Wellington Team Is Now Showing Splendid Form

Locals Getting Off On Right Foot and Hitting Better Than Ever

Wellington's ball club is at last getting off on its best foot and to all appearances the boys are going to fulfill every favorable prediction that has ever been made for them. There is small doubt but that Wellington has the fastest and most dangerous club in the Oklahoma-Texas league, and now that the team is hitting its stride things are pointing to a long series of wins. Wellington has been hard-lucked out of more games this year than ever before. Every league that has been lost by Wellington thus far has been by one-point margin, with but a single exception, and after the locals had played air-tight ball.

But Wellington is now turning over a new page in its baseball history, and there is no doubt in the minds of any of the Wellington fans but that the present line-up will be able to fill that page with a story that will be most interesting and one which will end happily for Wellington.

Last Saturday the locals made a long and tiresome trip to Lakeview to play a non-league game there. This was a 8-7 win for Lakeview, with Weathered pitching and Sullivan catching for Lakeview. McDuffy pitched the first two innings for Wellington, being relieved then by Bunt who pitched the remainder of the game. Holland caught the entire game. In the eighth inning Wellington was leading by two runs when Lakeview started cutting 'em loose to squeeze out in a one-point lead.

Sunday afternoon the Cordell nine visited the Wellington camp, only to cart a 19-3 defeat back to Oklahoma with them, giving Wellington one of the biggest wins which has been marked up in the O-T league thus far. Knight pitched this game for Wellington with Holland catching. As Wellington's score indicates, the club was plenty right and was hitting the ball all over the field. Every man on the Wellington team hit from two to four times, while Newman, first baseman, hit four for four. Leedey was on the mound for Cordell with Gregory catching. A big crowd

Charlie Trigg Is Engaged to Coach Skyrocket Teams

Agrees Friday to Accept Position as Athletics Coach Here

Well Known Star

Is Former Athletic Star At Southern Methodist University

Charlie Trigg, former star athlete of S. M. U. and doubtlessly one of the best known athletes of the southwest, has been signed to accept the position as coach of the Skyrockets and director of athletics in Wellington high school during the 1929-30 session.

Trigg, while attending S. M. U. was a teammate of Gerald Mann and during the three years that Trigg was playing with the Mustangs, his work was given equally as much favorable comment as that of Mann. People of Wellington feel that the school board was most fortunate in securing the services of Trigg and are looking for a great athletic interest under his direction.

Trigg began his college career at Weatherford, but after one year spent there he enrolled at Dallas institution, playing the first year as tackle with the Mustangs and the next two years as end.

During the past year he taught at Highland Park high school in Dallas where he was in charge of basketball and track teams.

While in Wellington Friday, Trigg conferred with Bedford Harrison, who coached the Skyrockets during the past year, in regard to the material he will have for his football team next year, their comparative ability and what new material he may expect. After becoming familiar in this way with the athletic situation as it exists in Wellington, Trigg expressed the belief that Wellington should go further in athletics next year than ever before.

Harrison has made no announcement as to where he will coach next year. He did not accept his position in Wellington again, but has several other similar positions tendered to him and will be able to make a definite announcement in the near future. Harrison came to Wellington last September from Paris high school where he had coached football for five years. He made a splendid record with his work in Wellington and many people of this city were disappointed to learn that he did not wish to continue his work here. In speaking of Charles Trigg, Harrison stated, "I am quite familiar with Trigg's athletic ability, and I know he has the enthusiasm and the inclination necessary to make a complete success of his work with Skyrocket teams. I have enjoyed my work immensely with the Skyrockets, and I know that Trigg, too, will find them to be a clean group of boys and more than worthy of his best efforts."

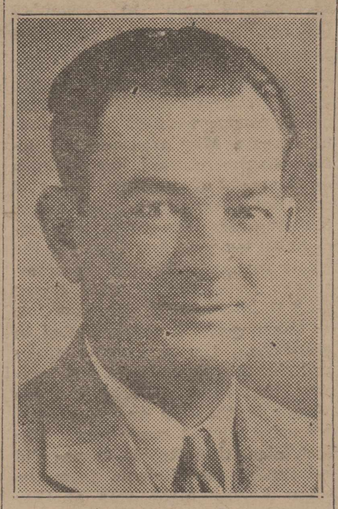

Sugg Brothers Re-open Station

The re-opening of Sugg Brothers Service as a Phillips was highly successful according to the owners. Unqualified approval was given the new gasoline at the opening of the station last Saturday according to an announcement made by Sugg Brothers in this issue.

On the opening day, 2500 half gallons of Phillips oil were given away to the people who drove by the station and the sale of gasoline on the first day ran around 1,700 gallons, according to Bill Sugg.

"We are grateful for this splendid reception of our new product," Bill declared, "and we intend to do everything in our power to show our customers that their confidence in our service is appreciated. Although we have no apologies to make for the service we are giving now, we intend to give our customers the benefit of a constantly improving service. When a new and better product comes out we intend to get it, and when a new and better method of servicing automobiles is discovered, we intend to use it."

Re-appointed

G. Ward Moody who last week was re-named by the Wellington band commission to continue the duties of director of the Wellington Municipal band.

Moody Renamed Band Director For Wellington

Receives Appointment Last Week for Another Year With Band

G. Ward Moody was last week renamed to serve as director of Wellington municipal band for another year. He was appointed by the Wellington band commission, which is composed of J. E. Leggitt, A. M. Duvall and W. H. Lynn.

Mr. Moody has made an outstanding success of his work with the Wellington band, and now that the municipal tax voted by Wellington more than a year ago has finally been passed by the supreme court, the band will receive municipal support which will enable Mr. Moody to carry on his work with the organization on a much broader scope.

Several applications for the directorship of the Wellington band were tendered the band commission for their consideration, but Mr. Moody's application was considered most favorably after all applications had been regarded from every angle.

During the time Mr. Moody has been working with the Wellington band the organization has made notable progress in spite of the fact that he was compelled to work under a financial handicap during most of the time. He has also given a great part of his time to the development of a high school band and all of Wellington's musical organizations have shown a notable progress under his directorship.

Executives For Chevrolet Are Most Efficient

Able Officials Hold Top Positions in Chevrolet Operation

Executive promotions recently announced by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, bring into front line positions in the Chevrolet organization an able group of oficials who have played prominent parts in the successful direction of Chevrolet affairs for several years.

The appointments come about as a result of the recent election of R. H. Grant and O. E. Hunt to vice presidencies of General Motors and at the same time are in recognition of proved ability, Mr. Knudsen explained. Mr. Grant was formerly vice president in charge of sales and Mr. Hunt was chief engineer.

Succeeding Mr. Grant is H. J. Klinger, who becomes vice president and general sales manager. This promotion places at the helm of the Chevrolet selling organization of more than 35,000 people a merchandising leader of demonstrated ability. In addition to his long association with Mr. Grant in the sale of more than a million automobiles annually, Mr. Klinger has had the advantage of broad experience in selling and advertising.

Charles F. Barth, for many years vice president in charge of manufacturing becomes vice president and general manufacturing manager. Mr. Barth is one of the outstanding veterans of the automobile business and is regarded as an expert particularly on production methods and factory management.

M. E. Coyle, for years closely associated with Mr. Knudsen in the direction of the company's financial affairs, has been elected vice president and general auditor. He is also a veteran in the automobile business and has been identified with General Motors for more than seventeen years.

