Loraine Council Grants Increase

A tornado warning caused a quick adjournment of the Loraine City Council Monday night.

Dale Mathis, manager of Frontier Cable TV, was presenting a proposed rate increase for services in Loraine when the council was informed of a tornado alert.

With an abrupt dismissal, Mathis agreed to return to meet with the council in the near future.

to further discuss the rate increase.

Before the tornado warnings caused the meeting to break up, council members managed to take action on a couple of legislative matters.

Billie Schroeder, representing the Loraine Business and Professional Women's Club, requested permission from the council to take a survey of Loraine residents.

Mrs. Schroeder noted that the survey would be to compile information necessary in attempting to secure federal funds to be used in improving Loraine.

The council granted Mrs. Schroeder permission to carry out the survey, which will be conducted during the summer months.

In other business, B. B. Hardee of Texas Electric Service Company, proposed to the council a 24.43 per cent rate increase for Loraine customers.

Hardee explained to the council that costs of operation are increasing and that the increase of service charge is necessary to cover costs.

Hardee explained to the council that they had four choices in the rate hike.

First, they could grant the 24.43 per cent request and it would go into effect immediately. Secondly, they could turn down the request, whereby TESCO would file an appeal to the Public Utilities Company.

Third choice was to suspend the ruling for 120 days, which would involve a great deal of paperwork.

The council voted to accept the fourth alternative, which was to grant TESCO the rate hike, pending the decision of the amount by PUC.

A date has not yet been set for the Loraine council to reconvene to complete business for the June meeting.

Strong Winds, Hail Ruin Cotton Crops

Acres of crops were destroyed, a roof ripped away and a drive-in theater almost demolished as a result of Monday evening's brief storm.

In less than 30 minutes, winds soared through Colorado City and Loraine as part of a storm which deposited a little bit of rain, and in some cases, a lot of hail.

Raymond Watlington of Buford reported that hail fell in Buford—"more of it than I've ever seen before."

Watlington noted that the hail was about the size of a quarter and that it lasted about 30 minutes.

Some 300 acres of cotton were destroyed on Wat-lington's farm and 40 or 50 acres of feed grain were lost.

"It came in with a bang," said Watlington about the storm which really didn't offer much warning, except for a couple of threatening clouds.

Besides losing the crops, Watlington's cotton ricker was knocked down and his sprinkler system torn up.

Delmar McDaniel of Loraine said that of the cotton crop which he had planted, "there's nothing left—it looks like match sticks."

Joe Blackard, who farms at Buford, said that the hail destroyed his 300 acres of cotton which had come up. Blackard said that he doubted he would replant the crop.

In addition to wrecking about 3,000 acres of crops, the storm also damaged some buildings.

In Loraine, the Dona-Lin Drive-In Theater—owned and operated by Ed and Nancy Newton—was hit by winds. Newton reported that the damage was in excess of $12,000 and the replacement value would be close to $20,000.

The storm knocked down the screen tower of the theater, destroyed the marquee and blew in the windows on the projection booth.

In Colorado City, Cotton Compress Co-op, located on Hwy. 80, lost part of the roof from one of the warehouses as a result of the storm.

According to the police report, the wind was responsible for the damage to the warehouse, but an employee of the Co-op noted that it may have been a twister because the damage was concentrated in one area.

Debris from the roof—steel and pieces of wood—were scattered on Hwy. 80 and the back fence of Bassinger's Bait and Minnow Shop was torn down.

Cotton Compress Co-op reported that about $2,000 damage was caused to the warehouse.

Mrs. H. T. Bassinger said that when the roof of the warehouse blew off, bits of tin and splinters of wood hit her house and business.

A circular clothesline that Mrs. Bassinger had in her yard was twirling from the wind and flung against the house.

The Bassinger's lawn mower was smashed by chunks of wood from the roof of the warehouse, but total damage to the Bassinger's property is not yet known.

With the strong winds, power lines were reported to be down in a couple of places in the county.

According to Texas Electric Service Company, about three poles were down north of Loraine and a crew worked until 2 a.m. repairing the damage.

Lone Wolf Electric Company reported that a couple of power lines were knocked down northeast of Colorado City and northeast of Loraine.

Area farmers said that by Friday, damage to the crops should be known.

Womack Is To Present Slides

A special treat has been scheduled by Colorado City Playhouse this Saturday night for Mitchell County residents.

At that time, George Womack will present two slide shows on vacation trips he made during the past two years. In 1976, he journeyed to historic Eastern Island off the western coast of South America.

In 1977, Womack traveled to the area of Ladakh (La-dock) and Kashmir. Both slide shows have taped narrations with musical backgrounds.

There will be no admission charge. Instead of an admission charge, those in attendance will be asked to make whatever contribution they want to toward the fund to pay for the Playhouse organ.

There will be a 15-minute organ recital between the two shows by Addie V. Payne to demonstrate the versatility of the organ.

The first slide show will start at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Those who have seen Womack's work with slides and taped narrations stress that the presentations are very entertaining

Tennis Session Opens

Tomorrow (Friday) the first session of the Lone Wolf Tennis School will come to a close with a new session opening Monday.

The second session will be held from Monday until Friday and the final session will be June 19-23.

Sessions are limited to 16 pupils so that individual instruction will be possible.

Cost of the school is $25 per session if between 11 and 16 students register. If less than 10 students enroll, the cost is $30 per week. Enrollment of eight or less requires special group rates.

Coach David Redwine and Kitten Arthur, both of Colorado High School, are instructors for the course.

Persons interested in the tennis course should call 728-3978 or 728-5013 for more information.

