Rainstorms, Wind Batter Texas Areas

(By The Associated Press)

FLASH flood waters of the Trinity river receded at Fort Worth Thursday night after dousing parts of that city for the second time in nine days.

Elsewhere North and West Texas counted damage from early day wind and rainstorms. Lightning cracked in all sections of the state as continued thunderstorm conditions were reported.

The Trinity, surging through previously broken levees, covered three of Fort Worth's main streets and lapped ominously at business and residential districts inundated in the May 17 extensive flood.

Woman Swept Away

But in the afternoon the runoff of water began. Workers closed the break in one levee, and the situation appeared under control.

Meanwhile:

A 46-car freight train plowed into a washout in Johnson county.

A woman was swept away to her death by a flooding creek at Dallas.

50 Homes Surrounded

At least 50 homes at Cleburne were temporarily surrounded by water after a four-inch deluge swelled East Buffalo creek.

Seven miles east of Cleburne, near Keene in Johnson county, a Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe freight ran into a washout at 3:45 a.m. Thursday.

The train plunged into the swirling waters of flooded Turkey creek and the engine and tender and five of 46 cars overturned.

The four-man crew of the train escaped injury but they were marooned for hours on their piled-up train. The partially-loaded freight was bound from Dallas to Cleburne.

Creeks On Rampage

All creeks in the Cleburne area were on the rampage as the result of terrific overnight rains.

During the flash flood in the eastern section of Cleburne National Guardsmen, in boats and trucks, worked through the predawn hours, rescuing citizens. Later most of the evacuated families returned to their homes.

A woman identified only as Sue or Susie was drowned at Dallas early Thursday when the automobile in which she was riding was caught by the rampaging waters of Turtle creek. Larry Martinez, 42, escaped from the car and swam to safety. The body of the woman had not been recovered Thursday night. Rains at Dallas measured up to 3.28 inches.

The Dallas thunderstorm caused thousands of dollars in damage

Those charged were: Hugh Rice, former Lamb county sheriff who was defeated for re-election by Hopping in last fall's election, charged on two counts of sale of liquor. Rice waived a hearing, pleaded not guilty before Judge Otha Dent and posted bond of $500 in each case.

J. E. Brown of Amherst, pleaded guilty to five counts, four on sale of liquor and one on possession. He was fined $100 and costs each on three counts of sale and $250 and cost on the possession charge for a total of $666, including court costs. One count of sale was dropped. Students' Talks Highlight Program

Lubbock High School Graduation Is Held

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

DIPLOMAS were presented to some 230 members of the 1949 graduating class of Lubbock Senior High school at graduation ceremonies held last night in Chapman fieldhouse. Approximately 2,300 persons attended the program.

This year's graduating class totals 288. However, only about 15 of the 30 seniors who completed graduation requirements at the January mid-term were present for last night's ceremonies and four of the 219 May groduates also were absent. And although some 38 seniors who are to complete graduation requirements in summer school took part in last night's ceremonies, their diplomas will not be awarded them until completion of summer school in July.

Students Present Program

Theme of the commencement exercises last night was "Builders of '49," and in lieu of a guest speaker, four outstanding senior class members delivered four individual parts of the commencement address. Taking part were Mary Ruth Sims, Anne Lingle, Anita Pope, and Jack McCabe.

Miss Sims, first speaker, declared that "we graduates of 1949 are heirs of all the ages," pointing out that many of the advantages and privileges in life today are inheritances from ancient peoples.

She spoke of the inheritances from common men and women who braved the dangers of long ocean voyages, cut through forests, built homes and cities, and pushed the boundaries of civilization to the Pacific coast.

Area's Growth Cited

"They gave us courage, perseverance, pride, ambition," Miss Sims declared. As a result, she pointed out, we now are living in a world of opportunities.

"We should begin to understand and to help solve the problems of our civilization," she said. "As our taste is new, so is our thinking new. We must disenthrall ourselves and aid in changing the word 'country' to 'world.'"

Miss Lingle pointed out briefly the rapid developments in this country within the past three centuries, adding that the development of West Texas has been much

Boiler Blast Sets Off Major Fire In Refinery At Rotan

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, May 26—A boiler explosion set the Patton Oil refinery on fire at Rotan today and the plant burned fiercely for hours.

One man was injured when an old boiler blew. He was R. M. Pearson, burned about the upper part of the body. His condition was not considered critical.

Fire trucks from four towns fought the blaze, as a huge crowd watched.

Believed Under Control

At 9 p. m. firemen said they believed they had it under control, providing the wind didn't shift and three trucks with fire fighting chemicals arrived soon from Abilene. The trucks left Abilene, 63 miles away, at 8 p.m.

Sweetwater, Hamlin and Roby sent fire fighting equipment.

The flames spread to six small oil tanks.

Ad Patton, one of two brothers who owns the refinery, said 150,000 to 200,000 gallons of fuel oil, gasoline and kerosene had been consumed four hours after the fire started.

Patton would make no estimate of the damage.

Phone Lines Down

All phone lines into Rotan were down, since they paralleled the tracks near the refinery.

One worker said he thought a spark from a switch might have started the fire, which erupted at 4:15 p. m.

Rotan is a town of about 5,000 people 63 miles north of here.

The refinery asked that fire trucks be sent from here and from Sweetwater.

Several Hurt As Tornado Hits North Carolina Farming Center

DUNN N. C., May 26 (AP) — A tornado struck a farming community about five miles east of here today. There were no fatalities but a number of persons were injured.

State motor vehicles Commissioner L. C. Rosser said approximately 25 houses were damaged, some badly.

Solons Okay Plan To Tighten Unification

WASHINGTON, May 26. (AP)— The Senate tonight stamped its approval on legislation aimed at correcting "certain weaknesses" in the unification of the Army, Navy and Air Forces. Action was by a voice vote.

The legislation, which now goes to the House, was first urged by the late James V. Forrestal, first secretary of national defense, after he tried for 18 months to coordinate the three defense forces into a single team.

In general it provides broader and more definite powers for Louis Johnson and others who succeed him as secretary of national defense.

Sponsors also claim that fiscal and spending reforms, written into the bill, may save from several hundred millions to a billion and a half dollars annually in defense costs.

ANDERSON WARNS OF HUGE CROP

Senate Scored For Rejecting Grain Storage Space Loan Plan

By SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 26— The Senate took a terrific tongue lashing today from Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-NM) after voting down a measure to authorize loans to farmers in the Southwest and elsewhere for building additional grain storage space.

He warned senators that they had knocked out the grain storage facilities insofar as this year's wheat crop is concerned.

"You are doing this now just as a bumper wheat crop is coming forth from Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. The wheat will rust on the ground."

The vote put many senators in the South, Midwest and North on record as voting against the best interests of farmers in the wheat belt, Anderson said. Later he gave as his opinion the fact that the Southern Democratic adherents of Senators Russell of Georgia and Byrd of Virginia, and the Republicans, had "given the Democratic administration the best campaign material it could possibly expect."

Anderson had authored an amendment to the bill to extend powers of the Commodity Credit Corporation act which would have

West Doubts Soviet Claims

PARIS, May 26—Russia proposed to the foreign ministers' conference today that a high ranking German control board be formed to run the conquered country—but that each of the Big Four should retain a veto over it.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky also gave an economic look behind the iron curtain which western observers at the meeting said left the western ministers skeptical and even humorously misbelieving.

This was the fourth session of the council. The sessions have become progressively longer since the first one.

"It is getting to be just like old times," an American delegate commented in describing the session, which ran for nearly four hours.

Seeks German Favor

Vishinsky's talk represented a change of tone in one respect. His proposal for a high ranking council of Germans to administer many political and economic functions apparently was intended to win German favor for Russia's proposal to restore four-power control.

The American, British and French delegates met it head on by saying they would have none of any type of control which hampered the new western German government.

Vishinsky appealed for restoration of the four-power Allied Control council, on which each nation had a veto. This board collapsed because of the repeated exercise of the veto by the Russian representative.

Vishinsky did not use the word veto. He argued for "unanimous consent" as the only method by which equals could operate. It is, he continued, the only means by which a minority can avoid being tramped by the majority.

Bevin Makes Demand

In turn, Robert Schuman for France, Dean Acheson for the United States and Ernest Bevin for Britain demanded that the conference get down to brass tacks on things which might be vetoed before it began talking of restoration of any control where one power could exercise such a veto.

The western ministers said they favor restoration of four-power control. But they would not accept the type of control they found

LAFB Head To Visit City Today

Col. George W. Pardy, recently named commander of the 3500th Pilot Training wing, and as such, commanding officer of the Lubbock Air Force base, will arrive in Lubbock today for a short visit.

Col. Pardy will be accompanied by Mrs. Pardy, who will visit and become acquainted with some of the women of Lubbock.

Announcement was made last week that Pardy would succeed Col. A. C. Strickland as wing commander of the 3500th Pilot Training wing within the next few weeks. At present the new commander is Inspector General at Headquarters Air Training command, Barksdale Air Force base, Shreveport, La.

Field To Open Soon

While here, Col. Pardy is expected to confer with local officials concerning the reactivation of Lubbock Air Force Base. The field is to be opened soon.

Col. Pardy is a native of San Francisco and a member of a pioneer West Coast family. He was born Aug. 27, 1896.

He is a veteran of both World wars.

Pardy volunteered for military service shortly after America declared war in 1917. He earned his commission as a second lieutenant in the then aviation section, Signal Officers corps. He later was commissioned as first lieutenant in the Regular Army.

Founded Own Business

He participated in Mexican Border and Western Forest patrols during 1919-21 and in the Philippine Islands in 1921-22. Late in 1922, Pardy resigned from the Air Service, U. S. Army, and accepted a reserve commission. He then became a vice president of a San Francisco savings and loan association. In 1928, he became assistant to the president of a Los An-

AEC CHIEF TESTIFIES AT CONGRESSIONAL PROBE

Truman Goes To Defense Of Lilienthal, Declares Critics Endangering Integrity Of Atom Program

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 26 — President Truman today went to the defense of Atomic Chief David E. Lilienthal, charging Lilienthal's critics are engaging in "pre-election campaigns" and endangering the "integrity" of the atomic energy program.

"It is time people stopped getting hysterical when the word atom is mentioned. The plain fact is that the atomic energy program is in good shape—and in good hands," the President said in a statement read at his news conference.

Several Congress members have demanded that Lilienthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, resign. They have charged gross mismanagement, saying among other things that insufficient measures were taken to protect atomic secrets.

Appearing before a Senate-House investigating committee today, Lilienthal testified in response to questions that the AEC unanimously cleared two scientists for atomic work after the AEC's own security officer turned thumbs down on them.

Lilienthal named the men as:

1. Dr. Edward U. Condon, chief of the U. S. Bureau of Standards.

2. Dr. Frank Graham, now a Democratic senator from North Carolina, former president of the University of North Carolina and former head of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Entitled To Opinions

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) who is pressing the demand for Lilienthal's ouster, had this to say of Mr. Truman's remarks:

"The President is certainly entitled to his own opinions. His

Reds Control All Shanghai

By FRED HAMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Friday, May 27— As sudden as the crash of an oriental gong in an empty street, peace and quiet returned to Shanghai today.

The military phase of the Communist takeover of the world's fourth largest city ended in one last, mad burst of fighting on the north bank of Soochow creek.

The final collapse of organized resistance was complicated by indecision among barricaded Nationalist holdout troops. The soldiers were in buildings along the creek that bisects the city from east to west.

Woosung Falls

This indecision finally was broken by the intercession of foreigners trapped in the buildings and the brisk arrival of Red soldiers.

After that, the Communists swept on into Honkew and north Shanghai. They swiftly eliminated a handful of Nationalist holdout troops there.

Meanwhile, the fortress of Woosung fell. Government forces which had failed to reach this last evacuation point 10 miles north of Shanghai surrendered.

Thus ended the month-long siege and two days of isolated pitched battles in the heart of the city.

Shanghai, often a prize of war, had passed into new management. Communism had completed its grip on the great city of about 6,000,000 population.

This morning thousands of civilians—Chinese and foreign—crossed the bridges over Soochow creek after being trapped in the battle lines 50 hours.

Their ordeal was over. They were almost hysterically happy in rejoining families and friends in the city's center. They were amazed that so few had been killed or injured. The number of civilian casualties was unknown, but it was believed to run less than 200—virtually all Chinese.

The trapped foreigners and

More Showers Are Forecast For Area

The possibility of scattered thundershowers continued to hang over the South Plains today as generally cool weather continued over the area.

The Lubbock Weather station said last night that scattered thundershowers probably would occurr this afternoon and tonight and Saturday over the area.

While skies will remain partly cloudy both days, the forecaster said, temperatures probably will rise slightly from the 81 degree high registered yesterday.

Matthews Proposes 'Squaring Off' Boundaries

Commission Studies City Extension Plan

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

THE most ambitious city limits extension plan ever proposed for Lubbock advanced beyond the talking stage at a six-hour semi-monthly meeting of the city commission Thursday afternoon.

The commission also called for bids on June 23 on enlargements of the sewage disposal plant estimated at $348,000; deferred final action on a proposed far-reaching nuisance ordinance passed on first reading May 13; discussed the setting of fixed charges for answering fire alarms outside the city limits, and took under advisement for study an inquiry by a committee as to whether the city would be interested in buying Allen Bros. post home of the American Legion. The home adjoins the city hall.

Extension Plan Discussed

The city limits extensions discussions resulted from a suggestion by City Manager Steve Matthews that some method be devised whereby the municipal boundaries be "squared off" so as to correct some of their present winding irregularities.

The process of annexing additions of varying sizes one at a time over a period of years has resulted in a city described as being shaped "like a sack with a lot of big rocks in it."

So the commission took under consideration an extension program, which if approved, would increase the city's area by four to five square miles with 10,000 to 15,000 inhabitants. The present city area is 8.65 square miles with an estimated 63,000 people.

Speedy Action Needed

Mayor W. H. Rodgers and members of the commission agreed with the city manager that any program undertaken should be launched as speedily as possible for three reasons:

First, to encouraging the provision of new housing needed in connection with the reactivation of Lubbock Air Force base; second, to control building, and, third, to give the city official credit for the population in its adjacent suburbs when the federal census is taken next year. To get census credit, the commission was advised, the extensions must be completed by January 1.

So the mayor, city manager and

Canadian River Project Boosted

HOUSTON, May 26. (AP)— Secretary of Interior Julius A. Krug tonight urged development of the Canadian and Colorado river water supplies to meet what he termed a critical water problem on the southern high plains of West Texas.

This ground water predicament, he said, can be solved only by developing the Canadian and Colorado rivers, the closest sources of additional surface water supply.

Krug spoke at a "save the soil and save Texas" dinner.

Probable Plan Outlined

Earlier he had outlined for reporters the probable plan under which the federal government will operate the oil-rich tidelands once the government's paramount rights to the areas are recognized.

Krug tonight said ground water supply in the Plains area is being withdrawn at a rate of 20 gallons for every single gallon which returns from normal rainfall.

"If this present trend continues," he said, "water will be taken from the wells at an even greater rate and this disturbing disparity withdrawal and recharge will increase."

Wells In Area Increase

The problem has grown rapidly since 1934, Krug explained, then there were only 300 wells in the area, irrigating about 35,000 acres.

"In 1948 over 10,500 wells irrigated 1,250,000 acres," he added. "More than 1,000,000 acre feet of water was drawn from the wells in 1948. The significance of this large withdrawal of ground water is apparent when you remember that only 50,000 acre feet is returned to this same basin every year.

In considering possible solutions to the problem, the secretary said:

Outlook Brighter Elsewhere

"The cities in the southern part of the area can best be served from the reservoir of the proposed Robert Lee Reclamation project and we believe the cities in the northern part can be taken care

Plainview's 'Bar None' Rodeo Opens With Tim Holt As Star

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Writer

PLAINVIEW, May 26 — Plainview joined the ranks of big-time rodeo circuits today with the opening of the Bar-None rodeo, starring Tim Holt, star of western movies of Hollywood.

Although Holt, riding his big white Lippazon stallion was billed as the star, the ordinary cowboys who do the dirty work of a rodeo came near stealing the show in the opening performance witnessed by a scant 400 persons at the rodeo grounds, southeast of Plainview this afternoon.

Tommy Parker of Carlsbad, N. M., snaked his lariat out and caught a scrambling calf in the fast time of 13 and two-fifths seconds.

And Tick Moorehouse of Benjamin bulldogged a steer to the ground in the almost unbelievable time of 5.4 seconds.

But both of them had to look back over their shoulders for there were several other contestants breathing on their necks in the matter of time.

BERLIN May 26 — U.S. Berlin Commander Brig. Gen. Frank Howley accused the Russians today of "barefaced welshing" on the Big Four blockade-lifting agreement. He made his charge after 31 supply trains bound for Berlin were halted in the Soviet zone.

Howley announced that the Allied airlift which fed Berlin for a year again was taken over "virtually complete provisioning" of the city

The Russians blamed the blocking of the supply trains on the city rail strike by anti-Communist union workers who demanded payment in western marks and reinstatement of workers fired for political reasons

Getting "Run-Around"

But the union said the Soviet-controlled rail directorate rejected its offer to man signal points and switches from which the Russians pulled manpower to stall the trains.

Howley declared the Russians "are seizing every opportunity to provoke incidents and unrest in Berlin in order to make the situation disagreeable, unbearable, and impossible, for the West."

"It is obvious" he said, "that the top men want it this way. The rail strike is only a pretext. If they really wanted a settlement they could end all the difficulties.

"In fact, we are just getting the old run-around."

Five Trains Arrive

Allied transport officials reported the arrival of five trains in Berlin, including three American passenger trains, one British and one German freight train.

It took these trains 79 hours instead of the normal 10 to reach Berlin.

Thirty-one trains are still held up in the Soviet occupation zone west of Berlin, including 24 carrying 16,800 tons of coal.

Scores of Americans and Britons were stalled yesterday at Potsdam on the trains that finally got into Berlin this afternoon.

Capt. Fred McAlpine, the commander of an American passenger train that was halted, said the passengers were "orderly and without panic." The U.S. military mission at Potsdam supplied the train occupants with water and food.

The passengers were not allow-

Harris' previous experience included 18 years as city engineer and manager of utilities in Denton, chief engineer in the construction of the Pantex ordnance plant at Amarillo and city engineer and utilities manager at McAllen since the end of the war. He is 52.

He is scheduled to report here June 5, Matthews said.

FPC JURISDICTION OVER HANDLING OF GAS OPPOSED

Official Says Fear Of Federal Regulation Used By Some Texas Oil Men As Excuse For Wasting Fuel

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Federal Power Commissioner Leland Olds testified today he believes that "fear of federal regulation" by some oil producers appearing before the Texas Railroad commission has been used "as an excuse for not conserving casinghead gas."

Olds opposed before the Senate Commerce subcommittee a bill by Senators Kerr and Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma Democrats, to prohibit FPC jurisdiction over gathering, production and sales of gas by independent operators to pipelines.

Court Action Seen

He said any attempt to regulate the oil industry under the natural gas act would be "promptly condemned" by the courts.

"It has been testified that natural gas is being flared as a result of the fears of producers that its sale to pipeline companies would subject them to FPC regulation," Olds said.

"Here again we may raise a question as to whether, simply to avoid regulation, producers in Texas alone are blowing into the air nearly $26,000,000 a year, the equivalent of the state's 1947 flared gas at five cents per thousand cubic feet."

Olds said this appears more improbable than the allegation that material quantities of gas are being withheld because of fear of FPC control of independent operators, who would sell gas to interstate pipelines.

"There is no doubt in my mind that oil producers appearing before the Texas Railroad commission have advanced, as an excuse for not conserving casinghead gas, this fear of federal regulation about which we have heard so much," Olds said.

"In fact from my study of the matter, it appears that the producers have all of the excuses they could think of and that, when the Texas Commission still insisted on conservation measures, they took the commission into the courts."

He said Texas Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson testified before the committee that the Texas commission has received favorable court decisions recently and that the conservation program now under way in the state would result in saving 90 percent of oil well gas in Texas by 1950.

Condemned Convict Given New Reprieve

WALLA WALLA, Wash., May 26 (INS) — A third stay of execution was granted today to Jake Bird less than 12 hours before he was to hang at the Washington State penitentiary for one of 44 ax killings he says he committed.

The new reprieve was granted by Federal Judge William Denman of the circuit court of appeals at San Francisco.

Besides granting the 30-day stay, Judge Denman ordered Warden Smith to show cause within 10 days why an appeal should not be entertained. If an appeal is heard, Bird will be given another stay to prepare his case.

Warden Brings News

Smith himself told the 44-year-old negro of the stay. He walked to Bird's cell in death row and said:

"You have been granted a 30-day stay of execution. You ought to get down on your knees and pray."

Bird calmly said, "thank you, Warden" and added:

LOCAL ORCHESTRAS OFFER 'MAIN FARE'

Symphony Groups Supported By Smaller Texas Cities Claimed Communities' 'Musical Backbone'

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, May 26. — The symphony orchestras supported by some of Texas' smaller cities provide the backbone for the musical life of those communities.

Touring orchestras and other musical mediums give these cities some musical fare. But it's the home orchestra that is the main course.

Texas has seven civic orchestras which come within the "smaller" classification — a classification based on budget.

In almost every case, the orchestra is limited by the amount of money available. Like their larger counterparts in Dallas, Houston and San Antonio, the smaller organizations must depend on contributions as well as concert ticket sales.

Public Support Needed

One critic said of his local orchestra support, ". . . the citizens have not been educated to the necessity of supporting such a group." That's true in a number of towns, and means a struggle for those working for a better orchestra or working just to keep it alive.

The Austin orchestra, for instance ran into difficulties this season. But it found that by providing the best music possible through engagement of nationally celebrated guest stars, it could keep its head above the red ink level. The enterprising Roger Busfield, head of the orchestra association, even managed an appearance of Spike Jones. The concert by this maestro of the skunk skins and washboards was financially successful and the profits went to the symphony.

On the other hand, the fine El Paso orchestra has been operating for many years. Its financial deficits are made up by the El Paso Electric Company, with other organizations helping. The city sponsors a series of summer concerts for which no admission charge is made.

Here are thumbnail sketches of the Texas orchestras, including the "big three" and the Fort Worth Civic Opera Association:

10 Concerts Given

Amarillo: The orchestra gave 10 concerts, five with guest artists, this season. Three out-of-town concerts also were given. Attendance is approximately 1,500 for each concert, about two-thirds of capacity. Budget was $35,000. The orchestra has about 60 pieces with the concertmistress the only paid local player. The six first chairs are imported from the surrounding area and are paid. Conductor is A. Clyde Roller, former SMU orchestra conductor, assistant at Oklahoma City and conductor of the GI orchestra in Paris.

Austin: This orchestra ran into difficulties when H. J. Buytendrop resigned. Since then it has operated without a budget. Next year, says Busfield, there will be a budget and a contribution campaign. The orchestra has 72 members, all paid. Eight concerts were given with capacity crowds for big name guest appearances. A total of about 27,000 heard the orchestra this season.

Corpus Christi: The orchestra was orgnaized four years ago by C. Burdette Wolfe, Del Mar college director of music. The college and the Symphony society are co-sponsors of the orchestra. Approximately 11,000 persons attended the the six pairs of concerts this season. In addition, three student concerts were held. The orchestra plays to capacity houses. An impressive array of guest stars appeared this year. The budget is $28,000 for the 65-piece semi-professional orchestra. Wolfe, the conductor, studied in the United States and Hungary and taught and conducted in the Midwest before coming to Corpus Christi. In addition to its regular concerts, the orchestra also plays for the annual opera, which utilizes local talent for the title role.

Dallas: Seventy-seven concerts were presented this season, 42 of them on tour. The orchestra has 91 pieces. All the artists are paid and many are recruited from various musical centers. The combined audiences totaled 183,400 with 50,400 of this number on tour. The internationally known Antal Dorati will direct the Minneapolis symphony next year. His successor is Walter Hendl, assistant conductor of the New York Philharmonic.

El Paso 'Handicapped'

El Paso: This orchestra is one of the oldest in the state and has a notable solo list. John Rosenfield, noted critic of the Dallas News, says, "This orchestra, being in one of the most remote cities, does not get the attention its program deserves." It gave nine concerts in El Paso this season and one at Las Cruces, N.M. It will play four summer concerts. Attendance is about 40,500, which is not quite capacity. Budget figures are not made public. All 75 players are paid. H. Arthur Brown has been the conductor 19 seasons. He also is conductor at Tulsa, Okla., commuting by plane, and directs the New Orleans summer pops concerts.

Fort Worth: The civic opera association presented three productions this season, as compared with two in the previous two seasons. Approximately 16,000 persons saw the operas. Director is Walter Herbert, general director of the New Orleans Opera association. This year, Leon Varkas, a leading dancer of the Metropolitan Opera, was employed to form a ballet group. Budget figures are not made public. Produced this year were Carmen, The Bartered Bride and La Boheme.

