Charges Estes Taint Marks Administration

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater charged today the taint of the Billie Sol Estes scandal still marks President Johnson's administration.

Campaigning across the farm belt, Goldwater declared the Estes affair casts "grave reflections right across the White House itself."

FRAUD

The Arizona senator called the case "more than just a scandal, a sordid picture of favoritism and fraud."

"It is a study in the operations and attitudes of some of the top officials of government — many of whom are still with us," he said.

Goldwater turned to the Estes case in a speech prepared for delivery at Mason City, Iowa. He opened his campaign day in Wichita, Kan., and was due later at Madison, Wis., for a statehouse rally before moving on to Boston.

Taking aim on the Democrats' handling of farm problems, Goldwater declared: "When partisan political favoritism, or payoffs and bribery, become involved in any government program, the seeds of destruction have been planted."

MAKE IT WORSE

"Incompetent or corrupt administration of a bad program can make it worse," he said.

"It is up to the President to expose wrongdoing in government," the senator added. "But the interim president, whose office dealt with Billie Sol, does not press for exposure."

"His power is used for different ends — and the White House has been turned into the whitewash house," he added.

Estes, the financial operator from Pecos, Tex., is free on bond pending appeal of state and federal convictions for fraud.

Goldwater fired a series of brief shots at Johnson on the Estes matter as he campaigned in Texas Tuesday and Wednesday.

He saved his point-by-point review of the case for the farm belt. Goldwater said Midwest farmers may not be interested in the cotton program Estes manipulated — "but the dishonesty must concern us all."

DREAM WORLD

Climaxing the Texas tour Wednesday night, Goldwater told a rally in Dallas that Johnson "and his curious crew live in a dream world" in dealing with communism.

"They have wishbones where they need a backbone," he told a wildly cheering crowd estimated at 15,000 and a television audience. "The result is a policy of weakness. The result is war — Johnson's war — in Viet Nam."

The Estes case charges Goldwater hurled at the Johnson administration were based largely on testimony presented to investigating senators more than two years ago.

"The real key to proper administration is the attitude of the very highest officials when they are faced with evidence of corruption, mismanagement or political favoritism," he said.

Auto Worker Strike Looms

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union, asserting that only non-economic issues now divide it and General Motors Corp. from a new contract, proposed binding arbitration today of their differences.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther said if the company accepted arbitration the union would withdraw its threat of a nationwide strike against GM at 10 a.m. (EST) Friday.

There was no immediate response from the company. But GM has rejected similar union proposals in the past.

Reuther proposed three-man arbitration, with the company naming one, the union one, and these two selecting a third.

Named Premier Of East Germans

BERLIN (AP) — Willi Stoph, a former bricklayer and corporal in the Nazi army, today was named premier of Communist East Germany.

He also was named deputy to party boss Walter Ulbricht in the State Council, highest executive organ of East Germany.

Welcome Rains Drench County

Gauges Catch Up To Two Inches Here

Rains came to the south and west portions of Howard County Wednesday night and Thursday, bringing some welcomed moisture to areas long since too dry to plow. Eastern and northeastern areas received lesser amounts, ranging from sprinkles in the Vincent area to .60 of an inch at Coahoma.

The Big Spring Experiment Station gauge showed .75 of an inch for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today. Other gauges in the city showed varying amounts, including: HCJC 1.3 inches; Suburban Heights, Boyce Hale 1.17; City Park 1.4; South Haven addition 1.1; Willa Street, Bill Roadie 1.2; College Park 1.1; Kentwood .85; VA Hospital area 1.60.

County area reports show Coahoma .60, Moss Creek Lake .50, Otis Chalk 2.07, Forsan 2.40, Lees Store 2.40, 12 1/2 miles south of Big Spring 1.5, Elbow 1.51, Lomax 2, south of Lomax 2.5, Wilkerson Ranch, west of Big Spring 2.25, 10 miles out on Andrews Highway 1.80, Fairview .80, and to west .60, Knott 1, Vealmoor .70, Ackerly 2.8, Big Spring switching station (TESCO), east of Big Spring .95; Vincent area, west toward Luther only sprinkles.

Reports from south and west Howard County at 10 a.m. said rain was still falling, while to the northeast it had ceased.

County Agent Herb Helbig said benefits from the rain far outweighed any damage done to cotton. He said the benefits would be felt more for next year since the main growing season was practically over.

Other reports said the rains were still in time to aid pastures, and would help provide an early grazing cover for next year.

D. F. Bigony, in the Fairview area, said several farmers had been trying to chisel land and were having a hard time. Now they can put plows in the ground.

Most rural reports said the slow rains soaked in and that if later heavy rains fell tanks will fill and creeks will run.

The area around Lake J. B. Thomas received only about 20 of an inch of rain, and no rise in the lake was anticipated.

R. L. Millaway, at Moss Creek Lake, said rain fell too slow to run off, but if more fell soon, there would be enough to cause some rise.

Rail Strike Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The threat of a nationwide rail strike by firemen and engineers was postponed for 60 days today as President Johnson created an emergency board to look into the labor dispute.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen had threatened a strike against many of the nation's major rail lines Friday morning in support of wage demands that include a proposed 25 per cent across-the-board increase.

Johnson's action in creating an emergency board automatically defers the strike threat for 60 days while the board, to be appointed later, studies the situation.

The President's action was recommended by the National (Railway) Mediation Board which said that the threatened strike "would interrupt interstate commerce to a degree such as to deprive much of the country of essential transportation service."

The board told Johnson the wage dispute had been "intensively mediated and that a declaration of arbitration was declined by the labor organization."

H.E. Gilbert, union president, said Wednesday that more than 99 per cent of the membership had voted to strike if the union's wage demands are not met. Current wage demands were served on the carriers Dec. 2, 1963.

IT'S A GRAND TIME FOR SPLASHING

Rio Grande Floods Rout Over 4,000

By The Associated Press

Heavy rains on the Rio Grande had sent more than 4,000 persons fleeing their homes Thursday in Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, and Del Rio, Tex., sister cities on the border.

Del Rio has had 15.51 inches of rain in the past eight days and its normal annual rainfall is 18 inches.

The Del Rio News Herald reported 3,500 persons were forced from their homes in Ciudad Acuna to a hill fort overlooking the town. Lightning hit the fort and injured five persons.

In Del Rio, 450 to 500 families fled rising San Felipe Creek for the second time in two days. However, at midmorning the creek began receding.

Other deluges fell in Central Texas. Torrential rain at Belton in Central Texas filled downtown streets and muddy water lapped into some business places. High water closed six-lane Interstate 35 at a Belton bridge, temporarily trapping motorists in several cars.

Civil defense workers manning high-wheeled vehicles helped Del Rio residents to safety from homes along the 3-mile course of San Felipe Creek — usually 8 to 10 feet wide but widened to 300 feet by the runoff.

Laughlin Air Force Base at Del Rio sent a mobile kitchen to feed 495 persons taken to San Felipe High School. Others took shelter with relatives and friends.

Villa Acuna refugees moved to a military fort atop a hill. Lightning struck the fort at 4 a. m., knocking down a wall.

Five persons were injured.

Water climbed two to three feet deep in some Del Rio houses. Many of the occupants had returned only Tuesday to start clearing out mud and debris from the previous flood.

The Rio Grande gauge at the international bridge between Del Rio and Villa Acuna climbed to 27.8 feet. Flood stage is 16 feet. Both towns sit 2 or 3 miles back from the riverside and it posed no additional menace.

Spreading waters of the Rio Grande, swollen with runoff from heavy rains the past four days, spread four feet deep over U.S. 77 about 10 miles south of Del Rio. Six inches of water poured over U. S. 90 about 12 miles east of Del Rio but some automobiles were creeping through.

River experts expected the Rio Grande to crest at 28 to 30 feet during the day at Del Rio.

A second cool front since the first of the week caused still more showers as it pushed southward into the central section of the state.

Rivers and creeks had started shrinking back within banks in most areas Wednesday, but the renewed rainfall promised to keep roads blocked in several areas.

The Texas Highway Department reported a number of routes still closed in its Del Rio, San Angelo and San Antonio districts.

Forecasts mentioned a possibility for showers and thunderstorms in all sections of the state.

Committee To Request Records

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee agreed today to ask President Johnson for access to the income tax returns of Philadelphia contractor Matthew McCloskey and others figuring in the reopened Bobby Baker investigation.

Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., also disclosed that the committee's chief investigator, former FBI agent William E. Meehan, has interviewed McCloskey and said that McCloskey gave assurance that he would cooperate in the inquiry.

Thousands Flee As Fire Rides Winds Into Town

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Frightened people hurried from their homes early today as fingers of flame from a raging brushfire moved into the outskirts of this besieged town.

Pushed by 40-mile-an-hour winds, one front on the fire line extended below the foothill road boundary and was moving into the city.

Observers said firemen were making a stand at each house threatened, but that the winds keep pushing the fire onward. Cement-delivery trucks have been pressed into service as water carriers.

U.S. Forest Service officials also reported that a second fire broke out early today in the nearby San Marcos Pass area. Equipment was being rushed to the scene.

By dawn, the blaze had charred more than 16,500 acres of valuable watershed, and no control was in sight.

Officials said as many as 5,000 persons have been forced to evacuate, some of them having to leave their homes twice as the flames died down, then rose again.

Witnesses said that at least 37 homes or other buildings have been destroyed, though the Forest Service could not confirm more than 24.

Some residents fled with only their clothes and a horse trailer — holding the family horse — as the blaze plunged down mountain canyons toward town.

Contrary to earlier reports, the Mt. Calvary Monastery, an Episcopal retreat, was not destroyed. Witnesses said the fire surrounded the structure but passed on without doing much damage.

Two dormitories burned, however, at nearby Westmont College. The fire also swept into Montecito, where 20 more homes were reported burned.

Flames leaped hundreds of feet, reflecting off a towering plume of smoke. People saw the fire in Los Angeles, 96 miles southeast, and from ships 30 miles at sea.

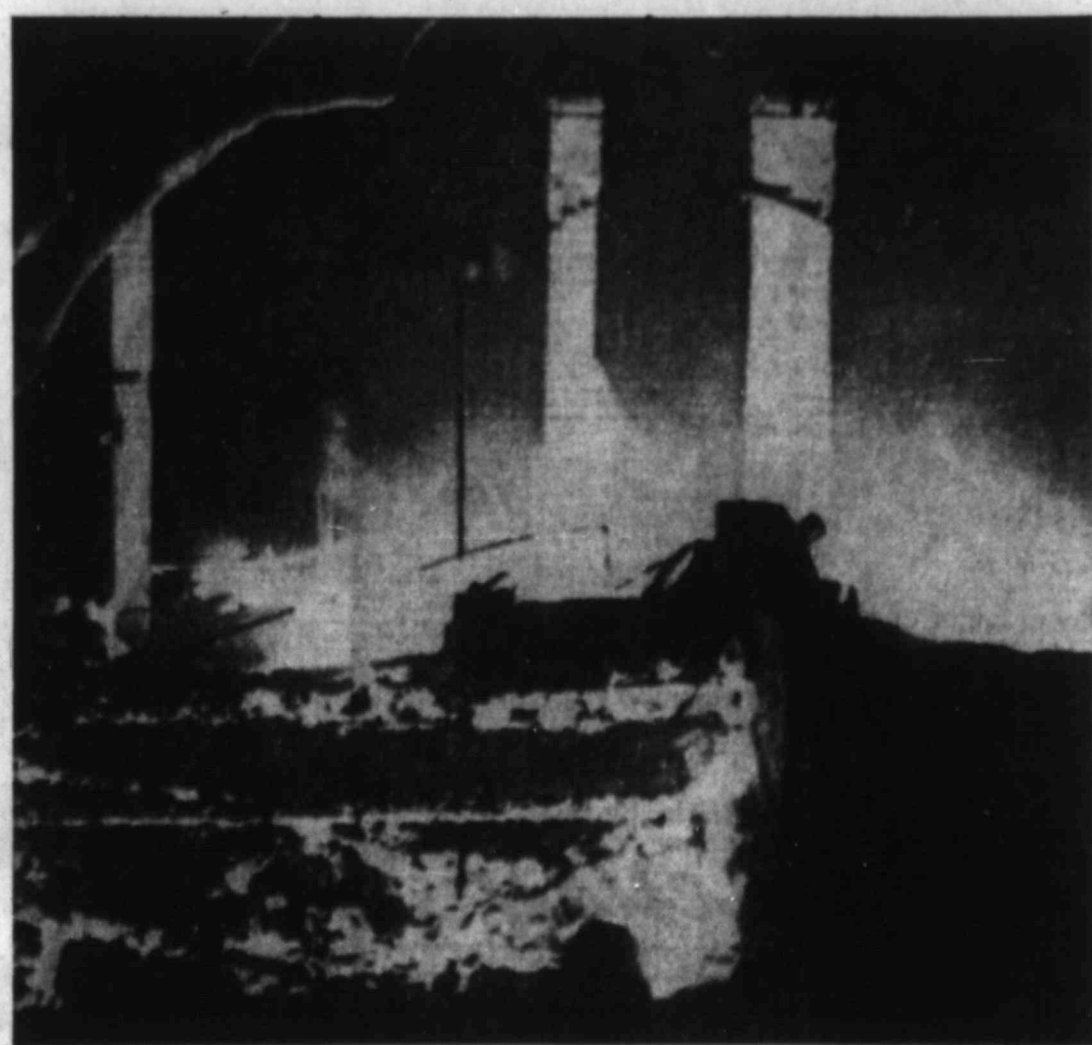

In Santa Barbara itself — a community of 60,000 nestled between the sea and the Santa Ynez Mountains — it seemed like the hills were a mass of flame. The smoke-cloud glow lit a city in turmoil with milling evacuees and rushing fire engines.

