper is seriously and severely handicapped. It does not do much good to regret afterwards; once the action has been taken and the words spoken, the effect remains, and, whilst it is easy to forgive, it is harder to forget.

Successful people born on this date are: James Woodrow, clergyman and educator; William M. Springer, statesman and jurist; Edward L. Mark, zoologist; Edward L. Burlingame, journalist; Gustav H. Schwab, merchant; Mrs. Spencer Trask, author.

RIO GRANDE UP 20 FEET.

River Reported Still Rising at Del Rio.

DEL RIO, Texas, May 29.—The Rio Grande had risen 20 feet here this morning and was still rising, following two inches more of rain here today and continued heavy rains in West Texas. Total rainfall here during the past 48 hours was seven inches. One of the biggest rises in the Rio Grande on record is predicted.

The biggest flood in the history of Devil's river this morning took away a portion of Tallmadge inn, near the causeway, and water is forcing occupants to the hills and high ground.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE WISE PRETENDER

When certain kings in other days
Have from their thrones been pried,
They've hung around the place to raise
An army true and tried;
And then have fought through thick and thin
With these devoted men—
But commonly in vain, to win
Their kingdoms back again.

I never could commend the sense
Of such a curious course,
For these unhappy royal gents
And all their loyal force—
In running into danger zones,
As history will tell,
Not only did not gain their thrones
But lost their heads as well.

But Grand Duke Cyril, so I learn,
Is cannier by far:
Although he seeks, with much concern
To be a Russian czar,
He'd fain be unconfined and free,
For death he has no thirst,
Or, in more simple language, he
Believes in safety first.

In Paris, therefore, he abides,
Sees shows, and shuffles cards,
Dines out in cabarets or rides
About the boulevards,
In trying to regain his throne
He runs no risk of jail,
But makes the fight by telephone,
By radio and mail!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

WHY MEN'S MOTHERS AND WIVES ARE NATURAL ENEMIES. WHY DO YOUNG GIRLS PREFER OLDER MEN TO BOYS? HOW CAN A GIRL MAKE HERSELF FALL IN LOVE?

Dear Miss Dix—I am 25, and I am soon to be married to a young man to whom I have been engaged for four years. We get along perfectly together, are devoted to each other, and have every chance for happiness, except that I must live with his mother.

She has had her life blighted by an interfering mother-in-law, but it doesn't seem to have made her any more tolerant of men. Our ideas are diametrically opposite, and in four years' acquaintance and honestly trying to be friends. I cannot understand her, or like her, and I am sure she does not like me. She's not old, or financially dependent.

I cannot bear the thought of going into their home and causing trouble. Am I making a mountain out of a mole hill? Should I try to make the best of it?

APRIL.

Answer: If you do not like your husband's mother before marriage, there is small chance of your coming to care for her when you are brought into daily and hourly contact in the home, and you are headed for trouble if you undertake to live with her.

Any man who asks his wife to live with his mother does both of them a cruel injustice, because he makes a situation that would try the virtues of two femals angels, and which no two merely human women should be expected to cope with successfully.

Men don't understand what a home means to a woman. It is literally a woman's kingdom. It is the one tiny spot in all the big world where she is monarch of all she surveys; where she is the head, the authority; where she can exercise her taste and carry out her own ideas, and any stranger interferes with this at her peril. From the time a little girl child begins playing with toys and has her dollhouse, with its miniature tables, and chairs and beds, and cooking stove, she dreams of the real home she will have one day, and plans just how she will furnish it and run it.

The joy of having her own home is one of the main things that girls marry for. It is the love of home that makes working girls set up light housekeeping, instead of living comfortably in boarding houses.

It is this instinctive, not-to-be-suppressed yearning for her own home that makes it impossible for two women to live together in peace, especially when they are daughter-in-law and mother-in-law. The mother-in-law cannot give up the running of her home to another and get down in silence while she sees her daughter-in-law incompetently doing things that she did expertly. The daughter-in-law cannot be happy doing things her mother-in-law's way instead of her own. So they quarrel and make themselves miserable, and make the poor man who loves them both more wretched still.

In cases of poverty, mother-in-laws and daughter-in-laws are often forced to live together, but why they ever undertake such a foolish experiment when it is not a financial necessity nobody knows. But no mother who has an independent income should ever risk her own or her son's happiness by living in the house with his wife, for if she lives apart she has a thousand times better chance of keeping on amiable and affectionate terms with daughter-in-law than she does if they live under the same roof.

Possibly the mother may feel that she cannot be separated from her darling boy even by a few blocks, but the physical separation is as nothing compared to the soul separation there would be if she and his wife are at enmity with each other, and he is torn between them.

Don't go to live with your mother-in-law, April. Make your sweetheart see that he is doing both of you a wrong by not setting up his own home.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Why do girls seem to prefer older men to boys of their own generation? I am in love with a girl 18 years old, intelligent and holding a good position. I will not be in a position to marry until I complete my education and build up a good practice, say, five years from now. I have a rival who is about 35 years old and who is doing a good business, and I am afraid that he will win the girl away from me. Sock.