J. M. Crawford, formerly assistant chief engineer, becomes chief engineer and brings to his new post thirteen years experience in the automobile business, the last three of which were with Chevrolet. While associated with Mr. Hunt, much of the experimental and development work on the new Chevorlet six, was done under his direction.

Working with Mr. Crawford and assisting him in the direction of the extensive engineering department which Chevrolet maintains will be Leroy Cram, formerly engineer at the Chevrolet factory in Flint and now assistant chief engineer with headquarters in Detroit.

In line with the activity of the Ford Motor company to stimulate interest in aviation, the Rapids Motor company, Ford dealers of Dell Rapids, South Dakota, own and operate a government licensed airplane landing field, equipped with the latest power night-landing lights.

Announcement Is Made Regarding Senior Students

Superintendent Farrar Extends Thaks to Members Senior Class

G. L. Farrar, superintendent of the Wellington schools, has issued the following statement in regard to the recent commencement exercises: "I wish to announce through the Wellington paper the fact that the name of Jaunita Bacon should have appeared on the various commencement programs of the closing week of school. Jaunita was a May graduate and accordingly received her diploma on the night of the 24th. The fact that her name did not appear in the programs was simply an oversight on my part and I assume the whole responsibility for the error. I have no excuse to offer except that in the rush of the last two or three weeks I simply failed to proof read the lists as carefully as I should. I do wish to say, however, that Jaunita Bacon was one of our best pupils and is a most deserving girl in every way. The fact, also, that Robbie Owens did not receive her diploma from the stage Friday night was another oversight. In some way her diploma and that of another senior, one who graduates in August, were exchanged. It is indeed gratifying to know that Robbie took the mistake in a very fine spirit and seemed to have completely forgiven it on being presented her diploma early the next morning. In looking over her work for the year, I find that she carried almost a double course and made good grades in all of them. Therefore, I congraatulate her upon her splendid record and am pleased to say that she has been awarded the diploma which she so richly deserves.

"I wish to express my thanks to the whole senior class for the splendid cooperation they have given us the past year and for the good school work they have done. They have our best regards and our sincere good wishes will go with them wherever they may go and in whatever worthy work they may engage."

W. G. Bailey of Wauchula, Fla. drove his Model A Ford business coupe on a 4,000 mile trip carrying tow passengers and heavy baggage, and the cost of oil and gasoline and was only $40, a rate of one cent per mile.

Total fuel consumption of the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor company during the past year was 12,700 carloads, enough to make a coal train 100 miles long.

Oats should be rolled or ground before feeding them to very young horses.

Amarillo Is Now Making Plans For July Celebration

O. L. Taylor of Amarillo, of the Tri-State Fair association, was in Wellington this week with advertising matter for the big old time rodeo to be staged at the Texas ball park in Amarillo July 3, 4 and 5, under the auspices of the Fair association.

According to Mr. Taylor, the rodeo is easily the greatest single pre-Fair attraction of the season and maximum crowds are expected at every performance, afternoon and night, during the three days, especially on the Fourth.

More than $7,500 in cash prizes are going to be awarded to winners of the contests held in connection with the rodeo. These contests, which include bull-dogging, roping and all regular rodeo features, are open to every cowboy in the Panhandle, Oklahoma, and New Mexico, Mr. Taylor said, and he announced that anyone from Wellington interested in taking part should write at once either to Wilbur C. Hawk, Amarillo, or to Clyde Miller, the rodeo manager, at Holly, Colorado.

Several from here are planning to go to Amarillo for the rodeo, it is understood.

Class Night Has Large Attendance

More than 500 people of Wellington attended the annual "Class Night" program presented by the Senior class of Wellington high school at the auditorium May 22 at 8 o'clock.

Music was furnished by the high school orchestra. The president's address was delivered by Leon White, active vice-president of the class, and those in attendance agreed that this was one of the best individual numbers of the entire program .

A reading was given by Idabelle Templeton, and the class history was read by Bertha Sasser. Indian Dawn, a vocal duet, was sung by Hermine Stover and Evelyn Conner.

The class poem was read by Lois Templeton, after which Hermine Stover played a violin solo. Norma Grace Wildman read the class prophecy after which Jesse Coleman read the class will. A piano solo by Evelyn Conner was next given and the concluding number was that of Idabele Templeton, class giftorian.

Band Concert Friday Night

G. Ward Moody, director of the Wellington band, has announced that a concert will be held in the bandstand on the courthouse lawn Friday night, May 30. Hereafter, the concerts will be held regularly on Thursday nights, but due to the fact that Mr. Moody and the band boys will be out of the city Thursday, the first of the summer concerts has been postponed until Friday.

There is a possibility that a bandstand will be erected in Ellison Park by the city federation before the summer is over, and in that event the concerts will be alternated, with one concert downtown and on the following Thursday at the city park.

The Wellington band now has 35 pieces and the members are progressing rapidly, Mr. Moody states.

Graham has produced some yearlings steers that brought $60 a head, the highest price ever brought in Young county. The animals belonged to W. A. and T. M. Corbett, breeders of high grade cattle for 35 years.

Preaches Good Of Sargon to Friends

"Since taking Sargon I have felt in better health than in the last five years.

"My stomach was in such an upset condition that most everything I ate soured instead of digesting properly. I would have such bloating pains after each meal that I hated to eat. About twelve years ago I had a fall, injuring my hip and knee, and I have been troubled with rheumatism in my joints ever since.

MRS. LULA E. PETERSON

"An inactive liver caused me to be constipated and I was continually taking laxatives. I had many a restless night from all this suffering and would be as tired in the morning as though I haod never gone to bed. Nothing had never gone to bed. Nothing I took helped me.

"Sargon made me feel like a different woman. My appetite has come back and I enjoy my meals. My stomach is soothed and my digestion improved so I don't suffer bad effects after eating. The rheumatism disappeared and I rest much better at night. I get up in the morning feeling refreshed and full of energy.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills toned up my liver and rid me of constipation in a natural manner. My whole system is reconditioned and filled with new life.

"Sargon has helped me so remarkably that I am preaching to all my friends about its benefits and will continue to praise this wonderful medicine every chance I get."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Lula E. Peterson, highly respected resident of 7814 Sherman St., Houston, Mrs. Peterson is a member of the Royal Neighbors society and also belongs to the Baptist church.

Sargon may be obtained in Wellington from Joe Hardy Drug Co., and in Quail from Dr. F. V. Walker.

Attitude of Big Business

The relationship of big business to high wages is graphically set forth in a speech recently made in Chattanooga, Tenn., by Floyd Allen, assistant to the president of the General Motors Corporation. Because of the implication of this speech, parts of it are worth considering at some length.

"We believe," said Mr. Allen, "that it pays to pay good wages. Highest paid men are the cheapest men. The pay envelopes should contain more than so many dollars for so many hours of work. The worker must feel that he has certainty of employment, and that if he is accidentlly killed his family is to be taken care of if he does his best work.

"Business is honestly selfish, for it must make a profit. Whenever I hear a business man apologizing for the profit he is making I know that that man is either making too much or not enough profit. I like business because it just goes along its way trying to please. I like it because it looks forward. The keen business man is not much concerned with the past or even the present, for he knows that greater problems must be met in the future.

"Corporations are intensely human and generous. We believe in the policy of high wages. In the past we have taken the course of least resistence and cut wages to reduce expenses. It simply dosn't work. Mind you, I am not advocating high wages, which does not necessarily mean high payrolls. You all know that the highest priced men in your organization are the cheapest."

