Blasts Rock Denver

DENVER(AP)-A series of thundering explosions at a Continental Oil Co. refinery early today killed at least four persons and injured 11 others, police said.

There were unconfirmed reports at the scene of up to 30 injuries inside the refinery, which stores bulk gasoline products. It is located in the northeast suburb of Commerce City.

250 Dead In Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)-Fighting between Syrian troops and Christian militiamen tapered off today, and police said 250 Lebanese had been killed and 502 wounded in Beirut since Wednesday.

The Syrians did not report their losses. Observers believed Christian claims of killing or wounding 400 Syrians were exaggerated.

Crash Theory Revived

SAN DIEGO (AP)-Taped conversations between a jet pilot and ground controllers have caused investigators to resurrect the theory that a third plane may have been a factor in the nation's worst air disaster.

The jet pilot had reported sighting a small plane and seeing it pass to the right only seconds before the jet collided with a single-engine Cessna.

Nephew Wants Pardon

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)-President Carter's imprisoned nephew says that if his uncle decides to grant clemency to Patricia Hearst he hopes the president will pardon him, too.

The nephew, William Carter Spann, is an inmate at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville, about halfway between Sacramento and San Francisco.

SNYDER SEMINAR--A tourism and convention seminar was held Monday and sponsored by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. Among those attending were, from left, G.H. Oldenburgh, director of the convention bureau of the Austin Chamber of Commerce, LaVerta Lovell, assistant director of the Snyder chamber, Guy Sullivan, chairman of the tourism committee for the Snyder chamber, and Rod Waller, representing the Snyder City Council. # Local Leaders Advised To Promote Tourism

Although Snyder may not be able to compete against the likes of Houston as a major tourist and convention center, it could be drawing a larger share of the tourist industry than it is now doing, said G.H. Oldenburgh.

Oldenburgh, director of the convention bureau for the Austin Chamber of Commerce, was the guest speaker at a tourism and convention seminar sponsored Monday afternoon by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was attended by representatives of the Snyder chamber, the city council, county commissioners, Snyder Motel Association, and the Scurry County coliseum.

"How can Snyder compete with Houston?" Oldenburgh asked. The answer, he said, is to sell what you have.

A town's assets are often more numerous than they may seem, he continued. As an example, he pointed out that Snyder has Western Texas College as well as a golf course open to the public. Even such factors as abundant sunshine and temperate climate should be taken into account when planning for the tourist trade.

"Forget about what you haven't got. Think about what you do have," he emphasized.

Oldenburgh said tourism is the fourth largest industry in the United States. He added that competition among tourist and convention centers is becoming increasingly keen, but that small towns need

Coliseum Rate Increases Set

Scurry County Commissioners approved an increase in rates for use of the county coliseum Monday afternoon.

The new rates will go into effect on Jan. 1.

The rate for a full day for the complete coliseum facilities will increase from $250 per day to $300 per day. The rate for morning, afternoon or evening only will increase from $175 to $200.

Rental for the coliseum arena only will increase from $200 to $250 per day, and for morning, afternoon or evening it will go from $150 to $175.

Meeting Room A rental will increase from $25 to $40 for a full day, and from $15 to $30 for morning, afternoon, or evening only. The rental for the coliseum foyer will remain at $50 for a full day and $40 for morning, afternoon or evening only.

The agriculture complex rental of $150 for a full day and $100 for morning, afternoon or evening will remain unchanged.

A morning rental period begins at 8 a.m. and terminates at 12 noon, while an afternoon period begins at noon and terminates at 6 p.m. An evening period begins at 6 p.m. and continues to midnight.

Unaffected by the new schedule are contracts with Snyder Public

Council Okays Zoning Change

A zoning change request was approved and a new rate schedule for Texas Electric Service Co. was adopted on final reading last night by the Snyder City Council.

The TESCO rate schedule was increased by 6.7 per cent, a figure recommended by consultants to a group of cities. However, the actual rate TESCO ultimately receives is expected to come from the Public Utilities Commission which has been considering rates for the power firm in rural areas. TESCO is expected to appeal the rates set by the cities themselves to the PUC.

A request for a zone change from commercial to residential district on a one-acre tract on 23rd Street (Old Gail Road) in the northwest part of town was approved following a public hearing. The request was submitted by Donald E. McAnelly. He also was granted a waiver on the city's natural gas requirement until such

If so, just what are the regulations a CBer must obey? And where do I go for help?

The SDN Column

The cool evenings have confirmed that autumn is here, although we can expect more warm weather before shutting off air conditioners for the season.

But the final sign that fall has indeed arrived occurred Sunday morning when our winter mockingbird made his appearance in our back yard. We see mockingbirds around the area during the summer months, but this one for several seasons now has made himself at home in our back yard in the fall and winter only. He disappears in late spring or early summer and we don't see him anymore until the weather begins to cool off.

He made his presence known Sunday morning with some forceful vocalizing. We have read that birds go through their vocal routines to notify other birds that they have staked out a territory. If so, this mockingbird has proclaimed his title to what is left of the ivy-covered tree in our backyard, and based on past experiences, he will be around regularly until next April or May. Then he will disappear for some four or five months.

Contrary to what you may have thought, marriages are on the increase in the United States. However, women are waiting longer to get married—their average age at marriage is now more than 21 years.

Americans spent $17.4 billion at fast food restaurants in 1977, up from 6.5 billion in 1970. By 1980, the figure is expected to reach $24.1 billion.

Old age is a phenomenon that is happening to more of us all the time. In 1976, nearly 23 million Americans were over 65; by 1986 experts predict there will be nearly 28 million elderly Americans.

The world's most accurate time-measuring device—the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory's system of twin atomic hydrogen masers—is off one second every 1,700,000 years.

Says Utility Commission...

State Should Help Poor Pay Bills

AUSTIN (AP) - State government should help pay electric bills for the poor and elderly, the Public Utility Commission staff recommended today in a comprehensive report on Texas electric rates.

Another key recommendation was adoption of time-of-day electric rates that would price energy according to when it was used - similar to long distance phone charges.

The 266-page report culminated six months of research and three weeks of public hearings in June. The three-member utility commission will receive the staff report and can accept, reject or revise its recommendations for submission to the Texas Legislature in January.

The Legislature ordered the commission to study the general structure of electric rates in Texas. Pending federal energy legislation also would require state review of rising electric rates.

State human resource agencies could develop an energy assistance plan, the staff said. State funds would be channeled directly to utility companies.$

A direct assistance program would help those most in need, the report said, while lifeline rates and energy stamps could aid middle income consumers. The energy payment program would require legislative approval.

"It will be expensive to implement, but the cost of subsidized electric rates could be substantial also," the report said. "A percentage of the poor would not be reached, but some would not be under most lifeline rates, also."

Lifeline rates are below-cost charges to cover a fixed amount of electricity and are aimed at helping low-income customers.

Scurry United Way To Launch Drive Tonight

Scurry County United Way campaign workers are scheduled to dine on cornbread and beans, hear some inspirational messages and musical entertainment and then accept assignments tonight to a drive to raise $51,340.

The campaign kickoff event is set for 7 p.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Mike Reed and Larry Genuchi head the general campaign for funds this year to support United Way agencies.

A headliner on the program tonight will be Eddy Nicholson of Lubbock, "America's Rocking Chair Philosopher." A band from the Scurry County Country Music Association will be on hand to present entertainment also, and Glenn Polk will be the master of ceremonies.

All workers in the United Way's general campaign have been urged to attend the kickoff session, which is open to anyone who buys a $2 ticket. Tickets will be available at the door.

The advance gift division, which is headed by Bill Eiland and John Jarrell, already is at work seeking $17,000 of the overall goal.

