M'GREGOR WILL HEAD CLEARING HOUSE AGAIN

First National President Is Re-Elected Saturday By Bankers

CLEARINGS SAVING

Report For Week Shows Bank Figures On Increase

W. M. McGregor, president of the First National bank will again head the Wichita Falls Clearing House association during the ensuing year as the result of the annual election held by the members at their monthly luncheon Saturday noon. Mr. McGregor has been president of the local clearing house for several years.

H. L. Hunter, secretary of the Empire Mortgage company, was re-elected manager for the year. C. C. Cabiness, vice-president of the Security National bank was elected vice-president, and Oral Jones, cashier of the City National bank and city finance commissioner was elected secretary and treasurer.

Important Discussions.

Several important banking matters were discussed at the luncheon, which was attended by active officers from each of the four Wichita Falls banks. It was decided to meet monthly for the purpose of drawing up reports on banking conditions in the city and also to allow the officers to keep their fingers on daily clearings and other routine work of the banks. The next mting was set for Jun 16 at the Wichita club.

Saturday the clearing house announced that slowly but surely bank clearings are convalescing from the setback they received San Jacinto week when, for the first time during the year, the total was below $3,000,000. For two weeks in a row the clearings have been well over the "par" mark and show a continued increase.

$3,474,680 For Week.

Clearings for the past week totaled $3,474,860.75, an increase of $15,982.02 over the preceding seven days. This mark is only a little below the record total for any week this year and it is probable that before the summer months and their natural slumps come, local clearings will have gone over the $4,000,000 mark.

Tuesday was a record day for the year. The clearings in the four banks for that day were $755,102.82, which passes over the best so this year by several thousand.

Clearings for the past week as reported by the Wichita Falls Bank Clearing association follow:

|---|---|
| Monday | $ 571,912.33 |
| Tuesday | 755,102.82 |
| Wednesday | 575,960.36 |
| Thursday | 499,911.81 |
| Friday | 455,543.03 |
| Saturday | 616,429.50 |
| Total | $3,474,860.75 |
| Last week | 3,322,878.02 |
| Increase | $ 151,982.73 |

NEW YORK, May 16.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows an excess reserve of $65,676,640. This is an increase of $42,373,750 over last week's figures.

Budget Estimates Submitted By Mayor Shepherd And Adopted Saturday

$933,071 REVENUE

Tax Rate of $1.30 on $100 Valuation Figured On By Commissioners

Wichita Falls taxpayers during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1926, will have paid for $922,797.39 worth of operating, maintenance, improvement, note funding, interest and sinking fund expenses, Mayor R. E. Shepherd revealed Saturday in submitting to the city council his annual budget estimates. The budget, which is really the city's financial program for the twelve-month period, was passed by the commissioners and City Attorney W. E. George instructed to draft a budget ordinance at once and submit it for adoption.

In settling on the $922,797.39 figure as expenditures, the budget shows an available income for the same period of $933,071.66. This is derived mainly, of course, from taxes. A tentative tax rate of $1.30 per $100 assessed valuation was used in figuring revenue on a total city valuation of $41,000,000. This rate, Mayor Shepherd has said, will probably be adopted. It will represent a 20 cent decrease from the $1.50 rate effective the last three years.

Revenue from taxation will be $516,000, the budget report shows; from miscellaneous sources it will be $370,175, while cash on hand amounts to $46,296.66, thus giving the $933,071.66 total.

In a number of instances Mayor Shepherd demande da sharp decrease in the budget estimates submitted by the various departmental directors. This was especially true in the fire, inspection and park departments.

To actually operate and maintain the various departments, the city must have $416,257.38, and to do it, revenues of $420,032.43 are in sight. The rest of the expense is accounted for by warrant note payments, water funding and interest and sinking funds. The interest and sinking fund alone will amount of $180,114.29. A total of $182,450 has been provided for it.

The following table shows estimated expenses of the five main operating departments, together with the amounts estimated to be available from revenues:

| Dept. | Expenses | Revenues |
|---|---|---|
| General | $247,949.95 | $248,250.00 |
| Street | 64,290.00 | 64,328.00 |
| Sewer | 40,175.00 | 40,175.00 |
| Park | 85,510.00 | 85,056.00 |
| Library | 12,232.43 | 12,232.43 |
| Totals | $416,257.38 | $420,032.43 |
| W'nt. notes | $ 37,650.00 | $ 38,528.28 |
| Water fund | 285,775.72 | 282,466.82 |
| Int. snkg. | 180,114.29 | 182,450.00 |
| Grand total | $922,797.39 | $923,071.66 |

RAINS IN MIDDLE WEST.

High Winds and Forest Fires Add to Damage.

CHICAGO, May 16.—(AP)—Heavy rains, high winds, hail and forest fires swept sections of the middle wets last night and today, causing a property less that will run into several hundred thousand dollars.

Oklahoma and Missouri were hardest hit by the storm which interrupted wire communications in certain parts of these states, greatly damaging crops and caused a heavy property loss. While rain in the northwest did some damage, it also proved a blessing, for it aided in putting out forest fries in northern Minnesota and helped crops in the southern part of the state.

LEAVES PEN; WIFELESS.

Wife of Convict Slain While Husband Was Serving Sentence.

Following his release after serving a three-year sentence, Ward left for Colorado, where his wife's slayer will be executed shortly.

Mrs. Ward was slain in her lonely ranch home in Colorado in 1923. Ward was permitted to go home to bury his wife.

Later the Mexican ranch hand, who had killed Mrs. Ward in a robbery, was apprehended, convicted and sentenced to the gallows.

RELIEF TO OUTPOSTS.

French Force of 50 Depleted to Six After Rebel Siege.

PARIS, May 16.—The relief by General Colombat's forces today of the advanced French outpost at Aouley, where half a dozen French soldiers remained unwounded out of a total force of 50 after a two-weeks siege under constant artillery and machine gun fire by Abd-El-Krim's invading Riffians is regarded in military circles here as closing the first phase of the French offensive against the rebellious tribesmen.

The next turn in the operations, it is believed, will depend on where Abd-El-Krim will make his attacks.

REED SHOCKED AT DEATH.

Missouri Senator Grieved When He Hears of Spencer.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 16.—(AP)—This comes as a great surprise. I am very sorry to hear it, Senator James A. Reed, senior United States senator from Missouri said tonight when informed of the death in Washington of Senator Selden P. Spencer.

Add Him to the Immortals

EARL H. SANDE

In riding Flying Ebony to an impressive victory in the Kentucky Derby at Louisville yesterday Earle Sande stamped himself as the undisputed jockey king of America. Formerly holding that title, a recent fall in which he was badly hurt robbed him of much prestige and it is recounted that he was forced to beg for a second-rate mount before he could enter the derby at all. His masterful riding was responsible more than anything else for Flying Ebony's showing.

Fashion's Elect Ruined As Storm Hits Pace As Fast As Flying Ebon's

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—Costly wearing apparel, designed along delightful lines, lost their grace, colors literally and actually ran riot while the wearers, thoroughly miserable in the face of the pitiless downpour, scampered for shelter that was nowhere available at the Kentucky derby races here today. Thousands of beautifully gowned women had to stand and face the music of the drenching rain, their fashionable creations drooping and ruined and their clothes clinging to their rain-soaked bodies. Leaders in society, gowned in creations designed by artists in Paris and New York, sat in the choice box seats out in the open without the protection of the roof of the clubhouse. When the storm broke they broke for shelter, and before the few that got there had reached their haven of refuge, they looked as if they had been thrown into the Ohio river and then hung out to dry. Tears streaming shamelessly down the faces of many showed that their joy of a derby day had been turned to sadness.

When the rain finally did cease, it was all too late—thousands of dollars' worth of beautiful clothing had been ruined and thousands of equally beautiful women were miserably uncomfortable.

Lubbock Citizens Sign Contract For New Denver Line

LUBBOCK, May 16.—One hundred local citizens today signed a contract with the Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company officials to the immediate construction of a line chartered as the Fort Worth and Denver City South Plains Railway company, to run from a point on the Denver near Childress to Lubbock.

More than $175,000 negotiable notes signed by over 1,000 Lubbock citizens backs up the contract on Lubbock's part, while a bond of $100,000 guaranteeing the railway company's compliance with the provisions of the contract has been filed.

Takes Carbolic Acid At Husband's Home

WALTERS, Okla., May 16.—Mrs. Reece Sudge is critically ill here as the result of drinking carbolic acid.

The young woman, who is but 18 years of age, this afternoon came to the home of her husband from whom she had been separated and later was found unconscious on the floor, an empty bottle by her side.

No one was at the house when she arrived.

VEATHER HOLDS EXPLORER.

Amundsen Awaits First Good Weather for Dash North.

OSLO, Norway, May 16.—The shipping Gazette published here in the Norwegian capital, states that Roald Amundsen, the explorer, will start his air dash to the North Pole whenever meteorologists think that a period of good weather has set in. Amundsen will not wait until the end of May or the beginning of June, as he previously planned, but will start direct for the pole from Spitzbergen without landing at Danes Island.

His airplanes are in perfect condition and are being tested daily, the journal states, but weather conditions still are troubling the explorer.

Changes Adopted In Evangelism Dept. At Baptist Meeting

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 16—Important changes in the department of evangelism of the home mission board today were adopted by the Southern Baptist convention before bringing to a close the convention's 70th annual meeting.

A virtual re-establishment of the department urged through Dr. Len G. Broughton, Jacksonville, its chairman, will result in the board electing at its next annual meeting a superintendent of evangelism who will be charged with the conduct of the department of evangelism in its entirety.

MAN HELD FOR BIGAMY

Wife Waits in South Texas for Man Married By Common Law.

WACO, May 16.—Charged with bigamy, through a common law marriage with an 18-year-old woman, also married, while his own wife and eight children wait for him in South Texas, J. D. Galbraith, 50-year-old farmer and restaurant-keeper is in the county jail here today and is said by County Attorney C. S. Farmer to have signed a full confession to the charge. The woman with him is also alleged to have confessed, but no charge has been filed against her.

RICH; PITIED AS PAUPER.

For 30 Years Was Considered Poverty Stricken But Had Thousands.

CHICAGO, May 16.—For 30 years Andrew Long, who died yesterday at the age of 74, ran a hotel freight elevator and had the sympathy of fellow employes because of his supposed poverty.

But when attaches of the public administrators office yesterday rummaged through his bed in a flop house, they found $20,000 worth of mail order company bonds, a bank account of $1,000 and keys to two safe deposit boxes.

RAIN AROUND LUBBOCK

Half Inch Falls Saturday Afternoon in West Texas.

LUBBOCK, May 16.—A half-inch of rain fell over a large area in the vicinity of Lubbock this afternoon, making conditions favorable to thousands of acres of newly planted crops.

TRIPLE THREAT OF BLACKNESS TAKES CLASSIC AT THE DOWNS

PAYS $8.30 FOR $2

Earl Sande Retains Place In Hall of Sportdom's Immortals

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 16.—(AP)—Between a brisk shower that sprung up a few minutes before the start of the race and a terrific downpour that soaked thousands of spectators to the skin, Flying Ebon, a little horse, black as night, raced to immortal victor in the 150,000 Kentucky derby today, defeating a field of 19 of the nation's finest three-year-olds.

The little black colt, owned by Gifford A. Cochran of New York, and superbly ridden by Earl Sande, America's premier jockey, finished one and a half lengths ahead of Captain Hal, a Louisville eowned colt, stepping this mile and a quarter distance in 2:07-3-5. Son of John came thundering back of Captain Hal, losing second place by a scant nose. Single Foot trailing three lengths behind Son of John, finished fourth, a half length ahead of Step Along, in fifth place.

Bud Fisher's Sixth.

Swope, owned by Bud Fisher, the famous cartoonist was sixth and the Prince of Bourbon trailed in seventh. Then came Needle Gun and then Kentucky Cardinal, the colt which G. Frank Croissant, youthful Chicago millionaire, recently purchesed for $70,000, so that he might have a horse in America's greatest turf classic.

Boon Companion finishing tenth followed Kentucky Cardinal to the wire with Broadway Jones in desperate pursuit. The overwhelmingly played favorite Quatrain, winner of the Louisiana derby and New Orleans handicap, carrying a ton of money, struggled across the finish badly beaten for 12th place. After Quatrain came Almadel, Backbone, Sweeping Away, Elector, The Bat, Lee Oe Cotner, Voltaic and Chief Uncas, floundering across the wire in the order named.

Almost 100 to 1.

Flying Ebon coupled in the company of the others, comprising the mutual field, paid his backers $8.30 for each $2 invested on his chances. The place price was $3.80 and the show money $2.80. If Flying Ebon had not been included in the mutual field, his orders undoubtedly would have reached 100 to 1.

Captain Hal, rewarded his backers with $5.50 to place and $4.40 to show. A show ticket in the mutuels paid $5.50 on Son of John.

The race, witnessed by from 70,000 to 80,000 spectators, the greatest throng that ever witnessed a horse race

Savings of Lifetime Are Stolen on Ship

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)—The saving of a life time, hoarded for their return to Poland their homeland, were stolen from an aged couple in third class quarters on the liner paris by two thieves just before the liner sailed for Europe today.

Ignatious Worozyniec and his wife, both 75 years of age of Kings Park, Long Island, sailed without a money belt containing $2,500 in gold which they had saved for the home going. A man they knew only as "Joe" who had posed as a friend and a fake customs inspector managed to get the belt away from them. Police were unable to trace the thieves.

EXPENSE ACCOUNT APPEALED

Bell County Sheriff Seeks to Collect Big Account.

BELTON, May 16.—An appeal is to be taken to the third court of civil appeals at Austin in the case of Sheriff John R. Bigham of Bell county against the state for collection of mileage fees totaling $5,054. The attorney general has held the claim illegal.

In serving warrants on three persons indicted in several cases the sheriff claimed the fees in each case, although only one trip was made to serve the papers in each case.

TO SWEAR HE IS BOY

Mother to Take Stand in Behalf of Alleged Impostor.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 16.—Mrs. Hannah Frazier, wife of Rev. Charles Frazier, Indian Methodist minister of Winner, S. D., will go on the stand in federal court here Monday to testify for Arthur Lopez-Frazier who is suing the government for disability compensation and seeking to establish his identity as Arthur Frazier, Indian World war veteran.

Mrs. Frazier said tonight that she will swear in court that Lopez-Frazier is her son, Arthur Frazier, although the defense asserts that Frazier is dead, and that the plaintiff is Arthur Lopez, a Mexican.

TO PRESENT OLD COINS

High Government Officials to Receive Money Pieces of Confederacy.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 16—The first eight Confederate memorial coins will be presented by the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental association to high officials of the United States government and heads of four Confederate organizations, it was announced tonight.

The presentation will be made next week at the Confederate reunion in Dallas, Texas

Hindenburg Still Kaiser Symbol, Despite Disavowal

U. S. SENATOR FROM MISSOURI DIES SUDDENLY

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Senator Selden P. Spencer of St. Louis died suddenly here tonight at Walter Reid hospital.

The death of the senator, who was 63 years of age, came as a shock as he had been in good spirits today and his early recovery had been expected. He was operated on about ten days ago for hernia.

Only the attending physician and a nurse were at the bedside when death came. At noon, his secretary said tonight, Mr. Spencer was well enough to dictate and sign some mail. He seemed in excellent spirits and joked frequently with his nurse. Physicians had expected he would be out of the hospital within a week.

No Funeral Plans.

Funeral arrangements will not be announced, it was said tonight, until relatives have had time to make definite plans. Burial probably will be in Missouri.

Senator Spencer was serving his second term in congress, having been elected in 1918 over Joseph W. Folk, democrat, by a majority of 35,000 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William J. Stone. He was re-elected in 1919 by a majority of 121,000 over Breckenridge Long.

GOVERNOR SHOCKED AT DEATH OF SENATOR

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 16. (AP)—Governor Sam A. Baker, when informed tonight by the Associated Press of the death in Washington of United States Senator Selden P. Spencer declared that he was "greatly shocked." He added that the passing of the junior senator from Missouri was a "very sad occurrence."

The governor declined to make any further statement tonight, but said that he would probably issue a statement Sunday regarding the death of Senator Spencer and matters incident to the selection of a successor.

CARPENTERS TO CONVENE.

Waco to Be Host to State Union for Several Days' Convention.

WACO, May 16.—The annual convention of the Texas State Council of Carpenters will convene in Waco Monday for a session of several days.

R. E. Roberts of Dallas, secretary-treasurer of the council, arrived in Waco with the finance committee composed of Victor Ridgway of Houston, Henry T. De Hart of San Antonio and . H. Smith of Dallas to audit the books of the organization prior to the meeting here Monday.

BERLIN, May 16.—(AP)—A terrific explosion occurred today in pit five of the Dortsfeld mine near Dortmund, which subsequently spread to pits 2 and 3. Two hundred and fifty-five miners are missing.

PRESBYS MAY NOT FUSS

Controversy May Not Assume Big Proportions at Meet.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 16.—The modernist-fundamentalist controversy may not reach dominating proportions in deliberations of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. here next week in the opinion of assembly leaders who began arriving today.

They admit that it will be one of the subjects of greatest interest and that both sides will make a determined effort to achieve victory but it was the belief of many that there would be no drastic action taken in regard to the liberal

Coleman Sheriff, Shot by a Negro, Dies of Wounds

COLEMAN, May 16.—Sheriff Dick Pauley, who was shot yesterday by a negro, died at 5:30 today at Orvall Memorial hospital here.

The negro who shot Sherill Pauley was spirited away early this morning by Sheriff McWilliams of Ballenger and Detective Futch of Coleman, who are believed to have taken him to Brownwood where they turned him over to other officers who transferred him elsewhere, it si believed.

Pauley was shot as he was trying to arrest the negro.

Fear 7 Boys Lost In Florida Swamp; Search Is Started

TAMPA Fla., May 16.—Telephone message from Plant City late tonight said seven boys ranging in age from 10 to 13 years were lost in an almost impenetrable swamp 15 miles northwest of that place. The boys were frightened from the scene of a church picnic by what were believed to have been a group of drunken revelers it was said.

Organized bands of searchers have been a group of drunken revelers it ing in a hunt for the boys.

Eleven boys originally formed the picnic party which left Plant City Friday afternoon to spend the night at Lake Thonotossa. They were accompanied by John Branch, a Sunday school teacher who returned to Plant City after leaving them at the lake.

Four of the boys made their way to Plant City today and told of an attack by a band of men, who, they said, were under the influence of intoxicants. The boys fled into the woods, they said, were separated and became lost.

ALLEGED CAR THIEF CAUGHT

Wichita Officer Goes to Lubbock to Bring Man Back to City.

Night Chief Allen of the city police force, left last night for Lubbock to bring back a man held there for the theft of an automobile here some time ago from J. W. Cram of this city. ### SHOOTS WIFE AND SELF

Motorist Sees Man Turn Gun on Self at Murder.

TULSA, Okla., May 16.—Domestic difficulties are believed to have caused the death of Mr. and Mrs. Tony W. Peine, formerly of Neosho, Mo., who were found in their car on a country road south of here late today. An unidentified motorist telephoned the Tulsa county sheriff that he had seen a man shoot a woman and then turn the gun on himself.

Mrs. Peine was dead when she was found and Peine died at a hospital tonight.

Dallas Provides a Special City For Confederate Vets

DALLAS, May 16.—A modern hotel city, capable of housing 3,000 persons in comfort, has risen at Fair Park here for the thirty-fifth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans. The buildings of the fair grounds have been fitted up to permit the veterans to camp out if they desire, and to retell the story of the great war before their own camp fires. Arrnagements have been made at the grounds to feed 2,500 at one sitting and food is being bought to care for 3,000 or more at a single meal. Twelve army ranges will be used, and 40 cooks, 36 dish washers and 80 waiters will be employed.

This is but one phase of the arrangements. Dallas has provided for the 4,000 veterans and 30,000 sons and daughters of veterans expected. Flags of the confederacy float from every building and store tonight as a greeting to the first arrivals expected tomorrow.

Texan and Studio Hotels to Combine

Consolidation of the Texan and Studio hotels on Seventh street and Ohio avenue into one large hostelry to be known as the Texan-Studio hotel has been announced by G. M. Holt, manager of the Texan hotel and Wylie Wyatt, owner of the Studio building.

Actual operation of the Studio hotel will be taken over Monday morning by Mr. Holt, and an improvement program begun. The ball room of the Studio hotel is to be remade into living quarters, and the two buildings connected on the second floor by a run-way across the alley.

The new arrangement will place more than 125 rooms at the new hotel's disposal.

N. Y. Baptist Fight Looms When Church Calls New Pastor

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP)—A call by the so-called Rockefeller church of the Baptist denomination to the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, long a center of fundamentalist controversy among Presbyterians, seems destined to create a similar stir among Baptists.

Announcement yesterday that the trustees of the Park Avenue Baptist church had called Dr. Fosdick to succeed Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin was followed immediately by a challenge from Rev. Dr. Roach Straton, pastor of Cavalry Baptist church and champion of fundamentalism.

He said that he had long expected some such step as the result of the "deteriorating influence of great waelth no religion." A protest could be expected from other Baptist churches in New York, he added. John D. Rockefeller Jr. is one of the trustees of the Park Avenue church. The trustees and the deacons have approved startling conditions set by Dr. Fosdick for his acceptance of the call. These stipulations among other things is that the church shall not insist upon the Baptist principle of baptism by immersion; that it shall open its membership for all Christians and move from Park avenue up town near Columbia university, building a skyscraper temple with club rooms and other features.

Dr. Woelfkin, who resigned last Sunday on account of age, indorses Dr. Fosdick's conditions. They will be voted on next Friday by the 500 communicants of the church and approval is generally expected.

Dr. Fosdick was forced to resign as assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church of New York when he refused to become a member of that faith as demanded by the Presbyterian general assembly.

Terror Reigns In San Antonio Until Mexican Is Caught

SAN ANTONIO, May 16.—A reign of terror in which attempted aottacks were made on defenseless women in four sections of the city is believed ended with the capture Friday night of a Mexican, believed to be insane.

The man was caught after a chase of more than a mile, following his attempt to force an entry into the home of Mrs. L. A. Garettson on South Flores street.

"Let me in," he stormed at Mrs. Garettson, who ran to the rear of her house screaming. He brandished a knife and threatened the woman.

He ran as persons were attracted by the cries of the frightened woman.

Mrs. A. Peckins, upon seeing him leave the Garettson home, enlisted the aid of Mrs. H. Tallman, who was driving by in an automobile.

The Mexican, seeing his pursuers close behind, sought to enter the residence of Mrs. H. R. Holxman. Also unsuccessful in this attempt, he fled to Gunether street and thence to South Alamo street, where he was caught by a motorcycle officer.

Police believe the man to be the one who Thursday night attempted to attack the two daughters of M. D. McCollough as they sat on the front porch of their home. He continued to terrorize the neighborhood for an hour.

The night before an attempted attack was made on Miss Essie Robbins in front of her home.

Shepherd Goes On Trial for Life In Chicago on Monday

CHICAGO, May 16.—(AP)—With both prosecution and defense predicting little difficulty in selecting a jury and disposing of other preliminaries, William Darling Shepherd will go on trial for his life before Judge Thomas J. Lynch Monday morning on a charge of murdering his foster son William Nelson McClintock, to obtain his fortune, estimated at over $1,000,000.

Several witnesses whose names have not been connected with the case previously, were questioned at the office of the state's attorney today, and it was announced that an additional list would probably be submitted by the prosecution at the opening of court Monday. At least 66 witnesses will be heard at the trial, it was said, the defense having announced that it would call 26 and the prosecution 40 or more. The exact number summoned by the prosecution will depend upon how deeply it is allowed to go into the death of young McClintock's mother 16 years ago for which a coroner's jury recently held Shepherd responsible, Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman said tonight.

But regardless of the number, Charles C. Faiman, proprietor of a school of bacteriology who has confessed to giving Shepherd typhoid germs to administer to his foster son, is regarded as the star witness for the state. Rumors of last minute surprise witnesses were current today, but Mr. Gorman refused to add their names to the list already known to the public.

A report that Mrs. Shepherd, in whose favor a grand jury recently returned a "no bill" on a charge of having been an accessory to the murder of McClintock, planned to sit beside her husband at each session of the trial caused officials of the state's attorneys' office to take steps to prevent her. Mr. Gorman said that the state would strenuously oppose her leaving the seats reserved for spectators at any time during the trial.

Ford After U. S. Fleet, But As Scrap Metal

The proposed purchase of 400 government-built vessels from the United States shipping board by Henry Ford would not make him the greatest shipping-master in the world, as stated. For it is now known that the Detroit auto manufacturer plans to scrap most of the craft for their metals and fittings, using only a few of the better ones in his private fleet of freighters. Some of the shipping board vessels the motor magnate is negotiating with T. V. O'Connor, shipping board chairman, to buy, are seen tied up in the Hog Island shipyard, Philadelphia.

Pay Up! U. S. Demand To European Debtors

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP)—The American government has advised its European debtors that in its opinion the time has come for settlement.

In a communication addressed to nine nations it has expressed an earnest desire that the war debt question be brought to a solution without further delay.

The nations so notified are: France, Italy, Belgium, Roumania, Greece, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, Esthonia and Latvia.

In addition Ambassador Herrick at Paris has informed the French government that the Washington government would be pleased if a French debt commission were sent to this country. Some inkling of the conversations with France previously had been permitted to reach the public, but it was not disclosed until today that Washington had taken the initiative in seeking a general refunding agreement with all her principal war debtors.

They Owe Uncle Sam 7 Billion

If paid today, the debts of the nine circulated governments to Washington would amount to $7,100,978,695 and the total is increasing daily as the interest column mounts.

These calculations do not include Armenia, which owes $14,950,479, but which has no government recognized by Washington, or Liberia, whose total indebtedness to the United States is less than $36,000. Russia owes about $200,000,000.

| Country | Principal | Accrued Interest | Totals |
|---|---|---|---|
| Czecho-Slovakia | 91,879,611 | 25,799,424 | 117,679,095 |
| Esthonia | 13,999,145 | 3,794,875 | 17,794,020 |
| France | 3,340,316,043 | 870,040,905 | 4,210,356,948 |
| Greece | 15,00 3,000 | 2,625,000 | 17,625,000 |
| Italy | 1,647,869,197 | 490,674,655 | 2,138,543,852 |

Joe Denton to Be None Worse After Day or so—Report

Joe Denton, Amarillo boxer who was knocked out in the sixth round of his fight with Clyde Hull at the American legion bouts Friday night, is still in the eneral hospital Saturday, hurt much less seriously than was at first feared. His skull was not fractured, as was at first thought, nor was his jaw broken, as early medical examination had reported.

After regaining consciousness early Saturday morning he improved rapidly. It was planned for a time that he should leave the hospital Saturday, but later it was decided to allow him to remain until Sunday in order that he could fully recover.

COLORADO—Bandmaster Goldman of the Colorado Gold Medal band has prven his efficiency by winning the position as the official band of the West Texas chamber of commerce for the year 1925.

DERBY

in America was decided under highly dramatic conditions. After a day of glorious sunshine, black clouds suddenly gathered in the southwest, threatening a deluge every second. When the officials saw the approach of the impending storm, it was hurriedly decided to advance the post time 20 minutes in an attempt to best the oncoming downpour.

About two minutes before the 20 thoroughbreds were lined up at the barrier for their start a brisk shower started falling, driving the thousands of gaily attired spectators, forced to stand out in the open, to the shelter of already packed stands and betting sheds beneath.

The shower suddenly ceased as quickly as it had started, but the instant the race was finished, a terrific downpour cut loose, soaking thousands to the skin.

East vs. West.

The race was a traditional struggle between East and West, the triumphant Flying Ebony, one of the 11 eastern thoroughbreds in the 20 engaged in the contest, is eastern only in ownership. He was bred in old Kentucky and is by The Finn-Princess Mary. The Finn was father of Zev, winner of the 1923 derby and like Zev, Flying Ebony was supposed to be only a sprinter. He had never raced over a route longer than six furlongs, and as a 2-year-old won two out of five starts. He finished third once and fourth on the other two occasions.

Flying Ebony's victory gave the colt's owner, Gifford A. Cochran, his second turf trjumph within 10 days as his Coventry won the $50,000 Preakness a week ago yesterday. A. A. Kaiser of Louisville, owner of Captain Hal, finishing second, took a chance and both lost and won. The owner of Captain Hal, a comparatively poor man, had refused offers ranging from $50,000 upward for the son of Black Toney-Wavering, in order to start him in the derby. He lost the race, but he won $6,000 as second place money and had the distinction of seeing his derby candidate the only one of the heavy favorites to finish in the money.

The masterful ride of Sande undoubtedly was one of the principal reasons for Flying Ebony's triumph. When the barrier was sprung, the crafty Sande got Flying Ebony away on the fourth place and quickly shot into the lead, holding it until the finish except for a few seconds, between the half and three-quarters poles when Captain Hal displaced him. But when the mile post was reached Sande had Flying Ebony back in the lead by half a length and he clung tenaciously to this advantage.

Begged For Mount.

It is strange to relate that Sande, who only recently returned to the saddle after recovering from a broken leg, which doctors had told him would end his turf career, actually went from stable to stable, begging for a mount before being granted the privilege of riding Flying Ebony. He attempted to buy for $2,000 the mount on Quatrain from Jockey Breuning, only last Thursday. After failing to gain a mount on one of the more favored thoroughbreds, he succeeded in persuading owner Cochran to let him be astride Flying Ebony.

Sande had piloted Zev to victory in the 1923 derby and he was eager to participate in the 1925 classic to convince his friends that his distressing accident of last fall had not dulled his racing ability. Like Flying Ebony, Sande felt he was an outcast in today's race. Astride the Cochran colt, Sande was a soothing, sympathetic, encouraging comrade, accompanying Flying Ebony on his mighty mission—the mission of justifying faith in the few who believed in his ability to trumph.

Tribute to Trainer.

Flying Ebony's race was a tribute to William Duke as a conditioner of horses. Duke only recently returned to America after spending several years in France as a trainer. Flying Ebony was perfectly trained. The time, 2:07 3-5 is comparatively slow for the derby but the track was sufficiently sloppy to make footing treacherous and Sande who made his own pace most of the time knew what it was all about all of the time. The fractional time was :24 4-5; :47 3-5; 1:12 3-5; 1:30 3-5 and 2:07 3-5.

Flying Ebony's victory marked the second consecutive year that the greatest honor that can come to horse flesh, the winning of the Kentucky derby was captured by a black colt, Black Gold, last year's winner, being every bit as black in color as this year's immortal.

Two Brothers Go To Trial for Alleged Tulsa Embezzlement

ernment opened its case today against A. E. Lewis and W. L. Lewis, brothers, charged with a number of irregularities in connection with the failure of the Liberty National bank at Tulsa.

Frank Lee, United States district attorney for the eastern district of Oklahoma, in presenting the prosecution's opening statement, told the pury the government would seek to prove that the Lewis brothers had conspired to divert to their own use funds of the bank approximating $1,000,000.

He explained the nature of the indictments against the defendants charging false entries, embezzlement, forgery and other irregularities. A. E. Lewis faces 35 indictments and his brother 31.

R. L. Davidson of Tulsa was to follow Lee with the opening statement for the defense. Testimony was to be started this afternoon provided the court remains in session. It was uncertain this morning whether an afternoon session would be held.

Attorneys for both sides expressed determination today to push the case rapidly and the hope was expressed that it could be completed in a week.

Approximately 100 witnesses have been summoned.

After being delayed nearly two days while other minor cases were being cleared from the docket, the case was called late yesterday and a jury obtained after only 30 venirement had been examined.

BOOK WRITTEN ON COUNTS

Member of High German Society Tells of Aristocracy of Europe.

BERLIN, May 16.—(AP) — Frau Helene Von Nostitz-Hindenburg, whose father was a cousin of Germany's new president, has published a book, "Aus dem alten Europa," which is stirring much interest in aristocratic society circles. The book is a vivid psychological study of political, aristocratic, diplomatic and scientific personalities whom the author has known during the course of her life.

It is made doubly interesting by the fact that Gen. Konrad Von Hindenburg, her father, was one of the most popular persons in Berlin court society and that her mother was a daughter of a former minister of France, Count Munster.

Among the celevrities characterized are Enrico Caruso, Eleonore Duse, Max Reinhardt, Count Harry Kessler, Arthur Nikiach, the conductor, and especially Rodin, the sculptor, to whom she often read Goethe and played Beethoven, while he frequently conducted her through the Louvre in Paris.

Actress Has Richest Jewel Box

An actress, Mlle. Regime Flory, now has the costliest collection of jewels of any woman in France, it is said. She is shown wearing the prize item of her collection, a tiara that once belonged to the Talleyrand family. The Flory collection of gems was recently insured for 2,000,000 francs, the limit.

AUTOS SUPPLANT BIKES.

Bicycles In British Schools Are Surely Fading Out.

LONDON, May 16. — Bicycles, which for years have been as numerous in every British college as undergraduates themselves, are beginning to give way to automobiles. At Cambridge the projectors are trying to think up some way of dealing with the undergraduate at the steering wheel, a problem that long ago presented itself to the disciplinary powers on the campuses of America, but which only now has become eof importance in England, where the vast majority of the population get along without motor cars.

Is the business of the proctor to see that the young gentlemen of English universities behave as such. With only a bicycle to go away on and with regulations requesting students to be in their rooms at midnight or earlier, few undergraduates hitherto have worried the proctorial minds of dashing away on nocturnal larks.

Only Few Americans Are French Citizens

PARIS, May 16.—Of the more than 3,000 foreigners admitted to French citizenship last year only seven were Americans, according to statistics issued by the ministry of justice. The largest contingent was furnished by the Italians with 1,430, which, however, is small in proportion to the several hundreds of this nationality residing more or less permanently in France. Belgium provided 503, Germany 350, Russia 276, Poland 142, Switzerland 114, and Great Britain 36.

About half these naturalized Frenchmen were workers, either skilled or unskilled. Next came manufacturers and business men, while the liberal professions furnished only about 5 per cent.

French Boxer Wins A Verbal Encounter In Political Race

PARIS, May 16.—Charles Ledoux, French bantamweight veteran, has been elected a municipal councillor for his native town, Pougues-Les-Eaux, in Nievre department. He is the first professional boxer to be chosen for a public office in France.

Ledoux will be remembered in America as a fiery fighter, but in every day life he is almost timid. His oratorical efforts during the electoral campaign worked greater hardships upon him than he ever suffered in the course of his 13 years ring experience during which he fought 300 battles.

He learned a speech of about 100 lines by heart and this he delivered each night during the campaign but he was woefully weak in verbal countering when heckled. One night a burly communist caused much merriment among the audience, by his remarks, Ledoux endured it, almost blushing for some time, until he finally exploded: "Maybe I can't talk as fast as is big man, but in spite of his 200 pounds of beef, I will take him right on after the meeting for a few rounds.

The communist heavyweight refused to take advantage of the opportunity and made his exit amid the boos of the audience.

Little Is Known Of Valley in Morocco

PARIS, May 16.—The Valley of the Ouergha and the adjoining territory, where the French now are at grips with the forces of Abd-El-Krim, pretender to the throne of Morocco, has the distinction of being one of the most advertised and at the same time least known of the accessible spots on the earth.

A dozen years ago, when the French and Spanish governments signed the treaty fixing the limits of their respective zones of influence in Morocco, it was supposed that the Ouergha river flowed northward and emptied into the Mediterranean.

Since that time the Riffian tribesmen have received a liberal amount of publicity the world over but beyond the discovery that the Ouergha flowed westward, joins the Sbou, most important of all Moroccan rivrs and finally pours into the Atlantic, the most of the topographical details of the region remain ill-defined.

The map makers disagree on some important features. Spanish maps place the line of demarcation between the spheres of influence close to the Ouergha river while the French put it much farther north.

The treaty of 1912 finally determined where the Spanish line ran and gave the French the territory south of the Ouergha and the districts to the north occupied by the tribes immediately bordering upon the river.

The French maps show the tribe of Beni Zeroual, one of the largest in Morocco, as beginning at the river and running far to the north toward the Riff mountains The Spanish maps, however, show a small tribe wedged in between the Benizoueral and the river and the strength of this Spaniard's claim all the territory occupied by the more important tribes.

This difference thus far has appeared only on paper but with the concentrations of tribesmen at points near Chechaouen and elsewhere getting in readiness to attack the French troops, the problem has become more acute. It now seems likely to become a subject of for negotiations between France and Spain with the object of exactly defining the line of demarcation once for all.

Theatre Owner Has Had Unusual Life

BERLIN, May 16.—Heinz Tietjen, who has been elected general manager of the municipal opera house recently acquired by the city of Berlin after the privately owned Deutsches Operahaus went bankrupt, has had an unusual musical career. Starting out as a commercial man with a Bremen company operating in West Africa, he decided later to go into diplomacy and as a volunteer entered the colonial service of the foreign office.

On his homeward journey from Africa, however, after leaving the Canary islands for Genoa, he met the late Arthur Nikisch, the famous conductor of the Leipsig Gewandhaus orchestra, who persuaded him to drop the business of diplomacy and devote himself to music. After a few years of study Tietjen became musical director of the Treves opera. Later he was called to the Breslau opera and now he comes to Berlin. His wife is a well known operatic star.

Germany Owes Much To Mm. Hedwig Seyl

BERLIN, May 16.—The 75th birthday anniversary of Hedwig Seyl recalls many of the social services of this distinguished German feminist leader. To her Berlin owes its first modern school and its Lyzeum club for women artists, writers, musicians and college women. To the nation she gave the national federation of German housewives, which she organized during the war.

BOYS ADRIFT.

ERIE, Pa., May 16.—Three small boys werereported adrift on a small craft on Lake Erie west of here tonight, while a coast guard cutter and three other boats were rushing to their assistance. The boys are playing on a raft when the storm broke and they were swept away. The storm descended upon Erie without warning.

WOMEN IN BALLOON RACE.

English Contestants Composed of Women for Big Flight.

LONDON, May 16.—For the first time women have entered the Gordon Bennett balloon cup race which starts from Brussells on June 7. The entrants are the British team composed of Mrs. John Dunville and Mrs. Arthur Spencer. Both are experience balloonists and members of the Royal Aero club. The balloons entered for the race are from the United States, Belgium, France, Spain and England. The cup that goes to the winner has been presented by Belgium which now has permanent possession of the former trophy.

SINCLAIR HEARING SET.

May 22 Set For Appeal Case in Moscow.

MOSCOW, May 16.—(AP)—The soviet supreme court has set May 22 as the date for hearing the appeal of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil company against a recent decision of the Moscow district court. This court's ruling cancelled the company's oil concession in Sakhalin.

POLICEMAN IN OPERA.

Germans Flattered by Chance of Having Honorary Commission.

BERLIN, May 16.—Citizens of Berlin swell the cry at the distinction of having a New York police commissioner singing five guest engagements during May in the German state opera company. Berliners have been informed by the newspapers that Beniamino Gigli, the Metropolitan opera tenor, holds the title of honorary deputy police commissioner in recognition of his charitable and other services to the people of Manhattan and the result is that he is more popular in Berlin than even during his previous visits.

Southern Wilbarger and Central Archer Draw Week's Field Interest

Pool Opened In Area Just North Of Archer City

RAIN, RAIN, RAIN

Prairie Makes Another Big Purchase of Production

Another wildcat well on the pasture, Wilbarger county, another sale of South Archer production, more and incessant rain, and what looks like a new pool for North Archer county provided a four-way feature for the past week's activity in North Texas oil circles. The well, that of Garrison and Eslick on the old Pyramid lease west of the Sigler pool, the sale, that of Clark-Harbin-Baldridge to the Prairie Oil and Gas company, 150 acres, 20 wells, more or less, 500 barrels a day production, for $400,000; the rain, enough to flood even the paved roads and put two feet of water over the Electra-Wichita Falls concrete highway; the new pool, an oil well with some water six or seven miles from production just north of Archer City.

With the end of the week the refiners are showing a mush better position in their branch of the industry, and a tank wagon increase, at this writing is expected. Jobbers are coming in and buying and there have been several big orders for gasoline with little to be had. There has been a slight increase in fuel oil schedules following Smackover crude increases also.

Wilbarger Development

Wilbarger's chief developments, the semi-completion in the old Pyramid well, showing for at least a 100 barrel well with a good deal of caving in the hole from sand at 2,092-96 feet, and a sand in the Beatty hole in section 47 east of the Sigler area is bringing attention to the southern part of the county. Atlantic started its development of the old Sigler interests with a half and half interest in more than 1,000 acres taking almost the hole of the section the two Sigler wells are in and four forties north and south in the section to the west with also some in the section to the east, and in the light of past happenings the discovery if a large pool here will be not at all improbable.

The Beatty sand at 1,952-55 feet, northwest corner of the southwest quarter of section 47, just off the road from the old Zacaquiesta ranch house, is said to show a lot of oil and a well is expected. The Levy pool is still further defined in the Atlantic's No. 2, Waggoner, north of their No. 1, which at 1,440 feet is still without its sand. North of the Gulf well Burton-Ruff-Empire have a water well once more at 2,290 feet.

Archer's Banner.

Archer's banner event for the week is found in the Kentucky Oil corporation and Burns and Maxson's No. 1, Wilson, northwest corner of the east 49 acres of lot 1, section 75 ATNCL, about six miles north of Archer City just west of the road, showing for anywhere from a 50 to 100-barrel well with some salt water from three or four feet of sand topped at 1,480 feet. The well is several miles from production in any direction, and considerable trading has developed around it. The rig is going east for No. 2 while White Eagle is preparing to offset, and other locations are being made.

May Revive N. Archer.

The wel may have the effect of reviving north Archer activity, dormant except for workover work for nearly a year.

In Wichita county Roberts-Hill-Craig are setting casing on a sand at about 1,497 feet in their No. 1 Mitchell, offsetting the Howell discovery to the east while 1,500 feet northwest of the discovery well Howell-Pace et al are setting casing below 1,200 feet on the first of the sands found in this wildcat area. Considerable drilling has developed around this well, the Underwood well and the O'Donoboo-Gates well on the Kemp and Allen, in Wichita county, with no other wells reported down or nearing the pay.

Cranfill-Muse No. 3.

Cranfill-Muse have completed the third well in their pool on the Lowe land, northwest of the Gambrell area, showing for a 60-75 barrel well from sand topped at about 1,250 feet.

Between this well and the Ieckert area Mooers et al are drilling at about 900 feet on their No. 1, Routin, scheduled for completion this week.

