Wright: House will OK bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Leader Jim Wright on Friday predicted the House will swiftly approve next week a Senate-passed bill guaranteeing a cost-of-living increase to Social Security recipients even if inflation remains low.

Wright, of Texas, said the House vote could come as early as Tuesday.

The majority leader accused President Reagan of "posturing" on the issue by representing it as his own initiative at a news conference early in the week. Wright said the House would have approved the adjustment in any case.

Reagan "has been a person who has reduced benefits to the elderly and the elderly know that," Wright told reporters.

Zipped through the Republican-controlled Senate on Thursday night, 87-3, after only a few minutes of discussion, the legislation would guarantee Jan. 1 cost-of-living increases even if the rate of inflation stays below 3 percent, the current trigger.

Congressional Democrats, while labeling Reagan's request an election-year ploy, were attempting to re-stake their claim to the issue through fast enactment of the Social Security bill.

Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., who sponsored the move in the Senate, said Friday the adjustment was "a modest increase" and he was glad the president had suggested it.

"It was a proposal for truce in the matter and I'm happy to accept this truce," Moynihan said, adding that efforts to shore up the Social Security system "have been bipartisan all along."

Wright, however, refused to give Reagan any credit for the move. "He tried posturing as a friend of the elderly, a role he doesn't deserve ... He knew that Congress was going to do it (approve the adjustment) all along."

The inflation rate recently has averaged just above 3 percent and administration economists have said that it may fall below that figure by the fall.

Under the current law, cost-of-living increases are not paid to Social Security recipients until inflation, as reflected in the Consumer Price Index, goes above 3 percent.

The waiving of the 3 percent trigger would cost the Treasury about $5 billion, Moynihan aide Lance Morgan said. He said the average couple now receiving $700 month would get about $21 more a month, beginning in January, at near 3 percent inflation. A single recipient now receiving $425 a month would be paid about $12 more.

The increase would appear in January checks, but would be announced in late October, just before the Nov. 6 election.

Even though the Senate passed the bill overwhelmingly, the legislation technically has not yet left the possession of the chamber.

Senate leaders said they are holding onto it for a possible second vote on Monday or Tuesday to allow several senators who were absent on Thursday night.

Lending a helping hand

Apartment occupant Steven Pine mans a fire hose as an unidentified city fireman shields himself from debris during a major blaze Friday night at the Cimarron apartment complex in the 5200 block of North Loop 250. Five fire department units, along with Fire Chief James Roberts, responded to the 9:07 p.m. call and firefighters remained on the scene well into the night. Pine's apartment reportedly was destroyed and others were damaged. The cause of the blaze was not immediately established. No injuries were reported.

U.S.S.R.: Space talks impossible

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union said Friday that talks on a treaty to ban space weapons are "impossible" because the United States won't agree to Soviet demands to limit the agenda and impose a moratorium on testing and deployment.

Deputy Foreign Minister Viktor G. Komplektov told reporters that diplomatic contacts failed to produce an agreement on an agenda for the talks, which the Kremlin has said should begin in Vienna this September.

He charged that the Reagan administration's position on the talks "has been negative and ambiguous from the very beginning and remains so now."

The Soviets proposed that both sides issue a joint statement agreeing to limit the proposed talks to a total ban on space weaponry and to impose the testing and deployment moratorium while the negotiations proceed.

Komplektov told Soviet and foreign reporters that the Kremlin had received a U.S. response, but that it did not mention space weapons or a moratorium. He indicated the Kremlin considered this a rejection of the Soviet proposal.

"First the United States disrupted the negotiations on nuclear weapons in Geneva," he said. "Now it renders impossible the beginning of talks on the prevention of the militarization of outer space."

An official U.S. Embassy spokesman said, "The U.S. position was made known through diplomatic channels. This is a diplomatic communication we will not comment on."

In Washington, Reagan's spokesman, Larry Speakes, said, "We do not believe that such discussions are 'impossible.' And we are continuing to deal with this subject in private diplomatic channels."

"The door is not closed so far as we're concerned and we'll be there," he added.

But Speakes also said the United States still intends to raise at Vienna the possibility of reviving the Geneva talks on medium-and long-range nuclear missiles, and he claimed that position did not amount to a precondition.

"Already existing nuclear systems deserve our urgent attention," Speakes said. "If the Soviets do not choose to listen to our views on this subject, they need not. But for us, and for mankind, this subject is too important to ignore."

He said the U.S. position "is that we have accepted the Soviet proposal for discussions in Vienna in September without preconditions.

"Our preparations are continuing vigorously and we expect to be in Vienna."

A senior Western diplomat, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said the Soviet proposal to talk only about a total ban on space weapons and to impose the moratorium would require the United States to "sign a paper saying what the outcome of these negotiations will be."

Teen-ager dies suddenly; Brother dies soon afterward

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — Minutes after a teen-ager dropped dead while watching television, his 10-year-old brother collapsed and died as his mother returned home with the news.

Neither had shown previous symptoms of illness, and a similar sudden death of a cousin seven years ago suggested that an inherited condition may have killed all three, authorities said Friday.

Michael Stott, 16, and his brother, Christopher, 10, died 92 minutes apart Wednesday night and early Thursday morning in this city about 20 miles southeast of Rochester. A 14-year-old cousin died suddenly on a baseball field seven years ago.

A preliminary autopsy found lung congestion in both brothers.

Dr. Charles Bathrick, the Ontario County coroner, said that such congestion has been known to follow a sudden irregularity in heartbeat.

"Certainly the two things happening suddenly, together with the cousin a few years ago, makes it a possibility" that a congenital heart defect was to blame, Bathrick said in a telephone interview.

The cause of the boys' deaths won't be known for certain, however, until the middle of next week, when microscopic analyses of organ tissues and toxicology tests are completed, Bathrick said.

Earlier, Monroe County Medical Examiner Dr. Nicholas Forbes, who was not involved in the autopsy, speculated that a rare heart disorder called "instantaneous physiological death" might have stricken the brothers.

Michael collapsed while watching television at a friend's house, police said Thursday.

An hour and a half later, as Michael's grieving mother returned from the hospital, Christopher ran to meet her and also collapsed and died.

Forbes said his suspicion on the cause of death was strengthened by the death in 1977 of the brothers' cousin, Daniel Stott of Rochester, who collapsed on a baseball field during an argument.

All three lost their breath and died without regaining consciousness.

"To get a genetic time-linked death is unusual and something that should be researched thoroughly," Forbes said.

Michael's friends said he seemed "hyper" when he went bowling Wednesday night and later while watching television. His brother and cousin also were agitated before their deaths.

"Certainly excitement can be a precipitating event" for a heart attack caused by a defect in the tissues that conduct electricity and control the heartbeat, Bathrick said.

The coroner told police there was no obvious evidence of drugs, alcohol or foul play, although a final determination would have to await the results of toxicology tests.

Michael was stricken about 11 p.m. Wednesday while watching television with his girlfriend, Tracy Baglio, and another teen-age couple at the Baglio house in Canandaigua.

"He made a snorting sound like he couldn't catch his breath. His eyelids were half closed and his eyes were rolled back in his head. The kids thought he was goofing around," said Tracy's mother, Linda Baglio.

Congressman lives as bum for a weekend

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A congressman grew a beard and lived as a street person on $5 a day, sleeping in church foyers and taking his meals at a mission house to write about problems of the homeless.

The account of Rep. Bill Boner's experiences will be carried in the issue of Nashville! magazine, which goes on sale Monday. Boner, 49, said the magazine asked him three months ago to do the article "under two conditions."

"The first condition was that I had to live on the streets for a weekend. The second condition was that I had no more than $5 to spend," he said.

Boner, D-Tenn., said he grew a beard for about a week and donned dirty clothes, including a bandanna that hung loosely from his chin and a ragged baseball cap perched on his head.

He took to the streets on June 22, 23 and 24 under the name Hoot Jackson, posing as a transient laborer from Atlanta.

Boner said he spent his first night as a bum walking the streets near lower Broadway and stayed the night at a downtown church.

"We're talking open air," Boner said. "I slept on the foyer of the church."

Tax roll, delinquent taxes balanced for first time, says chief appraiser

By HALLYE JORDAN
Staff Writer

For what is believed to be the first time in the history of any Midland tax-supported entity, both the tax roll and delinquent taxes were balanced to the "exact penny," according to the chief appraiser for the Midland County Appraisal District.

"To my knowledge, there has never been a balanced tax roll here in Midland for the city, school, college and hospital," Roland Wilkinson stated in a letter released during a meeting of the Midland County Hospital District directors Friday.

The hospital district, which has always fought problems with delinquent taxes and bills, prompting new pre-admissions policies last spring, "exceeded my projections of current tax collections...by two full percentage points in a year of bank failures and other economic woes," Wilkinson stated.

The period, which ran from Oct. 1, 1983, through June 30, 1984, showed the hospital had collected about $62,200 more than budgeted.

"The main reason I am so proud of (balancing the tax roll) is that we can now hold our heads high in our community when making claims of accountability to the public," the letter continued.

Wilkinson cited the exceptional tax collection return, which netted $3,072,325.57 in total tax dollars collected during the period of July 1, 1983 through June 30 to the following:

— Legal action on the processing of suits on 1983 accounts in March, rather than waiting until August, the usual time period of such action.

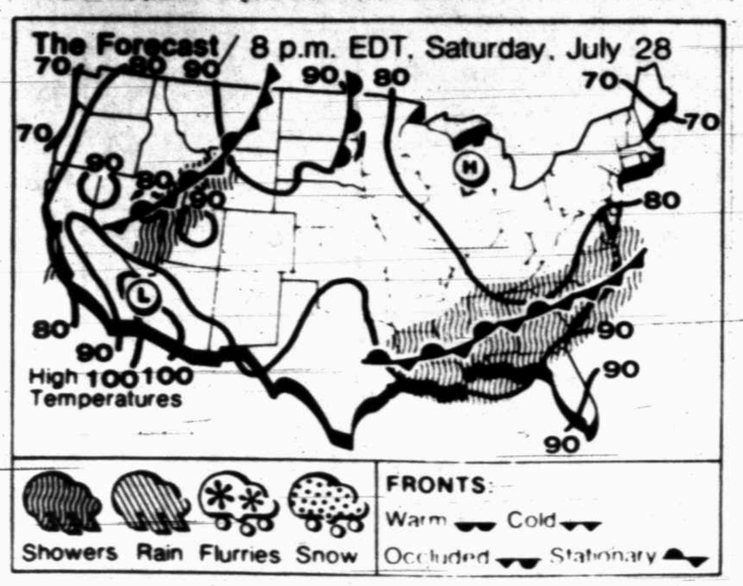
WEATHER SUMMARY



AP Laserphoto Map

The National Weather Service forecasts showers for today from Maryland throughout the South into eastern Texas, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada.

Midland's weekend forecast expected to be hot, dry

Hot and dry sums up the weekend forecast from the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Today should see partly cloudy skies, with a less than 20 percent probability of isolated afternoon thunderstorms and a high in the mid-90s. Winds will be out of the southeast at 5 to 15 mph.

Tonight's skies are expected to be partly cloudy. The chance of isolated thunderstorms stands at less than 20 percent. The low will be in the upper 60s.

Sunday is expected to be partly cloudy again, with temperatures in low 90s and a chance of isolated afternoon thunderstorms.

The record high for Friday's date was 106, set in 1954. The record low for today's date was 61, set in 1933.

STATE

Thunderstorms erupted over Central and Northwest Texas on Friday, but for the rest of the state, it was the same old summer story — partly cloudy and hot.

Afternoon temperatures were generally in the 90s, except for rain-cooled readings in the 70s and 80s beneath the stormy cloud cover.

In West Texas, moisture from the Gulf of Mexico caused a cloud canopy that limited the mercury to the 80s.

The forecast for today called for scattered to widely scattered thundershowers over much of the state.

Over North Texas, highs will be in the lower to middle 90s. Lows were expected to dip into the upper 60s and lower 70s.

Over South Texas, forecasters expected partly cloudy skies through Sunday with thunderstorms, mainly in the afternoon and early evening hours. Lows were expected to dip into the 70s, followed by afternoon highs in the 90s through the weekend.

In West Texas, partly cloudy skies were forecast through Sunday with isolated afternoon and evening thunderstorms. Highs were expected to range from the upper 80s in the Panhandle to the middle 90s over the rest of the region. Nighttime lows in the lower 60s were expected to be the rule, except for readings in the lower 70s over the Big Bend region.

NATION

Violent thunderstorms ripped apart a power line in Southern California on Friday and winds up to 77 mph from a downpour in Atlanta virtually closed one the world's busiest airports.

Lightning also knocked out power to more than 10,000 customers in Las Vegas, Nev., where heavy rains swamped parts of the Vegas Strip with swift-moving water more than a foot deep.

Flash flood watches were in effect through evening for mountains and deserts of southern California, southern Nevada and western Arizona.

Thunderstorms also stretched from east Texas to Georgia and northern Florida.

About half the town of Baker, Calif., 150 miles northeast of Los Angeles, was blacked out after lightning ripped apart a utility pole, said Lois Clark, secretary of the chamber of commerce of Baker, which has about 400 residents.

In Las Vegas, many hotels had to switch to auxiliary power because of the power interruptions. Nevada Power Co. officials said about half the more than 10,000 customers affected by the outages had service restored within an hour.

Hartsfield Atlanta International Airport, meanwhile, was virtually shut down for more than an hour as the thunderstorms tore through north Georgia.

Group calls for 'Night Out' against crime

WYNNEWOOD, Pa. (AP) — Americans are being urged to take to the streets next month in an hour-long "National Night Out" against crime, which organizers hope will deter crooks by focusing millions of watchful eyes on them.

People across the nation are being asked to perch on their porches, stoops or sidewalks for an hour the night of Aug. 7, both to deter crime and to show they are fed up with its menace, Matt Peskin, executive director of the National Association of Town Watches, said in an interview Thursday at his suburban Philadelphia office.

The idea has been endorsed by Philadelphia Mayor W. Wilson Goode, who held a news conference earlier this month urging that residents take part, as well as officials in Minneapolis, Pittsburgh, Birmingham, Ala., and other communities.

Peskin said he and some other members of the organization were looking for ways to increase citizen participation and spirit in the Town Watch program, a cooperative anti-crime effort involving citizens and police. It was inspired partly by the Great American Smokeout, when people collectively give up smoking for a day.

"We really wanted to make it at night, because of the crime after dark," he said, so the watch will take place between 9 and 10 p.m. local time. Participants should let police know if they spot any criminal activity.

"The whole idea is to let people know there is something they can do," he said. "We've gone from the period of time where you could leave your doors open at night. Now, going down to the store for a paper is a major adventure."

The association says it has 1,400 affiliates in 28 states whose members patrol their communities at night, reporting anything suspicious to police while not getting directly involved in stopping crimes in progress.

