

Hired Hand A Spring Yen To Travel

By Glenn Shelton

With the first fresh, sweet breath of spring, a guy gets an urge to visit far away places with strange sounding names, and though spring's breath this year has been rather dusty, I, nevertheless, have developed that old yen. I'm not sure what part of the world I pine for, only that I yearn for a strange environment. I want to go away for a week or two, return tanned and tranquil, with the names of exotic places plastered all over my luggage. To be sure no man ever looked like an experienced traveler by pasting labels on his luggage; he just looks like a man who wants to look like an experienced traveler. However, it isn't the air of sophistication I want; it's the air of Hawaii, or of the Riviera, or of the West Indies.

Some colleagues are hoping to cross south of the Border down Mexico way this summer, and it may be that I can tag along. I have been to Reynosa and Juarez, but those cities are more Yank than Mexican, certainly not the proud Mexico of the conquistadores.

For some reason, Hawaii calls. I have had a strong yen for Waikiki ever since, many years ago, I heard the radio program "Hawaii Calls" via short wave from the islands themselves. The sweet ukelele music came and faded, you could hear the roll of the surf, and almost smell the wind and the fish.

SINCE THAT TIME, HAWAII HAS BEEN IN MY DREAMS WHEN SPRING BRINGS THAT CALL TO FAR AWAY PLACES. I'LL GO THERE SOMEDAY.

I suppose in springtime we all yearn to get away from the humdrum routine of everyday existence. I know I do; only the urge seems stronger this year.

OFF ON A TANGENT — The entire nation apparently was intrigued by Wichita Falls' story of "Wild Bill" Owens. At least the news item about his death and about his relations with leading citizens made the newspapers throughout the country. I clipped one myself from the Denver Post. Moreover, I heard that a national radio commentator devoted a program to the "Wild Bill" Owens story.

THE MAILBAG — "About 25 years ago Cecil Scott and I made a bet with Jack Clearman. The one who lost the bet would pay for some watermelons. I said the Continental smoke stack would fall north, and Jack said it would fall south. Yesterday Mr. Clearman came to me and asked where Cecil Scott was. I said he was in San Diego and would leave the Navy June 1 and make his home here. Then he told me someone owed him for watermelons. I had to admit I didn't know whether the stacks fell north or south. And I don't know how to find out." COMMENT: CAN ANYONE TELL J. S. Last Large Group

Cuban Stationed Soviets Going Home

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Diplomatic Affairs Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnson administration officials expect the last large group of Soviet troops in Cuba to be withdrawn within the next two or three weeks. The number due to leave is authoritatively estimated at about 3,000 officers and men—perhaps 600 to 800. The Soviet forces have been whittled down slowly over 18 months from an estimated top strength of 22,000 at the time of the nuclear missile crisis in October 1962.

While cutting back their own forces the Russians have steadily built up Prime Minister Fidel Castro's military power. One of the final acts of the Soviet troop commands in Cuba, U. S. officials understand, will be to turn over to Castro's forces the operation of 24 anti-aircraft missile bases.

The surface-to-air missiles are capable of destroying even the high-altitude U. S. U2 reconnaissance jets which regularly fly over Cuba to keep check on military installations.

In taking them over, Castro would appear to gain the power to shoot down a U2 and thus set off a new crisis with the United States—something the Russians have been avoiding.

Washington officials doubt, however, that Soviet Premier Khrushchev will give the Cubans blank-check control of the weapons, since Soviet policy

VERNON CONVENTION

Sen. Tower To Speak To Highway Group

VERNON, Tex. (Special) — U.S. Sen. John Tower of Wichita Falls will be the featured speaker at the annual banquet of the National U.S. Highway 287 Association Convention at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Empire Room of Wilbarger Memorial Auditorium here.

The Republican senator's speech will climax the first day of the convention which will officially open at 9:30 a.m. Monday with welcomes by Mayor J. R. Wright and Vernon Chamber of Commerce President Claddie Palmer. Worth Coffey will convene the early meeting with an invocation.

Registration for delegates from the 2,200-member association began at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Officials said more are expected Monday.

Laotian Junta Surrenders After One-Day Takeover

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. diplomatic sources said Monday that a right-wing military coup in neighboring Laos had collapsed a day after the overthrow of the coalition regime of neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma.

"The situation in Laos is back to where it was 36 hours ago," said an American diplomat who had been in contact with the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane.

It was generally believed in Saigon diplomatic circles that the U.S. ambassador to Laos, Leonard Unger, probably had applied pressure on the coup leaders.

In Washington, the State Department had no comment.

A group of army officers led by Gen. Kouprasith Abhay overthrew Souvanna's coalition government in a predawn coup Sunday.

Kouprasith, described as a tough anti-Communist professional soldier, set up a military executive committee of 15 people to rule the country, with himself as committee president.

The American source in Saigon said reports from Laos were still fragmentary and the picture somewhat confused, but diplomatic dispatches from Vientiane reported Souvanna had been released from house arrest and leaders of the coup had apologized for their attempt to overthrow the government.

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said in Saigon Sunday that the United States disapproved of the coup and was concerned it might upset the Geneva accord of 1962 setting up a coalition government for Laos.

Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the Laotian pro-Communist Pathet Lao, meanwhile had called on neutralist Gen. Kong Le to "cooperate resolutely" with him in overthrowing the regime set up by Kouprasith, according to a Peking broadcast.

Souvanna, half-brother of Souphanouvong, was reported placed under house arrest by Kouprasith along with at least two other neutralist leaders. Two soldiers were killed in gunfire that accompanied the coup.

Unger lost no time in confronting Kouprasith with a declaration that the United States "is categorically opposed" to any seizure of power. Unger urged immediate release of all neutralists "as a first step toward restoring the situation back to normal."

Unger raced back to Vientiane after a conference, with Rusk in Saigon.

"I have made the U.S. position clear to them," Unger said.

after a half-hour meeting with Kouprasith.

Britain and France also made known their opposition to the coup.

Kouprasith, in a brief speech outside the Defense Ministry, said the military seized power.

because Souvanna's 22-month-old coalition government had failed to reestablish peace and harmony in Laos.

Gen. Phoumi Nosovan, rightist member of Souvanna's coalition, was not mentioned among the leaders of the coup.

The rebels broadcast a statement attributed to Souvanna that he had resigned in the wake of the failure of his talks among neutralist, right-wing and pro-Communist leaders.

A state of siege, or modified martial law, was proclaimed immediately in this land-locked mountainous, jungle kingdom. Political meetings were banned. A 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. curfew was imposed in Vientiane. The airport was closed but shops remained open.

The leaders of the coup called themselves the "committee of the National Army." They were made up of 76 officers, including 18 generals. Second in command to Gen. Kouprasith was Gen. Sibho Lamphoukatal, chief of the right-wing military police.

Viet Congs Attack Area Near Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist guerrillas struck boldly within 14 miles of Saigon on Sunday while U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk conferred with officials on the course of the war in South Viet Nam.

Two companies of Viet Cong attacked an outpost on the capital's outskirts with mortars and heavy weapons in one of a series of attacks launched apparently to throw the U.S.-supported government forces off balance in four provinces south of here.

The first hint of big trouble came when five outposts around Ba Tri in the Mekong River delta's Kien Hoa Province reported they were under heavy Viet Cong attack.

Later, a Communist company slipped to within 800 yards of a U.S. military compound at My Tho city, 50 miles southwest of Saigon. Another company then launched an attack against the Tan Hoa post on the main highway between Saigon and Can Tho. Can Tho is about 100 miles southwest of Saigon. The attack nearest to Saigon followed these.

At all points, government forces quickly assembled to meet the Communist attacks and by nightfall had halted advances.

Officials said a handful of government troops had been killed in the attacks and several others were wounded. They said several Viet Cong were killed. They did not give exact numbers of casualties.

The South Vietnamese countered the attacks with heavy firepower. Along highway No. 4 running south of Saigon artillery units were firing into the countryside.

At the U.S. compound at My Tho firing was heard not far off and an armed helicopter made rocket runs into the suspected Viet Cong position nearby.

American advisers in My Tho said the Communist attacks may indicate a buildup in fighting as May Day nears.

Dad, Children And Playmate Die In Crash

CAMAS, Wash. (AP) — A pilot out for a flight with his four children and one of their playmates crashed just before noon Sunday and all six were killed.

The pilot, Lee Roggenkamp, 28, of Camas, had just circled his home some six miles north of Camas. A neighbor boy coming out of Sunday school looked up and saw a wing dip, the wing stayed down and the plane disappeared behind a hill. Then he heard a thud.

The boy, Walter Steeves, ran to where he could see the wreckage, then called the sheriff's office.

The plane hit only a few hundred yards from the Roggenkamp home, but was hidden from it by a hill. Mrs. Roggenkamp was at home but did not see it. When told of the crash she became hysterical and was hospitalized at nearby Vancouver, just north of Portland, Ore.

The plane was demolished as it struck in a brushy area on the south slope of Mt. Livingston. Coroner Ken Ellertson said all six occupants were killed outright.

Roggenkamp took off from a crude airstrip he had hacked out in the steep area, partially covered with young, Christmas-sized trees. The family's home was one of a few in a remote area.

Castro Hints Desire To Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — Fidel Castro said in an interview broadcast Sunday night he believes both the United States and Cuba should make concessions toward restoring normal relations.

Castro said he once had felt that the late President John F. Kennedy "was in the way of persuading himself of his mistakes about Cuba," and that some sort of change in U. S. policy had been in the making. He indicated Cuba is watching and waiting with regard to President Johnson's administration.

Castro's interview with Lisa Howard of the American Broadcasting Co. was recorded in Havana on Feb. 12 and appeared as part of a documentary.

"Kennedy, after three years as president of the United States had much more experience than he had at the beginning," the Cuban prime minister said. "My opinion is that he was in the way of persuading himself of his mistakes about Cuba. I do not want to make a speculation about that. But I had some evidence that some change was taking place in the mind of the government of the United States."

Oil Imports Reach Record In February

WASHINGTON (AP) — Licensed imports of crude oil and oil products totaled 1,880,341 barrels daily during February, the Interior Department reported Sunday.

Overland imports which are exempt from the mandatory oil import control program reached a record high as those from Canada totaled 313,916 barrels daily. This was the first month in which the Canadian average has exceeded 300,000 daily. The overland imports from Mexico totaled 1,566,425 barrels daily.

Licensed imports during January ran 2,420,833 barrels daily and in February 1963 they averaged 1,930,768 barrels daily. Exempt imports in January totaled 294,235 barrels daily from Canada and 26,632 barrels daily from Mexico. In February 1963 they were 281,084 barrels daily from Canada and 29,999 barrels daily from Mexico.

presently favors easing East-West tensions.

Making sure the weapons are not used by the Cubans contrary to Soviet purposes may be one of the tasks of the military mission remaining in Cuba.

President Johnson discussed the Cuban situation along with other Moscow-Washington problems in a meeting at the White House on Friday with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

Johnson is understood to have stressed that the United States would take an extremely serious view of any spread of communism beyond Cuba into another Latin-American country.