Houston: The orchestra gave 47 local concerts, 26 radio broadcasts and five out-of-town concerts. Total attendance, exclusive, of course, was up 80 percent above the previous season, partly because of more concerts. All local concerts were before capacity crowds. The budget has been publicly announced as $300,000. Director Edrem Kurtz came to Houston from the Kansas City philharmonic after gaining renown on the continent and the U.S.

Lubbock: This orchestra has been established three years and has 85 volunteer members. It gave seven concerts this season, two of which were repeat performances to take care of the large attendance in the small high school auditorium. Total attendance was about 8,600. Chief support is through ticket sales, although contributions are necessary. The conductor is William A. Harrod, who has a distinguished background as a violinist. He was stationed at Lubbock Air Force base during the war and returned to help found the orchestra.

San Antonio: Approximately 150,000 persons heard the concerts this season. Sell-outs were frequent. The orchestra has 78 musicians, all professionals and most brought in from other musical centers. The budget is approximately $300,000, of which $48,000 comes from ticket sales. Max Reiter, the conductor, also founded the orchestra. This season was his tenth in San Antonio. He became assistant conductor of the Berlin Opera House at 20 and went on to many successes on the continent. This March he signed a new five-year contract with the orchestra.

Wichita Falls Active

Wichita Falls: The orchestra, the city's fourth, was organized early in 1948. Four concerts were given this season (a fifth concert in May, 1948, is also considered as part of the season for financial and other reasons). For five concerts the budget is $13,530, more than half of which comes from contributions. Attendance was about 18,000 for five concerts, just about capacity. There were approximately 80 musicians, of whom 30 are professionals. The conductor is Frederic Balazs, 27, a native of Hungary and a distinguished violinist and composer. He came to Hardin College for a concert in 1947 and returned the following year to join the faculty and help establish the orchestra.

Waco: Max Reiter, conductor at San Antonio, also conducts the Waco symphony. He stopped in Waco on a bus trip, liked the place, and with the help of Waco citizens established the symphony in 1939. The next year, San Antonio signed him but with the understanding he could conduct at Waco also. The orchestra plays four concerts with a distinguished guest artist for each. It performs before capacity houses, 2,500, each performance. A gap of $6,000 to $8,000 between ticket sales and expenses occurs each year but this is subscribed and there has been no deficit in five years. The orchestra includes 75 to 80 musicians, all paid. About three-fourths play in both the San Antonio and Waco orchestras.

Clothes Suitable For 'Home Laundry' Ease Work Expert Claims

COLLEGE STATION, May 26 (INS)—Texas housewives can save time and energy during the hot summer months by choosing a family wardrobe to suit their home laundry equipment.

Gladys Darden, extension assistant home management specialist of Texas A&M college, says that the homemaker can put an ironer to the fullest use if she chooses styles that are easy to iron flat—dresses that fasten all the way down the front, for example.

Another labor saver is to pick clothes which need little or no ironing, Miss Darden says. These include terry cloth and corduroy robes and coats, seersucker dresses and suits, and knitwear. Children's garments easily fit into this category.

Thinner fabrics are also easier to wash by machine, the home specialist points out. In addition, small, flat buttons on clothes will go through the wringer better than large buttons or buckles, and the small buttons are easier on the rubber rollers.

Miss Darden suggests that sashes and ties be folded inside the garment to keep them from catching and tearing in the wringer.

In an automatic dryer thinner fabrics keep their shape better and avoid creasing. A dryer is excellent for fluffing any napped fabrics, Miss Darden says. But she warns that clothes will become "bone dry" and become creased if left in the dryer too long, especially if here is a heavy load.

Two California Children Hold Controlling Stock In Air Line

OAKLAND, Calif., May 26. (U.P.)—Robin airways, an intra-state corporation, believes in having youth at the helm.

The chairman of the board of directors is three-and-one-half-year-old Robin Kessler, who is quite a veteran at things like board meetings and transcontinental flights. Robin attends all the meetings but doesn't have much to say yet. To date she has made 18 round trips by air across the United States and many shorter flights.

If you think Robin is a spring chicken, consider her brother, King. He's only two and already president of the company. Each of the children owns 35 per cent of the company's stock. The other 30 is owned by their mother.

Although the children own controlling stock in the Robin Line they haven't been taking much of an active part in its business. Having more stock than their mother might have its advantages but they haven't been able to use it to wheedle mom for an extra ice cream soda now and then.

When you gotta stop -you wanta stop!

"It can stop on a dime," the salesman promised you, "—and leave nine cents change!"

And your Buick did—when it was new and brake linings unworn and everything factory-tight and fresh.

But brake linings wear—lights grow dim with time—tires can lose their bite and traction.

And with a whole summer's driving ahead, what better time than this to bring your Buick back to new-car peak in all those details that mean so much to safety?

Our men, trained in Buick ways, will give you brakes that stop you as Buicks should, with new brake linings that are right in size and brake drums turned to perfect round.

They can replace sealed-beam headlights to give you new-bulb brilliance—and while they're at it, check battery, voltage, wiring and headlamp-aim to boot.

They'll check tires, switch them as needed, look into wheel alignment for easy steering.

In a word, they'll renew your Buick with the same care and interest they would lavish on their own—and do it at no greater cost than for just ordinary service.

So drop in. Get set for some summer fun that's up to lively Buick standard.

Check your car—Check accidents!

Three great service and safety organizations across the country are alerting car-owners everywhere this month on safety-checking their cars.

They list ten vital question marks for you to think about—How are your Brakes? Lights? Tires? Steering? Wheel alignment? Defective glass? Rear-view mirror? Muffler? Windshield wipers? Horn?

Be sure your family rides in safety—ask your Buick service man to look over these check-points this month—and join the great drive for driving safety!

Welfare In Austria

Needy Families Are Aided By American Dependents

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Another in a series of articles on life of the American Army wife in Austria is written today by the woman's editor of The Avalanche-Journal publications, who returned a week ago from two months' travels in Europe.)

By MARGARET TURNER

"IT'S important they know we are doing this welfare work. We are trying to help the future of Austria."

The speaker was Mrs. M. W. Marston, wife of the commanding general of Land Upper Austria Area command. She was referring to the welfare projects sponsored by the Army in Linz and which recently was recognized by Austrian relief.

A board consisting of the chaplain, Mrs. Marston and three other women oversees the program which includes the care of 100 needy families each month, providing them with egg powder, fats and clothing.

• • •

"WE ARE especially interested in the welfare of the children," Mrs. Marston explained. "They must be helped; must be fed and clothed in order that they can stay in school.

"There are some grownups who will not cooperate when we offer rehabilitation. They are not interested in trying to better their lot and will live and die the way you see them today. But as I said before, it's the future Austria in which our interests are based."

The board votes how much help shall be granted after the family has been investigated and a case study made.

There is never enough money in the welfare fund to provide the necessities, Mrs. Marston said, but the Army personnel and the families are generous in clothing and food donations for the Austrians. Recently the personnel at Camp McCauley donated one day's pay to the cause of the welfare work.

• • •

THE LUAAC staged Christmas parties in the area for 160,000 children last year, Mrs. Marston told us. The Americans drove to outlying towns, giving each child sacks of food, chocolate, ice cream and toys. Enlisted men made the distributions.

The children presented nativity plays for their American friends and seemed very appreciative, the general's wife was pleased to report. "They were sweet and nicely trained," she said.

• • •

THE WOMEN'S club, whose membership is made up of wives of officers and civilian workers at Camp McCauley, organized in February, is quite active. We were invited to a luncheon and style show sponsored by the women, but were obliged to send regrets because we were continuing our tour that day.

President of the organization is Mrs. Floyd H. Long, jr., a very attractive young woman who resembles the models who pose for skiing and cigarette ads. She does not get as homesick as some of her friends because she can go to Vienna to see her family. Her father, Col. Charles E. Hixon, who is stationed in the capital, is assistant deputy commissioner for Austria in military government.

The club extends hospitality to wives of service men and other dependents newly arrived, it helps with welfare sponsors lessons in German and in arts and crafts and the weekend that we left the women had staged an Easter egg hunt for children of dependents.

• • •

AMERICAN children attend a large school in Linz, going by buses to the campus. A wing separates that building from the side occupied by Austrian children. The favorite teacher appeared to be a Miss Helen Samuels and we were disappointed that she was in Holland for the spring holidays.

Since the only high school in the American zone of Austria is in Linz, pupils from Vienna and Salzburg board in a dormitory and go home on weekends.

• • •

The parent-teacher association meets once a month and is in the nature of an evening program with supper served in the cafeteria. Fathers attend the meetings and we are told the attendance was excellent.

"How do you interest the men?"

"Well we serve a good meal and keep our business meetings and programs brief," a member explained.

• • •

Church services are conducted in the chapel at Camp McCauley, Protestants and Catholics alternating in the use of the building.

American engineers are installing equipment in Chile's big new steel plant at Huachipato, which they hope to have in operation late this year.

Supper Given

Las Vivarachas Alumnae association members and husbands attended an annual supper Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Tidmore, 3319 Twenty-ninth.

Hostesses were Mesdames Tidmore, Robert Maxey, George Philbrick, Robert Adair and Wade Webb.

Because of weather conditions, a buffet supper in the home rather than the customary backyard supper was served.

Corsages were given to women attending.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames Doyle Jordan, Homer Maxey, Kenneth Pharr, Robert Adair, Harold Fulghum, Earl Hobbs, Harmon Jenkins, Curtis Cheaney, Verlon Bigham, Truman Green, Bruce Ferrell, George Philbrick, Robert Maxey and Tidmore, and Mesdames Howard Klein, Jim Potts of Floydada and Opal Dixon. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins were special guests.

Newly elected officers of the association, who will serve next year, are Mrs. Earl Hobbs, president; Mrs. George Philbrick, vice-president; Mrs. O. B. Haught, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Bruce Ferrell, reporter.

The organization will resume its activities in September.

It's Calendar Day!

Reporters are reminded that Sunday's Social Calendar is compiled today, and if announcements of next week's club meetings are to appear in it, the Society desk must be notified by 12 noon. The meetings will be on the fifth Monday and Tuesday and the first Wednesday through Saturday, or May 30 to June 4.

Deadline for Sunday Society pictures is 6 p.m. Thursday and deadline for Sunday Society stories is 12 noon Saturday.

Two Accidents In Fort Worth Result In Mass Auto Bumping

FORT WORTH, May 26. (U.P.)—Two identical traffic accidents within a short distance and time of each other involved 11 cars and caused numerous smashed grills, dented fenders and ruffled tempers.

Six cars were stopped nearly bumper-to-bumper while waiting on another motorist to make a left turn at an intersection. A seventh motorist skidded into the rear car, resulting in every car in line bumping into the one ahead.

A similar accident at nearly the same time three blocks away involved four cars.

Boston Safety Manhole Covers Don't Fly Around Much Anymore

BOSTON, May 26 (U.P.)—After a manhole explosion which sent flames 30 feet in the air and shook the North Station area, police found the uncovered manhole but couldn't find the cover.

Mindful of recent blasts which hurled heavy iron covers about like poker chips, they widened their search without avail.

'LIFE AMBITION'

1929 Tech Student Graduates Monday

Vernon Johnson, who started as a freshman at Texas Technological college in 1929, will realize what could be called a "life's ambition" Monday night at the college when he receives his degree of bachelor of science in engineering.

Johnson, who hails from Baird, says he decided to return to college "someday" when he left school in 1931 to take a full time job in his home town. A depression and a world war prevented his making good that vow until 1947 ... en he once again enrolled as an electrical engineer at Tech.

Joins Air Force

During the war, Johnson spent five and a half years in the Army Air Force as a technical instructor and a flight engineer on B-29's. After his discharge from the service, he returned to Amarillo where he was stationed and went to work for the power division of the Bureau of Reclamation as an electrical engineer. He is presently on leave of absence from that position.

Johnson's wife, the former Florence Greenfield, was also a member of the 1929 freshman class. They both left school at the same time but did not meet again until 1943, the year they were married.

In addition to his academic duties, Johnson has served as supervisor of one of the men's dormitories on the campus for several semesters.

A stonemason in Germany, convicted of stealing gravestones, was fined 100 gravestones.

Mrs. George Berry, chairman of the club's advisory committee, urges all outgoing and incoming members of the committee to attend.

Woman Overboard!

"Just one look at my washline," says Mrs. Wm. Henterly, 2165 Maplewood Rd., Cleveland, "and I went overboard for New Perk. I'd been looking at gray washes for so long, I never dreamed a soap could get my clothes so clean, so dazzling white. But New Perk gets them white, whiter than ever before. No wonder Perk's my washday 'steady' from now on." Like Mrs. Henterly, why don't you start seeing whiter washes with New Perk? Only New Perk Soap contains Armocel, the miracle ingredient that takes grayness out, puts new whiteness in! Get Perk today.

Hubbers Drop Pair Of Games To Dukes, 5-3 And 6-2

Costly Miscues Aid The Visitors

By JOE KELLY
Avalanche Sports Editor

The biggest crowd of the season—2,728 paid—saw the Hubbers play one of their worst games of recent days in the opener of a doubleheader at Rosenthal Field last night, then run into some fancy elbowing by Marv Christensen to drop both ends of a twin bill to the Albuquerque Dukes, 5 to 3 and 6 to 2.

Chris Haskins should have won his third game of the year in the opener, but instead saw his mates turn in some of the classiest booting seen off the Tech gridiron in the first inning. In that frame, the Dukes stretched two singles and a walk into four runs, helped along by three errors. It was enough for victory.

Christensen Allows Six Hits

Christensen turned back the Hubbers in the second tilt on six scattered hits, three of which came in one inning. The rest of the time he was in complete control, despite handing out five bases on balls. Don Hensiek and Royce Mills couldn't hold back the flood and the Dukes never were headed.

It was a double disappointment to the crowd and to the Hubbers, who had visions of the local team moving up to the .500 mark. Instead, they slipped down to only a game and a half in front of the resurging Pampa Oilers.

Haskins was one of the few Hubbers in the first game who found the range on Virgil Butler, who chalked up his fifth victory without defeat in the opener. Haskins singled his first time up to keep a short-lived rally alive. And in the sixth, he drove a pitch over the left centerfield fence to drive in two of the three Lubbock runs.

Actually, Lubbock generosity was overwhelming in the initial tilt, Albuquerque earning only two runs. In the second game, generosity in the first inning again helped the Dukes establish a lead and they kept it. A single following a base on balls, an error and a sacrifice hit, which Cliff McClain turned into a fielder's choice, scored two runs.

Smart baseball by smart manager Hershel Martin paid dividends throughout the second game, when sacrifices three times paved the way for runs. In fact, Martin managed his club like big leaguers all the way.

Brief Rally Fails

The Hubbers fought to within one run of the visitors in the fifth inning, when two runs came across on three hits and a sacrifice. But the Dukes answered the challenge with three runs in the sixth on three hits, a base on balls and a sacrifice.

Today the team goes on the road for 10 games, playing four at Clovis, three at Albuquerque and three at Pampa before returning here June 5.

Bass had a shutout within his grasp with two out in the final frame when Doug Lewis lofted a fly to right field that dropped for a double, scoring Morris Cowser with the lone Hose run.

Steve Lagomarsino hurled a good game for the Sox, allowing but eight hits. But his wildness, mixed with the hits, cost him two runs in the fifth. A long home run by Ken Peacock in the eighth accounted for the other Pampa tally.

Lamesa Defeats Clovis Twice

LAMESA, May 26 (Special)—Lamesa's never-say-die Loboes staged two last frame rallies to sweep both ends of a doubleheader from the Clovis Pioneers here tonight, 6-5, and 3-2. The double victory and Borger's loss to Abilene moved the Loboes into third place in the league.

Massive E. C. Miller, Lobo left fielder, crashed a grand slam homer with two out in the seventh to give Glen Selbo his second victory of the season in the opener. A crowd of 1,400 delighted fans made up a $94 pot for Miller.

Catcher Frank Calo singled Lobo Manager Jay Haney home from second with one away in the seventh and final frame of the nightcap for Lamesa's third straight over the Pioneers.

Stanley Gyzywacz gained his eighth victory of the season, tossing an eight-hitter, and yielding only one earned run. Southpaw George Matthews held the Loboes to three hits until the seventh in the opener. Dan Pinto led off with a walk, moved to third on I. B. Palmer's error, and scored when Hank Melillo singled. Selbo and Jack Wilcox went down, but Leo Rheingans walked. Haney beat out a bunt to load the bases, and Miller delivered the finishing touch with his second roundtripper of the season.

Miller and Calo, who drove in two runs, paced the Lamesa attack in the afterpiece on Ray Drake with three hits each. Rheingans homered in the third to score the first run.

Abilene Blue Sox Edge Borger, 9-8

ABILENE, May 26. (AP) — Two lusty home runs and a double by Mike Feduniak helped pave the way for a 9-8 Abilene victory over Borger in the series finale here tonight.

Abilene had to come from behind twice to win. Borger took a lead in the second on pitcher Vallie Eaves' home run with Jimmy Littlejohn scoring ahead of him. Abilene tied the count with two in the third on three straight singles and an error. The Gassers counted four times in a slo- inning, Littlejohn's double climaxing a batting drive which included singles by Butler, Gilchrist, and Gordon Nell, the catcher.

The veteran Vallie Eaves proved no serious problem to the Abilene hitsmen, who tagged him for a dozen hits and got all their runs off his pitching.

Borger knocked the starting Blue Sox pitcher, Bernis Coapland out of the box in the fifth, and continued to work on Joe Nakamura, the little lefthander who finally came out with his fifth win against no defeats.

With the score tied 8-8 going into the last of the ninth, Feduniak doubled, moved to third on an error by Eaves which meant his removal. Lopez welcomed Hugh King by popping out to third for the second out, and little Art Bosch singled over first baseman Ken Sears' head to send Feduniak home with the winning run.

Red Sox Score Four Tallies In Eighth To Beat St. Louis, 7-5

Washington Drops Cleveland, 5 To 4

BOSTON, May 26 (INS)—The Boston Red Sox scored four runs after two were out in the eighth inning today and licked the St. Louis Browns, 7-5.

Boston jumped into a three-run lead against Ned Garver in the first inning and held it until the seventh.

Then in the eighth the visitors knocked the Boston southpaw ace Mel Parnell, from the mound and went into a two-run lead.

Al Zarilla and Birdie Tebbetts singled after two were down and pinch-hitter Tommy O'Brien walked to fill the bases. A run came over as Dom DiMaggio was safe on an error. Johnny Pesky tied the score by beating out an infield hit. Ted Williams followed with a long single which chased across two tallies.

THREE TITLE BOUTS ARE SIGNED

Forthcoming Fights Picked To Be Dull and Uninteresting

By PAT ROBINSON
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 26 — We envy all those fight fans who will be far away from New York, Chicago and Detroit late in June.

Because those lucky individuals won't have a chance to sit in on the Robinson-Gavilan, Charles-Walcott, and LaMotta-Cerdan fights.

These are the three big outdoor "attractions" being offered the long-suffering fight fans this year.

Ray Robinson and Kid Gavilan are billed to fight for the welter title in New York June 17.

Robinson Faces Weight Limit

If Robinson still can make the weight this figures to be a nice soft touch for him. Gavilan is a busy, colorful individual but he couldn't knock your hat off.

We've talked with several fighters who have been on the receiving end of the Cuban Cabellero's bolo punch and all of them agreed it looks terrific but doesn't do much damage.

These two fought once before and Robinson got an easy decision That excellent business man made it look good. He would coast along and whenever Gavilan began to get rambunctious Ray would tag him a couple just to keep him in his place.

Heavyweight Title Bout

The Jersey Joe Walcott-Ezzard Charles thing is booked for the White Sox ball park June 22. This is being billed as a heavyweight title bout.

We have seen old Jersey Joe battle too often. He is a nice old gaffer, a good family man, and we wish him luck. Charles is actually only a light-heavyweight, a fair boxer and a fair puncher.

As every fight fan knows, styles make a fight. If Charles were fighting somebody who would tear into him the result might be exciting. But Jersey Joe is a cautious bird and the customers are likely to be bored to death.

Comiskey Park has witnessed many atrocities committed by the White Sox in recent years but nothing to compare with what Jersey Joe and Charles may stage.

LaMotta Unpredictable

Jake LaMotta, a tough customer, is billed to tackle Marcel Cerdan in a middleweight title fight in Detroit June 15.

Strangely enough, this one could be interesting. It all depends on what the unpredictable LaMotta may do.

If Jake elects to fight his best and if he isn't wearing handcuffs, he could make things very interesting for both Cerdan and the fans.

Cerdan can fight. But he has had more than 300 fights and he must be close to 35 years old. He may find it hard to go 15 rounds if LaMotta elects to level.

Jake's right hand is nothing to worry about but he has a corking left hook which could cause the Frenchman trouble. However, Cerdan is one of the cagiest fighters in the racket and he should be able to find a way to take the sting out of LaMotta's hook.

Well, that's the set-up and don't say you weren't warned.

Pygmies Set New Scoring Record

In the highest-scoring game played this year in the Pygmy baseball league, the Pirates defeated the White Sox, 31-6, in two innings.

For the Pirates Richard Carrigan had two singles and a home run in four times at bat. Mark Hop, jr., had a single that drove in two runs for the losing White Sox team.

The White Sox in the Pee Wee league had better luck, downing the Pirates, 11-8, with Jimmy Prewitt leading the hitting with two singles in two times at bat.

Paul Sikes had two singles in three trips to the plate for the Pirates, and Charles Stogner had two singles in three trips.

A double play in the last game by the White Sox ended the game and put down a serious threat. Junior Osborne flied out to Norman Womack for the first out, and he threw to Third Baseman Bobby Montgomery that caught Stogner off base for the double.

The old rivals, the Indians and the Yankees square off in the games today at Boys club diamond. The Pygmy league will begin at 4 p.m. and the Pee Wee contest will follow at 5:15 p.m.

ST LOUIS, May 26. (AP)—The rejuvenated St. Louis Cardinals exploded for seven runs in the first inning and went on to defeat the stumbling Pirates from Pittsburgh tonight, 13 to 6. Ralph Kiner pounded out his tenth homer in the first inning with two men on base.

Westerners Play At Wichita Falls Today

Day After First Bi-District Tilt

The chips are on the line today for the Lubbock Westerner baseball nine in a game scheduled for 2:30 p.m. at Spudder park in Wichita Falls in the first of three contests for the bi-district championship.

Lubbock, winner of the District 1-AA title, will leave for the battle with the Coyotes at 7:30 a.m. today, arriving in Wichita Falls in time to eat, dress, and warm up before the game. Slated to start on the mound for the Westerners will be Bennie Day, sophomore lefthander, with a 3-0 record in district play this year. Opposing Day on the mound will probably be David Fleming, a curve ball artist with an 8-1 mark.

Day posted a no-hit game against Brownfield in a five-inning game, winning 12-1; was credited with a 15-5 victory over Plainview; and stopped Amarillo, 15-8 in district starts. He was relieved in the last two games however, but went to the aid of Jimmy Richards in the last Amarillo game and pitched creditable ball which allowed the Westerners to win the district title with an 8-6 victory.

Lubbock Has 17-3 Record

Over the season Fred Taylor's nine has won 17 games and lost only three. In an invasion of Altus, Okla. Lubbock dropped two games of a three-game series, and the other loss was to Amarillo the first game of the district playoff.

Wichita also has made a good record over the season, winning 18 contests and losing two, and the team possesses power at the plate to go with their pitching staff. John Scott has shared mound duties with Fleming most of the time this year and has won six and lost one game.

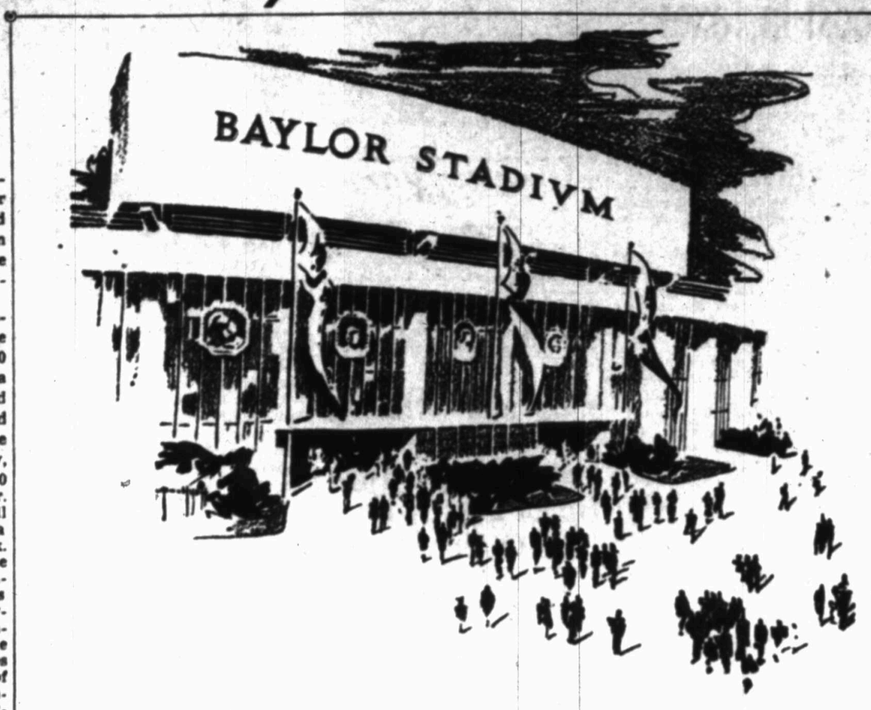

Doubleheader Saturday

Two more games are scheduled Saturday in Lubbock at Rosenthal field, beginning at 2:30 p.m., and a large crowd is expected to attend the doubleheader. If one team wins the first two games, however, the third will be unnecessary since the bi-district playoff is a two out of three series. Prices for the games here will be 30 cents for students and 60 cents for adults. The winner of the bi-district will represent District 1-2AA in the state schoolboy tournament in Austin June 6-7-8 to decide the state championship. Gate receipts Saturday will be used to send the Lubbock team to Austin should they win.

