Picket Line Hair Pulling Class for Men

Of all the nation's strikes, probably none got down to hair pulling with greater zest than the one which produced these scenes in Memphis. After Tri-State Dress Manufacturing Co. workers in a C. I. O. union walked out, women tussled with luckless men on the picket line.

More Moisture Falls Over Panhandle

RAINFALL IS GENERAL OVER WHEAT AREA

QUARTER OF INCH OF RAIN FALLS IN COUNTY

Wheat crop prospects soared again throughout the Panhandle over the week-end as a general rainfall soaked the country with from one-fourth to an inch of moisture.

Pampa and its adjacent territory received 28 inch precipitation according to the Daily NEWS government rain gage, located at the KPND transmitter station, a mile east of the city limits.

The rain began falling here early Friday evening and lasted through most of the night. It was hailed by a drop in temperature which sent the thermometer down all day Saturday until it had reached a low of 25 at 7 p. m. Saturday and then continued to drop another three degrees up until midnight last night. Friday night's rainstorm was accompanied by thunder and lightning.

The rainfall, general over the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles, also lessened the possibility of heavy dust in the immediate future. Reports from Guyman said that the dust had been settled through the dust bowl there by rain and sleet. Snow began falling at 10 o'clock last night, and quickly covered the ground.

'Regrets' Offered By Herr Hitler

BERLIN, March 13 (AP)—The "La Guardia incident" and the United States generally were forgotten today by the government-controlled press. It turned instead to praise of one of Germany's leading military figures, Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg, on his fortieth anniversary as a soldier.

Not a line of criticism of America was in the press today leading to the belief word had been passed around to "lay off."

The abrupt cessation of criticism followed United States Ambassador William E. Dodd's visit to Foreign Minister Konstantin Von Neurath to make representations against German press attacks on the United States.

Sources close to the Wilhelmstrasse said Baron von Neurath informed the German press that the attacks were not intended to offend.

"The incident was touched off by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia's speech March 3 suggesting a 'chamber of horrors' at New York's 1939 world's fair hold a figure of 'that brown-shirtd' fanatic who is menacing the peace of the world.'"

(Germany protested to the United States, and the state department expressed formal regrets. The German press then attacked American Jews and conditions in general and accused the state department of handling the affair in a "shilly-shally" manner.)

Inquirers at the foreign office in Berlin today were told that the incident was closed.

AMELIA DETERMINED TO START FLIGHT TODAY

OAKLAND, Calif., March 13 (AP)—In the face of near storm conditions over the Pacific, Amelia Earhart today declared her intention of starting her world flight tomorrow. She made two test flights and arranged all but final details for the 27,000-mile adventure.

A low pressure area of 400 miles out was moving toward the California coast. United States Meteorologist E. H. Bowle said it would cause unfavorable flying conditions between here and Honolulu until Monday noon.

The forecast daunted neither Miss Earhart nor Pan American Airways, which scheduled the departure of its Hawaii Clipper for Honolulu with two passengers for this first test flight of the day.

Miss Earhart, transferred from California to the district embracing fields from Hobbs, N. M., to Shreveport, La., will give the orders, union leaders agreed.

LEWIS 'ARMY' INVADES EAST TEXAS FIELD

'CHISELINGEST' FIELD IN WORLD,' SAY ORGANIZERS

(NOTE: John L. Lewis' drive to bring the petroleum industry into his committee for industrial organization fold to start extensively soon after April 1, will center in the vast East Texas field. Word pictures of existing conditions will be told in a series of stories, of which this is the first.)

KILGORE, March 13 (AP)—Three weeks hence and John L. Lewis' strategy will invade the derelict land of make believe—East Texas' black gold belt.

Over miles dotted with 22,000 derricks, born of martial law and mad lease grabbing, his organizers plan to thread their way in a drive to marshal the vast petroleum industry under his Committee for Industrial Organization banner. Workers in the ten branches of the industry will be contacted by crack organizers.

Successful in that, demands would follow. Union contract recognition, collective bargaining, higher wages and a 35-hour week are the aims, said ponderous John T. Allen, organizer for the third district, international oil field, gas well and refinery workers, expelled unit of the American Federation of Labor.

Salaries 'Worst' "Cheapest, chiselings field in the world," snapped Allen. "Salaries in the world's largest oil field are the world's worst. Living conditions are deplorable."

"What do we want? Remedying contracts. We ask the major and independent operators to sit across the table and negotiate. We don't want trouble—don't anticipate it. We want everyone to come off happy. In 21 years of organizing I have seen some knotty and snarled negotiations. Never have I been embroiled in a strike."

But, warned Allen, funds are available for strikes if workers fail to avoid walkouts and difficulties. "Strategy for the organization campaign will come out of a Houston meeting of the international executive committee, starting April 5."

International President Harvey Fremming and Vice-President John L. Coulter, transferred from California to the district embracing fields from Hobbs, N. M., to Shreveport, La., will give the orders, union leaders agreed.

YOUNG MAN TO BE QUESTIONED IN KIDNAPING

ELECTRA POLICE CHIEF ARRIVES HERE TO INVESTIGATE

Train of a hijacker and kidnaper, who held up and robbed an Electric filling station operator three weeks ago and then drove his victim to Childress before releasing him, led to Pampa Saturday night.

Chief of Police Walter C. Suttle, of Electra, arrived in Pampa last night and this forenoon was to join in the questioning of a suspect, jailed here with his 18-year-old wife and his brother-in-law in an alleged swindling ring.

Following Chief Suttle's arrival and a conference with Sheriff Earl Talley, County Attorney Joe Gordon and Gray county deputies, it was decided not to question the suspect last night, but to delay the inquiry until 10 o'clock this morning.

The Electra police chief came here after it was learned that an accomplice of the suspect had mentioned to local officers that his companion took part in the hijacking of a filling station near Wichita Falls about three weeks ago.

Three Have Confessed The suspect, his 16-year-old wife and their accomplice already have confessed to Gray county authorities that they have participated in several swindling deals, involving check forgeries in Shamrock, Wellington, Clarendon, McLean and Pampa during the past three weeks.

The confessions told a story of frenzied small-time finance in the five cities where they admitted passing bogus checks totaling more than $600 since Feb. 27.

The two young men gave their names as Ernest Bales, 23, and Clendon Campen, 21, and their homes as Wellington. The 16-year-old girl is the wife of Bales, authorities stated. All three are in the county jail here.

Bales Talks First Bales and Campen were arrested Thursday in Wellington and Wichita Falls by Deputy Sheriff O. T. Lindsey, accompanied by Wheeler and Donley county authorities. Deputy Lindsey arrested Mrs. Bales Friday in Wellington. County Attorney Gordon obtained the first confession of the forgeries from

R. R. Employee Is Offered Sum Not To Check Records

CONROE, March 13 (AP)—Ross M. Bell, senior accountant for the Texas Railroad Commission testified at the trial of M. D. Carter today that he was offered a large "salary" not to check certain records in connection with the movement of oil.

Carter, a former employee of the railroad commission, and six oil men were charged with conspiracy in connection with asserted movement of "hot oil."

Bell testified that Otis H. Gibson, president of the Crescent Oil and Transport company and a defendant in the case, offered him $450 monthly "not to check" records in the Houston and Austin commission offices of a group of companies he was investigating.

Bell said that Gibson "made him the offer" on March 24, 1936, in his (Bell's) hotel room, after the oil man had twice entertained him at dinner at his home and had told him that he was "having a little trouble about running some hot oil."

He testified Gibson had used M. D. Carter's name when calling and issuing the first invitation and had called Carter in Dallas from the Bell home that evening.

Earlier he had identified the two specific allegedly forged tenders from the Adolco company to the Channel Transport and Marketing Co., numbers 3830 and 3944, and 10 other tenders, also asserted forgeries, in the channel company's offices when he audited its books last March. He said the total oil run on them was 114,630.87 barrels.

FIRST SHOT IN REVOLUTION TO BE OBSERVED

ALLRED TO DEDICATE MONUMENT AT GONZALES

GONZALES, March 13, (AP)—On an October day 102 years ago, Col. Domingo de Ugartechea, in command of the Mexican garrison at San Antonio, sent a company of soldiers to Gonzales to take possession of a cannon.

That order was the spark which set off the Texas Revolution and brought to Gonzales its undying recognition as the "Lexington of Texas."

The colonists, incensed by what they considered a long series of injustices, attacked and defeated Ugartechea and started the campaign which freed Texas.

To Gonzales tomorrow will come Gov. James V. Allred and other state officials and visitors to dedicate a $10,000 monument to the "first shot of the Texas Revolution."

They also will visit the location of the proposed Texas "Warm Springs" for crippled children.

The afternoon ceremonies will be held on the Gonzales battlefield. Attorney General William McCraw will respond to a welcoming address by R. C. Schauer of Cost. State Senator R. A. Weinert of Seguin will be master of ceremonies.

Gov. Allred will make the dedicatory address after Lieut.-Gov. Walter Woodall accepts the monument from Claude Teer of the state board of control.

Sen. Weinert and Rep. Conde Hoskins of Gonzales have invited all members of the legislature to visit the field and this historic town. It was at Gonzales that the first

Suicide Coma Of Woman Is L. A. Mystery

LOS ANGELES, March 13 (AP)—Some strange form of coma, possibly resulting from self-inflicted hypnosis, bound Helen Wills Love, 31-year-old brunette, today to her cot in the county jail where she is awaiting sentence of seven years to life imprisonment for second degree murder.

She lapsed into the trance-like condition about 9:30 p. m., Thursday after she told jail Matron Vada Sullivan:

"I can sit in this chair or lie on this bed and kill myself by will power. I can make myself die whenever I want to."

Asked today if she would die, jail Physician Benjamin Blank said: "Not a chance."

Since Thursday night, Mrs. Love has taken no nourishment or drink except a few spoonfuls of water. This morning, Dr. Plank injected into the bloodstream of her right arm a glucose and saline solution. He

Borgans Pay Scout Quota In Two Days

Scout Executive Fred Roberts returned from Borger Friday night with the announcement that Borger had raised $1,480 of a $1,500 quota for Boy Scout work in a drive lasting two and a half days. All workers had not finished canvassing at that time and the amount was expected to far exceed the quota. Of the amount subscribed $1,200 was in cash.

Pampa's drive for $3,500 has been in progress more than three weeks and up to yesterday only $1,979 had been subscribed with $1,347.75 being cash.

Guy McTaggart, drive chairman, plans to "do something" about the lagging drive here this week, he said yesterday.

35 COUNTY 4-H CLUB MEMBERS ENTER SHOW

Thirty-five Gray county 4-H club boys from the Alanreed and Grandview clubs took part in 4-H boys parade during the Fat Stock Show in Amarillo last week. The parade, led by Walter Britten, state 4-H chairman of groom, was followed by the Groom 4-H band. After the band came the grand champion calf, pig, and lamb of the Fat Stock show on trucks. These were followed by the Gray county 4-H club boys together with some two hundred other 4-H club members from the counties of the Panhandle.

During the day the boys were shown through industrial plants and given a free picture show, after a visit to the Fat Stock show. The Gray county boys were accompanied by assistant county agent, M. J. Simms. Arrangements for the trip were made by County Agent Ralph R. Thomas, the Alanreed school furnishing the bus while expenses of the trip were paid by the Pampa Board of City Development.

LEGION POST TO CELEBRATE 18TH BIRTHDAY

UNIQUE PROGRAM WILL BE GIVEN ON MARCH 18

The American Legion will celebrate its eighteenth birthday March 16 with one of the greatest parties in its history.

Thousands of Legion posts and Auxiliary units will meet on Tuesday night, March 16, to present special birthday programs, to tune in on the nation-wide Legion birthday broadcast, and to celebrate a 1937 enrollment expected to be near 800,000 members, the largest membership the Legion has ever rolled up on its anniversary date and within sight of the goal of 1,100,000 members for this year.

For the Legion's membership slogan in preparation for this huge party is "Every Post, District and Department over the top on the birthday!" The birthday objective is 800,000 members, which would be 130,000 more than the Legion had on its anniversary last year. The nationwide American Legion broadcast will go on the air from 10:30 to 11 p. m. Eastern standard time, Tuesday, March 16, over the blue network of the National Broadcasting company. This corresponds to 9:30 to 10 p. m. Pampa time. The local post is a radio receiver for this birthday meeting so that all may listen in on this dramatic program.

Special birthday cards will be sent to all members of the local post advising them of this momentous occasion and urging them to be present at this meeting. The American

TOLL MOORE IS NAMED J. P. FOR PRECINCT 5

Toll Moore, of McLean, was named Justice of the peace in Precinct 5 at McLean, by Gray county commissioners when they met Friday afternoon to pick a successor to James F. Hensley, who died last week.

Mr. Moore was picked from a list of several candidates who sought the appointment. He will take office as soon as he posts bond and is sworn in which will probably be Monday, County Judge Sherman White said.

Automatic Shoots Two Negroes in 'Flats' Fusilade

Negroes in "the flats" yesterday afternoon thought the Spanish rebellion had moved to Texas when a fusillade of shots shattered the stillness of the cold afternoon.

The belief was further enhanced when a negro left a building with blood streaming down both arms and another appeared with blood pouring down one leg. The two were rushed to a physician who discovered that no bones had been touched, the bullets passing clean through the fleshy part of the arms and leg.

Sheriff Earl Talley who investigated the shooting was told that the two negroes, Ernest McNeil and Frank Jones were "foolin' with the gun" when it started exploding.

