DAUGHERTY BRIBERY CASE GOES TO JURY

Admission to T-O Fair Grounds Made Free of Charge

BIG AUTO RACE PROGRAM MAIN EVENT SUNDAY

Charge Will Be Made Only For Grandstand Seats For Rodeo and Races

Wichita Falls folk took advantage of the additional day at the Fair Friday night by attending in great numbers. There was no admission charge at the front gate. Neither will there be an admission charge Saturday and Sunday and it is expected that thousands of people will visit the grounds, view the exhibits and see the Wortham circus and side show attractions, rodeo Saturday and auto races Sunday. Practically all exhibits, except in the live stock department are in place and those who visit the grounds will see an excellent exhibition of poultry, agricultural products, a wonderful automobile show and many other features. There will be no charge whatever for admission to the grounds.

Rodeo This Afternoon

This afternoon at 2:30 o'clock there will be a rodeo performance, under direction of Fog Horn Clancy. There will be an admission charge of fifty cents for this program.

On Sunday afternoon will be offered one of the best programs of the fair. This will be the automobile races under the supervision of the A. A. A. Five big events are scheduled and handsome prizes have been offered. One of these will be for a new world's record on a track of this kind. There will be an admission charge of $1 for the races, but no admission Sunday to the fair grounds. The attendance today and Sunday is expected to be the biggest since the opening of the fair last Saturday morning.

Rain Cuts Crowd

Although the attendance was seriously reduced because of the heavy rains of last Sunday, fair officials are elated that the attendance has been as big as it has. Sunday's rains, according to reports, have put the highways in this section of the state in worse condition than they have been in in recent years. Bridges spanning Red River were washed out and only a day or two ago was the stream made crossable. This has prevented the people from Oklahoma attending. Usually thousands of people attend this exposition from Oklahoma. Likewise thousands of people from this section of Texas have been unable to attend due to the bad condition of the highways, making the trip long and tiresome. It is expected, however, that many out of town visitors will be here today and tomorrow.

Hope For Increase

It is hoped by the fair officials that the grounds will be crowded Saturday and Sunday. Such crowds will make up in part the loss sustained as the result of the heavy rains.

Speaking of Saturday afternoon and Sunday afternoon's program, Secretary Shepherd said last night: "These will be two of the best programs we have offered. We are hoping the attendance will set a new mark. The fair is almost as big as it was three days ago and we are assured of two of the best programs Saturday and Sunday, with the rodeo Saturday and the automobile races Sunday. The Wortham shows are also running and there will be plenty of fun and amusement for all."

THE WEATHER

Local weather conditions for the past 24-hour period reported by the Wichita Falls Electric company bureau at 5 o'clock Friday: Maximum temperature, 85 degrees; minimum, 60; at 5 p. m. yesterday, 83; no precipitation, southeast breeze; partly cloudy; average wind velocity, 10 miles per hour; maximum wind velocity, 15 miles per hour; barometer, 29.14.

Jewish Rabbi Favors Sunday Opening of T-O Fair

HEAD OF TEMPLE ISRAEL TAKES ISSUE WITH MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

OFFICIALS of the Texas-Oklahoma fair showed a depth of vision and broad mindedness that is a compliment to them when they decided to keep the fair open on Sunday, Rabbi Samuel Phillips of Temple Israel declared Friday night in an address to his congregation. His sermon was an answer to comments and resolutions of the Wichita Falls Ministerial Alliance which recently passed measures condemning the fair association for operating the Texas-Oklahoma exposition on the Sabbath.

"A day of rest should be a day of joy, especially for the laboring people who have been occupied all week with their tasks and on Sunday ought to be given opportunity to enjoy themselves with their families," Rabbi Phillips asserted. "It is a compliment to the directors of the Texas-Oklahoma fair that they have had the vision and the broad mindedness to keep the fair grounds open on Sunday to enable all classes to attend. And it is a compliment that they did not heed the sensational utterances and were not frightened by insidious propaganda.

"The Christian world can celebrate Sunday by going to church for prayer and religious inspiration but it is not necessary to forbid legitimate pleasure after church hours. You can go to church and pray and enjoy legitimate pleasures, too.

"It is not necessary to bring back the spirit of intolerance and bigotry by imposing blue laws on the people of this nation," Rabbi Phillips stated. "Religiously speaking each denomination should keep its particular day of rest handed down from the forefathers, but that does not mean to deprive any

HIGHWAY JOBS GIVEN TO TWO

Eugene Smith And George Robertson Named To Vacancies

AUSTIN, Oct. 8. (AP)—Immediately upon adjournment sine die of the call session of the 39th legislature Friday, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson appointed Eugene T. Smith of San Antonio, and George Robertson of Meridian, members of the state highway commission. Smith was appointed in the place of Hal Moseley, chairman. Robertson takes the place of John Bickett Sr., of San Antonio, resigned.

On Monday Governor Ferguson will appoint Scott Woodard of Fort Worth to the commission, to succeed John Cage of Stephenville.

The offices of Moseley and Cage became vacant, the governor pointed out, when the legislature adjourned and the senate failed to confirm her recess appointees. The senate postponed action until the 40th legislature.

Second Set Named.

This is the second time Governor Ferguson has appointed highway commissioners within a year. Nov. 23, 1925, Frank V. Lanham, chairman, and Joe Burkett, member, resigned when a special session of the legislature was threatened following the confessed judgment to excess profits of the American Road company, awarded contracts by Lanham and Burkett. After a long search the governor finally appointed Moseley and Cage to commission.

Smith has been secretary to the highway commission since the beginning of the Ferguson administration in January, 1925. He was a staunch supporter of the woman governor for election in 1924, and has escorted the governor on nearly all of her expeditions over the state. His term expires in January.

Robertson is a banker at Meridian. He was a member of the democratic executive committee from Bosque county, and has been a friend of the governor and her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, for many years. He will have four years to serve if he is confirmed by the 40th legislature.

Smith and Robertson qualified immediately upon appointment. They were sworn in by Mrs. Emma G. Meharg, secretary of state, a minute after adjournment of the legislature.

Attorney General Dan Moody based his campaign against the woman governor this summer on the administration of the state highway department. He was successful and when Governor Ferguson submitted to the senate the names of Cage and Moseley for confirmation, a resolution was introduced by Senator A. E. Wood of Williamson county, floor leader for the incoming administration, to postpone consideration, and it carried.

Secret Poll Fails.

Anxious that her appointees be confirmed, the governor and her husband considered more than two score of prospects for the position, and even when two senators, Charles Murphy of Houston and J. C. Strong of Panola county, were submitted in a quiet poll of the senate, the administration found that the incoming administration held the necessary eleven votes to prevent confirmation.

It was then decided to permit the legislature to adjourn and appoint new members to the commission. In the meantime, Bickett had resigned because of ill health, and it became necessary to fill his place. The governor had informed the unconfirmed members that if the senate failed to act, the constitution would not permit them to remain in office. S. G. Granberry, member of the prison commission likewise, was unconfirmed. No appointment for this place has been announced.

Grand Jury Votes 23 True Bills Of Which 10 Are Against One Man And Adjourns Session To Monday

No Attention Yet Given To Investigation of County Officers Asked by Court It is Understood Friday.

The Wichita county grand jury made short work of the business at hand for the week and adjourned yesterday afternoon until Monday morning, after having found twenty-three indictments.

Practically all of the indictments were kept a secret by county authorities yesterday because of the fact that arrests had not as yet been made in the cases, but information was given that all of them were for usual violations of the law, such as sale and possession of liquor, assault to murder; manslaughter and forgery.

Ten On One Man.

Ten indictments were found against one man, C. G. March, who was convicted of forgery in district court two weeks ago and given a five year suspended sentence. All ten of the indictments were for the same offense.

There are three liquor indictments and several forgery and hot check propositions in the list of indictments.

The grand jury has evidently not centered its attention on the charge made to them at their opening Monday, when Judge P. A. Martin urged a sweeping investigation of county and city officials and candidates for office in regard to charges and counter charges made during the election, many of which alleged fraud and misuse of public trust, as well as serious charges against characters of candidates.

Martin Urges Probe.

Judge Martin in his charge stated that if such allegations are true there should be a definite investigation made and proper action taken to prosecute the guilty; while if they were false the community deserved to know it.

The grand jury reconvenes Monday morning to resume the session.

MAN HELD IN BIGAMY CASE

Local Police Arrest Him On Plea of Officers From Iowa

The city police department made short work of a bench warrant received from Clarion, Ia., for the arrest of a man wanted there on a charge of bigamy. Following clues sent with the indictment the department had little trouble locating the fugitive who was working in a downtown barber shop. He was immediately arrested on the charge of bigamy.

He is said to have came here about two weeks ago, bringing with him wife No. 2, it is alleged, and wife No. 1 has been very busy since setting the law in motion toward bringing her guilty husband to justice.

Information came to the Iowa town that the man had come to Texas and was probably in Wichita Falls. He will be returned to Clarion to face charges against him there.

NEGRO TRIO LYNCHED

South Carolina Mob Kills Sheriff's Slayers.

AIKEN, S. C., Oct. 8. (AP)—Mob violence flared up in Aiken early today, leaving the bullet riddled bodies of three negroes as its victims. Overpowering the sheriff and a jailer, a band of unidentified men, variously estimated at between 50 and 100, stormed the county jail, seized the negroes, one a woman, on trial for the murder of a former sheriff and took them to a wooded section outside the city where their bullet riddled bodies were found.

The position of the bodies, officers said, indicated that the prisoners had been released by the mob, ordered to run and then shot down.

NEGLIGENT HOMICIDE.

This Is Charge Filed Against Driver of Death Car.

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 8. (AP)—A charge of negligent homicide was filed today at Tyler, Texas, against F. C. Nagle, Jr., Shreveport, young man, as a sequel to a fatal automobile crash near that place last night in which F. B. Chambles, aged white man was killed and his wife was seriously injured, according to Assistant District Attorney Alex Pope in a long distance telephone message.

"El Jardin de los Suenos" In Initial Showing On Friday Afternoon

El Jardin de lso Suenos closed a triumphant appearance before the public Friday afternoon with a record-breaking crowd swarming through for a final glimpse.

The Record News Garden of Dreams—the Spanish palace built in Westmoreland addition and which for the past two weeks has been the city's greatest scenic attraction, was locked up Friday night after the last inquisitive visitor had reluctantly made his departure. In the time it has been opened to the public it has been viewed by thousands of Wichitans and out-of-town persons, none of whom, so far as the Record News has been able to learn, were anything but utterly amazed and thoroughly delighted with its beauty and magnificence.

The Record News wishes to extend its sincere and heartfelt thanks to all those who have given expressions of congratulation on the achievement; to all those who by their inspection of the home helped make its opening a success and to all those who, in any way, shape or form, assisted in the venture.

NORRIS' WIFE WILL TESTIFY

Defense Springs Surprise In List of Witnesses Called Friday

FORT WORTH, Oct. 8. (AP)—Mrs. J. Frank Norris, wife of the pastor of the First Baptist church here, charged with slaying D. E. Chipps on July 17, will be one of the witnesses in her husband's defense, it was revealed in a list of witnesses the defense today asked be summoned in the case. Under the law she can testify only in his favor ad not against him.

A surprise was sprung in the inclusion of Leo S. Grevemberg, clerk and Mrs. Fannie Greer, switchboard operator at the Westbrook hotel, reported to have heard Chipps call up Dr. Norris and ask for an interview. In his statement Dr. Norris said Chipps threatened and cursed him and it had been understood that the state expected to prove otherwise by Grevemberg and Mrs. Greer.

L. H. Nutt, deacon in First Baptist church, who was present at the slaying, Mrs. Bessie Williams, an evangelist, R. Bonna Ridgeway and Mrs. Ridgeway, the latter a Searchlight employe and L. H. Everidge, Dr. Norris' short hand reporter, headed the list of Fort Worth witnesses asked to be called. The others were from Angelina county and Lufkin, where Chipps formerly lived.

CARDS BATTLE HUGMEN TODAY IN FINAL TEST

Hornsby's Men Must Win To Get Chance At Title In Sunday Game

BY ALAN J. GOULD

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The record breaking battle of east and west for the 1926 world's series baseball championship has shifted from the shores of the Mississippi to the banks of the Harlem with the Yankees holding the whip hand over the Cardinals.

The strategic retreat of the contending clans from St. Louis, where the invaders staged a flourishing finish to take two out of three games from the home forces, found the Yankees holding a commanding 3-2 lead and primed to clinch the series, with its major share of gold and glory in the sixth game tomorrow. It also found the Cardinals fighting mad, a group determined to make it a battle to the finish with no quarter asked or given.

Alec to Pitch.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, the 39-year-old veteran who checked the Yankees last Sunday, will take the firing line for the National league champions tomorrow at the Yankee stadium. Rested and determined to make his comeback complete with another victory over the New Yorkers, he will carry the Cardinal hopes in a battle that will have more than a full share of drama it, as seems likely, he is opposed by Bob Shawkey, seasoned right-hander of the Yankee brigade.

Alexander and Shawkey both formerly wore Philadelphia uniforms and both came to the clubs they now represent by the waiver route, generally regarded as a step on the downward path. "Alex" came to the Cards late in the season as a Cub discard while "Bob the Gob" became Yankee property a decade or so ago for a small price. Yet tomorrow, these two old timers as baseball men go, will carry the main burden with a world's championship and some $50,000 at stake, the difference between the winners and losers' end of the player pool. It may be that Shawkey will yield the preference to Urban Shocker of spit ball fame but the latter already has been beaten and "Bob the Gob" is understood to have the first call.

Yankees In Triumph.

The Yankees staged a triumphant return today from the scene of their western conquests. It was mild compared to the frenzied out-

BABIES DIE NEGLECTED

This Is Charge After San Antonio Inquiry

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Following an investigation by the city health department into the deaths of a pair of twins, Mrs. Jose F. Rangel mid-wife, was charged with fraudulently furnishing information in regard to the births, in complaint filed with Justice Anton Adam Friday. The complaint was made by Bat Corrigan, assistant district attorney, after a consultation with Miss D. Stone and Miss Ollie Maddox, nurses of the city health department.

The report filed with the health department is said to have declared that twins born to Mrs. Philipe Divila Abitua were still born. The nurses declared that an investigation showed the babes were born alive and died from neglect.

THREE ACTORS HURT

Filming of 'Rough Riders' At San Antonio Scene

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Three Mexicans portraying roles of Spanish defenders were injured, one seriously, in the filming of the Battle of San Juan Hill Friday for the Famous Players-Lasky picturization of "The Rough Riders."

One of the men received a possible fracture of the skull and brain concussion when a charge of exploding dynamite rent the roof of a ranch house under which he was standing. The other two were only slightly injured.

M'BRIDE-SEYBOLD.

Giles E. McBride and Miss Elisabeth Julia Seybold procured a marriage license at the court house late yesterday afternoon and were married a short time later by Judge McFarlane in his office.

Mr. McBride is a native of Missouri, coming here from Springfield and Miss Seybold has lived here for some time. They will spend about two weeks here at 605 Scott street, after which they will leave on a honeymoon trip through the east.

OPPOSE VACCINATION.

Governor Not to Call Additional Special Session

She Also Announces She'll Sign Bill Giving Aid To State Schools

AUSTIN, Oct. 8. (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson will not reconvene the 39th legislature for a second call session, she advised friends late Friday. The woman chief executive will sign the $3,500,000 appropriation to the available school fund, in order that the per capita apportionment will be increased from $11.50 to $14, and the schools will have long terms and the teachers will receive commensurate salaries, she told her friends.

Regret Gas Defeat.

Governor Ferguson and her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, expressed regret to a number of their loyal supporters that the call session of the legislature did not pass the gasoline tax to insure additional revenue for the schools and the highway department, but said that for the school children of Texas the governor would sign the appropriation bill.

