by Lonnie Welborn
Jerry Kunkel, noted humorist and inspirational speaker, will make a return appearance in Post Thursday, April 7 at 7 p.m. in the Post Community Center.
Kunkel was such a success as guest speaker at the January Chamber of Commerce, that the Main Street Project is bringing him back for a second appearance in order that people who were unable to hear him in January will have another opportunity to enjoy the humorist.

Tickets for the Kunkel program are $3 per person and are still available from the following merchants:
Garza Exxon, Wallace Lumber, United, Jackson's Cafe, Jan's, Bryan Williams and Son Insurance, Southwestern Public Service, Higginbotham-Bartlett, Hudman Furniture, First National Bank and the Post Dispatch, or at the Main Street Office.

Kunkel is a native of Lamesa and after graduating from Lamesa High School, he received a presidential appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy, where he played football and was All-American in track and field competition.

Hail Storm Could Have Been Worse

The hail storm that hit the Post area last Thursday night sounded to most people like it was doing more damage than it did, even though the damage did prove to be extensive in some parts of Post and Garza County.

Judging from the roar produced by the hail, however, the noise was almost as bad as the damage caused by the storm that blew into town near midnight.

Local insurance agencies have been kept busy this week taking calls and investigating customer's claims, but representatives from all the offices contacted agreed that the quantity of the hail was offset by the quality of the hail.

There was a lot of it, but it was soft hail that didn't do as much damage as hard hail would have.

The agents also agree that the damage varied quite a bit in different parts of town and that some areas were harder hit than others. In some areas damage was slight.

Terry Hoover of the Post Insurance Agency reported that quite a few claims had been turned in on Monday, but that they would probably increase as people began to really look at the damage.

"Most people want their roofs checked to see if there's any damage, and that's what we're in the process of doing now. Most of the damage will be to older roofs; newer roofs we've checked don't show any damage," Hoover said.

At the Bryan Williams Agency things have been very busy and the number of claims has been heavy for both buildings and automobiles.

Leon Gibbs is busy in town and out in the county with claims filed, and the claims are running about half and half for buildings and vehicles.

The damage was much worse in places outside Garza County, Gibbs said, especially in O'Donnell - which was hit by two storms - where Gibbs had a crew working.

PHS Students Lead Area in U.I.L. Points

With an outstanding showing at the March 25-26 University Interscholastic League (U.I.L.) competition in Slaton, Post High School students are the winners of the spring overall academic literary trophy by an overwhelming majority of points.

Under new U.I.L. rules, winners in places one through six in each competition can now contribute points to the overall score and with the number of wins in Slaton, Post students had built up a total of 264 points.

With the advancement of the PHS one-act play at the Brownfield competition, Saturday, April 2, 48 more points were picked up - giving Post High School a total of 312 points, and also giving PHS a big advantage over the competitor with the next highest point total, Lubbock-Cooper, with 171 points.

The first three winners in each of the divisions will go on to Odessa to compete in the regional U.I.L. competition on April 22.

Individual winners and their ratings were:

Poetry Interpretation
Jennifer Owen, first place
Informative Speaking
Dustin Ammons, fourth place
Lincoln-Douglas Debate
Priscilla Ray, fifth place
Editorial Writing
Teresa Lofton, third place;
Greg Windham, fifth place
Headline Writing
Kim Wulfjen, fourth place;
Greg Windham, fifth place
Feature Writing
Jana Hudman, first place;
Christina Martinez, second place;
Ladonna Scott, fifth place
News Writing
Cathy Boles, first place

Tom Power reported several losses turned in, with damage to homes and buildings and vehicles.

"The damage wasn't real extensive," Power said, "because of the type hail that fell. If it had been harder, the losses would have been much worse."

More claims are expected to be filed after people have the time to take a good look at their property and discover the actual extent of the damage.

PHS One-Act Play Wins In Brownfield

by Lonnie Welborn
Post High School's one-act play entry in University Interscholastic League (U.I.L.) competition continues to be a winner as the play and its cast move on to area U.I.L. competition in Kermit on April 9.

The PHS presentation, "Children of a Lesser God," by Mark Medoff, was chosen for advancement, along with Lubbock-Cooper's production, at U.I.L. district competition held in Brownfield Saturday, April 2.

Individual recognition was also given to cast members, as Eric Reece was named Best Actor in the competition; Cheryl Thompson was named to the All-Star Cast; and Jennifer Owen and Brent McDonald were both awarded All-Star Cast Honorable Mention.

