Radar Speed Meter Put In Operation Near Here

Motorists on U. S. 87 were checked with the new radar speed meter on Wednesdaay by members of the State Highway Patrol at a point one mile north of Tahoka.

A number of Tahoka citizens went out to inspect the new device for the measuring the speed of paasing cars.

The radar speed meter was set up here for test and experimental purposes, but will be in use by the Highway Patrol on the heavily traveled highways of the state.

Capt, Clay Bednar, Satte Highway Department safety officer, and Sgt. E. L. Stroud, were here demonstrating the radar meter.

Mounted in a patrol car, the instrument has a dial which registers the speed of any vehicle passing the patrol cor. The man in charge, on observing a speed violator, radios down the road to another officer, who in turn stops the speeding motorist.

"The instrument is not so much for the catching of speeders, as it is for getting motorist to slow down, " Mr. Bednar said. "We hope its use will serve as a warning to motorists to travel a little slower and live longer."

Along with the instrument, there is also a graph on which is recorded the speed of all passing vehicles so that Highway Patrol officers may determine trends in the speed of drivers.

"We hope use of the radar speed detector will have some impact in the reduction of traffic deaths in Texas for the third year in succession," Mr. Bednar declared. "Speed is what kills 'em every time, and there is no such thing as an unpreventable accident."

Killed on the highways of Texas in traffic accidents during the year 1952 were 2,498 people. This was cut down to 2,368 in 1953, partly because of the Department's safety program.

On this number, 145 were killed in 21-county Lubbock district in 1952, and 139 in 1953. Already 59 have been killed this year, 1954. Between now and January 1st, 1955, there will be between 60 and 90 deaths in the Lubbock district. You may be one of them.

Tahoka Bulldogs Meet Brownfield Tonight; Post Game Next Week

Tahoka Bulldogs play the up-and-coming Brownfield Cubs of District 6-AA tonight in that city.

Friday night of next week, the Bulldogs open their conference season with the Post Antelopes in that city.

Since Brownfield is close by, a large number of fans expect to attend the game. Tahoka Band will perform at half-time.

Coach Bill Haralson and Coach Dean Wright will field a crippled squad at Brownfield after having played two tough games in a row with Crane and Seminole.

Fullback I. V. J. Melton is still out with a knee injury received in the Crane game. Frankie Jones, defensive specialist, will miss the game because of a broken thumb, received in the Seminole game; and Ted Pridmore, halfback, will likely sit out the game because of a sprained ankle. Other team members are still sore and bruised from the two games.

The Cubs lost two lop-sided games at the opening of the season, to Phillips, always a Class AA powerhouse, 54 to 7, and to Levelland, now playing in AAA, 36 to 6.

The last three games, the Cubs have been on the up, winning from Muleshoe 58 to 0, Hereford 33, to 13, and Jefferson High of El Paso, a AAAA team 35 to 0 last week.

Coach Toby Greer is bringing his team along, and has hopes of finishing high in District 6-AA.

He has an experienced crew this year, including 17 Seniors. Among those most likely to see action are: Ends, Vernon Brewer, 175, formerly of Tahoka, and Kelly Mac Sears, 175; tackles, Lewis Chambliss, 170, and Lloyd Martin, 175; guards, Jerry Parker, 161, and Darwin Parker, 152; and center, Nick Greer, 163, son of the coach.

In the backfield, those who will see action include: Halfbacks Jesse Scott, 168, Jack Stricklin, 165, Jimmy Morris, 149, or Ronnie Swan, 145; Fullback, Lee Allen Jones 155; and any one of three quarterbacks, Richard Barnett, 148, Phil Addison, 148 and Gerald Jenkins, 140.

For a change, Brownfield should not outweigh Tahoka more than about 10 pounds to the man.

Poll Tax Payment Is Explained By Assessor-Collector

Every year there is confusion and misunderstanding about poll tax exemptions, states J. E. (Red) Brown, county tax assessor and collector.

Qualified voters are now voting on a 1953 poll tax receipt.

Next year, qualified voters will vote on a 1954 receipt.

If a person was 22 years of age and under 60 years of age last January 1, 1954, a poll tax receipt ($1.75 each) must be secured by such at the Tax office to become a qualified voter in 1955.

If a person has become 21 years of age since January 1, 1954, a poll tax exemption receipt will be issued free on the person making application at the Tax Office.

For the person 60 years of age or older on January 1, 1954, no poll tax receipt is necessary. In this county, such a person does not have to secure an exemption receipt. Just go to the polls and vote.

Odds and Ends

(BY E. L. THE ELDER)

"O Foolish Galatians, who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey the truth, bafore whose eyes Jesus Christ hath been evidently (plainly) set forth, crucified (as it were) among you?

Thus the great Apostle Paul, in his letter to the Galatians in one place and in many following verses, bursts forth in sorrowful lament because of the fickleness they have displayed in turning away from the great gospel truths which he has preached to them in his journeys through their country in Asia Minor as the Missionary to the Gentiles. Many of them had enthusiastically accepted the Gospel of Christ as Paul had preached it to them, Salvation by Grace through Faith in Christ, and he had founded a number of churches among them and had gone on his way to other fields of labor; and now he learns that certain Judaizers had come among them and had led many of them to believe that they must be circumcised and made into Jews before they could be saved.