FARMERS FLEE BEFORE FLOOD

Oklahoma District In Danger When Verdigris River Levee Breaks

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 8. (AP)—Hundreds of residents of the bottom lands along the Verdigris river 13 miles east of Broken Arrow, early tonight were fleeing from their homes when Rogers county officials sounded a flood warning that the main section of the county levee was crumbling.

A wall of water rushed over the lowlands in the Wagoner county saw mill district at 4 p. m., when a crack, worn in a small section of the levee by continual pounding of high flood waters since last Sunday opened and poured volumes of water into the populated regions.

Severe losses were suffered by cattle farmers and much stock was reported drowned. More than eighty square miles of the Verdigris river lands were completely inundated at 8 p. m. tonight.

If the second break in the dam occurs, it is probable that the homes in the sector will be completely submerged. No fatalities were reported, although 160 refugees were being housed by neighbors.

COURT AWAITS QUICK VERDICT IN LONG TRIAL

Mrs. Thomas W. Miller, Wife Of Daugherty's Co-Defendant Breaks Down

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The fate of Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller, charged with conspiring against the government they served during the presidency of Warren G. Harding, was placed in the hands of a jury tonight and a verdict will not be returned until morning.

The jury took the case at 9:43 o'clock and at 11 o'clock, when no verdict had been reached, Judge Mack ordered that the jurors retire for the night and return to the jury room at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. For the night they were permitted to go under guard to a hotel but were told they could deliberate in the jury room as long as they liked before retiring.

Judge Mack completed his actual charge by nine o'clock, two hours after he started, but the remaining time before the jury filed out was taken up by suggestions of counsel, some of which the judge added to his charge and some of which he refused.

The charge in the main was a straight forward statement of the difference between bribery as a crime by itself with which the defendants were not charged and conspiracy with bribery as an inducement which was the charge against them.

The judge said after the jury had been shut behind the doors of the jury room that he would stay in court until eleven o'clock or a little later on a chance that a verdict might be found by that time. If no indication had been shown by that time he said, that a verdict was imminent, he would order the jury locked up for the night.

During the judge's charge the defendants sat calmly on opposite sides of the council table, Thos. W. Miller chewing gum methodically and Harry M. Daugherty lying back in his chair, a handkerchief covering one eye, inflamed by cold, and with the other eye closed. He seemed asleep to the casual observer but that he was paying close attention was evidenced by the fact that he opened his uncovered eye each time his name was mentioned.

Mrs. Miller who broke down from emotion during the afternoon session was not in court.

HONEY LOU

by Beatrice Burton

author of "LOVE BOUND" and "HER MAN" ETC.

© JOHNSON FEATURES INC., 1926

READ THIS FIRST:

HONEY LOU HUNTLEY is private secretary to old "GRUMPY" WALLACK, head of the Wallack Fabric Mills.

Grumpy hired Honey Lou because she is sweet without being too sugary sweet. Everyone else in the place likes her, and Honey Lou likes them in return—all except JOE MEADOWS, the shipping clerk. For a reason that she, herself does not understand, she is afraid of Joe, who always stands too close to her when she talks to him.

One winter afternoon, Honey Lou sees young JACK WALLACK, "Grumpy's" only son, in the building. She only knows that she likes his looks better than those of any other man she has ever seen. That night when she leaves the building he is waiting for her. He asks her to ride home with him. But with her nose in the air Honey Lou walks on past him, even though she is longing to get into the car.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II.

There were things that Honey Lou did that her mother never could understand. Honey thought nothing of them. But to Mrs. Huntley they seemed shocking and dreadful.

There was smoking, for example. Mrs. Huntley had never actually seen her daughter with a cigaret in her mouth. But she had caught the whiff of tobacco smoke on Honey Lou's warm, sweet breath once when she kissed her goodnight.

"It doesn't mean anything," Honey Lou had told her with a blush and a shrug of her little shoulders. "Everybody smokes — and I've had only three or four cigarets in my life, as a matter of fact."

But Honey Lou had never tasted liquor, and she said that she never, never would. She had a genuine horror of it.

"A girl who drinks is—sunk," she told her mother.

Mrs. Huntley could only guess at what "sunk" meant when Honey Lou used it that way. Slang was so much Greek to her.

Honey Lou said "jack" when she meant money. She was "as dead as a Russian ruble" when she was dog-tired.

She said "That's peanuts!" or "There's jam on that!" when she meant that she liked something. When she did not like a thing she turned up her nose and said "sour ball."

Then, too Honey Lou painted her lips.

She painted them in public and without shame. "Deary, it's the fashion to paint your mouth and leave your face dead white," she told her mother in her soft, husky voice. "It's the style, just like shingled hair and gun-metal stockings. You can't get away from it."

And poor Mrs. Huntley, who never had had her hair cut or used anything but rice-powder on her nose, shook her head despairingly over Honey Lou.

She was shaking it tonight, when Honey Lou walked out of the little white bedroom that she shared with Margret, her half-sister.

"What's wrong, Mother?" the girl asked her, and Mrs. Huntley shook her blond head more vigorously than ever.

"Oh, I was just thinking about you," she sighed deeply. "I hate the very thought of your working down on Exchange street. It's such a terrible neighborhood. And to think of a man stopping you, and offering you a lift in his car! And you out, after dark! It isn't safe. It isn't right for a girl to be out alone at night." She shook her head once more.

In the little sleepy southern town where Mrs. Huntley had been a belle, girls had never gone out alone at night. Neither had they worked for a living, unless they taught school or painted china.

"If I went out after dark when I was a girl, somebody always went with me," she said now to Honey Lou. "Girls didn't run around alone in those days the way they do now. They were taken care of, let me tell you! Where do you suppose Margret is, at this time of night?"

She raised her anxious eyes to the black marble clock on the mantel shelf.

"Five minutes to seven," she murmured.

"My word, Honey Lou," she added, after a minute, "I do wish you girls would get married. It would be a load off my mind to have you both safe in your own homes. I do worry so about you."

"Margaret's going to marry Steve Mayhew, sooner or later. Don't you think she is?" Honey Lou asked, stretching herself on the big chintz-covered sofa that filled one side of the room.

With her arms locked above her head, her straight lovely body was like the slender stalk of a great flower.

"Don't you think so mother?" she repeated lazily.

Mrs. Huntley's mouth went up at the corners in a half-smile.

"He'll never marry while you're around, Honey Lou," she answered, without looking up from her sewing.

"Now, just what do you mean by that?" Honey Lou asked, frowning a little as she raised herself on one white elbow.

But Mrs. Huntley only pursed up her full lips and lifted her eyebrows.

"Oh, nothing, I reckon," she answered.

Honey Lou was still wondering what she really had meant when the mantel clock struck seven.

As the last low chime died away on the warm stillness of the cozy room, a key grated in the outer door and Margaret came in.

Margret Moody was Mrs. Huntley's daughter by her first husband. He was dead, just as Honey Lou's father was dead.

Neither of the girls could remember her father. As far back as either one could remember, there had been just the three of them — mother and Margret and Honey Lou.

Somehow or other Mrs. Huntley had scraped together enough money to bring up the two girls and send them to business school.

She had sold the house on Willow street — the house where

A NEW phase of millinery fashion is expressed in these distinctive fall models. Chic, individual, charming—they offer an opportunity for selection in keeping with each varied type. The felt hat appears a new version—supple, intricately draped it finds a place in the afternoon outfit. More formal hats of satin, velvet or moire are small and close with extremely high pinched or dented crowns and the simplest of trimmings. Colors are as varied as the styles. Chanel and strawberry red, many shades of green, the woodtones are favored. Black too, is decidedly smart.

Mother And Infant Escape From Fire

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 8.—Trapped by flames caused by the explosion of an oil stove, Mrs. House, Grandfield, mother of a 3-hour old baby, Sunday, made the supreme effort and fled with the babe through a window and to the home of a neighbor, according to word reaching Frederick after resumption following the flood of the early part of the week.

According to the story reaching here Mrs. House was awakened from th estupor following the birth of her babe by flames leaping across the room in which she lay from the stupor following the birth flames blocked egress by the door and she plunged out of the window of her room with the babe.

Neither mother nor infant are apparently suffering any ill effects from the near-tragedy.

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 8.—Balancing himself a la Fatima, "that light and airy fairy, the champion tight wire walker of the world," Henry S. Johnston, democratic candidate for governor, kept his speaking appointment in Frederick Wednesday by walking across a rail on the bridge north of Tipton while the muddy torrents of North Fork in flood time whirled beneath. He was brought to Frederick in an automobile and immediately commenced his speaking to a street corner crowd.

Honey Lou was born. She had sold her rings and her bracelets, and all her furniture, stick by stick, as the years went by.

There was only enough of it left to furnish the little flat where they lived now. But what was left was beautiful — old brown mahogany, polished by time and use—old silver with a crest on it. The crest of the Huntley family.

The crest meant nothing to Honey Lou. She lived not for the past—but for the glorious present. For today! Today was what couted.

She could not share her mother's sorrow because she was a working girl, either. She gloried in her job with Old Man Wallack — or "Grumpy," as she called him.

With a high heart she pressed and mended her last year's clothes and re-trimmed her last year's hat. She thought that the princess slips that Mrs. Huntley made from handkerchif linen were the loveliest slips that ever were—and did not sigh for silk.

To her the three hundred dollars that she and Margret brought into the home every month were riches.

Margret earned more than Honey Lou did. She made fifty dollars a week as bookkeeper at Holy Cross hospital, and Honey Lou thought that she was a wonder

It was at Holy Cross that Margret had struck up a friendship with young Stephen Mayhew, who was finishing his medical training there.

"Stephen Mayhew," mused Honey Lou to herself, as she went out into the little kitchen of the flat and put the water on to boil for tea, "Stephen Mayhew—now, what did mother mean when she said that Stephen would never marry Margret while I'm around?"

Why, Stephen treated her as if she were a child! He brought her magazines, sometimes, or candy. Once in a while he would ask her to go along, when he and Margaret were going out to the movies. But beyond that he barely noticed her.

Or so it seemed to Honey Lou, at least, as she thought it over.

It was while she and Margaret were putting the supper on the dining room table that she told her about the man who had offered to drive her home that night.

Margret laughed. "Not really!" she chaffed the younger girl.

"Don't be silly, Margret." The smile faded from Honey Lou's little face. "You should have seen him! Tall and broad-shouldered, and with the bluest eyes! It seems to me I've been waiting to meet him all my life. He spoke to me and I wouldn't answer him. But if ever I see him again—"

The door opened and Mrs. Huntley came into the room.

"Whatever are you girls talking about, I'd like to know."

Honey Lou struck a match and lit the candles on the table.

Ten-cent store candles they were. But they were tall and pink, and they threw a rosy glow on Honey Lou's face and hid her sudden flush.

"Nothing," she said to her mother.

It was late the next afternoon that Honey Lou met Jack Wallack. She met him properly, as a nice girl should meet a man.

"Grumpy," himself introduced him to Honey Lou in the big private office just above the shipping room at the mills.

"My son, Jack, Miss Huntley," he said in his gruff off-hand way when Honey Lou walked into his office with a pile of order slips in her hand.

Honey Lou was facing the light from the west windows, and it was a couple of seconds before she could see who it was that stood beside the Old Man's desk.

Then her heart seemed to come up into her throat. It was the blue-eyed man of the black-and-nickel roadster! So he was Jack Wallack!

He was waiting for her again, when she left the building that night.

Even before she started down the stairs that led to the dark courtyard, something told her that he would be there, waiting for her.

He came toward her, through the purple winter dusk, as she stepped out into the yard with its bales and its rumbling trucks and its piled packing cases.

"Tonight — may I take you home?" he asked. His head was uncovered, and even in the dimness she could see the eagerness in his eyes under the blond hair that swept back from a fine wide forehead.

Honey Lou's low, husky voice trembled. "It isn't raining," she said. But she got into the car.

Instead of turning toward the flat on Arbor street, they swung off in the opposite direction. In fifteen minutes they had left the town behind them—a forest of chimneys against a pearly evening sky.

Outside the town, Jack Wallack slowed down his car. It glided, smoothly as a dream-ship, along the paved road that wound through frozen brown fields.

It slowed down to five miles an hour—and then stopped.

"Well, here we are again!" Jack Wallack said.

He turned in his seat and looked intently at Honey Lou. And Honey Lou looked back at him with her come-hither gaze.

She felt him take her hand in his, and she did not move or try to stop him. He turned back her shabby kid glove and kissed the velvety palm and the slender little wrist.

Still Honey Lou did not move. Nothing like this had ever happened to her before in her life, and she did not know how to take it. It seemed such a respectful, harmless sort of kiss—a kiss on her little hand.

Then, in another second, her mouth was against his mouth, and he was kissing her with a desperate sort of passion.

He had not intended to do it—to kiss her that way. It was almost as much of a surprise to him as it was to Honey Lou.

But Honey Lou did not know that. Half choking with fury and shame, she leaned back in his arms and caught him squarely on the jaw with the flat of her little hand—the hand he had just kissed.

"Don't ever—do — such a thing again! Don't dare to!" she blazed out at him in gasping sobs.

She tore open the door of the black-and-nickle roadster and fled into the darkness of the country-side.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

Was that the end of Honey Lou's romance—or only the beginning? Did Jack Wallack let her "walk back" — or did he do something else? Read tomorrow's chapter for the answer.

ESKIMO SLAIN TO SAVE BABE

Mother Battles Crazed Man To Save Children From Killing

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Oct. 8. (AP)—How a little Eskimo woman fought to the death with her demented husband on a lonely Labrador island to save herself and her two children from being killed by him was tragically related in supreme court here yesterday. The wife, Jullenne Tuttu, was acquitted.

Jullenne and her husband and their children were the sole inhabitants of the island. She told how when put to the supreme test with her own body broken and bruised by blows from her husband's gun during the struggle, she did not hesitate to stab him time after time with a knife and then riddle his body with bullets from one of his rifles. Her eyes welling with tears Jullenne through a Morovian missionary acting as interpreter, told the court how her husband, Ephram, came home on the evening of June 11 and said he was going to kill the baby. Stricken with fear, she spent hours pleading with him to wait until morning, hoping that meantime some one would call at the island or that she might be able to attract the attention of persons on the mainland.

Her Wit Wins

Her strategem succeeded for a time, but during the night Ephram rushed out of doors with his two rifles and started firing them. He told Jullenne he would shoot the dogs first, so that they might not eat the bodies of the children when he killed them. Jullenne asked that she be given a rifle to join in the killing of the dogs and in this way got possession of one of the guns.

A moment later, she testified, Ephram beat her down with his rifle. With her head crushed, an arm broken and bleeding from numerous wounds, Jullenne retreated into the one-room shack. Seizing a Bible given them by a missionary she sought to stop her husband by calling his attention to what he had been taught from it.

Beaten With Gun

Again she was beaten down and when it seemed her husband was ready to kill their infant after Nattias, their 11-year-old boy had fainted from terror, she grasped a sheath knife and plunged it again and again into her husband's breast. Then she seized a rifle and sent its contents into his body.

When her strength returned Jullenne made the body secure with a seal thong, dragged it out doors and signalled for aid from the mainland.

HASKELL

HARMONY CLUB MEETS.

The opening meeting of the Harmony club was at the Magazine club library last Wednesday at high noon, when a buffet luncheon preceded the meeting proper. The luncheon was served on small tables centered by bud vases of flowers and place cards. After the luncheon, the president, Mrs. D. L. Cummings gave a short talk on plans for the year's work and Mrs. H. D. Neff was prevailed upon to direct the musical work again this year. Mrs. Neff had been elected to this office but had resigned on account of a recent illness and her work in her studio. Response to roll call was made by 48 present, who told of some interesting happening or feature during their summer vacation.

