Prison Doctor's Daughter, Society Woman And Maid Attacked And Slain

NEGRO TRUSTY SEVERS HEAD OF YOUNG GIRL

Morgnic Convict Surrenders After Killing in Bathroom

RICH WIDOW IS VICTIM

Noted Horsewoman and Aged Maid Found Dead In Colonial Home

Three white women were attacked and killed in their homes yesterday, one inside of a penitentiary and the other two in a Virginia colonial mansion.

A negro trusty in the Rockview penitentiary of Pennsylvania assaulted the daughter of a prison physician and then decapitated her with a butcher knife.

Near Washington, D. C., and in the famous fox hunting country of Virginia, Mrs. Spencer Ilsley, wealthy young society widow, and her elderly maid were beaten to death in their beds. A negro former servant was sought.

NEGRO "TRUSTY" MURDERS GIRL

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Jan. 13. (AP)—A negro convict in Rockview penitentiary today attacked and killed Betty Hickok, 22, daughter of Dr. A. L. Hickok, chief of the prison's psychopathic ward.

The negro, Fred Collins, 37, serving a 10 to 20 year term for second degree murder from Pittsburgh, surprised the young woman in the bathroom of her home this morning. After assaulting her, he hacked her head nearly off with a butcher knife and then walked a half mile to the prison and surrendered.

Mental Case

Collins has been a psychopathic case under Dr. Hickok's care for four years. Although known to be a moron, he had been considered harmless and was employed as a cook and guard at the Hickok residence. He had free access to and from the house.

Collins perpetrated his deed in the bathroom so quietly that others in the dwelling heard no unusual sounds. The negro then calmly left the house.

After telling prison officials what he had done, he grew sullen and refused to give any reason for his act.

Inquest Called

An inquest was held shortly after the young woman's body had been found. Collins was held responsible for her murder.

Warden Stanley P. Ashe, who hurried here from Pittsburgh when notified of the crime, said Collins will be transferred to Western penitentiary at Pittsburgh tonight. Because the negro is a psychopathic case, Warden Ashe said he doubted if first degree murder charges would be lodged against him.

When prison officials learned of the murder, they took every pre-

'Lung' Ship Races Over Southwest

FORT WORTH, Jan. 13. (UP)—Suffering Alice Hilliard should have her "oxygen room" shortly after 8 a. m. tomorrow, barring aerial mishaps tonight. Tired Pilot Stuart Reiss, rushing the small life-saving device across the country to her hospital room at Tucson, Ariz., landed here tonight from Oklahoma City at 11:15 p. m. to refuel. He will resume his flight tonight, flying through to Tucson.

GIRL CONTINUES FIGHT FOR LIFE

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 13. (US)—While heavy winds hampered the flight of the airplane from New York carrying an "oxygen lung" to her side, Miss Alyce Hillyard, of Louisville, Ky., continued desperately her fight for life here tonight. There was little change in her condition.

Dr. David Bloom, of the sanitarium where Miss Hillyard is confined, said his patient was slightly better, but only slightly. She is suffering from tuberculosis and pneumonia.

In the meantime friends of the young woman, who is a stepdaughter of Robert Bingham, editor of a Louisville newspaper, anxiously awaited word of the delayed plane. It had been expected that the craft would reach here early last night.

E. G. HILL DIES AT DALLAS

Former Wichita Business Leader Succumbs

E. G. Hill, 47, for more than 20 years identified with business in Wichita Falls, died at the home of a sister in Dallas shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday night. He had been ill for about a month, although poor health had afflicted him for several years.

Funeral arrangements had not been made Wednesday night.

Although maintaining his home here, Mr. Hill for the past several months had been away from Wichita Falls, attending to interests of of the Petroleum Producers company, with which he was associated, in the East Texas fields.

Upon coming to Wichita Falls more than 20 years ago, he first engaged in the undertaking business. Many old-time residents of Wichita Falls will recall the concern, then known as the Hill Undertaking company, and which later became the Merkle Undertaking company.

Later Mr. Hill engaged in the sporting goods business and was a partner in the firm of Landon & Hill. This concern went out of business some five years ago.

In recent years Mr. Hill had been associated with the Petroleum Producers as manager of the lease department. For a while previous to this connection he operated as an independent oil man.

While in the East Texas fields Mr. Hill's ill health took a more serious turn. He abandoned his work to go to the home of his sister, Mrs. G. A. Brewer, in Dallas, where he died.

He is survived by two daughters, Misses Madeline and Kathlyn Hill, both of Wichita Falls; a brother, Owen Hill of Moody, Texas; and three sisters, Mrs. Brewer and Mrs. Lev Covey of Dallas, and Mrs. Carver King of Winnsboro, Texas.

Three Divisions of A. P. I. to Meet at Tulsa

DALLAS, Jan. 13. (AP)—Carl A. Young, secretary of the production division of the American Petroleum institute, announced here today the three divisions of the institute would hold their annual mid-year meetings simultaneously this year on June 1, 2 and 3 at Tulsa, Okla.

Young said the institute's central committee on unit operation for 1932 had been re-appointed as follows: Carl A. Young, secretary; E. R. Brown, Dallas; W. S. Farish, Houston; Edgar J. Marston, Fort Worth, and Edward T. Moore, Dallas, Texas members.

GIRL, 18, FACES CHARGES IN BABY'S DEATH

Business College Student From Randlett Held By Officers

STATEMENT SIGNED

Young Woman Denies Infant Was Alive When Born in Room Here

A charge of murder was filed Wednesday afternoon before Judge O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, against Miss Lorene Cornstubble, 18, in connection with the finding of a new born baby's head in a garbage can Tuesday, and the recovery of the body from the city disposal plant Wednesday afternoon.

The complaint was taken by District Attorney Sam B. Spence, and was signed by Deputy Sheriff Ben Howle, who has been active in the investigation of the case since its inception early Tuesday afternoon.

The young woman is unmarried, has been attending a business college in this city, and lives with her parents on a farm near Randlett, Okla., it was said. She returned to Wichita Falls Wednesday, together with her parents, in company with Assistant District Attorney Mike Anglin.

According to a statement signed by the girl, the child was born last Saturday morning. The birth occurred unexpectedly, and the young woman stated that after observing the baby for a considerable period without detecting signs of life, she planned and executed a secret disposal of the body.

Remains of the body were dragged from the city sewage disposal plant Wednesday. The head of the child, which had been severed with a knife, was found wrapped in a paper sack in a garbage can early Tuesday afternoon. The discovery was reported to the sheriff by the trash hauler, and resulted in the investigation launched by Sheriff Perry Browning and Mr. Spence.

Physicians who examined the head Tuesday expressed the opinion that the child was alive when born. The girl's statement contradicted this belief.

Legion Launches Drive to Supply Idle With Jobs

SEDALIA, Mo., Jan. 14. (UP)—The American Legion's "war on unemployment" was launched here tonight when Henry L. Stevens Jr., presented a plan to Missouri legionnaires to put 1,000,000 men to work by Feb. 1.

Every employer in the country will be asked to increase his paid personnel by 10 per cent by Feb. 1, providing work for the unemployed, Stevens said in outlining his plan. The program will be fostered through local legion posts throughout the nation.

The legion favors six-hour days, six hour pay and five day weeks as a further aid to employment, Stevens said.

"There is a war which started about 18 months ago and the legion is faced with the task of ending it," Stevens said. "It is the war against depression. Every man in America has the right to have a job in order to make a living for that wife and those children who are dependent on him.

"There is a limited amount of work to be done," he continued. "If every person is to have work, then those who are employed eight or 10 hours a day must participate in the division of such work."

Dawes May Head Giant Relief Corporation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (US)—Gen. Charles G. Dawes, who recently announced that he would retire as ambassador to Great Britain, may be asked to head the reconstruction finance corporation instead of the delegation to the Geneva armaments conference, it was reported in circles close to the White House today.

General Dawes will be in Washington late this week for a conference with President Hoover.

Southwest To Lead Nation In Growth Says Katy President

"Worst Pessimist" Shouldn't Sell This Section Short, Declares M. H. Cahill, Railroad Leader, In Brief Visit to Wichita Falls

"I cannot conceive of a pessimism so pronounced as to cause any one to sell the Southwest short," declared M. H. Cahill, chairman of the board and president of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines, Wednesday night as he sat in his business car at the union station and predicted that the Southwest would see the day when the depression would be generally regarded as having accomplished much good.

Mr. Cahill, accompanied by his wife and secretary, arrived here late Wednesday from Elk City, on what he termed "an unofficial inspection."

"So-called hard times we have been experiencing have not been without some beneficial effects" he said. "Changed conditions have made people more human and more considerate and have placed a premium on hard work and discredited the growing tendency to live by and for speculation. No one can predict the importance of the solutions that will be found finally for the many problems that the slump has produced, but already signs are apparent that out of it all will come new thoughts, new plans and radical changes that are going to better the entire nation, and, I think, particularly the Southwest.

Too Much Depression Talk

"Personally, I think too much has been said about the depression. Too much emphasis has been placed on the fact that business isn't as brisk as it was a few years ago. After all, the country did not go to pot in 1931, and it will not go this year.

"We are prone to be blind to the many evidences that the wheels of progress are still turning, and to read some publications and to hear some people talk, you somehow get the impression that the entire nation is on the verge of bankruptcy and actual starvation.

History shows that each business set back—and we have been through many—is followed by a rebirth of the pioneering spirit, both on the part of the people who seek broader horizons and by capital which seeks news channels of usefulness. During the last several months business has taken me to the East, the West and the North, and there is no one section of the country where possibilities for progress and development, industrially and agriculturally, are as great as in the Southwest. Texas and Oklahoma are, in fact, the only states in the union where pioneering can still be car-

C-C Groups Well on Way to Goals At End of First Day of Campaign

Final Reports From All Workers Due at Chamber Offices Thursday Afternoon at 5 o'Clock

Reports that dribbled into headquarters Wednesday afternoon showed both junior and senior chambers of commerce here already well upon the road to the men and money goals set in the annual membership drives, launched Wednesday morning.

The senior organization workers had passed the $10,000 mark in the budget campaign before noon. They are after $35,000. The drive closes Saturday.

The membership work is largely a matter of getting dues from the continuous members already enrolled, although the organization wants 200 new names on its rolls before the drive is over. C. H. Featherston, general chairman for the senior body, asked that all workers report by 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, whether the work has been completed or not. The report is to be made to the chamber of commerce office. The most successful individual worker is to get a silver trophy from the hands of the chairman.

Junior organization teams were in keen competition throughout Wednesday, with 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon as the deadline for team reports. More than 150 members had been enrolled Wednesday afternoon. The teams are working for the box of cigars which is to go to each unit which enrolls 70 per cent of its prospect list by Thursday afternoon.

The individual contest, with a suit of clothes and a trip to the regional convention in Oklahoma City next March, as prizes, will close at noon next Wednesday, Jan. 20.

The junior group seeks 350 members and $4,200 in budget funds.

The campaign was launched at a joint breakfast at the Wichita club Wednesday morning. An army of 150 workers gathered to hear J. L. Jackson Jr., retiring president of the senior chamber, and A. E. Kelly, his successor. Mr. Featherston and H. R. Cramer, general chairmen, gave final instructions.

J. M. Franklin	1.00
Archenhold Automobile Supply Co.	10.00
Total	$29.75
Previously acknowledged	1,129.50
Grand total	$1,159.25

Wichita Falls' school lunch fund climbed to $1,159.50 Wednesday on the eve of the close of public subscriptions. All gifts received during Thursday will be acknowledged by The Record News Friday, and those who desire to aid in providing for some 200 needy school children are asked to turn in their contributions today. Contributions to the fund have averaged nearly $200 a day since the need of the school children was first announced in this newspaper less than a week ago.

Indications that there may be an increase in the number of children given aid was seen Wednesday when school officials revealed that the Lehrack-Ferguson Dairy Products company had delivered 300 bottles of milk to the schools for the needy children. The Lehrack company originally announced that it would provide each child on the list with a bottle of milk for luncheon, it being estimated that the gift would total about 20,000 bottles of milk, or 200 daily, during the remainder of the term.

At the Wednesday rate, the company would give nearly 30,000 bottles. Officials of the company said they would carry out their pledge of aid, even if requirements exceeded the original estimate.

Five cents will buy a warm luncheon for these children, who otherwise would go from eight to 12 hours without food. With the milk given by Lehrack's, each child will have a wholesome, nourishing meal. Send in your gift today to The Record News and Daily Times, or hand it to Lester Jones, treasurer of the fund, at the Wichita State bank.

SENATE AND HOUSE PUSH RELIEF BILLS

Reconstruction and Tax Proposals Result in Busy Session

LAND BILL PASSED

Report of Rising Market Received With Joy By Lawmakers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Reconstruction and increased taxation provided twin springs of activity today for congress.

The senate jumped ahead in consideration of the program for combatting economic paralysis, by unanimous passage of the land bank bill to help farmers get credit.

While the house was concluding debate on the reconstruction corporation, its ways and means committee heard from Secretary Mellon and examined Undersecretary Mills on the administration proposal for lifting taxes to 1924 levels.

Just before the $2,000,000,000 corporation was taken up for amendment, Representative McFadden—Pennsylvania Republican—violently assailed it as a scheme for "helping a gang of financial looters to cover their tracks."

Republican Objects

"They ask us to establish a super-corporation to shelter them and to conceal the details of their misdeeds from the public," he said.

"They have already in the last several years filched from the United States treasury enough money to pay the entire national debt, but that does not prevent them from staging another raid on it."

The Democratic house majority has plans for revising the Hoover-Mellon tax propositions.

The secretary of the treasury sat quietly by as his statement was read by Mr. Mills. It estimated the sales suggested would add $1,310,000,000 to federal receipts for this and the next fiscal year, with a balanced budget resulting by the end of 1934.

Market Rise Reported

Reports of a rising Wall street market were happily received on Capitol hill. Efforts toward a balanced budget were cited in New York as a factor influencing the market trend.

The Mellon statement spoke of a "grave emergency" existing, and called increased revenue imperative "not just to cover current expenses but to maintain unimpaired the credit of the United States government."

Even as it was being presented, in a committee room not far away Representative Patman — Texas Democrat—opened argument on his resolution to impeach Mellon for "high crimes and misdemeanors." He promised to prove malfeasance.

There was not even a record vote on the land bank bill.

Votes Huge Sum

The senate added $25,000,000 to the $100,000,000 voted by the house and expressly allotted the additional sum for the purpose of granting farm mortgage installment postponements at the discretion of the banks.

The measure must go to conference with the house for adjustment of the differences. As it came from there, it contained provision for extensions but no specific sum was designated for that purpose.

The only real fight in the senate in connection was the bill over the amendment by Senator Black,

Ex-Queen Of Greece Succumbs

FRANKFORT-AM-MAIN, Germany, Jan. 13. (AP)—Former Queen Sophie of Greece, sister of former Kaiser Wilhelm, died at a clinic here tonight after a lingering illness with cancer. She was 61 years old.

The one-time queen of the Hellenes, had lived in Florence, Italy, since the death of her husband, King Constantine, in exile at Palmero Jan. 11, 1923. She came to Frankfort last November to seek the advice of a specialist, who operated Nov. 12, but found her ailment too far advanced for successful treatment.

During the last week, she underwent a series of relapses. Her children, George, Paul, Helen—queen of Rumania—and Irene, were called to the bedside each time.

KAISER WILHELM ILL AT DOORN

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 13. (US)—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany who recovered last week from an attack of grippe was ill today with bronchitis. The attack was declared "obstinate," but the patient is not running a fever.

TEXAN HELD IN HAWAII ATTACK

Portuguese Woman Accuses Man in Honolulu

HONOLULU, Jan. 13. (AP)—A charge of attempted criminal assault was filed here today against Philander E. Gray, 31, on complaint of a Portuguese woman. The incident occurred while the city was recovering from the stir over recent cases of attack and the killing of one alleged assaulter.

Officers said they arrested Gray, who stated he was from Texas, while he was struggling with the woman. He denied the charges. Gray said he and the woman, who gave her age as 21, had attended a party and were on their way home.

Police stated that in attempting to raid an asserted bootlegging establishment recently Gray had fought them and refused to let them into the place.

GOVERNOR CALLS SPECIAL SESSION

HONOLULU, Jan. 13. (AP)—Gov. Lawrence M. Judd today called a special session of the territorial legislature to deal with Honolulu's crime situation and protested sharply against a house naval sub-committee's criticism in Washington of a judicial proceeding involved in the local trouble.

Behind the call for the special session public sentiment was crystallizing for a cleanup of the tense situation growing out of recent attacks on women and the abduction and killing of Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaiian accused of attacking the bride of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N.

Massie, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, and two naval enlisted men are charged with the murder.

Asserting it was apparent there was "some sinister, ulterior motive

IL DUCE GIVES FORMULA FOR TRADE REVIVAL

End of War Payments by Germany Urged in Newspaper

America Would Be Forced To Mark Off Loans, Says Premier

MILAN, Italy, Jan. 13. (AP)—Premier Mussolini advised Europe in an article in his newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, today to cancel reparations as the first step to the world's economic recovery.

The article, which was unsigned, but was known to be from Il Duce's pen, said this undoubtedly would leave the United States in such a position that it would have to follow suit by cancelling war debts.

It was Mussolini's second pronouncement through his Milan newspaper within three days of his personal views and therefore of the official policy of Italy.

The article today was spread across the front page of Popolo d'Italia, which since it was founded by Mussolini has been the nearest to an official Italian organ.

The writer pointed out the moral effect that voluntary cancellation of reparations by European states would have on the United States. The American people could not, in the face of that, he said, insist on repayment of war debts and thus appear in history as the only profiteer of the war.

"It would be to the United States' own interest to make this gesture or renunciation, which would rebound definitely to its advantage," the article said. "Not only will she lose nothing, but she will regain by other routes all she formerly cancelled.

"But the first step should be made in Europe. The United States can not be expected to take the initiative. It is Europe that should place her in the position of facing the completed fact, which she will end by accepting, the more so because she will be unable in any way to revoke it."

"It is thus that the European creditors of Germany must accept the claimed fact of her declaration of insolvency," Premier Mussolini continued.

"The world needs the United States, but the United States needs Europe and the world as never before."

American Hanged in Ireland for Murder

BELFAST, Jan. 13. (US)—Eddie Cullens, naturalized American, was hanged for murder here today, protesting his innocence to the last and calmly directing the hangmen's assistance as they pinioned and handcuffed him on the gallows.

Cullens was executed for the murder of Ahmet Musa, a Turk, who promoted the European tour of Zaro Agha, reputedly the world's oldest man. The condemned man dressed himself fastidiously, even to the point of manicuring his fingernails. He received the ministrations of a Belfast rabbi and wrote a long letter to his brother in New York.

Like Dogs? Here's Story About a Fighting Pooch—Tubby by Name

A pooch, Tubby by name, neither larger nor more aristocratic than any other fox terrier, sits proudly at home, licking his glorious wounds and daring any five police dogs to do their worst.

This Tubby, now collarless and sadly torn about the throat, has beaten both man and beast, defied official execution and escaped the jaws of an army of his kind.

The hero belongs to George H. Osborne, Wichita Falls attorney. Not long ago the dog catcher found him without a tag. Tubby, doomed to the death chamber, was taken to the pound.

He didn't like it and wherefore set in to whip each of his condemned comrades. He succeeded and the dog catcher looked on first in admiration and wonder, then in downright affection. Tubby's defeated comrades sniffed the lethal gas and were lost. Tubby won a reprieve. His owner, notified, secured his pardon and a brand new collar and tag.

The new equipment is lost forever. Chewed into tatters by the five police dogs who, annoyed at Tubby's complacency, undertook to put him back into the humble place of fox terriers. Tubby took some punishment, as witness his many abrasions, but he came back home, sorry to have lost his collar but proud at having upheld his dignity against such heavy odds.

Eight Royal Mounted Policemen Fail to 'Get Their Man' in Battle

AKLAVIK, Northwest Territory, Jan. 13. (UP)—Eight weary, half frozen members of the Royal Canadian Mounted police returned tonight to Aklavik after losing a 15-hour gun battle with a "bush crazy" trapper who barricaded himself in a dungeon-like cabin.

