Main Street Project Renovations Continue with Jan's and Hudman's

by Lonnie Welborn

Post's Main Street continues to take on a brighter look as work is begun on Jan's and the building immediately west of Jan's, and renovation work continues at Hudman Furniture.

At Jan's and the former White's Auto building, the facades have been removed to expose the original fronts. A bay window is planned for the front of Jan's, but changes in the adjacent building are now being finalized as the renovation work continues.

Both buildings are owned by Jan Crawford whose father, Clint Herring, owned the former White's building from 1938 to 1968 -- longer than anyone has owned the building since it was built. He operated Herring's - a department store - in the location for several years.

Architect for the two buildings is Lee Thompson, who has done other historical renovations.

The work is being done by Bobby Thompson Construction and David Wood and Brad Moore of Two Friends Construction.

At Hudman Furniture the building has been cleaned and tuckpointed and has been painted. Hudman's has also put in new sidewalks and has contracted for a new sign.

Main Street Design Specialist, Ray Vela, will be back in Post

Wednesday, March 23 to meet with property owners interested in renovation assistance.

There is no cost to the property owner for the assistance and a current low-interest loan rate available.

If you are interested in either setting up an appointment with Vela, or if you are interested in finding out more about the program, contact Melissa Cunningham at the Main Street Office, 495-4157.

Lamesa Teens At Final Meeting In Drug Program

The third and final meeting in the March on Drug and Alcohol Abuse Addition, "The Choice Is Yours," will be held Friday, March 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the Post Community Center with appearances by a group of teenagers from Lamesa and a special guest speaker.

Friday's featured speaker will be Bud Nelson from New Beginnings, a chemical dependency treatment program at Highland Hospital in Lubbock, who will present information to enable early detection of substance abuse among young people.

