JAP MINISTER DENIES ALLEGED THREAT ON U. S.

EXCHANGE OF NOTES WITH HUGHES BELIEVED WILL EASE PRESENT CRISIS

WASHINGTON, April 19 (UP)—Ambassador Hanihara, of Japan, in another note to Secretary of State Hughes tonight, expressly disavows any intent to threaten the United States in his recent "grave consequences" note protesting against the enactment of a Japanese exclution law by congress.

Replying to this note Secretary Hughes declared he had never construed the words "grave consequences," to be a threat the construction put upon them by members of congress.

The exchange of notes was regarded in diplomatic circles here as having appreciably eased the crisis over congress action writing the exclusion provision into the immigration bill.

"Frankly, I must say, I am unable to understand how the two words read in their context could be construed as meaning anything like a threat," Hanihara wrote. "I simply tried to emphasize the most unfortunate and deplorable effect upon our traditional friendship which might result from the adoption of a particular clause in the proposed measure.

"It would seriously impair the good and mutually helpful relationship and disturb the spirit of mutual regard and confidence which characterizes our intercourse of the last three quarters of a century and which was considerably strengthened by the Washington conference as well as the most magnanimous sympathy shown by your people in the recent calamity in my country, whereas there is every promise of hearty cooperation between Japan and the United States which is believed to be essential to the welfare not only of themselves, but of the rest of the world, it would create, or at least tend to create an unhappy atmosphere of ill feeling and misgiving over relations between our two countries.

"You know, I am sure, that nothing could be further from my thought than to give cause for offense to your people or their government."

In reply Hughes wrote Harihara: "I am gratified to receive your letter of the seventeenth, inst., with your frank and friendly explanation of the intent of your recent note in relation to the pending bill. It gives me pleasure to be able to assure you that reading the words "grave consequences" in the light of their context, and knowing the spirit of friendship and understanding you have always manifested in our long association, I had no doubt that those words were taken in the sense you have stated, and I was quite sure that it was far from your thought to express or imply any threat."

EIGHT NEW CRUISERS ASKED IN REPORT OF NAVAL AFFAIRS BODY

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The house naval affairs committee today recommended a naval construction program involving the reconditioning of six first class line battleships and the building of eight new cruisers. This construction is essential to the proper balance of the navy, the committee's report said. The battleships were said not to be in condition for actual battle and the cruisers to be necessary on account of the navy's deficiency in this respect.

GERMANY TO ASK POWER OVER COLONIES

By United Press

BERLIN, April 19.—Germany is preparing to demand restoration of "full sovereignty" over her occupied territories as soon as the reparations question is settled, it was indicated here tonight.

Manifestly as preliminary to such a course the riech gocernment has queried England, asking whether that nation shares Premier Poincare's views that occupation of the Ruhr and Rhineland by the Franco-Belgians must be retained for at least two years after a reparations agreement is reached.

No answer to the note has yet been received, but it is learned from sources close to Foreign Minister Stressman that areply favorably to Germany is hoped for. At any rate Germany will demand full sovereignty over all her territory when reparations negotations get under way in Paris.

Stressman, it is believed, will also hold that German prisoners must be returned as soon as the reparations problem is settled.

The attacks of the nationalists, headed by Von Helfferich will have no effect on the program decided on by the foreign minister, according to an informant of the United Press.

The nationalists have been stressing especially that Germany will virtually lose control of her railroads if the Dawes recommendations are put into effect but Stressmann does not hold this view and believes the German lines can produce the full amount of revenue for reparations estimated by the Dawes experts.

Minister of Finance Luther, in a speech today began the government campaign for support of its acceptance of the Dawes report declaring "full economic and financial unity of the reich" is essential if the country is to return to normal conditions.

WHEELER GIVES BOND FOR APPEARANCE AT TRIAL

By United Press

Wheeler, of Montana, chief prosecutor of the Daugherty investigation committee appeared before the federal commissioner here today and gave his personal bond of $1,000 to appear for trial at Great Falls, Montana, on May 5 on his indictment for illegal receipt of retaining fees as a senator.

Wheeler was not arrested, the commissioner showing him every consideration. He was notified today that a warrant for his arrest had arrived from Montana and he promptly presented himself to the commissoner to arrange bond.

CHASH OF BRIDGE IMPERILLED MANY

By United Press

NEW YORK, April 19.—Lives of several thousand baseball fans were imperilled this afternoon when the easterly superstructure of the McCombs bridge crashed, narrowly missing two trolley cars filled with homeward bound fans.

Tons of steel came thundering down on the pavement of the bridge carrying away live wires, girders and supporters in a roar that could be heard for blocks.

In addition to several hundred persons jammed in the trolleys, the bridge and its approaches were crowded with pedestrains and automobiles.

A panic ensued on the bridge, which is near the polo graunds, when the big steel girders came snapping and crashing down in an easterly direction. Trolley wires were torn away for a distance of a block East of the bridge and the entire length of the structure.

The collapse occurred a few minutes before the main rush from the baseball park after the game, or lives must certainly have been lost.

A few minutes later 30,000 fans came pouring from the grounds and many of them sought to make their way home by way of the bridge.

Bridge tenders and police, sensing the danger from live wires, fought to hold back the crowd which was ignorant of the danger.

Live wires, heavily charged with electricity were strewn about the easterly approach and the power had to be cut off.

EL PASO WANTS NEXT MEET OF W. T. C. OF C

BROWNWOOD, Texas, April 19 The El Pasoites, representing the Woman's Department of the Chamber of Commerce of that border city, among the women organizations which will attend the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention here May 13, 14 and 15 will accompany the business delegation of that city which has organized to put in a claim and bid for the 1925 convention of the world's second largest civic body, according to the earnest message received today from Alba H. Warren, president of the Chamber of Commerce there.

The spirited and organized delegation will get off their special train in Brownwood headed by Mayor R. M. Dudley or R. E. Thompson, amid the strains of music from their Boy Scout Band, and start work immediately for the 1925 affair, Mr. Warren stated in the communication, adding that interest in the convention is running high in that city and that the El Paso Chamber of Commerce is in dead earnest about the matter of getting the convention for El Paso.

El Paso is the convention center of that part of the State, a large number of meetings being held there every year with delegates from all over the Southwest participating, and the city is very well prepared, indeed, to take care of the multitude which is characteristic of the annual meetings of this body, which in six years has grown to be Texas' biggest convention.

El Paso is making no limitations along the line of getting the convention for next year and the business men and directors of the El Paso Chamber of Commerce have combined their strength to put over the campaign and return to their city far out in West Texas to start early preparations to entertain the 1925 meeting.

SOLDIERS BONUS MAY PASS VETO

COOLIDGE BE GIVEN CHOICE OF SIGNING MEASURE OR FORCING THIS

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Coolidge must sign the soldiers insurance bill or run the risk of having his own friends pass it over his veto.

That, in substance, was the ultimatum served on the president tonight by Senator Watson, Indiana, a staunch administration supporter, who frequently speaks for the white house.

It was delivered during the senate debate on the bonus bill today while demberatic leader Robinson sought vainly to put "thumb screws" on republican leaders to learn the president's attitude on the measure.

While Watson disclaimed any knowledge of the president's views he said that Mr. Coolidge had been warned by a number of republican senators that they would vote to overide his veto of the insurance plan, although they would support his opposition to the cash option feature, substitute offered by democrats.

As a result of the day's developmens, he passage of the insurance plan early next week seemed sure.

Senator Curtis, Kansas, in charge of the measure, said tonight that a vote may be reached Monday. Advocates of the measure claimed there will not be more than a dozen votes in opposition to it.

GERMAN ENTRY INTO LEAGUE IS URGED

By United Press

YORK, England, April 19.—The report of the Dawes committee of experts which examined Germany's capacity to pay reparations, affords Europe an opportunity to begin afresh" Prime Minister Ramsey MacDonald of Britain's labor government declared in a political speech here this afternoon.

Germany must be admitted to the League of Nations, the prime minister said and the League must serve as a basis for European peace in the future.

MacDonald also defended vigorously the action of his government in granting full diplomatic recognition to Russia and starting the Anglo-Russian conference now under way in London.

"The Anglo-Russian conference will succeed," he said, and our trade will show even a greater improvement as a result."

Returning to the foreign situation, the prime minister continued: "The report of the committee of experts which has just completed its work in Paris affords an opportunity for Europe to begin afresh.

"By getting Germany to join the League of Nations, an organization would be complete on which I should like to see based the future peace of Europe.

"We should tell Germany we have no preparations for reprisal in event she defaults on payments she promises to make us, but if there is a default then France and England will be closer than ever."

MacDonald indicated his belief however that Germany is not likely to violate any new agreement on reparations she may enter into as a result of the Dawes recommendations.

ONLY TWO LEADERS OF REBELS LEFT IN FIELD

JUAREZ, Mexico, April 18.—General Doningo Arrieta and seventy revolutionists, including Colonel Antonio Monarres, have surrendered uconditionally to General Marcelo Caraveo, according to information reaching General Armenta, commander of the Juarez garrison.

This leaves only two important Villiasta leaders in the field, Hipolito Xilla and General Manuel Chao.

General Anselmo Armenta, commander of the Juarez garrison is investigating the finding of 25 bombs, surgical instruments and bandages unearthed in a small settlement east of Juarez. The bombs are similar to those found in the city market last January when a revolutionary plot was discovered and five men executed.

The officials believe that the bombs and surgical supplies were hidden by Villiastas in former campaigns.

OIL ATTORNEYS FILE ANSWER TO SUITS

By United Press

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 19.—Denying that anything fraudulent or illegal marked the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair, attorneys for the Mammoth Oil company today filed answer to the governments' suit for cancellation of the lease.

The answer denies any knowledge of a transfer of a jurisdiction over the reserve from the navy department to the department of the interior. If such transfer was made, the answer alleges, the executive order decreeing it was neither illegal nor invalid.

All allegations of fa ts contained in the government's petition in equity are answered at great length and in minute detail.

Regarding charges that Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, made false representations in connection with the transfer of authority the answer states neither the company nor any person connected with it had knowledge of them.

It neither denies knowledge of any attempts by Fall to secure any "advantage," profit or benefit to himself or for Harry Sinclair or for any one else or of his doing anything "not in the interests of and for the United States."

Negotiations preliminary to the granting of the lease, it is asserted were conducted on behalf of the government by Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy, who made use of the officers of the navy, of Secretary Fall and of the bureau and personnel of the interior department," that Denby proceeded lawfully and signed the lease in full exercise of the discretion vested in him by law, and that there was no secrecy about the negotiations.

If the prayer of the government should be granted the answer declares, the company would be entitled to credit for money spent on properties and for various obligations which have enhanced the value of the property by $5,000,000 so that no decree for the government should be made except on condition that the company be fully reimbursed.

A reply by the government must be filed within two weeks from today after which Judge T. Blake Kennedy will set a date for the hearing to begin.

FIRE INCENDIARY IS BELIEF OF OFFICIALS

By United Press

CHICAGO, April 19.—Police and fire department officials were almost convinced tonight that the fire which destroyed the Curran building here causing the death of nine persons, eight of them firemen was of incendiary origin.

Three men are under arrest in connection with the investigation. They are Samuel Moore, Leo Unell and Polinsky. Moore and Unell conducted a leather goods plant in the building. Police said they have found out that Moore and Unell took out $32,000 insurance on their stock of goods several days ago.

Polinsky held the insurance policy in lieu of a mortgage on the goods in the shop.

Another tenant of the building told police that moore and Uell talked with him about an hour and a half before the fire started last night and that he was asked whether all the tenants were out of the building. Samuel Kravitz, 10, told police he saw a man run from the building just before the fire started.

If the coroner's inquest shows evidence of murder, arson will be placed against the persons involved, Coroner Oscar Wolff stated.

J. P. McDonnell, deputy state fire-marshal conducting a separate investigation said all the evidence points to the use of gasoline in the fire.

More than a score of the firemen were injured and it is feared one or two may die.

The ruins of the building are being carefully sifted as a woman told police that she saw a boy and girl playing near the place when the fire started. She feared that the explosion which caused the collapse of the structure, burying many firemen also engulfed the children.

NEFF DEMANDS UNINSTRUCTED DELEGATION

DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN OF STATE HURLS DEFIANT BROADSIDE AT GOV.

TEMPLE, Tex., April 19.—Speaking to a house that filled every available bit of space in the opera house here tonight, Governor Pat M. Neff renewed his opposition to McAdoo and Underwood as democratic presidential nominees, with an insistent plea that the delegation from Texas to the national convention be sent uninstructed. W. S. Rowland of Temple was master of ceremonies, and the governor was introduced by District Judge J. H. Jones, of Belton.

WACO, Texas, April 19. (UP)—Frank C. Davis, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, today split with Governor Pat M. Neff in the controversy raging among Texas democratic leaders over the state delegation to the New York convention, in the following broadside:

"Since the governor first became a candidate in 1920, I have experienced both pride and pleasure in following him implicitly through good and evil report, and it is with sincere regret that I find myself unable to follow him in his present campaign to secure an uninstructed delegation from Texas to the democratic national convention.

"I regard William Gibbs McAdoo whom I have known since 1912, when I met him in the Baltimore convention, as a great constructive democrat, whose absolute honesty and incorruptibility was conclusively demonstrated by his incomparable record as secretary of the treasury, both in time of war and in time of peace.

"No man in the history of the world ever handled so much money and no charge has ever been responsibly made affecting the integrity of any one of his official transactions.

Says Charges not Justified.

"Governor Neff in his speeches has made bitter charges against Mr. McAdoo which I think are unjustifiable and as I believe, unwarranted Coupled with these charges he asks that an uninstructed delegation be sent to the national convention. The governor's speeches have been widely exploited by the reactionary press of the country, and broadcasted to the world, and under the circumstances I can not but feel that to vote for an uninstructed delegation is a vote to endorse all the governor has said and to brand Mr. McAdoo as being what I know him not to be, and I would reply inlike terms if the proposition were reversed.

"This, I am unwilling to do. McAdoo has done too much for Texas and for the nation and for progressive democracy for any one to get my aid or consent in descrediting him, and I hope and believe that the progressive democracy of Texas will answer these charges as the democrats of Missouri and Georgia have answered them. I favor a Texas delegation instructed by the people without dictation from any source.

Raps Old Custom.

"It is insisted that the people might as well send a parrot trained to answer a roll call as to send an instructed delegation. That involves a reflection on every delegation that has been sent from Texas to a national convention for nearly 50 years, for all of them have been uninstructed. I have had the honor to be a member of several of them, and I have always felt proud to be the instructed agent of the great Texas democracy. When the Texas delegation at Baltimore, for more than forty ballots, through its great chairman Cone Johnson, spoke out in clarion tones, forty votes for Woodrow Wilson,' throughout the long and weary days and nights of that struggle, it

A PLEA FOR MIRTH

Sorrows there are a-plenty,
For ever the old hearts bleed,
So laugh when you're brave and twenty,
And give us the joys we need.
Sing of the joys you're reaping
And dance all our cares away;
For we who have come to weeping
Have need of your mirth today.

Sorrows and griefs are many,
As even the young shall find,
And glad are the old if any
Shall whistle them out of mind.
So give us your merriest laughter
And sing to us while you may;
New heartaches may come soon after,
But give us your mirth today.

Don't add to our hours of grieving
Or open our wounds of old;
Come around with your merry thieving
And steal every care we hold.
We have wept and may weep tomorrow,
But now we would share your play,
For we who have bowed to sorrow
Have need of your birth today.

AVALANCHE AUTO SHOW GREAT SUCCESS

The Morning Avalanche Automobile Show was a success from every viewpoint.

Thousands of enthusiastic visitors witnessed the showing of a larger and more complete array of automobiles than was ever shown in Lubbock and sales in this business were very materially increased during the two days.

The Western Star orchestra rendered splendid service in helping to entertain the visitors, and every automobile man who had any part whatsoever in putting on the show may feel that his efforts were appreciated by Lubbock's many visitors on this occasion.

The success of the automobile show cannot be attributed to the efforts of any one, two or a half dozen men, but to all of the automobile dealers who have given the Avalanche management every bit of cooperation possible in staging the show.

The Dodge Motor Company of which Walter Royalty is manager, contributed greatly to the show by displaying a Type A special sedan, which had not been shown to the plains until it was exhibited yesterday. This beautiful car attracted everyone who visited the show, and enjoyed great popularity. A Dodge roadster completed that company's contribution to the show, and also attracted many who attended the show.

Ragland Bros. of the Ragland Motor Company exhibited a four passenger Nash coupe and a Nash roadster. These cars have found a hearty welcome on the plains and the success of this company in Lubbock can be largely attributed to the fine points of these cars and their exceptional roadability.

The exhibit of Overland and Willys Knight cars by the Lub-Tex Motor Company was a great feature of the show, and the sale of the Willys Knight which was shown during the morning cut that company's exhibits down to Overlands exclusively, but this family is well known wherever motors are discussed, and they were as popular as usual with those who attended the show. An Overland Champion and a sedan were exhibited.

A studebaker Coach and sedan were exhibited by Cullum Bros. These cars attracted much attention and the show will in all probability prove of great value to the dealers due to the comment made on these automobiles by the many who were in attendance. Such models as Cullum Brothers displayed on this occasion would attract attention anywhere and the interest shown in these cars was beyond exception.

The four-passenger Chevrolet coupe exhibited by the Kuykendall Chevrolet company was acclaimed by many to be the most attractive job put out by that company, while the sedan proved a very popular model. Mr. Kuykendall has not been in the automobile business in Lubbock but a few days, but he is putting his business to the front and such exhibits as he had at the show will soon give him a place among the best known dealers on the plains.

With typical Chrysler attractiveness, the Chrysler Imperial sedan exhibited by George F. Mulkey, claimed much attention of all while the sport model Maxwell touring shared an equal portion of popularity. Mr. Mulkey has been so energetic in placing the merits of these automobiles before the public that he has established these makes firmly in this territory and is enjoying a good business.

The Hudson and Essex exhibited by the Jones Motor Company were winning features of the show, and keen interest was shown in both cars. The upholstering in the Hudson coach which was done by Kirby Smith of Lubbock was attractive to many of the visitors.

The Lubbock Auto Company management was not to be outdone by others who exhibited new and attractive models, and by exhibiting a Ford Tudor and a Lincoln Phaeton, the latter having been in use for the past six months, hit a winning key and received many compliments from the visitors. The Lincoln which had been in use for the past six months appears new in practically every respect and this exhibit was shown for the purpose of emphacising the fine qualities in Lincoln workmanship.