Directed by Candace McConnell, the cast for "Children of a Lesser God" includes Eric Reece, Cheryl Thompson, Brent McDonald, Jennifer Owen, Jimmy Holleman, Melanie Reece and Krista Kemp.

Crew members are Oliver McDougle, Richard Johnson and Cathy Boles.

Alternates are Mary Binford, Angela Graves, Mike Bartlett and Mike Wells.

With a favorable showing in next Saturday's competition in Kermit, the Post group will then advance to the April 22 regional U.I.L. meet in Odessa.

Democratic Party Run-Off Election

Pd Pol. Adv. by Billy L. Timms

Some Things Change

... for the Better

Law Enforcement has changed drastically in the past 10 years. It use to be that any person, well known and well liked in a County could be elected to the position of Sheriff and do a good job. THAT IS NOT TRUE TODAY!

In 1970, the Governor of Texas and the Lawmakers decided it was time to turn Law Enforcement into a professional status. They deemed it necessary to make any person totting a badge and a gun attend at least 140 hours of school. As times changed and more law suits were filed and more officers were being sued for not knowing their jobs, the 140 hours was changed. Now more than 400 hours of classroom training is required before you can become a Law Enforcement Officer. Laws have changed to the point that even old time Officers who have been out of Law Enforcement over 2 years have to retake a test and pass, plus have a psychological examination before having their Peace Officers License renewed.

To break it all down, Law Enforcement is a business. It must be run by qualified personnel, trained and educated in the field of Law Enforcement.

As you have probably read in Newspapers and heard on the News, Counties and Cities alike are being sued, with them paying out large sums of money — taxpayers dollars — because of inadequately trained Sheriffs and Chiefs of Police.

I have listed my qualifications. I am proud of them. I feel I have done a good job for the last 3 years as Chief Deputy for Sheriff Pippin, and if you, the citizens, elect me as your Sheriff, I promise you a continued professional 24-hour-a-day Sheriff's Department.

In The Neighborhood

by Lonnie Welborn

I was in Brownfield this past Saturday and had the pleasure of seeing Candace McConnell's Post High School students in the one-act play U.I.L. competition.

You probably know by now that the PHS students advanced in the Brownfield competition and will be going to Kermit, Saturday, April 9 to compete in U.I.L. competition there.

What you might not know is that these people are nothing short of outstanding in their play "Children of a Lesser God." Sitting in the audience in Brownfield, I was impressed from start to finish by the performances of these students.

"Children of a Lesser God" is not an easy play - it is a deep, difficult work about deaf students and their teacher and the interweaving of all their lives.

All of the performers, even those with speaking parts, use sign language throughout the play. I've been in a few plays myself and I don't think I could get my point across or make myself understood if I couldn't speak - but these performers did just that and did it beautifully.

They all have their signing down to what looks like a perfect job to me - and they are all able to express every emotion needed, whether they speak or not.

My congratulations and my thanks to Candace and the cast - Eric Reece, Cheryl Thompson, Brent McDonald, Jennifer Owen, Jimmy Holleman, Melanie Reece and Krista Kemp.

My congratulations for the way they are moving up in the U.I.L. competition and my thanks for providing such great entertainment on a Saturday afternoon.

Their performances made me laugh and they made me cry and you can't ask more than that from any performers.

If you have the opportunity - please see "Children of a Lesser God." You'll be as proud of these Post performers as all the Post visitors to Brownfield were on Saturday - and as proud of them as I am.

The Post City Council Monday night accepted the bid of Boardman Fire-Fighters of Wichita Falls for the purchase of the pumper and equipment for the Post Volunteer Fire Department's new fire truck.

The first three months of 1968 were the wettest first quarter in Post in the 60 years that moisture records have been kept here, County Agent Syd Conner announced yesterday.

Although Sheriff Nathan Mears and several other candidates for the sheriff's office have been working on the case, the identity of the masked bandit who robbed Raymond Young at his Hiway Grocery of approximately $300 last Friday night remains a mystery.

Garza County suffered with many other regions of the state Tuesday over one of the worst dust storms in 10 years.

Paul Musselwhite of Levelland, rig and trucking contractor, had three damaged rigs in the Garza Oil Field this week. On Monday a crown block fell through the floor of the rig at the O'Neal well on the K. Stoker property and damaged the rig. On Tuesday, two rigs at O'Neal wells recently completed, one on the Post Estate and the other on the K. Stoker property, were blown down and damaged by the wind-storm.

TORNADO!

TORNADO!

Violent storms that lance from thunderclouds and carve paths of absolute destruction through lives, communities, human opportunity. There is no way to stop them. But they can be seen. People can be saved. Only one instrument can detect a tornado funnel with complete certainty — the human eye.