Twenty years ago remarks of that kind would have been considered revolutionary. Today we accept them as a matter of course. We have been pretty well sold on the idea that the employer and employee are, in a well-managed concern, working toward the same end. Mr. Allen's remarks are valuable because they state the case concisely.—Clovis News Journal.

Safety in the Air

In point of safety the airplane is now challenging comparison with the automobile. An inspected plane driven by a licensed pilot on a regular route is less hazardous than an automobile operated by the owner. His machine may not have been inspected recently, and his skill may have been picked up in a chance way. Yet none of his friends hesitate to jump in when invited and incur risks inseparable from traffic congestion in the cities and from miscellaneous fast driving on country roads. Whole families are killed at railroad crossings and in collisions of motor cars, but many people still refuse to ride in airplanes, despite records which show a very small percentage of accidents. The distrust, however, is declining with the expansion of air travel troughout the United States. Capital invested in new lines has reached proportions that indicate the growing popularity of flying. Commercial aviation is already a proved success.

The Department of Commerce estimates that by mid-summer American mail, express and passenger planes will be flying 75,000 miles a day. It seems only yesterday that the Wright brothers were exhibiting the then wonder of the age—a biplane that ventured only short flights and in the stillest air. Now the plane defies the gale. One of the services to be put on this summer will link the Canal Zone with Chile. In the last month three new mail routes in the United States have been added to a long list transcontinental and feeders. Others are being planned. In June metal airplanes will ply about the Great Lakes, connecting Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo. They will have accommodations for 25 passengers, including a buffet, and will be equipped with radio.

Fifteen months ago the first Pan-American Airways plane carried passengers from Key West to Havana, a distance of 110 miles. The company is now operating planes to the British Bahamas, through the West Indies, and to Central America, the route being 3,914 miles long. The company is planning to extend its service to South America within 60 days, and expects to add 16,670 airline miles before the end of 1929.

Everywhere there is an increase in flying. The great network of "through" airlines has given rise to feeder lines in large numbers, radiating about important air ports. Texas has been near the forefront in air transportation development, being now crisscrossed with established routes, and with the certainty that a great many more will begin operation before the year is ended.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

An Unjust Law

Vetoing the state's recently enacted capital punishment law, Governor Fred W. Green of Michigan declared that any law calling for the execution of convicted murderers always works an especial hardship on the man who is without funds.

Rich men accused of murder, he said, can hire expensive lawyers and can afford the insanity defense. Poor men cannot. Where life imprisonment is the maximum penalty this dodge is not used so often, and the poor man is tried on a fair basis of equality with the rich man; but where the electric chair looms in the offing, the rich man is seldom convicted.—Childress Index.

TEXAS & TEXANS

NEXT LEGISLATIVE SESSION

Texas is to have another thirty-day legislative session, at which practically the same major subjects will be considered that have been under discussion most of the year without getting any nearer an agreement than when the body first convened. It is hoped, though, by those who have been watching the proceedings closely that the next special session will be in better mood to make some satisfactory compromises. Most legislation is the result of compromise between those holding radically different views. If the Texas legislature and the governor will get together in this spirit there is a good chance that differences may be adjusted in a way that will result in good to the state.

CITY MANAGEMENT

What is known as the city manager plan of municipal government is working out successfully in most places where business practices are being used in the way they are applied in large business enterprises. Success depends, though, on the cooperation of the city managers, just as business success depends on the united efforts of directors managers. Under broad, but well outlined directions from the governing council, the city manager should be left as free as possible to work out the details of a city's business. Responsibility without authority handicaps any business management, whether it is a public or private business. The city manager of Amarillo, who recently resigned and gave as his reason that he was expected to be merely the "office boy" for the mayor, was right in giving up the job, if his duties were as much restricted as he stated.

GETTING AND HOLDING MAYORS

It seems to be an easy matter to get a mayor for in most places there are enough citizens willing to give the office a trial, but a great many who are elected soon tire of the unappreciated grind of office holding. Recently the mayors of San Angelo and Bastrop have resigned, both doubtless doing so because they found pleasing the public very difficult. A city is lucky indeed that gets a good business man to neglect his own business enough to look after the affairs of a municipality. A little more praise and a little less criticism might be effective in holding such men in public service.

NEWSPAPER MERGERS

The Del Rio papers have recently merged, the principal owner of the merger incorporation being Julian LaCrosse, the district attorney of that judicial district, who gives his attention more to ownership than to conducting the paper. Being able to employ others to run his papers, it is understood that Mr. LaCrosse is considering the purchase of other papers in Southwest Texas.

A large number of Texas papers are becoming links in chain papers and this number is rapidly growing. Recently the Dalhart, Channing, Hereford and Quanah papers in the Panhandle have passed out of private control into chain ownership. Texas is the loser when men like those who have conducted papers as good as those are retired from newspaper publishing, however, much more commercially effective the chain business organizations may be.

MEXICAN IMPORTS INCREASE

The steady increase in exportations through Texas points into Mexico shows that conditions are not so bad in the sister republic as the reports of revolutionary struggles indicate. By no means all of the goods going into Mexico are necessities. Of the 811 carloads that passed through the port of Laredo last month, 211 cars were loaded with automobiles, 62 with lumber and 30 with machinery. When once revolutions are stopped in that country, Texas will profit greatly from a rapidly increased trade with Mexico.

KELLYVILLE'S INVITATION

In this day of increasing taxes it is refreshing to find a place where taxes are being reduced. Kerrville is the find. Late last year the city tax rate was reduced from $1.50 to $1.00 and now the $1.00 rate has been cut to 90 cents. Evidently Kerrville is making a strong bid for the best citizenship of other Texas towns. Kerrville is an ideal place in which to live, and the low tax rate makes it all the more attractive.

UVALDE'S PARK

Uvalde will open its Memorial Park early in June. Many other Texas cities and towns are establishing parks, but visitors often find the parks much neglected after they are established. Some of them are little more than upkept outlets, showing that puny efforts were once made to put them in more attractive shape and then they were forgotten. Such parks reflect discredit on a town and its citizenship. Uvalde, however, is to have a "beautifying committee" whose business it will be to keep the park attractive.

COTULLA DAM CONSTRUCTION

Cotula will soon realize its long dreamed of Nueces river valley irrigation, the machinery for the construction work having arrived. Irrigation will work wonders in many parts of Texas in the next five years under the projects now being considered and built.

"HONEST JOE SAYERS"

When Ex-Governor Joseph D. Sayers died recently at 88 years of age, after having been in some kind of public office practically all his life, Texas lost a citizen with a long established reputation for official integrity. For many years those who had known him best referred to him lovingly as "Honest Joe Sayers," by which they meant that he not only was honest in financial matters, but honest in rendering public service, honest in his thoughts, and honest in his decisions. As a public servant he cared nothing for accumulating anything but friends and a good name. Would that all public men were of that splendid type.

Great American Home

Woman's Ever Changing Sphere

By Phebe K. Warner

For thousands of years the term "Woman's Sphere" stood for one thing and only one. The home. It still stands for that same thing. The home. But that greatest of all words in the human language has changed its meaning. And women have simply and naturally changed their sphere to meet the ever expanding demands of the home.

An ever expanding world has forced upon women a new form of home. How fortunate for us all that women were created with enough mental, and spiritual and social elasticity to meet her new demands. Picture if you can a model mother of the eighteenth century keeping up with the twentieth century John and Mary.

