

British Face New Pressure Over Soblen

LONDON (AP) — The British government came under mounting fire from its home press today as the deadline continued over the fate of Dr. Robert A. Soblen, the runaway spy.

Several newspapers questioned Home Secretary Henry Brooke's insistence that the Israeli El Al Airline fly the psychiatrist back to the United States to serve a life sentence for spying for the Soviet Union.

The home office extended the deadline on its order to El Al to fly Soblen, 41, to New York from last midnight until midnight Friday.

It also gave the airline the option of designating another line to act as its agent in transporting Soblen.

Pan American has said it would be willing to fly Soblen to New York under such an agreement.

But El Al, acting on orders from the Israeli government, insisted that it fly him to Israel.

"We have no intention of approaching another airline to take Dr. Soblen to the United States," a London spokesman for El Al said.

A foreign ministry spokesman in Jerusalem said the 48-hour extension of the deadline had not changed the Israeli government's position on Soblen.

"We are ready to take Soblen back to Israel, if asked by the British to do so, but we will not send him on one of our planes to the United States or anywhere else," the spokesman said.

Soblen jumped $100,000 bail in New York in late June and fled to Israel on a dead brother's passport. Israel expelled him as an illegal immigrant and put him on an El Al plane for New York with a U.S. marshal. The airline landed him in Britain after he slashed a wrist and plunged a knife into his abdomen during the flight.

Two British courts ruled that he had no permission to remain in Britain and could only stay until he was able to travel. The independent Times of London noted that in ordering El Al to take Soblen to the United States the home secretary was ignoring two other courses open to him under the British law dealing with aliens refused permission to land in Britain.

Odessa Girl, 10, Found Unharmed

RUIDOSO, N. M. (AP) — A search party found Leita Kay Barfield, 10, of Odessa, Tex., unharmed Wednesday night. She was lost several hours in rugged canyons near here.

She went into the area northwest of Ruidoso with her brother and another boy, both about 12. The boys blazed a trail with hatchets but lost it as they tried to return.

The three became separated and the boys found their way into town, where the Barfield family is vacationing.

Filibuster Threat Faces Bill Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fresh attacks by Sens. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., and Wayne Morse, D-Ore., raised the threat today of another Senate filibuster against the communications satellite bill.

They spoke out as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee scheduled sessions to consider amendments tightening the bill's foreign policy controls before reporting the measure back to the Senate on Friday for resumption of formal debate.

In a prepared Senate speech that appeared to be a day-early curtain raiser for another round of extended debate interrupted last week by referral of the bill to the committee-Kefauver assailed non-government ownership of the proposed satellite system and said he and colleagues would discuss the measure at some length after the committee reports.

Morse told newsmen opponents will not settle for anything less than a government-owned satellite system operated by communications firms under contract or lease arrangements, with the government.

He said amendments the Foreign Relations Committee might bring out would amount only to "window dressing."

Mr. Hugh L. Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, told the committee Tuesday that Congress must act now to assure U.S. leadership in the creation of a global satellite system since it will take two or three years to get it into operation.

Kefauver said an operational system using either the low-orbit or the high-orbit satellites on which experiments are under way "is still at least a few years away."

The President, he said, "should have the authority to determine which system will be put into operation in the first instance and the authority to require adoption of a high system at some future date even if a low system is adopted first."

The administration is backing a private corporation to own and operate the U.S. part of a global communications system, with half of its voting stock owned by the federal government and half by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and other communications carriers.

Kefauver and his associates contend the language of the bill would permit AT&T to wind up dominating the corporation.

Tax Cut Not Ruled Out; Decision Expected Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today President Kennedy may reach a decision this weekend on whether to ask Congress for an immediate tax cut. But the probability is against any decision until sometime next week.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger put it this way: "That he would not rule out a decision this weekend if enough of the July economic figures become available and Kennedy's advisers have opportunity to study them."

But, Salinger said, some of the economic facts will not be available until next week.

There is an increasing impression in Washington that chances are against any Kennedy request for an immediate tax cut.

Walter W. Heller, the President's chief economic adviser, has taken the view that present economic trends do not "sum up to a crisis" although they are "perplexing and inconclusive cross currents."

But there is a possibility, he added, that the recent slowdown "represents advance warning of an economic decline."

And decline, he told a Senate-Economic Committee on Wednesday, was another way of saying recession.

While pointing out the possibility of a recession, Heller said the economic indicators are mixed.

But there's no doubt, he said, "The U.S. economy is still operating considerably short of its potential."

President Kennedy has said he and his advisers would be weighing these indicators before he decides whether to ask for a quick tax cut to spur the economy or follow through with his plans to ask reductions later which would be effective next Jan. 1.

The White House announced Wednesday that the President is still waiting for all the data to be collected and studied before making his decision.

Earlier in the day it was reported Kennedy told a luncheon meeting of labor union officials that he had given up any idea of asking Congress for an immediate tax reduction.

The White House, however, issued a statement that as yet "no decision has been made."

Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, went through an afternoon of committee questioning without dropping a hint as to what Kennedy's eventual recommendation may be.

But he defended Kennedy against a charge of agonizing indecisiveness made earlier by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

Javits urged that Congress vote a $7.5-billion tax cut before it goes home and criticized the President for what he called a failure of leadership.