The goals for general campaign divisions include out-of-county royalty owners, $1,600, headed by Lyle Deffebach; commercial, $9,140, headed by Jerry Vestal, with John Pickering, George Stewart and Bob Hayes assisting; oil and industries, $10,000, headed by Charles Lantrip; education, $4,220, headed by Dr. Robert Clinton, assisted by Jack Gorman; professional; $1,815, headed by Wayland G. Holt, assisted by Don Sealy and Dr. Joe Reaves; utilities, $4,095, headed by Rodger Sullenger; public employes, $1,470, headed by Hassie Sneed, assisted by Erwin Pavlik and Mike Ezzell; rural, $2,000, headed by Rex Robinson.

Boll Weevil Program May Be Limited

There will be a spraying program to control boll weevils in Scurry County this fall, but there likely will be some skips.

That was the word as the deadline passed Monday evening for farmers to sign up. State agriculture department officials agreed to participate in the program in areas of the county where a big majority of farmers have signed up. They have reserved the right, however, to skip areas where only a few farmers in a block have signed. By eliminating some sparse areas, they can come close to the 90 per cent they set as a goal.

Football Contest Goes Down To Wire

There was plenty of action in the Snyder Daily News Football Contest last week, and the winners were not decided until Monday night's Dallas-Washington game was played. That game doubled the number of contestants sharing in the week's prize money. Through Sunday's action, three contestants had missed only one each, while three others had missed two each. Those who had only one miss, however, all picked Dallas to beat Washington, thus setting up a six-way tie for the week's honors, since the three who had already missed two had picked the Redskins.

Sharing the honors for the week were Curtis Gafford, Route 2, Box 87, Snyder; Kelley Scott, 2402 40th; John Hanson, 2206 42nd St.; Philip Fisher, 2101 41st; Joe Lee, 3604 Kerrville, and Susie Lee, 3604 Kerrville.

Another contest begins today. The list of games may be found in sponsors' advertisements on the football contest page of this issue of The Snyder Daily News.

sues bug candidates

A Washington political writer a few days quoted a emocratic U. S. Senator who made an off-the-re-ord statement that he is glad he isn't up for ection this year. Under discussion were results in ecent primaries and what they indicate for the eneral election five weeks from now.

Humphrey-Mondale liberalism took a beating in innesota for nomination to fill the Senate seat ng occupied by the late Hubert Humphrey. A onservative Democrat won the gubernatorial omination over a liberal incumbent in Massachu-etts. Edward Brooke, liberal Republican, man-ged to survive personal problems and win enomination to the Senate in his party's primary in assachusetts.

ssues varied in these and other primary contests eld this year. But taxpayer revolt against xtravagant and often corrupt government was a ctor in recent contests, just as it had been in imaries held earlier in the year.

Whether anti-incumbent sentiment turns out to be ominant is a question which will not be answered til returns are in for the November general ection. Not clear on the basis of results in recent imaries is whether a pattern has been established at will extend into 1980 when a President will be ected.

Prospective candidates for Presidential nomina-ons and incumbent Senators and Rpepresenta-ves wish they could predict which way the olitical winds will be blowing in the closing months 1979 when voters will be making choices for 1980. That much is indicated in the statement made by e Democratic Senator who is not up for election is year but expects to be seeking re-election in 80. Quite understandable is why he is glad to be on e sidelines this year. Some who are now mpaigning no doubt wish they could have made e big decision when conditions weren't so predictable as they are in 1978.

But there is no escape. Races must be made when e time arrives. Voter sentiment is a little more ilitant this year than it has been for some time. isillusionment because of favored programs aven't worked. Failure of trusted leaders to live to expectations. Proposition 13. Widespread rruption in the public service. High taxes, flation.

These are some of the issues bugging candidates of l shades of political opinion. It is true in Texas, st as it is in Minnesota, Massachusetts, New York d California, though for different reasons.

Only the voters know what the answers are. They ill let us know early in November.

oyal purse problems

f running the average home presents budget roblems, consider what the head of a royal ousehold has to deal with.

o keep food on the table, fuel in the furnace, ards at the gates and that sort of thing requires annual $5.7 million for Britain's Queen Elizabeth . And at that she must do an efficient job of illing pinching, what with the numerous royal tablishments scattered about her sizable realm.

unnerup Prince Rainier, sovereign of miniscule onaco, enjoys a royal purse just a shade lighter at .6 million.

hese and other details were revealed in a Spanish onomic publication's report on the finances of urope's nine crowned heads. Next to the bottom as Spain's own King Juan Carlos, with $2 million spread over two palaces and a yacht.

t the very bottom is Luxembourg's Grand Duke an with a scant $1.1 million, small change as ivy purses go, maybe, but easily enough to keep a of over a regal head and even maintain a royal oped or two.

horizons for women

The horizons for women have been pushed back beyond the kitchen window-- a rather long way beyond.

Fortune magazine recently sought and found the women who graduated from Harvard's Business School five years ago--and they are doing all right!

When Linda Taylor enrolled in Harvard Business School in 1971 she was a "pioneer." Men students in those days were asking, "What are you doing here?"

Linda told them what they wanted to hear: She would laugh and reply, "I'm just here to get a man."

But she knew better.

She graduated with the class of '73 and today Linda Taylor helps to oversee the $500 million pension fund of the United Mine Workers.

Female enrollment at other business schools got going about the same time.

But what Fortune sought to do was to follow the fortunes of the Harvard class of '73. Here's what they discovered:

On average, they are now 32 years old. They are all over the world working in banking, consulting, sales and marketing, advertising, accounting, money management, corporate planning, college administration and government.

Almost all are in positions theretofore considered "men's jobs."

Judith Gehrke finished in the top 5 percent of that Harvard class; she now has a planning job at International Paper and, on the side, runs a business of her own called "Design Lines."

She works from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. each day.

It can be argued that these graduated at a propitious time; the Labor Department had just decreed that companies with government contracts had to hire more women.

But that assist notwithstanding, these graduates' accomplishments were not gratuitous.

Lisa Spector, investment banker, was named a vice president of White Weld (now Merrill Lynch) last August.

If any married women in the class have found that their careers conflict with their marriages; none says so.

Most respond that the job of being a wife combines very easily with the paying kind.

Partly because with two incomes these couples can eat out a lot.

Ask them about conflicts with motherhood, and some will concede that the tug between children and careers is powerful.

Which may explain why only six of the women are mothers and only two of those are employed full time.

Most are postponing the "children decision" until nearer the end of their childbearing years.

How are these women doing compared to men of the same class? Among those on salary the median income is $32,250.

Except for a few male superstars, the women enjoy a median income almost equal to that of men from the same Harvard class.

Almost. Not quite. Yet.

W YORK (AP)-In the e of efficiency, many as of the federal eaucracy might be laid est, but that which was ed this past weekend lly was the proper one. far as is known, the onal Center for Pro-ivity and Quality of k Life didn't even will ital organs to another ncy.

it left was its studies, the warning it refer-to constantly through-its three-year life: duction efficiency, h helped build and ort the American way fe, is deteriorating.

eryone piously ac-wledges the dangers. ts 1978 report to the ident, for example, Council of Economic isers called it "one of most significant econo-problems of recent s."

it's almost ignored. ts final report, the er commented that ough this slowdown cts almost every or economic issue, ymakers have paid equate attention to

Unforgivable, you might conclude, when you consider that the issues policymakers sometimes build so large are mere anthills against the smoky volcano that the issue of lagging productivity really is.

Consider first, in the Center's final words to the president and Congress, what productivity increases have meant to the country:

"Americans, throughout history, have enjoyed a steadily rising standard of living. The economy has expanded, new jobs have been created, choices have been broadened, and rewards have increased.

"The average American today consumes greater amounts and varieties of goods and services, performs less backbreaking work, and has more leisure time than the generations before.