The police even used dynamite in their attack and blew half the roof off the cabin from which Albert Johnson blazed a hail of lead at them from two automatic pistols.

Johnson, wanted for attempted murder of a police constable who once entertained Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, backed into a hillside tunnel when the explosive was tossed, escaped injury and fought on.

For 15 hours the squad of eight policemen fought Johnson in the semi-darkness of the arctic night, but they could not rout him from his cabin, which is mostly underground and built like a tiny fort.

After more than a day of constant fighting the police were forced to retreat and hurry back to civilization because they were suffering so severely from the cold and were almost out of meat for their dog teams.

Johnson shot and seriously wounded Constable A. W. King on Dec. 31 when King attempted to question him regarding tampering with trap lines. R. G. McDowell, another constable who was with King, took the wounded officer by dog sled through 80 miles of raging blizzard to reach Aklavik, where King is now recovering. King is the man who entertained Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh when the American fliers were on their historic trip to the orient.

Johnson was said by other trappers to have come into the territory from Yukon last fall. He had no equipment but a pair of snowshoes. He had much money, however. Police and trappers said he was "bush crazy." Indians reported he was tampering with their trap lines and King went out from Aklavik to investigate. The shooting followed.

SPORTSWOMAN AND MAID MURDERED

MIDDLEBURG, Va., Jan. 13. (US)—Beaten brutally until dead and then assaulted, Mrs. Spencer Ilsley, 32, beautiful young society widow and nationally-known sportswoman, and her elderly white maid, Annie Butler, 60, today were found murdered in their colonial mansion here.

A negro ex-convict, who had been employed by Mrs. Ilsley some months ago, is suspected by police, and missing strangely from the estate in the heart of a famous fox-hunting country, dotted with country places of New York, Philadelphia and Washington millionaires.

An iron bootjack had been used to crush the skulls of the two women, and the house had been robbed.

Accomplice Suspected

Tonight Sheriff E. S. Adrian said he suspected that the fugitive servant may have had an accomplice, the two escaping in an automobile stolen from the Ilsley garage.

A machine answering this description and containing two men later was seen near Washington, D. C., but managed to outrace a police car.

Sheriff Adrian also announced the arrest of Bertie Neal, a friend of the missing houseman who had been discharged a few days ago. Bertie's connection with the case, if any, was not revealed by Sheriff Adrian.

The murders were discovered by Paul Boeing, Mrs. Ilsley's brother, who spent the night at the family's stud farm, known as "The Frances Mills Place," and adjoining the Ilsley estae. The two were almost inseparable, and rode behind fox hounds at many of the fashionable society meets throughout the country.

Brother Finds Body

The body of Mrs. Ilsley, a widow of a year and a member of the Middleburg hunt set for the last 10 winters, was found in the boudoir.

Her body, nude except for a bloody silk nightgown, was stretched out upon the floor, as if dragged there when the bed became soaked from blood. There was evidence of a terrific struggle. Furniture was overturned, and the bed virtually dismantled.

Apparently, the slayer had killed the elderly maid first, as she slept in a small room just across the hall from Mrs. Ilsley's suite.

Prosecutor John Galleher said it was quite apparent that the lovely young society widow made a desperate but futile fight for her life. He found the murder weapon in the maid's room, and said a bloody basin of water indicated that the slayer washed his hands and Mrs. Ilsley's corpse before assaulting her. Dr. John A. Gibson, London county coroner, added:

"The attack was the most cruel in my memory."

Besides sending to Washington and Richmond for finger print experts, Prosecutor Galleher also broadcast a description of the missing houseman, said to have been working for Mrs. Ilsley under an alias. The man's identity was not revealed.

Over 400 persons formed themselves into a posse, but were unable to find a trace of the former convict. Lynching threats were general.

in the background." Judd sent a strong protest to Secretary of the Interior Wilbur against the decision of the sub-committee that instructions to the jury hearing the case of five men accused of attacking Mrs. Massie constituted "thinly veiled instruction to acquit." The jury disagreed. Kahahawai was one of the defendants.

The legislature, which will consider a change in the law to permit re-organization of Honolulu's widely criticised police department, was called to convene next Monday.

Representations to the governor by a committee of prominent business men were made prior to Judd's issuance of the call for the special session.

While both prosecution and defense moved for a prompt trial of the murder case, naval officials at Pearl Harbor, where the defendants are being held for safe keeping, said the prisoners had received hundreds of cablegrams. Most of the messages, it was said, were from prominent friends of Mrs. Fortescue in the United States and Europe.

WASHINGTON SPEEDS UP INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—The investigating arm of the justice department pushed quietly but relentlessly today into legal justice in Honolulu while four Americans awaited trial for a killing that riveted attention here on crime conditions in the island territory.

Amid offers of help from the navy and interior department and a house committee's report blaming Governor Judd of Hawaii for conditions climaxed by the murder of a native accused of attacking a white woman, Attorney General Mitchell's assistants silently dug into official reports on law and enforcement.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee meanwhile introduced another resolution for direct investigation by a special senate committee.

It was said at the justice department a preliminary survey under a senate mandate might be completed within about 10 days. Then Attorney General Mitchell probably will announce his judgment on the extent of further investigation required.

Congress Works On Relief Bills

Democrat, Alabama, providing for earmarking the $25,000,000. This was opposed by the administration forces, but was carried by a 49 to 29 vote.

"Serious Charges"

Shortly after McFadden had used the term "looters" in the house, Representative Stafford, Wisconsin Republican, interrupted to point out he was "making most serious charges," and asked for their basis.

McFadden replied they were based on federal reserve bank operations.

"Then, you are indicting the federal reserve system?" asked Stafford. With that McFadden pointed out he has a resolution pending seeking investigation of the system.

On both sides of the capitol today the inquiring congressional mind was busy. The house merchant marine committee began looking into shipping board activities of the past eight years, while advocates of an investigation of the farm board gained ground in the senate.

Peonage Probe Asked

Also—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asked the house labor committee to look into reports of "near peonage" along the lower Mississippi among workers on flood control projects. No action was taken, however.

Scientists and physicians testified to a committee of senators that four per cent beer helps the human system. Only advocates of the Bingham beer bill have been heard to date, but opposition witnesses are being marshalled.

Capper Speaks

Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, took occasion to urge upon the senate the early consideration of his resolution to ban short selling on stock exchanges. The outlook for it is indefinite.

The senate approved $450,000 for expenses of the delegation to the Geneva arms conference beginning next month. The house has yet to act.

Representatives Vinson and Britten both want the navy built up to treaty limits, but they differed today on a program. The first, Democratic chairman of the house naval committee, backs a 10-year construction plan calling for $616,250,000. Britten, a Republican, asks $66,030,000 be spent in a year. The navy general board favors the Vinson bill.

CAHILL TALKS ON SOUTHWEST

Katy President Says Area to Lead Recovery

ried on with reasonable assurances of success. For this reason they will attract men who have the courage and the ability to build, to create and to expand, just as they have in the past attracted that kind of citizens and who have made it what it is today.

Rapid Progress

"I was talking with an old-timer Katy trainman the other day, who has been in service more than 40 years, and he told me many interesting things about this section of the country, when it was just commencing to have growing pains. Forty years are a long time for one man to serve one company, but 40 years are nothing in the life of a state. If we would all remember back 40 years and think of the great distance we have come, commercially, industrially and culturally, we could not, I think, find so much fault with the present, and remembering what has been done we could not possibly be depressed as to doubt the future of the Southwest."

Mr. Cahill's car left Wichita Falls for San Antonio shortly before midnight.

Garner Says Demo Concern Is Budget

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Speaker Garner said today the Democrats hope to be in charge of congress and the executive branch after the next national elections and that they will concern themselves first in balancing the budget.

"If a Republican senate and a Republican president are willing to cooperate with us, that much time will be saved," the Texan said in a statement through the Democratic national committee.

Garner said it was of "primary importance in the present industrial and financial situation in balancing of the national budget" and that the solvency of the government "is the basis of prosperity."

He expects the government will borrow large sums during the winter for relief purposes.

New Rains Swell Flooded Streams

GLENDORA, Miss., Jan. 13. (AP)—Highway travel virtually was abandoned and railway traffic was greatly hampered throughout this flood-stricken area today as torrential rains swelled rivers to new high levels.

Thousands of new acres were flooded, but the inundation was not sudden or deep enough to threaten human life.

In the Ouachita valley of Louisiana, about half of West Monroe was under water, but only negro homes at the edges of Monroe proper were surrounded. Families in both cities were being moved out of threatened areas by boats, mule teams and tractors. In the Caddo oil district several wells were forced to shut down, but the crest of the flood there was believed to have been reached with Cypress river falling.

The higher water near Glendora was caused by heavy rains along the upper reaches of the Tallahatchie, Coldwater and Yalobusha rivers.

Body Found Hanging In Bexar County Jail

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 13. (AP)—The body of a man identified as F. L. Espino was found hanging from the bars of a cell on the first floor of the county jail this morning.

A cellmate found the body, which was suspended by a blanket tied around the neck and around the upper bars in the cell, according to Chief Deputy Sheriff Lawrence. Justice of the Peace Shook returned a verdict of suicide.

State Deaths

T. B. SANDERS

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 13.—Word has been received here of the death of T. B. Sanders, 51, who until very recently was a farmer living in the Elba community 20 miles northwest of Quanah, to which community he came from Ryan, Okla., in 1906.

Mr. Sanders died Sunday at the home of his son Jacy, in Kirkland, Childress county.

He is survived by his widow, three children: Jacy of Kirkland, Mrs. Jewell Hays and Warren Sanders, of Elba community; his parents of Ryan, Okla.; two brothers, one in Arkansas and Elbert of Hooleyann community Hardeman county; a sister in Tennessee and several grandchildren.

FRANK M'CLENDON

Special to The Record News

SUNSET, Texas, Jan. 13.—Frank McClendon, about 65, a farmer residing four miles north of Sunset, died Monday evening after a paralysis attack. He was buried in Brushy cemetery, seven miles north from here, Tuesday afternoon. He was living alone at his farm residence and a neighbor heard him calling for assistance and found him in a serious condition. Mr. McClendon came to this country from Scottsboro, Ala., 23 years ago and is survived by a number of relatives here and in Alabama.

ROARING STORM GRIPS ROCKIES

Sub-Zero Weather Brings Heavy Snows

DENVER, Jan. 13. (UP)—The storm lion roared through the Rocky mountains tonight after a lightning-fast weather change had driven the mercury from 61 degrees down to zero levels in 24 hours.

A blizzard engulfed the Indian empire of northern New Mexico spreading terror and suffering. The Indians who have predicted the most severe winter in years, said the snow would be "two Indians deep" before it abated.

A government nurse and doctor were trapped and stricken with pneumonia. A train carrying 12 passengers and a crew of five stalled in drifts at the Bighorn section house on Cumbres Pass, 10,000 feet above the sea.

The biting cold curtailed all but the most essential outdoor activity. Busses and airplanes ran hours late, battling the storm. Motorists hurried to shelter.

20 Below at Butte

In Butte the mercury slumped to 20 below. Highways there were virtually impassable, but workmen risked their lives to keep transcontinental roads open in Colorado and New Mexico.

An ice gorge choked the San Juan river in New Mexico and it overflowed. Great cakes of ice battered the Northern Navajo Indian agency at Shiprock.

Red snow was reported to have fallen at Durango. A correspondent said he melted flakes in his hand and pink water ran from them. Presumably it was formed by particles of red dust in the air.

Rescuers carried Tom Kenson, 23, through three feet of snow for six miles to save him from death in the sub-zero stretches of Cedar Swamp, near Plains, Mont., where he had become lost.

Kenson wandered in the swamp three days, he told his rescuers, before lapsing into unconsciousness.

Heroism Reported

The Indian country was the setting of two heroic attempts to succor the stricken.

A caterpillar snowplow set out from Ganado, Ariz., to take medical supplies to the trapped doctor and nurse, who were ill with Pneumonia at Chin Lee.

The nurse was Ruth Homer and the doctor R. S. Lipscomb who became snowbound while trying to reach their government post at the Fort Defiance Indian agency. They appealed for aid by telephone to Supt. John G. Hunter of the agency, who ordered out the snowplow with supplies.

A caravan of automobiles led by Dr. Frank R. Tippens, left Zuni, N. M., in an attempt to carry diphtheria serum to Ramah, 15 miles away over snow-covered mountain trails.

A 2-year-old boy died of the disease at Ramah last night, and Dr. Tippens feared an epidemic unless the serum is rushed.

Food supplies of the Indians at the storm-locked Zuni, Crown Point and Fort Defiance agencies were estimated to be sufficient for a week.

HOW TO VOTE

Roosevelt Organization In Texas Appeals For Support

DALLAS, Jan. 13. (AP)—Members of the state executive board of the "Roosevelt-for-President" organization have composed an appeal to Texas Democrats urging that they send to the national convention "delegates free from influence of special interests and favorable to Governor Franklin Roosevelt of New York."

"The people of Texas should understand that the only candidate at the national convention for whom there will be national support is Franklin Roosevelt," the appeal said. "If any other Democrat is nominated it will be accomplished only at the end of a prolonged, bitter contest, which will cost votes at the election in November."

Services Held For State Manager of W.O.W.

DALLAS, Jan. 13. (AP)—Funeral services for Robert Hood McDill, 61, state manager of the Woodmen of the World in Texas and a brigadier general in the Texas national guard during the world war, will be held here tomorrow. He died today.

McDill was born Feb. 11, 1871, at Wyandotte, Kan., and came to Texas in 1881 with his parents, attending school and beginning a business career in Fort Worth. Subsequently he moved to Dallas.

Survivors included his widow and a daughter, Mrs. R. J. Ransom of Richmond.

Laval Continues as Premier of France

PARIS, Jan. 13. (AP)—Pierre Laval, president Hoover's White House guest last autumn, was delegated tonight to succeed himself as premier of France.

Indications were he would be able speedily to reconstruct a cabinet by filling the gap caused by the death of War Minister Maginot and the at least temporary vacancy resulting from the illness of Aristide Briand, the veteran foreign minister.

It was predicted M. Laval himself would have another politician supplant him in his old post of minister of interior.

Capt. Hawks Stops at Tulsa on Air Tour

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 13. (AP)—Capt. Frank Hawks, speed flier making an inspection tour of a transcontinental air line, arrived here from Springfield and Kansas City at 4 p. m. He will spend the night here.

Hawks, with J. D. Jernigin and George Turner, who are accompanying him on the tour, will fly tomorrow to Commerce, Texas, Jernigin's home town, and spend the night there. On Friday the party will return to Oklahoma, taking up the air line route again at Oklahoma City.

ROSS HEARD IN BRIDGE SUIT

Governor Testifies About Contract Signing

AUSTIN, Jan. 13. (AP)—G. H. Penland, Dallas attorney, contradicted from the witness stand in the Travis county district court today statements made yesterday by Gov. R. S. Sterling concerning the circumstances attending the governor's signature to two contracts involving the free and toll bridges between Denison, Texas and Durant, Okla.

Introduction of testimony in a suit of the Red River Bridge company against the highway commission for $165,000 for alleged breach of the contracts was concluded today. Judge W. F. Robertson indicated he might carry the case over until the next term of court for decision.

Contracts Involved

Two contracts are involved in the suit. Under one the bridge company claimed $60,000 for the old toll bridge when the parallel free bridge was opened and under the other $105,000 in tolls lost through opening of the free bridge in violation of an agreement whereby the toll bridge was to have 14 months operation without competition from the free bridge.

Governor Sterling yesterday testified that he was unaware that W. R. Ely, a member of the highway commission, had refused to sign a contract for payment of $60,000, for the old toll bridge. The governor stated that the first he knew Ely had not signed the contract, was when a controversy over opening the free bridge arose last summer.

Governor Signed

The contracts were negotiated in the summer of 1930. Governor Sterling signed them at Gainesville, as chairman of the highway commission during his campaign for governor, testifying that his signature was conditioned on other members of the commission signing them. Cone Johnson, third member, signed the contract to pay $60,000, but Ely testified that he did not know such a contract existed until last summer during a fight on opening the free bridge.

Penland testified that he told Governor Sterling that Ely had refused to sign the $60,000 contract and that Governor Sterling read it and discussed it with him when Penland took the contracts to Gainesville for approval. Penland also quoted the governor as saying he thought the bridge company was entitled to a better settlement and that if he had been in a position to give the matter his personal attention, he would have arranged better terms. The governor also suggested that the matter be held open until after the campaign so that more satisfactory terms could be arranged, Penland testified.

Letter Barred

Governor Sterling testified yesterday that he had not read the contracts; that he made no statements to Penland that he thought the bridge company should have more money; that Penland had not told him Ely had refused to sign the $60,000 contract and that his signature was made on condition that it would be voided if the contract was not signed by other members.

Penland was acting as attorney for the bridge company.

Considerable argument over admissibility of a carbon copy of a letter from Penland to Governor Sterling, which the bridge company contended would show Sterling had knowledge of certain things he denied yesterday, resulted in Judge Robertson sustaining an objection to its introduction.

Pilot Lands Plane In Storm but Escapes Hurt

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 13. (UP)—Frank Cammer, Wenatchee, Wash. pilot escaped serious injury tonight when he made a forced landing on Council Crest in a snowstorm.

The plane was badly damaged, but Cammer was only bruised on the forehead. He was taken to a hotel by J. B. Harworth while police were searching the timbered heights for the missing pilot, believing he might have descended in a parachute.

Cammer said he might have weathered the gusty snow but an oil line broke as he was circling over Council Crest.

Majors to Open Season April 11

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (UP)—The major league baseball season will be opened at Washington, D. C., Monday, April 11, when President Hoover throws out the ball to start play between Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators, a joint statement from Presidents Heydler and Harridge of the National and American leagues announces.

Other teams in the leagues will begin officially their championship seasons on Tuesday, April 12, the statement said.

The Red Sox-Senators' game was advanced one day to give President Hoover the opportunity of opening the game. Mr. Hoover's schedule would prevent his officiating on Tuesday.

The major league season will continue for approximately 24 weeks and close on Sunday, Sept. 25.

American league openings will be Boston at Washington, New York at Philadelphia, St. Louis at Chicago and Cleveland at Detroit. In the National, Philadelphia will open at the Polo grounds, Boston at Brooklyn, Chicago at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh at St. Louis.

Memphis Out for Revenge Over Cary

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, Jan. 13.—Revenge will be the battle cry of the quintet from the local high school when they meet Cary on the Cary court Thursday night. Coach Walters is putting his charges through a hard pace this week inanticipation of a good game. The Cary cagers will return the game Friday night and the coach and players are determined to avenge the two defeats that they suffered at the hands of that team last year.

This is the last home game to be played by the locals before the conference begins. They will go to the Amarillo tournament next weekend and the conference will open next Monday with a game with the powerful Turks at Turkey. The Turks return the game Jan. 19. Jan. 25 and 26 Memphis plays the Estelline Cubs with the first game at Estelline. Memphis plays Lakeview the following Monday and Tuesday with the first game at Lakeview. This game closes the county "round robin" tournament. The Cyclones go to the Pampa tournament Feb. 5 and 6.

The team has a good record so far, with no defeats.

DEMOS LAUNCH MONEY DRIVE

'Victory Fund' Campaign Starts Tonight

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP)—With victory as their watchword, the kingpins of democracy will launch a drive for a $1,500,000 "fighting fund" with a series of 50 dinners tomorrow night.

In 33 states, Democratic senators, congressmen, governors and leaders who bear no elective titles will sound the call to battle.

Nearly 3,000 reservations have been made for the New York "victory dinner" to be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor.

John J. Davis, general chairman of the campaign, will preside. Addresses will be delivered by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, one of the party's potential nominees for the presidency, Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, and Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, majority leader of the house.

At Boston, where former Gov. Alfred E. Smith will be the principal speaker, more than 1,500 reservations have been made by New Englanders.

Dairy Truck Driver Disappears Mysteriously

DURANT, Okla., Jan. 13. (UP)—M. I. Nutt, 30-year-old dairy truck driver, disappeared mysteriously early today while making a delivery.

