MISD accreditation upgraded to full status

TEA downgraded school district last year for bilingual, ESL performance

By Tessa Duvall
tduvall@mrt.com

Texas Education Agency upgraded Midland ISD's accreditation to "accredited," Superintendent Ryder Warren learned this week.

The TEA downgraded MISD's accreditation last March to "accredited-warned," which means a district "exhibits deficiencies in performance that, if not addressed, will lead to probation or revocation of the district's accreditation status," according to a letter from Warren dated March 25, 2013.

The previously downgraded status was the result of the district's problems stemming from bilingual and English as a second language education for "exhibiting serious or persistent deficiencies," according Warren's 2013 letter.

Warren said Friday he is pleased the state recognizes the district's progress and renewed focus on English language learners.

"We looked at the big picture," he said. "What was working, what wasn't working, and if it wasn't working, we didn't stick with it. We threw it out."

MISD currently has about 2,500 ELL students who are either categorized as bilingual or ESL students. The students collectively speak 26 languages and have a variety of levels of English proficiency, Warren said.

"It takes a lot of effort, it takes a lot of training and it takes a lot of coordination from the district standpoint, from my bilingual and ESL department, all the way down to my principals, assistant principals, the instructional coaches, all the way to the teachers, to really work as a team," he said. "You've got to go student by student. This is not a group you can say one-size-fits-all."

However, there is still work to be done, Warren said.

"We're still nowhere near satisfied with our scores," he said. "The scores are still not where we want them to be, but we are seeing the work that the kids — especially the kids — and the teachers are doing. They're making sure we're really taking care of the kids we're supposed to be."

MISD will continue to focus heavily on literacy for all students and make sure they are reading on grade level by third grade, Warren said.

ELL students have their progress checked almost weekly and goals are set regularly, Warren said.

MISD had failed to effectively monitor and provide pre-kindergarten through sixth-grade students with the additional services required by the state, according to previous Reporter-Telegram reporting.

A TEA-appointed monitor told the MISD board of trustees in September that the district had two main problems in handling ELL: a lack of basic educational foundation and the unwillingness of administrators to address known problems.

The TEA awards four different levels of accreditation to school districts: Accredited, accredited-warned, accredited-probation and not accredited-revoked.

PSC hired for spaceport development tasks

■ MDC to use $225,000 for engineering and construction oversight services

By Joseph Basco
jbasco@mrt.com

Midland Development Corp. took steps to convert land at Midland International Airport into a spaceport Friday by hiring design firm Parkhill, Smith & Cooper (PSC) for two tasks at a total of $225,000.

Rendall

The MDC board voted to approve a $175,000 agreement with PSC for engineering services for the spaceport and a $50,000 agreement, also with PSC, for construction administration services for the building of spacesuit company Orbital Outfitters' Midland facility.

The engineering work for the spaceport will address roads and utilities, as construction other than the XCOR Aerospace hangar has yet to begin. The other task lets PSC oversee the construction of Orbital Outfitters' facility that will house a multi-use altitude chamber.

The spaceport will be located in the southern portion of the airport, an area mostly undeveloped at this point.

"Right now we've basically got a gravel road," said Robert Rendall, MDC chair. "We don't have any pavement leading to the XCOR hangar or where Orbital Outfitters' building is going to be."

The engineering work may last six to nine months, Rendall said. At that point, the city may have its spaceport license

Energy industry fuels Midland labor market

By Mella McEwen
mmcewen@mrt.com

Fueled by the continuing strength of its dominant oil and gas and construction sector, Midland continued to enjoy a strong labor market in February, the Texas Workforce Commission reports.

Data released Friday by the commission put Midland's unemployment rate at 3 percent, up marginally from 2.9 percent in January and below 3.3 percent last February. Midland continues to report the state's lowest unemployment rate, followed by Odessa at 3.7 percent.

The U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported earlier this week that Midland's 2.9 percent unemployment in January was the only rate below 3 percent among the nation's metropolitan statistical areas.

"In terms of job growth, Midland added 3,900 jobs for a growth rate of 4.7 percent over the year. That's the highest among the state's 28 MSAs," said Mark Lavergne, commission spokesman.

Charles A. Dean

Charles A. Dean, "Charlie," 87, passed peacefully in his sleep after an extended illness at the Mirage Inn Senior Care and Living Center in Rancho Mirage, California on the morning of Friday, March 21, 2014.

He was an oil man, rancher, cowboy and friend who lived a long and fulfilling life, bringing laughter and love to all who knew him.

Born July 27, 1926 in Jones County Texas, Charlie was the youngest of the six children of Stacie Lea Arnett Dean and Alvin Dean. He worked alongside his father, planting and growing cotton during the Great Depression. It was the challenging experiences of his youth that inspired him to strike out into the world.

Charlie attended high school in Anson, Texas. He served in the U.S. Navy during and immediately after World War II and owned a jewelry and watch repair business in Andrews, Texas, in the early 1950's. Unfortunately, the store burned down, wiping him out financially. He turned next to real estate and then to the oil business.

He was employed by Rockwell Manufacturing in El Paso in the early 1960s and transferred to the Midland/Odessa area in 1967 when he became the manager of their Odessa office.

On May 25, 1968, he married Betty Moss Shirky and later adopted her three children from a previous marriage.

Betty and Charlie bought a ranch in De Baca County, New Mexico in the early 1970's and moved to nearby Roswell in 1976. In 1979, Charlie bought Thunderbird Oil, a retail gasoline business, and they relocated to El Paso, Texas, where they remained until 1983, at which time they briefly returned to Midland.

During the next several years, they divided their time between New Mexico and West Texas, living at the ranch for many years. They sold the Double V ranch in 1998, returning to Midland on a more permanent basis. They were delighted to be able to spend more time with their Texas friends, but saddened to leave those in New Mexico.

Those who knew him best remember Charlie as a kind but strong man, who had a way of filling a room with his thundering voice, his roaring laughter, and his larger than life presence. He was always quick to help a friend but he was equally as quick to tease a friend in good-natured jest.

Like a true cowboy, he was a master story teller and captivated many a dinner audience with tales ranging from heartbreaking to hilarious. These stories delighted his children and grandchildren, especially during the holidays when they all had occasion to be together. Charlie would sometimes exaggerate a few of his details for dramatic or comedic effect, but nobody ever minded. He once admitted, "Any story worth telling is worth embellishing."

Charlie was a member of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in Midland, Texas, as well as St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Roswell, New Mexico, and St. John's Episcopal Church in Ft. Sumner, New Mexico.

He is survived by his wife of 46 years, Betty Dean, as well as their three children; Lucy Yancy, Thomas Dean, Andy Dean and their families. The Thomas Dean Family includes wife, Carolee, and children; Kristen, Jon, and Tommye. The Andy Dean family includes wife Debbi, and children; Amanda, Faith, Christina, and Drew, as well as Tye and his son Logan.

He was like a grandfather to Amanda Dean's four little sisters; Hillary, Ashley, Vada, and McKayla Landreth.

Charlie was preceded in death by his parents as well as his five siblings; Thelbert, Gracye, Ava Lougenia, and Stacye.

The Dean family would like to thank the staff at the Mirage Inn for their excellent care of Charlie during his last days.

Memorials may be made to the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity or the charity of your choice. A memorial service will be held at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, 1412 West Illinois Ave, Midland, Texas 79701 on Friday, April 4 at 2:00 p.m.

Honorary Pallbearers include, Al Boudreaux, Scot Northern, Charlie Perry, Cliff Wilderspin, Steve Lindgren, David Essex, William Moss, Kelly Cox, Peter Carter, Michael Brown, Rich Anderson, Stuart Shaner, Sid Linley, Ken Dean, Harold Hensley, Herschel O' Kelly, Robert Bledsoe, Joe Liberty, Neil Griffin, Richard Gibson, Ted Collins, Bert Ladd, Dick Gillham, and Bobby Turner.

Steven worked in television, beginning with KMID-TV in Midland. He then moved to Dallas as a freelancer in sports television, and over the next 30 years, he became adroit as a highly dependable and top notch replay operator and was "first call" by all the major TV networks, as well as other networks.

In addition to regular games in football, basketball, baseball and ice hockey; he helped televise two Super Bowls; three Olympic Games; numerous NBA All Star weeks and games. Penny LaDora Lee Penny LaDora Lee passed away peacefully after a 1 year battle with cancer, on Wednesday, March 26, 2014.

A Memorial Celebration service will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, March 31st at the Doeppenschmidt Funeral Home in New Braunfels, Texas. She will be buried at Hill Country Memorial Gardens.

Penny was born in Cedartown, Georgia on February 23, 1953 to Harold and Beverly Tritt Wilkerson. She grew up in the Charlotte, NC area and eventually moved to the Texas area where she raised her children.

Penny is well-known for her love of life and caring touch for others. Her compassion to love everyone unconditionally, personified a Christ-like example of the Godly woman she was.

In her working days, she loved marketing, advertising, and college admissions to name a few; but she always seemed to be a counselor to all her co-workers.

As a homemaker, she enjoyed many outdoor activities including flowers, walks in the park, biking and the favorite…her love for absorbing vitamin D by the pool, or at the beach. She was a meticulous homemaker and wonderful cook. Many hours of good times were shared in the kitchen around her table while feasting on her homemade goodies, or sitting on her porch with a specially prepared cup of coffee or cocoa.

Her big brown eyes, beautiful smile and contagious laughter were like sunshine on a rainy day and would brighten any room she entered. People were drawn to her magnetic warmth and love as she carefully made each of us feel so special. She loved to attend parties and celebrations of any type, live concerts and family gatherings, all types of music, dancing, watching movies and spontaneous weekend trips with her husband. She could outeat almost any man under the table, yet her cutesy Betty-Boop petite-ness was an irresistible charm. A splash of hot-pink was her trademark color, and a visit to Starbucks for a skinny Chai Tea Latte would make her day complete!

With the faith of a Giant, she weathered many storms in life almost unaware of dangers she was wading through. As a prayer warrior, family and friends knew that if we were on "her list", she would earnestly and sincerely pray without ceasing.

Penny is preceded in death by her father, Harold Franklin Wilkerson. She is survived by: husband, Doug Lee; Mom & stepfather, Beverly Tritt Stough and Glenn Stough of Concord, NC; sister, Bonita Wilkerson Pickett of Concord,NC; 2 children: son, Jason Raney & wife Kelly; daughter, Shelly Cardella & husband, Vinny; 1 stepdaughter, Kayla Nirgenau & husband, Dave; 8 grand and step-grandchildren; Hayden Murphey & husband Terry Lee; Sterling Melton; Brody, Gage & Maverick Raney; Aftyne Icenogle; Vinny Cardella, III, and Audrie Lee: and 1 great-grandchild, Kannon Murphey.

Honorary pallbearers are: Brody, Gage & Maverick Raney; Sterling Melton; Terry Lee Murphey; Mitch Lee; and Dave Nirgenau.

In lieu of flowers, donations to the following are suggested: Faith Presbyterian Hospice Caring Fund (payable to: Presbyterian Communities & Services Foundation) 4350 Sigma Road, Suite 400 Dallas, Texas 75244

Please note: in honor of Penny Lee or: Grace Fellowship Church (Mark Bristow Ministry) 1414 E. University Odessa, Texas 79762.

We thank you for the outpouring of loving prayers and concerns already expressed and will cherish them along with the memories of Penny....until we meet again in Heaven.

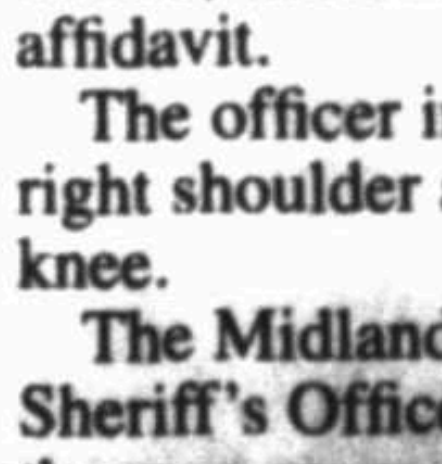
FROM STAFF REPORTS

Sheriff's Office: Man attacks peace officer

A Midland man was arrested Thursday night after he allegedly attacked a sheriff's investigator at a motel in the 3600 block of West Wall Street.



Selman

Motel management called law enforcement, but the arrest affidavit doesn't indicate the nature of the call.