"This better life was made possible by sustained productivity improvement - a continuing ability to produce more in less time and with fewer resources."

George Kuper, the Center's executive director, isn't totally pessimistic. We can, he said, vigorously pursue a program that gives top priority to the problem.

Involved would be an effort to enhance technological innovation, stimulate capital investment and human resources development, and encourage labor-business and business-government cooperation.

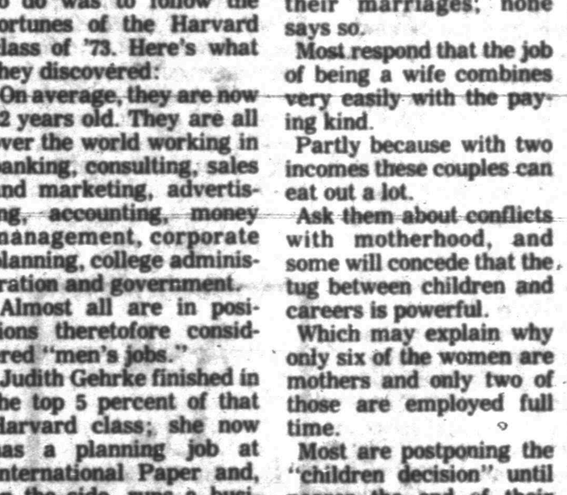

But that was what the National Center was designed to set the stage for, and under Public Law 94-136, enacted in November 1975, the Center self-destructed on September 30, 1978.

Meanwhile, prospects for productivity, whose growth began slowing in the late 1960s, are no better for the 1980s. The country still has no productivity policy. And the volcano smokes, as it did at Pompeii.

WASHINGTON (NEA)- The reconvening of the United States Supreme Court for its 1978-79 term provides a timely occasion to examine a disturbing trend in that tribunal's most recent proclamations on the role of the news media in this country.

The court in general and Chief Justice Warren E. Burger in particular appear well on their way to molding a new doctrine of press rights and responsibilities, based on two highly questionable theses:

The unique constitutional protection afforded to the new media, embodied in the First Amendment's guarantee of a free press, applies to the dissemination but not to the gathering of news.

Notwithstanding the apparently absolute wording of the First Amendment, news-gathering organizations and the journalists in their employ merit no special status in our society.

Journalists who are true professionals have never asked for special privileges that might accrue to their benefit as individuals. They have, however, sought the freedom and protection necessary to perform an often difficult and delicate job.

That concept was succinctly articulated by Justices John Paul Stevens, William J. Brennan Jr. and Lewis F. Powell Jr. in a dissenting opinion in one of a series of press-related cases decided by the court before it recessed last spring:

"This (First Amendment) protection is not for the private benefit of those who might qualify as representatives of the 'press' but to insure that the citizens are fully informed regarding matters of public interest and importance."

In an earlier case, a court majority described the press as "a mighty catalyst in awakening public interest in governmental affairs, exposing corruption among public officers and employees, and generally informing the citizenry of public events and occurrences."

Such "corruption among public officers" has, on numerous occasions in the past, involved both judges and law enforcement officials. The court, however, ignored those precedents when ruling earlier this year that police officers could search newsrooms after securing a judge's signature on a warrant.

In that case (Zurcher v. Stanford Daily), Justices Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall concluded that it was "self-evident that police searches of newspaper offices burden freedom of the press." But the court's majority brushed aside the notion of granting special protection to the press.

In a gratuitous concurring opinion in another case (First National Bank v. Bellotti) last spring, Burger insisted that the framers of the Bill of Rights never contemplated "conferring special and extraordinary privileges or status on the 'institutional press.'"

Finally, Burger wrote the majority opinion in a third case (Houchins v. KQED, Inc.) rejecting a San Francisco television station's arguments that it had a right to send reporters and camera crews into a California jail to investigate reports of prisoner abuse and mistreatment.

"The media has no special right of access to the ...jail different from or greater than that accorded the public generally," concluded Burger's decision.

Yet Burger's own court recognizes that reporters, acting as representatives of the public, do have special requirements. A special section of seats is set aside for journalists, and only they are allowed to take notes during oral arguments.

Special assistance in both gathering the news (copies of legal briefs and court opinons are set aside for press use) and disseminating information (in the form of typewriters, telephones and work space) is provided to Journalists by the Supreme Court.

Those arrangements are essential if the public is to be rapidly and efficiently informed about the work of the court - but Burger and his colleagues refused last spring to apply the same realistic standards in their opinions.

The continuation of that trend during the court's new term can only impede the free flow of information to the public.

A weighty problem

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — My wife weighs 400 pounds. Even though she looks and feels terrible, I cannot convince her to get that last-resort operation for people who can't lose great quantities of weight.

My wife has been overweight since we met 10 years ago. At that time, she assured me it was only a temporary condition. Now I am convinced the problem will be with us most of our lives unless she does something drastic.

You have no idea what a miserable marriage we have. If she refuses to get the operation I intend to get a divorce before the year is over. Sex is particularly bad and that is definitely her fault.

Because of my wife's weight, we have grown apart over the years. Neither of us will probably have much trouble living separately. But I will miss the children.

DEAR READER — It would be better for your wife's health if she could lose weight. But I am not going to join you in trying to convince her to have the intestinal bypass operation you seem to refer to in your letter.

First, the operation is not without risk. She would have to consult a doctor on the advisability of the procedure in her case.

Second, you do not detail her objections to the operation. Are you certain you understand those objections? You might want to have a long talk with her — with you doing most of the listening — in hopes of resolving this troublesome issue.

Last but not least, bypass operations are no panacea for marriages in distress.

Psychiatrists from the University of Kentucky and the University of Wisconsin talked to 14 married patients who had an average weight loss of 41 percent after surgery. All but two developed serious marital problems during the pre- and post-operative periods.

Three husbands of previously overweight women became openly homosexual. Three others turned to new sex partners because they said they could not handle their wives' new sexual appetites.

I am not citing the study to frighten you. I merely want to warn you about the simplistic notion that one partner can be held solely to blame for a marital problem.

Perhaps you and your wife might consult a family counselor.

In the presence of an objective observer, she might be able to explain more clearly her objections to the operation. She might, for example, equate agreeing to the surgery with accepting responsibility for all the problems in your relationship for the past 10 years. Who wouldn't try to avoid taking that kind of blame?

If you and your wife decide not to see a counselor, I would advise you to stop your brainwashing campaign. Tell her your plans about the divorce and let her take her future into her own hands.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 475, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

letter to the editor

To The Daily News:

On Thursday, Night, Sept. 28, the Association of Retarded Citizens met for their monthly meeting. During that meeting, Roger McCulley and two of the teachers that work at the Humble-Smith School for retarded children awarded Joye Loyd with a plaque for the past 14 years of outstanding work with mentally retarded children.

I would like at this time to let Joye know how much I appreciate her for the work she has done with these children. When you have three healthy children like I have, you sometimes tend to forget about the ones who do not have, and the dedicated teachers who work with these children.

I have known Joye for those 14 years and I don't believe that God could have picked a better person to work with these special children. I have never met a person who is strong willed enough to work with these children. Nor have I met a person determined enough to start a task with these children and see it through to the end. The end meaning that the child accomplished what he started out to do and seeing it to the end. And, oh, let's don't forget the love she has for these children. She loves each one as an individual and treats them just this way.

Because of this, Joye, I thank you and appreciate you for the good work you have done the past 14 years and for the good work I know you will do in the future.

Opening lead: ♦5

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

We are indebted to Paul Lucaks and the Bridge World for today's hand. South is in a normal three notrump and wins the spade lead.