His truck, an empty purse and overcoat were found near the city limits but no trace had been found of the driver. There were no signs of violence, officers reported, saying they believed Nutt had been robbed and forced to accompany the bandit. About $25 he carried in the purse was missing.

Shows Bruises

Janina Smolinska, chosen Miss Poland in 1928, is shown above exhibiting bruises she charges were inflicted on her by her husband, Walter Grabowski, Hollywood business man who is suing her for divorce. Grabowski charges that she attacked him with "intent to do great bodily harm." She, in turn, charges that Grabowski attacked her.

Cotton Curb Law Urged in Carolina

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 13. (INS)—Adoption of legislation to reduce cotton acreage this year was urged before the South Carolina legislature today by Gov. Ibra C. Blackwood.

A reduction law to conform with plans adopted by Texas, Mississippi, and Arkansas was advocated by the governor.

The state already has on its statute books a law to prohibit the planting of cotton this year, but this law became inoperative when other states failed to follow suit.

The reduction law was seen as the last hope of the cotton farmer by Governor Blackwood.

The governor also recommended a law making bonded cotton warehouse receipts preferential collateral to secure deposits of state funds in banks. He declared banks, under such a law, would not be forced to buy bonds and other securities to obtain state deposits.

Abandoned Coal Mine Endangers Penitentiary

McALESTER, Okla., Jan. 13. (UP)—An abandoned coal mine shaft runs under the trusty building at the Oklahoma state penitentiary is endangering that structure. it was revealed today.

The passageway was abandoned several years ago. It is a cavern 50 feet deep, 250 feet long and 20 feet square. An automobile was found in the debris at the bottom of the hole.

Officials said no mine passageways are under the main penitentiary buildings.

GOOD NEWS FOR THOSE WHO LIKE COFFEE

"I like a good cup of coffee with every meal but I used to suffer when I drank it," says Edward J. Owens, well-known salesman of 86 Falmouth Street, Boston, Mass.

"I would have sick headaches; would belch, leaving a sour taste in my mouth, gas on my stomach, and terrible indigestion.

"I tried many things before my druggist persuaded me to take some Pape's Diapepsin.

"I have a better appetite. Now, I can drink coffee even late at night, eat lobsters, pork or anything I want and sleep like a baby."

PRISON CRIME REPORTS MADE

Murder and Beatings in Ohio Pen Charged

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 13. (AP)—Reports that one prisoner was murdered in his cell and that others were beaten by guards were presented today to the senate investigating charges of cruelty in the Ohio penitentiary.

Leona Marie Esch, executive secretary of the Association for Criminal Justice, Cleveland, said reports were received by her organization that Bobby Hunt, a Cleveland prisoner, was allowed by guards to burn to death in his cell several years ago.

Hunt burned to death in his solitary confinement cell, Miss Esch said, when a guard refused to free him.

Miss Esch said the warden told her Hunt was burned to death when he set fire to his bed.

Full-Bonus Hearing Asked of Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—A formal request was made today of the house ways and means committee to open hearings on bills to pay the soldiers' bonus in full as early as possible.

Representative Connery, Democrat, Massachusetts, made the request in behalf of himself and Representative Patman, Democrat, Texas, sponsors of the legislation.

Chairman Collier said the matter "will be taken up when we get to it."

Newport News

Special to The Record News.

NEWPORT, Texas, Jan. 13.—Homer Smith, groceryman of Truce five miles south of here is moving his grocery stock here this week and will continue to engage in the grocery business in Newport. He is occupying the Bransford store building on the west side and he and his family will live in the Gardner residence in the south part of town.

J. L. Harlow has opened up a new blacksmith shop in Newport and will do general blacksmith and wood work for the farmers throughout the year.

The monthly trades day here Saturday drew a large crowd to town and the jockey yard was crowded with horses and mules all during the day. Many exchanges were made during the day. Trades day is sponsored by the business men of the town. Other attractions will be added later to make the day a greater success.

Governor Murray's Brother Plans To Enter 'Bill' in N. Dakota Race

BISMARCK, N. D., Jan. 13. (AP)—A brother of Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma today said he expected the latter would be a Democratic presidential candidate in the North Dakota primary election, March 15. The brother, George T. Murray of Berthold, N. D., came here to learn how to enter the governor in the contest.

George Murray will attend the state Democratic convention at Valley City tomorrow but only as a spectator. He expects the convention to endorse Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York but believes his brother "will have more appeal to the common people."

Murray said he expects his brother to visit North Dakota for at least three addresses before the primary election.

Three-Legged Rooster And Double Egg Shown at Quanah

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Jan. 13.—Two freaks of poultry were exhibited here this week, one a three-legged rooster, the other an egg-within-an-egg.

A rooster with three legs was on display on the streets of Quanah this week, by A. T. Cummings, owner of the bird.

The third leg is of almost perfect development, but grew out in such position that it does not touch the ground when the bird walks. The big rooster is not hampered in moving about by the extra leg, according to Mr. Cummings.

An Orpington hen on the farm of G. W. Ford, who lives about ten miles southwest of Quanah, laid an egg within an egg last week. The outer egg is about the size of a goose egg, and has a well developed yolk. It contains an ordinary egg with a perfectly formed shell.

Texas Natural Gas Described as 'Sour'

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. (AP)—Mayor I. N. Baughman of Marseilles, Ill., attempted to show the Illinois Commerce commission today that the Natural Gas Pipe Line Company of America purchased thousands of acres of "sour" gas lands in Texas in order to boost its investment costs and justify high rates to consumers.

A customer, the Peoples' Gas Light and Coke company, is seeking to make permanent a 6 per cent reduction in rates to Chicago consumers after changing from manufactured to natural gas.

Baughman tried to show that a large portion of the 344,580 acres bought in Texas produced "sour" or sulphurous gas unfit for pipe line use. The mayor also tried to show that combined gas companies presented varying figures to Kansas and to Illinois courts as to the life of natural gas fields making their financial set ups. Gallagher denied it.

Fire on Steamship Causes Two-Hour Fight

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP)—Fire in an air duct leading from the engine room of the Clyde Mallory liner Cherokee resisted the efforts of firemen for nearly two hours before it was extinguished today.

The ship had docked this morning and all of its 49 passengers had disembarked before the fire was discovered. Fire officials said little damage resulted to the ship.

WATERWAY REJECTED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—The war department has advised congress against projected improvement of a waterway from Harlingen, Texas, to the Gulf of Mexico.

Shouse to Address Demos in Chicago

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. (INS)—Hurling a broadside at the Republican party, Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, arrived here today to speak at a "victory" campaign dinner local Democrats are to hold tomorrow night.

"The policies of the Hoover administration have plunged the country into its present condition," Shouse declared. "The Republican tariff is directly responsible for the depression. The people of the country are ready to repudiate the Republican party and its leadership under Hoover."

Shouse arrived from Washington accompanied by Robert I. Ennis of Baltimore. Ennis is a close associate of Gov. Albert G. Ritchie of Maryland, a leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Mr. Hoover will be nominated," Shouse predicted, "but the Republican party will do it sullenly and unwillingly and with a presentiment of defeat. All the recent congressional elections show a trend toward democracy."

Sumners Uses Gavel Presented by Texans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Representative Hatton W. Sumners of Dallas opened the first formal meeting as chairman of the judiciary committee with a gavel presented by the American Legion post at Garland. Three Minute Relief From Your Headache

When you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, you can get soothing relief in three minutes with "B.C.," a reliable, pleasant acting remedy.

"B.C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time.

"B.C" should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia; for reducing fever and quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. Get "B.C." wherever drugs are sold in 10c and 25c packages.—Adv.

In the social hour, dainty refreshments were served to Mesdames John Barnard, Arthur Clark, Dick Davis, V. A. Fisher, J. C. Foster, Van Lesley, Sam Mann, Goddard, P. K. Smith and Misses Mary Joe Kell, Jane Moore and Elizabeth Carrigan.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Get a group of grown women together who are determined to be hilarious and they will create more merriment than a bunch of school girls. This dignified and sedate columnist was surrounded lately at a luncheon by a number of ladies who head important functions in the city, but who embarrassed her by their frivolity.

◇ ◇ ◇

One lovely creature announced that she always did just what she wanted to do and when her neighbor said "I am just dying to, but I cannot," the first lady said gravely "Don't you know you should not suppress desires in that way?"

◇ ◇ ◇

From doing what they wanted to do, the question rose of having what they wanted to have, and a lady who is abundantly cared for and who will undoubtedly always be well looked after, said "Well if my husband should die and not take care of me in his will, I'd—I'd marry the next day."

◇ ◇ ◇

"You're more fortunate than most of us," one answered her. "It isn't every one who could marry the next day." A demure lady who had been keeping quiet, said gravely "Go out and stamp on his grave."

◇ ◇ ◇

"The Apple Cart" came in for its share of discussion. Not one of the group—though all supposed to be what are called "highbrows," had cared greatly for the play.

◇ ◇ ◇

"I had a terrible crush on the king," a lady noted for her cleverness remarked, "but after he made that long speech, he became just a mouthpiece for Bernard Shaw."

◇ ◇ ◇

Mr. Shaw, who thrives on disapproval, would have delighted in the criticisms offered. But the fatal truth remains that it was the crooked shanks and bow legs of the men, the dyed hair and curled wig, of the ladies, the too many pounds of the queen and the too evident age of the king's mistress that won most disapproval.

◇ ◇ ◇

People love beauty above all things. Just today a letter has come to me that is a cry for beauty. I heard music that would move any heart at the forum luncheon Tuesday. This letter is from a girl of 11, the daughter of a widow, who has a voice and who wants to learn to sing.

◇ ◇ ◇

"If some bighearted man or woman would just educate my voice or hands," she writes, "so I could take care of my mother. Give me a chance to make good. If you do not see talent in me, I will say nothing."

◇ ◇ ◇

I have heard that the child has a voice equal in volume to that of a woman. I have never heard it. But I know what it is to yearn toward books and music and all that is beautiful and one who has talent must be more hungry than I have ever been.

◇ ◇ ◇

The child is waiting a reply. I wonder if a lover of music sympathizes with one who loves music as much as she seems to do.

Junior Travel Club Hears Unusual Operatic Program

Mrs. David G. Gray was hostess to members of the Junior Travel club Wednesday in her handsome home in Electra where, with Mrs. Jozach Easley as leader, an unusual program was given.

Mrs. Easley presented her assistants very charmingly, naming Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Maurice J. Adams and Miss Maurine Adams.

Mrs. Gray paved the way to a beautiful operatic program by reading a description of Allan Beig's "Wezzech," an outstanding opera in the modern style.

Mrs. Easley conducted the group on an operatic tour, taking them first to Austria, telling the story of "The Bohemian Girl," and singing the solo parts in the pretty opera. Mrs. Adams accompanied her and then accompanied Miss Maurine Adams, who danced Bohemian dances in costume.

The story of Tanhauser was next told by Mrs. Easley and with Mrs. Adams accompanying, she sang solo numbers. Miss Adams, charmingly dressed in German costume, did native German dances.

The third opera was in Spain, where after telling the story of Il Trovatore, Mrs. Easley sang and Miss Adams danced the Spanish dances. Mrs. Easley's lovely songs, Miss Adams' exquisite dancing and Mrs. Adams as a splendid accompanist, furnished a program of real charm.

Mrs. Gray served a delicious plate to members and guests present, including Mesdames O. T. Alles, Clyde J. Brannan, Walter Hugh Caldwell, F. T. Datson, E. A. Deaton, E. T. Duff, C. G. Hughes, John Humphrey, D. O. Johnson, H. C. Lankford, W. A. McCarty, W. J. Morgareidge, Wayne Somerville, G. H. Watson, E. K. Wilson, Luther Wright, Jozach Easley, Grover C. Johnson, Mrs. Maurice Adams and Miss Adams.

Lamar Baptist Young People Meet Tuesday

Members of the Lamar Avenue Baptist young people's organizations met at the church Tuesday evening with Mrs. S. F. Martin as leader. Following the opening songs, a special prayer was given for a church member ill in the hospital by Cooper Waters. Mrs. E. F. Kemmerly gave an inspiring devotional on "Friends," after which Mrs. Martin presented the efficiency banners to the intermediate R. A., G. A. and Y. W. A. organizations.

Five members of the W. C. U. met and after the opening prayer, missionary work in China and Japan was discussed by the members.

The Y. W. A. had 10 members present and two visitors. Mrs. E. L. Kemmerly gave the opening prayer and Miss Jimmie Lloyd, the president, had charge of the business meeting. All members were urged to bring fruit to the next Tuesday evening meeting, to be taken to the hospitals as the personal service work for January.

Miss Jane McGrady had charge of the mission program under the topic "The Church Covenant." Mrs. J. O. Vinson, Misses Ozella Foster, Maggie Mason, Jimmie Lloyd, Dolores West and Mrs. E. L. Kemmerly assisted in the program. Miss Ozella Foster gave the closing prayer.

Mrs. A. J. Catlin was in charge of the intermediate G. A., in the absence of Miss Grace Ponder, and gave the opening prayer. A nominating committee was appointed and they were requested to send flowers to T. F. McGinty, who is quite ill in the hospital. Misses Adene Wood, Helen Blakely, Roberta Willingham had charge of the mission program and the closing prayer was said by Miss Wood.

Henry Rutherford called the intermediate R. A. to order and Dr. R. W. Rutherford gave the devotional. The opening prayer was said by Allen Moody.

The mission topic was "The Church of Tomorrow," and those taking part were Henry Rutherford, Cecil Bozeman, J. D. Walker and Rhea Edward Rutherford. Carl Hargis gave the closing prayer.

Mrs. L. C. Blakely gave the opening prayer for the junior G. A., nine members being present. Every member present had a part on the program topic, "Your Church and My Church." The closing prayer was said by Marjorie Beth Jennings.

The meeting of the Sunbeams was opened by the Sunbeam song and Mrs. Fred L. Cone gave the opening prayer. Mrs. L. R. Hall was in charge of the business session during which it was planned to bring fruit for the hospitals at the next meeting as the personal service work for January.

Mrs. L. R. Hall taught a mission study lesson from "The Call Drum," and silent prayer dismissed 14 members.

The Age of FAT Need No Longer Be Feared

Soon after 30, multitudes of people gain excess fat. Many at earlier ages. A great reason lies in a weakened gland, which largely controls nutrition. Food that should create fuel and energy goes to fat.

Since this discovery, doctors the world over feed this gland factor to the over-fat. Slender figures all around you are due to this method now.

In Tablet Form

Marmola prescription tablets present this new-day method in ideal form. A famous laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen in every circle. Those slender figures, now so common, are not due to starving.

Every box contains the formula. So users know, and doctors know, just how Marmola acts. You are taking in Marmola what the best physicians use.

Fight fat in this modern way. Combat the cause. Take Marmola—four tablets daily—until weight comes down to normal. As the fat goes, watch your vim come back. Then tell your friends what did it. Don't wait longer—start this right way now.

Art Of Economy Features Annual Auxiliary Dinner

Members of the Wichita County Medical auxiliary were entertained Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. C. R. Hartsook in an annual dinner that emphasized unique features. Mesdames Gordon Clark of Iowa Park, O. T. Kimbrough, J. A. Heyman, R. E. Hilburn, H. D. Prichard and Wm. Rosenblatt were joint hostesses with Mrs. Hartsook.

Use of the same foods furnished to needy families of the city supplied a delightful dinner. Salt pork was freshened, dipped in egg and cornmeal and crisped; pinto beans were served with rings of onions which had been sliced, scalded, then crisped in cold water and covered with a dressing of salt, pepper, sugar and vinegar. Scalloped tomatoes, stuffed, baked Irish potatoes, cabbage slaw and hot biscuits served with syrup completed the main dinner and a delicious dessert was upside down cake made from dried apricots, the syrup from the stewed fruit being used for a delightful sauce.

The dinner was served buffet style, the lace covered table with silver candle holders and a center of Christmas flowers, making a beautiful setting.

No program was announced but Dr. O. T. Kimbrough came in with a group of negro spirituals and little Peggy Kimbrough followed with a charming tap dance with Mrs. Wm. Rosenblatt accompanying. In the quiet after this number, singing was heard in the kitchen, and directly Baldwin Montgomery, and Misses Harriet Bradley and Lorene Tucker wandered in, gay in their gypsy costumes. Miss Tucker accompanied while each vocalist sang a solo number and also in the beautiful Verdi duet "Home to Our Mountains," from Il Trovatore. A group of clever tap dances by L. N. Herzog and little Billie Murph concluded the novel program, in which each number was given by strolling musicians.

Billie Murph and Peggy Kimbrough distributed hand blocked bean bags as favors, the skull and cross bones making high lights on the black background.

Officers Elected

In a short business meeting following the program, officers for the new year were elected. Mrs. G. T. Singleton was named president and other officers included Mrs. Q. B. Lee, vice president; Mrs. J. B. Nail, recording secretary; Mrs. M. A. Beckman, coresponding secretary, and Mrs. W. P. Lowrey, treasurer.

Members of the auxiliary and their guests who enjoyed the delightful evening were Mesdames Curtis Atkinson, M. A. Beckman, J. M. Bell, Gordon Clark, Iowa Park; F. R. Collard, J. C. A. Guest, R. L. Hargrave, C. R. Hartsook, J. A. Heyman, R. E. Hilburn, L. B. Holland, O. T. Kimbrough, H. P. Ledford, Q. B. Lee, W. P. Lowrey, T. P. Lynch, J. A. Little, Wallace Masters, T. C. Lynch, J. B. Nail, W. L. Parker, C. E. Mangum, H. D. Prichard, G. T. Singleton, P. K. Smith, C. W. Stevenson, D. R. Venable, Carrie Wilcox, L. C. Tyson, Clark A. Wilcox, D. Meredith, Henrietta; William Rosenblatt, Paul Conner of Archer City, Mrs. Godcelon of Little Rock, Ark., and Miss Helvey of Gainesville, Texas.

P.-T. A. Program Stresses Value Of Cooperation

"Learning as a Part of Life" was the program theme when members of the high school and Junior college P.-T. A. met at the school Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Albert Owen was in charge of the program and pupils from the public speaking classes gave interesting numbers. "The Value of Training in Public Speaking" was discussed by Charlotte Joiner and Oral Jones Jr., gave a clever impersonation showing what such training can do.

Dean Rider gave an interesting talk on "Our Changing High School Curriculum," and Mrs. Harry J. Strief talked on "Teaching in Terms of Habits, Attitudes and Ideals in the Home."

Members of the Blue Curtain club gave a skit from the play which they will present Thursday evening at the school, the proceeds to go to defray expenses in the inter-collegiate and inter-scholastic meets. Miss Juanita Kinsey, head of the public speaking department, is directing the play and it was announced that tickets are on sale at Renfro Drug store, Eighth and Scott, and also with members of the P.-T. A.

Mrs. T. R. Boone gave the inspiring devotional opening the meeting and Mrs. Harry ten Brink, president, was in the chair during the business meeting.

Our Children

So Sensitive

"I've called about my daughter Mollie. She's in Miss Singer's class.

"Yes, I know Mollie. What is it you are troubled about?"

"I wish you'd speak to Miss Singer and tell her she must make the children stop calling her names."

"Calling Mollie names? Why Mollie is in the first year of high school. Only babies call names. What—"

"You don't understand. Mollie is very sensitive. She is a very nervous child and always wants to be perfect. She never makes a mistake if she can help it. She feels dreadfully if she does. Cries all night. Well, this morning she missed a question in history. She said something wrong and the children all laughed at her and so did the teacher. I don't think the teacher ought to laugh at a child's mistakes, especially such a sensitive child as Mollie."

"What was the mistake, do you know?"

"She was asked about William Penn and she didn't understand the question and she said he was a cavalier and the teacher said, "You mean a Quaker" and she said, "Yes, a Quaker cavalier" and they all laughed. Now Mollie is very sensitive and she says she won't go back to that class until the teacher apologizes and I think she's right. I want Miss Singer to apologize to my daughter for laughing at her."

"That wouldn't help your daughter the least bit. It would make her worse. The children and the teacher didn't laugh at her mistake. They laughed at her mental attitude. She didn't know her lesson but she was bound to be right. Instead of saying I don't know, she added Quaker to cavalier and that was too much. Mollie is thinking so much about herself, so much about what people think, that she hasn't time to attend to her real business. What we have to do is to find a way to teach her that her thinking is important. Not what other people think. What she thinks.