And what would grandmother have done with all her leisure time if she had cooked with gas, washed and ironed with electricity, strained milk with a separator, bought all the childrens clothes and most of their food ready made, visited with the neighbors over the phone, gone to church in an automobile, hatched the chickens in an incubator or shipped them in by mail already hatched, reached out and grabbed any kind of entertainment out of the air and traveled across the continent in an air ship and a few hours instead of a prairie scooner and a few months.

Say what you please Folks: We women just have had to change our sphere whether we wanted to or not. And "Believe it or not" there's no one getting any more real comfort and satisfaction out of woman's ever changing sphere than the men.

Only a few days ago we read a most interesting editorial in one of Texas' daily papers in which a very large measure of the prosperity of the automobile business was attributed to the influence of women. Not that she had gone into the manufacturing business but that she stood on the side lines and demanded every touch of beauty she could conceive in the production of automobiles.

And isn't that just what our men want in a car and didn't know how to get it because they didn't know a pretty car from just a car when they first began to use them. And certainly every added touch of comfort and beauty and luxury is just what the manufacturer wants for that means more efficient service to his customers and more cash for him.

But why have women taken so much interest in the make up of the automobile? That's the cute little trick that most of our men folks see mto have over looked. And it is so simple and natural. And that is, for hundreds of thousands and millions of our American women the automobile has become their HOME. They live in it. It is via the automobile that they have most of their family gatherings. They entertain their friends in it. They spend more time with their husbands and children in the automobile than they ever did in the home. Many families just stayed in their homes when they had to.

They would go home when they were tired of everything and everybody else and there was no where else to go. But now mother fixes up some sandwiches and hard boiled eggs and the whole family pile into the automobile and away they go for a whole day together. Father, mother and the youngsters. What a treat it is for the children to have a chance to visit with their daddy. And believe it or not again, a lot of men have actually gotten acquainted with their families because of the automobile. True the automobile has been blamed for an awful lot of foolishness. But that is due to the abuse of the automobile and not its use.

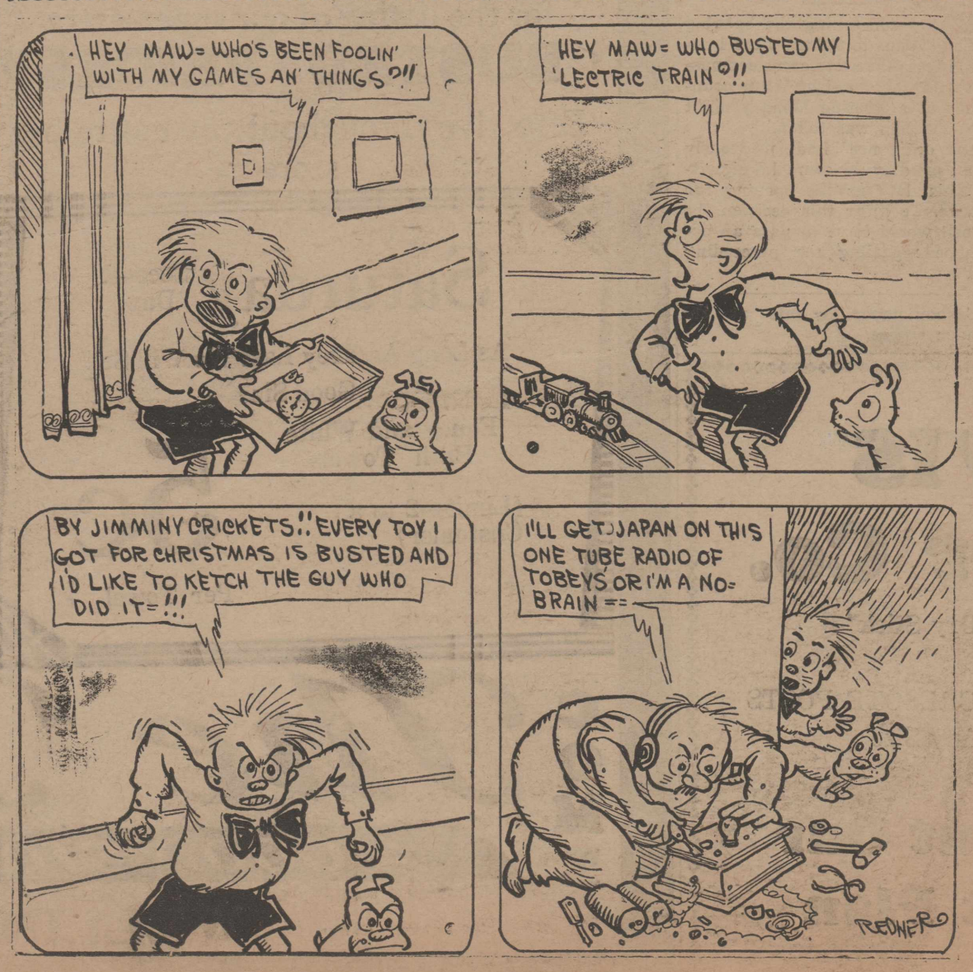

I firmly believe one of the greatest service the automobile has rendered to mankind is in its power to bring and hold the whole family together, and thereby train them all to enjoy the same fine things. And especially has it trained them to enjoy one another in the same family. A family trait that had become almost obsolete.

And that's why women have

DECK'S Didactics

By H. D. W.

This is a mighty good time to buy real estate in Wellington. The main reason I say this is because I have some that I would sell. But there are a few other good reasons for such advice. As soon as either the Rock Island or the Denver is granted a permit to build through our city every vacant business lot and every residence lot that is on pavement will double in value, and all real estate will increase by leaps and bounds. When you think of buying or selling real estate just remember that there is only a limited amount of land, and it is a mighty fine thing to own some of it, and residence lots offer an apportunity to those who do not have enough to invest in a farm.

When an editor waxes poetic in the spring, people smile and his friends advise liberal doses of sulphur and molasses, but what do you think of a ginner who gets that way in his business communications. Last week I got hold of a telegram Bill House sent to an oil mill company that would make a boy suffering from puppy love turn green with envy at the fine phrases. The telegram follows:

Hart Cotton Mash Co.,
Chickasha, Okla.

The evening of the ninth of May came on. The sun shone brightly in the western heavens. The gentle zephyrs were tickling the tassels of the tall dead grass. The cicadas sang in the rag weeds by the side of the road, and it seemed that the annual awakening of the world in the lap of spring was at hand. I planted the seed you gave me. The skies became overcast, the thunder rolled, the lightning flashd, the winds blew, the rains descended and beat up that cotton patch and it didn't come up. I need a peck more seed to replant skip.

BILL HOUSE.

Joe Hardy claims that he is going to shoot anv of his regular customers he finds patronizing the Arcade Drug Store which opened Monday. He can start shooting as far as I am concerned, for I know that I am going to stop for at least a Coca Cola as long as I have to drive over to Memphis to get the mail. If a man is forced to go to another county to get his mail, it does look like he ought to have a right to spend some of his money there.

Here is a little verse that was sent in to me for the benefit of those people who think prohibition is making this country dry:

Whatever else may happen,
Now that the country's dry,
The sailor will have his port,
The farmer have his rye,
The cotton still has got its gin,
The sea-coast has its bar,
And each of us will have a bier,
No matter who we are.