If everyone living in areas covered by participating Town Watches takes part in Night Out, Peskin estimated, "there would be about 7 million people out," he said.

Peskin said he hopes that as word spreads, perhaps 25 million to 30 million people may participate. "It surprises me the way people are responding to it. I don't know why," he said. "It's easy to do, I guess, and I think people like to do things together.

"I think most people are fed up," he added.

Support for Night Out has crossed racial and class boundaries because crime is "a common element that affects everybody," Peskin said.

Eighty-five percent of the police departments contacted about the idea are "really cooperative," and Peskin said he hopes Night Out will improve relations between law enforcement and the public.

"Now it's getting to the point that people realize the police are on the community's side," he said.

Police in possession of 'prime-time' chimp

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston police have taken possession of a chimpanzee which they believe is a missing prime-time primate that has appeared on television shows such as "The Dukes of Hazzard," "Private Benjamin" and "Alice."

An Aug. 8 hearing before a justice of the peace has been set to determine whether the chimp is 4-year-old Mikey, who turned up in Houston after being stolen from a California ranch last month, officials said.

Houston police officer G.G. Lively said the 3½-foot-tall chimp was found at an animal boarding farm near Houston after an anonymous caller tipped authorities.

"It's my first chimpanzee case, and hopefully my last," Lively told the Los Angeles Times.

George Toth, who owns an exotic animal compound near Palmdale, Calif., reported the chimp was stolen June 19, police said. Toth reported a ranch guard heard an animal screaming and a truck driving away, then found that Mikey's cage had been cut open.

The caller who tipped Houston police said the chimp in question was now being called Scooter and was being groomed to join a traveling circus in Europe, police said. The tipster sent police to the boarding farm.

Paulette Rottman, a Houston woman who provides animal acts for birthday parties and other occasions, had left the animal at the kennel, police said. She told investigators she had been shopping for a chimpanzee for several months and had spread the word through animal entertainment circles, according to police.

Ms. Rottman told police that she was contacted about June 20 by two men who said they had a chimpanzee for sale. One of the men posed as a well-known animal breeder, she said. She flew to the West Texas town of Van Horn and paid one of the men $5,000 for the animal.

"From what she told us, she knew the chimpanzee was a big star, but she insists she thought the sale was legitimate," Lively said. But she told police she did not know who the men were and the bill of sale contained no signatures or names, according to investigators.

Lively said the men who sold the animal have not been found.

Police said they are virtually sure the chimp is Mikey because of scars above his eyes.

Toth said whoever stole Mikey knew his way around the ranch.

"He found his way there in the dark and knew exactly where Mikey's cage was," Toth said.

He said he has had no contact with Ms. Rottman but figures "she didn't know that he was a hot chimp."

Child has transplant complications

ODESSA — The Ector County foster child who had returned to her Mineral Wells home after a successful liver transplant operation June 17 was headed back Friday to the Minnesota hospital where the operation was performed for treatment for complications from the transplant.

Mary Evelyn Mosqueda, whose fifth birthday is Aug. 7, was scheduled for an afternoon flight out of a Dallas airport. She would be transported to the University of Minnesota Hospital at Minneapolis for treatment.

The complications are apparently not life threatening, said Bruce Carter, supervisor of the Odessa child services office of the Department of Human Resources.

The child, her mother — who was in a county foster home when the child was born, and the foster mother had moved to Mineral Wells to be nearer to a Dallas hospital that could provide specialized care.

She was the first Texas child suffering from biliary atresia to receive Medicare coverage for a liver transplant. The Medicare funds and private donations paid for the $175,000 operation.

The disease — which also afflicts a Midland child — occurs when the bile duct is destroyed, damaged or blocked, usually resulting in jaundice and liver damage.

TALKS

The diplomat repeated previous U.S. assertions that a ban on all military uses of outer space is not realistic, since strategic missiles travel through space and both sides have long had spy and military communications satellites in orbit.

He also accused the Soviet Union of using their proposals as "a public relations exercise."

The Soviet proposal for talks was first made June 28. The White House initially said it would attend only if the agenda included ways to resume the Geneva talks on reducing medium-range and strategic nuclear arms.

But the Soviet Union, which broke off the Geneva talks in November after NATO began deploying missiles in Western Europe to counter a Soviet missile buildup, has refused to resume the negotiations while the NATO rockets are on European soil.

U.S. officials then said they would go to Vienna without preconditions, while reserving the right to raise other issues after the talks began.

The Soviets rejected that idea, saying the talks must be limited to their proposal for a total space weapons ban.

Last week, Moscow suggested that a joint statement be issued to that effect, and that it also include an agreement to impose the proposed moratorium.

The United States has resisted a moratorium, saying the Soviet Union already has an anti-satellite system and the ban on testing would therefore be one-sided.

Komplektov said the U.S. response to the proposed joint statement was received "recently."

TAX

— Removal of delinquent accounts from the rolls which could not be collected. According to Wilkinson, a "substantial" number of such accounts had no owner's name or address for legal pursuit. Also, 94 percent of those accounts were personal property items that cannot be collected due to statutes of limitations.

"Removal of these delinquent accounts from the rolls is permitted by the tax code and has the net effect of eliminating the 'bad debt' items from the hospital's total receivables," Wilkinson said.

Although removal of the delinquent accounts will make bonding companies look more favorably upon the hospital, he said the main reason for the action was to correct the rolls for administrative and analysis purposes. "I see absolutely no justification in carrying items on our tax rolls that will never be collected."

— Emphasis on reversing the district's accounting procedures that led to a 1981 fund distribution error of more than $200,000. "When I came to the district in November 1982, I saw this as a major problem that had to be corrected immediately," Wilksinson said. Because high priority status was given to the situation, "we were able to achieve positive results on even the 1982 tax roll."

Wilkinson complimented the efforts of the collections staff, especially Ro Stegall, collections director.

Teen accused of sexual assault

From Staff Reports

A 15-year-old rural Midland youth remains in custody at the Culver Youth Home after being accused of kidnapping and sexually assaulting an unidentified 18-year-old convenience store clerk about 3:30 a.m. Friday.

The woman, who worked at an all-night store on West Highway 80, was treated and released from Midland Memorial Hospital, according to Midland sheriff's investigators.

Acting on information supplied by a witness, Odessa police reportedly found the woman being sexually attacked in the youth's car, which was located about 4:30 a.m. along Texas 191 inside the Midland County line.

A knife was used in the alleged abduction and assault, according to investigators, who said proceedings are under way to certify the youth as an adult in the case.

Woman says tools taken from shed

From Staff Reports

In burglary complaints to city police, Daphen Hurtibus of 3907 Gaston said $4,365 worth of tools, tires and chrome rims were taken from a backyard storage shed sometime in the past week.

Wayne Lynch of 2703 Franklin told officers a camera, stereo equipment and 100 cassette tapes were among the items stolen in a break-in early Friday morning. Total loss was placed at $1,930.

And Ruby Jackson reported that an $850 gold ring and $40 in cash were taken from an unlocked car parked at 1800 Western on Wednesday.

Sitters 'toss baby'

EUREKA, Ill. (AP) — As a 7-month-old infant clung to life Friday, a prosecutor considered filing adult charges against one of two young baby sitters, saying the girls allegedly tossed the baby like a ball.

The infant was reported in critical condition with a possible skull fracture and multiple bruises at a Peoria hospital.

The baby sitters, aged 12 and 14, were charged with delinquency and aggravated battery, said Woodford County State's Attorney Patrick Riley. The baby's parents left her with the two July 20.

"I've talked to people, doctors, and they indicate she (the infant) was sexually abused," Riley said, adding that the older baby sitter might be prosecuted as an adult.

Boner said he spent the weekend talking with transients, asking them about their backgrounds and taking his meals at the Union Mission. He said he had to spend one night in a parking lot after a police officer shooed him away.

"During the second night, I was sleeping in front of the church again and a policeman came along and told me to get out of there,' said Boner. "Even he didn't recognize me."

Boner, who is unopposed in his re-election bid this year, said he will use the results of his weekend foray to help clean up the lower Broadway and alleviate the problems of the homeless.

BROTHERS

But when one of his companions shook him, the boy fell off the couch.

An ambulance crew arrived within minutes, but Michael was pronounced dead on arrival at Thompson Hospital.

Michael's mother, Carol Stott, returned home from the hospital at 12:40 a.m. Thursday. She was standing on the sidewalk with grieving friends and relatives when Christopher ran out to get a report on his brother.

"His mother turned around to hold him, and before she could say anything he collapsed," said Jean Young, who was with Mrs. Stott.

"He made this snorting noise and his eyes rolled back," Mrs. Young said. "We brought him in the living room and called the ambulance...but he never regained consciousness."

Friends said Mrs. Stott, who had lived alone with the boys, was too distressed to discuss their deaths.

Former police officer sentenced for bank robbery attempt

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A former policeman has admitted he tried to rob a bank and faces 20 years in prison, while another ex-officer faces a 10-year sentence for drug conspiracy.

Robert Moreno, 27, drew the 20-year term after admitting he tried to rob Colonial Frost Bank. He pleaded guilty to the lesser charge after he had been indicted for bank robbery in a February hejst at the bank's drive-in facility.

During sentencing Thursday, a tearful Moreno told U.S. District Judge H.F. "Hippo" Garcia the attempted bank holdup was staged because because he needed money for his family.

"I was under a lot of stress," said Moreno, who has resigned from the police force. "I'm sorry I disgraced my family. I wanted to help my family and my relatives in Mexico."

"I don't want people to think this (San Antonio) police department is raunchy because of one bad apple in the bunch," he said.

STATE

Moreno's sentence — the maximum for the charge — was part of a plea bargain with the government.

Moreno's younger brother, 25-year-old Arnold Moreno, was sentenced to 10 years in prison Monday for helping Robert Moreno with the robbery attempt.

Garcia also ordered former officer Jesus Gonzales Jr., 30, to serve a 10-year sentence for conspiracy to sell cocaine to undercover agents of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration.

Gonzales and eight other men, including former Patrolmen Paul Romero Lopez and Abel Hernandez and four of Lopez's brothers, were indicted on the drug charges.

Five of the eight have pleaded guilty. Scheduled to face trial later this year are Able Hernandez, Paul Lopez and Raul Martinez.

Gonzales had faced 16 charges and a possible 130 years in prison and fines up to $295,000. But he received the lesser penalty after pleading guilty in a plea bargain to conspiracy to possess cocaine with intent to distribute.

Hit man sentenced to two terms for trying to kill federal prosecutor

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Self-confessed hit man James Kearns was sentenced to concurrent life and 10-year terms Friday for trying to gun down a federal prosecutor in 1978.

Kearns pleaded guilty last month to conspiracy and to firing a .30-carbine rifle at former assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr Jr. on Nov. 21, 1978.

Kearns was also ordered to pay a $10,000 fine for assaulting Kerr, who escaped serious injury by ducking beneath the dashboard of his car when the shots were fired.

A federal indictment charged that Kearns was hired by convicted drug kingpin Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra to kill Kerr, who was investigating Chagra's narcotics dealings.

Chagra pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the Kerr case and drew a life sentence Tuesday. The sentence is to be served concurrently with a 47-year term he is serving on various other charges.

Both Chagra and Kearns were sentenced by U.S. District Judge William Sessions, who said Friday that Chagra could be paroled in 20 years.

Kearns, apparently angry over Chagra's sentence, said he calculated Chagra could win release from prison in as little as 18 years.

"He got absolutely nothing," he told the judge.

"I'm not surprised he came down here and turned like that," he added.

Chagra, as part of his plea bargain agreement, had been scheduled to testify against Kearns in a trial last month in Waco. Three days into the trial, Kearns pleaded guilty.

Kearns also groused about Robert Piccolo, an unindicted co-conspirator in the case. The government said Piccolo was the go-between Chagra and Kearns. Piccolo's testimony before a grand jury led to indictments against Kearns and Chagra.

"It seems to me that because they made deals to testify and I didn't, then I might get a tougher sentence," Kearns said. "I don't see that (promises to testify) make them a little less guilty than I am."

Kearns' attorney, Craig Mehrens, said afterwards that "our government is rewarding those who use some other avenue than the court jury trial system. Mr. Chagra got a sentence that in all probability will end up in Mr. Chagra serving no time. Mr. Kearns does not see that as very fair."

Sessions, in sentencing Kearns, admitted Chagra's guilty plea "imperiled you greatly, as did Mr. Piccolo. I have never been in a penitentiary and you have. I know a price has been paid by those people in terms of days served. I don't know what will happen to Mr. Chagra."

Piccolo is serving 55 years on various charges, including drug trafficking.

Kearns' plea bargain called for the government to drop charges of obstruction of justice and suborning perjury against his wife Catherine. The red-haired woman sat emotionless during the sentencing.

Woman found innocent of violating ordinance barring her from her home

BAYTOWN (AP) — Jurors in a city court found a woman innocent Friday of violating a Baytown ordinance barring people from occupying houses in a flood-prone subdivision, an attorney for the woman and her husband said.

The six-person jury deliberated about 20 minutes before finding Roxanne Gillum innocent of the class C misdemeanor, attorney Andrew Lannie said. Lannie said the woman was charged with occupying the house the evening of May 31.

Mrs. Gillum was charged under a Baytown ordinance making it illegal to rebuild in the 300-house Brownwood subdivision or to repair or occupy homes there. The law was passed in September 1983, a month after Hurricane Alicia left several houses in the neighborhood resting in five feet of water.

"I think the ordinance as the city has drawn is vague and indefinite," Lannie said after the acquittal. He said the dispute revolved about a definition of the term "occupy."

"It's just a matter of how much time you can spend there and not be in violation," he said.

But Lannie said he did not believe the case would set a precedent because no other families are living in the neighborhood. He said the trial did not contest the passages against repair and rebuilding.

Lannie represents seven families, including Mrs. Gillum and her husband, Ron, who are suing Baytown over the ordinance. The law was passed because officials in the town 30 miles east of Houston said the cost of restoring utilities would be prohibitive.

The families contend the Federal Emergency Management Agency is offering to pay prices far below market value for the condemned property. The Gillums said their house is worth more than $150,000, but the agency offered them $10,153.

The Brownwood subdivision, flood-prone because of subsidence, has had all utilities cut off, prompting the family to use a gasoline-powered generator to supply electricity.

The only damage from the hurricane, they say, was a few broken windows and a ruined carpet. Otherwise, the two-story white house, plus guest house and swimming pool on two lots overlooking the bay, is landscaped and mowed and resembles an old Southern plantation.