"If Mollie misses a spelling word she cries. If she is last on a line, she cries. If she isn't appointed chairman of a group she weeps. She pities herself so much that she is forgetting how to laugh. Teach her to laugh at herself and the rest of the class won't have a chance to laugh at her."

It is a mistake to encourage children to exaggerate their feelings. More unhappy lives have been brought about by self pity, self love than we can count. Life is never sterilized. It is never smooth. It is never secure. It is an adventure and the children should be sent out in that attitude. Take the day as it comes. Make the most of it. Do your best and squeeze just as much fun out of the process as you can. Don't stop to look at yourself or you will be sorry. Nobody ever got a real glimpse of himself yet without feeling pretty bad about it. Just keep looking ahead, pushing ahead, going ahead and forget yourself.

This sensitivity is not the real article. It is a screen for human weakness. When you see it in a child search for the cause and do your best to put strength in the place of weakness and the tears, self pity and self love will vanish in ripples of laughter.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Jury Studies Testimony In Insurance Suit

Evidence in the suit of Frank Keil and Lakeside park against the Independent Indemnity company for insurance in connection with an alleged $1,500 robbery last summer was still being studied by a jury in the 89th district court Wednesday evening. The jury adjourned at 5 p. m. until 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

The safe at the office of the Lakeside Park company was robbed of $1,500 last July, according to the plaintiff's pleading. Recovery of insurance to cover is the object of the suit.

Dirigible Akron Proves Airworthy In Winter Storms

LAKEHURST, N. J., Jan. 13. (AP)—Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, in command of the Akron, is preparing a report for the navy department which will say that the past week-end flight of the dirigible proved pretty conclusively she was able to navigate without a hitch under the worst conditions winter offers.

Lieutenant Commander Rosendahl said today the Akron, flying south for maneuvers with the Atlantic scouting fleet, encountered weather conditions which would have meant disaster for a less air worthy craft. A tail wind froze the snow and moisture on her vast surfaces until she carried a tremendous load of ice.

The Akron returned to her hangar here yesterday morning.

Writers Club

Starting an intensive study of the short story, members of the Junior college Writers club in regular session Wednesday afternoon heard the first discussion of the series, "How to Find Material for Short Stories," by Miss Bernice Trevathan.

Miss Katherine Crocker discussed about 13 different types of short stories in a descriptive and illustrated talk following Miss Trevathan's discussion.

Another feature of the program was a play, "Better Late Than Never," which Miss Laurette Erwin, president of the group, concluded recently after the one-act play studies of the club had been finished.

Billy Jenkins, who specializes in sports stories, was admitted as a member of the club after he had submitted one of his stories for approval by the members.

Speakers Club

Rev. Finis A. Crutchfield, minister of the Floral Heights Methodist church emphasized as his theme the importance of speech in a talk to members of the high school Speakers' club Wednesday morning.

Miss Joan Fox gave a musical reading, accompanied at the piano by Miss Juanita Kinsey.

French Club

The junior college French club held no meeting Wednesday, but the members of the organization are anticipating some fun next week after the final examinations are all off the calendar. Members of the club plan to join members of the college Spanish club and probably some other organization of the college in staging a dance next Thursday night to make enough money to finance pages in the Wai-Kun, college annual.

Art Club

Bobby Vigus addressed members of the Art club of the high school on "Picture Show Advertising" at a meeting Wednesday morning.

Other numbers of the program were entertainment features. Miss Sibyl Herring gave two readings, "The New Piano" and "The Murder." The high school boys' quartet, directed by Hermione Stewart Vaughn, sang several numbers. The four boys are Quinn Holder, J. Paul Lynn, Ed Silk and Bill Huff.

Vernon McDaniel was in charge of the program.

Senate Program

E. S. Bolton, history instructor in the Wichita Falls High school addressed members of the Senate on "Imperialism in the United States" at the regular Tuesday night meeting of that junior college organization.

In his talk he reviewed various accessions of territory of the United States with the motives in each case. The speaker gave a review of the present situation in this country's insular possessions and in Central America.

Rowan Fisher gave his admission talk on "The Presidential Outlook for 1932." He predicted Democratic success in the economic situation.

Keith Porterfield discussed briefly the proposed impeachment of Andrew Mellon. S. C. Authony talked on the Norris resolution to abolish the "lame duck" session in congress.

The members discussed plans to stage in general assembly a George Washington pageant.

SEYMOUR BIBLE CLASS FEASTS

Annual Banquet of Men of Baptist Church Held

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Jan. 13.—The Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church held its annual banquet Tuesday evening in the hall of the new $12,000 educational building. Bert King of Wichita Falls was principal speaker, while F. H. Bunkley was master of ceremonies.

Near 200 Baptist men and their wives were served a dish prepared exclusively by the men. It was called "county-attorney," perhaps in honor of Mr. King who at one time held that office in this county. Regardless of the elite name given it favored the well known cowboy dish called "Son-'o-Gun." Head chef Gen Culver refused to state what it contained. Head waiter J. O. Butler offered a prize of a second dish to one who could name it—but it continued a mystery. The dessert plate contained the old-fashioned fried pie.

The program called for a quartet of Arch Holmes, Lee Harris, George Smith and Robert Jones. Rev. J. R. Balch, pastor was responsible for the most complete definition for the plates served. O. C. Harrison, Banner editor, spoke on the subject of "Hash." Wesley Harrison, spoke the words of welcome.

Mr. King spoke on the subject, "Keep Plowing." He stated that the world had seen much more troublesome times than the present, but that man had always been able to finish on top, because he continued to plow or pray.

Among those present were the honor guest, Mrs. Bert King, of Wichita Falls, Mrs. H. H. Fancher, and Mrs. Otho Harrison, being the birthday of the latter two.

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Felt Terribly Nervous

Fagged out . . . always melancholy and blue. She should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Its tonic action builds up the system. Try it.

When children won't eat—and won't gain weight—

Try This!

The youngster who has no appetite, probably has stasis. A little fig syrup will soon correct this condition—then watch the child eat—and gain!

Mothers should never coax a child to eat. Nature knows best. Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite—get rid of stasis. Children who don't eat are sluggish. Read what the "California treatment" is doing for sluggish, listless children in every part of the country!

A Pound a Week

Your child will eat well from the day and hour you conquer sluggishness. But that girl or boy with furry tongue and a bad breath should not be dosed with salts!

Begin tonight, with enough pure fig syrup to cleanse the colon thoroughly. Less tomorrow, then every other day, or twice a week, until the appetite, digestion, weight, complexion, tell you the stasis is gone. When a cold or other ailment has again clogged the system, fig syrup will soon set things to right.

When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, California fig syrup will gently stimulate the colon muscles—and the child you used to coax to eat will fairly devour his food.

Just One If—The claims made for California Fig Syrup are true and it will do the same for you—IF you get genuine CALIFORNIA fig syrup. Don't accept any of the substitutes.

SINCLAIR AND PRAIRIE AGREE

Big Merger Deal to Be Ratified March 1

By BERNARD S. O'HARA
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—An agreement on terms for a merger of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, Prairie Oil and Gas company, and the Prairie Pipe Line company was announced today, concluding negotiations extending over the past year.

The plan will be submitted to stockholders of the three companies for their ratification at special meetings to be held March 1. The agreement provides the Sinclair Consolidated corporation shall absorb the other two companies, and the former's name will be changed to the Consolidated Oil corporation.

To Issue New Stock

The new company will issue about 14,200,000 shares of stock which will be exchanged share for share for the present stock of Sinclair Consolidated and Prairie Oil and Gas, and on the basis of 13 shares for each 10 shares of Prairie Pipe Line.

Officers of the new corporation will include Harry F. Sinclair as chairman of the executive committee, W. S. Fitzpatrick, vice chairman of the executive committee, Earl W. Sinclair, chairman of the finance committee, and H. R. Gallagher, president.

Mr. Fitzpatrick is the head of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, and Mr. Gallagher is vice president of the Shell Oil company of California.

The combined assets of the merged companies, after giving effect to adjustments necessary properly to reflect the relative values of their properties, total $532,516,622, reflecting substantial writedowns of book values of a year ago. The announcement of the plan said it was contemplated the consolidated enterprise should begin operation with a capitalization based upon property values conforming to present economic conditions.

Ratification Assured

It is believed in Wall street the ratification of the merger by the stockholders will be a mere formality.

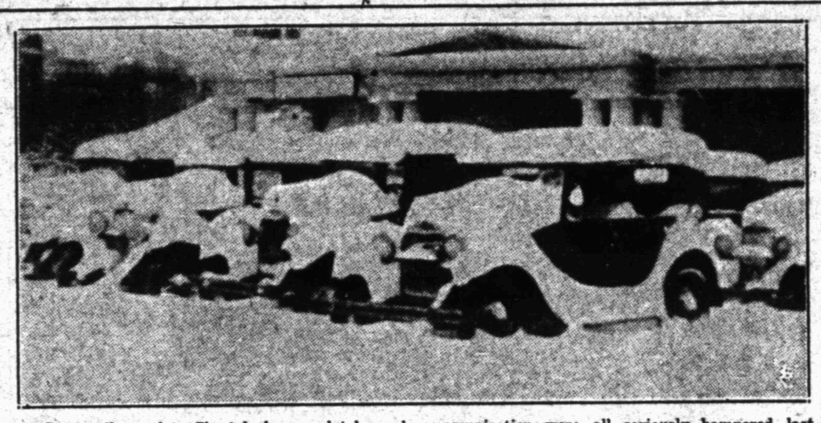
Sinclair has refineries with an aggregated capacity of more than 130,000 barrels a day, and it markets more than a billion gallons of gasoline a year.

Prairie Oil and Gas primarily is a crude oil producing, storing and marketing organization while Prairie Pipe operates an extensive system of pipe lines, extending from the gulf to Wood river, St. Louis and also to a point near Chicago.

The Sinclair consolidation is the second large merger to be effected in the oil industry in the last six months, the other being the Vacuum Oil-Standard Oil of New York deal.

On the basis of the statement of assets and liabilities the new company will rank sixth among the large units.

Here's Amarillo After 15.4 Inches of Snow Last Week



Panhandle road traffic, telephone and telegraph communication were all seriously hampered last week, and train service was slightly impaired, when snow ranging from 10 to 15 inches in depth covered the whole area. Farmers believe the snow will be of unilimited benefit to wheat, however, and stock was all in good shape, it was reported. Picture is a street scene in Amarillo after the big snow.

Patman Promises Proof of Charges Mellon Is Guilty of Malfeasance

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Evidence that Andrew W. Mellon is guilty of fraud and corruption was promised the house judiciary committee today by Representative Wright Patman as he opened argument on his resolution seeking the treasury head's impeachment.

Three times during the hour and a half presentation, the Texas Democrat said malfeasance in office would be shown "before I get through." Each time he was replying to Republican committee members who asked if corruption was alleged.

Answers Questions

Again when Representative Michener, Michigan, Republican, asked why he had not taken his charges to the justice department, Patman said abruptly:

"If the department of justice has let him run rough shod over the law like I charge he has done, what reason have I to believe it would prosecute him in a criminal case?"

This statement was stricken out of the record on the suggestion of Chairman Sumners, after an argument among committee members on its relevancy. Representative Dyer, Missouri, Republican, said evidently it had been made because the attorney general is a Republican.

Mellon Represented

Mellon was not present but was represented by Alexander W. Gregg and D. D. Shepard. Gregg formerly was solicitor of the treasury's international revenue bureau, while Shepard came down from Pittsburgh, Mellon's home, for the hearing.

Patman began with the statute of 1789 forbidding secretaries of the treasury from engaging "directly or indirectly" in trade or commerce.

He quoted a letter written by Mellon in 1929 to Senator Reed, Pennsylvania Republican, saying his stock ownership in such companies as the Aluminum Company of America and the Gulf Oil company was less than a majority of the voting stock.

"I not only alleged he has been directly concerned with carrying on business," he said, "but I believe I can prove he has directly concerned himself with it."

Twice during the hearing Gregg interposed he was willing to concede minority stockholdings in companies mentioned by Patman and the Texan himself once said:

"If Mellon owns anything personally, I don't know it; it is all through stock ownership."

DEATH CLAIMS PIONEER TEXAN

J. W. Coffee, 76, Wilbarger Settler Succumbs

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Jan. 13.—J. W. Coffee, 76, pioneer resident of Wilbarger county, died at his home here early Wednesday afternoon following prolonged ill health.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday from the First Methodist church. Dr. W. M. Pearce, the pastor, will officiate, assisted by Dr. E. L. Moore of the Federated Presbyterian church. Burial will be in East View cemetery.

Mr. Coffee had been a resident of this county for 46 years, coming here from Illinois in 1886. Upon his arrival in this section he became employed as a cowboy and served as foreman of a ranch in north Wilbarger owned by Dick Neal. Later he operated a grocery in the Doans community. Following his service about 15 years ago as deputy sheriff here, he became associated with the Gulf Production company as agent. In recent years, until his retirement more than a year ago, he was connected with the Panhandle Refining company.

He is survived by his widow; two sons, R. H. and R. L. Coffee, both prominent business men of Vernon; and three daughters, Mrs. H. R. Kuhn and Mrs. J. O. Petty of Vernon, and Mrs. C. E. Petty of Tipton, Okla.

A Birmingham, Ala., woman agreed to accept a reduction in her monthly alimony "until times get better."

Jap Marines Leave Scene of Mob Riot

SHANGHAI, Jan. 14. (Thursday) (US)—Withdrawal of Japanese marines at Tsingtao to control a Japanese mob that wrecked a Chinese newspaper plant and burned down the local nationalist headquarters began today as calm was restored.

The main body of the Japanese landing force of 500 men re-embarked on warships in the harbor when the Chinese mayor assured the Japanese consul that Chinese police could handle the situation.

MELLON, MILLS ASK TAX RAISE

Treasury Chiefs Testify On Big Deficit

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Administration plans to balance the government's budget through increased taxation and economies as the necessary step to maintain unimpaired federal credit were unfolded today by Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Mills of the treasury.

Appearing as the first witness before the Democratic house ways and means committee that will formulate new revenue legislation, they said in no uncertain terms that additional revenue was imperative to keep the government on a sound financial basis.

Quit Borrowing

They stressed that the government would abandon on June 30 borrowing money through bond issues for operating expenses. Terming the practice of increasing the public debt unwise and unsound, both said it was necessary to restore confidence in the credit structure of the nation and to dispel fear over the economic situation.

In a psepared statement, the aged secretary of the treasury cited the big treasury deficits, adding he could not "over emphasize the importance of retrenchment." He said increased revenue was essential, "not just to cover current expenditures but to maintain unimpaired the credit of the United States government."

"It is an indispensable step in our progress toward recovery," Mellon warned "we are in the midst of a grave crisis," he added.

Stay All Day

Walking together, Mellon and Mills entered the big committee room early in the day, trailed by a retinue of experts. They remained until late in the day when the hearings were adjourned.

At the outset, the secretary said a $2,123,000,000 deficit confronted the treasury this year and a prospective deficit of $1,417,000,000 next year. Last year the deficit was $903,000,000.

The administration's tax increase program, which carried no general sales tax nor recommendations in the capital gains and loss provision of the income tax, he said, should net $920,000,000 in the next fiscal year, and $390,000,000 during the remainder of the present year.

"Under existing conditions, the task of bringing our budget into balance is by no means an easy one and involves not only self-denial but some measure of sacrifice," Mellon said. "Yet it is possible to attain this objective if we address ourselves resolutely to the task of drastically reducing expenditures, refusing to take on additional obligations save those that are absolutely necessary and by drawing on available resources through increased taxation."

Scientists and Physicians Claim 4 Per Cent Beer Helps Human Body

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—Testimony that beer containing 4 per cent alcohol would help rather than harm the human system if taken moderately was given by scientists and physicians today before the senate manfactures subcommittee at hearings on the Bingham bill to legalize such a beverage.

Dr. Graham Lusk, professor of physiology at Cornell university, described such beer as a "good thing for poor people" and as making "bad food taste good."

He said only "individual hogs" indulged in excesses which caused pathological effects and agreed with the author of the measure, Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, that a "fatty degeneration of the heart" could be caused by a person eating 20 sausages a day as easily as drinking to excess.

Professor Francis G. Benedict, director of the Carnegie institute's nutrition laboratory at Boston, told of experiments which he said showed alcohol, taken moderately, had food qualities in "calories easily assimilable."

Dr. Francis E. Fronczak, health commissioner of Buffalo, said deaths from alcoholism had decreased 50 per cent in Buffalo since the peace bridge to Canada was opened.

This, he said, permitted thousands of persons who previously went to the city parks and drank "bad whisky" on Sundays and holidays to go across the border and obtain "good beer." He said deaths from alcoholism the year following the bridge opening were 40 compared with 80 before.

Officials Seek To Void License Law

HOUSTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—A suit challenging the constitutionality of the state automobile license tax law is scheduled to go to trial here tomorrow in district court.

The four Harris county commissioners seek to have the law held invalid for its allegedly inequitable apportionment of the fees as between the various counties and the state.

The petition alleged the law discriminates against the larger counties in the state, and that through its operation 195 counties pay nothing to the state of what they collect in license fees.

Shortly after the suit was filed, the court granted a temporary injunction restraining Tax Collector J. W. Hall, the defendant, from sending to the state highway department any license fees collected in Harris county.

CHICAGO AID BILL KILLED

Measure for Cook County Relief Voted Down

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 13. (UP)—A narrow vote in the house today killed the compromise plan for Chicago financial relief when the legislature voted down a bill to reform the Cook county assessing system.

The vote came in the early hours of morning after a stormy 11-hour debate.

Opposition to the measure which had been passed by the senate and approved almost unanimously by Chicago civic and financial leaders came from supporters of two candidates for the gubernatorial nomination.

Republican backers of former Gov. Len Small who again seeks governorship and members of the Democratic machine of Michael Igoe with similar ambitions combined to defeat the relief bill.

It was feared the action would indefinitely delay legislative action in the crisis which threatens Chicago with bankruptcy and distress.

Igoe, a Democratic national committeeman and house minority leader climaxed the debate with a one-hour denunciation of the bill as "taxation without representation."

The reform strikes directly at the heart of self-government, Igoe asserted.

"The real trouble," he declared "is that the great mass of wealth in Cook county is owned by people who dodge their taxes."

Cook county's plight, he declared is the culmination of 30 years of tax-dodging by people who own $15,000,000,000 of wealth but pay taxes on only one billion."

Boy Stops Baby's Crying With Shot

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Jan. 13. (UP)—Requested to stop his baby sister's crying, Ramon Orosco, 14, shot and killed the infant.

Busy in the kitchen, the mother became annoyed at the child's wailing and asked the boy to "try and stop it."

Ramon took a revolver, walked over to where the 7-months-old girl lay on the floor and shot her through the abdomen.

The boy was committed to the state hospital for the insane late today.

Methodist Branches Near Merger Agreement

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 13. (AP)—Committees of the Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Protestant churches in the United States made progress today in discussions looking toward a merger of the two denominations.

A series of conferences were held during the day. Tomorrow a principal meeting between the two groups will be held.

Adoption by both committees will result in the article of agreement being presented to the general conferences of both denominations in May.

U. S. Pays $2,489 for Care of Prisoners Here

Receipt of a check for $2,489.25 from the United States government Wednesday in payment for feeding and guarding federal prisoners in the Wichita county jail during October, November and December, 1931, was announced by Sheriff Perry Browning.

About 100 federal prisoners were cared for during the past quarter because of the semiannual term of federal court here.

Former Navy Secretary Hurt in Auto Crash

U. S. Will Not Take Part in Debt Parley

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (US)—The United States will keep "hands off" the Lausanne debt conference Jan. 25, Secretary of State Stimson definitely announced today.

It had been generally understood that this country would have an unofficial observer at the meeting. It was made plain today, however, that in view of the strong opposition of congress to any moratorium extension or debt revision, the administration could not afford to become involved in the discussions. Thus, not even an observer will be sent.