The fire was the worst of five great blazes burning in California. Four others in the northern part of the state have burned 73,000 acres and 225 buildings, including farm structures.

A howling Santa Ana wind — the wind which blows to sea from California's desert interior — set the Santa Barbara blaze racing for the city with dramatic suddenness at dusk Wednesday.

'New' Experience For Webb

It was a relatively "new" experience at Webb AFB Thursday on two accounts — it was the first visit of Lt. Gen. William W. Momyer, commander of the Air Training Command, to Webb, and it was raining when he arrived. This was the general's first visit at the base since he assumed command Sept. 8, and the rain was an almost new experience for Webb this year. Gen. Momyer was to make an inspection of the base during the day.

Vision Of Beauty

Pretty Ginger Blass, TJC co-ed, stages a pre-view of the "visions of beauty" to be seen at Tyler's Rose Garden during the Texas Rose Festival on October 23-25. The show in the Garden Center Building in Tyler will feature a formal French garden of the 18th Century. More than 200 varieties of roses will be on display.

DeGaulle Ignores Feelers For Aid

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle winds up his visit to Colombia today, leaving unanswered the question of French aid for an interocean canal across the Colombia isthmus.

The French chief of state ignored feelers for the canal project during his 46-hour visit here, the second stop on his 10-nation tour of South America.

Government officials hoped De Gaulle's visit might result in noteworthy trade and technical agreements. The idea of a modern canal spanning the narrow isthmus of northwest Colombia was high on the list of possibilities.

Spain Wanting Gibraltar Back

MADRID (AP) — Madrid's newspapers switched attention today from charges of U.S. responsibility for the pirate attack on a Spanish freighter off Cuba to Spain's demand before the United Nations for the return of Gibraltar by Britain.

Timed with the hearing now on before the U.N. Commission on Decolonization, the Catholic daily YA devoted its front page to photos of Gibraltar and its leading story to an account of Spain's claims.

YA called Gibraltar "an authentic colonial hinterland." The newspapers made no mention of anti-American demonstrations Wednesday night before the U.S. Embassy. More than 500 police ringed the embassy and kept a shouting crowd of about 200 young men moving.

Dr. Joe Neff presented the program. Robert Haney, president of the club, also introduced Don Brandenberger, new assistant county agent.

Miller Says Johnson Cracks Under Pressure

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — President Johnson showed signs of "cracking under political pressure" when he referred to Sen. Barry Goldwater as a "raving demagogue," GOP vice presidential nominee William E. Miller said today.

Miller, on an extensive campaign swing through the West, questioned whether Johnson was up to the pressure of the responsibility for handling the issues of war or peace.

"Is this the kind of man we want to have his finger on the trigger of nuclear weapons?" Miller asked in a statement issued as he began another day of campaigning.

Johnson did not mention Goldwater, the Republican candidate for president, by name when he referred in a speech Tuesday night to a "raving demagogue," but there was general agreement that he had Goldwater in mind.

In suggesting that Johnson was too irresponsible to have control over nuclear weapons, Miller was turning on the Democrats the same argument they have used frequently against Goldwater.

Miller had no comment on a statement Wednesday by Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., that the national candidates were conducting a "low-level, schoolyard campaign." Mundt called for the elimination of invective from the political debate.

Miller's schedule today listed a breakfast rally here and a flight to California for two days of stumping in a state Miller has termed "a strategic battleground" in the 1964 presidential contest.

He traveled Wednesday from Idaho to Utah, and into Portland, Ore., where he addressed more than 600 Republicans at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

"The wall in Berlin is a monument to the strength of communism and to the vacillation and weakness of this administration," Miller said.

At a news conference Miller said that the recent departure of Grant Reynolds, a Negro attorney, from the Republican National Committee, should not be considered a sign that Republicans have written off the Negro vote.

Miller said he had brought Reynolds into the national committee office, and that the new party chairman, Dean Burch, had followed custom in bringing in his own top aides.

Claims Goldwater Giving Only Bewildering Blur

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, campaigning along the sidewalks of New York, said today that Sen. Barry Goldwater "is giving us neither a choice nor an echo, but a baffling, bewildering blur."

"No man asking the American people to elect him as president," said Humphrey, "has the right to make cryptic, often leave-the-electorate-to-discover-their-meanings."

Humphrey was to team up with Robert F. Kennedy — running for the U.S. Senate from New York — in campaigning around New York City, but he may have to return to Washington later today.

The Senate is due to vote in its long battle over trying to delay court-ordered legislative reapportionment and the White House told Humphrey by telephone that his vote might be needed.

Humphrey whipped through Indiana Wednesday, speaking at rallies until he was hoarse, shaking hands with school children and singing the praises of President Johnson.

Today, in remarks prepared for the New York City Central Labor Council, Humphrey said he wanted to take some statements Goldwater has made and "ask him what they mean."

"Because Sen. Goldwater specializes in dark, obscure pronouncements," said Humphrey, "I can only begin the task of questioning today. The backlog of confusing utterances is considerable — and growing every day — but let us begin with a few of the choicer ambiguities."

Humphrey recalled Goldwater's interview in the German news magazine Der Spiegel June 30 in which Goldwater was asked whether as president he would be willing to go to the brink of war.

He quoted the Republican candidate for president as replying: "Yes, just as your country — that is, Germany — has used brinkmanship down through the years and done so very, very successfully."

Humphrey charged that no one "with common sense" could applaud German brinkmanship, which, he said, had been "disastrous for Germany and the other nations of the world" in two world wars.

A settlement has been reached, Matsen said. The freeway will take another approach, bringing back bovine bliss.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — First baseman Joe Adcock will be lost to the Los Angeles Angels for the remainder of the season with a broken left thumb, the club learned Wednesday.

Black Stays Ruling Until Court Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Hugo L. Black of the Supreme Court has stayed enforcement of a ruling by a three-judge federal court that declared unconstitutional part of the new civil rights law.

The ruling involved a Birmingham, Ala., restaurant.

The high court plans to hear arguments on the case Oct. 5, immediately after hearing an Atlanta, Ga., case in which three federal judges upheld the constitutionality of the rights law's public accommodations section.

"It is an established rule of law that courts of equity will not exercise their power to enjoin enforcement of an Act of Congress except under the most imperative or exigent circumstances," Black said in granting the stay.

He said he had been authorized by the five other judges here to say the court is willing to hear the case when it opens its fall session Oct. 5.

On Aug. 10, Black refused to block enforcement of the civil rights law in the Atlanta case.

The Birmingham case involves Ollie's Barbecue, a restaurant owned by Ollie McClung Sr. and his son, Ollie Jr. It is located several blocks from the nearest interstate travel.

The Atlanta case involves a motel owned by Moreton Rolleston and a restaurant owned by Lester Maddox which is located adjacent to an interstate highway and thus close to interstate commerce.

End To Commuting May Be Near For Politicians

WASHINGTON (AP) — For some of the country's top-ranking commuters, the end of a strenuous and expensive period may be in sight.

These commuters are members of both houses of Congress who have been trying to campaign for re-election at home and also maintain a proper attendance record on Capitol Hill.

Their hopes were high today that the Senate may be nearing a settlement of the reapportionment dispute that has stalled adjournment.

They can now expect to come back to Washington once more — for a burst of work that could wind up the session next week — and then go back to the home grounds for intensive speech-making and hand-shaking until Nov. 3.

Congress had hoped to adjourn before the Republican National Convention in July, or at least before the Democratic convention in August. Instead, it found itself still meeting, still with an unfinished backlog of work, late in September — long after the traditional opening period for the campaigns that involve all seats in the House, one-third of those in the Senate.

Some members, with little or no opposition, could stay in Washington with no great hardship, even if they would rather be at home; some confined their campaigning to long weekends, but many left for protracted tours in the districts.

The double life, legislating in Washington and campaigning at home, runs into money — especially if home is across the country. Members are reimbursed for three round trips a year; the cost of further shuttling is on them.

The Senate had to adjourn abruptly three times last week, and the House once, when someone forced a quorum call on what had been billed as a quiet day. There just wasn't a majority of members on hand.

Negroes Held Under New State Law

McCOMB, Miss. (AP) — An undisclosed number of Negroes have been arrested in this racially tense area on warrants charging them with "criminal syndicalism" — a new state law prohibiting unlawful acts to bring about a political or social change.

A bomb was hurled Wednesday night at the home of a former Negro city police officer who was en route to Washington to talk to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission and the Justice Department.

The house of Ardis Garner, the former policeman, was not damaged. No one was in the structure when the bomb exploded.

A second bomb explosion was reported shortly after midnight near Percy Quin State Park southwest of McComb. Several Negro churches in the vicinity of the park have been burned during the summer.

The FBI was reported investigating the two latest bombings — 15th and 16th in this area since June.

Authorities declined to say how many warrants had been issued on the syndicalism charges. There was no total available for the number arrested and booked at nearby Magnolia, seat of justice for Pike County.

The criminal syndicalism law, approved in the spring by the state legislature, makes it unlawful to advocate, teach, aid or abet the commission of criminal acts to effect a change in ownership, political or social change, or for profit.

Punishment ranges from fines of from $200 to $1,000 and jail sentences of 1 to 10 years for violating or encouraging others to violate the law.

School Explosion Causes 5 Injuries

ORE CITY, Tex. (AP) — A central heater exploded today at the Ore City High School, injuring the football coach and four students.

Extent of the burn injuries could not be fully determined.

Supt. W. W. Mathis said two rooms of a newly constructed building were destroyed and an adjoining science laboratory suffered damage.

Fire followed the explosion. Mathis said that pupils were just beginning to move into the classrooms as school started for the day and he could not determine how many were in the rooms.

The superintendent said the explosion came from the area of a gas heater in a closet between the two classrooms and was caused by an accumulation of gas. Mathis said he did not know what caused the spark to set off the blast.

The new building was first occupied Sept. 1.

The superintendent identified those burned as Joey Weir, Bruce Dedman, Danny Thompson and Jerry Hancock, all 17, and coach Darwin Wilson, about 40.

The victims were taken to various hospitals in the area.

Estes' Appeal Turned Down

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals has turned down Billie Sol Estes' motion for a rehearing on his appeal of a mail fraud conviction, Assistant U.S. Atty. Fred Morton announced Wednesday.

In Dallas, Tex., U.S. Atty. Barefoot Sanders said Estes' trial on charges of filing false financial statements which was set for Nov. 9, will not be held until early in 1965.

The appeals court at New Orleans last month denied Estes' appeal of his conviction by an El Paso jury on federal charges of mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with mortgages of non-existent fertilizer tanks.

U.S. Dist. Judge R.E. Thomas sentenced Estes to 15 years in prison.

Estes, former Pecos promoter who now lives in Abilene, has 30 days to petition the U.S. Supreme Court for a stay of sentence pending an appeal to the high court.

Estes is free under bonds totaling $140,000 while he appeals both the El Paso conviction and one at Tyler on a state charge of swindling.

Miller Due Back

Miller, making his second foray into Texas, will be in San Antonio, Galveston and Houston on Friday, Oct. 2.

By-Product Of Space Age To Help Crippled Children

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dennis has a boy-size wheelchair. He can make it go — but not everywhere.

He can't get up curbs by himself. He can't navigate across a sandlot, where he likes to watch other children play, or across a beach, where he likes to sit watching the surf and the seagulls.

Someday things will be different. There'll be a new kind of mobile chair for Dennis and thousands like him — a mechanical walker that can go just about anywhere but up stairs.

The walker was developed to carry scientific instruments around on the surface of the moon. It has batteries and a motor that makes its three pairs of legs scurry around at a 3-mile-an-hour clip like a huge insect.

Dennis Butler, 6, a patient at Children's Hospital, doesn't expect he'll ever ride the walker on the moon. He can see, though, that the walker's scientific payload could be replaced with a seat and Dennis could drive it many places now beyond his reach.

