Winners of jackpot kept it quiet for three weeks, even from kids

By ALEX DOMINGUEZ
Associated Press Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — George and Celia Poteet said they waited three weeks before claiming their $31.5 million Big Game jackpot so their two sons could finish the school year without distraction.

The couple finally came forward Tuesday, the day after telling their sons on the last day of school.

"It was very hard," said Mrs. Poteet, 41. "We didn't tell anyone except for a couple of people," including Mrs. Poteet's mother and an accountant, her husband said.

The Poteets, of Millersville, admit the windfall was a distraction to their teen-age boys, who had noticed their parents' unusual behavior.

Mrs. Poteet quit her job as an X-ray technician at the Orthopedic and Sports Medicine Center in Annapolis two weeks ago. Her husband, 48, said he hasn't decided whether to stick with his job as a computer analyst for the Department of Defense.

"It's kind of weird. You spend your whole life working and then one day, you don't have to work anymore," he said. "It's a tough thing to deal with."

Poteet bought $3 worth of lottery tickets. He chose the cash option, making the winning ticket worth $31.5 million before taxes, lottery officials said.

The Poteets said they haven't bought any expensive items since they learned they won and don't have any plans yet on how they will spend the money. For now, they said, their lives are quite full with church activities, soccer, baseball and Boy Scouts.

"Even if we do build our dream house," Mrs. Poteet said, "it will be in Anne Arundel County."

The Big Game is played in seven states: Massachusetts, Georgia, Illinois, Maryland, Michigan, Virginia and New Jersey.

Man who lined up, shot children gets death penalty

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —

A man was sentenced to death for lining up his three sons and the boys' half sister and shooting them after he had told them they were going Christmas shopping.

Daryl Holton, 36, was found guilty Monday of four counts of first-degree murder.

During the sentencing phase of the trial that immediately followed the verdict Tuesday, Holton refused to let anyone defend him. Jurors deliberated about two hours before deciding for the death penalty.

"This might have been the way Mr. Holton decided to take his own life," defense attorney John Appman said.

The children thought they were going shopping when Holton picked them up on Nov. 30, 1997. Instead, they stopped by the auto body shop where he worked.

At the shop, 4-year-old Kayla, ex-wife Crystle Holton's daughter by another man, wrote a letter asking Santa Claus to bring her a "Tickle Me Elmo" doll for Christmas.

Then, police said, Holton shot each child from the back with a Russian-made, semiautomatic assault weapon. The bodies of Kayla; Steven, 12; Eric, 6; and Brent, 10, were found stacked on top of one another, underneath a tarp.

Holton went looking for his former wife and her boyfriend but could not find them, police said, then turned himself in.

During the trial, his lawyer argued that Holton was a caring father but severely depressed at the time of the slayings. Officers said he told them he was afraid he would never gain custody of the children.

STATEWIDE — Scattered showers and thunderstorms moved through North and East Texas today in advance of another cool front that forecasters expected to generate more precipitation.

Temperatures behind the front in the Texas Panhandle were in the 50s. Fog developed in parts of the south and west.

A storm south of Palestine dumped several inches of rain in only a couple of hours.

Early-morning readings reached the 70s in North Texas and 60s in the west, with clear skies. It was 77 at Brownsville and 65 at Junction.

McAllen had Tuesday's high of 93 degrees.

Showers and thunderstorms also developed along the coast near Victoria and north near Crockett and Palestine.

Houston's Intercontinental Airport received 1.92 inches of rain.

High temperatures through Thursday were expected to reach the mid to upper 90s in the deep south and upper 80s to low 90s farther north in the Hill Country and the upper Texas coast.

Remains of the cool front. Now a surface trough, and continued upper-level atmospheric conditions will promote one more day of scattered showers and thunderstorms, with some storms severe.

Hutchinson County Museum to hold annual quilt show

BORGER — The 18th Annual Quilt Show at the Hutchinson County Museum will kick off July 1 and run through the entire month. This year's show will feature guest speakers, a new category of "first" quilts as well as accessories, a successful category last year. Museum quilts from the Civil War and Colonial times will be a highlight exhibit during the month-long show. The annual show has been a popular arena for regional quilters and features many different types of quilts and quilting techniques. Last year 84 quilts were displayed. The deadline for entering this year's show is 5 p.m., June 23.

"We believe the museum's quilt show is the longest running annual quilt show in the state and we're very proud of that fact," said Museum Director Ed Benz. "Each year we add something new and we always welcome the area's quilting enthusiasts. Such a collection of talent displayed together during the quilt show is definitely worth seeing and highly inspiring. We encourage everyone to make plans to visit the museum during the month of July."