CHILD CULTURE CLUB.

On last Wednesday afternoon the Child Culture club met in a call meeting to elect a new president in the place of Mrs. Lakey Hallard who is in Denton Teachers' college for the year. Mrs. Mack Martin was elected. This club has always met in the first Methodist church, but it is now considering meeting in the homes of the members during the winter. Also they will meet on each second and fourth Wednesday instead of Tuesday as that date conflicts with other clubs.

GOLF WIDOWS CLUB

On last Tuesday afternoon Mrs. O. E. Patterson entertained the Golf Widows club in her home with "42" and served a delicious salad plate at the conclusion of the games to the following special guests: Mesdames R. J. Reynolds, C. L. Lewis, Jim Bailey and Ellis. The club membership doctors of Mesdames A. R. Wynn, C. C. Couch, J. A. Couch, John W. Pace, Hardy Grissom, W. H. Marchbanks, J. L. Southern, F. L. Daugherty, D. M. Smith, A. C. Pierson, M. B. Lebo, Sam A. Roberts, R. C. Montgomery, Hines W. Bryant, T. J. Arbuckle, J. O. Foster and the hostess, O. E. Patterson.

METHODIST MISSIONARY

On last Monday afternoon the Methodist Missionary society met in regular session and Mrs. J. L. Southern conducted a splendid program on quines from the Missionary Voice. Mrs. Southern is the Voice agent and has secured nearly a 100 per cent subscription. The devotional was led by the president, Mrs. S. R. Rike, and special prayers were offered for Mrs. Bruce W. Bryant who is in the Stamford sanitarium. A short business meeting followed.

APOLLO DUEO LYCEUM

The north ward and high school Parent-Teacher association are sponsoring the Dixie lyceum course this year and the first number, Apollo Duse appeared at the Taskall high school auditorium last Monday evening at 8 o'clock to a packed house, which means between three and four hundred people. Members of the association with their president, Mrs. Dale Anderson, have sold enough season tickets to pay for the entire course and have a surplus of $45 or $60 to their credit in the bank.

TEXAS CLUB WOMEN.

Miss Irma Fay Stokes, state chairman of citizenship, Dangerfield, Texas, announces she will award a $15 gold piece at the American citizenship luncheon, state meeting at Dallas in November, for the best essay on citizenship training. Essays must be original and not to exceed 600 words. All entrants must be members of Federated Clubs of Texas and essays must be sent to Miss Stokes by November 1. Name of writer, name and number of district should appear on each essay.

HASKELL PERSONALS

Texas and Oklahoma Show Decrease In Number of Drilling Wells for Week

A decline of 71 operations in Mid-Continent activity during the past week was noted, according to The Oil Weekly, in which its current issue out today states that the total operations of the Mid-Continent field fell to 1,942 operations, compared with 2,938 during the previous week. Oklahoma and Texas showed material decreases, while a small increases was registered in Kansas. The decline is laid largely to the poor weather conditions during the past several weeks, which has greatly hindered field work.

To Enforce 'Spider' Law In Texas Gins

AUSTIN, Oct. 8. (AP)—Campaign to enforce the "spider law" in the 2,560 cotton gins in Texas got under way Friday, E. J. Crocker, state labor commissioner, announced. Investigation has disclosed that 65 per cent of the violations of the law are in gins that do not compress cotton for foreign shipment, he said.

The "spider law" is to prevent ends of the bands on cotton bales from sticking out and cutting and otherwise injuring the handlers of the cotton. Many persons have been injured through the negligence of gins to have the spiders snapped off, Commissioner Crocker said.

LAKES TO WED OCEAN
Barrel of Water From Great Lakes Poured Into Atlantic

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The wafers of the Great Lakes and the Atlantic are to be remarried after 109 years. Governor DeWitt Clinton a century ago brought a keg of water from Lake Erie and dumped it into New York harbors. His grandson, George Clinton, 80, has just sent a similar keg filled here. It will be emptied at Buffalo in celebration of the 10th anniversary of the opening of Erie canal.

GIRL CALMS BANDIT

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 8. (AP)—Once a lion was tamed by removal of a painful thorn from his paw, Dr. Louise Farnam, daughter of a Yale professor, so pleased General Chiang, leader of the Canton army, by extracting an aching tooth that he promised that Yale-in-China, a college in Honan, would be amply protected.

EX-HOUSTON MAYOR DIES

HOUSTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—A. L. Jackson, mayor of Houston from 1904 to 1905 died Friday at his residence here following a lingering illness. He was 62 years old. He is survived by five children. He was the last mayor to serve under the Aldermanic form of city government.

'GREEN' HOUSE WILL BE SOLD

Scene of Capital Intrigue Gives Way to Room For Business

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—The "little green house on K street" which figured so prominently in the senate's investigation of Harry M. Daughtery's administration of the department of justice, has succumbed to the capital business district's demands for more room and will be turned into stores and apartments.

The house, which figured in a real estate transfer today, is on the edge of the city's main business center. It was here that witnesses in the Daugherty inquiry testified that many liquor and other illegal deals and transactions were made. It also was described at the hearings as a gathering place for high officials and business men for poker games at high stakes.

Texas Needs Second Cotton Outlet, Claim

DALLAS, Oct. 8. (AP)—How a "needed" second gulf port cotton market in the Beaumont-Port Arthur district, similar to the Houston-Galveston market, could be created by connection of Texas cotton areas with the coast by way of the Waco, Beaumont, Trinity and Sabine railway, was outlined today by P. T. Nubbell, Houston, vice president of the road.

He was testifying before the I. C. C. hearing on the proposed Loree merger of southwestern rail lines, which his road opposes unless included.

FEAR CORN WORM.
Presence of Corn Borer Worries American Farmers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8. (AP)—A little worm about an inch long with a double row of brown dots down its jointed back is spreading alarm in the middlewest and threatening one of its chief products—corn.

The international corn borer committee met here today to devise means of heading off the pest, known as the European corn borer. Members said the ravages of the worm, which having entered the country from Europe and Canada, is traveling westward at the speed of 25 miles a year, have brought about as serious a condition as ever threatened agriculture.

PANDEM EARNINGS UP.

The Pandem Oil corporation during August had net profits of $56,384, after expenses against $51,866 in July. Expenses were $13,472 against $10,866 the month before. Its crude output is now in excess of 1,000 barrels a day from its producing wells in Archer and other northern Texas pools.

BETTER GASOLINE BUYING.

Mid-Continent refiners report a better tone to buying, apparently the softening of prices, causing jobbers to decide that it was time to come into the market for fresh supplies. The buying wave has had a tendency to strengthen quotations.

Suave Young Bandit Thanks His Victims

DALLAS, Oct. 8.(AP)—A polite, suave young man about 26, wearing horn rimmed spectacles, held up a drug store proprietor, the soda "squirt" and the delivery boy last night and cleaned out the cash register.

The young man innocently drank a carbonated concoction and even paid for it, but demanded his money back along with the $25 in the till when the boy started to make change. The attention of the boss and delivery boy in the bank was invited by the visitor to the fact that a 1926 model holdup was in progress. He invited them to participate in conventional style by elevating their hands. They accepted.

"Thanks for the financial assistance," he said insouciantly as he left.

SOLONS HEAR DAVIDSON

AUSTIN, Oct. 8. (AP)—Lynch Davidson, former lieutenant governor and twice candidate for governor of Texas, told the senate in closing session of the call session, 39th legislature, that from now and on he was going to be a private citizen.

GAS ON RIO GRANDE

BROWNSVILLE, Oct. 8. (AP) Contract for the construction of a natural gas line from the Webb and Jim Hogg county gas fields into the lower Rio Grande valley was awarded at San Antonio Thursday to the Hope Construction company of Ohio.

WIFE DEPARTS WITH FORTUNE

Husband Finds Cash Drawer $50,000 Minus When He Comes Home

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 8. (AP) Hunted from the Pacific to the Atlantic ocean by two governments, a woman, said to have taken $50,000 in cash from a bank in Mexico City and believed to be "somewhere" in the United States is being searched for in San Antonio by her husband.

The couple came from Wien, Austria, and for the past two years have resided in Mexico City, where the husband was a manufacturer. They had been married for seven years, the husband said.

Drawing $50,000 cash from their bank, the wife early last August suddenly disappeared without explanation. The husband, unable to comprehend her motive, notified the United States and Mexican government authorities and personally entered the international search, offering a $500 reward for her address.

CHILL IT! you can still cream it easily

Outside the window in winter .... inside the ice-box in summer. Anywhere to get it chilly cold .... that is the right way and the best way to use shortening in pastry, biscuits or cake. Everything cold and dry and then you get the best results.

Be sure the Shortening is Mrs. Tucker's. It creams "beautifully" at any temperature. You can easily and quickly blend it with the flour or sugar with no loss of time or temper.

This is another reason why good cooks prefer this all cotton-seed oil shortening.

HAINES HERE FOR ADDRESS

Republican Candidate For Governor to Speak At Bellevue

Col. Harvey H. Haines, republican nominee for governor of Texas, will speak in Wichita Falls tonight in the interests of his candidacy, it was announced yesterday from republican county headquarters. Haines will remain in the city Saturday night and Sunday as the guest of Orville Bullington, prominent republican, and will leave Monday morning for Archer City where he will speak later in the day. From there he will go on south on his speaking tour.

Tonight's meeting will be held at Bellevue park, weather permitting. Should rain or cold necessitate a change, it will be held in one of the district court rooms at the courthouse. Mr. Bullington and Melville E. Peters will make short talks preceding Haines and the meeting probably will be presided over by O. R. Hartt, republican county chairman.

A large crowd is expected to hear Haines.

Sane Girl Imprisoned With Lunatics; England Stirred by Cruelties of Law

Central Press Photos

Miss Rose Berrows and Dr. Montague Lomax.

England has been greatly stirred with the expose which has been made of gross cruelties and injustices inflicted by asylums for the insane in the Kingdom. Numerous cases of the incarceration of normal people in asylums, either as a result of personal intrigue or for the profit such persons can bring to the institutions, have been revealed. Dr. Montague Lomax, eminent psychologist, has presented much of the most telling evidence. Miss Rose Berrows, a lovely young woman, has been compelled to suffer horribly as a result of a childish misdemeanor which brought her to the attention of officials. She has been condemned to life-long imprisonment among raving lunatics.

Jones To Speak In Frisco Church Pulpit

The religious opportunities for a layman, viewed from a Texas slant and interpreted by a Wichitan, will be propounded in some detail next Sunday to San Francisco Methodism when Oral Jones of this city takes the pulpit of the Fitzgerald Memorial Methodist church of the Golden Gate city.

Jones, who is a sort of civic apostle, minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary from Wichita Falls to the world at large, and in off hours acts as finance commissioner of the city and vice president and cashier of the City National bank, is on a barnstorming tour of the west coast after attending the convention of the American Bankers' association in Los Angeles. Arriving in San Francisco yesterday he was interviewed by R. L. Jackson, pastor of the Fitzgerald Memorial church and who is a warm personal friend of Dr. Walter J. Johnson, pastor of the First Methodist church, south, of Wichita Falls. The upshot of it seemed to be that the local banker was slated to speak next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock on the subject of "A Layman's Opportunity."

He will return home the latter part of next week.

STATE COMMERCE CHAMBER

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 8. (AP)—The formulation of a plan of organizing, financing and operating a south Texas chamber of commerce will be taken up when a committee of eight representing over sixty counties will meet Monday morning in Beeville.

CHARLIE

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Copher of Charlie, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Friday with a dinner at which all their children and a few long-time friends including Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wells, Mrs. M. E. Barger, M. Tucker and A. H. Bevering were present, also with a reception given in the afternoon for their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Copher were married in Batesville, Ark., September 24, 1876. Mrs. Copher was before her marriage Miss Publia Wisdom. To the union were born 11 children, all of whom are still living, except two daughters, one little Nettie who died when very small, and Mrs. John Bevering who died six years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Copher moved to this community 26 years ago, purchased land, and became prosperous farmers. They were at one time engaged in the mercantile business and now have extensive land holdings here. Mr. Copher is 76 and Mrs. Copher 70 years of age. Both are still strong and are very active in social and religious affairs.

The reception given in the afternoon from 3 to 5, was an event of much social interest. A color scheme of gold and white appeared in the decorations of ferns, tall baskets of golden plumed chrysantheumums, poppies, golden glow and roses, in the living room. The dining room table was lovely with a madeira cloth over yellow, and the center piece a three tiered wedding cake sat directly under the wedding bell suspended from the ceiling by streamers.

Assisting in the afternoon entertainment were Mrs. J. L. Block, Mrs. W. W. Barger and Miss Gussie Tucker of Charlie, and Mrs. S. E. Haddox and Mrs. O. O. Gilbert of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Homer Hamm of Henrietta.

Sixty-eight gifts were received, among which were a lovely water set, a silver set, many beautiful linens and a 1927 model Ford sedan given Mrs. Copher by her husband.

Grand children present were: Bernice and W. H. Copher, Jr., Fort Worth; George, Virgel, Travis, Trammel and Tressie Stew artof Sedan, Okla.; Marjorie Bevering of Henrietta; Hellen and Pualine Copher of Nocona; Audry and Glen Copher and Edwin Pepper of Charlie. About one hundred guests called during the afternoon.

Out-of-town guests were: Messrs. and Mesdames J. E. Wolf, C. L. Wolf, S. T. Butler, M. L. Hooker, George Garner, Johnnie Meyers and Mrs. M. E. Beck, Mrs. S. E. Haddox, Mrs. O. O. Gilbert and Fay Hooker all of Wichita Falls; Mrs. Nat Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jorden and W. C. Murry of Byers; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mooney, Mrs. Lena King and Mrs. Alpia Camp of Temple, Okla.; A. H. Bevering, John Bevering, Mrs. Homer Hamm and Misses Virginia and Marjorie Bevering of Henrietta, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Loving, Lawton, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Curington of Stringtown.

An interesting feature of the afternoon entertainment was a poem composed and given as a reading by Mrs. E. L. Person of Charlie.

Insurance Plea Taken Up Before Business Council

The request of insurance companies of Texas for relief from a situation that is giving them an inequitable return on their investments came up for some explanation and discussion at the business council luncheon Friday noon. Business men of the city were asked to give thought to the matter, and, if deemed advisable, to make suggestions or recommendations of some kind to the state insurance commission which has continued a hearing on the application for relief until next March.

C. Y. Tulley, president of the Wichita Falls Insurance Exchange, explained the plea of the insurance companies, outlined provisions of the valid policy law, agitation for repeal of which is now being made, and answered a number of questions.

Several Wichitans made comments on various insurance problems, among them being Albert Myles, J. J. Perkins, E. H. Eddleman, J. T. Harrell, Claude Miller, J. S. Bridewell, R. E. Pennick and Dr. Everette Jones.

No action was taken by the council but the matter will come up for further discussion next week.

BOOK COVERS HERE

One thousand book covers were received at the office of County School Superintendent Burl Bryant Friday afternoon and are to be distributed among the rural schools in the county, Mr. Bryant said.

The covers were given by the Texas Cottonseed Crushers' association and were received here through the courtesy of the local cottonseed mill and George Dashner.

MOTORIST FINED

A motorist was fined $5 in corporation court Friday morning by Judge W. L. Bass on a charge of driving over green pavement. This was the first case of a violation of an ordinance passed by the city council several weeks ago making it a misdemeanor for a motorist to drive over green pavement or tear down barriers.

CASHION IS OPENED.

Opening of the new high school building of the Cashion school was made formally Friday night when hundreds of citizens from the community, Burkburnett and Wichita Falls attended, and inspected the new brick structure.

Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of city schools, was the principal speaker. E. R. Stroud is superintendent of the Cashion school.

Everybody's Taking KLOK-LAX Now!

All druggists report big demand for KLOK-LAX!