BY-PRODUCTS

The walker is just one of thousands of by-products of the space age, one drop in a cloud-burst of technical fallout too bountiful for industry to absorb all at once.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, in an effort to store some of this spillover against a time missiles and spacecraft take less of the public budget, has set up a technological utilization office in all its research centers. It was this branch of the space agency which spotted the lunar walker's potential for paraplegics and reported it to public health authorities for development.

Individual aerospace firms have similar groups, and numerous independent firms have turned their talents to suggesting applications of new concepts to fee-paying clients.

But Dr. Werner Hirsch, University of California at Los Angeles sociologist and consultant to NASA, says the job is too big to be done with currently available tools.

Hirsch envisions an "invention bank," where new ideas would be stored in computers and spewed out on demand to all who need new products to manufacture or new ways to solve old problems.

RIGHT IDEA
To be most useful, the right idea has to reach the right man at the right time.

This leads Hirsch to predict the evolution of a brand new industry, which he calls "knowledge transformation." New research is vital, he says, but it is perhaps equally important for industry to make full use of already achieved breakthroughs.

The list of space-age discoveries which have high promise for the civilian economy runs into the thousands.

Here are a few of the more intriguing:

Solar cells, which convert sunlight into electricity, and fuel cells, which turn the heat of chemical reactions into current. Developed as sources of electricity for space vehicles, they could revive the silent, smogless electric automobile.

Collision-proof passenger vehicles, fashioned of crushable plastic foam and sandwiched metals invented to cushion hard landings on planets.

CHANGE COLOR

Roof paints that will help heat and cool buildings, adapted from spacecraft coatings that change color — and thus alter their ability to reflect sunlight — as temperatures rise and fall.

Longer lasting television sets and radios, which now wear out primarily because of damage from their own internal heat. Research in heat-proof electronic systems for spacecraft is expected to double or triple the life of commercial sets, tapes and batteries.

New food preserving techniques have come from research in how to store food for astronauts for months and even years without refrigeration. The key to this is complete sterilization, destruction of decay-producing bacteria without damage to the nutrient material.

eran Lt. H. C. Holloway, the squad rapidly adapted itself to special law enforcement in all fields of crime.

"Officers from this squad have been placed in buildings in areas where burglaries have been high, and also where we believed burglars would hit," Chief Batchelor said. "They have been successful in apprehending many burglars."

It was also special enforcement officers who were called on to do stake-out work in liquor stores and small drive-in grocery stores which are frequently preyed upon by bandits. Some bandits have been killed in the act of robbery.

The special detail is not given calls by the dispatcher but their squads cruise in areas which are especially selected — those areas reflecting high crime rates.

The special enforcement officers also stop suspicious cars and they have been successful in apprehending felons wanted by the department.

The detail also is used to police special events because this action does not disturb regular details.

Posts Reward

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Dist. Judge Mitchell B. Johns posted a reward of 30 days in jail Wednesday for the person who took a pair of sunglasses from his desk.

Microminiaturization of electronic circuits — reducing wires and tubes to mere specks imbedded in layers of plastic — has revolutionized many branches of medicine. Already developed: wireless monitoring of heart patients around the clock, developed from special sensors which relay the heart beat and other body functions of distant astronauts.

Lists of new discoveries are virtually endless.

NEW INDUSTRIES

That's why economists and sociologists are thinking of computers and whole new industries to enlarge man's ability to utilize discoveries.

Hirsch says the notion that the transfer process would be simple, natural and automatic is "naïve and rapidly being replaced by more realistic thinking."

Spurring the change is concern about the economic impact of cutbacks in defense contracts, which already have caused mass layoffs in several areas.

When the space agency's $20-billion moon budget is spent, many aerospace firms may have to turn to another customer: the American consumer.

Cutbacks after World War II caught most of them unprepared and they learned a hard lesson: diversification.

The energy and money now being spent to find new uses for technical advances indicates industry does not plan to be surprised again.

Shoe Shiners Get Brush-Off

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — It was a brushoff for a proposed shoe shine parlor with young women dressed in scanty costumes doing the polishing.

City Council Licenses Committee Wednesday turned down the proposal of two men who planned to set up business across from City Hall.

"Your business is based on sexy girls," admonished Councilman Robert MacGregor. "If you had fully clothed, middle-aged women, you'd go broke."

Railroader Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jennings J. Dunlap, 85, the only railroader not injured or killed in the famed wreck of the Old 97 in 1903, died Tuesday in Alexandria, Va. The Washington Atlanta express left the tracks and plunged into a ravine, killing 11. Dunlap retired from railroad in 1941.

Angolese Flee Homeland For Refuge In The Congo

KIBENTELE, The Congo (AP) — This town on a dusty road in the western Congo has become a haven for a torrent of refugees fleeing an antirebel offensive and food shortages in Portuguese Angola.

Hungry and poorly dressed, the refugees stream across the border to relief agencies here to get their first bit of food in days. Some come with battle wounds.

The relief agencies say the flow has increased heavily in the past six months. There are no precise figures. Some members of Holden Roberto's Angolan exile movement say as many as half a million have left the Portuguese West African territory. Other sources estimate 300,000.

Portugal appears to have the upper hand in the three-year guerrilla war in Angola. Insurgent leaders who find haven here admit Portuguese troops and planes apply steady pressure.

A Portuguese spokesman in Leopoldville said Portugal's army was hampered in early stages of the fighting by lack of knowledge of the terrain.

"We now have the initiative and pursue rebels everywhere and in all seasons," he added. Tens of thousands of refugees have slipped into the Congo since March. Civilians caught in areas where Portuguese forces are fighting guerrillas are treated brutally, refugees say.

"Most of them reach here suffering malnutrition," says David Grenfell, a 58-year-old Baptist missionary who supervises a relief station.

Kibentele is about 23 miles from the Angola border in Congo Centrale Province. It is reached over 17 miles of twisting dirt road from the main highway between Leopoldville and the seaport of Matadi.

Grenfell and his wife were ousted from Angola two years ago "for military reasons."

Refugees — 85 per cent of them children — register at his station for food and clothing shipped here by relief organizations in a half dozen countries.

Special Squad Now Versatile

DALLAS (AP) — A special law enforcement group trained to cope with potential racial troubles when schools here integrated in 1960 has become one of the most versatile arms of the Dallas Police Department.

So far, 75 policemen have had the special training, and Police Chief Jesse Curry said recently he would like to have a force of 400 to 500 men trained in the special skills.

The detail's main job at present is to catch holdup men and burglars in the act and to find prowlers. The outfit has police dogs.

"The special enforcement squad was formed on a voluntary personnel basis and we have had more volunteers than we could use," said Asst. Police Chief Charles Batchelor. "These men, who were selected in the beginning, got special training and they are given refresher courses in crowd control twice a year."

The formation of a squad came when it became apparent that Dallas schools would be integrated. Police officials hoped that no trouble would follow in the wake of the integration, but they had to be prepared.

Initially the squad was given three weeks special training and issued special equipment, including helmets and clubs. Since its formation the special enforcement officers have received three-day training periods twice a year.

Under the command of veteran Lt. H. C. Holloway, the squad rapidly adapted itself to special law enforcement in all fields of crime.

"Officers from this squad have been placed in buildings in areas where burglaries have been high, and also where we believed burglars would hit," Chief Batchelor said. "They have been successful in apprehending many burglars."

It was also special enforcement officers who were called on to do stake-out work in liquor stores and small drive-in grocery stores which are frequently preyed upon by bandits. Some bandits have been killed in the act of robbery.

The special detail is not given calls by the dispatcher but their squads cruise in areas which are especially selected — those areas reflecting high crime rates.

Modern Pioneers Migrate To Rich, Unsettled Land

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A proposed network of highways penetrating the heart of South America is expected to open up thousands of square miles of rich, unsettled jungle land to modern pioneers.

The roads, part of the South American marginal jungle highway system, are under construction or in the final planning stages in Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia.

They will connect the four countries and cross the Andes to fertile, undeveloped lands of the eastern slopes of the Continental Divide.

When the 10-year project is completed, vehicles can go in a matter of hours to points that today require days of strenuous and dangerous travel.

Many South American capitals are modern and bustling, but because of a lack of roads the countries' interiors usually are backward and forgotten. Inaccessible regions hold tremendous wealth both above and below the surface.

One American engineer compares the road project with the extension of the railroads in the U.S. West a century ago.

Helping the countries finance the roads are the U.S. government, the Export-Import Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank.

Here is a rundown:

Colombia — A preliminary study is under way for a 1,856-mile section of the jungle highway. More than 900 miles will pass through unsettled country, considered excellent for development of livestock, lumber, fish, game and petroleum.

The Colombian government feels that thousands of families can settle on the rich lands.

Ecuador — Reconnaissance studies of the 500-mile stretch of the jungle highway are nearing completion. Twelve zones have been selected with a total of four million acres in which 68,000 families could be settled.

The highway will connect with the interoceanic project between Ecuador and Brazil, a road that would run from the port of San Lorenzo on the Pacific to Manaus, the Amazon River port in Brazil.

A new road between Quito, the inland capital, and Guayaquil, the big banana river port on the Pacific, reduces travel time from 18 to seven hours.

Peru — Construction is expected to start within a few months on the first paved highway across the Andes in the northern part of the country.

The 220-mile road is expected to cost $47 million.

Only 20 per cent of Peru's 22,320 miles of highway are paved.

Bolivia — The marginal jungle highway project for this landlocked country is still under study. The Bolivia section will be approximately 1,250 miles long and will start at Cobija in the northwest corner of the country.

GOP Chairman Gets Beating

FLORESVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Sheriff's officers continued an investigation today into a beating of the Wilson County Republican chairman early Tuesday.

Sheriff Asa Fuller said, however, he did not believe the incident had anything to do with politics.

The chairman, H. W. Brumlow, said Wednesday the beating was "obviously politically inspired" but he did not believe any Wilson County Democratic leaders were involved.

Gov. John Connally is from Wilson County.

Brumlow said he received a telephone warning two weeks ago that he would "get into trouble" if he pursued his plan to place Republican poll watchers in Wilson County during the Nov. 3 election.

He said two men who grabbed him and kicked him outside his home said only "We told you you were going to get into trouble."

Land Values Skyrocket Near NASA Facility

HOUSTON (AP)—One of the favorite stories around the Manned Spacecraft Center is about a friend or relative who once owned land near the space agency.

"Old Zeke owned a lot of that land. Had it for years but couldn't get rid of it. Finally sold it for $100 an acre a year before NASA moved in. He thought he had made a killing. Reckon the same land is worth $100 a foot now."

In 1956, property near the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's center sold for $1,400 an acre. It now has an $80,000-plus tag on it.

The center is about 25 miles south of downtown Houston near Center Lake. Three years ago the marshy land had a few battered farm buildings and some scrawny cattle.

The announcement 2½ years ago that Houston had been selected over some 20 other cities for the civilian space agency site caused great excitement.

DONATED LAND

Rice University and Humble Oil Co. donated the land to the government. Properties nearby rocketed in value.

Big corporations gobbled up the land and disclosed plans to build entire cities within the center's shadow.

One of the first to start was the Nassau Bay Development Co., with a $100 million residential, industrial and office complex across the street from the space center.

Eleven astronauts live there now. When the residential phase is completed, 1,200 homes will be on wooded lots, all close to a lake, says Jack Ball, executive vice president.

Nassau Bay also has four 2-story office buildings finished, with plans for 12 more, plus high-rise buildings if the need arises.

The Wilbur Clark Hotel Corp. is finishing a luxury hotel. The Sheraton Hotel Corp. plans a fancy motor hotel.

Del Webb, a nationally known builder, was one of the first to build. A luxurious motel was finished while workers were still putting up space agency buildings.

The Del Webb Construction Co. formed a partnership with Humble Oil, which owned much of the surrounding property, and announced the construction of Clear Lake City.

RESIDENTIAL

Fred Starkey Jr., administrative assistant, some $20 million has been spent so far. Much of this has been for a residential area.

Clear Lake City has 15,434 acres to grow in. Starkey said there was no estimate of how much would be spent in developing the city.

Jack Campbell, president of the Clear Lake Chamber of Commerce which embraces several small communities around the $153 million space center, said an estimated 5,000 persons have moved into the area.

"This is only the beginning," he said. "When the big missile companies start coming in, we will have many more."

Bedroom communities spawned by the influx of government and contractor workers include Timberlake, which offered astronauts $30,000 homes free but was turned down, and El Lago. Humble Oil started building industrial Bayport.

The Houston ship channel will be extended to Bayport, Galveston Bay about seven miles from the space center.

South had his sights set on slam when he heard his partner's opening one no trump bid. When his forcing jump response of three hearts was raised, he thought of going all the way, and proceeded to embark on a Blackwood inquiry. All of the aces were quickly accounted for; however, when North turned up with only one king, South revised his estimates and decided to content himself with trying for a small slam. Actually South's mental processes might be regarded as a nonsequitur, for the number of kings held by North was not really vital. For example, possession of the king-queen of clubs would solidify South's minor suit, while his possession of the king of spades and the king of diamonds would not give South the comfort of avoiding the club loser.