The gun, an automatic, kept on firing itself after the two dropped it. Sheriff Talley learned. No charges were filed.

BUILDING HERE DURING WEEK TOTALS $14,500

Pampa's building permits totaled $14,500 last week to make the total for the year to date $96,600, according to J. R. McKinley, building inspector.

Two new homes, a business house and several remodeling jobs were included in the week's list of activities. J. C. Winn of Amarillo was issued a permit for construction of a $5,000 brick veneer residence in the Cook-Adams addition on Christine street. Mr. Winn is a building contractor.

A permit for $3,000 was issued to W. M. Dull for construction of a frame residence in the Buckler addition on North Somerville street. W. E. Davis will be the contractor.

Glen Ragdale has a $3,000 plumbing shop and show room under construction on West Foster avenue. Permits of $1,000 each were issued to Mrs. R. K. Mason, White House Lumber company and C. E. Hutchins for remodeling residences or store buildings.

Potential of 7,050 Barrels of Oil Brought in

The Panhandle oil field continued its phenomenal activity last week with the local office of the Texas Railroad Commission reporting 13 wells tested with a potential of 7,050 barrels daily. No gas wells were placed on test during the week.

Fourteen first intentions to drill were also filed at the commission's office. Hutchinson county led the way with five of the new locations. Other counties reporting new tests were Gray, four; Wheeler, two; Carson, one; Moore, one; Bailey, one. The Bailey county test will be a rank wildcat on the south plains, but under the supervision of the Panhandle office of the commission. The test will be known as the E. L.

13 Oil Wells Are Completed In Plains Area

Wilton No. 1 Yellow House Land Company, located in labor 4, Capitol league 700, in Bailey county due north of Morton. The test will be 660 feet from the Cochran county line.

Hutchinson county Reported six of the new wells with a total potential of 3,277 barrels. Carson county again became active with three large producers having a total production of 2,220 barrels. The best well in the field was brought in by the Skelly Oil company with its No. 83 Schaffer ranch testing 903 barrels.

An interesting test was the Stan-olind Oil & Gas company's No. 3 Binkley in section 86, block 3, I&GN survey, Gray county, which was given a potential of 580 barrels from lime pay. The company's two other wells on the lease are marginal wells.

Drilled In After nine years, the Sinclair-Prairie company has completed its No. 12 Maggie Weatherly test in section 23, block Y, in A&B survey, for 176 barrels on test. The well was drilled to 2,135 feet in 1927 and then shut down. Drilling was resumed last month with pay encountered in time between 2,975 and 3,049 feet, total depth.

CREW STEERS BURNING VESSEL TO HONOLULU

(By The Associated Press)

HONOLULU, March 13 — A burning freighter and a fast moving man-of-war furnished the mid-Pacific with a maritime drama today when the cruiser Louisville ran more than 350 miles in less than 12 hours and rescued eight passengers adrift in lifeboats from the British ship Silverlarch.

The Louisville took four women and four men passengers while the Silverlarch's crew of 40 battled on against the flames in her hold and decided to risk getting their ship to Honolulu, 400 miles away.

Transfer of the passengers was completed within half an hour of the Louisville's arrival at the scene at 1:46 p. m. (AST). The passengers had been drifting less than three hours.

Captain W. S. Farber of the Louisville immediately asked naval headquarters at San Pedro, Calif., for orders on disposal of the refugees.

It was believed the eight might be transferred to one of the four destroyers racing to the scene from Honolulu.

WEALTHY AND AGED DALLAS WOMAN SLAIN

HEAD CRUSHED; POLICE SEEK CLUES IN MYSTERY

DALLAS, March 13 (AP)—Police tonight delved into the affairs of Mrs. Mary Knox in the hope of finding a clue to the slayer of the wealthy 93-year-old woman.

Between 40 and 50 persons were questioned by Will Fritz, inspector of detectives, and members of the homicide squad in an effort to learn the background of the eccentric woman.

Fritz said circumstances surrounding the slaying led detectives to believe Mrs. Knox was slain Thursday evening and that she interrupted her supper to answer the murderer's rap on her door.

Although bonds totaling $11,000, a certified check for $1,100 and $6 in cash were found in the house, a steel box, the contents of which remained a mystery to investigators, was missing, the police reported.

Mrs. Knox who lived alone, was found dead late yesterday by neighbors. Her head had been crushed and an apron was drawn tightly about her neck.

Investigators were informed Mrs. Knox had given away most of the $1,000,000 estate which was left by her husband. Friends said she gave freely to several churches and was one of the largest donors to the Reynolds orphanage in Dallas.

Introduction of original signers of the charter for brief remarks on the early history of the post.

Mass singing of war songs. Presentation of birthday gift to post commander consisting of 18 or more membership cards.

Address on achievements of the American Legion.

Meeting will be closed in regular ceremonial form.

It was on March 15, 1919, that 1,000 representative officers and enlisted men of the American Expeditionary Force assembled in Paris, France, for the purpose of laying the foundation of an association of American World War veterans. It was at this caucus which lasted three days that the American Legion was born. The caucus was called to order by Eric F. Wood. One of the first official acts of the caucus was to adopt a resolution eliminating all consideration of rank or precedent in the deliberations of the body.

Bennett C. Clark, now United States Senator from Missouri, was chosen as temporary chairman and the caucus then proceeded to outline the tentative aims and purposes of the new organization and adopt a temporary constitution.

The caucus had some difficulty in deciding for a name for the society of American World War veterans. All sorts of names were suggested and rejected. Then Major M. K. Gordon of Texas' own thirty-sixth division proposed the name "The American Legion." The name clicked and was adopted. Mr. Gordon, who has the honor of having named the Legion, now lives at Madisonville, Ky., where he is practicing law.

An executive committee of 100 of which the late Milton J. Foreman of Chicago, was chairman, was assigned the job of completing the organization in the A. E. F. and of arranging for another caucus to be held in America at which the work of organization the Legion would be finished.

Success crowned all these efforts with the result that at the second caucus held in St. Louis, Mo., May 8, 9 and 10, 1919, with delegates of ex-soldiers from every state in attendance, the work of putting the American Legion on a permanent basis was completed and the Legion was launched on its career of service to God and country.

The Pampa post of the American Legion has always been outstanding in its service to its community. Every worth-while enterprise has been given aid from the Legion. Just recently was the first organization to endorse a lake for Gray county. It will continue to serve their community, state and nation.

year we were having wind and dust storms. "We haven't had a dust storm here now in several days."

More snow and rain was forecast over the week-end as temperatures dipped.

Four inches of snow covered the ground in Eastern Kansas and snow ranging up to one inch at Hugoton fell in the "dust bowl" section.

Southern plains of Texas and the Panhandle had rains which freshened the growing grain, but forecasts of sleet and snow menaced Texas' fruit crop, now at its "critical" stage.

The Colorado dust area had snow and an inch fall at Lamar was hailed as a boon to crops.

Rain and sleet brought 21 of an inch of moisture here, and Hyer said that was enough to carry the wheat "for perhaps a week."

Heaviest northwestern Oklahoma rainfall was an inch at Buffalo and Woodward. Buffalo's rainfall was the heaviest in five months.

Beaver, still counting on a good wheat crop, had 42 of an inch of rain followed by snow which whitened the ground. Boise City got only a light drizzle and snow flurries.

best have drawn the East Texas area for contract work.

Into ten branches of work organizers will carry their union arguments, contacting key men and holding stump meetings in homes, churches, schools and labor halls.

Radio broadcasting and newspaper advertising will be utilized. Branches tagged for exploitation include drilling, refining, production, rig building, machinists, boiler-makers, marketing division, pipelayers, welders, construction and maintenance.

To initiate their campaign, union leaders emphasized dealings must start with the major companies. Collective bargaining among the some 1-800 independents would follow, they said.

Organization workers are expected to concentrate on the industry's pipeline workers, or common laborers. Allen marked that division as a potent group of the low wage class that would receive careful nursing from Lewis lieutenants.

Quiet organization work has started in the East Texas field but Allen stressed it was "purely a local drive and not yet a part of the CIO movement."

Guarded but blunt comment came from the operators in answer to every labor charge. Biting denials of wage hour and living condition assertions from the union camp were given and proof offered.

Operators, however, seemed content to sit back and let the labor force play its cards first. Majors and independents agreed, however, on one mutual statement:

The world's largest oil field will never be unionized.

WHEAT CROP WILL NEED RAIN AFTER MARCH 25

CHICAGO, March 13. (P)—B. W. Snow, Chicago crop expert, said tonight another crop shortage in the United States winter wheat belt was possible unless the territory were favored with abnormal rainfall after March 25.

On the uncertainty of crop conditions in the southwest, he said, hangs the chance of the United States returning to its role as a major wheat exporting nation in 1937.

"Without such rainfall, it will take only a few days of heat and wind to cause a crop collapse over a wide area," Snow said. "There has been no replenishing of sub-soil moisture and until that occurs there can be no crop certainty."

Bales Friday afternoon. He told of passing checks in conspiracy with Campen and his wife. Friday afternoon Campen added to the confessions with his narrative of forging checks to buy automobiles and other merchandise for resale.

The young and attractive Mrs. Bales, in tears in the county's attorney's office Saturday, poured forth a story of being implicated in the forgery activities against her better judgment.

From her recital of incidents in connection with the various shady deals into which the trio had become involved in several cities, authorities had come to the conclusion that the girl was used as a "front" to put the deals across.

The biggest check was for $295 when Campen, according to his confession, forged the name of Z. H. Dafford to buy an automobile at Wellington. The car was brought to Pampa and resold to a used car dealer.

Campen also related in his confession of forging checks and passing them in Shamrock, at a garage in Clarendon, a Clarendon hatchery, a hardware store in McLean and other places in these three cities.

Mrs. Bales admitted Saturday that she had passed two bogus checks in Pampa, one for $15.74 on Levine's store and another for $3.35 at the Spears Furniture Co. store.

County Attorney Gordon stated Saturday that local charges would be preferred against the trio, but that they first would be taken to Clarendon where the grand jury convenes soon.

Chief Suttle, of Electra, explained last night that C. D. Bailey, filling station operator there, was held up by a man who drove into his station for gas about three weeks ago.

Accompanied Robber

Bailey was forced to turn over approximately $100 in cash and checks and then to accompany the robber on the drive to Childress. Chief Suttle said the bandit told Bailey on the way that he was a "tough hombre" and had "taught Clyde Barrow what little he knew about the banditry business."

At Childress, Chief Suttle said, the hijacker released Bailey, gave him $1 for gas and told him to drive back to Electra and keep quiet. The car the bandit used in the Electra holdup, according to the chief, had been stolen from C. A. Hodges, of Electra.

SCHOOL BUILDING BURNS

TIMPSON, March 13. (P)—The public school building here was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin today. The loss was estimated at $35,000. The fire department from Center aided the Timpsontown department in fighting the blaze.

WOMAN STYLIST SHOWS 'CREATIONS' FOR MEN

NEW YORK, March 13. (P)—A noted woman stylist has invaded the men's clothing field with revolutionary offerings for Easter of what she thinks a man should wear.

A dozen distinguished New York men, some blushing and others comparatively calm, paraded in gay-colored and unusually cut costumes last night at a private invitation showing of the clothes.

The designer is Elizabeth Hawes, diminutive brunette who several years ago was the first American woman to show styles in Paris despite frantic efforts of the Paris couturiers to boycott her. Her newest venture is merely carrying out a threat made long ago when she condemned men's clothes as drab, uncomfortable and ugly.

A majority of men, her friends drawn from New York theatrical, political, social and intellectual circles, crowded three show rooms last night on Fifth Avenue to watch the first showing of her creations on "guest stars."

Frank M. Chapman, Jr., who came out first in a heavy black coat with white zigzag stripes, became flustered and dropped out of the parade line but his wife, Gladys Swarthout, the opera star, commanded from the side-lines: "Come along, back up here."

Miss Earnestine Walker, Childress high school teacher, is spending the week-end as the guest of Miss Marjorie Tucker.

'WE'RE GOING TO UNIONIZE ALL WORKERS'

ELECTRICAL FIELDS TO BE NEXT OBJECTIVE OF C. I. O.

(By The Associated Press)

The committee for industrial organization thrust another iron into the blazing labor fire yesterday (Saturday)—aiming at unionization of the million or more workers in the electrical manufacturing and communication field.

The executive board of the United Electrical and Radio Workers of America, C. I. O. affiliate, prepared to open collective bargaining conferences with the General Electric Co. at New York tomorrow and planned to seek similar pacts with the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. and the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. General Electric employs 60,000; Westinghouse 45,000. Looking beyond the "big three," William Mitchell, national representative of the union, asserted:

"We are going to organize them all. We have organizers all over the country."

The C. I. O. is pressing concurrent drives in the huge steel and automotive industries; dickering for new contracts for 450,000 soft coal miners; girding for campaigns among the 2,235,000 on the payrolls of the oil and textile firms.

C. I. O. Members March 13. Detroit witnessed a scale demonstration by C. I. O. followers. Marching to the blare of a 12-piece band, thousands of members of the United Automobile Workers union formed two endless chains and, moving in opposite directions, graced about the Wayne county court house. Inside, Judge Allan Campbell deferred until tomorrow decision on the Chrysler Motor company's petition for an injunction to evict strikers holding eight of its plants. The union demands exclusive bargaining rights for 60,000 Chrysler employees.

Simultaneously, some 200 delegates from U. A. W. A. locals considered ratification of an agreement composing strike differences with the General Motors corporation. The pact did not include the 30-hour week and a minimum hourly wage clause requested by the union but did provide seniority rights and machinery for settlement of grievances designed to prevent future walkouts.