People are turning away from the old purgatives and laxatives and are taking the new, improved KLOK-LAX to STOP CONSTIPATION.

Everybody is learning that constipation is DANGEROUS — that headaches, sour taste, no appetite and lazy, let-down feeling are just the forerunner of possible serious disease and the sick bed. They know now that constipation has got to be stopped! It's a serious thing.

And they have found out that salts, oils, cascaras, and the ordinary methods DON'T STOP CONSTIPATION. Such things only reach parts of the long intestinal drainage canal. But, KLOK-LAX thoroughly cleans out every inch of the twenty-eight feet, including your stomach, upper and lower intestines!

That's why KLOK-LAX overcomes constipation. All the clogged up, foul wastes that breed disease and fill you with poisons are cleaned out—cleared out of your system entirely. Then, this most prolific source of sickness is purified.

If you are not having a regular and complete elimination every day, take KLOK-LAX. They are delightful to take — just a tablet with a swallow of water — at 7 o'clock tonight. No nausea — no griping—not the least interference with your work or play.

Then, tomorrow, when you are thoroughly cleansed out, you'll be refreshed! All that dull, let-down feeling will be gone—head clear, mouth and breath sweet and clean, skin cleared up! You'll feel full of life and energy, with a hearty appetite—ready to tackle anything.

Get KLOK-LAX at any good druggist.—Adv.

VIEWS OF A MANUFACTURER

COTTON is the principal topic of conversation in the states of the south and the southwest where the fleecy staple is grown. All classes and conditions in the cotton producing states are vitally interested in the price of the fleecy staple. Texas' bankers and business men should evolve some immediately effective plan of assisting the cotton farmer according to J. H. McDonough, so that the crop of this year, "the finest in quality since that of 1914, may not be thrown away at a price below the cost of production."

J. H. McDonough is president of the Murray company of Texas, one of the foremost ginning concerns of the country. This manufacturer of Texas is for a plan that will result in a permanent and continuing solution of the problem presented by the existing low price of cotton. He insists that no one man or concern should handle more than 25 or 50 bales, so as to insure the withdrawal of a quantity large enough to force the market upward.

He would have the entire state, bankers and all, get behind the withdrawal movement. He would reject outside offers of assistance. He would have Texas make it known to the world "that this was not a distress movement, but simply the persuance of a policy any good man would adopt to protect his business."

According to Mr. McDonough, we have in Texas this year the strongest fiber cotton produced since 1914. "That is due," he said, 'to the excellent conditions under which the crop was produced. It is cotton that the millers want and must have because of its fine quality. Yet under existing conditions, it seems the farmer, in effect, will have to throw the crop away because the present price will not cover the cost of production."

This Texas manufacturer looks upon the situation as shameful and he gives the reasons why he considers it shameful. One is, "We know that cotton can be stored for 25 years without deterioration and all that is necessary is to withdraw enough of it from the market to bring about a reasonable price."

Cotton is a non-perishable product. Safely housed or stored, it can be carried over year after year and never suffer in fiber or quality. There is another feature of existing conditions which he emphasized—that relief cannot be had from the mills because of changing conditions in commerce and industry. Now what are the new conditions?

"The cotton spinners now buy cotton from hand to mouth because the wholesaler buys his goods from the spinner and the miller that way, and in turn the retailer peruses a similar policy with the wholesaler. Modern transportation has stopped the practice of buying heavy stocks of either raw materials or manufactured commodities, and the cotton spinner and cloth maker now have their output sold before they buy the cotton for its manufacture. Thus it is up to the south to solve its own marketing problems."

And the south must evolve a marketing problem. If the miller buys from hand to mouth because the wholesaler buys from hand to mouth to the retailer who buys and sells from hand to mouth, then the cotton grower must market the fleecy staple from hand to mouth and not pick and gin and sell the entire crop of a single year in from sixty to ninety days.

This is what the majority of the growers have been doing since the close of the Civil war, and this is what the planters did with cotton produced by slave labor before the coming of the war between the states.

This hard-headed manufacturer insists that we have plenty of money in Texas and Texas should handle its own end of the situation, "as should each of the other cotton states, without asking any help from outside, or raising any cry of calamity, because there is no calamity that we cannot ourselves prevent if we take the right actions speedily enough."

He thinks the plan of the bankers to raise $100,000,000 to take 1,000,000 bales off the market is a good one, "if it is put into effect quickly enough." He suggests it might also be a good plan for manufacturers, bankers and other business interests to buy up cotton, paying therefor fifteen or sixteen cents a pound.

There are two million southern families engaged in the production of cotton. There is a vast army of non-producers of cotton who are engaged in the cotton industry. They are the buyers of cotton, the shippers of cotton, the men who supply the foreign market with American cotton and all the bankers and the merchants and manufacturers in the cotton states are as vitally concerned as the producers of the fleecy staple.

Mr. McDonough is correct. Conditions have changed. Millers buy the raw material from hand to mouth. They sell the finished product in the same way. An all the year marketing problem of cotton instead of a ninety-day period of the marketing of cotton is one of the demands of the day.

It is a mighty problem and it is one that must be solved by those who are directly interested in the cotton industry from field to mill, from mill to the retailer and from the retailer back to the people who produce the crop.

MILLERS AND CHEAP COTTON

COTTON manufacturers of New England do not wish cheap cotton. They do not want ruinous prices for cotton. John S. Lawrence is the head of the New England Council of Cotton Manufacturers, and he has made the above statement. Moreover, he says, that the opinion that cotton spinners and manufacturers are interested in depressing prices of cotton has been inspired by loose talkers and demagogues. Moreover again, he says, this talk is now all too prevalent in the south, that it does not come from the thoughtful, but from the unthinking.

He is for a fair and reasonable return to the cotton grower, and his argument is, "That the south as a whole is compelled to sell its cotton at below cost of production, the growers will have no money to buy cotton goods, and such a situation would seriously affect the outlet of one of the best and largest cotton goods consuming markets in the world."

Senator Peter B. Gerry of Rhode Island is directing a democratic campaign for the election of senators and representatives in the coming month of November. Senator Gerry says a high tariff has ruined the textile industry in New England and that soup houses will be needed for idle workers the coming winter.

Senator Heflin of Alabama is of the opinion that New England millers and New York gamblers are responsible for the low price of cotton. Senator Heflin is a politician, a very gabby one at that.

GARY ON BUSINESS

STEEL is said to be the barometer of business. Elbert H. Gary is the official spokesman of the House of Steel. Gary is optimistic. Gary, in a review, says business conditions at the present time is very satisfactory. Gary says he is convinced there is no necessity for any important slump in business at any time. Gary says politics, more or less, effect business conditions but he gives it as his opinion the majority of the American people desire prosperity and will do what they can by their votes to maintain prosperous conditions.

Wheat farmers are not growling. They are receiving a fair price for their wheat.

Corn farmers are not growling. There is a demand for corn at a fair price.

Cotton farmers are growling. They are rushing their product to the market and the prevailing prices below the cost of production.

Gary is not a cotton farmer. Gary is a steel maker. Steel makers regulate their business. That is, they regulate the output of their mills. They keep ahead of the game as to the conditions the world over. If they scent dull times coming, they cut production. They know what they are doing. They book their order a year ahead and at times, two years ahead.

It is possible to control the output of steel. It is not possible to control the output of cotton unless the growers adopt the slogan, "All for one and one for all," regulate the acreage and present to the world a modern marketing system.

PLENTY OF ADVICE

IF advice could be turned into cash, the cotton grower would be on easy street. A big business man in north Texas let loose this, "Cotton producers should warehouse their cotton until the market price reaches a level where the cotton crop can be sold for a profit over production." If the cotton producer hasn't a dollar in his pocket and his credit is near the breaking point, how is he going to warehouse his cotton unless he is given financial assistance. Money talks in all tongues and all languages without the need of an interpreter.

PATHETIC FIGURES

The Ace Of Cads

BY MICHAEL ARLEN

nor that I am a slave to malice for as you know I was later expelled from their company; but truth compels me to confess that my companions of those days were notable rather for the correctness of their appearance than for their learning, while their charm was of that static, profound sort which no one could call ingratiating and a certain kind of primitive bandinage was held among them to be the superior of wit.

"And as time went on I came to be esteemed among the lighter sort for those qualities of the tongue and mind that are calculated to send any man, in due course, headlong down the crooked path.

"But I must tell you I had one very great friend among them. This was a man who had everything I had not; a simple frankness, a plain but almost painfully honest bearing, and a heart like gold; which was then, of course, more evidently in circulation than it is now. I cannot imagine how a boy of that sort could have loved and admired me; but he undoubtedly did, and to a singular degree, so that I was frequently enabled to borrow money from him almost painlessly, for he was heir to a great fortune, with which went a great name; although, to be sure, he was often as hard put to it as I was to fit a morsel of caviare to a piece of toast, for his father had ideas about real estate quite contrary to ours.

"My friend became engaged to a beautiful girl. What she saw in the boy, I do not know. Women are, let's face it, odd. That she loved him, I was instantly certain. Even my youthful cynicism could not ascribe to her the mean calculation of a fortune-hunter. That he loved her, madly and madly again, he frequently made clear to me in those broken and inarticulate periods that are the hallmark of all honest Englishmen, in love; and which, being often quite inaudible, have earned for Englishmen a delightful reputation for restraint. But let us not generalize when we can so profitably be particular.

"We were at that time in the barracks that guard the frontiers of Chelsea; my friend and I in adjacent rooms. Our ways of life, however, were at that time vastly different; for as I was passing through a financial void I would, with that resignation which no one can deny has been my one consistent virtue, go early to bed every night; whereas my friend would return night after night at about this hour, having escorted his betrothed home after a play and a ball; and night after night, as he prepared himself for bed in the adjoining room, he would softly whistle a tune. Thus, you understand, he expressed his happiness; and killed it, for the walls were thin and the tune intolerable.

"It was Mendelssohn's Spring Song; and, Sir Guy, I had, and still have a marked distaste for that composition.

"One day I borrowed a sum of money from him. He, poor boy, was so absorbed in his happiness that he scarcely noticed the third zero which, having seen how readily he had already attached two, I persuaded him to add the primary numeral on the cheque. Whereupon, with his full permission, and a thousand pounds of his money, I prepared to make myself agreeable to his fiancee.

"He trusted me implicitly, that boy. And who," Mr. Maturin asked dreamily of the middle distance, "who will tell the tale of the ramifications and subtleties and intrigues of the next few weeks, how I used every art on that beautiful girl, how she came to believe in my love for her—and maybe I believed in it myself — how she came to look wearily on the honest but plain features of her fiance, how she came to suffer his inarticulate periods with a doubtful smile; and how finally—though he had long since ceased to whistle the Spring Song—she broke her engagement to him, and had certainly become my wife but that I was about that time expelled from the Brigade and was never, until quite lately, a marrying man. That is all and, I think," said Beau Maturin softly, looking round at the chair which had until a moment ago been occupied by the figure of Jean de Gramercy, "quite enough."

Sir Guy was silent; his thin long hands clasped nervously together on the surface of the writing-table, he stared fixedly at a point on the carpet. Mrs. de Gramercy was silent. Mr. Maturin examined, for quite a while, the points of his shoes. At last he murmured: "Well—"

Sir Guy said, as though to himself: "That was a very dreadful story."

"Wasn't it?" Mr. Maturin agreed gravely. "Well, good night, Mrs. de Gramercy. Good night, Sir Guy." And he strode towards the distant shadows by the door.

"A moment!" the old gentleman seemed to awake. "Mr. Maturin, my daughter-in-law and I have to thank you. Good bye."

The tall shadow by the door, as though on the impulse of a sudden memory, seemed to touch the outside of his breast-pocket. "Oh, by the way," he said, "if you don't mind, keep this bank note. Your house owes it to me. Good bye, good day, Mrs. de Gramercy!"

Through the silence of the house the two heard the steps of Beau Maturin on the flags of the hall, the closing of the front-door, the faint echo of his passage down the square. Sir Guy was staring bemused at the still, distant figure of his daughter-in-law.

"What did he say, Eleanour? that our house owed him that money? What on earth did the man mean?"

"What he said," the shadow whispered and then it laughed, and old Sir Guy jumped from his chair with the queer shock of that laugh.

"Eleanour!"

Old Sir Guy held her hands very tenderly. "But what is on your mind, Eleanour? Why did you laugh in that dreadful way?"

She opened those tired eyes very wide. "Oh, surely, dear, I am allowed that — to laugh at your having called Beau Maturin the ace of cads!"

Old Sir Guy said sternly: "Yes, you are tired, Eleanour. You are not yourself."

"Poor old gentleman!" she tenderly, bitterly smiled up at him. "Poor old gentleman! Dear, like all your generation you have been wrong about everything in ours, but everything! Oh, you have been so wrong about what was good and what was rotten in young people! Wrong about your own son, about me, about Beau Maturin—"

Sir Guy snapped with savage impatience: "You will kindly explain, Eleanour, what all this fantastic nonsense is about."

LOST MAN JOINS KIN

Missing Chicago Man Found In Texas by Family.

DALLAS, Oct. 8. (AP)—Reunited with his family after more than three years of wandering, Lewis Larson, former manager of the Chicago board of education, arrived here last night from Paris, Texas.

Larson, his wife, and their two children, Leonard and Lucille, were reunited in a Paris hotel following a search by the son which has covered a considerable portion of north Texas, which began last week when Larson was recognized on the streets here by J. D. Pasho, an old friend.

Questions from the World of Love Answered by a Noted Authority

Misguided Parents Who Wrongly Opened Their Son's Mail—What Can a Married Woman Do Whose Husband Simply Announces He Has Tired of Her?—At What Age Should a Man Marry?

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a son of 17 who went away from home to pay a visit. After he returned he received a letter in a girl's handwriting, and I steamed it open and read it. It began: "My darling baby angel boy," and was full of such slushy sentiment that I showed it to my husband, and we decided not to give it to our son. So when he inquired if there was any mail for him we said "No," and he seemed terribly disappointed. Don't you think we did right in keeping this sort of letter from a boy of his age? MRS. A.

Answer:

No, indeed. I think you did a wrong thing and a most terribly unwise thing, for sooner or later your son will find out that you opened his letter and read it and lied to him, and in his heart of hearts he will never forgive you for it.

With your own hands you have toppled over the altar on which he has enshrined you in his soul, and it can never be built up again. Nevermore will he see you again as godlings to be looked up to and reverenced and worshiped. Instead, he will secretly despise you as two persons who will stoop to doing underhand things and then lie about them.

And it is a sad day for a boy and a sadder one for his parents when that happens, and his ideal of them is smashed into smithers. Most fathers and mothers consider that they have a right to open their children's mail and read their letters before the children read them. They contend that they have a right to know what sort of letters their children are receiving, but those who hold to this opinion should at least be honest and honorable enough to enforce their views openly. Mary should be warned that mother's critical eye will scan her foolish little love letters. John should be aware that father will mull over his billet doux.

Personally I am strongly opposed to parents opening and reading their children's letters. I think that whatever little good mothers and father may do as censors is as nothing to the harm they do in outraging their children's sense of individual liberty and privacy.

Somehow, a letter is one of the most sacred things of all things. It is a message straight from one individual to another, from one heart to another. It is not intended for the general public, nor to be read by alien eyes, and there is no one who does not feel a sense of resentment at having some one else tamper with his or her mail. And young people feel this even more than grown ups.

Let us not judge the boys and girls who write this stuff too severely, because we have all done it when we were in our teens. And we got over it and made respectable, commonplace men and women.

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch

WHEN IT LOOKS LIKE RAIN

Many a day that "looks like rain"
That brings us never a show'r,
Many a thought that gives us a pain
Forgot some happier hour,
I would not think of the rain too soon
For the sky that's gray may clear by noon,
I would not worry, I would not guess,
I would wait a little for happiness.