Probable Lineups

Starters for Wichita Falls will be John Hightower, second base, .389; Billy Bookout, third base, .353; Ben Leggett, center field, .433; John Henry Clanton, first base, .355; Fred Blassingame, right field, .500; Bob Howard, shortstop, .314; Jimmy Hooten, left field, .278; and Joe Carter, catcher, .383.

BAYLOR'S NEW STADIUM—At least this is the way the architect views the new $1,500,000 stadium that will be erected by Baylor university within the near future. The football stadium, one of the finest in the state, will seat more than 40,000 fans. It will be erected on a 100-acre tract in Waco and ground-breaking exercises will be held Saturday at 5 p.m. Ex-students, prominent Baptists and friends of Baylor from all parts of Texas have been invited to attend.

Colonial Golf Meet Cancelled By Flood

FORT WORTH, May 26 (AP)—The $15,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf tournament was called off today after Trinity river flood waters covered eight greens at the Colonial Country club course.

The event was set June 2-5 with a field of 30 top professionals and six leading amateurs.

Max Hieghfill, chairman of the tournament committee, announced the cancellation. He said it would be resumed next year.

The course was flooded for the second time in nine days. Last night's heavy rains sent the Trinity river through levees broken by the earlier flood.

Hieghfill said there wasn't time to get the course in shape.

APPLETON JOINS TWINS

SHERMAN, May 26 (AP)—Pete Appleton, veteran righthander, reports to the Sherman-Denison Twins tomorrow night as manager of the team. The Twins, champions in 1948, now occupy the cellar of the Big State league. Appleton was obtained in a deal with the Dallas Eagles, through their Gladewater farm club, to put new life in the team.

Man o' War never ran in the Kentucky Derby.

H-SU Cage Team Names Captains

ABILENE, May 26 (Special) — Larry Van Wartes of Amarillo and Bill Braselton of Corpus Christi have been elected co-captains of the 1949-50 Hardin-Simmons basketball team, it was announced Thursday by head coach Jack Martin. Wartes is a two-year and Braselton a three-year letterman. They will succeed Glen Burroughs and Norman Pinson. The two are roommates.

Wartes is a 20-year old sophomore guard. He was a high school letterman for the Amarillo Sandies and was an all-district choice in 1946-47. He was listed by the Amarillo Globe-News as one of the all-time basketball greats of Amarillo. During the past season for Hardin-Simmons he scored 165 points, although injured part of the season.

Braselton is a three-year letterman. He played high school basketball for Abilene. He won all-district 3-AA honors and played in the North-South all-star basketball game in 1946. He has been a first string guard for the Cowboys the last three seasons.

Hardin-Simmons was third in the Border Conference basketball competition the past season, ending the season with six victories out of the last seven games.

Charles Is Training Hard For Walcott

MOMENCE, Ill., May 26. (INS)—Ezzard Charles who fights Joe Walcott for the Heavyweight title in Chicago June 22 knocked out one of three sparring partners today during a drill at his Momence training camp.

The victim of the lethal left hook was Charlie Banks who was carried from the ring in the second round. Charles also worked single rounds with Floyd Gibson and Gene Jones.

Walcott, who is to train 12 miles away, is expected to set up camp tomorrow.

PENSO RELEASED AT BRYAN

AUSTIN, May 26 (AP)—Release of Felix Penso as manager of the Bryan Bombers of the East Texas league was rapped today by Manager Hank Oana of the Austin Pioneers. "There was no excuse for letting Felix go," Oana said. "We put him there in order to develop our young talent, boys we will depend on next year."

Tommy Holmes, leading Boston Brave hitter for three of his seven seasons, got his solid wrists as a result of bag punching.

VFW, Cloverlake Win Softball Tilts

Cloverlake and VFW emerged with victories last night in the City Softball league at Jumbo Webster field, and a no-hit game was spoiled for Cloverlake in the last of the seventh.

Economy Mills touched Dave Schultz for two hits in the bottom of the seventh to ruin his no-hitter, but their rally fell short as the dairymen pounded out a 6-3 victory. Littlejohn was the loser.

Gene Hughes had two singles and Gene Greathouse had a triple to lead the Cloverlake stickmen. Al Bell had a double for the Millers.

A big nine-run second inning was enough for VFW, but they went on to score six more runs to defeat Pioneer Methodist, 15-2, in a game that was called at the end of the sixth by the 10-run-lead rule. Pioneer opened the first inning of the game with two runs, but that was the end of the scoring as the VFW tightened its defense.

Tomorrow night in the feature game at 9 p.m. Lubbock's Sunbeamers meet the undefeated VFW team in a headliner game.

Curtis Barrett announced that he would form two leagues out of the 10 teams in the City league. In the fast league will be Thomas Tinkers, VFW, Cloverlake, and Sunbeamers. Teams comprising the slow league will be Barber College, Sanders Motor, Bennett Motor, Economy Mills, Asbury Methodist, and Pioneer Methodist.

Schedules for the two leagues will be published later. The slow league game will start at 7:45 p.m., and the fast league games will begin at 9 p.m.

Stranahan Paces British Tourney

PORTMARNOCK, Eire, May 26 (INS) — Toledo's Frank Stranahan and New York's Willie Turnesa brushed aside four British golfers today to reach the quarter-finals of the British amateur championship.

Defending titlist Stranahan really put on a show for the canny pundits of the "Ould Sod" in winning his way through the fourth and fifth rounds.

First, he flattened the Oxford "Old Blue," George Loveday, 7 and 5 in the morning:

Then, in the afternoon, Major David Blair was knocked upon his military brow, by 8 and 7. All told, Frank played 24 holes against a pair of opponents—and didn't lose even one.

Turnesa gave the gallery a thrill with a 2 up defeat of Brendan Scannell, Dublin auctioneer, this afternoon after beating Scotland's Robert Walker, 5 and 3, in the morning's fourth round.

Little Willie himself teetered perilously on the verge of defeat before coming with the counter-thrust that finally did for Scannell, shaved in the clutches of a privet hedge hard by the 18th green.

In the doing, Willie and the homebred Scannell gave the five thousand gallery a series of conniptions, even to its picturesque cowled and tonsured monks from a Franciscan monastery nearby. As a match, it could hardly have been more desperate if the pair had fought it out with knives.

Willie scored first with a superlative pitch within 3 feet of the first pin for a birdie. The imperturbable Scannell squared it by knocking in a birdie with a 10-footer at the second.

They were all square at the ninth.

Then the Dublin man won the 10th to go into the lead for the first time and added the 11th to go 2 up.

Old Ireland's "bye" had the famed American in a tough spot.

Turnesa, short with his approaches at the two previous holes, wasn't short with his putt at the 12th. He knocked in a 10-footer for a winning birdie, squared it by chipping cold at the 14th.

One Year Left, Says Baugh

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—Sammy Baugh about through? That's what the old pass master of the Washington Redskins says.

He says that this coming season, his thirteenth as a pro and his twenty-sixth in football (Sam began playing in grade school), will be his last. Just when he's beginning to get the hang of the game, too.

No other athlete, save possibly the incomparable Walter Johnson, ever had such a hold on the Washington sports public. All Baugh's pro life has been spent in Washington.

Yet this news from Baugh in Temple, Tex., stirred no ripple of excitement here, not even in Redskin headquarters, where Sam is only about as important as the Redskin franchise.

Sam quit? Nonsense. Why, the kid is only 35, and . . .

"If he is losing his zip, the record books haven't found out about it yet," said Dick McCann, the Redskin general manager.

"All Sam did last year was throw more passes, complete more passes, and gain more yards than any other passer in the league."

Longhorns Enter NCAA Playoff

AUSTIN, May 26 (AP)—The University of Texas Baseball team definitely will enter the NCAA playoff.

The Longhorns' entry was assured today when the District 5 selection committee (covering the Missouri Valley and Big Seven conference) agreed to send its representatives to Austin for a regional playoff June 16, 17 and 18.

Texas is champion of the Southwest conference.

The District 5 representative will be Oklahoma A. and M., Missouri Valley conference champion, or the winner of the Big Seven race. Oklahoma and Iowa State are the leaders in the Big Seven pennant chase, not yet ended.

Unheralded Golfer Shoots 136

Hill Tops Qualifiers In PGA Tournament

RICHMOND, Va., May 26. (INS) A cinderella man from Shreveport, La., named Ray Wade Hill made a cloudy day sunny by winning medalist honors today in the thirty-first PGA championship with a 36-hole score of 136.

His four-under-par 67 today and his 69 of Wednesday in the Richmond tourney is a story of a man who picked himself off the ground. The Dallas native was once an assistant to Ben Hogan at Hershey, Pa., and he was an understudy to Craig Wood at Winged Foot, N. Y.

Great predictions were once made for his future. Somehow, they never came true, and a month ago he lost his job in Shreveport.

But today, the unemployed Hill could point to his score and show that he was better, for the moment at least, than the best professionals in golf.

He held a one stroke lead over Sammy Snead. The balding king of Virginia golfdom zipped around the 6,677-yard Hermitage Country club in 68, one stroke better than the first round.

Ex-sailor Howard Schmidt of Chino, Calif., didn't mind the early afternoon rain which drenched the course. He sloshed around the 18 holes in one-under-par 70. His first round 68 gave him 138.

Little George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa., smashed par by two strokes for a 69 and a total of 139 for the two day's play.

"Here's how we've put two cars in reach of every American family." Henry J. Kaiser

Henry J. Kaiser, Chairman, Kaiser-Frazer Corporation

Mr. Kaiser says: "Salesmen, farmers, small businessmen... every thrifty, 1949 American likes to ride in style, but needs a roomy cargo-carrier, too.

"So we designed the Kaiser Traveler, 2-cars-in-1. It's a big sedan seating 6 in sofa comfort, on a 123½ inch wheelbase.

"You change the Kaiser Traveler into its 'overalls' in only ten seconds. You use no tools, no bolts. Just fold down the rear seat, open the hatch, drop the tail-gate, and there's a 10-foot steel-shod cargo compartment. With 3 passengers, it gives over 130 cubic feet of cargo space. With 6 passengers, over 78 cubic feet. That's lots of room!

"And there's plenty of power for any job. The quiet, giant-sized Kaiser engine is a real gas-saver, with its highest compression ratio of 7.3-to-1.

"Now why buy any car that is less useful, when the Kaiser Traveler costs only $2088*? Write me what you think about it. Address me, Henry J. Kaiser, at Willow Run, Michigan."

City Extension Plans Studied

Commissioners W. B. Price, John Spikes, E. K. Hufstedler and Clarence Whiteside gave first consideration to an extensive program which would involve long expansions in three direction, as follows:

1. Westward between Nineteenth and Forty-second streets from the present western boundary, which meanders in crazy quilt fashion, to the Brownfield highway. Such an extension would be as much as two miles westward and embrace an area nearly two miles wide from north to south—a total area of more than two square miles.

Other Areas Ask Annexation

2. Northward to include Country club addition and adjacent areas; the extension would be about a mile in extreme measurement from south to north and embrace more than a square mile of territory.

3. Eastward for an indefinite distance to annex a large portion of East Lubbock, much of which is becoming densely populated. One suggestion was that such an extension should include all the area between Fourth and Nineteenth streets as far east as residents and property owners desire. Another was that the area should extend southward to Thirty-fourth instead of Nineteenth street.

In addition to these, several delegations from various suburban areas south and southeast of the present city limits have asked recently that they be annexed as soon as possible, and that water and sewage service be provided for them.

The question of the method of financing a program of the kind discussed was not raised during the commission session. But it has been discussed many times previously, the consensus being that a bond issue would be necessary to carry out such a program and to provide the water, sewers and other services and protections the residents of newly annexed areas would have every right to expect.

The officials agreed readily to the suggestion of the city manager that they should make a tour within the near future of all the areas under construction and, at the same time, to inspect other city properties.

The implications were that this first-hand group inspection may have decisive bearing upon the program finally undertaken, with City Attorney Vaughn Wilson being assigned the burden of the extensive legal work involved in any extensions ordered.

Extension Requests Heard

The "squaring off" plan of attacking the annexations problem was suggested after the commission heard groups interested in two particular extensions.

J. V. Crow, Ralph S. Thomas and E. F. Buck appeared in behalf of the annexation of the Country Club addition, which lies about a half-mile due north of the present city limits. They need annexation, they said, to protect their area from undesirable building. They presented a petition which, they said, was signed by practically every resident of the addition.

The group was advised that, to be practical, an extension to annex their addition would have to include the territory adjacent to it and, particularly, the land between it and the present city limits.

Members of the committee, with the assistance of the city manager and city attorney, now are to tackle the problem of getting all that territory into the city. The group said they expect opposition from a few individuals who would like to set up or build large numbers of shacks in the area before it is annexed to the city and given the benefit of protective building restrictions.

Building Program Planned

Leland D. Payne, lumber man, and W. S. (Buck) Moss, contractor, were interested in a project about a mile southwest of the present city limits.

Payne said he hopes and expects to build 125 duplex houses and an unstated number of single family dwellings in the area. But he continued, he cannot get financing unless he has assurance of water and sewage for the development.

So he asked whether the city could build the necessary lines, estimated at $98,000 in total cost, with the city paying $37,000 of the amount and him the remaining $61,000. The commission was advised that it cannot spend city money to extend water or sewer lines outside the city limits.

But the officials said they would have legal authority to participate in the desired construction if the addition should be brought inside the city limits and "if we can find the money."

Officials also gave assurance of their interest in this and similar projects which might provide the housing which is a basic condition for the reactivation of LAFB.

Payne said he believes the units he hopes to built could be rented for about $65 a month for two-bedroom places. Three-bedroom units would be somewhat higher and one-bedroom units somewhat lower.

If some method of finaricing the construction of the water and sewer lines is devised, Payne would be reimbursed for his cost over a five year period after the addition is developed. If the lines should be built and the area should not be developed, Payne would lose what he put into it.

The sewage disposal plan bids to open June 23 will be for the completion of an expansion program which started last winter. The first stage of the program, costing about $160,000, will be finished within a few days, the commission was advised by R. L. Oldham, city director of public works.

The work now nearing completion will insure the adequate handling of sewage, Oldham said. But there will be times during the summer, he said, when odors from the plant will be offensive, occasionally to large areas of the city. The work on which bids are to be opened will be necessary to eliminate the odors, he related.

The present expansions will take care of the city's sewage disposal needs until about 1953, Oldham estimated. It will be advisable to get started well in advance of that time on planning for further expansions, he continued.

The nuisance ordinance upon which final action was deferred would give the health department numerous new regulatory authorities. For example, water from air conditioners could not be released into alleys, streets or gutters. Members of the commission said they wanted to study it more carefully before taking final action.

In regard to fire alarms, the city manager said many cities have fixed charges for answering fire calls outside their limits. Lubbock never has made a charge of that kind. Matthews suggested that a charge of $50 per call or $5 per mile would be reasonable for such services. If such a charge was made, the county commissioners court would have to make provision for the payment of any alarms answered in the county outside the city limits.

Howard Davison was the spokesman for a numerous delegation from Allen Bros. post of the American Legion which asked whether the city would be interested in buying the home adjoining the city hall. It is on a tract held under a 50-year lease from the city. Members of the delegation said the greatly increased membership of the post makes larger quarters desirable. No definite proposition was submitted, but further study of the proposal was promised.

Among routine actions, the commission called for bids on four new automobiles for the police department; declined to approve water extensions on the north side of North Second street unless and until residents of the street come inside the city and provide an alley through their blocks, and approved the payment of a $221 hospital bill for Police Patrolman L. F. Hanlon, who was shot accidentally in the leg March 10.

to roads and private property. More stormy weather was in prospect there early today.

Thursday night by 8:30 p.m. Weather bureau points from all over the state were reporting thunderstorm conditions.

Heavy thundershowers started late in the day at El Paso and continued into the night. Winds of 32 miles an haur stirred clouds of dust there. The heavy showers fell at Salt Flat and Guadalupe Pass.

Weather bureau reports showed light to medium rainfall at Austin, San Antonio, Waco, Del Rio, Palestine, Galveston, Ozona, San Angelo, and Bryan during the day.

Trees Uprooted

Abilene had a 73-mile-per-hour wind, the highest ever recorded there. Trees were uprooted, windowpanes were broken, 23 telephone cables were blown down and power lines were damaged. A total of 1.33 inches of rain fell in 45 minutes.

Wind and hail wrought heavy damage at Denton and Denton county. Fifteen planes were badly banged around at the municipal airport—some of them were blown 1,000 yards from the airport. Two hangars were damaged as were roofs, barns, trees, windows and power and communications lines. And pioneer residents said the hailstones were the largest they had ever seen.

Hail Damages Cotton

Homes were unroofed and sheds and outbuildings were demolished by high winds during a rainstorm at Dawson, 20 miles southwest of Corsicana. Telephone and power service were disrupted and rainfall totaling 1.50 inches fell during the storm which struck at 3:30 a.m.

Between Frost and Italy, a three-inch downpour sent Mill creek roaring out if its banks.

Cotton in the Emhouse vicinity, in Navarro county, was considerably damaged by hard hail. Richmond, in the same county had three inches of rain and Corsicana 2.25 inches.

Lightning started fires in Fort Worth and Dallas and set the J. D. McManus barn afire two miles southeast of Corsicana.

Wheat Threatened

At 12:45 p.m. the flood crest of the Clear fork of the Trinity was reached in downtown Fort Worth. The measurement was near 16 feet, about 14 and one-half feet aboe normal but an estimated 10 feet below the crest of the May 17 flood. Less than an hour later, the river receded three niches.

At the same time, 200 Carswell Air base personnel and city and volunteer workers were successful in closing a levee break.

In the May 17 flood, the water rose 11 feet higher, drowned 10 persons, drove 13,200 from their homes and caused property damage estimated between $6,000,000 and $25,000,000.

Two feet of water stood Thursday in the 1900 block of White settlement road and 10 inches flowed over Jacksboro highway in the Henderson street area. Water rose at the Benbrook dam area a foot in 30 minutes around dawn Thursday, but fell "rapidly" by midmorning according to Army engineers.

Combines mounted with airplane-type tires were arriving at Wichita Falls today as continued wet weather threatened the 1949 wheat crop.

Wichita County Agent Max Carpenter said the rains were causing the loss of "thousands of bushels of wheat" throughout the harvest area.

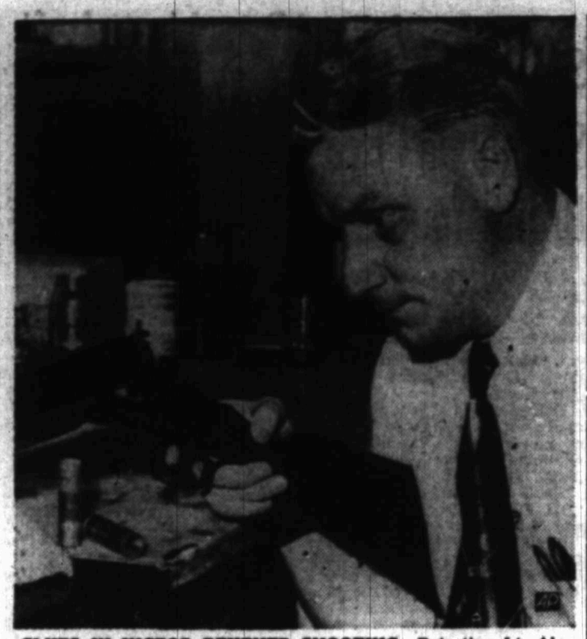

Carpenter added that the losses are confined mostly to fields previously damaged by hail.

Edgar Dabney and Claude Buntyn, interviewers with the Texas Employment commission at Wichita Falls ,said combine craws were mounting airplane tires because they "won't sink and move faster in muddy fields."

Parade Heralds Event

The rodeo, which showed to a capacity crowd at the opening night performance tonight, will be repeated Friday and Saturday nights. It was heralded by a mile-long parade down Plainview's main street at 12:30 p. m. today.

Led by Plainview's High school band, dressed in western attire, the parade featured the Will Rogers Range Riders of Amarillo and their colorful flags and horses.

Wayland College's float was adjudged first prize winner in the parade with the Junior Service League second and Southwestern Public Service third.

Airplanes zoomed overhead as the parade made its way south through Plainview to the rodeo grounds.

Good Rides Made

Although the bronc and bull riders didn't fare as well as the ropers and bulldoggers, the opening shows were featured by fast time and good rides and were well conducted.

John Lindsay of Wichita Falls and Buddy Reger, Woodward, Okla., clowns were featured in clown acts and Lindsay was especially applauded for his trained bull act.

George Elliott of Muskogee, Oklahoma, is announcer for the show, produced by Joe Jennings. Jim Whiteman of Clarksville and Billy Weeks of Roy, N. M., are judges.

Sponsor girls participating in the show are: Amy McGilvaray and Ann Young of San Angelo, Lucille Cowery and Wanda Gavriel of San Antonio and Cookie Foster of Austin.

But he added:

"The actual future demand on any single river cannot be determined until the demands of the Gulf Coast on all rivers are considered."

He said this situation has made it necessary to suspend irrigation investigations temporarily on the coast and concentrate on determination of probable magnitudes of future water demands for all purposes from the Sabine river to Corpus Christi.

"To this end," he said, "we have commissioned the University of Texas to study future development of the Gulf Coast and estimate future demand for water for municipal and industrial purposes.

Truman Predicts Boost In Taxes

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 26—President Truman declared today that the present session of Congress will pass a tax increase bill before it adjourns.

The Chief Executive rejected at his news conference statements by Democratic leaders in Congress that a tax boost bill will not be passed at this session.

Mr. Truman stated flatly that Congress will remain in session beyond July 31, the legal adjournment date, if it does not get its work done by that time.

Tax Hike Pushed

He made it clear that he still regards the $4 billion tax increase which he requested in January a part of the "must" program.

The President declared that Congress should stay in session until it passes the major part of his legislative proposals.

Besides the tax bill, Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill have included the Preisdent's national health program and his civil rights measures among bills that will have to be shelved until the next session.

The President has told callers that he will continue to fight for the civil rights bills which caused a split in Democratic ranks in the 1948 presidential campaign, and was responsible for the Thurmond-Wright ticket.

Deficit Expected

The President did not suggest how long Congress would have to stay in session to pass his program. Congressional chiefs have intimated that it would have to keep at work indefinitely.

Democratic leaders have resigned themselves to a deficit for the fiscal year beginning July 1. They have said a tax bill cannot be passed, and that appropriations will not be cut appreciably.

Congressional tax experts have said this would mean a deficit of $3 billion for the fiscal year, even if the President's $41 billion budget is not increased.

Sen. Lucas (D-Ill) said after a White House conference earlier this week that such measures as the tax increase, national health insurance and civil rights bill could not get through at this session.

Seek Adjournment

He said there was a strong movement among both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill to adjourn by July 31. To stay in session beyond this date, both houses must pass an authorizing resolution.

The President said he had talked with Lucas, who protested that his full remarks to reporters had not been published, but newsmen had the impression that Lucas was clear in his statement about bills that could not be passed.

enabled farmers or individuals to erect grain elevators in areas when surveys showed such granaries could not be built by private capital. The big grain elevators opposed the measure.

Report Refused

Anderson told the Senate he considered this report the most important roll call vote insofar as farmers are concerned this year.

He said in a recent election one heard cries from some sources that the Senate did not realize how it was voting when it knocked out these grainaries under the CCC in the 80th Congress.

"I hope the Senate realizes this time what it has done. Today we have your votes on record."

The Senate voted to refuse the conference report submitted by conferees of House and Senate. The House had agreed to the bill before, but the Senate insisted on approval of board members of the CCC. Today the Senate voted to send the bill back to conference and to insist on its right to approve board members.