Hinckley says he's ready to be released

NATION

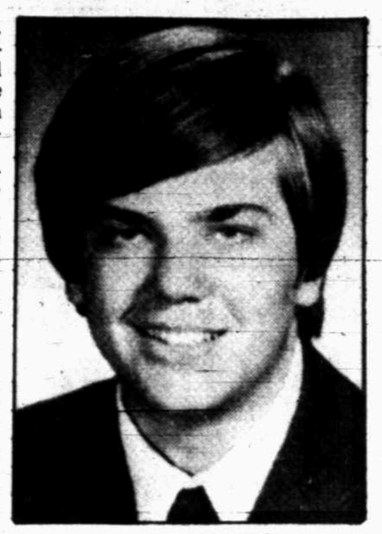
WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Hinckley Jr. told a federal judge Friday that he is ready to be released from a mental hospital where he was sent after jurors found him insane in the 1981 shooting of President Reagan.

"I have refrained from asking for a hearing because I wasn't ready," said Hinckley, who left St. Elizabeths Hospital for the first time since he was committed two years ago to attend the court proceeding.

"I am ready now and will file notice with the court," Hinckley told U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker.

Under the law Hinckley intends to use, the institution must prove he is no longer a danger to himself or others because of mental illness. Federal law gives people committed to mental hospitals the right to petition for their release every six months.

Hinckley wrote to Parker last week asking for a hearing and said he would dismiss his attorneys, Vincent Fuller and Judith Miller, and would represent himself when he files a petition for release.



John W. Hinckley

In court, however, Hinckley said he had not yet decided whether to fire the attorneys. He insisted, however, he intended to represent himself in the proceedings.

Parker told Hinckley that under Supreme Court and other court rulings "you can proceed on your own but I can have someone sit in the wings to see that it does not get off course. I intend to do that."

He told Hinckley to file the petition any time he wanted to.

In his letter to Parker he said he wanted to appear before the judge because: "I believe the only way you can see for yourself whether or not I am competent to represent myself is through a hearing in which I could prove my abilities to you. Otherwise, it would be unfair to make a ruling one way or the other."

Hinckley also disputed statements made by Fuller and government prosecutors last April that he has not been denied his right to free speech at St. Elizabeths Hospital.

In an April letter to Parker, Hinckley said he had been at the mental hospital for two years under severe restrictions not imposed on any other patient. Fuller told the court at the time that he had investigated and had talked to Hinckley and learned that his client was under no restrictions that did not apply to other patients.

Parker presided over Hinckley's trial in the shooting of Reagan and three other men on March 30, 1981. Hinckley was committed to St. Elizabeths in June 1982 after a federal jury found him innocent by reason of insanity.

Man dies shortly after release from Greek prison

CHANUTE, Kan. (AP) — Roger Ranney, who survived 23 years in a Greek prison only to suffer a fatal heart attack in Houston after his release, was finally laid to rest in his native Chanute on Friday.

Ranney, imprisoned in Greece for two murders he said he didn't commit, died without identification in Houston June 2. Authorities buried his nameless body in a pauper's grave June 25.

"I am innocent," Ranney said through an interpreter when he was sentenced to death on Oct. 14, 1961 in Piraeus, Greece.

"The jurors of Piraeus have found me guilty but their decision will not break me," he said. "Sooner or later my innocence will be proven."

Greek prosecutors said Ranney was smuggling heroin into Greece with George Mandaleros and Dmitrios Efstahioy when he decided to murder his partners and scuttle their two vessels Nov. 25, 1960. The bodies of the two have never been found.

Ranney told a different story. He admitted to trying to smuggle Swiss watches into Greece with the sailors, but said he backed out of the deal when he learned they planned to put heroin on their boat.

"Ranney gripped the rail before him and turned pale" when Judge John Psilopoulos imposed the death sentence in 1961, an Associated Press account said.

The sentence was commuted to life in prison about a year later by King Paul of Greece.

A Los Angeles polygrapher, Chris Gugas, became fascinated by Ranney's story after reading it in the Los Angeles Times. He went to Greece and gave Ranney a lie detector test which he said Ranney passed. Gugas said, however, that lie detectors are not reliable unless the tests are conducted three times. Greek authorities refused to allow him to administer any more tests.

Gugas, who in 1978 published a book titled "Silent Witness" outlining Ranney's defense, said he believed the two missing sailors are still alive. He said they are either in hiding or are defrauding life insurance companies.

Ranney, who passed his time in prison studying biology, entomology and microbiology, was released April 18 at age 49 — pale, gaunt and missing all his teeth.

He arrived home in Chanute May 7.

"You wouldn't believe it, he looked as natural as he could possibly be," said his 77-year-old mother, Esther Lowen. "He looked as well as any man."

European Parliament votes to block Common Market rebate to Britain

STRASBOURG, France (AP) — The European Parliament voted Friday to block a $600 million Common Market rebate to Britain, throwing the financial future of the 10-nation community into doubt just a month after a European summit appeared to have staved off bankruptcy.

The Parliament, in its first session since its June 17 elections, also took a slap at the European heads of state, saying they ignored the Parliament when they worked out the rebate formula at their June 24-25 summit.

The Parliament said in a resolution that it would not use the summit agreements as a basis for creating the Common Market's 1985 budget.

The rebate, for British payments in 1983, was intended to answer Britain's complaints that it pays more to the Common Market than it receives.

By a vote of 212-70, the Parliament rejected the British rebate until at least Sept. 6, when the Common Market budget council meets to consider supplemental appropriations for 1984.

The European Parliament is the legislative arm of the Common Market.

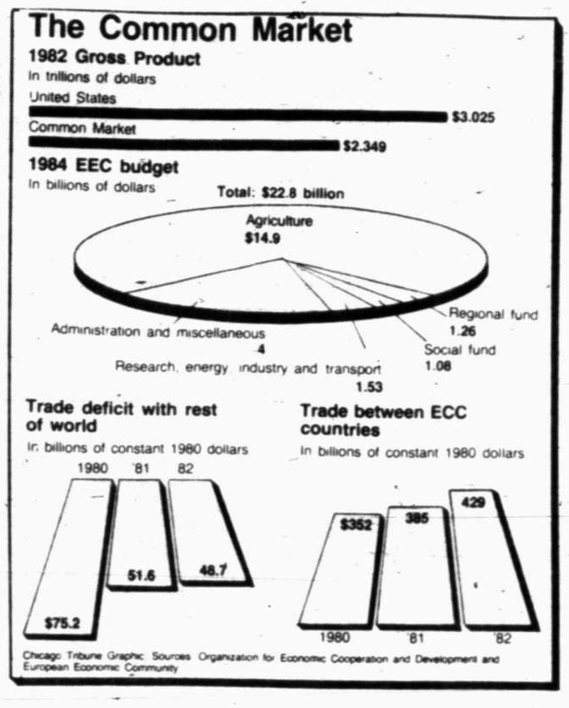
By blocking the rebate, the Parliament was using its only real power — the ability to hold up the budget — to try to force British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher to agree to additional financing for the trading block, which faces a $1.3 billion deficit in 1984.

Last week, the budget council failed to agree on financing the shortfall. Britain vetoed a proposal by the other nine countries to have the member nations make interest-free advances to the Common Market. Britain contended the community should reduce or postpone spending.

The British reaction to Friday's vote was angry.

Richard Balfe, spokesman for the British budget group in Strasbourg, called blocking the refund "crude blackmail. It amounts to twisting the government's arm because Britain will not agree to bail the Common Market out of the cash muddle it is now in."

In London, the Foreign Office said there was "no justification" for the action. "The Parliament alone is standing in the way of payment...We expect the refunds to be paid."



Turkish teen-ager confesses to killing American airman

WIESBADEN, West Germany (AP) — A 19-year-old Turk has confessed he killed a U.S. Air Force sergeant who was found stabbed to death in Frankfurt, the Federal Criminal Office said Friday.

The unemployed Turk, identified only as Adnan Y., was arrested Thursday night at his family's Wiesbaden apartment, authorities said.

A Criminal Office spokesman told a news conference the man told investigators that he killed Sgt. Lawrence R. Sughroue, 31, of Medford, Ore., during an argument Sunday night at the Wiesbaden apartment.

The Turk told police Sughroue had been drinking and that he felt threatened by the American, whom he had known for about four months.

Ford: Texas crucial election battleground

Gerald Ford

DALLAS (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford said Friday that Texas will be a "crucial battleground" in a very close presidential race, and added that he'll be out there stumping for President Reagan.

Ford was speaking at a fund-raising luncheon for Richard Armey, a Republican candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives.

"Texas is vitally important to the re-election of Ronald Reagan," said Ford, who told the audience he plans to campaign for the president.

Ford also said the U.S. Senate and House races in Texas are critical because Reagan needs Republicans in Congress to implement his policies.

The U.S. Senate race between Democrat Lloyd Doggett and Republican Phil Gramm could "tip the balance" of partisan control in the Senate, Ford said.

Ford said his longstanding prediction of a close presidential contest was proved correct by a Gallup poll taken right after Walter Mondale was nominated at the Democratic National Convention. The poll showed Mondale with a slight lead.

"It's going to be very, very close," Ford said.

The former president also said he didn't think having a woman on the Democratic ticket would attract Republican or independent women voters, and he attacked Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, D-N.Y., the Democratic vice presidential candidate, for her "liberal voting record."

Women, he said, "will vote on fact, not emotion. Women have good judgment and they aren't going to be swayed by prejudice and emotion."

Ford downplayed his differences with Reagan over the Equal Rights Amendment, a measure Ford supports and Reagan opposes. He said he and the president share the same goal but differ on the means to achieve it.

Lucas to be tried in slayings of three more Texas women

CONROE (AP) — Henry Lee Lucas, a drifter who has claimed responsibility for hundreds of slayings nationwide, was ordered Friday to stand trial on Oct. 15 for the murders of three women.

Lucas was indicted here last October on three capital murder charges. He pleaded innocent to the charges at a hearing last month, and State District Judge Lee Alworth on Friday set the trial date.

Lucas is charged in the sex slayings of three women whose bodies were found in Montgomery County in 1983 and 1982.

The victims were Laura Donez, 16, of Houston; Gloria Stepan, 38, of Houston, and an unidentified woman.

Ms. Donez's body was found in Sam Houston National Forest in April 1983. Ms. Stepan's body was found near Magnolia on Oct. 2, 1982 and the unidentified woman was found on a road off of Interstate 45 in March, 1983.

Officials said all of the bodies had been sexually abused and two had been burned.

Montgomery County officials claim that Lucas on Aug. 23, 1983 led officers to the sites where Ms. Donez's body and that of the unidentified woman were found.

Lucas, who has claimed responsibility for as many as 360 killings nationwide, is under the death sentence for the 1979 slaying of an unidentified female hitchhiker.

De Lorean trial nearing end

Automaker unlikely to testify

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the John Z. De Lorean cocaine case began setting schedules Friday for closing arguments, indicating the trial's end is near and automaker is unlikely to testify.

De Lorean's attorneys, who said they would call one more witness next week — a drug enforcement agent — refused to halt speculation that the automaker will remain silent.

"We have not finally decided if John's going to testify," said lawyer Howard Weitzman as the trial ended its 20th week.

However, he said, "The chances are pretty good the case could go to the jury by the end of next week or the following week."

Both prosecutors and defense attorneys have said De Lorean's appearance as a witness would prolong the trial by several weeks.

"One of the things you consider is whether you can win the case without his testimony," said defense attorney Donald Re. "We're confident in our case right now, but we want to see what the last witness has to say... You don't make the final decision until the last witness has testified."

Weitzman has said he would not call De Lorean to the stand if he thought he could win the case without him.

If he testified, De Lorean would be subjected to probing cross-examination which could explore the complicated financial history of his car company.

De Lorean, 59, the celebrity automaker who lost his auto firm in Northern Ireland and was arrested on cocaine charges the same day, said nothing about his possible testimony Friday.

If convicted of the eight charges he faces, De Lorean could face a 67-year prison sentence.

Weitzman told reporters he believes the government case already has been refuted.

"I think the evidence is clear what happened in this case," he said. "The government set up John De Lorean for its own selfish purposes."

U.S. District Judge Robert Takasugi said he would allow two days for closing arguments and jury instructions after the evidence is complete.

Assistant U.S. attorneys James Walsh and Robert Perry and both defense attorneys said they would all address the jurors.

The trial recessed until Tuesday when the defense will call to the stand Gerald Scotti, a former DEA agent who left the government in the midst of a scandal involving leaked information in another case.

Scotti, who recently took the bar examination to become a lawyer, was one of the agents assigned to the De Lorean "sting" operation.

He has consulted with the defense throughout the trial and was expected to provide an insider's look at the government's planning of the De Lorean "sting."

On Friday, the defense called to the witness stand Assistant U.S. Attorney Alan Rubin, who testified that in 1983 he was called before another judge in connection with claims by creditors in the bankruptcy of De Lorean's auto firm.

Rubin said he informed the court that the government had in its possession none of De Lorean's assets other than stock certificates in De Lorean Motor Co. Inc. (DMCI), which it understood to be a shell company. "I represented that DMCI did not have any tangible assets as of Oct. 17, 1983," said Rubin.

He said he obtained information on the case from De Lorean's chief prosecutor, Walsh.

"He told me that other than the stock certificates, we were not in possession of any other tangible assets," Rubin said.

Outside the jury's presence Re told the judge Rubin's testimony proved a key defense point — that De Lorean never gave anything of value to undercover agents posing as drug dealers and that government prosecutors knew this.

He said collateral posted by De Lorean with the agents was worthless because DMCI had no assets in it. The judge suggested the evidence might indicate that De Lorean was involved in "a double scam, a reciprocal scam," on the agents, but Re denied this.

Minneapolis council upholds veto of pornography law

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A City Council attempt to override Mayor Don Fraser's veto of a controversial anti-pornography ordinance failed by two votes Friday.

The vote was 7-5 to override the veto, but nine votes were needed.

The ordinance defined pornography as a form of discrimination under city civil rights laws.

A similar but stronger ordinance passed the council last winter but was vetoed by Fraser, who said it probably could not survive a court test. The council also failed to override that veto.

The measure voted on Friday was passed 7-6 two weeks ago, but the council delayed its implementation pending resolution of an Indiana court challenge of a similar ordinance.

84, Pa. celebrates centennial

EIGHTY FOUR, Pa. (AP) — An 8.4-kilometer run will start and finish at 84 Industrial Park, a parade will be headed by the founder of 84 Lumber Co., and 84s will be all over this village today as it celebrates the 100th birthday of its numerical name.

"We're going to have a humdinger of a shindig," said Robert Bandel, postmaster of the southwestern Pennsylvania hamlet that changed its name from Smithville to Eighty Four on July 28, 1884.

Some folks around town are almost obsessed with the village name.

Bandel, a resident for 25 years, gets his personal mail at Box 84, Eighty Four. His business mail goes to Box 184, Eighty Four. He tried to get 84 in his phone number, but it was already taken.

"Every place I go in the world, people always question me about the name of the town. I say I'm from Eighty Four, and they always say 'Eighty four what?' They can't believe that can be the name of a town," he said.

