Jobless Rate Hits 6% ...

Economy Racked By Recession, Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The twin effect of recession and high inflation racked the economy in August as the unemployment rate rose to 6 percent - the highest in more than a year-and wholesale prices advanced by 1.2 percent, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said the rise in unemployment from a 5.7 percent rate in July marked the first time that the jobless rate had been at the 6 percent level since July 1978.

The Carter Administration had expected unemployment to rise in August as a result of the recession that began in the spring. Labor Department economist John Bregger said the latest jobless reports provides "very strong evidence of a downturn."

But inflation also continued to rage in August as prices at the wholesale level showed the biggest monthly advance since January, the department said in a separate report.

The rise in wholesale prices was paced by another steep climb in the cost of energy products and the first increase in food prices since March.

The government said wholesale prices at the stage just before goods reach consumers rose 11.1 percent during the previous 12 months. Inflation at the consumer level has been running slightly higher - at a 13 percent rate this year.

Wholesale prices are an important measure of future inflation because they signal price trends likely to occur at the retail level a few months later.

The simultaneous release of the two gloomy economy reports underscored President Carter's dilemma in trying to combat high inflation through tight fiscal poli-

Tropical Storm David today rumbled into Canada, leaving behind a swath of death and destruction across the Caribbean and along the Atlantic Coast from Florida to Maine. The storm continued to lose strength as it headed for Newfoundland.

Aerial Spraying Tried On Oil

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP)-Mexican authorities are trying to break up a patch of oil 135 miles south of Brownsville with aerial chemical sprays, American officials said Thursday.

The U.S. Coast Guard did not estimate the size of the latest portion of the world's largest oil spill to float towards the Texas coast. Reconnaissance flights spotted the patch Wednesday.

Resolution Withdrawn

AUSTIN (AP)-Opposition from two Democratic senators has forced the governor's energy advisor to withdraw a resolution that would have given him power to reinstate gasoline rationing in emergencies.

Sens. Peyton McKnight and Bill Meier of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council said they would like to review any plan before it is adopted.

The dispute occurred Thursday during the council's first meeting.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Lynn Brisendine of the Brownfield News passes along this story on the trials and tribulations of parents at the start of school.

Summer is over and school starts. That first day of school is always a trying experience for the whole family.

Mom is always the most upset, but manages not to show her tears to the youngsters. Usually, she does great, but as she walks away from the classroom after leaving the youngster in the care of a stranger, she can't help but get a lump in the throat and finally sheds a few tears.

Her baby is growing up.

Of course the older children profess to hate school want no part of it, but actually can hardly wait for school to open. There's new friends to be made, old friendships to be strengthened and, yes, a few fences to be mended.

Old Dad has the easiest job on the first day. His job is to act brave, reassure the youngsters and administer king-sized doses of confidence. He wouldn't let on for a second that he remembers a little boy not-so-long-ago who cried on the first day of school and then managed to top that by missing the bus home.

Mom's agony ends when she picks up the kids, but Dad's continues a couple of hours longer until the day's work is done.

As he drives up to the house, the children bolt from the door to the car to give him the latest news, all at once, of course.

"I'm in the same room with Brent, my best friend," exclaims the youngest. "And my teacher is nice and I really like her and I've gotta go call Brent now and we're going to figure out how we can get the teacher to let us sit by each other."

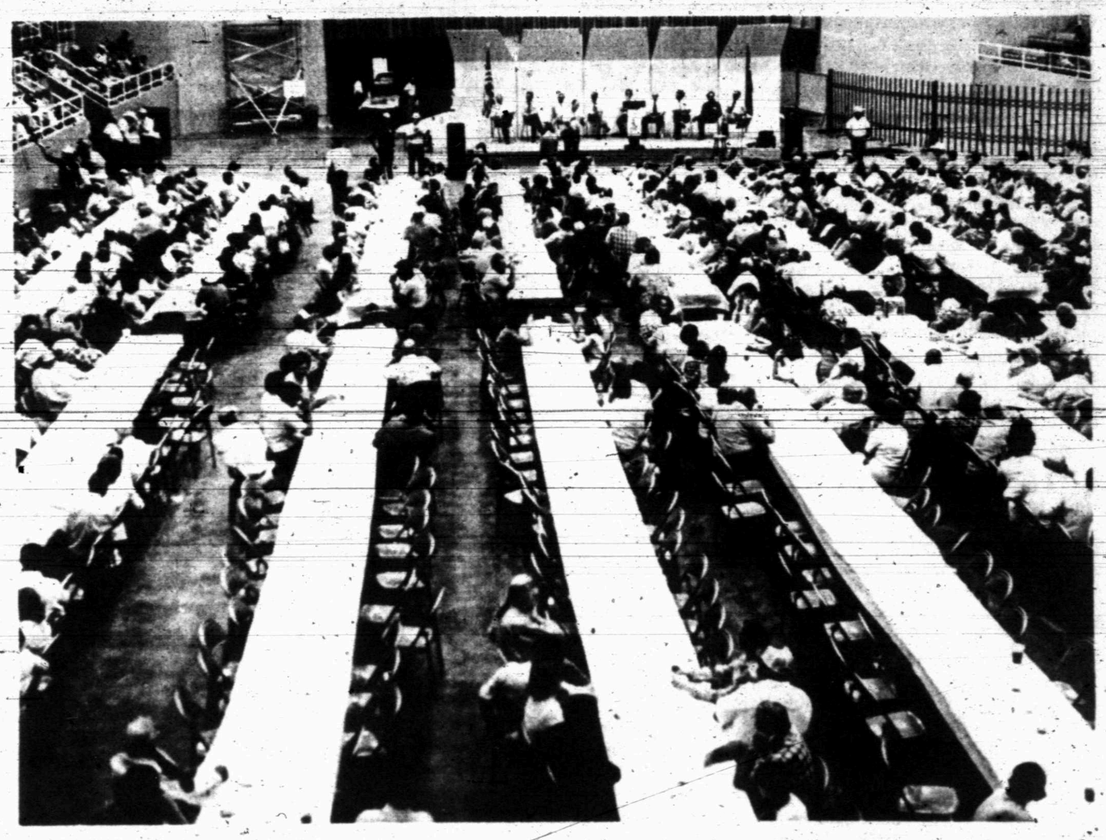

The older child speaks and words begin to pour out in a torrent of jumbled phrases.

"Daddy, I didn't get in the same room with Traci, but there is this new girl named Susy that I met. And Daddy, I got Mrs. McStrict for my home-room teacher, but she's really nice. I just didn't know her very well last year. One last thing, Daddy. After supper, can I ask Susy and Traci to come over and play school?"

The father smiles and wipes something out of an eye. Another school year has begun.

CO-OP meeting—Approximately 2,000 people attended the annual membership banquet sponsored last night by Midwest Electric Cooperative. The event was held in the Scurry County Coliseum and drew people from several counties. (See Photo of new directors page 9) (SDN Staff Photo)

2,000 Attend Co-Op Session

Incumbents James Beaver of Fluvanna and Melvin Clements of Rotan were re-elected last night to the board of directors of Midwest Electric Cooperative.

The co-op's annual business meeting and banquet were held at the Scurry County Coliseum and drew approximately 2,000 people from several counties.

Beaver had initially faced opposition for his seat on the board by Glenn Toombs, but Toombs wrote a letter to co-op officials asking to be excused because of health reasons. Clements had faced opposition from Harold Roberts.

In presenting the financial report, officials noted the cooperative's total liabilities and net worth stood at $7,391,873 as of Dec. 31, 1978.

Revenue from the sale of services amounted to $3,424,423, and $2,289,820 of that was from commercial and industrial sources. Some $1,007,585, or 29 percent of the sale of its services, went to farms and homes, the ledger shows.

In a series of short speeches company officials noted that costs are rising in the operation of the co-op that must be passed on the consumer. A rate hike request is presently before the state utility commission and, if approved, Midwest customers will see higher electric bills probably in January.

"You have been beaten with an economic stick these past few years," said administrative assistant Gayle Morgeson of Fisher County. "We know these things are upsetting."

Morgeson went on to say that the co-op was formed with the consumer in mind and with the idea of providing the best possible service with the least cost.

Building Permits In August Surge

Snyder's 1979 building figures took a substantial jump in August with permits issued for construction costing $319,948.