Byrd Fears Bureaucrats

This followed a speech by Senator Harold Byrd, Virginia. He said appointment of board members by the Secretary of Agriculture gave "bureaucrats too much power."

Later, Anderson said he does not expect the bill to come back from conference.

Senate action followed close on an embargo announced by railroads in the Southwest that they would not accept wheat unless there was storage guaranteed at destination points. The vote also came after Dr. D. A. Fitzgerald, head of the food division of the Economic Co-operation administration, told Congress that drouth conditions in Europe would require much larger shipments of wheat from the U. S. this year.

Senate Asks HST To Order FBI Probe Of Reuther Shooting

WASHINGTON, May 26 (INS)—The Senate passed today a resolution requesting President Truman to order the FBI to investigate the recent shooting of Victor Reuther, Detroit CIO official.

During a brief debate on the resolution, Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), said there is reason to believe the shooting "involves anti-Communist activity and may have resulted from recent anti-Communist activities by Reuther."

Vandenberg explained that Reuther, brother of Walter Reuther, United Auto workers chief, recently was "an emissary of the United States government" in activities with anti-Communist labor elements in Western Europe."

The resolution was passed by voice vote. It was introduced by Sens. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Ferguson (R-Mich.)

more recent.

"Lubbock is growing up not only in population, but in cultural achievements," she said, pointing out its rapidly expanding churches, its music and dramatic groups, its excellent school system.

"Our greatest advantage is to be part of a growing community in a free nation," Miss Lingle declared.

Miss Pope stressed that "with achievement there must be opportunity; opportunity to think, to learn, to work."

She pointed out that many "lands" remain to be conquered today, among them successful control of cancer, and man's harnessing of the atom bomb.

She said, too, that in 1849, men had dreams for which they worked hard to bring to reality. But, she said, not even in their visions could they have seen the achievements made possible today through research, invention, and technological advancement.

McCabe declared that "the real question is what we, the Senior class of 1949, are going to do." He said that as leaders in the world of tomorrow, members of the class are "standing at the threshold of the greatest opportunities of all time."

He compared the Senior class of 1949 with the "Forty-niners" of a century ago, pointing out that many of those who embarked on the long trek to California in search of gold dropped beside the way, satisfied to build a life where they stopped.

Just so, he said, are those of the graduating class who are satisfied with the knowledge they have acquired already and care to learn no more. He cautioned that "satisfied men do not advance civilization."

Awards Are Presented

In conclusion, McCabe pointed out that "our duty and our responsibility is to gain all the knowledge we can to become the leaders of the next generation."

Floyd Honey, high school principal, presented awards to various outstanding class members. To Coleen Baldwin highest honor student; and Van Scott, highest honor boy, he presented medals and scholarships. He then recognized senior class officers, senior members of the student council, and senior honor students.

Miss Dorothy Lomax, director of secondary education, recommended to Clyde Tatum, president of the board of education, that the members of the senior class be given diplomas.

Presentation of diplomas was made by Miss Grace Padley, director of guidance in the high school, and Tatum, assisted by Principal Honey.

Opening the ceremonies last night was the processional, "March from Athalie," (Mendelssohn) played by Gerre Hancock. Invocation was asked by Dorothy Dale Kennedy, a member of the graduating class.

Frank Poynor, president of the senior class, was master of ceremonies. On behalf of the class, he presented to Tatum for acceptance the senior class gift, a mural for the school cafeteria.

The senior mixed chorus, under direction of J. H. Penn, sang "Recessional," (DeKoven). A vocal solo, "The Builder," (Cadman) was sung by Jack King, senior class member.

The commencement ceremony was concluded by the singing of "The Westerner Call to Loyalty" by the senior class.

Sears Employes To Honor Boss With "Bill O'Mara Day"

Employes of Sears, Roebuck and Co.'s store here have decided to honor their boss with a "Bill O'Mara Day" at the store Saturday in tribute to W. C. O'Mara, manager, for his 20 years' service to the company and his ceaseless work in community organizations.

During his 11 years in Lubbock, O'Mara has distinguished himself as an enthusiastic local booster by serving in many executive capacities in local organizations. He was past president of the Kiwanis club, a director of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, and during the war years he served as chapter chairman of the American Red Cross. He is also a member of Lubbock Country club.

O'MARA

His hobby is "his job" which he has worked at since the young age of 14 when he started out as "cash boy" in a department store in Indianapolis at the meager salary of $3.50 per week. Since that time, he has advanced through many executive positions in various department stores to manager of the Sears, Roebuck and Co. store here in Lubbock.

4. What Russia wants in the way of reparations.

Vishinsky presented statistics about economic and industrial progress in the Soviet zone of Germany in response to a demand Monday by Acheson.

The statistics raised the eyebrows of the western delegates in doubt.

Figures Questioned

Vishinsky said industrial production in the eastern zone has increased until now it is 96.6 per cent of the 1936 level. That is a higher recovery level than the western powers have claimed for their zones. Some types of production, Vishinsky said, are above the 1936 level.

The western delegates found it hard to follow the figures. Vishinsky said new glass plants, power plants, iron furnaces and coal operations had been opened or restored—"scores of them."

"Thank you for these statistics," said Bevin. "They show remarkable prosperity in the eastern zone, and we will be able to confront the flood of refugees from the East and ask them why they are coming from this paradise."

After the conference British sources declared 500,000 Germans were fleeing every year from the eastern zone into the British zone. They are flooding in, the report said, at the rate of 1,000 to 1,500 a day.

Vishinsky declared there were refugees from the West moving to the East also and said it did not pay to give much attention to their stories.

Siamese Quadruplet Kittens 'Change' To Triplets In Austin

AUSTIN, May 26 (AP)—Four kittens—born joined together sometime yesterday — changed from Siamese quadruplets to Siamese triplets today.

This morning one kitten—solid black—separated itself from the other three black and grey kittens. The trio is joined together by a common hind leg, flexible and apparently boneless.

The black kitten had been joined to the others by a common growth out of the stomach.

The freak felines were discovered Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Clifton E. Anderson returned home from work. The Andersons plan to give the kittens to the biology department of the University of Texas for study

Rita Hayworth Calm As Wedding Nears

CANNES, France, May 26 (AP)—Rita Hayworth and her prospective father-in-law, the Agha Khan, were among the calmest people on the Riviera tonight as the marriage of the movie star to Prince Aly Khan drew near.

The ceremony will take place shortly before noon tomorrow in the town hall of Vallauris.

Fashionable Cannes was as excited as an American city on the eve of the opening of a world series.

Prince Aly himself was visibly nervous, neglecting to finish sentences. Matching him in nervousness was Paul Derigon, 48-year-old Communist mayor of Vallauris. The mayor was wearing out pencils writing a lecture he will be privileged to deliver to the couple tomorrow.

Rita was the guest of Aly tonight at a merry dinner in a suburban town.

HST Backs Lilienthal

knowledge of the program, of course, comes from the commission chairman's report."

A reporter asked Mr. Truman at his news conference if he thinks the present investigation of Lilienthal is another "red herring"—a label Mr Truman has applied to past congressional probes.

As to that, Mr. Truman replied: Let's wait and see.

But he said the Lilienthal investigation is entirely different from the inquiry conducted last year by a House committee into the alleged infiltration of Communist spies into government posts.

Military Control Urged

Meanwhile, on the Senate floor, Senator Cain (R-Wash) rekindled the long-standing controversy over civilian or military control of the atomic program.

Cain introduced a bill to abolish the present commission and turn atomic development over to an eight-man board consisting of the Secretary of Defense, the Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Force, the three chiefs of staff and a scientist.

Cain said it would produce a "healthy effect" if Lilienthal resigned.

The Washington senator said Congress should reconsider the question of whether the atomic program should be "returned to the control of the armed forces where it logically belongs."

For Civilian Control

The existing law, he said, should be rewritten "in order that the alarming conditions which have just been revealed will not again rise to shake our confidence and jeopardize our future."

Hickenlooper said that despite his criticisms of Lilienthal, he is still for civilian control.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn) said he didn't think Cain's proposal will be taken very seriously."

Forecasts of a stormy face-to-face encounter between Lilienthal and Hickenlooper failed to materialize as the Senate-House committee hearing got off to a comparatively calm start.

Both Dr. Condon and Senator Graham have figured in previous congressional investigations marked by bitter charges and countercharges.

Lilienthal's testimony came at the opening session of public hearings before the Senate-House Atomic Energy committee. It is investigating charges of "incredible mismanagement" by Lilienthal in directing the nation's atomic program.

The lean, sharp-eyed AEC chairman declared:

"The atomic program has come up from a position of being bogged down to where it is really rolling."

Lilienthal pleaded for a "sober appraisal" of the facts and told the committee:

"This is a good time not to get rattled, to produce jitters or to get involved in personalities."

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), who has demanded that President Truman fire Lilienthal, promptly accused the AEC official of dealing in "generalities."

"There are some controversial statements made by Mr. Lilienthal which will merit exhaustive inquiry," Hickenlooper said.

The hearing ended temporarily shortly after Lilienthal injected the names of Dr. Condon and Senator Graham into the discussion.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) announced that the Senate-House committee will meet in a closed-door session tomorrow and that no further public hearings will be held until some time next week.

Injured Oil Field Worker Remains In 'Fair' Condition

LAMESA, May 26. (Special)—B. W. Janway, about 40, Sundown oil field worker who was seriously burned Wednesday when a steamer tank exploded tonight remained in "fair" condition at Lamesa General hospital.

Janway suffered serious burns of the head, arms and back.

Two trucks were destroyed by fire caused by the explosion, which occurred while the steamer tank was being used to clean out an oil well in the Welch field.

Most Americans Approve 'Hands Off' China Policy, Survey Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., May 26—The "hands off" policy of the American government concerning the crisis in China reflects prevailing sentiment, but a sizable group of voters believe that some more positive course should be adopted.

About one-fifth questioned in a coast-to-coast poll say they think the United States should still try to find some way to aid the Chinese Nationalists in their fight against the Communist forces.

Although the State department policy is still officially one of "wait and see", Major General Claire L. Chennault's recent visit to Washington to urge aid to China has started talk in the capitol of a clearer definition of our position and aims in the Far East and of possible means of obstructing the advance of Communists in Southeast Asia if not in China itself.

In measuring voter attitudes the American Institute of Public Opinion survey first asked each person whether he had heard or read about the civil war in China, and then asked him an "open" or "free answer" question, as follows:

"What do you, yourself, think the United States ought to do about China?"

The national result follows:

Leave alone, hands off, do nothing	43%
Too late to do anything, lost cause now	4
Help Nationalists somehow, food, arms, money, etc.	22
Miscellaneous	2
Don't know	14
	85%
Not familiar with China Civil War	15%
	100%

A higher ratio of vote for aid to China as compared to keeping hands off is found among voters with the most education—the college trained group—although the difference by education level is not large:

	College	High Sch'l	Grade Sch'l
Hands off, or too late, or do nothing	55%	50%	41%
Help Nationalists	30	23	18
Miscellaneous	3	3	1
Don't know	10	15	15
	98%	91%	75%
Not familiar with China War	2	9	25
	100%	100%	100%

Earthquake Shock Reported Noticed By Lubbock Resident

At least one Lubbock resident felt the shock of a slight earthquake recorded here at 7:37 p. m. Wednesday.

Dr. Leroy T. Patton, professor of geology at Texas Tech, said seismographs at the college did not furnish sufficient data to permit immediate determination of the center of the quake. He said, however, that the tremor quite possibly was that which rattled windows Wednesday in Vaughn, N. M.

Dr. Alan Gunn, of 911-B Ave. X, associate professor of English at Tech, contacted Dr. Patton to inquire whether there had been a tremor here late Wednesday. Dr. Gunn, formerly a resident of California, said he perceived the shock. His statement as to the time of the quake coincided with information recorded on the seismograph.

First Negro To Attain Ensign's Rank To Graduate At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 26 (AP)—Wesley Brown graduates from the Naval academy next week, the first negro ever to attain an ensign's shoulder boards at Annapolis.

Three tried it before but never got through. One resigned 12 years ago because he felt "out of place in the Naval service."

Wesley said today he "really enjoyed" his four years as a midshipman, except for the publicity —"a bad angle."

A 22-year-old Washingtonian who served a year in the Army before Rep. Powell (D-NY 22nd) appointed him to the Naval academy, Brown is one of 18 middies slated for Civil Engineering corps commissions in the Navy.

He will become the tenth negro officer now on active duty.

Wesley said he is "more sensitive than anyone else" about all the publicity.

"I feel it is unfortunate the American people have not matured enough to accept an individual on the basis of his ability and not regard a person as an oddity because of his color."

"My class standing shows that around here I am an average 'Joe.'"

Another Washington negro and one from Providence, R.I., are plebes this year

Death Recalls Indian Ambush

FALLS CITY, Neb., May 26 (AP)—A rugged chapter in American history was recalled here with the death of Mrs. Sophia Feldman.

The 87-year-old pioneer woman died just 75 years after witnessing the massacre of four members of her family by marauding Cheyenne Indians.

Mrs. Feldman, who herself was held captive by the Indians for six months, was traveling with her family from Georgia to Colorado when the Indians attacked their covered wagon on the plains of western Kansas.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John German, a brother and two sisters were killed.

Mrs. Feldman, then 12, and three other sisters were carried off by the Indians and held captive for six months. They were rescued by Gen. Nelson A. Miles of the U. S. cavalry, who acted as guardian of the four girls until they reached legal age.

The sudden attack occurred Sept. 11, 1874. According to one of Mrs. Feldman's sisters, who later wrote a book about the girls' captive life, the Indians first attacked their father, who was walking ahead of the wagon. The head of the family had little notice of his impending death. The swarming Indians were everywhere, pouring from a hollow near the wagon road.

Seconds after German fell, the Cheyennes had claimed their second victim. Mrs. German was cut down as she tried to go to her murdered husband's side.

Meanwhile, other Indians were rushing the wagon. An older sister, Jane, was killed after a feeble attempt to beat off the attackers with an axe.

The other sisters were rounded up, and the Indians held a brief conference, apparently to decide which of the girls to take captive. They removed the girls' bonnets, considered the length of the scalp locks and decided. It was Joanna —a 10-year-old with long flowing hair—who lost.

The youngest sister, Addie, five, was saved from a Cheyenne bullet by a small squaw, who claimed her as her own.

After their six-month captivity, the girls were brought back to civilization by units of the U. S. cavalry under Gen. Miles.

Mrs. Feldman married in Kansas, and after the death of her husband in 1905, moved to Richardson County, Neb., where she lived until her death.

J. Edgar Hoover Invited To Attend Boys Club Meet In Waco

WASHINGTON, May 26. (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was invited today to visit Waco, next fall for a five-state Boys club conference and to receive an honorary degree from Baylor university.

Rep. Poage (D-Tex), who extended the invitation personally, said Hoover will give a definite answer when he learns what other engagements he has to fill about that time.

The Southwest conference of Boys clubs including representatives from Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arkansas, Colorado and Texas, will meet in Waco Nov. 4.

Dr. W. R. White, president of Baylor, authorized Poage to tell Hoover a special convocation ceremony will be held to confer the degree if the FBI chief comes to Waco.

Dallas Crippled By Brief Power Failure

DALLAS, May 26 (AP) — A power failure virtually paralyzed the downtown section of Dallas for about a half hour today.

Lights went out, elevators stopped, street cars stalled, news service wires were interrupted and radio stations went off the air.

The power failure lasted from approximately 1:15 p.m. to 1:45 p.m. W. G. Moore, vice president and general manager of the utility, said it was the longest period the business section had been without electric power "in many years."

The trouble was caused by a faulty rearrangement of control wiring at the Griffin St. plant, commercial manager C. A. Tatum said.

Holiday Death Toll Of 215 Predicted

CHICAGO, May 26. (U.P.)—An estimated 30 million automobiles will hit the highways for the three-day Memorial day holiday and an estimated 215 persons will die in accidents, the National Safety council said today.

Cooking For Kids Takes Psychology

SPOKANE, Wash., May 26. (U.P.)—Having trouble making the youngsters eat their spinach?

Miss Ruth Ades, supervisor of the Spokane public school food service, offers a few tips to help mothers prepare food that the small fry will polish off without objections.

Miss Ades, who plans luncheons for some 1,100 six-to-twelve-year-olds, has made these observations of their likes and dislikes:

Carrots: No good cooked, but they'll eat them readily if served raw and sliced into sticks.

Dried prunes: Stewed, no good, but ok when "plumped" in cold water.

Soup: Too hot and takes too long to eat.

Spaghetti: Very good.

Sandwiches: All kinds, but especially egg—mighty popular.

Mashed potatoes and gravy: Always well-liked.

It is estimated that if the world's entire population were to start counting the number of atoms in one drop of water, it would take 10,000 years to finish the job.

Church Moved Over 50 Miles To New Location In Arizona

DOUGLAS, Ariz., May 26. (U.P.)—The largest moving project ever undertaken in Arizona has given members of the Assembly of God church a new chapel.

The structure, a war surplus building 84 feet long and 37 feet wide, was moved here intact from Fort Huachuca, 50 miles away.

It was mounted on 16 airplane tires and hauled by two large trucks. The movers spent 20 days on the job.

The company had to build 40 miles of roads en route to avoid hitting obstructions, officials said.

The building, 34 feet high, served as a chapel at the fort and was already fitted with pews, a pulpit and hardwood floors.

All that remained for the Rev. J. R. Daley, pastor, and his congregation to install was the steeple, which arrived separately.

Two Valuable Fossils Received By Texas Memorial Museum

AUSTIN, May 26. (INS)—Texas Memorial museum at Austin has received two valuable fossil gifts from other museums.

The American Museum of Natural History, New York City, has given the Texas museum two large fossil buffalo skulls obtained by the recent Alaska Frick Laboratory expedition. The skulls were taken from Alaskan frozen muck or silt deposits. One of them contains the horn sheath, which is unusual in fossils, Dr. E. H. Sellerds, director of the museum, explained.

Parts of some very large dinosaur skeletons were received from Carnegie museum of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dr. Sellerds said that an exchange of fossils has also been arranged between Texas Memorial museum and the Chicago Natural History museum.

End Of Kansas Prohibition To Hurt Nebraska Liquor Dealers

FALLS CITY, Neb., May 26. (U.P.)—The slackened bootleg business in now-wet Kansas is going to hurt this Nebraska community.

Falls City liquor dealers expect to lose several thousand dollars worth of wet goods anually to legally operated Kansas package stores.

With their location close to the Kansas line, the dealers still hope for some Kansas whisky business. Their logic is that liquor, subject to less tax in Nebraska, will attract many across-the-line buyers, at 55 cents less per fifth.

World's Deepest Well Nears Four-Mile Mark As Oil Company Seeks Earth's Vital Secrets

By IRVING GARBUTT
INS Staff Correspondent

CASPER, Wyo., May 26. — A small steel bit chewing relentlessly into the earth has produced the world's deepest well, nearly four miles down, in search for oil and for the million-year-old secrets of the earth needed in man's hunt for the precious mineral.

The Superior Oil Company may never get a drop of oil from the record wildcat well which has already passed the 19,653 foot level at Pacific Creek, in the sagebrush and sand country of southwestern Wyoming.

Two previous record depth drillings by the company ended in "dry holes."

Material Closely Examined

The company's huge oil rigs dug one well to the depth of 17,823 feet in Caddo county, Oklahoma. Near Oxnard, Calif., recently, the company drilled to 18,734 feet in the Limoneira No. 1 well before calling it quits. The latter venture cost $600,000.

But even after what appears to the layman as failure in those big gambles, the company has invested more than a million dollars in the hole at Pacific Creek.

There's no oil in sight yet. But little specimens of rock, sediment, fossilized bugs and other materials brought up from this hole and previous ones are welcomed and examined as enthusiastically as oil itself.

Many Answers Sought

That material tells the story of the world to a geologist. Together with previously gleaned facts, it also helps tell what to expect as man goes deeper and deeper into the earth for oil.

On a more technical basis, the "big dig" at Pacific Creek also is scheduled to answer these questions:

How much stress and strain can be placed on a slender string of drill pipe—4½ inches in diameter for the first 14,300 feet and 3½ thereafter?

If oil is found at this great depth will it flow to the surface or can it be pumped successfully from the lower part of the hole? Will the volume of oil be sufficient to repay the huge investment required?

The answer to those questions will help determine the future of oil reserves lying at this tremendous depth in various parts of the world.

Giant Rig Needed

At Pacific Creek, on a sagebrush covered mesa 7,000 feet above sea level, the 200-foot-high steel derrick towers in outline against the snow-covered peaks of Wind River range.

In the long building which houses the lower part of the derrick, the national 160 rig—world's largest diesel - powered rig — pounds the eight and ⅝ inch rotary steel bit downward at the rate of 25 to 30 feet a day.

Only a fraction of this power is needed to turn the bit at the bottom of the nearly four miles of drill pipe rotating and wobbling in the hole.

The big power plant is needed when the drilling crews pull the 120 foot sections of the pipe from the ground one at a time, rack them up in the derrick, replace the worn out bit with a sharp new one, then lower the pipe back into the hole.

177 Bits Used

The process, known as "making the trip," takes more than ten hours.

That progress has been going on now since July 1948, when the big rig was brought up for deepening operations. The original hole was started July 13 1947.

The temperature at the bottom of the hole has been recorded at 300 degrees Fahrenheit, although the great pressure at that depth prevents the mud from boiling.

By the time the 18,875 foot level had been reached the diggers had used a total of 177 bits.

The four drilling crews of six men each live in nearby Farson and travel to and from the rig each day. They continued working all through last winter, the worst in Wyoming history, when the temperature fell to as low as 45 degrees below zero.

At the bottom of the huge hole they're digging, the men figure, there may be oil. Or, out of their experience, and out of the rock and sediment they bring up, may come the information needed to press even deeper in the search for oil.

Drivers Between Ages 25-34 Lead In Number Of Accidents

LOS ANGELES, May 26. (U.P.)—Drivers in the 25 to 34 age group have the highest accident record on Los Angeles city streets, a survey by the police department and Downtown Business Men's Association disclosed.

Drivers over 55 years of age had the fewest accidents, according to the survey, but that group also had the fewest number on the highways.

Second highest age group in regard to accident frequency was the 35-44 bracket, which comprised 25.9 percent of all drivers in California.

Not Even A Sackful Of Frogs Can Stop The U. S. Mail

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 26. (U.P.) Nothing stops the U.S. mail, not even a sackful of frogs.

R. T. Smith stopped to help at a New Albany Miss., train wreck while en route home from a frog hunt.

Smith dumped out a sack of frogs and carried several injured to the hospital. Later, someone gathered up sacks of spilled mail and Smith's bag of frogs.

The next day the mail was delivered and so was Smith's bag of frogs.

San Antonio Teacher Aids Blind Persons

SAN ANTONIO, May 26. (INS)—A patient and resourceful San Antonio woman has taken over the blind persons of her city as her personal wards.

She is Mrs. Marianna Carssow Webb, herself blind since infancy, who has made her life's work a ceaseless attempt to make others with her handicap realize they can live full and useful lives without sight.

Mrs. Webb, a graduate of the University of Texas, has been state teacher for the home-bound blind in San Antonio for fourteen years. Before that, she was instrumental in setting up the San Antonio Lighthouse organization, which has been successful in teaching handicrafts to the blind.

Mrs. Webb's present work carries her to those persons who are too old, too ill or too crippled (as well as blind) to go to the Lighthouse shops.

She visits between thirty and forty people a week, teaching Braille, handicrafts, and Spanish. More important, her friendly interest has given her students an inspiration to improve their lot.

Her parents are her only assistants in her teaching work. They carry her on her schedule of visits, and have set up a store where articles made by the blind are sold.

Practical Joker Closes Bridges To Traffic In New Hampshire

NORTH WALPOLE, N.H., May 26. (U.P.)—Highway officials were embarrassed when motorists reported it was impossible to cross the Connecticut river from here to Vermont despite two bridges spanning the stream.

Investigating, they found the first bridge bore a sign warning that it was closed to traffic and directing traffic to the second bridge.

The second bridge also was marked closed. A sign directed motorists to use the first bridge.

Officials said a practical joker had placed the sign on the first bridge, which actually was open to traffic.

Satire On Hollywood Staged By Puppet Theater In Moscow

MOSCOW, May 26 (AP) — The Moscow Puppet Theatre has staged a "satire on Hollywood." It is called "Under the Rustle of Your Eyelashes."

The play is supposedly based on a Hollywood version of Carmen.

This Carmen is a secret agent of Moscow. The production carries her through automobile races, falls from cliffs and a large amount of love making and kissing.

"The play," said a reviewer on "Evening Moscow", "brings to light the American movie directors who can be bought and act under the direction of the reactionaries."

India's new University of Poona, in the Bombay area, has started to function, with 23 colleges, including a medical college, two of engineering and one of agriculture.

