

Board of Supervisors Approves
Work on 6,569 Acres

The board of supervisors of the Eldorado-Divide Soil Conservation District at their March meeting approved conservation plans and applications for district assistance covering 6,569 acres.

J. Forrest Runge, chairman, B. E. Moore, Earnest Foster and Ford Boulware were the supervisors present for the meeting. Also present for the meeting was Olen L. Fenner for the Soil Conservation Service.

Soil and water conservation plans for E. E. Newlin and Mrs. W. F. Wilson were approved by the supervisors.

The board also approved two applications for assistance in developing a complete, co-ordinated conservation plan.

These applications were received from O. Sudduth and W. T. Parker. All the available facilities and personnel of the Soil Conservation Service are set up to assist landowners in developing and applying sound land use practices as outlined and directed by the local Soil Conservation District.

The objective in carrying out and applying a well-balanced conservation program is to stabilize present operations and provide for a much greater agriculture industry in the future.

Grass Reseeding for Grazing
And Seed Production

L. T. Wilson, cooperator with the Eldorado-Divide Soil Conservation District, has just completed the seeding of 34 acres of K. R. Bluestem, 1 acre of Boars lovegrass, 1 acre sideoats grama, and 1 acre of Lehmann's lovegrass.

Jim O'Harrow completed the seeding of 25 acres of K. R. Bluestem, 3 acres sideoats grama, 5 acres Boar's lovegrass, and 5 acres Lehmann's lovegrass. All acreage was planted on contour rows and on old cultivated field that was producing very little forage in its present condition. The grass seeding is to revegetate field to keep it from eroding and to put the field into production again.

John Powell has completed the seeding of 5 acres of K. R. Bluestem for seed production. The grass was planted in the middles of last year's crop of grain sorghum. Little Bluestem, sideoats grama, and K. R. Bluestem were also seeded in holes where cedar has been killed. This is done by sprinkling all amounts of seed into the hole and kicking some dirt over the seed.

Robert Martin who ranches 28 miles east of Eldorado reseeded some bare areas with K. R. Bluestem, in a pasture that will be deferred all of this year. This deferment will not only let young grass seedlings get started, but also help the native grasses to seed out as well.

William Jarrett has 17 acres of rangeland that has been fenced off since the spring of 1949. Sideoats grama and K. R. Bluestem seed were scattered over this area last spring and came up in scattered stands. These scattered plants will aid in reseeding other parts of the pasture.

Last fall a considerable amount of Canada Wild Rye seed was scattered over the pasture. At the present time a good number of Canada Wild Rye seedlings can be found.

The early part of this month several pounds more of sideoats grama, green sprangletop, K. R. Bluestem, Lehmann and weeping lovegrass were planted in rows and on bare areas in the pasture.

Jarrett plans to defer this little acreage throughout the growing season in order to let the young seedlings establish themselves. After killing frost this fall it will be grazed properly in order to get continued improvement.

District cooperators who plan to seed K. R. Bluestem in the near future are: Henry and Perry Mittle, Edward Meador, Mrs. Finnigan, Pete Parker, A. R. Parker, Edgar Thomerson, Fred Case, Milton Baugh, Mac W. Jones, Capt. Thad A. Thomson, W. S. McGregor, and Dr. C. T. Womack.

Social Security Tax Increase Explained

The fact that the Social Security tax advanced from 1% to 1 1/4% each from the employer and the employee, effective January 1, 1950 has caused some employers to inquire if the law has been changed to tax more than the first $3,000 in wages paid to an employee in a year, according to George Clark, manager of the San Angelo office of the Social Security Administration.

"The law that only the first $3,000.00 in wages paid by an employer to each employee is still in effect," Clark said, "and only an Act of Congress will change the law pertaining to the maximum wages to be taxed."

Clark pointed out that all inquiries regarding social security tax matters should be referred to the Collector of Internal Revenue, and all questions about old-age and survivors insurance benefits should be directed to the social security office located at 307 Federal Building, San Angelo.

Questionnaires On Farm Census Ready To Go Out

Farm census questionnaires are being mailed out the last two weeks in March to all farmers in the United States. Farmers are asked to fill out the questionnaire on April 1 and have it ready to hand to a census taker during April.