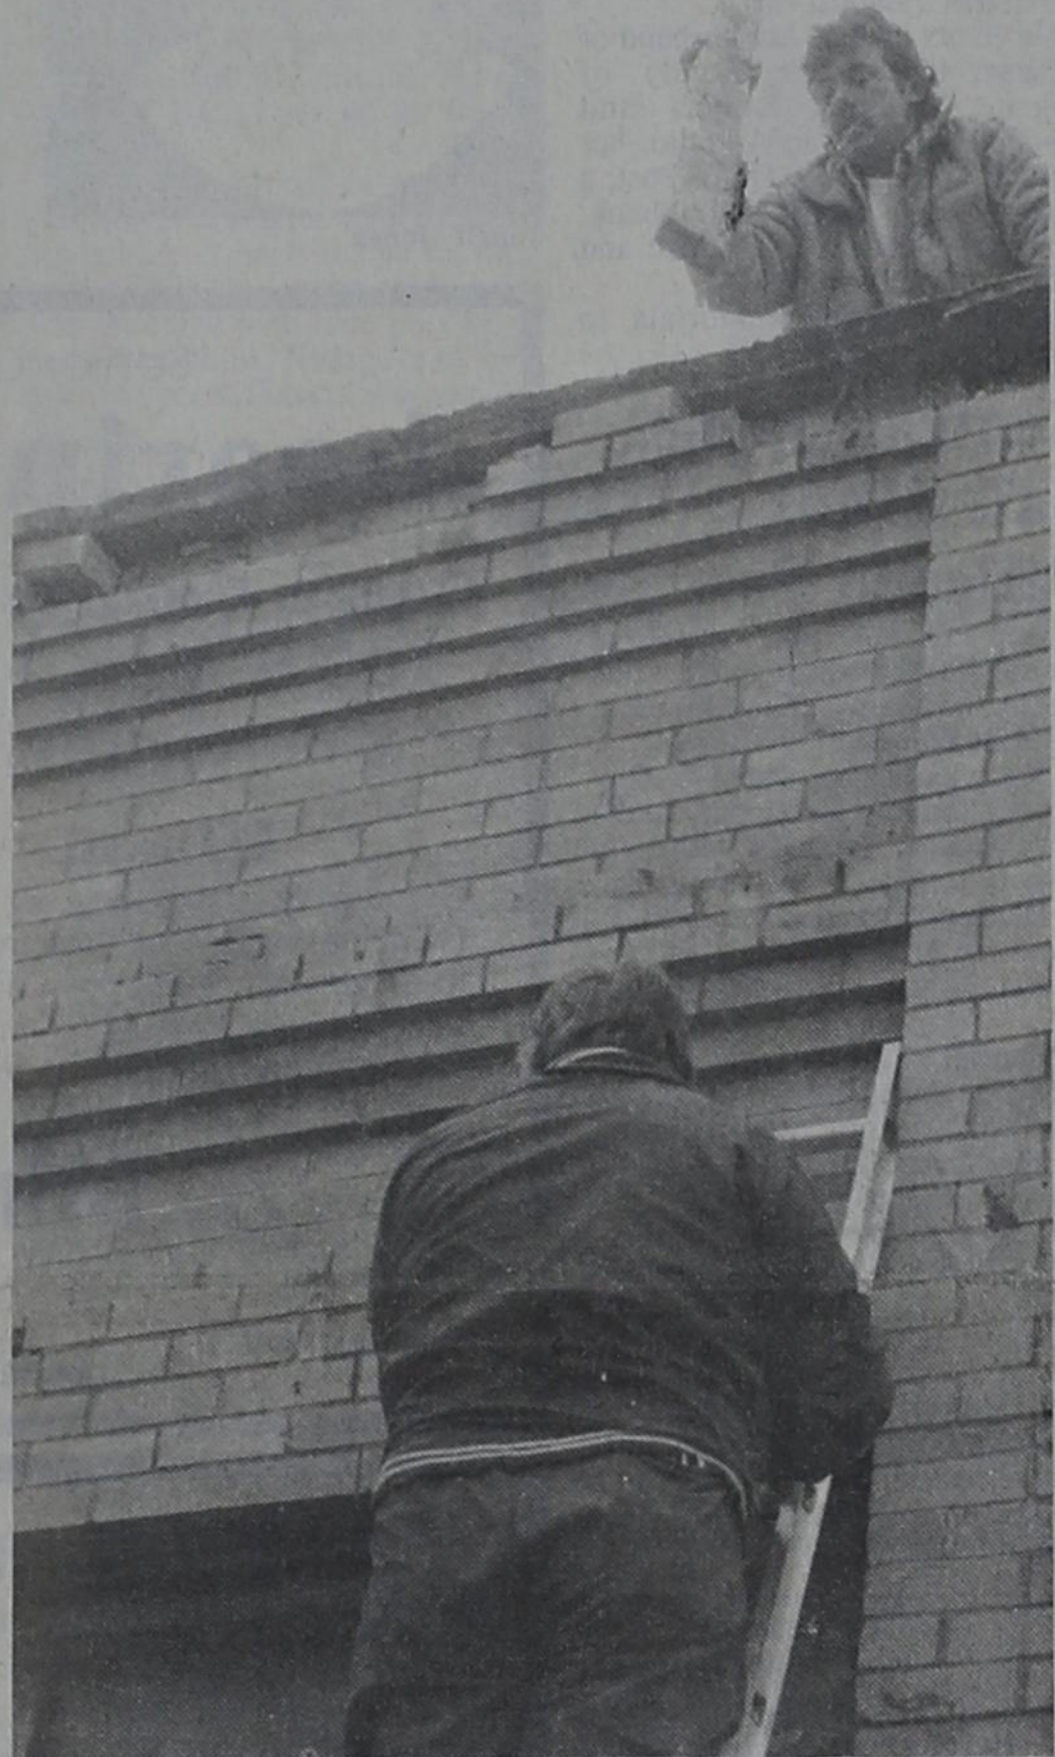

Nelson has been active in the field of alcoholism and chemical dependency treatment since 1971.

