Clements vows at inaugural today

Fight for better, less government

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bill Clements became Texas' first Republican governor in 105 years today with a promise that he would persist in fighting for better and less government.

"I want to conduct government in a business-like manner, with elected officials and government leaders responsible to the taxpayers just as a board of directors and company officials are responsible to the stockholders," the 61-year-old multimillionaire said in his inaugural address shortly after taking the oath as Texas' 41st governor.

"You will hear voices during my administration expressing doubts about some of my proposals. But, I will persist, we will prevail."

The traditional swearing-in ceremonies on the front steps of the old pink granite Capitol attracted a large crowd in the foggy, cool weather.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who took the oath just before Clements, called for "limited government ... We need more of the services that state and local government provide and less of the prying and second-guessing and regulation that the federal government imposes."

Clements had compliments for outgoing Gov. Dolph Briscoe and promised cooperation with Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton.

"This inauguration, where a Republican governor takes office with a Democratic lieutenant governor, stands as living proof of the independent thinking of the people of this state," he said.

He said Briscoe would be remembered as the governor who successfully fought the creation of new taxes.

"And he will be remembered as the governor who took the first steps toward returning the tax-generated surplus in our state treasury back to its rightful owners. This is Governor Briscoe's legacy to Texas, and it's one he can be proud of and one this state will always appreciate."

The new governor, in firm tones, repeated again and again he would "persist" in his legislative plans.

"I will persist," he said:

—"With my plans to return to you, the taxpayers, $1 billion of the state's surplus ... with my plans to give you long-term constitutional safeguards — including the right of initiative and referendum.

—"With my plans to reduce the size of our state bureaucracy.

—"With my plans to improve the quality of our education system."

Clements started his first day as Texas governor with a hearty breakfast of steak and eggs.

"If I didn't know better, I would think I was going to work on a drilling rig or a pipeline," Clements told an inaugural breakfast sponsored by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce.

"This breakfast indicates you expect a lot out of us and we are ready to go to work."

More than 600 persons, including a large number of Texas state officials and legislators, attended the opening event of the inaugural day.

"I promise you I will work in every way of full cooperation with your other elected officials, ... responsive to the taxpayers of this state," Clements said.

Clements wore a typical businessman's gray pinstripe suit and striped tie.

Those in the audience included former Texas Gov. John Connally and his wife, former United Nations Ambassador George Bush and his wife and Mrs. John Tower, wife of Texas' Republican U.S. senator, and the senator's daughter, Jean.

The big moment was scheduled for 12:15 p.m., when the 61-year-old multimillionaire was to place his hand on a Bible held by his wife and take the oath from Texas Supreme Court Justice Joe Greenhill.

Most observers considered it the biggest inaugural bash since another surprise gubernatorial winner, W. Lee "Pappy" O'Daniel, took the oath before 60,000 yelling supporters in the University of Texas football stadium.

Republicans led the day and night long celebration but there were plenty of Democrats involved, including many members of the predominantly Democratic Legislature.

Inauguration headquarters estimated as many as 20,000 visitors came to Austin for the occasion. All 1,500 hotel and motel rooms in the immediate vicinity were filled, and the nearest vacancies were at Georgetown, 30 miles to the north, and San Marcos, the same distance to the south.

At least 4,000 persons grabbed all tickets to the $50-each black tie balls at three downtown locations.

Monday night, Republican fundraising receptions attracted many early arrivals, including a goodly number at a $5,000-per-person cocktail party in a west Austin home.

THEIR DAY IS HERE — Governor-elect William P. Clements and his wife, Rita, acknowledge the applause of the gathering at the inaugural breakfast in Austin, Tuesday.

The seal of the state is in the background. The inaugural breakfast is a long time tradition honoring the incoming governor and his family.

Football star to speak C-City Chamber banquet

COLORADO CITY — One of Colorado City's favorite sports heroes, former NFL star Don Maynard, returns here Thursday night to deliver the principle talk at the annual Colorado City Chamber of Commerce membership banquet.

Maynard, who was Joe Namath's favorite receiver when both played with the New York Jets, is now selling insurance in El Paso.

Mac McKinnon, publisher of the Colorado City Record, will formally take office as the new Chamber president. He will replace Jerry Putman.

Other newly elected officers are Shirley DeLaney and Ken Godsey, vice president; Lloyd Ledbetter, secretary; and Larry Blassingame, treasurer.

Incoming directors are Brad Rose, Travis Cawthorn, Drew Ballard, Bobby Lemons and Barbara Gray.

Numerous awards will be given, among them the Distinguished Service Award of the Jaycees, Woman of the Year by the Business and Professional Women and the Outstanding Citizen and the Outstanding Farm Family, the latter two by the Chamber of Commerce.

DON

Master of ceremonies will be Bob Reily.

Tickets for the 70th annual Chamber banquet remain on sale at the Chamber office until 5 p.m., today. They are priced at $8 each.

The banquet gets under way at 7 p.m., in the Civic Center. The menu will include an eight-ounce filet mignon, baked potato, a vegetable, rolls and dessert.

Serving the meal will be members of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Feaster won the Outstanding Agricultural Family Award in 1978 and will be on hand to present the prize to the new recipients. Also present will be Murrell Blassingame, 1977 recipient of the Outstanding Chamber Membership Award, who will pass the honor along to his successor.

B&P Club Woman of the Year Award will be made by the 1978 winner, Jan Lemons. The winner does not necessarily have to be a member of the club.

Presenting the Jaycee Distinguished Service Award will be

Ray Dillard, who received the award last year.

Maynard graduated from Colorado High in 1953 and attended Texas Western College — now the University of Texas at El Paso.

Maynard was a member of the New York Jets when they won the Super Bowl and is still listed in the Guinness Book of Records for having the most receptions in a lifetime and the most yards gained. Part of his records were achieved in the old American Football League.

Shah of Iran flees country

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi fled secretly from Iran Tuesday after the lower house of Parliament gave final legislative approval to the country's new civilian government, court sources reported.

One palace source said the 59-year-old monarch and Empress Farah left for Egypt and the United States "according to schedule" at 12:15 p.m. (3:45 a.m. EST).

The shah eluded reporters who went to the Tehran Airport for a news conference with him. They were told he had delayed his departure for at least a day, and they were sent back to the city.

Meanwhile, the lower house of the Majlis, the Iranian Parliament, met and gave Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar's new civilian government a vote of confidence. The Senate hastily gave its approval Monday.

The shah's mother-in-law and three of his children flew to the United States Monday aboard an Iranian jetliner. An Imperial Iranian Boeing 747 landed them at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey, and another Iranian Boeing 707 took them to Lubbock, Tex., where the shah's eldest son, 17-year-old Crown Prince Reza, is taking pilot training.

Political violence erupted anew as this country awaited the uncertainties of a post-shah era. Among at least 18 persons reported killed in twodays of bloodshed was a former U.S. Air Force colonel, Martin Berkowitz, 53, of San Francisco, the second American slain in 12 months of nationwide turmoil here.

By leaving, the shah cleared the way for Bakhtiar to take full control of the nation. But the new prime minister must overcome the political stigma of having been chosen by the shah and must deal with the powerful Moslem religious leaders, chiefly the exiled Ayatollah Khomeini, who want to establish an Islamic republic of their design.

Arrive from Abilene

Tractorcade in Ft. Worth

By The Associated Press

A five-mile-long caravan of protesting farmers rolled into Fort Worth on Interstate 20 today en route to Washington, D.C., to dramatize the farmers' protest of low farm prices.

The group left Abilene Monday morning as other farmers pulled out of Amarillo, heading for the nation's capital by another route.

They were to join other farmers from the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Florida and Georgia who plan to be in Washington Feb. 2.

The Abilene caravan camped near Mineral Wells Monday night and moved into the Fort Worth-Dallas area Tuesday afternoon.

The Amarillo caravan held a rally in Sayre, Okla., Monday night and planned to arrive in Weatherford, Okla. today and Oklahoma City by Wednesday. The caravans will average about 100 miles of travel a day, said a spokesman for the American Agriculture Movement.

The spokesman added that communications with the northern leg of the tractorcade had broken down and he had no reports on the progress of other caravans.

A caravan of farmers stretched out for five miles along Interstate 20 today as it headed for Fort Worth — and ultimately to Washington, D.C. — to dramatize the farmer's protest of low farm prices.

They left from Abilene Monday morning as other farmers pulled out of Amarillo, heading for the nation's capital by another route. They'll be joining other farmers from the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Florida and Georgia who plan to be on hand for the Feb. 2 opening of the 96th Congress.

The Abilene caravan set its goals for Ranger, Texas, Monday evening and planned to arrive in Fort Worth later today.

The Amarillo caravan scheduled a rally in Sayre, Okla., Monday night and planned to arrive in Oklahoma City tonight or Wednesday. The caravans will average about 100 miles of travel a day, said a spokesman for the American Agriculture Movement.

The tractorcade of farmers and supporters carried signs and slogans ranging from "Dump Carter" to "Not a vacation, just desperation."

Farmers dubbed the caravan "National Tractorcade 1979."

The American Agriculture Movement had 1,000 farmers in supporters in Washington last year; they hope to have 2,000 this year.

Gerald McCathern, a Hereford farmer who has been a principal figure in the movement, said the key difference in this year's Washington protest will be the number of tractors on the streets of Washington.

The movement will be successful only "if we can get 1,000 tractors or more in Washington," McCathern said.

J.L. Cox of Littlefield, Texas, said the presence of the tractors would make the difference.

"I don't think all the farmers walking around Washington (last year) will have the effect the tractors will," Cox said, calling last year's protest mainly a publicity effort.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Bridges freeze faster

Q. During the recent ice storm here, I noticed highway crews often put sand and gravel on overpasses but not on the ground level stretches of highway. The reason?

A. The State Highway Department says it is a matter of priorities. Overpasses and bridges get colder and freeze faster because the air is cooling them on both sides. They can freeze even when the rest of the highway, which is partially insulated by the ground below, remains unfrozen. Tires operating on slippery surfaces can't get much traction so it's wise to slow one's speed under such conditions, and be especially cautious on bridges, curves and hills.

Calendar: Awards luncheon

TODAY

Marcy PTA meets at 7:30 p.m. at Marcy School cafeteria. A babysitter will be provided.

WEDNESDAY

All graduating seniors of Big Spring High School are to be measured for caps and gowns. Measurements will be taken all day in the high school library. A $7 deposit is required.

Tops on TV: 'The Boat People'

CBS has a couple of interesting offerings on the tube tonight. At 7 p.m., the network's news team will take a look at "The Boat People," 25 million Vietnamese who fled their homeland after the war. This will be followed at 8 p.m. by several able actors, James Coburn, Robert Culp and Susannah York, in a somewhat schlocky enterprise entitled "Sky Riders." Sonny Bono fans (are there still any?) won't want to miss "Murder In Music City." Sonny plays a sleuth in Nashville, at 8 p.m. on NBC.

Inside: Where did they go?

FOR SOME TIME NOW the businessmen of Switzerland have been forced into an economy "crunch" because of the decline of American tourists. See page 3A.

SEN. LLOYD BENTSEN of Texas lead a trio of Texas Congressmen in introducing bills into the 96th Congress which began yesterday with the swearing-in of new members. See page 5A.

Gunmen skyjack

Lebanese jetliner

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Gunmen today hijacked a Lebanese Middle East Airlines jetliner with 73 passengers and crew aboard on a regular flight from Beirut to Amman, Jordan, airport sources reported.

The sources said the Arabic-speaking gunmen notified Beirut airport's control tower the Boeing 707 plane was commandeered 50 minutes after it took off from the Lebanese capital.

The sources said the hijackers ordered the plane's captain to proceed to Larnaca airport on the Mediterranean island of Cyprus, without making immediate demands.