Heller declared that Kennedy's original recommendation for a tax slash effective Jan. 1 "shows a decisiveness not seen in many years."

He said the permanent reduction advocated by the President for next year could be carried out in any of several ways.

"What he is saying is he wants to see reductions from top to bottom," Heller said.

The President Wednesday discussed a wide range of economic problems with the 29-man AFL-CIO executive council including George Meany, AFL-CIO president.

From the meeting came the reports Kennedy was "dropping thoughts of an immediate tax cut."

But the assistant White House press secretary, Andrew T. Hatchery, scotched the report, reminding newsmen that Kennedy had said he would withhold a decision until all the July economic indicators were in.

Hatchery said these will not be ready before Friday and "therefore no decision has been made."

Even if all the information is in the White House Friday, Hatchery said, it still may take some time to evaluate it.

Sabin Vaccine To Be Administered Locally

Confirmation has been received that the Snyder Jaycees will sponsor a Sabin Oral vaccine drive here, with the tentative date for administering of the initial dosage having been set for Sept. 9.

Dosage will be medically supervised by members of the medical staff of Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The times and places are still pending, but will be announced at a later date.

The vaccine is to be offered free of charge. Donations will be welcomed, though, to help cover the cost of handling.

All residents are encouraged to take the anti-polio Sabin vaccine regardless of whether they have had the Salk vaccine in the past or not, thus increasing their immunity to the dreaded disease.

The State Department of Health announced Wednesday that 19 new polio cases were reported for the week ending Saturday, upping the total for the year to 131. Of that number, 121 were paralytic. For the same period last year only 46 cases, including 19 paralytic, were reported.

More Heat Records Are Due Today

By The Associated Press

Texas' non-stop heat wave sizes toward still more records Thursday.

Threats of local water shortages developed in some places as summer blasted nearly every section of the state with 100-plus temperatures.

City officials asked Temple residents to cut down on non-essential lawn and garden watering for a couple of days so reservoirs could catch up with heavier than usual consumption. A municipal swimming pool was closed.

The situation was similar at San Antonio's Randolph Air Force Base, where yard watering was limited to alternate days. Authorities said there was no severe shortage but pumps couldn't keep up with water demands.

Also at San Antonio, Lackland Air Force base suspended all out-of-doors training activity in the afternoon. Temperatures have hit 100 degrees or better in San Antonio for 16 straight days and it has been 38 days since any rain fell.

Wednesday's top temperatures were official marks of 106 degrees at Presidio in the Big Bend country and Wichita Falls in Northwest Texas. Galveston on the Gulf Coast recorded a 94 for the lowest maximum.

The mercury hit 103 at Beaumont, eclipsing the city's previous all-time high of 102 in 1917. An unofficial mark of 104 in downtown Houston was a record for the city's business district recorded 105 on July 26, 1954.

Local heat records toppled at numerous other points.

High temperatures elsewhere Wednesday included Laredo 106, Childress, Junction and Lufkin 106, College Station, San Angelo and Waco 104, Austin, El Paso, San Antonio and Victoria 102, Mineral Wells and Wrentham 101 and Lubbock and Dallas 100.

Forecasters promised mostly clear skies and temperatures well above 100 for parts of every area in Texas at least through Friday. Except for a few thunderstorms in the West Texas Big Bend, no rain was expected.

Celebrezze Proposes New Drug Regulations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze has proposed new regulations which would give the government a watchdog role in investigation of new drugs from start to finish, and power to call off the dogs if safety doubts arise.

Acting against the background of public and official concern over the sedative thalidomide, Celebrezze proposed today:

1. That the Food and Drug Administration be put on notice and given the full details about the distribution of drugs to doctors for investigational use on humans.

2. That clinical investigations, or use on humans, be based on adequate preclinical studies to assure safety.

3. That the clinical investigations themselves be properly planned, executed by qualified investigators, and that the Food and Drug Administration be kept fully informed during the progress of the investigations.

4. That if a substantial doubt develops as to the safety of the drug, the Food and Drug Administration and all physician-investigators using the drug be notified immediately. If necessary, the use could be halted by FDA.

Current regulations have no such provisions.

The secretary said interested persons will have 60 days in which to comment on the proposed regulations and final regulations will not be issued until any comments have been considered.

The proposals followed a promise by Celebrezze last week that tighter regulations would come soon.

While the proposals are a direct outgrowth of the furor over thalidomide, Celebrezze did not mention that German-developed drug in his announcement.

The sedative never was cleared by FDA for general use in this country but the American licensee for its manufacture distributed the pills to 3,331 American doctors for possible experimental use before it was associated with the birth of deformed babies in Europe.

There have been no reports of deformity in which the mothers had obtained the drug otherwise from abroad during pregnancy.

Present regulations, however, do not require either an initial notice to FDA of a clinical trial of a new drug or subsequent reports on such use.

Regulations would not require advance government approval of the preclinical investigation, the qualifications of the investigators, or the plan of the clinical investigation. The commissioner of food and drugs, now George P. Larrick, would be authorized, however, to terminate any investigation at use if the new requirements were not being met.

As to investigations of new drugs already under way, the proposed regulations would require prompt reporting to FDA of information showing that the investigation may be safely continued. Failure to submit such a report would automatically terminate the authority under which clinical investigations are now conducted.

