Rep. George Mahon, our Congressman, holds out hope that the Senate will turn down a House-approved amendment fixing $20,000 as the limit on farm program support payments to any one operator.

Mahon has denounced the rider as unfair, unworkable and hurtful to all producers, large and small. He also says that it is against the long-range interest of consumers. He pointed out that should the amendment become law, there would be one farm program for 1969, another farm program for 1970 when the rider would take effect, and then another farm program in 1971, an intolerable prospect.

Rep. Mahon, who heads the House Appropriations Committee, says he is working with officials of the Department of Agriculture and with leadership in both political parties in an effort to lay groundwork for what he hopes will be a successful fight against the limitation amendment when the issue again arises in the House later in the session.

The University of Texas Medical chool at San Antonio, the state's newest, has accepted 100 first-year students to begin studies there in September. These will become the new school's fourth class and they were selected competitively from 1,056 applicants. Basis for selection included a grade average of B or better, medical college admissions test scores, evaluation by a medical committee, and a personal interviwew on the campus. About a third of the new class will come from the University of Texas at Austin, while the remainder did their pre-med work at 43 other colleges and universities in Texas. There are no non-Texans in the new class.

This brings to mind again that some doctors here feel that there are too few MD's in Snyder and that possibly some recruiting should be done. The situation could become acute in the reasonable future, according to one local physician who pointed out that there are no young MD's here. In fact the youngest practicing the profession here might be classified as middle-aged.

WITHOUT U. S. OBJECTION

Viet Cong Make Change In Peace Talk Delegation

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong's new provisional revolutionary government of South Vietnam replaced the National Liberation Front at the Paris peace talks today without objection from the United States or the Saigon government. The faces were the same.

The change-over took place at the 21st full-scale meeting of the talks when the foreign minister of the newly established government, Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, took her seat and formally notified the other parties of the transfer of functions.

After announcing the change, she made this statement: "Today at this session our delegation with the other parties of the conference."

South Vietnamese delegate Pham Dang Lam ignored the switch completely in his prepared statement, but he circulated a statement outside the meeting declaring his government's nonrecognition of the new government. He said the change would not alter the nature of the talks.

Ambassador Lawrence E. Walsh, sitting for the United States in the absence of Henry Cabot Lodge, preceded his main speech with a supplementary statement on the change.

"From the beginning of the Paris meeting on Vietnam," Walsh said, "the United States has looked on these meetings as meetings between two sides. We have recognized that each side may organize itself as it chooses. We continue to regard these meetings as two-sided.

"As far as we are concerned, the spokesmen for your side have introduced changes in name only. We place no significance on the manner in which you choose to style yourselves. Such changes in no way affect the conduct of our business at these meetings.

"Whatever you do for self-serving propaganda does not change the reality of the political and military situation in South Vietnam. Nor does it change the basis upon which these negotiations at the Paris meetings should seek to achieve a peaceful settlement of the war in Vitnam. In this regard we will continue to present constructive proposals for peace in the same spirit which has guided us in the past."

Walsh devoted a substantial part of his main statement to a review of the U.S.-South Vietnamese summit meeting on Midway Island last Sunday. He appealed to the other side to drop its efforts to destroy the Saigon government and to cease attacks on civilian centers.

"If your side wants peace," he said, "that is not the way to get it."

The U.S. delegate stressed that President Nixon's eight-point peace plan was not offered on a take-it-or-leave-it basis and that the United States insisted on no rigid diplomatic formula.

"We are ready to negotiate," he said.

Nixon Gets Support On Surtax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said President Nixon received unanimous support today from Democratic and Republican House leaders for his proposed 12-month extension of the income tax surcharge.

It said he also was given an expression of confidence that it "would be approved by the House."

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., the acting chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said that he expects a bill on the President's proposals to be reported out of that committee on Monday.

Nixon called the bipartisan leadership into an unusual White House meeting this morning with Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy and other top economic advisers in his bid to get passage of the tax extension to help curb mounting inflation.

Nixon has asked a full year's extension of the surcharge—six months at the present 10 per cent rate and six months at 5 per cent.

DISCUSS ROAD PROJECTS — A pre-construction meeting for discussion of plans for two road projects on State Highway 350 was held in the Scurry County Courthouse this morning. Present were, from left front row, Homer Ray, resident engineer at Snyder for the Texas Highway Department; Mack Ferrier, secretary-treasurer of Ferrier and Ferrier, sub-contractors; Charles Schmidt, vice president of Cooper and Woodruff, Inc. of Amarillo, prime contractors; Ben Wilkinson, resident engineer at Colorado City for the T.H.D.; County Judge Sterling Taylor. Top row, Arlon Vandiver, maintenance foreman, T.H.D.; Otho Ferrier, president, Ferrier and Ferrier; Wesley Pair, engineer, T.H.D.; Bill Cooper, engineer and technician, T.H.D.; Harold Strebeck, construction superintendent for Cooper and Woodruff; and, Farrie Winston, Scurry County rancher. Not pictured are Harold Kornegay, Keith Collier, Scott Casey and Patsy Weems.

Big Road Project To Be Launched

Final plans for two road construction projects on State Highway 350 valued at $1,003,000 were discussed at a meeting of contractors, Highway Department personnel and other interested parties this morning at the Scurry County Courthouse.

One of the projects calls for grading, structures, 2-course treatment and base from a point 880 feet inside the Snyder city limits (near the Hillcrest Lodge) to a point 1,200 feet past the first paved county road. The length of this project is 5.6 miles. A $418,000 contract for this segment has been awarded to Cooper and Woodruff, Inc. of Amarillo. The contract calls for completion in 175 working days.

Charles Schmidt, vice president of Cooper and Woodruff, said employes of the firm are busy now cleaning the right-of-way. The construction work will be done one one side of the road at a time so that traffic may proceed along the other side.

