Frick, first manager of the Pampa plant and now plant manager at Bishop, Tex., and John J. Fritsch, former plant manager here until early this year, and now manager at Clear Lake, Texas. The only other plant manager in Pampa during the 20 years was Herschel V. Wilks, retired at the time of his death in 1970.

AT KICK-OFF BREAKFAST

Last Two Decades In Pampa Good To Celanese, Says Company Head

By TEX DEWESE

The last 20 years in Pampa have been good to Celanese and the company is looking forward to another 20 years that will be beneficial to it and to the community.

That was the concluding message given to Pampa this morning by R.L. (Bob) Mitchell of New York City, president of Celanese Chemical Co., at the breakfast in Coronado Inn to kick off a full day of activities marking observance of the company's 20th anniversary here.

Mitchell outlined major problems facing the chemical industry and pointed to two involving the local plant for which the company is seeking solutions.

In general, Mitchell said, the so-called energy crisis rates high in relation to the chemical industry.

"I think that right now it is only a problem," Mitchell said, "but it will be a crisis unless action is taken to change the direction in which the country is headed."

He stated there are more than 60 governmental agencies involved with the energy problem and that it is impossible for that many agencies to come up with a proper solution.

Mitchell said 15 per cent of the oil used in the U.S. is being imported from the Middle East and predicted by 1985, if the present course is continued, the import figure will rise to 65 per cent.

Locally, he said, chief concern is with the problems of water supply and freight costs.

"The water supply for the Pampa plant is projected to last 10 to 15 years," he said. "We are coming up with plans to recycle and conserve."

Freight costs have increased tremendously, he added.

Mitchell urged individual action by contacting congressmen to help solve the energy crisis and finding new sources of natural gas and oil.

"The oil imports from the mid-East represent about a $30-billion imbalance," he said. "We cannot have our military stability depending on the Middle East."

Mitchell spoke again at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon honoring the Celanese Chemical Co. in Pammel Hall at the plant west of the city.

He will also be the main speaker at a 6:30 p.m. banquet today in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium. Tonight's affair will be attended by Celanese employees and their families.

Homer C. Wilson, director of operations, New York, spoke briefly at this morning's breakfast and told of plant site negotiations here 21 years ago when Pampa won over Dumas as the chosen location.

"Gene Green managed to keep us in town that day until a snow storm hit and we couldn't even find Dumas," Wilson said.

C.E. (Gene) Steel, current manager of the Pampa Celanese plant, presided at this morning's kickoff breakfast and introduced each of the 50 invited guests who included city and county officials, officers and directors of the Pampa Industrial Foundation and Chamber of Commerce, businessmen and Celanese officials.

Another New Yorker was added today to the list of visitors for the anniversary observance. He is Arthur R. Kavalier, one of six reporters from the chemical trade press who was in Pampa for the public open house ceremonies at the Pampa plant early in 1953.

Other Celanese officials, in addition to President Mitchell and Wilson in town for today's anniversary celebrations included:

J.H. Frick, plant manager; Bishop; J.J. Fritsch, plant manager, Clear Lake; H.B. Bartley, vice president, marketing, New York; Dr. R.A. Daniel, vice president, technical and planning, New York.

Ed Cunningham, manager, public information, New York; B.L. Pritchard, manager of manufacturing services, Houston; P.E. Hime, director of administration, Corpus Christi Technical Center; W.T. McNair, manager of manufacturing development, Corpus Christi Technical Center, and M.E. Webb, product director for acetyl, New York.

chairman and would proceed in that direction if such a contest cannot be avoided," she said. "However, my preference would be not to divide the party."

"This would require turning away from those individuals who have become symbols of the divisions within our party—specifically, myself and Robert Strauss, a man who was a great treasurer of our party—and turning toward new leadership not scarred in the national intraparty battles of the last few years," she said.

"Ain't nobody going to take me out," Strauss responded. "I think Jean Westwood would do better to make a decision on what she is going to do and not try to pick her successor."

Allende Attacks ITT For Its Role In Chile

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Chile's Marxist President Salvador Allende today accused the International Telephone and Telegraph Co. of "attempting to bring about civil war in my country."

"That is what we call imperialist action," Allende said in a speech to the U.N. General Assembly.

He declared that both ITT and the Kennecott Copper Corp. "have driven their tentacles deep into my country and propose to manage our political life." The companies have been fighting nationalization of their properties.

Allende said it was "painful for me to have to come here to this assembly to denounce the fact that my country is the victim of serious aggression."

Allende, Latin America's first democratically elected Marxist president, was the only speaker at the meeting of the 132-nation assembly. He was elected in 1970.

Allende, a Marxist who was elected in 1970, was the only speaker at a morning meeting of the 132-nation assembly. He said his theme would be "economic aggression."

Allende's main targets in his struggle with foreign interests have been the Kennecott, Cerro and Anaconda copper companies and the International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

His biggest fight is with Kennecott, whose El Teniente mine was nationalized last year. In a bid for compensation, the company has suits pending in Europe to prevent buyers in Western Europe from taking delivery on copper exported by the Chilean state corporation that operates the mine.

In retaliation for this, the Organization of Copper Exporting Countries — which includes Chile, Peru, Zaire and Zambia — agreed Friday night to suspend business with Kennecott until the company stopped what were called acts of aggression against Chile.

Chile also has complained that ITT tried to get the U.S. government to take economic measures against Chile to bring down Allende's government.

Allende arrived in New York Sunday after a three-day visit to Mexico. While there, he and President Luis Echeverria urged Latin American countries to put aside ideological differences and adopt unified policies to protect their common interests in international bodies.

Their communique, issued in Guadalajara, accused some international consortiums of trying "to violate the efforts of nonintervention in the internal affairs of developing countries."

Plane Crash In N.M. Kills 5 And Hurts 6

TUCUMCARI, N.M. (AP) — Five persons were killed and six injured when a twin-engine airplane crashed and burned Sunday night at the Tucumcari airport.

All those aboard were associated with Investment Dynamics, Inc., of Minneapolis, Minn., a company spokesman said.

The manager of a Tucumcari motel owned by the company, Bettie Ditto, identified three of the dead as Cal Olson, Ken Harvey and Karen Drees. She said the other two dead were the pilots and she did not have their names.

She identified the injured, taken to Trigg Memorial Hospital, as Mrs. Don Warner, Thomas Anderson, Gene Bingham, Amerson Heaton, Bob Gieselbeck, and Bill Loder.

The plane crashed and burned while approaching the Tucumcari airport shortly after 10 p.m., the Federal Aviation Administration said. The aircraft fuselage broke in two.

J.H. Foster of Foster Ambulance Service said bodies of the five dead still were in the plane this morning. He said the heat of the fire was so intense they couldn't be removed.

Foster said the local five department poured water on the burning wreckage but quit when they determined they could not extinguish the blaze. The wreckage still was burning several hours after the crash.

Foster said the aircraft was approaching from the east and appeared to have missed the runway.