$481,195 Gem Theft Continues To Baffle Virginia Authorities

RICHMOND, Va., May 26 (U.P.)—Police and FBI agents have filled seven thick volumes with information on one of the nation's most fabulous jewel robberies since it happened here Feb. 13 but to date every lead has fizzled out.

Not one of the more than 1,200 pieces of jewelry, with a total value of $481,195, has been turned up although a 20-page list describing each piece has been sent to every police office in the nation.

The first comment of Maj. John M. Wright, chief of Richmond detectives, after the crime was discovered was, "They are certainly out of the bush leagues."

Wright on several occasions has been at the point of giving up. Despite the lack of progress, however, Wright is encouraged by the thoroughness of the investigation.

Displays Looted

The thieves let themselves down on a knotted rope through the skylight into the plush-carpeted Schwarzchild's jewelry store some time before dawn. A large tarpaulin was placed in the store between the burglars and the street windows. The display counters were methodically looted of the most expensive pieces.

As in many a jewelry store, the most valuable jewels were in a safe, marked plainly that it was "burglar proof."

After adhesive tape was placed over door cracks, an acetylene torch was used to burn through two thick steel plates of the safe. In some way a tear gas system and the safe's automatic alarm were disconnected.

After looting the larger safe, a second and smaller safe was burned open. Then, leaving the tarpaulin, rope and other equipment behind, the thieves left through a lavatory window.

Much of the carefully assembled information concerns painstaking police work such as checking every tourist home, hotel and boarding house within a 15-mile radius of Richmond. Other information has come from tips, some of them anonymous but each one checked carefully.

Can Opener Comes To Rescue Of Dog With Head Stuck In Heater

NOTTINGHAM, England, May 26 (AP)—A six-week-old pup named Pat put his head through a metal hole in the base of a water heater. He couldn't pull it out.

His owners, Mr. and Mrs. E. Robinson, and a couple of workmen pulled and pulled—gently—but couldn't get him unstuck. Then they studied and studied.

Finally somebody got a bright idea and freed him with a simple twist of a can opener.

ANGLER CATCHES OWL

SYDNEY, Australia, May 26 (AP)—Australian trout fisherman Rupert Hodge made an unusual catch at Woori Yallock, Victoria, recently. He made a cast with a dry fly late in the evening and a big brown owl swooped down and took the fly in mid-air. The bird was brought down heavily in the stream and tangled Hodge's line badly. He got it to the bank after a struggle and released it from the hook.

HUGE OUTLAY WOULD BE NEEDED

Brannan Urges Program To Boost Farms In Missouri River Basin

By JOHN DRUCKENBROD
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 26. — Agriculture Secretary Brannan proposed today that the government triple its spending to improve farms and forests in the Missouri river basin over the next 30 years.

Brannan called on the government to pour an unprecedented $3,092,328,000 during the 30-year period into agricultural development of about 340 million acres.

The plan is designed chiefly to spur private investment of more than seven and one-half billion dollars for flood control, soil and forest conservation, drainage and irrigation projects.

Plan Is Given

Brannan contemplates the spending of about two and one-half billion dollars to encourage this outlay, raising both private and federal expenditures to at least ten billions.

Here's how that would work:

The government would give the farmer one dollar for every three to four he spends to improve or conserve his soil. In addition, the Agriculture department would extend more than one billion dollars in credit to help the farmer pay his share.

Only a small part of the credit funds is provided for in the three-odd billion dollars. The balance of the three billion would be used mainly to protect and improve public forest land, broaden farm education facilities and intensify research of the area's farm resources.

Top agricultural officials formally presented the program for comment today to governors of the ten Missouri basin states at Rapid City, S. D. The states affected are Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Montana, Wyoming and Colorado.

The budget bureau in Washington already has indicated its approval and the plan is expected to be sent to Congress sometime in June.

Here's a detailed breakdown of how the government would spend its three-odd billion dollars:

Conservation and improvement measures for grassland and cropland, $1,189,630,000; development and conservation of forest lands, $493,609,000; control of small streams, $1,005,500,000; irrigation aids, $201,310,000; improved drainage, $31,942,000;

Soil surveys and land classification $28,620,000; research and investigations into the area's farm resources, $51,305,000; improved farm education facilities, $60,074,000; cost of serving credit program, $30,300,000; special studies of Rural electrification service, $138,000.

Agriculture officials said that western Iowa and parts of Missouri, South Dakota and Montana probably will be the first areas affected by the program, since they are considered the most critical.

Presbyterians Will Occupy New Building

The congregation of Westminster Presbyterian church, organized in February, 1948, will move into its first church unit at Thirty-third and Tyler Ave., Sunday.

Three services are planned for the day, including Sunday school at 9:45 a. m., morning worship at 11 a. m., and an evening service at 7:30 p. m. The evening gathering will be the first night service for the congregation since its organization.

The Rev. David L. Zacharias, pastor, is to speak on "Adventure in Faith" at the morning service. J. Winstead Laymance, accompanied by Vicki Martin, will sing "The Holy City," and the church choir is to give "God Bless America" as the anthem.

The evening service will consist mainly of worship in song, with Rev. Zacharias speaking on the cross as the church symbol.

A Baldwin electric organ has been installed in the new church building for the opening services. The instrument is a loan from the Adair Music company.

DADDY SAID SHOOT—Doyle Talbert, 4, above, obeyed his father's command to shoot him to death minutes after Fetzer Lee Talbert, 37, had slain his wife, 35, mother of Doyle and six other children at the wife's farm home near Mt. Pleasant, N. C. The couple was estranged. (AP Wirephoto.)

FDR's Love Of Politics Helped Fire New Deal Reform Program

NEW YORK, May 26. (INS)—Eleanor Roosevelt frankly concedes that Franklin D. Roosevelt's ambition and love of politics helped to fire his New Deal program for reform at home and abroad.

She recalls in a new book of memoirs:

"It is hard to disassociate his ambition and enjoyment of the science of politics for its own sake from his desire to achieve through political action real gains for the people—first of the state then the nation and finally the world."

Loyalty To Nation First

In the first installment of the book published tomorrow by McCall's magazine, Mrs. Roosevelt says that as a man and a politician her husband was often misunderstood because of his supreme confidence in himself and a conviction that loyalty to country came before friendship.

The former first lady, who also minimizes her own influence on FDR's public actions, says that in spite of the advisers who always surrounded him, Roosevelt invariably used them only as sounding boards.

She says Roosevelt's falling-out with the late Al Smith, who proposed him for the New York governorship that led to the White House and his feud with Jim Farley both stemmed from FDR's belief in himself as "the best man for the job" and the determination to take full responsibility for the job.

Broke With Al Smith

Mrs. Roosevelt said that when Al Smith was defeated in 1928, he "evidently intended" to keep his hold on the New York state government as a "behind-the-scenes" power in the Roosevelt administration.

When Gov. Smith realized that his "man" Roosevelt intended to do the governing himself without any behind-the-scenes powers "that ended the close relationship" with FDR.

The only mastermind behind Roosevelt's career, his widow states, was Louis Howe, the gnomelike little man, who carefully mapped out the strategy that carried Roosevelt from the New York state senate to the White House.

When polio struck Roosevelt in 1921, Howe was one of the first to offer his services. Through his efforts, political lines were kept open and contacts "alive" during FDR's struggle to recover from the crippling disease.

"Blessing" In Disguise

"Franklin's illness was a blessing in disguise," Mrs. Roosevelt states because it gave him "strength and courage he did not have before," and forced him to think things out thoroughly and learn the lessons of "infinite patience and never-ending persistence."

Only once did his wife see him display any bitterness over the handicap of his paralyzed legs and he quickly waved off her shocked surprise with a joke at his own expense.

The most vicious slander leveled at the president was, in the wife's opinion, the widespread report that polio was a progressive disease that eventually struck at the brain.

As governor of New York, Roosevelt developed the beginnings of programs that emerged later as national social security and labor legislation.

Children "On Own"

Instead of trying to give labor "too much power," his wife states, he "merely tried to equalize the power of labor and capital."

As governor of New York and later as president, Roosevelt was far too absorbed by his duties to be much help in raising their five children. His hard and fast theory that they "should be free to make their own decisions—and mistakes "led to further confusion in the ranks of the four high-spirited Roosevelt boys and daughter Anna Eleanor.

James and Elliott suffered the worst, Mrs. Roosevelt says, because they were also victims of their father's edict that on completing their education they were on their own.

She says that James and Elliott grabbed the well-paying jobs offered up by those anxious to toady to the family position and name and went through a long series of disillusioning experiences.

It was also Howe who mapped the pre-convention campaign of 1932, Mrs. Roosevelt states and picked Jim Farley for one of the key spots in the future.

Bank Of Mexico To Back Peso On Foreign Exchange Market

MEXICO CITY, May 26. (U.P.)—Treasury Minister Ramon Beteta promised today that the Bank of Mexico will back the weakening Mexican currency in the foreign exchange market as long as speculators gamble on the value of the peso.

The peso failed to gain strength at the opening of the market, however, holding steady at a near-record low of 8.26-8.30 to the dollar. The rate exchange, which has dropped from 4.85 pesos to the dollar to as low as 8.50 in less than a year, has been comparatively stable at the 8.25 level for several days.

Houston Woman Suffers Fatal Injuries In Hit-Run Accident

HOUSTON, May 26. (U.P.)—Mrs. Emma Amos, 45, died in a hospital here today of injuries she received Saturday night when struck by a hit-and-run driver.

Her death brought the city traffic fatality total to 18 so far this year, compared with 20 for the same period in 1948.

IS HE IS, OR IS HE AIN'T—David Bohm, Princeton university physics professor who worked on the wartime development of the atomic bomb, reads paper outside the House Un-American Activities committee where he refused, under oath to state that he was—or was not—a member of the Communist party. Lumber Mill Waste Converted Into Fuel By Pressure Process

NORTHVILLE, N. Y., May 26. (U.P.)—The nation's smaller lumber mill industry may get a needed stimulus from a new fuel manufacturing process now going into full production.

Sawdust and lumber waste, the big scar on the country's woodlands, are being used to turn out a new by-product fuel, which the inventor said can be used in place of wood, coal, coke or charcoal. However, it is expected to compete primarily with charcoal.

Walter W. Letts, who has spent eight years developing his new fuel process, calls the result "burnets." These hard cylinders, one and one-eighth inches in diameter and about two inches long, are made of compressed wood particles.

They can be turned out at a rate of 700-800 pounds an hour by his machine, Letts said.

Too Much Waste

Conservation officials point out that about three-fourths of each tree cut is waste. About half the tree is left in the woods and about half of what is taken to the mill also is wasted. The "burnet" process, they believe, can convert a major share of this loss into useful fuel.

For years, lumbermen have compressed wood particles, but until now a satisfactory machine for the average lumber mill operator had not been constructed, Letts said. He has applied for a patent on his plunger-like machine that forms wood dust into a solid mass.

He said his process is fast enough for high-speed production and virtually is automatic. The machine itself needs a space about 12 feet wide, 25 feet long and five feet high. It can be used intermittently as waste accumulates or time permits.

Letts says development of the pilot-model machine cost more than $20,000, but the units to be built for sale are expected to run between $10,000 and $12,000 each.

Easy To Handle

Letts said his "burnets" are clean and easy to handle. They burn with a blue-white flame, give off almost no smoke once properly fired, and leave less than three-tenths of one percent ash. The cylinders weigh slightly less than coal, he added.

Explaining his manufacturing process, Letts said the wood dust, from pulverized sawdust, chips, twigs, leaves, needles, bark slabs, shavings, edgings, flows over warm, dry air from jets so spaced that the particles will be dried thoroughly. Then, the dehydrated dust flows on into tubes, where it is compressed by hydraulic action into the "burnets."

Eight plungers working in a series apply pressure of 12 tons to one square inch, he explained, and no glue or other binding agent is needed.

Guard Killed At Mexican Home Of Leon Trotsky's Widow

MEXICO CITY, May 26. (U.P.)—Police said today that a policeman guarding the house of Mrs. Leon Trotsky, widow of the late Russian leader, was killed for what they termed "unexplainable reasons."

A second patrolman, guarding the house jointly with the slain man, ran away apparently afraid that he was next on the killer's list.

Police reported that they are investigating the shooting yesterday but they had no leads to the killer.

Trotsky was murdered here in 1940 after he fled from Russia as a political exile. His murderer still is held in the federal penitentiary, serving a 20 year solitary confinement sentence.

ECONOMIC, POLITICAL GAINS CITED

MacArthur Defends Occupation Administration Over Japanese

NEW YORK, May 26. (INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in a magazine article published today that any objective review of postwar Japan must "note encouraging progress."

The statement by the supreme commander of Allied occupation forces in the far west was published by Fortune magazine, which termed it "the first full public account of his stewardship" of Japan.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said assertion by the magazine in April that his handling of Japanese economic recovery has resulted in a "two billion dollar failure."

Production Level High

The general pointed out that economic recovery was not the responsibility of his command until last December. Nevertheless, he maintained, Japan's industrial production from 1946 to 1948 has been proportionately greater than that of Poland, the Netherlands, France, Czechoslovakia or the United Kingdom.

Gen Douglas MacArthur said that Japanese per captia financial aid from the United States has been one-fourth that extended to Germany.

He also said that the 1930-34 period would be a more realistic base for measuring peacetime economic progress in Japan than the 1938 level taken by Fortune in its critical summary.

MacArthur declared "it is a mistake to attempt to assay the results of the occupation of Japan solely or even largely in terms of economic recovery."

Political Aims Defended

The general said the objectives of the occupation were to prevent Japan from again becoming a menace to peace and to establish a responsible government. This, he added, entailed "reform of the prewar feudalistic structure of Japan."

Gen. MacArthur also contradicted a statement that his aim was to establish the Japanese political center "a little left of center." He said:

"I have consistently and repeatedly publicly declared that our political aim lies along the middle road of democracy."

The supreme commander said he is "unalterably opposed to the imposition or retention of needless controls upon Japanese life and activity." But he added:

"So long as critical raw materials remain scarce, it would be fatal to recovery to remove allocation procedures and thus permit their diversion to speculative and non-essential channels. Removal of rationing controls on essential consumer goods in scarce supply would profit none but the speculators and bring increased hardships on millions of people."

Gen. MacArthur said the rate of progress in Japan cannot be measured by "standards and remedies applicable to conditions elsewhere."

He added that "a comprehensive understanding of the Japanese problem arouses wonder that such progress has been as great and rapid as it has."

'Healer' Denies Part In Explosion Rumor

HOUSTON, Tex., May 26 (U.P.)—Elder A. Bonds, negro, "faith healer" who also claims to have the weather under control, said today a rumor that he had predicted the Wheatley school for negroes would explode at high noon was false.

The small, bespectacled man said further that his role as a "messenger of the Lord" would be jeopardized if he had any truck with such a catastrophe.

Pandemonium at the three-story brick school, where some 3,000 students attend classes, was started, Bonds believed, by "kids who don't want to go to school."

'Truants' Have Field Day

If that was the plan, the truants were having a field day.

No explosion occurred, but Bonds' followers and hundreds of curious gathered within safe distance to watch the "doomed" building. It was emptied—just in case.

Frantic parents refused to let their children go to school as word of the impending disaster spread. Vice-Principal W. M. Moore estimated absentees numbered 400.

Police were flooded with dozens of calls entreating their aid in removing children from the building "before it's too late."

Bonds said he hoped the culprits who spread the rumor could be caught and punished. He said it wasn't true that he had decided to make the building explode because officials rejected his request to address Wheatley students earlier this week.

As the tragic hour approached and passed without incident the crowd, which had gathered in four directions a block away from the building, began to break up.

Bonds is awaiting trial Saturday on a charge made several weeks ago and based on the huge crowds that gathered whenever he appears outside his [illegible] chrome-trimmed "healing station," a modern trailer.

Quick Action On Tidelands Seen

HOUSTON, May 26 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Julius Krug says he believes government tidelands suits against Texas and Louisiana will be filed "very promptly."

Krug arrived here last night to speak tonight before a "Save the Soil and Save Texas" dinner.

He got a lot of questions about the tidelands, which, if the federal government's claims are established, will come under the 41-year-old secretary's department.

Federal Suit Okayed

The Supreme court two weeks ago authorized Attorney General Tom Clark to file suit against Texas and Louisiana for paramount rights to tidelands there.

The plan, he said, probably would be to use tidelands oil in peacetime so undeveloped land fields could be saved for war time development.

It would be easier, most likely, to develop the land fields during the war than the submerged resources.

Leases on tidelands granted oil companies by the states would not be valid under federal control, Krug said, but the companies would not lose their investments.

'Adjustment' Required

"There would have to be some kind of adjudication," the secretary explained.

The states, he added, will have no "say" in control of the lands but will share in the production on a royalty basis.

This would be set by Congress but the cabinet officer mentioned 37½ percent as the federal government's royalty.

On a couple of other oil questions Krug said imports of foreign oil are not significant at the moment but, of course, the industry is nervous, that the coal industry in the East is more concerned now with the sale of fuel oils than over natural gas.

Housing Expediter Okays Rent Decontrol In Three Texas Cities

WASHINGTON, May 26 (U.P.)—Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods today approved the "home rule" rent decontrol actions of three Texas cities whose authorities have determined there is no housing shortage in their areas.

The de-controlled cities are Sweetwater, Marshall and Corsicana.

Woods also ordered rent controls removed from all of Nolan county, because Sweetwater comprises the major part of that rental area.

The three Texas communities decided, after public hearings, that they had solved their own rental housing shortages and did not need rent ceilings. The governor of Texas has approved their decontrol resolutions, as required by the new rent law.

Woods announced, however, that he has rejected a similar decontrol resolution by the authorities of Lockhart, because they failed to hold the required public hearings and to notify the governor of their action.

Traffic Deaths In Texas Show Slight Decrease Over Past Year

AUSTIN, May 26 (AP)—Homer Garrison, jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, said today that while traffic fatalities thus far this year total less than the same period a year ago, the number still exceeds the department's goal of 1,949 deaths in 1949.

"The actual standing up to now," Garrison said, "is a 3 percent reduction . . . If we maintain that rate of reduction for the year, we will cut fatalities only 62 . . . which would give us 1,997 for the year."

Rural Highways Lead

Last year totaled 2,059 persons killed and some 60,000 persons injured, he said.

Three-fourths of the total fatalities were killed on rural highways, the department's records show. And half of these rural deaths were the result of head-on collisions or the automobiles running off the road.

"A complete system of divided highways," the report stated, "would eliminate the head-on accidents." But it added that to eliminate the other hazard would necessitate "bordering all highways with a brick wall."

Other facts on fatal rural accidents included:

Four out of ten occurred on Saturday and Sunday.

Half occurred from 6 p. m. to 2 a. m.

Four out of ten showed a driver "had been drinking."

A third of the accidents involved the 20-30 year age group, with those between 20 and 24 years of age leading in fatal wrecks.

Tennessee Cotton Broker Aids Veteran Held In Vermont Jail

RUTLAND, Vt., May 26 (AP)—One of three war veterans jailed indefinitely under an old Vermont debtor law was enroute to New York as a free man today because a Memphis, Tenn., cotton broker thought he had "got a bad deal."

Ralph J. Fugatt, 29, of Springfield, Mass., imprisoned for two months because he couldn't pay a court judgment of $2,189 walked out of the jail last night, so thrilled and excited that he wasn't sure of who his benefactor was.

The man who came to his aid was identified later as Edward C. Sanders, 38, a Memphis cotton broker, who wired enough money to cover the judgment, interest, court costs and jail board—a total of $2,682.

"It's not generosity," he said. "It's just a loan. I just think Fugatt got a bad deal and now he will be able to get straightened out."

Tissue-Thin Plastic Keeps Out Severe Cold

New Light-Weight 'X-Cloth' May Revolutionize Clothing

By DOYLE F. SMEE
NEA Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, May 26 — On a bitter cold morning in January, 1951, Hans Olaffson, a farmer near Frozen Rock, Minn., heard the jangling of his alarm clock. He bounced out of bed, slipped into a feather-light pair of barnyard shoes, pulled on a sheer pair of coveralls and a paper-thin coat about a third as heavy as a transparent plastic raincoat.

Thus clad in some four pounds of clothing—in contrast to the 20 or 25 pounds he had worn in winters before — Hans stepped out into the 30-below zero Minnesota morning and set about his farm chores.

Was Hans mad? Did he freeze solid on the spot?

New Fabric Tested

Not at all. In fact, that mythical situation may, by 1951, be so commonplace as not to be news at all. At least that is the enthusiastic belief of a wealthy young Cleveland inventor, who is perfecting lightweight winter fabrics and materials so novel that they weren't even dreamed of a few months ago.

The fabric is so new that it hasn't even been given a name. Call it X-cloth.

James H. Rand III, scientist, inventor and industrial designer, has developed X-cloth and its companion, X-paint, in his converted stable laboratory at Bratenahl, a Cleveland suburb.

X-cloth, which Rand fully believes can revolutionize the clothing industry, is made from powdered aluminum with a vinylite plastic base. Rand and his chief project engineer Wallace H. Nichols, began working on the problem of keeping the body warm several months ago, after a client requested them to develop an overcoat with an electrically-heated lining.

In the course of his experiments and study Rand observed that the body loses the major portion of its heat through radiation.

"Why is wool so much more warming than cotton of the same weight?" Rand wondered. Because the surface is such that it reflects back the radiant heat of the body. Why not, then, he reasoned, use the most effective radiating material possible to turn the body's heat—thrown off by radiation—back to the body itself?

Material Is Too Warm

"It was an idea so simple it was astounding," Rand says. "The wonder was that no one had made use of it before."

Rand and his crew of a dozen men set to work in the Bratenahl lab using the powdered aluminum to make a light flexible, plastic-like material.

"The first material was too good," says Rand. "It was so warm you couldn't wear it." This in spite of its almost tissue thinness and weight.

Engineer Nichols will vouch for its warmth. He covered himself one cold night with an ordinary bed sheet and an eight-ounce sheet of the X-cloth. (The cotton sheet was the heavier of the two.)

"Within an hour I had perspired so much that I couldn't stay under it," Nichols says.

Fabric Is Painted

Proceeding from his "too successful" radiant X-cloth, Ryan developed a heat-reflecting paint of the same materials. He plans to coat ordinary fabrics with just enough of the paint to give the desired amount of reflection.

With this paint, Rand says he can turn an ordinary bed sheet—or any lighter fabric — into an overcoat that will keep you warm in zero weather.

"The reason this new fabric idea is so impressive to me," Rand says, "is that it's universal. This material will affect the lives of everyone in the world. It can be used for decorating houses so they will be comfortable with no more than 40 degrees of artificial heat."

One of the advantages of X-cloth is its low cost, as compared to conventional fabrics. Rand predicts that the new fabric will sell for as little as one-tenth the cost of wool.

Notorious 'Yacht Bandit' Given Death Sentence In California

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 26 (INS) — Superior Judge William A. Glen today sentenced Lloyd E. Sampsell, 48, "one of the nation's most wanted criminals," to death in San Quentin's gas chamber.

An all-woman jury convicted Sampsell of first degree murder for the 1948 slaying of Arthur W. Smith in a $3,500 holdup.

Sampsell, who became notorious as the "yacht bandit," hiding out on Pacific coastal vessels following his many holdups, displayed no emotion when Judge Glen pronounced the death sentence.

B. E. Adair Music Company To Hold Formal Opening Of Elaborate New Store Here Today

Formal opening of the new B. E. Adair Music company store from 2 until 5 o'clock this afternoon will give the public of Lubbock and the South Plains an opportunity to see what experts say is one of the finest music stores in the nation.

With more than 12,000 square feet of floor space in the new Masonic building at Main and Ave. K, the store is completely air conditioned.

B. E. Adair, owner of the firm, said cost of completing the interiors alone will approximate $40,000.

Repair Facilities Offered

A "music department store" in the truest sense of the word, the store will sell every type of musical instrument, radios, sheet music and records, as well as offering facilities for radio and instrument repair and concert and recital facilities.

Six record-playing booths, one combination radio and phonograph display studio already piped for television, a vocal teaching studio for Elton Plowman, music teacher, a display room for spinet pianos and a second display room for large upright pianos are among the various departments in the store.

Store Has Recital Hall

A balcony contains a recital hall that will seat 250, and Mr. Adair offers the use of the hall to clubs and music teachers of Lubbock and the South Plains without charge. The store will furnish piano or organ for recitals there.

Three entrances offer easy access to the store. Walls are finished in acoustical plaster, eliminating sound distractions. Walls are attractively colored in light pastels.

A desk with an unlisted telephone number is available for use of organizations in ticket sales, membership drives, etc.

The store will offer RCA radios in both console and table models as well as portable radios, Baldwin pianos and electric organs will be displayed, including a nine-foot concert grand piano.

Fluorescent Lighting Used

The store will continue to maintain its warehouse and band instrument repair shop at Fifth and Ave. G.