It is to correct this error that he writes this letter to them, which is now regarded by practically all Protestant and Evangelical denominations and bodies of Christians as one of the greatest books of the New Testament

Present-day Ministers find texts for many a sermon in this Book, and it is often made a matter of special study by numerous religious groups. I know of one organization in the First Baptist Church of Tahoka whose members studied portions of the Book throughout last week. To me, the contents of this letter of Paul's are very interesting, especially as contained in the new Revised Standard Version. It is not my purpose, however, to enter into any csidussion of the doctrines set forth in the Book; I only want us to browse around a little among the people—the Galatians to whom Paul wrote. Who were they? Where did they come from? What part had they played in the history of the ancient world? What made them outstanding as a people in the days of Christ and of Paul?

* * *

I believe that it was Pope who wrote: "The greatest study of mankind is man." Most of us like to study people. And yet I dare say that there are many Theologians and Doctors of Divinity who can quote much Scripture and interpret it learnedly who yet can tell you very little about the people to whom it was written or about whom it was written.

I wonder, for instance, how many Bible students and even Bible scholars know that the Galatians to whom Paul wrote his marvelous letter were in fact a great and powerful nation of people at the time he wrote to them; that the states of Greece and Italy stood in constant fear of them; that a long time before Caesar's day, they had at one time conquered Rome itself? How many know that they were descendants of a branch of the ancient Gauls,—rough and ruthless barbarians who for centuries had inhabited most of the lands of Europe lying south and southwest of Germany, with the exception of Spain, had gradually divided themselves or been divided into many tribes, and had increased in population into the millions.

Possibly nobody knows just how long these ancient Gauls—or Celts, as they called themselves,—had occupied the rich plains and valleys and rolling hills of France and had finally made their way up into the Alps and the Appennines, and some of them had inched their way over into Asia Minor and built their homes in the rugged mountains north and northwest of Antioch and Tarsus. Many hundreds of miles east of Rome. The exact extent and boundaries of Galatia have never been positively determined but many Modern scholars now believe that the cities visited by Paul on his first missionary journey including Antioch in Pisidia, Iconium, Lystra, Derbe, Perga, and Attalia were included within the bounds of Galatia as well as much other territory to the north and northwest stretching back northeast even to the southern shores of the Gaspian Sea.

* * *

In this connection permit me to quote from a brief historical sketch contained in James B. Greenough's edition of Caesar's Gallic Wars," formerly included in the curriculum of practically every college and even accredited high school in the land.

"The Gauls were a branch of the Indo European family that in pre-historic times occupied parts of Asia and the greater part of Europe. They were known to the ancients as Celts or Gauls, and the name was applied without discrimination to all the barbarous people of the unknown west of Europe . . . "The Celts had been for centuries a migratory and always a warlike people. These characteristics led them into many countries where they made settlements of more or less importance. Besides those who occupied Gaul proper, there were Iberian Celts in Spain, British Celts, Belgic Celts, Italian Celts in northern Italy, Celts in the Alps (notable the Helvetii); Illyrian Celts, and Asiatic Celts, who had settled in Asia Minor and were known as Galatians. It was to them, after they were Christianized, that Paul wrote his well-known epistle.

"What knowledge the Greeks and Romans had of this powerful nation of barbarians was extremely vague. They had long hung like a dark storm cloud on the northern frontier of both countries, and at intervals poured forth in overwhelming and destructive numbers. Once they spread desolation and dismay through Greece, and all but succeeded in plundering the rich temple of Delphi. In B. C. 390 Rome was destroyed by these same barbarians, and in B. C 102 it was only the military genius of C. Marius that spared Italy a similar visitation.

* * *

"Long before the time of Caesar, the Romans had succeeded in subduing the Gauls south of the Alps (or on "this side" of the Alps) and making the province of Cisalpine Gaul . . . Transalpine Gaul (that part of Gaul lying across on the other side of the Alps) and Illyricum were more recent additions to the empire, and were less thoroughtly subdued and civilized. All to the north had as yet been unexplored and uninvaded by Roman arms. The Gauls, according to circumstances and location, showed at this time various degrees of civilization. Those to the south and west, being nearest to the refinement of the Province, had made rapid strides, had built many flourishing cities, enjoyed prosperous and on the whole peaceful community life, and practiced the arts of commerce. But those farther removed in the east and north (including presumably the un-Christianized) Galatians) and the Britons were still in a semi-savage condition.

"The Gauls are described as tall and of great physical strength with a fair skin and blonde hair, which they often reddened by artificial means. Men of rank and authority wore their hair and beard long. The more barbarous tribes gave themselves a terrible aspect by painting hideous devices on their half-neked bodies. Their voices were rough and harsh, their words few, and their language obscure and figurative. Disparaging others, boastful of themselves, arrogant, fond of idleness, they were very quarrelsome and always ready to fight, to relieve the monotony of their existence, if for no other reason They were, however, high-spirited and brave to utter recklessness and contempt for death.

