Record-Breaking Budget Proposed By Gov. Smith

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)— Gov. Preston Smith recommended a record breaking 1970-71 budget today that he said could be financed by $148 million in new taxes including additional levies on cigarettes, liquor and personal services.

Other revenue raising proposals recommended to the legislature in an address to the joint session included a $10 penalty in each conviction of a moving traffic violation. This would add $38.5 million to the state's general fund, he said—if the legislature approves.

Smith made no move to increase the present 3 per cent state sales tax or to change the present exemptions for food and medicine.

"Our long-sought goal, I believe, lies in the short-term future," the governor said. "That goal is to meet rising costs of governmental services from growth in our economy without future increases in tax rates."

Smith's 1970-71 budget, which is $318 million more than the record $1.1 billion recommended earlier by the Legislative Budget Board, includes across-the-board salary increases for public school teachers—a $220 million item itself.

He asked for funds for new medical schools in Houston and Lubbock and a new dental school at San Antonio.

Smith made no specific recommendations about a new state senior college in North Texas, a controversial issue between University of Texas regents and the College Coordinating Board. He noted that numerous bills already have been introduced concerning location of new colleges.

"If, and when, any of those bills are enacted into law I then will make additional recommendations on the planning and construction of physical facilities," he said.

He also recommended 3.4 per cent across-the-board pay raise for state employes.

The governor recommended an added $1.8 million to help the Texas Water Development Board meet the time schedule for implementation of the Texas water plan.

Briefly the recommendations to raise $148 million in new tax money call for:

—Increase the state cigarette tax from 11 to 14 cents a pack for $45 million and increase the tobacco tax by $6 million.

—Include personal services "such as laundry, dry cleaning and dying plants, repairs, parking and cable television services" under the general sales tax for a yield of $48.8 million.

—A selective sales tax on rental or lease equipment at 3 per cent to raise $9 million.

—Place all alcoholic beverages under the general sales tax, in addition to their present special taxes, for a total yield of $40 million.

Smith said $41.1 million in new revenue could be raised by new fees and fines of which $38.5 million could come from the $10 levy on moving traffic violations. The remaining $2.6 million would result from increased fees to the secretary of state.

As expected, Smith also proposed adoption of a plan by Rep. Don Cavness of Austin to make $71.6 million available to state spenders by shifting oil and gas lease payments on public school lands from the permanent school fund to the available school fund.

These revenue raising measures, plus the $58.5 million balance the state comptroller estimates will be on hand Sept. 1, 1969, will result in $320 milliion to cover the governor's $318 million expenditures, Smith said.

The governor stressed that almost 90 per cent of the additional spending he recommended above the Legislative Budget Board would go for education. The board made no recommendation on teachers pay raises.

He stressed the need of vocational-educational program advancement and allocated $10 million to that cause.

"How future historians word their sentences about the Smith administration is not important, except to me," Smith said.

"What is important is the environment and home life of the students who will read those history books. They should be properly housed and clothed, have good food on the table and from the top to the bottom of the economic strata, they should be afforded equal opportunities to learn so they can earn the basic necessities of life . . . In short, we must provide the proper training to have useful, productive and happy citizens—be they black, brown or white of skin."

Public junior colleges would get $12 million under Smith's recommendation for increased enrollments and two new campuses of Dallas County Junior College.

The SDN Column

In the era since World War II, America has shifted from a "rural" nation to an "urban" one, and trends in the great Southwest give evidence to this comparatively rapid change.

Yet, most Americans apparently remain "country people" or at least "small town" people at heart.

A survey made some three months ago by International Research Associates, Inc., for the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, reveals some interesting findings. Fifty-three per cent of the people touched by the survey indicated that they would pick a smaller town if they could live anywhere they wanted. Twenty-nine per cent said they would pick no town at all, favoring a pure rural area. Only 15 per cent said they would pick a big city.

At the same time, 53 per cent said they believed a small town was the best place to raise children and 38 per cent said they believed a rural area was the best place to raise children. Only five per cent preferred to raise their children in a big city. The remaining small percentage voiced no preference.

However, there was a sort of paradox. When asked where they believed a young man would have the best chance of building a good life for himself, 44 per cent said they believed the big city offered the best opportunity, while 29 per cent said they thought a small town offered the best opportunity. Only nine per cent thought a young man could find his best opportunity in a rural area.

The latter question apparently involves a factor that has affected the country's population more than any other in the past two or three decades.

The concentration of business and industry, the super corporations and the corresponding decline of the small town business community undoubtedly have had a powerful effect. The "industrialization" of agriculture also has influenced the trend.

Now, there is talk intermittently of "decentralization," especially in the field of heavy industry. Some of the metropolitan centers are being literally strangled. Big city problems are as big as the cities themselves. —WACIL McNAIR.

Snow And Ice Blanket Plains

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow and ice mantled most of the Texas Panhandle-Plains sector today, causing the Weather Bureau to post a warning to travelers, and showers or thunderstorms dotted the rest of the state.

Skies were clear only around El Paso, behind an eastbound Pacific cold front which still dawdled near the east edge of New Mexico in early morning.

Snow accumulations ranged up to about 4 inches at Dalhart, Dumas, Perryton, Spearman and Borger. Pampa and Amarillo measured 3½ inches.

The snowfall tapered off farther south to 2 inches at Plainview and a quickly melted one-half inch at Lubbock.

Special warnings that motorists would find roads hazardous with ice or packed snow went out from the Weather Bureau during the night for most of the Panhandle and the South Plains.

Highways in those areas were reported dangerously slick but still passable as the white flakes stopped falling early today.

Farmers and ranchers welcomed the moisture as a boon to small grain crops and range grass. Much of the Panhandle-Plains region has been suffering from a lack of moisture.

Temperatures edged down to freezing or a little below at some points in the Panhandle before dawn but remained generally in the 40s to 50s in other sections.

Thick fog followed on the heels of the snow in places. At Childress, in the southeast edge of the Panhandle, visibility dropped to zero. It was foggy also at Amarillo and Lubbock.

Another foggy belt lay near the coast, embracing Brownsville, Alice and Victoria.

Snow and rain were expected to end by this evening across the northern half of the state but to continue Friday at scattered points in the southern half. No major changes in temperature were predicted.

Top readings Wednesday afternoon reached only 32 at Dalhart and 34 at Amarillo, while the mercury climbed to 68 at Van Horn and 73 at Presidio in far West Texas-the warmest spots in the nation.

Predawn marks today ranged from 31 at Dalhart and Perryton up to 58 at Palacios and and 61 at Alice and Corpus Christi.

Deadlock Deepens In Paris

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The United States insisted today that common ground exists at the Vietnam peace talks to bring the conflict to an end, but the atmosphere of deadlock deepened as Hanoi and the National Liberation Front stuck by their all-or-nothing demands.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge told the North Vietnamese and the NLF that the 1954 Geneva accords provide the common ground, and that it was in the spirit of the basic principles of those accords that the Americans had made their proposals for a military de-escalation.