Answer: I think you have answered your own question. The man of 35 is ready to marry and has something definite to offer the girl. A schoolboy has nothing, not even the certainty that he will still want to marry the girl after he has finished his education and studied his profession.

The chances are that five years from now you will smile when you think of the calf love that you had for this girl, and that you will have entirely outgrown her. If your education really educates you, you will see life from a very much broader standpoint than you do now, your tastes will have been cultivated and improved and you will desire a very different type of wife from the one that you would pick out today.

Chief among the women who help men are those who refuse to marry them when they are 20 years old, and in time to come you will look upon the man who is your rival today as the one who saved your life.

Young girls are always flattered by the attention of older men because it makes them feel grown-up and sophisticated, and that can compete with older women. A man of 35 also has an allure for a girl of 18 because she thinks he is worldly wise. She looks up to him as she does not to a boy of her own age, who, she knows, is just as foolish and kiddish as she is.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—A man who is a very fine gentleman and who would make me a good husband wishes to marry me. But while I like him and respect him, I cannot fall in love with him. Can you tell me how I can make myself love this man?

Dixie.

Answer: No. The human heart is an unruly organ, and nobody knows how to make it behave itself and love where it could love with profit, and refrain from loving where love is disastrous.

Indeed, Cupid seems to take a malicious pleasure in making his victims love the wrong ones, so that girls set their affections on poor young chaps, who can only give them bread and water and kisses to live upon, instead of on the fat, bald-headed, rich widowers who could feed them on lobster a la Newburg and give them limousines to ride in. And poor and ambitious young men pick out for wives fluffy-headed little girls without a second dress to their backs, instead of marrying the sensible girls with dowries that their mothers have selected for them.

You can say that a man is good, and kind and moral, and upright, and that every day in every way he will make you a perfect husband, but you can't Coue yourself in love with him. You can admit all of his virtues, but that won't make you thrill at the touch of his hand. You can think how well off and comfortable you would be if you were married to him, and then you will shiver when you think about having to kiss him. There is no recipe for falling in love. You just do it, or you won't and that's that.

Respect isn't such a bad thing to marry on, however, if you haven't a romantic temperament. If you are sentimentally inclined, it is a dangerous proposition.

DOROTHY DIX.

Old Home Thoughts

Clover blossoms swaying
Breezes gently playing
And the perfume of the meadow scents the air.
Birds are sweetly singing
Back to memory bringing
Thoughts of home and longing to be there.

Grapevine swings
And strings and things
Which only a boy can know their real pleasures.
Swimming holes
And fishing poles
Were in our minds as highly valued treasures.

Boyhood days were sweetest
And their charm completest
Climbing high the chestnut tree, or fishing in the brook.
Back our thoughts are turning
And our souls are yearning
For the old home and each cool and shady nook.

In our hearts
A feeling starts
Takes us back o'er memory's sacred ways.
Hearts are lighter
Visions brighter
With the recollection of the old home days.

GIRL IS LOST; INDIAN TRIBES BURY HATCHET

Oklahoma Tribes Find They Have Something In Common

MIAMI, Okla., May 29.—The disappearance of Maude Lee Mudd, 16-year-old "million dollar" Indian heiress, led late yesterday to the burying of the hatchet by the Seneca and Cayuga Indians in northeast Oklahoma. Officials of the two factions which have been split for nearly a year, found that a common interest in the welfare of the missing girl was responsible for the reconciliation. The girl has been absent about a week.

Chiefs and tribal officers of the two factions met at the Seneca council house near Wyandotte and signed resolutions calling a mass meeting of all Seneca and Cayuga Indians at the council house June 7 to consider action upon questions confronting the tribes.

ARREST ROBBER SUSPECTS.

Women Report Daring Theft on Dallas Street.

DALLAS, May 29.—Two men were detained by police today as suspects in the reported robbery of Mrs. Frances Graham and Mrs. Myrell Harrison when automobile riding last night. The women reported that two men drove along side of their machine on one of the main thoroughfares, and one of the men compelled them to stop by pointing a pistol at them. The men got in the machine with the women, made them drive on for several blocks, robbed and left them, the women said. The men taken into custody denied any knowledge of the robbery.

Five More Pardons Granted by Ma In Spirit of Justice

AUSTIN, May 29.—Five conditional pardons and a restoration of citizenship were granted today by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. The pardons were granted for a variety of reasons.

Will Rowell of Dallas county, given two to five years for theft, was pardoned because of his physical condition and on recommendation of Prison Commissioner J. A. Herring. Herbert Camper of Bexar county, serving two years for theft, gained his freedom on recommendation of several Bexar county officials.

A. H. Daniels of Tarrant county, convicted of burglary, was freed because of the destitute circumstances of his mother and on the belief he has been sufficiently punished.

Charles W ison, given two years for theft in El Paso county, was pardoned because of his extreme youth and because he has several younger brothers and sisters to support.

Warner Clark of Jefferson county, five years for burglary, was freed on recommendation of N. T. Thornton, prison farm manager, and J. A. Herring, chairman of the prison commission.

Citizenship of J. H. Carroll of Anderson county was restored. He had served one year for selling intoxicating liquor.