Girl friend of victim charged with murder

Mary Tillas, girl friend of the slain Elmer Green, has been charged with murder in connection with the gunfight that resulted in the deaths of Green and Eugene Vanderbilt, Friday night.

The killings occurred around 10:30 p.m. Friday at Dickie's Lounge, also known as the 20-20 club, 314 N.W. 4th. According to police, when a long-standing argument between Green and Vanderbilt came to a head, the two opened fire on each other, and both died of gunshot wounds.

The charge against Tillas results from the investigators' contention that she provided Green with the 22 caliber pistol he used to kill Vanderbilt.

"It looks as if she and Green and the Vanderbilts had been fighting and feuding all night. She had the gun, she handed it to Green, and he shot Vanderbilt. That makes her a principle in the murder," said Assistant District Attorney Don Richard, Monday.

Tillas, 44, Northcrest Apartments, was apprehended in Colorado City this morning, said Big Spring Lt. Claude Morris. She will be picked up by local police and placed in custody here sometime today.

Davis jury 'most difficult to sense'

HOUSTON (AP)—A jury, described by one experienced defense attorney as "the most difficult to sense that I've seen in my entire career" will begin deliberations sometime today in the murder conspiracy trial of Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis.

The seven men and five women have heard 10 weeks of testimony and will listen to instructions from Judge Wallace Moore today and then the final arguments from the prosecution and defense. Each side has been allotted four hours.

It has been a long, expensive, bizarre trial, with opposing lawyers shouting insults and at least once coming close to physical contact.

Monday, Judge Moore overruled a stack of defense motions as he attempted to prepare his charge to the jury. A charge gives the jury the options it has in deciding the case.

The defense suffered a setback when Moore denied a motion that would force the state to select a charge of solicitation of murder or one of conspiracy to commit capital murder.

Moore said he would include both counts in his instructions to the jury, giving the 12 persons greater leeway in considering the evidence presented during the trial.

The judge did agree to provide the jury a definition of a "mistake of fact" which will say, in effect, that a defendant's state of mind can negate criminal intent. That goes to the heart of the defense theory that Davis thought he was acting on orders from a purported FBI agent when he met FBI informant David McCrory and discussed mass murder.

Should Davis be convicted, the jury then must decide his punishment — imprisonment from five to 99 years.

Davis, a 45-year-old industrialist, has been in jail since his arrest Aug. 20 on charges of plotting the kill-for-hire murder of Fort Worth Judge Joe Eidsen, who was presiding over the bitter divorce trial of the defendant and his estranged wife Priscilla.

Eidsen was unharmed and later removed himself from the divorce proceedings.

The state contends Davis asked his one-time friend McCrory to employ a gunman to kill the judge and later paid $25,000 when he thought Eidsen was dead.

The defense has argued that Davis was framed by his estranged wife, McCrory, and others.

The one missing link in the trial has been the defendant's younger brother, Bill Davis.

Lead defense attorney Richard "Racehorse" Haynes has insisted Bill Davis was the one who bankrolled the frame and has sought to have him brought to the trial as a witness.

Bill Davis has not been found since before Thanksgiving and his whereabouts are unknown. Efforts by the defense to serve him with a subpoena have failed repeatedly.

(AP WIREPHOTO) SNOWBOUND, HELPLESS AND COLD — This stranded motorist takes a rest from what appears to be a hopeless task — getting his snowbound auto free and started on Chicago's North Side on Monday. Nineteen-below-zero temperatures set a record for Chicago Monday morning, and snow began falling Monday afternoon — to add to the 29 inches already on the ground.

Death toll at 53

More snow forecast

CHICAGO (AP) — With new snowfall predicted for today, the Midwest struggled to cope with hip-deep snow that threatened to disrupt fuel and food supplies.

The storm-related death toll climbed to at least 53.

A 44-year-old Columbus, Ohio, man was found 12 feet from the front door of his home on Monday. Police said he apparently slipped on ice, couldn't get up, and died of exposure.

In the hard-hit Chicago area, where up to four inches of snow fell atop the 20.3 inches that arrived over the weekend, authorities counted 17 deaths linked to the city's worst storm since 1967.

There have been 18 reported deaths in Illinois, five in Kansas, four each in Missouri and Iowa, three in Michigan and one in Ohio and one in Nebraska.

The region remained locked in the storm's icy grip. Northern Illinois recorded one of its coldest days in history — 19 below, a temperature reached only five times since records have been kept. The wind-chill index in South Bend, Ind., reached -52.

Thousands of travelers spent another night in Chicago hotels because O'Hare International Airport — which closed for only the sixth time in its history on Saturday — was limited to one runway. A second runway was expected to reopen today.

Commuters — there are 2.25 million in Chicago — hitchhiked or faced two-hour delays due to icy elevated tracks and stalled buses.

The National Weather Service warned there would be at least 4 more inches of snow to contend with today in a new snowshower expected to hit the nation's second-largest city.

And Fred Ostby, deputy director of the National Weather Service in Kansas City, Kan., said a storm system in the West may hit Missouri and Kansas later in the week.

Ostby said it would be Wednesday or Thursday before he could predict the storm's path and intensity. He said it could pack more wallop than the wintry blast that hit over the weekend.

Illinois Gov. James Thompson declared a state of emergency in 22 counties Monday, and then left for a family vacation in Florida. The governors of Iowa and Kansas also declared emergencies.

The price of snow removal and emergency work in Illinois was set at $3.4 million by Monday, and rising, Thompson said.

Meanwhile, 2 to 3 inches of snow fell in the Sacramento Valley and the San Francisco area of California Monday, and avalanche warnings were issued in the eastern Sierras.

The rain was accompanied by lightning, an unusual occurrence in northern California, and more than 17,000 customers lost power when it struck transformers in Oakland.

National Guard troops using helicopters delivered hay to starving cattle in Iowa and similar rescue attempts were planned today in Missouri, where temperatures remained near-15 degrees.

Kansas farmers worried that some cattle already were dead — frozen under drifts of 10 feet or more. And experts warned that the high price of keeping animals alive would push up costs.

"It takes an awful lot of feed just to keep cattle warm," said Scott County agricultural agent Al Maddux in western Kansas.

Quit before pregnancy-smoking effect continues

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — New evidence indicates the negative effects of smoking continue even if women quit before pregnancy, says a major new study.

Data released Monday for the U.S. Collaborative Perinatal Project, which examined more than 50,000 pregnancies at 12 hospital centers, confirmed previous studies showing smoking during pregnancy increases disorders that kill the unborn and the newborn.

But Dr. Richard L. Naeye of Pennsylvania State University told the American Heart Association's annual science writers' forum he was particularly disturbed by the first data to indicate past smoking had an effect on later pregnancy.

He said placenta praevia and the presence of abnormally large areas of dead tissue on the placenta were more common for smoking mothers and were related to past smoking, measured as cigarettes per year over a period of time.

Placenta praevia is a condition in which the placenta is attached abnormally low in the womb, leading to dangerous complications during labor and birth.

Naeye said no one knows how long the effects of smoking continue after a woman quits, but he advised women contemplating pregnancy to give up smoking as early as possible before conception.

SHAH'S FAMILY POSSIBLE VISITORS — Early 1-16 am a surprise group of Iranians arrived at Reese Air Force Base here and were immediately transferred to the house of Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi. Officials refused comment but witnesses on the scene think the Shah's mother-in-law, & 3 of his children were among the group. Col. Ovasi, the Prince's Iranian military attache is shown leaving the bus. The Prince is taking flight training at Reese AFB.

Members of shah's family in Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Several members of the Iranian royal family flew to this West Texas city early today, joining Iran's crown prince as Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi fled his strife-torn nation.

An officer at Reese Air Force Base who asked not to be identified said a plane that arrived here early today carried the shah's mother-in-law and three of his children. The shah and Empress Farah left Iran secretly today after the lower house of Parliament gave final approval to the country's new civilian government.

The 59-year-old monarch and empress were reportedly headed for Egypt and the United States.

The flight that landed here apparently was an Imperial Iranian 707 jet that took off from McGuire Air Force Base, N.J. Monday night.

Witnesses here said a convoy of about 20 vehicles carried the jet's passengers to the crown prince's retreat in west Lubbock.

Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi, 17, is in pilot training at the air base in this city of nearly 165,000 people.

Local reporters said security at the prince's home — normally handled by off-duty Lubbock police officers, was being handled by U.S. State Department guards.

After the convoy arrived, the prince was seen playing with children in the lighted area of his back yard. The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal reported it had confirmed late Monday that Iranian government officials had rented rooms at a Lubbock hotel.

An Imperial Iranian 747 jet landed at McGuire earlier Monday, reportedly carrying members of the royal family who were then transferred to a smaller 707 Iranian jet.

Witnesses in Iran identified the royal family members as the shah's mother-in-law, Farideh Diba, and Princess Farahnaz, 15, Prince Alireza, 12, and Princess Layla, 8.

The shah's mother, Tadj el Moulouk, arrived in the United States last month, joining the shah's sister, Princess Chams, at the princess' estate in Beverly Hills, Calif.

The women took refuge at the estate of Walter Annenberg, former U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain, near Palm Springs, Calif., after about 2,000 Iranian anti-shah demonstrators besieged the princess' estate. The two women later moved to an undisclosed location.

American tourists fewer in Switzerland

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — All over Switzerland, hotel and restaurant owners and, particularly, officials at tourist offices are asking the same question: "Where are the Americans?"

"They used to be everywhere — by the lakes, in the mountains, on the highways. Now so many have left — and we need them back," said Peter Kuhn, press chief of the Swiss National Tourist Office.

In the first 11 months of last year — December figures are not yet available — 23 percent fewer Americans slept in Swiss hotels than the year before — a difference of 587,411, Kuhn pointed out.

The reason, of course, is the value of the dollar against the Swiss franc which, although up from last year's record low, is still not high enough to make Switzerland reasonable for the average U.S. tourist.

Kuhn estimates that last year's sudden tail-off of Americans cost his country close to $50 million. "The main area to suffer, as usual, were the resorts which depend heavily on U.S. tourists. There is very little we can do to change the pattern while the dollar remains so low and the franc so high," he said.

One thing Kuhn's office is doing, however, to tempt the American back is to eliminate what he describes as the "psychological factor" surrounding the much-publicized high rate of the franc.

"The American as a human being is an adventurous type of person. But as soon as he becomes a tourist he loses that adventurousness. What we are going to do is to try and convince him he can still afford to come here, on condition he looks for the bargain offers."

Kuhn's office and Swissair are launching what he calls an "image campaign" in the United States — "not denying Swiss prices, just telling the people we still exist and where they can get a cheaper deal."

Everyone who goes into a Swiss tourist office in the United States will soon receive a small booklet entitled "Unique Switzerland," Kuhn explained. "Instead of telling them about the big cities and the most expensive hotels, the booklet will advise how to get out of the city into the mountains, and so on. We hope it will work."

The biggest hotels are having their problems, trying to fill beds occupied in the past by Americans. Herbert Schott, managing director of the Intercontinental Hotel in Geneva, said that five years ago 45 percent of the hotel's clientele were American, about equally tourists and businessmen. "Now the figure is down to about 25 percent and almost

Sterling gift idea

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — State Rep. Abelard Brault visited Greece last year and picked up an idea for helping his fellow state senators deal with weighty matters of state.

The Virginia General Assembly majority leader returned from his trip with 39 sets of wooden worry beads, which he passed out to all his fellow senators except Sen. Peter K. Babalas.

It seems Babalas, of Greek ancestry and a frequent traveler to that country, already had a set — in sterling silver.

Even smoother sailing

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Navy has made a few changes in the sailor's way of life in recent months, but officials say they've only just begun.