Fluorescent lighting was especially designed for the store by General Electric.

V. D. Belfield, western sales manager for Frank Holton company of Elkhorn, Wisc., manufacturer of band instruments, is here for the opening and made a typical comment after visiting the opening: "I have attended many openings throughout the United States, and the new B. E. Adair Music store is second to none—a music store beautiful, a complete and modern store to take care of all musical needs. The city of Lubbock and the state of Texas should be proud of this wonderful store."

C. N. "Spot" Light, sales manager of H. & A. Selmer, Inc., Elkhart, Ind, said he was very much impressed by the store and thought it one of the finest in the nation.

A German orphan, aged 14, hiked 2,800 miles from Moscow to Spain, in six months.

Reds Reported Increasing Efforts To Draw Israel Into Soviet Orbit

By ROBERT C. MILLER
United Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 26.—Russia is determined to incorporate Israel within the Soviet sphere of influence.

Balkan emigrants revealed in Tel Aviv that attempts are being made to establish Communist cells throughout the Holy Land.

Israeli government heads verified the reports.

Immigration officials said special precautionary measures are being taken with eastern European Jews to prevent the establishment of a Communist underground.

Known Communist agitators are isolated immediately upon arrival in Israel and their activities carefully watched by police. At least four are listed by Jerusalem authorities; all are Balkan Jews who entered Israel as immigrants.

Reds In Name Only

The leader of the Jewish Bulgarian community, Daruch Sholam, claimed that nearly half the 35,000 Bulgarian immigrants were registered Communists, but all had dropped their affiliation as soon as they were safely out of Bulgaria.

"Jewish Communists were given preference for exit visas," Sholam explained, "so we all became Communists. However, it was not as easy as we thought. We received special orientation courses before leaving Bulgaria, and it was repeatedly emphasized how necessary it was for us to remain 'true Communists' in Israel. Severe punishment was promised anyone who abandoned the party."

Yugoslav Jews gave similar stories, claiming special "commissars" accompanied each shipload of immigrants to Israel preaching Communism and reminding the Jews of their obligations to Russia."

Church Taken Over

The Soviets have taken over all the Russian church properties in Israel and a specially appointed archimandrate from Moscow, Leonid, has begun a purge of all non-Communist priests in Israel.

Two, Deacon Mefody and a monk, Nikifor, were forcibly removed from the Russian compound in Jerusalem when they refused to acknowledge Archimandrate Leonid as the supreme head of the church in Jerusalem.

Israeli intelligence officers say there is absolutely no threat of a Communistic coup in Israel as all Red agitators are identified long before they reach the Holy Land and any attempts to establish cells are easily thwarted.

Foreign office sources revealed that Russia has repeatedly demanded some indication of strong Jewish friendship in return for Soviet backing of the Jewish state. Soviet diplomatic pressure has been applied to swing the Ben Gurion government onto the Russian side of the East-West battle.

Steer Neutral Course

Russia has repeatedly reminded the Jews, foreign office sources said, of the debt of gratitude owed the Soviets for the United Nations fight in behalf of partition and the establishment of the Czechoslovakian air lift over which the bulk of Israel's illegal war supplies were moved.

The Jewish government however is determined to steer a neutral course and avoid any entangling alliances with Russia which might create distrust in the Anglo-American camp.

Many Jews are clamoring for an expose of the policy of the Czechs and Russians in forcing Israel to pay exorbitant dollar prices for obsolete and damaged military equipment. The government, however, fears the loss of Russian friendship, and, my sources said, undoubtedly will forget the entire messy business rather than antagonize the Soviets.

Insulation Of Homes To Avoid Heat Urged

COLLEGE STATION, May 26 (INS) — Texas summers are seldom pleasant, but you can do something about your house to keep it a little cooler.

W. S. Allen, extension agricultural buildings engineer of Texas A&M college says that inside house temperatures may be from 10 to 15 degrees cooler with insulation than without it.

He said that the insulation itself won't cool the house but will keep the heat outside during the day.

Along with night ventilation, shading of the windows, awnings, and shade trees near the house, insulation helps provide better cooling, he said.

Allen went on that reflective insulation, which comes in metal foil or sheets, helps keep the sun's heat out of the house during the day and allows for rapid cooling at night so it is well adapted to the south.

Two Men Leave Court Without Trial After Friend Opens Door

SAN ANTONIO, May 26 (INS)—San Antonio police are on the lookout for two men who took advantage of a friend's generosity and walked out of the corporation court "bull pen" without facing trial.

The friend, leaving the courtroom after standing trial himself, unlocked a side door to the room. The two men, who had been charged with drunkeness, walked out and left via the fire escape.

Booklet Gives Hints On Egg Production

COLLEGE STATION, May 26. (INS)—Happy Hens are laying hens, and the first sure step in getting maximum egg production is a clean poultry house.

So say the poultry specialists of the Texas A&M college Extension service. A new circular, officially known as C-260, "Keep Hensy Happy," released by the service for Texas poultrymen, lumps the essentials of henhouse sanitation in five "S's"—scrape, sweep, scald, scrub and spray.

Crowded Hens Unhappy

Hens are also unhappy when they're crowded, the circular points out. Give a hen plenty of room, or she'll live up to her reputation of being "as fussy as an old hen."

Three to four feet of floor space per hen is adequate, the experts say. Also desirable are eight to ten inches of roosting space, three to four inches of feeder space and one nest for every five hens. And, of course, plenty of clean water and feed is a necessity.

The circular contains information on disease and parasite control for healthier hens. Old hens should be separated from young pullets, it suggests, since the older birds are sometimes disease carriers of roup and range paralysis.

CHIEF OF TROUBLES

FORT WORTH, Tex., (U.P.)—Bad luck came double for Police Chief R. E. Dysart. On the same day his official car collided with another vehicle, his wife got a traffic ticket for failure to stop at a newly-installed boulevard sign.

Dallas Reports Decline In Crime

DALLAS, May 26. (INS)—Major crimes decreased in Dallas last year, Chief Carl Hansson has reported.

And he's not shy about the reason. He says the decline was the result of "one of the best trained police forces in the nation."

An official police report showed that 12,020 major offenses were committed within the city limits and reported. Of that figure, 3,567 were successfully "cleared" by arrests.

Training Is Praised

Major crimes reported include murder, negligent homicide, criminal assault, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, theft, and automobile theft.

Hansson's report said that Dallas now has about the same number of policemen in proportion to population as ten years ago. "But the officer today has a much larger territory to cover and it is to his everlasting credit that crime is being reduced."

The report went on, "the continuing drop in the crime rate here during the past three years can be attributed largely to the fact that Dallas' Police Training school is producing the finest officers this city has ever had."

Figures from the Federal Bureau of Investigation quoted in the report showed that Dallas could boast of a crime index with a minus 5.03 in comparison with 35 other U. S. cities in its crime bracket.

HST OPPOSES SLASH IN MARSHALL PLAN FUNDS

House Approves Outlay Of Almost $6 Billion To Continue Fight On Reds; Compromise Is Okayed

By H. K. REYNOLDS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 26. —The House voted today to spend $5,617,470,000 to carry on the cold war against Communism by continuing the Marshall plan, military aid to Greece and Turkey and occupation of former enemy countries.

An overnight compromise sustained the $629,000,000 cut in Marshall plan funds recommended by the House Appropriations committee but authorized expenditure of the $4,642,470,000 voted by May 15, 1950 instead of June 30, 1950 as originally requested.

The compromise was approved after President Truman in a letter to Appropriations Committee Chairman Cannon (D-Mo), declared confidence that Congress "will continue to provide adequate funds" for the Marshall plan.

Senate Okay Needed

The President at his news conference expressed disapproval of the 15 percent cut previously approved by the House Appropriations committee in foreign aid funds.

He said it was a particularly bad idea, and should not have occurred in view of the meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers in Paris.

Mr. Truman also voiced disfavor at the proposal of Sen. Tydings (D-Md) for a five percent cut in all government appropriations. He said that is not the way to do it.

Thus the $629,000,000,000 slash in actuality was reduced to only $105,000,000 and the way was opened for the administrator to ask for additional funds next year if necessary.

The vote on final House passage was 193 to 27. The measure now goes to the Senate.

Policy Discussed

The bill was passed after lengthy debate devoted to discussion of American foreign policy and explanation of the terms of the compromise.

The bill provides:

For the European recovery program, from April 2, 1949, to June 30, 1950, (or to May 15, 1950)—$4,642,470,000.

For civilian relief in Germany, Japan and Austria—$925,000,000.

For additional military assistance to Greece and Turkey during the current fiscal year—$50,000,000.

The ERP appropriation includes a supplemental allowance of $1,074,000,000 for April, May and June of this year, and $3,568,470,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1950.

Good Turnout Seen For Old Fiddlers Reunion At Athens

ATHENS, May 26. (AP) It's—hoe-down time in Texas.

And Friday, with the Old Fiddlers Reunion set in Athens, the Henderson county seat becomes the mecca of music-lovers, hill-billy style.

Thursday morning, as the bandstands were being erected on the courthouse square, R. T. Craig announced there would be no "queen-crownin'" this year. Instead, says the veteran East Texas politician and former newspaperman, Athens will have a square dance contest in connection with fiddlin' breakdowns.

Thirty fiddle bands and about thirty individual fiddlers are entered in this year's contest. And Craig says they come from "all over Texas."

"It's the same old bunch that has been comin' since 1931," grins Craig, "plus a lot of newcomers."

Land Commissioner Bascom Giles is going to make the principal address at the reunion. And the Texas prison system band—"the boys and girls in white"—will make its annual appearance.

In other years, the East Texas "opera" has attracted up to 50,000 people to Athens, a town that brags of its "peaches, pears, potatoes, plums, peanuts and petroleum." And that packs 'em mighty tight around the court house.

And the 18-year old East Texas institution is looking for a whopping crowd by the time the sun rises Friday.

Who wants to chop cotton now, anyway?

Some banks in Algiers, French North Africa faced with a surplus of cash, are lending on mortgages, with the proviso that loans cannot be repaid for 10 years.

Embarrassed Kiwanis Members Hear Guest Speakers Criticized In 'Surprise' Program

The Kiwanis club Thursday was both shocked and embarrassed when a few members rudely heckled and criticized the toastmaster and two guest speakers.

When Kiwanians were able to overcome their surprise they were amused at the interesting program put on by the Lubbock Toastmasters' Club, a comparatively new organization here.

Dr. O. W. English performed the duties of toastmaster and introduced the two peakers, Rev. Norman Gibson and County Attorney Waggoner Carr. Both men gave excellent short talks.

"Words Can Do A Lot"

Rev. Gibson spoke "a few words about words" in which he told of some interesting puns and applications of foreign words taken into our language. "Words", he said, "can do a lot for you, both good and bad. You need to choose your words carefully."

As Rev. Gibson concluded his speech A. S. Meinecke belligerently challenged the speaker's ability. Twice Dr. English tried to tell him he was out-of-order but Meinecke persisted to the consternation of the large audience which was not in on the joke.

Carr, in his talk, offered encouragement to men called on to speak. He said he was aware that early attempts usually found the tyro speaker fraught with fear and certain his speech is a flop.

"When Abe Lincoln was invited to make a speech at Gettysburg," Carr said, "it was only as an afterthought and a courtesy to the President.

Lincoln Lost Sleep

"Everyone expected Lincoln to come off poorly against the orators of that day. Lincoln himself lost sleep over what he thought was a poor speech. The world has since been the judge of that brief address."

Larry Copenhaver said Carr did better than he expected, but still thought he should be able to make a more interesting talk. Then A. B. Watkins demanded the floor and criticised everything from the speakers on down to Kiwanis President Fred Sparks.

To temper the surprise, Dr. English, explained that the Kiwanis had been treated to an example of how regular meetings of the Toastmasters' Club are conducted.

"Because things have been done a certain and same way for 15 years usually means that they are —wrong," English said.

Visitors at the luncheon included J. Ben Cole, G. C. Spence, Raymond McNary, jr., George Mills, D. R. Neighbors, Lou Walker, Dr. M. D. Watkins, Dr. M. H. Benson, a Dr. Clover and Frank Raymond, a Kiwanian from East Orange, New Jersey.

The company said economic conditions forced their probably permanent closing.

Senate Okays Another Major Money Bill

Solons Nearing End Of Session

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 26—Senate passage of another major money bill today boosted the 51st legislature another step toward final adjournment.

The Senate's 22 to 8 vote sent back to the House a bill appropriating $64,625,246 to operate the eleemosynary institutions during the next two years. This was $29 million more than the House figure, including $23 million for new buildings to house wards of the state.

Many Minor Bills Okayed

Gov. Beauford H. Jester has warned that he will call a special session of the legislature if this session does not make a substantial appropriation for new state hospital buildings.

The House passed finally 44 local and uncontested bills, including 18 already approved by the Senate. They go to the governor.

The Senate passed finally 75 local and uncontested bills. They include 49 already approved by the House which now go to the governor.

Because of the wide spread between Senate and House versions of the eleemosynary bill, it apparently was headed for adjustment in conference committee. Appropriations for state departments, colleges, and the courts were already there.

Educational Study Asked

These major measures must all be approved before the legislature can quit and go home. Guesses on when ranged anywhere from June 10 to July 1.

Among bills passed by the House was one requiring public school students to take one year of American and Texas history and a one year citizenship course either in junior or senior high school. It went to the Senate for action.

Gov. Jester in a message to the legislature today asked for a commission to study ways of improving the state's system of higher education.

Included among the bills going to the governor from the Senate were one to change the name of Sul Ross State Teachers college to omit the word teachers, and one to set up a Jim Wells-Duval county reclamation project.

Another would require big game licenses for hunting deer and turkey. They would cost $2. Hunters would be allowed two deer.

Passed and sent to the House was a bill to allow the state Department of Public Safety to use money from the chauffeur's driving license fund to begin construction on a new state headquarters on the Dallas-Austin highway north of Austin.

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE

Lubbock, Texas, Friday, May 27, 1949

Wheat Harvest Delayed By Rain

Light to soaking rains over the south edge of the Plains wheat belt have delayed the harvest in several counties, according to officials of the Texas Employment Commission. Cutting will probably get underway by the end of the week if no additional rain is received.

The Knox county harvest began May 24 with weather clear and warm. Thirty days will wind up the cutting in that county.

Several Counties Too Wet

Wichita and Archer counties are too wet to harvest at this time. Young, Baylor, Willbarger and Foard also reported conditions as being too muddy. Denton and Cooke counties will wind up their harvest by June 1.

The oat harvest will begin about May 28 in Clay county.

Although the TEC reports there are many transient combines and crews on the road the counties mentioned above all have an adequate supply of both men and machines on the ground. Trucks for hauling the grain are also in plentiful supply.

The TEC has arranged a series of temporary offices to facilitate placement of harvest hands. These offices are located in Seymour, Coleman, Crowell, Quanah, Haskell, Benjamin, Ballinger, Electra and Olney.

'Old Settlers' Plan Reunion In Floydada

FLOYDADA, May 26 (Special)—Old settlers will gather here Saturday for a reunion on the 59th anniversary of Floyd county.

Festivities start with a quarter horse show at 10:30 a. m. At noon, old settlers will be served dinner by home demonstration clubs of this area.

A varied program will follow the 2 p. m. parade, including calf roping, cutting-horse contests, and a "general get-together."

Principal speaker will be Judge E. C. Nelson, jr., former Floyd county judge. Mrs. Bob Smith is president of Floyd county pioneers. Topping off the event will be an old settlers dance on the court house lawn Saturday night.

Primitive peoples tatooed themselves, primarily for embellishment, although the figures also had a symbolic significance.

Other Oil Activities Pushed In Area

New Oil Test To Be Drilled In Scurry

American Republic corporation is reported planning to start operations in the near future on a 7,500-foot wildcat in southeast Scurry county.

The prospector will be the concern's No. 1 C. H. Ernest estate. It is due to be located 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 31, block 3, H&GN survey.

That will make it nine miles southeast of the Kelly-Canyon field, the nearest deep production. The drillsite is three and one-half miles west of Hermleigh and seven miles southeast of Snyder.

The projected destination of 7,500 feet should take the venture through the Pennsylvanian series.

Wildcat Hits 8,400 Feet

Superior Oil company and Intex Oil company No. 1 R. H. Jordan, northwest Scurry county wildcat, which is projected to around 8,700 feet, being drilled "tight," has penetrated below 8,400 feet in an unidentified formation, and is reported making more hole.

As far as can be learned the project has not yet developed any indications of possible production. It is understood that several drillstem tests have been run.

This development is just inside the west lines of Scurry county. It is 680 feet from east and 2,652 feet from north lines of section 579, block 97, H&RC survey, and three miles west of Fluvanna.

Location Staked

Location was staked for three new explorations in Scurry county, one an outpost to production from the Sharon Ridge-Canyon in the southwest part of the county and two in the North Snyder field of north-central Scurry county.

Humble Oil & Refining company is to drill its No. 1 Wright Huddleston to 7,000 feet with rotary tools, attempting an extension to the Sharon Ridge-Canyon pool.

The drillsite is 2,080 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of section 163, block 97, H&TC survey, about 14 miles southwest of Snyder. Operations start immediately.

Standard Oil Company of Texas is starting by May 28 on two 7,000-foot explorations in the North Snyder field.

The concern's No. 4-6 Jessie Brown will be 1,868 feet from north and 2,099 feet from east lines of section 439, block 97, H&TC survey. Stanotex No. 2-7 Brown is to be 1,868 feet from south and 2,099 feet from east lines of the same section.

Rotary Drilling

Drilling will be with rotary tools.

Out-post to the one-producer Landon-Devonian field in south-central Cochran county has been staked by Texas Pacific Coal & Oil company.

It will be the concern's No. 5-D J. F. Edwards, spotted 660 feet from north and 625 feet from west lines of the lease in section 13, block L, psl survey.

The Devonian is expected to come in above 11,000 feet. Drilling with rotary tools is scheduled to begin by May 28.

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 18-B Cowden, wildcat in southwest Andrews county, two miles east and slightly south of the Dollarhide field, and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 12, block A-55, psl survey, was swabbing to test on perforated section at 11,000-026 feet, in the upper section of the Fusselman of the Silurian.

No New Oil Reported

Operator had swabbed out 96 barrels of load oil and had 271 more barrels of the load to swab out. No signs of new oil having developed from the zone now under investigation have been reported.

The new discovery flowed 31 barrels of oil in four hours during the last testing of the perforated interval at 11,056-082 feet in the lower Fusselman. That zone was washed with 500 gallons of mud acid. The 11,056-082 foot horizon is cut off from the 11,000-026 foot zone being tested by a retainer.

Operator is expected soon to start making production tests in the Devonian. That horizon showed possibilities of heavy production when it was drilled through.

J. C. Barnes No. 1 Lawlis, central-west Andrews county wildcat, about 13 miles west of the town of Andrews and 1,980 feet from east and 660 feet from north lines of section 22, block A-47, psl

Texans Named For U.S. Posts

WASHINGTON, May 26 (AP)—President Truman named Texans George C. McGhee and John Dewey Hickerson today among five new nominees for assistant secretary of state.

McGhee is from Dallas. Hickerson is a native of Crawford, McLennan county.

The other nominees—announced by the President immediately after signing legislation creating new posts of assistant secretary of state—are W. Walton Butterworth of Louisiana, Edward G. Miller, jr., of New York, and George W. Perkins, Republican business man.

McGhee is a well-known oil geologist, a former vice president of the National Geophysical Co., of Dallas. He has served for the past two years as state department co-ordinator for the Greek and Turkish aid programs.

Sweeping Change Made

Hickerson entered the diplomatic service in 1920 as vice consul at Tampico, Mexico. He is 51, a veteran of varied service with the department. He was advisor to the U. S. delegation at the United Nations conference in San Francisco in 1945, and a member of the Joint Board of Defense of the U. S. and Canada from 1940-1946. He is present director of the Office of European Affairs.

The announcement put into effect a sweeping reorganization of the State department — recommended by the Hoover commission and approved by Congress. Secretary Acheson will have 10 executive aides instead of the present six.

Former distinctions among political, economic, propaganda and intelligence functions were wiped out. The grouping is now by geographical areas. McGhee, 37, will be in charge of Near Eastern and African affairs; Hickerson in charge of United Nations and other international organization affairs. Butterworth will be in charge of the Far East; Perkins European affairs, and Miller American public relations.

Tennessee Man Chosen

The President announced Perkins would succeed assistant Secretary Saltzman, who is resigning. Perkins is presently director of the industry division of the ECA office in Paris. He is a former vice president and director of Merck and Co., Inc., New York. Washington officials described him as a Republican. Saltzman is a former assistant secretary for occupied areas—Germany and Japan.

Mr. Truman said he was naming George F. Kennan of Wisconsin to succeed Charles (Chip) Bohlen as counselor of the State department. Bohlen has gone to

He said that he aimed at the largest bear, which fell immediately.

But, the honest chief executive added, the bear also got up immediately, and walked away.

UAW CHIEF DENIES 'WALKOUT'

Lewis Forces Recess In Talks With Southern Coal Producers

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., May 26 (AP)—John L. Lewis forced a week's recess today in negotiations with the Southern Coal Producers association and it appeared probable the bargaining sessions may not be resumed.

The president of the United Mine Workers acted on the grounds that the association does not represent enough companies to constitute a legal bargaining agency.

Lewis said the United Mine Workers' officials will return to Bluefield next Thursday to determine if the SCPA represents enough coal tonnage to do business with the union.

Lewis' Action Scored

Joseph E. Moody, SCPA president, accused Lewis of "walking out" but the union chief heatedly denied this. Lewis said:

"The miners are not walking out or abandoning this conference. We are simply taking a recess on our own motion."

Lewis said a "rebellion" has occurred in the association's ranks and so many companies have withdrawn permission for the association to represent them that "there is a grave question in our minds whether the association has enough tonnage left to legally function."

The UMW president told Moody: "We'll recognize you as bargaining representative but you first got to prove that you represent enough people to make the association a bargaining agency."

Action Claimed Premature

Moody appealed to Lewis for "an opportunity to prove it" but to no avail. Lewis and his union followers walked out.

The SCPA chief admitted that "we've had some troubles, dissents, arguments and withdrawals and there may be more." But he called Lewis' actions premature and sought vainly to keep the parley going.

Originally, the SCPA represented 138 million tons of soft coal production annually but today Lewis said the figure was down to 109 million tons because of withdrawals. He said the miners were unable to tell what the tonnage would be tomorrow.

Two Tech Co-Eds To Graduate Just Few Years After Mothers

Two co-eds at Texas Technological college who will be candidates for graduation Monday night will be following close in their mother's footsteps.

Exa Fay Hooten of Stephenville and Sue Lynn Guthrie of Memphis both had the unique opportunity of "helping mama pick her college," since the parents also attended Tech just a few years ago.

Mrs. Maude Hooten was graduated in home economics education in 1940 and Mrs. Elizabeth Bass Guthrie finished in 1938 with a degree in education.

Exa Fay will graduate with a bachelor of science degree in foods and nutrition, and Sue Lynn will be graduated in home economics education.

Cause Of B-29 Crash Sought By Air Force

EL PASO, May 26 (AP) — The Air Force was trying to learn today what caused a B-29 bomber to catch fire and its navigator to die as he tried to escape the doomed ship.

Capt. Burt A. Alley of Los Angeles was killed when he parachuted from the burning plane yesterday afternoon. The superfort was destroyed by the fire and the crash 31 miles northeast of here in New Mexico.

Capt. William A. Wood, pilot-instructor, lost control of the ship after the number four engine began blazing. He ordered the crew to bail out. All except Alley lived through the jump but four were injured.

Officers said they did not know whether it was a bad 'chute or some mischance in the air that kept Alley from escaping death.

Two ranchers from Yaleta, Roy and L. A. Campbell, brothers, found the eight living airmen and Alley's body. Guided by a rescue plane, they reached the men in their pickup truck and rushed them to Biggs air base here.

The plane was part of the 340th Bomber squadron of the 97th Bomb group, attached to Biggs. It was on a routine flight. Capt. Alley lived here with his wife.

Injured were M-Sgt. John A. Blomberg, El Reno, Okla.; T-Sgt. Hunter W. Crowder, Winfield, Kan.; S-Sgt. Donald R. Wilson, Clenolden, Pa., and S-Sgt. Dean C. McConkey, Bloomington, Ill. Blomberg suffered a broken left ankle. The others had minor injuries.

Other members of the crew were Capt. Robert L. Wallander, Capt. Charles T. Fleeson, and First Lt. Laurence D. Rogers.

Air Force Will Locate Bases In Areas That Furnish Housing

By SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 26 — The Air Forces has no intention of deviating from its announced housing policy of locating air bases where the local citizens of a community furnish it with housing for military personnel, it was reported from the office of Eugene Zuckert, assistant secretary of the Air Force.

This means that it will be up to the citizens and local financiers of an area wishing an air base to work out the plan.