West led the ten of diamonds and the ace was played from dummy. South entered his hand with the king of trumps in order to lead a small club toward North's queen. East won the trick with the king and exited with the nine of clubs.

Khanh Attempts To Quell Rebels

BAN ME THUOT, Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh flew to this mountain town today in a personal attempt to quell a still simmering rebellion by American-trained mountain tribesmen.

About 4,000 government troops and 12 artillery pieces were set up at the perimeter of the town to head off a possible onslaught by the heavily armed tribesmen as the caretaker premier arrived from Saigon.

The tribesmen revolted against the government last weekend and slaughtered lowland Vietnamese officers and soldiers at their camps. The death count still is not known, but may be as high as 50. About 50 other Vietnamese, including a provincial district chief, were seized as hostages.

The rebels, of a tribe called Rhade, temporarily seized the town radio station, then withdrew.

Rain Dent Fair Crowds At Lamesa

LAMESA (SC) — Rains which began falling Wednesday afternoon cut attendance at the annual Dawson County Fair and the heavy overcast and occasional light drizzle continued to offer an attendance threat on Thursday. Approximately 1,000 attended the fair on the first day and many more would have been there in the afternoon had it not been for rains.

Judging of swine was under way at the fair today and it was estimated the judges would be busy all day with this task.

Outstanding ratings were awarded on Wednesday to the exhibitors in several divisions of the fair.

In the art department:

Professional award went to Alyce Hart; adult amateur division to Lynn Morris, junior high school to Frank Warner, age group, 6, 7 and 8 to Marty Ayres and age group 9, 10 and 11, Anita Ernst.

Grand champion calf award went to Carla Hunt and reserve to Cliff Stephens.

In the sheep division: Fine wool grand champion and reserve champion to Gary and Paula Beach; Shropshire, champion and reserve champion to Reams Shofner; Suffolk rams, champion, D. V. Phipps, reserve champion to Mitchell Brothers; Suffolk ewes, champion to Debnam Brothers and reserve champion to D. V. Phipps; Hampshire rams, champion and reserve champion to Reams Shofner. Hampshire ewes, champion to Randy and Monty Bedwell; Dorset rams, all seven classes, taken by Ronny Stovall and DeLacy Frampton. Southdown rams champion and reserve champion to Bedwell Brothers. Educational booth winners: FFA division, Dawson chapter Young Farmers, O'Donnell; 4-H Community exhibit, Lamesa 4-H Club.

Wearing camouflaged uniforms and equipped with advanced weapons issued to them for fighting Communist Viet Cong guerrillas, the tribesmen maintained barricades around four of their camps in the Ban Me Thuot area and kept control over a key highway and bridge.

The only factor preventing a blood bath was a handful of U.S. Army Special Forces troops acting as intermediaries between the two sides.

R. C. Nichols, county commissioner, said he had received 31 telephone calls relative to the proposal.

The Bagwell matter is the first case to go to a jury at this week's civil docket in the court. Two other cases scheduled to be heard ahead of it were disposed of before coming to trial.

Judge Ralph Caton said he hoped to try another case on Friday. Whether this will be possible depends on how much more time will be needed to dispose of the Bagwell case, he said.

At the original meeting, 20 farmers and ranchers appeared before the county commissioners court and Gunter said they felt that Helbig should be replaced.

Only One Traffic Mishap In Rain

Only one reported traffic accident accompanied Wednesday's downpour, although police were called to the Washington Place School area when a traffic jam developed about 3:15 p.m. on the rain-drenched streets.

Firemen made only one call Wednesday, to the Big Spring Fire Station, 1000 E. 3rd, where a brief blaze left slight damage to the wiring in an electric sign about 7:30 p.m.

The traffic collision reported Wednesday was at Tenth Street and Birdwell Park. Drivers of the two cars involved were Mabel Virginia Davis, 804 Runnels, and Gary Kent Cox, Ellis Homes.

Testimony was being continued Thursday morning in 118th District court in the compensation case brought by Donald Bagwell against the Liberty Universal Insurance Co.

The case was started on Wednesday.

Bagwell, formerly employed by Cosden Petroleum Corp., is asking for compensation for injuries he alleges he received on the job in 1962.

The Bagwell matter is the first case to go to a jury at this week's civil docket in the court. Two other cases scheduled to be heard ahead of it were disposed of before coming to trial.

Judge Ralph Caton said he hoped to try another case on Friday. Whether this will be possible depends on how much more time will be needed to dispose of the Bagwell case, he said.

Woman Geologist Dies Tuesday

GALVESTON (AP) — One of the first woman geologists in the United States, Miss Alva Ellis, died Tuesday night.

She organized the Humble Oil Co.'s first research paleontological laboratory after teaching geology at the University of Texas. Miss Ellis made valuable discoveries in Louisiana and Texas as a stratigraphist and micropaleontologist. She retired from Humble in 1947 and did further research in micropaleontology.

In 1961 she donated to the University of Texas her library, including 200 separate copies of papers she had published and 3,000 books.

DODGE WARRANTY

HERE'S HOW DODGE'S 5-YEAR/50,000-MILE ENGINE AND DRIVE TRAIN WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation confidently warrants all of the following vital parts of its 1965 cars for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, during which time any such parts that prove defective in material and workmanship will be replaced or repaired at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business without charge for such parts or labor: engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excepting manual clutch), torque converter, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings. REQUIRED MAINTENANCE: The following maintenance services are required under the warranty—change engine oil every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first; replace oil filter every second oil change; clean carburetor air filter every 6 months and replace it every 2 years; and every 6 months furnish evidence of this required service to a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer and request him to certify receipt of such evidence and your car's mileage. Simple enough for such important protection.

DEAR ABBY

Leading A Dog's Life

DEAR ABBY: Is there such a thing as a retarded poodle? We got this beautiful white miniature French poodle a year ago when it was only five weeks old, and it isn't any better trained today than the day we got it. It still wets all over. We can't seem to keep it off the furniture or to get it to let us know when it wants to go outside. Abby, I can't live like this any more. That dog has ruined every carpet in the house, all of the furniture and every bedspread. I told my husband I think we should give it away, but he says he would move into the garage with the dog before he gave it away. I like dogs, but this is ridiculous! What do you advise?

MRS. A.

DEAR MRS. A.: Ask your vet what's wrong with the poodle. If the vet says your dog is trained to the capacity of its intelligence, then by all means let your husband move into the garage with the poodle. They deserve each other.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it is proper for a girl to wear shorts on a date? Most of my girl friends say they don't see anything wrong with it, but their mothers don't agree with them. My mother says she thinks it is okay on special occasions like an outdoor barbecue if it is a very hot night. I would like your opinion.

PATTI

DEAR PATTI: I agree with your mother. But it depends on the shorts. I have seen some short shorts that were not long enough to be worn in public.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, age 74, is a retired school teacher. Since his retirement he has had much time on his hands, and he uses it largely to carry on correspondence with numerous former pupils. Almost all of his correspondents are women. I have seen a few letters he has written to them. (He proudly shows them to me.) They are lengthy, flowery and full of affection. He literally BEGS them to write to him. I am not jealous, heaven knows, after 50 years with him, because he has never shown a romantic interest in other women. However, I would like to know why he feels the need to write these long and affectionate letters to women. And why he takes such pleasure in their replies.

LONG-SUFFERING WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I doubt if your husband cares whether his correspondents are women or men as long as he gets letters. It's not surprising that most of his letters are from women, however. They are far more faithful letter writers.

DEAR ABBY: Why does the mother of the bride always cry at her daughter's wedding?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Maybe it's because they've heard that girls tend to marry men just like their fathers.

Problems? Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Five BSHS Students Rate As National Semifinalists

The names of five Big Spring High School students have been announced, along with some 14,000 others across the nation, as semifinalists in the nationwide competition for Merit Scholarships. A student from Post was also included in the list.

All those named are members of the National Honor Society, and all must have an average grade rating of "A."

Big Spring High School students listed were: Cynthia Ann Nolen, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. William F. Nolen, 2711 Lynn Drive. Capt. Nolen is now in Saigon. Cynthia, 17, will complete her high school work at mid-term and will attend Howard County Junior College during the spring semester. Her father will be transferred to a new station next summer, so she does not know what college she will attend. She has done all her high school work in Big Spring. She is a member of the Latin Club and has been in the capella choir for two years.

PRE-MEDS

Richard John (Rickey) Ream Jr., 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ream, 508 Highland Drive. In addition to membership in the National Honor Society, he is a member of the high school band, Key Club, and Latin Club. Rickey plans to attend Baylor University for pre-med work.

Kathryn J. Seddon, 17, is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Alfred J. Seddon, 1509 Tucson. She has done all her high school work in Big Spring, is a member of the National Honor Society, secretary of the Student Council and the band; member of the all-state orchestra; winner of last year's American Legion speech contest on Americanism; president of the Spanish and the Radio clubs; Court Jester; National Theatrics; Future Homemakers of America; district moderator for Presbyterian Youth Council. She will attend either Agnes Scott or Mary Baldwin College and will major in government.

John R. Thomas, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Thomas, 1609 Stadium, plans to attend the University of Texas for his pre-med course after graduation from Big Spring High School, where he has done all his work. He is a member of the National Honor Society, and is president of the Science Club.

PLANS TO TEACH

Nancy J. Thomas, 17, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Thomas Jr., 400 Washington Place. In addition to the National Honor Society, she is chaplain for the Student Council and for Future Teachers of America; secretary of the Future Homemakers of America; member of the French Club.

The six students became semifinalists in the 1964-65 Merit Program through their outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test administered last March in over 17,000 high schools. The test of educational development is the first step toward winning a four-year Merit Scholarship to a college of the student's choice. The group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in United States territories.

Semifinalists must substantiate their qualifying test performance on a second examination, be endorsed by their schools, and fulfill certain routine requirements to become finalists. All merit scholars are then selected from the finalist group.

Five Big Spring Merit Semifinalists

John A. Thomas, Kathryn J. Seddon, Nancy J. Thomas, Cynthia Ann Nolen, Richard John Ream Jr. are eligible to participate in the finals of the National Merit Scholarship program.

Court Jesters; vice president of Tri-Hi-Y. She plans to teach when she completes her work at the University of Texas.

The Post High School student named as semifinalist is Elisabeth J. Tubbs, 17, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Tubbs Sr. She has attended Post High School for all her high school work; is a member of the National Honor Society; math-science clubs; student assistant in elementary playground supervision. She won a student scholarship, under the National Defense Act, to the University of Houston last summer to study multiple sciences, including chemistry, biology, and physics. She plans to major in English but her college has not been chosen.

One Of Twins Dies Last Night

CHICAGO (AP)—One of the Jaquet Siamese twins died Wednesday night, four days after birth. His brother was reported to be holding his own although still on the critical list.

Donald Jaquet died of complications caused by a congenital heart ailment and the absence of large intestine, said a spokesman at Children's Memorial Hospital.

The condition of the other twin, Ronald, reportedly had stabilized. A negative chest X-ray erased earlier fears he had pneumonia, doctors said.

The mother, Mrs. Carol Jaquet, 21, of suburban Norridge, was reported in good condition in Evanston Hospital, where the twins were born Saturday.

They were taken to Children's Memorial after birth and were separated Sunday in a 3½ hour operation.

The recipient's stipend is tailored to his need. Awards may reach a maximum of $6,000 for the four years of college. For a student who already possesses financial resources enabling him to attend the college of his choice, the award is $400 for the four years. Stipends now average about $800 a year, or $3,200 for the four college years.

The Merit Program was established in 1955 with grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. In 1962 the Ford Foundation announced an additional grant to continue the program through 1970.

NMSC and sponsors have already contributed almost $21 million in direct financial assistance to Merit Scholars and their colleges, exclusive of obligations to the 5,000 scholars now in college. About 9,100 Merit Scholars have been appointed to date.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation stresses that the quality or effectiveness of a school cannot be judged solely by the number of Semifinalists because of several considerations. Some of these are: The population distribution in the state where the school is located, the nature of the immediate community of the school, the size of the school, the level of community support, and the native intelligence of its best students. The output of any school depends to a large extent on the quality of students who enroll, and the quality—not wealth alone—of their home environments.

"Semifinalists are representative of our country's most intellectually able young people," John M. Stalnaker, president of NMSC, said. "They possess the talents and qualities necessary for leadership in the future. They are resourceful, hard-working, and ambitious."

Legion Strongly Opposes Ending The Nation's Draft

DALLAS (AP)—Only hours after it heard Sen. Barry Goldwater promise to end the draft if elected president, the American Legion passed a resolution Wednesday strongly opposing such an action.

The Legion resolution said it "strongly favors the continuation of the system of universal military training and service and emphatically opposes any plan to create a totally voluntary force or tampering with this system as another step toward the unilateral disarmament program."

The Legion passed dozens of other resolutions.