The secretary said interested persons will have 60 days in which to comment on the proposed regulations and final regulations will not be issued until any comments have been considered.

GOP Raps Test Ban Proposal

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans have closed ranks for a politically significant attack on President Kennedy's modified proposals for a nuclear test ban.

In language so similar as to indicate a prior meeting of the minds, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York contended Wednesday that Kennedy is retreating toward the Soviet position.

Dirksen and Halleck charged in a news conference that Kennedy had sent U.S. negotiators to Geneva "at hand" with concessions to the Soviets that were promptly rejected. They added that the nation now was witnessing "another example of the Kennedy administration's failure to deal with the Russians."

A few hours later Rockefeller said in a statement the Kennedy administration had "moved steadily toward the Soviet position" in efforts to get a treaty on nuclear weapons testing and controls.

He said that what he called "weakness of the U.S. proposals" made in March 1961 by the Kennedy administration even further seems to be to run a high risk of endangering our national security.

Rockefeller, who might become Kennedy's Republican opponent in 1964 if he wins re-election as governor this year, went on to say the Democratic President appeared to be making decisions without the public's knowing what proposals were being made.

There was no White House comment on the Republicans' remarks.

Kennedy told his news conference last week he and his aides had been attempting to bring the U.S. position in line with new scientific data on the detection of underground tests that only became available in June.

He said the U.S. proposals included on-site inspections of suspicious seismic events and international control of inspection stations. But he declined to go into details.

At Geneva Wednesday, U.S. Delegate Arthur H. Dean was reported to have told the 17-nation disarmament panel that his country is willing to reduce controls posts to 60, less than half the number previously proposed.

Dirksen and Halleck said it was their information that what they called a new set of concessions included "substantial relaxation of our previous demands for inspection."

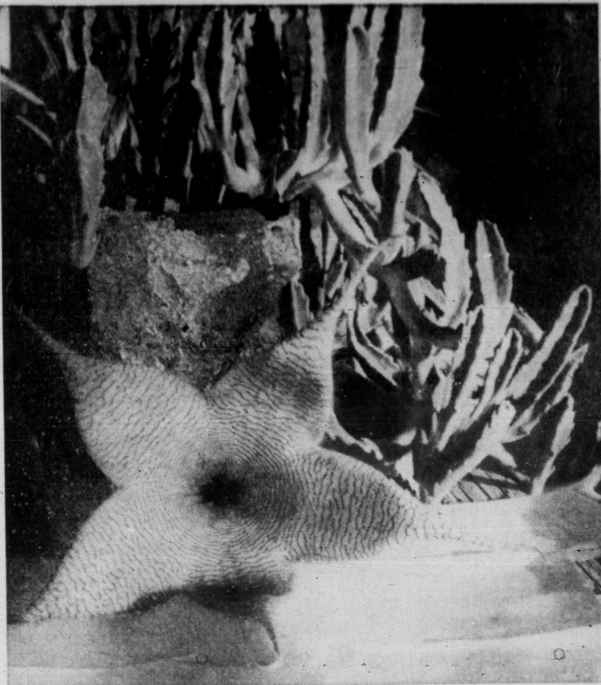

They said the Soviets were demanding and the United States conceding when it ought to be the other way around.

Without saying it in as many words, the two wings of the Republican party seemed to be reviving the old "soft on communism" issue. Rockefeller, the conservative Republican, and Dirksen and Halleck were suggesting that Kennedy was too naive in his dealing with the Soviets.

How much of an issue the nuclear test matter might become in the fall congressional campaign appeared likely to depend on the progress of negotiations.

But if they couldn't agree on such issues as how to handle health care for the elderly-Rockefeller was for a variation of the Kennedy plan and the congressional leaders against it—the Republican seemed outed on the slogan of standing firmly against the Soviets.

AN ODDITY—This flower is becoming quite a conversation piece among friends of Mrs. S. L. Littlepage, 3408 Avenue A. Mrs. Littlepage has had the plant some 15 or 20 years and this is the second bloom that it has ever produced. She said she had had the plant so long she doesn't remember just where she got it and recently had thought it was dying as it had changed color, but instead the plant was preparing to have a flower. Some have told her it is a "Star of Bethlehem" plant, but that doesn't conform with the botanists. We found that the true name is "Stapelia," a genus of African asclepiads, of the milkweed family, with succulent leafless, toothed stems. Like the joints of a cactus. The oddly colored flowers are 10 to 12 inches across and have a purple hairy edging and deep red center. The cream colored background has a purple-veined and opens up like a large star.

Turkey-Q Tops Summer Cookout Fun

August is the perfect month for the cookout planner to try something festive different from the usual summer fare—a "turkey-Q". And a "turkey-Q" is easy on the budget because the price of turkey this month is the lowest of the year. For family and friends it can be Thanksgiving—in August.

—Turkey and stuffing cooked on an outdoor rotisserie.

A "turkey-Q" starts with the stuffing, and packaged herb seasoned stuffing used by itself or with favorite ingredients added will save time and will have all the flavor and goodness of home-made stuffing.

After the stuffing has been prepared according to the package directions, rub the body cavity of the turkey lightly with salt and fill with stuffing. Place a piece of foil over the exposed stuffing and tuck the edges in snugly. Fasten the neck skin back with a skewer. Flatten the wings over the breast and wrap around to hold the wings in place.