Quilts entered in the competition are judged in one of the following categories: Applique, handquilted, Pieced, hand-quilted; and Mixed Media I and Mixed Media II. Cash prizes for the first place winners will be awarded during a special awards presentation. On July 11, ribbons will be awarded for the first, second and third place winners in each category and certificates will be presented to all entrants. Entries are limited to three quilts per person.

The museum will host a two-part lecture series July 11 and 18. Each of these programs will be on Sunday afternoon and will last about an hour. Speakers this year are: Emily Nipp from Amarillo and Jean McCauley from Pampa.

The heirloom "Family Wheel Quilt," completed by the Hutchinson County Museum Quilters, will be on display once again. The special quilt features the names of many local families and groups who donated toward the completion of the museum fundraiser. Nearly five years in the making, the finished product is quite unique. The late Dorothy Dewey, long-time leader of the Museum Quilters, originated the project, which raised $2,365 for the museum.

For an entry form and the quilt show guidelines, contact Shelley Cross, registrar, at (806) 273-0130. There is no entry fee. The museum is open 9-5 p.m. Monday-Friday; from 11 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Saturday; and 2-4 p.m. Sunday.

Gaming shouldn't be feds worry

■ The Feds have no business in the gaming business. For the majority of patrons at casinos, dog tracks and other gambling enterprises across the nation, games of chance are harmless recreation. For an unfortunate minority, that recreation leads to an addiction.

To the majority, we say good luck; to the minority, we can only urge you to come to your senses, think of your families, get counseling and, if nothing else, remember the adage that a fool and his money are soon parted.

In any event, whether gambling-related pathologies involve gamblers themselves or the presumed side-effects of casinos upon surrounding communities, the majority of states where gambling now is present have more than ample regulatory oversight to deal with that industry.

So, why did Congress bother impaneling a National Gambling Impact Study Commission? We're not too sure, but we are certain the effort is misplaced.

The commission members — both those from the industry itself as well as gambling critics, like Focus on the Family's James Dobson — are of course sincere in their effort to counter the pastime's ill effects on society.

Yet the federal government has no business in any of that and certainly shouldn't try to meddle in it over and above the myriad state and local regulations in effect.

Colorado, for example, has a very exacting set of casino-gaming regulations, authorized by a 1990 statewide vote approving limited-stakes casino gambling (black jack, poker and slot machines) in three historic mining towns including Cripple Creek. Those rules, alongside substantial excise taxes — some of which by law pay for the historic preservation of those three towns — are enforced by the Colorado Division of Gaming. That's notwithstanding the significant degree of state regulation around for decades to oversee betting on horse and dog racing, by way of the Colorado Division of Racing Events.

The Gaming Division's web site offers a good measure of advice on addicted gamblers, by the way.

Now consider that for all its regulation, Colorado pales next to the likes of Nevada and New Jersey, where state regulators virtually micromanage their sizable gaming industries with far larger bureaucracies.

A lot of that regulation is intended to police gambling so it stays out of the clutches of criminals, as well as to assess the hefty taxes those gambling operations must fork over. As for the study commission's concern about compulsive gambling, there's probably little that any degree of government oversight can do about that. Except, of course, to restrict or ban gambling outright, which just drives it, and most compulsive gamblers, underground.

While the study commission's findings are non-binding — they are just recommendations to Congress — some of those recommendations themselves are troubling insofar as they seem to call for more government intrusion. Banning Internet gambling, for example. Or calling on states to provide more funding for treatment of problem gamblers — as if that's taxpayers' duty. There's also a proposal to halt the expansion of gambling pending further study, and a call on all states to raise their legal gambling age to 21 (in Colorado it already is).

In principle it shouldn't be up to government at any level to impose those notions. Certainly, it shouldn't be up to the federal government, which nowhere in this nation's founding document is designated pit boss-at-large. That's why it makes no sense for Congress even to waste time studying gambling. Doesn't Congress have enough to do?

Commission director Timothy Kelly says he hopes to raise public consciousness. Only gambling is at least as old as the biblical references to it. There's not much government can tell us that we don't already know.

Choir members unsung heroes

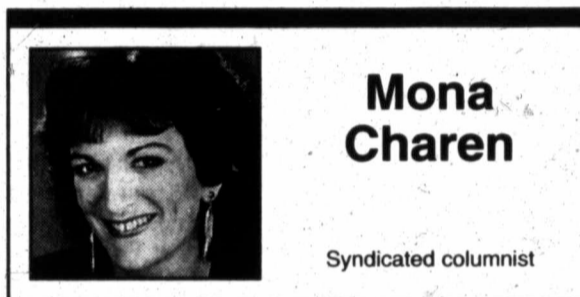

Quick: What do you know about the plane crash in Little Rock, Ark.? You probably know that the plane landed in the midst of a severe thunderstorm and that it skidded off the runway and crashed. You may also know that the pilot and nine passengers lost their lives.