Strong et al are giving their hole a shot in sand at 1,428-47 feet, showing some oil on the Wright land, TE&LCO survey, block 2435, just east of Megargel and north of the Barclay-Hobbs well.

The Waite Phillips Wolfe pool is definitely defined to the north by the Waite Phillips-Maer-Staniforth No. 1 Keys, Wisher survey, dry at 1,610 feet.

Outlying Counties.

The outlying counties showed little new: Hoffer Oil corporation has set and cemented casing at 815 feet on a gas sand in his No. 1, Tom Richards, block 195, Reynolds Land and Cattle company survey, southwest of Throckmorton, Throckmorton county. There was nothing new of note in Montague, Clay or Baylor counties. Central Young county shows a new gray lime well in C. W. Whitehead's Newcastle hole, showing partially full of oil from a foot of the pay topped at 3,980.

Atlantic's Sigler Pool Deal May Mean Development Of Large New Producing Area In South Wilbarger Co.

Well Spudded And Drilled Just North of Sigler's Spectacular No. 1, Waggoner.

By A. HALLMAN.

When the Atlantic Oil Producing company spudded its No. 1, Sigler-Waggoner, 420 feet due north of the old Waggoner No. 1 of the Sigler Oil company, in southern Wilbarger county, this last week, it is very likely that they penned the first line in the chapter headed "Development" for that part of Wilbarger county, and started the ball rolling that may end in another field every bit as prolific as its newer northern neighbor, South Vernon.

70,000 From Two Wells.

Two lone wells which in their five and four years' existence have produced better than 70,000 barrels of oil at present mark the spot on the map known as the Sigler pool. You'll find them in the southeast quarter of section 51, block 2, H&TCRRCO survey, about 12 miles south of Vernon. Both are producing from a sand just below 2,000 feet, one since June, 1920, and the other since September, 1922. One had an initial production, after covering the countryside with oil in a spectacular moment, of 125 barrels a day on the pump, the other, a more modest fellow, of about 45 barrels a day. They both now produce about 45 barrels a day.

By the terms of a recent lower court decision the Sigler Oil company retains a ten-acre tract on which these wells are located, holding the lease as long as the two wells are pumped. In addition, by the terms of the same court decision in Waggoner Estate versus Sigler Oil company, they are entitled to the lease on some 1,000 acres of adjoining property, with the proviso that a well is to be started within six months of the date of the decision, and one finished every six months thereafter.

Atlantic Takes Hold.

A deal was closed some time ago with the Atlantic Oil Producing company to take over the development of 1,000 acres of the property for a one-half interest, with the result that the first well was spudded last week. The Atlantic's title to a half in the 1,000 acres is guaranteed by the Waggoner estate, disputants in the long litigation that threatened the Sigler title altogeher.

The spudding of the Atlantic well marks the first actual drilling, close to the two wells since their completion two years ago, the first real development that field has seen. In the light of the history of the Sigler area and of surface and sub-surface work that has been done by geologists of this district it is not at all improbable that this development may end in a real oil pool with a large eventual production two miles south of South Vernon.

As worked out by a number of the companies here, the Sigler pool is on a major high trend, known in geological vernacular as the Sigler-South Electra trend, on which is also located the Noble well. There are two of these major highs thus far disclosed by Wilbarger drilling, the other running east and west and taking in South Vernon, the Levy pool, the Gulf well and the Consolidated well. This is known as the South Vernon-Electra high.

It is noteworthy that late development of the past week, notably the sand in the Beatty well and the semi-completion in the old Pyramid hole, have partially proven the so-called "Sigler-South Electra trend."

Correlation of logs of South Vernon wells and holes drilled around the Sigler group and of the Sigler wells themselves bring out the possibility that the two wells are now producing from a sand with the same identity as that the South Vernon's No. 1, Stephens, made about 100 barrels initial from sand found there at 1,966-73 feet. The record of the No. 1 of the Sigler group shows sand at 2,041-53 feet. This sand was originally entered only 18 inches, but was drilled in from time to time to a depth of 12 feet. The No. 2, about 2,000 feet southeast of the No. 1, was a dry hole at 2,531 feet with sand at 1,911-13 feet and 1,999 to 2,032 feet. The No. 3, approximately 300 feet northeast of the discovery has a total depth of 2,058 feet, but is plugged back to 2,037-2,040 feet.

Three Holes Drilled.

These three wells were the extent of the Sigler Oil company's development of leases that originally amounted to about six sections, all obtained from the Waggoner estate, in the days when the Waggoner estate was not so hard to deal with.

The Sigler Oil company was originally a stock promotion concern, which had its beginning in the hectic days following Burkburnett's high point with initial assets acme 5,500 acres of Waggoner pasture, given whole-heartedly in return for a well. Eastern capital was obtained by the head, Sigler, and the first hole drilled. The showing that was obtained below 2,000 feet set North Texas afire at the time. The well had its spetacular moments and a second Burkburnett for Wilbarger county was freely predicted.

The company purchased six high-power cars from a Vernon merchant and bought one of the largest buildings in the north Wilbarger metropolis to house its offices. The large leasehold had been divided into ten acre tracts and these were disposed of as a myriad of wells started in in the surrounding country to uncover other pools, all doomed to be dry.

Second One Dry.

The company drilled its second well, dissension setting in between stockholders and administration before it was well started. When several hundred feet deep the well was shut down for a long time on account of this and was finally finished up at 2,531 feet, apparently a dry hole.

The No. 3, had a little better success, but by that itme, more than two years later the Wilbarger boom had quieted down and the world stood prone to regard the pool as a freak, with the two wells encircled at a distance of a mile or more by a ring of dry holes that would forever bar the pool from much expansion.

Internal trouble in the company then put a stop to development of any sort and it was not long before the leases were further tied up by the Waggoner estate who brought suit for cancellation of leases alleging insufficient development, with the result that up until the starting of the Atlantic well this last week the area has seen no drilling at all.

By the terms of the contract that has been made the pool will get its rightfud development now. By the certain geological deductions that have been made this rightful development may bring forth any number of surprises, and end in another major pool for Wilbarger county.

News Of The Fields

Beatty, Waggoner

Beatty et al. have taken three feet of a sand reported saturated with oil and showing for a well in their No. 1, Waggoner, northwest corner of the southwest quarter of section 47, block 2, H&TCRRCO survey, south Wilbarger county. The hole is open for a good deal of the way and is understood to be caving badly. Casing is to be lowered and set on the sand.

The hole is located some distance due east of the Sigler pool between it and the Noble well and directly across the road from the Zacaquiesta ranch house. The find, if it develops a well will be of the utmost importance in Wilbarger development.

Pyramid Hole

Garrison and Eslick or the Matty Lee Lippard Oil company's No. 1, Waggoner, in the northwest quarter of section 52, block 2, H&TCRRCO survey, a mile and a half west of the Sigler group is reported showing for about a 100-barrel well at least with a good deal of caving in the bottom o fthe hole from sand at 2,092-96 feet. The hole is a rework job and shows open for a deal of the way with a bad lost joint of casing in it through which it has been necessary to drill with a small bit.

Atlantic, Waggoner

The Atlantic Oil Producing company was reported drilling ahead yesterday at a depth of 1,440 feet in their No. 2, Waggoner-B, 300 feet north of the No. 1, which is in the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of section 51, H&TCRRCO survey, block 14, eastern Wilbarger county. The sand expected just below 1,400 feet somewhere had not been picked up yet and a long hazard at guessing would be to make the remark that the Levy pool had received a northern definition as well as an eastern bounding.

Consolidated Leases

Smythe, Wichita.

Consolidated Oil company's No. 1, Smythe, 150 feet each way out of the northwest corner of block 4, Smythe sub-division, ETRRCO survey, west and a bit south of Iowa Park, was reported drilling yesterday at about 1,430 feet with the expectation of picking up the sand here in the next day or so.

Waggoner, Wilbarger.

Consolidated Oil company and Staley and Wynne are down to about 975 feet on their No. 2, Waggoner, north of the No. 1, H&GNRRCO survey, abstract 907. The hole in section 2, block 4, is down to about 990 feet, in section 7, block 7, 1,695 feet, in section 27, Poitevent, 1,135.

Bullock, Young.

The Consolidated Oil company and J. S. Cosden were reported yesterday rat-holing at about 890 feet in their No. 1, Bullock, northeast corner of TE&LCO survey, block 336, northeast Young county.

Sam Kelly, Wichita.

Consolidated Oil company was drilling yesterday at about 1,950 feet looking for the sand found in the old People's hole at 2,025 nearby, southwest Wichita county.

Southwest Waurika

Pauline Oil and Gas company and Clark & Cowden, all of Oklahoma City, are rigged up and will spud in Friday in their test in the center of the northeast of the southwest of 17-5s-8w, Jefferson county. The test is to be on a government structure and all the major oil companies have acreage around the new test.

Stronger Refined Market Is Feature Of Week In Texas

FORT WORTH, May 16.—A strong refined market strengthening daily characterized Texas oil developments last week. U. S. Motor gasoline was being quoted at 11¼ to 11½ cents at close of business Friday, the refiners asking the higher price, adding they had none and refusing to take orders for future delivery.

Natural gasoline was as strong; all grades, "A," "B" and "C," were quoted at 12 cents and positively none was available. Manufacturers were refusing 13-cent offers for June shipment.

All grades of refined products are rising in sympathy with gasoline, though fuel oil held at 85 cents in North Texas; its only strength was the increase in buying. One marketer made the following statement:

Look For Higher Prices

"The market is on a firm basis. No gasoline is available and 90 per cent of stocks are in the hands of big companies. I am looking for higher prices. It is distinctly a sellers market."

Carter Oil company's action in buying 1,000 cars of U. S. motor fuel for the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, of which orth Texas furnishes one-third, disclosed the fact that there is no gasoline in storage of consequence in the hands of independents. Carter would have duplicated its purchase several weeks ago of 2,000 cars but could not obtain it. There are no new fields of consequence looming on the Texas horizon. The Big Lake field in Reagan county West Texas, is likely to lead the production increases about June 1, as several completions due by that time will probably boost that district's output 6,000 to 10,000 barrels. The small pools of North Texas will show small increases, as there are four or five new pools there which will probably more than offset the usual decline of the older pools.

Quiet Summer Expected

A quiet summer is forecast for the entire oil industry of Texas, which will sit back and watch gasoline consumption reach new peaks and with a certain and sure degree of enjoyment and satisfaction. Prices are reasonably expected to maintain present levels and Smackover's first signs of a decline, expected to be followed by more of the same, will relieve the mental depression which exists at present among the fraternity.

The Balcones fault district furnished its usual list of disappointments last week.

Skinner and the Atlantic Oil Producing company No. 1, Decker, T. H. Eaton survey, Kaufman county, had the Austin chalk at 2,171 feet and t o2,677 feet and a water sand at 3,140 feet. It is still drilling but probably will be abandoned Sunday or Monday. The rig will be moved to a location already made on the farm of Mrs. E. J. Massengill, P. Walker survey, five miles southeast of Terrell. Atlantic has done extensive core drilling.

Dollie Cork A Water Well.

Roxana Petroleum corp., and Kellogg No. 1, Dollie Cork, R. E. Matthews survey, had salt water at 3,292 feet and was drilling at 3,307 feet. It is expected to be abandoned soon.

In Falls county, Harrison, Bletch and Thompson Bletch and Thompson No. 1, W. A. Mitchell survey, had the chalk at 2,582 to 2,869 feet and after setting pipe at 3,220 feet was last reported drilling at 3,250 feet.

The many disappointments has driven many operators to other plays and acreage sales are at a very low ebb. However, the oil operators are at a loss for a new spot to settle and such a condition exists at present that summer vacations are being seriously considered and taken.

Crockett Gets Two Holes.

Entrance of two independant companies in Crockett county was the feture of a somewhat dull week along the Marathon Fold in West Texas, west of San Angelo. Crockett lies due south of Reagan county, the county of the big oil pool.

H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company of Tulsa, Okla., will drill a wildcat test in the southwest corner of section 14, block 29, university lands, about 25 miles west of Ozona and some 36 miles south of the Big Lake field. It will be on a block of several thousand acres obtained from the J. C. Cooke Oil and Gas company. J. C. Cooke is expected to arrive in San Angelo next week to superintend the drilling of thetest.

The Red Ball Oil and Refining company of Denver, Colo., headed by Jesse F. Jasobs of that city, is moving in a rig for a wildcat test to be located in the southeast corner of section 5, block 29, university lands, four or five miles northwest of the H. F. Wilcox test.

Several Due.

Walter H. Dunning Jr. of Fort Worth last week spudded in a wildcat test on the Sawyer Cattle company ranch, in Reagan county, located in the center of section 135, block 2, T&PRYCO survey. It is on a block of 8,000 acres out of the 44,000 acres leased by The Texas company several weeks ago. The Texas got a lease on the entire J. D. Sugg (Sawyer Cattle company) ranch lying in Reagan county.

The next Big Lake field completion will be Big Lake university No. 24, center of the southeast of the southeast of section 1, block 2. It began drilling the plug yesterday, having set pipe at 2,900 feet, 14 feet in the lime. It will find the pay Monday after 100 feet of lime are drilled. It is expected to be the smallest of four wells soon to be completed; the others are No. 19, center of the southeast of the southeast of section 12, block 2, underreaming 6-inch at 2,795 feet; No. 20, center of the southwest of the southwest of section 25, block 9, drilling at 2,550; and No. 25, sec. SESW section 25, drilling at 2,490 feet.

Graber Deep Well Makes 2,232 Bbls.

TULSA, May 16.—The Tonkawa field for the past fiscal week produced 60,408 barrels a day from 765 wells, a decline of 862 barrels and with three new wells in. The details for the shallow and deep sands were not learned.

The Garber field for the week ended Wednesday did 9,133 barrels a day from 569 wells. Of this number 559 were from the shallow sands and accounted for 4,459 barrels; the 9 wells in the 2,300 foot pay did 2,442 barrels, and the one 4,377-foot well did 2,232 barrels.

The Burbank field produced 56,267 barrels a day the past fiscal week from 1,729 wells, a gain of 400 barrels and with seven new wells in. The Osage area yielded 45,048 barrels from 1,534 wells, and the Kay county extension 11,217 barrels from 195 wells.

Crude oil storage at the end of the period in the Burbank field was 12,336,792 barrels.

The Cromwell field in Seminole and Okfuskee counties produced 41,777 barrels a day from 350 wells, a decline of 1,393 barrels and with one new well in.

The Wetumka area, including Papoose and Gilcrease pools, did 24,390 barrels a day from 160 wells, a decline of 564 barrels and with five new wells.

Wewoka field, and including the new Holdenville pool, did 14,498 barrels a day from 125 wells, a gain of 1,443 barrels and with two new wells in.

Yeager pool in 8-10 of Hughes county, is doing 400 barrels a day from one completed well, a decline of eight barrels.

Small Decrease Noted in North Texas' Output

Archer Down, Vernon Up, Clay Down, Young Up

North Texas production showed a small decrease during the past week over the week before according to daily averages compiled by a major pipeline company. Archer was down, Iowa Park up, South Vernon kept up its steady rise, Young county gained a little, while Clay county dropped off 60 barrels.

Detailed figures follow:

| District— | Last Week | Week Before |
|---|---|---|
| Electra | 16,880 | 17,025 |
| Burkburnett | 14,555 | 14,570 |
| Iowa Park | 4,415 | 4,020 |
| Archer county | 39,915 | 41,065 |
| Young county | 12,420 | 12,145 |
| South Vernon | 7,890 | 7,850 |
| Clay county | 440 | 500 |
| Montague county | 120 | 125 |
| Jack county | 20 | 25 |
| Totals | 96,660 | 97,055 |
| Decrease, 393 barrels. | | |

Consolidated And Phillips to Drill In Cotton County

Consolidated Oil company and Phillips Petroleum company have got ogether a block of about 1,960 acres about five miles south of Temple, Cotton county, Okla., and are hauling out timber for a derrick in the southwest corner of the northeast of the northwest of 26-4s-10w on a structure worked out by Reese L. Hayes.

Other tests drilled nearby have had showings of a sort, and the test promises interesting information regarding the country. Nearby boles have been made by Amerada, Dunn and Oakland.

C. R. Boling Back From Garza County

C. R. Boling, land man for the Marland Oil company of Texas, with headquarters at Wichita Falls, is back from a trip to Garza county, where he has assembled two new blocks for his company, both commercial leases and involving no immediate drilling. He reports considerable interest in the country and a fair show of activity there. The Armada's No. 2 is reckonede as a dry hole, and Gulf is moving out for a test southwest of Justiceburg. Several of the larger companies have men in the county doing work and assembling blocks, with the territory surrounding Post City and Garza getting the play.

Reagan County Up To 31,700 Barrels

HOUSTON, May 16.—(AP)—Daily average crude oil production in the heavy oil pools of coastal Texas-Louisiana and the southwest Texas fields for the week ending today totalled 181,745 barrels, an increase of 1,425 barrels, according to estimates of a major pipe line company.

The Texas coastal pools averaged daily 91,271 barrels, a decrease of 4,080 barrels from last week. South Louisiana pools averaged daily 7,770, an increase of 68 barrels. The Southwest Texas pools averaged 82 barrels daily, a 5,400-barrel increase.

Southwest Texas:

Big Lake (Reagon county) 31,700, increase 6,400; Luling 28,710, increase 80; Laredo (Mirando-Jim Hogg) 11,300, no change; Somerset (San Antonio) 62,870, increase 30; Lockhart (Lytton Springs) 5,350, decrease 70; Milam county 550, no change; miscellaneous 640, no change.

The world's greatest oil well was the Cerro Azul well in Mexico which had an initial flow of 260,000 barrels

Refiners Break Crude Run Mark On First of May

Nearly 400,000 Barrels Run To Mid-Continent Stills

Breaking all previous records for the amount of crude used in one day, Mid-Continent refiners ran 398,940 bbls. to their stills May 1, according to the monthly survey made by The Oil and Gas Journal. The only other day which neared this mark was on February 1, when 388,310 bbls. of crude were run in the Mid-Continent.

Hopes of many for a decrease in gasoline production this month are fading as a result of the runs to stills May 1, which were 15,700 bbls. greater than of April 1. The decrease in crude runs to stills this month is in contrast to the general trend of the previous two months in which steady declines in the runs were recorded. Crude runs of April 1 were 5,325 bbls. less than those of March 1 while those of March 1 also showed a decrease from those of the previous month.

Whether the increase in runs can be attributed to the large purchase of the Standard of New Jersey, amounting to 15,000,000 gallons of U. S. Motor (58-60, 437) gasoline the early part of April and the later buying of higher gravity for export is speculation but it is known that the increase in runs began about that time. The purchase originally was intended to take out of the Mid-Continent only the surplus gasoline.

May Be Due to Low Stocks.

The increase in runs may indicate that gasoline stocks are lower than usual and that refiners are forced to increase gasoline production to meet the general buying. If this is the case the new buying of the past week may cause refiners to show a still greater gain in runs later in the month setting another record. The strengthening of the gasoline market the past week may be another proof of this condition in that it points to a shortage of gasoline.

Although runs to stills increased May 1, the increased crude production of the Mid-Continent offset this. On May 1 the refiners took only 82.2 per cent of the crude produced in the Mid-Continent while on April 1 they ran 37.8 per cent. The total daily average crude production of the Mid-Continent as compiled May 2 by The Oil and Gas Journal was 1,236,475 bbls., of which the refiners took 398,940 bbls. On April 1, the daily production was 1,011,930 bbls., while refiners took 382,875 bbls. The production increase was due to the flush production of the Smackover field in Arkansas. This is all low gravity crude.

While these figures apply to the entire Mid-Continent area, reports from Texas reveal that continued purchases of producing properties has brought about a distinct tightening of the crude supply available for refiners, especially in the Wichita Falls district. It was told that one refiner, who sought to increase his daily crude runs by 1,500 bbls., at the end of two days had made only one connection with 50 bbls., despite payment of a 15-cent premium.

The increase in runs was general throughout every district of the Mid-Continent, not a district recording a decrease. While Oklahoma led in the total amount of increase, North Central Texas, Kansas, Arkansas and North Louisiana also felt gains. Oklahoma refiners increased their runs 5,875 bbls.; North Central Texas refiners 3,730 bbls.; Kansas 2,015 bbls.; North Louisiana 2,900 bbls., and Arkansas, 1,270 bbls.

The gain cannot be attributed to new plants resuming operation as the same number of plants were reported operating May 1 as on April 1. There were 128 plants reported running on both dates. However, the increase was made by only 47 plants as 20 refiners reported decreases and the remainder ran the same amount of crude oil both dates.

Although the same total number of plants were operating on both dates, there were some changes in the lineup. As it happened, the number of plants which shut down since the last report offset those which resumed operations. In Texas three plants resumed operations during the month. These were the Big Four Refining Co., at Panhandle; the Petroleum Corp., at Electra; and the Transcontinental Oil Co., at Fort Worth. Three plants also were reported shut down as follows: the Bridgeport Refining Co., at Bridgeport; the Crystal Petroleum Co., at Burkburnett, and the Orient Petroleum Co., at Wichita Falls. The plants which shut down only reduced the runs to stills 1,820 bbls., daily while the plants resuming operations added 3,800 bbls. daily.

In Kansas, the Miller Petroleum Co., at Humboldt, began running crude to stills during the past month and May 1 ran about 100 bbls. This plant has been doing only rerun work for several months. It still is rerunning some.

Starting up operations of the McMillan, Fehlman & Oliver plant at El Dorado, Ark., on April 1 proved only temporary as the plant now is shut down. This plant took only 400 bbls. daily runs from the total Mid-Continent runs to stills.

No change is revealed in Oklahoma among the plants reported operating and shut down for the two months.

Changes In Crude Runs

Several decided changes in the amount of crude run to stills at individual plants were revealed during the month. The Skelly Oil Co., plant at Eldorado, Kan., increased its runs from 7,900 to 12,100 bbls. daily. Vickers Petroleum Co., at Potwin, Kan., showed a gain of 500 bbls. daily from 2,400 to 2,900 bbls. The Sinclair Refining Co. at Coffeyville, Kan., made one of the outstanding gains increasing its runs from 5,000 to 6,100 bbls.

On the other hand, the Wilhoit Refining Co., of Joplin, Mo., which is listed in the Kansas plants, announces it will run only 300 bbls. daily now and will continue this policy until it is "cheaper to make gasoline than buy it." The Wilhoit company has a number of filling stations over southwestern Missouri and now is resorting to purchasing gasoline to supply these instend of making all of it as it previously has been doing.

The Waite Phillips plant at Wichita Kan., made an increase of 1,000 bbls. daily in crude runs May 1 over those of April 1. On May 1 it ran 3,500 bbls. to the stills.

Two plants in Louisiana increased runs. The Louisiana Oil Refining Corp., at Shreveport and Bossier, ran 12,600 bbls. May 1, while on April 1 it ran only 10,000 bbls. The Texas Co., at Ardis, increased runs from 6,000 to 6,5000 bbls. The Shreveport Producing & Refining Co. at Shreveport, decreased its runs from 4,000 to 3,800 bbls.

The three casinghead gasoline plants in Mexico in 1924 manufactured 3,140,161 gallons of raw gasoline.

Magnolia Runs 645,816 Bbls. Oil From Texas

The Magnolia Petroleum company ran 1,735,292.55 barrels of crude oil in Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana. Of this the Augusta field in Kansas, its sole area in that state, supplied 34,239.93 barrels; Oklahoma 933,002.66 barrels; Texas 645,816.28 barrels; Louisiana 24,155.77 barrels, and Arkansas 58,077.91 barrels.

Shipments from Oklahoma amounted to 1,330,172.22 barrels, or 44,339.07 barrels a day, and the runs figured out 32,241.41 barrels a day. Stocks in storage in the two states as of May 1 were 7,980,878.33 barrels.

Central Kansas Takes Iits Place In the Oil Sun

Ellis County Wildcat Promises Much For Windy State

By PAUL HEDRICK.

TULSA, Okla., May 16.—Central western Kansas is again assuming a place in the petroliferous sun of the Mid-Continent fields.

The discovery of 1,800 feet of high gravity oil in the J. Allan Harvey No. 1, Polifke, in the southeast corner of the northwest of the northeast of 18-13-17e, Ellis county, in a lime formation at 3,458 feet, after passing through brown and green shale, makes it appear likely that it has picked up the same producing stratum as is found at Russell county. The Harvey test is shut down for orders.

In Russell county the play in the Oswald-Valerius poll is to the three sands that have been uncovered there. M. M. Valerius, petroleum geologist and head of the M. M. Valerius Oil and Gas company, which opened the pool late in 1923, while here, stated that the area was getting a more and more intensive play.

Valerius Holes.

The Valerius company No. 4, Oswald-Valerius, in the southwest corner of the northwest of the northwest of 17-12-15w, the most southerly well, had the first sand at 2,956 feet and in it 20 feet, was swabbing 20 barrels an hour. The No. 3, Ed. Oswald, in the northwest corner of 17-12-15w, which had sand from 2,936 feet, has been deepened until it is now 95 feet be pay sand and made a big flow, but bridged over the tools. The upper pay made 100 barrels. Its total depth is 3,073 feet. Its No. 5, Oswald-Valerius, in the southeast corner of 7-12-15, topped sand at 2,920 feet, and at 2,810 to 2,820 feet it had a new sand which yielded 30 gravity oil. It was passed by. In other wells there this pay sand was not found.

Stearns and Streeter in its Oswald test in the southwest corner of 8-12-15, is pumping from three sands. The upper from 2,925 was not much good, but 77 feet in it had 42 gravity oil and after a slight break, it had eight feet of pay in the third pay for 39 gravity crude.

The Valerius company No. 2 Sutton, in the northeast corner of the southwest of the southwest of 5-12-15, one and one-half miles north of the main field, had 6,000,000 feet of gas at 2,280 feet, and it will be bradden-headed so the hole can be deepened. It is the biggest gasser in the Russell county district.

Rainbow Bend Area.

As this is being written the Rainbow Bend pool of Cowley county is doing 19,000 barrels a day of high gravity crude oil, and the Marland Pipe Line company with a six-inch line and the Waite Phillips company with a four-inch line are taxed to their capacity in handling the daily production. It is said that the 100,000 barrel storage room in the field in full.

Marland Oil company-Waite Phillips company-Independent Oil and Gas company No. 2, Dora Johnson, in the northeast corner of the southeast of 20-33-2e, did 810 barrels the first 24 hours from 3,207 to 3,229 feet, with 3,241 feet as total depth.

Eastman Field.

Lewis Oil company has extended the Eastman pool of Cowley county one-half mile to the northwest with No. 4, Robbins, in the southeast corner of the southwest of the northwest of 31-30-6e, which had sand from 2,853 to 2,894 feet for 625 barrels the first 24 hours.

Northeast of Winfield, the Arkansas Fuel Oil company No. 3, Crostley, in the northwest corner of the southwest of 7-32-5e, topped the Wilcox said at 3,488 feet, and in it two feet, is swabbed 150 barrels the first day of which 10 barrels was water.

Morton and others o. 1, DeDard, in the southwest corner of the northeast of 35-34-3e, near Arkansas City, had the Batrlesville sand at 3,325 feet, but the hole was caving badly.

Sumner County.

Marland Oil company No. 1, Thiessen, in the southwest of the southeast of the southeast of 22-34-2e, south of Geuda Springs, and one-half mile from the Padgett pool discovery well, topped sand at 3,440 feet and in it two feet, had a good show of oil.

Greenwood County.

Sinclair Oil and Gas company is held up in completing No. 13, Browning, in the southwest corner of 20-22-10, Browning pool of northwestern Greenwood county by a lost bit on top of the sand. Its 10 wells in the Browning pool are doing 2,667 barrels a day.

Smackover's Clairvoyants Quit the Job

Arkansas Pool Looks Like It's Still Due To Climb

344,822 BBLS.

Deep Sand Area Already Contains Nine Square Miles

By D. H. BANCROFT.

SHREVEPORT, La., May 16.—Prophets, who prophesied last week and the week before that Smackover had reached, or was about to reach, its peak, will have to guess again for production advanced another 50,000 barrels during the week just closed. Really, it was nearer 60,000. The wisest prophet has quit prophesying altogether concerning Smackover for with 72 permits week before last and 82 last week on top of the 100 odd wells then drilling makes guessing at what Smackover will do next rather risky proposition. However, with the limits of the deep nine square miles of present deep sand area becoming fairly well defined on three sides slackening may be in sight. But inside drilling and deepening of the several hundred shallow wells within that area can yet hold production at high levels.

With a total daily average production—pipeline and rail shipments of 409,247 barrels the week just closed, the Shreveport district attained a still higher "highest figure ever reached in its history." Smackover's share of this was 344,822 barrels, 315,412 heavy oil and 29,410 light. The latter is a decrease of 350 barrels and the former a gain of 58,692.

This puts 400 barrels daily-average runs from the field in sight, which means, on the present estimate of a minimum of 75 per cent of gross production being moved, that 500,000 barrels gross is in sight also, which will be a record not yet reached by any one oil pool in this hitsory of the industry in this country. It is probable that both these figures will be reached.

Still Going Up.

Total production for the Shreveport district, oil moved from the field (rail shipments continue to grow) was 2,864,729 barrels; Arkansas moved 2,497,684 and Louisiana 367,045; Smackover heavy 2,207,884 and Smackover light 205,870. These figures show an increase of 410,529 for the district, 1,260 for Louisiana and 409,269 for Arkansas; 410,844 for Smackover heavy and a decrease of 2,450 in Smackover light. By pools the movements were:

38 Deep Sand Wells.

Thirty-eight of Smackover's 47 new wells were in the deep sand and had an initial production of 68,914 barrels, an average of 2,374 compared with 39 deep sand completions last week with an average of 1,767. Average initial for the entire field was 1,980 barrels compared with 1,538 for 45 wells last week. Twenty-five of its completions were of 1,000 barrels and up, six of 1,000 to 2,000; eight of 2,000 to 3,000; five of 3,000; two of 3,500 and one each of 7,000, 12,000 and 15,000 barrels initial.

Rozana Pet. Co. Hardy-Murphy 2 in 9-16-15 at 2,410 feet was the 12,000 barrels completion and Dashko et al. 2 Joyce in 34-15-15 the 15,000-barrel giant at 2,377 feet. Natural Gas and Petroleum company's D-3 Murphy in 8-16-15 with 54 million feet of gas at 2,556 feet is one of the biggest gassers in Smackover since the Murphy crater wells in 1921 which were estimated at 75 to 100 million feet.

Defined, Maybe.

Further definition of proven area on the west and south was made by a series of wells which made large quantities of salt water, one as high as 90 per cent. On the south Tidal-Osage No. 5 Vestal in 17-16-15 a mile to a mile and a half south of production, apparently is also an edge well in the deep sand, having 4,000 barrels of fluid 70 per cent water and sediment at 2,515 feet. On the east, what may turn out to be an edge well was completed by Mazda Oil corporation, in R-2 Lawton in 10-16-15, also with 4,000 barrels of fluid of which 75 per cent was water and sediment at 2,450 feet. If these wells are indeed the definitive wells of the deep sand area, that area nevertheless is some considerable pool—three miles east to west and three miles north to south with the north end not yet clearly defined. A completion by the Standard of Louisiana last week stretched it a mile northeast, and the Dashko2 Joyce is in the present extreme northwest corner.

HUBBARD HAS FOUR SANDS.

Marland Owns Five of District's Eight Wells.

BLACKWELL, Okla., May 16.—There are four producing sands at 2,000, 2,500, 3,700 and 3,900 feet in the Hubbard field, six miles southwest of the Blackwell district. The eight producing wells in the area have a total daily average production of 1,678 barrels. Five are owned by Marland. They are producing from the sands at 2,500, 3,700 and 3,900. Two are owned by the Prairie Oil and Gas company, producing from the 2,500 foot pay. One by Marland and Amerada Petroleum corporation, producing from the lower Hoover pay at 2,046-2,055 feet, the only well in the field producing from this sand. The best well in the area is the Prairie Oil and Gas company's No. 2B, Leona Smith farm, northwest of the southeast of section 1-26-2w, flowing 440 barrels from the sand at 2,530-37 feet.

Cline Appreciates Failure Of Carbon Black Bill And Believes State Has Future

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Recrd News Staff.

THIS newspaper declared the natural gas supply to be the greatest economic asset of Texas when a few promoters and a few lawmakers attempted legislation which would have permitted carbon black manufacturers to invade the Panhandle fields and deplete those fields of one of the richest fuel and light supplies under American skies. Former Mayor W. D. Cline of Wichita Falls, is one of the pioneer oil men of the West. He has been one of the builders of the West and is looked upon as a most progressive citizen. He was one of the chief speakers at Mineral Wells. Among other things, he said:

"As one directly interested in the oil industry, I gladly lend my indorsement to the refusal of the 39th legislature to pass the carbon black bill. While appreciating the fact that fortunes would be made by a few individuals out of the conversion of this great resource into a commercial commodity, looking with the experience of more than 20 years into oil and gas business and keeping in mind the coming needs not only of West Texas but our sister communities in central and East Texas, I can see that within only a few brief years this gas now known to exist, but not producing any revenue to its owners on the plains of West Texas, will be one of the greatest economic assets that Texas could have. Its effect on home and industry through the coming years I will not attempt to picture for you."

This former mayor of Wichita Falls, in the very heart of the Mid-Continent oil country, uttered a great truth. He is interested in the oil industry. His closest friends are large producers of oil and gas. Regardless of this, Mr. Cline, who is southern born and bred, knows that the raw materials of Texas should be turned into the finished product here at home and that the day is coming in the near future when the natural gas supply of the Panhandle will be the greatest asset of the Panhandle and the owners of the fields will realize large profits by piping and selling their gas to the legitimate industries which are bound to come.

Summer Grammar School to Begin Monday at Alamo

Announcement was made Saturday that summer school would be conducted at the Alamo building beginning Monday morning at 8 o'clock for primary and intermediate grades.

Work in the first, second and third grades in geography, history, English, arithmetic and possibly spelling in intermediate grades will be included in the courses of instruction. The teaching staff is to include R. A. Jarrott, principal, Roy J. Daniel, Mrs. R. E. Vigus and Miss Kate Haynes.

Summer school at the Alamo, it was pointed out, is intended for those children who have failed to pass certain examinations and whose parents desire that they should recoup their fallures during the summer vacation period. A tuition fee of $15 will be charged for the term course, or a charge of $10 for one subject. The school will be conducted six days a week for six weeks.

Playground Program Endorsed for City

Endorsement of the playground supervision program outlined by H. H. Schueler, representative of the Playground and Recreational Association of America, was given Saturday by the Social Workers club of the city following a meeting with Mr. Schueler as a guest. He is in Wichita Falls making an inspection and survey of playgrounds, parks and recreational facilities provided here.

The organization represented by Mr. Schueler is one of nation-wide scope, which devotes itself entirely to promotion of constructive playground programs in the larger cities of the country. It is supported by voluntary contributions from all over the United States and conducts its campaigns principally on municipal playgrounds.

The Welfare club adopted a resolution asking the county commissioners court to send Juvenile Officer W. G. Barlley to the National Social Workers convention in Denver in June, and appointed a committee to go before the court Monday and present the request.

Small Permits For Buildings Keep The Week's Total Down

Building permits in Wichita Falls held a high average on a numerical basis last week, but total valuations fell off somewhat. Thirty-eight permits given out by Building Inspector Fred A. Smith touched a valuation total of only $76,507.

A peculiar phase of the building situation came in the fact that of the 38 permits applied for and issued, not a single one was for a structure to cost more than $10,000. The largest was for a business building to cost $8,682, while the second largest was for a new feed mill to cost $6,500.

All the other permits were for smaller structures, mainly residences of the $5,000 class.

The complete list of permits for the week is as follows:

A. L. Shepherd, residence, Michigan street, $250.
Mrs. Minnie Beck, residence, 2203 Taylor, $3,000.
R. B. Williams, residence 1423 North Ninth, $2,500.

Thousands See First Bathing Revue Event

GALVESTON, May 16.—Beauties from all points of Texas, Louisiana and adjoining states gathered today to display their charms in the sixth annual bathing girl review which opened today. Between 35 and 40 entries were in the initial spectacle, which was a parade along the famous seawall boulevard in sport clothes.

In the neighborhood of 40,000 people, who lined the boulevard from end to the other witnessed the spectacle. As each girl appeared it was the occasion for outbursts of applause.

The event tomorrow which will be a parade along the boulevard in bathing suits is expected to attract between 75,000 and 100,000 people.

Gerard Ordered To Show Cause for Not Appearing in Court

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)—An order for Clem L. Shaver, chairman of the democratic committee or attorneys to show cause on Tuesday why James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany and a member of the committee, should not be adjudged in contempt of court was signed by Supreme Court Justice Guy today.

Reason for the order was given as Mr. Gerard's failure to appear for examination before trial in a suit brought against the national committee by Van Patten, Ins., an advertising agency, over a contract for advertising during the last presidential campaign. Mr. Gerard is now in Europe. An affidavit submitted by attorneys for the advertising agency alleges that notice to appear for examination was served but Mr. Gerard on three occasions failed to do so.

Van Patten, Inc., is suing the national committee for $84,220 for services, the committee having previously filed suit for $50,000 alleging the agency did not fulfill terms of their agreement.

WACO—Illness of less than a week resulted in the death late last night of Mrs. Mary S. Connally, 79 years old, mother of Dr. H. F. Connally, Waco health commissioner. She contracted pneumonia on Saturday of last week.

WASHINGTON — The National Democrat, a weekly newspaper for presentation of "militant publicity" for the democratic party, is to be published here by a group of party leaders.

HASKELL—The Green Belt district convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce will hold its second annual convention in Paducah, June 18. This town will compete with a number of towns for the 1926 district convention of this section.

MARKETS

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, May 16.—Profit taking sales checked another sharp advance in today's brief session of the stock market. Net gains, however, exceeded net losses at the close with the day's sales running well over 600,000 shares. Another flock of new 1925 high records was established, the list including American Water Works, St. Louis-San Francisco common, Foundation company, Virginia Railway and Power and Nash Motors, the last named crossing 375 to the highest price in its history.

While stocks under pool control made the best showing, better buying support was noted for a number of the standard industrials. United States Steel crossed 117 and then slipped back to 116½, where it was up ⅝ on the day and Baldwin recorded a similar gain at 114⅝ after selling as high as 115¼.

Coppers showed an improved tone on reports of better trade conditions, Calmute and Arizona rising 2⅛ points and most of the others showed fractional gains. Oils received little attention pending further trade developments. Rails also moved within narrow and irregular limits despite new merger rumors concerning some of the smaller roads.

Fresh buying came into the motor group on reports that May was likely to establish a new production record. Pierce Arrow prior preferred advanced 3 points to a record top at 111, Motor Wheel corporation, which is expected to receive royalties from its balloon tire patents, moved up over 2 points to a new top at 22⅞ and Eaton Axle touched a new peak at 18¾ and then forfeited its gain.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was of the usual quiet week-end character with the principal rates holding relatively firm. Demand sterling continued to rule above $4.85 and French francs were moderately active around 5.20 cents.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—The short Saturday session of the cotton market was rather a tame affair except for the spurt of activity near the close when disappointed recent buyers who had bought on the hope of a week-end rally liquidated. The market started out moderately higher owing to firm Liverpool cables.

First trades showed gains of 13 to 15 points and July soon traded at 22.40 and October 21.77, or 15 to 16 points above yesterday's close. From this prices eased off until near the end July traded at 22.32 and October at 21.58. The close was near the lowest showing 2 points net loss on October and December and no change on other active positions.

The firmness of Liverpool was reported by private cables as due to trade calling and some demand for sports. Early weather reports were generally favorable and that caused a slight setback right after the firm opening. The weather map confirmed the private reports and the market continued to ease off slowly.

The market rallied about the end of the first hour on the official forecast for generally showery weather and colder in the western belt but the improvement did not hold as the expected covering by shorts failed to materialize. Instead recent buyers sold rather freely in the last quarter of an hour of trading and this selling wiped out all the early gains and established new lows for the day in the last few minutes of trading.

Private advices indicated that the crop was making favorable progress and there was a disposition to look for a rather high condition average when the first government report of the session is issued on June 2.

Exports today, 1,997 bales.

Grain

CHICAGO, May 16.—(AP)—Predictions of unseasonable cold weather and frost in the Dakotas and Nebraska together with likelihood of a decided falling off in the amount of wheat on ocean passage led to higher prices today for wheat. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were firm at 1 to 2⅛ cents net advance, May $1.70⅛ to $1.71 and July $1.53⅜ to $1.53½. Corn finished at ⅛ cent to 1⅝ cent gain. Oats unchanged to ⅝ cent up and provisions unchanged to 47 cents higher.

Frost fears outranged other news in the corn market as well as in wheat. The corn market was helped upward too by a rise in hog values and by general belief that the visible supply statement on Monday would show a fair decrease both for corn and oats. Provisions reflected the strength of hog values of corn.

West Texas Democrats Urge Tax Survey And Repeal of Alien Laws

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
Record News Staff.

AUSTIN, Texas, May 16.—Texas is the banner democratic state. Texas has been the home of a vast army of free trade democrats. It has been the home of vast army of democrats who follow the flag regardless of the tariff declaration of their party or the traditions of their party.

Now be it known that the West Texas chamber of commerce has a membership of 7,000 and an affiliation of 307 communities under West Texas skies. Its sixth annual convention was held at Mineral Wells. It elected a banker and railways builder and oil man, R. Q. Lee of Cisco, president fo rthe ensuing year. He is a modern Texan who believes in marching with the procession. Louisiana was his place of nativity.

Homer D. Wade was chairman of the committee on resolutions. The report of this committee was adopted by unanimous vote. Declarations made are of interest to the tax payers of the commonwealth. State supervision of motor busses and trucks and jitneys is recommended. The reader is reminded that the Thirty-ninth legislature refused to vote state supervision of motor busses and trucks and jitneys. Friends of the proposed legislation were overwhelmed.

Tax Survey Urged.

A full and complete tax survey of Texas is urged with the object of securing an equitable distribution of tax burdens. A review of past legislation would indicate that every attempt of this kind has been throttled in the upper house of the Texas legislature. Democrats absolutely dominate the counties of West Texas. They elect all the senators and all the representatives. They elect national lawmakers of their faith.

A new departure was announced by the gentleman who drafted the desolutions for this sixth annual convention of the West Texas chamber of commerce. They declare for protection for the livestock industry of Texas. Asserting that the sheep, goat and cattle industry is menaced by the present tariff laws, which permit of the unrestricted shipment of the products of these animals from foreign countries, they recommend to the American congress substantial changes which means higher tariff on the meat product imported by American business men.