This compared with a July figure of $193,500, and ran the total for the calendar year to $2,382,786. This is considerably below the figure at the same time in 1978, mostly because the permit for a $3.9 million addition to Cogdell Memorial Hospital was issued in August of 1978.

The total for the city's fiscal year to date, with one month to go, is $3,525,636. At this time last year the fiscal year total stood at $8,724,872.

The August permits accounted for five living units, with one single-family dwelling and four mobile homes. Also included was the permit for the new Texas Electric Service Co. building at a cost of $150,000.

So far, there have been 203 permits issued by the city for the fiscal year which will end Sept. 30. At this time last year 224 permits had been issued.

Voting Procedure For Tax Board Is Approved

Scurry County's taxing entities will follow the prescribed voting procedure for selecting the appraisal board for a county-wide district required by new legislation.

That was the decision reached this morning at a meeting of a steering committee. The procedure calls for each entity to nominate a maximum of five candidates. The nominees will be submitted to the county clerk, who, in turn will prepare the ballot for the election. The five persons ultimately elected will serve as the appraisal board for two years.

The taxing entities involved are the City of Snyder, the school districts of Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira, and possibly the county. Although it is not mandatory that counties join at this time, three members of the commissioners court who sat in on the session this morning said they will decide Monday whether to come into the appraisal district.

They indicated that the commissioners court is pretty well in agreement that it will join. They must decide by Sept. 15.

Representives of all of the taxing entities indicated that they were interested in pursuing a proposal for a unified collecting system. County officials had indicated that the county tax collector could contract to collect the taxes for all agencies, and this proposal was reiterated this morning. A definite decision will be made later.

In an earlier meeting, the steering committee had agreed to submit names of possible nominees for the appraisal board at this morning's session. However, Mayor John Fagin this morning called attention to provisions in the statute creating the unified appraisal district that set up the voting procedure for naming the board. He suggested that the local agencies proceed by following provisions of the statue to the letter, although in some briefing sessions conducted by state officials it had been suggested that agencies might agree on nominees and possibly set up a board without a formal election. Other representatives agreed and all indicate that they would turn their nominees in to the county clerk's office as soon as possible.

The agencies here hope to have the unified appraisal district functioning in 1980.

Dr. Robert Clinton, president of Western Texas College, has served as chairman of the steering committee, and following this morning's meeting in the WTC cafeteria, he said he felt that the proceedings had reached the point that they no longer needed a chairman. However, he said if the group should see the need for another meeting and need assistance in arranging it, he would offer his help.

Enrollment At College Past 1,100

Enrollment at Western Texas College had passed the 1,100 mark this morning, as the first week of registration neared an end.

Dr. Duane Hood, dean of student services and registrar, said that registration will continue through next week for both day and evening classes.

At this stage it appeared that there would be little change, if any, in the ultimate enrollment for the fall semester. The total for both last fall and the fall of 1977 was 1,184.

Classes met Thursday for the first time this semester.

Bank Increases Prime Interest

NEW YORK (AP)—Citibank, the nation's second-largest bank, responded today to increased pressure from the Federal Reserve and raised its prime lending rate from 12¼ percent to a record 12½ percent.

Citibank's move was followed almost immediately by Chemical Bank, the nation's sixth largest bank and No. 7 Continental Illinois of Chicago. Other banks were expected to follow.

The increase was the second in the closely watched interest rate - charged by banks to their best corporate customers - in less than two weeks.

Historical Drama Set For Sept. 15

Highlights of Scurry County history will be in the spotlight when the Scurry County Historical Commission presents "Scurry County Times" on the night of Sept. 15 in the coliseum.

Costumes worn by county residents in years past will be modeled as portions of the county's history are narrated. Models are to meet at the coliseum at 7:30 Tuesday night for a walk-through as final preparation for the show are made.

"Scurry County Times" will also be the finale for the Scurry County Reunion being sponsored by the County Historical Commission as a part of the annual county fair.

"The Reunion will open on Thursday with registration in Meeting Room A of the coliseum from 6-9 p.m. Registration will continue through regular Fair hours on Friday and all day Saturday until time for the stage show to begin at 7 p.m.

Other activities on Saturday will be a coffee starting at 9:30 Saturday morning in Meeting Room A. A barbecue is planned from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Towle Park pavilion. Tickets for the barbecue, priced at $4 each, must be purchased by Monday and are on sale at several locations. They may also be purchased by calling the Board of County Development at 573-3559 for home delivery. The RSVP Kitchen Band will provide entertainment for the barbecue.

Mrs. Wilson Connell, chairman for the Saturday coffee, has promised old-fashioned tea cakes to be served with the coffee. There is no admission charge for the coffee or for the stage show.

a leisurely lament

When a scientist complains that society "still is not prepared to make profitable use of the material wealth and leisure time with which it has been endowed by the scientific-technological revolution," his words hit a responsive chord. Particularly when he adds that when a society no longer has to struggle, the young members will turn to drugs, sex and cheap entertainment for a diversion.

The interesting part of these comments is they were not made by an American scientist about his land, but by a Soviet scientist about his. The scientist, a 77-year-old physicist, is old enough to recall when Russia had made scant scientific progress, possessed little modern technology and enjoyed very little leisure.

That conditions have changed to the point leisure—and what to do about it--has become a problem in Russia as it has in parts of the Western world, may come as a surprise. The results described by the Russian of leisure which is poorly utilized sound all too familiar.

It is possible for the "good life"--meaning ample income and a growing amount of leisure time--to become a bore. When it does, leisure moves from the credit to the debit side of life's ledger and decay begins to set in.

under-represented

Episcopalians, teachers and men are overrepresented in the House and Senate, while Baptists, engineers and women are underrepresented.

That's the conclusion of Rep. Paul Simon, D-Ill., who commissioned a member of his staff to compare the demographics of Congress and the country. Among the results of the study:

Lawyers dominate the Congress, holding 44.3 percent of all seats, although attorneys comprise only 0.5 percent of the total work force. Astronauts also are heavily overrepresented, with two spacemen holding Senate seats.

Teachers, businessmen, bankers, journalists, clergymen and scientists also are represented in above average numbers, while engineers, farmers and physicians are underrepresented.

Of the total population, 51 percent is female and 11 percent is black. But each of those groups accounts for only 3 percent of Congress.

Only 2.2 percent of the country's population is Episcopalian, but 12.7 percent of the legislators are affiliated with that church.

Methodists, Presbyterians, Latter Day Saints and Unitarians also are among the overrepresented, while Roman Catholics, Baptists, Lutherans, Jews and Seventh Day Adventists are among the underrepresented religious.

my turn

If your vacation took you to a major city this summer, you probably noticed something. Equality has hit the highways. It is not just the woman driver anymore that you have to look out for. Nuts of both sexes and of every race, creed and color are exercising all types of freedom and liberties on the throughfares of our great country.

Actually, city drivers are not so bad, once you understand the rules. For example, if directional signals must be used, employ them half-way through the turn instead of before it. Obey speed limits only in the presence of an occupied police car. You can improve traffic flow by driving down the middle of the road instead of in one lane or the other.

Contrary to popular belief, red lights do not mean stop. Run 'em. Yellow lights do not mean slow down. Step on it. Flashing yellow lights are there only to confuse drivers at dangerous intersections, weeding out the men from the boys and turning orderly traffic flow into a game of chicken.

Under no circumstances should a licensed driver look when pulling into traffic. You might hit someone.

Save energy. Avoid using headlights at night.

Park, using the Braille method. Bump the car ahead and smash into the car behind you until your vehicle comes to a complete stop.

Whenver possible exit from a parking lot in the entrance lane.

"One Way" actually means traffic may proceed in two directions.

U-turns across four lanes of traffic are permitted anytime and encouraged during rush hour.

The function of the rear view mirror is to touch up lip stick while driving.

Following the above rules should get you through most metropolitan areas just fine. I still wouldn't attempt Los Angeles until I had some experience in the Indy 500. I heard one account of a wreck out there where a man was lying alongside the freeway with his steering wheel wrapped around his neck and his new car upside down beside him. The other party in the wreck came running up and said. "But sir, I gave my signal to turn.

"'Yeah I know Lady," he said. "That is what fooled me."

We all marry for better or worse.

But you don't know how bad it can get until you find out you're stuck with an "I don't dance."

During courtship, the "I don't dance-ers" mislead you (I don't believe I said that). They're the first ones on the floor, pushing your arm up and down like they're priming a pump, and maneuvering around between couples dipping and swaying.