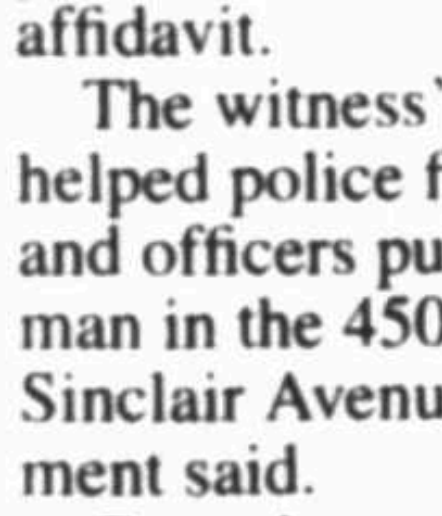
Robert E. Selman, 56, reportedly lunged at the investigator after she tried to grab a large steak knife that was sitting on a table. He was subsequently immobilized with a stun gun by another officer, according to the affidavit.

The officer injured her right shoulder and left knee.

The Midland County Sheriff's Office booked the man on an aggravated assault against a public servant charge, a first-degree felony. He is being held on a $25,000 bond.

If convicted, Selman could serve between five and 99 years in prison.

MPD: Man runs over woman, flees scene



Gonzalez

An El Paso man was arrested Wednesday night after he allegedly ran over a woman and attempted to flee the scene.

Andrew Gonzalez, 30, was charged after a witness told police that a car struck the woman at the Midkiff Road and Cimmaron Street intersection at about 11:20 p.m., according to an arrest affidavit.

The witness' information helped police find the car, and officers pulled over the man in the 4500 block of Sinclair Avenue, the document said.

Gonzalez got out of the car without resistance and was arrested on scene, according to the affidavit.

He told police that the woman was originally driving the car and slammed on the breaks in the middle of the road, adding that he was sitting in the back seat at the time, the document said.

Another man, who was sitting in the passenger seat at the time, reportedly got out of the car and pulled the woman out with him and they started arguing. Gonzalez said he then got in the driver's seat and the other man got in the passenger's seat. The woman then started to attack Gonzalez as he began to drive forward, the affidavit said he told police.

Meanwhile, an officer found the woman unconscious. She was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital. Because Gonzalez allegedly drove off, leaving the woman, police charged him with failure to stop and render aid, causing serious bodily injury, a third-degree felony.

Gonzalez was being held Friday on a $10,000 bond.

If convicted, he could face up to 10 years in prison.

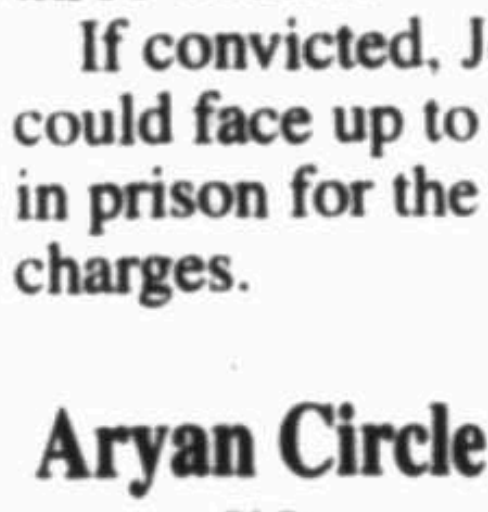
Man suspected of 3 counts of sexual indecency with child

The Midland County Sheriff's Office on Thursday arrested a Brownwood man on suspicion of three counts of indecency with a child involving sexual contact, a second-degree felony.

Patrick Karl Jennings, 25, was arrested in Brownwood after the Midland Police Department completed an investigation earlier this month. He is suspected of inappropriately touching three children, according to an arrest affidavit.

The first victim told an MPD detective that Jennings had touched her several times around the time of June 2010 when she was 8 years old and Jennings was living in Midland. Other incidents happened when she was 9 years old, according to the affidavit.

Jennings also forced the young girl to touch his penis, the affidavit said she told the detective.



Jennings

Two other children later reported that Jennings also touched them, the document said. The affidavit does not specify the other children's gender.

Jennings was being held Friday evening on bonds totaling $150,000 for the three counts.

If convicted, Jennings could face up to 60 years in prison for the combined charges.

Aryan Circle member gets life sentence for distributing meth

A Midland member of the Aryan Circle was sentenced this week to life in federal prison for distributing methamphetamine around the Permian Basin and for injuring another person for providing information to authorities.

Kevin "Birdie" Dwain Rickman, 26, pleaded guilt in September for distributing ounce quantities of meth between June 2005 and June 2013 and admitted to causing bodily injury to another person on May 5, according to the Department of Justice Western District of Texas.

The release didn't indicate when the sentencing took place. The DOJ did not return an after-hours call before deadline.

MPD: Man steals shoes, assaults officer

A Midland man allegedly stole a pair of Michael Jordan basketball shoes from a store at Midland Park Mall, ran from police and struck an officer.

Kuani Lanier Tillman, 23, was arrested Thursday evening after he reportedly ran out of the store wearing the $174 shoes, according to an arrest affidavit.

The man out-ran two employees and made his way toward a fast-food restaurant located on the other side of Loop 250, according to the report.

A firefighter located Tillman first and turned on the pickup's emergency lights to indicate the presence of authorities. A Midland Police Department officer then spotted Tillman and yelled out his window for the man to stop walking, the affidavit said.

Tillman started running away again once the officer got out of his patrol car, but the officer caught up to him and grabbed his arms, the report said.

Tillman then took off his shirt, which made the officer lose his grip. The officer tried to grab his legs, but they slipped through his arms and Tillman's foot struck the officer in the face, causing his bottom lip to bleed, the report said.

Tillman

An MPD sergeant showed up and arrested Tillman, who was charged with assaulting a peace officer, a third-degree felony. As of Friday evening, he was being held on a $30,000 bond.

If convicted, Tillman could face up to 10 years in prison.

HOUSTON

Major Texas liquor store chain reports data breach

One of the biggest Texas liquor store chains has reported a security breach that exposed personal information of customers at some of its smaller stores.

The Houston-based Spec's chain said in a Friday statement that the breach exposed data from Oct. 31, 2012, through March 20, 2014.

Spec's said that information exposed may include information from checks and credit and debit cards. However, most customers weren't affected and fewer than 5 percent of its transactions were hacked.

Spec's said it's offering a free year of credit monitoring and identity-theft protection to customers who may have been affected.

Sebelius: Texas opposition hasn't helped sign-ups

Associated Press

AUSTIN — Political opposition in Texas to the federal health care overhaul hasn't helped enrollment numbers that lag behind expectations as next week's deadline to sign up looms, Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius said Friday.

Texas has the highest rate of uninsured residents in the nation. As of March 1, about 295,000 people in Texas had signed up for coverage — less than half of the target of 629,000 enrollees originally set by the federal Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services.

Gov. Rick Perry and Republican leaders have consistently slammed the health overhaul while simultaneously refusing Medicaid expansion in a state where nearly 1 out of every 4 residents is uninsured.

Millions of uninsured nationwide have until Monday to pick a plan or face penalties. More than 6 million Americans have signed up so far.

"I don't think it's been a help when you have government officials trying to block navigators from getting information to the people. And you have everything from legal challenges to a constant barrage of misinformation," Sebelius said. "That isn't terribly helpful to folks trying to figure out what the law means and whether or not the law applies to them, or whether it's even in place in Texas."

Making a final push, Sebelius visited a United Way center in Austin where about a dozen navigators manned a call center for coverage-seekers.

Texas is hostile territory. State regulators in January mandated that "navigators" who help Texas residents enroll under the Affordable Care Act undergo an additional 20 hours of training — half what Perry originally sought, but still enough to rankle nonprofits receiving federal funds to implement navigator programs.

Perry shot back at Sebelius' remarks, saying that the more people learn about the federal health law the less they like it.

"Yet again, the Obama administration would rather point fingers at other people than accept any of the responsibility for Obamacare's failure," Perry said in a statement.

Sebelius said sign-ups in Texas are on the upswing, but she didn't offer more recent enrollment data.

Sebelius also said HealthCare.gov is up to the task of handling a last-minute surge of visitors before the deadline.

Sebelius said the site handled 90,000 simultaneous visitors at times Thursday, but cautioned that wait times on the phone are getting longer.

"As this volume increases, we are going into sort of new territory," Sebelius said.

State Supreme Court halts release of drug supplier info

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Texas' new supplier of execution drugs will remain a secret — at least for now — after the state Supreme Court on Friday temporarily blocked a ruling that the prison agency must disclose the information to attorneys for two death row inmates.

Earlier Friday, an appeals court upheld a district judge's ruling from a day earlier that prison officials should disclose the source of a new batch of pentobarbital to the attorneys of the two inmates scheduled to be executed with the drug next month.

Although the high court's order doesn't address the merits of the case, it allows prison officials to withhold the supplier's name while the justices consider the issue.

Lawyers for the condemned killers filed a lawsuit in the case this week. The Texas Department of Criminal Justice wants to keep the information secret, citing escalating threats of violence against execution drug providers.

A three-judge panel of the 3rd Texas Court of Appeals earlier Friday upheld a ruling the previous day from State District Court Judge Suzanne Covington, who said the name of the supplier must be disclosed.

The Texas Attorney General took that ruling to the Texas Supreme Court.

Covington's order would provide the information only to attorneys for condemned prisoners Tommy Lynn Sells and Ramiro Hernandez-Llanas, who argued the risk of them being subjected to unconstitutionally cruel pain could not be evaluated without knowing the source of the sedative pentobarbital used by Texas for executions.

In his argument to the 3rd Court of Appeals, Deputy Solicitor General Adam Aston said it "defies logic to believe that this type of an investigation could be conducted while maintaining the confidentiality of the compounding pharmacy."

The appeal from the state to fight disclosure "seeks to bend the law to shield their actions from the light of day," Maurie Levin, one of Sells' attorneys, said Friday. "We are hopeful that the Texas Supreme Court will not permit (the prison agency) to manipulate the system and the courts to evade the transparency that is crucial in carrying out this gravest of acts at the expense of our most basic democratic principles."

The Supreme Court's brief ruling said only that Covington's order was halted "pending further order of this court," did not specify a timetable and said the state's petition to overturn the ruling remained before the justices.

More than 100 cats found in Houston home

Associated Press

HOUSTON — More than 100 cats were found in what officials describe as a "hoarding situation" at the Houston home of 60-year-old twin sisters.

Authorities arrived at the house Thursday morning after they were called by neighbors.

Harris County Precinct 1 Constable's Office spokesman J.C. Mosier told the Houston Chronicle that feces were "literally 3 feet high."

Authorities fear the situation has been going on for years.

Mosier said, "We're hoping we can get them some official help from the proper government entity, and we've been trying to do that."

Constables said no charges will be filed.

A Houston Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals spokeswoman said the cats, which were taken to the shelter, were emaciated. One decomposing cat was found.

3 sentenced for roles in $22M mortgage fraud

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Three people have been sentenced to prison for orchestrating a $22 million scheme to defraud residential mortgage lenders.

The stiffest sentence of nine years was given Friday to 36-year-old Walter Ryan Macapaz. Thirty-three-year-old Tony David Maldonado was sentenced to two years and 42-year-old Buffy Marie Lawrence, a former mortgage loan officer, to one.

All three previously pleaded guilty to federal charges. A fourth defendant was sentenced last year. They were first indicted in 2011.

Federal prosecutors said they used fraudulent documents to help borrowers qualify for mortgage loans to purchase condominium units in the Houston area. The documents contained false information about the borrowers' income, assets, bank deposits and other numbers.

Macapaz and the others arranged for borrowers to submit the false documents to secure inflated loans.

Elections administrator to retire after 20 years

By Joseph Basco
jbasco@mrt.com

Ruth Sloan has worked many elections during her 10 years as Midland County's elections administrator, including three that decided who would be president.

During that time, she also oversaw the county's switch to electronic voting and the introduction of voting centers.

But on Monday, her final day at the elections office, Sloan will close a chapter in her life that lasted 20 years.

The city and county both honored her this week for her years of service in the elections office. The city declared Friday as Ruth Sloan Day. The county gave her a certificate of appreciation during Commissioners' Court on Monday and raised a county flag in her honor on Friday, the first time the county has ever raised a flag for a retirement.

