JFK Sees Production Of $600 Billion

Orbit Of Astronaut Delayed Second Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—United States' plans to send astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., three times around the earth were postponed a second time today, probably until next Saturday.

Reliable sources reported additional days were needed to completely check out faulty oxygen system in the environmental control system. This system, which feeds oxygen to the astronaut's pressurized space suit, developed problems during a checkout early today.

The discovery of the trouble prompted officials to call an immediate 24-hour delay of the shot, pushing it off from Wednesday until Thursday. Later, the sources reported, it was decided to make a complete check to insure all is right for Glenn's safety.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has not announced a definite date for the firing, and therefore declined comment on the report.

The trouble developed in a hard-to-get-at spot in the capsule and the entire control panel had to be removed so technicians could correct it.

This is the fourth postponement of the launching. It originally was set for Dec. 20 when officials felt there was a chance to achieve manned orbit flight in 1961. When this was deemed impossible, the shot was put off until Jan. 16.

Problems with the Atlas booster resulted in another weeks delay, and minor capsule difficulty pushed the launching back still another day.

News of the postponement came as astronaut Glenn, like a superbly conditioned boxer closing out his training camp, began final preparations for the flight.

He was scheduled to make one more simulated orbit flight in a groundbased capsule and then go into a tapering off period. The final preflight days mostly will be taken up with medical checks, a final briefing, running on the beach to stay in shape and, inexorably, waiting.

In the past three weeks, he has flown 60 theoretical flights, rehearsing every possibility that could be rehearsed, and in the process has landed in the Atlantic, Indian and Pacific Oceans. (hypothetically, that is.)

How does he feel?

"He feels pretty confident, calm and collected," reported Dr. Robert Voas, psychologist and one of the astronaut's training officers. "I'm sure there was been some increase in tension—you can't approach a great adventure like this without some of that. But he feels well prepared. He wants to get going.

"He continues to be fascinated by what he will see over the earth. He looks forward to this not only as a great adventure but a great voyage of discovery and he doesn't want to miss a thing about the stars or the land masses or cloud conditions or other factors that could be of value to scientific knowledge."

Along with intensive physical examinations in the last two days, Lt. Col. Glenn, Marine Corps, will be interviewed by a psychiatrist and put through a battery of psychological tests to evaluate his emotional level before takeoff into space.

Most of the tests are simple, the kind a job applicant might have to take in the personnel office of any progressive industry.

For example, in one he will be given several lines of letters and asked to draw a line through the "C's." The presumption is that a man distracted by emotion will miss often. There is every expectation that John Herschel Glenn, first American scheduled to orbit the earth, will miss few "C's."

On the last Sunday before his scheduled shot, Glenn gave little indication of tension. He attended the Riverside Presbyterian church in Cocoa Beach, prayed, joined the hymn-singing in a sturdy tenor, signed autographs for Sunday School kids and generally acted like a man who wasn't going any place more dangerous than a desk in a business office.

As he left the small cinderblock church, the last hymn he heard the choir singing was "God Be With You 'Til We Meet Again."

Antislump Plan Cited

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reported today the nation met its recovery aims in 1961, is making "another giant stride" toward full employment this year, and can attain a "staggering" $600-billion worth of production in 1963.

The time to erect a defense-in-depth against future recessions is this prospering moment, Kennedy told Congress in his economic report. It was the third and last of the major White House messages to the new session.

The antislump weapons needed, he said, are his twin plans—sourly greeted by most Republican Congress members—for standby presidential powers to cut taxes temporarily and unleash federal money for quick-acting public works.

Kennedy urged Congress to let him trigger up to $2 billion of lending, spending and matching funds into the works plan when joblessness reaches danger points which he defined.

He also spelled out for the first time how much tax-cutting leeway he wants—enough, he said, to throw $5 billion of new buying power into a faltering economy in six months, or, if extended with Congress' assent, $10 billion in a year.

The cuts he proposed would be up to 5 percentage points in each income tax rate bracket That would mean a one-fourth tax reduction for the lowest taxpayer group, but considerably less, in proportion, for the higher-income families.

Further, Kennedy said, this Congress should:

Empower him to "negotiate a reduction in the tariff of the European Common Market" with a gradual lowering of U.S. duties.

Lengthen jobless benefits permanently and enroll three million new workers under unemployment insurance.

Enact promptly the pending 8 per cent investment credit for industry.

Silver Purchase Act Repeal Sought

He also called for repeal of the Silver Purchase Act, aid to education at all levels, health care for the aged under Social Security, job training for idle youths and job retraining for out-of-work adults.

The President pledged that this recovery will not be nipped off prematurely—as he said that of 1959 was—by a tight-money policy.

The outlook for stable living costs is favorable, he assured Congress, if unions and industry will show statesmanlike retraint in pay settlements to avoid a spiral of wage and price advance.

"With cooperation from labor and management, I am confident that we can go on to write a record of full employments without inflation," Kennedy said.

The President said the country has achievd the immediate aims he set a year ago—to "recover not from one but from two recessions"—by starting the economy uphill and reducing joblessness while keeping price stability. "Confidence in the dollar has been restored," he said.

This year national output should rise about $50 billion above the $521 billion of 1961, he predicted, adding: "This would be another giant stride toward a fully employed economy."

Kennedy disclosed he would have asked a tax increase to cover the steep rise in spending necessitated by last spring's Berlin crisis if the economy had been in better shape.

"But I did not recommend tax increases at this point," he said, "because they would have cut into private purchasing power and retarded recovery."

As the year advanced, the after-tax incomes of American consumers rose $92 a person, or $21 billion, he reported.

For the first time since the Truman administration, the annual economic message specified goals which, in the President's opinion, would accomplish the intent of the Employment Act of 1946. That law committed the government to policies which would maintain "maximum employment, production and purchasing power."

The same law created the President's Council of Economic Advisers, the body which provided the research and coauthorship for today's 300-page message.

Urgent Tone Shows Determination

Any doubts that Kennedy means business about his antirecession program were dispelled by the serious and urgent tone of the message. On the tax-cutting, the pump priming and jobless pay proposals he said: "They will constitute the greatest step forward in public policy for economic stability since the (employment) act itself."

The prime goal for 1963 is a 4 per cent unemployment rate, Kennedy said. He called this a "temporary target," one-third below the present 6.1 per cent rate of joblessness.

With it, the President said, would come these record-breaking dollar measurements of prosperity:

Sixty billion dollars of before-tax business profits, as against $46 billion last year and a hoped-for $56 billion this year.

Some $320 billion in wages and salaries, against $280 billion in 1961.

About $600 billion worth of output of goods and services, far above last year's $521 billion and this year's anticipated $565 billion to $570 billion.

Kennedy stressed that while "the material gains are themselves staggering," as blueprinted by his report, his goal for unemployment—down to 5 per cent by the end of this year, 4 per cent by mid-1963—were not the final objectives.

"We cannot afford to settle for any prescribed level of unemployment," the message said.

He replied to the outcry already raised in Congress by the first mention of his standby tax and public work proposals in the State of the Union message. The revenue loss would be smaller than what a recession costs in pay and production losses and shrunken tax collections, he said. And Congress would write into the law the safeguards to protect its taxing power, he argued.

"I am not asking Congress to delegate its power to levy taxes," Kennedy added, "but to authorize a temporary and emergency suspension of taxes by the President —subject to the checkrein of Congressional veto — in situations where time is of the essence.

Strong Plea Made For Flexibility

"The time is ripe and the need apparent to equip the government to act more promptly, more flexibly, and more forcefully to stabilize the economy."