70,000 Idle

While Michigan strikes kept nearly 70,000 idle in Chrysler, Hudson and Reo automobile plants and left other thousands on the jobless sidelines in other industries, Gov. Frank Murphy took a long stride in the direction of peace.

He called representatives of the general public, employers and employees to a meeting next Wednesday to evolve a program for dealing with pending or threatened labor controversies.

Indications of an early understanding on wages and hours between miners and Appalachian area operators were manifest at New York Committee of four settled down to negotiating a new two-year contract which will affect virtually all the nation's 450,000 soft coal diggers. The pact included John L. Lewis, chief of the C. I. O. and the United Mine Workers of America, and President Charles O'Neill of the United Eastern Coal Sales corp.

At Pittsburgh, Lewis lieutenants gathered to complete details of their first agreement with "big steel." They will meet with President B. F. Fairless of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp. tomorrow. The Blaw-Knox Steel Co. signed a similar pact affecting about 3,000.

Reject Wage Offer. The United Electrical and Radio Workers union rejected the Westinghouse company's offer of a 58 cents minimum wage and threatened a strike at the east Pittsburgh works, employing 8,000.

Illinois counted approximately 10,500 jobless in labor disputes. In Chicago, 18 strikes were in progress, including the eight-day walk-out of cab drivers. Five controversies remained unsettled in as many communities in the northern part of the state.

Police armed with sub-machine guns guarded the strike-bound furniture manufacturing co. at Memphis, Tenn. Two hundred and fifty girl strikers danced in the Standard Cigar Co. factory at Pittsburgh. A "sit down" de luxe found 30 lounging in beach chairs at the Roberts Dress Shop in Baltimore. Forty blind strikers solicited funds with tin cups on Pittsburgh's streets. Garbage and ash wagon drivers were out in Philadelphia. "Sit

NATIONAL BUSINESS SURVEY
(By The Associated Press)

A new recovery high for steel output, soaring strikes, higher raw material and retail prices and expanding consumer demand were entered on the nation's business ledger last week.

Although an abrupt drop in motor production owing to strikes put a drag on industry's progress, the Associated Press index of industrial activity advanced to 105.7, highest since November 1929. A week ago it was 105.1, a year ago 81.6.

"Thousands of Easter and spring shoppers crowded retail districts throughout the country, sending the volume of trade to higher levels than the previous week and the corresponding period last year," the Department of Commerce said in its survey of 37 cities.

"Wholesale lines were likewise buoyant." Steel production rose to 87.5 per cent of capacity, highest since 1929. This rate, estimated by the American Iron & Steel Institute, compared with 85.8 a week ago and 55.8 in the like week last year.

The spot-light of steel circles was trained on higher wages, estimated to cost the industry an additional $200,000,000 a year; price upturns to meet this bill; and predictions of leaders in the industry output would hold ground gained.

FATHER ASKS AID IN HUNTING MISSING SON

LUBBOCK, March 13 (AP)—Aid of the Associated Press in locating his missing bank bookkeeper son was asked this afternoon by Walter E. Kittrell of Lubbock.

The distraught father, citing his own ailing physical condition and that of his wife, asked that the following message be addressed to his son:

"Son, your father is not well and your mother is frail. If you read this why don't you come straight home to your family and let's get this all straightened out. If you are in the wrong it would be better to come and admit it. If you did nothing wrong, your friends are here."

Burns Kittrell, the 25-year-old bookkeeper, disappeared last Sunday morning. Lubbock National bank announced Monday $11,000 in bank currency was missing from a vault of that institution.

Foul play is feared by members of the family and several investigators.

Galveston Feels Sorry for Poor Florida Tarpon

GALVESTON, March 13 (AP)—Fears expressed Friday by a Florida newspaper, the Fort Meyers News-Press, that any tarpon it might provide the Texas coast in anticipation of the visit of President Roosevelt here in April might "streak for home" when released found support in Galveston circles today.

"Texas tarpon are so big and vicious that Florida tarpon wouldn't last five minutes in local waters," said Connie Constable, veteran island angler, whose offer to "plant" some tarpon for the President prompted the Florida statement. "Even Florida tarpon are smart enough to know that. But we're grateful for the Florida offer. We could probably use a few of their tarpon for bait. It would be fun to watch them streak for home when a gang of Texas tarpon takes after them. Our mackerel and red fish could probably take care of the job themselves."

"We've got some of the best fishermen in the country along the Texas coast," he continued. "They use heavy tackle Florida to catch fish we catch on light tackle. Fishermen down here stand flat-footed and catch big fish instead of using yachts to chase them to death like they do in Florida."

HINT SENATE COMMITTEE IS EVENLY SPLIT

COURT HEARINGS MAY CONTINUE FOR MONTH

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Administration leaders, still doubtful of their ability to get a favorable vote from the Senate judiciary committee on the Roosevelt court legislation, hinted today that the hearings might continue for more than a month.

Although some committee members were already showing impatience at what they called repetitious testimony, Chairman Ashurst (D., Ariz.) said the hearings might be permitted to run until the latter part of April.

Asserting that the division within the 18 man committee is now about 9 to 9, Ashurst said he might be "stymied" in trying to get the bill out to the Senate. He expressed the belief that the longer the measure is delayed the better its prospects.

Schedule Changed

The schedule for next week's hearings was suddenly changed today, when opposition leaders notified Ashurst they would not be ready to open with testimony by Senator Wheeler (D. Mont.) as planned.

The committee chairman announced the hearings would be resumed until Tuesday, and that the administration would continue to present favorable testimony through next week.

The following week will be turned over to the opposition, he said. When the change was first announced, it was said that James M. Landis, chairman of the securities commission, would be the next administration witness. But this arrangement was cancelled later and Ashurst said he did not know who would go on.

The committee chairman said that the administration probably would put on seven state governors to testify for the Roosevelt proposal, which calls for the appointment of one new federal judge for each jurist over 70 who declines re-election.

While Ashurst was not ready to announce the governors' names, other legislators indicated the list would include:

South Carolina; George H. Sarle, of Pennsylvania; Leslie Jensen, of South Dakota; and Henry Horner, of Illinois. It was said that Governors Frank Murphy, of Michigan; Philip F. La Follette, of Wisconsin; and A. B. Chandler, of Kentucky, might round out the list of seven.

With the hearings in recess over the week-end, today brought the first real lull in a nation-wide debate that has lasted for more than a month. No major speeches were scheduled for tonight.

But both sides intend to continue their intensive campaigns for public support. A radio speech by Senator Glass (D., Va.) against the bill is scheduled for March 29.

An announcement of this speech said it would be the second major address ever made by the Virginia Senator over the radio. The first was during the 1932 campaign when Glass, supporting Mr. Roosevelt for President, replied to an attack by Ogden Mills, then secretary of the treasury.

The only new move today came from Senator Pittman (D., Nev.), one of the committee members committed to the Roosevelt bill. He suggested that the legislation be changed to make the addition of six new members to the Supreme Court mandatory instead of conditional.

The President proposed that the court be increased only if those justices over 70 years of age do not retire. Pittman said he would offer an amendment to provide for the increase regardless of retirements.

If this should be approved, he said, he would offer a constitutional amendment to prevent a further increase in the court's size.

BIG INCOME TAXPAYERS USE INSTALMENT PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—

Big income taxpayers use Uncle Sam's "easy payment plan" more than the little ones.

Under the law, taxes can be paid either in one lump by the deadline next Monday or spread over four quarterly payments.

Internal revenue books showed today about 73 per cent of the taxpayers with incomes under $5,000 pay the full amount at once, compared with 58 per cent of those having incomes over that figure.

Officials explained that tax payments in the lower bracket average only $25 to $30.

Tax payments on incomes over $5,000 average between $4,200 and $1,300, with some running into the hundreds of thousands.

LOCAL THEATERS FEATURE FAMOUS PICTURES THIS WEEK

SONG PICTURE AND MAID OF SALEM BOOKED

FOUR THEATERS WILL PRESENT ENTICING PROGRAMS

All the songs that have been first on the list in the song hit parades for some weeks will come to the La Nora theater today when

"On the Avenue" will be the feature attraction. "On the Avenue" is just one of three top-ranking pictures which the La Nora will show. The other two are "You Live Only Once," which TIME magazine said would probably be the best picture of 1937. The third film will be the highly-advertised "Maid of Salem," based on the atrocities of New England witchcraft.

The Rex theater will likely draw a big crowd today for there are almost as many Jane Withers fans as there are Shirley Temple addicts. It so happened that there are many people who like Jane Withers as much as they snoot at Shirley, the angel of lightness and sweetness.

The Dionne quintuplets with Jean Hersholt will be seen at the State in "Reunion," beginning today. The Crown theater program for the week is designed to appeal to all types of movie goers. Today, the opulent Phillips Oppenheim story, "Romance and Riches," will open with Cary Grant and Mary Brian in the leading roles. "Laughin' Irish Eyes" will come to the house Wednesday and a rip-roaring western, "Trouble and Texas," will show at the Crown Friday and Saturday.

At the La Nora. With songs by Irving Berlin carrying it to new heights of swanky melody, "On the Avenue," Twentieth Century-Fox sparkling musical production opens today at the La Nora theater, with a stellar cast of entertainers and the latest hits by the man to whose music most of the world makes love.

In this real-life romance of New York, gay and glamorous as the town itself, Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll, a combination new to musical comedy, make a handsome and romantic team, ably surrounded by such masters of mirth and melody as Alice Faye, The Ritz Brothers and George Barbier.

"On the Avenue" gets off to a hilarious start when Madeleine Carroll, as a wealthy debutante, George Barbier, as her father, and Alan Mowbray, as an explorer, enter a theater just as Dick Powell, Alice Faye and The Ritz Brothers are going into a farcical burlesque of "the home life of the richest girl in the world."

As the infuriated family stalks from the theater, voicing threats of damage suits to the manager, Madeleine heads for the stage entrance, and brushing past the doorman, snatches Alice's wig off and starts to wreck Dick's dressing room before she is ejected.

In a cooler moment, Madeleine regrets her ill-tempered rampage, and, apologizing invites Dick to dinner. Falling in love with her, Dick promises to revise the skit for their next visit. However, partly from jealousy but mostly as a lark, Dick's partner, Alice, ruins his plan by adding even more caustic lines to the burlesque.

To revenge herself on Dick for the humiliation, Madeleine not only agrees to marry the explorer, but takes over the show and fills the audience with people who walk out on him when he starts his song, "You're Laughing at Me." Columnists, tipped off in advance, report gleefully that "now they're howling at him."

The six song hits Berlin wrote for "On the Avenue," are "This Year's Kisses," "You're Laughing at Me," "Slumming on Park Avenue," "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm," "The Girl on the Police Gazette," and "He Ain't Got Rhythm."

Handsome Fred MacMurray, who has played roles as a newspaper man, Texas Ranger, band leader, society boy, engineer and whatnot, comes to the screen as a dashing Virginia cavalier in "Maid of Salem," a tender romance of Seventeenth Century America, in which he is co-starred with Claudette Colbert, and which begins on Friday at the La Nora theater.

With the exception of "The Texas Rangers," it is his first appearance in a historical film, and he was selected for the part by Frank Lloyd, three-time Academy Award winner, because he is regarded as the ideal male romantic lead for Miss Colbert, with whom he appeared in "The Gilded Lily," his first motion picture, and "A Bride Comes Home."

MacMurray plays the role of Roger Coverman, a fugitive from Virginia, where he had dared question the king's prerogative. He takes refuge in old Salem, in the Massachusetts Colony. Fear of arrest makes it necessary for him to hide in his uncle's home and it is there that he meets the lovely Puritan maiden and the romance begins.

There are secret meetings in the forest, where he teaches her the graceful measures of the gavotte, and tells her of his love. Unknown to either, they are observed and, after he leaves, when the famous witch scare of 1692 breaks out, she is accused of having dealings with the devil.

When she tells her inquisitors that it was not the devil but a handsome young man with whom she danced in the woods, they insist upon her naming him. This she refuses to do, and she is condemned to die.

She is saved from the scaffold when MacMurray returns and awakens the fear-stricken populace to the folly of the hysteria which seized them. Many characters of old Salem are redrawn in "Maid of Salem," and the entire village, as it existed in 1692, was built from old maps for authenticity.

Miss Colbert and MacMurray are supported by a brilliant cast which includes Louise Dresser, Bennie Bartlett, Gale Sondergaard, E. E. Clive, Harvey Stephens, Bonita Granville, Virginia Weidler, Rosita Butler, Beulah Bondi, Edward Ellis, Donald Meek and many others.

CROWN. What happens when a young and debonaire millionaire decides to work for a living is cleverly told in "Romance and Riches," a Garrett Keen production, starring Cary Grant, which Grand National is releasing, that comes to the Crown theater today with Mary Brian in the featured feminine role.

The story of "Romance and Riches" is based on the E. Phillips

'My Story' Bride Now First Lady

"My own dress was heavy stiff satin with shirred tulle in the neck and long sleeves," wrote Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in her autobiography, "This Is My Story." Here is a picture taken of the president's wife in that costume on that wedding day, March 17, 1905. Her Uncle Theodore, then president, gave the bride away.

Oppenheim best seller, "The Amazing Quest of Mr. Ernest Bliss," and sets forth the plight of a playboy of wealth, who thinks he is "run down," when he is merely bored with life. He goes to an eminent specialist who scoffs at him and tells him if he had to earn his living for a year he might amount to something. As it is, the great doctor says, he does not want to have his valuable time taken up by a patient so healthy and so worthless, whose hand he even refuses to shake on parting.

