Meeting Set to Map Coyote Poison Program

Plans for a program to poison coyotes during the fall and winter will be mapped at a meeting of ranchers with a representative of the state predatory control board Tuesday, Sept. 3 at 7:30, County Judge C. C. Bishop announced.

The meeting will be held in the county court room.

Representing the board here will be Thomas J. Sparks of Lubbock.

He will discuss plans under which the poisoning program is carried out and which requires cooperation of the ranchers and livestock men with the county and the board.

Judge Bishop urged all ranchers to be present. He explained that the rancher and county split the cost, with the former furnishing the bait and the latter the poison.

The State Predatory Control Board furnishes the men to do the poisoning. Board representatives do not go onto premises without permission of the land owner.

Hiram Cassel New Minister at First Christian

Min. Hiram Cassel has begun his duties as pastor of First Christian Church, and he and his family arrived last week from Burlington, Okla.

He was pastor of the church there three years.

A graduate of Midwest Christian College, Oklahoma City, Min. Cassel received the bachelor of theology degree in 1960. While he attended college he also was minister of the church at Ripley, Okla., two years.

He and his wife, the former Mary Dubois of Oklahoma, did missionary work in Jamaica during the summer of 1958, working with youth in camps and vacation Bible schools.

Min. Cassel grew up in Yukon, Okla. Mrs. Cassel was reared in Oklahoma City and also attended Midwest two and a half years.

Although their children are small—a son, Christopher, is three, and their daughter, Ceaven, is one—Min. and Mrs. Cassel were active in the Parent-Teacher Association of the school and he served as president.

At Burlington, he emphasized work with youth, and although it is a town of only 180, four young people from his church have entered Christian service.

Min. Cassel said this week that here he will continue his work with young people.

CAISON COTTON—IRRIGATED AND DRYLAND

These two fields of Cotton belong to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Caison and they are across the road from each other. The one shown at top is irrigated and Caison estimates it will make two bales per acre. That in the lower picture is dry land and he thinks he'll be lucky to get a quarter of a bale. Both are located just north of Wellington. Caison has 13 acres in the irrigated patch and waters it from a 165 gallon well. The cotton in both fields is of the same variety, although the dryland cotton is about two weeks younger. Shown in the top picture are Mr. and Mrs. Caison, Mrs. Buster Bounds and Claude Jones, the Caison's grandson who came down from Amarillo to help irrigate.

Mrs. Russell Will Teach in Junior High

Mrs. I. D. Russell of Childress, a former mathematics instructor in Southern Methodist University and a former Wellington resident, has been named to teach math in the seventh and eighth grades of junior high school here.

Her election was announced late last week by Supt. J. L. Harper, who at the same time announced the resignation of R. B. Tucker from the junior high faculty.

Mr. Tucker, he said, is suffering from a heart condition and was stricken ill while on a fishing boat as he and Mrs. Tucker were vacationing on the Gulf Coast. His doctor has advised that he not teach this year, Supt. Harper said. Mrs. Tucker will continue to teach here.

Mrs. Rnssell is the former Punkin Moore, daughter of Mrs. Sam Moore of Childress and the late Mr. Moore.

Two City Blazes

Lightning Sets Four Grass Fires Saturday

Lightning set four grass fires in quick succession in the Wellington, Quail and Lutie areas Saturday evening, Aug. 24, during an electrical storm that netted moisture ranging from a shower up to more than an inch.

These followed a blaze in Wellington by only an hour, and the sixth fire of the week end came about 2:30 a.m. on Tuesday, according to Fire Chief Richard Bailey.

Considerable damage was done in the fire that broke out about 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Martin, 1311 Belton. The fire occurred in the garage, but it also held a number of stored items which were destroyed, according to Bailey, and the building was damaged.

First of the grass fires was set about 6 p.m. on the west side of the Trusten Thomas farm. About five acres of grass was burned off before rain helped put out the blaze.