To mount on the spit, hold the back of the bird down and push the spit from the tail end of the bird toward the front, so that the point comes out between the branches of the wishbone as near the tips as possible. Insert the books firmly and screw tightly. Check the balance to see that the bird rotates smoothly on the spit.

Then place the spit in the rotisserie and brush the turkey with soft fat or oil. Cook at slightly under 400 degrees (high on some rotisseries), allowing one-half hour per pound cooking time.

To test doneness: breast meat near wing joint should be fork-tender and drumstick meat soft when thickest part is pressed between fingers (which should be covered by a protective glove).

Treatment For Roses

Cut roses that will prematurely can be revived with a plunge into hot water. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association recommends that you make a slanting cut an inch or so from the base of the stem and dip the stem quickly into boiling water, then into cold water. The hot water drives off air bubbles that form in the water conducting system of the stem. This allows cold water to rise and revive the flower.

Hurts Hamper All-Star Grid Preparations

LUBBOCK (AP) — Bumps and bruises showed up plentifully among all-star football players at the Texas Coaching School today but none will miss the big game Saturday night.

There has been an absence of crippling injuries although both squads have worked long and scrimmaged hard.

Five members of the South squad got minor hurts Wednesday afternoon—halfback Gene Walker of Hull-Dalsetra, quarterback Jake Wayne Bell of Baytown, thigh bruise, end Ronnie Landry of Port Arthur, stomach bruise, and Ed Johnson of Galena Park, a leg cramp.

The injury causing most concern was suffered by Buddy Aldredge, Sweetwater end, who twisted a knee. It was found this wasn't kept North star out of the game although he skipped a practice session.

The South held a final scrimmage and will have no more rough work while its injured recover.

The North is through with contact work also, and will use the next two days to polish its offense. The game has pretty well settled into an offense vs. defense proposition with the North holding the balance in advancing the ball, mostly through a running attack featuring fullback Larry Shields of Wichita Falls, and the South throwing up a tough 45 defense.

The Snyder (Texas) Daily News, Thurs., Aug. 9, 1962 5

Between You And Me

By Jerry Jackson

As mentioned in yesterday's editorial potshot, the conversion from round horseshoe to oval pigskin is well nigh upon us.

The question holding the greatest amount of local interest, of course, centers around the Snyder Tigers and their strength potential, as the annual guessing game gets off to an early-August start. Lightness and mobility typify the 1962 edition. Coach Horace Bostick's charges are expected to make the most of hit-and-run tactics—with the overall weight of the team being the least since entrance into District 3-AAA some 10 years ago.

The starting Tiger forward wall is expected to average out at 176 pounds to the man, due primarily to the size of junior Larry Lee, a 230-pounder. Without him, 176 would be nearer the figure. In the backfield, the scales will be tipped at 162 pounds to the man.

The hope is that smallness will be a blessing rather than a detriment, of course. Movement should be freer, and quickness the byword.

Deafening—all-important—intangible—looks to be at a high peak even at this early stage. Without it, no team can be a world-beater. With it, a so-so team can scale the very heights. Instilling and keeping desire at a high level has been given the priority stamp by the Tiger coaching staff.

A total of 17 graders are gone the way of graduation. One other boy—end Danny Colwell—would have been a senior this year, but has moved from the city.

The greatest weakness of the team as a whole looks to be a lack of depth in the line. Additions from the "B" team traditionally tend to beef up sagging positions up front, however, and that avenue of approach is expected to brighten the situation there. Calling up of such reinforcements can be risky due to lack of game experience, but those who receive their "B" team baptism early in the season can often be counted on for reserve muscle during the critical period of district play.

Here's how it looks broken down by position:

End—Tim Hardin and Malcolm Bolger, both experienced hands, return to give this position stability. Junior Billy Stewart will be right there to keep them "honest."

Tackle—William Robinson, with two numerals to his credit, is one of the "old pros" on the squad and will be counted on heavily to perform in his usual outstanding manner. The aforementioned Lee, though lacking to a degree in experience, will pack a wallop. Also, there is junior Jackie Stewart who is now recovered from an injury that kept him sidelined all of last year and seniors Paul Daniel and Jerry McDonnell.

Guard—Lettermen senior Pete Greene is the only hand at this position blessed with varsity experience. Some capable additions up from last year's fine "B" team will be backing him up, though. In the forms of Ronnie Fisk, Terry Williamson, Glenn Banks, and tackle-guard McDonnell.

Center—Two experienced pivots teers return to the fold at this position. Kenny Wellborn is a two-letterman. Pushing him here will be Tommy Shelburne.

Quarterback—No less than four hopefuls will be scrambling for a starting role here. Senior Dalton Walton saw limited varsity duty last year, but will be pressed mightily by juniors Jimmy Wilson and Jim Marcum and sophomore stand-out Leslie Brown for a starting berth. Wilson and Marcum have both been elevated from the "B" team, while Brown sparked as Travis Junior High's man-under.

Halfback—Returns at this post possess considerable experience for the most part. Great things are expected from speed merchant Gail Read, a senior letterman. Compact but hard-hitting Darrell Aldridge is back to bolster the secondary defensive structure. Letterman senior Jimmy Taylor is a reliable runner who can be depended on for that needed three or four yards; he's also a fine pass-catcher. Powerful Eddy Kirby, a junior, will be a big help in the running game, having been switched from fullback. Gale Potter is being looked to for help in the punting department—he's a junior. The most promising new face—Tom Kincaid, a hard-hitting sophomore up from Lamar Junior High.