The United States is reported also to be ready to inform the organization of American states that it will not tolerate any new Cuban interference through the shipment of arms into a Latin-American country in an effort to promote revolution. The OAS is considering what to do about the case of some 3,000 tons of arms discovered in Venezuela a few months ago and declared by an OAS committee to be of Cuban origin.

The Johnson administration does not regard Cuba as any direct military threat to the United States or to any other Latin-American country. The danger is believed to lie in Cuba's operation of a base for subversion and propaganda.

The U.S. policy paper on Cuba recently developed in the State Department for use in talks with allied governments, says that Castro's military establishment is "by all odds the most powerful" in Latin America, but that its capacity is predominantly defensive.

The imminent turnover of the Soviet air defense installations, including surface-to-air missiles, the previously secret statement says, "will further increase their defensive capabilities."

"But Cuba does not possess air and sea lift sufficient to permit it to take offensive action against its neighbors. In any event we maintain overwhelming ing military forces in the area to prevent Cuba from attacking other American republics."

The paper asserts that the United States is trying to curb Castro's "will and ability to export subversion and violence to the other American states" by maintaining a "program of economic denial."

It argues for allied support of this program on the ground that economic measures offer the only practicable alternative to military action which under present circumstances the United States has ruled out.

Supporting this argument, the paper cites figures intended to prove Cuba's economic vulnerability.

Highway Group To Hear Tower

Sunday from Texas, Colorado, Wyoming and Alberta, Canada.

A directors meeting at 5 p.m. Sunday at the Suez Q Restaurant set the stage for Monday's three business sessions. Mark McKinley, of Dubois, Wyo., read a letter from Sen. Gayle McGee, Rep.-Wyo., stating that he would sponsor legislation to keep open U.S. highways 20 and 287 through Yellowstone National Park and the Teton National Forest.

Howard King of Wichita Falls, field representative for the association, reported on membership at the Sunday meeting and said it is likely the association will enjoy its biggest membership in history this year.

Ike Parks of Dumas, Tex., president, lauded Vernon for convention facilities and organization and said he looks forward to the meeting as the best ever.

To conclude the director's session, Ralph Glaze, manager of the Colonial Restaurant at the River Oaks Motel in Wichita Falls, was welcomed as a new director.

After the opening Monday the two business sessions of the morning will be interrupted only by a 10:45 a.m. coffee break. J. Weldon Watson, head of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission, will speak at a luncheon preceding a third business session at 2 p.m.

Also at 2 p.m., Ike Parks, Joe Meador and Taylor Dabney will leave Vernon to meet Sen. Tower's party en route to Vernon.

Honoree At Coffee
The Senator will be the guest of honor at a coffee from 3 to 3:30 p.m. Monday in the Forum Room of the auditorium, sponsored by the Wilbarger County Republican Women's Club. The coffee is open to the public.

Vernon Jaycees will sponsor a social hour preceding the banquet.

R. H. Coffee, chairman of the highway committee for the Vernon Chamber of Commerce, will present Sen. Tower and Norman Lowder of Vernon Manufacturing Co. will serve as master of ceremonies.

At 6 a.m. Tuesday, association members will be guests of Humble Co. at a cowboy breakfast at Allingham Park with a guided tour of the Santa Rosa Stables and Waggoner Ranch to follow.

Hal Woodward, of Coleman, Texas highway commissioner, will attend the Tuesday session of the convention, which opens at 10 a.m. The commissioner will speak at a luncheon and an afternoon business session will conclude the convention.

Traffic Calls

Three traffic accidents were reported to the Wichita Falls Police Department Sunday. One mishap injured an 11-year-old pedestrian.

Clifton Apple, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Potter of 304 Fillmore, was struck by a vehicle driven by Patrick Joseph King of No. 3, Surry Circle at 300 Fillmore about 5:05 p.m. The lad was examined and released at Bethania Hospital.

Other accidents were:

At 4300 Cunningham, involving Michael Hicks of 4612 Cascades and a parked car owned by Ralph Nichols of 4346 Cunningham.

And at Avenue F and Bell, involving Leta Jane Mitchell of 1907 Elizabeth and Lonzo C. Underwood of 2206½ Joline.

Fire Calls

A grass fire and a trash fire were the only emergency calls reported to the Wichita Falls Fire Department Sunday.

MENTAL HEALTH WEEK SET APRIL 26-MAY 2

By HAZEL KOHL

Mental Health Week, April 26-May 2, will be observed with five days of open house activities at the Wichita Falls State Hospital beginning April 27 and ending May 1, officials said.

Although no formal open house activities are planned this year, hospital officials have invited the public to tour the facilities.

Tours may be arranged by contacting the Volunteer Services Department or the Nursing Service Department. Persons touring the hospital will be taken to several wards, the Occupational Therapy Department, Recreational Therapy Department and other points of interest.

Miss Beulah Ann Johnson, volunteer services coordinator, said the five-day period was arranged to enable residents to tour the facility at their own leisure.

The hospital has launched new patient programs, including business courses to enable the patients to make their own way when they are released.

Some of the vocational programs include typing and shorthand, and a nurses aid program.

Advanced Course
The nurses aid program is the home nursing course approved by the American Red Cross and on completion the patients are presented a certificate and a pin by the ARC. An advanced nursing program also is offered.

Patients taking the course also work in their own wards to help attendants care for other patients. All work is supervised.

Since this course has been offered at the hospital one patient has been placed on a part-time position and three patients have been released to clerical positions in the hospital for advanced training under normal work routines.

Other plans for Mental Health Week observances have included a full month of speaking engagements for members of the Wichita Mental Health Association.

Mrs. George Huntington, executive secretary, presented two films April 1 at the Fowler School entitled "Community Mental Health" and "The Hickory Stick." These films were shown to members of the Fowler P-TA home and life study group.

Programs Presented

Ellis Barham, psychiatric social worker for the North Texas Mental Health Center, spoke on "School Difficulties" at Ben Milam School on April 8 and at W. F. George High School in Iowa Park on April 9.

Two speaking engagements were scheduled by Dr. Paul Grisom, psychiatrist at Sheppard Air Force Base. On April 15 he spoke to the faculty of Wichita Falls High School and on April 28 he will speak to the 1935 Study Club in the home of Mrs. N. A. Burnside, 1609 Lucile.

The Wichita Mental Health Association has qualified persons in its speaker's bureau who are available to P-TA groups, study groups and other organizations.

An adequate film library is also maintained by the association, which has headquarters at 1604 Tenth.

YARBOROUGH ACCUSED OF TAKING ESTES AID

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — Gordon McLendon, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate, said Sunday there is no question that Sen. Ralph Yarborough received money from Billie Sol Estes — "it is a question of who is lying about the amount of money."

Yarborough has described as "an infamous lie" reports by the Dallas Morning News that he received $50,000 in cash from Estes.

McLendon made his statement concerning Yarborough and Estes in an address before the state convention of the Young Democrats here.

"The question here is not whether Yarborough took money from Estes, for that he has admitted; it is a question of who is lying about the amount of money he took from Estes," McLendon said.

"Later this week, I will, on statewide television, bring you new revelation and facts in the Estes-Yarborough relationships which Yarborough will not like," the Dallas radio executive said.

Three Wilbarger Schools Renew Teacher Contracts

VERNON, Tex. (Special) — Faculty contracts have been renewed at Harrold, Oklahoma and Lockett schools, spokesmen have announced.

Dates for graduation exercises have also been announced, with baccalaureate services scheduled at 11 a.m. May 10 and commencement at 8 p.m. May 14 at Harrold and baccalaureate May 17 and commencement May 21 at both Lockett and Oklahoma.

Most faculty members are returning, with perhaps the largest number of changes anticipated at Oklahoma, where the post of the late Superintendent Milton Diltz is being filled by Mrs. Diltz.

Mrs. Diltz said she will not return this fall, first grade teacher Miss Trixie Barham is retiring, and both Principal Monte Pannell and Coach Billy Page have announced plans to leave.

Faculty members at Oklahoma whose contracts have been renewed are Mrs. Edith Cato, second grade; Mrs. Ina Martin, third grade; Mrs. Joe Kinchloe, fourth grade; Gene Brock, sixth; Donald Davis, high school social studies; Jed Dennis, vocational agriculture; Mrs. L. O. Miller, English-Spanish; Mrs. Dana Eure, business and Mrs. G. C. Turey, home economics.

At Harrold Superintendent Keith Sales, whose contract was renewed earlier in the year, reported the following teachers have been employed for the coming year:

Mrs. W. A. Newsom, first; Mrs. Robert Smith, second; Mrs. Mary Gross, third; Miss Ginger Birdwell, fourth and fifth; Mrs. Geraldine Webb, fifth and sixth; George Heck, mathematics and girls' coach; Mrs. Pearl Peterson, homemaking; Bill Jones, vocational agriculture; W. R. Newsom, science; Bob Gossett, English and Don Shearn, principal and coach.

At Lockett, Superintendent Leon Shook reported that Mrs. E. E. McAdams, third grade teacher, is retiring; Miss Nancy Young, fifth grade teacher, is moving in order to be closer to home at Winters, and James McCauley asked not to be re-employed so that he might accept a fellowship at West Texas State College next year.

Expected to be back, in addition to the superintendent, include Mrs. Reed Lewis, first; Mrs. Susie Justin and Mrs. May Echols, second; Mrs. Kirby White, fourth; Mrs. Jewel Ross and Kenneth Selm, fifth; Kirby White, sixth; Rogers Morgan, elementary principal; Louis Boynton, high school principal; Mrs. Louis Boynton, English-Spanish; Mrs. Mack Turner, English-commercial subjects; L. P. Taylor, vocational agriculture; Mrs. Pauline Wallace, homemaking and Donald West, mathematics.

Bus-Tank Crash Takes Two Lives

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two women were killed and 28 other persons were injured or shaken up Sunday in a collision of a Greyhound bus and chemical tank truck in nearby East Pittsburgh.

Borough Commissioner Joseph Heckel said the bus was carrying members of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Chester Henry, about 62, of the Pittsburgh district, was dead on arrival at a hospital. The other dead woman was not immediately identified.

Eighteen persons were admitted to three hospitals. Ten others were examined or treated for minor injuries and released.

The bus driver, Samuel Weist of suburban Glenshaw, was admitted to McKeesport Hospital in serious condition. At least one other person was listed in serious condition.

The crash occurred on the Westinghouse Memorial Bridge during rainfall shortly before noon.

The bridge carries Route 30 over a valley near the Monongahela River, about ten miles east of Pittsburgh.

Still taking a "Slow Motion" Laxative?

Many people assume that a laxative must take six to eight hours to bring relief. And it's true that many laxatives—pills, gum, medicated chocolate—often take that long.