Congressman Claude Hudspeth of the El Paso district, is in hearty accord with these declarations looking to the protection of the meat producers of Texas who say they are in direct competition with the meat producers of South American countries and Australia. This is a step forward for Texas democrats. Now will they vote as they resoluted. They made another demand for protected legislation.

Shut Out Orient.

They would shut out by high tariff the vegetable oils from the orient in order to protect the producers of cotton seed and peanut oil here at home. It is known that the south is almost democratic. It is a self evident fact that the south produces the cotton seed oil and the peanut oil of the United States. Now these democrats of West Texas, who are affiliated with the West Texas chamber of commerce, demand legislation looking to the protection of the cotton growers and peanut growers of the south who are forced into direct competition with the countries of the orient, where labor is the cheapest on earth and the standard of living is the lowest? Will they back up their demand with their vote when United States senators and representatives are to be elected by the people to go to Washington as the servants and protectors of the producers of the southwest.

These democrats of the west made another demand in the shape of a protest. They declared that the immigration act prohibiting Mexican labor from crossing the border during harvest time unless a bounty is paid to be unnecessary and against the best interest of the state. It will be recalled that Congressman John C. Box of Texas, a Bourban democrat, is a members of the house immigration committee and one of the authors of the present immigration act, and that the act had the hearty support of many of the lawmakers from Texas.

Recommended Appeal.

Now these democrats of West Texas who affiliate with the West Texas chamber of commerce protest against one of the provisions of the act and recommend its repeal. It is queer to a man in the tree tops that the makers of this Mineral Wells platform never mentioned oil. Petroleum is on the free list. Mexican crude comes in free. Mexican crude is produced by cheap labor. Now why is it on the free list. It is to laugh. Woodrow Wilson democrats placed it on the free list. Harding republicans kept it on the free list, regardless of the protest of the independent oil producers of America.

Americans control the Mexican oil field. Oil producers of America, with very few exceptions, are republicans. Senator Sheppard had an opportunity to use words with the bark on at Mineral Wells. He assailed "the corporate empire," but he didn't tell the people who constituted the corporate empire if there is a corporate empire behind the scenes.

North and South Carolina and Georgia and Tennessee are becoming great manufacturing states. Alabama is a great manufacturing state. Texas is destined to become a great manufacturing state. Are the democrats going to change front on the tariff in the coming campaigns? West Texas democrats who were in control of the Mineral Wells convention made their wishes known. They are for tariff protection for the products of Texas, food and otherwise.

Medical Officer Is Vigorous in Protest Against Bad Medics

DALLAS, Texas, May 16.—At no time since the passage of the medical practice act in 1907 has there been greater need for its vigorous enforcement for public protection, in the opinion of Dr. T. J. Crowe, secretary of the Texas state board of medical examiners, who said here today that the number of inadequately trained practitioners has steadily increased until there are now between 400 and 500 under-equipped persons in Texas calling themselves "doctors" of various system and methods and professing to minister to sick citizens in open violation of law.

Dr. Crowe has directed a letter from the examining board to Dr. C. M. Rosser of Dallas, president of the Texas State Medical association, asking for support and co-operation in protecting the public against the medical underworld.

"These medical bootleggers are violating the law in that they have not obtained the required license," Dr. Crowe said. "They have not obtained a license because they can not measure up to the reasonable scientific standard demanded of all persons who would minister to the afflicted.

"The purpose of the state in passing the medical practice act and in amending it in 1923 was to guarantee to the sick citizen the word 'doctor' means that the 'doctor' recognizes disease when he sees it and knows what measures may be used in combating it," Dr. Crowe declared.

"There are several schools or systems, of practice," Dr. Crowe explained. "The practitioner may prescribe medicnie, use surgery, give advice or make adjustments, according to his professional judgment. No examinee for a license is asked any question about what method or system he expects to use. All practitioners practice their art on the same thing—the human body. Hence, the wisdom of the law requiring all practitioners, no matter what their system is, to know the science of the body and its ills."

REAL REEL ROMANCE

Lilyan Tashman a nd Edmund Lowe.

LOS ANGELES, May 10. — It is whispered around in Hollywood that Lilyan Tashman and Edmund Lowe, film stars, may steal a march on their friends and slip away to Santa Anna and be married seeretly.

They have been engaged for quite a while. They have set a definite date to be wed in August, and it is possible, if their respective motion picture business will allow, that they will honeymoon in Europe.

They have already made arrangements for the building of their new home in Beverly Hills, and Lilyan is ordering most of the furnishings and interior tapestries and carpets from abroad, principally Florence, Italy.

Both Edmund and Lilyan smile and remain quiet when accused of thoughts of an elopement. Both agree that there will be no wedding bells until August—but then, they don't ring wedding bells for secret marriages.

ORDER RAIL INVESTIGATION.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—A special inquiry into the maangement and financing of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad which recently was thrown into receivership, was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission. The three receivers of the property, H. E. Briam, former president of the road; Mark W. Potter, who resigned from the commerce commission last February, and Edward Brundage were made respondents.

The general fund, as usual, is by far the most expensive of all. From it is financed the police, fire, tax and all the smaller departments and for it an appropriation of $247,049.95 has been made. The different departments in the fund have received appropriations as follows: Police, $67,170; fire, $80,500; administrative, $18,00; city clerk, $9,150; tax, $10,750; inspection, $8,445; city hall, $2,739.70; white way and street lights, $15,500; health, $5,898; engineering, $15,000.

Of these funds, the fire department received the heaviest cut. Commissioner Queisser asked $91,500 for that department and was given oly $80,500, a reduction of $11,000. In the estimate is provision for payments on a new fire truck and a new fire station. Other departments receiving reductions, none of which were as large as the fire department, were the police, inspection and engineer. Only one department, the city clerk's, was given more than it requested. W. E. McBroom asked for $8,850 and was allowed $9,150.

A contingent fund of $5,000 was placed in the general fund budget this year.

Revenues accruing to the general fund figure up to $248,250, of which $194,750 will be provided through tax payments at 47 1-2 cents on a $41,000,000 valutaion. Miscellaneous income is listed at $33,000 and cash on hand at $20,500.

In the street department, Commissioner Clifford asked for $64,290—and got it. For revenues, he will receive $64,325, of which $54,325 come from taxes at 13 1-4 and $10,000 from miscellaneous sources.

The sanitary sewer, library, park and water funds have been given appropriations on estimated requests as follows:

| Dept.— | Asked | Allowed |
|---|---|---|
| Sewer Fund. | | |
| Sanitary | $ 26,500.00 | $ 26,500.00 |
| Maintenance | 13,675.00 | 13,657.00 |
| Library Fund. | | |
| Salaries, etc. | $ 12,232.43 | $ 12,232.43 |
| Park Fund. | | |
| Op't. Im't. | $ 81,460.00 | $ 82,510.00 |
| Water Fund. | | |
| Op't. Im't. | $288,775.72 | $288,775.72 |

In each of these funds, income somewhat in excess of the appropriations has been figured on.

It will be noted that the park department was cut heavily. This means that only improvements absolutely necessary will be made there this year. The only improvement noted in the budget report was one calling for graveling roads in Scotland park.

In the water department budget, a total of $157,200 has been set aside for improvements. Operating expenses, including salaries, etc., are listed at $81,250, while a contingent fund of $4,140 has been made. Revenue from water sales is put at $275,000, while cash on hand and other income will run its revenues to $292,060.25, thus making the department, in theory at least, more than self-supporting.

For funding warrant notes outstanding against the city, $37,650 will be needed and $38,520.98 is provided. Interest requirements for the year will be $134,078.56 and sinking fund requirements $46,035.73, making $180,078.29 in all. To meet these requirements $182,450 has been estimated as available.

CHAPERONS COMING BACK.

New Guardians However Are Different From Old Types.

LONDON, May 16.—After having been abolished during the war and during post-war years as being slow and out of date, the ancient institution of the chaperon is coming back. London flappers used to say "heaven preserve us from the return of the wet blanket chaperon," but now she is being welcomed in almost every ball room in a new guise.

While the present day genus looks after young girls she is the exact opposite of the stiff severe woman of pre-war years who cast considerable gloom on any function she happened to attend.

The modern chaperon is just as fond of dancing as the flapper she is chaperoning and even young men are said to welcome them as an intellectual change and relief from the "dreary and dogmatic conversation of the modern girl."

KING'S GLASSES EXCITE

George Wears Horn-Rimmed Glasses at Public Function.

LONDON, May 16.—King George's latest gesture towards the cementing of English speaking peoples is his approval of American horn-rimmed glasses, a pair of which rested on the royal nose while his majesty read the opening address at the Wembley exhibition last week. King George's effort is certain to rank with the greatest conciliatory achievements of his ministers for royal sanction of these optical aids removes a subject for many music hall jokes and much more private and severe criticism of American peculiarities.

Even before Ambassador Harvey arrived wearing his pair of tortoise shells, American glasses were a constant source of humor and sarcasm in London newspapers and were the favorite smile producers of cartoonists and variety artists.

King George's action fairly upset the even run of London life. Many newspapers got out huge placards reading "the king in horn-rimmed glasses," and other similar lines while all the papers carried pictures of his majesty in full optical regalia, and used several columns in recording and commenting upon the event.

SHOP LIFTERS CAUGHT.

SAN ANTONIO, May . 16.—A gang of shoplifters and smugglers operating in several Texas and Mexico cities is believed to have been uncovered through raids conducted simultaneously by deputy sheriffs early this morning on several places in San Antonio. A large quantity of silk goods and other merchandise valued at several thousand dollars were uncovered and four persons taken in custody.

TEQUELA SEIZED.

SAN ANTONIO, May 16.—Four men were arrested and 170 bottles of tequila were seized by customs officers near Hebbronville. Jim Hogg county, according to a telephone message received today by Ed Cotulla, assistant ustoms collector. An automobile, three horses and saddles were confiscated by officers.

Southern Railroad Files Suit Against Paving Assessments

A suit asking that the city of Wichita Falls be restrained from levying a paving assessment against the Wichita Valley railway as the latter's share of improving Harrison street, a thoroughfare crossing the railroad in the southern part of town, was filed Saturday by the railroad company in the 30th district court. It asks for a hearing of the case and prays for a court roder denying the right of the city to make the assessment as it now plans.

The petition, a lengthy one, alleges that the city has no right in law to charge the railway for paving which, it holds, will in no way benefit the railway company. The assessments made, it is contended, are illegal. A number of statutes are cited as authority for this contention.

The Harrison street project, authorized a few weeks ago by the council, is part of an extensive public improvement program inaugurated for the southern section of the city.

City Gas Regulatory Board Contains Five Representative Men

Fire Chief J. L. McClure, Building Inspector Fred A. Smith, Julian Ward, filling station operator; Chas. Hanke, dry cleaner, and Horace Robins, insurance man, will comprise the new gasoline regulatory board created by an ordinance recently adopted by the city. Appointment of the men was made Saturday afternoon at a special meeting of the city council.

The ordinance, drafted as a means of enforcing proper handling of gasoline by filling stations, tailor shops and other business institutions using it, stipulated that the board should be comprised of the fire cheif and building inspector as representatives of the city, and should also have a ifiling station operator, a dry cleaner and an insurance agent.

A meeting o fthe board will probably be held some time in the near future.

Catholic Minister Says To "Shock Life Out Of People With Newspapers"

ST. LOUIS, May 16.—Editors of religious publications were advised to make their news sensational and "shock the life out of people" with their headlines, by Rev. J. W. Smith, editor of the Catholic Register, Denver, Colo., who spoke late today at the convention of the Catholic Press Association of the United States and Canada. The session will continue tomorrow.

"When it comes to journalism, I am yellow clean through," Rev. Smith said.

"I try to stir up interest at any cost short of driving people to sin. With the dry-as-dust recounting of fact, I have no patience. Some day I hope to have enough money to blot my whole front page with red ink.

"Blow your own horn as loudly as possible, use big type and play up your news," Rev. Smith advied, "no matter what it is, if you would have a financially profitable newspaper."

Girl Is Injured In Leap Fro mCar When Trolley Comes Off

Opal Haley, 1615 Thirteenth, sustained a severely cut wrist and arm in addition to minor cuts and bruises about the body when she leaped from an inbound Lake street car early Saturday morning. Lurid flashes ensuing when the trolley came off and brushed the heavily charged trolley wire frightened her, reports made to Motorcycle Officers Perskey and Bentley indicated.

Miss Haley with a girl friend and a boy companion had been at Lake Wichita throughout the evening and were returning to the city on the last car. Near the fair grounds, it was reported, the car encountered trouble with a telephone pole which had been blown down across the track. In stopping, the trolley flew off and the electric flashes resulted.

The girl smashed a window with her bare arm, sustaining the cuts, and then jumped through. For a time it was feared she had been badly hurt but an examination at the hospital revealed injuries less grave than at first thought.

Renfro won low and was presented a dainty embroidered luncheon set. Al Bedinhous received high score for the men and received a box of cigars and W. A. Lucus won low score and was presented a carton of cigarettes.

At a late hour dainty refreshments were served to Messrs. and Mesdames H. W. James, W. B. Reeves Jr., W. L. Renfro, Tom B. Stephens, A. W. West, Al Bedinhous, M. D. Bolton, H. C. Donohoo, W. A. Lucus, Grover Townsend, Foty and O. L. Rawl.

PARIS—Bitter editorial expressions appear in the Paris newspapers today in referring to the inter-allied debt problem. Comment is, however, rare and many papers fail entirely to mention the decision of the cabinet that Finance Minister Caillaux and Foreign Minister Briand shall start active negotiations with the American administration.

MEXICO CITY—Outlaws in the state of Vera Cruz have resumed their activities to such an extent that General Andrew Almazan, the Vera Cruz military commandant, has been ordered to return to his post, cutting short his leave of absence here.

Mexicans Cut Each Other With Knives

Two Mexican men were injured, one rather seriously, in a knife fight under the Katy's Holliday creek bridge early Saturday afternoon. Names of neither of the combatants were obtained by the police.

The men met on a street in the Mexican district, according to reports made to Detective Luke Hart, and an argument ensued. Later one of them followed the other to a point under the bridge and the fight with pocket knives started. One of the men sustained severe slashes about the face and chest while the other was cut about the arms.

Mercy To the Mentally Sick a Blessing To Entire World By Rupert Hughes

By RUPERT HUGHES.

Thistles do bear figs, at least spiritually. From the crime of a young girl who recently murdered her mother came a noble action and a wonderful word.

When Dorothy Ellingson startled the nation by shooting her mother dead, the newspapers and the moralists laid the crime to jazz. She was called "the Jazz Girl," and there was much clamor for her execution as a criminal of peculiar horror.

Her trial was interrupted by one of those allegations of insanity which so disguset our better element. To their confusion, the jury, by a vote of eleven to one, found the girl insane. The girl herself protested with frenzied violence that she was sane; but the judge ordered her to a California institution for the criminal insane. Perhaps anyone of us who too violently asserts his sanity is really insane.

A reporter called on the head of the asylum, and asked how he intended to treat the prisoner. This great man, whose name I am ashamed to have forgotten, answered in a phrase that is to me epoch-making and sublime, sublimely modern, too:

"We have no prisoners here; only patients."

This seems to be to be one of the noblest utterances that ever issued from human lips. In an epigram it sums up the whole modern and scientific attitude toward criminal humanity. It is the very opposite of the ancient world-old philosophies and religions, with their ferocious cruelties, superstitutions and follies.

It represents mercy as we conceive it nowadays. And genuine mercifulness is the most recent of discoveries. It still offends the old-fashioned ideals of virtue, but it has the advantage of being founded on fact and investigation, instead of on prejudice, devil-worship and vindictiveness.

To call criminals criminal in the old sense of wilful viciousness, premeditated choice of evil instead of good, and preverse bargaining with the fiends—is no longer considered intelligent by those who have taken the trouble to study criminals as they are and as they act.

To say that a girl who slaughtered her own mother was a "wicked" woman who knew better, was thoroughly responsible, and should pay the penalty of death, or shameful punishment, is to say an ancient thing as foolish as to say that the earth is flat and the sun revolves around it at a distance of about thirty-five miles.

There are people in America who still say all these things and say them with ferocious indignation against those who contradict them. But in general, we may assume that intelligent people now admit that the earth is round, that it revolves around its own axis and around the sun, and that the sun itself is only one of many suns all in mition.

We no longer offer a Galileo a choice between boiling oil and a stationary earth, and we no longer burn at the stake the people who say that criminals are sick people.

Almost everybody now admits that insane people are ill, yet it is hardly more than a hundred years since the French physician Pinel revived the ancient Greek idea that the insane should be treated gently, and the more violently they behaved, the more tenderly they should be cared for.

Pinel and his followers were reviled as men of evil in their own day, and there are thousands of stubbornly good people who abhor the theory that wastes mercy on a girl who murdered her own mother. But the world moves on and we move with it.

The good new times are full of evil, and the cruel old times were full of individual instances of modern thought and modern kindliness. Yet I was somewhat startled when the case of Dorothy Ellingson reminded me of another girl who murdered her mother a century ago, and, being gently treated, became one of the most beloved figures in literary history almost a saint in popular memory.

A compasison of the two cases may not be out of order.

First, a word about the word "jazz" the word "jazz" has come to be used by lazy people as a substitute for thought. It is their substitute for the out-moded word "devil". The devil used to do all the leading astray; now it is jazz. And so when Dorothy Ellingson killed her mother, the crime was easily explained by calling her the jazz girl.

Now, jazz, of course, is simply a form of highly syncopated musical rhythm. All dance music of the cheerful sort has always been an abomination to people who are opposed to cheerfulness of any sort.

Indignant Puritans who used to call the waltz an infamous institution now call it a sweet, old, almost religious form of graceful exercise. Twenty-five years from now the Puritans, or their representatives in the same sempiternal type, will be laying the blame for all the ancient sins on the appalling prevalence of the new home wrecking hilarity known as "smootch" or "catnip".

And th Puritans of them will be lamenting the decline of "the graceful and demure, the dear old dignified jazz with which the sweet old-fashioned girls of 1925 delighted their pastors and their parents.

It has always been so; why should it cease to be so?

But, come that as it may, the girl who murdered her mother was explained too easily as a jazz addict, so maddened with the hop-habit that when her mother asked her to stay home she destroyed the obstacle to her one happiness. As a matter of fact, Dorothy Ellingson was not particularly fond of dances, but being prematurely developed, was very fond of the society of young men, and with a precocious recklessness frightfully common in life, and almost unheard of in fiction.

After the usual delay, the trial of the girl began and the alleged product of jazz began to indulge in the old-fashioned custom of swooning. The swoons were genuine; too, which is more than can be said for the vapors of many of the colonial dames.

After the girl has passed into unconsciousness fourteen times, the trial was halted to investigate her sanity. The defense insisted she was incompetent; the state protested that she was sane.

At this point as in the Loeb and Leopold case, many of our severest moralists grew furious. They are heartily tired of the constant attempt to get criminals off by a pretense of weak-mindedness. The good people want killers killed.

Curious, isn't it? That it is our best people who are the bloodthirtiest. They are so incapable of understanding how anybody could kill anybody from a vicious motive that they grew positively vicious themselves.

A motive, however, should be studied from the inside not the outside. The results of the best motives are often as hideous as the results of the worst motives are often beautiful. But a motive is one's very own. One's motives are the ownest things one has.

It is my deep conviction that everybody does everything from a motive that looks good at the time to the person motivated. Why on earth should a girl kill her mother unless she thought she had a good reason to?

Of course, we do not expect really good reasons from twisted brains, and the more atrocious the crime the more innocent the criminal is of evil intent.

People who had leprosy were once treated as criminals selected by heaven for signal and incurable disgrace. They were bounded out of cities, stoned on sight and regarded with horror as victims of a plague so contagious that the very wind blowing across them was perilous. Now we know that leprosy is not a crime or a curse from heaven; we know that it is curable; we doubt that it is contagious at all.

Insanity has had a like history. Our attitude toward crime is coming up out of the same pious savagery and supervision. And, as always, it is the grand old conservatives who fight hardest against a scientific and merciful treatment of it.

Their worst accusation against those who oppose cruelty toward the criminal is "sentimentalism". But while science is more merciful than any religion ever was, it is merciful because it seeks for causes and not for curses; it hunts for facts instead of passions, and it looks for results instead of the unending repetition of the same old failures.

If a rattlesnake tries to bite me, it is silly of me to say that he had an evil motive. It may be wise of me to kill him for my own convenience and comfort; but it is silly of me to kill him because he is wicked. He is not wicked.

He is a perfectly respectable gentleman acting according to the honorable customs handed down by his venerable ancestors. If his food-catching secretions chance to disagree with my personal chemistry, it is not his fault. He did not make himself poisonous on purpose. He does not carry his fangs with malice prepense.

I may say that I will kill him before he bites me, if I can, because he is dangerous to me and I am bigger and quicker than he is. So it may be well (or it may not be well) for society to put to death the poor human beings whose brains secrete venom instead of what we call virtue.

But the execution should be done with regret and pity in the name of safey and not of rebuke. As heritage and environment make a rattlesnake dangerous to human society, so they make a criminal a criminal without consulting him.

For several days I had been passing a house with a large red sign on the door, "scarlet fever". Like everybody else of my time, I felt sorry for the poor souls inside, and hoped for the best, and thanked my stars that it was not my home that had been stricken. Now the sign is gone and I hope that the child recovered. I am glad that placard was not replaced by a knot of crape.

But if I had been a good man in the good old days, I should have sneered at the house and said it was marked by God's displeasures and his punishment of the sins of that family. If I had been very ardently religious, I should have heaved a stone through the window, to show how I despised wicked people. That is what people do nowadays, who hate criminals, and stone them. Tomorrow our descendants will feel sorry.

It is sickening to behold the holier-than-thou attitude of people toward criminals, when any of them might have been a worse criminal with a little different heritage or a little different environment. Furthermore the best of us are criminal constantly; we commit the most horrible crimes daily in our neglect of conditions that breed crime, in our acquiescence in abominable wrongs inflicted on criminals, in our subservience to tyrants who enforce ancient superstitions and bully us into accepting laws and codes that are murderous and what is almost worse, unscientific, certain to aggravate and perpetuate the very ills they are supposed to check. History has proved nothing plainer than that punishment does not prevent. Punishment is revenge, and revenge is a foul thing.

As soon as the question was raised as to the sanity of the "jazz girl" who killed her mother, a pitiful history was dragged to light. How true it was I cannot pretend to say. But the girl's father told how the murdered woman nearly murdered him in her sleep; he woke up and found her throttling him in her nightmare. When he told her, she fainted.

What is a crime-mood anyway but a nightmare, a sleep-walking?

I am convinced that the poor girl who murdered her poor mother was insane, and that the jury acted wisely and honestly and helpful.

It seems to my perhaps abnormal mind almost insane to imagine a murderess sane. Is it sane to think that a sane girl in this free country would shoot her mother dead, when she could simply have walked away or run away from home, earned her own living and enjoyed her liberty? Would it have advanced the progress of mankind for the state to kill the girl in cold blood

Are not those people insane who think that by putting to death this storm-ridden child they would have prevented other children from murdering their mothers? Do they think that a distracted female somewhere in the woods or the slums would have stopped to ponder: "I mustn't kill mamma because out West they put a girl to death for putting her mother to death?" Will any frenzied maniac put away the knife or throw the poison down the sink from recalling a newspaper story?

Is it sane to think that people in a critical passion can be trusted to remember executions remote in time and space?

Was it sane for the English to go on hanging boys for stealing when they knew that other boys hurried to the gallows and stolue from the crowd because the hanging drew a crowd?

Is it sane for judges, preachers, editors and other prominent pundits to go on calling for more gore and more severe punishment when they have only to read history to see that punishment never yet curbed crime? Brand Whitlock wrote a magnificent essay years ago called "The Worst Failure in History". It concerned the whole theory and practice of punishment.

Fortunately matricide is one of the rarest crimes in history, and it is not likely to become a fashion. Dorothy Ellingson would have been forgotten, if she had been killed. What her future may be, I cannot even imagine. But if I should prophesy for her a life of beauty and usefulness, I would not necessarily prove myself insane, for there was a girl who killed her mother, and came out of the lightning-storm into a beautiful day.

Strangely enough, she is cherished as one of the dearest women in English literature. She committed the same almost incrediable crime as the poor jazz girl, but she had a different aftermath, owing to the devotion of a brother who is perhaps the most beloved figure in English literature.

Charles Lamb was also at times a wit of peculiar savagery, a stutterer and a graduate of an insane asylum. It was he who, when asked by a shy lady how he liked babies, answered:

"B-b-boiled, madam. I like 'em b-b-boiled!"

In his youth Lamb suffered a period of such mental unrest that he was confined in an asylum. He was released and took up his grind at clerkship.

One day, in 1796, his sister Mary, sitting at home where their demented grandfather was babbling in senile helplessness, was smitten by a mental cyclone that overthrew all her beautiful ideals and ruined her soul as fearfully as the cyclone that recently destroyed two hundred miles of peaceful countryside, and tortured numbers of children to death in the blasing wreckage of the schoolhouse where they were attending to their duties.

In an access of that temporary insanity (which criminal lawyers refer to so often, and men of boasted common sense so distruct) Mary Lamb seized a carving-knife, chased her terrified mother about the room where the grand-father prattled and struck her dead.

Charles Lamb came home to find his mother weltering in her own blood, and his sister on the other side of her brief mania, wondering what had happened. He recognized Mary's innocence of malice, as soon as he recovered from the horror that met his eyes. With an almost superhuman wisdom, heroism and tenderness, he abstained from even reproaching his stricken sister, took her by the hand and led her away from the scene, over the hills to the mad-house.

I heard the humorist Bob Burdette tell how Barry Cornwall met Lamb and his sister going along the road on that heart-breaking errand.

During her incarceration in an asylum, Mary Lamb had the extraordinary lick to receive the kindly treatment which had just begun to come into style among dealers with the insane (to the horror of the ground old conservatives, who knew that the insane were inhabited by devils and should be flogged and reviled.)

Consequently Mary soon returned to herself and was restored to her brother. He devoted his life to her and she gave hers to him.

She enjoyed the intimate friendship of such geniuses as Wordsworth and Coleridge, who knew her tragedy and treated her with no less of deference. Lamb wrote his irresistibly genial "Essays of Elia" in an atmosphere of constant menace, for his sister's mania was recurrent. He could never know when she would break back again.

In spite of her past, Mary was respected and beloved. She collaborated with her brother on the book "Tales from Shakespeare, by Charles and Mary Lamb", which has taught countless children their first love of the master-poet by revealing what a good story-teller he was.

Every few years Mary had a relapse. Her brother would note that she suddenly talked as if she were once more in the past. Promptly he would take her by the hand and inform her that she was going to be "ill" again. With a pathetic meekness that can well be imagined, Mary would nod, pack up her things and go back to the asylum where she could rave and suffer onsets of murder-fever, without harming anybody. After a few months of storm, she would get well again. Then her brother would come for her, and recall her to her beautiful broken life for another respite from the bewilderment of insanity.

If the people who clamored for the death of the jazz girl had lived in that day, they would have demanded the daughter of sweet Mary Lamb; they would have destroyed her body and soul; they would have robbed us of the precious books she helped to write and of the exquisite life-story she contributed to human chonicle.

It behooves us to be careful how we take away a life that we can never restore.

The jazz girl's father and brother described her mad remorse, her ghastly amazement when she learned of her mother's death. She went through the most unusual tumults of soul and passed into coma again and again. Her outbursts of bad temper were themselves onsets of malady.

One of the witnesses testified that after shooting her mother, the girl went to a party and danced and drank. This was a hideous thing to do; but was it a sane thing? was it the act of an intelligent being, careful of deeds and of the appearances of evil?

However vile or mad she may have been, we ought to find something wiser to do than denounce her and wreck vengeance on her. There ought to be something bettar for civilization to do for this shattered victim of her own overwhelming tempests than to call her hard names, heap shame on her and murder her because she was sick. There ought to be something more intelligent to do for one who was manifestly an invalid in a delirium. We should find lightning rods for these imperrilled temples

Until we find our way out of this cave of gloom, can we deny her at least our sympathy, our pity, or tears?

Thanks to science and its increasing marvels of research, not only among the far-off nebulae and the spinning suns, but, among the nebulae inside our skulls and the infinitesimal microbes, and the very universe inside the atoms, there is a new code of mercifulness.

Not so long ago one might honestly have inscribed over the door of every insane asylum the iron words that Dante found above the entry into Hell: "All hope leave ye behind who enter here". In a few years we may be able to inscribe over the gates of all our penitentiaries and other penal institutions, these golden words evoked by Dorothy Ellingson's new guardian: "We have no prisoners here; only patients".

Osborn Holds Cats To Two Bingles and Spudders Win, 3 To 0

BODIE SLAPS OUT HIS EIGHTH HOMER OF SEASON AS KITTENS TAKE COATING OF WHITEWASH

White's Double and Callaghan's Hit Pave Way for Other Two Counters of Crew

By BLONDY CROSS

El Paso is destined to become deliriously famous some day through the performances of Long Bob Osborn, native of the border burg and erstwhile Rio Grande cowboy golfer, who doffed his niblick and mashie not so long ago swapped his cayuse for a baseball glove.

Elongated Robert lassoed and tied Cowtown's snarling Panthers in various and assorted knots Saturday at the Tanner ball yard. Taking a stance on the rubber with a reckless but more or less condescending air about him and the general atmosphere of "you can't get anywhere anyhow, so why don't you go back and lie down?" our Robert, in parlance of the Ancient and Royal, made a long hole in two and kept Cowtown's swingers in the rough throughout.

Jacob Atz's hirelings tapped Robert in rather effeminate fashion, be it said, for a pair of weak bingles to virgin territory. The Spudders toddled off with the winning margin of a 3 to 0 score.

That first hit combed from Bob's delivery was of the mangiest type imaginable. Stormy Davis, who, after all, appears no more than a gentle zephyr, was dodging one of Bob's heaves in the third with bat on his shoulder like a good soldier. The agate connected with timber, however, and sailed dizzily to the open spaces back of second. Mullen swished a gentle bounder past second in the ninth for the other base biff.

Quite a Record.

Robert seems at his best when hurling against the Cats. He's chunked three contests with the Kitties on the opposing end. Set 'em down in the first matinee, 3 to 1. Later battled through 14 scoreless stanzas with Joe Pate, and then Saturday blanked 'em with a brace of singles. That's 33 innings and one run. The Cats scored in the sixth round of the initial tilt. In other words, this latest whitewash masterpiece painted by the Spudder slab artist brings the total up to 26 scoreless couplets for the Felines with Bob on the hill.

Al White, Canny Cal and Pingus Bodie furnished the scoring punch. Al whipped out a double right at a critical stage, and Callaghan followed shortly after with a one-base punch. Pingus laced one to the home run zone in the third with the paths unpopulated.

With three and nothing on him, Davis was called out on strikes in the opening couplet. The Spud inner works retired the next two batsmen. Callaghan drew a pass in the domestic half of the inning, but the glittering opportunity went glimmering. Distel aviated to starboard. Fitz caught one on the flask pocket, and went to first. Bodie busted a sizzler at the box, forcing Cal at third. Dorman bobbled out to pitcher.

The Cats failed to indicate in the second. Bob walked Edington with two away, but Windle expired at the platter. And then our noble Spudders breezed to the fore with a two-run margin. Head issued a first base coupon to Golvin. White followed up with a two-cushion larrup of bullet-like avidity over first base. Walt parked at third. Query was passed intentionally, and Osborn bounced into a double pay, Query getting cut down at the keystone. Golvin tabulated, and Cal countered with a buzzing one-base drive to center, chasing White to the money rack. Distel got on when Windle heaved high to first. Fitz biffed out to Koney, unassisted.

A Subdued Litter.

The ferocious Felines were more or less a subdued litter in the third, thanks to sweet fielding of the Spud infield and Mr. Bodie in left. Moore slugged one to short and Distel threw wide to first after making a great stop, but Walt leaned out, flopped down at full length and clutched the sphereoid in mid-flight, cutting Possum away. Head bruised the pill at Osborn who delayed progress momentarily, and Distel came in with the same burst of speed that Flying Ebony finished the Kentucky derby, scooped up the trickling pellet and chunked the runner out by an eyelash. Davis tried to dodge the ball, but connected instead for a single to center. Mullen walked, and Sears hoisted the apple to port, Bodie enacting a great running catch.

Ping then led off in the Spudder half of the third chapter with a rocket thrust squarely into the teeth of the gale. The agate wafted high over the port parapet. 'Twas the brutal man's eighth non-stop slam of the season. Head was erased, and Dutch Kenner scrambled aboard the hurling eminence, Doman grounded out. Golvin singled to right, and White walked, but Query hoisted to Sears in left, and Osborn rolled out to the mound.

Three Cats got to swing in the fourth. Distel retired Edington, the third man up, by racing back to short left to pull down a Texas league. Kittens couldn't get well in fifth and sixth although Bob walked the first man at bat in the sixth. The Spudders threatened in the fourth and fifth but both times the double play machine of Palmer to Windle to Koney functioned in well-oiled fashion. And in the sixth, Dutch was complete master of the situation. Three of the Tanner gentry went down like ten pins.

Lots of Spice.

An extra portion of spice was added to the encounter in the seventh round by Umper Osborne (don't confuse him with our Robert, the Spudder pitcher) and Eddie Palmer. Now at ball players regret the calling of a third strike by an arbiter, but Edward expressed his regrets a bit too vociferously. In fact the cay keystoner waxed eloquently to the extent that his nibs, the indicator, backed off as if fearing fistic advances by the athlete and ordered him to take his departure. Jakie Atz saved the umpire's life and limb by embracing Eddie, and stroking him on the after portion of his anatomy. The petting process served to Ameliorate matters, and Edward betook himself hence. Artful Arthur Phelan replaced the banished one in the Cat batting order.

Atz got the air in the ninth. The veteran Fort Worth skipper objected to another called strike, this time on Mullen who singled afterward. Umpire Osborne donated him the gate with gusto.

The gang plays in Fort Worth Sunday afternoon, and then they're off for a jaunt over the circuit, returning June 2. Looks like Carl Williams for mound duty in the Cat affair.

GUYON SHOWS WAY IN AMERICAN ASS'N.

Creaking out 16 hits in his last six games, Guyon of Louisville has gone to the head of the list of American association batters. The Louisville slugger hitting .406 a week ago, is perched on the top with a mark of .458, a gain of 52 points in a week.

Wade of St. Paul moved up to second place with .421, while Luce and Brief of Milwaukee and Kinsella of Toledo suffered setbacks. Webb of Toledo, showing improvement with the stick, is third with .411.

Earl Smith of Minneapolis is the best run getter with 29 and in addition to leading in total bases with 79, is tied with Duncan and Ainsmith, teammates, for the home run honors. Each has cracked out five.

Koenig, St. Paul flash, is leading the base stealers with seven thefts.

TEXAS U. HAMMERS BAYLOR ACE OUT OF BOX TO EVEN SERIES

WACO, May 16.—Jake Freeze, pitching his last game in a Baylor uniform, was knocked out of the box in the sixth inning and Texas university evened the series with the Bears by winning the Carrol Field tilt 13 to 6 here today.

Gore relieved Freeze in the hectic sixth but was unable to stop the Longhorns before they had safely tucked away the game. It had been a pitchers' duel up to that time between the Baylor ace and Cox of Texas.

Cisco knocked a home run with one on in the third, and was the local star of the game. The victory gives Texas another life in the conference, race which Bridges had hoped to check.

Hull to Scrap Sam Riley In Vernon Battle

Clyde Hull, St. Paul welter who knocked out Joe Denton Friday night in the American Legion main event, has been matched to meet Sammy Riley of Altus in a ten-rounder next Thursday at Vernon, it was announced Saturday night.

Hull has beaten practically all the good boys in the southwest and is now claiming the championship of this section.

Riley is heralded as a young comer. Recently he fought Duke Trammel to a draw, and last week battled Renato Torres, Mexican welter champ, even up in ten rounds at Vernon.

LEO BALDWIN ADDS BELLMONT CUP TO HIS SPORT LAURELS

AUSTIN, May 16.—Leo Baldwin, Wichita Falls track star, was Saturday awarded the Bellmon cup for the best all round athlete at the University of Texas. He amassed a total of 5.315 points, while Sheppard, from Eastland, another freshman, was second with 5,115 points.

BUFF NOSE EXPORTERS.

HOUSTON, May 16.—Although Gus Foreman had a slight edge in effectiveness over young Ray Benge in a hurling duel here today Foreman's wild pitch in a clinch and timely singles by Homer Peel, Buffs' great slugging kid, gave Houston a 3 to 2 verdict over Beaumont. Kane and Devivieros, opposing shortstops, starred afield. Diviney relieved Benge after Ormand had tripled to start the ninth and retired the side.

Few Rich Men's Sons Go Very Far In Realm of Athletics

Ed Hughes' Column

AMERICA LEADS—OTHERS FOLLOW IN SPORT REALM.

The recent victory of Jean Borotra, the Bounding Basque, in our national indoor singles, while disappointing too many, has its own consolations. It only serves to show that the U. S. is the world's greatest teacher in sport.

A year ago when Borotra and Rene La Coste, fought it out for the championship of France, La Coste, the winner explained:

"I didn't know what tennis was until I entered American tournaments. I learned more in two months of play in America than I ever have in Europe."

The same goes for Borotra, too. Now risen to the court pinnacle, indoors, the Bounding Basque may well repeat the generous though doubtless truthful words of La Coste. Still, it is nothing new that America has taught the outside world something new in the sport line. She's been doing that for years.

Great Britain ruled the tennis courts for decades, but America, quick to learn and persistent in the face of repeated set-backs, finally obtained the mastery. Also she wrought new wrinkles for a game generally supposed to be unelatistic to new methods of play.

Malcom Whitman brought on the reverse twist.

It was America, too, that conceived the new doubles formations.

In addition to this one must not forget the sterling technique of such players as Bob Wrenn, Whitman, Ware, Clothier, Wright, Bill Johnston McLoughlin, Richards and Tilden. They have long been recognized as models of formidable tennis form abroad.

McLoughlin's style, while considered too dynamic to serve as an example for the young to copy, nevertheless wielded, probably the most far-flung influence of them all in England. "Red Mac's" picturesque methods aroused such interest in England, drew such tremendous crowds, that a new and more capacious stadium was built to accommodate the spectators.

EIGHT OLYMPIC TRIUMPHS

Eight successive Olympics triumphs speaks for itself for American perfection in the realm of track and field sports. Nor has it been such a matter of superior materil as it has been invention, modern ideas of training and manipulation of the event. All foreign countries recognize the American system of coaching as being without a peer anywhere.

Of course every now and then a chap comes along who makes our best athletes look foolish. He is the genius, the phenomenon. Rules and methods cannot compete with him. Paavo Nurmi belongs to this sacred band, though there are some who claim he has taught us something new in the matter of running. The writer is at a loss to discover this. Nurmi's wonderful successes haven't contradicted any of the American principles of form in running. They haven't had anything to do with them. Nurmi is a superman. As such he has nothing to offer in the way of new ideas.

Nurmi merely points the obvious truth that supermen are born, not made, and that they are mighty rare specimens in any part of the earth.

Nearly all the striking changes in athletic styles have originated in the restless, fertile brain of the American.

Sherrill invented the crouch start in sprinting.

American pole-vaulters made "jumping with the stick" a fine art.

Kraenzlein was the first of our great hurdlers, and we've been turning out wonder timber-toppers ever since—models for the whole world to pattern after. Thomson and Lord Burghley represent two of our best pupils.

Johnny Weismuller, coached by the famous Bill Bachrach, was responsible for the record-breaking "six beat" crawl in swimming.

Tod Sloan, years ago, taught the jockeys of old England that the erect position on a nag was all nonsense.

In prize-fighting the American has been supreme because he perfected a strictly American style. He is a smart combination of boxer and fighter, specializing in knockout blows. He is a rare species of skilled fighting man. It pays, he teaches, to be able to hit as well as to box neatly. The American style has led the rest of the world for the last half century.

FRANCE LEARNS BIFF GAME

The countries that have learned the ring game under Americans have started in the right way. France was fortunate in having Frank Erne and Willie Lewis teach her the rudiments of the biff game. Rufe Turner, skilled colored lightweight of the Joe Fans era practically founded the game in the Orient. Turner is really responsible for the Pancho Villas of today.

Argentina and Chili came under the influence of American ring tactics at the start. These countries have been turning out powerful foemen ever since. Firpo rose to the eminence of a championship battle with Dempsey solely because his experiences here taught him that the American ring was no pink tea affair. Vicentini, the Chilean, is one of the most dangerous lightweights performing today. He is a cool, calculating boxer, if not a particularly skilled one. Best of all he has the hardest punch of any lightweight today.

You will hear more of Chili in the fighting game. Vicentini is back in his own country teaching his fellowmen the American idea of punching human features for fame and fortune

WISCONSIN WINNER OF BIG TEN TRACK MEET

CHICAGO, May 16.—(AP)—Wisconsin today won the quadrangular western conference track and field meet here with 63 1-4 points. Ohio State was second with 48 1-4 points, Chicago third with 34 1-4 and Northwestern fourth with 18 1-4 points.

IT'S THE OLD HARD WORKING BOY WHO GRABS OFF MOST OF THE CHAMPIONSHIPS, BROTHER

Take Paavo, Dempsey, Rockne or Hauser for Instance—They Were the Laboring Lads

By ROBERT EDGREN

I was watching Paavo Nurmi in a race. At my elbow a famous trainer muttered: "What makes 'em so tough, that's what I'd like to find out."

Paavo Nurmi, the Finn, was brought up with few luxuries. He didn't drive to school in a flivver. He walked or ran. He ate dried fish and black bread—the Finnish national fodder. He did a tremendous lot of running for years, and won a bunch of titles and records in Olympic meets. He has done enough running on American board tracks during the past winter to stale a regiment of men, and he's as nimble and enduring as ever. In America Nurmi has been eating American foods—even pie and pastry—but he hasn't shown any letdown in endurance or speed. He can still go as fast as he wants to at any time.

Heredity may have something to do with it. Paavo comes from a long line of black bread and dried fish eating Finns, who walked or ran when they wanted to go anywhere, and who took their baths, even in midwinter (and the Finnish winter is something to talk about) by going out in the back lot after dark and pouring a bucket of water over their heads.