Whereupon the offended Mr. Bliss offers to bet the doctor $50,000 to a handshake, that he will live for a year solely on what he can earn. He turns over his home to his lawyer and sets out to find a job.

His experiences form a series of intriguing situations that range from comedy to romance and make one of the most novel and entertaining screen plays of the year. How he has fallen in love, gives Cary Grant and Mary Brian an opportunity for the romantic acting for which both are famous.

"Romance and Riches" was directed by Alfred Zeisler, formerly deputy chief of production for UFA studios in Germany, from a screen play by John L. Balderston. Besides Cary Grant and Mary Brian, the well-balanced cast includes Peter Cawthorne, Henry Kendall, Leon M. Lion, John Turnbull, Arthur Hardy, Iris Ashley and others. Otto Heller, former ace camera man for UFA, is responsible for the photography.

REX. Uncle Tom's cabin is a cabaret now and Old Man River's truckin' along in Jane Withers' new jubilee of julep time, "Can This Be Dixie?" which opens at the Rex theater today to the hilarious laughter and delight of a packed audience.

The fun really shines all the time in this new Twentieth Century-Fox song hit as "Ginger" Jane starts prancing to Harlemized lovers romancing and all the darkies prancing to Harlemized hits.

Especially notable is the expert cast, which supports the starlet. Prominent in the principal roles are Slim Summerville, Helen Wood, Thomas Beck, Sara Haden, Claude Gillingwater, Donald Cook and others.

The opening of the picture finds Slim and his niece, Jane driving along a cotton field on a southern plantation, in a dilapidated car to which is attached a trailer serving both as sleeping accommodations by night and the stage for a medicine show by day. They have enticed the darkies from the field to watch their show when Claude Gillingwater, owner of the plantation, arrives on the scene just in time to prevent the sheriff from arresting Slim and Jane for peddling without a license.

The plantation is heavily mortgaged to Donald Cook, who is using this to try and force Gillingwater's granddaughter, Helen Wood, to marry him. Helen dislikes Cook and this feeling is accentuated when she meets Thomas Beck, young northern lawyer, who visits the plantation with a prospective buyer. Helen and Beck fall in love at first sight, but Cook and his mortgage stand between them.

STATE. Suspense gives way to heart-tugs, pathos yields to hilarious laughter, and dramatic strife alternates with charming romance in "Reunion," Twentieth Century-Fox's heart-warming screen story of the Country Doctor, who summons his 3,000 "babies" back to him with all their grown-up tears and troubles and heart-pangs. "Reunion" opens today at the State theater.

In a story rich and real in romance and emotion, high-lighted by the most uproarious comedy the screen has seen in years, we follow the intertwining fortunes of the old doctor's "babies" as they come back to share their joys and tears with the man who brought them into the world. Surprise follows dramatic surprise as romantic secrets are revealed and tangled lives are set straight.

The world renowned Dionne Quints are starred and Jean Hersholt, Rochelle Hudson, Helen Vinson, Slim Summerville, Robert Kent, John Qualen and Dorothy Peterson are featured, heading the impressive cast.

The Country Doctor, Dr. Luke, played by Jean Hersholt, about to turn over to his nephew, handsome young Dr. Tony Luke, the practice he has carried on in the small town for a generation, is prevailed upon to bring together for a reunion the 3,000 persons whom he helped bring into the world and who have since scattered to all the corners of the earth. From far and wide they come, men and women of all kinds and degrees, some successful and affluent, others humble and defeated.

Germany with 3,100,000 instruments leads all European countries in the number of telephones in use. Great Britain is second with 2,400,000 and France third with 1,400,000.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S WEEK

While National Business Women's week is having its annual observance here the next six days, attention will be drawn to the important place of women in the business life of this and other cities, some as actual directors of businesses or their own professional careers, many more as dependable assistants who keep the wheels turning smoothly.

Attention to women's part in the world's work is a natural result of the nationally proclaimed week, but business women wish also to direct notice to their contributions to civic progress.

"The Business and Professional Women's club has chosen as its theme for the week, 'Team Work for Progress.' Writing on that topic, Miss Chari O. Williams, national president, says:

"In times of war and public calamity, it has been possible to achieve a high degree of co-ordinated action. . . . The recent floods, which devastated so large a section of our country, called forth cooperative effort on a tremendous scale. . . . The sinister Ohio, creeping toward helpless cities along its shores, gave practical demonstration that there are problems which do not respect state lines. . . .

"The dust clouds which are again gathering in the southwest, with their threat to health and crops, point the necessity of carefully planned, scientific management of our national resources, if American prosperity is not to vanish into thin air in this instance, lamentably thick air! . . .

"Crime prevention, taxation, power production, and social security are other important matters which have necessitated interstate co-operation. Team work for social progress is definitely under way.

"In our own communities, the need for concerted action is no less obvious. And women are admirably organized to give to community planning the impetus it so rightly deserves. Only by willing to do so can we reach those new fields of human happiness now just beyond us; only by working together can we fully realize the potentialities of this amazing age."

In Pampa, business women will include in their observance of the week a School of Citizenship luncheon, inviting members of all civic clubs to discuss their plans for their city's progress this year; and a public relations dinner at which leading business men and women will meet with leaders of city government as special guests. These are evidences of their efforts to cooperate in advancing Pampa's growth and welfare.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt left no doubt in his opening series on the Supreme Court that he can hit just as hard as his enemies have said—which seems now hard enough. Even before he turned his fire directly on the Supreme Court it was well nigh impossible to find in Washington any deep doubt that he would get what he wanted in the way of authority to appoint new members to the body.

If any Democratic members of congress questioned it, they need no longer doubt that the President intends to measure their loyalty to the Democratic party by the measure of their support for his Supreme Court proposal.

It fell to lesser lights in the administration to hammer out one of the newest weapons of argument the President used. Reduced to its simplest terms it is: The louder they howl, the more they need the cure.

As refined by the President it came out thus:

"This new roar (against the court plan) is the best evidence in the world that we have begun to keep our promises, that we have begun to move against conditions under which one-third of the nation is still ill-nourished, ill-clad, ill-housed."

Prospects that the court battle, regardless of Presidential urgency, will last a long summer recalls another battle by another Democratic president over another important issue that lasted through a long summer 24 years ago—and the President won.

In his first year President Wilson put forward the federal reserve proposal and thereby brought upon himself a mass of accusations that he was seeking to give the federal government a strangle hold on the nation's financial agencies.

Except for an occasional hurried and worried trip to Maine for week-ends with his family, Wilson stayed in Washington through a hot summer and weary fall and kept congress here also, sweating in chambers devoid of air conditioning.

Roosevelt follows a different course. He would not postpone his usual early spring trip to his "other home" in Warm Springs, Ga. And even before leaving he was making plans for a fishing trip among the fresh water shallows in the Gulf of Mexico.

He has come to the conclusion that the health of the President of the United States is a valuable public property.

TEX'S TOPICS

We have a communication from "X", of Pampa, that sends a chill up and down the spine, and turns one to conjecture about just what "X" had in mind when the thoughts were put on paper. . . . It has something to do, we feel reasonably certain, with a situation in which Death may step in and sever a friendship. . . . It reads like this:

"What is on my mind must be unloaded. . . . There are so many things about this Life that are mysteries to me. . . . Why is it that an unknown power should be permitted to terminate something beautiful? . . . It is a fear I have long entertained. . . . I look to the day when it is bound to happen. . . . I know there is nothing I can do about it. . . . But, if I go first, and I pray that I do not, I cannot understand why grief should follow my going. . . . I do not wish anyone to mourn for me. . . . Why must I leave, knowing that my stepping out of Life's picture may leave another saddened? . . . It does not seem fair to the one who is left behind. . . . Why is our scheme of Life so constituted? . . . Why?—X."

Questions of this type are just a little off our trail. . . . We suspect that this one may have been meant for Jack Tangee, the psychoanalyst, who has been appearing in Pampa for the past week. . . . However, there is among the sonnets of Christine Rossetti one called, "Remember," which is right along the line of thought that "X" apparently has in mind. . . . There is some advice in it, that may partially solve "X's" problem. . . . "Remember":

Remember me when I am gone away,
Gone far into the silent land!
When you can no more hold me by the hand,
Nor I half turn to go, yet turning stay.
Remember me when no more, day by day,
You tell me of the future that you planned:
Only remember me; you understand
I will be late to counsel then or pray.
Yet if you should forget me for awhile
And afterward remember, do not grieve:
For if the darkness and corruption leave
A vestige of the thoughts that once I had,
Better by far you should forget and smile
Than that you should remember and be sad.

If "X" can get anything out of the Rossetti sonnet that will serve to soothe his (or her) aching heart, so much the better. . . . At least it's the best we can do. . . . We sometimes wonder about things like that, too. . . . But not for long. . . . It is dangerous business. . . . We much prefer to dwell on subjects not so deep nor so difficult of understanding. . . . Like the high price of a tropical avocado, or how are the Fiji Islanders getting along with their basket-weaving? . . . It is conducive to greater brain mileage.

Pampa's Business and Professional Women will be in the thick of a national observance this week, joining locally with hundreds of similar clubs throughout the nation. . . . Something is planned for every day. . . . The annual observance will get off to an early start tomorrow with a huge public luncheon in Hotel Schneider. . . . In the past this observance has been one of the outstanding Pampa events of the year. . . . This year's program has been designed to surpass all previous efforts, according to Miss Frances Stark, publicity chairman.

Holy Week noonday worship for men is scheduled as a Pre-Easter religious innovation in Pampa. . . . Beginning Monday of Holy Week, services for men will be held daily in the club rooms of city hall. . . . The services will last one-half hour daily from 12:40 to 1:10 p. m. . . . Cooperation of all civic club members has been enlisted and during the week before Easter the clubs will dismiss promptly at 12:35 o'clock in order to permit members to attend the services at which a different speaker will appear each day. . . . The Ministerial Alliance is sponsoring the program which will run through Good Friday, March 26.

TODAY'S BIBLE THOUGHT—The prayer of one in doubt: Hide not thy face far from me; put not thy servant away in anger; thou hast been my help; leave me not, neither forsake me, O God of my salvation.—Psalms 27:9.

A Pampa Athletic Association was formed by sports fans. M. K. Brown was named chairman of the board.

Ray M. Walker was transferred to management of the Southwestern Public Service Co. at Panhandle, and W. H. Curry of Americus, Ga., was named to succeed him here.

The Daily News announced a prophecy contest, offering a prize to the person most nearly forecasting Pampa's development during the next year.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

DANGER FROM BEHIND

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Among the numerous characters abounding in this town who make for intriguing copy is the police doctor. An encounter with him is always fortunate, for he is usually in the midst of something exciting. I ran into him the other night and he took me on a fascinating journey that lasted until well after daylight.

First we went to that macabre institution, the morgue, which is to me the saddest of all places in New York. Not only because it has the melancholy of death, but because of the pitiful anonymity of those unclaimed bodies—hundreds of them—fired away in niches like so many unclaimed envelopes in a dead-letter office.

Then we went down into the badlands along East River, into what is a sliver of the famed Lower East Side. A man has been shot. The homicide detectives were already there, but they weren't doing anything. They aren't permitted to touch the body until the police doctor examines it and determines whether death was produced by murder, accident or suicide.

Meanwhile, we were off to one of the big hospitals famous for its "psych" ward. In repose here are the daffy ones who linger too long with a gin bottle. Most of the cases have a mental aspect, but occasionally people go there to refresh themselves against the rigors of fast living. Once inside, however, the patient virtually becomes a prisoner. There is always an attendant ready to pounce upon you with a straight-jacket.

In one of the wards we saw an unusual case—a battered young fellow rocking gently in a rocking chair. He moved to and fro, but every few moments he lost his balance and fell over on his face. Every time he fell he screamed and begged the attendant not to make him rock any more. However, the attendant forced him to keep on trying. It seems that the patient's equilibrium had been destroyed in an air crash. The doctors think a constant rocking in a chair will ultimately restore it.

It was in the women's ward that we came upon an unusually interesting case—a girl who insists she couldn't remember her name. Nevertheless, she wrote endless letters, destroying them as fast as they were completed, so that the authorities couldn't read them and ascertain, perhaps, something of her identity.

As we tarried outside her door she leaped up and screamed: "You can't fool me. I can't remember my own name, and if you think you can remember it, you are the crazy one and should be here in my place. I tell you I don't know who I am, and furthermore I don't know who you are, and don't you try to make them think I do either."

That was three weeks ago. The police doctor tells me she is still there.

BOY KILLS FATHER

CHICO, Calif., March 13 (AP)—Fourteen year old Sherman Shields was held in jail today despite an inquest verdict that he was justified in killing his father, A. A. Shields, 45, at nearby Newhart Mill Wednesday. The boy said he shot his sleeping father after the man allegedly attacked his 15-year old daughter, Florence.

ROSES DO SOLO WORK

PARIS (AP)—Roses are doing solo work on cocktail and evening dresses. One pink rose poses on the lapel of a yellow organdie jacket and trails a long stem down to the level of the hip pockets. A black faile evening dress has one big rose at the waist.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

This is an old story that has been told in many different ways, but retelling it in a new form does not lessen its appeal. It has to do with the command: Judge not lest ye be judged. This woman has lived in Pampa ten years and she has had a hard row to hoe. The "laws" used to bound her in Prohibition days, but no one has ever said that she was not charming; that she was not frank, open and above-board; that she dresses in a manner that most women would like to do if they possessed that rare talent of acquiring the clothes that suit their personality; that she enhances her natural beauty through education and education are likely to be chronically ill, and frequently incapacitated. In gravity, rheumatic fever tops every disease to which the younger age groups are exposed.