Before proposing a tax cut, he explained, the President would make a finding that such action is required under the Employment Act. He then would submit to Congress "a proposed temporary uniform reduction in all individual income tax rates" of not more than 5 percentage points.

This change would take effect 30 days after submission "unless rejected by a joint resolution of Congress." This means both the House and Senate would have to veto.

The tax cut "would remain in effect six months, subject to revision or renewal by the same process"—that is, by presidential action, subject to veto—"or extension by a joint resolution of Congress."

In equivalent detail Kennedy spelled out his request for power to "accelerate and initiate" up to $2 billion of works projects when unemployment is rising.

The President could act, under this plan, within two months after the unemployment rate (1) had risen in at least three out of four months and (2) had risen at least 1 percentage point higher than its level four month earlier. These time periods could be lengthened if Congress preferred, the message indicated.

Before taking action, the President would have to make a finding that "current and prospective economic developments", required such measures, under the Employment Act.

He then could commit these sums:

Up to $750 million in speeding up direct federal outlays previously authorized by Congress.

Up to $750 million for grants in aid to state and local governments.

Up to $250 million more to be distributed among the three preceding categories as the President saw fit.

House Pondering Changes In Bill

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—Representatives prepared today to decide whether they will accept Senate changes in the House-passed abandoned property bill, the priority item in the third called session.

Rep. Charles Hughes of Sherman, House sponsor of the banking bill asked by Gov. Price Daniel, said he would seek a quick vote on the Senate amendments to the measure he guided through the House early in the session.

The House must approve the minor changes made by the Senate before the bill can go to the governor for signature into law. Rejection of the changes would mean the measure would be sent to a joint conference committee to work out differences between the two houses.

No Comfort In Red Rift

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said today the United States should not suppose that the struggle between Moscow and Peiping offers "any comfort to us at the present time."

"This argument really is about how best to get on with the world revolution of communism as they see it," he said.

"They're committed to that in Moscow, they're committed to that in Peiping. Their argument is about the differences in procedures by which they would accomplish this," he said.

Rusk, in a taped interview on NBC-TV's "Today" show, said the struggle between the two Communist capitals had "now become a public record for all the world to look at and to talk about."

Frigid Blast Hits Area; Schools Close

The Snyder area was caught in the midst of another arctic blast today, as freezing mist and light snow combined to make vehicular travel hazardous.

Schools were closed in Snyder and Fluvanna, as slippery roads confronted buses.

The temperature dipped to 13 degrees in Snyder, following a comparative balmy 60 degrees Sunday.

The freezing mist and drizzle had penetrated deep into the state by noon today.

Dense fog stopped boat traffic on the Houston ship channel and Galveston Bay as the fast-moving norther plummeted the thermometer almost a degree a minute in its mid - morning race through Central and South Texas.

Austin reported a drop of 19 degrees in 17 minutes as the bone-chilling winds whistled through the capital city.

The Highway Department reported icing conditions over a large part of the state. It reported hazardous driving conditions in the Brownwood, Fort Worth, Dallas, Wichita Falls, Odessa, Abilene, San Angelo and Paris areas.

Schools were dismissed at Dallas and elsewhere because of the ice.

Galveston reported no boat movement since Saturday night because of a thick fog. Twenty-four loaded ships on the Houston ship channel had to delay their departure for the same reason.

Some air flights from Galveston also had to be cancelled.

The latest cold front moved into the Panhandle Sunday and tumbled temperatures to 2 degrees above zero at Dalhart. Amarillo had a low of 6 degrees and Lubbock 12 degrees.

Freezing drizzle was reported during the early morning at Midland, Abilene, San Angelo, Fort Worth, Dallas and Waco.

Light snow fell Sunday in areas of the Panhandle.

By mid-morning Monday the bitter blast, the second within 10 days, had penetrated past Texarkana, Temple and Junction and was skipping swiftly southeastward toward the Texas coast.

Still colder weather was forecast for the state. The Weather Bureau predicted zero readings for the upper Panhandle Monday night and Tuesday and 8 degrees in sections of North Texas, 12 degrees in Northeast Texas and in the mid-20s in Central Texas.

Rain-slicked and ice-coated highways were blamed for at least eight traffic deaths during the weekend.

Monday morning temperatures remained comparatively mild ahead of the spreading arctic blast, ranging up to 60 degrees at Brownsville. Much of South Texas was enveloped in fog and drizzle.

The norther struck swiftly, dropping the temperatures at Amarillo from 32 degrees to 16 degrees in a short time.

At Fort Worth the thermometer plunged from 60 degrees to 30 degrees in three hours.

A 5-day forecast issued Monday by the Weather Bureau said cold weather could be expected in the state through Wednesday. This included intermittent freezing rain or snow in northern areas.

The long-range forecast said temperatures will average 12 to 18 degrees below normal in Northwest, Northeast and North Central Texas and 6 to 14 degrees below normal in southern sections.

Ticket Sales On For C-C Banquet

More than a score of Snyder Chamber of Commerce members launched ticket sales this morning for the organization's annual banquet.

The banquet is set for 7 p.m. Jan. 30 in the Snyder High School cafeteria. Tickets sell for $2.50 each.

Principal speaker at the banquet will be the Rev. Walter K. Kerr of Tyler, founder of the International Youth Crusade.

Dr. Kerr, a Methodist minister, has had successful careers in many fields, including entertainment, practice of law, government service and as a public speaker, as well as the ministry.

A native of Abilene, Rev. Kerr is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University and of the University of Texas Law School.

He is perhaps best known for his youth work, having served in many capacities for various councils and commissions, and he was awarded an M. A. degree by the University of Texas for his work with rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents.

New officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce will officially begin their terms at the banquet.

Bud England, chairman of the ticket sales committee, presided at a breakfast session this morning at the Town House Restaurant. Workers who attended the session immediately launched the ticket sales drive.

Say Plane On Spy Mission

ROME (AP) — The Italian defense ministry said today the Bulgarian plane that crashed in Italy Saturday was on an aerial spying mission.

A ministry communique said the plane, a Soviet-built MIG 17, crash landed. The plane previously had been identified as a MIG 19.

The communique said evidence of spying was obtained from film found in the plane, which carried high-powered cameras on two passes over a secret allied missile base near Bari just before it crashed.

French Ministry Blasted; 1 Dead

PARIS (AP) — A heavy explosion jolted the French Foreign Ministry today, killing one person and wounding several. Hundreds of windows were shattered and a section of wall torn out.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the explosion apparently came from a booby-trapped automobile. He said the car snapped in half and set afire several vehicles parked in the courtyard near it.

The spokesman declined to speculate if the explosion was the work of the right wing secret army, determined to keep Algeria French. It has set off many bombings in France.

One source said six or seven persons had been slashed by flying glass. Another put the figure of wounded at 13.

The explosion ripped out about 10 yards of wall. The ceiling was tumbled to the floor and office doors were smashed in.

The pavement on the ground level and the floor one flight up were covered with puddles of blood, apparently from persons cut by flying glass.

The right-wing Secret Army Organization is fighting to keep Algeria French. If Secret Army activists did set off the blast, it was their most daring attack to date.

Castro Sets Major Speech

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro said today he would deliver a major radio-TV speech tonight.

It was reported he will talk about the Havana mass meeting, called the second National People's General Assembly, to be held here next Sunday. But it was expected he will also comment on the inter-American foreign ministers conference, which opened today in Punta del Este, Uruguay.

American Ministers Opening Parley Today

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — Western Hemisphere foreign ministers ceremonially open their conference on Cuban communism today and then shift into informal private sessions to discuss family disputes imperiling inter-American unity.