Among the newest aboardship innovations are fast-food lines with hamburgers, french fries, milk shakes and pizza; electronic games; color-coordinated bunkrooms and barbers trained to give fuller haircuts than the traditional "buzz job." A Los Angeles interior decorator was hired to supervise renovation of dining halls used as bomb assembly areas during flight operations.

But Vice Admiral Robert V. Coogan, commander of Naval Air Force Pacific, says the trend to spruce up life at sea will move slowly, avoiding the idea the Navy is designing a cruise ship atmosphere.

"A ship is a man of war — we can't forget that," he reminds.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jewish Hospital is working on its food — it has chefs making hospital calls.

The chefs, imported from Cincinnati restaurants, supervise preparation of their specialties in the hospital kitchen. This week, "Petit Mignon Victor Hugo" is on the menu. Next week, "Seafood Brochette" will be the special fare.

The meals are part of a menu offering entrees like steaks and lamb chops for $4 extra to patients on regular diets.

The hospital calls it the gourmet dinners menu. But only the parents of newborns dine by candlelight.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — When U.S. Sen. Jim Sasser wanted to tell constituents he favors an efficient federal government, he used an efficient method — a news release. But something went awry.

Sixteen copies of the 11-paragraph report arrived at the offices of The Tennessean.

"We've just redone our computer list and we just found out there have been a lot of duplications," said Craven Crowell, press secretary for the Tennessee Democrat.

"We don't usually send out that many," he added Monday.

Opponents of China policy open attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional opponents of President Carter's China policy are opening a scattershot attack that threatens to delay the confirmation of Leonard Woodcock as ambassador to Peking and to disrupt the legislative schedule of Senate leaders.

Within a few hours of the 96th Congress' opening Monday, there was a flurry of proposals dealing with relations between the United States and Taiwan.

Opponents of Carter's decision to recognize mainland China at the expense of full diplomatic and military ties with Taiwan are expected to concentrate on three separate issues:

—The ambassadorial nomination of former United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock, announced Monday.

—A collection of legislative proposals to establish an American Institute in Taiwan to handle official dealings with that country.

—A move, led by Sen. Harry Byrd, to force Senate floor debate on the administration's China policy before Carter wants the discussion.

Meanwhile, it was announced that former President Richard M. Nixon will attend a White House dinner for Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping Jan. 29.

The visit will mark Nixon's first return to the White House since he resigned 4½ years ago. One White House official, who asked not to be named, said inviting Nixon "seemed the appropriate thing to do." He said Nixon was asked "because of his role in opening up the process of normalization" with China.

Former President Gerald R. Ford was also invited, but a Ford spokeswoman said he would be out of the country.

The Woodcock nomination, although not controversial itself, provides a likely target for opponents of Carter's China policy because a single senator can, under Senate rules, delay a confirmation.

Since Congress was not in session when Carter announced his new policy Dec. 15, Woodcock's testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would give opponents their first in-session opportunity to question it.

Woodcock, who has headed the U.S. liaison office since it opened in Peking in June 1977, has said he thought the confirmation hearing could become a "battleground."

The American Institute, which would replace the U.S. Embassy in Taiwan, would handle arms and trade arrangements with the Taipei government as well as passports, visas and contacts arising from 60 treaties between the two governments.

Hearings on the legislative package establishing the nonprofit, non-governmental corporation could come before or after the Woodcock nomination. The timing is up to Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Rift persists despite Carter's assurances

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rift between urban leaders and the White House over budget language persists despite President Carter's personal assurance that his new budget will provide more money for the poor.

"We find this extremely interesting," said John Gunther, director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, after Carter's promise of more money.

"But we continue to be fearful that the actual number of dollars available for fiscal 1980 will not come up to the current services level," Gunther said.

In an interview broadcast Monday by NBC News, Carter said, "We will have a substantial increase...in the total budget expenditures for the poor people of our country."

The president added, "I think when the budget is analyzed, these intense fears that did exist among city officials and special interest groups around the country will be substantially alleviated."

Carter did not say where the increased spending would come or how much he was adding to current budget levels in the social services area critical to recession-ridden cities with high unemployment and burgeoning welfare costs.

"You could have a very substantial increase in actual dollars but because of inflation those dollars would not buy the present level of services," Gunther said.

"The measure we've been working on is, will there be enough dollars to keep up current services," Gunther said. "And in light of what the president is saying tonight, we will certainly be looking forward to the details in his budget."

Weather

Warming trend over state continues today

By The Associated Press forecasts.

A warming trend continued over all of Texas today as forecasters called for cloudy skies and temperatures well above freezing.

Highs were to range from the 40s in the Panhandle to the 50s in Northeast Texas and the 60s in South Texas and Southeast Texas.

No precipitation was mentioned in the latest forecasts.

The most recent precipitation came Monday night in the form of some light showers near Corpus Christi and Palacios along the gulf coast.

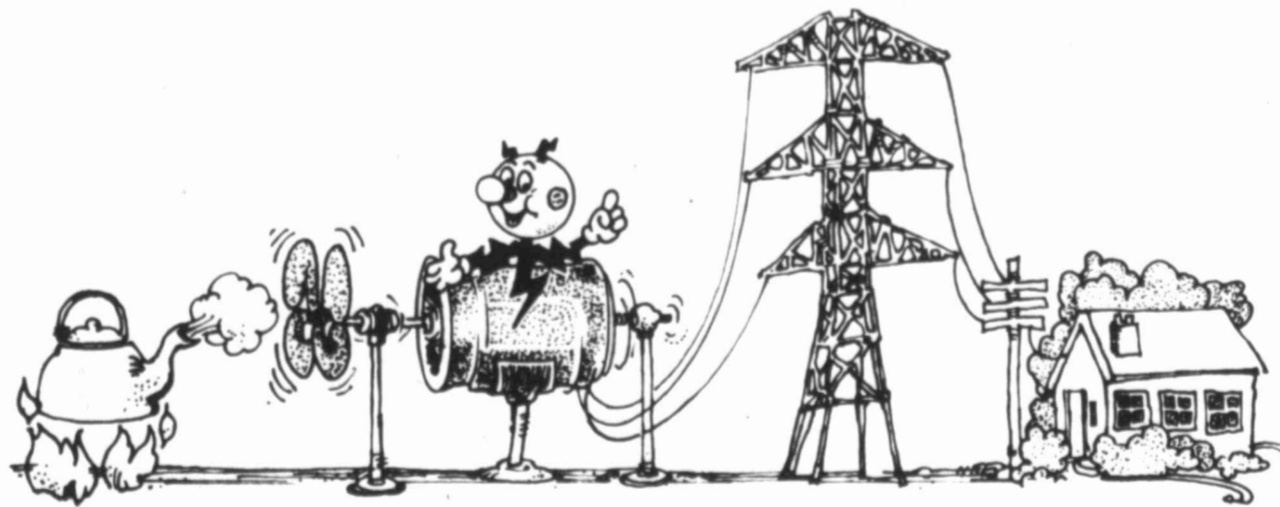

Some light fog was reported in East Texas early today. Early morning temperatures were mostly in the 40s with extremes ranging from 23 at San Angelo to 57 at Brownsville.

Here's why it takes fuel to make electricity.

It takes fuel to make electricity. A lot of people don't understand that, but it's true. Most of the power plants in this country require steam to generate electricity. To make steam you must boil water, and that requires a lot of heat. That's why we have to buy and burn large amounts of fuel, such as lignite coal and natural gas, every month. The steam we make with it turns the generators that make your electricity, which we distribute to you right when you need it. The fuel we use costs money, more all the time, which is why we show it separately on your bill. At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for. And to remember: it takes fuel to make electricity.

We should exercise caution in Nicaragua

A conspicuous gaggle of news people, Jack Anderson included, has suggested quite openly in recent months that America take a more active role in straightening out government affairs in Nicaragua.

Some of the coterie seems downright indignant that the U.S. Marines haven't landed on the beaches of the Central American nation and chased President Anastasio Somoza into the jungle.

FORTUNATELY, COOLER heads have prevailed in Washington. The last thing this nation needs is to start meddling into the affairs of any country, particularly one of our hemispheric neighbors.

Granted, Mr. Somoza hasn't steered his countrymen toward true democratic rule. Fact is, he's become rather notorious for lining his pockets with ill-gotten loot.

Some of the people who want the United States to take Somoza to the wall are the same ones who were screaming for America to pull out of Vietnam and, before that, Korea.

Getting involved in politics of other nations is sort of like burying one leg in quick sand. Getting out may seem easy at first but it's anything but that.

There's no doubt but that Somoza would have been sent packing a long time before now but for the fact that he's posed as a friend to American interests. The United States, to be frank, has done business with a lot of dictators around the world down through the years because it has been easier to deal with one man than with a battalion of firebrands who often promote disharmony with their political logic.

SOMOZA, LET IT be said, is no shining example of virtue and patriotism. Fact is, he's close to being an out-and-out scoundrel. For years now, he's run Nicaragua like a fiefdom. He has his hooks into every major business in Nicaragua — whether it be the national airlines, the shipping industry or in agriculture. Like the greediest of Hollywood agents, he takes his ten per cent off the top, sometimes a lot more.

Somoza also has a penchant for leaning on people who disagree with him. The extent of the atrocities committed by his hoods are not known but they are considerable. Some 5,000 Nicaraguans have been reported killed in the resistance movement. Many others arrested by the federal troops have been tortured.

A group of U.S. State Department officials deplaned in Managua, Nicaragua, shortly before Christmas, where it began helping draft plans for a national plebiscite.

Some observers think that conspires too much meddling in another nation's affairs. If the U.S. mission refuses to get involved in the moral issues at stake, serves only in an advisory capacity and then gets out, it will have performed a service to all mankind.

Anything more, and we could be in deep trouble.

Justice to story

Around the rim

Marie Homeyer

Last week I had the fortunate opportunity to visit the Mansion Dinner Theatre in Odessa. My first visit to a dinner theatre of any kind and it was great. I was very impressed.

I had been told several times about the layout of the place and the food and the stage setup and how nice it all was. But the vision I had conjured up from these descriptions did not come anywhere near the tremendous decor of the theatre. It was very, very nice.

THE PLAY BEING presented at the time was "Barefoot in the Park" featuring Dorothy Lamour. It was a very well done play. I had seen the movie version of the play that starred Jane Fonda and Robert Redford, so I knew basically what the play was about. I thoroughly enjoyed the movie version and I enjoyed the stage performance even more.

Dorothy Lamour played the part of the wealthy, widowed mother who was always buying her newly-married daughter wedding presents. She was superb in the part.

It was quite an adjustment when I first saw her. The publicity posters, I knew, were made from pictures taken of her a long time ago. But I realize how long ago they really were when I saw her enter. She gained quite a bit of weight. And, she dressed, I felt, too provocatively for a woman her age.

In the scene where the mother, along with her son-in-law and daughter join the upstairs neighbor at a "strange" food place for dinner and become totally intoxicated, Miss Lamour plays a great drunk. I have seen few people who can play the part of a drunk really well. Miss Lamour is one of those few people. Stumbling from chair to sofa, showing total exhaustion after climbing up six flights of stairs in her drunken conditions — that scene she played to perfection. Even to the point when she was so exhausted she plopped down in the lap of her son-in-law who had had to help her up the stairs.

The son-in-law, played by Christopher Woods, (the husband of Mary Ellen in the television series, The Waltons) was equally as good in his portrayal of the stuffed-shirt, rising young attorney. He was even better as the irate husband becoming very obstinate when told how nonsensical he was becoming. Woods, along with Miss Lamour and the telephone repairman, were the most outstanding members of the cast. They made the whole script come across as funny and believable. Without their acting the show would not have been as good as it was.

The script itself was fantastic. I have always liked Neil Simon's plays. The selection of actors and actresses to play the parts, along with the directing, did the script the justice it so well deserves.