Many a word may seem unkind,
A word that was kindly meant,
For back of the word you yet may find
The gleam of a good intent.
I would not answer with angry word
The word of anger I thought I heard,
Whatever another may seem to do,
I would wait a little until I knew.

Many a plan may sem to fail
And many a dream go wrong,
But the wrong may perish, the right prevail,
I would wait, though you wait for long,
I would labor on, I would still endure,
And I would not quit till I knew for sure,
For many a sun comes out again
On many a day that looks like rain.

What Do You Know About It?

DAILY SCIENCE SIX

1. Where do date palms grow?
2. What palm yields buttons?
3. Where does the palm that gives the oil of some soap grow?
4. In what way are the trunks of palms different from those of other trees (except bamboo)?
5. What is the peculiarity about the way in which palm leaves grow on the stem?
6. What is the palm that has more uses than any other other plan in the world?

Answers to these questions in Monday's Record News.

Traveler's Palm

The most important food plants in the world are the grasses, but taken all in all the most generally useful plant family is that of the palms. For beauty they are incomparable trees, though palms should not be judged by the stunted, sterile little things in northern parlors. Among the strange of all palms is the Traveler's palm, so named because the thirsty traveler has but to puncture the base of its leaf stalf to get a cupful of pure water.

Now what do you know about that?

Answers to yesterday's questions:

1. The chief area of active volcanoes is in the East Indies.
2. Volcanoes are not always, though generally, mountains; by definition a volcano is any vent in the earth which gives forth lava.
3. Volcanoes of an active sort are now very rare in this country; some insignicifant ones have recently developed in the Western States.
4. Kragatoa blew into dust instantly in 1883.
5. In 1902 Mt. Pelee exploded, killing thirty thousand people on the island of Marinique.
6. Volcanoes are beneficial because they keep up the supply of nitrogen, helium, and other important gases of the air, and because they keep up the supply of earth which rivers wash to the sea; in the future, too, they may be tapped for their heat and energy; also the soil of their deposit is wonderously fertile.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

BY MARY BLAKE

Today's planetary aspects are variable and somewhat indefinite. In the morning, and until noon, they are rather adverse, although not definitely so. The afternoon reveals conditions that are encouraging and redolent of optimism and hope. The evening's aspects are drab and uninteresting. On such a day, the safe plan is to do only those things that are necessary and obligatory, nothing that calls for intensive energy should be essayed. In view, however, of the emotions that will be stirred by the astrological influences, it will prove to be a very good opportunity for marriage, and the signs denote that weddings celebrated today will be fraught with happiness and possess the quality of endurance.

Children born today will, during infancy, experience very few of those ailments that are generally characteristic of such a period. They will not be endowed with any abnormal strength, but the signs denote that ther powers of resistence will be strongly developed and, if not actually strong, they will be wiry. In disposition they will be moody, and, at times, morose. In order to counteract this, they should be forced to associate as much as possible with playmates of their own age. They will show a great liking for school, and for all that this implies. They will be more amenable to example than to percept, and their whole life will depend for its success on early environment.

If today is your birthday, you possess unbounded confidence in yourself and your ability. This confidence is not mis-placed, as you have a careful, well-balanced mind, and good judgment. This is all backed up by a fund of general information, and you, as well as those actively associated with you, always profit by experience and consider it "the Great Teacher." Your nature is deliberate, and you never give expression to any "half-baked" ideas. You believe in study and research, and exercise this creed in small as well as in large matters. You possess a strongly developed sense of justice, and are eminently tolerate of others and their opinions. Your love for children is very great. You like all sorts of amusement, but never allow recreation, no matter how appealing it may be, to interfere with the faithful carrying out of what you conceive to be your duties. In your home, you are demonstratively affectionate and kind, and the omens say that you will be fortunate in the selection of a mate.

Successful people born this date are:

Winfield Scott Schley—Naval officer.

Leonard. Wood—Soldier, governor-general of Cuba.

The Wrong Place Altogether

A purely self-made citizen took a trip to Europe not long ago—his first trip abroad. After he reached London unexpected business carried him to Paris. Upon his return he was telling a New York friend about his experiences.

"I don't speak many French," he said, "and I didn't know the name of any Paris hotels. So when we landed at Calais I bought a lot of postal cards of Paris views, because I figured there'd be a picture of one of the big hotels anyhow. Sure enough I found a postcard showing a great big stone building with flags on it, and it was caled "Hotel de Ville."

"That'll do for me," I says to myself. "So when we got to Paris I climbs into a taxi and says "Hotel de Ville' to the driver.

"Say, do you know where he took me? The derned fool took me to the city hall."

Chrysler Announces New And Finer '70'

With striking new body designs and new smaller wheels, both of which will likely establish new vogues in motor car appearance and design, Chrysler announces a new Chrysler "70" at considerably lower prices. It will be remembered that it was the "70" which three years ago established this company in its dominant position in the automobile industry.

Seven new body designs are offered in the new finer "70" line, with prices ranging from $1295 to $1795 F. O. B. Detroit. These include th ePhaeton at $1395; the Sport Phaeton at $1495; roadster at $1495; Brougham $1525; Royal coupe $1545; the Royal sedan at $1595 and Crown sedan at $1795. In addition there will be a four passenger coupe and a Cabriolet —prices to be announced later.

Childress Pythians Plan New Building

CHILDRESS, Oct. 8.—Plans for the erection of a two-story brick building by the Knights of Pythias lodge, corner of Second and Avenue B are being made by members of the organization. The building when completed would cost $30,000 and be one of the most modern structures in the city.

A meeting is called for Tuesday night to make definite arrangements concerning the building.

No Runaway Expected In Coyote-Baptist Tilt Today

Wichita Falls Junior College Eleven Unable Strong Club on Field Against Junior College Gridmen

Coyotes versus Baptists will be the feature entertainment to be offered athletic fans this week-end, the contest to take place at Spudder park this afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. The Decatur eleven has rated for several years among the top numbers in state junior college circles, last year having an especially strong combination. The main part of last year's power is still with the team and hence fans should be able to see a real fast and hard-hitting aggregation in action tpday.

The Red and Black of Wichita Falls will be able to throw into the contest a much more capable machine than at any other stage so far this year and observers of the Coyotes are not exactly expecting the game to be a runaway for the college boys. In fact many would not be too seriously surprised at the high school lads holding the senior team to a close battle.

Injuries Healing.

Most of the injuries that have thus far been slowing up the Pack are coming around nicely and, even though not entirely healed will permit the team to come nearer a complete first-string personnel than before. Pinney, Francis and Raysor, all formerly on the injured list, will all three be starters today. McKinney may also be back. Horton, crack wingman and Lynch, best open field runner for the Pack will not likely see service. Both could go in extreme emergency, but Coach McCallum is figuring on saving them all possible chance of further injury in order to get them ready for the opening league game with Electra Oct. 23.

Changed Lineup.

The starting line-up today will show several changes again. Newman, a new man, will hold down one of the wings. Coyal Francis, big backfield man with much plunging and running power, will be shifted from quarter to half. Pinney, star center, will be back at his old post at center for the first time since the opening game. Hobbs, another good pivot man, is being held in reserve for this post. Holstein, who has shown the most development among all the line candidates, will remain one more game at tackle on the offense, although Mac is contemplating seriously on shifting him to center both on offense and defensive plays. "Squirt" has already earned the important task of being the main cog in backing up the line as defensive center.

Yesterday the Coyote mentor announced as the probable starting lineup for today's game the following: Raysor, quarterback; Perk Ray, fullback; Alfred and Francis, halves; Newman and Neal, ends; Dobson and Holstein, tackles; Brown and Hunky Ray, guards; Pinney, center.

Anson Eleven Defeats Vernon

Lions Completely Outplayed By Class B. Team In Sensational Upset

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 8.—The powerful charging Anson High School Tigers class B contenders fought the highly touted Vernon Lions grid machine off its feet for a 12-0 victory on the local field this afternoon.

It was the first time the Lion colors dipped in defeat on the home ground since 1923, when Wichita Falls won over the local team in a title clash and both spectators and players were dazed by the loss.

The Tigers outclassed Baggett's chargers in every department of the game and the score was no indication of the comparative strength of the two clubs. The Tiger machine in addition to displaying a mighty offensive held the Lions powerless and the Vernon team made only one first down which was recorded when Captain Gelhausen skirted the Tiger left wing for 18-yards on the final play of the game. Anson gained at will registering 13 first downs during the game untimely fumbles held the visitors to a seemingly small score. With Sanders and Ribbles, Stellar Anson backs gaining at will through the Lion forward wall the Tigers took the offensive at the opening of the game and completely bewildered Baggett's club throughout the first half with their slashing drives that were checked without a gain in only two instances. Although neither team registered during the first quarter and the visitors recorded only seven points by the touchdown route in the second period the Tigers gaind a total of 129-yards to four gained by the local club during the first half. After the first few downs in which Vernon's backs were thrown for a loss and Gelhausen was forced to kick to the enemy there was never any doubt as to the outcome of the game. It was Anson's day.

The Tigers scored near the middle of the second quarter, taking a Lion's punt on Anson's 30-yard line and carrying the ball down the field to the counting line with a series of line smashes that functioned perfectly. Saunders booted for the extra point, although a high wind was blowing.

Anson gained two points in the third when Captain Gelhausen receiving the ball behind his own goal line from scrimmage after a Tiger punt had rolled out of bounds on Vernon's three yard line fumbled the ball and covered it himself. The three additional points were gained when Baker booted a goal from the field in the last quarter. Gelhausen's spectacular 18-yard run on the final down was the only bright spot in the Lion's performance. While the visitors piled up a total of 199 yards gained from the line of scrimmage, Baggett's crew accounted for only forty-one yards The major portion of the Lion's yardage was gained in the last period when the squad made a mighty effort to stage a comeback.

The line-up:

Vernon	Position	Anson
Parker	center	Smith
Black	left guard	Cutrel
Lewis	right guard	Edwards
Johnson	right tackle	Wommack
Tikey	right end	Bagley
Luttrell	quarterback	Baker
Gelhausen	fullback	Ribbles
C. Key	right half	Sanders

Substitutions: Anson: Rutledge for Barlett, Vernon: Nabors for Newth, Trammel for Castleberry, Newth for Nabors and Nabors for T. Key.

Fine Weather For A&M–Sewanee Go At Dallas This P. M.

DALLAS, Oct. 8. (AP)—Ideal gridiron conditions were in prospect for the first great intersectional contest of the season here Saturday, when Texas Aggies are scheduled to meet Sewanee Tigers of the University of the South at Fair Park stadium. The game will start at 3 o'clock and preparations are being made to handle a capacity crowd.

Twenty-two Sewanee Tigers arrived here today from their far-away Tennessee home, grimly determined to make their fourth invasion of the Lone Star state a successful one. The best the Tigers have been able to do in three games with the Aggies at Fair Park in former years, is a tie game.

Coach Bible led his Aggies into Dallas today also. The Aggie mentor admitted his team had a difficult assignment. However, Bible has already let it be known that he believes in the ability of his proteges, and games won by them this year support this confidence.

Freidman to Bring New Fistic Blood

Leo Deigel, Cherryvale, Kan., heavyweight, recently took Billy Britton, Columbus Cyclone, to an artistic lacing. Leo is one of the newcomers slated for next week's fight card.

Resumption of activities in Wichita Falls fistic circles Wednesday at the Eleventh and Ohio arena is to be realized with a bang if present plans do not go awry.

A new era in the city's fightdom looms with announcement Adolph Friedman, well-known local sportsman who is equally well-versed in the promotorial art, has agreed for the time being, at least, to take over the matchmaking end for the American legion.

Friedman plans, he says, to bring in new and first class battlers with which to satiate the long-unsatisfied desires of Wichita Falls fandom.

At one time topnotch fight cards were put on here weekly but the past several months the programs have been so poor fans began seeking elsewhere for amusement and attendance dropped down to almost nothing.

Next Wednesday's card is expected to be completed today and announcement made Sunday.

It is quite likely, said Friedman, that Leo Deibel, Kansas heavyweight, and one of the toughest boys in the game, and up-an-coming scrapper, will be on the program.

SANTEL RETURNS TUESDAY IN FINISH MATCH WITH LONDOS

Ad Santel, world's light heavyweight champion and for many months the idol of Wichita Falls wrestling enthusiasts, returns to the city after a long absence to meet Billy Londos, the Greek God, in a finish match Tuesday night at the Eleventh and Ohio arena, it was announced late last night.

Santel beyond all reasonable arguments has proven himself by far the cleverest light heavy of all time. But in recent years the "Flying Dutchman" has put on weight little by little until he balances the scales in the vicinity of 185 pounds and it is doubtful he can work back to the light heavy limit.

For years he has been forced to battle the combined heavyweight ranks for matches. He is just too good for the light heavies.

In Londos, Santel will meet a formidable opponent. The Greek has been named by some as the next heavyweight champion, the man who eventually will lift Joe Stetcher's crown and don the "Scissors King's" bejewelled belt.

Performance Of Pennock and O'Farrell In Title Play Labels 'em Most Valuable Players

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The brilliant world's series performances of Herb Pennock, Yankee southpaw, and Bob O'Farrell, Cardinal backstop, have emphasized the likelihood of their being officially recognized as the "most valuable players" of their respective leagues for 1926.

Pennock has capped his consistent work through the pennant season by registering two fine victories over the Cardinals, giving him a record of four triumphs altogether in world series without a defeat marked against him.

Pennock won 22 games and lost 11, leading the Yankee curving corps and ranking second on the American league pitching list to George Uhle, Cleveland star, who won 27 and lost 11. Experts figure Uhle and George Burns, Indian first baseman as Pennock's only outstanding rivals for the American league player award.

O'Farrell, a tower of strength all season to the Cardinals, has been a sensation in the series so far. His defensive play and handling of pitchers has stood out while he leads both clubs at bat with a mark of .437 for five games. O'Farrell caught all but nine of the Cardinal games in the pennant campaign and was declared by Hornsby to be the club's most valuable performer.

The National and American league most valuable player awards both will be decided shortly by committees of newspaper men representing the major league cities. Last year the American league made its decision before the world's series handing the palm to Roger Peckinpaugh, Washington short stop, whose play fell off sadly in the championship game with Pittsburgh.

The National league's award carries with it a cash prize of $1,000 but the American league confers only the honor of a diploma.

This is the fifth year of the American league award and the third for the National league. Previous winners were: 1922, George Sisler, of the St. Louis Browns; 1923 Babe Ruth of the Yankees; 1924, Walter Johnson of the Senators and Dazzy Vance of Brooklyn; 1925, Rogers Peckinpaugh of the Senators and Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals.

Memphis Defeats Burkburnett 30-0

MEMPHIS, Oct. 8.—The Memphis Cyclone, football eleven of Memphis high school completely outclassed the Burkburnett squad here today when they swept the field with a 30 to 0 victory. Memphis made five first downs and failed to kick extra point of all attempts.

Coach Bolton used the entire second string team during the game and attempted many new plays which had not been previously used on the local grid. The Cyclone was badly crippled from the Vernon game last week and was without Dennis, flashy fullback and sure kicker of the squad. Many of the new men are expected to make a good showing and may displace some of the first string men, according to Coach Bolton.

Doc Alibis Kansas Farmer Drubbing

AUSTIN, Oct. 8. (AP)—A policy of strict economy on the part of the University of Texas athletic council caused the loss of the game with the Kansas Aggies last Saturday, Coach E. J. "Doc" Stewart of the Longhorns charged at a rally of students here. The Kansas touchdowns were made as the result of two "illegalities" unseen by officials, Coach Stewart said, because of the refusal of the university athletic department to employ a field judge for the game. Two Kansas touchdowns were made while Longhorn players were "cut down," Coach Stewart said. The Longhorn coach declared the alleged illegalities were not seen because the umpire of the game played at Manhattan was serving as a combination of two or three officials, and was not watching for fouls in the plays when the Texas men were "cut down."