Also featured on the evening's program will be Teens Against Drugs, from Lamesa, who will be expressing their own feelings about the pressure they receive from friends encouraging drug and alcohol usage and how they "Say NO to Drugs."

The month of March has been a month-long effort on the part of the City-County Drug and Alcohol Abuse Program to acquaint people with the problems and prevention of drug and alcohol abuse.

The program was sponsored locally by individuals, businesses, groups, clubs and organizations.

'Glass Menagerie' Captivates Audiences with Flair, Drama

by Wesley W. Burnett

Perhaps one of the best productions ever presented by the Garza Theatre closed Sunday afternoon after four terrific performances of the Tennessee Williams classic "The Glass Menagerie."

Directed by Will McCrary, the production captivated audiences with a top-notch set he designed and built along with the powerful stage presence of Lonnie Welborn, Anne Leake, Christy Morris and Rodney Marshall.

Mildred Stewart's behind-the-scene preparations as production manager completed the professional look of the stage.

The backstage crew, led by stage manager Stephanie McCurrin, pulled off an almost flawless technical feat.

Roger McCurrin handled the diverse and multiple audio effects efficiently and James Burnett carried out the complex lighting smoothly. Assistant stage manager Lee Waters and Mildred Stewart were instrumental in the several costume and prop changes between and during scenes.

On Stage

The opening scene really set the mood, as Welborn, 1986 Best Actor, turned in another outstanding performance in his dramatic portrayal of the son, Tom.

Narrating the scenes, Lonnie drew the audience into the dimly lit apartment of the Wingfields.

Anne Leake, 1986 Best Supporting Actress, developed the character Amanda Wingfield with

by Wes Burnett

There are a lot of great reasons to live in Post...and then there are a few that just get right under my skin.

And I suspect that the same thing is true for most of you. Day in and day out, this is a great place to live, work, play and raise a family...I wouldn't trade it for anything.

But now and then, we all need to let off a little steam and try to see if we can make things just a little better.

So, here's my gripe that's been building up for a number of months:

Gossip, story telling, wild rumors...misinformed busy bodies.

The one that really got my goat this week was so absolutely absurd that I laughed when I heard it, then I just got angrier and angrier until I decided I had to spit it out.

A friend asked me to confirm whether or not this story was true:

(I'll change the names to protect the innocent.)

"You were at a restaurant, you ordered a grilled cheese sandwich, then from the kitchen the cook hollered out, 'Who the hell ordered a grilled cheese at this hour.' You got up and left."

"True or not?" the friend asked as I stood dumbfounded by the question.

Only the first part of that story was true...I ordered a grilled cheese sandwich, for my dad who was visiting with us, it was great, he loved it, we all left smiling and feeling better...and that was that.

As far as I know there was no noise from the kitchen or anything else anywhere near what this story claimed.

It just flat flabbergasted me that such a wild, outrageous story like that could have been fabricated...and for the life of me I can't figure out why.

Then I spent the rest of the afternoon trying to remember all the faces at that place during that particular meal...shame on me for even bothering.

Come on folks, give me a break.

What's even worse is that this sort of garbage goes on almost every day. I tell you, it's enough to put a sane person on the edge.

The rumors and fabrications touch almost everyone and every business in town.

That kind of behavior is damaging, inconsiderate, unchristian, immoral...and, oh well, I could go on forever.

The vast majority of us are struggling to survive economically, working toward a better life for our families and hoping for a bright future.

We want peace, harmony, tranquility and an opportunity to succeed.

I speak for all those people who quietly go about their business trying to ignore the garbage floating around.

We will not be slowed down by the silly prattle spewing forth from the mouths of the ignorant.

Eggs Are A "Best Buy" In Time
For Easter

Eggs, eggs, and eggs are always a bargain protein food, and prices are going even lower just in time for Easter. We haven't seen the low egg prices that are in the markets now for some time. Eggs are selling at 30 - 50 cents per dozen in sales and there will probably be many store specials before Easter.