The West Texas Gray company was said to have been the first of the dealers in Lubbock to make a sale after the show had been formally announced, when a Gray touring car was delivered to J. G. Keaster of 2111 10th street. This company exhibited a one ton truck a coupe, sedan and touring car, all being of the Gray family. The West Texas Gray company building was the scene of the show, and all who visited the place were delighted with the exhibits and decorations.

J. E. Connor and J. W. Cummins, of the Lubbock Battery & Electric Company had an attractive display of batteries and Bock electrical equipment that attracted no little attenion.

C. A. HOLCOMB ANNOUNCES FOR SHERIFF.

In making my announcement for this important office I deem it right to give the people a short sketch of myself and what I stand for.

I was born in Bell county, Texas 44 years ago, have lived in Texas all of my life, have lived in Lubbock the last 13 years, during which time I served as City Marshal two years, and as sheriff four years, hence I am not a stranger to all of the people of Lubbock County, but realizing that there are many new comers in Lubbock county, I take this method of informing them about myself and I hope before the campaign is over I will be able to meet all of you.

I am and have always been, a democrat, and as such I believe in stfict enforcement of all laws thru the legally constituted authorities under the constitution and procedure of my state. I am opposed to mob violence in any form and therefore cannot as a public officer countenance any resort to Creek bottom courts of any kind.

I have always believed that every man has a right to a just and legal trial and I believe that every violator of law should be brought to justice speedily, and it is my motto to all prosecutions that are placed in my hands as soon as can be done, I believe that my past record will show this to be the fact, and I believe it to be the duty of a peace officer to prevent crime as much as possible, and not allow klicks and klans to form mobs for the purpose of violating the laws.

ART ACORD PICTURE WAS BROUGHT IN AT LAST MINUTE

Manager Rogers, of the R and R Lindsey theatre has shown keen interest in his patrons, and on Thursday when the regular Saturday night serial, Art Acord in "Oregon Trail," did not arrive because of another picture having been shipped in its place, he wired the distribution house at Dallas, ordered the picture shipped to Sweetwater by express and he made an automobile trip to that place Friday afternoon and night, and returned the serial to Lubbock in time for the regular 10:00 o'clock show Saturday mroning.

A great deal of expense was incurred in the trip to and from Sweetwater, yet Mr. Rogers did not wish to disappoint the patrons who have been keeping up with the picture, and this effort on his part was appreciated by all of them.

WHAT EASTER MEANS

Inspired through the Resurrection of Jesus, a band of fishermen initiated the observance of Easter, a movement that has become the most powerful spiritual force in existence, for it does away with barbarism, and cruelty and wrong wherever it obtains recognition in the minds of men. On Easter day many people, with unseeing minds, look only at the surface aspects. They note the bright flowers and the cheering music, and the pretty clothes and think that is all—they do not see the full beauty of the festival.

With the advent of spring comes the sweet perfume of apple blossoms, the lilac and the budding beauties of nature's resurrection—the incarnation of life in the vegetable and perhaps something akin to the reincarnation of human life. Certain it is a similarity between animal and vegetable and human life, but we cling to the faith that man, of all creation, is mortal, and his soul endures forever. That is the lesson taught in the resurrection of Jesus.

The Sweet spring breeze, blowing warmly from the south, gently whispers: "I am the life renewer, the harbinger of happy summer days, the herald of fruitful harvests, the call of animation to a myriad of throbbing, living things in land, in hill, in dale."

The loyal heart is once more reminded that God is ever trying to enter the human heart, and to mold human life and social institutions into forms of love and justice. His efforts to win human loyalty may be felt in the experience of any one with the open heart. The most wonderful and historic of these efforts was the mission of Jesus Christ, who revealed God's nature and strove to win men into harmony with it.

"All of life has risen out of death! And all death is but to be made into life again! Life is immortal. Thoug it seems to perish as the leaves. Man can not die.

"I am the Resurrection and the Life!"

Whether the world accepts or rejects these advances of the divine life, is purely a matter of choice. This is a world of entire personal freedom. People or nations who are made good simply through compulsion or fear have no real character. No force of resistance has been built up in them. With the rustling of the wind comes a sound as though sky splendor would speak in articulate voice: "While spring breezes blow, while flowers bloom in the hedges, while the sun holds its course through the skies, while God rules in His heaven, there is no death!"

POLITICAL DEGENERATION

A remarkable article entitled "Wanted—a Way Out of the Mud," contributed to Collier's by Dr. Chas. W. Elliot, the venerable President emeritus of Harvard, will not please partisans of the old type, but ought to interest all open-minded and forward-looking people. A man of Dr. Eliot's associations and traditions proves his own open-mindedness and commands attention when he accuses the party in power of a moral collapse and sharply contrasts present conditions with the high aims and achievements of the previous political regime at Washington. Apart from the ideals and achievements of war times, Dr. Eliot declares that under the leadership of the scholar and idealist, Woodrow Wilson, "Congress enacted into law in two years more helpful legislation than had been given to the nation in the 30 years preceding," and cites in detail the reformed currency, the Federal reserve system, the reformed system of taxation, the non-partisan tariff commission, the Federal trade commission, advanced water power statute, the farm loan system, agricultural educational extension bill, the Federal warehouse act, etc.

The party succeeding to office in 1921 has not attempted to set aside or substantially modify these "unexampled contributions to the financial, industrial, social and family interests of the nation," but what it has done in its three years of power Dr. Eliot indicates as follows: "It has held the people back from giving effective political and indutrial aid to the suffering nations in Europe. It has possibly involved the use of a military force to which the United States might, or might not have to contribute. It has even refused to take full part in establishing a permanent court for the prevention and settlement of international disputes, because, forsooth, the structure of the court is tainted by connection with the League of Nations. It has hastened to enact a hostile tariff against European manufactured products. It has encouraged selfish and monopolistic action on the part of both capital and labor to the grave injury of the consuming public. It has made appointments to the Cabinet and the civil service which have resulted in shocking scandals concerning the habits of high officials and the corrupt use of public money—scandals which have filled the public mind with disgust and indignation. What an extraordinary contrast these present conditions afford to the first three years of President Wilson's administration. Then honesty, efficiency and high aims, resulting in great gains for the whole people. Now low aims, inefficiency, corruption and abuse of political power resulting in grave injuries to the material and moral welfare of the whole people."

It is not necessary for any reader to agree in every particular with Dr. Eliot in order to see the force and timeliness of his remarks. It is a fact of history that the Republican party started with a great principle, but it now seems to have come upon a time when those who lead it and shape its policies not only scoff at idealism or high moral aims but are interested only in a tacit partnership with Big Business with a view to some share in the material profits. That is the explanation of the Washington scandals, and of the low moral tone and cynicism in high places. The "way out of the mud" suggested by Dr. Eliot, a clear minded old man of 90, with an uninterrupted record of honor behind him, may not be the way that will be found, but his bold indictment will help toward the awakening which must precede any desirable solution.

THE NEW CORN-BORER PEST

Another pest has invaded the United States and is making its way across the country. Coming out of Mexico, the bool weevil slowly advanced until it had preyed upon the entire cotton belt, with results that disturbed economic conditions the world over and revolutionized cotton culture. It is said that practical application of the advice of etomologists would have stopped the progress of the boll weevil, but it was either unheeded or remained too long ignored. Whether thedisaster has taught the whole country a lesson remains to be seen. The new pest is the corn-borer, scientifically named Pyrausta nubilalis. It arrived in a shipment of broom corn from Italy or Hungary as far back as 1917 and began its work of destruction in Massachusetts. It got past the farmers in that State, occupied areas in New York, reached Michigan and Ohio, and is gradually moving westward into the great corn belt.

With the history of the boll weevil as a warning, alarm was taken more promptly in this instance, but it does not appear that the peotective measures were as widely begun as was needful. Now we read that "a great offensive is being planned along a wide front in northern Ohio," that "under the leadership of an entomological strategist from the United States Bureau, agronomists and country farm agents and entomologists from several corn producting States, as well as from national laboratories, will not only resist the advance of this pertiferous horde but will try to drive it out of the country altogether." It is to be hoped that the effort of these forces will not slacken, that the fight will be persistent, and that it will be crowned with success. But it is seven years since 1917 and it looks as if a really determined battle was too slow to begin, just as in the case of the bool weevil. Yet it is better to start late than not at all.

PRACTICAL POLITICS

Before the civil service reformers got into the saddle it was a common practice in election years to tax Federal employes to swell the campaign fund. "If you don't help us to elect our man," they were told in the letters fixing the amount of their tribute, "the triumphant enemy will turn you out, and if we elect our man without your help, we may thurn you out"—or words to that effect. Of course the office holders were scared stiff and came across as ordered. We are apt to think that those days of piratical politics are gone to return no more, but are they? It would seem not, for in the Philadelphia Record of April 9 we read:

"The Record learns that fourth-class postmasters are to be given an unusual opportunity this year to supply, on the installment plan, some of the sinews of war needed to convince the voters that honest government can only be assured by keeping Republicans in control of national affairs. Current events do not carry such conviction, but it seems to be hoped that money will; wherefore the hat is already being passed. The circular appeals lately issued to the postmasters, we are advised, solicit contributions of $10 per month—a little matter of $70 levied on the holder of a not very remunerative office."

Doubtless the fourth-class postmaster will heatedly demanded to knew of his intimates why he must rake and scrape to hand in $70 when the Dohenys, Sinclairs and other plutes are ready with money to burn, but probably he will cool down in a few hours, heave a sigh and forward his first monthly installment.

OUR WEST TEXAS ORPHANS—WHAT IS TO BECOME OF THEM?

The people of West Texas are confronted with a very important question—Shall the orphan children of West Texas be neglected, homeless and in danger of becoming ignorant criminals, or shall we give them a home, a high character, and a good education so that they may become useful citizens.

We are striving to give them this home, where they will be under the care of Christian men and women. We have begun preparation for erecting and furnishing a modern building, with all facilities for training and caring for these children. This home must be a success. But it cannot be a success unless the people of Lubbock and all West Texas co-operate and support this great cause.

There are many people supporting this needed institution. Are you one of them? These children are counting on you.

The authoritative spokesmen of the Steuben society are advocating the banding together for political purposes of all persons of German blood in this country. The successor of the old German-American alliance appears to be steadily carrying on that un-American organization's mischevious work.

Hangman Retires—Lincoln's Poem—Strong Women—Natures Wonders

John Ellis, England's hangman, retires from business, giving no reason. He hanged Roger Casement and Edith Thompson, the last woman hanged in Great Britain.

Ellis was paid fifty shillings, about $12.50, each time he hanged a human being. That was for the hanging. They paid him fifty shillings more "for good conduct."

"Good conduct" meant that the must stay out of dringing saloons at the place of execution before and after the hanging. This made him lose money; in the old days public houses would pay the hangman to stand at their bar.

The more he drank the more the hangman talked, the more he talked, the more terrible became his stories of the groaning, begging, pleading or "game indifference" of the men around whose necks he fastened the rope.

If you think hanging or other capital punishment necessary "to frighten criminals," devote a moment's thought to Ellis, the British hangman.

If a crowd rushed to see him, buy him free drinks, and listened to his tales of horror, do you think hanging really prevents crime?

It does not, on the contrary, it stimulates crime, by stimulating admiration for the criminal.

The J. Pierpont Morgan collection of valuable mss. exhibited to the public include a poem, "The Bear Hunt," by Abraham Lincoln, and this is how it begins:

A wild bear chase didst never see?
Then hast thou lived in vain—
Thy richest bump of glorious glee,
Lies desert in thy brain.

Here you learn that it is possible to be a great man and a very bad poet.

This is a prosperous country, worth defending. Last week 1,500,000 stockholders received little envelopes containing dividends amounting to more than $250,000,000. If you didn't get any of the dividend envelopes don't waste time envying or hating those that got them. Save your money, invest it, and you can get dividends also. Except for the very unfortunate there is no need to stay really poor in this country.

Mr. Albee, who collects strange things and shows them, brings from Italy the strongest woman in the world. She can sustain the weight of a two-ton elephant, and allow men on horseback to ride over a bridge of which the weight rests upon her.

In old days, such a lady would have been courted by many.

She might have been that Amazon queen, who told Alexander the Great that she would like to be the mother of his children, a message followed by an interesting meeting—Alexander having sent the only reply that a polite man could send—being a bachelor at the time.

What became of the result of that meeting? Who knows bot that this powerful Italian woman may be the descendant of Alexander the Great?

Now, however, a child moving an electric switch could raise a thousand times the weight of that two-ton elephant. Mere muscle doesn't count any more. But strong women, not able to lift elephants, but with good strong bodies free from nicotine, alcohol, late hours and general foolishness, are as important as ever they were.

Upon them depends the brain of the next generation and future civilization.

Nature is "wonderful." There are birds like animals, animals like birds. The strangeness of creation is inexhaustible. The University of Pennsylvania sends an expedition to catch a hoazin, bird that breaks stones with its beak, swims like a duck, flies like a bat. The same expedition will look also for a "Bell-bird." Instead of singing it tinkles like a bell.

There are snakes that swallow their young to protect them, then let them out again. There is a lady toad that lays her eggs on the back of her husband, who hops around cheerfully in the sunlight, hatching the load. Nature really is wonderful.

What we actually SEE we FEEL. One state in March reports 124 killed by automobiles. Everybody says "That is TERRIBLE, we must do something about it."

In a year 200,000 mothers die in childbirth, because they are neglected. Nobody gets much excited about that.

Cancer and tuberculosis kill their tens of thousands. All that we take for granted.

Washington brokers are representatives of Wall street and they generally know what they are doing.

It will not be surprising if all the forces of the reactionary democracy of Texas are thrown behind the movement for an uninstructed delegation, which they ought to know is the best they can possibly hope to get in Texas, and the seating of an uninstructed delegation would be heralded as a reactionary victory throughout the country, as was the victory for an uninstructed delegation recently won by the Brenham machine in Illinois."

Scissored Editorial

(Lorenzo Enterprize)

The Texas Tech will open in Lubbock for the school term of 1925, and the Amarillo News has the following to say:

"During the first year of the college the enrollment is to be limited to freshman and sophomore students, that the junior year be added in September 1926, and the senior year in September, 1927.

"Every effort will be made to organize a school on such a basis to develop democratic ideas. The idea of self-support for students will be fostered and recognized in the very organization of the college and no Greek letter fraternities will be permitted."

This college means as much, or more to Lorenzo, than it does to Lubbock. From our town it is only some twenty-two miles, and the roads are good; and we do not think it would be exaggerating to say that Lorenzo will be connected with Lubbock with a concrete highway before 1926.

OIL PROBE TO BE BROUGHT TO END SOON

By United Press

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The senate oil committee will ring down the curtain on its investigations next week, bringing to an end one of the most sensational congressional inquiries ever made.

Announcement of ending of the famous probe was made tonight by Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who played the leading role in the democratic series of sensations that marked the progress of the committee hearings.

Only five more witnesses remain to be questioned, Walsh stated, three of whom he himself has summoned and two subpoenaed by Senator Spencer, republican of Missouri. After they are examined, the committee's doors will be shut, probably forever while the committee draws up its report to the senate, drafting recommendations for the prevention of future oil scandals, Walsh said.

They rode on a well-paved road outside Lubbock one night in a high powered car. There were just two of them, he and she.

"You know," she remarked, "I don't believe that petting parties are a good thing. This world is becoming too wild. There is too much jazz. We are returning to the primitive state. It is shocking."

"Well, now, I wouldn't say that," he replied. "History is merely repeating itself. Imagine a pendulum with its swinging extremities labeled "good" and "bad." During Queen Elizabeth's reign everything was wide open and the people were just as wicked as they are now. Then followed a reaction which put Oliver Cromwell in power. He clamped the lid down too tight so he was overthrown.

"There will be another swing soon and all this present foolishness will stop. In the meantime, I say, "Eat, drink and be merry."

"Perhaps you are right," she agreed, "I suppose that my ideas are Puritanical and that I am old-fashioned. I just know you thing that I am narrow-minded."

"No," he answered slowly, "Someone else has been preaching to you and you believe him without thinking much about it. All joking aside, I love you. I'm the only one you love, am I not."

He did not remain in doubt long for she answered him with a kiss.

Kind reader, pause a moment. No doubt this narrative appears to tell how a villian deceived a sweet, young girl. The fact is that he was her father.

The men may as well quit kicking about the women and girls bobbing their hair. They'll do as they please, regardless. Within the recollection of lots of our older people the women raised a big roar about the men cutting off their whiskers. Fifty years ago most men wore whiskers over the greater part of their faces and when they began to saw them off the women joined together and said they looked weak and effeminate and tried to get them to let their whiskers grow. And a few men are afraid of their wives and still let their whiskers grow.

One Lubbock lady chided her young son severely because he bought an all-day sucker at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The story is going around of a man who went into one of the Lubbock stores the other day and said he wanted a teddy bear. The obliging clerk directed him to a counter where a still more obliging young lady started to show him specimens and as the articles grew showier and more beribboned, he become more crimson each moment. Finally he blurted out that "What I want is a real B'ar."

did not sound like the prattle of a parrot, but it impressed that great convention and the nation that they were hearing not merely the voice of one man or of forty men, but of millions of Texans who had told the Texas delegation what to say and how to say it, and the voice of Texas prevailed and the immortal services of Woodrow Wilson were given to mankind.

"I have noticed in a special dispatch from Washington printed in a Texas daily of April 15, that the brokers in Washington are offering to wager odds that the Texas delegation will be uninstructed. This is most significant. These

MUCH INTEREST WAS SHOWN IN DISTRICT MEET HERE

RALLS EASILY WINS CLASS B TRACK AND FIELD MEET; PLAINVIEW TAKES HOME THREE TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Ralls high school overwhelmingly took the honors here yesterday afternoon in class B track and field events, with a total of 66 1-2 points, closing the eighth annual track and field meet of the sixteenth district of the Universtiy Interscholastic League. The nearest opponent of the Ralls Jackrabbits was Dickens, who scored a total of 30 points.

Other schools entered, and their winnings follow: Littlefield 3 1-2; Johnson 10; Muleshoe 2; Petersburg 5; Olton 7; Baker 4; Spring Lake 5; Tahoka 3; Crotan 3; Crosbyton 5; Meadow 1.

Ralls, although in class B, competition showed a little too much speed for their opponents, winning first, and usually second places in every running event with the exception of the 120 yard high hurdles and the mile run. Of these Dickens took first in the hurdles and Johnson school in the mile run.

Again in the field events Ralls was very much in evidence, sweeping practically everything before them. Smith, of Crosbyton, took first place in the high jump, the only event entered by the school. He cleared the bar at 5 ft. 6 in.