If anybody else has any poetry they want to get over to the public I may run it providing it has a touch of humor and is not absolutely rotten. I have quit writing attempts at poetry myself, but I will publish a small amount from somebody else. The last one I wrote was submitted to a competent judge.

"I don't seem to make any sense out of this poem," he said.

"You are not supposed to," I replied, "It is meant to give you a feeling of emotion, Doesn't it do that?"

"Yes, it makes me sick."

But if you want my advice, quit writing poetry and buy lots in Wellington.

Summer School To Open Here June 3

Announcement has been made by R. L. Davidson that the summer session of the high school will open in Wellington June 3 at 8:00 a. m. A larger enrollment is expected than ever before in a summer school in Wellington. Courses will be offered in mathematics, history, English and languages. Typewriting will also be offered if there is sufficient demand.

The tuition is $10 for each high school subject, and $7.50 for each half subject.

What this town really needs is a large riding academy.

And a few more filling stations.

I have talked about our court house so much that you may think this is just another lie, so you can believe it or not. A traveling salesman who was unfamiliar with Wellington and its territory, dropped into this office last Friday. "Tell me," he asked, " is this a poor town or a good one?" He was told, of course, that Wellington is the pride and joy of West Texas, the pearl of the prairies, the hub of the universe, the cream in the coffee, the city of more or less unlimited possibilities—and all the other answers. "Well," he replied, "a person would never suspect it after looking at your ratty courthouse."

Wonder how he got that way? He should have known that the rodents have long since deserted the courthouse—in quest of a safer structure.

"What do you say, Claude?" I asked the sheriff the other night as I met him in the cafe. The sheriff mumbled, "Aw, if I did say anything you'd print it in your durned column." That's what he said, and here it is in print. Proving our sheriff doesn't lie—all the time, at any rate.

Lowell Wells just dropped in a moment ago for his seventh daily visit, and asked what was taking place. I told him that I was trying to think of something to write about in the Graveyard column. "Don't tell me you have to think a bit to write that stuff," he said as he bummed a cigaret and a match and departed.

Isn't it terrible to have to suffer such insults from such people? Now if that remark had come from Jack Knight, Effie Lee Richards, Mrs. Henry Cocke, George Anders or some of the other wisecrackers, it wouldn't have been so unexpected.

I noticed in one of the daily papers last week where a kid 6 years old was given a 15 year sentence for shooting one of his playmates. and yet lots of grown men are acquitted of charges which are equally as severe. It seems that justice is not only blind, but is also deaf, dumb, paralyzed and just a bit feeble-minded.

SATURDAY IN WELLINGTON

Saturday arrived, not noticeably different from various other Satudays, with V. A. Watts not wearing a black had; with Roland Hale and Raymond Powell playing accordian selections at Ray Goodson's store; with Ted Sugg Dukeminier leading an advertising caravan around the square; with S. R. Pinkton describing a tract of land in Mexico which he claims is more valuable than any of Texas' oil areas; with his assertions sounding most plausible; with S. P. Buster taking usual interest in the day this is before him; with Sonny-Boy McMahon, Duffy McDuffy, Bill Andree and the rest of Wellington's nine climbing into the big truck parked in front of Cochran's just before departing for Lakeview; with J. M. Strong watering a rose bush at his nursery; with F. L. Emanuel changing an auto tire, proving he could work if he would; with Ben Boston hurriedly rolling up the awnings at the J. N. Wallace store when a few drops of rain began falling; with Mrs. C. J. Glenn going into ecstacies of delight when little Charlie Joe Glenn and his mother arrived from California; with a shade-tree preacher gathering a crowd about him on the courthouse lawn and telling them how rapidly the world was going to the bad; with Col. Bob Sammons and Bill Sims getting into a baseball argument; with Billy Wolfrum scattering smiles and back-slaps all over town; with Cecil Callaham showing signs of illness by preparing his theatre advertisement three days ahead of schedule; with Lowell Wilks and W. V. Whitley getting ready for another sale; with Ralph Ball and F. H. Royal having their daily disagreement in front of the Pioneer; with Frewen Morrow home from school at Fort Worth and entertaining Charlie Sullivan, Steamboat Graham, Wendell Wilks, Claude Neese, Bill Leggitt and the others who keep the sidewalks worn slick on the drug store corner; with Jim Cook relating a raid on negro town that occurred several months ago; with Mrs. Hal Hearn at the hotel desk and graciously smiling; with Stanley Larson looking mad and out of sorts for at least once in his life; with Fatty Watkins, Ruffian Cocke, John Bevers, Wince Cocke and Doc Dean gathering for their morning "conference" at the meat market and with Mrs. George McCullough re-arranging her display of magazines at the Palace.

I'm convinced that there is a Santa Claus after all, for Goldwyn Milner bought me a necktie and E. L. Winn contributed a coca-cola all in one day.

Most of us will be glad when Lindbergh gets married and divorced, so the newspapers will have something else to write about.

Four Big Stars Have Good Roles In 'Interference'

Clive Brook, the polished gentleman of the screen, is cast as one of the four central characters in "Interference," a Paramount picture coming Monday and Tuesday, June 3 and 4, at the Rialto Theatre. Brook essays the role of Sir John Marlay, an eminent English surgeon, who narrowly escapes a tragic climax to his brilliant career.

The other three characters with whom Brook appears are William Powell, Evelyn Brent and Doris Kenyon.

Before turning to the stage and screen for a career, Brook was a reporter on the London Daily Globe. He became interested in elocution and gave up his career as a newspaperman for the study of the art. This naturally led him to the stage and he appeared in several English stage productions. Screen offers followed, and after working in several English pictures he was brought to this country to appear in the films.

His most recent picture for Paramount was "Forgotten Faces," in which he registered an emphatic personal success. He was then cast in the important role of his present picture, which has won additional praise wherever the film has been shown.

"Interference" was adapted to the screen by Paramount from the stage play of the same name. It was presented in England for two years and enjoyed a nine months success.

Willys Inspecting Foreign Factories Of Whippet Co.

NEW YORK, May 15.—John N. Willys of the Willys-Overland company and chairman of the foreign trade committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, sailed tonight on the Berengaria for a two weeks' inspection tour of the company's factories in Manchester, England, and Berlin, Germany. The primary objective of the trip is to consult with the company's European executives on plans for handling the greatly increased Willys-Overland overseas business.

"In the first four months of 1929," said Mr. Willys, "we exported 17,003 Willys-Knights and Whippets. This is a new high record. April exports totalled 4,325 cars and indications are that May exports will show better than a 50 percent gain over May of last year.

"Increases in foreign business are widespread. Not only Europe but South Amarica, Australia, New Zealand and the Far East are giving us large volume of orders. Numerous foreign distributing points are ordering from 50 to 250 percent more cars than last year. Immediate plans include the export of a large volume of the new 1 1-2 ton Whippet Six commercial units besides the line of passenger cars in which six cylinder sales show a marked increase.

If depluming mites and lice infest the poultry flock at the same time, a treatment with the following dip will destroy both kinds of parasites. Make a solution of 3-4 ounce of sodium fluoride, 2 ounces of sulphur, 1-2 ounce of laundry soap, and 1 gallon of water, and dip the fowels. The dip should be kept stirred so as to keep the sulphur in suspension.

Richard Dix In All-Talk Farce Here Next Week

The most substantial defiance yet thrown at the scoffers who said of the talking motion picture "It will never become as effective as the stage" will be projected on the audible screen at the Ritz Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 3, 4 and 5.