What you probably don't know, because it was hardly reported, is the most important part of the story: Little Rock was the scene of quite inspiring heroism, and some of the principal heroes were professing Christians.

We all ponder from time to time how we would react in an emergency. Each of us hopes we would prove altruistic, brave and heroic. But if we are honest, we admit that we can't be certain.

After Flight 1420 crashed into a light pole and burst into flames, passengers described the situation as chaos. Smoke filled the fuselage, and a fire ball engulfed the rear of the aircraft. Lucky for the passengers, there were numerous heroes aboard that flight — a flight attendant who helped passengers to safety despite serious injuries of her own; a first-class passenger who got free of the aircraft in the immediate aftermath but then returned to help others; and more.

But a significant percentage of the heroes on Flight 1420 were members of the Ouachita Baptist University choir, which was just returning from a European tour. The choir had entertained German schoolchildren and Kosovo refugees in Austria, and was planning to tour China until the bombing of the Chinese embassy in Belgrade forced the cancellation of that leg of the trip.

According to the Memphis Commercial Appeal, Barrett Baber, a member of the choir, saw a flight attendant struggling to open one of the emergency exits. Even Baber, at 6 feet 4 inches tall and 225 pounds, couldn't budge the door. With the acrid air stinging their lungs and panic beginning to afflict some passengers, Barrett noticed a 1-foot hole that the crash had opened above the emergency door. He lifted the flight attendant and several passengers through the gap and then heard pleas for help from fellow choir members in the next seat. Before he could help them, he was overcome by smoke and dove out of the gap himself, hoping to kick open the emergency exit from the outside. What he couldn't have known is that the door would be out of reach when he landed outside in the mire near the Arkansas River.

Another choir member, senior Luke Hollingsworth, escaped through a rip in the tail section and then began pulling others out after him. He returned to the plane to assist the wounded. In the cockpit, he found the pilot dead but was able to get help for the co-pilot, whose legs were severely injured (one was broken). Hollingsworth then waded through the water, carrying on his shoulders a woman whose pelvis was broken. Before leaving her in the triage area that rescue workers had established, he gave her his shirt. "It was all I had," he said simply.

Tad Hardin, another choir member, told the Chicago Tribune that he was inspired to help others by seeing choir director Charles Fuller, whose 14-year-old daughter was severely burned in the crash, guiding strangers to safety after seeing to his own family.

The situation outside the plane was almost as horrific as that inside. The storm was sending sheets of rain and mothball-sized hail down amid lightning bolts and deafening thunder. Members of the choir covered the wounded with their own bodies to protect them from the hail. Dr. Marvin Leibovich recalled that when he arrived on the scene, he was "amazed at the calmness and stoicism that I witnessed." One of the Christian singers said he thought of Psalm 91 during the worst of it and found strength: "Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night."

It's a bit odd, isn't it, that the press have made little of this story? Suppose these heroes had been members of the Women's National Basketball Association or any other media-beloved group (you supply the candidates). Would this example of man's humanity toward man have been so overlooked?

Today in history

By The Associated Press
 Today is Wednesday, June 16, the 167th day of 1999. There are 198 days left in the year.
 Today's Highlight in History:

On June 16, 1963, the world's first female space traveler, Valentina Tereshkova, was launched into orbit by the Soviet Union.

On this date:
 In 1567, Mary, Queen of Scots, was imprisoned in Lochleven Castle in Scotland.

In 1858, in a speech in Springfield, Ill., Senate candidate Abraham Lincoln said the slavery issue had to be resolved, declaring, "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

In 1897, the government signed a treaty of annexation with Hawaii.

In 1903, Ford Motor Co. was incorporated.

In 1933, the National Industrial Recovery Act became law. (It was later struck down by the Supreme Court.)

In 1955, Pope Pius XII excommunicated Argentine President Juan Domingo Peron — a ban that was lifted eight years later.

In 1961, Soviet ballet dancer Rudolf Nureyev defected to the West while his troupe was in Paris.

In 1970, Kenneth A. Gibson of Newark, N.J., became the first black to win a mayoral election in a major Northeast city.

In 1977, Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev was named president, becoming the first person to hold both posts simultaneously.

In 1978, President Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos exchanged the instruments of ratification for the Panama Canal treaties.

Ten years ago: Hungarians paid homage to former premier Imre

Nagy and four associates executed for leading the anti-Soviet revolt of 1956.

