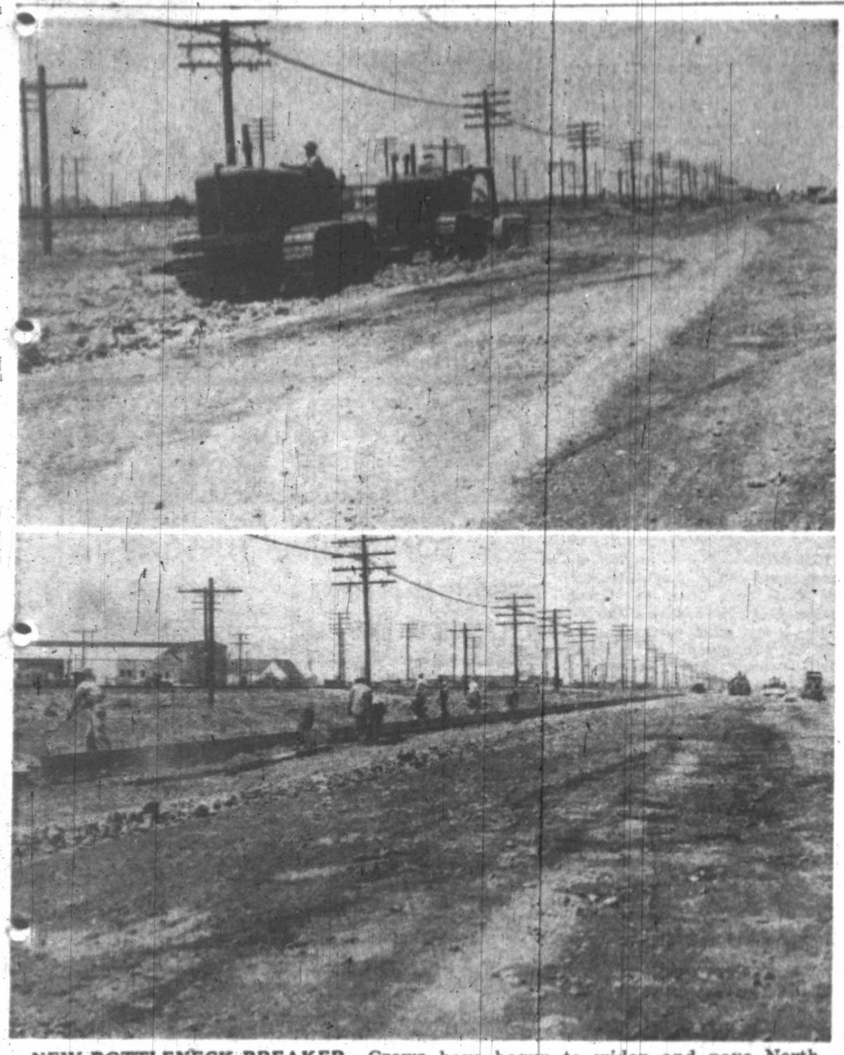
Eisenhower Flays Taft Delegate Steal



NEW BOTTLENECK BREAKER—Crews have begun to widen and pave North Front Street, above, in order to channel Highway 80 traffic directly through the city with minimum congestion. Wall Street will retain its highway signs as an alternate business route. Engineers expect the job, which began last week on the western end, to be completed early this Summer.

Taft, Exuding Confidence, Offers Olive Branch To Ike

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Taft of Ohio, expressing confidence Saturday that he will win the Republican presidential nomination, said he has "just about 603 or 604 votes."

It takes 604 to nominate.

Taft declared, however, that strategy will determine whether all of these votes are cast for him on the first ballot. He indicated a decision might be made to hold some back.

The camp of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower immediately branded Taft's remarks as "the most ludicrous of this campaign."

At a news conference, Taft held out the olive branch to Eisenhower on foreign policy and in the dispute over Texas presidential nominating delegates. He assumed something of the role of a peacemaker in party affairs.

He departed from this role long enough to criticize what he called "pressure tactics" against delegates he claims in New Jersey and New York.

He jabbed lightly at what he said was Eisenhower's "unwillingness" to criticize President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson on foreign policy.

But on the whole he talked like a man who thinks he has the nomination battle won and is looking toward the patching of party wounds in preparation for the November warfare with the Democrats.

Taft told reporters he thinks John Foster Dulles, named as a special adviser to the GOP Platform Committee, can draft a foreign policy plank acceptable alike to him and to Eisenhower, his chief rival for the nomination.

He said this would remove "the only dangerous element of a split in the party."

Although the five-star general has been quoted as calling Taft an "isolationist," the Ohio senator said blandly he doesn't believe there is any real difference between them on foreign or important domestic policies.

"I don't see any tremendous differences on principle," he said. "Eisenhower possibly puts more emphasis on Europe than I do but it is a difference in methods, not principle."

In the face of charges that his supporters have planned "steamroller" tactics at the Chicago convention, Taft said Eisenhower backers are exerting steamroller pressure through the use of state patronage in New Jersey and New York.

Taft said that if the Republican National Committee looks into the dispute over Texas' 38 delegates — where Eisenhower forces have cried "steal"—it might find "the basis for concessions" in that state's contest.

Eisenhower's backers have contended their delegates were frozen out of a state convention illegally and a pro-Taft delegation picked. They chose their own delegation in a separate convention.

Taft said that so far as he is concerned, delegates chosen for the state convention in areas where "Democrats" packed the county conventions should not be seated. He said it didn't make any difference whether the Democrats were for him or for Eisenhower.

Action Termed Great Betrayal Of State Party

DALLAS—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower bitterly accused the Taft forces in Texas Saturday night of a ruthless steal of Republican National Convention delegates which he called a "Great Betrayal" of the Republican Party and its principles.

"In this case," he said, "the rustlers stole the Texas birthright instead of Texas steers."

Then the general, in the first real fighting speech of his young campaign for the Republican presidential nomination:

1. Invited Democrats and independent voters to join with the Republicans in ousting an administration which he said is "ingrown, inbred and incapable."

2. Called for an "open door policy" with a nation-wide political revival "that will result in a lot of Democratic conversions."

3. Charged a "small clique" of unworthy Republicans in Texas and Louisiana look on the party as "their fenced-in, personal preserve."

Honesty, Fair Play

4. Urged honesty and fair play in the Chicago convention next month because "no political party can tolerate a rigged convention and win."

For the most part, Eisenhower stuck to his prepared text and only departed from it in a few unimportant parts. This was the first time in public he had flayed the political tactics used by the supporters of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, his chief opponent for the GOP presidential nomination.

Time after time the audience in the Baker Hotel—some 700 Eisenhower supporters—cheered the general.

Eisenhower made no allusion to the olive branch held out in Washington by Taft on foreign policy and the Texas dispute.

The general did not call Taft or the Taft forces by name, but there was not the slightest doubt at whom he was shooting in this speech which had been billed as a "rip snorter." He came here from his Denver, Colo., headquarters to deliver this major campaign address.

Eisenhower and Taft forces named rival Texas delegate slates to the national convention in a bitter battle that has split open the state's Republican Party. Taft forces claim the Eisenhower delegates actually were named by Democrats voting under the cloak of Republicanism.

Reviewing this situation, Eisenhower said:

"A good many weeks ago I heard how your young people here in Tex-

Stay Out Of Texas' Scrap, Nolte Warns Ike's Backers

SAN ANTONIO —(AP)— A San Antonio Taft backer Saturday told out-of-state Eisenhower backers to keep their "pink noses" out of the Texas delegate battle.

Eugene (Mike) Nolte, Jr., Republican state treasurer, said, "The principal trouble with the critics of the Texas Republican Party is that they do not know the difference between a political party nominating candidates to represent their policies and the general public voting in a general election."

"Neither does the Constitution provide for a society of interstate meddlers to stick their pink noses into the private political affairs of Texans," Nolte continued.

"These frenzied, self-styled Republicans are charging that real Republicans have no right to contest being run over by non-Republicans in their precinct and county conventions," Nolte said.

He addressed his remarks to "Hugh Scott, Paul Hoffman, Eisenhower, et al."

New Deaths Mark Texas Polio Siege

By The Associated Press

Two new deaths were reported in Houston Saturday as Texas appeared headed for its worst siege of polio.

Latest health department figures for the state listed 771 cases, compared with 717 for the same period in the peak year of 1950 and 287 for the same span last year.

At Houston and Dallas, the combined totals of polio patients under treatment climbed past the 330 mark. These included victims brought from surrouding counties and small towns.

A 15-year-old girl and a six-year-old boy were the latest fatalities at Houston, bringing to 15 the number who have died there this year.

Alma Jean Wagner, 15, of Willis, and James McGowan, 6, of Harris County, were the death victims.

Near Epidemic Stage

Polio at Houston reached within two cases of what many medical officials regard as epidemic: 20 cases per 100,000 population. The count thus far at Houston is 118 city cases and six deaths; 75 county cases and three deaths and 88 out-of-county cases and six deaths.

Last year at the same time, Houston's polio total was 49 city cases and three deaths; 10 county cases and no deaths and eight non-resident cases and no deaths.

At Dallas Friday, the total of 57 cases was exactly the same number as the same day in 1950, worst year in Dallas County's history of treating the disease.

At El Paso, a six-year-old boy, Javier Banuelos, died of polio Friday.

There's No Doubt Summer Is Here, Midlanders Testify

Saturday was the first day of Summer in Texas and no one in Midland had any doubts about it.

The mercury soared to 100 degrees at the CAA weather station at Terminal. The maximum reading had hung around the century mark most of the week. And Sunday's forecast promised no relief from the June spell.

A 15-mile breeze from the south is expected to keep down suffering from Sunday's heat, CAA observers said Saturday night. High, scattered clouds will bring little shade from the beaming sun, they predicted. Some cloudiness prevailed Saturday night.

It was partly cloudy here Saturday. Drouth-conscious Midlanders scanned skies to the north after Lubbock, Levelland and other South Plains points reported limited rain Friday night. Lubbock gauged .67 inch.

Wink listed a high temperature of 105 degrees again Saturday. Hundred-plus temperatures were recorded in much of Western Texas.

Jones Named President Of Texas Tech

DALLAS —(AP)— Dr. Edward Newlon Jones, 52, Saturday was named president of Texas Technological College at Lubbock.

Jones, vice president of Tech since 1948, succeeds Dr. D. M. Wiggins who resigned after heading the state school the last four years.

The board of directors Saturday also:

1. Voted that Greek letter fraternities and sororities would be allowed at Texas Tech "but no houses will be allowed either on or off the campus without securing board approval."

2. Empowered the school president and the building committee to represent the board in negotiating with the City of Lubbock on construction of a new, 12,000-seat coliseum, auditorium and field house to be used by both the city and the college.

3. Approved Dr. Wiggins' plans to submit a $300 across-the-board raise and a $200 merit raise for faculty members at the budget meeting with the State Legislature July 15.

Air Force Deserter Arrested In City

An Air Force deserter, who has been working in the oil fields here the last three months, was arrested in downtown Midland Saturday afternoon.

The man, 25-year-old James Zorens, was apprehended by Police Lt. James J. Joyce and Patrolman Herbert Runyon.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said Zorens had enlisted in New Orleans early in 1951 under the name of James A. Ward. He deserted at Sheppard Field June 11, 1951, immediately after completing basic training.

He is being held in the Midland County Jail pending arrival of Air Forces authorities.

POLITICAL HEAT DIMS WEATHER

DALLAS—(AP)—General Eisenhower, touring Texas Saturday, bared his balding head to the Texas sun to speak and to ride in open convertibles in Denison, Denton and Dallas.

The sun was hot, the temperature was 100 degrees and a dust-kicking wind blew out of the south.

"Everybody's been asking me how I like the Texas heat," the general remarked. "I haven't noticed it."

Midland 'Boiling Cauldron Of Hate And Discrimination,' Says LULAC Speaker

CORPUS CHRISTI —(AP)— It's not hot yet at the 23rd annual convention of the League of United Latin American Citizens here, but it's getting hotter.

Oscar M. Laura of Laredo, executive secretary and legal advisor for the LULACS, made Saturday's most sensational charge:

"Midland is a boiling cauldron of hate and discrimination," he told the approximately 700 persons here. Laura said he and LULAC aides have documented cases of discrimination also in Kingsville and Pecos schools and in the State Home for Children in Corsicana. Proof of discrimination there has been given to the state's Good Neighbor Commission, he said.

In most cases the commission is froning out the problem, Laura said. But both the commission and the LULACS have failed in Midland, he added in an afternoon speech.

Earlier, Vaughn M. Bryant, executive director of the commission, was the principal speaker at the convention's first business session Saturday morning. He said discriminatory practices are becoming less frequent in Texas. Solution of other problems the Spanish speaking peoples will avail little until discrimination is completely eliminated, Bryant said.

The convention's real heat is expected to be generated Sunday when 700 delegates vote on at least 16 resolutions and three minor constitutional amendments as well as elect new officers.

One of the proposed resolutions, already being passed around to delegates, offers praise and commendation to New York City Congressman John Rooney, who recently "exposed the wetback-hiring tactics of a number of prominent Texas public officials and civic leaders in South Texas and the Rio Grande Valley."

Introduced by the LULAC council from Austin, this mimeographed resolution is attached to a printed sheet showing five newspaper clippings, three of which are of stories relating the charge that Gov. Allan Shivers uses "wetback" labor.

WITH THE 45TH INFANTRY DIVISION IN KOREA—A Bridgeton, N. J., Army sergeant acted as a "human mine detector in Korea recently to lead his patrol to safety after it had been pinned down by enemy mortar fire.

He is Sgt. Paul T. Trexler, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Trexler, Bridgeton.

A squad leader in Company B, 180th Infantry Regiment, Trexler's seven-man patrol was about 700 yards into no-man's-land when enemy mortar fire began. One explosion destroyed the unit's mine detector.

Ordering his men to stay a safe distance behind him, the sergeant walked straight through an unknown mine field to safety with the other men following in his footsteps.

"I just took my chances on the mines instead of the mortars," he said later.

Pfc. Billy R. Corbett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Corbett of Pecos was one of Trexler's patrol.

"If the sergeant hadn't taken the chance and got us through," he said, "I believe that we would have suffered heavy casualties."

Health Chief Maps Anti-Polio Program

AUSTIN—(AP)—Things each citizen and each community can do to help fight polio were outlined Saturday by the State Health Department.

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, listed an eight-point, long-range plan for battling the disease that is hitting Texas harder than ever before this year.

It centers on cleanliness. Dr. Cox said it takes weeks and months to clean up a city "and forever to keep it that way."

The program must be continuing. Home owners were urged to follow it to protect themselves and their neighbors.

"It will take one to five years to really clean up our larger cities," the state health officer said.

Here is what Dr. Cox suggests:

1. Spot spray insect breeding places after they have been cleaned up and destroyed. Spraying indiscriminately might kill a few insects on the wing, but it won't do the job. It might kill valuable plants and create a false sense of security.

No Animal Shelters

2. Get rid of animal shelters in urban areas. They cannot be kept clean and consequently create a health hazard as fly breeders.

3. Get rid of dump piles, tin cans, old tires, and accumulated debris which breed flies and mosquitos and provide harborage for rats.

4. Provide a properly operated sewerage system, and get rid of all surface toilets. Surface toilets constitute one of the major health hazards facing Texas, Dr. Cox believes.

5. Provide a source of pure water.

6. Protect food supplies in wholesale business houses, retail shops, and in private homes.

7. Make regular inspections of all premises to see that no possibility exists for fly breeding. If you have flies, somebody is maintaining a breeding spot.

8. Garbage should be placed in fly-tight garbage cans until time of disposal. Tubs, boxes, lidless garbage cans, are of no value.

HAS BIRTHDAY—Johnny P. Tunnell, personnelman third class, USN, of Stanton, recently celebrated his birthday at the U. S. Naval Air Station at Barbers Point, T. Tunnell is serving with the education department at the station.

AUSTIN—(AP)—The resignation of Tom Pickett of Palestine as congressman from the Seventh Texas District was accepted by Gov. Allen Shivers with regret Saturday.

Shivers called a special election for August 23, the date of the second Democratic primary, to fill the vacancy.

Pickett was not a candidate for reelection. The special election is to fill the unexpired portion of his term, beginning June 30.

"Tom Pickett served his district and his state ably and effectively in Congress," Shivers said in commenting on his resignation. "His loss will be felt keenly by the Texas delegation and by the people whom he served. It is with real regret I accept his resignation."

Pickett resigned to take a job in private industry.

TV's Sizzling Rita Gam Puts More Sex Appeal Into Movies

HOLLYWOOD—Exclusively yours: Hollywood producers screaming that their glamor dolls can't compete, because of censorship, with the sex wallop of television's heroines "must be blind."

That's the word from TV's Ava Gardner—slinky, burning-eyed Rita Gam—who says she's putting more sex appeal into a new big-screen movie role, even without dialog, than she's ever been permitted to turn on as the "bad girl" star of countless New York TV dramas.

Lured to Hollywood to unleash her torrid charms on Ray Milland in the no-talkie, all-action "The Thief," gorgeous Rita told me:

"Television is full of superficial sex—like low necklines. But TV's too busy telling a story in a short time to really examine a role for its sex values. Hollywood has it all over TV in selling sex. The characterization (a shady lady) I'm doing in this movie never could be as effective on a half-hour or hour TV drama. There just wouldn't be time."

"Are you kidding?" New York-born-and-raised Rita queried. "It's my real name.

Russian Acts Point To Surprise In Making As Reds Watch, Wait

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

Put together all the isolated incidents of the cold war in the last week or so and you come up with the impression that Moscow is about to pull something spectacular.

Here is one guess: Before long a new pronouncement will be issued by Moscow in the name of Joseph Stalin. Its text might repeat the old theme—that capitalism and communism can exist side by side—but it would pack a punch aimed at Western Europe and designed to sow confusion there.

Another guess: Moscow will make a series of grandstand plays as part of the developing new peace offensive.

The major developments leading up to conjectures of this sort are these:

1. The tightening of the screws in East Germany.

2. The fantastic picture of what seems to be a deliberate antagonizing of Sweden. The Swedes, already angered by the activities of Soviet spies in their midst, are even more infuriated by Moscow's callous dismissal of the shooting down by Red jets of a Swedish rescue plane.

3. The game of musical chairs among Soviet envoys to Washington, London and Peiping.

4. Russia's partial settlement of the wartime lend-lease account with Washington.

5. The sudden summoning by Russia's delegation of the United Nations Security Council to take up—in a roundabout way—Communist germ warfare accusations against the U. S.

Russia Taking Stock

At first glance, these incidents might appear unrelated, but there is a unifying thread which seems to stitch out a pattern. It all fits into the idea of the Soviet Union taking serious stock of its world position before plunging ahead with any new adventures.

In such stock-taking the Kremlin must realize it cannot now move aggressively in any direction without the distinct possibility of provoking a shooting war.

As for Scandanavia, the Russians could not have done better if they had been trying to force Sweden to abandon her traditional neutrality and join the Atlantic Alliance.

There is even a possibility that the Russians might be trying to force just that. It would be part of the preparation.

Russia has a peculiar treaty with Finland. It calls for mutual defense from aggression or the threat of aggression across Finnish soil against either Finland or the Soviet Union. If the Russians want some day to move into Finland and further secure their Northwest flank, the treaty can come in handy.

The Russians already have accused Norway and Denmark of aggressive designs against the Soviet Union. If all Scandanavia were linked with the West, guns pointing eastward, the USSR might see this as the threat of aggression provided for in the treaty with Finland.

U. S. Is Accused

Two other Soviet diplomatic moves tie in neatly together. One is the offer concerning the lend-lease account. The Soviet Union made an offer it knew was unacceptable to the U. S. Then the Soviet press accused the United States of balking the settlement.

The other of these two is the Soviet move in the United Nations concerning germ warfare, once again putting Moscow in the light of the reasonable nation and the U. S. on the other side. Soviet delegate Jacob Malik's mild opening centered about the 1925 Geneva Protocol, which, among other things, outlawed germ warfare. The United States never signed this. By concentrating on this point, in mild language, the Soviet delegate not only pulled a surprise, but he managed to focus world attention on the fact that the United States is not a party to the convention.

At present the Moscow attitude seems to be one of watchful waiting. The ablest man available for such a job—cold, calculating Andrei Gromyko—is spared from his duties as first deputy foreign minister to take over the London embassy over such watching.

Gromyko's assignment seems to be the central piece in this diplomatic jigsaw puzzle. The shift of Georgi Zarubin from London to Washington seems only incidental—the Washington job was left vacant because Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin was needed in China, where his long experience will be of great help to Moscow in such a global watching-and-waiting game.

Impeachment Zeal Vanishes In House

WASHINGTON —(AP)— House members apparently have lost much of the enthusiasm some of them avowed to impeach President Truman.

Only 20 have signed a petition which, if signed by 218, would force a House vote on an impeachment resolution.

The petition has been on file with the House clerk four days. It was presented last Tuesday by Representative Shafer (R-Mich).

Shafer filed it because the House Judiciary Committee, to which his impeachment resolution has been referred, decided to shelve it.

The resolution was introduced shortly after President Truman's April 8 seizure of the steel mills set off a storm of criticism accompanied by demands from a number of House members for his impeachment.

Shafer field the discharge petition after the Supreme Court ruled that the President had exceeded his authority and ordered the steel plants returned to their private owners.

House rules prohibit disclosure of names of members signing discharge petitions until 218 members have signed. When the required signatures are obtained, the names are published in the Congressional Record. Until then, the petition itself may not be examined by newsmen or non-members. Traditionally, discharge petitions seldom obtain the 218 signatures.

East Germany Whips Together Red Wehrmacht

BONN — (AP) — Communist East Germany is whipping together a new Red Wehrmacht to threaten the West while the free world faces a two-year wait for West German manpower to plug the gaps in Europe's defense.

This is the menacing fact confronting the West as six European nations debate whether to merge their armies into a united defense force.

Mobilizing the manpower and industry of Western Germany in the Atlantic defense system depends on the verdicts of the six European parliaments to the proposal to create a one-uniform army. The Germans cannot put a single man into uniform until the parliaments have acted.

Allied and German officials here predict it will be October, at least, before the West German, French, Italian and Benelux parliaments finally ratify the European army plan—if they do.

Then the long pull begins to create from scratch West German divisions that could help hurl back any Russian drive to the west.

Allied and German authorities believe the West Germans will need at least two years—perhaps longer—to mobilize, train and equip the 400,000 troops they have promised to provide for the European army.

Soviet-occupied East Germany has just lunged into a remilitarization program calling for vast expansion of their Russian-trained cadre army by the end of this year. This force of trained combat troops—officially called the "people's police"—already numbers 60,000 men.

By the end of 1953 the East German Communists are expected to place at least 12 divisions totalling 180,000 men at the service of Moscow. The Communists expect to mobilize a total of 25 divisions and 375,000 men when their program is completed.

West Germany has agreed to raise 12 divisions of ground troops, an air force and a defensive navy to join the European army in a strong defensive line from the Baltic to Switzerland.

West Outmatches East

In the long pull, the West Germans can outmatch the East Germans both in manpower and armament. Western Germany has a population of 48 million plus the Rhur, continental Europe's largest industrial complex and Germany's arsenal in two world wars.

Eastern Germany is at best a second class Soviet satellite. It has only 18 million people and scanty industrial underpinning, but in the impending arms race the East Germans ironically will hold the edge over the West Germans during the next two critical years.

The reason is the agonizingly long time it will take to transform West Germans into hard-hitting, swift-moving combat groups.

Meanwhile across the Iron Curtain, Communist East Germany has embarked on rearmament with typical totalitarian methods and a whirlwind recruiting campaign.

Husky Stranger Lifts Car Wheel From Injured Boy

SAVANNAH, GA.—(AP)—A husky stranger stepped from a stunned crowd Friday and lifted the right front wheel of an automobile which was crushing a five-year-old boy.

After performing his amazing display of strength, he slipped back into the awestruck spectators before his identity could be learned.

Donald Baudron tumbled from the car at nearby Fort Screven and rolled under the wheel before his father could bring the car to a stop. The wheel was resting on the boy's head, neck and shoulders.

The young man lifted the wheel while Beaudron backed the car off his son. The child was reported in fair condition Saturday at a Savannah hospital.

New Methodist Church Survey Underway Sunday

Fifty workers Sunday afternoon will conduct a 900-family survey as a preliminary step to organization of a new Methodist Church in Midland. They will fan out following a luncheon set for 12:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church, the Rev. Clarence Collins, pastor of the new church, announced Saturday.

Organization meeting for the third new Methodist church here in six years has been changed to 3 p.m., Sunday, July 13, in the First Methodist Church. The meeting had been scheduled originally for July 6 but conflicted with the July 4th weekend resulted in the week's delay.

Many families in the membership survey likely will be away from the city over the holiday weekend, the Rev. Collins pointed out.

Four nights of visitation evangelism will be be conducted before the organization meeting. They are June 26, 27 and 30 and July 1.

The new church will be organized under Bishop William C. Martin and District Supt. O. W. Carter, who will speak at the organizational session.

The First Methodist Church has given six blocks on the corner of West Kansas, two blocks beyond the Andrews highway, as the new church property.

DOOR HITS HAND

Mrs. Lucy Gidley, Midland, suffered lacerations and abrasions when a door was slammed on her left hand Friday. She was treated at Midland Memorial Hospital.

Indiana's Democratic Governor To Oppose GOP Senator Jenner

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—Democratic Gov. Henry F. Schricker said Saturday he would accept the nomination for U. S. Senator from Indiana.

The announcement, expected for weeks, followed strong pressure on him by party leaders.

If nominated as expected at Tuesday's Democratic State Convention, Schricker would oppose Republican Senator William E. Jenner in the November election. Jenner seeks reelection to the seat he has held since 1945.

Only Two Aspirants Leave Midland Democratic Races

The field of candidates for the July 26 Democratic primary election was set Saturday with only two missing as the deadline was reached for payment of election assessments.

The two withdrawals were James Clay Hancock, candidate for district attorney, and W. R. (Roy) Tillman, candidate for county commissioner from Precinct No. 1.

Hancock announced earlier in the week that he had been recalled to active duty by the Air Force and Tillman said Saturday he was withdrawing for business reasons.

"I would like to express my appreciation, however," said Tillman, "to my friends who have actively supported me."

Chairman Frank Bezoni of the Midland County Democratic Executive Committee, said Saturday all other candidates had paid the assessments levied by the committee to defray the expenses of the primary elections.

The committee will meet at 1:30 Monday in Bezoni's office in the McClintic building to prepare the July 26 ballot which will go to the printers later in the week.

GI Bill Borrowers Pay Off, Says VA

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The eighth anniversary of the GI Bill for World War II veterans comes up Sunday, so the Veterans Administration Saturday summed up what has been done for veterans under its three major benefit provisions.

The VA said one benefit still in full force, with five more years to run, is the program of guaranteed loans for homes, farms and businesses.

The free education and training program is on the decline, with most veterans losing their eligibility to participate last July 25. The provisions for readjustment allowances for unemployment and self-employment ended for most veterans on July 25, 1949, although there still are some few remaining eligible GI's applying for such aid.

Under the loan program, which will come to an end for veterans on July 25, 1957, so far more than three million loans totaling about 18 billion dollars have been issued with the VA guaranteeing or insuring about half the total.

Good Loan Risks

Ninety per cent of the loans were to veterans for homes, the remainder for farms and businesses.

The VA said "Veterans have proved to be good loan risks." Then it added stattistics to show that only one-half of one per cent of the home loans have been defaulted to the point that the VA had to make good on its guarantee. For farm loans claims have been paid on 2.6 per cent due to defaults, with the business loan defaults running 4.8 per cent.

During the eight years of the education and training program some 7,800,000 veterans, more than half of the 15,200,000 of World War II, took some GI Bill training in schools, on the job or on the farm.

So far about nine million veterans have drawn readjustment allowances which totaled $3,200,000,000 for unemployment and 600 million dollars for self-employment.

The VA said that although most veterans were eligible for a full year of such allowances, only one in 10 exhausted his rights. The average veretan, VA added, found a job after being on the rolls only a month and a half.

Republicans Demand Harriman Withdraw From Security Post

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Knowland (R-Calif) told the Senate Saturday Averell Harriman, as a Democratic presidential aspirant, should resign at once as director of the foreign aid programs.

The California Republican senator said the "best service" Harriman could do for the mutual security program now would be to resign forthwith, before congressional appropriations committees begin hearings on funds to carry out the new aid program.

Senator Morse (R-Ore) interrupted Knowland to ask "that I be associated" with Knowland's suggestion.

Other members of Congress previously had called upon Harriman to quit as mutual security administrator after he announced for the Democratic nomination. Harriman declined to do so and President Truman supported his decision.

Harriman's explanation of his stand at that time was that "I will not permit my candidacy . . . to interfere with my responsibilities as director for mutual security."

Texans Scream 'Hello, Ike' As General Visits Native City

DENISON — (AP) — "Hello, Ike," yelled Texans.

That's the way the crowd of men and women of Denison, and others gathered at Perrin Air Force Base, greeted Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Saturday.

The general—in tan civilian suit and tan straw hat—stepped off the plane, grinning, at the Air Force base into Texas sunshine. Some 1,500 persons at the field cheered.

Then Gold Star mothers in their white and gold uniforms; H. J. (Jack) Porter, state campaign manager for Eisenhower; Col. Townsend Hills, commanding officer of Perrin, and Mayor A. C. Casey of Denison stepped forward to greet him. But they got jammed and crushed in the press of newspaper reporters, photographers and fans.

"Hello, Ike," the men and women yelled.

Then Mrs. Tillie Morris of Denison, one of the women who worked to make Eisenhower's birthplace here a shrine, nudged Mayor Casey and whispered, "The key."

Mayor Casey said, "Oh, yes," and reached into his inside coat pocket and brought out a hand-carved walnut key about four inches long.

"Here's the key," he said.

Eisenhower took it, and then Mayor Casey, gesturing with his finger, "It's the key not only to Denison, but to the State of Texas."

"Thank you," Eisenhower said. "Thank you very much indeed. It's wonderful to be here."

Thousands Jam Streets

That was the ceremony at the airport. Colonel Hills got only to shake the general's hand in the crush.

A long procession of cars drove from the airport into town under a blazing hot sun. Thousands of people jammed the streets of Denison to cheer the general on his return to his birthplace.

The first stop was the little white frame house near the railroad tracks where he was born—a sentimental stop on the general's long campaign journey.

Hundreds of people gathered in Forest Park to hear Eisenhower speak briefly to the Denison Gold Star mothers organization which invited him here. He had no prepared text and his remarks were not planned as a political talk.

Denison kept things non-political for the general's visit to the town of his birth.

No elephants to signify Republicans—just red, white and blue bunting to welcome back a second time for the home town boy who made good.

Political understones couldn't help but creep in, for everybody knew Eisenhower was coming to Texas to battle personally for Texas' 38 delegates to the national GOP presidental convention.

Hometown Atomsphers

The white-haired men who play dominoes in the summer house at city park where Eisenhower spoke even broke their rule of no political talk.

"If I wasn't a Democrat, I'd hear that speech, said H. B. Eubanks.

While the men shuffled their dominoes, the kids on the baseball diamond were having a hot game.

They were having their all-star game, Saturday, playing baseball while Eisenhower was over on the newly erected speakers platform in the outfield speaking to the home folks.

The game was delayed while somebody's little three-year-old sister with some petunias in her hand.

That's what Denison gave the general — kids playing baseball, the hometown atmosphere.

Hero Sheds Man's Worries In Cottage 'Across Tracks'

By BRUCE HENDERSON

DENISON —(AP)— The hero returned to his birthplace Saturday and the troubles of mankind were forgotten in the musty little cottage on the other side of the tracks.

As he walked through the house where he was born, Dwight David Eisenhower became calm. He tried not to show he was moved, but you could tell.

The placid, gabled white house with flowers in the yard awaited Eisenhower at the end of a 10-mile parade from Perrin Air Force Base, packed before the house was a happy, cheering crowd that literally welcomed their native son with outstretched arms.

They wouldn't let him in the house at first. Autographs they wanted, and pictures and waves of the hand from the military hero and candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Bright As Texas Sun

And Eisenhower—with a grin as bright as the Texas sun—fulfilled all the requests he could.

Time was clicking by and this important man had to be on. Mrs. Monte Bales Jones, Gold Star mother whose son was killed in the war Eisenhower helped this nation win, took "Ike" by the shoulder and led him inside.

Denison's Gold Star mothers with Mrs. Jones as president, had invited Eisenhower to come to visit his birthplace. While Ike was busy in front, the mothers—looking a little embarrassed at all this fuss—quietly filed inside. They were dressed in white and gold uniforms.

Ike entered the house at 11:55 a.m., went into the parlor, and shook hands with each mother.

The parlor is right across the hall from the room in which Eisenhower was born Oct. 14, 1890.

As Eisenhower strode through the house—repainted and repaired by Denison citizens and furnished almost entirely with 1890 pieces—the squint on his face relaxed. He peeked here and there, behind corners, at ceilings and inspected the furniture. You felt like he wanted more time.

Almost Pushed Through

People jammed the house. They didn't mean it, but they almost pushed him through.

Ike entered the dining room, next to the parlor. There Mrs. Jones had him sign a new guest register.

Then it was out to the back porch, which is shaded by a big oak tree.

Sunburned and sweating and still in a quiet way, "Ike," said: "This is one of the most exciting times I've had in my life. A man doesn't often get to visit his birthplace."