But not Sal Hepatica! Sal Hepatica is the fast-acting laxative that's made to help you start feeling better right away. It quickly sparkles away gas, pain, heartburn, and scum—each due to gastric acidity—

ANN LANDERS SAYS

Generous Wife Should Demand Same Virtue In Her Husband

Dear Ann Landers: Jake and I have been married 12 years. He is a considerate man who loves his children, his home and me. A woman couldn't ask for a better husband. There is only one thing that bothers me. I think I have the answer figured out but I want your opinion before I settle on it.

Jake and I sleep in a big bed—what you might call a king-size. He always has been a restless sleeper, but lately he is more restless than ever. He has hit me a few times in his sleep. The next morning he doesn't remember anything. Last week he almost broke my nose.

I know Jake used to sleep with his brother Max when he was a kid and they fought all the time. (They still do.) I think when Jake hits me he is dreaming of his childhood and he thinks he is hitting Max. May I have your opinion?—NOT MAD

Dear Not Mad: After 12 years I would hope your husband does not think he is still sleeping with his brother. But dreams often take us back a good many years, and it may well be that Jake is reliving his childhood. You are (to understate it) generous to give him the benefit of the doubt. Jake should be equally generous and buy you twin beds.

Dear Ann Landers: Today two friends dropped by and four women telephoned to ask, "What's new?" The last gal I talked to said, "Liz, you know everything! You're better than the newspaper."

This caused me to stop and take stock of myself. Am I the town big mouth? Is this why friends come over? Is this why I get at least five telephone calls a day? I hate to think so, but I'm afraid I'm true.

I love people. I'm not vicious and I wouldn't call myself a gossip, but I just can't seem to keep

Woodson-Jones Wedding Date Set

Scholarship Is Established By Auxiliary

A scholarship fund of $100 has been established for the Bethania Hospital Licensed Vocational Nursing school by the hospital auxiliary.

The annual scholarship was voted at the Friday morning meeting of the auxiliary in the hospital cafeteria.

The surgical camera and post-operative pump recently purchased by the auxiliary were displayed by Sister Honesta, administrator. Dr. Blair Coleman spoke briefly.

Mrs. Jay Norwood, publicity chairman, told of plans for the Texas Association of Hospital Auxiliaries convention in Austin May 17-20, to which she will be a delegate. Mmes. Walter B. Whiting, Warren T. Kable, W. F. Boling, Margaret Hancock, and Malcolm Putty also made reports.

Mrs. Boling said new uniform badges are available now and Mrs. Putty said the current membership is 200. Mrs. Hancock and Sister Honesta told of new magazine subscriptions. Mrs. Carter McGregor Sr. conducted the meeting.

The American Bridge Teachers Assn. Quarterly really has a lot of instructive hands in it. Here is one contributed by Art Glatt of Chicago.

Art has been a top bridge player for at least 25 years and has just started teaching the game.

South arrives at reasonable four spade contract. West opens with the ace, plays one round of trumps just to pull his opponents' teeth and continues by leading a club to dummy's king and ruffing the last club.

At this point many players would try the diamond finesse. East would win the trick with the king and return the suit.

Eventually declarer would have to lead hearts and assuming the defenders didn't drop dead they would take three heart tricks and set the hand.

South would complain that his finesses never worked and someone would deal the next hand.

If you haven't already seen the winning line of play, here it is. You start out the same way, but when you get ready for a red suit you play the ace and queen of diamonds.

It doesn't matter where the king is or what happens after the king wins. A heart lead automatically gives declarer a heart trick, a diamond or club allows him to ruff in one hand and discard from the other.

♥-CARD Sense-♠

Q—The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass

You, South, hold:
♠ A 2 7 6 5 4 ♠ A Q 4 3 2
What do you lead?

A—Any trump. Any other suit lead might cost you a trick and in addition this lead will take care of possible ruffs in dummy.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You still hold the same hand. West passes his partner's diamond opening and your partner bids one spade. What do you do?

MRS. C. K. MCCONNELL

McConnell-Gilchrist Wedding Vows Recited

HENRIETTA, Tex. (Special)—Miss Glynda Rhea Gilchrist became the bride of Charles Kirkpatrick McConnell of Wichita Falls Saturday in a ceremony held in the Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church in Wichita Falls at 4 p.m. Dr. Earle Crawford, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myers Barker. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Reesor of Wichita Falls.

An arrangement of blue and white carnations trailing with English ivy decorated the altar area.

Mrs. John Juliuson, organist, played at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, R. F. Gilchrist of Wichita Falls, wore a street length wedding dress of silk or organza over taffeta. Applique motifs of guipure lace accented the front panel of the full skirt and circled the waistline. A soft dressmaker bow finished the back. She wore a veil of illusion attached to a pearl crown, and carried a single orchid on a white ribbon.

Miss Suzanne Yates of Henrietta was maid of honor. She wore a blue silk dress and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Workshop Plans Made By Sorority

Delta Nu chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will direct the scrapbook forum at the sorority's area workshop Saturday at Floral Heights Methodist Church.

The workshop was planned at a meeting with Mrs. Roy McDaniel, 2702 Lebanon, Thursday. The rituals, banquet and dance to be held May 2 also were discussed.

Mrs. Wayne Trotter, president, will be Children's Center representative for the Faith City Council during next year. Mrs. Williams Scott gave the program and Mrs. Robert Storti and Mrs. Meredith Gibbs led rituals.

Clavier Dance Club Meets For Luncheon

Forty members of the Clavier Dance Club met for lunch Friday in the Garden Room of the Country House. Hostesses were Mmes. Dustin Fillmore, Bob Long and Steve Ebner.

A large basket filled with potted marigolds and garden tools decorated the head table, and other tables held pepper plants and packages of marigold seeds.

Zundy P-TA Has Program, Installs Eight

The Zundelwitz music department presented a program Thursday when the P-TA met for installation of officers.

On the program was the eighth grade choral group directed by Mrs. James Wallace, the band directed by Wayne Griggs, and the orchestra directed by Richard Affannato.

New officers are Mmes. Roland and Gouldy, president; Robert Drake, Ed Silk, Walter Crump, Robert Murphy and John Worthen, vice presidents one through five; Forrest Collins, secretary; and R. B. Riddle, treasurer.

They were installed by Mrs. Marshall Hughes who was introduced by Mrs. Joe McDonald, outgoing president.

Dudley Gordon, principal, thanked the past president and her board for all their work.

Etiquette This Is Tactful Way To Extend Invitations

By AMY VANDERBILT
"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I am sending out invitations for a church wedding which is to include the entire family. However, there will be an evening reception and I do not want to include the younger children. There will be separate reception cards, which will be enclosed with the invitations, but since the parents are invited to both I cannot omit the cards which I would do if I were going to invite some people only to the church service."

"I wonder if it would be in keeping with the 'rules' to enclose the reception cards in envelopes and to put the names of those who are invited to the reception on these small envelopes—thus eliminating the younger children.—Mrs. S.E., Denver, Colo."

This seems a very sensible solution indeed. I discussed your idea with Tiffany and they agree that although they have never seen it done this way, perhaps your idea should set a helpful new precedent. I will work it, in time, into my book.

Chinese Dinner Party

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I have been studying Chinese cooking and I am going to have a Chinese dinner party. Chinese desserts, as you know, are very simple—fortune cookies, almond cakes, kumquats, pineapple and that's about it. I would like to have an elegant and rather rich dessert that is in keeping with my menu (not something like apple pie which wouldn't fit in at all). Can you give me an idea?—D.S., San Francisco."

Here is an idea that I picked up in San Francisco myself recently, but it had arrived there via a friend's visit to New York. To make it, toast some flaked coconut lightly. Put some in the bottom of a deep dessert dish. Add a scoop of French vanilla ice cream, drizzle chocolate sauce around the sides. Add more toasted coconut and pour a tablespoon (or more) of Coffee House liqueur over all, and serve.

Woman's Club Starts Memorial Fund

GRAHAM, Tex. (Special)—Graham Woman's Club has established a Memorial Fund. A book of recognition will be displayed in the foyer of the Woman's Building. Names and biographies of loved ones and friends memorialized by donations will be recorded, as well as the name of the donor. Contributions will go to help promote the welfare of the Woman's Club. Mrs. W. E. Barron, will be in charge of the fund.

Mangum B&PW Club Elects Officers

MANGUM, Okla. (Special)—Mrs. Elmo Hurst has been installed as president of Business and Professional Women's club at a meeting held in the Civic room of the First National Bank.

Other officers to serve with her are Mrs. Golden Bratton, first vice president; Miss Ruth Miller, second vice president; Mrs. Vernon Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Fleta Hughes, treasurer; Mrs. G. R. Smith, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Minette Hodge, parliamentarian.

FRANCES PHIPPS

Miss Phipps, Charles Beach Are Engaged

MANGUM, Okla. (Special)—Mrs. Kent Crosbie Phipps announces the engagement of her daughter, Frances Sharon to Charles L. Beach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Beach, Altus. The wedding will be June 12.

Miss Phipps is a graduate of Mangum High School, the University of Oklahoma and Austin Theological Seminary. She is teaching English in Central junior high school at Altus.

Beach is a graduate of Altus High School and Oklahoma University with a degree in geology and is employed in the Altus office of the State Highway Department.

Electra Flower Show Postponed

ELECTRA, Tex. (Special)—The Electra Garden Club council announces that the annual spring show set for April 21 has been postponed. Due to the late freeze, flowers are not blooming, and Mrs. D. C. Perkins, chairman of the publicity committee, announced that the show will be held later.

Four garden clubs make up the Council.

Officers Installed By Pythian Sisters

Mrs. Lena Emmert, temple deputy, installed Mrs. B. V. Perkins, treasurer, and Mrs. Pearl Stewart, manager, at a meeting of Lone Star Temple 13, Pythian Sisters, in the IOOF Hall Thursday night.

Mmes. Bob Crowell, W. C. R. Smith, O. B. Linville, Ben Modgling, B. V. Perkins, Emmert, Tessie Humphries and Stewart opened the temple in ritualistic form.

Mrs. James E. Scott, most excellent chief, presided.

Mmes. Charles E. Pfeifer, Rosa Sloan and Perkins were hostesses for the social hour which followed the business meeting. The Knights of Pythias Lodge 49 were guests.

Mrs. Humphries and Mrs. Linville were prize winners.

Story Tellers Entertain Artcele Club

ELECTRA, Tex. (Special)—Three members of Wichita Falls story leagues entertained the Artcele Study Club Friday at a meeting held in the First Christian Church.

Mrs. Gene Sorley gave a dramatic reading, "The Saga of Pecos Bill." Mrs. J. T. Johnson told a humorous story, "Ma's Buttered Aunt" and Mrs. Don Bethel told a Western story, "The Last Days of Broncho Pete."

Mrs. J. I. Branch of Wichita Falls, formerly of Electra, presented the program.

Mrs. H. E. King presided. Hostesses were Mmes. J. H. Power, Minnie B. Power, Leonard Gillum, C. H. Hudson, Mary Cabe, Annie Powell, Frances Massengill, Fred Warren, Earl Hemby, Lee Roy Reynolds, J. J. Hagan, King and Branch.