The word for the conference sponsored by the Organization of American States was not yet "gloomy," but there was fear the meeting would flounder in bickering over how or whether to punish Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.

The conferees agreed to delay their first plenary session until Tuesday to afford more time for backstage bargaining. The delay was regarded by some here as evidence of some nations' reluctance to take a strong line against the Cuban regime.

The U.S. delegation chief, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, declared in a public statement that there was a need for "security from extracontinental intervention" if the ambitious $20-billion Alliance for Progress program is to get on the road. This was implicit warning that the alliance needs freedom from Castro-Communist pressures if it is going to bring to fruition hopes for an economic upsurge to counter the yeasty extremist ferment in Latin America.

Yet some delegates said Brazilian Foreign Minister Francisco Santiago Dantas told Richard Goodwin, U.S. deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, "Inter-American unity is the important thing now. To save it is our duty. In comparison with this, the Alliance for Progress does not mean a thing."

Rep. Armistead Selden, Alabama Democrat and chairman of the House Inter-American Affairs Committee, told newsmen that unless the foreign ministers take strong action against Cuba that, "things could be disagreeable in Congress" when the Alliance for Progress appropriation comes up.

Selden is one of four members of Congress who flew with Rusk to this sun-baked Atlantic playground, underscoring President Kennedy's concern with getting the initial Alliance for Progress appropriations through Congress.

Other authoritative U.S. sources said there probably would be a big cut by Congress in the $3 billion Kennedy earmarked for the program because of the alarm over Cuba among U.S. voters. These sources said it was possible only the communists already made would be honored.

However, the Latin American foreign ministers here are deeply preoccupied with the enormous problems confronting their nations in the wake of the Castro whirlwind in Cuba. Castroism has great potential for violent mischief-making throughout the continent plagued by economic miseries.

The Central American nations continued to insist they are ready to walk out of the conference if it avoids punishment for Castro.

The OAS foreign ministers have several possible actions to choose from.

First they must decide whether Cuban communism is a threat to "the peace and political independence" of the Americas. If so, they must decide what they will do about it.

They can by a two-thirds vote collectively break off diplomatic relations with Cuba, or impose economic sanctions, or both. This would require affirmative votes by 14 of the 21 nations. Thirteen, including the United States, already have broken relations with Cuba, and could be counted on to back collective action.

Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador, Mexico and Uruguay still maintain diplomatic ties with Cuba. One of these seven will have to be won over or the move for sanctions will fail.

Brazil and Mexico are expected to oppose sanctions on the ground they would do violence to the principles of non-intervention and self-determination. Chile reportedly has taken a similar position.

A collective break in relations would close Castro's embassies in the Americas and thus sharply cut the flow of money, instructions and propaganda from Havana.

Economic sanctions would be less effective, at least in the immediate future, because only a handful of Latin countries now trade with Cuba.

The foreign ministers might settle for a vote of condemnation of Castro's activities, a step the bearded premier might shrug off. Many delegates say they believe that Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos, heading his country's delegation, will take the offensive against U.S. "imperialism" as the best defense.

Cuba itself is in the position of a nation trying to ride three horses at the same time. It claims to remain a member of the inter-American family. It claimed at the Belgrade conference last fall to be of the neutralists. Castro in a speech last month aligned Cuba with the Marxist-Leninist-Communist bloc.

Issuance Of Commodities Is Discussed

The commissioners court met in regular session this morning. Mrs. Marionette Baze, County Welfare Officer met with the court to discuss the problem of transient workers and other non-qualified persons who are applying for commodities.

The court instructed Mrs. Baze to issue foodstuffs only when it could be determined that severe need exists, especially regarding transients.

The court also stated that they would support Mrs. Baze in the strict enforcement of the state regulations regarding the issuance of the surplus commodities.

In other business the court declined to take any action on salary adjustments for airport employes requested by the airport board. It was also decided to re-submit several miles of county roads to the highway department in Austin for possible designation as farm-to-market roads. Passage of a new law in Austin made this necessary.

The court also discussed the censorship of books in the county library. It was decided that in the case of individual complaints the questioned books would be submitted to the library board for possible action.

Houston Petition Hearing Is Set On

An integration suit filed five years ago was amended in September by the Negro plaintiffs. The Negroes say school admission policies for the first and second grades are only a means of enforcing racial discrimination.

Clouts Bring Back Television Picture

HUNSTANTON, England (AP)—Every time John Fleming's television picture goes haywire, he marches outside with a crowbar and clouts the street light near his front door. He goes on whanging until his wife calls that the picture is all right again.

All attempts to find out what caused the nightly interference had failed, and Fleming kicked the post just to relieve his feelings one day.

"It brought the picture back perfectly for a while," he reported. "Now I always hit it."

At Least Six Are Dead In Snowslide

By STEPHEN M. AUG

TWIN LAKES, Colo. (AP) — A giant mass of snow slid down Colorado's highest mountain Sunday, sweeping over four houses, and snuffing out at least six lives.

Officials estimated more than 200,000 tons of snow plunged down the southern slope of 14,341-foot Mount Elbert in a 3½ mile run. It engulfed the western end of Twin Lakes, a central Rocky Mountain village 140 miles southwest of Denver. The avalanche was more than 300 yards wide and 15 feet deep.

One family was wiped out. G. L. Shelton, 50; his wife Marie, 40; their son Steve, 14, and daughters Linda, 9, and Vickie, 8, all perished.

Two persons were rescued from the buried wreckage of their home. William Adamich, 35, and his wife Barbara, 30, were hospitalized in Leadville with frostbite and possible internal injuries. Their son Billy, 8, was found dead. Another son, Michael, 10, was missing.

The other two houses were vacant.

About 600 persons worked more than six hours in the frigid mountain air probing the wreckage.

A neighbor, Nels Lindstone, 66, said that when he awoke at 8 a.m. he looked out of a window and saw only snow and wreckage where the houses had stood.

Lindstone said he tried to telephone the sheriff in Leadville, but telephone lines were down. He hailed a passing motorist to notify authorities.

Lindstone said he and a neighbor walked through the snow-covered wreckage until they heard faint cries for help. They started digging.

It was another two and one half hours before the two survivors were found. Mrs. Adamich was pinned beneath heavy timbers across her legs and abdomen. Her husband was about 75 feet away.

Time of the avalanche was fixed at 5:30 a.m. Electric clocks in nearby homes stopped at that hour when power lines were knocked down.

Rescuers dug with shovels, pieces of cardboard, wood, their hands, until heavy equipment arrived around 11 a.m. Some of the machines came from a nearby metal mine at Colmax. Other workers, including medical air personnel, came from Camp Hale, an Army post.

The avalanche followed a three-day storm that dumped 30 inches of snow. Weather Bureau forecasters said winds of more than 70 m.p.h. Saturday night may have touched off the slide.

PROGRAM ON INDIA PRESENTED—Mrs. W. R. Everett displayed an Indian Sari and the proper way to drape it as part of the program she presented to members of the Business and Professional Women's Club. Mrs. Everett lived in India for seventeen years.

Status Of Women In India Described For Club Here

Mrs. Joe Bohannan, Business Professional Women program chairman, was hostess Thursday night at her home for a meeting of the club.

Mrs. Travis Rhoades, president, presented Mrs. L. C. Winters of the International Relations Committee. Mrs. Winters introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. W. R. Everett.

Mrs. Everett spoke on "The Status of Women in India." Mrs. Everett lived the first seventeen years of her life in India, and graduated from high school in Bombay.