Five years ago: Former President Jimmy Carter, on a private visit to North Korea, reported the Communist nation's leaders were eager to resume talks with the United States on resolving disputes about Pyongyang's nuclear program and improving relations.

One year ago: Massachusetts' highest court cleared the way for Louise Woodward to return home to England, upholding a judge's ruling that freed the au pair convicted of killing a baby.

Things I don't need to worry about ...

The Washington Beltway is buzzing about Hillary Clinton's possible run for a U.S. Senate seat in New York. I get asked about it. Will she or won't she?

I don't know. And, not being a resident of New York, I don't care. If she does run, voters in New York will decide if they want her representing their state. I don't care which way they decide.

The fate of the republic will not be tipped either by her election or by her defeat. She is an intelligent woman, though she has strange tastes in husbands. She couldn't be any worse than some who are already in the Senate.

But I doubt she would be effective. She is inexperienced.

Mrs. Clinton is just Bill Clinton's wife. That's all she has ever been, besides a small-town lawyer. First lady is a title, not an office. She's just Bill's gal, the legal one anyway, and Chelsea's mom. Nothing more.

What's happened is that we have national television. Network suits have discovered that talk shows and news shows are a lot cheaper than creative entertainment. Since the talk-show folks have to talk to keep their jobs, they've been forced to take local matters and act as if they were national matters. But local matters aren't really national matters.

The election of a state's senator is a state matter, not a national matter. As a Floridian, I have no special knowledge of New York politics and no desire to acquire any. My interest in New York consists entirely of occasionally enjoying, as a tourist, the beauty of upstate New York. It's a truly lovely place. Nor do I have the right to meddle in New York's affairs.

Charley Reese

Syndicated columnist

Americans ought not to fall into the trap of thinking that anything and everything which happens in the United States is a national matter that should concern them. Just because television is desperate to fill air time, and journalists in Washington become obsessed by politics (it's the only business in that city), the rest of us need not be.

Sometimes, for the sake of your mental health and peace of mind, you should make a list of 14 Things I Don't Need to Worry About. Anything you have no control over should go on the list. Anything that does not directly affect you and your family should go on the list. Elections in other states are surely events you can add to your list.

The best hope of reform is for all of us to act locally and think locally. The collective result of Americans effectively managing their local affairs would amount to a national blessing. If every family is sound, if every local town or city is wisely governed, if every state is properly governed, then the nation will prosper. Like a brick wall, a nation has to be built from the ground up. Doing it from the top down is impossible.

People who try to get you to think globally or to fixate on issues and people far away from you are really just littering your mind and weakening your effectiveness. The real significance of the Information Age is that it is imperative to edit, select and narrow down the information. There is more information available than anyone can assimilate or use. It overloads the brain's circuits, and they short out, leaving a person limply apathetic.

St. Paul advised the people at the church in Philippi to think on those things that are true, honest, just, pure, lovely and of good report. Not bad advice for the Information Age, which offers a flood of things which are the opposite of those he listed.

Neither government nor media can solve the problems of postmodern America. People will have to do it themselves, find their own answers, simplify their own lives. That's much more important than worrying about Mrs. Clinton's political ambitions.

Woman in a Family Way Should Go Outside for Care

DEAR ABBY: You advised "Uncomfortable," the young woman whose husband and in-laws want her to use her father-in-law as an obstetrician, to "speak her mind and make no apologies for her feelings." She needs more specific advice, or she'll wind up in endless stressful arguments.

She should find her own OB, make her own appointments, and inform the new doctor that her father-in-law is not to be given any information about her.

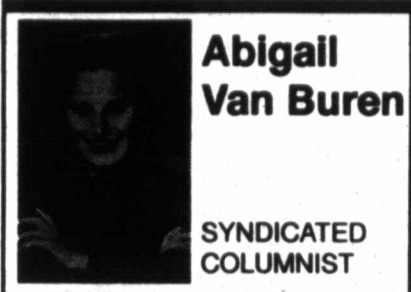

She should never argue with her in-laws. Instead, she should repeat the following: "Thank you for your concern for my health. I'm very happy with my choice of caregiver." This shouldn't lead to an argument or give offense.

Dealing with her husband may be harder. She may owe him an explanation (but not an apology). If he insists on arguing, she should repeat, "No, I've made my decision." The broken-record technique is very effective. She should be prepared for her husband to tell his dad anything he knows about her condition, so she should tell him nothing she doesn't want blabbed around.