The town originally was named for William James Smith, a farmer and entrepreneur. But another Pennsylvania town was already called Smithville, and a name change was needed to get a local post office and avoid mail mixups.

Town lore has it that Smith chose the name Eighty Four in honor of Grover Cleveland's election to the presidency in 1884.

But oldtimers recalled that before the post office was built, mailmen threw mail bags from trains traveling the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad line between the villages of Clokeyville and Wylandville. The trainmen called it drop 84.

"There are only seven towns with post offices in the country that have numbers for names. I picked them out of a ZIP Code book," Bandel said.

For example, there's a 100, W.Va.; 56, Ark.; and 88, Ky.

"We're Eighty Four, Pa., and we all love it," said Bandel, who says his delivery area with three rural routes has 8,400 residents. The village is located in Washington County, about 30 miles south of Pittsburgh.

Today's 8.4-kilometer race at 8 a.m. begins and ends at 84 Industrial Park. All participants get an 84 T-shirt.

The grand marshal for the parade is Joseph Hardy Sr., founder and chairman of 84 Lumber Co., which has its headquarters here and is the nation's sixth-largest retailer of building supplies.

Hardy moved here in 1957 because he liked the name. The chain now has 379 stores nationally, and workers at the local store answer the phone: "Catch the 84 spirt."

Twenty other businesses use the town name, such as Eighty Four Auto Sales, Eighty Four Coal Yard, Eighty Four Electronic Systems Inc. and Eighty Four Lakes Tavern.

The post office is offering a commemorative postmark for the centennial, and another special one in August when the date will be 8-4-84.

The class of '84 at Adolfo Camarillo High School in Camarillo, Calif., sent their graduation announcements here so they could be postmarked Eighty Four.

Bandel remembers a Christmas card that found its way here a few years back.

"It was addressed to 64, Pa., and some postmaster had written 'plus 20' on the envelope," said Bandel.

DEAR ABBY

Mature person wouldn't waffle between women

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I need your advice on a problem that has been bothering me for some time. I am 40 years old and am married to "Betty," a good woman who loves me very much. I loved her when I married her, but I fell out of love with her over the years and became very unhappy at home. I moved out two years ago and found a job 500 miles away. I have continued to send Betty money for her support. (There are no children.)

Now I have fallen in love with "Lori," a wonderful person with extremely high morals. We have never made love. Lori and I are talking marriage, and I must now decide between her and Betty.

My heart tells me to divorce Betty and marry Lori, but my conscience keeps interfering. Lori did not take me away from Betty. My love for Betty was dead when I left home. Meanwhile, Betty keeps calling and begging me to come back.

I've talked to my pastor, who says I must honor my marriage vows with absolutely no regard for love. What do you say? — GUILTY CONSCIENCE

DEAR GUILTY: I say you are shopping around for advice hoping to find someone who will give you approval to divorce your wife and marry your new love. Your problem is an unwillingness to make a choice and take responsibility for your own actions — a hallmark of immaturity.

Grow up. And when you no longer feel the need to ask what to do, you will be a man, my son!

Lebanese to deploy along 'green line'

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A 9,000-man army force has been ordered to deploy along Beirut's "green line" as part of the government's effort to reunite the divided capital, military sources said Friday.

The sources said the Lebanese army command has ordered three brigades to stand by for the deployment, scheduled for shortly after daybreak today.

The operation is intended to allow free passage across the green line, a devastated strip of no-man's land which has separated the capital into Christian and Moslem sectors for most of the past nine years.

The government hopes it also will cement the latest cease-fire and plug loopholes in a Syrian-backed security plan launched three weeks ago to disengage militias in and around Beirut.

The operation would lead to the reopening of two more crossings between Christian and Moslem sectors of the capital next week.

President Amin Gemayel has approved the operation, according to one source, who asked not to be identified. Prime Minister Rashid Karami won Syria's support for the plan during a seven-hour visit to Damascus on Thursday.

State-run Beirut radio and military sources, speaking on condition they not be identified, said that five army battalions of about 5,000 soldiers would establish a buffer zone on the green line today. The zone would vary in width between 300 and 700 yards along the three-mile-long line.

The units would then fan out from the green line into Christian east and mostly Moslem west Beirut. The remaining 4,000 soldiers would stand by as a back-up force.

Army engineers are to remove sandbagged positions, sniper fire posts and earth mounds on both sides, the radio said.

The radio said two crossings would be reopened to traffic "in principle" on Wednesday. Earlier reports has said the two gateways would be opened on Sunday.

The other major crossings reopened when the three army brigades first moved into militia positions on either side of the green line on July 4.

Christian and Moslem militiamen were ordered to cooperate with the army and withdraw from the streets. But there have been frequent violations of the agreement and several breaches of the cease-fire.

Meanwhile, a military committee met at the Defense Ministry to complete plans for an army deployment in Lebanon's central mountains and to reopen the Beirut-Damascus highway. The issue is to be discussed in Karami's Cabinet session on Wednesday.

In an apparent move to clear the way for the army's entry to the area, Druse and Christian militiamen on Thursday pulled out from positions in the towns of Shweifat and Kfarchima in the foothills of the central mountains south of Beirut. The towns have been the scene of recent repeated clashes.

Helicopter crashes rescuing wounded Salvadoran soldier

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Three soldiers were killed and five more were wounded fighting rebels in southeastern El Salvador on Friday, and a government helicopter sent to pick up one of the wounded men crashed, the government said.

The helicopter, a U.S.-made UH-1H, crashed in a vacant lot beside the main school in Zacatecoluca, about 35 miles southeast of the San Salvador, military officials said in a communique. One crewman was injured in the crash which was the result of a mechanical failure.

An official of El Salvador's railroad company reported that another group of rebels derailed a freight train and burned its five carloads of cotton in the eastern province of La Union on Thursday.

No one was injured because the rebels asked the crew and other employees to leave the train before they burned it, the spokesman said.

Rebels also dynamited 11 electrical poles on the coastal highway in Usulutan, leaving several towns without electricity, sources said.

Iranian official calls for tribunal to deal with president of Iraq

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The speaker of Iran's Parliament said Friday his country will launch its long-expected offensive when it concludes that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein will not be "punished through a qualified tribunal."

The official Islamic Republic News Agency said Hashemi Rafsanjani, who is also Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's representative to the Iranian Supreme Defense Council, made the comments during prayers at Tehran University.

Ousting Saddam Hussein is Iran's main demand for ending the war, which began with an Iraqi invasion in September 1980. Iran reportedly has massed nearly a half-million troops along the battlefront for a new offensive.

Addressing the world's major powers, Rafsanjani said: "If you admit that Saddam is the aggresor, why don't you condemn him? Set up a qualified tribunal and it would issue a verdict."

"If we become disappointed and see that you are lying and trying to waste time, that day we will act in a different manner. That day the people (of Iran) would pass Baghdad and go toward Palestine," he said, apparently referring to Iran's support for the Palestinian struggle against Israel.

POSITIVE THINKING

You can escape stress with simple techniques

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Many people suffer from nervous tension, uptightness and stress, and that is most unfortunate for it impedes successful living and saps vitality. Chronic tension is a major factor in heart trouble and other serious ailments. But a person can escape the ravages of tension.

Like so many others I too have had trouble with tension. And in the course of learning to handle it I have had some curious experiences.

One night I could not get to sleep. I had listened to the late news just before going to bed and some things I had heard kept bothering me.

Finally I got up and wandered into the living room. I sank exhausted in an easy chair. On a table I noticed a pamphlet put out by some insurance company. I picked it up and started leafing through it. I came to a drawing which caught my eye.

It showed a big finger pointing to the work YOU. The YOU was repeated several times, growing bigger and bigger in size, spreading across the page. And the caption said: "YOU are Nervous! YOU are tense! YOU cannot sleep!"

"How in the world did you know!" I thought.

I read on. "Here are some important secrets for handling tension. Follow these techniques and you can get relief...

"First relax your body. Sit completely inert. Yield your body so completely that if the chair were pulled out from under you, you would drop inertly to the floor. Now stretch your feet out as far as possible and the toes even farther for tension often lurks in the extremities...

"Lift your hand and let it fall upon your knee like a wet leaf on a log."

"Rest the back of your neck against the back of the chair and let your head roll gently from side to side, to ease the tension that accumulates in the neck muscles...And now, with your head still, raise your eyes, look upward, then pretend that there are little weights on your eyelids and let them pull your eyes slowly shut..."

I read on. "And now that you have your body relaxed, now relax your mind. You can do that by utilizing imagination. Take off in imagination...far away. Go away somewhere, to some tranquil plce. Enjoy its beauty and peace."

How marvelous imagination can be! In a flash I found myself mentally in the North Woods. I was sitting with my back against a tree. In front of me was an unruffled lake. I had fishing tackle and cast into the lake. The air was full of the aroma of fir, pine and hemlock. Through the tall trees I could see great hills wrapped in misty bluish haze.

I felt calm, refreshed in mind.

This perceptive pamphlet-writer then rounded out his formula for releasing tension with a final step — for relaxation of the soul. It consisted in saying over to oneself some great peace-giving words, perhaps from the Bible or inspirational writing. Repeating such words, I felt tension lessen. I went back to bed and slept soundly until morning.

Games start without Libya

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Libya's Olympic team — a weightlifter and five equestrians — pulled out of the Los Angeles Summer Games today, apparently because the U.S. State Department denied entry to three Libyans who had applied for journalists' credentials.

And according to sources within International Olympic Committee, two of the three barred Libyans were on a secret international list of known terrorists.

The sources, who insisted on anonymity, said they believed that the Libyan authorities knew in in advance that the United States would refuse to issue visas to such a group, but tried to get them accredited anyway as a way to justify Libya's delayed support of the Soviet bloc boycott of these Games.

There was, however, no official mention by Libya of the Soviet boycott in its withdrawal announcement. A brief communique from JANA, the official Libyan news agency in Tripoli said only: "The Socialist People's Libyan Arab Jamahirya has decided to withdraw ..." and gave no reason.

But a hint that a withdrawal might be imminent came earlier today when the flight of a chartered plane to transport the team's horses to Los Angeles was apparently canceled in Libya. "The charter was cleared to land in the United States. It was canceled there," Peter Ueberroth, the president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee said.

The United States has no diplomatic relations with Libya and has accused Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy of supporting international terrorism.

The pullout brings to 18 the number of nations not participating in the Summer Games — the 14 boycotting Eastern-bloc countries plus Albania, Angola, Iran and, now, Libya.

WHILE THE Olympics was losing another team for these Games, it was gaining another sport for the next one. The International Olympic Committee agreed Thursday to add a women's 10,000-meter run to the 1988 Games in Seoul, South Korea, on a trial basis.

Also on Thursday, the Olympics had its first publicly announced bomb scare, forcing a 40-minute afternoon evacuation of a dormitory at the athletes' village on the UCLA campus.

It occurred when a package was discovered in a first-floor restroom during a routine check by police at seven-story Rieber Hall, under closer-than-usual scrutiny because it houses athletes from Israel, El Salvador, Nicaragua and Chile. The package turned out to be two rolls of toilet paper wrapped in a smock.

There also was a minor flareup Thursday by one of the men who runs American amateur basketball, complaining about the way it is being conducted at these Olympics.

Both the U.S. men's and women's teams are being given unfavorable starting times because of television, said William L. Wall, executive director of the Amateur Basketball Association of the United States of America.

The women's team has games scheduled Monday against Yugoslavia and Tuesday against Australia, each starting at 9 a.m. PDT. The men's team has two games scheduled to start within 20 hours of each other late next week. "They don't think about the athletes," Wall said. "The game is not sport, it's money and television."

With the official start of the Summer Games only a day away, the Los Angeles-area temperature was in the 90s — and was expected to remain there, accompanied by smog, for Saturday's opening ceremonies.

According to James Birakos, deputy executive director of the Air Quality Management District, "If it gets very hot without the clouds, it can melt away the inversion, and the smog will be essentially dissipating." But "if it gets hot, but not very hot, then we get the more typical air pollution levels."

When the U.S. team marches into the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, it will be led by hammer thrower Ed Burke, a three-time Olympian from Los Gatos, Calif. He was picked to carry the American Flag, the U.S. Olympic Committee said today.

Burke, 44, was chosen Thursday night by a vote of the captains of the 21 U.S. teams. As the host nation, the United States will be the last team to enter.

The highlight of the ceremonies is the lighting of the Olympic flame. Trying to guess the identity of the torch bearer has become a sport in itself.

Olympic staff members walk among balloons in the Los Angeles Coliseum in anticipation of today's opening ceremonies.

FOR A while, a heavy favorite seemed to be Nadia Comaneci, the Romanian gymnast who, because of her unprecedented perfect marks, became the sweetheart of the Montreal Games in 1976.

Ueberroth introduced her Thursday at a news conference, welcoming her as a special guest of the committee. He all but assured everyone Comaneci would not be the torchbearer, saying to select a Romanian could be interpreted as an embarrassment to the 14 Eastern-bloc nations boycotting the Games.

"We would do nothing to hurt anybody's feelings," Ueberroth said. "We couldn't do something like that."

While Comaneci remained as placid before the world's press as she had ever been as a 14-year-old during her electrifying gold-medal performances in Montreal, Zola Budd, the South African-born middle-distance runner appeared rattled as she arrived in Los Angeles from her new homeland, England.

She seemed bewildered by the tumult at Los Angeles International Airport, just as she had been several hours earlier when she was besieged by newsmen at London's Heathrow Airport. "I was absolutely frightened," she said. "Anybody would be in those circumstances."

The 18-year-old Budd, whose native land is barred from Olympic competition because of its policy of racial separation, was granted British citizenship almost immediately after emigrating to England, because her grandfather was British. The move caused an uproar in Parliament.

ANOTHER controversial athlete, American weightlifter Jeff Michels, remained in limbo for at least one more day before finding out whether the International Olympic Committee would allow him to be named to the U.S. team.

Michels appealed Thursday to the IOC's Eligibility Committee to reverse sanctions imposed by the International Weightlifting Federation and the United States Olympic Committee after he tested positive last year for banned substances.

Michels, who won three gold medals at the Pan American Games last August, tested positive for testosterone — a natural growth hormone — during urinalysis after the competition and was stripped of his awards.

Wall insists the LAOOC has the American women's basketball games starting at 9 a.m. "just because of ticket sales. Nine o'clock is not when you want to watch a basketball game, especially when you're the host."

U.S. Coach Pat Head Summitt has been making the best of the situation, ordering her players to arise at 6 a.m. for the last three weeks so they could work out at 9 a.m.

Seahawks, Bucs open exhibitions

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Two teams that traveled in opposite directions in 1983 will meet today in the Hall of Fame game, marking the opening of the 1984 National Football League preseason schedule.

The Seattle Seahawks, who made it all the way to the American Football Conference championship game last year under first-year Coach Chuck Knox, will try to improve the AFC's 5-7-1 record in the annual contest at Fawcett Stadium, adjacent to the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

They'll be taking on the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, whose 2-14 record for Coach John McKay last year represented one of the league's biggest disappointments.