Spain Gives Soviet Monopoly on Oil Trade

MADRID, Jan. 13 (US)—The government has approved a contract with Soviet Russia for a petroleum monopoly in Spain, it was reported in El Heraldo today. By bartering ships for oil, the government hopes to find work for the unemployed in Cartagena and other ports.

Here's Quick Way To Break Up a Cold

Makes You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

THE thing to do with a cold is to break it up in a hurry—with something you know does the job; not to trifle with a lot of trick ideas and remedies. Colds are too dangerous to experiment with.

Get a box of Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon that miserable, aching feeling begins to go. The cold breaks up. The poisons are moved from your system. The world looks like an altogether different place.

Those results come because Hill's goes back to first principles by going to the seat of the trouble. It's not a new-fangled fancy idea but a tried and proved way that's made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy.

Hill's costs only a few cents. Use it for quick relief after everything else you've tried has failed.

COLDS

must be driven out from within

The cold germ is not an ordinary germ but an invisible ultravirus. Science knows that it is a poisonous infection that gets into the system and multiplies rapidly—often causing other serious ills.

Internal infection must be destroyed and expelled from within. Bromo Quinine tablets have won the recognition of the entire civilized world as the safe and proved remedy for colds.

TWICE A DAY TO PREVENT COLDS

66% reduction in number

We offer you this suggestion for the use of Listerine in the hope that it may spare you or members of your family an uncomfortable, costly, and possibly dangerous siege of illness.

From 50% to 66% Fewer Colds

Prolonged tests conducted under medical supervision on 204 persons in normal health uncover truths no sensible person should overlook. Standing forth is Listerine's remarkable ability to prevent colds. And to lessen their severity.

They prove that those who gargled with full strength Listerine twice a day contracted only half as many colds—and in some cases one-third as many colds—as those who did not gargle at all. A reduction between 50% and 66%!

When colds did develop among Listerine users, they lasted only one-third as long and were one-quarter as severe. Bear that in mind.

Ordinary Mouthwashes Fail

Such performance, of course, could not be expected from harsh mouthwashes which, by irritating the tissue, allow germs easier entrance. Nor could they be expected from weak, watered imitations of Listerine often devoid of any germicidal power whatever.

Only full strength Listerine, under clinical tests, has shown such preventive action and curative effect.

Effective Because Safe

Such amazing results are due to the fact that Listerine kills germs in the mouth in the fastest time without injury to tissue. Unlike that of harsh mouthwashes, its effect is actually healing.

So, while Listerine attacks the cause of infection, it relieves the irritation that accompanies it.

Be Systematic

Make a habit of gargling full strength Listerine every morning and every night. Thus, you keep your breath beyond suspicion and help Nature to ward off colds and sore throat. Once a cold threatens to become serious, increase the frequency of the gargle to once every two hours, meanwhile calling your doctor. Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A new year has dawned bulging with news possibilities such as thrill the heart of every true disciple of the newspaper craft.

It is a presidential year when the corps of Washington reporters know their biggest moments of peacetime history writing, day by day.

Yet for the oldsters of that ever changing group 1932 will be lacking in one touch that has graced for them many a great news day of the past. "Dick" Oulahan, Oulahan of the New York Times, will not be with them.

Soldier of the News

In the last hours of the old year death ended a career that stretched back nearly a half century in intimate, daily association with the men who have bulked largest in national and international affairs.

President, cabinet officers, legislators, diplomats, high judges, admirals, generals—probably not one has come or gone from Washington in a double decade who did not know Oulahan.

It is a strange business, this being a soldier of the news as was Oulahan. Through the eyes of such men have their countrymen seen and come to know the true proportions of those they have elected to high office.

To them, just citizens, bound by no oath of office yet doubly, trebly bound by tsat unwritten code of than Oulahan, must be given at times state secrets, personal confidences that involve the destiny of peoples, that could make or mar great careers.

Dick Oulahan must have known many such hours, when loyalty to his calling, the news, pulled one way and loyalty to those who had trusted him tugged another. Yet in all his long career no man ever arose to charge him with broken faith.

Epitaph

That, perhaps, would be the epitaph Oulahan would most have wished to see graved for him, that and the outpouring of friendship that marked his passing, that knew no party lines.

It is the Bystander's good fortune to have known in Washington two of the most distinguished figures of the ever growing press corps on whom the world depends for its Washington news. One was Dick Oulahan, the other that patriarch of the profession, Ed Hood of the A. P.

Both are gone now, leaving to the younger brothers of the craft memories and traditions that will long live in the never written history of their profession.

And both were just reporters, not publicists nor protagonists of any their profession of which Washington has known no higher examplar cause, just soldiers of the news.

When Boys Run Away

IF THEY hadn't taken a carrier pigeon to tell their parents what was happening, those two 16-year-old New Jersey school boys who ran away from home to hike to California probably would have got no newspaper attention at all. As it was, though, the oddity of sending a farewell message by pigeon post earned them a few lines in most newspapers.

But it is hard, carrier pigeon or no carrier pigeon, to read about school boys who run away from home without feeling a queer mixture of pity and envy for the runaways. They are, all of them, so very young and innocent—and those are the qualities which all of us must pity and envy, in spite of ourselves, to the end of our days.

These particular youngsters were quite true to type. They wrote back, "we are sick of going to school," and they added that when they got to California they would speedily make their way in the world; and they expressed there, as well as it can ever be expressed, the trusting confidence, the guileless optimism, of eternal youth.

And we who are older, wiser and less confident, feel a trifle sad when we run into such an expression. For we had to learn how long is the road that reaches from boyhood beyond the horizon; how full of rocky hills and dark valleys it is, and how disappointing its hard-won vistas often are.

We have had to learn that to run away and look for a brighter prospect on the other side of the mountains is simply to hunt disillusionment. Youth still has those things to find out for itself; and in the process it has to bruise its faith and tear most of its optimism to tatters.

But we have to feel a bit envious, too; for the world which one looks at when one is just 16 may be utterly unreal, but it is very beautiful. Never again will it seem as enchanting as it does just then, when any road can lead to a California that never existed, and a hopeful heart can carry one clear to the end. We have lost that outlook, and very likely we are the better for it; but most of us would give all we have and all we are to get it back again.

Get Yours Today

TAKING his cue from Napoleon's famous line, "An army travels on its belly," W. H. ("Big Bill") Thompson, former mayor of Chicago, observes that "American voters think more clearly on an empty stomach than on an overloaded one."

He predicts that because there have been so many empty stomachs in the past year or two, Americans will do some real thinking this year and, irrespective of party, go to the polls and "cast their ballots for some one who will improve conditions and manage the affairs of this nation in the interest of the American people."

"Big Bill" has made quite a few observations in his time, most of which have been taken with a grain of salt—or better still, not taken at all. But he is a politician, and as such is given that right. One of the chief duties of a politician is to feel the public pulse and determine, not what they really want, but how little they will take and still "vote right." He once observed that King George was decidedly too pro-British to be suitable to American welfare and progress. He became highly incensed at the king's attitude and, it is believed in some quarters, would have started another Boston tea party had it not been that Al Capone was at that time throwing so many "interesting" liquor parties in Mr. Thompson's own bailiwick, which kept the then mayor of Chicago on the defense.

But for all of that Mr. Thompson may be right on this occasion. Perhaps the voters are tired of voting for parties instead of individuals; perhaps this year they will vote for candidates for what they can do rather than for their party convictions. At any rate, there are some mighty good public offices to be filled, and the position of the man with a poll tax receipt won't be nearly as embarrassing as the man without one. Get yours today.

Looking Up

EVIDENCE that business conditions in Wichita Falls and surrounding territory are far from dormant, and are definitely on the upgrade, was supplied in reports given at a banquet of insurance men held here last Saturday night.

The occasion for the dinner was the end of a campaign for new business in which the Wichita Falls territory sales force vanquished all others in the state, including Houston. According to the information given, it was the first time that the Houston office ever had ranked lower than first place in a sales contest staged by that insurance concern.

More than 40 men present make their headquarters in Wichita Falls; work as far south as Midland and Abilene, westward into the Panhandle; and all financial transactions connected with their business are handled in this city. The contest was of several weeks' duration, ending about Jan. 1.

South Texas admittedly has felt the depression less acutely than other sections, and Houston has been considered as well entrenched as any city in the country. Yet Northwest Texas energy combined with Northwest Texas resources compiled a noticeably better record for new business than did the territory down around Buffalo bayou.

The company which staged the contest and gave the banquet is the Universal Life and Accident Insurance company, with R. E. Murrell in charge of the force in the Wichita Falls area.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

VETERAN OF SIX AMERICAN WARS—Thomas Ludlow Livingston, said to be a member of a prominent New York family, enlisted in the United States navy under the name of Matt Green in 1845, when he was 21 years old. He was honorably discharged in 1903 after 58 years of service.

At the age of 107 Mr. Livingston is the oldest man to wear a navy uniform. He has also the unique distinction of being a veteran of six American wars: 1. The war with Mexico, 1847; 2. The Canton expedition, 1856. 3. The civil war, 1861; 4. The Spanish-American war, 1898; 5. The Philippine insurrection, 1899; 6. The Boxer rebellion, 1900.

Until recently he was conspicuous at American Legion meetings, marching lustily in patriotic parades.

CHAPTER LVIII

The judge began the routine of clearing the calendar. The baliff brought in half a dozen youths in succession — youths scheduled to plead, or to be sentenced, or whose cases must be transferred to other courts since this department would be occupied for some time with a big murder trial. And Judge Moore showed them no mercy. None.

He had been on the bench for 25 years and he could not bear the change in the class of criminals who came before him. In the old days they had been men, hardened, desperate men, marked by heredity, poverty, dissipation, lack of education or capability—foreigners many of them, as yet untrained in the laws of a new country. But these boys—these clean-cut, well-groomed, able-bodied American boys who now came before him day by day—what was to be done about them? He knew no way save a severity that might deter others. Nobody knew his heart-broken bitterness, so they said generally that the old man was getting pretty bloodthirsty. Old judges either got soft as soap, or they got hard and bloodthirsty.

Through his gold-rimmed glasses, Judge Moore glared at the youth before him, a youth only two months before the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. "Probation?" he yelped. "Probation? Not on your life, sir. No, sir. This court doesn't believe in probation. This court doesn't believe in encouraging anybody to rob women. You go up to Folsom for 10 years and see if you wouldn't rather earn an honest living by hard work when you come out than to take a chance of going back there again. That's all."

He peered down at his calendar. "People against Wilfong," he snapped.

Again the small door from the bridge of sighs that led back into the jail opened, and Ace Wilfong came through it, followed by a fat and indolent bailiff.

If there is a measure for a man, walking into the jaws of a packed court room to be tried for your life might well be it. Under that ordeal, most men show a pitiful jauntiness, a nervous bravado, or even a strange and twisted delight in being the chief actor in such a drama, even though the role be dangerous. Or else they become frozen with a fear that cannot be identified as fear, but seems a stony indifference. Always they seem inadequate; their emotions, their reactions seem inadequate; for they cannot grasp the actual immensity of it all.

But by this measure, Ace Wilfong showed quiet and cold and ready for anything. He had never been a meek man, and he was not meek now. He had never been a nervous man and he was not nervous now. He looked like a man going into danger, like a fighter going into the ring for a championship battle. As he moved, his muscles seemed to flow beneath the skin, and his eye was incessantly watchful.

The reporters exchanged brief glances. This was the most satisfactory defendant they had ever had. And one large and smooth lady in the press box, a very famous correspondent who had come three thousand miles for this trial, and looked as though she still wore her night dress, felt a recurring surge of that romance which of late had passed her by.

The truth is, that there was no one in the court room who did not feel something from Ace Wilfong's entrance.

"Hot mama," said the flapper, "ain't he handsome?"

And Mrs. Joliffe's friends said one to another, "I had no idea the fellow would be so good looking."

Ace nodded to his brother and sister, to Mac, to Mrs. Joliffe. And as he looked about the court room, his black eyes encountered Metha Sutro's. They did not change their expression; there was no recognition, no accusation, only a grave glance. It was Metha's eyes that fell first, and her body was hot and her face scarlet.

Ace sat down in a chair behind the counsel's table which the bailiff indicated. The old judge was waiting, busy with the papers before him, signing this and that. The clerk was arranging the names of the jury panel in a black tin box. This district attorney was talking to old man Sutro.

A pause hung in the air, one of those breathless and expectant pauses. Upon it, with the unfailing instinct for drama, entered Stephen Ashe and his daughter.

The old judge looked up from his papers and saw them coming down the aisle, almost in step, like a couple of dashing guardsmen going into the fray. The two Ashes, with their heads still up, with that arrogant stare for the curious mob. Not licked yet, it would seem.

Young Mrs. Wilfong was white, white as a summer mist, white as an altar candle. All you could see of her face was the enormous eyes. Under the small, boyish hat, there was nothing of her face but a field for those great shining gray eyes. And upon the lapel of her little blue overcoat she wore pinned one white orchid.

But what stopped the old judge was the sight of Stephen Ashe, once more in a San Francisco court room, once more in this very court room which had witnessed so many of his triumphs. It was like a resurrection. For at the first glance he seemed the old, irresistible Steve Ashe. He lighted the old spark. He took the center of the stage. His most engaging smile flashed forth. His hair shone with the old perfect grooming about his fine head, except that it was silver now instead of black. He wore his miraculously cut morning coat and striped trousers with that air which no one else had ever duplicated. There was a gardenia in his buttonhole.

And then the judge suddenly took off his glasses and wiped his sharp, old blue eyes and blew his nose like a trumpet.

He had looked into Stephen Ashe's face.

So the trial began. With Jan Wilfong in her seat at the counsel table between the two men who loved her. So it was to go on day after day, altering a detail or two here and there, but changing nothing as to the chief actors, as to the hectic, tense, terrific strain of its atmosphere.

And there is one actor who must never be forgotten in a murder trial. There are always ghosts at a murder trial. You cannot keep them out. So that the figure of Dwight Sutro, lounging easily with his hazardous blue eyes still smiling their superior smiles as though he, after all, had come off best, was there in the court room. You could not keep him out. No one had ever excelled Steve Ashe at picking a jury; it is a lost art now. But Steve Ashe could pick a jury as a football coach picks a team, and in the Wilfong case he went at it with all his old dash and keenness. So that the bailiffs and the clerk and the judge and the newspaper boys marveled that this worn man with the tortured eyes could still exercise such unerring, uncanny judgment.

No stock questions were his. His examination of each prospective juror was different. His questions were like a surgeon's knife, peeling the covering from their minds and souls that he might know to the smallest pulse their prejudices and admirations, their gods and devils. And the group of law students who were permitted to range along the wall and to whom Steve Ashe had been only a tradition expounded unto them by their elders, and not taken too seriously, were amazed and entranced.

"Don't neglect your jury," said Stephen Ashe to them rather wearily, when they crowded about at the noon recess. "It doesn't matter how well you try your case if you haven't got a good jury."

When the 10 men and two women had been picked—Steve Ashe had got rid of the women all the way along, either for cause or by challenge, for he did not want too many women on that jury—he said to Ace and Jan, in the cage at the jail: "It's a good jury. Most of 'em have known suffering themselves. They will incline to acquittal if we give them a chance."

Nor did it disturb him that to every man and woman Dolan had put that menacing question, "Have you any conscientious objection to the death pensity, such as would keep you from inflicting it in a case where cold-blooded and deliberate murder was proved to you beyond a reasonable doubt?" If they had such scruples, they were rapidly excused. Dolan was calling for the rope and nothing but the rope for Ace Wilfong.

The comeback of Stephen Ashe had been a sensation.

But with the jury picked, with Ace strong in new hope—the first he had permitted himself—with Jan radiant, then began that fatal lagging, that peculiar, unmistakable slowing up and loss of power.

Have you ever seen a football team of old-time stars go into the field against a college or high school team? Maybe the college team is inferior. Maybe there isn't a player on it that can rank with any of the old stars. And the old boys start like a whirlwind. They display all their former brilliance, all the things that made them stars and all-Americans.

For the first quarter! And then—then they began to sag and weaken and slow up. They begin to lose their punch. They haven't the steam left to use what they know. And in the second quarter, and the third, the youngsters romp around them, and trample over them, and make them remember generally the dust from whence they came.

That was what happened to Stephen Ashe.

Jan, back in the court room where so much of her life had been spent, dragged back to play the star role in that drama she had seen so many times, watched the prosecution's case unfold, and had to make a supreme effort to control her trembling. She found herself sitting there unable to swallow for long moments, as if there were a rope tight about her throat; she clenched her teeth to keep them from chattering.

Those were the days when she felt that glare of Mrs. Sutro's, that hatred and accusation of Dwight Sutro's mother, burning clear through her armour of bright, hard arrogance. And she marveled at the expressionless mask that had settled upon Ace Wilfong's face, behind which you could see nothing. She marveled to find his hand warm and steady about her icy little one.

Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—How much of the amount pledged to the community chest in Washington, D. C., is actually collected?—M. E. M.

A.—About 95 per cent.

Q.—What chemical will dissolve cellophane and keep it in solution? —W. F. R.

A.—The bureau of standards says that there is no simple solvent for cellophane.

Q.—How long have the people who live in the country we call Germany been known as Germans? —C. F.

A.—In English the word "German" does not occur until the 16th century. Its origin is not definitely known. It may possibly have been the name given by the Gauls to their neighbors.

Q.—How many registered hospitals are there at the present time in the United States?—D. N.

A.—The Journal of the American Medical association says that there are 6,719.

Q.—How many letter carriers are employed in New York and Washington, D. C.?—A. M. L.

A.—The postoffice department says that the total number is 3,527 in New York and 521 in Washington, D. C.

Q.—What is the average weight of the rubber worn off an automobile tire in driving one mile over a paved street?—R. R.

A.—The bureau of standards says that it depends on the size of tire, load, speed, temperature, and condition of pavement. For a 4.40 inch tire as used on an ordinary light car, the amount of rubber worn off is in round numbers about 0.0003 pound per mile or about 2 grains.

Q.—Who originated the idea of gold as a standard?—C. W.

A.—It grew up imperceptibly in Europe. The early Venetian bankers drew bills secured by gold and the bankers of Antwerp later did likewise. These practices may be regarded as the forerunners of an established gold standard involving a gold reserve against paper.

Q.—How many dog cemeteries are there in the United States?—T. C.

A.—We have record of four: Aspin Hill Kennels, Brookville road, Aspen, Md.; Hartsdale Canine cemetery, New York City; Cleveland Cat and Dog cemetery, Cleveland, Ohio; and Illinois Pet cemetery, Chicago, Ill.

Q.—What were the names of the men who captured Maj. John Andre?—D. J. S.

A.—He was captured by three American militiamen named John Paulding, David Williams, and Isaac Van Wart.

Q.—How are papal bulls named? —N. L. L.

A.—They take their titles from the first word or phrase of the text which invariably is written in classic Latin. Thus the bull which bears the title Antiquorum habet fidem, is named for the opening phrase which, translated, reads "He has the faith of the ancients." The title of the bull "Exsurge," means "Arise." There is no way of determing from its title what the subject matter of a papal bull may be.

Q.—What toys do children prefer? —W. M.

A.—A comprehensive survey leads to the conclusion that building blocks are the favorite toy for children up to the age of 7. Drawing and painting materials rank high. With little girls, dolls and housekeeping equipment are favorites. Sand and clay for modeling retain the interest of most children. Mechanical toys, on the other hand, are soon discarded. Adults usually enjoy the mechanical toys more than the children for whom they are purchased.

Q.—In looking over laws of Vermont I frequently see "town or gore." What is a gore?—S. T.

A.—It is an old name for a triangular piece of land, a minor unorganized territory, common in both Maine and Vermont, as between the corners of neighboring counties.

Q.—What makes ice slippery?—R. G.

A.—The slipperiness of ice is due to the fact that its resistance to motion is very slight. It depends on its even and crystaline structure. The molecules of water are held together so smoothly and evenly that the resulting surface is also extremely smooth and even.

Q.—Who imported the first pianos known in America?—S. T.

A.—In 1784 John Jacob Astor of New York imported the first pianos. They were small 4½ to 5 octave square pianos with eight legs.