Lodge claimed the other side recognized last week that the solution of military issues is "an absolutely essential first step" for the creation of conditions in which political problems can be resolved." He recalled that the Hanoi-front side had called the withdrawal of troops a "fundamental question."

"Thus," he said, "your side and our side seem to agree that military issues and particularly the question of withdrawal of military forces are of key importance to an over-all settlement."

STUDY PREPARED FOR TESCO

Textile Data Is Presented

Copies of a study prepared for Texas Electric Service Company by the Cotton Economic Research of the University of Texas of the feasibility for profitable operation of textile mills in this area were distributed to a group of civic leaders Wednesday by Henry Clark, manager for the electric service company here.

"We hope this study will be helpful in attracting new industries to this area," Clark said. "It points out some of the real opportunities available here to the textile mill industry."

"This study is part of the company's Program for Economic Progress (PEP) intended to help communities served by the company in their economic and cultural improvement programs," he said.

Carl Cox of Dallas, director of the Cotton Research Committee of Texas, and James H. Harwell of Austin, executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission, were present at the meeting.

"To the best of our knowledge, this is the most thorough and detailed evaluation for textile manufacturing in specific West Texas locations," Cox said.

Harwell said that the Texas Industrial Commission will use the study in every way possible to attract new industry here and that Texas Electric Service Company is to be commended for making this report available.

Texas Electric Service plans to use the study in contacting major textile manufacturers throughout the country to stim-

Israel Holds Demands In Abeyance

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel's hawks today held in abeyance their demands for retaliation for the latest Arab attack on an Israeli airliner. They awaited the outcome of calls from their government and that of the United States for international action to protect civil aviation.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, one of the more militant members of the Israeli cabinet, told a closed meeting at the Weizman Institute of Science Wednesday night that Israelis must be restrained and let the diplomats fight their battles for the moment. But reliable sources said he warned Israel's Arab neighbors:

"We regard all our neighboring states as responsible for all terrorist activities. When we make reprisals, we will hit them in the place that will hurt them the most and will be the most convenient for us. We will not be bound to any particular target."

Dayan had just come from a top-secret ministerial security meeting at the home of Premier Levi Eshkol.

"We'll let the Arabs stew for a while," said one lead Israeli commentator." All their governments are certain of a big Israeli reprisal, are scurrying around frantically to accuse each other of complicity and thus escape the consequences themselves."

The traveling exhibit has been booked for one week showings in several cities and towns and the exhibition here was arranged to begin the series.

Jaycees Put Out Bond Petitions

Snyder Jaycees are circulating petitions now calling for studies to be made and that bond elections ultimately be called to finance construction of a new courthouse and jail, and a museum and culture center.

The petitions call upon the County Commissioner's Court to determine the cost of remodeling or rebuilding the present buildings or complete new construction of the Scurry County Courthouse and Jail, and to call a bond election to provide sufficient amount to cover the costs of such construction, and for similar procedure on the museum and culture center proposal.

Ken Aldridge, who heads the Jaycee Committee in charge of circulating the petitions, said the Jaycees hoped that every voter in the county would have an opportunity to sign a petition. Aldridge said the petitions would be available in a number of locations and that several individuals will have copies which they will circulate personally.

There is no specific requirement for signatures on such petitions. Aldridge said the Jaycees hope to get a good number of signatures, however, so that county commissioners will know that calling such elections would not be a waste of time and expense.

The courthouse-jail proposal and the museum-culture center proposal are on separate proposals and they would be separate issues in any bond election that might be called. Consequently, one issue could be adopted and another rejected, both could pass, or both could be rejected.

Four Die In Abilene Fire

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Four men died today in a blaze that ripped through an industrial firm near here, the Department of Public Safety said.

The victims were not at once identified.

State police said the fire was at the McDonald Smith Well Servicing Co. one mile north of Abilene in Jones County.

Fire units from Abilene and Anson brought the fire under control shortly before 10 a.m. Fire fighters reported the bodies were found in the rear of the building. They said there was extensive interior damage.

Highway Patrol units said a truck carrying bottled gas was believed inside the blaze, but no

More Executions Staged In Iraq

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Iraq executed seven young men as spies for Israel today, but there were no Jews among them and the bodies were not put on display until after the executions.

Israel was expected to issue a denial of any complicity, but it appeared unlikely that there would be a repetition of the storm of foreign protests which followed the public execution last month of nine Iraqi Jews and five Moslems as spies for the Jewish nation.

Baghdad Radio canceled regular programs this morning and broadcast repeated announcements of the executions in what appeared to be an invitation to crowds to go to the capital's liberation Square, where the bodies were hanging.

The seven Iraqi Moslems, all between 19 and 24 years of age, were condemned after a three-week trial before Iraq's revolutionary court. The government radio said two were soldiers, and they were shot by firing squads, while five civilians were hanged at Baghdad's central prison.

A third soldier also was sentenced to death, the broadcast said, but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by President Ahmed Hassan al Bakr because he "helped authorities uncover the detailed activities of the ring."

The court said the eight men had collected information about Iraq's air force bases and radar screens and communicated them to Israel through a non-commissioned officer who is still at large. He was said to have headed the group.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Due to a serious illness during my childhood, I was advised that I could never have any children. Physically, things aren't any different with me than with other men, and my condition has been kept a secret between me and my parents.

I was married two years ago to a beautiful, outgoing girl. She never mentioned anything about having a family, so I saw no reason to tell her about the way things are with me.

Well, she is now pregnant, and makes believe that I am the father, but I know different. My mother says if my wife doesn't tell me who the father is, SHE will ask her.

Of course I would like to get things straightened around with my wife, but I don't know how to handle it.

Should I go on pretending to believe the baby is mine? What if my mother says something to my wife even after I warn her not to?

I love my wife, but I am sure bewildered.

NO NAME, NO TOWN

DEAR NO NAME: First go to a doctor (urologist, if possible). Men have been known to father children after having been told they were unable. If the child can't possibly be yours, YOU tell your wife the whole story, and ask her to tell you HERS. And tell your mother to stay out of it.

(P.S. It's not to your credit to have married the girl without having told her of your condition.)

DEAR ABBY: There is this man in whom I could be very much interested, but he has one outstanding fault. He talks about himself all the time.

He is nice looking, successful in his business and is very good company, but he doesn't wait for a person to finish a sentence before he jumps in and turns the conversation around to himself and his accomplishments. Is there some way I can tell him about it so he could correct it? He'd make a good catch.

"MYRA"

DEAR MYRA: First, get him to listen by enumerating his admirable qualities, then tell him he'd be practically perfect if his "Is" weren't so close together. If he makes no effort to improve, forget him. He's not as good a catch as you think.

DEAR ABBY: Do you have any male readers who will give me their honest opinion?

I was taught that the most precious gift a woman could give to the man she loved and married was having kept her body just for him; that he would respect and honor her for having waited.

More and more I'm accused of being "Victorian." Just recently a man told me, "You've got to wise up for your own good. If you don't give a man what he wants, he'll go elsewhere."

Even the man whom I recently loved deeply said he thought that after a half dozen dates, sex was in order.