Finally, she should make a list for her doctor of exactly who is allowed to be present at the birth. She clearly cannot count on her wimp of a husband to be an effective gatekeeper.

are speaking from personal experience. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: "Uncomfortable's" husband is immature and selfish. He needs to grow up and consider his wife's feelings. And the physician in question is a controlling father-in-law who should show some professional decency, bow out, and recommend obstetricians outside his practice. Reading between the lines, the young woman has more to worry about than what is apparent in her letter.

LOS ANGELES R.N.

DEAR L.A.R.N.: I agree. Now let's hear it from a fellow physician:

DEAR ABBY: As an anesthesiologist, I make a point of not having a medical relationship with friends and family. Besides being a physician, I'm a person with feelings and emotions, and, no matter how well-trained I could be, my judgment would be distorted and my decision subjective and biased. It's definitely not wise for "Uncomfortable" to be a patient of her in-law, and the doctor should know this. SYMPATHETIC M.D.

DEAR SYMPATHETIC: If all else fails, perhaps the young woman can clip your letter and tell her father-in-law she has a "doctor's excuse." Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Let me tell you what worked for me: the simple phrase, "I have decided to use all women doctors from now on." The doctors I have chosen have all shared the experiences of childbirth, PMS and menopause. I even have a woman dentist!

BEEN THERE IN KNOXVILLE, TENN.

DEAR BEEN THERE: That's an excellent alternative. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: "Uncomfortable" should choose a midwife as her care provider. Midwives are recognized throughout the world as the most appropriate care providers for women, and most women could benefit from the expert care, education and family-centered support we offer. We give our clients a high level of personal satisfaction, and our safety statistics are excellent.

BY JACQUELINE BIGAR

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19) *** Avoid unduly pressuring yourself. Allow the kid in you to come out. The unexpected occurs with a friend. You can either be bewildered or you can decide to laugh. Let fun become a larger part of your life. Encourage another who needs you as a supporter. Tonight: Start the weekend early.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) *** Don't let a bad mood mess up your day. Consider the adverse effect that negativity has on you and on a domestic situation. You're not only hard on yourself, you're also hard on another. Loosen up some. Give others the space which you would like. Bosses are unpredictable. Tonight: Order in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) *** Relax and don't be uptight about what is going on. News helps you gain another perspective. Make calls and spread good news. Don't cast an unfavorable light on a discussion. Stay optimistic. Tonight: Try a new restaurant or an exotic type of cuisine.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) *** Be more aware of the costs of your goals. Listen carefully to a friend's feedback. Handle a business partnership carefully. Another could be deceptive or could inadvertently add confusion to the mix. Keep money matters aboveboard and clear. Tonight: Treat yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) *** Maintain a sense of humor while uproar reigns. Stay centered. Others sometimes act like they would like to throw you off. A boss or higher-up is demanding. Stay connected, don't push, know your liabilities. Popularity soars as long as you aren't controlling. Tonight: Where the party is.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) *** Don't stand on ceremony with a co-worker. You could be somewhat exhausted. Take better care of yourself; take a walk during lunch or arrange to leave the office early. Your sense of humor comes out when dealing with others. Pace yourself. Tonight: Take a break from it all!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) *** Don't lose your sense of direction. Stay in touch with a friend about plans. A loved one or a child creates an uproar. Juggling priorities may be necessary. A partner or business associate tests your limits. Know what you want, then zoom in and get it! Tonight: Go for the pot of gold over the rainbow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) *** Another is simply negative; no matter what you do, you have a difficult time turning a problem around. Family members throw tantrums while pressure intensifies at work. You feel challenged by what goes on. A partner will hold you back if you let him. Don't! Tonight: Cocoon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) *** Take an overview, refuse to get locked into the immediate. Changes come where you least expect. Listen carefully to a child or loved one, then help him get past a knee-jerk reaction. Work is unusually demanding. If you can, opt to make it an early day. Tonight: Break out of a rut.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) *** One-to-one discussion is imperative to get a money matter straightened out. Realize your limits. Work with another to resolve a problem. Refuse to risk; don't let another's attitude influence you at all. Be your own person. Tonight: Cut to the chase; don't meander in a conversation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) *** Others react to you — are you surprised? Maintain a sense of humor. Refuse to be negative. A personal or domestic matter weighs you down. Think before you leap into this kettle of fish! Detach before you make a major decision. Tonight: Strut your stuff!

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) *** Smile and stay poised. You don't need to react to what you are seeing. Conversations could be a bit touchy and stymied. However, you can communicate a lot through your actions. Don't take another's attitude personally. Tonight: Off to the gym!

PAMPA — J & J Motor Co. defeated Wastewater 24-9 in Rookie League action last week.

J & J's leading hitters were John Luke Covalt, Hayden Skinner, Heath Skinner, Ryan Jimenez and Cade Wilson.