With any luck he will make a lot of tricks. Five diamonds, one spade and the aces and kings of the other suits. However, there is no law that diamonds will break and if they don't, he doesn't want to let East in to lead through the remaining spade honor.

The ordinary declarer leads a diamond to dummy's ace at trick two. East shows out and while South still has lots of ways to go for nine tricks he almost surely won't get them.

The really careful declarer enters dummy with a club or heart and proceeds to lead the deuce of diamonds. He plans to finesse the nine if East follows, but East shows out.

This doesn't bother our man with the suspenders and the belt. He simply wins the diamond and leads toward dummy's ace-eight. West can't keep declarer from scoring four diamond tricks, not to mention game and rubber.

The answer is a decided negative. We do have 12 high-card points but the odds are that an opening bid with this hand would lead to a loss of points.

SUCCESS, AT LAST--"I've finally found true happiness," declares Laquita Reaves, who plays the part of the mime in the Colonial Hill Baptist Church youth presentation of "Lightshine."

Musical Presented By Church Youth

Youth of Colonial Hill Baptist Church presented "Lightshine" at First Baptist Church in Colorado City on Sunday evening.

The Buryl Red-Grace Hawthorne musical had been presented in Snyder on Aug. 27 and since that time, the group has had several other invitations to present it before various groups.

The dramatic part of the musical has been totally re-written by Jan McCathern who also staged the production. Jim Patrick, minister of music at Colonial Hill, directs the music, and Clark Shubert, minister of youth, is in charge of slides for the presentation.

The musical centers upon a search for the secret of real happiness hidden in the Beatitudes from Christ's Sermon on the Mount. On the search, led by the mime, the audience meets many characters, some happy, some sad, and many types of music, some humorous, and some serious.

Laquita Reaves is the mime and cast and choir include Laurie Allen, Diane Sentell, Tod Fritz, Donna McGee, Mike Greenfield, Kim Fritz, Susie Mayes, Sherry Mayes, Reme Guerrero, Shauna Pate and Melinda Crow.

Bruce Kenner is in charge of the sound, and the light crew includes Kyle Cox, crew head, John Lloyd Robinson, Pattie Clark and Cy Tabor.

Wilson Re-Elected As SCD Director

GAIL - W. L. Wilson, Jr., of south Borden County was re-elected to the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation Districts board of directors at an election held Monday night in the Borden County courthouse. Wilson represents Zone 5 of the District.

W. L. WILSON JR.

The purpose of the Upper Colorado SWCD, with headquarters in Snyder, is to promote sound soil and water conservation programs on farm and ranch land within the district and to serve as a voice for farmers and ranchers on conservation matters and other issues affecting private property rights of landowners.

The board of directors coordinates the conservation efforts of various local, state and federal agencies and other organizations and has authority to enter into working agreements with these governmental agencies and private concerns to carry out its purposes.

As one of five individuals serving on the district board of directors, Wilson will be responsible for district policies and procedures for carrying out the district program within the framework of the Texas soil conservation law.

Other current members of the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District Board are Walter Stirl, Loraine; Carl Williams, Hermleigh; Leon Sterling, Snyder; and Burl Belew, Fluvanna.

In Texas there are 198 soil and water conservation districts. Each is a legal subdivision of state government organized by local agricultural land owners with the assistance of the Texas State Soil and Water Conservation board. Unlike most other legal subdivisions of state government, SWCD's do not have the powers of taxation or eminent domain. All conservation programs managed by the districts are of a voluntary nature to the land owner or operator.

Organized in June 1941, the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District serves all of Borden and Scurry Counties.

Diet doesn't affect acne

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 28 years old and have a slight problem with pimples, but on the neck area only. I don't eat junk foods, fried foods or any kind of food stuff like that. I always eat well-balanced meals.

I would like to know if any or all of the vitamins that I take (two lecithin tablets, two vitamin E tablets, one multi-vitamin, and two vitamin C tablets) could be the cause of the problems? It seems the pimples started after I began taking the vitamin C. I would appreciate any advice you can give me.

DEAR READER — Recent studies show that the diet has very little to do with acne. At one time it was thought that chocolates, rich foods, nuts and a long list of items might be related to acne, but controlled studies have demonstrated that they do not. If follows that the various vitamin tablets you are taking won't cause the acne. If you are on a balanced diet, they won't help you any either.

Acne is caused by an overproduction of sebum, the oily material that comes out of the skin. While the process does begin most often during the adolescent years, it can continue into adult life and even be present in later years.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated to give you more information on what causes acne and what you can do about it. Other readers who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

I would just point out that the basic concept of treatment is to dry up the oily secretions, eliminate any of the bacteria in the skin that causes problems and, in some instances, induce skin peeling to eliminate clogged or damaged skin surfaces. These methods are discussed more completely in the issue of The Health Letter I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — How many kinds of cancer are there? I don't mean how many different places can you get cancer. I have been told a friend of mine had seven different kinds of cancer. I always thought there was just one cancer but it could go to all parts of the body. I am anxious because a dear friend of mine has it and I want to do as much as I can to make the last days as happy as I can.

DEAR READER — A good concept of cancer is to regard it as an abnormal growth of body cells. Thus, a thyroid cancer consists of abnormal thyroid cells and the growth of these abnormal cells has gone wild. A cancer that originates from the liver is a liver cancer that consists of liver cells which have gone wild. A lung cancer consists of cells from the lungs that are abnormal and are growing wild.

Under the proper circumstances, almost any cells in the body can become abnormal and undergo wild, uncontrolled growth, meaning cancer. Therefore, you can have as many kinds of cancer as there are tissues in the body.

The place where the cancer starts is usually called the primary cancer. If a woman has a cancer of the breast, that is the primary site. These cancer cells may spread by the lymph system and the rest of the circulation throughout the body.

At first, the small number of cells that are released from the primary cancer site may be so few in number that they are never able to lodge and plant themselves elsewhere. The longer the primary cancer remains undetected, the greater the probability that some of the cells that break off and feed throughout the body will implant and survive in other locations. These are called metastasis. Metastatic cancer then is cancer that has spread from the primary cancer site.

Fed Face-Lifts Gain Popularity

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)- About 3,000 people a year are having cosmetic surgery performed at taxpayer expense in federal hospitals, the San Francisco Examiner says.

The newspaper reported Monday that plastic surgery - including facelifts, breast implants and flab removals - was being conducted at eight Public Health Service hospitals and dozens of military hospitals. The story pegged the cost at between $1 million and $6 million a year, but added, "nobody keeps count."

Composer Johann Strauss died in 1849.

The most important assets of a company are its key personnel. Losing one valuable producer can result in heavy financial loss. It's professionally prudent to insure against that risk. With the counsel of a skilled professional.

Farm Exports Will Continue

WASHINGTON (AP)-Large exports of U.S. farm commodities to Eastern Europe are likely to continue through 1980 because agricultural output in that region has fallen short of goals, says the Agriculture Department.

The shortfalls include crops of grain; oilseeds and sugar-beets, the department said Monday in a report by its Economics Statistics and Cooperatives Service.

Thus, Eastern Europe "will likely maintain current agricultural import levels despite recent balance of payments deficits," the report said.

The region includes: East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

Projections for East Germany and Poland "indicate continued large imports of grain and increased imports of protein feed such as soybean meal" in the next few years, the report said.

Favorite Course

ACKLINGTON, England (AP)-It suddenly became clear why Keith Porrit took such interest in a scaffolding course while serving his time in prison.

With the help of scaffolding poles, Porrit and a fellow prisoner escaped over a 16-foot wire fence. Freedom didn't last long. They were caught soon after breaking into two houses.

State Tough On Teen Marriages

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the 15-year-old girl who is begging her mother to let her get married:

In some states, the decision to allow teenagers to marry does not lie with the parents.

