Americans Push Nazis Back into Hills

Revised Meat Values Are Effective Sunday

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP) — The OPA today revised meat ration values, effective Sunday morning, to switch many American appetites from round steak and center pork chops to other cuts, especially spare ribs, brains, tongues and pig knuckles. Some people will find more expensive steaks more attractive on a point comparison.

Round steak (both beef and veal) and center pork chops each were raised a point to nine points per pound. Loin pork roats, slices of boneless ham steak and beef flank steaks also went up from eight to nine points per pound. Round tip beef roasts and veal sirloin or chops went up from seven to eight and veal leg roasts stepped up from six to seven.

Pork spare ribs came down a point from four to three points per pound, hocks and knuckles from three to two, and most variety meats (brains, sweetbreads, etc) were reduced a point per pound each. An exception was liver which was unchanged at six for beef and eight for veal. Shank end ham, fresh or ready-to-eat, was cut a point.

An oddity of the new schedule is that, in coupons, round steak becomes more expensive than porterhouse steak, although the latter usually costs about 13 cents per pound more in cash. Persons having more cash than coupons may choose porterhouse, T-bone, sirloin, club and rib steaks at their continuing rate of eight points per pound (except 10-inch rib which is seven) instead of round steak at nine. End pork chops remain at seven, lamb loin chops at eight, lamb rib chops at seven, and ham butt roasts at seven.

Widely-rumored reductions in luncheon meats, however, failed to materialize. Beef hamburger did not increase, remaining at five points per pound.

The order was the first major change in the scale of meat rations since beef, veal, lamb, mutton and pork were put under rationing on March 29. Minor adjustments in sausage points were the only previous alterations.

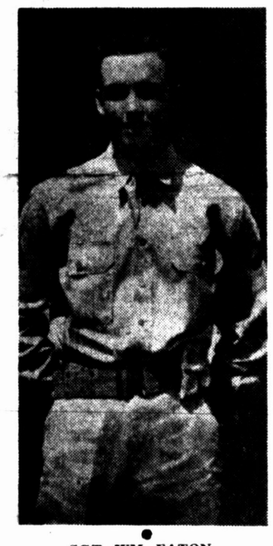

The new decree made a few changes in canned fish and cooking oils, but cheese and butter remained

Sergeant Eaton Wins Silver Star In Pacific Area

A 20-year-old Pampa man, Sgt. William (Billy Bob) Eaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eaton of this city, was one of the crew of a Flying Fortress awarded the Silver Star, Allied headquarters in Australia announced today, the Associated Press said.

Sergeant Eaton was ball and turret gunner on the bomber which dove daringly from the frying pan of a Japanese air attack over Rabaul, New Britain, into fire of enemy harbor defenses to get clear photographs of Jap installations. The bomber escaped.

SGT. WM. EATON

The Pampan graduated from Pampa High school on May 25, 1939. A transcript of his school record was sent on January 6, 1941, to Hickam field, Honolulu, and he was at Hickam when the Japs made their sneak raid on December 1, 1941.

Father of the sergeant is a Cities Service pumper and the family's home is on the Archer lease. They came to Pampa from Borger.

Sergeant Eaton lived in Pampa seven years and in the Panhandle 15 years, and before he enlisted on November 11, 1939, he worked at the LaNora and State theaters. He is a native Oklahoman, born at Garber, Okla., October 8, 1922.

Caviar Points Are Cut to 3 Points

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP) — The point value of caviar dropped sharply today, but the money price held firm at around $1 an ounce for imported and 20 cents an ounce for domestic varieties.

Caviar, which used to cost seven points a pound in red stamps, will be only three points, effective Sunday, with a similar reduction in the point value of fish roe.

Scout Camporee Opens Saturday

About 150 Boy Scouts from the Gray county district of the Adobe Walls Council will compete tomorrow in a district Camporee, which will be held at Lake McClellan, Saturday and Sunday according to L. G. Langston, district chairman of camping and activities.

Scouts will register for the Camporee at 3 p. m. at the headquarters tent, located on the same grounds Saturday afternoon, where L. E. Frary, distict commissione will have charge of the registration.

A formal review of all troops will be conducted in connection with retreat at 5:30 p. m. Camporee officials will serve as reviewing officers, with Dr. H. L. Wilder serving as director of health and safety for the Camporee.

Major events will consist of first aid, signaling, tent pitching, string burning, water boiling, scout pace relay, knot tying, dressin race relay, and verbal message relay. nly registered scouts may enter the Camporee. All troops will receive a rating of A. B. or C. Each troop will prepare its own meals.

Included in the camping activities will eb Campfire prorgam Saturday night with all troops participating, and Sunday school service Sunday morning led by J. C. Mels, a scouter of many years experience of Enid, Oklahoma.

A similar Camporee is being conducted in Hutchinson district on the same dates, under the direction of H. V. Wite, council chairman of campin and acgtivities, with the assistance of Wayne H. LeCrone, field executive. This Camporee is being held at Haile ranch east of Spring Creek school.

The citizens of Pampa and community are invited to attend these Camporees.

British Beat Off Series Of Attacks

(By The Associated Press)

American infantry withstood three violent assaults by reinforced German troops and then smashed the Nazis back deeper into the hills of northern Tunisia, dispatches said today, while the British 1st army beat off a series of counterattacks along the center of the 100-mile western barrier.

German defenses were clearly stiffening, marked by repeated stabs to jar the Allies off balance, but Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced that Allied troops edged forward on both wings of the front.

An Associated Press correspondent with the U. S. army southwest of Mateur said the Americans captured an unidentified hill in bloody fighting northeast of Beja, crushing three Nazi counterattacks, but ran into difficulties in a battle at Djebel Tahent, 16 miles southwest of Mateur.

"The Doughboys were finally pushed off two foothills south of the Djebel, which were so bald that the desperately fighting infantrymen could find no cover from sweeping artillery fire except occasional small boulders," the correspondent said.

A military spokesman declared, however, that the Nazis failed to crack U. S. lines south of the hill.

Allied headquarters said the Americans made "further local advances" in their push toward Bizerte, and announced that Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British 1st army held

District VFW Meet Set Here

Biennial election of officers of District 9, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, will be held in Pampa Sunday.

H. N. Pruett of Borger is the retiring district commander and Mrs. Pruett the retiring auxiliary president.

Meeting of the V. P. M. posts will be held at the American Legion hut, 706 W. Foster, while the Auxiliaries will meet at the city club rooms in the city hal.. Both meetings will be held at 11 a. m.

Lunch will be served at the Legion hall. A joint meeting of the posts and auxiliaries will be held in the afternoon.

Explaining why the sessiin is being held despite gasoline rationing, E. J. Kenney, adjutant of Pampa Post 1657, and a past district commander, said:

"Due to the nature of the program and the objectivees of the V. F. W., we do not think it unpatriotic to hold this meeting, especially since John R. Richards, chief of the gasoline rationing branch of the office of price administration, has informed one of our representatives in Washington that men of the V. F. W. who find it necessary to travel in promoting the organization's program are entitled to extra gasoline for 470 miles per month for such purpose."

Sergeant Schmid Flays Coal Miners

DALLAS, April 30 (AP)—Sgt. Al Schmid, 22, who lost his sight in a Solomons islands battle in which he machine-gunned more than 200 Japs to death, thinks coal miners on strike should be forced back to the shafts under military guard or shipped overseas "where the going is really tough."

In an interview here last night Sergeant Schmid said: "What does it take for people to realize the danger of strikes in wartime? He participatd in a bond rally at Austin today.

Bond Quota Not Yet Attained

Humble Oil and Refining company, of which Walter F. Dean is superintendent, led the Victory Bond parade in Gray county yesterday with purchase of $25,000 worth of Thursday's total bond sales of $45,759.25.

Although Gray county is still $28,568.25 short of its $630,000 quota, S. D. Stennis, drive chairman, said today he was confident that the goal would be reached, as returns are still due today and tomorrow.

Total amount of Victory bonds sold since the campaign started on April 12, in Gray county, is $601,-568.25.

This total does not include one $5,000 prospect and another for $9,-225, expected to be received shortly. The sum is expected to be further increased by sales at McLean, as no report has been received from that town for two days.

At B. M. Baker school, in Pampa, of which Mrs. Annie Daniels is principal, one grade alone, the fourth, with only 32 pupils, bought $396.70 of bonds and stamps.

Coal Miners, Replying to FDR, Declare They Want Agreement

NEW YORK, April 30(AP) — Soft coal miners today told President Roosevelt, in reply to his back-to-work order, that they "want an agreement," and want to work and asked a renewal of collective bargaining with the mine operators.

Their counter-proposal, made in a telegram to the President, reiterated the miners' charge that the war labor board had prejudged the miners' case.

A return to collective bargaining at this late date, in the opinion of union executives, would not prevent a work stoppage in the soft coal mines at midnight tonight, the expiration time of the extended contract, unless the contract is further extended.

John L. Lewis, UMW president, made public the reply after a session of the international policy committee of the union. Lewis handed newsmen the text of the committee's message to the President without comment, and declined to answer questions.

Several union district presidents who are members of the policy committee and who were interviewed after the meeting said the telegram meant that in the absence of an agreement there would be a voluntary stoppage of work in the mines at midnight tonight when the present extended contract expires.

Any walkout would affect approximately 450,000 soft coal miners in the Appalachian joint conference. The UMW always has taken the position that they never work without a contract, and Lewis has said during the wage negotiations which began early last month that in the absence of an agreement the miners would not trespass on mine property.

The message said in part that the war labor board "would and could

Liquor Curfew Bill Expected To Be Signed

AUSTIN, April 30 (AP)—On Gov. Coke Stevenson's desk for what was almost certain to be his signature and final enactment into law today was a liquor curfew ibll passed yb the house and senate.

The measure outlaws consumption of possession of any alcoholic beverage in a public place between 12:15 a. m. and 7 a. m. weekdays and etween 1:15 a. m. and 1 p. m. Sundays. The ill was finally passed y thes enate 19-2 yesterday without debate.

An amendment which would have prohibited sale of beer in the unincorporated areas of a county during any hour when its sale was foribdden in the county's most populous city or town was killed.

On its way to the house today with a favorable committee report was a bill embodying Gov. Stevenson's emergency message recommendations that the leigslature consider amendin gthe state law to permit taxing certain federal properties in Texas.

Stevenson in his message yesterdaiy said Federal law provides that statees may tax real property of certain Federal agencies, but present state law prevents such taxation.

"I understand that the value of thep roperty is several million dollars", Stevenson's message said.

In a session last night the house passed more than 75 local and uncontested bills, a number of them measures which now go to the governor. Bills finally passed included these:

Requiring that any officer authorized to make arrests on the highways have lettering on thes ide of the car so as to be readily identified; permitting counties to establish child welfare advisory councils; giving the attorney general on his own motion authority to start removal proceedings against a county official; changing the name of the Texas Defense Guard to the Texas State guard and providing for pay duty; permitting any incorporated city or town to vote on adopting the city manager-form of government; amending the criminal code in the selection of grand jurors to conform to continuous terms of court; providing workmen's compensation insurance for Texas defense guard members; authorizing a system of reward for good prison conduct; amending the penal code to permit the state to elect which offense a person may be prosecuted under.

Dutch Officers Are Asked To Resist Nazis

LONDON, April 30 (AP)—The Netherlands government in London appealed today to former members of the Dutch armed forces in The Netherlands to resist internment ordered by German occupation authorities.

"Don't register," the men were told in a broadcast over radio orange. "Keep quiet. Disregard all orders and decrees. This is the advice The Netherlands government gives you. Disregard summonses. Try to make yourselves unfindable."

Some 400,000 veterans of Holland's army are involved.

Officers and men alike, interned after Holland capitulated in May, 1940, to the Nazi war machine and later released on Adolf Hitler's orders, have been commanded to report at once for return to war prisoner camps, the Berlin radio announced last night.

The order was issued by Gen. Friedrich Christiansen, commander of German forces in Holland, who last May sent back to prison camps in Germany 2,000 Netherlands officers on charges they had shown hostility to Germany.

