Water Conservation—
Time For Action—
The People First—
Not Power Companies—

HOMER D. WADE, in Wichita Falls Thursday, urges the importance of the water conservation conference called at Abilene for August 18.

Mr. Wade, his assistants and the officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce are ever watchful of the welfare and rights of West Texas and West Texans. In the case of the use and the granting of rights to the use of various rivers and their watersheds, Mr. Wade and other leading West Texans, including J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls, feel that the time has come for some concerted action and investigation into claims which are now made involving water rights on a number of streams.

IF CONDITIONS are as represented in news dispatches concerning the conference, if there is danger or possibility of large power companies and syndicates controlling any great portion of Texas rivers and their tributaries, then the conference at Abilene is indeed a matter of importance, and it may bring to light some surprising facts.

Texas is anxious to have its water power developed, is anxious to utilize this great natural gift, but the people of Texas have no intention of presenting to power syndicates or companies the right to control and to dictate the use of this state's streams and rivers in return for promises which have so far proved rather hollow.

THERE has been considerable talk and discussion of water power development during the last few years, but with a few exceptions, there has been no great increase in the number of dams on Texas rivers. The one building program the writer recalls at the present time is the Marble Falls development, with a textile mill on the banks of the Colorado. Perhaps there are others, but Faith does not know of them.

THE RECORD NEWS would not wish to hamper the development of water power projects in Texas, but it believes state officials should be extremely careful in granting rights to the use of rivers, and should see that proposed developments which are approved are projects which are to be carried out within a reasonable length of time.

Especially does The Record News believe the state should guard against the granting of such sweeping rights as would result in a farmer being denied enough water from a small tributary stream to irrigate a truck garden, as was reported in the call for the meeting at Abilene.

$28,000 Jewelry Theft Made by Bandit Pair

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. (AP)—Jewels worth more than $28,000 were stolen from Mrs. David Cummings and Mrs. John Carlton, both of New York, and an automobile was taken from their escort, Frank Howard of South Haven, Mich., by two robbers who held them up early today as they were returning home from a Chicago night club, police were advised.

Outbreak By Sympathizers Of Sacco-Vanzetti Anticipated

U. S. ENVOYS WARNED

Guards Placed to Keep Diplomatic Agents From Injury

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—American government officials and property were today ordered placed under heavy guard to prevent possible outrages by Sacco and Vanzetti sympathizers following the confirmation of their death sentence by Governor Fuller of Massachusetts.

As soon as the decision of the Massachusetts executive was made public the state department cabled all embassies, legations and consular offices as well as missions and officials who are traveling abroad.

Heavy Guards Ordered

They were urged to place immediately the personnel and property under heavy guard and to be on the lookout for possible bombing attempts. Foreign governments were in turn asked to take proper precautions and to maintain a most careful observation on the activities of communists and radical labor groups which might be in sympathy with the condemned men.

The same extraordinary precautions were taken to protect officials and property at home. All government property of whatever description was assigned extra guards and while President Coolidge is not in Washington it was found advisable to redouble the vigilance at the White House.

Department of justice agents personally questioned each of a large number of workmen engaged in remodeling the structure to learn if any of them are sympathetic with Sacco and Vanzetti. They apparently satisfied themselves that no danger need be

The governor had not decided about the matter. He was scheduled to go to Gatesville Friday with Roy I. Tennant, member of the board of control for inspection of the boys training school there.

TEXAN SCORNS "LAME DUCKS"

Connally Would Eliminate Short Congress

By Universal Service.

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Aug. 4.—Congressman Tom Connally in addressing the old settlers reunion here today declared that "lame duck" congresses should be made impossible in the future.

"A lame duck congress," the congressman said, "is a congress that meets in December and is empowered to enact legislation until the fourth of March following, though its members may have been defeated for re-election in November preceding.

No Pure Democracy

"Our government is built upon the representative theory. Our institutions are not a pure democracy. The representative principle lies at the heart of our system. There is no sound reason why a congress that has been repudiated at the polls should be permitted to exercise its power for three months thereafter. The people having declared for a change should not be tied to a rejected program after expressing their disapproval."

Connally pointed out that a proposed amendment to the constitution, providing that the new congress should convene in January after its election in November, has been pending in congress for some time. It has general support, but because of legislative jams, has only passed one of the houses.

Ban on Lame Duck

"Changing the time for the meeting of congress to January after the election in November would not only do away with lame duck congresses, but would prevent in a large measure filibusters and legislative jams at the end of sessions. Congress could then convene in January and could continue its sessions until the business is transacted or until the following January. There can be urged little logical objection to such a change," Congressman Connally declared.

Mr. Connally also discussed the tendency to increase the power of the president at the expense of the legislative and judicial branches of the government.

The oil scandals and corrupt elections of United States senators were referred to as threats to representative government.

U. S. Has Model

The congressman also referred to political and economic disturbances in many of the foreign countries and expressed the thought that in America, and in America alone, was to be worked out the theory of representative government and institutions.

"If democracy and representative government fail here," Connally declared, "where will men turn to find them?"

20 Shot to Death In Dallas Since January 1

High Czech Official Faces Charge In Disappearance of American Girl

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Aug. 4. (AP)—Detectives are seeking to unravel the mystery of the disappearance of an American girl, Margit Voeerdesmart of New York. John Michalke, prominent in Czecho-Slovakian political circles, and his friend and physician, Dr. Klepetar, have been arrested on suspicion of murdering her.

It is alleged by the police that Michalko went through a bogus form of marriage with Miss Voerdesmart last year after which she, Michalko and Klepetar left for Paris, saying they were going to America. Since then, according to the authorities, nothing has been heard of her, although Michalko and Klepetar subsequently returned to Prague.

On being arrested they denied the charges of murder, declaring that the girl left them on the way to Paris and they have not seen her since. But the police assert they found at the physician's home in Prague a trunk containing all her clothing and effects.

The case has caused a sensation here as Michalko held several high political appointments, notably that of political secretary to the present minister of education, M. Hodza.

NEW RAILROAD TO APPLY FOR STATE PERMIT

Proponents of San Angelo To Corpus Christi Line Busy

PAPERS PREPARED

Articles of Incorporation To Be Filed Soon At Texas Capital

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 4.(AP)—Application for a charter to construct a railroad between Corpus Christi and San Angelo by way of San Antonio will be filed within the next few days and a competent executive secured to direct the affairs of the new road as soon as arrangements can be completed, Judge W. C. Banks of San Angelo, secretary of the board of directors of the Gulf and West Texas railroad, announced Thursday at the close of a meeting of the executive board.

Charter Drawn

Articles of incorporation prepared since the last meeting of the board of directors were submitted by Judge Banks and approved by the directors.

Eight signatures have already been secured and at the close of the meeting Judge Banks, accompanied by Richard Kleburg of Corpus Christi, left for the coast town to secure the signature of Robert Driscoll and W. W. Jones of that city, the other two members of the board.

Whether the road will be built north from Fredericksburg by way of Mason and Brady to San Angelo or from Kerrville by way of Sonora, Eldorado and Christoval, has not been decided yet, President Morrison said at the close of the meeting.

Towns to Benefit

Heavy inducements are being offered by the towns along both of the proposed routes and the result of a survey of available and prospective tonnage will probably govern the final decision on routes, directors of the new road pointed out.

Plaintive yelps of the dog shortly after midnight awake the family to find a four and one-half foot rattler climbing into the baby's bed. The snake, alarmed by the dog was sounding a warning "whir-r" but was killed without trouble.

PACIFIC FLIER FORCED DOWN

"Oklahoma" Plane Misses Frisco Destination

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Aug. 4. (AP)—Private advices to the Phillips Petroleum company late this evening say that Lieutenant Bennett Griffin and Lieutenant Al Henley, in the monoplane "Oklahoma" landed at Amboy, Cal., after being in the air for 13 hours and 40 minutes. After fighting head winds and storms practically all during the day, the plane was brought down and minor repairs made which were necessitated by faulty insulation of the exhaust stacks. The plane will proceed to San Francisco tomorrow, a distance of about 500 miles.

FLIER NOTIFIES WIFE OF FORCED LANDING

WACO, Aug. 4. (AP)—Mrs. Al Henley, wife of Lieutenant Henley, who with Lieutenant Bennett Griffin, left Bartlesville, Okla., at 5:29 a. m. Thursday on an attempted non-stop flight in the monoplane "Oklahoma" for San Francisco, received a telegram from her husband shortly before 11 o'clock tonight from Bagdad, Cal., stating the flyers had been forced down by motor trouble at Amboy, Cal.

Mrs. Henley is remaining with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bradley in Waco, during her husband's absence on his attempted non-stop flight from San Francisco to Honolulu as one of the entrants for the Dole $25,000 prize.

Mrs. Henley's telegram from her husband was timed 5:21 p. m., Pacific coast time.

SOUTH FUTURE DAIRY CENTER, SAYS KRAFT

Cheese Company Approves Plans For New Plants in Area

FACTORY IN WICHITA

Local Men to Construct Building For Use Of Plant Here

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—A long-neglected industry in the south is to be revitalized within the next few weeks, it was learned here today, with the establishment of cheese-making plants at strategic southern points.

According to John H. Kraft, vice president of the Kraft Cheese company here, factories will be opened shortly at Durant, Miss.; Dyersburg, Tenn., and Louisville, Miss.

Confer With Kemp

Additional plants are being planned for other southern sections, including Wichita Falls, Texas. The plants named are to be equipped each to handle 30,000 pounds of milk a day. As the milk supplies increase, a factor which will stimulate dairy production in the south, the plants' capacity will be increased to take care of 100,000 pounds of milk a day.

Meanwhile Kraft company officials conferred today with J. A. Kemp, president of the City National bank of Wichita Falls, Texas, on final arrangements for the installation of the cheese-making plant there. Mr. Kemp stated that efforts are being already made to introduce dairying and poultry raising to replace the present system of cotton growing by tenant farmers.

Outlet for Milk

An assured outlet for milk, he pointed out, will give tremendous impetus to dairying in the south and southwest and should assure prosperous farming for that section of the country.

"The south is really much better adapted for dairying than the north," declared John H. Kraft.

World's Largest Harmonica Band Planned Here As T-O Fair Feature

Possibility of the world's largest harmonica band, composed of Wichita Falls harmonicists, being presented during the Texas-Oklahoma fair loomed Thursday when Bill Ward, recreational director for the department of parks, announced that two playground harmonica bands of 25 members each would be organized at once and that before the fair started several more bands with the same number of members would come into existence.

Combine All Bands.

Mr. Ward plans to combine all of the playground bands into one large band and present it during the fair. The band will have approximately 150 harmonicists as members.

After delving through all of the available records relative to harmonica bands it was ascertained by Mr. Ward that the largest band is located in St. Louis and is composed of 75 members.

The two playground harmonica bands to be organized immediately will at the Sibley-Taylor and Scotland park playgrounds.

The intention of Mr. Ward to organize the world's largest harmonica band came as a result of the large number of entries he has received for the city-wide harmonica contest which will be held Aug. 24 in Bellevue park.

250 Expected in Contest.

Entries in the city-wide harmonica contest neared the 100 mark Thursday, with a total of 91.

From present indications, according to Mr. Ward, the total of entrants in the contest will be 250 and 300 when the final day for filing entries, Aug. 21, arrives.

Due to the large number of entrants, Mr. Ward announced that preliminary contests would be held for several days preceding the Aug. 24 contest to determine the contestants in the championship finals.

SELF DEFENSE DREHER'S PLEA

Doctor Takes Stand In Louisiana Trial

FRANKLIN, La., Aug. 4. (AP)—Cross examination of Dr. Thomas E. Dreher was completed tonight after he had been on the witness stand seven hours defending himself against a charge of murdering James J. Lebouef.

Dr. Dreher and Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef, widow of the victim, who also is on trial, accused James Beadle, the third defendant, of slaying Lebouef. Beadle in an alleged confession, said the physician fired the fatal shots.

FRANKLIN, La., Aug. 4.(AP)—Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, prominent Morgan City physician, was afraid for two years that James Lebouef, utilities company superintendent, would shoot him at any time, he testified today in his own defense at the trial of himself, Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef and James Beadle on trial on a charge of slaying the husband of the accused woman.

Threats had been made by Lebouef against his life, the physician testified and during the recent flood, while his family was absent he was afraid to turn on the lights in his own home at night for fear Lebouef would shoot him.

Mrs. Lebouef wept while her alleged sweetheart told of the events which took place on the night of the fatal boat ride. Dr. Dreher said that he rowed out Lake Palourde accompanied by Beadle after he had received a note and a telephone call from Mrs. Lebouef saying her husband had agreed to meet him in a friendly manner and settle the difficulties that had arisen because of his alleged friendly relations with the woman.

Their boat approached Lebouef. Dr. Dreher said he hailed the utilities man. Lebouef raised a pistol, Dr. Dreher said, and fired two shots at him.

Race With Death Ends in Grave As Injured Man's Lung Action Fails

BORGER, Aug. 4. (AP)—Another race with death was lost late last night when Russell Neill, oil field worker who was burned when steam was turned on in the boiler in which he was working, died.

For six days Neill was kept alive when relays of neighbors pumped oxygen into his lungs. Yesterday the supply gave out and efforts to find oxygen in Fort Worth, Oklahoma City and Wichita, Kan., were unsuccessful. Finally a supply was located in Kansas City, but the shipment arrived after Neill had expired.

Neill was working in a boiler 20 days ago and another oil field worker accidentally turned on the steam, scalding Neill. Neill was unable to take nourishment and was in an intermittent coma the last 19 days. He was kept alive by oxygen and stimulants. His wife who started to Borger from California in an airplane became ill and had to come on a train. His physician became seriously ill and the youth who turned on the steam is under care of a physician, having collapsed after he learned Neill was scalded.

Neill's body will be sent to Fullerton, Cal., for burial.

POLICE FIND HOT CLUES IN DEATH OF FOUR

Slayer Suspect Already Under Arrest At Shreveport

FAMILY MURDERED

Solution Seen Near In Clarendon Mystery Killings

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Aug. 4.—On the heels of the arrest Wednesday at Shreveport, La., of James Rucker, negro, believed to be Shelby Dozier, suspected slayer of Frank Weatherby, Donley county farmer and his wife and their two small children, Sheriff W. A. Pierce of Donley county was Thursday notified of the recovery at Chicago, Ill., by police there of Weatherby's automobile, stolen at the time of the family's murder.

Sheriff Notified.

Sheriff Pierce received his notification of the car's recovery in Chicago in a telegram from the National Automobile Theft bureau. The Chicago message described the recovered car as a Chevrolet. Description of the model, engine number and serial number of the car corresponded in detail to the Weatherby car, in which the slayer of the Donley county family is believed to have made his escape.

Chicago authorities have been notified to forward a description and fingerprints of persons in the car when it was located. Meanwhile Sheriff Pierce's office is watching the mails for a picture and fingerprints of the Rucker negro under arrest at Shreveport. The possibility that the car located in Chicago was sold by the slayer in Shreveport has been suggested by Sheriff Pierce.

According to information here, the Chicago police department is co-operating with the Donley county authorities in an effort to track down the killer of the Weatherby family should he be hiding in the underworld of the Illinois city.

The negro giving his name as James Rucker now under arrest in Shreveport answers to the description of Shelby Dozier, sought in connection with the slaying. Dozier, employe of the slain farmer, and his wife, disappeared from Donley county on the day of the murder, as did the Weatherby car.

Rewards for Slayer.

Weatherby, his wife and their two little children were killed at their farm home near Clarendon on June 24. Peace officers in all sections of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico had been keeping a sharp lookout for Dozier and his wife.

Several rewards for the arrest of the slayers are posted.

M'GRAW BACK IN OLD CELL

Oklahoma Escape Placed In Granite Prison

GRANITE, Okla., Aug. 4. (Sp.) Big Jim McGraw, alias James Cellan, is back in the same cell at the Granite reformatory from which he escaped on March 2, 1926. He was arrested in Minneapolis when he entered a stolen car which officers were watching.

In confessions made to the state bureau of criminal investigation McGraw has admitted a life of crime. He has been a rum smuggling king, bank robber, payroll bandit, jewel thief and his operations extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada. Sentences amounting to 85 years now hang over him.

Because he has snitched on numerous other outlaws, he is being held in the local reformatory instead of the McAlister penitentiary. Officials believe that his life would be in danger if he were in the same prison with some of those on whom he is alleged to have "squealed."

McGraw was first brought here as a witness against criminals who were then on trial at Cordell. At that time he did no work but just talked to authorities. Since being brought back he has been put to work on the rock pile and is spending his time just like the other inmates.

There is another reason why the notorious outlaw was brought back to the local institution. Although Governor Johnson ordered that he be taken to the McAllister prison, Mrs. Waters, the local warden, heard that Big Jim boasted that he could not be kept here. She will show him, she declared.

"I am going to keep McGraw here as long as I care to. Then he may be transferred to McAllister," the woman warden declared.

When local officials were notified that McGraw had been arrested in Minneapolis, Deputy Warden Lee and W. H. Stout, bertillion expert, left immediately for the Minnesota city. Four days later, Mrs. Waters sent two guards to Chickasha to bring the prisoner here.

SHE'S AMBITIOUS

Girl Learning to Pilot Plane Would Hop Atlantic

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 4. (AP)—A big ambition and plenty of nerve make up the equipment of Miss May Talmadge Hays, 22, of Tulsa, Okla., toward the goal of being the first woman to fly the Atlantic.

Except for three "trifling" details—financial backing, construction of a monoplane and a little more training—Miss Hays said she would be willing to start tomorrow on a solo flight along the trail blazed by Lindbergh.

Miss Hays has been a pupil in the Porterfield flying school here four months and has been in the air only a few hours as mistress of a control stick.

She insisted today, however, that she would be ready to go in the fall.

"Am I determined to go? Well, I should say I am—I'm going, that's all."

"She has more nerve than anybody I ever saw," E. E. Porterfield Jr., manager of the flying school, said.

ROAD ELECTION FOR HASKELL

$1,000,000 Issue Will Be Voted On Saturday

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, Aug. 4.—On next Saturday, August 6, Haskell county citizens will vote on the $1,000,000 bond issue which if passed will mean the construction of four hard surfaced highways, passing through every town in the county.

Plans for this election were completed at a meeting held in the Haskell city hall last Friday at which time the following good roads committeemen were present: Porter Campbell, Douthitt Payne and J. A. White, Rule; Dr. Cadenhead, H. Weinert, Pitzer Baker and Theodore Jones of Weinert, B. M. Whiteker, exhibit manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. J. U. Fields, president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs.

VERNON, Aug. 4.—Lon Byars, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Byars, prominent pioneer citizens of Vernoon, died at 12:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at a local hospital following an operation for appendicitis about a week ago. Death was not unexpected, since he had been in serious condition since Tuesday.

Mr. Byars is survived by his widow, a son, Gordon, his parents and seven brothers, Mack, Rufus, Henry, Earl and Leslie Byars of Vernon, and Dewey Byars and Ben Byars of Chillicothe; one sister, Mrs. Ira Tidwell of Vernon.

Funeral services were to be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the Church of Christ tabernacle by Elder T. M. Carney, pastor of the church, assisted by Elder W. A. Bentley of Abilene. Interment was to be in the East View cemetery.

Factory Worker's Fall Results in His Death

DALLAS, Aug. 4. (AP)—Sam Crager, steel worker, died last night as a result of injuries received yesterday when he fell from the truesses in the Ford plant here. He was conscious a short time before his death.

Crager missed his step and fell from the trusses to the concrete.

Collingsworth Crop Now In Excellent Condition

WELLINGTON, Aug. 4.(Sp)—Crop conditions in Collingsworth county are now considered more nearly perfect than ever before at this time of the year. Observers say that a good feed crop is assured and very little rain will be needed to insure the other crops.