Deputy Sheriff Charlie Moya said he rode in the ambulance with some of the injured. He said most of them received broken bones, cuts and bruises.

Moya said all were conscious. He quoted one of the survivors, who he could not identify, as saying, "We were coming in. I don't know what happened."

Moya said it appeared to him the plane was landing from the southeast, came in on the west side of the runway and missed it "by 250 feet or more from what I was able to see."

He said it was "a little overcast, a little cloudy, but it was not raining" at the time of the crash.

The FAA said it had been in radio contact with the plane, which was on an instrument flight, when it was 40 miles out from Tucumcari and again when it was 10 miles from the airport. There was no hint of trouble, an FAA spokesman said.

Mrs. Ditto said Loder was in charge of acquisitions for the company, which purchased the Tucumcari Pow Wow motel last July. She said those in the plane were on an inspection tour of company holdings. She identified Gieselbeck as a member of the company's board of directors.

Apollo Preparations Moving Toward Wednesday Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A strike threat out of the way, preparations for the last Apollo flight to the moon proceeded on a clockwork schedule today, encountering only the usual number of minor problems.

A proposed walkout by 60 aerospace workers had threatened to delay Wednesday's lift-off, but shortly before the Sunday midnight strike deadline, union attorney Bernard Marnet announced: "I'm very happy to report that there will be no strike."

Astronauts Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Harrison R. Schmitt, sleeping later, each day to adjust for an afternoon wake-up for the 9:53 p.m. EST launch, were to run through procedures for an emergency abort on the launch pad today.

Later in the day, Cernan and Schmitt were to rehearse in a mock lunar lander, while Evans worked in a command module simulator and on orbital geology.

Cernan and Schmitt will land the craft named Challenger on the moon next Monday. Evans will remain aboard the command craft, America, conducting experiments from 60 miles overhead during the three days his comrades are on the moon.

"Boeing apparently opted out that discretion was the better part of valor, and they took our final proposal," said Marnet, attorney for the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees (IATSE), which represented the 60 nonunion workers.

under a Boeing Co. support-services contract. Their work is not essential to launch activities, but there was the danger of more critical personnel honoring their picket lines.

But, in Houston, Tex., 80 employees of a contractor at the Manned Spacecraft Center voted to strike Sunday night and form picket lines which could idle another 400 space workers.

The contract talks at Cape Kennedy did not hold up flight preparations. They occurred mostly during a scheduled 30-hour hold in the computerized checkout of thousands of systems on the 36-story Saturn 5 rocket, the command ship that tops it and the lunar lander that nestles inside.

Cold Wave Hits Pampa; Mercury Dips To Teens

After a couple of days of nearly spring-like weather, a mass of cold arctic air moved into the state early Sunday, dropping temperatures down into the teens before the day ended.

The high Sunday reached 26 degrees before the overnight low dipped to 13 degrees above zero, the coldest so far this season.

High today was expected to be in the upper 20s, with the overnight low again plummeting into the low teens. High tomorrow is forecast around 30.

A 20 per cent chance exists for precipitation tonight in the form of light snow flurries or light freezing drizzle, with a 60 per cent possibility for snow Tuesday.

The cold air mass continued to push southward today, with showers and thundershowers scattered across East and Southeast Texas along and ahead of the front, the Associated Press reported.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from the low teens in the Panhandle to the 70s at many points in South Texas.

Dense fog along the Upper Texas Coast contributed to the collision of two ships off Galveston Sunday. The Coast Guard said the American Oil Co. tanker Amoco Louisiana, empty and inbound to Texas City for loading, collided with the Norwegian freighter Fossanger.

The two junior high school bands and the high school band will provide music for the parade as they march along the route with the other parade units.

The Christmas Nativity scenes in Central Park are slated to be lighted on the evening of Tuesday, Dec. 19. The display consists of eight scenes and has become a traditional part of Pampa's Christmas season.

Gen. Oswaldo Lopez Arellano, the commander, also overthrew the government in 1963 and served as president until Cruz was elected last year.

UNLESS WEATHER MAKES IT IMPOSSIBLE

Santa Parade Will Be Held As Scheduled

With cold air and a chance of light snow forecast for tomorrow, plans were still on for the city's annual Santa Day Parade, which was postponed from last Thursday.

The Leaving the Center, the parade will move south on Hobart to Ward St., south on Ward to Francis, east on Francis to Cuyler and south on Cuyler to Craven, where the parade will disband.

Santa will ride in the parade on top of the City's new fire truck, with many of his helpers joining him in the parade.

Prior to the parade, Santa will visit with children at Coronado Center in Santa's House there. After the parade, he will meet with children at the downtown Santa's House.

To allow students to attend the parade or to be in the parade, Pampa public schools will be dismissed at 2 p.m. tomorrow, school officials said.

Various groups, organizations and individuals will have entries in the parade. Cash prizes of $100, $50 and $25 will be awarded to the top winners in the Non-Commercial Division. The three winners in the Commercial Division will receive plaques.

Winners of the Pet Section and Bike Section (bicycles, unicycles, motor bikes, etc.) will receive cash prizes of $15, $10 and $5.

Out-of-town judges will judge the parade entries and select the winners in each category. Prizes will be awarded at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the Chamber of Commerce office in the Hughes Building.

In preparation for the Santa Day parade, city-hired workers have been placing up the traditional street decorations on sections of Hobart and downtown streets.

The two junior high school bands and the high school band will provide music for the parade as they march along the route with the other parade units.

The Christmas Nativity scenes in Central Park are slated to be lighted on the evening of Tuesday, Dec. 19. The display consists of eight scenes and has become a traditional part of Pampa's Christmas season.

National Council Of Churches Works On Reorganization Plan

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — America's biggest ecumenical enterprise, regarded in some quarters recently as a sinking "Titanic," today began working out repairs designed to make her more seaworthy in a stormy era.

The good ship, NCC, is still very much afloat and in many ways streamlined and refitted to set out on a new voyage, said Dr. Cynthia Wedel, president of the National Council of Churches. She saw rough, but hopeful weather ahead.

At the Council's ninth—and probably last—triennial general assembly here, delegates took up a sweeping reorganization blueprint, aimed at stimulating wider participation, more efficiency and greater responsiveness to grass roots viewpoints.

Dr. Edwin Espy, the Council's general secretary, said the objective is "a new style and a new organization" that will be "more obedient to the will of God and more responsive to the needs as the people themselves feel them."

This has been a chronic problem of the Council, a cooperative body of most major Protestant and Orthodox denominations, whose stands on controversial social issues often have been derided by rank-and-file members as not representing them.

The proposed overhaul plan, abolishing the assembly and tightening up lines of control by church representatives on a new governing board, also would initiate closer liaison with regional and local groups.

As the five-day meeting went into its first day of deliberations, Dr. Wedel told the approximately 2,000 church representatives that interdenominational cooperation was gaining strength, despite new difficulties.