"Gallic women are described by an ancient writer as the most beautiful of all barbarian women and as thrifty housewives. He adds that, aided by his wife, who is much more formidable than he, the Gaul will hold his own in any conflict. The Roman invaders were often witnesses of the heroism of these veritable Amazons.

* * *

"The Gauls lacked stability of character and are often criticized by Caesar for their fickleness; they were also avaricious and given to superstitions. On the other hand, they were not vicious, but naturally of a simple and teachable disposition. They were very quick to learn and adopt whatever nseful arts their neighbors brought to them. Their love of freedom was passionate; but their long years of wandering had not developed in them that feeling of national unity and that love of the soil that we include under the term patriotism.

"The life of the less civilized tribes was rude in the extreme. Their houses were little more than huts of clay and wood thatched with straw and branches. The dwelling was open to daylight by the door alone, and had little or no furniture. Their beds were heaps of straw or furs. War was their principal occupation. They gave some attention to agriculture, raising the coarser grains the better sort of fruits and vegetables being unknown to them. They also had large flocks and herds. They ate but little bread, but large quanities of meat which they are described as cutting with swords and eating in a ravenous manner.

"The Gauls knew something o the arts and sciences. They did some weaving, and those on the coast had skill in ship-building and navigation," but this statement obviously did not apply to the Galatians in Asia Minor, for they for the most part lived in the mountains and had little contact with the sea.

The general statement is made that the Gauls, "like most semi-civilized and savage people," were fond of gaudy clothing. They liked bright colors and finery, and both the women and the men wore much jewelry, gold when they were able to afford it, brass otherwise. Short, colorful tunics were common articles of dress.

All this information was gathered and presented to the students of the Latin of Caesar's day with the Gauls of Europe in mind, but it probably applies fairly well also to the Gauls who settled in Asia Minor hundreds of miles east of Rome and of Gaul proper and became known before Paul's day as Galatians.

I think this look-in upon the every-day life of the Galatians should make the study of Paul's letter to them much more understandable and interesting.

For instance, it is worth-while to note that Mr. Greenough, editor of Caesar's Commentaries, supports Paul's outburst of disappointment and sorrow quoted at the beginning of this Column, when he (Greenough) declares that "The Gauls lacked stability of character and are ofaen criticized by Caesar for the fickleness."

* * *

Now, probobly all of you who studied Latin for as long as two or three years in College, will be tempted to drag out of some old book-case or dusty closet your college copy ot Caesar and try your hand at the delightful (?) task of translating a few paragraphs of the volume again. Here it is. I give you a free-hand, not a literal, translation. You remember it:

"All Gaul is divided into three parts; one of which the Belgians inhabit, another the Aquitanians, and a third part is inhabited by a people who in their own language are called Celts but in our language, Gauls. All these differ among themselves in language, institutions, and laws. The Garonne River separates the Gauls from the Aquitanians, and the Matrona River (Marne) and the Sequana (Seine) separate the Guals from the Belgians.

"Of all these peoples, the Belgians are the bravest (Fiercest) because they are the farthest away from the civilization and refinement of the Province; because very rarely do they visit the merchants (business centers); and because scarcely ever do they import those things which tend to weaken the character (physical stamina) of men.

Furthermore, they live right next to the Germans, who live just across the Rhine and with whom they are continually waging war. For the same reason, the Helvetians also excel the rest of the Guals in valor, since almost daily they contend with the Germans in battle. Either they are fighting to keep the Germans out of their boundaries, or they themselves are waging war in the boundaries of the Germans.

One district of this land which it is said the Gauls occupy, has its beginning at the Rhone River, is bounded by the Garonne River, the Ocean, the boundaries of Belgium, and extends from the Seine and the Helevetian River even to the Rhine. It slopes to the north. Belgium has its beginning at the extreme boundaries of Gaul, and it extends to the lower part of the Rhine. River. It looks toward the northern and eastern sun. (extends in a northeast and southwest direction.)

"Aquitania extends from the Garonne River to the Pyrannees Mountains and to that part of the Ocean where it touches Spain. It looks into the setting sun and to the north."

And here I am going to quit. But, in spite of my imperfect and even crude translation of these beginning paragraphs of Caesar's great work, can you not see that he was doing a terse and charming piece of history writing? As I had scarcely looked into a Latin book in twenty-five years, I found the task of translating even Caesar to be a laborious and somewhat puzzling task; but I want to edvise young people who expect to devote their time to writing or to public speaking that they study Latin. There is no better way to master English than to study Latin. If you really wist to learn English grammar, study Latin grammar.

What Farmers Are Doing

Weldon McClintock has completed three acres of level borders and has seeded them to alfalfa.

Jay Moore has had his land checked and plans to add twenty four acres of level borders and install concrete pipe.

Durwood Hancock, Garland Pennington, Joe O. Unfred, Howard Alford, Felix Nolte, and Lewis Allsup plan to install concrete underground pipe to increase the efficeincy of their water application.