It wasn't until our wedding reception when the orchestra played "The Anniversary Waltz" that I knew I had been conned. The crowd made a circle around my new husband and me to lead the dancing when he turned to me and said, "Please, not tonight. I have a headache."

His excuses for not dancing were laid end to end, they would encircle Ann Miller's teased hair 30 times. These are some of his better ones:

"It's too crowded. Wait till it thins out."

"No one else is dancing. Wait until there's a crowd."

"'Stardust' is too fast. Let's wait until the tempo slows down a bit."

"My varicose veins have been acting up."

"The song is almost finished. Let's wait until next New Year's."

"We just got here an hour ago. Give me a chance to talk."

"Why didn't you mention you wanted to dance before I unbuttoned my jacket?"

Through the years I have resigned myself to sitting around listening to the music and watching my feet swell under the table. I tell myself he's a good provider, loves children, and is kind to my mother-in-law.

But I couldn't resist mentioning his handicap the other night as we watched a period movie. The hero moved across the floor and chose his dancing partner -- a beautiful woman of mystery. Together, they joined a line of about 50 other people and went through a routine of counting steps, swaying, dipping, turning, bowing and skipping that would have baffled the Ohio State marching band.

At the same time, mind you, the hero carried on a conversation that was provocative, suggestive, witty, and political-- without missing a beat.

"Would you look at that?" I exclaimed to my husband. "Face it, Bunkie, you would never have hacked the Virginia Reel."

My husband took note of the dancer resplendent in cutaway coat, powdered wig, lace over the hands, satin vest and buckled shoes and observed, "Without his Supphose, he'd be sitting it out like the rest of us."

Your Birthday

Sept. 8, 1979

Benefits are likely to be directed toward you this coming year in situations where others have already laid the groundwork. You'll earn your share through contributing what they can't.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Unless you are on guard today you could be drawn into a situation with another where you could end up picking up the tab for his or her mistakes. Discover with whom you best get along romantically by sending for your ASTRO-GRAPH Letter which begins anew with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to ASTRO-GRAPH, Box 489 Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct.) To pacify associates today you may be tempted to make commitments that do not serve your best interests. Be cooperative but also be sensible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Caution should take precedence over haste today if you are working with unfamiliar tools or materials. Better safe than sorry.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't gamble today on people or things that you know little about. Calculated risks should be taken only after all the facts are weighed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Have the courage of your convictions today where you are positive you are right even though others may lean on you to alter your views.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Finding fault is a sure-fire formula for having others point out your own shortcomings. Say nice things and the reverse will be true.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your sales resistance isn't quite up to par today. If you are not careful, a crafty peddler could sell you something you have little need for.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may not be able to function as independently as you would like today owing to pressures from outside sources. Try to be cooperative.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be wary of impulsive behavior today. It can create problems that could otherwise be avoided. Reconnoiter situations before plunging in.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make it a point to live within your means today rather than cater to extravagance. Having a good time could carry too expensive a price tag.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Even though you'll be definite in what you hope to achieve today, you might use tactics or methods that are self-defeating. Plan wisely.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Judge events and others on their merits today rather than on something that happened in the past. Let bygones be bygones.

Berry's World

"If gold is such a good thing to buy, how come you're SELLING it?"

commentary

donald f. graff

There are more than three million of them - how many more no one knows. No census has ever been taken, none is really possible under the circumstances of their existence.

They are scattered throughout the Mideast.

They include some of the best and brightest of the Arab world, educated and skilled individuals essential to the economies and governments of a half-dozen countries, none of which they call their own.

They also include multitudes trapped in the squalor of refugee camps, many unto the second and third generations. The United Nations, which coordinates international assistance, estimates some 1.7 million are receiving aid.

They are the Palestinians, the major obstacle to every effort to reach a Mideast settlement between Arab and Israeli of the last quarter century but today the focus of what could be a major development in those efforts.

"Palestinian" covers a lot of territory, and in more than the geographic sense. It broadly describes a population either presently resident in, once resident in or tracing descent from the former Turkish territory that came under British rule following World War I as the Palestine mandate.

Most Palestinians are Moslems, but a significant minority is Christian, including leaders of some extremist guerrilla organizations. Many have never left Palestine. Probably more have never seen it.

The Palestinians were a people until 1948, one of the numerous subgroups of the vast Arab "nation". They became a problem that year as the losers in the war that established a Jewish national state in part of what had been Palestine. The first wave of refugees then poured into neighboring Arab states. A second followed in 1967, after the Six Day War in which Israel seized all of what had been Palestine.

Today, more than a million and a half Palestinians are under Israeli jurisdiction, half a million in Israel proper and the rest in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The next largest contingent is in Jordan, where they make up half the population. There are some 400,000 in Lebanon, the location of the largest camps and the base of the most active guerrilla forces. Smaller communities are in Syria, Iraq, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia.

Their status in the host countries varies. They are the strongest presence in Lebanon next to the Syrian army, and responsible in large part for that country's endless civil war. In super wealthy Kuwait, they are a quarter of the population and dominate the bureaucracy, education and business establishments.

Only Jordan grants them citizenship, yet excludes them from a major role in the government following the 1970 civil war in which King Hussein's army drove armed Palestinian groups out of the country.

For the first years of exile, the Palestinians were the pawns of Arab governments in maneuvering against Israel and the West. Integration into the countries of refuge was discouraged. Their importance was as a cause, not as individuals.

In 1964, with the encouragement of key Arab governments, various militant groups joined to established the Palestine Liberation Organization. The campaign against Israel, militarily and diplomatically, acquired new force. But there are those who would say that as another consequence, Arab governments became the pawns of the Palestinians. These became a force in their own right and their cause for other Arabs something of a Frankenstein's monster which could no longer be manipulated or ignored as was convenient for Cairo or Damascus or Riyadh.

The dominant force in the P.L.O is Al Fatah, which by Palestinian guerrilla standards ranks as fairly moderate. It at least exhibits a degree of political sophistication totally unknown to its terrorist partners.

A generation of exile has imposed a superficial unity upon Palestinians. Opposition to Israel has submerged all other interests. And differences. These might be expected to surface if the P.L.O. ever relaxed its all-or-nothing stand, indicating readiness to compromise. This is what some observers believe may be happening.

And as a consequence, the Palestinians, for a quarter of a century the obstacle, may now hold the key to a Mideast settlement.

reality doesn't count

NEW YORK (AP)—With the U.S. government's public debt now amounting to $813,140,000,000, it might seem odd that it should be asked to bail out Chrysler Corp., which may lose only $600 million this year.

That, however, is the unusual way in which things add up these days. If recent events seem illogical don't blame yourself and search more deeply for the hidden explanation. It may not be there.

Those numbers, for example, are real. The government will run a $30 billion deficit this year. It pays more than $4 billion a month just to maintain its debt - not to reduce it, but merely to pay the charges.

But reality may not count. This year's budget deficit, one of the biggest ever, is said by President Carter to be tight. And Washington last week guaranteed a loan of more than $100 million to a private company - Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Co., which plans some of the money for a new rail facility.

Bethelehem Steel, meanwhile, says so much rail-making capacity already exists that its workers are idle.

Carter claims to have made the control of inflation his top economic priority. But in Davenport, Iowa, he interruped his recent riverboat cruise to ask people to consider paying more, not less, for goods.

The appeal was part of a pitch for American-made goods. Buy American, he said, and you'll help reduce the imbalance in U.S. international payments. And, he might have added, give a boost to inflation.

The term "windfall profits" has been used in regard to the potential profits to oil companies from the market imbalance in supplies of energy. Unearned and undeserved, said the president.

If that is so, what then should we call the billions of tax dollars that will accrue to the federal government not because of higher real incomes - personal income has been declining - but because inflation simply boosted incomes into higher, more costly tax brackets?

The confusion involves the private sector also.

A securities firm advertises, for example, that you can put inflation to work for you by investing in a debt security that might pay nearly 10 percent. Yes, but inflation is 13 percent. Please explain.

In the stock market, which hates confusion and uncertainty, you can find today a mishmash of notions such as hasn't existed in years. There is very little consistency; the variance in views is kaleidescopic.

Far out on a limb are some well-regarded savants who insist that stocks are overpriced and headed for a tumble. On the other side of the tree, just as far out, you can find a covey of analysts who maintain the Dow Jones industrial average will double within three years.