I believe the proper setting for sex is love and marriage. This way it is something sacred and meaningful. There is a real commitment on both sides, not just a satisfying of one's appetite temporarily — until the next time.

I am not a young provincial lass tied to her mother's apron strings. I am 41 and have been completely "on my own" since 17. I've lived in many large American cities and several foreign countries, and have been exposed to all kinds of tempting social situations. I am romantic and sensitive and I'm not ugly. What is a man's opinion?

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Well, we shall see. Men?

Three Cases Under Probe

City Police are investigating a couple of thefts and a hit-and-run incident that occurred within the past two days.

Someone fled the scene after his blue car struck the left rear fender and tail light of W. D. Fish's 1962 Model Rambler station wagon while the vehicle was parked on the north side of his driveway at 3110 Avenue U about 1:45 p.m. yesterday.

Thieves stole a red bicycle from the parking lot at the high school cafeteria about 5:30 Wednesday. The owner is Wilbert Sonnier, 3203 Fortieth Street.

Someone took a box of nine stereo tapes valued at $60 from the car of Max Stephens, 3101 Avenue A, Tuesday night while it was parked in the driveway of his home.

Jail Terms Levied In Two Cases Here

H. D. Van Zandt changed his plea to guilty yesterday in county court.

He received a 30-day jail term and a $25 fine plus court costs for aggravated assault with a knife. A 30-day jail term also was assessed for aggravated assault on a female.

The first offense occurred Feb. 11, and the second one was Feb. 14. Arrest was made by Sheriff's Authorities in each instance.

Global Study Of US Aid Is Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators, reporting "shocking disclosures of widespread corruption" in a U.S.-Vietnam aid program, now plan a worldwide look at American overseas assistance.

Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the investigations subcommittee, said today the global review was needed to "eliminate and prevent the uneconomic, illegal and corrupt practices by which taxpayers' dollars have been siphoned . . ."

He commented in submitting to the Senate a report of the subcommittee's two-year investigation of the commodity-import program in Vietnam. Among its findings:

—"Dishonesty and fraud involving kickbacks, ineligible commissions, excessive and exorbitant prices, shipments of products without value or utility and violations of U.S. or South Vietnamese regulations."

—Diversion of American dollars to bank accounts, in Switzerland and elsewhere, of South Vietnamese importers, with an adverse effect on the U.S. balance of payments.

McClellan also noted that the Agency for International Development, which administers the foreign-aid program, had cooperated in the investigation and had acted to correct abuses uncovered.

Local Realtor In International Set

W. PRENTIS BASS

W. Prentis Bass, owner of Bass Real Estate, 1911½ Avenue S, has been admitted to membership in the International Real Estate Federation, through its American Chapter, an affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, it was announced today by Daniel F. Sheehan, St. Louis, Missouri, President.

The organization lists among its objectives the promotion of high professional standards and good relations among individuals engaged in the calling of real estate in all nations and the encouragement of the private ownership of real property and understanding of its obligations.

The International Real Estate Federation was formed nearly 20 years ago, and today has members in most of the developed Free World countries. Headquartered in Paris, the IREF holds its congress (convention) in a different country each year. In 1963, the congress was held for the first time in the Western Hemisphere, in Chicago. In 1964, Tel Aviv was the scene. In 1965, Brussels. In 1966, Tokyo, followed in 1967 by the meeting of Copenhagen, and in 1968 in Mexico City. The 1969 congress will be held in Lucerne Switzerland, in May of this year.

Members of the chapter, through their participation in the annual congress, develop international friendships and valuable business contacts with colleagues in other countries, and exchange ideas on business methods and techniques.

Since June 21, 1954, the International Federation (FIABCI) has had conferred on it consultive status to the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations (ECOSOC), on which its members sit regularly with the representatives of member countries.

At the moment, FIABCI unites 19 free nations, whose professional real estate organizations represent more than 120,000 agents who employ 1,200,000 collaborators in America, Asia and Europe. FIABCI maintains constant contacts with many nations, and each year the applications of several countries for membership in the international organization are examined by the FIABCI board. Presently nations negotiating for membership in FIABCI include Argentian, Bolivia, New Zealand, Nigeria, Norway, Greece, Hong Kong, India, Morocco, Luxenburg and 9 other Free Nations.

The more than 800 members of the American Chapter (33 of which reside in Texas) receive a quarterly bulletin direct from the Federation's international headquarters office in Paris printed in three languages — English, French and German, according to Prentis Bass, which he will use in his local business activities as it contains items about current real estate developments in each of the member countries.

Names and addresses of all accredited members of the International Real Estate Federation are entered in a membership directory which will enable individuals or firms of other nations "to locate us," when assistance is needed in purchasing Texas ranch and farm property, or other properties throughout the United States; In addition, "I'll be able to sell a ranch in Australia, a castle in Spain, a shopping center in Brussels, or a coffee plantation in Brazil," Bass said.

Sit In At San Marcos

SAN MARCOS, Tex. (AP) — A Southwest Texas State College pupil said a peaceful sit-in in front of the school's administration building would be held today to back demand that the college president not be rehired.

John Pfeffer of Bellevue said students will sit on a grassy area in front of the school administration building from noon to 2 p.m.

Pfeffer said the demonstration has been called to ask the state college board of regents meeting in Austin Friday not to renew the contract of Dr. James McCrocklin.

McCrocklin, who was undersecretary under President Johnson in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare returned to the school in January.

The furor started over the authorship of McCrocklin's doctoral dissertation. Some of the faculty say much of the dissertation duplicates passages from his wife's thesis for a master's degree and from Gen. Franklin Hart's "History of the Garde d'Haiti."

College regents will consider the extension of contracts of all college presidents under their jurisdiction Friday, Pfeffer said.

McCrocklin has promised a statement about his dissertation Feb. 24.

Dean Floyd Martine has given permission for the demonstration, Pfeffer said.

The study also will be distributed by the Texas Industrial Commission, the Cotton Research Committee of Texas and the Cotton Economic Research at the University of Texas at Austin.

The availability of all of the resources — raw materials, markets, transportation and labor — that are essential for a profitable textile manufacturing operation in this area is described in the study.

The study considers area locational factors for several textile mill operations. These include spinning mills, raw fiber to yarn; weaving mills, yarn to fabric; combed yarn mills, raw fiber to yarn; and knitting mills, yarn to fabric.

During the 1966-67 season the eight-county area included in the study produced more than 365,000 bales of cotton. Almost one-third of the cotton grown in the U.S. is produced and processed within a 200-mile radius from the center of the area. Practically any quality of cotton is readily available within this area.

Also available to textile facilities located in the study area is a plentiful supply of wool and mohair. This could prove to be an extremely important locational advantage since market acceptability of cotton, wool, and mohair blends is increasing.

According to the study, a large supply of trainable labor is available within the area. These workers can be trained for various industrial tasks through vocational training programs available in the eight-county area.

Copies of the study are available for interested persons at the Texas Electric Service Company office here.

Double Task For Secretary Laird

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird was handed the double task today of urging prompt ratification of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty while defending the administration's apparent intention to press ahead with atomic missile defenses.