Then a fellow rushed up. "General," he said, "I used to ride in a baby buggy with you." The man turned out to be Floyd L. Fowler, Dallas jeweler who said he was born 14 days before Ike, right across the street.

By then it was time to leave. A spanking new convertible rushed him off to make a speech in the city's park.

The caravan of cars roared away. The little white house was left behind in a cloud of red dust.

(NEA Telephoto)

Hopes Grow For British-American Accord On Korea

WASHINGTON — (AP) — United States officials expressed hope Saturday that a demonstration of solidarity between this country and Britain on the Korean truce negotiations and conduct of the war might improve prospects for getting an armistice agreement with the Communists.

Britain's defense minister, Viscount Alexander, is due here Sunday for conferences with Defense Secretary Lovett and other high officials following his recent visit to Korea. Enroue here he has spoken in high praise of the handling of the situation by the present command. His appearance here is expected to produce new evidence of Anglo-American unity on this point —contrary to the expectations two weeks ago.

Meanwhile Secretary of State Deah Acheson will leave on a European trip Sunday night. On the first stage of this he will receive a degree at Oxford University, and also will confer in London with British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Schuman.

Their talk has no fixed schedule of subjects, authorities said, and is expected to cover the range of common interests of the Big Three Western governments. These include Germany, relations with Russia, sore spots like Tunisia, Egypt and Iran, as well as Korea.

Praying Rainmaker Returns To Midland On Periodic Visit

Evangelist Eddie Clayton, self-styled "praying rainmaker," arrived in Midland Saturday on a periodic visit. He said he will be here several days in the interest of his missionary and New Testament distribution work.

Clayton said he will say a special prayer for rain in a Midland church Sunday. He urged everyone to be in a house of prayer Sunday, joining with him in praying for needed moisture.

"Rain is a wonderful blessing and every good and perfect gift comes from a bountiful Heavenly Father above," he declared.

The evangelist reported excellent results on his recent missionary trip to Mexico. He spoke and taught Bible classes in churches of three denominations while south of the border. His planned trip to Europe, he said, was postponed because of the oil strike and "not too much money."

Taft Forces Plan To Shoot The Works For GOP Nomination By Second Ballot

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio will throw the full weight of his organization behind an attempt to win the Republican presidential nomination not later than the second ballot at the Chicago convention.

In the final stretch drive, before the convention opens July 7, it's the Taft organization against Dwight D. Eisenhower's reputed live-star popularity with many of the Republican rank and file.

Despite their public talk of possible first ballot victory, Eisenhower's backers privately are saying that if they can keep the nomination away from Taft for two ballots, the general will get it.

Privately the Taft backers agree with this analysis and thus are prepared to shoot the works early.

While he said the strategy involved would have to be determined by conditions at the convention, Taft told this reporter he remains confident his organization is "holding the line" against Eisenhower's efforts to break into the Ohioan's delegate column.

On the other hand, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, Eisenhower's national campaign manager, said the general is making inroads by his personal campaigning, adding that his nomination "now is assured."

Tactics Of Loser

Wesley Roberts, executive director of the Eisenower - For - President headquarters here, asserted in a statement that "Taft's exaggerated delegate claims are tactics of a losing candidate whose campaign is cracking wide open."

"The deep inroads among supposedly Taft or uncommitted delegates by Eisenhower himself since his return home has spurred the Taft camp into desperation tactics," Roberts declared.

"When the balloting starts at the Republican National Convention there will be uncommitted delegates. That's when Eisenhower will come out on top."

He contended Taft has only about 440 delegates in his camp, in contrast to claims of the Ohioan's managers that many more are pledged.

While both major candidates have claimed victory, a cross-section check of the leaders in each camp indicates that Taft's people generally seem much more confident of victory than do the supporters of Eisenhower.

Political Fortress

As the nomination campaign enters its last two weeks before the convention, Taft stands confidently in command of a political fortress built on the grounds of a sizeable lead over Eisenhower in publicly-committed delegates and his friends' control of much of the Republican convention machinery.

Eisenhower is cast in the role of the leader of the assault forces, counting heavily on arousing public support by "steal" charges in connection with the selection of Texas delegates and by display of a winning personality.

Taft's belief that he can win on an early ballot is based on the latest survey by his forces. His friends say this gives him 604 "rock bottom" delegates—just enough for the nomination.

If, by the time voting starts, the Taft leaders believe they are solidly set, they will put everything they have into a first ballot try. If they are doubtful of making the grade, they will see to it that about 50 delegates are distributed around among other candidates who can be brought into the Taft column on the second ballot.

That will bring the crucial test and if the Ohioan doesn't make it then, he is almost certain to face a slump which would take him out of the race quickly.

If Taft failed to win on the second ballot, this would leave the way open for a possible shift of his strength to some other candidate. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the convention keynoter, now looks like the most likely beneficiary of any such shift.

Considering the bitterness between the Taft and Eisenhower camps, neither is likely to agree that if their man doesn't get the nomination his chief opponent should have it.

There is little mention of a possible substitute for Eisenhower for the very cogent reason that Taft either will win or fall so early there probably won't be time to bring out another opponent or take advantage of the presence on the roll call of such an aspirant as Gov. Earl Warren of California.

Taft's forces hope to lead Eisenhower by 150 votes on the first ballot. The latest Associated Press tabulation of delegates publicly committed, willing to express an opinion or conceded gives Taft 467 and Eisenhower 392.

Taft is likely to pick up 10 more when the Illinois state GOP convention names at-large delegates Monday, giving the Ohioan a total of 477.

So far as the standing of the teams is concerned, there appears to have been no material shift in public commitments among delegates since Eisenhower's Abilene, Kan., homecoming.

Government Presses Probes Of Lattimore Foreign Travel Plans

WASHINGTON —(AP)— An investigation, into the plans of Owen Lattimore, which the Far Eastern specialist said Saturday do not include any trip behind the Iron Curtain, is being pressed by the government in the wake of its order slamming the country's exit gates to him.

The State Department announced late Friday it had ordered customs exits barred to Lattimore while it looks into a tip, which it said came from an official source, that he was planning a visit to Russia or her satellites.

At his home in Baltimore, Lattimore said there was no truth—"none whatsoever" — in any such reports. The State Department itself had said the tip was unconfirmed, and it gave no additional clues as to its origin.

The order barring Lattimore's departure from this country, it was learned from reliable sources, will stand until the inquiry has been completed. That may come within a week.

Lattimore, a professor at Johns Hopkins University and at times in the past a consultant to the State Department, has been a controversial figure since Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) denounced him as a Communist agent.

Lattimore vigorously has denied McCarthy's accusations against him. He has insisted frequently that he never had any Red connections.

Demo Congressmen Beat Republicans In Baseball Game

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Democratic congressmen refeated their Republican colleagues 6-3 Friday night in the annual congressional baseball game and promptly claimed it meant victory for the Democrats in November.

On one thing both sides agreed: They'd better stick to lawmaking.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Democrats in the traditional puffing match between the representatives that originated 40 years ago.

The five-inning game — a congressional limit — drew 1,551 cash customers to Griffith Stadium, home of the Washington Senators. It was the largest house Congress has drawn all year.

Proceeds will send some of Washington's underprivileged children to Summer camp under sponsorship of the Evening Star.

Metal Union Strike Holds

Members of the sheet metal workers union remained on strike Saturday in the Midland and Odessa areas after the men had walked out, effective at midnight Thursday.

Between 35 and 40 workers in this area were off the job and several building projects were shut down Friday and Saturday.

M. C. Wooten, general superintendent for the General Engineering Corporation, said sheet metal work had been halted on Hotel Scharbauer and The Midland National Bank Building projects.

Similar work was halted on other smaller projects through the city.

The men went on strike after failure to negotiate a new contract, meeting demands for a wage hike.

Indians Polish Off Dusters With 14-1 Win

Sunday Game Off; To Meet Monday In Doubleheader

Indian Manager Zeke Bonura elected Israel Ten, (6-5), and Keith Nicolls, (11-5) as the probable starting hurlers Monday in the doubleheader against the Vernon Dusters which starts at 7 p.m. Vernon Manager Pat McLaughlin nominated Al Richardson, (3-2) as one of his starting hurlers but was unable Saturday to tell who the other starter would be.

* * *

The Midland Indians were to get a well-deserved rest Sunday after polishing off the cellar-dwelling Vernon Dusters 14 to 1 Saturday night with a 15-hit attack behind the strong eight-hit hurling of Eddie Jacome.

The Tribe was allowed to take Sunday off when its regular scheduled game with Vernon was called off because of the intense heat. The teams will play a doubleheader Monday night, starting at 7 p.m.

In notching his tenth win against five defeats, the durable Indian mound ace pitched shutout ball until the eighth inning when the Dusters combined singles by Art Neal and Ed Bucynski and a walk to John Follis to load the bases.

Neal plated the only run for Vernon then on catcher Joe Niedson's long fly ball to centerfield.

But the rest of the way, Jacome was in command, allowing the visitors only one extra base blow, a double by third baseman Tony Madalina in the fifth inning. He struck out eight and walked only two.

All Hit Safely

Meahwhile every Indian was hitting safely at least once except for second baseman Floyd Martin and Jacome.

The Tribe's leading hitter, Pat O'Keefe, again showed the way at the plate, collecting four hits in four trips for a perfect night at the plate. First baseban Earl Bossenberry who is a switch hitter, hit safely twice as a right-hander, then changed over to the port side to collect one safety in getting three for four for the night.

Ed Menapace, rookie Tribe catcher recalled from Statesboro of the Georgia State League last week, played his initial game for the Indians, catching a perfect game behind the plate and getting one hit in five attempts.

Defensively, Scooter Hughes sparkled afield, making two beautiful plays to throw runners out at first base.

Jittery Yanks Bow To Chicago, 5-1

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Chicago White Sox rallied behind the deft six-hit pitching of Chuck Stobbs for a 5-1 victory Saturday over the nervous New York Yankees—their second defeat of the league-leaders in two days.

The victory moved the Sox, in third place behind Boston, to within two games of the Yanks.

A crowd of 17,018 followed the 39,444 who saw the Sox take an 11-inning thriller, 8-5, from the Yanks Friday night.

The world champion Yankees, usually in complete mastery in encounters with the Sox, evinced a nervousness that resulted in three errors—and two of them were extremely costly, helping to spoil Ed Lopat's seven-hit mound job.

Shortstop Phil Rizzuto and centerfielder Mickey Mantle were the guilty parties in a four-run Sox fourth inning that came from two miscues and two hits.

The game was scoreless up to that point.

Browns Erupt To Trip Sens, 7 To 3

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— The St. Louis Browns blanked for 19 innings by Washington pitching, including the last 14 innings Friday, erupted for a six-run sixth inning Saturday to defeat the Senators, 7-3.

Ned Garver, wilder than usual but effective in the clutch, picked up his third successive victory to make his season record 5-6. He allowed seven hits, but had a four-hitter going until the Senators bunched three singles for their final run in the ninth.

St. Louis, meanwhile, tagged starter and loser Walt Masterson and reliefer Don Johnson for eight hits, including Dick Kryhoski's sixth home run of the year.

San Angelo Breezes By Sweetwater, 9-6

SWEETWATER —(AP)— The San Angelo Colts came through in the clutch to take a 9-6 victory over the Sweetwater Braves here Saturday night. The Colts went ahead 4-3 in the fourth inning then coasted to the victory. Perry Ellis who needed help from Maria Saldana notched the decision.

Two double plays killed Sweetwater scoring threats in the fifth and seventh innings. A triple by Jake McClain, Ronald Dacko's double and Ellis' single put the Colts ahead in the fourth.

San Angelo added three runs in the fifth frame on two walks, a single by Johnny Tayoan, a hit batter and Dacko's two run double.

Manager Mack Christman singled across two runs for the Colts in the sixth.

The first four Sweetwater batters to face Ellis in the fifth inning hit safely with two runs scoring. Then, the Colts came up with a timely double play to prevent further trouble.

The Braves had the bases loaded in the seventh with only one out when Saldana relieved Ellis and forced Juan Sliter to hit into a double play.

Giants Defeat Cubs, 11 To 7

NEW YORK — (AP) — Lefty Dave Koslo turned in a fine relief performance Saturday as the New York Giants defeated Chicago, 6-2, to extend the slumping Cubs' losing streak to seven games.

Koslo came on cold in the second inning after George Spencer, making his first start of the season, developed a blister on his pitching hand.

The veteran blanked the Cubs on five singles until the ninth, when John Pramesa opened the inning with his first home run of the season. Dee Fondy followed with a triple and scored after Randy Jackson flied out.

Omar Turk Lown started for Chicago and was tapped for three runs and seven hits in six innings. Joe Hatton pitched the seventh and eighth and was tagged for New York's final three runs on home runs by Bob Thomson and Alvin Dark.

Erfurth Wins Texas Amateur Golf Crown

CORPUS CHRISTI —(AP)— Billy Erfurth, a 22-year-old tournament veteran from Brownsville, held off a blazing afternoon rally by young Bob Moncrief of Houston here Saturday to win the Texas Amateur Golf Tournament, 2 and 1.

The slender native of San Antonio, who is playing golf out of the Valley city this Summer, roared into a six-hole lead at the end of the morning 18 as his 20-year-old opponent, a junior next year at the University of Texas, ran into putter troubles from the first green.

Rusty Callow, coach of the Navy crew, has been active in Boy Scout work for 27 years. He holds the Silver Bear award, one of the highest scouting honors.

Drillers Stage Big Slugfest To Take Oiler Nine, 14-6

ARTESIA —(AP)— The Artesia Drillers pounded in nine runs in the fourth inning here Saturday night to pave the way for their easy, 14-6 win over the league-leading Odessa Oilers.

Included in the huge outburst were six hits, two of them homers, a pair of Odessa errors, a walk and a hit batsman.

Mike Rodriquez, Artesia pitcher connected for a three-run round tripper and Jim Ackers also clouted one out of the park for three tallies in the big inning.

But they weren't alone in hitting for the circuit. Joe Bauman, the league's leading home run manufacturer, picked up one of his specialties, a two-run blast in the fifth inning. It was his twenty-third of the year.

The Drillers also scored three in the sixth frame to advance to a 14-0 lead. Bill Haley had a solo round tripper in this frame.

The Oilers fought back for three runs in each the seventh and eighth frames, but were just too far behind to catch up. Manager Pepper Martin opened the Oiler scoring with a leadoff homer in the seventh. Singles by Charlie Weber, Mack Treadway, plus a balk, a walk and a long fly gave them their other two markers this inning.

They picked up three more in the eighth on a double by Lefty Loyko, a triple by Leo Eastham, a single by Weber and Treadway's triple.

But Rodriguez slammed the door in their faces in the ninth as he went all the way in taking the win.

BIG SPRING —(AP)— Gil Guerra, who worked nine full but fruitless innings Friday night, came on to relieve Bert Estrada in the third frame and picked up his ninth win of the year as Big Spring outoutslugged Roswell, 15-9, here Saturday night.

Guerra allowed but two hits in the 6 1/3 innings he worked.

The game was especially wild in first three innings, when a total of 19 runs were scored.

Roswell spotted the Steeds a 9-3 lead and then came charging back to tie the count only to run out of gas.

Ed Fenelon hit a two-run homer for Roswell in the second while Witty Quintana duplicated that trick in the eighth, his tenth of the year.

Al Monchak, Roswell manager, became ill in the eighth and had to leave the game.

Fans up Sweetwater way are mighty hard losers. After Midland whipped the Braves Friday night, somebody poured good old West Texas sand into the gas tank of the Indian bus.

Now we don't think that is representative of the Sweetwater fan any more than it would be of the average Midland fan, but it's not the first time that somebody at Sweetwater has amused themselves by pouring sand in the gas tank of a visiting team's bus.

It hasn't been a month ago that the same incident happened to another club. And it cost the club owner at Sweetwater the price of a new motor.

* * *

The Midland team was on the road most of the night with the bus. It broke down on the other side of Big Spring and they had to be towed into the city there where a mechanic failed to accurately diagnose the trouble.

It remained for a mechanic over in Stanton to sift through faulty mechanism in the bus to find out what was wrong.

The team finally bailed out, leaving pitchers Dave McKenzie and Herb Dwier with the wayward vehicle and hitchhiked on in to Midland.

* * *

Rookie Mike de la Torre has been released outright by the Indians. The rookie hurler had been sent to Houma, La., in the Evangeline League but Houma returned his contract and Midland realeased him.

The Indians also sent the contract of another rookie hurler, lefty John Ray Harrison, back to Lamesa who had optioned him to Midland.

Big Spring Sports Scribe Tommy Hart says there are indications that everything is not rosy in the front office of the San Angelo Colts.

Hart says the Colts continue to make money but says Manager Mark Christman is distressed because he's being coached by too many different persons.

Now this is strictly Diamond Dusts' private opinion but we wonder if maybe Zeke Bonura isn't having the same sort of problem.

Hope you'll forgive us for running out of the base paths a minute but we'd like to insert a little word about golf.

Simply this. Latest word has it that the annual $7,500 Odessa Country Club Pro-Am Tournament, status of which has evoked a lot of interest this year, will be played on the home course.

Bill Breeden, tournament committeeman last year, and Bill Oliver, Odessa pro, both said recently that repairs to the course should be completed in time to have the Pro-Am, a four-day event, sometime near the end of August or early in September.

The Odessa officials previously had been considering holding it in Midland.

Pirates, Braves Mark Up Victories

Behind the strong two-hit hurling of little 10-year-old Dickie Campbell, the Pirates, a Little League Farm club, defeated the Cubs, 12 to 5, Friday.

Campbell struck out 13 men and walked four in taking the win. Ronnie Luckie, Campbell's battery mate, helped out with a bases-loaded home run. The loss was charged to Ruff Ahlers.

In the other game played by a Little League farm club, the Braves sacked up a 6 to 3 win over the Indians.

Larry Nicolls swatted a round-tripper for the Braves. Charles Sabin was the winning hurler while the loss was charged to Henry Holman.

Rotary Scores 4-3 Win In Pony League

In Friday night action in the Pony League, Rotary shaded the cellar-dwelling Kiwanis nine, 4-3.

Sammy Rosson absorbed his first loss of the season for the Kiwanis nine but looked very impressive in defeat. Dennis Patton took the win with Bill Farris behind the plate.

Meanwhile, the Pony League Jay-Cees, leader of the loop during first-half play, continued to lead the pack during the second half, running up a record of two wins against no defeats so far.

The standings:

Phillips 66 Wins Kegler Loop Title

In the final games of the Petroleum Bowling League season here last week, the Phillips 66 keglers took two out of three games from Ohio Oil to take the league title away from Plymouth Oil Company, which also won its match by defeating State Exploration two out of three games.

Had the Phillips team lost, the standings would have been thrown into a tie between the first and second-place teams, necessitating a playoff for the championship.

It was a fitting climax for the Phillips bowlers, who had led the league practically all of the season.

In other final matches, Superior Oil Company swept three games from Tex - Harvey; Shell Oil snatched three games from Core-Lab by forfeit, and American Trading and Muldrow Reproduction won by forfeit over Ralph Lowe and Stuart's Photo, respectively.

West End Magnolia took two out of three contests from Rotary Engineers; Tide Water downed West Texas Reproduction in two out of three; Standard of Texas nipped Honolulu Oil in two of three games and Seaboard Oil whipped Union Oil in two of three contests.

The championship Phillips 66 showed its class by rolling the high team series of the week with a mark of 2,350 for three games. The league leaders also copped the high individual team game with a mark of 914.

S. Hall rolled the high individual series by scoring 536 for three games. J. Collins rolled the high single game by compiling a score of 212.

The high team series rolled for the season was scored by Union Oil Company with a score of 2,730.

Other establishing seasonal high marks included American Trading, high team game, 956; Roy Gardner, high individual series, 654; Roy Gardner, high individual game, 266.

The final standings in the league follow:

Basketball Star From Nebraska U. Joins Phillips 66

BARTESVILLE, OKLA. —(AP)— Jim Buchanan, captain of the 1951-52 University of Nebraska basketball team, has joined Phillips Petroleum Company.

However, Buchanan, who has an ROTC commission, is expected to be called to active duty with the Army before the 1952-53 basketball season opens. The 21-year-old guard holds the Cornhusker scoring record for one season with 400 points in 22 games.

He ranked fourth in the Big Seven last season behind Clyde Lovellette, Kansas; Don Stauffer, Missouri, and Jim Knostman, Kansas State. His total topped the former record of 384 points set the previous season by Bob Pierce, now a Phillips player.

A three-year letterman, Buchanan was named to the All-Big Seven team his senior year and was twice chosen on the Big Seven pre-season tournament team.

Buchanan played high school basketball at Huntertown, Ind., where he lettered three years in basketball, baseball, and track.

Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, managed and pitched for the New York American League team in 1903 when they were called the Highlanders.

Violent Storms Result In PGA Play Postponement

LOUISVILLE—(AP)—A series of violent thunderstorms, bringing gusty winds and drenching rains, added to the "Debacle of Big Spring" Saturday and forced the first postponement in the PGA golf championship in 12 years.

Still staggering from the first day carnage which saw elimination of Champion Sam Snead, medalist Dutch Harrison and a host of other big name stars, the tournament committee found it necessary to put off third round matches until Sunday.

Sixteen survivors, half of them little known pros who emerged in Friday's rebellion of the underdogs, will tee off, starting at 8 a.m. CST.

Storm Struck Friday

The storm struck early Friday night and continued until mid-morning.

Similar weather forced a postponement in the semi-finals at Hershey, Pa., in 1940.

Here are Sunday's pairings:

Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., vs. Ray Honsberger, Clarkston, Wash.

Al Smith, Danville, Va., vs. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis.

Robert de Vicenzo, Argentina, vs. Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y.

Jack Isaacs, Langley Field, Va., vs. Clarence Doser, Hartsdale, N. Y.

Fred Haas, New Orleans, vs. Milon Marusic, Herkimer, N. Y.

Henry Williams, Kutzto n, Pa., vs. Chick Harbert, Northville, Mich.

Frank Champ, Lake Charles, La., vs. Walt Burkemo, Detroit.

Vic Ghezzi, Inwood, N. Y., vs. Bob Hamilton, Evansville, Ind.

The prime favorite is Memphis' tall, good-looking Dr. Middlecoff, who was made to stand in the corner five years by the PGA although during that time he won the National Open title in 1949 and more than $85,000 on the money circuit.

Betsy Rawls Grabs Title In Women's Western Tourney

CHICAGO—(AP)—Golf's best current gal money-player, Betsy Rawls, indeed proved that Saturday by erasing a three-hole lag and surging ahead for the first time at the thirty-third for a one-up, 36-hole victory over pro Betty Jameson to capture her first Women's Western Open title.

Miss Rawls, grabbing the $1,000 winner's check to boost her 1952 earnings over $10,000 was a meek player for 27 holes as Miss Jameson, 1942 champion, thrice held a three-hole lead in their all-Texas scrap.

But suddenly, Betsy from Austin, Texas, tore into the final nine of Skokie Country Club with a fury that gave her the twenty-eighth, twenty-ninth and thirtieth holes in quick succession.

That evened the match for the third time, and Miss Rawls went out in front for the first time on the thirty-third with a par four while Betty missed a five-footer for a five.

That was the golf match, the suddenly deflated Miss Jameson, 33-year-old campaigner from San Antonio, Texas, unable to better par on the final three holes and Miss Rawls sticking right with her.

Hudson Outpitches Feller As Bosox Nip Tribe, 3 To 1

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Old-timer Sid Hudson outpitched old-timer Bob Feller Saturday as the Boston Red Sox evened their series here to one victory apiece with a 3-1 triumph.

The loss was the seventh in eight games for the slumping Indians.

Hudson held the Indians to five hits, struck out five, walked one and hurled scoreless ball after the first inning for his fifth triumph against four setbacks. A single by Barney McCosky, a sacrifice by Bob Avila and a single by Al Rosen cost him a shutout.

Feller yielded only four hits in seven innings before he was removed for a pinch-hitter, but three of the hits were bunched in the third round when the Red Sox scored all their runs. It was Feller's sixth reverse against six victories.

The score:

Boston 003 000 000—3	5	1
Cleveland 100 000 000—1	5	0

Hudson and Wilber; Feller, Harris, and Hegan, Tebbetts.

Eagles Squeeze By Yankees For 9-8 Win

The South Little League Eagles scored a lone tally in the final frame Friday to edge the Yankees, 9-8.

The Yanks had jumped into a first inning lead by scoring three runs but Eagles came back to tally twice in their half of the first. The Eagles staged a big fourth inning, scoring six runs while holding the Yanks to only one run.

The Yanks picked up three runs in the fifth inning to pull within one marker of the winners but when both teams tallied once in the last frame, the decision went to the Eagles.

The score:

Yankees 300 131—8	8	5
Eagles 200 601—9	9	4

Netherlin, Westerfeld, Westerfeld and Woolard; Bailey, Farris, and Cutbirth.

Bowling League Starts Play Here

A six-team men's Summer bowling league will start play here next Thursday night at the Plamor Bowling Lanes, according to Al Boring, owner of the Lanes.

The league will be divided into two rounds and play will last approximately 12 weeks.

Meanwhile, Boring announced two other teams could be added to the league if anyone is interested, making it an eight-team league.

The Plamor owner also said a mixed couples league, composed of two men and two women to a team, would be organized at 8 p.m. Monday.

The alleys will be closed June 30, July 1 and 2 so that all the lanes can be re-surfaced. Most bowling lanes are re-surfaced once every two years, said Boring, but in order to keep the Midland lanes in top shape, he has the work done on the Plamor Lanes every year.

Augie Guglielmo, National League umpire, is a veteran of 27 months service in the South Pacific during World War II. He participated in the invasions of Hollandia and Biak.

OLD-TIMER IN TOURNAMENT—John Pipes of Big Spring, left, who has played in the Midland Country Club's Invitational Tournament for the last six years, plunks down his money for the entrance fee for the seventh straight time. Accepting his check is the tournament chairman, Fred Hogan.

'TISN'T TALL TIMBER, BUT—J. C. Hardwicke, a former golf pro at the Midland Country Club and now a pro at a Houston Country Club course, figures on a way to get around this budding tree which bars his approach to the green on the North Course of the Midland Country Club.

PLENTY OF ROOM HERE—John Pipes, Big Spring amateur golfer, prepares to tee off the No. 10 hole of the North Course in a practice round. The spacious fairways of the course reach almost as far as the eye can see.

Tourney Initiates Play On Sprawling New Country Club Course

Although comparatively few Midlanders realize it, approximately two and one-half miles north of the city on the Andrews Highway is located what will soon be one of the finest golf courses in the country.

Rising out of the mesquite-covered countryside like an oasis in the desert is the beautiful new North Course of the Midland Country Club.

Construction was started on the huge course, which was hewn out of a total area of 583 acres, almost two years ago in July, 1950.

Fred Hogan, a longtime member of the Midland Country Club, was largely instrumental in drawing up the initial plans, but once the idea was clearly conceived, he turned actual construction of it over to Ralph Plummer of Fort Worth.

To Plummer fell the task of hacking out the broad fairways which measure 90 to 100 feet in width and the job of constructing greens on the barren, parched land.

Realizing that the only way to get grass to grow in the dry soil was to install an adequate water supply, the Country Club officials promptly set about to dig water wells on the property and to erect a 420,000-gallon water storage tank from which the life-giving moisture could be pumped.

So successful were the wells that they were able to pump 1,000,000 gallons of water a day on the course during the early part of its construction.

The present pumps are capable of delivering 1,200 gallons of water a minute at 120 pounds pressure.

And two more water wells are in the process of being dug to furnish an even greater supply.

But, back to the original construction, once the water supply was set up, Plummer continued the construction of the fairways and the greens, and shade trees were planted.

To give an idea of the scope of the operation, one needs only to look at the work which went into the construction of the greens.

Once they were built and shaped, a 10-inch layer of small gravel was placed on each. On top of this sand was placed a prepared material, consisting of equal quantities of soil, sand and peat moss.

Materials placed on the greens alone required 18 freight car loads of gravel, 18 car loads of peat moss and an equal amount of top soil.

Have Carpeted Surface

But the finished product has given the course greens with a carpeted surface which range in size from 5,000 square feet to 9,000 square feet.

In addition to the 18 regular greens, a practice putting green, covering an area of 15,000 square feet was built adjacent to the No. 1 tee.

And north of the starting tee, a practice area with a depth of 350 yards, and a width of 200 yards was built. The practice area is believed to be as large as any in Texas.

Once the course was built, care and maintenance of it was turned over to Jimmy Gamewell who also supervises the other nine-hole course of the Midland Country Club course.

Officials of the course don't consider it completed in any sense of the word. Plenty of work remains to be done on improving the course itself and a clubhouse must be built on the site.

But, they're plenty proud of the results obtained and are calling it, already, "the top tournament course in West Texas, without a peer."

Model North Course To Test Golfer's Skill; No Holes Are 'Easy'

Golfers who enter the Midland Country Club's tournament on the new North Course Wednesday will be playing on a model course, as far as the specifications are concerned.

An ideal course is said to be one which has two five-pars and two three-pars on each nine, and that is the way in which the North Course is constructed.

And the 18-hole course is built to test a golfer's skill to the maximum. For example, the course has 10 four-par holes, ranging in length from 394 to 433 yards.

A seasonal golfer remarked recently after completing 18 holes, "You won't find any easy holes on this course."

Number Sixteen Shortest

The shortest hole on the course is the No. 16, which measures 163 yards for a par three, while the longest hole is No. 15 which measures 602 yards for a par five.

The course is designed so that it can be played from three distances, depending on the energy and ambition of the participant.

From the red markers, it can be played a distance of 7,353 yards; from the white markers a distance of 6,905 feet and from the blue markers a distance of 6,617 feet.

The 18 hole course plays a par 36-36.

At this time, only one of the greens on the course is sand-trapped, the No. 4 hole, but all of the others are grass-trapped.

And, in order to increase the drainage from the greens, all of them are designed to drain to at least three sides, which requires that the golfer, making an approach to any of the greens, uses considerable skill.

No Out-of-Bounds

Another feature of the North course is that, in so far as is known, it is the only one in the United States where there is no out-of-bounds.

The reason for that is that it is almost impossible for a golfer to deliberately drive a ball out of bounds from any tee or fairway.

For golfers who want to keep walking at a minimum, the course should prove particularly attractive since every tee is situated adjacent to the last green played which results in a minimum amount of walking.

BAD NEWS FOR FOES

NEW YORK—(AP)—It's bad news for NFL foes of the New York Giants. Arnie Weinmeister, All-Pro tackle, has signed for his third year with the club. The 29-year-old, 235-pound Weinmeister is captain of the formidable Giant defensive line.

Harness driver Harry Miller scored five victories in one night recently at Lebanon Raceway, Lebanon, O. He is the first driver to accomplish that feat this year.

MOWERS BUSY DAY AND NIGHT

Maintenance of the 7,600-yard long Midland Country Club course is a day and night proposition for Green Supt. Jimmy Gamewell.

Gamewell employs three men to keep the 120 acres of grass mowed and, with play in progress on the course during the day, he has to run the mowers at night, with a light attached to the tractor, to keep the grass trimmed.

Gamewell estimated that it would keep a seven-gang mower busy three and one-half hours daily to keep the course in shape.

Billiard Tournament Ends In Two-Way Tie; Playoff Scheduled

The three-week long billiard tournament, held at the Midland Recreation Club, 211 West Wall Street ended in a tie last week, necessitating a play-off between the two top contenders, Sid Sabath and Perry Jackson.

The pair compiled identical records of 11 wins and two losses. Tiny Davis and Ben Dansby tied for third place with 10 wins and three losses each.

Playoff for the title is scheduled at 8 p.m. Thursday and ample room will be provided for anyone interested in watching the match.

This three-cushion tournament, which is the first of its kind ever held in Midland, created such interest among the spectators that W. C. King, active manager of the club, is installing a new table for those anxious to take up the play.

The table, Brunswick's finest, is an exact duplicate of those used by Willie Hoppe and other notables in world championship play.

Delivery of the table has been promised the first of the week and it is expected to be ready for the playoff.

The way in which the other contenders finished in the tournament is as follows:

Jim White, 8-5; Don Oliver, 7-6; Fred Hogan, 7-6; W. Poe, 7-6; Jim Prince, 6-7; W. McGarr, 5-8; Jack Walker, 3-10; Ish McKnight, 2-11; E. Browlee, 2-11, and Poosty Jones, 2-11.

Pat Garner Retains WT Golf Title

FORT WORTH—Playing in sweltering, humid heat, Pat Garner of Midland successfully defended her title in the West Texas Women's Golf Association tournament at the Colonial Country Club Friday by trouncing Mrs. Gene Harding of El Paso in the 36-hole finale, 7 and 6.

Pat took a 1-up lead at the end of the first nine but conceded the tenth of her opponent's par four. It was the last time in the match Mrs. Harding was really in the contest.

The defending champion promptly took the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth holes in regulation and held that advantage when the girls went to lunch at the end of the first 18 holes. Pat's score for the morning round was 40-39—77.

Resuming the contest after lunch, the Midland miss hiked her advantage to four holes when Mrs. Harding pulled her shot into the trees boardering the green and had to chip on, where she missed her putt and lost the hole to Pat's par five.

Has Tree Trouble

On the number three hole, Mrs. Harding again had tree trouble and skidded to a six to go down five holes when Miss Garner again got down in par.

Trouble continued to haunt the El Paso shooter as she headed her drive into a ravine on number five and skidded to a five on the hole, losing to the defending champ's par four, which ran Pat's advantage to six holes.