If you feel that these and other bits of economic news fail to fit together into a logical pattern, do not make the mistake of attributing it to some failing of your understanding. It isn't you; it's the world.

Dear Abby

She's Dumb— But No Dummy

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who needs some advice on several things having to do with sex and pregnancy. My mother has never told me anything. Of course I know WHAT is done, but I would like to know if there is any way a girl can go all the way without getting pregnant.

I have heard about the Pill, but I don't know where to get any or how they are used. If I walk into a drugstore, will they sell me some? Are there instructions on the bottle?

I have also heard that there is a certain time of the month when a girl is "safe." When is that time? We studied it in biology class, but were told we shouldn't depend on it because it is not 100 percent safe. I am really confused.

I have been told that some boys use something. The guy doesn't have to worry about getting pregnant, so what are they for? I hate to sound dumb, but I would like to know the answers to these questions and I don't know who else to ask.

A POORLY INFORMED GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Your questions are good and you deserve straight answers. Phone your local PLANNED PARENTHOOD office and ask for an appointment to see a "teen counselor" about birth control information. If you're old enough to ask, you're old enough to know.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the young mother whose 20-month-old child screamed and trembled every time a vacuum cleaner was turned on brought back memories.

I went through the same thing with my son, John, now 21. When John was an infant he not only screamed whenever I used the vacuum cleaner, he would double up in pain. He reacted the same way to power tools and other high pitched noises.

The doctor said he probably would outgrow it and I should try to get him used to it. It didn't work. Sometimes the noise would make Johnny physically sick and the poor kid would throw up. I finally put away the vacuum cleaner and used a carpet sweeper instead.

I raised four kids, and Johnny was the only one with this problem.

E.T. IN N.J.

DEAR E.T.: I heard from several ear specialists that some children are born with an extremely high sensitivity to loud noises. They suffer severe pain when subjected to them and should not be forced to "get used to it." (Some outgrow this sensitivity and some do not.)

A child who reacts violently to loud noises should be examined by an ear specialist.

DEAR ABBY: Out of the blue, my sister's husband (I'll call him Neville) has asked her for a divorce. They're both 50 and have three married children.

Neville teaches English to foreigners, and it seems he has fallen in love with a 28-year-old pupil.

I have always gotten on quite well with Neville, so he keeps ringing me up to ask when he can bring his girlfriend over to meet me. I always give him some kind of excuse: "Sorry, not tonight, I have another engagement," etc. Soon I'll run out of excuses.

My sister is very upset over what her husband has done, and so am I. Furthermore, I am not the least bit interested in meeting his young girlfriend.

How can I handle this without hurting his feelings?

CANADIAN READER

DEAR READER: Why look for "excuses" when you have a perfectly legitimate reason? Tell Neville that you don't care to meet his girlfriend. And don't worry about his feelings. He seems well able to take care of himself.

Honesty debate continues

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR READERS — During the last two months, this column has frequently focused on honesty. What is it? When should it be used? Is it always a positive force?

Interest in this topic is evidently intense.

The debate continues with a letter from a New York City lawyer who agrees with me that honesty for its own sake is not always the best policy but sheds a new light on the examples I used to illustrate that point.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — The woman asked by her separated (although not legally separated) husband if she was seeing anyone seriously could — and, in my opinion, should — reply, "Since we are no longer living as husband and wife, I don't choose to answer questions like that as it is no longer any of your concern."

The man who is terribly jealous of his wife through no fault of hers probably has feelings of insecurity that if not discussed openly and truthfully with her will eventually destroy their relationship anyway.

The salesman who believes he is hiding from his wife his misdirected anger and irritation is probably showing those negative feelings in more subtle ways. That can only lead his wife to misunderstand the cause of his anger and add to the ill will.

The salesman should try to communicate to her the real reasons for his anger — in this case, his feelings of insecurity stemming from his job.

DEAR READER — I was so eager to show that honesty per se is not always helpful that I neglected to take each example to its logical conclusion. Thank you for taking up the slack.

In each case, you advocate what I would call responsible or appropriate honesty — the sharing of facts and feelings that help to reduce tension and promote mutual satisfaction.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — I had wanted to tell my husband about something terrible I did long before we were married. I guess I just wanted to get it off my chest. I was afraid of his reaction.

I finally told him — the night before he was to start on a long and difficult sales trip. He was preoccupied and irritated that I needed some of his time.

Now I feel worse than ever. Why was my timing so bad?

DEAR READER — Being honest about a delicate subject required just the right time and place for your best chance at an understanding response from your husband. Your bad timing suggests that you might still feel guilty about that "terrible" deed and might still feel the need to be punished.

Don't let this experience discourage you from clearing the air on important matters.

What would you do if your best friend threatened suicide? Find out the proper responses in Dr. Blaker's newsletter, "When a Loved One Threatens Suicide." Send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 475, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Write to Dr. Blaker at the above address. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

Mr. and Mrs. Anson Martin and son Michael, and Mr. and Mrs. Willie Martin of Rotan recently spent a week at Lake Livingston near Houston. They brought home about 50 pounds of dressed catfish. On the return trip, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Martin visited in Fort Worth with Mrs. Martin's mother, Mrs. J.V. Baugh, her sister, Lola McDonald and a niece, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Dunn. They also visited in Mineral Wells with Mr. Martin's sister's, Mr. and Mrs. James Yates, and Mr. and Mrs. I.J. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Tate of Midland visited with Mrs. Rella Young and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Tate Saturday afternoon.

Maude Mullins, Kristi Clark of Fort Worth and Bonita Williams from Satellite Beach, Fla. were weekend guests of Mary Neal Mayo on Saturday. Other cousins calling were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hamil of Snyder, Mrs. Eula Farr, Mrs. Vera Farr and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Wall.

Mr. and Mrs. O.W. Richburg spent last week in Booker, visiting their daughter, Rev. and Mrs. Charles Bridges and Amy. While there, they shopped in Liberal, Kan.

There will be a work shop all day at Hopper's shop on Saturday, Sept. 8 for the purpose of welding, putting together, painting, or whatever needs to be done for the Cardinal signs which are to be erected. The ladies will furnish lunch to the group to help rush the work.

Mr. and Mrs. O.W. Richburg and Mrs. Pearl Watts attended the Senior Citizen's Center on Tuesday evening. They enjoyed a dinner and fellowship with friends.

The Needlecraft Club met for their weekly luncheon on Tuesday with 10 attending. They were Elree Baremore, Dorothy Martin, Roxie Soules, Rella Young, Mary Neal Mayo, Josie Maule, Oleta Jackson, Leta Lloyd, Rachel Lassiter brought large heart shaped medallions she is making for a Normandy bedspread. Friends continue to give pieces of various laces to be used, making the spread more interesting and valuable.

Mrs. Rella Young accompanied by Mrs. Elree Baremore of Snyder shopped in Abilene last Wednesday.

Mrs. Verla Mason and her brother, Travis Burleson attended their sister's Mr. and Mrs. O.J. (Eva) Treadways wedding anniversary celebration last Sunday in Eastland. Seventy-one relatives and friends registered.

School started this week and the Cardinals and Cardinalette drill team are looking forward to an exciting year.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boyce returned Wednesday after spending the past two months in Wyoming, Arizona, and New Mexico.

Fall Is The Season For Cookie Baking

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Cookie monsters know no season, of course. But fall sporting events, the return of the youngsters to school and the onset of cooler weather in most parts of the country all make this an especially popular time for baking cookies.

The whole gang will enjoy nutritious whole-wheat cookies with almonds and prunes or dates. The more elegant Florentines are "company" cookies.

WHOLE-WHEAT ALMOND COOKIES

- 3/4 cup margarine or butter
- 1 cup brown sugar, packed
- 1 egg
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla
- ½ cup wheat germ
- 1 cup whole-wheat flour
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ½ cup buttermilk
- 1 cup chopped prunes or dates
- ½ cup chopped almonds, toasted

Cream margarine or butter with sugar. Beat in egg and vanilla.

Mix wheat germ, flours, salt and baking powder. Blend into creamed mixture alternately with buttermilk. Stir in prunes and almonds.

Drop by level tablespoonfuls onto well-greased cookie sheets. Sprinkle cookies with sugar, if you wish. Bake at 350-degrees for 10 minutes. Cool on wire racks. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 2½ dozen cookies.