En route to this call, firemen received a call to the J. C. Hartman farm three miles west of Wellington. Within a few minutes a call came to the Coleman Fike place at Quail and he suffered the loss of from 40 to 50 acres, Fire Chief Bailey said. This was the larg-

Band Director Calls Meeting With Parents

Band Director James Larson has called a get-acquainted meeting with parents of band members for Thursday, Aug. 29 at 6:30 p.m. at the band house.

"I am especially anxious to meet parents of children in the beginners band," Larson said.

The band program will be explained at that time, he said.

Music aptitude tests were administered all fifth grade students Tuesday and letters will go out to the parents of those making a satisfactory score.

Larson said that the system of instrument rental will be explained to those parents who are not already familiar with it.

Later in the evening a film will be shown.

City School Out for Fair

The Wellington schools will be dismissed Friday, Sept. 6, for the Collingsworth County Free Fair, Supt. J. L. Harper announced this week.

Many of the students will participate in the parade or have entries in some division of the Fair.

Soil Bank Land Approved for Grazing

Congressman Walter Rogers informed The Wellington Leader Friday, Aug. 23 that grazing and haying privileges are being offered on soil bank land, conservation reserve land and wheat stabilization diverted acres by the Department of Agriculture in Collingsworth county, where continued dryness has brought a feed shortage.

Gladys R. Richards, acting ASCS office manager, this week pointed out that the grazing and haying privileges are subject to the approval of the county ASCS committee. She released the following information on the program:

"Use of this acreage without prior approval of the ASCS county committee is a violation of program regulations for which specific penalties, forfeitures and refunds apply.

"If you believe permission should be granted for you or some other person to graze or harvest hay on this land on your farm to alleviate a hardship caused by the unfavorable weather conditions in this area, please notify the county ASCS office immediately so that necessary steps for reaching a decision can be started.

"A deduction for the value of the grazing or haying will be made from your program payments if this permission is granted. The minimum deduction rate for grazing conservation reserve land, established by the ASCS state committee, for Collingsworth county is $2.20 per acre through Oct. 31, 1963.

"The minimum rate for harvesting hay from conservation reserve land is $5.50 per acre. The county committee will set a rate for the individual farm.

"Since the date for grazing the diverted acreage under the feed grain and wheat stabilization programs has been moved up to Oct. 1, 1963, it will be necessary for the ASCS state committee to set new minimum grazing and haying rates on this acreage."

Mrs. Richards said that the county ASCS will be advised of these rates at a later date.

Twister Hits Buildings in Lutie Area Saturday

A small twister, striking without warning, took the roof off the Lutie Mercantile nine miles north of Wellington and damaged barns and other outbuildings at several farms in that vicinity.

This was followed by one-half inch of rain at that point, but up to two inches in the area north of there.

This was just one point that received moisture in the scattered rain pattern about 6 p.m. Saturday, ranging from almost nothing up to one and a half and two inches.

Damage to the Lutie store building was estimated by John Holton, owner, at about $1500. Loss to the contents, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rountree, is between $2000 and $2500. Much of this is water damage from the rain that followed the storm and more rain that fell Sunday.

Residents of the Lutie area reported they saw no funnel in the cloud until the storm struck.

The twister also took the roof off the barn at the farm owned by Mrs. Lloyd Wooldridge of Wellington, damaged a garage and smoke house and did other damage at the Odus Offutt farm.

Damage to outbuildings and a TV tower was reported at the Bill Knoll farm, and Sam Carter lost his TV tower and antenna. Damage also was reported at the Shorty Bockman place.

Rain fell again Sunday morning, measuring .4 at Lutie, with an additional .2 Sunday afternoon.

East of Lutie there was a light shower Saturday evening and up to two inches Sunday.

Wellington got .03 out of the Saturday night cloud.

Southwest of Rolla, rain measuring 1.4 inches fell at the Frank Fourmentin place, and nearby, Richard Fourmentin got 1.6 inches.

L. W. Hartman, nine miles west of Wellington, received one-half inch. Only a shower fell in the Shinnery community.

One half inch fell at Dodson but both west and east of there the fall was reported heavier.