No better meet has ever been held, in point of attendance, interest manifested, and sportsmanship, according to W. E. Patty, of Plainview; director of athletics, and at no time during either day was there any contest or squabbling among the competing boys.

"The decision on baseball is uncertain," said Mr. Patty, "owing to the fact that no definite schedule has yet been worked out on it. But we expect to play the championship game at Lubbock next Saturday, if present plans materialize. Entrance blanks will be sent out this week, and if possible, teams will be eliminated in the meantime to such an extent that one day will be sufficient, for a decision, but it may be necessary for one or two of the games to be played on the preceding Friday."

No little wonderment has been expressed among local baseball fans as to the secret of the success of the high school Westerners in amassing such a huge quantity of runs in all games in which they have played this year. Below can easily be found the secret of the whole thing. It is a fact well known to all fans that a club without the ability to hit, and hit when hits count, cannot win ball games, but a harder hitting aggregation of high school lads has never been seen than the Westerners.

Dunlap, pitcher is at present leading the list with .615, but has only appeared in two games. Castleberry is leading the regular line up by a good margin with an average of .583, followed by Hensley with .524, showing three men hitting well above the .500 mark. Two go into the .400 class, and three more well into the .300. Here's how it looks on paper, in their regular batting order:

PLAYER	AB	R	H	PO	E	BA

LUBBOCK HIGH DOWNS POST SATURDAY

The Lubbock High School Westerners again dug into the win column, and forged further toward a win of the Interscholastic League championship of this district when they defeated Post at the Merrill Park Saturday morning 8 to 6.

The two hits in the opening session assisted by errors and boneheads, gave the visitors a three run lead. In their half the locals came back for two runs on one hit and an error. In the second Post touched Williams for three singles, netting them two runs, and from the face of things, it looked as though the locals were battling unconquerable odds, they having failed to count in their half of the second.

In the next inning, however, the visitors having counted one more run which was doomed to be their last, the local lads drove into the offerings of Crump for four runs. Cate went out on a pop fly to Connell, Hensley singled, Adkison reached first on an error, advancing Hensley; Trotter passed free, filling the bases; Castleberry then drove one into the deep recesses of the park for three bases, scoring Hensley, Adkinson and Trotter; Sullivant went out on a grouder; Moore then doubled scoring Castleberry, and Nessmith whiffed, retiring the side.

After this things settled both clubs delivering the equal of league ball for the balance of the exhibition. With the count tied, neither seemingly could score, until the seventh, when the Westerners again found their eye. Cate, who was in a bad day, lead off again in this inning, and went out pitcher to first; Hensley tripled. Then came one of the prettiest squeeze plays ever recorded in high school. Adkison dumped one just inside the base line, and reached first on Ellis' error, scoring Hensley; Trotter went out on a fly to short; Castleberry then drove out his second triple of the day, scoring Adkison for the extra run above a victory.

All next week the Westerners will be given strenuous workouts daily in preparation for the district meet, which will convene here next Friday and Saturday. The entrants to this meet, according to coach Hunter, of Lubbock high, include Slaton, Plainview, Floydada, Post and Lubbock. In the meantime a practice game will be played Tuesday with Ropesville here.

WHAT EASTER MEANS

Inspired through the Resurrection of Jesus, a band of fishermen initiated the observance of Easter, a movement that has become the most powerful spiritual force in existence, for it does away with barbarism, and cruelty and wrong wherever it obtains recoghition in the minds of men. On Easter day many people, with unseeing minds, look only at the surface aspects. They note the bright flowers and the cheering music, and the pretty clothes and think that is all—they do not see the full beauty of the festival.

With the advent of spring comes the sweet perfume of apple blossoms, the lilac and the budding beauties of nature's resurrection—the incarnation of life in the vegetable and perhaps something akin to the reincarnation of human life. Certain it is a similarity between animal and vegetable and human life, but we cling to the faith that man, of all creation, is mortal, and his soul endures forever. That is the lesson taught in the resurrection of Jesus.

The Sweet spring breeze, blowing warmly from the south, gently whispers: "I am the life renewer, the harbinger of happy summer days, the herald of fruitful harvests, the call of animation to a myriad of throbbing, living things in land, in hill, in dale."

The loyal heart is once more reminded that God is ever trying to enter the human heart, and to mold human life and social institutions into forms of love and justice. His efforts to win human loyalty may be felt in the experience of any one with the open heart. The most wonderful and historic of these efforts was the mission of Jesus Christ, who revealed God's nature and strove to win men into harmony with it.

"All of life has risen out of death! And all death is but to be made into life again! Life is immortal. Thoug it seems to perish as the leaves. Man can not die.

"I am the Resurrection and the Life!"

Whether the world accepts or rejects these advances of the divine life, is purely a matter of choice. "This is a world of entire personal freedom. People or nations who are made good simply through compulsion or fear have no real character. No force of resistance has been built up in them. With the rustling of the wind comes a sound as though sky splendor would speak in articulate voice: "While spring breezes blow, while flowers bloom in the hedges, while the sun holds its course through the skies, while God rules in His heaven, there is no death!"

POLITICAL DEGENERATION

A remarkable article entitled "Wanted—a Way Out of the Mud," contributed to Collier's by Dr. Chas. W. Elliot, the venerable President emeritus of Harvard, will not please partisans of the old type, but ought to interest all open-minded and forward-looking people. A man of Dr. Eliot's associations and traditions proves his own open-mindedness and commands attention when he accuses the party in power of a moral collapse and sharply contrasts present conditions with the high aims and achievements of the previous political regime at Washington. Apart from the ideals and achievements of war times, Dr. Eliot declares that under the leadership of the scholar and idealist, Woodrow Wilson, "Congress enacted into law in two years more helpful legislation than had been given to the nation in the 30 years preceding," and cites in detail the reformed currency, the Federal reserve system, the reformed system of taxation, the non-partisan tariff commission, the Federal trade commission, advanced water power statute, the farm loan system, agricultural educational extension bill, the Federal warehouse act, etc.

The party succeeding to office in 1921 has not attempted to set aside or substantially modify these "unexampled contributions to the financial, industrial, social and family interests of the nation," but what it has done in its three years of power Dr. Eliot indicates as follows: "It has held the people back from giving effective political and indutrial aid to the suffering nations in Europe. It has possibly involved the use of a military force to which the United States might, or might not have to contribute. It has even refused to take full part in establishing a permanent court for the prevention and settlement of international disputes, because, forsooth, the structure of the court is tainted by connection with the League of Nations. It has hastened to enact a hostile tariff against European manufactured products. It has encouraged selfish and monopolistic action on the part of both capital and labor to the grave injury of the consuming public. It has made appointments to the Cabinet and the civil service which have resulted in shocking scandals concerning the habits of high officials and the corrupt use of public money—scandals which have filled the public mind with disgust and indignation. What an extraordinary contrast these present conditions afford to the first three years of President Wilson's administration. Then honesty, efficiency and high aims, resulting in great gains for the whole people. Now low aims, inefficiency, corruption and abuse of political power resulting in grave injuries to the material and moral welfare of the whole people."

It is not necessary for any reader to agree in every particular with Dr. Eliot in order to see the force and timeliness of his remarks. It is a fact of history that the Republican party started with a great principle, but it now seems to have come upon a time when those who lead it and shape its policies not only scoff at idealism or high moral aims but are interested only in a tacit partnership with Big Business with a view to some share in the material profits. That is the explanation of the Washington scandals, and of the low moral tone and cynicism in high places. The "way out of the mud" suggested by Dr. Eliot, a clear-minded old man of 90, with an uninterrupted record of honor behind him, may not be the way that will be found, but his bold indictment will help toward the awakening which must precede any desirable solution.

THE NEW CORN-BORER PEST

Another pest has invaded the United States and is making its way across the country. Coming out of Mexico, the bool weevil slowly advanced until it had preyed upon the entire cotton belt, with results that disturbed economic conditions the world over and revolutionized cotton culture. It is said that practical application of the advice of etomologists would have stopped the progress of the boll weevil, but it was either unheeded or remained too long ignored. Whether thedisaster has taught the whole country a lesson remains to be seen. The new pest is the cornborer, scientifically named Pyrausta nubilalis. It arrived in a shipment of broom corn from Italy or Hungary as far back as 1917 and began its work of destruction in Massachusetts. It got past the farmers in that State, occupied areas in New York, reached Michigan and Ohio, and is gradually moving westward into the great corn belt.

With the history of the boll weevil as a warning, alarm was taken more promptly in this instance, but it does not appear that the peotective measures were as widely begun as was needful. Now we read that "a great offensive is being planned along a wide front in northern Ohio," that "under the leadership of an entomological strategist from the United States Bureau, agronomists and country farm agents and entomologists from several corn producting States, as well as from national laboratories, will not only resist the advance of this pertiferous horde but will try to drive it out of the country altogether." It is to be hoped that the effort of these forces will not slacken, that the fight will be persistent, and that it will be crowned with success. But it is seven years since 1917 and it looks as if a really determined battle was too slow to begin, just as in the case of the bool weevil. Yet it is better to start late than not at all.

PRACTICAL POLITICS

Before the civil service reformers got into the saddle it was a common practice in election years to tax Federal employes to swell the campaign fund. "If you don't help us to elect our man," they were told in the letters fixing the amount of their tribute, "the triumphant enemy will turn you out, and if we elect our man without your help, we may thurn you out"—or words to that effect. Of course the office holders were scared stiff and came across as ordered. We are apt to think that those days of piratical politics are gone to return no more, but are they? It would seem not, for in the Philadelphia Record of April 9 we read:

"The Record learns that fourth-class postmasters are to be given an unusual opportunity this year to supply, on the installment plan, some of the sinews of war needed to convince the voters that honest government can only be assured by keeping Republicans in control of national affairs. Current events do not carry such conviction, but it seems to be hoped that money will; wherefore the hat is already being passed. The circular appeals lately issued to the postmasters, we are advised, solicit contributions of $10 per month—a little matter of $70 levied on the holder of a not very remunerative office."

Doubtless the fourth-class postmaster will heatedly demanded to knew of his intimates' why he must rake and scrape to hand in $70 when the Dohenys, Sinclairs and other plutes are ready with money to burn, but probably he will cool down in a few hours, heave a sigh and forward his first monthly installment.

OUR WEST TEXAS ORPHANS—WHAT IS TO BECOME OF THEM?

The people of West Texas are confronted with a very important question—Shall the orphan children of West Texas be neglected, homeless and in danger of becoming ignorant criminals, or shall we give them a home, a high character, and a good education so that they may become useful citizens.

We are striving to give them this home, where they will be under the care of Christian men and women. We have begun preparation for erecting and furnishing a modern building, with all facilities for training and caring for these children. This home must be a success. But it cannot be a success unless the people of Lubbock and all West Texas co-operate and support this great cause.

There are many people supporting this needed institution. Are you one of them? These children are counting on you.

The authoritative spokesmen of the Steuben society are advocating the banding together for political purposes of all persons of German blood in this country. The successor of the old German-American alliance appears to be steadily carrying on that un-American organization's mischevious work.

Treasury estimates the amount of wholly tax-exempt securities outstanding Feb. 29, 1924, at $15,107,000,000.

Hangman Retires—Lincoln's Poem—Strong Women—Natures Wonders

John Ellis, England's hangman, retires from business, giving no reason. He hanged Roger Casement and Edith Thompson, the last woman hanged in Great Britain.

Ellis was paid fifty shillings, about $12.50, each time he hanged a human being. That was for the hanging. They paid him fifty shillings more "for good conduct."

"Good conduct" meant that the must stay out of dringing saloons at the place of execution before and after the hanging. This made him lose money; in the old days public houses would pay the hangman to stand at their bar.

The more he drank the more the hangman talked, the more he talked, the more terrible became his stories of the groaning, begging, pleading or "game indifference" of the men around whose necks he fastened the rope.

If you think hanging or other capital punishment necessary "to frighten criminals," devote a moment's thought to Ellis, the British hangman.

If a crowd rushed to see him, buy him free drinks, and listened to his tales of horror, do you think hanging really prevents crime?

It does not, on the contrary, it stimulates crime, by stimulating admiration for the criminal.

The J. Pierpont Morgan collection of valuable mss. exhibited to the public include a poem, "The Bear Hunt," by Abraham Lincoln, and this is how it begins.

A wild bear chase didst never see?
Then hast thou lived in vain—
Thy richest bump of glorious glee,
Lies desert in thy brain.

Here you learn that it is possible to be a great man and a very bad poet.

This is a prosperous country, worth defending. Last week 1,500,000 stockholders received little envelopes containing dividends amounting to more than $250,000,000. If you didn't get any of the dividend envelopes don't waste time envying or hating those that got them. Save your money, invest it, and you can get dividends also. Except for the very unfortunate there is no need to stay really poor in this country.

Mr. Albee, who collects strange things and shows them, brings from Italy the strongest woman in the world. She can sustain the weight of a two-ton elephant, and allow men on horseback to ride over a bridge of which the weight rests upon her.

In old days, such a lady would have been courted by many.

She might have been that Amazon queen, who told Alexander the Great that she would like to be the mother of his children, a message followed by an interesting meeting—Alexander having sent the only reply that a polite man could send being a bachelor at the time.

What became of the result of that meeting? Who knows but that this powerful Italian woman may be the descendant of Alexander the Great?

Now, however, a child moving an electric switch could raise a thousand times the weight of that two-ton elephant. Mere muscle doesn't count any more. But strong women, not able to lift elephants, but with good strong bodies free from nicotine, alcohol, late hours and general foolishness, are as important as ever they were.

Upon them depends the brain of the next generation and future civilization.

Nature is "wonderful." There are birds like animals, animals like birds. The strangeness of creation is inexhaustible. The University of Pennsylvania sends an expedition to catch a hoazin, bird that breaks stones with its beak, swims like a duck, flies like a bat. The same expedition will look also for a "Bell-bird." Instead of singing it tinkles like a bell.

There are snakes that swallow their young to protect them, then let them out again. There is a lady toad that lays her eggs on the back of her husband, who hops around cheerfully in the sunlight, hatching the load. Nature really is wonderful.

What we actually SEE we FEEL. One state in March reports 124 killed by automobiles. Everybody says "That is TERRIBLE, we must do something about it."

In a year 200,000 mothers die in childbirth, because they are neglected. Nobody gets much excited about that.

Cancer and tuberculosis kill their tens of thousands. All that we take for granted.

STATE DEMOCRATIC PARTY SPLITS.

did not sound like the prattle of a parrot, but it impressed that great convention and the nation that they were hearing not merely the voice of one man or of forty men, but of millions of Texans who had told the Texas delegation what to say and how to say it, and the voice of Texas prevailed and the immortal services of Woodrow Wilson were given to mankind.

"I have noticed in a special dispatch from Washington printed in a Texas daily of April 15, that the brokers in Washington are offering to wager odds that the Texas delegation will be uninstructed. This is most significant. These Washington brokers are representatives of Wall street and they generally know what they are doing. It will not be surprising if all the forces of the reactionary democracy of Texas are thrown behind the movement for an uninstructed delegation, which they ought to know is the best they can possibly hope to get in Texas, and the sending of an uninstructed delegation would be heralded as a reactionary victory throughout the country, as was the victory for an uninstructed delegation recently won by the Brenham machine in Illinois."

Scissored Editorial

(Lorenzo Enterprize)

The Texas Tech will open in Lubbock for the school term of 1925 and the Amarillo News has the following to say:

"During the first year of the college the enrollment is to be limited to freshman and sophomore students, that the junior year be added in September, 1926, and the senior year in September, 1927.

"Every effort will be made to organize a school on such a basis to develop democratic ideas. The idea of self-support for students will be fostered and recognized in the very organization of the college and no Greek letter fraternities will be permitted."

This college means as much, or more to Lorenzo, than it does to Lubbock. From our town it is only some twenty-two miles, and the roads are good, and we do not think it would be exaggerating to say that Lorenzo wil be connected with Lubbock with a concrete highway before 1926.

OIL PROBE TO BE BROUGHT TO END SOON

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The senate oil committee will ring down the curtain on its investigations next week, bringing to an end one of the most sensational congressional inquisns ever made.

Announcement of ending of the famous probe was made tonight by Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who played the leading role in the democratic series of sensations that marked the progress of the committee hearings.

Only five more witnesses remain to be questioned, Walsh stated, three of whom he himself has summoned and two subpoenaed by Senator Spencer, republican of Missouri. After they are examined, the committee's doors will be shut, probably forever while the committee draws up its report to the senate, drafting recommendations for the prevention of future oil scandals, Walsh said.

"We made ten sales during the two days and feel that the show was a decided success from every stand point," said Geo. Benson, manager of this company.

WINDY WOLF SAYS

If you are on a Gloomy Line, get a transfer. If you're inclined to fret and pine, get a transfer, get off the track of Doubt and Gloom, get on the Sunshine Track—there's room. Get a transfer. If you are on the Worry Train, get a transfer. You must not stay there and complain, get a transfer. The cheerful cars, are passing through, and there is lots of room for you. Get a transfer. They rode on a well-paved road outside Lubbock one night in a high powered car. There were just two of them, he and she.

"You know," she remarked, "I don't believe that petting parties are a good thing. This world is becoming too wild. There is too much jazz. We are returning to the primitive state. It is shocking."

"Well, now, I wouldn't say that," he replied. "History is merely repeating itself. Imagine a pendulum with its swinging extremities labeled "good" and "bad." During Queen Elizabeth's reign everything was wide open and the people were just as wicked as they are now. Then followed a reaction which put Oliver Cromwell in power. He clamped the lid down too tight so he was overthrown.

"There will be another swing soon and all this present foolishness will stop. In the meantime, I say, "Eat, drink and be merry."

"Perhaps you are right," she agreed, "I suppose that my ideas are Puritanical and that I am old-fashioned. I just know you thing that I am narrow-minded."

"No," he answered slowly, "Someone else has been preaching to you and you believe him without thinking much about it. All joking aside, I love you. I'm the only one you love, am I not."

He did not remain in doubt long for she answered him with a kiss.

Kind reader, pause a moment. No doubt this narrative appears to tell how a villian deceived a sweet, young girl. The fact is that he was her father.

The men may as well quit kicking about the women and girls bobbing their hair. They'll do as they please, regardless. Within the recollection of lots of our older people the women raised a big roar about the men cutting off their whiskers. Fifty years ago most men wore whiskers over the greater part of their faces and when they began to saw them off the women joined together and said they looked weak and effeminate and tried to get them to let their whiskers grow. And a few men are afraid of their wives and still let their whiskers grow.