Coach Knute Rockne once said to an interviewer: "Rich men's sons have a hard time making the football teams these days. They ride in cars too much and they don't develop their legs. Notre Dame football men pick tough jobs for their vacation time, like working on lake steamer docks. Rockne used to do that when he was at Notre Dame, and he advises his football men to try it. Hard work never hurt an athlete. Red Grange, the gridiron sensation of the two past years, drives an ice wagon in vacation time.

Jim Duncan's discus throwing record of 156 feet 3-8 inches, stood for 13 years before it was broken last month by Bud Houser, and by Glenn Hartranft the week following. When Jim Duncan was making world's records with the discus he worked on an L railroad in New York, inspection and repair job. Handling a big sledge hammer gave him a pair of huge and powerful hands, and big hands are needed to control the discus.

"What makes 'em so tough?"

Jack Dempsey never knew how to order a hotel meal in his younger days. He worked in lumber camps, at road building, in mines, at driving horses, and on mechanical jobs in ship yards. He worked from the time he was eight years old. He lived on plain, coarse food. He didn't know there was such a thing as mushroom sauce or a river fattened oyster. He developed big lean working muscles and big hard hands—and became a world's champion when he tried ring fighting. Dempsey has been living softly for several years now, and but for his years of hard work would be in the mushy stage. He knows how hard he'll have to work to get back into the condition he could reach in a weak, five or six years ago. "I must have three months of hard training before I can fight," says Dempsey.

Rich Men's Sons Handicapped

How many rich men's sons make good in sports? Not many. Tom Shelvin of Yale was a marvelous exception, but heredity counted there. Shelvin's father was a lumberman and Shelvin was brought up in the woods.

Martin Sheridan, once America's most famous athlete, came of a family of athletes in Ireland, Martin used to boast that his father could beat him jumping and throwing the stone. Martin worked hard as a boy and developed a great frame for sport. Martin told me one time that when he left Ireland he visited England before starting for America and ran out of money. Seeing a road gang working on road repairs Martin stopped and watched them.

"They were half loafing," said Martin in telling about it. "I walked over to the foreman and said: 'Put me to work, and if I don't do more than six of your men don't pay me.' He gave me a shovel, and I had a strong back in those days. I did more than any six men on the job and set a pace they couldn't follow. I was my delight to outwork the Englishmen. When I left that job they tried to make me stay, but I was off for America."

In America Martin made a score or so of world's athletic records, won all-around championships and more Olympic championships than any other athlete except Ray Ewry, the famous jumper. I've seen many statements that Bud Houser is the first athlete who ever won the Olympic shot and discus events in the same meet. Martin Sheridan did that at Athens, and was placed in three other events besides. Bob Garrett of Princeton also won both the shot and the discus at Athens in 1896.

Heredity Plays Great Part in Athletes

There have been a few sons of rich men who became great athletes. There was John R. DeWitt of Princeton, a tremendous man and still remembered for his great football play and hammer throwing. I don't know much about DeWitt's family, but it's a safe bet there were no idlers in it. He didn't get his huge physique by accident. You can see the mark of heredity every time.

Take the negro fighters. Not one of them was born with a silver spoon in his mouth. Their ancestors labored since the dawn of history. They built the pyramids. They dug the great Egyptian canal three thousand years ago, where the Suez canal is now, where the Egyptian slave drivers left the bones of a hundred thousand worn out men in the desert sands beside the big ditch. They worked in southern plantations and handled baled votton on the steamer docks of New Orleans and other southern ports. And they have big shoulders and long arms and big fists, and a punch in either mitt. Jack Johnson was a Galveston stevedore. Joe Walcott was a coal shoveler on steamers up from Barbadoes. Sam Langford was a sailor. Joe Gans worked in the Baltimore fish markets. Harry Wills was a stevedore, after starting rubbing down horses and working as exercise boy on the race tracks.

Best Athletes Are Those Who Work Hardest.

Recently I walked through the grounds and some of the buildings of Stanford university with George Culver, dean of men in the university. We saw the fields where athletes were training under their coaches, the dormitories where they slept, the dining halls and the kitchens—all the places the boys frequented when outside the class rooms. They were at their various tasks with enthusiasm and rushing energy. It seemed to me I'd never seen finer youngsters anywhere in the world.

"Some people think of college students as 'rah-rah boys', said Dean Culver. "There may be a little rah-rahing at the football games and other events now and then, but the rah-rah boy belongs on the stage and in the moving pictures. He isn't seen in the modern college. It takes work to keep up to scholarship requirements. And you'd be surprised if you knew how many of these boys are working their way through Stanford. Sixty per cent of them, I'd say, working their way wholly or in part. It'd make you weep to hear them called 'rah-ram boys' when you know how hard some of these boys have to fight to get an education—working in the kitchens, waiting on tables, doing every kind of work inside and outside of college and working through their vacations on farms, in blacksmith shops—everywhere, and keeping up with their studies all the time. Those are the fellows who make real men. And say—do you know the best football players and athletes we have are the fellows who have to work hardest?"

When I again meet the famous trainer who wants to know "What makes 'em so tough" I'll tell him.

It's work. There never was a loafer yet who amounted to anything.

Brown Pilot Pushes Up On Hitting Leaders

Veterans Fight to Front In National League Drive

CHICAGO, May 16.—George Sisler, staging the most remarkable comeback of the 1925 pennant race, had challenged the top liners for batting honors of the American league.

The famous pilot of the St. Louis Browns, the averages released today reveal, is batting fifth with an average of .413 and is determined to set a new major league record held by himself for safe hitting in consecutive games. Since the start of the race, Sisler has collected 50 hits, an average of almost two for each game. These figures are based on games including those of Wednesday.

Hale Sets Pace.

Sisler established the record for consecutive hitting in 1922 when he smashed through 41 games before failing to connect safely. Up to the time today's averages were compiled, Sisler had participated in 28 games, including one tie contest.

Sammy Hale of the leading Athletics is setting the pace for the batters with an average of .437. Severeid, veteran catcher with the Browns, is second with .423, with Ty Cobb third with .420.

Simmons of the Athletics and Ken Williams of St. Louis are tied in home runs with six apiece. Cobb has not been able to add to his five which he collected in two days of toil.

Fournier on Top.

There is a familiar ring to the names of the trio hitting above .400 in the National league—Fournier, Brooklyn and Hornsby and Bottomley of St. Louis. Fournier is leading with .433. Hornsby, falling off slightly, is batting .411, three points above his teammate, Jimmy Bottomley.

Louis Fonseca, former Cincinnati Red, is hitting well since joining the Phillies and is sticking close to the leaders, batting fifth with .380. Bancroft of Boston is fourth with .391. Gabby Hartnett of Chicago added another home run to his string and is leading with nine. Will Hornsby next with six and Fournier third with five.

One of the outstanding feats in hitting during the week was accomplished by George Burns of the Phillies. The former Red and Giant bagged a dozen doubles.

There was little activity in base stealing, Heathcote of Chicago setting the pace with five thefts.

Other leading batters for 10 or more games: Moran, Philadelphia, .380; Earl Smith, Pittsburgh, .378; Wheat, Brooklyn, .370; Moore, Pittsburgh, .364; Southworth, New York, .362; Gonzales, St. Louis, .362.

HALE, HALE, GANG'S ALL HERE!

And Cornelius Has Visions of Sweet Infield At Last

By NORMAN E. BROWN.

Connie Mack, sometimes referred to as the elongated boss of the Athletics, is unusually a quiet, reticent gent. Evidences of an exuberance of spirits are usually confined to a slight chuckle and a lingering grin.

But in the quietude of his hotel room you may hear Connie these days actually singing:

"Hale, Hale, the Gang's all here."

And he has reason to be oh, so awfully joyful.

For ten years now Connie has been laboring to build up a ball club that will emulate the deeds of his old White Elephants by winning a few pennants. Year after year his hopes have bloomed brightly and then suffered from frost bite, dry rot or the boll weavil.

Much of his efforts have been centered on developing a set of infielders. Connie once had an infield—McInnis, Barry, Collins and Baker. What an infield it was!

Continuing his efforts Connie two years ago, brought Sammy Hale from the Portland club of the Pacific coast league where that youngster had played third in brilliant style. Mack believed, from advance reports, that he finally had Baker's successor. Believed it to the extent that he paid $75,000 for Hale.

Sammy showed promise, it is true, when he reported, but he was green. Connie realized to his dismay the youngster needed a couple of years in which to get seasoned. Those two years have passed. Now Hale seems ripe.

Subs for Dykes.

Sent in to play third when Jimmy Dykes suffered an injury, Hale proceeded to display a game that caused Connie to enthuse. His fielding was brilliant and finished. His ability to go to the left for hard hit ground balls surprised even his teammates. His hittinng was spectacular, running up above .400 in his first few games.

Dykes was returned to the lineup when he recovered but he plays today with the knowledge that Samuel waits on the bench ready to take his place. And Connie is happy in the thought that he is at last fortified with a man for third and indirectly for second. Dykes can play second and in event of an accident to Bishop could move to the keystone sack. Hale would go to third in this event.

Somewhat overshadowed by the unexpected playing of Hale at third has been that of Max Bishop at second. Bishop was another youngster bought too green. Connie paid $40,000 for him. He broke into 80 games at the keystone sack last season and played brilliant ball at times but his work was erratic. Dykes in 70 games at the bag, showed Bishop how the base should be played. Bishop's hitting was poor at times, too

This year Bishop got away to a good start. He seems to have his feet on the ground. He is approaching the form Connie expected him to display when the first reports from the coast caused the Athletic boss to plank out the small fortune for him.

Zip Hauser, in form, stacks up as by far the best first sacker Connie has found in his hunt for a star for that base. Hauser's injury was a body blow to Connie's hopes, but Fate smiled on Connie when she introduced him to Jimmy Poole. This coast star seems ready to demand a place in Connie's new infield regardless of Mr. Hauser.

As things look now Connie seems to have an infield that within a year or two will make a bid for the fame that came to that old $100,000 infield crew. But this new one—as ball player prices go nowadays—will be known as the "Million Dollar" combination. Things have changed since 1914, Marie.

Looking 'Em Over On the Sandlots

TERRIBLE INJURY

Calvin "Hoop" Cannon, brilliant outer gardner of the First Methodist nine injured his right foot Friday in the Methodist-Presbyterian game of the Sunday school league. Hoop was rounding first base in the fifth spasm, when his foot caught in the bag and his big toe was slightly sprained. Hoop reported for work Saturday wearing a house slipper on the right support.

Skipper Boone of the First Methodist club was tickled pink Saturday when the telephone rang and he was informed that Johnnie McMahon, flashing outfielder star was back in town after a trip to his grandmother's had put him out of the lineup Friday. Catcher Ward ambled down to Dallas Friday afternoon and was also listed among the missing at the Friday battle.

BUT WILL THEY DO IT?

Cheer up ye amateurs, players, umpires, etc. League Prexy L. O. Landon and Assistant Secretary "Ichabod" Turner will pack a sack of lime and lots of water out to Amateur park Sunday morning and lime off the foul lines and do some general work on the field.

Listen farmers! another rain is due sometime Tuesday. Ludlam and Riggs is scehduled to hook up with the Security bank on that date. Four times this year J. Pluvis has spilt a good quantity of H20 on these Smithians, in fact, every time Len Smith decided to play a game of baseball.

ROWLE HAS REAL ARM

Riley Rowls is becoming mere death to all baserunners that seek to add bases to their hits when the ball goes to Riley's field. Friday, Shipley smashed a double to center that sent Freddie Boone out for some road work. The runner had high hopes of a triple but Riley relayed the ball in from Freddie and with a bullet-like peg nailed Shipley at third. Skipper Boone tagged the runner with plenty of time to spare.

Len Smith is all broke out with good news to his followers in the Twilight league. To begin with Len has signed two new inner guardsmen to strengthen his forces. Abe Baskars, former Texas university star, and "Mule" Watson of Cleburn. Watson is classed as an amateur Sultin of Swat and Len expects a lot out of this gent. The rest of the good news is that Fat Mathis and Dick Gordon are about out from under the weather.

PARKER STEPS OUT

There has been one fine record turned in this year in the Sunday school loop by Jimmy Parker, tall Floral Heights Methodist chunker, in a game with the hard-hitting First Presbyterian club. Parker hurled seven innings of shutout ball. Allowed but two hits, singles by Marvin Roberson and Bob Riley. He walked four, Harvey, Francis and Fritz Taylor twice. He whiffed 15 during the seven couplets. M. Roberson, Burks, Habern, Harvey, Taylor and Riley were whiffed once each. Francis, Fisher and L. Roberson twice were victims of the strikeout. Norman Adams was fanned three times. Some pitching, eh, what?

Electric and Travelers Today

The Wichita Falls Electric company and the Monroes' Travelers will be the first to try out the newly limed field. These two are scheduled to hook up in a nine rounder Sunday afternoon at three bells. Hatton or Crites will do the chunking for the Travelers while Blue or Kollman are expected to work for the Electric company. A good game is expected and a large crowd will likely journey forth to watch these two battle.

Varsity Netters Win Conference Honors Handily

FORT WORTH, May 16.—Louis Thalheimer and "Cotton Mather, of Texas university, won the southwestern conference championship in doubles, and Thalheimer captured the singles crown in the last day of play in the annual meeting of the conference teams. It was an all-Texas singles, and Funkhouser and Love runners-up in doubles.

Play was fast and brilliant, but the stamina of all the players fighting for the crown made the match long indeed. The doubles title was won by a score of 7-5; 5-7; 10-8; 6-6, a margin of four games out of the 5 played for the winners. In the singles, Thalheimer won from Funkhouser 7-5; 1-6; 6-1; 6-2.

In the morning Powers and Armstrong of Baylor, defeated White and Sloan, of Rice, in three sets 6-3; 1-6; 6-3. This gave the Bruins the right to meet Funkhouser and Love in the semi-finals. The result of this match was 6-4; 6-1; 3-6; 6-3, for Texas. The match was well played, the net game of both Powers and Love Featuring.

YALE CREW WINNER OF TRIANGLE RACE

DERBY, Conn., May 16.—Yale won the varsity eighth race on the Housatonic river this evening, with Cornell second, a length behind and Princeton third, five and a half lengths behind. Yale's time was 11:06; Cornell's time 11:21 and Princeton's time 11:25 4-5.

DEMPSEY IS RETIRED AND OTHER HEAVIES GONE--WHO WILL BE NEX T, ASKS HUGHES

Slattery and Maloney Appear To Be Best of Artists Now In Sight of Big Crown

This is the ripe moment for the opportunists in the domain of the heavyweights. Dempsey, seemingly, has gone into permanent retirement. Wills, Greb, Gibbons and Weinert are pugilistically aged folk though still formidable. Renault lacks the fighting temperament necessary to the make-up of a champion. Tunney, who is now considered in the first flight, is good without approaching greatness as yet. What an opportunity for a youngster who could pop up with the fighting techniqque and spirit of a Dempsey of seven years ago.

The Queensberry horizon, however, is barren of this kindly creature as it was the day Dempsey knocked out Jess Willard in the July heat six years ago. Much is being made in the public prints of one Jim Maloney of Boston, who it is declared, has strangely interested Jack Kearns. Dempsey's manager, runs a story, has been endeavoring to take over the interest of the Hub-Irishman—another strong indication that Dempsey, the master-mauler is through for all time.

Kearns, the yarn alleged, had a neat little scheme concocted whereby Mr. Maloney could inherit Dempsey's royal toga without the customary hammer and tonging his way to the fistic summits.

A Boston scribe had it that Kearns promised Malone a match with Dempsey, and that a few days before the fight the champion was to withdraw from the match, the title going to Mr. Maloney by default—or something. Mr. Maloney therefore, will have to mill his way to the throne, as he originally planned.

Maloney looks like a fair prospect, but the writer thinks him far from even an ambryo Jack Dempsey, as yet. He has been picking on men of about the same calibre of himself, and has not been doing at all badly. The short-armed Bostonian has whipped Rojas, Jack Sharkey, Sully Montgomery, and Sailor Maxted. Last summer in New York he suffered a technical knockout at the hands of Leo Gates. This is not exactly an imposing record; neither is it an indifferent one.

Ready For Best

Maloney's manager has now decreed that Jim is ready to tackle the best in the business. He figures Jim is sufficinetly mellowed in strength, skill and ringcraft to joust with the toughest knights that will appear on the odventurous road to the championship castle. Jim, leaving the set-ups behind him, will soon penetrate the dread forest of the upsets.

Maybe he won't take an upset at that. Perhaps he's better than we think. The writer has his own tip on the next heavyweight champion. We think that when Jimmy Slattery grows a little bigger you'll forget all about the Maloneys and the rest of them.

Watch Jimmy Slattery!

Dorrance Grabs Texas Women's Golfing Honors

Mrs. Hampshire Loses To Fort Worth Golfer In Fourth Flight

DALLAS, May 16.—Margery Dorrance of the Houston Country club won the ninth annual chompionship of the Texas Womans' Golf association in the eight-hole final played at Broow Hollow Saturday morning, eliminating Mrs. C. Maddox of the Glenn Garden club of Fort Worth, 3 up and 1 to play. The new champion, who won her laurels honestly in the hardest side of the bracket and who achieved the elimination of Mrs. Priscilla Rodgers Scott of Paris, the 1924 chompion, in the second round, never tallied in the final. She was four up at the turn and dormie five on the thirteenth.

Miss Dorrance did not play especially brilliant golf, her medal round for the first nine being 47 on a woman's par course had two birdies and five par holes. She was complete master of her nerves.

She won on a display of better golf, consistently outplaying the Glenn Garden entry from tee to green. She is deadly with a putter, Mrs. Maddox was badly off her game, however, did not show golf from, and on only two holes in the round was able to make use of her opponent's misplays.

She was off in golf, but played with splendid courage, and when Miss Dorrance was dormi five cut her lead to three up and had a chance to win until the victor's amazing performance on sisteen.

Results:

Championship: Miss Margery Dorrance, Houston Country club, defeated Mrs. C. C. Maddox, Glenn Garden Country club, Fort Worth, 3 and 1.

Fourth flight (consolation): Mrs. J. H. Hamilton, River Crest, Fort Worth, defeated Mrs. G. H. Hampshire, Wichita Falls, 2 up.

Burleson Walks Away With J. C. Meet At Dallas

DALLAS, May 16.—Burleson college of Greenville made an almost clean sweep of the Texas Junior college track and field meet held at Southern Methodist university here today, taing first in track and field events, winning both the doubles and angles in tennis, and furnishing the high point man.

The Burleson track team had a total of 54 points against 39½ for Wesley college, also of Greenville, the nearest competitor. North Texas Agricultural college of Arlington was third with 27½; John Tarleton college of Stephensville was fourth with 18½ and Texas Military college of Terrell was fifth with 14½ points.

Cross of Burleson won the match given the high point man by virtue of his first places in the 100-yard dash, the 220, the 440 and the relay in which Burleson took second. Cross had a total of 14 3-4 points. Ward of Wesley was second with 13 points and Hamilton of North Texas Aggie third with 11 1-4 points.

Elder and Winans of Burleson were the whole show in the Texas Junior college tennis tournament, winning the doubles by defeating Oliver and Moseley of John Tarleton. Elder and Winans advanced to the final round inthe singles and will play off the Texas Junior college singles championship in Greenville.

WELTER CHAMP WINS BY A K. O. IN FIRST

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, welterweight champion boxer, knocked out Lefty Cooper of Minneapolis in the first round of a scheduled ten-round bout in an outdoor card here this afternoon.

Lefty did not have a look-in, though he tried gamely. The title was not involved, both men weighing over the welterweight limit, Cooper 154 and Walker 153.

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)—For the first time since being taken to the hospital last April 9, Babe Ruth today felt the sidewalks of New York under his feet. The Yankee home run champion was permitted to take a short walk along the streets near the institution, after which he joined Mrs.

Miss. Aggies Win S. C. Track Title By Taking Relay

HARDEE FIELD, SEWANEE, Tenn., May 16.—(AP)—In a contest continuing until the relay race, the last event of the day, decided the issue, the Mississippi Aggies registered their third straight triumph in the southern conference track and field meet. The Mississippians by making it three out of three gained permanent possession of the trophy given by Georgia Tech to the annual champion.

The winners accumulated 29 points to nose ahead of Louisiana State, the runner up with 28. North Carolina was third, scoring 21 and Vanderbilt finished fourth with 19 1-2 points.

The other teams scored:

V. M. I. 17; Auburn 10; Kentucky 10; Washington and Lee 8 1-3; Clemenson 6; Alabama 5; Georgia Tech 5; University of the South 3; V. P. I. 2; University of Mississippi 1 1-3.

The meet resulted in nine new marks going on the southern conference books.

Wichita Falls Junior College Now Full Fledged Member Of Junior College Conference

Coach Mosley Begins Arrangements of Representative Conference Slate for Indian Teams

The Wichita Falls coach is going ahead now with arrangement of a representative confeence schedule. A new constitution was dfated in the meeting, and under the new laws each conference member must play at least four games in the football season with other member elevens, 12 gams with as many as five conference teams in basketball ,and the same number during the baseball season.

Mosley has arranged two grid contests already with conference teams. These are with Decatur college of Decatur and North Texas Aggies of Arlington. He expects to close with two other schools in the immediate future. Games probably will be scheduled with Weatherford college of Weatherford and John Tarleton of Stephenville.

The conference is divided into two sections, east and west, and the Indians are included in the western lineup. The west half teams are Meridian, Wesley, Burison, North Texas Aggies, Clifton, and the local junior college.

Acceptance of Wichita Falls to conference entrance was merely a matter of form, for during the past basketball season the Indians were admitted unofficially by the conference president under mail agreement with other colleges.

France Is Passive While Drawing Up Her Forces To Crush Under Abd-El-Krim

PARIS, May 16.—The French are censoring news from the Franco-Riff battleline, and the exact situation is not clear, but it is known that France is playing a passive part until it can bring up forces and prepare positions for a long and intensive campaign. It is agreed by military experts here that if the Riffs are to be subdued it will require many months.

The war is much more important than it may appear across the Atlantic, because the continued success of the Riffs would imperil the hold of European nations on Northern Africa. Abd-el-Krim's forces have a long series of victories over Spanish forces to their credit. They fight with the fervor of a people whose religion teaches them that death in battle is the most glorious end of all. Unless checked decisively, they could overrun all of the Barbary states.

It is significant that France is acting in accord with Britain and Spain. Italy, none too secure in Tripoli, is also interested.

Abd-el-Krim Much Misunderstood.

Even more significant is the fact that in this war we have, perhaps for the last time, "civilized" warfare matched against "barbaric" warfare. Spain, in its long and unsuccessful campaign, never did bring into play all of the modern forces of warfare, such as France will use, under the direction of Marshal Lyautey, world war hero. He is the commander in chief in Morocco.

Abd-el-Krim, the leader of the Riffian tribesmen, is a much misunderstood man. He is one of those born leaders of men who sometimes arise among a distressed people. He is also a reformer, and a first-class fighting man. He is only a "Barbarian" in the sense that Vercingetorix was—a foreigner to the culture of his time. He is thick set, of short stature, and has a round, pleasant face with benevolent brown eyes. He has a Spanish education and was quite unknown when Raisuli's name was world-spread.

Spain's colonization methods that caused her to loose her possessions in America without teaching her anything fomented the present trouble in Morocco, although, of course, the Riffs like other Mohammedans, have always resented the foreign influence directed at their lands by Christian nations.

Whe nthe world war ended the French resident general and the Spanish high commissioner began to prepare their respective zones for the reception of civilization and commerce.

French Method More Sensible.

Their methods were entirely different. The Frenchman entered into his work lige a missionary. He sought to convert rather than to coerce. When he came upon a village that declined his message he left it with "covering" troops to think it over, and passed on to the next village.

The method of the Spaniard was that of a "conquistador." Thus, when in July, 1921, a civil government was working well almost throughout the French zone with its capital at Fez, the Spaniards, while trying to link up Melilla and Tetuan with a coastal railway, suddenly found themselves confronted with a first class war. Poorly prepared and badly led, the Spanish army lost one by one its ill-provisioned outposts; then tried static fighting, maneuver fighting, but all in vain.

The Spanish retreat left Abd-el-Krim free to take his tribesmen south into the French zone.

In order to understand the situation today presented on the frontier of the zones it should be explained that the Spaniards have never been in a position to occupy their southern limit, except for a short distance in the extreme west. The French, in the course of their operations, have established advanced outposts connected by well constructed mule roads to the military base towns of Fez, Taza, Taurirot, etc., but these outposts do not extend to the frontier delineated in the Franco-Spanish treaty of 1912. A strip of territory, therefore, varying in width from 8 to 22 miles over a length of perhaps 125 miles, still remains unoccupied by the French.

This area is laid claim to by Abd-el-Krim, who, irgnoring the Franco-Spanish treaty, contends that it falls within his jurisdiction and is geographically a part of the Riff. That is his official excuse for now seeking to invade the French zone.

Six Generations Of One Family Gather For Group Picture

The most remarkable member of the group is Mrs. Realty Sloan, widow ow the late Mart Sloan, once prominent in Logan county coal development activities. She has passed her 104th birthday, having been born May 1, 1921. Her husband died about three years ago, at the age of 97. To the union were born 16 children, nine girls and seven boys.

Mrs. Parlee Hicks, a daughter of Mrs. Sloan, is the wife of Jesse C. Hicks. She resides at present in Ashland, Ky. She is 84 yearse old, the mother of 12 children, five boys and seven girls, and is actively engaged daily in her household work.

Mrs. Realty Phalin, a daughter of Mrs. Hicks, is 55 years old. She is a widow and the mother of six children, four boys and two girls.

Mrs. Mellie Irwin, one of the youngest grandmothers in the state, is 39, and is the mother of three girls, the youngest of whim is Mrs. Pearl Irwin, 19.

An effort was made recently to determine the number of descendants of Mrs. Realty Sloan. Sixty-nine grand children, most of them living, were listed, and the count of all descendants reached nearly 400, with more than 300 of them living.

Mrs. Sloan is active today about her home in Ethel, in the heart of West Virginia's great coal fields, and appears to have many useful years ahead of her.

TOKIO—Japan's largest submarine capable of cruising across the Pacific and return without difficulty, has been completed and will be delivered officially to naval authorities late in May. The new undersea dreadnaught, which has been named "Number 53", displaces 17,000 tons.

Would-Be Home For Vice Presidents Is Too Large for Them

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The vice presidential "White House" is still without a vice presidential occupant.

After a long search, Vice President and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes have chosen as their Washington home the house at 1620 Belmont road, right around the corner from the "castle" Mrs. John R. Henderson built as a memorial to her husband and her son, and offered to the government as a home for vice presidents. He refused to occupy it, as did Coolidge when he was vice president.

The house chosen by the Dawes is a delightful residence with wide verandas, a terraced garden and a park. It was formerly occupied by ex-Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia, and is located in an exclusive Washington section. Mr. and Mrs. Dawes, who will spend the summer at their home in Evanston, Ill., will move to their Waashington home in the fall.

Leasing of the Scott house suggests that the Dawes intend to do more entertaining than have recent vice presidents and their wives. It has accommodations for rather sumptuous affairs.

The Henderson house has become a white elephant. Mrs. Henderson still has hopes of getting it accepted as the permanent vice presidential residence. An act of congress will be necessary to make the gift acceptable by the government. Although she is willing to sell it to the government for $1, it also will be necessary for congress to appropriate the dollar.

Vice presidents are as homeless as most American envoys abroad. Although a "White House" has always been maintained at government expense for the president, no provision has ever been made for the housing of his running-mate. And in Washington a house becoming the dignity of a vice-president of the United States costs in rentals about as much as Uncle Sam pays this servant.

The Coolidges frankly let it be known that they couldn't afford to maintain a large residence. They maintained a suite in a hotel while he was vice president.

Acceptance by congress of the Henderson house would make the housing of the vice president still unsolved, unless provision was made for its maintenance. Owing to its size and the number of servants necessary to run it, the house would be a severe drain upon the pocketbook of any but a very wealthy man, even though there was no rent to pay.

MOSCOW—Communist Russia is aflame with indignation against the projected execution at Sofia, Bulgaria of the men recently sentenced to death as responsible for the bombing of the Sveti Kral cathedral in which 160 persons were killed.

WASHINGTON—Investigation of the financing of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad which recently went into receivership, was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission.

Wife Claims Spouse Sold Her For $75

CHICAGO, May 16.—Her husband sold her for $75, Mrs. Louisa Job told the court of domestic relations in asking a divorce from her husband, Anton Job.

The purchaser she said, was John Parker, contractor.

The terms of the sale were $50 down and $25 when delivered at the Parker house.

Mrs. Job is the mother of two children.

Aged 107 She Thinks Girls Now All Right

JOLIET, Ills., May 16. — She doesn't believe girls are any worse today than they were in her time, and she doesn't sigh for the "good old days."

Mrs. Mary Paige, born in 1818, avers "people are kinder today than they used to be, and the world is getting better all the time."

Mrs. Paige's husband died recently at 105. Since then she has lived in Joliet with her daughter, 82. And at 107 she is active daily, assisting in the housework and taking a keen interest in life.

GLENROCK, Wyo.—Rresidents in the bottoms along Box Elder and Deer creeks who were forced to flee from their homes last night when the streams overflowed their banks, today were returning to their homes. A few head of livestock were the only reported casualties.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico. — Unconfirmed reports here say that the body of George Jarrel, American ranchman, who has been missing since May 7, has been found. Reports declare that the body was found with a bullet through the head.

Tub, Brush Are Supplanted By Modern Methods

Very Latest Machinery Installed In New Cleaning House

Equipment in the new plant of the Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works at Tenth and Austin streets is of the finest with improvements and additions to bring the machinery up to the latest developments of the business according to H. R. Hanks, manager.

Beginning with the simplest of cleaning equipment over fifteen years ago, when a tub, a brush and a pressing board did the work, the plant now boasts the very latest machinery for every special department of the cleaning, dyeing, renovating, repairing and finishing processes. The "Glover System" of continuous cleaning and purification of fluids used brings fine garments out perfectly celan and sanitary and unharmed. The "Vorclone" system of drying and deodorizing is used with the latest methods known to the industry. The rug cleaning department which has been installed with the new building is the best known today.

Detailed machinery through many processes of the work, makes speed, efficiency and perfect results possible The Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works keeps pace with all the newest methods and research through their affiliation with the National Association of Cleaners and Dyers of which they were the first members in Wichita Falls. The laboratory experts and technicians of the association keep the firm posted on the latest experiments and discoveries relating directly to dyeing and cleaning. Problems of taking difficult and peculiar spots from delicate dresses and fine fabrics are solved by the experts who are kept closely in touch with the local workers.

Quanah Marine Back After Visit In 46 Countries

QUANAH, May 16.—After visiting 46 foreign countries in the three years service in the Marines, Jim Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Reed, has returned to Quanah bringing hundreds of photographs and relics, among them pictures and souvenirs from King Tut's tomb. During his travels he sailed on the Sea of Galilee and washed his hands in the River Jordan. A commendatory letter from the government upon his record was received by his parents.

Half Breed Cattle Show Held at Ennis

ENNIS, Texas, May 16.—A half breed calf show, one of the first to be atempted in the south, was held here today, with a large number of prominent stock raisers, newspaper men and other visitors on hand.

Calves from pure bred sires, furnished by the chamber of commerce to communiteis near Ennis were placed on exhibition and compared with scrubs of the same age. The pure breds showed more than two to one profit.

Horse, mule, Shetland pony and other races furnished amusement. The show judges are John C. Burns of Fort Worth, Henry C. Barlow of McKinney and F. M. Barnes of A. & M. college.

W. F. Cleaning and Dye Works Began Business In This City In 1910

The Wichita Falls Cleaning and Dye Works went into business in 1910 in Wichita Falls with H. R. Hanks, present manager, and F. G. Payne making up the firm. Beginning with the old tub and brush method, the small works won a place in the business life of the city because of the good work turned out and the high quality of service offered by the little establishment.

Growing steadily, the plant added to equipment and working staff and in 1914, W. B. Jones joined the company and worked with Mr. Hanks and Mr. Payne until 1918, when the present owners, H. R. Hanks, J. C. Hands and Dave Shepherd took charge of the business.

The plant was the first member of the National Association of Dyers and Cleaners in the city, and improvement and progress continued after affiliation with the national body, keeping the plant at all times up to the best of modern efficiency.

The business has now grown until the move to the new building was necessary to keep pace with the production required of the working force. Nineteen people are employed in the works, and the new plant is equal in equipment to any in the southwest. Due to the efficiency and courteous policy of the management, coupled with the best business methods, the growth of the Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works has been steady and progressive.

Ontario Beer Law Booms Lake Erie Island For Summer

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 15.—Pelee Island, a little spot of land in Lake Erie, and most southern territory of the Dominion of Canada, is in the grip of a land boom.

Pelee, the little town down by the dock, is to grow and prosper beyond all previous imaginings, the busy islanders are hearing from the outside world. The fields wherein tobacco plants have waved in previous summers and grapes have ripened bountifully, will be dotted with a multitude of summer cottages.

The waters about the little wharf will be churned by the propellers of hurrying steamers, the sandy streets will blossom like a midway or like Broadway in Los Angeles. Tents will house those who can't find other quarters, the air will tremble with the hum of airplanes, and, incidentally, real estate and property values will continue to jump prodigiously and without limit. At least this is what some persons are confidently predicting.

A Reason With a Kick.

The reason is beer. The province of Ontario has legalized the sale of beer of pre-war and pre-prohibition content. This means 4.4 per cent alcohol.

What is happening at Pelee Island, which is only a short distance from Sandusky, Detroit, Cleveland and other centers of population, is also happening at Windsor, across the river from Detroit, and at St. Catherine and Hamilton, near Buffalo. Preparations are being made at these and other "foreign ports" on Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair to entertain thousands of "tourists" from the arid land to the south.

Pelee Island is the largest island in Lake Erie. About 1,000 persons, mostly farmers, live there, and they form an isolated and pastoral community the like of which one would travel far to see on the mainland to the south. Tobacco raising is an important feature of agricuture there.

Predicts Lake Monte Carlo.

"The Monte Carlo of the Great Lakes" is what it will be called by July 4 or shortly ahereafter, says an Ohio business man.

The Pelee Island Hotel company has been incorporated at Columbus, Ohio., with plans for a $150,000 hotel and summer resort project, backed by Canadian and American finance. The purchase of 160 acres on South bay for the hotel casnio, a golf course and everything necessary to hold weary travelers once they set foot upon the island, is reported.

However, Ontario authorities can be depended upon to see that Pelee doesn't become another Tia Juana, such as caters to Southern California.

MEMPHIS — Bodies of two more victims of the capsized United States steamer Norman at Coahoma Landing, Miss., eight days ago today were taken from the Mississippi river several miles below the scene of the disaster, according to a wireless message received here.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE
Taurus.

Today's planetary aspects are not very benign, and rather indicate an atmosphere of complexity and doubt than that favorable to a Sunday. It is more than probable that you will meet today, fo rthe first time, one who is bound to exercise a very powerful and beneficial effect on your whole life. There will be today a marked tendency to act rashly and to speak impulsively, and you must be on your guard all the time to counteract these emotions. In the evening, the conditions become quite benign, and clearly indicatee that "wooeh and wooed" will be mutually responsive, and the occasion is a good one for "plighting of troth".

A child born today will cause much anxiety and worry during its early infancyq, and only exceptional care will enable it to overcome its weakness and attain physical normalcy. Its disposition will leave much to be desired, and its character can only be formed alond wished for lines by unceasing discipline A certain amount of sternness will appeal more to this child's nature than love and forbearance: it will respect the former, whereas it will think that leniency is a sign of weakness. This child's future depends entirely on the way in which it is brought up, as it will possess very few pleasing idiosyncracies of an innate nature.

Is today your birthday? If so, your disposition is genial, and you are bright and cheerful at all times; even in times of disaster, although not flippant, you never lose your imperturbability, and generally content yourself with saying "it might have been worse"

You are very frank and above-board and always do everything entrusted to you with all your heart and soul and with an enthusiasm that delights your associates, and always brings results. You revel in the pleasures of social life, and are much sought for your companionship, which serves as a tonic for all those who complain and think they are "hard done by".

Your characteristic appeal must more to the opposite sex than to your own, and, as a result, your home life—and you are devoted to it—is, probably, very happy and ideally content.

Successful people born on this date:
Seth Warner, Revolutionary soldier.
Edward Delafield, physician.
Frederick A. Genth, scientist.
Grace W. Hinsdale, author.
Charles F. Dole, clergyman and authir.

LISBON—Major Ferreira Amaral, commander of the safety state police, was attacked in a street here last night by members of a red organization and was severely wounded. Amaral was ambushed by members of the "red legion", described as a bomb throwing organization. The government has decided as a result of this outbreak to continue martial law.

CLYDE—The local chamber of commerce held their monthly luncheon here recently and pulled a unique stunt by prosecuting banker M. H. Perkins, alleged for treason that he purchased a red neck tie and other gorgeous things in Cisco. He was found guilty.

Light Plays An Important Part In the Drama of Business

—Just what an important factor in every day business light is, is hardly realized by the average person. In the days when man had only the fagot with which to pierce the darkness, later the tallow candle, then the oil lamp, constant effort was made to improve lighting.

—Electricity was harnessed and converted into light. The first efforts were crude indeed. Today the acme of lighting perfection has been reached—every particular angle has been studied and solved.

—Different kinds of businesses necessitate different kinds of lighting—each has its own peculiarities to deal with and each has a plan whereby best lighting is obtainable.

We Congratulate the Wichita Cleaning & Dye Works

upon the occupation of their new home. This is one of the oldest plants of its kind in the city and it is gratifying to see them advance with the progress of this fine city.

Our Mutual Aim

Another business building has been added to our city's now prominent list, erected by the Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works. But the advancement of cities has behind it more than the erection of buildings; without lines of communication what could be accomplished? Have you ever thought of the prominent part the telephone plays in the enlargement of business institutions and the growth of cities? It moulds together the citizenry of towns, states and nations; and the aim of this company is to the commercial advancement of Wichita Falls and to this end we unhesitatingly congratulate any of our progressive business houses in their march forward.

Fable of Sorrowful Springtime —By George Ade

Once there was a nice Old Party named Tobias Crustie and there was no more Harm in him than there was in a Hogshead of Strychnine. For nigh on to 60 Years he had been digging up Roses and planting Thistles. He had enjoyed many a Storm and weathered a lot of Sunshine. He had a pet Theory that Nothing ever works out as Folks want it to work out, or if it does come to a Happy Terminus then there is No Justice left in the World.

Tobia would have been a dandy Grizzly Bear. He was directly descended from the human Ghoul who first put Satin Lining in a Coffin and invented Paper Flowers. He looked as if he had been cured in a Smoke House and dieting on Limes. In selecting his Apparel he always picked out Something which he knew would be disapproved by His Relatives. In really cloudy Weather, when all of his People were refusing to speak to him, he would get a Thrill or Something akin to Pleasure.

It was on Ground Hog Day, this very year, that Mr. Crustie began to issue Prognostications and direful Warnings for the Spring and Summer of 1925. He had studied all the Signs and he was encouraged to believe that every part of the Map would be visited by Blizzards, Tornados and Floods. In other words, all of the Omens were favorable.

On account of the number of pleasant Days since Easter Sunday it is no Wonder that Tobias has been in a Blue Funk. However, a little before that, he was cheered up for a whole Week by reading the grewsome Details of the Cyclone that swept across southern Illinois. To see Mr. Crustie bending over the Printed Page, with an unwonted Gleam in his Eye, one might surmise that he was eating up a Comic Strip but, as a matter of Fact, he was probably reading about how the Bodies were recovered from the Debris.

Southern Exposure on Four Sides.

Only the other Day he met a Dear Friend who had spent the Winter in Florida and who came back to tell about wearing the very lightest Weight and a Straw Hat all during February, thus insuring for himself all the Popularity usually accorded a Case of Flu.

"You probably left St. Peter too soon, ran into a Snowstorm up here, caught a Heck of a Cold and have been sniffling ever since and talking Eucalyptus Joo—Joos," said Mr. Crustice, with a dry Cackle.

"On the Contrary we found it balmy and there really has been no Need of feeding the Furnace," replied the One who so lately returned from the Land of Palmettos and Promoters.

"Well, better Luck next Time," said Mr. Crustie, endeavoring to hide his Disappointment.

He thought he was playing Safe when he began to interrogate Cousin Jennie, who moved to the Suburbs on May 1st.

"I don't s'pose you have any Southern Exposure?" he queried.

"We have it on Four Sides," replied his Cousin, Mrs. Goofus.

"Much Breakage in movin' out?"

"Not even a long-stemmed Cocktail Glass."

"It's agin the Law," suggested Mr. Crustie, who felt a sudden Exhiliration over the Fact that possibly his esteemed Cousin might be arrested and locked up.

"I refer to the Fruit Cocktail," she replied. "I note by the Papers that the Law is being strictly enforced and no other Kind is now served."

"What kind of Neighbors you got out in your new Location?"

"Charming!"

So that was cold. But Mr. C... was not down-hearted. He ... into a Business Associate ... been lured by a Good Ca... taken down with a seve... of Gardenitis. He was one ... who feel on April 15th, th... there is Reason why every H... holder should not raise ... own Truck.

Bad N... for Mr. Crus...

"I allow, gu... and calkilate that you planted ab... 18 worth of Seed and nothing come up," said Mr. Crustie, endeavoring to control his Mirth.

"You have another Calkilate coming," replied the Enthusiast. "At least 98 per cent of the Seed germinated. I have another Surprise for you. I didn't plant any Sweet Alyssum and have it come up as Jimpson Weed."

"The Neighbors' Chickens will get it all, eventually," said Mr. Crustie.

"I'm sorry to hand you Bad News," said the Friend, "but the Neighbors have no Chickens. As for the Insects, I have a Barrel of Bordeaux Mixture all ready."

"You'll probably poison the whole family before you get through," said Mr. Crustie, grabbing at the only Hope in sight.

When he arrived at the Office he found his Nephew Horace awaiting him. Mr. Crustie specializes on Mind Reading and when he saw a Troubled Look on the Face of the Young Man he was buoyed up by a joyful Anticipation.

"Just as I predicted," he said. "You've broken off the Engagement, aint' you?"

The Nephew recoiled in Horror and shouted that he had Not.