What Do You Know About Religions of The World?

There are almost two billion people in the world. Religion is one of the powerful, controlling factors in the lives of many of them. What are their religions? More than one-fourth are Christians. There are more than 200 Christian denominations in the United States. How many people belong to each? How many churches has each?

These and hundreds of other questions about religion are answered in a booklet prepared for distribution to readers of this newspaper. This 48-page publication, called "Religions of the World," will be mailed to any reader on receipt of 10 cents.

PAIR QUIZZED IN RUM CASES

Texas Woman Held in Kentucky

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 13 (AP)—Special government investigators today continued questioning of Sherman Ross Weis of Chicago and Mabel Waldeman, alias Mabel White, of Corpus Christi, Texas, in an attempt to connect them with the operations of what federal agents described as a mammoth midwestern liquor ring.

The questioning of the man and women was resumed after the county attorneys waived the right to try them at this time on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Federal Commissioner S. T. Fruit then immediately increased their bonds from $2,000 each to $5,000.

The pair are also under $500 bond each on the state charge. Federal authorities have placed three charges against them. Transportation and possession of liquor and conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

They were arrested here Monday after a liquor-laden automobile was wrecked. Officers said Weis and the woman were running the liquor from Florida to Chicago. Each accused the other of the ownership of the 30 cases of bonded liquor found in the car. The woman was slightly injured in the wreck.

It was said that the prisoners would be subjected to further questioning.

Electrans Honor Departing Family

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 13.—Members of the various departments of the Church of Christ participated in an old fashioned pounding Tuesday night honoring Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Harvey and family who are leaving in the near future for Rush Springs, Okla., where they will make their home. The Harvey family has taken an active part in the church work and it is customary for the church members to honor departing members with a "pounding." The members gathered at the church and went to the Harvey home on the Red river lease. A number of useful gifts was taken.

A song service led by Walter Harvey and Keith Wilson opened the program which included readings by Claude and Evelyn Hall, Nelda Fern and Alma Lee Harvey, and Mrs. C. K. Orr, and a song by Ada Jewel Smith. Tot Culpepper, Ichabod Gibson and Josephine Peters directed the games. A mock wedding was also held.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Culpepper, Mrs. C. K. Orr, Tot Culpepper, Ichabod Gibson, Keith Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. M. Proffitt, Mrs. Orville Richardson, Mrs. R. Lee Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Davis, Mrs. J. T. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Davis, Mrs. F. H. Gibson, Mrs. H. H. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bray, Mrs. J. T. Wilson, W. C., Ralph, Bonnie, and Dorothy Proffitt, Derris Richardson, Joy Bray, Truceal Davis, Nona Merle and Lois Davis, Ada Jewel Smith, Reginald Simmons, and the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Harvey, Alma Lee, Nelda Fern, James; and Walter Harvey.

Iowa Park Lions Observe Founding

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 13.—Iowa Park Lions observed Founders day with a special program here Tuesday, honoring the birthday of Melvin Jones of Dallas, the first Lions club secretary. Frank Cripliver, Wichita Falls, brought the chief address in which was stressed the characteristics of leadership. C. C. Hudson, R. E. Brewster, Earl J. Wilson, E. C. Dodson and R. O. White were named as the first local officers.

Short talks were made by J. B. Golden, superintendent of the Valley View school, who was introduced as a new member; Ralph DeShong and Jim King of Wichita Falls. Local members were called upon to tell what the club had meant to them.

The musical program was supplied by Misses Katherine Sue Ralston and Mary Emma Boyd.

STAMFORD, Texas, Jan. 13.—The newly organized freshman class of the Stamford School of Nursing elected officers with Miss Lois Aston of Anson to serve as president. Miss Ruth Hanna of Seymour was elected vice president; Miss Margaret Ward of Anson, reporter; Miss Catherine Bustong of Pampa, secretary; Miss Estelle Robertson of Weinert, treasurer and Miss Audie Smith of Abilene, social chairman.

The class of six girls were enrolled for thier three years' training on Jan. 1. The formal initiation of the class will be held in a short time.

Youth Tells of Death Of Border Patrolman

NOGALES, Ariz., Jan. 13. (AP)—A 17-year-old Mexican boy, Santiago Aguirre, was captured today by federal officers and told them that his companion, Alberto Flores, 22, shot and killed Clyde M. Bristow, United States customs officer, when they were stopped for questioning on a road near here last night.

Aguirre was captured in Walker canyon, 16 miles west of Nogales, by a posse of 100 men. The posse continued a search of the hills for Flores.

Churches Join in Homage to Eccentric Composer-Poet

Chimes Ring Out Tunes of 'Old Black Joe' and 'Swanee River'

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 13. (AP)—The chimes of churches, which had difficulty getting Stephen C. Foster within their doors, today softly rang out the tunes of the eccentric composer-poet.

Pittsburgh joined the South in observing the 68th anniversary of the death of a man whose songs express a fervent religious vein he was not believed during his life to have had. The refrain of "Old Black Joe" and "My Old Kentucky Home" came from the towers of one church while others sent out "Massa's in De Cold, Cold Ground," "Ole Uncle Ned," on "Swanee River."

Long after his death in 1864, his music was disregarded by composers, but today the National Association of Composers, Authors and Publishers sent a representative to place a wreath on his grave. Pastors in a dozen churches honored him, and church choirs sang his songs.

Of much interest was the old McDowell home where "Old Black Joe" was inspired. Foster wrote it in memory of an old negro houseman employed by his father-in-law.

In the days when Foster was courting his future wife, Jane McDowell, old Joe saw to it that Foster made his proposal ahead of another suitor, a wealthy young lawyer.

Foster never really lived in the South. He obtained his knowledge of negroes on Pittsburgh's river front and through visits to Cincinnati and Bardstown, Ky. It was an exceptionally enjoyable visit at Bardstown that inspired him to write "My Old Kentucky Home."

"O, Russanna," and "Uncle Ned," were written at Cincinnati to help out a friend who was in the publishing business but had been unable to obtain much material to publish.

Although an accomplished piano player, Foster is believed to have composed many of his songs while playing a guitar. His piano, which is in Carnegie museum, was displayed today in one of the main galleries.

TILLMAN ROAD WORK TO START

County Deposits $15,000 For Construction

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Jan. 13.—Tillman county has deposited $15,000 in warrants with the state highway commission as its part of the fund to finish constructing highway No. 14 from this place to the Red river bridge, south of Davidson, which insures that work on this project will start soon. This money was taken to Oklahoma City last Friday by County Commissioner Frank Patterson of Grandfield and County Engineer Dwight Powell.

The federal highway commission has agreed to the route which is to pass through Davidson about two blocks east of the First State bank of that place, according to J. L. Newland, chairman of the highway committee of the Frederick Chamber of Commerce. A number of citizens of Davidson want the route changed to pass through the business street of that town, Newland stated. Approval of the federal highway commission will have to be obtained before a change could be made, he pointed out, which might require some time.

A federal engineer is expected to arrive this week to consult with the Davidson citizens regarding the proposed change of route. Contract for the construction of this road probably will be let next month, it was said.

Frederick O. E. S. Installs Officers

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Jan. 13.—New officers to serve during 1932 were installed Monday night by the Frederick Order of the Eastern Star, at the Masonic hall.

Mrs. A. H. Holloman, installing officer, was assisted by Mrs. Lynn M. Harris, chaplain; Mrs. A. M. Dennis, marshal; and Mrs. W. R. Harper, organist. Mrs. Holloman was later installed as secretary, by the new worthy matron.

Those installed were Blanche Hall, worthy matron; Paul McLellan, worthy patron; C. E. Haas, associate patron; Mrs. E. H. Shelton, associate matron; Mrs. L. H. Beaty, conductress; Mrs. C. C. Allen, associate conductress; Mrs. A. H. Holloman, secretary; Mrs. C. E. Haas, treasurer; Genevieve Hayward, organist; Mrs. A. Lair, Adah; Mrs. A. R. Lewis, Ruth; Alice Fay McLellan, Esther; Stenner Wilburn, Martha; Mrs. E. G. Hall, Electra; Mrs. Lloyd Hightower, warden; E. H. Shelton, sentinel.

Mrs. C. H. Dillingham, outgoing matron, was presented with a past matron's pin, and expressed her pleasure in the year's work.

A guest from Tipton's chapter was Mrs. Marvin Langham.

Belgium Apologizes For Attack on Hoover

BRUSSELS, Jan. 13. (AP)—Foreign Minister Hymans has conveyed to the American ambassador an expression of regret by the government at the publication of several newspaper articles which might have been offensive to the United States.

M. M. Hymans said Belgium never has forgotten America's help during the world war and always will remember President Hoover's work in Belgium.

Authoritative sources said that the foreign minister's apologies were made on the government's own initiative and explained the articles in question had appeared during the last three or four years.

Tillman County Gives Road Work to Jobless

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Jan. 13.—About 40 men and a dozen teams were put to work the first of the week by Charles Greever, county commissioner graveling the road from the city to Glenwood school, north of town.

This is one of the emergency measures to give work to the unemployed. Men are being paid $1 a day, and $2 a day is paid for a team, according to Dwight Powell, county engineer. In order that as many families as possible can be assisted by this fund the owner of a team is not hired if he furnishes a team.

Mrs. Jack London Writes of Hawaii Crimes From Viewpoint of a Mother

Author Says Mothers of All Races Have Swept Aside Civilized Custom in Protecting Offspring

Charmian London, widow of Jack London, in the following article gives the viewpoint of a mother on the problem that confronted Mrs. Granville Fortescue in Honolulu and the course she pursued.

By CHARMIAN LONDON
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 13.—"For who can tell to what red hell his sightless soul may stray."

So wrote Oscar Wilde from reading gaol.

Suddenly, out of a clear sky, I am asked what I, who have borne a daughter, would do if confronted with her unprovoked violation, unspeakable manhandling, by a gang of five men in a quiet street of a peaceable community. Only God knows what I would do—what would I not do!

We hear what Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue of Washington and New York has done, together with her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two enlisted men. This is punishment of the grisly tragedy which overtook the young Thalia, her daughter, his wife, in Honolulu.

Yet what have mothers done before this—mothers of all bloods and stations? They have protected their daughters wherever possible, or, failing that, have avenged them according to breed and nature. On the one hand I suppose, boiled down it is a question of keeping one's head and withholding from counter violence. Waiting for the process of law. Or going quite berserk, reverting to type, disregarding law's delay and findings of psychologists upon the motives of plunderers. In rare instances, mothers would seem to have done both—kept their heads and with apparent deliberation exacted the supreme penalty from an outlaw; carried out to the letter the old Mosaic formula.

First Principles

Get down to first principles: The protection of our own is a first principle, more primitive, perforce, than the starting of wars ancient and modern at the drop of a hat. Or, at blow or mere scratch, a personal fight even to the death. Animal mothers fend for their young with tooth and nail and hoof. Human mothers have ennobled themselves by heroic defense of offspring.

Civilization with its laws is as thin as its thinnest skin when the quick is touched. Whether defending the heart of civilization, the home or boundary lines, everything goes by the board before the natural idea or passion of defense. When something we care most for by nature or ingrained custom is imperiled or overtaken, there is no length to which we will not go. And no punishment for a mother's forthright vengeance will ever make any difference to other mothers in like extremity. Has it ever made any difference?

Ill-tidings of late have been drifting up from my Hawaii, fair Hawaii, of peace and gentle inhabitants. Land of bright and charming Hawaiian friends, proved friends. Land of my Waikiki House Without a Key—soubriquet that voices its own untroubled meaning.

To one who has known Hawaii for years, unbelievable tidings of late. Alarming frequency of robbery and incredible assault—horrid news that would surely seem to have come from great mainland white cities overridden with gangsterism. What can such news have to do with our tranquil isles—with Honolulu, safest of cities? And Hawaiians themselves implicated—I rub my eyes and shake myself. How much, I question, is there of outland blood in these alleged violent ones with Hawaiian names ringing true to my accustomed ear? For Kahahawai, dead for his crime, in his picture looks Hawaiian, all but the eyes; they are the eyes of a mongrel, with neither sympathy nor pride. Yet his name is true Hawaiian.

Polynesians, from Hawaii to Samoa, have been singularly unnoted for misdemeanors of this sort; even, I must add, after long association with the white. Robbery, murder, rapine—up to now report of such goings on would merely amuse one who has known them.

But now worse has come, the worst, featuring an alleged Hawaiian who was far from the least violent of a violent five attackers of a white woman. The facts are indisputable, it seems. The most heinous imaginable thing has come to pass—in the very streets where a woman wandering alone has heretofore been as safe as in her own keyless home . . . what has happened to this insular territory of ours—A thousand factors rush to my mind, from observation of the old old results, repeated down the centuries of white occupation. Have we so soon blasted what we perhaps strove to benefit in our blind intention of reforming harmless peoples? Finally, as usual, the effects of our more vicious examples of "civilization" outnumbering the intended benefits? And, worse than all, strange unwanted breeds have been imported to labor in the fields—sometimes the sweepings of foreign tropical countries.

And so, confronted suddenly out of a life of order and peace with such grisly tragedy this unfortunate wife and husband, I do not know what I should do. Only God knows. Again,

"For who can tell to what red hell
"His sightless soul may stray."

At the age of 62.

That's the happy state of health and pep a man enjoys when he gives his vital organs a little stimulant!

When your system is stagnant and you feel sluggish, headachy, half-alive—don't waste money on "tonics" or "regulators" or similar patent medicines. Stimulate the liver and bowels. Use a famous physician's prescription every drug store keeps. Just ask them for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin.

This appetizing syrup is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. One dose will clear up almost any case of headache, biliousness, constipation. But if you want to keep in fine shape, feel fit the year 'round, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin every few days. You'll eat better, sleep better and feel better in every way. You will never need to take another laxative.

Give the children a little of this delicious syrup two or three times a week. A gentle, natural stimulant that makes them eat and keeps the bowels from clogging. And saves them from so many sick spells and colds.

Have a sound stomach, active liver and strong bowel muscles that expel every bit of waste and poison every day! Just keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin on hand; take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. See if you don't feel new vigor in every way. Syrup pepsin isn't expensive.

YOUNGS GIVEN SECRET RITES

Bandit Brothers Buried in Missouri

JOPLIN, Mo., Jan. 13. (INS)—Harry and Jennings Young, who committed suicide in Houston, Texas, last week rather than submit to arrest for the slaying of six Greene county peace officers, were buried secretly in a cemetery here this morning.

With the exception of members of the family and Greene county officers, no one was present as the bodies were lowered into hastily dug graves.

Mrs. Willie Young, mother of the dead bandits, fainted as the undertaker pronounced a few words, the only semblance of a ceremony.

Other members of the family who attended the services were Venita Young and Mrs. Lorena Young Conley, sisters of the desperadoes, Oscar Young, a brother, and Albert Conley, brother-in-law. Conley and Oscar Young both were handcuffed. Members of family were released from jail under supervision of officers to attend the funeral.

Frank Pike and Virgil Johnson, Springfield, Mo., detectives, both of whom were wounded by the Young brothers when the six officers were killed, formally identified the bodies at the grave.

Members of the Greene county court officially represented the county at the funeral.

Tommy Armour set a new course record at Miami in winning the first Florida golf event of 1932. He shot a 68.

America Warned to Cooperate With Police in War on Crime

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13. (AP)—The American people were warned today by August Vollmer that if they don't give the police proper support they will "break down their only defense against the criminal element."

The Berkeley, Calif., chief of police and professor of police administration at the University of California, in a letter made public by the National Retirement club for firemen and policemen, said:

"No group of men can keep its morale unimpaired indefinitely under such brutally unfair treatment as has been given the police, and a policeman whose morale is bad is a menace to the community.

"But what does the average policeman get? He is denounced by the public, criticized by preachers, ridiculed in the movies, berated by newspapers, and often unsupported by prosecuting officers and the judges.

"Though hated by criminals, he is unerwarded by popular applause kicked around like a football by brainless or crooked politicians, condemned when he enforces the law and dismissed if he doesn't."

A BALANCED DIET

Amount of Starches

Pure starches are really unnecessary to the body's growth, but, of course, most of the starchy foods contain other elements which the body can use. Most of my patients are denied all starchy food while under an intensive diet treatment. But our appetites have been developed so much for these foods that it seems wise to outline the best rules to be observed whenever starches are eaten. A good rule for every one to follow in this regard is to use a very limited amount of starches and to confine their use to one meal in a day, such as possibly at luncheon when a small amount of one kind of starch may be used, together with one or more cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables. No acid fruit or proteins should be used at this meal.

Plenty of Non-Starchy Vegetables

All of the foods listed as non-starchy may be used in large quantities. It is even often advisable to actually "stuff" on these foods in order to supply a large amount of bulk for the intestines to assist in overcoming constipation, which is such a universal cause of disease. I often advise patients to use one of the cooked, non-starchy vegetables with their breakfast with such foods as eggs and stewed fruit. This takes the place of toast or bread, and supplies the needed amount of bulk.

These are the foods which best supply us with the organic minerals and vitamins and are truly protection foods. It is virtually impossible to use too much of these valuable foods, for if more are used than the body needs, the remainder simply pass through the alimentary canal and this assists in carrying away normal intestinal toxins and also the unused portions of the more concentrated foods.

Amount of Fats and Oils

These foods are needed in larger quantities by those in cold climates but a limited amount should also be used by those who live in warmer climates. Besides their heating effect they provide lubrication for the intestines.

Amount of Fruits

Acid fruits should be used between meals or in place of a meal, but as they are not highly nutritious care must be used not to use too many in the place of the more needed foods.

One dish of stewed fruit daily is the minimum to be used, and the maximum not over two fair-sized dishes, one dish to be used at each of two meals in a day.

Amount of Milk

The adult does not really need milk, but it may be substituted for other food to a limited extent. If the adult tries to live on an exclusive milk diet, he will find that he requires about four quarts daily in addition to either non-starchy vegetables or fruit. A milk meal, therefore, to be equal in food value to one of the other average meals would need to contain at least a quart of milk with the vegetable and fruit. Such a quantity is too much to take at one time, but four eight-ounce glasses may be taken 15 minutes apart. Perhaps this comparison will give the reader who likes milk some idea of how much to use in place of other common foods.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dilated Pupil

Question—G. H. writes: "The pupil of my right eye is dilated and does not contract with the light. I have consulted several eye specialists but they do not seem to help me. They say there is no trace of glaucoma. They gave me medicine to put in the eye to help the pupil to contract, but it doesn't help any. Why doesn't the pupil contract?"

Answer—The cause of your dilated pupil is probably not in the eye itself but is caused by some disorder of the nervous system. My suggestion would be for you to have a thorough examination by a nerve specialist to see if he can locate the cause of your trouble. If you will send me a report of the examination, I may be able to advise you as to the treatment.

Is Exposure to TB Patient Dangerous?

Question—Miss Viva E. writes: "There is a girl sick with tuberculosis in another flat in our house. Sometimes I talk to her when she is sitting in the sun. Is there danger of catching the disease? We never go into their apartment and eat and drink with them. I am worried and want to know if I should move."

Answer—If you are in good health and using a properly balanced diet, there is no danger in contracting the disease, especially since you do not come in close contact with the person affected. It has been discovered that the expired air of the consumptive is not infectious, the germ being in the sputum. Of course, the patient should be careful in the disposal of the sputum, preferably burning it.

Electra Birth Rate Higher Than Deaths

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 13.—Vital statistics in the Electra area during 1931 show that the births have a margin of 105 over the deaths, there having been 171 births and 66 deaths during the year. The report of Col. Ed C. Wilson, city registrar, shows 115 births and 56 deaths. Judge W. H. Coffman, precinct registrar, gave his report as 56 births and 10 deaths. The combined reports gave the above totals for the year. Births and deaths for 1931 were a great decrease over the previous year. In 1930, 273 births and 109 deaths were recorded which would make 102 additional births and 43 more deaths in 1930 than in 1931.

Accidental deaths were fewer during the past year, also. Two were fatally injured in automobile accidents. A negro died from injuries received when he fell in attempting to hop a freight train. A child died from burns received when he stumbled into a tub of hot water. A man died in a local hospital from wounds he received when his gun accidentally discharged while he was hunting. Another man died from heat prostration.