Preliminary Events Named

County Fair Week Opens in Wellington Monday

Fair Week opens in Wellington Monday, Sept. 1, and plans are going into their final stage here at mid-week, according to N. M. Higdon, who with Dr. Chas. B. Jones, head the event.

The carnival rides open Monday night, as do the concessions.

Gene Ledel Rides of Fort Worth, highly recommended to the Chamber of Commerce, will furnish the rides, which will be of the type usually found here.

Concessions will be handled by local organizations, according to Richard Bailey, chairman of concessions and carnival.

The selection of the Fair Queen is also slated for Monday night.

All those planning to buy barbecue tickets are urged to do so within the next day or two, Higdon said.

"We must have some idea as to how many people we will feed, since the barbecue is provided by a catering firm that requires this information," he added. Tickets may be had at the Chamber of Commerce office or from the drug stores, and other business houses.

A committee, headed by Ben Hurst, was collecting premium money from local merchants to pay for awards at the Youth Project Show. More than half of the needed $1,000 remained to be raised Tuesday evening.

Circulars advertising the Fair have been put out in Memphis, Childress, Plainview, Clarendon, Hedley, Shamrock, Hollis, Vinson, Mangum, Reed, Wheeler and McLean.

Reading in High School

4 Wellington Schools Enroll Total of 870

The three Wellington schools opening Monday, August 26 had enrolled 746 when classes started, Supt. J. L. Harper announced.

Enrollment in elementary school is down at least 50 students, Mr. Harper said, but high school showed an increase of nearly that many.

The overall enrollment for the three white schools is down about 20 from the opening date of 1962, but there will be additional enrollment during the remainder of this week, the superintendent pointed out.

Booker T. Washington school which opened Aug. 12, has an enrollment of approximately 125, giving a total for the system of approximately 870.

The elementary school has enrolled 305, junior high 191 and high school 250.

Mr. Harper also announced the addition of a reading course in high school for those students with reading problems and who need more reading than they have.

The size of the class is limited and no accelerated student will be admitted, the superintendent explained.

Mrs. Bernice Welch, who has had training in this type instruction, is the instructor.

"To Stay in Top Shape"

Firemen Start Fund for New Equipment

The Wellington Volunteer Fire Department has opened a drive to raise funds for new equipment, replacing pieces that are gradually wearing out, Fire Chief Richard Bailey announced this week.

A number of fund raising events are slated to be carried out during the coming months.

One of these is a 750-pound grain fed beef to be given away during the Fair.

An exhibit will be set up in the community building during the fair to publicize the activities of Wellington's volunteer fire department.

This will point out not only activities that the public sees in actual fire fighting, but other service activities that are less well known.

Smaller pieces of equipment of interest to the public will be on display.

"Two years ago the Fire Department got its new rural truck, but we have other equipment that has been in use over a much longer period.

"We want to keep the equipment in top shape, for both rural and city fires," Bailey pointed out.

"That is why we are starting now to raise funds for replacements."

Pool Open Thru Sept. 1

The Wellington swimming pool will remain open through Sunday, Sept. 1.

Opening hours will be—Monday through Friday, 4:00 p.m.; Saturday, 1:00 p.m.; Sunday 2:00 p.m.

Appointments must be made for special parties.

Rockets Out-Scrimage Sunray Here Monday

Wellington Skyrockets will meet Mangum, Okla., Thursday Sept. 5 in the second scrimmage of the season, Coach Don Beck has announced.

Play will start at 4:30 p.m. at Mangum.

The Skyrockets had their first scrimmage Monday night, Aug. 26 against Sunray.

Wellington made 18 first downs to Sunray's 4, and two of these four were against the Rockets' second string.

Wellington scored four times and Sunray once, this also against the Rocket second unit.

In this test of strength against one of the Panhandle's better teams, the Rockets made 378 yards—278 rushing and 100 passing.

Sunray came up with 93 yards gained.