Many farmers have asked the reason for a farm census. County Agent W. G. Godwin points out that the information compiled is the only source of county figures on agriculture. The planning of most farm programs, educational programs designed to improve farming and farm life, and the decisions of many farm organizations are based on the information provided by the farm census.

Likewise, the farm census provides the basis for the making of allocations among counties for quotas for the acreages of many important farm crops.

All information received is strictly confidential, it is emphasized, and cannot be used for taxation, investigation or regulation. The Act of Congress providing for the Census provides a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine or two years in jail for anyone refusing to answer census questions or for anyone who gives false information in reply to census inquiries. Also the law provides that every census enumerator and employee must take an oath not to reveal any census information.

Census enumerators will be required to visit every dwelling and farm in their area and to obtain answers to every question on the Agriculture Census questionnaire for each farm. Farmers are being asked to fill out these Agriculture Census questionnaires and give them to the census enumerator when he calls in April. The census enumerator will pick up the questionnaire, check it to see that it is completely and correctly filled out, and in case the questionnaire is not completely filled out, complete the filling in of the answers to all questions. The census enumerator will take a census of population and of housing at the same time that he takes the farm census.

Questionnaire Is Inclusive
The questionnaire includes 334 questions on farming activities. When a questionnaire is completely filled out it will give an inclusive picture of ownership, crops, livestock, labor, employment outside of the farm, buildings, value of commodities marketed, and other similar information.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Graves and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Graves visited in Uvalde Sunday. The W. H. Graveses visited her parents and her brother and family, and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Graves visited her brother, Claude Sutton.

It's the Great American Habit

Flipping switches is The Great American Habit. Even children have it. And it's a habit that has given America the world's highest standard of living.

In the home, electric service is just about the smallest item in the budget, what else makes life so easy, so healthy, so comfortable?

In industry, electricity lends the employee the strength of giants. Electric motors multiply his muscular strength by dozens or even by thousands—making it possible for him to produce more, better, faster—to earn more.

Electricity is certainly a vital part of our American life yet, oddly, this country spends less than 2% of its vast income for electric service. Such a bargain in efficiency didn't happen by accident, of course. Business-managed electric industry—progressed and expanded because of investors with faith and vision, employees with skill and experience.

There are still broad fields of electric living yet to be tapped. Business men can do the job better than tax paid bureaucrats. That's always been the secret of America's progress.

Handy and Easy Are Both Wrong

Handy Peterson and Easy Roberts got in quite an argument the other day over at Fred's Garage talking about the best spot to fish at Green Lake.

"Opposite the old sawmill is the best spot," says Handy. But Easy "pooh-pooh's" him. "I've seen the biggest fish caught off Cedar Point," says Easy. "I've been catching them there for years."

Then Fred goes into his office and brings out the biggest mounted rainbow trout you ever saw. "Bet that was caught at the sawmill," comments Handy. "Cedar Point," says Easy. "Well," says Fred, "you're both wrong. I caught this baby right out in the middle!"

From where I sit, there are always two (or more) sides to every story. Let's live and let live in the true American tradition of toleration. Your opinion is worth a lot, but so is the other fellow's—whether it's on politics, the best fishing spots, or whether he likes a temperate glass of beer and you like buttermilk.

Come, let us reason together. . ."

The Name of the Church

Rom. 16:16
Several times I have heard such a statement as this, "As far as I know Christ didn't name his church." Such people as make these statements are endeavoring to justify the name of their denomination which wears a name never so much as mentioned in the Bible, therefore being unscriptural in title giving place to many other unscriptural practices. If we had to rely on our own reasoning we would realize that Christ would have named his church. Since Christ built his church, (Matt. 16:18) gave himself for it and shed his blood to purchase it, (Eph. 5:25 — Acts 20:28) it would be foolish to visualize that he would leave it here without a name. So let us examine the word of God and see if we can find the name of the church.