"I thought mebbe you'd come out o' the Trance," said Tobias, sadly. "You're prob'ly the only Person in the World who could talk to her for Five Minutes without gettin' a Cramp. To call her a Flapper would be heapin' Compliments on her. She has the Brain of a Jenny Wren and the hard Common Sense of a Doodle-Bug. She doesn't know that Coolidge beat Davis. She ... didn't' tell you who played in the ... World's Series last Fall. If she ... to be 80 she'll never cook Fudge ... without scorching ... The biggest Luck I can wish ... is that you'll be run over by a ... truck when you're goin' after ... sense. Unless you can Wel... get out of the Jam some... you'll put in the rest of ... ite workin' with a Shoe Horn ... her into her so-called Clothes."

During the Tirade the Nephew had a faraway Look in his Beamers. He didn't hear a single Word. He was thinking of Her. This was a Real Case. At last he spoke.

"There is only one Cloud in the Sky," he said. "Here it is, only the Middle of May, and I must wait and wait until June before calling her mine."

"It will seem a long Time between now and Next Month," suggested Mr. Crustie. "Also you will go through a protracted and weary Spell between the Nuptials and the Divorce Trial."

Horace did not get the Dirty Dig. He was Day Dreaming.

A Treacherous Spring.

On the Street it happened that Tobias met a Neigbor who was all knickered up and carried a Kit of Tools and evidently had been out inaugurating another Season of Golf.

"After lyin' up all Winter you must have been awful Punk today," suggested Mr. Crustie.

"I do not wish to boast," said the Devotee, "but I was sending them a Mile and a Quarter, spanking them on the Fairway, heaving them right up to Flag and sinking the little old Globule from every Angle."

"Once or twice, between the Green and the Tee, you must have brought out the faithful Alibi," insisted Tobias. "You told somebody it was the Shortest One you ever messed up, didn't you? Come on, now, and tell the Truth."

"When I get anywhere near that little Hole in the Ground, they're just the same as in," said the Golfer. "Furthermore, I didn't break any Clubs, throw them in the Crick, offer to give them away or threaten to take the Veil. I hung up a sweet and putry 78 and my Wife says I can play every Day this Year and I am not tired out and I have no Blisters."

About an hour later Tobias was found wandering in the Railroad Yards, and a Switchman, who knew him, suspected, after seeing the Hagard Look on his Map, that he was harboring Suicidal Intentions.

"Is there anything the Matter, Mr. Crustie" asked the Railroad Man.

"No, there's nothing the Matter with Me," replied Tobias, "but I'll say that American Humor is in a helva Box. This is the most unreliable and treacherous Spring that I ever put up with. You simply can't depend on Nothing no more."

Moral: When the Spring is being highly spoken of, remember there will be many Sunstrokes during August.

Brunswick Co. Will Give Demonstration

R. C. Coffee of the Phonograph Shop has received word from the Brunswick, Blake Collender company of Chicago that they have selected his store for a demonstration the week of May 17. A special representative will be sent to his store to have charge of the demonstration. Wichita Falls has been selectd for the demonstration because it is one of the best cities in the United States for the sale of the Brunswick line of phonographs, radiolas, and records. A number of people employed by the Phonograph Shop are now at work compiling a musical directory of Wichita Falls.

WOODMAN CIRCLES MEET.

Wichita County Groves Hold Joint Meeting in City Friday.

The Woodman Circle grove of Wichita county which includes Electra, Burkburnett, Iowa Park and groves 1487 and 1571 of Wichita Falls met at the Labor Temple in a joint meeting Friday morning.

Mrs. Henrietta A. Thomas, state manager of Fort Worth and Mrs. Maude Deck, past grand clerk of Burkburnett were present. After luncheon was served to 85 members from different parts of the district the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Pearl Somers, district manager. The offices were filled by members from grave 1571 while the degree work was exemplified by Gove 1487.

Three new members were initiated. They were Mesdames Drennon, Cook and Miss Mozelle Reviere.

After this the meeting was turned over to the state manager who made a speech. After which she was presented with a gift.

It was decided that a meeting like this will be held once a month from here on.

ENTERTAIN SCHOOL FACULTY

Sam Houston Teachers Given Luncheon by Cafeteria Manager.

Mrs. J. J. Robertson, manager of the cafeteria of the Sam Houston school, assisted by Mesdames Grecar, O. R. Hibbs, and W. P. Warmer of the teachers of the school with a luncheon, Thursday at noon. Other guests were Mesdames O. H. Karr, president and E. L. Patton and R. E. Norwood, of the builders committee. Miss Ila Moore principal of the school gave a toast to the president and the committees and Miss Fitzgerald also gave a toast to Misses Moore Algo and Walker, teachers who will not be with the school next year.

Friday noon some of the mothers of the school served lunch to the teachers, since the cafeteria closed Thursday with the luncheon held by the manager and committee.

TRAVELERS SELECT DALLAS

Beaumont, Amarillo and Houston Lose Out for Convention.

TYLER, Texas, May 16.—After a spirited contest today, Dallas was selected by the United Commercial Travelers for their 1926 meeting place. Beaumont, Amarillo and Houston were candidates.

The convention of the organization closed this afternoon with a chicken barbecue at the Traveling Men's club at East Texas Fair Grounds. The annual banquet was held last night, following a parade.

All Debts Against College Stage Are Paid by Furnishers

Officers of the Citizen Junior College club announce that every dollar of the $6,500 obligation which they took over to furnish the stage of the college auditorium, has been paid.

This club was formed in January 1924 when some of Wichita Falls most representative women realize that the auditorium must be furnished They elected Mrs. H. B. Patterson as their president; Mrs. J. A. Guest, vice president; Mrs. G. D. Anderson, Secretary and Mrs. T. T. T. Reese, treasurer and immediately set to work to raise the money.

They put on a drive just at tax paying time and realized something like $5,000. Other benefits and performances have been given since that time and the obligation is now paid in full.

Mrs. M. M. Adickes, a former member of the school board, suggested this movement and instilled into the members of the club, the desire to do this work. This was just one of the many things Mrs. Adickes did to help while on the board and according to the members it is with deepest regret that Mrs. Adickes has seen fit to resign from the board.

Alleged Intoxicated Driver Causes Wreck

One woman was slightly injured and several other persons were badly shaken up at 2 o'clock Saturday morning when two coupes crashed together about five miles out on the Burkburnett road. One of the machines was practically demolished, while the other received considerable damage.

City motorcycle officers Persky and Bentley, who were called to the scene, found the driver of one machine under the influence of intoxicants, they said. He was placed under arrest and the injured woman, whose name could not be learned, was brought to the city for medical treatment.

The man arrested was driving the car responsible for the accident, it was said, and which was almost completely wrecked.

Wichita Bankers To Attend State Bank Meet During Week

Wichita Falls will be well represented at the annual state convention of the Texas Bankers association, starting Tuesday at Houston and lasting for three days.

Three vice-presidents and two cashiers have already made arrangements to attend the meet, while several other officers have announced their intention of going if possible.

Oral Jones, cashier of the City National bank, will leave this morning, accompanied by Mrs. Jones. The other four officers who will leave Monday evening or Tuesday morning are C. E. McCutcheon, first vice-president of the First National bank; C. C. Cabiness, first vice-president of the Security National; C. E. Basham, vice-president fo the City National, and Lester Jones, cashier of the State Bank and Trust company. Mr. Jones will also be accompanied by his wife and son.

NORFOLK—Two sailors were injured, one critically, in an explosion today aboard the Italian steamship Odige, anchored off Seawall's Point. Physicians have despaired of saving the life of one. The explosion, thought to have been caused by an accumulation of gas in the bunkers, was followed by fire which was extinguished.

Pirate Catcher Too Ill for Fight Trial

BOSTON, Mass., May 16.—(AP)—Earl Smith, catcher of the Pittsburgh National league club, failed to appear in court today when his case was called but through counsel pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and battery upon Walter J. Lewis of Brookline at the game between the Boston Braves and the Pirates on May 14. Counsel for Smith said the player was ill as the result of a "vicious assault and battery upon Smith on May 14," and the case was continued until July 16. Smith was struck by a chair thrown by an unidentified spectator.

Boils!

S.S.S. will rid you of boils, pimples, blackheads and skin eruptions!

DON'T CLOSE your eyes to the warning which Nature gives when angry, painful boils appear on your neck, face or other parts of your body. Boils, pimples and so-called skin disorders are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood and are not to be trifled with.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to get absolute relief from the use of local treatments, such as ointments, salves, etc. Such remedies may afford temporary relief but you want more than relief; you want a remedy which will rid you forever of the torturing disorders. And the one remedy which has no equal is S.S.S.

S.S.S. stops boils and keeps them from coming. S.S.S. builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights skin eruptions—pimples, blackheads, eczema! It always wins! S.S.S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood builders, blood cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S.S.S. today and clear your skin of those blood disorders!

Company's Success Here Has Been a Remarkable One

H. R. Hanks, manager of the Wichita Cleaning and Dye Works, has been the head of the company since it's first organization in Wichita Falls in 1910, and the remarkable growth and success of the plant from a small "tub and brush" shop to the immense modern establishment recently erected is due in a great measure to his foresight, his progressive business ability, and the efficiency and courtesy which he instills into the working staff.

Beside managing the large business, Mr. Hanks superintends all office and book work, and handles the advertising for the company. He buys the supplies and equipment in vast amounts and in great detail. Greatest of all his duties, perhaps, is that of answering all claims, complaints, charges and corrections—the "grief" end of the business as he calls it. His tact, cheerfulness and quickness to give good service has won for the plant an enviable reputation.

J. C. Hanks, assistant manager, supervises the department of alterations and repairs, a job that keeps four tailors constantly busy. He is also in charge of the finishing department of the plant, inspecting closely all garments ready to be returned. The responsibility needless to say, is great, and demands an able supervisor.

The third member of the firm is Dave Shepherd, also assistant manager who has complete charge of the delivery service, maintaining a fleet of five trucks to give quick and efficient service to customers. Mr. Shepherd handles also the work of mechanical supervisor, keeping in perfect running order all the intricate equipment over the entire plant.

W. F. Dye Works In New Building

The new building of the Wichita Falls Cleaning and Dye Works, located at Tenth and Austin streets will contain five times the floor space of the former plant at 1102 Scott street. The finest of modern equipment has been arranged through out the building for the greatest possible efficiency in following out the various processes of cleaning, dyeing and renovating.

One of State's Best.

In the new quarters, the Wichita Falls Cleaning and Dye Works will be one of the largest and best equipped plants in the southwest, according to H. R. Hanks, manager. The best known system of rug cleaning has been installed as a new service, with the new plant. Equipment of the finest type will take care of rugs and carpets of all fabrics, designs and colors.

A large office and receiving room provide a place for the receiving of garments and all office equipment. The checking room classifies garments, identifies them as to ownership and work to be done. The finishing room is large and airy, well ventilated and well lighted. An abundance of large windows over the entire plant take care of the important question of light and fresh air for the workers. A huge boiler room in the new building generates steam for the cleaning and pressing processes.

A separate room takes care of the entire dyeing department, while rooms have been devoted to the processes of wet cleaning and rug cleaning. The new building makes expansion possible, and gives ample room for the quick and easy performance of detailed work.

Showers and large well equipped wash and rest rooms are provided for employees in the new structure. Throughout, the building reflects the latest improvements in construction and finishing and has been erected with a view to future needs.

A covered "drive-in" area on the Austin street side of the building will allow the enlarged fleet of delivery trucks to load and unload in bad weather with perfect safety.

FRAGILE bits of lingerie—fine, perishable laces, that must be handled with the utmost care!

One must have perfect confidence in the hands to which articles like these are entrusted.

Careless or negligent treatment will serve to ruin them. It is only the expert, sensitively trained in the handling of dainty things who can successfully re-convert them to their first state of fresh loveliness.

We take pride in our ability to satisfactorily clean and launder the daintiest articles of women's wear.

WHEN WE, members of this firm established our business many years ago in Wichita Falls, we realized that the success of it depended upon the service and class of work turned out. We strived to give our best to an ever increasing patronage with the result that we have expanded to such a degree as to warrant larger quarters.

Spanish Folk Dancing Is Highest Developed of All Dancing Arts G.-Bishop

By GLORIA GOULD BISHOP.

The seventeenth of an exclusive, novel series of articles on dancing. By Gloria Gould Bishop—America's Million Dollar Bride.

Spanish folk dancing is probably the most highly developed of all the folk dancing of Europe. There were two schools of dancing in Spain, and still are for that matter, the Gypsy school, which was called the Flamenco, the other the Classic called the Iberian. The latter resembles the French Ballet.

In the Gypsy school the Moorish influence can be plainly detected.

Everybody dances in Spain. It is absolutely essential to the education of the Spanish boy or girl, just as reading and writing is. Naturally the daughters and sons of the upper classes never learn Gypsy dancing. In fact, it may be said that one can tell the social caste of a person in Spain by watching him dance.

Gloria Gould Bishop Practicing a Difficult Step.

The Gypsies are very proud of their dances which are quite different from those of the Iberian school. I am told by people who have traveled in Spain that it is almost impossible to learn the real Spanish Gypsy steps unless one belongs to the proper tribes.

I am going to give you the fundamental steps of the Sanish dancing. The first one is known as a "tour renverse." This is a French term meaning "turn about."

Then place the right foot on the ground with the weight still on the left foot. Rise on both toes, turn to the right, bending the body back as far as possible.

In this figure, the arms begin in second position. That of course means straight out from the shoulders. On the turn, change from second position to fourth position (right arm up over the heart, left arm down.)

The basic idea in making this a correct and graceful pose is to keep as much of a sweeping line as is possible. Naturally the farther back one bends the body, the more effective the pose will be. The idea of relaxation and abandon should be conveyed throghout this entire movement.

When you have practiced this step so that you understand it, try this one. Stand with the weight on the left foot, bring the right leg out almost as high as the hip, cross it over the left knee, making what we call a "demi de jembe"—a half turn. Step with the weight on the left foot, which is directed in back of the right foot. Then with the weight still on the left foot give a little stamp wtih both feet. Repeat this step, turning to the left as it is done. At the conclusion of this, with the weight on the left foot, make two quick stamping steps, first to the right and then to the left, finishing off with a real Spanish flourish full of color and enthusiasm.

In this step the arms are first out in second position and when the right foot crosses the right arm moves from second into first position. The left arm is in second position during this movement. With the change of foot movement both arms are again in second position with the wrists to the audience and the palms back.

The Spanish have always danced, even in the Dark Ages when the church prohibited dancing by mandate.

Tomorrow I will tell you about the French type of dancing.

There Is Only ONE Duco
Dupont Duco!
WHY YOU SHOULD LET US PUT DUCO ON YOUR CAR
—1. Duco is the longest wearing finish known.
—2. Gasoline, oil, mud, tar, turpentine, battery acids, alkaline dust, salt air, etc. cannot harm it.
—3. You need not lose the use of your car for more than a few days.
—4. You can secure any of the season's most popular shades—in any degree of lustre either dull, satin or polished.
—5. A Duco finish is easier to keep clean.
—6. The lustre of Duco actually improves with age, if given ordinary care.
—7. It will increase the resale value of your car.
—Duco has been adopted as standard by 25 of the leading car manufacturers because of recognized merits.
—Our shop is fully equipped, manned with trained men, experienced in applying genuine Duco finish. All the old finish is removed, the rough, bare metal brought to a smooth, even surface with undercoatings and several coats of Duco applied, sanded, rubbed and polished. There are 14 separate operations.
—The remarkable success of Duco has resulted in the production of a number of finishes for which similar claims are made. Do not accept a finish "like Duco" or of the "Duco type." We can guarantee you genuine Du Pont Duco, applied by the Du Pont system.

LIVING ROOM

Listen to this description—It's all true!

DINING ROOM

—French door connects this room with Living Room, size 16x18 feet, high ceiling, beautiful drop fixtures to match those in living room; both these rooms are finished in a beautiful ivory with floors waxed. Swinging door admits to

KITCHEN

—This wonderfully roomy and convenient kitchen will bring delight to any housewife's heart. White oiled paper, high ceiling, plenty of closet space, hot and cold water, white enameled sink with drain boards on both sides, built-in cabinets above and below; built-in ironing board and hidden hot water heater.

COZY BREAKFAST ROOM

SLEEPING QUARTERS

—Here we find two of the most delightful bedrooms in the city. Roomy, delightfully cool and well lighted. Very pretty wall paper in both rooms, high grade electrical fixtures, extra large closets in both rooms which are connected by small hall way, prettily papered.

THE BATH

—another achievement—for the home owner's comfort. 3-piece equipment with base tub, built-in medicine cabinet with beveled mirror.

THE FIOORS

are of hardwood in living room and dining room, edgegrain in all other rooms.

OTHER FEATURES

—Pretty little sunporch on the north side just off dining room; cement front porch extends across entire width of house, brick sides.
—The woodwork blends harmoniously as living room and dining room are finished in ivory, beautiful grey, bedrooms and hallway grey, with the kitchen and bath in a wonderful white. Plumbing and hardware are of the highest quality. Slot switches in all rooms.

THE PLACE IN GENERAL

represents one of the biggest values in the city. Unusually well constructed on full size lot, far enough off the street to balance well on the site and has double walls.

THE GARAGE

has been liberally planned with plenty of room for two cars; unusually cement drive leads up to the

THE LOCATION

THE PRICE

will certainly appeal to you. $7,750.000, with $3,000 cash the balance can be arranged conveniently. This place was built to make some one a REAL, HONEST TO GOODNESS HOME where they can live "and let the rest of the world go by!"—

Exceptional Opportunities in Homes

—The following homes are selected from our large listing, account of the liberal valuation placed by owners:

—No 1—6 nice large rooms, sleeping porch, all conveniences, garage, drive, servant house, lots of shrubbery, north front, paved, near Junior college. Ask for prices and terms, as it is very conservative.

—No. 2—Is a 6-room duplex, garage, garden and chicken yard, corner, north front, paved, near car line. This is priced very reasonable and should sell readily as it is priced. The owner is not going to leave town, but needs money.

—No. 3—Is an excellent little home, four rooms, edgegrain floors, fireplace with all built-in features, living and sleeping rooms extra large, corner lot, south front and close to business center. This property is priced at $3,900. Small cash payment, balance, rent will pay.

—No. 4—5 rooms, bathroom, full size lot on Kemp boulevard. This home is priced to sell at once. Will take cheap car and some money as cash payment. Priced $2,250.

—Acreage tracts that are well located, some of which we will trade.

Real Estate Board Votes Approval Of Playground Program

An endorsement of an extensive playground program for Wichita Falls as an aid in combatting juvenile delinquency was given unanimously by members of the Wichita Falls Real Estate board at their meeting at the Kemp hotel Saturday noon. The motion as carried regarding the playgrounds was qualified by the phrase "under supervision," Juvenile Officer W. W. Brailey pointing out that the supervision needed was that of the school teacher rather than that of the police.

Long Play Time.

The move of the board came as an aftermath to a talk by H. H. Schuler of the Playground and Recreation association of America who remarked that children of the United States have on an average 3,000 hours to do as the please each year; that such leisure spent without some sort of supervision is very detrimental to the child; that 75 per cent of the inmates of penal institutions came there while yet under 21 years of age and that 90 per cent of the nation's crime is believed the work of minors. According to Mr. Schuler, the cost of supporting just a small percentage of the criminals of the land in prison would serve to support the greatest crime preventative, a proper juvenile environment, namely, the playground.

Discuss Restriction.

The value of restriction to a residence district was discussed at length at the meeting by J. V. Howell and Walter Curlee. Mr. Howell told of a large residence in Wichita Falls built at a cost of $125,000, valued now at about $25,000 because of nearby business houses, stating that similar residences in restricted portions of Wichita Falls would be identical or greater value 25 years hence than now. He stated that Tenth street property values had decreased enormously in the last year due to steady encroachment of business places on the residential district.

Walter Curlee told of an instance where the erection of a filling station had decreased neighboring property values $50,000. Curlee stated that there are over 400 homes in Wichita Falls valued at between $15,000 and $100,000.

A committee of three was appointed by the board to investigate the number of duplex houses in Wichita Falls and see if the city had reached the saturation point there yet.

Methodist Young People to Finish Plans for Week

Final plans for the Methodist young people's week that is to be observed here the week of May 26 to June 2 will be made Sunday afternoon at a meeting of all Methodist young people of the city. It will be held in the auditorium of the First Methodist Church, South.

An ambitious week of activity is contemplated by the affiliated Methodists here. An elaborate circus will be given Friday night, May 29, while on Saturday evening, May 30, a "queen of Methodist young people" here will be crowned. Mrs. E. L. Fulton is directing this, which will be in the form of a pageant.

A pageant entitled "Will o' the Wisp" will be presented Saturday night also, with more than 150 children and young people in the cast. Leading characters will be taken by Velma Brown, Nancy Favor, Lois Corbin, Constance Clark, Sue Ann Timblin, Gladys Grandebury, Jessie Lucile Raley, Elizabeth Langford, Charlotte Sutton, Grace Worman, Maxine and Lorene Brownson.

The climax of the week of activities will be given Tuesday night, June 2, with a presentation at the Wichita theatre of "The Rock," a Biblical story of the life of Simon Peter.

Cal Favors July 4 For Defense Day

WASHINGTON, May 16.—(AP)—President Coolidge's expressed preference for July 4 as the day on which the proposed national defense test could be most appropriately held has aroused doubt in war department headquarters as to whether plans can be reconstructed in time to hold the test on Independence day or whether they must be scrapped for this year.

The president's opposition to Armistic day, the date recommended by the war department has upset plans prepared by the general staff and many officers connected with the test last September feel that it would be better to abandon the plans this year rather than attempt to arrange the test in the short time allowed between now and July 4.

It was pointed out that the regular army national guard, reservists and members of the citizens military training camps are engaged in July in their regular training programs and these would be seriously interferred with if a defense test was held at that time. To assure an organized and successful demonstration it is said to be vital that the personnel of these four branches be in their respective home communities at the time the plans are made so they can co-operate with the national leaders in charge.

DALLAS—The University of Texas budget for the next two years oil royalties, and election of a dean of women are among subjects to be considered by the regents of the university meeting in Galveston, May 19 R. G. Storey, member of the board, said here today.

France, Alarmed At Germany

France, apprehensive as a result of the success of pro-monarchists in the German election, is looking to this trio, the "big three" of the new French cabinet. Left to right, Paul Painleve, premier, and minister of war; Aristide Briand, minister of foreign affairs; and Joseph Caillaux, finance minister. This is the first photo of Caillaux in ministerial attire since his return to power.

McDONALD RECITAL

Friends of the music pupils of Mrs. C. B. McDonald were delighted Monday and Tuesday night when they listened to well rendered programs played by youngsters from 6 to 18 years of age at the Methodist church.

The program each evening was opened with two selections by the class orchestra. On Tuesday evening the Patriotic Overture by Bowman was very beautifully interpreted and will leave a lovely remembrance with all who were present. Just to the left of the orchestra, two first class scouts, O. T. Liles, Jr., and Wayne Cohrum unfolded and held high, Old Glory, while the orchestra en lea the overture with "The Star Spangled Banner."

Much comment is being made of the splendid work of these pupils are doing. The programs in full will be seen in this paper.

Mrs. McDonald directed a violin quartet, Viola Grace Doern, Carrie Hellen Roberson, Martha Kelley Bowden, Christine Carter, Eileen Stagg, Marjorie Howard at the piano, for the grammar school graduating exercises that were given Friday evening.

FOR NINTH GRADE

Thursday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. E. P. Griffin, Miss Pauline Plummer entertained the Ninth grade with a farewell party. ## Only Twelve Ships Remain on Rum Row After Long Seige

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)—Only twelve ships manned by dejected crews, remain of more than eighty Rum Row floating liquor warehouses after ten days of the coast guard blockade of the Atlantic coast.

This figure is official. The rum sellers were checked up in an inspection cruise of a dozen newspaper men and representatives of press associations which was concluded today. For four days Lieutenant Commander Stephen S. Yeandle, aide to the coast guard's commandant Rear Admiral Billard, and who is known as the official's "ears and eyes" on the blockade front, cruised the Atlantic waters from Nantucket Light on the north to Atlantic City on the south with the newspaper observers aboard the coast guard cutter Pequot.

The cruise, probable the most comprehensive ever made of the mid-Atlantic rum area which Commander Yeandle termed "the national scheme," revealed that little, if any, contraband liquor is getting ashore through New York, Long Island, New England or New Jersey channels. Through these channels, up to May 5, the day the coast guard's offensive got under way, flowed the greatest flood of liquor that the government has had to contend against, the coast guard officials admitted.

Arms Pact Cause of U. S. Dissatisfaction

GENEVA, May 16.—The first round in the fight to determine whether or not the United States can continue to collaborate with the League of Nations without undertaking any official relations with the League was staged in a tense atmosphere in Geneva today and apparently ended with an American advantage.

However, the United States did not return to its corner at the arms traffic conference without receiving several glancing blows.

The combat hinged on whether or not the central office for the reception and coordination of statistics of the traffic in arms will be established by the League council. The draft convention project says "yes" but the United State says "no" and today representative Theodore E. Burton explained why it must be "no."

The burden of Mr. Burton's argument was that in as much as the United States was not a member of the League, it was difficult for it to accept a treaty which institutes an organization which will be directed by the League. Those countries adhering to the League countered this argument by proposing that the United States and Germany be added to the League council when it meets to appoint the central arms body.

The representatives of the other League states went to the limit of suggesting complete abandonment of the proposed central board.

"Little French Girl" Brings Young Stars to Fore; All of Actors in Play Are Without Usual Fame

From the names in the cast of "The Little French Girl," which comes to the Olympic theatre today, it appears that Paramount intends to keep its lead in the development of new screen material. Both Mary Brian and Esther Ralston, following their excellent work in "Peter Pan" in support of Betty Bronson are featured in this production, Mary Brian plays the title role, coming to the fore from a second lead in "Peter Pan." Esther Ralston has a part that will give her even more opportunity than she enjoyed in the former Herbert Brenon production. Both girls are young and the expressed policy of Paramount is to bring them forward very rapidly.

Anthony Jowitt, a young English stage player, a personal discovery of Jesse L. Lasky's was given a try-out in a small part in "The Crowded Hour" with Bebe Daniels, and his work was very encouraging. He has a more important part in this picture and is expected to register big.

Maurice Cannon of the Comedie Francaise, and one of the best known comedians on the French musical comedy stage is another young player, whose career is being carefully built-up by giving him bigger parts as quickly as he can graduate into them with the acceptance of exhibitors and the public.

Neil Hamilton, leading man in the last two productions from D. W. Griffith is another important young player in "The Little French Girl," whose career goes back only a short distance to obscurity.

The most famous actress in the cast is Alice Joyce, whose experience as star and leading lady in pictures has influenced the younger players into giving their very best performances.

Alice Joyce, Hamilton, Mary Brian and Esther Ralston are featured in the production, which was written for the screen by John Russell from Anne Douglas Sedgwick's best selling novel.

Hardesty et Al. Get a Good Well

Hardesty et al, were swabbing at a rate of 150 barrels a day from their No. 1, G. W. Donegan, northeast corner of the B. W. Donegan tract, TE&LCO survey, block 170, southwest of Olney, last night from sand at 1,024-26 feet. The well, a west offset to the hole on the Groves, a 50-50 water-oil proposition pumping about 20 barrels a day, is not showing any water and lookse like a real well in a pool that had begun to be discontinued.

The pool now shows three wells, the discovery, the Hardesty et al, and that of Anderson et al on the J. P. Donegan, north of the Hardesty well, making about 75 barrels of oil and water, sand at 1,021-23 feet. The east offset to the discovery well was dry.

Eight Problems To Face El Paso Meet

EL PASO, May 16.—Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury, said the American-Mexican conference, which will get down to work here Monday, will discuss eight problems. It is expected the following will be among the topics:

Lifting of the $8 head tax required of Mexicans who enter the United States and fail to return at the end of six months.

The charging of a $10 vise on Mexican immigrants

A proposal to exchange smugglers.

Ways and means to stop smuggling of liquor, narcotics and other contraband.

Lightening of the border to prevent European aliens from entering the United States through Mexico.

The proposal of Americans to erect a $30,000 fence on Cordoca "cut off" Mexican territory on the American side of the river, caused by a change of the Rio Grande's course.

Representatives from the two nations played golf and visited local hostelry places today had were guests at a dance tonight

Peggy Piedmont's Letter

My Dear Kitty—

GRADUATES and more graduates! Everywhere you turn you see a graduate, were there ever so many of them? And were there ever so many parties for them? Why, Kitty, Fluffy Ruffles in her happiest days; the vamp in the zenith of her glory; the flapper at her flapperest, are simply not in it in comparison to the "sweet girl graduate." She completely fills the atmosphere; she intrudes on your leisure hours; she absorbs your entire attention; she makes demands on your pocketbook, and she does all this in such a non-chalant manner, assuming the air you are glad to yield the palm to her and acknowledge her importance, and not only grant her the center of the stage, but acknowledge her supremacy and bow in abject submission to her slightest whim.

* * * *

THE week just past, the graduates have been on the go afternoon, evening and night. Between affairs, small noses were powdered, a little sleep snatched, evening gowns looked over, and joy riding with boy friends occupied their attention. This week will open just a little quiet for them I am afraid after such a strenuous time. However from remarks heard on all sides, the short interval of rest before starting on summer vacations, and before entertainment of the summer visitors begin.

Probably one of the most enjoyable school affairs of the week was the farewell party given at the Sam Houston school by Miss Ida Moore, the principal, honored the high sixth grade who were fortunate in making the highest average of any of the ward schools in penmanship during the past nine months.

* * * *

A SHORT program furnished entertainment in which Misses Ruth Etta Martin, Lillian Stewart and Louise Aynes gave piano numbers and Miss Edna Gay Phillips gave a reading, entitled "Vacation Time." After the program games were played and Miss Moore was presented a cake by the pupils. Miss Glenore Fisk was present and talked to the class on Camp Fire work.

* * * *

A DELIGHTFUL affair of interest to many in Wichita Falls will be the entertainment given by some of the local younger musicians at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weeks Monday evening for the benefit of the Day Nursery, in which we are all interested. Each year this little group gives some form of entertainment for a worthy cause, this year the Day Nursery was selected to receive the fund derived from the affair.

The program to be given will include readings, solo dances and piano numbers, and those taking part will be either pupils or former pupils of Mrs. J. T. Burris' school including Misses Ruth Grisham, Charlotte Maer, Charlotte Joiner, Helen Sylvia Lebenson, Pauline Art, Rose Marian Art, Elizabeth Langford, Corinne Tucker, Mary Delaney, Genevieve Fritz and Camille Avis.

* * * *

THE program is expected to be unusually artistic and the public is given an opportunity to hear some of the city's most talented young artists.

That the work of Wichita Falls' people is receiving recognition outside of their home town is attested on several occasions. One in particular I recall was recently when a poem was read at a Rotary club convention held at McKinney, Texas, by Secretary "Bill" Rhea of the McKinney Rotary club when he spoke to a large audience on the subject, "Acquaintanceship." In his address he quoted a poem which he said he read in a southern city a few months ago, and in which we recognize its author as our own, Mrs. J. S. Pitman. "For your perusal I will give it as follows:

"There is knowledge in your handclasp;
Friend of mine;
There is wisdom in your handclasp,
Friend of mine;
When your fingers gently press and my own lie there at rest,
I feel you understand,
Oh, friend of mine.
There is trusting in your handclasp,
Friend of mine;
For I know then that you feel all my heart would fain conceal.
And I give you trust for trust,
Oh, friend of mine."

* * * *

THE speaker continuing his address said, "Does the fellow next to you know what you think of him? Does he have to take your friendship for granted? Of course, we are all friends, that's not the question, but let's exchange more of the sentiment of the poet. I just quoted and allow your associates to feel and know that you have something to give him that money cannot buy."

But talking about some of Wichita Falls' talented people reminds me of a young Texas author who is receiving much recognition, Harry Hervey, head of the McCall magazine, whose new book, "Ethian Quest—His Saga," is expected to create a great deal of favorable comment. As the publication day is set for May 16, an early review of it will probably be published. The early scenes in the book are laid in the south which the author knows so well, as it was his boyhood home, and the latter half of the action taking place in the Orient, which he knows through repeated long sojourns. This is Mr. Hervey's fourth book and he is said to be just turned twenty-four.

* * * *

IN the Houston Post of April 26 there appeared a picture of him in hemlet as heading the McCall (magazine) Hervey expedition to Puang-Prabang (the country where, so far as is known, only one white man has set foot), and Carleton Hildreth of Savannah, Ga., his assistant. They will search for the lost city of the Khmers, and for an hour the day he spent in Houston, Harry Hervey outlined maps of strange places on the restaurant table cloth with the point of his knife, and talked of his expedition.

After arranging for motion picture camera men to accompany him to Asia, Mr. Hervey expected to sail from San Francisco May 9 on the steamship President Polk. The party will spend a month in Japan, where Harry will inspect a number of Buddhistic temples near the city of Kyoto. Then Pekin will be visited, and Canton and Hongkong; and gradually the party will work down the coast of Indo-China arriving at Saigon early in October.

* * * *

AT Saigon, his expedition will complete outfitting for its trek into the jungles, and arrangements will be made for guides and interpreters, for as head of the McCall-Hervey expedition, the Houston author will search for a forgotten city of the Khmers, which is thought to lie buried under centuries of vegetation deep in the Luang-Prabang jungles. He expects to be absent from America one year.

Think of the land of adventure opening up before him, because he has been advised that the King of Cambodia has arranged a festival in honor of their party, in which a gigantic ballet of 250 dancing girls will take part. Then going to Toule-Sap, the great lake of Cambodia, they will leave the river boat to continue their journey in native dugouts to the floating village of Siem-reap, and as at that time of the year the water will be very high, the journey to the floating village will be over the tops of jungle trees.

* * * *

AT Siem-reap the exploration party will grow, and approximately 20 elephants and 50 men will be assembled in the caravan which will push on through the marshes to the dead city of Angker.

The Luang-Prabang country is an unexplored territory, as I have said before, filled with all sorts of mysterious legends, to say nothing of tigers and other beasts. For the past three years this young man has been traveling in the far east and Europe and now with new worlds to conquer he starts to explore a country where as I said, only one white man has traversed its wild jungles.

JUST a word before I sign my name to this epistle. What color will be the leading one in the fall? Now we have atmosphere, nude, blonde and powder blue to the front. Of course we need airy nothings in the summer, but can't be covered or keep warm in nude and atmosphere later on.

Shocking? No, just living up to the times and keeping step with the things of today, is——

"Progress of Little Theatre In America Astonishing," Director Tells Members Pen Womens' Club

Peter Ames Vincent Is Speaker Past Week Before Club

HAS DEVELOPED FAST

Mr. Vincent Believes That The History Shows Unusual Growth

PETER AMES VINCENT, regisseur who is here from Galveston to direct the last Little Theatre play of the season read the following paper on "The Little Theatre in America," before the members of the Pen Women's club and their guests, Thursday when they held their spring luncheon at the Wichita club.

"The Little Theatre in America is the most astonishing and healthy fact in it's theatrical history. It is not only one fact but a composite fact, just as it is not one element but a composite of elements. It has as its peak and perfect ideal 'the Theatre Guild' of New York City and it has as its base myriod of groups varying in club-like and cult like form professing to be Little Theatre and functioning as such according to the aims and ideals and understanding of its director or directing elements and its peculiar environment. It is the most vigorous and popular and anthentic art form in which the cultural awakening of a nation has ever found outlets for its expression.

Creative Impulses.

"It has deeply true artistic creative impulses here and there, and it has also boldly assimulated a popular effect of standardization in 'Little Theatre Weeks' and such like gesture which, however, popular and self asserting it may be, has no effect in the genious development of worthy expression in art.

"The Little Theatre has developed from a neurotic and somewhat effete and self conscious youth into a lusty promise of full sexed vigor and reality. It will go far, prophets readily cry that it is the salvation of the drama, the theatre and the stage. This I do not think is necessary to believe. It has prospered because it is 'theatre,' untrampled by the goal of gold. It is as perfect as the commercial theatre but it is free, it has not yet the courage of an art theatre for it is not old enough to have a conscious courage but it is never-the-less brave. But best of all it is real. Born of a real need for the theatre and a real need of the theatre and inspiring a devotion and an awakened appreciation for the drama that is life, expresses in terms and symbols of a clearer culture than the restricted personalities of 'Mr. and Mrs. Brown.'

"Here and there the Little Theatre has found for itself a personality and character that has its roots in the understanding and appreciation of the deepest, surest forces of the word theatre, combining elements of the art of the theatre with the art of the stage and a masering of he values of dramatic literature that in the plays chosen and produced expese to the patrons of the Little Theatre, a timeless element of significant value to their individual and collective spiritual and artistic experience.

Give Richest Gifts.

"Sanity and courage and a deep willingness to work and a gleam of poetic madness and a gleam of unfamiliar beauty, these will give us and are giving us the richest gifts that a community can obtain from workers in an art that has such a timeless and living appeal.

"There have been many chroniclers of the space of history that belongs to Little Theatre endeavor in America—and abroad—for that matter; and there are always prophets on the housetop venturing to the stars, some bearing gilded lilies and others megaphones and scroll covered with 'Damn lies and statistics,' but there are a number of us too (you see I've said us) that are neither counting yesterdays nor weighing tomorrow but working vigorously in making today a long and as beautiful day as possible. Not perhaps always stressing the beauty but stressing the need and desire to work and to love of such work and the happiness of such work that sets a red seal on the end of each day. We then drink, when we pause to drink, to the theatre, the drama and the stage not forgetting to share one cup and crust with the actor when we bid him pause and step from his creative element which is somewhere, approximately near the center of the stage.

GRACE METHODIST CIRCLES WILL MEET MONDAY

On Tuesday evening the young people of the church will banquet at the church. Following the banquet an interesting program has been planned, according to an announcement received.

1925 Jewish Luncheon At Kemp Held

PROVING one of the most elaborate affairs of the spring season, members of the Council of Jewish Women entertained with their annual luncheon at the Kemp hotel Thursday. Small tables were arranged to seat eight at each and were centered with baskets of roses and tamerac, the handles tied with fluffy bows of green tulle.

The nut cups were in the form of roses and novelty pencils were the individual favors. Ping candle sticks in crystal holders also tied with the green tulle surrounded the centerpiece and the pastel shades were noted in the green course menu.

Entertaining Program.

An entertaining program was given opened with the invocation by Mrs. B. Bretler. Floyd Ard gave a piano number; Carlton Bowman a vocal selection, accompanied by Lee Erwin! Rose Marian Art and Nathaline Lebenson gave an interpretive dance, and Miss Margaret Kadane, a vocal number, accompanied by Mrs. Joe Art. Mrs. Eugene Liepold the president of last year who was re-elected to the office, gave her message to the council after which she was presented a lovely brass candelabra by Mrs. Jake Cohen in behalf of the council members. Mrs. Sam Quicksilver sang an original parody on "It Ain't Goin' to Rain No More," the verses written by Mrs. Ben Kaufman which were burlesque take-offs on the council members. Miss Adeena Kouri gave a reading and the program was concluded with the council song.

Afternoon of Bridge.

The afternoon was pleasantly spent at bridge when Mrs. Sam Lowenthal of Electra was presented the high score favor, and Mrs. Leo Markowitz was consoled for low. Mrs. B. Bretler was fortunate at bunco and was given the high score prize.

PROFITS FOR DISABLED

Proceeds of Sale to Go To Wounded Veterans Of War

THE American Legion auxiliary, Pat Carrigan Post No. 120, will hold its annual sale of the crimson poppy Wednesday, May 27, according to announcement made Friday.

"The poppy is the memorial flower of the American Legion and the American Legion auxiliary, and as such is closely connected with Memorial Day, this annual sale gives the public an opportunity to wear this flower as a tribute to the memory of the men who gave their lives in service to their country in the great war," Mrs. Ailes, president of the auxiliary, states.

The poppy sale, according to Mrs Ailes, has three missions. The world, she says, in general has forgotten the war, and if the poppy will, on Memorial Day, make it remember the sacrifices which have been made by the boys, so that the people will wear the poppy in reverence and sincerity and not as a red tag they could not avoid buying, then indeed the first and the greatest mission of the poppy sale has been fulfilled. It is also well for the public to be reminded that the war is not over for thousands of former fighting men who are now in the hospitals, nor is it over for the wife and little children who need assistance as the result of the inability of some man to care for them. The second mission is to win the confidence of the public by the way the auxiliary spends the poppy profits. The net proceeds of the sale are divided equally; one-half being retained by the local unit and the other half sent to auxiliary state headquarters, Austin, Texas, where two-thirds will be deposited in the rehabilitation fund and one-third in the general fund. The rehabilitation fund was created by combining the state hospital fund and welfare fund, and which fund will be used to carry or the auxiliary work for our disabled veterans. Members of the local post and auxinliary will devote their efforts to seeing that the first two missions of the poppy sale are fulfilled, and then the third mission—that of raising funds for service work for the disabled, for the ex-service man and his family in need, for the ex-service women in the hospitals, and for the wonderful child welfare program the legion is working out—will take care of itself."

A called meeting of the executive board will be held Tuesday morning with Mrs. Ailes, 801 Baylor street, at 9:30 a. m., to complete plans for the sale.

FOWLER JUNIOR BIBLE CLASS ENTERTAINS SENIORS.

The Fowler Bible class Jr., entertained its senior class Friday afternoon at the Wichita club with a varied and most interesting program. # Wai-Kun, Annual Of Junior College Has A Pleasing Debut

An event long looked forward to by the students and faculty of the Junior college was the issuance of the Wai-kun, first Junior college annual, to the subscribers at the reception held by the staff of the annual at the college building last night.

The book has brought universal comment of praise from those who have seen it. It is by far the most artistic work ever attempted by the local school in the way of publications. A scheme of beautiful artistic features is carried out through the entire volume of 128 pages. All pictures are placed on a highly effective light green tint background and are bordered each individually so that the very best effect in clearness and expression is brought out.

Tell City's History.

Interleavings in the book tell the history of Wichita Falls in beautiful color paintings, said by the engravers and printers to be the most original and artistic of any of the 25 Junior college annuals in Texas this year. For four of these paintings the Wai-kun is indebted to Mr. Emil Hermann, artist of the city, who painted the originals from which the plates were made. The plates are of the new process type that makes it possible to reproduce a most realistic blend of colors. According to the publishers this is the only junior college annual in Texas and one of the few of all college annuals to carry this special feature.

Wai-kun From Indian.

The Indian motif around which is woven the legends of the founding of Wichita Falls is carried throughout the book. The name of the book, The Wai-kun, itself means in the tongue o fthe native Wichitas who gave to the city and community the story or the book of the Wichita.