One such policy statement asserted the American Civil Liberties Union should be investigated because of "its defense of Communists and their sympathizers."

Another called for congressional probes of Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio. It declared that "repeated opportunity has been accorded known national leaders of the Communist Party, U.S.A., to propagandize students on Antioch College campus."

The Legionnaires appealed for "all possible legal action" against students who have made trips to Cuba in defiance of a State Department ban.

In other resolutions the Legion opposed sale of Communist-made goods in this country, trade between the United States and any Communist-controlled country, exchange of U.S. space exploration information with any Communist country, foreign aid to any country not opposed to communism, any proposals that might weaken the Connally reservation stating this country will not be subject to a World Court, the plan of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and admission of the United Nations of Red China.

In additional resolutions among the scores adopted, the Legion urged that the United States make clear to Panama that U.S. rights in the Canal Zone are not negotiable, a total blockade of Cuba against all commerce, appropriations to expand operations of the House Committee on un-American Activities and the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, steps by state legislatures "to protect contents of textbooks used by the youth," an amendment to the Constitution authorizing prayer in schools, reappraisal of the U.S. relationship with the United Nations if Russia refuses to pay its dues, U.S. assumption of the offensive in the cold war and intensified U.S. efforts to gain release of Americans in Communist prisons.

Gen. John McConnell, Air Force vice chief of staff, told the Legionnaires that insurgent or guerrilla warfare is the only path open at this time for possible Communist aggression.

He said rapid U.S. progress in counter-insurgent tactics soon will close even that door to Communist expansion by military means.

National Merit Group Has Aided 9,100 Pupils

The National Merit Scholarship Program is a nationwide program of assistance to students of exceptional ability, and to colleges they select. NMSC administers the largest independent undergraduate scholarship program in the United States. It is directed by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, an independent nonprofit corporation devoted solely to scholarship activities.

The Merit Program was established in 1955 with grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York. In 1962 the Ford Foundation announced an additional grant to continue the program through 1970.

NMSC and sponsors have already contributed almost $21 million in direct financial assistance to Merit Scholars and their colleges, exclusive of obligations to the 5,000 scholars now in college. About 9,100 Merit Scholars have been appointed to date.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation stresses that the quality or effectiveness of a school cannot be judged solely by the number of Semifinalists because of several considerations. Some of these are: The population distribution in the state where the school is located, the nature of the immediate community of the school, the size of the school, the level of community support, and the native intelligence of its best students. The output of any school depends to a large extent on the quality of students who enroll, and the quality—not wealth alone—of their home environments.

"Semifinalists are representative of our country's most intellectually able young people," John M. Stalnaker, president of NMSC, said. "They possess the talents and qualities necessary for leadership in the future. They are resourceful, hard-working, and ambitious."

Each Merit Scholarship is a four-year award to cover the undergraduate college years.

Hunters Use Talents From Field To Stove

By MARY COCHRAN

Turning leaves and cool winds do not mean autumn to West Texas hunters—Sept. 1 and the opening of the dove season is the harbinger of the new season. This is the date that is circled in red on the calendar at the J. R. Bizzell home at 2808 Cactus, for there are two enthusiasts in that household who welcome the new season.

Bizzell and his son, John, 10, have the guns oiled and the equipment ready for that important event and are out after their limit every possible chance until Oct. 30. The next big date will be Nov. 14 when the deer season and wild turkey season rolls around. Quail season's Dec. 1 in Howard County but opens earlier in Midland County. Throughout the fall and early winter months, there is some kind of hunting available to please them in several surrounding areas.

Not only is Bizzell an expert sportsman, but he is an able man with the skillet or outdoor grill when it comes time to prepare the game for cooking. Mrs. Bizzell, and their daughter, Carrie, 11, do not share the men's interest in hunting but do enjoy the fine foods that appear on the table during the early winter season.

"I learned to cook the game when I married, for Helen does not enjoy preparing game very much," Bizzell said.

"One of the biggest mistakes in cooking small birds such as dove or quail is to over-fry them," he noted. "I split the breasts to eliminate this problem."

After the game has been field-drawn and dressed it is brought home and soaked in a heavy salt solution overnight before being cooked or frozen. On special occasions Bizzell does fry the fresh birds after arriving home but prefers the overnight soaking for all game and fish.

Each year, when the deer season rolls around, he has gone with a group of men to a remote camp in the Davis Mountains for a week of hunting. The cooking chores back at camp are rotated and the menu usually consists of camp stew, made from a young deer, beans and coffee.

In the dressing of deer, the musk glands are removed and the entrails cleaned out at the site where the game is bagged. The final dressing of the deer is done back at camp.

The favorite menu for quail and dove is the fried birds, plenty of cream gravy and hot biscuits. Bizzell relies on the packaged variety of biscuits for his cooking bouts.

Here are some recipes that he has found successful with game cooking.

DEER ROAST

Vinegar
Water
1 Bermuda onion
2 tps. salt
1 tsp. pepper
1 bay leaf
6 dry red peppers
6 cloves
Bacon drippings
1 cup vinegar
Small stalk celery
2 tps. Worcestershire Sauce
2 tps. sugar
Stock or bouillon
Place meat in bowl and pour over it a mixture of ½ vinegar

Make Sure The Grease Is Hot—

J. R. Bizzell cautions his son, John, as he demonstrates the fine art of cooking game. John takes time out from a football scrimmage to learn how to properly fry the doves he and his father killed this fall. He will get the chance this year to hunt whitetail deer with Dad and is hoping to bring home some fine meat for the family freezer.

and ½ water so that the meat is partially submerged. Add sliced onion, salt, pepper, bay leaf, red pepper and cloves to the mixture. Allow meat to remain in bowl for from two to five days in a cool room, turning the meat several times during this period. Remove meat from mixture and pat dry with a towel.

Brown meat in hot bacon fat in Dutch oven. Add the onions and spices which were in the vinegar mixture, one cup of the liquid and celery, sauce and sugar. Put the lid on quickly, reduce the fire and cook slowly until tender, adding veal or beef stock, consommé or bouillon when necessary.

BAKED DUCK
Soak ducks overnight in salted water. Boil for about 20 minutes in fresh, salted water. Remove from water and stuff the ducks. Wrap in foil and bake in oven 45 minutes at 400 degrees.

STUFFING
1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup apples, chopped
½ cup raisins
½ tsp. salt
Add water until moist.
Combine ingredients and mix well.

DEER CHILI
2 lbs. coarse ground deer meat
4 tps. fat

Wild Stew Meat Dish Is Tasty

With the deer season in the offing this special stew that does not have much sound appeal but is loaded with taste appeal will please the home-maker who is pressed to find a different approach to cooking the game.

The nice thing about the recipe is that it also is good for birds and squirrel meat.

WILD MEAT STEW

Wild game, cubed
2 tps. cooking fat
1 medium onion
1 small garlic
2 tps. flour
Salt and pepper
Rice or potatoes, if desired
Cube meat and braise in hot skillet in fat. Remove from fire, drain and place in pan. Add onion and garlic. Add flour to grease in skillet and brown. Pour over meat in the pan. Add enough boiling water to cover contents and simmer until meat is tender. Season with salt and pepper.

If desired, boiled rice or potatoes may be added to the stew.

FRIED VENISON AND GRAVY

Slice one back-strap about ½ inch thick and salt. Dip in flour and fry in fat about 2 inches deep. Serve with venison gravy.

GRAVY

3 tps. meat grease
1 onion, minced
1 large tomato, chopped
2 or 3 tps. flour
Salt and pepper
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 or 3 cups water
Cook onion in grease until tender and slightly brown. Add chopped tomatoes and simmer until tender. Stir in flour and seasonings. Add water and stir. Bring to a boil and cook, stirring constantly for about five minutes.

Cook Treat In Skillet

Eggplant and cheese make a tasty pair.

SKILLET EGGPLANT

1 medium (1½ lbs.) eggplant
8 sandwich-size slices cheddar cheese
1 egg
¾ cup (about) packaged corn-flake crumbs
Butter or margarine
Wash and dry eggplant but do not pare; cut a thin slice from each end and discard. Slice eggplant about ¼-inch thick—there should be 16 slices. Trim cheese to fit eggplant slices and make sandwiches of eggplant and cheese. Beat egg until thickened and lemon colored. Dip eggplant sandwiches into egg, then into cornflake crumbs.

Melt a couple of tablespoons of butter in a large skillet; add eggplant sandwiches and brown slowly on both sides; by this time eggplant should be cooked through. Add butter as needed if eggplant is fried in a couple of batches. Serve at once. Makes 4 hearty or 8 small servings.

GRILLED QUAIL
Make a sauce of melted butter and juice of lemon. Salt quail and place on charcoal grill over hot coals. Turn the quail frequently and baste each time with the butter and lemon juice. Cook until tender, about 45 minutes.

FRIED DOVE
Soak overnight in salt water. Split each side of breast lengthwise to the bone. Salt, flour and fry in deep fat at 450 degrees until brown.

Old-Time Favorite Has Egg Pastry
Old-fashioned cooks sometimes used to use a slightly beaten egg instead of liquid in making pastry for a pie. A little water was added to the egg to make the required amount of liquid.

Efficient Scraper
A rubber spatula—sometimes called a plate scraper—will help you remove every last bit of batter from a bowl. These spatulas come in two widths; use the wide width for the folding process in making a cake.

Pimiento Garnish

Use strips of bright pimiento for prettily garnishing meats, or include chopped pimiento in a casserole for enlivening the color.

ELEGANT FARE
Sauté frogs' legs in butter and lemon juice

Frogs' Legs Provide No Cooking Problem

Frog legs are as delicious as chicken and fairly simple to cook.

If they are fresh caught, they move around in the pan during the cooking process. This does not mean that the frog has an after-life, only in freshly-caught frogs' legs the muscles may go on contracting during cooking or skimming. Chill them before cooking to eliminate this problem.

SAUTEED FROGS' LEGS IN LEMON BUTTER

8 large or 16 small to medium frogs' legs
Salt and pepper

Try Lowly Onion For Elegant Dish

Make quick fixings from the pantry! The lowly onion has possibilities.

SKILLET ONIONS

1 tps. each butter, honey and medium sherry
1 can (15½ ozs.) small white onions, thoroughly drained
In an 8-inch skillet gently mix and heat the butter, honey and sherry. Add onions; turn gently in butter mixture as they heat. Makes 4 servings.

½ cup flour
7 tps. butter
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. minced onion
Rosemary
1 lemon, quartered

If frogs' legs are frozen, thaw before using. Wash and dry the legs and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Coat evenly with flour. Heat 4 tablespoons of the butter in a large skillet; add frogs' legs and sauté gently, 5 to 6 minutes on each side.

In a small skillet, melt the remaining 3 tablespoons of butter and stir in the lemon rind, lemon juice, onion and a pinch of rosemary; spoon over the frogs' legs. Cover skillet; simmer 6 to 8 minutes or until frogs' legs are tender. Serve at once with lemon quarters.

Marinate Chuck For Outdoor Grill

When you want to cook a thrifty chuck beef steak on the outdoor grill, marinate the meat in French dressing for about an hour; then apply unseasoned meat tenderizer (according to manufacturer's directions) and you're ready to go.

1 envelope (1½ ozs.) chicken noodle soup mix with pieces of chicken
½ green pepper, cut into strips
½ cup grated cheddar cheese, not packed down

Drain and break up tomatoes. Add enough water to tomato liquid to make 2½ cups. Mix together the tomatoes, uncooked rice, soup mix (just as it comes from the envelope) and green pepper strips in a 1½-quart casserole. Pour in tomato liquid; cover.

Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven, stirring occasionally, until rice is tender, 40 to 60 minutes. Sprinkle mixture with grated cheese. Bake, uncovered, until cheese is melted, about 5 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Salt and flour whole quail. Fry until golden brown in cooking oil. Add onion rings, steam for about 5 minutes. Remove quail, leaving onions in oil. Add flour, cook until brown in color and thick, add soup, water, salt and pepper. Stir until thick as desired. Replace quail, cook covered on low heat 3 to 4 minutes longer. Serve in divided dish with quail on one side, onion gravy on the other side. An electric skillet is ideal for this dish.

Roast Duckling Takes to Grill or Oven

Grill Duckling As Specialty

By The Associated Press

The best outdoor duckling we ever ate was prepared by, yes, a man, over a barbecue grill.

His secret? Having the duck cut up in neat-to-eat pieces, then covering them with seasoned boiling water and simmering for about half an hour. After that the duck got drained and grilled in baskets over hot coals.

As he grilled, turning the baskets often, he basted the birds with his own barbecue sauce. We can't give you the ingredients for that—he wouldn't part with his formula. But it might have been dry red wine mixed with honey. An odd combination but it tasted great.

If the duck is to be cooked indoors—say for Sunday dinner—the woman of the house might like to have this new stuffing recipe recently tried at our house. This poultry dressing is the soft bread variety given interesting texture and flavor by adding coconut and orange. Ducks may take to water—but every good Roast Duckling takes to orange juice.