On number six hole, Miss Garner added to her cushion by scoring a par four while Mrs. Harding chipped too strongly on the approach and took three more strokes to get down for a five.

The contestants halved the seventh hole but Mrs. Harding scored a birdie duece on the par three number eight hole to win it.

Miss Garner came back to win number nine when Mrs. Harding was trapped on her drive. She blasted out into the lake fronting the green and conceded the hole.

Harding Wins Ten

Mrs. Harding won number 10 when Pat hit the trap beside the green in two and was unsuccessful in trying to get it out in two more blows.

The finalists halved 11 when both scored pars. Mrs. Harding blasted out of a sand trap from 60 feet out to send her ball to within three feet of the cup.

Pat closed the match out on number 12 when she landed in the trap in three, got on the green in four and two-putted to best Mrs. Harding's mark.

It was Miss Garner's fourth straight triumph over Mrs. Harding in tournament competition.

Sal Maglie of the Giants, known as a control pitcher, hit six batsmen last year.

Stage Set For Opening Of Tourney Play Wednesday

The stage was set and registrations were trickling in Saturday for the 25th Annual Midland Country Club's Invitational Golf Tournament which will officially open play on the spacious new North Course.

Qualifying rounds will be held Wednesday for those participants who want to try for medalist honors but, actually, these rounds have been played for the last week.

Activity will begin at 7 a.m. Wednesday and will last until 3 p.m. A barbecue will be held for contestants and their families at 6:30 p.m., following the qualifying rounds.

The first round of match play will begin Thursday and the second and third rounds will be run off Friday and Saturday.

Saturday's activities will be climaxed with an orchestra dance at 9 p.m. Jack Free's orchestra will furnish the music.

The finals of match play will be held Sunday with the presentation of prizes set for 5 p.m. Sunday.

Sixteen players will comprise each flight of the 18 holes of golf which will be played daily.

Bob French of the Odessa and Midland Country Clubs is the defending champion. Joe Bold, representing a sporting goods company, will be the official starter.

Country Club officials expect more than 200 of the top amateur golfers in West Texas to enter the meet.

Indians Take Tilt, 12-8, Over Braves

Larry Geisey and Billy Brown teamed to hand the Braves a 12-8 defeat as their Indian team climbed upward in the North Little League standings Friday. Ahnullo Velarde was the losing pitcher.

Monday afternoon, the Cubs play the Indians on Crockett Field.

In logging their victory, the Indians got eight hits and made one error. The Broves tapped seven safeties and committed five bobbles. Geisey earned the victory in twirling the last three and a third innings.

Gary Samford was catcher for the Indians, and Clay Stringer backed up Velarde for the Braves, who left six men stranded on the basepaths during the game.

Hectic Odessa Win Highlights Action In Longhorn Loop

By The Associated Press

The first pitch, rapped for a homer by Paul Dieppa, leadoff Odessa batter, kicked off the most hectic battle in the Longhorn League Friday night.

What followed was a three-hour and eight-minute, topsy-turvy game in which the league-leading Oilers floored Roswell, 18-11, in a battle of 38 base hits. It gave the hard-pressed Oilers another game on their lead, now two and a half to the good.

Keith Nicolls added his eleventh mound victory as Midland slapped Sweetwater, 14-2. In the other games, Artesia stopped Big Spring, 8-4, and San Angelo blanked Vernon, 5-0.

Gulfstream Park May Include Yacht Basin

HALLANDALE, FLA.—(AP)—Gulfstream Park, with its proximity to the nearby Atlantic Ocean and inland waterway, may someday become the first race course to boast of a yacht basin on the grounds.

President James Donn has delved into the matter of dredging a main channel that converges on the back stretch area. That would permit small boats and yachts to anchor near the track.

Nicolls Holds Sweetwater Braves To Three Hits As Tribe Romps To 14-2 Win

SWEETWATER—(AP)—The Midland Indians pounded out 15 hits behind the brilliant three-hit pitching of Longhorn League Ace Keith Nicolls here Friday night for a 14-2 victory over the Sweetwater Braves.

Nicolls, who achieved his eleventh victory against five defeats, struck out 12 batters to run his league-leading strikeout total to 110. He did not issue a single walk and retired the last 16 batters in order.

Sweetwater's two runs both were unearned off the veteran right-hander in the first inning. Midland came from behind a 2-1 deficit in the sixth with a four-hit attack that yielded five runs, and the Indians coasted the rest of the way. A two-run single by Floyd Martin and a two-run double by Joe Decker were the damaging blows in the sixth. The Indians added a single run in the seventh on two singles and an error, then climaxed the scoring in the eighth with seven runs on six hits and one error. Pat O'Keefe smashed a two-run homer in the eighth after Floyd Martin had driven in one run with a triple, followed by singles by Keith Nicolls, Scooter Hughes and Earl Bossenberry.

Charley Buck, Sweetwater center fielder, was winner of the dash events in a pre-game "field night" program. Julio de la Torre, Dick Cassidy and John Harrison were other winners. Alex Carrasquel, Braves manager, won the fungo hitting contest.

Sugar Ray Can Wear Only One Crown Even If He Beats Maxim

NEW YORK —(AP)— Maybe the boxing commissions are wasting time worrying about Ray Robinson holding two titles.

Most of the pros in the business —managers and trainers—like Joey Maxim in Monday's light-heavyweight championship bout at Yankee Stadium. Still the odds are 11 to 10 and take your pick.

It's definite now that Robinson automatically vacates his middleweight title if he wins from Maxim. Definite, that is, unless the New York State Athletic Commission changes its rules after a conference with commissioners from seven other states Sunday and Monday.

But will that step be necessary? Most of the managers say "No!" They say Maxim will win.

Childress Loses In Olympic Trials

LONG BEACH, CALIF.—Odessa High School sprint star Joe Childress failed to qualify for both the 100 and 200 meter dashes in the National AAU track and field meet here Saturday.

The Odessa speedster qualified in the first of three heats in the 100-meter event, placing a close second behind Rod Richard of UCLA.

But in the second heat or the semi-final, Childress missed out by an eyelash as five runners reached the wire in a photo-finish.

Dean Smith of Texas University came out first in the event and was followed by Alex Burrow of Colorado A&M, Don Campbell, running as an independent from Colorado, and Walter Baker of Kansas State.

The dash men had gotten off to four false starts in the race but on the fifth start, Childress was the last out of the blocks as the others streaked away on a fast getaway. However, the Odessa runner made up the distance and was only a scant three yards out at the finish line.

Childress also qualified in the first heat in the 200-meter event but then fizzled in the other heats.

Childress wore an aluminum jacket over a finger injury suffered in a freak accident on the trip out to California.

He lost the tip of the middle finger of his right hand when his finger was caught in the heavy door of a cafe in Las Cruces, N. M.

In order to take the stitches on the wound, which peeled skin off clear to the bone, the physician had to cut away part of the bone.

The only high school athlete entered in the 100-meter event, Childress nevertheless managed to defeat Jim Golliday of Northwestern University, the NCAA champion in that event. The 100 meters measure 109 yards.

Walt Davis, the towering Texan, Harrison Dillard, an Olympic veteran, and lean young Wes Santee of Kansas set a brilliant standard Saturday pointing the way to a powerful American team in the Summer games in Helsinki.

Davis high jumped 6 feet 10 1/2 inches to set a new meet record, only one-half an inch below the world record of Les Steers set in 1941. In second place came Arnold Betton of Drake and Emery Barnes of Oregon, who cleared 6 feet 9 3/8 inches.

Dillard flashed a convincing comeback to win the 110 meter high hurdles in :13.7, aided by a slight wind. Santee, the 20-year-old distance sensation, won the 1,500 meters in 3:49.3.

Other highlights of the final tuneup before the Olympics tryouts June 27-28 in Los Angeles included:

Parry O'Brien's shot put of 57 feet 4 3/8 inches besting Jim Fuchs, the world record holder.

Andy Stanfield's time of :21.1 in winning the 200 meter.

Three performances in the hop step and jump over 50 feet won by Walter Ashbaugh of the U. S. Army at 50 8 3/4.

CURVES MIGHT BENEFIT TEAM

HARRISBURG, PA.—(AP)—The Harrisburg Senators of the Class B Interstate League—tongue in cheek—Saturday signed a curvaceous, 14-year-old stenographer to a players contract.

The management said the contract given to Eleanor Engle, a pretty Harrisburg brunette whose diamond experience has been strictly confined to softball, is the first ever signed by a woman in organized baseball.

Ward Gains Hobbs Finals

HOBBS, N. M.—Johnny Ward of Midland and Crooner Don Cherry will meet Sunday in the 36-hole finals of the Hobbs Invitational Golf Tournament.

Ward, idol of the gallery, entered the finals Saturday by beating Jerry Scott of Big Spring, 4 and 3. He had won over Dr. C. R. Branson of Hobbs, 1 up, in the third round.

Cherry went into the finale by defeating Bobby Wright of Big Spring, 4 and 3, Saturday. He had beaten Dick Jennings of Lubbock, 1 up, in the third round.

Robert Wortman of Midland lost out in the second round. He fell before Scott, 3 and 2. Bill Franklin of Midland lost to Bill Bartley of Lubbock, 3 and 2, in the first round.

Billy Walker defeated Franklin, 5 and 3, in championship consolation competition.

Nine-Run Inning Gives Dodgers Win

BROOKLYN —(AP)— The Brooklyn Dodgers exploded for nine runs in the eighth inning Saturday night to break up a close game and thrash the Pittsburgh Pirates, 14-4. Andy Pafko drove home four runs during the rally on a homer and single. The victory was Brooklyn's tenth straight over the Pirates.

The Dodgers paraded 15 men to the plate in the big eighth. They collected only five hits but made the most of five walks, a hit batsman and an error. Peewee Reese also homered in the big inning. Pafko's homer was his eleventh and his first with a man on base.

The score:		R.	H.	E.

Bartzen, Surface In Net Finals Sunday

KANSAS CITY —(AP)— First Seeded Sgt. Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Fort Sill, Okla., convincingly defeated UCLA's youthful Larry Huebner, 6-1, 7-5, 6-0 Saturday to move into the men's singles finals of the Heart of America Tennis Tournament.

Bartzen meets veteran Hal Surface of Kansas City in Sunday's finals. Surface earlier eliminated the bespectacled Clif Mayne of the University of California, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Montes May Run In Olympics After All

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Crack distance runner Javier Montes may go to the Helsinki Oylmpics after all, as a member of Mexico's team. But first he'll have to confirm he wants to compete for Mexico and that he is a Mexican citizen.

Gen. Jesus Clark Flores, head of the Mexican Sports Federation said: "If Montes insists he wants to compete for Mexico, and confirms he is a Mexican citizen, then we'll fight for him."

Then he added, "But it's obvious we need a statement from him."

MAXIM PLANS AIR TRIP TO NEW YORK

GROSSINGER, —(AP)—Light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim insisted he will fly to New York Sunday for Monday's title defense against Ray Robinson despite Promoter Jim Norris' orders to the contrary.

"This is 1952," said Maxim, "not the horse and buggy days. The ride to New York in that Sunday traffic would upset my nerves."

THREAT FOR MEDALIST

LAFAYETTE, IND.—(AP)—Wesley Ellis, Southwestern Conference golf champion from the University of Texas, fired an eight-under-par 63 Saturday over Purdue University's south course to become a major threat for medal honors in the NCAA tournament this week.

Mizell Gets First Shutout In Majors

BOSTON —(AP)— Rookie Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell gained his first major league shutout for the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday with a masterful four-hit pitching performance that blanked the Boston Braves, 9-0.

Mizell totaled 11 strikeouts while giving up six bases on balls. But the only Tribesman to connect solidly against him was Sid Gordon, who had a double and a single.

The Cards backed Mizell, who now has a 2-5 record, with a 12-hit attack against Boston pitchers Max Surkont, Bob Chipman and Sheldon Jones. Red Schoendienst knocked in four of the runs with a two-bagger and a pair of singles.

The score:

BIRDIE HELPS ON HOLE-IN-ONE

NORTHAMPTON, MASS. —(AP) Robert Walsh of Easthampton hit a birdie to make a hole in one at Northampton Country Club.

Walsh, playing with three companions, drove from the seventh tee Friday. His ball struck a crow, dropped and wound up in the cup.

The crow dropped dead.

Dr. Rainey Resigns Stephens Presidency

COLUMBIA, MO. —(AP)— Resignation of Dr. Homer P. Rainey as president of Stephens College was announced Saturday by Hugh Stephens, president of the college board of curators.

Neither Dr. Rainey nor the board offered any explanation for the surprise resignation.

Dr. Rainey came to the college after leaving the presidency of the University of Texas and after making an unsuccessful campaign for governor of Texas.

High Officials Predict Resumption Of Steel Output For Defense Within Week

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A high Administration official predicted Saturday that some steel production for essential defense needs would be resumed within a week.

The government has been working two weeks on a plan to get partial production going in mills equipped to turn out special, high-alloy steel for top-priority defense uses, such as tanks and bullets.

The job is vastly complicated, however, and production has not started. This official, asking not to be named, told a reporter most of the plants scheduled for reopening have been selected. He did not name them.

The nation-wide steel strike, now in its twentieth day, is costing around 250,000 tons of the defense-vital metal each day. The strike over a new contract by 650,000 CIO steelworkers had already forced idleness of more than 100,000 other workers in steel-using industries.

But administration officials repeated Saturday what they have been saying right along: that President Truman still has not decided to use the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and ask a court to stop the strike for 80 days. The Senate, by a top-heavy vote, already has requested Truman to do that. And the House, judging by several votes it took late last week on the bill to extend wage and price controls, is considered certain to do the same.

It was learned reliably some of Truman's advisers are considering another presidential appeal to Congress for a special seizure law which would enable the government to take over the eight-billion-dollar industry and run it until the union and industry reach a contract agreement.

Industry and union leaders gathered in New York Thursday and the government held high hopes at that time that another round of peace talks might result. But the "talks" collapsed before they ever got started. No new ones were scheduled.

Eisenhower Flays Delegate Steal—

as were moving into the Republican Party according to the rules laid down by ourselves. They went to work for the party at the precinct level. They rang doorbells. They addressed envelopes. They did the down-to-earth drudgery that is an essential part of the business of self government. That was good news to me.

"Then later I heard of the Great Betrayal of these young people. Let me tell you, that was a betrayal of the whole Republican Party and its principles. A party can not have room for victory that does not make room for youth.

"Instead of the great upsurge or moral and spiritual strength we need, how sadly we must look on what has happened here.

Rustlers Steal Birthright

"Thousands upon thousands of Republican voters—an overwhelming majority of them—were deliberately and ruthlessly disenfranchised. Majority rule, the very basis of our free government—was here flouted and over-ridden As one of our own Texas newspapers said: 'If a businessman used the same tactics he would be indicted and sent to prison by any American jury.' And in this case the rustlers stole the Texas birthright instead of Texas steers."

Eisenhower said none of the contested delegates to the convention must be allowed to vote to seat themselves or other contested delegates "until their credentials have been passed upon in an open, fair and impartial manner, and approved by the convention."

"Otherwise," he said, "the persons on trial will be members of the jury."

Then he added: "Honesty and fair play cannot be compromised. They will be respected at the Republican convention. Then — but only then—will our nominee for President, whatever his name, be in a position to fight effectively against corruption in our national government,"

Eisenhower said the Republican Party is the minority party in the United States by about 4,500,000 votes—"so what the Republican party needs to win next November . . . is more Americans who will vote Republican."

Disillusioned Democrats

Yet, he said, there are some "who try to bolt the doors of entrance to our party to keep out disturbed and disillusioned Democrats."

He went on to say: "And those who disparage the independent vote forget that their vote is the balance of power in our national elections. I am not for spurning the independents. I am for opening the door and inviting them to join us. That, I repeat, is because I want to win.

"So, I am for going out into the highways and byways and rounding up every voter we can get to vote our way—Republican, Democrat and independent."

Eisenhower said the Republicans have been losing the votes of youth and that this support must be regained.

Opportunity Ahead

Eisenhower said the people have been "outraged by the corruption lately uncovered in Washington."

"It was revealed that, among men too long in power, public morals have sunk to a shocking low," he added.

"There is no opportunity ahead of the Republican Party bigger or more important to our country than to root our corruption; to establish in Washington the kind of morals that the average American practices toward his neighbor.

"But no party can clean up the government of the United States unless that party—from top to bottom—is clean itself. We have got to come into court—the high court of public opinin—with clean hands."

Then he went on to say no political party can tolerate a rigged convention and win.

He called for a Republican Party that will have moral and spiritual strength, that will win the loyalty of youth, and that will be a national party representing all the people.

Police Capture 21 Of 300 Escaped Brazilian Convicts

SAO PAULO, BRAZIL—(AP)—Police fought a blazing gun battle Saturday and recaptured 21 of the almost 300 desperate, heavily armed convicts who escaped in stolen boats from their island prison after killing 15 guards and civilian employes.

The prison doctor and a radio operator died of wounds later.

Among the captured was the notorious criminal, the "Blond Devil," a leader in the break from Anchieta Island Friday. One convict was killed and another wounded in the battle near the coastal town of Ubatuba.

The prisoners, about three-fourths of the island's prison population of 400, overpowered their guards, seized machine guns and rifles from a depot, and dashed for the mainland three-tenths of a mile away. There they landed and struck terror in the small towns of Ubatuba, Sao Vicente and Caraguatuba, about 160 miles south of this Brazilian state capital.

Federal troops, Air Force planes and Navy boats were rushed to the area. The police chief at Caraguatuba reported his men had clashed with one band of convicts and called for reinforcements. Details of the fighting there were lacking.

The biggest group of prisoners, about 200, was reported fleeing toward Parati, northward from Ubatuba, a small port town of 1,000. Air Force planes tried to track them.

Construction Man Mauled At Orange

ORANGE —(AP)— A construction superintendent was mauled badly here Saturday after starting work on a pile driving project that has been delayed by labor dispute.

B. L. Hale, 45, of Fort Worth, was hospitalized after the attack. He is part owner and superintendent of John T. Buckner and Sons, Corsicana construction firm.

"A gang of 20 men walked up and I guess six or seven started working on me," he said.

The pile driver started work Saturday on a bridge contract for the State Highway Department.

Hale told reporters that while the men worked on him, they warned him to "get out of town and stay out."

George F. Cook of Port Arthur, business agent for Pile Drivers' Local 1347, denied that the beating was administered by union men.

Wife Of Lubbock Jet Ace Receives Award For Husband

LUBBOCK —(AP)— Mrs. George A. Davis, Jr., wife of the American jet hero missing in Korea, was presented a Distinguished Service Cross, the nation's second highest award, Saturday for her husband.

The presentation was made at the graduation exercises of Reese Air Force Base Class 52-D, by Maj. Gen. Warren R. Carter, newly appointed commander of Allied Air Forces in Northern Europe.

When her husband was shot down in Korea several months ago, Mrs. Davis bitterly criticized the Air Force's rotation system for ace pilots. She claimed at that time he should have been sent home after he had shot down enough enemy planes for an ace's rating.

Shell Chemists Set New Mileage Mark In Souped-Up Job

WOOD RIVER, ILL. —(AP)—Two Shell Oil Company chemists nursed a record 168.49 miles per gallon of gasoline with a "souped-up" 1934 model automobile in the firm's annual mileage marathon Saturday.

The chemists, Dave Berry and Fred Schuette, admitted what they did wouldn't be wise for the ordinary motorist.

They put 110 pounds of air in tires from which the tread had been filed, put a racing car body on the chassis, removed the fan belt, blocked the radiator grill and stepped up the compression ratio of the four-cylinder engine. They kept their speed at 20 miles an hour or less, coasting where possible.

The previous record on the 12-mile course was 149.95 miles, set in 1949.

The fire at the Iroyuois theater, Chicago occurred during the matinee performance on Dec. 30, 1903, with a loss of 602 lives.

'Good Speech,' Says Texas GOP Chairman

DALLAS —(AP)— Orville Bullington, state chairman of the Republican Executive Committee, listened with intense interest Saturday night to what Gen. Dwight Eisenhower had to say, but insisted he still was neutral.

"A fine speech. I wouldn't say so if I didn't think so," Bullington said of the general's speech.

The general lashed out at the state GOP convention in that speech, and he said that Texas had a small clique of Republicans who look upon the party as their fenced-in, personal preserve.

What did Bullington, who presided at the state executive committee meeting that kicked out Eisenhower delegates, think of that portion of the speech?

"Well, there are two sides to every question. No convention ever votes as I would vote. I mean no implications in that at all. I didn't have a vote."

Asked what he was doing at the dinner for Eisenhower, Bullington replied:

"Doing what I ought to do for any Republican candiate that comes—welcome them to the State of Texas."

Bullington sat at the speakers platform. When Eisenhower finished his speech, Bullington leaned across two persons to shake the general's hand.

Zweifel Brands Ike's Talk 'Tribute To Poor Advice'

FORT WORTH —(AP)— Henry Zweifel Saturday called Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Dallas speech a "spectacular tribute to poor advice."

The leader of Senator Robert A. Taft's Texas forces said in a statement that he wondered "if the general's adviser's have permited him to learn the facts."

Zweifel repeated previous charges that Eisenhower supporters led by Jack Porter of Houston had advertised that Democrats could enter Republicana precinct and county conventions and remain Democrats. He offered to meet with Eisenhower and show him the advertisements.

Steel Settlement Rumors Are Heard

NEW YORK —(AP)— The appearance here of some top steel management and union figures Friday aroused speculation Saturday that efforts were undertaken to resume direct negotiations in the 20-day-old steel strike.

An industry spokesman declared there had been no meeting between the two groups.

He would not deny, however, they may have been in touch by telephone. But he said he knew of no plans for any meeting in the near future.

One source had said:

"We felt we were making progress, but in the end we got nowhere, and we are right back where we started from."

The speculation arose when it was learned Philip Murray, president of the CIO Steelworkers Union, and Arthur Goldberg, union attorney, were in New York at the same time as Benjamin Fairless, president of U. S. Steel, and other steel executives.

Truman Reported Sold On Stevenson, Harriman Ticket

WASHINGTON, —(AP)— President Truman is reported to have told friends he would be delighted to have a Democratic ticket headed by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, with W. Averell Harriman in second place.

Although Truman has refrained from making any public commitment, men long associated with him in politics now are working privately for the Stevenson-Harriman combination.

The chief difficulty in this connection, these men say lies in the continued personal determination of Stevenson to avoid becoming a presidental candidate if he can help it.

Although Harriman now considers himself a strong possibility for top place on the ticket, most Democratic leaders believe he could be persuaded to take second place as a good soldier. They aren't so sure, however, they can stake out second place for him.

Reds Suffer 865 Casualties On T-Bone, Pork Chop Hills

SEOUL — (AP) — American and Filipino infantrymen braced early Sunday for expected new Chinese Red assaults of "T-Bone" and "Pork Chop" Hills on the Korean Western Front.

They inflicted an estimated 865 casualties in a furious six-hour battle Saturday. But late Saturday night the Reds renewed their intensive bombardment of the hills west of Chorwon.

Associated Press Correspondent Milo Farneti, with the U. S. 45th Division, reported the Chinese assaults turned into the biggest battle along the front since the U. S. 3rd Division drove the Reds off "Little Gibraltar" last November. Farneti added:

"Chinese casualties in the two weeks of fighting rose 'probably close to 3,000,' a frontline American officer said. American troops called the two main hills "T-Bone" and "Pork Chop" because of their peculiar shapes. The hills are separated by a valley and a low ridge.

"The Chinese poured in about 7,500 rounds of artillery and mortar before and during their six-hour attack. The 179th Regiment and the Philippine 19th Battalion Combat Team fought off — sometimes with bayonets—four Chinese battalions between 10:25 p.m. Friday and 5:30 a.m., Saturday. Red artillery hit "T-Bone" with 800 rounds in 15 minutes during the early part of the battle."

Frontline officers estimated the Chinese attacking force at between 3,000 and 4,000 men.

Farneti reported that American troops on "Pork Chop" Hill said a Chinese woman — apparently a nurse—charged up the hill with the attackers.

"One soldier said he saw what appeared to be a nurse come into the bunker he was in," Farneti said. "He pretended to be dead and escaped."

On the East-Central Front, southwest of Kumsong, elements of the South Korean 6th Division held off a Chinese battalion within small arms range.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force reported in its weekly summary that Sabre jet pilots shot down six Communist fighters and damaged two. The Air Force said F-86's bagged three MIG-15's and three propeller-driven LA-9's. U. S. losses were listed as an F-84 Thunderjet, downed by ground fire, and a Marine Corsair, lost to unknown causes.

British Officials Heap New Charges On Spying Suspect

LONDON —(AP)— Crown prosecutors heaped additional charges Saturday on William Marshall, Foreign Office radio operator accused of giving state secrets to Russia.

The sallow-faced Marshall, 34, central figure in Britain's latest spy care, fidgeted in the dock at a 15-minute Magistrate Court hearing, and made a fight for freedom on bail.

The crown blocked that move promptly. Prosecutor J. S. Bass said Marshall had been found in possession of a document containing "highly secret and confidential information." The document now is safe in the hands of British authorities but there is a chance the substance of it "can remain in his head," Bass said.

Russian's Name Reappears

Once again the name of Pavel Kuznetsov, second secretary of the Russian Embassy here, was brought into the proceedings. He is the man, the prosecution charged, to whom Marshall delivered information which might be useful to an enemy.

Kuznetsov was named in three of four new charges brought against Marshall.

The crown did not reveal much of its case Saturday. A blanket charge on which Marshall was arrested June 13, as he conversed with an unarmed man in a suburban park, merely said he had communicated improperly with Rusians on divers occasions.

The new charges Saturday stated he had given data to Kuznetsov at Kingston, Surrey, April 25, at Wimbledon May 19 and at Wandsworth, a London district, June 13.

The fourth charge opened a new phase, alleging Marshall in addition to giving information to the Russian secretary also received data which might be useful to an enemy. It came into his possession, the charge said, between June 1 and 13 at Hanslope Park, 40 miles north of London, where the Foreign Office radio station is situated.

Marshall was employed there sending government messages, many of them in code, to British missions around the world. For a time he also was a radio operator at the British Embassy in Moscow.

Magistrate Clyde T. Wilson did not require Marshall to make a plea, and continued the hearing until Thursday. He ruled against the application for bail.

FBI Agents Arrest Bank Teller Accused In $38,224.06 Theft

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— Martin Gilbert Olsen, 37, a Brooklyn, N. Y., bank teller accused of disappearing with $38,224.06 of his bank's cash during a lunch hour five months ago, was seized Saturday by FBI agents.

Olsen, picked up in a downtown Los Angeles hotel, was quoted by the FBI agents as saying he spent $10,000 of the money on a cross-country binge while he entertained women.

The bank teller told the FBI he still had $22,000 left of the cash which was missed, along with Olsen, last January 29 by the Chemical Bank and Trust Company.

Assembly Of God Seeks Recognition In Italian Courts

ROME — (AP) — Accusing Italy's Interior Ministry of religious intolerance, the Assembly of God congregation in Italy has appealed to the nation's highest tribunal for legal recognition.

The Assembly of God spiritually affiliated with the General Council of the Assemblies of God, Springfield, Mo., was established in Italy in 1900. It claims almost 100,000 members here.

During the last four years, there have been at least 40 cases of arrests of its pastors for conducting religious services. Pastors have received jail sentences of 15 to 30 days and churches have been closed, he said.

European Nations Plan Vast Nuclear Research Center

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK —(AP) —A plan for setting up the world's largest nuclear research establishment was unfolded here Saturday by a group of atomic scientists from 11 European countries. The estimated costs in money seem surprisingly small.

If it is carried out, Europe will move a decisive step forward in the use of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes.

Meeting newsmen at the close of a three-week conference at the Copenhagen Institute for Theoretical Physics, the scientists said the research center could be completed in six or seven years at a cost of some 25 million dollars.

The money would be subscribed by the participating European countries and the scientific results achieved made available to all the member nations.

TEXARKANA —(AP)— A 35 per cent pay boost for public school teachers and a minimum pension of $100 a month for the old folks was urged here Saturday by Mrs. Allene M. Taylor of San Antonio, candidate for governor.

At the same time, she blasted her two opponents as professional politicians and urged that control of the state's government be returned to the citizens of Texas.

Prices May Climb Monday To Meet Freight Rate Hike

A large number of Midland merchants will be able to raise prices Monday on thousands of consumer articles, including clothing and furniture, to pay off higher frieght rates.

The announcement was made by Office of Price Stabilization experts in Washington who said the action could result in price increases ranging from a few cents to several dollars on some of the most important items consumers buy.

But OPS declared it was confident store owners would not raise their prices substantilly in the near future because most consumer products now are selling below the ceilings authorized by the government.

One price official asserted: "We really don't look for any changes in prices in the immediate future. No significant increases in soft good such as clothing are anticipated. Durable goods could go up but not now."

Besides clothing and furniture, the increased ceiling prices are authorized for shoes, toys and games, some home appliances, mattresses and items sold by furniture, drug, appliance and clothing stores across the nation.

Largest rice ceiling increases were authorized for 87 types of so-called "hard" consumer goods such as furniture, radio and television sets, garden equipment and similar products. Shipping costs for these articles usually are high because of their weight.

Pat And Ike Look Alike, So Reporter 'Scrunches'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK —(AP)— You've heard all the stories about Pat and Mike.

Well, this one's about Pat and Ike. They look alike.

His strong facial resemblance to Gen. "Ike" Eisenhower has been one long comedy of errors to Relman "Pat" Morin, Pulitzer prize-winning reporter for the Associated Press.

It bagan nine years ago when Pat was first mistaken for Ike. And it has gone on intermittently ever since, as Pat has spent a good part of those years reporting the varied activities of Ike in war and peace.

"I don't see the resemblance myself," said Pat, "but other people do."

The other people include Pat's own wife.

If they are not mistaking Pat for Ike when they are apart, they mistake Pat for Ike's younger brother when the two are at the same event. Pat is tall, balding and 44. Ike is tall, balding and 62.

The first instance of this "look-alike" trouble cost Pat the annoyance of a king.

The Royal Frown

"It happened in a French village outside Bizerte during the tour of the North African battlefront made by the late King George VI and in 1943," Pat recalled.

"I was among a group of eight or 10 reporters assigned to travel in his motorcade. Several of us were in the motor car immediately behind the King's.

"While King George was being greeted by the village officials, a Frenchman in the crowd looked in our car, spotted me, and cried: 'Look, there's General Eisenhower, too!'

"Part of the crowd began surging excitedly around us. All I could do was scrunch down in the car, trying to look as small as possible. I kept saying in Frence, 'No, no, you are mistaken.'

"The king, who was a grand guy, naturally was annoyed at the disturbance. He thought some of us were clowning around during the welcoming ceremony. He spun around and we got the full blast of a royal frown.

"Later his aides put him straight."

Minor versions of the same thing have been going on ever since.

"What gets me is that people who mistake me for Ike get mad at me when they discover I am not their hero," Pat said.

Russia Mobilizes Satellites In New Diplomatic Offensive

LONDON—(AP)—Russia Saturday night mobilized her satellites in a new diplomatic offensive apparently with high hopes of yet defeating a linkup of West German and West European arms.

The first shot was fired by the Czechoslovak National Assembly, which called on the parliaments of Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg to defeat ratification of what it called United States "war agreements"—the Western peace contract with Germany and the six-nation European Army Pact.

The 850-word message, transmitted to the Foreign Office Saturday by Ambassador Josef Ullrich for delivery to the British Parliament, also backed up Russia's demand for a four-power conference to draft a German peace treaty on Soviet terms.

Hungary and Poland quickly issued similar appeals, and a Budapest dispatch indicated the parliaments and governments of other East European satellites would fall in line with direct approaches to West European parliaments.

The Hungarian action was in the form of a government statement. Poland's voice was heard in the form of a broadcast speech by President Boleslaw Bierut to the Central Committee of the Polish United Workers Communist party. He said the U. S. was trying to assign German youth to the "role of cannon fodder."

Ailing East German Boss Grotewohl May Be Booted Out Soon

BERLIN—(AP)—Ailing Otto Grotewohl, the fire and steam gone from his speeches, may step aside as Prime Minister of Germany's Russian zone when the Socialist Unity Communist Party meets next month.

West German political quarters said Saturday they have heard that Walter Ulbricht, who holds the real power now, is ready to take over the big name spot. Ulbricht is deputy prime minister. But more important, he is general secretary of the East Zone Communist Party.

The position of Grotewohl with Moscow has been reported shaky for sometime. Now 58, he has found it necessary to take two vacations since Easter. Last year he was away from his office 10 weeks on what was called a "rest cure." In his last public appearance he spoke like a tired man.

A decision to replace him with Uubricht may be reached at the annual rally, July 9-12, of the Socialist Unity Party. If such be done, some West German political sources said the Western Powers could expect new heights in bitter attacks from Ulbricht, champion of unification of all Germany under Russian ideas.

July 1 Date For Extension Of TV Network Facilities

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK —(AP)— If television had its own calendar, July 1 would be a red letter day.

That's the target date set by American Telephone and Telegraph Company for extension of its network facilities to 10 more cities. Thus all but one of the nation's 66 TV cities can be hooked up for the Republican convention July 7 and Democratic convention July 21, and will continue to get network service therafter.

On the same date, the Federal Communications Commission will start considering applications for licenses for new stations. A freeze has been in effect since Oct. 1, 1948.

To Add 5,000 Miles

The network expansion will add about 5,000 miles of TV circuits to the 24,500 now in service.