For example, in the state of Washington, no child under the age of 17 may marry with or without parental consent without a court's permission. Kids between 17 and 18 require permission. After 18, they require only a witness.

In one case, a 15-year-old girl was pregnant by a 17-year-old boy. Both his family and hers tried to get the judge to let them get married. At first he refused because he talked to the kids and didn't think they were sufficiently "sincere." Only after they attended several months of counseling did the judge feel they were ready for marriage, after which he gave his consent.

Another case: A 16-year-old girl asked for permission to get married because she was pregnant. The judge refused, saying that wasn't a good enough reason. The girl had her baby, waited until her 18th birthday, and then got married.

Many parents feel it is their right to give or withhold permission to marry, but the state of Washington says differently.

B. IN SNOHOMISH, WASH.

DEAR B.: At first I thought someone was giving me a "Snoho" job, but a call to a Washington lawyer confirmed your facts. Thanks for the information.

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for people who would like to leave their worldly goods to favorite relatives and special friends.

DO NOT write: "I want Sister Diane to have the gold brooch I got from Aunt Sophie." DO WRITE: "I want my sister Diane to have my 14 kt. gold brooch in the shape of an owl with diamond eyes." (If you have more than one gold brooch, no one may remember which one your Aunt Sophie gave you for your 16th birthday 55 years ago.)

Or, better still, if you don't have one of those instant cameras, borrow one and take a picture of every valuable item you own—and write the name of the person you want to have it on the back of the picture.

That way there will be no misunderstanding.

MRS. M. IN L.A.

DEAR MRS. M.: Good idea, but very few people are prepared to accept the fact that they can't take it with them—or indeed, that they are even going!

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago we wanted a third child. We joyously welcomed a 3-year-old child into our existing family. My husband, our social worker and I were certain the adoption would be a happy one; it wasn't.

I still feel the pain of the six months that child was with us. So much had happened in her little life that the adjustment could not be made. At the time of our anguish, I read every book and article I could find about adoption. No one mentioned the pitfalls or even the possibility of an unsuccessful adoption—only the glowing accounts of the "happily-ever-after" successful adoptions.

I have been tempted to publish the story of our failure, but I hesitate because I don't want to discourage others from adopting children who desperately need a loving home.

One of the most difficult things we had to deal with was a problem no one mentioned—the sexually abused child. As I write this I can still hear the child's screams as my loving husband tried to hold her. We finally understood when she told us in detail how "that bad man" had hurt her.

We had hoped that our patience, kindness and love would help. Perhaps it did—but not enough.

ANONYMOUS, PLEASE

Immigrant Deal In Stalemate

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-Unless controversial proposals are changed, President Carter's sweeping immigration package, apparently dead this session, won't be approved by the next session of Congress, says the head of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Congress is stalemated over two proposals in Carter's effort to develop a new national immigration policy, Leonel Castillo told a conference on immigration here Monday.

"We haven't been able to reach a compromise on the proposal to grant some kind of amnesty to new illegal immigrants or temporary residents," Castillo said. "And there's still considerable controversy over the proposal to impose sanctions - economic penalities - against employers who knowingly hire illegal immigrants."

With Congress due to adjourn in two weeks, Castillo said, "The proposals haven't had a hearing before the House and none are scheduled. It appears the Carter proposal is very unlikely to be passed this session."

Castillo said he's hopeful the package will be reworked and that the Carter Administration will make concessions on the controversial proposals.

Court Will Not Hear Evangelist's Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Supreme Court has refused to hear a Texas evangelist's arguments that state licensing of child care homes run by his religious organization violates the Constitution's freedom of religion guarantees.

Lester L. Roloff failed Monday in his attempt to have the Supreme Court keep him from being under a state law governing child care institutions.

The high court ruled that Roloff's appeal presented no substantial federal question.

Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises, based in Nueces County, operates the Anchor Home and Lighthouse for boys and the Rebekah Home for girls.

In his appeal, Roloff said the three homes "are wholly supported through voluntary contributions of persons who share the religious beliefs of Roloff's organization."

Texas authorities required the three homes to submit to inspections and evaluations in preparation for state licensing approvals in 1976.

The Roloff organization resisted the state's attempts at regulation, and eventually was cited for contempt and fined $23,650.

State regulation of the homes was left intact by the Texas Supreme Court last February.

In seeking Supreme Court review, lawyers for the Roloff organization argued that the state law requiring certain compliances in all such homes - leaves "no room for religion freedom or for any nonconformity of religious practices with what the state of Texas deems desirable behavior."

State courts found that the homes violated state law in a way that "endangers the health, safety and well being of the children" who resided in them.

Paternity Rules Are Tightened

WASHINGTON (AP)-A rule requiring a mother on welfare to identify the father of her child has been tightened by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in an attempt to help federal authorities track down missing fathers.

A mother could refuse to cooperate in establishing paternity only if she could show it would likely cause her or the child serious physical or emotional harm, the amended regulation says. An earlier rule, called too lenient by some states, did not say the harm must be "serious." The department tries to establish paternity and make fathers reimburse state and federal governments for welfare costs.

Crash In Antique Plane Kills One

HIGHLAND, Ill. (AP)-A Collinsville woman died and her husband was critically injured when their replica of a 1912 Bellenca single-engine plane crashed in a field, officials said.

Authorities said Ann Murphy, 23, died in Sunday's crash. Her husband, Michael Murphy, also 23, was hospitalized in critical condition.

Murphy began building the replica, described as "wings with wire," when he was 14. The cause of the crash was not known.

Speaks To Snyder Teachers...

Bill Fisher Opposed To Federal Education Dept.

Bill Fisher, Republican Candidate for Congress, spoke to a combined meeting of the Texas State Teachers Association and Snyder Classroom Teachers last night at 6:30 in the Snyder High School Student Center. The early meeting was arranged so that Fisher could meet a later obligation in Post.

Elwanda Nall, President of the local TSTA group introduced Fisher who spoke to the group about his concerns for the economy, energy and agriculture in the West Texas Area. He related all of these to education and how it might be affected by them. He expressed personal opposition to any proposed separate Department of Education at the national government level. (Education is currently part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; His reason for this opposition, he said, was based on the fact that all departments tend to grow into even larger bureaucracies once they are set up on their own.

In a question and answer session following his address, topics ranging from teacher strikes, right-to-work laws and "Back to Basics" were discussed.

Joe Ward of Austin, a representative of Teacher's Buying Service, presented a short informative speech on the collective purchasing system available to Texas Teachers.

Schools which were negotiated when the county acquired the former Travis Junior High property, and the agreement with the Scurry County Fair Association which permits use of facilities for a three-day county fair for a flat rate of $525. Also, Future Farmers of America groups may rent the agriculture complex for half the regular fee.

Equipment fees also were hiked. Use of tables will cost 50 cents each instead of 25 cents, while chair rentals go up from five cents each to 10 cents. Fee for stage risers will increase from 25 cents to 50 cents each and sound board will cost $3 per section, up from $2. Powder River livestock equipment will require a fee of 50 cents per panel, up from 25 cents, and small animal pens will increase from 50 cents to $1 per pen.

Elwanda Nall presided over the Texas State Teachers Association business meeting and presented Wanda Hudgins, program chairman, who introduced School Supt. Bill Hood, who addressed the group regarding upcoming amendments to the state constitution, as proposed by last summer's special legislative session. He particularly emphasized how different amendments might affect the future financial situation for Snyder Public Schools.

Eddie Williams, high school biology teacher, and president of classroom teachers, of Snyder presided over the business meeting for that group. Committees were set up to study professional growth, to handle public relations for Snyder teachers, and to study and research teacher pay scales in Snyder and across the state. Preparations were also announced for the upcoming district teachers' meeting which will bring some 3,000 teachers and administrators to Snyder for their annual meeting Oct. 30. That session will take place in the Scurry County Coliseum and in various restaurants and establishments across the city.