ORIGINAL WRIGHT PLANE MAY REST IN AMERICA

DAYTON, Ohio, May 29.—The original Wright airplane may rest in America if conditions prescribed by Orville Wright and a New York delegation interested in the project are accepted by Dr. Charles W. Walcutt, director of the Smithsonian institute, it was announced this afternoon by Grover C. Loening of New York, who has been here conferring with Mr. Wright.

Mrs. Naylor Notified Of Death of Brother

News of the death of her brother, Bert Van Deusen, on May 26, has come to Mrs. Harry Naylor of this city, with word that the body will be sent here from Baltimore for burial Sunday, through the Hines undertaking parlors; interment to be in Riverside cemetery.

Mr. Van Deusen's death came suddenly after a day's illness, and he is survived by his widow and baby, his brother, Jay Van Deusen of Fort Worth, and three sisters, Mrs. G. M. Rothrock of Fort Worth, Mrs. J. B. Youngblood of Hempstead, and Mrs. Naylor. All the relatives will be present for the funeral services Sunday.

The deceased formerly lived in Wichita Falls and enlisted from here in the navy when he was 19 years old. After a service of 13 years, he received his discharge in January of this year, and went from Oceanview, Va., his last station, to Baltimore where he died at 32 years of age. During the world war he was stationed at Queenstown, Ireland, for three years, where he contracted the trouble that caused the fatal attack Tuesday.

INVESTIGATE MABRY BLAZE.

Preliminary Inquiry Held on Big Fire at Austin.

AUSTIN, May 29.—(AP)—A preliminary investigation of the recent fire at Camp Mabry in which national guard property valued at approximately $500,000 was destroyed, was started today by representatives of the adjutant general's department in preparation for the formal meeting of the board of inquiry to be appointed later.

The investigation was ordered by Adjutant General McGee after a personal inspection of the property, and all information gathered will be laid before the inquiry board. Several witnesses will be interviewed and the investigators have been especially charged to find out the cause of the fire.

Methodest Young People Put Over Annual Circus In Fine Style On Friday

A LARGE crowd thronged the gaily lighted circus grounds at Tenth and Lamar Friday night, tramped through the noise, the color and the laughter of the midway to the big top where they packed the seats to view the opening performance of "Hindpaw's One Ring Circus," an exceptionally fine amateur circus presented by a cast of 300 talented young people of the First Methodist church, south, under the direction of a staff of capable supervisors, including Harold White, Raybon Porter, Cecil Porter, Jimmie Thorne, Mrs. J. S. Pitman and Mrs. R. A. Faver. A. A. Oxford and Herman Munden.

All Circus Stunts.

Clowns, acrobats, trapeze performers, tumbling stunts, and a pretentious array of big time circus acts were presented by the young performers under the coaching of Herman Munden, in the specially constructed circus ring south of the church building. The climax of the circus performance was the coronation ceremony when Miss Alva Ruth Walker, surrounded by a bevy of duchesses and maids representing various churches of the city, was crowned queen of the First Annual Methodist Young People's Circus in a regal and impressive ceremony.

Following the coronation, talented young entertainers appeared to pay court to her majesty with musical numbers, readings, drills and sketches, striving to win her royal favor.

Sideshows Also.

Meanwhile, on the midway, sideshows held sway, furnishing mysteries, "eats," confetti, noisemakers and novelties. The booths were built and run by various young people's organizations conencted with the church.

Proceeds from the circus, which is being held in connection with Young People's week, will go toward the financing of specific religious training for leaders among the young people of the First Methodist church, south.

Saturday afternoon, an afternoon of special attractions will be offered at Haven Park, when the Girl Reserves present their ceremonial, the Camp Fire Girls give a water carnival and the Boy Scouts give a field demonstration. The circus performers will be repeated Saturday evening at the circus grounds, Tenth and Lamar, with the feature of a children's fairyland pageant, "Will o' the Wisp" with a cast of 150.

Soviet Embassy Is Given Armed Guard

LONDON, May 29.—(AP)—The Daily Mail says that soviet embassy in London has been granted the protection of an armed guard day and night. The embassy, the paper understands, received a letter threatening violence against certain of its officials and this was sent to the British authorities with a request for protection.

When a Scotland Yard officer arrived at the embassy he found a member of the staff guarding the entrance with a loaded cane.

First Methodists Bust Baptist

WALKER GIVES THREE HITS IN SEVEN INNINGS

Doke And Rawls Massage Agate at Terrific Gait

Ralph Walker hurled a mighty game Fri[day] against First Baptists, giving up the [only] total of three safe slaps, while his [mates] Methodist team mates were slamming [the] offerings of Lesley and Allison to all [parts] tors. The Methodists took the contest, [13] to 2.

Rawls smacked out a single, a double, and a pair of home runs in five times up. Doke collected three smashing doubles.