Fullback—With three letters behind him, senior battering ram Bob Pena is back for his final fling as a Black and Gold. He'll be hard to unseat, but junior Danny Aycock is conceded to be the strongest personality who might make it uncomfortable for the reliable senior straggler.

Pro Showing Considered To Be Mediocre

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

When Green Bay beat the College All-Stars 42-20 in Chicago last week, Paul Hornung of the Packers said, "A pro team would have beaten us by five touchdowns." The National Football League champion Packers get their first pro test in a pre-season game with the Dallas Cowboys Friday night at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas. Vince Lombardi, coach of the Packers, was not too happy about the failure of his running game to make dents in the All-Star line. However, the Packers have a long way to go before the NFL season opens Sept. 16. They must certainly have been working on their running game during the past week. Both Hornung and Jim Taylor will be sharper with a week's work.

The Packers may find Dallas more vulnerable in pass defense, however, for coach Tom Landry has two seasoned backs on the sidelines due to injuries. They are Glynn Gregory and Bob Berich, a starter in 1961. To man the defensive backfield spots, Landry will use two rookies, Mike Gaeher of Oregon and John Chaisson of Tulane, both signed as free agents.

Don Meredith, ready for the big test in his third year as a pro, will direct the Cowboys from the quarterback spot, passing to Billy Howton, Dick Bielecki and Frank Clarke.

Bean Ball Hassle Disrupts Contest

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Charlie Metro, head coach of the Chicago Cubs, accused Milwaukee Manager Birdie Tebbets of ordering Braves' pitcher Jack Curtis to throw a "bean ball" in the aftermath of a free-for-all Wednesday night. Tebbets promptly denied it.

"It was very deliberate," Metro said in the clubhouse after the Cubs had trounced the Braves 12-4. "It was the most flagrant and obvious case of throwing at a hitter I've ever seen."

Metro was referring to a pitch thrown by Curtis in the ninth inning that sent Chicago hurler Glen Hobbie sprawling in the dirt. It was the fourth ball and got by catcher Bob Uecker. Ron Santo, who was on third, started for home and Uecker threw to Curtis who tagged out the Cub player before he got to the plate.

Curtis and Santo then started to tangle and within seconds both benches were emptied as the free-for-all started. Milwaukee third baseman Eddie Mathews grabbed Curtis and Santo and wrestled both to the ground. No one was hurt and Curtis was ejected from the game. Santo's out, however, was the third and the Braves didn't have to replace Curtis.

Metro said that "Tebbetts should have been kicked out."

"Why did Tebbetts go to the mound with a 2 and 1 count on Hobbie to talk with Curtis if it wasn't to tell his pitcher to throw at Glen?" he asked.

Tebbetts said he gave Curtis no instruction except to get Hobbie out.

"I don't think Curtis deliberately threw at Hobbie," Tebbetts said. "He should not have been thrown out of the game."

Tebbetts pointed out that Hobbie had "dusted off" Henry Aaron in the eighth inning.

The plate umpire Jocko Coplan said that there was "no doubt that he (Curtis) threw at Hobbie." He said he had no chance to give Curtis a warning before he threw him out of the game and that he would include the incident in his report of the game.

'PLEASE...NOT WHILE I'M EATING!'

What Became Of Fire-Eaters? Just Take A Look In Surinam

By INEZ ROBB

MOENGO, Surinam—If anyone, since the demise of vaudeville, has ever wondered whatever became of fire-eaters, he has only to come to Surinam to discover that the old art is not only alive but flourishing. As the bush Negro practices fire-eating in Surinam, it would surprise the tonsils of any of the old practitioners! Here the experts not only eat burning brands, but follow them with a chaser of broken glass (American soda pop bottles preferred) which is chewed to splinters.

In addition, while eating fire and chewing glass, the performers dance in and out of blazing bonfires, doing a sort of Scotch-Time Stomp with asbestos nonchalance. The whole performance is already one of the Tourist Musts of Surinam.

Our little group went out to the bush Negro village of Negeriekreek to see the performance at night under a full moon. The Southern Cross and a million stars. To the thrush of diamonds and the occasional chant of the sarong girls, the two star male performers ate fire, danced in and on it, massaged themselves on arms and legs with flaming brands, picked up hunks of red-hot steel, pranced on jagged glass and generally confounded me.

There were others in the audience who thought there must be some trick to it. But trick or no, it's a great show, although I think Billy Rose could tighten it up and re-stage it to advantage. The two male stars got all the kudos. But I was equally impressed by their girl friends who constantly walked in and out of the bonfires and pushed the men out of the blaze when they seemed on the verge of catching fire.

Forty dollars is the set price for such a show, but wait till the Actors' Equity moves south!

The juxtaposition of the primitive and the ultra modern, which is so common in Surinam, proclaims itself in this district.

Negeriekreek is a small village of one-room thatched huts where life has not changed much in two to three hundred years, while Moengo is a modern bauxite mining town run by Suralco, a subsidiary of Alcoa. Carved out of the jungle, Moengo sets on vast bauxite deposits which supply Surinam with its primary export product, and a rich one.