The rationale for being on the lookout for throat infections is as follows. The cause of rheumatic fever remains largely unknown. There is much convincing evidence pointing to the streptococci as causative agents, but just how they operate is not clear. It is certain that in rheumatic fever we are not dealing with a "blood infection." The bacteria do not actually circulate in the blood. Abscess formation is never witnessed as an integral part of the rheumatic fever disease process. The tissue changes characteristic of rheumatic fever are apparently not the direct result of the streptococci.

What then are they due to? The answer given is in terms of the toxins or poisons which the bacteria produce, and also in terms of certain peculiar constitutional reactions, of susceptible individuals to these toxins.

In simpler terms, most individuals when subjected to the toxins of streptococci, can manage them well. Others cannot, and these are the individuals who develop rheumatic fever.

Dr. Coburn of New York has shown that there is a definite delay in the immune response of rheumatic persons, compared with those of the non-rheumatic people, and that the patient who develops an attack of rheumatic fever "handles the products of the hemolytic streptococcus in a peculiar way."

Hence the argument: do not subject children to the toxins of the streptococci, and it may be possible to reduce the number of cases and the severity of rheumatic fever.

It is a good thing to consider beforehand with what purpose one wants to breed. It is the emphasis to be laid on physical size and perfection to the exclusion of all else. Brains and brawn do not necessarily go together. Many of the greatest men and women of all times have been undervalued, crippled or deformed. Either in spite of or because of the handicap they have left their mark on the world, where their healthier and bigger brothers have been forgotten.

Of course any parent wants and tries to give his child the soundest physique possible. Unfortunately many of these parents forget that a sound body is not all that is essential for man's development. The human race has reached its present state by the use of its brain and its spiritual and emotional growth.

To take a child to the doctor, feed and clothe him correctly, sun-bathe and exercise him are not enough. He must be taught to think, to reason, to feel for others; must be given spiritual ideals, have his imagination and sense of humor developed. He should specialize in those things which man has and the beasts lack.

How's Your Health?

Edited by DR. IAGO GALDSTON for the New York Academy of Medicine

RHEUMATIC FEVER

Parents may be able to contribute to the prevention of that devastating disease, rheumatic fever, by being on the lookout for evidences of frequent throat infection in their children.

When suspicion has been aroused, they should consult their physicians promptly, not merely for treatment of acute condition, but rather for a thoroughgoing study of the child and of the hazard which the infections present.

Rheumatic fever is a devastating disease. It is the leading cause of death due to heart disease among the young. Those affected are likely to be chronically ill, and frequently incapacitated. In gravity, rheumatic fever tops every disease to which the younger age groups are exposed. The rationale for being on the lookout for throat infections is as follows. The cause of rheumatic fever remains largely unknown. There is much convincing evidence pointing to the streptococci as causative agents, but just how they operate is not clear.

It is certain that in rheumatic fever we are not dealing with a "blood infection." The bacteria do not actually circulate in the blood. Abscess formation is never witnessed as an integral part of the rheumatic fever disease process. The tissue changes characteristic of rheumatic fever are apparently not the direct result of the streptococci.

What then are they due to? The answer given is in terms of the toxins or poisons which the bacteria produce, and also in terms of certain peculiar constitutional reactions, of susceptible individuals to these toxins.

In simpler terms, most individuals when subjected to the toxins of streptococci, can manage them well. Others cannot, and these are the individuals who develop rheumatic fever.

Hence the argument: do not subject children to the toxins of the streptococci, and it may be possible to reduce the number of cases and the severity of rheumatic fever.

It is a good thing to consider beforehand with what purpose one wants to breed. It is the emphasis to be laid on physical size and perfection to the exclusion of all else. Brains and brawn do not necessarily go together. Many of the greatest men and women of all times have been undervalued, crippled or deformed. Either in spite of or because of the handicap they have left their mark on the world, where their healthier and bigger brothers have been forgotten.

Of course any parent wants and tries to give his child the soundest physique possible. Unfortunately many of these parents forget that a sound body is not all that is essential for man's development. The human race has reached its present state by the use of its brain and its spiritual and emotional growth.

To take a child to the doctor, feed and clothe him correctly, sun-bathe and exercise him are not enough. He must be taught to think, to reason, to feel for others; must be given spiritual ideals, have his imagination and sense of humor developed. He should specialize in those things which man has and the beasts lack.

This, That and Everything

By JESS KELLEY

There are two types of contentment. One is a greatly needed virtue, but the other is shockingly deplorable. Having the proper relation to these opposite types of contentment is essential to a well regulated personality.

A fellow should be content to drive an old car when he is able to drive a new one. A man with small capital should content himself in the realm of business until conditions are favorable for expansion. This is not to say that one should not use legitimate means to improve his conditions, but it is saying that one ought to content himself in the grip of inevitable circumstances until by diligent effort he is able to improve those conditions.

On the other hand, it is most detrimental to progress for a person to be satisfied with life and circumstances as he finds them—and being satisfied, makes no effort to improve them. All the progress of civilization has come through this wholesome kind of discontent. It was because man was unwilling to travel by horse and buggy that he invented the automobile, train and airplane. Because mankind was not willing to accept the "status quo" in social conditions he set about to improve them. We ought never to be satisfied with anything or condition that our efforts can improve. But in all our struggle to advance along all possible lines, the inevitable should be accepted gracefully.

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD—Offhand, the cynic could divide the film population of Hollywood into two groups. The first would comprise those who want to run away from the fame and popularity to a Little Ranch Away From It All. The second group would include those who want to escape from the Little Ranch and come back to It All.

It is not surprising to find Robert Taylor already in the first group. Taylor, three years ago a stage-struck devotee of Pomona college theatricals, used to read the goings-on of film celebrities and dream envious dreams. He confesses now that pictures of what Hollywood calls "glamour" creeped across his mind's eye in splendid procession.

But now— He leaned against the wall of a White House ballroom on the set of "This Is My Affair," and deliberately summed up his discoveries about that "glamour" business.

Film Life Bored

"When I was in college," he recalled, "I thought it would be great to be a film star and go to all those parties, horseback-riding on automobiles, the Troc, the Brown Derby, the Coconut Grove, Palm Springs, Malibu Beach and the rest. But they are just a pain in the neck."

With that beginning, the next pronouncement was not the least amazing.

"I want a ranch," he said.

Taylor is co-starring in this film with Barbara Stanwyck, his real-life heart. The couple, thus united on celluloid for the second time, have one request of William Seiter, the director: that the production schedule will be arranged so that their days off will coincide.

No Wedding Gift

And instead of spending those days in the places that held so much appeal in another day, Taylor takes Barbara horseback-riding on automobiles, and ranch-shopping.

He denies that the ranch, when he buys it, will be a wedding present. It will be, he insists, just an ordinary ranch, with a ranch-type house, corals and other necessary buildings. A place, in short, where he "can get away from the noise, excitement and crowds" while enjoying his place in the Hollywood sun.

New Kind of Role

Robert Montgomery is busy on his most unusual role—in "Night Must Fall." He explained, after rehearsing a scene in which he arrives at Dame May Whitty's and Rosalind Russell's with sundry luggage including one handbag that he totes himself, that he is at once a "heavy" and an innocent, according to the point of view.

"Like to know what I've got in this bag?" he asked. "But don't tell—I would say everything." He promised, and he told. Already afflicted with sniffles, I scurried off to bed with the revelation. And now, between sneezes, I hear myself cackling crazily. Imagine Bob Montgomery—my own conception of Little Jack Horner—playing that kind of role!

H. Spikes, then past 80 years old, a resident of what is now Bryan county, Okla., took the first herd of cattle up the marked trail in the spring of 1864, to Kansas City.

Q. Who established the first newspaper in Texas, when and where?

A. Godwin Brown Cotton issued the first publication in Texas that could be called a newspaper, the Texas Gazette, published at San Felipe de Austin, Sept. 25, 1829. It was a four-page weekly, the pages nine and 11 half by twelve inches, with three columns to the page, the subscription price being $6.00 a year. It was issued somewhat irregularly until July, 1832. Cotton also edited and printed a small pamphlet of Texas history in 1829.

New Tackle Catches Anglers; Balanced Outfit Stressed

Steel vs. Bamboo
Still Battle
In Rods

BY JIMMY DONAHUE,
NEA Service Sports Editor.

Some day some one is going to declare a Christmas in March for fishermen. For March, besides being windy, is the month of preparation and anticipation for anglers, and they'd just as soon have Santa Claus fill their socks with various items of tackle they've ogled at in stores and magazines, as the usual assortment of ties, handkerchiefs, and vari-colored shorts.

Right now avid anglers are busy overhauling tackle, replacing worn items, and falling easy prey to lures that have been developed over the winter not only to entice fish, but the fishermen themselves.

This year is no exception. Counters are growing under an assortment of baits that resemble anything from a sickly looking frog to an over-ripe banana. Much of this tackle is good, a lot is fair, and some of it wouldn't catch fish with the help of a net.

But your modern Ike Walton isn't flooded by the latter. He doesn't spend millions of dollars a year for tackle without learning a lesson. They're able to discern the difference between fish getters and fishermen's goat-getters.

Fly-Casting Is Fine.

All types of fishing tackle show a big improvement this season. In the fly-casting division there is a noticeable trend toward finer tackle, with tapered lines better than ever, longer and finer leaders more in demand, and flies of the midge variety, tied on hooks size 18 and 20 getting more and more use as their value in the hot summer months is realized.

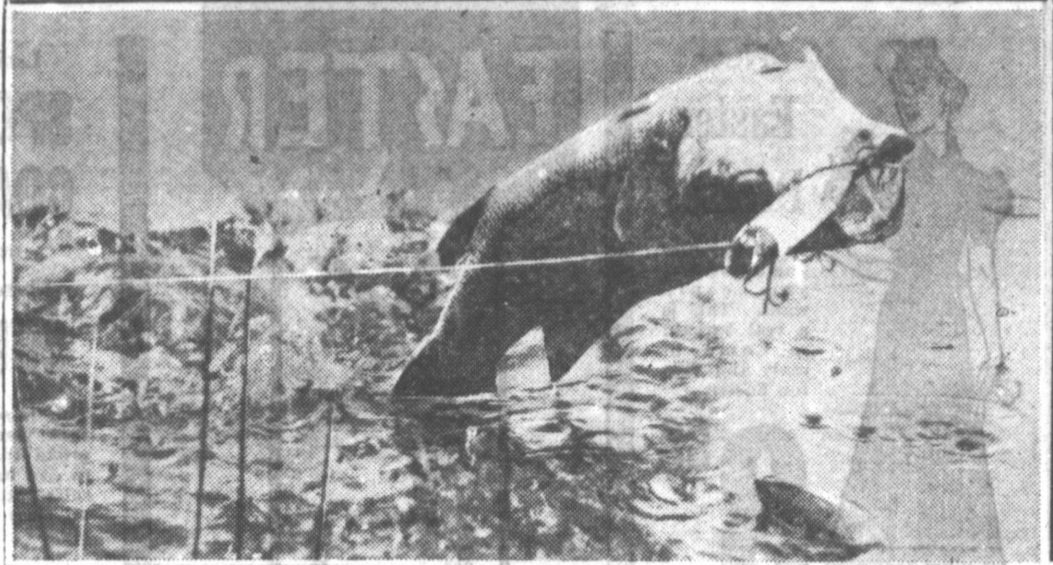

There's still the battle between hollow steel and bamboo in the rod department. The steel weapons have been further developed, having been pulled down to a weight as low as four ounces in order to give greater flexibility. Bamboo, in an effort to keep pace of the development of steel, has been incorporated into double-built sticks, and rods with steel centers.

In the matter of reels, there is a wider trend toward the automatic variety, which has been lightened considerably, and brought within a fair range.

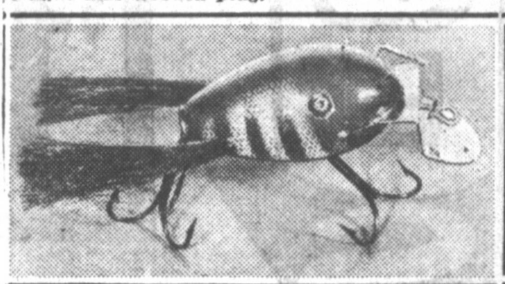

Greater effort is being made to educate the fishermen to balance his reel with rod and line.

In this connection one concern featuring balanced tackle, has employed Tony Accetta, former amateur casting champion and now king of the pros, to make a tour of the country preaching the gospel of correct balance.

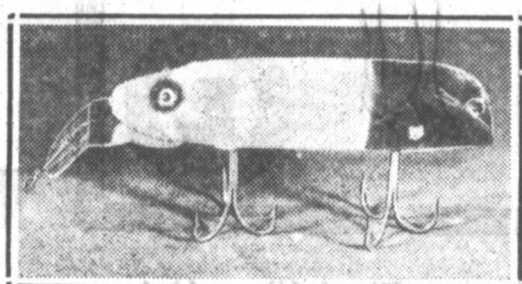

In bait casting, as in fly fishing,

A gallant warrior stages his last stand as Mr. Bass leaves his haven in pencil weeds and lily pads to fight that wooden plug.

Hair legs and a wicked wiggle in deep water is the new "ding-bat."