Pointing out that books are inclined to portray only the slums and poverty of Inda, Mrs. Everett urged the club members to remember that India has much beauty too. Just as New York and Chicago have slums, so too do Indian cities.

"The lot of the Indian woman is not to be envied by any standard" Mrs. Everett said. They do all of the work, are responsible for the house and children, and have to live with their in-laws. If a woman has no children it is believed she has an evil spirit; if she does not have a son the husband can take another wife.

Women can rarely own property, Mrs. Everett said, and what property they do have is in the form of clothes and ornaments. If she does have property, she can use and manage it, but at her death it passes, not to her heirs, but to the heirs of the person from whom she received it.

Improvement in the lot of women is coming, but the changes, like all things in the East, are slow.

Mrs. Everett concluded by pointing out that the most beautiful building in the world is in India, and that it was built to the memory of a woman.

Refreshments were served to sixteen members and a guest, Mrs. Laverne Henderson, by the hostess.

Year's Theme Is Topic For B&PW

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs has as its study theme this year "Gaining Stature as an Individual."

The Snyder chapter of the B&PW will be using this theme in their dinner meeting tomorrow night. Mrs. Travis Rhoades will be the hostess for the meeting which will be held at 7 p.m. at the Martha Ann Woman's Clubhouse.

The heart theme will be used in decorations. It is a timely theme since it is the Valentine season, and also on the program will be a message from the Heart Association presented by Dr. Tom Hartley and Badger Robertson.

In line with gaining stature as Individuals, B&PW members have been asked to bring representative samples of their favorite hobbies, since what one does with one's leisure time is important to the complete personality.

Richard Williams, minister of the East Side Church of Christ will speak on "The Individual's Spiritual Growth and Mental Health," with special application to the business and professional woman.

"Best Foot Forward," a discussion of styles and grooming, will be presented by Mrs. Dan Martin.

Also featured on the panel will be Dan Martin whose topic will be "Professional Growth." His discussion will concern improving efficiency on the job.

Music for the program will be presented by music teachers in the Snyder schools, Mrs. Troy Scott and Luanne Presley.

Mrs. John Burris and Mrs. Bernard Longbotham are in charge of the program. B&PW members have been urged to bring guests to the meeting.

Mr. Brooks says, "These trees were planted March 20th. of last year. They were about 3 ft. tall, now they're 6 ft. which is tremendous growth for trees. I've looked at other trees bought from an out of town nursery and planted under similiar circumstances and they don't even compare with these, it would'nt surprise me if I did'nt eat a peach off of these trees this year. I've been real pleased with the merchandise I've bought at Batchler Nursery, that's why I keep going back. I reccommend them very highly."

It's Fashionable To Blame Wife For Woes Of Husband

BY INEZ ROBB

Ladies, take a good, long look at yourself in the mirror. Do you look like a murderer? Would any one guess that you are killing your husband?

What? You don't even know that you are slowly doing away with your spouse? Well, the publishing business does, and so do a variety of boy authors. The trend has been unmistakable in the past six or eight months. Pick up any magazine, and wives are being accused of dispatching their loved ones in any number of ingenious ways.

However, it took a new book to bring this current literary vogue into sharp focus, and make me realize that wives are under general indictment for murder. The book, written by Kenneth C. Hutchin, M.D., is titled "How NOT to Kill Your Husband."

Two or three years ago there was a plethora of books on how to be a widow though happy. Or, maybe it was vice versa. It was a tossup around Chez Robb to determine who was the most depressed by such literature, my husband or myself.

The current fad doesn't seem calculated to make the heart glad —or trusting—in either partner. Papa may love mama, but some of the joy and spontaneity is going to go out of the home if he is the impressionable type.

When this book arrived at Chez Robb I quickly put it in the trash. So do not expect a review. I didn't have to read it to know what was in it, anyway.

On this subject, the boy authors all play the same typewriter, to wit: Somehow, some way, it is all the fault of women—not of the 20th Century world, the industrial revolution, modern tensions, expense account living, business and professional competition, the increased tempo of living for all sexes, overeating, overdrinking, oversmoking and overdoing—that men eventually turn up their toes and die.

The moral is that man would live forever if he weren't married.

(Why bachelors eventually die, too, is something else again. They probably do it out of sheer spite, just to embarrass the boy authors who imply that, without his uxorious tendencies, man would be immortal.)

My generation of wives has somehow managed to live through the literary phase in which woman was constantly urged to be wife, mother, mistress, best friend, companion, confidante, playmate and helpmate to her husband. La, I was worn out and dizzy from competing with myself for a year or two.

If woman is now expected to assume also the role of bodyguard, amateur physician and buffer state between her husband and the world, she had better toss in the towel.

The average woman marries in the belief that she is espousing an adult, that he is at least as old as she, that he is possessed of common sense, knows enough to come in out of the rain and is sufficiently bright not to need a nursemaid or keeper. And the last thing she wants to be is a nagger.

My husband may smoke a little too much. But he loves to smoke. What am I supposed to do about it? Nag him until he develops hypertension or leaves home? Shall I kill him by making him miserable or let him do it in his own way?

And why am I responsible, doctor? Isn't he old enough to know better?

In the meantime, to get my share of the financial fallout of the current trend, I am rewriting two old favorites. The new titles are: "Life With Father's Murderer" and "I Remember Mama Killing Papa."

Kansas Solon Dead At 67

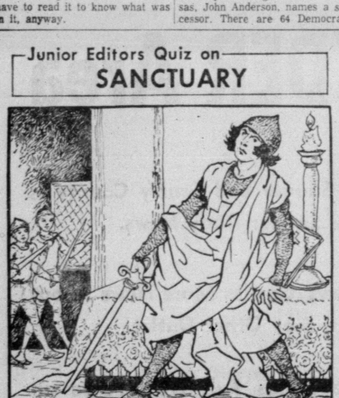

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel, R-Kan., a conservative who was beginning his 14th year in the Senate after two terms as governor of Kansas, is dead at 67.

The Naval Medical Center in suburban Bethesda, Md., where the Kansan had been undergoing treatments since Dec. 4, said that death came unexpectedly Sunday and was due to an abdominal malignancy.

Schoeppel's wife, Marie, was unable to reach his bedside before he died. A sister, Miss Elizabeth Schoeppel, was with him.

The death reduces the number of Senate Republicans to 35 until the Republican governor of Kansas, John Anderson, names a successor. There are 64 Democrats.

Junior Editors Quiz on SANCTUARY

QUESTION: Is Sanctuary still practiced?

* * *

ANSWER: Sanctuary describes the most sacred part of any religious building. Long ago, a man could go to such place and remain safe from capture, if he were a slave or a criminal or a defeated soldier. The places of sanctuary were called asylums, a word that comes from the Greek word, asylon, which means "a place safe from violence." Greeks and Romans got such protection in their temples of the gods. And the ancient Hebrews had whole cities for the same purpose. In the reign of Constantine the Great, Christian churches were made asylums. The protection given by all these places was called the right of sanctuary. Today, there are no places where a criminal could be assured of freedom from capture since the right of sanctuary is not recognized. However, asylum may be given. This happened in Cuba when some Americans were threatened with arrest. They entered the Swiss Embassy and could not be seized by Castro forces.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: Try to find out how an Embassy in any country can give asylum to people. Here's a clue: the ground of an Embassy is considered the territory of its nation.

Massive Blow Now Labeled Last Resort

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massive retaliation comes to look more and more like final retaliation while this overheated world torments itself with small, or guerrilla, wars in the hope it can keep them small.