Most tornadoes detected before they strike a community are picked up by the eyes of volunteer observers. SKYWARN volunteers. SKYWARN is an element in the community tornado preparedness program of the National Weather Service, and part of the U. S. Commerce Department's National-wide Natural Disaster Warning system, which alerts Americans to impending hazards from the sea and earth, as well as from the sky.

Tornado Destruction

Every tornado is a potential killer and many are capable of great destruction. Tornadoes can topple buildings, roll mobile homes, uproot trees, hurl people and animals through the air for hundreds of yards, and fill the air with lethal, windborne debris.

Sticks, glass, roofing material, lawn furniture all become deadly missiles when driven by a tornado's winds.

In 1975, a Mississippi tornado carried a home freezer for more than a mile.

Tornadoes do their destructive work through the combined action of their strong rotary winds and the impact of windborne debris. In the most simple case, the force of the tornado's winds push the windward wall of a building inward.

The roof is lifted up and the other walls fall outward. Until recently, this damage pattern led to the incorrect belief that the structure had exploded as a result of the atmospheric pressure drop associated with the tornado.

Mobile homes are particularly vulnerable to strong wind blown debris. Even if tied down, mobile homes should be evacuated for more substantial shelter.

Mobile home parks should have storm shelters for their residents if located in areas where strong thunderstorms or tornadoes occur.

Tornado: Nature's Most Violent Storm

Tornado Characteristics

By definition, a tornado is a violently rotating column of air in contact with the ground. The air column may be seen when it contains condensation in the form of a cloud or when it contains surface dust and debris. Often its appearance is a result of both. When a tornado touches the ground there usually is a swirl of dust and debris even when the visible cloud portion is missing or fails to reach all the way to the ground. When the column of air is aloft and does not produce damage, the visible portion is properly called a funnel cloud. A waterspout is a tornado in contact with a water surface.

Tornadoes vary greatly in size, intensity, and appearance. Most (62 percent) of the tornadoes that occur each year fall into the weak category. Wind speeds are in the range of 100 miles an hour or less. Weak tornadoes account for less than 3 percent of all tornado deaths. About one out of every three tornadoes is classified as strong. Wind speeds reach about 200 miles an hour with an average path length of 9 miles and a width of 200 yards. Almost 30 percent of all tornado deaths occur each year from this type of storm. Nearly 70 percent of all tornado fatalities result from violent tornadoes. Although very rare (only about 2 percent are violent), these extreme tornadoes can last for hours. Average path lengths and widths are 26 miles and 425 yards, respectively. The largest of these may exceed a mile or more in width, with wind speeds approaching 300 miles an hour.

The color of a tornado is determined by a number of factors such as the amount and direction of sunlight and the type of debris being picked up at the surface. Not only does the shape of a tornado vary from one storm to another, but an individual tornado usually changes its shape frequently during its life cycle. During the late stages of a tornado's life, it is not unusual for the tornado to become highly tilted and shrink in size. This reduction in size does not mean that it is less intense. It is still very dangerous! With exceptionally large tornadoes, the classic "funnel shape" may be absent. The tornado may appear to be a large, turbulent cloud near the ground. It may even be mistaken for a large rain shaft or even a non-weather event such as a fire.

Sometimes a series of two or more tornadoes is associated with a parent thunderstorm. Occasionally, two or more tornadoes can occur simultaneously, extending downward from the same thunderstorm. As the parent thunderstorm moves along, tornadoes may form, travel along in contact with the ground and dissipate or lift, followed shortly by other tornado touchdowns, and so on.

Tornadoes can also be made up of a number of smaller but intense vortices that rotate about a common center. With this type, the most intense damage is concentrated along the paths of the small vortices.

While an individual tornado usually destroys a relatively small area, major tornado outbreaks may cause widespread damage over an extensive area. During the afternoon and evening of April 3 and the early morning of April 4, 1974, a "super outbreak" of 148 tornadoes across 13 states killed more than 300 people, injured more than 6,000, and caused $600 million in damage. On March 18, 1925, the Tri-State tornado traveled some 219 miles across Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana. It lasted for over 3 1/2 hours and killed 689 people.

Except for weak tornadoes and waterspouts in coastal areas, tornadoes usually develop from strong or severe thunderstorms. Most significant tornadoes have their origin within the right rear quadrant of the thunderstorm where a circulation develops at heights between 15,000 and 30,000 feet. A tornado or funnel cloud is observed when this circulation develops further downward toward the surface. Tornado development can also occur along the leading edge of a single thunderstorm or line of thunderstorms. While dangerous, such tornadoes are usually weak and short-lived.