The book in the course of construction enlisted a strong support from the student body. All of the 175 copies of the book contracted for were sold long before the date of issuance. Books were published for those who subscribed by the date of publication. Since quite a number of other requests have had to be turned away. The business management received information this week that perhaps four or five additional copies could be provided by the publishers from files.

A Selected Staff.

The staff of the annual was selected by a committee of faculty sponsors and student officers and approved by the student body in November. Helen Knotts as the editor-in-chief, and Miss Verna Sellers as faculty advisor for the editorial work, are largely responsible for the editorial finish of the work. Charles Weeth and W. D. Nelson, as business managers, and D. O. Jonas, as faculty advisor for finances, are largely responsible for the financial success of the book. Most of the art work was done by Paul Morton, a very capable young artist and cartoonist, and literary work, especially the legends, was done chiefly by Marjorie Woolsey. A very capable staff of editors and assistants, with the cooperation of the whole student body, made possible a work that for its first year stands a good chance of getting high awards in the contests on college publications held in the state and for the nation.

Those in Charge.

The complete staff follows: Editor-in-chief, Helen Knotts; assistant editor, Vaugn Buchanan; art, Paul Morton, Edna Prechel, Genevieve Hancock, Jerry Vinson; literary, Marjorie Woolsey, Leota Tucker; activities Louise Scott, John Keevil, Judith Sherrod; athletics, Preston Beck, Steve West; administration, Macie McClure; college life, Maurine Apple, Loreign Russell, Elizabeth Peters; finances, Charles Weeth, W. D. Nelson, Marie Johnson; photography, Eleanor Spalding, Dorothy Rugeley; typing and copy, Lee Erwin, Miss Verna Sellers was appointed faculty advisor for the entire editorial supervision; R. O. Jonas, advistor for finance and for athletics; Miss Elizabeth Brown for organizations, and Miss Eva Weber for college life.

Engravings for the book were furnished by the Southwestern Engraving company of Fort Worth and printing was done by the Bunker Book and Printing company of Fort Worth, both firms making a specialty of annual building and handling practically all annual contracts of the state.

There came through the mail Saturday this announcement:

Mr. and Mrs. J. Leroy Harper of Nashville, Tenn., and Orlando, Fla., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Billye, to Mr. John Wood Harris Jr., of Wichita Falls.

Miss Harper is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Oaks and has been their house guest for several months. The date of the marriage, which will be quietly solemnized will be announced later.

CIRCLE THREE FROM GRACE CHURCH TO MEET

Circle Three of the Missionary society of the Grace Methodist curch will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30 in the parlors of the church.

SMALL PUPILS GIVE LOVELY ENTERTAINMENT

The Wichita club was filled with admiring friends and relatives of thirty small boys and girls Friday evening when they gave an entertaining program of readings, dialogues, fancy dances and monologues arranged by their teacher in expression and fancy dancing, Miss Ella Merle Mathis.

The program which was well balanced and displayed to advantage the splendid training of the children was casted by little Miss Irvine Roberts, opened with a clever welcome broad-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Roberts. The title of the address was "We're Ready to Begin, So You, Better Listen In".

All piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. R. D. Thorn and those taking part included Irvine Roberts, Virginia Proctor, Dan Thornberry, Elizabeth Ann Bishop, Dorothy Jane Norwood, Staley Hawkins, Dorothy Elaine Fine, Gladys Brandeberry, Josephine Bell, Elizabeth Ann Bishop, Jack Crouch, Blanch Benick, Patsy Lou Thornberry Jaul Jones Ellen Wolf Peggy Laws accompanied by Martha Lou Laws a piano pupil of Miss Annette Walsh, Travis Lee, Iola Stephenson, Laura Lynn Hathaway, Arvin Nelson Norwood, Phoebe Jane Chenault, Mary Hyatt, T. R. Boone, Jr., Johnnie Green Hawkins, Judy Jane Norwood, Margaret Helgerson, Gardner Walker, Katherine Hawley, Lillie Mae Wolf and Eloise Hawkins.

Mrs. J. S. Hickman has gone to Dallas, where she will spend a few days before leaving for points in Louisiana for a month's visit with relatives.

The New Idea club will meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. L. W. Newton, 1652 Pearl.

The Jolly Matron club will meet Thursday afternoon with Mrs. D. Dellis at her home, 1648 Elizabeth.

Friday afternoon an all day meeting of the L. A. to O. R. C. will be held at the I. O. O. F. hall. The meeting will start at 9 o'clock. Luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock. All members are especially urged to be present.

Misses Mary Quinn, Rosa Lee Harkin, Senora Ponder, Jessie Smith and Mrs. N. H. Glover will be joint hostesses to members of the Sesrun club Thursday evening. The place of the party will be announced later.

Mrs. J. A. Heyman will leave Sunday for Dallas where she will visit for several weeks with her parents Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Knickerbocker.

Miss Martha Ellen Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hines of 907 Bluff is visiting Mrs. Fletcher Pope of McKinney.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Cravens and Miss Nira Dent are now in their new home at 1803 Eleventh.

H. A. Williams of 1605 Elizabeth has been confined to his bed but is reported to be much improved.

Miss Mary Quinn has returned from state meeting of graduate nurses convention in San Antonio.

Mrs. George D. Fox and small daughter, Joann, have returned from a visit in Mineral Wells and Fort Worth. On their way home Wednesday Mrs. Fox was injured in an automobile accident. She was immediately taken to St. Josephs where attention was given her.

CHURCHES

CATHOLIC CHURCH.
Lawrence Hoyt, C. S. B.

Communion 6:15, 7:00 and 7:30. Masses 7:30 and 9:30. Sunday school 2:00 and 7:30 p. m. Lesson, the "Resurrection of the Body." The junior will sing at the first mass and the senior choir at the second and at Sunday school and benediction. At the morning services we read the epistle of St. James 1, 22-27, and the Gospel John 16, 23-30. In the gospel Christ bids us pray and tells us how to pray and assures us that our prayers will be heard if we pray in the name of Jesus.

Thursday of this week is "ascension day;" the anniversary of the day on which our Lord ascended into heaven. Our services will be at 6:00 and 8:00 a. m. This is a "day of obligation" for Catholics. That is to say Catholics are obliged to hear mass if possible and are not allowed to work unless forced by circumstances, or in other words they are obliged to celebrate in honor of Jesus. This law binds Catholics under pain of mortal sin.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST.

Church edifice, Corner Tenth and Van Buren Streets. Sunday school 9:30 a. m. Lesson sermon 11 a. m. Subject: "Mortals and Immortals". Testimonial meeting, 8:00 o'clock, Wednesday evening. Reading room, located in room 15, Ward Building, 605½ Eighth street, is open from 12 noon to 5 p. m. daily except Sundays and holidays. The public is cordially invited to attend the services and use the reading room.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

The following Sunday services are announced for the First Baptist church, corner Ninth and Burnett streets: Bible school, LeRoy Moore, Supt., meets at 9:45. Trained teachers in charge of all classes. The Men's Bible class, taught by Bert King, meets in the main auditorium. A real man's program will be provided. Morning worship, 11 o'clock, Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor, will use as sermon subject: "Eudias and Syntyche." Special music for this service will include a solo, "Fear Not Ye, O Israel," by William Young, and the following organ numbers by Mrs. F. R. Collard, organist: "Fantasie in C Major" (Armstrong), "Isle of Dreams" (Torjussen), and March, by Wagner-Eddy. B. Y. P. U.'s under the direction of LeRoy Moore, will meet in general assembly, 6:45 in the evening. The evening services, 8 o'clock. Dr. Powers' sermon will be based on the subject, "Shut-Up." Special quartet music will be rendered at this service. Invitation for church membership will be given at the close of both morning and evening services. Cordial welcome awaits all who attend.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Corner Tenth and Bluff streets. Sabbath school begins promptly at 9:30. The orchestra assists in the song service at the opening and renders special music. Preceding the regular morning sermon the pastor will preach a sermon to the juniors. At the 11 o'clock hour the pastor will speak on the subject: "Love." The offertory solo will be sung by Miss Dorothy Burks. The evening service, beginning at 8 o'clock, will open with a song service led by Alva Willgus. The special music will consist of an anthem, "Break Forth Into Joy", with tenor solo and chorus and Mr. Law will sing "My Soul is Athirst for God" from the Holy City by Gaul. The subject of the evening sermon will be "Great Chapters." The junior and Senior Christian Endeavor societies meet one hour before the evening service. A cordial invitation is extended to all the services of this church. N. F. GRAFTON, Pastor.

FLORAL HEIGHTS BAPTIST
Corner Tenth and Kemp

Sunday school, 9:45 a. m., J. E. McKee, superintendent. Visitors and new members always welcome. We have classes for all ages. We will begin a two week's revival meeting Sunday morning which will be conducted by Rev. Estes of Shawnee. The meeting will be held in a large tent on Filmore street one block off Tenth. Good music will be furnished. Come and meet with us.

YALE AVENUE EVANGELICAL
Corner Yale and Twenty-second Sts.
W. D. COOK, Pastor.
J. L. ARNOLD, Supt.

Sunday school will begin promptly at 9:45 a. m., followed by the morning worship and the subject for the morning service will be the theme of the "Old Time Revival." The juniors will meet at 3 p. m. with Miss Minnie Cook as superintendent. The Intermediates will meet at 5 p. m. with Miss Goldie McClung as superintendent. The Seniors will have an impromptu program dealing with the way we should spend the summer months. In this we mean to discuss the importance of holding summer schools and conventions, and we wish to impress upon the minds of the members of this C. E. the importance of preparing for our coming state C. E. which meets in this city June 10, and let us each try to do our part in this work and be ready to show the people out of the city that we are glad to have them with us and get the inspiration they bring. We trust each member of the C. E. will be present Sunday evening. Our leader for the evening will be, Mrs. R. E. Cook, and let each of us respond when called upon to say something in the interest of the society and the cause of Christ. Each one will please take this for a notice to be prepared to talk on this subject, and we wish to insist that the registration chairman be present by all means. The usual services throughout the week. The subject for the evening service of worship will be, "Why Sunday." Come and help us in the work by your prayers and presence.

"Spending the summer in camp conventions and summer schools is the best method for Christians, as workers with Christ." Leader, Mrs. R. E. Cook.

1. Song service, closing with, "When Love Shines In." No. 108.
2. Prayer by three members.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH, South.

Rev. Frank M. Richardson, presiding elder of the Wichita Falls district, will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday at the First Methodist church, south, Tenth and Lamar streets. His subject will be "The Finest Life Possible." Rev. Walter J. Johnson the pastor, will deliver the commencement sermon at Henrietta Sunday morning. Brother Richardson always brings a message of inspiration and helpfulness.

Twenty-five children from our Methodist orphanage at Waco will give the program at the night service. All who have heard this program, declare it to be very worth-while. The program consists of numbers by the orchestra, vocal numbers by the children, etc. This church has the interest of this home very much at heart and contributed $2,500 to its support this year.

At the morning service the chorus choir will sing "The Radiant Morn Has Passed Away" (Woodward). Mrs. A. W. Akin, Jr.'s organ numbers at the morning service will be "At Sunrise" (Diggle), "Memories' Hour" (Silver), and "Allegro Pomposo" (Galbraith).

Sunday school meets at 9:30 a. m. The rain caused a drop in attendance last Sunday. A banner attendance is urged for next Sunday morning. There is a class for every member of the family. The Kay Bible class for men meets at the Strand theatre.

A mass meeting of the young people of the church will be held in the auditorium at 3 p. m.

Junior league meets at 3 p. m., Senior leagues at 6:45. Senior league will have a program on "Happiness" led by the Tanlac side of the "pep" contest. Miss Zona Bachman will be the leader for league No. 2 in a program on "The Christian Home."

The faculty of the Vocation Church school will meet at 9:30 a. m. Monday. The circles of the Woman's Missionary society will meet at 3 p. m. Monday as follows: Circle one, Mrs. O. B. Womack, leader, with Mrs. L. N. Bassett, 1708 Pearl street; Circle two, Mrs. J. J. Perkins, leader, with Mrs. J. M. Sweeton, 1312 Taylor street; Circle three, Mrs. Bert Bean, leader, with Mrs. Edgar P. Haney, 1105 Pork street; Circle four, Mrs. F. L. Mercer, leader, with Mrs. N. B. # Captivating!

The versatility of Summer Footwear is truly amazing. Yet, with all their variations there is one dominant note—Simplicity. It is this concession to the essential of good taste that makes Booterie Footwear so captivating. Any one of many styles will enhance the becomingness of your summer costume, and as all women have come to know, there is a character and quality in them.

"WANDA"
Is a beautiful bench made one-strap slipper of gunmetal satin. It has a cinder gray banding on the vamp and quarter, 1 7-8 Spanish spike heel and round toe. Hosiery to match.

D'ORSAY OPERA
This pump is one of the prettiest that we have shown. It is in gray satin, tailored trimmed with Pelican gray kid. A bench made pattern with 1 7-8 inch spike heel and round toe. Hosiery to match.

"DIANA"
A delightful one-strap model in white kid. It has a 1 7-8 Spanish spike heel and round toe. It too, is hand made and is indeed refreshing in its simplicity. "Buckmister" is a black black satin of the same pattern. Hosiery to match.

TWO SENATORS DISCUSS THE RULES.

On the same day Senator Capper championed ate rules and Senator Moses presented an able argument against the proposal. There was little worth quoting in Senator Capper's remarks. He simply regards the present rules of the senate as archaic and favors expediting legislative business, although expressing a doubt that this can be done very soon. Senator Moses, on the other hand, said many things distinctly worth remembering and repeating. His most striking statement was that temporary senate majorities formed by shifting coalitions in response to sectional demands of the moment "are bound to be as reckless as they are ephemeral."

In Senator Moses' opinion, the senate rules permitting unlimited debate are safeguards which protect the country from hasty and ill-considered legislation. "The majority in the senate," he says, "is no longer partisan or even political. In point of fact, except through artificial means, strict party division is rarely to be had nowadays at either end of the capitol, and the engrossing questions of federal legislation nowadays are those of economic import affecting the material interests of sectional groups of states."

This being so, it is not hard to understand why Senator Capper has joined forces with the vice president in demanding a revision of the rules. It has been his good fortune on several occasions to be counted among the leaders of those temporary majorities which "are bound to be as reckless as they are ephemeral." He comes from a section of the country which is particularly active in demanding special legislation. He was one of the men who were sadly disappointed at the failure of congress to enact any major farm measure embodying the numberless recommendations of the president's agricultural commissin. Having many suggestions of his own to offer on the agricultural situation, he naturally desires favorable action upon them without too much consideration.

Strongly contrasted with this attitude is that of Senator Moses. He charges that those who want a change in the rules know little of the senate and its traditions, and states that many a man has come into the senate with a determination to tame it and has himself been tamed and brought to an acceptance of the wisdom of the senate rules. On the side of political moderation and logical sanity, he makes this impressive plea: "Yet, in this impatient age, it is surely not too much to ask that there may still remain in this country some forum in which freedom of expression, in length if not in depth, may still befound. If in the ideas of the "Founding Fathers," as President Harding liked to refer to them, there still remains merit in their conception of a republic with representative institutions, surely it is worth while to retain one place where that conception may be sustained."

FOR CONCENTRATION ON BUSINESS.

President Coolidge's decision to apply a silencer to official Washington is doubtless based upon the principle that: "He that observeth the wind shall not sow; and he that regardeth the clouds shall not reap." There have been both wind and cloud in the shipping board row, and it is with this disturbance in mind that the president decides that the country would be better off if it were not watching Washington for further entertainment of the same sort. Now that the matter in controversy between board members has been settled there has arisen the cloud of speculaiton as to whether the ship subsidy question is to be taken up for consideration by congress in December. There is much to unsettle in such a prospect. It cannot be known whether capital or labor would be the principal beneficiary, or whether business or the people generally would be called upon to bear the burden.

The people have been regarding real winds and clouds for so long that they have little time to waste in watching Washington's storms and threats of storms. The weather has at last become the friendly ally of farmer and business man. There is now imperative need for sowing that there may be reaping. The private affairs of the people require their earnest attention. Politics is always a distraction, and never more so than when there has been a temporary discouragement for business enterprise. Then the people are inclined to expect miracles of government, or to cast responsibility upon it while they sink into despondency.

Such a popular attitude at this time would be pathetically foolish. A greater opportunity than that which was seized last year awaits industry and commerce. It is not a time for pessimism or anxiety but a time for steadfast confidence and strenuous striving.

AN UTTERLY HOPELESS FIGHT.

Ovid observed that "all things change, nothing perishes."

Change is constant. All things must change to something new, to something strange.

Everything that is created is changed by the laws of Nature.

Yet man, as he changes, fights change.

History teaches us that he prefers overturning things to changing them.

Conflict of the oild, the existing, the continuing, with development, improvement, and reform, is always the same.

Goethe opines that order of every kind turns at last to pendantry, and to get rid of the one, people destroy the other; and so it goes on for a while, until people perceive that order must be established anew.

"Classicism and Romanticism; close corporations and freedom of trade; the maintenance of large estates and the division of the land—it is always the same conflict which ends by producing a new one.

"The best policy of those in power could be so to moderate this conflict as to right itself without the destruction of either element.

"But this has not been granted to men, and it seems not to be the will of God."

The poets offer us empty consolation. In his "Prometheus" Shcelley ecstatically exults:

Neither to change, nor falter, nor repent;
This, like thy glory, Titan! is to be
Good, great, and joyous, beautiful and free;
This is alone life, joy, Empire and victory.

But there can be no victory over change

NOT LIKELY TO BE SUCCESSFUL.

The smaller nations have raised serious objections to the draft convention on the traffic in arms. During the debate on restriction at Geneva they voiced a strenuous protest against anything savoring of guardianship on the part of the great powers. They aregarded as utterly inconsistent with their dignity and sovereignty as free countries the requirement that the non-manufacturing nations should officially appear before the manufacturing nations and assume the attitude of suppliants in order to secure arms necessary to maintain their security.

Fairly insurmountable seems this obstacle which the small nations have put in the way of an agreement to restrict the trade in arms. Before any objection was raised it was fully recognized that countries which do not manufacture ammunition must be protected in their privilege of purchase. But it was thought that the free exercise of this privilege would prevent anything like real limitation from being effected. This, no doubt, is true, but it is equally true that under the restriction proposed the small nations would be put in jeopardy, or would hold their safety at the will of the great powers. With free traffic in arms, they can supply their needs by purcnases in the world market without being beholden to any one country. Under restricted traffic they would be reduced to practical vassalage, and their masters could absolutely dictate the terms of their existence.

FOOD FOR THE FARMER.

Harvie Jourdan of Georgia has been prominent in the cotton circles of America for a quarter of a century. He is ever on the road advising farmers as to what they should do for the improvement of their holdings and the fattening of their pocketbook.

In a recent address delivered away down here in Texas, he urged the growing of feed crops along with cotton, pointing out that 63 per cent of Texas farmers failed to produce sufficient feed to meet their needs. Speaking of Georgia, his home state, he said that while the Georgia farmers produced one million bales of cotton in 1924, it required the proceeds of 850,000 bales to pay for the imports of food and dairy product largely consumed in the rural district.

Another farm expert, a Texan and not a Georgian, is responsible for the statement that Texas spent $75,000,000 last year for pork products produced in other states.

Another Texas expert furnished the information that millions of dollars of Texas money were invested in the feed stuffs produced in other states which was fed to livestock and poultry on the farms of Texas.

Now what is the Texas farmer going to do about it?

HOPE OF THE WORLD.

Dean Inge of London, known to fame as the gloomy dean, is sermonizing in American cities. In one of his sermons he said that it is hopeless to expect much from England in solving the problems of the world. Furthermore, he said, England is looking to the United States to show the way and that if America will not approve the league of nations, it should give the world something in place of the league.

This gloomy dean admitted that New York might understand Europe, but he inclined to the opinion that the west and middle west looked upon Europe as another world. Those sections, he said, would be inclined to let Europe stew in its own juice.

Isn't the gloomy dean mistaken? Isn't America accepting responsibility? Just the other day the federal reserve bank and American bankers advanced a credit of $300,000,000 in gold to enable Great Britain to assume specie payment. Or, in other words, to return to the gold standard.

And the gloomy dean should be told that Americans, through their bankers, have loaned $11,000,000,000 to European nations and Europeans since the signing of the armistice.

HIS SOAP WAS HIS FORTUNE.

Lord Leverhulme is dead. He was 74 when he died. He was one of the great industrial leaders of Europe and the greatest captain of industry in the British Isles. He was born William Haskeath Lever. He was cradled in poverty. He found his first job when he was sixteen. It consisted of cutting and wrapping soap. When he was 20 he was promoted to clerkship. When he was 24 he was the owner of a small soap factory.

This was the foundation of his fortune. His factories and enterprises follow the British flag over the earth. He built model works and model towns for his employes. He was the first British employer to introduce profit sharing schemes and industrial co-partnership. His model houses are rented to employes of his factories for $2 a month.

He favored a six-hour working day for his employes, but never worked less than 16 hours a day himself. He was the owner of newspapers and a moulder of public opinion. He was elevated to the peerage in 1917. He never spent an idle day in his life. Now an only son is heir to the vast fortune of this commoner who was born in poverty and established the House of Soap in the British empire.

MAN WHO WON THE WAR.

Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske of New York won the world war for the allies. This warrior of the navy is on the retired list. He admits that he won the war and is proud of it. He made a speech at an annual dinner of the New Jersey chamber of commerce and did some loud talking. He said that Germany would have won the war if he had not carried on his propaganda for preparedness in the early days of the Woodrow Wilson administration.

He attacked Woodrow Wilson and Josephus Daniels for pacifism and said he was forced to resign because he opposed them. A very modest man is this rear admiral on the retired list. He admits that the Wilson administration was well on its way before he could induce the powers that were to get the navy in shape for active service. This done, the navy got the army over there just in the nick of time.

All of which goes to show that if Bradley A. Fiske had never happened Germany would have won the war and the kaiser would have been holding forth at Windsor castle instead of being a wood chopper in Holland. Wasn't it Henry Ford who said in the not remote past that "history is bunk?"

CHINESE MUST ATTEND NEGRO SCHOOLS.

Chinese children are not eligible to attend the white public schools of Mississippi. This is the decision of the supreme court of that state. The argument: Chinese children under the laws of Mississippi are not a part of the white race, but of the colored race, and therefore, they must attend the negro schools until some provision is made for them by the legislature.

Mississippi has a compulsory school attendance law. Hence, under the ruling Chinese children must either attend the private schools or the negro public schools. Martha Lum is the victim. She is of pure Chinese origin, very intelligent and very attractive, and her father is a well-to-do taxpayer of Mississippi.

She is a Christian. Will the church compel her to attend a negro Sunday school? If not, why not?

The GILDED ROSE

by May Christie

Who's Who in the Story.

Rosilyn Ridgeway learns on her wedding day from idle gossip that she has been married for her money. Before her enormous fortune was left her, she had been an overworked little drudge in her father's inn.

Landis Ridgeway, her husband, is a brillian, fascinating man, who was forced into the marriage by his mother.

Florence Ridgeway, an aristocratic old lady, who saw poverty staring her in the face, and chcose the easiest way out—Rosilyn loving her husband, knows that he is still in love with

Lydia Harbrook, a beautiful, cold society girl who is bent on marrying

Stevie Van Vorst, a wealthy old roue, although she is really fond of Landis in her selfish way. She is in Paris when she hears of Landis' marriage, and immediately returns to the United States. With her goes

Rupert Briscoe, a dissipated man of the world, who has seen Rosilyn but once, and yet is deeply interested in her. Lydia learns of this interest, and when the two reach New York, she suggests that they ask the young Ridgeways to join them for dinner. She and Briscoe concoct a plot whereby through an apparent misunderstanding Rosilyn and Briscoe will be left alone together all evening, while she will be with her beloved Landis. Thus happens that Landis is amazed to find her waiting for him in the lobby of Claridge's.

Landis phones to find out why his wife has not joined them, and learns that she left the hotel with Briscoe—leaving word that they will join Lydia and Landis in a few minutes. Left alone with Lydia, Landis finds himself swept off his feet by her beauty.

Had he caught at tonight's opportunity to slip away from her?

* * * * *

There was something home-like in the architecture of the place—or perhaps in its very unpretentiousness—that reminded Rosilyn of the marshland inn.

A soft breeze fanned her cheeks, coming from a lattice window that opened directly on the yard below. It was cooler here than in the other clubs.

One or two men strolled up and spoke to Briscoe. He presented them to Rosilyn.

There was talk of art and music. Someone had staged a new play that was to be a "winner." Rosilyn must come and see it.

She was drawn into the magic thread of conversation. Even though she realized her ignorance of art and letters to be abysmal, she felt more at her ease here than in the more luxurious dance-resorts they had visited earlier that night.

"I'm not their sort, but I'm useful to them," Briscoe whispered to her, in a lull of talk.

She wondered what he meant, until later she heard that the brilliant new play was being backed by him. He rather fancied himself—at times—as a patron of the arts. And he had money!

A "coming" novelist joined them, discussing the eggs and bacon with extraordinary relish. Genius must be fed, and following the eggs and bacon — the literary young man ordered kippers and a second pot of tea.

He asked if he might call on Rosilyn. The girl wondered what the man would think of her if he knew that she was "on her honeymoon," and that her bridegroom was off playing escort to another woman, while she—the bride of but a week or two— was doing an itinerary of New York night life, with another man!

As a matter of fact, the sophisticated youth would not have turned a hair. In the world in which he lived, nothing surprised him—never would!

The dancing ceased, and all the world appeared to breakfast. Through the lattice window, Rosilyn could see a slender wisp of moon, high in a deep blue firmament.

The wine, the music, and the excitement of the past few hours had strung young Mrs. Landis Ridgeway to a pleasurably nervous tension.

"Listen! How beautiful!" she said, below her breath, as strains came floating up to them.

Her eyes met his.

"I mean it, beautiful girl!" whispered he, the song forming a running accompaniment to his spoken words. "If I had my wish, you'd never shed a tear again—and if you did, I'd wipe them all away—I'd kiss them all away—"

A strange glow came to her young heart. It was wrong, of course, and playing with fire was dangerous, and Mr. Briscoe shouldn't say such things —and yet—and yet—after Landis' neglect, his humiliating truancy this evening, wasn't it wonderful to find that there was someone to whom she wasn't just a dull, uneducated country girl, but a little 'desirable,' a little bit 'worth while'—?

It was half-past three when they reached her hotel, and Rupert Briscoe, stooping low to press his lips againset her hand, was whispering:

"Little Lady of My Dreams..... Good night.!"

CHAPTER XXXIII.
Van Vorst Makes Plans

Stephen Van Vorst, despite all the so-called "gaities" which his wealth could buy in Paris, had—since Lydia's departure from the city—found those gaieties strangely boring, even to the point of satiation.

"Gad! I must be actually in love!" Leaning back in the deep leather chair of his luxurious suite, the inevitable cigar rolling between his loose and sensual lips, the millionaire contemplated the sunlight flickering through the trees outside his windows, and an apt comparison of Lydia with the elusive radiance drifted through his consciousness.

She dazzled—she evaded—and, like this sunshine of a rather chilly early summer, gave out light and promise without warmth!

Where was Lydia at this moment?

He was shrewd, was Van Vorst, and—although the charmer had raked up numerous plausible excuses for her departure homewards—he surmised, quite accurately, that Landis Ridgeway was the "raison d'etre" of Lydia's sudden flight.

Of Rupert Briscoe he could feel no jealousy. Rupert was wealthy, it was true. And Lydia had traveled back with him to the states.

But in Briscoe's case there was no lure for Lydia. Compared to Van Vorst) the man's fortune was not large enough.

And Briscoe's suave manners and sophisticated "charm" could never dazzle a women who knew quite as much about the world as Lydia did.

Briscoe was a "hard case." Lydia and he were—in some ways—too much alike in character to be really attracted to each other.

But Landis Ridgeway! That was different!

A cool little breeze blew through the open windows of the suite, Van Vorst gave a wheeze cough. Was that damned asthma coming back again?

He had lived so hard, so heedlessly, that one couldn't expect to feel just like a two-year-old.

Various eminent doctors' warnings came back to him unpleasantly at this moment, so that a little shiver that wasn't entirely engendered by the chilly breeze shook him, as if someone had walked across his grave!

Gad! he longed for Lydia's presence, to chase away the blues!

She was gay, was Lydia—always gay.

She said the right thing and the pleasant thing, invariably.

Never, by word or deed, did she remind him of the flight of time.

He wanted Lydia.

It must be love!

And what a travesty he had made of love and life!

He rose to shut the window, then crossed the apartment to a small wood fire that crackled in the grate.

"Bring me a double brandy, Williams, and be quick about it!"

Taken neat, the fiery liquid warmed him, and his brain began to act, to plan.

Lydia—and Landis Ridgeway! Lydia had gone off in pursuit of Landis, planning to win her erstwhile sweetheart back again. And no one in the world realized better than himself—hard-headed but now hypnotised old Van Vorst—the potent devilment, the yitching charm of beautiful Miss Harbrook!

"The little country dowd will never hold a chap of Ridgeway's mettle, even suppose he'd married her for affection, not for cash!" thought the millionaire, his mind pausing for a moment on Ridgeway's bride. "After a week or two of the innkeeper's daughter's unadulterated society" his loose lips twisted in a contemptuous grin—"he'll be absolutely ripe for Lydia!"

There was no time to lose.

"The expulsive power of a new affection." He had read that philosohic phrase somewhere.

But what "new affection"—what counter-attraction could he put in Ridgeway's path?

The little country bride was totally out of the running.

Who—?

"Gad! I've got it! Marietta!" The man rubbed his flabby hands together. Then, to his valet: "Williams, ring up the cafe de Paris, and get Mlle. Fernandez to speak to me."

Williams hesitated.

"It's only 2 o'clock, sir, Mlle. Fernandez' engagement at the cafe is for the evenings. It is unlikey she will be there at this hour." He spoke precisely, and in an apologetic tone.

"Bright lad, Williams!" his master grinned. "You think of everything, don't you? Ring up the cafe, just the same—and if the girl isn't there, then get her address."

Williams did as he was bid, and presently returned with the address scribbled on a scrap of paper.

"I wrote it down, sir. The hotel de Vaudeville, in Montmartre."

Van Vorst took the slip of paper.

"Good! Now telephone for the car, and bring me my overcoat."

As the valet helped him to adjust the garment, the former said, with an apologetic little cough:

"Begging your pardon, sir, the hotel de Vaudeville is a queer kind of place, and I wouldn't be carrying much money along—"

"Don't croak, Williams! I wasn't born yesterday!" This was delivered with a good-humored grin. The valet's solicitude amused his master.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The Delaunay-Belleville purred along the cobbled streets, while its owner, leaning back luxuriously inside, plotted and planned on possible means to circumvent a resume of Lydia's and Landis' at one time flaming feeling for each other.

"Marietta Fernandez is a devilish attractive female. These gals with a dash of Spanish in them are regular fiends for jealousy, too!"

The plan grew and developed in his mind.

Money! What a power it was!

Was there anything on God's earth it couldn't buy? ?

He'd buy Marietta—for his own nefarious purposes.

She'd have to earn the money, too.

The car climbed the little hill that leads up to the church, and—turning to the left—drew up at a shabby, shuttered building that bore a dilapidated signboard:—"Hotel et Vaudeville."

"No 'friend' behind her, evidently!" mused Van Vorst, as he walked into the office and inquired as to Mlle. Fernandez' whereabouts from the portly little 'maitre d'hotel'."

Suavely—(for Delaunay-Bellevilles outside his shabby hostelry wrere infrequent spectacles)—the 'maitre d'hotel' informed the newcomer that the lovely mademoiselle was slumbering.

"You don't object to my going up?' The millionaire slipped a fifty franc note into the plump palm that was waiting to be "oiled."

"Oh, not at all." The porky little figure led the way upstairs. Mademoiselle would doubtless be enchanted to see monsieur. He himself—the owner of the place—would just give mademoiselle a hint of her distinguished caller's presence!

"The little devil's got a temper—he's frightened of her!" thought the millionaire, with a speculative grin. He admired 'temperament' in a woman, just as he admired it in a racehorse.

Mademoiselle Marietta was awake, however, and—in a soiled and frayed negligee that had seen better days—was seated at her open fourth-floor window, drearily staring over the roofs of Paris with suspiciously swollen eyes.

"Like ltitle Sister Anne!" commented Van Vorst cheerfully when the hotel keeper's tactful explanations had been made, and he strode into the room to greet the dancer.

"Little Sister What?" She rose hastily, with outstretched hand. (Millions talked, didn't they?)

"A charming lady of history!' (Gad! he felt quite gay now. Despite those swollen lids, the girl was very, very handsome. She'd soon capticate Landis, if she hadn't done so already....)

"And why do I look like her?" With the easy informality of her class, Marietta pushed forward a chair with a broken spring, and indicated that her caller might seat himself thereon.

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

"Who? . . . Mr. and Mrs. Edwards?" in shrill dismay . . . Why, yes, of course. Bring them right up."

Flushed and flustered, Helen turned from the house phone.

"CARRIE!"

"Fine! Haven't seen 'em for two months," Warren was going over the accumulated mail.

"She might've given us time to get unpacked! Quick—close those doors!"

"Now you don't have to slick up," cramming a bunch of circulars into the waste-basket. "They know we just got in."

"Don't say a THING about presents!" struggling with the folding doors to shut off the baggage-littered dining room. "I CAN'T get them out now!"

"Why not?" bristled Warren. "Might as well give 'em while they're here."

"She'll want to see everything I brought. Now just say we're NOT unpacked! You go!" as the bell rang. "Oh, I hope they haven't brought Bobbie!"

Voices from the hall. Yes, Bobbie! Shrilling above his mother's staccato.

After two months in Europe, free from Warren's family, the resumption of polite hostilities seemed harder than ever.

A chorus of over-stimulated greeting platitudes.

"You're looking great, Helen!" Lawrence was always genuinely friendly. "Hear you did a lot of flying. How'd you like it?"

"I loved it! Like limousining through the clouds!" lugging in her pet phrase. "No, I wasn't a bit afraid!"

"Um-um. I've my doubts about that," shrugged Carrie. "I can just see you clutching at Warren. Pettie, come away from that window!"

"No, she was a good sport," admitted Warren, at Helen's you tell-them glance. "And they handed us some dizzy dips on that hydroplane!"

"You were very foolish to take such risks after those horrible accidents between Paris and London. Precious, mind mother! Come away from that window! Lawrence, shut that! The other one, too."

"Only 108," with flushed resentment. "I weighed on the steamer."

"Oh, while I think of it—Aunt Amelia's having trouble with her ear. She wants to come in to a specialist. Can you have her next week?"

"Next week?" dismayed Helen. "Why, we haven't a maid—we won't be——"

"We'll have one by that time," Warren was opening a box of cigars. "These're mild," passing them to Lawrence.

"Then I'll tell her it's all right," decided Carrie. "She won't stay more than a week. Let that radio alone, Precious! Too early for the Bedtime Stories."

"Aunt Helen, what'd you bring me?" sulked Bobbie, still twirling the dials.

"Can't you do it now? Why can't you Got any chocolate cake?"

"I'm sorry, Bobbie, we just got in last night. We've nothing in the house."

"We went out for breakfast. Oh, don't mark up Aunt Helen's table!"

"Aintcha gonna have no dinner?"

"We'll have to go out for dinner. Give Aunt Helen that match!"

"I'm hungry!" straddling a chair arm. "Aintcha got no candy? You sure?"

"Thought I saw a box in my trunk?" broke in Warren.

Her one box of foreign confections had not been brought for Bobbie's greedy consumption. But now she must produce it.

Opening the folding doors only far enough to wedge through, before she could close them, Bobbie squirmed in after her.

"Want my present! Why can't you? What's these? Who stuck 'em on your trunk?"

"Oh, I forgot—there's liqueur in them!" despaired Helen, as a syrupy stream gushed down his chin. "You're getting it on that chair—come away!"

"Like those little chocolate bottles Mrs. Crane set us," Carrie sampled another, as Helen wiped the sticky smudge from the linen-shrouded chair.

"Gimme that gold one!"

"Should he have any more, Carrie? They're full of liqueur."

"Not enough to hurt him. Careful, Honeybug, don't get it all over you."

"Where's that cane for Lawrence?" demanded Warren. "Get at that, can't you?"

"Why, dear, you know I haven't started to unpack!"

"Now don't bother," protested Lawrence, always considerate. "No hurry."

"I can get that cane! Saw it in my trunk," Warren started up.

"There's the bell! You'll have to go—I'm not dressed," fluttered Helen, welcoming the intrusion—anything to divert his raid on the trunk.

It was Mrs. Thompson, the superintendent's wife, with Pussy Purr-Mew.

"Is she all right? Yes, I'm sure you took good care of her. Don't, Bobbie, you'll frighten her!" Helen opened the basket. "She's always nervous at first."

"Yes, she was so scared when we took her down. Wouldn't eat for two days. Now she's used to us—we hate to give her up."

"Oh, she's lovely and fat!" cuddling her. "Why, Pussy Purr-Mew, don't you know me?"

Wriggling from Helen's arms, she shot across the room. From under the couch, her phosphorus eyes gleamed wide and terrified.

"Doesn't even know you!" shrugged Carrie. "Persian cats are so stupid."

"Here's her milk," Mrs. Thompson took a bottle from the basket.

"Oh, thank you, we haven't any yet. Wait, I'll pay you now. Eight weeks, isn't it? Dear, have you sixteen dollars?"

"Guess I've got that much," Warren drew out his wallet. "But gettin' through the customs put a dent in this roll."

"And you pay two dollars a week for that cat every time you go to Europe?" criticised Carrie, after Mrs. Thompson's exit. "Don't ever say I'm extravagant!"

"Started to get that cane!" again Warren made for the dining room.

With disconcerting visions of his rumpling search, Helen tried to answer Lawrence's questions about their continental flights.

"I don't know how high—but we were above the clouds. No, we never thought of putting cotton in our ears. Yes, all enclosed—just like a limousine. Oh, awfully cheap—only fourteen dollars from Vienna to Budapest! Yet, they fly all over Europe—we're so far behind here."

"Well, I dug out a few things," Warren strode back. "Here's the cane! This the bag you got for Carrie?"

"A bag? And I just bought one!" disparaged his sister.

"Malacca! A beauty!" Lawrence always appreciative, was admiring his cane. "Just what I wanted—left mine in a taxi. Carrie, that's a stunning bag!"

"No place for change?" depreciatingly, exploring the lining.

"You can put any little purse in that inside pocket," resented Helen. "We got that in Vienna—the Wiener Werk Statte. They make the finest leather goods."

"Oh, yes, it's very good looking," her tone implying she would rather have had anything else.

"Nothin' for me?" whimpered Bobbie, tugging at his father's cane.

"Why, yes of course," propitiated Helen, "but we're not unpacked yet. The next time you come—I'll have it all ready."

"That means Aunt Helen will buy you something here," laughed Carrie, cynically. "Cheaper and easier than bringing things over. Lawrence, we must go! You'll have to drive slow with that loose brake."

"Much obliged for this," flourishing the cane, as he rose. "It's a peach!"

"Leave that alone, Precious! Come, we're going home," Carrie held out his coat. "What do you want? That candy? Well, ask Aunt Helen."

"Jackie Wood's gotta airship! Uncle Warren, why didn't you bring me one?"

"Maybe we did. You'll see next time you come."

"Your cap, Precious? You threw it at that cat—there, back of the couch!"

"Yes, some Sunday soon," at Lawrence's invitation, as they waited for the elevator. "Yes, I'll draw up that contract. No, not too busy for that."

"No, don't open it now—you've eaten enough. Give mother the box. Then I'll write Aunt Amelia she can come next week?"

"Yes, we'll put her up," brisked Warren. "Take your hand in, Bobbie. So long!"

Then, as the elevator shot down, he whirled on Helen with a menacing.

"See here, didn't you bring anything for Bobbie?"

"It's absurd to bring toys from Europe—I was going to get him something here. But I might've known Carrie'd rush in the very first day!"

"Well, she sized you up on that, all right! Now the next time you bring something for Bobbie — something good, too. Cram the trunks with your antique junk—never want to bring a thing for my family!"

"Your family!" hysterically. "We're always bringing things for your family. It's always your family! And now we must have Aunt Amelia!"

"Well, what of it?" as he stalked back into the library. "First thing we get home you start chewin' the rag 'bout my folks! Hardly civil to 'em!"

"Civil? Why, what did I say? The way she acted about that bag!"

"Oh, that's just Carrie's way," clipping a fresh cigar. "She appreciated it, all right. And wasn't Lawrence tickled with that cane?"

"Yes, he's a dear," admitted Helen, picking up after Bobbie. "But he isn't your family! Wait till Aunt Amelia comes——"

"Now tune off on Aunt Amelia! You get a maid and make her comfortable. What's that? Twice a year! Well, she can come every month if she likes! Now I'm fed up with your roastin' my family—they'll come here whenever they want to! And your mug's goin' to register welcome! Now that's that!"

Next week—"Their Manikin Maid."

What's Doing Here and There In West Texas

At Childress

The total enrollment of scholastics for Childress county is 3,620. The state apportionment is $15.50 per pupil. This will give Childress county $56,110 and with the local taxes this should give Childress county ample funds for their work. Miss Mabel Hearn is the superintendent.

TO PAVE SQUARE.

The commissioners court have an order to pave around the court house square. The county is to pay one-half the cost of the paving. This will be a great improvement in the appearance of the town.

PAVING CONTRACTS.

May 26 has been set as the day upon which the bids for the paving contracts shall be presented to the city council.

MOVE TO CHILDRESS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. DeMontel of Wichita Falls are in Childress with a view to making this their home. Mr. DeMontel is associated with the Plains Pacing company of Wichita Falls.

NAMED FARM DELEGATE.

J. L. Brooks was elected as a delegate to the meeting of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association at Floydada at the meeting held last week at the court house. At this meeting it was stated that many framers would renew their contracts for the next five years as the association paid $20.00 per bale over the street price in 1924.

ROTARY DINNER.

The Rotary club of Childress gave a dinner to the Rotary-Anns this week at the Presbyterian church. A very enjoyable program was arranged. Among these were piano solo, Miss Camilla Van Tickle; violin and piano duets, Misses Edyth and Beulah Dowell; vocal solos by Mrs. J. H. Mitchell and Mrs. Lotie McWhorter.

FINAL CLUB MEET.