El Paso Gets Warning

The Air Force feels that it is on a sound basis with this altogether new method of bargaining with a local citizenry before locating in the area—in fact, officials say the same principal has been applied at least partially before in military communities.

The Air Force is now suffering wounded feelings at the attitude of the city of El Paso in not coming forward immediately with an offer to help it solve its housing problems for Biggs field. The Air Force has been putting out subtle hints to El Paso that if the housing were not forthcoming then the city would face a potential threat of losing the air base.

Many Towns Seek Bases

Sedalia, Missouri citizens have sent 100 letters asking that the Air Force pick their city for site. Sedalia also seeks to be made the West Point of the Air, thus vying with San Antonio in that respect. Other cities, too, throughout the country are openly bargaining to get an air base now. Roswell, N.M., citizens organized a $500,000 corporation to build housing to insure a permanent air base.

The Air Force figures that it leaves $10,000,000 annually in spent pay rolls in a vicinity. That alone justifies the expenditure on the part of citizens to provide some housing, officials think.

Reason for the new policy in insisting that local citizens provide housing instead of depending on military appropriations to erect quarters in the old-fashioned way is that annually there is only a limited amount for this purpose coming from Congress.

"It is this way—we either spend the money allotted to us for airplanes, for runways and improvements looking to safety and efficiency, or we spend it for housing," explained an official. "We have only so much in any given year—the amount does not run over and accumulate—and what we have is designated for specific purposes. Therefore, we feel that an air base, being a good investment, should be some inducement for local citizens to help us. One thing we are determined to do—that is to see that our military personnel get decent, adequate housing."

Chinese Reds Mass Near Burma Border

RANGOON, Burma, May 26. (AP) The president of the Kachin state said today about 10,000 Chinese Communists have taken up positions within 30 miles of the China-Burma frontier "awaiting the opportunity to enter Burma."

The official, Sima Duwa Sinwa Nawng, told newsmen the Chinese Reds now are stretched along a line parallel to the Kachin state.

He said his territory in northern Burma had been alerted against a possible invasion and expressed confidence Kachin would be able to repel a Chinese assault "as long as it is confined to Communists."

Besides the Kachins belonging to the regular Burmese army, the state has 20,000 warriors, including women who are as "adept with firearms as menfolk," Nawng said.

The East Punjab Government, India, has placed in the United States orders for plant worth $9,000,000 for the Bhangal power project which will benefit 67 towns.

Big Spring VA Hospital To Be Ready To Open Within Year

DEATH SENTENCE STAYED

San Antonio Surgeon, Convicted Of Murder, Wins Insanity Trial

LA GRANGE, May 26. (AP)—Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, who slew four members of one family as they drove to church, won an insanity trial and a stay of death sentence today.

Weary, and aged by events, the San Antonio surgeon shuffled into the court room carrying a tattered bible. He stared at the floor. Without a show of emotion he heard District Judge J. R. Fuchs set the insanity trial for June 14.

No date had been set for Ross' execution. His attorneys filed a petition late yesterday asking stay of sentence and an insanity trial.

Convicted Of Murder

Ross, a native of Ohio and Harvard-educated, was convicted Oct. 24, 1948 of murdering Mrs. Willard York of San Antonio.

At the same time Ross shot her on a comal county road May 25, 1947, he killed other members of the family: Willard York, San Antonio investment banker; a son, John, 9, and Mrs. Mary York, York's 67-year-old mother.

Ross has been held at Wharton. It was there he heard May 11 that the court of criminal appeals at Austin had ruled for a second time that he must die. On May 3 the court rejected his appeal from the death sentence. On May 11 it refused his motion for rehearing.

Attached to Ross' petition for an insanity trial were affidavits from four San Antonio physicians who said they had found Ross insane. The doctors are Royall M. Calder; Lewis W. Helfer; O. J. Potthast, and Elmer Cooper.

Sheriff T. W. Lane of Wharton says Ross is "dying every day—dying by inches—just a man in a daze."

CROSSINGS ARE SOUGHT

MOBILE, Ala., May 26 (AP) — Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., Houston, applied today for permits to make two more river crossings in Mississippi with its newly-started 30-inch gas pipeline. The firm sought permits to cross the Leaf river four miles downstream from U.S. highway 84 bridge in Jones county, and the Chickasawhay river, 2.1 miles downstream from Desoto, Miss.

Injunction Asked Against Dallas Church By Member is Denied

DALLAS, May 26 (AP) — Judge Dick Dixon today denied an injunction sought by a member of the Oak Cliff Church of Christ here to "prevent changes in the organization of the church."

Judge Dixon said no property rights were involved and that under these circumstances he had no right to issue an injunction against any member of the church.

C. E. Neve, the member seeking the injunction, through his attorneys, had put several ministers of other Churches of Christ on the stand in an attempt to show that elders have sole authority in all church matters.

But the minister of the Oak Cliff church, W. B. Andrews, a defendant testified yesterday that the New Testament alone was regarded by his denomination as the ultimate authority of the church.

Mexican-American Oil Firm To Begin Explorations In Gulf

MEXICO CITY, May 26 (AP)—American oil man Edwin W. Pauley said today that the Mexican-American Independent Oil company will begin off-shore exploration operations in the Gulf of Mexico next Monday under the first large drilling contract granted by the Mexican government's oil company.

He added that his group, made up of three American oil companies, will invest more than $100 million (U.S.) in the operation.

Under the contract signed with Petroleos Mexicanos last March 5, Pauley's group will receive 50 percent of the production until his initial investment is repaid, after which he will get 18 percent as profit. However, the contract states that if Pauley hits dry holes he will take the complete loss.

The American independent oil group has been doing preliminary drilling work in the state of Tabasco, where it has a large grant for land drilling operations.

All petroleum drilled by the Pauley group will be turned over to the Mexican oil monopoly, except his percentage which he may sell in the world market.

TWO DEAD IN BLAST

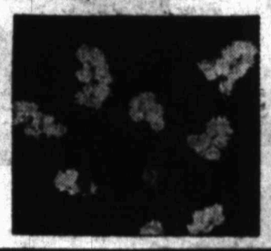

HERMISTON, Ore., May 26 (INS) —Two men died today when sparks from a welder's torch set off an explosion that wrecked an asphalt tank truck being repaired at Hermiston. The dead are Lloyd Wesley Brookhouser, 41, of Pendleton, Ore., driver of the truck, and Wilmer Craig, about 50, of Hermiston, the welder. Craig died later in a Pendleton hospital.

Ancient Saxons practiced a form of tatooing to identify the bodies of men slain in battle.

Hoover Commission Urges Solons To Make All-Out Effort To Push Reorganization Plan

By JAMES C. AUSTIN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 26—The Hoover commission today cautioned Congress against "partial or half-way measures" in carrying out recommended reforms in government.

The commission, headed by former President Herbert Hoover, also warned that Democracy's highest ideals can be thwarted by excessive costs, waste, disunity and the "other by-products of inefficient government."

Solons Face Big Job

In a hard-hitting concluding report, it frankly acknowledged that Congress has a big row to hoe in attempting to bring both economy and efficiency to the executive branch of the government. Then it cautioned against any "piecemeal attack" in carrying out reforms recommended by the commission.

"It is necessary that the President and the Congress give careful attention to treating the whole body of our recommendations even though the implementation may have to be done on a step-by-step basis . . . Once the practice of exempting certain agencies and excepting particular functions has begun, the chances of achieving substantial improvements in the efficiency of the government will speedily diminish."

Needs More Authority

With a note of urgency, the commission said "we cannot afford to lose this opportunity to put the operation of the federal government on a sound and efficient basis" because the people are entitled to receive full value for their tax dollars.

The final report was both a summary and evaluation of 18 previous reports on ways and means of streamlining the executive branch. It summed up the nearly two years of study, investigation and reports on the complex and cumbersome structure of the executive branch.

Major problems posed by the commission and recommended solutions:

1. The President at present lacks authority to organize the agencies of the executive branch for the most effective discharge of his duties. Recommended: "Sufficient authority be delegated to the President and to his department heads to permit them to carry out responsibilities that have been assigned to them by the Constitution.

2. The budget process is weakest at the departmental level where it should be the strongest. The budget document is a relatively ineffective tool of management. Recommended: "The budget document be completely recast along the lines of work programs and functions. Such . . . a performance budget would analyze the work of government departments . . . according to their major functions, activities or projects . . . rather than on things to be acquired."

3. The Civil Service commission has not been organized to develop as a really effective staff arm of the President. Planning and administration of the personnel program have not kept pace with the tremendous expansion of employment in government. Recommended: Decentralization of the personnel system "so that the operating agencies of the government will perform the day-to-day tasks of recruitment, selection, position classification, and other aspects of personnel management, under standards to be approved and enforced by the Civil Service commission."

4. In several of the chief housekeeping services of government—supply, records management, and building maintenance—there are shocking instances of wasteful practices and poor business management. Recommended: Put government supply operations on a businesslike basis. This can result in "enormous savings."

Anxiety Over Red Gains In China Not Limited To Western Powers

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Red victories in China are causing diplomatic heartburn in a number of world capitals.

In the case of Red China, heartburn is by no means confined to those capitals who don't relish the prospect of admitting officially that a fifth of the human race is going into the Communist bag.

Take Russia. Moscow may be quite anxious to line up the Chinese vote in the UN Security council. The Chinese veto power would give the Soviet veto a well-earned rest and would strengthen immensely the prestige of the Communist bloc.

However, to recognize a Red government in China may involve a serious change in Soviet policy. Up to now Russia has played her Chinese cards close to her chest. She is the only major power to send her ambassador in China to Canton with the refugee Nationalist regime.

This treaty, signed with the Nationalists in 1945 gives her about the same special position on Chinese soil that czarist Russia used to have. The Chinese Reds do not appear overjoyed about it.

Reds May Bargain

Quite apparent from the fact that they have not yet set up a central government which claims the right to be recognized, the Chinese Communists are likely to do some quiet but intense bargaining about that treaty before they swap ambassadors with the USSR.

This brings up the whole vital question of how much actual influence Russia has or will have in Red China. Both powers are going to belong to the Communist family of nations, but there is much suspicion — and hope — in Asia that China might turn out to be an unmanageable brother.

The western nations—including America—are torn between their desire for trade with China and their reluctance to recognize the fact that they are losing her—outwardly, at least—to Communism.

Western Interests Threatened

Asiatic countries, in various stages of turmoil are trying to assert themselves as free and self-determining nations. The hour is late, and the greatest of them all—China—is turning to Communism, an internationalist method, to gain a nationalist end.

Thus there are many contradictions in the Asiatic picture, some of which, at least, could be resolved by the appearance of a dynamic policy by the one nation in the world with the influence and resources to supply the key needs of Asia. That one nation is the United States. The effort to line up a common policy toward Red China is a hint that such a dynamic policy may be in the making.

But it must be more than dynamic, if Asiatics speak the truth. They see both Communism and Democracy on trial, and will judge by results rather than promises, by fair treatment rather than bitter words. They want peace, rather than war—hot or cold. If I know anything about Asia, this is our last chance there.

Cotton County Farmers Open Wheat Harvest In Oklahoma

TEMPLE, Okla., May 26 (U.P.)—Two Cotton county farmers waged a close race yesterday for the honor of delivering Oklahoma's first 1949 wheat.

R. C. Brown, who lives 1½ miles west of Randlett, arrived at the Randlett elevator with the first load at 1:45 p. m., beating by 15 minutes T. L. Wileman, who lives 4½ miles southeast of the town.

Elevator operator Virgil Zachary paid $1.87 per bushel for each load.

Cotton County Agent Jasper Harl said he had checked with Tillman county agricultural officials and the State Department of Agriculture and determined that Cotton county's new-harvested wheat was the state's first. The checks were made, Harl said, because Tillman county in the past has almost always been first "in" at harvest time.

Brown's wheat weighed 59 pounds per bushel and had moisture content of 13.98. His 128 acre field will average about 20 bushels per acre yield. Wileman's wheat weighed 60 pounds per bushel and also had a 13.98 moisture content.

Rev. W. Allen, of Dulwich, England, will make telepathy tests with parishioners.

UNMASKS TRIO—James Peterson, above, mayor of the small South Georgia turpentine town of Spoerton told of ripping off the masks of "three men in Ku Klux Klan regalia who frightened several ladies." Peterson said after receiving a call about masked men wandering the street, he rushed out, yanked off the masks of three of them and had them tossed in jail. They were charged with disorderly conduct he said. (AP Wirephoto.)

Maj. Gen. Chennault Says U.S. Should Aid Nationalists

HARTFORD, Conn., May 26 (INS) — Maj. Gen. Clare Chennault, declared today that America will "commit the greatest error of the age" if it doesn't immediately give "proper aid" to the Chinese Nationalist government.

The former Flying Tiger commander urged the immediate creation of a 10,000 man American military mission to aid the Nationalists in setting up what he called a "sanitary zone" in China's western provinces.

Chennault told a Hartford News conference he believes the Communists will make no aggressive moves in Europe until they have succeeded in Communizing China.

He declared the present Chinese Nationalist leaders will fight on "as long as they have ground to stand on."

Fishing With Hands Beats Rod And Reel in Ohio Lake

CHILLICOTHE, O., May 26 (U.P.) —Fishing is fine in the Yoctangee park lake, where a state conservation division crew released 523 crappies, bullheads and suckers.

A boy, noting that the fish intended to stay in the shallow area where they had been freed, scooped up with his bare hands five suckers, a catfish and a crappie in just a few minutes.

"What's the use of fooling with this," exclaimed another youth as he reeled in his hook and line after seeing what his friend could do with his hands.

Shopping For Gift For Wedding Of Rita And Aly Is Big Task

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 26. — Living in beleaguered Berlin and riding the air lift was child's play compared to some recent rigors suffered by the writer while helping Louella Parsons shop for a wedding gift for Rita Hayworth.

Miss Parsons, only American newspaper writer invited to be present at the induction of the movie babe into the choicest Ismaili circles, has a lot of both early and late foot in the gruelling shopping race. Her searing pace cut down ex-grid star John Haskell, her secretary Dorothy May, Rita's business manager John Hyde and my wife. I'm hanging on by sheer raw courage and hope to see this bone-crushing adventure through to its finish. The little bride just must get that present.

Limit On Spending

The whole episode has been made difficult for two reasons. First, Rita is a kid who can earn a quarter of a million dollars at the drop of a glance in Hollywood. Her husband, Prince Aly Khan, will come into a fortune of about 2½ billion dollars—yes, billion—when his old man dies.

And, secondly, Louella is buying the gift for a friend and it has been suggested to her that she confine the price tag to 10,000 francs—which is 30 bucks. This automatically ruled out an early suggestion that she simply buy the hope diamond and give it to Rita to use as a bagette in one of her new rings.

Dazed and battered in her wake, as Louella scoured Paris for just the right thing, I have made two suggestions that would end the punishing ordeal.

Paris Is Excited

"Give her the cash," I said. "Every bride likes to have a little moo tucked away at a time like this." Miss Parsons thought that was a bum idea. But she took a much dimmer view of the suggestion that she buy the housewife an electric toaster. Louella has taken under advisement my suggestions for several "something different" types of gifts, including a 5-gallon tin of ambergris and an eye from an Indian idol whom I know, named Bob Feller.

While the search for just the right $30 gift goes on relentlessly, Paris, or at least the three or four people here I've spoken to, is in a state of excitement over the wedding which can only be expressed by the word "agog."

Anyway, the French newspapers haven't dipped a fang into a story as delectable as the Hayworth-Khan nuptials tomorrow (Friday) since the wedding of the Windsors. Jacques Fath, the bouncy couturier who has whipped up Rita's trousseau, has guarded the particulars with considerable more passion than Gen. Groves kept his a-bomb harbored to him.

Newsmen Are Ready

The fame of the aforesaid Miss Parsons, already considerable here in a city where Hollywood people are nothing less than gods and goddesses, has increased with the report she was privileged to see the stuff in advance.

There have been dark-browed stories about the significance, if any, of the ceremony's being performed by a Communist mayor. And a report that Aly tried to buy his way through some Cannes red-tape which prohibits their kind of civil ceremony from being performed in a private home, rather than in the equivalent of the court house.

An Army of French reporters will cover the event, and they have laid elaborate plans to circumvent the equally large army of private dicks who will be on hand to protect the lovers.

Rita Cansino first came to Hollywood's attention when she was 14, and dancing as her father's partner in an Agua Caliente night club. When she was 17 she married an oil man named Edward C. Judson, and after five years won Orson Welles in a box of crackerjacks. She is without much question the most popular American film star in France. The people here seem to think a lot more of her than of Aly, whose life and good times have been a regular feature of the French press for years.

When the old Aga Khan rides up to his eternal award, on bienheim, a board of elders will in all probability accredit Aly as the spiritual leader of the 30,000,000 Moslems (on three continents) who now worship the Aga as the 50th direct descendant of Mohammed. They, who not long ago gave the 250 pound Aga his weight in diamonds, have showered new wealth upon the dynasty as a result of the nuptials at Cannes.

When the Aga does pass on, Rita, who has worked hard all of her life, will become "her greatness, the Begum Aly Khan" and share the status of a deity.

It is a long long road from Agua Caliente and its tequila-soaked clientele, and they say she's still the kind of doll who will like Louella's 30-buck present.

Spite' Charged In Bridges Indictment

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26 (U.P.) — Angry West Coast CIO longshoremen today blasted the government's indictment of Harry Bridges and two other union officers as a "monumental case of political spite."

The powerful International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union, representing 30,000 members, charged that the Truman administration was trying to silence "critics of its failure to meet campaign promises."

The indictment, returned yesterday by a federal grand jury after eight super-secret sessions, charged that Bridges lied in denying he was a Communist when he applied for citizenship in 1945.

It accused Bridges of conspiring with the two union officials to obtain his citizenship by fraud. It also cited the other two for perjury. Bail was set at $5,000 for each.

At the same time the indictment was returned the government filed a civil suit in federal court seeking to deport the Australian-born labor leader.

Conviction on the indictment could result in maximum fines of $15,000 and seven years in prison.

One of the men named in the indictment was Henry Schmidt, ILWU leader currently directing the union's strike strategy in Hawaii. He surrendered to federal authorities in Honolulu and posted $5,000 bail. The other was J. R. Robertson, first vice president of the ILWU.

"Pitaniko," a religious film, one of the first made in Southern Rhodesia, tells the story of a crippled African boy and his struggle to go to the Cyrene School there.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Railroad, Subsidiary Charged In Anti-Trust Law Violation

WASHINGTON, May 26 (INS)—The Justice department today charged the Northern Pacific railway company with violation of anti-trust laws through sale of lands subject to "traffic control."

Included with the railway in the charges was the Northwestern Improvement company, a wholly-owned subsidiary.

The department, in a suit filed in the U. S. District court at Seattle, charged that these clauses required land purchasers to use the Northern Pacific to ship commodities on the railroad, and to purchase supplies sent to them on the road.

The department asked a court order cancelling all traffic clause contracts and enjoining the railroad and the land company from making any similar contracts in the future.

The government estimated that Northern Pacific had a total of 40 million land grant acres in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

The suit estimated that 36 million acres of this had been sold and a large part of the remaining land leased.

Idaho Town, Selected As Site Of Atom Plant, Prepared For 'Boom'

By BOB LEEDIGHT
Associated Press Staff Writer

ARCO, Idaho, May 26 — This little community, selected as the site for atomic reactor plants, needs a new jail and airport.

Although construction won't start on any of the plants this year and negotiations for the site are still incomplete, Arco's 600 people are preparing for the boom.

Two plants—to test new types of reactors or atomic furnaces"—ultimately will cost several hundreds of millions of dollars, although Atomic Energy commission officials have said expenditures in the first years will be relatively small.

Two Reactors Planned

Two reactors, both atomic powered, have been announced for construction at the Arco station. One is the Bonner plant now under design for the Navy by the Westinghouse company. This first ship plant will be built and tested here on dry land. The second is a plant for testing materials. The intense radioactivity in atomic piles alters some of the qualities of construction materials. The extent and effects of these alternations are unclear just now.

It also has been announced that several additional reactors may be built at the Arco station and Chairman David E. Lilienthal said the AEC expects to produce electricity from the atom within five years.

Officials Protest

Arco's bid for the reactors has brought heated protests from Montana officials who want the plant located in the Fort Peck-Glasgow section of Montana. However, Lilienthal said negotiations with five Navy for the site at Arco were "progressing satisfactorily."

The priority for Arco now is a new jail, expected to house occasionally some of the 6,000 workers who will be employed at the $500,000,000 reactor test station.

Although the county seat of Butte county, Arco has only a temporary two-cell jail. County commissioners are awaiting further details from the AEC before deciding how large a hoosegow to build.

As for the airport—Arco residents, tired of being lifted off land speculators and businessmen seeking opportunities in the sagebrush landing their private airplanes on the highway.

Lots Sell Rapidly

State Senator Earl J. Soelberg, himself a pilot, is trying to promote through state officials quick action on construction of a landing field.

Turnover of Arco's choice business and residential lots has been rapid since announcement of the AEC plans. O. W. Jones, the village's sole real estate dealer, said 150 land transactions were made in the first two days.

The bank at Arco reported one lot purchased for $100 had sold for $800. Another nearby lot sold for $3,000. Jones said one speculator had purchased 48 lots in the center of town and a five-acre tract on the outskirts a few days before announcement of the site.

Zoning Ordinance Considered

Arco is taking steps to protect against mushrooming of a temporary nature and the village board is considering a zoning ordinance banning trailer camps and temporary buildings within the village. A large-size trailer camp already has grown on the outskirts.

Arco had only one cafe prior to selection of the atom site. Since then two business lots have been purchased for restaurants. The sole cafe served 400 people one day. Soelberg said it would have served more "but it ran out of bread and meat."

The village is crammed into a one mile square section, but that didn't stop an applicant from seeking a taxi franchise. The request was turned down.

Applications Received

The fever has spread to other southeastern Idaho communities—Pocatello, Idaho Falls and Blackfoot. A carload of California construction workers arrived in Pocatello the day after the Arco announcement. The employment service and chamber of commerce have been flooded with requests for jobs.

Mayor George Phillips of Pocatello predicted his city of some 25,000 people would zoom to more than 100,000. The chamber of commerce, a little more conservative, estimated the population would jump to 80,000.

Rumors fly fast and furious about expansion plans. There is talk of increased railroad junction between Arco and Pocatello, a major railroad junction on the Union Pacific railroad which is expected to become the major supply and shipping center.

Four-lane highways between Arco and Idaho Falls, Blackfoot and Pocatello are being talked. Then there are new schools and homes to build—a new sewage system to install.

Arco and southeastern Idaho are having growing pains.

Negro Wins Court Bout As Well As Dice Game

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 26. (AP) — O. A. Patterson had officers arrest one of his negro truck drivers, Cleo Johnson, on "malicious mischief" charges when he had not returned from an errand after eight hours.

"Judge," Johnson began explaining, "I clicker' up the saw I was sent for but then I saw some boys shooting dice. I couldn't resist getting into the game."

THE AEC MESS

Is Action Coming?

DESPITE the recent startling and alarming disclosures in connection with the Atomic Energy commission, prospects are not encouraging for substantial corrections of objectionable conditions and practices.

Corrections would require a housecleaning of the personnel, from Chairman David Lilienthal on down, so as to replace incompetents, and suspected and acknowledged radicals with competent Americans whose loyalty and integrity are beyond suspicion. A housecleaning borders on the impossible without support by President Truman, which would confess one of the worst blunders ever made by any President when he insisted upon confirmation of Lilienthal as AEC chairman. Mr. Truman isn't likely to make any such confession.

Congress could take the matter out of Mr. Truman's hands, but this isn't likely either. It would be a rebuke such as few Presidents ever have received. Mr. Truman probably could block it with the aid of the senators who voted for Lilienthal and who would be reluctant to admit that they also made a mistake with eyes wide open.

There was no secret as to Lilienthal's leftish political philosophies at the time of his appointment. It was common knowledge that most of the senators who finally voted for his confirmation would have preferred someone else. They shared with most other Americans the view that the most precious of the world's secrets should be entrusted only to those whose political philosophies were wholly beyond suspicion. Yet they finally voted for Lilienthal, because they felt that party loyalty demanded that they string along with Mr. Truman.

It is conjectural as to where present inquiries may lead. The prospects are not encouraging. Probably a few regulations will be changed in a pretense of tightening atomic safeguards. But tightened regulations will be meaningless as long as their enforcement is entrusted to a personnel which hands out government-paid scholarships to Communists, sometimes consorts openly with leftwingers and allows atomic materials and documentary secrets to be "lost," stolen or given to the agents of potential enemies.

Confidence In Peace

PERSONS who still take public opinion polls seriously—and a good many people apparently do—might see cause for uneasiness in the results of one of Dr. George Gallup's most recent samplings.