Schmidt said the major part of the work could begin about Nov. 1. Since the asphalt season is closed from October to March the asphalt will not be laid until May.

The meeting was presided over by Homer Ray, resident engineer at Snyder for the Texas Highway Department; and, Wesley Pair, an engineer with the local T.H.D. office. They pointed out the road surface will be widened from its present 22-foot width to 26-foot with 9-foot paved shoulders on each side. This would make a total width of 44 feet. Also, the base will be deepened to accommodate heavier traffic.

There will be about a 9-mile gap between the end of the first project and the beginning of the second one, which begins in Mitchell County and extends 6¾ miles towards Big Spring. The structures will be completely taken out along this stretch of highway, according to Ben Wilkinson, resident engineer for the Texas Highway Department at Colorado City. He said traffic along this stretch will have to be re-routed off of the highway but parallel to it. For this reason, the Mitchell County project will be more hazardous to motorists.

Tentative plans call for a 40-mile-per-hour speed limit in the construction area at both projects. The project in Mitchell County also will be completed by Cooper and Woodruff at a cost of about $585,000. Work will proceed simultaneously on both projects, and both are expected to be completed in May.

Motorists to and from Big Spring were urged to drive with caution. Motorists on the Scurry County project will be allowed to use the existing surface as long as possible. Special lights barricades and other warning devises will be erected at both sites, and motorists were asked to pay particular attention to warning signs.

Satellite Spying Hampers Air Force Orbit Plan

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Aerospace industry sources say major breakthroughs in the art of spying by satellite may have shot down the Air Force plan for men to live in orbit a month at a time.

Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard indicated as much when he announced cancellation of the manned orbiting laboratory (MOL) program.

Packard said the decision was based in part on "advances in automated techniques for unmanned satellite systems in such fields as research, communications, navigation and meteorology."

The key word, industry sources believe, was "research." Under this broad heading falls development of surveillance techniques designed to make sure no nation can fire a missile, test nuclear weapons, move troops or ply the oceans without the U.S. government knowing about it in time to take defensive action if necessary.

Trade and technical reports in recent months indicate the United States has perfected this arsenal of sky spies:

—IS (integrated satellite): First launched last August, this most sophisticated of U.S. military spacecraft may well be the one that doomed MOL. It carries not only the high-resolution still and television cameras of the advanced Samos series but also instruments sensitive to invisible radiations in the electromagnetic spectrum including infrared.

—Ferret: These "electronc intelligence" craft monitor Soviet, Chinese and other radio and radar installations, picking up secret communications. They reportedly have been able to turn on ground-based transmitters of other countries, normally switched off while they are passing overhead, and thus gain information they would have missed.

—770: Fitted with a radar antenna running the 40-foot length of the satellite (an Agena upper stage which goes into orbit), this vehicle can "see" ahead and to either side, mapping wide areas of terrain. It works well even in bad weather because radar microwaves penetrate clouds opaque to light.

—920: Formerly called Samos, this craft carries cameras which from orbits 100 to 150 miles high can identify units in a column of troops, even distinguish the make and model of cars on a street.

—823: Formerly known as Vela, this vehicle has instruments sensitive to ultraviolet and X rays given off by nuclear explosions.

—Midas: Carrying delicate infrared, or heat, sensors, it can detect heat radiation from missile exhausts as a method of early warning and penetrate camouflage to detect truck and tank engines long after they have stopped running.

Most of these unmanned spycraft are launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base 150 miles north of Los Angeles. They can go either into polar orbit, from which they scan the face of the earth revolving below, or into stationary orbit above some militarily interesting area such as Vietnam.

REV. ROBT. D. McARTHUR

1st Christian Minister Moving Here

The Rev. Robert D. McArthur will become minister of the First Christian Church here Sunday.

He and his wife are moving here from Luling, where he has been minister of the First Christian Church for the past 3½ years.

A native of East Texas, Rev. McArthur served student pastorates at Hereford, Rusk and Richardson.

He is a graduate of Jacksonville High School and received the bachelor of arts degree from Texas Christian University and the BD degree from the Brite Divinity School at TCU.

Rev. McArthur has been active in civic affairs in Luling, having served as an officer in several community organizations there.

Mrs. McArthur also attended Jacksonville High School and has a bachelor of arts degree in English and journalism from TCU. She has taught high school English at Luling for the past two years.

Rev. McArthur will fill the post formerly held by the Rev. William Parkey who resigned last winter to become minister of a church in San Antonio. The Rev. E. Bruce Banks served as interim minister of the church until some two weeks ago.

James Stewart Son Killed In Combat

DA NANG, South Vietnam (AP) — Actor James Stewart's stepson, Marine 1st Lt. Ronald W. McLean, has been killed in combat.

A military spokesman said Wednesday McLean, 24, died with a bullet in his chest Sunday while leading a reconnaissance patrol along the southern edge of the demilitarized zone.

The lieutenant was the son of Stewart's wife, the former Gloria Hatrick McLean, by a previous marriage.

Smith Asks Free Television Time

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith said Wednesday he will answer all those questions about a possible veto of the one-year appropriations bill on June 20, just two days before the deadline for any action.

Smith sent a telegram to all Texas television stations asking for public service time, without cost, for a 30-minute broadcast during the prime viewing period of June 20, from 7:30 to 8 p.m.

"I believe the people of Texas will want to hear this report," Smith told the tv stations.

Details for the "Report on the State of the State" are being handled through the Texas Association of Broadcasters.

Smith's office said he likely would discuss the one-year spending bill, the teacher's pay raise bill, and "several other measures."

There has been considerable speculation recently that Smith might veto the $10 per semester student fee levied by legislators to give state college faculty mmbers a raise. Smith has said he did not like the bill, that it was too much like a $10 tuition increase, but has not said whether he will sign or veto it.

All presidents of state colleges sent Smith a letter Wednesday asking him not to veto the measure, saying it would take away almost $4 million earmarked for faculty pay hikes.