At her retirement party in the County Annex Building on Friday, County Judge Mike Bradford praised Sloan's office because of how smoothly it was run. He joked about how Sloan, intending to volunteer at the Midland Humane Coalition after retirement, will be driving off into the humane coalition instead of riding off into the sunset.

James Durbin/Reporter-Telegram

County Judge Mike Bradford congratulates elections administrator Ruth Sloan during her retirement party Friday at the County Annex building.

"We're thanking someone who's leaving the county family after distinguished service — someone who we didn't realize was here," Bradford said, clarifying that no one ever complained about the elections office under Sloan.

Sloan attributed the office's smooth operation to her staff of four.

"They have made my life easy in that office," Sloan said at her retirement party. "That's one of the reasons that I've hung around as long as I have."

Terry Perry, the acting elections administrator, said she appreciated all the years she and Sloan have worked together and wished her a happy retirement.

"You are a great advisor and friend," Perry said.

Sloan will continue to work part-time in the elections office on an as-needed basis to assist Perry with upcoming elections, such as the May 10 special election for the City Council at-large race.

But despite the deep knowledge and passion Sloan had for her job, it wasn't even her first career. Sloan worked for IBM in Midland for 25 years before the office closed.

Sloan said she didn't think she would work after her IBM career, but then the opportunity came up in the elections office in 1994.

When she was promoted to elections administrator in September 2004, Sloan was immediately thrown into the deep end of the pool by having to prepare for the presidential election between former President George W. Bush and then-Sen. John Kerry. To compound the issue, her husband underwent surgery in October that year.

Sloan said she will miss working with her "ladies in the office," but not necessarily the very few people who complained about not being able to vote because of the law.

"I did enjoy my job," Sloan said. "I don't care how many people came up to me and said, 'I wouldn't have had your job for all the money in the world.'"

LABOR

From 1A

From January to February, Midland added 400 jobs for a 0.5 percent growth rate. Just more than 600 joined the civilian labor force and just more than 500 joined the ranks of the employed.

For the 12 months from February 2013 to February 2014, Midland's civilian labor force grew from 93,198 to 96,218 and the number of employed from 90,093 to 93,317.

"(Midland) looks a lot like the state in that a lot of the job growth was in mining, logging and construction," Lavergne said.

In Texas, every major industrial sector showed positive annual growth, he said.

"In fact, it looks like 10 of the 11 major industries has been at or above 2 percent growth, with the caveat that when we talk about local jobs, they're not seasonally adjusted numbers whereas the major industries are seasonally adjusted, which makes it difficult to compare them," he said.

Midland added 400 jobs in that sector from January to February and has added 2,400 jobs in that sector over the past 12 months for a growth rate of 10.3 percent, almost double the state growth rate of 5.5 percent.

While trade, transportation and utilities lost 200 jobs from January to February, the sector has added 1,000 jobs over the past year for a growth rate of 6 percent, making it Midland's second dominant sector.

It was the only sector to lose jobs from January to February, with professional and business services and leisure and hospitality each gaining 100 jobs and the remaining sectors unchanged.

Leisure and hospitality came in third behind mining, logging and construction and trade, transportation and utilities in job growth over the last year, adding 300 jobs.

"(Midland and Texas) are definitely growing. The civilian labor force population is growing and has been consistently," Lavergne said.

Statewide the unemployment rate was 5.7 percent, unchanged from January and down from 6.5 percent in February 2013.

The commission said the state added 37,600 seasonally adjusted nonfarm jobs in February for a growth rate of 2.8 percent.

"The Texas economy added 314,200 jobs over the year for an annual growth rate of 2.8 percent," commission chairman Andres Alcantar said in a statement.

"Growing at 5.5 percent over the year, mining and logging continued to show the highest rate of expansion of any major industry in Texas," said TWC Commissioner Representing Labor Ronny Congleton.

"In the last year, we have seen broad-based growth in Texas, with all 11 major industries continuing to grow annually, and 10 of those industries posting annual growth rates of 2.0 percent or higher," said TWC Commissioner Representing Employers Hope Andrade.

While Midland had the state's lowest rate, the highest was in McAllen-Edinburg-Mission at 10.3 percent.

Lesser prairie chicken listing pushes Kansas into lawsuit

Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kan. — Kansas will join a lawsuit against the federal agency that's listing the lesser prairie chicken as a threatened species, Gov. Sam Brownback announced Friday, saying the designation isn't necessary to rebuild the bird's population.

Oklahoma filed a federal lawsuit last week against the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, challenging the agency's process in considering the listing. Brownback said Kansas expects to enter the lawsuit next week and again said the service's action is an "overreach" by the federal government that will harm the Kansas economy and intrude into residents' daily lives.

Brownback and state wildlife Secretary Robin Jennison said the action isn't necessary because the five states with lesser prairie chicken habitats — Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas — worked for several years with the federal agency on a conservation plan. The federal agency praised that plan in announcing the listing Thursday.

Kansas officials said they fear the federal agency will use its authority to impose new restrictions on farming, ranching, oil, natural gas and wind-energy production in areas where the lesser prairie chicken roams. But Ron Klataske, executive director of Audubon of Kansas, said state officials are overreacting and called their response to the listing "absurd."

Because the federal agency hasn't published the rule associated with the listing yet, Jennison acknowledged that state officials don't yet know all the full implications. But when reporters pressed him about whether federal oversight might not turn out to be as strict as state officials fear, Jennison said, "It will."

"It's the declaration of 'threatened.' That's the line that we did not want them to come across," Brownback said. "They went ahead and did it."

Brownback stopped short of endorsing a bill passed by the state Senate declaring the federal government has no authority to manage prairie chickens within Kansas and making it a felony for a federal employee to enforce a federal law, rule or treaty on the birds.

The federal agency declined to comment because of Oklahoma's lawsuit. But in Thursday's announcement, agency Director Don Ashe announced said it would impose an extraordinary rule to recognize "significant" efforts by the states and landowners, allowing the states to manage conservation efforts. Ashe said listing the lesser prairie chicken as threatened instead of endangered would allow for more flexibility.

Judge upholds country of origin label for meat

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Shoppers who want to buy American beef for dinner instead of meat from Canada or Mexico will still be able to find the country of origin on the label.

A federal appeals court ruling Friday allows the government to go forward with rules that require labels on packaged steaks, ribs and other cuts of meat to say where the animals were born, raised and slaughtered. The meat industry attempted to block the rules, which went into effect last year, saying they are costly and provide no health benefits to the consumer.

In court, the meat industry said the rules go beyond what Congress intended and violate First Amendment rights to freedom of speech by forcing meat producers to provide information about their products. That information is of no real value to the consumer, the industry argued.

Judge Stephen F. Williams of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia ruled those claims were unlikely to succeed in court and refused to block the labeling rules, agreeing with a lower federal court.

Williams wrote that the labeling "enables a consumer to apply patriotic or protectionist criteria in the choice of meat" and "enables one who believes that United States practices and regulation are better at assuring food safety than those of other countries, or indeed the reverse, to act on that premise."

He said those goals are worthy of what he called a "minimal" intrusion on the meat industry's First Amendment rights.

The lawsuit was led by the American Meat Institute, which represents the nation's largest meatpackers, and joined by other meat industry groups. In a statement, the American Meat Institute said it was disappointed by the ruling and disagreed with it. James H. Hodges, interim president and CEO of AMI, said the group is "evaluating our options moving forward."

The meat industry has argued that the paperwork to make the labels possible is burdensome and that it's not practical to keep cattle and hogs from other countries separate from domestic animals.

The labeling rules have support from consumer groups, environmental groups and some farm groups. Ranchers who raise cattle near the northern border and compete with Canadian ranchers have been most supportive of the rules, which Congress wrote in 2002 and revised in 2008 after years of haggling with the meat industry.

Under the rules, a label must be specific. For example, it may say the animal that produced the meat was "born in Mexico, raised and slaughtered in the United States" or "born, raised and slaughtered in the United States." Those rules are a revision from USDA rules originally issued in 2009 that would have been less specific and allowed the labels to say "Product of U.S." or "Product of U.S. and Canada." USDA revised the rules after a World Trade Organization challenge from Mexico and Canada.

The rules also prohibit meat processors from mixing meat from animals born, raised or slaughtered in other countries with meat from the U.S., which was a common practice before the regulations.

The meat industry also tried to scuttle the rules by lobbying Congress to write language repealing them in the farm bill, which was signed by President Barack Obama earlier this year. But farm-state lawmakers said there wasn't enough congressional support for a repeal.

Consumer advocacy group Center for Science in the Public Interest praised the court decision, saying it gives consumers more information.

"The more transparency and choice consumers have into where to put their dining dollars and where to place their trust, the better," said CSPI's Sarah Klein.

American Airlines apologizes for note on deaf couple's bag

Associated Press

DALLAS — A deaf couple is upset over a note that an American Airlines employee attached to one of their bags, referring to the pair as "deaf and dumb."

James Moehle and Angela Huckaby were returning home to Houston from a vacation in Hawaii when one of their bags was misplaced by the airline. When it was delivered later, a handwritten note attached to the bag read, "Please Text Deaf And Dumb."

Moehle's mother, Kaye Moehle, said the note was "outrageous and cruel and unnecessary."

Airline spokesman Casey Norton said Friday that the employee who wrote the note did not intend to insult anyone and will go through sensitivity training.

One of the couple's bags was misplaced on the final leg of the couple's journey home, from Dallas to Houston. In such cases, American uses another company to delivery late-arriving baggage to passengers.

Norton said an American employee who is not a native English speaker scrawled the note to alert a delivery driver that he should contact the couple by text message when delivering the bag.

The airline employee "will go through new respect training," Norton said. "We are using it as a systemwide teaching example so that everybody is more respectful of those who have different impairments."

That was welcome news for Kaye Moehle, who had initially demanded that the worker be fired.

"I felt hurt for my son because I know how hard he works" — he's been employed as a technician at the same heating and air conditioning company for 16 years, she told The Associated Press.

On Friday, Moehle said she didn't want anyone to lose their job and that some good could come out of the situation.

"The public hopefully has been educated a little more to know that the term 'deaf and dumb' has no place in our society, like other derogatory labeling of other good people," she said.

Grenade found, removed from Long Island street

Associated Press

SOUTH FARMINGDALE, N.Y. — Police say they've successfully removed a hand grenade from the curb of a Long Island street in New York after a pedestrian spotted the explosive and called 911.

A Nassau County Police Department spokesman said the call came in just after noon Friday.

The grenade, which had the pin in it, was discovered near a Long Island Railroad overpass in South Farmingdale, which is about 39 miles east of Manhattan.

The police spokesman said detectives with the arson bomb squad removed the grenade by using a robot, which put the device in a special container. He said eventually the grenade will be detonated in a remote area.

Police are investigating who might have owned the explosive.

Permian Basin rig count up five this week to 518

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in the Permian Basin increased five this week to 518, according to a report released Friday by Houston-based oilfield services company Baker Hughes.

There were 866 rigs in Texas, an increase of eight.

In other Texas basins, the Eagle Ford added four rigs for a total of 223; the Granite Wash had 55 rigs, up one; and the Barnett had 24 rigs, down one.

A year ago this week there were 467 rigs in the Permian Basin and 823 rigs in Texas.

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in the U.S. increased six this week to 1,809. There were 1,487 rigs listed as searching for oil, up 14; 318 as searching for natural gas, down eight; and four as miscellaneous, unchanged. At this time last year there were 1,354 oil rigs and 389 gas rigs.

By trajectory, there were 384 vertical drilling rigs, unchanged; 1,211 horizontal drilling rigs, up five; and 155 directional drilling rigs, up one.

The top five basins by rig count this week were the Permian; the Eagle Ford; the Williston with 185, down one; the Marcellus with 76, down two; and the Mississippian with 73, unchanged.

The top five states by rig count were Texas, Oklahoma with 188, up five; North Dakota with 178, down one; Louisiana with 105, down three; and New Mexico with 88, up two.

In the U.S. there were 1,741 rigs listed as on land, up 11; 18 as in inland waters, unchanged; and 50 as offshore, down five.

There were four fewer rigs in the Gulf of Mexico this week for a total of 49.

The number of rigs exploring for oil and natural gas in Canada decreased 91 this week to 298. There were 155 rigs listed as searching for oil, down 55; 143 as searching for natural gas, down 36; and zero as miscellaneous, unchanged. A year ago this week there were 246 rigs in Canada.