One Lubbock lady chided her young son severely because he bought an all-day sucker at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The story is going around of a man who went into one of the Lubbock stores the other day and said he wanted a teddy bear. The obliging clerk directed him to a counter where a still more obliging young lady started to show him specimens and as the articles grew showier and more beribboned, he become more crimson each moment. Finally he blurted out that "What I want is a real B'ar."

RALLS EASILY WINS CLASS B TRACK AND FIELD MEET; PLAINVIEW TAKES HOME THREE TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Ralls high school overwhelmingly took the honors here yesterday afternoon in class B track and field events, with a total of 66 1-2 points, closing the eighth annual track and field meet of the sixteenth district of the Universtiy Interscholastic League. The nearest opponent of the Ralls lackrabbits was Dickens, who scored a total of 30 points.

Again in the field events Ralls was very much in evidence, sweeping practically everything before them. Smith, of Crosbyton, took first place in the high jump, the only event entered by the school. He cleared the bar at 5 ft. 6 in.

No better meet has ever been held, in point of attendance, interest manifested, and sportsmanship, according to W. E. Patty, of Plainview, director of athletics, and at no time during either day was there any contest or squabbling among the competing boys.

"The decision on baseball is uncertain," said Mr. Patty, "owing to the fact that no definite schedule has yet been worked out on it. But we expect to play the championship game at Lubbock next Saturday, if present plans materialize. Entrance blanks will be sent out this week, and if possible, teams will be eliminated in the meantime to such an extent that one day will be sufficient for a decision, but it may be necessary for one or two of the games to be played on the preceding Friday."

No little wonderment has been expressed among local baseball fans as to the secret of the success of the high school Westerners in amassing such a huge quantity of runs in all games in which they have played this year. Below can easily be found the secret of the whole thing. It is a fact well known to all fans that a club, without the ability to hit, and hit when hits count, cannot win ball games, but a harder hitting aggregation of high school lads has never been seen than the Westerners.

Dunlap, pitcher is at present leading the list with .615, but has only appeared in two games. Castleberry is leading the regular line up by a good margin with an average of .583; followed by Hensley with .524, showing three men hitting well above the .500 mark. Two go into the .400 class, and three more well into the .300. Here's how it looks on paper, in their regular batting order:

LUBBOCK HIGH DOWNS POST SATURDAY

The Lubbock High School Westerners again dug into the win column, and forged further toward a win of the Interscholastic League championship of this district when they defeated Post at the Merrill Park Saturday morning 8 to 6.

The two hits in the opening session assisted by errors and boneheads, gave the visitors a three run lead. In their half the locals came back for two runs on one hit and an error. In the second Post touched Williams for three singles, netting them two runs, and from the face of things, it looked as though the locals were battling unconquerable odds, they having failed to count in their half of the second.

In the next inning, however, the visitors having counted one more run which was doomed to be their last, the local lads drove into the offerings of Crump for four runs. Cate went out on a pop fly to Connell, Hensley singled, Adkison reached first on an error, advancing Hensley; Trotter passed free, filling the bases; Castleberry then drove one into the deep recesses of the park for three bases, scoring Hensley, Adkinson and Trotter; Sullivant went out on a grouder; Moore then doubled scoring Castleberry, and Nessmith whiffed, retiring the side.

After this things settled both clubs delivering the equal of league ball for the balance of the exhibition. With the count tied, neither seemingly could score, until the seventh, when the Westerners again found their eye. Cate, who was in a bad day, lead off again in this inning, and went out pitcher to first; Hensley tripled. Then came one of the prettiest squeeze plays ever recorded in high school. Adkison dumped one just inside the base line, and reached first on Ellis' error, scoring Hensley; Trotter went out on a fly to short; Castleberry then drove out his second triple of the day, scoring Adkison for the extra run above a victory.

All next week the Westerners will be given strenuous workouts daily in preparation for the district meet which will convene here next Friday and Saturday. The entrants to this meet, according to coach Hunter, of Lubbock high, include Slaton, Plainview, Floydada, Post and Lubbock. In the meantime a practice game will be played Tuesday with Ropesville here.

NEGRO AWARDED DECISION OVER GREB FOLLOWING BRAWL IN RING

By United Press

BOSTON, Mass., April 19.—Kid Norfolk, negro, heavyweight was given the decision on a foul over Harry Greb, middleweight champion of the world, at the end of the sixth round of their bout here tonight.

Greb, according to Referee Sheehan hit Norfolk after the bell tapped. Both fighters, however, stood toe to toe and continued to swap blows while the referee fled from the ring. The two men were separated by their seconds and the decision awarded to Norfolk.

BROWNWOOD PROGRAM TO OFFER MOST SPECTACULAR EVENTS EVER STAGED AT MEETING IN STATE

BROWNWOQD, April 19.—The program for the sixth annual meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, which is to be held in Brownwood, Texas, May 13, 14 and 15, has been completed and is an array of talent, display, music, attractiveness and spectacular that has never been comprehended in any three days program ever undertaken in Texas or the southwest.

The entire western part of Texas looks upon these annual meetings of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce as historic events and all are joining enthusiastically in making the coming meeting the greatest chamber of commerce meeting ever held in America.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce is the largest regional chamber of commerce in the union. Beginning its work six years ago in a modest way, it now has a membership of 8,000 in round numbers, and these are scattered in 283 West Texas towns, and the year closing has been the most successful in its history. Every member town will be represented in the annual meeting in Brownwood and the attendance from towns will range from one to one thousand. In addition to delegations from member towns, there will be representations from a regional organization, and will visit the meeting to gather inspiration and information. Men and women of national and state reputations appear upon the program and nearly every phase of human endeavor will be touched by the various speakers that appear upon the program.

The chief speakers of the first day will be Hon. A. B. Spencer, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; J. W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Power & Light company; E. J. Hosey, Armour & Co.; Gen. Paul Malone, United States army; Hon. M. L. Corey, member of the U. S. Farm Loan board, Washington, D. C. The afternoon of the first day will be given over to agriculture, and a feature will be the attendance of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs of West Texas.

The second day will also have talent of great ability, the speakers being Col. Alvin M. Owsley, former national commander of the American Legion; Gov. Pat M. Neff, and Dr. P. W. Horn, president of the Texas Technological college.

The third day will be known as Educational day, and several thousand students from various educational institutions in West Texas will attend the festivities of this occasion. Speakers for this day are Judge G. N. Harrison, whose subject will be "Our Constitution;" Hon. J. D. Jones, Alamogorda, N. M., who will speak upon the subject, "Lincoln National Forest," and Mrs. Phebe K. Warner, Claude, Texas, who will discuss "State Parks."

The Texas State Band Contest will occur simultaneously with the meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and already more than 40 bands have entered the contest. These bands will come from many sections of the state, because of the large purses that have been offered, aggregating more than $2,500, the low rates granted by the railroads, and the desire to participate in what will in all probability be the largest band concert ever held in the state. Each band will be accompanied by numbers of its fellow townsmen, and during the stay in Brownwood will be distinct factors in the pleasure of the thousands who will attend the convention.

One of the features of the three-day program will be the spectacular illuminated parade, which will precede the pageant, and coronation of the queen. These attractions will be the second night, and will excell any attraction of its kind ever given in the state. Each of the various towns in West Texas have been invited to appoint duchesses and maids of honor, and in the spectacular illuminated parade, these duchesses will be featured. The pageant which follows will be climaxed by the crowning of the queen, Miss West Texas, and this with the array of West Texas beauties will form a panorama of beauty and grandeur that has not been excelled anywhere.

These annual meetings of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce have always been concluded with a mammoth banquet, at which time the selection of the next place of meeting is made. The banquet this year is expected to be enjoyed by five thousand people, exclusive of the bands, and with three cities in the race for the honor, enthusiasm will run riot with good humor and fellowship that is so outstanding in West Texas.

All Texas railroads have given an open rate of a fare and one-half for this great gathering, the selling dates opening May 11, tickets good to return May 17. Already sixteen special trains have been chartered to come from all sections of West Texas, and the people who come upon these trains will live upon them while in Brownwood. All of these special trains will be spotted in convenient places, and there will be a veritable Pullman City during the convention. Every possible convenience will be afforded in this Pullman City, such as telephone and telegraph service, sanitation and other accommodations.

Fleets of automobiles from all over West Texas will bring thousands. Brownwood during the week of the convention will be metropolitan in appearance. Traffic arrangements will be perfect in every respect, and Sergeant E. F. Post of the United States army will be chief traffic officer. Thousands of the autoists will camp in one of the three beautiful parks, in and near Brownwood, and with these camping facilities, added to the people that will be accommodated by the special trains, the hotels and the residences of Brownwood homes that will be thrown open, the entertainment of the convention with an attendance of 25,000 or more will be easily accomplished.

It should also be stated that the United States army, the aviation corps of both the United States army and the national guard, and the national guard will be very much in evidence during the convention. The presence of these men in uniform will add materially to the inspiration of the occasion, and will be living demonstrations of the need and demand for a national defense.

The Business and Professional Women's clubs of Texas are keeping step with the progressive spirit of West Texas, and to show their appreciation of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, have called a state meeting at Brownwood, said meeting to begin the last day of the annual meeting of the West Texas organization and to continue one day after the great convention.

All business sessions of the convention will be held in the forenoon, beginning at 9:30 o'clock and ending at 12:30 p. m. each day. Afternoons will be given to group meetings as follows:

May 13—Agricultural, Hon. M. L. Corey, member of the Federal Farm Loan board, Washintgon, D. C., chief speaker. Farmers of West Texas interested in Federal farm loans will find especial interest in this address as Mr. Corey is, of course, authority upon this matter. The Boys' and Girls' Community clubs will also be intensely interested in this address.

May 14—Commercial executives, Walter Yaggy, manager Board of City Development, San Angelo, presiding.

Live Stock, B. M. Whitaker, agricultural manager, West Texas Chamber of Commerce, presiding.

Pecans, H. G. Lucas, president Texas Pecan Growers' association, presiding.

Texas Band Teachers' association, Conway E. King, president, presiding.

May 15—Texas Business and Professional Women's Federation, Mrs. Katherine Vedder, national vice president, presiding.

The band contests in all classes will occur at 3 o'clock each afternoon, and the prize winners will be announced at the banquet.

Social features including dances will take place each evening, with the exception of the closing night.

The arrangements for this great affair are being directed by a central committee in Brownwood, composed of P. A. Glanville, chairman; W. P. Murphey, L. E. Shaw, Hans Schroeder and P. B. Richey, all prominent business men of Brownwood, and competent committees of men and women have been untiring in their efforts in carrying out all details. As a result of this wonderful team work, everything is in readiness for the occasion.

The convention will be held in the new Soldiers and Sailors' Memorial hall, that has just been completed, and has a seating capacity of four thousand. It is the last word in beauty, convenience and adaptability, and is amply equipped with committee rooms, press rooms and other necessary auxiliaries.

Nothing has been overlooked in providing for the pleasure of the delegates to the convention, during the intermissions of the business sessions. There will be a state gun tournament, in which 25 or more of the leading shots of the union will participate, as well as many state champions. Also baseball, golf, polo, tennis, games, swimming contests, wrestling bouts, horse racing and other forms of clean and wholesome sport. But all of these are so arranged that there will be no interference with the business program of the convention.

The local committees have arranged for ample comfort stations, full supplies of ice water, street seats, in fact, every convenience for the accommodation of all visitors will be supplied. Registration booths will be provided at convenient points, and the same registration fee established before the convention became so large, will be observed.

Brownwood will be at home to all visitors, and her earnest ambition is to make every one of the many thousands who will come to the great meeting, have a most pleasant time, and return to their respective homes with a feeling of good will and fellowship.

The Turn Row

We have come to the time that the big ranches must go. The cattlement are big hearted fellows and they are resigning themselves to the conditions not all together for their health and not for any special love they have for farmers, but because it will now pay them better to sell their land and get the premium in the advance values and the interest on the notes than to worry in what has been a losing game for a long time.

Any way these cattlemen are big hearted fellows and to use the cow boy parlance the cattlemen has a heat in his as big as a "bay steer." We may be classed in the list a boy once placed his father, according to this true story, which was within the writer's own knowledge.

There was a man in a certain Texas city who had been rather a tough character but had reformed and was then a good citizen and a church man, but had brought over his joking habits with him. Everybody kinder dreaded his jokes, although they were harmless, he always had a lot of fun out of some of his friends.

Once he became very ill. His family physician could not well manage the case, and advised that he be carried to a nearby town to a specialist. The patient wanted the physician to accompany him to the specialist and they soon were off. The home physician remained all night returning in the morning. The patient had a big gosling of a boy who had inherited some of the former traits of his father, but thought there was no other man like his father. The boy was early at the doctor's office to learn about the condition of his father. The father was not really as bad as had been thought, so the dotor thought he would have a little amusement out of the boy. As he approached he asked the doctor "how is Pa doctor?" The doctor in as solemn manner as possible, said: "Son, your father is dead." The boy asked again, "doctor, is Pa dead sure enough." "Yes son, I'm sorry to say he is dead."

The boy, after a deep study said: "Well doctor, there went one of the best hearted men that ever lived. 'True, he was not real honest,' but was one of the biggest hearted and best men that ever lived."

This little story or joke put a ban on the patients joking for a long time. The doctor explained the joke to the boy and all was well.

We cattlemen are not always considered real honest, but we are as big hearted a bunch as ever lived.

One of the great difficulties in the way of putting fertilizers on the farms is that most every farmer wants to sell out and move somewhere else or do something else. Many years ago an old man said to us: "The reason Texas people make such little progress is that most of Texas people are on wheels and moving from place to place." We have often thought of this true proverb during the intervening years.

In contrast with Texas, we read some years ago an article in the Breezers Gazette by some one who was traveling for that splendid paper in the state of Kentucky. He was describing the fine farm homes as compared with other states, and gave a reason that those farmsteads, as he called them, had not been sold in a hundred years. They had remained in the same name and family for that period; had been handed down from one generation to another. Each had contributed something to the convenience and beauty of the place that would be enjoyed by the succeeding generation. A fine idea we think, but have not practiced in our selves.

After 30 years of experience and observation, we are now ready to say to any young man: "Decide on the business you intend to follow, select the place and then settle down, build a home or begin building, add some new and better things each year as you learn the need for new and better things and you will finally be like the K. Y. people, will not want to move, but be sure to get on the plains before you settle for good."

We believe for a young man who wants to farm, to get a small farm on these plains and as near Lubbock as possible, drive down his stakes, build a modern home as fast as his means will permit, plant trees—lots of trees—make all the possible convenience for his wife, if he has one, if not, find and capture a fine sensible girl who does not think it a discredit to help her mother cook and wash dishes. Toy girls are alright to take to church and picture shows, but I would be afraid to risk one for a life partner, would prefer a woman for that job.

PLANT A TREE, SAYS AMERICAN WOMEN'S CLUB

By United Press

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Back-to-the-soil and dig-in week opens Monday, with Forest Protection week and second national Garden Week commencing on the same date, says the American Tree association.

Tree day of the garden week campaign being conducted by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and at the direction of Mrs. Mary K. Sherman, chairman of the department of applied education of that organization, is next Friday. Thousands of women will join the American Tree association by planting a tree, the only "dues," and registering their name in the tree-planting army. Through its president, Charles Lathrop Pack, the American Tree association, directs atention to the importance of the McNary-Clarke forestry bill. In his proclamation setting the date for Forest Protection Week, President Coolidge said:

"We are drawing upon our supplies of timber four times as fast as they are renewed through growth."

In his Forest Protection week statement, Pack says: "The statement of the British forestry commission, just issued, says that 33,882 acres in Great Britain are to be put to work at once growing trees and that all the countries of Europe, except Finland, Sweden and Montenegro, are consuming more timber than they produce. During Forest Protection week let us remember that and also that we have 81,000,000 acres of idle land in this country fit for nothing but growing trees."

One outstanding tree planting reported to the American Tree association is that of the Erie County Conservation Society of Buffalo. Mayor Schwab has set May 7 as tree planting day for the entire city and 60,000 trees will be planted. Another big feature is the completion of the work of the Amerian Legion in planting a 5,000 acre forest in Herkimer county, New York.

Through the Federated clubs in Ohio, 800 committees are putting on the national tree planting campaign in the schools in connection with the week. Thousands of trees will be planted. In Indiana, Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota, Mississippi, Illinois and many other states through division heads tree planting programs are being worked out in the schools.

The week's program as outlined by Mrs. Sherman follows:

Sunday, the day in the churches, a golden text in every garden; Monday, garden and the home, trees and shrubs, free tree-planting suggestions from the American Tree Association; Tuesday, vegetable gardens, the bridge between the producer and the consumer; community gardens; Wednesday, gardening in the schools, what is taught tree-planting on school grounds, bird protection; Thursday, gardening as promoted by the extension service of the Department of Agriculture, boys' and girls' garden clubs; Friday, tree day, memorial trees, preservation of wild flowers; plays and exercises.

VOL. 2, NO. 149 — LUBBOCK, LUBBOCK COUNTY, TEXAS, SUNDAY, APRIL 20, 1924 — FULL LEASED WIRE UNITED NEWS

Early Days on The Plains

By J. J. DILLARD.

Among the many old timers that now reside in Lubbock that pulled the bell cord over the hurricane deck of two and four Spanish mules, pulling a mail hack in the days when there was only one house between Lubbock and Gail in Borden county, a distance of eighty miles, is J. B. Mobley, who for two years, was the driver. It took two days to make the trip, passing through the town of Gail on to Colorado City. The only house at that time on the route between Lubbock and Gail was a post office known as Grassland, some ten miles southeast of the present location of Taheka. Enos I. Seeds was its post master. Seeds had inherited some ten sections of land from his father, who at that time was a resident of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Seeds was a contractor and followed building windmill towers and erecting mills. Many of the mills built by him are standing yet.

Others who are living in the county yet, who drove the mail in the early days, Frank Bowles is one of them. He was the driver that succeded Mr. Mobley. He drove to Gail and remained for night and would return the following day. Often he was delayed for ten twenty and even twenty four hours and on quite a number of occasions for a week, on account of blizzards, snow storms and sand storms. It may seem strange, but the wind blew with equally as much force twenty five or thirty years ago as it does today.

Frank is still with us and is remembered by all old timers in a dozen adjoining counties.

Will M. Crawford is another one of the stage drivers, who drove between Lubbock and Plainview later he was succeeded by Ed P. Wilson. Both live in Lubbock at this time.

Marion M. Crawford, also pushed the mail for several years, between Lubbock and Gail. He resides in the city at this time.