Cities that will start receiving network service are Miami, New Orleans, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Seattle and Phoenix.

Thus the lineup for the convention telecasts wil be: 65 cities with 107 stations in range of more than 17 million sets in an area with 61 per cent of the nation's population.

By contrast, four years ago the conventions were telecast in seven cities over 16 stations, and about 400,000 sets were in use.

Resumption of licensing means television once more can expand to new areas. But probably less than a dozen new stations can go on the air by the end of 1952, with the pace quickening to 100 or 150 in 1953.

Now Out Of Range

New stations will mean the most, of course, to areas now out of range of television, but what about those with only one or two stations?

It will give television much more of a home town flavor when more stations go on the air, says G. Bennett Larson, vice president and general manager of station WPIX here—one of seven in metropolitan New York.

Larson, in radio since 1926 and TV since 1940, says the arrival of a second, third or fourth station in a city will, first of all, give the viewer a choice, or greater choice of programs.

Viewers who now can tune in only one station do get the best or close to the best of shows from all the networks. But they can't see all the network shows or choose among them. And the station's own schedule usually is pretty well filled with network shows.

But with more stations, Larson points out, the viewer not only has a choice of programs, but the stations have more time for local community telecasts.

More News Programs

"There will be more news programs for another thing," says Larson, who puts 63 news programs a week on non-network WPIX.

"There will be a lot more emphasis on music—although we haven't really come up with a good pattern for music on television."

There also definitely will be more religion on the air, he predicts, and more community service programs such as high school or other amateur dramatic productions and cooking shows geared to the eating habits of the locality.

Kefauver Manager Charges Deal For Russell, Stevenson

CHICAGO — (AP) — Senator Estes Kefauver's campaign manager declared Saturday that Kefauver's opponents have conspired to deadlock the Democratic National Convention and give Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois the presidential nomination.

Gael Sullivan, in a radio-television address, said Democratic party political bosses are "conniving" in the deal which also would name Senator Richard Russell of Georgia the vice presidential nominee.

Sullivan said this was all part of a stop-Kefauver drive negotiated in a "smoke-filled room."

Price Bosses Rap House Vote Lifting Consumer Controls

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam said Saturday lifting of price controls from consumer goods would cause costs to soar so sharply present prices would "look like bargains."

Price Administrator Ellis Arnall agreed with Putnam that such a move by Congress would make the controls law a "monstrosity" and "completely unworkable."

Arnall told a meeting of the Eastern Labor Press News Conference he would recommend that "we do away with price controls entirely" if the decontrol amendment passed tentatively by the House Friday becomes law.

Putnam, in a statement earlier, accused the House of a "to-hell-with-the-consumer attitude" for approving the amendment by Rep. Talle (R-Iowa) to exempt from price controls all items and commodities not rationed or allocated.

This covers virtually all things housewives buy, as there is no rationing at present, and only a very few items—such as scarce metals—are allocated.

In his sharply worded statement, Putnam expressed hope the lawmakers would change their minds—and their votes—when they resume action this week on the Defense Production Act designed to extend wage, price, rent and other controls.

Arnall told the labor press conference he feels the House will not adopt the amendment because he did not think the congressmen fully understood that passage of the Talle amendment would mean "the end of controls."

"A minority in control of the House yesterday voted for higher food prices, higher living costs, higher defense costs," Putnam said in his statement. "It voted for inflation.

"The absenteeism on the one hand and the to-hell-with-the-consumer attitude on the other gave us a bill which is now a montrosity.

"Inflation in America is Stalin's best ally. These amendments would weaken America in the face of Communist danger."

Compromise Plan Offered In Korea's Political Stalemate

PUSAN, KOREA —(AP)— Supporters of a compromise plan to settle South Korea's worsening political crisis sought a special meeting of the National Assembly Sunday on the eve of the scheduled—but indefinite—presidential election.

Opponents of President Syngman Rhee continued to boycott the Assembly, however. They asserted the legislative body—which elects the President—is unable to function freely under the President's martial law and while 11 fellow assemblymen are under arrest.

In a compromise effort, two constitutional amendments were introduced in the Assembly Saturday. One would fill Rhee's demands for election of the President by the people rather than by the Assembly, and for a two-house national Congress instead of the present unicameral body.

The other constitutional amendment would make the Cabinet responsible to the lawmakers rather than to the President.

The compromise faction, led by Prime Minister Chang Taik Sang, seeks approval of both as a solution to the open and sometimes violent political war being waged by Rhee and his opposition.

Marble Of Cathedral Offered To Churches

LONDON —(AP)— Marble from St. Paul's Cathedral is available to any who wish to incorporate it into their church as a symbol of fellowship with the ancient Cathedral Church of London. Already more than 50 churches in Britain and overseas has received pieces, includnig churches in the United States, Australia, Canada, Germany, South Africa, and st Tonga and Fiji in the South Pacific.

The marble comes from the old reredos, which has been removed in the reconstruction of the bombed East End of the Cathedral, where the new American Memorial Chapel is to stand behind the new High Altar.

The Chapel, for which Britons subscribed $280,000—mostly in pennies—will house the handwritten Roll of Honor containing the names of 28,000 U. S. servicemen who died in the British Isles.

'Jolly Good,' Say Britons Of Genuine Texas Barbecue

CAMBRIDGE, ENGLAND—(AP)—A Texan in a ten-gallon hat barbecued a one-ton Texas steer for 1,000 hungry Englishmen on a cricket field here Saturday. The majority verdict: "jolly good."

One top-hatted gentleman, his waistcoat splattered with tobasco sauce, said: "I'm going right home to barbecue a rabbit."

"All in all," drawled Buster Shely of Corpus Christi, "It went off right good. Only trouble is I had to use elm wood for the fires instead of slipwood like back home."

The barbecue — complete with steer, chili powder, tobasco sauce, and butter—was the gift of the Texas Corpus Christi to Corpus Christi College here at Cambridge University.

The college was anxious to do something special for its 600th birthday. Back in the good old days, when there was no meat ration, the college used to roast an ox.

Dream Comes True

That seemed like only a heavenly dream until the people in Texas got wind of the dilemma and sent Shely, a 41-year-old insurance man and long-time barbecue expert, all the way to Cambridge to do up the steer they sent.

Wearing a bright yellow shirt with a Lions Club emblem, Shely was up at 5 a.m. to start things cooking. College undergraduates had been up all night keeping the fires going in newly dug pits.

A queue 40 yards long was waiting eagerly hours later when Shely announced, "come and get it."

A band from the Queen's own IV Hussars Winston Churchill's old regiment struck up a stirring march, flags of the college and the City of Corpus Christi were unfurled and a cricket game under way nearby hastily was suspended.

The bandmaster asked Shely what tune he would like played.

"The Eyes of Texas," Shely replied. What else?

Since the band didn't have the music for this, a compromise was arranged. The band played first "The Roast Beef of Old England" followed by Sousa's "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Asbury Methodists Mark Building Fund Completion

A victory dinner and special thanksgiving service was held Friday night in the South Elementary School Cafeteria to mark the successful completion of a building fund campaign staged by the Asbury Methodist Church at 106 West Dakota Street.

The campaign goal of $75,000 was oversubscribed by more than $2,000—a total of $77,701 having been posted on the scoreboard Friday night. Additional gifts are expected to swell the receipts to $80,000, mostly in three-year pledges.

Dr. Orion W. Carter, superintendent of the Big Spring District of the Methodist Church, was the principal speaker at the victory celebration. Stating that it is accomplishments such as Asbury's campaign that make it possible for churches to keep pace with rapidly expanding communities such as Midland, the speaker predicted present plans will have to be altered later as an even larger church probably will be needed by the time construction is started.

Tribute To Workers

J. P. Carson, Jr., general campaign chairman, paid tribute to the small band of volunteer workers who carried the load in the building fund effort. He said that in many instances too many persons are too busy to participate in efforts which make communities better places in which to live. He revealed that new leadership had been uncovered among the younger men of Asbury Methodist Church and said he considers this factor more valuable than attainment of the financial objective.

The Big Gifts Committee was headed by O. M. (Buddy) Pulliam, with Special Gifts being handled under the chairmanship of Wesley T. Fields. W. Clyde Gwyn served as chairman of the General Gifts Division, with the Master Gifts (church school teen-agers) Committee headed by Wayne Wilson and Wanda Moore.

Pledges Consecrated

At the close of the meeting the building fund pledges were consecrated as a part of a special thanksgiving prayer.

A special observance also will be held Sunday morning during the worship service conducted by the Rev. Cecil C. Hardaway, pastor.

The campaign was conducted to provide funds for a new sanctuary, parsonage and additional church school facilities.

McCAMEY SPEAKER—Will R. Wilson, Jr., associate justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, will be principal speaker at the annual chamber of commerce banquet and new officers' installation next Thursday in the McCamey Park Building.

China Communist Geography Texts Commend U. S.

HONG KONG—(AP)—The Chinese Communists have found "venomous worship of U. S. ideology" in a couple of their own geography texts.

The official Peoples Daily of Peiping charges one book made the party-line error of saying the United States led in reserves and output of coal, oil and iron and was first in the production of copper, zinc and lead.

The newspaper said the geography should have noted instead that Russia surpassed the United States in copper and lead reserves. The book also erred in failing to mention the "aggressive purposes" of the U. S. in the Pacific.

The newspaper rapped the second book for observing: "The rich mineral resources are the major factors in the U. S.'s success as a capitalist nation at the highest industrial level in the world."

After 40 Years On Other Projects, He Builds Own Residence

TAMPA, FLA. —(AP)— After 40 years of working on houses for other people, John Ciesla, 62, a retired concrete worker, is building one to suit himself.

Ciesla just indulges his construction whims. For instance, there's a giant clock set in the house's cement finish that has immovable hands set at 11:38. He's not sure just why he picked that particular time.

The house is trimmed in varied shades of yellow, green, blue and red, sprayed over the cement. Green cement vines with big cement flowers run up the sides of the building. The railing posts of the outside steps are adorned with cement heads with caricature-like faces.

Another cement face overlooking the outside stairs has eyes which are really concealed peepholes. And Ciesla is not finished yet.

Woman Kills Self As New Law Hits

SINGAPORE —(AP)— A Chinese Communist law designed to bring to an end customary Chinese filial piety has led to the suicide of a pretty Chinese woman here.

The woman hanged herself because she was depressed by a letter from her mother in Red China. Her mother had written that her brother, having married a second time, had invoked a new Communist law which states that each household has to live by itself, and had thrown her aged mother out.

LOVE'S LABOR LOST

HALIFAX, CANADA —(AP)— Fire engines roared along the streets and firefighters doused the blaze in an old Defense Department building here. Shortly after they left, demolition workers arrived for the day shift on their job—tearing down the old structure.

KEY, WILSON & MAXSON'S
REAL ESTATE
Bulletin Board
REPORTING THE TOP NEWS IN REAL ESTATE

$460 PER MONTH is the income you will get with this unusually good residential investment proposition. It consists of three 2-bedroom houses and one duplex. Excellent location on North Big Spring Street.

WHY NOT HAVE IT NOW? If you've been mulling over the thought of owning a brand new 3-bedroom brick home, carpeted wall-to-wall, you should see this one for only $14,900. Just the location you'd want, too, a corner site on West Louisiana . . . convenient to elementary and junior high schools. This home is centrally heated and, has many, many reasons to make you realize it's priced under the market. Oh, yes . . . attached garage, too!

CLOSE TO TOWN, and just a block off North Big Spring is this unusual buy. A large family home, with three bedrooms, beautiful kitchen with dishwasher, family room, and roomy combination children's room and utility. It's well landscaped and the yard is enclosed. And here's the surprise . . . only $3,500 down!

NO APOLOGIES FOR THIS ONE! Northwest, close in. Two bedrooms, single bath, attractive dining room. Hardwood floors. Drapes included in the surprisingly low price. The yard is tile fenced, and plenty of low-cost water is assured by the new well. This house is in excellent condition inside and out. One block from bus line and shopping center.

IF HOUSES WERE CARDS, THIS WOULD BE AN ACE! Paved corner location in URBANDALE. Stone and shingle construction, and evidently designed by an artist in building materials. Three bedrooms, two tile baths, attractive dining room and breakfast room. The fireplace is of beautifully cut stone, and the carpeting is in the best taste. Completely landscaped. You'll be interested when you hear the price.

THIS ONE IS A LITTLE EXPENSIVE, but then so is a Matisse painting! It, too, is in Urbandale . . . the perfect setting for this perfect home. Four bedrooms, in order to not limit the owner's hospitality. Servant's room, too. Big, 2-car garage. Privacy and beauty in the tile fence. The full price is $37,500, which we know you'll agree is moderate after you inspect the property. Call us at your convenience for the inspection tour.

COLLECTING RENT RECEIPTS ISN'T MUCH OF A HOBBY . . . and you'd have trouble renting a home like this one for TWICE AS MUCH as the monthly payments of $63. The address is 304 East Maple Avenue in Loma Linda. Two bedrooms, living room, separate dining room, Bendix-equipped kitchen, nice bath, carport with storage. Central heating. Fenced patio, too. The home is freshly redecorated. Down payment? Only $2,500.

WE'RE NOT TRYING TO DECEIVE YOU . . . we want to SHOW you the homes we advertise. While you're reading these listings, pick out the ones that interest you, call the office or one of our representatives and make a date to personally inspect the homes that might meet your requirements. It is our belief that we have the best real estate values in Midland, in all price ranges, only a few of which we are able to list in these columns. For instance, we'd like to show you a 2-bedroom home at 1310 West Washington. It has an extra-large living-dining room, breezeway and garage. The full price is $9,500, and you may have possession of this home for as little as $2,000 down. The paving is paid for.

INVESTMENT MINDED? NEED A COMMERCIAL LOCATION? This 2½-acre site on the Garden City Highway is just outside the city limits, and offers an unusual opportunity from several standpoints. Ask us about it!

THE PRICE IS INTERESTING . . . ask us about the 2-bedroom home, corner location, facing a park in the northwest section, close in. It's fenced, with nice grass and shrubs.

READY FOR OCCUPANCY. We have eagerly awaited the completion of 3 new homes in TOWN NORTH. Constructed of Johns-Mansville colored asbestos and brick, with 3 lovely bedrooms, ceramic tile bath, cheerful kitchen, and carpeted living room and dining area. Attached garage which can easily be converted into a huge den. The floor plan is designed so that you do not have to go through the living room in order to get to the rest of the house. Elongated covered front porch leading to garage. Similar homes recently sold for $16,000. These three are specially priced at $13,750.

UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY IN A BUSINESS LOT. Located on Hiway 80, West, between Miller's Restaurant and the Fitzgerald Co. Lot size is 50x140, facing south. Sensationally priced at ONLY $15,950. Better call us immediately—a postponement may cost you more than you think.

PRACTICALLY DUST-FREE because it is in the heart of the Holloway Street Section. Lovely 3-bedroom white home with a most inviting living room, kitchen and bath. Garage. Furnace heating, central air-conditioning, immaculately spic and span. Close to transportation and school. A little over 3 years old. Price: $14,000.

WALKING DISTANCE TO DOWNTOWN. The owner put a price of only $7,000 on this very attractive 2-bedroom house so that some nice people could appreciate it as she did. It is constructed of fire-proof, white asbestos shingles with a fire-proof composition roof. The sizes of the bedrooms and the kitchen will amaze and delight you. Four years old. Young trees, lawn, and a paved street. We could handle it for less than $2,000 if you so desire. Remember, the full price is only $7,000!!!

The Permian Basin district office of Drilling & Exploration Company, Inc., has been opened at 321-27 Central Building in Midland.

The new office will handle D&E's land, geological and drilling work in West, West-Central, and North Texas and also in the Texas Panhandle and in New Mexico.

It is likely that the Midland office will also look after any work that the concern might undertake in the Rocky Mountain and Williston Basin areas.

Office In Hobbs

Drilling & Exploration has a drilling and production office in Hobbs, N. M. That office has been in operation several years and it will continue to function in cooperation with the new office in Midland.

Key Personnel

Key personnel in the new D&E office include:

Geological department—Emery W. Parrott, and Robert W. Wesselhoeft, Jr.

Land department — Gabriel A. Luty.

Drilling department—A. V. Hill, P. W. Cullen, and J. H. Parker.

All of those persons have moved to Midland from Abilene where they had been connected with the general offices of Drilling & Exploration.

That office is being moved to Houston on or before September 1 and after that date the concern will not have any direct representation in Abilene.

Roswell Oil Show To Start In July; To Last Two Months

Roswell, N. M., is to stage a two-months oil show starting July 4. It is being sponsored by the Roswell Geological Society and is under the auspices of the Roswell Museum.

The Roswell Chamber of Commerce is cooperating in the project.

Those organizations has designated July 19 as Petroleum Day in Roswell. One of the features of the program for the day will be a parade.

May Enter Displays

Any and all units in the oil industry may enter floats or other acceptable displays in that parade. Information concerning it may be secured from the Roswell chamber.

More than 50 oil companies and oil industry service concerns have already arranged to have exhibits in the two-months show.

Other Features Planned

In addition to the parade other special features will be staged on July 19 to recognize the importance of the oil industry to Roswell and New Mexico.

More than 1,200 oil industry executives from various cities in the United States have been invited to attend the Petroleum Day celebration in Roswell.

Ed. Mechem, governor of New Mexico, and other dignitaries will be guests of honor for that affair.

Organization, Work Of API Described In New Booklet

NEW YORK—A booklet which explains its operations and organizational set-up has been published by the American Petroleum Institute. It now is being distributed to the membership, and other interested associations, firms and individuals.

In a brief foreword, President Frank M. Porter describes the new publication as follows:

Booklet Described

"This booklet gives a brief summary of facts about the American Petroleum Institute — its history, aims, and objectives, as well as its services to the industry.

"It should serve as a 'refresher course' for veteran institute members, and as a guide for others who desire essential information about their national trade association.

"Every eligible company and individual is invited to become a member of the institute and benefit from participation in its broad program of activities."

With the adroit use of illustrations and color, the new booklet is much easier to read and use than the earlier edition which it replaced. In addition, it has been expanded to provide more detail on the institute and its activities.

Details Are Given

The first section of the booklet covers these subjects: The API—what it is and what it does; how it is organized; who makes its policy; who does the work; who administers the work; some of its activities; what the members do; and why become an institute member?

The second and third sections contain individual chapters on the various divisions and service departments, explaining the organization and functions of each. The centerspread contains a big chart showing how the institute is organized.

Single copies of the booklet may be obtained upon request.

ROUGHNECK TREATED

James Earl Faro, 908 South Colorado Street, roughneck for R&R Drilling Company, was treated at Western Clinic-Hospital Friday for a lacerated left arm. Attaches said the injuries were suffered in an oil field accident.

El Capitan To Dig Canyon Reef Test In NW Kent Area

El Capitan Oil Company of Midland is to start drilling early in the week at a 6,700-foot wildcat in Northwest Kent County.

The prospector will be El Capitan No. 1 Daugherty. Location is 1,980 feet from west and 660 feet from north lines of section 13, block 1, H&GN survey.

That puts it one and one-half miles north of the northwest side of the Salt Creek-Canyon field and 12 miles northwest of Clairemont.

The wildcat is being drilled on acreage secured by El Capitan in a farmout deal with Kewanee Oil Company.

Kewanee had held a spread of acreage in that region for more than three years. It gave El Capitan the leases on five 80-acre tracts in return for that concern assuming an obligation to drill the 6,700-foot exploration.

Kewanee retained ownership of the other acreage it had held in that territory.

The projected destination of No. 1 Daugherty of 6,700 feet is calculated to take it into the Canyon reef lime.

McLennan Of Seaboard Is Promoted

Lamar McLennan, Jr., who has been district geologist for Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware in Midland for several years has been promoted to the concern's Dallas division headquarters.

He has been succeeded in the Midland job by Roe E. Goodwin who has been his assistant for about a year.

In his new job McLennan will be an assistant to the chief geologist and will supervise Seaboard's geological work in a large area which will include The Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico, West-Central and North Texas and possibly other regions.

McLennan had been in the Midland district office of Seaboard since it was opened almost 10 years ago.

He had been employed in the Cabot organization in Midland for about one and one-half years.

Hallanan Will Speak At Annual Meeting Of D&Ds In Houston

Walter S. Hallanan, chairman of the National Petroleum Council and president of Plymouth Oil Company will be the featured speaker at the first annual meeting of the Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America, to be held in Houston's Shamrock Hotel, September 12-13.

Mrs. Lee Wilson Hoover, New Orleans, president of the association, said Saturday that Hallanan had accepted the invitation to speak at the main banquet on September 13. Topic of his talk will be announced later.

Outstanding Program

Mrs. Hoover added that an outstanding program is being whipped into shape for his first meeting of petroleum women.

Group discussions, luncheons and speakers from various segments of the industry are included in the two-day program and present indications are that approximately 800 oil women from all parts of the United States and Canada will attend the Houston convention.

An Educational Theme

The convention theme will center around the educatinal nature of Desk and Derrick activities. Discussion groups will explore ways and means if bringing the informative programs of the association to wider audiences of petroleum women.

The Desk and Derrick movement has been enthusiastically received by oil women nation-wide; starting with one club in New Orleans in 1949, increasing to four in 1950, Mrs. Hoover reports that there are now 37 clubs in the U. S. and Canada.

Well Completions In Texas Increase; Applications Drop

AUSTIN —(AP)— Oil well completions in Texas gained last week, the Railroad Commission announced.

The total of 246 was up from last week's 226.

This continued to parallel the yearly rate of increase in completions, the commission's weekly tabulation showed.

For the year so far 5,556 wells have been brought in compared with 5,105 in the same months of 1951. Applications to drill were less this year, 9,664 compared with 10,070 for the same month last year.

Location is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 19, block 48, University survey.

The office is at 317 West Texas Street on the ground floor of the Permian Building.

The office in this city will direct the Hanley oil development work in the Permian Basin and also in other areas which are adjacent to that region.

H. A. (Dean) Murray

The concern has established headquarters for its oil division at Dallas in charge of R. E. Berry. That office had previously been located at Abilene. The concern will not maintain any office in Abilene in the future.

Was In Army

Murray has just returned to Midland after 20 months of service in the U. S. Army. During all of that period he was stationed at Camp Chaffee, at Fort Smith, Ark.

He was released from service as a captain. He has moved his family, which was with him at Fort Smith, back to Midland.

Before being called into service in the Summer of 1950 Murray was a partner in the firm of Cren-Ray Company of Midland, an oil field service concern.

When he went into service he disposed of that interest.

Before going into the Cren-Ray organization Murray was district petroleum engineer in the Permian Basin for The Texas Company.

World Crude Oil Production Rises With Opening Of New Big-Inch Line In Middle East

TULSA—Opening of the newest big-inch pipe line in the Middle East was reflected in the sharp gain in world output of crude oil in April, the Oil and Gas Journal reported.

The pipe line is the 30 and 32-inch diameter carrier of Iraq Petroleum Company, Ltd. It reaches from a Syrian port on the Eastern Mediterranean to Kirkuk field in Iraq. Kirkuk is one of the largest Middle East oil reservoirs but its production is limited to what can be moved by the lines to the Mediterranean coast.

Kirkuk Production Increases

Kirkuk production increased to about 250,000 barrels daily in April with the new line in operation. Oil output of another Middle East country, Saudi Arabia, rose to 878,700 barrels daily, and mainly as a result of the increases in these two countries, production for the entire Middle East averaged better than 2,000,000 barrels daily for the first time since last Summer's nationalization and subsequent shutdown of the industry in Iran, the Journal said.

Total production throughout the non-Communist world was 11,302,000 barrels daily, up more than 100,000 barrels daily from March for a gain of 0.8 per cent. Including estimated Russian and other Communist oil production of 1,041,000 barrels daily, world output amounted to 12,343,400 barrels daily during the month. Despite the loss of about 700,000 barrels daily of oil production in Iran, non-Communist world output in April was about five per cent over April, 1951.

Phillips Reports Potential On Ector Ellenburger Extender; Stakes Wichita Wildcat Twin

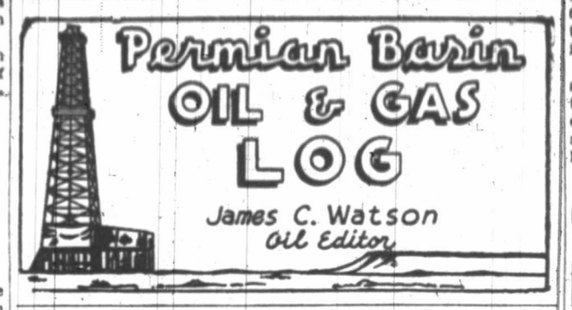
Phillips Petroleum Company reported completion of a one-half mile northwest extender to production in the Penwell (Ellenburger) field of South-Central Ector County and the staking of a Wichita twin to the new well.

The new producer is No. 1-A Millard, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 25, block B-15, psl survey. It was completed for a daily flowing potential of 469 barrels of 40.8-gravity oil through a one-half-inch tubing choke and from open hole at 8,610-8,677 feet.

The pay section was treated with 1,500 gallons of acid. Gas-oil ratio was 502-1 and tubing pressure was 150 pounds.

Phillips No. 2-A Midland will be drilled as a west twin 100 feet from No. 1-A Millard. Slated to drill to 6,900 feet, No. 2-A Millard will try to develop production in the Wichita zone.

Drillsite is 660 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 25, block B-15, psl survey. Operations are to start at once. Drillsite is one mile northeast of Judkins.



FPC Fight Brewing Over Reappointment Of Buchanan

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A new fight is brewing over the Federal Power Commission, whose policies have become a sore spot with some elements of the natural gas industry.

President Truman's reappointment of Thomas C. Buchanan of Pennsylvania to a new five-year term as chairman of the commission is responsible. A Senate commerce subcommittee has approved Buchanan's nomination. The full committee is scheduled to consider it Wednesday.

Opposition Expected

Althoug the three-man subcommittee gave Buchanan its endorsement without any fuss, opposition is expected to break out either in the full committee, on the Senate floor, or both.

It'll be a repetition of the arguments that were stirred up in 1949 over President Truman's reappointment of Leland Olds to head the commission. They center on the old issue over concentration of government in Washington. The Senate rejected Olds' reappointment.

Named This Year

A lawyer long active in public utilities regulation in Pennsylvania, Buchanan joined the commission in 1948 and early this year was named chairman.

He was the lone dissenter when the agency decided recently that it does not have authority to exercise control over the Phillips Petroleum Company of Oklahoma as it would over an integrated, interstate natural gas company. An independent company, Phillips maintains its own gathering and distribution lines which cross state boundaries.

Murray Opposes

Opposing Buchanan's reappointment at a hearing of the subcommittee were William J. Murray, Texas railroad commissioner, and Jeff A. Robertson, Kansas corporation commissioner. Clyde T. Ellis, former Arkansas congressman now with the National Rural Electric Co-operative Association, appeared in support of Buchanan.

Vote Expected

A showdown vote on whether to sustain or override Truman's veto of the bill to give the states clear title to off-shore oil areas may come in the Senate about Thursday—unless both sides again agree to further delay because of absentees.

The vote is expected to be so close that a single absence may determine the outcome.

Rafferty Is New District Landman For Cabot Carbon

M. W. (Mickey) Rafferty is the new district landman in Midland for Cabot Carbon Company. He recently was transferred here from the company's office at Pampa.

In his new job Rafferty will succeed Haden J. Upchurch who resigned from Cabot a short time ago.

Upchurch is now manager of the land department of Texas Eastern Production Compny, with headquarters in Houston.

A. B. Cochburn is a new geologist on the staff of the Cabot district office in Midland. He had formerly worked for another oil company in this city.

T. L. Stall is district geologist and district manager for Cabot in Midland. The concern's office here handles its land and geological work in West Texas and New Mexico.

Phillips Wants To Flow Spraberry Through Tubing

AUSTIN—(AP)—Phillips Petroleum Company has asked the Railroad Commission to permit new wells in the Spraberry Trend to be produced without tubing to cope with the present steel shortage.

Commission state-wide rules require use of 2 1/2-inch or smaller tubing before a well may be produced.

Mary Wells Affected

Phillips said many wells now are completed in 10 pools in the nine-county West Texas area except for tubing.

Until tubing can be obtained the company asked suspension of the rule to permit production through seven-inch well casing as long as the well will flow.

Western Announces Personnel Changes In Pumping Section

Several promotions affecting personnel of the pumping service department of The Western Company, oil and gas well servicing concern of Midland, have been announced.

Charles Simmons

Promotions include D. D. Walters, to manager, North Permian Basin district; Charles Simmons, to assistant manager, North Permian Basin district; Henry Landusky, to manager, Snyder station; Jim Wilson, to assistant manager, Hobbs station; J. D. Allen, to assistant manager, Seagraves station, and Roy S. Priolo, to assistant manager, Levelland station.

D. D. Walters

Walters has been with The Western Company four years and formerly was manager of the Eunice station. Immediately before receiving his new assignment, he was assistant manager of the South Permian Basin district with headquarters in Odessa. Walters will office in the company's district office in Hobbs.

Simmons has been with Western three years and has been successively treating engineer and district engineer in Odessa and manager of the Seagraves field station. Simmons will continue to office in Seagraves and will be concerned primarily with the supervision of the Seagraves and Levelland stations.

G-HC Slates Exploration

Grisham-Hunter Corporation has spotted location for a 1,600-foot wildcat in East-Central Culberson County.

It will be drilled as No. 1-8 M. A. Grisham 990 feet from south and 2,476 feet from east lines of section 8, block 60, T-5, T&P survey. It is 31 miles northwest of Toyah and slightly more than one and one-half miles west of Grisham-Hunter No. 1-A Grisham, twin location to Grisham-Hunter No. 1-10 M. A. Grisham, Fee, indicated gas discovery.

Humble Wildcat In Martin Now Taking Spraberry Potential

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 J. W. Blocker and others, Central-South Martin County wildcat is pumping to test and complete as a small discovery from the Spraberry sand section of the Permian.

A potential test gauge is expected to be run on the development early in the week.

It is seven miles west and slightly north of Stanton and three miles northeast of Germania.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 10, block 37, T-1-S, T&P survey.

It is testing on perforations at 7,380-7,480 feet in the upper Spraberry and on perforations at 8,175-8,273 feet in the lower Spraberry.

Acidised, Fractured

Both intervals had been washed with mud acid and they had also been fractured.

On the latest pumping test reported the project produced 34 barrels of oil, plus 65 per cent salt water in 24 hours of pumping.

It was understood that all of the load oil used in this wildcat in the fracturing had been recovered prior to the start of the pumping test.

New Oil Pumped

That will indicate that all of the 34 barrels of oil produced in the pumping test was new oil.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 10, block 37, T-1-S, T&P survey.

The rospector drilled to a bottom of 12,100 feet in barren Ellenburger.

It tested the Wolfcamp and the Dean sections below the Spraberry. The Wolfcamp developed only slight shows and the Dean tested for a small production.

However the show in the Dean is not as good as the one in the Spraberry and operator will try to complete a commercial well from the latter horizon.

Sterling Venture To Plug Back And Test San Andres

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 W. L. Foster, Jr., Central-West Sterling County wildcat, 20 miles northwest of Sterling City found salty, sulphur water in the Ellenburger.

That formation did not log any shows of oil or gas. Operator is to plug back to approximately 2,200 feet and test a section above that point in the top of the San Andrews Permian.

That zone was drilled through without any samples being caught and it is thought it might have some sort of fluid in it.

The upcoming testing will determine whether or not that thinking is correct.

Showed Water

The No. 1 Foster showed water in two drillstem tests in the Ellenburger. The first was at 9,468-95 feet. The tool was open one hour.

Recovery was 90 feet of drilling mud and 90 feet of muddy, salty, sulphur water.

The second test was at 9,495-540 feet. The tool was open two hours. Recovery was 380 feet of drilling

James W. Burkhart, former general superintendent of Brown and Wheeler, oil operators, attended college at Texas Tech and Oklahoma University and received a degree in petroleum engineering from the latter.

James W. Burkhart

Burkhart was born in Cleburne. Prior to his employment by Brown and Wheeler he worked as an engineer for Baker Oil Tool Company and as a petroleum engineer for Humble Oil & Refining Company.

He is president of the University of Oklahoma Club, a member of the API, AIME and the Houston Club.

Haden J. Upchurch, former district landman for the Cabot Carbon Company at Midland, is a native of Tyler. He studied law at the University of Texas School of Law, is a member of the State Bar of Texas, and is licensed to practice in that state.

Haden J. Upchurch

Prior to his employment by the Cabot Carbon Company, he was tileman-lease buyer for over five years with the Humble Oil & Refining Company.

"We are most fortunate in securing men so well qualified to fill these positions," Hemphill said.

All three Texas Eastern Production officials and their families will make their homes in Houston.

Sinclair Personnel Changes Announced

Two changes in key personnel of Sinclair Oil & Gas Company's production department in the Permian Basin have been announced by J. T. Reeves of Midland, division superintendent.

Solen T. Halpain, formerly district foreman at Hobbs, N. M., has been transferred to Pampa.

WASHINGTON OIL—

Historic Battle Looms Over Reappointment Of Tom Buchanan To FPC

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A battle of historic importance for the natural gas industry is on today over the renaming of Thomas C. Buchanan of Pennsylvania for another five-year term on the Federal Power Commission.

Buchanan, whom President Truman named chairman of the commission after the resignation of Mon C. Wallgren of Washington a year ago, is regarded as an advocate of strict controls over the gas industry.

A year ago he alone among the five commissioners voted in favor of regulation of the price of gas at the wellhead in certain instances.