Long runs punctuated Rocket play. Kenneth Patterson traveled 72 yards before he was stopped. Bobby Hudson went for 56 yards and Glenn Thomas turned in a 21-yard sprint and another for 18. Danny Martin had a 12-yard run to his credit.

Fine blocking was turned in by linesmen Jennings Wells, Tim Bailey and Bryan Hatch.

Mills Like Texas Cotton

LUBBOCK.— Plains Cotton Growers' Textile Industry Relations Representative James S. Parker returned to Lubbock Aug. 15 after a successful 10-day trip through the Southeastern U.S. for consultation with textile mill officials, machinery manufacturers and research laboratory directors in five states.

"PCG's unique 'Cottech' service which provides free fiber and yarn tests, color and control studies, etc., to textile mills is always well received," Parker said, "and a yarn testing project was set up with one large cotton mill in Georgia which I believe will lead to their use of a lot of High Plains cotton in the future." Similar projects were discussed, initial plans laid and return visits scheduled with several of the other 15 mills visited.

While in Knoxville, Tenn., Parker made arrangements for the purchase of a reasonably new instrument for the measurement of fiber strength and enlongation, called a "Stelometer." The instrument, which should be shipped to Lubbock in the near future, will be a valuable addition to the already well-equipped Textile Research Laboratory at Texas Tech, where PCG does its fiber and spinning research.

The trip also gave Parker a chance to confer on mutual interests with officials of the Saco-Lowell Research Laboratory and the Clemson Spinning Laboratory, both at Greenville, S.C., the University of Tennessee Spinning Laboratory at Knoxville, and the Textile Research Department of Auburn University in Alabama.

Youth Leaders Confer in Austin

Austin was stacked full of high school leaders recently as Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr held a conference on youth.

The 1,140 young people who attended were told how to prevent juvenile crime and school drop-outs. It is up to them to put the ideas into effect thru high school organizations.

Basically, the solution is in finding things for junior high and high school students to do. Recreation for those who only need to keep occupied and jobs for those who need to help their families at 14 or 15 were major prescriptions.

Carr hoped the conference had set some brushfires in the civic consciousness of high school leaders to burn out the pockets of trouble for many thousands of Texas young people.

FRANCIS SCOTT KEY witnessed the British Bombardment of Fort McHenry during the War of 1812 and when the terrible night had ended, Key saw the American Flag flying high over the ramparts in the morning mist. There was a gaping hole shot through one of its stars . . . but the flag was still there. Out of this experience came "The Star Spangled Banner." His portrait will be among 75 paintings in the "Faces of Freedom" exhibit in the Varied Industries Building during the 1963 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 5 through 20 in Dallas.

Elm Leaf Beetle on County Trees

By Cecil Regier, County Agent

The past two or three weeks there has been an increasing number of Collingsworth county residents finding that the old elm tree is losing its leaves or that they are becoming skeletonized.

This is due to a yellow worm about half inch long. This little worm is the larvae or immature stage of the elm leaf beetle. The adult beetle is about one-fourth inch long, light yellow to brownish green in color with several black spots on the head and body.

The life history of this little pest is: the adult over-winters in sheltered places, such as plant debris which offer protection from the weather. They emerge in the spring and fly to elm trees where they feed on the leaves and begin laying eggs.

The eggs hatch in about one week, and the yellow larvae begin feeding on leaves.

The larvae feed for about three weeks. The larvae pupate around the base of the tree and emerge as adults in one to two weeks. This means we can have a new generation about once a month.

The beetle can be controlled and damage to trees prevented by spraying as soon as the feeding is noticed. Many of the larvae may be killed by spraying about the base of the tree when the worms come down to pupate. Chemicals effective in controlling this pest are Chlordane, Dieldrin, Lindane, Sevin, and Toxaphene.

Apply at monthly intervals until frost.

PANHANDLE OIL PLENTIFUL

There are many areas in the state of Texas where you can see Texas' fabulous oil industry in action. An excellent spot is in the Texas Panhandle.

In the short, 28-mile trip between Pampa and Borger, you'll find most all phases of this huge petroleum industry.