Many of the early county officers of the county are still living. I recall the petition for organization of Lynn county, which was attached to Lubbock county for judicial purposes. The application was presented and was considered by the court in an open session in the district court room in February, 1903. The contest, contest created much interest, and the names of the petitioners were scrutinized closely and testimony was heard, bearing on their qualifications as voters. The petition contained one hundred and seventy-six names, which was twenty-six names more than the required number.

The names of several noted outlaw horses, wolf hounds and persons traveling through the country, were held by the judge, as not meeting with the requirements of the statutes, and were withdrawn from the list of eligibles, leaving one hundred and fifty-five names of qualified voters.

The arguments were presented and the court and commissioners retired and considered the testimony, argument and the law, and on returning to the court room which was filled to its capacity, and the motion was made by Sam Slover that the petition be granted and the election be ordered, and when the vote was cast it was unanimous. Judge Geo. R. Bean and myself were present in April, 1903, at the installation of the various officers and assisted in preparing the orders preparatory to getting the county machinery in running order. I remember that only one house was on the townsite and it was used for a temporary court house and sleeping quarters for visitors who carried their bedding with them. The judge of Lubbock county and myself slept with the records, which we carried with us.

The temporary hotel was a large tent in which the visitors ate, and was operated by W. E. Porterfield, who later erected a substantial building which was the principal hotel in Tahoka for a number of years. Judge Bean was quite fond of his coffee, which was served in the usual way. The judge used sugar and since the tent was also used as a wash room, the visitors, combing their heads near the table, it was easy for a practical joker to place a whisp of hair in the judge's cup, which was at the judge's plate unfilled. Shortly the cook began to pass around the table filling the empty cups with coffee hot from the stove, which was nearby. The judge began to stir his coffee to hasten the process of disolution and imagine the judge's surprise when he raised his spoon toward his mouth, to notice a wisp of hair clinging to his spoon. The judge had an iron stomach, and on many occasions had eaten the favorite dish at round-ups, called by the more polite and scholarly cow-boys as (son-of-a-gun, but by the real cow-boy son-of-b——) but none of them even, when they were prepared rather rich, had such a nauseating effect on the judge's stomach, and he left the table instantly and began re-measuring what coffee he had already drank.

The population of Lynn county in 1900 was only 17 souls, counting big, little, old and young, in fact at that date there was only one woman in the county. In 1922 there was 1732 poll tax receipts issued and for the year 1923 a total of 2658 poll-tax receipts were issued. In 1902, the total valuation of all property of every kind was only $947,630.

Terry county was the next unorganized county to divorce itself from its parent county and was organized in 1904 and the location for the county site was contested between the present county site, Brownfield, and Gomez. The writer and a number of visiting attorneys attended the first term of court at Brownfield. The writer sold the original section that Gomez was located on, selling it to J. F. Blankenship, formerly of Jones county, at $1.00 per acre. Among the early settlers in Gomez were: J. T. Gomez, Seitz, Rev. Lane, Wolf, Rolley Conley, Prof. Morrell and others. I recall a difficulty between Morrell and Wolf, which resulted in Wolf shooting at Morrell some three or four times.

This difficulty occurred in 1903 and I was at Stanton in Martin county when the case was investigated by the grand jury. The grand jury, after hearing the testimony decided that it was not a violation of the laws of Texas to shoot at or in any manner attempt to kill a man in an unorganized county. However, later, when the county was organized a grand jury did indict Wolf for assault with intent to kill. He was tried at Brownfield among the first cases tried after its organization. I recall a portion of the testimony. When the witness was being questioned, he was asked if he saw the difficulty and he replied that he did. He was asked if he saw Wolf shoot at Morrell and he replied that he did. He was asked if Wolf hit Morrell with any one of the shots and he replied, "H—— No! He out run the bullets."

The writer often visited Gomez before Terry county was organized and I remember giving a check to the hotel proprietor, a Mr. Toll, which was not presented to the bank until it was three years old. It was the practice of the proprietor of this hotel to act as waiter at the table, and he was deputy sheriff also. He usually, especially during the summer months, did the work in his shirt sleeves, but he alway and at all times, wore his favorite six-shooter, a Colt's 45 calibre, buckled around his waist. The guests said they thought it was done for the purpose of reducing their appetites, and thereby reduced the grocery bill, thus saving a small amount on each meal.

On one occasion that I attended court at Stanton, in Martin county, I was assigned a room at the Flanigan Hotel, but on going to my room at about ten o'clock I found the door locked. I reported the incident to the landlord and he promptly gave the parties who were on the inside the pass-word, which was the signal to open up, which they did promptly, and the entire twelve men who composed the grand jury, who included a prominent character from Terry county, who was foreman, all seated around the only bed in the room which was in the middle of the floor, covered with money, checks and cards. He informed them that it was time for all honest people to be in bed.

Many changes have come since those days. The mode of travel at that time was horse-back, buggy and wagon, but now we have the flying machine and automobile and when we attempt to cross the streets of any of our modern cities, especially Lubbock, we are reminded as James J. Montague says:

"I dart half way across the street,
I hear a raucus klaxon,
And turn back with frightened bleat
To dodge a Ford or Saxon.

"Again, to get across I try,
But luck will never let me,
For if the Packard I get by,
The Cadillac will get me.

"I never seem to find my chance,
However, I endeavor,
Though others cross with nonchalance
I dodge and turn forever.

"I start, then stop and stand aghast
Mid harsh and warning voices,
With here Pierce Arrows roaring past
And there great blue Rolls Royces.

"And here and there a motor truck,
That sets my nerves a quiver,
And makes me wheel about to duck
The impact of the future.

"I step, I slide, I whirl about
Among these shape titanic,
But every place that I set out
I start back in a panic.

"Until at last I catch my breath,
And cry in desparation,
'Oh! Well! I'm not afraid of death,
Begin the mutilation.'

"Some day I know my trunk or neck
These juggernouts will sever,
But till I lie a total wreck,
I must dodge forever."

DALLAS TEXAS MAN HELP IN CONVENTION CAMPAIGN

T. T. Price, former resident of Lubbock, but who now makes his home at Dallas, was a business visitor in Lubbock recently and when told of the Junior Chamber of Commerce campaign for delegates to the Brownwood convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce he left a check with H. T. Kimbro to pay the fare of a delegate to the convention.

Mr. Price has extensive holdings in real estate property in Lubbock, and his donating the check to the interest of Lubbock in sending a delegate to the convention is indeed a splendid example ad one that other non-resident property owners might follow.

Lubbock people are exerting every effort to make this city a better one. They are interested in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and its continued growth and such assistance from a non-resident property owner is received with genuine appreciation.

Let other men follow the good example of the Dallas citizen.

They are interested in the material betterment of Lubbock, and it would be wise for them to take some interest in the development of the community in other ways.

CONGRESS ON POINT OF FORCING UNWELCOME LEGISLATION ON PRES. COOLIDGE; THREE BILLS MENTIONED

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United News Staff Correspond't.)

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Congress, abetted by some of the president's followers, is on the point of sending him three important legislative measures which disregards his own recommendations and promises political complications whether he signs or vetoes them. These are the immigration, bonus and tax bills.

It is rare that three such important decisions on legislation must be made so close together. Within the next few weeks before the national conventions, Coolidge must weigh all of the complicated problems involved in each of these measures and decided whether the best interests of the country require him to insist upon his own policies, or to yield to the expressed will of congress.

Here are some of the considerations which must be weighed in deciding whether to approve these measures:

Immigration: Coolidge's chief objection to the bill as it stands is the Japanese exclusion feature. He is concerned chiefly with the effect upon international relations. Hughes fears that this provision will wipe out the good done by the Washingtoin conference. The president naturally hates to give a foreign power like Japan cause for feeling offended. Yet he must consider the domestic phases. Congress—both houses— has approved exclusion by overwhelming majorities and would readily do so again over Coolidge's veto. Thus, a veto would not change the ultimate result. In addition a veto would cause deep disapproval on the Pacific coast. The best prediction is that he will approve the bill and make an explanation which will salve Japan's wounded pride.

Bonus: Congress is determined to pass a soldier bonus and expects to do it by a two-thirds majority which would make a veto innefective. The cash bonus idea is thrown over in favor of an insurance plan. Coolidge is opposed to a cash bonus, but he has not said whether he would oppose the insurance form. Veteran organizations will be deeply disappointed at a veto. Business will be deeply disappointed if the president signs the bill.

Taxes: The Mellon rates to which the president is committed have been discarded. Congress will send him a bill which approximates the democratic schedule. Coolidge must decide whether to veto the bill and appeal to the country to return a republican congress committed to the Mellon plan, or take what he can get and hope for more in the next congress. If he gets the 25 per cent reduction in taxes payable this year, he will be in a better position to veto the general tax bill.

Thus it will be seen that the life of a republican president up for election this year is not altogether a happy one. He is in for trouble no matter what he does with these three measures.

He has not only the opposition of the democrats, but the opposition of a powerful wing within his own party to contend with. That is what complicates his position.

OIL DEAL OFFER TO GEN. WOOD DESCRIBED

By United News.

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Alleged overtures made by the late Senator Boies Penrose to General Leonard Wood in connection with the republican presidential nomination in 1920 were described to the senate oil committee Friday by T. A. Harmon, tax expert of Indianapolis, who said he heard of them from James L. Himrod, confidential worker in Wood's headquarters at Chicago.

According to the story, the late Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, called the headquarters of General Wood thereight before the late president Harding, was nominated and asked if Wood, if elected would give "us" three cabinet members.

Colonel Wm. Cooper Procter, of Cincinnati, who financed the Wood campaign, denied that any "oil deal" offer had been made to General Wood.

Himrod told him, Harmon said, that he had taken the message from Penrose to Wood at the General's request. Wood refused to make any promises, though told by his advisors that his consent would mean his election, according to Himrod's story.

Discussing the alleged deal of Jake Hamon, Bill Nichols, who described Hamon as his "buddy" said that one of Hamon's last acts was to write a secret note to President Harding. Nichols said when Harding read it, tears streamed down his face, and he shook his head in sorrow. After Harding had read the note, Nichols said, he destroyed it and nobody but Hamon and Harding knew of its contents.

Nichols said Hamon had told him he could have the secretaryship of the interior if he wanted it, but said he did not want the position.

SENTENCES OF "LOST LEGION" REDUCED

By United News.

LEAVENWORTH, an., April 19. The faint spark of hope which has flickered in the breasts of those quiet and resigned soldiers of "the lost legion" has been rekindled as each daily mail brings some of them clemency.

At the federal penitentiary where these courtmartialed prisoners are barracked, there is a spirit of optimism never known there before. All await anxiously for the word which is certain to cut from 5 to 50 years from their sentences.

Out of the 220 war prisoners 40 have been given shorter terms, 17 of these participated in the Houston riot in 1916, and were given life terms. The penalty on many was reduced to 30 years imprisonment and still lower for others.

Warden Biddle, respected and well liked by the prisoners because of his fair treatment of them, Friday declared the cases of the entire 220 men would be reviewed in Washington and each sentence carefully scrutinized to see whether or not it was too severe.

FRENCH PEOPLE TO GO TO POLLS ON MAY 10 FACING MANY CHARGES IN NATIONAL PROBLEMS IN FOUR YEARS

By JOHN O'BRIEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, April 19—About four million Frenchmen will go to the polls May 10—the feast day of Joan of Arc—to register, by their votes, what they think of the manner in which the "Horizon Blue" chamber of deputies, elected in 1919 just after France had emerged from a victorious war, has looked after the national interests.

Many changes have been noted in the French outlook on the world situation since those feverish days of the Peace Conference. France has had grevious disappointments from her war allies. Germany has defaulted. France is supporting alone the burden of her devastated provinces. Italy has gone her own way regarding Germany and Russia. England, in whose promises France placed such trust, has reverted to her pre-war way of thinking. The United States refused to ratify the Treaty of Versailles and, until very recently, declined to take anything more than an academic interest in what Europe was doing. Then there is the Dawes Commission and its recommendations.

These are some of the things the deputies who are seeking re-election will have to explain to their constituencies. And that is only a fraction. Happenings in the world outside France and France's reaction to the mhave had a profound effect on the life of the people here. The cost of living has soared about four hundred per cent. While there is practically no unemployment, the scale of wages has not gone up to meet the cost of living. The international value of the franc has decreased to about one-fourth of its value at the end of the war. Foreign trade has suffered thereby.

France Getting Radical

Since the formation of the "National Bloc" or union of deputies following the lead of President Millerand, whose war cry in 1919 was conservation and opposition to extremists both of the right and left; royalists and communists there have been many indications that the mass of the electorate has been tending toward the radical viewpoint.

Premier Poincaré's prestige and parliamentary skill have been able to hold his chamber majority in leash, but the senate has not been so obedient. Member sof the upper house do not come up for re-election.

In considering the chances of success of the "National Bloc" at the May 10 electoral test, it must be remembered that it includes a large number of deputies who belong to "groups" more inclined to radicalism than to conservatism. Poincare and Millerand claim that it is the bulwark of republicanism. Men like Briand and Herriot ridicule the assertion. They have voted for Poincare in the chamber, but they have proclaimed in their own constituencies that they base their political faith on the French revolution—in other words, they are against reaction of all kinds. When Poincare talks of force against Germany and refuses to have anything to do with the Soviets, the radical leaders stand for an amicable settlement of the reparations problems and the acceptance of the actual regime in Russia.

The last chamber included 626 deputies. The Republican Democratic Entente Group," consisting of 181 deputies, was the parliamentary basis of the "National Bloc." It is extremely likely that this group will be strong in the new parliament. But what of the other groups, the so-called Republican left, the radical socialist group and the democratic republican left? They are numbered in the outgoing chamber nearly 240 members. Without their co-operation Poincare could not have remained a week in power. Poincare kept them in line by his appeal to their patriotism can they get in line among themselves to overthrow him? That is the problem of May 10.

Complicated Election Laws

The radical elements got together after the socialist congress in March, 1923, at the beginning of the year and decided to co-operate with the socialists and even with the communists in constituencies where they believe such co-operation would lead to the overthrow of the "National Bloc" candidates. But this "Radical Bloc" is united more in appearance than in reality. With the complicated electoral machinery which is based on the system of proportional representation and full tickets it will be difficult for the "insurgents" to make as good a showng as the government candidates.

The electoral law was voted in March by the senate when Poincare threatened to resign if the 1919 system were radically changed. Incomplete tickets, or "lists", as they are called here, are forbidden. This means that each ticket must contain a number of candidates equivalent to the number to be elected in the department. This ticket had to be submitted to the perfect of the department twelve days before election. Previously it could have been done only four days before election day.

To show how the system works, let us take, for example, a department such as the Loire, where there are about 120,000 voters. There are eight deputies to be elected. There are 24 candidates. A candidate who gets an absolute majority of the votes cast is elected as a matter of course. That is irrespective of the "list" which bears his name. But for the others recourse is had to a complicated system. The total number of votes cast is divided by eight—the number of deputies—giving what is known as the "electoral quotient." Each list then gets as many deputies as this "quotient" is contained in the average number of votes cast for the candidates on the list. If there are any seats left vacant after this process they are given to the list which got the biggest average, thereby explaining the name "premium to the majority" given to this system. Poincare naturally hopes to benefit by all the seats thus apportioned.

A Second Ballot

As usual in French elections, there will be second ballots two weeks from May 10. These are necessary in cases where no lists obtains a figure equal to the "electoral quotient," or in cases where at least one-third of the electors have not voted. But these second ballots do not vitally change the outcome of the election. The candidates so elected are the object of arrangements between the parties in the constituency.

Poincare is going to the fight with confidence. He has behind him the victory over the "enemies of the franc" the tendency toward closer relations with England and his settlement of the financial crisis which threatened French over, he has in his hands the encredit all over the world. Moretire electoral machinery.

Mayor Herriot of Lyons, who is the leader of the radical-socialist party, has called upon all the radical elements of the country to march to victory as "soldiers of the republic." He pointed to what he called France's "isolation"—as the fruit of Poincare's foreign policies and the high cost of living as the result of lack of adequate measures by Poincare's cabinet to check it. The socialists and communists demand a general measure of amnesty for all political offenders. They stand for an imediate recognition of the Soviets. They urge closest co-operation with their proletarian "brothers" of England and Germany. They are for the immediate abandonment of the Ruhr.

The communists have candidates in practically every constituency. They are cooperating with the socialists only insofar as the latter oppose all the "bourgeois" groups. The "reds" are strong only in the industrial districts of the north and in the mining dstricts of the center.

Poncare himself, being a senator, is not a candidate, but most of his ministers are.

The new chamber will contain 583 deputies, 43 seats having been suppressed by the preceding legislature. They are elected from the 90 departments on the basis of one for about 70,000 population, with three departments from Algeria, besides the representation from the seven French colonies.

SANTA FE R. R. TO ASK INCREASE CAPTIAL STOCK

TOPEKA, Kans., April 19.—An application to the Kansas state charter board for authority to increase the roads capital stock $100,000,000 will be made by Santa Fe railroad officials Saturday, it was learned here Friday night.

W. R. Smith, solicitor for the road, verified the statement, but emphasized there was a plan afoot to issue stock dividends and said the matter would not be taken before the interstate commerce commission.

The Santa Fe railroad at the present time has a stock issue of $233,000,000 of common stock, and preferred stock amountin gto $131,000,000 it was stated. Smith denied, that the application coming within four days of the scheduled annual meeting of stockholders here next Thursday, had any significant meaning. Neither has the report, which has Wall Street as its foundation, that the stockholders are planning to ask for larger dividends, influenced the proposed action, the officials said.

Etiquette
What & When to do it
By A. Leda

Any girl desiring personal replies for Miss Etiquette, on social affairs may write Miss A. Leda care of this newspaper, enclosing a self addressed and stamped envelope.

Dear Miss Flo: I have invited a young lady who lives out of town to attend a dance with me. Should I pay for her ticket or should she do it? Would it be proper for her to spend the night at my home on my mother's invitation?

Thank you.—F. B.

You should pay all expenses. A tactful way to take care of her train expenses would be to enclose a ticket with your invitation. It would be quite alright for her to spend the night at your home on your mother's invitation.

Dear Miss Flo: When a hostess neglects to introduce two people, is it correct for another guest who knows that they are not acquainted to introduce them?

Thank you. C. W.

To introduce her guests is a hostess' duty. When she fails to do this, it is, of course, because she believes they are already acquainted. The polite thing to do would be to say to the hostess words to this effect: "Mrs. ..... I do not believe that M. ..... has been presented to Miss ....." This is a graceful way of calling her attention to her oversight, and she is sure to appreciate your courtesy.