The Woman's Department of Childress held their final meeting for this year at the club room Wednesday, May 13. Reports from the district meeting at Canyon were given by Mrs. A. M. Walker and Mrs. W. E. Davis. An effort will be made to get the girl Scout week started in Childress during the summer months. The new officers are Mrs. A. M. Walker, president; Mrs. Frank Houston, first vice-president; Mrs. Helen Athinson, second vice-president; Mrs. J. O. McMinn, treasurer; Mrs. A. J. Brown, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. W. Devenport, recording secretary.

BOOK CLUB.

The Book club will hold their final meeting at the club rooms on Saturday, May 16. There will be an election of officers and a study course for next year will be decided upon. The hostess for the meeting are Mrs. Cecil Pryor, Mrs. J. B. Long and Mrs. W. E. Davis.

FIGHTING HOPPERS.

The cool weather has retarded the hatching of the grasshopper eggs somewhat and it is thought if the poison is used liberally now that the danger to the young crops will be greatly lessened. The arsenic and syrup has been received and will be distributed to the farmers in the five counties, Cottle, Collingsworth, Hardeman, Harmon and Childress. The molasses is being sold at 25c per gallon and the arsenic at three pounds for 25c.

Harmon county, Okla., has taken 4,000 pounds of arsenic, Hardeman 7,000 pounds, Cottle county 12,000 pounds, Collingsworth 6,000 pounds. The remainder will probably be used in Childress county.

COURT JUNE 1.

GRADUATION.

The graduating class of the Childress high school numbers 26, nineteen girls and seven boys. Next week will be commencement week. The commencement for the seventh grade will be held at the Baptist church Thursday evening May 21, at 8 o'clock.

The high school commencement will be at the LaGrande theatre on Friday evening, May 22.

On Thursday, May 17 the baccalaureate sermon will be preached at the Methodist church in the evening by Rev. W. M. Murrell, pastor of the church. The graduates are Helen Alexander, Nova Atcheley, Eileen Burnett, Alva Bullock, Pauline Butterfield, Aunette Barnhart, McHenry Crawford, Harvey Cooper, Lillian Fox, Loflin Harwood, Juanita Joyce, Louise Peyton, Katherine Pinney, Sadie Loter, Max Leach, Maurine Merrick, Verna Manger, Gatewood Newberry, Loraine Parr, Eugene Smith, Lillie Mae Timms, Dudley Sue Stephenson, Alex Taylor, Camilla Van Sickle, Jewell Wallace, Marie Wilson.

FACULTY PARTY.

The faculty of the Childress schools will give a party at the home of Mrs. Killeen Atkinson in honor of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Harrison who has resigned as superintendent of schools to accept work elsewhere. Mr. Harrison has been with the Childress schools for six years.

MORE STREETS WANTED.

Since the passing of the bond election there has been a great deal of activity among the residents on several of the main residence streets to get the paving of their streets first. It may become necessary to pave more streets than expected.

In Quanah.

RECOVER MACHINE.

Officers Aiken and Putman returned from Electra Thursday with the battery charging machine stolen from Galen Givens battery station about three weeks ago. The dynamo was located in a ditch some miles north of Electra where it had been hidden by the thief when the officers were close on his trail. The thief was not caught.

VITAL STATISTICS.

Hardeman county's population is increasing at a ratio of 5 to 1, according to the vital statistics report for April, there being 15 births and five deaths.

DIES IN ROSWELL.

Odie E. Hood, for many years a Quanah business man and at the time of his death owner of the Gorner drug store, died in Roswell, N. M., May 14. His body will be brought to Quanah and buried Sunday.

Mr. Hood was forty-five years old and leaves a wife and three children. He had been in ill health for some time, and last summer was taken to Arizona, later going to Roswell.

GRADUATION HELD.

The distribution of medals and trophies in addition to diplomas, featured the closing exercises of the Quanah high school at the Baptist church Thursday night. Twenty-seven girls and twenty-three boys composed the class of 1925. Zana Magee was salutatorian and Josephine Aiken, valedictorian.

Dean Condron of Calarendon college, Clarendon, Texas, spoke on "American Tradition," emphasizing the need of more respect for government authority. The Gilliland-Simmons trophy for perfect sportsmanship was awarded to Doyle Stephenson. Josephine Aiken received the 1924 club medal for proficiency in English, also the D. T. Haden medal for highest grades in her class. Miss Naomi Lovell (winner of the state declamaton contest) and Jean Rodgers, received $10 each from the Tribune Chief and Baker-Hanna for declamation. J. D. Mahoney and Doyle Stephenson $5 each from E. B. Caskey and George Browne in tennis. Misses Margaret Moseley, Pearl Odell, Nonalie Speer, Lois Williams, Louise Stephens and Doris Pierce received the Rutherford medals for their work in physical culture.

As a part of the program Miss Naomi Lovell gave the reading "The Unknown Speaker" upon which she was awarded the loving cup and university scholarship, in the state contest in Austin.

Summer School To Open Monday For Its Seventh Session

Monday morning at 9 o'clock will bring the opening of the summer school of the Wichita Falls Junior college and high school, the seventh summer session for the high school and the second for the college. Registration will take place the first day and actual classwork will commence Tuesday, according to Registrar A. K. Preston of the Junior college, who is dean of the summer college and principal of the summer high school.

In New Building.

Classes will be held for the first time in the new college building in order that its splendid facilities may be available for summer students as in the long session. The splendid new Snider library, presented to the college during the past year by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Snider, will be kept open during the entire session.

Courses will be offered in all grades of high school, English, mathematics and history, and also in Spanish, chemistry, and stenography and typewriting where enough call for class. Other subjects may be offered if the demand for them is sufficient to warrant the employment of tetachers.

College courses will be offered in English, education, psychology, economity, college algebra, history, and other subjects according to demand.

Up to Standard.

All work offered is fully up to standard long session requirements in hours and recitations. Teachers have been selected from the regular long session faculties, in order to insure a full acquaintance with the standards of the institution.

Fees this year for the first time are graded according t othe amount of work a student wishes to carry, and are placed on an economicall scale as low as operation costs will permit.

Instruction work will be carried on by the following teachers: A. K. Preston, principal and dean, B. T. Adams, Nell Bashner, C. P. Mosley, J. C. Mathis, R. O. Jonas, Vera Jobe, Jane McCulloch, Gladys Wilbanks, and several others placed on the reserve list to be used in case of need.

U. S. Likely To Lose First of Airplanes

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The United States will lose its most priceless aeronautical relic, the original Wright airplane, unless some immediate action is taken to induce Orville Wright to change his decision to give the plane to the British museum for permanent preservation.

He is sending the plane to England, he says, because there is no American museum in which it can be preserved with safety. He is afraid it would be destroyed by fire if left in one of the several United States depositories for such relics.

Aeronautical organizations have neglected to make any provision for the preservation of the craft, in which the Wright brothers, Orville and the late Wilbur, demonstrated for the first time at Kitty Hawk, N. C., on Dec. 17, 1903, that flights in heavier than air machines were possibie.

Protests and criticisms are being heard in aviation circles over the loss of the plane to America. The criticisms are not aimed at Wright, how-

NORFOLK—Machinist Frank M. Hendricks was found guilty today by a general court martial of charges growing out of the finding of liquor aboard the naval transport Beaufort when she docked here from the West Indies in February. Lieutenant J. W. Cavenaugh, his counsel, announced he will appeal to Secretary Wilbur. Several officers are yet to be tried in connection with the case.

How About Baying at the Moon—T. B. M.—Grand Persons—By Ed Howe

Why is a man respected? Isn't it always because he is polite, moral, honest, industrious, and contributes his fair share toward the general welfare?.....And if you have the respect of those with whom you come in contact, the going is much easier.

An elderly man called on me lately, and told an interesting story; fifteen years ago, at the age of sixty, his health failed, and he spent fifty thousand dollars with doctors. He was told the best was none too good when health was concerned so he hunted up the big boys of the medical profession.

One man was so distinguished that it was necessary to procure a letter of introduction to him.

This man, with several assistants, looked him over, and charged a fee of five hundred dollars.

But the big doctor did the patient no good.

Then my friend went on other long journeys to see other high priced experts, and sat in their waiting rooms with letters of introduction from prominent men.

He went to all sorts of sanitariums and cures, and did not get any better.

Finally he was compelled to doctor himself, which he did so effectively that, at seventy-five, he is a vigorous and contented man.

His own investigation convinced him that he ate too much, and the wrong things.

He had heard that no man can live without fruit. His own investigation revealed that fruit was poison to him, so he cut it out.

He had heard, also, that no one could be healthy without plenty of milk. His own investigation convinced him that milk distressed him, and he quit it.

Now he eats very little, and only of food that "agrees with him".

And no doctor helped him reach the right conclusion.

It is not a preposterous statement that every man must doctor himself. After carrying a body fifty or sixty years, surely you may become familiar with its habits. Your machine is complicated, but you do not need know all the complications to understand its rules.

Lately one of the notable tendencies among the intelligent is to recognize the fact that doctors do not know much. The best of them admit it, and advise exercise, and simpler diet. The great newspapers and magazines have taken up the idea, and are accomplishing good with it.

From every intelligent source comes the advice to individuals: "It's up to you".

I think every man irritates women; I know I do.

In my observation of the world some things stand out large with me that do not seem to attract the particular notice of others.

An example:

The cruel manner in which some women are lately hammering men.

I know an excellent man who is asking divorce from his wife. I have not lately, or ever, known a husband to mistreat a wife as this woman mistreats her husband. The neighbors are in sympathy with the man, but that does him no good, the courts, the laws, are not.

In this case, there is no suggestion on either side of the enternal triangle, as is often the case in cities.

It is a plain case of the men being too gallant in making the laws.

Another think I notice a good deal: The poor use most of us make of the little sense we have.

I am not a crank. I am opposed to certain things, but do not believe my opposition will greatly change conditions. I understand a crank is one who believes that by constantly baying at the moon, he will finally be able to change it into green cheese. I say at the moon a good deal, but I do not expect to reform it.

There is no higher morality than that practiced in the great majority of business establishments. There are no more useful men than business men. A captain of industry is a more useful man, a more reliably honest man, than a captain of the salvation army. The big men of the church, the bishops and cardinals, are no better than the big men of business, and not so useful. Some people have a notion that business men have no sentiment or brillian fancy, or musical or literary taste, or appreciation of beautiful things. All our great orchestras, art galleries, libraries, colleges, etc., were made possibly by business men. The most successful novel of recent times was written by a banker. Business men equal and surpass the statesmen in all respects, except in flights of fancy. The vital facts of life do not come from secluded men occupying capital or cloister, but from the busy market place, where everything is tried out practically, and only the best accepted. There is no truth business men habitually neglect; no good thing they habitually oppose. It is the business men who have carried the torch of enlightenment, justice and by any other class. There is dishonesty and meanness in business, but liberty further than it has been carried less in proportion to its transactions than in any other profession or calling.

I am often ashamed of my attitude toward women, but have never known one to admit she was ashamed of her attitude toward me.

Women always seem to feel it is the business of men to apologize.

If, in a controversy with a woman over a joint problem, she should confess half the blame, I think I should accept a little more, and try thereafter to be more deserving.

In what out literary men so grandly call the final analysis( I believe fifty-fifty very near the truth.

In charges made against me by preachers, women, editorial writers, statesmen, children, the commercial club, the neighbors, solicitors, clerks, tcs., I am strongly disposed to believe about half of it is true, and that the other half belongs to my critics.

The term "tired business man" has become an epithet, whereas it is a compliment to so refer to a man. He is actually the best type of citizen we have; I know no more complimentary thing that may be said of a citizen than that he is tired from engaging in business, which includes everything worthwhile in this world of effort. One of our greatest troubles is that we have not more men tired because of honest work in honest callings. The curse of the world is so many men engaged in mischief rather than in business.

I was once walking on a busy street with a very rich women. The crowd jostled her, not knowing or caring about her distinction. At the crossings she was held up with negroes and Indians, unless she jumped out of the way, passing automobiles threw muddy water on her clothing, a shower having recently fallen.

The rich and great have no special protection from the main difficuitles of life. They have headaches, rheumatism, heart ache, dyspepsia, like the rest of us. I thing the worst case of halistosis I ever knew came to my attention while talking with a great heiress.

People flatter the rich, but I imagine this becomes wearisome to them. Besides, are not we poor lattered, also? Is there a writing or public speaking wherein we are not told how honest and good we are?

Lately I was reading far into a restless night. A Frenchman was telling—how clever the French are, although I do not trust them—of a man in love with a great society queen. She professed to be in love with him, too, although he feared, she had about equal affection for half a dozen others.

This woman's home was the resort of the most noted men in France, and she was familiar with are; talked too much, and tiresomely, about it. I thought.

Monsier tired of so much grandeur and coldness, had consoled himself with a little housemaid, actualy more beautiful and agreeable than the society queen. Her simple talk about natural things pleased him more than the grand conversation of grand persons.

We poor people have as agreeable love affairs as the mighty. Our lives in other respects are not entirely devoid of pleasure, content and comfort.

I saw a suggestion the other day that Elihu Root is so well educated, so intelligent, so useful, so capable, so good a citizen, that he be given the title of Duke; that some such honorary title be created for all particularly worthy men.

Likewise I think there should be recognition of yonger men who succeed.

Say we agree to give them title of A. B. C.

The A to mean a man has learned a trade of profession well, and is a good son.

The B to mean that he is useful to his community, provides for his family, and is entitled to respect.

And the C to mean that he has fairly good sense, and may be depended on to join other A B C men in promoting worthy things in the world.

A good many of those we now call Honorable, Judge, Reverend, Doctor, Professor, etc., are unsafe; we need sound A B C men from the ranks of useful workers to combat their mischievous activities.

What Happened to a Reformer —By James J. Montague

I have given up reform. For three weeks I sought to better the condition of my neighbors. But not only did they not want to have their condition bettered, but became so angry at me for endeavoring to better it that I found it expedient to leave them to their misery. So I retired as a reformer—permanently. Hereafter my neighbors will be left to wallow in their own woe.

It was after reading a newspaper article about tent caterpillars that I embarked on my campaign. The newspaper article said that unless something was done about tent caterpilars they would soon destroy every growing thing upon the face of the earth, and leave the population destitute. It pointed out that every nest that these caterpillars build in the trees contained eighteen thousand, nine hundred and fourteen caterpillars, capable of eating the vegetation from a quarter of an acre of ground. It further pointed out that in every wild cherry tree, which the tent caterpillar, for some reason always selects as his hatchery, there are likely to be from twenty to thirty-four caterpillar nests.

I figured out that if the creatures were left unmolested in our neighborhood, where wild cherry trees are numerous there soon would not be left a spring of green as big as a man's hand on the surface of the ground.

My first plan was to let my neighbors in on the work of destruction so that they could have a share in the glory of getting rid of the devouring army and saving the district for agriculture. Like all beginners in reform I supposed that my fellow men and women would rally around me, delighted to enlist in a good work, and only too pleased to have somebody to lead them.

So I went to their houses and talked to them about tent caterpillars and their menace to the food supply of the future. They agreed with me enthusiastically. Some of them even went so far as to say that they would let me come into their yards and eradicate the nests that I found there. One or two even promised that their children would follow me around and pick up the caterpillars that I felled to the ground, providing of course that the children were willing to do it.

But when I came home one day laden with a can of kerosene, the material for torches, and an axe with which to hew down the wild cherry trees my neighbors viewed me askance. That night several of them called and said that if it was my intention to chop down any trees on their property they must warn me that they would regard me as a trespasser and if any of their trees were maimed, prosecute me to the full extent of the law.

Others said that I had better be careful about lighting any fires, even in my own back yard, lest they spread to adjoining property and menace the lives of innocent women and children.

I put this down to over caution, and to the reactionary tendency which always retards any work of reform. I could get none of them to volunteer to help me, so I went to work with my plans by myself.

All went well as long as I confined my work to my own yard. I decided that I would not immediately cut down my wild cherry trees, of which I had perhaps a dozen, but would confine myself to burning the nests out of them with my torch.

My neighbors to the right and left leaned over the fence and watched this process, at last becoming so interested that they came into the place and asked me to make them torches, so that they could have the pleasure of seeing the singed and writhing little creatures raining down out of the existence.

Presently other neighbors came up and assisted, and I was quite encouraged. Among us we burned away all the nests in my yard by nightfall, and got rid of enough caterpillars to devastate a whole farm had they been left alive.

The next morning, pleased by the support I had received, I was up bright and early to continue the crusade. Several limbs of cherry trees, each laden heavily with tent nests protruded from the yard of my neighbor to the left over my fence. I began on these.

Soon several little fires were blazing brightly, and the caterpillars were removing their goods and chattels, as well as their persons to what they mistakenly considered to be safety, when a window shot up in my neighbor's house, and his head bounced out of it like a jack-in-the-box.

"Here," he cried, "What are you doing?"

"Killing caterpillars, of course," I replied. "I thought I'd return your kindness in helping me yesterday."

"But these are my caterpillars," he said.

"I know."

"How do you know I want them killed?"

"Of course you want them killed. Didn't you kill twenty thousand of them yesterday?"

"But that was altogether different. Those were your caterpillars."

"Are your caterpillars any less destructive than mine?"

"I don't know yet. I have never caught them eating any of my garden truck. Anyway if I want them killed, I'll kill them myself."

"They couldn't eat any of your garden truck till they got out of the nests. And you know as well as I do that they are a menace."

"Well, it's a question of property. What right have you got to kill my caterpillars without my permission?"

"Well, of course as you say, they are your caterpillars——"

"They are. Now please put out those fires and let my yard alone."

There was nothing else to do but comply. So I put out the fires.

I had the same experience with my neighbor on the other side, and my neighbor behind me. The latter sent me a bill for $300 for three cherry trees he said I had destroyed by setting fire to them. Wild cherry trees are not only not worth $300, but they are a positive menace. Still the courts must decide that, for he is now suing me for the bill.

I cleaned up my own place, but was not permitted to carry on any operations outside of it. When the caterpillars came out of the nests in my neighbors' trees they seemed to divine that I was their enemy and their landlords were their protectors, for they crawled straight into my garden and devoured it root and stem in a single night.

That is the way with reformers. The very worms turn on them. In the future if any curse comes to our neighborhood I shall avoid it by moving away. It is useless to try to reform people who do not want to be formed.

England Wonders What Hindus Will Think of Wales

LONDON, May 16.—The government is wondering what effect, if any, the visit of the Prince of Wales will have upon the passive resistance movement among the Hindus in South Africa.

One movement is taking hold there under the leadership of Manilal Gandhi, son of Mahatma Gandhi, who fostered and is leader of "passive resistance" against the British government in India. There are great numbers of Indian natives in South Africa, Natal alone having 170,000 of them. Consequently the movement is a problem to the government, just as it is a bigger problen in India.

Mahatma Gandhi was himself a passive resistance leader in South Africa for a time. His son lives at Phoenix, twenty miles outside of the city of Natal, where a Tolstoyan colony was founded by his father in 1900, and edits "Indian Opinion," organ of the Hindus in the south.

In accordance with his father's teachings, Manilal spins at least half an hour each day. Gandhi is endeavoring to rid India of British dominance by boycotting their goods, and producing all needed products, including the cotton cloth that every Hindu wears, at home. Hindus are endeavoring to live independent of British commercially here also.

Although he is thirty years old, Manilal Gandhi is unmarried. His father, now fifty-six, was married at the age of twelve, in accordance with Indian custom.

CISCO — At the State Fireman's convention at Cisco, the estimate is, that there were more firemen to attend than to any previous convention of this kind held in the state.

CHILD'S BEST LAXATIVE—CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

MOTHER! Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to clean the liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Adv.

Honors for Junior College Are Inclusive of An Even Dozen

Honors announced for the Junior college graduating class include an even dozen members of the class of 29. Elizabeth Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Peters of 1405 Monroe, made highest honors for the class, receiving the honor of valedictorian. Margaret Waltz of Washington state received second honors, being awarded the position of salutatorian. Both students had an average of A for the year's work.

On the honor roll of all who made an average of B or above were the following: Margaret Akin, Maurine Apple, Anna Marie Crews, Aurda Faye Darby, Clara Isabel Delp, Helen Knotts, Janie McCalister, Frances Elizabeth Peters, Margaret Elizabeth Waltz, Marjorie Evelyn Woolsey, Georgia Ellen Wright.

Individual honors for high averages among boys and girls, which entitle the holder to remission of fees at a number of institutions of higher learning that offer scholarships, were awarded to Elizabeth Peters for the girls and to Preston Beck for the boys.

LONDON—H. Gordon Selfridge, just returned from a holiday trip in Russia, quoted by the Westminister Gazette as saying that he saw no possibility of private trade in Russia in the near future and no inclination to give the private trader any facilities other than through the soviet government.

Ring Receives Startling News from Medicos—Jersey News Item Inspires Trick Cures for Seasickness, Lockjaw or What Have you? —Ring Lardner

By RING LARDNER

To the Editor:

The state of New Jersey is far from being one of the largest states in the union and yet they's more happens there than any other 3 or 4 states combined and if it was not for New Jersey many is the day when big city newspapers would half to go to press without no front page on acct. of not having nothing to print on same.

They ain't hardly a morning passes but what you read where somebody was walking through the woods near Trenton or strolled into a silo outside of South Elizabeth and stumbled over a obstacle which turned out to be the deceased body of a prominent paper hanger and choir singer of this or that Jersey metropolis and for the next month or 2 all the constables and girl scouts busys themself trying to find out who done the killing so as the congratulations and reward won't be give to the wrong party.

New Jobs For Gangsters

In fact murders has became so habitual in what I once nicknamed the skeeter state that some of our more important dailies has quit mentioning them unless they's something unusual connected with the case like for inst. the corpse delicti is found standing on the head or dressed for a Ben Ali Aaggin tableau.

To offset this, the Jerseyites has been giving birth to items of news designed to take the place or murder stories and insure continued fame for the commonwealth and amongst these items was one a little wile ago which I don't know if you seen it or not but it certainly struck me as the cat's sleeping garments, namely the one about the paralytic that ain't a paralytic no more.

It is no trick to get paralyzed a specially in New Jersey where the news that congress passed a 18th amendment ain't yet seeped through, but the kind of paralyzed referred to in this story is the kind that comes by the stroke not by the quart and is a whole lot harder to get over it.

Well this man had been paralyzed for years and couldn't use his hands or ft. and they had him in some kind of a county hospital and his case was considered hopeless till one day they was a nut got loose from the county asylum and happened to drop into the room where the paralytic was laying and he gave the paralytic a terrible beating and when his keepers rushed in and pulled him off his victim, the last named wasn't paralyzed no more but could use his hands and ft. as good as Tom Gibbons.

Now this one item besides what interesting reading it makes, why it has also been of great value in tipping doctors off on how to cure paralysis, and a good many gangsters has earned a honest dollar in the last few days by hiring themselfs out to physicians to assault paralytics and restore same to health.

But the affair has had consequences much more further reaching than that. A cotorie of remarkable physicians from all parts of the country got together on the radio last Tuesday and decided that if that kind of treatment was a remedy for paralysis, why similar radical cures could be prescribed for pretty near all kinds of diseases and with a much greater chance of success because most other diseases ain't nowhere near as fatal.

The undersigned has rec'd from these doctors a partial list of the diseases diggust and the treatment prescribed for same and I take pleasure in printing same here for the benefit of sickly readers and their sickly friends.

Pick Your Own Cure

Scarlet fever, measles, etc. The rash may be got rid of in short order by scraping it off of the body with a sharp razor or carpenter's plane. The fire dept. should be summoned to constantly play 3 or 4 streams of water on patient to reduce fever.

Angina pectoris, pleurisy, pneumonia, and etc. Bare patient's chest, sprinkle same with sand and ask Fred Stone to dance on it. Admission may be charged and the patient isn libel to more than pay expenses.

Appendicitis, gastritis, peritonitis and etc. Take up bowling.

Bronchitis, laryngitis, tonsilitis and etc. Place a good stout noose around patient's neck and tighten it till the germs rushes out into the open air seeking water.

Wens, warts, boils, ganglion, carbuncles, growth of all kinds and etc. These is best got rid of by means of a axe in the hands of a modern woodman of America.

Seasickness, vertigo and etc. Swing the patient in a hammock or trapeze.

Water on the knee and etc. Apply a spong or bailing dipper. Hang the afflicted knee on a clothes line in the hot sun.

St. Vitus dance and etc. Join a church that don't stand for dancing or patronize restaurants that don't have music.

Indigestion and etc. Eat pre-digested food or not at all.

Georgia Restores Whipping Posts In Her Penitentiaries

ATLANTA, May 15.—Whipping post, or torture chambers and stocks? Georgia has chosen in favor of the former, and will restore the lash tin its prisons in place of the latter.

The action is being taken despite protests of the state ministerial association and civic organizations, who wan all such means of disciplining prisoners aboished.

Wardens of the state prisons, declaring that some sort of extra punishment is necessary in order to hold recalcitrant convicts in check, argue that the lash is more humane than the torture chambers and stocks. A grand jury in Fulton county has just come to the same conclusion.

The "torture chambers" are dungeons no better than a closet, in which the person being punished must stand upright for many hours in total darkness. There is no room to turn or to sit down.

The stocks put prisoners into a state fo agony. Many of them have to be taken to the hospital when the stocks are removed, with their ankles and wrists swollen and blue.

The governor has been asked to take action, and it is expected that the next legislature will investigate treatment of prisoners.

Busybodies Say Jackie Coogan Is "Slave Driven" So He Is To Get a Rest

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—Rumors, emanating from inner Hollywood, that Jackie Coogan will be given a long rest from film labors at the termination fo his present contract, have brought up the question of whether Jackie is being robbed of his babyhood in order to make a million dollars a year.

Fearful that attendance at future films will be hurt by the announcement that Jackie is to retire, Jack Coogan Sr., has denied the report, but the rumor persists.

Busybodies have long been circulating stories to the effect that the senior Coogans are "slave drivers" and are keeping Jackie toiling for selfish ends. Everybody familiar with the Coogans' home life, and all those associated with the Coogan productions, call these stories lies.

The fact is Jackie isn't being overworked. His parents have limited his productions to two a year. Between production periods he has long rests and plenty of play. His education isn't being neglected. He has his own tutor, his own doctor, his own psysical culture attendant. He knows every care that could be given him.

But all this, the busybodies argue, is what is making a mere automaton of Jackie, and denying him the right to be a "regular boy." He has to be Jackie Coogan, with the biggest salary of any boy in the world, all of the time. He must be guarded against stubbed toes and cut fingers; knows none of the carefree existence that is the very essence of happy youth.

And this is why, it is told, the Coogans, ever mindful of their trust, are going to give Jackie a rest. Rumor hath it that for three or four years Jackie will live far from the camera and klieg and "be himself."

The plan, however, won't be a success. For Jackie, it is reckoned, can never be a "regular boy." He's a genius. Acting is his life; just as music was the life of the boy Beethoven.

You can be sure, film leaders will tell you, that the motion picture industry will never allow Jackie to be abused. He is one of the greatest assets of the screen. He keeps thousands of people patronizing the movies who wouldn't go otherwise.

But meantime the busybodies continue their sobbing recitals of Jackie Coogan's cruel fate.

LONDON—There are persistent rumors, the Daily Chronicle says, that Austen Chamberlain is likely to resign the foreign secretaryship in consequence of the divergence with his colleagues regarding his attitude toward France.

VIENNA—The Sofia correspondent of the Allgemine Zietung telegraphed his newspaper that it is doubtful whether the men sentenced to death for the Sveti Kral cathedral bombing will actually be executed. This dispatch points out that King Boris always has absolutely refused to sign death warrants and that the Bulgarian government hesitates to apply the death penalty without his confirmation.

To Whiten Skin with Lemon

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.—Adv.

Potash and Perlmutter Discuss What Americans Buy in Europe —By Montague Glass

America leads the world, Mawruss, like automobiles, typewriters, safety razors and plumbing, and there is also merchandise where the world leads America like Grand Opera, delicatessen, and I can't think of the other article", Abe Potash declared the other morning, "but the way some Americans act, Mawruss, you would think it was already vice versa and that the American made automobile was so to speak just in its infancy and they'd like to see one tried out first before they invested their money in such an uncertain proposition."

"How does he know?" He enquired. "He never gave an automobile a chance to wear out on him, because he buys a new one every year, Mawruss. Last year he had a car with a special closed body built in Paris for passengers four feet six inches high. Also the little seats for extra guests operated so niftily, y'understand, that the entire process was to unscrew three nuts and a bolt, and adjust a metal upright and two cross pieces, and after you hammereed the thing for two or three minutes, there was practically nothing else to do zut seat your guests and then have your thumb tied up by the nearest druggist.

"This year the new model of the foreign car that Noblestone bought is much improved on the outside. It is finished in the latest cane chair seat effect and had blue glass in one lamp and red glass in the other, but Noblestone's chauffer still has to go into second to get over a manhole cover, although they've made one or two refinements in the extra seats. There is now a nickeled rod which fastens underneath, and when adjusted according to the plans of the inventor, it's no trick at all for anybody sitting in the back seat with the average size knee to cripple himself for life.

Foreign Automobiles and Imported Sons-In-Law

"The windows close with a cloth strap as in the 1863 model Studebaker interchangeable depot hack and funeral coach". Abe continued, "and everything about the car makes a noise except the horn, which, when you consider that it can be delivered in New York f. o. b. $10,000. Mawruss, it makes it a very attractive proposition for a feller like Charles Noblestone, but at the same time don't exactly prevent the manufacturer of automobiles priced at $450, f. o. b. Detroit, from getting a full ten hours sleep three hundred and sixty-five nights out of the year."

"Welt, Abe," Morris said, "when a automobile gets too high priced, y'understand, it becomes more the nature of oil paintings, and fine furniture and European [illegible] son-in-law the purchaser don't expect to get value for his money. All he wants is credit for being able to afford such an expensive article.

"This is because the average American can tell at a glance whether a millionaire's automobile or son-in-law is imported or demistic, and as soon as he sees a new automobile or a new son-in-law which has a strange looking front, he says: "The man who bought that freak must have a lot more money than sense', which is seemingly what satisfies millionaire and makes them feel superior to the rest of the population."

"But", Morris continued, "whereas, an American can get instantaneous credit for owning an imported son-in-law or automobile, Abe, he is fooling himself if he thinks people will give him credit for wearing imported clothing.

BUSINESS DOES DIFFER

Every business has its points of difference from other enterprises. Two features of the natural gas business are in themselves not only unusual, but are the features that make supplying gas a hazardous enterprise.

First, there is the uncertainty of the demand. It varies with every degree of temperature. Even in one day the people of this community may use six times as much gas at 8 a. m. as they will use at 3 p. m., and the variation between a summer's day and a cold "norther" has been as much as fifteen times as great a demand. This necessitates the maintenance of a tremendously big supply and the facilities for forwarding it to the consumer.

Another Problem

Second, there is the variation in the supply itself. A big gas field may play out over night. Wells fail suddenly. No one can foretell what amount of gas may be obtained from any one well or pool. To care for this possibility, it is required that the producing company be able not only to supply seven or eight times as much gas tomorrow as you are using today, but also maintain a reserve that will enable it to supply this amount even when a pool fails over night.

Of course, this requires not only a huge investment, but constant vigilance on the part of the engineers. Readiness to serve instantly, always, and up to an unknown demand is the problem your company meets every year.

Gardner Co. Head Believes Business Outlook Is Good

President Thinks Eastern States Have Big Futures

After my recent swing through the eastern states, on which I visited publishers, bankers, automobile distributors and dealers in such large cities as Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Cleveland and Chicago, it is quite evident to me that the stage is all set fora fine healthy business year. Business as a whole is just about normal, and probably not up to the boom expectations of early March, but a feeling of confidence and optimism prevails wherever you go.

Feels Spring Buying.

The automobile business is feeling the stimulation of spring buying. Dealers' stocks are low, and n many centers, there is an actual shortage of new cars at the present time. The used car situation throughout the east is the best in several years. The supply of used cars in the hands of many dealers in the large cities has been exhausted, and some dealers are actually going out into the rural sections to replenish their used car stocks.

In some centers, the result of the recent German election brought about a temporary unsettled effect. More sober thought, however, quickly emphasized the fact that no harm had been done, and the feeling is now general that business will show a steady improvement during the summer and fall months; and that he has six months of the year will most likely be better than originally anticipated, making the year as a whole a most satisfactory one from the standpoint of both production and profits.

Favorable Situation.

Gardner dealers reported a very favorable situation with sales and prospects steadily increasing, confirming our early estimates of a profitable business.

There seems to be little doubt but that the closed car is continuing its rapid advance to chief favorite, and with a sprinkling here and there of sport roadsters, has just about monopolized the center of the stage.

While it is obvious that, from time to time, individual manufacturers will make price adjustments according to the demands of their own immediate situation, it is felt generally that there will be no very great change in the price situation so far as automobiles are concerned, at least not this year, as prices are very attractive and firm at present levels.

The export business has never looked better and Gardner, like a number of other leading automotive manufacturers, is preparing to develop this field on a greatly enlarged scale. The twenty odd accounts which we now have in foreign countries will form the nucleus for further expansion in this field.

Tires Are a Chief Item in Operating Expense of Autos

Aside from road and climatic conditions, many factors influence tire mileage, chief among which are proportion of car weight to tire size, distribution of car weight, spring suspension and spring flexibility.

Automobile manufacturers regard tire mileage as an important factor and are vitally concerned in the production of automotice transportation that best conserves tire life.

That definite and appreciable progress has been made is evidenced by a comparison of present day tire mileage with that of a decade back.

Ten years ago ,3500 was considered fair tire mileage. Today, less than seven or eight thousand miles from a set of tires is unsatisfactory.

Some of this increase in tire life is attributed to better roads and better tire construction. Much of it is due to the successful efforts of automobile manufacturers to reduce and properly distribute car weight, to provide correct spring suspension and to absorb through the medium of spring of the right resile many of the road schocks that pound tires to pieces.

It is not unusual for Star owners, under favorable conditions, to drive 15,000 miles on a set of tires. A considerable number of Star owners have reported driving 20,000 miles on a set of tires, though to achieve this remarkable mileage it is obvious that road conditions must be ideal and care exercised in the proper inflation of tires.

345 Star owners reported to the home office at New York driving an aggregate of 3,577,505 miles or 345 sets of tires—an average of 10,370 miles per set of tires.

143 Star owners reported driving an average of 17 months per set.

Auto Driver Same As Blindfolded If Car Lights Are Bad

Would you drive your car 20 to 30 miles an hour blindfolded?

Of course you would not and yet that is what people do in effect when they dim their headlights when passing each other inthe highway.

Everyone knows that bright lights shining in the eye blind a person and cause accidents. Not so many people know that suddenly dimming the headlights on passing another car also blinds the driver and that this procedure causes just as many highway accidents as glaring lights.

What person has not been partially blinded for a few moments when stepping from a brightly lighted room to a dark cellar stairway

The effect is the same when you suddenly dim your headlights. To be sure both drivers stop the glare but they also rob themselves of the light necessary to see. If the memory of what he saw just before dimming were not a helpful factor to the driver, the number of night accidents due to dimming would be appalling. But this does not mean that you may cause blinding glare. You should have a light on the road which is so good that you can see a dark object 200 feet ahead of your car and at the same time not blind the other driver.

Such a light, when the lights are not dimmed, will throw a direct beam down the road at least 200 feet but no part of the beam will rise above the level of the headlights and hence will not glare the other driver.

Remember that the light which blinds the other fellow does you no good either, because it never hits the road bed. Hence when your lights are glaring you are wasting light.

A few simple adjustments, just as simple as the ones you make on your radio, will give you a light which is not only legal and safe, but actually is better. Therefore, for selfish reasons, if for no other, you will benefit from a little attention to your headlights.

If you do not know how to focus and adjust your headlights, Mr. Paul of the Wichita Falls Battery Co., states that his organization has an official headlight testing screen and are in a position to do it for you.

White Roll Call Is Good Barometer To Business Conditions

How closely motor truck transportation is woven into the industrial life of the country and the tremendous strides this form of transport has made the last few years is graphically shown in a tabulation recently compiled by the White company listing the owners of 10 or more White trucks and showing the growth of these truck fleets year by year. Known the White Truck Roll Call this tabulation forms an excellent barometer of business conditions and shows unmistakably that increased truck usage and business expansion go hand in hand.

2,000,000 Trucks

Truck transportation, while comparatively new, is sufficiently old to have become a major factor in the country's transportation program. Since 1910 its growth has been exceedingly rapid and leaders in the motor truck industry predict that its greatest expansion is yet to come. There are now approximately 2,150,000 motor trucks in use and about 375,000 new trucks are being placed in service annually.

31,093 Whites in Fleets

The White Roll Call shows that at the first of the year there were 837 of the country's foremost truck owners in all lines of business, all localities—operating 31,093 White trucks in fleets of 10 or more. This is an increase of 80 owners and 2,927 trucks over last year's record. Giving an idea of the growth of truck transportation this same list of owners 15 years ago were operating only 51 trucks.

The first White Roll Call published in 1916 listed only 86 owners operating a total of 2,538 Whites in fleets of 10 or more. Back in 1910 but a single firm—W. & J. Sloane of New York—owned as many as 10 Whites. This pioneer fleet has grown to 37.

One Owner Has 1,738 Whites

On the present Roll Call there are 35 owners operating in excess of 100 trucks each. The owner of the largest individual fleet is the Gulf Refining company with 1,738 trucks, representing an investment of more than $5,000,000. The company purchased its first White truck in 1911.

A few of the other large fleet owners are the Associated Bell Telephone companies with 1,183; the Standard Oil company of New York, 842; Union Oil company of California, 759 and the city of New York, 711.

In addition to the users who operate fleets of 10 or more there are many thousands of owners operating White trucks in fleets of less than 10 and in single installations. The total value of all White trucks and White busses on the road is well in excess of $350,000,000.

Delco Light Sales Go Over Record For Past Two Months, Is Report

For the second consecutive month all sales records have been smashed by the Delco-Light sales organization, it was announced by E. G. Biechler, president and general manager of the company, Monday, when final reports on April sales were received, and a total of $3,850,000 for the month was shown.

This splendid April record, Biechler pointed out, was attained even though more than 1,000 members of the Delco-Light sales organization were out of their territories for almost a week attending the annual sales convention here in Dayton.

"April, with sales amounting to $3,850,000, was a bigger month than March and March with $3,803,000 in sales was a record month in our history," said Biechler. "Sales of all our products contributed to swell our sales volume to a new high record this month," he said, "both those which go into the farm field, the farm electric plants and water systems, and the Frigidaire equipment, household electric refrigerators and ice cream cabinets for ice cream retailers.

"The new low-priced products recently announced have contributed considerably toward pushing us up to this new high mark," Biechler added, "but the demand for other, longer established models, though higher in price, has been very gratifying and indicates an improved buying attitude and a growing prosperity which everybody welcomes everywhere."

Biechler stated that he has every reason to believe that May will again break all records and said that all possible steps are being taken to put the big Delco-Light factory in the best possible shape to turn out promptly Delco-Light products in sufficient volume to meet the fast growing demand for those products.

Magnolia Trail Is New National Highway From Great Lakes To the Gulf

Another new national highway has been opened, spanning the United States from the Great Lakes to the Gulf—the Magnolia route.

Direct, and in an almost straight line, this new great route will offer an opportunity for motor car time schedules only a little slower than the fast Dixie trains out of Chicago, and will run through some of the fairest part of the nation.

Forty Hours Needed.

Forty hours was consumed in a non-stop run by which Arthur W. Lang, a Gulfport, Miss., business man interested in "Seeing America First," officially opened the route, carrying with him, between his home town and Chicago, Col. William B. Royster, promotor of the route, and Donald de Metz, relief driver, in a Studebaker Special Six car.

The total speedometer distance is 1,056 miles, and the new route is sponsored by chambers of commerce in all cities along its way.

Indiana and Illinois already have completed with concrete their sections of the new trans-American route. Mississippi will spend $880,000 building its section this year, 425 miles of unbroken concrete.

The National Highways association and the Nationalist Motorists' association are behind the movement to have a start made this year on that section of the route lying in Tennessee and Kentucky, the other two states traversed.

The pioneer run, officially dedicating the Magnolia route, was made without incident at an elapsed-time rate of 29 miles an hour. Actual running time, omitting ferries, stops from two punctures and refueling, was at the rate of 28 miles an hour.

Made in High Gear.

Aside from traffic stops and those at fueling stations, ferries and railroad crossings, the entire trip was made by Mr. Lang's Studebaker car in high gear.

At every city of importance along the scenic route delegations from chambers of commerce, dealers in the same make of automobile and city officials were out to greet the [illegible] car, except at the last part of the journey.

It had been expected that the trip would require 48 hours. Cutting eight hours off this time brought the car into Chicago at 3:30 in the morning, instead of noon, and it already had passed through many towns before the officials there expected it. This was due to the higher rate of speed the car was able to maintain and the absence of stops for any adjustments whatever.

However, the silvers ewer of Gulf water carefully carried by the pathfinders was poured into Lake Michigan with great solemnity at noon, and thus was opened another pathway into the magnolia land of Dixie.

Peculiarly enough, the first time such a journey ever was made over land was 90 years ago, when another Studebaker product, a Sonestoga wagon, was driven over part of the same route through what then was a wilderness.

Fyrac and Gilmer Prices Now $8.50

Because of recent favorable action in windshield spotlight patent matters, the Fyrac Manufacturing company, makers of the Fyrac Night Glare, and the Clymer Manufacturing company, manufacturers of the Clymer Saftey light—the two popular windshield spotlights—have been able to reduce the price of these automobile accessories to $8.50.

Coincident with the announcement of the information that these two manufacturers have perfected an amazing method of fitting a windshield, which consists of a cartridge placed against the windshield cloth, and the mixture of cutting compound, water and everything necessary to make the hole through the glass. Each device is accompanied by one of the cartridges, which when used, is thrown away.

Nash Motors Sets New Records Again During Past Month

Nash Motors has established another new sales and production record.

April upset all previous marks, being the biggest production and sales month in the company's history, exceeding any previous month by 10 per cent. Reports from the offices of The Nash Motors company indicate that there is no let-up in the demand and with increased production at both the Kenosha and Milwaukee plants it is believed that May will wrest production and sales honors from April.

"During the month of April we shipped 82.8 per cent more cars than in April, 1924," said E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of the Nash Motors company. "The most interesting feature of this new record is that cars are going into buyers' hands and even though the Nash factories are producing more cars than ever before, still the popularity of the new line is such that dealers throughout the country are carrying large lists of unfilled retail orders."