There are hundreds and hundreds of oil wells, not to mention refineries, carbon black plants, and other structures familiar to oil and gas production.

Seeing so many facets of this industry in such a small area enables one to more fully appreciate the great influence and benefit this industry has been to the Lone Star State.

Water Pollution Problem in State

Some areas of Texas have developed major water pollution problems and the new Texas Water Pollution Control board has set out to cure them.

Board will have a hearing on Sept. 25-26 designed to protect the vast Ogallala formation, which supplies irrigation and municipal water in most of the Panhandle and South Plains. Expected to come from the hearing is an order prohibiting the use of open, unlined surface pits for the disposal of salt water produced with oil and gas.

Already the board has started placing strict chlorination requirements on municipal sewage treatment plants in the Houston area to stop pollution of Clear Lake where a huge population growth is being created by the Moonshot Center of the National Aeronautics & Space Administration.

Water pollution problems are popping up all over the state. New board, which operates only with money given to it by other state agencies, is going after them as fast as it can.

UT Has Many "Who's Who" Exes

The University of Texas is among the 25 colleges and universities showing the largest number of women graduates listed in the latest edition of "Who's Who of American Women." Those 25 institutions produced one-sixth of the 20,000 women listed in the volume. Of the total number, 81 were University of Texas graduates.

The first commercial ice plant in the United States was operated in Jefferson, Texas, about 1874.

There Is Much We Can Exhibit in the Collingsworth Fair

We will have more, much more to say about the Collingsworth County Free Fair next week, but this has to be said ahead of time.

County Fairs are made up of people and the things they do and raise and make. Our Fair September 6 and 7 will be Collingsworth on Parade.

It will be successful only if we all participate. This week, we must choose the things we enter in the Fair, and a majority of the people have something they can enter—something of a quality worthy of being displayed.

Certainly we've had a dry spell, yet there is some of the best cotton and feed in this part of the Panhandle-West Oklahoma Area that can be gathered to show at the Fair. The many fine grasses that are doing so much to build fertility in our land have never been finer.

Agricultural products are the backbone of a fair, just as they are the backbone of the Collingsworth economy.

The livestock section of our Fair traditionally belongs to the boys and girls, but in it can be read accurately the interest in and condition of the cattle and hog interests of the county.

Just as Collingsworth men pick the farm products they will enter, the women will choose the clothing and handwork they have made, and the foods they have preserved, to be entered and displayed. Women and girls are urged to look carefully at their shelves and in their closets for things they, too, can enter.

There will be commercial exhibits, too, showing merchandise and equipment handled by Wellington business houses or companies serving the Collingsworth area.

These things must be chosen during the few days remaining before the Fair. Those interested in the other departments of this event will make their choices, too.

The Collingsworth County Fair this year will be what we choose it to be.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where a farm problem study group has figured it out we won't have any farm problem as soon as about two million more farmers get off the farms.

Which seems reasonable and some system to get about five million workers out of the cities would knock off the unemployment problem, too.

In fact, my cramped neighbor says getting a few million bill collectors displaced would help solve his worst problem, and the National Administration wouldn't have so many problems, either, if we had about 20 million fewer Republicans.

My letterary neighbor was sort of complaining here the other day about an air mail missive he got, which didn't have his ZIP number on it, and therefore had been sent to two wrong towns before it found him.

But he says this has taught him a good lesson in followship and so he is not going to ignore ZIP any more.

Says the way he sees it, if we have got to swallow Progress, we might as well learn to digest it, even if some things did seem better back there before they got improved so much.

I see where our top military brass journeyed up to the White House the other day and most of them found out that they were in favor of the test-ban treaty.

Seems that a while back they were skeptical about it, but after Admiral Anderson got cashiered, they re-awoke to the military fact of life that you think whatever superior rank orders you to think, if you want to stay in the war business.

But now that buddyship has set in between the U.S. and Russia, there may be some hope for getting a little domestic accommodation between Democrats and Republicans with a smear-ban treaty.