We flew the 90 miles from Paramaribo to Moengo in one of a fleet of small planes owned and operated by the government. In this new nation, the air age has literally leap-frogged the auto age, impeded by the difficulty of building roads in the jungle, which covers more than 80 per cent of Surinam.

Airfields have preceded roads, and now connect communities heretofore linked only by Surinam's network of big rivers. Only now, for the first time in her history which spans more than 450 years, a 260-mile highway is being pushed through the jungle at great expense and effort—from the border of French Guiana on the east to that of British Guiana on the west.

From Moengo the tourist can explore the bush Negro and Amerindian villages, probe the jungle and drive 40 miles down the new highway to Albina. Across the Marowijne River is St. Laurent, formerly the site of one of France's penal colonies in "the Green Hell" of French Guiana.

From Albina, a mile and a half across the water to St. Laurent, the French colonial town looked beckoning and romantic under a tropic sky. We crossed the river on a little ferry boat, to find a village and a handful of people who could have gladdened only the heart of Tennessee Williams.

In the last stages of decay, St. Laurent seemed haunted by a handful of living ghosts some of whom have set up housekeeping in the tiny rooms of the bleak old French prison. Yet in one of the dusty, deserted old shops, where no merchandise seemed less than 20 years old, I ran across the only new item I saw in the whole town: a Kennedy rocker!

Diary Offers Sure-Fire Road To Fame

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you yearn to win lasting fame and the gratitude of future generations? Well, you can hardly do it by piling up wealth.

You could do it by writing a perfect poem or song, but that is far harder than making $100 million. The luminous gift of imaginative creation is denied to all but those of genius.

But there is a simple available way for you to earn a place in history. That is—to keep an honest, detailed diary throughout your life, and leave it in your will to some university library.

A hundred years from now, some historian seeking to find out what life was really like in the mid-20th century, will stumble on that diary in some dusty stack. Opening and reading it, he will call your name blessed.

This has been called the "Age of Anxiety" and the "Age of Crisis." But it will finally go down in history as the "Age of the By-stander," a period when people were so busy watching the exciting spectacle of life—or were so numbed by what they saw—that few bothered to put down how they felt about it all.

Later historians will find no lack of material to study about this generation. There will be tons and tons of official papers to peer through.

The chronology of wars and diplomatic conferences makes up only the dry bones of human history. It is like learning about extinct animals by studying their fossils.

The only way to make human history really human is to find out how the individual person reacted to existence. What stirred him to dream, what caused him to despair? What did he really think about himself and others while he lived?

In the past men were more eloquent about themselves. Our ancestors were more frank about their reaction to life. They kept diaries; they wrote long letters and did not hesitate to speak freely of what they thought and felt.

Such outspoken documents as the diary of Samuel Pepys, or the letters between John Adams and Thomas Jefferson, illuminate their times in a way no treaties or proclamations can. Today we seem to be losing the ability to write as well as to walk. We celebrate our anniversaries by sending each other cheap comic greeting cards bearing a rented wisecrack.

Few of us bother to record in any permanent way problems of our hearts and minds—as if we were ashamed to show our private feelings. We run the risk of having future generations decide we actually had no feelings, and stalked dumbly through our time on earth like stumbling zombies.

So, why not keep a diary? It'll help you find out yourself what kind of person you are while alive—and it could make you famous after you're gone. It might make you more important later than you feel you are now, and isn't that worth a gamble?

Junior Editors Quiz on WORDS

QUESTION: Why are all calico cats females?

ANSWER: Study the picture. In (A) we see an oldtime merchant ship sailing out from Calicut, a city in India. She is bound to England loaded with many things from the East, among which will be a good supply of the famous Indian printed cloth from which gay dresses were made. This cloth became known as "calicut," soon shortened to "calico." In (B) a merchant is buying calico to supply the growing demand in Britain's American colonies. (C) is a farm scene in America, with a little milkmaid dressed up in her new calico. So widely did the fashion for calico spread that the word calico became a kind of nickname for woman. Certain cats (D) have blotched, spotted markings, and since these resemble calico designs, these cats became known as calico cats. Also, since the word calico was used for a woman, a calico cat was a female, too. Soon people began to speak of any female cat as a calico cat, whether blotched or not. Originally, much calico cloth was printed on "tabby" material, which has a wavy look. Female cats with wavy coats were called "tabbies," and soon all cats which were not tomcats were being called "calico cats," or "tabbies."

FOR YOU TO DO: Take a large potato, cut it in half the long way and dry. Using ink or poster paint, make a design of a flower on the flat part of one half. Cut away the potato around the design and put ink or poster paint on the design. Now press this on a piece of paper cloth. Put on more paint, and keep repeating the print. You are making your own calico.

Children In Mexican School Receive Their First Desks

By RICHARD DAW
ESCONDIDA, Mexico (AP) — For the first time, the 45 children in the adobe school house of this tiny Mexican village are sitting at desks instead of on the floor.

They're writing with long, firm sticks of chalk on a shiny blackboard that wasn't there before, and at recess they play with the first basketballs many of them ever saw.

Richard Streh, an American, brought them a taste of the 20th Century after he stumbled on to Escondida last year while searching for archaeological ruins.

The village was similar to many which still exist throughout Mexico despite government efforts and gradual progress.