The decree came less than a week after Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands made an Easter eve address from London to her people, lashing at the breaking up of Dutch homes by labor conscription, which she termed "slave labor," and promising that German occupation leaders and Dutch traitors would be punished as soon as The Netherlands were liberated.

Ocean Wave Is Doubtful Starter

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 30 (AP)—A field of 13 three-year-olds was entered today to run in tomorrow's 69th Kentucky derby, but there was still some doubt whether the highly regarded Ocean Wave would get to the post.

The fate of Ocean Wave as a starter will not be known until tomorrow morning. He suffered a foot injury in winning the derby trial last Tuesday. Trainer Ben Jones had planned to give the colt his final "blowout" today and make up his mind about starting, but he decided to postpone this test until tomorrow and instead just jogged the Wave around the track.

The 12th entry was that of the shortest-priced future book favorite in derby history, Count Fleet. Trainer Don Cameron dropped his name in the box. He was accompanied by Jockey Johnny Longden who has ridden the count in all of his starts since he began racing.

AP Man Describes Panhandle for Rest of Texas

BY ERNEST G. FISCHER
Associated Press Staff

The heart of Texas has been celebrated in song. The tip of Texas has become almost synonymous with the Lower Rio Grande valey. The piney woods of East Texas share in the traditions of the Old South. But when the epic of Texas is written, it will be incomplete without an important chapter devoted to the Panhandle.

Some residents of other sections of the state may be a bit hazy on the geography of the Staked Plains. Sometimes there is confusion about where the South Plains stop and the North Plains of the Panhandle begin. Just take a bee-line from Bibles (Hardeman county) to Bovina (Parmer county) and you roughly bisect the great plains country. And the names of these two hamlets are suggestive of the diversity of the Panhandle, not to mention the South Plains.

So recently settled that it is still a special mark of distinction to have been born there, the Panhandle certainly has become more than the panhandle of this state.

Cattle, grain, oil and gas, and cotton—those five words just about sketch the Panhandle's history until a few years ago. Today, carbon black, synthetic rubber and many other mineral and chemical products contribute to the section's economy.

Built on these foundations, the Panhandle's three principal cities today are Amarillo, Borger and Pampa.

The 18th congressional district—which covers the 26 counties of the Panhandle proper and includes also Motley and Cottle counties—has more defense plants than any other congressional district in Texas. In addition to ordnance plants, there are installations where many thousands of young men are being trained for such varied jobs as flying a glider, twin-engine planes and repairing an aerial fortress—a far cry from the campaign against the Indians in 1874, the last in Texas history.

From these plains comes the bulk of Texas' wheat crop—hard winter wheat, high in protein value. The level terrain is suggestive of the Ukrainian wheat belt except that the Panhandle soil is lighter

When it rains in the Panhandle at the right time, international events make way in the newspapers for the story of rainfall. Recent precipitation, which growers said was just in the nick of time to save the wheat crop, brought out fat black-face printer's type. Then the newspaper folk, 200 strong, took off for a couple of days to attend their annual convention in Amarillo.

Highways were skirted by grass green as the revived wheat crop. Visitors saw at least one huge truckload of cattle unloaded right on the highway. The cattle grazed along the roadsile, with the slowly-moving truck keeping them moving.

The driver was not humming "Get Along Little Dogies;" it sounded more like "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

Admiral Robert Called 'Tool of Hitler' By State Department

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—The United States has recalled its consul general from Martinique and abrogated all agreements with Admiral George Robert, French high commissioner in the Caribbean.

Secretary of State Hull announced today that in a note handed to Robert before the departure of the consul general the high commissioner was notified that in view of his attitude the United States would have to consider him a tool of the Hitler regime which has enslaved his French homeland.

"It is a matter of common knowledge," the note said, "that the territory of metropolitan France, contrary to the wish of the French people, is being used in an ever increasing degree for active military operations against the United States and that the Vichy regime is now an integral part of the Nazi system.

"The government of the United States does not recognize Vichy nor will it recognize or negotiate with any French representative in the Antilles who remains subservient to or maintains contact with the Vichy regime.

"In the circumstances the government of the United States does not consider effective or binding any formal understanding with respect to the French Antilles based upon past discussions and conditions, nor does it consider that those discussions can serve as a basis for either present or future relations with the French Antilles."

9 Japs Killed On Guadalcanal

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—American troops wiped out a Japanese patrol of one officer and eight men on Guadalcanal Wednesday, the navy reported today, but the reason for the enemy's being on that American-occupied Solomon island was not given.

A communiquie said the patrol was discovered in the vicinity of Beaufort bay on the western coast, about 25 miles southwest of the American airfield. All Japanese resistance on Gudalcanal ceased on February 9 though the mopping up of stragglers continued after that.

Whether the nine-man unit was simply one of the final groups of stragglers which had wandered down from the mountains to attempt an escape or whether it was a functioning military patrol but ashore was not disclosed by the navy.

It's Too Easy To Get Married In Texas, Houston Judge Says

HOUSTON, April 30 (AP)—It is too easy to get married in Texas.

It is not as easy to get a divorce in this state as it appears.

The shorter the engagement, the shorter the marriage.

Average of persons seeking divorces—wife, 30½ years; husband, 35.

Childless couples predominate in the divorce courts.

These are some of the findings of District Judge Kenneth McCalla, based on an analytical study of 1,000 divorce cases heard in his court. The judge said when making his findings public. "Right now it is even worse than usual with so many soldiers entering wedlock. Many of them are simply marriages of convenience."

His figures show that in 42 per cent of divorces granted in his court the couples had known each other less than six months and in 71 per cent the acquaintance had been less than a year. Approximately one third of the betrothals are of less than a month's duration and well more than one half are of less than six months.

Tunisia Victory May Speed War Against Japs

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—The approaching climax in the battle of Tunisia provides a significant background for the Washington visit of the two leading American military figures in the China-India-Burma war theater, Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell and Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault.

They were called home, Secretary Stimson indicated, in line with war department policy of "periodic visits" by hgh rankng officers long in the field. Asked if projects for renewed bombing of Tokyo or other Japanese cities had anything to do with their trip, he said:

"Can you look me straight in the eye and expect me to answer that?"

Stilwell commands all American army forces in the China-India-Burma theater and also is chief of staff to the Chinese Generalissimo, Chiang Kai-Shek. Chennault commands the American 4th air force in China.

Despite official reticence as to the significance of the Stilwell-Chennault summons, the global war situation presents some obvious features of importance to their commands.

The campaign to clear the French African hump of Axis forces is approaching completion. Once it is cleared, Allied use of the short-line Mediterranean route from the Atlantic to the Indian ocean can be restored to ease Allied problems of transport to China and India.

Stay At Home Or Work At War Job?

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 29 — A great problem confronting American women today is whether to stay at home with her baby or to go out and do her part in the war work. Couldn't a competent nurse, a hired girl, or a grandmother do just as well in taking care of the baby? Shouldn't she be out doing her part in the war effort?

If the baby is under two years old, the mother should definitely stay at home, says Miss Marjorie Momyer, head of the child care division at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., for it would be a long search to find a substitute for a mother.

A nurse might be better trained than the mother, but she usually loves the child not enough or too much because she has no children of her own. Only the mother can give it the love and security, the emotional and physical stability that it needs, Miss Momyer contends.

"Many people think that the baby under two years old isn't learning much—that it has just a few reflexes, but he is actually learning a lot," Miss Momyer explains. "He is learning to walk, talk and eat. A baby comes into the world without any bad habits, but how quickly he learns, and the mother should see that he starts thinking, talking and adjusting to people properly!

"One summer I often sat in a park in Brooklyn and observed the nursemaids who were taking care of some of the children of the wealthier families. Pitiful things that the mothers would never know of were going on. Those nursemaids were ruling the babies through fear, not through love and their conversation sometimes was anything but what a baby should hear."

If the mother is taken away, the baby has to get adjusted to an entirely different routine. She takes with her the baby's security, Miss Momyer warns. Grandmother may be a very good substitute, but she is older and often loses patience too quickly with the child. She usually loves the child very much, and often she spoils him.

Many now think, "Now with the great need for workers, I can get out and go to work. Somebody else can take care of the baby." That woman should never have been a mother, in the first place, Miss Momyer says, for she is dangerous to the child.

A baby senses from the time he is born if he is not wanted, and he is a miserable baby. "I don't mean," she points out, "that the mother should not take time away from her baby. She should slip away often, for instance while the baby is taking its nap, for she will come back fresher and more alive to her baby."

After the baby has reached two years old, the next best thing to a mother is a good nursery school. The women in these schools are usually wel ltrained, and they try to give the children as much of the love and security of the home as is possible.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. If you have guests should you continually criticize your child because you feel he could make a better impression than he is making?
2. Should children always be sent out of the living room when there are guests?
3. Should a guest talk about how cute a child is before the child?
4. Should a grown-up guest rush at a small child, or make up to him gradually?
5. When a guest tells her hostess "goodby" should she also say "goodby" to her child if he is in the room?

What would you do if—

You have a dog—

(a) Don't let him in the living room when you have guests unless he knows how to behave?

(b) Let him in the living room even of he jumps up on the guests?

Answers

1. No. You will make the child feel more awkward and make the guests uncomfortable.
2. No. It is good for them to meet people.
3. Not if the child is old enough to understand what is being said.
4. He should make up to a child gradually. Otherwise the child will probably be frightened and start to cry.
5. Certainly.

WASHINGTON, April 22—Pathetic letters from dog and cat owners throughout American have sent members of the Bureau of Animal Industry scurrying for OPAid on meat point rationing.

When OPA could only promise inedible ribs for pets of Amerisa, two veterinarian organizations hit upon a dog and cat feed service designed to answer the shortage.

A plan now being drawn up to obtain waste from fish and meat canners and poultry biproducts, to be compounded with other ingredients into animal food with a meat base.

One "dog eat dog" plan, still under discussion, involves use as meat of homeless dogs and cats put away at city pounds.

SALVAGE SUGGESTION

To Donald M. Nelson's desk recently came a list of timely salvage suggestions from a patriotic citizen, some of which the salvage division passes on for general use. Among the items are: use oldumbrella ribs for flower supports in the garden; use penny postcards instead of letters; break your burned-out electric light globes and save the metal base; put old coffee grounds in flower beds; reverse washers on dripping faucets; draw nails from boxes and crates and save them for future use.

STRAWBERRY FREEZE

Late frosts set the strawberry season back a couple of weeks in the south, so strawberries will be a bit late this year. Meanwhile, answering pleas from two large southern areas, OPA has issued an order allowing housewives to obtain one pound of sugar for every four quarts of the strawberries they will soon be canning. This order applies only to these two southern regions.

RAYON SHIRTS

Rayon has invaded the men's shirting field with the introduction of "sanforized" rayon. The fabric has a higher lustre, will cost about the same as cotton shirts, and will last about as long. Up until now, rayon has never been satisfactorily "sanforized" or pre-shrunk.

Nell Scott Spiller Is Guest Speaker At Canadian WTCV

Special To The NEWS

CANADIAN, April 29 — Special feature of the Canadian WCTU meeting Wednesday was a talk about Hawaii by Nell Scott Spiller, wife of Staff Sergeant U. S. Army Air Corps, who has been visiting in the home of her brother, Tom Scott, for the past several months.

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Spiller resided at Wheeler field at the time of the air raids by Japanese airmen on December 7, 1941. They had been living there a year at that time when the airfields were bombed by the Japs.

Mrs. Spiller came to the United States in February of last year, the sergeant arriving here only last week. Their son, Joe Don Spiller, was a year old Easter Sunday. Sgt. Spiller and Joe Don both enjoyed immensely the birthday party and cake with one candle which celebrated the occasion.

The Spillers own a home in Hawaii and hope to return there after peace has been achieved once more.

Sgt. Spiller left Wednesday night to report at the air field at Fairfield, Ohio. Mrs. Spiller and Joe Don will join him there as soon as living quarters can be found.

Federation Day Is Subject For LeFors Art Club

"Federation Day" was the program theme for the LeFors Fine Arts club which met Tuesday evening with Misses Clara Anderson, Virginia Vaught and Zona May as hostesses.