The entire show was truly a command performance. I would enjoyed being able to see it again.

Ma Bell is out to please

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The telephone company has the image of being staid and old-fashioned. But Ma Bell can no longer be accused of sitting back and waiting for someone to deposit 20 cents into the phone box.

They're after business and, by gosh, they're getting it.

Here is a good example of how a giant company is creating new markets never dreamed of before.

OUT IN SEATTLE, Wash., the Pacific Northwest Bell Co. ran ads in both Seattle papers a few weeks before Christmas telling children they could speak to Santa Claus by dialing the number in the ad. It was a great idea and one that would warm the heart of any parent. The only trouble was the area code to be dialed was 212, which is New York City.

Many parents in the Seattle area thought this was dirty pool and that if the Pacific Northwest Bell really cared about Christmas they would have listed a local number where Santa could be reached.

But Jim Mozzette, a PNB spokesman, said the telephone company was trying to encourage long-distance calls and that if Santa Claus could be reached in Seattle by Seattle children it would not be worth the phone company's time.

He was quoted as saying, "We're a commercial enterprise and one of our main sources of revenue is long-distance calls. The ad was run to see if people would make calls and to generate enough long-distance revenues to make some profit to boot."

ACCORDING TO reports, 15,000 to 20,000 children made the calls and heard a one-minute recording from Santa. But there was such a flap about it from Seattle parents that the FTC regional director suggested PNB refund the cost of the calls. The phone company thought this was a stupid idea, and said they were willing to discuss refunds with parents but only on a "case by case" basis.

As a stockholder in the telephone company I am delighted that it is finally putting some imagination into increasing the use of its equipment. The idea of having kids call Santa Claus long distance is just the beginning.

I can see the day when Boston children will be urged to telephone the Easter Bunny in Hawaii, and Atlanta tykes will be inducted to dial Anchorage, Alaska, to hear a message from the tooth fairy.

Further possibilities are long-distance calls to The Daily Planet, Area Code 416 (Toronto, Canada), which would give a child in New Orleans a chance to chat with Superman, and Salt Lake City children could phone London, England, to listen to a recorded message from the Queen.

The beauty of encouraging children to call long-distance is that, while the cost of the minute may be relatively cheap, most kids tend to hang on much longer in the hopes that Santa Claus or whoever is on the other end will have more to say. I've seen six- and seven-year-olds hold the phone to their ear for 10 minutes utterly fascinated by whatever is being said at the other end of the line. While the idea of dialing New York from Seattle may not be a big deal for an adult it's still a thrill for a little kid, and it means money in the bank for the phone company.

No one knows who the genius was at Pacific Northwest Bell who thought up the idea of getting kids to call Santa long-distance, but I sincerely hope that the person involved gets the recognition he or she so richly deserves.

Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone but he never appreciated the commercial potentiality of his device.

Study shows drug effect in hyperactivity

By Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you tell me if there are any ill effects from using the drug Ritalin? My daughter has been tested and found to be hyperactive. The doctor feels this medicine will help her, especially in school, but I would like to know a little bit more about it. — Mrs. B.M.

The generic (non-commercial) name for the medicine is methylphenidate hydrochloride. It is a stimulant that acts on the central nervous system, and has been used effectively in youngsters with MBD (minimal brain dysfunction). That may include hyperactivity involving short attention span, emotional swings, etc. It is considered safe for children over age six.

Any medicine that affects the central nervous system must be used cautiously and with careful monitoring. It can aggravate symptoms such as anxiety in some youngsters. The doctor will probably go over these matters with you if you agree to the treatment.

I have a report of a recent study involving effects of this drug used for hyperactive children, which I'm glad to pass on. The study was conducted among 53 hyperactive youngsters at the Learning Clinic of the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, Canada.

The study indicated that 30 percent of those using it had adverse effects. One object of the study was to determine how soon long-term results from the drug could be predicted. Previously this took a long time. In the Canadian study it was found that results could be predicted the same day treatment began. The research was conducted by Dr. James Swanson of the Toronto facility.

Use of drugs in hyperactive children is effective over the long haul only when combined with psychological counseling and the cooperation of parents and teachers.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can shingles occur on both sides of the body at once? I have heard this is dangerous, and that if it completely encircles the body, death can result. True? — B.P.

Shingles (herpes zoster) can occur on both sides, but it's rare. Shingles is almost always one-sided. The herpes virus attacks a ganglion (nerve root) and creeps along a particular nerve, eventually causing the blisters (blisters). No truth to the old tale about encirclement causing death.

L.E. asks how long a typical shingles attack lasts. There is no "typical" attack. The length of discomfort and the extent of it varies with individuals and with age. One study showed that an entire attack, from appearance of the blisters to the last lingering pain, may take about a month for people under 30, longer for those over 40. It may last as long as a year in half of those over 70. In some it has lasted several years with recurrences of nerve sensitivity (not new infections) during that time. There are cases on record where shingles has caused discomfort for as long as 15 years. For further reading the booklet, "Facts About Shingles" is available. Send 20 cents to cover printing and handling to me care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Where does the word "tinnitus" come from? It means ear noises. As long as I have it I might as well know, I guess. — B.W.

It comes from a Latin word that means "ringing." Has nothing to do with tin poisoning, as one reader suggested. In English, this gave birth to the wonderful word, "tinnitulation," meaning the ringing of bells. I hope you've been examined for your ear ringing. This can often be helped with proper diagnosis and treatment, no matter what others have told you (which you report elsewhere in your note).

My answer

Billy Graham

Dear Dr. Graham: I have become very interested in astrology. I think it may be God's way of guiding us in our lives, but our pastor disagrees. What do you think? — J.A.F.

Dear J.A.F.: I must agree with your pastor, because the Bible is very clear on this matter. There is no real reason to believe that God uses astrology to guide us. In fact you can know it is not true if you look carefully at what God's Word says about it.

The Bible treats astrology as it does sorcery and other occult practices that are spiritual (and even satanic) counterfeits. Astrology was very common in the ancient pagan but it was strictly forbidden for God's people in both the Old and New Testaments. "Divination," the general term used in the Old Testament, included astrology. Deuteronomy 18:9-14 clearly forbids its practice. Isaiah mocked the pagan astrologers (Isaiah 47:13), as did Jeremiah (Jer. 10:12). In the New Testament one of the signs of conversion for those who had been involved in such practices was that they turned their backs on them, (see Acts 19:19). Instead of being God's means of guidance, the stars are really a witness to God's power and glory. Astronomers attest to the enormity of our universe — yet God created all of it, and is far greater than it. The Bible says, "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handiwork" (Psalms 19:1). The Bible also says, "For since the creation of the world, God's invisible qualities — his eternal power and divine nature — have been clearly seen, being understood from what has been made, so that men are without excuse" (Romans 1:20, New International Version).

God has given us His Word, the Bible. He also has given us the Holy Spirit to guide us. Don't be taken in by something that is wrong — learn to trust God and His Word for your guidance every day.

Dear Dr. Ruble: How do you pronounce your name? I'm sure other people would like to know. — Mrs. M.R.

Pronounce it "Roo-bul."

Dear Dr. Ruble: Can you explain for me why a diet for a person with low blood sugar should be the same as for a person with diabetes, which, as I understand, means too much blood sugar? — J.A.

The two problems are not the same although, granted, each emphasizes careful spacing of food. One reason sweets are not to be overdone by the person with low blood sugar is that the presence of sugar in the blood may prompt activity of the pancreas, which secretes a substance (insulin). Insulin is important for the metabolism (using up) of sugar. Thus a heavy sugar meal might prompt increased production of insulin and the "burning" of sugar excessively. For the person with a hypoglycemia problem this might cause a rebound low blood sugar level, producing symptoms. Hence a protein-rich diet is recommended.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Ruble, in care of the Big Spring Herald, for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures." Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Stock still high

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — There is a fascinating human story behind the rise and fall of Bert Lance, the rustic sophisticate, who hobnobs with White House muckamucks and Arab potentates while he is under federal investigation. He has left in his wake a financial farrago, a White House scandal and a possible suicide.

He came out of the genteel Southern town of Calhoun, Ga., where he worked his will with the finesse of one of his prize bulls. As the town's dominant personality, he kept the townfolk cowed but contented. Yet Lance could be a one-man stampede. If aroused, who trampled down his opposition.

HIS BEGINNINGS were modest enough; he was the son of a low-paid school official. But Big Bert resolved to go after three things: an advantageous marriage, a million dollars and the governorship of Georgia. He got the first two but narrowly missed the governorship.

He wooed and won LaBelle David, thus marrying into the most prominent family in town. The Davids owned the Calhoun First National Bank, which Lance quickly took over. As one intimate put it, Bert simply out-talked and out-backslapped his in-laws.

The bank was the most important establishment in the small town. As its president, Lance loomed massively in Calhoun. He developed a taste for expensive pinstripe suits, Lincoln Continentals and private planes.

He also acquired, in quick succession, a large family home in Calhoun, a 400-acre farm a few miles out of town, a 50-room mansion in Atlanta and a family retreat at Sea Island, Ga. Lance hauled still another six-room house from town to the farm. This guest house, tastefully remodeled, is known inside the family as "Eagle's Nest." The manor house is called "Lancelot." But the white picket fence around the farm has no name on the gate.

With his Dun and Bradstreet rating as a millionaire established, Bert Lance turned his attention to the governorship. He attached himself to the political bandwagon of Jimmy Carter and quickly became one of the good ole boys around Carter. Intimates insist that Lance is still a member in good standing of Carter's tight little inner circle.

After Carter stepped down as governor, Lance tried to succeed him in 1974. As a banker, he knew how to arrange loans from his campaign, and as a gentleman farmer, he knew how to spread the fertilizer around. He far outspent his opponents. But unhappily, two of them got more votes in the Democratic primary.

THE REDOUTABLE Lance ran up a campaign debt of nearly $600,000 and a personal fortune in excess of $1 million. This included several hundred thousand shares of stock, curiously, in dozens of obscure corporations.

According to sworn testimony, he raised some of the money by manipulating loans in the names of friends and relatives. Federal investigators found a bewildering confusion of notes and overdrafts that he had handled in different names.

One unfortunate in-law, Beverly Banks David, was found dead in his own car on Nov. 24, 1974. The medical examiner in David's home town of Jefferson City, Mo., ruled that the death was accidental, caused by carbon monoxide poisoning.

But sources close to the family believe David committed suicide.

Court records show that he had overdrafts on two separate checking accounts at Lance's bank for $55,383 and $18,061. The dead man also had nine outstanding notes at the Calhoun bank totaling $181,000. Yet his assets at the time of his death were set at $4,177.

Our sources claim that David's widow, Linda, was shocked to learn of his indebtedness and asked Lance to release some of his assets to settle the state. Lance allegedly turned her down. Her attorney, Clarence Hawk, instructed her not to speak with reporters. Nor would he discuss the case, except to say they were still "legal matters" pending.

Lance went on, meanwhile, to a bigger Atlanta bank, the National Bank of Georgia. Under his management, this bank made its largest loans to Jimmy Carter's peanut business — a whopping $4.7 million. A federal grand jury has questioned the president's brother, Billy Carter, about one loan for $1 million from Lance's bank, but Billy took the Fifth Amendment.

President Carter's first choice to come to the White House with him, he told us a year ago, was Bert Lance. On the eve of Lance's nomination as budget director, the U.S. attorney in Atlanta abruptly closed an investigation into Lance's financial manipulations. But a new grand jury investigation was ordered after Lance resigned under fire in September 1977.

Back in Calhoun, meanwhile, the folks have not lost their faith in Lance. Mrs. William B. David, an aunt, spoke for the family. "He is an absolutely wonderful boy," she said fiercely. She added that "we're fed up to the gills with the publicity he has been receiving. We've got nothing but good things to say about Bert. The people in Calhoun just love Bert."