Escondida had no electricity. Its streets were rutty and unpaved. Basic sanitary facilities were unknown. Its two-story adobe schoolhouse was virtually bare. It was only 250 miles west of bustling Mexico City, but its life was of another century.

Even its name, which in English means "hidden," echoed its isolation.

As the village teacher talked with Streh she raked her fingers through her hair in a futile effort to arrange it. She had no comb. Streh talked with other villagers, learned that 19 of the 45 schoolchildren were orphans, and that the highest ambition of many of Escondida's 200 residents was to leave their village forever.

Streh promised the villagers he would return with help.

Back in Levittown, N.Y., he told the students and teachers at Jonas E. Salk Junior High School about Escondida, organized a Mexican fiesta to raise money, and got help from businessmen.

HOSPITAL NOTES

ADMISSIONS: Irene Pruitt, 3104 Ave. U; George Richardson, 2107 Ave. O; Billy Hataway, Rt. 3; Kelton Clark, Ira; Hazel Burns, 609 Thirty-fourth; Zelma Wemken, Hermleigh; Claude Gould, Rt. 2; Mark Kimmel, Colorado City; Joseph Henry, 1710 Thirty-seventh; Jeannette Hodges, Huffman and Ave. L.

DISMISSALS: Mrs. Eugene Kinnamont and baby girl, Alvin Lee, Mrs. Guadalupe Martinez and baby boy, Mrs. R. T. Bogle and baby girl, Harold Walker, Royce Corbell, Lowell Rutledge, Hazel Rutledge, May Stubblefield, Arturo Chadez, Mary Killam, Jimmy Wylie, Beverly Scott.

With $1,644 in his pockets and a Mexican flag made by his wife for the villagers, Streh came back to Escondida to keep his promise.

Taking the village leaders with him, Streh set out for Guadalupe, the nearest large city, and spent the money he had raised.

Back to Escondida he brought a thousand pencils, dozens of books, boxes of thumbtacks and chalk, maps and desks to outfit the school.

He brought a complete outfit of clothes for every man and boy in the village, and bolts of cloth to make dresses for the women and girls.

He brought a sewing machine, tools, basketballs, baseballs, and factory-made candy to give the children a rare treat.

With an eye toward improving the villagers' standard diet, he brought 20 chickens and 20 rabbits and material to build pens for them.

Said school teacher Refugio Rodriguez as she watched the desks for her school being unloaded:

"No words can tell the people of Levittown how grateful the people of Escondida are for this generous gift."

Streh hopes to talk other U.S. schools into raising money to help other needy Mexican villages.

DESKS FOR MEXICAN SCHOOLCHILDREN — Schoolchildren and other residents of Escondida look at desks for the 45 children of the tiny Mexican village's adobe school house. The children previously had to sit on the floor of the school. The desks were given to Escondida by Richard Streh, a U. S. citizen who raised the money by organizing a Mexican fiesta in Levittown, N. Y., and getting help from businessmen. Streh came upon Escondida's plight while searching for archaeological ruins last year. (AP Wirephoto)

WINNER'S PROOF—Miss Rita Hanback, Snyder High senior, holds a certificate which she received for her fourth place short story, "Power of the Silent Voice," in the United Amateur Press Association short story contest in Birmingham, Ala. Miss Hanback was in competition with a number of published authors in the contest. She is a member of the Creative Writing Club of Snyder High School, and a pupil of Mrs. M. M. O'Rear, the club's sponsor and English teacher at Snyder High School.

STARS NOT INVITED

Simple Service Held For Marilyn

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Marilyn Monroe 1926-1962." The plate on the crypt reads simply, but it tells the tale of a Hollywood legend—or of her funeral, unique for such a personality.

For instance, there was former baseball great, Joe DiMaggio who married the sex goddess—the second of her three husbands. Before Marilyn, who was found dead in bed Sunday from an overdose of sleeping pills, went to her final resting place Wednesday, the famed New York Yankee slugger bent over her coffin.

Tearfully, he kissed her and poured out from his heart: "I love you. I love you. I love you."

It was out of character for the reticent DiMaggio, but perhaps that made it all the more sincere. Later he drove through Hollywood Memorial Park, stopped once more at her crypt and then drove on.

Then there were the fans. During the simple, non-demonstrational rites they were orderly, dignified, even sentimental.

But as soon as the funeral was over, a couple hundred of them climbed over a concrete wall, trampled the grass and flowers around the crypt that entombed the movie queen.

When the fans departed, most of the flowers went with them.

"Marilyn Monroe meant a lot to me," said one unidentified short-order cook, a recent immigrant from Rome, who clutched one of DiMaggio's roses in his hand. "I'll always keep this flower pressed. It will remind me of a girl who had even a worse start in life than I had—but who became famous all over the world."

Then there were the Hollywood stars who weren't invited to the funeral.

Arthur Jacobs, Marilyn's long-time publicity representative, said of the 31 invited guests: "About half of the people in there would not even be there if Marilyn had had anything to do with the invitations—and a lot more of her friends would have been there."

Among these would have been actor Peter Lawford and his wife Pat, brother-in-law and sister of President Kennedy. When Mrs. Lawford heard of Marilyn's death, she flew from the summer White House at Hyannis Port, Mass., to attend the funeral.

But when she got here she found that neither she nor Peter was invited.