Skipper Boone came through with a timely double in the seventh with the bases full, and Rawls found one on with each homer and a like number for his double. The score:

SENS LICK RED SOX, 7 TO 3

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Turning five doubles plays the Senators' infield provided air tight support today behind steady pitching by Mogridge and the champions took the first game of the series with the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 3. Boston made a belated rally in the ninth to score two runs, but Mogridge had enough in reserve to shut off their last bid. The score:

TIGERS DEFEAT WHITE SOX, 13-9

CHICAGO, May 29.—Detroit defeated Chicago 13 to 9 in a slugging match here today. Cobb's strategy almost cost him the services of one of his pitchers when he removed Dauss in favor of a pinch-hitter and then sent Johnson to the mount. Johnson was hit hard and before he retired in the side, in the ninth inning was knocked out by a line drive off Falk's bat. He was removed to a hospital. Barrett's home run with two on bases was a feature. The score:

Light Heavies Tangle Up For Crown Tonight

Elements Force Rickard To Postpone Title Scrap

NEW YORK, May 29.—For the first time in 19 years, Promoter Tex Rickard stepped aside for the elements today when the milk fund bouts, scheduled for tonight, were postponed until tomorrow night because of rain.

This was the first time Rickard was compelled to put off a boxing show since his first promotion, the Gans-Nelson match at Goldfield, Nev., on September 2, 1906.

Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, associated in the promotion of the milk fund bouts, will not attend her own carnival, it was learned tonight. Replying to a fan who had suggested looking for her at the ringside, Mr. Hearst declared that if she attended the fighting she would want to separate the boxers.

Mike McTigue will defend his world's light heavyweight title against Paul Berlenbach, When they weighed in at the offices of the boxng commisson this afternoon, each weighed exactly 170½.

BEARS GET ROUGH WITH BOVINES

SAN ANTONIO, May 29. — Changing pitchers may be attributed to the Dallas defeat in the final game of the series Friday, which was won by the Bears, 19 to 6. When Zeigler was substituted for Schuman in the fifth the Bears started a barrage of base hits that netted a total of eight runs, putting the Steers out of the running to enable the Bears to make a clean sweep of the series. A sensational one-hand catch by Williams of Bob Coleman's fly back of short in the sixth was the feature of the game. The score:

Memorial Day

"Lest We Forget"

IN MEMORY

of those gallant American youths of the world war who sacrificed their all for an ideal—The Spanish-American heroes who gave up their lives for a righteous cause—And to the noble boys of '61 whose remaining comrades are a scattered few—All the nation will pause today to pay homage to you.

Each Memorial day finds the depleted ranks of the boys of '61 growing thinner and thinner. Age has laid a firmer hand on the scattered few heroes of the civil war who still survive. But as their numbers grow less the younger heroes of the world and Spanish-American wars becomes more enshrined in the hearts of the country and homage is paid to them along with the boys in blue and gray. So today the nation pays tribute to three generations—honors the living and the dead of wars of long ago and those fresh in our memory.

Graves of all heroes will be decorated impartially.

"In Flanders Field"

By John McCrae

In Flanders fields, the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe.
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high,
If you break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway her husband is a brilliant, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother.

Lawrence Ridgeway, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chose the easiest way out. Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying.

Julie Van Vorst, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Ridgeway. She is in Paris when the news reaches her of Landis' marriage, and she hastens back to the United States. With her goes Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the ships reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to dinner. She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an appareat misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together, while she will be with her beolved Landis.

Landis finding himself alone with Lydia falls under her spell once more. Some hours later that evening, Rosilyn who is bewildered to find herself spending the evening in the company of Rupert Briscoe, sees her husband dancing with Lydia—in his eyes a look of rapture. She believes he has seen her but is too rude—or ashamed — to speak. Briscoe asks her to go on to a night club and in a mood of recklessness she consents.

In Pari meanwhile Van Vorst, realizing the reason for Lydia's sudden trip to America and hungering for her love, decides to use Marietta, a dancer and sweetheart of Briscoe's in connection with a plan. The two arrange to come to New York where Marietta is to vamp Landis away from Lydia, leaving a clear field for the elderly schemer.

Landis continues philandering with Lydia while Rosilyn to help forget the pangs of jealousy, allows Briscoe to pay her more flattering attention. The next day the latter drives her to the station where she is to meet her husband before they leave for their country home.

Soon after, Landis meets Lydia and while riding with her refuses to comment whether or not his wife "goes her own way," as he quite evidently does.

Van Vorst and his companion rush over, introductions are completed and Landis realizes that the other woman is the dancing girl, Marietta. According to the latter's scheme she flirts with Landis while Steve does his best to intrigue Lydia, not too pleased at the turn of affairs and who becomes furious when a sudden shower ruins her frock. Deciding to leave immediately, she steps into Landis' car.

"I've changed my mind about tonight," she told him, with one of her brightest smiles. "Steve really is a decent soul, and the world's growing more and more democratic every day, so why shouldn't we dine with his theatrical lady and himself, since he' set his heart on it?"

"He's set his heart on you," said Landis in a flat tone which gave no hint of feeling.

"And you think I'd better make hay while the sun shines?" She supplemented gaily, though her heart sank a little.

"It isn't for me to have any thoughts in the matter," he counter thrust.

They dined, the four of them, later that night, at a prominent table in the expensive restaurant Van Vorst had selected. The rich man loved display, and tonight—as he was well aware—he had two of the loveliest women in the room at either side of him, while opposite—giving a certain further "cachet" to the party—was the well-born and distinctly decorative Ridgeway.

Van Vorst leaned towards her, as the evening progressed and fairly purred.