Wastewater's leading hitters were Dustin Forsyth, Tyler Kimbley, Jon McAnear, Seth Fry, and Haley Smith.

In an earlier game, J & J defeated Frank's 14-6.

J & J's leading hitters were John Luke Covalt, Daniel Smith and Tucker Brown. Covalt had two hits in three times at bat.

For Frank's, Jeffrey Arnold had two doubles and a single and Thomas Frazer had two singles and a double.

In another game, Thompson won over Frank's 16-13.

Mitchell Killgo and Geraldo Dominguez were the leading hitters for Thompson.

Gage Carruth and Braden Hunt were the leading hitters for Frank's.

FOOTBALL

AUSTIN (AP) — The possibility of allowing Texas high schools to participate in a national football championship will be studied by University Interscholastic League staff.

The UIL Legislative Council Standing Committee on Athletics on Tuesday instructed the league's staff to look at the idea.

Current UIL rules don't allow schools to engage in postseason games, other than regular interdistrict playoffs scheduled by the league.

Under a proposal presented by representatives of Fox Sports Net, a national championship game would take place Dec. 23, 2000.

In other action, the committee voted to:

— Survey 1A schools regarding an additional conference in softball. Such schools now participate in conference 2A.

— Support creation of Texas State Sports Week Oct. 11-17.

MIAMI (AP) — Dan Marino, who holds several NFL passing records, has signed a two-year contract extension with the Miami Dolphins that goes through the 2001 season.

Financial terms weren't disclosed, but the deal, announced today, is believed to include a signing bonus of about $6.4 million. The contract was designed primarily to create about $2 million in salary-cap space for the Dolphins.

"I believe that if we are to have success again this year, Dan will be a big part of that," Dolphins coach Jimmy Johnson said. "He performed extremely well last season, and I know he will do everything he can to have an even better year in 1999."

Johnson said in January that the Dolphins planned to extend Marino's contract. Marino said in April that he expected to sign the deal shortly.

Celanese captures 11-12 Bambino win

PAMPA — Celanese defeated Rotary 16-7 in an 11-12 year-old Optimist Major Bambino League game last weekend.

Jake Craig, the leadoff batter for Celanese, started the game with an over the fence home run. It was the only hit and run for Celanese the first inning.

Rotary's Steven Smith was safe at first when Celanese pitcher Ricky Gattis opted to pick off Tyler Klein going to third. Next up for Rotary, Jared Mohler hit a triple to score Smith. Mohler scored on a passed ball. Neither team could get anything going in the second inning.

In the third inning with the bases loaded, Daniel Resendiz tripled for Celanese to clear the bases.

The next inning, home run king Seth Foster had another over the fence homer for Celanese. Rotary had intentionally walked Foster his first two times at bat.

Ben Ponce had a single and scored when Resendiz doubled.

With Celanese ahead 8-0, Rotary started making a comeback with two outs in the fourth. Three walks and three errors results in seven runs for Rotary.

Dylan Henley for Celanese hit a triple in the fifth inning to knock in a run and he was able to score on a passed ball. Rotary walked four batters to score another run. With the bases loaded, Michael Flores knocked in all three runs with a double.

In the bottom of the fifth, Seth Foster struck out two and threw Klein out going to first. Dylan Henley's single was the only hit for Celanese in the sixth. Once again, Rotary intentionally walked Foster, who scored on a steal.

Rotary was unable to score any more runs.