Two Confederate and one Federal veterans succumbed, also. The Confederates were H. A. Bracheen, 84, and C. H. Royal, 89. The Federal veteran was R. N. Davis, 89.

Old Bible Owned by Greer County Pioneer

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Jan. 13.—The first Bible ever to be owned in Greer county is that of Capt. George W. Boyd, who has lived in this county more than 54 years.

Captain Boyd came to what was then Greer county, Texas, in 1877. Within a few months he received the Bible from an aunt at Goldthwaite, Texas. Mr. Boyd, a veteran ranchman-banker, carried the book in the wide open spaces for more than a quarter of a century. He says it has been read many times by the light of a camp fire during the days of the "lonely cowboy" and the "thundering herds."

Electra Methodists to Hold Quarterly Meet

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 13.—The first quarterly conference of the Electra Methodist circuit will be held at Barwise Sunday. Rev. C. A. Spraggins, Wichita Falls, presiding elder of this district, will preach at 11 a. m. and direct the conference in the afternoon. Rev. M. J. Vaughan, the circuit minister, will preach at 7:30 p. m. All the charges in the circuit are urged to be present, Mr. Vaughan stated.

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED THOMPSON

"Ise Regusted" Dept.

Secretary Airey of the Spudders already is receiving applications in great numbers from rookies desiring try-outs with the Wichita Falls baseball club this spring. Far be it from us to maliciously poke fun at the manner in which some of these letters are written. The gift of beautiful letters is bestowed upon a scant few, and the Rambler is the first to admit that the construction of some of his sentences ain't what it orta be, that his grammar isn't up to a lot that has went into the making of great books, and that his spelling and diction are in no danger of giving Shakefellow and Longspeare a scare in the race for immortality.

Nevertheless and however, Secretary Airey received a letter yesterday that contained a choice bit of humor. The boy wrote that he wanted a trial with the Spudders mighty bad. He said that he intended to "inter" college some day. In the event he made the grade with the Spudders, it would, he said, rob him of his amateur status and make him ineligible to participate in college athletics.

But he had provided for this emergency. He would, he said, enter the lists at the Spudder spring training camp under a "consumed" name.

Persistent Fellows

There are two young ball players in Sturgis, Mich., who apparently would swim the ocean to get to the Spudder camp this spring.

They wrote Airey a week or so ago, stating they had had semi-pro experience, that they cherished a burning desire to give Wichita Falls the benefits of their talents, and that ambition was their first, middle, and last names.

Airey broke the sad news as gently as possible. The club, he answered, could not afford to pay the players' transportation expenses all the way from Michigan without being reasonably certain that the boys had the stuff. He suggested that they try to land with a club closer to home.

Yesterday Airey got another letter from the boys. Airey had not dampened their hopes a bit. They would pay their own expenses down here, they said, and take a chance on making good.

Second Baseman Signed

The Spudders signed a rookie second baseman yesterday, in its first move toward rehabilitating the infield. His name is Forrest Meek, of Dallas. Meek writes that he has had semi-pro experience, that he bats and throws right-handed, that "I will be ready when the gong sounds and I am confident I'll give anybody a battle for the second base job."

It Won't Be Long

It seems reasonably certain, according to Secretary Airey, that spring training will start here on March 8. Pitchers and catchers will report on that date, with other players reporting a week later.

This Airey announced after an interchange of letters with Manager Hank Severeid, who is spending the winter at his home in Los Angeles, Calif. Severeid said in his latest message that he probably would arrive in Wichita Falls in advance of the players in order to survey the situation here and get acquainted with business and civic leaders, with whom he promises to cooperate in every way toward making the coming season a successful one.

Severeid will be trodding strange ground when he hits Wichita Falls, and his curiosity concerning this town and its team is matched by the fans' curiosity concerning the man who is to replace Carl Williams, the Santa Anna warhorse.

The Rambler knows as little about Severeid, personally, as the next street corner critic, but you can take the word of Sam West, outfielder of the Washington Senators, that old Hank was one of the most popular players ever to swat the nugget in the major leagues. Airey ran across West in Lubbock, the latter's home, the other day. West has known Severeid for years.

Ward Schools Play Scoreless Draw

The Bowie and Fannin ward school football teams played to a scoreless tie yesterday afternoon on the Fannin school gridiron in one of the most bitterly fought combats staged thus far in ward school district No. 1.

Paced by their captain and quarterback, and with Touchstone and Percival bearing their full share of ball lugging honors, the Bowie team made repeated thrusts at the Fannin goal only to be repulsed. Robinson and Callahan were outstanding backfielders for the Fannin eleven, which also was stopped on every march that led to their opponents' goal stripe. Neither team got inside the other's 20-yard stripe during the contest, and while no records were kept, coaches of both aggregations asserted the first downs were about equal in number.

The Bowie team is coached by J. Z. Powell and the Fannin eleven is coached by Newman Smith. Both of the mentors were on the Coyote squad last year. The game yesterday was the play-off of the tilt scheduled for last Friday.

Consolidated No. 11 Whips Cage Rivals

FREDERICK, Okla., Jan. 13.—Consolidated No. 11 school, 14 miles southeast of Frederick, won an easy victory over Consolidated No. 2 school, northwest of Davidson, getting the big end of a 47 to 27 score, the game being played on the No. 2 court Friday night. Pete Burke, tall No. 11 athlete, obtained 33 of his team's points.

Consolidated No. 2 won the other two contests, however, the girls' game by a score of 34 to 13 and the junior boys.

The Wailuki 120-pound team won the Hawaiian islands barefoot football league championship by defeating the Hilo eleven in the season's final game.

FRED MORRISON SMASHES PAR

Unknown Pro Leads Pack In First Round

By GEORGE H. BEALE
United Press Staff Correspondent

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Jan. 13.—Fred Morrison, young southern California professional, broke par by three today to take the first round lead over the pack seeking to share in the world's richest golf purse, the $15,000 Agua Caliente open.

Comparatively unknown in national play, the long driving Morrison pulled a 69 out of his clubs to head the remainder of a strong field at the close of the first 18 holes of play.

To do this, he turned nine in par 36 and then got birdies on three holes and pars on the others for a 33 on the final nine.

Close behind Morrison were Gene Sarazen of New York and Florida, and Leo Diegel, the "home" professional, who cut under the 72 par to get 70's.

Diegel had a four-foot putt on the 18th for a 69 and a tie with Morrison but missed.

Fairways Soggy

The condition of the course was bad because of the rain of the past two days. Those who started early were forced to contend with a high wind and rainfall.

Later the rain stopped but the fairways remained soggy and the greens heavy and slow.

Despite the elements the scores were generally low, especially among those who started after the rain stopped.

Right behind Sarazen and Diegel came Charlie Sommers, 23, Los Angeles, who has been playing professional golf for less than a year.

Joe Kirkwood, Chicago, finished with a 72, even par, as did another famous professional, Harry Cooper.

The surprise among the money players was MacDonald Smith, who has been consistently good since he came West and who won the Los Angeles $7,500 open which ended Monday. The best he could do today was a 78.

Leading Amateurs

The leading amateurs were John Dawson, Chicago, and J. G. Hunter, Pasadena, both of whom took 73's.

The leader, Morrison, hails from Culver City and has been Southern California open and Southern California P. G. A. champion but never has won a big time tournament.

He is known as one of the longest drivers in Southern California and his long tee shots today helped him get his fine 69.

The play will continue through Saturday, 18 holes daily, with the 64 low and ties playing the two final 18-hole rounds Friday and Saturday.

Jean High Defeats Bitter Creek Dribblers

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 13.—The Jean High school basket ball team was tied in third place for the Young county championship with Bitter Creek by virtue of its 24 to 12 victory over the Bitter Creek quintet here Tuesday night. Bitter Creek's loss gave Newcastle undisputed possession of second place.

Jennings and Givens of the victors were stars of the game. Givens accounted for 10 of Jean's points, while Givens ran up four. L. Gray and A. St. John were stellar court attractions from the Bitter Creek standpoint. Each accounted for four points.

Red fox are reported becoming numerous in sections of Oklahoma, following passage of a protective law by the legislature.

Brandon and Greenwood Rescue Pack From Defeat in Fairview Thriller

Messrs. Robert Brandon and Edward Greenwood came to the rescue of the Coyotes last night just when chances for a victory seemed doomed, and the Pack nosed out a 24 to 23 decision over the Fairview quintet. The game was played on the Fairview court.

After piling up a lead of 18 to 5 at the end of the half, the Pack, one and all, apparently set out to do some tall loafing, with the result the Fairview boys started a spirited rally that put them in the lead, 23 to 20, with only one minute of play remaining.

In that last minute, however, Brandon and Greenwood each sank a field goal, accounting for four points and giving the Coyotes their one-point margin of victory.

Brandon was the outstanding offensive player of the night for the Pack, with four field goals, representing eight points, to his credit. Janeway followed with two field goals and two free shots for six points.

Stringer, Fairview center, was high point man of the night with 14 points, 10 of which he made sinking 12 free shots. He also made two field goals.

This afternoon at 4:30 o'clock the Coyotes meet the Cashion Cats, defending Wichita county champions, in a practice game on the high school court here. The Pack defeated the Cats in a previous game 17 to 16.

Shires Gets Rid of Grievances And Signs Up With Boston Braves

BABE AWAITS NEW CONTRACT

Slugger Insists He Wants Another $80,000

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The consuming business of Babe Ruth and his 1932 contract—and whether it will call for another $80,000—took on a mysterious flavor late today.

The Yankees said they had sent the Bambino his "bad news" along with other members of the club. If so, it should have been delivered some time today. But there was no sign of the vital document and the Babe, when last seen, gradually was working himself into a fine lather.

"What are they trying to do," the big fellow demanded, "make me look silly? If they sent me a contract I would have gotten it by this time."

There was another and fresher rumor that the Yankees had decided not to mail the Babe a contract, but would discuss things with him personally tomorrow. They've been doing that in recent years.

"I don't know anything about such a meeting," Ruth declared. "All I know is they told everybody they were mailing me a contract. I'd like to see it just as much as you fellows."

It wasn't necessary for the mighty man of swat to say what he hoped would be in the wayward document. He already has expressed himself on the subject. He wants another one calling for $80,000. At least, he sees no reason why he should accept a cut after the great season he enjoyed in 1931.

The way salaries are being whittled, however, there is a growing feeling the Yanks will make a brave attempt to sign their big drawing card at a reduced figure.

The latest addition to the growing ranks of holdouts is Fred Fitzsimmons, Giants' pitcher, who announced today he was returning unsigned the contract offered him. He is the third Giant to rebel at the new terms, Bill Terry and Mel Ott already having notified the club they wouldn't sign.

By SAM D. HALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

DALLAS, Jan. 13.—Charles Arthur (the Great) Shires predicted here today that if Bill Terry doesn't come to an agreement with the New York Giants as to his 1932 salary he might play first base for the Giants himself. He revealed further that he was almost sold once this winter to play first base for the Philadelphia Athletics.

A few hours later he sat down and signed a contract to play first base for Judge Emil Fuchs' Boston Braves during the coming season for $11,000, which is $3,000 more than he drew at Milwaukee last year. Having committed himself to the second division Boston National club, the kaleidoscopic Mr. Shires packed up and left for Milwaukee to play professional basket ball until spring training begins.

Pretty Mrs. Shires went with him. Before they left, Shires, who is as renowned a talker as he is ball player and prize fighter, had relieved himself of a few baseball problems and grievances he averred have been weighing on his chest.

"I have a few old scores to settle in the American league," he said. "I want to get back into that loop if there is a chance, but I like Judge Fuchs and value his friendship highly. I am going to play hard for the Braves next season and believe it will be the greatest of my career."

Judge Fuchs told Shires in a letter sent with his contract that if he has a good year he may name his own salary at the end of the season. Shires announced he would show up several American league clubs that didn't "give him a square deal" last year.

The great one batted .385 at Milwaukee last year and led the American association in hitting but the St. Louis Browns didn't recall him, as everyone expected. But Shires said several other clubs, including the Athletics, did want him.

"The Philadelphia deal was over but the signing of papers," he declared, "when a certain American league club president told Connie Mack I was a punk player and would do his Athletics no good. Mack was to get me for $20,000 and one player and I was to replace Phil Todt at first base.

"One American league club paid $65,000 for a first baseman and he batted just .277 last year. The president who put out that cash didn't want me in the league because I would show up his prize lemon."

Shires contends he is a major league first baseman, will play that position, or none at all. He said he liked Walter Johnson when with Washington in 1930 but almost broke his neck in going after a fly ball while trying to play an outfield position.

The Great One, still only 24 years old, weighs 203 pounds now but predicted he would reduce to 198 by the time the season opens.

Baptists Nose Out Olney Cubs, 30-27

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Texas, Jan. 13.—The big men from Decatur Baptist college found more than they were looking for here tonight, and were pushed to the limit to win a 30 to 27 decision over Coach Albert Acker's Cubs in a practice basket ball game.

The Cubs, paced by Wright at center who scored 13 points, outplayed the college men in the first stanza and led at the half 12 to 10. At the end of a furious third period the score was deadlocked, 20-all, and the visitors won the game in the last minute of play when Bost, stellar Baptist forward, dumped a field goal and a free shot for three points. Bost was the outstanding scorer of the night, burying eight field shots and two free throws for a total of 18 points.

Electra Tigers Beat Valley View Cagers

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 13.—The Electra Tigers won their third conference game in the Wichita county round robin system at Valley View Tuesday night, 32-24. The Electra girls also won from the Valley View girls in their second conference tilt. The girls defeated the Fairview girls last week. The boys have won from Allendale and Fairview.

Friday night the Clara Greyhounds and volley ball girls will come to Electra to play the local teams. Among other teams the Tigers will meet will be: Jan. 19, Crowell at Crowell; Jan. 20, Wichita Falls at Wichita Falls; Jan. 23, Iowa Park at Iowa Park; Jan. 29, Cashion at Electra; Jan. 30, Wichita Falls at Electra. The date for the game with Burkburnett has not been set. The game with Valley View was scheduled for Wednesday night but due to the mid-term examinations starting Thursday, the date was changed.

JACOBS WON'T SIGN FOR BOUT

Schmeling's Manager Raises Technicality

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (UP)—The proposed Max Schmeling-Mickey Walker 15-round heavyweight title bout at Miami, Fla., is "very much up in the air" and may not be held at Miami, Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, said tonight.

Contracts for the Miami bout on Feb. 25 were to have been signed today, but because of objections by Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, they were not signed. "And there's no indication now when they will be signed," Kearns declared.

Kearns said he and Walker were ready to sign today and had intended entraining for Miami. But Jacobs refused to sign, raising a technicality over a certain clause in the contract. Kearns explained the clause itself was of little importance and that it apparently was used by Jacobs merely to avoid the bout. He said Jacobs apparently had been informed by his representatives at Miami that the financial outlook for the bout was poor.

The bout may be moved to Chicago, New York, Los Angeles or St. Louis, Walker's manager continued. He said Jacobs believed the bout should draw at least $500,000 and that apparently the gate would not be realized at Miami.

Another conference is scheduled at Madison Square garden tomorrow. Jimmy Johnston, manager of boxing at the garden, said tonight no change in location had been decided yet.

Greer County Cage Tourney Opens Thursday

Los Caballeros Five Defeats Zundy, 26-20

The Los Caballeros basket ball team, composed of members of the Los Caballeros band of this city, paced to victory in their first game of the season yesterday afternoon, defeating the Zundelowitz Junior high school aggregation, 26 to 20, in a nip and tuck battle that demanded an extra minute of play. At the end of the battle the score was deadlocked, 20-all, but the horn blowers registered six points before the extra minute had filtered by.

The Zundy men led at the half, 16 to 9, but saw their margin quickly eaten up in the closing stanza of the game. The bandsmen played without the assistance of their captain, R. A. Brand, and their regular center, Findlay Walker.

Census of Heavyweight Boxers Shows There Are Over 300 Active in Ring

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyr., 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Did you know that there are 350 more or less active heavyweight gladiators in the world?

Well, I didn't know it either, until today.

In fact, I didn't care.

I knew there are so many that they sometimes get in my hair, but I would just as soon have thought of taking a census of the cockroaches of the inhabited globe as of counting the heavies.

Personally, I consider the exact number just so much useless information, especially as there aren't a baker's dozen of 'em worth a tinker's bad word.

But Prof. Max Waxman, of Baltimo', Md., is of a mathematical turn of mind, and he is the party responsible for the statistics on the pugilistic pachyderms. Prof. Max Waxman has just issued his 1932 almanac on the heavyweight situation, and he lists approximately 300 large eggs by name.

You will observe that Professor Waxman's total does not exactly jibe with the figures I mention in my opening paragraph, but that's because I have taken the liberty of guessing the number of mastodons omitted by the professor at 50. I cannot account for Professor Waxman's inaccuracy, save on the ground that he is getting old and fat.

Professor Waxman is a pugilistic manager who has made about as much money out of ordinary gladiatorial material as any man ever in the boxing dodge.

He made a welterweight champion of Joe Dundee, after much of Joe's future was behind him. I used to watch Joe fight as a lightweight, and marvel that Professor Waxman could still admit that Joe was a great fighter. Now Professon Waxman has Joe's brother, Vincent, pegging along as a middleweight, and doing all right, at that.

Also, Professor Waxman has a heavyweight, which is a new departure for him. Up to this time the professor has always been smart enough to eschew those heavies. Yes, the professor must be getting old.

His heavyweight is Tony Galento, of New Jersey, who is about as high as a dachshund, and as wide as the Hudson. In fact, Tony Galento covers more ground, sitting down, than the Empire State building. He weighs 230 pounds without his hat.

But Professor Waxman has decided that Tony Galento can fight, so he has issued a list of heavyweights with whom matchmakers are requested to match Tony. As I say, there are 300 names on the professor's list. He couldn't find clues to any others.

He has included some who are deaf, dumb, and blind, and others who are lame and halt. He has listed several who have long since retired, and a number who are lost, strayed, or stolen. He has apparently deliberately slighted a few, including Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney. Or maybe Professor Waxman doesn't think Tony can lick these.

In the main, however, he has been fairly comprehensive in his scope, taking in the U. S. A., and most of Europe, though he omits the continental sensation, "Taranta," otherwise John D. Rogers, of America.

STEERS GET TWO

DALLAS, Jan. 13. (AP)—Transfer of William G. Styles, and Frank Joseph Garrity, catchers, to the Dallas club of the Texas league has been approved by Commissioner K. M. Landis. Styles comes to the Steers from Cincinnati outright and Garrity under option from the Chicago White Sox.

ARCHER COUNTY MEET PLANNED

League Contests to Be Held March 25 and 26

Special to The Record News.

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Jan. 13.—The annual Archer county interscholastic league meet will be held here March 25 and 26, with literary events scheduled for the first day and track and field events on the program the following day. Details of the meet were worked out by the Archer county executive committee here recently. E. W. Cullers of Megargel, director general of the county organization, presided at the meeting.

Playground base ball contests and tennis matches will be held a week in advance of the meet proper. Date for these events has been set as March 19, but it is subject to change in the event of inclement weather, it was said.

Assisting Mr. Cullers in directing the meet will be the following department heads, with each individual's department stipulated: E. H. Moore, Megargel, athletics; Miss Vera Pickard, Archer City, declamation; F. T. Gossage, Holliday, debate; Robert H. Copeland, Olney, extemporaneous speaking; Mrs. Annis Gill, Holliday, spelling; Garland D. Taylor, Olney, rural schools; Miss Bess Danchak, Holliday, music memory; H. C. Jordan, Olney, art memory; Mrs. O. M. Wylie, Archer City, choral singing; and G. P. Hardgrove, Electra, arithmetic.

Three former coaches in the American Hockey league are in different roles this winter. Red Stuart, ex-Minneapolis, is playing for Duluth; Cully Wilson, ex-St. Paul, is at Kansas City, and Kenny McKenzie, former St. Louis coach, is refereeing.

Should she have been frank?

THIS is a case where a woman paid a high price for silence. Like so many other commendable people she kept small irritations to herself. It was hard for her to speak out—even though a frank discussion might have smoothed trouble away.