Preceding today's game, four players will be inducted into the Hall of Fame. They are cornerback Willie Brown, offensive tackle Mike McCormack, wide receiver Charley Taylor and defensive tackle Arnie Weinmeister.

BROWN PLAYED for the Denver Broncos and Oakland Raiders from 1963 through 1978, while Taylor was with the Washington Redskins from 1964 through 1977. McCormack began his career with the 1951 New York Yanks, then starred with the Cleveland Browns from 1954 through 1962. Weinmeister played for the New York Yankees and the New York Giants from 1948 through 1953.

Knox's Seahawks went 9-7 last season, which ended when they lost to the eventual Super Bowl champion Los Angeles Raiders in the conference championship.

"We made great strides in our first season together, but there is still plenty of work to be done," Knox said. "What we did last year really doesn't mean anything now, other than the fact that our players should feel a lot more confident about what they're trying to do without feeling cocky."

On defense, Knox has added two promising cornerbacks: Terry Jackson, a six-year veteran acquired in a trade with the New York Giants for a fifth-round draft choice, and Terry Taylor, a rookie from Southern Illinois who was Seattle's 1984 first-round draft choice.

Returning on offense are running back Curt Warner, who led the AFC in rushing last year, and quarterback Dave Krieg, who took over from veteran Jim Zorn at midseason in 1983.

"We are looking for depth at running back to be able to spell Curt," Knox said.

TAMPA BAY hopes to have improved itself by signing multiyear contracts with a number of its key veterans, including linebacker Hugh Green, running back James Wilder and quarterback Jack Thompson. The Bucs also picked up Southern California linebacker Keith Browner with their top draft choice this year.

"I think the players were embarrassed by our record last year," McKay said. "We know there were some justifications for it such as the inordinate amount of injuries we suffered last year, but in the end we were 2-14."

Because NFL teams have been practicing only since the middle of July, McKay said he would expect to use much of his roster during today's game.

"We plan on going to Canton and doing our best within the framework of preparing our team for the regular season," he said.

Soviet press takes heated shots at Los Angeles

MOSCOW (AP) — Headlines scream: "Gunfire Thunders in Los Angeles." Television reports portray a city terrorized by street gangs and run by greedy businessmen.

On the eve of the 1984 Summer Olympics, the Soviet press campaign denigrating the games is continuing, with a stream of daily commentary in the newspapers and over the radio and television.

At the same time, the state-controlled news media are promoting Moscow's own summer games, which begin Aug. 18.

Dubbed "Friendship 84" and featuring a logo that includes an Olympic-type torch, the games are part of competitions among the nations that joined the Kremlin-led boycott of the Summer Olympics.

Thirteen countries joined the Soviet boycott; four other countries said they would not participate for reasons other than the boycott. The only two Eastern European countries participating in the Olympics are Romania and Yugoslavia.

The Soviet Union has taken pains to emphasize that its allies are avoiding any violation of the Olympic charter, by holding their summer games before and after the Olympics.

But the Soviet press frequently compares the socialist bloc games to the Olympics, painting them as a gathering of better athletes than those in Los Angeles.

The press campaign against the 1984 Olympics began long before the Soviet Union announced on May 8 that it wouldn't send a team. But it has intensified during the boycott, focusing on three central themes:

—The Reagan administration allegedly promoted anti-Soviet feelings in Los Angeles and therefore "forced" the Soviet pullout. Reports of violence in California have been used to back the decision to stay away.

—The socialist bloc pullout has reduced the games' value since the Soviet Union and East Germany — two of the world's sports giants — are not competing.

—The games are said to be badly prepared and fraught with commercialism.

The primary reason cited for Moscow's pullout was an alleged threat to the security of Soviet athletes.

Accusing U.S. officials of "conniving with terrorist gangs," the Soviets charged that the White House wanted to keep their teams out for political purposes and to prevent Soviet sportsmen from overshadowing U.S. athletes.

"The Reagan administration at first planned to beat Soviet athletes at all costs, and then, when they saw the truth, decided to bar them from Los Angeles at all costs," said Anatoly Kolesov, a sports committee vice chairman, in a newspaper interview.

The Soviet press also gave prominent display to letters purportedly from the Ku Klux Klan threatening black African athletes.

Woods' single saves Cubs in ninth

By BRUCE CASTLEBERRY
Sports Writer

It was odd numbers that made the difference as the Midland Cubs claimed a last-ditch, 5-4 victory over the Shreveport Captains Friday night at Cubs Stadium.

Ultimately, it was Cub third baseman Tony Woods who won the game. Woods stroked a two-out single to right-center, scoring pinch runner Mike Brumley and centerfielder Darrin Jackson in the ninth and sending 1,549 rowdy fans home with a smile.

It was a measure of revenge for Woods against Cap hurler Kurt Mattson, who took the loss in the series opener also. "I had seen him before a couple of nights ago," Woods said. "He struck me out throwing a lot of changeups."

MATTSON MIGHT have tried a few more, but Woods was waiting. "I knew he wasn't going to throw it by me, so I just went up there looking for something to hit. It was a slider over the plate."

That slider hung up long enough for Woods to raise the Cub record to 15-18. Shreveport dropped to 10-23 in the East Division cellar.

And odd numbers showed up all across the board. Woods' number 13 tagged the game winner, his third hit on five tries. The Cubs took the series by winning games one, three and five.

Baseball loves superstitions, but don't expect Cub manager George Enright to pay heed to odd number theories. Theories have yet to win a ballgame.

"DOUBLE PLAYS always help you," said Enright. The Cubs turned three twinkillings, and each were vital. For a while, it seemed as if the Cubs would have to do it with defense. Seven of Midland's 10 hits came in the final three innings.

Midland drew blood first with a leadoff home run by Stormin' Danny Norman in the second inning. Norman wound up with only that hit on his ledger, but the slap was his fourth of the series and 14th overall. Shreveport will not miss him.

Woods singled in the fourth and leftfielder Antonio Cordova got a base hit in the sixth, and that was all the Cubs could scratch out until a two-run seventh. Cap starter Chuck Lusted surrendered two of the hits and had the game under control before coming up lame while running the bases on Midland's first double play.

Midland fought back from out of the hole all night long. The Cubs tied the game 3-3 with a rally in the seventh. Jeff Jones, Gary Varsho and Steve Lake led off the inning with base hits, Lake's scoring Jones. With one out Joe Henderson came in to pinch hit and grounded to first but Varsho raced home.

Noce led off the eighth with a triple and Woods followed with an infield single. Midland was primed to strike, but the Cubs couldn't bring either man home. The fans started to hit the exits - a big mistake.

Cordova singled to start the ninth, and this time the Cubs didn't waste the chance. Hyman dinked a bunt down to first, and almost beat it out. Then Jackson was given an intentional wlak to get to Noce. Noce grounded out to short, moving Jackson into scoring position. Then Woods stepped up and got his third hit in five tries.

SHREVEPORT centerfielder Everett Graham led the Cap damage. Graham was caught stealing in the first, so he took care of that by hitting a scorching triple to right to start the fourth inning. Rightfielder Brian Snyder singled home Graham, and then catcher Matt Nokes got a break when he looped a ball into center that Jackson charged but pulled up on at the last minute. Snyder scored moments later on a sacrifice fly and shortstop John Stevenson singled to plate Nokes.

The Cubs faced real danger in each of the next two frames, but the double play combo of Paul Noce to Varsho to Jones came on to take the wind out of the Caps. Lusted had reached on Noce's first error when he dropped the ball, but the shortstop then ranged deep into the hole to come up with Bob O'Connor's blast and start the 6-4-3 DP.

In the fifth, Noce rescued Cub starter Joe Housey after Housey had issued consecutive walks, taking John Stevenson's bouncer and starting it around the horn.

Graham got the Caps' last rally started in the eighth by drawing a walk then getting the first steal off of catcher Steve Lake. Graham scored but Midland survived when Noce snagged a hot liner by Steve Stanicek and doubled Nokes off of first.

It was a night of firsts for Lake, who also got his first Texas League hit since being shipped down from Chicago for rehabilitation.

"It felt good," said Lake, "because it's been very slow. I'm starting to see the ball a little better. I haven't had a hit in three months." Lake estimates that his recovery level is "probably about 90 percent."

Red Sox split with Tigers

Rangers sting stumbling Jays, 4-2

Associated Press

DETROIT — Wade Boggs had four singles and drove in a run to back the three-hit pitching of Bob Ojeda as the Boston Red Sox beat Detroit 4-0 for a split of Friday's twi-night double-header.

Lance Parrish hit a two-run homer and Chet Lemon had a solo shot to back the six-hit pitching of Dan Petry as the Tigers took the opener 9-1. The split stretched their lead in the American League East to 12 gameds over Toronto.

Ojeda, 9-7, leads the league with five shutouts. In his last three starts, the left-hander Ojeda has pitched a three-hitter, a six-hitter and Friday's three-hitter. Against the Tigers, he walked two while striking out five.

Boston's Dwight Evans and Jim Rice singled with one out in the first inning of the nightcap and scored on two-out singles by by Mike Easler and Bill Buckner.

In the Boston fourth, Marty Barrett singled, went to third on a single by Jackie Gutierrez and scored on a single by Boggs. Gutierrez scored on a double by Evans to give the Red Sox a 4-0 lead and chase Detroit starter Glenn Abbott, 3-3.

In the opener, Petry, 14-4, walked three and struck out three in notching his third consecutive victory. Boston's Bruce Hurst, 10-6, gave up six runs and six hits in six innings.

Lemon hit his 14th home run of the season, a shot into the second deck in left field, with two out in the first inning. Parrish then walked, went to third on Larry Herndon's bloop single and was credited with stealing home while Herndon was trapped in a rundown between first and second. The throw from first baseman Buckner to catcher Rich Gedman was high and wide.

Rangers 4, Blue Jays 2

TORONTO — Gary Ward tripled home the tie-breaking run in the sixth inning and scored on Jeff Kunkel's sacrifice fly as the Texas Rangers defeated the slumping Toronto Blue Jays 4-2.

The win was only the third in the last 14 games for Texas while Toronto dropped its fifth in a row. The second-place Blue Jays began play 11½ games behind Detroit in the American League East.

Knuckleballer Charlie Hough, 11-8, went the distance for the 13th time, tops in the American League. He scattered nine hits. Loser Doyle Alexander, 8-5, gave up eight hits and struck out eight.

Texas took a 1-0 lead in the top of the third inning on consecutive doubles by Pete O'Brien and Buddy Bell. Toronto tied it in the bottom of the inning on singles by Alfredo Griffin, Dave Collins and Lloyd Moseby.

In the sixth, Mickey Rivers singled and scored on Ward's triple for a 2-1 Texas lead. Kunkel's sacrifice fly made it 3-1 and O'Brien hit his 12th home run in the seventh inning. Ernie Whitt led off the Toronto seventh with his fifth home run.

Royals 12, Brewers 8

MILWAUKEE — Frank White drove in three runs and Steve Balboni and Onix Concepcion had two apiece as the Kansas City Royals stretched their winning streak to six games by walloping the Milwaukee Brewers 12-8 in the first game of Friday's twi-night double-header.

The Brewers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on Mark Brouhard's fourth homer of the season. But the Royals broke the game open with a six-run fifth that put them ahead 12-3. Jim Sundberg accounted for Milwaukee's last five runs with a three-run homer in the sixth and a two-run shot in the eighth, his fifth and sixth of the season.

George Brett started the fifth-inning outburst with a one-out single off reliever Andy Beene. He went to second on a wild pitch and to third on Jorge Orta's single. One out later, Beene unleashed a wild pitch, allowing Brett to score. Balboni followed with his third hit, a double that drove in Orta.

BALTIMORE — Gary Roenicke clouted a three-run homer and Storm Davis allowed only two hits over the final seven innings as the Baltimore Orioles edged the Cleveland Indians 4-3.

The Orioles scored four runs in the third inning off Neal Heaton, 7-10. Roenicke's fifth homer of the season, which forged a 3-3 tie, followed two-out singles by Cal Ripken Jr. and Eddie Murray.

Benny Ayala then doubled off the glove of third baseman Brook Jacoby and scored the winning run when Mike Young's bouncer over the mound went under the glove of onrushing shortstop Julio Franco and rolled into short center field for a single.

Twins 2, Angels 0

MINNEAPOLIS — Minnesota's Mike Smithson and two relievers stymied California on four hits, hurling the Twins to a 2-0 victory that lifted them within one-half game of the first-place Angels in the American League West.

Smithson, 11-8, yielded a first-inning single to Rod Carew, a second-inning walk to Reggie Jackson and then retired 17 batters in a row until Jackson's two-out single in the seventh. The 6-foot-8 right-hander struck out four and walked one before giving way to Len Whitehouse with one out in the eighth after leadoff batter Rob Wilfong was hit by a pitch and went to second on Jerry Narron's grounder.

Wilfong took third on Brian Dowling's foul fly and Gary Pettis was hit by a pitch and stole second, putting the potential tying runs in scoring position. but Whitehouse retired Rod Carew on a pop foul.

Ron Davis came on after Fred Lynn opened the California ninth with a double. Doug DeCinces singled Lynn to third, but with runners at first and third and no one out, Davis struck out Reggie Jackson, retired Juan Beniquez on a pop foul and got Wilfong on a grounder to record his 19th save.

Yankees 8, White Sox 6

CHICAGO — Dave Winfield cracked a pair of doubles, including one in a five-run first inning, as the New York Yankees chased LaMarr Hoyt after just two-thirds of an inning for his quickest exit and held on for an 8-6 victory over the slumping Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox suffered their fifth consecutive loss and 12th in the last 16 games despite a pair of homers by Greg Walker, who drove in four runs.

Willie Randolph walked to open the game, was sacrificed to second and scored on a single by Don Mattingly.

New York starter Phil Niekro held Chicago hitless for three innings but was unable to get through the fifth for the victory. Harold Baines and Walker hit successive home runs with one out in the fourth and the White Sox added four more runs in the fifth, three scoring on Walker's second homer and 11th of the season.

Illinois accepts NCAA grid penalties

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Big Ten champion Illinois will accept penalties for violating NCAA football regulations, but the punishment will not include "bowl sanctions of a multiyear nature," according to a report published Friday.

Nor will the NCAA ask Illinois to fire any member of Coach Mike White's football staff, the Champaign-Urbana News-Gazette said.

Weightlifter loses appeal hearing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Weightlifter Jeff Michels, banned from the Olympics because of alleged drug use at the Pan American Games last year, Friday lost his appeal to reverse the suspension in an International Olympic Committee hearing.

Michels expressed bitterness at the U.S. Olympic Committee and the International Weightlifting Federation over his two-year ban and said he would pursue, and possibly broaden, a pending $1 million lawsuit against the organizations in federal District Court in Chicago.