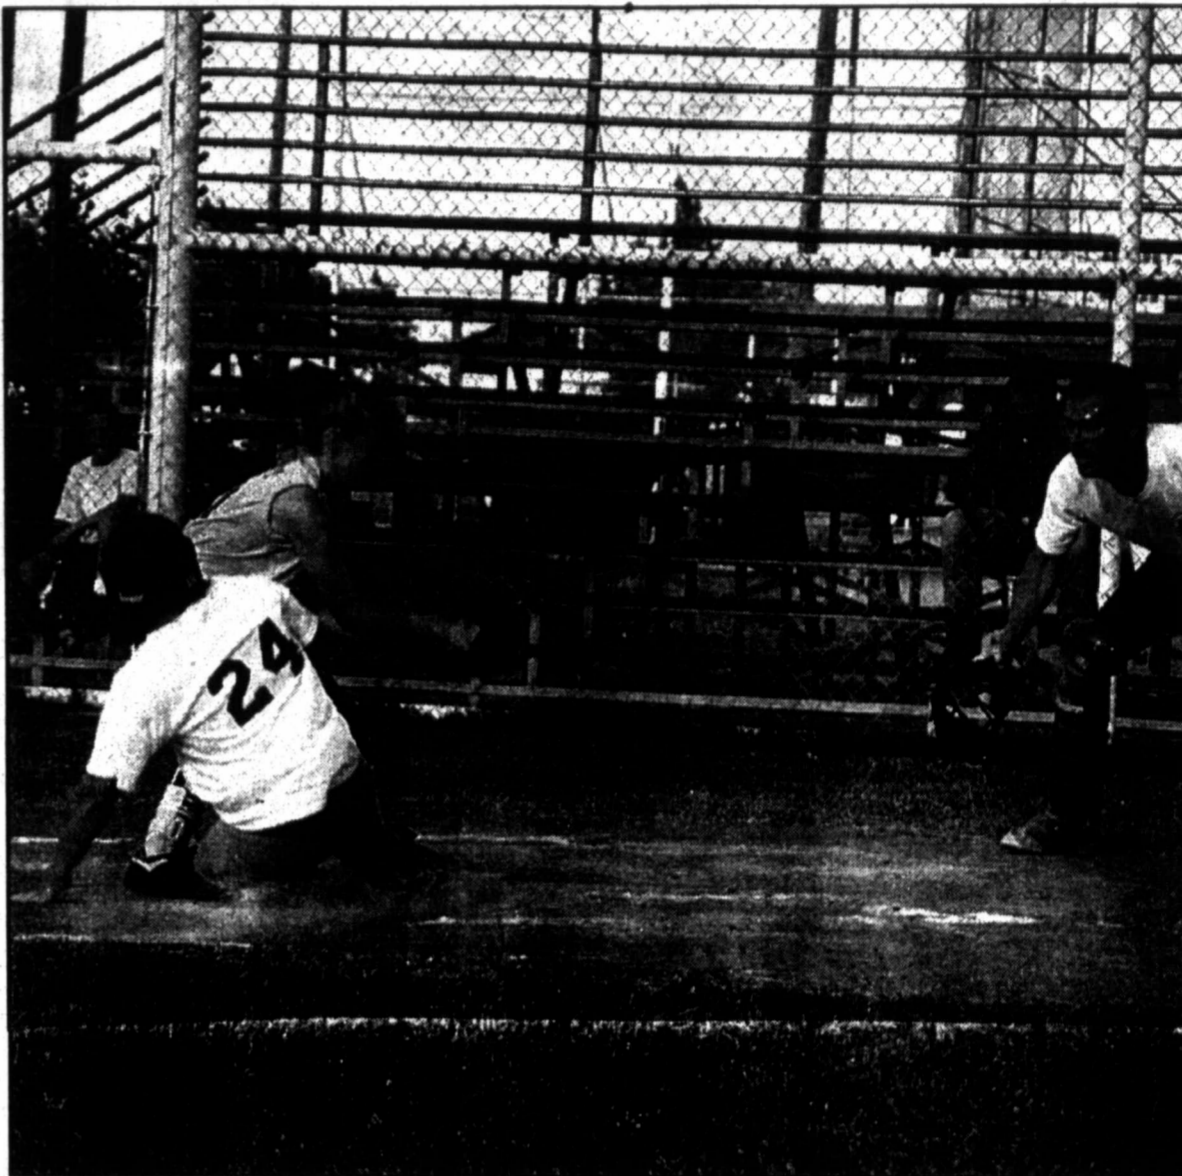

Celanese finished with seven hits and had three errors while Rotary had one hit and one error.

Ricky Gattis pitched the first two innings for Celanese. He walked three, struck out five and allowed one hit. Jake Craig pitched the third inning and walked two, struck out one and allowed no hits. Seth Foster finished up the game with five walks, five strikeouts and allowed no hits.

Stephen Smith pitched the fourth inning, allowing two hits and walking four.

Tyler Klein pitched the fifth, walking four, striking out one and allowing two hits. Jacob Ledbetter finished for Rotary and walked one, struck out one and allowed one hit.

Safe at home

Suntrol's Stephanie Clark is safe at home as Pampa Three pitcher Stacey Johnson is late making the tag in girls' softball action at Optimist Park.

Suntrol splits softball twinbill with Dumas

PAMPA — Pampa's Suntrol downed Dumas Gray 12-2 in an interleague softball game last weekend at Optimist Park.

Chelsey Davis picked up the mound win, striking out five, issuing just one base on balls and scattering four hits, all singles.

At the plate, Suntrol's leadoff hitter in the first, Casey Fisher, reached on a bunt and later scored along with Davis to take a 2-1 lead into the second.

Suntrol was led at the plate by Stephanie Clark's single and a home run. Clark also hit a screamer right at the Dumas second baseman for an out in the third.