"What about tomorrow on my yacht, Lyddy? It's all fixed up, and I've got a party coming. We meet at 12. Shall I call for you?"

She toyed with her iced melon, springling powdered ginger into the fruit.

"I'm not quite sure."

"The other two have agreed to come." He nodded towards the remaining members of the party.

"I'll certainly come, Steve, if I can possibly manage it. But one does get so full up, these days."

He grinned, thrusting his pudgy face nearer hers.

"My day's coming."

The music of the most delightful band in all New York struck up, and the Spanish dancer, with a glance of permission towards her host, touched Landis on the arm.

"See! Others have commenced to dance, so why not us? I cannot keep still when the air is so intriguing."

"The presumption of the creature!" thought Lydia.

The dancer moved away with Landis, into the gyrating throng, and many interested and admiring glances followed the graceful couple.

"Qutie a winner, isn't he?" tactlessly commented Van Vorst.

He was glad to have Lydia to himself, and glad that his "scheme" appeared to be working.

The scene grew gayer. "Favors" were dispensed. There were odd-shaped fans, and tall gilt canes topped by huge paper sunflowers in bright shades of pink and yellow, with green paper leaves. These the dancers carried as they danced.

Van Vorst was not in the mood for dancing, and he absorbed most of Lydia's time. He must be humored, that she knew. "Falling between two stools" wasn't in her line at all.

"When are you going to name the day, Lyddy?? I'm growing impatient."

She looked into his cunning little eyes. Layers of fat were embedded round them, and the loose brows overhung. But craftiness for the moment was overridden by a flame—and that flame was for her.

Would the man make a generous pre-nuptial settlement?

Everything depended on that fact!

From the corner of her eye, Lydia could see Landis and the Spanish girl gyrating on the ballroom floor. Once married to Van Vorst and his millions, would she really have a definite hold on her former "beau"?

The music stopped, and it was with a certain chagrin she saw Landis vigorously clapping for an encore.

"Tireless, aren't they?" Van Vorst inclined his head towards the couple.

Lydia laughed lightly.

"That's easily explained. It's the sea-air that's pumped into the ballroom. Pure ozone. Didn't you read it in the papers?"

"Some new stunt?"

She nodded.

"Quite original idea. Must have cost a fortune. One doesn't tire when one dances in this place."

Von Vorst grinned meaningly, glancing again towards the other couple.

"Men don't need sea air to 'pep' them up when they've a girl like Marietta in their arms!"

Lydia did not answer. She was furious.

Once married to this man, she'd soon put a check on his low feminine acquaintances! Yes, indeed!

But—before they left the restaurant that night—it was arranged that the four would meet on the morrow on Van Vorst's expensive yacht—and Marietta was to be a member of the party.

CHAPTER XLVIII.
Dreams of Love

Through the open windows of young Mrs. Landis Ridgeway's bedroom at Royal Cliff blew fresh and fragrant morning breezes. Scent of wild flowers mingled with the "tang" of the sea, and the sun made great splanshes on the pretty pink-and-whiteness of the partment.

It was a simple room—"quite a la jeune fille," as the bride's mother-in-law described it—and it suited Rosilyn.

Perhaps it was the only chamber in the whole big mansion that had been furnished and decorated entirely according to her own simple taste.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, May 29.—Pre-holiday feeling and sporadic selling failed to check the upward movement of stock prices today, and many industrials, oils and motors attained new highs for the season, among them being the favorites of the past month, Hudson and Maxwell.

Standard industrials displayed a firm undertone. United States Steel closed fractionally higher at 116¾ and Baldwin closed about a point higher at 119¼ after being run up to 120⅞, largely at the expense of the short interests.

Considerable irregularity developed in the automotive group. Maxwell "A" and the "A" certificates each advanced a point to new high records, while the "B" stock and the "B" certificates recorded substantial losses. Hudson Motors, Paige, Detroit and Fisher Body all advanced to new 1925 peak prices.

A sudden spurt of buying in International Paper sent that stock up to a new top at 73⅛.

Reading and Southern Railway were the strong spots in the railroad group, each moving up more than 3 points to a new high record at 9 and 97, respectively. Both these issues were heavily bought in anticipation of increased dividend disbursements.

Call money opened at 4 per cent and then eased to 3½, closing at the low figure. Time money and commercial rates were unchanged.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was quiet with rates ruling practically unchanged, demand sterling being quoted around $4.85⅝, and French francs just above 5 cents.

NEW ORLEANS, May 29.—The cotton market today was exceedingly narrow with very little disposition to trade except to even up commitments owing to the fact that all the coton markets will be closed tomorrow, the American markets for Decoration day and Liverpool in celebration of Whitsuntide. Price fluctuations were narrow and easily influenced by either small buying or selling. At the start Liverpool being lower than due, the market here opened 3 to 5 points down and soon eased off a few points more only to rally on the failure of the promised rains in the west. July trading up to 23.42, October to 22.13 and December to 22.33, or to about a level with yesterday's close or one point net higher. These figures remained the day's highs except for December, which made a new high at 22.25 just before the close.