The decision, containing basically the same issues as the disputed Kerr Bill—which Congress once voted for only to find it vetoed by President Truman—came in a case involving the Phillips Petroleum Company.

Only this month, Buchanan stirred the wrath of Kansas officials and natural gas operators in a decision involving the Northern Natural Gas Company.

In what is regarded as a milestone case, Buchanan voted with the majority in favor of disregarding a Kansas state minimum price for natural gas of eight cents. Instead, the commission agreed, it would continue to use the actual cost of gas—about 2.5 cents in this instance—for rate fixing.

Subject To Confirmation

The appointment is subject to confirmation by the Senate, and this week the Senate Commerce subcommittee began hearings. There were spokesmen in defense of Buchanan including the Cooperative League of the U. S. A., the National Rural Electrification Cooperative Association, and the National Farmers Union. Their spokesmen said Buchanan has done a good job in the consumers' interest.

The most interest was aroused by the opposition witnesses, however.

They included William J. Murray of the Texas Railroad Commission, who said Buchanan and the famous but rejected former power commissioner, Leland Olds, are "birds of a feather." He said the Buchanan policies would "dry up the sources of supply" of gas, "disrupt and virtually nullify the conservation program," "kill the spirit of free enterprise" bring "increased prices over the long range" and eventually "lead to a like extension to the field of oil production."

Under questioning, Murray said "it is contrary to my philosophy" to establish a minimum price for natural gas by state action. "I am opposed to price-fixing." But if the state legislature were to go for such a program, "it would become my duty to carry it out."

A forthright attack on Buchanan came from Warwick M. Downing of Denver, who bluntly said he thinks the commissioner unfair to gas producers.

"I believe," he testified, "that the West and the Southwest have the same rights to grow and prosper as has been accorded to the other states in the Union. We should be permitted to grow and prosper without the meddling, mischievous and misguided activities of persons with untried and often wild ideas, bureaucrats whom, for the sake of politeness, I will refer to as federal agents."

'Radically Wrong'

He said Buchanan "is radically wrong in his viewpoint that the federal government must control prices and in doing so, rob the producers of gas and the people of the producing states, few in number, to try to please the consumers."

A close vote on confirmation by the Senate committee is indicated by a nose count of committee members. A vote or two for or against may swing the matter. That vote should be coming in a week or two.

The appearance of Downing, a political leader and oil and gas operator from Denver, is regarded as having some influence on the thinking of the committee chairman, Senator Ed Johnson of Colorado.

At any rate, at week's end, Buchanan was a man without a job, temporarily, at least. The present appointment expired June 22.

Lignite Challenges Oil, Gas As Fuel For New Industry

ROCKDALE, TEXAS—(AP)— Here in the middle of oil and gas rich Texas will come a major test of a competing industrial fuel.

It's lignite, coal which lies on the surface and underground, too, in a wide band across Texas and in many parts of the West and Southwest.

Lignite, a poor grade of coal, will be the industrial fuel for the 80 million-dollar Aluminum Company of American aluminum smelting plant which will go into partial operation near this Milam County town this Fall.

The Rockdale plant will be the first aluminum smelting plant in the nation to use electric power generated by burning lignite.

Why does ALCOA turn to lignite in a state famously rich with oil and gas—so rich it ships petroleum products the world over?

The answer may be in the growing demand and rising costs of oil and gas. The demand for natural gas has been whetted by cross-country pipe lines, making it available in volume to the industrial East and homes across the country. As the demand for oil continues to climb, exploration costs also rise. Deep wildcat ventures can cost as much as $750,000 each.

Powerful Fuel

More important, probably, is a newly-developed process which has made it possible to convert the raw lignite into a powerful fuel.

John D. Harper, who will be works manager for ALCOA here, says:

"ALCOA's decision to use lignite as a source of power was made because we are hopeful that with the development of the new process . . . we will have the type of fuel that is competitive with all other sources of power, including natural gas.

"The production of aluminum requires huge amounts of electric power. By keeping our power costs low—and we have the cost of lignite-generated power will be as low as other sources of power—we can keep the cost of producing aluminum as low as possible."

Although lignite is a poor grade of coal, it is plentiful. Geologists say there are 150 million tons in Milam County, in which Rockdale is located.

There are very rich deposits in North Dakota and Montana and scattered but large deposits in other parts of the nation.

Lignite will undergo expensive processing before being used by ALCOA. Texas Power & Light Company sponsored a two-year research project undertaken by the U. S. Bureau of Mines which produced the process.

The entirely new process was developed by V. F. Parry, chief of the bureau's Denver laboratory, and is named after him. The lignite will be crushed, dried and then carbonized at a low temperature to produce the char for burning in the ALCOA power plant.

Profitable By-Product

A profitable by-product is the tar separated from the lignite by the process.

The mining itself will not be expensive. At the start it will be strip mining; the lignite lies within sight of the plant. As the nearby surface deposits are scraped away, deeper deposits will be mined by conventional underground slope mining.

Texas Power & Light Company itself used lignite a number of years ago at its big Trinidad, Texas, power plant but later switched to gas. The process which made lignite economically feasible had not yet been developed.

Among the first Texans to dream of putting lignite to extensive use was Dr. E. P. Schoch, retired professor of chemistry at the University of Texas. A more colorful contributor was J. S. Cullinan, wealthy Houston oil man. He spent his own money on lignite research but this stopped soon after Cullinan died of a heart ailment in the San Francisco earthquake.

It was Cullinan who flew a skull and cross bones flag over his Houston headquarters when he won one of his many fights with other oil men.

In Texas' early days, lignite and the state's few bituminous coal deposits were an industrial mainstay. But the discovery of oil and gas saw the lignite and coal mines close, one by one.

ALCOA says the first lignite dryer unit is almost complete and trial operations are scheduled for later this month. The big ALCOA plant is expected to be in complete production sometime next year.

Koepp Quits T-NM After 10 Years As Superintendent

Roland E. Koepp, for 10 years superintendent of Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line Company at Eunice, N. M., has resigned from that concern.

He will move with his family to New Braunfels where he plans to open a civil engineering and land surveying office. He holds a professional civil engineer's license in Texas and land survey's license in New Mexico.

Koepp was employed by the pipeline concern 14 years.

Petroleum Industry Provides For More Research At U. Of T.

AUSTIN—The petroleum industry has awarded a total of $89,820 in research-grant commitments and 1952-53 fellowships and scholarships at the University of Texas.

Five concerns—The Atlantic Refining Company, Gulf Oil Corporation, Humble Oil & Refining Company, Shell Oil Company, and the Texas Company—are supporting a $51,860 study of the Ellenburger formation. The investigations will cover three years.

Contractors Help

The American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors has sent the university extension division $5,060 for its petroleum-industry program, and Humble has sent $5,000 as a final installment on a $25,000 grant to support the Plant Research Institute's grass research project.

The petroleum engineering department, Lane Wells Company of California has established a $1,500 fellowship and a $500 scholarship and The California Company has founded a $450 scholarship.

Fellowships Renewed

Renewing petroleum engineering grants are Stanolind Oil & Gas Company, a $1,250 fellowship plus tuition and laboratory fees; Shell, a $1,500 fellowship plus $400 for tuition and laboratory expenses; Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, a $750 scholarship; and Standard Oil Company of Texas, a $450 scholarship.

Phillips Petroleum Company has sent a $2,800 grant-in-aid to the chemical engineering department for a fellowship, student assistants and equipment to study chemical engineering aspects of pressure-volume-temperature relationships of hydrocarbons.

The following concerns have renewed chemical engineering fellowships: Ethyl Corporation, $1,500 plustuition and fees; Humble, $1,250 plus tuition and fees up to $300; and Texas Company, $1,800. Standard Oil of California has established a new $1,250 fellowship plus tuition fees.

In the chemistry department, three companies have renewed fellowships: Pan American Refining Corporation, $1,250; Humble, $1,250; and Magnolia Petroleum Company, $1,500. The first two provide up to $300 for tuition and fees, and the latter, up to $500 for such purposes.

Ohio 'Old Timers' Given Awards At Iraan Gathering

IRAAN—Long Time employes of The Ohio Oil Company were honored with a dinner and special service awards recently.

Ross C. Gwilliams, vice president of the company from Houston, made the awards to the 13 men. J. A. Grimes of Midland was master of ceremonies.

Recipients of the 30-year award were T. T. Phillips and W. H. Williams, both of Iraan. J. M. Coman, W. W. Hensley and L. E. Yates of Iraan received 25-year awards.

Awards for 15 years service were given to G. J. Biblin, and A. R. Henderson, both of Iraan and D. V. Kitley of Midland. J. N. Nagle of Iraan and R. W. Hockey of Midland, O. T. Alldredge, J. J. Spears and C. R. Nichols, all of Iraan received five year awards.

Phillips Completes Plans For Another Trend Gasoline Plant

Phillips Petroleum Company has completed plans for its Pembrook natural gasoline plant in the Spraberry Trend of West Texas.

The plant will be located 20 miles south of the company's Spraberry plant, now under construction.

The Penbrook plant will be the approximate size and design of Spraberry plant.

While each plant was originally designed to process 60 million cubic feet of gas daily from Spraberry Trend wells, principally in Midland, Upton, Glasscock, and Reagan Counties, expansion of Spraberry plant to capacity of more than 150 million cubic feet daily is already under way.

Other plant facilities will be increased as the drilling of new wells warrants.

Plans also call for extension of the company's products gathering line to the Benedum plant from the Spraberry plant, 24 miles to the north. Phillips is 50 per cent owner of the Benedum plant, which will be equipped to handle 30 million cubic feet daily of additional gas from the Spraberry formation. Plymouth Oil Company owns the other half of the Benedum plant.

First of the new facilities is expected to operate late this year and all others in the early part of 1953.

Finland and the Baltic states import most of their petroleum and its products from the United States.

Phillips Reports Potential—mud and 200 feet of salty, sulphur water.

The first test in the Ellenburger in this failure was at 9,410-43 feet. The tool was open two hours. Recovery was 455 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil, gas or water.

Top of the Ellenburger is at approximately 9,410 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 4, block 31, T-4-S, T&P survey. It is two and one-half miles east of the east line of Glasscock County.

Palo Pinto Opener Finished In Third Pay For Elm Creek

O. W. Killam has completed his No. 4 J. P. Knight as a Palo Pinto discovery to open the third producing zone in the Elm Creek field of Central Runnels County.

The wildcat was finaled for a daily flowing potential of 105 barrels of 42-gravity pipeline oil. Gas-oil ratio was 450-1.

The well flowed through a one-half inch choke from perforations between 3,348 feet, top of the pay and 3,378 feet, which is the total depth. Elevation is unreported.

Through Perforations

The perforated section was acidized with 2,000 gallons. Tubing pressure was 100 pounds and pressure on the casing was 240 pounds.

No. 4 Knight is located 2,310 feet from north and 400 feet from west lines of a 351-acre lease in section 346, BBB&C survey.

Killam has requested the Railroad Commission to designate the field as the Elm Creek (Palo Pinto) field.

The discovery is on the south side of the Elm Creek field.

E-C Reeves Tester Gets Slight Shows In Lower Permian

Gulf Oil Corporation and Jack Frost have reported finding slight oil and gas shows on a drillstem test of the lower Permian in their No. 1 P. G. Northrup and others, East-Central Reeves County wildcat.

The test was taken from 10,875 feet to 10,941 feet. Tool was open one hour. Gas came to the surface in 30 minutes, with volume too small to measure.

Recovery was the 1,000-foot water blanket, 165 feet of gas cut mud and 15 feet of oil and gas cut mud, estimated to be 10 per cent oil.

Had Some Shows

Earlier, the wildcat showed some oil and gas on swabbing tests of the Permian at 9,890-9,983 feet, after acidizing.

Operators are drilling deeper after the lower Permian test.

No. 1 Northrup, et al is located 12 miles southeast of the town of Pecos and 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 23, block 50, T-8, T&P survey.

Projected depth is 14,000 feet to test the Ellenburger.

NE Winkler Test To Be Plugged As Devonian Failure

Humble Oil & Remining Company No. 2-B R. M. Evans, Northeast Winkler County exploration is to be plugged and abandoned as a failure.

It was about 20 miles northeast of Kermit and a south offset to a small discovery from the Mississippian which opened the Bar G field.

The duster drilled to a bottom of 9,880 feet in the Devonian.

That section and several others above it were tested extensively. None of the investigations developed any possibilities of commercial production.

Operator has ordered it abandoned and plugged.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 46, block 73, psl survey.

Amerada Completes Link Producer In NE Upton Region

Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 1-31 Elkin has been completed in an undeveloped area between portions of the North Pembrook and Weiner-Floyd (Spraberry) fields of Northeast Upton County.

It was completed for a daily flowing potential of 337 barrels of 37.5-gravity oil through a one-half-inch choke and from perforations at 7,040-7,975 feet. The pay was fractured with 12,000 gallons.

Gas-oil ratio was 755-1.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 31, block 37, T-5-S T&P survey. It is one mile north of production in the north Pemrook field and one and one-half miles southwest of Weiner-Floyd prodpuction.

Official Location Reported For Shield Wildcat In Dawson

Location has been filed with the Railroad Commission of Texas for Fred W. Shield of San Antonio No. 1 W. F. Galbraith, wildcat in Northwest Dawson County.

This prospector, reported several days ago, will be drilled 660 feet from south and east lines of section 77, block M, EL&RR survey.

Application calls for a possible bottom of 9,000 feet.

Drillsite is 10 miles northwest of Lamesa.

Wolfcamp DST Fails In Roden, Et Al Test In C-W Midland Area

Bill Roden and associates No. 1-18 Scharbauer, Central-West Midland County wildcat, one mile south of Warfield ran a 45-minute drillstem test at 9,581-9721 feet in the Wolfcamp-Permian.

Recovery was 120 feet of slightly gas cut drilling mud. There were no shows of oil or of formation water.

The chart showed that the tool was plugged with cavings for the entire time it was open.

The venture is drilling deeper.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of the northwest quarter of section 18, block 40, T-2-S, T&P survey.

The prospector is one and one-half miles north of the nearest completed producers on the northwest side of the Parks, (Pennsylvanian), field.

It is projected to 10,600 feet to try for production in the Pennsylvanian.

Superior Plugs Wildcat Failure In C-N Andrews

The Superior Oil Company has given up trying to make an oil well out of its No. 1-4-A University, wildcat in Central-North Andrews County.

Drilled to total depth of 14,214 feet in the Ellenburger where it made only water, the project was tested in the Fusselman and Spraberry after it had reached the Ellenburger bottom.

Neither of the sections showed signs of commercial production and operator gave orders to plug the failure.

It was located 1,007 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 3, block 4, University lands survey and 10 miles northeast of Andrews.

Moore Abandons Two Wildcat Failures In C-S Irion Sector

Moore Exploration Company of Midland has plugged and abandoned two wildcat failure in Irion County.

Moore No. 1-H Noelke, 11 miles southwest of Mertzon in Central-South Irion County tested in a sand in the Wolfcamp section of the lower Permian and found only a small amount of gas in that formation.

The testing was through perforations in the casing at 6,898-8,015 feet; at 7,103-26 feet and at 7,142-55 feet.

Showed Gas

Those intervals were fractured and tested extensively. They showed gas at the rate of approximately 200,000 cubic feet per day. No shows of oil were developed.

Operator has plugged it. Location was 1,617 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of block 1, Tom Green County School Land survey.

Old Dry Hole

This project is an old dry hole drilled to a bottom of 7,918 feet in barren Ellenburger some time ago as the Hassie Hunt trust estate No. 1-M W. M. Noelke estate.

After it failed in the Ellenburger it was abandoned.

Moore Exploration took the project over and recently re-entered it and cleaned it out to 7,655 feet. A string of casing was cemented at that point and it was perforated in the three intervals in the Wolfcamp listed above for the testing.

Another Duster

Moore No. 1-A W. M. Noelke estate, a short distance away from the deep failure at the same concern's No. 1-H Noelke, and 9,572 feet from north and 6,280.28 feet from west lines of block 1, Tom Green County School Land survey, drilled to a total depth of 1,106 feet in the San Andres-Permian lime.

It made sulphur water in that zone. There were no shows of oil or gas. The failure has been plugged and abandoned.

Location was one-half of a mile north of the Noelke townsite.

Crockett Wildcat Dry And Abandoned

Curtis R. Inman of Midland has plugged an dabandoned his No. 2 Shannon, wildcat in Central-West Crockett County. It was drilled to a total depth of 2,500 feet where salty sulphur water was recovered.

Location was 330 feet from south and west lines of tract 1, league 4, Archer County School Land survey and 12 miles southeast of Iraan.

Magnolia Abandons Von Roeder Test

Magnolia Petroleum Company has plugged and abandoned its No. 2-D Conrad, southeast offset to production at the extreme southeast edge of the Von Roeder field. It was drilled to a total depth of 6,841 feet.

Operator took a drillstem test from 6,823 feet to 6,841 feet. Tool was open two hours. Recovery was 3,140 feet of salt water.

Location for No. 2-D Conrad was in Southeast Scurry. It was 660 feet from south and east lines of section 71, block 25, H&TC survey and seven and one-half miles northeast of Vincent.

Magnolia has abandoned location for 3-D Conrad which was in the same area.

Egypt To Remove Riot-Imposed Curfew

CAIRO, EGYPT —(AP)— The government announced Saturday it would lift formally the midnight-to-dawn curfew imposed after the January 26 fire riots here at midnight Sunday.

The curfew was lifted temporarily May 24 at the biginning of Ramadan-holiest month of Islam—and will not be reimposed when that period of all-night praying and feasting ends.

Signs Of Business Letdown

There is no reason for oil men to be worried about the current talk of a possible impending business recession. The worst that can happen to the oil and gas industry, economists agree, is a slowing down in the rate at which the demand keeps increasing.

Business literature these days is full of signs that inflation has run its course, that the demand for consumer goods is leveling off, that capacity to produce many things is at least equal to consumption. There may be a falling off of business activity, taken as a whole, during the coming months or next year, but if and when it comes it should not have drastic effect on the operations of the petroleum industry.

The demand for petroleum products is so broadly based that oil is about as "depressionproof" as an industry can be. Everybody, literally everybody, uses petroleum products, directly or indirectly, in one way or another, from cradle to grave. History shows a remarkable stability in oil demand through the ups and downs of general business.

Since the war the United States demand for petroleum products has been going up by seven or eight per cent every year—much faster than total industrial production. This rate of growth may not continue. It could drop down to five per cent a year, or even three per cent, in the opinion of many students of the industry.

So what? That's far from a recession. It's still expansion, though expansion at a less hectic pace. A little letup in the pressure should be welcome. It will permit the industry to catch its breath, to plan more carefully, build more soundly, do a better job all around.

In recent years the industry has barely been able to keep up with demand, and its reserve capacity has been much too low for comfort. Some slackening in the rate of increased consumption will permit the building up of some standby capacity in production, transportation, and refining. This is highly desirable as a measure for national defense and will provide the industry with a factor of safety.

A little relief from the pressure of consumers will also facilitate the modernization of refineries, pipe lines, and other installations which have been pushed at maximum capacity, so the industry will keep on growing bigger and stronger.

The outlook for oil is good, all in all, despite the prevalent signs of a leveling off of the inflationary boom of the last several years.

Cousin In Denton Believes Truman 'Plows Straight Row'

DENTON, — (AP) — Harry S. Truman always said he'd plow his rows straight.

You have that from the President's first cousin, Willard Fred Truman.

Fred Truman operates a filling station in this quiet North Texas city. He played games with his now-famous relative when the two were a pair of young farmers' sons.

Fred says Harry, as a youngster who talked in the farmer's vernacular, always pormised he'd "plow his rows straight."

And Fred thinks the President has done a good job of straight plowing.

"Harry will go down in history as one of the greatest presidents this country ever had. You wait and see," Fred Truman said in an interview.

Fred wasn't too anxious to talk about Harry.

"I don't go in for all this publicity," he said. But he told of the first time he saw Harry.

That was around 1900 when John Truman, Harry's father and Fred's uncle, brought his family down from Missouri to visit Fred's father, Will. The Will Trumans lived on a farm at Lone Oak, Texas, about 16 miles southeast of Greenville.

What kind of a kid was Harry?

He was Bookish.

"Well, he knew a lot about farmin' and was interested in it. But was bookish. Never satisfied unless he was readin' a book," Fred recalled.

"But one thing Harry said was no matter what happened he'd plow his rows straight."

The neat green and white attendant's uniform Fred wore didn't quite hide the Truman look. Fred is 62, tall and well-built. He has graying hair and wears gold-rimmed spectacles like Harry wore before he switched to rimless.

Fred says Harry has problems other Presidents never had.

But what about the scandals and corruptions? That got a vehement answer.

"No, sir. I've never doubted Harry's honesty or sincerity. The scandals happened because Harry couldn't keep track of all his people. They broke his confidence and let him down," Fred replied.

Fred's father came to Texas from Missouri in the 1880s. Fred was born at Wilmer, Dallas County. The family later moved to Lone Oak.

When Harry arrived at Bonham to speak in 1948 Fred was the first person to shake his hand.

"Harry wasn't stuck up at all. He asked me how I was getting along and how the folks were," Fred said.

Fred voted for Harry in 1948 and said he would have again this year. But he's glad the President has said he won't run for re-election. Fred thinks his cousin needs a rest.

The trouble with a lot of folks is that Harry's just too darn down to earth for them, Fred believes.

"Harry's just one of the boys," he said. "Not stuck up and says what he thinks. He plows a straight row."

Redfield Arrested As Leading Witness In Nevada Robbery

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— Millionaire La Vere Redfield, sought for two weeks as the star witness against a gang accused of stealing one and a half million dollars from his Reno home, was back in Nevada Saturday in custody of a U. S. deputy marshal.

Redfield, 54, was arrested by FBI agents Friday at nearby Sebastopol.

He refused to post $50,000 bail set earlier by Federal Judge Roger Foley at Carson City, Nev.

"I can make bail in a minute, but it's not my desire . . ." Redfield told U. S. Commissioner Francis S. J. Fox.

Pointing to a cluster of newsmen and photographers, he added, "If I do I'll be free and they'll take my picture. I thing I'll be safer in the custody of the marshal."

"I will gladly testify." Redfield told FBI agents who arrested him.

The government said it especially wants Redfield to testify against Marie Jeanne d'Arc Michaud, 36-year-old divorcee and self-styled "brains" of the fabulous robbery last February.

Mrs. Michaud, who Redfield met while she was awaiting a Reno divorce, goes on trial Monday, the second of eight persons arrested thus far in connection with the theft.

Texas' Building Skids Downward

AUSTIN —(AP)— Texas building hit the skids last week.

The total of contracts let slid from a $23,000,000 plus the previous week to $10,531,308, the Texas Contractor reported.

The total for the year crawled toward the $500,000,000 mark. It was $473,575,614, the authoritative contracting trade journal's statisticians said.

Pressure On Slavs To Join Farm Cooperatives Eased

BELGRADE —(AP)— Communistic Yugoslavia has eased up its high pressure campaign to persuade the country's peasants to join state-operated farm "cooperatives."

The party's advocacy of the doctrine of common ownership just didn't work when applied to simple farmer folk who judge efficiency by the fullness of their vegetable bins.

In the immediate postwar years, Marshal Josip Broz Tito's government ambitiously started off on a program ultimately designed to bring all of Yugoslavia's fertile fields into state-controlled co-operatives and collectives.

Meritorious On Surface

On the surface, the plan had some obvious merits. This was particularly true in a land of limited farm machinery which could be utilized more fully to till and harvest under government control.

But it had its disadvantages, too. Perhaps the basic one is the fact that Yugoslav farmers, like farmers everywhere, are rooted in the soil, like to call it their own, and are in good position to resist economic and political pressure.

There are very practical factors which probably influenced Tito's government to tone down its "collectivization" program.

High on the list would be the fact that Tito needs the cooperation of th independent peasant, representing more than half of the population, to resist pressure from the Russian-led Cominform. A sitdown strike by the independent farmers, tilling roughly about 80 per cent of the country's arable land, could wreck his regime.

Not Very Likely

That's hardly likely, however. The peasants, whether they like or dislike the present administration, still prefer it to the possibility of Russian rule.

Of almost equal importance is the fact that Yugoslavia as a whole lacks the proper terrain for general application of the communistic principle of collective farms.

In Slovenia, in mountainous Montenegro and Macedonia and parts of Bosnia Hefzegovia, centuries of sweating, stone-removing labor have produced checkerboard patches of farm land far from suitable for mass production.

One of the least known, and best locations for dredging for sea shells is off the Gulf coast between Pensacola and Panama City, says the National Geographic Society.

Politics To Be Top Topic As Governors Visit Texas

By WILBUR MARTIN

HOUSTON —(AP)— The governors of the 48 United States and four territories gather here next week to talk of many things. Of taxes and education and highway construction.

But the expected chief topic of the 44th Governors Conference—politics—pointedly is left off the official program. All of the governors of the U. S. and all but one of the five territories have accepted invitations to the meeting, scheduled for the swank Shamrock Hotel June 29-July 2.

This is the first time the conference has been held in Texas and Texans are ready to make it a memorable affair: use of special automobiles painted bluebonnet blue, driven by highway patrolmen and with a special license plate, gifts of cowboy clothes and scores of other Texas products.

The torrid battle between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Senator Robert T. Taft (R-Ohio) for the Republican presidential nomination and the clouded contest among Democratic nominee hopefuls gives the conference a special meaning. It comes just one week before the national GOP convention in Chicago.

The program the governors will open—a program bound in the hide of unborn calf-lists round table discussions on tax and fiscal policy; higher education, highway safety, construction and operation.

It doesn't mention that Gov. Earl Warren of California is a candidate for the GOP nomination; that Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania may hold the GOP nomination in his hand with his big bloc of uncommitted delegates; that Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas—who controls 52 uninstructed votes to the Democratic convention—symbolizes the South's demand for more voice in Democratic party's platform and affairs.

But these and a score of other pointed political topics hold the real interest in the conference.

Most observers expect the real news of the conference will come in the comment of the governors on topics purely political. Comment that may include remarks on the latest statements of various candidates for the presidential nomination of both parties.

Permian Production Is Seen At Tester In C-S Kent Area

Operator was drilling ahead after finding possible Permian production in Champman & McFarlin Producing Company No. 1 D. M. Cogdell, Jr., wildcat two and one-half miles east of production in the Cogdell-multipay field of Central-South Kent County.

Operator took three drillstem tests. First was from 4,540 to 4,558 feet. Recovery was 230 feet or heavily oil and gas-cut drilling mud. Tool was open one hour.

Operator then took a one and three-quarter hour drillstem test from 4,540 to 4,573 feet. Gas surfaced in 18 minutes and oil in one and three-quarter hours. Operator closed tool as soon as the oil surfaced. No report was made on the recovery.

A three-hour drillstem test was taken from 4,573 to 4,619 feet. Recovery was 700 feet of oil and 360 feet of salt water.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 775, block 97, H&TC survey.

Toll Roads Called Answer To Texas' Highway Problem

DALLAS —(AP)— Toll roads can be financed with revenue bonds where traffic volume is heavy enough, an engineer says.

Hugh Wallace, division engineer of the Asphalt Institute, told a Dallas Chamber of Commerce highway committee Friday that such a road between Dallas and Fort Worth would be profitable.

Wallace suggested that such a road be built unless the next session of the state legislature creates a state turnpike authority.

He said such roads could be built between Dallas and Fort Worth and between Beaumont and Houston without use of tax money.

Jimmy Allison, a senior ROTC student at Southern Methodist University, left Friday for Williams Air Force Base, Arizona, where he will take a month's refresher course.

Cattle Prices Take Plunge But Recovery Thought Near

By The Associated Press

Prices dropped at Texas cattle markets during the week, apparently following declines at other markets over the nation.

Ranchers eager to move animals off ranges wilting in the June heat found, in some instances, that buyers were not so eager to cooperate.

Compared with last week's market close, slaughter cows went for $1 lower at the Houston stockyards and slaughter calves $1 to $2 lower.

Steers and yearlings were mostly $1 lower at the San Antonio market, compared to a week ago. Cows were $2 to $4 lower, bulls $2 off and calves $2 to $3 lower.

Cattle prices were lower on the Fort Worth market Friday with good grade yearlings unchanged to $2 down, common medium steers $2 lower to unchanged, bulls $1 lower, choice fat calves unchanged to $1 lower, common medium slaughter calves $1 lower to unchanged. Fat cows were unchanged.

In San Antonio the cattle market was $2 to $6 lower Friday. Receipts were around 1,100 head.

Look For Reason

In Clovis, N. M., a committee of cattlemen was formed to search for the reason behind price slumps of $1 to $4 on the Clovis market during the past week.

In Denver, a spokesman for the American National Cattlemen's Association said it wasn't fair to judge the Clovis market by one day. He said prices at major Midwest stockyards ranged downward only 50 cents Friday.

In Chicago, stockmen said the decline was largely the case of a generous supply running up against a demand that has lessened. They called it a seasonal situation.

One of the factors is cattle fattened on farm feed lots. These are purchased in the Fall, fed during the chilly months and sent to market in the Spring. The peak of these marketings usually is reached in May. But this year it came in June.

In the big Chicago market the last three weeks there has been a net decline of $2 to $2.50 per 100 pounds in the selling price of live beef steers. Receipts have been estimated at 94,400. During the corresponding period of 1951, receipts totaled 76,000.

H. M. Conway, statistician for the National Livestock Producers Association, says the peak supply period of top fed cattle soon will be passed.

"In about two or three weeks, we'll begin to get an increased supply of grass-fed beef," Conway said.

It is expected that fewer farm-fed cattle will be marketed then, and prices for the top grades of beef animals will rise while prices for the lower grades will drop.

B. Of M. Bulletin Tells Of Results Of Water Flood Work

AMARILLO —Four water-flooding projects in Nowata County, Oklahoma, oil fields are described in detail in a Bureau of Mines report recently released by the Department of the Interior.

The report was written by John P. Powell and J. L. Eakin, petroleum engineers at the Bureau's Bartlesville, Okla., experiment station.

Lease Histories Given

Production histories of the leases in each project are given in the report. It also contains discussions of methods of operations, types of equipment used, methods of water treament and the results obtained by water flooding.

From 1935 to 1952 an estimated 35 million barrels of oil have been produced in Nowata County as a direct result of water flooding, according to the report.

The authors also trace the primary development of the oil industry in the county and show the results of the early application of vacuum and the use of air and gas injection in the fields.

A Cooperation Program

The work upon which the report is based was done under a cooperative agreement among the Bureau of Mines, the Department of the Interior and the State of Oklahoma.

The report is illustrated with maps, charts and production curves.

A free copy of Report of Investigations 4896, "Water Flooding in Nowata, Okla. Oil Fields," may be obtained from the Bureau of Mines, Publications Distribution Section, 4800 Forbes Street, Pittsburgh 13, Pa. It should be identified by both number and title when requests for copies are made.

New Shell Plant To Make Sulphur For Newsprint Industry

A new source of elemental sulphur, vital to the newsprint industry, has been provided with the opening of a new sulphur plant by Shell Oil Company of Canada at Jumping Pound, Alberta, Canada.

The new plant will produce 30 tons a day of 99.9 per cent pure sulphur. The output will be used by Pacific Coast pulp and paper manufacturers.

A Necessary Item

The installation is especially important because sulphur, now in critically short world supply, is irreplaceable in treating the wood fibre used in newsprint manufacture.

Part of an extensive conservation program being conducted by Shell, the plant recovers sulphur from hydrogen sulfide gas that comes with natural gas from wells in the Jumping Pound field.

Cools And Solidifies

The finished sulphur is piped from the plant to large vats, where it cools and solidifies.

When a vat is full, its steel plates are stripped away, leaving a solid block of sulphur. Shot holes are then drilled in the block, and sulphur is broken up and collected for shipment.

COTTON

NEW YORK—(AP)—Future prices advanced gradually but steadily on the New York Cotton Exchange this week.

At the colse of trading Friday the Advances over the week ranged from $1.40 a bale to $3.10 a bale. The best advances were in the nearby July delivery.

Buying was influenced by continued favorable reports from the goods market and indications of weevil infestation in sections of the eastern belt.

MIDLANDER INJURED

Thomas N. Belew, 1207 South Weatherford Street, was admitted Friday to Midland Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a car accident.

Attaches said he sprained an ankle and suffered multiple contussions and abrasions when his car hit a "soft" spot on Highway 158 and overturned.

Politics Make Paradox In Soil Conservation Steps For U. S.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Back in the thirties, after the Supreme Court kicked out the first agricultural adjustment act, Congress enacted a soil conservation program. It provided for subsidies up to 500 million dollars a year to farmers for carrying out government-approved soil and water conservation practices. In recent years Congress has been voting only half that amount.

Taking the view that this program should be turned over to the states on a grant-in-aid basis, Congress put it into the hands of the Agriculture Department on a temporary basis.

The states were to set up their own conservation agencies. But when the time came for the department to dole out money to the states to finance their own soil programs, only a few states were prepared.

Congress extended the department's control. Again many states failed to act. The present session of Congress has ordered another extension.

This is astonishing because all these years several major farm organizations and one major political party — the Republican — have advocated greater decentralization of the farm programs.

Particularly insistent upon state control has been the American Farm Bureau Federation. Officials of that organization say they plan to concentrate next year on state legislature for necessary action.

The Agriculture Department is not eager to give up the soil program. Its officials contend that a better job can be done through national administration. They say the program as now operated is flexible enough to meet the particular needs of any state or county.