Mrs. Joe Champion, leader, emphasized how American women are helping to bind all women together and break down barriers of enmity in her report "Federation meets in London."

A piano solo "Lotus Land" by Cyril Scott was given by Miss Lorraine Ross.

The project committee reported that an honor roll plaque of all LeFors service men had been placed in the hall of the high school building and that books had been sent to service men.

Members present were Misses Clara Anderson, Drusilla Jones, Lorarine Ross, Ferne Holland, Virginia Vaught, Geraldine Pratt, and Dorothy Simpson, Mesdames E. R. Reeves, J. D. Jonburg and Joe Champion.

The next meeting will be a waffle breakfast at the home of Mrs. E. R. Reeves on May 8 with the social committee as hostesses.

Kate Smith swaps stories with Mrs. Blake of Lake Peekskill, N.Y.

MRS. W. B. BLAKE writes Kate: "At our cabin at Lake Peekskill we cook on kerosene. The other day I stirred up a cake, lit the oven, and filled the pan, when suddenly the burners dimmed. The kerosene can was empty. And two miles from the nearest store!

"Well, it was two hours before I got that oven going again. Yet my cake was just as fine and light and high as any cake you ever saw. Of course, it was the Calumet Baking Powder that did it. You certainly are right when you say that Calumet cake batters can wait."

AND KATE SMITH ANSWERS: "Mrs. Blake, that's one reason so many experienced cake-makers call Calumet the dependable baking powder. Because its famous Double-Action turns out perfect cakes and hot breads every time! Even if a batter has to stand around and wait like yours did.

"I'm sending along a recipe I think is a dandy. 'Cause it's a real meat-stretcher and a mighty tasty one, too. Fixed this way one pound of liver will feed six to eight hungry people. Try it and see!"

Here it is! Liver and Vegetable Pie!

2 slices bacon
1 pound liver, cut in small pieces
1½ cups sliced onions
1 cup chopped celery
2 tablespoons chopped celery leaves
1 cup diced carrots
1 beef bouillon cube
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups boiling water
⅛ teaspoon paprika
Dash of sage
Dash of pepper
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup cold water
3 tablespoons flour
Calumet Meat Pie Crust

• Fry bacon; add liver and onions and brown lightly. Add vegetables, bouillon cube, and salt to boiling water and cook until vegetables are tender. Drain; measure liquid and add water to make 2 cups. Add to meat and vegetable mixture. Add seasonings. Mix water and flour to smooth paste, add to mixture, and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Turn into greased shallow casserole.

To make Calumet Meat Pie Crust, measure 1½ cups sifted flour; add 1½ teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder and ¼ teaspoon salt and sift. Cut in 5 tablespoons shortening. Add about ½ cup milk gradually, stirring until soft dough is formed. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll dough ¼ inch thick; with sharp knife make slits for escape of steam. Fit over meat mixture in casserole. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 20 minutes, or until crust is browned. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

New Firestone Store To Double Store's Receipts For War Bonds

A unique offer to double the store's opening day receipts in purchase of Victory Bonds was made today by A. W. Spickard, Oklahoma City, district manager of Firestone stores, local unit of which will open tomorrow morning at 109 S. Cuyler.

In other words, say the store's receipts run $1,000, the store will purchase $2,000 worth of Victory Bonds from a local bank.

Newest store in the Oklahoma City district, which comprises Oklahoma, the Texas Panhandle, and Eastern New Mexico, the local unit will handle all Firestone products.

These will include sporting goods, such as golf clubs, archery sets, baseball bats, tennis rackets, badminton sets; automobile accessories, batteries, tires, tubes, spark plugs; paint, dishes, mops, floor coverings; bicycles, work clothing, and many other items.

There are 24 stores in the Oklahoma City district of which Pampa is a part. Other stores in the district include those at Plainview and Lubbock, Roswell, N. M., Hobbs, N. M., Clinton, Okla., and Amarillo.

F. E. Hoffman, who has been Firestone dealer here, will continue as their agent. Opening of the new store does not in any way constitute any change in this arrangement but merely expands Firestone service to the people of Pampa and Gray county.

With priorities, shortages, and miles of "red tape" of government bureaus engulfing business today, it is a bit novel that a new store would be opened at such a time.

As Manager Spickard explains it:

Look at the stock here. That doesn't look like a shortage, does it? We think there is a market and we have something to sell that market."

Remodeling of the location started 30 days ago. Walls have been painted cream, the ceiling white. It was not possible to get new type lights, under war-time restrictions, but it is planned to make this improvement when possible.

Size of the store is 25 x 140 feet. At the rear, the place has been altered so that it is possible for a motorist to drive his car into the store and there have his battery tested, tires changed, or other service given.

A salient note in 1943 merchandising is the plastic window screens, wooden handle bar grips for bicycles (replacing rubber) and fly swatters made out of seating material (instead of wire, which cannot be obtained).

Post-War Racial Problems Seen By Dr. White

BY BROWNWOOD EMERSON

Hinting that the South may have have to adjust itself to racial consciousness that will be one of the major post-war problems, Dr. W. R. White, president of Hardin-Simmons university, Abilene, told Pampa Lions at their regular weekly luncheon at noon yesterday in the basement of the First Methodist church that racial problems were bound to rise as a result of the present war.

Keynoting his speech on post-war issues, Dr. White declared that nation, like animals when geologic periods changed, would "pass out" like the animals if they did not adapt themselves to the new.

He said the post-war world would demand courage and coolness and the resources of religion and education.

Besides the racial question, Dr. White said other problems of the post-war period would be those of unemployment and of American participation in world affairs.

"There are scarcely any unemployed now, because of the big money spent in this war. After it is over will the man returning be content to wait as long as the ones did in the First World War before wanting their jobs back?"

He cited the number of women employed, ever-increasing; being employed and said this was one of the reasons for the panic that America suffered in 1929.

While he assured his audience he was loyal to President Roosevelt, whom he termed "the best friend labor ever had," he condemned the radical labor unions that scorned the national labor relations board, and thereby scorned the President.

Dr. White rapped the superfluous bureaus, criticized their "red tape" and "buck passing," and claimed it was a favorable sign that congress was beginning to demand that the bureaus be "assistants" to the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government, rather than usurp the powers of the three primary units of our system.

"The nation needs some red-tape cutters, men who can get things done," he declared.

Turning to the World War 1 president, Woodrow Wilson, he stated that to read Wilson's speeches today was like reading today's newspaper for Wilson described exactly what has happened, and what is happening today.

"We can no more shut out the world than the Mississippi river can withdraw out of this nation," he pharsed it, as he stressed the need of American guidance in the post-war world.

"Unless we want three wars in one generation we had better look to our world responsibility," he cautioned.

Dr. White was in Pampa three years ago, when he was the principal speaker at a chamber of commerce luncheon.

At the meeting yesterday, he was introduced by the Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Guests were Fred Adams of Abilene, Biggs Horn, White Deer, a charter member of the Pampa club; Pvt. M. M. Saunders, First Lieut. K. I. (Jack Dunn), former member of the club, now stationed at St. Petersburg, Fla., the Rev. Carver and Dr. White.

1000 Enemy Planes Downed in Africa

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Definite air superiority in North Africa is the outstanding advantage possessed by the Allies in the battle for Tunisia, secretary of war Stimson said, reporting that during the period March 29 to April 24 Allied fliers destroyed 1,064 enemy planes while losing 270.

Of the enemy aircraft destroyed, the secretary told his press conference, 859 were combat planes and 205 were transports. Fierce fighting continues on all sections of the Tunisian front, he said, with slow but satisfactory progress being made.

Hirohito 42 Years Old Thursday

By The Associated Press

Emperor Hirohito's 42nd birthday was celebrated Thursday throughout the Japanese empire and territories under Japanese occupation, the feature being a grand military review at Tokyo, Axis broadcasts said.

Picked detachments of infantry, artillery, tanks and motorized troops passed in review before the Emperor while 800 planes flew in formations over the parade ground, according to a Tokyo dispatch broadcast by the Rome radio and recorded by the Associated Press.

Another broadcast told of celebrations in the conquered cities of Rangoon, Hongkong and Manila.

Shell Provides Victory Gardens

Shell Oil Company, Inc., has released all of its vacant land suitable for cultivation, to its employees for Victory Gardens, R. B. Roark, vice president of the Mid-Continent Area, announced today.

This move is a part of an extensive program recently inaugurated by the company for all its operations east of the Rockies, to encourage the maintenance of Vivtory Garden this spring and summer.

It is eestimated that in the area east of the Rockies the project will make available more than three million square feet of land and that approximately twelve thousand of the firm's personnel, including twelve hundred from the Mid-Continent area, will join Shell Victory Garden Clubs. The purpose of the program is to help the war effort by aggressively promoting the greatest possible growth of vegetables on the "home-front" and the saving of as much food as possible for next winter.

All of the Company's vacant land, suitable for gardening and which is not being employed for some useful purpose, will be made available. The assignment of individual gardening plots, as well as general supervision, will be under the control of local agencies directing victory garden projects in the cities and towns where the properties are located. Extreme care is being exercised to see that the safety and security of the firm's installations engaged in war work are not endangered by public or employee use of any of its property for gardening purposes.

Negro Soldiers Are Invited To Program

Negro soldiers stationed at Pampa air base have been invited to attend a "soldiers day" program Sunday afternoon at the Macedonia Baptist church, 421 Elm.

Scheduled on the program is the singing of two quartets and a talk by County Judge Sherman White.

The Rev. J. C. Campbell, pastor, said it was planned to have several white ministers present for the program.

Invitation to the Negro soldiers was extended by the church to Captain Nathan Shaw, their white commanding officer.

Nurses' Aides Can Get Shoes

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP) — Nurses' aides may obtain work shoes even though they have no unspent ration stamps.

The Office of Price Administration today gave them the same privileges as graduate nurses and others who require special shoes in their jobs.

To acquire nurses' white shoes, a nurses' aide must first use her stamp 17. If she has none, and no stamp is available from a member of her family, she may apply to her ration board for a special shoe stamp.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 29 (AP)—The stock market today found a tonic in the President's strong stand on the coal labor controversy and leading issues advanced fractions to a point or so, a number to new highs for the year or longer.

Transfers for the five hours exceeded 1,000,000 shares.

Among favorites posting top marks for 1943 were Studebaker, Willys-Overland, Three Alleghany Preferreds, American Telephone, International Telephone, Dow Chemical, United Air Lines, Standard Oil NJ, and Pennsylvania Coal. Given a lift were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Pittsburgh Coal, U. S. Rubber, Texas Co., and Douglas Aircraft.

Reorganization rail bonds continued to sprint.

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 29 (AP)—Wheat: No. 1 hard, according to protein and billing, 1.45¼-8¾.

Barley: No. 2 nom 1.05-05½; No. 3 nom 1.04-04½.

Sorghums: No. 2 yellow milo, per 100 lbs. nom 2.26-27.

Corn (shelled), prices at ceilings: No. 2 white nom 1.30½-35.

Oats: No. 3 white 78½-79.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—Wheat prices generally held steady today, although activity was light as grain men devoted considerable attention to the osft coal controversy. Any weakening in the anti-inflation line toward labor, it was felt, might encourage congressional efforts for higher agricultural prices.

Trade reports said flour purchases by a leading Dallas chain baker yesterday amounted to between 350,000 and 400,000 barrels. It was said the demand for bread in the Southwest had increased considerably, presumably reflecting in part an expansion in demand from military camps in that area.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ¼ lower, May 1.44, July 1.43¾-⅞; corn was unchanged at ceilings, May 1.05; oats were unchanged to ⅝ lower, and rye was unchanged to ¼ higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN TABLE

CHICAGO, April 29 (AP)—Wheat:

	Open	High	Low	Close
May	1.44⅛	1.44½	1.43⅞	1.44
July	1.44-1.44¼	1.44¼	1.43¾	1.43¾-⅞
Sept.	1.45-1.45⅛	1.45¼	1.44⅝	1.44⅝-¾

Butcher hogs 10-15c lower; top 14.35 and packers paying up to 14.20; packing sows steady to 25c higher with pigs unchanged. Most of the sheep were medium to good shorn lambs. Trade was slow with most bids weak to 25c lower.