Tornado Facts!

Tornadoes travel at an average speed of 30 miles an hour, but speeds ranging from stationary to 70 miles an hour have been reported. While most tornadoes move from the southwest to the northeast, their direction of travel can be erratic and may change suddenly.

While hail may or may not precede a tornado, the portion of a thunderstorm adjacent to large hail is often the area where strong to violent tornadoes are most likely to occur.

Once large hail begins to fall, it is best to assume that a tornado may be nearby, and seek appropriate shelter. Once the hail has stopped, remain in a protected area until the thunderstorm has moved away. This will usually be 15 to 30 minutes after the hail ceases.

The tornado's atmospheric pressure drop plays, at most, a minor role in the damage process.

Most structures have sufficient venting to allow for the sudden drop in atmospheric pressure. Opening a window, once thought to be a way to minimize damage by allowing inside and outside atmospheric pressures to equalize, is not recommended. In fact, if a tornado gets close enough to a structure for the pressure drop to be experienced, the strong tornado winds probably already will have caused the most significant damage. Furthermore, opening the wrong window can actually increase damage.

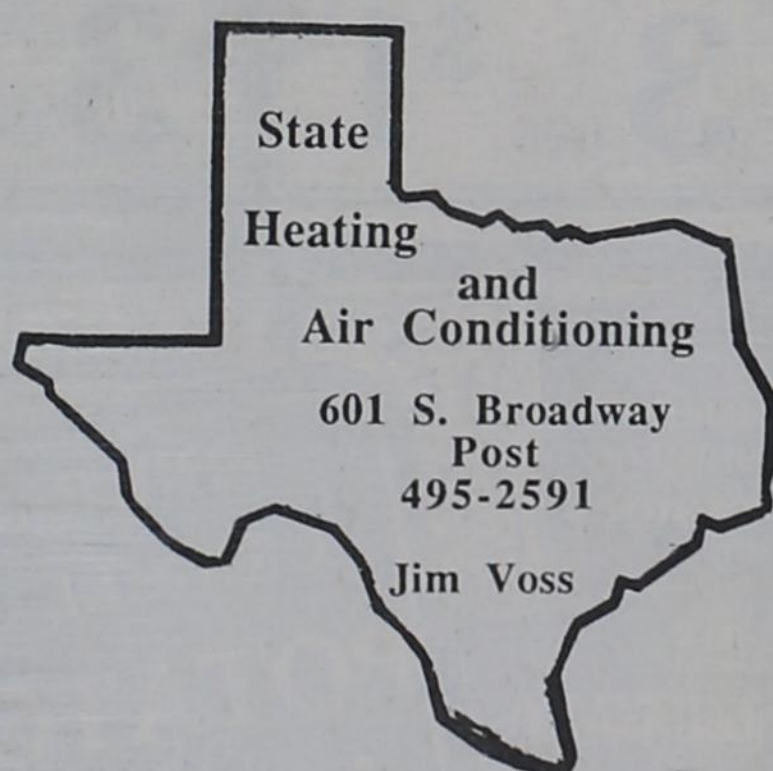

While most tornado damage is caused by the violent winds, most tornado injuries and deaths result from flying debris.

Small rooms, such as closets or bathrooms, in the center of a home or building offer the greatest protection from flying objects. Such rooms are also less likely to experience roof collapse. Always stay away from windows or exterior doors.

Post Notes

Now, the plan has finally been approved locally and will be reviewed by the Texas Highway Department for funding and construction.

Returning our Main Street to a historic setting and matching the vision of C.W. Post will be an important step in the revitalization of our business district and once completed, will inject a sense of community pride as well as improved retail sales here.

In the spirit of our democratic system, I call on citizens to join hands in supporting the Main Street Project landscaping plan and look for ways to be helpful in our economic development.

Our Future Depends On Them
April is Child Abuse Prevention Month and a time for all of us to reflect on how we might eliminate this problem. Preventing child abuse is everyone's job.

According to the Children's Trust Fund of Texas, over 75,000 Texas children were abused or neglected last year. That's more than it would take to fill the Cotton Bowl. And those are just the reported cases.

All of us have a stake in preventing this needless tragedy. Often, abused children grow up to become abusive youths and adults, continuing a pattern of violence that can touch anyone.

The good news is that a coordinated effort to curb child abuse and neglect is now underway. Formed in 1985, the Children's Trust Fund of Texas is providing financial support to community programs aimed at strengthening families by preventing abuse and neglect. The Texas Coalition for the Prevention of Child Abuse also has many local coalitions working to solve this problem.