He said he felt the session before the IOC's Eligibility Committee "vindicates" him, but regretted that the organization chose not to overturn the ban. His attorney said that although the committee was "sympathetic" and "agreed he has a great deal of evidence to support his case, they were not in a position to reverse the suspension."

"The USOC has stood against me in my search for a fair hearing since day one," Michels said in a statement through his attorney, Steven Pontikes. "The USOC has refused to examine the merits of my case, has refused to share with me evidence which it has that the tests are not valid, has refused to take my case to the international governing bodies and has opposed my efforts to obtain a fair hearing in every possible way."

Kansas to stay off TV

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — The University of Kansas says it does not plan to exercise an option that would allow it to televise live any of its 1984 football games while the school remains on probation by the NCAA.

"I would say we would go along as we have ... We don't want to prolong it anymore. I think we want to stay with what (the penalty) we've got," Lonny Rose, assistant athletic director at Kansas, said Thursday.

The Kansas football program was placed on two years' probation in December by the National Collegiate Athletic Association for recruiting violations. Kansas was barred from appearing on television or playing in a bowl game during the 1984 season.

The NCAA announced a one-year moratorium Thursday on the policy of banning schools on probation from making football television appearances. The NCAA said, however, that sanctions could be extended if a lower court modifies the U.S. Supreme Court decision stripping the NCAA of its control of television contracts.

The NCAA said that even if the decision is not modified the Committee on Infractions could meet and hand out another penalty to any school on football probation that opted to televise 1984 games.

"When they (the committee) say reconsider, you don't know exactly what that might be," Rose said. One possibility would be a reduction in scholarships.

Padres rip Astros, 7-3

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Luis Salazar and Kevin McReynolds each hit two-run homers and Steve Garvey drove in a pair of runs with a single and a triple to lead the San Diego Padres past the Houston Astros 7-3 Friday night.

Tony Gwynn, the National League's leading hitter, went 3-for-4 to give him 10 hits in his last 13 at-bats.

Craig Lefferts pitched four innings in relief to preserve Ed Whitson's 12th victory, a career high. Whitson, who has lost five, departed after allowing a leadoff single to Kevin Bass in the sixth inning. It was Lefferts' fifth save.

The Astros scored twice in the first inning on a two-run single by Jose Cruz and added a run in the second when Bill Doran drew a one-out walk, stole second and scored on another single by Cruz.

The Padres got one back on Garvey's run-scoring single in the third and Salazar's second homer in the fourth tied it 3-3.

San Diego broke the tie with a run in the fifth on consecutive one-out singles by Gwynn and Garvey off Vern Ruhle, 1-8, and Carmelo Martinez' sacrifice fly.

The Padres added three more runs off Dave Smith in the seventh when Gwynn led off with a single and scored on Garvey's triple. Two outs later, McReynolds cracked his 13th home run into the second deck of the stadium, only the fifth player to accomplish that feat.

Mets widen East lead over Cubs

Associated Press

NL Roundup

NEW YORK — Wally Backman's run-scoring single in the seventh inning broke up a pitchers' duel between Dwight Gooden of New York and Dick Ruthven of Chicago, and the Mets widened their lead in the National League East to 4½ games with a 2-1 victory Friday night over the second-place Cubs.

The victory was the seventh straight for the Mets, who have a record of 21-4 in the month of July and are 25-10 in one-run games this season.

October-like weather — damp, windy and chilly — contributed to the playoff atmosphere of this series between two teams normally relegated to the second division by this time of the season.

But this time, it was a battle for the division lead, and a battle between two pitchers with vastly different styles — Gooden, the overpowering rookie, and Ruthven, the crafty veteran.

The Mets and Gooden were the winners on this night before a sellout crowd of 51,102 at Shea Stadium.

Gooden, 9-6, allowed just four hits, struck out eight to run his major league-leading total to 162 and walked seven, pitching out of trouble several times in a less-than-flawless eight-inning performance. Jesse Orosco pitched the ninth for his 21st save.

Rafael Santana started the Mets' winning rally when he led off the seventh by walking on four pitches. Gooden then laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt to move Santana to second, and Backman hit an 0-1 Ruthven delivery up the middle to score Santana for a 2-1 lead.

Backman's hit chased Ruthven, 2-7 and loser of seven straight — two in a row since returning from the disabled list — in favor of Tim Stoddard. Ruthven worked 6 1-3 innings, allowing seven hits.

Gooden showed his streak of wildness early, walking leadoff hitter Bob Dernier on a 3-2 count to lead off the game. Dernier stole second, his 34th steal of the season, then advanced to third on a grounder by Ryne Sandberg.

Matthews, one of the Cubs' Philadelphia-connection players who came over from the Phils along with Dernier late in spring training, hit Gooden's first pitch on a line into left to give Chicago a 1-0 lead.

Gooden then struck out Leon Durham and Keith Moreland in succession to end the inning. He struck out Jody Davis to lead off the next inning to run his string of consecutive strikeouts to three.

In the bottom of the first, the Mets got the run back with the help of some wildness by Ruthven, who was on the disabled list from May 20-July 15 after arm surgery.

With two out, Keith Hernandez lined a 2-1 Ruthven delivery into left field for a single. Ruthven then walked Darryl Strawberry on four pitches, moving Hernandez into scoring position. Hernandez scored when Foster stroked a single into right field.

That tied the score 1-1, and each team wasted subsequent scoring opportunities.

Cardinals 3, Pirates 2

PITTSBURGH — Chris Speier raced to third when right fielder Doug Frobel dropped a fly ball, then scored on Willie McGee's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning as the St. Louis Cardinals rallied for a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Speier opened the 10th by lofting a fly to the warning track that Frobel had in his glove but dropped for a three-base error. Loser Kent Tekulve, 2-7, got a groundout before walking pinch hitter Steve Braun. McGee then lifted a fly to left and left fielder Benny Distefano's throw to the plate was wide, allowing Speier to score.

Winning pitcher Joaquin Andujar, 14-9, became the National League's second 14-game winner, while Bruce Sutter worked the 10th inning for his 24th save.

Andujar was masterful over the first seven innings, allowing only a fifth-inning single by Jason Thompson.

Jim Morrison's sixth homer with two outs in the eighth spoiled the shutout. Frobel's one-out single in the bottom of the ninth was the only other hit off Andujar.

Expos 6, Phillies 1

PHILADELPHIA — Jim Wohlford cracked a bases-loaded double and Tim Wallach drove in three runs with a homer and a two-run single as the Montreal Expos defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 6-1.

Winning pitcher David Palmer, 5-3, gave up six hits, struck out two and did not walk a batter in five innings, while Bill James pitched the final four innings for his seventh save. Steve Carlton, 9-5, absorbed the loss, his first following four straight victories.

Montreal took a 2-0 lead in the third. Tim Raines led off with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice by Pete Rose, and Andre Dawson and Gary Carter walked to load the bases. After Wallach fouled out, Wohlford lined a double off the left-field fence to score Raines and Dawson.

Democracy on show in XXXIIIrd Olympiad

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Its official name sounds like something chiseled in marble, and probably is: The Games of the XXXIIIrd Modern Olympiad.

But stuffy titles bespeak neither the spirit nor the creative force behind the long-awaited megaevent that launches a 16-day run this weekend under intense security, gaily colored banners and a threat of smog.

These are the American Olympics — democracy and free enterprise; Hollywood, Disneyland, Madison Avenue — a reflection of American ways and American systems. And without the Soviets, East Germans, Cubans and 11 other Eastern bloc countries, the LA Games promise to lead to American gold and glory on the victory stands.

IN CHARGE of Saturday's gala opening ceremonies in the Los Angeles Coliseum was movie kingpin David Wolper, who promised that his cast of thousands would make millions of television viewers worldwide applaud the miracles of Hollywood.

One of the most persistent criticisms leveled at these Games has been their commercialism. Corporate sponsors paid huge amounts to make their products the official this and the official that of the 1984 Olympics. The Olympic rings seemingly are embossed on everything from beer cans to Big Macs, and this was even one complaint cited by the Soviets when they and 14 of their allies and client states pulled out.

But the reason for what many view as an excess of capitalism? Democracy.

Voters in Los Angeles were asked to approve the use of tax money to underwrite the Games. They said "No." So organizers turned to free enterprise, and the show was on.

And if that's not enough to give the 1984 Olympics a distinctive American flavor, consider that Peter Ueberroth, the chief executive of the Games, is a self-made millionaire whose next assignment is commissioner of baseball.

As Sunday's opening of competition grew near, organizers crossed their fingers. Security people were everywhere, acutely aware of the random slaying of 21 men, women and children at a McDonald's restaurant two weeks ago just down the Coast Highway toward San Diego. Ueberroth, president of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, says the Games will employ the largest security effort ever seen in the United States.

DESPITE THE absence of the Soviet Bloc countries, the very size of the whole thing seem staggering. More than 7,800 athletes and 8,200 journalists from 141 nations. Twenty-six events contested at venues stretched over 200 miles.

An estimated 650,000 people had poured into already-crowded Southern California. What about the Southern California smog? What about the infamous Los Angeles traffic? No athletic event has ever been cancelled by smog, maintained Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley. The traffic will be manageable, said city officials, noting that many businesses and industries are staggering work shifts to ease the load on streets and freeways.

More Sports on Page 8B

Secret Service officials were sniffing about in preparation for an appearance by President Reagan officially opening the Games.

Security was tight. Palms were sweaty.

The President was about to give the signal for the American Olympics — devalued though they may be by the Soviet-led pullout — to begin. And Americans were hoping this could be their greatest team ever.

"Absolutely the best team we have ever sent to the Olympics," said Ollan Cassell, executive director of The Athletics Congress, governing body for American track and field. The American track and field squad includes Carl Lewis, a sprinter and long jumper in the Jesse Owens mold, trying to duplicate Owens' four-gold feat of 1936; intermediate hurdler Edwin Moses, the man who never loses — at least not in 102 races, including 89 finals; and Mary Decker, American champion in the women's 1,500 and 3,000-meter.

"Other countries should be thinking they have to finish somewhere other than first," said Don Gambrill, the U.S. swimming coach.

MEDALS IN shooting and swimming were to be the first awarded, on Sunday, when the competition also begins in nine other sports: basketball, boxing, cycling, equestrian, field hockey, modern pentathlon, volley, weightlifting and soccer, which opens on the road at Stanford University, Harvard, the Rose Bowl and the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.

The basketball team, coached by volatile Bobby Knight of Indiana, is a heavy gold medal favorite. The 1960 squad featuring Jerry West and Oscar Robertson was widely considered the greatest American Olympic basketball team before Knight brought All-Americans Michael Jordan, Wayman Tisdale and Pat Ewing to Los Angeles.

"For two weeks, I want to make this the best basketball team in the world — bar none," Knight, ever the hard task-master, proclaimed as the Americans prepared for their first game, a 7:30 p.m. EDT clash Sunday with China.

Diver Greg Louganis, with his flawless technique, is the closest the Americans have to a lock on a gold.

Some fear the Los Angeles Olympics could be the last Olympics. The Americans and their allies boycotted the 1980 Moscow Games, the Russians and its allies have snubbed the Los Angeles Games, and the 1988 Games are scheduled for Seoul, South Korea, one of the world's political and military hot spots. Another massive boycott could do terrible damage to the international Olympic movement, say Olympic officials who are studying ways to punish boycotting countries.

Trade deficit hits $8.9 billion

Associated Press

The nation's trade deficit edged up to $8.9 billion in June, although it remained below record monthly imbalances earlier in the year, the government reported Friday.

But government and private analysts still cautioned that the trade deficit for all of 1984 will be severe.

The deficits have been blamed for a loss of 1.5 million jobs in the U.S. economy and have spawned calls for protectionist legislation in Congress to aid such basic industries as steel, textiles and autos.

The country's trading woes are generally blamed on the strength of the dollar, which makes U.S. goods more expensive for foreign customers while lowering the cost of imports.

Indeed, the dollar continued on Friday a record-shattering rise that has now lifted it nearly 64 percent above the level it held as the decade of the 1980s began.

The Federal Reserve Board said its measure of the value of the dollar against 10 other major currencies, weighted on the basis of international trade, rose to 140.70, the highest level since such figures were first compiled in 1967.

The dollar rose to a new high against the Italian lira, an 11-year high against the West German mark and a 10-year high against the Dutch guilder.

The Commerce Department reported that the deficit was up a slim 0.8 percent in June from the $8.8 billion May imbalance.

The trade deficit represents the difference between imports of merchandise and exports.

The May figure came after four straight record-breaking months, culminating in a $12.2 billion deficit recorded in April. For the first half of the year, the trade deficits total $59.8 billion, more than double the $27.3 billion in deficits run up during the same time last year.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige has predicted the deficit could hit $130 billion this year — compared to the record $69.4 billion of 1983. And after Friday's report, he sounded a cautionary note against looking for much improvement in coming months.

"Continuing growth in our economy will raise imports further and — despite export gains — will push U.S. trade deficits somewhat higher during the second half of the year," he said.

Baldrige's pessimism was echoed by private economists.

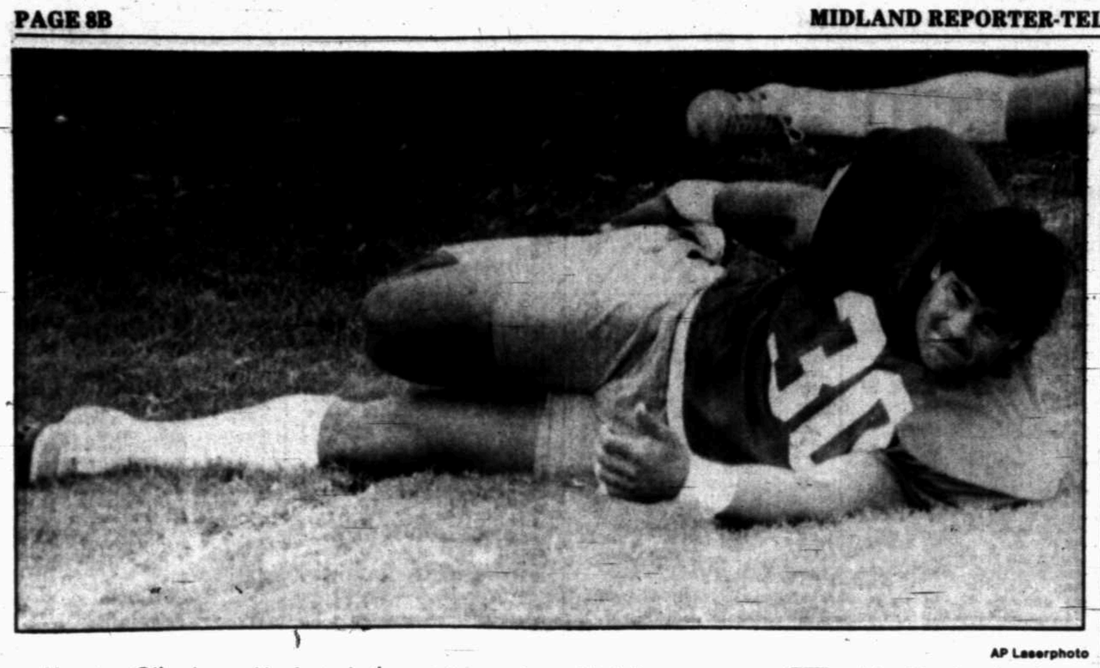
Answer to today's Crossword Puzzle



AP Laserphoto

Houston Oiler Larry Moriarty is the most recent to play behind Earl Campbell, meaning he is a third down pass receiver or blocking back only.