The total number of rigs in the North America region — which includes the U.S. and Canada but excludes the Gulf of Mexico — decreased 85 this week for a total of 2,107. At this time last year there were 1,994 rigs in the Gulf of Mexico.

NEW YORK

Oil up slightly, ends week with 2 percent gain

The price of oil rose slightly Friday and finished the week with a 2 percent gain amid signs of stronger economic growth in the U.S. and global supply concerns.

Benchmark U.S. crude oil for May delivery gained 39 cents to $101.67 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange. For the week, oil rose 2.2 percent.

Concerns are growing in energy markets about supply from Nigeria, which produces about 2.5 million barrels of oil daily. There have been reports of sabotage at a pipeline, where leaks have forced Shell Nigeria to halt exports from its Forcados terminal since March 4.

Meanwhile, the recovery in the U.S. economy signals greater demand ahead. The Commerce Department on Thursday raised its economic growth estimate for the last quarter of 2013 to 2.6 percent from 2.4 percent, largely because of higher consumer spending.

Heading into the weekend, U.S. drivers are paying an average of $3.54 a gallon at the pump, according to AAA. That's 11 cents higher than a week ago, but 11 cents cheaper than at this time last year.

MONTANA

US government: Industry hampering oil train safety

BILLINGS — U.S. transportation officials rebuked the oil industry Friday for not giving up information regulators say they need to gauge the danger of moving crude by rail, after several accidents highlighted the explosive properties of fuel from the booming oil shale fields on the Northern Plains.

Department of Transportation officials told The Associated Press they have received only limited data on the characteristics of oil from the Bakken region of North Dakota and Montana, despite requests lodged by Secretary Antony Foxx more than two months ago.

"The overall and ongoing lack of cooperation is disappointing, slows progress and certainly raises concerns," the agency said in a statement. "We still lack data we requested and that energy stakeholders agreed to produce within 30 days."

The DOT said "a handful of individual companies" have offered the information being sought but would not provide specifics.

Representatives from the American Petroleum Institute refuted the foot-dragging accusation.

"We'd like to know what information they're not getting so we can give it to them," said API spokesman Eric Wohlschlegel.

API president Jack Gerard said oil companies have been encouraged by the group to share what they know. He said there's more data to come, but added that API does not serve as an industry "library" so it would come from multiple sources.

There have been at least four major accidents involving trains carrying crude from the Bakken since production began to boom in 2008. Among them was a derailment last July that killed 47 people and torched a large section of downtown Lac-Megantic, Quebec.

The combustibility of the crude in Lac-Megantic was comparable to gasoline, according to Canadian investigators.

Other accidents with explosions have occurred after derailments of oil trains in Alabama, North Dakota and Oklahoma.

The string of accidents led regulators to warn emergency responders and the public in January that Bakken oil — a light, sweet crude that has high amounts of natural gases and other volatile compounds — could be more dangerous than many conventional crudes.

Some crudes from elsewhere in North America and around the globe share similar volatile properties.

But the Bakken fuel is the first to be moved in North America in modern times in such massive quantities by rail. That's exposed a new set of safety concerns, including a well-known defect in tens of thousands of rail cars that leads them to rupture in accidents.

House will vote Tuesday on aid for Ukraine

> "We must target those guilty of aggression against Ukraine and stand by our allies and friends to ensure peace and security in Europe."
> Rep. Ed Royce, R-Calif.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Aid to cash-strapped Ukraine and sanctions on Russia remain on track in Congress, but it will take a few days longer before the legislation gets to President Barack Obama.

House leaders decided to vote Tuesday on the package, putting off an expected Friday vote. Congressional aides said the decision by the International Monetary Fund on Thursday to release billions of dollars to Ukraine lessened the urgency to act.

The delay ensures that House members will have a chance to go on record with a roll-call vote in backing the Senate version of the bill.

If signed into law, the bill would provide $1 billion in loan guarantees to Ukraine and further sanction Russia for its annexation of Crimea.

"We must target those guilty of aggression against Ukraine and stand by our allies and friends to ensure peace and security in Europe," said Rep. Ed Royce, R-Calif., the chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Obama was wrapping up a three-country European trip during which he solicited support of allies in challenging Russia's moves in Ukraine. The rare congressional unity contrasted with recent partisan divisions over the Ukraine package, including disputes over new IRS regulations on groups claiming tax-exempt status and International Monetary Fund reforms.

In a retreat two days earlier, Senate Democrats backed down and stripped the IMF reform language from the bill, a defeat for the Obama administration, which had promoted the IMF provisions.

Ukraine, a nation of 46 million people, is battling to install a semblance of normalcy since Ukraine's pro-Russian president, Viktor Yanukovych, was ousted in February after months of protests ignited by his decision to back away from closer relations with the European Union and turn toward Russia.

On Thursday, the IMF pledged up to $18 billion in loans to prop up Ukraine's teetering economy. The money was hinged on structural reforms that Ukraine has pledged to undertake.

Other donors, including the European Union and Japan, already have pledged further aid to Ukraine, conditioned on the conclusion of an IMF bailout and reform package. The total amount of international assistance will be about $27 billion over the next two years.

White House: Putin calls Obama to talk about crisis

Russian President Vladimir Putin called President Barack Obama on Friday to talk about a "U.S. proposal for a diplomatic resolution to the crisis in Ukraine," the White House said in a statement.

Putin called to discuss a proposal put forward by Secretary of State John F. Kerry, the White House said. Kerry presented a plan to Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov earlier this week.

The statement did not detail the proposal but said it was being developed with Ukrainian and European partners. Obama suggested Putin put his response in writing, the White House said.

Ousted leader urges referendum

Ukraine's fugitive leader pushed Friday for a vote to determine the status of each of the country's regions — a call serving the Kremlin's purpose of turning Ukraine into a loosely knit federation.

The statement from Viktor Yanukovych, the former Ukrainian president who fled to Russia last month after three months of protests, raised the threat of more unrest in Ukraine's Russian-speaking eastern provinces, where many resent the new Ukrainian government.

Also Friday, Russian Defense Minister Sergei Shoigu told President Vladimir Putin that the Ukrainian military withdrawal from Crimea was complete. Ukrainian soldiers were seen carrying duffel bags and flags as they shipped out of the Black Sea peninsula that Russia has annexed.

MHS, Lee both enter today's rivalry game with wins

James Durbin/Reporter-Telegram

Midland High's Sydney Betcher (4) scores against Abilene High on Friday at Audrey Gill Sports Complex.

By Len Hayward
lhayward@mrt.com

The Midland High and Lee softball teams will be coming from different emotional perspectives into today's second meeting of the season.

The Lady Rebels had little trouble dispatching Amarillo Tascosa on Friday in five innings, 16-0, in their longest road trip of the season. Meanwhile, Midland High had to hang on once again in the late innings in a wild 12-8 victory against Abilene High at the Audrey Gill Sports Complex.

The two teams will meet at 2 p.m. today at Gene Smith Field, both with victories, but also trying to keep their momentum in district play.

"This was an emotional one right here because at the end they were pushing and coming back," Midland High coach Shawnda Vines said. "To have an emotional lapse like that you hope they will come back (today) on a high note."

The Lady Bulldogs (14-6, 7-3 in District 2-5A) used a 10-run third inning to come back from a 2-0 deficit against Abilene High on Friday.

But in the seventh, the Lady Eagles came up with a big inning of their own and scored five runs to make things interesting.

"You have to have a short memory. I guess on the good and bad," said MHS catcher Courtney Warren, who was 2-for-2 on the day with a two-run single in the third. "I think we take it game by game and as soon as this game is over, we are ready for the next one."

It was the second straight game the Lady Bulldogs built a big lead only to see some of it evaporate in the final inning. Odessa High scored five in the seventh in Tuesday's 16-9 win for Midland High on the road.

Vines said her team will have to play better today against the Lady Rebels, who MHS beat 3-0 on March 8 at home.

"It's tough going back to-back knowing it's your crosstown rival," Vines said. "We have to hit the ball better, a lot better than we did the last time. We definitely have to play better defense, and (Friday) we made some key errors at times that just opened the door."

Tech takes over Tall City

James Durbin/Reporter-Telegram

Red Raider fans walk outside of Grande Communications stadium before Texas Tech spring football practice on April 6, 2013. The Red Raiders have returned to Midland as they will hold another spring scrimmage today at Grande.

Red Raiders make 2nd trip to Grande

By Oscar LeRoy
oleroy@mrt.com

When the Texas Tech football team pulled up to Grande Communications Stadium for its scrimmage last April, the Red Raiders saw Texas Tech flags waving in the air, they smelled the barbecue and burgers cooking on the grills, and they saw several thousand fans waiting to see them in a practice for the first time outside of Lubbock.

"When we pulled up there were 10,000 fans in the stadium, a raucous crowd and just overwhelming support," said Texas Tech coach Kliff Kingsbury earlier this week. "Nobody knew what to expect. The crowd was great and into the game, and with great energy."

The Red Raider football team, coming off an 8-5 season and a Holiday Bowl victory over Arizona State, will be making its second trip to the Tall City today to once again scrimmage at Grande Communications Stadium. The gates open to the free event at 11:30 a.m. and the team will begin scrimmaging at 1 p.m.

"We're thrilled and overwhelmed to be coming back," Kingsbury said.

The Preparation

Preparing to make a quick trip to Midland for a scrimmage is no easy task, but it's not as hectic as preparing for a true away game, according to Zane Perry, who's been the Red Raider football team's equipment manager since 2007 and a staff member since 1999.

"It's a little bit easier than traveling to an away game, that's for sure," Perry said.

Perry said the equipment staff begins packing up early in the week and it makes sure it tries to pack everything it needs including balls, pants, shoes, helmets, pads and extra pads if needed.

"Last year we overpacked, but we still make sure to bring extra equipment because you never know what coaches will need. That always seems to happen," Perry said.

Once the equipment staff gets everything that's needed packed up into trucks, they will depart in a bus loaded with equipment staff, managers and trainers from Lubbock at about 8:45 a.m. today ahead of the team. Perry said they arrive in advance to unload the trucks and set up the locker room for the players.

"We'll have it all set up for them and try to make it feel like home, so they can have easy access to everything ," Perry said.

Texas Tech Associate Athletics Director of Communications Blayne Beal said this trip is a break from the norm for the football team, whose traveling party to Midland will consist of about 200 people that includes, players, coaches and support staff.

"It's different from an away game because there is no overnight," Beal said. "It's a day trip where we bus in, and it's a unique experience for our student athletes. We all know training can be very rigorous, so any time you have an opportunity to put a game day environment together in another city, it's exciting for the players. We had tremendous fan support the last time we were in Midland and it was a no-brainer to come back."

What to expect

Kingsbury said the Red Raiders will run about 100 plays, and every starter

Howard College's Brandon Wagner gets the force out at second on Midland College's JoJo Collazo on a double play attempt Friday at Christensen Stadium

Hawks sweep Chaps at home

No. 3 Hawks	9-11
Chaparrals	3-3

By Oscar LeRoy
oleroy@mrt.com

Not much went right for the Midland College baseball team against No. 3-ranked Howard College on a sunny and breezy Friday afternoon at Christensen Stadium.

MC coach David Coleman summed it up the best by saying that it was a tough day for his pitchers, hitters and defense. Howard used a five-run third inning in the first game to beat the Chaparrals, 9-3, then Howard used a pair of four-run innings and good start from Austin Solecitto to beat MC 11-3 in the second game that was run-ruled after seven innings.

The momentum that the Chaps (13-16, 2-12 in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference) thought they had after last weekend's doubleheader sweep at El Paso Community College, is now gone like dust in the West Texas wind.

"We played really poorly," Coleman said. "We just kind of reverted back to not being able to perform. Consistency is obviously an issue."

In the first game, MC starter Thomas McIlraith struggled from the start but he was able to get a pair of pickoffs in the first inning after the Hawks (24-6, 9-5) got two singles to threaten.

But then in third, the Hawks got to McIlraith (2-5) with five runs on six hits, with the big hit coming from Josh Favela on a two-run double. McIlraith was pulled after 2 2/3 innings for Clay O'Dell, who finished the game.