Also pending in Smith's office are 41 Senate bills and 13 Senate Resolutions which the governor says may have arrived at his desk too late to be legal. The attorney general has been asked for an opinion.

In Amarillo Wednesday, Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said Smith's complaint about the late bills was "ridiculous."

Barnes, who with speaker Gus Mutscher opposed Smith in pushing through the one-year spending bill plan with no new taxes, said the bills and resolutions were late as the result of "legal legislative processes" and it would be "ridiculous" for the governor to refuse to accept them.

Mountain Skirmish Claims Eleven

TEL AVIV (AP) — Eight Arab guerrillas and three Israeli soldiers were killed Wednesday in a running battle up a 1,000-foot mountain west of the Jordan River, the Israeli army reported today.

The skirmish was one of the most serious clashes between guerrillas and Israelis this year. It occurred on the second anniversary of the cease-fire that ended the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Israeli soldiers chased the Arab infiltrators through rugged terrain on the occupied West Bank, pinning them down on the mountain at Khirbet Jarbas, then flushing them out. Khirbert Jarbas is 25 miles northwest of the Damiya Bridge across the Jordan River and four miles from the Israeli-Jordanian cease-fire line.

Effort On Unity Also Aids Funds

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embattled Democrats, trying desperately to piece together the cross-purposes puzzle of party unity, expect to pick up $1.5 million in 1970 campaign funds in the process.

But two fund raising dinners, one in New York tonight and another here June 26, seem likely to find former President Lyndon B. Johnson among the absentees. Johnson, whose Vietnam policies contributed to fragmenting the party, has made his political retirement stick so far.

Democrats who remember his habit in the White House of waiting until the last minute to divulge his plans still hope Johnson may change his mind and attend the Washington dinner honoring the party leadership in Congress, where he served so long.

The President's club, which required $1,000 in contributions for membership during the Johnson administration, will provide most of the audience at the $1,000-a-plate dinner in New York. Now called the National Democratic Sponsors Club, it no longer can offer its members choice White House invitations. It only can hold out the hope of such recognition after 1972.

As a mark of their efforts to get the Democrats to speak to — and not at — each other, former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, will be the featured speakers in New York. Humphrey the 1968 presidential nominee; Muski, his vice presidential running mate and Kennedy can be expected to ignore their potential rivalry for top place on the 1972 ticket.

Alvin A. Spivak, public affairs director for the Democrats, estimated the dinner will gross $550,000 for the debt-burdened Democratic National Committee's operations.

Neale Roach, director of the June 26 dinner, said he is shooting for a $1 million intake. The net would be used to help finance Democratic senatorial and House campaigns next year, an operation independent of the national committee.

Humphrey will be on hand, while Kennedy, as a member of the congressional leadership, will be one of those honored.

Humphrey has been named chairman of the Democratic Policy Council, which presumably will tell party candidates which side it thinks they should take on issues. National Democratic Chairman Fred R. Harris hopes to announce the council's membership before the dinner but has encountered delays in reaching proposed members.

Roach said he has had no final word on whether Johnson might attend the Washington dinner. All members of the Senate and House — as well as most Washington lobbyists — have been invited to chip in by buying $500 seats, or 10-seat tables.

Observers will be waiting to see if Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., the hero of the dissidents at last year's Chicago convention, shows up. McCarthy has said he won't campaign as a Democrat for re-election in 1970 or seek his party's presidential nomination in 1972, but he may be in the process of changing his mind.

Two Vehicles Are Damaged In Crash

Minor damage resulted from a two-car collision at Twenty-fifth Street and Avenue U at 3:55 p.m. Wednesday.

Damage to a 1969 Model Dodge operated by Jonlyn Larose Thomas, 2905 Denison, was placed at $100, and damage to a 1964 Model Rambler driven by Terry Lane McNair, 3717 Avondale, was set at $150.

ACCUSED ARSONISTS — Susan Bailey, 15, and her brother, Roger, 13, are pictured in Parkersburg, W.Va., where they were formally charged with murder in a fire that swept their home. Both parents and 10 brothers and sisters were killed. (AP Wirephoto).

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wells, 2507 Ave. M, are the parents of a son born at 3:39 a.m. June 11 and weighing 7 lbs. 3 oz.

Kidnaping was coined as a word in the late 17th century when there was a practice of stealing children and shipping them to servitude on plantations in the American colonies.

Accused Children Attend Funeral

PARKERSBURG, W.Va. (AP) — Susan and Roger Bailey wept throughout the funeral service for their father, mother and 10 brothers and sisters, whom they are accused of murdering by setting fire to the family home.

The girl, 15, and her brother, 13, were escorted to the funeral home Wednesday by Sheriff L. W. Bechtold and a deputy. They are being held in the Wood County jail.

Winding up the funeral eulogy, the Rev. R. L. Phillips of the Baptist Gospel Temple said:

"Never in the history of this valley—or possibly the nation—has anything like this happened."

Susan buried her tear-stained face in the sheriff's shoulder.

Police say the boy and girl have admitted splashing the wooden residence with gasoline and setting it afire early Sunday. The only one in the house who escaped was their 63-year-old grandfather.

Authorities said the motive was believed to be a dispute between Susan and her father over her dates with a 17-year-old first cousin.

Under West Virginia law covering capital crimes, the children will be tried in the same way as adults and face the same maximum sentence—life imprisonment with no possibility of parole.

Texas Woman Gives Up Politics

HOUSTON (AP) — Mrs. Floyd Bentsen of Houston has resigned as National Democratic Committeewoman for Texas.

Mrs. Bentsen, who was appointed by former Gov. John Connally, said she resigned Monday. She said she wanted to spend more time with her family.

Police Seek Man's Identity

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Police are trying to identify a man seen with University of Michigan co-ed Alice Kalom shortly before she was raped and slain.

Miss Kalom, 21, left the Depot House, a rehearsal hall for rock bands, early Sunday with a male companion.