In Matt. 22 the first fourteen verses, Christ likens the Kingdom of Heaven unto a marriage feast. The King who made the feast is God; his son is Christ, and the bride is the Church. Christ gave himself for the Church and married the church. In Revelation 18, and also chapter 21 the church is referred to as the bride of Christ. Now let us read from John 3, verse 29. "He that hath the bride is the bridegroom: but the friend of the bridegroom, which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly because of the bridegroom's voice: THIS MY JOY THEREFORE IS FULFILLED." In this quotation we read of a bride, a bridegroom, and the friend of the bridegroom. We have already seen that the bride is the church, Christ is the bridegroom, now John tells us that he is the friend of the bridegroom. It is a popular belief today that John the Baptist established a church and many professed Christians wear his name. The truth of the matter is that John the Baptist never did establish a church, but was merely the friend of the bridegroom, who was Christ. Today when a man and woman marry, the bride adopts the name of her husband. She never wears the name of her bridegroom's friend. So it is with Christ and the church, Christ's bride, which is his church, wears his name just as a bride today wears the name of her husband. Many would have you believe that the church wears the name of her husband's friend, (John the Baptist). This is absurd and ridiculous in reasoning and is not Bible teaching. So we see that the bride wears the name of Christ today as we read in Rom. 16:16, "The Churches of Christ salute you." So today, let us lay down all names of men and those which are not found in the Bible. Christ's Church wears his name, let us wear the same title and follow God's word. As the "disciples were called Christians first at Antioch" Acts 11:26, so let us wear the one name, Christian without any "handle" on it at all. If we were all united on one purpose and one aim, there wouldn't be these many "different kinds" of Christians today. Remember that Christ is the bridegroom, the church his bride, hence the church wears the name of her husband, which is Christ. We can find our name in the Bible, Rom. 16:16 and Acts 11:26. Can you find yours?

Congressman Takes In Practice 'Battle'

By Cong. O. C. Fisher
The Army, Navy and Air Force last week concluded the biggest joint military maneuver in our peace-time history when the little island of Vieques, off the shore of the Puerto Rican mainland, was "captured" from an "aggressor" enemy. The simulated invasion was known as Operations Portex.

Along with a few other Congressmen from the Armed Services Committee and two Senators, I witnessed the operation. There were hundreds of other observers, including about 1800 "umpires," assigned to assess and evaluate the success of every phase of the mission. Among those present was Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson. I saw Col. Jim Roberts, commanding officer at Goodfellow, along with the interested observers. Sarah McClendon, popular Texas newspaper correspondent was among a dozen women writers who were there.

A total of 160 naval ships, including the battleship Missouri and the giant aircraft carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, took part. The 82nd Airborne division participated, dropping over 900 paratroopers shortly before the beaches were "invaded" by the infantry. Unfortunately, there were a number of injuries among the paratroopers including one missing at the time this is written, a number of fractures, at least two considered serious. We visited the injured at the base hospital before leaving the island.

It was explained that the purpose of the maneuver was to exercise the troops, test modern weapons and techniques, and practice a carefully planned joint operation under unification.

The island of Vieques is right interesting. It is the second largest in the Puerto Rican group, is approximately 21 miles long, and is three and a half miles wide at its widest point.

There are around 12,000 natives on the island, engaged in farming. The people are backward, Spanish-speaking but apparently predominantly negro. Two-thirds of the land is owned by the Navy but a lot of it is leased to natives for cattle grazing. The terrain is green, rolling, and has many tropical growths including a scattering of cocconut trees along the beaches.

We flew from Washington to San Juan, with stops at Key West and Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. On the plane was Capt. Robert A. Owens of Hillsboro, whose wife is the daughter of the Tom R. Hunters of Lampasas, Capt. Owens is presently assigned to Public Relations in the Office of Secretary of Defense. We spent the night at Guantanamo where we have a large Naval base, operated there since 1902. The following day we flew the remaining 700 miles skirting the coast of Haiti for some 200 miles.

I was sorry that I did not have more time to spend in Puerto Rico. Congress is frequently called on for appropriations down there and many legislative problems arise from time to time dealing with our Puerto Rican territorial policy. The island is badly over-populated and the birth rate is terrific. About 80 percent of the income down there is from sugar refined from sugar cane. Some pineapple is raised along with some cocconut. A limited amount of mahogany is also produced.