Gainesville Building In 1927 Totals $127,500

GAINESVILLE, Aug. 4. (Sp)—This city's building permits for 1927 reached the $127,500 mark on August 1. Continued building activity is indicated for the remainder of the year.

LADMARK BURNED

Famous Old House Set Afire to Give Room For City Park

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 4. (AP)—City firemen today leaned against fences and watched the old Dignowitty mansion, once the social and cultural center of the city burn to the ground without making any effort to extinguish the fire.

The building was fired by Acting Mayor Phil Wright to make room for another plaza and playground in the city.

In 1853, when the home was new, spanking prancing teams drew coaches to the port cochere where slaves held them while the quality descended to attend the grand balls and receptions in the old house.

The house has not been occupied for some time.

DEATH JOINS TEXAS REUNION

Accident at Coleman Ends Happy Festival

COLEMAN, Aug. 4. (AP)—A happy family reunion was brought to a sad ending late Wednesday when C. E. Brown, 57, farmer from Talpa, was drowned in the Colorado river near the Fogg Coffee ranch.

The family had gone to the river for a reunion and outing. Ruby Brown, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. Brown, was in swimming with several other girls. She became frightened and called for help. Her father ran 200 yards to the bank and dived in the water with his clothes on and did not reappear. Arthur K. Brown, a son, jumped into the water to search for his father and he almost drowned, being rescued by others summoned. Ruby was dragged out by the girls.

Mr. Brown's body was later recovered.

Mr. Brown was the father of a large number of children, and had many relatives. He held a high position in the Masonic lodge. Funeral was held today.

POWER LINKS TEXAS CITIES

Big Project Developed In Central Texas

AUSTIN, Aug. 4. —Austin has been made headquarters temporarily by the Texas Power and Light company for an extension development of its business in Williamson and Travis counties, W. B. Head, chairman of the board of directors, announced today.

Projected development includes erection within the next 90 days of a sub-station just north of the city limits of Austin, Mr. Head said.

Work has already been started and numerous engineers and construction superintendents of the Texas Power and Light company are now working out of Austin.

Giant Power Lines

High power lines of 60,000 volts pressure are being projected west out of Taylor to a point in the vicinity of Round Rock. There they will turn south and end at a point on the Georgetown road north of the city of Austin. A sub-station will be built at Round Rock. Out of this sub-station lines of lower voltage will be built to Cedar Park, Leander and Liberty Hill.

It is contemplated that later lines will be extended to Burnett where they will connect with the companys' lines there which are now supplying power for the graphite mines and the numerous marble works, as well as the towns of Llano and Marble Falls. These lines in the neighborhood of Llano and Marble Falls now come out of Temple via Lampasas.

Power will be available for the rock quarries in the vicinity of Cedar Park, as well as for the use of the farmers living along the lines and numerous gins and mills that are located in this section. Lines will also be extended out of the Round Rock sub-station to serve the lime works at Round Rock and McNeill, also nearby cotton gins.

Sveral hundred horsepower are required in the operation of these two lime plants. A sub-station will be built at the end of the line north of the city of Austin. Out of this station lines will be constructed to the east and southeast to serve the numerous gins and farmers in the neighborhood of Dessau, Sprinkle, New Sweden, Daffan, Manor and the irrigation section down the river from Austin in the neighborhood of Govalle, Delvalle and Hornesby.

Some time in the future the main line which will now stop north of Austin may be extended to San Marcos, where it will connect with the company's lines there which now extend from Taylor, via Elgin, Bastrop and Lockhart to New Braunfels. This would make a high tension loop out of Taylor, through that territory east of Austin and thus give double feed to the oil fields near Luling which are now being served by the company. The company has also extended another line out of Bartlett along the Bartlett Western railroad as far west as Florence.

Grading to Be Started On St. Jo Bridge Road

BELLEVUE, Aug. 4.(Sp)—Grading will be started on a road running north from Bellevue to the St. Jo bridge now under construction on Red river as soon as it develops that local citizens secure the routing through here, declared Commissioner R. E. Dishman.

James T. Wiley of Ardmore, Okla., an official of the St. Jo bridge company, conferred here last week with citizens relative to the road. The road must be straightened and improved if state and federal aid is to be secured, in the opinion of Mr. Wiley.

SHE WENT FROM BAD TO WORSE

Down to 98 Pounds—Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. Then a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. Riessinger, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? Happiness?

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

"WHY DID YOU DO THIS?" he cried. Helen simply stared at him, an expression of both fear and hate upon her face. (From "Sisters in Scandal," September True Story Magazine.)

"STOP, MAN, NOT THAT!"—Frank Blaine's devotion to his wife was unquestioned until Fate cast the beautiful, fascinating Velma Price in his path. His resulting mad adventure is grippingly told in "But I Was Married," in September True Story.

"Sisters in Scandal"

(Below)—"I SCREAMED HYSTERICALLY—but he dragged me back." Laura was content with a modest and simple life, until sudden prosperity brought a craving for luxury and gay times. "My Wild Ride" is the startling story of a reckless girl.

The Most Gripping Stories Are Those of Real Life

There is so much of real romance, real adventure, real comedy and tragedy in life that the imaginary characters and events of fiction seem tame in comparison.

The stories illustrated on this page are typical of the fascinating, dramatic narratives of real life that appear every month in True Story Magazine.

In the pages of this great publication, human experience is seen at its best and its worst. Its writers have scaled the heights of happiness and have plumbed the depths of despair.

In baring the innermost secrets of their souls, the great lessons of life are taught more convincingly, more interestingly, more dramatically, than would be possible in any other way.

If you are not a regular reader of True Story, The September issue will show you what you have been missing. It contains 16 thrilling, heart-gripping features. The price is only a quarter. Your newsdealer has it.

When Foster Dale broke his engagement to the beautiful Helen Bradford, the whispering tongues began to wag. But the real shock came when he suddenly married Helen's sister Margery.

Helen departed quietly for New York. During the months that followed, Margery's life with Foster was supremely happy. They were very much in love.

Then Helen returned—more beautiful, more attractive than ever. Had Margery not been so completely absorbed in her own lazy, carefree existence, she would have noticed the sudden new interest her husband took in her beautiful sister. Little did she realize that it was largely her own fault.

So Margery permitted herself to remain blissfully unaware of the growing intimacy that menaced her happiness. But when she awoke to the truth, there began an amazing drama that was to end in chaos, wreckage and bitter remorse for them all.

This wife's startling story, entitled "Sisters in Scandal," is one of the most heart-gripping, most powerfully moving narratives of real life ever printed. It appears complete with 15 other big features in September True Story.

FOLLY'S DAUGHTER

A Thrilling New Mystery of New York's Night Life

By ANN LISLE

Morrie Proves a Friend and Gets Jill a Job

By Ann Lisle,

ANN LISLE

"WHAT a fool I am," thought Jill Hathaway, as she walked from New York's Twenties to the Thirties in a morning of sweltering August heat. She was on her way to her job at Morrie Shane's. And her mind was on the job that had been given her last night and how she had handled it—and Mr. Jackman.

"Morrie is down early and wants to see you," Sonia Konvalensky warned her as she came in. "Why did you have to be five minutes late just this morning?"

"Go in and report to Morris," sneered Tootles, brushing past Jill arrogantly.

The sleek and very blond Morrie was waiting at his desk when Jill came in. He tilted back in his chair, put the tips of his long fingers together and eyed her belligerently.

"How do you get that way?" he demanded. "Where do you get off to throw the hooks into Jackman?"

"To what?" Jill fluttered.

"Don't be Ritzy Ruthy. Not with me this morning when it's a hundred in the shade and you done me dirt with one of my best customers."

"I suppose you didn't do me dirt," Jill said quietly, so quietly that her own honey-sweet voice astonished her.

"What?" Morrie shrieked. "What you saying? Say it again."

"All right. I never used the expression before, but I will use it again if you like it so much," Jill said with tantalizing impertinence. "I think you did me dirt to send me up to a hotel to model a dress for a man when you knew it was against the rules."

"So that's it. Folly's little girlie is an angel child."

"You leave Folly out!"

"Say, quit kidding. Folly's in. She sent you to me. Would she have sent you to me if you was an angel child?"

"She'd have sent me anywhere to get work," Jill said quietly. "She has no money any more. She has devoted her life to me. She has brought me up and spent her savings on me and worked for me and slaved for me. And I'm ungrateful. I was going to—quit her. And then her best friend quit her. And her income stopped. And the only thing left was for me to go to work and look out for her—"

"Well, I'll be!" Morrie Shane broke in strangely. "So that's it."

"I don't know why I told you," Jill said angrily. "Sometimes I think I'm the biggest fool—"

"You have the wisdom of fools," Morrie Shane said so quietly that she hardly knew his voice. "And you get protected the way a lot of fools for luck do. Listen kid—give me this straight: Are you—straight?"

Folly's ward tossed her head. Something in the young bravado of her generation made her resent this. She felt the quick sense of secrecy that comes to children when grown-ups come along and intrude on their games with silly attempts to be coyly young and companionable. She had a grim feeling that all that counted was to shut him out of her life and that a lie didn't matter if a lie was her only armor.

"What's it to you?" she said as flippantly as Sonia Konvalensky might have done.

"Nothing," Morrie Shane told her gravely. "Nothing at all . . . I guess Folly ain't such a bad sort after all. I guess she remembers when I wasn't such a rummy myself. I guess she sort of trusted us to—get to each other."

He thought about it for a moment. Then he picked up his telephone: "Get me the Mannister Printing," he said.

"May I go?" Jill asked.

"Stay where you are," he ordered. . . . Then he began talking into the mouthpiece. "Hello your own self, Mannister. I got a girl here that ain't rightly placed in the cloaks and suits. You told me only yesterday that you needed a nice, genteel girl at the information desk. Well, this little lady is the goods. Refined is her middle name. She is going to know just how to talk to customers. She wouldn't work under $25. Not under $25, so help me. She's the goods. Sure she's nice dressed. Don't she work here? All right. Before 12."

He turned to Jill, holding out a slip of paper on which he had scribbled an address. "You're fired. Here's your new position. You get $25 per. Go out and pick yourself a nice, neat, dark-blue crepe dress. Help yourself to a nice pair of dark shoes. And here's a week's salary in place of notice. Go buy yourself a nice, plain green hat to match the green piping on No. 8484842, the dress I want you should have."

Jill stared at him. There were tears in her eyes.

"Don't blubber," he yelped.

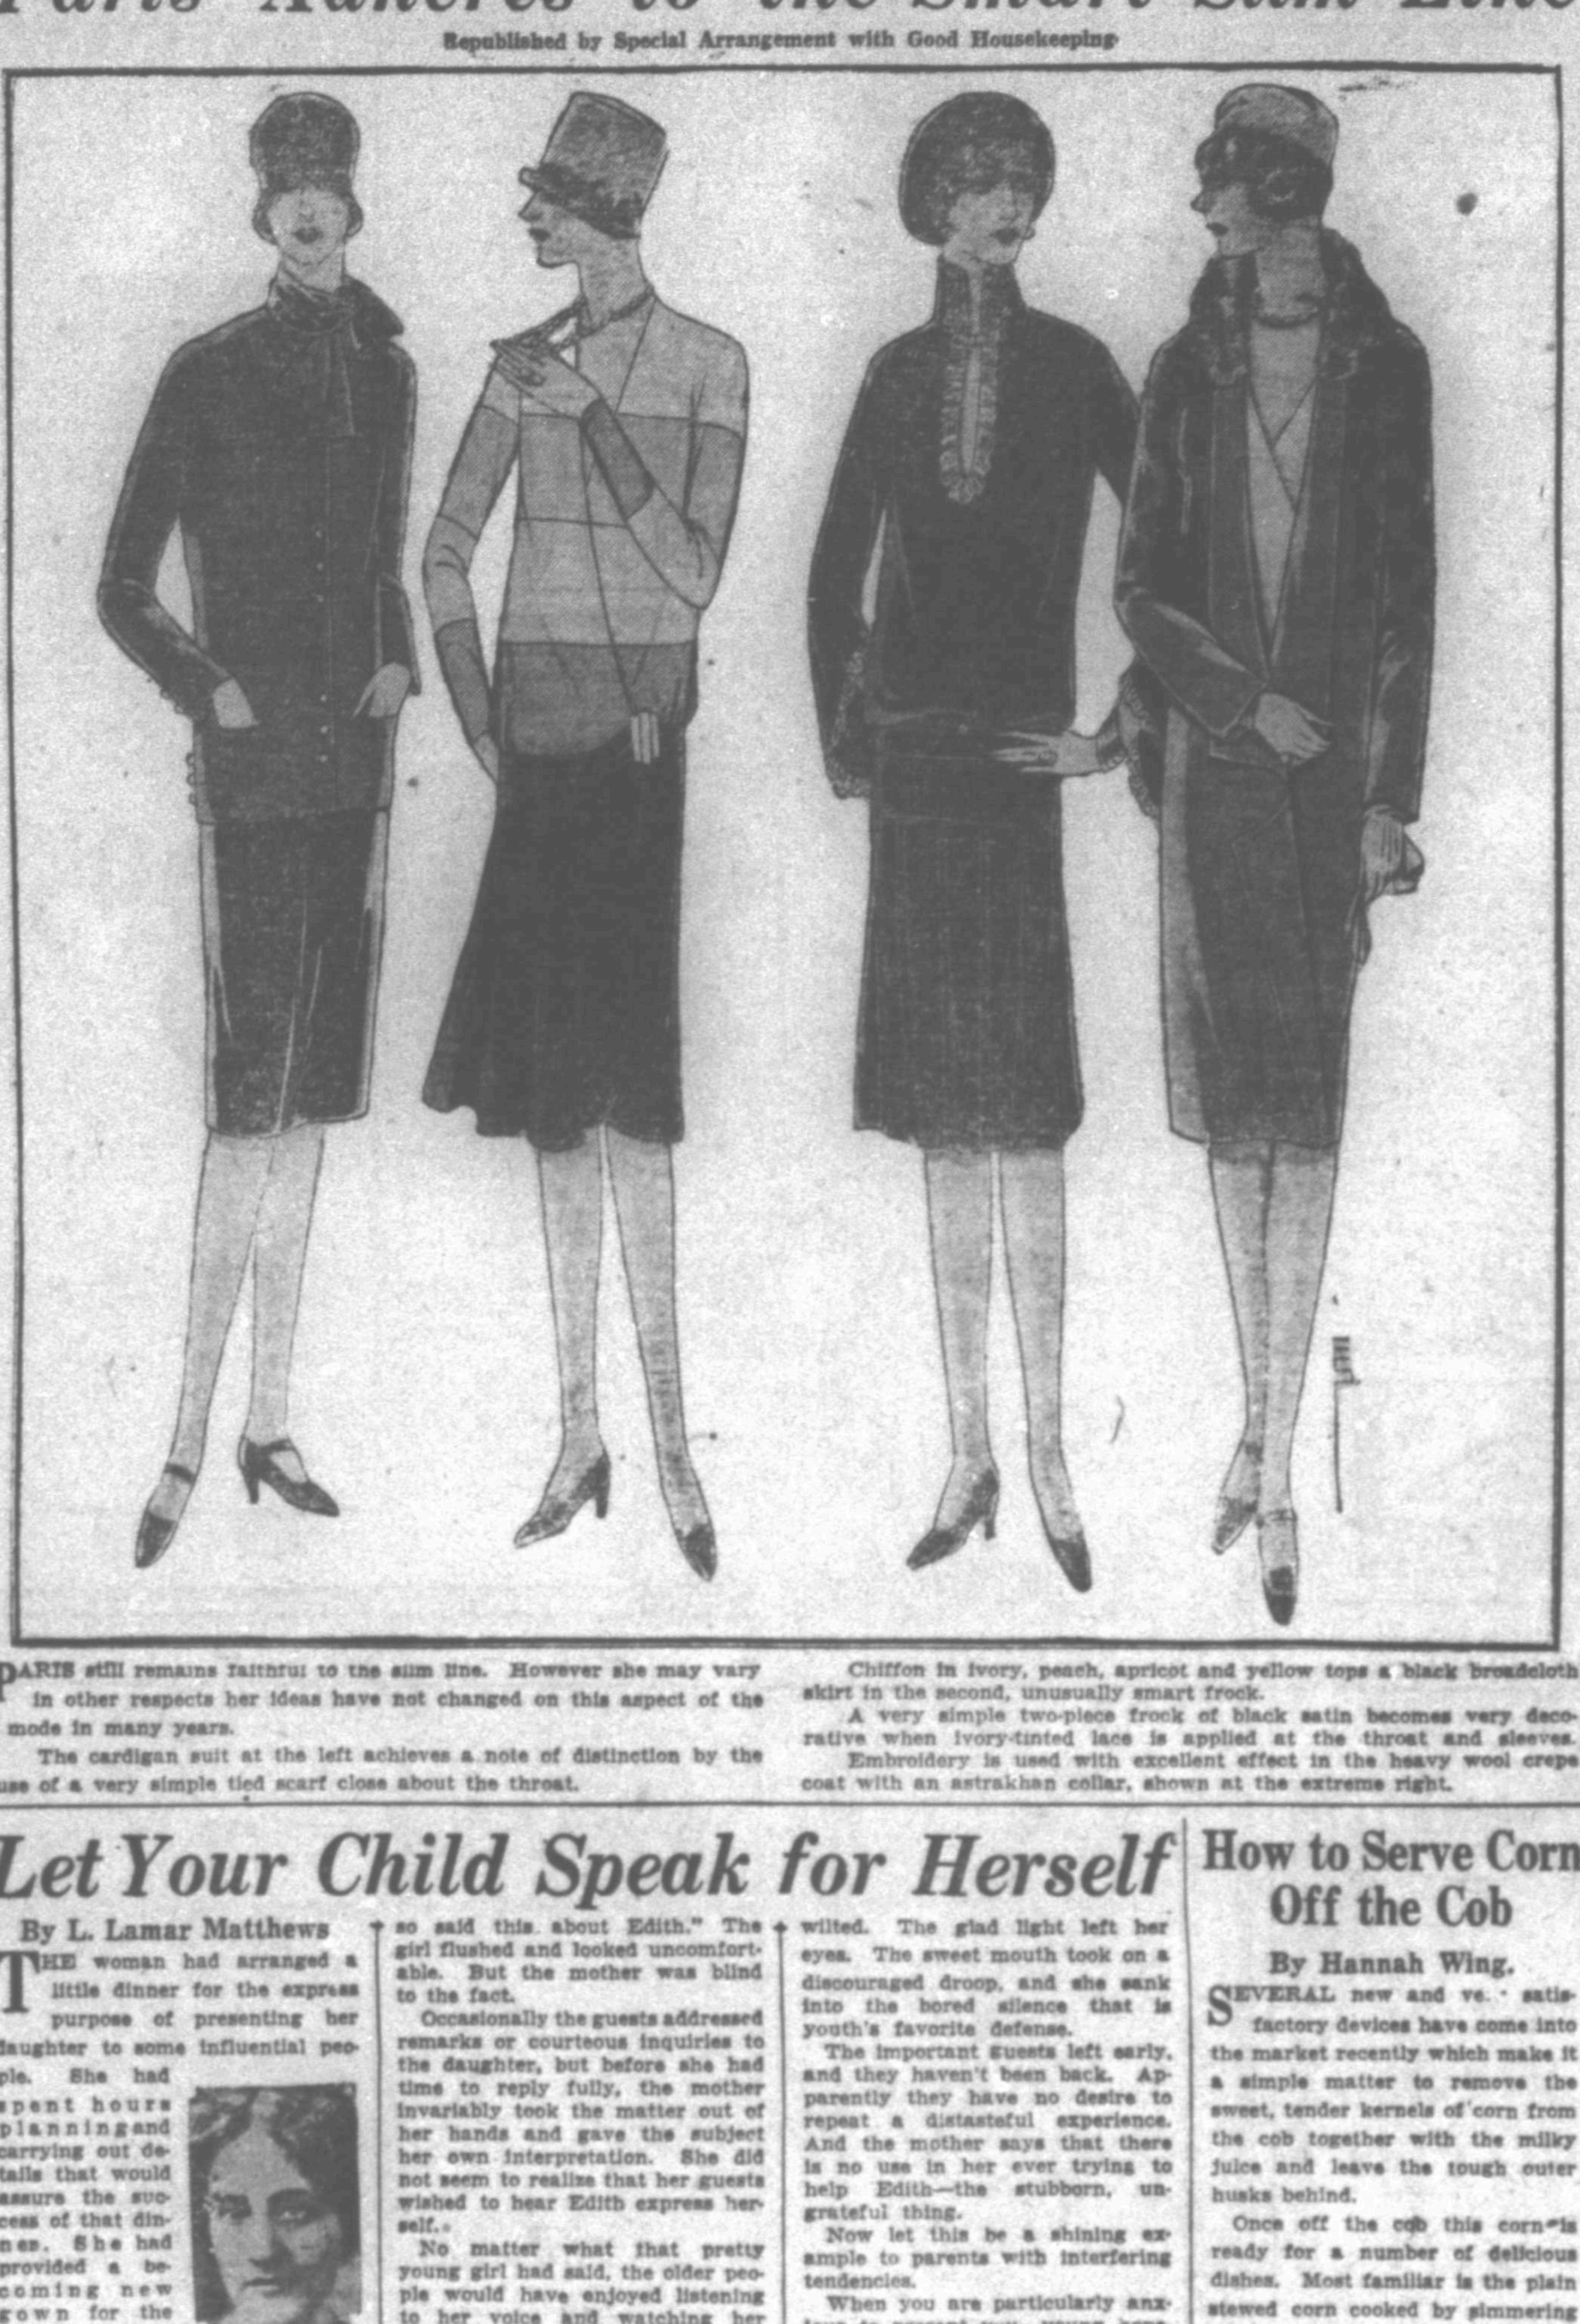
She righted herself with a jerk and asked pertly: "And—no deductions?"