Missionary From Kenya Speaks At Local Church

Marian Settles, missionary from Kenya, Africa, spoke at the Bible Church of Pampa, 307 W. Foster, last night on her activities in the mission field.

She also showed slides of her work among the Maasai people in Kenya, where she teaches scripture in the public schools.

Working in Africa for 28 years, she spent 20 years in the Belgian Congo until the rebellion in 1964, when she went to Kenya. She has had five years of furlough in the states.

Serving with the Africa Inland Mission, a non-denominational organization, she also supervises the teaching of scripture in the district schools. She works with four other people in the area.

Originally from Texhoma, she lives in Amarillo when on furlough from the mission. She is planning to return to Kenya after the New Year.

City Police Receive Complaints On Fires

Local police say they have had more than one complaint regarding junior high school students building fires and having fights in a vacant garage building at Cuyler and Browning Sts.

Owner of a resident next to this vacant structure is particularly concerned lest his property be damaged or destroyed by the fires that almost grow out of control in the building.

Russian Ship To Load Wheat In Texas Port

HOUSTON (AP) — A Russian merchant ship, the first Soviet vessel to dock here since World War II, is due to load grain Tuesday as part of the $75 million U.S.-U.S.S.R. grain deal.

The M.V. Kasimov will load about 1,500 tons of wheat at the Cargill Inc. elevator and depart Wednesday. A second Russian ship, the M.V. Meglurg Baykov, is due here about 24 hours after the first Soviet ship.

The Kasimov was delayed in the Galveston Roads at the entrance to the Houston Ship Channel Sunday as dense fog stopped traffic at the port, the U.S. Coast Guard said.

Foreign vessels have been moving American wheat to Russia from the Port of Houston since August and Saturday an American-flag ship, the National Defender, sailed with grain.

The arrival of the Russian ship is due to a recent settlement of U.S. and Russian participation in hauling grain to the Soviet Union under the wheat deal, Frank J. Hemmen, manager of the grain elevator said.

Under the agreement, the traffic will be split three ways between Russian, U.S. and ships of other countries.

"We're told this is the first Russian flag vessel to call on a U.S. port since the lend-lease days of the war," Hemmen said.

Russian and U.S. governmental officials will hold a ceremony Wednesday when the Kasimov becomes the first Soviet ship to depart with the Russian-bound wheat, Hemmen said.

Police Check Vandalism Reports

Vandalism and malicious mischief characterized the weekend in Pampa according to the police blotter.

BIBs were fired through the office window of Gibson's service station Saturday night and police are adding the incident to their growing investigation of air rifle vandalism.

Someone painted a "happy face" in yellow paint on the hood of a brown-colored company car in the 2000 Blk. of Christine while a white vehicle a few blocks away in the 1900 Blk. of N. Wells fared less well suffering a streak of the same yellow paint down the side.

Pampa Man Held For Drunkeness And Defrauding

A Pampa man was jailed Saturday night for drunkenness and defrauding an innkeeper, according to the police report.

He entered a local restaurant, ordered food and left without paying for it. The owner of the eating place reported the incident to police who arrested the man a few minutes later.

The cafe owner said he would settle for payment for the food when the man sobered up, otherwise he would file charges, according to police.

Woman Treated For 'Overdose' Of Cold Remedy

A 27-year old Gray County woman was hospitalized Sunday night following an attempted suicide according to the police report.

She was given emergency treatment at Highland General Hospital, then admitted for overnight treatment after she had a drunk 10-ounce bottle of a common cold remedy.

Her father told police she had been despondent over domestic affairs and that this was the fourth time she had made such an attempt.

At last report she had responded to treatment.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Monday, Dec. 4, the 339th day of 1972. There are 27 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1851, a workers' rebellion in Paris was suppressed by Louis Napoleon. The event is known in French history as "The December Four Massacre."

On this date: In 1783, George Washington had a farewell meeting with his officers at Faunce's Tavern in New York City.

In 1789, France declared war on Naples.
In 1816, the U.S. Electoral College elected James Monroe the fifth President of the United States.

In 1876, the New York Tammany leader, Boss Tweed, escaped from prison. He later was recaptured in Spain.

In 1942, American bombers struck the Italian mainland for the first time in World War II.

In 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Turkey's President Ismet Inonu held a wartime meeting in Cairo.

Ten years ago: Hundreds of Moslem and European opponents of the Ben Bella government in Algeria were arrested. Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson named Lt. Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr. as the new Marine commandant.

One year ago: Indian troops, tanks and planes launched attacks in East Pakistan and Indian planes hit key airfields in West Pakistan.

Today's birthdays: Spanish Chief of State Francisco Franco is 80. Biologist Alfred D. Hershey is 54.

Thought for today: As our government deteriorates, our humor increases—Will Rogers, American humorist, 1879-1935.

Ideal Weather

The temperature on the Dutch island of Aruba, off the South American coast, varies less than four degrees year-round. The average yearly temperature is 82 degrees.

Monumental Achievement

When sea gulls devoured a horde of large black crickets that threatened to wipe out the Mormons' first grain crop in Utah in 1848, the sect was so grateful that it passed laws protecting the bird and erected a monument to it.

Dear Abby

Men who treat wives as reservation clerks

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband woke me out of a sound sleep to read me a letter in your column. It was from a wife complaining because her husband left all the planning and legwork to her if they were to have a night out. SHE had to get the dinner reservations and theater tickets, see that his clothes were in shape, get gasoline for the car, phone the sitter, etc. And you, Dear Abby, had the nerve to say, "Are you feeling well, dear? Maybe you need a check-up."

My husband read your answer to me, and said, "See?" Then he nearly fell out of bed laughing.

Abby, maybe you don't know what it's like to be married to a man who has to be told to do everything. I do!

I have to tell him the screen door is broken, yet HE walks thru it, too. I have to tell him to fix the dripping faucet. (It's the one HE uses every morning.) I have to remind him every winter to put antifreeze in the car. I know how that poor wife felt when she said that if she has to make all the arrangements, she'd rather stay home.

So, Abby, even if you don't sympathize with that woman, please print this. I want to wake my husband up and read it to him. Then it will be my turn to fall out of bed laughing.

DENNY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: All right. Fair is fair. Now it's your turn.

DEAR ABBY: A wife complains because her husband asks her to order the theater tickets to whatever she wants to see, make the dinner reservations for wherever she wants to dine, press his favorite shirt, pick up his suit, fill the gas tank, and line up a sitter. She says, "By the time I have all that done, plus feeding the kids, the evening out is no longer special, and when I tell him I don't feel like going, he gets mad."

And YOU ask her what's bothering her, and suggest that maybe she needs a checkup!

Abby, you missed the point. I know exactly how that woman feels because I've been married to such a selfish, thoughtless husband for 20 years. If a man really wants to give his wife a special treat, why can't he get the tickets, make the dinner reservations and let her feel like he is taking her out on a date, like during their courtship days? Why should a wife have to make all the arrangements? She might as well take herself out. She needs someone to pamper her a little. And he needs a good kick in the derriere. Eighteen years with that jerk would bother any wife. Who wouldn't need a checkup?