This appears to be true. We sent a reporter to Calhoun, and he found almost everyone united behind the embattled Lance. "In Calhoun," drewled one neighbor, "there is almost hero worship of Lance." Said another: "I gave never known a person so universally accepted by a community as Bert Lance is in Calhoun."

Footnote: We have made repeated attempts to interview Lance. He has failed to respond to our inquiries. Our offer to publish his comments, however, is still open.

Russians zero in on hamburgers

It took the Russian press four and a half years to get around to commenting on Richard Nixon's Watergate problems but it turned against the disenfranchised president and McDonald's hamburgers all in the same day.

Of Nixon, the Russian press said recently "Nixon is a politician entangled in intrigues and lies."

The Soviet newspapers then aimed their guns at Big Mac, calling hamburgers "junk food which undermines health, a clearly poor quality product."

That's taking a cheap shot at an American institution. There's an old capitalistic proverb which says: Don't knock it, til you've tried it.

Three Texans introduce bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen led a trio of Texans in introducing new legislation on the first day of the 96th Congress.

The Democrat put some modifying touches on some year-old bills dealing with beef imports and government paper work while Rep. Jack Hightower, D-Texas, reintroduced his version of a flexible parity farm pricing bill. Freshman Rep. Tom Loeffler, R-Texas, was among 100 House members who co-sponsored Florida Republican L.A. Bafalis' bill calling for a Constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget and repayment of the national debt.

Texas' senior senator — Republican John Tower — did not announce any specific legislative initiatives on Monday but after being reelected without opposition to a fourth term as chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee noted "several important matters which will receive early consideration" by GOP members of the senate.

"We will address ourselves to both economic matters and foreign policy and national security matters," said Tower. "One thing I very much want to get at and that is the basic causes of inflation; one of these being productivity, another being government spending. These are two areas of concern I expect to begin work on right away."

Bentsen's new beef imports bill contains a modification that increases presidential authority to raise beef quotas. President Carter vetoed a similar Bentsen bill on Nov. 10, 1978, saying the bill curbed his power to increase imports when domestic supplies are inadequate.

The timing of the veto — eight days after the general elections — angered Texas Democrats and cattlemen who had strongly backed the bill. The measure had passed the House 289-66 and the Senate by voice vote.

"The president has said that he must have authority to increase imports to protect consumers...The counter-cyclical import formula in my bill is intended to do this, but he still wishes to retain his authority just in case," said Bentsen.

This year's version of the bill "will allow this," added Bentsen. "When domestic beef supplies are bountiful, the president could raise the quotas only in case of a national emergency or natural disaster. But the bill would leave the president his existing authority when domestic supplies are short and the counter-cyclical formula is increasing imports."

Cartwright no longer in legislative limbo

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Rep. Don Cartwright, D-San Antonio, no longer is in a state of legislative limbo.

The Texas House voted unanimously Monday to reject an election contest filed by Kae Thomas Patrick, a Republican whom Cartwright defeated by 738 votes in the Nov. 7 General Election.

With Cartwright and Rep. Brad Wright, R-Houston, shown as present and not voting, the House voted 136-0 to permanently seat Cartwright.

Cartwright, a two-term member, had been temporarily seated since the legislative session opened Jan. 9 and had taken part in all House votes.

A select House committee had heard testimony and arguments in Patrick's contest and reported back it could find no evidence that would justify seating Patrick or throwing out the Nov. 7 results and calling for a new election.

Patrick's lawyer, Tom Joseph of San Antonio, repeated the argument made to the committee that Patrick was denied Republican votes by an allegedly illegal redistricting in 1973.

But the committee said the Legislature acted within its rights in changing district boundaries ordered in 1972 by a federal court.

"I wonder if Mr. Patrick would have contested or refused to take his seat if he had won," said Buck Wood of Austin, Cartwright's attorney.

Joseph also protested the committee's refusal to receive testimony concerning Cartwright's arrest.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JAN. 17, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You could be too tied down to do a satisfactory performance on a new project, so make sure you don't become involved in new interests. Impress others with your talents.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have promised to handle some important matters for others, so make sure you don't disappoint them. Be logical.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Once your work is done today, engage in recreational activities that you enjoy. Think more optimistically about the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The situation at home now is not as you would like it, so take steps to establish more harmony there. Make a fine impression on others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Dig up all the information you can that will make life easier in your regular routines. Strive for happiness.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get right estimates for any repair work you have to do and don't be taken in by some possible profiteer. Attend the social tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Give added attention to personal affairs so you can have greater success in that realm of your activities. Improve your appearance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle all those accumulated duties and get them out of the way for more important things ahead. Show devotion to mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you are not sure about your personal aims, sit down and clarify them. A friend can assist you to gain some aim in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have been concentrating on inside matters too much of late so focus your attention on outside affairs today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want to engage in new projects now, but it is better to study them thoroughly first. Take needed health treatments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you use modern methods, you can perform your duties more efficiently. Make better arrangements for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talk over with associates whatever new ideas you have and cement better relations with them. Take more interest in community affairs.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do very well at whatever has to do with communications, writing, handling written material, etc. Give a good education to make the most of these potentials, and then there could be fame in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Nation-wide talent search is under way

The Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising announced the launching of its ninth annual talent search. FIDM, a two-year college accredited by WASC and AICS, specializes in training people for professions in fashion merchandising, fashion design, and interior design.

The "Designer of Tomorrow" contest is a nation-wide talent search for the most gifted young fashion designer. The competition is open to all 1979 high school graduates and older students who are interested in a fashion career. Participants compete for a $2,800 scholarship to the college and a two-week study tour of Europe.

Well-known personalities from the worlds of entertainment and fashion will serve as contest judges. The experts who will assist in the selection of the winner include Edith Head, internationally famous designer and multi-Oscar winner; Bob Mackie and Ray Aghayan, whose award-winning designs are worn by many of the nation's most

"Not quite 18" and other poems

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

It's that wonderful time again when I present the writings of three teens in the form of poetry. Welcome to Valerie Gunter, 17, of Oklahoma City, Okla., Lynn Clark, 15, of Elizabethtown, Ky., and Cheri Donner, 16, of Michigan City, Ind.

NOT QUITE EIGHTEEN
I am at a most precarious age called not quite eighteen, Standing suspended between childhood and adulthood, Peering cautiously into each, yet not wanting to move either forwards or backwards. Wavering, waiting to test my wings, but not quite ready to fly.

All at once finding the rest of my life being thrust at me. Decisions to be made, challenges to be met.

I am standing at the edge of a great ocean, wetting my feet, still afraid to dive in. — Valerie Gunter

WHO ME?
Prejudice, you say? Well, who's fault is that? We were not born this way. Discriminate? Yes: Against sex, race, religion, color And against political preference, Because of fear, and ignorance, We discriminate against you. Prejudice and

Active look is popular

COLLEGE STATION — Athletic shoes, both real and real-looking, help create that "active" look this year.

Whether or not a person's a jogger or tennis player, for fashion or fun create an "active" look from head to toe anyway, says Becky Culp, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

As evidence, athletic shoes are booming in sales and account for 25 percent of all men's, women's and children's shoes sold. During 1977, sales of athletic shoes increased 12 to 16 percent over the previous year's, Mrs. Culp reports.

Interest in physical fitness, casual dress, comfort and competitive pricing are among the reasons athletic shoes are increasing in popularity.

Projections for Spring '79 indicate that best sellers will be nylon and suede trimmed models in the $10 to $30 price range.

Also popular will be the slightly more expensive all-suede or leather — suede combinations and the less expensive all-canvas ones.

Irregardless of the look, never sacrifice fit for fashion, the specialist urges. Buy shoes in mid- to late-day when feet are the largest. Wear the same number and type of socks usually worn.

Look for proper fit from heel to ball to toe, especially along the arch. If the shoes don't feel right at the store, they won't feel right later.

Old, worn or discarded similar shoes can serve as a guide for what to look for and what to avoid when buying, Mrs. Culp adds.

discrimination exist. Because we pass them Down. Before accusing Look close at home, We may be surprised. — Lynn Clark

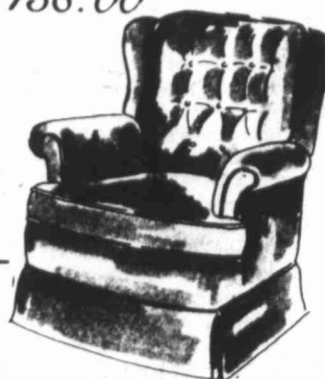

You may be close to me But you don't really know me. I'm a human being, With feelings for other people. I need you, and I want you. But don't run my life. — Cheri Donner

IT'S MY LIFE
Let me live my life The way I want to. Let me make mistakes, So I understand. Let me love someone, The one I want to. I'm the one that suffers, If I made a mistake. I'll never understand why, If I never get a chance. I have to prove to myself If I'm wrong or right, I can't take your word for it. Because you don't really know.

During labor, delivery

Painkillers affect child

By STEVEN R. HURST Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The children of women given pain-killing drugs during labor and delivery are slower to sit up, stand and walk than those babies whose mothers received no drugs, a new government report shows.

And the study shows that the effects of inhaled anesthetics, such as ether, may cause permanent, if slight, brain damage to children of women who are administered those general anesthetics during childbirth. Results of the study by Drs. Sarah H. Broman and Yvonne Brackhill for the National Institute of Neurological and Communicative Disorders and Stroke NINCDS, will be made public Monday.

The doctors said the importance of their study for the future is the "...misconception that the number of drugs delivered during labor and delivery is decreasing, when in point of fact it is increasing, as are the number of drugs taken prenatally." The study showed, however, that the effects of some of the local anesthetics — as opposed to the general anesthetic inhaled — diminish and even disappear with time.

"But in others, principally inhaled anesthetics, the associations persisted through the first year," the doctors concluded.

Their report is one of many written from data gathered during a six-year NINCDS Collaborative Perinatal Project. That project covered the years 1959-1965 and involved the study of 3,528 full-term babies born to healthy mothers with no-risk pregnancies.

Of the 3,528 women studied for the research, most received some form of drugs with 669 or 19 percent taking the inhaled general anesthetic, 2,259 taking only local pain-killers and 600 receiving both.

From the data of the collaborative project and continuing research, the doctors concluded in a summary of the report that:

"Overall, there were highly significant associations between the infant's development through the first year and medication during labor and delivery...The relationships between anesthetics and motor development such as sitting up were particularly noticeable."

Nursing A Grudge

DEAR ABBY: My wife, Bess, is a registered nurse. She worked until our children came along, but quit to be a full-time mother. The kids are all out of school, and Bess went back to part-time nursing because she enjoys it. I have a good income and it's not necessary for her to work at all. My mother recently suffered a serious stroke. She divorced my father when I was four, and devoted her life to raising me. She made many sacrifices to send me to the best schools, etc. Mother is in the hospital now, but when she is well enough, I want her to make her home with us. No way will I put her in a nursing home.

I told Bess this and she said, "Fine, but you had better plan on getting someone in to take care of her because I am going back to work full-time."

I was shocked. My wife, a registered nurse, would rather care for strangers than stay at home and nurse my mother! She knows I never could repay my mother for all she's done for me. What do you make of this?

MIXED EMOTIONS

DEAR MIXED: Your wife obviously does not share your deep feeling of obligation insofar as your mother is concerned. Hire a nurse to take care of your mother and take good care of yourself.

DEAR ABBY: I was divorced at 57, after 30 years. I lost my husband to his secretary, who was 25.

I soon found out that men my age prefer women half my age. I didn't want to settle for a sick old man.

I joined the weird world of wandering widows, and made the best of it.