A refreshment plate was served.

Club Hears Paper On Education

"Education in England" was the title of Mrs. Fred Cone's paper given for the Thursday Study Club's meeting with Mrs. J. M. Wilkinson, 4508 Del Rio.

She said that before 1944, secondary education was essentially for the elite. Then the close of World War II brought about a new attitude in education.

Mrs. Ben Ludy, president, told of her trip to Fort Worth with a committee interested in the museum which the Junior Service League is promoting for Wichita Falls.

The club's award, given by the Affiliated Clubs for 100 per cent attendance at the luncheon, was added to the Woman's Forum memorial fund in memory of Mrs. C. F. Whitehill.

Luncheon was served to 14 members.

The next meeting will be a picnic May 7 at the home of Mrs. Randel Grubbs, 2508 Amherst, with Mrs. Beulah Elliott, assistant hostess.

"Cataract, the clouding of the lens within the eye, is the greatest single cause of blindness in the country, and frequently afflicts older people", according to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Scranton Spots '64 Campaign Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania predicted Sunday that the Johnson administration's foreign policies will be a prime issue in the presidential campaign.

Scranton, who has said he would accept an honest draft for the GOP presidential nomination, said civil rights, budget balancing and "morals in government"—as represented by the Bobby Baker case—also will figure in the outcome.

The governor was asked on "From the People," a taped radio program by Radio Press International, for comment on U.S. policies in South Viet Nam, where Henry Cabot Lodge, winner of the New Hampshire GOP presidential primary, represents the Democratic administration as U.S. ambassador.

"From what I know from looking at the outside," Scranton replied, "I would say we are in serious jeopardy indeed, and this is quite clear to everybody I think, and if we're going to win that struggle down there we're going to have to do a great deal, probably more effort than is presently going on."

But Scranton opposed a proposal by Richard M. Nixon, a possible candidate for the Republican nomination, to extend the war to North Viet Nam. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., an announced candidate, also favors a toughening of U.S. tactics in the guerrilla war.

Scranton added he doesn't think the New Hampshire vote for Lodge involved an endorsement of Viet Nam policies. "I think this was very much an endorsement of Ambassador Lodge, however," he said. "He made a very fine impression on the nation when he was at the United Nations and I think a lot of people feel he would therefore be a very capable president."

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, said on a separate television program taped with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., that if Lodge is going to "continue to be a candidate—and I'm sure he's a candidate regardless of what is said—he will have to come home."

Appearing on a taped television program, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said that while he has no second choice for the presidential nomination, Lodge, Scranton or Nixon would be acceptable to him.

Asked if the New York delegation might go to Scranton in case Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller can't win the nomination, Javits replied that the group will go where Rockefeller himself goes.

Britain Slapped On Common Mart

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Britain's efforts to keep within arm's reach of the European Common Market suffered a new blow during the week, diplomatic sources said Saturday.

This time the reversal was in the economic field. France thwarted a British move to coordinate her aid and trade policies toward Latin America with the Common Market six.

The French acted in the council of the Western European Union—WEU, an organization originally set up eight years ago to coordinate defense matters.

Member Country Britain is a member of WEU along with the six Common Market countries — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler led the British delegation which came to Brussels with plans for the six and Britain to mesh their Latin-American programs.

France, represented only by a secretary of state for foreign affairs, L. M. Habib-Delmoncle, said in effect: "No dice." Delmoncle stressed that the meeting was strictly consultative and had no power to take such a decision.

Entry Vetoed

France vetoed Britain's entry into the Common Market in January 1963. Since then the French have rejected a Common Market trade tied with Britain, and nipped in the bud Britain's bid to play a part in future negotiations for European political unity. Now came the third and latest blow—the turn-down of the idea of cooperating in economic relations with Latin America.

France's President Charles de Gaulle has his own plans for aiding the Latin-American countries, diplomats pointed out. He visited Mexico last month and, his health permitting, wants to make other tours in Latin America.

Privately, some British diplomats seem discouraged about their country's prospects of forming closer links with Western Europe. These men believe De Gaulle's block-Britain policies will live on long after the general has left public office.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

Q. I paid my maid $30 in cash, plus 10 transportation tokens worth 25 cents each during last quarter. Should I report her wages for social security and if so, should I include the car tokens?

A. (Since you did not pay her as much as $50 in cash during the quarter, no social security report is due.) Cash does not include payments in kind, such as board and lodging, clothing, car tokens, transportation passes or tickets. Carfare is counted only if paid in cash.

Q. I have a domestic worker who works 6 hours every Saturday and is paid cash wages of $39.00 a quarter. She is given cash of one dollar weekly for transportation. Am I required to report this domestic worker?

A. Yes. The $13 in cash you pay her for transportation brings her cash wages up to a little more than $50, the minimum amount that must be reported for social security.

Q. Where does a domestic employer get information and the necessary papers to file?

A. Forms may be requested through your social security office or directly from the District Director of Internal Revenue in your area.

Q. Are domestic employers required to issue an annual statement to domestic workers?

A. Just as any other employer.

McMackin Asks For Tax Office

George McMackin, a man with long experience in accounting and bookkeeping, has announced his candidacy for the post of Wichita County tax assessor and collector.

McMackin, who is 47-years-old, was born in Hill County, Tex., in 1916, then moved to live on a farm near Sunset in Montague County. He came to Wichita Falls with his family in 1918, where his father, the late Rev. McMackin, constructed the family home place in which his mother and stepfather still reside.

He married the former Lois Sadler of Fannin County in 1939. The McMackins have a son Eddie, who is a student at the University of Texas. A second son, Bobby, is deceased.

Both McMackin and his wife Lois have been active in intermediate youth work at First Baptist Church in Wichita Falls, where they have been members for approximately 20 years.

McMackin was educated at two colleges and one state university, and has taken numerous correspondence courses. He is currently taking a certified public accountant's coaching course, leading to a CPA certificate, from a leading university in this field. He was a public school teacher-principal for two years in Southern Oklahoma; an accountant-tax consultant for 19 years; and was manager of another Wichita County Courthouse office for three years. The position from which he recently resigned was one of bookkeeping and the supervision of bookkeeping.

McMackin stated he had been a citizen of Wichita County for 24 years.

In announcing his candidacy, McMackin made the following statement: "We need more families employed in this county. County officials should lead out in encouraging full employment. Perhaps our citizens would appreciate it if officials would refrain from hiring close relatives and members of immediate family while our employment situation is so acute.

"The opposition has experienced difficulty initiating a whispering campaign. They unsuccessfully tried to start a rumor that I was dishonest with county money, but it was pointed out that the county auditor would have discovered any irregularity in his regular monthly examination. This accusation should have been brought out at this time for political purposes. I defy anyone to show where I have done anything dishonest. I have respected my official dignity by refusing to knowingly solicit votes from his family or employees. I would appreciate if he would operate under the same code of ethics and refrain from harassing my family in this respect. Some areas should be sacred, even to politicians. Other than the above, I have no criticism of my worthy opponent.

"I wish to assure my many friends who petitioned me to run for the tax office, that some of the things I hear, if true, are most unfortunate concerning the opposition but will not be repeated by me or my family. I cannot speak for my host of friends but I sincerely trust that they will assist me in keeping the discussions on a high moral plane.

"Good business judgment dictates that the large majority of present deputies should be retained for proper operation of the office. I have never required a county employee under my supervision to work one minute overtime. Overtime pay in any county office is not provided. My personal overtime was volunteered and not compulsory. It was in the interest of my many friends throughout this county. I propose, during the rush periods in the tax office, that my time will continue to be at the disposal of the people of our county as it has for the past years.

"The deputies' schedule will be arranged in a manner designed to reduce public inconvenience to a minimum while strictly adhering to the 40 hour week for which each deputy is paid.

"I will be happy to retain, if practical, the snap-out ad valorem tax form recently placed in use. In another department of this courthouse, I started the use of snap-outs some six months before they were used by the ad valorem tax deputies. I am happy that the ad valorem deputies were alert in following our lead. Each operation will be judged on the basis of its necessity and legally improved if possible.

"Public officials should be interested in economy regardless of who receives the glory. I have no criticism of the present operation in regard to economy, but if elected, I will enter office with economy in mind. Where savings can be accomplished, I will pursue them. I worked with the district clerk and judges to bring about a saving in the expense of notifying jurors. Now completed, this system is saving hundreds of taxpayers' dollars every month. (Jurors are now notified by 4 cents postcard rather than by registered and certified mail as previously. Registered mail currently costs 75 cents. You may calculate the saving if you wish.)"

Five Convicts Back In Pen

PLATTSBROUGH, Neb. (AP)—Five men who crawled through a tunnel to freedom from the Nebraska Penitentiary Saturday night were captured near the Missouri River on the state's eastern border Sunday afternoon.

An airborne state trooper, alerted by a sheriff from across the stream, landed in a helicopter and took two of the men into custody.

Shortly after, two others were captured in the wooded game preserve area northeast of Plattsmouth. Frank Hancock, 25, of Lincoln, Neb., was caught shortly thereafter.

Highway Patrol Sgt. James Kontos apprehended Richard Hubert Ruhr, 38, of Omaha, and Richard Duane Lavender, 23, of Kankakee, Ill., after they had been sighted from the Iowa side of the river by Sheriff Ed Barkus of Mills County.

Dutch Royalty Snubs Wedding Of Princess

PARIS (AP)—Princess Irene of the Netherlands will marry Prince Carlos de Bourbon Parma in Rome on April 29 but Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard will not attend the ceremony.

Announcement of the place and date of the wedding was made Sunday by the Bourbon Parma family. A few hours later the private secretary to the queen announced in the Hague, Netherlands, that she and Prince Bernhard would not attend the ceremony. This was construed as an obvious snub.

A spokesman for the Bourbon Parma family admitted that relations were heavily strained between the two families. Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard were informed of the wedding arrangements just shortly before the announcement was made.

The announcement from The Hague drily said that the parents of the bride have rejected proposals that they attend the wedding in St. Mary Major church in Rome.

The usually stolid Juliana has been seen publicly in tears over the carrying-ons of her daughter. Her Dutch subjects have lined up virtually solidly with her and gave her a cheering welcome when she came home from a state visit to Mexico on Saturday.

Princess Irene, who roused the political ire of the conservative Dutch government by casting her lot with a pretender to the Spanish throne, made a quick trip from a country castle to Paris on Saturday to have a look at her wedding gown. When the announcement was made she was at the Besson Chateau, near Moulins in western France, with Prince Carlos.

The wedding announcement specified that "the nuptial benediction will be given in the name of His Holiness Pope Paul VI, by His Eminence Paul Cardinal Giobbe, specially delegated by the holy-father for this occasion."

Princess Irene was converted to Catholicism last year, breaking with the traditional Protestant faith of the Dutch royal family.

Princess Irene and Don Carlos visited Rome earlier this month and were received by Pope Paul VI.