W. W. Hagood and Larry Hagood are planning terraces to aid in water conservation. Carl Griffin who farms near Grassland, had level borders to help with his irrigation system and then his well played out. He intended to plow down the borders and go back to the old method, but that was before he noted the vast diffenerce in the cotton yield Carl's borders have received no more water than the rest of his land yet he declares that the borders make one-half of a bale per acre of cotton compared to one-third of a bale of cotton per acre on the non bordered. contoured land. So. in Carl's opinion, it was worth the very little extra effort of working the borders. He believes that dryland borders have a definite place in farming operations here in the Lynn County Soil Conservation District.

Along that same line, Lonnie Howell, east of Tahoka, is planning to look into the idea of dry land borders on his land.

Make Application Now

If you are planning any kind of soil conservation improvements on your farm now is the best time to make your arrangements. It will mean speedier service when the time comes to actually do the work. If any mapping needs to be done or any preliminary planning by Soil Conservation Service technicians is required, then it can be made beforehand to avoid delay when the actual work of terracing, land leveling, pipe laying, etc. is started. So stop by the Soil Conservation Office or the ASC office and talk it over now.

Plant Winter Cover Crops

The fine rain will give many the opportunity to plant cover crops of rye, wheat, barley, etc. that they have been holding off planting. Vetch and peas still have time to get a start if planted right away.

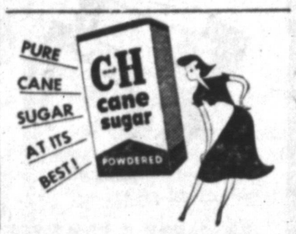

Conserve Soil and Water

Leave a good stand of stubble on top of the ground to conserve the moisture that has fallen, and to prevent soil blowing later on. Stubble mulch tillage that leaves stalks on top of the ground cuts down evaportation from sun and wind and provides a protective cover against loss of soil from rain and wind.

Conservation is every bodys job —and it pays off.

WASHINGTON AND
"SMALL BUSINESS"
By C. WILSON HARDER

Presidential veto of federal pay raise bill insofar as it pertains to postal workers presents interesting viewpoint on current Washington viewpoint.

* * *

Veto message stated bill would raise government costs $312 million for which Congress has not levied additional taxes. Presumably, but for this oversight, federal workers would have received raises, regardless of whether entitled to them or whether jobs serve any useful purpose.

C.W. Harder

* * *

But probably in entire history of government there has never been a government operation as efficient as U. S. Post Office.

* * *

Vetoed bill included $112 million increase for this vital service, which was turned down because of reputed $437 million deficit in 1954 and because a measure to raise first class postage rates failed.

* * *

Yet evidence indicates U. S. Post Office could be run with no, or little cost.

* * *

But Congressman James Davis of Georgia claims $232 million of this deficit is in second class mail; $153 million in third class mail. These deficits total $385 million. Without them Post Office would have been only $42 million in red. Undoubtedly plugging of other leaks would put postal service in black.

* * *

Third class provides for delivery of catalogs and circulars for as little as 10c per pound, while first class mail costs 48c per pound, parcel post 18 to 32c per pound, according to zones. In addition, for big catalogs that go under parcel post, a special bargain basement rate is given.

* * *

Third class mail also gives bargain rates to big corporations seeking to drive out independent regional manufacturers, city by city, by broadcast mailing of cut price coupons to every home.

* * *

But even more interesting is second class mail accounting for roughly half the deficit. Back in 1879 Congress set up low second class mail rates for newspapers and other periodicals to facilitate transmission of news through impartial publications of which weekly and independently owned daily newspapers are the only survivors.

* * *

But under this 75 year old law, big national magazines printing short stories, novels and other material between advertising charged for at $30,000 or more per page, are given cheap rates.

* * *

A half pound magazine containing over a million dollars worth of advertising, is delivered by Post Office for only a nickel. Mail subscribers to magazines pay 13c per copy.

* * *

Thus facts appear those who seek to destroy competition by couponing, those who sell through catalogs in competition with local independent business and a few huge magazine publishing combines are subsidized to tune of hundreds of millions of dollars per year.

* * *

Therefore, this is interesting.

* * *

No mention is made of making these "free loaders" pay for services which create the deficit. Rather, idea is to charge general public more through higher rates, or taxes, to continue these subsidies, if postal worker pay is increased. An interesting sidelight on a current trend.

Leroy Nettles Is Owner of "Mystery Farm"

Last week's mystery farm is operated by Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Nettles and is located a mile north and a mile and a half east of New Home. It is owned by Mrs. Nettles' parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. McWhorter of Lubbock.

First person to guess the place correctly was Mrs. Dick Turner of New Home, and first correct Tahoka guesser was Mrs. Arlie McNeely. Others included E. R. Blakney, B. G. Smith Mrs. Nettles, Mrs. Charles Armontrout, and Loyd Mears. Nine guessers "missed the boat."