"What am I—a Shylock?" asked Morrie Shane. Then he added in a wheedling tone: "Want to fix it for me, kid, just to show you're a good scout? All right. Then you wet the lamps a little and tell Tootles I canned you and wouldn't give you nothing in place of notice but the biggest lemon in th shop . . . But don't let her get wise that it's 8484842."

To Be Continued.

Paris Adheres to the Smart Slim Line

Republished by Special Arrangement with Good Housekeeping



PARIS still remains faithful to the slim line. However she may vary in other respects her ideas have not changed on this aspect of the mode in many years.

The cardigan suit at the left achieves a note of distinction by the use of a very simple tied scarf close about the throat.

Chiffon in ivory, peach, apricot and yellow tops a black broadcloth skirt in the second, unusually smart frock.

A very simple two-piece frock of black satin becomes very decorative when ivory-tinted lace is applied at the throat and sleeves.

Embroidery is used with excellent effect in the heavy wool crepe coat with an astrakhan collar, shown at the extreme right.

Instinct Not Always Sound Guide to Your Conduct

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

IF you would get control of the machine you call yourself you must get a few notions out of your head. The first of these notions, if like many people, you ever had it or still retain it, is that you are composed of two separate and distinct parts, one called mind and the other called body.

Alexander, by his own studies of himself, came to know that the mind is a function, the supreme function, of the body. This is as much as to say that manifestation of power is the supreme function of the motor engine. Therefore, argued Alexander, if one part seems to be defective the defect is probably one of the whole mechanism and not of the part alone. As an illustration, flatfoot is not a defect of the foot alone, to be remedied by treatment to the foot. It is the result of a defect in the use of the mechanism which controls the carriage of the whole body and to rectify this faulty use of the whole body may cure the flat foot.

Now, disease and faulty function are inseparable. In most diseases the fault in the function comes first. Much disease, not all, can be prevented by consciously preventing faults in function and much, not all, can be cured by consciously restoring correct function.

You grasp the significance of these observations when you remember that the difference between man and the lower animals is that instinct is the important guide to the conduct of animals and reason plays a comparatively small part. In man's conduct instinct plays a smaller while reason plays, should play, may play, a greater part. Instinct is the result of accumulated racial experience. Man has taken perhaps a million years to leave the tree and reach his present state of civilization. By far the largest part of that time, perhaps more than nine hundred and ninety thousand years, he has spent in a state of savagery or pre-civilization. He has only been at all civilized for the remaining ten thousand. Instinct, therefore, is more than nine hundred and ninety thousand parts due to the experiences of the savage, less than ten thousand parts due to the experience of civilization, and only in the very slightest degree due to the experiences of present-day civilization.

Instinct can therefore only be a sound guide to our present conduct if and in so far as our experiences are similar to those of our ancestors. But our experiences derived from an environment of civilization are not similar. Our ancestors gained their experience in a highly stable environment. Our environment is not only a changing one, but changes more rapidly every day. Therefore instinct has become an unsound guide to conduct and becomes more and more unsound every day. It is therefore daily becoming more and more urgent that we should learn to substitute for it a conscious control of our behavior, using the natural law, revealed as the laws of science, as our guide.

As an instance of how a change of environment converts a useful instinct into a harmful one it is only necessary to look at international relationships today. Primitive man looked on a stranger as an enemy to be killed. This, in the primitive stage of social evolution, was reasonable, for if you did not kill him he would kill you, and if food was short he might eat your share. The Latin word "hostis" means both stranger and enemy. Although this instinct has largely ceased to govern our relations with other invididuals, it is still very powerful in determining the feelings of a nation toward other nations. Many persons still believe that one nation's advantages is the disadvantage of others. Nations still fight against nation and class against class largely as a matter of bread and butter. The same fight, the same struggle for existence goes on today between the individual and that aggregate of individuals we call society.

If you would win in that struggle you must take conscious control of your personal mechanism and give it intelligent and purposeful direction.

Tomorrow—Useful and Harmful Instincts.

Our Rhyming OPTIMIST

—By Aline Michaelis—

WHEN dark days come, and never yet have such been wholly banned, I do not yield to vain regret but seek the task at hand. For always, be it high or low, some work which may be done will make time's tide more fleetly flow until the set of sun. And always he who toils will find no care so darkly looms but that, with work, life grows more kind and still some promise blooms. The greatest of life's blessings, this, though few can understand how much it holds of weal and bliss, the humble task at hand! Whatever joys may slip away, may pass from my command, still may I keep for every day some waiting task at hand!

Fashion Fads and Fancies

—By Mildred Ash—

If Gentlemen Prefer Blondes—So do the ladies themselves, for the best-shod women are choosing dancing slippers of blond satin, trimmed in gilded kid bandings, and have tall, slender heels of the gold leather.

Not Farther Than Nose's End—Is popularly supposed to be the extent of women's foresight. Now the little face veils, that are being so extensively worn in Paris, are very chic and reach not one inch farther than the end of the wearer's nose. The snugger the turban the smarter the effect of the veil.

A Light Burden—Whether carried on one's feet or in a rubberized pouch in the purse or pocket, is the new "So-Lite" rubber shoe, that can be procured in tan and gray shades which match the popular footwear as well as in black. This new rubber is thin, totally lacking in bulkiness, and has a light lining that makes it quite easy to slip on and off, as well as to protect the most delicate surface from becoming stained.

Taking a "Straw Vote"—On the most distinctive purse to carry with white midsummer costumes, the winner is a flat handbag of white straw, with geometric figures appliqued from brightly colored Morocco leather and mounted on a white composition frame.

Pointedly Different—Is the English tweed travel coat with high stock collar and cuffs of gray rabbit, and a gray suede belt over which, to one side, is clamped the flap of a long pocket, the point of which reaches nearly to the hem.

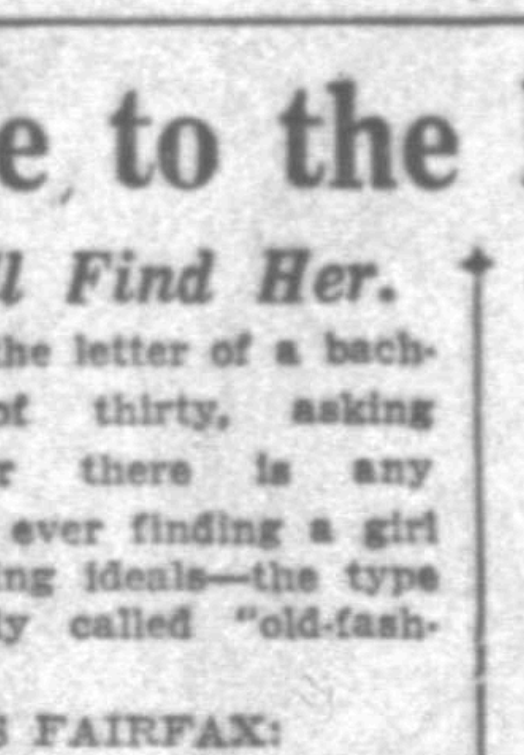
Sparing the Fatted Calf—Collar and cuff sets that appear to be of calfskin are really made of ribbon, cleverly marked in imitation of this popular hide. Such a striking set is effectively used either on a kasha or silk coat or coat-dress, severely tailored.

Pastels Prettily Pliant to the two-toned rage in chiffon hose. Pastel-color stockings to match the shades of Summer frocks have darker tone heels of the same color. These hose are frequently matched by two-toned shoes of kid or fabric.

Vogue for Velveteen—In seven-eighth coats or in swagger short jackets, combined with matching, solid color silk or linen frocks, velveteen is the outstanding note in the Summer's ensemble costumes. Many printed linen or silk sport frocks are accompanied by a velveteen coat lined in the figured fabric.

Let Your Child Speak for Herself

By L. Lamar Matthews



L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

THE woman had arranged a little dinner for the express purpose of presenting her daughter to some influential people. She had spent hours planning and carrying out details that would assure the success of that dinner. She had provided a becoming new gown for the girl and had helped her make the most careful toilet. It was quite essential that the daughter should make a good impression upon these people; for they could start her on an ambitious career. And so the mother spared no pains to make the meeting a favorable one.

The girl is sweet, pretty, intelligent and young. That, in itself, would have enlisted the interest of the important guests.

But the mother insisted upon extolling the girl's praises. At every lull in the conversation it was, "As I told Edith" or "Edith was saying the other day" or "So-and-so said this about Edith." The girl flushed and looked uncomfortable. But the mother was blind to the fact.

Occasionally the guests addressed remarks or courteous inquiries to the daughter, but before she had time to reply fully, the mother invariably took the matter out of her hands and gave the subject her own interpretation. She did not seem to realize that her guests wished to hear Edith express herself.

No matter what that pretty young girl had said, the older people would have enjoyed listening to her voice and watching her youthful face. When Nature is at work for youth—relatives should keep still. Youth is its own best advocate.

After dinner the mother decided to make Edith show off. She suggested various parlor tricks but the girl did not respond. The mother insisted, but Edith stubbornly refused to show off.

Then mother shot an angry glance at her willful offspring, and daughter replied with a defiant one.

After that the woman tried a few sharp barbs—those deft little undercuts that nobody understands except the home folks. Under the strain of it all daughter's spirit wilted. The glad light left her eyes. The sweet mouth took on a discouraged droop, and she sank into the bored silence that is youth's favorite defense.

The important guests left early, and they haven't been back. Apparently they have no desire to repeat a distasteful experience. And the mother says that there is no use in her ever trying to help Edith—the stubborn, ungrateful thing.

Now let this be a shining example to parents with interfering tendencies.

When you are particularly anxious to present your young hopeful in a favorable light—and the occasion arises in most families—introduce your child in the easiest, simplest, friendliest way possible, and then let the youngster alone. You only cramp his style and kill his chance of registering by thrusting your own personality into the meeting. What he has to say, the way he looks, his manner of listening and his attitude toward those present are of far more importance than your comments to and about him.

And this goes for every day and on all occasions upon which your child meets an old or new acquaintance.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

You Will Find Her.

HERE is the letter of a bachelor of thirty, asking whether there is any chance of his ever finding a girl with home-loving ideals—the type of girl usually called "old-fashioned":

"DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"Throughout the ages, men and women have done everything in their power to gain, to have and to hold love. Throughout my life of thirty years, I can truthfully say I have never discovered love. Could love be bought, I would I suppose, have sent in an order. But behold, it is not for sale!

"I realize that a man and woman to be happy together must understand each other and make their home a paradise, not a house of correction!

"I do not drink or 'run around' as the sheiks call it. I am quiet and natural. I do not believe in kissing or gin parties. When I meet a girl who likes these things I am always busy when she suggests another date.

"Do you think there is a congenial mate for everyone? Do you think love is coming to me?

"I could, of course, set up a home on short notice. But my ideal of a wife is far from a flapper. I long for a sweetheart and wife with understanding, who would look around and appreciate a place she could call home. I would expect my wife to do the cooking, for food cooked by one's wife would be the most appetizing. And surely a girl who can't cook for one lone man should not marry.

"I have been told I will never find such a girl. Is this true? Is the quiet, refined girl gone forever?" "JACK A."

ARE there quiet refined girls? Of course there are, Jack—thousands of girls longing for the little home, and the domestic life, that appeals so to you—girls who can cook, or, if they have not had an opportunity to learn, will try oh, so hard! to become expert cooks for The One Man.

Keep on looking for your nice girl. She exists. And she will be just as glad to find you as you will be to find her.

Do not feel for one moment, that you have to lower your standards to find companionship, love and happy marriage. Some day I hope you will write to tell me you have found her!

How to Serve Corn Off the Cob

By Hannah Wing.

SEVERAL new and ve. satisfactory devices have come into the market recently which make it a simple matter to remove the sweet, tender kernels of corn from the cob together with the milky juice and leave the tough outer husks behind.

Once off the cob this corn is ready for a number of delicious dishes. Most familiar is the plain stewed corn cooked by simmering until tender in a very little water and seasoned well with salt, pepper and plenty of butter. Young green lima beans cooked with the corn gives succotash—an equally popular dish which is at its best when freshly prepared. Soups, chowders and corn scalloped with a slice or two of green pepper are also well worth the cooking.

A more delicious dish is a corn souffle made from three eggs, a cup of freshly grated corn, a cup of medium thick white sauce, one-half teaspoon of salt and a dash of pepper. Like all souffles this one must be made by separating the egg yolks from the white and adding them to the white sauce, corn and seasoning. Then the stiffly beaten whites are folded in and the mixture placed in the buttered baking dish to bake in a pan of water at moderate oven temperature (350 F.) for thirty or forty minutes.

A tasty luncheon dish to which green corn contributes may be made by stuffing green peppers with corn, chopped meat and bread crumbs. A recipe follows:

Six green peppers, 2¼ cups grated corn, ½ finely chopped onion, 1½ cups finely ground chopped meat, 1½ cups meat stock, 2 cups fine bread crumbs, salt and pepper.

Prepare the peppers for stuffing and parboil them for two minutes, mix the other ingredients and stuff the peppers with the mixture. Bake in a casserole in a moderate oven (350 F.) for forty minutes.

"Perfect" Husband Just Doesn't Exist As No Man Can Have All Qualities

The Perfect Husband Never Will Exist, Because He Must Be Handsome and Amiable, a Love-Maker and a Money-Maker, One Who can hand out beautiful Thoughts With One Hand and Checks With the Other.

A woman' ideal husband is a man who is a sheik. But who is as domestic as a house cat.

In appearance he is an understudy of the young men in the advertisements of Klassy Kut Kollege Klothes and he certainly is an eyeful.

BUT he never struts his stuff for the benefit of other women, and he never wastes the family money on buying glad apparel for himself.

He carries a nifty line of soft talk,

But he is never tempted to hand it out to any woman but her.

BUT is dough in her hands and can twist him around her fingers.

He is loyal and faithful and grateful to those who have shown him affection and kindness.

BUT he will turn against the mother who bore him and the sisters and brothers and old friends who have cherished him all his life if she doesn't happen to like them. He is a go-getter money-maker.

BUT he is also a lounge lizard who has time to go to tea dances in the afternoon and an intellectual who can discourse beautifully about art and poetry and literature and the Over Soul..

BUT he is never too tired to put on his evening clothes and go out to places of amusement. He supports the house lavishly.

BUT he shouldn't expect to have even a closet in it that is his exclusive property, and he should esteem himself lucky if he gets to ride in the automobile when the children are not using it.

He takes an interest in his home and is willing to cut the grass and hang the pictures and look after the furnace and make himself useful.

BUT he shouldn't feel that he had any right to any authority in it.

He is always willing to have some of her family in the guestroom, and to take them to places of amusement when father comes to town to get new teeth, and mother comes because she needed a little change, and Mamie and Susie and Tommy and Bobbie come because they want a cheap trip, or to take music lessons, or to hunt for jobs.

BUT he must see how awfully inconvenient it is for any of his people to come on a visit, and how much extra expense it involves and how much work it puts on her.

BUT he must see how necessary it is for her and the children to get away to somewhere where it is cool in the summer and warm in the winter, and he must be perfectly satisfied to come home to a stuffy, shut-up house after his day's work and spend his evenings writing long letters telling how lonesome he is and how he misses them.

He must be content to take second place after the first baby is born, and thereafter be nothing but a cash register to be punched to supply the children's wants.

BUT he must never think of her just as the children's mother. She must always be first with him and remain a ladylove in his eyes.

He must continue to be the lover after marriage and keep on telling her how much he loves her, and how beautiful and wonderful she is.

BUT he mustn't be foolish enough to expect her to jolly him along and tell him that the balder he gets and the bigger his waistline, the more she admires him.

He must always be telling her how much he appreciates everything she does for him, and what a wonderful cook and manager she is, and that he doesn't know what he would have done if he hadn't been lucky enough to get her for a wife.

BUT she doesn't feel that there is any call for her to throw any fits of gratitude over the kind of a living he makes her, when Mary Jones has real pearls instead of imitation and that snippity Perkins woman's husband gives her a new car every season.

He must never quarrel about bills.

BUT she has the right to nag about the money he spends on his golf and those little idiotic fishing trips.

He must call her temper "nerves" and when she does unreasonable things attribute it to her "highly strung temperament."

BUT he must never indulge in grouches when he is tired and worn out and worried.

In a word, a woman's ideal husband is a combination of Valentino and Job, and a matinee hero and a male Pollyanna and it's because she can't find any one man who is handsome and amiable and love-maker and a money-maker, and who can hand out beautiful thoughts with one hand checks with the other, that when women get together they sigh and say:

"Well, you know what husbands ARE."

BANDIT FLEES FROM MARINES

Sandino Retreating to Honduran Border

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—American marines have occupied the town of San Elbino, Nicaragua, recovering the American mine seized by the bandit Sandino several weeks ago, the navy department announced today.

American Minister Eberhardt reported from Managua that Gen. Falgado and his followers, who recenttly broke away from Sandino, have disbanded, he reported conditions tranquil.

Sandino, who is being pursued by the marines, is believed to be retreating to the east coast near the Honduran border along the Rio Coco. The marines have occupied Jicaro on their advance.

Japan Permits Landing Of American Aviator

TOKYO, Aug. 4. (AP)—The Japanese government has granted informal permission for the landing on Japanese soil of Captain William P. Erwin, American army officer, who is now planning a trans-Pacific flight. The permission was granted through the American embassy at the request of the department of state.

Aviation experts in Japan are generally pessimistic regarding trans-Pacific ventures.

Prolific Yield of Rice In El Campo Territory

ELCAMPO, Aug. 4. (AP)—The rice season is on here with the first of the crop coming in Monday. Harfst brothers started threshing Monday and will have about 2000 bags of early prolific. The season is unusually early. The crop this year is reported to be good and a considerable portion is of the early varieties.