"Nothing But the Truth" is the funniest screen play the silversheet has given us in many a long day—and it doesn't depend upon slipstip for its laugh. It is "Look and Listen" entertainment of the highest type and Richard Dix's voice is an excellent one for the talking screen.

The play deals with a young man who makes a wager of $10,000 that he can tell the truth for 24 hours. The farce situations arising from the bet are seemingly endless. In order to win the bet he finds himself telling his sewetheart that he was in love once before with a weight-lifting woman of the circus telling his boss that he is an unscrupulous business man a "night-life hound," telling a beautiful singer at a house party that he thinks her singing is terrible, and getting himself into all kinds of laugh-evoking jams.

Richad Dix proves to have a superior capacity for the requirements of the role of the truth-teller. He gives a fine comedy portrayal without recourse to buffoonery. Helen Kane as a member of a singing sister-act is winsome, appealing and excruciatingly funny. Her baby-talk songs are a big part of the show.

The largest power press in the Ford industries, outside the frame presses for the Model A automobile is used to shape fenders, wheel housing and radiator sheels at the Lincoln automobile plant. It weighs 250,000 pounds and stands 24 feet and 10 inches above the floor line. Three feet of the structure extend below the floor level and it has a foundation 11 feet, 9 inches deep.

As a part of their advertising program announcing their re-opening as a Phillips station, Sugg Brothers Service used six decorated automobiles in a parade over Wellington Saturday to attract attention to the fact that their company had been appointed local dealers for Phillips '66' gasoline.

All of the cars used in the parade were decorated in the green and yellow colors of the Phillips colors, and all occupants of the cars wore specially made costumes of green and yellow. The cars first appeared on the square early Saturday morning, and drove over the entire city during the greater part of the day, returning at intervals to the square with all horns blowing.

Those riding in the parade were Odessa Neece, Ruby Watts, Eunice Watts, Carola Summers, Gertrude McQueen, Christine McQueen, Allie Mae Moore, Velma Dukeminier, Ethel Graham, Ruth Petty, Vone Wood, Mrs. Gene Vaughan, Mrs. Bill Sugg and Mrs. Price Dukeminier.

was out to see the game, and the locals gave full and complete evidence that this town has a club which is due to take wins from every team in the league. The line-up Sunday for Wellington was: Newman, first; McKenna, second; McMahon, short; Bellah, third; Wilson, left field; Andree, center; Brown, right field; Knight, pitcher; Holland, catcher; Dean relieved McMahon at shortstop in the seventh inning after McMahon had injured his arm.

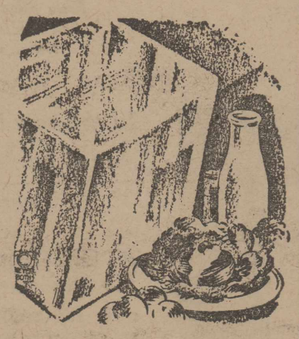

The locals returned the Cordell game Wednesday afternoon, but the outcome had not been learned at press time. Wellington, according to dope, was due an easy win. McDuffy was slated to pitch for Wellington.

Thursday the Wellington team will play Mangum there, making up a game which was rained out a few weeks ago. Knight will probably pitch this game and it is believed that 25 or 30 carloads of fans will make the trip to Mangum. The Wellington band will accompany the team and the locals are going with just one plan in mind—to beat the Oklahomans out.

Sunday Elk City will play at Wellington. Bunt will probably twirl the Sunday game, and as usual a big crowd is anticipated.

San Angelo to Sonora will be the route of a new rail line of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient. Work will begin soon by permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Several carloads of rails are on their way to San Angelo and engineer crews are surveying the route for depot sites.

Thrift Campaign Inaugurated at Oakland Factory

Entire Plant Being Operated on Modern and Efficient Plan

A Thrift campaign, laid out on the same extensive plan as its large scale manufacturing operations, is now in progress at the Oakland Motor Car company, at Pontiac, Michigan, according to V. A. Porter and Clarence Hunsaker, Wellington dealers.

Since the modern plant of the company is now being operated on a highly efficient manner, the campaign is designed primarily to discover new ways or processes to eliminate watse of time or materials in the building of Oakland and Pontiac Sixes.

To enlist the aid of the workmen in this campaign, the company management has offered, for suggestions which outline practical means for cutting the costs of production, prizes totaling more than $1,200.

Daily Bulletins issued to plant workers, exhibit boards mounted in the plant displaying items which may inspire prize plans and other features have been arranged to keep the worker's interest in the campaign.

While special inducements have been offered plant foremen and superintendents who offer plans to cut waste for some time past, the present campaign is directed to the workers because of their proximity to the job places them in a particularly favorable position for seeing how the job might be done more simply or economically. Several other large manufacturers who have conducted similar campaigns have effected annual savings of thousands of dollars—savings brought about by cutting waste which was not known to exist until a special campaign brought it to the attention of the management. The Oakland campaign ties in with the industrial waste elimination plan sponsored annually by the Government, which had its inception during President Herbert Hoover's active connection with the department of Commerce.

"Molly and Me" Human Story of Stage Troupers

Trouping with a burlesque outfit is lots of fun. A great experience, particularly when you do it vicariously and suffer none of the hardships and heartches. "Molly and Me," a piognantly wistful picture of back-stage life, takes you right along with the show girls and the scenery, into that fascinating land of make believe, with the good company of Belle Bennett, Joe E. Brown and Alberta Vaughn.

It is a great picture from start to finish. You begin to get acquainted with Molly and Jim on a rainy night. It's a unconventional meeting, but that's all right with Molly and Jim if it's all right with you. And from that time on you're willing to go to the ends of the earth with them, they are so human.

Belle Bennett— to your amazement and delight—wears tights and looks ravishing. Joe E. Brown has a perfect role for his big mouth in Jim. These two have trouped and trouped—fifteen years, if you please, and are as fresh as daisies and as madly in love as the day they married, more than twelve years ago. Their hearts are set on Broadway, but their faces always get about faced as soon as they manage to get as near to the great street as 150 miles.

But Old Man Opportunity comes at last. He takes Jim to fame and adulation but Molly — she's not as young as she used to be, and well . . . she's just a wife! The love that bound these gallant spirits for so many years is put to an acid test when Jim, the idol of Broadway, becomes infatuated with his dancing partner, who is as cute, pert and vivacious as only Alberta Vaughn can be. There is many a heart throb interwoven in Lois Leeson's charming story, and a tear is not amiss now and then while you awit for Jim to come to his senses and to Molly's waiting arms.

Albert Ray's direction indicates that he loved his leading characters. He has made them mellow and real, and the memory of "Molly and Me" will stay cozy, charmingly by you for a long time after you have seen it. This Tiffany-Stahl production will be the attraction at the Ritz theatre Thursday and Friday, May 30 and 31.

"HURRY WITH THE SERVICE CAR THE OIL BROKE DOWN" DON'T LET THIS HAPPEN TO YOU

STRANDED five miles from nowhere because the oil wouldn't do its job! Has that happened to you? If it has, the chances are that you were not particular the last time you had the crankcase drained — or perhaps you ran too long without changing the oil. This will be a slack summer for service cars if motorists will remember two things: first, to change oil regularly, and secondly, to use only a brand of oil which they know from their own experience or the experience of others will stand up under the most trying conditions of motor operation.