Chamber Rodeo 'Workday' Today

Today (Thursday) beginning at 5:30 p.m. residents will have an opportunity to join ranks with the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce to prepare for the rodeo.

People are asked to meet at the rodeo arena, located at the County Agricultural Barn, to work on repairing the arena for the July 5-8 rodeo.

Chamber Manager Larry Winders stressed that everyone was invited "to bring a hammer and saw and be there."

Winders noted that necessary supplies for repair of the arena and bleachers would be provided by the Chamber, but that manpower from the community was needed.

Regarding rodeo plans, it was reported that six local teams had been recruited to compete in the calf dressing contest and that nine more teams would need to enter.

Besides the July rodeo, the Chamber board also discussed plans for the annual July 4th Fly-In.

Sky diving exhibitions, an aerobics show and a display of antique and home built planes will be featured at the Fly-In.

Winders said that efforts are being made to secure the Goodyear blimp for the annual Fly-In.

Chamber directors voted to hire Ken Sanderson as photographer for the Fly-In.

Winders noted that Sanderson would have exclusive rights to the photography concession, although full press coverage would be permitted.

It was also noted that efforts are being made to provide transportation for senior citizens to the Fly-In.

In other business, Pete Westbrook

Adds New Street Signs

Something new has been added to Westbrook.

About 20 new street signs are now scattered throughout the town designating streets like Lincoln, Thorne or Bertner.

According to Mayor Sam Oden the city council voted to purchase the signs last year but the city had been unable to find anyone to put them up until recently.

"We've had the signs for about a year. The Future Farmers of America boys finally put these up," Oden commented.

He noted that the signs cost about $10 apiece.

McKinney was accepted as new Chamber director. McKinney is replacing Bill Crockett, who is moving from Colorado City.

A committee was appointed to work on the "Shop Colorado City" campaign launched by the Chamber. Chairman of the committee is George Sweatt. Bobby Bowers and Coleen Palmer were also appointed to the committee.

In final business, it was decided that the Chamber by-laws would be reviewed by McKinney, a lawyer, for revisions.

The new owners commented, "We expect to continue the efficient service members have been receiving."

Roles Cast For August Play

A 10-member cast for a drama to be presented by Colorado City Playhouse has been selected by Director Carl Beery Moore, also president of the Playhouse organization.

The drama, All My Sons, written by Arthur Miller, will be presented Aug. 3, 4, 5, 10, 11 and 12. Tryouts were held Monday and Tuesday nights with 19 persons trying out for the 10 spots available.

In the lead role of Joe Keller is Mac McKinnon. Keller's wife, Kate, will be portrayed by Marsha Moore. The Keller's son, Chris, will be played by Bill Martin.

Sean Wright will be in the part of Ann Deever; Kent Womack as Dr. Jim Bayliss; Pam Steakley as Sue Bayliss; Dennis McMenamy as Frank Lubey; Jamie Harris as Lydia Lubey; Lee Kirby as George Deever and Richy Womack as Bert, a neighborhood boy.

The story revolves around the reported death during the war of one Keller son, Larry, but his mother still believes he is alive. On top of that, the missing man's sweetheart and his brother are in love.

Still another aspect of the plot is the possible shady dealings of Joe Keller in the building of aircraft motors in his shop, leading to the death of 21 fighter pilots.

Suspense builds, emotions mount and the story ends in a surprising climax.

On Friday evening, June 2, Colorado Chapter #58, Order of the Eastern Star held an open installation of officers in the Masonic Hall. Mrs. Jean Hicklin, Worthy Matron, introduced Dr. Ruby Perkins of Abilene, who served as installing officer for the evening.

She presented those who were to assist her: Mrs. Ann Cockrell of Abilene, installing marshal; Mrs. Tommie McWilliams of Abilene, installing secretary; Dr. Ralph Perkins of Abilene, installing chaplain; Mrs. Maggie Hamrick of Colorado City, installing organist.

In an impressive ceremony, the officers for the ensuing year were duly installed as follows: Mrs. Marie Boyd, worthy matron; Joe Boyd, worthy patron; Mrs. Margaret Oyler, secretary; Mrs. Ava Hardcastle, treasurer; Mrs. Dorothy Hanks, conductress; Mrs. Martha Matthews, associate conductress; Mrs. Jeane Hicklin, marshal; Mrs. Reita Cowin, Ruth; Mrs. Linda Bradshaw, Esther; Mrs. Shirley McPhaul, Martha; Mrs. Louis Sweat, Electa; and J. Along with the worthy matron's theme of Love are her chosen colors of blue, white and silver, and her flower is the white rose.

Library To Sponsor Reading Program

Young readers in 24 libraries in the 32-county area served by the Big Country Library System, including the Mitchell County Public Library will participate in the Summer Reading Club sponsored this year by the Texas State Library and local public libraries.

They will be among 140,000 young Texans taking part in the program. Since summer provides a time for recreational reading and for pursuing special interests, it is usually the busiest time of the year in children's departments in public libraries.

Participants in the Summer Reading Club for 1978 will be invited to "Come to Chimera!" Their trip will take them to a fantasy land where any dream can come true. To mark their journey, they will receive a reading log that shows mountains, swamps and castles inhabited by fantastic creatures.

The theme for this year's Reading Club appeals to the imagination and spotlights imaginative literature available in public libraries. Librarians, however, know that reading will not be limited to that.

Some boys and girls will read everything available on dinosaurs or horses or volcanoes or some other topic they become fascinated with.

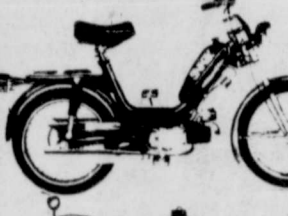

Participants will receive recognition at the end of the summer.