Two lures in one is this plug, which travels just under surface of deep.

the battle wages between steel and bamboo rods. This writer leans toward bamboo in the long rod, but favors hollow steel in bait casting, because metal rods can stand a lot more punishment.

The power steel rods with double grips are mighty effective weapons in tolling big spoons and plugs for lunge and big pike—and who would want to manhandle a good bamboo rod in that fashion!

Spiral Wind Spools Evenly. Bait casting reels continue to improve, with finer development of the level wind feature. One company has gone so far as to dispense with the line carriage and worm entirely, using a spiral wind device that spools the line evenly. Wider use of aluminum alloy in spools and chassis is making for less weight and wrist fatigue.

Getting down to the lures themselves—here are a legion. There's the new "ding-bat," a creation featuring two sets of hair legs and a mouth piece that gives the plug an erratic action while it runs deep. The bucktail legs impart a sinuous attraction that has been missing in wooden plugs for years.

Then there's the two-oreno, a two-in-one lure that has a different action for each end of the plug. Attach the line to one end and you have a wide wobbling action near the surface. The other end produces a deep darting movement.

A new "devil" bait, development of the old ace-king-queen series spoon, also incorporates a bucktail. It's a wobbler that dives deep.

Development goes forward fast in the bass bug division. Three new eye-catchers this year are the pop-eyed frog, with wriggly hair legs; a plunker bass bug, and a small brother of the river runt.

In the fly department, in addition to a wider manufacture of midge and small flies, there is growing popularity among the bi-visibles. This fly has been comparatively slow in catching on in this country because, in the quiet chalk streams of England, where our fly fishing art came from, there was little reason to employ it. However, in the rushing mountain streams of the United States, where fast water is apt to suck under a finely tied dry fly, the heavily-hacked bi-visible is right at home.

Buffaloes Play Today In Denver AAU Cage Tourney

DENVER, March 13 (AP)—Basketball's biggest show is ready for its opening cue.

Forty-six teams from 23 states will battle in the thirtieth annual National A. A. U. tournament, opening at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the Denver auditorium.

One defeat means elimination. Eight games are scheduled for tomorrow's opening program.

From Monday through Wednesday tournament games will begin in the morning about the time the average business man is shaving for his office day and continue until close to midnight.

These games will clear the way for the meet's "bargain night" Thursday night when the eight teams still left in the running will tangle in the quarter finals.

Eight teams are seeded, two of them college outfits—Long Island University and the Central Missouri Teachers, winners of a college tournament at Kansas City this week.

The seeded independent clubs include the four outstanding favorites, the Bartlesville Oilers, Hollywood Stars, Denver Safeways and Kansas City Trails, as well as the Colorado Springs Anilers and Oakland, Calif. Golden State.

The national championship is vacant, as the McPherson Refiners, 1936 winners, did not enter.

Tomorrow's round will present such reportedly strong teams as the Anderson, N. Y. Mohawks; South Bend, Ind. Brakes; Slaton, Texas. Oilers; Southern Oregon Normal, and West Texas Teachers, billed as the tallest college team in the nation.

CHARLES RUFFING IS SATISFIED WITH PAY

CHICAGO, March 13 (AP)—Big Charles (Red) Ruffing, one-half of the New York Yankees' holdout problem, is perfectly satisfied with the salary offered for his pitching services—but he insists his pitch-hitting bat is worth an additional $1,000 to Col. Jacob Ruppert.

Ruffing, whose right arm contributed 20 victories to the Yankees' rollicking run to the American league and world championship last season, set his jaw today and said he wouldn't sign a contract unless he gets paid for a .292 batting average, a good part of which was acquired in hitting for others.

Ruffing modestly admitted the Yankees probably could get along without him, but he was positive they couldn't do without his hold-out colleague, Lou Gehrig.

Columbia University's Lions have been installed the favorites to win the I. C. 4-A track-and-field title on the strength of their second-place honors in the national A. A. U. The Light Blue finished half-a-point behind the New York A. C. by uncovering several surprises.

Columbia has not won an intercollegiate A. A. U. team championship since taking the outdoor title in 1929. Last year the Lions scored only a single point in the indoor championships, finished twenty-second.

The sudden strength is due to a number of brilliant performers from freshman ranks, and to Ben Johnson, national A. A. U. 60-meter king, who again is eligible.

Certain of Coach Carl Mermer's freshmen of a year ago—Herbert West, sprinter, broad-jumper; Frank Ryan, Danny Taylor, shot-putters; Dick Ganslen, pole-vaulter—had shown enough to establish Columbia as a threat in intercollegiate competition. This winter they blossomed out beyond Coach Mermer's fondest hopes.

Sophomore West inaugurated the season by setting a new mark in the indoor 100-meter dash. Sophomore Ryan has passed the 50-foot mark with the 16-pound shot, holds one decision over Boston college's national A. A. U. champion, Dimitri Zaitz. Sophomore Taylor has been pressing the 50-foot distance.

Sophomore Ganslen was the great surprise of all. This 6-foot thin-clad became Columbia's first 14-foot pole-vaulter, when he soared to that height in the A. A. U. meet. His best previous mark had been 13 feet 3 inches in the '36 outdoor nationals.

Chance Suit, beginning stud service at Tom Platt's Kentucky breeding establishment, was the winter-book favorite for the 34 Kentucky Derby. But he never got to the post. An injury that hampered him throughout the remainder of his racing career kept Chance Sun in his stall on Derby day.

Joseph E. Widener led the list of nominators for the Marion Stakes with 14. All of these fillies will be eligible for the 1939 renewal of the event.

Four of the stallions standing at the C. V. Whitney farm in Kentucky are home-breds, namely Equipoise, Boojum, Wichone and Halycon.

Training Camp News

NEW ORLEANS, March 13 (AP)—Jeff Heath, 21 year old outfielder, made a strong bid for a regular place in the Cleveland Indians' lineup today when he knocked out a home run, a double and a single in three times at bat to lead the Indians to a 10 to 8 victory over the New Orleans Pelicans.

TAMPA, Fla., Mar. 13 (AP)—With President Powell Crowley, Jr., on the field, the Cincinnati Reds staged their second intracamp training game today, the "Kellys" winning from the "Sheenans" 13 to 1 in six innings.

SAN ANTONIO, Mar. 13 (AP)—A rookie and a second-year man are slated to divide pitching duties as the St. Louis Browns go against the Minneapolis Millers of the American association in their opening spring training game at New Braunfels tomorrow.

Julio Bonetta of Des Moines and Slim Kimberlin, who was with the Browns last season, both right handers, will do the hurling, Manager Rogers Hornsby said tonight. They will be backed up by Jim Bottomley at first, Gerry Lipscomb at second, Bill Knickerbocker at short stop and Hornsby at third, with Joe Vosmik in left field, Mel Mazzera in center and Ethan Allen in right. Benny Huffman will be the starting catcher.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 13 (AP)—The New York Yankees, opening their "grapefruit" season competition, picked up today where they left off in the 1936 world series and hammered Boston Bees' pitching for 18 hits and a 13 to 4 victory.

While a trio of rookies, Steve Sundra, Kemp Wicker and Jim Tobin were letting the Bees down with nine hits, Frank Crosetti with a homer and two singles and George Selkirk with four singles led the attack on the Boston hurlers.

CARDS DEFEAT GIANTS 4-3 IN HAVANA GAME

HAVANA, March 1 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals got to Clyde Castleman for a pair of runs in the seventh inning to nose out the New York Giants 4 to 3 in the first "grapefruit league" battle between these National league rivals.

Eleven thousand fans turned out in Tropical stadium to see the gas house gang come from behind after Hal Schumacher and Cliff Melton had held them in check from the second inning through the sixth. They had worked Schumacher for their first two runs in the opening frame.

Bill McKechnie is the keeper of the Boston Bees and as such doesn't have to work, but he does anyway, banging out flies to the outfield during practice at Waterfront Park, St. Petersburg, Fla.

THREE MEET RECORDS FALL IN AAAA MEET

NEW YORK, March 13—Three meet records fell today as a crack band of athletes opened competition in the annual intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships.

Danny Taylor, Columbia weightman, and Dimitri Zaitz of Boston college were winners of the two finals decided this afternoon, at the new meet record distance of 50 feet 9 5/8 inches.

Irving Fowlartshny, husky Rhode Island State star, annexed the other championship, in the 35-pound weight throw, with a fine toss of 57 feet, 6 5/8 inches, only 2 3/8 inches back of the record established by Henry Dreyer, also of Rhode Island, two years ago.

The other meet records created during the day were credited to Jack Donovan and William Watson, Dartmouth's crack hurdlers, and Ben Johnson, Columbia's ace sprinter and broad-jumper.

Donovan and Watson were clocked in 7 5/8 seconds for the 110 yard hurdles, in the 60-yard high hurdles, two tenths of a second better than the record hung up by Harold E. Barron of Penn State 15 years ago.

Johnson cleared 24 feet 1-8 inch to lead the qualifiers in the broad jump and bettered his own meet record by 7-16ths of an inch. The old mark was 23 feet 11 11-16 inches.

Columbia, not favorite to win the team title, scored 11-2 points in the afternoon's two finals and seemed assured of five more by virtue of Johnson's fine showing in the broad jump.

GRID SCHEDULE FOR 3-B IS ANNOUNCED

Harvesters Scrimmage Exes Again Next Friday

May the best man win, will be the undercurrent felt at Harvester field this week as the Harvesters prepared for another battle with the exes in school at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Coaches Odus Mitchell and J. C. Prejean have decided to stage an elimination tournament, especially at the guard and tackle positions, during the week. Other places will also be at stake but the most interesting battles are expected at the two positions.

It has practically been decided to switch John Henry Nelson over to a guard position along with J. P. Mathews. That will leave the injured Bill Stiles and LaFolia Watts to battle against them for starting honors, and the fight is scheduled to be keen.

Looking over the tackle situation, one will find Oliver Goshaw, changed from a guard job, Tommy Solomon in the midst of battle for one side of the line and Kenneth New and Carl Brown at war for the other tackle job.

Arthur Harding and Melvin Turner, working at center instead of in the backfield, are hoped to be other pair of battlers with Norman Cox and Harry McManan duelling at end.

In the backfield the prospects are more numerous than in a long time. The race for positions has not narrowed down to a heated one as yet.

Boys who failed to get a chance to show their stuff in last week's scrimmage will be called on to do duty this week, coaches said yesterday.

SUMMERS, SEITZ, DANBY OFF TO BASEBALL WARS

Two of last year's stars on the Pampa Road Runner baseball club today were enroute to join professional baseball clubs and a third was already at his destination with a semi-pro club.

Yesterday afternoon Al Summers, sensational little second baseman, left for Oklahoma City, enroute to Jacksonville, where the Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas league will hold their spring training camp. Summers signed a contract with the Indians last summer.

On Friday afternoon big Grover Seitz, centerfielder, left for Birmingham to join the Southern association club. The Barons will train on their home lot, Birmingham scouts tried to sign Seitz during the Denver Post tournament last summer but it was not until last week that he came to terms.

Lee Danby, pitcher, left Pampa for Seminole, Okla., where he planned to join the Seminole independent team which is being strengthened for a stiff season. No word has been received from the Indian ace since he left.

EMORY AND CELESTE IN STATE CAGE FINALS

HILLSBORO, March 13. (AP)—Emory defeated Allison, 30 to 29, and Celeste won from Bullard, 44 to 42, in the state A. A. U. girls' basketball tournament here this afternoon.

Emory and Celeste will battle for the state championship which was won last year by Plainview.

Coach Ed Gallagher, who has been turning out national and Olympic wrestling champions at Oklahoma A. & M. college for 21 years, announces: "My 1937 team will be the greatest I've ever had."

Young People to Conduct Service

Work of the young people has always had a prominent place in the Methodist church and each year during the spring this department is celebrated by Young People's Anniversary day. The purpose of the Anniversary day is to awaken in the young people themselves a sense of responsibility in the total program of the church, helping them to see that they have a part in it and at the same time helping adults understand their responsibility to the young people. This program is rendered at the evening preaching hour by the young people themselves. The theme this year is "Sharing Responsibility in the Family of God." This program will be rendered Sunday evening at the First Methodist church, at 7:30.

At 8 o'clock the young people will be guests at a banquet served in the dining room of the church by the Friendship and Brotherhood classes. The program will be in charge of the Fidelity class.

The subject of the pastor, Rev. Will C. House, at the 11 o'clock hour will be "Flint-faced Purpose."

A cordial invitation is extended to all of these services.

LEGION AUXILIARY

Carefully Planned Shopping Scheme Results in Smart Easter Wardrobe

By MARIAN YOUNG
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—For daytime hours, an Easter suit, a redingote, consisting of a wool coat and print frock, an extra dress that can be worn under the coat, and two sets of accessories comprise an almost complete wardrobe that's ultra-smart, too.

Any woman who gets such a wardrobe now simply will not have clothes problems until midsummer, when a cotton dress or a washable silk or two seem in order.

The trick, of course, is to decide on a color scheme, then stick to it. The girl who always says, "I haven't a thing to wear," proclaims to the world that she mixes her color schemes, doesn't plan ahead—in other words, shops unwisely.

Envision Future Purchases
For example suppose you decide to have a gray or beige suit for Easter, and a navy redingote a week or two later. If you get navy accessories to wear with the suit, they'll be lovely with the redingote, too.