Junker Plane Goes Good In Germany

By Universal Service.

DESSAU, Germany, Aug. 4.—The Junker plane Europa, one of two planes which started on an endurance test at 5 o'clock this morning, was still going strong at 10 o'clock tonight.

The other plane, piloted by Pilot Rerman Von Koehl, was ordered down after four and one-half hours of flying because its flight was impeded by its heavy landing gear. The plane came down in a plowed field and was badly shaken. Gas fumes, produced by the impact, rendered Koehl unconscious.

Condemned Man Removed To Prison Death House

LOCKHART, Aug. 4. (AP)—A. V. Milliken, who was sentenced by District Judge M. C. Jeffery in district court here last week has been taken to the state prison at Huntsville under sentence to be electrocuted September 23, for the murder of Mrs. Virginia Petty of San Antonio.

Where Tenants are Scarce

GILLESPIE county is one of the German-American counties of Texas and Frederick is its county seat. Ninety-five per cent of the farmers of Gillespie county are the owners of their own farms. Five percent of the cultivated lands are farmed by tenants.

Gillespie is one of the most prosperous of Texas counties. Its farmers are diversifiers. They live at home. They produce cotton and corn and all the feed stuffs for their livestock. They are stockmen as well as poultry raisers. Flocks of sheep and goats are found on nearly every farm. Orchards are found on nearly every farm.

They are growers of vegetables and berries. There are sweet potato patches on every farm, and the housewives of Gillespie county preserve or can everything that is produced from orchard and garden, including the wild grapes that grow in profusion in nearly every section of the county.

Prosperity is found everywhere throughout Gillespie county. Its people pay as they go. They toil and they save. They know how to play. They know how to hunt and fish. They love good music. They love the old fashion dances. There are mighty few criminals in the county of Gillespie, the home of Major Alfred Petsch, lawmaker and leader of independent political thought.

Gillespie county has always been a Ferguson county. Major Petsch refused to follow the flag of Ferguson last year. Farmer Jim told the farmers of Gillespie to keep the major at home. They declined. They re-elected the major as a lawmaker. If he cares to return they will send him back next year.

Pooh, Pooh; Tut, Tut

THIS is the latest from Los Angeles: Amiee to Aimee's mother, "Hush up and stop issuing statements to the press." Mother to Amiee, "I'll shut up if you'll do the same; fire the temple committee and settle our differences quietly between ourselves."

Aimee to Mother, "You speak of broken hearts. Yes, I know we are both broken hearted."

And then, as the wires tell the story, "The Temple committee issued a statement branding Mother Kennedy as being a usurper of the powers and functions of Aimee Semple McPherson, and pointed out that the Echo Park Evangelic association, the trustees of which are Mother Kennedy, Aimee and Aimee's secretary, Miss Emma Schaffer, own the temple property and control considerable sums received in church contribution, and that Mrs. Kennedy persistently refused to give the membership any information with reference to the same."

Speaking of power, Miss Schaffer is sitting pretty. If she votes with Aimee she puts a crimp in Mother Kennedy. If she votes with Mother Kennedy she puts a crimp in Aimee. And all this is being done in the name of the Lord. Let the Light shine.

Arthur Brisbane says that Aimee will win because she has courage. Sure, she will win if she stands pat and her confidential secretary refuses to go over to the enemy. There appears to be nothing to confess.

Petroleum

THREE centuries ago Father Joseph de la Roche d'Allion, a monk of the Franciscan order, discovered the historic Seneca Indian oil spring near the town of Cuba, N. Y. This was the first discovery of petroleum by a white man on this continent. Cuba celebrated the other day. And a Seneca chief was one of the orators.

All this reminded Judson C. Welliver, a noted Washington correspondent, that "it is among the marvels of American development that a resource so long known and used in the old world should have found its real utilization on the grand scale here in a new world. For fully six thousand years men have used petroleum in the Mesopotamia-Persia country, but not until its higher uses and true values were developed here in America did it come into its own as one of the most used and useful of all the natural resources."

Now one field, the Seminole, in the state of Oklahoma, has broken the world's record as a producer of petroleum in a single year. Indeed, the Seminole field flooded the petroleum world with 65,000,000 barrels of petroleum in less than twelve months.

Garner On Tax Reduction

REPRESENTATIVE JOHN N. Garner of Texas is a member of the powerful ways and means committee of the house. There is a treasury surplus of $500,000,000. Representative Green of Iowa is the chairman of the committee. He would make a cut in incomes under $50,000.

Representative Garner is for the appeal of all the nuisance and automobile tax levies. Garner is a wise lawmaker. A year ago he said the surplus would reach $400,000,000 at the end of the year 1927, republican leaders said it would not go beyond $185,000,000. Treasury officials said it.

Republican senators and representatives said it. Garner is pursuing a watch and wait policy.

He isn't going to commit himself until the ways and means committee assembles for business. Then he promises to tell the republican leaders a few things about taxation and tax reduction.

A surplus of $500,000,000 is easier to handle than a deficit of $500,000,000, but why should a half billion dollars be taken out of the pockets of the people when the administration did not need it to meet governmental expense?

Important

"THE most pressing problem of education and the need of the people of the world today is more knowledge and better trained minds, hearts and hands," President T. O. Walton of the A. and M. college remarked in an address to three thousand farmers. Hasn't it been the most pressing problem from the beginning? Is there anything new about the problem? Is there anything startling? Like the beggar at the gate, it has been in evidence since civilized time made its bow to the monkeys in the tree tops.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—A sports writer of a daily told me this story the other night about Louis Angel Firpo, the South American aspirant for the heavyweight boxing title. A group of newspaper men gave a dinner in honor of the man they had dubbed the Wild Bull of the Pampas. When the coffee came, one of the men started the customary plate for donations to the waiter at the table. By the time the plate reached Firpo there was quite a pile of bills and silver on it. Firpo reached out and took all the money from the plate and his naive eyes lighted up with pleasure. "Ees dees for me?" he asked hypothetically, and without waiting for an answer pocketed the money, saying: "Tanks so motch."

One of the old-time sucker rackets has entered into a profitable season. Down near the battery the other day I penetrated a crowd gathered around a hard-faced young man. This racketeer shooed away women by telling them he had an exhibition for men only. When the women had gone, he extracted from a small grip a bunch of small packets. Leaning forward leeringly, he began the old spiel. These packets, he said, contained a dozen pictures each, imported from Paris. Instead of selling them for a dollar, as they were sold in Paris, he was going to sell them for 10 cents a package while they lasted.

He proceeded to elaborate upon the humid nature of the picturs. As he became more and more confidential and suggestive about the pictures he had to offer, the adenoidal morons about him began to reach into their pockets for dimes. He admonished each buyer: "Don't open them until you get home or you will get into trouble," and "Don't let the cops see you open these." In two minutes he had sold $2 worth. Then the suave trickster picked up his grip and hurriedly departed to repeat the performance a few blocks away.

The suckers, of course, open their packages to find some ordinary pictures of movie stars of the sort that used to be given away with cigarets. The amount is too small and the transaction too shady for anyone to complain to the police.

At Columbus Circle yesterday I saw a large sedan drive up and stop for traffic. It was dustcoated and the whole car was loaded to the gunwales with suitcases, tent camping outfit and so forth. Inside there were two youths and two girls, all dressed in khaki. I went around to look at the license patle and across the rear window a hand lettered sign announced "Kingston to New York." The point is a just a little more than 50 miles.

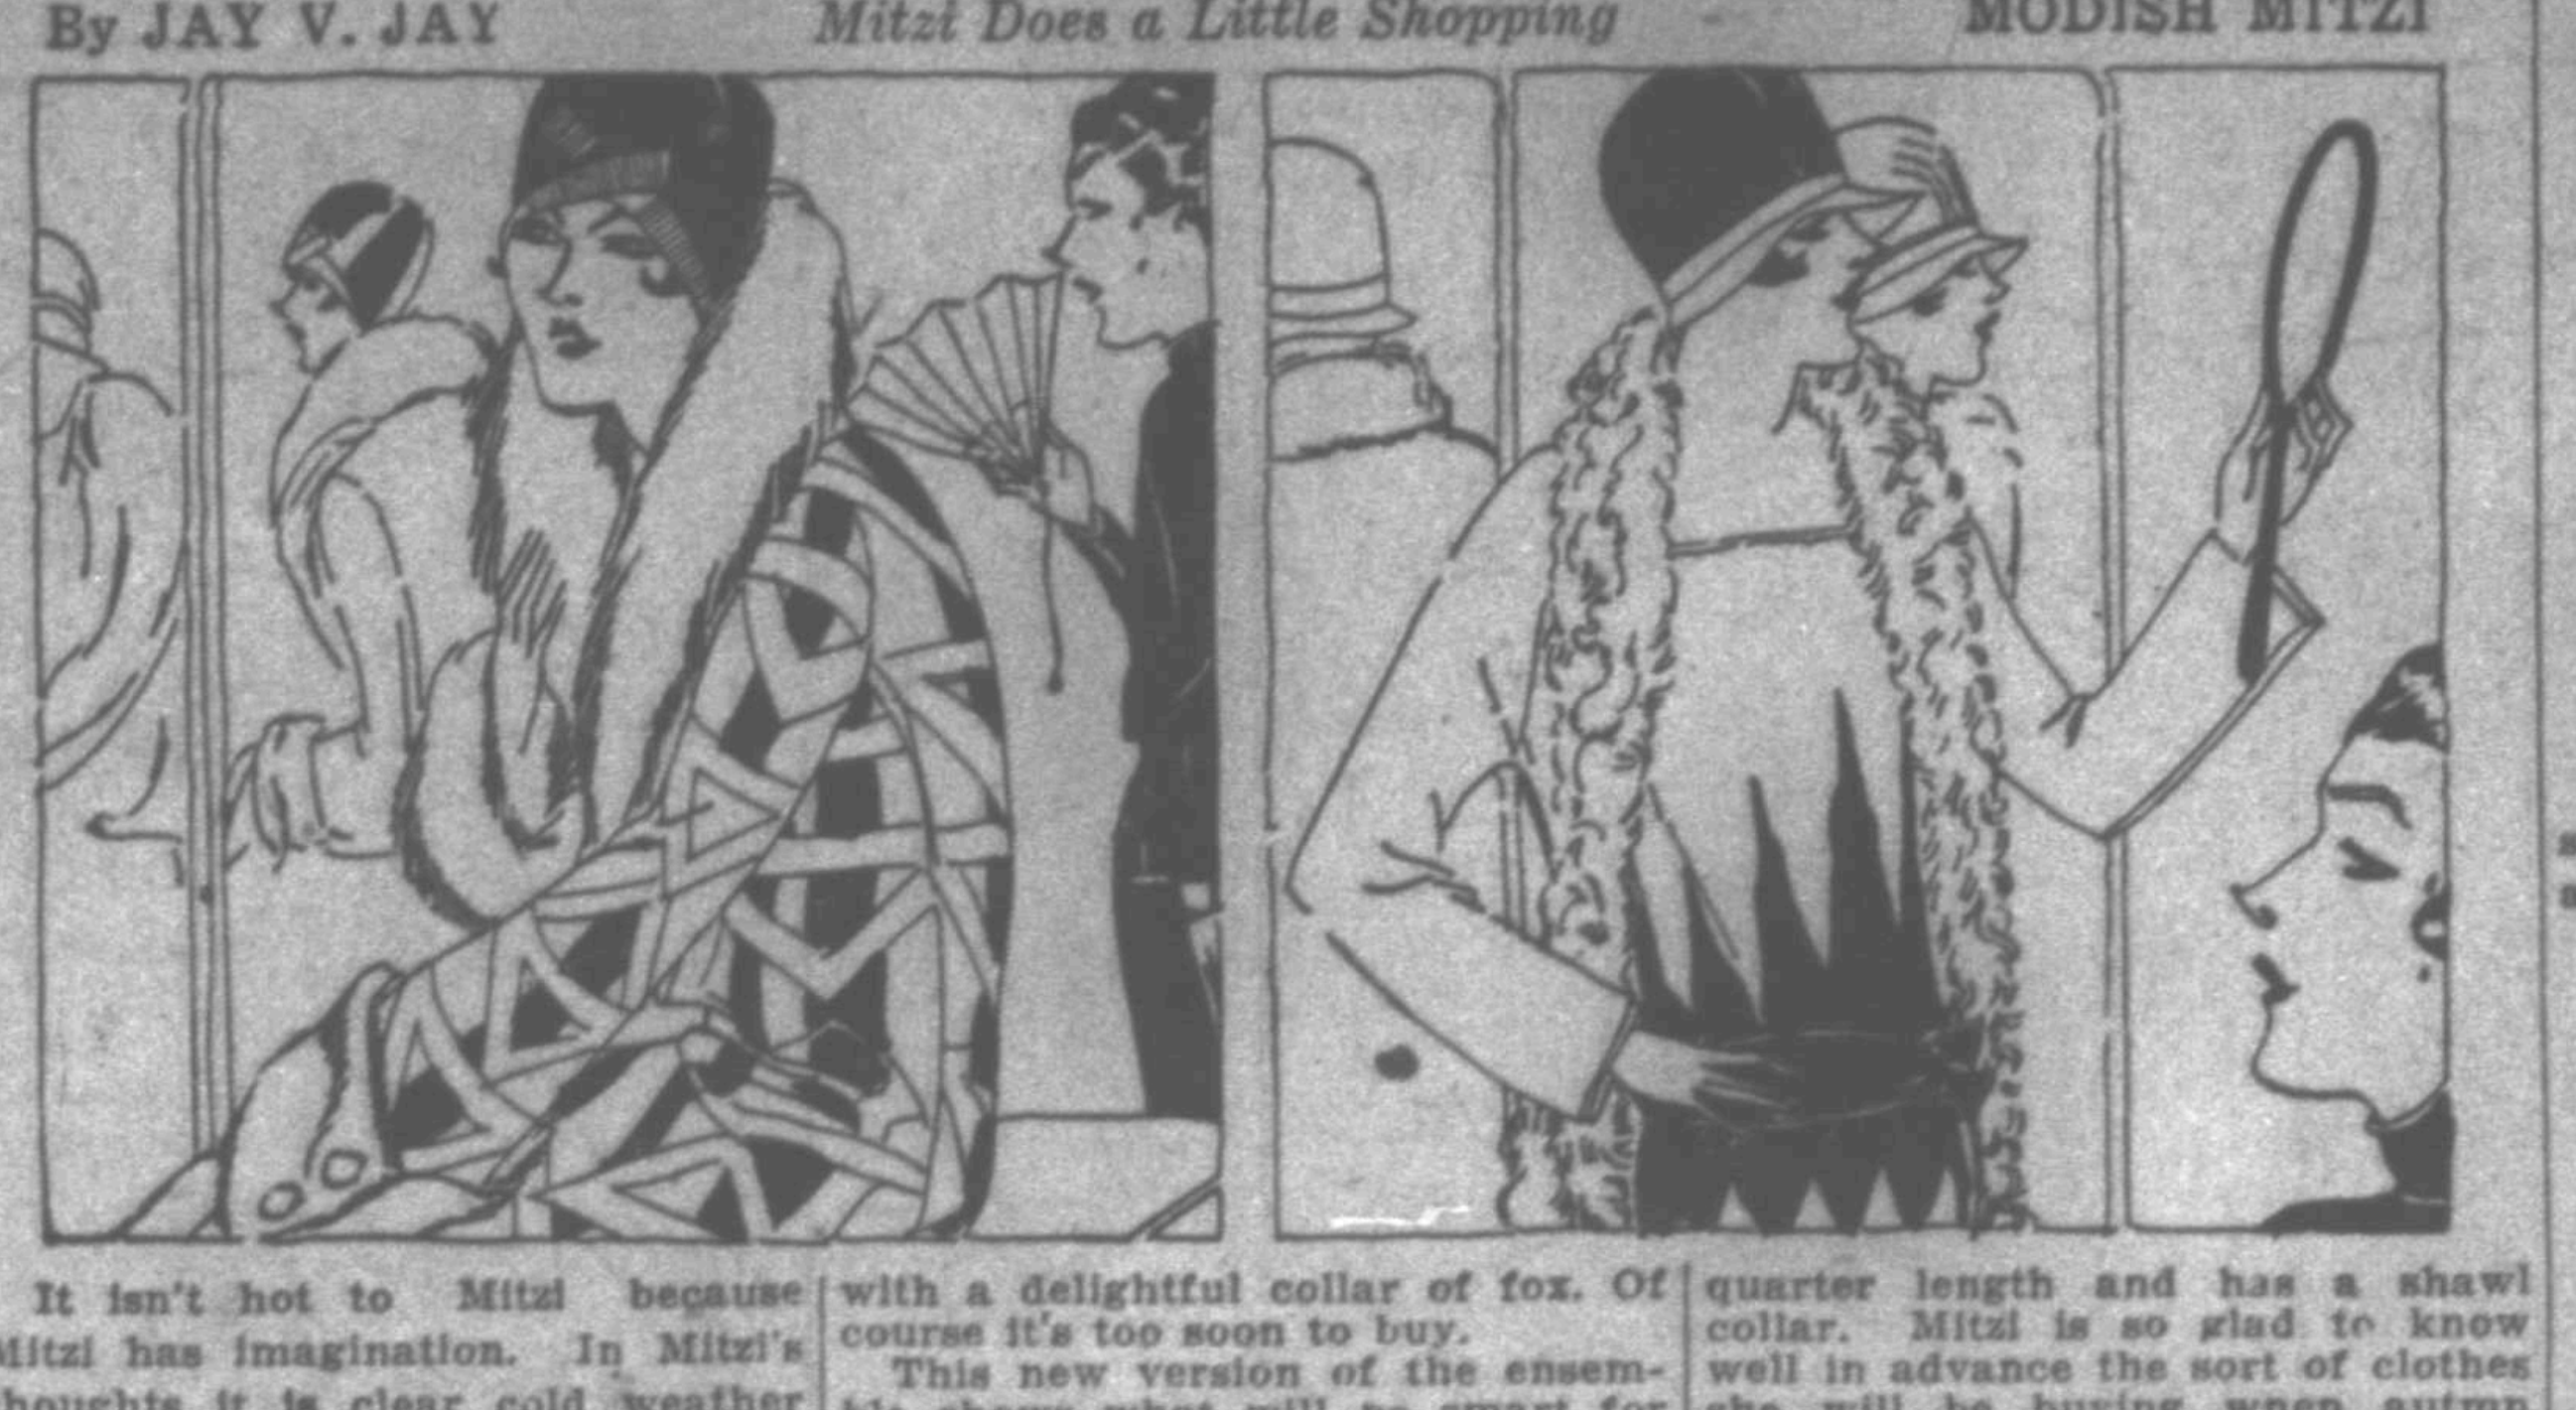
I discovered the other day that all the stenographers, file clerks, and order clerks in at least one big business establishment in New York, are not permitted to enter or leave the building by the passenger elevator. They have to take the freight elevator and descend to an alley.

Important changes in the training of druggists in order that they should be qualified to work as pathologists, bacteriologists and X-ray operators, were advocated at the British Pharmaceutical Conference held at Brighton, England, recently.

MODISH MITZI

By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi Does a Little Shopping



It isn't hot to Mitzi because Mitzi has imagination. In Mitzi's thoughts it is clear cold weather and this advance model of the fall top coat is a light weight woolen with a delightful collar of fox. Of course it's too soon to buy.

This new version of the ensemble shows what will be smart for fall. The dress is joined in a modernistic fashion, the coat is three-quarter length and has a shawl collar. Mitzi is so glad to know well in advance the sort of clothes she will be buying when autmn really comes.