The market gradually eased off during the morning on liquidation and evening up in advance of the holiday and the bureau report due early next week. Some rather high private reports on condition average helped the easier tone. July finally traded down to 23.24, October to 21.97, and December to 22.08, or 15 to 16 points down from the earlier highs. The market recovered about half the loss during the noon hour and ruled very quiet until near the close when prices eased off on evening up transactions, but did not make new lows and finally rallied again. The close showed net losses for the day of 12 points on July and 3 to 5 points on new crop months.

Three additional private crop reports were issued, one making the condition 74.2 and the acreage increase 6 per cent, the second 77.1, and 6.1, and the third 75 and 5. The general condition average of all the reports so far issued is 75.1. Hester made mill takings for the week 199,000 against 162,000 last year. Exports today 8,431 bales and for the week 49,279 bales.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW

NEW YORK, May 29.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

In spite of a widespread and severe frost, which is quite exceptional after the middle of May, business sentiment shows further improvement this week and evidences of some additional activity continued to appear. Operations in several of the primary markets show additional interest on the part of consumers and this has resulted in some new business. There is more inquiry for pig iron, although the market for this important product is far from satisfactory as to prices. Little indications of accumulation, however, is apparent. Substantial business is noted in some of the heavy lines of steel. The improved condition of packer bids is reflected in the fractional advance in quotations this week, but trading is only moderately active. Shoe business is exceptionally dull and this is reflected in the leather market. The tone of the primary textile markets is rather better but further curtailment of production in the cotton industry is generally prevalent. Silk industry continues very active, and knit goods operators are well employed.

Weekly bank clearings, $8,350,659,000.

Produce

AUSTIN, May 29.—At Texas points, the egg market was steady, from $7.00 to $7.25 per 30 dozen. New York market steady to firm and unchanged. Butter was unchanged this morning around 18 to 19 cents for country packing stock, 43 cents for creamery A and 42 cents for creamery B.

Hens, 18c; springs, 20@35c; roosters, 9c; turkeys, No. 1, 18@20c; geese, medium size, 75c each; ducks, 50@60c each; guineas, 25c each.

AUSTIN, May 29.—Egg receipts, New York, 29,215 cases; Chicago, 30,732 cases; Boston, 9,939 cases; Philadelphia, 6,488 cases. Storage movement a net gain to coolers of 43,591 cases, making holdings thei morning, New York, 1,066,695 cases; Chicago, 1,085,457 cases; Boston 303,704 cases; Philadelphia 295,190 cases.

Dressed poultry receipts, New York, 334,094 pounds; Chicago, 38,609 pounds; Boston, 191,326 pounds; Philadelphia, 124,690 pounds. Storage movement a net loss to cooler stocks of 195,514 pounds, leaving holdings this morning, New York, 17,804,319 pounds; Chicago, 20,252,676 pounds; Boston, 6,654,051 pounds; Philadelphia 2,757,757 pounds.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, May 29.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The wool market has slackened its pace again this week, resistance to any further marking up in values in the seaboard markets having shut off business and what sales have been made have been at last week's level.

In the bright wool sections best fine and medium wools are moving at 40 to 43 cents, for the most part occasional lots of low mediums being taken at 38 cents. In the far west, consignments are the rule with advances of about 25 cents for the most part.

Mohair is rather quiet, but steady. Quotations:

Texas fine 12 months selected, $1.25@1.30; fine 8 months, $1.12@1.15. Mohair best combings, 75@80c; best carding, 65@70c.

What's Doing — Here and There In West Texas

In Vernon

STANDIFER-MARSHBANKS.

Vernon friends of Miss Bobbie Standifer were surprised by the announcement of her marriage which took place in Wichita Falls, Wednesday to D. Marshbanks, oil operator of Vernon.

Soon after the ceremony they departed for Waxahachie to visit his mother and they will return to Vernon tomorrow.

The bride is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. E. Standifer, who moved to Lamesa about two years ago. Mrs. Standifer and daughter have been here for the past few months and with Dr. F. D. Wilson have had charge of the Wilson & Standifer sanitarium on Wilbarger street. Vernon people will be glad to know that Mrs. Marshbanks will continue to make her home in this city.

Mr. Marshbanks came here from Waxahachie the first of the year. They will be at home on their return on Wilbarger street.

EASTERN STARS MEET.

Mrs. F. P. Coffey of Wilbarger street was hostess Wednesday afternoon to members of the Past Matron and Past Patrons association.

The afternoon was spent in discussing things of interest to Eastern Stars. After the meeting was over, the advisory board of the Rainbow Girls had a business session. Mrs. W. A. Blanton tendered her resignation as mother advisor and Mrs. Walter Ladd was elected to that office. The hostess served delicious grape-pineapple ice and angel food cake. The following were present: Mrs. Rena M. Watts, Miss Susie J. Scott, Mrs. J. A. Lacky, Mrs. W. A. Blanton, Mrs. Mont King, Mrs J. E. Lutz and Mrs. Bertha A. Ross.

HOSTESS TO W. C. T. U.

Mrs. S. T. Porterfield was hostess yesterday afternoon to members of the W. C. T. U. and other invited guests at her home on Tolar street in a very delightful meeting. A feature of the meeting was a musical program by a quartet of negro women. Plans were made for Community week, June 8 to 13, at Allingham park. The hostess served a delicious ice course.