Ostensibly, Laird and Gen. Earle C. Wheeler, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff were called before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to present the administration case for approval of the treaty.

But it was clear from questioning of Secretary of State William P. Rogers Tuesday that critics of the Sentinel missile defense system consider the hearings a forum to advance their cause.

The critics of the Sentinel, which would use nuclear-armed missiles to destroy incoming enemy missiles, argue its deployment would conflict with the treaty's provision for negotiations on nuclear disarmament.

They cited Article VI of the nonproliferation treaty, which calls for negotiations leading eventually to general disarmament.

The critics argue the administration should at least try to enter into negotiations with the Soviet Union on missile disarmament before proceeding with the ABM.

Rogers rejected that view Tuesday.

Laird has suspended deployment of the Sentinel system and ordered a Pentagon study of the program in the face of increasing congressional criticism and citizen protests.

But there have been indications work will be resumed, probably on sites away from population centers.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said in a Senate speech Wednesday the Pentagon review was not the kind he had hoped for, and he had commissioned his own.

It will be done for him by Dr. Jerome Wiesner of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was a science advisor to President Kennedy and Johnson, and Prof. Abram Chayes of Harvard University, who was a legal adviser to the State Department in 1961-64.

Prosecution Rests

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's prosecution team rested its case in Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial today after the Louisiana Supreme Court rejected a state appeal and refused to intervene in the case. The defense then asked that the jury be removed from the courtroom so Shaw's attorneys could make a motion.

Veal With A French Accent

What the French do with veal seems like magic. Yet the secret is really a simple one: sauce. They sauce this delicately flavored meat in a thousand ways — one more delicious than the next.

Take a tip from our Gallic friends and try this delightful combination of veal, fresh mushrooms, and small white onions. And for the all-important sauce, rely on flavor-perfect canned beef gravy as the starting point. Enhance the smooth brown gravy with the distinctive touches of tarragon, parsley, and sour cream. When the veal is simmered in this velvety sauce, the results are nothing short of magnificent. Canned gravies can spark many interesting dishes. It's so easy to start with the convenient gravy (no mixing necessary) and add your own individual touch.

Fitting accompaniments for the meal are, of course, French bread and fresh fruit compote for dessert.

VEAL FRANCAIS

1½ pounds veal cubes (1½ inches)
2 cups sliced mushrooms (about ½ pound)
Generous dash tarragon, crushed
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (10¾ ounces) beef gravy
1-3 cup sour cream
¼ cup chopped parsley
14 small whole white onions (about ¾ pound)

In skillet, brown veal with mushrooms and tarragon in butter. Add remaining ingredients except onions. Cover; cook over low heat 30 minutes. Add onions; cook 45 minutes more or until veal and onions are tender. Stir now and then. Uncover; cook until desired consistency. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Gardener's Corner

The New York State Fruit Testing Cooperative Association observed its 50th anniversary at Geneva, N. Y. The organization was designed to introduce for testing new fruits recommended as worthy of trial by scientists at the State Agricultural Experiment Station, Cornell University.

Membership in the association, now scattered throughout the 50 states and many foreign countries, totals 5,000.

The organization publishes a catalog listing new and promising fruits from the Geneva program and breeding programs elsewhere in the United States. The catalog endeavors to be honest about new items, not all of which are recommended. Both weak and strong points of varities are given.

Association members grow small plots of these fruits in various geographical areas to permit the Experiment Station to compare results against those at Geneva.

The golden anniversary program was highlighted by the naming of two new, high quality apples, Spijon and Jonagold.

Both apples were first observed by the station scientiests 25 years ago and have been watched carefully since the original crosses were made. They are now considered among the best apples ever studied at Geneva for the fresh and processing markets.

Jonagold stems from a 1943 cross between Golden Delicious and Jonathan. The large fruit, with Jonathan-like flavor, has excellent eating quality. The tree resembles Golden Delicious but has the wider spread of Jonathan. Jonagold is a triploid variety and thus is not useful as a pollinator.

Jonagold, one of 57 varieties introduced by Geneva since 1882, ripens at the same time as Delicious — about Oct. 10 at Geneva under normal growing conditions. Eighty per cent of the attractive skin is covered with red striping over yellow. The flesh is firm, sub-acid and juicy.

Spijon is a cross of Red Spy X Monroe. It was marked to be propagated in 1953. It is attractive, solid and bright red.

Spijon is an upright, spreading tree with somewhat drooping terminals. The tree is less vigorous than Red Spy and therefore the size is more easily controlled.

The ripening date compares with Northern Spy's, about Oct. 20-25 at Geneva. The fruit is 3 to 3¼ inches in diameter. The skin is dark crimson, with 90 per cent of it red. There is no striping. It is a good keeper, as is Jonagold.

The Geneva scientists predict bright futures for both apples.

Raspberry Virus Index

The Geneva station also inaugurated in 1961 a program for production of virus - indexed raspberry planting stock. A limited quantity will be available for planting in 1969.

Virus diseases have caused severe crop losses in raspberry plantings for many years. Determining the presence of virus in some stocks is difficult. Plantings are made in a field isolated from other raspberries. Virus - free plants are increased in screenhouses where they can be protected from aphids and other virus carriers.

PANDORA'S FOOTLOCKER!

TO KEEP CONGRESS INFORMED

Pentagon Says Lobby Vital

By HARRY KELLY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department is spending $4 million a year on a lobbying force of 339—more than one for every two members of Congress—to keep the congressmen happy, argue the armed forces' point of view, and feed the Pentagon information about what's happening on Capitol Hill.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called it "an over-large establishment" and added in an interview:

"It appears to me that admirals and colonels could be used to better purpose and effect, and while I personally appreciate the great assistance which they have rendered I think the same amount of assistance could be accomplished with fewer personnel."

Defense officials say the big legislative liaison force is necessary because of growing demands from and upon members of Congress, including an "astronomical number" of written and telephoned inquiries from their constituents.

While some Pentagon critics see it as further evidence of expanding military influence, defense officials insist there's no cause for concern that the weight of such a disciplined legislative effort might tip the scales in favor of the military's position in a Senate or House debate.

On the contrary, said a Pentagon officer, "We're always being pushed into a corner by the Fulbrights and others."

A congressional source normally sensitive to military pressure or inroads said, I don't think senators regard them in the usual sense as lobbyists but really just as members of the services helping with the mail."

If a congressman or senator asks the Pentagon for information on a military issue—as in the debate over the Sentinel anti-ballistic missile system he gets it—along with material supporting the Defense Department's view.

"It would be silly to say we don't give them material that supports the secretary's decision," said Marine Brig. Gen. James F. Lawrence, deputy assistant to the secretary of defense for legislative affairs.

Each service—Army, Air Force and Navy and Marine Corps—has its own legislative organization, but they work under the general supervision of a veteran Pentagon lawyer, Jack L. Stempler, assistant to the secretary of defense for legislative affairs.

The average number of persons working on legislative activities, according to the Pentagon's appropriation requests for fiscal 1970, are 140 military and 199 civilian at a total cost, principally pay and allowances, of $4,134,911 a year.