Estimated receipts: Cattle 1300; calves 300; hogs 1800; sheep 2500.

Good and choice steers and yearlings 14.50-16.00; beef cows 10.50-13.00; good fat calves 14.00-15.00; stocker steer calves topped at 17.25 with best heifers usually a dollar lower; stocker and feeder steers and yearlings 12.00-16.00; stocker cows went back to grass at 13.00 down.

Most of the good and choice 195-300 lb. butcher hogs 14.20 or 14.00 down; pigs 13.00 down.

Medium and good shorn lambs to 13.75; good and choice grades ordered in at 14.50; spring lambs 12.50; no good or choice fat lambs.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, April 29 (AP)—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—Hogs 2000; slow, uneven, 5 to 15 lower; mostly 10 lower than Wednesday's average; top 14.35 freely; good and choice 180 lbs. up 14.25-14.35; sows 13.85-14.10.

Cattle 2300; calves 250; slaughter steers, yearlings and she stock steady; bulls weak; vealers mainly 50 higher; stockers and feeders steady; bulk slaughter steers medium and good 14.00-15.25; two loads good and choice heifers 15.50-15.60; medium and good cows 11.50-12.75; practical top good bulls 12.75; good and choice vealers 14.00-15.50.

Sheep 6000; practically nothing sold early; opening bids on wooled and shorn lambs 15-25 lower, asking fully steady; best wooled lambs held above 15.75.

Sunday School Lesson

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

Peter may not have been the greatest of the 12 Apostles, especially judged by the standard of greatness in humility and service that Jesus established for His disciples, but he was certainly the most human and interesting.

The story of the relations between Jesus and Peter, as we get glimpses of it in various parts of the Scripture, appeals to most of us because Peter was so very much like ourselves. He was a man of high aspirations and of serious weakness, moved by strong impulses of good, but subject also to great temptations, loyal to the Master and loyal to his friends with a deep intensity, yet capable of a forgetfulness or a failure that amounted almost to treachery.

We must not read or study this lesson without having in mind the verses in Luke 22 (31-34), which give us the most vital insight into Peter's character as the Master saw him, and also tell of the deep love of the Master which was to be Peter's anchorage in strength. "And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat; But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not, and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren."

Peter had indeed been sifted as wheat, and in the final test apparently had failed. He had fallen asleep when the Master left him supposedly watching with James and John as He went into the Garden of Gethsemane. He had denied his Master thrice, surely not out of cowardice but because, in a mood of depression when things seemed sinking and the dream that he had followed was vanishing, his faith had been temporarily blotted out.

But he had gone out and wept bitterly. And now it is in our lesson that the Master restores the broken-hearted Peter to the fullness of His confidence.

Peter had been foremost, to the point of boastfulness, in asserting his faith and his loyalty. It was with this in mind that Jesus asked him now whether he loved Him more than the others. Boastful Peter had lost all his boastfulness; he was content now to say merely that he loved the Master, and he did not add "more than others."

As three times he had denied his Master, so three times now he asserted his love, and Jesus characteristically gave him a task, also making it plain that he also would have to bear his Cross and suffer for the sake of his faith and loyalty.

A touch of the old Peter lingers as, when Jesus had predicted Peter's future, Peter turned to the Lord and asked concerning John, "Lord, what shall this man do?" But the Master's rebuke was mild, "What is that to thee? Follow thou me."

It is a triumphant Peter that we see at last, still in some measure a Peter of his moods and his weakness, but with a new faith and strength, going forth to do his part in the founding of the Christian church. It was the new Peter who was to preach the great sermon on the day of Pentecost.

HEARST 80 YEARS OLD

Zion Lutheran Sunday Services

In presenting the topic "What has Easter Done For You?" Rev. Wolter, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church will be at the 11 a. m. service discuss the "Word of God Philippians," 3, 8, stressing the fact that every Christian is ready to sacrifice all for the surpassing and most excellent knowledge of Jesus as his Savior, that when Paul saw the living Christ it meant more to him to find security for his soul in the redeeming love of a resurrected Jesus than to purchase security of his body at the price of losing Christ.

At 7:45 p. m. on the basis of the Scripture selection I Corinthians 15, 58 Rev. Wolter will speak of the religion of Jesus Christ as a religion which while implanting a hope into our heart also fills us with an urge and comes to us with a command which drives us out into the midst of life's realities, each Christian thinking not only of himself and the beautifying of his life and character, but his sympathies also extending to his fellowmen.

EDINBURG, April 30 (AP)—Mexican citizens living below the border in this area have beensl ow to take advantage of new OPA regulations allowing them to cross the Rio Grande and purchase rationed commodities.

On Monday, effective date of the new rule, only one Mexican citizen filed application with the Hidalgo County war price and ration board for a ration certificate.

Central Baptist Sunday Services

After a successful revival meeting which closed on Easter Sunday, the Central Baptist church will return to regular church schedule Sunday. The Rev. T. D. Sumrall, pastor, will speak at both service hours and Mr. James E. Frost will direct the music with special numbers at both services.

At the 11 o'clock hour Rev. Sumrall will speak on "The Church Revived." In this message a full orbed and empowered church will be seen facing the task of militant aggression in a world of doubt and sin.

At the evening hour, 8 o'clock, the sermon theme will be "Repentance and Conversion." This will be an evangelistic service with both sermon and songs revealing the position of the unsaved.

Those who do not worship at other churches are cordially invited to attend these services.

all but one small section of its positions before the Tunis plain.

Simultaneously, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British 8th army, driving up the coastal region along a 30-mile front, gained its objective in a renewed surge against strong Axis mountain defenses.

"An enemy counterattack in this sector achieved slight success," the Allied communique said.

Other war headlines:

RUSSIA — Moscow says "big events" in offing, Russians silent on German reports of major Soviet offensive in Caucasus; Nazis move up reinforcements in all sectors.

AIR WAR — RAF blasts German convoy off Dutch coast, three ships left in flames.

BURMA — Sharp fighting erupts on Arakan front, British repulse Japanese attacks.

On the Tunisian front, the Americans of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., were reported locked in heavy fighting with the Germans on bald hill (Djebel Ajred), 16 miles west of Mateur, while the British 1st army sought to break through the enemy's mountain defenses guarding the Medjerda valley leading to Tunis.

"On the 1st army front, there was various bitter fighting," Allied headquarters said.

"In the Medjez-al-Bab sector, the enemy launched determined counter-attacks with tanks and infantry against our recently gained objectives—this main thrust being against the Djebel Bou Aoukaz. Fighting continued throughout the day."

The bloody Djebel Bou Aoukaz, scene of two costly British attempts to break through, is the last major barrier defending the Tunis plain.

Allied bombers and fighters continuously blasted Axis troops and struck at enemy shipping in the gulf of Tunis and the Sicilian straits.

"Two vessels were sunk and direct hits scored on others," the Allied command said.

"During these attacks, strong forces of enemy fighters were encountered, 14 of them being destroyed." Ten Allied planes were lost."

French troops attacking on both ends of the 100-mile western barrier were reported to have captured three more hilltops—one in the north at Djebel Efsena, in the Sidi Mansour region 22 miles west of Bizerte; and two in the ridges between Pont du Fahs and Djebibina in the south.

Moscow newspapers declared that tremendous events were imminent in Russia but the Red army command was silent on German reports of a large-scale Soviet offensive developing against the Kuban bridgehead of the Caucasus.

Izvestia, the government newspaper, said an intensive summer campaign, which might well decide the war, would begin in May.

While Izvestia intimated that the Red armies were preparing to launch an all-out drive against Hitler's invaders, dispatches noted that the Germans were moving up reinforcements, munitions and supplies in all sectors of the 1,500 mile battle line.

The German command said the Russians made strong attacks again yesterday in the Caucasus, battering against the narrow German bridgehead along the Black Sea and in the Taman peninsula, but asserted that they were repulsed.

MEAT

at eight points per pound; lard, margarine and shortening at five. Salad and cooking oils, however, were reduced from six to five points a pint (or pound).

Canned sea mussels, which formerly were in a general category requiring seven points a pound, were cut to one. Caviar and fish roe came down, too, from seven to three points on a pound basis.

The new point values will be applicable Sunday only to red E and F coupons in the No. 2 ration book. A, B, C and D stamps will expire at midnight tonight. Blue D, E and F coupons for processed fruits and vegetables also expire tonight, and minor changes in the canned goods point values also may be announced over the weekend.

Since the changes take place during the weekend that bridges the April and May meat stamps the only valid stamps this Saturday will be the E's, at the rate of 16 points per person. On Sunday, however, the F stamps become valid, along with the E's, which will remain good until the end of the month.

Another change was to exempt from rationing bouillon cubes and meat extracts or concentrates. Canned bulk sausage and canned Vienna sausage came down a point. Permission was granted butchers to include in hamburger "heel or round and skirts" as well as other scraps and discards.

Commenting on the unchanged status of sausage (except minor changes on types of containing less than 50 per cent meat), OPA said the over-abundance of sausage on the market was due to overproduction and not to abnormally low public demand. A press statement said any cut in sausage point values would merely encourage diversion of regular meat to sausage.

Fuel Oil Rationing Is Held Unnecessary

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Senator Wherry (R-Neb) said today evidence before the special senate midwest fuel investigating committee showed conclusively that "fuel oil rationing and conversions for home consumption are unjustified."

He added that he was "recommending their elimination in 17 states."

"Unanimous testimony before the committee," he said, "has been that rationing and conversions to other types of fuel have saved only 21,000,000 barrels of fuel oil for home consumption in the nation since the program was started.

"The evidence also has disclosed that about 5,000,000 barrels a day are consumed."

Wherry said he did not know what the committee itself, headed by Senator Clark (D-Mo), will recommend.

The states in which he would have the restrictions lifted, he said, are Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Tennessee, Kentucky, Texas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota, Arkansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Instalment Tax Bill Promised By July 1

DALLAS, April 30 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau said here last night that the house ways and means committee pay-as-you-go income tax bill probably would be before the house "two or three days at the most."

He promised in an interview "to do the impossible—get it going by July 1."

Under that procedure, the June 15 quarterly payment on income taxes would be a down payment on the 1943 levy, he indicated.

The next war loan campaign, he said, "just guessing, will be sometime between August and October."

The payroll deduction plan—"and 10 per cent no longer is good enough"—must be continued, he emphasized, to alleviate the pressure of a scarcity of consumers' goods, to curtail inflation and to combat the black market.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Makes me feel extra good hearin' you talk that way, Judge... never realized I was contributin' to the war effort in the way you mention."

"You certainly are, Hank. Part of the grain you farmers grow is used by the beverage distilling industry to make alcohol for war purposes. Hundreds of millions of gallons are required every year for smokeless powder, medical supplies, chemical warfare materials, shatterproof glass, lacquer for camouflaging equipment, fuel to propel torpedoes and in the making of critically needed synthetic rubber. But, Hank, the grain used in distilling this alcohol is not thrown away. It is processed and comes back to the farm again in the form of dried grains or dried solubles which you use for dairy feeds, hog supplements and poultry mashes. This year alone it is estimated 388,000 tons of these much needed feed stuffs will be produced by the distillers."

"I can see now, Judge, why you say it's a mighty good thing we have a legal distilling industry in times like these."

'Bunion Derby' Is Very Apt Name for This Year's Kentucky Race

Top Horses Recovering From Aches

LOUISVILLE, Ky. April 30—(AP)—They've been calling this the "street car derby" and the "catch count fleet" derby around here for weeks but if this Saturday's scramble isn't a natural for the "bunion derby" then there's plenty of Bourbon in Derbytown.

Which there isn't.

For, giving this 69th Kentucky Derby field a quick run-down, as the entry box opened this morning to settle the whole thing, you find the top two favorites and one of the choicest of the other hay-stokers troubled with foot aches and pains enough to drive a chorus line out of business.

Just take the top hay-stoker of the lot—count fleet. Twelve days ago he won the wood memorial after being all but cut down like a weed in a victory garden at the gate. Next there is Ocean Wave, second choice to the Count in the derby. He won the blue grass stakes nine days ago witr a cracked heel. Then he waltzed in with the derby trial mile by nine lengths with the same ailment, only that time it was a little tougher to take.