This topcoat of wool plaid with its collar of red fox would be awfully nice to have even now if they went up into the mountains for a few weeks. It's interesting to note that the belt indicates an almost normal waistline and that the sleeves widen slightly at the wrist with no cuffs.

Not that the heat really prevented Mitzi from buying fall clothes! Just that in a few weeks more there will be so many more to choose from. She has had a very busy day, but before she goes home she must really buy herself this lipstick with an odd littl cap—she's never seen one before.

Tomorrow—Summer Frocks.

Sally's Shoulders

READ THIS FIRST:

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who has not lived with her mother for nine years. The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU, the apple of his mother's eye, and MILLIE, a young siren, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for Mr. Peevey downtown afternoons.

In the flat below the Jeromes lives young TED SLOAN, an auto salesman, who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man in whom she is interested is JOHN NYE, whose offices are across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye hires the flirtatious Millie to work for him as his secretary, but leaves town unexpectedly the day she starts. Millie promises to wait until he returns, and adds that she needs a little rest.

She takes no salary from Nye for this period, but borrows from Sally. So does Beau, who works in a bank for a small salary. Finally Sally, "flat broke," goes to her AUNT EMILY JEROME for some money, but Aunt Emily plans to go into the tea house business and needs all she has.

Then Beau suddenly blossoms out with so many new things that Sally begins to suspicion him, especially as he has never been too honest. Ted Sloan says he gave him a check for $10, but Sally knows Beau had more than that, although he refused to pay for a party given at the flat by his girl, MABEL WILMOT.

Nye returns and Millie starts work for him. When she learns that his father owns the Nye-Naylor building she begins to play up to him, and he seems to fall in love with her. On a Saturday afternoon Millie leaves her mother, desperately sick in the flat, and goes out to meet him. Sally comes home and calls a doctor.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV

Aunt Emily came popping into the flat that night between 8 and 9.

"I just had a feeling that something was wrong here," she said to Sally when she heard about Mrs. Jerome's attack.

Aunt Emily had a most uncanny way of suspecting when things were not going smoothly with the Jeromes. She had a nose for misfortune, and she could scent bad luck from afar — the way some people can tell when a storm is coming.

"You wouldn't be sick like this if you weren't so lazy, and didn't make such a pig of yourself at meals," she snapped at her sister-in-law when she went in to see her.

Mrs. Jeroeme only groaned and turned her face to the wall. She was no match for Aunt Sally, and she had sense enough to know it.

"Yes, and you can groan and moan and all but ask me to get out!" went on Aunt Emily, with a nod of her head. "But I'm not going until I've had my say—and I tell you that you're going to die in one of these attacks some day unless you stop over-eating the way you do!"

Mrs. Jerome rolled over in bed and turned up beseeching eyes to Sally. "Must I listen to all this?" she asked, helplessly. "Can't you get her out and make her stay out? I'm too sick to listen to her."

"You hate to hear the truth—that's all that ails you!" was Aunt Emily's parting shot.

But later, when smart young Dr. Amblerside came, he said much the same thing that Aunt Emily had said.

"She has another of her attacks of acute indigestion — at least, that's how it looks to me," he told the anxious Sally. "I've been telling her for years that she eats too much and doesn't move around enough."

Mrs. Jerome gazed at him silently. There was intense fury in her face and she did not say "Good-night" to him when he left. She hated to be told that she ate too much.

"You don't look so well yourself," the doctor told Sally on his way out, bag and hat in hand, "Overworking, aren't you?"

Sally shook her head as she looked at him. Her blue eyes were clouded with the heat, her face was white under the soft damp rings of her hair.

"Indeed I'm not," she said. "You see I only work a half-day down town. I'm just around home the rest of the time.'

He said nothing. But he went away with a vision of her tired face with lines of strain around the lovely mouth, and of the small work-roughened hand that had held out his five-dollar fee for him.

He guessed more about her than she knew.

• • •

Once in his life, at least, every man makes a fool out of himself over a woman.

And that was exactly what John Nye was doing over little Millie Jerome.

Sally knew it the minute she saw them enter the flat together that Saturday night.

She had been nodding over her mending basket and had not heard them come up the stairs and unlock the door. But suddenly they were in the room with her—Millie radiant in the lamp-light and John Nye, darkly handsome, looking at her as if she were the only thing in the world for him.

Her heart seemed to give a great throb in her breast and then stand still, as she caught that glance. But she gave no outward sign of what she felt.

"Well, if I'd known you were bringing Mr. Nye up I'd have changed my dress, Millie," she said looking at them both with her natural sweetness of expression. "Won't you—would you like some lemonade? I'll make some."

She started up from her chair. Her whole impulse was to escape—to get away, in her old cap and apron, to the kitchen where, she told herself fiercely, she belonged. . . . Millie, in airy white, with her soft little snowflake of a hand on John Nye's coatsleeve, made her feel like Cinderella, all at once.

The familiar kitchen seemed to welcome her—to twinkle at her comfortingly—when she went out to crack ice and squeeze lemons into the old glass pitcher.

"You look a perfect sight," she told her reflection in the mirror over the sink. "But what's the difference. John Nye doesn't know you're on earth tonight."

Millie was perched on the arm of John Nye's chair when she returned to the lamp-lit living room. She was trying to make his cigaret lighter work, and he was watching her with the same intense look in his eyes.

"Let me show you how to do it," he was saying, and he covered her little fingers with his hand, as he showed her how to strike a light to his cigaret.

"Have a smoke?" he asked, offering her his case.

Millie smoked constantly, but now she shook her gleaming head. "Little Millie never smokes," she said in her best baby-talk, and even that didn't seem to disgust John Nye.

On the other hand, it seemed to charm and amuse him. "He's pretty far gone," said Sally to herself, as she watched him, and the thought was dull agony to her.

She picked up Millie's coat and hat and started out of the room once more. This time she was not going to come back, she firmly made up her mind.

"Where's Momsie?" asked Millie, who never spoke lovingly of her mother unless there was a man around to listen to her.

Sally's eyes widened. "Why, she's in bed, of course," she answered. "You knew she was sick when you left her this afternoon."

Millie shook her head. "Why, no, darling. You've got your dates mixed. She was all right this afternoon," she fibbed smoothly and convincingly. "Otherwise I'd never have left the house—"

She smiled straight down into John Nye's eyes. "Not even with you!" she said. "Mother always comes first with me. She always has."

And, leaving that brazen untruth to get in its work, she swayed out of the room like a tall lily blown in a breeze. John Nye's dark eyes followed her hungrily.

Sally saw that before she got out of the room—just how, she never knew.

But presently she was in the rear hall, on her way to the bedroom at the back. There was a light in it, and Millie was standing before the dresser, carefully outlining her soft mouth with lipstick.

"I thought you were going in to see how Mother was," Sally said to her and her voice was cold.

Millie looked bored. "Oh, don't be silly," she answered calmly. "I know there's nothing really the matter with her. She just stuffs herself, and then her tummy aches. she was yipping all over the place. Tell me, lovey, have I too much red on my mouth?"

She swung around tightly, her skirts billowing out from her slender hips, and softly closed the bedroom door. Then she dived into the pockets of the white coat and showed Sally what she had brought home from her evening with John Nye.

"Honey, his pockets are just full of galloping dollars," she whispered joyfully. "He just doesn't know how to spend enough money. I forgot my vanity case and he stopped in at a jewelry store and bought me this! Isn't it lovely?"

"It" was a silver vanity case. A square one with a compartment for cigarets and matches, and cunning little rouge and powder puffs.

"Too bad I forgot my own, isn't it?" drawled Millie, and she winked one of her heavenly blue eyes. "Too bad—yee weekum!"

"Yee Weekum" was Millie's way of saying "Yes, indeed."

• • •

The next morning Sally held a family council at the breakfast table over the coffee and the chopped apple cake.

"I've got to have some money from you two this week," she said, looking gravely from Beau to Millie.

They both looked back at her wordlessly. They always were sulky and silent in the morning when they first got up.

It was fully three minutes before Beau growled that there wasn't any use in asking him for money just then.

"I owed most of my salary this week before I got it," he explained. "And then I took Mabel out to eat last night—and she sure can murder the menu. That meal made a ten-dollar bill look like a postage stamp.'

He grinned suddenly, and took his fifth large piece of apple cake that Sally had bought with her own money.

Then he nodded at Millie, cross-looking and rosy as a baby, on the other side of the table.

"Why don't you ask Jessie James, the girl bandit, to lend you some?" he asked Sally. "She can borrow some from that new boss of hers who's got such a crush on her."

"Borrow!" repeated Sally. "Borrow! Why you and Millie don't have to borrow from anybody. You make plenty—and all I ask you to do is to give me ten dollars every week. But I can't get you to do it, somehow."

Millie set her mouth firmly. "I'll give you my ten when Beau gives you his," she declared. "And not one minute sooner!'

There was a long silence, broken by the drowsy buzz of a fly above the sunny table and the distant sound of church bells.

Beau got up abruptly and went out of the room.

His voice came back to them, sharp and strained. "Oh, my lord, I wish you'd stop talking about money! If you don't I'm going to go crazy!"

Millie stared at Sally in astonishment. "Well, now what's the meaning of that!" she gasped. "Has he lost his blooming mind?'"

Sally shook her head. She had seen the look of anxiety on Beau's face, and she knew that he "hadn't lost his blooming mind," but was only at his wits' end about something. . . . About money, of course.

Money and love—they were the only things that really mattered to people, weren't they?

Money—and love. She thought of John Nye and Millie and herself. The three of them.

HEALTH AND DIET ADVICE

TREATMENT AFTER RHEUMATIC FEVER.

After the rheumatic fever has subsided and the temperature is again normal, the patient will find himself very weak and, in many cases, he will be unable to support his own weight for a few days. Exercise should be started cautiously, first in bed, remembering to keep the body well covered with woolen bedclothing or woolen garments. However, no exercise of any kind should be taken as long as there is the slightest fever.

When the fever has been normal for at least twenty-four hours, patient should start taking light finger and arm exercises, and finally mild exercises with the legs. As soon as the patient can support his own weight he should take short walks through the rooms of the house, taking only a few steps at first and gradually increasing the distance, with long periods of rest in between times.

There will be a very slow increase of appetite, and no heavy food should be used for several days. The non-starchy vegetables, such as spinach, string beans, summer squash, etc., may be used, either cooked or raw, and the patient should be encouraged to eat liberally of these vegetables even though not having much appetite. This is because, while these vegetables are low in food value, they furnish bulky material which will assist in bringing away much poisonous mucus from the alimentary tract and assist in getting the digestive system in good condition to take care of more nourishing foods.

One enema should be continued for several weeks in order to assure proper intestinal cleanliness.

As soon as the appetite returns, an egg or two a day may be added to the diet, together with well browned Melba toast. Then, after a few days, a quarter of a pound of lean meat should be taken daily if the appetite dictates. Starches and sugars should not be used for some time.

The patient must not try to go back to regular duties until he is sufficiently strong, and until the heart action is practically normal. The pulse will be rapid at first, but, with a proper health-building regime, will slow down to normal within a short time.

The one who has been through a spell of rheumatic fever must remember that it can be produced again in the same manner as before. It will be well for him to read over again the first of these articles which appeared on Tuesday and Wednesday.

QUESTION: Mrs. Myrtle K. asks: "Are kidney stones really made of stone, and if so, how is it possible to dissolve them?"

ANSWER—Kidney stones are of various kinds. They are made of uric acid crystals, urates, oxalate of lime, phosphate crystals, calcium carbonate, cystine, carbonate of lime, xanthine and indigo. These crystals and minerals are cemented together into differently shaped stones, but are rarely of the same composition as ordinary stones of the soil. Many of these stones can be dissolved under proper dietetic treatment. If the chemistry of the urine is properly changed, the cemented crystals lose their adherence to each other and pass out in the form of "gravel." Such remedies as muriatic acid are sometimes used to dissolve these stones but the safest and sanest method is through changing the chemistry of the urine by scientific dietetics.

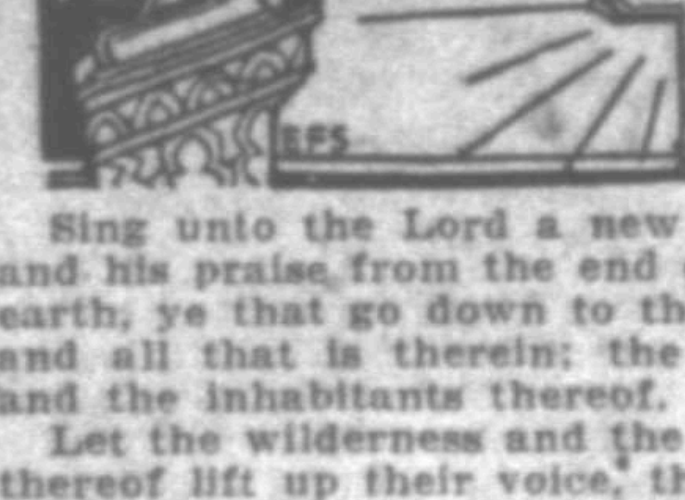
QUESTION: Mrs. Wm. J. L. writes: "I would like to take a sea voyage, but I am such a poor sailor. Do you think I could get over my tendency to seasickness if I eat only certain kinds of food?"

ANSWER—It is probably true that a vast amount of seasickness is caused simply by biliousness. Yet, there are many people in good health who become nauseated whenever they sit in a swing or are subjected to any regular motion such as they get when on a ship. This may be due to defects of vision which can be cured by properly fitted glasses; or it may be caused by an improper amount of the balancing fluid in the inner ear. In the latter case, one may be unable to overcome the trouble except by staying in bed, lying in a horizontal position. This will generally overcome seasickness, no matter what the cause. This would be a good time for you to try a fruit fast, using only one kind of fruit on any one day.

QUESTION: Mrs. L. C. writes: "My son, twenty-one, is suffering from colitis. The doctor says it will take a long time to cure him and that he must not eat meat. He is not living at home but in a boarding house so I can not regulate his diet. How best could I help him?"

ANSWER—Tell your son to move from the boarding house, as it is the last place in the world where one can get a special diet such as he requires for the cure of colitis. The doctor was right when he said it would take a long time to bring about a cure, but wrong when he said that meat produces colitis. "Colon-itis" simply means inflammation of the colon, which comes from dietetic errors of all kinds.. I advise your son to eat in a restaurant or cafeteria where he can select the proper foods and thus follow the menus which appear in this paper every Saturday.

The ONE-MINUTE PULPIT



Sing unto the Lord a new song, and his praise from the end of the earth, ye that go down to the sea, and all that is therein; the isles, and the inhabitants thereof.

Let the wilderness and the cities thereof lift up their voice, the villages that Kedar doth inhabit, let the inhabitants of the rock sing, let them shout from the top of the mountains.

Let them give glory unto the Lord, and declare His praise in the islands.—Isaiah 42:10-14.

SOFT PICKIN'S NEXT?

After an almost uninterrupted run of eight setbacks by the margin of one run, your Spudders grab at a last straw, so to speak, starting with Friday afternoon on the Beaumont gravy train ride.

* * *

Shreveport, fresh from cleaning the cellar habitues in a series sweep, bear down on Buffville while the Williams crew assails the dungeon dwellers in four games. Some of that lost territory should be regained before Sunday night which will close the Spudder stay in Beaumont at the end of a double header that afternoon.

* * *

That was a stiff dose for Freddy Fussell to take yesterday, but the one-run victims were just as due to lose as not with a staff that has been working out of turn and a portsider, just off the hospital roster, shoved into the affray. Any afternoon any Texas club touches Fussell for a dozen blows you can figure the wronghander is working under some kind of a physical handicap.

* * *

Who was it pulled that crack, "Sinec the Cards can't win in the National league they're trying their best in the Texas?" Shake.

* * *

The only other time this year I can recall anybody sweeping a series on us was when San Antonio swept that one-game series the first jaunt north.

* * *

Benton, Lamb and Jenkins had their eyes attuned Thursday. It can't be long now until the rest of the gang shakes off the slump and returns to that old cannonading form.

* * *

YUS

"Yeah, Jack Gorman grabs hold the ropes and then pie-eyed policeman jumps into the ring and wants to arrest ME! ME, who done nutting!" sobs the mighty Mike Reed, greatest ring orator to thrust himself on the local cauliflower colony since the random visits of Dirty Dick Daviscourt couple of years back.

CRACKS FROM CONSUMERS

Dear Blondy.

I read where a Dallas sports writer says Randolph Moore and Max West of Waco and Lyman Lamb of Wichita Falls are the three best outfielders in the league.

Isn't there any more justice? How about Tom Jenkins and Pug Griffin?

Yours for the Spudders,
J. H. S. (A close fan)

Answer: It's all a matter of opinion. Anyhow, what do we care what a DALLAS sports writer says?

Don't All Rush

SPORTS SWEEP SHIPPER SERIES.

BEAUMONT, Aug. 4. (AP)—The Shreveport Sports quit Beaumont tonight 36 runs, 49 hits and three games rich, having defeated the Exporters this afternoon, 9 to 0 to sweep the series by decisive scores. Grady Adkins opposed John Morgan and Lefty Snow, a couple of rookies, and had the best of it all the way. The score:

MARTIN LOSES BOUT

Buster Martin, Wichita Falls heavyweight boxer, lost his first start in the east Wednesday night.

Buster took the count in the seventh round of a scheduled 12-rounder in Humbert Fugazy's New York fight show under the advances of the tough and heavy-hitting Harold Mays of Bayonne.

Buster, apparently, was rushed forward too quickly by his manager. Instead of giving him a few "feeder" and conditioning bouts, the mgr. shot Martin into the ring against one of the toughest heavies in the game right at the start.

CARDINALS NIP SPUDDERS, 5-4

St. Louis Interests Sweep Three-Game Series

HOUSTON, Aug. 4.—Houston came back in the ninth at Lefty Fussell's expense and nosed out a 5-4 victory, making it a clean sweep of the three-game series for the Buffs over the league-leading Wichita Falls Spudders.

The Spudders batted around in the fourth inning and scored four runs, but Carleton relieved Penner and thereafter the Wichita Falls attack was lukewarm.

Houston pecked away at Fussell, scoring one run at a time until the Mathesmen finally forged over with a victory just as it began to appear the game was going into extra innings.

The first Houston run came in the first inning. Hock opened with a bunt down the first base line and beat it out. Fussell struck out Martin. Orsatti bunted at third and beat it out, placing Hock on second. Roettger forced Orsatti at second. He grounded to Turgeon who threw to Benton. Benton threw to LaFayette at second in try for a double play and the first baseman dropped the ball. It rolled to the stand and Hock scored.

Threat Unfulfilled

The Spudders threatened in the second after there was one out when Jenkins and Benton singled in succession, but Swenson fouled to the catcher and LaFayette grounded out to the box.

Henry started the second inning for Houston with a single to left. Warwick singled over short and Henry stopped at second. Kane bunted down the third base line, a sacrifice, advancing both runners a base. Penner struck out. Hock followed with a single to left, scoring Henry and sending Warwick to third. Martin grounded out to Swenson at third.

Orsatti opened the Buff third with a single to center. Roettger sacrificed. Orsatti stole third and scored on a wild pitch. Taylor flied out to center and Henry grounded out to second.

Then We Get Well

The Spudders forged into the lead in the fourth with a hard batting attack that brought four runs. Griffin started the inning with a base on balls. He went to third base when Lamb hit a two-bagger to right field. Jenkins followed with a stiff single to center, scoring both Griffin and Lamb who made a great sprint for the plate and won out by a hair. Benton singled to center. Jenkins drew up at third and Benton made second when Roettger kicked the bounder. Swenson flied out to center and Jenkins scored after the catch. Benton went to third on the play. Lapan grounded to short and a play was made at the plate for Benton. Benton charged back to third and was safe when Taylor dropped the throw to the base. Lapan was safe at first on fielder's choice. Fussell followed with a single to right field, scoring Benton and sending Lapan to second. Carleton relieved Penner and walked LaFayette. Turgeon forced Lapan at the plate, Taylor to Warwick. Griffin grounded out to third.