They work at congressional liaison with individual members, with committees considering appropriations or holding hearings, and with committees involved in investigations.

The military information centers are staffed by 30 employes, primarily to deal with inquiries bucked to them by congressional offices.

Says Stempler: "They answer an astronomical number of inquiries on personnel—'How do you get a commission? I haven't heard from my son for more than a month. How do you get into West Point?'"

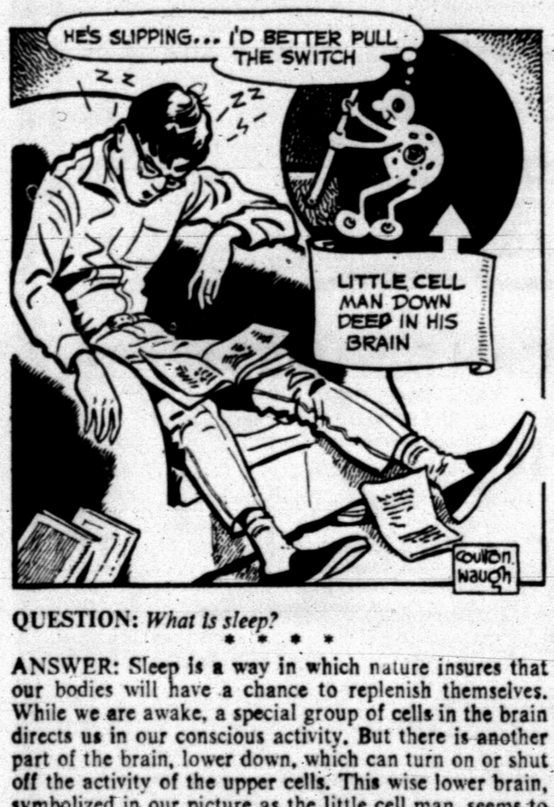

He estimated that the Pentagon's legislative affairs people answer 400,000 written and 500,000 telephoned inquiries in a year.

Junior Editors Quiz on SLEEP

QUESTION: What is sleep?

* * * *

ANSWER: Sleep is a way in which nature insures that our bodies will have a chance to replenish themselves. While we are awake, a special group of cells in the brain directs us in our conscious activity. But there is another part of the brain, lower down, which can turn on or shut off the activity of the upper cells. This wise lower brain, symbolized in our picture as the little cell man, seems to know when the conscious parts need to be shut off, so it makes us drowsy and we tumble into bed. While sleeping, we use very little energy. This allows the nerve cells to build up supplies of the chemicals they need to keep us going when we wake up. We all need sleep. When young, children should have 10 hours rest; when older, 9 or more. Adolescents need from 8 to 9 hours. Experts say it doesn't matter what position we take when we first go to sleep. Without knowing that we're doing so, we change our position several times during the night. This gives a chance for all the muscles to relax.

Advertising Object Of Criticism

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Professionally skilled at convincing the public of the utility or value or pleasure to be found in thousands of products, today's advertising people seem, nevertheless, to have difficulty selling themselves.

Criticism of industry is abundant today. The insurers, automakers, tire manufacturers, drug companies, television producers, food packers and so on have been sharply criticized, sometimes unfairly.

Much of the criticism comes from a public that has grown much more aware of marketing practices through congressional investigations and Ralph Nader and their own unhappy experiences with products with better images than performance.

What makes the ad people especially uncomfortable is that they share in the criticism of any industry, because it is they who publicize the products and to a degree maintain the image.

The present criticism, however, seems to be more direct. Rather than being hurt by fallout from attacks on other industries, the advertisers now seem to feel they, themselves, are under attack.

Speaking this week in Washington before the 11th Annual Conference on Government Affairs, Walter Terry, chairman of the American Advertising Federation, commented:

"In spite of the many positive steps we and other advertising associations have taken, our critics seem to multiply and become more vocal."

During the past year, said Terry, "advertising itself stood accused of escalating the violence in the United States, of encouraging industrial monopoly, or promoting racism, of encouraging the use of lethal weapons among children and finally, of controlling the outcome of a national election."

The list of complaints, just or unjust, could go on, for criticism seems to build upon criticism: Advertising promotes cigarette smoking that could be injurious to health; it promotes automobile speed, with consequences to health even more conclusive.

Terry scored some of the charges and warned of the increasing willingness of government to regulate and control the advertising industry. But it was his explanation of the growing criticism that revealed the industry's failure.

The reason, said Terry, was a "gross misunderstanding" of advertising's role in society, a reason that could hardly be more basic and hardly less understandable, considering that it is advertising's role, among many, to teach.

Female Bar Flies In Wrong File

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — A topical index of bills published by the Washington legislature has this entry under "insects:"

"Bar flies, female, HB70."

House bill 70 would permit women to sit at bars in cocktail lounges.

The postcard celebrates its centennial this year, the National Geographic says. It was introduced on Oct. 1, 1869, in Austria.

TOURNEY BEGINS — These girls will be among those competing in the District 10-B Basketball Tournament that begins today in the Scurry County Coliseum. Tipoff was set for 4 p.m. The semifinals Friday and the finals Saturday will be held in the Tiger gym.

Girls Begin Play In 10-B Tourney

The District 10-B Girls Basketball Tournament begins at 4 p.m. today in the Scurry County Coliseum with Hobbs meeting Loraine in the first tilt.

Other first round tilts pit Ira against Roby at 5:30 p.m., Westbrook against Fluvanna at 7 p.m. and Hermleigh against Highland at 8:30 p.m.

Westbrook, sporting a 13-1 record in regular season, is favored to cop the tournament crown and grab a berth in the state playoffs. However, Hobbs could give the Wildcats a tough tussle. A playoff would become necessary if the Panthers win the tournament.

Semifinals and finals tilts Friday and Saturday will be held in the Tiger gym. The Westbrook-Fluvanna winner takes on the Ira-Roby winner at 7 p.m. Friday, followed at 8:30 p.m. by a tussle between the Hobbs-Loraine winner and the Hermleigh-Highland winner.

Finals are set for 8:30 p.m. Saturday with the battle for third place on tap at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets are 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Trap Shoot Set Sunday

The Canyon Gun Club will hold a trap shoot at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 23, at the Club range southwest of town.

This will be a 25 bird handicap shoot with trophies to be presented to the top three shooters. Target shells of .12 gauge caliber will be available at the range.

Michigan State's football team will play Southern Methodist, Notre Dame, Ohio State and Michigan on successive Saturdays next fall.

Comanche Relays Set Friday

Weather permitting, the Snyder High School track team will compete in the Comanche Relays at Fort Stockton this weekend, It will be the first Meet of the year for the Tigers.

Graduation losses were heavy, but the Bengals are hoping they can surprise a few poeple with a determined, young squad led by five senior lettermen and one junior letterman. Coach Bill Hartsfield again returns to guide the fortunes of the Black and Gold. Coach Cecil Redford is working with the weight and field men.