The latest to put his finger on guerrilla fighting as the thing to look for is the Pentagon's No. 2 man, Roswell L. Gilpatric, deputy secretary of defense.

In a TV interview Sunday he said "Communist doctrine is conflict." He foresees a step-up in indirect warfare and guerrilla battles and mentioned the guerrilla fighting in Viet Nam as an example.

The United States had a monopoly on atomic weapons only four years: from 1945 until 1949 when the Russians achieved their first atomic explosion. They developed their hydrogen bomb in 1953.

Now that both have the power to wipe each other out, neither wants to begin what neither could win. Thus massive retaliation, being a last gasp effort, would be a final retaliation.

In a sense, then, they have paralyzed themselves in the act of achieving their maximum power. It is useful to them therefore only in discouraging each other from any attempt, at an all-out sudden victory.

But the Communists were never discouraged, even while this country had that four-year atomic monopoly, from attempting to accumulate a series of small victories which, if permitted, would in time become total victory.

In the 1945-49 period communism under Stalin tried its luck in Iran, Greece and Turkey but gave up under the pressure of President Truman's unpredictable toughness.

In 1948 it did take over Czechoslovakia. This was done too suddenly for Truman to stop it. Then Stalin tried the Berlin blockade, an episode which gave some insight into the unwillingness of both sides to blow the lid off.

The West outnumbered by Soviet ground forces, didn't try to smash through to the city by land. Truman tried the airlift. This gave Stalin a chance to back away from the big war.

There would have been one if he tried to shoot down the planes. He didn't and backed off. Then he tried his luck in Korea. This time Truman stopped it with direct action. But he wasn't fighting the Red Army there.

When the Red Chinese got in and rolled back the U.N. troops, Truman backed off from the big explosion. He might have smashed them with bombings. He didn't.

Freighter Stranded Because Of Dispute

HOUSTON (AP)—A Moroccan freighter was stranded at Houston today because of a dispute between its French captain and crew.

The ship Atlas has a full load of grain and is ready to sail for Port Said. But there was no crew. The Atlas' 26 sailors were fired by the captain Saturday. Or they fired the captain.

At any rate the crew was reportedly on its way back to Casablanca by air.

"All I need is 13 men," Roger Chollet, the skipper, said.

EAGERLY AWAIT SEASON

Aaron, Mathews Sign Brave Pacts

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee's 1-2 power punch for almost a decade, Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews, have signed their contracts, joining a determined band of Braves itching to get the 1962 baseball campaign underway.

Apparently stung by last year's fourth-place finish, the Braves have been rushing to the front office and inking contracts in rapid succession. The Aaron-Mathews signing Saturday concluded a productive week for the Braves' brass.

Earlier last week, Warren Spahn, baseball's highest paid pitcher, and Del Crandall, No. 1 catcher in the National League until he developed a sore arm last season, came to terms. The Braves now have 18 satisfied signees.

The signing of Aaron and Mathews cost the Braves more than $100,000 but President John McHale wouldn't be pinned down on whether one or both received raises. Their salaries are reportedly between $55,000 and $60,000.

McHale said he didn't know of "any two sluggers who have been as devastating over the years as these two."

Aaron and Mathews, who have formed the Braves' power trust since Aaron joined the club in 1954, did everything possible to lift the club last year. Aaron hit .327 with 34 homers and 120 runs batted in and Mathews batted .306 with 32 homers and 91 RBI.

Mathews smashed his 370th homer last year, his 310th in the NL, and needs 30 to become only the seventh player to reach the 400-homer mark.

The world champion New York Yankees came up with a top name ace reliever Luis Arroyo received a "substantial raise" to about $17,000. The 33-year-old was rewarded for his yeoman work in the 1961 campaign when he appeared in 65 games and compiled a 15-5 record.

The Los Angeles Dodgers lured pitcher Don Drysdale and outfielder Tommy Davis into the fold, the Detroit Tigers inked pitchers Hank Aguirre and Phil Regan and outfielder Mickey Stanley and Cincinnati signed catcher Johnny Edwards.

Washington's Senators added shortstop Bob Johnson to their list of signees while Pittsburgh got infielders Coot Veal and Jose Martinez on the dotted line.

Snow Delays Crosby Meet

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—You can't golf in the snow, so the $50,000 Bing Crosby tournament still wasn't finished today.

Usually, the leader after four days here pockets a $5,300 check, but not Hoosier Joe Campbell. He led with a six-under-par 210 through 54 holes and then took an enforced rest as "casual hard water" at Pebble Beach Sunday brought a one-day postponement of the final 18 holes.

Hail and snow, unheard of previously in the 25-year history of the crooner's golf production, fell in abundance.

Gardner Dickinson watched it bury his golf ball on the first fairway before tournament officials decided players weren't like postmen, whose appointed rounds aren't stayed by rain, snow or sleet.

Campbell, of Pendleton, Ind., former national collegiate champion at Purdue, felt that an even par 72 today over the soggy Pebble Beach Course could win him the tournament. Yet he respected the foul weather skill of veteran Doug Ford of Vernon Hills, N.Y., who finished the third round in second place, just two strokes off the pace.

"Doug is a Houdini playing in bad weather and might well finish with a brilliant round," the 26-year-old Campbell commented. "But he's like the rest of us. He could shot a 69 or a par 72 or, with unlucky breaks, even a 75."

Two strokes farther back at 214 were Phil Rodgers, the youngster from San Diego who won the Los Angeles Open this year, and Ken Venturi of San Francisco, who twice won the California amateur title here and took the Crosby in 1960.

Nine strokes ahead of the field in the pro-amateur were young pro Bob McCallister of Yorba Linda, Calif., and little lefthander Albie Pearson, the Los Angeles Angels outfielder. They carded a best-ball 185.

Roger Maris and Moose Skowron were the first two batters to strike out three times in the 1961 World Series.

Quail Season Still Open In Some Counties

AUSTIN (Special)—Hunting season on all game birds now is closed over all of Texas except in seven South Texas counties, and 11 Central East Texas counties for quail. The season in these counties will end January 31, according to H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

The South Texas counties remaining open are Victoria, Refugio, San Patricio, Kleberg, Kenedy, Brooks, Jim Hogg and the south half of Jim Wells County.

In the Central East Texas area, Coryell, McClennan, Limestone, Freestone, Bell, Falls, Williamson, Milam, Robertson, Brazos, and Grimes counties are still open.

So far, there have been no reports of heavy quail kill, due to the freeze in Texas. Some hunters, however, where fresh water wasn't available to the birds, report that quail taken were in poor condition. Hunters say that the quail are far back in the cover, and that dogs are essential in hunting them.

Field Manager Named

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—A veteran minor league manager, Walter E. Dixon, has been named field manager of the San Antonio Missions of the Texas Baseball League.

Dixon, 41, managed minor league teams for 12 years, including Carlsbad of the Sophomore League in 1959 and 1961. He was out of baseball in 1960.

The Chicago Cubs, who assigned Dixon to the team, will begin forming the Class AA squad after the beginning of spring training at Mesa, Ariz., March 13. San Antonio plays its first exhibition game March 25 against Salt Lake City of the Pacific Coast League.

A DAILY VIEW

By Rev. R. Charles Spivey

"Who stirred up one from the east whom victory meets at any step?...Who has performed and done this, calling the generations from the beginning? I, the Lord, the first, and with the last; I am He."

Isaiah 41:2-4

How difficult it is for us to understand that God is not only the one who created, but also destroys; that He is not only the one who loves, but who judges some times with wrath.