Rumors flew around Europe that Queen Juliana and Pope Paul were both distressed after the interview. The rumors said that Queen Juliana was hurt because Princess Irene had slipped out of Holland unannounced and flew to Rome without her knowledge or blessing. At the same time, it was reported that Pope Paul had understood that he was receiving the couple at the request of the Dutch royal family.

More GOP Like Goldwater, But Nixon Topped New Poll

By RELMAN MORIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has topped a nationwide poll of Republican county chairmen and other party leaders as the most likely winner of the GOP nomination for president in 1964.

However, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona ran far ahead, among 1,606 Republicans participating in the poll, as their personal preference for the nomination.

The survey was conducted by The Associated Press and results were released Sunday. Correspondents in 50 states and the District of Columbia questioned more than 3,000 county chairmen, vice chairmen, town leaders and other party officials. The survey began April 1.

The questionnaire contained two parts—"Who is your personal preference to be the nominee?" and "Whom do you think the convention will nominate?"

Following are the results:
Most Likely to be Nominated
Nixon—526
Goldwater—427
Lodge—189
Scranton—159
Rockefeller—50
Others—19
No opinion expressed—223
Your Personal Preference
Goldwater—722
Nixon—301
Lodge—193
Scranton—191
Rockefeller—84
Others—27
No preference—88

This was the third such survey by The Associated Press. The first was taken last October and the second in December after the assassination of President Kennedy.

Goldwater was a runaway winner in the first poll. Then his political stock dropped sharply in the December findings, after President Johnson took office. However, he continued to lead the field until Nixon passed him in one part of the April survey. Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to South Viet Nam, and Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton both received some support in the first two polls. In the latest, they received many more votes—although, like Nixon, they have not campaigned in any primary elections nor said they are candidates for the nomination.

New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, an avowed candidate, ran last in October and lost ground in both the December and April polls.

The Republican nominating convention is scheduled to open in San Francisco on July 13.

Delegate votes total 1,308, with 655 needed for nomination.

Goldwater now has 182 first-ballot votes from delegates instructed, pledged or favorable to his candidacy. No other potential nominee approaches this figure as of today.

A striking feature of the newest AP poll was the large number of respondents—223—who replied "no opinion" to the question of who is most likely to win the nomination.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

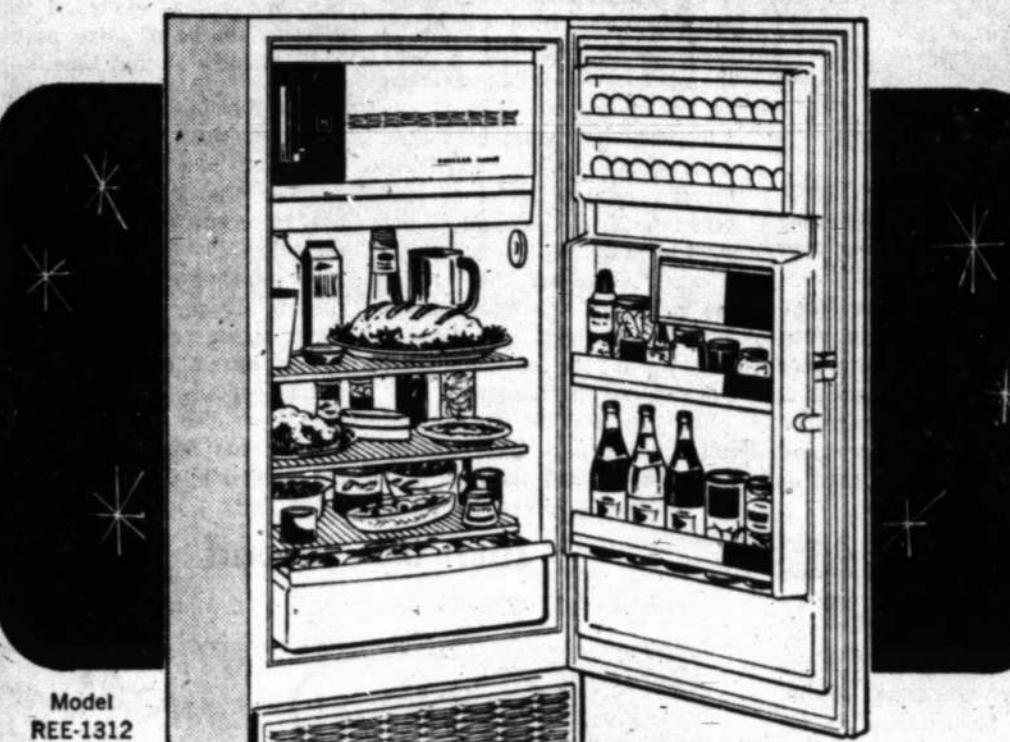

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. — And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing. All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body. This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

Bards Monument

It was Robert Browning who exclaimed, "Oh, to be in England now, that April's there," but the words might well be echoed by the shade of William Shakespeare—especially this April marking the 400th anniversary of his birth.

What would the Bard think of the much ado being made over him, not only in England but around the world, as schools and colleges and dramatic groups perform his plays in greater profusion than ever before? "O, wonderful," he might say, "wonderful, and most wonderful wonderful! and yet again wonderful, and after that out of all whooping."

No doubt he would be impressed to hear his words bounced trippingly off a circling satellite—though it was his Puck who said, "I'll put a girdle round the earth in forty minutes."

No doubt it would amaze him to learn that in the barbarous wilderness of America a magic box will carry the voice and face of the eminent Dr. Frank Baxter in 26 half-hour broadcasts devoted to him, and that one electronic performance of a play will reach millions more than all the groundlings who ever cheered a Hal or hissed a Iago at ye Globe Theatre.

He would be no less astonished at the many volumes written by generations of pundits to prove he did not write his plays at all. One suspects, however, that Will's sympathies would be with "the winning schoolboy, with his satchel and shining morning face, creeping like a snail unwillingly to school" to struggle, as countless others have before him, over Shakespeare.

As every schoolboy knows, English literature means Shakespeare. It is often overlooked, though, as writer John Greenway has pointed out, that the England of Elizabeth I, with a population half the size of metropolitan New York, most of it illiterate, produced half a dozen playwrights of the same class as Shakespeare.

But this is Shakespeare's year; and it may surprise many to learn he was not always held in such esteem. The prudish 19th century did not think him quite nice.

One Thomas Bowdler added a word to the language—bowdlerize—by preparing sterile, expurgated versions of Shakespeare fit for proper young gentlemen and ladies.

In colleges, he was studied, if at all, under the subject of philology, where his grammar and syntax were analyzed to death.

It was not until the latter part of the century that he was appreciated again for what he was—a poetic genius, an amazing man of an amazing time.

We like to think that Shakespeare would be pleased to learn that we of the 20th century are perhaps spiritually closer to him than even his contemporaries were and that to us, as it was to him, "the play's the thing."

Finding The Way

You Are Responsible

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

"Who's responsible here?" That question, asked by a policeman at the height of a neighborhood disturbance, can be repeated in any number of situations. Look at the bumper-to-bumper traffic of many of our highways and you can ask, "Who's responsible here?" Examine the acres of below par housing and slums and then ask, "Who's responsible here?"

When a parent admits that he has seen little of his teen-age children and tells a teacher that "the school sees more of my child than I do," the question can be asked, "Who's responsible here?"

One of the difficult explorations for mankind is this understanding of responsibility. Dr. H. Richard Niebuhr believed that the idea was of very recent origin as a symbol of our acts. Ancient words such as duty, virtue, goodness and morality were common; but "responsibility" was a newer word. Yet the search for responsibility has been an experience as old as mankind. "Am I my brother's keeper?" was Cain's question.

As civilization began to express itself, man was constantly confronting the fact that while a few might be guilty, all could be responsible.

If there is a community breakdown or a loss of morale, you must ask the groups of that community what they have done to establish morale. You won't ask the federal government.

Basic to the development of this sense of responsibility is a new understanding of our involvement in communities, because we have developed a personal relationship to eternal values. Personal responsibility is the extension of the self not only to one's fellows, but also to values which give meanings to all persons. That's why the ancients spoke of responsibility in these terms:

"We ought so to fear and to love God so as to do certain things. Our honesty, integrity, relationship to our fellows, is dependent upon this initial responsibility to God. A man loves God, therefore he doesn't lie or steal."

Suppose someone from outside this planet came into the midst of many of the national and international tensions and asked the question, "Who's responsible here?"

It is the conviction of a mature faith that while some are guilty, all are responsible. It is to this quality of extraordinary responsibility in the ordinary events of today that man expresses his response in grateful vocation.

Washington

Tax Loopholes Studied

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Some Treasury Department income tax experts are working for radical reforms that would give tax scofflaws a harder time and make life easier for the honest.

These men note that in a good many years in the past decade, the federal budget deficit would have been wiped out, or virtually wiped out, if all income, legal and illegal, had been reported and the proper taxes paid. This unreported legal and illegal income is probably in the neighborhood of $30 to $35 billion a year or more.

These Treasury officials believe:

1. Federal judges must be permitted and encouraged by Congress to impose much stiffer fines on willful tax evaders.
2. Methods must be found to insure that judges in different areas of the country are more uniform in the punishment they hand out for tax evasion.
3. Tax laws must be simplified.
4. Tax law language must be drastically tightened.

One businessman told me recently it was more profitable for his company to hire an extra tax attorney than to develop a new product. "We make a greater profit by putting more of our effort into discovering new ways to avoid taxes," he said.

The vice president of an electronics research firm said almost the same thing. "Between hiring a new high-powered scientist for our laboratory and taking on an extra tax attorney, we'll take the tax attorney," he said. "It pays."

Worried Treasury men say the underworld is getting smarter in tax evasion. The time when an Al Capone could be tracked down and caught in simple income tax fraud. As one U.S. official puts it: "Now the top hoods hire first rank lawyers who find loopholes. Convicting a racketeer defender by a sharp lawyer is getting more and more difficult."

"We used to be able to catch a racketeer by adding up his expenditures, then comparing these with his reported income," says another Treasury man. "But nowadays the racketeer's tax lawyer figures out for him just how much of his income and outgo is traceable. Then he pays a tax on just that much."

"Say a racketeer takes in $500,000. His attorneys figure $300,000 can be traced to him. So he pays the tax on $300,000."

Another technique that's increasing in popularity has been developed by underworld men who invest their funds in legitimate businesses through fronts. In the days when a hood would track him down, get the front for having more money than he could account for. Under the refined front system, the underworld man invests through a whole bevy of front men. Each invests only a small amount of his boss' funds. The amounts are small enough so that the Internal Revenue Service would have a difficult time proving he's using money on which income taxes haven't been paid. But these investments, in aggregate, can amount to millions of dollars.

The average taxpayer, whether a corporation or individual, is basically honest, the Treasury has found. A third of the thousands of taxpayers who make mistakes in their returns err in the Treasury's favor. They beat themselves out of more than $160 million a year (which the Treasury returns). They're caught up in mathematical mistakes and in the law's complications.