Returning lettermen include Harvey Browning, Steve Burney, Mark Gilstrap, Tommy Hollis, Roy Lee and Larry Lofton. Larry is the only numeral winner returning from the mile relay team that qualified for regional last season.

Things look pretty rough for the Tigers in district again. While Snyder has a young team and will have to depend to a large extent on juniors and sophomores, Lubbock Dunbar lost only two boys off the team that won the state championship in 1968. Lubbock Estacado, competing in Class AAAA last season, had some good relay teams. One of their boys placed in the 220 at state in the higher classification.

Snyder had another senior letterman, but a fractured leg will prevent Eloy Benitez, the outstanding miler, from competing this season. The Tigers still have strength in the distance run, though, since Harvey Browning returns. Steve Burney and Mark Gilstrap could garner a few points in the pole vault while Roy Lee will be a threat in the 880. Lofton and Hollis are both sprinters.

Junior squadmen who could be of value in the sprints are Willis Harrison, Phillip Hill and Barry Park. Larry Allen, another junior, is a hurdler while senior Ray Ellis and junior Herbert Hodges are weightmen.

Two seniors are coming out for track for the first time — Jerry January, a hurdler and Rocky Cowan, a sprinter.

There are five junior and 11 sophomore first-year men. The juniors are Craig Allred (mile), Sal Amato (880), Cecil Guiterrez (mile), Jerry McKinney (weights) and Steve Pierce (sprints). Sophs include sprinters Wade Ashley, C. W. Berryman, David McCommas, Gary Shields and Bill Wilson; Norman Davis (hurdles), Danny Farmer (880), Louis Garcia (mile), Mike Mize (pole vault), Jeff Stewart (high jump), and Cliff Turpin (pole vault).

The schedule includes six tournaments in addition to the big Canyon Reef Relays here, the district tournament here, the regional meet at Odessa, the state qualifiers meet at Lubbock, and, hopefully, the state meet at Austin.

The team will leave for Fort Stockton at 7 a.m. Friday. Prelims begin at 2:15 p.m. Friday with the finals to get underway at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Coach Hartsfield listed probable Tiger entries in the various events, as follows:

440 yard relay — Willis Harrison, Gary Shields, Tommy Hollis and Larry Lofton.

mile relay — Barry Park, David McCommas, Bill Wilson and Larry Lofton.

100 yard dash — Gary Shields, Steve Pierce, Rocky Cowan.

220 yard dash — Willis Harrison, Gary Shields, Steve Pierce or Wade Ashley.

120 yard high hurdles — Norman Davis.

330 yard intermediate hurdles — Larry Allen, Norman Davis and Tommy Hollis.

440 yard dash — Larry Lofton, Barry Park.

880 yard dash — Roy Lee, Danny Farmer, Phillip Hill.

mile run — Harvey Browning Craig Allred, Louis Garcia.

pole vault — Steve Burney, Mark Gilstrap.

long jump — Rocky Cowan, Danny Farmer, Bill Wilson.

high jump — Jeff Stewart, Rocky Cowan, Norman Davis.

shot put — Ray Ellis, Herbert Hodges.

discus — Ray Ellis, Herbert Hodges.

Basketball Fever Begins Spreading

Basketball fever began to spread here today with the beginning of the District 10-B Basketball Tournament, and the contagion should spread tomorrow when the boys of District 3-AAA take over the Coliseum for their Tournament.

The fever should reach a high pitch at 6:30 p.m. Friday. That's the time the Dunbar-Colorado City clash begins. Area fans will be hopeless victims of the fever by the time the 8:30 p.m. finale tomorrow comes. Lamesa and Levelland skirmish then.

Finals of the 3-AAA tourney is set for 8 p.m. Saturday, also in the Coliseum.

Four of the best teams in the state will be vying in the tourney. Lamesa, sparked by the Jenkins twins — Lloyd and Floyd — are favorites to wrest the crown away from state finalist Lubbock Dunbar. The Panthers, with Ronald Melton and Marc Wilson hitting from inside and out, can run and shoot with the best of them. But, for sheer smoothness and efficiency at operating the patterns, the Tornadoes may be without peer, although there is not a senior in the starting alignment.

Of course, one cannot count out Colorado City's Wolves or Levelland's Loboes until the final gun. Colorado City copped third in Class AA circles last year and have two of the most talented performers in the state in Randy Parker and Lyneal James. Levelland, usually a slow starter, has improved greatly of late. Sparkplug of the Lobos is Mike Dukes, a senior who shoots with uncanny accuracy.

Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students for one or both of the tilts Friday. Adults can see the finals Saturday for $1 and students for 50 cents.

Junior Girls Vie Today, Others Later

Some girls volleyball games are on tap today and several other sporting events involving local athletes are scheduled this weekend.

Lamar Junior High will host the Snyder High School "B" team in a program that begins at 4 p.m.

Travis Junior High will host Goliad of Big Spring at the high school gym at 5:15 p.m. There will be three games — 8th grade "B", 8th grade "A," and 9th grade.

Tomorrow, the varsity girls of Coach Judy Stephens will be competing in a tournament at Colorado City. The Tiger girls meet Midland High at 2 p.m. Friday in the first round. If they win, the Snyder girls will go into the second round at 5:30 p.m. Saturday. An opening round loss would put them in a 4 p.m. contest Saturday.

Other teams in the tournament are Brownfield, Littlefield, Reagan County, Colorado City, Lamesa and Sweetwater.

Coach J. P. Ward's golf team will be at Andrews this weekend. Coach Ken McAllister's tennis team continues its round robin district schedule in a showdown with Estacado at Lubbock Saturday morning.

New Relief Seen For Brush Woes

Editor's Note: Ranchers, their brush problem still with them, may get some relief by a new mixture of chemicals. And experimenters are taking an added approach—determing a careful cost-profit ratio.

LUBBOCK (AP) — Researchers, encouraged by a new "cocktail" mix which they say doubles the kill of unwanted brush, are preparing for wide-scale further tests.

The experiments will continue for five years and each of the blocks used in the experiments will consist of a section of land instead of the patches normally used.

Further, a major part of the experiment will be an examination of how much the brush control costs compared with the monetary gain received by eradicating the brush.

The research begun at the start of the year, involves a product called Tordon herbicide in combination with the old standby of 2,4,5-T. In small controlled patches, the "cocktail" has been more effective than either of the chemicals used separately.

In charge is Charles Fisher, Lubbock, supervisor of Texas A&M University's brush control work in West Texas.

Cooperating will be the Texas A&M Agricultural Center at Lubbock, the A&M Experiment Station at Spur and a large number of other organizations and persons.

"If these large-scale tests confirm what we have seen in the experimental trial," Fisher told the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, "we may be able to give ranchers their best chance in history to stop the forward march of brush."

Fisher said the new chemical, Tordon, has not been approved for use on brushland but the experiments were organized in the believe it will be.

Ten separate ranches are cooperating in the experiment.

Fisher says the large-scale tests, using at least a section of land each, are big enough to be meaningful for ranchers.

An important part of the tests will be economic impact particularly on calf growth.

Calves marketed each year off each treated plot of land will be weighed and compared with animals produced on adjacent uncontrolled pastures.