The program is carried out locally through state and county committees of farmers. State committeemen are chosen by the secretary of agriculture, county committee members by the farmers themselves.

Texas Congressmen Deplore Absenteeism By Easterners

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Texas members of Congress, along with other distant members, have a bone to pick with Eastern colleagues—over their absenteeism.

Some two-thirds of the 435 members of the House live in a few hours' traveling time from Washington by train or automobile. Airlines fly to Philadelphia in 48 minutes and New York in 72 minutes.

This has resulted in what is known as the "Tuesday-Thursday" club of legislators who go home for long week ends and are actually here for business only the three middle days of the week. All don't do it every week, but enough of them are absent with such frequency that the work of the House is slowed considerably.

Representative W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco says: "They inevitably tend to stay home over Monday, and sometimes Tuesday. As the session wears on, this practice gets worse. When we do finally get to the measures which have accumulated, we act on them without sufficient deliberation.

"The result is that these of us who live a distance from Washington are put to a great disadvantage. We, too, feel that we should be able to get home; but we can't do so ever weekend."

Poage says many Eastern members supplement their congressional salaries by practicing law or engaging in other business while home on extended week ends.

Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana thinks they ought to stay on the job here, get legislative business transacted, adjourn and go home.

Could Shorten Sessions

"I gave up all my private business when I came to Congress," he said. "The pay is sufficient, and the job of being representative is the only business I have.

"It makes it hard on those of us who stay here to carry on the work of the house, including committee hearings, when there is a lot of absenteeism."

Representative Ken Regan of Midland suggests Congress could cut its sessions by 25 per cent a year if all members stayed on the job throughout the week. Shorter annual sessions, he says, would save taxpayers a substantial amount in overhead expenses.

Absenteeism in Congress is nothing new, veteran Senator Tom Connally notes.

"We used to have the same complaint to make against that Tammany Hall crowd," he said, recalling his days in the House between 1917 and 1929. "You could get them down here only if a crucial vote was coming up. I don't know what you can do about it."

Representative John Lyle of Corpus Christi, making it clear he was not excusing absenteeism, commented:

"It actually doesn't make much difference so far as the House is concerned. We are far ahead of the Senate anyway. We always are and are continually having to mark time while they catch up."

Senator Lydon B. Johnson maintains a rapid pace seven days a week, busy with his jobs as Senate Whip and head of the Armed Services Preparedness Committee. (The Whip serves as acting Majority Leader at times and helps shape policies.)

No Debate Limit

"We have no limit on debate," he said, "so you can't speed legislation through this body as you can in the House."

Absenteeism is chronic in the Senate, except when very important legislation is about to come up for a vote. Much of the time only three or four seators are on the floor as one of their colleagues drones on and on unbridled oratory.

Aside from the fact that the House is habitually ahead of the Senate in transaction of business, there are a few other points to be noted in defense of the Eastern representatives who go home Fridays through Mondays.

The fact they are away from here doesn't necessarily mean they are playing golf or raking in extra dollars in law cases.

Almost without exception the congressmen from big Eastern cities such as Philadelphia and New York, keep offices open throughout the week in federal buildings in their districts. Constitutents write or telephone them here making appointments for conferences when they come home.

There are some distinct advantages of representing a district as close to Washington, some of the Easterners say.

They are so close that constituents come to their offices in steady processions to demand this and that. They simply don't have time to give their visitors as much time and attention as the average Texas visitor is accorded by his congressman.

Hooping Boosters Hit From Pecos

With a crescendo of screaming sirens and cowboy warwhoops, a busload of 36 boosters from Pecos arrived in Midland at 1:35 p.m. Friday and presented a 30-minute street program of Western music to herald the annual West of the Pecos Rodeo.

Glenn Stafford, director of the rodeo association and chairman of the goodwill tour, announced that this year's rodeo will be held the evenings of July 3, 4, 5 and 6. A $5,000 purse plus entry fees will be offered. One of the winners of the nine events will receive a house trailer presented by Gray Trailer Company of San Angelo.

Stafford said Butler Brothers of Oklahoma will furnish the stock. One of the attractions will be the Hendricks Family, presenting trick roping and a mule that drives an automobile out of the arena. Hoyt Hefnier will be the rodeo's clown.

The Pecos Wranglers band with Bill Hubbs as master of ceremonies entertained a large crowd of Midlanders gathered in front of Hotel Scharbauer to watch and hear the colorful group of cowgirls and cowboys.

Program numbers included: "Let Old Mother Nature Have Its Way" and "Anytime," vocal solos by Thelmadeane Hutchins; "Wheel of Fortune," vocal solo by Ellen Jayne Maris; "Have I Told You Lately That I Love You," vocal solo by Pat Enger; "Wild Side of Life," vocal solo by Pete Smith; "Sally Goodwin," by band; "On Top of Old Smokey," quartet composed of Ellen Jayne Maris, Pat Enger, Patty Halcomb and Thelmadeane Hutchins, accompanied by Pete Smith as caller; "Steel Guitar Rag," by band and featuring Frank Cummings; "Ragtime Cowboy Joe," trio composed of Ellen Jayne Maris, Pat Enger and Thelmadeane Hutchins; and "Ragtime Annie," by the band.

1,000 Miles Completed

The Pecos rodeo boosters' stop in Midland completed 1,000 miles they have made this season. They were enroute home to Pecos. This week, they will close their booster tours with a trip to El Paso, making a total of 1,560 miles.

Escorting the boosters to the Midland city limits were Sam Walling, Pecos chief of police, and A. B. Nalls, state liquor control board agent.

Chief of Police Harold Wallace, Assistant Chamber of Commerce Manager Burlin Hines and a member of The Reporter-Telegram staff met the booster at the city limits on East Highway 80 to officially escort them into the city.

HIGH-OCTANE ELEPHANT—Huge symbol of the GOP is formed by more than 100 autos assembled at Dyche Stadium of Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. The "elephant's" component parts will be used by delegates to the forthcoming Republican National Convention in Chicago, which begins July 7.

Chicago Scrubs, Preens, Awaits Political Parleys

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Republicans and Democrats are returning to their favorite city next month to nominate a President and there's a definite political theme in many lines of business.

There's also feverish non-political activity in putting final touches to preparations for the two major party conventions.

Playing host to the big political shows is a huge business-although not a new role—for Chicago.

When the Republicans convene July 7 it will be Chicago's thirteenth GOP natinal convention. The Democrats open their meeting on July 21, their eighth in Chicago.

The last time both met in Chicago in the same year was 1944.

Business groups and city officials have been busy for months mapping every detail so that the delegates and convention visitors will be kept happy during their week-long stay.

Hotels, railroads, airlines, restaurants, night clubs, theaters and State Street stores have made big plans for a business boom during the conventions.

The city had arranged to have streets spick and span, with an extraspecial preening on the routes from the loop to the convention hall, the International Amphitheater in the stockyards district.

Traffic policemen won't be too quick to give delegates and visitors a ticket for a minor violation. The 1,100 policemen who will handle traffic won't be allowed to use such familiarities as "Bud" and "Chum."

Being a presidential year, even the new toys are of a political nature. Among the new Christmas display shown Saturday were giant elephants and donkeys that double as pieces of furniture, ottomans and hassocks.

Arrangements at the Amphitheater, which has a seating capacity of 12,000 are nearing completion. Busiest workers have been representatives of news services, radio and television stations. The Illinois Bell Telephone Company has arranged a telephone message center for delegates which will include walkie-talkie service for emergencies.

One of the major projects at the Amphitheater was the installation of an air cooling system. Delegates thus can be assured of keeping cool during the hours of fiery oratory.

'Grand Ol' Opry' To Appear In City For Charity Fund

The Grand Ol' Opry is coming to Midland on June 30 for an under-the-stars performance at 8:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

Midland's Civitans announced Saturday they would sponsor the show in behalf of their charity fund.

George Morgan headlines the troupers in the two-hour show. He's the singer who made himself famous with his "Candy Kisses," "Cry-Baby Heart," "Mansion Over the Hilltop" and his more recent "Almost."

Also on the program will be the Callahan Brothers and their sons, Columbia recording comedy stars. Jerry Byrd, the nation's No. 1 Steel guitarist, also is scheduled to appear along with Decca recording Autrey Inman and a number of others.

Tickets are available at Wemple's, 108 North Loraine Street. Len McCormick, president of the Civitans, said that the show would be presented in the MHS auditorium in the event inclement weather forces the program from Memorial Stadium.

Lindley Beckworth To Address Voters

Midland voters will hear a brief talk by Representative Lindley Beckworth, candidate for United States Senator, as he brings his campaign here at 2:30 p. m. Saturday.

The Gladewater attorney, a member of Congress for 14 years, also will speak in Pecos, Monahans, Odessa, Big Spring, Colorado City, Sweetwater and Roby that day.

War On Insects Declared

The City Council has declared all-out, open warfare on flies and mosquitoes in Midland in the face of the prolonged hot weather and as a means of averting possible disease threats.

It is true the battle has been raging the last week or two as city, county and health unit representatives worked overtime to keep the situation under control. But the fight against the pests must be stepped-up to the fastest possible speed. Everything possible must be done to curb the fly and mosquito menace in Midland.

But the war declaration of the City Council alone cannot and will not get the job done. The full support and cooperation of all residents of the community are essential if the war is to be won. All citizens must engage actively in the fight, which can be lost as a result of negligence and indifference on the part of a few.

• • •

Open garbage cans and places where trash, rubbish and litter of various kinds accumulate form breeding places for flies and mosquitoes. It is up to the individual to see that his or her premises are cleared and kept clear of insect breeding places. One open garbage can, for instance, can offset the fly-control efforts of many.

Individuals, too, can use every means possible of eliminating insects in their homes, offices and stores.

In other words, the success of the campaign is up to the individual. Householders must police their own premises first.

The city is completing plans for a community-wide drive against filth, but again the individual householder must cooperate to the fullest extent. The city, the county or the health unit alone or combined cannot do the job, but the combined citizenry of Midland certainly can.

It seems peculiar that mosquitoes would be a threat or a nuisance as dry as it is in Midland proper. There is a very wet spot just southeast of the city, however, and from there where many of the mosquitoes come. The spot is the city's sewage farm, which will continue as a nuisance to persons residing in that vicinity until the new sewage disposal plant is placed in operation later this Summer.

• • •

Surely, the persons residing just east and southeast of the city have every right to be concerned about the situation, but at the same time they must credit health authorities with taking steps to control it. It appears from reports issued by city and health unit authorities that everything possible is being done to relieve the problem. Reports also indicate that the mosquito problem at the disposal plant is not now a disease menace.

Nevertheless, the fight there must continue day and night. Citizens should not be satisfied with anything less.

Yes, flies and mosquitoes are troublesome here at the moment, but the impotrant thing is they can be controlled to a large extent. It is the duty of every individual and each and every agency involved to take proper steps NOW to control a dangerous situation.

The open war against flies and mosquitoes must be won in Midland.

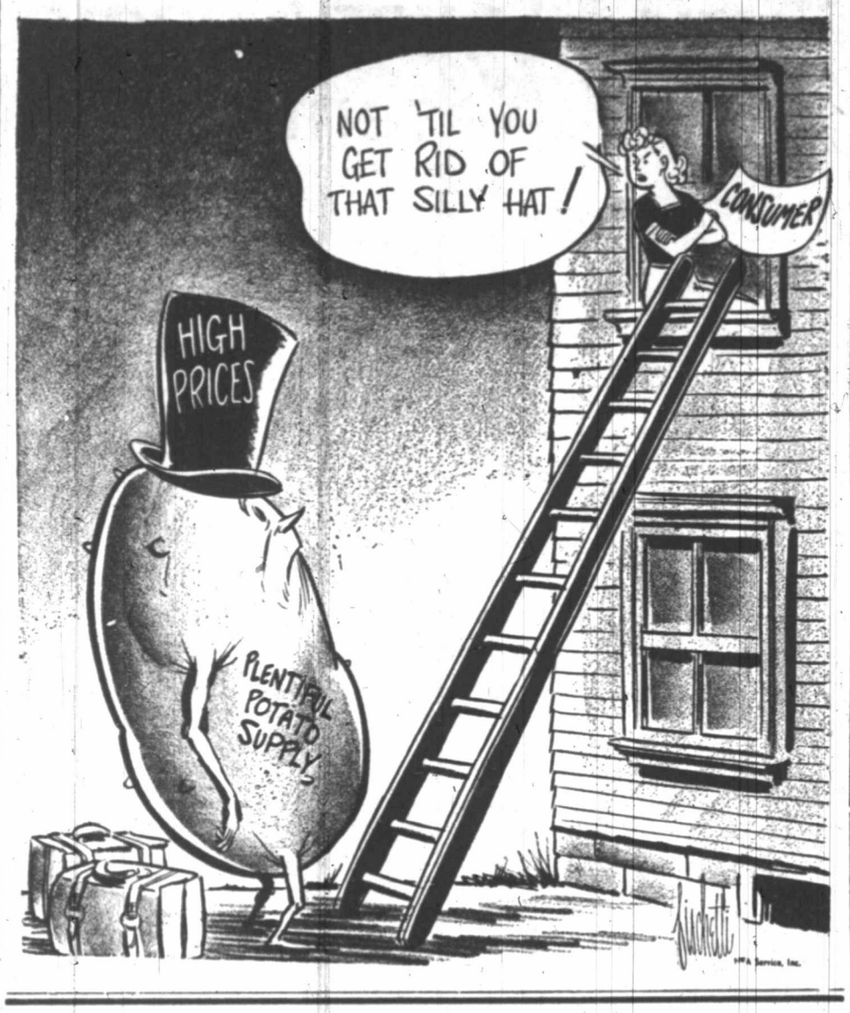
Holding Up The Elopement



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Truman woos Governor Stevenson through member of his Cabinet; Ex-Congressman Knutson still has power to change air bases; Acheson displeased at French-British attitude toward Russians.

WASHINGTON—Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman took a quiet air trip out to Springfield, Ill., the other day for an off-the-record conference with Governor Stevenson.

Reason for the trip was to clear up the reasons why Stevenson does not want to run. Some of them pertain to too much bossism in the Democratic National Committee.

For a time it looked to Chapman that Stevenson was on the verge of changing his mind, but later it looked once again as if Stevenson meant what he said about not wanting to be drafted.

Sleep Ahead Of Jets

When Arnold Knutson of Minnesota bossed the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives he was one of the most powerful personages in Washington. His word on taxation was next to law.

However, Knutson was defeated in the anti-GOP upset of 1948, and now has retired to Florida, where it was expected he would lose his power.

But he hasn't.

For, the other day, he actually got the Air Force to shift a jet gunnery school away from Venice, Fla., because it interfered with the ex-congressman's sleep. Knutson wrote to friends on the Armed Services Committee that the jet gunnery school would bring planes swooping over his head and would disturb his "tranquility."

A few strings were pulled, and the Air Force hastily transferred the school to Punta Gorda, Fla.—to disturb the tranquility of less influential people.

Acheson Bawls Out

Secretary of State Acheson called in the French and British ambassadors last week and gave them a diplomatic "bawling out" because their governments have been promoting a conference with Russia on the question of Germany.

When reports were published in Europe that the French and British wanted to meet with Russia but that the United States was holding them back, Acheson was furious. The reports obviously were official leaks from the French and British Foreign Offices. So Acheson called in Ambassador Franks and Ambassador Bonnet, and let them have it.

The foreign offices in London and Paris, he said, have got to stop leaking stories of this kind to the press. The United States is willing to talk with Russia anywhere at any time, Acheson continued, but it is not going to sit down around a conference table unless it knows precisely what is to be discussed. Furthermore, the United States is not going to walk into a Russian propaganda trap just to please British and French politicians.

Acheson particularly was burned up because only two months ago the United States had taken the initiative in proposing a big four meeting on Germany, but the French and British at that time said no.

Libel suits usually make headlines when they are brought, but not when they are won or settled.

For instance, the Farmers Union recently w a $25,000 judgment against the Farm Bureau of Utah which had charged the Farmers Union with being "Communist dominated."

Most interesting point about the case was that U. S. District Judge Willis Ritter ruled out a speech by Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire in which he claimed the Farmers Union was Communist dominated. The charge was one which Bridges could make with complete safety from the privileged sanctity of the Senate floor. Nobody could sue him.

However, the Farmers Union showed that Robert C. McManus of Hopewell, N. J., an ex-writer for the Farm Journal, actually had written the speech for Bridges and Bridges had delivered it in order to support the Farm Bureau's case.

This is a device not uncommon in Washington. In fact, the China lobby is suspected of having prepared some of Senator McCarthy's speeches.

However, the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals, upholding Judge Ritter, was brief and to the point.

"It would be unfair," the court ruled regarding Senator Bridges' speech, "to allow appellants (the Farm Bureau) to avail themselves of the publicity they had prepared and submitted for delivery on the Senate floor."

So the $25,000 verdict in favor of the Farmers Union stood.

What A Day!

Senator Warren Magnuson of Washington, invited out to Montana to speak at the Democratic state convention, thought he had arrived at the wrong place. The Placer Hotel in Butte where he was supposed to meet Montana Democrats was packed with banners promoting Ike, Taft and Warren.

"I thought I was supposed to speak before a Democratic convention," Magnuson inquired. "What are all these Republicans doing here?"

"It's required by Montana law," replied the hotel clerk. "Under the law, Montana has to hold the conventions of both the Republican and Democratic Parties in the same town on the same day and the same hour.

"And," added Magnuson's informant, "it's the best day of the year in Montana."

As the evening wore on, featured by arguments and political battles between wild-eyed Democrats and Republicans, the senator from Washington agreed that it was quite a day.

Pure Politics

Senator Brewster's defeat in Maine sent cold shivers down the spine of organization Republicans in Wisconsin. Their pal, McCarthy, occupies about the same status in the Badger State as Brewster did in Maine—tremendous machine support but ebbing confidence on the part of the people. . . . Judge William Denman and other members of the forthright 9th Circuit U. S. Court of Appeals have adopted an unusual resolution calling on the Justice Department to quit letting local Democratic bosses pick federal judges. Because the Justice Department waits for California Democrats to pick the judges, one judicial vacancy was not filled for 20 months, another not for a year. . . . Since when were the bosses supposed to pick judges, anyway? . . . Senator Taft may have pulled a boner when he employed Dunn Associates to make a survey of Wall Street. The survey showed that Ike was more popular than Taft, 5 to 4, with the big money boys—which was what Taft hoped to prove. But, more significant, it showed that Ike and Taft together got 90 per cent of Wall Street's votes. The Democrats hardly rated at all. . . . Badly as the District of Columbia needs a new primary law, GOP Senator Dirksen of Illinois, spokesman for the Chicago Tribune, killed it.

Politics And Amusement

The Taft-Eisenhower battle has spread to the amusement field. Taft backers have hired the Miami Vagabonds for a 10-day stand at the Chicago convention at $10,000. When the deal still was in the talking stage, the Vagabonds asked: "Why do you want us? For 10 grand you can get one of the biggest names in Hollywood."

The answer was: "Eisenhower's already going after the movie stars. We're concentrating on television names."

Battle of Oil Men—H. L. Hunt, millionaire Texas oil man, has been flying around the country in his private plane, lining up second-choice delegates for MacArthur—just in case of a Republican deadlock at Chicago. Hunt's last stop was at Rapid City, S. D., where he called on Taft delegate J. H. Bottum. But while Hunt has been using his 27 1/2 per cent deductible oil money to finance MacArthur's campaign—including some of the general's personal expenses—another Texas oil man, Sid Richardson, is helping to finance Eisenhower. It's a battle, not only between the generals, but between the oil tycoons of Texas.

Snap Decision Clark—The joint chiefs are disturbed over Gen. Mark Clark's snap decisions in Tokyo. The latest was the three-day American walkout from the truce negotiations. These are so delicate that almost every move has been dictated from Washington. Yet Clark ordered a walkout without asking anyone. The joint chiefs were so upset that they held a special discussion at their latest meeting.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The bidding in the highly popular game of "Ghoulie" is somewhat different from ordinary bridge. Maybe I should explain that this is the game in which the cards are not shuffled and are dealt five at a time, then five at a time again, and then three at a time.

In ordinary bridge, an expert would bid the clubs as well as the diamonds with the South hand. In "Ghoulie," as Philip Wertheimer points out in his amusing book on the new game, a player bids the fourth suit only when he wants to show a weak misfit.

	NORTH (D) 21 ♠ A K Q 5 2 ♥ Q 9 5 4 3 ♦ None ♣ A 7 3
WEST ♠ None ♥ A J 8 7 6 ♦ K 6 2 ♣ J 10 9 8 4	EAST ♠ J 10 9 8 7 4 3 ♥ 2 ♦ Q 9 8 7 5 ♣ None
	SOUTH ♠ 6 ♥ K 10 ♦ A J 10 4 3 ♣ K Q 6 5 2

North-South vul.

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	2 N.T.	Pass
3 ♥	Pass	3 N.T.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♣ J

In this case, the hands are a misfit, but they are not weak. South therefore gets to game in no-trump instead of flying a distress signal.

The play at no-trump is quite simple. South wins the opening club lead and counts his tricks. He can surely make three tricks in each black suit and one diamond. He therefore needs two heart tricks to be sure of the contract.

After winning the first trick, South goes right after the hearts by leading the king. West wins with the ace of hearts and returns another club.

This time declarer must win the trick in dummy to make sure that he can later get to his own hand with a club. A low heart is then led from dummy and South's ten of hearts is offered to the enemy.

If West takes the jack of hearts, dummy's queen and nine will later win tricks. If West refuses the trick, South's ten of hearts will win at once, and dummy's queen will win later on. Either way South is satisfied since any two heart tricks assure the contract.

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
1 Heart	Pass	1 Spade	Pass

You, South, hold: Spades J-2, Hearts K-Q-9-8-4, Diamonds A-K-J, Clubs A-K-J. What do you do?

A—Bid three no-trump. You want to be in a game even if North has made a doubtful response to the opening bid. If North has about an average hand (an ace, a king, a queen, and a jack—or the equivalent) he must make some sort of slam try.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades K-8, Hearts K-Q-9-8-4-2, Diamonds A, Clubs A-J-4-2. What do you do?

Answer Monday

The diameter of the rim of Chubb Crater in Northern Quebec averages 11,500 feet. The circumference is 6.8 miles.

Taft Temperament Difficult For Lensmen; Ike's A 'Mugger'

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—News photographers generally are agreed that Senator Dick Russell of Georgia is the easiest of the presidential candidates to work with. He'll do anything they say.

General Eisenhower, as a new face on the political scene, is regarded by many as the most photogenic and the best "mugger." Senator Taft of Ohio still takes top honors as being the most difficult subject, photographically and temperamentally.

Recently a photographer was admitted to Senator Taft's Washington residence to make a series of "at home" shots. The photographer suggested that the senator take off his coat, sit down in an easy chair and make like he was having a cup of coffee.

"I never take my coat off at home," said the senator crisply.

"All right, replied the photographer agreeably, "I just wanted to show you relaxed at home, and most men, when they go home, take off their coats."

"That settles it," said the senator. "Leave my house."

Frank Capa, a photographer covering General Eisenhower on the final visit to Luxembourg, says he was close by when the general bade farewell to Minister Perle (the inspiration for "Call Me Madam") Mesta. It was at Luxembourg airport.

As the general stopped to shake hands with Madame Mesta before boarding his plane, Capa says this conversation took place:

Madame Mesta: "Well, goodby, general."

General Eisenhower: "Call me Mister."

• • •

General Eisenhower privately has told a few people there is not one word of truth in the story printed last November that President Truman had offered to help Ike get the Democratic presidential nomination, and that the general had not rejected it.

Eisenhower's version is that the story was impossible because, right at the start of his meeting with the President, there was a clear understanding that the two would not discuss domestic politics.

Iowa Senator Guy M. Gillette's elections subcommittee is making a study of scurrilous literature mailed out during the 1952 campaign, although it hasn't as yet cleaned up its 1950 election scandals cases.

The Gillette committee has traced the first of the anti-Eisenhower mailings, "Headlines and What's Behind Them," to the New York offices of the much-investigated Joe Kamp.

• • •

Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee was asked if he intended to have blocks of delegates visit him before the Democratic nominating convention in Chicago, in an obvious crack at General Eisenhower's activities along that line.

"No!" said Kefauver. "Our plan of campaign is to go see the people and then get them to influence the delegates."

• • •

California Senator William F. Knowland's sweep of both parties in the state primaries has made him a hot prospect for a vice presidential nomination. He would be teamed with Senator Taft in the number-one spot.

The old "Copperhead" political label of Civil War times has been dragged out again. The name originally was applied to Northerners who sympathized with and supported the South in the battle over slavery and states' rights.

Americans for Democratic Action, the liberal wing of the Democratic Party, now is applying the "Copperhead" labor to Northerners who want a compromise plank on civil rights in the 1952 platform.

At the head of its Copperhead list, ADA has put Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney and Massachusetts Gov. Paul A. Dever, who'll be keynoter at the Chicago Democratic Convention.

• • •

Taft-Eisenhower name-calling over the Texas Republican convention delegates contest now has reached a high decibel and ultra high-frequency level. It isn't so much the two candidates themselves as their backers who are indulging in this mudslinging.

First the Eisenhower crowd accused the Taftites of "stealing" the Texas delegation by steamroller tactics. Undaunted by that, Taft headquarters now has issued statement accusing the Ikeites of trying to win the Texas delegation "by fraud."

The alleged fraud is supposed to have occurred in trying to persuade Democrats to vote for General Eisenhower in Republican primaries.

Southern congressmen have taken care to see that cotton planters are protected on price-support levels in this election year, regardless of what happens to Northern and Western grain farmers.

The House of Representatives has passed a bill changing the standards on which price supports are calculated. The result is that cotton prices probably will be advanced three and a half cents a pound on the 1952 crop, if it runs more than the 16,000,000-bale goal set by Department of Agriculture.

Death in the Sierras

By Doris Hudson Moss

XII

WITH Sergeant Duncan entering with me, no explanation was required for our absence from the lodge. Duncan disappeared after that and Dr. David Roberts told me that Duncan had set a guard at both entrances to the cave to protect Mrs. Ordell.

Only the hermit would be permitted to enter the cave. This seemed strange to me. Why didn't they move poor Mrs. Ordell back to the lodge and safety? It seemed terrible to let the professor, her husband, go on grieving.

It was not quite noon, but the musical jangle of the dinner bell came pleasantly from the kitchen. Rhumba came waddling toward the lodge, striking an iron rod on the triangle as she walked.

"I've got to talk to Dr. Roberts," she said.

"Rhumba," said florid Mr. James, "whatever you have to say to Dr. Roberts can be postponed till later."

"No, it cain't, Mr. James. I've got to talk to him now."

"Rhumba," Mr. James wheezed angrily, "go back to the kitchen or you'll be fired."

"Fire away, Mr. James. I can go to work at Fallen Leaf Lake anytime I wants." Rolling her eyes angrily, she caught David by the arm and propelled him toward the fireplace. Duncan followed and I, not wanting to miss anything, came along.

"This ain't for you all," Rhumba said emphatically, eyeing Sergeant Duncan and me.

"You can talk freely in front of Sergeant Duncan and Miss Curtis, Rhumba," said Dr. Roberts.

Rhumba sniffed, then said. "I know who's the murderer." She paused as we held our breath. "But I ain't tellin'."

"But why did you tell me even this much?" asked David.

"Because you're a G-man. I heard Mr. Marguard talkin' to you about it, Sergeant." Duncan set his mouth in a thin line and glared at the cook.

Here, then, was what David had started to tell me in the tent.

"Yes, Rhumba. I'm a federal investigator. I didn't come to Gold Lake to solve a murder mystery, but since I'm here, I'm helping. And if you know anything, I'm sure you understand that you must help too."

"Mr. James killed Mrs. Ordell. I saw him run from the Ordell tent just before she screamed. He told me he was openin' sugar for me, but he went to the Ordell tent after that. And what's more, he put white powder on a slab of meat that looked mighty like the meat you found in your tent, Miss Curtis. Mr. James is a no-account man, I tell you."

Dr. Roberts looked at the sergeant. I thought I detected a wink. Then the doctor turned back to Rhumba and said, "Thanks for telling us this. We'll see if we can follow it up."

• • •

JEFF and Dick and old Pete Dupres brought up a string of horses to the door of the lodge. Duncan asked Jeff, Ordell, Miss Hansen, David Roberts and me to mount. I heard him give orders to Marguard to find James and to hold him.

Dr. Roberts rode beside me. He smiled at me reassuringly and, leaning from his saddle, he said in a low voice, "See if you can find the three trees. I believe I know where they are."

Sergeant Duncan beckoned Ordell to ride beside him and the professor jobbed up to the head of the procession. David said that both Duncan and the professor thought they knew where the trees stood.

I wondered how Duncan explained to the professor how he gained his information about the map.

It seemed that Miss Hansen and Jeff knew, too, and they pointed this way and that whenever three trees grew somewhat close together. But Duncan and Roberts refused to take their ideas seriously.

I noticed that the professor began to talk a bit, too. The excitement of treasure hunting and the healing pine-scented air were helping to take his mind from his sorrow.

Finally we reached the almost level top of the high difficult ridge and stopped to rest our horses.

Not far from the edge of a cliff stood the burned trunk of an old pine.

Sergeant Duncan dismounted and unbuckled a short-handled spade from his saddle. "Well, folks, here we are. You see, the timber noted on the map was old when that map was made, so it seems reasonable to believe that in the years that have passed the trees may have fallen."

Sergeant Duncan stepped off the distance between the spring and the base of the burned pine. David brought a graph-map from his pocket.

It was then that it dawned upon me that David knew about the map before I told him.

• • •

THE little group moved eagerly near to the doctor as spadeful after spadeful of earth piled up, enlarging the hole.

Carefully, David brushed and dug away the black earth that surrounded a rounded top, iron banded, wooden trunk that was really not much larger than a doll's trunk.

The men bent to lift the treasure from its grave—when the sharp report of a revolver set the mountains ringing with echoes and repercussions of impending danger.

We turned to see the bandana-masked figure holding a pistol at us. His hat was pulled low and he wore a heavy mackinaw, jeans tucked into high-laced boots.

He spoke very softly, and with deadly seriousness. "I want that gold. Get back from it, all of you. You, Roberts, lift up that box. If one of you moves a finger toward me, I'll kill him."

Careful Workman Can Hang Door Properly

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

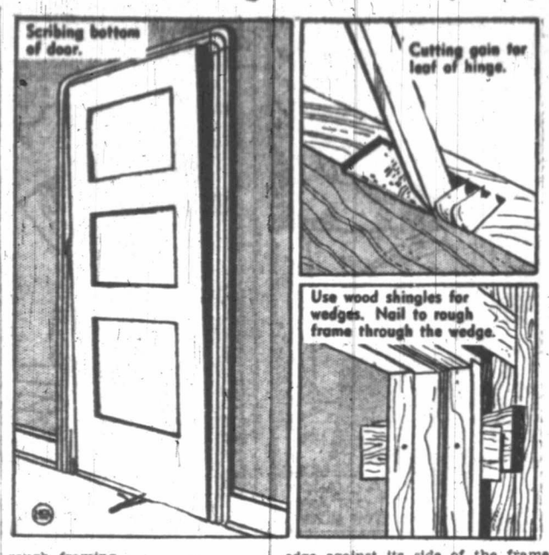
Fitting and hanging an interior door is an exacting job. To do it, that is to build and install a frame for the door, requires patience and careful workmanship. But it's not too difficult a job for the home handyman.

Tools you will need are hammer, chisel, ripsaw, 18 or 24-inch plane, carpenter's level, screwdriver, knife, scriber and hand drill.

To begin with, you'll want to select the proper door for the job. Interior doors are commonly 1 3/8 inches thick, if they are up to two feet eight inches or two feet 10 inches wide by six feet eight inches or six feet 10 inches high. A 1 1/8-inch door will suffice for a closet if the opening is fairly small.

Interior door frames usually are 3/4 inch or 7/8 inch thick, and attached stops nailed to the face of the frame are small molded pieces about 1 3/4 inches wide by one inch thick.

As Mr. Fix pointed out recently in a column about building partitions for closet space, rough framed door openings must be double framed and wide enough to allow for thickness of the jamb (finished frame) and to provide an inch or 1/2 inch for blocking between jamb and rough framing.



After jamb is cut to fit and its three sides nailed together, it is placed in the door opening, blocking is wedged firmly to bring jamb into plumb, then the jamb is nailed to rough frame through the wedges. Check plumb with carpenter's level.

Plane Hinge Edge

Now for the door. First, plane the door's hinge edge, then place this edge against its side of the frame and pencil a line down the opposite edge, with the frame as a guide. Plane the edge.

Next, place the bottom of the door in the frame and scribe a line on the door parallel to floor, but be sure to avoid taking off too much when you come to saw this portion. When it is removed, put the door back in the frame and pencil a line at the top for length. Allow about one-sixteenth inch between door and frame all around in planing to fit.

More Instructions

To position the lower hinge (properly called a pin butt, in this case) make the bottom of it about even with the bottom of the lower panels. Make the top of the upper hinge about even with the top of the upper panels. Mark outlines of hinges with knife. Depth of the gain (depression chiseled out of edge of door to fit leaf of hinge) should be the thickness of the leaf.

Cut the gains, use the hand drill to drill screw holes and fasten one leaf of each hinge to the door. Insert the door in the frame, with wedges under the bottom edge for proper clearance from the floor, and mark positions of hinges on the frame.