Congressman Becomes Junketeer Champ

By DREW PEARSON

CLEVELAND — Twenty-two years ago I helped elect a young Irish Democrat from Ohio to Congress named Michael Feighan. This came about when another congressman, Martin Sweeney, also from Cleveland, sued me for describing him as the "Congressional spokesman for Father Coughlin."

Sweeney got a lot of money from right-wing Coughlinite sources, retained a lot of lawyers throughout the country, and sued in 70 different jurisdictions. It was the biggest libel suit in the history of American Journalism. He lost in 35 jurisdictions, and by that time got discouraged and dropped the litigation.

The only way to win a libel suit is to prove the facts, and by the time we had finished with the case in 35 cities, it was well proven that Sweeney was the congressional spokesman of Father Coughlin. As a result, liberal forces in Cleveland looked around for a new man to run against him, picked Mike Feighan, and he was elected. I was delighted to be of some assistance to Mike at that time.

Mike Feighan started out as a conscientious young congressman, but like some men of promise, he was soured with age. In recent years he has been neglecting his district, spending a lot of time on congressional junkets abroad, and of late has been seeing communist plots around almost every corner. If anyone opposes him, he's a communist or else crooked — and Feighan has hurled the former charge at me, the latter charge at some of the most respected members of Congress.

He wants to investigate Sir John Gielgud, the Shakespearean actor; bar Richard Burton, husband of Elizabeth Taylor, from the USA; and casts insinuations at Congressman Emmanuel Celler, the New York Democrat, who is chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Champion Junketeer

What first got Mike browned off at me was when I began keeping score of his congressional junkets. Last summer, when Chairman Celler suggested that Feighan might want to become chairman of the No. 1 Judiciary Subcommittee, the Ohio Democrat pointed out that as chairman of the subcommittee on immigration he had more chance to travel. He didn't want to shift.

And travel he did. When the Civil Rights Bill came up in his Judiciary Committee last October, Mike was traveling pleasantly in Europe through France, Switzerland, and Germany — all at the taxpayers' expense. The rest of Congress was sweating it out. Most appropriation bills had not even been passed. But Mike was spending $1,181 for transportation, and $790.56 for hotels, meals, and other expenses. Total bill paid by the taxpayers was $1,971.84.

The year before that — 1962 — the congressman from Cleveland took another free trip, around the world. He took in Japan, Formosa, Manila, Hong Kong, Thailand, India, Turkey, Italy, Germany, Spain and Portugal.

Again the taxpayers footed the bill — about $1,828.28. Mike traveled as a member of the Judiciary Committee, ostensibly to study immigration problems abroad, such as how many foreigners want to become U.S. citizens and how many are on the waiting list for quotas. He could have got the information simply by asking the State Department.

In 1961, Feighan charged up about $600 to the taxpayers for a junket to Argentina and Brazil, plus another $600 in December, 1960, for a tour of African countries, as well as England, France, and Italy. This was chiefly for extra expenses, since the State Department and the Air Force provided free transportation and most other expenses.

On the 1962 junket, Feighan traveled in Eisenhower's former plane, the luxurious Columbine, and took Mrs. Feighan along. On the 1961 junket he went to Latin America for the ostensible purpose of checking on whether Latin America could handle European immigrants, which is a long stretch for an American congressman to be interested in.

It is not easy to check on all of Feighan's junkets, because they began some time ago and I have probably missed some. One of the first I know about was in 1945, three years after he was elected, when he traveled all the way to Saudi Arabia to call on King Saud. What the excuse was for this junket the public could never find out.

Colleagues Deserted Him
Last week, Feighan suffered a humiliating setback from his own colleagues when he asked for $160,000 to "review" immigration policies.

"Hidden forces have been at work to block the congressional inquiry into immigration policy," Feighan shouted to the House emotionally. "These forces have been working behind the scenes and that work has blocked joint committee action since last August."

"Rumors are rampant on Capitol Hill and in the press galleries about large pay-offs running into hundreds of thousands of dollars to fix immigration cases," charged the hysterical congressman from Cleveland.

Patiently, chairman Celler pointed out that fifteen studies had already been made. He also pointed out that Feighan had a staff of seven aides on the immigration subcommittee, capable of making still another study at minor cost without the huge expense of $160,000.

Frantically, Feighan button-holed members of Congress, implored them to vote with him. But when the non-rollback vote was taken, the "division" was 74 to 47.

Almost beside himself, Feighan then demanded a non-rollback "teller" tally. This vote ended in a tie, 69 to 69. Republicans with the exception of John Lindsay of New York who remained seated, supported him. Almost every one of his fellow Democrats deserted him.

The taxpayers were saved $160,000 for what most congressmen described as a witch hunt.

What has made Mike Feighan even more jittery than his defeat by his own colleagues, however, is that live-wire young lawyer from Cleveland, Ronald Mohl, is now running vigorously against him. A lot of Clevelanders indicate that it's time for youth and vigor to replace junketing and witch-hunting.

Appointment Brings Debate

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
And PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — A three-way power struggle is raging within the White House staff over personnel appointments and domestic policy recommendations.

This politically explosive dispute, which only President Johnson can decide, is coming to a head over the proposed appointment of Wilson D. McCarthy, congressional relations officer of the Peace Corps, to the White House staff.

The 34-year-old McCarthy, known as a "Bobby Kennedy man" within administration circles, is being strongly pushed for the White House post by presidential aides Bill Moyers, former deputy director of the Peace Corps, and J. J. Valenti, special consultant to the President.

These two presidential advisers are stressing that McCarthy is needed in the White House to improve the administration's liaison with Congress to pass the controversial Medicare and anti-poverty programs.

A close friend of Moyers when both worked in the Peace Corps, McCarthy is being urged by the former as the one person who could serve as a communication link between President Johnson and Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

Opposing McCarthy's selection are veteran Johnson aides Walter Jenkins, special presidential assistant, and Clifton Carter, the White House's top political adviser.

They frankly argue that McCarthy, a pre-convention supporter of the late President Kennedy, is a "Kennedy man" and that his political loyalties in any showdown with Attorney General Robert Kennedy would not be to the President, but to Kennedy.

Until the Attorney General spells out more clearly his future political intentions, neither Carter nor Jenkins feels the President should strengthen the Kennedy influence within the inter White House circle by adding McCarthy to the staff.

The Third Force

The third group of White House aides, known as the "Kennedy holdovers" and headed by special presidential assistant Kenneth O'Donnell, is supporting McCarthy's appointment but staying in the background in the struggle between the two Johnson groups.

The "Kennedy holdovers" who supported the late President in his 1960 bid for the Democratic nomination, include Lawrence O'Brien, special legislative assistant to the President; Myer Feldman, special counsel; Lee C. White, deputy special counsel; and McGeorge Bundy, special assistant on security affairs.

This group, which welcomes McCarthy as one of their own, is encouraging his appointment by playing up his work with Congress while in the Peace Corps and his close association with Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver Jr., now coordinator of the President's anti-poverty program.

In their backstage discussions, the "Kennedy holdovers" are privately telling supporters in Congress that McCarthy's selection will strengthen their hand in influencing Johnson to increase his $300 million request for funds to launch the anti-poverty program.

The two Johnson groups, although sharply split over McCarthy, are firmly united in limiting this new domestic venture to "pilot projects" until a determination can be made as to which approach should be used in allocating federal funds.

White House insiders say the President is delaying his decision until he can personally determine whether Attorney General Kennedy has any unannounced political plans for 1964.

The Whitewash

A major effort is being made by a group of State Department and Central Intelligence Agency authorities to whitewash, cover up and ridicule the disclosures made by Polish defector Colonel Michael Goleniewski, since they involve treason in both agencies.

It is a well-organized campaign, with CIA officials making personal contact with members of Congress and newsmen, and telling them Goleniewski is under heavy nervous tension. Representative Michael Feighan, D-O., one of the few members of Congress who have talked to Goleniewski, reports that the Polish defector is in good health and mind, although worried that the Russians may try to kill him. A high-ranking KGB intelligence officer in Poland, Goleniewski has a "thank-you" note from former CIA Director Allen Dulles, who used considerable information supplied by the defector in his book "The Craft of Intelligence."

Latest information being "leaked" to Washington columnists by CIA officials involves the Russians' appraisal of President Johnson. It goes like this: "Top Soviet officials (no names) say they do not plan to arrive at any firm judgments on the nature and intentions of President Johnson until after the American elections. The Soviets say Mr. Johnson's public pronouncements are now pointed entirely at the election and that a clear picture of him cannot be secured now."

Prayer

For Today

Help me, O God, to give up some of my unworthy goals. Strengthen me in my purpose to take my eyes from them, and to focus more earnestly upon the cross. If it be Thy will, let me today be confronted with an opportunity for sacrifice and service, grant me strength and courage to respond; for Jesus' sake. Amen. — Webb Garrison, Evansville, Ind., minister, Central Methodist Church.

Red Split Real

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — Suddenly it seems a lot cozier to sit in Chicago or Union City, N.J., and survey the world about us. It is an international landscape dominated by that beautiful brass-knuckled brawl between the Soviet Union and Communist China.

What makes it particularly nice, aside from seeing two enemies swinging at each other, is that there is nothing we have to do about it — for the present, at least. As a result, it is almost impossible for us to make any mistakes. In this one, at least, the bloody noses are going to be all on the Reds' side.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has reflected Uncle Sam's smugness. He said he saw no reason why we should "try to intervene in that discussion... I think we will just have to let it go forward and see what happens." That, Mr. Rusk, is the way to talk. There is no reason why Uncle Sam should even hold anybody's coat.

Power, Not Ideology

Meanwhile, Americans should not be fooled by the mouthings from both Peking and Moscow that this is a struggle over the purity of the Marxist-Leninist doctrine. It is purely and simply a power play between two countries which distrust each other. Both want to be the capital of the Communist world, just as France and Great Britain used to fight over Europe. The difference is that Red China and Russia are fighting with words and political maneuverings rather than with guns.

For the West, the happiest result so far of this dialectical warfare is that it has destroyed the myth of "unbreakable solidarity" among Communist nations. It has proved that nationalism still survives, even under the Red flag, and that historic enmities are not dissolved merely because two peoples share the same ideology.

Age-Old Grievances

Red China and the Soviet Union are both still Communist and will stay Communist. But they are not pals. They have conflicting cultures and they share a past filled with violence and suspicion of each other. The Russian czars stole huge territories from the Manchou emperors and these territories are a part of today's Soviet Union. Meanwhile, the Russians have always been fearful of the racist Chinese horde, whose population nudges the Soviet border for thousands of miles.

Moscow has been bleating that Nikita Khrushchev struck back at China's Mao Tse-tung because Mao had been guilty of a "terrible insult to our party and the entire Soviet people" by demanding that the Russian Reds toss Nikita out of office. This is grist for domestic consumption. Actually, Khrushchev started it all back in 1959 when he reneged on an earlier promise to supply Peking with nuclear weapons. The Chinese took it from there.