Dollars received for calves off both treated and untreated pastures will be compared. Records will be maintained on the amount of time and the labor costs required to handle the cattle, destroy the brush and improve vegetation.

Ways to improve on the cleared land also will be a part of the experiment.

Greenville Eyes Call For Special Vote

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Hunt County Commissioners' Court scheduled a meeting at 5 p.m. today for further consideration of a petition seeking a special election to fill vacancies caused by the resignations of the entire city council.

The entire city council resigned following the resignations, last week of the city manager and finance director and the defeat of 10 proposed changes in the city charter in an election.

Mayor Sybil Maddux and Councilman Ed Williams resigned earlier.

A group of Greenville citizens presented the petition at a Wednesday commissioners' court meeting, using as authority for their action, a 93-year-old state law.

The petition was signed by 30 residents. The state statute covers filling vacancies which can't be filled under a city's charter.

The statute says, in part, "Whenever a vacancy occurs in any incorporated city which can't be filled under the city charter or under laws of the state, the commissioners' court of the county can order an election to fill the vacancy on petition of not less than 25 tax paying voters living in that city."

Greenville's city charter provides that a recall election can be called on petition signed by a number of qualified voters equal to 51 per cent of the votes in the last city election, which, in this case would be 1,626.

Before resigning, the council appointed E. A. Koenig, judge of corporation court, as acting city manager. Koenig retired earlier as Bonham city manager.

Wounded Count Passes 200,000

SAIGON (AP) — The total number of Americans wounded in the Vietnam war has passed the 200,000 mark.

The U.S. Command said today 197 Americans were killed in action last week, and 1,103 were wounded. This brought the total number of American combat dead since Jan. 1, 1961, to 31,759 and the total wounded to 200,792.

The number of dead was the second highest of the year but roughly average for recent months. The week before 183 U.S. servicemen were killed.

South Vietnamese officials issued no casualty figures, and a spokesman said the weekly report had not been prepared yet because of delays. He did not explain, but presumably celebration of the Tet Lunar new year festival was responsible.

The U.S. Command said that in the week ending Feb. 15, 2,549 enemy soldiers were killed last week, bringing the total for the war to 447,356. The week before the total had been 2,264, and the U.S. Command increased it today to 2,467 on the basis of later reports.

A total of 8,808 Americans have been reported killed since the preliminary peace talks began in Paris last May 13, and 1,702 since South Vietnam joined the expanded talks on Dec. 7.

Collection For Family Started

A collection of clothing, food and utensils is being assembled at the Latin American Center, Avenue M at Thirteenth Street, for the Anselmo Alonzo family whose home burned last Sunday.

Anyone wishing to contribute such items for the family is urged to take them by the Latin American Center. There are six children in the family and they lost virtually all of their possessions in the fire.

Oilmen Eye Ice Islands As Moorings

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — A four-man crew plans to spend 40 days or so spraying water on two huge chunks of ice in the Arctic Ocean.

The scientific study is part of a high priority project aimed at determining whether a year round tanker route by way of the Northwest Passage is feasible for transporting oil from Alaska's Arctic slope to East Coast refineries.

The experiment became possible Jan. 26 when it was discovered unexpectedly that two huge "ice islands" had grounded themselves in 90 feet of water just 20 to 30 miles north of the Prudhoe Bay area, where two oil wells with rather fabulous production potentials were completed last year.

It is conceivable that tankers some day will be using the ice islands as moorings.

"This is God-given opportunity to find out what we want to know," said Stanley Haas, project manager of the Arctic marine task force of the Humble Oil & Refining Co.

Hiding enthusiasm is impossible for Dr. Harold Peyton, a University of Alaska Arctic engineering expert who is a consultant to Humble on the ice islands study.

"Having ice islands in this area is a very unusual circumstance, exceedingly rare," Peyton said. "It is so rare it perhaps happens only every 100 years. No one really knows."

But about 75 islands of varying sizes suddenly appeared off the North Slope in January and the two large ones involved in the study grounded themselves about 300 feet apart. They are in just about the exact position where the tanker route would need moorings for anchorage while taking on cargo by pipeline.

"What we need to know is how a grounded structure behaves in such an environment," Haas said. "We thought of building an observation platform and then heard of the ice islands. They seem to be suited for our purpose."

Ice islands are formed when giant sheets of shelf ice slide off the north side of Ellesmere Island above the Northwest Passage and start a clockwise movement about the Arctic. They are 160 to 180 feet thick and, before breaking up, may be 10 to 25 miles long.

Australia's Outback is so dry that a single steer may need a square mile of grazing room.

HEAD OF FORD FOUNDATION

Bundy Opposes Tax Reforms

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the gigantic Ford Foundation said today proposals to restrict the stock holdings of foundations might impede several social action programs his institution is considering.

McGeorge Bundy also said the proposal to limit foundation holdings to more than 20 per cent of the stock of any one company would have prevented establishment of the Ford Foundation and several others.

His remarks came in prepared testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee, which is studying the tax-exempt position of foundations as part of a general review of the federal tax code.

If the limit were imposed now, Bundy said, programs now under consideration by Ford to stimulate business in ghettos, provide jobs in the South and assist construction of integrated housing might be impeded.

Before heading the Ford Foundation, Bundy was a special assistant to President Johnson.

However, Bundy told the committee, the Ford Foundation, which is worth $3.5 billion, hopes as a matter of "prudent investment policy" to reduce its holdings of Ford Motor Co. stock to less than 20 per cent of the firm's total stock by 1971.

The foundation was started with a gift of 90 per cent of the auto company's stock.

"We don't own more than 20 per cent," he said, but "this has nothing to do with control" of the firm since it is in nonvoting stock.

A better guarantee against foundation's getting too involved in profit-making businesses would be to set up an independent board of trustees, rather than "a prohibition of equity hearings," Bundy testified.

However, Bundy did endorse a proposal to require family foundations to give up majority control of governing boards after 25 years.

This contrasted with the stand taken Wednesday by officials of the Rockefeller Foundation and the Rockefeller Brothers Foundation.

The committee, studying foundations as the first stage of its tax review, scheduled Bundy following criticism of the Ford Foundation.

Rep. Wright Patman, longtime investigator of foundations, asked whether the Ford Foundation was getting into politics when it financed voter registration efforts in Cleveland before the election of Mayor Carl B. Stokes.

Patman also cited Ford travel and study grants to eight former aides of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Boothe Has Role In Play

SAN MARCOS — Powers Boothe of Snyder will appear in the Southwest Texas State College's Speech and Drama Department production of "The Hostage." The play will be presented in the college's Little Theatre March 3-8.

Boothe will play the part of Monsewer in the play which depicts the senselessness of killing.

The play by Brendan Behan is set in Ireland. An Irish boy is imprisoned for the killing of a British police officer and his friends then kidnap a British soldier in an attempt to exchange him for the boy.

Boothe, the son of Vestal Boothe of Route 1, Snyder, is a drama major.

Boothe is a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha. He was Delta Zeta Beau for the 1968-69 school term.