IN HER SHOES

DEAR ABBY: The woman who whines because her husband asks her to get theater tickets and restaurant reservations is just too much.

Consider a husband:

- Who never gets home until after 8:30 p. m.
- Whose ultimate in recreation is television.
- Whose credit buying keeps the family so heavily in debt there is nothing left for theaters or restaurants.
- Who urges his wife to go wherever she wants alone.

Now, consider the wife:

- Who comes home from work to no husband but to two preschool children.
- Who would love to go to the theater and dine out, but is never asked.
- Whose husband complains when she does go out alone.

• Who loathes the daily ration of hamburger, and is ready to chuck her 15-year marriage with all its boredom.

I'd sure like to meet that whiner. If I didn't punch her in the nose first, we might negotiate a six-month husband trade. Maybe she'd shape up if she had a dullard who falls asleep in front of the TV every night.

P. S. My husband's physician said, "There's absolutely nothing physically wrong with your husband,"—then he propositioned me. Like a chump, I passed it up.

MOST DEFINITELY ANONYMOUS

DEAR ABBY: You let me down when you refused to sympathize with that woman who didn't feel like going out with her husband because he left all the arrangements up to her.

Men never treat their girl friends that way. Why should they treat their wives like employees?

MAD IN PORTLAND

DEAR MAD: Some women would gladly settle for the treatment their husbands give their employees.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, DEC. 5

Your birthday today: Begins a return to fundamentals. Material matters become clearly defined as the year progresses so you can call the shot on most ventures. Today's natives have many latent talents, may not choose to develop more than a single line of enterprise.

Aries [March 21-May 20]: Once you get a deal past the stubborn beginning moment, it goes so quickly that you must watch details sharply.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Everybody is willing to talk, few if any are free to give or lend. Rely mainly on what you have achieved already without their help.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Select the few from the crowd that are in sympathy with what you are doing. Explore to see just what you can expect of them.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Serious thought and definite action succeed in closing out a chronic annoyance. It is an excellent time for medical advice.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Anything you do now will draw attention, with a better chance that it is favorable than otherwise. So get busy!

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Somehow you spend an excessive amount of time with other people, doing things you are not very fond of doing.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Expecting very little immediate response, you have a good opening for re-educating the people you deal with most often.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Diligence yields preference, advantages not visible to others. Decisions on money are crucial—it's a good day to make them.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: All things being normal, you should have a sound experience of personal success, productivity.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Temptation to get into some additional venture is likely. Allow yourself a little more time in order to acquire better information.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Everybody seems to need your help. Select those who put in definite requests, let those wait who do not ask.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: A surge of energy carries you well through a day of dealing with the world, but plan for a low-key evening with not much going on.

Washington Redskins Lock Up NFC's Eastern Division Crown

By Associated Press
"We've fulfilled our immediate goal... but now we've got to go on from there," Washington Coach George Allen said.
The immediate goal was a championship, something the Redskins hadn't achieved in 27 years. They achieved it Sunday, locking up the East Division crown of the National Conference by beating surprisingly scrappy Philadelphia 23-7. It was the same Eagles club which, only a week ago, had rolled over, played dead and been stamped 62-10.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, who have never won a title of any kind in their 40 years in the National Football League, took a giant step toward the American Conference's Central Division title by thrashing Cleveland 30-0 to take a one-game lead over the Browns with two to go.

The Green Bay Packers, expected by most pre-season observers to be mere bystanders in a National Conference Central struggle between Detroit and Minnesota, regained a one-game lead in the division by clubbing the Lions 33-7, dumping them back into a second-place tie with the Vikings.

Oakland also clinched a division title, its fifth in six seasons, edging San Diego 19-17 to take a 2½-game lead in the American Conference West with two games remaining.

In Sunday's other NFL games, unbeaten Miami made it 12 in a row by defeating New England 37-21. Minnesota beat Chicago 23-10. Cincinnati nipped the New York Giants 13-10. Atlanta trimmed Houston 20-10. Dallas shelled St. Louis 27-6. Kansas City nosed out Denver 24-21. Baltimore bombed Buffalo 35-7 and the New York Jets squeezed past New Orleans 18-17. The San Francisco 49ers host the Los Angeles Rams in tonight's game.

Also on Sunday, the Hamilton Tiger-Cats beat the Saskatchewan Roughriders 13-10 for the Grey Cup in the pro football championship of Canada.

The aroused Eagles held NFL rushing leader Larry Brown to just 70 yards, forcing quarterback Billy Kilmer to rely on Charley Harraway for the key ground gains. Harraway finished with 77 yards, one of them on Washington's first-half touchdown. But the 'Skins locked it up in the second half as Curt Knight, who had a first-half field goal, booted two more and Kilmer tossed two yards to Charley Taylor.

Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh was in a constant uproar as the oft-frustrated Steelers avenged a 26-24 loss to the Browns they suffered two weeks ago.

The Steelers' star once again was rookie Franco Harris, who rushed for 102 yards and a pair of touchdowns. It tied Jim Brown's record of six straight 100-yard-plus games and put him within 40 yards of becoming the fifth pro rookie to reach 1,000.

After Chester Marcol got the Packers moving with three of his four field goals, Ken Ellis shifted them into high gear with two interceptions which set up a pair of John Brockington touchdown runs and sent Detroit reeling.

Charlie Smith's nine-yard touchdown sweep with about a minute to play provided Oakland's margin of victory over the Chargers. Daryle Lamonica passed 16 yards to Ray Chester and 36 to Fred Ritenikoff for the Raiders' other touchdowns, but they didn't really lock the game up until Dennis Partee, who earlier had missed a 33-yard field goal, failed on a 51-yard attempt on the final play.

Earl Morrall passed for touchdowns of three yards to Jim Mandich and 14 to Marlin Briscoe. Garo Yepremian booted three field goals and Larry Csonka, grinding out 91 yards, exceeded the 1,000-yard mark for the second straight season as the Dolphins, by beating the Patriots, moved within two victories of a perfect year, a feat last performed by the 1942 Chicago Bears in an 11-game season.

Bobby Bryant blunted one Chicago threat with an interception in the end zone, then ran back a fumble 24 yards for a touchdown to lead the Vikings to victory.

Reserve linebacker Doug Adams intercepted two passes to slow down the Giants and Ken Anderson flipped a three-yard scoring pass to Bruce Coslet late in the third quarter to key the Bengals' victory. It gave them a 13-3, enough to withstand Randy Johnson's eight-yard touchdown pass in the final period.

The Falcons, remaining in the thick of the NFC West race with the 49ers and Rams, got a pair of touchdown runs from Dave Hampton to send the Oilers skidding in their 11th loss in 12 games, a feat which, if the trend continues, will give Houston the No. 1 pick in next year's collegiate draft.