ANTI-POLL TAX CAMPAIGN ON

AUSTIN.—Gov. Connally will kick off the League of Women Voters' campaign for repeal of the poll tax with a speech on Sept. 9—the day the women launch a two-month drive for repeal of the tax.

Nov. 9 is the date voters will decide whether to strike the poll tax requirement for voting from the State Constitution.

Vice President Lyndon Johnson, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, Sen. John Tower, congressmen and state legislators are being invited to the Sept. 9 meeting in Austin.

The "City of London" is just one square mile in size.

RECORD SET IN REHABILITATION

J. W. Edgar, Texas commissioner of education, claimed a new record for the Texas Vocational Rehabilitation program. He announced that a total of 3,566 disabled men and women were rehabilitated into productive jobs during the year ended on June 30.

Edgar said 365 of these persons had been receiving assistance payments totaling some $346,000 a year. He figured their new ability to be self-supporting now would save many thousands of dollars in federal and state assistance funds.

Governor Wants Colleges in Texas Tuition-Free

AUSTIN.—Gov. John Connally's Committee on Education Beyond the High School has its eye on tuition-free colleges and "super-universities."

Also being looked upon with favor are Texas junior colleges and vocational schools. Committee is searching for a way to meet educational needs in the next decade.

Task is made difficult by the need for 900,000 new junior and senior college graduates by 1974.

The prediction, called "conservative" by committeeman Gifford Johnson, Dallas industrial leader, includes 456,000 4-year college graduates, and 440,000 graduates of 2-year schools.

Right now the total enrollment in 19 of the state's 4-year colleges and 34 private senior colleges totals 175,100. Junior college enrollment in 35 state junior colleges and 10 private schools is 37,200.

If these students all were to graduate, they would produce about half the number of graduates needed in the next four years. But Johnson said the problem is—many won't graduate. There is a big drop-out problem in colleges and an even bigger drop-out problem in the grades below college level.

Johnson stated that only 54 per cent of the students enrolled in the third grade in 1953 graduated from high school in 1963.

What to do about the drop-out problem which Governor Connally has called "one of the most critical problems of the decade"? Both Johnson and committeeman Tom Sealy of Midland, as well as other members of the committee which is composed of some of the state's most powerful citizens, recommended more and better counseling through all the high school years and college.

"If students aren't encouraged to stay in high school and perform well there, they don't have a chance," Johnson said.

His concept of free colleges and state universities which would admit only the top 15 per cent of high school graduates brought a lot of favorable comment from the committee. But Chairman H. B. Zachry of San Antonio warned all that this was just the preliminary to a preliminary report. Final report to Governor Connally is not due until August 1964.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

INCOME PRODUCING RECREATION

If you have noticed how crowded public camp grounds, beaches and picnic areas and parks are, you can realize that the demand for outdoor recreation is growing.

Farmers have the opportunity to cash in on this need for some place to go for a vacation or just a picnic or a day off fishing, or just getting out of town, reminds Bob Crawford, work unit conservationist of Soil Conservation Service.

A few farmers and ranchers in Salt Fork SCD are already doing this. Two are J. O. Coleman and Louis Allred.

They and others like them are cashing in on these recreation needs by developing ponds for fishing and swimming, camp grounds, picnic areas and places to hunt.

For nominal fees farmers can provide recreation which city people are glad to get and which means added income for the landowner.

Some landowners, in fact, consider it a "crop" to be developed and sold and they point out, it doesnt' interfere with other farm operations.

A great potential for meeting future outdoor recreational needs of the county is on privately owned rural land, Crawford believes.

He said that further information on the feasibility of such a project may be had by contacting the Soil Conservation Service.

GREAT PLAINS PROGRAM

More than 170 contracts covering approximately 110,000 acres have been written with Salt Fork SCD farmers, reports Bob Crawford, work unit conservationist of Soil Conservation Service.

Approximately 40 of the 170 landowners have finished their work and the contracts have expired.