Mr. and Mrs. Nettles have lived on the 160 acre dry land farm since 1947. Leroy also farms a half section irrigated farm at Lakeview which is owned by his dad, Roy O. Nettles.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Nettles were reared in Lynn county, Leroy at Lakeview and attended school at Meadow, and Marjorie at New Home. They were married at New Home on Dec. 6, 1942, and have one child, Yvonne, age five. Mrs. Nettles' parents bought the farm in 1928, but moved to Lubbock in 1943.

Leroy tries to carry out a well rounded farming program. He raises a few milk cows, uses practical conservation practices, such as contoured rows and plowing under green feeds. When he can find time, he likes to go fishing.

During World War II, Leroy spent three and a half years in the Army, about six months of which was in the South Pacific.

TWO M5XICAN CHILDREN BURIED HERE MONDAY

It was a strange co-incidence, if nothing more, that bereaved two Mexican families, not related to each other, in almost identical fashion here last Sunday, when Death came into the home of each and bore away a babe, after the two had suffered from illness seemingly identical in character and under very similar circumstances. The two, one a ten-month-old boy and the other an eight-month-old girl, had been sick about the same length of time, died within two hours of each other, and were buried Monday afternoon at a single funeral service for the two.

The boy baby was the son of Henry Pena (pronounced Penya) and his wife Enedina Pena (Enedinya Penya) and the babe bore his father's name, Henry Pena Jr He died in the Dr. Phohl Clinic here at about 6:45 p. m. Sunday.

The girl baby was the daughter of Zeferino Vela and his wife Emma Vela, and she bore the name of Belita Vela. She had been under the treatment of Dr. Joe Lehman of O'Donnell. The maladies from which the two suffered were very similar and very stubborn. Little Belita Vela eight months old, died in her parents' home in southeast Tahoka at five o'clock Sunday afternoon. Both sets of parents live in Tahoka but were not well acquainted with each other, but all are Catholics. Since no Catholic priest resides in Tahoka, one came down from Lubbock Monday to conduct the funeral services. So, this week, there are two new made graves out in the Mexican division of the Tahoka Cemetery and two sets of deeply grieved Mexican parents in Tahoka who crave our sympathy and love.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of thanking our neighbors and friends for the many kindnesses shown us during the recent illness and upon the death of our beloved little infant, Belita Vela, eight months old, who died the past Sunday and for whom funeral services were conducted at four o'clock Monday afternoon in the Catholic Church here. We are grateful to those who called at our home to express sympathy and who offered to help in any way possible, to those who furnished flowers for the funeral services, to those who provided meals for the occasion, and especially to Dr. Lehman of O'Donnell who worked so faithfully to relieve the pain and to save the life of our beloved baby. We thank you all and pray God's blessings upon you. The parents,
Zeferino Vela, the father.
Emma Vela, the mother.

Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Hill of Seagraves were here last week end visiting. Actually, the Hills live 14 miles west of Wellman, where they are farming. Mr. Hill says they have pretty good crops over there this year.

The products of the petroleum industry are literally everywhere. Every hour of the day, oil or natural gas serves you and virtually every other American. Oil is indispensable to our way of life; it makes the United States a better, safer country to live in.

You may wake in the morning in a room warmed by a furnace burning fuel oil or natural gas.

You drive to work, and your car burns gasoline, uses petroleum oils and greases for lubricants, rolls on tires of synthetic rubber which had their beginning in an oil refinery.

The plant where you work may depend on oil or natural gas as the source of its power. The oil and gas industry supplies 65% of the nation's energy requirements.

Meanwhile, if you live in Texas, your children are attending schools to the support of which the oil industry pays heavy production and ad valorem taxes. And your U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force plan the national defense with confidence that the oil industry has developed the proven reserves that can fuel their machines of war. Oil also supplies munitions — TNT for instance.

Finally, the lady of the house may prepare dinner on a stove fueled with natural gas, and you may go to bed in pajamas laundered with a petroleum detergent, after reading a newspaper printed with ink made from oil, in a room decorated with a paint manufactured from petroleum.

...And that's only a beginning.

The products of the petroleum industry, oil and natural gas, head the list of our most useful resources. A progressive, competitive oil industry, encouraged in the future as in the past, will undertake the further development that will keep them there.

New Home Wins Over Southland

New Home Leopards celebrated homecoming Saturday night by winning over Southland 20 to 12 in a 6-man conference game.

The victory was New Home's second conference win against one defeat. The Leopards had lost to Spade and won over Smyer. Today, they journey to Cotton Center.

In the game with Southland, Coach Norman Windham's improving team grabbed a quick six-point lead, with Jimmy Brown scoring. Brown scored again in the second, but Southland tied up the score at 12-12 by halftime. Later, Jimmy Dean Scored a TD, and Brown tackled a Southland boy in the end zone for a safety to give New Home the 20 to 12 victory.

In halftime ceremonies, Miss Peggy Hemmeline was crowned the homecoming queen.

Many ex-students of the school turned out for the afternoon and post-game meeting of the homecoming celebration.

GAMES AT POST

Tahoka Seventh and Eighth Grade and "B" teams will play at Post Tuesday night of next week, Coach Bill Haralson announces.