Take the door away, mark the outlines of the other leaves on the frame and cut the gains. Take care to avoid placing the leaves so close to the door stops that the door binds against the frame when shut.

Now hang the door on the pins and you've finished, except for putting the latch in place, and you have the hang of hanging a door.

Success Depends On Methods Used To Apply Paint

The method by which paint is applied will determine whether the job has a workmanlike appearance, or is streaked and unsatisfactory, according to Colorizer Paint Council.

An outside wall is painted in horizontal bands or strips, the width being determined by the distance the painter is able to reach from his ladder or scaffold. Work starts at the highest point and moves down.

An inside wall is painted in vertical bands or strips from ceiling to floor, starting in a corner. Ceiling painting starts in a corner and proceeds in bands or strips across the width of the room.

Smooth Even Coat

Paint always is spread in small areas and brushed out well in all directions to make a smooth even coat. Final strokes should all be in one direction. The brush should not be dipped into the can more than half its length.

Each new section should be blended with the section just painted so there will be no streaks.

When painting trim, a sheet of cardboard or sheet metal held against the area being painted will protect the wall from unsightly smears. The guard should be wiped frequently to prevent paint seeping behind it.

Paint should be kept well stirred in the can.

Timing Important In Installation Of Hardwood Floors

In building a home, it pays to check with the contractor and make sure that certain precautions are observed in delivery and laying of your hardwood flooring, manufacturers declare. As with almost any high quality building product, the most satisfactory results are obtained when approved methods of handling and installation are followed.

Flooring of oak or other hardwood should be installed only after all other construction has been completed and the plaster and cement work have dried, the producers explain. It should be delivered to the house four or five days before installation and piled loosely on the floor.

When these recommendations are not followed, the scientifically kiln-dried flooring may absorb an excessive amount of moisture, then contract under the influence of heat after a few months' use. This results in cracks between the flooring pieces. Observance of the precautions, however, eliminates that danger and help assure the home owner a lifetime of satisfactory flooring service.

Workshop Should Be Well Stocked With Staple Materials

Stockpiling various sizes and lengths of lumber and other items in the home workshop enables the craftsman to make improvements "when the spirit moves," rather than having to make frequent trips to the source of supply.

In lumber, depending on the size of the workshop and the activity, the handicrafter will need a supply of 1x2's, 1x3's, 1x4's, 1x6's, 2x2's and 2x4's, besides some half-inch stock and various sizes of quarter-round.

It's a good idea to have some panel-type boards on hand, too for they have many uses around the home. Recommended is a selection of one-eighth inch, three-sixteenth inch and one-fourth inch Tempered Presdwood panels, which come in widths of four feet and in convenient lengths for workshop storage. Used with the framing lumber suggested above, the all-wood panels can be fabricated into various built-ins, home furnishings and improvements.

Overhead Racks

Keep the lumber and panel boards in overhead racks, if possible. Preferably store the panels flat. Racks that permit withdrawal of panels long-side-first take less room.

An adequate supply of fasteners is essential to good workshop practice. Include box, finishing and casing nails, wood screws, bolts and nuts, rivets, corrugated fasteners, waterproof glue and waterproof tileboard for linoleum cement.

HOME OWNERS QUESTION BOX

Q—What kind of shingles should be used on a roof with a very steep pitch?

A—All styles of asphalt shingles are suitable for a roof with a rise of four inches or more to each horizontal foot. Strip and individual asphalt shingles are made in a variety of shapes enables the homeowner to pick out the pattern that will add most to the attractiveness of his dwelling. Attractiveness can also be increased by judicious choice from among the many solid and blended colors available.

Q—What makes a plaster ceiling fall?

A—Plaster falls because it gets wet. Water softens plaster, and soft plaster loses its grip on the lath. The water can come from a leaking roof or a leaking pipe. Because water can work its way unseen through the walls, its source is often far from where it appears.

Q—What is the best way to repair the crack where a concrete basement floor has pulled away from the wall?

Q—How can a crack in cast iron be repaired?

A—With iron cement, which is sold in hardware stores. This comes as a powder and is mixed with water to form a thick paste.

Q—Can anything be done to keep a wood porch floor from rotting?

A—Outdoor wood floors usually rot because moisture gets into the wood. When building a new floor, paint the boards all over before they are laid. Don't wait until the floor is finished and then paint only the top.

Q—When putting a new roof on a house, must the old material be taken off or can the new shingles be put right on top of the old ones?

A—If asphalt shingles are to be used for the new roof, the old roofing normally can be left in place. The roof deck and old material must provide a sound nailing base, and the deck must be strong enough to support both the new and old layers of material. If these two conditions are met, application of asphalt shingles over old roofing is desirable. It is an economical method, eliminating the expense of removing the wornout roofing. Another advantage is that the overall thickness of the roof covering is increased.

Q—What can be done to preserve cane chair seats? Should they be painted?

A—A good treatment for cane or rush is to brush it with linseed oil. Some of the oil will be absorbed and the rest should be wiped off. This treatment will keep the material from soiling readily.

Q—What is the best way to fix a tear in a canvas awning?

A—The best way is to sew a patch in place. Patches also can be attached with the kind of rubber cement used for patching inner tubes of automobile tires.

Daddy Ringtail And Surrounded

A warm Spring day had again come to the Great Forest. Birds were singing in trees that soon would be covered with leaves of green. Bees were busy gathering honey from the snow-white blossoms of a plum tree.

Everything looked like a warm Spring day. Everything smelled like a warm Spring day. All around was a warm Spring day indeed. The warm sun of a golden Spring had touched every tree, every bush, every blade of grass, it seemed.

Close beside the Elephant Path, was a fat and sassy rabbit. But he was much too happy and warm from the warm sun to do any sassing at all. He was fast asleep with his eyes closed.

Now Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, could see what a fine Spring day it was. He saw the trees and bushes and grass. He heard the hum of the bees. He felt the warmth of the sun. He also saw the sleeping rabbit.

Mugwump started to bugle with his bugle loud and shrill. This was to make the rabbit jump in a great fright, but ah me, why do it? It was much more fun to sniff and smell and look and see and even try to taste what a fine Spring day the day was.

Mugwump hopped and skipped and jumped and walked along with the Spring all around him wherever he went. He had wandered far into the forest, when suddenly he stopped. He was surrounded! Spring was all around him. He couldn't get away if he wanted to, and he didn't and so why try? He didn't.

He stopped at a happy place beside a pool of water. He reached in his pocket and took out a fishing line. He unrolled it. He baited the hook with a wiggly bug who was tired of living beneath a rock nearby. The bug was wanting to be a fine dinner for a fish, maybe, and so Mugwump dropped the fishing line into the water with the bug to catch a fish.

Mugwump tied the other end of the fishing line to his big toe. Then he lay down on his back in the warm sun to close his eyes with happy dreams of a fine Spring day all around. Happy day! More Monday.

Experiments Show Potential Bonanza For Blackland Crops

RENNER —(AP)— A 22-acre experimental plot of Blackland soil at the Texas Research Foundation produced 48 bushels of wheat to the acre this season.

That yield—more than four times the Texas average—is so good the head of the foundation's soil science division, Dr. Thomas C. Longnecker, says he can hardly believe his own measurements.

This is only one of hundreds of experiments being conducted in a 500-acre outdoor laboratory here in an effort to bring the rich heartland of Texas agriculture back into full production.

Blackland prairies cover some 16 million of the state's 168 million acres. But almost all the major cities, with the exception of those on the Gulf Coast, owe their development and prosperity to the wealth of the narrow Blackland belt.

In or bordering the Blacklands are Paris, Greenville, Denison, Sherman, Corsicana, Dallas, Fort Worth, Hillsboro, Waco, Temple, Austin and San Antonio.

Pioneers found choice topsoil two to 10 feet deep under the native grass. They thought the land would never wear out or wash away. But they were wrong.

Half Former Level

In the year 1926 the Blacklands were producing 1,600,000 bales of cotton. In 20 years much of the land went out of production. Cotton yields dropped to 700,000 bales and other crops showed similar losses. The Blacklands were producing at only about half their former level.

Directors of the foundation, almost all city men past 60, can remember how their fathers' farms produced at a high rate. They were willing to follow the lead of Karl Hoblitzelle, Dallas philanthropist, who provided much of the $750,000 plant. Businessmen in many cities are sharing the $250,000 annual operating cost. Private financing on this scale is unique in farm research.

Dr. C. L. Lundell heads a staff of 45, about half of them scientists. Their work concerns, primarily, soil management of the unusual blacklands. This kind of soil is found in Texas, a small area in Alabama and in the Russian Ukraine. It has a high clay content (about 65 per cent) and rain is so light in the area that it does not leech out the natural lime. Blackland is alkaline.

Figures have been compiled on a four-year test series from 1948 to 1951. They indicate promise for the Foundation's plan Number 14.

Highest Dollar Return

Experiment 14 is an all-out soil improvement program involving commercial fertilizer and crop rotation. It costs the most, but produces the highest return for each dollar spent.

Crops grown were cotton, maize, and two successive years of Alfalfa grass sod. Fertilizer used was 400 pounds of 5-10-5 on cotton and maize and 800 pounds on sod. The "5-10-5" means the fertilizer contains five per cent potash, 10 per cent nitrogen, and five per cent ammonium sulphate.) The land had Winter cover and deep tillage.

An acre so prepared is capable of one bale of cotton, two tons of grain sorghum seed, 50 to 60 bushels of corn, two or three tons or high quality hay or 18 to 25 bushels of wheat.

"If a man gets that kind of yield, he can't help but make money," Dr. Longnecker said.

Such production throughout the Blacklands would mean an additional $300,000,000 farm income to be spent in Texas.

An important function of the foundation is the grass research program. Thousands of individual pieces of sod have been set out and marked for study by Walter Washko, associate agronomist in charge of grass research. His object is to find, by actual field tests, the best grasses to use in the crop rotation cycle.

Washko answers plenty of questions on grass varieties. Farmers, convinced that rotation is the way to salvation for their fields, are eager for Washko's suggestions on ways to raise their income from grass. While improving the soil for future cash crops, well-managed pastures can produce 200 pounds of beef, thereby earning $60 an acre. That is about four times the average return on Texas farms.

Washko likes to tell his visitors about the Alabama Blacklands farmers. They were driven out of the cotton business by the boll weevil. They made more money from cattle than they ever had from cotton, and the cows did most of the work. So farmers in one town gratefully built a monument to the weevil.

Grass research here is leading to ever increased production from the land. Scientists already see many of their recommendations put into practice. They hope to restore millions of Blackland acres to permanent maximum production in 20 to 25 years.

Dr. Longnecker thinks that would be good progress.

"It took 50 to 60 years to tear down the soil," he said. "We can't come back overnight."

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

The market was weak and draggy at the Midland Livestock Auction Company sale Thursday. Cattle were off 50 cents to $2 a hundred from the week before. Few choice cattle were offered in a run of 257 head.

Medium to good butcher calves and yearlings cleared at $25 to $30, commons $16 to $25. Good cows sold for $19 to $21, mediums $16 to $19, canners and cutters $10 to $16. Bulls brought $19 to $24.50.

Stocker steer calves went at $27 to $31 and heifer calves $25 to $30.

Green, tall grass and weeds; fine crops; wild flowers galore; lush growth of all kinds; fat cattle; ponds overflowing with water. . . . Reads wonderful, doesn't it?

DSQ almost had forgotten just how beautiful such a scene could be, but we discovered such things as mentioned above do exist while on an automobile trip to Houston last week.

The conductor of this column also discovered again just how hot, sticky and humid it can get in that country. (Weather forecast in a Houston newspaper: "Hot and Sticky").

• • •

The countryside takes on a greenish tint around Eden, and becomes really green around Brady. From there on to Houston, farm and ranch lands look good. There is plenty of tall grass and weeds for livestock to eat and plenty of wildflowers for them to smell while they graze in contentment. Cattle are fat in the Brady sector, which apparently has received plentiful moisture in recent weeks. The San Angelo country still is dry and brown, and one sees few cattle, sheep or horses along the highway.

• • •

We even were in at least one hard shower between Buchanan Lake and Austin. Buchanan Lake, incidentally, is low, but it still holds an ocean of water for a dry West Texan. Mighty pretty.

Midlander Bob Scrugg's Inks Lake is one of the most beautiful in the Texas lake country. Sorry we couldn't stop by for a visit and a fish dinner with the Scruggs.

Plenty of fisherman going and coming on the highways in the Central and South Texas areas.

• • •

Never before saw such crops as those between Austin and Houston. Field after field of cotton, corn and feed stuffs are much in evidence. One wonders, just how high can corn grow in Texas? Cotton crops, too, look exceptionally fine, and it is likely the weevils are big and fat.

• • •

The pine trees arund Bastrop are as beautiful as ever, as are the oak and other varieties which make a veritable jungle of much of the South and East Texas areas. The tree moss, too, is something for a West Texan to behold.

• • •

Sign displayed at a farm home situated near the Bastrop-Houston highway: "Fox hounds for sale."

• • •

Driving through the lush, green grass country north of Houston, the motorist sees cattle of all kinds and colors as thick as oil men and ranchers in the Scharbauer lobby. Quite a sight. Brahmans seem to predominate, and it is likely that Everett Colborn gets many of his wild Brahman bulls for his rodeo herd in that sector.

At any rate, South Texas now is producing lots of cattle. Judging from the price of beef on the plate in the Emerald Room of Glenn McCarthy's Shamrock Hotel, cattle raising must be quite profitable down there.

• • •

And in an Humble service station in Columbus, Texas, we encountered a former Midlander, Jake Parker, who is a courteous attendant at the station. Jake is a 1934 graduate of Midland High School and still has many friends here.

• • •

Roundtrip completed and glad to be back in Midland, West Texas.

Texas farmers will have to practice every pink bollworm control measure possible this year to combat the state's heaviest infestation in history, State Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said recently.

He urged an organized plan of spraying cotton crops in accordance with the seven-step program set up by the Texas Extension Service.

For every one pink bollworm in South Texas cotton last year, there are 90 this year, he said.

• • •

Farmers now can take the guesswork out of selling their cotton with a green card.

This green card shows that the cotton has been classed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration. A green card, showing the grade and staple is issued for every bale of cotton classed.

Farmers belonging to cotton improvement groups receive this classification without paying a fee. Also, they receive a daily USDA price quotation sheet to keep them posted on what the cotton is worth.

Both services come from PMA's cotton classing office at Abilene.

Texas poultrymen will have an opportunity to get the latest information on poultry breeding and diseases by attending two meetings scheduled for June 30 through July 2 at Texas A&M College.

The first is the annual Poultry Breeder's School. It is sponsored by the department of poultry husbandry and all meetings will be held in the Memorial Student Center—dates June 30 and July 1.

The following day, July 2, the first Poultry Disease Clinic will be held in the ballroom of the Memorial Student Center. The clinic is sponsored by the School of Veterinary Medicine and the department of poultry husbandry and results from requests made by poultry industry representatives.

• • •

Texas rural youth last week visited their Texas A&M College. The thousand boys and girls attending the annual 4-H Roundup came from every section of the state. Their leaders, Extension agents and friends swelled the total attendance to 1,600.

State winners were named in the 16 different judging and team demonstration contests and the dress revue. Competition was stiff between the 215 competing teams and individuals. Three of the winning judging teams will have other opportunities to participate in state and national contests. The three top livestock judging teams from Brazos, Nueces and Fisher Counties, in October at the State Fair, will compete against a like number of top FFA teams for the honor of representing Texas in the national contest at Chicago.

The winning poultry judging team from Guadalupe County is eligible to participate in the national contest also to be held in Chicago. Brazos County was second and Runnels County third in this contest.

McLennan County furnished the state winning dairy cattle judging team. This team will represent Texas 4-H clubs at the National Dairy Cattle Congress, Waterloo, Iowa. Brazos County was second and Bexar County third.

The Bastrop County vegetable demonstration team will go to New York City in November for their national contest.

Winner of an all-expense trip to National 4-H Club Congress, Chicago, this Fall was Jo Ann Glover of Hardeman County, top dress revue winner. Sherry Simpson, Hopkins County, was second and Louise King, Hays County, third. Rolene Barnett, Young County, was the first place winner in the tailored wool class. A total of 84 girls participated in the state dress revue.

HONG KONG—(AP)—The Chinese Reds have 1,400,000 workers busy on a giant irrigation project to control the Yi river in Northern Kiangsu, the Communist newspaper Shanghai News reports.

The project, expected to be 65 per cent complete this year, eventually will provide irrigation for some 4,300,000 acres, the News says. It was described as calling for several giant sluices and water locks, "a giant water conservancy system," and embankments along the sea coast and certain sections of the Yangtse and Yi Rivers.

Midland Private 'Eye' Can't Match Mike Hammer's Life

By ROBERT MOORE, JR.

While the many Midland fans of Mickey Spillane's mystery novels featuring Private Investigator Mike Hammer will doubtless be disillusioned, J. R. (Mac) McCarter, Jr., local private investigator, says it "just 'taint so."

"The main difference between me and Mike Hammer is that the most I ever make is $25 a day—and I don't get the blonde," McCarter said.

As Mike Hammer fans know, he is depicted as a hardboiled, two-fisted, armed, liquor-drinking private "eye" who is always solving murder cases where regular law authorities can't—and with beautiful women falling for him like flies.

Since a recent survey revealed that Spillane's Mike Hammer series are the most popular reading material of Midlanders, this scribe decided to talk with McCarter and find out what the score really was.

Listed as McCarter & Associates in the phone directory, Midland's only private "eye"—and for that matter the only one between Fort Worth and El Paso—was found in a second-story office of a modern building at 301 South Weatherford Street.

Entering somewhat anxiously—our only previous experience with private "eyes" having been in the pages of Spillane's novels—our worse suspicions were apparently confirmed with three cases of a popular brand beer stacked in one corner of the room.

McCarter's physical appearance did nothing to allay our fears. A big, rangy-built specimen with a trim moustache, he appeared more than able to take care of himself.

But as soon as McCarter opened his mouth to speak, we were well on our way to being disillusioned along with other Spillane fans. Softspoken, courteous and with a ready chuckle, McCarter would fit well in the best drawingrooms of Midland — which he does.

First off, he shattered our hopes for a "cool one," as it had been a warm trot down to his lair, by explaining that the three cases of brew actually represented one case.

Since we looked somewhat puzzled at this, he further explained that by "one case," he meant a local grocery firm suspected one of its employes of "dipping his hands in the till." McCarter had been hired to make purchases from the employe at a test of that person's honesty. The brew represented the evidence, nothing else.

McCarter added that if one of his agents drank intoxicants while on a case, he would fire him immediately. "You just can't keep your wits about you and be drinking," he said firmly. Incidentally, the identities of McCarter's agents are closely-kept secrets as their value in undercover work would be lost permanently.

Next, we wanted to see the gun that McCarter doubtlessly carried in a shoulder-type harness, snugly concealed beneath his coat.

Again, we were doomed for disappointment. Neither McCarter nor his agents carry a weapon of any type, but are trained in judo and other arts in unarmed defense and are well able to take care of themselves.

"In this business, carrying a gun would get you into trouble — like killing someone, for instance," McCarter said.

"Yeah, but aren't you afraid the killing might be on the other end when you're on a case?" we queried.

"No," McCarter said, "only two types of persons kill—one that is mentally unbalanced or one that is cornered. Sometimes, they will slug you, though," and he rubbed his head, recalling some lumps that he had gotten himself.

By this time we had just about decided the private eye business was about as dull as the point of our pencil, but McCarter hastened to add that it was an interesting and profitable profession — while not quite as colorful as the fiction writers would have it.

"We do all types of investigations of a criminal, civil, labor, insurance and undercover nature," he said, "and are insured by Lloyd's of London up to $150,000 for any acts except slander or false arrests."

"A private eye is not as restricted in his movements as regular law authorities, and generally speaking, he has excelled, himself, in some particular type of business," McCarter said.

"Since he is generally better paid and more experienced than the elected officer, this makes for professional jealousy," the private eye said. He added that Midland City police are "very cooperative" with his agency.

Since he is a native of Midland, McCarter finds his broad knowledge of the community and the oil business an asset in his work. "The more contacts you have as a private eye, the better," he said.

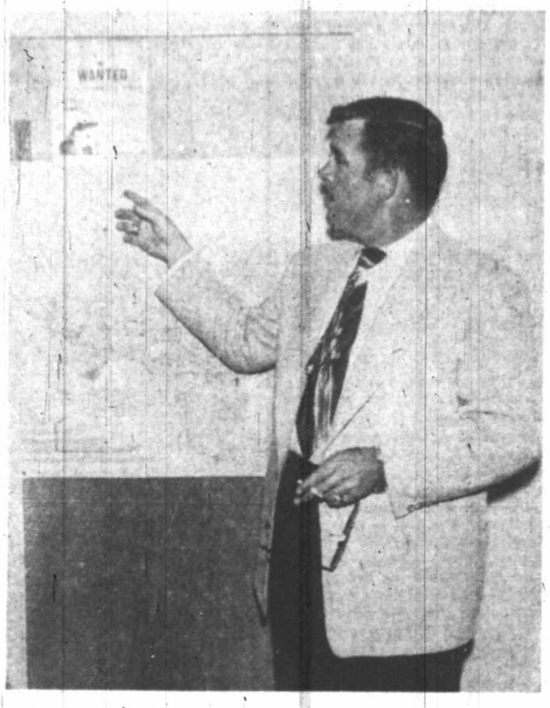
Criminal investigations constitute only a small part of McCarter's work. While Midland does have a small "underground," McCarter said the crime rate remains amazingly low here.

McCarter established his agency here only last October and is affiliated with private "eyes" throughout the world. Prior to opening his business here, he practiced at Albuquerque, N. M.

During World War II, he served five years with the Office of Strategic Services as a criminal investigator and was graduated from Midland High School and the University of Bogota in Columbia, S. A. He speaks four languages fluently. Before entering the service he was special investigator for a large bonding company in this area.

While McCarter has assisted materially in solving a number of criminal cases, he modestly declined to boast of his roles.

After drinking a fast Coke, and with nothing in it to "juice it up," Midland's Mike Hammer whizzed us back to the office in his "souped up" Chrysler that is capable of 118 miles an hour.



MIDLAND'S 'MIKE HAMMER'—J. R. (Mac) McCarter, Jr., Midland private investigator, is shown pointing to a "wanted" bulletin on the wall of his office at 301 South Weatherford Street. McCarter says that real-life private "eyes" are far different from the ones portrayed in fiction.

Midland's Fire Defenses Reflect High Efficiency

NEW YORK—Midland's fire defenses operated at high efficiency during the last year, in comparison with those of other cities throughout the United States. The local record of fire protection and control is shown in data assembled by the National Fire Protection Association, gathered from 634 cities in the United States and Canada having populations of 20,000 or more.

The damage caused by fire in Midland in 1951 amounted to $53,407. On a population basis, this property loss represented $2.46 per capita and was well below the average reported for all the United States cities, $3.32 per capita. The Canadian cities reported $4.15 damage per person.

Automobile fires also posed a problem for the nation's fire fighters. How much so is indicated by the fact that they constituted almost a fourth of all fires. In Midland there were 51 during the year.

Loss Average Low

A measure of the effectiveness of a city fire department is in how quickly it can bring a blaze under control and so keep damage to a minimum. In that respect the local record is a relatively good one. The loss in Midland amounted to $340 per fire as compared with the average in other cities of $850 per fire.

Fire departments in almost all cities continued to be plagued by "malicious" false alarms, states the association. Such alarms, distinguished from those turned in in error, comprised 7.5 per cent of all calls answered. In Midland 3.8 per cent of the alarms were so characterized.

Recent developments in the chemical field have given fire fighters new agents with which to combat fire. These include "wet water," which is ordinary water with a detergent added, water fog and fog foam. Their use is helping curb the huge destruction caused by fire, which caused record high damage of over $731,000,000 in the United States last year.

Midland Lawn Work Pushed As Water Shortage Feared

With a threatened water shortage facing Midland this Summer, Midland lawns are scenes of vigorous activity as owners seek to get them in the best shape possible before the shortage hits.

New lawns have been seeded or sodded and water sprays are souring water into the parched ground. Old lawns are being revitalized with fertilizer and moisture.

Possibly some difficulties with occasional high winds that sometimes either blow seeds into other people's yards or bury them under more earth than they can push through, will be encountered by Midlanders who broadcast seed over their sandy lawns. Keeping weeds from choking out tender grass is also an added difficulty.

Dominating the lawns here is Bermuda grass, of course, but many people, especially those with shaded lawns, plant toward good spreads of St. Augustine grass.

Lawns tend to build up due to a gradual accumulation of sand and proper grading at the start reduces maintainance costs.

Available at the Midland Chamber of Commerce are copies of "Gardening in Midland", prepared in cooperation with the Midland Garden Clubs. All types of gardening adaptable to Midland are covered in the pamphlet.

Hendricks Named Crane Chairman

CRANE—Horace E. Hendricks of Crane, associated with the Gulf Refining Company, Houston Pipe Line Division has been appointed Crane County chairman of the Oil Industry Information Committee.

YOUNGEST OF YOUNGEST

Benjamin Franklin was the youngest of 17 children born to Josiah Franklin. Curiously, his direct ancestors for five generations had been youngest sons of youngest sons. Franklin was born on Jan. 17, 1706.

Negro High School Planned For Crane

CRANE—A high school for negro students will be maintained by Crane next school year, instead of transporting students to McCamey as in the past.

Classes will be held in Mount Zion Church until plans are completed for a new negro school, trustees said.

Leslie Jackson, formerly of Gilmore, was elected principal. He holds a bachelor of arts degree and has had 20 years teaching experience.

Trustees decided to purchase a Hammond concert organ for Crane High School auditorium.

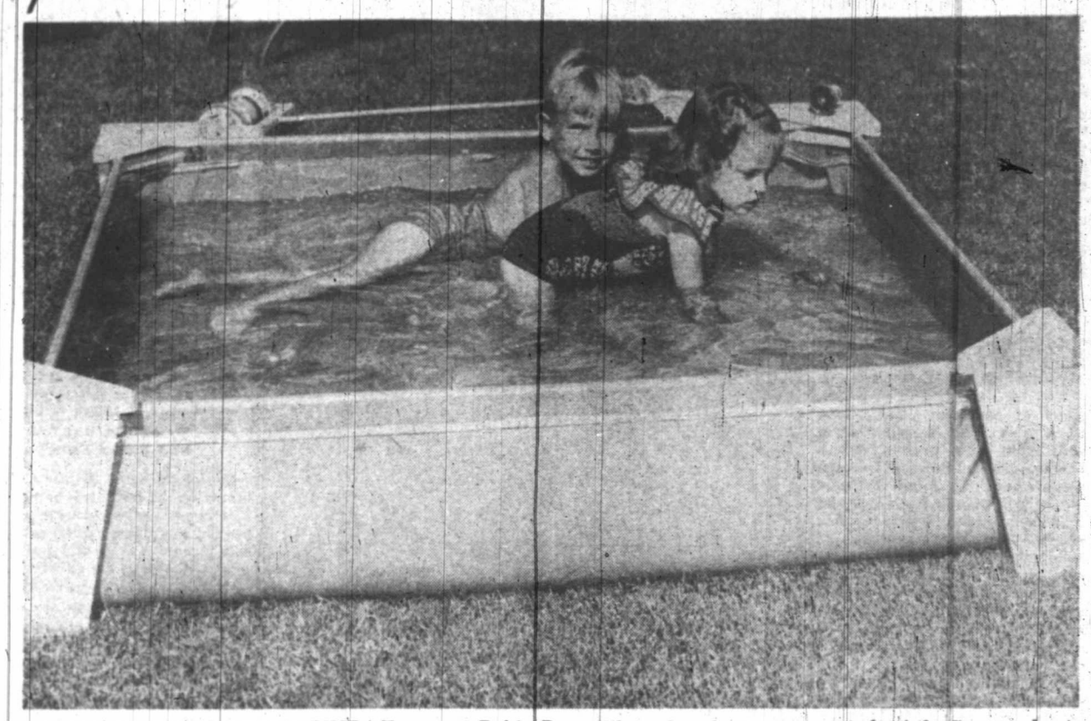
+ Keeping Cool Is Chief Activity In Good Ole Summertime +

T. J. MELTONS—Summer is a time for rediscovering the pleasures of outdoor living. Like many other Midland families, the T. J. Meltons find an umbrella-shaded table a cool retreat for late Summer afternoons. Pictured, left to right, are Mrs. Melton and children, Linda, June III and Sue.

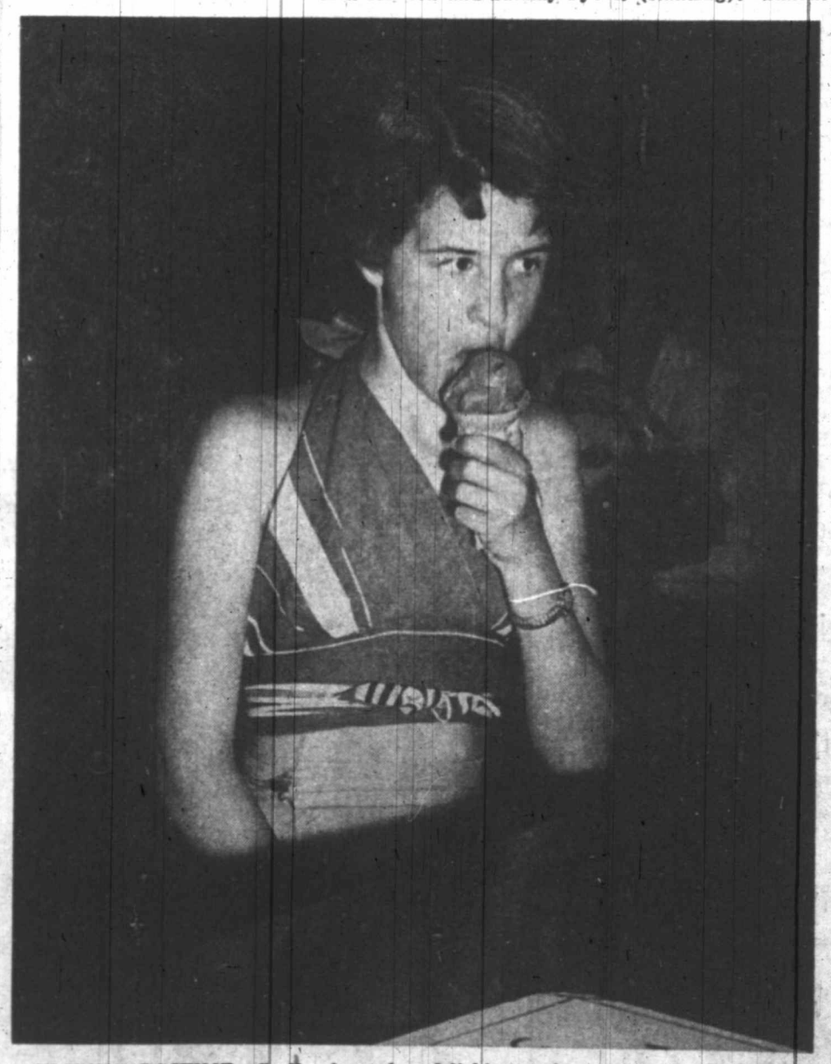


C'MON IN, THE WATER'S FINE—Tony and Robin Durrell have found one sure way to beat the Summer heat. Their answer is a refreshing dip in their backyard wading pool. Tony, who was four years old Thursday, received the pool as a birthday gift. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lee Durrell, 606 East Broadway Street.

SWIMMING—Carol Ann Douglas advocates floating as a perfect method for keeping cool in spite of the thermometer. Here, assisted by her mother, Mrs. DeLo Douglas, Carol Ann demonstrates her floating technique, while her companion, Robin Reeves, looks on from the background.

READING PROGRAM—Each year the Midland County Library sponsors a Summer reading program for children, with prizes awarded at an end-of-Summer party. This year the theme, as depicted on the poster above, is "The Treasure-Seekers." Youngsters participating, left to right, are Bill Cole, David Duffield, Byron Cole, Ken Newton and Sammy Pyeatt (standing). Simone Walker, library assistant, is at work in the background.

TO TOUR EUROPE—Mrs. L. W. Sager, 3119 Thomas Street, makes a last-minute check on ship accommodations for her forthcoming European trip. Mrs. Sager, who will serve as tour director, left Wednesday for New York. Other Midlanders making the trip are Mrs. Annie Ford, Mrs. Virginia Hoffman, Mrs. Bertie Boone and her sister, Eddie Stephenson.



COOLING PASTIME—Coolly dressed and licking an ice cream cone, Hope Russell can ignore the hot weather. Incidentally, she recommends her cooling off formula to all Midlanders bothered by the heat. Hope is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Russell.

Stretch your legs and get in the mood for a picnic. There's no time like the present to put on gingham and cavort in the countryside. Take your horse, the old jalopy or your bicycle, but get out in the open fields or on the beach for a lovely day outdoors. Ants you can count on, mosquitoes too, but there is plenty of compensation in a nice invigorating day spent outdoors.

What to eat is the big question—especially with the boys. Girls are willing to sacrifice food just for the fun of being "away" for a day with the boys. Not so with boys whose idea of a picnic begins and ends with food.