Here in Garza County, the closest child abuse coalitions are the Midland Child Abuse Prevention Program and the Amarillo Panhandle Coalition for Child Abuse Prevention.

Finally, we have to consider the abusive parent and to recognize that under certain circumstances almost any parent is capable of physically or emotionally harming his or her child. The National Committee for the Prevention of Child Abuse offers some alternatives for parents who want to avoid lashing out at their children.

There are twelve alternatives to lashing out at your kid. You don't have to life a hand to hurt your child. Words hit as hard as a fist. The next time everyday pressures build up to such a pitch that you feel like lashing out ... stop, and try any of these simple alternatives. Remember, take time out. Don't take it out on your kid.

1. Put your hands over your mouth. Count to 10. Or better yet, 20.
2. Stop in your tracks. Press your lips together and breathe deeply.
3. Phone a friend.
4. Phone the weather.
5. Say the alphabet out loud.
6. If someone can watch the children, go outside and take a leisurely walk.
7. Take a hot bath or splash cold water on your face.
8. Pick up a pencil and write down your thoughts.
9. Close your eyes and imagine you're hearing what your child hears.
10. Turn on the radio or tv.
11. Hug a pillow.
12. Write for prevention information: National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse, Box 2866, Chicago, Illinois 60690.

Remember, take time out, don't take it out on your kid. As an eleven year old girl, Sarah, put it: "When I hear about an abused child, I wish someone would do something to keep it from happening again."

Let's do our part. If you know of an abused child, or are concerned about abusing your own child, please call the Child Abuse Hot Line, toll free number --- 1-800-252-5400. Don't wait until it's too late!

FREDDY COCKRELL

GARZA COUNTY SHERIFF

Freddy is the son of the late Delbert "Nig" and Irene Cockrell of Post. He is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Will Teaff of Close City. Freddy and his wife, Trisha, and their two daughters are church members and attend services regularly. Freddy and his family have been active in Little League Baseball, 4-H Club and other community and school affairs.

Freddy completed 12 years of school in Post. He has an Associate Degree in Law Enforcement from South Plains College. Some of the courses he studied were:

- Criminal Evidence and Procedure
- Traffic Law
- Jail and Correction Institute Operations
- Criminal Law
- Police Role in Crime and Delinquency
- Police Administration
- Criminal Investigation
- Vice and Narcotics
- Police Community Relations
- Police Supervision
- Psychology
- Sociology

Freddy underwent extensive oral, written and psychological examination to be selected to attend the Texas Department of Public Safety Law Enforcement Academy in Austin. During his 18 weeks in the Academy, a few of the 58 courses he studied were:

- Search and Seizure
- Riot Control
- Accident Investigation
- Breathalyzer Certification
- Case Preparation
- Scientific Aids in Investigation
- Police Courtesy
- Recognition and Handling of Mentally Ill
- Auto Thefts
- Disaster Reconnaissance
- Firearms Training

After completing these courses Freddy was assigned as a Trooper in the Highway Patrol. During his 9 1/2 years with the DPS, Freddy continued to receive training in related fields of Law Enforcement. His superior during his DPS tenure has this to say about Freddy:

"I have known Freddy Cockrell for some fifteen years, four and a half years of that time he was under my supervision as a Texas Highway Patrolman. He was competent, diligent in his duties, thorough in his investigations, got along well with others, and was friendly, honest, and well qualified by training. I have every confidence that he can fulfill the requirements of the position to which he aspires."

(Signed) Hal E. Pirtle, Sgt. (Retired)
Texas Highway Patrol Brownfield, Texas

Freddy resigned his position with the DPS during the oil boom to accept a position in an oilfield related business. However, a slump in the economy caused the position to be phased out. Freddy is presently employed by an oil field supply business. He has an excellent job record and has never been fired or asked to resign from any job he has held.

As Sheriff, Freddy promises to work with the Commissioners Court and the City council to put together a realistic, workable Sheriff's Department budget and to use common sense in administering the Sheriff's office.

Freddy believes the Sheriff's office should always be open to the public and accountable to the public. He also feels all personnel should be accountable to the public. No single segment of the community should be subjected to harassment or mis-treatment whether they are minors, teenagers, middle-aged or senior citizens.

Freddy would like to meet and visit with every Garza County voter. If you have not met him, please feel free to contact him at his home. Discuss with him your ideas and concerns so he can be more effective as YOUR Sheriff.

Your Vote and Support
Will be Appreciated