Her body was found a day and a half later about seven miles north of the city. She had been raped, slashed and shot in the head.

Miss Kalom is the sixth young woman and fourth co-ed slain in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area in 22 months. None of the murders has been solved.

The owner of the Depot House who identified himself only as "Al," said Miss Kalom had attended a private party at his place Saturday night.

People who saw her at the party said Wednesday the clothes she was wearing then were the same as those found on or near the body. No one could identify the man she left with.

Police Chief Walter Krasny said his men were checking out all her acquaintances."

University of Michigan President Roben W. Fleming defended the school's role in protecting its students.

"We have done all we can think of, cooperated with the police completely and asked their advice as to what we might do," Fleming said.

"I don't know what you can do to protect people. We can't go around taking everyone by the hand wherever they go."

The program will be held tomorrow at Camp Ila Ru, four miles north of town on the Clairemont Highway, from 6 to 8 p.m. Parents are invited to attend the program which will be presented by the girls who are attending the camp.

Five units of girls are attending Camp Ila Ru each day this week from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The units include the Cadetts, the Juniors and three Brownie units.

Activities for the week have included sing-songs and games as well as nature hikes and handicraft work. The Scouts have also painted rocks and made nature mobiles. Junior Scouts are earning badges at the camp. All girls will participate in a cookout Friday.

Director of the Day Camp is Mrs. Bill Campbell, and assistant director is Mrs. Jack Chastain. They are assisted by 14 adult leaders.

Camp Ila Ru, which is located on the J. M. Newton farm, was established by the Newtons for the Girl Scouts in 1951. The Newtons had a well dug to provide water for the girls.

An addition to the camp has been a storage building donated by the Snyder Independent School District several years after the camp was established.

Crusoe, Friday Updated

FRIDAY. By Michel Tournier. Doubleday. $4.95.

When Daniel Defoe wrote about Robinson Crusoe and his man Friday on a remote island, it was a more or less straightforward adventure story, told with sufficient skill to become a classic of taletelling.

Defoe's Crusoe was a sturdy, square character with enough self-reliance to make the best of his shipwrecked situation and just enough initiative to provide for himself. Defoe's Friday was strictly the servant type, supplant to Crusoe's will.

Now the French writer Tournier has used the same theme to create an entirely different pair of characters and an entirely different psychological situation. There are modern implications in his approach.

In the first half of the book Tournier creates a Crusoe who struggles desperately to construct an orderly world of his own (in the pattern of his own 18th century York), while he is assailed by introspective doubts about the validity of the civilized life he has tried to copy on the island. He realizes that the untamed, tropical environment around him is filled with more philosophical and psychological dilemmas than he had ever reckoned with in his simple-minded adherence to orderliness.

In the second half of the story the author introduces a half-Indian, half-Negro Friday who is no mindless servant at all. This Friday is a real Nature Boy, full of primitive, uninhibited instincts and emotions. In the beginning Friday learns from Crusoe. In the end, it is Crusoe who learns many strange things from Friday.

This is an eyebrow - raising story, full of wit and deftly penetrating humor.

SPARKED THE MINERS

Labor Giant John L. Lewis Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis put a spark of light in the coal black future of thousands of miners in the soot-grim company towns and backwoods hollows.

In his time the unsmiling, bushy-haired labor giant with the lionine head and shoulders like feed sacks was called a dictator. He was accused of stopping a nation in its tracks. He said, "the nation's coal is stained with blood."

Now John Llewellyn Lewis is dead. He died Wednesday night at Doctors Hospital where he was admitted Sunday night suffering from internal bleeding. He was 89.

His last words to a reporter five years ago was "Organize" the same language he used in leading the United Mine Workers Union and founding the CIO. Harry Bridges, another labor figure of the longshoreman's union, said about Lewis "He wrote history in words, deeds and action. I've never seen his equal yet and I don't expect to live long enough to do so."

In the face of charges that he was violating national security, Lewis pulled his miners out of the pits during World War II, the only major labor leader to call strikes, while the fighting raged.

Lewis defended his action on grounds that he never would have called out his men if the war effort would have been hurt. There was plenty of coal available to fight the war, he said.

Twice he was held in contempt of federal court for ignoring orders to end major strikes. He and his union were fined $2.1 million. In those days a strike by coal miners meant much idleness in related industry, some electric power brownouts, and the stopping of trains.

Yet Lewis agreed to automation in the mines and the resulting loss of jobs shortly after World War II, saying "it is better to have a half million men working at good wages and high standards of living than to have a million working in poverty and degradation."

Lewis knew his share about mines.

He was born in Lucas, Iowa, the son of a Welsh coal miner. His mother came from a Welsh mining family. He quit school at 12 and went into the coal pit.

In 1907 he married Myrta Edith Bell. She was his intellectual prod, leading him in Bible study, pointing out the joys of Shakespeare and the town's theater productions. Myrta died in 1942. They had two children.

Lewis retired as head of the UMW in 1946, but was given the title of "president emeritus." Although he lived quietly at the boyhood home of Robert E. Lee in Alexandria, Va., across the Potomac from the capital, he continued to work five days a week as head of the union's pension fund until recently.

Other than his union work his chief joys were reading, with Napoleon and military strategy catching his fancy toward the end.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Survivors include a son, Dr. John L. Lewis Jr., of Baltimore. A daughter, Kathryn, died in January 1962.

Robert Shivers To Get Treatment

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Injured while swimming in Alabama, Robert Shivers, 23, son of former Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, was to arrive here today for treatment at Wilford Hall Air Force Hospital.

Shivers, who suffered a fractured neck, will receive special neurological treatment for quadriplegia, which is paralysis of all four limbs, a hospital spokesman said.

He was injured while swimming at Eufaula, Ala., where he was stationed in the Coast Guard.

The Pacific Ocean, which covers one-third of the globe, is so huge that it could swallow the seven continents.