Be on the lookout always for amusing belts, an unusual scarf, a tricky clip or some other piece of costume jewelry. Make a hobby of collecting smart accessories—it's important. Keep a supply on hand—be sure that they blend with the main accessories, hat, shoes, bag and gloves—constantly change them, and you will find that one good dress and suit will make a season's wardrobe.

One interesting redingote, designed by Janet Hollander, consists of an unlined navy coat over one of the famous Hollander garden prints. This particular dress is a pompadour print—blue and white pompons with green leaves on a navy background. The sleeves are puffed and very short. The only trimming is a navy patent leather belt two inches wide and a white lingerie jabot that is worn outside the coat.

Changes of Accessories
To wear under the same coat, there is a charming navy sheer frock with skirt stitched to resemble an accordion pleating. It has the new wide, low neckline with lace collar and cuffs, and a high belted waistline.

The navy sheer is a fine chance to use different changes of neckwear. For instance, a georgette collar of Colonial influence is lovely, or a dainty gilet with a waistcoat belt. Flowers are good too. A single flower or a tiny cluster is chic and attractive worn at the neck or shoulder. Wooden jewelry in floral or modernistic designs adds a certain something to a dress.

With an eye for careful and wise shopping, then, and an enthusiastic interest in accessories, there is no reason why any woman can't get along with a suit, a dress and a redingote for spring.

When elements of a wardrobe are planned for wear together, like this Janet Hollander redingote and frock, the effect of an extensive wardrobe can be economically obtained. The unlined navy coat (left) is worn over a garden print frock in blue, white and green. The white lingerie jabot is worn outside the coat. The charming navy sheer frock (right) is stitched to resemble accordion pleating and can be worn with a variety of accessories.

District Lunch Of P-TA Has 125 Members Present

By Betty Pearson Hodges
District P-TA Publicity Chairman

"The home and school must understand each other and combine in methods and aims, not contradict," said Dr. Carleton Washburne, famous educator and head of the Winnetka, Ill., schools, to the parents and teachers who met for a luncheon Friday at the annual Northwest Texas Conference for Education at Canyon.

"It is the duty of parents to see that schools are expressing the highest ideals, Boards of education represent the parents and should give democratic representation. Boards and superintendents are ready to move forward but must be assured that the populace is ready for smaller classes and innovations in the educational field. Parents can help make the schools by showing that the populace is with the leaders by fostering every forward movement and if necessary getting rid of the elements that react against the best of the system."

About 125 representatives of P-TA units from the eighth district were present at the luncheon held at Randall hall. Mrs. Dan Sanders, president of the Canyon unit, acted as toastmaster. S. H. Condon, president of the P-TA unit at Canyon, Mrs. J. M. Crain of Amarillo gave the response to the welcome. Two violin numbers were played by Robert Axtell of Amarillo. Mrs. J. E. Griggs of Amarillo introduced the district officers and prominent guests present from the Panhandle.

Supt. Irby Carruth, president of the conference this year and head of the Canyon schools, presented Dr. Washburne.

Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar of Pampa, president of the eighth district, spoke of plans for the P-TA spring conference in Perryton, April 1 and 2, urging the importance of unit reports the first morning of the conference and mentioning the Youth Panel, "Let's Get Acquainted" luncheon and "What Junior High Pupils Think of Their Parents."

Mrs. Hunkapillar was also one of the main speakers on the afternoon's conference program when she explained "The Why of the Parent-Teacher Association." She said in part, "The Parent-Teacher association was organized to serve the youth of the land and is the largest organized force in the world for child welfare. The idea and ideal of the organization are the rocks on which organization stands. Child rearing is a process in which both the school and home have much to do. Cooperation between them is the bridge which spans the chasm which has grown up between the teacher and the parent in recent years, and the children are the girders which hold the bridge together."

In a conference period that followed the general session Friday afternoon, P-TA members met to discuss further details for the Perryton conference. Representing Ochiltree county which will be the host were Mrs. W. B. LaMaster, Mrs. O. C. Shuster and Mrs. W. B. Irwin, who urged that the number of delegates who will attend the conference, and when they will arrive, to be sent to Mrs. Jack Allen, homes chairman at Perryton.

Vice-presidents of the district announced their plans for different features on the conference program which will begin promptly at 9:45, April 1.

The eighth district organization wishes to highly commend the excellent cooperation of the W. T. S. T. C. and its president, Dr. J. A. Hill, in the reception received by the association in meeting at Canyon, and to thank Mrs. T. V. Reeves for her part in the publicity which helped in getting such a large attendance.

All units who expect to receive standard or super rating this year should notify Mrs. Harry Craig of Miami before April 1.

Men, Too, Will Have Easter Color

By WALTER C. PARKES
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — The lowliest buck private in the rear rank of the Easter parade will be a pretty smartly dressed citizen in any one of the new spring suits. Variety of pattern, color and fabric guarantee an interesting parade, while tailoring of a high quality that sets a new high for ready-made suits insures a very spruce turn-out.

Extreme styles employing heavily padded shoulders, and sharply defined waistlines are taboo among the "regulars" and are only seen on those "artorial" camp-followers who never quite catch up. The whole trend is toward civilized conservatism typified by natural shoulders and easy drape.

For many men, Easter has come to be the springboard from which they dive into spring wardrobes. And "wardrobes" is right, because more and more men are realizing that there's something in this business of being dressed for the occasion and are buying several suits, each with its own defined purpose.

Dress-Up Suit First Thought
The morning parade and ensuing Easter festivities being "dress-up" occasions, the chap using Easter as an alibi for a sartorial splurge will give first consideration to a "dress-up" suit. He'll choose one whose general effect is toward the darker blues and grays.

If he has noted recent style trends, he'll know that stripes, in one form or another, are popular. They may be simple pencil stripes, or progress from these through broken stripes, double and triple ones, frequently of different colors, to quite broad stripes on self-figured grounds such as herringbones and pin-point effects.

The best fabric for a "dress-up" suit is an unfinished worsted, whose soft finish, while tight enough to hold a good crease, has a depth of color that enhances the "dress" effect.

Another item in the spring wardrobe is the "business suit," as distinct from the "dress-up" outfit. These are really the wheel-horses of the average man's wardrobe. Because they must stand the gaff of much sitting, walking and riding, while still retaining their spruce appearance, they are best in hard-finished worsteds such as sharkskins and twists.

More Leeway in Pattern
There is a little more leeway in pattern, although it still should be subdued enough not to shock the boss or take the customer's minds off their buying. This spring you'll find featured stripes on figured grounds, herringbones and small, quiet plaids and checks. The general effect of these new suitings is a medium blue, gray or brown, despite the fact that close examination discloses that the weave actually embodies several bright colors.

The man who wants (and is able) to go whole hog on his spring wardrobe at Easter time will also include a suit of soft, casual woolen, such as tweed, cheviot or shetland for wear away from business. Suits of these soft materials will not hold a sharp crease, and hence always present a casual, easy-going, un-business-like appearance, entirely consistent with their purpose which is for wear in the country, for holidays and weekend play.

It is in these "away-from-the-office" suits that a man's flare for color can be given play. They run to plaids in fairly bold color, and the high style note for spring is plaids with bright overplaid effects. Color is the keynote, and the idea would seem to be "let your conscience be your guide."

PAMPAN MAKES TRIP.
AUSTIN, March 13.—A group of University of Texas students in business administration, principally those in production management courses, recently made an inspection tour of the plants of the Texas Quarries, Inc., Austin. Frequent trips of this kind to plants in Austin and nearby towns are made to familiarize the students with actual production methods. Among those who made the trip was Clinton Evans of Pampa.

Texas shippers say Mexican tomatoes are coming through Rio Grande ports in large quantities for shipment to terminal markets in the United States.

The artist seems to have portrayed Mrs. Van Astorbilt in the lower left hand corner, but she's really supposed to be Boutonniere Betsy, the old flower gal selling a lapel nosegay to Easter paraders. The brokerish-looking chap at the left exemplifies current style in "dressy" outfits, with a double-breasted suit of unfinished worsted having a well-spaced broken pencil stripe on a dark ground. Light-weight homburg, pastel shirt with starched white collar and solid-colored tie are accessories that enhance the "dressy" effect. His lantern-jawed pal goes casual in a 3-button, single breasted Shetland-type suit with a bold Glen Urquhart plaid. His gray-green snap brim hat, button-down oxford shirt and wool tie also match the casual character of his suit.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a secretary knock before entering her employers' private office?

2. In writing a business letter is "Gentlemen" or "Dear Sirs" the preferred salutation?

3. Is it good form to date a business letter "3-1-37"?

4. When should the numerical names of streets be spelled out?

5. Should one answer a business telephone with "hello"?

What would you do if—

You were a secretary whose employer calls attention to a mistake in a letter which he has dictated—

(a) Say, "I'm sure you dictated it that way?"

(b) Say, "Some one interrupted me when I was transcribing my notes?"

(c) Say, "I'm sorry. I'll rewrite it, Mr. Brown?"

Answers

1. No, she should slip in as unobtrusively as possible. Good judgment will tell her when he should not be interrupted at all.

2. "Gentlemen" is preferred.

3. No, use "March 1, 1937."

4. When expressed in one or two numbers, "Twenty-fourth street;" but one writes 155th Street.

5. No, one should establish identity as soon as possible by giving the name of the firm and his name or that of the department.

Best "What Would You Do?" solution—c. Admit mistakes gracefully. Alibis are bad.

BURNING SHIP IS ABANDONED IN MID-OCEAN

PASSENGERS PICKED UP BY AMERICAN CRUISER

HONOLULU, March 13 (AP)—Passengers abandoned the burning British freighter Silverlarch in mid-Pacific today but found quick rescue when the American cruiser Louisville sped more than 350 miles in less than 12 hours to pick them up.

The cruiser reached the scene at 1:46 p. m. (PST) as persistent flames crept through the Silverlarch's hull and forced her engines to a stop, as she was moving with all possible speed toward Honolulu and the on-rushing disaster.

In the van of four destroyers and the coast guard cutter Roger P. Taney, the Louisville made 28 knots (about 32 miles an hour) from a point a few miles north of Honolulu to the stricken freighter, which lay more than 400 miles north-northeast of the Hawaiian port.

She immediately began picking up the passengers, who took to lifeboats as Freight Captain F. H. Henderson reported the flames "creeping again," and advised he would stand by.

That call, at 11:31 a. m. (PST), brought the Destroyers Rathburne, Talbot, Waters and Dent also racing to the scene from near Pearl Harbor, toward which they were bound.

Captain Henderson asked the Louisville for instructions on the handling of the freighter as the cruiser approached, and soon the passengers were being rowed to the man-o-war.

The Silverlarch listed eight passengers and a crew of about 40 when she left Los Angeles March 4 for Manila.

Still short of Honolulu, the oil laden 5,122-ton ship developed a fire in her hold early Thursday. She reported the blaze but shortly thereafter advised it apparently was under control. The flames welled up again yesterday. Racing toward Honolulu, the Silverlarch again reported the possibility of curbing the fire pending arrival in port.

At 2 a. m. (PST) today, however, the freighter master advised he was "afraid cannot control fire in No. 3 hold. Will ships take note. Would like to transfer passengers."

District Lunch Of P-TA Has 125 Members Present

By Betty Pearson Hodges
District P-TA Publicity Chairman

"The home and school must understand each other and combine in methods and aims, not contradict," said Dr. Carleton Washburne, famous educator and head of the Winnetka, Ill. schools, to the parents and teachers who met for a luncheon Friday at the annual Northwest Texas Conference for Education at Canyon.

"It is the duty of parents to see that schools are expressing the highest ideals. Boards of education represent the parents and should give democratic representation. Boards and superintendents are ready to move forward but must be assured that the populace is ready for small-er classes and innovations in the educational field. Parents can help make the schools by showing that the populace is with the leaders by fostering every forward movement and if necessary getting rid of the elements that react against the best of the system."

About 125 representatives of P-TA units from the eighth district were present at the luncheon held at Randall hall. Mrs. Dan Sanders, president of the Canyon unit, acted as toastmaster. S. H. Condon gave the invocation followed by a welcome from Mrs. Harry Brown, of Canyon. Mrs. J. M. Crain of Amarillo gave the response to the welcome. Two violin numbers were played by Robert Astell of Amarillo. Mrs. J. E. Origgs of Amarillo introduced the district officers and prominent guests present from the Panhandle.

Supt. Irby Carruth, president of the conference this year and head of the Canyon schools, presented Dr. Washburne.

Mrs. C. T. Hunkapillar of Pampa, president of the eighth district, spoke of plans for the P-TA spring conference in Perryton, April 1 and 2, urging the importance of unit reports the first morning of the conference and mentioning the Youth Panel, "Let's Get Acquainted" luncheon and "What Junior High Pupils Think of Their Parents."

Mrs. Hunkapillar was also one of the main speakers on the afternoon conference program on which she explained "The Why of the Parent-Teacher Association." She said in part, "The Parent-Teacher association was organized to serve the youth of the land and is the largest organized force in the world for child welfare. The idea and ideal of the organization are the same. Child rearing is a process in which both the school and home have much to do. Cooperation between them is the bridge which spans the chasm which has grown up between the teacher and the parent in recent years, and the children are the girder which hold the bridge together."

In a conference period that followed the general session Friday afternoon, P-TA members met to discuss further details for the Perryton conference. Representing Ochiltree county which will be the host were Mrs. W. B. LaMaster, Mrs. O. C. Shuster, and Mrs. W. B. Irwin, who urged that the number of delegates who will attend the conference, and when they will arrive, to be sent to Mrs. Jack Allen, home chairman at Perryton.