Next, there is Slide Rule, who pulled up sore after a workout three weeks ago.

Count Fleet's left hind leg is coming around like the second trip on a merry-go-round. Even trainer Don Cameron isn't worrying about that any longer.

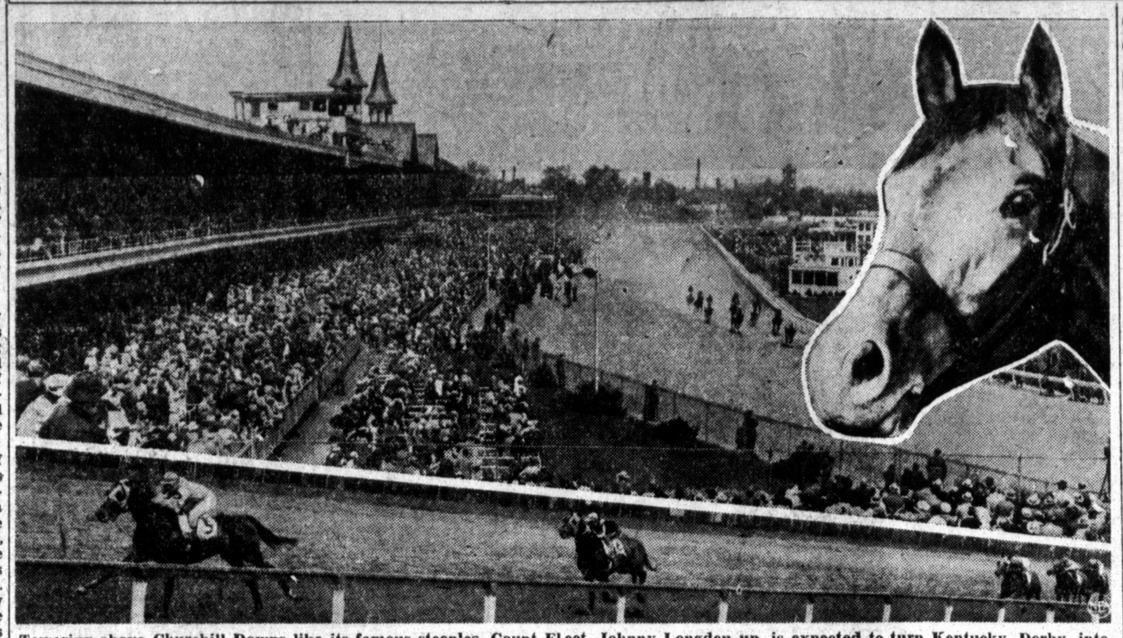

Ocean Wave, on the other hand, is a horse from a different garage. "He's 50 per cent better," trainer Den Jones says.

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Senator A. B. (Happy) Chandler confided to the Associated Press today that while Count Fleet is the horse to baat in the Kentucky derby a Chestnut 3-year-old who lives just a little piece up the road from tre Senator's bluegrass home may turn the trick.

That steed is Ocean Wave, who came in nine lengths ahead in the derby trials.

The Kentucky Senator made his pronouncement only after a teleprone talk with Gov. Keen Johnson and a couple of other mysterious calls which may or may not have been trunked through to the private stalls of Count Fleet and Ocean Wave at Churcrill Downs.

"Count Fleet, if uninjured is about the best, but Ocean Wave is a dangerous horse and may win it," declared Chandled, who is strictly a form follower.

Towering above Churchill Downs like its famous steeples, Count Fleet, Johnny Longden up, is expected to turn Kentucky Derby into parade as he did the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, as shown below. Blue Swords is second, then Twoses, Pop's Pick and Slide Rule.

John Vander Meer Allows Only 2 Runs, 12 Hits In 29 Innings

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pitching has been the prize product of the Major Leagues this spring and scintillating performances have been piled one on top of another. But there would be no argument if the question were asked, "who is the outstanding hurler to date?"

The answer is Lefty John Vander of the Cincinnati reds.

The New Jersey Dutchman, slated for early induction has gone to the mound three times in eight days, pitched 29 innings and allowed two runs and 12 hits.

Yesterday he turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-1 on six hits. He had a shutout till the ninth, when the Bucs finally bunched three blows for a run.

This triumph kept the Reds tied with the Cards for third place in the senior circuit as St. Louis slipped over a 4-3 twelve-inning conquest of the Chicago Cubs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers completed a sweep of their series with the Phillies on the gift of two unearned runs for a 4-3 victory.

The Boston Braves vaulted into second place back of the Dodgers by beating the New York Giants 5-2 behind the six-hit hurling of Charley (Red) Barrett.

In the American League the New York Yankees were forced into 12 innings by the Boston Red Sox, but won 7-3 with a final four-run blast in wrich Nick Etten and John Lindell each singled with the bases loaded.

The Yankees' path to another pennant was smoothed considerably yesterday when rookie shortstop George Stirnweiss was rejected at the Hartford, Conn., induction center because of stomach ulcers.

The Washington senators maintained their grasp on third place with a 5-1 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics.

In the other game of the day the Detroit Tigers also were outhit but beat the St. Louis Browns 3-2. Virgil Trucks held the Browns to four safeties.

College Sports Held More Certain Now

CHICAGO, April 30 (AP)—The continuation of college athletics is more certain now than it was a year ago, Major John L. Griffith, athletic commissions of the Western Conference declared today.

Griffith said he based his conclusions on several generally known facts and others which he was not at liberty to disclose.

"For one thing," he said "the public knows now that our college athletic facilities designed for peacetime can be of value to the war effort.

"These boys say their sports conditioning enables them to get out of tight places alive and is helpful to them in actual figting."

Griffith said that all western conference schools, as well as Notre Dame and several other midwest independents, are making sure their spring sport programs go through. He declared that although few of the nine football-playing big ten members have any idea of what gridders will be available by next fall, they intend to engage in the fullest possible schedule of games.

Navy Cadets Say Sammy Baugh Tops In Football

By The Associated Press

ATHENS, Ga. — Who is pro football's No. 1 player? Slingin' Sammy Baugh, say aviation cadets at the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school here.

The question put to Navy's combat flyers of tomorrow was: If you owned a professional football team and were permitted to select any one player in the National Football league for your team, whom would you choose?

Their answers proved these cadets air-minded in more ways than one. One out of every four named Baugh, the Washington Redskins, celebrated backfield player. Next, they'd like to have Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers, just as famous a pass-receiver as Baugh is a passer.

Others who scored heavily in the poll included Davey O'Brien, who, like Baugh, gained fame as a pigskin aerial artist at Texas Christian university before he went to the National league as a member of the Philadelphia club, and Sid Luckman, who tossed passes at Columbia before joining the Chicago Cardinals.

Devotees of the ground-school type of play voted for such flashy runners as George McAfee of Duke and the Chicago Bears and wild Bill Osmanski, also of the Bears. Most popular linemen in the poll were Clyde "Bulldog" Turner, the huge center who went to the Bears from Hardin-Simmons university, and Danny Fortmann, the burly guard of Colgate university and the Bears.

"Baugh's accurate and bulletlike passes and his long-distance punting coupled with his not-too-sensational running, make him my No. 1 choice," said Cadet M. J. Winck of New Orleans, La.

Cadet C. R. Blalock of Oklahoma City, Okla., admires Baugh's gameness. "Baugh's outstanding ability is well known," commented Cadet Blalock, "and he has the respect of all opposing players, as well as his teammates. Baugh isn't a big fellow as pro football players go, but he has never asked any quarter from any of them. He takes beatings that would be hard on much sturdier fellows, but he always comes back and proves all over again his right to stardom."

Football-wise officers at the preflight school backed up the cadets on their choice of Baugh.

"Why that's no question," exclaimed Ensign Frank J. Filchock, former Redskins' back, "there can be only one answer to that, Sammy Baugh is the greatest quick-kicker and punter I have ever seen. He's a great field-general and he's a good runner and a strong defensive player."

Others who named Baugh as pro football's outstanding player included Lieut. Comdr. Madison "Matty" Bell, former Southern Methodist university mentor; Ensign Ray Mallouf, who was some shakes as a passer himself at SMU and with the Chicago Cardinals; Ensign Bill Davis, former Chicago Cardinal tackle.

NEW YORK, April 30—(AP)—Don't be surprised if you see a lot of Pros playing football in the Western Conference next fall (and no wisecracks now.) The tip is out that the big ten is about to okay the former play-for-players who are sent to the colleges by the armed services for training.

ONE MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The Reds need only three more victories and they'll have the national League Pennant practically cinched. In each of the two years they won the pennant, 1939 and 1940, they won seven of their first ten games, the count so far is 4 and 3. In Dealing

The first reaction, when President Roosevelt told us that the Japanese had executed some of Jimmy Doolittle's Tokyo bombers, was "an eye for an eye"—let's murder man for man.

But we are civilized from the heart out, and not merely from the skin part way in. We aren't Japs and we aren't Huns. The hysterical demand for revenge in kind left its sponsors feeling a bit ashamed of themselves.

Now we have time to consider more calmly what we should do, and why. With the deepest horror and loathing, in full recognition that the "men" who could do such a thing are not men, but a particularly low form of animal life, we might as well face certain facts.

To execute Jap for Jap, with or without torture, would not bring back to life the heroes who have been murdered in Tokyo, nor would it salve the wounds of those who have been tortured but not killed.

To execute Jap for Jap, or ten for one, or to torture all the Japs in our hands with every device ever created by sadists, would not influence the fate of American fighting men who may fall into Nipponese hands in the future.

To the Japanese, human life is of no account except as it may contribute to their own welfare. They will use against us our humane instincts, knowing that we will not sink to their level—and not caring particularly whether we do—for once a Jap has been captured, so that he no longer can fight for the Mikado, he is written off the books.

Nobody with influence in Tokyo is interested in anything we might do to those we hold prsoner. If anything, they might rather like to have us get rough. That would give them a new argument why their soldiers should die in their tracks rather than surrender or permit themselves to be taken alive.

Common sense, then, coincides with humanity in forbidding that we debase ourselves even slightly to salve our scarified feeling.

So what shall we do? Must we sit supinely and weep? Indeed not.

Let's buy bonds down to the last dollar. Let's produce arms and munitions to the last pound of raw materials. Let's forget our selfish bickerings and lay aside our ideologies and suspend our class warfare.

Really at War

Rumors that the United States is at war have now been verified from the nation's capital. An agency known as the War Production Board sends word that production of baby carriages this year will exceed the pre-war average and is expected to supply a demand for 900,000 carriages and 13,500 strollers, baby-walkers and sulkies.

Declarations, proclamations, drafts, shortages, expeditionary forces and casualty lists are good preliminary signposts. But a boom in the baby market is the unarguable evidence that a people is in the midst of total war.

The Nation's Press

OUT OF THE NIGHT
(The Daily Oklahoman)

If a second class dairyman from, say the Blanchard community, comes into Oklahoma City to spend a Sunday with his married daughter, he can bring her a pound of butter at his peril. If he gives her the pound of butter without collecting certain points, he will be subject to the severest kind of punishment. For some lineal descendant of Baalam's linguistic steed has decreed that the gift of a pound of butter to a member of the giver's own family is an offense against society and is punishable by a sentence several times as severe as the one imposed upon the dope runner who imports heroin wholesale from Mexico.

Meanwhile there is no ceiling at all on the countless thousands of food lockers and no effective restraint upon the citizen who is willing to horde sufficient food to feed many hunger driven families.

This latest order which forbids the downright gift of rations is the twin brother of that sapient order which suspended for a season the practice of slicing bread. And this ban upon food gifts is destined to go the way that the ban on bread slicing went. For both of those idiotic orders came from bureaucrats who have not yet learned that the American people are nothing like so moronic as the authors of those fly blown orders are.

THE SEA WAR
(The New York Times)

Secretary Knox's statement yesterday that shipping losses in the Atlantic have taken a turn for the worse is a badly needed reminder that our first front is not in Tunisia but on the sea that separates us from our troops. That is where the war against Hitler will be won or lost. The single most critical factor in the entire situation is whether we can beat the German submarines and by beating them carry an uninterrupted flow of weapons and supplies to our own armies and those of our allies.