Contracts being developed at present are on farms of Jimmy Thompson at Dozier, C. R. Hankins at Aberdeen, P. J. White northeast of Quail and Clyde Alexander west of Dodson.

Thompson is planning to seed grass and develop water for livestock and also establish a conservation cropping system on the cropland.

Hankins is developing livestock water by putting in a pond and a livestock well.

White is planning to seed native grasses on his rangeland and develop livestock water. A cropping system using rye following cotton will be established.

Alexander plans to do fencing, dig a well and build a farm pond for better distribution of grazing. He also is going to seed part of his soil bank acreage to grass. This will have time to become established to good grasses and will be ready to graze when the soil bank contract expires.

Seeding grasses is cost-shared at the rate of 80% of the cost paid by the government.

Water development such as ponds and wells and fencing are cost-shared at the rate of 50%.

Rye planting is cost-shared through the ACP program at 50% of the cost.

Further information in the Great Plains Program may be had from the SCS office, said Crawford.

SLOW DRIVING PROHIBITED

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety issued a reminder that the new speed law specifically makes it a violation to drive a vehicle so slowly as to impede traffic.

Membership in Baptist church bodies of 115 countries now totals 25,198,025 — a gain of 888,487 over a year ago, it was reported in Washington, D.C., by The Baptist World, official publication of the Baptist World Alliance. Most of the increases were registered in the U.S.A.

The Southern Baptist Convention gained 215,000 members for a total of 10,193,052, making it the largest Protestant denomination in the country; while the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc., increased by 500,000 to 5,500,000, and is now the largest Negro church body in the nation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McCastling of Royce City spent a few days recently with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Graham and other relatives.

PLAINVIEW.—Two area students, Randall Scott of Wellington and Glenn Hunt of Dodson, have been invited to sing with the International Choir at Wayland Baptist College during 1963-64, according to William A. Vessels who has taken over direction of the choir in addition to Opera Guild productions.

The choir's first formal appearance will be on Oct. 8 at the morning inauguration ceremony for President Roy Cornelius McClung. This will be followed shortly by a trip to San Antonio to sing before the Baptist General Convention of Texas on special invitation of the program committee.

Under New Law

Slow Driving Also May Be Violation

AUSTIN.—Col. Homer Garrison Jr. director of the Texas Department of Public Safety said today the new speed law effective Aug. 23 specifically makes it a violation to drive a vehicle so slow as to impede traffic.

He said that before enactment of the new law it was necessary for a police officer to warn a driver impeding traffic to speed up or get off the road before filing a charge.

"Under the new statute, as we interpret it, whenever a driver is driving slower than the normal or reasonable movement of traffic and thereby impeding that traffic, he will be committing a violation for which he may be charged in court," Garrison said.

The DPS director also pointed out that under the new law official bodies having jurisdiction over various kinds of highways are authorized to zone roads for minimum speeds whenever they determine that slower speeds consistently impede traffic. Failure to comply with such minimum speed limits will be regarded as a violation, he added.

"It will be the policy of the Texas Department of Public Safety to stop and take enforcement action against any driver observed committing clear-cut and substantial violations of these two provisions of the law," he said.

"Substantial compliance with these provisions should relieve congestion on highways and reduce considerably the differential between top speeds and lower speeds, thus reducing potential conflicts and increasing traffic safety."

Garrison reminded again in connection with the new maximum speed limits of 70 MPH in daytime and 65 MPH at night for passenger cars that these speeds are dependent upon conditions existing on the roadway at the time. The Texas law requires a driver to operate his vehicle "reasonably and prudently" at all times, regardless of the posted limits, he said.

"We repeat that serious problems may develop with the new speed law unless the driving public accepts and applies them with a high degree of responsibility to themselves, their families and others."

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

This is a continuation of the travel notes, but before I start on the Dallas part of my story I must correct one error in the Fort Worth story that was energentically pointed out to me by my son. It is Charles M. Russell and not Russell M. Clark whose paintings hang in the Amon Carter Museum of Western Art along with those of Frederick Remington.