AURORA, Ills., Oct. 8. (AP)—Ben Oswalt 36, coach of the Mooseheart high school football team which won 148 games and lost four in nine years, died today. One of Oswalt's last requests was that the Mooseheart team play its game with Emerson high of Gary, Ind., tomorrow whether he lived or died. The game will be played.

ALEXANDER TO FACE SHAWKEY

Fair Weather Predicted For Sixth World's Series Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. (AP)—The probable batting order for the sixth world's series game tomorrow:

YANKEES	CARDINALS
Combs, cf	Holm, cf
Koenig, ss	Southworth, rf
Ruth, rf	Hornsby, 2b
Meusel, lf	Bottomley, 1b
Gehrig, 1b	Bell, 3b
Lazzeri, 2b.	Hafey, lf
Dugan, 3b	O'Farrell, c
Severeid, c	Thevenow, ss
Shawkey, p	Alexander, p

Time 1:30 p. m., eastern time.
Umpires: Klem (National) at plate; Dineen (American) at first base; O'Day (National) second base; Hilderbrand (American) at third.

With fair weather promised for the game, attendance records may be shattered for the fifth consecutive time with a crowd numbering close to 65,000. Last Sunday 62,600 jammed their way into the Yankee stadium to break all baseball records while on each of the three days in St. Louis the attendance mark for Sportsman park was shattered, with the crowd for the fifth game reaching 39,552.

The aggregate attendance for five games was 241,843, and a crowd of 61,000 tomorrow would be enough to send the total beyond the world's series record of 301,435 set by the Giants and Yankees in their six-game series of 1923.

Gate receipts also are certain to go over the million dollar mark with the sixth game. The total so far is close to $900,000 and another $200,000 "gate" here such as a capacity crowd would mean would send the figures to $1,100,000, within striking distance of the record of $1,182,854 made last fall when the Pirates beat the Senators in seven games. A seventh game in this series easily would send the receipts "over the top."

Ponies Slough Gents, 37 to 0

Mann, Cortmeglia and Hume Charge Roughly Over Centenary

DALLAS, Oct. 8. (AP)—A deer, named Mann, a battering ram, called Cortmeglia, and a kicking person by the name of Hume, representing the Southern Methodist university, here today made a sieve out of a football team from Centenary college, Shreveport.

When these Methodist Mustangs aforesaid had ceased their running, battering and punting, the Shreveport Gentlemen were holding the zero end of a 37-0 score, and everybody was out of breath.

The trio of scintillating pig skinners lost so much weight before it was over that they were taken out and numerous fresh players substituted to torture the visitors.

Score All At Once.

S. M. U. made three touchdowns in the last quarter and came so near making several others that the Gents, who were once the pride and joy of Bo McMillin, knew they were not fooling either.

The Methodists started right off the business at the first kick-off and before the Gents had got their directions straight S. M. U. had negotiated a drop kick for three points.

The Gents then got mad and began to fight. They held S. M. U. steady through the remainder of the first and all of the second quarters, but in the third Mr. Mann's feet got to working so fast he could not be stayed any longer. He caught a punt from Allday while running at full speed, charged down the field for 50 yards and a touchdown. Hume, whose toe knew its stuff, drop-kicked the goal for extra point.

Passing Attack.

Mann passed to Dawson for 18 yards and the next touchdown. Mann immediately afterward made a run of 27 yards. He then passed to Hume who gained 15 yards. After two more plays Cortemeglia scattered the line for a touchdown. Hume failed to kick goal.

Cortemeglia started the next offensive with a 20-yard run. Mann passed to Knieff for 18 yards, and Hume slashed through the left side for a touchdown.

Next Mann passed 18 yards to Wade, who ran for touchdown. Mann kicked goal.

Fincher, a substitute back, ran 37 yards, the last five with a husky Gentleman hanging to his belt. He got up and on the next play went around right end for a touchdown, Lynch kicking goal.

Only in the second quarter did the visitors stiffen enough to make the going difficult for S. M. U.

The lineup:

S. M. U. (37)	Pos.	Centenary (0)
Key	Left End	Kipo
Tatum	Left Guard	Binion
Ford	Center	Roseman (C)
Daniel	Right Guard	Bennett
Roach	Right Tackle	Stewart
Dawson (C)	Right End	Hammel
Mann	Quarterback	Beam
Cortemeglia	Left Half	Smith
Hume	Right Half	Allday
Love	Fullback	Blackshar

Score by periods:

S. M. U.	0	0	15	21	—37
Centenary	0	0	0	0	— 0

Who Won? Aw, Give It To Ref.

Matty Sneaks Fall On Jack And Arbiter Loses Mind

BY BLONDY CROSS.

Matty Matsuda, the wily Nipponese and acclaimed throughout the southwest as world's welterweight wrestling champion, performed last night in what he vows is his final professional appearance on the canvas.

He fought Jack Gorman of San Angelow at the Eleventh and Ohio arena.

If for a centainty the encounter be Matty's last match in defense of his belt, then he retires with his title intact.

But there are no fans who witnessed the battle, unless it be a biased few of the popular Jap's many ardent ahmirers, who will testify that Matsuda really WON his final ring struggle.

For the champion, apaently on the losing end—whether or not he merely was "playing possum" as an ambush for the impetuous Gorman, was awarded a third and deciding fall of the referee, a fall which was taken on the sly after arbiter had ordered a breakaway from the ropes, a fall in which the referee, seemingly very excited, ordered a second break, then shook his head and in an obvious coma, spatted Matsuda on the back, raised his hand and GAVE him the match.

Referee Gets Rattled.

But a short time before the finish, the referee had admonished both wrestlers and had announced to the crowd that on each break from the ropes the men were to return to the center of the ring and resume hostilities, sneak falls barred.

It was a SNEAK fall by which Matty captured the decision. After being ordered to break from under the hempen, the combatants pulled apart and Gorman started toward the center of the canvas. Hardly had he taken a step before the champion ducked in from behind, knocked him to the floor and flattened him on his back, so suddenly was the surprise attack. The referee bustled around, shouted a few incoherent orders, laid hands on Matsuda as if to finish the incomplete breakaway, then settled back and calmly watched proceedings, peering on the under side to see if Gorman's shoulders were touching. They were. Immediately victory was awarded Matsuda.

Gorman protested the fall. So did the multitude present. Matsuda departed the ring and when asked by the manager of the wrestling association to return and wrestle the illegal fall, made legal by an incompetant referee, over again, refused to do so.

Fans Dissatisfied

Seeing that the engagement would not be resumed, many fans crowded around and declared Matsuda should give Gorman another match before quitting for all-time. Many fans went to Matsuda in person and asked the popular athlete to give Gorman another chance at the belt.

Following the unorthodox windup of the bout, Gorman declared conviction he can defeat Matsuda and said he would meet Matsuda today or any other day without expecting a dime for his services. Probably didn't mean that crack about the remuneration. We all say things in excitement some times that when cooled off no doubt we regret.

Gorman won the opening fall with a body scissors and face lock in 25 minutes. The going up to that moment had been considerably rough on old clothes. Matsuda surprised in eleven minutes with a flying mare for the second fall after receiving a bit the worse of the argument with exception of one occasion when he worked Gorman into a leg split that was broken only when Gorman motioned to the referee to come nearer, then grabbed the official's leg and pulled himself out of the hole. The end came in 13 minutes actual grappling, taking time out for arguments between Gorman and the referee.

Dutch Quite a Card

Yaqui Joe, the Indian, beat Dutch Betke, the Illinois cauliflower row's entry to the national beauty contest, in straight falls. Plenty of fun was realized by all. Dutch is almost as clever a comic as his countryman, Ad Mantell now of Amarillo. Yaqui copped intial honors in 31 minutes with a flying mare following a series of reverse flying headlocks and a couple of preliminary mares. The finish came in 15 minutes with a combination leg scissors and toe hold.

Indians Suffer 54 to 0 Licking By Randolph

Wichita Falls Junior College Elevent Unable To Check Badgers In Contest at Cisco on Friday.

CISCO, Oct. 8. —A gigantic team battered the Wichita Falls Junior College Indians into submission here this afternoon, the undefeated Badgers of Randolph college rolling up a score of 54 to 0.

Only two opportunities did the visitors have to score and both of these came in the third quarter. During the first half the Indians were unable to make a first down, but in the third period a 15-yard pass Stephenson to Scoggin, was completed. Then the Badgers broke up the attack and after the locals had punted the visitors again resorted to the air. Stephenson tossed to Thompson for 12 yards. Stephenson threw a pass to Scoggin for 20 yards and two more passes placed the ball on Randolph's 27-yard line but after one pas failed, Miller intercepted the next toss and raced to midfield. Near the close of the period, the Indians blocked a punt and recovered on Randolph's 15-yard line but two fakes and an end run lost heavily and the ball was kicked over the goal line.

Mitchell and Couch, a pair of 200-pounders in Randolph's backfield showed marvelous speed. Mitchell made a pair of 45 yard runs and Couch chalked up a 55 yard run and two other dashes for 20 yards or more. Ernie Wilson went through left tackle and then shaking loose from clutching hands spun and whirled for 20 yards and a touchdown, besides kicking two field goals and making three kicks successfully out of three attempts for the extra points touchdown. A brave defense was staged as the game neared its close and the score was 54 to 0. The Indians stopped four plays within their 10-yard line and a few moments later halted three plays in the same territory and an attempted field goal failed.

The starting lineups were Wichita Falls, Scogging and Thompson, ends; Gilchrist and Burks, tackles; Ricks and Bland, guards; Patterson, center; Coffey, quarter; Stephenson and Keller, half backs; McCanish, Full back.

Randolph College, ends, Daniels and Simms; tackles, Mouldek and Coates; guards, McCord and Carruthers; center, Miller, quarter Blinn; halfbacks, Wilson and Couch; fullback, Mitchell.

Drive Is Matched Against Speed in Game At Dallas

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 8. Drive is matched against speed when the offensive power of the backfields of A. & M. and Sewanee are reduced to the final analysis in considering the possibilities for the game at Fair park stadium in Dallas Saturday that opens the state fair. But while this is the essential character that can be selected for each offense, each has some of the elements of the other. Here are the regular backs and first string reserves that will probably be called into play in a close game:

A. & M.:
Q—Hunt, 155 pounds.
H—Colgin, 145 pounds.
H—Woodman, 160 pounds.
H—Burgess, 160 pounds.
F—Simmons, 178 pounds.
Sewanee:
Q—Todd, 155 pounds.
H—Young, 165 pounds.
H—Rice, 150 pounds.
H—McBride, 165 pounds.
F—Johnson, 158 pounds.

Hunt supplies plenty of speed in the Aggie backfield. Played at half last year, he was almost a unanimous choice for a conference backfield selection. Hunt can run, drive and knife in spite of being the field general this year, he must be considered as one of the team's best ball-carrying assets. In Simmons at full and in Burgess, a reserve half, the Farmers have a pair of hard line plungers behind the offensive power of the line.

So long as Captain Todd is running the team the quarter, Sewanee is not likely to pull Helvey out of the line to add drive to the backs. He is far too valuable to the forward wall. The starting backfield is almost certain to be Todd, Young, Rice and Johnson, three of them with better than a year's experience. Todd is hefty but fast—the others are all fleet, fitting into the remarkable game Dr. L. Bennett affects with the overhead.

HEN LAYS 229 EGGS.

Plymouth Rock Sets Egg-Laying Record For Year.

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 8. (AP)—By a margin of five eggs "Hamptonian Princess," Plymouth Rock hen belonging to the Hampton Normal institute, now is queen of her breed with a total of 229 laid in one year, institute officials announced today. In setting the world's record they said she laid eight eggs in one week. Despite her performance "Hamptonian Princess" gained weight and shows no signs of discontinuing her efforts. All of the eggs were of normal size.

Leagues Have Been Real Sociable In Helping Rival Pennant Winners

After the Cubs, Reds and Dodgers had decided Dutch Ruether, southpaw hurler, was done the American League clubs gave him a chance. Now Walter is about to collect a share of the world's series coin with the New York Yankees. And Allan Sothoron, allowed to depart from the American League after the Browns, Red Sox and Indians had given him up as a forlorn hope, is hoping to shine for the Cardinals, National League entry.

101 Ranch Here With Big Parade And Good Shows

Indian bucks wearing the typical headdress of the Redskins, blankets, war paint, some in wampum belts, beads, elk tooth necklaces and little else, Mexican vaqueros, Cossacks from the famous pre-war cavalry of the Russian czar, elephants, camels, and buffaloes, music from Scotch bagpipes, a circus band, and last, a stream calliope—this a cross section of the big parade of the 101 Ranch Wild West show in the down town section Friday morning when thousands of Wichitans looked on.

One of the attractions in the parade was the silver plated saddle of the Miller Brothers, founders of the ranch.

The first performance was given Friday afternoon and the second Friday night, and the Record News gave away 60 tickets to children enabling them to see the wild west show.

The tents of the show are located in Scotland addition near the municipal park.

SLEUTHS HUNT KEN ORMISTON

But Aimee's Radio Operator Continues To Be As Elusive As Ghost

HALL AF JUSTICE, LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 8.(AP)—While detectives scurried about Los Angeles and vicinity following "hot tips" that Kenneth G. Ormiston, missing radio operator in the McPherson case was in hiding near here, Ormiston's statement of several months ago went into court records at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson on charges of criminal conspiracy.

The statement contradicted in several instances by evidence recently brought to light, came by way of lips of Joe Taylor of the Los Angeles police force.

Taylor testified to questioning Ormiston while the sea off Santa Monica was being dragged and searched for the body of the Angelus temple leader, Mrs. McPherson, then believed drowned.

Later the evangelist turned up at Douglas, Ariz., telling a story of having been kidnaped in connection with which she now faces the court.

Ormiston, the detective said, gave dates and places to fix his various movements up and down the coast some times under his own name, some times under an alias. In the statement he denied any connection with Mrs. McPherson's disappearance or any recent meetings with her. The prosecution on the other hand contends that Ormiston and Mrs. McPherson spent some time following May 18, when she dropped from sight in a cottage at Carmel, Calif.

When the afternoon session began W. I. Gilbert of counsel for the defense read a copy of a telegram signed by "R. B. Shuler" of Los Angeles addressed to the sheriff of an Oklahoma county asking for information concerning Gilbert's conduct of a murder trial there several years ago.

The defense lawyer also read a copy of the answer which stated that Gilbert had not been concerned in any capacity in the trial.

Gilbert then read a letter written by a county officer of Oklahoma who had employed him to write a story entitled "Kidnapers" denied he had made demands for money upon Roland Rich Wooley, the evangelist's personal counsel, or to Mrs. McPherson herself.

Gilbert asked Allstrom if he had not gone to Wooley's office and was told that he was a blackmailer and to get out.

Allstrom thundered a negative and added "he's an infamous liar."

Gilbert appealed to the court and Allstrom repeated his remark whereupon the court threatened him with contempt if he injected any more improper language with his answers.

It developed during the cross-examination that Allstrom had given Wooley an opportunity to buy the ten chapter story he had written about the kidnaping after the evangelist refused it. When Wooley declined to buy it, Allstrom said he sold it.

Judge Blake had to threaten the witness to make him tell to whom he sold it.

He named several persons and firms including the Rev. Bob Shuler of Los Angeles and a magazine at Girard, Kan.

Allstrom said one purpose of the book was to attack bootleggers, white slavers, motion pictures and later newspapers.

"But," said Allstrom, Wooley advised against attacking the newspapers and we dropped that.

Allstrom said "several friends" advised him to go to the district attorney to tell his temple experiences. Among th s"friends" he said was Bob Shuler.