I got a job and decided to be good to myself, instead of waiting on a man who'd never appreciate it.

I still weigh 130, have beautiful clothes, do what I want to do, eat when I'm hungry, sleep when I'm tired, and have had some exotic vacations!

I have never been happier! And as for my ex-husband—who needs him?

H. IN BENSONVILLE, ILL.

DEAR H.: That 25-year-old girl he married.

DEAR ABBY: Whenever I've seen a letter in your column about a family feud, I've wanted to write and tell you about my own experience, but never got around to it. Today I'm getting it off my chest with the hope that some feuding families will patch up their foolish quarrels.

When I was in my teens, my parents and an aunt and uncle got into an argument about some petty thing that got so blown out of proportion they quit speaking to each other. My cousins and I still associated with each other, but we didn't go into each other's houses because of our feuding parents.

Things went on that way until one morning our phone rang at 7. It was my aunt calling to tell us that her son had been killed in Vietnam. My folks went over there immediately and, of course, the feud was forgotten.

I hope other families who are feuding will open their eyes and put their petty grievances aside before it takes tragedy to bring them together.

Sexual equality accepted

Younger persons generally accept sexual equality, says Debby Johnson, family life education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University system.

Persons ages 18-29 are more likely than ages 30-44 to share wage-earning and child care responsibilities, the specialist says.

Deaths

P. Johnston

LUBBOCK — Preston Johnston, 58, of Lubbock, a former star football player for Southern Methodist University, died here at 8 a.m., Monday in Methodist Hospital following a short illness.

Services are scheduled for 11 a.m., Wednesday in the Lubbock First Baptist Church. Burial will occur in Resthaven Memorial Park.

In recent years, Mr. Johnston had been a prominent business man and civic worker in Lubbock.

Mr. Johnston was a running back and star punter for SMU in 1940-41. He still holds the Southwest Conference punt record with a 92-yard kick. He lettered at SMU four years and twice was named to the All-Southwest Conference team.

Many labeled him as "the greatest sophomore player of all time" at SMU. He later played professionally for the Yankees and the Buffalo Bisons in the old All-American Conference.

The WW II veteran helped coach the College of Pacific team, when Amos Alonzo Stagg was head coach there. A native of Newcastle, Tex., Preston played in the first Texas All-Star football game.

He was a member of the Wayland Baptist College board of trustees for 20 years.

Survivors include his wife, Jimmie Lea; two sons and a daughter, all of Lubbock, along with three grandchildren.

John M. Wise

Services for John Marion Wise, 56, who died at 8:30 p.m. Sunday at a local hospital following a lengthy illness, will be at 1:30 p.m. Thursday at Fort Bliss National Cemetery, El Paso, under the direction of Larry D. Sheppard Funeral Home.

Officiating at the full military service will be the chaplain of the National Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Alice and one son, Karl A. Wise, both of Big Spring; and two sisters, Wyevette Sager and Andrea Bennett, both residing in California.

John Oliver

Services for John Frank Oliver, 75, a retired railroad man who died in a Big Spring Hospital early Monday morning, will be held at 2 p.m., Wednesday in the Higginbotham Funeral Home Chapel in Cross Plains.

Officiating will be Audy Moore, minister of the North Main Church of Christ in Cross Plains. Burial will take place in the Cross Plains Cemetery.

Mr. Oliver was born in Cross Plains Feb. 27, 1903. A one-time resident of Baird, who had resided in Big Spring the past 30 years. A locomotive engineer, he worked for the T & P Railway over 40 years before retiring.

Survivors include four half sisters, Beulah Matley, Needles, Calif., Lela Taylor and Margaret Leech, both of San Pablo, Calif., and Idelia Haigin, Tempe, Ariz., a half brother, W.H. Oliver Jr., Riff, Okla.; his stepmother, Mrs. W.H. Oliver Sr., Tempe, Ariz.; five foster daughters, Bea Kirkeeny, Fresno, Calif., Lindal Sarinana, Big Spring, Aggie Padillo, Nancy Coker and Belinda Settles, all of Amarillo; a foster son, Manuel Saso Jr., Big Spring; 15 foster grandchildren; a foster great-grandchild; four aunts and an uncle.

E. Vanderbilt

Memorial services for Eugene Vanderbilt, 35, who died Friday night as the result of a gunshot wound, were at 11 a.m. Monday in River-Welch Funeral Chapel with Rev. T.A. Williams officiating.

A second service will be at 3 p.m. today in the Bethel Baptist Church in Rule, with burial to follow in Rule Cemetery. Local arrangements are being made by River-Welch Funeral Home.

WELCOME TO WASHINGTON — Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, center, along with his family chats with House Speaker Tip O'Neill Monday in Washington after being sworn in.

Cotton prices are lower, trading brisk

Cotton prices are lower, but trading is active since a considerable amount of cotton has been selling, reports B.B. Manly of USDA Marketing Service Office, Abilene.

Trading is around four to five cents below offers in mid-December, and prices ranged from 1050 to 1150 for most qualities available this week.

Grade 42, Staple 32, Mike 35 to 49 brought 54 to 55 cents per pound. Mixed quality lots brought from 53 to 55 cents per pound.

The quality of cotton classed in Abilene this past week was slightly lower than that classed the previous week. Grades were 43 percent white and 52 percent light-spotted. Fiber strength was 59 percent, staple 32; 22 percent, staple 33, and 16 percent, staple 31.

UTPB offers local courses

More students are needed for the University of Texas of the Permian Basin upper level graduate and undergraduate courses being offered on the Howard College campus.

A junior and senior level statistics course, PED 489, selected topics in statistics, is offered Thursday evenings with Dr. Bob Gerry, UTPB professor, as instructor.

Law enforcement officers can enroll in the junior level CJUS 300, criminal justice (police in America) course with Dr. Roy LeGrand of UTPB instructing.

Both of the classes are three semester hour courses and anyone with 54 hours and enrolled in lower level classes to make a minimum of 60 hours, as well as students with 60 or more hours of college credit are eligible to enroll.

On the graduate level, the education course, PED 671, group techniques for counselors, is offered on Wednesday evenings with Dr. Jaramillo of the UTPB faculty instructing.

Students interested in any of the courses is invited to meet with the UTPB coordinator in the Horace Garrett Building at 5:45 p.m. Wednesday or Thursday, or contact Virginia Smith, 267-8360.

Albert Collazo

Albert T. Collazo, 22, victim of an apparent kidnap-murder, was found Monday in Crockett County.

Services are pending at Sheppard Funeral Home here.

Born March 5, 1956 in San Antonio, Mr. Collazo was night auditor for Sheridan Inn in San Antonio.

Survivors include his mother Gregoria Collazo of San Antonio, four sisters and four brothers.

Jesus Vasquez

LAMESA — Services for Jesus Vasquez, 19, of Lamesa will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in St. Margaret-Mary's Catholic Church with Monsignor Jerome Vitek, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Lamesa Cemetery under direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Vasquez was dead at 3:45 a.m. Sunday on arrival at Medical Arts Hospital from injuries he suffered minutes earlier in a one-car accident. Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Faustino Vasquez Sr., of Lamesa; three sisters, Mary Jan Sanchez of Lamesa and Roselinda and Gloria Vasquez, both of the home; and six brothers, Faustino Jr., Vincent, Ray, Joe, Frank, and Rupert, all of Lamesa.

Police beat Thugs loot church safe

Burglars were busy in Big Spring recently.

They hit the First Presbyterian Church, 701 Runnels, sometime Sunday night, damaging two doors and two windows, and making off with $80 in cash. The money had been locked in the church safe, and, including damages, total loss came to $163.91.

Intruders broke out a window at the K&M Service Station, 808 N. Lamesa, to get to vending machines inside, Monday night. Once inside, the burglars rifled cigarette, soda and candy machines. Including damage, loss was estimated at $100.50.

At another service station, Hanson Discount Gas, 2311 S. Gregg, vandals broke a wall panel in a glass booth there. Damage was estimated at $20.

Vandals used a BB gun to pump holes in windshields and passenger windows on a 1956 Chevrolet sedan and a 1953 Chevrolet pickup belonging to Chon Yanez, 1009 W. 8th. The damage was done sometime Saturday, and totaled $350.

Sneak thieves ripped off two hubcaps from a Ford pickup belonging to T.G. Harris, 4000 Parkway, over the weekend. Loss was estimated at $50.

Three mishaps were reported Monday. Vehicles driven by Cathy Walker, 615 Bucknell, and Ruth Budke, 3621 Dixon, collided at FM 700 and Goliad, 1 p.m.

Vehicles driven by Richard Hodnett, Coahoma, and Yolanda Anderson, Gail Route, collided at Second

Contracts to be signed by police due here soon

Legal contracts to be signed by local police in their suit against the city are expected to arrive "any day," said Detective John Burson.

The contracts between local officers and Austin Attorney Dewey Hicks will specify that police seek compensation for overtime they claim went unpaid by the city.

"I want to stress that although I am the president of the (Big Spring) Police Association, this suit is not the action of the association. Some members are involved and some aren't," said Burson. "The local chapter of the I.B.P.O. (International Brotherhood of

Stenholm to champion 'Burleson Amendment'

Cong. Charles W. Stenholm, D-Texas, announces that one of his first actions in the 96th Congress will be to introduce legislation to extend the so-called "Burleson Amendment" to the Social Security Act, which expired last Dec. 31.

The current law expired when the 95th Congress, in its final days, failed to conclude action on the Medicare Amendment legislation, which contained a provision to make permanent the Burleson Amendment, originally designed to aid rural hospitals in meeting Medicare requirements for nursing staff.

Cong. Stenholm will push for early passage of this legislation which he feels is vital to rural area hospitals. The newly elected Congressman hopes to continue the leadership of his predecessor in the area of rural health care.

BSSH Volunteer Services Council to host awards event

The Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Services Council will host the annual awards luncheon for volunteers Thursday at noon in the Allred Building on the hospital campus.

Volunteers from Big Spring, Midland, Colorado City, Lamesa and Ackerly will be awarded pins and bars for volunteer service to BSSH patients during the past year by hospital Superintendent Grace Ferguson, M.D., M.P.H., and Assistant Superintendent Adolph Supak, M.H.A.

The Sixth Annual Jack Y. Smith Award for exemplary volunteer service will be given to an outstanding volunteer or volunteer group at this luncheon.

AIME books Kane for talk

Arthur V. Kane of Chevron U.S.A., Inc., Central Region in Denver, Colo., will address the Permian Basin Section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME at 6:30 o'clock this evening at the Ranchland Hills Country Club in Midland.

His speech — "Enhanced Oil Recovery by CO2 Processing — Project Design, Operation and Economic Factors" — will include the processes involved in CO2 flooding and the theoretical response in a typical oil reservoir. He will compare these responses with actual operation of the SACROC Unit of the Kelly Snyder Field in West Texas, the largest commercial application of the CO2 oil recovery process.

City Manager Harry Nagel said that he had been unaware of the situation, and that a solution to the problem could have been reached within proper channels without resorting to a lawsuit.

Firemen fight mobile home flames in vain

COAHOMA — Coahoma, Westbrook and Colorado City firemen battled a mobile home blaze for over an hour Monday afternoon without success.

The new home with an estimated value of $25,000 was in the process of being transported to a sale site by National Trailer Convoy Company when the blaze began.

According to Coahoma Fire Marshall Kenneth Lawhon, the fire occurred on Interstate 20 in Mitchell County about 14 miles from the Coahoma Fire Department. Driver of the truck pulling the home was Tom Faulkner.

"We got the call from Howard County Sheriffs Department at 5 p.m.," Lawhon said. "But we couldn't get there in time to save the home. The fire had spread too quickly."

Combating the fire was Bruce Allen, assistant fire chief of Coahoma, and six firemen and one truck from Coahoma, a truck from Westbrook and two trucks from Colorado City.