Others with hits included Tamra Henthorne with two singles, Shalyn Garner, Davis, Hollie Gattis, Teryn Stowers and Cassie Gibson, one single each. Tonya Jewett's RBI double with Suntrol leading 11-2 in the bottom of the fifth scored Robin Reidle and ended the run-ruled shortened contest.

Reidle made a number of outstanding defensive plays, including a double play in which she fielded a well-hit ball, stepped on third for an out and fired the ball to second for the third out of the inning in the top of the fourth.

In the second game of the day, Suntrol dropped a 13-7 decision to Dumas Orange.

Suntrol jumped out to a 5-2 lead until the top of the fifth when Dumas plated four runs on just two hits. Dumas never relinquished the lead.

Suntrol had a total of 13 hits compared to just six for Dumas. Hollie Gattis led Suntrol with two doubles and a single. Casey Fisher, Chelsey Davis and Teryn Stowers each had two singles. Cassie Gibson, Shalyn Garner, Tamra Henthorne and Robin Reidle each added a single.

Suntrol's record is 7-3 on the season.

Palmer wins pentathlon title

GREELEY, Colo. — Pampa's Wendell Palmer has won the 1999 USATF National Masters Weight Pentathlon in his age group.

Competing in the 65-69 age group, Palmer scored 4,723 points in the hammer throw, shot put, discus throw, javelin throw and weight throw last weekend at the University of Northern Colorado.

The 67-year-old Palmer threw the hammer 130-8, the shot 42-6; discus 167-3, the javelin 116-0 and the 20-pound weighted handle 45-1.

"I was disappointed in some of those areas, but I was happy to win. It was a tough match," he said.

Bob Ward of Dallas was second in the pentathlon with 4,634 points and Len Olson was third with 4,507. Ward is the former strength coach for the Dallas Cowboys.

Palmer was also a recipient of the Phil Partridge Award, which goes to the top three performing men and women during the pentathlon. Partridge was a pioneer in promoting the weight pentathlon in its earliest days. He directed the first unofficial World's Weight Pentathlon held in Florida in 1983 and also designed an age-factoring format designed exclusively for the weight pentathlon.

Sabres even series

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Dominik Hasek isn't known for words.

Impossible saves, yes. A few dozen of the world's shiniest trophies and medals, yes. An unorthodox style that has him flopping around like a flounder on a dock, yes. Wins, yes.

Words, no.

History won't immortalize Hasek for the challenge he delivered to his struggling teammates before Buffalo's 2-1 win over Dallas in Game 4 of the Stanley Cup finals Tuesday night.

But the Buffalo Sabres will never forget the speech, because it helped them win the biggest game of their lives.

"You guys go and score goals," Hasek told his defense-minded team through the press on Monday. "Don't worry about me. I'll take care of the net."

Weather delays CWS

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Falling temperatures forced Miami coach Jim Morris to break out the cold-weather gear, and the rain made the NCAA push the College World Series schedule back a day.

The clouds rolled in, the rain started at midmorning Tuesday and temperatures that had been in the 70s dropped to the 50s. Two games were postponed until today, and the schedule was shuffled.

It was an ugly day for the top-seeded team from sunny South Florida. Morris said the warm-weather Hurricanes had a miserable intrasquad scrimmage.

"We were freezing," he said.

"We didn't have a very good practice today because we were freezing to death. They were wearing gloves, everything."

Most coaches explored the pitching possibilities offered by an extra day's rest. Morris was frustrated to learn the Hurricanes, who haven't played since Sunday, would have even more time on their hands.

"We're not looking for another day," he said. "We're ready to go out and play."

Texas Youth Commission expresses approval of recent legislation

The Texas Youth Commission is pleased with legislation that has come out of the legislature this year and a local member says it will help maintain area facilities as well.

While the Hemphill County Juvenile Boot Camp won't be adding beds like similar facilities south of Midland, Pampa resident and TYC member Charles Henry said the funding will allow the Canadian facility to maintain its 80 beds. He said there are currently 76 juveniles incarcerated there.

According to TYC figures there are more than 5,600 youths currently in custody across the state and another 2,800 are on supervised parole.

The TYC said legislation sent to the Governor include adding 320 single cell beds to the 352 currently under construction at the McLennan County State Juvenile Correction Facility in Mart (just east of Waco). 100 additional correction officers to work directly with juveniles in 14 state facilities.

There is also a pilot program that will allow some teenage mothers to keep their babies with them and learn parenting skills.

There was also a provision passed that would make escaping from a TYC facility a felony instead of a misdemeanor.

Henry said he felt many people were not aware of the number of youths that are being dealt with by the TYC and that he felt the situation would only get worse over the next few years.