Allstrom was wound up "like a clock" the court said and it took the combined efforts of Judge Blake and three prosecutors to stop him each time he started.

3 Schools Ask For State Aid

Application for state aid has been made by Pleasant Valley, County Line and Cooper schools of Wichita county, for these three schools, it appears, will not have sufficient funds to keep the school open for the full term, according to information yesterday from the office of Burl Bryant, county superintendent. Each school is asking less than $1,000.

Other schools in Wichita county will have sufficient funds to carry out their contracts for eight and nine months terms, Mr. Bryant believes, after giving out a list of tax valuations Friday for schools of the county. The tax valuation list on the schools was furnished by County Tax Assessor Arthur Howard.

For the 25 schools of the county, the valuation list shows a total of $117,511.25 on the rendered roll is available. Wichita Falls, Electra, Iowa Park, Burkburnett and Fairview are not included in this list. Pond Creek has the lowest value with a revenue of $415.54, while the district is maintained, no school is conducted, and the few pupils in this district go to Iowa Park schools and the receipts are applied to the Iowa Park fund. K. M. A. ten-teacher school, has the largest fund of $26,377.

Lotus Is One Of the Attractions Of the Al G. Barnes' Circus, She Is Blood Sweating Hippopotamus

She never dined at the Ritz nor sipped tea in Greenwich Village.

No sir! Not Lotus. But regardless of this fact, she can give the average frequenter of the best restaurant a lesson or two when it comes to eating.

For Lotus knows all about table manners, and why shouldn't she! She eats a bushel of carrots and a bale of hay every lunch hour and washes it down with a barrel of "aqua pura." Lotus is the largest and only performing blood-sweating hippopotamus in the world. She will entertain you when she comes to Wichita Falls next Monday with the Al G. Barnes Big Four-Ring circus.

Lotus doesn't mind being fat and proves it by eating more and more every day. And she's impatient sometimes — when she's real hungry. When her trainer is a trifle slow, she says, "Let go of those carrots, Bog, and make it snappy!"

Lotus is only one of the 2,000 trained wild animals and 550 educated horses in the Barnes circus.

The feature of the age, "Pocohontas at the Court of Queen Anne," the extravaganza, which includes in the gigantic cast over a hundred pretty girls from sunkissed California and three tribes of Indians from Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico. Most of the ballet and chorus girls in the cast have appeared in west coast motion picture productions.

You will also see the greatest movie star of them all—Joe Martin, himself. It's the show that's distinctly different every year.

CARDS BATTLE

burst that greeted the Cardinals in St. Louis but it was nevertheless enthusiastic for a city that has a habit of taking its champions calmly.

There was a wildly cheering jam of 5,000 fans in and around the Grand Central Terminal when the Yankee special rolled in at 6:10 p. m., after completing its run over the New York Central in 23 hours, 35 minutes.

The Cardinals, traveling over the Pennsylvania on a special train beat the Yankees home by nearly three hours, arriving at 3:20 p. m. and completing their trip in the record breaking time of 21 hours and 19 minutes.

If the Yankees win the series either tomorrow or on Sunday—if it is necessary to play a seventh game then—they can trace their triumph directly to the inspiration of Babe Ruth' amazing batting outburst in the fourth game. Those soulful swats of the Babe were the rejuvenating tonic that the Yankees needed.

Pep Restored.

They restored the fighting spirit that carried the team to an uphill victory in the game yesterday, deciding Herb Pennock's second victory over his southpaw rival, Willie Sherdel.

If the Yankees can keep their winning poise and capitalize opportunities as they have in the past two games it will be dificult to keep them from triumph. But the Cardinals have not yielded by any margin sufficient to say that they have been put to rout. They were submerged by Ruth's hitting one day but came back the next, within an ace of taking the fifth game themselves. Seldom have two outfits been more evenly matched in nearly all departments, with only a "break" here or there to sway the result. The Cardinals, although trailing in games won and lost have outhit and outscored the Yankees, as a matter of fact, while Haines and Alexander have turned in pitching victories that rival the twin triumph of the New York ace, Pennock.

Yankees More Alert.

Defensively, the Yankees have been more alert, especially in the pinches. They have made fewer errors of omission than their rivals. Mark Koenig, whose three miscues at short represented the terror total of the Yankees, has more than atoned for these by sparkling work in tight places, coupled with batting that displayed a major role in yesterday's victory.

Billy Southworth and Bob O'Farrell, outside of pitchers, have carried the main brunt of the Cardinal battle on their experienced shoulders. Southworth, traded by the Giants about the middle of the season has batted sensationally and roamed over the outfield for all sorts of catches O'Farrell has been equally as bright a star. His batting average of .437 tops the regulars of both teams while he has been a tower of strength behind the bat fully justifying preseries judgment of his manager that he is the club's most valuable player.

The Cardinals will take the field for the sixth game handicapped by the loss of their fleet center fielder Taylor Douthit, who was unable to play yesterday and who is out of the series altogether with a strained shoulder caused by his collision with Hafey in Wednesday's game.

The Cardinal outfield reserves are at low ebb, as a result, for Ray Blades also is on the casualty list with injuries suffered late in the pennant season. Douthit and Blades both were lead-off men when forced out.

Roscoe "Waddie" Holm, who has replaced Douthit was converted into an outfielder after being tried out as a shortstop and catcher.

JEWISH RABBI

of making the day of rest a day of legitimate pleasure which brings happiness and brightness into their lives and those of their children and friends.

"The Sabbath should not be made burdensome and dismal; like a sort of Calvinistic Sunday in Scotland in the seventeenth century. We should keep this principle in mind, that 'The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath.' There can be little doubt that the institution of the Sabbath given to mankind by the Hebrews has been a great benefit to all, and they ought to be placed on the level of the creators of the art of writing, the inventors of the printing press, they should get credit for having given mankind the Sabbath.

"Let the Christians celebrate their Sabbath not as a day of gloom and sadness, but as a day of joy, peace and recuperation; let the Jews bring back the Sabbath spirit into their homes and synagogues, particularly on Friday evenings when they should attend services. Then, and only then, will the Sabbath spirit shine bright in a tired, weary world."

Rabbi Phillips opened his sermon with his text from the book of Genesis, giving a historical aspect of the Sabbath and later how Jesus and his disciples kept Saturday as a day of rest and not Sunday.

"Sunday was only kept among his followers as a day of the resurrection after a few centuries, A. D. When the attitude of the Roman authorities became hostile to the Jews, especially after the rebellion under Hadrian, the observance of the Sabbath on Saturday was one of the most noticeable indications of Judaism. And the Christians, not wanting to expose themselves to suspicion by observing the seventh day, stopped keeping the Jew's Sabbath. Constantine the Great was the first to enact the Sunday decree in 321 A. D., and later on it was thus consummated in the Christian religion."

1927 CAR TAX PLEASES GREEN

Wichita County Numbers To Start With 940,000 In State Series

The new auto license plates for 1927 will be colored green and white, G. C. Raley, tax collector for Wichita county, was notified by letter from the state tax department yesterday. The new plates will have a green background with white letters, similar to the dealers license plates of this year except that the lettering will be white. The dealers plate colors will also be changed.

No announcement was made as to the section of numbers allotted to Wichita county, but it is estimated that they will probably start with number 940,000. This calculation is based on the fact that last year the numbers started with 840,000, while the previous year started with 735,000, showing an usual yearly increase of about 100,000 in numbers.

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.(AP)—The government report showing an increase of over 500,000 in the indicated yield, compared with mid-September figures, was followed by a renewal of heavy general selling and a very severe break in the cotton market today. Prices for all deliveries made new low records for the season and movement. December contracts selling off to 13.36 or 82 points below Thursday's closing quotations and 589 points below the high price of last month. This decline brought in a great deal of covering and trade buying and part of the loss was recovered. December closing at 12.67, the general market closed very steady at net advances of 42 to 50 points.

The market was easier before the report was issued. The trade seemed confident that the government figures would fully equal expectations based on recent privat ereports and there was liquidation or re-selling by those who had bought earlier in the week in anticipation of a "pre-bureau rally. Prices sold 30 to 40 points net lower before business was suspended for the usual 20 minute interval to receive the government report and there was heavy general selling when trading was resumed after its publication.

The crop condition of 61.3 and crop indication of 16,627,000 bales not only were above general expectations, but in connection with the fairly favorable weather reported since the first of the month, appeared to be accepted by many traders as pointing to a probable yield of around 17,000,000 bales, at any rate such views were coupled with talk of probable 10 cent cotton before the period of increasing available supplies in the south was over.

Somewhat higher ginning figures than expected may have contributed to the break which extended to 12.60 for October and 12.41 for January contracts, or some 80 to 82 points below yesterday's closing quotations. Enough covering and trade buying checked the decline at these figures, and last prices showed rallies of about 26 to 35 points from the lows.

Port receipts today 105,893; U. S. port stocks 1,585,586. Exports today 26,893, making 1,478,666 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.(AP)—With the government crop reports having shown a semi-annually large indicated yield of 16,627,000 bales and total ginnings to October 1, of 8,638,886, or 3,127,951 bales for the last period, the market was extremely active today with trading excited and extremely heavy. The first response to the large government estimates was a break of 65 to 72 points and the decline was increased later so that the lowest levels reached prices were 85 to 88 points under yesterday's close. The first break following the bureau report carried December contracts down to 12.50 or exactly 100 points, or $20 a bale under the high for that option reached September 8, last.

The market after absorbing the first rush of selling rallied 35 to 45 points from the lows and although there was some reaction later due to hedge selling prices turned firm in the late trading, gaining 37 to 59 points from the day's lows. The close was steady, with prices net looses for the day of 47 to 53 points.

A feature of the weekly statistics was the large movement into sight for the week of 373,130, a high record for all time.

Prior to the issue of the government report prices eased off nine to 10 points on last minute liquidation and good weather in the belt. December traded at 13.95, January at 13.12 and March at 13.35. The first break following the report carried December down to 12.50 and the dip was increased to 12.12 when January traded as low as 12.53 and March at 12.50, or 85 to 89 points under yesterday's close.

The market rallied well after the first rush of selling subsided under trade buying and outside speculative support, December finally rallying to 12.64, January to 12.70 and March to 12.89, or 37 to 39 points from the lows.

Exports for the day totaled 12,892 bales and for the week, 219,492 bales.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.(AP)—Heavy week-end short covering after five consecutive days of steadily declining prices, brought about an irregular recovery in today's stock market after a temporary sinking spell which followed the extreme break of about $4 a bale in cotton and the marking up of call money rates. Final quotations disclosed a fairly long list of gains ranging from one to eight points, interspersed with a smaller number of similar declines.

The break in cotton overshadowed all other financial developments, because it was due to the publication of a government crop estimate of 16,627,000 bales, produced in 1914. The low prices of cotton attracted heavy buying by mill owners with the result that a sharp rally set in reducing the net loss on the day to about $2.50 a bale. With few exceptions the rally in stocks was not very impressive. General Motors dropped from an early high of 157¼ to 152¼ and then snapped back to 156¾ for a net gain of ⅛ on the day. U. S. Steel common closed more than a point higher at 146¾ after being down to 144¾.

Lambert company was one of the outstanding individual strong spots, rallying over six points to a new high record at 68, as against a low of 59¾ earlier this year, on reports of large current earnings. Loose Wiles Biscuit jumped 7½ points on a few sales.

Rails received better support than the industrials. Sharp recoveries took place in Chesapeake and Ohio, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Nickel Plate and Delaware and Hudson.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent and then advanced to 5 as banks called about $20,000,000 in loans in order to strengthen their reserve position over the week-end. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. A sharp rally of 10 points in Italian lire which sold around 3.95 cents featured the firm foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held steady around 4.84½, and French francs were quoted around 2½ cents.

WHITE SLAVE GANG BROKEN; SCORE OF AGENTS CAUGHT

PARIS.—Developments closely pressing upon the arrest of Andre Dervioux as leader of a white slavery gang in Warsaw last week indicate that this band of criminals has ben completely shattered. More than a score of its agents have been arrested here and in other European capitals. Among them are a number of women who have been engaged for years in duping members of their own sex. Dervioux had his headquarters here and at one time posed as a member of the diplomatic staff of a European country. He is said to have a fortune of several million dollars invested in America.

STOCK-A-DAY

The Michigan Central railroad is one of the New York Central's important subsidiaries. It operates 1862 miles of road in Michigan and Ontario and not only gives the New York Central access to loading traffic producing sections but forms a direct through route from Buffalo to Chicago.

The company's freight tonnage han steadily increased for 10 years, with about two thirds of it coming from connecting lines. Freight traffic density is high and train mile earnings have increased, aided by rate advances. Total operating revenues have nearly tripled since 1915. The company controls leases or has stock in a large number of other companies.

The total funded debt amounts to 75,785,012 in addition to which bonds of leased or controlled lines amount to $41,051,000. Capital stock outstanding consists of $18,-736,400 in shares of $100 par. The New York Central owns 99 per cent of this. The present dividend rate is 35 per cent annually. The dividend payments have been continuous at various rates since 1895, not less than 4 per cent being paid in any year.

In 1925 gross revenue amounted to 91,864,277 and net operating income to $25,763,981. Both gross revenues and net operating income have been larger so far in 1926 than in the corresponding period of 1925.

A plan to lease the road to the New York Central for 99 years is awaiting confirmation and approval.

ELOPERS WIN IN RACE OF A MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO

CROOKSTON, Minn. — When Miss Ella Ferris and Herbert McGowan decided to elope they made a wise choice of a motorcycle as the bridal chariot. A few minutes after they had left the Ferris farm for a town 15 miles away the girl's father began to suspect something and started in pursuit in his automobile. Up hill and down, over road good, fair and bad, he kept up the chase but reached town just as the pair were leaving the parsonage, where they had been married. They have been forgiven and Mr. Ferris has given them a job.

SOLONS LEAVE AUSTIN FRIDAY

Special Session Closes At 3 P. M. After Rush Of Legislation

AUSTIN, Oct. 8. (AP)—Having accomplished the paramount purposes of its call session—validation of $100,000,000 of district road bonds, jeopardized by the decision of the United State supreme court in the Archer county case—the 39th legislature adjourned sine die here Friday at 3:23 o'clock.

Since convening here September 13 at call of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, the legislature passed approximately 560 district road bonds validating bills, including a general validating bill by Bailey, dean of the senate, and around 555 local district bills.

No Session Soon

Concensus of political prognosticators is the governor will not reconvene the legislature in call session. The senate showed unmistakably it is opposed to serious consideration of the three-cent gasoline tax before the 40th legislature. The governor was most desirous of having the opportunity to sign a bill increasing the gasoline tax to three cents.

Ferguson supporters in both branches expressed the opinion that should the governor call a second session she would wait until after the November general election.

Governor Ferguson's desk is piled high with bills some of which have become laws through expiration of the 10-day limit. Included in the bills that have become laws without her signature are 18 district road bond validation bills sent by the house and 74 bond validation bills from the senate.

School Aid Doubtful

The bill appropriating $3,500,-000 from the general revenue to raise the per capita scholastic apportionment to $14 and no more inspires more speculation as to the governor's signature than any other. Ferguson supporters in both houses predicted the governor would not sign the bill.

Representative Dale and Wallace authors of the three-cent gasoline tax bill, charged the general revenue bill was offered for the purpose of defeating the gasoline tax bill. "As long as an oil lobby will come to Austin, the senate will not pass a bill increasing the gasoline tax," Dale said in house debate.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

J. B. Malcolm of Denison brakeman on a Katy freight train who became seriously ill Friday at Ringgold was taken to a local hospital for treatment and was released yesterday afternoon when it was found his condition was not serious. He was believed to be suffering from ptomaine poisoning.