LorenzoCouple Is Found Slain

LORENZO (AP)-The bullet-riddled bodies of an elderly Lorenzo man and his wife were found sprawled in the dirt driveway of their small, two-bedroom home just north of town Monday evening, Crosby County deputies said.

Deputies said Valton Vernoid Gandy, 73, had been shot three times, and his 68-year-old wife, Cora Hughes Gandy, had been shot twice.

They had apparently just returned from a shopping trip, officer said, and a bag of groceries was resting on the hood of Gandy's car parked in his driveway.

Mrs. Gandy's sister discovered the grim scene about 6 p.m., deputies said.

Residents of this small South Plains town, about 20 miles east of Lubbock, were shocked, and officers said they had few clues. An autopsy was ordered on the bodies.

Officers said a television was missing from the Gandy home, but the house had not been ransacked. Neither Gandy's wallet nor his wife's purse was missing, although there was no money in either, deputies said.

There was no evidence of forced entry into the Gandy home, but neighbors told deputies the couple never locked the house.

Mrs. Gandy's sister, who found the bodies, was the last person to see the couple alive. She had visited with them earlier in Lubbock.

Mike Graves was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Planning and Zoning Commission, and an ordinance changing the zone on a portion of the Helms Addition from residential to manufacturing was approved on second and final reading. This zone change had been requested by Gayle McDonald, who had indicated that he planned to move his welding supply business there. The property is on U.S. 84 in the north part of town.

Specifications for bidding on several motor vehicles the city plans to purchase were approved. Vehicles to be purchased are four cars for the police department, one car for the fire department, one car for the city engineer, a one-ton truck for the water department and two small pickup trucks.

The council accepted a bid of $725 by Lynn Fenton for the sale of a 1971 Chevrolet Carryall which had been used as an ambulance. It was the highest of three bids received.

The council went into a brief executive session to discuss legal matters following action on the regular agenda, but no action was taken.

not be excluded.

Although a state political convention may never be held in Snyder, other conventions or rallies might be interested in coming here. Towns should aim at what can be reasonably expected to come to facilities it features.

"Push what you have and plan ahead," he said.

The money that is raised from the tourist trade should be invested in the community for development. "I'm not trying to tell you how to spend your money. I'm just suggesting you invest it," said Oldenburgh.

What is sown now in the community can be reaped later in the form of jobs and increased trade in a town, he summed up.

Taxpayers Who Make More Also Pay More

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-If there were such a thing as an average American taxpayer, he or she or they would have earned $13,263 last year and paid 13.7 percent of it in federal income taxes. That meant working the first seven weeks of the year just to come up with the $1,814 due Uncle Sam.

Those who earned less had to work a shorter time to pay their federal taxes and those who earned more had to work longer, sometimes a lot longer.

For example a person with an income of $50,000 or more a year probably owed at least 31.1 percent of it in federal taxes and was still working for the government when May 1 rolled around.

But there is no "average" taxpayer - just millions and millions of ordinary people lumped into categories by Internal Revenue Service computers.

The IRS said Monday that on 85.2 million 1977 returns processed so far, taxpayers reported $1.13 trillion in adjusted gross income. Of that, $154.6 billion went for federal income taxes.

The income and tax of the "average" taxpayer - which could be a couple filing a joint return - is found by dividing the total income and total taxes paid by the total number of returns processed.

But since the report includes so many individuals with so many different factors affecting their lives and tax returns, the mythical average taxpayer does not fit precisely into some of these further breakdowns provided by the IRS report:

-Those 42 million taxpayers making under $10,000, by far the largest group, accounted for less than two-tenths percent of the total adjusted gross income reported and paid 5.9 percent of the taxes, or $9.2 billion. Paying 4.7 percent of their income in federal income taxes, they had to work about 2½ weeks to get the money.

-The 14.1 million taxpayers reporting from $10,000-$15,000 income accounted for 15.4 percent of total income and paid 10.6 percent of the taxes, or $16.5 billion. In a 9.4 percent bracket, it took them about five weeks to work out their taxes.

The second largest group of returns, 27.7 million, was from taxpayers reporting $15,000 to $50,000 income. That broad and varied group loosely referred to as the middle-income level accounted for 57.5 percent of the income and paid 60.2 percent or the taxes, or $93.2 billion. In a 14.3 percent bracket, they had to work 7½ weeks or more to earn their federal taxes.

-Those 1.3 billion reporting income of $50,000 and over accounted for 15.4 percent of the taxes, or $35.7 billion. In a 31.1 percent bracket, they had to work about 16 weeks to pay their taxes.

In 1976, the average taxpayer gave up about 19.5 percent of his income for income taxes, only slightly below the 1977 level of 13.7 percent.

Washington Defense Holds Super Bowl Champs Down

WASHINGTON (AP) - It was, according to Washington defensive captain Diron Talbert, a matter of shutting down the National Football League's No. 1 offense, and especially the NFC's leading rusher, Tony Dorsett.

"We stopped them rushing, we stopped their passing," said Talbert after the Redskins' 9-5 victory over the Dallas Cowboys Monday night.

Talbert remembered, when reminded, that the Cowboys were the top scoring team in the NFL. "But basically, we pursued Dorsett and we tackled him. We stopped his long runs."

The Washington defense stopped the Cowboys when it was necessary, including six plays from the 7-yard line and four from the 2 in the third quarter and also late in the fourth quarter on a controversial play.

"It was kind of sloppy," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "We have no excuses. We just didn't put it in there."

The Redskins won their fifth straight game against no losses this season before a sellout crowd, including President Carter, taking a two-game lead in the NFC East on Mark Moseley's field goals of 52, 42 and 27 yards. Dallas, the defending Super Bowl champion, is now 3-2.

The Cowboys' only offensive score came on a 19-yard field goal by Rafael Septien after the Washington goalline stand in the third quarter. They got a safety when Redskin quarterback Joe Theismann voluntarily ran into the end zone on the final play of the game.

The Cowboys complained about an official's call on third-and-eight at the Washington 13 late in the fourth period.

Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach threw what the Cowboys thought was a completed pass to Drew Pearson near the goal line, but the official ruled it out of bounds.

"I thought I caught the ball," said Pearson. "I caught the ball on the shoulder pad and got hit by Redskin cornerback Joe Lavender. He hit me and then I was sent out of bounds. I thought I saw an official say it was good and then another official overruled him. That's the way it goes."

Landry said: "I thought he fumbled out of bounds and it should have been a completed pass. But who knows whether we would have scored anyway."

Staubach, who also thought Pearson was in bounds, said: "We should have scored three times, they played well and got only nine points. We just didn't score."

Pennant Playoffs Previewed

Ozark Seems Set; Phillies Do Too

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The Philadelphia Phillies should be a relaxed team from top to bottom when they open the National League's best-of-five playoff series Wednesday night against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark, who just completed the last year of a two-year contract, has been told he'll be back next year, and maybe longer, according to a Phillies' source, who asked not to be identified.

The Phillies' brass has decided that three consecutive East Division titles entitle Ozark to another contract.

Apparently the only holdup is deciding on the salary and length of the new contract.

The team itself should be loose since it is the underdog in the series with the West champion Dodgers, and plays the first two games at home.

The Phillies, who lost in the playoffs in three straight to Cincinnati in 1976 and fell to the Dodgers last year in four after winning the opener at Dodger Stadium, are oozing a quiet confidence.

The confidence is engendered by what Ozark and his team feel is their best pitching rotation for any of the three play-offs they've been in.