The Chiefs, unable to get their offense untracked, got the necessary help from the defense as safety Jim Kearney and linebacker Bobby Bell ran back interceptions for touchdowns of 29 and 61 yards to break the Broncos.

Jim Hunter of the Oakland A's came closest to pitching a complete game in the 1972 World Series. Rolfe Fingers was called on to get the last out in Hunter's 2-1 victory in the second game.

It's Era of Tight End in Pro Football

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA)—A case can be made for the tight end as the prototype of all a professional football player should be.

Because blocking is one of his vital functions, and his frequent target is a 235-pound linebacker, he has to be physical. Anywhere between 6-3 and 6-5 and 235 to 250 pounds is in the right range, though you can get by with less weight if you have compensating strength.

Because the spread of zone defenses has made him a primary passing target, especially on third down clutch situations, he must be agile enough to squirm into the cracks of the zone and have the hand coordination to grab passes at any angle.

Because those same zone defenses have shut off the long bomb to the outside receivers, especially with the double zones to either side of the field, the tight end should now have the speed to go deep down the middle.

Because of the combination of all these factors, you now have super stars like Ted Kwalick of San Francisco and Charlie Sanders of Detroit playing the position.

A tremendous number of other great tight ends are on display in the National Football League, too. A list would have to include Raymond Chester, Oakland; Milt Morin, Cleveland; Bob Tucker, New York Giants; Bob Trumpy, Cincinnati; Jim Mitchell, Atlanta; Tom Mitchell, Baltimore, and a Richard Caster, New York Jets. Denver has a rookie, Riley Odums, who'll be right with them in another year.

Still active also, and still effective as starters, are five men who've been all-pro at the position and who average 10 years of experience in pro football: Mike Ditka, Dallas; Jackie Smith, St. Louis; Jerry Smith, Washington; John Mackey, San Diego, and Willie Frazier, Kansas City. The remarkable aspect of such prominence is that the tight end is strictly a modern phenomenon, traceable to a dozen years back. The powerful post-World War II Cleveland Browns didn't have a tight end. Starting ends Mac Speedie and Dante Lavelli were greyhound types, and Dub Jones, who came out of the backfield to catch passes, was also in the wide receiver mold.

The need to stimulate more running against the 4-3 defense and still split a couple of receivers to the outside produced the blocking type of tight end who would pioneer the species.

The original model was

DEMONSTRATES WHAT MAKES THE TIGHT END SUCH A VERSATILE FORCE ON OFFENSE

Ron Kramer of the Green Bay Packers, a 250-pound steamroller who blew out tacklers for the famed Lombardi sweeps run by Paul Hornung, but also a terrific athlete who averaged 35 catches a season. He was the first "animal" tight end developed.

The first man actually drafted to play tight end in the pros was Monty Stickles, a first round choice plucked out of Notre Dame by the San Francisco 49ers in 1960. He was 6-3 and 240 and a contact player, though he also reached a career high of 43 catches in his second pro season.

"They gave me a job," remembers Monty, who is now a dulcet-toned sportscaster in the Bay area. "I didn't have to beat anybody out. They had Hugh McElhenny and R. C. Owens, who were both big, playing as receivers, but they weren't tight end types, the guy who could deliver a tough block on the linebacker or double on the end."

A year later came Mike Ditka of the Chicago Bears, who showed for the first time that the tight end could be a team's primary receiver. Mike learned to "cheat" a little and split out a few yards from the tackle to give himself some more maneuvering room, and in 1964 he caught the remarkable total of 75 passes, the greatest single season a tight end ever had.

When Mike faded a little because of injury (although he's now in his 12th season, as a messenger end for the Cowboys), John Mackey came along to star for the Colts and get himself voted as the finest tight end in the first 50 years of pro football. (At the age of 29, he lost his starting job on the Colts to Tom Mitchell and moved to San Diego.)

The species keeps proliferating because now every team wants two tight ends so they can use them simultaneously in short yardage situations.

"The requirements, though," says Stickles, "have changed drastically. When I first started there were a lot of clumsy guys who later became tackles. Now they still want the size, but you need much more speed."

Last year, the top two receivers in the National Football Conference were Bob Tucker of the Giants and Ted Kwalick of the 49ers. They're not the type of guys a quarterback can miss. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Basketball Roundup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The third-place Kentucky Colonels of 1972 are beginning to look like the champion Kentucky Colonels of 1971.

The Colonels, who won the American Basketball Association's East Division with a record number of victories last year before getting eliminated in the playoffs, won their seventh game in the last eight by whipping San Diego 109-91.

Dan Issel scored 27 points and grabbed 14 rebounds and Artis Gilmore contributed 15 points and 20 rebounds as the Colonels moved to within two games of idle Carolina. Jerry Chambers scored 22 points for San Diego.

In other Sunday action in the ABA, Indiana edged the New York Nets 113-110 and Memphis trounced Virginia 124-115, while Milwaukee downed Phoenix 119-110 and Cleveland edged Seattle 105-103 in overtime in the only National Basketball Association games.

Bill Keller clinched Indiana's victory with four foul shots in the last six seconds after the Nets have closed from 13 points behind to one, 109-108, with eight seconds remaining. George McGinnis paced Indiana with 26 points and Keller added 19. George Carter topped New York with 29.