Little things continually cropped up to mar her happiness. Possibly she should have overlooked them entirely. Certainly it was a grave mistake to harbor bitter thoughts. She allowed petty annoyances to pile up until her patience was almost exhausted. Then her husband grew a bit careless in his appearance—even failed to shave as often or as carefully as he should. She called this the "last straw" and left him.

• • •

Is a woman correct in assuming a man is losing respect for her or himself when he becomes careless about shaving? We think not—discomfort is a more likely reason—although stubble is a handicap in almost every business or social contact. May we suggest today's Gillette blade is the answer in cases like this.

This blade is far keener and smoother—invites frequent, close shaving. Once or twice daily use will not irritate the tenderest skin. We urge you to try this remarkable blade on our positive money-back guarantee. If you don't agree every shave is by far the cleanest and smoothest you have ever enjoyed—return the package to your dealer and he'll refund the purchase price.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (AP)—New high levels for January so far were established in the cotton market today.

While the volume of business was not large, values were at no time under the previous close. The strength in the securities markets and an evident feeling of hope that constructive developments are in the making as the result of the efforts to stimulate confidence and relieve the credit situation, had a noticeable influence on values and brought about sufficient buying to send prices up easily in the absence of selling pressure.

The March position advanced to 6.63 and closed at 6.62 a net gain of 13 points while the entire list closed firm at the best of the day with net gains of 13 to 16 points.

Reports from the south said that the basis continued firm and according to spot interests here holders of cotton were not inclined t hedge in the future market, as they are said to believe that at present prices levels the element of risk in holding cotton unhedged is not great.

The textile markets were reported less active at the recent advance but a fair business was said to be progress.

The trade demand was not of an urgent character but there were evidences of some good buying limits in the market and toward the close of the volume of demand seemed to broaden.

Liverpool cabled that the market there was lower under local and continental liquidation and reported an improved cloth demand from India although the home trade was moderate. Exports today 12,309 making 4,373,012 so far this season. Port receipts 48,779. U. S. port stocks, 4,842,514.

Futures closed firm, 13 to 16 points higher. Spots steady; middling 6.70.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 13. (AP)—While the cotton market was quiet all morning it became quite active during the afternoon. Prices were on the up-grade due to firmness of stocks and advanced sharply in the afternoon, gaining 15-17 points from the early lows. Shorts covered rather freely in the late afternoon and the market closed very steady showing net gains for the day of 14-14 points, despite a slight reaction of 2-4 points due to realizing at the end.

The market opened quiet but steady. Cables from Liverpool came in about as due to 3-penny points worse than due. Private cables stated that the market felt local and continental liquidation. Manchester cabled that there was an improved cloth demand from India, but that the home trade was moderate.

March closed at 6.60, up 11 points net for the day while May closed at 6.78 and July at 6.94, up 14 points each for the day.

Liverpool was due tomorrow 4-5 penny points up on New Orleans.

Port receipts 46,779; for week 185,285; for season 6,872,829; last season 7,273,491. Exports 12,309; for week 95,846; for season 4,280,556; last season 4,129,355. Stocks and Bonds Advance Broadly As Confidence Pervades Markets

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. (US)—There was an air of confidence displayed in the stock and bond markets today which stood out in bold relief against the deep gloom prevailing recently. In both markets broad advances were witnessed.

Many explanations were offered to explain the widespread confidence which suddenly enveloped the markets, but none were so impressive as the sharp turnabout in government bond quotations.

This group enjoyed the widest and broadest advance in weeks. Explanation for their performance was not difficult to find, yet the speculative community maintained its faith in the elusive "inflation" possibilities which have gained such widespread acceptance.

Upturn in government bonds, however, could hardly be attributed to inflationary hopes; the opposite price trend would naturally be expected if such were the major influence in the market strength.

Rather, the government bonds were responding to the Washington declaration of Secretary Mellon that the major aim, and natural desire, of the administration is to balance the national budget. This column has very emphatically stated that the achievement of a budget balance would be accepted by the most powerful elements in the market as the most heartening sign on which to peg confidence for revival.

It will be remembered that when the Democratic chieftains promised their full support toward balancing the budget, the promise was greeted here as a most gratifying element in confidence-restoration. What better inaugural-point for revival could be conceived than the assurance to the business and financial worlds than the national budget is to be balanced with a minimum of new financing?

So profound and practical an economic student as B. M. Baruch is of the conviction that a balanced U. S. Budget will serve notice upon the entire world of the undisputed financial integrity of this nation, a notice which will once and for all end all question and doubt concerning the investment attraction of the U. S. government bonds and of the American dollar. In his opinion, such achievement might well serve as the starting point for the return back to prosperity.

With the government bond list showing such strength as to result in net gains of one to two points, it was not difficult for the speculative sponsors of the market to attract somewhat greater following. At the same time, it was very obvious that pool managers are playing to the limit the present improved sentiment, and there was evidence that some of the more fortunate recent buyers were content to take some of their profits.

Squeezing of the short account was responsible for a good part of the gains in many prominent issues, especially such as Auburn, Telephone, Case, Can, and Steel. The same was true of Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, and similar stocks which have been favorite vehicles for short-selling.

Most of the big bears in the market, as disclosed here repeatedly more than a month ago, had virtually retired from the short side, leaving this selling entirely to the "Teddy Bears," or public traders who have been trying to catch turns on the short side. While individually unimportant, such small speculators have in the aggregate created sizeable short accounts and they are not financially prepared for sharp advances.

While inflation talk fills the air in stock market quarters, the calm observer is watching the commodities. It is very illogical to expect inflation to help stocks without influencing the commodity list.

The federal reserve action in lowering its bill-buying rate was a quite natural sequence to the statement of one of the system's chief executives, who pointed out that the gold base exists for potential $35,000,000,000 expansion in credit. This statement, as predicted, has begun to be more widely appreciated.

At the same time, it is remembered in more conservative circles that an undue inflation would hardly be desirable. And, furthermore, the impending efforts of the railroads to secure deflation of wages is hardly in keeping with expectations of immediate inflation.

The deflation, in other words, must first be halted before inflation is to be expected. Speculative bonds would therefore be the logical immediate beneficiaries of nearby improvement.

Perhaps the most notable features of today's market was the complete ignoring of foreign developments.

Delivered group one—Corn, No. 2 mixed 42@43c; No. 2 white 43@44½c; No. 2 yellow 43@46c½.

Delivered group three—Oats, No. 2 red 28@26c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. (AP)—Cheered by buoyancy of the stock market, grains showed a late upward trend today.

One of the features which stood out was that wheat price advances took place in the teeth of European reports saying Argentine wheat was urgently offered in efforts of as much as possible before British empire empire quota plans curtailed shipments from non-empire sources. Besides, comprehensive advices to railroad officials indicated that drouth in domestic spring wheat territory had been broken, and that subsoil moisture was now excellent.

Wheat closed firm ¼@½c above yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to ¼c higher, oats at ⅛c decline to a shade advance, and provisions showing a rise of 12 to 17 cents.

Corn and oats were swayed chiefly by the action of wheat. Temporarily, corn dropped to the lowest price since Dec. 30. Rallies were promoted, however, by likelihood that colder weather would increase demand for feed.

Provisions were helped upward by grains, notwithstanding late downturns in hog values.

Closing indemnities—Wheat, May 56½@56⅝c; July 56c, 57⅛c; Sept. 57⅝@57½c. Corn, May 40⅛@40¼c, 40⅝@40⅜c; July 41⅝c, 42⅜c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. (US)—Prospects for colder weather over much of the belt were regarded as bullish and caused a moderate amount of short covering in wheat. However, the trade failed to work up much enthusiasm over zero temperatures with Chicago enjoying springlike weather.

Colder weather in the northern sections of the corn belt was looked upon as bearish by maize traders. It is expected to bring the long awaited and much heralded increase in movement. Though rumors of the movement have been revived this week figures on marketings fall to show such a development.

Reports that France was in the market for 20,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were unconfirmed, but the fact that that country was the best buyer of Manitobas today lent some color to the statements.

Rain is still needed in parts of India where the crops are growing actively, Broomhall says.

CASH GRAIN

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 13. (AP)—Wheat—Unchanged to ¼c higher. No. 2 dark hard, 64½c; No. 2 hard, 49½@60½c; No. 2 red, 54@55¼c. Close: May, 49¼c; July, 48⅝c.

Corn—Up ½ to 1c. No. 2 white nominally, 40¼@41½c; No. 2 yellow nominally, 41¼@42½c; No. 2 mixed nominally, 39½@40½c. Close: May, 38⅝c; July, 40¼c.

Oats—Unchanged. No. 2 white, 30c..

CHICAGO, Jan. 13. (AP)—Wheat—No. 3 hard, 56½c; No. 1 northern spring, 65½c; No. 2 mixed, 54¼c.

Corn—No. 3 yellow, 34½@36c; No. 3 white, 36½@34c.

Oats—No. 2 white, 25@25⅝c.

STUDENTS GIVE PLAY TONIGHT

Blue Curtain Club Presents Comedy-Drama

Rehearsal from sunset to near the midnight hour Wednesday under the experienced eye of Miss Juanita Kinsey completed preparation of the Junior College Blue Curtain Club players for the presentation of "Kempie," renowned comedy-drama, at the junior college auditorium Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Brilliant humor constructed upon the independence and freshness of modern youth is the principal ingredient of the play to be seen Thursday night.

Its cast will be headed by Wilmot Hunt, in the title role, an actor who participated in the one-act play last spring which won the state tournament. He will wage a courageous but losing battle for the girl, to be played by Miss Cecilia Terrill, who eventually turns toward a youthful financier to be portrayed by Fred C. Barron Jr.

Among the remaining players chosen for "Kempie" are Bryant Creighton, of Little Theater fame, and Miss Billie Leslie Stimson, who will impersonate the harassed parents of the popular leading lady.

Tickets are to be on sale all day Thursday at the Renfro Drug store, Eighth and Scott, at 25 cents each. Proceeds of the play will be used to send representatives of Wichita Falls Junior college to district and state meets.

AN ILLUSTRATION

He: Life is unjust; some get everything that is good and beautiful and others get everything that is ugly and bad.

She: Yes, our marriage is an example—you got me, but I only got you.—Passing Show.

Two Women Included in Group Taking State Barber Exams

Fifteen barbers, including two women, took examinations for state license and certification here Wednesday before Roy W. Johnston, president of the state board of barber examiners, and E. T. Jenkins of Fort Worth, a new member of the board.

Examinations were held at the shop of K. C. Spell, 717 Eighth street. Of the 15 applicants for licenses, two were women. Four of the 15 were students who have finished courses of training, and 11 are barbers who have moved into Texas from other states.

The state law provides for the holding of examinations every three months. They are designed to demonstrate the applicant's preparation for his trade, and to acquaint him thoroughly with the sanitary regulations of the state for barber shops.

Pastor Gives Talk At Optimist Luncheon

Optimists present at the weekly luncheon of that organization at the Kemp hotel Wednesday noon were admonished by Rev. S. F. Martin, pastor of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church, to "talk health, happiness and prosperity to all they meet," as an evidence of and aid to material optimism.

Preparation for future tasks will be improved by "helping others to look on the sunny side of life," the speaker said.

Two piano solos were played by James Youngblood, and Ralph Pond led a club singsong, with Miss Mildred Anderson at the piano. The program was arranged by Jess McLarry.

JURY UPHOLDS SCHOOL FINE

Woman Loses Appeal After County Court Trial

Found guilty by a jury on a charge of having failed to send her three children to school, a woman was fined $5 and costs before Judge Irvin J. Vogle in the county court at law Wednesday.

The case was tried on appeal of the defendant from the justice court of Judge R. V. Gwinn, where she was found guilty several days ago on the same charge, and was given a like penalty. Counsel for the defense immediately filed a motion for a new trial.

The defense offered Wednesday before a crowd which filled the courtroom to overflowing throughout the day contended that a private school is being maintained at the defendant's home for the children in question. In support of that contention, the woman allegedly acting as teacher testified at length relative to the instruction being given. Pupils number the defendant's three children and two children of the witness, it was shown.

Under persistent cross-questioning by Otis E. Nelson, assistant county attorney, the witness admitted that a 'schedule of study" offered in court had been prepared since the first trial of the case earlier this month. She also admitted that no text books except the Bible and a few song books had been available for the school until about three days ago, when graded books were obtained from the city school system by making a deposit to cover their value.

In the first trial, the defendant claimed that she was forbidden by religious belief from sending her children to public schools. Her religion taught a rebirth without sex, she said, and recognition of sex in public school teachings was pointed out as being unbiblical.

Mangum Will Observe Washington Bicentennial

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Jan. 13.—Mangum will participate in the bicentennial observance of George Washington's birth with an inclusive program which will begin shortly and last until Thanksgiving.

Mayor Ralph E. Helper has appointed a committee to have charge of the part of this city in commemorating the 200th anniversary of the first president of the United States.

H. T. Lawrence will represent the city of Mangum; E. L. Greer, the chamber of commerce; Dr. J. B. Hollis, Rotary club; Fred W. Miller, Kiwanis club and Mrs. Hazel Hollingsworth, Business and Professional Women's club.

An extensive tree-planting campaign will be one of the major features of the activities.

Woman Acquitted on Charge of Vagrancy

A woman charged with vagrancy was acquitted by an instructed verdict before Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law Wednesday morning.

Trial of a young woman on a charge of adultery was begun late Wednesday afternoon. Selection of the jury had been completed before the court recessed until 9 a. m. Thursday.

Postmaster Seeks Owners of Undelivered Goods

Few Packages Go Astray During the Holiday Season Here

There's an intriguing Christmas present for "Vera," sent all the way from Hollywood with good wishes from "Thelma" among the undelivered parcels held at the Wichita Falls postoffice. The card within the box is the only address, so that postoffice officials can neither deliver the gift nor return it to the giver.

Vera's package is one of the very few which went astray here this year. Postmaster O. P. Maricle, pleased that so few senders were careless in addressing gifts, said the tireless newspaper, radio, and government instructions, pounded into the public every year, are at last beginning to have an effect—the givers are slowly becoming educated to the need for a clear address and one that wont come off.

This slippery Christmas paper that nothing will stick on is blamed for the fact that somebody has failed to get a postcard picture of three charming children, received in the postoffice here wrapped in stiff green paper, with no address. A little blonde girl, 4, or maybe 5 years old, stands beside a bench on which sit her little sister, curly headed and very pretty, and a baby who may be either a brother or a sister.

Mr. Maricle is anxious for the picture to reach the proper hands, but he hasn't even a greeting card to help out with this one.

A grandmother, two of whose grandchildren are named Rosemary and Jack, has an undelivered gift awaiting her. There's a sound as of beads when the small package is shaken. On the card Rosemary and Jack wish grandmother a merry Christmas. There is no return address.

The general delivery department has a stack of uncalled for gifts, some with names missing or undecipherable. But these will go back to their senders, thanks to the return addresses.

The others, with neither address, are doomed to the dead letter office unless they can be identified.

WICHITAN HELD IN ROBBERY

Victim Points to Six-Footer As Bandit

Robbery with firearms charges were filed Wednesday against Jake Hager in connection with the hijacking of J. C. Anderson here early Sunday morning. Two armed men forced Anderson to accompany them into the alley behind the Panhandle building and took $3 from him shortly after 1 o'clock.

The charge was filed after Anderson had partially identified Hager in an inspection at the police station. The suspect is more than six feet high and wore clothing similar to that worn by one of two hijackers, Police Chief Dick Morris said.

A third burglary charge was filed Wednesday against Frank Allen, negro, arrested after a variety of stolen goods had been found in his home by police investigators. The new charge was brought after Mrs. T. R. Vague, 2172 Avenue J had identified a quantity of baby clothing which she said had been stolen from her home at 1916 Victory last July. The clothing was among the loot found in Allen's home by Plainclothesmen Dowdy, Pogue, and Hart.

J. B. Ferguson claimed a pair of Crockett spurs, valued at $15, also discovered with the stolen goods. He said the spurs had been taken from his car on Dec. 11. The $5 reward he presented was turned over to the police relief fund.

DEATHS

ANTON STANZEL

The body of Anton Stanzel, 71, who died in a hospital here Tuesday night, was sent to Halletsville, Texas, for burial at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Arrangements were in charge of Hines mortuary.

MRS. G. W. THOMAS

Mrs. G. W. Thomas, 47, Anson, early Wednesday morning succumbed to a brief illness in a Wichita Falls hospital. The body was sent to Anson Wednesday afternoon by Hines mortuary. Burial will be there.

Willard L. Thomas, Brownwood, a son; and Mrs. G. L. Foster, Abilene, a daughter, survive.

A. & M. Experts to Give Meat Demonstration

County agents from many Northwest Texas counties, business men, farmers, and the general public is expected to attend the demonstration of meat cutting and curing at the Iowa Park experiment station Thursday at 1 p. m., according to G. C. McGown, county farm agent.

Experts from Texas A. & M. college will be in charge, it was announced. Three hogs and one lamb will be butchered.

LIONS CLUB PROGRAM

Members of the Lions club present at the weekly meeting at the Wichita club Wednesday noon heard an address on "Leadership and Organization" by Dr. George P. Horst, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Varied musical entertainment was furnished by a quartet composed of R. S. Fidler, W. R. Duke, Dr. A. D. Pattillo, and J. G. Eggleston. Miss Lorene Tucker played accompaniments, and also sang a solo.

Tax Collection Offices Begin Work Of Returning Delinquent Penalties

Remittance of penalty and interest money paid on delinquent taxes since Oct. 1 already is being made by two local governmental units, and prepartions are being made by others to begin paying the rebates soon after Feb. 1, it was learned Wednesday.

Wichita County Water Improvement districts Nos. 1 and 2 already are paying the computed refunds. G. A. Remington, general manager of those enterprises, stated that all taxpayers who have claims for penalty and interest refunds should come to the office immediately and get their checks.

City, county and school district remittances will not be made until after Feb. 1. County Tax Collector Arthur C. Howard stated that the January rush will prevent his department preparing the refunds before next month. Checks for the remittances will be mailed in February. The excess payments are being held in escrow, he said.

Application blanks are now being prepared by the city for use of those who will receive remittances from the city. They will be available at the office of City Tax Collector W. R. Hyer this week. When filled out by the taxpayer, the form should be filed with Mr. Hyer. It will be checked against the tax rolls, corrected if necessary, approved, and handed to the city clerk for payment. Checks are to be issued from the city clerk's office on such approved applications for refund.

Plans of the school board for making remittance of penalty and interest have not yet been completed, it was said.

The school of journalism at University of Missouri has a collection of 60 foreign flags.

'Dollar Day' at Wichita Church To Raise Funds

In the hope that "Dollar Day" will prove as beneficial to his church as it does to mercantile establishments, Dr. N. F. Grafton, pastor of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church announces such a day for that institution. He has sent a letter to members and friends of the church, as follows:

"My friend: Sunday, Jan. 17 is 'Dollar Day' in the Floral Heights Presbyterian church. We have a payment to make on our church the next day. We are asking our membership to be 100 per cent loyal. We will put our dollar on the table Dollar Day.

"Would you, my friend, bring or send us a dollar for the sake of old times?

"The pastor got stuck in the mud in Oklahoma New Year's day. A stranger nosed his car up behind and gave the needed push to shove the car out. You can help us push with your dollar."

Salvation Army Head To Arrive Here Today

"It's a truly modern cigarette"

YOUNG AND LOVELY!

A flicker studio sent out a rush call for Loretta Young's big sister. Sister was out—so Loretta rushed in . . . and the film-flammers have been giving Loretta a big rush ever since! Her new WARNER, FIRST NATIONAL PICTURE "TAXI," is a panic. Later, you'll see her as a Chinese gal—slant eyes and all—in "THE HONORABLE MR. WONG." She's Luckied for four years. Good for you, Loretta—and good for us. Mr. and Mrs. People—not a cent was paid for Loretta's statement.

"I'm certainly grateful for LUCKY STRIKE. It's a truly modern cigarette for it gives me modern throat protection. And your improved Cellophane wrapper is wonderfully modern, too. It opens without any coaxing—a flip of the little tab and there are my LUCKIES."