Yankees Edge Sox; Try Royals Now

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees, who've traveled this road before, meet in the opening game of the American League championship series tonight, marking this year the third in a row that these teams have battled in the pennant playoff.

Dennis Leonard, a 21-game winner during the regular season, will start for Kansas City against Jim Beattie, who began the season in the minors for New York.

This series will have to go some to match the drama of New York's American League East playoff victory Monday, when the Yankees eliminated Boston 5-4, as reliever Rich Gossage retired Red Sox sluggers Jim Rice and Carl Yastrzemski for the final two outs, leaving the tying and winning runs on base.

But the Royals and Yankees have gone through some dramatic finishes of their own.

New York Manager Bob Lemon's plan was to start his ace, 25-game winner Ron Guidry, in the opener. But the Yankees were forced to use Guidry in the playoff against Boston and now his is penciled in for the third game against the Royals Friday in New York.

The second-game pitching matchups figure to be 20-game winner Ed Figueroa for New York and left-hander Larry Gura, who won 16 for the Royals. Herzog will use another southpaw, Payl Splittorff, in the third game against Guidry. Catfish Hunter, KO'd early Sunday, is the Yankees' probable fourth-game starter against Leonard Saturday with Figueroa and Gura returning for Sunday night's game.

Rice Takes Over As Bengal Coach

CINCINNATI (AP) - Homer Rice, a newcomer to pro football but not to its wide-open style, is head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals today, five months after joining the National Football League club.

The 51-year-old Rice was a surprise choice Monday as a replacement for Bill "Tiger" Johnson, who resigned under pressure less than 24 hours after the winless Bengals suffered their fifth straight defeat.

Rice, who 10 years ago turned down an offer to become head coach at the University of Oklahoma when Jim McKenzie died, was selected over two former NFL head coaches Mike McCormack and Charley Winner.

He is under contract to coach the remainder of the season.

Johnson, under fire as the Bengals staggered to their worst start ever, departed after a Monday morning meeting with general manager Paul Brown.

"We mutually agreed that something had to be done," said Brown, in a prepared release.

Rice said one of his first priorities is to "bring the troops back together."

The Bengals, who suffered a humiliating 28-12 loss Sunday to previously winless San Francisco, have lost six straight games over two seasons - one shy of the club's longest losing streak.

Snyder Game To Be Viewed

The Snyder-Andrews varsity game film will be shown at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in the high school cafeteria, it has been announced.

All interested persons are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

Classic Contest; Texas And OU

AUSTIN (AP)-The world will be watching Saturday when Oklahoma, scoring at the rate of nearly a point a minute, meets Texas' quick-striking defenders, says Texas Coach Fred Akers.

Top-ranked Oklahoma has not scored a touchdown against Texas since 1975, but the 1978 Sooners are averaging nearly 50 points a game in their 4-0 season.

No. 6 Texas has allowed only 10 points in winning three and losing none.

They will play before a sellout crowd of 72,032 in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas and a regional television audience.

"This thing goes beyond Dallas, Norman, Okla. and Austin," Akers told his weekly news conference Monday. "The game has worldwide appeal. It is a true classic."

To contain Oklahoma, the leading rushing team in college football, Texas must abide by the First Commandment of defensive football, Akers said.

"The First Commandment," he said, "is take away the big play, the easy touchdown, the long gainer - and Oklahoma is a big-play team."

"We haven't faced anyone with close to the firepower Oklahoma has," Akers said.

Area Teams To Begin District Confrontations

Homecomings and open season on district play highlight the fifth week of schoolboy football. Meanwhile, Rotan and Hermleigh continued to keep the area afloat as the region posted a 4-3 mark against outside competition last Friday.

Armed with a stout defensive effort, Snyder upset slight favorite Andrews to bring the Tiger record to 3-1, their best start in a couple of years. Snyder could extend that mark to four wins and a homecoming victory as it hosts 2-2 Levelland at 8 p.m. Friday.

Winless Ira, 0-4, will be searching for its first victory - and a homecoming and district triumph - as it hosts 2-2 McCaulley on Saturday at 7 p.m. The Bulldogs fell to Christoval 69-29 last week.

Also opening the district 3-B six-man agenda will be Hobbs, 1-2. The Panthers, which sat out last week's play, will entertain 2-1 Southland at 7 p.m.

Two other area clubs begin the league roll call this week. Colorado City, 19-6 victors over Post, will travel to 0-3 Anson for a 7:30 kickoff Friday, while Rotan - after whipping a strong Robert Lee team 24-7 - will try to keep its perfect record when the Pied Pipers of Hamlin (2-2) invade at 7:30 p.m.

District 3-B 11-man teams Roby and Borden County will wait one more week before challenging loop rivals. Roby, whose 22-6 loss to Rule leaves a 2-2 record behind, will attempt to change course by hosting Miles, also 2-2, at 8 p.m. Friday.

Meanwhile the Coyotes of Borden County, who couldn't quite cash in on Dawson last week, will be searching for their first season win at Wilson (3-1). The Coyotes fell to the Dragons 3-0 in the final seconds of last week's game.

Finally, undefeated Hermleigh will take a week's rest before hosting district foe and homecoming opponent Hobbs on Oct. 13.

Finley Suit Given Axe

WASHINGTON (AP) - Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley has been rebuffed by the nation's highest court in the suit he filed against baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn over Finley's aborted $2.5 million sale of three baseball stars.

The Supreme Court Monday decided not to hear a challenge to lower-court decisions supporting Kuhn's action blocking the 1976 sale of pitchers Vida Blue and Rollie Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi.

Oilers' Shipp Has Submitted Papers

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oilers offensive coordinator Ken Shipp, one week after an argument with starting quarterback Dan Pastorini and having some of his responsibilities assumed by head coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips, has resigned.

Shipp, in his second year as Oiler offensive coordinator, submitted his resignation Monday following the Oilers' 16-13 victory Sunday over the Cleveland Browns.

"I hate to see it because he is a good football man and I am the one who hired him," Phillips said. "But the way he feels, he thinks it would be the best for all concerned for him to step aside."

Pastorini stalked out of practice last Tuesday after Shipp had criticized his play calling in a 10-0 loss to Los Angeles. Pastorini returned Wednesday but Phillips announced he would take a more active role in the Oilers' offensive game plan.

The truce lasted until Monday when Shipp, who declined last week to discuss the Pastorini incident, issued a brief resignation statement and wished the Oilers well the rest of the season.

Lady Cats Host Seminole Tonight

Snyder volleyball teams will host Seminole tonight in a triple-header to begin at 5 o'clock.

The Tiger varsity, 10-0, and a tough Seminole group will highlight the action beginning at 7 p.m. A junior varsity match will be held at 6.

At Snyder Junior High, the locals will host Sweetwater. Eighth Gold takes on the Mustangs at 5, while the Black team follows with its match at 6.

Seminole could be a strong opponent for Coach Joyce Elrod's varsity troops. The Indians outseated Snyder in regional competition last year and went on to take the state AAA title. Seminole has been dropped to Class AA this year, but should still pose as a fierce rival for the Tigers.

Thursday, Snyder's varsity and junior varsity teams will travel to Denver City for games at 6 and 7.

Pee Wees Open Play

After being rained out the first week, Snyder's Pee Wee age football season finally got underway here Monday.

In first game action, the Packers defeated the Colts 22-14 and the Oilers and Rams tied at 0-0.

Today's games pit the Packers and Colts at 4:45 and the Oilers and Rams at 6. The games are played behind the Scurry County Boy's Club on 28th Street.

Ex-Professors Scrap For Seat In Senate

Editors Note: One of the most important and hotly contested statewide election contests this November features two former college professors running for the U.S. Senate - John Tower and Bob Krueger. It's a first for Texas politics, but in some ways it resembles a bare-knuckle fist fight where clout and stamina count more than debate on principles. At the invitation of The Associated Press, Tower and Krueger agreed to a half-hour interview where each was asked questions the AP thinks Texas voters would most likely ask. Here's a conversation with the candidates.