FLORENTINES

- ½ cup sugar
- 1/3 cup whipping cream
- 1/3 cup honey
- 1½ cups sliced natural (unblanched) almonds
- 1/3 cup finely chopped candied orange peel
- 6 tablespoons flour
- 4 ounces semi-sweet chocolate
- 1 teaspoon shortening

Combine sugar, cream and honey in saucepan. Bring to boil, stirring. Then gently boil to 238 degrees (soft-ball stage). Remove from heat.

Stir in almonds, orange peel and flour. Drop by level tablespoonfuls onto foil-covered cookie sheet. Flatten cookies slightly.

Bake at 325-degrees for 10 minutes or until golden around edges and done in center. Cool thoroughly on foil, then peel off and invert on wire rack.

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Stir in shortening. Spread mixture over flat bottoms of cookies. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 2 dozen cookies.

The best stimulant

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 68-year-old single man and sometimes I get lonely for the opposite sex. I'm a widower and I want to maintain my ability as long as possible in case I find some lady I want to live with.

Are there any foods I can eat that will help me maintain my sexual capacity? Are there any medicines or pills I could take that would be helpful? I have heard that there are a number of different stimulants men use to maintain their capacity.

DEAR READER — The best stimulant of all is someone you find attractive. That doesn't come in bottles or pills and it's related to your own psychological reaction to the other person.

There has been a lot published about foods and sexual capacity. Most of it is useless. In some primitive cultures, certain foods have improved sexual capacity but there's a catch to it.

These people had poor diets. When they ate so-called sex foods, their nutrition improved. Proper nutrition maintains health in all aspects, including one's sexual capacity. Poor nutrition decreases one's sexual interest and capacity.

Forget about all those advertised products from rhinoceros horns to tree bark. Their effect if any is just a confidence reaction. The individual expects that they work or have some magical power and the confidence he gains may improve his performance.

The best way to maintain your sexual capacity as you get older really is to avoid poor health, particularly to avoid circulatory problems. That's done by eating a normal well-balanced diet that's low in fat, low in cholesterol and doesn't allow you to become obese. Don't smoke cigarettes. Avoid excess use of alcohol and maintain a good general lifestyle.

To give you some guidelines about such a diet, I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-6, Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA). Others who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 13-year-old male and have a concave chest. This has just become noticeable in the last couple of years.

I'm involved in sports and my friends are asking me why my chest is caved in. I'm becoming self-conscious about it. Is there anything that can be done to correct this condition?

DEAR READER — Unless it's very severe, it's one of those conditions that should probably be left alone. It's sometimes called a funnel chest.

All that's happened is that the breastbone in the center of the chest is bent inward. If the bend is slight, it won't create any problem.

In severe cases, it can displace or compress the heart. In that situation, it can cause some problems. I'm certain that's not true in your case since you are involved in sports. It sounds from your letter that you are fairly active and don't complain of any symptoms. The only way it could be corrected would be surgery and that's pretty drastic treatment for a minor body variation.

Alamo Defended Again

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - outraged Texans are again coming to the defense of the hallowed Alamo - this time against Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt, who says the historic mission-fortress symbolizes all that's wrong in the United States' relations with Mexico.

Texas officials chastized the Arizona governor Thursday for his remarks at a wednesday luncheon in San Antonio, the site of the fabled "Cradle of Texas Liberty."

Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton said Babbitt should tend to his own state's relations with Mexico and stop trying to "fire up emotions" between Anglos and Hispanics in Texas.

Texas Attorney General Mark White agreed and threw in an impromptu Texas history lesson for Babbitt. But one San Antonio attorney just suggested that Babbitt give Arizona back to Mexico if the governor is so interested in improving U.S.-Mexico relations.

Babbitt, a Democrat, made the controversial remarks Wednesday when he was addressing a luncheon given in his honor by two Mexican-American groups.

"We must forge a new relationship based on recognition of Mexico as an equal. But the Alamo is a symbol of the problem in our relationship with Mexico...a sacred symbol to Texans and an extension of the American ideal. But to Mexico, it's a symbol of territory lost, a nation plundered by overbearing gringo neighbors," Babbitt said.

The Arizona governor said both sides should readjust their thinking on such symbols.

The rebuttals poured in Thursday.

"Certainly Texas and Mexico have some problems, such as illegal aliens, but it's not going to help for a governor from some other state to come over here and try to fire up emotions," said Clayton. "It could do some irreparable damage to the relations between Texans and the people on the other side of the border."

White added, "The heroes of the Alamo don't need defending against a politician two states away."

"Who the hell does he think he is? If he's so damn sincere, let him give the state of Arizona back to Mexico," said prominent San Antonio attorney Fred Semaan.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, agreed from his Washington office.

"He (Babbitt) is grossly ignorant," Gonzalez said.

"If anything, the Alamo was a victory for the Mexicans. They won the Alamo. This dumb and ignorant Arizona governor expresses the mythological and the crass ignorance and, of course, it's a shrine of liberty.

"His symbolism is all mixed up, and his history and his statements are thoroughly confused and ignorant and unjust to a very great struggle, which involves more than he implies is the North American gringo traducing Mexico's territory. For a governor of Arizona to be so ignorant is unpardonable."

Gonzales also said the logical extension of Babbitt's remarks, if they were correct, would be to return the territory to Mexico including Arizona. and he said he would like to see Babbitt just try and get elected in Mexico.

Texas Gov. Bill Clements, a Republican, has been a target of repeated criticism by Babbitt, who says Clements had an "imperialistic" attitude in recent discussions with Mexican border governors.

Clements was on a tour of Eastern Europe and not immediately available for comment.

White, however, took it upon himself to brief Babbitt in Texas history: "It should be noted that the Arizona governor has his historical facts mixed up. The battle at the Alamo did not take place during the war of 1845 between the U.S. and Mexico. The Alamo was part of Texas' fight for liberty, which was backed by Mexicans and Anglos alike and decided in 1836 at San Jacinto."

A small band of Texans, including frontiersmen Davy Crockett and Jim Bowie, was wiped out March 6, 1836 by more than 1,000 Mexican troops. The battle followed a crucial 13-day siege that gave Texans armies time to regroup and eventually win the Texas Revolution.

The Republic of Texas joined the United States in late 1845, prompting the Mexican War, which led to Mexico giving up what is now the southwestern United States.

Cattlemen Fight Export Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Cattlemen's Association is waging an all-out effort against pending legislation which the organization says would mean a hardship on U.S. cattle producers by imposing controls on the export of hides used to make shoes and other leather articles.

For months the domestic shoe industry has been working hard itself to gain support on Capitol Hill for amendments that would restrict hide exports. It says controls are needed in view of the smaller supply caused by a sharply reduced cattle slaughter.

But the NCA, the Agriculture Department, some other farm groups and segments of the meat industry contend export controls are short-sighted and would mean a slowdown in the expansion now under way in the U.S. cattle industry.

The main interest now is in the House, where amendments have been or will be offered to legislation extending the Export Administration Act.

In recent reports to its members, the NCA agreed that global hide production is down "mainly as a result of the cyclical reduction in cattle slaughter," but added that the U.S. cattle and packing industries "are producing more hides that the domestic leather industry can use."

Prices of hides, before they began slipping from their peaks earlier this year, more than doubled what they were two years ago.

"All the hides they can use, and more, are available if they will pay the going price," the NCA said of the leather industry's complaint about costs.

According to the industry, more than 80 percent of America's cattle hides are being shipped abroad, up from less than 50 percent four years ago.

"Controls on hide exports wouldn't be enough to revive the U.S. leather goods industry," says the NCA. "It's been going downhill for the last 23 years. In 1978, leather goods production was 18 percent less than in 1955, while the output of all non-durable manufacturing increased by 170 percent."

QUILTS PRESENTED CHURCH NURSERY—Mrs. J.M. Haygood, right, has presented four quilts to the nursery at Bethel Baptist Church. The quilts were hand-made by Mrs. Haygood. Displaying one of the quilts are, from left, Mrs. Rita Hammit and Mrs. Jo Moore, two of the regular nursery workers for the church, and Mrs. Haygood.

Chrysler Loss To Top $700 Million In 1979

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp., gearing up to reveal its government bailout proposal, announced it will lose more than $700 million this year, a record for a U.S. corporation.

The loss announcement came Thursday as a financial journal said bank loans to the ailing No. 3 automaker are now considered "doubtful."