If you're tempted to color baskets and baskets full of eggs for Easter, remember to store them properly, or to not eat them. A recent study in the Poultry Science Journal showed that hard-cooked eggs stored at room temperature spoil in less than a week. But eggs put in the refrigerator after two days at room temperature keep for three weeks. Hard-cooked eggs kept in their shells and stored the whole time in the refrigerator show the least bacterial growth.

It's best to remove the Easter eggs from the basket as soon as possible, refrigerate them and use them within a few days. If your children like to carry their Easter baskets around for days, include some plastic eggs for play and refrigerate the real eggs that the family will eat.

If you would be interested in a free "Home Food Storage" Book on shelf, freezer and refrigerator storage, please call the County Extension Office at 495-2050. The chart could easily be placed on your refrigerator for easy reference.

Don't Wash Eggs At Home

Consumers who wash eggs at home before using them are likely to do more harm than good. Today, eggs in supermarkets have already been cleaned properly and need no further washing.

Improper detergents and improper temperatures coupled with inadequate monitoring of detergent or sanitizer levels have caused a lot of problems in the past. Most problems occurred when eggs were washed by many people with small flocks and inadequate equipment. As the industry changed, washing was done at fewer and larger locations, and techniques and equipment for washing eggs were improved.

Dirt or stains on egg shells can damage interior contents. So commercial egg producers use all the proper techniques and equipment to put top quality eggs in grocery cases. For instance, they use water at least 20 degrees F. warmer than egg contents to prevent any possible contamination of the egg's interior.

Poor washing practices can easily contaminate eggs. Thus consumers should avoid washing eggs before use and rely on others to do the job properly before eggs are shipped to the supermarket.

Nutritive Value of Eggs

For those of you on special restricted diets, the following are nurtitive values of the edible part of an egg. This information is taken from tables in "Nutritive Value of Foods," a publication compiled by Extension Nutrition Specialist. The book list nutritive value of all food types (fresh packed and imitation) and is free to the public at your local County Extension Office.

One hard-cooked egg with shell removed has the following: Total of 50 grams: 75% water content, 80 calories, 6 grams of protein, 6 grams of fat, 1.7 grams of saturated fatty acids, 1.0 grams of unsaturated fatty acids an egg has 2.0 grams of oleic, 6 grams linoleic, 1 gram carbohydrate, 28 milligrams calcium, 90 milligrams phosphorous, 1.0 milligrams iron, 65 milligrams potassium, 59 milligrams of sodium, .04 milligrams of Thiamin, and .14 milligrams Niacin and 0 ascorbic acid.

DPS News

Fewer persons died on Texas streets and highways during 1987 than in any year since 1976, according to the Department of Public Safety.

The Texas traffic death total for 1987 was 3,261, a decrease of 8.6 per cent from the 3,568 deaths recorded in the state during 1986, according to DPS Director Col. Leo Gossett.

"I find this continuing decrease in traffic deaths very encouraging. However, the fact that more than 3,000 persons lost their lives as a result of traffic accidents in our state is something that should be of concern to all Texans," Col. Gossett said.

Another way of measuring traffic safety is to calculate the number of deaths for each 100 million miles traveled. Although the miles driven increased slightly last year, the rate dropped to 2.2 deaths per 100 million miles traveled, the lowest mileage death rate in Texas history.

"We're hoping that will continue in coming years," Col. Gossett said. "On the other key measurement, we noticed that 20 years back to 1967, the number of traffic fatalities in 1987 was lower than in any year except 1974 and 1976. This good news has occurred despite the continued increase in the number of drivers and miles driven in this state. A primary factor in this fatality decrease is the careful and considerate driving practices of many Texans."

Bridge Work Begins in Garza County

Work has begun on the reconstruction of four bridges in Garza County.