"He was behind in every count," said Coleman of his sophomore right-hander. "He just didn't have it today. We needed him to step up and lead us with a good start. For whatever reason,

Astros score 6 in the 1st inning, beat Rangers

San Antonio Express-News

Astros	6
Rangers	5

SAN ANTONIO — The Houston Astros got all of the runs they needed in the first inning, then held on to beat the Texas Rangers 6-5 in the first game of the H-E-B Big League Weekend at the Alamodome on Friday.

The Astros offensive show began early, with leadoff batter Dexter Fowler singling off Rangers starter Matt Harrison. Next up, Robbie Grossman doubled. Two at-bats later, Jason Castro's single drove in Fowler and the Astros took a 1-0 lead.

Chris Carter, batting sixth, took a 1-2 pitch and drove it over the 16-foot wall, just right of the 330-foot mark. The three-run shot made it 4-0.

The Rangers' first score came shortly after that. Adrian Beltre, leading off in the bottom of the second, took Jerome Williams' 2-1 pitch over a wall that would be considered center field in a normally-configured ballpark. That left it 4-1.

Promoters were able to fit most of a regulation baseball field into the Alamodome, which is configured for football. The left field fence was 330 feet from home and the center field fence, directly behind second base, was 380 feet away. Right field was dealt a bad hand by geometry, sitting at 271 feet. Despite the snug fit down the first base line, none of the players were able to clear that fence.

The attendance was modest. If this was part of the city's audition for an MLB team, San Antonio forgot its lines. Only 22,677 fans showed up. The lower sections around the infield were packed, but the upper deck wasn't. And there were scattered clusters of fans in the outfield seats.

Harrison, pulled after three innings, said he started the game filled with adrenaline, but ended up overthrowing and gripping the ball too tightly.

Lady Wranglers sweep twinbill from Lady Chaps

From staff reports

No. 17 Lady Wranglers	22-7
Lady Chaparrals	12-3

The No. 17-ranked Odessa College softball team used its bats to sweep a Western Junior College Athletic Conference doubleheader from Midland College on Friday afternoon at the Midland College softball field.

The Lady Wranglers pounded out 22 hits and took advantage of 12 errors by the Lady Chaparrals for a wild 22-12 victory in the first game. Then in the second game, OC had 12 hits and a pair of three-run innings to beat the Lady Chaps 7-3.

The first game was tied at 2 after three innings before the scoring barrage started with a five-run top of the fourth by OC (27-9, 9-1). It was then answered by a five-run bottom of the fourth by the Lady Chaps to tie the game back up at 7.

The Lady Wranglers then broke the game open with a six-run fifth. After MC scored a run in the bottom of the fifth, OC scored four more in the sixth to take a 17-8 lead.

OC added a five-run seventh inning.

Shelby Weissenbach took the loss for MC (18-15, 5-5) as she allowed 17 runs (seven earned) on 18 hits with three strikeouts and four walks.

Forrest Allen/MC Athletics

Midland College second baseman Savannah Koke, left, attempts to turn a double play against Odessa College on Friday at the Midland College softball field.

Janessa Flynn got the win but she gave up 12 earned runs on 15 hits with four strikeouts and no walks.

For MC, Tyneesha Houkamu was 3-for-5 with a home run, a double and four RBI; Amy Anderson was 3-for-4 with two RBI; while Taylor Daniels, Danielle Bottley, Ka'iulani Kamai and Tammy Villiamu each had two hits with Villiamu getting two doubles. Pililani Smith-Keopuhiwa added a solo home run.

Cyrena Taylor led OC's offense by going 5-for-5 with two doubles, two runs scored and an RBI. Payton Wood, Victoria Ruiz, and Monica Caporal each had three hits, while Taylor Vines, Ciarra Galindo, Zoe Murillo and Flynn each had two hits with Flynn also hitting a home run.

In the second game, Alice Donohoe held the Lady Chaps to three runs on nine hits in her complete-game victory.

Daniels had a pair of doubles and scored two runs for MC, while Savannah Koke also had two hits.

Sammie Murrietta led OC by going 3-for-4 with a double, two RBI and a run scored. Murillo and Caporal each added two hits.

Houkamu took the loss in the circle for MC.

The series will switch to Odessa College softball field today with a doubleheader beginning at 2 p.m.

it didn't happen."

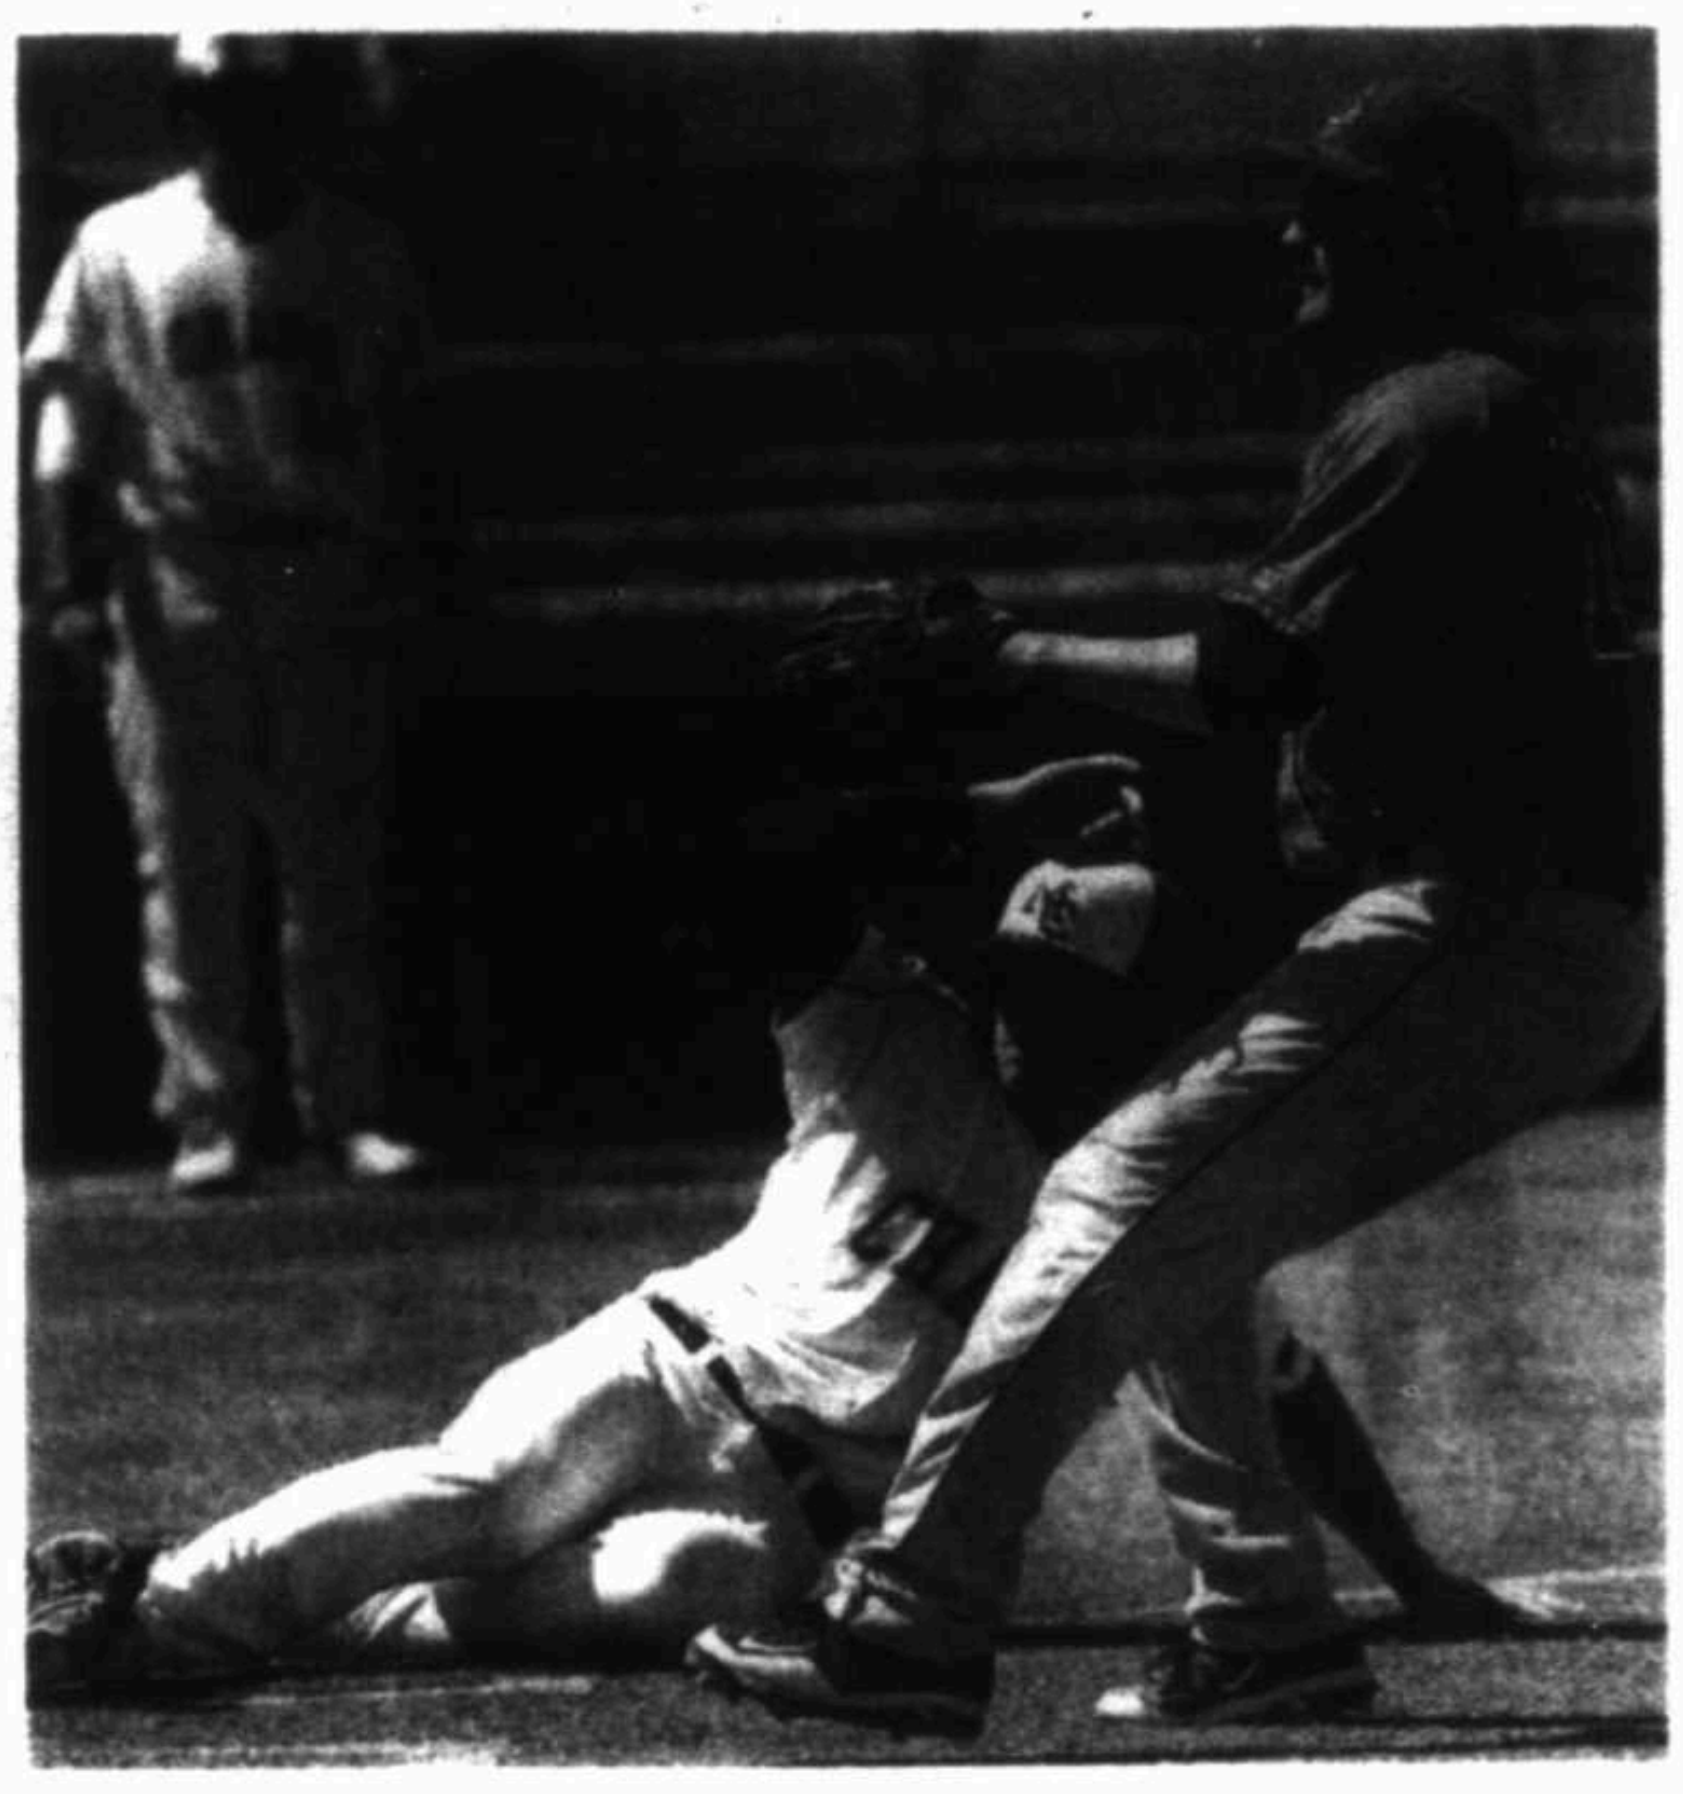
Howard's sophomore left-hander Tanner Scott wasn't as sharp as he has been with five walks but he kept the Chap offense from doing much damage. Scott allowed one run on three hits and six strikeouts in his six innings of work.