"I'm shocked," said Lawford. "We were not invited. I don't know who's responsible. I don't know who was badly handled." The Lawfords were very close friends of Miss Monroe's as were Frank Sinatra, Clifton Webb and Dean Martin.

None of them was invited. Marilyn's half sister, Bernice Mercader, and DiMaggio handled the guest list. No movie stars were invited—and none showed up.

Those in charge of the arrangements explained that if they invited one star, they would have to invite many, and to have a big crowd would mean a circus-like funeral.

The absence of the big movie names may have given a dignified almost quiet tone to the funeral, but it hardly seemed the type of final sendoff for a star of Miss Monroe's magnitude.

Lee Strasberg, head of the Actor's Studio in New York and Marilyn's long-time drama mentor, eulogized her as "a warm human being impulsive and shy, sensitive and in fear of rejection, yet ever avid for life and reaching out for fulfillment."

Meanwhile, a coroner's suicide team worked to find out whether a fatal dosage of sleeping pills was taken accidentally or intentionally.

Marilyn, a mystery in life, created an even greater mystery by her death.

The question was why this beautiful sex symbol, 36 years old and still at the top of her career, had died.

Northeast, Central U. S. Cooler Today

By The Associated Press
Cool air spread across wide areas from the Northeast into the north central region today in the wake of severe thunderstorms in some sections.

The chilly air from the Hudson Bay region of Canada spread slowly southward over the Northeast and Great Lakes region, setting off thunderstorms from Lower Michigan through the central Appalachians into Maryland and Virginia.

Severe storms, with heavy rain, hail and strong winds, hit Pittsburgh and areas in Ohio causing of Toledo was estimated at $100,000. A severe wind and rain storm also hit Sterling, in northwestern Illinois.

Temperatures dropped into the 40s in some northern border areas of the cool belt and into the 50s and 60s in most of the north central region and New England. Generally temperatures outside the hot spots in the Southland were in the 60s and 70s.

Showers fell in the warm and humid sections of the South Atlantic states but brought only temporary relief. Heaviest rainfall was three inches in Tallahassee, Fla.

The United Nations Fund has agreed to make a study of the feasibility of harnessing the Karnali River in Nepal for hydroelectric power.

Just A Hot Day... With Snow

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) - The temperature hovered around 90 Wednesday but some 3,000 children attended a snowball jamore sponsored by a Baltimore radio station in cooperation with the city's recreation department.

Last winter, the station (WBEB) paid youngsters a penny apiece for more than 10,000 snowballs and preserved them in refrigerators.

Wednesday the same snowballs were taken to four recreation centers, where about 1,800 children aged 3 to 10 tossed the balls at plywood, life-size mannequins.

Prizes, including recreational equipment, were awarded. Ice cream and cake were served to all contestants.

Samuel E. Feldman, general manager and vice president of the station, said the purpose of the jamore was to provide an unusual day of entertainment for Baltimore youngsters.

History does not record a more blunt, bull-dozing threat thrown at one head of state by another.

Khrushchev's design may have been to shock Kennedy off-balance. The President replied:

"It looks like a cold winter."

The two men, having measured each other, went their separate ways.

Kennedy held firm on Berlin. Khrushchev set no new deadlines for signing a treaty with East Germany. He told a delegation of American newspaper editors last July 18 he still intends to sign such a treaty, but he said:

"When shall we do it? I will not set any time limit."

Some observers consider this a plus on the administration's credit.

But Kennedy, who says "Berlin is our big interest," does not expect Khrushchev to remain quiet indefinitely about this problem.

No new formula for solving it is in sight. So Berlin is an X-factor.

On the other hand, developments in Southeast Asia appear to warrant at least some cautious optimism.

EDITOR'S NOTE - President John F. Kennedy is approaching the half-way point in his term in the White House. What's his score in foreign affairs? In this fourth article in a five-part series, Associated Press reporter Reiman Morin notes the pluses and minuses - and the abundant "X" factors.

WASHINGTON (AP) - During the conference between President Kennedy and Nikita S. Khrushchev in Vienna last year, the Soviet premier suddenly granted out:

"If you want war over Berlin, you'll get war."

Kennedy held firm on Berlin. Khrushchev set no new deadlines for signing a treaty with East Germany. He told a delegation of American newspaper editors last July 18 he still intends to sign such a treaty, but he said:

"When shall we do it? I will not set any time limit."

Some observers consider this a plus on the administration's credit.

But Kennedy, who says "Berlin is our big interest," does not expect Khrushchev to remain quiet indefinitely about this problem.

No new formula for solving it is in sight. So Berlin is an X-factor.

On the other hand, developments in Southeast Asia appear to warrant at least some cautious optimism.

EDITOR'S NOTE - President John F. Kennedy is approaching the half-way point in his term in the White House. What's his score in foreign affairs? In this fourth article in a five-part series, Associated Press reporter Reiman Morin notes the pluses and minuses - and the abundant "X" factors.

By REIMAN MORIN
WASHINGTON (AP) - During the conference between President Kennedy and Nikita S. Khrushchev in Vienna last year, the Soviet premier suddenly granted out:

"If you want war over Berlin, you'll get war."

History does not record a more blunt, bull-dozing threat thrown at one head of state by another.

Khrushchev's design may have been to shock Kennedy off-balance. The President replied:

"It looks like a cold winter."

The two men, having measured each other, went their separate ways.