These structures are located North of Post on S.H. 207 and FM 651. The proposed bridges that cross Salt Fork and McDonald Creek on FM 651 will be built beside the existing structures. This will allow two-way traffic to remain on the existing bridges until the new bridges are completed.

The two structures that span the North Fork of the Brazos River on S.H. 207 and FM 651 will be built in half-widths in its present location.

Traffic will be reduced to one lane across the bridge. Temporary traffic signals have been set up to direct traffic through these areas. The maximum height clearance on these projects will be 15 feet.

The public is urged to be mindful of these areas when passing through them and to follow the advisory and directional signs throughout the project.

Your cooperation will ensure the safety of the public as well as the people working in these areas.

The record year for traffic deaths in Texas was 1981, when 4,701 persons were killed.

"The number of traffic deaths in our state has been decreasing each year since 1981 except for a slight increase in 1984, and the DPS along with local law enforcement agencies will be continuing with our best efforts to keep this trend going," Col. Gossett said.

Gossett said the principal goal of Texas traffic law enforcement is to discourage dangerous driving practices and reduce the probability of fatal crashes occurring.

The efforts of our troopers, along with the other Texas law enforcement agencies, in the enforcement of the DWI, speed and safety belt laws, have contributed to this decline in traffic deaths," Gossett added. "Our challenge is to maintain a high level of seat belt usage as the law grows older."

The DPS director pointed out that fatalities of persons riding in front seats of cars and light trucks decreased by 7.5 per cent in 1987 compared to 1986. The decrease is 18.1 per cent when comparing 1987 to 1984, the last full year without the seat belt law in Texas, a further indication of the value of the statute.

"In spite of the accomplishments shown by the decreases, we are concerned that complacency might create additional non-compliance, which could very well turn around our current downward trend in traffic deaths," Gossett said.

Theatre Performance Dazzles Audiences

grace, style and majesty with her "old south" sophisticated charm and "motherly" attention.

The scenes between her and Lonnie came alive with the mother-son clashes eliciting a wide range of emotional responses from the audience, including liberal doses of laughter.

The other side of the emotional scale was cast when Christy softly dodged the pains of failure and fear of facing the world as Lonnie's unmarried sister, Laura.

An accomplished actress, Christy offered audiences a brilliant portrayal of the "crippled and peculiar" sister.

When Rodney entered the stage in Act II, it was clear that Amanda was ready to "trap" a "gentleman caller" for her daughter.

Rodney, who came to the part with only one week of rehearsal time, played the "gentleman caller" Jim O'Connor with a real touch of human character.

He fit smoothly into the role and carried the audience along as he brought Laura out of her private life for a few moments, before disappearing out of her life.

In the final scene Lonnie narrated the brother's lamenting attempt to forget his sister as Anne and Christy sat quietly in the soft glow of the candles, leaving all four audiences struggling back the tears.

One Little Problem

From my perspective, these four performances suffered one problem not related to the cast or crew...it is the simple fact that so few people from Garza County took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy true quality entertainment.

Performances with such power and depth of quality deserve to be delivered to a packed theater, which seats a mere 200.

That's not an unreasonable goal, especially considering that in the two year history of the theatre group, more than 80 percent of audiences have been composed of people from some place other than Post.

It would be great to see as many Post folks in the theater April 28 through 30 and May 1 as there are out-of-town visitors when a dedicated cast and crew deliver their spirited version of the charming comedy "Butterflies are Free."

Think about it, you might find a trip to the Garza Theatre more fun than watching that same old hum-drum t.v. show.

"THE GLASS MENAGERIE" - Relaxing after four performances Sunday afternoon were cast and crew members of the Garza Theatre. Completing the 15th production at the theatre were (back row, left to right) cast members Anne Leake, Rodney Marshall, Christy Morris and Lonnie Welborn with crew members (front row, left to right) Roger McCurrin (sound), Stephanie McCurrin (stage manager) and James Burnett (lights).

Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, as any friend could say; perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day. Whatever you did to console our hearts we thank you so much what ever the part. May each of you be showered with God's blessings.
The family of Alice Parsons

Words cannot express our gratitude to all of you for all your expressions of love and caring during the loss of our beloved mother. For all the different ways you showed your concern we will be eternally grateful. It does, indeed, make our sorrow easier to bear.

Group Looking for 'Orphan Train' Riders

A search is presently underway for "Orphan Train" riders now living in Texas, or who were brought to Texas as children.

Between 1854 and 1929, over 150,000 orphaned, abandoned and homeless children were taken out of the institutions of New York City and transported by trains to rural America.

At stops along the way, the children were lined up on railway station platforms, at churches, schools, and opera houses for local residents to look them over and perhaps choose a child to take into their homes.

Those not chosen were loaded back on the train, traveling to the next stop where the entire procedure was repeated. Many brothers and sisters became separated for the rest of their lives.

This became known as the "placing-out" system and the trains were called "Orphan Trains."

Texas had received 1,527 of these children by 1910, according to a New York Children's Aid Society report.

"Baby Trains" or "Mercy Trains" carried infants up to the age of three years old from the New York Foundling Hospitals to prearranged foster homes. A numbered cloth tag was sewn onto the infants underclothing and a corresponding number given to the potential new parents. When the train arrived, folks holding a number card would board the train and find the child.

When federal child welfare reform laws were enacted in 1929, the "Orphan Trains" were stopped forever.

The Orphan Train Heritage Society of America, Inc. (OTHS) is a nationwide clearinghouse for information concerning the history of the placing-out programs from 1854 to 1929.

If you have any information to share about the Orphan Train riders, or if you would like a free OTHSA newsletter, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to: OTHSA, Rt. 4 Box 565, Springdale, AR 72764.