If this primary fact is still not understood at its full importance by the American public it is entirely because of the confused and confusing policy that has been followed with respect to shipping losses. For many months a strict censorship has forbidden the publication of any and all figures. This policy, it is true, has kept the enemy somewhat in the dark regarding the damage he has done. But it has not kept him nearly so much in the dark as it has kept the American public. All we have had is a series of isolated statements and predictions—now cheery, now somber, as in the present case—depending upon the situation as it shaped itself at the moment. There has been no yardstick by which to measure the long-term trend. This officially imposed ignorance has led the public greatly to misunderstand the whole problem involved in taking the offensive and greatly to underestimate the terrific difficulties which our military and naval leaders face. The result is that the submarine war remains to this day in the minds of most Americans a mere sideshow that turns up only occasionally in the headlines. Actually, it is the critical engagement of the war. And if the American public now recognized the full gravity of the submarine menace it would bring the same sort of pressure to bear that it did in an earlier stage to make sure that air power was given its proper role.

We believe that a full and ungarnished statement of Allied losses would help our own side more than it would help our enemies. But if the objections of our Navy department and of the British Admiralty to such a policy of frankness

HOW WE SHOULD PAY FOR THE WAR

Congress is not performing the service it should perform in its dilly-dallying method in adopting a tax plan for 1943 and in its refusal to tax enough to pay for our government costs as we go along.

It would leave the impression by this neglect that there is some magical way, some black art by which the consumer and worker will not have to pay eventually for the entire cost of the war, in proportion as he consumes.

Spent 58 Per Cent More in '42

In 1942, the amount of consumers non-durable goods absorbed in our country was 58 per cent above the level consumed during the period of 1935 to 1939 before the war. Why should people during war time consume more goods of any kind than they were able to consume when there was no war? Only because they have votes. What most voters do not understand is that for every dollar they consume now, they will have to do without more than a dollar in lower wages or higher costs after the war.

The practical democratic way, the American way, the Christian way of paying for our government and war expenses is to put on a consumer tax in one of the two following methods:

Have every consumer purchase from the government through the post office, consumer stamps to go with every purchase they make of consumer goods or services. And the percentage of stamps required with every purchase should be large enough so that the total amount equals our total government expenditures. In other words, if we need a $60,000,000,000 on a $100,000,000,000 income, let the tax be 60 per cent. Every time a man spends a dollar for consumable goods, compel him to buy 60 cents worth of consumer stamps. These consumer stamps would be given by the purchaser to the man from whom he buys the goods or services.

This method would compel the well-to-do, who hire services, to pay a tax on this form of consumption. This kind of a tax would be a tax based on a single standard of rightness. All people would be equal before the law. It would not be possible for the wasteful rich to live in luxury without paying in the same proportion as the poorer worker pays on what he consumes. Nor would it be possible for those who are now getting big money because of threats of strikes and war demand for labor, to have so much money to spend for non-essentials which is causing price ceilings and inflation.

Another method of having a single standard of taxation, instead of a double or multiple standard as we have now, would be to put a sales tax on all consumable goods and require every individual who purchased services to get a license or buy coupon consumer stamps so that those who were buying personal services would be obliged to pay the same tax on services as on things.

Either one of these methods would do away with one of the principal objections of a sales tax; that a sales tax does not tax the services, which the well-to-do use in greater quantities than the poor use them, on the same basis as the poor are taxed on commodities, which is practically the only thing consumed by the poorer class.

If we adopted one of these methods of taxation, we could release thousands and thousands of government officials now checking the multiple forms of rationing and taxation.

This form of taxation would enable us to have the greatest prosperity any country ever had after the war is over. This is true because we would then have a single standard of morals in taxation and we could now be saving up some capital reserves to furnish better tools after the war so that the workers could produce more and, thus, earn and consume more.

Preparing to

Administrator Brown is facing the probability of a test to determine just how far limited grants of wartime authority can be stretched.

Laymen have assumed that the Emergency Price Control Act of 1942 just about suspended peacetime restrictions upon federal powers in this field. But some industries, feeling that they haave turned the other cheek until they are dizzy, have read the text, and have discovered that there is a statutory ceiling upon OPA's actions.

A field day for lawyers is predicted unless—and here is the government's out—unless OPA conforms its program with the War Production Board's, so as to take advantage of Donald Nelson's broader powers.

Perversion of news is equally abhorrent to the principles of the First Amendment and cannot be tolerated on the part of the OWI or any other government agency.

It is the duty of Congress to examine both angles.

RED TAPE NAILS KAISER
(Illinois State Journal)

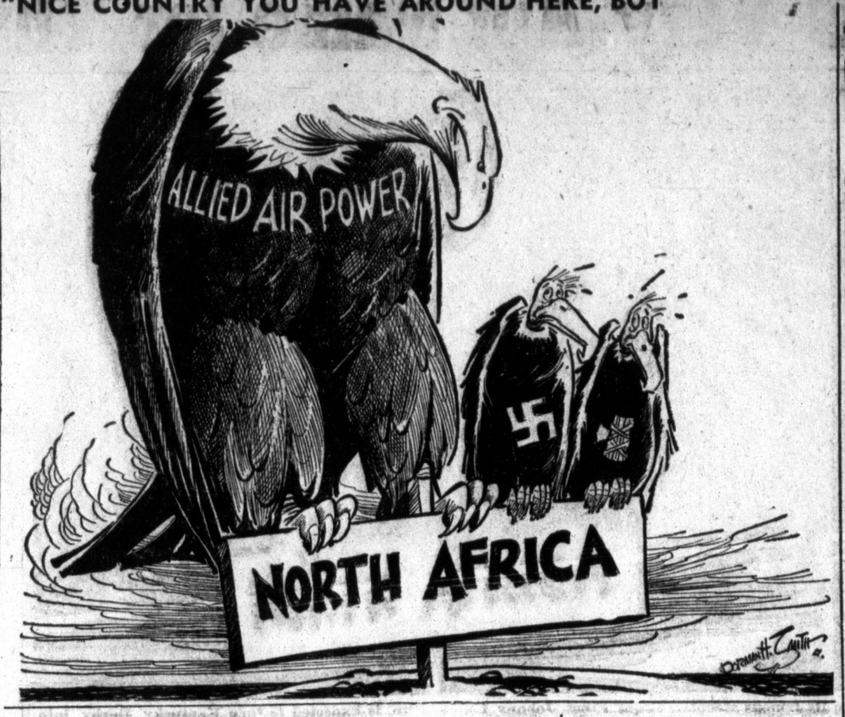

Many persons have felt all along that the report of Henry Kaiser's progress in shipbuilding was too good to be true. We have had a sort of premonition of tangled grass in the offing.

We are now told that a checkup of Mr. Kaiser's work shows that in six months he has violated some 30-odd priorities regulations, of which he had never heard until he was tipped off by the press.

"It is a sad commentary," remarked the crestfallen Mr. Kaiser, "that American business men should receive from the newspapers information that they are not acting in accordance with the law of the country before they receive the information from the war production board itself."

Let Mr. Kaiser console himself. Practically every man who is working overtime these days is getting himself entangled in some sort of Washington red tape. He has plenty of company and he will have more of it before all the intolerable "regulations" are revoked. There will be more bureaucratic bricks, and harder ones, flying in Mr. Kaiser's direction when the job's done.

The National Whirligig
News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

VALUE: Northern Michigan interests have stirred up a row about the war production board's order halting completion of six iron ore docks at Escanaba in the upper peninsula. They contend that failure to finish the project may jeopardize the war effort in so far as it involves weapons manufactured from steel—and that includes pretty nearly everything.

From upper lake ports like Duluth and Superior flows an annual stream of this commodity to feed the furnaces of Ohio and Indiana. Last year, by taking advantage of extremely favorable weather conditions which have not been duplicated this spring, and by reducing shipmnts of coal, grain, flour and other products, operators moved out about ninety-two million tons. With a wave of one of those wands at Washington some invisible official has boosted the 1943 quota to ninety-five million tons.

As the ice broke this year about a month later than last, experts familiar with the situation along Lake Superior, St. Mary's river, the Straits of Makinac and near-by waters maintain that this pretentious total cannot possibly be met.

There is another danger that originally impelld WPB to plan the Escanaba program. In the present transportation setup the cargoes must pass through the Soo locks and the narrow Makinac Straits to get to Gary and Conneaut, Ohio, the main Middle Western receiving points.

Although the idea of blocking these passageways by enemy bombing or sabotage may impress laymn as fantastic, it does not strike military experts that way, including the president. Flying the great circle are, suicidal Nazi planes could damage the installations. So could the Japs, on a hazardous flight from their Aleutian bases.

And in view of the fact that ninety per cent of the raw mineral necesary for ships, planes, tanks, artillery and ammunition sails through these bottlenecks their strategic value is obvious to Washington as well as to Berlin and Tokyo.

STEEL: An alternative route from the metal deposits to the mills—as any map shows—is a railroad skirting th northern peninsula and terminating at Escanaba. Use of such facilities would obviate shipments through the Soo and Makinac funnels and other seasonal frozen spaces. It would also lessen the distance by almost three hundred miles to Ohio centers and by more than five hundred to Indiana cities.

For these reasons WPB decreed last summer that piers, trackage and freight yards should be built at Escanaba. In normal times the moving of minerals by other means than water would be unjustifiably uneconomical. But Washington is doing many things these days for reasons of military necessity rather than of common sense. At any rate Donald Nelson's men figured that the stand-by project of six new ore-dumping docks should be rushed. Then, a few weeks ago, with hardly any publicity, construction of four was canceled; two others will be left in a partially completed state.

Waiving the more fundamental question of national defense exigencies, discontinuance means that several million dollars as well as much labor, time and materials have been wasted. Either WPB was wrong in the first instance or it is blundering now, according to the complainants.

Angry Michiganites attribute the countermanding to inside pressure exerted by the United States Steel corporation. They point out that the new rail route, if used extensively, would provide competition for that company's own line, the Duluth, Missage and Iron Range, and for its Pittsburgh steamship company, which owns seventy cargo carirers. Apart from the profit it nets from these operations, this transportation ownership permits the big Eastern firm to influence shipping costs, not to mention the final price of ore at the mill.

BETTING: One of the wackiest bits of Eleanoriana exer exploded has just reached the capital. Like several other myths about Mrs. Roosevelt which she has ordered the Federal Bureau of Investigation to explore, it is not true. Its significance lies in its revelation of the feminine bitterness which her writings and nonchalant goings-on have engendered.

At a navy mothers' meeting in a Southern metropolis a woman speaker described the First Lady's warship launchings. Mrs. Roosevelt, according to the orator, had christened scores of ships. Each time, so the tale ran, she had insisted on smashing the champagne bottle with her left hand, although sailors regard a southpaw swing on such occasions as a sure augury of bad luck and heavy weather.

"And you know, my dears," the lecturer confided, "the great majority of those poor vessels have gone to the bottom"

The substance of this yarn has no basis in fact but in view of authnticated evidence of the political damage the presidents' helpmate is doing her distinguished husband, Washington observers are wondering how long he will subside in a magnificent way (perhaps even quitting the column business) if he runs again.

Around Hollywood

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

We privately separate the more objectionable types of movie customers into five distinct categories—the Snerk, the Woofer, the Gasper, the Date and the Crunch.

The Snerk delights in finding boners on the screen. He will sit there as tense and still as a pointer dog until his keen senses detect an anachronism or some other error; then with a luxurious sneer he will turn to his companion and reveal the stupidity of it all in a throaty stage whisper calculated to impress all the other customers seated within three rows of him. Later he will write a very superior letter about it to the studio.

The Woofer, who is fortunately a somewhat rare character in the big cities, becomes so fascinated by the more melodramatic scenes that he comes to think of himself as one of the dramatis personae, and is apt to startle the whole audience at any moment with the cry of, "Look out! He's got a knife." One of our friends, Joan Crawford, is a Woofer.