Lawhon theorized that the fire began when the exhaust system of the truck ignited a fire in the mobile home insulation which then spread quickly through the rest of the home via the air conditioning system.

Albright will attend regional CAB meeting

Bill Albright, executive vice president of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, will attend the third of nine regional meetings of the Civil Aeronautics Board, which takes place in the Airport Marina Hotel at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport starting at 8:30 a.m., Monday.

CAB Member Gloria Schaffer will preside at the meeting.

Development of a program for essential air service to the nation's small communities is the subject of all nine of the regional meetings and Albright will be afforded the chance to point out Big Spring needs for such service.

The Airline Deregulation Act of 1978 (Public Law 95-504) ensures essential air service to all U.S. communities currently certificated for airline service and provides for subsidy where necessary in order to guarantee that service. The Act also requires the Board to consult state and local officials before establishing guidelines for essential air service. Airport managers, airline operators, civic groups and private citizens concerned with air transportation will also be invited to submit comments to the Board.

Each regional meeting will focus on four major topics of concern: determination of what is essential air transportation, criteria for designating additional points as eligible, procedures for processing subsidy applications, and subsidy determination. Officials in the states and communities of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi have been invited to the Dallas meeting. All presentations made during the two-day session will be transcribed for later consideration by the Board.

Public presentations at the meeting will be acceptable in all forms, although brevity is urged. One presentation is expected from each affected community. All presentations will be made part of the official record of these meetings.

Subsequent similar meetings will be conducted during the ensuing weeks in Atlanta, Minneapolis, Chicago, Washington, Boston and Anchorage. The first two meetings were held in Seattle and Phoenix.

Member Schaffer was the first woman elected to the Connecticut State Senate, subsequently serving six terms. She was elected Connecticut Secretary of State in 1970 and re-elected in 1974. She was named by President Carter to serve on the CAB until 1984.

Other CAB staff members who will attend the Dallas sessions include John A. Nammack, Director of the Office of Community and Congressional Relations; Deputy Associate Director Patrick V. Murphy, Jr., and Counsel David O'Connor, of the Bureau of Pricing and Domestic Aviation (Bda); John V. Coleman, Associate Director of BPDA's Subsidy Programs and Policy Division; Deputy General Counsel Gary J. Edles and Stephen Lachter, Assistant to Member Schaffer.

Chamber budget upped $2,108

LAMESA — The annual budget of the Lamesa Area Chamber of Commerce has been boosted by $2,108.

Treasurer Ronnie Stovall said that the budget was virtually the same as 1978 with the exception of an additional travel expense portion for this year's WTCC Industrial Trip and for the National Panel on Welfare

Newspapers formally sold

MIDLAND — Sale of the Midland Reporter-Telegram to the Hearst Corp., was finalized Monday.

Participating in the ritual were Frank A. Bennack, Hearst Corporation president; Robert J. Danzig, vice president and general manager of newspapers for Hearst; and Mrs. James N. Allison Sr., majority owner of the Reporter-Telegram Publishing Co., and Allison Communications Inc., the corporations which publishes the Midland and Plainview newspapers.

Acquisition of the two papers brings the number of Hearst papers to ten, with total circulation of 1.4 million daily and 2.5 million Sunday.

The corporation also has broad publishing and broadcasting interests, publishing 20 magazines in the U.S., and Great Britain and operating ten broadcasting stations plus a newspaper features syndicate with a wide range of other activities in publishing, ranching, timber, real estate and paper products.

Projects due public review

STANTON — The Stanton City council will hold a public hearing to review all projects, determine preliminary priorities and needs of the community, and receive input from interested citizens concerning needed community development projects when it meets in special session at 7:30 o'clock here Wednesday.

The council will also make a final determination of the projects to be undertaken with the Community Development Block Grant Small Cities Program funds and consider a resolution authorizing the major to submit a pre-application for Community Development Block Grant funds.

Reform meetings. The 1979 budget calls for expenditures of $53,720. Membership dues for individuals are being raised 50 cents a month while businesses will pay an extra $1 monthly to offset the added costs. Minimum dues go to $42 annually for individuals and $72 yearly for businesses.

Cowboys, Steelers invade Miami

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The defending world champion Dallas Cowboys returned to Florida Monday night — a place where they have known nothing but heartbreak — for next Sunday's Super Bowl XIII clash with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The flight arrived 15 minutes behind schedule and one unidentified Cowboy was in such a hurry to get off the plane that he left his playbook behind. An alert pilot fetched the playbook and hustled it to the team bus just before the Cowboys motored to their Fort Lauderdale hotel.

BRADSHAW ARRIVES — Terry Bradshaw, quarterback for the Pittsburgh Steelers, is all smiles as he and his team arrived in Miami today in preparation for the Jan. 21st Super Bowl XIII which will see the Steelers playing against the Dallas Cowboys.

band of some 300 fans braved a biting cold wind, the Cowboys arrived in 66-degree weather and were greeted by the Cooper City, Fla., cowboy band.

Each player received a sack of citrus fruit. Linebacker Thomas Henderson, the Cowboys' controversial ambassador of the top of the steps to announce, "Hollywood is here!"

NFL coaches pick Steelers

MIAMI (AP) — Although they would not advise anyone to take their predictions to the bank — or the bookie — the consensus of National Football League coaches is that the Pittsburgh Steelers will dethrone the Dallas Cowboys in this week's Super Bowl.

A Miami News poll of 23 coaches yielded 17 votes for Pittsburgh and six for the Cowboys. The Super Bowl coaches didn't vote, embattled New England Coach Chuck Fairbanks wasn't available and the New York Giants and Oakland Raiders don't have coaches right now.

"If you have any smarts, you'll bet the opposite of what I say," said Redskins Coach Jack Pardee.

"It hurts a little to pull for someone who's not from Texas," said Houston Oilers Coach Bum Phillips, whose team was devastated by the Steelers two weeks ago.

"Pittsburgh will win. Right now Bradshaw's having such a super year and they've got the great defense," Buffalo Bills Coach Chuck Knox said.

Other coaches who predicted a Steeler victory were Los Angeles Rams Coach Ray Malavasi, Detroit Lions Coach Monte Clark, San Diego Chargers Coach Don Coryell, Jack Patera of the Seattle Seahawks, Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula, Cincinnati Bengals Coach Homer Rice, Kansas City Chiefs Coach Marv Levy, San Francisco Coach Bill Walsh, Tampa Bay Coach John McKay, New York Jets Coach Walt Michaels, Rutigliano, Baltimore Colts Coach Ted Marchibroda, Atlanta Falcons Coach Leeman Bennett and Pardee.

The six coaches who predicted Dallas were Minnesota's Bud Grant, Green Bay's Bart Starr, Bud Wilkinson of St. Louis, Neill Armstrong of Chicago, Dick Nolan of New Orleans and Dick Vermeil of Philadelphia.

Hawks fall to Odessa College

The Odessa College Wranglers used the excellent inside play of Mike Ivy and the shooting of Billy Ray Ennis in the second half to break open a tight game and ease to a 68-53 win over the Howard College Hawks in a Western Junior College Athletic Conference game Monday night.

The Hawks came out in the four corners offense that they have used occasionally lately, with Robby Randolph arching the first of his many bombs that kept the Hawks in the game to take an early 2-0 lead.

The strategy backfired, however, as the Hawks were not patient in the early stages. Odessa took advantage of this to jump to an 11-3 lead before Randolph could connect on only the second Howard College field goal with eight minutes gone in the opening half.

Odessa College controlled the boards for most of the first half, allowing them to take many second and third shots and keep a comfortable seven or eight point lead until six minutes remained.

At this point, Randolph, who scored 12 of the Hawks 24 first half points, led a charge that narrowed the Odessa College lead to 26-24 at the intermission.

A reverse left-handed layup by Randolph with 16:29 remaining in the second half tied the game at 28, but it was all downhill for the Howard College team after that.

The Odessa College crew did give the Hawks a chance to get back in the game.

After taking a 34-29 lead moments later, the Odessa College team tried to give the Hawks a chance to get back into the game when official Frank Shepard inflicted a technical foul on vociferous Odessa coach Ron Mayberry. Randolph could connect on only one of the two shot technical, then the Hawks quickly proceeded to turn to ball over, which the Wranglers converted into a bucket and a 36-30 lead.

With six minutes remaining, the Hawks trailed by only five at 44-39. But Ivy, a strong 6'5" performer, connected on all four of his short jumpers in the next three minutes and sparked Odessa to a 58-49 lead with less than three minutes remaining.

Judge issues injunction

BOSTON — A federal judge ordered that Chuck Fairbanks of the New England Patriots cannot sign a contract to coach football at the University of Colorado.

But in issuing a preliminary injunction, pending a possible trial, U.S. District Court Judge A. David Mazzone made it clear he isn't binding Fairbanks to the National Football League team the coach wants to quit.

Mazzone also decided that the loss of Fairbanks would constitute "irreparable injury" to the Patriots franchise — although it will require several seasons to judge that potential loss of morale, fan support and NFL games resulting from departure of the team's coach and general manager.

Fairbanks and the university have filed their own suit in Boulder, Colo., claiming the Patriots are holding the coach against his will. His NFL contract has four years left.

Giants withdraw offer

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Giants withdrew their offer to the Minnesota Twins for slugger Rod Carew after the Twins reported their unhappy superstar wants to continue to play baseball in the American League because the seven-time American League batting champion said he prefers playing against American League teams and pitchers.

The Twins granted the California Angels permission to talk to Carew about a possible move, according to the Giants. Permission for San Francisco to talk to Carew expires at midnight.

Carew, 33, reportedly has been offered a five-year, $4 million contract by the Angels, a pact very similar to the one Giants owner Bob Lurie offered him early last week when he came here to discuss a move to San Francisco.

Auerbach denies trade

"All trades are off," says Boston Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach, who denied a weekend report of a three-way deal that would have sent Jo Jo White to Golden State and brought Pete Maravich from New Orleans.

Actually White, who earlier this year had asked to be traded, has been playing his best ball of the season lately, scoring well since being reinstated to the starting lineup.

Despite Auerbach's comment, rumors persist of trades involving guard Tiny Archibald and forward Billy Knight. Archibald hasn't been playing lately, reportedly because of the flu and has done virtually nothing for the Celtics all year. Knight was a major disappointment as an early-season starter and is now being used in a reserve role.

In the meantime, the Celtics have dropped journeyman Earl Williams and are thinking of signing Frankie Sanders, a 6-foot-6 rookie from Southern. Sanders was San Antonio's top draft pick but saw limited action before being cut on Dec. 28.

Queen rally sinks OC

The Howard College Hawk Queens staged a dramatic rally midway through the second half to escape with an important 60-59 victory over the Odessa College Wranglers in women's Western Junior College Athletic Conference play last night.

Odessa College had jumped out to a 29-22 half-time lead, basically due to Howard College's 23 per cent shooting percentage in the opening twenty minutes.

The Hawk Queens trailed 46-30 with 12:30 remaining in the contest, then outscored their opponents 16-1 over the next five minutes to narrow the Odessa College lead to 47-46 with just over seven minutes to play.

With the Queens down by 16 points, Coach Don Stevens ordered a full court press, which the Howard College crew worked to near perfection over the ensuing five minutes. The press created numerous easy buckets and many free throw opportunities that the Queens took advantage of.

Jan Phillips hit a short jumper with 5:47 remaining to give the Queens a 49-48 lead, but OC quickly countered to take a 50-49 advantage.

Loretta Young connected on a 15-footer to give the Queens a 51-50 lead, then Jayne Jones hit both ends of a one and one situation to increase the margin to three.

Odessa College was then forced to play aggressive defense in attempts to steal the ball and overcome the Hawk Queen lead, but the Howard College females were deadly with their free throw shooting down the stretch.