"He was good enough to win," said Howard coach Britt Smith about Scott. "That's the advantage of having that kind of an arm. When you have a middle 90s arm or a touch a above that, you can get away with a few things. But he gets a lot of swings and misses too, which helps him."

Added Coleman, "We never threatened them offensively. I think they got to a five-run lead and they had their guy on the mound, I think they just kind of went on cruise control from there. We didn't play bad, but we didn't play good. We just didn't do anything."

In the second game, Solecitto — another sophomore lefty — was really good as he retired the first 10 batters he faced.

Meanwhile, the Hawk offense backed up Solecitto with a four-run second inning that was sparked by Ishmael Edwards' bases-clearing triple to right-center against MC starter Michael Brosig.



Tim Fischer/Reporter-Telegram

Midland College's Blaine Prescott scores on a pass ball as Howard College's Gabriel Raygoza covers the plate Friday in the first game of a doubleheader at Christensen Stadium.

Brosig was eventually chased after three innings and after giving up seven runs on seven hits with one walk and seven strikeouts, three of which came in the top of the first inning.

The Hawks added four more runs in the top of the seventh and the 11-run lead was more than enough for Solecitto, who didn't give up a run until the seventh when the Chaps tried to rally.

Solecitto, the New Jersey native, allowed three runs (two earned) on six hits and struck out seven in his complete-game victory.

"I thought Austin was really good today," Smith said. "We've been really bad the last couple of weeks defensively and it showed it right there at the end with the error on the third baseman. But I thought we were so much better today defensively. That's the way we played early in the year but because of injuries and everything, we're still trying to figure out who were are."

The Chaps are also trying to figure out how to be a more consistent team and will look to find that consistency at noon today when the series switches to Howard's Jack Barber Field for another doubleheader.

should get reps as the first-team offense is expected to go against the first-team defense, and so on and so forth.

"We want to see how they play in front of people and see how they react when the lights come on," said the second-year coach. "It's a different environment from practice, and we should have a good crowd. We want to see who steps up to the spotlight and who shies from it. Anytime you can simulate a game-day type atmosphere in practice, it's good for your ballclub."

A key this spring is to get reps for Tanner Tausch at backup quarterback. Tausch is a walk-on transfer from Kilgore College and is currently the backup to rising sophomore and Holiday Bowl MVP Davis Webb. Getting Tausch reps became a priority for Kingsbury after seeing three quarterbacks transfer since the end of the 2013 regular season.

"It's been a huge emphasis this spring, getting Tausch most of the second team reps," Kingsbury said. "With what transpired since the end of last semester, we need to get guys game ready."

While getting quarterback reps are important, Kingsbury emphasized that it will be important this spring to develop that overall quality depth that they've been needing on the team.

"In year two of the system, we have a good feel for what we have at this point," Kingsbury said. "We will practice 15 total times this spring and it will be important to continue to develop that continuity during the limited amount of time we have. We remind the players that we have some reinforcements coming in this summer so they will need to step up because there will be some good competition this fall."

This trip to Midland should give Kingsbury and his staff another good indication of how much the Red Raiders have progressed since the end of last season.

Lee had 11 hits, and starting pitcher Darby O'Grady gave up three hits in five innings with five strikeouts.

Lee hit three home runs in the game, and O'Grady's had a grand slam. Lee coach Wes Overton said playing a game on Friday, he hopes will relax his team for today's matchup. In the last meeting between the two teams, Lee left the bases loaded twice in the late innings and couldn't bring across a run.

"I think it worked out better," Overton said. "Having a game under your belt and then playing tomorrow might help us relax a little bit, hopefully. We are trying to find anything mentally right now that will work for us."

LEE-MHS NOTES

■ Midland High pitcher Stefani Baeza had one of her rougher outings in district play on Friday as the senior pitched 2 1/3 innings before leaving the game. Baeza gave up two runs on three hits, but had three walks and one strikeout. Left-hander Brooke Ryan replaced Baeza, and then in the seventh Kendra Evans replaced Ryan.

Vines said after Friday's game she is not sure who will start today's game in the circle.

■ During MHS' 10-run inning on Friday, the Lady Bulldogs were helped by four Lady Eagle errors, and the Lady Bulldogs only had one earned run in that big inning. A total of 13 hitters went to the plate. Brittany Baggett, who was 2-for-3 on Friday, and Aryn Flores each scored two runs in that inning.

■ Overton said he wasn't sure who will pitch today's game against Midland High. He said he was impressed with how well O'Grady pitched on Friday in Amarillo.

"It was probably the first game all year she didn't have any walks," Overton said. "She got behind a few batters, but fought her back and got the out."

QB Hill latest Aggie afoul of the law

By Brent Zwerneman
San Antonio Express-News

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M quarterback Kenny Hill has emulated former A&M great Johnny Manziel in a way Aggies hoped he wouldn't – with an appearance on the police blotter.

College Station police arrested Hill, who's battling for the Aggies' starting gig, at 2:57 a.m. Friday in the Northgate bar district on a charge of public intoxication, according to the police department's website.

The Bryan-College Station Eagle, which obtained police documentation, reported, "Hill was passed out in a planter full of rocks and plants in front of the restaurant-bar (called Chimy's) when officers arrived, police said in the arrest report. When asked who the current president of the United States was, Hill reportedly answered 'Bush,' and told officers his name was 'Kennedy.'"

Hill, senior Matt Joeckel and freshman Kyle Allen are all vying to replace Manziel, the 2012 Heisman Trophy winner. A&M spokesman Alan Cannon said Hill has been suspended indefinitely from the program per athletic department policy. Nearly two years ago, College Station police arrested Manziel for fighting, failing to identify himself and possessing fake licenses, all prior to his earning the starting job over Jameill Showers in August 2012. For the record, Manziel was arrested at 3:24 a.m.

Manziel has bypassed on his final two years of eligibility, and is expected to be a first-round selection in the May NFL draft. Meanwhile the arrest of Hill, son of former major-league pitcher Ken Hill, continues a trend of Aggies running into trouble this offseason. Touted safety Kameron Miles was dismissed from the program earlier this month for what Rivals.com reported as theft.

Defensive tackle Isaiah Golden was arrested in February on a misdemeanor marijuana charge, while fellow sophomore Darian Claiborne, a linebacker, was arrested at the same time for a noise violation (for yelling while the players were being questioned). Claiborne had already been arrested on charges of marijuana possession in December, and missed the Aggies' 52-48 victory over Duke in the Chick-fil-A Bowl as a result.

"I lightened up after that," the leftie said, "and I got some quick outs and ground balls."

Righter-hander Nick Martinez came in for Harrison and did a solid job, holding the Astros bats in check until the sixth inning. That's when pinch hitter Alex Presley doubled, scoring Ronald Torreyes from second base, making it 5-1.

Texas showed signs of life in the 6th inning against new Houston pitcher Chad Qualls.

Chris Snyder singled, as did Michael Choice. Choice was forced out at second when Brent Lillibridge's ground ball went to shortstop Carlos Correra, who flipped it to Torreyes at second. But his throw to went awry. Snyder scored and Lillibridge made it to second, Snyder's run made it 5-2.

Kyle Busch wins pole at Martinsville Speedway

By Hank Kurz Jr.
Associated Press

MARTINSVILLE, Va. — Kyle Busch has seen it time and again at Martinsville Speedway.

Driving down pit road, heading back onto the track and in contention for the lead, Busch is used to seeing the pole-sitter gun the engine just off the jack and reassume the race lead.

Busch hopes to finally get to experience that for himself at Martinsville Speedway on Sunday after earning the pole on NASCAR's smallest, tightest track for the first time in 19 career starts.

"I think that's a great thing for us," Busch said after winning the pole with a lap at 99.674 mph. "We get to pit there and of course drop the jack and just lunge across the line and be good.

"You need to still run up front all day. I think that it's a great opportunity for us to pick up some spots say if we're second, third, fourth, whatever, but you definitely always want to stay as close to the front as you can and try not to use that box as much as some guys have in the past."

The pole is the 14th of Busch's career.

In an interesting twist under NASCAR's new knockout qualifying system, Busch won it while Joey Logano set a track record. That came at 100.201 mph during the first phase of two-session qualifying. All 44 cars competed in the 30-minute first session, and the top 12 moved into the 10-minute phase two.

Denny Hamlin earned the No. 2 starting spot with a lap at 99.548 mph, and will be followed on the starting grid by Logano and Hendrick Motorsports teammates Jimmie Johnson and Jeff Gordon. That puts Busch in some pretty accomplished company because Hamlin (4), Johnson and Gordon (8 each) have won a lot.

Busch, though, is coming off a victory last week at Auto Club Speedway in Fontana, Calif., and while he said it wasn't dominating, it gave him hope that the Joe Gibbs Racing teams are coming together.

"It just seems to be working well right now, whatever is working," he said.

Hamlin, who promised earlier in the day that he would win on Sunday, wasn't in love with the outside starting spot because it can be tricky to get down to the bottom on restarts from the outside, said nothing that happened in practice or qualifying made his change his view of how it can all unfold.

"I knew, even going into this weekend, I knew we were going to be really good contenders and be in the mix anyway," he said. "I feel like after running a couple laps of practice I felt like this was a car that was capable of winning. I think with tire management being more of a factor than it's ever been, it kind of lends itself to my driving style even more. For that reason I think we'll be tough on Sunday."

Logano has two top-10 finishes on the 0.526-mile oval, but none since 2010.

"So we've got a track record, but we don't have a pole. How does that work?" he asked.

A solid pit position, he said, could help turns things around on Sunday.

"Obviously, the pit stall is very important, especially here. It's a dangerous pit road, so you want to get a nice spot you can get in and out of, but obviously here it's a slow pit road and you can make up a lot with timing lines on pit road," he said. "For that reason alone it's big, and that's worth multiple spots throughout the race when you're thinking about making a lot of pit stops."

Danica Patrick qualified 10th, her best starting spot in a race not held at Daytona. Her previous best starting position was 21st, accomplished twice last season.

MHS grad Jayson Nix traded to Phillies

From staff reports

Midland High grad and Major League infielder Jayson Nix has been acquired by the Philadelphia Phillies from the Tampa Bay Rays in exchange for cash considerations. It was announced on Friday night by Phillies President and General Manager Ruben Amaro Jr. on the team's official website.

Nix, 31, hit .270 (10-37) with four doubles and one home run for the Rays this spring as a non-roster invitee. Last season, he played in 87 games for the New York Yankees and batted .236 with three home runs and 24 RBI. A right-handed hitter, he hit .266 against left-handed pitchers last year. Defensively, Nix made 48 starts at shortstop and 41 at third base along with four appearances at second base.