You can depend upon any oil which has the backing of the Continental Oil Company. These are the brands which have been tried and tested — in the laboratory and on the road. They lubricate thoroughly, protect every moving part and stand up under intense heat.

Ask for these brands at leading service stations and garages.

Conoco Motor Oil insures protection. It seals compression—saves gasoline—fights friction. Stands up under most intense cylinder heat. In short, does a complete lubricating job in all kinds of weather

Ask for the grade made especially for your car.

Conoco Amalie is 100% Pennsylvania Oil—refined from premium crudes by a special process. Universally recommended by automotive engineers and lubrication experts.

Through exhaustive laboratory and road tests it has demonstrated its ability to lubricate properly under the most trying conditions of motor operation.

Will Hold Meet For Discussion Livestock Work

Planning Fifth Annual Livestock Round-up For August

College Station, Texas, May 29. —Various important phases of the livestock industry will be discussed by recognized authorities in that field at the fifth annual Ranchmen's Round-up to be held August 6-7 at Sonora ranch experiment station of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, A. and M. College of Texas. The ranch station is located thirty miles south of Sonora, in Sutton and Edwards counties is the scene of continuous research work in connection with the problems of the sheep, Angora goat and cattle industries of that region. The annual round-up or meeting affords opportunity for ranchmen and others of Southwest Texas to gather for the discussion of problems and to observe the work in progress. Reports of the work under way will be made by members of the Texas Experiment Station staff and of the United States Department of Agriculture, cooperating in the study of livestock problems at the station.

Attendance at the four previous round-ups has ranged from 2,000 to 3,000 people and, according to A. B. Conner, director of the Texas Experiment Station here, this year's meeting is expected to equal if not exceed the attendance of past gatherings. Social and recreational events are included in the program.

The Sonora station is centrally located in the Edwards Plateau region, known all over the United States for its production of fine-wool sheep and Angora goats. Texas ranks first of all the states in the production of wool and produces 84 per cent of the nation's mohair crop.

Shamrock Wants Less Noise In Traffic Zones

Motorists who persist in driving their cars with cutouts open in Shamrock are in for a peck of trouble.

Constable John Cox of Shamrock laid down the ultimatum Tuesday. "I have conferred with the county attorney and he informs me the practice is a violation of state law," declared the officer. "I am going to warn offenders and if they do not stop forthwith I am going to the mat with them.

"The way trucks and pleasure cars are running around with cutouts open is a travesty on justice and I do not intend to put up with it. I ask the cooperation of all sensible, fair-minded people in ridding the city of this nuisance."

Constable Cox intimated motorists who are violating other traffic laws had better watch out too. When asked what he was going to do with speeders he said, "I'll turn my activity to that channel shortly."

Hospital Secured By Donley County

Without a bond issue and without the levying of a special tax Donley County will have a standard county hospital on or about July 1, according to an agreement reached between the commissioners court and the board of trustees which hold in trust the Adair Hospital of Clarendon. which was announced at County Judge Alexander's office the fore part of this week.

This acquisition of a county hospital by the citizenship of Donley county is the culmination of negotiations begun several months ago between county officials and the board of trustees of the institution which has not been in operation for several months past. At first it was thought that at least a small tax levy would be necessary to carry the cost of the hospital, but on investigation it was found that the county was out quite a sum of money each year for the care of its charity cases, so it was finally discovered that with a very small sum from the general fund of the county the hospital could be acquired and operated on the very liberal terms offered by the Adair trustees.

The hospital is being renovated and refurnished throughout by the trustees and at no cost to the county ,and when completed will be turned over to the operating board of five which will be named at a near date by the commissioners court as provided by the state law.

Chief Pilot Of 'Question Mark' Visits Mangum

Is Flight Commander Of Oklahoma's State Air Tour

Capt. Ira G. Eaker, chief pilot of the "Question Mark," world famous pilot and former Oklahoman, led the Oklahoma Air Tour which stopped in Mangum Wednesday.

Thirty five planes were included on the tour. It was attempted to limit the number to 25 but the demand was so great for permits to make the tour it was decided to increase the number. This was by far the largest number of commermercial planes to ever make a tour anywhere, reports indicate.

First planes of the flight arrived in Mangum at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and 45 minutes later all had landed at Ponder Field, Mangum's recently completed municipal airport.

Pilots and passengers were guests at a buffalo barbecue in the hanger at Ponder Field Wednesday noon, and the buffalo hide was presented to Captain Eaker who was flight commander of the tour.

20 Black Dicers Are Arrested By Memphis "Laws"

Twenty negroes were arrested by Memphis officers last Sunday and lodged in the county jail, on charges of gambling. It is stated that they were found busily engaged in the pastime of shooting dice in the negro hotel across from the Farmers Union Supply company.

Six of the huskies when they saw a fine was staring them in the face, made a quick getaway, jumping from a second story window of the building in which they were playing.

Seven of the negroes paid fines but the others were unable to raise th "do-ra-me," due to a shortage of funds. Last reports received from the jail stated that the negroes were still behind the bars.

Woman's Ever Changing

taken so much interest in every little detail of comfort and beauty in the construction of the automobile. It is her new home. Often it is her new home in realily because in thousands of cases the new home has been set aside in order to have the automobile. The old home plus an automobile brought more family joy than the new home without the automobile.

It isn't alone the feminine influence in beauty that has made the automobile industry so prosperous. But it is the home insinct in the mother heart, the desire to live closer to and more with her family that has sold millions of automobiles.

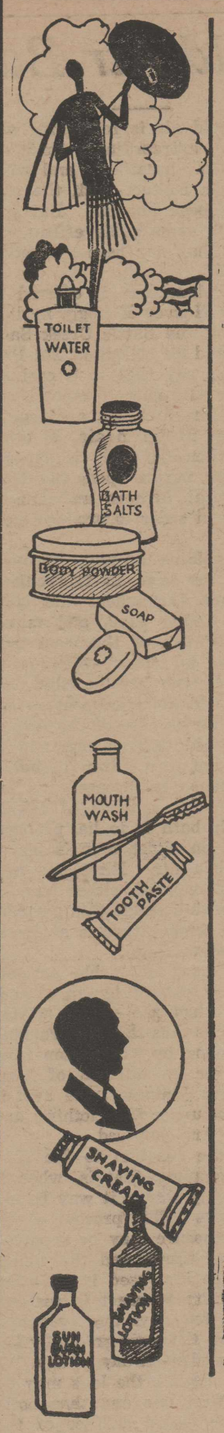

And father! Well, father bought the pretty car that mother wanted because he wanted to too. He didn't want the other dads in the country passing him—in his car. And if you pile all the kids on the back seat and take them all along to the mountains on the same gallon of gas. Why throw them in and let's go.

The whole secret to the uuparalleled prosperity of the automobile industry is the fact that somebody invented something so useful and so wonderful that the whole family could enjoy it at the same time. It is a new form of home on wheels and after all it has brought more new life and joy into this stupid old world than all the lives it has destroyed or sorrows it has produced.

Moral: Treat the automobile right, and it will be a blessing to your home. It has done more to change the monotonous sphere of women than any other invention of the ages.

—Is Quality

THERE are people to whom Plymouth's big attraction is its Chrysler-designed smartness.

Some people buy the full-size Plymouth largely because it is the largest and roomiest car to be had at anywhere near its price.

To other people, the main reason for buying Plymouth is Plymouth's impressive power—its amazing pick-up, its unflagging stamina, its delightful smoothness and flexibility at all speeds.