MANIS-JENNINGS WEDDING.

C. C. Manis of this city and Mrs. Ora Jennings of Electra were married Saturday at Frederick by the Baptist pastor there at his study in the church. Mr. Manis has been associated with his father here in the Postoffice filling station but has disposed of his interest here. Mr. and Mrs. Manis left Monday for San Diego, Cal., where they will make their home.

FORMER PASTOR HERE.

Dr. Robert E. Dickenson, former pastor of Vernon Methodist church, now a member of the faculty of Southern Methodist university at Dallas, was here on business this week and visiting friends. He left for Wilson where he will give the commencement address for the Wilson high school.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. Tom Lorance and little son, Tom Jr., arrived yesterday from their home in Long Beach, Cal., for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lawrence. They stopped off in Amarillo for a short visit with Mrs. Bob Bomar. Mrs. Lorance will be here about six weeks and will visit in Oklahoma before her return.

Walter Lorance will leave Saturday for Walla Walla, Wash., where he will visit his daughter, Mrs. Mollie Farmer, and family. Enroute to Washington he will visit his son, Tom Lorance, at Long Beach, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cabe and daughter, Miss Elwood, of Electra were in Vernon Wednesday enroute to Las Vegas, N. M., where Miss Elwood will attend a summer normal. Mr. Cabe accompanied them as far as Vernon.

Dow Spidle, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Alma Wright, returned to his home in Royce City last week. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss Mabel Wooten, who will also visit relatives in Whitewright.

Bill Fletcher of Memphis is here on business.

ESTES SPEAKS ON "EXCUSES" FRIDAY NIGHT

Baptist Evangelist Says He Does Not Believe In Excuses

"I do not believe in excuses," stated Dr. Estes, evangelist, last night before a large audience at the Floral Heights Baptist church. "It is my belief that excuses will not make our paths any the easier or that we will gain in the end by alibiing our way through life.

"We have been making excuses since the time of Adam. The funniest excuse offered, to my mind, is that given by one who pretends to be a Christian for not coming to church.

Don't Have Time.

"One man says he does not have time to go to church. God metes our time out to us moment by moment and we ought to use the moments as God would have us. No, you haven't time, but some of these days you are going to have time to lide down in sickness; some of these days you are going to be buried and would soul will go into Eternity unprepared—out of duty also. No, you do not have time, but God gives you the time to get ready to die and thus to get ready to live.

Another excuse is no clothing. Folks, we have more to wear than we think we have. When we get down to business and want to serve God, we will have enough clothes to wear. Don't say that, for that is the devil's excuse. And again, one gives as an excuse for not coming to church, the baby will cry and cause distaurbance in the service. If the baby cries, give it some water and fresh air and he will be all right. If a mother is willing to sacrifice and worry with the baby in order to hear me preach, I will share the worry with her and bear my part. We should use common sense and do the best we can.

"Another says I will not join the church because they don't run it right. If you know a better way to run this church than it is being run, then you are doing wrong if you do not get in and put your shoulder to the wheel and help us to make it go.

"Somebody says they fuss too much in the church. I would not have much faith in a church that did not fuss. I do not expect families to not fuss. I do not mean that you need to fight, but where individuals do individual thinking, there is going to a cross, and a difference of opinion. So you ought to go in and help to bring about peace and co-operation on God's work. You ought to get in, and you are going to do this church a favor if you will quit telling other folks you are a Baptist and not get in. You are not a Baptist, you need to be, but you got too sorry. I could not respect a soldier who would sit out here and watch the army fight and would not get in and help win the battle; I have not much use for a man who claims to be a Baptist but who will not get in the army and help to win lost people to Jesus Christ.

"Lost people make excuses. I sympathize with people who are lost—they are blind and cannot see. They have such frivilous excuses; I cannot give up the pleasures of the world—dancing (jumping-jack,) dancing, etc. I am against anything that comes between man and his duty to God. If you are not saved, turn loose of these things and come to Jesus, because all the devil has will not pay you off in the Last Day. How little the things of this life amount to. One who thinks along that line, has such a little vision; how one loves this world and its pleasures. You think it is all right while you are well and buoyant in life to say you love the world better than you do your soul and God; but the things of this world pass away and only the things that last through Eternity are worth while. God will help you to enjoy the good things of this life and serve him and amount to something while you live.

I Am too Mean.

"Another says, I am too mean. If you are a good man, there is no salvation; if you are good man there is no message; Jesus came to earth and died to save the LOST. If you are going toward hell then Jesus died for you; turn away from your sin and come to Jesus; His blood can wash you and make you as white as snow; turn to the Lord, won't you? Paul said: 'I am chief of sinners.'"

COMEDY AT THE PALACE

"Irish" Bottomer To Sing Another Of His New Songs

After five days of unusual success, the Jolly Flappers, musical comedy company at the Palace theatre, offer something different today when Charles "Irish" Bottomer sings "Flapper Wife."

The play for the day will be a three-act comedy entitled "The Widow's Peck," a three-act comedy interspersed with songs and dances by the comedy troupe and other entertainers. The play will feature "Big Boy" McBride in the role of an old maid.