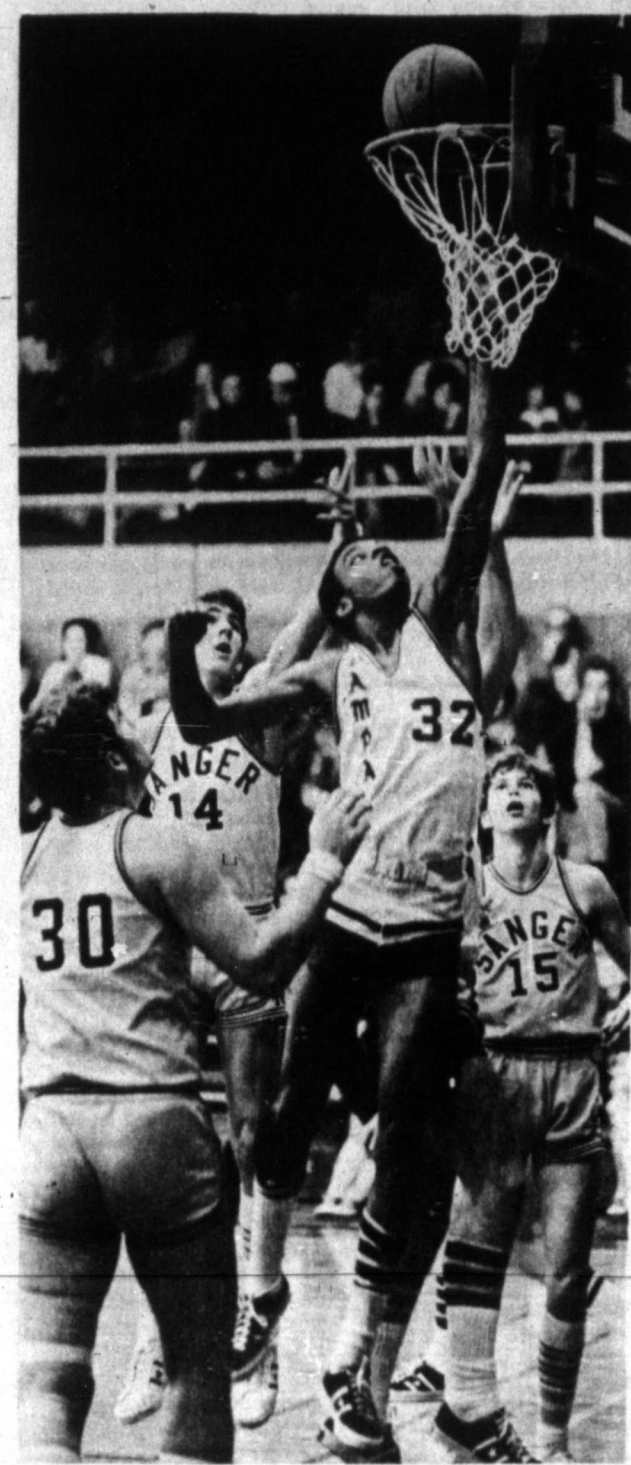

With George Thompson leading the way with 28 points, Memphis snapped an eight-game losing streak despite 37 points by Virginia's Julius Erving.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 33 points and Bob Dandridge 26 as Milwaukee coasted past Phoenix, which was topped by Connie Hawkins' 19 points.

Barry Clemens came off the bench for Cleveland to send the game into overtime with two foul shots with six seconds remaining and then scored six of the Cavaliers' nine overtime points. Clemens finished with 12 points. Austin Carr scored 30 and Lenny Wilkens 26 for Cleveland and Jim Fox 24 for Seattle.

Saturday, Boston beat Philadelphia 131-120, the New York Knicks trounced Buffalo 119-94, Chicago downed Seattle 89-88, Kansas City-Omaha topped Houston 114-109, Atlanta edged Portland 106-103 and Los Angeles took Golden State 112-103 in the NBA.

Virginia outscored San Diego 101-107, Dallas beat Carolina 108-101, Denver walloped Memphis 127-99 and Utah edged Indiana 111-106 in the ABA Saturday.

MAKING TWO — Charles Parker, Pampa Harvester lowpost man, made two points on this field goal attempt despite the efforts of three Sanger players. Parker scored eight points, on three shots from the field and two free throws, in the 84-79 Pampa win last Friday.

Dallas Beats Cards, 27-6

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys took a giant step toward their eighth straight appearance in the National Football League playoffs with a convincing 27-6 victory over fumbling St. Louis Sunday, but the coaches of both teams expressed disappointment after the game.

"I thought we played a good team game," said Coach Tom Landry of Dallas. "I'm disappointed we didn't win our division, but Washington is just having a super year."

Cardinal Coach Bob Holloway was unhappy again with the St. Louis offense, which picked up only 156 yards and fumbled the ball seven times—just one fumble short of tying a team record.

Dallas, which has the inside track for the wild-card berth in the National Conference playoffs with its 9-3 record, put Walt Garrison to good use Sunday against St. Louis.

Garrison handled the ball only 14 times, but he scored all three Dallas touchdowns—two on Craig Morton aerials and the other on a three-yard plunge.

"The last time I had three touchdowns...I can't remember having three TDs in one season," the 6-foot, 205-pound running back said. Garrison has had more than that—five—in each of two seasons, 1968 and 1970.

"They were checking our tight end and that left me open. They weren't paying much attention to me," Garrison said of his two pass receptions that went for scores.

Calvin Hill was the workhorse for Dallas and the game. He carried the ball 26 times for 120 yards and said he wasn't bothered by the cold drizzle that fell through most of the game.

The cold and light rain may have bothered others, however. Fumbles, penalties and an interception played an integral role in each of the six scoring drives by Dallas and St. Louis.

A Johnny Roland fumble in the first quarter led to a Dallas field goal four plays later; a 41-yard pass interference call against Larry Wilson led to a Cowboy touchdown in the second quarter, and a Donny Anderson fumble led to another Dallas touchdown.

An offside penalty against Dallas on a fourth-and-one situation at the six-yard line helped St. Louis score on the next play; a Leo Hayden fumble at the start of the final period led to a five-play scoring drive by Dallas, and a pass interception thrown by Jim Hart gave the Cowboys another Toni Fritsch field goal in the closing minutes.

Nicklaus Wins Disney Golf

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus had just closed the most spectacular year of his fantastic career with a victory in the Walt Disney World Open Golf Tournament and was considering his goals for 1973.

"The first goal," he mused, "well, that'd be No. 14 at Augusta, in the Masters."

He referred to his collection of 13 major championships, a record he shares with the late Bobby Jones. A victory at Augusta, Ga., in the spring would be the 14th, putting him on a plateau alone above all the other men who have played this old game.

His more general goals are even more awe-inspiring. "I don't think there's any question this is the best year I've had," said Nicklaus, winner of the U.S. Open, the Masters, five other titles and a whopping record of $320,542.

The seventh title and $30,000 came Sunday when he forged a front-running eight-under-par 64 for a 287 total and a nine-stroke victory. The 72-hole total and the victory margin both were tour records for the season.

"The year was better than last year," he said, paused a moment and added:

"But I'd certainly hope next year is better."

Nicklaus' season was one of the finest the game has seen. He won seven of his 20 starts and was second in four others, once in the British Open. He won Golfer-of-the-Year honors. His stroke average of 70.23 was by far the best on the tour. He won a record-matching fourth Masters and a record-matching 13th major career title.

And he wants to improve. "Right now," said Sam Snead, a 60-year-old living legend, "he's got the best attitude

Tiger Cats Win Grey Cup

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — Ian Sunter, a 19-year-old place-kicker from Dundee, Scotland, kicked a last-play, 34-yard field goal Sunday to give the Hamilton Tiger-Cats a 13-10 victory over the Saskatchewan Roughriders and a record 11th Grey Cup football triumph.

He accounted for seven of Hamilton's 13 points—the other six came on a touchdown by Dave Fleming. The climactic kick came after time had run out and broke a 10-10 tie.

2-Way Radio Is Crowded

The radio waves are a national resource which the government "conservatively" values at more than $20 billion. That resource, especially the part set aside for land mobile radio, is seriously threatened today by congestion and interference, warns the General Accounting Office.

Land mobile radio is the two-way radio used by police, fire and other public safety units. It is also a vital communications tool for railroads, taxis, truckers and utility companies, as well as a broad segment of industry.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) reports that as of June 30, 1971, there were about 215,000 land mobile stations operating 4.2 million transmitters, with the number growing rapidly. The Electronics Industries Association estimates that by 1985 there will be nearly nine million transmitters in operation.