Chrysler said because of a three-week delay in 1980 model production and the $400 rebates is used to sell its inventory of 1979 vehicles, pre-tax losses this year would top previous published estimates of "$600 million to $700 million".

Chrysler initiated the rebates to spur sales and pare its bulging inventories of larger models. The record of a year's losses is now held by Singer Corp., which lost $452 million in 1975.

Chrysler, which is to deliver its bailout proposal to U.S. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller in a few days, lost $207 million in the second quarter. In all of last year, it lost $205 million.

The report on the downgrading of the rating of Chrysler loans came from a daily banking newspaper, American Banker. The journal said the Federal Reserve Board had classified $500 million in loans to Chrysler by banks around the country as "doubtful," the lowest classification short of default.

The Fed declined to comment on the report, which was attributed to an unidentified banking source.

American Banker said the action could force some state-chartered banks to establish reserves of up to 50 percent of their loans to Chrysler.

In a cost-cutting gesture, Chrysler's outside directors, the members of the board who are not company executives, voted to cut their base salary in half, from $10,000 a year to $5,000.

Last week, Chairman John Riccardo and President Lee A. Iacocca cut their salaries to $1 a year from $360,000, and other cuts of 2 to 10 percent were imposed on some 1,700 executives.

The executives could get the money - about $3 million in all - if Chrysler stock does well in the next two years, but there was no mention of repayment in the announcement about the directors.

Chrysler said when it announced the executive pay cuts the action was important in persuading the federal government it was serious about its revival plan.

That plan was drawn up after federal officials said they would back loan guarantees of up to $750 million.

In Washington, Miller said federal loan guarantees are the only way to help Chrysler avoid bankruptcy while still being fair to taxpayers.

Miller said he expects to receive Chrysler's plan within a few days.

Chrysler officials would not go beyond the statement on the loss, and did not indicate how far above $700 million it might be.

Ma Bell Facing Tough Competition

AUSTIN (AP)—Ma Bell, which once had the telephone game all to herself, faces an ever-growing and hungry swarm of competitors, says a New York stock analyst.

Brad Peery, vice president of Pain Webber Mitchell Hutchins Inc., testified Thursday in the third day of a Texas Public Utility Commission hearing on Southwestern Bell's request for $145.2 million in rate increases.

Peery supported the request, saying the American Telephone & Telegraph system as a whole is less attractive to investors than it once was because of lower earnings and higher risks.

The risks include both competition and the actions of such regulatory bodies as the utility commission in setting limits on Bell's earnings, he said.

Among areas where Bell must compete for business, he said, are long-distance calls and telephone equipment.

"Even part of the local exchange market is competitive," Peery said.

18 Oil, 26 Gas Wells Reported

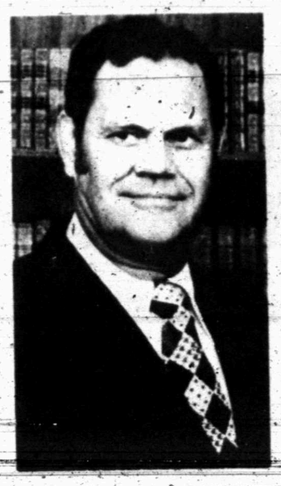

AUSTIN (AP)-The Texas Railroad Commission said Wednesday operators reported 18 oil and 26 gas well discoveries during the last half of August.

The wildcat oil wells included five in South Texas, four in North Texas and two in the San Angelo area. There also was one each in Southeast, East, and West Central Texas and the Lubbock, Panhandle, San Antonio and Midland areas

The wildcat gas wells included six each in Southeast Texas, South Texas and the Refugio area, two each in West Central Texas and the Midland area and one each in North Texas, East Texas and the San Antonio and Panhandle areas.

Through August, the commission said, Texas operators have reported 315 oil discoveries, nine more than in the first eight months of 1978. A total of 832 gas discoveries were reported through August, 114 more than in the same period last year.

The commission said 236 dry holes were drilled in the last half of August.

Rev. Farmer has served pastorates in Midland, Big Spring, Muleshoe, Lamesa and various other places. Pastor James Jackson invites all to attend these services.

IRA Warns Of More Violence

LONDON (AP)—The Irish Republican Army vowed "many more deaths of both British and Irish people" will follow the assassination of Earl Mountbatten if Britain continues its rule in Northern Ireland, the war-torn province where some 2,000 already have died in a decade of violence.

The Irish Republican Publicity Bureau, propaganda section of the IRA's Sinn Fein political wing, issued the ultimatum Thursday in a statement delivered to the British Press Association.

"An address to the British people," the warning began. Now that you have buried your dead and the understandable emotional responses which followed the events of last week have begun to subside, we sincerely hope that you can now begin to understand the immense problems your government's presence has created in our country.

"We sincerely believe that you, the British people, must now honestly and logically begin to reexamine the role of your government in Ireland, and realize that a continuation of the occupation of a part of Ireland is a sure recipe for further heartbreak and suffering.

"You, the British people, must understand that while Britain continues to interfere in the internal affairs of the Irish nation, there will be many more deaths of both British and Irish people."

The IRA's Provisional wing blew up Mountbatten and three others aboard his fishing boat in Donegal Bay Aug. 27 and hours later killed 18 British troops across the border in Northern Ireland in a double bombing.

Mountbatten, cousin of Queen Elizabeth II, war hero and statesman, was buried following an elaborate service at Westminister Abbey Wednesday.

You may eat too fast if you can eat a meal in less than 20 minutes, says Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Movie Arousing Ire Of Christians

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—When movies or television shows allude to religious faith these days, it's usually in ridicule, bluntly or subtly. Clergy ordinarily are depicted as hypocrites, con men or simpletons. And the word, "God," is used mostly for smirks and cursing.

This is defended as a new "realism" or comic "Satire," aside from issues of taste, and it has little to do with realities as experienced by most people.

So pervasive as the practice become in filmmaking, however, that the 90 percent of Americans who believe in God and pray seem to have resigned themselves to it, acquiescing in silence.

But a new movie has come along mocking religion so blatantly that it has aroused outcries from Christians and Jews, including one of the churches' most sophisticated film specialists, Robert E.A. Lee.

"Sometimes religion is fair game if the satire is simply a social spoof of an institution," he said. "But in this case, it's out-and-out mockery of something very sacred to many people.

"I don't like to be on the side of those who want to purge or clamp down on the right of film-makers to say what they please, but we also have a right to speak out when they're guilty of grossly bad taste and profaning the sacred."

The target of his criticism, aired on about 1,000 radio stations in an interdenominationally sponsored review called "Cinema Sound," is the current movie, "The Life of Brian," made by the British Monty Python comedy group.

"It is grossly offensive to those who accept Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior and call themselves Christians," he says. "And it should be equally offensive to any others who believe that religious faith should not be scoffed at. . . ."

The film is about a contemporary of Jesus, a man named Brian of Nazareth, who is mistaken for the Messiah. Parallels to biblical incidents are used to suggest that anyone, even someone as inept and reluctant as Brian, could be hailed as Savior.

The film opens with three wise men coming to Bethlehem and worshipping the baby Brian before discovering their mistake. Brian is credited for miracles he didn't do, judged by Pilate, abused by Roman soldiers and crucified in lampooning fashion.

"It is all presented as a big joke," says Lee, communications director of the U.S. Lutheran Council, and producer of several acclaimed films himself, including "A Time for Burning," and a new film to show soon on public television, "The Joy of Bach."

Bats Bugging Mail Workers

PROVO, Utah (AP)—Mail workers say they're going "batty" ducking dozens of bats trapped in the Provo Post Office.

Postmaster Robert Strong said the bats got in through ventilation and air conditioning vents.

"The women employees have really been bothered," he said, adding that a secretary tacked a sign on the office door warning the bats to "Keep Out."

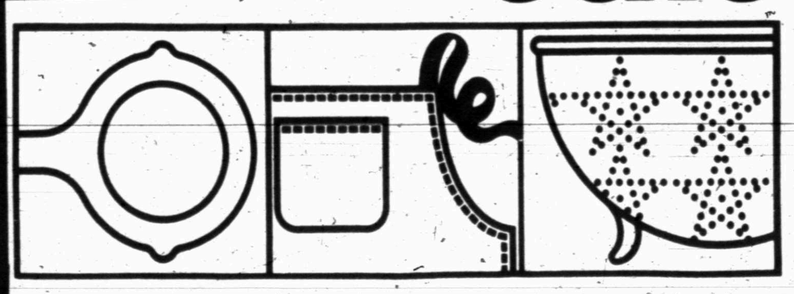

"It's hard to sort the mail and duck your head for bats at the same time," complained one employee who wished to remain unidentified.