Nixon Sees Jackson Cut Down Nats, 7-5

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was a whole new ballgame for the Washington Senators . . . until Reggie Jackson decided to introduce himself to their No. 1 fan.

President Nixon took himself out to the Senators' game against Oakland Wednesday night and applauded their comeback from a 4-0 early deficit to an extra inning standoff.

But Jackson, the Athletics' young slugging star, opened the 13th inning with his second homer of the night and the visitors added another run for a 7-5 victory.

"You've got to feel good hitting for the President," said Jackson, who slammed his first homer before Nixon arrived at the park. "He's the biggest man in the world.

"Now, at least he knows my name. He didn't know it before the game, probably."

The Senators' setback gave Nixon an 0-2 season record. He threw out the first ball in the traditional Presidential opener on April 7, then watched Ted Williams' club bow to the New York Yankees 8-4.

While Jackson remembered himself to the President, Boston rookie Joe Lahoud made a strong impression on the Minnesota Twins, slamming three home runs in a 13-5 Red Sox romp.

Elsewhere in the American League, California downed Baltimore 7-5 in 14 innings; the New York Yankees nipped Kansas City 5-4 in 11; Detroit squeezed past Seattle 4-3 in 10 and the Chicago White Sox beat Cleveland 4-3.

In National League action, San Francisco stopped the New York Mets 7-2, Atlanta trimmed the Chicago Cubs 5-1; St. Louis pasted Cincinnati 10-5; Pittsburgh slugged Houston 13-8; Philadelphia zipped Los Angeles 3-0 and San Diego topped Montreal 6-5 in 10 innings.

President Nixon, in a rare mid-season appearance for a Chief Executive at a ball game, joined his daughter, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, in the third inning at Kennedy Stadium. It was the first time a President had come out to the park after the season opener, David's grandfather, visited Griffith Stadium during his administration.

When Nixon arrived, the A's led 3-0 on Jackson's first inning homer and a bases-loaded throwing error by second baseman Allen in the second. They moved four runs up in the fourth when Bert Campaneris scored on a wild pitch by Barry Moore.

Washington however, rallied for two runs in the fifth and Allen smacked a seventh inning homer before driving in the tying run with a single in the ninth. When Ken McMullen crossed the plate, the President leaped to his feet and applauded, then settled back for the overtime struggle.

The deadlock lasted until Jackson poled his 19th homer and Danny Cater doubled home an insurance run, sending the A's withi 1½ games of Minnesota's West Division leaders.

After the game, Jackson described himself politically as a "Kennedy man," but said he roots for President Nixon as well.

"Man, I took a step out the batter's box and looked at the man," said the 23-year-old Oakland outfielder. "I may never see the President again, and I have a lot of respect for him."

The tough loss, with the President on hand, left Williams shaking his head. "He was really pulling for us," said the Senators' pilot, who campaigned for Nixon in 1968.

Haggard Signs Pro Tribe Pact

LUBBOCK (AP) — Texas Tech's Jerry Haggard, the Southwest Conference's most valuable player of 1969 and the league batting champion, has signed a professional baseball contract with the Cleveland Indians.

Haggard, a unanimous selection on the Associated Press 1969 All-conference baseball team, was selected by the Indians in the eighth round of last week's major league baseball free agent draft. He was signed Wednesday night by Bobby Goff of the Indians.

Goff said Haggard has been assigned to the Indians' Class AA Eastern League affiliate at Waterbury, Conn. Haggard said he expected to report within two weeks.

Haggard captained both the Tech basketball and baseball teams during his senior year. He led the basketball team in scoring as a junior and was second last season.

Haggard won the Southwest Conference batting championship with a .400 average.

Alcindor Named In Damage Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dennis Grey, who can't talk because his mouth has been wired to aid a broken jaw, seeks $750,000 damages from Lew Alcindor in the aftermath of an altercation between the two.

Grey, a Los Angeles Star basketball player, claims Alcindor, three-time All-American at UCLA and rookie for the Milwaukee Bucks, punched him last Saturday and the punch broke the jaw.

Alcindor said he was sorry and offered to pay all medical expenses but Wednesday, through attorney Paul Caruso, Grey filed a Superior Court suit asking $500,000 punitive damages, $250,000 general damages and an unnamed sum in case Grey loses salary if he can't play basketball any more.

Also named as plaintiffs are the Milwaukee Bucks of the National Basketball Association, the BA and its president, J. Walter Kennedy.

The flareup between the players came after a pickup game at Hamilton High School in Los Angeles.

Michigan State and Notre Dame first met in baseball in 1907. They have played 100 games. The Spartans lead the series 51-49.

Housewife Will Seek Share Of Race Prize

By MIKE COCORAN
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — She just sat there in her semi-mini, smiling and looking lovely and ignoring the Texas breeze flirting with her raven dark hair.

She had driven all night and was "a little short on sleep." And now she was discussing the perils of the nation's highways.

Traffic police and traffic tickets are a nuisance, she smiled, "and those nutty drivers almost drive me up the wall." But Judy Lilly, "about 28," had arrived safely.

"Most of the time," said Judy—housewife, mother, hairdresser and dragster—I'm worried more about getting to the event than driving in the race itself."

The blue-eyed beauty was in Dallas for the Texas Hot Rod Association's Spring Nationals drag racing championships. She had been on the road some 18 hours since leaving her home in Wheat Ridge, Colo., near Denver.

One of the nation's premier super stock car drivers, she will be among 700 contestants competing this weekend for more than $190,000 in prize money.

When not racing, she is Mrs. Dennis Maurer, professional hairdresser and mother of two, Nancy Sue, 11, and Phillip, 5. Her husband—also her mechanic—stayed behind for National Guard duty.

"Judy Lilly is the name I started out with in racing in 1961," she explained. "It is very handy. I live by one name and race by the other."

A longtime sports car enthusiast, she began drag racing eight years ago: "My ambition at the time was to hold the national record."