It must have been a bitter pill for the Hebrews to swallow to discover that the mighty Assyrian, Babylonian, and Egyptian armies were but the arms of the Lord to bring chastisement upon His children.

Can it be that this same bitter pill is before us today? Can it be that the mighty Communistic force that seems to be relentlessly destroying everything in its path, is but the arm of the Lord bringing chastisement to His wayward, thankless, and faithless children?

The message of the prophets of old is the same toaday;" Return to the Lord! It may be that God will turn aside His fierce anger and will not destroy us."

Boilermakers, Buckies Meet

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State's mighty Buckeyes face a major obstacle tonight—possibly one of the toughest they'll encounter this season.

The Buckeyes, unbeaten in 13 games and No. 1 in the nation, take on Terry Dischinger and the Purdue Boilermakers in the first of a home and home series that could have a major bearing on the Big Ten conference standings and the national rankings. They play again next Monday.

Ohio State, of course, is favored. But if All-America Dischinger and his mates catch Jerry Lucas, John Havlicek and Co. on a cold night, it could be interesting. Dischinger will play with a cast on the little finger of his right hand, jammed in practice Saturday.

Purdue is 10-3 for the season, 3-1 in the league and was in the top five before falling to Southern California (No. 6).

The deep and talented Buckeyes have been pressed only once in running up their best- the-nation record. Their victims include two of the three teams that have beaten Purdue. The Boilermakers fell before Wichita 71-62, Southern California 80-63 and Minnesota 81-67. Ohio State took Southern Cal 76-66 and Saturday chalked up a solid 90-76 decision over Minnesota.

Lucas scored 32 points and Havlicek 24 in the matter-of-fact victory. Between them they pulled down 30 rebounds, eight more than the entire Minnesota team.

Also on tap tonight is Michigan (8-10) at Minnesota (6-8) in another Big Ten game. The schedule, light all week because of midsemester examinations, also includes Maryland at Miami (Fla.), Washington State at Stanford and Murray at East Tennessee.

Wichita pulled the biggest upset of the weekend, turning back ninth-ranked Bradley 80-58 in spite of a 31-point performance by the Braves' Chet Walker.

The victory put Wichita in contention for the Missouri Valley title. Wichita is 5-2 in the league and 14-4 over-all. Bradley is 4-1 and 11-3.

All other top teams in action Saturday came through on schedule. Fifth-ranked Duquesne stopped St. Vincent's (Pa.) 85-53. Eighth-ranked Bowling Green raises its record to 14-1 with a 66-55 decision over Marshall and 10th-ranked Mississippi State (12-1) beat Mississippi 61-57.

In some of the other top games, Cornell gained a tie with idle Yale for the Ivy League lead. Virginia beat Pitt 88-78, and Utah socked Brigham Young 94-89 on a 45-point performance by Billy McGill.

Three Tied For Lead In Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southwest Conference basketball shifted to low gear last week while students prepared for mid-term exams.

And conference competition doesn't resume until Jan. 30, but meanwhile there is a full slate of non-conference games the latter half of this week.

Rice, Southern Methodist and Texas Tech are now in a three-way tie for first place in the conference race, followed by Texas A&M, Arkansas, Texas, Texas Christian and Baylor.

A&M was dropped from the four-way first place tie last week when defeated by Texas, in a wild, free-for-all game.

At one point, a Longhorn and an Aggie exchange swings, and several hundred spectators poured on the floor. Officials, coaches and university police quickly squelched the disturbance, and the Longhorns went ahead to win, 64-57. The Longhorns' last eight points came at the free throw line after a stall caused the Aggies to commit fouls in attempts to get the ball.

Saturday, Tech tangled with the Bartlesville Oilers in an exhibition game that showed the AAU team coming out ahead, 86-84.

Because of the limited action, the conference standings shifted only slightly. A&M dropped out of a first place tie to leave Rice, SMU and Tech in the lead with 3-1 records.

In this week's play, Arkansas takes on Tulsa at Tulsa Wednesday. The University of Houston travels to Fort Worth to meet Texas Christian on Thursday, and Friday Tech opens a two-day series with UCLA on the coast.

Meanwhile, Rice collides with Trinity at San Antonio and SMU travels to Oklahoma City.

Arizona State In Big Start

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's Arizona State all the way in the Border Conference basketball race, and there seems to be no catching the Sun Devils.

With a 4-0 conference record and a 13-3 season mark, ASU could be expected to coast through the rest of the season. But judging from last week's score, ASU has go such lackadaisical attitude. The Sun Devils romped over Arizona State College 109-88 then downed Hardin-Simmons, 77-61.

West Texas State holds down second spot in the conference chase with a 1-1 record. Following in order are Texas Western, Hardin-Simmons and New Mexico State, all winless in conference outings.

All the action this week is Saturday with West Texas State taking on Hardin-Simmons in Abilene and Texas Western tiffing with New Mexico State at El Paso.

What a difference a year makes. Adams State College's track team scored nary a point in the 1960 Rocky Mountain Conference track meet. In 1961 it won the championship.

Adams Voices Opinion On All-Star Tilt

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A proposal by owner K. S. (Bud) Adams of the Houston Oilers that the Canadian and American Football Leagues stage an international all-star game has the enthusiastic approval of President M. E. (Ted) Workman of the Montreal Alouettes.

The Houston oil man, who has written AFL Commissioner Joe Foss about the proposed game, said he believed the ideal time and site would be Jan. 13, 1963 in Miami's Orange Bowl.

The AFL's all-star game is to be played Jan. 6 in San Diego, Calif., and Adams said the players could be flown to Miami for the international tilt.

Adams proposed that each winning player would get $500, players of the losing team $600 each and the rest would go to the player pension funds of both leagues.

Workman gave his approval of both the site and the proposal that part of the revenue go into the players pension funds.

"In Canada we have been at a disadvantage because of the weather," he said. "We don't have time for extra post-season games that provide a source for a decent pension plan."

The Canadian League winds up its regular season in November while the AFL continues through December.

Bowlers Balk When Purse Strings Hit

DALLAS (AP)—Curtis Sanford, owner of the Dallas franchise and co-founder of the National Bowling League, said Sunday night that if the players do not accept the new contracts that have been offered them, the loop will probably fold.

In a drastic economy move, the franchise owners, meeting in Dallas, cut the 5-day bowling schedule down to two and offered each bowler $100 weekly for his services.

The Dallas News said a survey of a number of players showed they were going to insist that the clubs abide by the original contracts.

Asked what would happen if the bowlers do not agree to the new contract, Sanford said:

"If they don't want it, then we will close it down. We'll fold the league. Chances are we would organize the league later with those who want to bowl."

Glenn Is Making Odd Preparations

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—On medical advice, astronaut John Herschell Glenn Jr. has been walking barefooted over wooden rails — and had warm water squirted into his ears.

These odd preparations for his coming space voyage are tests of his sense of balance, and resistance to motion sickness.

They are just part of an intensive new medical study of one great unknown about human space flight. That is whether human's can withstand prolonged periods of being weightless, free of the earth's familiar pull of gravity.

Do men necessarily get sick without gravity? Do delicate body systems become upset? If so, humans may never reach the moon.

The Soviet Union's Gherman Titov surprisingly got rather seasick during 25 hours of weightlessness.

"That put us somewhat on guard about weightlessness," says Dr. Stanley C. White, director of medical support for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "Now we want to learn much more about it."

When Glenn's capsule is in orbit, it literally will be falling around the earth. Earth's gravity will try to tug it back. But the spaceship's 17,500-mile per hour speed will balance that force.

Glenn, weighing 165 pounds on earth, will feel he has no weight. Without restraining straps, he would float in the cabin.