TO FORM CLUB

Organization of the alumni club of the University of Oklahoma is to be completed Monday evening, October 18, at the Kemp hotel, and Dr. W. B. Bizzell, president of the Oklahoma University is expected to be present, it was said yesterday. All former students of the institution are invited to attend.

Chillicothe Gas Line Completed

CHILLICOTHE, Oct. 8.—One of the latest steps in civic progress in Chillicothe is the completion of the gas line into this city and gas has been turned into the mains giving citizens of Chillicothe privilege of using gas for industrial and household purposes.

Lines from the Northern Texas Utilities company and the Community Natural Gas company have been laid in the city.

10'000 DIE IN CHINESE TOWN

"City of Horror" Revealed In Reports From Scene Of War

HANKOW, Oct. 8. (AP)— Ten thousand have died, most of them of starvation in the horror city of Wuchang since the Cantonese red army began its siege at the end of August.

The figures are those of Chinese. No white man could penetrate the barred buildings within which thousands succumbed in secret misery.

Five hundred coffins have been shipped to Wuchang to bury those trampled to death or drowned in the frantic effort to board boats to take them across the Yangtze to Hankow and safety.

An Associated Press correspondent who walked today through the streets of Wuchang found them deserted except for neglected dead lying in the roadways. The city which with Hankow and Hayang formed the commercial center of middle China was desolate. Many of its fine buildings had been destroyed by flame or shell fire.

Failing in their efforts to carry Wuchang by direct attack, defeated in hand to hand fighting in the city's streets with its northern army defenders, the Catonese at a safe distance maintain a war of attrition—starvation their weapon.

It is rumored that the Cantonese will grant the proposal of the defenders to yield the city if permitted to serve in the army that has sheled and starved them. The date for surrender is said to be October 10, a national holiday celebrating the founding of the Chaotic Chinese republic.

This date, however, is also that set by Cantonese ultimatum for the beginning of a general bombardment of the emaciated begins who crawl about the foodless city.

ELECTRA

BOY SCOUTS.

The boy scouts of troop 1 met at the high school gymnasium Thursday evening, instead of Friday, their regular time, due to the scoutmaster to be away fro mthe city. The meeting opened with song, and the demonstration of various stunts were taken up, followed by a patrol meeting. After patrol meeting, Scoutmaster Taylor Cash, announced th atfour boys from each patrol must be on the grounds next Saturday morning to help in clearing the grounds fo rthe scout "hut." Mr. Cash explained to the boys that the new newspaper the yare to have published has not been organized as yet, but will be ready in an additional week.

The boys spent some time in practicing tumbling, then they said the scout oath, and were dismissed with an additional half hour being spent in the gym in playing games. Sixty-four boys were present.

AMERICAN LEGION.

There were a quorum of officers present Thursday evening at a meeting of the American Legion in the reception rooms of Dr. Ralph K. Weiler's offices. Rose Schlight, post commander presided and the announcement was made that next Thursday night the election of officers will be held and a full attendance is desired not only of members but of all ex-service men. The main work of the new year will be to build a home with a location being under consideration at the present time, which will be reported on within a few weeks.

THURSDAY BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. G. Rollo Davidson was hostess to the first meeting of the fall of the Thursday Bridge club when three tables of bridge were played throughout the afternoon. The color scheme of red alone was carried out, with every room being banked with red flowers, red dahlians, red roses and red carnations with fern. Mrs. Parr Green received the high score, which was a rose colored taffeta bouodoir pillow, and after the games, refreshments of chicken ala kin gin patties and coffee were served to the following: Mesdames E. D. Miller, guest, M. G. Turner, Edward Seviaffe, R. B. Marchant, Paul Green, R. H. Cook, E. R. Brown, Charlie eMiller, Matt Chaffin, Ralph Watson, T. M. Houze, J. F. Parr, Mrs. Green will be hostess next week and the club will meet each week during the winter months.

COUNTRY CLUB NOTES.

Mrs. E. R. Brown who was appointed chairman of the invitation committee by the Ladies' Auxiliary t othe Country club, announces the receipt of a very gracious acceptance by Mrs. Harcelt Roehl, secretary and treasurer of the Wichita Falls Country club auxiliary for the tournament and luncheon to be held at the Electra club, Saturday, October 16. About 75 guests are expected from Wichita Falls. A golf tournament is planned fo rthe morning, with a 1 o'clock luncheon and bridge in the afternoon.

MRS. DAY HOSTESS.

Mrs. M. H. Day entertained Tuesday afternoon with a shower, for her friend, Mrs. J. C. Marsh, at her home west of the city. The shower came as a complete surprise. An assortment of lovely gifts were presented the honoree, while the afternoon was spent in several clever contests. Late in the afternoon delightful refreshments of hot chocolate and cookies were served to Mesdames O. E. Ray, R. O. Wood, Jim Horn, C. L. Breezy, William Morgan, L. L. Cheshire, T. C. Adkins, Jessie Bills, John Hallmark, J. F. Stephens and the honoree.

EXECUTIVE MEETING.

Mrs. Jodie D. Smith, president of the Federated Parent-Teacher association of the city, presided at a meeting of the executive board, and the National Congress of Mothers, in their meeting Thursday afternoon, immediately after 4 o'clock in the high school auditorium. Several quests of business were taken up and discussed which will be made public later, when there was found to be almost a 100 per cent of the board members present. A similar meeting will be held in a few weeks.

BORGER SCENE RAMPANT VICE

U. S. Officers Ordered To Clean Up Panhandle Oil District

AMARILLO, Oct. 8.(AP)—Borger, famous boom town of the Panhandle, is now in the throes of a "reign of terror" with authorities powerless to cope with the situation, a delegation of Borger citizens told Federal Judge William H. Atwell today.

Following the appeal of the Borger delegation, Judge Atwell went into conference with U. S. Marshal Sam Gross, department of justice operatives, and federal prohibition officers after which a lengthy telegram was sent to

NASH-KING MOTOR CO.

T. R. VAGUE

On the opening day of Used Car Week which was immediately Fair Week by your paper, we sold six used cars. An increased used car business has been noticed by us and we are well pleased with the results.

LOUIS-BRYAN COMPANY

CHARLES H. STODDARD, SALES MANAGER

In starting the Record News Used Car Campaign we felt that we were reaching a new field of readers from our usual advertising routine.

Many people coming in town with the expectations of shopping for an automobile will pick up the morning paper and go through the advertising columns before making their rounds. In this way they have the full day to make their selections and drive their car home.

We have several cars, such as Pierce Arrows, usually good grade, and we feel certain that the money spent during Record News Campaign was well spent.

LLOYD WEAVER CO.

C. M. KENLEY

A dozen or more Used Car sales have been recorded on our books since the beginning of the Record News Used Car Campaign. We are pleased with the results.

BIRCH MOTOR COMPANY

M. T. BIRCH, Mgr.

At the starting of your USED CAR CAMPAIGN we were not sold on the idea, however, we decided to try a small space for one-half of the duration of your used car special.

We advertised 8 used cars, 6 of which we sold. We are convinced that RECORD NEWS CLASSIFIED ADS for used cars, pay.

We feel that our money was well spent.

McFALL BROS.

JULIAN McFALL OF McFALL BROTHERS

We moved ten used cars from October 2-7th the time of the Record News Used Car Campaign. We believe Classified Ads to be the best medium we have ever used for the disposition of used cars. 'HOLD COTTON' IDEA BOOSTED

Wichita Falls Chamber Of Commerce And Banks Back Movement

Declines in cotton prices since the eighth day of September has cost the cotton farmers of the south approximately $498,000,000 and has cost the farmers of Texas alone $120,000,000. This fact alone is stirring up the farmers, bankers, merchants and professional men of the state toward doing something definite to relieve the distressing situation. Two plans are being advanced — to hold cotton off the market thereby stabilizing the present price and relieving the present low cotton price, and the definite program of cutting down the acreage next year to remove off all old surplus cotton.

The proposal to hold cotton wherever possible as one means of combating the dropping price of the staple, according to press reports is gaining momentum throughout the country and with the drop of $4 per bale yesterday it is expected this momentum will grow stronger.

The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce through its publicity department has started a cotton holding campaign throughout the entire trade territory. This is to be conducted through the newspapers. Letters are being written to all editors, asking that they give support to the movement of holding cotton wherever possible, the buy-a-bale movement, the reduction of acreage and the planting of a bigger grain crop next year. These letters will be followed with a special article in which the situation will be discussed in detail.

Banks of Wichita Falls have pledged every cooperation in the movement and it is expected this will have its effect in this county as well as adjoining counties. The banks of Wichita county, it is said, are well prepared to handle the situation in so far as the county is concerned. A similar condition exists in other counties. With that in view it is expected that the movement will meet with the cooperation of farmers and bankers. It is pointed out that the cotton may be held for six months at a cost of 1 cent per word.

Whatever increased price the cotton should bring at the end of the six months period would represent the saving to the farmers.

The cotton price since September 8, has dropped $30 per bale, which means, based on a 4,000,000 bale crop in Texas, a loss of $120,000,000. Based also on the government estimate of 16,660,000 bales this represents a loss of $498,000,000 to the cotton growers of the nation.

The only solution, it is contended, is a reduced acreage another year. This is the reason for the appeal to the farmers to plant more grain another year. A big grain crop means money to the farmers early in the year.

Presbyterian Synod At Vernon Closes

"The Presbyterian state synod which closed at Vernon Friday was the best synod I have attended in years," Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor of Floral Heights Presbyterian church, said yesterday on his return from the meeting. "The synod was characterized by addresses from outstanding men of the national board."

He spoke of the addresses given by Dr. Francis Downs, secretary of the board of foreign missions, New York city; Dr. Robert L. Irwin, Fort Davidson, who spoke on church music and its culture; and of others.

Among those from Wichita Falls who also attended the synod were Dr. and Mrs. Nat F. Grafton, Frank Kell, J. W. Culbertson and Ralph Dick. A report was given on the executive commission of the Texas synod by Dr. Grafton, chairman.

STATE PROBE DELAYS WEEK

Satterwhite Will Convene Legislative Quiz In Austin Later

AUSTIN, Oct. 8.(AP)—Members of the house committee of nine to investigate state departments probably will be given at least a week to attend to their own affairs before being called back to Austin by Chairman Lee Satterwhite to begin the taking of testimony.

This committee was named three weeks ago by the special session of the house of the 39th legislature, which Friday adjourned sine die.

Richard Crita, of Williamson county, staunch personal friend of Attorney General Dan Moody, has been employed as attorney by the committee. The committee is expected to call on the attorney general's department for assistance, and one or more assistant attorney generals, in that event, would be assigned to the case.

It is conceded that Moody, the democratic gubernatorial nominee, will not personally take part in the investigation. As governor, he would be called to pass on legislation, expected to be enacted by the 40th legislature, as a result of the investigation.

Some doubt exists whether a house committee legally can expend $25,000 from the contingent expense fund of the session, without consent of the senate. That amount was appropriated for the investigation by a simple resolution. Chairman Satterwhite said Friday the attorney general has not been called to rule on that question, or any other growing out of the authorizing of the investigation.

The investigation will center about the highway commission, and pardon board—the three departments of the Ferguson administration to draw the heaviest fire of criticism.

COTTON SLUMP BUSIES SOLONS

Members of Congress At Washington At Work To Bring Relief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP)—The cotton crop, its size and value, thrust itself to the front today as one of the pressing problems of official Washington simultaneously with a forecast by the department of agriculture that this year's yield would be the largest in history—16,627,000 bales. Government officials interested in the problem went over plans by which the southern farmer, his commodity already enormously shrunken in value, might be placed in a position to meet the situation facing him. Southern members of congress busied themselves in seeking ways and means to help.

President Coolidge was brought into the conference by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic senate leader, who visited the White House to seek government intervention, in the way of furnishing funds with which to finance orderly marketing, while Secretary Jardine in a letter to the president of the Alabama cotton association outlined a plan which he thought should be tried out.

Black Criticizes

The agriculture department's forecast were sharply criticised by both Mr. Robinson and Representative Black, democrat, Texas, who has been active recently in efforts to change the method of crop forecasting.

At the White House it was announced that the chief executive has been in conference with Secretaries Mellon and Jardine on the cotton situation. Secretary Jardine informed Mr. Coolidge that cotton was a commodity which lends itself easily to credit, while Mr. Mellon expressed belief that the federal reserve system would be able to furnish the credit necessary on whatever sound plan was devised.

Secretary Jardine expressed confidence that the country was amply prepared to carry the crop which he described as a commodity that was not injured by storage.

Jardine Confident

"The bankers and other business agencies of the south are loyally co-operating to restore confidence," he said, "and I assure you that the department of agriculture is actively supporting that movement."

"Other agencies of the federal government are also available. Credit facilities through ordinary banking channels appear to be adequate, but we have in addition if needed, the services and resources of the intermediate credit banks. It was for just such emergencies as the present one that these banks were established. Those in charge of them have assured me that they are ready to do everything in their power. At present they are loaning money freely to the cotton co-operatives, and they are prepared to also extend credit to other cotton farmers.

If this additional source of credit is needed, it may be drawn upon by creating local financial credit associations. These can be established with a minimum of $10,000 local capital, raised among business men, farmers or other citizens. Ten times the amount of the capital can be borrowed for periods of six months to three years at a moderate rate of interest."

Acreage Cut Needed

After declaring final determination of the acreage to be planted rested with the farmers themselves, the secretary said it was "manifestly to their interest to adjust that acreage to meet the needs of the consumers of the crop."

"I do not share the view, aspressed by some," he said, "that a large crop of cotton or a large carry-over from one season to the next is a misfortune. It is to the best interest of both the producer and the consumer to avoid wide fluctations in cotton prices. The best way to avoid such fluctuations is to be in position to carry continuously an ample reserve sufficiently large to absorb any surplus from one or more good seasons and to supplement the shortage of several bad seasons. We are now in position to begin the creation of such a reserve, we should accept the opportunity and make the most of it."

Senator Robinson predicted a move would be made at the next session of congress to modify or abolish the cotton crop reporting plan.

CITY DRAFTING BOND PAPERS

Transcript of Auditorium Issue Will Be Sent To Austin

Work on the transcript of the $750,000 worth of city auditorium, street and sewer bonds which were voted for in the recent city election, is progressing nicely and will be ready to forward to the attorney general's office at Austin for approval within about ten days.

The election was canvassed and the result legally announced at the meeting of the city council Monday night, and the transcript work started immediately. There is little doubt that the bonds will approved by the attorney general as they are well inside the limit of bonded indebtedness allowed for the city, and the election carried without question.

The mayor and city council are making all possible haste to get the building of the city auditorium under way as it is planned to have it near enough completed to be used for a convention hall for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce when they meet here next summer.

It is estimated that the bonds can be sold and the money available for use by the first of December, if they are properly approved by the attorney general's department. The building ought to be completed within six months after actual construction work starts.

A general street and sewer improvement program is being drafted for expenditure of the street and sewer bonds which amounts to $250,000, and will aid materially in relieving some very bad conditions which prevail in certain portions of the city.

OBREGON HELD YAQUI VICTIM

Former Mexican President Reported Prisoner Of Rebel Indians

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 8. (AP)—Reports that Alvaro Obregon former president of Mexico, still is held a prisoner by the Yaqui Indians continue to be circulated along the border despite denials by the Mexican government. G. Gaxiola, who is a cousin of the manager of Obregon's estate in Sonora, declared here today that Obregon has been captured by the Indians and is being held. Obregon's family and friends express the greatest uneasiness for his safety, Gaxiola said.

Mr. Gaxiola, who is stopping at a local hotel said he has learned that President Calles of Mexico is sending an evoy, presumably Arturo Elias, Mexico's financial agent, to treat with the Yaqui Indians as to Obregon's release.

Large numbers of federal troops have been rushed to Sonora, Mr. Gaxiola said.