Dear Miss Flo: When a lady who is with a gentleman drops an article and he does not notice it, should she request him to pick it up, or should she do so herself?

Thank you.—G. F.

The lady may request the gentleman to pick it up for her, and thank him for it.

Dear Miss Flo: When an accident occurs at the table—for instance overturning a cup of coffee or a glass of water—should one apologize to the hostess or to one's dinner partner, or both?

Thank you.—F. L.

When an accident of this kind occurs, a word or two to the hostess is sufficient. Profuse apologies are out of order. One could say to the hostess: "I am sorry" or "How careless of me—please forgive me."

WOMEN'S CLUBS HAVE THEIR GARDEN WEEK

WASHINGTON, April 19.—(UP)—The second annual Garden Week of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, starting today, has the personal endorsement of President Coolidge and Secretary Hoover. It is being conducted under the personal auspices of Mrs. John D. Sherman of Denver, chairman.

In a letter to Mrs. Winter, President Coolidge wrote:

"National Garden Week seems now to be well on the way to establishment as a fixed national affair, and I hope this year's observance of it will strengthen its position in the public interest and activities.

Women Day Travelers.

CHICAGO, April 19. (UP)—Three-fourths of the women do their railroad traveling by daylight. This is the conclusion of John Mahoney, general passenger agent of the Wabash Railroad, who has just completed a survey of passenger transportation.

Maloney states that on Wabash trains from Chicago to St. Louis only 15 per cent of the passengers at night are women, and that in the day time 70 per cent are women.

The feminine preference has been shown to a marked degree in rcent months, Maloney said. He pointed out that not so long ago approximately 50 per cent of the night travelers were women. The shift of the women from night to day time travel is attributed to the extra conveniences now afforded by day travel.

The en travel at night as a time saver. They use their sleeping hours for travel and reserve their waking hours for work.

MOUNTED GAMBLING HOUSE IS RAIDED

By United News.

DALLAS, April 18.—Mounted on a high powered automobile, a "portable" gambling house was uncovered here by police. Attracted by clarion calls to the cubes and vociferous pounding on gaming tables, officers brought the big "covered wagon" to a halt.

In the rear they found a group of men seated around a card table. Nearby another group were "coaxing the ivories." Several arrests were made and considerable gaming equipment confiscated.

Woman's Fashions in the Future

Expert Guessers Run All the Way From Extreme Simplicity to Jeweled Hats and Gowns of Gold

By HEDDA HOYT
Fashion Editor of United Press.
(Written for United Press)

NEW YORK, April 19—Some of us are old enough whether we'll admit it or not—to remember the days when mother had a Sunday-go-meeting" dress and one other dress which did service for all the other days in the week.

Those were the days when calico wrapper was considered the swank thing for house wear, when silk hosiery was worn only by the "upper classes," when undergarments were painfully stiff, starched things and high-laced patent shoes were considered mighty dressy.

We don't have to look back far to recall these fashion atrocities. Anyone who can remember the coming of the bicycle can recollect them. The flappers of that day wore naughty divided skirts, high-necked shirt-waists and mannish sailor hats as they draped themselves astride of bicycles, the world's latest vehicle. Instead of bobbed hair, wire rats and teapot domes, were the classy things in headgear.

When we consider the tremendous changes that have occurred in fashions in the last twenty years we wonder what will happen in the next decade or two. It doesn't seem possible that clothes could be of finer texture or more beautiful lines than they are today, but there is bound to be continual advancement and changes in women's clothing.

Men's Tailors Stubborn

Men's garments suffer few changes. Men's tailors are stubborn things who evidently can't see the possibilities of "slashed-to-the-knee" directorie trousers or knee flounces lace-trimmed skirt tucks, etc. It's left to the women of the world to stir things up in the fashion world. In another twenty years from now men will undoubtedly still be wearing trousers with creases duning down the center of the leg, vest will still be colorless affairs which match the suit and ties will not be discarded for frilly jabots. But the ladies will undoubtedly be changed.

Recently I heard a lecture given by a clergyman regarding the changes that are coming to the world. He believes that a religious wave will overspread the world within the next twenty years and that women will forsake frivolous things, such as cobweb hosiery and furs that have cost the lives of thousands of little animals, and return to the ancient Greek type of garment the lose-flowing robe and sandals. Dress competition will be done away with, according to his theories.

On the other hand, a famous French designer who prides himself on his knowledge of the evolution of costumes claims that fifty years from now women will be the most radiant creatures the world has ever known. "Hats" he states, "will be ornate affairs of jewels and beads head-dresses fit for goddesses. Tailored modes and harsh materials will be replaced by materials of woven gold and textures such as we have never known."

The Simpler Type

Another connoisseur of fashions believes that we have already reached the zenith of costume perfection and that in the future we will revert to clothes of simpler type. He bases his views on the fact that women are going back into the business world more than formerly that they are competing with men both in the business and in the sports world growing into a race of wholesome feminity. "Card games and teas," he says, "are not as important as golf and tennis to the girl of today."

As to the evolution of hairdressing, opinion likewise is diversified. Some believe that the over popularity of bobbed locks will cause us to return to long hair and intricate hair does. A well-known hairdresses told me the other day that if women continued having their hair cut at the present rate there would not be a long-haired woman left in New York by 1925. He believes that bobbed hair is permanent.

"If a prophet had told the men in Biblical days that the future generations of men would be beardless and short-haired, they would have crucified him for bigotry," he laughed. "Yet look at the men today! Beards are so scarce that even a clever "Beaver" player can't earn enough at his day's winnings to buy a ham sandwich. A few years from today a long-haired woman will be a curiosity."

All of which proves nothing. But undoubtedly many of us will live to see changes in fashions which were undreamed of today.

LUB-TEX CO. PARADE WAS A WINNER

"Oceans of Power" as represented b ythe Overland four touring car was demonstrated to thousands of Lubbock people and visitors Friday and Saturday, when twice daily, at 1:30 and 4:30 each afternoon, it was driven over the large steps and platform which was constructed on the vacant lot near the Lub-Tex Motor Company building.

The car was driven by Roy Gamble each time. Mr. Gamble has been with the Lub-Tex company for some time, and F. W. Koch, special factory representative wh, was here to aid the Lub-Tex people in staging the performances, announced that Mr. Gamble drove the car to keep down any belief that the performance was accomplished through any trick driving.

T. A. Hendrix, who bought the Overland after it had gone over the stairway the first time, rode with Mr. Gamble when he drove it over the stairway for the last time Saturday afternoon.

Following each performance Mr. Koch made short peppy talks of Overland manufacture, pointing out the desirability of the car and the good qualities involved in the Triplex (patented) springs, the power of the motor and other features of the car.

The Lub-Tex parade Saturday afternoon was well planned, and more than forty automobiles, many of which were used by their owners who had just recently purchased them, were used in the parade. The Overland Broncho was the sensation of the day, and created worlds of fun. Not one rider was able to stay aboard the saddle without "pulling leather."

NEILAN MADE "MINNIE" DIFFERENT EVERY WAY

"Minnie" the new Marshall Neilan picture released by First National, is a realistic page from real life in a small town country hotel. Neilan has made all his characters live and act humanly and he has put into the picture much rare humor. Neilan in giving advice to scenario writers once said: "Don't do the obvious."

Those who have seen "Minnie" know he practiced what he preached for he gives something different at every turn in this mirth-making drama.

Leatrice Joy plays the part of "Minnie" and with her is Matt Moore. Now the "obvious" thing for Neilan to do was to give both "straight" parts. They had always done that kind. But Neilan didn't do the obvious. He has made Matt and Leatrice shine in their odd role.

CONGREGATION IS FLEECED BY PASTOR

DALLAS, Texas, April 19.—With their faith somewhat shaken by the harsh view of the police on their parson's action in decamping with a flivver and about $5,000 in cash, which was to finance the second coming of Christ, tomorrow, the congregation of the Pentecostal church still have hopes that the sacrifice of all their worldly goods may bring back the Lord to this earth in "the vicinity of Dallas."

Reduced to poverty by the sale of everything they owned in order that their parson, John Quincy Adams by name, might go to meet the Lord, the congregation is being fed by the Associated Charities while the police are looking for their shepherd who sheared his flock and then departed with the wool. After collecting the finances for the journey to a secret meeting place with the Lord, the leader of the flock left over a week ago and has not been seen since. Driven by hunger to the charities, the faithful told of their great sacrifice for the second coming—and the police got busy inasmuch as earthy laws will have to be enforced until the prophecy is fulfilled.

Still expressing hopes that the Rev. Adams would return and bring the Master from the mysterious rendezvous, the "Holy Rollers" did not think the police were quite justified in their harsh judgment of the parson. However, tomorrow will decide whether the second advent of Jesus Christ will be at Dallas, Easter Sunday, 1924. Until that day has passed without the millenium, the widow, who was feeding her six children on bread and water because she had nothing left will not feel assured that her efforts were fruitless.

WAYSIDE OBSERVATIONS

RANDOM SHOTS AT THE WISE AND FOOLISH
BY G. TUCK

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 19—Kansas City is a great little old town. It has the real Western spirit. Here, barring bandits, a fellow gets a fair run for his money. It is a big, bustling business metropolis, made up largely of small town folk. It is natural and human and in many respects quite rural. Of course there is more or less high brow stuff here and a few snobs are running at large, but thus far their desire and mine to avoid acquaintanceship has been mutual and successful. In the main I find the populace here speak the same old language we used for conversational purposes down on the farm and the natives do not differ greatly from small town citizens. The hick type prevails here even in greater proportions than in the average small town. A show window demonstration of a new shaving paste, an electric sweeper or a jigging doll will attract a proportionately large crowd of open countenanced spectators in Kansas City than in the small town whence I migrated. And man could walk to the center of the street at the intersection of Main and Twelfth and with hand on brow gaze searchingly skyward and a seething mob would instantly surround him. Surely not all of us are from the country.

Yesterday on one of Kansas City's busiest streets I passed a feed wagon loaded with bound cane, to which was hitched a team of real farm horses and driven by an honest to goodness farmer. I know he was a real dirt farmer by the way the feed was loaded. Automobiles were weaving in and out, passing in endles procession. It was as incongrous as a cow pony at an auto show yet withal a sight so familiar as to make me home sick.

Dropped into one of those places where they hold regular auction sales of household goods. Watched them sell all sorts of furniture and kitchen utensils. The thing that impressed me most was the mad scramble after the boxes and tubs filled with pans, cans and junk. A good rocking chair sold for $2, while a tub of trash was bidden in at $4.50. All of which proves we never pass the kid age. The same appeal that grips a seven year old when he sees a penny-grab in a corner grocery store dominates the grown-ups at an auction sale. Never attended an auction sale of unclaimed baggage, but mean to some day.

At the junction of two busy streets about 5:00 p. m. a few days ago I beheld an old gray whiskered man hunched forward on the seat of a decrepit spring wagon hearding a team of dispirited and antequated horses along the thoroughfare, while motorists honked and cars started, stuttered and stopped in a vain effort to be on their way. The old gentleman obvious to his surroundings pursued his leisurely way. Finally in exasperation the traffic cop called out: "Hey do you know what you are doing?" No whit disconcerted the aged equestrian responded: "Yep, I'm goin' to Springfield. Ain't this the right road?" And on he drove toward Springfield.

At the Union Station the other day I saw a prosperous looking man carrying a luxurious gladstone bag from one corner of which protruded some white goods on which was inscribed clearly the word, "Pullman." Now, while circumstantial evidence points the finger of guilt at this man I would plead suspension of judgment. I recal the morning I was aroused from my rolling couch by the porter at the unearthly hour of 3:30 o'clock and on my arrival home, found I had swapped a suit of perfectly good pajamas for a sheet belonging to the Pullman Company.

STRICT ENFORCEMENT RUM LAW IS URGED

WASHINGTON, Apr. 19—Leaks in prohibition enforcement are being plugged by a new set of regulations issued co-incident with fresh hints of a senate investigation.

At the same time, an appeal for strict enforcement of the dry law was made at the opening session of the D. A. R. by Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president-general.

This utterance, together with the suggestion of Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, that the senate internal revenue investigation committee employ Francis J. Heney to go to the bottom of prohibition enforcement difficulties directed especial attention here toward the new regulations of Commissioner Haynes.

These regulations deal chiefly with greater restriction on the sale and transportation of hard liquor. Commissioner Haynes started work on the new regulations a month ago, about the time that the senate investigation of the department of justice developed charges of laxity in withdrawal permits.

To put a stop to the traffic in synthetic liquor, the bureau has outlawed the manufacture of absinthe, gin, and whiskey flavors and has placed the lid on the sale and manufacture of tincture of sweet orange peel and Jamaica ginger. The effect of these restrictions is to make the synthetic distillers are more difficult—and incidentally, to restrict the efforts of home brew artists.

Sale of these tinctures is to be forcefully regulated and cannot be sold under the new regulations in greater quantities than two ounces to each customer. Violation of these regulartions is deemed ground for action under the national prohibition act.

More drastic regulations of the use of prescriptions has been accomplished. In the future not only the quantity and kind of liquor prescribed must be named, but the name of the druggist by whom the prescription is to be filled must be named. In this way, the Unit hopes to put a stop to traffic in spurious prescriptions and check the trade in prescriptions by "liberal" doctors.

A new section prohibiting the advertisement or sale of stills, malt, malt extract or hops, fruit juices, and fermentable materials, recipes and formulas for the manufacture of alcoholic beverages in the home is also included in the revised regulations.

SERVICE THAT SATISFIES

DOMINION RULE UNACCEPTABLE TO IRELAND

Editor's Note: Irish republicans will never accept Dominion status in the British Empire, Rutledge, acting president of the "Irish Republic" declares in this, the second of a series of three articles. Ireland must have the full rights of nationhood, Mr. Rutledge declares.

By PATRICK RUTLEDGE
Acting President of Irish Republic
(Copyright, 1924, By United News).

DUBLIN, April 19.—Irish republicans regard the British dominions as subsidiary partners of Great Britain and as implicitly responsible for the continued subjugation of our country.

For the British odminions, offshoots of Great Britain (with the exception of the former Boer republic) the British crown with all that it connotes is an inherited and revered symbol.

To Ireland, ancient and separate nation, the British crown is the symbol and the most bitter reality of age-lang and still continued foreign conquest and oppression. Never will Irishmen come to regard it otherwise. Any international relation imposed and dictated, as is this treaty relaton by British force, will fail to establish peace and mutual trust between the two countries.

Ireland will not be content with anything short of the full rights of nationhood.

From the point of view of strategic safety, Great Britain and commonwealth can never trust Ireland while this enforced position within the empire endures. Ireland will still look upon any enemy of England as her friend. England's difficulty will continue to be Ireland's opportunity.

On the other hand, an independent Irish republic, with international recognition and guarantees such as safeguard all small sovereign states, could be relied upon to remain neutral in time of foreign wars and; if attacked, to defend passionately her territorial inviolability. The international position thus created would benefit Great Britain no less than Ireland. We should look upon Great Britain upon Canada and the other dominions as our friend. This is the only righteous, intelligent and paying solution of the Irish question.

We object to the League of Nations, on general grounds as at present constituted. A real league of nations should include all nations—great and small—on an equal basis.

In the absence of America; the predominating influence of the British empire ernders the league impotent to serve the declared purpose for which it exists. In particular, we object to Ireland's participation in any league of nations as a member of the British empire and pledge by a covenant to preserve the integrity of that empire thus doubly binding herself in a repugnant subsoviency to England and denying her ancient status.

Ireland looks to America as the champion of liberty and justice and the outstanding hope of civilization.

NAVY YARDS HAS FINEST FLYING FIELDS IN THE WORLD

By United Press

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—Philadelphia now has the finest two service flying field in the world. It is in the Philadelphia Navy Yard and it has been brought to a completion without exploitation of any kind. Co-operation of the United States Army engineers with those of the aviation section of the United States Navy has done the job.

One hundred and thirty-five acres of land have been leveled and planes swooping down upon it from any angle are assured of a good landing place. Bordering it are the hangars and close by are the slides into the Delaware, where seaplanes find the maximum of safety.

The field has been built at a cost estimated to be $60,000 less than it would have been had the work been done by private contract. It is virtually all "made land." The lowlands along the banks of the Delaware River, formerly under water at flood tide, have been filled in with soil dredged from the river.

Although the new field is complete, further improvements are under way. Of the 135 acres in the field, aproximately thirty-five have been sodded and the entire field will be similarly treated.

As soon as the entire space has been sodded, devices for day and night landing will be installed, according to Admiral Archibald H. Seales, Commandant of the Navy Yard. League Island will then become the headquarters for sea and land planes on the North Atlantic Coast.

SENATOR DENIES RECEIVING LIQUOR

By United News

WASHINGTON, April 19.—A charge that he had received a trunk full of liquor, seized by the department of justice in 1920, made before the Brookhart committee Friday, brought a denial from Speaker of the House Gillett, who said there was "no truth" to the report.

Captain H. L. Scaife, former employee of the department who made the charge named seven agents or former agents of the department, who he said would "prove" his story, including "Gaston B. Means. He claimed that the seized liquor was turned over by agents to their friends.

Gillett, in making the denial, said that what was probably referred to was an incident [illegible] in 1919 before the [illegible] act went into effect.

A trunk of [illegible] was opened, he said and some liquor in it confiscated. Later, he explained, the liquor was returned to him.

Scaife stated that a record of the case was found in reports of the department of justice and said that Gillett publicly acknowledged it and gave out a newspaper statement that he had gotten it for a constituent. Captain Scaifé declared the consignment of liqor, from which he charged Gillett received a trunk full, was seized in the Union Station here, "in 1918, 1919 or 1920," and later disappeared. It was valued at $50,000, he said. A grand jury made an investigation, he stated, but found no grounds for indictments.

MANAGER DENIES REPORT THAT JOHNSON CONCEDED DEFEAT

By United News

HOBOKEN, April 18.—Some of the morning newspapers said that Senator Hiram Johnson conceded his defeat in the New Jersey primaries in his speech here Thursday night, but he did no such thing insists Wm. Verdon, Johnson's state campaign manager.

"Senator Johnson simply was not chesty about the situation and said he had no illusions" declared Verdon.

"He recognizes that he must put up a strong fight and is preparing for it.

"As a matter of fact, every meeting he has addressed has aroused more enthusiasm than any meeting addressed by Coolidge speakers. In Newark, for example where a Coolidge rally attracted but 500.

"Of 31 delegates to be elected this year, I am confident that at least 25 will be for Johnson."

Johnson left for Washington Friday and will start Saturday for his speaking tour of the middle west.