Brigham Young University zoology professor Hal Black said the employees shouldn't worry about the bats being rabid.

"These bats are just hungry and have been trapped inside the building and they're restless," he said.

Restless or not, Strong said the bats would be captured and disposed of. Meanwhile the employees are still ducking.

CO-OP

Wetsel of Roby noted that cost increases for the consumer are inevitable because of cost increases for the cooperative.

"Everything we buy costs more than it used to," he said. "That is something everybody is aware of."

"Everyday prices go up," Wetsel said, "and that is a simple economic fact."

Entertainment during the banquet was provided by Cindy Hataway of Snyder.

ECONOMY

cies while at the same time trying to keep from aggravating a recession that could mean high unemployment in the 1980 election year.

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed people rose by 300,000 during August to 6.1 million, with most of the increase resulting from factory layoffs.

Total employment fell by 310,000 jobs in August to 96.9 million, the government said, following a rise of 450,000 jobs in July.

Unemployment rates for virtually all major groups of workers based on age, sex and race increased last month.

During the prior 12-month period, the unemployment rate had been remarkably stable, ranging from 5.9 percent to a five-year low of 5.6 percent reached in June.

The government said employment has shown virtually no growth since March, after increasing by a strong 2.1 million jobs during the six months previous to March.

Those figures provided strong evidence of the economic slowdown that has gripped the economy since the second quarter, administration officials said.

The Labor Department gave these unemployment figures for various working groups compared with the July unemployment rates:

-Whites: 5.3 percent in August, up from 4.9 percent in July.

-Non-whites: 11 percent, up from 10.8 percent.

-Full-time workers: 5.4 percent, up from 5.3 percent.

Adult men: 4.2 percent, up from 4.1 percent.

-Adult women: 5.9 percent, up from 5.5 percent.

-Teen-agers: 16.5 percent up from 15.3 percent.

-Non-white teen-agers: 30.7 percent, down from 30.9 percent.

Officially, the administration predicts the jobless rate will rise to 6.9 percent next year - an increase of about 1.2 million unemployed Americans from current levels. However, a less optimistic internal government report predicts the jobless rate may hit 8.2 percent in the fall, of 1980 - 2.5 million more unemployed people than now.

Theft Cases Under Probe

Three thefts and a minor traffic accident were investigated Thursday by city police.

One of the theft complaints was filed by Mary Botts, 409 31st St. She told officers she is missing a stereo and a television set collectively valued at $450.

A lesser theft was reported by Dr. W.B. McSpadden, 2012 Towle Park Road. He told officers a .357-caliber pistol valued at $130 was taken from his residence.

Richard Orosco told police a $75 tool box was taken from his 1008 26th St. residence.

The only traffic accident occurred at 3402 Irving and was reported at 4:40 p.m. It involved a parked 1974 Chevrolet owned by R.L. Murphy that was struck by another vehicle which left the scene of the accident.

Fire Damages Motor Of Car

A car fire north of town was extinguished Thursday night by Snyder firefighters.

The fire occurred in a 1971 Chevrolet eight to 10 miles north of Snyder on Highway 84 and was reported at 9:10 p.m. Damage was confined to the motor.

Firefighters reported it has not been determined who the owner of the car is.

Ex-Manson Lieutenant To Wed

SAN LUIS OPISPO, Calif. (AP)—The fiancee of Charles "Tex" Watson, the convicted murderer who once called himself Charles Manson's "lieutenant for killing," says she and Watson will be wed today at a prison chapel where he preaches.

Kristen Svege, 20, announced plans for the wedding Tuesday, saying it will be the first marriage for both her and the 33-year-old Watson, who was convicted on seven counts of murder in 1971 for the brutal August 1969 Tate-LaBianca slayings in Los Angeles.

Guilty Pleas Heard In County Court

Several guilty pleas were entered Thursday in county court.

Three were entered by James Truman Wemken. He pleaded guilty to charges of evading arrest, driving while intoxicated, and driving while his license was suspended.

On the evading arrest charge, Wemken received a $200 fine and a 10-day jail sentence. The DWI case netted him a $200 fine and a 10-day jail sentence, and the driving without a license offense cost him a $50 find and a 90-day jail sentence.

Jack Kruse pleaded guilty to a charge of DWI and received a $50 fine and a 60-day jail sentence.

A $200 fine and a three-day jail sentence were levied against Ramon A. Yanez on a guilty plea to a DWI charge.

Nancy Ann Walker was handed a $250 fine and a 30-day jail sentence probated one year after pleading guilty to a theft offense.

An identical $250 fine and 30-day jail term probated one year was returned against Delores King on her guilty plea to a theft case.

The probation of Delores Torres was revoked and she was sentenced to serve 60 days in the county jail.

In earlier court action, Roberto Rodriquez pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while his license was suspended. He was given a $25 fine.

Guilty pleas to DWI charges were entered by Richard Paul Horton, Louis Flores, and Cullen Farmer.

Horton received a $300 fine and three days in jail. Flores was levied a $200 fine and a three-day jail term, and Farmer was assessed a $50 fine and three-day jail sentence.

Tigers, Rebels Battle At 8 In Season Opener

GAME CAPTAIN
Paul Gafford

GAME CAPTAIN
Sam Willis

GAME CAPTAIN
Bryan Vincent

Cue the cheerleaders and band, turn on the lights and get the whistles ready, because Snyder High will unlock the Tiger cage at 8 o'clock here tonight, releasing the District 3-AAA defending champions.

Schoolboy football - king of West Texas - will have arrived.

Snyder opens the season against the surprise team of District 5-AAAA, the Midland Lee Rebels, who, enroute to an 8-2 record, blazed the Tigers 32-8 last year.

The Rebels overpowered the Cats in just about every category, using a punishing ground game and strength in numbers to do it.

What does that have to do with 1979?

"Nothing," says Tiger Coach Mike Jenkins. "It's important because we play them the first game of the season, but what happened last year doesn't mean a thing."

Which is to say Snyder harbors no "get-even" syndrome. But the fact the two played last year may make a difference - if only slightly - when the teams meet tonight at Tiger Stadium.

"Anytime you play a new or bigger school it has to be a factor," admits Jenkins. "Hopefully, we'll be a little better off this year because we've played them now and our kids know how tough they are. Our junior varsity played them too, and that could help some.

"If it means anything, I think we're a little further along than we were at this time last year, but I'm not sure how much of a factor that will be for this game," he adds.

Lee returns one offensive and one defensive starter from '78, but sheer numbers to choose from mean the Rebs will be a formidable opponent for the Tigers.

"Midland will have a good, solid football team, predicts Jenkins. "They are real sound and physical. They're well coached."

Sparking the group is 6-1, 180 quarterback Gary Butler, who completed 24 of 54 passes for 433 yards, four touchdowns and 10 interceptions last year.

The only other regular from 1978 is 176-pound tailback-defensive corner Steve Waldron. But 190-pound fullback Mark Thompson, ends Larry Linne and Tom Williams and flanker Joe Windsor compose the rest of what coach Gil Bartosh has said offers "a good pass-run combination."

The Rebels offer good, driving, ball control running, and of course, Butler's adept passing.

"Midland will run right at you. They've got good strength inside and we expect them to test us there early. They've also got an excellent passer in Gary Butler," notes Jenkins. "We'll have to keep their passing game under control to be successful.

"Offensively, we'll need to be consistant. I feel like we'll pass more often than last year, but I can't say whether we'll pass six, 10 or 12 times, because it will depend on the situations we encounter."

The bottom line, feels Jenkins, will be avoiding mistakes.

"The real key to me, (determining factor) is the team that makes the fewest mistakes. Anytime you've got two good football teams playing each other mistakes enter into it. We've got to keep our mistakes to a minimum."

Gafford, a defensive signal caller and backup quarterback, will probably see only limited duty after suffering a pinched nerve and muscle spasms in the scrimmage with Abilene Cooper.

Alan Pollard, defensive secondary, is also listed as doubtful (foot injury), as is David Minyard (ankle).

All are expected in good health early next week.