For his career, Nix is a .218 hitter with 37 home runs, 126 RBI and 37 stolen bases in 425 games for the Colorado Rockies (2008), Chicago White Sox (2009-10), Cleveland Indians (2010), Toronto Blue Jays (2011) and Yankees (2012-13). He has made 149 career starts at third base, 101 at second base, 68 at shortstop, 14 in left field and two in right field.

Nix is the younger brother of former Phillie Laynce Nix, who is currently a free agent.

Peverley hopeful, patient over return to hockey

Dallas Stars center Rich Peverley responds to questions during a news conference Friday in Dallas. Peverley collapsed on the bench during a game earlier this month. He then had surgery to correct an abnormal heart rhythm.

DALLAS — Rich Peverley wants to play hockey again.

The Dallas Stars forward won't know for a while whether his health will allow him to continue his career.

Peverley said Friday his recovery is "going to take time" in his first meeting with reporters since collapsing on the bench during a game March 10 because of an irregular heartbeat.

The 31-year-old Peverley said he skated Thursday for the first time since the incident. That was 10 days after he underwent a procedure in Cleveland designed to correct his condition. He won't play again this season.

"The recovery process is going to take time and as cliche as it sounds, I've really learned this in the past week that it is day by day," Peverley said at a news conference before the Stars' game against Nashville. "Ultimately my goal would be to come back if it's the right time."

Peverley said he remembered everything from before and after he lost consciousness against Columbus. The game was postponed and will be played April 9.

The understated veteran didn't offer a dramatic re-enactment of the critical moments when his life was in danger. He simply said he remembered "feeling like kind of like almost like I was seizing up a little bit," and leaving it at that.

After he collapsed, Peverley was rushed to a nearby hallway, where he was quickly stabilized before going to a hospital.

"I don't want to say I keep replaying it in my head but sometimes you think about it," Peverley said.

Family plays key role in Colter's union push

Jay Cohen and Tim Reynolds
Associated Press

Laura Pales/Lincoln Journal-Star

CHICAGO — Kain Colter's grandmother often spoke about rights and equality, values she brought home from her job managing an office of a Colorado law firm.

Those conversations planted a seed for Colter, who would go on to become a quarterback at Northwestern University — and the face of an exploding movement to give college athletes the right to form unions and bargain.

"He understands that he's been put on this earth to serve people," Colter's father, Spencer, said.

From an esteemed athletic career at Cherry Creek High School in suburban Denver all the way to a football revival at Northwestern, Colter has accumulated a list of admirers who rave about his leadership and intelligence.

After a decision this week by a regional director of the National Labor Relations board who said full scholarship players can be considered employees of the university, he also could leave a legacy as the athlete who formed the foundation of a dramatic overhaul of college sports that could potentially give athletes a chance to fight for a piece of an industry that generates billions based on their performance.

"Looking out for people and making sure people are treated fairly has always been in our family morals," Colter said in an interview with The Associated Press in Bradenton, Fla., where he is training for the NFL draft. "Obviously people come from different backgrounds and different situations, but everybody deserves to be treated fairly and they deserve basic rights and basic protections."

Colter's grandmother, Betty Flagg, died last month and was buried in some of his Northwestern gear. She only watched television when the Wildcats were playing. Colter, 21, said he thinks his grandmother would be proud of his role in the unionization effort.

"We were talking at the funeral and they were telling stories about how she came from picking cotton to working as an office manager in the firm," he said. The attorney at the firm described how she fought for certain employees to receive fair bonuses for their work.

"She was doing that, fighting for their rights and fighting for them to be treated fairly, basically," Colter said.

Colter will never benefit from a union if one is formed, but was thrilled by the decision that moved the issue forward. Northwestern immediately said it would appeal the decision to labor authorities in Washington, D.C., and the NCAA came out strongly against the ruling classifying athletes as employees of the university.

"Unionization and collective bargaining are not the appropriate methods to address the concerns these students are raising," Alan Cubbage, Northwestern's vice president for university relations, said Friday in a statement. "The life of a student-athlete is extremely demanding, but the academic side and the athletic side are inextricably linked."

To see Colter have success in what was once an unthinkable proposition in college sports comes of no surprise to some of the people who know him best.

"Whatever he chooses to do, he can do it, and I mean that sincerely," Cherry Creek basketball coach Mike Brookhart said. "He's just one of those kids that gets it and has it."

Growing up, Colter was regarded as one of the top prep athletes in Colorado. Listed at 6-foot and 195 pounds, he played point guard on the basketball team and competed in the long jump and triple jump for track and field.

But he had his greatest success on the football field, following in the footsteps of his father, who was a safety on Colorado's 1990 national championship team, and his uncle, Cleveland Colter, who was an All-America safety at Southern California. Kain Colter helped the Bruins reach the state championship game during his junior year, accounting for 31 touchdowns.

"He was one of the more respected kids at school," said Brookhart, who coached Colter in football and basketball. "He was a great leader."

Colter's athletic ability and intelligence made him a great fit for Northwestern, and he helped the Wildcats return to respectability in college football. He threw for 76 yards and rushed for 71 more when Northwestern beat Mississippi State in the 2013 Gator Bowl for its first postseason win since 1949.

"When he got there, I really could see the fire in his eyes from Day One," former Northwestern linebacker David Nwabuisi said. "He was always the kind of guy that was always trying to push the team further, always expecting more of us."

Nwabuisi said he helped recruit Colter to the school, and they quickly became friends. But Nwabuisi said that's a common experience when it comes to Colter.

"Everybody loves Kain, man," he said with a chuckle.

Colter set Northwestern records for single-season rushing yards by a quarterback and a career rushing yards by a QB. He also played some receiver with the Wildcats, and that's the position he's hoping to play in the pros.

FROM WIRE REPORTS

EAST REGIONAL
UCONN 81
IOWA STATE 76

NEW YORK — DeAndre Daniels scored 26 points, 18 in the second half, and UConn held off Iowa State 81-76 on Friday to reach the East Regional final a year after the Huskies were barred from the NCAA Tournament.

Daniels hit his first six shots after halftime, the only Husky to make a field goal for over 8 1/2 minutes. His 3-pointer gave seventh-seeded UConn a 49-32 lead.

The Cyclones rallied late, pulling within 67-63 with 2 1/2 minutes remaining. But senior Niels Giffey hit a 3 in the corner for his first points since the game's opening moments, and when the Huskies (29-8) made their free throws in the final minute, the UConn fans packing Madison Square Garden could celebrate.

Dustin Hogue scored a career-high 34 points for third-seeded Iowa State (28-8).

MIDWEST REGIONAL
MICHIGAN 73
TENNESSEE 71

INDIANAPOLIS — Jordan Morgan scored 15 points and Nik Stauskas had 14 including a key free throw to help Michigan hold on for a 73-71 victory over Tennessee in Friday's first Midwest Regional semifinal.

The second-seeded Wolverines now play either Louisville, who they lost to in last year's national championship game, or 2012 national champion Kentucky Sunday.

Michael Conroy/AP

Kentucky's Dakari Johnson, Aaron Harrison (2) and Dominique Hawkins (25) go after a rebound with Louisville's Wayne Blackshear (20) and Akoy Agau (22) during the first half of a regional semifinal game Friday in Indianapolis.

Texas A&M women prepare for DePaul

Texas A&M guard Jordan Jones (24) celebrates after the Aggies defeated James Madison during an NCAA women's game Tuesday in College Station.

LINCOLN, Neb. — Texas A&M's Gary Blair sounded more like a carnival barker than coach as he discussed his team's matchup with DePaul today's in the NCAA women's regional semifinals.

"Our game against DePaul will be one of the most entertaining games you've ever seen," Blair said, adding that it would be like a "ping-pong match."

DePaul (29-6) opened the tournament with a 104-100 win over Oklahoma that set a record for combined points in a non-overtime tournament game. The seventh-seeded Blue Demons followed that with a 74-65 upset of No. 2 Duke.

They made a total of 25 3-pointers in those two games and have hit 10 or more from behind the arc in 18 games. They're shooting 36 percent on 3s for the season, and their 84-point average ranks third nationally.

Blue Demons coach Doug Bruno, who counts Blair as one of his best friends in the business, said he's not sure Blair really believes his own hype about the matchup.

"I think he's in that other locker room probably working very hard with his players to keep the score down," Bruno said.

Third-seeded Texas A&M (26-8) beat North Dakota and James Madison in the first two rounds, holding them to a combined 34-percent shooting, including 23 percent on 3-pointers. They're fifth in the country defending 3s, with opponents shooting 26 percent.

"Every team tries to take away our 3s, and especially coming off this Duke win, they'll definitely be into our grills," said Megan Rogowski, who's shooting 46 percent from distance and is fourth in the country with 3.3 a game. "We just have to move the ball, we can't force anything, can't get frustrated."

Aggies point guard Jordan Jones said how she and her backcourt mates defending DePaul's shooters could decide the outcome.

"It's really up to us to contain them," Jones said. "We're not just going to stop them and take them out of the game altogether. But if we do our best, follow our game plan and contain them in the system and not let them set up and do what they want, then we should be pretty good."

Five things to know about the DePaul-Texas A&M game:

BLAIR ASKS FOR SUPPORT: Blair hopes the local fans adopt his Aggies, given Texas A&M and Nebraska's shared history as former Big 12 members.

Nebraska fans had hoped to root for their own team this weekend until BYU upset the Huskers on Monday.

"If you give me a Cornhusker hat, I'd wear it right now. I'd put that on and say, 'Gig 'em, Aggies,' and 'Go, Cornhuskers' and bow down to Tom Osborne and Connie Yori," Blair said, referring to the Huskers' retired football coaching great and the women's basketball coach.

"They need somebody to rally around. OK, why not a former Big 12 team just like themselves?" he added.

FAMILIAR TERRITORY: DePaul is in the NCAA tournament for the 12th straight year and in the regional semifinals for the third time since 2006. Texas A&M is in the tournament for the ninth year in a row and the Sweet 16 for the fifth time since 2008.

NEW BIG EAST: DePaul had never finished higher than a tie for second in its eight previous seasons in the Big East. The reconfiguration of the conference this season included the departures of UConn and Notre Dame, the two top teams in the nation, in addition to Louisville.

The Blue Demons swept the regular season and tournament championships this year, and Bruno said the Big East was strong top to bottom. But he acknowledged part of him misses the competition the Demons used to face.

"The butt-kickings that I thought really helped us in the old league weren't there," he said. "But at the same time, confidence gets built by success also."

BRUNO NO WESTHEAD: Yes, DePaul scores lots of points. No, it shouldn't be confused with those run-and-gun Loyola Marymount men's teams that averaged more than 100 points from 1988-90.

"This is not a Paul Westhead copy," Bruno said. "We're not trying to just give up points to score points. We believe defensive basketball is for the purpose of getting the ball back and scoring the ball."

UCONN LOOMS: Texas A&M's Blair said beating UConn might be more than a one-team job.

"The other three of us (at the regional), we're going to combine teams and play Connecticut," Blair said, laughing. Blair joked that he asked Yori if he could borrow her star player.

Texas Tech spring football practice April 6, 2013 at Grande Communications Stadium

The Red Raiders return to Grande Communications Stadium to offer fans a rare look at the football team during spring workouts

Tech to scrimmage at Grande

By Oscar LeRoy
oleroy@mrt.com

Today marks the second straight year the Texas Tech football team will return to Grande Communications Stadium, and again it will offer a rare public look at the team during spring workouts.

The Red Raiders will start warming up at 12:45 p.m., and will be the centerpiece of a day filled with Red Raider pride in the Tall City. Admission is free.

Here are five things to watch for in today's scrimmage, and five players to watch.

1. A RARE GLIMPSE AT THE RED RAIDERS THIS SPRING

Just like last season, head coach Kliff Kingsbury has elected to close all but three of the 15 practice sessions this spring. Along with today's scrimmage at Grande Communications Stadium, the Red Raiders will have an open practice under the lights at Jones AT&T Stadium at 8 p.m. Friday and then at the Spring Game at 11 a.m. April 12.

2. DAVIS WEBB'S ADDED BULK

When the quarterback first arrived at Texas Tech last spring, the Prosper High School graduate was a lanky 6-foot-4 and 194 pounds. Since the end of the season, Webb has added on a few pounds of muscle and is now weighing around 210 pounds.