But because the radio spectrum is a limited resource which cannot be expanded, the airwaves which these land mobile units have to share are getting so crowded that stations frequently jam each other's signals, sometimes knocking essential calls off the air.

In the Chicago area, for example, one radio police frequency is shared by 37 individual suburbs. An average department sends and receives 600 messages every hour, and police have difficulty getting as much as five seconds of free air time for a message. The problem is similar in other large cities.

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., contends that crowded police channels represent "clearly a problem of national proportions, a potential threat to the lives of policemen and to public safety in general."

The FCC has been trying to monitor the radio spectrum to make better use of it, and has also moved to release several thousand UHF television channels to land mobile radio.

In the meantime, the electronics industry is developing improvements which can help unsnarl airwaves congestion.

One is digital transmission, such as Motorola's Modat System, which can send voice or data in a high-speed burst. Time-consuming messages are compressed into a single beep taking one-quarter of a second.

Flubbug Speaks English

When wars grow dull and politicians get tired, you begin to see flu stories appear in the paper. For the past 20 years, Asian flu has dominated the headlines during doldrum periods when battles and chancellery chicanery were scant. It served well. It conjured up a fascinating image of little almond-eyed germs flapping their wings across the wide Pacific and invading these shores. But every phrase like every dog has its day. Eventually it is beat to death, and loses its capacity to raise a reader's eyebrow or flap the human tongue.

In this gloomy state of affairs, it was up to newspaperdom to revise the formula. We are happy to report that journalism rose to the occasion. A new type of flu bug has been duly discovered. It's called English Flu!

Yes, and it's scientific as all get out. It even has an official scientific number, A-England-42-72. The Wall Street Journal attempted to credit the ancestry of English Flu to a 1968 Hong Kong strain. But we don't think the public will put up with that, at least not the WASPish fraction of public opinion.

For a long time now, we have hosted Asian imports and continental ailments such as German measles. The ailing public is entitled to a disease that speaks the common language. It had to come. The hour was right. The need was great. We can see them now—thousands of English flubbugs flitting toward us from the blue Atlantic. There they come. Each with its fuzzy feet curled around a bagpipe, and a tam-o-shanter at rakish angle above its beady blue eyes. Thrilling sight, really.

Prediction: Barring a VC offensive or trouble in the Mideast, you'll be reading a lot of English Flu in the near future.

What a way to get sick!

Question Box

QUESTION: Periodically conservatives say the United States was established as a limited government. The Constitution is supposed to be the basis for this claim. But there seem to be no limits on the power of political government. What has caused this?

ANSWER: While we believe the men who drew up the Constitution believed they were limiting government, we think they made a few errors which were the first steps to developing an all-powerful government. In the first place, when Congress was given the power to tax, which was unlimited other than that such taxes and other charges "shall be uniform throughout the United States," the first step was taken. Congress also was given the power to borrow money, but had no mandate to repay the debts within a specific time.

Combined with the authority to borrow, the power to coin money has now been interpreted as the privilege to print unbacked paper currency and to destroy by inflation the nation's money supply. The power to regulate commerce and to impose tariffs also are steps given the national government which militate against limitations on government.

It is true that some clauses in the Constitution, reinforced by parts of the Bill of Rights, also moved to limit certain actions of the national government. However, the Ninth and Tenth Amendments, which sought to preserve to the people powers not delegated to the national government, seem to have been forgotten, and some say superseded by the illegally adopted 14th Amendment.

There is no question that a great deal of the erosion of human liberty dates back to the period around 1912 when the 16th Amendment granted the power to adopt graduated income taxes, and when the Federal Reserve Bank was established. While many persons are inclined to say that great amounts of freedom were taken from the people by Democratic administrations, it should be remembered that those two damaging items were forced through by the Republicans. It is true that the Roosevelt administration made use of the tools furnished by those two pieces of legislation.

We suspect it made no difference. Politicians are politicians, regardless of party. And they will use the tools at hand to increase their power. That is their nature, and that is one reason Freedom Newspapers oppose granting any additional powers to those involved in political government.

Whether it is possible to have a government that is limited only to protection of life and property, which many "conservatives" say they favor, may be doubtful. The tendency to "do good" for others with other people's money seems to be prevalent, particularly among those in government. Once government starts doing things for people, that government soon becomes unlimited and then it starts doing things to the people.

The Stuff That Dreams Are Made Of

BRUCE BLOSSAT

From Here On, We Measure Kennedy

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The idea may bore the American people, but the quest for the presidency always begins the moment a given election is over. So, for the Democrats, everybody already knows it's Ted Kennedy against a weak field. To lost the big party prize, he'll have to kick it away.

Because Ted will have the big clout, much of the party's probably over-publicized doings in the next couple of years will in fact be pretty secondary stuff.

You'll read about, or see on television, the battle for "party control," a lot of stir about a new party charter and other reforms to be piled on top of those instituted in 1971-72, an "interim convention" to draft major policy positions.

Every wispy bit of conflict will be brought your way, and your living room screen will show the various Democratic leaders scratching their ears in unguarded moments.

But you can forget most of it. And you can ignore, also, any high-flown talk from young militants about "taking to the streets again" because George McGovern got clobbered this year. The demonstration bit has lost its snap. There are better television serials than the young folks' street theater that have worn themselves out and gone off the air.

What will count is how Kennedy performs and what he says from now on. One major speech from him will be more important than a week's haggling over policies by a couple of thousand or more earnest Democrats in some off-year "platform" convention.

He'll be leading a Senate inquiry into the 1972 Watergate "bugging" affair and additional matters alleging Republican spying and sabotage against 1972 Democratic presidential and other campaigns.

The nation will watch to see not only what evidence he dredges up, but whether he acts with responsibility and restraint. If his behavior is professional, his 1976 nomination prospects will get a further boost, which at this point they hardly need. But he could be hurt by any descent into rash, emotional, unsupported assaults that take on a strictly partisan flavor.

With most Americans gone from Vietnam and very likely some sort of cease-fire or other agreement with Hanoi in effect in the not-distant future, Kennedy likewise will be observed closely for his response to this altered situation. Despite his work on the tough Vietnamese refugee problem and his many visits to foreign shores, he is still to be judged by his party and nation in the foreign affairs field.

On the domestic front, health care has been his prime interest. Can he promote and perhaps push to enactment the kind of huge program he favors without appearing to voters as "another of those big spenders" that so angered and frustrated millions in 1972?

Most of all, can he, in his years from present age 40 to 44, persuade countless Americans that he has become a man of sober judgment?

The real meaning for him of the 1969 Chappaquiddick tragedy was not some hint of an untold story. The episode gravely cast in doubt his capacity for judgment in a crisis. He knew it better than anyone.

How Ted Kennedy makes his way through these problems is the real news. And, all you weary voters out there, whether you like it or not, the telling of that tale—and hence the 1976 campaign—begins right now. You can turn it off or not read it, but it will go on anyway.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The World Almanac recalls that during a speech at the 1944 Republican National Convention, Herbert Hoover exclaimed: "Older men declare war. But it is youth that must fight and die. And it is youth that must inherit the tribulation, the sorrow and the triumph that are the aftermath of war."