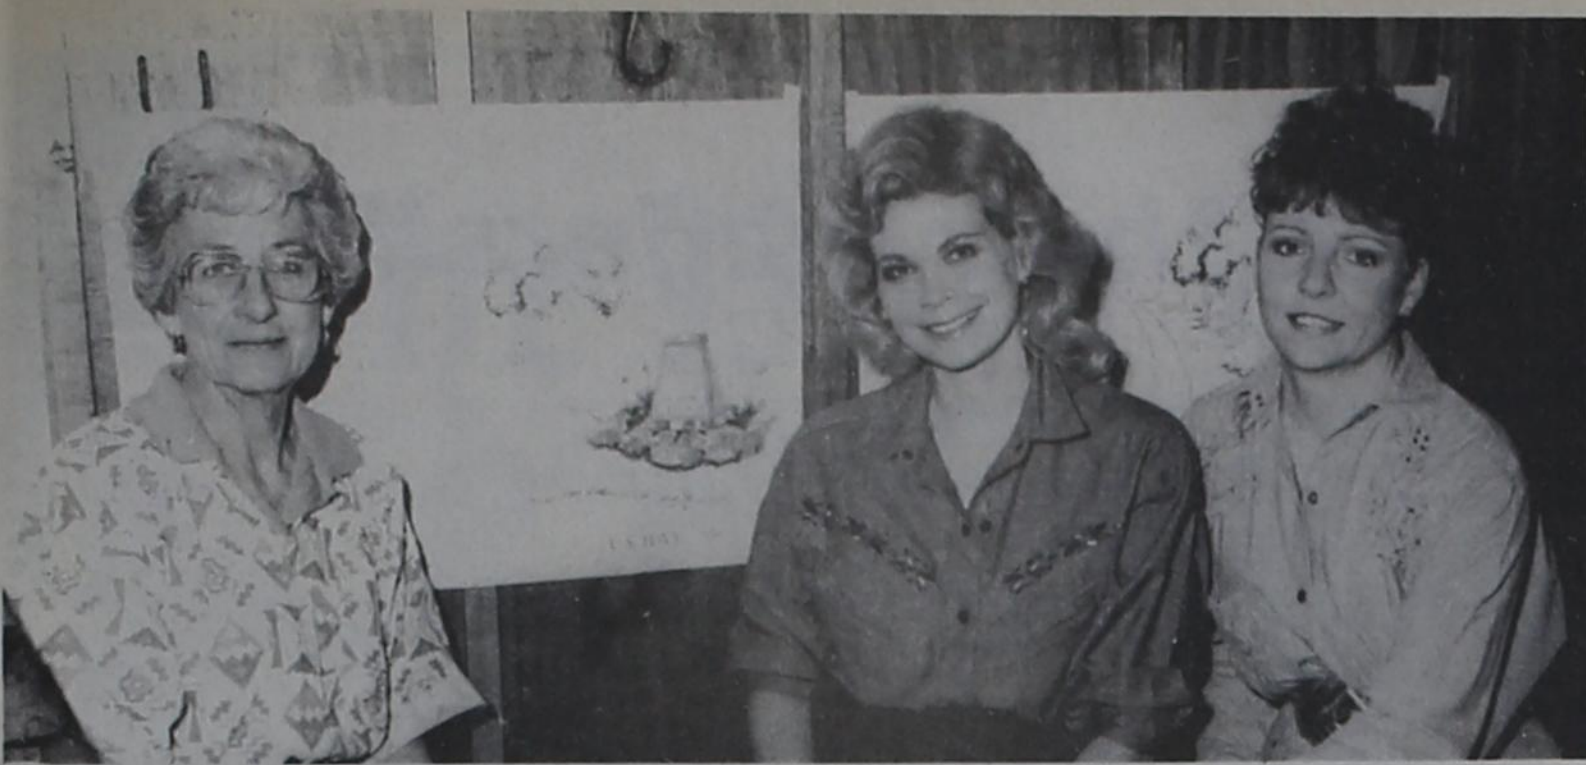

Search For P.O.W. Graves

23rd Street, Lubbock, Texas 79405 or to Special Projects Officer, James M. Bloxom, P.O. Box 636, Frankston, Texas, 75763.

The P.O.W. name, gravesite and any other personal information will be made a part of a permanent record and kept in the Prisoner of War Museum at Andersonville, Georgia. This museum is maintained by the United States Department of Interior.

NCC Seeking Fuel Tax Change

The National Cotton Council is among 16 agricultural groups working to overturn provision in budget reconciliation measure that requires farmers to pay federal excise tax of 15 cents per gallon when they purchase diesel fuel at the wholesale level, and then apply for refunds on quarterly or annual basis.

Council delegates at their annual meeting last week adopted a resolution urging the provision's repeal, and advocating that any revenues lost through repeal not be recaptured through imposing new taxes on the agricultural sector but through enforcing tax regulations more strictly.

Farm organizations contend it makes no sense to require farmers to pay the tax and then turn around and file for a refund or tax credit. They also argue that paying the tax up front would result in higher interest costs and cash flow problems for farmers.

The new tax provision is due to take effect April 1. Meanwhile, however, six bills with a total of 78 co-sponsors has been introduced in the House to repeal the tax provision, and one with 20 co-sponsors has been introduced in the Senate. All would continue the current arrangement that allows farmers to purchase diesel fuel tax-free for off-road use. The House Ways and Means Committee is expected to begin work on one of the bills just before Easter.

The first fire fighting organization in America was started in Philadelphia.