ROAST DUCK

2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1/4 cup chopped onion
1 cup diced celery
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 cup flaked coconut
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. poultry seasoning
2 tbsps. grated orange rind
1-3 cup (about) orange juice
1 duckling

In a medium saucepan or skillet, in the melted butter, slowly cook the onion until tender and golden. Add celery, bread crumbs, coconut, salt, sugar, poultry seasoning and orange rind; toss together adding just enough of the orange juice to moisten. (Makes about 2 1/2 cups).

Spoon into duck body and neck cavities without packing. Roast according to favorite method.

Fresh Bagged Game Makes Tasty Meals

This is the time of the year when, from many households, men and women are in the fields bagging wild game.

Trophies of the game bag can offer gratifying rewards to the hunters in the field and provide gourmet's delights at the table.

The problem of how to handle such meats often puzzles the cook, whether it be the man of the house or his wife.

All game should be bled, as soon as possible, and for a rich game flavor, should be aged at least 24 hours. If the weather is cold this can be done by hanging the game in the open. If not, it should be refrigerated.

With extremely strong game, such as ducks and geese, soaking the game overnight in salt water, or vinegar and water or soda and water will remove some of the wild taste.

Rabbits are popular game for Texas and can be cooked like chicken. Use the same treatment for the young and tender or the larger and older game as you would poultry.

To prepare whitening, or mourning doves, first dredge them in flour and salt and pepper. Brown the doves in a large skillet, add enough water to nearly cover the doves and then cover and simmer until the birds are tender. Thicken the liquid with flour mixed with water and serve with gravy.

HASENPFERFER

1 cup vinegar
1 bottle or can beer
2 large onions, sliced
1 tsp. pickling spices
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 large or two small rabbits, jointed
1/4 cup flour
1/4 cup fat
1 tsp. sugar

Combine vinegar, beer, onions, pickling spices, salt and pepper in a large bowl. Add rabbit pieces; cover and let stand in refrigerator one to two days turning the meat several times. Dry the rabbit piece with absorbent paper, then dip in flour. Melt the fat in a large skillet and brown the meat on all sides. Pour off the fat, strain the marinade and add it with sugar to the meat and bring to boil; reduce heat, cover and simmer 40 minutes or until the rabbit is tender. If desired, thicken the liquid with flour mixed with a little water.

ROAST DUCK

MINCEMEAT STUFFING

1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup chopped onions

Treat Hamburgers With Spicy Sauce

This is a spicy sauce that adds that extra touch to hamburgers.

SLOPPY CHARLIE SAUCE

1 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 medium onion and 1 small green pepper, coarsely chopped
1 clove garlic, peeled and halved
1 can (8 ozs.) tomato sauce
1/4 tsp. each salt and sugar
1/2 tsp. strong chili powder
1/8 tsp. ground cumin

In an 8-inch skillet over low heat, melt the butter. Add onion, green pepper and garlic inserted on toothpick halves; cook gently until wilted, stirring occasionally—about 20 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients.

Sweet, juicy oranges are available now—and just in time for the hunting season. The golden globes of luscious eating are as plentiful as the game birds now being stalked by hunters everywhere.

The tart-sweet flavor and bouquet of oranges go wonderfully well with duck, pheasant, partridge or quail—whether the hunter in your family bags the birds or you invade the game preserve of your local market! The fruitiness of oranges provides a natural complement to the gaminess of fowl. Using your favorite white rice, do it up specially for a fowl feast by making orange rice, a fresh-tasting gourmet accompaniment for fowl. Serve it as a stuffing or side dish.

ORANGE RICE

3 tbsps. butter or margarine

Young And Tender

When rhubarb is young and tender, it does not need to be peeled.

1 cup diced celery
2 tbsps. chopped onion
1 cup orange juice
2 tbsps. slivered orange rind
1/4 cups water
1/4 tps. salt
1/8 tsp. thyme
1 cup raw rice

Melt butter in heavy saucepan. Add celery and onion; cook until onion is tender, but not brown. Stir in orange rind and juice, water, salt and thyme; bring to a boil. Add rice slowly. Cover; reduce heat and cook 25 minutes. Yield: 4 servings.

His Headache Almost Cost Lyndon's Election

By RELMAN MORIN
AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — On Sept. 24, 1948, a tall Texan named Charley Gibson had a headache and it almost cost Lyndon B. Johnson a seat in the U.S. Senate.

Fortunately for Johnson, Gibson found an aspirin in time to cast one of the most critical votes in Johnson's political life, a vote that broke a deadlock. "I voted 'aye,' that is for Lyndon," Gibson says today. "And then somebody pushed over the chair I was standing on, and to this day I don't know whether it was friend or foe."

In 1948, Johnson, then a congressman, ran for the Democratic nomination for the Senate. His opponent was Coke Stevenson, erstwhile governor of Texas.

"Coke figured to win," Gibson says. "He was well known and he had a good organization. But Lyndon simply out-campaigned him."

The election was a cliff-hanger, with Johnson finally ahead by 87 votes out of nearly a million cast. A fight developed over charges of fraudulent voting. The majority report of the party canvassing committee, however, showed Johnson with 494,191 votes to Stevenson's 494,104. A minority report disagreed with the figures.

In September, the Democratic Executive Committee met in Fort Worth to vote on the proposition:

"All those in favor of certifying the name of Lyndon Baines Johnson for Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate say 'aye.'"

Gibson, a member of the executive committee, wasn't present when the balloting began.

"I had a headache," he says, "and I left the convention to look for an aspirin. I didn't think they'd get around to voting for several hours."

He found the tablet, "visited for a while with a friend," and returned to the convention.

He found that the roll had been called and the result was a tie 28-28.

"Lyndon's friends were looking for me and they yelled for me to quick get in and vote. They knew I was for Lyndon," Gibson says.

"But the crowd around the door was so thick I couldn't get in. So I stood on a chair and caught the chairman's attention and cast the vote that broke the tie."

"It thrilled me to death to cast that vote and I've never regretted it," Gibson says.

Johnson was present at the tie-breaking moment. What did he say to Gibson?

"I didn't see him there," Gibson says. "The chair went over and I fell into the crowd. But Lyndon and some others were waiting in my hotel room when I came in. He put his arm around me and simply said, 'Thanks a lot. God bless you, Charley.'"

Johnson went on to win the senatorial race in a walk. Gibson says that if the tie-vote had stood, "the case would have had to go through the courts and it would have taken forever to get a decision."

Gibson today is assistant to S. B. Whittenberg, publisher of the Amarillo Globe-Times Publishing Co.

He says he has maintained contact with Johnson over the years, visiting the LBJ Ranch near Austin and Johnson's offices in Washington. He said he has not heard from Johnson since he became President.

"We've often talked about that day in Fort Worth," Gibson says. "It was a mighty exciting moment for us both."

Gibson is still working for Johnson. A Democratic headquarters is being opened in Amarillo today. Gibson was there today putting up posters and distributing bumper stickers.

Did Johnson reward him for the famous vote? "No," says Gibson. "I never asked him or anybody else for anything."

Keeper Tendencies May Produce Fire Hazards

The tendency never to throw old items away can provide the fuel for a fire in the home, unless the homeowner is aware of possible fire sources, Fire Marshal A. D. Meador reminded residents this week.

Local fire officials will be emphasizing home inspections during the week of Oct. 4-10, Fire Prevention Week. Residents may call the department and request an inspection of their homes for possible fire hazards.

In home maintenance or workshop areas where tools and other working materials are kept, a few minutes of careful cleaning up after work can be a definite fire prevention step, Meador stressed.

Shavings and debris particularly should be cleaned up. Lumber, cartons, newspapers and similar material can be dangerous fire hazards if not disposed of or carefully stored away from heat sources, Meador warned.

"The use of portable electric lights without bulb guards is dangerous around storages, because the bare bulb may touch boxes or clothing," he said.

Storage areas should have everything boxed or wrapped and arranged in an orderly manner, with adequate aisle space between storage piles.

"Every home needs a thorough housecleaning once each year to get rid of all unusable and unnecessary storages," he stressed.

House Hit Many Times

DALLAS (AP) — Douglas Davis considers himself lucky when cars that shoot into his yard miss his house.

In a year, seven cars have gone out of control and careened onto his property.

At a late date, a sports car still was chained to his front porch. It has been there a year. "I'm not going to move it until something is done about paying for damages to my house," Davis said.

Last June 13, a car crumpled the chimney of the house. Ten days later a car overturned, landing in his back yard.

On other occasions, cars have collided with his pickup truck in his driveway and bumped the house and caused minor damage.

The Davis' seven children have orders to stay inside the house or play on the side of the structure away from the curve.

One of the seven rooms has been demolished by automobiles. None of the drivers had insurance to pay for the damages.

Davis said he had tried to get the city and the State Highway Department to erect barricades or a guard rail to protect his property.

Campaigner Adds A Second Jet

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A second jet airliner has been chartered for Sen. Barry Goldwater's Republican presidential campaign.

Press secretary Paul F. Wagner said Wednesday night the United Airlines Boeing 727 will accommodate the overflow of reporters and staff members from Goldwater's jet, which has room for 54 newsmen and 20 staff members.

A Convair propeller-driven plane had been used as the back-up craft, but it couldn't keep up with Goldwater's American Airlines 727 jet and had to skip some of his appearances.

Some Lines Are Funny In New Comedy Series

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — A married couple, pretending not to be, is the situation. And two veterans of domestic situation comedies — Cara Williams, lately wife in "Pete and Gladys" and Frank Aletter, onetime bachelor Buddy Flower, launched another of the same Wednesday night on CBS.

Their boss is against his office employees marrying each other, hence the great deception of "The Cara Williams Show." In the first episode, Miss Williams, a not-so-bright secretary, lets slip that she has a husband, quickly elaborates that he's in the cloak and dagger business, in fact is a member of the CIA.

Secretary and jazzy-talking neighbor, pretending to be husband, visit the boss in the evening, get caught there without gasoline during a rainstorm and are sent to the guest room for the night. Real husband arrives, providing transportation. Boss remains galled.

Some lines are very funny, but taste occasionally slips toward the borderline.

CBS also had an hour-long special Wednesday night, "The Presidency: A Splendid Mystery."

It was a solid civics-history lesson, interesting but not terribly exciting. Six actors and a narrator, using a desk and few other props, recited some of the words our presidents have spoken and written about their jobs. The show began with Washington's statement that on assuming the presidency he felt like a man on the way to the gallows and Harding's that the White House is a jail and the president a prisoner.

Format of the program was to examine the federal balance of power, its worth and its ability to frustrate a chief executive — presidents battling Congress and presidents battling the Supreme Court; presidential powers granted and assumed from the Constitution; power over the military, and the often wearisome power to fill appointive office.

Most of the words quoted were from presidents early in our nation's history — Washington, Jefferson, John Quincy Adams, Jackson, Lincoln.

As might be expected, some of Lincoln's remarks were used for comedy relief. About the bother of constant office seekers, he said, when he had contracted a mild case of smallpox, "Now I have something I can give everyone."

At the end narrator Fredric March noted that though presidents complain about the burdens of office, Americans are fortunate that there still are good men willing to endure the presidency. Not a highly original remark, it is true, but very comforting.

Cynthia Lowry, who usually writes this column, is ill.

Set Construction Workers Needed By Civic Theatre

Persons interested in working with theatrical set construction can help with the coming production of "The Solid Gold Cadillac" Oct. 23 — in Municipal Auditorium.

Sets for the two-act comedy are being constructed at Prairie Playhouse.

The production will involve some carefully planned set changes because 14 scenes are included, Mrs. Norman Spencer, director, said. Anyone interested in helping with the set construction and stage production work may contact Lewis Lovelless, Coahoma, producer of the Big Spring Civic production, the first of five planned for this season.

Rehearsals are being conducted at Prairie Playhouse tonight and Sunday afternoon. The sets for the production involve three scenes of business offices.

Celebration Begins On Chamizal Return

EL PASO (AP) — Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos was flying to neighboring Juarez today to begin celebrating the return of El Chamizal—a little tract of land moved into the United States about a century ago by a shifty river.

President Johnson will join him Friday to conclude the celebration.

Like two figures from an Old West movie — only friendly — Johnson and Lopez Mateos will walk to meet each other in the center of an international bridge at 10:30 a.m.

If they follow tradition, and they almost certainly will, they will exchange abrazos — embraces. Then they will walk together to the U.S. end of the Stanton Street bridge. A motorcade will take them to Bowie

High School on the edge of El Chamizal for brief speeches and dedication of a marker.

Texas gets a smaller piece of Mexican land in return for El Chamizal.

The area is being returned to Mexico by a long-deliberated treaty rather than the vagaries of the river.

Another treaty started all the trouble. The treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, concluding the Mexican War in 1848, set the international boundary between Texas and Mexico as the course of the Rio Grande.