Tied In Fifth

Houston tied the score in the fifth. Martin doubled to center. Orsatti sacrificed, sending Martin to third. Roettger hoisted a fly to deep center and Martin scored after the catch.

Warwick opened the Houston half of the ninth inning with a two-bagger to the left field fence. Kane hit to third and Swenson caught Warwick on the base path. Kane was safe at first base. Carleton forced Kane at second. Hock singled to right, sending Kane to third and Hock beat out an infield hit, Carleton scoring with the winning run.

SEAHAWKS WIN AGAIN

LAREDO, Aug. 4.(AP)—The Corpus Christi Seahawks took their second straight game from the Laredo Oilers at the border city today by a score of 8 to 5 in the playoff series for the Texas Valley league pennant.

Hallie Crumpton, Seahawk third baseman, featured with two homeruns during the game.

The teams play at Corpus Christit Saturday and Sunday. Friday is an off day.

ELECTRIS 11, CLARA 6

The Texas Electric Service company defeated the Gulf team at Clara Thursday afternoon by the score of 11 to 6. The Killowatts from Wichita Falls knocked Jordan, Gulf ace, from the hill in the sixth inning and then continued to hammer out a win. Bill Andree worked the first part of the game but in the third he gave way to Lewis who held them and the Blue finished up the game for the Kilowatts.

JONES BEATS PESEK

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4. (AP)—Paul Jones, youthful Texas wrestler, defeated John Pesek, the Nebraska "tigerman," two out of three falls here Wednesday night, thereby winning the right to meet Joe Stecher, who claims the heavyweight mat title, in a so-called championship match.

The Texan after losing the first fall came back to take the next two in short order. Pesek downed Jones for the first fall in 37 minutes. Jones garnered the second within eight minutes and the third in 12 minutes. The Texan threw Pesek from the ring after five minutes of grappling for the deciding fall. Pesek came back within the ropes in a groggy state and yielded a few minutes later to one of Jones' hook body scissors holds.

Gorman Meets Reed To Finish

Coast Flash Takes On Joe In Prelim Bout

Jack Gorman and Mike Reed, arch rivals, bitter foes and whatnot, will return Tuesday in the main event of the weekly Ross stadium wrestling show, Matchmaker A. B. Ross said Thursday. It's to be a finish match, New York commission rules, Ross said.

Bobby Samson, Pacific Coaster, and junior middleweight champ, tackles Yaqui Joe, the Sonora Indian, in a finish melee prelim to the Gorman-Reed wrangle. Samson is rated as the fastest man in the mat game today.

Spudders Invade Beaumont Today

Your sorely beset Wichita Falls Spudders pack up this a. m. and leave that Houston place where they dropped three straight by one-run margins and invade the home of the cellarites, Beaumont, Friday afternoon for the first of a four-game series in three days.

Either young Herb Cobb or Milt Steengrafe is expected to open on the hill for the loop toppers.

After that series loss in Houston the Spudders are six and a half games ahead of Houston. They expect to steal back a bunch of that lost ground at expense of the poor dungeon dabblers.

Spudders hook with Shippers in double header Sunday.

Texan Paired On Davis Cup Team

AUSTIN, Aug. 4. (AP)—A telegram to the Austin Statesman from Berkeley Bell, youthful tennis phenom, now at Seabright, N. J., says that Lewis N. White of Austin has been paired with Dick Williams on America's Davis cup team. Bell says that the committee "decided to pair Tilden and Hunter as one team and then pair Lewis White with Dick Williams." He said that the Williams-White team "appeared to be a brilliant combination."

Twilighters Play 3 to 3 Tie Game

Hogue, Ross, Allison Star In 11-Inning Battle

For the third time this year, the Jackson Tire and Municipal Gassers battled to darkness while they were still deadlocked at a 3 to 3 tie with 11 innings back of them. It was a great hurling battle between Ronie Glidewell for the Gassers and Harry Geyer for the Tiremen. Glidewell was the tough luck pitcher of the day when he pitched what should have been 11 innings of shut-out ball with nine strikeouts and not a walk to mar his record for the day.

Geyer fanned eight men and allowed but one earned run and this came in the first inning on a pop fly single that should have been handled with ease. Geyer walked two men and for the last six innings he held the Gas crew down without a score while Glidewell finished with a five-inning spurt.

Othel Hogue scampered about on second for the Jackson Tire team in great style and several times he cut down pending rallies with great catches. Shorty Ross and Olin Harvey staged a merry battle for the short stopping honors. On first base was another contest of handling low, high, wide and handsome throws between Cecil Allison and Bud Osborne.

Olin Harvey copped off the first honors by not only playing a great game in the field, but in leading the hitters with two singles, a triple and a walk as well as pilfering three bases in the afternoon. He scored two of the Gassers three runs.

FORD FAVORS HERB HOOVER

Auto Manufacturer Okehs Hoover For President

DETROIT, Aug. 4. (AP)—Herbert Hoover was indorsed as the logical candidate for the Republican presidential nomination to succeed Calvin Coolidge, in a statement issued here today by Henry Ford. The manufacturer said the president is sincere in his decision not to become a candidate.

Mr. Ford's statement follows:

Coolidge Sincere.

"No one who knows President Coolidge will doubt his sincerity in declining to run again. It is a poor compliment to his character to twist his words from their plain meaning or to seek a loophole by which that meaning may be escaped.

"Mr. Coolidge evidently has thought the whole matter out with his usual care and has decided his course. No other president has so nearly possessed the power to break the third term tradition, but he has chosen not to use that power.

"In the time and manner of his announcement, Mr. Coolidge has allowed the country ample time for the consideration of his successor.

"For myself, I think that Herbert Hoover is the logical Republican candidate. This is a business generation and he is a business man. His experience as engineer, business administrator and cabinet member has been varied and successful and has really been a training for the presidency.

People Facor Him.

"He is in the prime of life, active and accustomed to tackling great tasks hopefully and bearing great burdens cheerfully. The American people have subconsciously thought of him as presidential material for a number of years.

"He is the type of man to succeed Calvin Coolidge."

It Isn't The Brew But the Noise, He Finds

A series of explosions that resembled gunshots, could have been the shots of giant firecrackers, and might have been exploding "home brew" called officers of the city force to the residence of a Wichita Falls man late Thursday afternoon.

Whatever the cause of the noise, neighbors complained. Investigating officers confiscated over a dozen bottles of beer and filed a complaint of disturbing the peace against the man.

RAY COLLINS CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS FOR SHUT DOWN PLAN

UMPIRE GOES OUT IN FIELD

Collins Thinks Price Cut Is Averted

Ray Collins established headquarters in the heart of the Seminole field last night, and will personally direct the shutdown program. He will maintain offices on the Pure Oil company's Strothers' lease in the Earlsboro pool. The umpire has four assistants in the field.

The operators met yesterday morning in the offices of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association when all but the Texas Company agreed to the curtailment. E. J. Nicklos, general manager of The Texas in the Mid-Continent field, agreed at the meeting to recommend the New York offices accept the agreement. The New York offices wired approval yesterday afternoon.

To Avert Cut

"In view of the Pennsylvania crude cut of 25 cents Monday and the Somerset 20-cent reduction Tuesday I believe a Mid-Continent cut could have been expected soon unless drastic action was taken in the Seminole area," Mr. Collins said. "Of course I have no way of gauging future oil prices but I am sure the eastern reductions were only harbingers of what might have been expected here.

"I don't think I am going to have much trouble in carrying out this agreement. The representatives of the companies who met today sought no unfair advantage for themselves."

While the Seminole field production has declined approximately 21,000 barrels daily since Saturday morning. Mr. Collins declares that is no indication of the peak.

"Think of the wells that are drilling," he continued. "If something is not done I would not be surprised to see that production leap to 600,000 or 700,000 barrels daily. In the event we had no curtailment policy the peak might be expected about October 1."

Make Daily Report

Beginning Friday morning Mr. Collins said his staff would make a daily report to all operators and the corporation commission on the preceding 24 hours' production. This report will be detailed as to companies, showing the curtailment in barrels in each instance, he said.

Under the agreement reached yesterday, Mr. Collins as special umpire, will be placed in charge and given unlimited authority to prorate the production and keep it within the established limit. The agreement does not concern drilling or runs to pipelines or storage—only production, it was explained. Following the custom of several weeks, permission to shoot wells must be procured from the umpire. Collins announced he would not allow shooting, except in wells where the offset had been shot previously.

To Pinch Wildcats

In case any operator differs with Collins as to his potential or proration it is provided the aggrieved person may appeal to the special committee which is given the power either to affirm or modify the umpire's orders. It was agreed that the rulings of this special committee will be regarded as final.

It was further agreed yesterday that "wildcats" now drilling, if proven to be producers will be pinched to 100 barrels a day until new zones can be established and the new areas included in the Seminole district proper.

Panhandle Operators Deepen Old Producers

AMARILLO, Aug. 4.—The discovery of deeper producing horizons in a number of places in the Panhandle is prompting the deepening of a lot of tests that were failures, or apparent failures, on top of the old known levels.

One of these, and a pivotal test, too, in the Mound Valley Oil company No. 1 Witter, in section 1, block V, of I. & G. N. survey, and to the northeast of White Deer, in eastern Carson county.

After being shut down months and months, this well has been cleaned out and is deepening, under the direction of the production department of the Gibson Oil corporation, which controls the Mound Valley company.

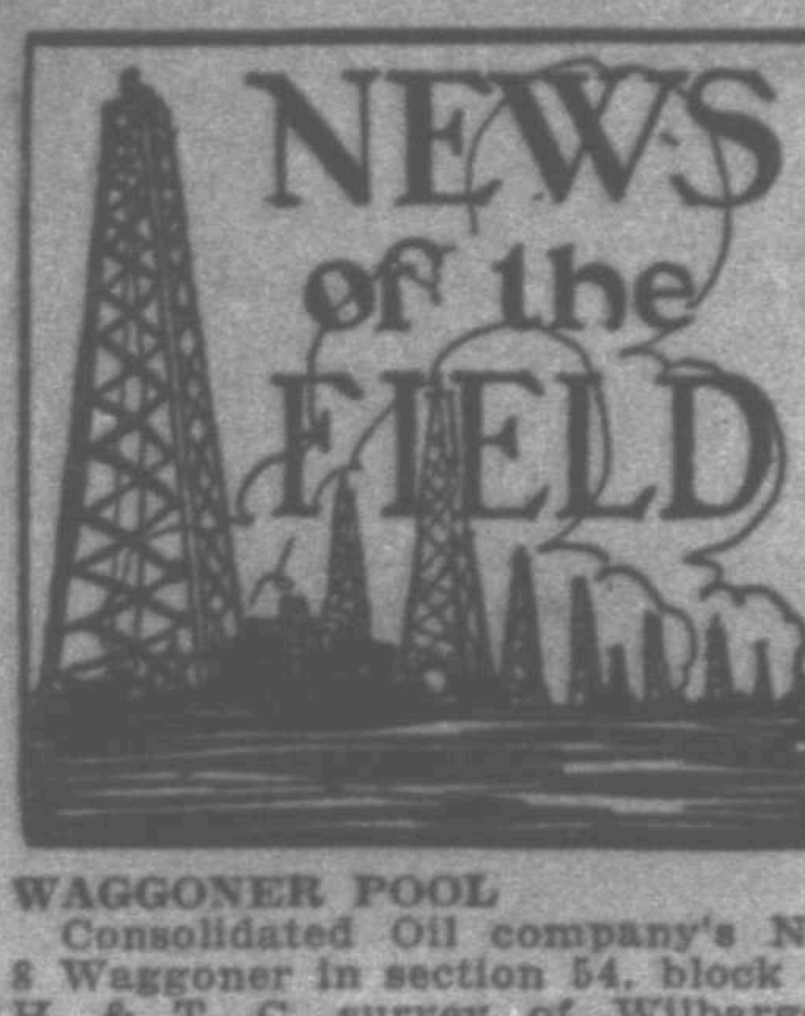
A slight show of oil, sufficient to dirty up the tools, was found at 3270 feet, according to official reports, and at last report the hole was below 3350 feet and going ahead.

Corn, Okla., To Be Put On Star Mail Route

CORN, Okla., Aug. 4.(Sp)—Corn will receive its mail one hour earlier each day if a movement started here to have a star route established from Weatherford to this place is accomplished. The route would assure an afternoon schedule.

TO IMPROVE PARK

TULIA, Aug. 4.(Sp)—Civic leaders here are sponsoring a move to make permanent improvements on the park tract set aside by the founders of Tulia, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Conner.



WAGGONER POOL

Consolidated Oil company's No. 8 Waggoner in section 54, block 7, H. & T. C. survey of Wilbarger county is flowing 75 barrels of oil with 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily from sand at 1219-41 feet. No. 6 on this lease, completed several weeks ago, is still flowing.

Two and a half miles southeast of this pool, Consolidated Oil company and Amon G. Carter are rigging up at the location for their No. 1 Wheeler.

MUENSTER AREA

Carey Brothers have cemented the pipe at 1370 feet in their No. 1 Walterscheid, just north of the Muenster pool, Cooke county, and will drill in to test Monday. The test was carried below 1700 feet and was plugged back to the shallow sand.

Hedrick-Camp Drilling company has set pipe and cemented on the sand at 1671 feet in their No. 8 Kleiss.

Housman and associates have resumed drilling with 2500 feet their object in the test on block 21, townsite.

Stahl, Lynch and Burrus are drilling at 800 feet in their No. 4 Koelzer.

HUMBLE'S CASTLEBERRY

Wilbarger county is getting more of its area proved up as productive oil land by the Humble Oil and Refining company which is running pipe to a sand at 1526-28 feet in No. 1 Castleberry, a wildcat located two miles southeast of the South Vernon pool. From the two feet of sand oil rose to a depth of 800 feet in the hole. The test is in section 67, block 14, H. & T. C. survey.

ARCHER COUNTY

C. G. Hart and associates spudded in and are down 140 feet in their No. 1 W. R. Brown, located in block 106, A. T. N. C. L. survey, Archer county.

THROCKMORTON COUNTY

Red Bank Oil company's No. 2 Cole in section 971, T. E. & L. survey, Throckmorton county, Thursday had 800 feet of oil in the hole and was drilling at 800 feet.

Offsetting this well, Reiter-Foster Oil corporation is drilling at 4078 feet in its No. 4 Virginia Parrott which failed to respond to a shot below 3700 feet. It is to be drilled to the formation from which the oil comes in Red Bank's test, believed to be black lime.

CHILDRESS COUNTY

Continental Oil company and Marland Oil company have spudded in their No. 1 Smith, located 10 miles east of Memphis but in Childress county, according to word from Memphis. North Texas Utilities company has laid a two-inch line to the test and will furnish fuel.

Lack Buyers In Gasoline Trade

AMARILLO, Aug. 4.—Wholesale gasoline market in north Texas and also at Panhandle refineries is somewhat slower right now. The slump is due to the Pennsylvania and Central West crude cuts, and the reluctance of buyers to "jump" into the market.

A check Wednesday found much gasoline selling at 6 1-2 cents spot, while quotations were offered at 6 5-8 to 6 3-4 cents, with little moving at these prices.

While a large buyer of fuel oil took considerable material from north Texas, the fuel oil market did not improve. Prices dropped to 80 and 85 cents a barrel, and most of the fuel oil was sold at the minimum figure.

Natural gasolines were holding up, however, with grade A scarce and quoted at 5 to 5 1-4 cents; grade AA, priced at 4 3-4 to 4 7-8; grade B at 4 1-2 to 4 5-8, and grade BB at from 4 1-2 to 4 3-4, with grade C at 4 3-8 to 4 1-2 cents.

Kerosene quotations appeared weaker at from 3 3-4 to 3 7-8 cents.

More Wells Show Salt Water as Output Drops

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 4.—Seminole field's production declined 1899 barrels yesterday over Tuesday's mark, representing the fourth decline in daily production since Saturday.

Operators were inclined to believe the rains throughout eastern Oklahoma might have had something to do with the figures. They said the rains necessarily slow up operations.

An increasing number of wells are showing salt water, which operators take as an indication of further production declines. A number of new wells were reported in yesterday, but none were sensational. On the other hand, there was no marked decrease in any particular well.

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. (AP)—The cotton market recovered more than half of yesterday's severe decline during today's trading. Offerings were much smaller following the heavy liquidation of the previous day, while there rallies in the Liverpool and Alexandria, and weather reports seemed less favorable. There features, combined with the improved technical position, evidently led to covering or re-buying and prices advanced to 17.75 for December or 57 points above yesterday's closing quotation. That delivery closed at 17.71, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 48 to 56 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 38 to 43 points in response to much better Liverpool cables than due on the New York close of yesterday and the firmer tone of the futures market for Egyptian cotton in Alexandria. Private reports of showers or rains in various parts of the south also promoted buying, but the opening advance met a renewal of liquidation which suggested that some long accounts, carried over the break of the previous day, had been unsettled by the sharp decline in prices. Offerings were absorbed on reactions of about 20 points from the best, however, and the market firmed up again during the afternoon, when there was renewed covering and some buying attributed to the replacing of long accounts, on which profits had been taken before yesterday's break.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4. (AP)—The cotton market today regained about half of the loss suffered yesterday on the drastic long liquidation, although prices eased off 18 points at one time, the market gradually recovered and at the close was 4 to 7 points under the best. Sharp rallies in Liverpool and a stronger technical position were the main influences behind the advance. October after easing off to 17.18, rallied to 17.23, but declined a few points at the end and closed steady at net gains for the day of 46 to 50 points.

The strong Liverpool cables and sharp rallies in that market were attributed to replacing by recent sellers. First trades here were irregularly higher, showing gains of 25 to 39 points. After a slight reaction prices rallied to 17.24 for October and 17.53 for January, 41 to 43 points above the previous close.

The largest reaction of the day occurred near mid-session when recent buyers began realizing. Price declined 18 points on all months before the selling ran its course. The market was soon started on the upgrade, however, by a bullish private crop report which made the condition average 70.7 and the indicated yield 13,985,000 bales. The midday loss was recovered and January traded to 17.60, 50 points net up.

The advance continued to the end, all months making new highs in the final trading with October at 17.33 and January 17.66, 52 to 54 points above yesterday's close. Some realizing at the end caused prices to lose 4 to 7 points but the market closed at a gain of approximately $2.50 a bale.

Exports for the day totaled 20,819 bales.

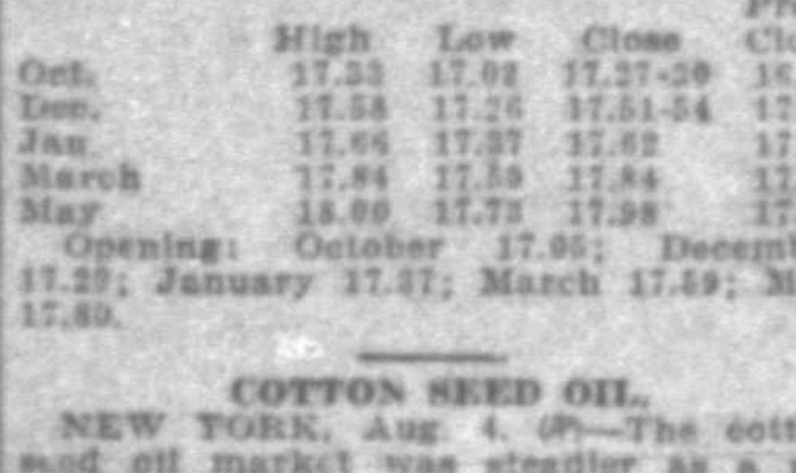
COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. (AP)—The cotton seed oil market was steadier as a result of the better price trend to cotton and the improvement in lard. Technical conditions also accounted to a certain extent for the upturn. Crude oil presented a steadier position and the firmness of grains brought in a little local buying. Sales 6500 barrels. Prime crude 8.00; prime summer yellow spot 9.60; September closed 9.62; October 9.74; December 9.73; January 9.75; March 9.90.