The boys in your group will be satisfied with the hash you dish up, providing there is plenty of it! So whatever you serve make it man-eatin'-food. Here are some suggestions. Shish-ke-bab might sound expensive, but if all the girls (and the boys) pool their pennies, it will make good substantial food for all. Here's how:

Shish-Ke-Bab

Marinate one and a half-inch pieces of beef over night. Take them to picnic in container along with sliced green peppers, onions, tomatoes and mushrooms. Let each person "load" their own barbecue skewer with the raw food—it should be done in sequence—meat, onion, pepper, tomato, mushroom . . . Each picnicker should be responsible for his own skewer. Jumbo type skewers with wooden handles are ideal because they can be laid across a small barbecue pit—even a makeshift one—and turned without too much confusion.

Here's a tasty recipe for spaghetti—a good hot dish for porch supper, terrace lunch or woodlands picnic, particularly when the budget is low.

Spaghetti Delight

Put one tablespoon of salt in 3 quarts of rapidly boiling water. Add 1 pound spaghetti, gradually, so water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

Make sauce in good heavy skillet, melting a tablespoon of fat and cooking in it 2 tablespoons of minced onion, 1 clove minced garlic and one-half cup mushrooms (these can be canned). Saute until golden color. Add one-half to three-quarters pound of ground beef and cook until tender. Add one teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon chili powder, 2 teaspoons Worchestershire sauce and 1 No. 2 1/2 can tomatoes. Cook over low heat 30 minutes. Stir in the cooked spaghetti and one-half cup sliced pimiento-stuffed olives. If more sauce is required, add a small can of tomato sauce. Makes six generous servings.

If you can get some one delegated to stand over a fire, fried chicken is a different sort of picnic treat. Packages of frozen chicken are available—you can take your choice of breast or drumsticks or thighs or get a package of each. Fried chicken takes a chef of special skills—it must be cooked thoroughly (no red around the bone), brown and crisp on the outside. A good way to get it perfect is to brown it first, then cook it as long as possible, finally setting it on the hot bricks to "dry out" inside.

Salad is a delicious accompaniment to chicken, shish-ke-bab or spaghetti. Mix the greens before you leave home, wrap in waxed paper with an ice cube, pack in the picnic cooler. Take the dressing along in a separate jar, and mix the salad on the spot. Oil, vinegar, sugar, celery seed, garlic and dry mustard makes a nice tangy dressing.

Everybody will demand a thirst quencher almost as soon as the picnic cloth is spread on the ground. A delicious beverage can be prepared in a matter of minutes with frozen lemonade concentrate, adding five cans of cold water, and some ice cubes to chill it. Most grocery stores have handy little shakers which make good picnic containers. Slip one into those little insulated bags which keep contents chilled and you'll have a good refreshing drink in a jiffy.

Sandwiches are always easy picnic food but sometimes these cost more to concoct than other more stick-to-the-ribs foods.

Mrs. Wilfred D. Whiteside, Jr.

Shirley Winter Weds W. D. Whiteside, Jr.

In a double-ring ceremony Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church Shirley Lee Winter became the bride of Wilfred Drennen Whiteside, Jr. Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Niles Baker Winter of Midland. Whiteside is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred D. Whiteside of Timpson, Texas.

The church was decorated with baskets of large white daisies. The communion table was covered with palms and centered with a gold cross backed by a large basket of white gladiolus.

George DeHart, organist, played nuptial music and accompanied Paul Laverty, Jr., who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Fred D. Moore of Denver City was the matron of honor. Jess Cain Gallbreath of Brownwood was the best man and ushers were Niles B. Winter, Jr., of Midland and Jack William Ingram, Jr., of Arlington.

Bride Wears White

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an all-white ballerina length gown of net over taffeta combined with silk embroidered net. The dress had a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves coming to a point over the hands. Her fingertip length veil of illusion was attached to a lace, satin and net trimmed half bonnet. For something old she carried a handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, her dress was new, her earscrews were borrowed and she wore a blue garter.

The matron of honor wore a ballerina length gown of mist green net over taffeta. The skirt was fashioned with a short overskirt of embroidered net coming to points in the front and back. She wore a matching hat and mitts and carried a colonial bouquet of pink elf roses.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Winter chose a dusty pink lace dress with pink and white accessories and a white gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a beige lace dress with white accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

A reception was held in the church parlor. The couple was assisted in receiving by their mothers and their attendants.

Those in the house party were Dolores Saldivar of Dallas, Mary Dobbs of Fort Worth and Mazie Secor of Midland. They wore small rose corsages.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a bouquet of white stock and white peonies. The three-tiered cake was topped with miniature bride and bridegroom figurines. A basket of white gladiolus was on the mantle.

After a wedding trip to Colorado, the Grand Canyon and Phoenix the couple will be at home in Houston. For traveling the bride chose a white linen suit trimmed with a touch of navy blue. She wore navy blue and white accessories and an orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Texas where she was a member of Delta Zeta sorority and the Fault Finders Geological Society. Whiteside attended the University of Texas and is a student at the University of Texas School of Dentistry in Houston. He is a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta and Delta Sigma Delta.

Out-of-city guests attending the wedding were Mrs. Chester C. Smith of Vici, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Robinson of San Angelo and Fred D. Moore of Denver City.

• • •

The couple was honored with a rehearsal dinner Friday in Sue Miller's Supper Club. Twenty-one persons attended.

The table was centered with an arrangement of white stock with puffs of pink. At one end of the table was a miniature figurine of a bride and bridegroom standing on a satin platform under an arch decorated with white lily of the valley and pink elf roses. A pink and white floral arrangement was at the other end.

Unusual New Bathing Caps Look Like Hair, Add Glamor

With the introduction of a new type water wig, bathing caps are more glamorous this season than ever before. The wig looks just like hair, and comes in blonde, black or brownette color tones.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

One of the latest glamor aids to beauty on the beach is a brand new idea in swim caps. Actually a rubber wig, resembling natural hair, the cap functions as a practical protection when you are swimming.

It comes in two styles—short bob or poodle cut, and both are available in blonde, black or brownette. This is your opportunity to change your hair coloring and styling with just a flip of your wrist.

Because of a special suction band, the wig clings to your head and refuses to let any water in. Furthermore, you needn't be bothered with unattractive chin straps. Once you have the wig neatly in place, you can feel confident that it will stay put.

In fact, the wig is wearable out of water, too. It will keep your pin curls safely intact as well as your hair free from sand, wind, and the drying rays of the sun. No more sitting around after a swim just hoping that your hair doesn't look lifeless. You can wear the glamor wig as long as you like—with complete comfort.

If you're looking for something really different in beach-wear accessories, you can be certain you will create a sensation when you make an appearance in one of these new water wigs.

Advertise—Or Be Forgotten

If meat for stew has a lot of bone or gristle you'll need as much as one-half to one pound for each serving.

Keep all frozen foods frozen hard until you are ready to use them; refreezing after thawing lowers quality.

Hot biscuits should be served hot; so cover them with a napkin before placing them on the table, or serve them in a bun warmer.

Mrs. Daniel Burton Flemming

Couple Repeats Vows In Garden Ceremony

Jo Ann Nelson and Daniel Burton Flemming of Melvin exchanged vows Saturday at an evening ceremony in the garden of the bride's home.

Dr. Lawrence L. Smith, minister of the College Church of Abilene Christian College, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Nelson, 502 East Broadway Street. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Daniel Flemming of Melvin.

Diana Daugherty, organist, played a program of nuptial selections, including "Clair de Lune," Debussy, and the traditional wedding marches. Ruth Ann Rhodes, soloist, sang "Because," D'Hardelot, and "I Love Thee," Grieg, before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer," following the service.

The altar was flanked by hurricane lamps, greenery and tall baskets of white gladiolus and shattered chrysanthemums. An archway entwined with smilax and huckleberry vines formed a background for the ceremony. Pews were decorated with small baskets of marconi daisies.

Given In Marriage By Father

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of imported chantilly lace over ivory satin. The long, fitted sleeves extended to a point at the bride's wrists. Her portrait neckline was edged with chantilly lace and filled in with illusion and a fingertip length veil of illusion fell from her headdress. The full skirt was fashioned with lace scallops over a dust ruffle of illusion.

She carried a white Bible topped with an arrangement of white orchids surrounded by shattered carnations and stephanotis.

Jerelen Jowell of Midland was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary Jo Hejl and Rosalynn Leggett of Midland; Patsy Haws of Lubbock and Glenda Flemming of Melvin, sister of the bridegroom.

They wore identical dresses of aqua net over matching taffeta.

The dresses were styled with lace boleros over strapless bodices with lace insets. A short peplum effect of accordion-pleated net fell from one side of the waist. They wore small caps of aqua taffeta bordered with ruffles and carried bouquets of majestic pale yellow daisies nestled in aqua maline.

Flatter Your Spring Wardrobe With An Exciting, New Perfume

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

This is the season of suits, swashbuckling hats and scintillating perfumes. It makes you feel wonderfully feminine and sure that the future is filled with excitement and allure.

Whether or not you have made any seasonable additions to your wardrobe, you certainly won't want to miss the enchantment a new perfume can hold for you. It will accent your moods and create an aura of fragrant beauty.

Two distinguished scents—one to express quiet elegance and the other for more exotic moments—truly express this universal feeling of exuberance. Either fragrance comes packaged in a special atomizer set, which allows you to spray the perfume directly on your skin.

Which perfume is for you? The decision must be a personal one, but it should be guided by whichever gives you a sense of being utterly charming and lovely. Develop your own taste in perfume by testing and living with the fragrance which most appeals to you, in much the same manner as you develop your taste in hats.

Once your perfume is applied, wear it with confidence. Know that you have made the most of one of your really important fashion accessories, and that you are a woman of complete feminine appeal.

To prepare deviled eggs peel the shells from warm hard-cooked eggs. Cut the eggs in half lengthwise. Mash the warm yolks with salt, pepper, a little melted butter or margarine, and mustard and vinegar to taste. Fill the whites with the yolk mixture, ruffle the filling with the tines of a fork, and sprinkle with paprika.

Unsightly Hairs Will Disappear With Help Of A Powder Disc

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Superfluous facial hair is often a beauty problem for the middle-aged woman. Its appearance is usually sudden and for no apparent reason.

Keep your skin velvety smooth and hair-free with the help of a pink, powdery disc that has a gentle, abrasive action.

If you are in a state of confusion as to what to do about embarrassing fuzz, here is news of utmost importance. There is a pink, powdery disc on the market that promises to whisk away unsightly hairs safely and easily.

The special formula disc is an abrasive — but such a gentle one that there is no danger of irritation from it. Use a feather-like touch and a circular motion.

Rough up the disc before using it with the emery board provided for the purpose. It is the fine little powder particles "roughened up" by the emery board which do the job with such gentle ease.

When you have erased the hairs with this dry-method from one spot on your face, clean off the disc with your emery board and loosen more powder particles. Then go after the remaining superfluous hair.

This particular disc, claim the manufacturers, does not encourage a heavier regrowth. Furthermore, the hairs do not grow back in again bristly. There is also a special disc for your arms and legs. Both have been designed to keep your skin femininely smooth and beautifully hair-free.

Bearded Iris May Be Grown Most Satisfactorily In Midland

(Tenth in a series of articles on gardening prepared by the Midland Council of Garden Clubs.)

Iris because of their beauty, adaptability, inexpensiveness, wide range of color and long blooming period are one of the most popular and widely grown flowers in the United States. In Midland the tall bearded variety is probably the most satisfactory of all blooming plant material.

Bearded iris grow from rhizomes, which are thickened underground stems from which roots grow. Best results are obtained by planting a single rhizome. There will be some bloom the next year and finer stronger bloom for the next two to four years. Transplanting blooming clumps seldom is satisfactory. Sometimes if left undisturbed, iris will bloom over a long period of time, but usually they should be divided at the end of four or five years. When they become crowded the blooms are less good and the chances of disease are greater.

Shallow planting is advised. Part of the rhizome may extend above the soil and they should never be covered with more than an inch of soil. Although it will be very loose at first, the roots soon strike into the soil, holding the rhizome secure so the all-important sun and air can reach it. If a quick effect is desired they can be planted eight inches apart.

Far more satisfactory, though less quick, results are obtained by planting rhizomes 18 inches apart. Set roots with fans of leaves facing outward from center of groups in a circle, figure eight or triangular design. In planting close to a building, remember that an iris moves in a line away from the original root. Trim the fans of leaves back to six or seven inches. This is for looks and to avoid upsets before new roots grow to anchor the plants and to reduce evaporation.

Iris are strangely indifferent about soils, and will grow in any type. However, the soil should be deeply dug and pulverized. The maintenance of an iris planting is simple. It cohsists of removing the dead blossoms, constant cultivation and watching to see that plants do not become too crowded.

Borers Are Plant Enemies

Bearded iris are subject to one important insect, a borer, and one disease, a rot. They are often found together, perhaps because the borer opens up holes into which water penetrates, allowing the rot bacteria to enter.

Iris borers are controlled with 50 per cent wettable DDT, two heaping tablespoonfuls to a gallon of water, sprayed weekly from March until two weeks after the blooming period. The rot area is cut off and the wound treated with 1-1000 solution of potassium ermanganate. If there is an abundant stock of the variety the rhizome should be destroyed.

The following is a list of especially good varieties and their color. Look for them when ordering new plantings: Blue rhythm—cornflower blue; Elmohr—red violet; Solid Mahogany — mahogany red; Pink Cameo—pale cameo pink; Case Morena—deep, rich brown; Tiffany —yellow and violet speckled; Ola Kala—deep yellow; Lady Mohr—oyster white and chartreuse; New Snow—white; Mountain Sky — blue; Black Forest—blue black.

'Preaching' To Your Children Makes Them Uneasy, Nervous

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

This morning, Connie again "forgot" to make her bed before going to school. And when she got home, she announced that she was going shopping with her friend for Ella's new Spring jacket.

Connie's mother said, "I'd be ashamed to want to go shopping with my bedroom in the condition yours is in. When I was your age, I had to make my bed and Aunt Lou's too before going to school. I may have my faults, but nobody can ever say that I shirk responsibility. I was brought up to face it, not run away from it like young girls nowadays. I don't know where you or your father would be if I ran off and left you to get your dinner yourselves. Someday you'll learn that the world won't take excuses for work left undone . . ."

This is what children call "preaching." They do not like it because they sense that it is criticism disguised in unassailable language. It makes them uneasy and nervous, the way we are, too, when we sense the presence of an enemy who talks like a friend.

• • •

Connie's mother should have said, "No, you cannot go shopping with Ella this afternoon. Your room needs attention. Please go upstairs now and take care of it."

When moral lessons are given to criticize, they are offensive. When they are badly timed, they lose their power.

Connie's mother would have been wiser to postpone her lecture on responsibility until Connie had some first-hand experience in the value of making her bed before going to school.

When her child had proved for herself that she earns the freedom to dispose of her afternoon time by making her bed in the morning, she will be in the market for a statement relating responsibility to freedom. Until she made a test of this truth for herself, the most eloquent lecture is just words.

Moral lessons are lessons in truth. We do not want to ever stimulate resentment at truth in children, but recognition of it.

We are lured into ill-timed "preaching" to youngsters through fear of forthright requests and orders.

• • •

Many of us suffer from this fear unknowingly. So we shouldn't be alarmed to discover we are one of its million victims. But we should be most concerned with uncovering it and learning how it came to be planted in us.

Connie's mother, for instance, can't give forthright orders to her child because forthrightness was so discouraged by her training. When she used to move on impulses to duck dishwashing and bedmaking, she was called a "lazy" girl. To avoid such hurtful condemnation, Connie's mother became a dutiful child.

But since her motive for compliance became praise instead of her own freedom and self-respect, she developed little self-respect and great dependence on praise.

Today, her dependence on praise still is her problem. She needs it so much she has to disguise her irritation at her daughter in noble language nobody can find any fault with.

When we have to deliver highly moral sermons to reinforce a just request or demand on children, we should examine our need for the support of grand, noble words. If we really believe that we earn freedom by taking responsibility, we do not need to reassure ourselves with speeches about it.

Miracle Fabrics Maintain Cool Wardrobe

Modern fabrics make the task of keeping cool and clean on wilting Summer days a simple job. Gibson Girl (left) wears shantung-type orlon separates. Blouse has non-seamed, free-action sleeves. Separates with costume look (center) are in linen-like orlon-and-nylon, can be worn from early to late Summer. Ira Rentner's one-piece dress (right) in orlon-and-nylon looks like linen, has removable white collar and cuffs. All three wash easily, need no ironing and will pack without mussing.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—In the often wilting heat of Summer, wardrobe emergencies are frequent. The dress that promised two wearings collapses after one; the laundry fails to come back on time; an unexpected invitation finds everything either on its way to or in the soapsuds.

To fill these wardrobe gaps, then, come the miracle fabrics that are wrinkle-resistant, that launder in a matter of minutes and never need ironing. They are so developed that they are first cousins, in appearance, to the most popular Summer fabrics.

The orlon, nylon or orlon-and-nylon combinations have been cut by top designers into suits and dresses to fit every way of life. They take a minimum of time for upkeep, stay crisp and fresh on the hottest days.

For the Summer traveler, these fabrics are indispensable. They mean that she may pack very few clothes and yet be well dressed. They mean that, when she's stranded in a spot where laundry facilities are slow, she can take care of her own clothes without need for an iron.

And for every woman who struggles daily with the high cost of living, such fabrics mean everything. Less in the way of outlay for a Summer wardrobe, less expense in upkeep, more service, less fuss and bother. They're fabrics meant specifically to take some of the hard work out of the life of the average woman.

Civilian Workers Sought Here For Overseas Jobs

R. E. Pate of Fort Worth, representative of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, will be at the Texas Employment Commission office in Midland next Monday and Tuesday to recruit qualified civilian workers for the corps' oversease construction program.

Overseas position for engineers and other technical personnel are open in Europe, Alaska, Japan and the Caribbean area, J. D. Bechtol, local TEC manager, said Saturday.

Under a similar recruiting program conducted in this area recently, Lavelle A. Roby, 59, 308 San Angelo Street, Midland, joined the ranks of the Corps of Engineers' overseas staff.

Roby is a civil engineer supervising highway construction in Alaska. Living some 190 miles from Anchorage, Alaska, Roby in recent letters appeared to be well-satisfied with his position. Prior to his overseas assignment, he worked for the Texas Highway Department in Midland and Odessa. He is married and a native of Hamburg, Ark.

Bechtol said similar positions to the one held by Roby are open now.

Engineers Needed

Needed now are engineers of all categories, geodetics, general maintenance, power plant operators, geologists, construction inspectors, survey personnel, draftsmen electric motor repairmen, appliance repairmen, salary and wage analysts, personnel assistants, organization and methods examiners.

Depending upon position and grade, salaries range from $2,950 to $9,600 per year. Pay for certain positions is on an hourly basis ranging from $2.13 to $3.33.

Bechtol pointed out that families and other dependents will not be able to accompany appointees to overseas assignments. However, in some cases they may follow them at a later date. Housing shortages necessitate the establishment of priority waiting lists.

Recruiting limits age requirements to 21-40 for women and 21-55 for men in the European and Pacific commands, Bechtol said. Exceptions to the maximum age may be made in Alaska and the Carribbean where an applicant is especially qualified. However, minimum age limitations may only be waived for male veterans.

Non-veteran applicants between the ages of 18-26, subject to induction, cannot be considered for overseas employment, Bechtol said.

Depending upon the country to which assigned, the minimum tour of duty varies between one and two years.

Final acceptance for any position depends upon satisfactory reports on physical examinations, personal reference checks, character and loyalty investigations, as is required for all civil service positions.

Smathers Proposes 'Deal' On Tidelands In Event Of Defeat

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator Smathers (D-Fla) has decided that he may lose his fight to have the Senate override President Truman's veto of a bill giving the states title to oil rich tidelands.

An "Oil for Education" proposal by advocates of federal control of off-shore lands is too appealing, Smathers told the Senate Friday.

Therefore, he proposed that revenues from public lands in the interior also be used for aid to education.

Smathers said he offered his proposal:

"In anticipation that there will not be sufficient votes to override the Presidential veto. x x x

"One of the reasons that sufficient votes will not be gotten x x x is because of the appealing nature of the Hill amendment to the original federal control bill.

Senator Hill (D-Ala) had proposed that 62 and one-half per cent of the revenues from the leasing of the submerged lands be put into a national education fund for aid to the states. The remaining 37 and one-half per cent would go to states adjoining the lands.

Smathers proposed the same division of revenues from mineral leases on all other public domain lands.

Revenues from the interior lands now go 37 and one-half per cent to the states, 52 and one-half per cent to the reclamation fund for 17 Western states, and 10 per cent to the federal treasury.

New Summer Hats Feature Airy Fabrics

Light and airy Summer hats include Sally Victor's sheer white pleated bonnet touched with turquoise velvet (upper left) and John Frederics' wide-brimmed toast milan bonnet with air-conditioned crown. It has inset of veiling. Pagoda bonnet by Brandt (upper center) is white milan-type straw paved with patterned mesh veiling.

Heavy white Irish lace (lower center) is used by Veola Modes for cool Summer bonnet with high-rising back. Wide, oval picture bonnet by Luxor (upper right) has lattice of black velvet-covered wire draped with sheer black dotted maline. Ice blue cotton lace (lower right) is used by Walter K. Marks for rippling bonnet piped in blue velvet ribbon.

NEW YORK—The hat with the built-in air conditioning, as protection against the Summer's heat, does not look weird. No knobs, dials or wires are involved.

This 1952 coolness is achieved through a deft manipulation of fragile, airy fabrics that prove their power to look and feel light on the head.

Sheer hats for Summer dining-out have been with us for two decades and more. But this year, hats for daytime wear have taken on a light and cobwebby look, too. Some of them are mere dark shadows above a pretty face; others are sugary confections spun of white hair-braid or lace for an effect that's incomparably delicate.

This trend to the light and lacy hat for Summer springs, of course, from the sheer look in Summer's ready-to-wear. All branches register this influence: filmy, billowing dresses, open shoes, airy gloves.

These wispy hats are done in white, black, pastels and the neutrals. They come small and pretty or wide-brimmed and dramatic. But however they're done, they can't be topped for sheer flattery.

If you want to dress up flower pots for home decoration or gift presentation, cover the pots with beautiful aluminum foil, the same kind you use in the kitchen to wrap food.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"We play quite a lot of samba, but most of the time we don't know what we're doing," is the frank confession of a St. Louis reader. "We never know when to play for sequences and when to play for ordinary canastas. Do the experts stumble and fumble also, or do they know what they are doing?"

The experts do their share of fumbling, but they usually know what they are doing. You can't always be right in samba, but at least you can follow a few logical principles. In that way you will at least be able to make up your mind, rightly or wrongly, in a short time.

The most important principle to remember is that the big scores come from melding sambas (sequences). You always try for sambas when you have a better chance to complete them than the opponents have. You should try to meld out with normal canastas (which are much easier to complete), when the opponents have better chances for sambas than your side has.

It's the familiar story of attack and defense. You attack when you have the superior weapons. You run for your life when your opponents have the superior weapons.

How can you tell whether your best course is to fight or to run? Arrange your hand by suits to begin with. You will quickly see in which suits (if any) you have reasonable chances for sambas.

If you have several such chances, and particularly if you have sequences of four or more cards, you should take the offensive. Keep your hand arranged by suits, and meld any attractive looking sequence to invite your partner's help and to warn him against spoiling your chances by melding out in a hurry.

If your chances for sambas look poor, rearrange your hand by denominations instead of by suits. That is, put the aces together, and the kings all in one spot, and so on. Don't meld in a hurry because there's little advantage in melding quickly at samba. Meld if you are very close to out position or, of course, if you can meld out.

If your hand is betwixt and between, sit tight and don't meld. It will usually take on a decided character of one kind or the other after a few rounds of play. In the meantime, also, you will see whether or not the opponents or your partner meld.

Smart Film Stars, Turn Away From 'Shy Homebody' Publicity

Some of the younger Hollywood stars are turning thumbs down on the kind of publicity that attempts to make them seem to be shy little homebodies, who can whip up a meal with as much dispatch as Mrs. Jones next door and whose main interests in life the reading books on child care and weeding the flower bed.

Several of them lately have come out flat-footedly against feeding the public that kind of press agentry.

They're smart girls. Women who make a full time job of housework and children and husbands aren't impressed by the "movie-stars-are-just-like-you" build-up.

When they see a publicity shot of a Hollywood glamor girl in an organdy apron standing in a dream kitchen supposedly cooking her movie star husband's evening meal, real honest-to-goodness housewives are more likely to give out with a lady-like hoot than with a sigh of self-indignation.

Of Glamorous Life

The phoniness is so obvious it is irritating. And on top of that there is no glamor in such publicity.

When Mrs. America reads about the Hollywood stars she is trying to escape for a few minutes from her own kitchen.

She wants to read about a way of life that is entirely different from her own. Give her a choice of reading about the doings of Rita Hayworth or peeping into the kitchen of a Hollywood star who is being given the homebody build-up, and she'll read about Rita every time.

She may cluck her disapproval as she reals, but she'll read right on, nevertheless.

So the girls are smart who are starting to shy away from the phony homebody build-up.

Mrs. America would rather look at them in mink than in aprons, read about their parties than their unhappy childhoods, and visit with them pictorially on the edge of their swimming pools than in their kitchens.

Martin Highways 'Bleed' In Heat

Since highways in the Midland area are of the asphalt type, no "buckling" has been encountered as in areas having concrete roads, G. T. Orenbaum, senior resident engineer for the State Highway Department, said Saturday.

Orenbaum said some "bleeding" had occurred on asphalt highways in Martin County because of the intense heat the past several days.

"The maintenance department is placing extra work on the "bleeding" spots as they appear, otherwise it would result in the pavement being ruined," Orenbaum said.

The engineer pointed out that "bleeding" of the asphalt is a melting process caused by severe heat.

MEN IN AMERICA CALLED FAT, LAZY

The New York Custom Tailors Designers Club says American men are the fattest and laziest in U. S. history. The reasons: Too much sleep and food, not enough exercise.

It probably is true that they are the fattest, but we doubt the laziness. Everyone is working and a great deal is being accomplished and it certainly is not being done by lazy men.

For many of this country's 25,000,000 overweight adults, reducing diets have become a dominating influence. But the frightening fact is that many of the most popular diets are extremely dangerous. In an article titled, "Which Diets Are Dangerous," a recent issue of a national magazine lists some of the most prevalent "plans" and tells why "they can cause serious trouble." Recently there has appeared on the market a number of reducing "plans" which require a rigid diet. A deficient diet can be dangerous and should never be undertaken except upon a physician's advice and supervision.

If you have decided to reduce, here is a way to do it sensibly, easily and safely. Just go to your druggist and get a four-ounce bottle of Barcentrate. Pour into a pint bottle or jar; add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle does not show you the way to take off ugly fat, return the empty bottle for your money back. Barcentrate not only helps you to take off weight, but it also helps you in other ways. As Mrs. E. Phillips, 27 West Seventeenth Street, San Angelo, Texas, wrote us:

"I am 79 years of age and lost 18 pounds taking Barcentrate and it not only took off weight, but it has improved my health wonderfully."

And Mrs. C. E. Davis, Box 215, Mount Vernon, Texas, says: "When I began taking Barcentrate, I weighed 170 pounds. I now weigh 146, a loss of 24 pounds. Not wanting to lose any more weight, I cut down on dosage and continue to take it, as it helps me in other ways."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1952, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Truman wants to see MacArthur and Eisenhower neutralize each other; Taft is favorite GOP candidate with White House; Kefauver thinks Ike would be easier to beat than Taft.

WASHINGTON — The Republicans may be split wide open over whom they want nominated, but there is not the slightest doubt as to who is President Truman's GOP candidate—Senator Robert Alphonso Taft.

Word to this effect had been passed out among close presidential advisers even before the recent Defense Department tip-off that General MacArthur did not have to retire from active service to be the keynote speaker at the GOP convention.

When you know the background of what went on inside the Army before this decision was announced, there is no question but that it was an adroit move to play the two top military men of the nation off against each other—to the advantage of Taft.

Secretary of the Army Pace actually had ordered the judge advocate general to make a legal study of MacArthur's military status, and the latter came up with a clear-cut ruling that MacArthur, whether a five-star general or not, was in violation of Army Order 600-10 which bans not only political activity, but specifically bars "activities at political conventions."

Loss Of $19,600

The J. A. G. also ruled that MacArthur was violating the Hatch Act; also dug up an interesting rider tacked into the appropriations bill by Congressman James E. Van Zandt of Pennsylvania, which explains why MacArthur is sticking to active duty. Under the rider, MacArthur cannot retire and continue to draw his $19,600-a-year pay.

So, naturally, he wants to remain on active duty.

At present, MacArthur is assigned to unspecified active duty at Governors Island, New York, although he never goes there and continues his headquarters at the Waldorf Tower. It would be simple, of course, for MacArthur to request retirement, thereby permitting him to make all the speeches he wants. But in this case he would lose his $19,500, plus a government aide, stenographer, and chauffeur.

Thus the President had the man who has so severely criticized him in a tight spot. All Truman had to do was sign an order, and MacArthur would either have had to give up his $19,600 yearly or else quit making speeches.

These facts were put in a letter to the President some time ago by Army Secretary Pace, who privately has been itching to crack down on the man irreverently known around the Pentagon as "Dugout Doug." Furthermore, friends of Eisenhower are vastly more numerous in the Pentagon than friends of MacArthur. They were anxious to see him put in his place.

But the President chose just the opposite course. He completely reversed the judge advocate's findings, let McArthur remain on active duty at the age of 72, and let him keep his $19,600 even though Ike had given up his.

Reasons

Reasons: (1) Mr. T. hasn't been too happy about the cracks Ike has hurled in his direction after all the bouquets Truman previously had tossed at him; (2) a resounding keynote speech by McArthur slanted against Ike will not hurt too many feelings around the White House; (3) if Taft is the nominee, it's believed Gov. Adlai Stevenson—Truman's pet candidate—can be persuaded to run (Stevenson doesn't want to run against his old friend Eisenhower); (4) Mr. T. thinks Taft would be easier to beat.

Steamship Lobby

The United States Lines, which is involved in a multimillion-dollar controversy with the government, has invited members of Congress for a free ride on its superliner "United States" this weekend.

The liner cost $70,000,000 to build, of which the company paid $28,000,000, leaving the taxpayers stuck for the balance.

Comptroller General Lindsay Warren has been raising cain about this, and has withheld $13,000,000 in subsidies on 40 freighters that the U. S. Lines also negotiated to buy from the government.

Yet, despite the fact that the U. S. Lines is so deeply indebted to the taxpayers, it is paying all the expenses, including train fare, baggage handling, and free champagne for the gala weekend sailing trip. The company has arranged for a special train to stand by Saturday afternoon to pick up senators and congressmen who want to go. They will be taken down to Newport News, Va., and aboard the superliner, which will sail for New York City, arriving Monday at noon.

Then the shipping company will have another train standing by to pick up the senators and congressmen and haul them back to Washington.

Many senators have turned down the invitation because they consider it a brazen attempt to influence their votes. The issue already has been referred to a subcommittee of House expenditures.

Inside fact is that President Truman is straddling the fence between Comptroller General Warren, who wants to withhold delivery of the ship until the company pays a bigger share, and Secretary Sawyer, who argues that the government is committed by contract to go through with the deal.

Truman wrote Sawyer a private letter saying that he wants the ship delivered on schedule, but that he would suggest leaving the door ajar so that they may be able to get more money out of U. S. Lines later.

Kefauver On Ike

Unlike President Truman, Estes Kefauver has expressed the private opinion that Eisenhower, rather than Taft, would be the easiest man for him and the Democrats to beat. Here are his reasons why:

1. If Ike were the nominee, foreign policy would not be an issue. Eisenhower and the Democrats think almost exactly alike.

2. With the campaign centered on domestic issues, Kefauver would be at an advantage, has 20 years of experience coping with the complicated questions of labor legislation, farm ceilings, social security, and while he, Kefauver, cleaned up Democratic corruption, the Republicans tolerated influence-peddling Guy Gabrielson as their national chairman, plus the highly publicized activities of McCarthy, Bridges, and Brewster.

3. With Ike as candidate, the campaign would be more honorable and gentlemanly. Taft's supporters already have condoned the worst type of McCarthyism, resorting to such innuendos against Ike as anti-semitism, sex, and poor health—innuendos which Senator James Duff of Pennsylvania denounced as "the dirtiest tactics I have ever seen in any American political campaign."

Finally Kefauver figures that, with Eisenhower as their candidate, the Republicans would get too overconfident, make the same mistake they made in 1948.

Boom In Farm Land Holds Sway Around Tom Green County

SAN ANGELO — (AP) — The slowdown in the farm land boom reported recently by the U. S. Department of Agriculture doesn't hold true here.

Even if you could pay the high prices asked, you would have difficulty buying a farm in Tom Green County. Most farms aren't for sale.

Those that can be bought would have to be paid for at the rate of $200 an acre in some cases, say land specialists. That's higher than five years ago.

Australia Replaces Thailand's Cavalry

SINGAPORE — (AP) — Forty-five Australian horses—replacements for Thailand's (Siam's) Royal Cavalry—arrived here aboard the freighter Carpentaria and began an overland railway journey to Bangkok.

Australian stockman and horse-breaker Pat Rice, who accompanied the consignment, said: "Horses have a short life in Thailand (Siam) because of unsuitable grasses. Mounts for the Royal Cavalry have to be constantly replaced."

General MacArthur goes to baseball games in a business suit but seems to always wear his uniform when he travels around making political speeches. Arch Nearbrite says maybe the general doesn't want to muss up his civvies by traveling in them. It's funny, too, that he permitted his name to be presented for the Republican nomination four years ago but now says election of a military man as President would be a tragedy.