Pueblo Crewman's Conduct Praised

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Pueblo crewmen, in telling about their 11-month imprisonment and brutal treatment by North Koreans, frequently have described Quartermaster 1.C. Charles B. Law as a tower of strength and a natural leader of men.

"Law probably demonstrated the finest qualities of petty officer leadership I've ever seen," Lt. (jjg.) Frederick Schumacher Jr., the ship's operations officer, testified.

"Law was in charge of the enlisted men," said Lt. (j.g.) Timothy Harris, supply officer. "The way he conducted himself was outstanding." Law, 27, of Chehalis, Wash., was called to tell his own story today to the Navy court of inquiry investigating the intelligence ship's seizure and the conduct of its crew as prisoners.

The court may recommend anything from courts-martial to medals.

Law relayed information from the officers—each held in a separate room—to the enlisted men, who were held from four to eight to a room, in two compounds near Pyngyang.

Harris told the court "Anytime anything went wrong the Koreans blamed Law. He took the brunt of the punishment. He was the contact between the officers and the enlisted men."

Law was married here last week to a San Diego secretary, Marie L. Cherry. He met her at a party last December shortly after the crew was freed. The Pueblo was captured off North Korean in January 1968.

Law told a news conference shortly after his return he was struck at least 25 times by the North Koreans with fists and boards.

CWO Gene Howard Lacy, the ship's engineering officer; Timothy Harris and Lt. Stephen Harris, who was in charge of the ship's intelligence detail, testified Wednesday.

Lacy and Stephen Harris said they were struck repeatedly by captors in quest of spy confessions. Both said they felt they violated the U.S. Code of Conduct for prisoners. Both said they should give only name, rank, serial number and date of birth.

Timothy Harris, however, gave the most dramatic testimony. He burst into sobs as he said he wanted to commit suicide while a captive but could not. He said instead he killed a potted plant they gave him because of his hatred for the North Koreans.

Order Bars Cutting Of Texas Aid

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — State Public Welfare Commissioner Burton G. Hackney says he has no objections to a federal court temporary restraining order which bars the state Department of Public Welfare from further reducing payments to dependent children.

"I think we are all agreed this should be decided on its merits," Heckney said. "We have enough money to run us to May 1 and there is no problem there. There is a stipulation in the order that if there is not a determination made within 45 days, we have a right to come back to the court and ask that the order be abated."

U. S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes granted the temporary restraining order against the department Wednesday.

Judge Hughes said in her decision "that immediate and irreparable damage will result to plaintiffs, their minor children and the class they represent if this order is not granted."

The restraining order will remain in effect until a three-judge court is formed to hear the case filed by three Dallas residents, challenging the department's cuts in payments.

The suit claims that limitations on welfare are unconstitutional, violated the Social Securities Act and discriminated because of race.

Aid to dependent children was was reduced by $12 per family last year after the U. S. Supreme Court made a ruling that put more families within the designation of those with dependent children.

Two Snyderites On Honor Roll At OU

NORMAN, Okla. — Two students from Snyder are among the 3,325 at the University of Oklahoma who earned places on the university honor roll for the 1968-69 fall semester, Dr. J. Herbert Hollomon, OU president, has announced.

Snyder students on the honor roll are Allen Dwaine Boydstun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Boydstun, and Rebecca Jones, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wilton N. Jones.

To be eligible for the honor roll, a student must have an overall grade average of B or better in a minimum of 12 credit hours and must not have a "failing" or "unsatisfactory" mark in any course.

Fireplaces Salvaged

VOW NEVER TO SURRENDER

Biafra Is Busy Mobilizing

By DAVID MAZZARELLA
Associated Press Writer

UMUAHIA, Biafra (AP) — "Left-right-left, left-right-left" bellowed the drill sergeant. Grouped in a wide square, the 50 recruits marched in step.

Their left knees began pumping higher than the right. Their shaved heads dipped lower. A slight rotating movement began with their shining black shoulders. "Don't dance. Don't dance," screamed the sergeant.

Getting new army men to abandon their instinctive responses to rhythm in favor of military precision is only one, and a relatively minor, problem in a camp training Biafran soldiers.

A visit to a camp holding 400 recruits provided an insight into the nature and preparation of the common fighting main in the Nigerian civil war.

The installation contained a mixture of hefty youths and hollow-chested, scrawny boys. For the most part, the recruits appeared to be in the late teens and early 20s.

Under a tree, 50 youths sat holding long sticks—which substitute for rifles in Biafran camps of this sort.

A sergeant was showing them the parts of a real weapon—a Madison automatic rifle. "And this is the plunger," he cried.

"The . . ." he demanded.

"Plunger," the men yelled back in unison.

Under another tree, stick-tapping recruits were singing as the camp "jester"—a rubber-legged soldier with a baggy uniform and a crooked cap—danced barefoot.

"A young man is a fine thing," the men chanted.

Another number consisted entirely of the repetition of the phrase "Holy, holy, holy, Odumegwu Ojukwu another savior." They were singing about the Biafran head of state.

In a field among palm fronds stuck in the ground to camouflage the camp against air attacks, men were learning to aim. They were in four lines. The man at the front of each line had a rifle. The rest had sticks.

"Close the bloody left eye," cried the instructor as the youths sat and squinted down their sticks toward a row of bulleyes.

"And the muzzle shouldn't be in the back of the man in front of you or you will kill him. What's the matter with you?"

Capt. Vincent Onuoha, head of the camp, said the recruits are here three weeks before being sent to forward areas for what he called "battle inoculation." They get to fire three to five bullets here.

"We need the ammunition for the real thing," he explained.

"And besides," interjected a lieutenant, "the real fighting is done with this."

He grabbed his shirt over the heart.

The recruits who had been learning to aim began whooping and running in circles around the palm frond field. At an order they dropped on their chests, aimed their sticks and shouted: "Pah-pah-pah, pah-pah, boom."

After 19 months of war, the Biafran regime has begun to intensify a civil and military mobilization.

The effort appears to have alternative purposes— to live out a long siege by surrounding Nigerian forces if that should become the course of the struggle, or to beat back any new offensive by the Nigerians aimed at crushing this last major town under Biafran control.

The Biafrans say the mobilization demonstrates their avowed intention never to enter into a formal surrender.

Dr. Brown To Address Science Fair

FORT WORTH (AP) — Dr. Harrison Brown of the California Institute of Technology will be the speaker at the International Science Fair here.

Hundreds of high school pupils, scientists and science educators will take part in the May 5-9 fair. The United States and 10 foreign countries will be represented.

Dr. Brown was closely involved in the war-time plutonium project at the University of Chicago and at Oak Ridge.

Illegal Trotlines Are Confiscated

ROCKPORT, Tex. (AP) — A small task force of Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officers made a two-day foray into lower Laguna Madre in Cameron County recently and removed 42,000 feet of illegal trotlines, 1,000 trotline stakes and 2,100 feet of illegal nylon gill net.

The department said it had confiscated more than 96,000 feet of illegal net during the past calendar year, most of it discovered by officers working with the help of the department's airplane.