CONSOLIDATED LAUNDRIES CORPORATION.
5-Year Record.

A merger which took in twenty laundry companies serving New York, Newark, Jersey City and other New York and New Jersey communities was responsible for the formation of the Consolidated Laundries Corporation which was chartered in 1925. The merger followed the trend of the improvement in laundry machinery and equipment, delivery and financing which has been noticeable in various sections.

Funded debt of the corporation consists of $2,000,000 in convertible 6 1-2 per cent sinking fund 10-year gold notes due April 15, 1936. Capital stock consists of one class only of no par value of which 382,407 shares are outstanding. Dividends at the rate of 50 cents a share were paid quarterly from April 30, 1926 to date and in addition stock dividends of 1 per cent were paid July 30, 1926 and Jan. 30, 1927.

Net income for the year ending Dec. 31, 1926 amounted to $1,054,106 or equal to $2.78 a share. Net sales were over $8,800,000. Earnings or predecessor companies in 1926 were $1,143,286. As of Jan. 1, 1926 current assets totaled $1,889,696, current liabilities $729,667 net working capital $1,170,029 and book value $9.55 a share.

General Buying Movement On Wall Street Tuesday Follows Report of Cut in Rediscount Rate

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, August 4.—Belief that directors of the Federal Reserve bank might lower the discount rate brought about a general buying movement in Wall street today. A feature of the market was the better absorption of the oils. Wall street believes that Coolidge will be the next president, which accounts for the confident buying of securities.

Heavy short covering developed in the cotton market and prices recovered approximately $2.50 a bale. Wheat and foreign exchange were quiet. The reserve bank announced after the close that the rate had been cut to 3 1-2 per cent.

Selling of the previous day was not in evidence and individual stocks continued to make new high prices. Standard Milling was one of the strong features. The company is one of the largest manufacturers of flour and cereals. Earnings for the year are estimated at $11 a share on the common. The company is understood to have $4,500,000 in cash and no bank loans. People who are picking up the stock assert it has a book value of $200 a share.

Radio was firmer and there was a demand for American Express. The stock may go on a $8 dividend basis and there are possibilities of a segration of the banking and express business into two companies to be followed by a substantial stock melon.

Texas Gulf Sulphur was well taken. The stock is being bought by interests identified with some of the largest banking institutions in the country. People who are acquiring this stock base their optimism on the tremendous demand for sulphuric acid in all chemical research work and commercially. The new Boling pool owned by the Gulf Oil and leased to Texas Gulf Sulphur will assure the company a supply of sulphur for years.

Atlantic Refining was one of the features. The oil situation is understood to be under better control through what is called a gentlemen's agreement between the Standard and Independent companies. An aggressive campaign is said to be under way for foreign markets by the American companies. A good demand is developing for Phillips and other well managed companies, also for stock of Pacific Coast companies which because of their strategic position can ship oil abroad in large quantities.

Activity in Pressed Steel Car was attributed to reports that negotiations were under way whereby the company and General American Tank Car would figure in a consolidation of interests. No agreement, however, it is said, has been reached. Buying occurred in the chain and department store stocks and the group which was interested in Macy recently are reported to have taken hold of Gimbel.

City stores became active and made a new high for the year on prospects of an increase in the dividend.

Activity in Loose-Wiles is attributed to Arthur Cutten. Those long of the stock say it should sell at half the price of National Biscuit. One reason for activity in Nash Motors is the report that the stock will go on a $6 rate. People in the west who are buying Montgomery Ward believe that ultimately the company will figure in a merger with Sears Roebuck. Steel Common closed higher and Bethlehem rose in response to reports of a dividend for the stock early next year. Profit-taking developed in Timken. Some of the insiders, it is said, were caught short of their own stock and covered a higher prices.

While the rails did not rise as much as the industrials there was excellent buying of Standard issues, particularly Baltimore & Ohio. From 1921 to 1926 the company increased its investment in road and equipment and net working capital by $70,000,000, while its outstanding capital obligations increased only $7,000,000, or about one per cent.

For the same period gross operating revenues increased 27 per cent and net operating revenue 132 per cent, this resulting from a drop in the operating ratio from 83.81 per cent to 73.83 per cent of the $67,985,687 received from the recent increase of 632,425 shares of common stock, some $37,000,080 will be used to retire outstanding bonds, leaving its capital structure stronger than before.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 4. (AP)—Although other grades of slaughter stock were steady as were calves, a weak trend was noticeable in the beef cattle trade on the livestock market here Thursday. Early in the day buyers were trying to get she stock at a quarter lower prices.

Receipts were estimated at 2500 grown cattle, 700 calves, 500 hogs and 700 sheep.

Rather common was the verdict by observers on the beef cattle supply and sales at $4.50 and $5.50 seemed to justify the contention. However, southern grass cattle were taken for shipment presumably as feeders at $7.00 and $7.25.

She stock met with a loss of 15 to 25 cents. Buyers claimed that too much of the low grades were arriving and glutting market outlets. The best of the beef cows were taken in the early rounds at $6.00 to 6.25 in small drafts. Butcher cows and cutters also canners felt the weight of the cut, selling below the range of Wednesday's quotations.

In the young slaughter stock yearlings were found good enough to sell at $10.00 and at $9.75 in two car loads. Heifers cleared at $5.00 to $9.75.

Calves were quoted steady with a slow movement. Lights sold at $11.00 and heavy calves at $9.00.

No movement in hogs had been reported shortly before noon.

Feeder yearlings in the sheep division were moving at $9.00.

Hogs: Receipts 800; steady to 10c lower; top $10.65; bulk $10.40@10.65 packing sows $8.00; stocker pigs $10.00.

Cattle: Receipts 3200, including 700 calves; slaughter steers steady; plain and common grades $6.50@7.50; butcher and beef grades she stock slow, around 10 to 15c lower; bulk butcher cows $4.50@5.50; choice fed yearlings $9.75; light veals up to $11.00.

Sheep: Receipts 900; feeder yearlings $9.00; slaughter lambs $10.50@11.50, steady.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4. (AP)—Spot cotton closed steady, 46 points up. Sales 2801; low middling 14.87; middling 16.87; good middling 17.72; receipts 3194; stock 238,550.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4. (AP)—Helped by corn market strength, based on pessimistic reports about the corn outlook, all grain prices went higher today. Further uneasiness developed regarding black rust in wheat, owing to warmer weather northwest, and evidence that some damage has been done. Wheat closed unsettled, ⅝ to ⅞c net higher, corn ⅛ to 1½c up, oats showing ⅛ to 1⅛c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 15c.

Oats, like corn, were affected by unfavorable crop comment, especially from the northwest where a very uneven yield is looked for.

Despite weakness of hog values, provisions reflected upturns in the price of cotton.

ELECTRA SOCIETY

ELECTRA, Aug. 4.—Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Gault recently entertained with a swimming party at the Douglas swimming pool. After the swim a most delightful breakfast was enjoyed. Those making up the party included: Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wynn, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Wilcoxon, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Kolp, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Waggoner Jr., Mrs. W. E. Reneau, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Miles and sons, Basil and S. J. Jr., and daughter, Miss Aneta, all of Corsicana; Mr. and Mrs. J. Ward Moody and daughter, Betty, of Paducah, the host and hostess.

Eleanor Jane Bradley Honored

Miss Eleanor Jane Bradley was honored on the occason of her 13th birthday with a party recently at the home of her mother, Mrs. H. B. Bradley. Games were played during the afternoon with Marie Simmons winning in the bean contest, while in the word contest, Margaret Owens won high prize and Florence Chisholm. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to Misses Margaret and Doris Owens, Mary Jo Merkt, Barbara Hatfield, Eula Belle Bostick, Florence Chisholm, Ruth Elliott, Lorene Thomas, Marie Alice Scott, Marie Simmons and the honoree.

All Day Meeting W. M. U.

The Women's Missionery society of the First Baptist church met in all-day session at the church Monday. The young women of the church had charge of the program, which was delightfully given, the main theme of discussion being "Latin America," with Mrs. L. Gillum, the leader, conducting the services.

The central circle served lunch at 12 o'clock to about 100 ladies. In the afternoon a business session was held with the following group leaders elected and the secretary-treasurer for the coming year: In the central circle, Mrs. John Brownlee was elected leader; Mrs. Dan Comfort, secretary-treasurer; in the east circle, Mrs. W. J. Brown was elected leader, and Mrs. A. F. McCormick secretary treasurer; in the south circle, Mrs. Lee Scoggins, leader, and Mrs. Ben Tipton, secretary-treasurer; in the north circle, Mrs. T. W. Tubb was elected leader and Mrs. J. L. Stephens treasurer, and Mrs. P. E. Griffin, secretary; in the Dorcas circle of the Southfield Mission, Mrs. W. M. Martin was elected as leader and Mrs. Eula Mae Morris, secretary-treasurer, and in the Young Women's circle, Mrs. L. Gillum elected as leader and Mrs. J. L. Graham, secretary-treasurer.

It was voted for the society to dismiss until the first Monday in September.

Mrs. H. D. Miller Hostess

Mrs. H. D. Miller entertained with a surprise chicken dinner last Thursday evening honoring the birthday of her husband. A very splendid menu was served in the rear of the house under the grape arbor. The handsome pink and white birthday cake formed the centerpiece. Ed. W. Barr gave the "Shooting of Dan McGrew" in his usual pleasing manner; Miss Doris Jean and Betty Jo Miller entertained with a number of dances.

The guests were Messrs. Fred Powell, W. T. Oliver, Ben Miller, C. J. Hawley, W. P. Miller, Ed. W. Barr, Morris Persky, Robert McGann, Walter Skinner, Ed. Latimer and G. J. Gilles.

Mrs. T. L. Tidwell entertained most delightfully Tuesday with a dinner honoring the birthday of her husband. Dinner was served picnic style with baked chicken and all trimmings being served, while the center piece was a large birthday cake decorated with the emblems of the Odd Fellows lodge. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Heathington and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Endsley and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Heathington and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Huggins and children, Mrs. Mary Finklea, Miss Naomi Finklea, Valton Finklea, Mrs. W. D. Cowling and family, Mrs. N. W. Cowling, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Rouse, Miss Roberta May Rouse; Novella Tidwell, Douglas Tidwell, J. H. Tidwell, the hostess and honoree.

Slumber Party and Sunrise Breakfast.

The girls of the 4-H Enterprise Home Demonstration club enjoyed a most delightful slumber party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Eckelcamp, Wednesday night, when 14 young ladies attended. The guests began arriving early and spent the first part of the evening in toasting marshmallows and weiners, while next a watermelon feast was enjoyed. Games and contests were played on the lawn, but the signal "lights out" was flashed at 11 o'clock, but very little slumbering was done. At 5 o'clock the group went to the Lions club park where a tempting outdoor breakfast was prepared and the group returned to the Eckelcamp home for a morning party, Thursday.

Those attending included, Misses Mildred and Helen Isabel, Maggie and Wilmina Harris, Eva Purcell, Margaret Keller, Kathryn McClure, Glenn Givins, Rumunda and Veronica Kruse, Marie Flusche, Essie Bell Gilbert and Viola and Agnes Eckelcamp, Miss Viola being the hostess.

Picnic for B. Y. P. U.

The Intermediate B. Y. P. U. of the First Baptist church enjoyed a picnic and weiner roast Tuesday evening when they motored to the Beaver Creek. Upon arriving the evening was spent most delightfully in playing games, while a bonfire was built and weiners and marshmallows toasted. Those enjoying the delightful affair included: Edward Francis, Racy Morrow, Robbye Brownlee, Harold Petty, J. L. Lloyd, Joe Hughes, Paul, Mark and Gordon Roberts, Don Garner, Coy Sandifer, Arrington Beasley, Alton Miller, Misses Beatrice Hughes, Rose Mary Powers, Mary Roberts, Opal Snow, Mary Alice Scott and Miss Lucy Cawlfield.

Special Meeting Held.

In observation of the regular first Wednesday night in each month's social at the Presbyterian church, a very delightful time was had Wednesday evening, when Rev. L. D. Grafton completed his last lesson on the "Lord's Prayer." During the study hour Miss Helen Schaffer conducted a children's story hour on the lawn, after which dainty refreshments were served to those present, about 25 in number.

Stitch and Chatter Club.

Mrs. Theo. Youree entertained the Stitch and Chatter club with a most delightful party at her home Thursday afternoon. The time was spent in sewing and playing games, while at the end of the evening dainty refreshments of sandwiches, lemonade and cantaloupes filled with ice cream were served to Mesdames C. Y. Garmon and children, Vita Mae and Norma, Mrs. Tevis Bickley, Mrs. Clyde Crass and daughters, Marian Jean and Betty Jo, Carl Dunagan and son, Floyd Burton, Mrs. Thelma Sealey of Sulphur, Okla., and Miss Oleta Wilson.

MASONIC MEET DRAWS 600

Record Attendance At Conference Here

A record attendance of approximately 600 Masons from Wichita and surrounding counties marked the 88th annual district meeting of the Masonic Service and Educational association, held in the Masonic temple, Tenth and Scott, Thursday night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Childers Gives Address

The meeting was formally opened by Martin Littrell, past master of Wichita Falls lodge No. 635. After the introduction of J. D. Avis, district deputy grand master, and John C. McDonald, worshipful master of Faith lodge, the opening address of welcome to visitors and the Texas grand master was given by Walter H. Caldwell, past master of Faith lodge No. 1158.

"An Interpretation of Masonry and Its Duties," was the subject of the principal address of the evening, delivered by M. A. Childers, grand master of the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of Texas, who arrived here from San Antonio late Thursday afternoon.

In his remarks to the gathering the history of Masonry was clearly traced from its ancient origins, the influences that played a part in the formation of the Masonic code pointed out, and the necessity of the modern Mason to emulate the lives of the founders of the order was stressed.

Wilbur Keith, Dallas, executive secretary of the association, outlined the progress of Masonic work in this state during the last few years in his address on "Masonic Activities in Texas." J. D. Avis, district deputy, presided at the meeting during the course of the addresses.

Honored at Banquet

Entertainment was furnished at the meeting by several vocal solos by Joel MacGregor, who was accompanied on the piano by J. S. Pittman. Among the guests introduced were W. S. Tate of Hamilton and J. C. Caple, Waco, both of whom were officials in Masonic examinations held here Wednesday and Thursday, and Jimmie Hooks of the Masonic school, Fort Worth.

Preceding the district meet, a banquet was given Mr. Childers by members of the local lodges at the Wichita club. Guy Rogers, toastmaster at the affair, made an address of welcome which was responded to by Mr. Childers. Among those present were John C. McDonald, Albert Ellis, Wilbur Keith, J. E. Caple, J. D. Avis, Otto Stehlik, M. M. Cooke, G. D. Kinard, M. H. Caldwell, J. W. Lyle, George W. Lawler, Frank Collier, J. B. Price, S. A. Gaines, John Elder, C. B. Haynes, S. C. Thomas, W. L. Bass, J. A. Mayer, J. Hooks and P. B. Cox.

Norris Asks Use Of New Auditorium Here

Permission to use the municipal auditorium on the night of November 15 has been requested by the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth pastor.

The request was contained in a letter received Thursday by Mayor R. E. Shepherd.

Mayor Shepherd said that the Rev. Norris would be granted the use of the auditorium if the date requested did not conflict with any previous booking.

POSSESSION CHARGE

QUANAH, Aug. 4.(Sp)—Charges of possessing intoxicating liquor were filed against O. K. Harbour after officers seized 400 bottles of beer on his premises.

Salesman "Talks Too Much," Hubby Chases Him With Six-Shooter

He was a house-to-house salesman—

Thursday he walked into one house to sell what he had to sell and ran into another one "to save his life," so he told the occupants in the last named domicile, situated on Sixteenth street.

As the story goes, and as told to Constable Frank Morgan, the house-to-houser provoked the husband of the woman in the first house to whom he was explaining the merits of what he had to sell. The husband asserting that he had talked long and enough flourished a weapon, commonly known as a six-shooter.

As it is a house-to-houser's business to move to the next house when business is over in the first one and as the house-to-houser "knew his business" he moved in a hurry, after the husband's artillery made its appearance. In his anxiety to reach the next house, he left his automobile behind.

After executing a successful retreat, the house-to-houser sent for Constable Morgan, who allowed him to retrive the automobile and ascertained that the husband had flourished the weapon because he was of the opinion that the house-to-houser "talked too much."

Few Sales of Hospitals in Growinig Communities, Writer Declares

Editor, The Record News:

Noting comment suggesting the sale of the City-County hospital, apparently to sound out public opinion in matter, may I voice my protest and dissent from any sale suggestions?

Many individuals in Wichita Falls have resided in localities having properly operated governmental institutions, and it is rarely noted that any hospital thus operated is ever sold to private individuals, in growing and progressing communities.

Whatever may be basis of sale arguments by those apparently interested in developing sale propaganda, the remedy in the opinion of many does not lie in any sale, and if public opinion is observed there is not likely to be any sale for at least some years to come by anyone obedient to public opinion as are most elective officials or those appointed by elective officials.

There is seldom any institution of any scope operated in manner to avoid differences of opinion as to policy and methods. But proper accounting properly handled will usually give clear indication of any failures that might be adversely criticised on other than preference in methods, and lead to remedies if any in order, without "giving up" or reversing policies because of minor dissatisfactions. The alleged losses to city and county are purely nominal at the worst, as compared with inconveniences of not having any hospital as evidenced by the sentiment that constructed it, and decidedly nominal as compared with other expenditures often suggested at public expense without equivalent returns in opinion of many of us.

Sincerely,
F. G. SWANSON.

Officers Victims Of False Calls For Help

The third of a series of "mysterious calls," and the second complaint of "hijacking" on roads leading out of the city which have caused offices of three departments of justice here to make rush calls during the last three days were received shortly after noon Thursday by Chief of Police Frank Burns. Like previous reports, the one Thursday was a "false alarm."

A woman telephoned frantically and told police a "hijacker" had stopped her about ten miles out on the Seymour road. Chief Burns dashed to the scene at a terrific rate of speed. Arriving there he found neither woman nor highway robber.

Night before last Constable Morgan and his men rushed several miles out the Henritta road on a fake call that a "man and woman were having a terrible fight," and shortly after midnight Thursday Sheriff Bralley investigated an alleged highway robbery about one mile from the end of the pavement on the Seymour road.

Used Car Managers To Meet Friday Noon

Meeting of the used car managers auxiliary of the Wichita Falls Automobile Dealers association which was scheduled for Thursday night in the Parmenter Motor company offices was postponed until noon Friday at which time the meeting will be held in the offices of the Archenhold Auto Supply company, 819 Tenth street.

The meeting of the auxiliary, which was formed Tuesday night, will be for the purpose of hearing the report of nominating committee and the election of officers.

WILKINS CASE SET SEPT. 12

Settings in 89th Court Announced

Joe Wilkins, indicted for the slaying of Everett Horn, will be arraigned September 21 in the 89th district court, before Judge P. A. Martin, according to trial settings announced Thursday by E. F. Fruechte, asistant district attorney.

Mr. Fruechte also announced settings in the 89th court for the week of September 12. Trials for this week include those of Claude Reeves and Rush Stell, alleged to have been members of an alleged knob-knocking gang which operated in Wichita county.