In 1917 we gave the Puerto Ricans their citizenship, and they are free to migrate to the United States with the same freedom that Texans can move to New York. Since the war more than 200,000 of those natives have moved in, adding to our housing, employment and health problems. Racially, they are a conglomeration of Spanish, Negro, Indian and what-not. In my opinion this unrestricted immigration should not be allowed. Perhaps it would be much better for us if we retained our military installations and gave Puerto Rico its independence like we did the Philippines and Cuba.

San Juan, the capitol, is an attractive city, showing many signs of American commerce and investment. There you can see a blending of ancient Spanish culture and influence with Modern American progress. Several hotels have been built along the water front, the super-modern Caribe Hilton being the most recent. The clear brilliantly green sea water is said to be the most beautiful in the world.

The island has an interesting history. It is the only island on which Christopher Columbus set foot that flies the United States flag. He landed there in 1493 in search of water. The news was relayed to Spain and in 1508 Juan Ponce de Leon was sent to take possession. Many Puerto Rican cities had sprung up long before the first American colonies were established.

Puerto Rico remained a Spanish colony for 400 years, but since December 10, 1898 has been a U. S. possession—ceded by Spain following the Spanish-American War.

In San Juan may be seen many ancient stone structures, including forts, churches and castles. Of these, Morro Castle, overlooking the sea, is the biggest and most impressive. Its construction began in 1540, became a permanent garrison in 1586, was unsuccessfully attacked by Sir Francis Drake in 1595, withstood another by the Earl of Cumberland three years later. Then, an attack by Dutch forces was repulsed in 1525, and in 1898 it was bombarded by the U. S. Navy. Presently, the historic, well preserved installation is under the control of the U. S. Park service by an arrangement with the army. It stands as a reminder of by-gone days and the march of time.

New Possibilities For Texas Farmers

Flavor and drug crops offer new market possibilities to Texas farmers, Dr. C. C. Albers, University of Texas drug garden director, declares.

2. Coriander and fennel, volatile oils which are flavoring agents for candies, liquors, and pharmaceuticals, in the heavy soil of north-central Texas' blackland belt.
3. Wormwood, an essential liniment ingredient, also in the blackland belt.

Sage, coriander, and fennel are harvested as grain by combine, but wormwood is mowed like hay and hauled to a still where the entire plant is processed.

Texas Trades Deer for Muskrat and Beaver

Austin.—How Texas is bartering with other states to obtain needed wildlife reinforcements is described in the March issue of Texas Game and Fish, departmental magazine. W. C. Glazener, Wildlife Restoration Director, writes that Texas is now working on an exchange program "designed to improve quail hunting and to produce more of certain valuable fur bearing animals."

"After ten years of extensive deer trapping and transplanting in Texas," Glazener's article states, "the pressing need for deer stock on high quality ranges began to decline. In the same period, more active and positive quail management became increasingly urgent. Along with that situation, there was a growing interest in beaver as a water conserving instrument and freshwater muskrats as a source of cash income."

The Wildlife Restoration Director goes on to describe how a shrub like perennial called bicolor lespedeza was planted in strips and hedges and found to be useful in southern states to attract and hold quail. To develop strains adapted to Texas conditions, Game Department biologists have been working on plant selection and experimental planting of this species. Material for this vital work was obtained from Georgia and Florida in a trade involving Texas white-tailed deer.

The Glazener article continues: "Louisiana, in the meantime, became interested in bolstering its declining deer population by stocking Texas deer on selected refuge areas. As exchange items, they offered surplus muskrat and beaver from soil and vegetable types similar to and relatively near inland creek marshes scattered over East Texas. Our access to the beaver stock was important because surplus West Texas beaver were not numerous enough to fill restocking needs in that part of the state, following drought years when water conservation became a recognized necessity on many stock ranches. At the same time, several East Texas landowners were soliciting freshwater muskrat stock not available." He concludes that mutual advantages in the bartering are obvious.