Pioneer Tells Story Of Plains Wildlife

R. C. Parrack, who died at Lubbock June West Texas. Following is the second installment of his interesting true story of Wildlife in the West in those days before the settlers came as told to Ben Moore (pictured here) of O'Donnell

During the late seventies there was some caattle brought out to the plains. Domestic cattle never enjoyed the company of buffaloes but they did sometimes become slightly mixed. I once roped a buffalo calf and got it into a herd of cattle where I removed the rope. It remained and seemed contented. At about the same time, I ran into a herd of buffalo and managed to pass between a mother buffalo and her young calf, the latter in it's confused state taking right after my horse. I galloped away to a herd of our cattle with which the little fellow remained. At the age of 18 months, he was among a herd of beefsteers when a buyer offered to purchase him for five dollars. I held for, and received sixteen dollars the same as was paid for each steer. But I was careful to have the buyer understand that he was buying him just as he then stood. knowing well that no man could drive a buffalo except in the direction chosen by the latter.

Much of my time was spent in the vicinity of the small village of sweetwater during the 'Seventies. Much of that section being of a broken terrain. buffaloes spent much time there in winter. One day a fellow by the name of Lynch was prowling about when he found himself in close proximity to a buffalo which immediately charged him. Lynch jumped into a narrow gulch where he lay prone in an effort to escape, but the buffalo was quickly upon him, trampling and goring the poor fellow into a horrible mass. Perhaps there was never a more dangerous animal then an infuriated buffalo. Their horns were uniformly set in such a manner as to be most effective in goring a standing horse, but when occasion demanded. they could also pick up and toss a man from a prone position with ease.

During the 1870's nobody in West Texas knew nor cared whether the section might ever be considered for farming. But sometimes gardening was tried out in a small way. Since there were no wire fences there was nothing to prevent antelope or buffaloes helping themselves to garden stuff, especially after nightfall.

An old couple living near the present town of Sweetwater resorted to a then practical method of irrigating their garden plants by using buffalo horns which they sawed off at the small end, setting a horn at each plant through which water was poured, the small end of the horn sticking in the ground.

When buffaloes were yet plentiful we often ran upon mountain lions in the rougher sections. One morning while we were in camp at the head of the Colorado east of Lamesa I started in search of our horses, they having grazed far from camp during the night. We had a sort or nondescript little dog with us which I was glad enough to have accompany me. Striking a hot trail he ran a few yards ahead when he set up a terrible lot of barking. A full grown lion was perched in a hackberry tree. I shot the lion what might be considered a dead shot, but as it hit the ground the little dog got a bit too near, winding up with his scalp split to the bone from his eyes upward. Often lions killed dogs even in their death struggles unless the latter were trained to protect themselves by staying out of reach of the deadly claws. Undoubtedly, it seems incredible that a great number of lions, or panthers ever ranged over the great plains of West Texas, but such is true. Of course they remained about the caprock or along the shores of the great alkali lakes principally, sometimes being routed from patches of shinnery out in the more open sections. On one occasion while we were camped in the Yellow House canyon, not a great way from the present town of Littlefield, our camp dog followed me as I rode out for a look at our saddle horses. He ran into a patch of brush and put a lion up a tree. I shot it without thinking much of fthe occurrence, not realizing that that section would some day be thickly populated by farmers.

The great ranches along the caprock will likely harbor a few lions for years to come, since they are so cunning and extremely careful in avoiding soft mud where tracks might be made. Snow affords the surest way of detecting their presence.

Alabama Senator Visits Son Here

Senator W. H. Howle of Heflin, Alabama, visited here this week with his son, E. A. Howle, and family, who farm the H. B. Howell farm at Redwine.

He came on Saturday and left Thursday. He is on a trip visiting other sons at Abilene, Plainview, Amarillo, and in Oklahoma and Kansas. His wife was unable to make the trip becauase of ill health.

Senator Howle, 80, served four years in the House of Representatives and four years in the Senate of the Alabama Legislature back in the late 'Teens and early 'Twenties.

He justly takes pride in the fact that he helped create the Alabama State Highway Department back in 1923, and was partly responsible for the present fine system of highways in that state.

Another son, B. B. Howle, and family of Plainview, and a grandson, Morgan Howle, and wife of Lubbock were visitors Sunday in the E. A. Howle home. Morgan is a student in Texas Tech.

Jay Moore Tells Of Oregon Home

Jay W. Moore, who recently moved to Chilliwack, British Columbia, Canada. is back here for about two months to oversee the harvesting of his crops on his farm at Lakeview.

Jay says he and his family have already fallen in love with that part of Canada. They have a small irrigated farm just two miles from the town of Chilliwack, which is 65 miles from Vancouver, a city of a million population in southwestern Canada.

Dairy products and vegetables are raised there, and he says the things one can do with vegetables are fabulous. Being near a large city, they have a good market The supply of water is inexhaustible.

Jay's brother, Kay, will farm his Lynn county land next year.

The League of Nations was established on June 28, 1919, and dissolved April, 1946.