Now Peking and Moscow are competing for the support of their comrades around the world. This should be fun to watch—from Union City, N.J.

Moscow can count on East Germany, Bulgaria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and the Indian Communist party. Poland and Rumania are trying to play both sides of the fence. Peking and Moscow are about to discover that allies — even Communist allies — can be bloody difficult.

NICKLAUS FADES BEFORE SOUCHAK

HOUSTON (AP) — Big Mike Souchak, two down after the first nine holes, rallied with two birdie putts on the back nine Sunday to win $7,500 top money in the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic by one stroke over the favored Jack Nicklaus.

Nicklaus, who had held or shared the lead through the first 16 holes of the final round, saw a 25-foot putt that would have permitted him to tie Souchak's 278 — six under par — miss the final green cup by six inches.

Souchak, the 1955 Classic champion, placed a final round 70 beside earlier rounds of 71, 69 and 68 in winning his first championship since the 1961 Greensboro Open.

Souchak and Nicklaus had started the final 18 holes on the 7,233-yard par 71 Sharpstown Country Club course deadlocked at 206 and their battle was not settled until Nicklaus took a bogey 4 on the 195-yard 17th.

Nicklaus' 76-66-67-279 was worth $4,000 and marked the third time in three years for him to make a near miss at the Classic. He lost a playoff for the title in 1962 and finished fourth last year.

Chi Chi Rodriguez of Puerto Rico made five birdies on the front nine to challenge the 54-hole leaders but a pair of back nine bogies left him with a 68 that earned him third place and $3,300 at 280.

Deadlocked at 281 for $2,600 each were a pair of Texans, Rex Baxter Jr., and Butch Baird, and a young Californian, Al Geiberger.

Nicklaus, at six under, par, held a one stroke lead over Rodriguez at the turn and Souchak had dropped two strokes off the pace by taking bogies on the 160-yard seventh and 450-yard ninth.

Rodriguez pulled into a tie with Nicklaus with a birdie on No. 10 where Souchak also gained a stroke with a three-foot putt.

The Puerto Rican's game collapsed when he bogied the 13th and 15th but Souchak made what proved to be the winning shot by pulling into a tie with Nicklaus with a seven-foot birdie put on the 14th green.

The deadlock at six-under then continued until Nicklaus two-putted from 18 feet for his bogey on No. 17.

Mets, A's Snap Doldrums, Too

Yankees Break Spell

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New York's Mets and Yankees and the Kansas City Athletics finally won their first games of the season Sunday, but the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers had their losing string extended to five games.

The Mets blanked Pittsburgh 6-0, the Yankees stopped previously undefeated Baltimore 5-3 and the Athletics whipped Washington 5-1 in a rain-shortened six-inning game.

The Dodgers, however, again failed to win, losing 3-2 to Milwaukee in 12 innings. The Dodgers, a near no-hit victim Saturday night, haven't won since Sandy Koufax shut out St. Louis opening night.

Felipe Alou's single and Ed Matthews' double brought the Braves' extra-inning triumph. Bob Tiefenauer, who relieved Warren Spahn, held the Dodgers to one hit through the last four innings.

Cincinnati's Jim Maloney and John Taitouris kept Los Angeles hitless through 8-2 innings Saturday night before Frank Howard got an infield hit.

Al Jackson limited Pittsburgh to six hits in pitching the Mets to their first victory after four defeats. Ron Hunt and Rod Kanehl each drove in two runs for the Mets.

The Yankees won after losing three straight extra-inning games. Joe Pepitone, who had been hitless in 14 times at bat, drove in two runs with a fourth-inning double and a single in the fifth. The Orioles had won four straight.

Orlando Pena struck out nine and allowed only two hits for the Athletics, who had lost twice. They scored two runs in the fifth when the Senators' Chuck Hinton held the ball while two runners scored on a fly out. Hinton thought there were three outs.

In other American League games, Minnesota and Detroit split a doubleheader while Chicago blanked Boston 6-0. The Tigers won the second game with the Twins 3-1 behind the four-hit pitching of Dave Wickersham. George Thomas hit a solo home run and drove in a run with a sacrifice fly for the Tigers. Harmon Killebrew slugged a pair of two-run homers and Camilo Pascual pitched a five-hitter in Minnesota's 12-3 opening game victory.

Johnny Buzhardt and reliever Hoyt Wilhelm stopped the Red Sox on five hits. Boston didn't get a fly ball to the outfield until the sixth.

In the National League, Willie Mays socked his sixth home run as San Francisco trounced Cincinnati 13-6. Mays and Jesus Alou each drove in two runs in the Giants' nine-run sixth inning.

Philadelphia walloped Chicago 8-1 with the Phils' prize rookie, Richie Allen, getting two home runs plus a third run batted in.

St. Louis played at Houston in a night game.

Wright Wins Going Away

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP) — Mickey Wright of Dallas, Tex., shot the only sub-par round Sunday and won the 12th annual Betsy Rawls-Peach Blossom Women's Golf Tournament going away with a 54-hole total of 215.

Miss Wright, who had a 75 for the first round but who came back with a sizzling 69 for the round to take the lead, birdied three holes for a 71 Sunday and finished four strokes ahead of Shirley Englehorn and Gloria Armstrong.

Miss Wright's share of the $8,500 purse was $1,200. In 10 years of playing here, her previous best finish was sixth.

The flight for second place was finally decided on the 18th hole. Miss Armstrong of Oakland, Calif., entered the final round over the 6,435-yard par 72 Country Club of Spartanburg course one stroke back of Miss Wright. But she double bogied the final hole while Miss Englehorn birdied the hole to pull into the tie. Each won $850.

Belgian Eyes Repeat In Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP) — Aurele Van Driessche, the Belgian clerk with the jawbreaker name and the heartbreaker running style, arrived in the United States Sunday in his attempt to become a repeat winner in Monday's 68th Boston AAU Marathon.

The 31-year-old father of three, who parts his name into three sections, the first and third capitalized and the middle in a small "d", must be considered the favorite to win the 26-mile, 385-yard run from suburban Hopkinton to downtown Boston.

A year ago, he arrived unheralded and followed Ethiopians Abebe Bikila and Mamo Wolde most of the tortuous route. On the final few miles, however, he sped ahead of everyone and lowered the course record by 67 seconds to 2 hours, 18 minutes, 58 seconds.

A victory Monday would make him only the third person in the past 20 years to win two marathons in a row here. Two others were Gerard Cote of Canada in 1943 and 1944, and Finland's Eino Oksanen in 1961 and 1962.

Oksanen, a triple winner in 1959, isn't here this year. But two fellow Finns, Paavo Pystynen and Tenho Salaaka, are on hand and along with former winner Johnny Kelley of Grotton, Conn., are expected to give Van den Driessche the most trouble.

Emerson Rolls In River Oaks

HOUSTON (AP) —Top-seeded Roy Emerson of Australia smashed his way to a 6-1, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Nicola Pietrangeli of Yugoslavia Sunday to win the championship of the 30th annual River Oaks Tennis Tournament.

Emerson's victory was the fourth year in a row that a foreign star has won the championship.

Australia's No. 1-ranked star had twice been a finalist but had never won the title. He lost in the finals to Rod Laver, also of Australia, in 1961 and 1962. Last year he was upset in the quarter-finals by Hamilton Richardson of Dallas.

Pietrangeli, a tall left-hander and Yugoslavia's No. 1 ranked amateur, was the first unseeded player to reach the finals in 10 years.

For the first time this year, two teams shared first place in the Weeks Park Four-Ball Golf Tournament, each finishing with 99 points Sunday.

Tied for first were Lloyd Crow, J. C. Gray, James Jenkins and Tyler Owens in one foursome and Andy Anderson, Billy Buntin, Bill Drake and Mike Lehterz in another.

Third place with 97 points was the team of Jack Astor, Tom McBride, Clarence Calloway and Tommy Jenkins.

Two other teams were deadlocked at fourth with 95 points: John Glover, Allen Whitehead, Don Burbank and Bob Harwell; John Rutledge, Wade Platt, Frank Robertson and Glenn Shelton.

Civil Rights Bill Status To Set Pace This Summer

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil rights leaders foresee an increase in antisegregationist demonstrations this summer — with potentially greater violence — and a trend toward "extremism" among both Negroes and whites, an Associated Press survey showed Sunday.

"It's going to be a long, hot summer," said Volma Overton, Texas official of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A number of those interviewed used the same phrase. Others said the civil rights bill now before the U. S. Senate is the determining factor in the outlook for the coming months. If it passes, these leaders feel, much of the heat will go out of the situation.

70 Interviewed
More than 70 persons involved with civil rights activity in all parts of the nation were interviewed by Associated Press correspondents. They included Negroes and whites, officials of organizations fighting discrimination, U. S. senators, clergy-men and attorneys.

Consensus
The consensus:
1. Demonstrations will increase, in number and intensity, North and South. Employment practices affecting Negroes is the sore point in the North. In the South, the problem pivots on voting rights and the slow pace of desegregating the schools. Cleveland, Pittsburgh, New York and Los Angeles were cited as the cities most likely to see disturbances in the North. In the South, Alabama and Mississippi were named most frequently.

Against Nuisances
2. An overwhelming majority condemned "nuisance tactics" — such as jamming traffic to the New York World's Fair, and letting water faucets run in New York. Of the total interviewed, 38 replied with an emphatic "no." Ten approved without qualification. A number said they disapproved "unless these tactics are aimed at some specific goal in which case they might be useful."

Approve Civil Disobedience
3. The majority said they approve of civil disobedience where state or local laws are "unjust" designed to discriminate against one segment of society, or are in conflict with the Constitution. One said it is "immoral not to violate such laws." Several cited Henry David Thoreau, noted pamphleteer who went to jail in protest against taxes he considered unjust, and the Boston Tea Party, as examples of proper civil disobedience.
4. The majority agreed that "extremism" is increasing in anti segregationist organizations. "Regrettably, yes," one replied. Others said "lack of progress" is the reason. Still others said the term "extremism" is inaccurate, and they prefer to describe the position today as one of "increasing militancy," "hardening attitudes," "some overzealousness," "new intensity," etc. Some said this is true as well of groups that oppose civil rights for Negroes.

Virtually all the replies mentioned the civil rights bill as the key to what could develop in the field of race relations in the near future.

Two opposing senators in the debate commented in interviews.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., floor manager for the bill, said that if it is enacted by mid-June, "it will do a great deal to reduce racial tension and social unrest. It will ameliorate conditions that provoke people to demonstrate and will strengthen the hand of responsible civil rights leaders."

Delaying passage of the bill through the summer, Humphrey said, "will be an invitation to trouble, turmoil and disaster."

But Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leading the opposition to the bill, said that if the Senate passes any legislation under the threat of violence and civil disobedience, "it would put us in the category of a 'banana republic.'"

Russell said Negro leaders appear to be trying to restrain demonstrators while the bill is before the Senate.
But he added: "I think they have created a 'Frankenstein monster' they can't control completely. They may be able to deter some demonstrations but not all. I don't see any prospects they will stop soon."