Judy was the only woman driver to qualify last year for the world finals at Tulsa, Okla., which she brushed off as a case of "having luck and God on your side at one time."

Not so, said an NHRA official: "She is one of the top two women drivers." He said she ranks among the best 20 super stock car racers in the nation.

"She's pretty damn quick coming off that line," he continued. "There's nobody going to beat her much there."

Judy has propelled her 1968 Plymouth Barracuda to speeds exceeding 130 miles per hour in an elapsed time of 10.7 seconds. "The acceleration is a thing most people can't imagine."

Although she could win perhaps as much as $10,000 here, Judy said the money is not all that important.

I'm 100 per cent dedicated to drag racing. . . . I don't think there's much of a profit unless you stay out on the road all the time. But we enjoy it."

She took up professional hairdressing a few years ago — "It helps support my car"—and has raced only a dozen or so times this year.

Landing her hairdressing job was "interesting," she laughed. "I told them, 'Look, we've got to have an understanding. I've got a problem. I'm a drag racer.'"

Astros Win, But Collision Costly

HOUSTON (AP)—"What happened? Who did I hit?"

These were questions asked by Jesus Alou from his Methodist Hospital bed. There to answer the questions was Matty Alou, Jesus' brother.

"You had a collision on the field," answered Matty to the youngest of the three baseball playing brothers from the Dominican Republic.

Jesus Alou, left fielder for the Houston Astros, collided with shortstop Hector Torres as they chased a pop fly Tuesday night in a game between the Astros and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Alou suffered a fracture on the left side of his jaw and a concussion. He was placed on the Astros' disabled list and is expected to be out of action four to six weeks.

Torres suffered a bruised neck and cuts on the forehead. He is due to play again in a week or 10 days.

Matty, outfielder for the Pirates, hurried to the hospital to be with his injured brother as soon as the game ended Tuesday night.

Both Alou and Torres were knocked unconscious by the head banging. They were carried off the field on stretchers.

Jesus could talk to his brother only through clenched teeth because of the fractured jaw but the questioning went on.

"Did he score?" he asked.

"Yes, he did," Matty replied. "You've got to quit talking.

"Just one more thing," he pleaded. "We won the game, didn't we?

"Yes," Matty answered, "Houston won the game."

That seemed to satisfy the injured outfielder. He closed his eyes and stopped talking.

The Astros called up two players from their Oklahoma City farm club in the American Association because of the injuries to Alou and Torres. They are shortstop Leon McFadden and outfielder Sandy Valdespino.

Americans Have Forgotten The Economic Expansion

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of Americans seem to have forgotten a topic that not so long ago was crowed from government offices, broadcast from studios, issued statistically from banks, even boasted of from pulpits.

Amid all the fuss about the high price of meat and vegetables and the inability to obtain a home mortgage and the war and the revolt of youth, there seems to be less pride in the subject than you'd have guessed a year or so ago.

What has been forgotten? Nothing less than the great economic expansion, which has changed the style of life in America as surely as life was changed by its opposite, the great depression of the 1930s.

This is the 100th month of an unprecedented economic surge that began in February 1961 and which now, in the accepted terminology, gives Americans the highest standard of living ever achieved by man.

Like astronauts, many Americans have been lofted to another world, one never before approached by man. It provokes the question: How do you like it?

A little disappointing, it would seem, although perhaps more exciting than the dull, plaster of Paris landscape seen by the first astronauts to circle the moon. Very likely, many Americans might answer the question like this:

"Well, its great to have a good job and to be able to do the things that money permits, but . . ."

In the strictly financial sphere, the chief gripe is likely to be about inflation, for although many wage earners have received increases far above the rate of inflation, other Americans in recent months have been on a treadmill.

A little inflation might be a good thing, it can be argued, and in the first years of the great expansion it existed at a rate of only 1.3 per cent a year. Now it is close to 8 per cent, and food prices especially are soaring.

The great expansion is clearly at a critical point, and Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy warns that inflation could get out of hand and cause the great expansion to roll over the drop off into a recession.

His somber warning clearly indicates that the nation is in the midst of a new and treacherous economic phase in which it no longer can bound ahead without thinking of the consequences.

An argument can be made for forecasting now a period of reflection for America, a time for considering where the nation is going and what price should be paid, a time for assessing the fabulous and troubled decades of the 1960s.

It must be conceded that the standard of living, narrowly construed, has indeed risen, and very sharply. More people are earning more money from more jobs than ever before. And unemployment remains low at 3.5 per cent.

But many other figures used to prove the case concern themselves primarily with quantities and usually say little about the quality of life.

Junior Editors Quiz on FLYING FISH

QUESTION: Can a flying fish really fly?

* * *

ANSWER: If you were a small fish with a very delicious taste, and a larger hungry fish was closing in on you, you would be very glad you could break from the water and go sailing through the air for 150 to 1,000 feet. You would escape from your pursuer, and if he caught up with you again, you could take to the air again. But these aerial excursions of the famous flying fish are not true flight. The fish's momentum carries it out into the air. It then taxis along on the surface, vibrating the tip of its tail in the water. With sufficient speed, it takes off. Its large pectoral fins are extended, but do not flap. The fish is gliding rather than actually flying. After its momentum is used up, the fish begins to sail down, but it may skitter along the surface and lift off once more if necessary. In the rivers of South America, another kind of fish has been reported with flies by flapping its caudal wings up and down. But this, again, is not true flight, since it is only for a short distance. We cannot say that any fish can really fly.

Runs Haberdashery To Help Colleagues

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — State Sen. Ray Lolley says the haberdashery business he operates out of his Senate desk is primarily as a convenience for his colleagues.

Lolley keeps his desk crammed full of ties, shirts and tie-and-handkerchief sets from his general store at Enterprise.