Offensive starters for the Cats are penciled in as Mike Roemisch, quarterback; Bobby Degrate, fullback; Keith McClain or Vincent, tailback; Dale Jenkins, flanker; Barry Tubb and Glenn Parham, split end (alternating to bring in plays); Tommy Peek, left tackle; Toby Neves, left guard; Neil Evans, center; Javiar Hermosillo, right guard; Willis, right tackle; and Thane or Tony Degrate, tight end.

Rebs Defeat Tiger JVers

MIDLAND — Midland High School's junior varsity Rebels defeated Snyder JV here last night, 13-0.

The Rebels took advantage of two good punt returns, followed them up with quick, short drives, and thwarted Tiger offensive attempts to take the victory.

Midland scored late in the first quarter, scooting in from six yards out after a punt return set up a 30-yard drive. The PAT try was good.

The final score came late in the fourth quarter. The 8-yard scoring run capped a 20-yard drive, also forwarded by a punt return.

"We moved the football on them, but it was the little things that hurt us most," noted Tiger coach Winfred Shipp, who along with Albert Lewis and George Byerly instruct the bunch. "We weren't consistent enough. We're going to get better though. We've got a real fine group of kids."

Shipp was especially pleased with the defensive play of Jim Paul Williams, Oziel Gonzales, Bryan Limmer and Raymond Jeffery.

Snyder's next JV game will be 1 p.m. Sept. 15 at Lubbock Estacado.

Cats Aren't Favored ... But That May Change

EDITOR'S NOTE: Snyder varsity volleyball team opens the season at 11 a.m. here Saturday, hosting Big Spring at the girl's gym. The Tigers will play Pecos at 3 p.m. Other games include Seminole and Pecos varsity and JV at 12 and 1, and Seminole and Big Spring varsity and JV at 4 and 5.

Snyder junior varsity will play Big Spring at 10 and Pecos at 2.

Lamesa has been picked as the team to beat in District 3-AAA and Snyder Coach Joyce Elrod agrees, but don't count her Tigers out yet ... not by a mile.

Snyder welcomes back only one starter from last year's state championship volleyball team. Three lettermen return, and will be joined by three junior varsity starters and two others.

"Our first goal is to build a team offense and defense and get used to working together," said Elrod, who has taken Snyder to three consecutive loop titles.

"We can be quick, and we have tradition. Four of these girls know what it means to be a winning team and they have that desire to repeat it. We've got some strong hitters. And I think we'll have a strong backline defense," she adds.

Kim Harlin, 5-3 senior, is the only returning starter, but she'll be flanked by lettermen Sherry Mayes, 5-6 junior; Billie Owens, 5-6½ senior; and Suzanne Fisher, 5-4½ senior. Moving up from the junior varsity will be Patsy Casas, 5-2 junior; Beth Ellison, 5-4½ junior; Maggie Martinez, 5-1½ junior; and Shauna Pate, 5-3 junior. The ninth member is 5-5½ sophomore Lisa Cobb, perhaps the best leaper Snyder has had in several years.

Elrod got a chance to test her group in scrimmage action Thursday, and found pleasing results.

The Tigers worked out against Midland Lee (4A), Monahans (3A) and Kermit (2A). As in most scrimmages, the score was not kept. However, teams did keep track of rallies won and lost, and by that system, Snyder fared better than any of its "opponents".

"I didn't expect us to look as good as we did," Coach Elrod said. "Our offense worked very well for this early in the season. We've still got a few kinks to work out. Our serving game was also very good for this early."

Elrod also praised the frontline defense, pointing out in particular the blocking play of Cobb. Other pleasing areas were Casas' serving, Mayes and Harlin hitting, and Owens and Harlin setting.

"Most of our work will have to be done on the backline defense," noted Elrod. "I'm never really satisfied with that unless it's really good. We need to work on serve receiving, too."

With a good bunch of returning starters, Lamesa, said Elrod, still figures to be the team to beat in District 3-AAA. Of the regular season, her Tigers will face Monahans, and that will be another tough test.

"Yes, I'd say Lamesa is the team to beat in district. Monahans is the team (to beat) in regular season." She added with a smile, "But we plan to beat both of them."

Tech Portrays Giant Killer Role Saturday

By The Associated Press

Texas Tech has got to hope that a change of scenery will help their nerves.

Last year the Red Raiders were scared as they took the field in the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum against Southern California, but it turned out that they provided a bigger scare, only falling by a 17-9 score to the Trojans after leading 9-0 at halftime.

This year, the scene shifts to Lubbock and the Red Raiders hope to be more composed when they face the No. 1 ranked Trojans on their own turf.

In other action involving members of The Associated Press Top 20: No. 2 Alabama will visit Georgia Tech in a nationally televised contest; Wisconsin will be at No. 6 Purdue in a Big Ten conference game; Illinois also tests the Big Ten waters when it ventures to play No. 10 Michigan State; San Diego state visits No. 12 Missouri and Wyoming goes to the West Coast to face No. 15 Washington.

In night action involving the Top Twenty: No. 13 Stanford visits Tulane; No. 16 Houston will be at UCLA; California opens its Pacific-10 season at No. 18 Arizona State; and Brigham Young will meet No. 14 Texas A&M at Houston.

"We were really scared last year," said Texas Tech defensive back Larry Flowers. "We had seen all those great athletes on TV and we were wondering if we were going to get blown away. Then we went out on the field and found they weren't much different than any of the other teams we played."

Tech piled up a 9-0 lead on three Bill Adams field goals and Flowers said: "We went into the locker room at half-time leading and we couldn't believe it."

All-America tailback Charles White rallied the Trojans in the second half and they wore down the thin Red Raiders.

In other SWC games, Southern Methodist was a 23-point pick in an SWC matchup against Rice as the Mustangs make their debut in Texas Stadium in league play.

The Rice-SMU game will also mark the debut of the Mustangs' sensational bluechip freshman crop, including backs Eric Dickerson and Craig James. Quarterback Mike Ford of the Mustangs said the ground threat should open up All-America wide receiver Emanuel Tolbert for bombs from Ford.

Also, there has been some behind-the-scenes simmering from Rice Coach Ray Alborn and his staff who wonder if SMU Coach Ron Meyer tried to runup the score in last year's 58-0 Mustang victory.

Defense Allows For Ram Victory

DENVER (AP)-Four days earlier, the Los Angeles Rams had lost a game because of costly turnovers - two blocked punts, a fumbled punt return and three interceptions, to be exact.

Thursday night, the Rams got even when linebacker Jack Reynolds scooped up a fumble by Denver quarterback Craig Morton and staggered four yards into the end zone for the clinching touchdown in a 13-9 National Football League victory.

"I was amazed to see the ball pop out," said Reynolds after scoring the first touchdown of his 10-year pro career. "It was just lying on the floor. I concentrated on falling on the ball. Everybody down there just picked me up and moved me on my way."

Of his lurching run into the end zone, Reynolds said, "I call it run, stumble and score."

The key turnover, which came with nine minutes left in the game, was produced by Dave Elemendorf's safety blitz.

Elemendorf slammed into Morton, who had dropped back to pass from the Bronco 16-year line, and the ball came loose.

Morton had replaced Weese in the third quarter, and he promptly ignited a sluggish Bronco offense. Hitting passes of 25 yards to Jack Dolbin and 16 yards to Riley Odoms, Morton drove Denver to its only touchdown late in the third period. Dave Preston sliced 7 yards off the left side for the score, giving Denver a 9-6 lead.

But the Bronco offense was finished after that, principally because the rampaging Rams defense sacked Morton five times in the final period, including the touchdown play by Reynolds.

Richard Wins No. 16; Astros Hold Slim Lead

HOUSTON (AP)-When right-hander J.R. Richard is on the mound for the Houston Astros, the rest of the team has little to do but marvel at the pitching mastery of the major-league strikeout king.

The 6-foot-8 fireballer has struck out 258 batters this year, but more important for the Astros he is 9-2 since the All-Star break, has not been relieved in nine consecutive games, has not allowed an earned run in 37 straight innings, and has walked just 85 hitters all season.

His latest masterpiece came Thursday at the expense of the San Diego Padres, who managed just three hits while striking out nine times and losing 2-0 to the Astros, who clung tenaciously to a ½-game lead over second-place Cincinnati in the National League West.

Virdon said Richard, who now stands at 16-12 on the year, probably will start five more times, giving him a shot at the magic 20-game season.