The Real Story of Golan Heights:
Egypt's Refusal to Get Drawn In
By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—Most significant aspect of the thunderous air and ground clashes between Syria and Israel is what transpired behind-the-scenes between Damascus and Cairo.

Rulers of the two Arab capitals exchanged furious recriminations over Egypt's flat refusal to be dragged into the warring.

President Hafez Assad irately berated President Anwar Sadat on two grounds:

(1) Refusal to order Egypt's MIG squadrons stationed in Syria to join Syrian MIGs in resisting so-called "intruding" Israeli planes and in bombing villages, artillery and other positions on the Israeli-held Golan Heights.

(2) Similar refusal to launch diversionary assaults against Israeli positions on the Suez Canal.

Assad, leftist activist who seized power several years ago, vehemently accused Sadat of "betraying" a close ally and "deserting Arab brothers."

With incensed indignation, the fiery Syrian ruler cited the fact that the two countries are linked in a "federation" with Libya, and that Egypt is committed to support Syria in military operations against Israel.

Despite these stinging castigations, Sadat was unmoved. He kept strict hands-off the supercharged Syrian-Israeli situation.

Egypt, Syria and Libya formed a "federation" early this year—which is still in process of being formalized. Libya's Colonel Muammar Qaddafi, fanatical Moslem and Israeli hater, was the prime mover in this "union." Also its chief financial backer—thanks to more than $2.5 billion a year in oil income. Libya is heavily underwriting both Egypt and Syria.

Last year, when King Hussein drove menacing Palestinian guerrillas out of Jordan, Syria moved to their support with tanks and planes—only to get severely clobbered, losing a number of MIGs and more than 20 tanks.

President Assad, fearing a retaliatory offensive from both Jordan and Israel, frantically sought reinforcements from Egypt and Libya. Libya rushed an infantry battalion from its tiny army. Egypt provided several squadrons of MIGs—but with a crucial string.

The planes could be used only on express orders from Cairo. They were NOT under Syrian command.

As a consequence, the only flying the Egyptian-piloted MIGs have done is training. Meanwhile, Syria has lost some 15 war-planes—for a total of 42 since the six-day war.

Hot Seat
Reasons for President Sadat's wary caution and restraint are controlling internal and external factors.

At home, the Egyptian ruler's position is increasingly precarious.

Disaffection is widespread in the military forces, with recurring reports of coups and attempted coups. Latest is the reputed arrest of more than 100 officers, including three generals—one a top air commander.

Alleged intent of this conspiracy was to replace Sadat and Premier Aziz Sidky with General Mohammed Sadek, former war minister, and other military leaders whom Sadat abruptly ousted early this year on charges of plotting. All are under house arrest awaiting trial—which is mysteriously postponed from time to time.

Also, Egypt's economy is steadily deteriorating, with unemployment rampant, inflation soaring, and businessmen and workers increasingly restless.

Aboard, Sadat is making little headway in restoring close relations with the Soviet. Sidky, flanked by military leaders, has made several trips to Moscow to patch up ties and get more arms and economic aid—but with indifferent results. The Russians are playing hard to get—after their curt ouster last spring.

The last thing Sadat can afford right now is to precipitate an outbreak of heavy fighting with Israel.

He couldn't win militarily, and he could lose his head politically.

Going, Going...

Pity hotly embattled Democratic national chairman Jean Westwood—brick by brick, her house is crashing down around her ears.

Latest stunning blow is the defection of Wayne Black, national committeeman from her home state of Utah. The well-known and highly respected Salt Lake City attorney compounded this by declaring for former national treasurer Robert Strauss—Mrs. Westwood's leading rival.

In a personal letter to the nearly 300 members of the National Committee, Black declared:

"As national committeeman from Utah, I am writing to advise you that I intend to support Robert Strauss for chairman of the Democratic National Committee. This has been a difficult decision for me because of my long-time association with Jean Westwood. I have the very highest regard for her as an individual.

However, like most Democrats, I am deeply distressed by the devastating defeat suffered by our party in the presidential race. I am particularly distressed in view of the fact that the results of other Democratic-Republican races indicate that this was really a Democratic year."

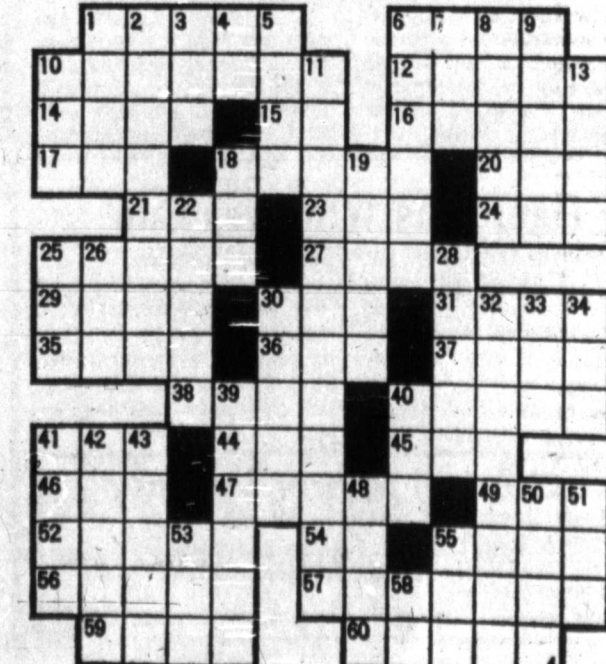

Hailing Strauss as a "national Democrat" who "holds the key to unity," Black maintains the Dallas lawyer's installation as chairman is essential "as we start moving to achieve victories in '74 and '76."

"Hey, Howard! You realize there are only 23 more behaving days until Christmas?"

Ice is being used experimentally to save fruit orchards in Springfield, Ore., from frost damage. National Geographic reports. Spraying hot waste water from a nearby pulp plant on the trees sheathes buds in "warm ice" that keeps them insulated at about 30° Fahrenheit when the temperature drops much lower.

Purists
To keep their language pure, Icelanders discourage the introduction of foreign words. When television arrived, for example, Icelanders rejected this alien word in favor of sjovpar, derived from the two old words: sjon (sight) and varp (throwing).

GOVERNOR WANTS TOLL FREEZE
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Gov. Wendell Ford hopes to retain the tolls on the 40-mile Kentucky Turnpike from Elizabethton to Louisville and use the proceeds to improve the highway.

Ordinarily the road would be toll-free in 1974 when the last bonds are paid. Congressional approval is needed to continue tolls.

Youngsters on Point Roberts frequently have dual citizenship. Although part of the state of Washington, Point Roberts is cut off from the mainland by water, and its women usually give birth to their babies at a hospital in Vancouver. When the children reach 21 they can choose to be citizens of either the United States or Canada.