The Gray Truck

TO THE complete line of Gray passenger cars, we have now added the Gray Truck. Specifications, aside from its heavier construction for truck purposes, are essentially the same as those which have brought to Gray passenger cars the world's economy record of 33.8 miles per gallon of gas on a run from New York to San Francisco. The low speed, low-compression Gray engine was designed particularly for maximum pulling power on hills and under capacity loads.

Each and every unit is designed and manufactured to fulfill every requirement of modern light delivery. No matter what your transportation problems may be, this Gray Truck will help you both to speed up and to lower the cost of your deliveries.

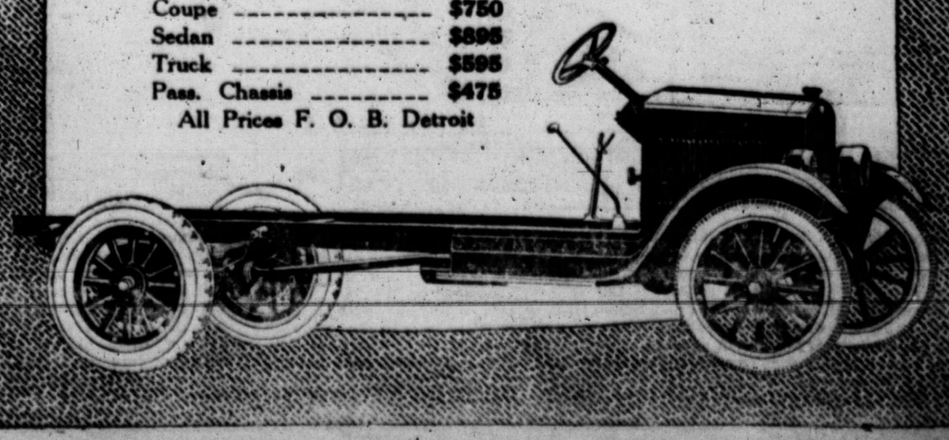

Sturdy, powerful, economical and thoroughly dependable, the Gray Truck represents the very last word in up-to-date light truck construction in a field where frequent stops, speed on the route, and minimum delivery cost per package or per mile are absolutely essential.

This Gray Truck Chassis will accomodate any type of body—express, panel, stake, or combination. Before adding to your equipment, let us show you what the Gray will do for you, and how it will save you money.

The German Chancellor, Dr. Wilhelm Marx, in an address at Barmen, declared he hoped the German Government could meet the terms of the Dawes Committee in the matter of reparations. TELLS WEIRD STORY OF KILLING MAN.

MRS. JOHANNA TELL. INTL.

Mrs. Johanna Tell, blue-eyed, red-haired woman of 30, walked into the office of the District Attorney of Bronx County, New York City, and calmly confessed that she had shot her employer, Charles Blaha, then beaten him to death with an axe, and buried his body in a pit on his farm in Connecticut. They quarrelled, she said, because, as his housekeeper, she would not get a divorce and marry him, nor would she live with him as his common-law wife. Initial search for the body proved futile, and the police were inclined, for a time, to disbelieve her story.

WOMAN SAYS STORY OF ADAM AND EVE IS CORRECT

HOUSTON Texas, April 19—The story of Adam and Eve is correct. Most every boy who gets into trouble has been led astray by some girl.

This was the statement of Mrs. Eva Belcher, Houston policewoman who handles all the juvenile cases here.

"Once that pair of brown eyes get fixed on his, and the acquisitive instinct all women possess starts to manifest itself, the poor fellow might just as well sign away the liberty of his own station. He is no longer to be held responsible to anybody, not even to himself."

"The rule 'work the way around,'" continued the police-woman, "When a boy is good, do not give him any credit. There is a girl at the bottom of it all. She deserves the credit."

"Keep the girls right, and the boys will be perfect gentlemen," she concluded.

How John and Mary Went About the Building of their New HOME

John and Mary were rent payers. Early this year, however, they decided it was money thrown away and agreed that the thrifty way was to build and own a home of their own.

Mary thought she would like to live in the west part of town, so they first went to T. W. Sawyer, Real Estate Dealer, who had just the lot they wanted. It was 50x127 1-2 feet anud had sidewalks, sewer and water all in. John was elated at the bargain, knowing full well that improved property in that part of town was bound to increase in value from year to year.

With their lot paid for, John and Mary visited Green & Hurlbut, Loan offices in Citizens National Bank building. They found a liberal loan was possible from this organization and in addition they received many money saving suggestions in the methods of properly building their home.

It was also at the offices of Green & Hurlbut that John and Mary were shown the wisdom of using only the best of building materials and the Shamburger Lumber Company was recommended as the place to get their building materials. At Shamburger Lumber Company offices they received a real helping hand—first, through finding in Shamburger's building plans just the home they wanted, and second—in the selection of materials and in the proper way to economize on materials without sacrificing quality.

With the lot purchased from T. W. Sawyer, Real Estate, the financing taken care of through Green & Hurlbut, and plans and materials decided upon at the Shamburger Lumber Company, they were then ready to go ahead with actual construction of their home.

Upon recommendations from friends and after verifying investigations they quickly decided they wanted Squyers & Johnson, Contractors and Builders, to build their home. Both Mary and John were delighted when Mr. Johnson promised to start construction immediately. Many were their trips to the new home during the days of building and that final day—when Mr. Johnson assured them the job would be completed on time and they could have possession the first of the month—their joy knew no bounds.

They were further pleasingly thrilled, when upon going into the house, to find that the Mueller furnace which had been installed by Roche Newton was in place and the complete heating system throughout fully came up to all that Mr. Newton had promised. John rubbed his hands in glee in anticipation of how they would laugh to scorn the wintry winds, with this Mueller furnace on the job.

It was with satisfaction that Mary noted that all of the eletcric wiring was in, the heavy insulation of the wires quieting her fears that fire would would ever be caused, through faulty wiring or workmanship. She decided right then she would thank Mr. Fletcher, electrician at Simpson Electric Shop, for his good work when she next saw him.

Forthwith they went to Lubbock Variety Store, where already they had been furnished a very reasonable price on paint and paper. The guarantee of quality in paper and paint given them by Mr. Hilton convinced them they wanted his firm to furnish same. So they selected paper for each room and decided upon colors for the house—a body of cream with a green trim.

They then went to Simpson Electric Shop, where Mary and John found just the fixtures they wanted—a beautiful indirect-light dome for the dining room—a graceful and artistic chandelier for the living room and single arm fixtures and lights for each room. Mr. Simpson had all of them in stock and assured John and Mary they would be installed an hour after the decorators had finished their work.

On the next Saturday afternoon, John came home early and with Mary, Jr., and Helen they went out to Texas Nursery. It was a treat for all and through helpful suggestions from Mr. Kennedy they picked out trees and shrubs for the front—also fruit trees and berry slips for the back yard. Mr. Kennedy gave John careful instructions in regard to planting of the fruit trees and agreed to help him in placing at the front with the greens and shrubbery to get the most inviting gardening effects.

"John," said Mary that evening, "I simply can't bear the thought of moving into that wonderful new home without that beautiful living room set we saw at Baker Furniture Company. If we can afford it, I don't know anything I would rather have."

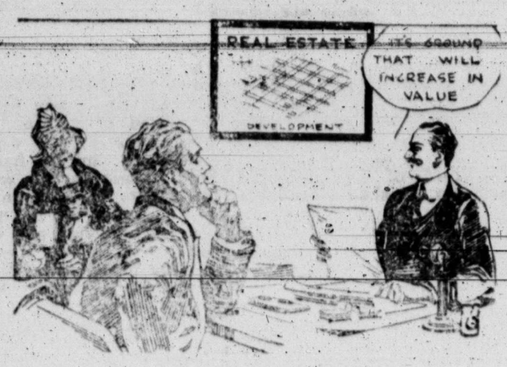

"Bless your heart," said John, "looking up from the pad upon which he had been figuring, "we are better off than I thought—and you can have it—and maybe that rug—which Mr. Baker knows you like so well."

"And, Mary," continued John, "I guess we'd better take that insurance on the house from Hemphill & Young. Mr. Hemphill certainly has a wonderful poicy there and we will be protected at every turn from fire, water, cyclone, tornado—well, if there's anything we are not protected against, I don't know—and so reasonable, too. Yeh—I like to do business with a representative company like Hemphill & Young.

"And, Mary—we're all set, at last. Do you like it?"

"Well—all I can say—it's a dream come true. I'm so glad we made the effort."

NOTE—And they lived happily ever afterward.

ILLUMINATED PARADE WILL BE ONE OF THE MOST ATTRACTIVE FEATURES OF WEST TEXAS C. OF C CONVENTION

BROWNWOOD, Texas, April 19 The illuminated parade in which the representative duchesses and maids of honor of West Texas cities will take a prominent part the second evening of the convention, will be one of the most attractive features of the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which will convene here May 13, 14 and 15, it was broadcasted this week by the decorating committee.

The evening parade is thought to be one of the most eleborate events to have ever been staged in th Southwest and according to present plans will be one of the most beautifully carried out parts of the program of the convention.

The duchess and maid of honor, with their attendants, wil ride in the parade in decorated floats, each carrying its own lights and green and red fire which is expected to lend an unsurpassed color effect in West Texas.

The parade will pass through the downtown district where the expected 20,000 visitors can witness the review of the West Texas royalty. The terminattion of the parade is at, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Memorial Hall, which seats 4,000, and where the coronation of the queen and the beautiful pageant will be staged.

A half dozen loving cups will be given to winners in the different contests in the parade, with the cities classfied and judged according to their size.

Decorating is fast gaining headway with the decorating committee overseeing every bit of the work turned out, paying special attention to see that no two floats will be decorated similarly. Some of the State's best decorators have started work here in an immense hiuld. ing covering two acres. All cities wanting decorated floats will be supplied with same without their having to bring them from their city, the decorating committee has announced.

Despite the fact that every possible means is being used to make a very elaborate float for Miss Brownwood, this decorated car will not be entered in the contests, as Brownwood is entertaining in the true sense of the word.

BIG COLLEGE IS PROPOSED FOR AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Texas, April 19—A Methodist college in Amarillo, to cost more than a half million dollars will come up for formal ratification on May 2 when the board of education of the North Texas conference convenes in Amarillo.

For more than a year the college movement has been under way. It has made such a splendid progress, pointing to a successful conclusion that workers for the project feel confident that when the board meets on May 2 there will be a unanimous ratification.

Elders to Be Present.

When the board convenes the eight presiding elders in the conference will be present to hear the financial plans that have been carefully worked aut by citizesns of Amarillo and influential heads in the conference body.

The proposed college will be large enough in the first unit of construction to accommodate 1,000 students, with not less than forty classrooms.

The tentative plans provide for halls with all modern advantages two dormitories and co-operative that go with a college of such proportions.

Dr. G. W. Shearer presiding elder of the Amarillo district, said this morning before leaving for the conference at Miami, said that the five Methodist churches in Amarillo had endorsed the plan, but added that not until the meeting of the board of educattion on May 2 could a definite announcement be made.

The Amarillo college would in no way affect the success and prosperity of the Methodist school at Clarendon which at the present time has an enrollment of 300 students and paid its way last year with a surplus in the treasury.

Rather than injure this school the proposed new college would work to its benefit and continued growth, Dr. Shearer said.

MUSIC FESTIVAL AT AMARILLO PROMISES GREAT TREAT

AMARILLO, Texas, April 19—The 1924 Panhandle Music Festival, to be held here next week, April 21 to 25, will be the greatest assembly of music lovers in the history of the Panhandle, judging by the early reservations for seats and the number of entries in the various musical contests. More than 150 musicians will represent a score of Plains cities in the contests and there is scarcely a town within 200 miles of Amarillo from which orders for seats have not been received. There are many from a greater distance.

The chief attraction is Galli-Curci admittedly the greatest singer of the age, who will be here Wednesday night, April 23. The entire five-day program, however, is sprinkled with artists of world-wide reputation. These artists join with the contestants n furnishing melody, morning, afternoon and evening, during the entire period.

The week's program, consisting of five evening recitals and three matinees, in addition to the contest periods, includes: Monday, April 21, Girvin's Little Symphony Orchestra of Chicago, afternoon and evening; Tuesday evening, Moore and Yortschalk, of New York, in a sonata recital; Wednesday afternoon, Canyon Normal Band; night, Galli-Curci; Thursday night, recital by contest winners; Friday, Tito Schipa lyric soprano.

By assembling these artists during the same week, Emil F. Myers, director of the festival, is enabled to offer the world's best music to Panhandle people at exceptionally low prices. Season tickets for the festival which are transferable and admit holders to all programs, range from $8.80 for box, loge and parquet; $6.50 for rear downstairs and $4.40 for balcony. These prices are but little more than it is necessary to charge for Galli-Curci alone.

BOYS IN MANUAL TRAINING DEPT. HOUSE BLDRS.

CANYON Texas, April 19—Can boys in their teens and barely beyond them be made to take responsibility that goes with the building of a modern house? Prof. Robert Donald, a teacher of manual training, believes that they can do this and is proving his belief by having a real house built by real boys.

Eleven young fellows are working on the job, which is being done as a project in their school work. They receive no pay for the work except the knowledge they gain and the credit which will appear on the records of the college if they do their work well. The purpose of working out this problem is to teach them how a house in which real people are to live comfortably should be constructed and to fit them to do repair work on their own houses, school houses, or barns.

The house, which is 28x30 feet, was planned by the class in architecture. It contains five rooms and a bath; the kitchen is equipped with built in cabinets for utensils and china, a built in ironing board, and a breakfast nook, having a table which folds into the wall. The stove has a canopy over it. The bath room contains cabinets for medicines and linens.

Beneath the house there is a basement 8x14 feet, and it boasts a front porch 8x18 feet.

When the house is finished it will be worth approximately $3,300, according to the figures which were made by the class in architecture.

It will be sold with the walls undecorated, in order that the buyer may impress his personality on the house, thus making it a real home for himself and family.

The house, which is now well along on its way to completion was planned partly because the manual training department of the West Texas State Teachers' college is so crowded that it is a difficult matter for Mr. Donald to give all his students an opportunity to do as much work as they should. However, the instructor now believes the project is so valuable to his students that he is already planning similar ones to be undertaken in the ftuure. The successful completion of this work already promises to be a distinct pleasure to the young men who are doing it; their own self-respect is increasing as they work and their respect for the artisan who does his work well, is being heightened. They realize, dimly, perhaps, that they are accomplishing a task which many have said could not be successfully consumated by so-called irresponsible students.

THE BIRTH OF A GREAT CITY IN THE NORTHWEST

By United Press

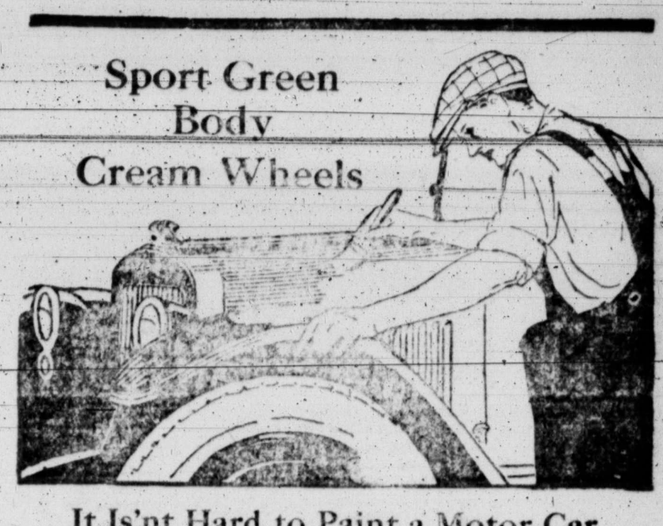

SEATTLE, Wash., April 19—The beginning of Seattle is fast fading from memory into history.

Death in Seattle recently of Mrs. Louisa Frye, 79, the first white girl to arrive on the spot which is now this great city, leaves only two of the original founders of Seattle alive. They are her brother, R. H. Denny of Seattle, and Mrs. Virginia Hall, a resident of California.

Mrs. Frye's death, caused by pneumonia, recalls the perilous trip of the little steamer Exact, from Portland, Ore., bearing the original Seattle settlers, who landed at Alki Point, November 3, 1851.

Mrs. Frye's life story is woven into the epic of the Oregon territory. She was born October 20, 1844, and came across the plains with her parents to the "land of promise" in a prairie schooner as a child. Portland, then but a group of log cabins in the woods near the river, was the destination of Arthur A. Denny, the father. He hewed his home out of logs, but answering the call of opportunity on Puget Sound, when Mrs. Frye was still less than seven years of age, he joined with other in venturing out in the steamer Exact through the Straits of Juan de Fucca. Here pioneer romance overtook her and at the age of 16, Seattle's first white girl was married to George F. Frye in 1860, as a belle of the "first families." The names of Denny and Frye have been woven into the history of the northwest.

The Truth

About this Light-Six—plus proof on proof

THIS Studebaker Light-Six is the supreme value in the "thousand-dollar" class.

It offers, not a few, but scores of advantages. In its chassis it represents the best that modern engineering knows. In its steels and quality of construction it is identical with the costliest cars we build.

This is to offer you proofs. Then urge that you see it before paying $1,000 or more for a car.

Some evidence

The extra values which this car typifies have made Studebaker the largest builder of quality cars.

They have made these cars a sensation. Sales have almost trebled in three years. Last year 145,167 people paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

The multiplying demand has forced an investment of $50,000,000 in model plants and equipment. Of this, $38,000,000 has been spent in the past five years, so the plants are up-to-date.

The engineering department which designs and superintends this Light-Six costs $500,000 per year.

The machines which build it are modern and exact. 517 operations on this car are exact to 1/1000th of an inch. 122 operations are exact to one-half 1/1000th of an inch.

1,200 inspectors are employed to submit each car in the making to 32,000 inspections.

Infinite care

The steels are selected from 35 formulas, each one proved best by years of test for its purpose. On some we pay the makers 15% premium to get them exactly right.

The crankshafts are machined on all surfaces, as was done in the Liberty Airplane Motors. This to give perfect motor balance, at an extra cost to us of $600,000 yearly.

It has more Timken bearings than any other competitive car within $1,500 of its price.

The equipment is unusual. The cushions are of genuine leather, and are ten inches deep.

Every part and detail accords with Studebaker traditions. And the name Studebaker has for 72 years stood for quality and class.

Mark this result

Some men who operate fleets of cars in this class called in auditors to compare the operating costs. They made comparisons on 329 cars, running up to 25,000 miles.

It was found that this Studebaker Light-Six cost for operation 11.4% less than the average of its rivals. This figure included depreciation. That meant $207.50 saved on 25,000 miles. All because of this quality construction.