Asked whether they thought the U. S. would be in war within a year, 74 percent of the replies were, "No," 15 percent were, "Yes," and the remainder were recorded as having no opinion. Last August, 54 percent did not expect war within a year, 32 percent did, and the remainder declined to get out on a limb.

If anyone should be disturbed by the trend thus indicated, it will be because of the fact that preponderant public confidence in continuing peace often leads to complacency. It is apt to cause the nation to let its guard down just a little. We are likely to be better prepared for whatever happens if most Americans fear war may be dangerously near than if they fall into the belief they are safe.

Fortunately, there has been no indication that the majority of Americans, regardless of what they may think of the prospects of war, are willing to take any chance with weakened defenses. Probably much of their confidence is inspired by the conviction they are strong — and as long as they retain strength, their confidence will be well justified.

"It is a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury signifying nothing." Shakespeare was referring to life, but the description quite aptly fits a candidate's speech fed through a sound truck.

Another reason why you should worry less about the future because there is probably increasingly less of it to worry about: A new source of uranium has been found in the Belgian Congo.

We can derive no solace from the automotive industry's statement that the cost of an automobile is considerably less per pound than the price of beefsteak. Even if it were parboiled, we couldn't eat an automobile.

"A family of four can be adequately fed for less than $1 a day," says a dietitian. A family of four what—canaries?

Island Of Escape

By HUGH LAWRENCE NELSON
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THIS STORY: Bea Cosgrove, who secretly admits she came to Square Island not to become the wife of Henry Gough Harding, but as an avenger, is not satisfied that the death of Lily Warren, another candidate to wed Harding, was suicide. Bea makes another trip down to the beach via the funicular railway in which Lily's body was found. There she finds evidence that something had come down the face of the cliff. Then a car comes down bearing Agnes Firth, who accidentally trips a lever that opens one end of the car. Bea saves Miss Firth from drowning. Strangely enough, Harding did not worry her about the lever as he had warned Bea.)

XIX

HENRY HARDING was saving generator fuel again and the two women worked by candlelight. Nona McGuire held the cardboard carton while Bea stacked in the bottles and jars of cosmetics from Mrs. Warren's side of the dresser top.

"Don't you want any of these?" Bea asked.

Nona slammed the box down on the floor. "No I don't want any of them! You know I couldn't use them now. And why's you stop me at the graveside? I'd have told him a thing or two! I've given better funerals to pets of mine."

"What good would it do?" Miss Cosgrove asked.

"I don't mean that. I mean telling Harding off."

"Well, I'd have felt better, anyway. That man! Honest he may be the kind you can feel sorry for when you don't have to be around him. But does he make you hopping mad!"

"Feel sorry for?" Bea asked in surprise. "Why should you feel sorry for him?"

"Oh I don't know. Maybe because he thinks he's so smart. Pretends to, I mean, while he plays his silly games. He puts up a good front all right, and hides behind it. Because he's jelly inside. And then, too, Mollie's got him."

"We all pretend," Bea pointed out. "You like to pretend you're dumb. A dumb blonde. But you were mad enough at Harding to let Sillwell's lie about your marriage pass. Or are you married to George?"

Nona laughed. "Fat chance."

"You like him though."

"I don't like him," Nona insisted. "Not while he's teamed up with Fred Sillwell." She opened the closet door, handed out the few garments Lilly Warren had left.

• • •

"THAT'S not much for a person to leave," Nona said. She picked up the sweater. "Lilly Warren. Good time Lilly! Blow your head off, Lilly. It won't hurt as much as going on."

"You knew her well?"

"I knew her. She asked me not to tell anyone here, but that doesn't matter much now, does it? She used to come in the beauty shop where I worked. Gay. Full of life. Smart. Knew all the angles. She was willing to give me a hand. "I'll get you out of the beauty parlor, honey, show you how to live. I'll show you how to get what you want out of life.'" Nona McGuire folded the green sweater carefully. Her hands shook as she put it gently back into the carton. "Well, you showed me, Lilly. Goodby for now."

Bea Cosgrove kept her voice harsh when she snapped, "Stop acting like the wayward daughter in a Z picture. Be yourself. She's just as dead as if she'd had a fine funeral and left 10 mink coats."

The younger woman's body relaxed, and her eyes shone with anger. "You're hardhearted aren't you? Squirking and smiling and sympathetic on top!"

"I know," Bea said wearily, "and underneath I'm just flint."

"All right. Go ahead and laugh. I suppose it is funny, to you to think someone would have any feelings. How'd you get that hard? Forty-year-old school teacher! Why do you lie about your age?"

"You think I'm older?"

"No. And it's an easy way to fool most people. When a woman says she's 40, people believe she's that at least. But you can't fool me. Where are the little lines around your eyes? Where's that sag in the chin? Where's that coarsening of the skin you need makeup to hide? If you've been using make-up, if you've tried to hide 10 years, it always shows to people who know. You're nearer 30 than 40."

"Have it your way. Shall we get to bed? At least I'm old enough so I appreciate a good night's sleep. Don't you want to leave your cot and take the other bed?

NONA McGUIRE glared at her, did not answer. She walked stiffly to the cot, climbed in and pulled the cover so viciously it came up from the bottom.

Miss Cosgrove blew out the candle, made a more leisurely entrance to her own bed. She said, "Good night." She was certain the low mutter from the girl's cot was not an echo of that wish. She knew she would not sleep, yet she forced herself to relax, tried to make her breathing more even.

A long hour passed. A silent hour.

Bea waited.

The cot creaked again. The snuffle was clearer. Bare feet pattered on the floor.

"Miss Cosgrove! Miss Cosgrove! Oh please wake up!"

Bea sat up, reached out and took Nona's arm. "I'm awake. It's all right. I'm awake."

"T-t-tomorrow I won't act like this. I—I promise. T-tonight I can't stand it."

"It'll work out, Nona," she said softly. "Go to sleep now. It'll work out."

Long after the girl was asleep Bea still held her. But it was to herself she tried to give some comfort now when she whispered, "It'll work out all right."

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

EVERYBODY is talking about inflation these days.

Do you know that there are two kinds of inflation?

I learned about one kind in college; the kind everybody is talking about. You pay big prices for everything and, as they get bigger and bigger, inflation comes.

BRANDEIS

Sometimes the balloon busts. Then there is a panic like the one we had in 1931.

That's really all there is about that type of inflation.

Now to the other kind.

I call it the delicatessen-type of inflation, because my wife learned about it from our delicatessen man's wife.

And would you believe it? I think there is more to the delicatessen-type than to the college-type of inflation.

Let me describe the delicatessen-course very briefly. My wife gave it to me at breakfast this morning.

She bought some cold corned beef, some beef bologna, a dozen eggs, a half pound of butter and a half pint of cream at the delicatessen store yesterday.

As she put down her money, she said to the owner's wife, who is also the cashier:

"Do you know I used to be able to buy a whole company dinner for that amount of money?"

• • •

The lady at the cash register nodded her head and said:

"Sure you used to be able to get five or six times as much for your money.

"But I remember when I was young.

"Dad used to come home Saturdays with his weekly wages of twelve dollars for which he had worked six days, nine or ten hours a day.

"We were quite a big family and that twelve dollars didn't go far.

"So we were always broke at the end of the week, and Dad considered himself a failure.

• • •

"NOWADAYS it's different. A fellow works seven or eight hours a day, five days a week, and comes home with seventy-five dollars.

"He doesn't get any more for his seventy-five than our father did for his twelve.

"But seventy-five is still more than six times as much as twelve, so the fellow considers himself a big shot.

"At the end of the week he is just as broke as my father used to be, but being broke on seventy-five a week makes a man feel much more important than being broke on twelve."

So there you are.

That is the other kind of inflation, the inflation of the Ego.

They make for progress. They make people feel big. And when the right kind of fellow feels big he is ready to do big things.

Thus endeth today's lesson in economics.

ON TRUMAN STAND

Labor Makes Protest

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—The latest and most pyrotechnic sensation on the politico-labor front at the Capital is the revelation that President Truman has written two completely contradictory letters on his attitude toward repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act. The discovery has aligned both Democratic Congressmen and top labor bosses against the White House.

TUCKER

In his famous letter to A. F. Whitney, president of the Railway Trainmen, the President declared that he was against any compromise such as the Sims Bill that was cooked up by Speaker Rayburn and Majority Leader John McCormack. It was this communication's seeming criticism of the Rayburn-McCormack leadership which led Sam to give a verbal spanking to the President.

• • •

COMMUNICATION: But in an earlier letter to Chairman Lesinski of the House Labor and Education committee, President Truman told him that he was willing to accept the Sims compromise, even though it included a provision for a federal injunction against strikes paralyzing key industries and transportation facilities.

Mr. Lesinski refuses to make public his White House communication, but representatives of certain labor unions swear that they have seen copies of it.

• • •

CONFIRMED: This revelation has confirmed John L. Lewis in his belief that President Truman, A.F. of L. President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray conspired to sell him down the river for the sake of only nominal repeal of the Taft-Hartley act.

The Sims-Rayburn-McCormack compromise retained almost all the principal features of the T-H law, including the injunction power that was used so punitively on two occasions against the head of the United Mine Workers.

• • •

INCONSISTENT: President Truman's labor policy has been so inconsistent and changeable that it appears to have killed off any chance of repealing the Taft-Hartley act, which was his principal promise to union members in the 1948 campaign. Here is a political chronology of his actions since the fight began in the House:

First, he stood for abolition of the existing law and substitution of the extremely pro-labor Wagner act. When House leaders found that they could not put through the Lesinski bill, which epitomized the White House program, they hit upon the Sims measure as a substitute.

• • •

DENIAL: In his letter to Mr. Whitney, Mr. Truman insisted that he opposed this compromise and that he had always been confident "it would get nowhere." But on the very morning that Mr. Rayburn offered the Sims proposal, the speaker had had a long conference on labor legislation with the President.

Now, despite his written denial that he would accept this mild revision of the Taft-Hartley act, it turns out that the President instructed Chairman Lesinski to accept it.

Incidentally, the Sims plan was defeated by only three votes, due largely to the pressure which Mr. Lewis brought to bear on ten members from coal-mining territory.

• • •

AGGRAVATED: The President's whirligigging on this important issue has also aggravated the warfare among the three major unions, and sharpened the bitterness among the three top leaders — Messrs. Green, Murray, and Lewis.

As recently revealed here, the Democratic leadership and the Green-Murray spokesmen lobbied for the Sims substitute, despite its retention of the injunction clause. They pointed out that this weapon would hurt nobody but Mr. Lewis because his is the only union which could create national, industrial paralysis by a strike.

After killing the Sims proposal by telephoning coal Congressmen who had originally voted for the measure, John L. had Mr. Green for lunch to tell him a few facts of labor life. He did not invite Mr. Murray because he cannot abide the sight of his old CIO comrade.

• • •

INDECISIVE: "Listen, Bill," said John L., in effect, "I don't mind if you fight me in the open. But I do detest your skulking with cheap politicians behind my back to plunge a dager into my back."

The indecisive Mr. Green immediately rushed to the White House in an attempt to square things with President Truman and John L. He emerged with a statement that he favored some sort of compromise, but insisted that he would not stand for any law authorizing the federal government to use the injunctive power to break a strike.

• • •

MESS: John L. is still not satisfied, however. President Truman and Mr. Green advocate authority for the government to seize a key industry in event of a strike. If the strike continues after Uncle Sam has taken over a plant or mine or railroad, the next step is for the Attorney General to ask an injunction from the courts.

It is doubtful if any recent legislative experiment has ever dumped such a politico-economic mess on the White House doorstep as this attempt to make good on H.S.T.'s 1948 campaign pledges to the workingman.

Fifty-five caddies of the Bulawayo (Rhodesia) Golf Club were fined in court for refusing to work after demanding that tips (over which the club has no jurisdiction) be doubled.

Australian picture theatre owners are complaining that the current craze for Housie-Housie—a game similar to the American Bingo—has materially affected attendance at movies.

Down Memory Lane

(Taken from the files of The Lubbock Morning Avalanche, May 27, 1928.)

The Loyalty club was entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. Roche Newton in her home at 1928 Avenue G.

Members attending were Mesdames W. E. Blake, E. E. Sertor, D. N. Lacewell, W. J. Slover, W. E. Mowery, J. W. Hayworth, Ed Greer, J. B. Neal, Alva Akers, H. T. Diebel, J. A. Hood, and J. E. Stegall. Visitors attending were Mesdames Ed Stunz, Clay Lester, H. W. Diebel, and A. B. Hawse.

• • •

A ceremony last evening marked the presentation as Ben Condray, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Condray, unveiled the portrait.

Believe It Or Not - - By Robert Ripley

STUDENT'S ACTIONS DEFENDED

Probe Of Scientists Assailed

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Some years ago a young student at Louisiana State university, editor of the school newspaper—"The Reveille"—was fired from college because he wrote an editorial criticizing the late Huey Long, whose dictatorship of the state extended into the university.

This reporter became a friend of the ousted college editor during an investigation in Louisiana of the Huey Long regime and has followed the iconoclast's career since. He became, in turn, a newspaper reporter, secretary here to a congressman from his state, a publicity man for industrial enterprises, and now is a valued aide in the reform administration of young De Lesseps ("Chep") Morrison, mayor of New Orleans.

STOKES

His youthful act was one of healthy and commendable protest. He's probably a better citizen for it, and he is a very fine citizen. It exemplified the free and fearless spirit of our youth, which is the same spirit that made our nation great and a beacon light to the world.

• • •

Have New Example

That spirit, luckily, still survives in our colleges, as we learn in episodes from time to time—now, for example, in the University of North Carolina, one of our truly great educational institutions. The student legislature there has gone on record unanimously against any requirement for non-Communist affidavits from students or faculty members. Its resolution opposed any action making it necessary for prospective students or faculty members to sign "any statement declaring non-membership in any political, religious or other group."

While their rebellion went perhaps somewhat beyond the matter at hand, the students nevertheless spoke out clearly and boldly on an issue raised over a fellow student, Hans Friestadt, who it may be recalled was dragged into the national spotlight here in a congressional hearing.

• • •

The reason was that he, a Communist—which he freely and publicly admitted—was studying on a government fellowship in the field of atomic energy, though in a non-classified field with no access to the horrendous "secret" of the bomb that so terrifies us, its possessors. The young man has since announced that he would take a loyalty oath to the United States, but would not renounce the Communist party even if his fellowship is taken away from him. It will be, of course, under a ban which practical members of congress feel it is necessary to write into the appropriation bill for the Atomic Energy commission because of the hysteria that engulfs us at this time.

While Hans Friestadt may be bitter for a time, he undoubtedly can adjust himself and get along in some sort of work, just as did my friend, Dave McGuire, in Louisiana; and, since he's young and has a brilliant mind, one perhaps should not worry about him too much. He may, for a time, be an even more earnest Communist because of his experience, but in time he may grow out of that, too, as so many youngsters have. He has not had an American background, being an Austrian, and life is not so free and full of opportunity there.

What does worry you, and scare you a bit, is how our elder statesmen in Congress have gone into a conniption fit about two young scientists as if they were a dire threat to the nation.

• • •

Other Case Noted

The case of the other is even stranger. Dr. Isadore S. Edelman, who is on a government fellowship at a Boston hospital, has had to tell over and over the story of how he and his wife went to a couple of Communist meetings in Indianapolis six years ago, when he was 23 and his wife not 20, but rejected Communism and have had nothing to do with it since.

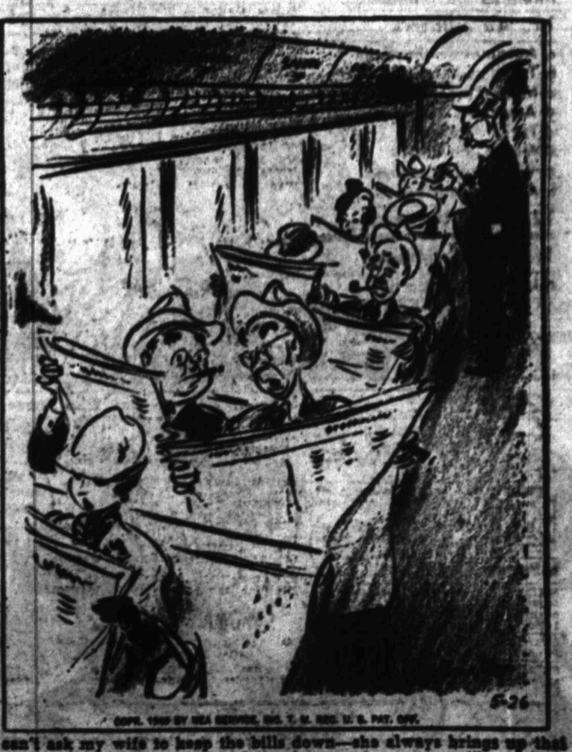

Dr. Edelman's research is aimed at increasing the understanding of the ebb and flow of body fluids with the long-range objective of finding out more about cancer, peritonitis, and other ailments. That might be helpful. He is said to be one of the two best men in this field in the country. If we are going to deprive ourselves of this sort of brains, we will do the same sort of damage to science that Nazi Germany did and which Soviet Russia is reported to be doing now.

• • •

The consolation is the free and fearless spirit of youth illustrated at the University of North Carolina, the coming generation, which offers such a contrast to our confused and baffled elder statesmen. After all, it was the universities which kept alive the spirit of free inquiry in a dark age that we all have read about in our history books.

Cost of living rose 5.6 per cent last year in Kenya, Nairobi reports.

Czech President Asks Halt To Interference By Western Powers

PRAGUE, May 26 (AP)—Communist President Klement Gottwald says Czechoslovakia can rely on the Soviet Union and that other nations should stop interfering in internal Czech affairs.

He expressed the wish, however, that the other nations should "help us in our endeavor to widen economic relations on the basis of equality and without discrimination."

Gottwald spoke yesterday at the opening session of the ninth congress of the Czech Communist party. The session was closed, but most of his speech was broadcast on the Czech radio.

Soviet Friendship Stressed

The president said Czechoslovakia must prove it can operate more efficiently under its Communist government than under a free enterprise system. He said it was therefore necessary to reach the goals set up under the country's five-year economic plan.

Gottwald's address was mild on foreign questions, but there were a few allusions to foreign imperialists.

He declared his government's foreign policy "will aim at the insuring of the independence of the republic. We know our friends and we know on whom we can rely, come good or bad. That is the Soviet Union.

"Where the others are concerned we have but one wish—that they quit intervening in our internal affairs . . ."

Anti-Communist leaflets and chain letters distributed in the last few days probably have caused some uneasiness among officials. The chain letters have called on Czechs to write to the United States embassy to ask the U. S. to demand "free elections" in Czechoslovakia.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 26 (AP)—An increase in selling pressure toward the close sent grains and soybeans lower on the board of trade today. Trading volume picked up on the sell-off, but still was not very large.

Dispatches stating that good rains had been received in central west Saskatchewan, extending over the Alberta border, apparently caused part of the late selling in wheat.

Irate Wife Warns Police That "Disturbance" Is Coming Up

DENVER, May 26 (AP)—A man called Police Sgt. Earl Franzen and asked what police would do about it if he put his wife out of the house. Franzen replied that that was a civil matter.

Later, the wife called Franzen. What would the police do about her husband putting her from the house? Nothing, Franzen answered, unless there was a disturbance.

"There's going to be a disturbance right now," the woman replied.

Guns Among Gifts Presented Speaker Of Texas House

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 26 — The Speaker got a pistol today to help him keep order in the House of Representatives.

He also got:

It was also a part of "we love you, Mr. Speaker" day that comes every session of the legislature.

This time Speaker Durwood Manford, his wife and three children, his mother and his mother-in-law got all dressed up and sat on the rostrum behind dozens of red roses while the gifts came up.

The red roses were symbolic. That's what backers of "Manford-for-speaker wore at the start of the session.

"For a while I wasn't sure I'd be here to see this day," Manford said. "I appreciate these gifts, but the greatest honor you have given me is choosing me as your speaker."

After that came eight silver goblets from the secretaries, eight silver teaspoons from House employes, a gold watch from House officers, an air rifle representing a delayed .22 rifle from the game and fish committee, the pistol from the sergeant at arms, the rod and reel from committee clerks, a Remington 470 rifle and case.

Last gift was a massive sterling silver coffee and tea service.

Anton Student Boasts Perfect Attendance

ANTON, May 26 (Special)—When Martha Wray Hobgood marches down the aisle of Anton High school auditorium Friday night, she will have set a record of some kind. For it will mark the conclusion of 99 months of perfect attendance in school.

MISS HOBGOOD

Miss Hobgood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim J. Hobgood of Anton. She entered school at Shallowater, Sept. 1, 1937, to begin her school work. She continued there until mid-semester, 1941, when she enrolled in the Anton schools, where she has been a student since.

Martha Wray's record, however, does not consist alone of unbroken attendance, for she has also been outstanding in other phases of school work.

She was honored as the best girl athlete in her fourth year in high school and has been a star guard on the basketball team for the past four years. She has made a fine record in typing and homemaking.

She has represented her school in several homemaking meetings and attended summer camp the past three years. She has also been active in Camp Fire activities.

Scurry Test Planned

survey, has been abandoned and will be plugged as a failure on a total depth of 9,865 feet in dry Devonian lime and chert.

12,000 Feet Was Planned

This project was originally started to drill to about 12,000 feet to explore into the Ellenburger. It was high, structurally, on the upper and middle Permian markers, to nearby deep ventures which had been plugged after showing small amounts of petroleum in the deep horizons.

However, No. 1 Lawlis found a thick Wolfcamp section and also considerable Mississippian. It entered the Devonian at 9,795 feet, on an elevation of 3,308 feet.

According to some geologists it was approximately 500 feet low to the closest other deep wildcat. After drilling into the upper section of the Devonian, and finding no indications of possible production, it was ordered abandoned and plugged.

Sloppy Landing Was Sloppy, Even If It Was Bill Odom's

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 26 (AP)—A flying instructor looked out the window at Berry Airport here and cynically observed a plane come sliding onto the landing field in a not-too-graceful manner.

Jones then stepped up to meet the pilot of the plane—Bill Odom, one of America's best known professional pilots and holder of a trunkful of air trophies.

HOLLYWOOD, May 26.—Ronnie Alcorn, who is putting some of the millions he made in wheat into movie production, was awakened the other night by a mysterious telephone call.

A muffled voice said, "for $5,000, I'll keep quiet about those three years spent in a reform school."

"Keep QUIET about it?" yelled Alcorn, "I'm making a movie about it."

Sure enough, the entire production of "Johnny Holiday," starring Bill Bendix, will be shot at the boys reform school in Plainfield, Ind., where Alcorn spent the years between 13 and 17. After he left there, he hit the right road and made a fortune.

His first fling as a movie producer will glorify his old "alma mater" in deep gratitude. In addition to Bendix, Hoagy Carmichael will be in the cast.

Actress 'Loaned Out'

Corinne Calvert is jumping for joy. Hal Wallis has approved her lend-out to 20th for one of the two femme leads opposite Dan Dailey in "Front And Center." If this isn't enough, she gets John Ford to direct her.

Evidently, Sarah Churchill, beautiful and talented daughter of Winston, will play summer stock in this country. Jeffrey Lynn just received a call from Howard Hoyt, who is managing her American appearances, asking him to co-star with Miss Churchill in "Philadelphia Story." It's scheduled for late July presentation at Norwalk, Conn.

Actress, Producer 'Retreat'

David Selznick and Jennifer Jones doubled back from Italy and were registered at the Carlton hotel in Cannes. But they did a quick scram when the deluge of writers and cameramen covering the Rita Hayworth-Aly Khan wedding started flooding the town.

The return of Jennifer and David to France from Italy may mean they did not want to sit out two weeks "establishing residence," required by Italian civil law, before getting married.

Star Leaves Hospital

You have to hand it to Yvonne De Carlo for a swell example of carrying on the show when she was a sick girl.

Wednesday she left the hospital following a major operation. But she was needed at Universal-International to record some additional dialogue on "Western Story."

So she directed the ambulance driver to take her to the studio where she was driven on a sound stage and spoke the needed lines into a mike placed at the ambulance door.

Then she went home for five days in bed.

Texans Nominated

The President also announced a plan to nominate Adrian S. Fisher of Tennessee as legal advisor of t' : State department succeeding Ernest Gross, promoted to assistant secretary.

McGhee assisted prominently in development of the original European Recovery program. He entered the State department at the end of the war as executive assistant to W. L. Clayton of Houston, then undersecretary of state.

He proved himself as Clayton's aide, and was assigned the task of co-ordinating the military and relief programs for Greece and Turkey.

McGhee is a veteran of 27 months service as a naval lieutenant. Before entering the service he held an executive post with the War Production board. He is the son-in-law of E. DeGolyer, a top-ranking geologist.

Hickerson took his BA degree from the University of Texas in 1920. McGhee got his degree as a petroleum geologist from the University of Oklahoma in 1932. He also was a Rhodes scholar.