Moriarty: Earl's shadow

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Playing in the shadow of Houston Oiler running back Earl Campbell can be a wilting experience.

Ask former Oiler running back Rob Carpenter, who came in as a rookie in 1977 with Campbell and waited patiently five seasons before demanding to be traded.

Now ask second-year running back Larry Moriarty, the Oilers' latest candidate for "the other running back."

Moriarty started seven games for the Oilers last season as a rookie from Notre Dame.

He is among the strongest players on the team, with a vertical leap of 38 inches that would make some basketball players envious and is a better pass receiver than Campbell.

Yet with the offensive talent being assembled by new head coach Hugh Campbell, Moriarty may find himself once again in the role of a blocking back or third down pass receiver.

Moriarty is not complaining yet but he is getting edgy.

"I read a lot of that Oiler Report (official Oiler publication) stuff and it says we don't have a back that can catch the ball and that kind of disappointed me because I felt like I could catch the ball," Moriarty said. "They never threw the ball to the backs. I hope this year they change the offense about it."

Moriarty caught only four passes last season for 32 yards.

Moriarty is realistic about playing on the same team with Campbell, who rushed 1,301 yards last season and says he's got "5,000 to 6,000 more yards left in me."

He also realizes that quarterback Warren Moon and a competitive group of receivers will turn as much as 60 percent of the Oiler offense into a passing drill.

"I just hope that I can play as much as I possibly can," Moriarty said. "It's a tough situation when you've got a great back like Earl and you go into a single back (offense) and bring in Warren Moon playing quarterback and throwing the ball a lot."

The Oilers ran primarily a one-back offense last season and Campbell was that one back. Moriarty rushed 65 times for 321 yards, a 4.9 per yard average last season and had an 80-yard run that was the longest in the American Football Conference.

The Oilers traded for wide receiver Butch Johnson in the off-season and Tim Smith, who led the NFL's wide receivers with 83 receptions, is returning.

"I think we have some really good receivers coming in for us so it's kind of just a wait-and-see situation," Moriarty said. "Hopefully, I'll get used more or you never know what's going to happen. They could put me on specialty teams."

Nicolette birdie rally catches Jacobsen

CROMWELL, Conn. (AP) — Mike Nicolette sank a 40-foot putt and a 20-foot chip shot for birdies Friday to tie Pete Jacobsen for the second-round lead in the $400,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open.

Both were at 6-under-par 136 after 36 holes, their final rounds played in heavy rain and testing winds at the Tournament Players Club of Connecticut.

One stroke behind them were Mark O'Meara, who surged from five strokes down at the start of the day, and Lance Ten Broeck.

Four players were tied at 4-under 138, with another four at 139. Seventy-seven golfers survived the cut, 3-over-par 145.

Nicolette, 27, of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., shot his second 3-under-par 68, bolstered by the two late birdies on the front nine.

On the par-4 sixth hole, his 40-foot putt rolled up over a mound and curld into the cup. He later said, "I thought someone planted a Volkswagen in there."

Because of the weather, aggressive players found themselves in trouble and conservative ones were safe.

Rookie Inkster signs lead

TORONTO (AP) — Rookie Juli Inkster shot a four-under-par 68 Friday to take a four stroke lead after the second round of the $330,000 du Maurier Classic golf tournament.

Inkster, who opened with a 69 Thursday, is at 137, ahead of Japanese veteran Ayako Okamoto, who shot par 72 over the rolling 6,131-yard St. George's Golf and Country Club.

At two-under 142, five back of Inkster, were Pat Bradley, who shared the first-round lead, JoAnne Carner and Patty Sheehan. Bradley, who opened with a 68 Thursday, dropped two shots to par Friday while Carner, despite suffering back pains, turned in a 72. Sheehan shot a two-under 70.

Seven golfers were at one-under 143.

Laredo's river riders patrol Rio Grande

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — During the great cattle drives of the 1800s, Texas longhorns were unwelcome visitors in northern states.

Wherever they went, the Texas cattle left behind a mysterious trail of death and disease. Northern cattle got sick and died after Texas cattle passed through on their way to be sold.

In 1868, one county in Illinois lost 5,000 cattle to the diséase, nicknamed "Texas Fever." The culprit, scientists eventually discovered, was a parasite: the tick. Texas cattle were immune to germs spread by ticks; northern cattle were not.

At the turn of the century, the federal government launched a war on the disease that is still fought, quietly, along the northern bank of the Rio Grande.

"Fever ticks" were killed off in the United States long ago, but there is still the constant threat that they will spread northward from Mexico, where they are still common.

TO MAKE SURE the ticks stay south of the border, men on horseback patrol 900 or so miles along the winding river, from the Amistad Dam near Del Rio to the Gulf of Mexico.

The men are commonly known as the river riders.

These river riders, 69 of them in all, travel through the thick thorny brush, watching for signs of stray Mexican cattle and horses. They also enforce a permanent quarantine area on the U.S. side, from which no livestock can leave without first being inspected and treated with a pesticide.

Raymond Smith, director of field operations at the U.S. Department of Agriculture office in Laredo, oversees the project.

"Essentially," Smith said, "we are here guarding the cattle industry of the United States against tick fever — and, I might add, being successful at it, or more people would know about us."

TO THE MEN who ride the river, their work is as much a lifestyle as it is a way of earning a living. Most of them were raised on ranches or have a long background in that type of work. They are skilled riders, ropers and animal trackers — cowboys, in effect.

"It's what you might call a government ranch job," said Jack Gilpin, one of Webb County's river riders, or "livestock inspectors," as they are officially called.

The inspectors are each responsible for their own territory, which, in most cases, is about 10 miles long. They follow no regular pattern. If they did, Mexican ranchers could easily bring livestock across the shallow river to graze when the inspectors are gone, and U.S. ranchers could easily violate quarentine rules.

"When patrolling an area," said river rider Elroy Morales, "you have to be pretty familiar with the native (U.S.) livestock — brands, earmarks. That way, if you see livestock that doesn't belong there, that means it's from Mexico."

When an inspector sees a Mexican animal, he uses a walkie talkie to call the county headquarters. Other riders come, if necessary, to help round up the animals. Once caught, the cattle or horses are brought to holding pens at county headquarters, where they are held and treated until the owners claim them.

ONCE A PASTURE becomes infected with ticks, all animals are removed and it is left empty for nine months — time enough for the ticks' life-cycle to be completed. Without a host animal to attach themselves to, the ticks eventually starve, and cannot lay eggs.

Texas cattle are no longer immune to the fever. If they become infected, they could die.

The work of a river rider is challenging, Gilpin said.

"If you have a lot of wet Mexico livestock to catch, you can get pretty tired," Gilpin said.

But most of the Webb County inspectors said they liked their work because, unlike ranching, it is usually an eight-hour job. It offers more security and benefits, they said.

But it is a job that can be dangerous. Riding alone along the Rio Grande, they often encounter illegal aliens. On occasion they have stumbled upon drug smugglers.

"WE'RE ALWAYS unaware of what may be going on around the next bend," Smith said.

For that reason, Congress recently passed a bill allowing the river riders to carry guns on patrol for self-protection.

When they come across illegal immigrants, the livestock inspectors usually try not to get involved. Inspector Rafael Ramos, Jr., described the average encounter.

"If they're close to the water and you're right there upon them, they swim back to the Mexico side. If you encounter them once they're on this side, the first thing they say is 'How far is San Antonio?' or 'How can I get to the highway to get a ride?' I just tell them 'I don't know.' "

One river rider, who asked not to be identified, described an incident a few years ago where he came upon a group of smuggiers wading across the river with bails of marijuana. There were seven of them — six teen-agers and their leader, a man who appeared to be in his early 20s.

The leader had a pistol in his belt. When the smugglers saw the inspector, the six teen-agers ran, but the leader held his ground. The inspector turned around and rode away. Government authorities later recovered 700 pounds of marijuana at the site.

The inspector said he didn't want to give his name because he has received threats from smugglers who thought he had foiled their operation — when in fact he was only passing by.

"Don't misunderstand me," he said. "This job is not cloak and dagger."

Have you heard about the man and his wife from Florida who visited a church in Alaska? The church met in an ice-walled igloo. As they came out of the service, the husband remarked,

"That's the coldest church I've ever attended." Really, other than an igloo church, there is no such thing as a cold church. Churches are just people. You will find a warm welcome at

GOD MUST SMILE

There was never a more serious moment in Barbara's life,
Nor any more remarkable in Raggedy Ann's.
Barbara's parents smiled and thought of tomorrow,
So must have God.
For God rejoices in a child's faith.
Knowing that gradually it will grow wiser—
Though it cannot ever be more sincere.
And He smiles lovingly at what we are today,
Knowing, all the while, what we can become tomorrow!
Is your child—are you—growing in the faith of your church?

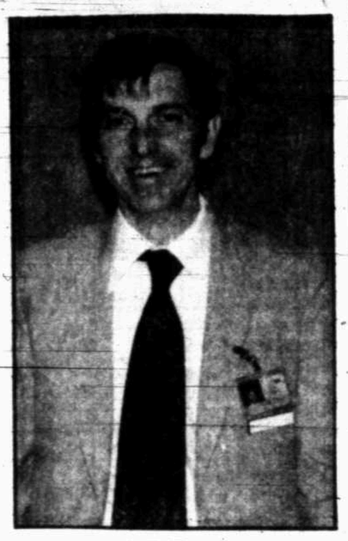
He did doctoral work at Indiana University Medical Center and earned his doctor of ministry in pastoral counseling at Christian Theological Seminary, Indianapolis.

While a student, he worked with the mentally ill as chaplain at Columbus State Hospital and with general medical care patients at Indiana University Medical Center.

He and his wife Linda have three children.



The Rev. Alan Williams

'Cotton Patch Gospel' on its way

The Indiana Central University Theatre from Indianapolis will present the greatest story every retold, "Cotton Patch Gospel," a full-length musical at St. Luke's United Methodist Church, 3011 W. Kansas Ave., at 7 p.m. Aug. 6.

This up-to-date bluegrass version of the Gospel was written by Tom Key and Russell Treyz with music and lyrics by the late Harry Chapin.

The musical is adapted from "The Cotton Patch Version of Matthew and John," with some stories from Luke, by the late Clarence Jordan.

A free-will offering will be taken to help defray expenses. For more information call St. Luke's UMC, 694-2571.

Methodists choose women, minorities

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

RELIGION

In a dramatic surge of ethnic minority and women leadership in the United Methodist Church, two women, one of them black, four black men, a Japanese-American and a Mexican have been elected bishops.

The black woman, Bishop Leontine T.C. Kelly, an evangelism specialist and one-time Virginia pastor, is the first of her race and sex to become bishop in any major Christian body.

It also was the first time for a Hispanic to be elevated to the highest ecclesiastical level in the denomination of 9.3 million, second largest in U.S. Protestantism to Southern Baptists.

The episcopal elections in the five regional jurisdictions, a once-in-four-years affair, chose a total of 19 bishops, including the second Asian to achieve that office, the third woman and the first black in the Southeast.

Altogether the outcome put 13 ethnic minority bishops on the church's 46-member Council of Bishops, a record number, five more than before, including 11 blacks, one Asian and one Hispanic.

"The leadership of the denomination has changed to reflect the diversity of the church," says newly elected Bishop Woodie W. White, a black assigned to Springfield, Ill.

"For many years the church lagged behind society at large in its commitment to eradicate racism," says White, 48, who for 15 years has headed the church's Commission of Religion and Race in Washington, D.C.

"We are now ahead of society."

The new and first Hispanic bishop, chosen by the Western jurisdictional meeting in Boise, Idaho, is Elias G. Galvan, 46, of Los Angeles, director of the council on ministries there, assigned to Phoenix, Ariz.

A Mexican, he also is the first citizen of another country to become a bishop of the U.S. church.

The Western Jurisdiction also elected Bishop Kelly, 64, formerly a black woman pastor in Richmond, Va., and recently the denomination's evangelism executive in Nashville. She was assigned to head the church's San Francisco area.

It was the first time in 36 years that a Methodist bishop had been chosen from across jurisdictional lines, the West reaching into the Southeast. She belonged to the Virginia conference.

The Western Jurisdiction also elected a noted Japanese-American theologian at the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, Calif., Bishop Roy I. Sano, 53. He was assigned to Denver.

He is the church's second Asian-American bishop, the first being Bishop Wilbur W.Y. Choy of San Francisco, a Chinese-American who has retired.

The other woman, elected by the North Central jurisdictional meeting in Duluth, Minn., was Bishop Judith Craig, 47, conference director of ministries in Canton, Ohio, assigned Detroit.

She formerly was a pastor in Cleveland and Middleburg Heights, Ohio.

Only once prior to the current elections had a woman bishop been chosen, Bishop Marjorie S. Matthews of Wisconsin, elected four years ago and retiring this summer.

The Southeastern juridictional meeting in Lake Junaluska, N.C., elected its first black, Bishop Ernest W. Newman, 56, a district superintendent in DeLand, Fla., assigned to head the Nashville area.

Two other blacks, elected bishops by the Northeastern Jurisdiction meeting at Annville, Pa., were Felton E. May, 49, of Dover Del., assigned to Harrisburg, Pa., and Forrest C. Stith, 50, of Washington, D.C., assigned to Syracuse, N.Y.

The blacks elected totaled five, with six others continuing in office, 11 of them altogether. Two others are retiring, Bishops Roy Nichols of New York and L. Scott Allen of Charlotte, N.C.

The Northeastern Jurisdiction also elected Bishop Neil I. Irons of Romney, W.Va., assigned to Princeton, N.J., with carry-over Bishop C. Dale White transferred from Princeton to New York.

Besides Bishop Newman, the Southeastern Jurisdiction also elected five white bishops, including:

Ernest A. Fitzgerald, 58, of Greensboro, N.C., assigned to Atlanta; R. Kern Eutsler, 64, of Richmond, Va., assigned to Knoxville, Tenn.; J. Lloyd Knox, 55, of St. Petersburg, Fla., assigned to Birmingham, Ala.