In addition there will be the Martin sisters in a dancing and singing act. These versatile actors will also put on a novelty act.

Sam Luto, the cornet expert, will add his share to the program. Baby Lorraine, the five-year-old tot, will sing "Doodle Doo Doo." Billy DeRu will sing a feature song and several others.

"Irish" Bottomer, above, has long ago gained a reputation for cleverness in musical comedy that places him at the top of the list. Today he will sing a new song and one that is certain to be a favorite.

WEEKS GOES UNDER KNIFE

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP)—Secretary of War John W. Weeks was operated upon today at the Phillips House, Massachusetts general hospital, for gall stones. A bulletin issued by Dr. Daniel Fiske Jones, the operating surgeon, said that Mr. Weeks' condition was good.

"Old Home Week" Will Show Here For Indefinite Run

A Pathe News, an Oesop's Film Fables, an old time fiddler and guitar player and Thomas Meighan in "Old Home Week" a Paramount picture by George Ade is the Olympic theatre's attractive program for Sunday. This program is the result of Mayor R. E. Shepherd's Old Home Week Proclamation setting aside the week of May 31 to June 6th as a time for the home coming of as many as possible of those who have made their former homes here and for the gathering in Wichita Falls during the week of out of town people who would avail themselves of the many attractive offers made by local merchants. Possibly no better boost could be given Wichita Falls at this time when the city is in the midst of its biggest building boom in history and sings of prosperity on every corner than the bringing here of a large number of out of town people.

Rev. Hoyt Delivers The Graduating Address To Students

"Knowledge, alone, of religion, and how to live a good life is not sufficient: it requires practice," was the keynote of an address on "Service" to the graduating class of Saint Mary's academy delivered by the Rev. Lawrence Hoyt, O. S. B., at the commencement exercises which were held Friday evening at the Junior college auditorium.

Expects Much.

"The world has a right to expect much of you, it expects service. Christ set a program for your lives, and its key to success is service. All virtuousness has as its foundation a firm faith in God," the speaker declared impressively. The text for the address soever will be great among you, let him be your minister.

Miss Sybil Martin delivered the salutatorian's address following the opening chorus, Raff's "Ave Maria," and Miss Catherine Ruddy delivered the valedictory. Musical numbers were given by graduates and students in a delightful program.

Gold Medals.

Gold medals and diplomas certifying the completion of four years of high school work were conferred upon Misses Catherine Ruddy, Mary Margaret Lewis, Mary Louise Constantin, Sybil Martin, Adele Constantin and Mildred Swick.

Certificates for the completion of eighth grade work were awarded to the following: Nell Duffy, Constantin Duffy, Mary Elizabeth O'Connell, Margaret Hopkins, Charlotte Kennedy, Louise Coffey, Alice Markey, Bettie Walker, Opal Conner, Dorothy Everts, Inelle Powell, Erie Ward and Melvin Lewis, Clarence Fowler, Henry Eckert, Ed Moran, Richard Delaney, Sam Bonneau, Joseph Bilkowski, Lawrence Womack, John Kennedy, Robert Guy and Eugene Leowald.

You will recognize these lines from the poem inspired by the World War—Colonel John McCray's "In Flanders Fields."

His message rings true wherever men pause in the routine of their lives to gain a renewed spirit of consecration to the country from homage they give the memory of men who died for country in all our wars.

Let us pause today and hail those brave ones who have thrown the torch and have passed on before us that our country might be free for democracy.

ESTES SPEAKS ON "EXCUSES" FRIDAY NIGHT

Baptist Evangelist Says He Does Not Believe In Excuses

"I do not believe in excuses," stated Dr. Estes, evangelist, last night before a large audience at the Floral Heights Baptist church. "It is my belief that excuses will not make our paths any the easier or that we will gain in the end by alibiing our way through life.

"We have been making excuses since the time of Adam. The funniest excuse offered, to my mind, is that given by one who pretends to be a Christian for not coming to church.

Don't Have Time.

"One man says he does not have time to go to church. God metes our time out to us moment by moment and we ought to use the moments as God would have us. No, you haven't time, but some of these days you are going to have time to lide down in sickness; some of these days you are going to be buried and would soul will go into Eternity unprepared—out of duty also. No, you do not have time, but God gives you the time to get ready to die and thus to get ready to live.

Another excuse is no clothing. Folks, we have more to wear than we think we have. When we get down to business and want to serve God, we will have enough clothes to wear. Don't say that, for that is the devil's excuse. And again, one gives as an excuse for not coming to church, the baby will cry and cause distaurbance in the service. If the baby cries, give it some water and fresh air and he will be all right. If a mother is willing to sacrifice and worry with the baby in order to hear me preach, I will share the worry with her and bear my part. We should use common sense and do the best we can.

"Another says I will not join the church because they don't run it right. If you know a better way to run this church than it is being run, then you are doing wrong if you do not get in and put your shoulder to the wheel and help us to make it go.

"Somebody says they fuss too much in the church. I would not have much faith in a church that did not fuss. I do not expect families to not fuss. I do not mean that you need to fight, but where individuals do individual thinking, there is going to a cross, and a difference of opinion.