"I don't make any money out of it," he says. "I usually give them a discount of 50 cents or a dollar.,

"Someone is always coming off from home without an extra tie. One member got here last week without a clean shirt. I sold him one."

Venison Meat Costly

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A motorist may keep the venison if his car is damaged when it hits a deer, state police say. Cost of repairing such damage usually is $100 to $500.

Spare Time? Practice On Double Talk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you're at loose ends about what to do this summer, why not spend at least part of the time practicing up on your double talk.

Double talk, of course, is the polite conversational art of saying one thing while thinking another. It keeps you mentally healthy and at the same time socially safe.

The more skilled a person becomes at double talk the greater are his chances to marry the mate of his choice, achieve prestige, influence people and become wealthy. It can also be a big help in borrowing or inheriting money.

For the beginner, here are a few typical examples of double talk—followed by a translation of their probable real meaning.

"I can get it for you wholesale." —My brother-in-law owns the store, and I get a 10 per cent rakeoff for any trade I bring him.

"No, Ronald, I don't think your whiskers feel too rough tonight."—What does this guy shave with anyway, a Boy Scout ax?

"Would you mind looking up the spelling of it in your dictionary, Mabel"—I never can remember which letter follows which in the alphabet.

"Our son is staying out of college for a year until he decides what he really wants to do with his life."—He flunked three subjects and was suspended.

". . . and this cozy little apartment we like to call our junior executive suite."—But only a midget could be happy in it.

"I can't tell you how much fun we had watching those movies you and Belle took on your last trip to Europe, Henry."—The next time you invite us over for an evening remind us to bring along blindfolds.

"No, don't tell me . . . just a moment now and I'll have it . . . you must be John." — Or Jack or Jim or Jeremiah or Charley—who really cares?

"Well, I'll say one thing Bosworth, you certainly were the life of the party."—But if you were trying to get attention, why didn't you simply drop dead?

"Actually, I prefer a dimly lit restaurant such as this—it makes me feel more romantic." —And besides, big boy, it keeps you from seeing my wrinkles.

"That diet you're on really is slimming you down, Hazel"—I guess it also helps to wear a girdle so tight you can hardly breathe in it.

"Well, I don't agree with everything you had to say but your viewpoint certainly is stimulating and refreshing."—It certainly is a long time between drinks in this house.

"Handsome is as handsome does, Joe. No, I wouldn't say you were exactly handsome, but you do have an unforgetable face."—Think of it, haunting your mother all these years!

"Why don't we just let bygones be bygones?" — I can always get even with you later, chum.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Every Memorial day (or Decoration day as some people still call it) my mother goes out to the cemetery and tears herself apart over the graves of her mother, her father, her brother, and some other relatives who are buried there. I have begged her not to go, but she won't listen to me.

My mother is not a well woman, Abby, and carrying on that way can't help but take a lot out of her. This year when I asked my sister to help me try to talk my mother out of going, she said, "If she wants to go let her. It does a person good to have a good cry." I say, "If a person can avoid an emotional upset (and believe me, this is one) it is better to avoid it."

Please ask some of your medical consultants for their opinions.

A DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Three psychiatrists agree that what may appear to you to be an "emotional upset" may actually be a healthy venting exercise. It depends upon the person. It's a good guess that your mother has some unresolved feelings of grief, and she feels better after "tearing herself apart," so let her cry.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a couple of parents like you wouldn't believe. My mother would have made a perfect warden for San Quentin, and my father should have been with the FBI. They never take my word for anything. No matter what I say, they check up on me.

Abby, I am a 15-year-old honor roll student. I don't lie, but I am treated like a criminal. Sometimes I feel like taking off and never coming back. I am an only child, but that's no excuse. How does a guy get his parents to trust him?

JOHNNY

DEAR JOHNNY: Your parents probably check up on you because they think you're too good to be true. Don't resent it. Be grateful that they care enough about you to want to know where you are and what you're up to. Just keep on being trustworthy and you'll find them trusting you more, and checking on you less.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative who I am sure does not hear half of what is going on, but she absolutely refuses to admit that she is deaf! Everyone yells at her, and even then they have to repeat what they've said two or three times.

I once mentioned that I thought she should have her hearing tested and she exploded in anger. Why is it a disgrace to wear a hearing aid? People who can't see are perfectly willing to go to an eye doctor and get themselves fitted with glasses.

Now, what do you do with a stubborn ox like that?

CONCERNED RELATIVE

DEAR RELATIVE: Until this relative is willing to admit that she has a hearing loss, you may as well talk to the wall. There are none so deaf as those who will not hear.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Who do you think should decide on how many children a couple should have? The husband or the wife? I think the wife should because she's the one who has to have them, and she's also the one who does most of the work when it comes to raising them.

My husband says he thinks the man should decide. We've been married only three months and don't have any yet, but I think two is plenty. My husband wants four. Can you settle this?

ARGUING

DEAR ARGUING: Why not split the difference and plan on three? Or better yet, have two and then decide if you want to go for more.

* * *

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Three Car Pileup Leaves One Dead

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Marie Phillips, 43, of Galveston, Tex., was killed Wednesday in a three-vehicle pileup on Interstate 55 about 13 miles south of Blytheville.

Authorities said her car was struck in the rear by an auto driven by Barttye Juiel Phillips, 33, of Galveston and that a tractor trailer truck driven by John P. Vensel of Plano, Tex., piled into the wreckage.

State police said the victim apparently was standing beside her car when she was hit by the trailer truck.

Phillips was hospitalized at Blytheville.

Commission Schedules Hearing

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission has scheduled a July 11 hearing on the request of Texas General Producing Co. of Palestine to check into some operations of LaCoastal Petroleum Corp.

Texas General asked for the hearing to review LaCoastal's operations in the Salmon (Sub-Clarkeville) Field, Houston and Anderson Counties.

Texas General said a hearing was held by the Commission April 5, 1968, at the request of LaCoastal for a water injection pressure maintenance program for the Salmon unit. The commission approved the program May 29, 1968.