Vice-presidents of the district announced the plans for different features on the conference program which will begin promptly at 9:45, April 1.

The eighth district organization wishes to highly commend the excellent cooperation of the W. T. S. T. C. and its president, Dr. J. A. Hill, in the reception received by the association in meeting at Canyon, and to thank Mrs. T. V. Reeves for her part in the publicity which helped in getting such a large attendance.

All units who expect to receive standard or super rating this year should notify Mrs. Harry Craig of Miami before April 1.

Men, Too, Will Have Easter Color

By WALTER C. PARKES
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — The lowliest buck private in the rear rank of the Easter parade will be a pretty smartly dressed citizen in any one of the new spring suits. Variety of pattern, color and fabric guarantee an interesting pageant, while tailoring of a high quality that sets a new high for ready-made suits insures a very spruce turn-out.

Extreme styles employing heavily-oaked shoulders, and sharply defined waistlines are taboo among the "regulars" and are only seen on those "artorial camp-followers who never quite catch up. The whole trend is toward civilized conservatism typified by natural shoulders and easy drape.

For many men Easter has come to be the springboard from which they dive into spring wardrobes. And "wardrobes" is right, because more and more men are realizing that there's something in this business of being dressed for the occasion and are buying several suits, each with its own defined purpose.

Dress-Up Suit First Thought
The morning parade and ensuing Easter festivities being "dress-up" occasions, the chap using Easter as an alibi for a sartorial splurge will give first consideration to a "dress-up" suit. He'll choose one whose general effect is toward the darker blues and greys.

If he has noted recent style trends, he'll know that stripes, in one form or another, are popular. They may be simple pencil stripes, or progress from these through broken stripes, double and triple ones, frequently of different colors, to quite broad stripes on self-figured grounds such as herringbones and pin-point effects.

The best fabric for a "dress-up" suit is an unfinished worsted, whose soft finish, while tight enough to hold a good crease, has a depth of color that enhances the "dress" effect.

Another item in the spring wardrobe is the "business suit," as distinct from the "dress-up" outfit. These are really the wheel-horses of the average man's wardrobe. Because they must stand the gauntlet of much sitting, walking and riding, while still retaining their spruce appearance, they are best in hard-finished worsteds such as sharkskins and twists.

More Leeway in Pattern
There is a little more leeway in pattern, although it still should be subdued enough not to shock the boss or take the customer's minds off their buying. This spring you'll find featured stripes on figured grounds, herringbones and small quiet plaids and checks. The general effect of these new suitings is a medium blue, gray or brown, despite the fact that close examination discloses that the weave actually embodies several bright colors.

The man who wants (and is able) to go whole hog on his spring wardrobe at Easter time will also include a suit of soft, casual woolen, such as tweed, cheviot or shetland for wear away from business. Suits of these soft materials will not hold a sharp crease, and hence always present a casual, easy-going, un-business-like appearance, entirely consistent with their purpose which is for wear in the country, for holidays and weekend play.

It is in these "away-from-the-office" suits that a man's flare for color can be given play. They run to plaids in fairly bold color, and the high style note for spring is plaids with bright overlaid effects. Color is the keynote, and the idea would seem to be "let your conscience be your guide."

PAMPAN MAKES TRIP
AUSTIN, March 13.—A group of University of Texas students in business administration, principally those in production management courses, recently made an inspection tour of the plants of the Texas Engine Works and the Texas Quarries, Inc., Austin. Frequent trips of this kind to plants in Austin and nearby towns are made to familiarize the students with actual production methods. Among those who made the trip was Clinton Evans of Pampa.

Texas shippers say Mexican tomatoes are coming through Rio Grande ports in large quantities for reshipment to terminal markets in the United States.

The artist seems to have portrayed Mrs. Van Astorbilt in the lower left hand corner, but she's really supposed to be Boutoniere Betsy, the old flower girl selling a lapel nosegay to Easter paraders. The brokerish-looking chap at the left exemplifies current style in "dressy" outfits, with a double-breasted suit of unfinished worsted having a well-spaced broken pencil stripe on a dark ground. Light-weight homburg, pastel shirt with starched white collar and solid-colored tie are accessories that enhance the "dressy" effect. His lantern-jawed pal goes casual in a 2-button, single breasted Sheiland-type suit with a bold Glen Urquhart plaid. His gray-green snap brim hat, button-down oxford shirt and wool tie also match the casual character of his suit.

Miss Charl Ormond Williams, president of the national federation, will preside. Speakers for the amendment will be: Mrs. Stephen Fell, chairman of the national council of The Woman's Party; Mrs. Betty Gram Swing, newspaper writer and lecturer and member of the national council of The Woman's Party; Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, of suffrage fame and leader of women.

Opposing the measure will be: Miss Dorothy Kenyon, first deputy commissioner of licenses in New York City, and attorney; Miss Rhoda McCulloch, editor of the Woman's Press; Miss Mabel Leslie, member of the executive board of the Women's

MAYOR W. A. BRATTON

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, Our nation is foremost in the world in the advancement of women in public affairs and it is through the efforts of the Business and Professional women that many of the grave problems that confront us today are satisfactorily solved, they unflinchingly give freely of their time and ability to civic and social problems of their respective communities.

THEREFORE, It is a pleasure for me as Mayor of the City of Pampa to endorse National Business and Professional Women's Week March 14 to 20, and to ask the aid and cooperation of all citizens in making this week one of study and community problems and of cooperation with business women in their efforts to evolve some kind of satisfactory solution to the pressing social and economic problems confronting our people.

IN TESTIMONY THEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name, this the 13th day of March, A. D. 1937.

W. A. BRATTON
Mayor of Pampa.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a secretary knock before entering her employers' private office?

2. In writing a business letter is "Gentlemen" or "Dear Sirs" the preferred salutation?

3. Is it good form to date a business letter "3-1-37"?

4. When should the numerical names of streets be spelled out?

5. Should one answer a business telephone with "hello"?

What would you do if—
You were a secretary whose employer calls attention to a mistake in a letter which he has dictated—
a) Say, "I'm sure you dictated it that way."
b) Say, "Some one interrupted me when I was transcribing my notes."
c) Say, "I'm sorry. I'll rewrite it, Mr. Brown."

Answers
1. No, she should step in as unobtrusively as possible. Good judgment will tell her when he should not be interrupted, at all.
2. "Gentlemen" is preferred.
3. No, use "March 1, 1937."
4. When expressed in one or two numbers, as twenty-fourth street; but one writes 15th Street.
5. No, one should establish identity as soon as possible by giving the name of the firm and his name or that of the department.
Best "What Would You Do?" solution—c. Admit mistakes gracefully. Alibis are bad.

BURNING SHIP IS ABANDONED IN MID-OCEAN

PASSENGERS PICKED UP BY AMERICAN CRUISER

HONOLULU, March 13 (AP)—Passengers abandoned the burning British freighter Silverlarch in mid-Pacific today but found quick rescue when the American cruiser Louisville sped more than 350 miles in less than 12 hours to pick them up.

The cruiser reached the scene at 1:46 p. m. (PST) as persistent flames crept through the Silverlarch's hull and forced her engines to a stop, as she was moving with all possible speed toward Honolulu and the on-rushing cruiser.

In the van of four destroyers and the coast guard cutter Roger P. Taney, the Louisville made 28 knots (about 32 miles an hour) from a point a few miles north of Honolulu to the stricken freighter, which lay more than 400 miles north-northeast of the Hawaiian port.

She immediately began picking up the passengers, who took to lifeboats as Freighter Captain F. H. Henderson reported the flames "creeping again," and advised he would stand by.

That call, at 11:31 a. m. (PST) brought the Destroyers Rathburne, Talbot, Waters and Dent also racing to the scene from near Pearl Harbor, toward which they were bound.

Captain Henderson asked the Louisville for instructions on the handling of lifeboats as the cruiser approached, and soon the passengers were being rowed to the man-of-war.

The Silverlarch listed eight passengers and a crew of about 40 when she left Los Angeles March 4 for Manila.

Still short of Honolulu, the oil laden 5,122-ton ship developed a fire in her hold early Thursday. She reported the blaze but shortly

A St. Patrick party will be given Wednesday by the Woodrow Wilson troop at the Little House. Troop six will have a regular meeting Tuesday at 4, troop one Saturday at 4.

SPECULATION

Bond dealers admit that their market has taken a turn for the worse. It is now a "buyer's" affair. The period of merely filling orders has passed. It is also admitted that the underwriting of new issues involves greater risks than were present a half year ago.

As previously disclosed by our correspondent, this situation is due to the constant narrowing of yields. It may now be added that with the share markets stronger and more active, bond buyers are really interested only in issues which carry convertible rights. This accounts for the easy tone in the high grades and the active demand for the second grades.

Conservative bond interests say that the current situation will rule as long as the stock market continues active and firm. It is added that there will not be a strong investment market unless and until the administration puts a damper on the country's hunger for speculative profits.

PROBLEM

The New Deal administration is eager to promote a building boom—especially in home building. Steel is an important factor in construction work. The price has been jacked up from $3 to $8 a ton. Reason? Increased raw material and labor costs.

To corporate executives the steel price increase means higher building costs. Now they wonder if construction work will be on as large a scale as had been anticipated by the administration. They also wonder whether there will be repercussions from Washington.

ODDS AND ENDS

Socony-Vacuum Oil has the broadcasting rights for all 1937 football games in the Yale Bowl. Radio-Keith-Orpheum will not build its own film laboratory—Consolidated Film Industries signed a new three-year contract to do the work. Thompson Manufacturing is selling an electric hair brush on same principle as the electric shaver. Hercules Motors manufactures the Diesel engines in the Diamond-T trucks—they're of the 6-cylinder variety with four in the making. Serval has a new miniature "Electrolux" refrigerator for the house auto trailer. Tricolor's suit against Technicolor starts March 16—involves alleged infringement of a 1922 patent relating to color cameras. If Ferro Enamel can raise the money it will acquire a half interest in American Rolling Mills subsidiary operating enamel smelting plants in foreign countries. Waterman fountain pen—always family controlled—will offer shares to the public and have them listed on the Big Board.

OUTLOOK

Informed retail organizations see a continuation of the upswing in the current prosperity movement. The belief is based on the higher level of mass purchasing power. Department stores, local merchants and chain store organizations are said to be in a favorable position to benefit. Mail order companies are rated in a doubtful position because there is a belief current that agricultural prices and farm income may be lower this year. Labor difficulties are not regarded as important. These are considered transitory. One the whole, the confidential survey being circulated amongst leading sales executives indicates that the full year's business results will better those of last year.

TOOLS

According to tool trade insiders the industry is in the best condition since the World War. Domestic and foreign orders continue to accumulate in large volume. This has been so since the fall months of last year. Because of the heavy demand orders are being booked for deliveries from five to six months ahead. On special types of machine and tool deliveries aren't promised within eight months.

With manufacturing plants active on large scale rehabilitation and modernization programs, domestic business is the best since 1930. As for foreign orders tool plants overseas are active on war preparations.

and America therefore is the only market for tool buying. To foreigners even the eight months' delivery prospect is regarded as attractive.

RAILS

Bond experts are again urging friends into low-priced rail issues. It is shown that as freight revenues improve reorganization prospects become more favorable. But the new enthusiasm is based on another point. It is felt that the overhanging wage discussion will soon be amicably settled. With that problem out of the way, it will be "clear ahead" for a speculative move in the low-priced railroad liens.

REPORTS ARE THAT:

Interstate Hosiery Mills has acquired Hancock Hosiery Mills and John Browley Mills. Speculative interests switching steels, motors and accessories into rails, oils and copper. Cincinnati people look for Proctor & Gamble extra dividends. The market play in Callahan Zinc is over with the trading public left holding the proverbial bag—how about it, S. E. C.? National Tea common listed because of new management policies. Phillips-Jones didn't participate in the business improvement as did Manhattan Shirt and others—1936 financial report told as much. Sugar tax uncertainty accounts for bad market action of sugar equities. Higher wages to workers may mean larger business volume for Consolidated Laundries. For first quarter this year Atlas Plywood will show close to $1 a share. South Porto Rico's sugar crop will run same as last year. A statistical service says Southern Railway will show $4 a share for 1937—rail interests can't see it. Fertilizing issues popular because of American Agricultural Chemical's dividend boost. Long-pull interests not disturbing holdings of Pacific-to Mills—company doing nicely.Dope sheets say Socony-Vacuum will net $2.50 a share this year—officials glad to hear it.While Motor's $2,000,000 expansion program does away with all chances of a nearby dividend for common shares.And, that Columbia Broadcasting System's share will be split two for one and listed on New York Stock Exchange.

PRESIDENT APPOINTS 33-YEAR OLD JUDGE

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 13 (AP)—The nation's youngest federal judge, Alfred P. Murrah, 33, takes his oath of office today—and he said he'll be ready to quit when he is 70.

"I'll have 37 years on the bench," he said, "and by that time I'll be ready to retire."

He was confirmed recently to a roving assignment as the state's fourth federal district judge. Ten years out of law school, Murrah first established himself as a lawyer in oil-booming Seminole, Okla., and later here before he was nominated to the $10,000-a-year federal judgeship by President Roosevelt.

Senator Josh Lee (D., Okla.) introduced Murrah to the President when Murrah, among others, was being considered for the place on the bench.

The President turned to Lee, Murrah said, and declared: "He's young enough. Is he liberal enough?"

"Does he recognize the rights of the man in the street as well as the man in the skyscraper?" Murrah did not disclose Lee's reply.

Brazil has approximately $226,143,600 paper money currently in circulation.