To go with the added weight, all indications are that the Holiday Bowl MVP and the rising true sophomore has gotten even more comfortable in the Air Raid offense and has really taken command of the team.

3. KENNY WILLIAMS AT LINEBACKER

In a surprise move this spring, starting running back Kenny Williams approached the coaching staff asking to also practice on the defensive side of the ball.

Considering he's been a good tackler on special teams, the coaches didn't seem to be too surprised, and this spring he's been practicing at the Raider outside linebacker position. Defensive coordinator Matt Wallerstedt revealed this week that the senior-to-be has been practicing with the first-team defense.

Whether Williams stays on the defensive side of the ball come fall remains to be seen, but the 5-foot-9, 225-pounder seems to be making an impression.

4. YEAR 2 OF THE WALLERSTEDT DEFENSE

For the first time since the 2009 season with Ruffin McNeill, the Red Raiders will go into the second season with the same defensive coordinator with Wallerstedt, along with co-defensive coordinator Mike Smith.

That continuity can only help the Red Raiders' development moving forward. Last year, Tech's total defense ranked 38th overall (367.31 yards per game), but its scoring defense ranked 87th overall after allowing 30.5 points per game.

The Tech defense will also have to do some rebuilding as it lost key players DL Kerry Hyder, DE Dartwan Bush, MLB Will Smith, OLB Terrance Bullitt and CB Bruce Jones to graduation.

5. MIDDLETON MAKES TRANSITION TO CORNERBACK

Tyler Middleton, the former Midland High standout, is making the transition from running back to cornerback this spring.

Wallerstedt said the redshirt junior transfer from Navarro Junior College is still learning the position, but with his speed and the two cornerback positions being essentially open, he could get a shot to earn some playing time this fall, at least on special teams.

FIVE PLAYERS TO WATCH

1. BRADLEY MARQUEZ, SR., Y INSIDE RECEIVER

The Odessa High grad is showing to be among the most versatile of all the Red Raider receivers as Marquez moves from an outside receiver position to Y, which was manned last year by tight end Jace Amaro, a possible early round pick in May's NFL draft.

Marquez is coming off a good junior season in which he was fourth on the team with 49 receptions for 633 yards and six touchdowns to garner All-Big 12 Honorable Mention.

2. JAKEEM GRANT, JR., WIDE RECEIVER

The 5-foot-6, 160-pound Grant showed last season that he can be one of the most dynamic players in the Big 12 and really shined in the Holiday Bowl victory with six catches for 89 yards and two touchdowns. He ended the season with 65 receptions for 796 yards and seven touchdowns. From early indications this spring, the All-Big 12 Honorable Mention selection has picked up where he left off.

3. LE'RAVEN CLARK, JR., LEFT TACKLE

Clark is the unquestionable anchor of the Red Raider offensive line. Entering his third year as a starter, the 6-5, 320-pounder from Rockdale is looking to build on a sophomore season when he was named to the first team All-Big 12 by the Associated Press and is coming off a good bowl game in which he held a talented Arizona State defensive line from getting a sack.

4. BRANDEN JACKSON, JR., DEFENSIVE END

With Hyder and Bush graduated, the Red Raider defensive line will probably look to Jackson to provide that leadership. The 6-4, 263-pound Jackson appears to be having a good spring and is coming off a sophomore season in which he had nine tackles for loss, four sacks and three pass breakups.

5. QUINTON WHITE, SOPH., RUNNING BACK

White stood out in last year's scrimmage at Grande Communications Stadium with his speed and elusiveness on the field. While fumbles and missed assignments kept White from seeing more playing time during the regular season, Tech coaches have said the 5-7, 200-pounder from College Station has come into this spring with a good attitude and willing to accept his role. Along with junior DeAndre Washington, look for White to get the majority of the carries in today's scrimmage.

Dating and peer pressure collide with teen's morals

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 13, and my classmates are just beginning to "date." Sometimes what this means is, "Hey, do you want to go to my house, get drunk and have sex?" There's already a pregnant girl in our school. She's 12.

I'm trying not to get involved in any of this, but I'm constantly being teased for not holding a guy's hand, let alone not having had my first kiss. I have learned to deal with it, but my problem is there's this one guy who has been flirting with me.

"Jon" is sweet and nice, but he's part of the popular crowd. I'm afraid if he asks me out, he'll end up trying to get me drunk. He's different from the people he hangs out with, but I still don't know if I can trust him.

I want to stay a virgin until I get married. I won't drink until I'm 21, and I never intend to use drugs. But how do I say no if Jon asks me out and tries to have sex with me or gets me buzzed? I can't hide my entire junior high-to-high school life and not accept a date. Can you help? — TOO YOUNG FOR TROUBLE, COLUMBIA, MO.

DEAR TOO YOUNG: There's an old saying, "Birds of a feather flock together," and it's usually true. If the price of being popular at your school is being pregnant at 12, then accept that you are better off NOT running with the popular crowd, even if Jon is "nice."

Not all the students in your class are into sex and drinking. It's up to you to avoid the ones who are and socialize with the ones whose values are like yours. If you do, you will never have to worry about someone getting you "buzzed" and taking advantage of you.

Before you go anywhere with anyone, your parents should have met the person. There should be a clear understanding about where you'll be, what time you'll be home and which adult will be supervising.

Equally important: If you ever find yourself in a situation in which you are not comfortable, call your parents immediately so they can pick you up. Got it? You don't have to be a prude, but you do have to set boundaries, and your parents can and should help you to do that.

DEAR ABBY: I'm in an awkward position. I started working for my uncle's plumbing business four months ago. I'm a laborer, not an apprentice or mechanic, so I don't know a lot about the trade. I'm not qualified to do a lot of the basic tasks like welding or pipe fitting, but I work hard. I come in early and stay late. I'm respectful and try to have a positive attitude.

The problem is most of the guys here regard me as the arrogant, spoiled nephew (which I'm not). They think I'm incapable and only got the job through my family ties.

How do I prove myself to them? I want to earn their respect. If I ask my uncle to talk to them, they won't trust me and it will make me look bad. Help me, please. — UNDERESTIMATED IN VIRGINIA

DEAR UNDERESTIMATED: I know it's difficult, but if you want to earn their respect, keep doing exactly what you are doing. Come in early, stay late and learn all you can about the business. In time, your efforts will be recognized. What you are experiencing is something that happens to anyone who enters a family business.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The stars show the kind of day you'll have: 5-dynamic; 4-positive; 3-average; 2-so-so; 1-difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, March 29, 2014:

This year you often clash with close associates and partners. Understand that they are more likely to be the agitators in these scenarios. Still, you will need to deal with their discontent on some level. If you are single, you will know when you meet Mr. or Ms. Right, as the connection will be instantaneous. The most likely period for this encounter will be after spring 2014. If you are attached, the two of you often find yourselves in heated discussions. Make sure to respect each other's views. Summer could be memorable and passionate for you as a couple. Do not test the limits of another ARIES.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★ Read between the lines if someone is hemming and hawing. Some people just get shy; others become nervous. You will want to see more of what is happening, and you finally might be able to stabilize the situation. Tonight: Choose to do something rewarding.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★★ This is the perfect day to meet up with friends and make the most of what is happening. Letting off steam and dissolving some stress will become fun. Make the most out of the moment. A key person could become very uptight at the last moment. Tonight: Nap, then decide.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★ Friendships determine your decisions. You know what is needed to make an important person in your life feel special. You will have a much easier time with this person if you do. Note the need to slow down. Tonight: Let your wild side emerge.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★ You might want to make time to have some relaxing moments today. Choose a type of entertainment that allows your mind to drift, and let go of any tension. A new romance could be difficult at the moment. Just stay clearheaded. Tonight: Happiest at home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★ Defer to someone else in order to come to a better understanding of what needs to happen. Follow through on an offer that really might be too good to refuse. Determine what needs to happen with a person at a distance. Is it time for a trip? Tonight: Be forthright about your desires.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★★ Someone will want to bridge an emotional gap between the two of you. You have your limits, and you might feel like stating your boundaries. Work on adding in a touch of diplomacy. Make it OK to respect different views. Tonight: How about a good old-fashioned date?

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★ Decide to get your errands done before leaping into a fun happening with friends and a loved one. You might find that you need to use a good part of the day for a project. Make plans with others for later in the evening. Tonight: Where you are, the action is.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★★ You could be in touch with many people, but you will be happiest today with one person whom you really care about. Together you will conjure up some fun plans. Understand that you don't need anything or anyone, just each other to have a good time. Tonight: Play the night away.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You might want to put a difficult situation behind you, but a knee-jerk reaction could prevent it. Work on responding to situations and not reacting. Once you achieve that self-control, you will create more of what you desire. Tonight: Make it a party with friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★★★ Examine a personal matter in order to root out an issue. Consider changing your plans, if need be, though you might want to be wary of disappointing a friend. Look at the situation from a different perspective, but make the necessary choices. Tonight: The action is at your place.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ Understand that you might need to handle a personal matter. Recognize what is happening with your finances, as you could feel as though they are dwindling. Explore opportunities openly, and get others' feedback. Tonight: Have dinner with friends.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ You will want to be where y friends are; however, news might cause you to r ink your plans. You could discover the power of excellent communication as you discuss your options with a loved one. Tonight: This is the first day of the rest of your life.

Ask the Guys

Dear Classified Guys,
I thought I understood people. After all, we're generally the same. We all get up in the morning and put our pants on one leg at a time. But when it comes to yard sales, maybe everyone isn't as similar as I thought. I live in a unique area. Scattered among the average size homes in my town are huge mansion-type houses owned by more affluent people. Being a dedicated yard sale shopper, I've noticed that those living in the average size homes typically host all the yard sales. I have yet to see any of these mansion-styles have a yard sale. While I understand they may have more room, their space must fill up with stuff like the rest of us. Doesn't everyone end up collecting clothes the kids outgrew or things they just don't need anymore? Please help me to understand. Is my train of thought wrong or are these people doing something different that the rest of us don't know about?

Cash: While the size of everyone's home may vary, there is one thing that stays constant: The amount of stuff we collect is proportionate to the amount of space we have!

Carry: It would be great to tell you that your neighbors have some magic secret, but that's probably not the case. In fact, most of us are guilty of storing things we don't use regardless of how much money we have. Just think of how many people you know with a dusty piece of exercise equipment!

Cash: There could be any number of reasons for the trend you see in your neighborhood. It could be as simple as the number of average homes far outweighs the number of large ones in your area. Therefore, it simply appears that all of the yard sales are held at the smaller houses.

Carry: The size of one's house doesn't necessarily represent the person's wealth. It typically just means a larger mortgage! It may be that those people are working longer hours to pay for their home and have little time to hold a yard sale.

Cash: Also, remember that everyone thinks differently about possessions. While you may love shopping yard sales for a deal or holding one yourself to make some extra cash, others feel differently. They may choose to throw their items away or give them to a charity.

Carry: In any case, you're probably better off with the yard sales at the average size homes. Those with less room to store things may be more negotiable on price!

Fast Facts

Black Tie Event

Many of us wear our clothing until it's worn out or it doesn't fit. However, if you're a celebrity wearing an outfit on the red carpet, wearing it once is enough! And if you can't have a yard sale, then how do you clean out your closet? Donate it, of course. More and more celebrity outfits are showing up at auctions with the proceeds going to charity. Many non-profit organizations collect and auction the hottest celebrity attire and donate the proceeds to a variety of children's charities.

Living Large

How rich are your neighbors? According to Forbes magazine, there are over 1,400 billionaires in the world. That's a relatively small percentage considering the world's population of over 7 billion people. However, the number of millionaires is much larger. According to recent market research, about 9.6 million of the U.S. population qualify as millionaires, with the average age of them being 58 years old. About 45% of all those millionaires are retired.

Unique Opportunity

When my sister and I held a yard sale, our mother brought over some colorful outfits from her closet to sell. We often described her florescent colored pants and shirts as something even Liberace wouldn't wear. Needless to say, we questioned as to whether the outfits would sell.

The day was looking rather bleak for Mom as most people passed up the rack of clothes, but then one woman became absolutely delighted with them. She scooped the rack and bought everything. As she came to hand us money, our mom basked in her exuberance. "Don't you just love these colors?" our mom said smirking at us.

"Absolutely," the woman replied smiling. "They're just perfect for our clown volunteers at the children's hospital."