Simeon Kemp and family of San Angelo spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. S. R. Kemp, who returned home with them for a visit.

Bulldogs Lose To Seminole 7 to 0

Tahoka Bulldogs lost a tough defensive battle 7 to 0 to the Seminole Indians in that city Friday night, the scoring difference being on one pass-play good for 69 yards and a touchdown.

Tthat play came in the second quarter, when Seminole Quarterback Donnie Wilson spotted Right End Harry Walker away down field. who had gotten behind a Tahoka defencive man playing his first game of high school football, threw a long one which Walker gathered in on Tahoka's 35 and raced into the end zone. Fullback Edwin Murphy kicked the extra point.

The game was a rough, tough affair in which the officials were reluctant to call penalties for piling-on. Tahoka was playing without the service of its Fullback I. V. J. Melton, although Donald Blair did fine work as his replacement. Halfback Tommy Franklin saw only limited service, and defensive specialist Frankie Jones went out early in the game with a broken thumb. Also, Tahoka's team was still sore from the rugged Crane game they won the week before.

Statistics

5 for 45	Penalties	10 for 70
2 of 4	Fumbles lost	3 of 4

Seminole. however, presented the best line Tahoka has run up against this year. and Halfback Johnny Speer, who played left end on defense, was a thorn in Tahoka's side all night.

In spite of this. Tahoka outplayed Seminole, running with the ball for 155 yards to Seminole's 105 and making nine first down's to Seminole's seven. Two of the latter were on penalties, and another the touchdown play.

First Quarter

Huddleston kicked to the 15, and Benson brought out to the 36, but Seminole was forced to kick from the 41 to Tahoka's 32. Tahoka fumbled and lost the ball on the second play, but Seminole returned the compliment on the next. Smith, Williams. and Blair ran the ball, along with a 9-yard pass to Bell, to the Seminole 41. where the ball went over on downs. A few minutes later, Tahoka had a punt blocked. Seminole, operating from Tahoka's 35, threw a pass that Smith intercepted on the 15. Blair, Williams, and Pridmore moved out to the 30 before Williams kicked to Seminole's 40.

Second Quarter

Holding Seminole again. Tahoka took the punt on its 17, and moved to midfield again before being forced to punt. Seminole failed to make a first on its own 40, and Tahoka moved down to the 31, where the ball went over. On Seminole's first play. Wilson passed to Walker for the only TD of the game.

Tahoka moved out to midfield again before being forced to punt. Pushed back to its own 12 by the kick and a clipping penalty, Seminole's Murphy made 8, and then Wilson passed again to Walker who lateraled to Dozier, the play going 9 yards, but Dozier fumbled and Tahoka recovered on Seminole's 29. On the next play. however, Seminole intercepted Smith's pass and brought the ball back to its 35. The half ended a few plays later.

Bands Performed

Tahoka and Seminole bands put on a colorful halftime display. each doing some fine precision marching and formation stunts.

Third Quarter

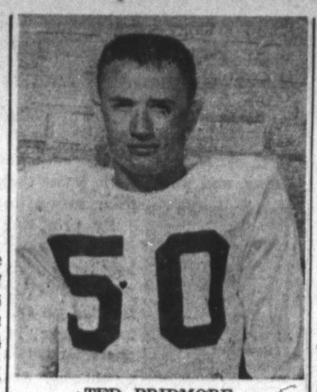

Tahoka moved out to the 45 following the kick-off, and failed to make the one foot needed for a first. Here Seminole got its first real drive underway, making two first to Tahoka's 22. where the Bulldogs held. Neither team could gain, and the ball exchanged hands four times before quarter's end.

Fourth Quarter

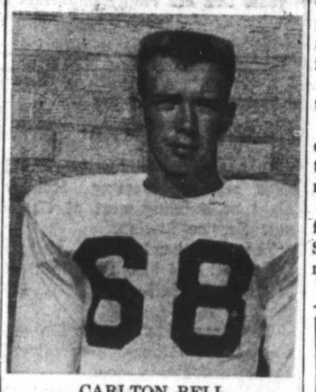

Early in the fourth, Tahoka appeared to be going. Williams caught a pass from Smith, which carried from Tahoka's 40 to Seminole's 38, but drew a 5-yard penalty which nulified the play. The ball was kept near midfield until game's end with neither team able to gain consistently.

Jimmy Williams, Duane McMillan, and Garland Huddleston turned in fine gamaes, but the big Seminole line, which averaged about 200 pounds on defense was too much for the Bulldogs.

Tahoka's team was badly battered and bruised from the game and from laxness of officials.

Tahoka Defeats Three Post Teams

Tahoka school teams won three football games here Tuesday night from as many Post teams.

In a B-team scrimmage, Tahoka "skunked" the Post Antelope B-team 12 to 0. Lyndell Wood ran over the first touchdown in the second quarter, and Karl Prohl ran over the second in the third quarter.

Tahoka Eighth Grade managed to defeat Post Eighth Grade 6 to 0 in a close game. Bobby Jones scored the lone touchdown in the first quarter.