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas AP - It's man on man - not issue vs. issue in the U.S. Senate race.

That was the one, and almost solitary, agreement of Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, and Rep. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, in talking with The Associated Press about the U.S. Senate race.

Because both are former college professors, some political writers have called it the "battle of the eggheads." To many observers, however, it is more like an old-fashioned bare-knuckle fist fight. The best campaign talent that money can buy backs both candidates.

"Texas' influence in the Senate would be diminished overall by the election of my opponent," said Tower in the AP interview. "I think the decision is going to be what the people are concerned about, not what my opponent talks about all the time he tries to create issues."

"It's a question of leadership and effectiveness," Krueger told the AP. "John Tower has been there almost 18 years and to this day he has no single legislative achievement of any consequence."

Tower, 52, former teacher of political science and history at Midwestern University, won election in a 1961 special election to the seat vacated by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson. He was re-elected in 1966 and 1972.

Krueger, 43, former dean and English professor at Duke University, won a seat in Congress from his hometown of New Braunfels in 1974 and was re-elected two years later.

"I have a place of seniority and leadership in the Senate," said Tower. "I don't think Krueger could bring anything to the other side of the aisle that Sen. Lloyd Bentsen D-Texas doesn't already provide...I think it is good for Texas to have strong representation on the Republican side of the aisle."

"I really think John Tower has not represented the best instincts of the people of our state," said Krueger. "He has always sought to divide. I think it is important for someone from Texas to be open to all the people of Texas...to be constructively effective means to have sensitivity and openness to all of the people of the state."

President Carter's reputation in Texas and the Mexican-American vote could have considerable effect on the race.

"I think Carter's effect will be negligible because people have sense enough to know this is really a race between John Tower and Bob Krueger," said Krueger. "Since I first announced for public office in 1973, I have said I was an independent Democrat and I am not in any way apologetic for my party of which I am very proud...I really don't think that any former or present residents are going to play any sort of really significant role."

"I think disenchantment with the Carter administration does create a more favorable climate for me," said Tower. "I have opposed a lot of the unpopular policies and opposed them strongly. I think this is a very positive factor for me."

As for the Mexican-American vote, Tower said, "I think it will be very influential in this race. I expect to do well in Mexican-American communities. I have devoted a good bit of my campaign to it and will continue to do so."

"There is nothing that John Tower can do to hide that on the really basic issues he has been unwilling to support them (Mexican-Americans) and they know it and he cannot expect a substantial vote there," said Krueger.

Two other recent developments - Proposition 13 and full representation in Congress for Washington, D.C. - also could affect votes.

"I hope it (Proposition 13) is affecting the race, because I offered an amendment in May to the entire federal budget to cut the level of spending to the same level as the previous year's budget after adjustment for inflation," said Krueger. "John Tower by contrast voted against a $20 billion reduction in the national budget this same year."

"The fact is that I have opposed excessive government spending and supported tax reduction over the course of 17 years in the Senate," Tower said. "I believe we have to reduce the size of government, and I believe that the tax burden now is counter productive on society."

Tower said he was opposed to authorizing two U.S. senators for Washington "because the District of Columbia is not a state...it has no mining, no industry, no agriculture... so in effect you would have two senators from the bureaucracy, dedicated to perpetuity."

"It's not an issue," said Krueger. "It's simply a case of whether or not a Legislature wishes the people of Texas the right through their Legislature to decide this matter...I would be happy to leave it up to the Legislatures."

Ontarians are searching for their roots in record numbers, according to the office of the registrar-general in Sault Ste. Marie. Genealogy searches increased by 46 percent in the past fiscal year.

Roping Event To Benefit Rehab Center

STAMFORD-A calf roping event in Stamford to benefit the West Texas Rehabilitation Center will be held Saturday and Sunday (Oct. 7-8) at the Texas Cowboy Reunion Grounds.

Slack roping at 8 a.m. will kickoff activities both days.

Finals of the open roping and barrel race will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday with preliminaries earlier in the day. Two match ropings are also scheduled.

Main events Sunday will be an "old timers" roping and invitational roping contests.

A donation to the West Texas Rehabilitation Center is the only price of admission, according to Raymond Hollabaugh, and a barbecue luncheon will be available to all. Persons wishing to enter the event or wanting more information should call Hollabaugh at (915) 773-2766.

A beauty salon in Sarnia, Ontario, also serves as a miniature art gallery for local artists. Owner Evy Tate, an artist herself, said there were 32 paintings on the wall to help artists gain recognition through selling their work.

This is surely an exciting year for the Tigers and they are expected to continue doing as the season progresses. So don't fail to order your Homecoming mums early and order them from Hinshaw's House of Flowers by calling 573-8561 or going by 2804 College Ave.

Ball Construction Company Offers Turn-Key Operation

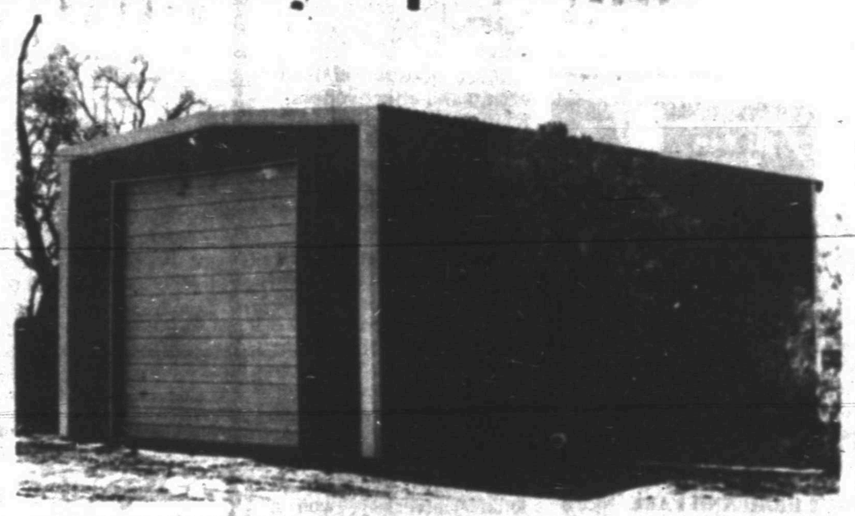

The construction business is booming and with the high cost of building materials and maintenance rising, more and more businesses are going to metal buildings.

Nolan Ball and Troy Botts saw the trend and founded Ball Construction Co. just six months ago and have already built six buildings with two more in the preliminary stage of construction.

"Long life and little maintenance is the selling point to the building," says Botts. "They are economically better built and easier to insulate."

Ball Construction Co. does turn-key work. When you order a building you order the complete building from the carpet work to the electricity. They have their own engineer and blueprinter and can build the customer a building any size, shape or color.

"Our main goal in construction is to turn out good work," Botts explained. "We take pride in our buildings and build them to last."

NEWEST COMPLETION-Ball Construction Co. has just completed this 20' X 40' X 14' barn for the Borden Gray Ranch, southwest of town. The newly founded firm is just six months old and completed six buildings with more on the way. (SDN PHOTO)

The newest completion for Ball Construction was a 20' x 40' x 14' barn for the Borden Gray Ranch. The barn was constructed in three short weeks. Other storage buildings were constructed for Snyder National Bank, Foch-Walton and Chevron Oil Co.

Ball Construction uses metal from Omega of Odessa and Mueller of Ballinger. They offer many alternatives to make your building just the way you want it. Blow-on insulation, 90 rating roof for low insurance costs, overhead doors and they can dress out office with glass or just anything you can imagine.