A few years later the river—known in Mexico as Rio Bravo—shifted its channel southward. The United States claimed the territory cut away from Mexico.

There was no argument about it—El Chamizal was covered by the thorny desert brush for which it is named—until 1895, when Mexico decided it wanted El Chamizal back.

An attempt to settle the dispute failed in 1911. In June, 1962, the late President John F. Kennedy and Lopez Mateos decided to wind it up. They told U.S. Ambassador Thomas Mann and Mexican Foreign Relations Minister Manuel Tello to work out a plan.

They did, and Presidents Johnson and Lopez Mateos signed the El Chamizal treaty on Dec. 20, 1963.

Meanwhile U.S. citizens had cleared most of the area of brush and built homes and businesses there. About 100 acres is within the present business district of El Paso.

The Chamizal problem had become an emotional issue as well as an international one.

To try to soothe the emotions of U.S. citizens, the United States government agreed to pay them for their land. A group of Mexican banks has agreed to buy their buildings.

Congress recently appropriated $30 million to carry out the treaty for the first year. Chamizal residents will have 90 days to move out of the area after they are paid.

Palmer Coward, owner of a Chamizal importing company, said the treaty is good—"I am all for my country and for furthering good relations with Mexico or any other country... but I don't want to go bankrupt being patriotic."

The settlement will break up some closely knit neighborhoods, like the one where Julio Macias was born. He and five other members of his family own homes on the same street.

"The most important thing in our lives is to stay together," Macias said. "It will be hard to find six new houses together when we have to move."

The area being restored to Mexico totals 630 acres. The United States gets 193. This tract is known as Cordova Island because it is a little chunk of Mexico jutting north of the Rio Grande into Texas.

Cordova is undeveloped land, but there are plans to use it for a park and schools—and it will enable the United States to build a highway along the river interrupted by Mexican territory.

Together the two nations will build a new concrete channel returning the Rio Grande approximately to its old course.

Following the ceremony at Bowie High School, a helicopter will take Lopez Mateos back to Juarez, where he will attend the Mexican National Fair.

President Johnson will fly on to Oklahoma and Texas for other dedications, then to his LBJ ranch near Stonewall for the weekend.

Lopez Mateos is scheduled to arrive in Juarez by plane after dedicating a thermoelectric plant at Delicias, near Ciudad Chihuahua.

President Johnson will arrive at the El Paso airport from Washington at 9 a.m. Gov. John Connally of Texas is expected to be with him.

Rocky Invites Barry's Visit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is putting down the welcome mat here for Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate. Rockefeller, who has said little in support of the fight for their party's top nomination, Wednesday night invited Goldwater and his wife, Peggy, to visit the governor's mansion Friday.

Rockefeller previously had promised to appear with Goldwater at the State Office Building. No other contact between the two had been scheduled.

The New York Republican campaign committee announced Wednesday night that "Goldwater's busy schedule has been altered to include sufficient time to see the mansion and meet with the governor."

The Arizona senator and his wife are scheduled to arrive at Albany County Airport at 10:35 a.m. and will go directly to the mansion. Goldwater will speak about noon. He will be introduced by Rockefeller.

Rockefeller's plans last week called for him to be out of town Friday but his schedule was changed.

A Devotional For The Day

He is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us. (Ephesians 2:14)
PRAYER: O Lord, help me and all members of Thy church to do our part in Thy kingdom by prayer and works of love. So may Thy church's unity win all mankind to faith in Thee. For our Saviour's sake. Amen.

(From the "Upper Room")

Cover And Forage

As this is written, it is too early to know whether rains are ample to supply planting moisture, but if this is the case, it is our hope that scores and scores of farmers will consider putting small grains into the ground.

First off, this will give a chance of winter forage—something desperately needed by farmers and ranchers. Secondly, it will offer promise of cover crop in later winter and early spring when winds otherwise might kick up severe sand and dust storms.

Some operators will be hesitant to plant these cover crops in the belief that they will sap the moisture from the soil. Instead, they will hasten to turn or "put up" their land.

Actually, turning the land one time will let as much moisture evaporate as will be used by the small grain crop up to the booting stage.

Used wisely, these rains could prove to be a life saver in more ways than one.

Prize Package

The West is elated over the defection to the U. S. of nuclear scientist Heinz Barwich, a long-time holder of key positions in the Soviet Union and East Germany.

Barwich's defection from behind the Iron Curtain makes him a major prize for the West. The West itself has lost a series of individuals in nuclear circles and positions of trust to the Communists, among them being Klaus Fuchs a number of years ago and later Bruno Pontecorvo.

Barwich managed to evade his companions while attending the 71-nation Geneva conference on the peace-time uses of nuclear energy. He was accompanied by another East German, a Professor Max Steenback, whose whereabouts have not been disclosed.

Meanwhile Barwich's safety is being guarded in a secret location in the U. S. He was among the several thousand of German scientists reportedly seized by the Russians in 1945 after the defeat of Germany for work in development of the atomic bomb. By 1955 Barwich was made deputy director of the Soviet Nuclear Research Institute, near Moscow. He was permitted to return to East Germany in 1957 where he opened an Institute of Nuclear Research.

Uncertainty Over Civil Rights

WASHINGTON—It is not surprising that a poll made by the New York Times shows that 54 per cent of the white persons interviewed in New York City think that the "civil rights" movement should slow down, and 80 per cent think the city school board's plan to advance integration through "pairing" white and Negro schools is a "bad idea." But what is surprising is that the same citizens, who are recorded as having voted 57 per cent for Kennedy in 1960, now would vote 61 per cent for Johnson.

THIS CONTRADICTION is even more puzzling when the question was asked whether the citizens have been affected in any way by a "white backlash." While 27 per cent said they had changed their thinking in the last two months and are "more opposed to what Negroes want" than they were before, 62 per cent said they feel "pretty much the same" as they have always felt.

Yet, when specific questions were asked as to whether an individual would "feel uncomfortable about having a number of Negro families living near you," 40 per cent said "yes," and 40 per cent said "no." Then, when the further question was asked as to whether the white person would "feel uncomfortable about having one or two Negro families" living nearby, the answer was 57 per cent in the negative and only 18 per cent in favor, while 25 per cent said it would depend on whether they were "nice people."

EVEN MORE baffling were the answers to the questions about the way President Johnson has handled the "civil rights" situation. About 57 per cent thought he has handled it "just right," while 24 per cent thought he has "gone too far" and 13 per cent said they were "not sure."

About the only conclusion that can really be drawn at this time is that the "civil rights" movement has stirred up a good deal of feeling.

It seems strange that so much commotion could be developed in the city of New York, and yet the Democratic vote would be undisturbed. This is contrary to the usual trend of protest movements.

No Resistance

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—The operator of a Durham dry cleaning business testified recently in Superior Court that he is "always prepared for burglars."

"What do you mean prepared?" asked Judge W. H. Burgwyn. The dry cleaner, W. M. Eakes, testifying at a store-breaking trial, offered this explanation:

"I mean I always leave my cash register unlocked so they won't break it apart."

Issues Scattered All Over

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the troubles with this presidential campaign is the issues. They're scattered all over the lot and President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater are not spelling out answers clear enough to keep in your head. There are two issues above all.

First — and obviously this is always the No. 1 issue in any campaign — is which man can be best trusted with the presidency?

THE DEMOCRATS are doing their best to get across an idea that Goldwater is too reckless to be trusted with it at all.

Goldwater is helping to keep the issue alive for them by endlessly insisting he is not trigger-happy.

Second — do the people want a broad federal government involved with the states and many federal programs, particularly programs for the general welfare?

Johnson insists big government is necessary. He said so again this week.

Goldwater has built much of his claim on the presidency in plugging for states' rights. He wants less federal government, more dependence on states and local communities to do what's needed, and less, not more or broader, social welfare programs. Those are the two main issues.

BUT IF voters are getting bored listening to the arguments it's because the two men have been talking in such broad generalities it's hard to pin them down on what they'd do.

About the two most specific things Goldwater has said have been his promises to end the draft and cut income and corporate taxes 25 per cent over five years.

The Johnson administration has indicated it would like to end the draft, if it thought that possible, but so far it shows no signs of thinking so.

Johnson may have been disturbed that Goldwater's tax-cut promise had voter appeal.

This week he promised to cut excise taxes if elected. He is not promising an income tax cut.

FOR INSTANCE, Goldwater has said one of the major issues would be corruption in government. He has been banging away at that, but always obliquely.

He mentioned the Bobby Baker and Billie Sol Estes cases, "government contracts not going to the lowest bidders," and a "cloud of scandal over the White House."

Goldwater has called "foreign policy a major issue in this campaign" and insisted "it must be discussed."

He has been critical of the administration's handling of Viet Nam, Laos, communism, Cuba, the Berlin wall.

How would he solve them? Here again he is not specific. The Democratic administration, which has been wrestling with these problems, isn't promising flat victories.

Since the campaign is still young, maybe Johnson and Goldwater will get down to cases before it's over.

Cat In Command

NEW YORK (AP) — Pets lead, people follow.

This is part of the story of our civilization which might be missed by historians.

The trouble with having an animal in the house is that over a period of time the presentiment of the people and the ambition of the animal get rather intermingled.

That's the situation in the house where I put my heart.

We have a conflict there. "You are a born leader, Harold," my mother used to say while patting me self-confidently on my back and turning to her more necessary knitting.

"Yes, yes, my son," she murmured consolingly but absently, "you're a natural commander of men."

Well, of course, as a mankind knows, there is a lot of truth in what she said. I am a born leader and a natural commander.

What has confused my gifts is that I have to deal with an acquired leader and an unusual commander.

Her name is Lady Dottie and she is a cat and she has been with us for a number of years. She started as a small, furry, squirmy uncertain kitten. Then she moved insidiously into authority, as all feminine things do.

Recognizing the fact that I am a born leader, she used to rub against my leg in plaintive self-assurance. If a stranger entered our realm she would leap instantly on top of our tall, old-fashioned upright walnut desk.

Anything we set before her she humbly ate. And she grew and grew and grew.

As her size increased so did her self-confidence. Roughly now, Lady Dottie resembles an ambulant indoor whale.

Where she used to be abashed and retreating, she now intrudes into family conversations with a learned observation — "meow" — which has at least 12 different meanings.

She used to eat anything. Now when my wife, Frances, makes up her menu, Lady Dottie looks on with the air of a great lady wearing a jorgnette. If it isn't fish or chicken, she sniffs in disdain.

What's the use of being a born leader if you find you are being led by a cat?

Some day I'm going to balance things by bringing home a dog.

Renal Hypertension Caused By Many Things

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have renal hypertension and was told I have at the most two years to live.

My doctor has not put me on a low-salt diet or given me any medication, which I understand is the usual procedure for hypertension. I would appreciate your opinion.—MRS. M. W.

First let me say that I long ago discarded my crystal ball and stopped trying to say how long anyone has to live. The forces of nature, new types of therapy and the steadily increasing accuracy of diagnosis all play unpredictable parts.

Most physicians have experienced or observed situations in which a patient, seemingly too weak to last another day, finally recovers.

New forms of treatment prove effective in cases which formerly did not respond well.

And finally, increasing precision of diagnosis, which is the basis of all good medical care, more and more is able to point to a treatment where, without that accuracy, we had to depend on intuition and hope.

This applies to renal hypertension—that is, high blood pressure resulting from some kidney condition. There is no treatment which will apply to all cases of renal hypertension. Not all cases come from the same cause.

The trouble may arise from damage from infection. This may be the aftermath of an infection early in life. Or it may be a current and acute infection. Pyelonephritis, for example.

Or the kidneys may have been damaged by arterial hardening. Or a kidney may not be getting adequate blood supply because of renal artery occlusion—an artery that has become closed off, or partially so, in some manner. This frequently is corrected by surgery these days, but an arteriogram is absolutely necessary. That is, a dye is introduced into the blood stream, and the dye appears on an X-ray plate, thus showing where the defect is and how extensive it is.

True, salt restriction is commonly used in cases of renal hypertension as well as in other conditions, but it is not the sole form of treatment. The best treatment depends upon the exact nature of the disease, as well as upon its extent and duration, and on the patient's ability, both physically and emotionally, to combat the disease.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother is 73. In recent months she has complained of a chill in her back and shoulders accompanied by an itchy sensation. Even with the temperature around 90 she has a cold sweat and feels exhausted. She is of a nervous disposition.—MRS. A. Z.

Elderly folks frequently are more sensitive to cold. Hardening of the arteries, diminished exercise, a certain amount of anemia, and low thyroid function can be causes. Medical examination may reveal a condition which can be corrected. Otherwise, sweaters and shawls are the answer.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Herald, requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Hokus Pokus At Delphi

Few mysteries have held the imagination of mankind longer than attempting to foretell the future. Witch doctors, mediums, soothsayers, and a host of other various forecasters have from time-to-time, convinced men they could see through the veil ahead. Perhaps the most fascinating of the lot, however, was the Oracle at Delphi.