"The application at that hearing stated that salt water would be injected into the formation," Texas General said: "It is our understanding that LaCoastal now is making plans to inject fresh to brackish water into the reservoir, and we respectfully request that they be put on notice to produce all evidence . . . regarding such plans and for a general review of their operations since May 29, 1968."

Chiropractor Protests HEW Reports

SAN ANTONIO(AP)-The president-elect of the American Chiropractic Association Wednesday charged that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare supplied false information to Congress "as a premise to exclude chiropractic from medicare coverage."

Dr. Gerald M. Brassard of Beaumont said HEW's opposition to chiropractic benefits for medicare patients would deprive senior citizens of the "basic personal right of freedom of choice as to who will administer their health needs."

He accused HEW of issuing a biased report on chiropractics instead of giving Congress information about need and cost, which he said Congress had requested.

Brassard spoke to officers and the board of directors of the Texas State Chiropractic Association, which opens its annual convention here today.

Horseshoers Bill Nixed In Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois House refused to pass a bill to raise the licensing standards for horseshoers.

Objectors said it was hard enough now to pass the state's licensing tests for a business which has increasingly fewer practitioners. "You almost have to be a metallurgist," said Rep. Robert Craig.,

Ingrid Bergman: The Star Who Is Not A Star

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — "Ingrid's not a star; she's beyond that. When you see her on the screen, you're not aware of seeing an actress, you're seeing a human being."

Ingrid Bergman, the star who is not a star, the actress who is in, but not of, Hollywood, sat on the porch of a mountain farm, overlooking a muddy road. Her arms crossed against her chest, her head down in thought, she awaited a director's quiet summons to the next scene in the film, "A Walk in the Spring Rain."

Behind her sat Anthony Quinn, sun-tanned, unshaven and wearing blue coveralls for his part in this, his umpteenth —98th—film.

"A Walk in the Spring Rain" pairs the two—both double Academy Award winners—for the second time. They costarred in "The Visit" five years ago.

Here they were now being directed by Englishman Guy Green in a background of the Great Smoky Mountains of Tennessee.

The farm location was deep in the Great Smoky National Park, about 25 miles from Gatlinburg.

It was actually this story, "A Walk in the Spring Rain," which was to bring Miss Bergman in front of an American movie camera for the first time since "Joan of Arc" 21 years ago.

"I waited three years for this one," she said. "I would have filmed it in Australia, in Africa, anywhere so I can do it."

She spoke quickly, in her slight Nordic tones, oddly shy, strangely nervous at being interviewed. But natural, talkative, curious about everything, anxious to talk about other people, other things.

She went on to explain that because of delays in starting "A Walk in the Spring Rain," she agreed to do "Cactus Flower" first—and it will actually mark her return to the American screen.

The story she loved so is about a middle-age woman who walks along New York's Fifth Avenue in the spring rain and recalls a brief romantic encounter in Tennessee the previous winter and early spring.

Producer Stirling Silliphant, who also wrote the screenplay based on the Rachel Maddux novella, had heard Miss Bergman was interested in the story and approached her when she returned to Broadway two years ago in Eugene O'Neill's "More Stately Mansions."

"It is a love story of older people," said Silliphant, who won an Academy Award for his screenplay for "In the Heat of the Night." "It's fascinating—opposed to the sexual activity of 14-year-olds. I decided I must strike out for my own generation," he half-joked. "There is a market for a love story which is mature and honest, as opposed to pornographic. It's the 'love bag' against the 'pornographic bag'."

"It's all a woman's thoughts," Miss Bergman said. "She remembers the months spent in these mountains"—her long, slender arms pass across the Smokeys as her blue eyes reflect their beauty. "She tells herself, 'I am not happy nor unhappy. When you get to this age, this grandmother's age . . .' Then she meets this man, a man of nature as opposed to her intellectual husband. It is the blossoming up of a woman—as the spring."

And you, Miss Bergman, are you happy?

She threw her head back, laughing, that gusty, hearty, natural laugh.

"I have been very fortunate. Very lucky in life."

Far back she remembered coming here at the behest of producer David O. Selznick to do "Intermezzo"—30 years ago. She came to New York by boat —"planes weren't so popular in those days."

"I took a train to Pasadena," she continued, "and someone there met me there to take me to the Selznick home. I went to the Selznicks', but he wasn't there; he was at the studio. Mrs Selznick was at the pool. She was head down over lunch"—Miss Bergman leaned over hers in imitation—"listening to a horse race on the radio. When she saw us coming over, she saved and said, 'Shhh. Sit down. Don't say anything.' She was listening to the horse race!

"We spent the rest of the day at the house, but no Selznick. We went out to dinner and I was so excited to look at all the stars at the restaurants that I couldn't eat anything . . .

"Later, at the house, someone came over to me and said, 'Mr. Selznick would like to see you.' I had almost forgetten about him. And he, he was in the kitchen, leaning over his dinner. He looked up and stared at me. Then he said, 'Would you take your shoes off?'

"I told him, 'It won't help, Mr. Selznick. I am this tall.'

"And he said, 'Oh, my God.'"

She laughed again. "I was 'enormous' in those days, when all the actresses were shorter."

Ingrid Bergman, 5-feet-8-inches of grace and beauty, laughed at herself.

Blind Legislator Hit By Car

HOUSTON (AP) — State Sen. Criss Cole of Houston was treated and released from a hospital Wednesday after being struck by a car while crossing a downtown street.

The blind legislator was treated for minor knee and nose abrasions. His guide dog was not hurt.

Witnesses said the car that struck Cole also sideswped another car.

Frank Wade, 28, of Houston, was jailed on a charge of felony theft filed in Justice of the Peace Richard W. Millard's court.

Wade also was charged in corporation court with failure to stop and give information, no operators license, failure to yield the right of way to a pedestrian, neglient collision and failure to stop and render aid.