The Seventh Grade game was a one-sided affair, with the Tahoka boys winning 35 to 15 while using reserves most of the second half. Tahoka scored every time they got the ball in the first half. George Adams took a punt and went 63 yards to score, Tim Chapa went 9 yards 42 yards, and 58, yards on scoring runs, and Kenneth Stice went 30 yards for the other score. Against reserves, Post scored a safety in the second half and two touchdowns.

Lynn County CHECKERBOARD NEWS

THEY LIKE OUR SCARFS

During the "wet spell" last week, we saw quite a number of ladies already wearing the fine silk head scarfs they had received at our store. These came "free" with the first 100 pounds of Purina Laying Chows they purchased during the month of September.

A few of the ladies who got in on our scarf deal are: Mrs. H. J. Ratcliff, Mrs. Bertice Askew, Mrs. Pete Bounds, Attye-Belle McGonagill, Mrs. Charlie Lichey, Mrs. R. W. Barton, Mrs. E. F. Payne, Mrs. W. H. Cook, Mrs. Bill Clayton, Mrs. Kenneth Turner, and Mrs. E. H. West.

LOCAL CAGE EGG FACTORY

You've been hearing a lot about "Caged Eggs" over television, radio, and in magazines.

Lynn county's first caged laying hen operation is owned by Bertice Askew of the Wells community. His hens have been in production, and the eggs sold in Tahoka since April.

Local housewives have grown accustomed to the exceptional high quality of Mr. Askew's eggs. They are being featured at KENLEY'S GROCERY. Look for them in the red, white, and blue checker-board carton, labeled—"PURINA CAGE EGGS." When you buy these eggs you have the dual guarantee of the Ralston Purina Co. and Mr. Askew, personally, that they were actually produced from hens in cages, and that each egg is strictly top quality.

We like to "toot our horn" for home folks and locally produced products, especially when they go to extra efforts to produce and properly handle them.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There are indications many are puzzled by some campaign oratory being released in November election warm up.

* * *

Most confusing appears to be commonly used assertion to justify anything and everything that "we must not forget we are now THE world power."

C.W. Harder

* * *

Yet many people are analyzing this oft - repeated claim. Since days of the Caesars there have been many world powers. Yet in each era, the world power represented a bastion which was accorded world wide respect. But never in history has any nation become the world power, or maintained that position by playing Santa Claus every day of the year, year after year.

* * *

From the Napoleonic Wars until 1914, England was the world power. And with the exception of a little brawl with the Boers, England maintained that position without fighting anybody. In addition, she maintained it without charity, for the sun has yet to set on day England gives away as much as a shilling.

* * *

So today's peculiar happenings provoke many questions.

* * *

As example there is recent transaction of Foreign Operations Administration, chief dispenser of American billions to practically every country, Communist Yugoslavia included. In this particular transaction, it was decided U. S. taxpayers would give the railroad system of India 100 locomotives.

* * *

Two things meet the eye immediately. One is that India's boss man, Nehru, is on record as not being too annoyed by Communists; in fact many feel he is quite friendly. The second point is that the Indian railroad system is a government operated socialistic venture.

* * *

Also in line with New Look in shovelling American taxpayers billions to world in form of goods, everybody was invited to bid on building the locomotives.

* * *

Successful bidder was Japan Rolling Stock Exporter Association, part of Japanese cartel system that reappeared after General Douglas MacArthur was recalled. This cartel bid $81,470 each, less than half the lowest American bid of $178,200 each.

* * *

Japanese cartel gets the business. American business and labor which pays the taxes, receive nothing. Thus American free enterprise system is taxed to pay cartel to produce goods for use of socialistic operation with communist sympathies.

* * *

Other fantastic manipulations are being revealed in Washington. For example, Paul Kermick, chief investigator for Senate Appropriations Committee headed by Sen. Styles Bridges, has filed report to effect U. S. taxpayers are paying heavily to build up a British aircraft monopoly under guise of defense necessity.

* * *

Meanwhile there appears tendency to yawn whenever a campaign speaker defends extortion of U. S. taxpayers as necessary because U. S. is now THE world power. Many feel situation is similar to that which would exist if a bank embarked on a campaign to become community's leading bank by giving away money to any and all comers with free hand.

Gen. Bradley Says UDF Services Are Important To Tomorrow's Leaders of Democracy

Through the services of United Defense Fund agencies we, here at home, keep in touch with our young people in uniform, we make them aware that we appreciate and have respect for the job they're doing, and we let them know that, meanwhile, we are doing everything we can to strengthen democracy here.

By providing adequate health and recreation services through our own united efforts, we are helping to avert that feeling on the part of service people that they are cut off, that they are an isolated group. We can make it possible for them to continue, in some measure at least, to enjoy our standards and to take part in the life of the community where they are stationed.

This, in my judgment, is tremendously important. We are engaged in a fight to preserve our way of life. We are defeating our own purpose if we allow our young people, tomorrow's leaders of our democracy, to be shut off from that way of life during those years that are vitally important in their development.