The Queens connected on 14 of 20 from the free throw line in the second half, and Jones was eight for eight on

Harrison, Globetrotters visit Big Spring tomorrow

By JAMES WERRELL

Tex Harrison can twirl a basketball on the tip of his index finger indefinitely.

"If you'd been practicing for 24 years, you could do it too," he said Monday.

Tex is an esteemed member of that group of round-ball wizards known over the world as the Harlem Globetrotters. He now serves as a backup player, but for most of his career as a Globetrotter he played every day and twice on Sundays.

The team will work some of its magic in Big Spring, when the Globetrotters appear at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Harrison, a Houston native, graduated from Phyllis Wheatley High, a school that has had its share of state basketball championships. He then attended North Carolina Central University, after which he was drafted by the Globetrotters in 1954.

"Back in those days, the Globetrotters got their pick of the best black players in the country. They used to come to us first," said Harrison. "That's changed now. The pros are out to get any good players, black, white or chartreuse."

Nonetheless, Harrison claims that the Globetrotters are still better than most of today's pro teams.

"There are some pro teams we could wake up at

Steers, OHS split

The Big Spring girls JV basketball team won over Odessa Monday night, but the Steer varsity didn't fare as well.

The JVs eked out a 28-27 victory when Candy Walker scored a field goal with 17 seconds remaining.

Shirley Dixon was high point girl for the JVs with 12.

Odessa jumped out to a 19-10 halftime in the varsity game, then went on to take a 39-32 triumph.

Big Spring, now 5-16 on the year and 0-5 in district, was led in scoring by Peggy Calhoun's 14 points. Pam Banks added nine. Johnson was high point girl for both sides with 18.

midnight and beat. Some of the better ones would give us a little trouble, but if we were in the NBA, we'd be in the playoffs every year with ease," he boasted.

The tall Texan also emphasized that what Globetrotter fans get to see is a real game, not some contrived entertainment. The scoring is real, and both teams really try to win.

"We've only been beaten once, by the New Jersey Reds at the University of Tennessee. The score was 81-80, and the fans thought we were throwing the game. I thought we would get fired," he laughed.

The Globetrotters have spread the fine art of basketball throughout the world. In many cases, according to Harrison, the Globetrotters were often the first basketball players ever to perform in a country.

Even more significant, the Globetrotters were the first American sportsmen of any kind to play behind the Iron Curtain.

"We've performed in eight Iron Curtain countries, and, if things work out, we hope to make a trip to Mainland China next year," said Harrison.

When they perform in the United States, the Globetrotters sign contracts with various owners of professional or semi-professional teams throughout the country to provide the competition. Although there is always a lot of fooling around during a game, nothing is choreographed or prearranged, said Harrison.

The Globetrotters have a scouting system just like the pros that combs colleges around the country for potential players. Despite what many people think, the team looks for good athletes rather than good showmen, said Harrison.

"We still get some of the best players in the country. But now they have to choose between the Globetrotters and the pros. In the pros, they make a lot of money in a short time, but with us they can play much longer. Longevity is the name of the game," he said.

And having a good time is the name of the game for the Harlem Globetrotters. They have elevated Dr. Naismith's invention to a fine art, and bring smiles wherever they go.

TEX HARRISON — This basketball magician will be one of many stars that will perform Wednesday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum when the Harlem Globetrotters come to Big Spring.

Big Spring Steers visit OHS Bronchos

ODESSA — Two of the most improved teams in District 5-AAAA will be going after victories tonight when the Odessa Bronchos host the Big Spring Steers in an 8:00 tipoff.

The Steers are coming off a heart-breaking 49-48 loss to district co-leader Abilene Cooper, while the Bronchos fell apart in the final quarter in an 81-66 loss to San Angelo.

Big Spring head man Tommy Collins will start a lineup featuring guard James Magers and Tony Rubio, forwards Wilbert Grant and Robert Lara, and post Mark Poss.

Odessa will counter with guards Danny Cramer and Danny Wright, forwards Alfred Rodriguez and Steve Shannon, and center Bob Hester. Wright, alighting quick guard, spearheads the Red Hoses attack.

Elsewhere around the district, Permian visits San Angelo, Lee hosts Abilene, and Midland visits Cooper in the battle for the first half championship.

BUSY DAY AT THE HOUSE — Rep. Ralph S. Regula, R-Ohio, right, dozes along with three unidentified children as the 96th session of Congress opens Monday in Washington.

Energy, inflation, federal deficit

New Congressmen sworn in; 96th Congress begins work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nervous, squirming children sat next to their fathers on the floor of the House, squinting at the bright television lights.

Constituents, in town to view the pomp and participate in the revelry associated with swearing-in ceremonies, crowded the hallways and reception rooms where closed-circuit TV sets offered a view of their man taking the oath of office.

Outside, a group of Indians sat in a circle on the cold, sun-splashed Capitol grounds, pounding a tom-tom and chanting mournful songs over lost lands. An old man sat on the marble steps, holding a hand-lettered sign calling for lower social security taxes.

After more than three months of relative inactivity, Capitol Hill burst into its congressional bustle on Monday welcoming newly-elected members who will join the veterans in wrestling with a familiar family of problems: inflation, energy and the federal deficit.

The nine newcomers to the 24-member Texas delegation in the House spent most of the day attending receptions crowded with well-wishers from home.

The homefolk were shown the Capitol by congressional staffers and one group of West Texans got a surprise visit from First Lady Rosalynn Carter during a VIP tour of the White House.

Before the day's festivities began, House Majority Leader Jim Wright sat down and evaluated last year's congress and the challenges that await the 96th.

Additional energy legislation in the form of encouraging development of alternate energy sources such as coal gasification and solar energy topped Wright's "most important" list.

"Another problem is inflation," he continued. "And inflation and energy are so inseparably interrelated. You can't discuss one without the other."

The Fort Worth Democrat ranked the 96th Congress as "an unusually productive congress...rivaled only by the first congress to serve LBJ and the first to serve with Franklin Roosevelt."

"Judge it by results," added Wright pointing to reductions in unemployment, the projected budget deficit and a "moderate" tax decrease.

The crowning touch to the 96th was, in Wright's view, the controversial energy bill even though it still needs some polishing.

"It's not enough of an energy bill but certainly a long-delayed beginning on a national energy program," he said. "And we did all those things without the artificial stimulus of a war or national emergency. In fact, these past two years are the first two years in the past 16 in which not one single American military person was engaged in a single act of engaged hostility anywhere on earth.

"On balance, I think all that adds up to a substantial record."

A Texas Republican, naturally, saw last year's congress in a different light.

Rep. Bill Archer said he felt the Democrat-controlled 96th Congress "did less damage than I thought it would" thanks to California's Proposition 13. The tax rollback measure "was the fulcrum point from a psychological point of view" in urging legislators to look harder at spending.

The GOP, Archer added, will concentrate this year on "reworking and eliminating" federal government regulation while reducing spending in hopes of catching the elusive balanced budget.

The energy bill, from Archer's perspective, is "burdensome" and "ineffective."

Republicans and some Texas oil and gas men "wouldn't be satisfied with anything congress did," countered Wright.

Davis reports at Jacksonville

Marine Cpl. Larry B. Merrick, son of Bobby G. Merrick of 3239 Drexel, Big Spring, has been meritoriously promoted to his present rank while serving with 2d Marine Division, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

He received the accelerated promotion in recognition of outstanding performance, duty proficiency and demonstrated professional abilities.

He joined the Marine Corps in December 1975.

Larry Merrick is promoted

Navy Chief Aviation Electronics Technician Billy W. Davis, son of Madie Davis of 2021 Locust St., Colorado City, has reported for duty at Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla.

A 1960 graduate of Colorado High School, and a 1975 graduate of Tennessee State Tech., Memphis, Tenn., he joined the Navy in February 1971.

Italian Communists 'not an alternative'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Italian Communist Party must be acknowledged and reckoned with, but it must never be recognized "as a viable government alternative," according to a leader of Italy's leading Christian Democratic Party.

Benigno Zaccagnini, secretary of Italy's Christian Democratic Party, told a Columbia University audience Monday that his country's Communist Party is now "rooted in Italian society" and will have to be accepted by his countrymen.

However, he also said that his party, which has governed Italy for 31 years, would never include the Communists in a coalition government. The Christian Democrats refuse to recognize the Communist Party "as a viable government alternative," Zaccagnini said.

But "to ignore it or to imagine that it (the Communist Party) may be forced to live in a sort of political ghetto would not be realistic," he said. "We must watch its course carefully without ever forgetting that millions and millions of Italians express themselves through this party."

Zaccagnini spoke in Italian and his remarks were translated into English by an aide.

He blamed the continued terrorism in his country, including the murder of former premier Aldo Moro, on "a generation which has not known the tragedy of Fascism and the sorrow caused by the lack of freedom."

Pvt. Collins gets training

Spring.

Airman Nobis selected the Security Police area for job training and will attend a six week Basic Military Training Course at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Tex., beginning Jan. 4.

Lamesa grad draws duty

Marine Private First Class Cornudus Jackson Jr., son of Gladys and Cornudus Jackson Sr., of 802 S. Lynn, Lamesa, has reported for duty with 2d Marine Division, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

A 1977 graduate of Lamesa High School, he joined the Marine Corps in February 1978.

She receives first promotion

SAN ANTONIO — Lynda G. Karwedsky, daughter of retired U.S. Air Force MSGT and Mrs. R. A. Karwedsky of 2501 Ann Dr., Big Spring, has received her first promotion in the U.S. Air Force.

Karwedsky, promoted to airman, is assigned at Lackland AFB, Tex., where she serves as a mental health ward specialist with a unit of the Air Force Systems Command.

The airman attended Big Spring High School.

Will you be happy if firm gives you gold watch when you retire?

COLLEGE STATION — When you get to your company's mandatory retirement age and they present you with a gold watch, will you be happy?

You have a much better chance if you think you will, says a study by a group of Texas A&M University psychologists.

The study, conducted by Drs. Candida Lutes, Mark McGee and graduate student James Hall, says that the mental attitude of the person being retired may be one of the most important things about retirement.

"You've got a much better chance of enjoying retirement if you go into it with a positive mental attitude," explained Ms. Lutes. "Retirement for some people is kind of like the kid who has never tasted spinach and is sure he's going to hate it — he'll never taste it."

"If you think something is going to be fun," she continued, "then you try out the things that are likely to make it fun."

The psychologists surveyed middle-to-upper level managers aged 28 to 61 and asked them if they expected, overall, to enjoy being retired. All of the persons surveyed were men.

The researcher found that managers who anticipated their present life style to be disrupted were likely to have

Midland to host speech tourney

MIDLAND — The first annual Robert E. Lee Invitational speech tournament will be held Friday and Saturday.

The event was formerly known as the Tall City Invitational Tournament.

Thirty-five schools are expected to send teams. The field may include as many as 700 students.

The tournament, under its previous name, has been one of the largest of its kind held in Texas. Students in New Mexico schools are also eligible to enter.

a negative attitude toward retirement. Managers, on the other hand, who expected things to remain about the same, had a positive attitude toward retirement.

Ms. Lutes said the best way to enter into retirement is by being prepared and knowing as much about it as possible. Some ways of preparing include:

—Begin planning as early as possible for your retirement years. Some people think age 30 is a good time to start.

—Begin a savings plan or some other means of secure investment to insure that you will have a source of income when you retire.

—Start taking care of your health early in life so you can avoid problems that could burden you financially or shorten your retirement years.

—Plan psychologically for retirement by talking to older people and hearing their views and ideas in dealing with the problems of age.

Ms. Lutes pointed out that with the proper mental attitude and planning even the hardest "workaholic" could easily enjoy retirement years.