The Gasper is the lady who is so awe-struck by the heroine's hat that she gasps aloud as though beholding the Grand Canyon. The Date travels in gangs. It is the young jitterbug of either six who goes to the movies with from four to eight of its kind and indulges in hilarious conversation that has absolutely nothing to do with the picture.

And the Crunch thinks that a picture show without candy is like coffee without cream. It sits there freely crunching out an obbligato to the musical score and rattling the paper bag like kettle drums.

BECOMING A SNERK

We have always regarded the Snerk, the Woofer, the Gasper, the Date and the Crunch as among the most hateful of God's creatures. What, then, was our dismay the other evening to discover that we personally were becoming the worst of the lot—an out and out Snerk!

There we were, minding our own business in a darkened theater whil they unraveled "Hello, Frisco, Hello," when it happened.

The set looked pretty authentic, the only discordant note being the comparative calm that prevailed there. Then a big- red-bearded miner played by Laird Cregar got tossed out of a saloon on his head. He got up, dusted himself off, and began to talk about knowing right where he could strike it rich, and about "Ralston's bank."

Then, bingo, the camera took us inside Sharkey's place where the stage curtain had a picture of the Ferry Building on it. We couldn't quite reconcile that with "Ralston's bank" or with gold-nutty prospectors, either.

Then up went the curtain and we saw Alice Faye singing a number over the telephone—a French telephone, too. About that time we got to noticing the costumes, and figured that the actual period of the piece was supposed to be somewhere around 1910 (whereas "Ralton's bank" had ceased to exist as such long about 1870) and that the producers had just decided to skip the earthquake of 1906. We leaned over and mentioned these discrepancies to the little woman.

NO SYMPATHY

"Oh, keep quiet," she said. "I want to enjoy this. You're getting to be a regular Snerk."

"A Snerk.!"

"Yes, a Snerk. You did the same thing the other night when we went to see 'Young Mr. Pitt.' All through the picture you kept muttering because Nelson didn't look the same age as Pitt. You simply ruined the picture for me. Now keep quiet."

We sank back in our seat and brooded. We brooded, in fact, for three days. There was no doubt about it; the little woman was right. Come to thiuk of it, we had snerked at a couple of other pictures, too. And that we remembered a producer named Jeff Lazarus, who confessed to us once that he was a Snerk himself. He was the manager of a San Francisco theater. Every week he would telephone Adolph Zukor, then head of Paramount, and snerk and snerk and snerk. Finally Zukor said, "All right, Lazarus; if you think you can make better films, come down here and try it," Lazarus did. He's been a producer ever since. Our text for today: "It isn't what you know, but who you know that does not know it."

About Canned Goods Labels

BY PETER EDSON
Pampa News Washington Correspondent

If the grade-labeling-of-canned-goods controversy has not yet entered your life, either you are not normal, or where have you been? for this will affect the future of far more Americans than the liberation of India issue, or even the fourth term. Grade labeling is basic stuff, determining the quality of what you eat out of a can, if and when you have point values enough to get a can.

That theory looks simple. All it would require is that every label on every can specify that the contents are either grade A or Fancy, B or Choice, C or Standard. That this should be ordered is the contention of all labor organizations, of all consumer groups, and of practically every alert female organization from Eleanor Roosevelt and the American Association of University Women to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

It is the contention of all these people that grade labeling should be applied to all of the food products canned in 1943 to make price control effective. Otherwise, what's to prevent a canner, a wholesaler or a retailer from up-grading the inferior qualities to sell them at the higher grade prices? Some evidence has been presented by the labor organizations that black market operators and a heel fringe of unscrupulous dealers have been cheating in this manner, so there is an apparent need for protection of the consuming public. The army buys all its canned goods under rigid grading, so why not protect the buying public too?

PRICE CANTROL AND GRADE LABELS

Ex-price Boss Leon Henderson handed down an order last December, just before the citrus fruit canning season began, making grade labeling mandatory on all citrus juices. In February Henderson's successor, ex-Senator Prentiss M. Brown, also held that grade labeling was necessary and in the last few weeks grade-labeling orders have been issued for four other canned foods—tomatoes, peas, corn and snap beans. But recently Mr. Brown has indicated these orders may not be enforced and for this back-tracking he is being panned unmercifully by all grade-labeling advocates.

Turn now to the other side of the wrapper to see what are the objections to grade labeling as an adjunct to price control. Take a specific example—canned corn coming into Washington, D. C.

Ordinarily, Washington grocery stores get their canned corn from seven or more canning areas — Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maine, New York, Indiana and Minnesota. Under price control, the price is determined by canners' costs plus reasonable mark-up plus transportation. Assuming even that all canners' costs and all mark-ups were the same, which they're not, the varying transportation costs would mean that Grade A corn coming from these areas might be priced at 16, 17, 18, 19 or 20 cents, while Grade B corn from these same areas would sell for 14, 15, 16, 17 or 18 cents. Thus there would be some Grade B corn selling for as much as or more than some Grade A corn. From the retailer's point of view, the B corn just would not sell as lang as there was any A corn on the shelves and it might just add to the confusion.

IMPRINT PROBLEMS

A second point of protest from the canners is based on the fear of difficulty in finding enough federal inspectors to grade the pack as it goes through their plants. The canning industry already faces a manpower shortage for this season's work.

Third, the canners say it will be difficult if not impossible for them to imprint grade specifications on their labels, most of which have already been printed for this year. Many of the labels are varnished and will take only an aluminum ink, which is difficult to get. Stamping them sounds easy, till you consider how many hundreds of millions of cans there are to handle.

What worries the canners most of all, however, is the provision that all grade labeling must be in accordance with the standards set up under the federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. This one is tough and involved. So involved, in fact, that it will have to be considered separately in the next issue.

Today's War Analysis

(By The Associated Press)

We may be getting close to the denouement of the Caucasian drama—Fuehrer Hitler's protracted and bloody effort to crack this gateway to the Russian oil.

The Nazis and the Reds have been sparring for position in the Kuban sector where the Boche hold a bridgehead on the Caucasian shore opposite the Crimea, as well as the important naval port of Novorossisk. Hitler apparently has been hoping that this might be his open sesame to the Caucasus if he could get an offensive under way.

The All Highest's scheme—as your may will make clear—has been to use the Crimea as a spring-board from which he could fling an army across the narrow Kerch strait to his bridgehead.

The opposing forces have been stabbing and feinting at each other, and observers have noted that the advantage might lie with the side which could begin an offensive first. Now Berlin announces that the Russians launched their expected "large scale attack" against the bridgehead early yesterday morning.

This may mean that the Reds have beaten the Nazis to the punch. We shall see in due course.

The spring mud is fast drying out cn the Kuban delta, and the ground in the Crimea also has become firm enough to provide the Luftwaffe with bases from which to strike at the Russians on the mainland.

The Hitlerites have reinforced their armies in the Kuban with a considerable number of Rumanian troops. Apparently Hitler is forced to conserve his own first line men.

While the Nazis have put reinforcements onto the mainland, they are reported to be having an unhappy time protecting their supply lines across the Kerch strait. The Reds have flung additional air strength into the conflict and this has been raising hob with the German communications.

CHIEF'S WELCOME

CHAPTER XXIII

BARRY woke heavy-headed and listless to the dismal sound of an early thunder shower. The soggy heat told him it was already late. He pulled himself out of bed, showered and dressed. This was his third day of fever, he told himself resignedly. It would probably reach its peak today, each attack seeming to be a three-day affair. He had been increasingly miserable in the two days following Renaldo's party, aching exhaustion in the morning and chills and rising fever as the afternoon wore on. He had been little help in the final molding and stamping of the chicle.

He hurried out, through the quiet, empty hall of the estancia. Heavy sheets of rain dimmed the clearing and the high green wall of the jungle. The Indians' shacks crouched forlornly in the distance.

"Good morning, darling. How do you feel?"

He turned to see Lila in the doorway. "Much better, thanks," Barry told her.

The Indian woman brought his food. Barry drank scalding black coffee. He grinned at Lila and patted her slim hand. "Thanks for the spot of nursing last night, Beautiful."

"I'll be glad to get you back to civilization where there are some decent doctors and equipment," she said.

"They won't help much," Barry said cheerfully. "Just a matter of wearing the blasted stuff down."

"Nonsense," retorted Lila with a touch of irritation. "You're getting as fatalistic as these stupid natives."

Barry chuckled. "They're not so stupid," he retorted.

SHE dropped the subject lightly.

After a minute she said, "I think you'll be glad to hear that Renaldo's gone to the new grove. I told him how desperate you were to get started so he left an old Indian in charge of finishing the chicle here."

"Good!" cried Barry. "Then in a couple of days we'll be ready for our call on Moncha Suma. If we just come out all right with the old bird—!"

"You'll come out all right, I know you will," Lila murmured, her smile deep and assured.

Barry squeezed her hand gratefully. "You're a good sport, Lila."

The slashing rain stopped abruptly, as though it had been turned off. Steam rose from the hot ground of the clearing. Down at the Indian shacks now they could see the Indians standing around one of the thatched-roof huts in close groups. A strange murmur came from them.

"What is it?" Barry was watching them curiously. "It sounds like they're chanting."

"Let them chant," said Lila. She rose from the table and pulled him toward the estancia door. "Let's pack your things so that when you get back from Moncha Suma's—"

But Barry's gaze was still on the native demonstration. "Wonder what's up?" When she refused to go with him, he set out across the clearing alone.

Barry made his way to the door of the hut. He stepped across the threshold and halted in amazement.

On a rough table in the steamy hut, there were two tubs of water. As a wiry little Indian and his moaning wife looked on in stolid suffering, Allison dipped a tiny black baby first in one tub and then in the other!

"What on earth is going on here?" cried Barry.

Allison glanced over her shoulder. There was a look of frenzied absorption on her face. "Convulsions," she said briefly. "I had 'em when I was a baby."

Barry strode up to her. The tiny black limbs of the child in her arms were twisting in strange contortions. "What are you doing with it?" he cried, alarmed.

"Hot water—cold water," Allison snapped lowering the small black body into the other tub. "My nurse used to do it to me. Bring me that kettle on the stove!"

Barry brought it and poured steaming water into the hot tub.

"Hot as the trinket can stand it without blistering," Allison ordered. She went on dipping. The Indian woman's moans continued, and the low chanting came from outside.

Cold apprehension rose in Barry. The crazy little dabbler was playing with fire this time. What imp of Satan had tempted her to tinker with the life of an Indian child? They'd blame her if it died. And it looked right now as if that's just what it was doing. The small black body writhed in convulsive agony, then abruptly stiffened. The tiny face was black and mottled, the eyes glazed.

The Indian woman's moans rose shrilly.

ALLISON'S white little jaw tightened.

"Hotter," she whispered to Barry through clenched teeth. "Hotter still." Only he could hear the desperation in her muted tones as she went on dipping with feverish speed, not breathing—back—forth—back—forth. . . .

All at once the stiffened little body relaxed. It was the death spasm. . . !

But no. The glazed eyes twitched. The arms and legs began to nestle normally in the circle of Allison's arms. The baby gave a choking whimper!

Barry took his first deep breath as he went back across the clearing with Allison.

"Beginner's luck," he told her. "You'll be the miracle woman to them now. But I wouldn't try that again."

Allison looked up at him. Her eyes were wide with piteous fear and she was trembling all over. "Why did I stick my big foot in?" she whispered. "What if—what if—?"

Barry whooped with amusement. "You're the battiest little screwball," he told her. "Your scare reflex is wired in wrong. It always begins to twitch after the danger instead of before!"

As they neared the house they saw Lila on the shaded veranda talking to a half-naked Indian. She called to Barry in a voice of controlled excitement,

"He says he's a Quiche."

Barry's laughter died. His throat constricted with shock. He took the veranda stairs three at a time, cursing himself for going without his gun.

The tall, dark Indian gave him a piercing look. "You Mis-tair Fielding?"

Barry nodded.

With a swift movement, the Indian reached out a long brown arm and opened his fingers. A folded paper lay in the dark palm.

Barry opened it and read it. It said in a painstaking, flowing script,

"Will you return to my house now to talk of the mines?"

It was signed by the Chief of the Quiches!