We traveled the toll road from Fort Worth to Dallas and it was a breeze as compared to the old torturous route of yesteryears. We turned off at the Commerce street exit and drove down a one-way street right into the Adolphus garage and registered without going into the lobby. Your picture is on one TV screen and the clerk's is on another and you tell him what kind of a room you want and a bell boy takes you right up.

We had a little excitement our second night at the hotel. About 4 o'clock in the morning Louise punched me awake to ask if I had left a cigarette burning. I told her I had not been smoking, but we got up and searched the room and found the odor was particularly noticeable in the bathroom, the reason for which we discovered the next morning. Grease had become overheated in the kitchen and started a fire in the flue. Firemen got the blaze out in a hurry, but some of the guests in the upper part of the hotel had to leave their rooms while most of them slept through the whole thing

It reminded me of the time Diane and I were attending a convention of the National Editorial Association at the Texas in Fort Worth. We awoke to find fire trucks right below our window with the chief giving orders over a loudspeaker. That time we dressed, but I decided to call down before we left the room. Diane had already located the fire escape just in case the elevators were not running. I was told the fire was already out—that a man had set his bed on fire with a cigarette. The next morning my daughter made an investigation of her own and learned that the fire had been in the room directly below the one we occupied.

Our first night in Dallas we went out to the Fair grounds to see "Apollo and Miss Agnes." It was the World Premier—whatever that is—of a musical comedy that will be on Broadway this winter. It was worth the money. It is a satire on abstract art and is a lot of rollicking fun besides the music. It has some catchy tunes that will stick in your memory although no truly great ones of the Rogers and Hammerstein variety. It is the sort that D. E. Scott should see since he has no use whatever for abstract art.

After considerable sightseeing and eating in fabulous Dallas we discovered that we were about to run out of money; so we invited ourselves out to the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Guice for some free board and lodging. They formerly lived in Bonham where he was the dentist in a clinic, but he decided to retire and they moved to Dallas where they own an apartment house. Since then he has resumed a limited specialized practice in Dallas.

They live on Lakefair Circle which is out east of Highland Park toward White Rock Lake. The name is appropriate for it is a fair and beautiful place as well as a restful one. The circle consists of 23 lovely homes grouped around an artificial lake that was created by damming up a creek that had live springs. All the homes face away from the lake with conventional well kept front yards. The backyards are the showplaces of the circle with lawns and terraces sloping to the water's edge.

The families who live in the circle have an organization with by-laws and customs that go to make it an informal sort of country club. When one family has company or is entertaining all the neighbors turn on their lights and those shining across the water produce an entrancing effect. At Christmas the entire lake is lighted and all of the back lawns until New Years Day.

The lake which is something like 400 or 500 yards long is excellent for swimming and fishing and has a few small boats. The water was a little too warm when we were there, but you could cool off in a hurry by simming over to one of the spots where the waters of a spring come to the top. Henry and I found such a place only a few yards from the Guices' dock. He went swimming five times while we were there and never stayed less than an hour. Sunday morning we ate a leisurely breakfast out in the yard and some of the neighbors dropped by to visit. After that we toured White Rock Lake. It was a memorable morning just as was our entire stay. We took our leave on Monday morning after spending two days and nights with our friends, but it seemed more like two hours to me.

I spent one afternoon and evening with an old friend, Russell Reed, whom I had known in the University of Texas. He served as issue editor of The Daily Texan the year after I worked in that capacity. He will have to wait until next week. Besides such a character deserves a column of his own.

On our way back we stopped in Rhome for coffee and cake with Mrs. Ann High who lives in the home she and Dr. High planned before he died. It seems like a lot of space for one lady, but she says it comes in mighty handy when all her swarms of relatives come to visit. She will be up this way soon. Her son John now lives in Denver.

At Decatur we stopped at the glass factory where colored glassware is made by hand. We stopped again at Iowa Park with the China B. Smiths. It was a lot of visiting for a few short days.

Sylvia Carter of Amarillo spent two weeks recently with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Cudd.