President Johnson, in a news conference last Thursday, said the civil rights bill will be passed, but he said civil disobedience tactics are not helping.
Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told 500 members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors that it is his "firm belief" that the civil rights bill will pass. Then, he said, it must be obeyed and that there must be no "doctrine of mass resistance."

The editors also questioned four prominent Negro leaders in Washington: Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the NAACP, James Farmer, head of the Congress of Racial Equality, Whitney Young of the National Urban League, and John Lewis of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

At the close of the session, the four announced that they and the heads of two other civil rights groups had signed a joint statement denouncing a proposal of Brooklyn CORE leaders for the stall-in to block traffic to the New York World's Fair.

Among those who said they approved of this tactic was Vincent Hallinan, White, of San Francisco. He is the attorney for several hundred persons, mostly whites, arrested in recent demonstrations.
Hallinan said that he favors strategy like the stall-in where peaceful protests fail to produce results.

"The summer could be bad and dangerous," Hallinan said.

es," he said, "it is impossible to act within the law. It is immoral not to challenge a bad law and the only way to challenge it is to break it."

Similarly, the Rev. Arthur Zebbs, president of the Columbus, Ohio, chapter of CORE, said, "Those who are responsible for racial segregation and discrimination are making us break the law. We have no choice. We have to break laws to make new laws."

No Misgivings
The former executive secretary of the U. S. Civil Rights Commission, Berl I. Bernhard, a Washington attorney, said, "many states have laws that are patently unconstitutional or close to it, and I don't have too many misgivings about those who violate those laws, as long as they are willing to suffer the consequences."

Willard Brown, Negro attorney, and president of the Charleston, W. Va., chapter of the NAACP sees trouble ahead for some civil rights officials.

"Masses of negro Americans are sick and tired of waiting on the granting of full citizenship privileges," he said. "The result is that many of us are being, and are going to be, replaced in our official positions with more militant and, I regret to state, more unreasonable persons from our group who believe we may as well give up the idea of peaceful demonstrations."

One of Los Angeles' first Negro city councilmen, Thomas Bradley said of "extremism" in civil rights groups, "I would not necessarily class it as extremism. I would describe it as possibly a hardening of attitudes on either side of the issue."

But Miss Cernoria Johnson, Washington representative of the National Urban League, said extremism is increasing because of "the increasingly growing impatience of youth. At the same time, it is being whipped up by a growing opposition to civil rights, some of it, I am sorry to say, from the responsible white community."

In Senate Debate

Leader Says Harassing Demonstrations Could Kindle Volatile Reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of opposing forces agreed Sunday that stall-ins and other public harassing demonstrations could kindle volatile reaction in the Senate's consideration of civil rights legislation.

But aside from opposing violence and civil disobedience, Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., could agree on little else in the explosive controversy over racial discrimination.

Humphrey's View
Humphrey, floor manager for the House-passed civil rights

bill, said in an interview that if the public is harassed by demonstrators who stall their cars on the highways leading to the New York World's Fair and by others who turn on their water taps "we'll be hearing from people who will be disgusted and outraged."

"It will react against the civil rights program and the legislation," he said, "I don't think civil wrongs help the cause of civil rights."

"In that connection, we've got a sit-in in the Senate by the filibusterers. We should ask them to help conduct business in the proper and responsible manner we want demonstrators to follow. They are setting a poor example."

Russell's Stand
Russell, quarterbacking the bill's opponents, said in a separate interview that if the Senate passes any legislation under the threat of violence and disobedience "it would put us in the category of a 'banana republic.'"

He added, however, that Northern liberals are judging civil disobedience by a hypocritical standard.

"The howls of anguish from New York and other places in the North over civil disobedience tactics that cause economic loss were entirely missing when similar tactics were employed in the South," he said. "It shows the hypocrisy of this whole thing."

"When demonstrators lay in the streets blocking traffic in downtown Albany, Ga., one of the senators from New York talked of going down there to encourage them (aided said Sen. Jacob K. Javits R-N. Y., was invited to watch the Albany demonstration but did not go)."

"But when demonstrators blocked traffic on New York's Triborough Bridge and talked of a 'stall-in' that would cause the New York World's Fair the loss of a few dollars; there was an up-rising of protest."

"The tactics of New York in getting their people off their bridge were identical to those used in getting them off the street in Albany, Ga., but they called it police brutality when Albany did it."

Humphrey said he believes that if the civil rights bill can be passed by the middle of June "it will do a great deal to reduce racial tension and social unrest."

"It will ameliorate conditions that provoke people to demonstrate and will strengthen the hand of responsible civil rights leader," he said.

But he said that if the debate goes on through the Republican and Democratic national conventions next summer "it will be an invitation to trouble, turmoil and disaster."

'Frankenstein Monster'
Russell said Negro leaders appear to be trying to tone down demonstrations while the bill is before the Senate but their efforts may fail.

"I think they have created a Frankenstein monster they can't control completely," he said. "They may be able to deter some demonstrations but not all. I don't see any prospect they will stop soon."

Humphrey said he doesn't support demonstrations which knowingly violate local, state or federal law.

"I don't support any violation of the Constitution," he said, "and some states and individuals have been violating it. State laws should observe the Constitution, particularly the 14th Amendment."

Russell said he doubts Northerners who have been harassed by demonstrations will become any more sympathetic to Southerners facing civil disobedience.

"I'd like to think this would be true," he said, "but they seem to like to see the South squirm."

Humphrey said signs of extremism are cropping up on both sides of the civil rights controversy.

"The campaigning of Gov. George C. Wallace (of Alabama) epitomizes extremism on the segregationist side," he said. "It provokes a response that will bring extremism on the pro-civil rights side."

He cited the decision of the Brooklyn CORE chapter to support a stall-in as an example of extremism. The chapter's decision subsequently was repudiated by the national organization and the chapter was suspended.

Russell said civil rights advocates are getting "more and more extreme."

He attributed this to "competition among the various leaders of various groups for prestige and contributions."

"If one takes a position, another takes a position in advance of it and the other then has to dream up something else to go still further," he said. "Extremism feeds on itself and grows."

Wolff Named Editors' Prexy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miles H. Wolff, executive editor of the Greensboro, (N.C.) news, today was elected president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Vermont Royster, editor of the Wall Street Journal, became first vice president.

Robert C. Notson, managing editor of the Portland Oregonian, was elected second vice president by the society's board of directors.

Michael J. Ogden, executive managing editor of the Providence (R.I.) Journal Bulletin, was elected secretary.

William P. Steven, editor of the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle, was named treasurer.

The directors chose the officers as the society wound up its annual meeting in Washington.

French "Dixie"

One of the most plausible explanations of how the South came to be called "Dixie" is that before the Civil War a bank in New Orleans printed $10 bills using the French word for "ten," which is "dix."

Make a Meal of Rice

A hot and hearty rice and shrimp casserole, colorful and filling, teamed with tender-cooked asparagus and a crisp green salad is a meal to set before a hungry family or guests some evening soon. It's the nourishing kind of a meal that appeals to children, teen-agers and adults alike, and is a treasure to the cook, too, for it is so easy to prepare.

The casserole, called Shrimp Pilaf because it combines highly seasoned, fluffy rice, with the seafood, uses an easily assembled blend of ingredients popular with all good cooks. The bit of filé powder in the mixture is a favorite seasoning in New Orleans where it is an important ingredient in their world-famous gumbos. The powder, made of sassafras leaves with thyme, imparts a tantalizing flavor to the dish in which it is used.

Shrimp, tomato juice, celery, green pepper, and onions are popular throughout the land, as is the rice into which all the zesty flavors of the ingredients are absorbed. In this instance, the uncooked rice is toasted in butter or margarine until golden, then mixed with seasonings and liquid and cooked slowly until tender and tripled in bulk. Handy tip in preparing shrimp for this dish: Cut each shrimp in half lengthwise before stirring into the rice mixture. The result? More shrimp pieces for each diner without sacrificing the characteristic shrimp shape.

The other menu parts for the meal are almost as easy to prepare as the rice casserole. If your choice is fresh asparagus, cook the prepared stalks until just barely tender, then serve them topped with pats of butter. If you use frozen asparagus, follow package directions. For the salad, break your favorite greens into bite-sized pieces after washing and drying them, then refrigerate until thoroughly chilled. Toss with unpared cucumber slices and thin slices of carrots and accompany with a sour cream dressing. Dutch apple pie with cheese would make a happy ending for the pleasant meal.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1 cup uncooked rice | 3 tablespoons minced parsley |
| 3 tablespoons butter or margarine | 1/4 teaspoon cayenne |
| 1 medium onion, diced | 1/4 teaspoon summer savory |
| 3/4 cup chopped green pepper | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 1 cup diced celery | 1/8 teaspoon filé powder |
| 3 cups tomato juice | 1 pound shelled and deveined shrimp, cooked |
| 1-1/4 cups beef bouillon, water or more tomato juice | |

Cook rice in butter in large skillet until golden, stirring. Stir in onion, green pepper, celery, tomato juice, and bouillon. Cover tightly and bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Stirring lightly with fork, add seasonings and shrimp. Return to oven, and continue cooking 20 minutes.

A well seasoned Shrimp Pilaf is the featured dish of this meal which also includes buttered asparagus and a tossed combination salad.

A custardy mixture of rice and cheese, seasoned and colored with parsley and green pepper, is a main dish sure to win compliments for the hostess who serves it. Called Green Rice Custard, the casseroled blend of good food could be the focal point of a luncheon or supper which also includes a medley of fresh fruits — to be used as salad or dessert — and some crusty hard rolls with gay little butter balls.

Cooked rice is the basis of the hearty casserole, and you couldn't find a more versatile basic casserole food. The rice can be freshly cooked for the dish, or it might be left over from a previous meal (rice is the one food that never tastes leftover). Or it might even have come from the freezer. Easily cooked rice is just as easily reheated after refrigeration or freezing. Simply add a few drops of water — enough to cover the bottom of the pan in which the rice is to be reheated — and place, covered, over low heat until of the preferred temperature.

Whichever form of rice you have, be sure to try it in Green Rice Custard:

GREEN RICE CUSTARD

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|---|
| 3 cups cooked rice | 1/2 teaspoon pepper |
| 1 cup finely chopped fresh parsley | 1 teaspoon seasoned salt |
| 1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper | 1 teaspoon garlic powder |
| 1/3 cup chopped onion | 1 lemon juice and grated rind |
| 1 cup grated sharp cheese | 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted |
| 2 eggs, beaten | Paprika |
| 1 can (14 ounces) evaporated milk | |

Combine rice, parsley, green pepper, onion, and cheese. Mix eggs, milk, pepper, salt, garlic powder, lemon juice and rind, and butter. Stir into rice mixture, blending thoroughly. Turn into a greased 2 quart casserole; sprinkle with paprika. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Green rice custard in a red bowl is as flavorful as it is colorful. The hearty rice main dish is well flavored with sharp cheese, parsley, and green pepper.