"This is the eighth consecutive month that Nash sales and production have eclipsed the corresponding month of last year."

Graham Brothers Take First Plac

Official figures from Detroit fo the first quarter of 1925 show tha Graham Brothers rank first in th world in the production and sale o 1 1-2 ton trucks.

In the 1 ton and 1 1-2 ton truc fields combined they were surpassed i volume only by Ford. "The informa tion may be surprising," said McFal Brothers, local Dodge Brothers dealer "but not to us, nor to those who are familiar with the performance of Graham Brothers trucks and with their rapid ascendancy in the industry during the last three years.

Their advance has been without os tentation. There has been no blare of trumpets, no exaggerated claims. It has been a steady, wholesome growth, based entirely upon the truck's performance."

Less than three years ago Graham Brothers were in twentieth position. Now they are manufacturing trucks at the rate of over 100 a day, marketing their entire output through Dodge Brothers dealers. This sales and service advantage of a strong dealer organization, combined with the exceptional merit of the truck itself, is regarded as one f the chief reasons for the rapid advance to leadership. Dodge Brothers dealers everywhere are highly regarded and their service facilities are uniformly above the average. Service is an exceedingly important factor in the operation of a truck and business men are not slow to appreciate the advantage of having genuine parts instantly available when needed. Graham Brothers attribute their rapid advance to the following four reasons:

1. Distinct price and advantage.
2. Pronounced quality advantage.
3. Dodge Brothers engine.
4. Substantial character of Dodge Brothers dealer organization.

"Publication of this information regarding Graham Brothers first place in the industry," said Mr. McFall, "is prompted wholly by the belief that truck buyers are entitled to know the trend of the times. With the facts before them, few would consider buying other equipment without first determining the reasons for Graham Brothers rapid advance."

CAR UPHOLSTERY COUNTS.

Many People Pay Little Attention to Interior Lining of Auto.

"Coats are lined with real silk," reads the clothing merchants' notices of superior men's wearing apparel.

Much is made of that fact,—the inclusion of real quality materials to support the main fabric of the garment.

A suit costs only from $35 to $75. Yet there are those who will spend from $1,250 to $5,000 for an automobile and take little notice of the "lining"—the upholstery, to learn whether it will look as well a year hence.

Broadcloth and similar woven fabrics can be cleaned successfully only by taking them off the cushions. A vacuum cleaner and ordinary soap and water will clean thoroughly the rich mohair used in Studebaker cars, and the mohair costs twice to four times as much as the other.

The silk-lined coat buyer should be, also, a real mohair upholstery buyer.

NO. 9 SHOE SAVES FINES.

New Studebaker Accelerator Cannot Be Unconsciously Pushed Down By Big Shoe.

The wearer of a No. 9 shoe, driving a Studebaker Standard Six motor car, will save fines and avoid accidents, it has been discovered, because he will not unconsciously exceed speed limits.

The spherical foot accelerator and the contour of the aluminum floor board is responsible. On these cars, the driver may rest his foot flat upon the floor broad, the accelerator beneath the foot ahead of the heel.

In that position, a No. 9 shoe will operate the car at 22 miles an hour. Thus, driving abstractly, the wearer of that size shoe never will exceed speed limits.

Marmon April Sales Show Increase Of 91% Over Last Year

April sales of Marmon cars showed an increase of 91 per cent over sales in April, 1924 and continued the consisten record breaking sales climb begun when the new Marmon madels were announced last November, according to information received by O. L. Fritz of Fritz Motor Co., ocal Marmon dealer, from the Nordyke and Marmon company factory in Indianapolis. Factory shipments have increased accordingly and the present outlook points to an increase in shipments in May, over May, 1924, or not less than 250 per cent.

Sales Increasing.

Records show that sales and shipments of Marmon cars since the first of the year have increased steadily and in some instances have reached new high points. Retail sales in March were greater than in any March since 1920 and were greater by 45 per cent than the sales in February, the preceding month. The best evidence of the popularity of the new Marmon models is gained from statistics recently gathered which show that that many of the largest Marmon dealers and distributors have sold so far this year as many and in some cases more Marmon cars than were sold in their territory the entire year of 1924.

Officials of the Nordyke and Marmon company who have spent much time on the road since the first of the year visiting dealers and distributors and studying trade conditions have given exceedingly optimistic reports of the future. Col. E. S. Gorrell, vice president in charge of sales and service, recently returned from a trip through the far west and H. H. Brooks, sales manager has returned from an eastern trip. The close relations thus established between the executive branch of the factory organization and the dealer and distributor organization has enabled the factory officials to obtain first hand evidence of the acceptance of the new Marmon models by the public.

High Before Spring.

"Before the beginning of the spring selling season, Marmon had passed marks in retail sales established in former years at the height o fthe spring season," said Mr. Fritz. "The future bolds promise of new sales marks." Althought the factory is at capacity production, it has scores of unfilled orders on its books. The factory has had more driveways in the last few weeks than in any similar period in its history. Marmon owners have traveled a great distance to the factory to obtain cars and driven them to their homes, even in some instances, when the trips occupied more than a week's time.

"A number of months ago we said the sun was shining on Marmon. It is shining now on Marmon with greater intensity than ever before. The future, indeed, is promising."

In addition to the announcement of the April sales record, Nordyke and Marmon company announced that it is exhibiting on its showroom floor at the factory the Marmon "Wasp" the original one-man racing car which won the Memorial day race on the Indianapolis speedway in 1911, and the original Marmon—Marmon No. 1—which is of interest when compared with the limousines which also are on display. The display was arranged in connection with the preparations for the "open house" to race drives, Marmon owners and others which is held each year at, the time of the Memorial day race.

May Production of Chevrolets Goes Up

DETROIT, May 16.—The production schedule of Chevrolet motor cars and trucks for this month will exceed that of April, during which 52,236 units were built, an average of more than 2,000 for each of the 26 working days.

Maintenace of the May schedule will displace April as the second highest production month in Chevrolet history; the largest was October of 1923.

The 52,236 April production includes cars and trucks made in the plants at Flint, Mich., the seven assembly plants and the factory at Oshawa, Ont., for both domestic and foreign sale.

A continuation of the present schedule will result at the end of this month in an aggregate Chevrolet production of 139,050 cars and trucks since January 1.

The highest record for one day's production since the organization of the company was established on April 30, when 4,064 cars and trucks were shipped from the various Chevrolet factories.

Production is still behind the sales demand even though the plants are running at full capacity.

Closed models comprised more than one-half of the shipments made in the United States during April. Advance orders indicate that the demand for the improved Chevrolet sedans, coupes and coaches will be even heavier during coming months.

Hup Eight Is Now Best Seller, Claim Heads of Factory

The new Hupmobile Eight is today America's largest selling motor car of the eight-in-line type, according to announcement made in Detroit yesterday by O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car corporation.

Newcomer in the field of eights, it has taken Hupmobile only four months to reach first position in that class.

"Ever since its first display, when 400,000 people went to our various distributors' and dealers' showrooms to see the car within 30 hours—exceeding all previous records for interest—sales of the car have grown at a remarkably fast rate," Mr. Hutchinson said. "Output this month will be the largest yet reached. The car's unusual features have attracted to it more attention than has been accorded any new model in the last year or more, regardless of price.

"Reports from owners as to the remarkable results they are receiving from the Eight continue to pour into the factory and our dealers. Its compactness, insuring easy parkability, its genuine ease of handling, unique smoothness and flexibility of operation and its dignified appearance, have created a wide appeal. With the Hupmobile reputation behind it, durability, freedom from service difficulties and operating economy have been taken for granted.

"Sales of the Eight have already exceeded 5,000. Monthly orders are now beginning to approach 1,500, as the abilities of the car become more widely known."

Graham Brothers Cut Truck Prices

Notice was received today by McFall Bros. local Dodge Brothers dealer, of a substantial reduction in the prices of Graham Brothers trucks.

The one-ton Graham Brothers chassis, which formerly sold at $1175, f. o. b. Detroit, is reduced to $1005 and the 1½ ton chassis, which was $1375, is cut to $1280, g. o. b. Detroit. Other chassis prices are reduced proportionately.

"In view of the recent announcement that Graham Brothers in the first quarter of 1925, built more 1½ ton trucks than any other manufacturer in the world, and were second in the 1-ton and 1½ ton truck fields combined," said the dealer, "the reduction is readily explained. It has always been Graham Brothers' policy to pass along to the consumer immediately any savings effected through increased production and other factory economies. Only last September they made a sharp price cut in their 1-ton chassis. In the face of this previous reduction the present additional cut of $80 is almost unbelievable.

"Graham Brothers have advanced astonishingly in the last three years. After hearing the comments of the Graham Brothers truck owners we have sold, I can understand why. There is no limit to their enthusiasm and admiration. The truck is exceedingly attractive in the first place, and in addition is exceptionally rugged and powerful. There seems to be no road, no hauling condition, that it can not master. Moreover, the initial cost is extremely low and it serves the owner faithfully over a much longer period than one usually expects a truck to function.

"Graham Brothers also have another important advantage which had a tremendous influence on their quick ascendency to leadership. This is the fact that they market their product through Dodge Brothers dealers all over the world. They are thus provided with an organization much larger and more capable than the average truck manufacturer can hope to establish. All Dodge Brothers dealers also have highly competent and well stocked service departments—and service of vital importance to truck owners. These facts have found recognition among buyers of commercial transportation everywhere. They are responsible for Graham Brothers present large production and for the substantial cut in prices."

TO HAUL GOTHAM'S SAND

Fifty Pierce-Arrow trucks were recently purchased by the Colonial Sand and Stone company of New York city to supply the metropolis with sand and gravel. The Colonial Sand and Stone company is the largest retail sand company in the world.

Extensive experience with the long life and dependability of Pierce-Arrow trucks was the greatest contributing factor in the purchase of this large fleet, according to Mr. Gene Poke, secretary and treasurer of the company, who states that some of the Pierce-Arrow trucks in the service of the company have been engaged in this strenuous type of work for twelve and even thirteen years.

Another reason for the purchase of Pierce-Arrow trucks, according to Mr. Pake, was because New York contractors demanded fast and very reliable delivery and Pierce-Arrow trucks have proven themselves fitted to give this type of service. The enclosed worm gear found in these trucks keeps out sand and dust.

Production and sales of Pierce-Arrow trucks have been 50 per cent greater this year than during the same period in 124. At the present time the truck sales department has sufficient orders to keep the factory running at full production for the next two months.

Two-Door Sedan Is Added to Overland 4-Cylinder Autos

According to specifications submitted by the factory at Toledo this latest Overland car is a big, roomy, sturdy two-door sedan, beautifully upholstered in durable Bedford cloth and finished in a rich blue, with deep beading, its color scheme resembling that of the popular all-steel four-door sedan.

Began In March

Production of the new type commenced in March and during the month of April, 2,200 of these cars were produced and shipped immediately to the dealer organization. Early sales reports indicate instantaneous approval of the new type by the motor buying public.

A number of unique sales features possessed by the new standard sedan were largely responsible for the immediate enthusiasm which greeted the new car. The unusually wide doors permit freer access to the front seat and to the entire interior, as well as the accommodation of larger articles.

Arrangement of the windows permits greater vision. Side windows are unusually long and with only one door post on each side the view is practically unobstructed.

The top is more rigid, there being no break in the top structure, except at the front doors, making more rigid construction possible. Elimination of two doors and door posts also greatly reduce the weight of the superstructure, which naturally, is a factor in greater gasoline mileage.

Should Interest Campers

Hinged back of the front seats makes it possible to convert the seat cushions into an emergency bed by removing the front cushions, laying seat backs forward, placing rear cushions on the floor between front and rear seats, and placing front cushion on rear seat. This is a feature that is bound to appeal to campers and vacationists.

The hinged driver's seat also gives him easy access to the entire interior, a feature that is bound to appeal to salesmen, mail carriers, and others who use their car in their daily work. Although the back of the front seat is divided, the front seat cushion is in one piece.

"The new Overland standard sedan didn't just happen", is the statement from John N. Willys, president of Willys-Overland, appearing in conjunction with the announcement of the new type.

"It was designed and built by our engineering department at Toledo in collaboration with our sales department, to satisfy a definite demand on the part of the motor car buying public for an attractive, sturdy, convenient and practicable enclosed car.

"From preliminary observations of the reception of the quantity which we have already shipped to dealers, we feel that we have met that particular requirement to a nicety. The price appeal, too, is a tremendous factor as the announcement of this car at its astonishingly low price, has placed it within the reach of a vast potential market".

Tommy Milton Advises Against Fast Driving On Crowded Highways

"Always be careful, watch your signals, know your signals and instead of assuming that the other fellow will do the right thing, assume that he will do the wrong one," this is the advice of Tommy Milton, one of the foremost automobile racing pilots in the world and who has traveled faster in a motor car than any other man, an achievement which he placed to his credit, when he broke the world's mile record, traveling at the rate of 158 miles per hour.

"In driving in congested traffic," continues Tommy Milton, writing in the May issue of Your Car, the new automobile owners' magazine, which is now on the stands, I always keep my foot ready for the brake pedal and my eyes are ever watchful for the extended arm of the driven of the car ahead.

"I never could understand why road speeds of 50 or 60 miles per hour are necessary. Perhaps it is that in many cases drivers just want to see how fast they can drive, imagining that it is something of a feat. Nothing of the sort. If a car can travel 60 miles an hour, anyone can make the car do that simply by stepping on the accelerator pedal. It's the car that produces the speed. And any driver who thinks he has perfect control at 60 miles an hour on an ordinary road, had better think again. Hold down your speed and save your life and your car. Yes, your car, because speed is just as dangerous to mechanism as it is to the human body."

European Marvels Over Engine Power Of New Chrysler

The Chrysler six has caused as much comment in European motor circles as it has on this side of the water. The following is an article which appeared in "The Motor" (London, England.)

"The six cylinder Chrysler with its saloon body, made by the Fisher corporation, is the most luxurious car. I took one out for a short run the other day and was very impressed. In the first place you have a powerful six-cylinder engine, which is is claimed will maintain, with enclosed body and full load, a speed of 70 m.p.h.

No Chance to Test

There was no opportunity of testing it at this speed, but I did ascertain that a speed of 48 m.p.h. can be reached on second, and to accelerate the car from 35 m.p.h. to 55 m.p.h. was a matter of a few seconds, with only a very light depression of the accelerator pedal. So smoothly does it run and so excellent is the suspension that 50 m.p.h. feels like 30 m.p.h. for it glides along without fuss or noise. The hydraulic four-wheel brakes fitted are a suitable counterpart to a high speed potentiality. I found them smooth in action and very powerful.

"Very few people realize the harm that is done by drawing into the engine, mixed with the air, particles of road grit, which not onl yact as an abrasive, causing wear on the cylinders, but also form a quite substantial proportion of the carbon deposit in the cylinder heads. With the air cleaner, as fitted to the Chrysler, impurities are thrown out by a rapidly rotated fan in the chamber from which the air is drawn, which means, of course, very much longer life for the engine.

Cleanses The Oil

"The oil refiner is a means of cleaning the oil of the impurities and maintaining its viscosity. The oil, in the course of its circulation, passes to a small tank on the engine dashboard, and this contains a cartridge, renewable every three months or so, which seperates the deleterious matter. I am told that after running one of these cars for 10,000 miles a sample of the oil was taken from the sump, analysed and found to be free from impurities, while still retaining its viscosity. After the first 1,000 miles, when the oil in any engine should be replaced with fresh lubricant, as it may contain particles of sand released from the castings, it is only necessary to change the oil once in 5,000 miles.

"Another feature which struck me about this car was the finger-light steering. I demonstrated how it could be driven from one side of the road to the other by merely placing one finger on the rim of the steering wheel.—J. G. Junr".

Eleven Climbers To Try To Conquer the Famous "Unscalable" Mt. Logan

SEATTLE, May 15.—Mount Logan, highest peak in Canada, and second tallest on the continent, will battle with 11 noted amateur climbers this summer to protect its reputation as "the unscalable." All efforts of climbers to reach its peak, 19,850 feet up, have failed.

The party, composed of five Americans and six members of the Alpine club of Canada, is now on its way from Seattle to Alaska, to journey thence into the Yukon. Mount Logan is 20 miles from the Alaskan boundary and 70 miles from the Pacific ocean.

The expedition is armed with the latest devices for climbing and will follow a route tentatively laid out by Captain A. H. MacCarty of Summit, N. J., and H. F. Lambart of the Canadian Geodetic Survey, on an arduous reconnoitering trip made some time ago. They are the two leaders of the party.

Trains of pack horses and dogs will be used in the approach to the base of the peak, where a base will be established. Similar bases will be built at strategic points in the ascent.

Budgets, paving and the usual mass of routine matters are scheduled to come before the city council Monday night when the commissioners meet for their regular weekly session. Aside from whatever action may be taken on the budgets, nothing of any great importance is listed for attention.

Some consideration may be given the paving mixup that ensued last week when property owners on two different projects appeared before the council to ask for a paving type other than the one awarded them.

WHO'S WHO IN THE DAYS NEWS

ALEXANDER WHITE GREGG

ANDREW W. MELLON

Although Alexander W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, has passed the age of threescore and ten and must therefore be classed among the elder statesmen of the republic, he does not hesitate to call upon youth for advice and counsel when youth presents itself clothed with knowledge and ability to serve.

Secretary Mellon was largely responsible for the selection of S. Parker Gilbert of New York as the agent general in the administration of the Dawes plan. Gilbert is 31 years of age and was an assistant secretary of the treasury when chosen for the Berlin assignment. More recently Mellon turned to a young man of 25 when he was called upon to fill the vacancy in the office of the solicitor of the internal revenue bureau. This important post was given to Alexander White Gregg, a native of Palestine, Texas, but a product of the Washington high schools, which he attended while his father was a member of congress from the Lone Star state.

Secretary Mellon regards young Gregg as a wizard in the field of taxation, both in his grasp of the science and in his ability to give it practical application. Mellon formulated the principles of what is known as the "Mellon plan," proposed to the last congress; but Gregg is the man who reduced it to writing. Gregg explained the plan to the committees of congress having jurisdiction, and he told just what it would do operating as a law.

As solicitor of the internal revenue bureau Gregg will have important work to do. To him will be assigned the government's side of the case in controversy that has been precipitated over the treasury ruling requiring Senator Couzens of Michigan to pay $10,000,000 or so in back taxes covering the sale of his stock in the Ford Motor company. He is thoroughly conversant with the transaction and is understood to have written some letters bearing the signature of Mellon in the now famous epistolary battle between the secretary and Senator Couzens.

Neither gregg's age nor his politics has barred him from advancement in the treasury. He is a democrat, but Secretary Mellon did not regard this as a defet when his attention was first directed to the young man from Texas. Five years ago he entered the treasu at the age of 20. He was assigned to the internal revenue bureau, and from the very beginning became absorbed in questions affecting taxation. His work attracted the notice of his superiors, and in December, 1923, he was appointed special assistant to the secretary of the treasury to act in advisory capacity on tax matters.

Prior to that promotion he acted as chairman of the special committee on tax appeals and review. When a vacancy occurred in the office of solicitor he was at once named for it.

In November of last year Secretary Mellon sent Gregg to England to study British methods in dealing with this most difficult of government questions. It was not the first time he had been overseas, for at the age of 17 he enlisted immediately on the outbreak of the war, and served with distinction.

DALLAS — Unsatisfactory credit relations with Latin-American business houses are the fault of American exporters rather than conditions in Mexico and South and Central America, according to Richard O'Toole, chief of the Latin-American division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the United States department of commerce, who is here today.

WACO—Two weeks ago L. L. Davis of Mount Calm stuck a splinter in his right hand while engaged in tearing down a fence to permit stock to escape from an enclosure surrounding his barn. Blood poison developed, resulting in the death of Mr. Davis in a Waco sanitarium at 9 o'clock this morning.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"America's Two-Party System of Government Better Than Europe's Multi-Party Plan."

Richard Washburn Child, writer, traveler and diplomat, pointed out in a statement recently, the advantages, as he sees them, of the two-party system of government in the United States over the multi-party system of Europe.

RICHARD W. CHILD

Child was American ambassador to Italy from 1921 to 1924.

"The recent difficulties of the French and German governments to keep ministries in power long enough to accomplish any results have now been capped by inabilities to even form ministries. Under the continental system of democracy, particularly since a so-called peace which attempted to stamp the name 'democracy' on peoples who were neither enthusiastic for the brand nor practiced in the application of democracy, the failure of some parliamentary governments to govern at all, sticks out as Europe's sore thumb.

Fifty Parties in Election.

"There were more than half a hundred parties in the last German elections. If any result of any kind was made plain it was that the people of Germany wanted a liberal and republican rather than a saber-rattling government. Such was the clear expression of the majority. But the complexities of a many-party system, its jealousies, its scrambling for power, the intrigue of petty minorities, prevented the forming of a government which would express the declared will of the people.

"In our own two-party system there will always be clamorous minorities who say that our government is not responsive. Look back on the last 10 years and ask yourself what reforms which have proved worthy have not been put into effect. We get our way in America under the two-party system, and that way in the end is the will of the majority.

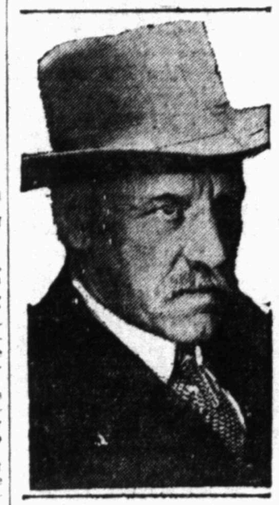

"But, in Europe, where many minorities are orgalnzed into parties, not only does the minority fail to get its way, but the majority—the tax-paying citizenry—fails also to get its way or to have consistent administration, or even to have a government which will carry on decently.

Says Majority Pays.

"Sometimes the organized minorities obtain something. Who pays for what they get? The majority pays. Then another organized minority blackmails the government and perhaps gets something. The latter is passed until there is nothing left on it and then government breaks down. The majority pays and pays all the way along.

"In all democracies of the world the organized minority is the menace of democracy. The oranized minority always presents its claim under the banner of benevolence, humanity, goodness, kindness and what not. But it is the majority-man who pays through the nose for all of it. No one has yet devised a government where it is possible to take out more than is put in."

On Pole Flight

The Zeppelin company has completed plans for an airship flight to the North Pole, with Dr. Frijhof Nansen, famous explorer, as leader of the expedition. The project is reported to have American backing.

STAMFORD — The West Texas chamber of commerce will be officially represented at the second annual convention of the National Association of State chamber of commerce officials, to be held at the Hotel Willard, Washington, D. C., May 18. Stanley H. Bullard of Bridgeport, Conn., president o fthe association, will preside. This association met last year at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Welfare Workers Anticipate Denver Social Conference

Discussions and study of public officials and administration as they apply to social welfare work is to be one of the features of the fifty-second annual convention of the national conference of social workers, to be held in Denver June 10 to 17, and toward which welfare workers of Wichita Falls are looking with unusual niterest. It is believed that the information to de disseminated in this section of the convention will be of exceptional value to all social workers.

Many Topics Studied.

The various topics to be included in this division of the convention are as follows: "The county in social work; the county as a unit for the administration of local public social service; the relation of state and county in social work administration and supervision; psychiatry and the offender; in case of the juveuile offender (1) in the community, (2) in the erformatory institutions; psychiatry in the future of the American prison system; interpretation and support of public welfare work; the budget system; publications and uniform social work; popular presentation of public social work; recent developments in the field of public social work; mental examination of criminals in Massachusetts; Ohio society for crippled children; Indiana committee on mental defectives; reports from other states; policy and personnel in public institutions and agencies; the true functions of the institutions of the state; how to secure a continuing and progressive policy in public social work and institutions; civil service and personal work in public departments."

At least four social workers from Wichita Falls will attend the convention, with a possibility of Juvenile Officer W. G. Bralley making a fifth Wichitan to be represented. Mrs. E. B. Gorsline Jr., Mrs. O. W. Davidson, Miss Katherine Henricle and Mrs. T. B. Couch have already signified their intention of making the Denver trip.

MEXICO CITY—Monsignor Serafin Antonio Cimino, papal nuncio in Mexico, has left for New York by way of Laredo owing to ill health. It is reported that he will not return to Mexico as during his stay here he suffered from nephritis and from the effect of the high altitude.

Ellis W. Presson W. Falls Winner In Lighting Essay

Final judging and awards have been given out on the "Better Home Lighting" contest, conducted this past winter throughout the United States and Canada. The National first prize winner was announced some little time ago through the newspapers but owing to the total number of 45,000 essays turned in to the national judges from all over the country, it has been impossible for all contest primers and essays to be judged until just recently.

Ellis Wilbur Presson of the Wichita Falls high school was awarded first prize for local contest in this district and was also awarded a distinguished essay medal and honorable award certificate by the Lighting Educational committee of New York as honorably mentioned out of the 45,000 submitted essays.

Other local awards made here include eight other prizes besides first prize to be given and in the following order: Marguerite Gerhardt, Louise Kay, Mary de Aguirre, Don Ruth Coffee, Ruby Curry, C. T. Hightower, Electra, Nina Lee Etheridge, John Lewis Moilliet, Seymour.

The local judging committee who assisted in this work prior to the submission of the prize winning essays to the national commiittee were W. B. Chauncey, president of the Wichita Falls school board; P. A. Rogers, general manager o fthe Wichita Falls Electric company, and Miss Verna Sellers, instructor in English in Junior college.

"World's Most Daring Dancer"

PARIS, May 29.—The title of "the most daring dancer in the world" is claimed by Mlle Sara Caryth, Parisienne, whose specialty is barbaric East Indian and African jungle dances.

If you don't believe that the greatest snakes she uses are deadly she offers the opportunity to examine them at any time.

When Mlle. Sara's "pets" get hungry they are fed on live game such as rabbits and chickens which they devour whole. So far they haven't tried to devour the mademoiselle.

"Afraid? Non, non," says she. "They know me, and I love them!"

It appears that love conquers even snakes.

Black Terror Of Dallas Identified As Woman Faints

Dallas Negro Positively Identified as The One Sought

FIND REVOLVER

Brother of Negro Also Held After Resisting Arrest By Police

DALLAS, May 16.—A negro, giving his name as Frank Noel, arrested in a negro settlement here Friday night, was positively identified Saturday morning, according to police, as the "black terror" who several weeks ago slew W. Larry Milstead and mistreated his campanion, Mrs. Mabel Berry, in the outskirts of the city.

Mrs. Berry, who is still in a critical condition as a result of the attack, became hysterical after she pointed the negro out from a group of five suspects who had been taken before her. She previously had identified Noel from a picture in the police rogues' gallery.

Noel is an ex-convict. He served a prison term for criminal assault upon a Sherman woman.

Brother Is Wounded.

A brother of Noel also was arrested. When police went to get him, he put up a fight. A gun was discharged and the brother was slightly wounded.

The police said they found on Noel the revolver with which Milstead was killed.

Noel, with several other negroes was taken to the home of Mrs. Berry this morning. She sat in a wheel chair while the handcuffed negroes were marched to her window. After looking at them a while, she pointed to the one in the middle, declaring him to be the guilty one. The police told her to be certain and she said she knew she was right.

Noel previously had been arrested on suspicion and released after being held several days. Some bloody and mud-splattered clothing was found in Noel's shack.

Milstead was shot on the night of April 25, by a lone negro as he was returning with Mrs. Berry from a dinner in a fashionable apartment. The negro ordered Milstead to step out of his car. When he complied the negro shot him through the heart and attacked Mrs. Berry. Rewards totalling $3,900 were offered for his capture.

When Mrs. Berry identified the negro, the police said, Will R. Moffett, captain of detectives, stood at her side and held her hand. A trained nurse, who has been with her since the attack, stood at the other side.

"The Bad Man Is One."

The automobile containing the four negroes and detectives was driven alongside the house in front of the window behind which Mrs. Berry sat. One of the negroes was told to get out of the car. His face was directly toward the woman. She shook her head. A second negro was then ordered out of the car. Again there was no sign of recognition.

The third negro, Noel, stepped out. As he did so, Mrs. Berry clasped her nurse's hand, saying "the third negro. The third man. He is the one. Please believe me—he is the one."

When she revived the negroes were on their way back to jail.

She then is said to have fainted.

Friday morning Captain Moffett went to the Berry home with pictures of a number of negroes taken from the rogues' gallery. The pictures had been selected from the records on the basis of descriptions of the negro who has murdered Ryan Adkins and assaulted Mrs. Guy Steer on April 12, prior to the killing of Milstead and the assault of Mrs. Berry.

Mrs. Berry began looking at the pictures slowly as she lay in bed. When she came to Noel's picture, she gave a moan and fainted. Upon being revived she positively identified the photograph of Noel as being the negro who had attacked her.

Never Forget Face.

"I will never forget that face as long as I live," Mrs. Berry told Moffet, the latter reported.

After Mrs. Berry had identified the photograph yesterday, Captain Moffett returned to the city hall and instructed Leonard Pack and Walter Hanson, detectives, to arrest Noel. Secreting themselves in the vicinity of the negro's shack, in the outskirts of the city, the officers waited. About 8 o'clock last night Noel came into the house and the officers arrested him without difficulty.

They then began a search for his brother, Lorenza Noel, believed to have been his confederate when Ryan Adkins was murdered. This morning, while driving through the Highland Park section, Pack and Hanson saw Lorenza Noel, who started to run. Hanson jumped out of the car and pursued him, cornering him between two houses. The negro grappled with the officer, seizing Hanson's pistol. Pack came to Hanson's aid and the negro was subdued, after he had been struck over the head several times, and had received a flesh wound from Hanson's gun.

The negroes are in separate cells in the city jasil and an extra guard has been placed over them.

W. H. Adkins, brother of Ryan Adkins, one of the murdered men, appeared at the jail to discuss the capture with officers. He said he had no intentions of causing trouble, and wanted to see justice done, but wanted to be certain that the right man had been arrested.

District Attorney Shelby Cox conferred with the police about the case.

Instructions were given for the arrest of the aged mother of the negroes and a search of her house. A black skull cap, such as was described by Mrs. Berry as one worn by the murderer of Milstead, was found at Noel's house, officers reported.

Frank Noel has been working at odd jobs about Dallas for the last five years. He is an expert at driving automobiles.

Abby and Husband Leave for Europe

NEW YORK, May 16.—Still maintaining the simplicity that characterized their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. David Merriwether Milton today sailed aboard the French liner Paris to spend their honeymoon in Europe.

The cabin on the Paris was on the D deck and had none of the luxuries usually attendant on most wealthy brides.

The former Miss Abby Rockefeller and her husband were accompanied to the ship by her father, John D. Rockefeller Jr., and her mother. The party avoided a crowd of interested spectators and assembled on the sun deck, where they were besieged by 50 reporters and photographers.

Rain, Hail, Winds Leave Damage In Wake Over Okla.

HOUSES DESTROYED

Crops Badly Damaged By Hard Rains And Hail

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 16.—Heavy rains, high winds and hail swept a section of Oklahoma late yesterday, destroying three houses, cutting off wire communication for a short time and causing considerable damage to crops.

Norman, 20 miles south of here, was cut off by wire communication to the east, north and west for several hours after the storm struck. Three houses were destroyed. A child caught by the falling wreckage of one of the houses was saved when he fell into a ditch.

As a result of the heavy rain, water filled basements in the residential section of the town and stood a foot deep in the streets in the business section. The town was without lights for several hours. Interurban service between Oklahoma City and Norman was halted when poles went down before the wind.

Tribbey Cut Off.

Tribbey, a small town of 300 inhabitants, was entirely cut off from the world when it was struck by a tornado early yesterday evening. A resident who made his way into Shawnee on a freight train reported a two-story brick building destroyed, two garages blown down and a number of residents wrecked. The tornado was accompanied by a rain which made roads in the vicinity impassable by automobile.

The little town was in darkness throughout the night, lanterns and flash lights furnishing the only means of illumination.

Cement was visited by a hail storm which caused heavy damage to crops in that vicinity. Muskogee and eastern points in Oklahoma reported heavy rains and high winds.

Heavy Property Damage.

Heavy property damage was sustained also at Purcell, 40 miles south of here, it became known when communication with that city was restored today. Many buildings were damaged, plate glass windows blown in and low sections of the city flooded to a depth of several feet.

One hundred head of cattle in pens along the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe right of way near the South Canadian river were drowned and service on the road was interrupted by the rush of water that came down from the hills on which the city proper is located.

All trains were running on schedule today, officials of the road said.

Paul Roberts, a barber, was injured by a plate glass window that fell on him when he was shaving a patron.

Municipal wells were flooded and the water supply contaminated. Private wells were being used today in the emergency.

At Norman students turned their dance engagements into wading parties and rushed into the streets in bathing suits. Pavements in many sections were running knee deep with a swift current.

The two-story residence of Congressman F. B. Swank was unroofed and numerous other dwellings damaged.

R. I. and Cotton Belt Plan Joint Terminal At Dallas for Texas

CHICAGO, May 16.—(AP)—The Rock Island lines and the Cotton Belt are completing plans by which Dallas will become an important joint terminal center for traffic in the south west, it was announced here today.

The plan involves development of a large tract south and east of the present union station in Dallas into a modern freight termintal covering several blocks designed to serve Dallas and its immediate territory for many years, the announcement said.

The Rock Island-Cotton Belt arrangement will become effective at midnight June 30, when the Rock Island will discontinue the joint use facilities of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe in Dallas, the announcement said.

It also was confirmed officially that the Fort Worth and Denver City railway, with approval of the interstate commerce commission, has obtained trackage rights over the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf railway between Fort Worth and Dallas with the view of using the new Rock Island-Cotton Belt terminals.

The Fort Worth and Denver City railway has taken over the rights of the Trinity and Brazos Valley railroad in the Dallas Union Terminal company.

It also was announced that Brinkley, Ark., would become one of the most important freight transfer points for the Cotton Belt and Rock Island as a result of the Rock Island assuming control of the operation of the joint facilities of the two roads there, the plans including both freight and passenger facilities.

DARROW AND MALONE OFFER SERVICES TO EVOLUTIONISTS

NEW YORK, May 16.—(AP)—Clarence Darrow of Chicago and Dudley Field Malone of New York today telegraphed Judge John Randolph of Knoxville, Tenn., proffering their services as defense counsel for Professor Scope, who is to be tried for teaching evolution in violation of the Tennessee law. The action was prompted, Mr. Malone said, by the offer of William Jennings Bryan to aid the prosecution. The telegram made public by Mr. Malone follows:

"We are certain you need no assistance in your defense of Professor Scope, who is to be prosecuted for teaching evolution, but we have read the report that Mr. William J. Bryan has volunteered to aid the prosecution.

"In view of the fact that scientists are so much interested in the pursuit of knowledge that they can not make the money that lecturers and Florida real estate agents command, in case you should need us, we are willing without fees or expense to help the defense of Professor Scope in any way you may suggest or direct."

Two Are Held For Murder Near Still

FORT WORTH, May 16.—Cecil Odneal, 28, and Edwin Burdick, 22, are being held on murder charges in connection with the shooting to death of Aubrey Moss Thursday near a moonshine still twelve miles west of Fort Worth on the White Settlement road. Odneal denies that he is guilty of the charge. Burdick in a statement to District Attorney Hanger admitted that he fired one of three shots but insisted that he shot only to frighten Moss and another man away from the still.

Girl Says She Was Beaten by Two Men

DALLAS, May 16.—Two men were sought today by Dallas police on a charge of attacking Miss Helen Boyd, 20, who reported she had been beaten and thrown from an automobile last night, near Irving, several miles from Dallas. She was picked up by passing motorists and brought to Dallas, where she reported to police that she had been thrown from the automobile while riding with two young men and another woman because she resisted advances of one of the men. She was badly bruised.

NEW YORK, May 16. — Official observation cruise over the Atlantic from Narragansett pier, R. I., to Atlantic City, N. J., which ended today, revealed only 12 rum carrying ships in that area which provided anchorage for more than 80 rum vessels at the time the coast guard blockade was inaugurated May 5.

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

Ben Hickman and Tag Larrimore grew up together in a frontier section of South Dakota. In the heart of SUPERB SILENCES, they grew up, attuned to the rigor and vigor, the mystery and terror of ENORMOUS SOLITUDE.

There was something a little poetic about Tag. He could lie under the stars, PINIONED THERE by the Poignant beauty of them. But Tag went out into the world and MADE HIS MARK.

And when he returned to the solitude, what did he find? The peace, the beauty, the poetry that he vaguely remembered?

They were all there. Nothing was changed in Sheewater—EXCEPT TAG.

BEN HICKMAN was born in Sheewater, South Dakota, two months after his parents had trekked there in a cross-country brigade which took exactly twenty-two months. Tag Larrimore was born in a covered wagon six weeks before his family arrived and settled in Sheewater. Marian Larrimore named her son "Tag" because, as she put it, he insisted upon tagging on to the migratory party of these fearless pioneer folk in their dash for settlement.

Ben and Tag grew up together in the intimate literal sense of the word. Youngsters in a community that in its beginnings numbered teens, their intimacies were the intimacies of members of the same family.

Sheewater—even in the heyday of its today, when it numbers a populace of six hundred and boasts a concrete schoolhouse that looks like an imitation, and a pretty good one, of a Carnegie Library—huddles in the center of a vastness that is entirely surrounded by a solitude that encircles it with the rolling motion of a sea.

In the heart of these superb silences, with ocean of sky above and ocean of prairie beneath, these boys grew up, attuned to the rigor and the vigor, the mystery and even the terror of enormous solitude.

In South Dakota, even now, the struggle for existence is a grim enough one. The elements out there are uninterrupted. Hills recede to make way for them. Not even trees intrude to break the sweep of prairie, or snow.

For the first fifteen years of their rugged, unpampered, often endangered little lives, Ben Hickman and Tag Larrimore fought their way into adolescence. There was something, strangely enough, considering the uninterrupted rigidity of his environment, that was a little poetic about Tag. At eight years of age he was already a herdsman, wandering out with his father's modest holdings of cattle into the stern aridity of limitless plains. There was never a time when with his little unconscious heart, Tag did not feel and interpret and thrill to some of the significances of the silences that came through to him. The beauty of sky running into horizon. The listening, motionless prairie running into that same horizon. The slight noises of sage-brush rattling in the wind. The great solemn, awful booming of gale over uninterrupted miles upon miles. The swirling shrouds of snow that could smother them into winters six months long.

It was to these mysteries and these splendors that Tag Larrimore grew into adolescence. It was to these same mysteries and splendors that Ben Hickman grew into his, except that Ben was less finely attuned to them and, where Tag could lie under the stars, pinioned there by the poignant beauty of them, Ben could lie under those same stars and snore with his turned-up little nose pointed away from them. And yet, in the long trudgings home through the dawns and the dusks of those first fifteen years, there grew and blossomed between these boys the intimacy of perfect friendship.

There was a girl, too. Eulalie. She was the daughter of a prospector who had paused in Sheewater long enough to hope to earn enough to carry him on and beyond into some oil-mirage-land upon which his nervous and not always clear eyes were fastened.

It was upon Eulalie that these two boys were to look with the first eyes of desire they had ever turned upon any woman. But before this realization was quite to dawn upon either of them in its fullness, Tag Larrimore, by a fluke of circumstance, caught at an opportunity to join with an uncle of his passing through Sheewater on his way from Seattle to Denver.

That was how Tag Larrimore got his start as an apprentice in the uncle's canning factory in Denver. Five years later, Tag Larrimore brought his family on East—Pittsburgh, by this time, where Larrimore had drifted into the manufacture of tin cans. Five years later, after the death of his parents in the luxurious home he had built for them on the outskirts of Pittsburgh, Tag Larrimore married the daughter of a Bethlehem tin-plate magnate.

When Tag was forty-five he paid a five-figure income tax; had a son at Yale; another studying art in Paris, two daughters and a wife spending the greater part of their time in the sophisticated cities of Europe.

Tag Larrimore was an American millionaire in the better sense of the word. He loved culture. He had missed it imself and he lavished it upon his children. He patronized art, because he loved art. He endowed universities in the name of what he himself had missed. He lavished beauty upon his wife, because he remembered his mother in the years when she lived in a shanty the color of cold dishwater and whose hands could bleed from chapping at her day-long doing of ugly things.

If at forty-five Tag Larrimore was older and more nervous and grayer than he should have been it was because of his conscious pull, up and away from the oppressions that he had seen weight down that grim community out in South Dakota, where the struggle for existence was against the elements themselves and where only the sky and the prairie that ran out to meet it seemed to matter.

At forty-five, with his family scattered over the face of the globe, and a sudden fatigue, over which he had no control, seeming to settle upon him, Tag Larrimore turned his face one day, on the impulse of the moment, towards Sheewater, which he had not beheld since the day he left it thirty years before.

It was a natural enough instinct. The homing instinct.

Sheewater had changed chiefly in the few additional hundred of its increased population. There it huddled in the vastness, almost precisely as Larrimore remembered having left it, except that to him it now seemed so incredibly small and meaner, and leaner than he had visualized it in his often homesick memories of it. The prairies had not changed, of course. There they ran rippling out to the edge where the sky clamped down like a lid, and there was the click of the sage brush in the wind and the mystery of the gale bearing down over the uninterrupted places.

Nothing was really changed. Except Tag. He wanted to feel with the sweep and the emotion and the beauty of those days when he had lain pinioned to the very pastures by the closeness and the stabbing beauty of the stars.

Ben Hickman was there, almost, it seemed to Tag, the same adolescent Ben he remembered, except that his weather-colored hair was tougher now and gray, and Ben had gone on with the years a little rheumatically, so that his knees had a give; his back a crook.

Ben had married Eulalie. There were four children. Three burly herdsman sons, and another Eulalie, who had married the Sheewater liveryman, and lived, with four babies, adjoining her parents' home.

To Tag it was all like a dream. These grim folks still huddled back there in the simplicity and the silence and the beauty, to which, somehow, he could not find his way back. He spent a day among them, coming and going like some fairy godfather with his bestowals and the largesse of his gifts. For months thereafter his visitation was the subject of Sheewater gossip. Tag had become a community legend.

But the visit hadn't helped Tag. There were still the fatigue and the nervousness and the unrest, and so on he goes from the Riviera to the Bahamas, from Palm Beach to the Pyreenes, harassed by the loss of some intangible beauty he cannot recapture.

Out in Sheewater, Ben Hickman still tends his herds. The nights close him into the majesty of solitude. He knows the secret of the prairie and the companionship of the gale. Ben Hickman is neither nervous nor fatigued. The beauty and the mystery and the peace of sky and prairie are his.