Activist criticizes agency

GRANVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A United Methodist anti-pornography activist says the denomination's social-action agency deals only with a "narrow, exclusive" range of civil issues, neglecting the "moral social" ills of the times.

The Rev. Donald E. Wildmon, who heads the National Federation for Decency, told the annual Good News convocation, an evangelical caucus, that an alternative agency is needed to speak out against spreading personal immorality.

He said new church efforts should be mounted against family breakdown, drug abuse, violence, pornography, vulgarity, abortion-on-demand and anti-Christian content of media entertainment.

Lutherans join for study

CHICAGO (AP) — Three Lutheran denominations, moving toward forming a new united church by 1988, have joined in forming a center for study and dialogue on current issues, to be called The Lutheran Academy.

The president of its board, William Diehl of Allentown, Pa., said the academy, patterned after the Evangelical Academies of West Germany, will provide a setting for various specialists, ethicists and theologians to examine cotemporary concerns.

Charitable gifts increase

NEW YORK (AP) — American charitable contributions totaled $64.9 billion in 1983, up 8.1 percent, reports the American Association of Fund-Raising Counsel. The biggest increase in giving was to religious organizations, up 10.6 percent to $31.03 billion.

Gifts to religious organizations made up 47.8 percent of American philanthropy, the association said. Hospitals and health agencies received $9.15 billion, education $9.04 billion, social service organizations $6.4 billion.

Woman's motto: Whatever it takes to get job done

HENDERSON, Texas (AP) — Twenty years ago Linda Bowdoin could have been described as the overweight secretary at a mobile home office who devoted her life to a husband and two children.

The Linda Bowdoin of today is a stranger to that obese secretary. She owns a business and a seven-acre lot where she retreats to her private life.

Last month, Ms. Bowdoin celebrated the grand opening of her recreational vehicle sales business, The Longhorn Co. The crowd gathered for the ribbon cutting at the Hwy. 64 location. As the scissors clamped together, the red streamer broke and fell to the ground. It opened the doors to a life she had worked hard for.

In 1966, Ms. Bowdoin fell into a management position at the Sundowner Mobile Home Plant in Longview. When her boss' partner died, someone was needed to run the plant for a week while her boss was at a convention. He returned to the plant and found everything running smoothly. He left Ms. Bowdoin in charge on a trial basis. If things worked out, she could stay.

Things worked out.

A year later, Ms. Bowdoin was promoted to purchasing agent. Accounts payable and receivable, payroll, inside sales and services were her official responsibilities with the promotion. It was Ms. Bowdoin's first step up the ladder and it was a giant one. She was the first female purchasing agent in any mobile home plant in the United States.

"At that time I did everything a general plant manager would do. Everyone answered to me when something went wrong."

Finally, in 1982, Ms. Bowdoin was promoted to general manager of Craftmade Homes. On her second step up the ladder, she again achieved the title of first. Out of 400 mobile home plants across the United States, she was the only general plant manager.

"I have never been a women's libber. I always believed in equal pay for equal work, but that is all. When I started out, I never thought of coming this far. I just worked hard. I would tell anyone who wants to move up to volunteer to do whatever it takes to get the job done — whether you are paid for it or not."

The men who knew Ms. Bowdoin did not question her authority. They respected her for her past perfomance and were confident of her ability, she said. However, prejudice was then, as now, a stumbling block.

"Whenever I start working with a man who has not seen my work, I can see the doubt in his face. It's as if they say, 'prove it, show me you can,' before they will believe in me, but I have never had a man not work for me."

Ms. Bowdoin still is the object of wisecracks from many men.

"Right before I opened The Longhorn Co. an electrician came out. He asked me 'Is there a silent partner involved in this? I mean is there a man who is going to look after you and make sure you don't shut the doors and go shopping?' I was infuriated!

"I have played dumb more times than I would like to remember. Women by nature tend to use persuasion and charm instead of intelligence. That is something you must give up if you want respect. I don't want this to sound conceited, but I am going to act as intelligent as I am. If a man feels threatened, that's his problem, not mine.

"I would recommend to any woman who wants to go in to the business world to read 'Dress for Success.' The way you dress really affects the way men will react toward your position. If you dress flirty or charmingly, men won't take you seriously," Ms. Bowdoin said.

"A woman has got to sell herself. Consistent determination will pull you through the rough spots," advised Ms. Bowdoin.

"I had to get my own life together before I was really happy. You have to stop worrying about what other people think and do what is best for you.

"If you feel bored with your work, apply for a higher position. Always be willing to work a little extra to get the job done. You need to find a job where you are constantly challenged in a rewarding way.

"I was so bored with being a homemaker that I was miserable. I ate too much because I was so frustrated," Ms. Bowdoin said. She has lost more than 60 pounds.

"Keep aspiring to get as far as you can," she urged.

Ms. Bowdoin warned that many times men are quite comfortable working with a woman. Her decisions are respected and she is relied upon until it comes time for a raise.

"Then your opinion doesn't count. They say you're being too pushy. It's inbred in women to do the right thing and wait to be rewarded for our deeds. If you want to get anywhere that won't work. Ask! Ask! Ask!," Ms. Bowdoin emphasized, "do not wait."

After a year and a half of working as a general plant manager, Ms. Bowdoin decided to invest in herself. She chose to live in Henderson because of the "friendly people and beautiful land."

"I love the outdoors and Henderson is still small enough that the people are kind and not so rushed. Even Longview is getting to be too big for me. The people here are so accepting. It is easier for me to run a business here because people can still work with me on a one-on-one basis. In the city they can't see me and know that I am capable," Ms. Bowdoin said.

In addition to selling travel trailers, The Longhorn Co. carries supplies for trailers, such as chemicals, water heaters, and toilets. Also, the company services all the supplies an electrical contractor would need.

Jackson, other stars making charity album

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Jackson, whose tour with his brothers is expected to be the biggest moneymaking road show in rock history, is keeping busy on the charity circuit as well.

Jackson, who has said he will donate his own proceeds from the tour to charity, is also spearheading an album project that will benefit the entertainment industry-supported T.J. Martell Foundation for Leukemia and Cancer Research.

The LP, called "Let's Beat It," is described by promoters as the largest-ever charity venture of its kind, with hits by Jackson, Paul McCartney Billy Joel and 11 other top pop entertainers.

All of the artists are giving the Martell foundation their royalties from the album, which will be marketed under the slogan "every album or cassette sold is a step toward a cure."

Jackson will also meet with the winner of an essay contest that is part of the government's campaign against drinking while driving.

Filmmaker finds no dream impossible

BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paul Verhoeven grew up in postwar Holland adoring American and English movies and wishing he could be a movie maker. But it was an impossible dream in a country with no film industry.

Yet in the past 10 years Verhoeven has become a world-class film director, and for the first time, Dutch films have been seen and praised in the United States and other countries.

Verhoeven's dramatic and sometimes daringly sexy films have included "Turkish Delight," "Soldier of Orange" (both nominated for best foreign language Academy Awards), "Keetje Tippel" and "Spetters." Most have won prizes at film festivals. That is true of his latest film, "The 4th Man," which won the International Critics Award at the Toronto Film Festival.

Verhoeven was here recently for the Los Angeles opening of "The Fourth Man," and to confer with Orion Pictures, which handled his first non-Dutch production, "Flesh and Blood." He is a handsome man of 45, well-spoken in almost unaccented English.

His beginnings in the film business go back to his childhood memories during World War II.

"Even though I was very young during the war, I remember it vividly, and I used some of my memories in 'Soldier of Orange.' I was living in The Hague when the German government was there, and I remember the rockets being launched to England. I saw the events as a child would see them, and to me it was merely a pleasant adventure," he said.

After the war, the only movies in Holland were American and British, he said. "They came in a continuous stream, and I was enthralled by pictures like 'High Noon' and 'Shane.' I was especially taken with the films of Alfred Hitchcock, David Lean and Sam Peckinpah, although I wasn't schooled enough to recognize them as directors," he said.

Verhoeven went to film school for a year, then returned to the University of Leiden where he studied mathematics. "I must admit that I was more interested in filmmaking than mathematics, but it seemed impossible to build a career in Holland," he said. "The country was making only two or three films a year, mostly documentaries."

At Leiden Verhoeven began making short films. After graduating in 1964 with a Ph.D. — his specialty was the theory of relativity — he did a hitch as a lieutenant in the navy, serving in the film department. Afterward, he began working in Dutch television, "the best equipped in Europe," he said.

He directed documentaries as well as a TV series. One of the actors he worked with was Rutger Hauer, who later was to star in the Verhoeven movies.

The director's success seems to have created a love-hate relationship with Dutch critics and the government, which supplies 25-30 percent financing for feature films. He was roundly criticized for the sexuality of "Spetters," which he defends as "nonvoyeuristic."

"The critics liked 'The Fourth Man' as much as they hated 'Spetters,'" Verhoeven said.

The filmmaker, whose biggest budget was $2.2 million for "Soldier of Orange," recently found himself directing the $7 million "Flesh and Blood" in Spain. The cast included American Jennifer Jason Leigh, Australians Tom Burlinson and Jack Thompson and Rutger Hauer.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: ABC anchorman Peter Jennings, Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, Senator Nancy Landon Kassebaum (R-Neb.), "Capitol's" Richard Egan, Cincinnati Reds' Dan Driessen and San Francisco Giants fireman Greg Minton share your birthday. Also born on this date: Dag Hammarskjold, Benito Mussolini and author Booth Tarkington. Your originality allows you to score one success after another in the months ahead. You find greater personal satisfaction in your work. Make yourself available to all members of your family. Romance proves lucky for both you and your partner. You find yourself in the limelight in October. Follow your instincts and everything turns out great.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Find time to help a child solve a problem. A phone call answers your questions. Let a neighbor's critical comments roll right off your back. A religious experience brings new insights.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Use your quick mind and sense of humor to make this an especially happy day. Try to understand why mate finds a new hobby so appealing. Shared interests draw you closer together.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take a chance on an untried idea. With a little luck, it will benefit the entire family. Save money by entertaining at home. Small gatherings hold more appeal than large ones.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Romance smiles on those traveling to a distant land. Trust your first impressions. Domestic tensions fade when you and loved one discuss your differences openly. Strive to develop better rapport.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Keep your emotions under tight control today to prevent complications. Two heads are better than one when it comes to solving a family problem. Let others plan recreational activities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A casual conversation with a family member brings new peace of mind. Do not lose sight of your long-term goals. A talk with a former flame helps heal an old wound.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your expectations could be unrealistic. Look at things from the other person's viewpoint. Steer clear of someone who has a chip on his shoulder. You will be happier going your own way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Hidden anger or resentment could stand between you and someone you love. Help mate or child face an important issue. There is strength in numbers now. An excellent period for reconciliations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A conversation that takes place at a social event gives you the beginnings of a great idea. Look for ways to help an older friend or relative. Romance takes on a new lustre.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Eliminate those non-essentials that tend to clutter up your personal life. Family members deserve more of your time. A cash flow situation improves. You will never regret a change you made recently.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Entertaining is favored as long as you stick to your budget. Keep things light and positive at a family gathering. Avoid talking politics with relatives who do not share your views.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): It could be difficult to stay on schedule today. Act on those optimistic feelings you have and romance becomes more rewarding. Let loved ones in on your plans.

Jacksons won't be in Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Singer Michael Jackson won't appear at the Hoosier Dome here next month because the stage would eliminate so many seats the event wouldn't be profitable, officials said Friday.

Dean H. Phillips, executive director of the Indiana Convention Center and Hoosier Dome, said the stadium would only accommodate 32,000 seats because of the huge stage and sound tower required by Jackson and his brothers.

Chuck Sullivan, head of Stadium Management Corp., which is promoting the Jacksons' Victory Tour, said a minimum of 40,000 seats were needed to break even. The Hoosier Dome has 61,000 seats.

Phillips said dome officials had been negotiating for an Aug. 17-18 appearance by the Jacksons, natives of Gary, Ind.

NEW YORK (AP) — The corner of 49th Street and Broadway in midtown Manhattan was named "Jack Dempsey Corner" on Friday in memory of the late heavyweight boxing champion who had a restaurant nearby.

Dempsey's wife, Deanna, and daughter, Barbara, were present at City Hall when Mayor Edward Koch signed a law renaming the corner.

"Despite his athletic prowess and business acumen, what was perhaps most striking about Jack Dempsey was the man himself," Koch said.

Dempsey, who died June 1, 1983, won the heavyweight crown in 1919 and won 65 of his 70 career fights, 48 by knockouts.

NEW YORK (AP) — Tennis star Martina Navratilova gave a deposition Friday in a $2 million suit filed against her by a photographer.

Almost a year after the suit was filed, a judge this month ordered Miss Navratilova to answer the questions of Marvin Mitchelson, a lawyer for free-lance photographer Art Seitz, 42.

In a suit filed Aug. 25, 1983, Seitz claimed Miss Navratilova grabbed his camera, ripped open the back and destroyed the film after her loss in a quarterfinal match to Pam Shriver at the 1982 U.S. Open at Forest Hills.

Miss Navratilova, 27, who won her third straight Wimbledon championship this month, made no comment as she entered her lawyer's office for the deposition.

"She's not going to answer any questions," said her business manager Peter Johnson.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Country music star Tammy Wynette was released from a hospital Friday and flew to Ohio to keep a scheduled concert date at a county fair, her publicist said.

Miss Wynette, 42, entered Cedars-Sinai Medical Center Wednesday night because of infected vocal cords after taping an appearance on ABC's "The Olympic Gala," with co-hosts Jane Fonda and Robert Wagner.

"The swelling in her vocal cords has gone down," Minnie Pennington, publicist for the singer, said by telephone from Kansas City. Miss Wynette was flying to Mount Vernon, Ohio, for an appearance at the Knox County Fair.

Pollster Gallup dies at 82

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — George Gallup, founder of the Gallup Poll and father of modern opinion surveys, died at his summer home in Switzerland, a close associate said Friday. He was 82.

Gallup, whose widely used poll was circulated through about 100 newspapers nationwide, died in the town of Tschingel on Thursday, apparently of a heart attack, said Sarah Van Allen, Gallup's assistant.

His son, George Gallup Jr., 54, currently is president of the Gallup Poll.

Born Nov. 18, 1901, in Jefferson Iowa, Gallup was graduated from the State University of Iowa in 1923, then earned a master's degree in psychology and a doctorate in journalism.

His doctoral thesis contained an idea that evolved into the Gallup polls.

He began his research in the field of public opinion and election forecasting in the early 1930s, spurred on in part by the desire to help his mother-in-law get elected and re-elected as secretary of state in Iowa.

In 1932, he went to work for the Young and Rubicam advertising agency in New York as director of research, where he refined his polling methods by testing public reaction to products.

The Gallup polls were officially inaugurated in 1935 when Gallup founded the American Institute of Public Opinion. He founded the British Institute of Public Opipion in 1936.