NO MATTER whether its prophecies were accurate, the Oracle had fame and was believed throughout the ancient world. For over a 1,000 years, it held the supreme perch of being the last word in forecasting the future events of mankind. King Croesus of Lydia launched the Oracle's reputation when he sent ambassadors to ask what he was doing at the precise moment on the 100th day of their departure.

Quite correctly, the Oracle said the King was broiling a lamb and a tortoise in a brass pot. Competing against wisdom of such a high order, other oracles could merely leave the field.

THE INQUISITOR, of course, could not always be sure the Oracle would use its wisdom on his question. On arriving at Delphi, the person seeking advice had first to pour cold water on the head of a goat. If the goat remained impassive or shook its head, the Oracle was not even interested in hearing the question. On the other hand, if the goat shuddered in violent spasms, the omens were favorable and the Oracle was in shop and ready to tell the future.

A YOUNG GIRL was first used to speak the words of magic, but this offered problems as her beauty often proved disturbing to the priests, and it was decided later to use only a woman over 50, with less disturbing graces. After seating herself in the sanctuary, chewing a handful of laurel, she immediately spoke words of inspiration out of her frenzy. The priests interpreted her words, first in verse, but later resorting to prose where talents were less obvious in iambic pentameter.

Actually, the priests did not put their reputations on the line on the basis of the gibberish of a drugged woman. They operated an elaborate information service throughout the world, and their advice was based on research rather than miracles. And usually, when the oracle had the courage for clarity, it was wise and compassionate.

BUT AS ITS POWER increased, the priests developed a strong appetite for expensive gifts and bribery became the order of the day. And so, the oracle lost much of its wisdom in favor of a fast buck. And as most folk believed whatever the Oracle said, more often the prophecy became true because of it.

The Oracle often phrased its answers in such a manner that it could never be called wrong. Regarding an impending battle, it advised that the bravest army would leave the field the victor.

AS EACH COMMANDER felt he had the bravest army, both took the answer to predict his victory. And after the battle, the loser was hardly in a position to demand his money back. As Aristotle said, "It is neither easy to despise such things, nor yet to believe them."

If Not Goldwater, Then Wallace

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The town wasn't big enough to hold them both. When Sen. Barry Goldwater came here for a Republican rally that rocked this Cradle of the Confederacy to its political fundamentals, Governor George Wallace went elsewhere. He took off for speeches in Wisconsin and Indiana, leaving the stage to Barry for a reason that this reporter stayed behind to explore.

TO PUT IT in a thimble: either Goldwater—and his Republicanism bring off the prodigious feat of political realignment by November 3, or Wallace and a still unnamed political movement will take over this irrepressible Conservative revolution. Goldwater now—Wallace next, if necessary. In any case, the demand for a true two-party system, the rage for freedom from Federalism, will not subside until satisfaction is rendered.

THE TREMENDOUS and frenzied Montgomery turnout, following one of similar size and fervor in Memphis a few hours earlier, went off like a fire bell in the night to proclaim a Southern conflagration that seems to be escalating toward a Democratic holocaust. Mississippi's governor has gone Goldwater, so has South Carolina's bellwether senator, so has Florida's House Speaker. Louisiana's governor is withholding his support of the Democratic national ticket, and the two Georgia senators are giving President Johnson only lip service, and giving Hubert Humphrey less than that. But the man-in-motion, and the one to watch, is Governor Wallace. That tough little Golden Glove champion of the 1930s has become the knockout debater for States' Rights and a parallel force that is driving in the same direction as Goldwater.

THEY ARE NOT going to collide. They are not going to collaborate. Wallace, if my findings in Montgomery on the day after the rally are valid, is watching to find out whether Hubert Humphrey's definition of Goldwater as "the temporary spokesman of the Republican party" will stand up. If the Arizona is really master of his party and if he resists all temptation to back off his militant conservatism as expressed at San Francisco, he will probably get Wallace's full endorsement before Election Day. But if it appears that Goldwater's control of the party is a passing phase, or if he should compromise on "extremism" for freedom and justice in order to placate the GOP Liberals, then we must expect Wallace to denounce both major parties as incapable of prosecuting the revolution.

Should Wallace pronounce his plague on both the houses, it could signalize a splinterization in American politics with cults and cells galore.

Socialized Motoring: It's Coming?

WASHINGTON — Automobile worship became the established religion in the United States by constitutional amendment in 1988, but the truth of the matter was that adoption of the amendment only ratified a folkway that was unshakably imbedded in the national character at least 10 years earlier.

MOST HISTORIANS agreed that a formal deification of the motorcar was triggered by the issue that raged during the Presidential campaign of 1972. That was when the Republican candidate, Mr. Pinchley Bleak, asserted that every American of legal driving age (by that time most states licensed motorists at age 12, upon evidence of good character) was entitled to own a modern motorcar, and that same should be provided by the state if a means test showed the individual could not swing the payments himself.

MR. ERNEST J. SOAPSUDS, the Democratic candidate, denounced Bleak's program and said it was a calculated humiliation to the poor of the nation. He countered with the proposal that the state provide a new automobile to every citizen of driving age (while the debate was going on the average age for licensure dipped to 11.5 years, upon evidence of no prior felony conviction) regardless of need.

History shows that Mr. Soapsuds won in a landslide even bigger than 1964, and most analysts laid the victory to the impact of his Detroit speech.

A few cranks fought the plan with the predictable cry of socialized motoring, but they were laughed out of countenance and auto aid sailed through Congress with scarcely any debate.

THERE WERE difficulties, as there inevitably are with all great advances in social justice. A few parents tried to prevent their underprivileged tads from participating in the program, but in a historic decision (Flinders, et al. vs. Flinders) the Supreme Court found in favor of a 13-year-old from Pratt Falls, Utah, who had sued his parents on the question.

It was a short step from that point to the memorable day when Senator Smirkson addressed a hushed Senate and pointed out what everyone knew to be the truth: Americans—all Americans, regardless of race, creed or color—worshipped automobiles.

"THE AUTOMOBILE," intoned Senator Smirkson, "is the limitless cornucopia that nourishes our American economy. It shelters us from the biting winds of winter, and in the summer it wafts the benign blessings of its air conditioning upon us. Ah, my friends, it is inevitable that this proposed legislation (the bill was actually a measure ordering the director of the mint to replace the motto on our coinage with "in cars we trust") would come before us, and inevitable that it should pass."

IT DID PASS, after some minor amendments according tax-free status to automobile cemeteries and granting draft exemption to ordained mechanics. Led by auto shares, industrial averages reached new peaks, and for three weeks following July Fourth there was a traffic jam stretching from Boston to Fredericksburg, Va.

The few philosophers who dared protest were speedily brought to trial before auto courts and condemned to lifelong pedestrianism. It was a ghastly punishment, but everyone agreed it was no more than they deserved.

Warren Commission Makes Report Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The seven members of the Warren Commission present to President Johnson today the completed report on their investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and his six commission colleagues had a late morning White House appointment. Their massive report is to be made public Sunday night.

The instructions they received from Johnson 10 months ago, when he ordered the inquiry, were to "study and report upon all facts and circumstances" relating to the slaying in Dallas last Nov. 22 and on "the subsequent violent death of the man charged with the assassination" — Lee Harvey Oswald.

The President directed the commission "to satisfy itself that the truth is known as far as it can be discovered, and to report its findings and conclusions to him, to the American people, and to the world."

In discharging this duty, the seven have interrogated hundreds of witnesses in secret hearings, studied thousands of investigation reports, traced Oswald's movements abroad, re-enacted the killing and compiled some 20 volumes of testimony, depositions and exhibits.

The end product is the "Summary Report," a book of more than 700 pages, which will be issued Sunday. No schedule of release has been announced for the supporting volumes.

Besides Warren, the members are: Allen W. Dulles, former director of the Central Intelligence Agency; John J. McCloy, banker, lawyer, and former high commissioner of Germany; Sens. Richard Russell, D-Ga., and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.; and Reps. Hale Boggs, D-La., and Gerald Ford, R-Mich.

Soviets Reject U.S. Proposal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union has rejected a U.S. proposal for the creation of a standing U.N. finance committee to apportion assessments among member nations for peacekeeping operations.

Soviet delegate Viktor F. Ulanchov told the General Assembly's 21-nation working group on peacekeeping finances Wednesday that the proposal was a device to circumvent the Security Council's powers.

The plan called for the committee to originate all financial arrangements for peacekeeping operations. The committee's recommendations would require approval by a two-thirds majority vote of the assembly.

Four Rescued Men

The four were trapped Saturday night following an accident at the Atomic Energy Test Site north of here. Tons of cable broke loose and jammed the elevator shaft trapping them in a small room. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Trapped Underground Turns Out To Be Short Vacation

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Instead of cold broth, there was steak. Instead of misery there was overtime.

George Cooper, 44, an electrician and weather-worn veteran of many construction projects, is a man with a happy story to tell about an 86-hour stay 1,800 feet below the Nevada desert that started Saturday and ended Tuesday with the liberation of four workmen.

One man was killed on the surface when cable whip-lashed up the shaft.

Cooper, Leland Roeder, 45, Floyd Shaw, 51, and Art Luhnnow, 27, the group cut off, were sealed into a 30-foot-square room off the bottom of a nuclear test shaft at the Nevada test site, near Mercury, Nev.

Their jailer was 1,000 feet of tangled steel cable jammed into the final 300 feet of the shaft. Rescue workers worked round the clock to remove the cable and free the men.

Cooper, from Tucson, Ariz., told this story: "We barely stepped back from lowering the cable when we heard a swooshing sound coming on like a train. It got louder and louder, then it was quiet."

Communications were rigged through a 10-inch ventilation shaft.

"I was on the phone first and asked them if anybody was killed at the top. You know how thoughts run through your mind."

"We never found out that Jim Gray was dead till we got out. I was real sorry. Jim was from Arizona too."

Soon a flow of heavy woolen blankets came down, with playing cards, magazines, a razor, hot coffee and ham sandwiches. Emergency lanterns illuminated a square room, blasted from rock, with a 10-foot ceiling.

"We were busy all night talking to the guys on top — saying we were okay. We got our first meal at about nine Sunday morning."

"Nine large steaks for four men, we enjoyed that. They were medium done, just like we like it. There was gravy, mashed potatoes, hot rolls and coffee."

All told, each man earned about $900 in overtime pay for his below ground stay.

Cooper planned to be back to work today. He said he had to turn in because he had to get up at 4 a.m.

MAHALIA JACKSON

Famed Gospel Singer Ill Of Heart Ailment

CHICAGO (AP) — Famed singer Mahalia Jackson, who introduced gospel singing to millions across the world, is seriously ill with a heart ailment.

Miss Jackson, 50, was hospitalized Sept. 15 at Little Company of Mary Hospital with what doctors then described as exhaustion due to overwork. The Associated Press learned today that she since has been ordered to remain in bed for four to six weeks.

The hospital said visiting was restricted. No telephone calls are permitted.

Miss Jackson has canceled all scheduled appearances through October and has turned down a personal invitation from President Johnson for a White House dinner Oct. 6.

Doctors now say the 200-pound Miss Jackson, who returned in May from a triumphant overseas tour, is suffering from a heart ailment. They decline to indicate how long she will be hospitalized. A spokesman said: "The big problem is that there's nothing much to say one way or another."

Miss Jackson's agent, Lou Mindling of Los Angeles, said, "She's coming along fine. She's resting well. We hope to have her back working in 30 to 40 days."

Miss Jackson, whose records sell in the millions, learned to sing in a small church on the Mississippi River levee front in New Orleans. Her father died when she was 6 years old. At 13 she was working steadily as a washwoman.

She later moved to Chicago where her first recording was made in 1934. By 1948 she had earned national recognition and two years later gave a concert in New York's Carnegie Hall.

A resident of Chicago's South Side, in July she married Minter Sigmund Galloway, a contracting firm salesman. It was the second marriage for both.

Evidence Indicates Reporter Was Strangled

DALLAS (AP) — There is medical evidence that Jim Koethe, a Dallas Times Herald reporter, may have been strangled, investigators were told Wednesday.

Detective Capt. Will Fritz said he was unable to say conclusively, however, that this was the cause of death. Justice of the Peace W. E. Richburg said he would continue to withhold an inquest verdict.

Koethe's landlady found the body of the 30-year-old newsman wrapped in a blanket on the bedroom floor of his apartment. The apartment contained no money.

ment Monday. Police said there were signs of a struggle.

In an autopsy report ordered by Richburg, county medical examiner Earl Rose said a small bone at the base of the tongue was fractured and internal bleeding occurred in the neck muscles.

The reporter's English-built car was found Tuesday about 10 blocks from the apartment. Police took fingerprints.

Friends said two rifles and a pistol owned by Koethe were missing and a wallet in the apartment contained no money.