The 40-year-old Marine officer is scheduled to experience weightlessness for 4½ hours. Astronauts Alan B. Shepard and Virgil I. Grissom were weightless only five minutes each, and had no trouble. Neither did Yuri Gagarin during 90 minutes of flight around the earth.

But Titov said he got upset, kind of seasick. Holding his head still helped, he says.

If long weightlessness affects all men like that, trips to the moon are out unless antidotes or protections can be found.

One man's experience doesn't prove anything. But special experiments on weightlessness were designed for Glenn, explains Dr. William Douglas, personal physician to the astronauts.

Walking on the wooden rails of different widths, with eyes open and eyes closed, was one balance test used by Dr. Ashton Graybiel, a famous medical consultant to NASA. Glenn did well, as he has done in other types of tests.

The inner ear contains tiny bones regulating sense of balance.

Squirting cold water into the ear makes everyone dizzy.

Water just below body temperature can make eyes flicker. The cooler the water a man can take, the more it indicates resistance to motion sickness. Again, Glenn has done well, Douglas said.

The same tests will be repeated soon after his space ride, to detect any effects from long weightlessness.

Glenn during his ride is instructed to move his head suddenly, and take special exercises—pulling on elastic cords—to measure effects of weightlessness compared with the same actions on earth.

He's supposed to take a bit of food at certain times. If he gets queasy, he might refuse to eat. Glenn can report verbally what weightlessness may be doing to him.

Weightlessness might have odd effects on the body. Circulation of fluids in the eye or spinal column, or some aspects of blood circulation, may depend upon normal gravity, Douglas explains.

These aspects will be checked with Glenn, and astronauts to follow, to determine whether weightlessness is a hazard, and if so, how to overcome any bad effects.

"There's so doggone much to learn about human reactions in space, it will keep many scientists busy for years," says Douglas.

Newsmen Say U. S. Press Under Attack

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—Two top news executives agreed in talks here that the American press is under attack from pressure groups who want to downgrade newspapers.

Both also agreed that "no better weapon exists to destroy or modify communism than the newspaper which conscientiously defends the rights of individuals—all individuals—and the principles of self-government."

Millard Cope, president and publisher of the Marshall News-Messenger and an Associated Press director, and Louis Kramp, Associated Press general executive from New York, spoke Sunday before the annual general meeting of the Texas AP Managing Editors Association.

The meeting ends today.

The editors Sunday also heard an on-the-spot report direct from the North American Air Defense Command on the air-attack situation at the moment and listened to several other speakers.

"This is a time of fast swinging to the left and to the right by extremists determined to have only their own opinions thrust upon newspaper readers," Cope said.

"On guard against this today and tonight are hundreds upon hundreds of editors," he said. "Together they make up every conceivable shade of political, economic, and religious opinion. There can be no better safeguard than this vigil.

"But it is even more important that the public recognize what it reads as honest news," he added.

Cope returned this weekend from an Associated Press board meeting in New York.

The Texas publisher quoted Franklin D. Schurz, publisher of the South Bend, Ind., Tribune and an AP board member, as saying recently:

"Hiring a superior reporter and being a member of the Associated Press are in the same category because we all know that we cannot afford to surrender quality for a few dollars.'

"Mr. Schurz sees as a myth any reference that 'wire services are about the same.' If there is any similarity, he says it may be in the cost, but he points out that members of the Associated Press pay no more than the cost of producing a superior service."

Kramp said attacks by pressure groups on newspapers are occurring all over the country. "Linked with it is a movement by certain people to downgrade newspapers," he said.

Col. Barney Oldfield, information chief for the North American Air Defense Command, headquartered in Colorado, said "The best defense is a combination of offensive and defensive weapons which together so dismay an enemy that he stays unlaunched and leashed."

Reds Invite R. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy is weighing a Soviet invitation to visit Moscow, administration sources report.

If President Kennedy's brother accepts, he would stop off in the Soviet capital during a world trip that starts next month.

The attorney general is reported to have discussed the invitation with both the President and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Officials have declined to say what form the invitation took or when or how it was offered.

Robert Kennedy and his wife, Ethel, plan to leave Washington Feb. 2 for Japan. They will visit Indonesia, Iran and Germany and stop briefly in Hong Kong and Rome before coming home. He is scheduled to deliver a lecture at the Free University of Berlin.

If the Moscow visit materializes the Kennedys also may add Paris and London to their itinerary.

Kennedy Says GOP's Ship Is At Anchor

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, likening the Republican party to a ship at anchor, says Democrats are dedicated to moving ahead and should "run in a progressive world" in the fall elections.

"The fire from our efforts can light the world," he told a table-thumping crowd of 6,000 Democrats at his inaugural anniversary banquet Saturday night.

Joining other party leaders in attacking the Republicans as too conservative, the President said: "There is no room in the United States for two parties that believe in lying at anchor."

This was akin to the assertion by the Democratic national chairman, John M. Bailey, that "the American people have not gone right with the Republicans; they have gone forward with the Democrats."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a spokesman for GOP conservatives was the party's real leader in Congress.

This seemed open to considerable debate. Goldwater's policies have never won acceptance from Republican congressional leaders.

While the Democrats were directing their fire at him, Goldwater was busy having fun at his own expense. At the annual Spoof Dinner of the Alfalfa Club—an organization of government officials, businessmen and others—Goldwater was nominated a mock candidate for president.

Accepting the honor, Goldwater jocularly alluded to criticism his policies are antique: "I feel the White House is ready for me now that Jackie has done it over in 18th century decor."

In a serious vein, Goldwater in a taped radio program Sunday night launched a new attack on administration policy. He said if necessary the United States should abandon the United Nations, break off diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and use forceful intervention in Cuba.

SNYDER BUSINESS NEWS

A TIRE FOR EVERY PURPOSE—Burl Loving, Goodyear Service Store manager, smilingly displays the long and the short of the tire business. For small scooter and boat trailer tires to huge tractor tires, and for everything in between, Goodyear provides the right tire for every job. The range of prices is as wide as the range of sizes, but all can be bought on convenient Goodyear budget terms.

Goodyear Double Eagle Can Eliminate Flat Tire Woes

How would you like to know that never again would you have to change a flat tire? Burl Loving, manager of the Goodyear Store in Snyder promises the Double Eagle tire by Goodyear can give you that peace of mind that comes from knowing you are avoiding the costly delays and dangerous situations caused by flat tires.

The Double Eagle with the Captive-Air safety shield is regarded as the safest tire in the world. It is actually two tires in one. The 3-T Nylon Double Eagle is the outer tire—the Captive-Air Steel Cord Safety Shield is the separate inner tire.

If sudden damage collapses the outer tire, the Captive-Air inner tire immediately carries the load. The driver safely and easily continues on the where help is available. That's why Loving says "With the Double Eagle tire by Goodyear you will never have to change another flat."

In addition to the safety features, the Double Eagle provides up to 54 percent more mileage than new car tires. Loving pointed out that you sacrifice nothing to get the stronger 3-T Nylon cord and safer grip of the Goodyear Double Eagle. The velvet-smooth ride is second to none in passenger car tires.

The Goodyear store on the East side of the Snyder square is not only tire headquarters in Snyder, it also is you GE appliance and TV center. Budget terms are available for any major item sold by Goodyear.

Although grass mowing is not on many minds today, it won't be long before it is. And Goodyear will be ready this year with a complete selection of mowers. Shipments of mowers are expected next week, and Loving suggests that if you need a mower, then will be the time to get the best selection.