D. C. Hill is improving in a Port Arthur hospital after an emergency operation performed there last week. He and his wife had been visiting their daughter, Miss Katherine Hill, and were preparing to leave for home when Mr. Hill became ill. The emergency operation was performed last Tuesday. Several other children have visited him during his illness, including Dr. Malone Hill of Alpine, who was attending a medical convention in New Orleans when informed of his father's illness, Miss Miltia Hill of Alpine, and Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview.

Guests in the Owen Fry home for the week end were Mrs. Fry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. West, and her sisters, Kara Lou and Jamie Ruth, all of Belton.

Robert Currie of the Navy has spent a furlough with his mother, Mrs. Lynn Alexander.

New Hospital To Stress Coordinated Fight Against Cancer

Vastly improved facilities for a coordinated fight against cancer will soon be available in Texas.

Construction will begin this year, probably in September, on a building for M. D. Anderson Hospital for Cancer Research, a University of Texas unit which will campaign against cancer on four fronts: prevention, treatment, research, and teaching.

There is nothing comparable to the hospital in the entire South, the nearest similar institution being the huge Memorial Hospital in New York City.

A $1,350,000 appropriation by the special session of the 51st Legislature, supplementing earlier appropriations of $605,554 and private and federal grants totaling $3,394,446 makes available $5,350,000 for constructing and equipping the new building.

The hospital, now functioning in temporary and scattered quarters in Houston, will be a part of the proposed Texas Medical Center. It is the key institution for cancer control in Texas with a program including:

(1) Operation of a prevention clinic to which patients may be sent upon written request of a physician, (2) treatment of indigent patients from any part of the state without cost to the patients, (3) many types of cancer research, (4) educational activities including graduate training in medicine, dentistry, nursing, and technical specialties as they relate to cancer treatment, and (5) publication of "The Cancer Bulletin", a digest of all available literature on cancer.

Tune in HENRY J. TAYLOR, ABC Network, every Monday evening.

NOTE THESE STYLE LINES WELL. They're straight out of the Buick Riviera book — and they cloak interiors that are roomy as much-higher-priced cars.

FORE AND AFT — a Beauty and a Buy

It's lithe, long and lovely—and it calls not just for one look, but for two.

See how this sleek Sedan looks coming down the road—bold grillwork shining, broad bonnet purring with power, and the wide, curving, unbroken sweep of a one-piece windshield giving you horizon-wide outlook.

And spot the pretty picture you make going away.

The broad, wrap-around rear window and topside styling in the Buick Riviera manner.

The graceful, spacious trunk, the "double bubble" taillights, the sense of high-fashion fleetness in everything from rear fender lines to the curve of the roof.

Yes, that's beauty—beauty in the unmistakable Buick manner. But observe also:

Interiors are extra roomy in all dimensions. The biggest you can buy for the money, we believe—and bigger than many higher-priced cars.

And, since this is a Buick SUPER, there's sensational new power under the hood—Buick's own F-263 Fireball straight-eight, this year's big news in valve-in-head power.

Yes, when you go stepping in this one, you'll really step—with roominess and top-drawer styling and the level going of all-coil springing—yes, and Dynaflo Drive* too, if you choose—making your pleasure complete.

The price? Well, drop in on your Buick dealer, ask about the SUPER 126 and be prepared for happy listening. Here's a buy—so grand a buy you'll lose no time getting behind a Buick wheel.

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL models.

Features like these mean BUICK'S THE BUY

HIGHER-COMPRESSION Fireball valve-in-head power in three engines, five hp ratings. (New F-263 engine in SUPER models.) • NEW-PATTERN STYLING, with bumper-guard grilles, taper-through fenders, "double bubble" taillights • WIDE-ANGLE VISIBILITY, close-up road view both forward and back • TRAFFIC-HANDY SIZE, less over-all length for easier parking and garaging, short turning radius • EXTRA-WIDE SEATS cradled between the axles • SOFT BUICK RIDE, from all-coil springing, Safety-Ride rims, low-pressure tires, ride-steadying torque-tube • DYNAFLOW DRIVE standard on all ROADMASTERS, optional at extra cost on SUPER and SPECIAL series • WIDE ARRAY OF MODELS with Body by Fisher.