What it saves you

We build 150,000 cars yearly. All such major costs as engineering, dies, overhead, etc., are divided by 150,000.

We build in model plants, with modern machinery, which have immensely reduced the manufacturing costs.

A car like this, built under ordinary conditions, would cost you from $200 to $400 more.

Learn, for your own sake, what that means to you.

Mail us the coupon below. We will send you free our new book that will inform you on five simple things which reveal the value of a car. For instance: It will enable you to look at any car and tell whether it's been cheapened to meet a price or offers true quality.

It will tell you why some cars rattle at 20,000 miles and others don't. It shows one single point in a closed car which measures whether you're getting top or medium quality. The book is free—clip the coupon below.

CALIF. ENDORSES EXCLUSION OF JAPANESE

By United News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. April 19.—Newspapers of San Francisco, representative of all interests of California, are of one accord in endorsing the adoption of the Japanese exclusion amendment to the Johnson immigration bill. The Daily News a Scripps-Howard paper expresses the belief that "our people as a whole recognized the danger of leaving the bars down to any oriental immigration, even in the slightest degree."

"Also this newspaper believes that the United States is well within its rights both equitable, and legal, in deciding all immigration questions solely on the basis of the needs of the American situation and the desires of the making of such a decision by our government is simply looking for trouble," the News concludes.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., in a signed editorial in his newspaper, the San Francisco Herald and the Los Angeles News, compliments congress on "one of the most courgeous things it had been its good fortune to accomplish." He declares that " a crisis is at hand with the Japanese empire." In just what shape it will produce itself, is not known.

Ambassador Hanihara is credited with forcing the issue in congress by the San Francisco Bulletin which says:

"A fight that the western states have been waging for years against the indifference and even the ignorance of the east, was won over night and mainly on the side issue of a tactless interference by the Japanese ambassador."

The Bulletin sees Japan too self conscious in the matter, declaring that "it is the supersenstiveness of Japan and not any discrimination on the part of the congress that is responsible for the wrong impression that the immigration exclusion amendment refers especially to the Japanese. This paper asserts that there is "no mention of the Japanese in the text of the amendment.

In declaring that "this is California's most significant victory since statehood was attained—if President Coolidge signs the bill," the San Francisco Examiner, a Hearst publication, feels that Californians cannot but feel intense and triumphant satisfaction in the recognition at last by a practically unanimous congress, of the common sense and the urgency of protecting our country against the Japanese."

LEGION HELPING FORMER HUN SOLDIER

By United News.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 19.—Of the billion dollars worth of shrapnel fired at the Boche by insipient American Legionnaries in the Chateau Thierry neighborhood, about $8.75 worth, of fourteen fragments in all, lodged in the plump leg of Herman Schmidt, Kaiserlicher Goose-stepper in the 13th reichswher.

Now a group of full-fledged American Legionnaries in Chicago are filling an American trench helmet with Amerjcan greenbacks to pay an American surgeon for removing the American shrapnel from the Teutonic leg of Herman.

"For the war has been over for a long time," explained Colonel Horatio Hacket.

Herman was excused from the battle for the sailent, by virtue of his fourteen fragments. He went to Bavaria where German surgeons feverishly extracted eleven, leaving three. Herr Hohenzollern forgot Herman, who was no longer any good as a soldier. Later his brother Ferdinand, who runs a grocery store here, brought him to Chicago, and and ex-Hun soldier delivered canned corn and celery to impatient American housewives.

Herman applied for citizenship papers, but was afraid to tell the German consul or the free dispensary surgeons that his three American fragments were infecting his leg and making it impossible for him to deliver his groceries. He was afraid they would deport him back to Germany. He preferred to live among former enemies.

One morning, one of Ferdinand's customers, a legionnaire who had fought that day on the south bank of the Marne, complained that his groceries were undelivered.

Impulsively Ferdinand who had been sworn to secrecy by his brother, told him why.

"My delivery boy, who is my brother, a wounded German soldier, is sick. His wound is bothering him, and he will die, probably, because I cannot afford the operation he needs."

Thursday this ex-soldier and several other Americans who had been south of the Marne that July day, superintendented the transfer of Herman to a hospital, where a few American veterans will spend a part of their bonus money saving Herman's life and possibly his leg.

Biggest Real Estate Owner in Washington Says the Main Thing is to "Start Something"

By United Press

WASHINGTON, D. C. April 19—An ultra-conservative is a greater menace to business and politics than the worst radical, because the radical at leasts "starts something."

Thus reasons Harry Wardman, Washington's master builder and contractor and the largest real estate holder, excluding the federal government, in the District of Columbia. It is this reasoning that guides him as he is today working out plans for 1,400 hosses all soon to be under construction here.

"My idea is to get something started, even if it goes wrong," he said, as he patted the head of his German police dog lying beside his desk in his own office building, immediately across the street from the Department of Justice. "If I didn't start something I would never accomplish anything—and that's far worse than making mistakes.

"Take these 1,400 houses," he went on (It seemed he dropped "h" on the "houses," but his Yorkshire training in speech is responsible for that.) "When they are completed I will have built more than 5,400. All will be sold to small-home investors and none will go for more than $7,000. They'll be absolutely modern, though. Just a small monthly payment, like rent, after an even smaller first payment, in comparison."

Wardman recently testified before the District of Columbia Rent Commission that he would build these houses to relieve the housing situation here. A congressman at the hearing offered to "bet a thousand dollars" he wouldn't do it.

Congressman Didn't Bet

"Mr. Congressman, I'll bet you a thousand dollars to one these houses will be started in less than a week," he came back. The congressman held his peace, and in less than a week ground was broken for the first of them.

According to his plan, as he explained it today Wardman will finance his buyers through old-line insurance companies. He will handle the monthly payments in his own office, but the first payments will be so arranged that they can be retired in small amounts every three months. In this way, he explained, there will be no necessity for renewals.

"All I ask of a man who wants to buy a house from me is that he be morally a good business risk," Wardman declared. "I have already built more than 4,00 houses and 300 apartment houses and I have never yet foreclosed a mortgage."

And Wardman has conclusively proven his theory of lenieney to be the basis of success.

Thirty-five years ago he came to New York City from his home in Bradford, Yorkshire, and entered the drapery business. Later he accepted a position with a larger firm in Philadelphia.

Then he met a contractor from Washington. A fast friendship was formed, and in 1899 Wardman moved to the capital. Eleven months later he had decided he was a poor carpenter, but knew enough of the practical end to start contracting for himself. Snce then his progress has been steady, even in conservative old Washington.

Biggest Hotel in World

His first publicity came during the war. Army and navy officers were in Washington with their families, but with no place to live. Wardman went four miles from the business district and built the largest hotel and apartment house in the world. Business men called him crazy, but he has had the satisfaction of seeing the Wardman Park Inn prosper even beyond his own expectations.

As a side issue to the houses, Wardman is now building several apartment houses, a hotel in the heart of the shopping district, the first of several buildings for the George Washington University and a Nurses' Home for Emergency Hospitals. The last two buildings will be completed at cost as Wardman's contribution to civic enterprises.

LYNN COUNTY WILL BE REPRESENTED AT CONVENTION

BROWNWOOD, Texas, April 19 Lynn county will be represented at the annual meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which will be held here May 13, 14 and 15, it was revealed here today when F. E. Redwine, vice-president of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, arrived to make necessary arrangements for his delegation, which he thinks will soar in numpast the 500 mark before the last auto delegation from that county reaches this city for the annual event.

Mr. Redwin announced that Tahoka will come here on a spedial train which will carry in the neighborhood of 250, while other delegations in autos will equal that number will be here from other points in Lynn county. With the Tahoka delegation wil be a string band. J. H. "Dad" Dunning, celebrated old fiddler, will also be aboard the special and his playing will be among the novel features which will be offered during the convention.

Necessary arrangements were made while here for a delegation headquarters, which will be at the Winchester Store, which was recently opened here. The city has chosen a duchess and maid of honor and will have a beautifully decorated automobile, the Tahoka executive announced.

Other arrangements were made by Mr. Redwine while here he announced; along the way of special stunts to be pulled by the delegation from that city and from that county.

PIONEERS OF THE "HOME CONVENIENT" IN LUBBOCK

THE PASSING DAY

By WILL H. MAYES, Department of Journalism, University of Texas

Thre hundred and seventy-five farmers of Gillespie county have budded 25,000 pecan buds on native trees, using the best known Texas varieties for that purpose. Over 75,000 buds will be placed before the season is over. Last year in the same county 25,000 buds were placed and the growers are so pleased that they are inrreasing the number greatly this year. There are many thousand native pecan and hickory trees all over Texas, that are now producing hard, small and inferior nuts, that could be worked over into profitable nut trees with small expense and in three or four years time. By neglecting this, Texas is letting a vast resource go to waste every year. Any fourteen year old boy can be taught in fifteen minutes to do the work, and buds for top work and buds for top working can be had at small cost.

Mexia has subscribed $500,000 to build a cotton mill, and work on the plant is to be started soon. Marble Falls will soon have a $750,000 mill under way. El Paso is erecting a large mill. San Antonio, Austin and San Marcos are considering plans for cotton mills. Nearly twenty other Texas towns are seriously considering such an undertaking. When Texas once goes to coverting its raw material into manufactured goods an era of prosperity will begin that will quickly make it the most prosperous state in the union. For the first time in its history, Texas now has sufficient captal to build the necessary factories. Watch Texas grow, and see that your section keeps up with the procession.

Have you noticed the kind of school houses now being built all over Texas? In cities, towns and country districts — everywhere — substantial stone and brick buildings are taking the place of the crude box shacks of a few years ago. In the towns and cities bond issues are being voted to get better school facilities for the children. Weak country school districts are consolidating and building community school buildings as good as those in the towns. The construction of good roads is making it possible for children to go several miles to school with much more ease and comfort than they could once go a half mile. Many school districts are gathering the children and taking them to school in motor busses. School terms in these large districts are being lengthened and the country child is having opportunities that have long been afforded only town children. Texas is having a great educational awakening.

Five men students at Baylor University have signed for a course in household management, a course designed to give women training i the conduct of the home to the budget system, methods of preparing formal and informal dinners, banquets, parties and social functions. The first inclination is to smile at such an annoucement, but after all it is not bad for men to have some ideas as to home management, for in spite of the efficiency of the wives, there are times when the men have to attend to household duties about which they know little or nothing. And housewives are not always as efficient as they might be. However, there are so many other things for the men to learn that they are not likely to crowd into this course in great numbers.

The Texas State Exposition directors at Austin have voted not to allow any gambling devices on the grounds at the next exposition, such as the well-known wheel contests and dozens of other like schemes for fleecing the public. In other words they propose to obey the law and to have the carnival company that plays the exposition do the same thing. It is hard to understand just why traveling carnivals have so long been allowed to violate state laws. The only reason is that they are held under the auspices of some local enterprise or club that is presumed to profit thereby. Is gambling for the benefit of an aggregation of people any more justifiable than gambling for private advantage? Should officers ignore law simply because a group of citizens, rather than an individual, edsires the law volated? The petty gambling at carnivals is just a step toward larger gambling. Probably the worst feature is that it inculcates disregard for all law.

Perhaps I am on this subject, I may be permitted to say a few words about bridge parties. The woman who attends bridge parties and gambles in small sums or for an inconsequential prize, has only herself to blame if her son or some other woman's son, grows up a gambler. The only difference between society gambling in the most richly appointed homes of the land and the negro crap game in the creek bottoms is in the setting. The principle involved is identical in both cases.

WORK OF THE CHURCH IN RURAL COMMUNITIES

CHICAGO (United Press)—The church in rural communities will be discussed at the second annual rural life conference at Morgan Memorial, Boston, Mass., April 29-30.

The conference is under the auspices of the national council of rural missionary activites, department of rural work, of the Methodst Episcopal Church, of which Dr. Paul L. Vogt is superintendent. Dr. John T. Jones, Rock Island, Ill., is chariman of the program committee. The conferenec is also associated with the board of home missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Ministers from all over the United States who are engaged in rural and community work will be present.

DALLAS CLUB TO HAVE HOME ON HIGH ROOF

By United Press

DALLAS, Texas, April 19.—Perched on the top of a ten-story building, the new home of the University Club of Dallas, when completed, will be unique in Texas, if not in the entire country.

Far above the streets of Dallas, the club members will entertain their guests on a lawn of real grass and even indulge in a game of tennis on a sure enough dirt court.

Plans for the club house call for an expenditure of approximately $100,000 to erect a two-story building on the roof of one of the three ten-story warehouses that are a part of the $5,000,000 Santa Fe terminal project. The roof is to be sodded, flowers planted, tennis courts laid out and perhaps putting greens built around this aerial club house.

To get to the club one must take an elevator to the tenth story of the nineteen story main office building of the terminal, now under construction. A covered steel bridge, spanning Jackson street will lead to the roof of the first warehouse and another bridge, spanning another street, will take the visitor to the clubhouse on the roof of the second warehouse. The third warehouse will be erected behind this one and will also be connected by a high bridge.

The club house will be equipped with sleeping quarters for members dining rooms, recreation rooms, a gyminasium and other features. Flowers and grass will be just as abundant around the grounds as if the club were built on the out skirts of the city.

And a protecting wall will be constructed around the edge of the warehouse roof to keep the absent-minded members from walking across the grass and dropping 150 feet to the street below.

Growth of Hostility Toward the Railroads in Texas

ARTICLE IX

Texas, being about as much western as southern, filling up with immigrants from states in which opposition to railroads was strong, suffering from the same low prices and industrial depression that affected the rest of the country, was of course affected by the agitation against railroads in other states.

In addition to the sources of discontent which were widespread there were sufficient cases of annoyance and local causes for dissatisfaction in Texas.

At first the people of Texas willingly gave assistance to the railroads. They were generous in making land grants and quite enthusiastically they made magnificent offers, but within a few years this willingness to grant public aid changed to indifference and then to opposition. By 1883 statutes were passed forbidding any kind of state aid to railroads. Why this complete change in the attitude of the people? In the first place, the discussion of the Pacific railway system throughout the United States and the general disgust with the results of federal enterprises greatly affected the people of Texas. They found themselves questioning the wisdom of their own policy amidst the universal condemnation of the federal policy. From 1869 to 1873 the state government was in the hands of a group who hold power only because the majority of the citizens were disfranchised by the arbritrary and unwise action of a misguided national congress. The people naturally looked with suspicion upon anything done by the state administration. When one of those legislatures which had made for itself the reputation of being corrupt and venile began to vote bonds to railroads the people took fright and became determined in their protests. They doubted that the bonds would be used to build new railroad mileage. They expected an enormous debt to be fastened upon them and the money to be squandered. It was easy to believe that the railroads were taking advantage of an unfortunate situation to fleece the public. The laws came to share the unpopularity of the Carpet Bag legislature.

Then came the controversy over the grants to the I-G-N. and to the T. & P. Many believe that these roads had secured grants of bonds from the legislature through corrupt methods. When a succeeding legislature sought to adjust the claims of these roads and give them lands instead of bonds, there were many who thought that the roads deserved nothing and should receive no kind of favor. It was argued that these roads had been holding out promises to build lines for years and that in spite of numerous extensions of time limits they had merely imposed upon the patience of the public. Bitter debates continued for days in the legislature when finally the matter was settled by giving the roads twenty sections per mile instead of sixteen sections. Throughout the state there was open disapproval of this compromise.

LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM STATE TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

The following program has been given out by the Executive Board of the Texas State Teachers' Association:

We pledge a full and unbiased consideration of the facts and recommendations which may be made by the Commission to make a survey of the educational system of the state.

We favor the removal, as far as possible, of all phases of educational activities from the field of politics.

We favor the development of an administrative and financial system that shall help to equalize educational opportunities from the primary grades through college.

We favor a county unit form of school organization; the appointment of the county superintendent of public instruction by the county board of education; the payment by the State of high school tuition for pupils living in districts where high school advantages are not available; the electon of school trustees for a longer period than two years; the establishment of a workable and intelligent plan by which school districts can be consolidated.

We favor an equitable distribution of taxes, exempting as far as possible, all homesteads from further increase of taxation.

We favor a severance tax, an income tax, the levy of taxes on amusements, intangible assets, luxuries, and an increase in the production taxes on oil, sulphur, etc., where a just proportion of taxes is not already borne.

We favor more money for education and more education for the money by raising as rapidly as possible the standard of qualifications of teachers.

We favor ore satisfactory and efficient distribution of the State school funds.

We favor a more effective compulsory attendance law.

We feel that Texas must recognize education as the most vital function of the State government, and not a local issue to be controlled or prescribed by district sentiment or preference.

We believe the constitutional requirement that the state shall furnish an efficient system of public free schools for a period of six months should be complied with.

G. O. CLOUGH, Pres.,
Texas State Teachers' Ass'n.

ARGENTINE TO HOLD GOOD ROADS EXPOSITION

BEUNOS AIRES (By Mail to United Press)—Manufacturers of the United States are invited especially to take part in the First National Good Roads Exposition that is to be opened here on May 25, under the auspices of the Argentine Touring Club.

The invitaion has been sent because of the realization that American paving materials, road-making machinery, motor cars and trucks are better adapted to Argentine conditons than those of other countries.

The organization that is in charge of the arrangements for the exposition hope to have ample exhibits of all American products connected with road building and motor transportation.

The Argentine Touring Club was founded 17 years ago for the purpose of conducting a campaign for the construction of good roads in the country because of the belief Argentina could not progress as it should until a net work of good roads made it possible for better transportation of farm products and an increase in the proportion of land available for crop farming.

CAPITAL HAS ANNUAL ATTACK OF RACE MADNESS

By United Press

WASHINGTON, April 19.—The capital is now in the grip of its yearly "Spring madness"—the racing fever.

From the time when Bowie opens in the Spring until the last thudding hoof passes the finish line on Thanksgiving day, Washington is a city full of race fans, who bet their their $2 every day and pray nightly for a "long shot."

The government departments, with their thousands of clerks, are feverish with sporting instincts, and bookmakers play their trade everywhere. There is no city in the country where the ponies are followed by a larger proportion of the populace than here.

The betting fever is not confined to any one class. Old women who have worked years on meager government pay can be found scanning the entries and form sheets and placing their bets every day. The majority of the bettors here seldom see a race.

The four principal Maryland tracks—Bowie, Pimlico, Havre de Grace and Laurel—draw their thousands of "customers" daily from Washington during the Spring and Fall meetings. This is in spite of inadequate transportation facilities to some of them, which means taking a whole day off in order to see a few minutes of actual running of the bangtails.