Still other people choose Plymouth primarily because it is so safe to drive, with its perfect balance and stability, and the easy, positive control of its Chrysler weatherproof internal-expanding 4-wheel hydraulic brakes.

Cold Air Bath is Cure for Tuberculosis

That cold air is refreshing and produces extraordinary tonic effects when breathed and when brought in contact with the skin has long been known. But just why these remarkable effects are produced has not been altogether understood.

The explanation is offered by Dr. John Harvey Kellogg, medical director of the Battle Creek Sanitarium, and his colleague, Dr. Paul Roth, who say that in a cool atmosphere the lungs expand and take in three times as large a volume as in warm air. In other words, when the body is exposed to cold air, nature opens the draft of the vital furnace and lets in more air in order to produce more heat.

This explains the many recoveries that are seen in tuberculosis institutions throughout the colnry, Dr. Kellog says, and makes the "cure" one of the most popular there is. Those who are ill and those who are healthy may use the cold air treatment to advantage, for in case of the former it is an aid to recovery, and in the case of the latter it builds up resistance to disease.

One of the methods of taking a cold air bath is to lie, properly wrapped, on a cot that is placed in the open air. First one arm should be exposed, either bare or covered with a single thin garment when the temperature is at freezing or below.

In the case of feeble patients the arm is rubbed by an attendant but when the person taking the bath is healthy the rubbing may be done by the person himself. After an interval of from one to five minutes, the arm is withdrawn under the clothing and the other arm exposed.

When the reaction to the first arm is complete, that is, when it is completely warm, it way be exposed again. This process of alternate exposure may be repeated five or six times, and the exposure way be increased in duration as the ability to react increases.

After a few days the chest may be exposed, the area gradually being increased from day to day. In a similar manner the legs may be exposed, first one and then both, finally the entire surface of the body just as in a sun bath. The exposed surface should be rubbed during the bath.

There is a type of cold air bath that may be taken with exercise. With the body uncovered, health exercises are taken, the bather remaining in the cold air for a half minute and then returning to the warm room. The time is gradually increased, the duration of the bath being determined by the power to react and the temperature of the air. Great care must be taken to prevent chilling, and in all cases the bather should be out of the wind.

By the use of the portable arc lamp artificial sunshine and cold air baths may be taken in combination. In doing this, and in fact, in all these types of cold baths, the feet must be kept warm. Heavy military socks should be worn, one or two pairs, and felt shoes. In all cases it is good thing to use fur lined shoes. It is better to keep the feet warm with clothing than with hot sand bags or hot water bags, but these way be used if necessary.

Many cold air bathers favor the cold air douch. The effect of the air may be intensified by employing a fan to direct a current of air over the entire body, if the bather is lying upon a cot, or upon some particular spot as the abdomen or the back. During the application the exposed surface should be rubbed vigorously.

Practically the only persons who should not take the cold air bath are those who are suffering from acute kidney diseases, advanced stages of heart disorders, high blood preassure, apoplectic stroke throidism.

Application of cold air to the body is highly tonic, accordng to Dr. Kellogg. The reaction from a cold air bath influences greatly the central nervous system, the force of the heart beat is increased, circulation is stimulated and the quantity of the blood itself is modified to increase alkalinity and to decrease acidity. Precaution should be taken in the use of the cold air bath, and it is advisable to consult a physician before employing this system of bathing.

Durant Company Now Producing Two New Models

Two new Durant models designated as the "Six-Sixty-Six" and the "Six-Seventy," both equipped with four forward speed transmission, are now in production in the new Durant factory in Lansing, Michigan. Most of the development work had been completed and the models had been announced before the new officers and executives, headed by A. I. Philp, chairman of the board, and F. J. Haynes president, took control of Durant Motors, Inc., early in January this year.

At the cost of entire loss of sales of these models during the first quarter this year, the Sixty-Six and Seventy were not put into immediate production at Lansing. During the intervening time the cars have been thoroughly put through their paces by the Durant engineering staff under the direction of Roy E. Cole, former chief engineer of Dodge Brothers. After subjecting the cars to almost every conceivable sort of road and labatory test, the engineers reported to the management that, with the exception of a few minor refinements and improvements that now have been made, the cars measure up to their ideals of sturdiness and dependability.

The Six-Sixty-Six, although a newcomer in the Durant line this year, represents, like the Seventy, a further development and refinement of well tried Durant designs. The Sixty-Six is the first car to bring into the popular price field the great advantages offered by a silent third double-high, 4-forward speed transmission. The Seventy is a successor to the well known Durant Seventy-Five which has been on market for several years and is credited with being the first car to employ this type of gear box.

Measured by accepted standards of power, weight or displacement, weight ratio both the Durant Sixty-Six and the Durant Seventy have relatively high engine capacity, the well known technical writer, Niran Bates Pope, editor of Automobile Popics, points out in his article on the new cars in the current issue of that automobile trade magazine. "With relatively high engine capacity, as measured in terms of piston displacement," Mr. Pope says, "it can not possibly be said that the Durant four speed gearset is a subterfuge permitting a small engine to do the work of a larger one. This point should be emphasized, because in Europe where the four speed gearset is better known than it is in this country, its use is frankly intended to avoid taxation based on cylinder diameter and so to make a little engine do the work of a big one."

'Noisy Neighbors' With Notable Cast Coming Saturday

An exceptional cast of screen celebrities will be seen in the leading roles of "Noisy Neighbors," a new Pathe Production which will be shown Saturday, June 1, at the Ritz. Headed by Eddie Quillan and Alberta Vaughn in the principal parts this attraction brings to the fore Theodore Roberts, Jane Keckley, Russell Simpson and the entire Quillan family of vaudeville fame.

Eddie Quillan has estabished himself among the foremost juveile comedians and his recent work in "Geraldine," Booth Tarkington's well known story, gained him a host of new admirers. In "Noisy Neighbors," he is cast in a character that fits him like a glove.

A large part of the story deals with the life of Eddie and his family behind the footlights while playing a small time vaudeville circuit, and, surrounded by his brothers and sisters and his father it seems much like old times for the youthful featured player.

Alberta Vaughn is an ideal leading woman. She is petite and peppy and of the type which makes it possible for a director to get the most out of a scene requiring both the leading players.

Theodore Roberts, of cherished memory, is seen in a role that was better suited to his talents than any other in many years, being seen with an uncontrollable temper.

Jane Keckley portrays the mother of the Quillan clan and if past performances can be taken as a criterion hers is another role in the picture played true to life.

The production was directed by Charles ("Chuck") Reisner, who probably has been responsible for as many comedy successes as any other director in the industry. Paul Bern was the producer.

BLOOD-THIISTY FLEAS

The pestiferous flea made himself unusually troublesome in 1928 thereby stimulating interest in his destruction. Because fleas require blood to enable them to reproduce, infestations are usually connected with the sleeping places of dogs, cats, hogs, or chickens. Such places should be sprayed with cresote oil by means of a force pump. If handled carefully, cresote oil may be used in basements and outbuildings, though it stains considerably. If fleas are found breeding under rugs or in the cracks of floors the rugs should be hung up in the sun and thoroughly beaten, and the floors wiped up with gasoline. Five pounds of flaked napthalene, scattered over the floor of a closed room and left for 8 or 10 hours, will kill the fleas in it. Infested cats or dogs should be dusted with powdered derris root or fresh pyrethrum powder.