China Transport Pilot Describes Hectic Flights

BL LILLIAN CALLIF

NEW YORK, April 29—(AP)—You can take it from "Dude" Higgs, who knows; when you're flying a cargo plane without guns and a Jap Zero comes along, you eitrer hide in the clouds or you leave the scene—but quickly.

And you also can take it from war material and passengers for the last civilian air line over a war zone is far more exciting than actual aerial combat.

Capt. Frank L. Higgs of Columbus, Ohio, back in the states for a few weeks to procure lend-lease planer and Ferry pilots for China, has done both. For three years he fought the Japs in China—and the day after Pearl Harbor he was in Hong Kong as chief pilot of the China National Aviation Corporation—the first pilot there to evacuate civilians to free China.

Capt. Higgs, with more than 6,000 flying hours to his credit, experienced more than 20 air raids; fought in China and Burma as a member of the American Flying Tigers; helped evacuate the Tigers from Burma; conducted a combat such notables as Generalissimo and Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek and Wendell L. Willkie, when he visited China on his world tour.

But the most excitement in that exciting career, he said in an interview, was during the Hong Kong period, when he was ferrying as many as 80 evacuees per trip from the city of Free China. Both the British and the Japs fired on him.

"I was getting ack-ack from both sides", he grinned. "The runway was mined and I had to bring my cargo plane down on a tiny strip, that was something.

"I'd load up at Hong Kong and leave at dawn. During the day I'd stay in Chungking, so the Japs couldn't bomb my plane. Then I'd fly back to Hong Kong at night for another load of passengers. You can't possibly picture what it was like.

"I had to stand at the door of the plane witr a machine run trained on the crowds of people trying to claw their way into the plane. We couldn't remove everyone and each trip we carried from 20 to 30 more people than we should have."

EDITORIAL ECHOES

KEEP IT TO YOURSELF

Practically every day you hear the slogan, "A slip of the lip might sink a ship."

This holds in Pampa and Junior High as well as on the coast. Oftentimes the brother of a boy at front can harm his own brother by talking about his moves.

The unknowing saboteur is the boy who is naturally proud of his brother. He tells the good news to Bob, a friend, "My brother is leaving for the front Wednesday." That afternoon Bob is talking to Joe downtown. A man overhears about Johnny's brother. Then there is a radio set, a submarine, a torpedo, and the sinking of one of our ships.

We will not win this war if the enemy knows every step we are going to take. "A slip of the lip might sink a ship."

Burke Mordy.

DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE

One more month of school may be like the last few seconds in a race. For some who are trailing, this is an opportunity to take a little long stride and get nearer the front. For others it means running ahead of the man who was at the front all along.

Skipping school harms no one except the fellow who stays out. Skipping school is not smart.

Ambition makes a fellow wish to get all he can and make the "grade" when he gets out in the world. Let's get the habit of working hard and staying with our studies until the last lap.

Billy Parker

TO KEEP OUR FREEDOM

Our enemy has only one idea—to kill until they conquer the world. Then by the whip, the sword, and the gallows, they will rule. No longer will we be free to speak or write our thoughts, to worship as we please, or to be free from want and fear.

Only our dead will be free. Only the host who will fall before the enemy will know peace. Civilization will be set back a thousand yeors.

We can not think of this war as of others. You cannot regard your foe this time simply as people with a wrong idea. This time we must win or die. This time we have no second choice. This time we must free the world or lose it all.

Surely that is worth the best fight of our lives–worth anything that we can give or do.

Milton Nichols

KEEP YOUR COURTESY CARD

Persons with Courtesy Cards should appreciate them and keep them. Act like ladies and gentlemen to get one and keep on acting that way to keep it.

Some ninth grade boys could have improved their conduct at the Junior play in our auditorium last Thursday night. Do unto others as yo wold have them do unto you. Remember whose child you are. You represent this school, this town, this state, this nation, and your Creator.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

Did you ever miss a fly and the spectators razzed you? Just take it on the chin and do better next time.

Did you ever hear the rest of the team blame one person for losing the game with one mistake? Think of the other chances that might have won the game. Never place one person responsible—especially if you were on the team. The first baseman's error or the fielder's miss may have been noticeable, but it took the entire team's work to lose or win that game.

Did you ever congratulate the opposition when they made a good play? Try it. It does you good. It encourages good sportsmanship on both sides.

Scouts All Set For Camporee

BY LONNIE WILLIAMS

Boys in Junior High who expect to participate in the Camporee this weekend are trying to qualify for the rigid test in the Emergency Service Corps.

The following requirements have not been achieved by any one boy yet: rope climbing, a mile in eight and one-half minutes, be physically fit, and pass the following badges: First Aid, Firemanship, Pioneering, Public Health, and Safety.

Alverna Miller Wins Eighth Grade Essay

"The Real Test" written by Alverna Miller was the theme given first place in the Eighth grade Ready Writer contest held in Mrs. John Rankin's room two weeks ago as part of the school intramurals. All other winning themes were entitled, "Johnny Doughboy."

Five theme subjects were given. Bobby Lou McClendon won the ninth grade contest. Her theme was published last week. This theme written by Alverna Miller is a short short story and follows below:

A REAL TEST

My home town is only a little "spot in the road," so you can see why our gang always welcomed anything new or exciting.

Things had been growing very dull, and the gang was disgusted with the whole situation, when there arrived at school one day a new boy, one Kris Finkle. He was a Jewish refugee who had just arrived from Germany. We did not particularly like his appearance. He was not wealthy (as for that matter none of us could claim), and he dressed a little strangely. He could only speak a little broken English.

For this reason we more or less shunned him. He looked pretty lonely, but none of us could be bothered with him. He had no friends, whatever. Even the Goldsteins, the people he lived with, treated him coldly.

At first he tried to be friendly with us, wanted to play ball with the boys out on the back lot. But after we continually treated him coldly, he quit bothering us.

He had been in town two months when the new ruling was passed that no aliens could attend public school. He came up the day afterwards and checked out. We thought we were finally rid of him, and now we might breathe freely again.

How mistaken we were! So much "sand" was raised about the new law, they finally revoked it. So Kris came back to school.

One afternoon the boys were out on the back lot, as usual playing ball. Little Tommy Rowe was with us, chasing balls, and being a regular "Fetch-and-Carry-er." One of the fellows knocked a homer, and it went out into the street. Little Tommy started after it. It was then that we noticed the truck. Too late! We all yelled, but it was upon Tommy before he knew it.

Then a dark figure rushed from behind a parked car and pushed little Tommy into safety, but the truck got him. The driver finally managed to get the truck under control. We all ran to the scene of the accident. Then our eyes almost fell out of our heads! There lay Kris Finkle. It was he who at the cost of his own life saved little Tommy.

"Hello, fellas," he said in a weak voice.

We just stood there and stared.

"Are you hurt?" someone asked.

"No, not me," he replied.

Somehow, we knew he was. He died a few hours later.

You can imagine how we felt. After treating him so coldly, thinking him no-good, when it came to the REAL TEST, he had proved the metal of his soul.

Sixth Grade Science Goes Patriotic

Room 116 has a patriotic air with the food posters tacked about everywhere.

These posters were made by Miss Orveta Puett's Sixth grade science classes. They read: "To Leave Food on Your Plate is Sabotage," "An Apple for the Axis," and "Don't Feed the Trash Can." The idea expressed is that Americans must save every bit of food so that we may win the war with food as well as ammunition and men.

Eighth Grade Selects Baker, Mayes Editors

Officers for the remainder of the school year in Eighth grade journalism show two girls and two boys: Beverly Baker, editor; Laddie Mayes, assistant editor; Jack Perry, business manager; and Marjorie Sloan, dunce cap custodian. Miss Orveta Puett is the sponsor.

Each student in the journalism class has a standing assignment for each week.

Hard Working Students Make A and B Honor Roll

"Look at the A's!" Many students exclaimed their ah's when the cards came out last week. But this time the cards were sprinkled with U's for conduct in some classes where U's had been unknown. This reminded students that there is still one more stretch to go.

Our famous Quiz Kids who know all or most of the answers are listed below. These facts came from homeroom teachers.

Sixth Grade

Chatter

By some coincidence some several freshmen boys going out for Harvester spring training are taking first aid at third hour. Maybe they think that with so many doctors going into the army, they may have to patch each other up next year.

Everybody in Junior High, and particularly some Ninth grade girls, are missing Charlie Hatcher who is in Lubbock for a knee operation.

Charlie Beard lingers near the Reaper office at third period for some known reason.

Voting for Best citizens was held in all Ninth grade rooms Wednesday at third hour.

Homeroom 211 will have a hayride the 30th.

Ninth grade students are eagerly looking forward to the breakfast and theatre party, the picnic and track meet, and the final Thursday of graduation.

The Easter holidays brought harder work to some students than they would have had at school.

The teachers are really pouring it on since the holidays, too.

Patrol leaders with their sponsors, Mr. Hayden Morgan, were excused from school last Thursday afternoon with a half holiday in the park with refreshments. Baseball was the major attraction. Wanda Gordon and Calvin McAdams were in charge of refreshments of cheese sandwiches and pop.

Students in Room 117 have selected new Students of the Week, naming a new student Guylyn Floyd as one and Frank Hinds as the other. Some students may remember when Guylyn was a grade school girl. She comes recently from Los Angeles.

Bulletin boards in the halls bring back stories and tales of the Revolutionary War days when the Minute Men were in action.

Pictures of Andrew Jackson, the famous president, and George Washington, the Father of our country, in several poses are conspicuous. The picture is present of Nathan Hale whose picture is found on some one-cent stamps.

The blackboard at the back of the room in 212 is used for displaying in colored crayons the Student of the Week. Last week it advertised the Teacher of the Week, the homeroom teacher, Mr. John Harnley. Mr. Harnley is math teacher and quite a tease with his homeroom, they report.

An aquarium and a terrarium cause many an interesting hour. Green plants grow in boxes along the windows and are in vases on the tables.

Second-hour Seventh science has chosen the study of controlling animal pests which includes these toppets, pests that bother animals, pests pets, pest that bother animals, pests that disturb people, and how to control pests.

The unit is causing a great amount of discussion and the boys say it is interesting.

Sixty Non-Commissioned Officers To Take Three Tests in Drill

Sixty non-commisioned officers from Military Drill took the written test one day last week in view of making one of the nine openings for second lieutenant.

Throughout the year nine platoons have been formed. From the corporals and sergeants in these groups, the directors will choose after three tests nine boys and girls (six of them boys) to be commissioned officers.

Written testing is only one-third of the program. An interview and actual drilling comes into picture for choosing the nine students states Mr. Winston Savage, principal. Directors have been Mr. Hayden Morgan, Mr. Haskell Folsom and Miss Nadine Wilson.

Grades in the written test ranged from 88 to 46. The top nine may not be the nine lieutenants chosen since two more tests may make up for this low written grade say the directors.

Candidates are listed below in groups of boys and girls separately with the highest written tests coming first in each list.

Misses Denton, Leaverton Assist In Saving Lives In Burning Home

Two members of the Junior High facuity, Misses Virdie Denton and Essie Mae Leaverton, were with a group of Easter vacationers passing along near Goodlet last Thursday night, who warned a sleeping farm family of their burning home and saved their lives.

Four teachers from White Deer, a child, and the Pampa teachers had passed a home which was beginning to burn when Miss Denton persuaded the driver to stop and see if anyone might be inside the home.

They called from all sides of the house and finally roused the father on the north side of the house. They felt that they saved the lives of these people because the fire was coming from the side where the three children were sleeping. The mother and small child were visiting in another place.

A brooder set the house on fire as it burned near the corner of the dwelling. Miss Denton said that while waking the children in the south side of the house, she could have touched the flames burning so near them.

Two soldiers came along and helped salvage the furniture by breaking windows in one of the rooms. On the return trip the Panhandle group stopped by and could see in the ruins two bedsteads they did not get and a pressure cooker which showed up in the ashes. The house burned to the ground in a short time which made the Pampans believe that they really saved the lives of this family.

Neighbors did not reach the house until after it had finished burning. As the travelers went through Quanah, they notified a citizen of the disaster. A purse was made up among those who helped with the fire for the immediate use of the family.