Settings for the week of September 12 follow:

Claude Reeves and Rush Stell, burglary; R. T. Gess, three cases of disposing of mortgaged property and one case swindling; G. E. Rousey, liquor law violation; William Heffley, liquor law violation and driving an automobile while intoxicated; Walter Holder, attempt to bribe; Earl Busby, theft; F. B. Simpson, theft; Jack Clark, disposing of mortgaged property; George Penn, Julius Kuehn, E. H. Ross, liquor law violation; Lewis Spencer, swindling; Ernest Ross, theft; Curley Speery, Acey Speery, liquor law violation; George Stanford, liquor law violation; Tom Foster, theft from person; W. A. Box, liquor law violation; Frank Morris, burglary; O. Long, driving an automobile while intoxicated; Earl Walker, driving an automobile while intoxicated; Clarence Dillard, driving an automobile while intoxicated; Mrs. Isaac McKinney, liquor law violation; Jack Hardy and Haskell Hill, theft; A. L. Brannan, theft; E. J. Simerly, receiving and concealing stolen property; Estell Bonner, violation liquor law.

Wichita Falls

Folks, Facts, Fancies

Mrs. Smiley Turner, attache in the city clerk's office, returned to her duties Thursday after a two-week vacation.

W. S. Tate of Hamilton, Masonic official who has been in charge of a series of Masonic degree team examinations which ended here Thursday afternoon was presented with a badsome brown leather brief case, and a bill fold containing approximately $100 in crisp new bills by his fellow workers at the close of the examination late Thursday. His wife who accompanied him here was presented with a valuable black leather purse.

Judge W. W. Cook of the 78th district court, and his son-in-law, State Representative Roy Daniel, returned Thursday to Wichita Falls after a one-month vacation in Arkansas.

W. E. McBroom, city clerk, and Ralph Hyer, city tax assessor and collector, started Thursday from Wichita Falls on a two-week vacation which will be spent in Colorado.

Wichita Judges To Attend Court Meet

A meeting for the formation of the eighth judicial district which will be held Saturday in Fort Worth will be attended by Judge P. A. Martin, of the 89th district court, and Judge E. G. Thornton, of the 30th district court. Both judges will leave Wichita Falls Friday for Fort Worth.

The eighth judicial district will be formed in conformance with a recent law enacted by the last legislature in which provisions were set out for the relief of congested court dockets in Texas.

The law specifies that the governor shall appoint a presiding judge for the district. Governor Moody has announced the appointment of Judge F. O. McKenzie, of Weatherford, as the presiding judge of the eighth district and under his supervision the meeting in Fort Worth will be held.

Lindbergh Unable To Visit Wichita Falls

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh New York to Paris flier, will not be able to visit Wichita Falls on his present tour of the United States, according to a letter received Thursday by Hubert M. Harrison of the chamber of commerce from Harry F. Guggenheim of the Guggenheim Foundation, which is fostering the noted aviator's tour.

The letter, which was a reply to one sent by the chamber of commerce, pointed out that Colonel Lindbergh would be unable to visit hundreds of cities on this tour as it would entail continual changes in his schedule.

Wichita Kiwanians Visit in Henrietta

Approximately 35 members of the Wichita Falls Kiwanis club went to the chicken barbecue given by the Henrietta club Thursday night at a park near that city. The local delegation did not go in a body and no definite plans were made before leaving, but several of the Wichitans had prominent parts in the program. Members of the Lawton club were also guests of the Henrietta club.

MOWING 'EM DOWN

"Weed Cutting Week" Proving Success, Says Lucey

"Weed Cutting Week" in Wichita Falls which started Monday and ends Saturday so far has been a success, according to Dr. L. I. Lucey, director of the department of health, who said Thursday that citizens in the city had responded to the department's request for the cutting of weeds in a satisfactory manner.

"However," said Dr. Lucey, "there are still a large number of yards and lots in the city on which weeds should be cut and I hope that before 'Weed Cutting Week' is over that the owners of these lots will have the weeds cut."

DATSON SENDS CITY GREETING

Wichita Pastor Tells Of Gratitude to Friends

A message of thanks and good wishes to the people of Wichita Falls from the Rev. F. T. Datson, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, who is ill in San Diego, Cal., was delivered before the Rotary club Thursday by J. H. Allison, who recently visited the Rev. Datson.

The rector sent an especial message of gratitude to his friends here who have corresponded with him and to the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, Mr. Allison declared. The Rev. Datson will be under treatment for at least several months his physicians have told him, according to Mr. Allison.

Mr. Allison talked on "Seeing Things," recounting the places of interest visited by the Wichita Falls party which recently toured the agricultural centers of California.

Miss Pauline Bagwell sang "A Wild Irish Rose" and two "blues" selections, J. H. Pitman accompanying.

Society Given Babies Deserted By Mother

Deserted by their parents, two babies, neither over two months old, were awarded Thursday by Judge P. A. Martin, in the 89th district court, to the custody of the Children's Aid society.

One of the babies was deserted at the county poor farm and the other at the General hospital. After giving birth to the children, the mothers, according to the evidence presented to Judge Martin, left the farm and hospital, leaving the children to the care of attendants.

A 9-year-old girl, whose mother recently died in a Wichita county tourist camp, and whose father cannot be located was placed in the custody of the Children's Aid society by Judge Martin.

C-C May Sponsor Line To Carry Air Mail

Organization of a local corporation to bid on the contract to carry mail by airplane between Wichita Falls and Dallas will be sponsored by the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce if efforts are successful to have the postoffice department open bids on such a line, Hubert M. Harrison said Thursday.

Postal authorities have advised the local chamber of commerce that air mail between the two cities would be given every consideration if postmasters at the two points petition for the line.

The line would connect with air mail service between Dallas and Chicago and insure Wichita Falls much swifter delivery to northern and eastern points, it was stated.

Auto Stolen Here Found in Philadelphia

A Cadillac roadster, property of the Munger Automobile company, Wichita Falls, which was stolen here about a month ago, was recovered by Philadelphia, Pa., officers Thursday on information given by the local sheriff's department, Sheriff W. G. Bralley announced. A man is held in connection with the theft.

Many Expected to Attend Water Conservation Meet at Abilene

Wichita Falls citizens interested in water conservation problems, including J. A. Kemp, president of the Texas Conservation association, are expected to attend the conservation conference to be held at Abilene August 18 when recent action of the state board of water engineers will be discussed with the view of regaining for West Texas the right to use its streams for civic and agricultural purposes, said Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, who was in Wichita Falls Thursday.

Attention was brought to bear on the board of water engineers recently when applications from two West Texas cities to dam streams in their vicinities were refused because a South Texas syndicate claimed that it held water rights to the Colorado river, Mr. Wade said.

The city of Brownwood proposed to impound waters in Pecan bayou and Jim Ned creek, both of which are tributaries to the Colorado river. San Saba citizens sought permission to construct a dam across the San Saba river, another Colorado tributary.

The action of the board, if it becomes a precedent, will entirely remove possibility of completing a number of proposed irrigation projects in West Texas as well as prevent cities from obtaining water supplies from the watershed of the Colorado river, it has been pointed out.

Mr. Wade conferred while here Thursday with H. J. Adair on matters pertaining to the newly formed West Texas Oil and Gas bureau, of which Mr. Adair has been appointed manager. The bureau will begin its activities in September and the conference Thursday was in the nature of discussing plans for launching these activities, Mr. Adair said.

SIOUX ADOPT LEADING EAGLE

President Coolidge Made Chief of Tribe

By Universal Service.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Aug. 4.—For the first time in the history of the great Sioux nation, a president of the United States was today adopted as a tribal chief.

The honor counted the greatest within the gift of the tribe, was conferred upon President Coolidge here in conjunction with the Days of '76 celebration.

Three hundred Sioux chiefs conducted the ceremony while 20,000 whites looked on in absolute silence.

Called 'Leading Eagle.'

President Coolidge was given the tribal name of Leading Eagle. In the Indian language it is Wanblee Tokaha.

The Indian chiefs, in magnificent head-dress, full war paint and some carrying the ancient spears and stone hatchets that had been carried into memorable Indian engagements by their forbears, arrayed themselves in a hollow square, into which the president stepped.

Yellow Robe, great-grandson of Sitting Bull, and Henry Standing Bear conferred the induction in Sioux language, their guttural tones audible in the dense silence. Yellow Rose said to him, in Sioux:

"In conferring this honor upon you we confer upon ourselves the greatest honor in all the history of the Sioux nation. You are today, Mr. President, a one hundred per cent American by adoption in the original tribe."

Veterans of Wars.

Kills a Hundred, a 79-year-old chieftain, head of the "Red Shirt Table" of the Sioux, and Crazy Horse, 78, both of whom took part in the defeat of Custer's troop and their massacre at the Little Big Horn, conducted a brief ritual in their language.

Rosebud Yellow Robe, "most beautiful Indian maiden in the world," stepped forward with a magnificent war bonnet of eagle feathers. It contained in the head-dress 32 feathers of deep white, with black tips.

From it there spread down to the ground double trails of eagle feathers, its length and double spread attesting the highest chieftaincy within the gift of the Sioux. For three years the Indian chiefs had been selecting the magnificent head garb from the choicest available collections of eagles. The Sioux chiefs said it never would have been sold but an estimate of its intrinsic value was placed in excess of $2500.

Coolidge Gets Headgear.

Yellow Robe took the war bonnet from the hands of his beautiful daughter, stepped forward slowly and placed it upon the willing head of the president of the United States. The ceremony, abbreviated by the short time at the disposal of the president, lasted exactly 10 minutes.

Yellow Rose and Standing Bear, one on either arm of the president, escorted the president back to his box and he sat between them wearing the magnificent war bonnet throughout the Days of '76 celebration.

South Will Get Cheese Industry

"The mild climate makes green feed available 10 months of the year, whereas there are only five months of green feed growth in the north. By proper rotation of crops, fresh feed may be had in the remaining two months of the year in the south.

"Cotton must give way to diversified farming in the south, agricultural leaders agree as to that. And diversification hinges on livestock, particularly dairying."

LOCAL MEN OFFER FACTORY BUILDING

Construction of a two-story building, to be about 100 by 150 feet dimensions, is expected to be started within two weeks by a group of Wichita Falls men who will lease the structure to the Kraft Cheese company as quarters for a cheese factory, it was learend Thursday.

The effort to build the factory building is being headed by J. A. Kemp, who was in conference Thursday at Chicago with J. L. Kraft, president of the Kraft Cheese company, who announced following the conference that the factory would be located in Wichita Falls.

Heavy Investment

The building will be located on a service track of the Wichita Valley railroad at Oak street. Plans have not advanced beyond the preliminary stage and an estimate cannot be made on the cost of the structure, it was stated by J. T. Harrell, chairman of the valley development committee, who confirmed Chicago announcements of the plans.

The Kraft company will have a large investment in machinery and equipment in the plant which will have a capacity to use 50,000 pounds of milk daily, Mr. Harrell said it was understood.

The building will be leased to the Kraft Cheese company for one year and at the expiration of the lease the company will purchase it, according to the terms of the agreement as reported here.

BOYS WILL BE GIRLS.

LONDON.—If you are an English college boy, you simply must have your hair waved. It's the latest fashion, you know.

While old Cambridgge and Oxford grades are inclined to sniff at the innovation as "foppish," the co-eds are divided in their opinions. Some frankly admire exquisitely waved hair, which gives the young men the appearance of the traditional matinee idol; others scoff at them for being effeminate.

A Cambridge hairdresser reports that he has never known so many undergraduates to have their hair waved as now.

Courthouse and Postoffice Crews To Battle On Diamond Saturday

Play ball!

When the intrepid man who umpires gives this command Saturday afternoon on the Katy field diamond the courthouse and postoffice baseball teams will cross bats and trip over water buckets.

The game is neither for love nor money; in fact, nobody seems to know what it's for, however, the managers of the Courthouse Sluggers and the Postoffice Mailers promise a "hot" game for the spectators if the mercury is playing around 104.

Roy Jones, courthouse pilot, asserted Thursday that if the "Mailers" run in any "ringers" that the courthouse boys will get out an injunction while Johnny Beard, postoffice manager, declared that any efforts for an injunction would be met by the postoffice boys with the refusal to deliver any more mail to the courthouse or the judge who issued the injunction.

At the present time Roy and Johnny are looking for a "victim" to use as an umpire. As a result of life insurance companies threatening to cancel policies on any one undertaking the hazardous job, Roy and Johnny are having a hard time.

The game is called for 4 p. m. Mayor R. E. Shepherd has promised to have one of his ambulances at the game to carry off all casualties.

NO COMMENT BY COOLIDGE

President Takes News Of Arms Slash Fiasco

DEADWOOD, S. D., Aug. 4.(AP)—News of the adjournment of the Geneva naval armaments conference without an agreement was flashed to President Coolidge upon his way here to attend the frontier days celebration, but he received the word in silence and there was no indication that this would be broken today.

By Universal Service.

GENEVA, Aug. 4.—The tri-partite naval disarmament conference, called by President Coolidge in his invitation to the other powers, ended in failure this afternoon.

The conference was in session for nearly two months, out at no time during this period were the delegates very hopeful of complete agreement.

At the closing plenary session today statements were made by the American, British and Japanese delegates. These statements indicated that the failure of the conference would in no way affect the peace of the world, and will not result in a race for naval construction by the powers.

Friendly Sentiment

The sentiments expressed by the three delegations were on a most friendly nature. There were, however, diplomatically veiled attempts at passing the buck for the failure of the conference. The British and American delegates blamed the obscurity of the Japanese motives, while the Japanese delegates maintained that Japan could have found ground for an agreement if the other delegations had got together.

feared from this source, but the guard was maintained.

Officials made no effort to disguise their apprehension. They pointed out that several times during the seven years in which the Sacco-Vanzetti case has been agitated, bomb attacks have been made on American missions abroad. These have occurred in Europe and in South America. Demonstrations have been frequent.

WICHITANS APPROVE FULLER'S ACTION

Wichita Falls has no quarrel to pick with Governor Fuller of Massachusetts for sending Sacco and Vanzetti to their deaths, inquiries by a reporter revealed Thursday.

Many Inquiries

The case of the two men has aroused national interest which was reflected here Wednesday night in the scores of telephone calls received by The Record News from persons asking the governor's decision.

Commenting on the case Thursday, County Judge E. E. Nicholson said "Governor Fuller conducted an investigation. He ought to know whether Sacco and Vanzetti are guilty or not. He says they are guilty, so they must be."

Other comment included:

Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs: "The two men had never taken out naturalization papers: their actions were contrary to law, and if the governor made a thorough examination of the case, his refusal to commute the death sentence, I think, is fair and just."

"Luck Played Out"

Guy W. Sinclair, oil scout and statistician: "The case should have been closed like that years ago."

O. H. Box, student accountant: "The really big stir will come off when they hang those men."

H. B. Rugeley: "Looks like they got what they had coming."

Virgil Pettigrew: "Their luck seems to have played out on them."

POLICE PROBE SIX ROBBERIES

Thefts Occur in Bowie, Nocona, Archer City

A series of six robberies, four of them reported from surrounding communities and two of them occurring in the last three days in Wichita Falls, were being investigated by local police Thursday.

Theft of a number of toilet articles from her home on Thursday was reported by Mrs. Everet Lanfair, Nocona; theft of a .32 Winchester rifle and several other articles from the home of C. C. Gettys, Bowie, on Tuesday, is under investigation; and the robbery of the home of L. L. Brevenx, Archer City, of a set of six knives, forks and spoons and other articles of silverware on Wednesday was reported. Another residence in Archer City was robbed of a Winchester rifle, a black handbag, an Elgin watch, four dresses and a number of smaller articles, also on Wednesday, according to a report from C. E. Goodwin, sheriff of Archer county.

A suit of clothes valued at $35 was stolen from the home of J. C. Faster, 1604 10th, last Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock and a string of pearls and a signet ring, both valued at $65 were taken from the home of R. P. Carter, 1206 Fourth late Wednesday, it was reported.

90th Division Vets To Meet Sept. 4-5

Reunion of the 90th division, of World war fame, will be held September 4 and 5 in Galveston, W. A. Beach of Mesquite, assistant secretary of the division association, announced Thursday during a visit to Wichita Falls.

A silver loving cup will be awarded to the company of the division having the largest attendance at the reunion, Mr. Beach said.

The annual banquet of the association will be held the night of September 4.

Two Slightly Burned In Fighting Blaze

E. K. Bond and John McMahon, employes of the Panhandle Filling station No. 11, Eighth and Burnett, were slightly injured by burns while fighting a fire starting in an air compressing machine about 1:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Bond was burned on the right hand; and McMahon was burned on the left leg.

The fire is supposed to have started from gasoline that had been used in cleaning the machine. Employes smothered the fire before firemen of the central station arrived.

SOUTH POLAR FLIGHT COSTLY

Byrd Air Expedition To Cost $250,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 4. —The New York Evening Post today says Commander Richard E. Byrd's scientific expedition into the Antarctic promises to be one of the most stupendous undertakings in history and will cost about a quarter of a million dollars.

This, Commander Byrd admitted, is an extraordinary large sum, but declared it really a very conservative one measured against the size of the expedition, the distance the supplies will have to be transported and the fact that two and perhaps three years will be required for its completion.

Commander Byrd said that Edsel Ford will not be the sole backer of the expedition. He said conferences have been arranged with other men who have been interested in the expedition and who have expressed a desire to back it financially.

Other Backers Hidden

The commander declined to reveal the names of the projected backers. What is more important, he said, is the extensive preparations that must be made before the flight to the South Pole, which in itself will not take more than a dozen hours or so.

At the major base in Discovery Bay a miniature modern city of 30 persons will be constructed. Portable houses will be brought from Norway to serve as homes and workshops fo the scientists, mechanics and fliers who will comprise the community.

The houses will be provided with telephones and heat will be furnished by oil and coal. A radio station operating on a short wave length is expected to maintain communication with the United States. An airdrome will be erected at the edge of the city for housing the two planes that will be used by the expedition.

There will be no automobiles in the expedition, but there will be several small tractors for towing the planes to the runways and for transportation of supplies.

Canned Provisions

A large amount of canned goods will be taken, but the party expects to depend for meat on birds and other Antarctic animal life.

Commander Byrd said he and Floyd Bennett, his pilot on his flight to the North Pole, have been working on the plans for three weeks and have made remarkable progress.

HOW TO CARE FOR VARICOSE OR SWOLLEN VEINS

Rub Gently Upward and Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give you is to ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that even Piles are quickly absorbed. Any one who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. —Adv.

Bow and Arrow Bring Game at Camp

Shooting fish with a bow and arrow for a juicy noonday meal, and nipping a cottontail rabbit in the head with a singing arrow to prepare for a breakfast with the sunrise are sports that have survived from the Indian days, but only among a select few. And among these few are the Boy Scouts of Wichita Falls, now holding their annual encampment at Diversion Lake.

In all competition so far, Kenneth Wharton, member of one of the local troops, has claimed all honors for killing fish in water. In contrast to the practice of the Indian, however, and in obedience to the law, he shoots only gars.

Wharton shot a gar Wednesday morning that was at the bottom of a 10-foot hole, while he was standing on top of a 100-foot bluff, a feat that has never been equalled here, according to Frank Creighton, scout executive.

Deaths

MRS. S. J. PHILLIPS

Funeral services for Mrs. S. J. Phillips, 30, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lem Tidwell, 508 Holliday, late Wednesday afternoon, were held at Riverside Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with the Rev. C. S. McClung, pastor of the Floral Heights Baptist church, officiating.

Mrs. Phillips is survived by her sister and her mother.

Blaze in Elevator Halts Lodge Work

A group of Masons from surrounding counties, assembled here Thursday night at the Masonic Temple, Tenth and Scott, in a district meeting, were interrupted in their ceremonies about 9:30 o'clock when the elevator motor in the top of the building burst into flames as the result of a short in the circuit.

The building engineer was called and the flames were extinguished without the aid of firemen.