Major Action On Tap In Congress

By WILLIAM F. ARBGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major action is scheduled this week on the floor and in committees of both the Senate and the House.

A postal rate bill comes before the Houes Tuesday with a final vote likely Wednesday. It would add a penny to the cost of mailing a letter.

Final voting is scheduled to start Tuesday in the Senate on a House-passed measure known as the Du Pont tax bill. The bill would allow stockholders of the big Delaware corporation who receive General Motors stock owned by Du Pont to pay taxes on it at a special rate instead of the higher regular income rate. Du Pont has been ordered by the courts to divest itself of about $3 billion worth of General Motors stock.

The postal rate increase measure technically has been on the House docket since last summer. It would add about $550 million to postal revenues. An administration-backed amendment likely to be approved would raise the extra income to $621 million.

Most of the extra revenue would come from a one-cent hike in first class and air mail rates, with lesser amounts from higher rates for second and third class—newspapers, magazines and bulk mail.

The House Ways and Means Committee has started the final round of work on the President's bill to tighten up some taxes and to give business a billion-dollar incentive to modernize. The measure is expected to be ready for a House vote next month.

The Education and Labor Committee, headed by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., starts deliberating Thursday on a civil rights measure which may never get to the House floor. The measure would set up a five-member commission to prevent discrimination in employment because of race, age or sex.

Two bills backed by President Kennedy will be considered on Wednesday by the House Rules Committee. They provide for creation of a Cabinet-status department of urban affairs and housing, and for federal aid for higher education.

Top Senate committee action starts Tuesday when an Armed Services subcommittee headed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., opens hearings on charges that the Pentagon has imposed censorship on public utterances of military personnel.

A Foreign Relations subcommittee headed by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., starts a probe today of the tangled Congo situation.

Balaguer In Request For Safe Conduct

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Ex-President Joaquin Balaguer has taken refuge with the papal nuncio and asked the new Dominican governing council for permission to follow other leaders of the Trujillo regime into exile.

A spokesman at the national palace said the request for safe conduct had not been acted on. President Rafael Bonnelly said Friday that Balaguer and Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, deposed armed forces chief, would be "submitted to justice" if investigation showed they had a part in last week's abortive attempt to replace the ruling council with a military-controled junta.

Bonnelly said Saturday, however, that Balaguer was free to go wherever he chose.

Balaguer, one of the last holdovers from the dictatorship of the late Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo, was the first president of the Council of State set up Jan. 1 by a mostly anti-Trujillo coalition.

Opposition leaders agreed to serve only after Balaguer pledged to resign when the Organization of American States lifted the sanctions it had voted against the Trujillo regime.

He finally quit the post last Tuesday night after rioting which led to Rodriguez Echavarria's proclamation of the short-lived junta. That collapsed Thursday night in the face of strong public resistance and the Council of State—minus Balaguer—took the reins of government back.

Rodriguez Echavarria is a prisoner.

Army Set To Bring On 1st New Division

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army announced today it will bring the first of its two new regular divisions into existence early next month and the second one in March.

This is earlier than originally hoped for, a spokesman said.

It means the 1st Armored Division will join the present 14 regular divisions followed soon by the 5th Infantry.

Commanders of the two divisions also were announced.

Brig. Gen. Ralph H. Haines, Jr., now assistant division commander of the 2nd Armored Division, will command the 1st Armored, at Ft. Hood, Tex.

Selected for command of the 5th Infantry is Brig. Gen. Ashton H. Manhart, presently chief of the Training Center at Ft. Carson, Colo. The 5th Division will be based at Ft. Carson.

Both have been nominated by President Kennedy for promotion to major general rank.

The new divisions will be larger than existing organizations. At full strength, the 1st Armored will have 15,593 men and officers, compared with a present average strength for an armored division of 14,600. The 5th Division, which will be mechanized, will have 16,119, compared with about 13,700 for similar existing divisions.

The nucleus from which the 1st Armored Division will be formed is Combat Command "A" now stationed at Ft. Hood.

Student Is Found Dead

CANYON, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Rebecca Ann Finnicum, 20, a student at West Texas State College, was found dead Sunday in a bathtub at her home.

Investigators said she apparently died of carbon monoxide fumes Saturday night.

Mrs. Finnicum, formerly was Miss Rebecca McCall of Phillips, near Borger.

Her husband, Robert Finnicum, told officers he was in Pampa Saturday night playing in a band. He said he arrived home about 4 a.m. Sunday and found the house locked.

He crawled through a window and heard water running in the bath room. He kicked open the locked door and found Mrs. Finnicum's body.

Authorities said steam combined with fumes from an open flame heater apparently caused death.

Tech's Debaters Defeat St. Mary's

DALLAS (AP) — In the first round of the Texas Intercollegiate Television Debate Tournament, "Young America Speaks," Texas Tech defeated St. Mary's of San Antonio.

James Lytton and Dennis McDermott debated for St. Mary's. The Tech team was Conrad Lauran and Kip Glasscock.

Plans Made To Re-Open Southern U.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Southern University officials prepared for next Monday's reopening of the controversy-wracked university by sending out notices today to the 4,900 Negro students.

Registration for the delayed second semester is scheduled for Jan. 29-Feb. 3.

The second term had been scheduled to start Jan. 25, but it was delayed after President Felton Clark closed the university last Thursday after antisegregation demonstrations. The demonstrations were led and participated in by Southern students.

Seven student leaders were barred from the second semester. All students will have to re-apply for admission, so that the university can weed out those it considers troublemakers.

Clark said Saturday that vandalism and harassment were responsible for his decision to close the school.

Clark did not elaborate on his reference to vandalism and harassment.

In his statement, he said that university officials "worked diligently and long with Baton Rouge law enforcement officers getting 66 of the previously jailed students released and returned to the university campus, and permitted them to take their examinations in the fall semester which has just ended."

The 66 students, he said, were free to resume classes as soon as their cases were resolved in acceptable legal form.

"The remaining seven are still heavily involved in court action. And they must wait. It is as simple as that," Clark said.

The 73 arrests were made in mid-December during incidents in which some 1,500 Southern University students demonstrated against racial segregation. Police used dogs and tear gas to break up the protest.

Southern University is under supervision of the State Board of Education.

Sukarno Is Still Ready To Negotiate

By PETER ARNETT

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno reiterated today that Indonesia will welcome a peaceful settlement of the dispute with the Netherlands over West New Guinea. He also insisted again that any negotiations with the Dutch must be based on the transfer of the disputed territory's administration to the Indonesians.

Sukarno spoke during the installation of a new air force chief of staff, Air Vice Marshal Omar Dani. He replaces S. Suryadarma, who has been named military adviser to Sukarno.

Many of Indonesia's 96 million people have been shocked by the crisis over West New Guinea into taking a sober look at the affairs of their island republic.

A chain reaction of misadventure and political turmoil has rocked the Socialist republic in the past two weeks.

Events have included:

Jan. 7: Assassins made a grenade attempt on the life of Sukarno in Makassar, killed five persons and injured 27. Sukarno blames the attack on Dutch-inspired agents.

Jan. 15: Dutch warships sank an Indonesian torpedo boat off the coast of West New Guinea.

Jan. 17: Two former prime ministers and two former foreign ministers were arrested in Jakarta. Arrests of political opponents of Sukarno continued for three days.

Jan. 20: Suryadarma was replaced as chief of the air force. Although he was made a presidential adviser, the change was believed due to unrest within the air force.

The events have confused the Indonesian public.

Political observers in Jakarta detect a slowing of the "free West Irian"—West New Guinea—enthusiasm that Sukarno generated among his people.