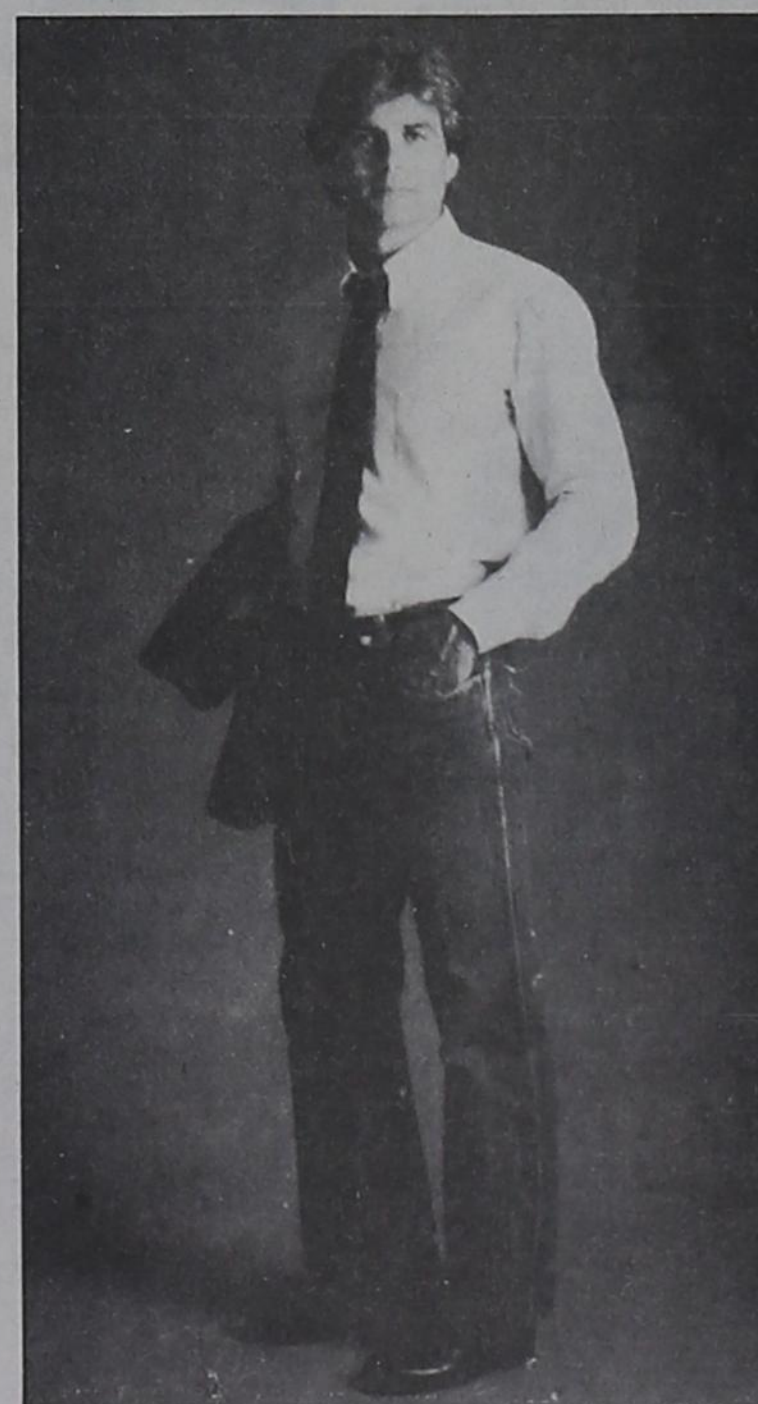

Oil Production at Market Demand

The Railroad Commission has continued the Texas oil production rate for April 1988 at 100 percent or market demand.

Chairman James E. (Jim) Nugent and Commissioners Kent Hance and John Sharp continued the top production allowable after reviewing oil companies' nominations to buy a total of 2,005,882 barrels of Texas oil per day. The April nomination total, a decrease of 9,448 barrels daily when compared to March 1988 purchaser nominations, indicates market demand. April 1987 nominations totaled 2,010,913 barrels daily.

The Commission first went to the ceiling level for oil production in April 1972. It applies to all fields in the state except those that are assigned lower legal rates of production so that reservoir pressures will not be depleted before the maximum amount of oil has been recovered.
